Fights Extradition To Rhode Island; Bonds of $20,000 Demanded; To Be Kept In Hartford County Jail.

Louis E. Spencer, 18 Warner street, Hartford, before the Town Court here this morning charged with illegal transportation of intoxicating liquors and with being a fugitive from justice, had his case continued until Monday, January 12. Bonds of $10,000 on each count were continued and Spencer, being unable to raise that amount, was taken to the Hartford County Jail to await trial Monday.

Louis E. Spencer

Spencer is one of three men who is alleged to have held up a Windsor Hotel employee in West Warwick, R. I., Tuesday night and to have stolen $250 in cash in addition to having hijacked 31 cases of intoxicating liquors. Spencer was captured in Manchester Green by Town Policemen Joseph Prentice and State Policemen Zekas and Landon.

State police and prohibition enforcement agents working on the case have been trying to get Spencer to tell them who the ringleader of his gang is. It is believed that Spencer is a tool of a rum-running crew with headquarters in Hartford. Spencer, however, has refused to discuss his connections, but is prepared to take every opportunity to avoid returning to Rhode Island where a possible life imprisonment awaits him.

Brother Visits Him
Spencer's brother came here yesterday.

MAINE'S GOVERNOR DECRIES POLITICS Says That Campaigns Now- days Are Not Conducted On a Very High Plane.

Augusta, Me., Jan. 8.—(AP).—Criticizing political contests which he said "were not conducted on a very high plane," Gov. William T. Gardner in the address following his inauguration for a second term, today announced that it was "unlikely that (further) political activities will again disturb my life."

The Chief Executive, who has often been mentioned as a possible United States senatorial candidate in 1934, said political campaigns "were aggravating to say the least."

Citing an increase in expenditures "which is proportionally outrunning the increase in our taxable property," the governor called for "every effort to secure more efficiency, or more value for our tax dollar."

He said "it would seem reasonable" to increase the salary of the chief executive from the present $5,000 a year to $6,000 or even $9,000, as suggested at least although "this is not a favorable time to consider salary increases, it seems one of importance."

Referring to the recent survey of the state government which was sponsored by him, Gov. Gardner asserted that "under the present system fiscal control or any other sort of intelligent control is extremely difficult if not impossible."

FRIEND OF THE BLIND IS DEAD IN BROOKLYN

New York, Jan. 8.—(AP).—A woman who brought cheer into the lives of blind children died today at her home in Brooklyn. She was Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden, founder of the International Sunshine Society, an organization to care for sightless babies.

Mrs. Alden, who was 70, was the wife of John Alden, editorial writer and poet on the staff of the Brooklyn Eagle and a descendant of the John Alden immortalized by Longfellow.

In Cleveland's administration Mrs. Alden was a Customs inspector.

HARTFORD SEEKS WOUNDED BANDIT

Abandon Blood Stained Auto After Cop Shoots At Two Men—Search Hospitals.

Hartford, Jan. 8.—(AP).—A pair of young automobile thieves, at least one of them known to be wounded by a policeman's bullet, were being hunted by Hartford police today, following the recovery of a blood stained car here this morning.

Stolen on Tuesday from an employee of an ice cream company here, the machine had been followed by means of license numbers secured by an attendant at a gasoline station whom the thieves patronized but failed to pay Tuesday night.

Cat Spotted
A policeman spotted the car twice last night. The second time opening fire with his revolver after narrowly escaping being run down by the pair, whom he surprised while the machine was parked. The officer, George Weber, hit the car twice, but it escaped. Another policeman on his way to work at 7 a. m. found the car abandoned on a side street. Blood was sprinkled over the seats and ceiling. Hospitals are being checked in the effort to locate the thieves, of whom only a scanty description is available.

LINGLE'S MURDER NEARS SOLUTION

St. Louis Gangster Positively Identified As the Man Who Killed Reporter.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—(AP).—A solution of the mystery of the murder of Alfred E. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, has been reached, authorities claimed today, with the arrest of Leo Brothers, a St. Louis gangster. Brothers was identified by several witnesses, they said, as the man who shot and killed Lingle last June 8. The identification they added, was positive.

Brothers, it was revealed by Patrick Roche, chief investigator for the State Attorney's office, was arrested by three detectives last December 21, in a Chicago apartment after he had been trailed to 12 different cities. He was known in Chicago as Louis "Buster" Bader. He denied he killed Lingle, but admitted, Roche said, that he was wanted in St. Louis for the slaying of John De Balasie, a surface car driver.

Roche Is Silent
Neither Roche or State's Attorney John A. Swanson would reveal if they had uncovered the answer to the all-absorbing question in Chicago crime in recent years, namely "Why was Lingle killed?"

Roche would not give out a list of the names of the persons who made the reported identification. This information, Roche indicated, would be withheld until the facts of the mystery are more definitely determined.

Brothers' movements were known for days before his arrest but Roche wanted to avoid the wounding or killing of his own men or the suspect. There was constant surveillance while awaiting a favorable chance to take Brothers. On December 20 Roche heard Brothers was leaving Chicago for Excelsior, Mo. He ascertained the Pullman berth number and a man in it was

NEW GOVERNOR ASSUMES POST AT HARTFORD

Lone Democrat In Building Literally Filled With Re- publicans, Shows Little Strain After His Inaugural

Hartford, Jan. 8.—(AP).—Connecticut's great experiment, placing a famous scholar and critic of literature in the governor's chair, went on trial today when Wilbur L. Cross took over the reins of the state government. The strain of yesterday's inaugural ceremonies was not apparent in his manner as he arrived at the executive office shortly after 9 o'clock this morning to assume his duties as the first Democratic governor since the late Simon E. Baldwin's second term ended in 1915.

The governor had a busy day ahead of him. His most important job of the day was to preside for the first time this morning at the weekly meeting of the board of finance and control.

A lone Democrat, except for the presence of Executive Secretary Kenneth Wynne in a building literally filled with Republicans, Governor Cross entered upon his public career with the good humor, scholarly poise and inquisitive attitude which marked the conduct of his campaign.

"I enjoyed myself yesterday," the 68 year old scholar-governor said. Though the inaugural ceremonies kept him active throughout the day until after midnight, he bore little indication of the strain of the program. In fact, Republican office holders expressed surprise when they learned the governor was at his office early.

The governor said he was pleased with the results of the first day of the 1931 session of the General Assembly. What gratified him most was the voluntary action of the majority in enlarging the legislative committee so that Democrats are assured of assignments to every committee.

"I am pleased with that," the governor said. "It carries out my idea of partnership in conducting the affairs of the State."

Public Meetings
Governor Cross was not prepared at this time to discuss probable innovations in the procedure of certain departments at the Capitol or any new policies in carrying out the duties of governor. He admitted, however, he was considering the possibility of opening the meetings of the board of finance and control to the public, but at this time he could

QUEBEC IS ROCKED BY QUAKE SHOCKS

Sections of Maine Also Feel Tremors; No Serious Dam- age So Far Is Reported.

Quebec, Jan. 8.—(AP).—An earthquake last night sent inhabitants of many parts of the province rushing from their homes, toppled books from shelves and stopped clocks.

The tremor was felt here, in Montreal and in many villages shortly after 7 p. m. yesterday.

In the Laurentian Mountain villages of St. Tite des Caps and St. Ferrol the shock was severe enough to cause the villagers to rush out doors. A clock in a convent at Rive, Quebec, was stopped and books were shaken from shelves of the technical college library in the city.

The shock was the strongest which has been felt in this region since 1925. There was a faint tremor Christmas day.

FIVE KILLED AT TAKE-OFF OF OCEAN HOP

News Just Made Known That Two Italian Planes Crashed At Start of Flight; Three Fliers Also Injured.

Bolma, Portuguese Guinea, Africa, Jan. 8.—(AP).—The glory attained by ten Italian seaplanes Tuesday in a trans-Atlantic flight from Africa to Natal, Brazil, had its price—five of Italy's finest aviators were left behind dead and three were injured. Two of the 14 planes in the squadron were virtually destroyed.

Belatedly, official announcement has been made of the tragedies which attended one of the greatest victories over the elements in the history of aviation, the delay being due to the wish of the Italian government that the rejoicing at completion of the flight and celebration of Italy's "Bethany" or second Christmas be not marred.

First Crash
As the four squadrons of planes took off from here before dawn Tuesday one of the red group, piloted by Captain Rocagna, dived sharply from a height of 100 feet. The sergeant mechanic, Luigi Fois, who was riding above the right pontoon, was killed in the crash and the two pilots and radio operator were injured.

Then after its takeoff, the second plane of the white group was forced to alight on the sea at full speed. It caught fire and the four crew members perished. They were Captain Luigi Boer and Lieut. Danilo Barbicanti, pilots; Sergeant Mechanic Felice Nensi, and Radio Operator Ericole Imbastari. The plane was partly destroyed.

Planes Replaced
After these two accidents word was flashed back to the two replacement planes to take off for Natal and they roared out across the Atlantic. Both came down after crossing the Equator between St. Paul's Rock and Fernando do Noronha, Brazilian penal colony, about 125 miles from Natal.

Italian naval vessels towed them to Fernando do Noronha where minor repairs are being effected. One of the planes, commanded by Captain Donadelli, was forced down by a leaky radiator connection and the other, piloted by Captain Bais-trochi, broke its magneto shaft.

Washington, Jan. 8.—(AP).—Immediate increase of the Prohibition Bureau's staff of agents by 130 more approval of the House today. The Senate still must act.

The dry staff expansion at a cost of more than $500,000 was provided by a deficiency appropriation passed by the House late yesterday after it had turned back a two-day on-slaught by the wet bloc under leadership of Rep. Lathicum, Democrat, Maryland. One dry item, a $10,000 appropriation for prohibition publicity work came out of the bill however at the instance of the appropriation committee itself, after various attacks had been made on it. A similar item was taken out of next year's Justice Department appropriation presented earlier in the present session.

Board Adjourns
The Wickersham law enforcement commission yesterday suspended work for a week just when it had been expected to put the finishing touches to its long awaited report on prohibition. It will be next week at least—say authorities here—before the document can be submitted to President Hoover.

BIRTH CONTROL SCORED IN PAPAL ENCYCLICAL

Age-old Roman Catholic Doc- trines of Marriage and Divorce Reaffirmed and Emphasized by the Pope.

Vatican City, Jan. 8.—(AP).—Age-old Roman Catholic doctrines of marriage and divorce were reaffirmed and emphasized in an encyclical today by Pope Pius XI. Among practices of frustration which he scathingly condemned was birth control.

Referring to birth control, which bishops of the Anglican church endorsed under certain circumstances at the Lambeth conference in London last summer, the Pontiff condemns all such practices as being against the law of God and of nature.

The encyclical unequivocally calls abortion murder. The practice of sterilization of the physically unfit is proclaimed to be against the law of God. The unfit, the Pontiff says, should be dissuaded from marriage but he maintains that the body of every man is sacred and that public magistrates can be given no power to harm the body's integrity except where a grave crime is concerned.

The Pope's encyclical brands all those indulging in contraceptive practices "with the guilt of a craven sin." Any circumstances such as health or economic conditions do not constitute an excuse, he maintained.

Quotes St. Augustine
In support of his assertions the Pontiff quoted St. Augustine, who in such cases called a woman "a mere mistress of her husband," and a man the paramour of his wife.

The encyclical sets forth lengthily Catholicism's teachings against divorce and set a principle remedy for many existing evils the Pontiff proposes fidelity to religious life on which alone can be built fidelity to the marital obligation and to traditional church teachings.

While not mentioning sexual education, the Pope discountenances "exaggerated physiological education." He stresses at length the need for preparation for married life, declaring "it cannot be denied that the basis of a happy wedlock and ruin of an unhappy one is prepared and set in the souls of boys and girls during the period of childhood adolescence."

Asks State Laws
The encyclical asks adequate state laws touching upon the state and family, saying that the religious and civil powers should co-operate therein.

The Pope's advice to the young is "choose a partner well." He advocates state aid for mothers, commenting however, "we are sorry to note that not infrequently nowadays it happens that through a certain inversion of true order of things a ready and bountiful assistance is provided for the unmarried mother and illegitimate offspring (who, indeed must be helped in order that greater evil may be avoided)." ## DEBATE IN SENATE ON POWER DELAYS LOANS TO FARMERS

GOVERNOR'S SPEECH ANALYSED BY DRY

Rev. Ralph H. White Praises Some Parts But Disagrees With Others—His Views.

New Haven, Jan. 8.—(AP).—Words of praise for the inaugural message of Governor Wilbur L. Cross and others of disagreement with some of the suggestions in the document, are in the statement of Rev. Ralph H. White, research secretary of the fact finding committee for law enforcement in Connecticut, which was given out today.

Mr. White said: "The recommendations of the governor in regard to the liquor problem are to be highly commended that he does not suggest a state referendum or a repeal of the state enforcement. He deserves great credit for his statement that he wished 'that all persons obeyed the law.' The last thing that wet papers and wet organizations advocate is obedience to law. If all persons obeyed it they would be deprived of their strongest argument."

SCHEME TO DEFEAT U. S. BOOTLEGGERS

Grape Growers Announce Plan To Give 150,000 Work and Jar Rum Sellers

San Francisco, Jan. 8.—(AP).—California grape producers came forward today with a plan they said would jar the country's bootleggers and at the same time benefit 150,000 persons and help to save the $350,000,000 grape industry from financial disaster.

The plan is contained in a booklet circulated by Fruit Industries, Ltd., a government sponsored co-operative. The booklet implies Mrs. Mabel Walker Wilbur, former prohibition prosecutor for the Department of Justice, became counsel for Fruit Industries, Ltd., to battle the bootlegger.

The booklet points out that the Volstead law does not prohibit fruit juices in the home. It urges the support of the legal method of obtaining grape beverages, both for the benefit to the grape industry in relieving the surplus production problem, and as a means of taking the profit out of illicit traffic in alcoholic beverages.

