

TO GET FIGURES ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Washington, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Plans formed by the Labor Department for collection and publication of employment reports as provided by last year's Wagner bill are to cost slightly less than $80,000 during the next fiscal year.

The item was included in the Bureau of Statistics appropriation in the four department supply bill reported today to the House, and was not represented by officials as making possible the carrying out of the legislation's provisions.

TOO RAPID A RECOVERY FROM SLUMP DANGEROUS

St. Louis, Jan. 13.—(AP)—The nation will be fortunate if it does not make a too rapid a recovery from the business slump, Col. C. T. Robbins, president of the American Life Convention, an organization of life insurance companies, said in a statement issued for publication today.

"There are two reasons why too sharp a recovery from present conditions would not be good," he said. "First, the price we are paying for this lesson in economic fundamentals is too high to be entirely lost and that is what would occur should business make a sensational recovery."

MENCKEN PRAISES AMERICAN POETESS

Hails Lizette Woodworth Reese As Most Distinguished Woman In City.

Baltimore, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—H. L. Mencken, usually caustic in his criticisms of life and letters, changed his role last night in paying tribute to Lizette Woodworth Reese, the poet, who has just reached the age of 75.

"She is one of the imperishable glories of American letters, and she is the most distinguished woman who has ever lived in this town," said Mencken at a meeting of the Poetry Society of Maryland at which Miss Reese was guest of honor.

Writes True Poetry "All the rages and follies, the postures and artificialities of her time have left her unmoved and her work unmarred. She has never forsaken true poetry to write metaphysical treatises, or catalogues of college yells. She writes always like the true poet that she is, without guile and out of the heart."

"Miss Reese has enriched the life of Baltimore as none of them has and she will be remembered when they are forgotten," he said, referring to the absence of "certain high dignitaries of state" at the meeting. These, he said, "are detained for tonight the job-holders at City Hall are holding a banquet. In any great European city, I suppose, they would be present to join in our homage."

Miss Reese, for 45 years a teacher in the public schools, retired in 1921. Her verse is widely known and she has been eulogized by critics other than Mencken as "the foremost figure in American lyric poetry." One of her best known works is "The Sonnet Tears."

CLARA BOW'S SECRETARY IS CHARGED WITH THEFT

Los Angeles, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—The legal equivalent of the theater's "standing room only" sign was dusted off today for a trial in Superior Court, where Clara Bow, filmdom's flaming haired flapper, was billed to appear in the trial of Daisy De Boe, her former secretary.

Miss De Boe is charged in 37 counts with stealing from her employer, $16,000 from her erstwhile employer. Details of what it costs a film star of the first magnitude to live, and of how the Bow menage expended $360,000 in less than two years, were programmed for the second day of the trial.

MODERN BUSINESS

Berlin.—Business has been bad all over Germany, but the manager of a theater at Mannheim hasn't let that worry him. Germany Fails to Deliver Skull of African Sultan, As Pledged in Peace Pact

By MILTON BRONER

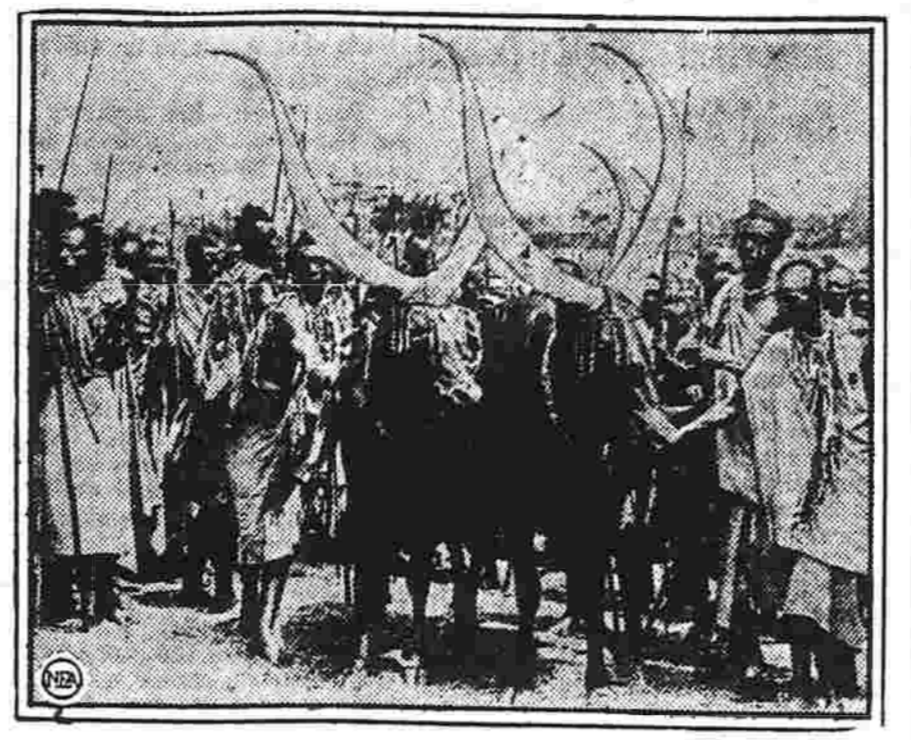

London, Jan. 7.—"We want Mikwa's skull!" In the tropical forests of Tanganyika, Africa, when the moon shines full through the trees, Wahehe tribesmen are chanting this demand to the accompanying rattle of native drums.