Will Save Industry
The plan includes utilization of part of the surplus grape crop in canned and concentrated juices. The booklet says:

"The fulfillment of the new plan will save a $350,000,000 industry from financial disaster. And in doing so, the will be vast human benefits, continued and new employment of scores of thousands of men and women; the redemption of thousands of farm homes which are threatened with extinction by overwhelming mortgage debts; the preservation of an American standard of living throughout a great state; the help of law-enforcement through closing of present sources of supply to bootleggers and racketeers; practical proof of the feasibility of the Federal farm relief program; and the bringing to all most every American home at reasonable cost of a health-giving, delicious food product, now for the first time made available the year-around."

Mr. Kellogg called first upon Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee—upon which he himself formerly served. He went to the Senate floor to converse with others, including Senator Morrow, of New Jersey, and Gillett, of Massachusetts, advocates of the World Court.

Borah is a court foe.
"Certainly I have not changed my position for American adherence to the World Court," Kellogg said in an interview, "but I am here on purely private business and tomorrow I will return to New York."

The statement that the court opponents were confident of defeating American adherence to the World Court of this kind. While it was reported reliably at the Senate that this assertion was made by Mr. Kellogg no open claim of victory was given by the court foes.

American adherence was voted overwhelmingly four years ago with reservations.

They were picked up by the local authorities, after the pair had wrecked the car here.

WORLD COURT FOES SURE OF VICTORY

Kellogg Is Told At Capital That They Have Enough Votes To Defeat Bill.

Washington, Jan. 8.—(AP).—Senate World Court foes have told Frank B. Kellogg, a justice on the court, enough votes were in prospect to defeat ratification of American adherence.

Conversations indicated by Mr. Kellogg during his call today in the Senate, where he served formerly as a member from Minnesota. The white haired jurist and former secretary of state asserted, however, that his call was purely a personal one. His call, he had any purpose of discussing the World Court issue.

ACTRESS, PUGILIST ROBBED, KIDNAPED

Chaplin's Ex-Wife and Georges Carpentier Tell Sleuths a Weird Story.

New York, Jan. 8.—(AP)—With "only the haziest description" detectives hunted through the city today for four robbers, reported by Lita Gray Chaplin's chauffeur to have kidnaped her and Georges Carpentier last night, and to have robbed the former Mrs. Chaplin of $14,000 in jewelry and $15 in cash.

The chauffeur, Albert Frank, said he, the screen comedian's divorced wife and the former French heavyweight boxing champion were pushed out of the Chaplin car in the Bronx after their abduction in the limousine from the stage door of a Bronx theater where Mrs. Chaplin was appearing. The car later was found abandoned.

Police found Mrs. Chaplin near collapse in her apartment today and said she was unable to give a coherent account of the robbery. Carpentier was not robbed, the chauffeur said. He had $30 in his pockets.

When the chauffeur appeared at a police station early today he reported only the theft of Mrs. Chaplin's car and said there was no robbery. Later he declared Lita had instructed him not to report the kidnaping and robbery because "she wanted to avoid publicity."

As related by detectives, Carpentier met the actress at a Bronx playhouse at the close of her appearance and they entered her car in a dark alley near the stage door. Two men, appearing out of the gloom, pressed revolvers against the chauffeur, Albert Frank, as he stood beside the car and two more cowered the occupants of the tongau. Frank then was forced inside and one of the holdup men drove away rapidly.

Takes Her Money During the ride one of the men ordered Mrs. Chaplin to remove her gems but when she did so, he was not satisfied. "We want some money, too," he commanded.

Fortwith she opened her pocketbook and handed him the entire contents—$15.

The victims were ordered into the street and their assailants sped away in the stolen car. Mrs. Chaplin and Carpentier took a taxicab to their homes, and Frank went to a police station to report the crime.

Carpentier was told by police, he said, not to discuss the robbery but he talked about it today and said: "I don't care if the holdup men come back after me, if they don't bring their revolvers. Only cowards carry revolvers."

He was vague about the route of their abduction, explaining that he was a stranger in the Bronx. But he said the bandits apparently knew Mrs. Chaplin by sight for they called her "Lita" and were very polite to her.

They asked him for his money, Carpentier said, but he told them he had none. He added he did not try to start any trouble. "I wouldn't attempt to fight four revolvers."

Mrs. Chaplin was doubtful whether she could appear at a matinee performance today, but said she would go into the Bronx stage for her personal appearance again tonight.

SCHOOL REPAIR JOB IN 8TH COMPLETED

Workmen All Through With Overhauling Task—Janitors To Complete Painting.

The re-construction work that was necessary in the various schools of the Eighth School and Utilities District and which necessitated the calling of a second meeting to secure additional funds over the appropriation made at the June meeting last year, are now completed.

The work at the Union School required the tearing out of a room, rebuilding of the basement walls and floors, building of additional stairs and installation of two separate sanitary rooms in the lower section of the hall, repainting of the outside of the building, construction of new steps, and a general change in sanitary and heating conditions of the school.

It was late when the work got underway and instead of being completed during the summer vacation period as planned, so much was necessary that it was not until Saturday of the past week that workmen left the building. There is still painting to be done in the basement, this being left to the janitors. Quite some difficulty has been experienced in carrying on the school sessions simultaneously with the work.

REC CATHOLIC NIGHT PLANS COMPLETED

In addition to the names already mentioned as having charge of the different activities in connection with Catholic Night at the East Side Recreation Center tomorrow center there has been added Clifford Charlier who will have charge of the men's bowling representing St. Bridget's Church, George H. Williams the Volley Ball selection from the same church and Mrs. George Williams as the head of the women's bowling.

The plans have so far progressed that all is ready for a large gathering at the Recreation building tomorrow evening.

TO CALL FINANCIERS BEFORE THE SENATE

Washington, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Four internationally known financiers will appear next week before the Senate foreign relations sub-committee in investigation of the causes of the trade decline between the United States and China.

Chairman Pittman announced today Owen D. Young, Thomas W. Lamont, Bernard M. Baruch and Norman Davis have agreed to testify as the final witnesses before the committee drafts its report.

Pittman said he hopes to report to the foreign relations committee in about two weeks.

Three recommendations, which will be proposed in the nature of independent resolutions, will suggest that President Hoover enter negotiations with the British and other governments to seek suspension of the British policy of sale of silver money from India; that the President enter international negotiations looking toward a silver loan to China and that the President discuss with other nations the advisability of fixing the international value of silver.

86 SUITS STOLEN Thompsonville, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Men's suits valued at $1,700 were stolen during the night from the store of J. C. Fenney Company, located in the post office block. The burglary was discovered early today by a patrolman who found the rear door of the store open. Raymond Miller, manager of the store, said 86 suits having an inventory value of $1,700 were stolen.

The burglary was the second to occur in a local clothing store within 48 hours. Tuesday night clothing valued at $150 was stolen from the store of Joseph Kiewicewski.

terday afternoon to visit him. It was learned from the pair that the correct family name is Zaudski, but that they have adopted the name of Spencer and have used it for many years. Spencer at first seemed willing to waive extradition and go back to Rhode Island immediately. However, when he realized that the term of imprisonment in that state might be he changed his mind.

The liquor Spencer carried in his Ford roadster is at the police station here. The liquor was put in cell at the station and a new lock put on the cell door. The liquor is in burlap sacks, one dozen quart bottles to a sack. There are three sacks of William Penn whiskey, two sacks of William Thresher whiskey, two sacks of Old Town gin and two sacks of champagne.

A hearing on the disposition of the liquor will be held next Tuesday. If there is no claimant it will be turned over to the county authorities and will be destroyed.

In it are the new figures from the Census of 1930, particularly the population of every city and town in the country that exceeds 3,000. The compact Diary of the Year—able to supplement as it is by ten pages of Scientific Progress in 1930 and special articles on Aviation, Byrd's Expedition, the Drought and all departments of sport. Even more important, official reports and figures show the progress made in the enforcement of the prohibition law, now beginning its twelfth year.

This handy book of nearly 1,000 pages will answer a million questions, even more than an eager family of children can ponder. Dad will be well advised if he will teach the children how to find the answers for themselves.

WORKS FOR DISTRICT WITHOUT ASKING PAY

Sherwood Bowers Collects Taxes and Files Liens But Never Collects His Fees.

Sherwood Bowers, committeeman and tax collector of the Oakland (First) School District, is working history in the collection of taxes and filing of liens in the interest of the district.

The First is one of the smaller districts in Manchester, but it has not been a small job to go through the town lists and sort out the assessment figures on such properties as lay within the district. The taking off of the names, compiling the abstract and making the rate book and the performance of other work of detail have been done without pay by Mr. Bowers.

GOVERNOR READ BOOK

Hartford, Jan. 8.—(AP)—No man who sits down after an early breakfast to a fresh cigar and good book likes to be represented as having spent the whole morning reading an encyclopedia or the general statistics.

Some newspapers reported that Governor Cross did just that yesterday, while waiting for the inaugural program to begin at noon. He was reported to have spent the entire morning reading the general statistics.

OBITUARY DEATHS

Mrs. Hilma J. Johnson, wife of Charles F. Johnson, of 41 Holl street, died suddenly late yesterday afternoon while attending a missionary committee meeting at the home of Mrs. A. Theodore Anderson of 92 Ridge street. Death was due to heart disease.

Mrs. Johnson had been in apparent good health for the past year although she had been subjected to sugar diabetes for four or five years. Yesterday she walked from her Holl street home to the home of Mrs. Anderson where members of the missionary society had planned to audit the books for the year. Shortly after her arrival, Mrs. Johnson collapsed. She was dead before medical aid came.

Mrs. Johnson's sudden death was a deep shock to her many friends today. She was a congenial, home-loving woman who made countless friends through her pleasing personality. Mrs. Johnson was a very faithful church worker and a regular attendant at the Swedish Lutheran Church of which she was a member, in addition to the Scandia Lodge, Swedish Missionary Society and Ladies' Aid Society of which she was a former president.

Mrs. Johnson was born in Sweden as Miss Hilma Josephine Swanson on June 20, 1873. She came to this country in 1891 and removed to Manchester from Portland in 1909. Mrs. Johnson was married to Charles F. Johnson of Portland, in that town on May 20, 1899. Three children survive this union.

They are Leonard H. Johnson, Carl T. Johnson and Miss Hazel E. Johnson. Two sisters and one brother live in Connecticut. They are Mrs. John M. Anderson of Hamlin street, South Manchester, Mrs. Robert Johnson of Middletown and Albert Swanson of Packard street, South Manchester. Another brother is Mrs. Mrs. Solomon (Agnes) Anderson and Simon Swanson, reside in Sweden.

The funeral will be held at the Holl street home at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon followed by a service at the Swedish Lutheran church on Church street at 2:30. Rev. S. Carl Franzen, retired Swedish pastor, will officiate, assisted by Rev. Abel Ahlquist of New Britain, an intimate friend of the family. Burial will be in the East cemetery.

Joseph Grimes Joseph Grimes, who, suffering from a mental breakdown, last February tried to kill his wife and then attempted suicide at the Waranoke Hotel, died yesterday at the State Hospital for the Insane at Middletown, to which he was committed after trial at the June term of the Superior Court. He was 70 years of age.

Mr. Grimes was widely known as "Manchester's Moth Man," having made the insects a hobby for more than half a century. He was regarded as one of the best experts on butterflies, etc., in this vicinity and possessed many fine collections.

Grimes is survived by his wife and three sons, Lester and Sherwood Grimes of Orange, N. J., and Charles J. Grimes of Farmington, with whom Mrs. Grimes is believed to be residing. Grimes was a member of the Old Fellows and of the South Methodist church. He was a Cheney Brothers' pensioner, having been employed as a tinsmith by the company from 1893 to 1919.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the undertaking parlors of Thomas G. Dougan at 69 Holl street and Rev. Robert A. Colpitts, pastor of the South Methodist Episcopal church, will officiate. Burial will be in the East cemetery.

Miss Mary A. Hayes Miss Mary A. Hayes, 43, of 30 Fairfield street, died unexpectedly at her home last night following a shock which she suffered after arriving home from Cheney Brothers where she has been employed in the trimming department of the broad goods weaving mill for nearly thirty years. Death came at 9:10.

Miss Hayes was born in Manchester, Maine, the late Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Hayes and had lived here all of her life. She is survived by two sisters and two brothers, Mrs. Patrick J. McGann with whom she made her home, Mrs. James W. (Mattie) Foley of the north end, John Hayes of Spencer street and Daniel Hayes, district manager of A & P stores in Minneapolis.

FUNERALS

Robert T. Stanley The funeral of Robert T. Stanley, former Manchester resident, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at his home on College Highway in Southwick, Mass., and burial will be in the new cemetery in that city.

give no promise of taking definite action in that direction. One innovation will be put into effect at once. Mr. Wynne announced. A schedule of press conferences will be prepared as soon as possible with Herbert P. Plank, who has just been placed in charge of publicity by the Democratic State Central committee assisting the governor.

Press Conferences Mr. Wynne said a definite time will be fixed for reporters to meet. Mr. Plank and the governor in coming office. At that time statements coming from the executive office will be issued officially to the newspapers, either in typewritten form or in verbal statements either from the governor or Mr. Plank. The purpose of this plan, Mr. Wynne explained, is to save the governor from too frequent intrusions and also to assure all newspapers that they will be taken care of equitably.

Mr. Wynne said he would not be on duty at the Capitol every day during Governor Cross' term, but that he would be at his office each legislative day throughout the session.

CHENEYS ADD THREE TO PENSION GROUP

Miss Abbie Dutton, James Waddell, and Miss Kate Horan Are Awarded Retirement.

Three employees of Cheney Brothers have been pensioned during the last few months, according to the January issue of Cheney Silk News, contributed today. They are: Miss Abbie Dutton of 46 St. John street; James Waddell of 29 Birch street; and Miss Kate Horan of Oak street.

Miss Dutton had a service record of thirty-four years, lacking one month. She was pensioned November 1. She was a winder in the "throwing department" Mr. Waddell, who celebrated his 70th birthday yesterday, has been with the company forty-eight years, being pensioned December 15. He was a loom-fixer in the Broad Goods Weaving Hill. Miss Horan was granted a pension effective October 1 after forty-four years of service. She was formerly a preparation worker in the Spinning Mill.

Another article in the News deals with the award of over 500 service medals to employees. Among them were three to persons employed fifty years, including Robert Cheney, vice-president of Cheney Brothers, who is the only living son of Rush Cheney, one of the original Cheney Brothers. The other two were Elizabeth Harrigan of the Spinning Mill and James Wright, 2nd, of the Broad Goods Weaving.

NEW RELIGIOUS SERIES AT SO. M. E. CHURCH

The message will be illustrated by 45 beautiful slides showing the beautiful scenery of Ireland and some of his fine buildings and historic ruins. It is believed this service and the one to follow on England will be of especial interest to the many British people in Manchester.

The Cecilia club will provide three musical numbers at the first meeting of the series, Sunday, Jan. 11. Also on Sunday and continuing through January and February, Mr. Colpitts will discuss at the morning services in a practical way, topics of interest on the general theme, "If Jesus Came to Manchester."

SHARKEY WILLING TO BOX STRIBLING

Boston, Mass., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey, heavyweight boxer, today declared his willingness to meet Young Stribling, Max Schmeling and any other outstanding member of the heavyweight division. He notified the N. Y. Athletic Commission of his readiness to sign for a 15 round bout with Stribling in New York.

The N. Y. Commission has stripped Schmeling of the heavyweight crown which he won on a foul from Sharkey. Sharkey's action was prompted he said, by the statement of the New York mogul that they would recognize the winner of a Sharkey-Stribling bout as the world champion. Sharkey was a decision over Stribling at Miami, Fla., two years ago.

In a statement setting forth his position in the heavyweight championship struggle Sharkey said, "I am willing to box Stribling within a period of six weeks. I stand ready to box Max Schmeling any time the German cares to accept the challenge I have on file at the office of the N. Y. State Athletic Commission. The event in which Carnera can show cause to the New York Athletic Commission why he should be reinstated. I shall welcome a meeting with him. Carnera, in my opinion, is one of the most formidable of the heavyweights."

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The Stock Market was sweetened a little by the sugar issues today, just as it seemed to be turning sour.

The list was inclined to rise during the early trading, but pivotal issues were well supported, and news of an agreement with central European sugar producers to restrict production brought a sharp uptick at midday. In the long depressed issues in this group, the market was extremely dull, however, and failed as a whole to make much progress in either direction.

In sugars, the Great Western shares, American Beet Sugar, South Porto Rican and Cuba Co., gained 10 or more. American Sugar rose 5. Guantanaomo rose from 1-2 to 1-1-2. In the steels, U. S. and Bethlehem fluctuated narrowly, but the Republic issues were again firm, and Gulf States rose 3. The International Silver shares were strong, the company rising 5. The recent speculative stirrings in gold mining shares was reflected in a 2-point gain in Homestake. The locomotive issues were firm, and American Water Works, Columbia Gas, Union Carbide, and Drug gained a point or two. Declines of a point or two were numerous during the morning, and were only partly recovered later.

The strength of the gold and silver shares seemed to be in response to gossip over plans to solve foreign monetary problems. There has been talk of stabilizing silver by a large silver loan to China. The price of gold has been creeping higher for months, with the large takings by the Bank of France, and Alaska Juneau, long a member of the so-called "cat and dog" group of stocks, has recently been put on a dividend basis. Price movements in non-ferrous metals generally, however, were mixed. Lead prices were cut by American Smelting, and some copper has recently been sold at 10 1-4 cents, a cut of 1-4 of a cent from the producers price. Copper futures at London, however, held steady, which was regarded as encouraging, as price reductions here are usually foreshadowed by the action of that market.

The market as a whole, however, appeared to lack leadership. Public buying has been almost entirely confined to the bond market this week, and after the sustained advance in stocks starting late in December, professional traders felt that a substantial technical correction might be in order. Professional operations, for the advance was mostly in second-rate stocks. Bears, however, proceeded cautiously, in view of the steady tone maintained by pivotal industrials such as U. S. Steel.

Further strength of steel scrap prices, with a 50-cent-a-ton advance at Youngstown, giving new quotations of $13 to $13.50 a ton, was regarded in steel trade circles as encouraging. News from the petroleum industry, however, was less pleasing, including gasoline price cutting in Ohio, and reports that some groups of crude producers were seeking to have their production schedules increased.

Money continued to be virtually a drug on the market, with call loans locally at 1-1-2 percent, but abundantly offered outside at 1 percent.

Thirty-two chain store companies reported December sales of $252,689,887, a decrease of 8.66 per cent from the total for the like month of 1929, a compilation by Merrill Lynch & Co. says. The same companies reported for the full year 1930 sales of $2,144,685,027, a decrease of 3.23 per cent from the total reported for 1929.

PRESERVES ROSES IN NATURAL STATE FOR A LONG TIME

Clarence E. Wilson, Local Nurseryman, Perfects Process That Will Be Center Attraction At Big Show In Chicago Next Week.

The National Homemaker's Exhibition will open next week in the Hotel Stevens in Chicago, and at that mid-west showing of the modern Home Beautiful, a local nurseryman will exhibit for the first time in public the "Seal Kraft" method of packing roses for department store sale.

C. E. Wilson

The introduction above gives but little indication of the story back of this story. It promises but little of interest to the Manchester reader, but to those that know C. E. Wilson, and to those that have listened with him for the past three years, it means out one thing—the attainment of an ideal.

Next week will be a red-letter event to those left behind at the Wilson nurseries and office in Manchester. Many of those who have labored with Mr. Wilson in the dirt, so to speak, in whole, or part of his 35 years as a nurseryman, will feel a certain thrill of pride next Monday afternoon at that time Mr. Wilson and his son, Hewitt, will show to the world an application of an old method, one that bids fair to revolutionize the nursery trade, insofar as packing and delivery is concerned. Not that the Wilson process has helped to make the Wilson process a success, but the entire United States awaits a demonstration of the "Seal Kraft" method next week in Chicago.

Dirt Farmer
For the past 35 years C. E. Wilson has been "out in the dirt" so to speak. Starting in at the age of 11, pulling weeds at 25 cents a day, striving to learn nature's secrets from day to day, the North End nurseryman has thus fitted himself to study the nursery and merchandising problems which are so dovetailed together by the imposition of Nature. In his studies of plant life Mr. Wilson has found that the best conditions cannot be changed, and as a result he has endeavored to emulate, as nearly as possible, the conditions of nature in an effort to place a product on the market in an honest manner at the lowest price to show the world that he is proud of his accomplishment. The Chicago exhibition marks the final milestone in the attainment of this ideal.

A Killarney Pink rose shown the Herald reporter in the Wilson office on Allen Place, where it had lain since Nov. 16 in its new Seal Kraft protective coating, was shooting forth a new, light green shoot. Two of the five green stalks of this beautiful rose were lined with tiny pin-point buds, — branches breaking forth from this sealed and packed rose bush that has been kept in the heated office of the company for almost two months.

Assured Fresh Flowers
At the extremity of the branch a tiny rose bud had formed, significant of the strength and virility of the plant under the enforced, but almost natural condition. This single rose plant is indicative of the efforts made by the Wilson Nurseries to prepare rose bushes for merchandising on the counters of department stores to assure purchasers, insofar as possible, of satisfactory and healthy plants, which they expect, and deserve to receive for their money.

The story of the development of the Seal Kraft method of packing and preserving rose bushes for delivery and marketing is very interesting. In connection with the new process Mr. Wilson gives the following explanation in a new folder just released. He is quoted as follows:

"The Seal Kraft" Process
"From a merchandising point of view, this process is really more important than the growing of the rose bush, as no matter how good a plant may be in the Nursery, if it is not delivered to the ultimate purchaser in good condition, all the good work put in growing the plant counts for nothing. It is a notorious fact that probably 50 per cent of all the roses sold over Department Store counters were either dead or so lacking in vitality by the time they were lined with tiny pin-point buds, — branches breaking forth from this sealed and packed rose bush that has been kept in the heated office of the company for almost two months.

When in Chicago many noted nurserymen will view the actual rose bushes that have been kept in the dry, heated atmosphere of the Wilson nurseries here, and can see for themselves the fine, healthy stalks and branches shooting forth from no plant nutriment except the tightly-trapped pest and excelsior packing around the roots of the plants.

Stop Evaporation
The real problem to be surmounted is to stop evaporation. Rose bushes or other plants are living organisms and under normal growing conditions get their food in liquid form through the roots from the soil, evaporating any excess moisture through the bark and foliage into the air. This process is going on constantly. When a plant is removed from the soil, its source of supply moisture has been cut off, but the evaporation continues through the bark and foliage unless precautions are immediately taken to prevent it. Our "SEALKRAFT" Process Prevents this Evaporation.

Our "SEALKRAFT" Process has overcome this difficulty really before our expectations. I have before me a Killarney Rose Bush, which not only has remained in good condition for a period of forty days under a temperature of not less than 70 degrees at any time, but also a dry atmosphere similar to that encountered in any store. This plant is not only alive, but it is actually growing in the package without having had any attention whatever. Of course, it will not grow permanently in this package, but I believe, if it was planted today it would live and grow. By contrast, I have a plant before me that has been in the open air for several days. In fact, I think it was almost beyond redemption at the time I found it. The efforts made to show the world that he is proud of his accomplishment. The Chicago exhibition marks the final milestone in the attainment of this ideal.

Packing
Our SEALKRAFT PROCESS and PACKING are so closely related that they might be included under one title. However, there are as many different ways of packing as there are Nurserymen, most of it having been done on a "Hit or Miss" basis, as "Grandfather did it," without considering the particular conditions to be met. Feeling that a good packing is a good product, we have gone about this in the most careful way that has led to the development of the "SEALKRAFT" Process. We worked on the Rose, mostly because it is the most sensitive and porous of the hardwood plants that are usually handled in the Department Store Trade, also the most popular.

We have constructed real honest to goodness cellars to store our plants where the atmosphere is moist and suitable to plants at all times. In our storage cellars we keep the temperature between 32 and 40 degrees and saturated with moisture, which condition we carry out our packing cases by lining them with paper and introducing plenty of moisture in the shape of damp excelsior, moss or similar agents of an absorbent nature.

C. E. Wilson leaves for Chicago today with one of the oldest, yet revolutionary methods of packing and preserving rose bushes that have been in use for many years, if not in the history of horticulture in this country.

Deadly Comparison
When in Chicago many noted nurserymen will view the actual rose bushes that have been kept in the dry, heated atmosphere of the Wilson nurseries here, and can see for themselves the fine, healthy stalks and branches shooting forth from no plant nutriment except the tightly-trapped pest and excelsior packing around the roots of the plants.

OCEAN HOP DELAYED
Hamilton, Bermuda, Jan. 8.—(AP.)—Postponing their original intention to hop off immediately for the Azores on the second stretch of their projected flight to Paris, Mrs. Feryl Hart and Lieutenant William MacLaren, who flew here yesterday in the monoplane Trade Wind, said they would remain in Bermuda overnight until repairs can be completed on the ship's oil feed line.

HOLY TRINITY FIVE DEFEATED BY HICKS

First Half Close But Church Team Falls Behind In Last Two Quarters; Courtney Features.

With at least three ex-high school flashes participating, Casey's Hicks won a clean-cut victory from the Holy Trinity, a group of freshly attired players representing the local Polish organization. A great deal of the credit for the victory goes to the excellent passwork, dribbling and "eye" of Bill Courtney, who headed the attack for the Hicks. Magnuson sunk a fast one after receiving a pass from Snow to start the attack, and then the Holy Trinity combination took the lead for the rest of the quarter. At half time the Hicks led 11-10 and they forged steadily ahead thereafter. Bycholski played extremely well for the Trinity. Toward the end, the game got rough, but at no time did it get beyond the expert supervision of Johnny Tierney. Following is the summary:

BIRTH CONTROL SCORED IN PAPAL ENCYCLICAL

ed) which is denied to legitimate mothers or given sparingly, almost grudgingly.

The encyclical contains 16,000 words and is dated December 31, 1930, translated in English, Italian, French, German and Spanish. It was issued simultaneously with the original Latin text for the first time in the history of the Papacy. The document is divided into three sections, first, covering the dignity of Christian wedlock, second, errors opposed to Christian wedlock, and third, remedies for overcoming these errors. It is in the middle section that the Pontiff is most vigorous and emphatic.

"Today, alas," he says, "not openly or under cover but secretly with all sense of shame put aside now by word, again by writing, by theatrical productions of every kind by romantic fiction, by amorous, frivolous, novels, by cinematographs portraying in vivid scenes, in addresses broadcast by radio telephoning, in short by all inventions of modern science the sanctity of marriage is trampled upon and defiled."

"Divorce, adultery, all the basest vices either are extolled or at least depicted in such colors as to be or appear to be free of all reproach and infamy."

STEALS $68 AND CAR
North Branford, Jan. 8.—(AP.)—State and local police and a posse of citizens today were combing a woods two miles north of here in an effort to seize the bandit who early today robbed Samuel M. Moslowitz, of his truck and $68 in cash on the Boston Post road near Guilford.

Moslowitz's truck was found on the North Hill road in North Branford an hour after the robbery. Police seized the bandit who early today robbed Samuel M. Moslowitz, of his truck and $68 in cash on the Boston Post road near Guilford.

Moslowitz, a cattle dealer and truck owner of New Haven, reported to State Police the holdup occurred near Flag March Hill on the Boston Post road, two miles west of Guilford, shortly after 8 o'clock today. At the point of a gun Moslowitz reported, he was ordered down from his seat in the truck. The bandit then searched his pockets, and took $68 in cash he was carrying and drove off.