"We want Mikwa's skull! All virtue is gone out of us! We no longer are the warriors we were. Bravery has sneaked from our hearts. Wisdom has left our brains. Magic has deserted our efforts! We want Mikwa's skull!"

And the yearning still is unanswered. It's all Germany's fault. Germany has failed to fulfill the Treaty of Versailles. This time it is Great Britain that is involved. The last time it was France that claimed a section of that treaty had not been carried out.

It seems that Sultan Mikwa was quite a man in his day. Tanganyika, formerly German East Africa, is inhabited mainly by blacks of the Bantu tribe. Back in 1905 Mikwa was Sultan of the Wahehe people. Before his time, they never had been considered a sulke, but in that year they suddenly flared up into open rebellion against German rule, which was considered harsh and oppressive.

Mikwa showed himself such a clever and warlike leader that his tribesmen looked upon him as having magic powers. Natives Fought Bravely The Germans found him a difficult foe to overcome. In fact, the rebellion lasted not only through the year 1905, but extended this. The Foreign Secretary really won, of course, but not so much by licking the Wahehe warriors as by destroying their crops and thus starving them into submission. It was estimated that 120,000 natives died in that way. Now the natives of Africa have some strange beliefs. There are tribes who believe that if they eat the flesh of a brave animal like a lion, some of its bravery will be imparted to them. So, with the Wahehe tribesmen, it was believed that the possession of the skull of a great warrior, who also possessed magic against the enemy, would impart that faculty to them. They wanted the old Sultan's skullbox. It would help them figure a way out of their troubles. It would help them fight, if need be. It would give them the magical faculty of licking the foe.

It was at the request of natives like these that article 346 was written into the Treaty of Versailles. The Tanganyika warriors pictured above are part of the Wahehe tribe which is asking, through Great Britain, the return of the skull of their great Mikwa, fighting sultan of a generation ago.

That is why article 246 was written into the Treaty. It is, perhaps, the oddest article that was ever written into a great treaty between big nations. THINK GIRL KIDNAPED

Denver, Colo., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Police and sheriff's officers today sought Alice Humphreys, 13-year-old daughter of I. B. Humphreys, millionaire oil man, who disappeared from her grandmother's home here early this morning. Relatives feared she had been kidnaped.

Her absence was discovered about 1 o'clock, when her mother was attracted by a light in the child's room. A note in the bed read: "I have not been kidnaped. Do not call the police—Alice." Mrs. A. E. Humphreys, grandmother of the missing girl, said she saw her granddaughter safely to bed at 9 o'clock and was certain she was still there at 11 o'clock.

I. B. Humphreys, father of the child, was the mark of an attempted blackmailing plot in 1920. Her grandfather, the late A. E. Humphreys, died several years ago as the result of a mysterious gunshot wound.

South Ashfield, Mass.—E. W. Blakeslee, 80, is going around town with his chest puffed out. The reason is that he is an eleven-pound baby boy which was born to his wife recently. It makes Blakeslee one of the oldest "new" fathers in the United States. Another child was born to the couple in 1927.

Nicaraguan Canal Spells Doom To Dreams Of Mexican Pacific Town

Salina Cruz, Oaxaca, Mexico.—(AP)—Long cherished dreams that this Pacific port might revive to its position of 20 years ago have died, now that the Nicaraguan canal appears a certainty of the future.

And so buzzards lazily wheel over a once proud harbor, whose entrance is so choked with sand that one may walk dryshod across it; rust-eaten port machinery once valued at $14,000,000; floods wash down the Sierras into the streets and the weekly train ambles in and out of town—and nobody cares. Salina Cruz died 15 years ago when the first ship sailed through the Panama Canal for it was trans-oceanic shipping on which the prosperity of the place depended. Hopes for its revival were based upon the fact that the volume of shipping was becoming too great for the Panama waterway thus creating a prospect that cargoes might again have to cross from the Atlantic to the Pacific by land.

But the American army surveys of Nicaragua show the feasibility of another canal, and word from the United States indicates the probability of a start on its construction within a few years. So those who have struggled along here, living on hope, have packed their scant belongings and boarded the weekly train.

Time was when 48 long freight trains pulled into and out of Salina Cruz daily. The railroad yards and docks were beehives of industry, great ships stood out in the roads awaiting their turns at the docks, the town bustled night and day and money was free and easy.

But when the Panama Canal opened and it no longer was necessary to trans-ship cargoes, Salina Cruz became a way point overnight. Rail service dwindled rapidly to two trains daily, then to one bi-weekly and now passenger trains creep in only once every seven days, crawling along over rusty rails that barely cling to a roadbed in which no one takes any interest.

Puerto Mexico, 143 miles away on the east coast, escaped the fate of Salina Cruz because oil was discovered on the eastern side of the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. But nothing comparable to the magic of "black gold" happened to keep Salina Cruz awake.

The old route was ideal from a transportation standpoint so long as trans-shipments were necessary between the oceans. The line ran 143 miles over hills no higher than 500 feet above sea level. The first survey was made by American engineers as long ago as the civil war and the road was built a decade later.

In the heyday of the port it was possible to unload a ship, get the cargo on trains and reload again at Puerto Mexico on the Atlantic in 48 hours. But most of the sturdy laborers who accomplished such tasks have drifted back into the hills where tropical nature supplies them with a living at less cost to muscles.

The Suez canal is 103 miles in length.

Community Service Is Creed Of New $4,000,000 Riverside Church

"Riverside Church will be available for service not only to its particular church family but to the whole community. Its use will not be confined to formal religious services on Sunday or at any stated times but its facilities will be available to the public every day of the year."

Riverside Church

The broad conception of community service by Riverside Church extends from spiritual aid under the guidance of its religious staff to physical training provided in its gymnasium and bowling alley. Other features include an assembly room equipped for stage and motion picture shows, a nursery department, sewing room, library and reading rooms and facilities to take care of refreshments for social gatherings.

Patterned after the great Gothic cathedral of Chartres and built of limestone inside and out, Riverside Church rears skyward 400 feet. Its tower is the highest of all the churches in America and supports the largest carillon in the world.

Cornerstone of the new church, which is a development of the former Park Avenue Baptist church, was laid in 1927. Fire did $2,000,000 damage to the scaffolding and masonry in 1928.

Although it follows the 13th century lines of architecture, its masonry houses one of the heaviest steel frameworks ever constructed. This was necessary to support the massive carillon with its 65 bells.

The nave has 744 pews of black oak and seats about 1500. Galleries contain space for 1000 additional worshippers. The nave is 100 feet high, 215 feet long and 89 feet wide.

The church is located at Riverside drive and 122d street. It has six entrances, the main portal of which is on the drive.

The church has many elaborate decorations. The principal events of Christ's life are recorded in the stone sculpture of the Riverside portal. Carvings representing a city and the struggle between good and evil as well as figures of the world's greatest scientists, philosophers and religious leaders are included.

The chapel, which was inspired by the 12th century French Gothic chapel of Carcassonne, seats 200 and is used for small weddings, funerals and other occasions for which the nave would be too large. Carvings carry out such topics as the Lord's Supper and the Christ of the Transfiguration.

The ten aisle windows of the nave feature the dark blue color motif of the Cathedral of Chartres, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., took an active interest in the execution of these, making many suggestions which were included in the design. The following subjects are represented: children, scholars, music, Christ and humanity, internationalism, material creation, state and government, history of the Bible, reformers and agriculture.

Although the opening was held on Oct. 3, formal dedication of the new church will not be held until Feb. 8, 1931. Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick is pastor.

"BEAU IDEAL" IS ANOTHER FOREIGN LEGION THRILLER

Sequel to "Beau Geste" Is Entertaining, But It Doesn't Equal the First Film, Says Critic.

BY DAN THOMAS NEA Service Writer

Hollywood, Jan. 13.—The French Foreign Legion appears to be gaining considerable favor with film producers as a background for their pictures these days. We have seen two such productions within the last few weeks and understand there are two or three more in the offing.

The most recent to make its appearance is "Beau Ideal," a sequel to the highly praised "Beau Geste," made as a silent film several years ago.

"Beau Ideal" was made by Herbert Brenon, who directed "Beau Geste," and there is one man of the original cast, Ralph Forbes, back again. As you may remember, Forbes as John Geste was the only one of the three Geste brothers who survived the terrific battle in "Beau Geste."

Save Legion Fort "Beau Ideal" carries on from where "Beau Geste" left off. Forbes is sentenced to 10 years in the penal battalion for having killed a superior officer during that battle. Lester Vail, who plays the role of Otis Madison, the American pal of the Geste brothers, learns of this from Loretta Young, Forbes' sweetheart, and sets out to find his friend.

From then on there are the usual battles that might be expected in a film with a Foreign Legion background, and in the end both Forbes and Vail are freed for their part in saving a Legion fort from capture.

Although Brenon did not do quite as good a job with this production as he did with "Beau Geste," the film offers a good evening's entertainment and should be a money-maker.

Another of this week's previews which we caught was Louis Wolheim's first directorial effort, "Sin Ship." Wolheim's direction is above reproach, although he is entirely out of place as the leading character in the picture.

In our opinion, Wolheim doesn't belong in romantic roles. Mary Astor is also miscast in her role of a woman of the streets. Although she did some good work, there is too much of a refined air about her to make her part convincing.

With the proper players in the principal roles, "Sin Ship" could have been an excellent film. But in its present state, it is just a bit below average. The story itself is powerful and handled in such a manner as to hold the audience's interest right to the finish. Wolheim, the hard-boiled skipper of a trading schooner, is converted to righteousness by Miss Astor, while she and Ian Keith, her wicked partner, are making a get-away aboard Wolheim's ship disguised as a minister and his wife.