He said the man was about five feet seven inches in height and wore a leather coat.

CLAM DIGGER FINDS "DUCK HUNTER'S BODY"

New Haven, Jan. 8.—(AP.)—The body of George Pappas, 23, of Jackson Heights, N. Y., one of five duck hunters who were scattered by a sudden storm in Long Island Sound November 30, was found early today by a clam digger at Pebble Beach, East Haven.

Pappas body, badly mutilated, was pulled up within a short distance of the place where the body of Samuel Bradford McKickard, one of his companions on the disastrous hunt, was found the day following the tragedy. The body of James Gibson, 23, of Yonkers is still missing.

John Kiesling, 22, and Bernard Schmidt, 21, were the only survivors of the group of five hunters.

The five hunters, all said to be city employees of New York, set out from Port Jefferson, Long Island, early on November 30, in individual boats on a duck hunt. About a mile off shore, Kiesling reported later, a sudden storm scattered them and prevented their return to shore.

created by National prohibition. Graft and corruption were even more rampant when the liquor trade exercised a large influence in our state and National government.

"The liquor business is only one of the rackets of the underworld. The violent crime and the new underworld itself are chiefly caused by the liquor traffic, antiquated and broken down system of enforcement to cope with modern crime which uses up-to-date methods and yields new terrible weapons.

WORK ON POLISH CHURCH SLOWS UP
Cold weather and failure to complete construction before Christmas has resulted in the slowing up of the work on the new Polish National Catholic church on Galloway street.

The force of men employed at the church has been reduced and the work now being done is confined to the interior of the building where a higher class of workmanship is required. The progress being made seems to assure completion of the church in plenty of time to hold Easter services there.

NICOTINE ON TRIAL
Hartford, Jan. 8.—(AP.)—My Lady Nicotine, injected her ethereal presence into the tobacco business today for a brief moment. The question of her allure arose during the hearing of the case of Lucille Lovallo, widow of Donato Lovallo who died in April, 1929, from burns sustained when his clothing took fire at his place of employment in a plant of the American Brass Company at Waterbury.

The point at issue was whether an act of smoking by an employee at a time when he is allowed to do it, is done purely for his own benefit, or if in any way it benefits the employer.

GREEN WHIST-DANCES RESUME TOMORROW

Weekly Affairs Continue After Suspension During the Past Holiday Season.

The women's committee of the Manchester Green Community club will resume the weekly whist-dances, omitted during the holidays, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The usual number of all-cash prizes will be awarded and refreshments served; round and square dances will follow.

The women's committee and the young people's committee who run the Saturday evening dances have turned over the proceeds of these socials to the officials of the Community club. The profits of one card party were turned over to the new Boy Scout troop in the district, $25 was also donated to the annual campaign for funds by the Girl Scout organization. The sum of $25 was voted to the Christmas exercises for the children of the Green school. Not half of this amount, however, was used for the purchase of candy and oranges, due to the thoughtfulness of one of the boy pupils, who suggested that the bulk of this money be turned over to Miss Jessie Reynolds to be used at her discretion for the town's needy children. Fifteen dollars was donated to this worthy object.

BOXING, WRESTLING HAVE BANNER YEAR

Commissioner Donahue Reveals Finance For Last Six Months Equals That In 1929.

New London, Jan. 8.—(AP.)—Boxing and wrestling in Connecticut kept an even financial keel during the last six months of 1930, as compared with the preceding fiscal year, according to a report issued here today by Athletic Commissioner Thomas E. Donahue.

Total gate receipts for professional and amateur boxing and wrestling since last June were $232,965, which is a shade better than half of the receipts of $503,623 for the full fiscal year preceding.

Attendances for the past six months totaled 220,422 which is slightly under half of the 451,485 total for the full year preceding.

The figures show that professional boxing fell more than $3,000 behind the pace for the year before, and amateur boxing dropped nearly $6,000. The increase in wrestling receipts, however, more than made up the difference.

Wrestling drew a total of $19,848 for the fiscal year ending last June, but the rates for the last six months were $18,139 showing a proportionate gain of $8,460.

RETAILERS PROTEST COPYRIGHTING BILL

Washington, Jan. 8.—(AP.)—Representatives of the National Retail Dry Goods Association appeared before the Senate patents committee today to oppose the Vestal bill, which has passed the House, to provide for copyrighting cloth designs.

Kenneth Collins, promotion manager of the association, said he had no objection to the original design of new materials getting protection, but the bill before the committee "would cause unsettlement in the industry."

Harold R. Young, spokesman for the group, said ninety per cent of women's dress designs come from Paris and the bill would allow French designers to copyright their goods in this country.

Senator Dill, Democrat, Washington, said it would be more desirable to provide a "design division" in the patent office than enact a "catch-all proposition like this."

Chairman Waterman said the retailers wanted to protect himself "at all hazards" but the designer was entitled to protection.

TRADE RESTRAINED BY OUTWORN LAWS

Head of American Bankers' Association Declared That Helped Bring Depression.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—(AP.)—Rome C. Stephenson, president of the American Bankers' Association, in discussing the background of business conditions, said today that outworn laws in restraint of trade had prevented comprehensive efforts to give protection to consumption.

In an address prepared for delivery before the Chicago Association of Commerce, Mr. Stephenson, warned, however, that unless business men can eventually solve the unemployment issue, solutions will be attempted by a government in which business men will have but a small part.

The Present System
The present system under which each corporation aims to gear its production and sales according to its own ideas irrespective of the industry as a whole, he said, leads to political upheavals and unwise legislation and is largely due to "our laws governing restraint of trade passed 40 years ago."

The head of the bankers association urged manufacturers and producers give immediate attention to the problem of surplus in its relation to price levels, not alone as it refers to their own business, but to the industry of which their unit is a part.

Impeded by Laws
Illustrations of how joint action among concerns engaged in similar activities is all but impossible at the present time, Mr. Stephenson cited the attempts of the petroleum industry to work out a program of conservation.

"Laws and regulations impede at every turn," he said. "In consequence there is overproduction, earnings in the industry have declined, stockholders have suffered reduced income and the future supply of petroleum is endangered by the regular work and eventually when their stint is done, to a pension for their sunset years."

Farming Situation
Discussing the farming situation, Mr. Stephenson pointed out that farm mortgage indebtedness increased in the 20 year period ending 1930 from 10 per cent of the value of the farms to 22 per cent.

"If the farmers are ever to get from under this load, it will be through some plan of reduced costs by means of increased output by unit of labor and area," he commented. "The development of power machinery in farming has served to reduce the cost of production in a few areas and has caused abandonment of farms in others. Until the system shall have become thoroughly established, hardship will be suffered by farmers."

Looking ahead, Mr. Stephenson concluded that "as months succeed month, inventories in America will be reduced, thus hastening the day when unemployment will give way to employment and in consequence dismay and pessimism will retire before hope and buoyancy of spirit."

GIRLS STILL ALOFT

Imperial, Calif., Jan. 8.—(AP.)—Two anxious young women who have been flying around for nearly four days in a cabin monoplane soared over here today, waiting for a break in the weather to return to Los Angeles, where they started their flight to break the world endurance refueling record.

The sooner Bobbie Trout and Edna May Cooper get back to Los Angeles, the lighter their hearts will be. They were forced to fly here late yesterday when a severe storm hit Los Angeles. If they are forced to land here, their flight, which at 9:30 a. m., had set a woman's sustained flight record of 91 hours, will have been in vain. To claim a record they must land where they started.

Daybreak in Imperial Valley brought rather murky weather but it was far better than that prevailing over Los Angeles.

CREDIT RESPONSIBLE FOR PRESENT TIMES

Montreal, Jan. 8.—(AP.)—Abnormal credit conditions during 1928 were primarily responsible for inflating worldwide depression, Sir Herbert Hoar, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, asserted at the annual meeting of the bank here today.

High money rates depressed business and paralyzed development, he said, and in many countries economic and political structures were so weakened that it was necessary for them to get foreign loans to restore purchasing power.

The concentration of sixty per cent of the world's gold supply in the United States and France has placed the potential control of the world's price level in the hands of these two countries," he said. "Neither country has perfected its central banking machinery to the point where such control can be made promptly effective, and I fear that neither country has fully realized its duty in this respect to its own citizens and to the rest of the world."

Sir Herbert advocated co-operation and elimination of wasteful competition by railways; approved the suggested formation of an agricultural credit corporation to help farmers to purchase cattle, sheep and hogs, and urged that the wheat growing restraint on production of grain and substitute mixed farming.

seized but proved to be someone else. A checkup showed Brothers still was in his room at the Lake Crest Apartments.

Flash Arrest
Roche decided to act the next day, December 21, rather than take another chance of losing his quarry. He suddenly remembered, he said, that Miss Rose Heusch, his secretary when he had been with the Federal Department of Justice, was a resident of the Lake Crest establishment.

Miss Heusch outlined to Roche the plan of the hallways and said residents of the fourth floor had to use a common telephone in the hallway. On December 21, a rap on Brothers door told him he was wanted on the telephone. He put on a pair of trousers and shirt over his pajamas to answer the call and just as he said "Hello" he heard the command "Drop the phone." He complied. His loaded revolver was discovered on his dresser.

DR. HERZY IS DEAD

Springfield, Mass., Jan. 8.—(AP.)—Dr. Harold W. Herzy, in superior tenet of Springfield hospital, died today after a few days illness, of pneumonia. He assumed the superintendency of the hospital last October, replacing Dr. John C. Gardner who had asked to be relieved owing to poor health.

Dr. Herzy came here from Bridgeport where he was superintendent of the Bridgeport hospital and took active supervision of the $2,500,000 construction program now under way here. He was born in Hingham, graduated from Harvard and practically ever since had been engaged in hospital work or teaching. His hospital work began at the Massachusetts General hospital in Boston whence in 1919 he went to the New Haven hospital and also taught at Yale medical school. He went to the Bridgeport hospital in 1924. He was president of the Connecticut Hospital Association in 1922 and vice-president of the American Hospital Association in the latter years.

GOLD STAR MOTHER DIES

New Britain, Jan. 8.—(AP.)—Mrs. Harriet Dawley, a Gold Star mother of Pittsfield, Mass., died suddenly today in this city where she had lived for five years. She was 57 years of age.

A son, Elmer G. Dawley, who enlisted at Springfield, Mass., for the World War and served in Company G of that city, was killed in France. Her husband, who survives her, is Charles Dawley.

MANY FROM TOWN AT INAUGURAL BALL

Over a Score Attend Brilliant Function in Hartford Last Evening.

More than a score of Manchester persons attended the Governor's Ball in Hartford last night, held in honor of Connecticut's new chief executive, Gov. Wilbur L. Cross.

Trailing gowns of delicate chiffons and rich velvets displaced the shorter frocks of recent seasons and lent a touch of dignity to the grand march as their pastel shades and those of brighter hue were set off by the predominance of black. The rhinestone trimmings of many of the gowns added to the brilliance.

Among the women present from South Manchester were the following: Mrs. Clifford D. Cheney, figured chiffon; Mrs. Robert J. Smitzer, white green satin with brilliant and purple moire slippers; Miss Marjorie Smith, yellow flowered taffeta with metallic thread, gold slippers and gold ear-rings; Mrs. John Chanda, peach colored satin with rhinestone shoulder straps, shoes to match and black velvet wrap; Miss Sylvia Anderson, black transparent velvet, black velvet wrap, black moire shoes, rhinestone necklace; Mrs. Francis J. ## FIRE IN WATERBURY

Waterbury, Jan. 8.—(AP.)—Officials of the Tracy Brothers, whose mill yards on Benedict street were swept by flames that gave firemen a three hour battle last night, stated today that damage would not exceed $10,000. A combination garage, and lumber shed was partially destroyed but efforts of fire fighters kept the flames confined to one side of the building and prevented damage to parked and stored trucks and cars. A watchman discovered the fire at 8:06 and when firemen arrived it had gained considerable headway.

Stored oil, two containers of the battle, helped feed the flames. Five lines of hose were laid before the flames were under control. Origin is undetermined.

earlier decision was in answer to an attack on a different ground from that taken by Judge Clark. The common assumption that the Supreme Court, having once passed on the question of the validity of a law, can never again, or will not ever again, take a contrary position concerning that law is a sheer assumption of stubbornness, an implication to which the Supreme Court of the United States is not open. The Supreme Court is always open, however, to enlightenment, and while it may have decided a question in one way at one time it may without loss of prestige decide the same question differently if, from some new angle, an entirely different light is cast upon it. For instance, if a constitutional amendment were attacked on the sole ground that it nullified the rest of the Constitution and the Supreme Court had upheld it on the ground that it did not nullify the rest of the Constitution, that would not prevent the same court from later declaring the amendment invalid if it were shown, in a new action, that the amendment had never been properly ratified at all.

The real reason why there would appear to be little chance of the Clark decision being upheld is that the Supreme Court as at present constituted is more or less tolerant of prohibition. If the membership of that august body were made up entirely of men who believed thoroughly that prohibition was an enormous evil and an impossible undertaking, one might with much confidence expect that the court would sustain the Clark contention.

It doesn't, however, happen to be that kind of a court.

Washington Letter

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Public school enrollment in the United States in 1930 was nearly 25,000,000, according to estimates of the Federal Office of Education. The number of pupils in elementary schools is placed at about 21,570,000, and the number enrolled in public high schools at 4,030,000.

It is also estimated that there were 848,500 teachers and 254,200 school houses. School expenditures totaled $2,289,000,000. The pupils in private and parochial schools, elementary and secondary, numbered 2,704,000.

In reviewing high spots of the educational situation for last year, the Office of Education reports an oversupply of teachers which has become a matter of concern to school authorities.

Oversupply of teachers of liberal arts subjects and of elementary school work has in some places led to stiffer requirements for entrance to institutions where teachers are trained and to higher requirements for teachers' certificates.

Normal schools are demanding such requirements as superior high school scholarship, good intelligence test ratings and other special tests. States and cities in increasing numbers now require a minimum of three years training in addition to high school before granting certificates.

Teachers themselves apparently are busy enhancing their qualifications, for 421,000 from the staffs of public elementary and secondary schools took special courses last summer, according to a cited survey by the National Education Association.

Public schools have been seeking the aid of industries for organization of industrial courses, the Office of Education finds, and an example of the increasing trend toward providing courses of specific character to meet needs for vocational training is seen in the introduction of courses in aviation in the public schools of Buffalo.

More than a million persons are counted as in vocational schools last year, the Federal Board of Vocational Education has reported, including 170,000 learning farming, 250,000 taking courses in homemaking and 625,000 learning jobs in trade and industry. Most of these folks were in schools operating under the joint federal-state vocational educational system.

Public school enrollment is being affected by the declining birth rate. The Office of Education does not give figures to demonstrate that, beyond pointing to the fact that in an average group of Americans in 1915 five children were being born each year, whereas in the same average group in 1928 less than four were being born.

Thirty-six states in 1930 made provisions for adequate school playgrounds and more than 60 cities adopted five acres as a minimum standard for elementary school playgrounds.

Many colleges and universities developed summer camps in connection with courses in engineering, geology, biology, botany, zoology, physical education, recreation and forestry.

Education of subnormal and abnormal children has been receiving special attention, and a federal survey disclosed 736 cities with a population of more than 10,000 which now have special classes and schools to handle children "deviating from average capacity."

Educational research has been stressed, especially co-operative research, and it is pointed out that Congress has granted more than $500,000 for three separate federal surveys. The first, a national survey of land grant colleges was completed last year, resulting in 1800 pages in two volumes. Another survey, looking into secondary education and also made by the Office of Education, began in 1929 and will be finished in 1932. The third, a national study of the professional education of teachers was begun last July and includes the sending of brief questionnaires to a million American teachers.

WATKINS BROTHERS, INC.
Furniture, Interior Decorations
South Manchester, Conn.

When in a city no bigger than New Haven it is possible for hold-ups to become a matter of daily experience and for gunmen to roam the town and take tribute at will from defenceless citizens, it would seem to be fairly obvious that there is something the matter with the police work in that community. There appears to be something pretty serious the matter with the police work in New Haven. And yet, judging from what the newspapers of that city say, the cops down there are just now extending themselves to the utmost. Within seven minutes after the latest store holdup three detectives, four plain clothes patrolmen and two uniformed officers showed up at the scene of the robbery, all coming from different points.

Nevertheless the stickup artists got away.

The thing that is so conspicuously the matter with New Haven police work is also the matter with police work in nine-tenths of American cities of any considerable size. The police have no effective system of keeping tabs on that element, present in every population, whose feet are set in the road that leads logically to crime. They don't know their town's crooks unless they are crooks who have already been caught; much less do they keep tabs on the border line individuals who are liable to go crooked any day; least of all are they prepared to spot the newcomer or the stranger whose business in town would not stand inquiry.

In other words the average American police department is lacking in any adequate provision for organized surveillance.

This carries no implication that the police are either lazy or stupid. Very seldom indeed are they either. But they do not know much about what the people of their communities are doing until somebody commits an offense against the law and too often they have to tackle the job of finding the criminal without anything to go on but clues and luck.

Americans are inherently antagonistic to such systems of police espionage on the population as distinguish the best policed European cities. They would resent with much indignation the establishment of any system of registration and accountability for their time and whereabouts as would bring the lives of devils lives into the light.

But within the very serious limitations imposed upon them police departments which most sedulously acquaint themselves with the people of their communities, whose members can name the most names and tell most about where citizens work and where they spend their evenings, are those whose cities are freest from crime.

The detective or the plainclothes cop who is the best and shrewdest gossiper is the most useful in protecting his territory from holdups and in keeping the youthful loafer from degenerating into a criminal.

WHY SMALL HOPE

Since the United States Court of Appeals in New York rendered a decision exactly contrary to that made a short time ago by Federal Judge Clark in New Jersey in which Judge Clark declared the Eighteenth amendment invalid, there are very few opponents of prohibition who still cling to any hope that the United States Supreme Court will uphold the Clark decision.

There is actually very little reason to entertain any such hope. But the relative certainty that the Supreme Court will once more uphold the prohibitory amendment does not owe to the circumstance that that court has already declared the amendment to have been validly ratified. Under conceivable circumstances the previous decision might be very lightly regarded by the court which made it, since the

PAYING FOR SPEED

Now that the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters has decided to help out the depression situation by diverting into the coffers of the insurance companies another huge chunk of the national income by boosting the rates on liability and property damage automobile risks, the people of the state of Connecticut may reasonably expect to find a champion in opposition to this scheme in the person of Motor Vehicles Commissioner Stoekel.

First and foremost of the reasons given by the underwriters for increasing automobile insurance rates to a point where a policy on a Ford or a Chevrolet will cost $14 more than heretofore is this one:

The motors used in automobiles manufactured during the last few years have been improved to such an extent that the motor horsepower has been increased at least 50 per cent on the average. This increase in power has resulted in the operation of automobiles at GREATER SPEEDS, THEREBY CAUSING MORE SERIOUS AND MORE COSTLY ACCIDENTS.

We feel no call whatever to argue this matter of increased rates with the Board of Underwriters, being convinced that Mr. Stoekel will be able to knock into smithereens their contention that speed has anything to do with the increase in fatalities and serious accidents. Perhaps he will even be able to show the underwriters that they are all wrong about there having been any such increase lately. At all events we feel that the issue is so beautifully drawn between these representatives of all the automobile insurance companies and our own erudite motor vehicles commissioner that it would be a sin and a shame for any third party to mix in.

Meantime the automobile owner who is to be compelled to pay through the nose for his insurance may reflect on how much good has been done to him by the craze for fast driving.

SMALL TOWNS

Ray Bert Westerfield, who lectures on economics at Yale, is accredited in the news dispatches with telling the Institute of Statesmanship at Rollins College, Florida, yesterday that "there is no reason for all these small towns, one for every six miles or so, either economically or socially."

Unfortunately this is about all the dispatches do tell us concerning Dr. Westerfield's address. Maybe there was something in it to give color of reason for this sweeping condemnation of the small town. But the bare assertion in itself is sufficient to arouse the ire of the millions of Americans who not only live in small towns but believe heart and soul in the social, economic, moral and political worth of the little community.

As might have been anticipated, reference to "Who's Who" discloses the fact that Dr. Westerfield is a small-town, himself, having been born in the little village of Bradner, O., a wee place of considerably less than a thousand inhabitants. Also, as might almost as easily have been guessed at, he got his start in the educational field right there in his native village, for he became principal of its little high school before he had obtained his degree from Ohio Northern University. A fine chance of a boost like that, at 21 years old, in a New York, a Chicago or a Pittsburgh! Moreover, the biggest place Dr. Westerfield has ever lived in, so far as we can make out, is New Haven.

As a matter of fact it is highly probable that nothing has contributed so largely to the unsettling of American life and the disturbance of its economic system as the trend to the big cities in the last thirty years. Any number of economists and sociologists of considerably wider fame than Dr. Westerfield have protested and warned against the dangers of this movement. It is somewhat discouraging, then, to see such unauthoritative condemnation of the small town given so much publicity at a time when it is increasingly obvious that the worst evil this country has to contend with is overurbanization.

New York, Jan. 8.—It had never occurred to me that I might turn out to be one of those "learn-a-new-thing-every-day" boys.

To be sure, I've been picking up a dozen or more new bits of information daily for a number of years. But while trying to remember these additional statistical treasures, such as the year of the War of 1812, I'd generally forget my own home phone number, or the name of Mary Pickford before she went into the movies.

And then, on a recent Christmas morning, I found in the left sock (my wife was darning the right one) two volumes of one of those double-deck century dictionaries, or whatever they are. My first suspicion was directed at those editors who are asked to read copy on my daily pieces, particularly for misspellings. Then I recalled reading somewhere that at least two quite successful New York columnists boasted that they had been hired because they spelled badly. However, they immediately retained secretaries.

Upon picking up the second volume, however, I was forced to change views. For I read "From Postman to Zymurgy." Now, once if that, sounds somewhat like the story of my life, I doubt if an editor would allow me to admit it. Yet I shall always remember it, and use it sometime as the title of a biography.

Imagine a success story titled "From Postman to Zymurgy." Does it stir your imagination, dear reader?

And then, hastily turning the pages to get a little erudition, I came upon "Sealyham." Imagine my embarrassment! I had never known where a Sealyham came from. And this in face of the fact that I once owned a hound that a wisecracker described as being somewhere between a seal and a ham.

I'll let you in on the secret. Sealyham is the name of an estate, near Fishguard, Wales, where this particular variety of pup was originated by one John Tucker-Edwards. And only about a century ago, at that. The best ones, it would seem, are still in Wales, though a flock of ritzy New Yorkers would deny the fact.

You'd really be surprised what you can find in a dictionary nowadays. (No, a salesman will not call at the house tomorrow.)

Take, for instance, spaghetti. Well, go ahead and take it, for I've had it three days in succession. Up to this moment, I've always had the notion it was a flock of heavy paste tossed in with a six-bit Italian dinner, unless very specially cooked. Or it was what a few hundred quick-lunchers grab with meat sauce each noon just around the corner from my office.

Quite true, but it also can mean: "an electrical term, referring to insulating tubes of small diameter into which bare wire can be slipped, etc."

"Gargon, three platters of well insulated spaghetti . . . and make it quick!"

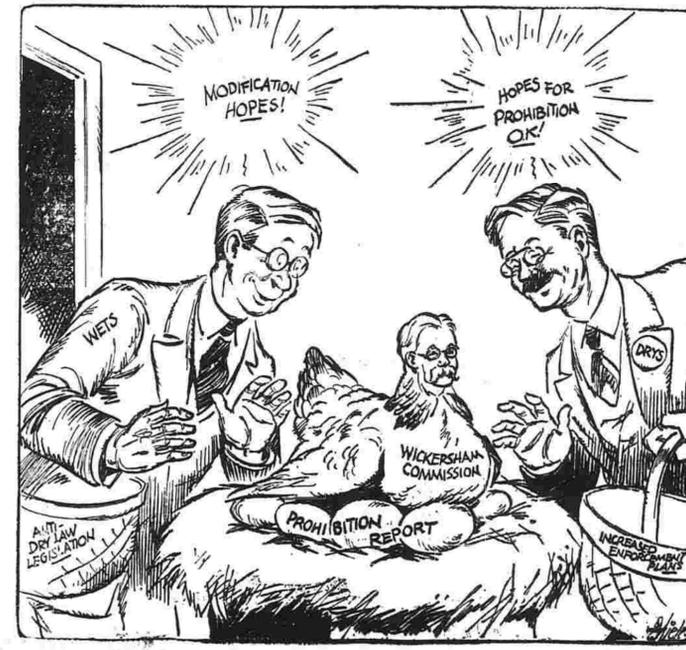

And imagine, after all these years, finding "sheik" defined as a "masterful man of irresistible appeal for the other sex." Rudy Valentino did not die in vain. And a "vampire" (shades of pre-talkie films). And a "hound" is a person continually pursuing a particular object, as a "movie hound." Territory is no longer mere land and water, but also a region assigned to a salesman. And a "dame" is "any woman" and "bump" is to "take for a ride, kill or murder," as in Chicago.

By the way, what's happened to Chicago, lately?

GILBERT SWAN.

HEALTH DIET ADVICE

By Dr. Frank McCoy

Keep Me Just Way to Health!

GETTING IN REGARD TO HEALTH & DIET WILL BE MENTIONED IN MY WEEKLY MENUS AND I AM SURE YOU WILL BE ABLE TO ADDRESS IN CASE OF THIS PAPER ENCLOSED THINLY ADDRESSED ENVELOPES FOR REPLY

MEATLESS DIETS

The evolutionary theory is frequently quoted with the additional statement that the apes live on fruits, nuts and cereals alone. This statement is obviously erroneous to anyone who investigates the dietary habits of apes, for in addition to these foods, they also consume insects, worms, eggs, small birds, roots, bark and leaves. It also does not sound logical to believe that man's diet should be patterned after a diet of apes inasmuch as man's greatest advances have been made on a mixed diet, including cooked food.

The statement that human beings should avoid meat, because of purins and uric acid substances which it contains, required serious investigation. However, it has been found that there are just as many of these end products in such foods as oatmeal, beans, lentils, asparagus, etc. It has also been stated that the use of meat lowers one's sensitiveness and makes one less gentle and more ferocious and more easily angered. This is only a theory and has not been proven, but if it were true, how is it that such domesticated animals as the bull and the billy goat are so easily aroused and made angry when they both are grass-eating animals? And why is it that there is so much fighting and banditry in India and China where a large proportion of the people have very little or no meat in their diets, while the Eskimos who live almost exclusively on meat are noted for their gentleness and unusually happy dispositions?

It is not my intention in this article to prove that vegetarianism is good or bad for one, but it is well to point out that we should not depend too much upon theories, but depend more upon practical observation, not upon individuals, but upon a large scale.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
(Danger of Chloroform)

Question: T. L. writes: "I was recently operated on and have not been well since. Could it be possible that I have swallowed some of the chloroform given me as an anesthetic? Would that be poisonous?"

Answer: Although extremely poisonous in vapor form, comparatively large quantities of chloroform can be taken into the stomach without producing death. The smallest dose is fifteen grams, but with a child an amount as small as three and a half grams has resulted in death. The symptoms are burning sensation, followed by numbness, sometimes temporary excitability and delirium followed by narcosis, pale face, livid lips, convulsions followed by bloody stools, general pain and sensations of anxiety. People poisoned by chloroform internally sometimes live for several days before death occurs.