Mary is so impressed by the change she has made in Wolheim that she decides she also wants to go straight, but is prohibited from doing so by Keith until the latter is shot by a detective who has followed them to their hide-out. As the detective has no warrant for Mary, he allows her to go free and she sails away with Wolheim.

HARVEY IS NAMED IN LEGAL ACTION

New York Official Is Involved In Plan To Develop Connecticut Property.

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—George U. Harvey, borough president of Queens, and the directors of North Shore Properties, Inc., are named in a Supreme Court complaint alleging "wasteful expenditures" in the operation of the company. Mr. Harvey has been head of the firm since 1928.

Mrs. Anna T. Dunham, a widow of Danbury, Conn., brought the action, seeking an accounting of assets and management. She invested her life savings of $3,500 in the firm's developments at Danbury and Torrington, Conn.

The complaint recites that the company sold stock valued at $184,000 but collected only $92,000, $49,000 of which was paid out in commissions.

Danbury, Jan. 13.—(AP)—North Shore Properties, Inc., acquired property here in 1927 and announced its intention of erecting a modern apartment house containing 700 rooms and 130 garages and designed to house 140 families. An office was opened here for the sale of stock in the enterprise. Eventually the scheme was dropped and creditors attached the land.

COLUMBIA DRAMATISTS TO PLAY AT THE PARK

Highlands Community Club Members To Witness Two Presentations Saturday.

A program of unusual interest is in course of preparation for Saturday evening of this week at the Highland Park Community club. The entertainment committee has secured the services of the dramatic club of the Columbia Congregational church to repeat two plays. One is a modern mystery tale in one act under the title of "Let There Be Light" by the pen of Faith Van Valkenburgh Vilas. It will be presented by a cast of twelve people. The other is also a one-act drama, "And He Came to His Father," with ten actors in the cast. This play is written by Erna Kruckemeyer.

of A. E. Lyman will play selections from "Shulamith." The entertainment will begin at 8:15 and it is hoped everybody in the community will make an effort to be at the clubhouse to enjoy it.

MILLIONS IN SPECIAL TAXES

Buyers of fire insurance indirectly but actually contribute a vast sum—approximately 30 million dollars annually—in taxes, most of which are of a special nature and in addition to the regular taxes borne by insurance companies. Such taxes are a burden upon the premium of the policyholder, notwithstanding they are collected from the companies.

The original purpose of taxes on the premiums paid by policyholders was to maintain state supervision of the business. However, such supervision now uses but a few cents of each dollar so collected. The balance goes into the general funds of the states.

Add to the Cost of Insurance These special and regular state taxes are factors in the cost of insurance. The opinion of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States has been expressed as follows: "... Special state taxes now levied on policyholders through insurance companies should not be considered as a source of general revenue, but should be reduced to the total in each state which will adequately support such state's departmental supervision..."

David Belasco's Brother Quitting As Postman After 40 Years

BY SHERMAN MONTROSE NEA Service Writer

San Francisco.—Forty years in Uncle Sam's service as postal clerk and mail carrier is ended and Sollie Belasco, the famous theatrical producer is retiring with his own philosophy:

"Every man to his wife's work; let him do the job well and he will get his greatest enjoyment in the fulfillment of it."

Sollie, veteran employe of the San Francisco postoffice, says he has walked 250,000 miles since he began carrying the mail in the late '80s—and he's pretty tired. So, when 1931 arrives, he will lay aside the mail bag that has served him so faithfully, and quit.

In the dim aisles of the mail sorting room, Belasco is rated by fellow workers as one of the most conscientious, most faithful. They tell you that several months ago Sollie became ill and had to go to bed. As soon as he was able to get on his feet again he sneaked back to the postoffice and the superintendent found him sorting the mail for his route, apparently feeling that no one else could do his job as it should be done.

Brother Joined Circus Sollie became a postman when the Belasco family lived here, long before David was training Mrs. Leslie Carr to star in "Maryland." David, it seems, had been a different sort, the routine life of a postman hadn't appealed to him, so at an early age he became a circus bareback rider and eventually drifted into the theater.

Glamour and glory gathered about the name of Belasco with David patterning all his fame. Meanwhile, Sollie went his patient, modest way. He worked long and hard, he was a good husband and father and he sent his two sons and a daughter through the University of California.

Sollie is proud of David's wonderful career, but he doesn't envy his famous brother. He's not the sort that would envy. He loves his brother, and that's apparent when David's name is brought up.

"We haven't seen each other in many years, not since our parents died," Sollie says. David came west then. He was very sad. He said he would never come back here again. Memories of the old days hurt him too much. David has been very sick, but

POLICE COURT

Alfred Vosburgh, who came to Manchester last April and boarded at the Hotel Sheridan for a time, then left without settling his bill, was brought back to Manchester this morning from Bridgeport.

In police court he pleaded guilty to attempting to defraud the hotel of the amount due them, and was fined $25 and costs, which amounted to $54.97. This amount together with the board bill was settled in full. Attorney George Lesser was counsel for Vosburgh.