(Too Much Acidity)

Question: W. R. asks: "What is the cause of extreme acidity, which will be relieved for a time and always return. Most evident at night several hours after eating. Always feel as if I had been eating lemons or something acid. The taste of acid pronounced even in my mouth."

Answer: I consider the most pronounced cause of extreme stomach acidity is through the use of improper food combinations. Follow my weekly menus and I am sure you will be able to avoid your trouble.

(Bright's Disease)

Question: Mrs. O. D. H. writes: "I have been suffering from Bright's Disease for a good many years. Will you please tell me your treatment?"

Answer: Bright's Disease is caused by faulty metabolism. It is particularly food is responsible. Send a large self-addressed stamped envelope, and more complete directions will be forwarded.

More than 93,000 physical examinations for pilot licenses have been made by the U. S. government.

New Motors Make Bow at National Show

Perhaps most unusual of all the new 1931 automobiles on display at the New York Auto Show at Grand Central Palace is this front drive Cord roadster, a combination not only of ultra-snappy lines but of quite contrasting colors, cream and henna. The torpedo-like fenders and rear give the car a further appearance of speed and snap.

The new baby of 1931, the Matis, was introduced to American motorists at the New York Auto Show at Grand Central Palace. Its wheelbase is 96 inches, it has a 32 horsepower engine and is said to go 35 miles on a gallon of fuel at 35 miles an hour. Price of the coupe will be $445 at Lansing, Mich.

Timely Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Automobile Club of Hartford.

Remedy for Slipping Clutch In view of the fact that clutches tend to become rough in operation, and grab, after they have been in use for some time it is all the more puzzling to some motorists to find that when their cars become old the clutch plates start to slip, despite adjustments which ordinarily would cure this. The fact that the car is getting old, however, furnishes the clue.

An old engine is likely to have a loose end-bearing next to the clutch. It is around this bearing that engine oil may leak into the clutch housing. The best remedy of course is to tighten or replace the rear end main bearing of the engine but the situation can be greatly improved by making the crankcase as air tight as possible. This is done by tightly capping the oil filler pipe and running a pipe from this to the intake manifold so that vapor will be sucked out of the crankcase continuously, reducing oil leakage.

For Those Scored Cylinders Diluted oil, a weakened battery and haste in getting under way make a good combination for anyone who wishes to risk scoring the cylinders. Frequently, however, even the most impatient or unthinking motorist discovers what is happening and goes easy with the engine before the scoring becomes serious. When the trouble isn't bad enough to warrant having the cylinders rebored he is, nevertheless, often badly puzzled.

In a case of this sort he should know of the simpler ways of meeting the problem. One of these calls for using graphite. A teaspoonful of this to the gallon of oil will be effective in making small scores harmless.

Another plan, effective where the scores are deep, is to resort to soldering. Mechanics who do this out a fairly wide groove in the scored section of the cylinder fill it with solder and trim it off carefully.

Troubles Vary With Car A point seldom considered in the business of servicing automobiles is that the same kind of trouble is not equally as serious for all makes. That a friend is inconvenienced by something that goes wrong with his car is no reason why another one need take the same sort of trouble so seriously.

This is neatly illustrated in the case of one make of car which will not start if an intake valve sticks open. Most other cars can be started despite such trouble. The caterer, if a rear axle breaks with rear ends of a certain type the machine has to be jacked up and towed in as a wreck. With another type the wheels are free to turn despite the axle trouble, so that ordinary towing is sufficient.

Even a broken shock absorber on the earlier models of a recently introduced car interferes with steering. Mechanics who do this out a fairly wide groove in the scored section of the cylinder fill it with solder and trim it off carefully.

Big Advance in Aviation—From 'Flivvers' to 'Giants'

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—The backs in the space required for its horizontal propellers, or "vanes" as they are known. Engineers, however, are confident that this will be greatly reduced during the year.

Streamlining has been carried out to the smallest detail. Good examples of this art are in Captain Hawk's plane and Colonel Lindbergh's Lockheed Sirius. This designing has aided in increasing the speed of present day planes.

Gliding has become popular all over the country. Numerous clubs have been organized and several important glider meets were held in 1930.

Three huge airliners in addition to the well-known Dornier DO-X plane made their appearance in 1930. They are the Junkers G-38, which shares the honor of being the world's largest airliner with the DO-X, and the Handley-Page 42 and Short Four-Engine Commercial Flying Boat of England.

In direct contrast to these huge planes are the "flivver" types being introduced in the United States. A typical plane of this class has been introduced at Miami, Fla. It is the product of the late Glenn Curtiss. It is a tiny affair with no tail, expected to sell at a low price.

Something along similar lines will be a plane reported to be under construction in Detroit by William B. Stout noted aviation engineer.

How's She Hitting?

BY ISRAEL KLEIN Science Editor, NEA Service

Burned out bulbs in headlamps or other lights on the car may point to overcharging by the generator, but they may also be a danger signal for other troubles. They may, for instance, point to the danger of overcharging the battery or of overheating the generator. For the extra amount of juice put into the battery is taken out more quickly by the starter, and the greater use of the lights on winter nights demands more work for the generator.

Ordinarily, even with the generator charging at between 15 and 20 amperes, which is the usual winter day rate, there should be no worry of burning out the lights or of overheating the generator. For the extra amount of juice put into the battery is taken out more quickly by the starter, and the greater use of the lights on winter nights demands more work for the generator.

When a light burns out, therefore, merely replacing it with another bulb would not help. That bulb may get along well for a short time and then repeat the performance. Shorts or grounds do not cause lights to burn out, they reduce voltage. It is an open circuit, a loose or corroded connection in the generator charging line, that is the real cause.

Most frequent faults are found at the battery terminals where corrosion takes place. These should be scraped clean and tightened. Sometimes the ammeter terminals, which are in series between the generator and battery, will jar loose and cause an open circuit. Water, dirt or jarring may cause a poor contact between the terminal switch and the switch posts.

These should be tested after it has been seen that the battery is not the cause of the trouble.

By keeping an eye on the ammeter and knowing the rate at which the generator charges properly, the motorist can detect an open circuit almost immediately.

This can be suspected as soon as the ammeter needle is seen to jump above the regular charging rate. If it is not fixed almost immediately, a bulb will burn out for the bulb filament is the weakest spot in the shortened closed-circuit.

And when one bulb burns out, the others will follow soon after. For all the charge ordinarily distributed evenly among all the lamps and all

Waterbury Soldier is Murder Suspect

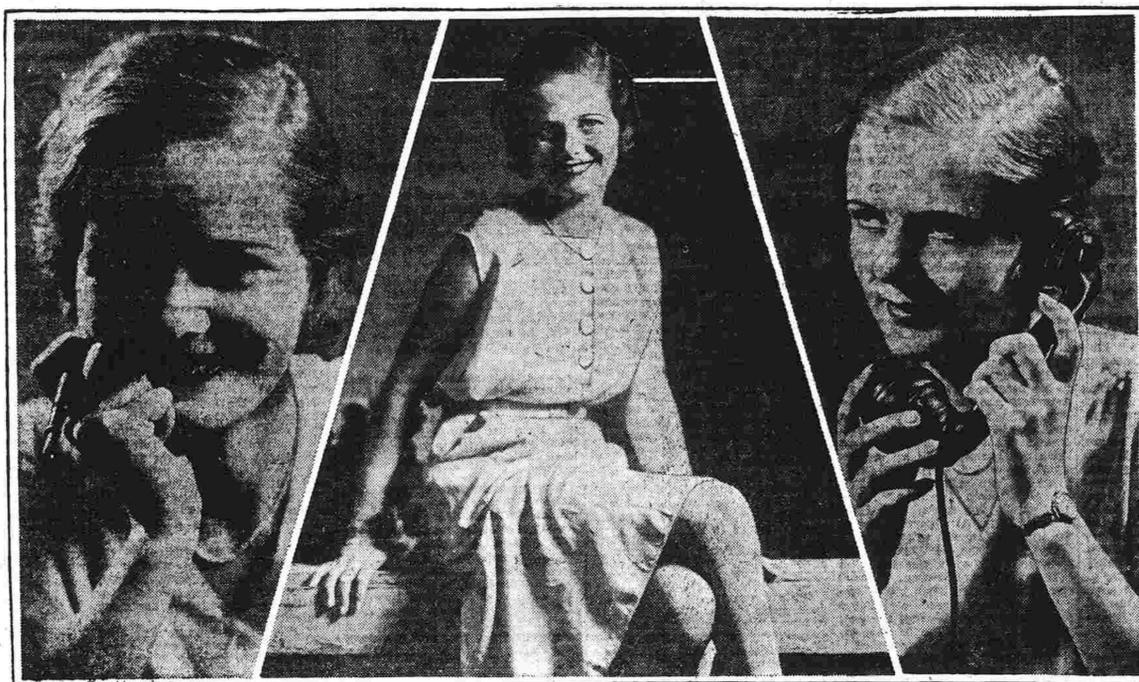

Plattsburgh, N. Y., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Privates James Courtney and Clarence Wolf of the 28th United States Infantry, stationed at Plattsburgh barracks, were arrested today charged with the murder last Monday night of David O. Mischler, a storekeeper of this city.

Courtney's home, before enlistment, was at Albany, and Wolf came from Waterbury, Conn.

District Attorney Andrew Ryan said he had ordered the arrest of the soldiers after prolonged questioning. He declined to reveal the nature of the information obtained.

For Ginger's Sake
BY ETHEL HUESTON

IMAGINE a minister's daughter starting a night club! And in a little corn belt town like Red Thrush, Iowa! . . . That's what Ginger Ella Tolliver did. Bored with small town life, impatient at the restrictions placed upon her lively imagination in the church-like atmosphere of Red Thrush, Ginger organized a Junior Country Club where parents, babies and ministers were barred, where joie de vivre became the "younger set's" shibboleth. . . . Whereupon Ginger, after falling in love with a nice young man, was kidnaped and held for ransom and the thrills came thick and fast. . . . "For Ginger's Sake" is a lively story without a dull minute, told with a sense of humor and a keen appreciation of the psychology of that part of young American known as flapper. . . . A story of gay youth from a youthful viewpoint, written by Ethel Hueston.

Trade School Squares Trimming Glastonbury

Captain Jolly, Viot and Sendrowski Too Clever For Lads From Our Southern Boundary; Score Is 36-17.

Manchester Trade school squared account with Glastonbury High school here yesterday afternoon by winning their basketball contest, 36 to 17, at the Rec gym. Glastonbury High is the only team that holds a victory over the local mechanics but you couldn't prove it by watching yesterday's one-sided struggle. Glastonbury fought hard but was simply outplayed by a smoother-passing, better-shooting team. The visitors used 14 players in their attempt to stem the tide of Trade school baskets but it was in vain. Captain Jolly and his mates were not to be denied. He was ably aided and abetted by Brothers Viot and Sendrowski. Friday the Trade school goes to Hartford to oppose Hartford Trade.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

Horses, golfers, fighters, ball players, boats and dogs are on the books for the sports season at Miami, Fla. The horses will start running there January 16, to continue for 45 days. Greyhounds have four tracks on which to pursue rabbits for the education of the tired tourists. The "big fight" this year, with W. L. Stribling as one of the probable participants, will have a charity angle. There will be 12 golf tournaments in what is known as "the metropolitan Miami area." Toward the close of the season at Biscayne Bay regatta will be held. The Miami publicity people also are writing up a "little world series" between the Cardinals and Athletics March 7 and 8. Even the wrestlers are part of the program. Not to mention jai-alai, it appears to be a pretty ambitious program.

Good Horses
Since Joe Widener, the Philadelphia millionaire sportsman became chairman of the board of the Jockey club last year, Miami racing has been on the upgrade. At the track this year will be 29 horses from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable. Marshall Field, Robert L. Gerry and others will have entries. Mose Lowenstein has 25 head of the Widener stable.

Fitz Cops Again
While on the subject of horses, it seems appropriate to mention the man whose way with thoroughbreds during 1930 won purses and stakes amounting to $424,385. The man is Trainer Jim Fitzsimmons. It was the greatest year of his career as a horse trainer. Fitz is employed by several stables. His chief care during the season in the north was the Belair Stud of William Woodward. Horses of this stable won $264,355 during 1930, of which $241,365 were won in with $341,365. Horses of the Wheatley stable trained by Fitz won $43,505. This was in spite of the fact that the stable's topliner, Diavolo, was out of it.

Jim trained the horses of H. C. Fhipps into $11,085 worth of purses, and other small stables. Jim closed up shop at Bowie, still with a doubt in his mind about Gallant Fox. "I don't really know how great that horse was," says Jim. "I never saw him give all he had. I do know this, though Gallant Fox never should have lost a race. In his first two starts as a two-year-old, mind you, he was left flat at the post. Just looking around at the world. "As for that Jim Dandy race, well—I just don't know. That's one for the books, I guess. Those things happen; that's the only explanation.

RAIN HANDICAPS GOLF QUALIFIERS

Raises Scores of Many Seeking To Enter $10,000 Tourney In Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Promise of clear weather tomorrow heartened America's golfing army after a soaking rain which yesterday caught more than 350 qualifying players as they sought the privilege of contesting for $10,000 in Los Angeles' sixth annual Open tourney.

Ninety-five of these weathered the storm through 36 holes of play to move into position with 38 exempted on a ready for the initial round over the par 68 Wiltshire Country Club course. Tied for low qualifying score with Willie Goggin and Ben Coltrin, was an eighteen-year-old high school lad, Danny Sangster, Los Angeles amateur who played through the rain with a 76 after going out in 70. Only eight were able to break 150, while scores as high as 165 permitted some of the field to qualify. Eighteen holes play feature the first two days, with the sixty leaders moving into Sunday's final thirty-six holes.

SPORT GLANTS

The biggest thrills in sport for 1930? There were two of them, so far as this observation post is concerned. From left to right—the second match of the International Post Cup series between America and England; the fifth game of the world's series in St. Louis.

Both had all the elements of drama—superlative individual and team performances, flashing action, suspense, and the final big punch. The picture was more brilliant at Meadow Brook, where man had the aid of his four-footed companion. The finish was more electrifying at Sportsman's Park, where Jimmy Foxx blasted the home run that broke down the resistance of Burleigh Grimes and the Red Birds.

The greatest performer of the year? A young resident of Atlanta who will dabble in golf as a sideline in 1931. The rarest feat? Three home runs in a single inning by Gene Rye in the Texas League. Or maybe we should mention the lion boy again.

The biggest upsets? The near-sweep of the Poughkeepsie regatta in June, if you get excited about rowing. Notre Dame's slaughter of Southern California, if you get excited about football. The loudest squawk? Emitted by Phil Scott in the second Battle of the Prostrate Palms at Miami. Or maybe it was the noise emanating from New Haven after Albie Booth was tackled a bit rough by those Army boys.

The biggest foul? Sir Thomas Lupton's challenge for the America's Cup. Or maybe Primo Camera deserves some mention. The biggest killing? Jim Dandy, 100 to 1.

One of the biggest tennis arguments of the waning year concerned the No. 1 ranking position in America and whether it should go to William Tatem Tilden II or John Hopy Doeg. It has been settled in private and behind double-barred doors by the national ranking committee. The findings of this committee must be kept strictly under the official cover until the annual sessions of the U.S.L.T.A. but, hush-hush and whisper it softly, we hear the decision was reached in favor of Master Doeg, with a minority report to be filed in behalf of Mr. Tilden.

Speaking of Big Bill, I find a very interesting summary in Stephen Wallis Merrihew's magazine, "A.L.T.," of Tilden's matches against the Three Musketeers of France over the period of 1925-30. These last five or six years have seen Big Bill hit the chutes, despite occasionally brilliant upturns in his performances, yet the record shows he has 14 victories against 12 Gallic rivals—Borotra, Lacoste and Cochet.

The details, however, show that the tall American battled over 500 of his matches with the Indian sign on Borotra, who lost all nine of his tussles with Tilden over the six-year span of 1925-30 in outdoor team or championship competition. Lacoste, in 1925, was the first to break Tilden's spell and has captured six out of nine matches. Cochet's mastery of the American has been the most convincing, however. Henri scored in seven out of nine engagements, including three out of four Davis Cup matches.

Johnny Wooden, Purdue's sensational basketball player, was a member of the Martinsville, Ind., high school team when it was the Hoosier state champion.

INSIDE STUFF—A BASKETBALL HUDDLE

Curious to know what transpires inside a huddle of basketball players, a photographer strapped his camera to the back of an ant and dispatched that industrious little individual into their midst. The result is pictured above. This is the West Alle (Wis.) high school quintet receiving a two-fingered signal, which means "you tip the ball to me and I'll shoot," or some other such strategic move.

This Game of GOLF

By O.B. KEELER

Billy Sixty is only half that number of years of age, and he gets into this column because, so far as I know, Billy is the only full-time newspaperman in the national amateur and the western amateur golf championships. Billy never has won either of these classics, and some others I might mention, who have written pieces for the paper more or less intermittently, have won one or both of the big amateur competitions. But Sixty's entire job is with the sports staff of The Milwaukee Journal. He writes a daily column and covers most of the important golf championships in this country. Mr. Sixty's original name, as I understand it, or, rather, as I have endeavored to understand it, is Scandinavian in tone and coloring and has been condensed into the very stridentive form to regard as a writing-name. Just as I heard one byfander, years ago when a certain eminent playwright and producer was a golf reporter, say: "You've got a swell writing-name. Fat McNui—now what's your real name?"

Billy broke out before he was quite 13 years old, at the Milwaukee Country club, by winning a cadet's championship, and he has played golf steadily and creditably ever since. At 18 he won the amateur event in connection with the Wisconsin F.G.A. championship, and next year won the championship of the Wisconsin municipal golfers' association. In 1925, Billy qualified in the western amateur at Detroit, and tallied by only two strokes of qualification in the national amateur at Oakland—that was the year they only qualified sixteen, and Francis Guimet and a lot of great golfers were left out.

He qualified in the western again the next year, lost in a play-off the following year, and in 1929 again qualified at Kansas City. In all three western championships and in the national, Sixty has lost in the first round, which made it more convenient for him to do his further reporting of the event, though he certainly is to be absolved of any intent on those grounds.

Among the records Billy Sixty has set, some of which still are upright, may be mentioned his 69 at the Grant Park course, South Milwaukee; later reduced to 68; his 69 on the Michawauke course; and his 67 at the Tripoli and Ozaukee courses. He holds the amateur record of 70 for the Brown Deer course, Milwaukee, and at Ozaukee in 1924 turned in an even 30 for the first nine, par 35.

I have encountered Billy in both a golfing and a writing capacity at many tournaments. He is a corking good golf reporter and feature writer. Naturally, though, he understands the game rather well; and I always have felt it would lend an air of authenticity to golf writing if the writer could stick around "Old Man Par" occasionally.

This writer never could do that. Billy can. I think he's the only bona fide working pressman in America who can.

Jack "Red" Beattie, co-star with Joe Jerwa at Portland, made an impressive major league debut as a forward when he went up to Boston. Beattie broke into the scoring with a goal and an assist in his first game and scored again in his second. Two more recruits broke into Boston's smoky array of forwards this year. "Smoky" Harris of Seattle and Art Chapman of Providence. Another coast league player, Ronnie Lyons came to Boston, but was traded to Philadelphia. In addition to adding two American Association players, Vic Des Jardines and Doc Romnes, to their big list of forwards at the start of the season, the Chicago Blackhawks signed up a third, Eddie Volka of Oakland, in December.

HARTFORD SKATERS HERE ON SUNDAY

Manchester skating fans will have an added attraction to lure them to Center Springs Pond next Sunday afternoon, the Hartford Parks Skating Club. With good skating conditions prevailing over the week-end, the Hartford outfit will appear on Manchester ice in full regalia to run off a series of speed races for the Club Championship.

The Hartford Parks Skating Club has as its president, Helel Cosker, the New England Women's speed skating champion. Other members of this club are Mary Fallon, figure skater, and James Cosker, speed artist and Ico La Belle, barrel jumper and all-around skating star.

The skating surface at Center Springs is in fine condition at the present time and if the weather holds cold, a fine exhibition will be put on by the Hartford Club next Sunday.

High School To Play Five Straight Games On Opponent's Courts

AL DOWD WINS ANOTHER FIGHT

Outpoints Pete Sharkey In Four Round Bout At Glens Falls; Crowd Pleased.

(Special To The Herald)
Glens Falls, N. Y., Jan. 8.—Al Dowd, known throughout this section of the state as a former Oklahoma state champion, but in reality a former amateur boxer from South Manchester, Conn., won a four round

Manchester High's basketball game with Meriden High at the State Armory here tomorrow night will be last home game for the Clarkmen in more than a month. This fact was made known today through a change in Manchester's schedule involving the games with Middletown High.

Middletown was originally scheduled to come to Manchester on Jan. 23 but the Armory floor is already assigned for the Poetry Show and there was some talk of playing the game at the Recreation Center gym. Informed of the circumstances, Middletown graciously offered to reverse the order of its two games with Manchester.

This means that after tomorrow night's encounter, with Meriden, Manchester will hit the road for five successive weeks. West Hartford, Middletown, Windham, Bristol and Meriden, will be played in succession on their own floors. Obviously Manchester has a real man's sized job cut out for it and if the red and white sail over these rough waves with not more than one defeat, they will be doing well.

The next home game will not be until February 20 when West Hartford comes here to be followed by Middletown, Rockville and Windham. Snow or no snow, there's going to be some pretty tough sledding for the Manchester quiet if it is to attain the C. C. L. title and also sink its second greatest rival, Williamite. Yet such a splendid piece of work is entirely within the power of Coach Clarke's talented squad.

Last night Meriden plucked another prize victim when it took the measure of Bulkeley High of Hartford in Meriden. The score was 30 to 22. Tomasseti, Meriden left forward, led the attack, with six baskets from the floor. West Hartford lost to Weaver last night 30 to 23. Angus and Phelps doing the bulk of the Weav's scoring. The summary of the Meriden-Bulkeley game follows:

Meriden (30)
Player	B.	F.	T.
Tomasseti, lf	6	1	13
Russell, rf	2	2	6
Mastriano, rf	0	1	1
Markowski, c	1	2	4
Krick, c	0	0	0
McGuinness, lg	0	0	0
Fay, lf	2	0	4
Fredericks, rg	1	0	2
Roberts, rg	0	0	0
12 6 30

Score at half time, Bulkeley 16, Meriden 15; referee, Ahern; time, 8 minute quarters.

Local Sport Chatter

The undefeated Northampton, Mass., basketball team is a challenge in yesterday's Springfield Union to the best teams in Massachusetts and Connecticut and included the Rec Five in their list of desirable opponents. Northampton has beaten among other teams, the House of David, Holyoke Mohawks and Philadelphia Colored Giants. Manager Nidvieski lives at 29 Clark Avenue in Northampton.

Rockville High defeated Enfield High Enfield Tuesday night 25 to 12. Tyler scored six field goals for the winners who led 18 to 3 at halftime.

The re-organized Bristol Endees trimmed the Hartford Kacey five badly in Hartford last night. The final score was 34 to 18. Waterman and Wojack were high scorers. White, Richtmyer and Sheehan rounded out the Endee lineup. The halftime score was 12 to 11, Endees.

In beating Bristol, Manchester proved it was not simply a front-runner. Many had the idea that Manchester was good only when leading, but overcoming a seven point Bristol lead midway in the third period, is nothing to be laughed at.

The Eagles will meet this evening at the Community Club over north at 7 o'clock. Many Manchester fans would not doubt like to see the Bristol Endees oppose the Rec Five here. Next Tuesday the Springfield Visitation Club, one of the two teams to beat the Rec, comes to town. This should be a great battle.

Last Night's Fights

Los Angeles, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight wrestler, won a bout here tonight from Henri De Glens, France, taking two out of three falls. Chicago—Natie Brown, California, outpointed Tom Jones, Chicago, 10.

STRIKES IN SWEDEN Stockholm, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Thirty-four thousand men in Swedish textile mills today voted a general strike beginning Jan. 12 as the government's efforts to arbitrate a wage dispute failed. Attributing the current depression to foreign competition and falling prices, mill owners have refused to accept a union demand for increased wages, but offered to maintain the present wage scale. The strike was declared as one group of employers demanded a forty per cent reduction in pay beginning Jan. 12. CANADIAN-AMERICAN HOCKEY STANDING Games Goals W. L. T. F. A. Pts. NO EXPLANATION YET FOR FALL FROM TRAIN Bridgeport, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Miss Wilhelmina C. Brown of West New Brighton, N. Y., a student of Connecticut College in New London who was found beside the track in Stratford, was reported by the officials at Bridgeport hospital as slightly improved. Miss Brown, the hospital reported, partly regained consciousness during the night, but her condition was still considered critical. Police were still without an explanation of the manner in which the student was injured. It is believed however that she either fell or was thrown from a train while enroute from her home to resume her studies at the college. Dr. Katharine Blunt, president of Connecticut College has expressed the opinion that Miss Brown fell off the train when seized by a fainting spell. During the past few months, Miss Blunt said, Miss Brown had been subjected to these spells. Miss Brown who is 20 years old, suffered a fractured skull. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Brown. STOP RACE RIOT Kansas City, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Police armed with riot guns and gas bombs maintained an all-night vigil at an apartment house here following demonstrations arising from a community protest against the renting of quarters to negroes. A crowd of white persons officers estimated at 600 gathered about the building last night after three negro families had moved in. The protesters shouted, but attempted no violence. After police had dispersed the crowd, nine carloads of negro taxi-drivers appeared. Searched for arms and then released, they infiltrated officers they were going to form reinforcements. This threat caused a guard of two dozen men to be thrown about the apartment. ROUND WORLD SERVICE San Francisco, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The Dollar Steamship Lines, operating a fleet of ships westward around the world on a fortnightly schedule, announced today it would institute an around the world service in an easterly direction. The first step in the establishment of the eastward service will be formation of a segment of the round the world voyage from Manila to New York, via China and Japan, Hawaii, San Francisco, Los Angeles, the Panama Canal and Havana.