Prosecuting Attorney Charles R. Hathaway who had made an investigation of the case found Vosburgh had a reputation in other towns for doing the same thing. When he left here last April Chief of Police Samuel G. Gordon made an effort to locate him and finally found him in Brooklyn, N. Y. Later he learned he was in Bridgeport and yesterday Lieutenant William Barron went to Bridgeport and brought him here.

Scientist Sees End of World.

A definite end of the world is foreseen by Sir Arthur Eddington, above, noted British scientist. He stirred physicists in many countries when, in an address before the Mathematical Association in London, he predicted that the universe ultimately would "become a ball of radiation, growing ever larger, about every 1,500,000,000 years it will double its radius and its size."

Italy Lines War Frontier With Great Mausoleums

Trento, Italy.—(AP)—The 1,940 military cemeteries scattered along Italy's war-torn northeastern frontier, embosoming the bodies of 300,000 Italians and 200,000 Austrians, are being regrouped into a dozen monumental mausoleums.

The bodies of American soldiers who died in Italy have been carried back to the United States, but each year on Memorial Day a great "roll of the fallen" tolls from the ruins of a medieval castle at Rovereto in their honor. And a bronze tablet on the municipal palace of Riva on Lake Garda records the participation of the 32nd Regiment of the American Expeditionary Force to the battle of October 24, 1918, against the Austrians.

But the Italian and Austrian dead have been buried where they fell, often side by side. In consequence, the former battlefield has become a chain of small cemeteries. General John Pershing has been named by the Government special graves commissioner to regroup these cemeteries so that they can be given the attention which it is almost impossible to distribute among so many different burying places.

The Italians are turning from cemeteries to mausoleums because of the great conservation of space made by the latter. Already a stupendous mausoleum has been begun at Asiago. It will be 180 feet high and 275 feet square. It will hold 28,000 bodies, comprising 12,500 Italians identified and 15,500 unidentified.

Twenty-five cemeteries will be exhumed for the ossuary at Schio. This, with a length of 625 feet, in the form of a cross, and a doorway 25 feet in height, will contain 3,728 identified bodies, and 350 unidentified bodies. It will connect with the church of the Holy Trinity. A chapel will be built at the center of the cross, containing 42 silver medals of valor and 25 of bronze.

Each of the new mausoleums will be in the center of a park and will be of an imposing architecture designed to remind future generations of the bravery of half a million men who made the supreme sacrifice.

STELLAR PERFORMERS ON ICE TO BE HERE

Miss Marion Davenport, Eddie Crane and Others To Exhibit At Annual Carnival.

The Ice Carnival committee has secured as added attractions for the big ice event scheduled for Feb. 1 at Center Springs Pond, Miss Marion Davenport of Springfield, Mass., known as "Springfield's Queen of the Ice," whom it will be remembered, showed to advantage last year in her natty black and red costume in a number, entitled "Youth and Grace." Last year Miss Davenport, the accomplished several difficult evolutions, seemingly against the laws of gravitation.

Eddie Crane of Boston, ice comedian par-excellence, who kept the crowd in stitches last season will again be seen at Center Springs when the curtain rises on Carnival sports.

Leo LaBelle and Basilier of Hartford have been secured for a comedy act. They will be remembered for their "Bank and Hannah" comedy cut-ups of last year. Basilier, in addition to being a comedy performer is the New England Speed Skating Champion, and will demonstrate his ability at the Carnival.

More skating talent will be seen on Center Springs ice Feb. 1, than ever before in the history of skating in Manchester. Manchester is well located in the center of New England skating and through friendships with skaters from other sections, formed with Manchester's own skating champs, large numbers of the East's best skaters have signified their intention of attending Manchester's big ice event.

Hartford Mother Solves Problem

MY little daughter, Thelma, has caused me many anxious moments," says Mrs. C. A. Field, 83 Capitol Avenue, Hartford, Conn. "She was dizzy, didn't want to play and had very little appetite."

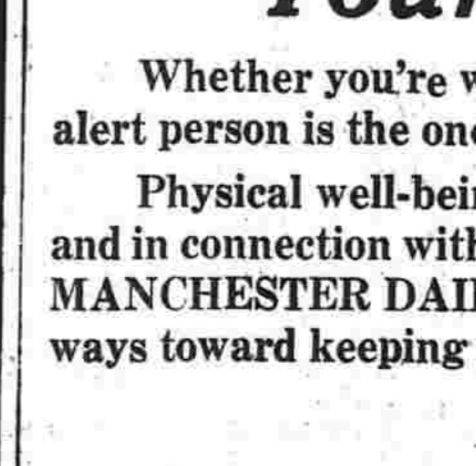

"She suffered from constipation until I decided to give her some California Fig Syrup. Fig Syrup built Thelma up remarkably. She is now strong and active; has a good appetite and digestion; is quite the picture of health as you can see."

For over 50 years, California Fig Syrup has been helping bilious, headache, weak, constipated babies and children. Doctors by thousands recommend this pure vegetable product. Children love its flavor. It acts gently to open the bowels in colds or children's diseases. It cleanses a child's system harmlessly and in a hurry. Bowels become regular with its use and remain so, because they are soened and strengthened by this wonderful combination of pure fig syrup and elixir of senna.

Look for the name California when buying. That marks the genuine.

Murder At Bridge

by ANNE AUSTIN author of "THE BLACK PIGEON"; "THE AVENGING PARROT" and "MURDER BACKSTAIRS" © 1930 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

"BONNIE" DUNDEE is in New York investigating the murders of JUANITA SELIM and DEXTER SPRAGUE, and learns from SERENA HARRIS, successful stage star, that Nita married in 1918, was soon deserted, but not divorced. In 1922, a picture of Nita appeared with the story about the suicide of ANITA LEE, which was printed in Hamilton. Nita comes to Hamilton after showing strange excitement over pictures of Hamilton people, and deposits $10,000 in cash. Dundee wonders if this were "back alley money" from a husband who had married after he thought she was dead.

Four of Dundee's possible suspects married between 1922 and the time of Nita's death—JUDGE MARSHALL, owner of the death weapon; JOHN DEARE, TRACY MILES and FETTER DUNLAP. After failing to find a record of Nita's marriage in New York, Dundee is summoned home by a wire from the district attorney. At home, Dundee finds a note under his door, advising him to look up WHO'S WHO in the servant entries. He learns from her that she did not cover the parrot's cage the night before, although it is covered now, and that the house of WHO'S WHO is misplaced, but she says she didn't touch it.

When she goes, he sees the note is written on his own typewriter and stationery, and is suspicious. Standing away from the register, he takes the book, and immediately a silent bullet whizzes by. A string, attached to the book, pulls the trigger. Dundee recovers the gun, and finds one of the holes in the hot air register had to be enlarged to hold the muzzle of the gun, equipped with the silencer.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLVI

Dundee laughed, the parrot which had saved his life, echoed his mirth raucously, as his eyes lit upon the following lines of fine print halfway down the third column of page 410 of "Who's Who in America."

BURNS, William John, detective; b. Baltimore, Oct. 19, 1861.

"Aunt and a joke which turned sour, my dear Watson!" he exclaimed to the parrot. "A joke I was not intended to live to laugh over!"

He closed the book and replaced it in the bookcase, careless of fingerprints, for he was sure the murderer had been too clever to leave any behind him in that room—or upon the gun and silencer either, for that matter.

Interestingly, Dundee surveyed the scene of his attempted murder. If he had unsuspectingly gone up to the high shelf to reach for the book he would have stood so close to the register that there would have been powder burns on his shirt front—just as there had been on Dexter Sprague's. And he would have been shot so near an open window—no chance for fingerprints there, either, since he had not closed the windows on his departure for New York, not wishing to return to a stuffy apartment—that the police would have been justified in thinking he had been shot from outside. It was an old-fashioned house in more ways than in the manner of its heating. Outside of one of his two uncurtained windows there was an iron grating—the topmost landing of a fire escape. Dundee could imagine Captain Strawn's positiveness in placing the murderer—crouching in wait for his victim.

"Yes, damned ingenious, this attempted murder! Undoubtedly Strawn would have dismissed the note as the work of a crank, not hitting upon the fact that it had been written in the very room, on Dundee's own typewriter and stationery. Strawn might even have got a mournful sort of amusement out of the fact that Dundee had been advised to call upon a great detective than himself for assistance! Yes, ingenious indeed! And so amazingly simple—

Suddenly the young detective snatched for his hat. If the murderer were so ingenious in this case, might he not have been equally clever in planning and executing the murder of Nita Leigh Selim?

Twenty minutes later he parked his car in the rutty road before the Selim house in Primrose Meadows, and hopped to the doorbell to attract the attention of the plain-clothesman Captain Strawn had detailed immediately after the murder to guard the premises during the day. There was no answer. And a violent ringing of the doorbell also brought no response. The guard had been withdrawn, probably to join the small army of plain-clothesmen and patrolmen who had been foolishly and futilely searching for the New York gunman—the key-stone of Captain Strawn's exploded theory.

With an oath, Dundee used his skeleton key to release the front door lock. Straight down the main hall and into the little foyer between the hall and Nita's bedroom. He snatched up the telephone and to his relief it was not dead. He gave the number of Captain Strawn's home, and had the pleasure of learning that he had interrupted his former chief at a late Sunday breakfast.

"When did you withdraw the guard from the Selim house?" he asked abruptly, cutting short Strawn's cordial welcome home.

"Late Thursday afternoon," the chief of the homicide squad answered belligerently. "I needed all my men, and the Selim house had been gone over with a fine tooth comb half a dozen times. . . . Why?"

"Oh, nothing!" Dundee retorted wearily, and hung up the receiver after assuring his old friend that he would call on him later in the day.

No use to explain now to Strawn that he had given the murderer every chance to remove any betraying traces of his crime. Besides his first excited hunt after his own attempted murder might very well be a wild, groundless one. In his case the impossibility of the murder being delayed or arranged so that the detective might be slain when the whole "crowd" was assembled was obvious. The murderer had read in a late Saturday afternoon extra—a copy of which was now in Dundee's pocket—District Attorney Sanderson's boast to the press that his office had been working on an entirely different theory than that which connected the two murders with "swallow-tail Sammy," that Special Investigator Dundee, expected back in Hamilton early Sunday morning, had been investigating Nita Leigh's past life in New York.