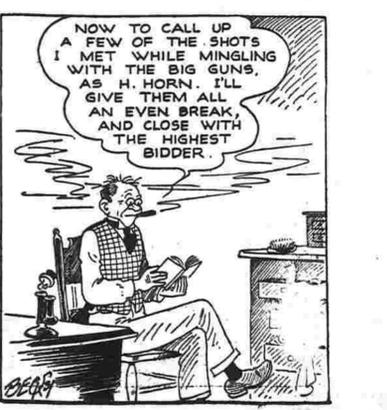

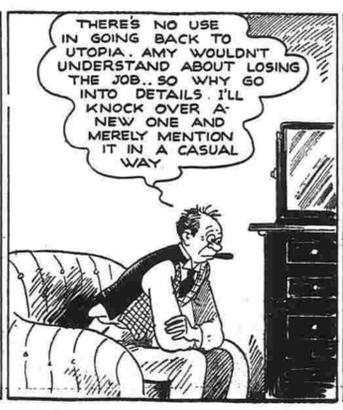

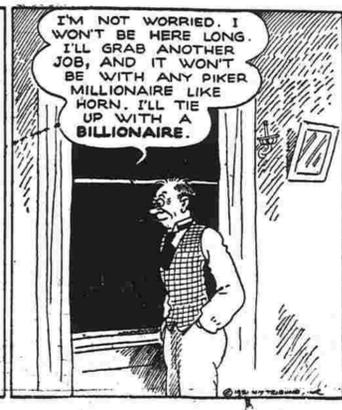

Advance Guards Thrusts and Counters Interest to Local Soldiers Co. G resumed its weekly drills Monday night. The evening's program consisted of close order drill, care and nomenclature of the rifle, customs of the service and inspection. The recruits who have been training separately were assigned to permanent squads and conducted themselves like old-timers during the drill that followed. Lieut. Hagedorn who was recently promoted to First Lieutenant assumed his new duties Monday night and the way the men responded to his commands was proof that they are pleased to see one of their former buddies moving up in military circles. "Ray" has received many letters from his brother officers in the Guard congratulating him on his promotion, an evidence of the esteem in which he is held by his military associates. The annual meeting of Co. G was held after Monday's drill. Reports were read and accepted. Sergeant Paganina was re-elected treasurer for the coming year. The high-light of the meeting's business was the unanimous vote of the Company to hold the annual banquet as usual. A committee consisting of Sergeants Bellucci and Pentland and Privates Skog, Shultz and Vince was chosen to make arrangements for same. It was voted to hold the banquet Saturday evening, January 17, in the armory. Former Corporal Patrick Conlon and Irwin Hayes are among the new men enlisting in Company G. They signed up Monday. The additions bring the Company up to 63 which is the maximum strength allowed by the state. There are several good men waiting to join the company and they will be accepted as fast as vacancies occur. The Company quarters are rapidly being put in shape for the annual Federal inspection. Private Jarvis who volunteered to paint the lockers and floors of the squad rooms has completed this work and is now varnishing the office equipment. He is doing a mighty fine job too. Supply Sergeant Murphy is putting in extra time getting his department in shape for the annual check-up. The Sergeant is the right man on the right job and will be ready when Feb. 4 rolls around. The Company room is certainly being well patronized this winter. Each night finds a group of Guardsmen in the room listening to the new radio, reading or engaged in an important pool match. The room is better and more evenly heated since the installation of the blower on the furnace making the quarters more comfortable for the men. Corporal William DeHan has been promoted to be a Sergeant in Company G according to a Special Order from headquarters, 169th Infantry. A school for automatic riflemen was started Monday evening. Private First Class William E. Clark is instructing the men under the supervision of First Sergeant McCavanaugh. Private Clark is a very capable automatic marksman and doubt the men will progress rapidly under his tutelage. Howitzer The annual meeting of the Howitzer Association was postponed for one week because of the lack of members present at the gathering Tuesday night. In order to do away with the old constitution and adopt the new one, there must be forty members present which constitute a quorum under the old regime. There were only thirty-six present, so no action could be taken. Captain Russell B. Hathaway reported last night that up to date, there is only one vacancy in the roster of the Howitzer Co. With the enlistment this week of George F. Hine, the enlisted strength is sixty-one men. The Howitzer Company expects to make a very fine showing in the coming Federal inspection. The bells were given another coating of green last night and the squads were kept very busy giving the guns a thorough cleaning. Corporal Phaneuf is the new self-appointed orderly of the non-com's room and Corporal Vitullo was selected as his assistant much to his regret. Private Clarence "Red" Goachee proved himself to be second to none in speech-making at a discussion that took place after drill. The Company is thinking very seriously of making him the new company debating champ. The basketball team was scheduled to play the Center A. C. Wednesday night but the former failed to put in an appearance. The new uniforms of the team have arrived and the team will make a very fine showing when they meet the Naval Reserves team of Hartford, Conn., at the next drill. SAYS MISSING CASHIER VISITED HIS PARENTS Waterbury, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Allen of 92 Uves street, this city, were in disagreement today on the truth of a report that their son, Clarence, New Haven railroad cashier, of Derby, missing from his home since December 17, has been at their home since Monday night. The elder Allen, who is also a railroad employee, was reached at his office, and he, while reluctant to discuss the case, said that his son was here and in a bad way from nervous breakdown. The nervous disorder, the father said, apparently lies back of Clarence's absencing himself without notice almost a month ago. Mrs. Allen, the mother, when reached at her home for further inquiries as to the condition of her son, denied that he was at her home at all, as her husband had said, and stated she did not know where he was. She also said she did not know where his wife and children were. Reports coming from Derby yesterday, placed Clarence and his wife and children all at the home of his parents here, stating that he came here Monday night from Chicago where he had been since his mysterious disappearance. HOLD HUB SUSPECT New York, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Frank Sheffington, 33, Boston chauffeur, was accused today of the theft of $5,000 worth of jewelry from an apartment on East 52nd street. Sheffington appeared in the police lineup this morning charged with having stolen the jewels last November 23 when he visited a maid in the apartment occupied by Francis E. Baker, an insurance man. Police said the chauffeur pawned the jewels. In June, 1928, police records showed, Sheffington was convicted of automobile theft in Boston and sentenced to a year in jail. ROPE LADDERS UNSAFE New Britain, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Building Inspector Arthur N. Rutherford said today that he would request Senator William Hagearty of this city to introduce in the General Assembly a measure to limit the requirement that hotels and rooming houses of non-proof construction be equipped with rope ladders. The inspector said that, in his opinion, rope ladders are an unsafe means of exit in buildings having stairways and corridors. Rutherford has ordered two dance halls here closed after an inspection of 70 halls used for social gatherings. TIDAL WAVE KILLS 6 Melbourne, Australia, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Six men were killed, one is missing and three were injured in the huge tidal wave which swept the coast of New Guinea on December 24, the Administrator of that territory reported today. The great wall of water from 25 to 50 feet high swept along the coast for 40 miles and rolled 300 yards inland, he said. The Sapora mission station and the Mandang trading settlement were wiped out. ROUND WORLD SERVICE San Francisco, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The Dollar Steamship Lines, operating a fleet of ships westward around the world on a fortnightly schedule, announced today it would institute an around the world service in an easterly direction. The first step in the establishment of the eastward service will be formation of a segment of the round the world voyage from Manila to New York, via China and Japan, Hawaii, San Francisco, Los Angeles, the Panama Canal and Havana.

PREHISTORIC SEAWEED San Diego, Cal., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Lincoln Ellsworth, Arctic explorer on his way today to Washington to receive a Congressional medal, has announced the discovery of fossil algae, or prehistoric seaweed, in the Funeral range of Death Valley. Ellsworth said as he left San Diego yesterday he found the deposits in a deep canyon, thirty feet above the valley floor. Association of granite and quartz with the specimens might prove them of pre-Cambrian age, he said. "In that case," he added, "the mountain range from whence they came must necessarily be millions of years older than the age now assigned to them." PARKER DEFENDS HOOVER'S STAND Says President Wants Rail Merger As It Will Provide Work For Many. Washington, Jan. 8.—(AP)—President Hoover's actions in connection with the proposed consolidation of eastern railroads into four trunk lines were defended in the House today by Chairman Parker, of the Interstate Commerce committee. The Chief Executive saw further delay in reaching an agreement as against the public interest, he said, and urged the railroad heads to take a plan for unification to the Interstate Commerce Commission. He denied Mr. Hoover had approved any detail of the proposed consolidation and asserted the commission was not to be influenced by Mr. Hoover's action. "Those who are accusing the President of the United States of usurping the authority of the commission should be specific and state what systems he has approved," Parker said. The speech answered contentions brought up in attacks which had been made in the House recently by Democrats on the President's actions in connection with the consolidation. Parker's Reply Parker said the President "is not concerned with the details of specific applications. He is concerned that there should be action where delay may bring impaired railway service." He predicted the consolidation if carried through would release millions of dollars in railroad construction and expansion providing employment for many. Chairman Cohnens of the Senate Interstate Commerce Commission announced today he had received several protests against the proposed consolidation from coal operators, who said it would tend to reduce competition. MANUFACTURERS' MOVIES New Haven, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Latest developments in engineering and manufacturing will be depicted in a series of eight motion picture performances which will be given by the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale in the Mason laboratory of mechanical engineering. The performances which are given annually will begin January 21 and conclude Feb. 26.—The general subjects of the pictures will include "Manufacturing," "Textiles," "Paper," "Wire Rope" and "The Sea." Two thousand years before Christ, Hammurabi made severe laws against rapacious money-lenders and made the protection of widows and orphans and of the weak against the strong the cardinal principles of law and morals.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

Love soon burns to ashes, when a man makes a fuel of himself.

There would be fewer divorces if there were more laughter and less censure in homes.

A minute later the boy returned and panting said: "Bell Hop—Yes, sir, the umbrella's still there, at the left of the wash stand."

STILL MAKING WHISKY

Mexico City.—The United States is still making whisky for popular consumption, but not within its own boundaries. ARRESTED FOR RUMPUS IN POLICE STATION

Gets Into Argument With Chief S. G. Gordon, Is Charged With Breach of the Peace.

Alexander Kerr of Hartford formerly of this town, came out here yesterday afternoon and as a result was in the Manchester police court this morning charged with breach of the peace. He paid a fine of $15 and cost. The trouble was brought about because of his mother who is now an inmate of the retreat at Norwich. Kerr went to see Chief Gordon about the matter and used profane language. As a result he was arrested on the above charge. Chief Gordon on the witness stand said that on December 30 he received a complaint about a woman walking around in the vicinity of Maple street who was apparently demented. The chief sent a patrolman to investigate and it was learned that the woman in question was Mrs. Kerr, mother of Alexander Kerr. She was brought to the police station and the patrolman said her condition was such that she should be placed in some institution and that her home was a proper place for her to remain in. The matter was taken up with the charity commissioner and she was committed to the hospital at Norwich. It seems that Kerr knew nothing about the commitment and he admitted in court this morning that he had not seen his mother since Christmas day. He was evidently disturbed over the fact that his mother was committed without his knowledge, and acknowledged that he lost his temper when talking to the chief. After the court session Kerr said his mother had money enough to support herself and the retreat was a place for her. It is understood that he will make an effort to secure her release.

BUCKLAND YOUNG MAN FACES SERIOUS CHARGE

Arrested For Carrying Concealed Weapons May Have To Answer For This, Etc.

Hartford police are holding James Downey, 22, of 597 North Main street, Buckland, under bond of $500 awaiting an investigation which may lead to charges of theft and carrying concealed weapons being lodged against the Manchester man. Downey was arrested yesterday afternoon in Hartford by Detective Philip H. Dooley of Hartford following the report of a petty theft at one of the public buildings in Hartford. This might have not been serious had not the police found Downey to be in possession of two revolvers. One was a Colt weapon which the police declare was illegally obtained. Downey was temporarily charged with breach of peace pending a thorough investigation. Downey who has been assisting the janitor at the Y. M. H. A. building on Ann street in Hartford, was brought before Judge Bonee this morning and had his case continued until Saturday morning. Edward H. Hooper, 22, of East Hartford was arrested shortly after Downey was taken into custody. Police say he aided and abetted Downey by hiding the Colt gun at his home at the Manchester man's investigation. Detective Dooley was not ready to say this morning, although he did state that it was possible that two additional charges would be lodged against Downey.

LEGISLATIVE TRAIN POORLY PATRONIZED

The special train that is made up in Putnam each morning while the Legislature is in session to carry members of the Legislature to Hartford was put on for the first time yesterday. It makes no stop at Manchester as the Manchester representatives as well as the senator from this district travel by automobile to and from the Legislative hall. It was noticed yesterday and again today that the number using the train has fallen off as compared with the travel of ten years ago. Less than ten were on the train yesterday.

PATTON AS GUEST OF WTIC JAN. 16

Former Local Man, Famous Baritone, To Be "Travelers' Hour" Soloist.

Fred Patton, who left the silk mills here and became one of the most brilliant luminaries in the operatic firmament, a baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company and a featured soloist on many of the nation's foremost radio programs, has been engaged as guest soloist of "The Travelers' Hour" to be transmitted from Station WTIC Friday night, January 16. Patton has achieved the heights in his profession. He has been soloist with many of the outstanding symphony orchestras, oratorio societies, and opera companies in the United States and Canada. He has been re-engaged many times, one notable example being his 23 concert appearances under the direction of Walter Damrosch. The list of the organizations in which he has been featured includes the New York Symphony Orchestra, New York Mendelssohn Glee Club, New York Schola Cantorum, the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and symphony orchestras in Detroit, Cincinnati, San Francisco, and numerous other cities. His operatic conquests have included engagements with the Metropolitan, San Francisco, Philadelphia Civic, Cincinnati, San Carlo, Washington, and United States Grand Opera companies and over the air with the WEAF National Grand Opera Company. Some of his more prominent radio engagements have included the Adwater Kent Hour, General Motors Party, A & P Gypsies concerts, and the Eveready Hour.

Patton was born in South Manchester, where he has a home in the north of Ireland. He attended South Manchester's public schools, but because the Patton family was not overly blessed with the world's goods, the boy left at the age of 14, whereupon he went to work in the Cheney silk mills. An amusing incident has been related that demonstrates that Fred Patton's voice has a quality all its own. Mrs. Robert K. Anderson, to whom Patton gives credit for the discovery of his voice while still a school boy, happened into the New York Hippodrome while the tabloid version of "Faust" was being presented there by the Zuro Opera Company. It so happened that she had no program, and when Mephisto, sung by Patton, appeared, she whispered to Mr. Anderson, "That man's voice is the nearest to Fred Patton's of any baritone I have ever heard."

No doubt Patton's host of admirers here will tune in next week Friday to hear him sing.

COPY OF CHILDREN'S CHARTER RECEIVED

Photograph of Original Document On Child Health Is Delivered To Boy Scout Executive.

A photographic copy of "The Children's Charter," which summarizes nineteen points of the conclusions of the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection held recently, has been received by Field Executive Joseph E. Dean of Manchester Council, Boy Scouts of America, from Chief Executive James E. West of National Headquarters. The copy is in reduced size and is suitable for framing, and was taken from the original sent to "Chief" West by President Hoover.

The charter was the outcome of President Hoover's White House conference on child health and protection which recognized the rights of citizenship and pledged itself to these aims for the children of America, or more specifically for every child, regardless of race or color, or situation, wherever he may live under the protection of the American flag.