And he had hinted sensational revelations connected with the 12-year-old royal blue velvet dress which Nita had chosen to be her shroud. And in his desire to reassure the public through the press, Sanderson had vaguely promised even more specific revelations than Dundee had actually brought home with him. Prodded by reporters, Sanderson had admitted that he did not himself know the nature of those revelations.

The exasperated young detective could picture the murderer reading those sensational hints and promises, could imagine his panic, the need for immediate action, so that Special Investigator Dundee should not live to tell the tale of his New York discoveries to the district attorney or anyone else.

But whether he was right or wrong, Dundee determined to give his hunch a chance. He went into Nita Leigh's bedroom in which Nita Leigh Selim had been murdered—shot through the back as she sat at her dressing table powdering her face. If her murderer had been accomplished by mechanical means, how had it been done? There was no hot-air register here.

From the dressing table Dundee walked to the window, upon whose pale-green frame there was still the tiny pencil mark which Dr. Price had drawn, to indicate the end of the hole in the wall through which the bullet had traveled, provided it had traveled so far. Nothing here to aid in a mechanical murder.

But in a flash Dundee changed his mind. For just slightly above the pencil mark there was a small dent, in the soft painted pine of the window frame.

And before his mind could frame words and sentences he thought he saw how Nita Leigh had been murdered.

Nothing here? . . . Not now, because he had taken the lamp to the courthouse for safekeeping.

He saw it clearly in imagination—that bronze floor lamp which Lydia Carr had given to Nita Leigh, its big round bowl studded with great jewels of colored glass. And in recalling every detail of the lamp he saw what he had dismissed as of no importance at the time and in the excitement of finding that the lamp's bulb had been shattered by the "bang or bump" which Flora Miles had described. One of the big glass jewels had been missing, leaving an unsightly hole.

No wonder there had been a "bang or bump" hard enough to dent the frame of the window! For the gun, wedged into the big bowl and slightly protruding from the jewel-hole, had "kicked," just as it had kicked an hour before, when it had dislodged itself from the hole in the hot-air register and clattered down the big pipe to the heat reservoir of the furnace.

That the big lamp, when he, following Strawn, had first examined the scene of Nita's murder, had not stood in front of the window frame did not dampen Dundee's excitement in the least. After Karen Marshall's scream that room had been filled with excited people, who had rushed about, looking out of the window for the murderer and doing all sorts of things which terror-stricken people do in such a crisis. No, the murderer—or murderers—had found no difficulty in shifting the big lamp one foot nearer the chaise longue, to the place it had always occupied before.

But—how had the gun been fired from the lamp? Electrically, of course. Another picture flashed into Dundee's mind. He saw himself stooping, on Monday afternoon, to see if the plug of the lamp's cord had been pulled from the socket, saw it again as it was then—nearly out, so that no current could pass from the baseboard outlet under "swallow-tail Sammy," that Special Investigator Dundee, expected back in Hamilton early Sunday morning, had been investigating Nita Leigh's past life in New York.

Suddenly Dundee swung back the rug which almost entirely covered the bedroom floor and revealed the bell which Dexter Sprague had rigged up so that Nita might summon Lydia from her basement room, in case of dire need—a pretention with which the murderer was familiar, since Lois Dunlap had innocently spread the news of its existence.

There was a half-inch hole in the hardwood floor, and out of it issued a length of green electric wire, connected with two small, flat metal plates, one upon the other, so that when stepped upon a bell would ring in Lydia's basement room.

But there was something odd about the wire. Although it was obviously new, a section of it near the two metal plates was wrapped with black adhesive tape. Another memory knocked for attention upon Dundee's mind. The long cord of the bronze lamp had been mended with exactly the same sort of tape—about a foot from where it ended in the contact plug.

Within another two minutes, Dundee, with a flashlight he had found in the kitchen, was exploring the dark, earthy portion of the basement floor directly to the east of Lydia Carr's basement room. And he found what he was looking for—adhesive tape wrapped about the wire which had been dropped through the floor of Nita's room beneath the lamp, to the east of a bored hole, into Lydia's room.

He was too late—thanks to Captain Strawn. The bell which Sprague had rigged up was in working order again. But as he was passing out the door, he glanced at the ceiling of the large room devoted to furnace, hot-water heater and laundry tubs. And in the ceiling he saw a hole.

The murderer had left a trace he could not obliterate!

At three o'clock that Sunday afternoon Bonnie Dundee, fatigued after a strenuous day and suffering, to his own somewhat disgusted amusement, from reaction—even a detective feels some shock at having narrowly escaped death—permitted himself the luxury of a call upon Penny Crain.

He found the girl and her mother playing anagrams. After greeting him, Mrs. Crain rose, to surrender her place to the visitor.

"You play with this girl of mine, Mr. Dundee. She's too clever for me! She's beaten me every game so far, and when I plead for two-handed bridge as a chance to get even, she snickers at the very words!"

"Why did you drag poor Ralph away from his dinner here today?" Penny demanded, scrambling the little wooden blocks until they made a weird pattern of letters.

"Because I wanted to find out exactly how Nita Selim was killed—and I did," Dundee answered. "I wish I knew as well who murdered her!"

Mute before Penny's excited questions, the detective idly seized letters from the mass of face-up blocks on the table, and spelled out, in a low row, the names of all the guests at Nita's fatal bridge party. Suddenly, and with a cry that startled Penny, Dundee made a new name with the little wooden letters. . . .

Now he knew the answers to both "How?" and "Who?"

Evening Herald Pattern

By Anabelle Worthington

A darling party or graduation frock is this dainty model.

The bolero, showing the Directoire influence, is a new Paris fashion for the sub-deb.

The shirred waistline is smart with a huge bow placed at the left hip. The shirring provides a nice all-around fullness to the skirt.

The bolero is emphasized by the applied band trim. The kimono cap sleeves are cute.

Style No. 3458 comes in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

The 8-year size requires 2 1/4 yards of 38-inch material with 3/4 yard of 27-inch contrasting.

It makes a sweet pretty outfit for street or party in Faquin red crepe de chine.

Pink or pale blue taffeta is adorable for parties.

Rayon novelties, wool challis prints and wool crepe are sturdy for all-around wear.

Our Large Fashion Magazine shows how to dress up to the minute at very little expense. It contains most attractive Paris patterns for adults and children, embroidery, etc.

HEALTH

ACUTE INTESTINAL OBSTRUCTION NEEDS IMMEDIATE ATTENTION

By DR. MORRIS FISHBELN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Whereas almost everyone is conversant with the symptoms of constipation, whether acute or chronic, few people realize the great seriousness of the condition known as acute intestinal obstruction.

This condition results from some serious interference with the blood supply or the nerve supply to the bowels, causing the stopping of the passage of material from the intestines.

In 56 cases reported by one investigator, there were 24 deaths and in the records of practically all observers the mortality is high. In the vast majority of cases the reason for the mortality appears to be the delayed consultation of competent advice and the delay in diagnosis of the condition.

In practically every case there is severe pain in the abdomen, usually coming in paroxysms and sufficiently severe to prostrate the patient. Not infrequently there is gagging of the intestine and the absorption of toxic material brings about all of the symptoms of severe poisoning. There is further more vomiting constantly associated with the pain, and the pouring out of the body of a large amount of fluid results in acidosis.

In many instances the onset of acute intestinal obstruction is like an attack of severe peritonitis. The physician who studies the case can tell from the nature of the onset of the disease, the relationship of the symptoms and the progress of the condition what is going on inside the abdomen. If the patient's condition is not so serious when first seen as to demand immediate operation, it is possible to study the case by the use of the X-ray.

What the average person needs to know in order to prevent much of the serious mortality from this disease is the fact that the occurrence of severe cramps or paroxysms accompanied by prostration, explosive vomiting and general depression, should demand immediate medical attention. Any delay merely increases the likelihood of fatality.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Beauty baths can be whatever you most need to pick you up. A stimulant? A rest? A relaxation? Take the right kind of bath and you have your needs fulfilled. Next to dieting, probably nothing on earth gives a woman a lifting superiority, complex more efficiently than the cold shower habit.

Step out of bed, exercise a bit to start the circulation, and then, with cold water, fill the tub and step into it early in the morning. It takes grit! But if you are used to cold water and your system stands up under the shock, it certainly can waken you as nothing else can.

I do not believe, however, that everybody can stand a cold early morning bath, even for beauty's sake or the sake of a superiority complex. A dash of cold water over the body after a tepid bath is much better for some folks. Others stand a fairly hot tub, with a cold shower afterwards.

Everybody to her own tastes, I say. But if you have been brought up to enjoy the early morning shower, it certainly is a brisk day-starter that does much to give lift to your step as you dash for the train.

Make no mistake, however. The cold shower is no bath for cleansing you. If you are relying on cold baths altogether, you probably are not the cleanest person in the world, though you may not know it.

There are two ways of having your cold shower and yet staying clean. First, take a hot tub with soap scrub the night before. Second, have a hot shower, with soap and brush before turning on the cold shower.

If you have no shower and yet want a cold rinse after your morning bath, pull out the plug and turn on the cold water before you finish bathing. This cools the entire tub of water gradually and gives you eventually a cold rinse without any shock to the system.

"This will knock their eye out," was the sinister remark of the vendor of prohibition alkyl.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
© 1931 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

When children come home with the comforting rays of a mother's "Tom is a mean boy!" "The teacher scolded me for nothing!" "Mary Smith is always quarreling with me!" what do you say?

Do you explain, "What a shame that people should treat you so dreadfully!" or do you by any chance put it this way, "Are you sure that it is not partly your own fault?"

Because there must be two sides before there can be a battle, and trouble of every sort requires two interested parties before it can be so named.

I am not saying that there are no mean Toms, or occasionally an unjust teacher, or that Mary Smith is not the most trying girl in town, but merely suggesting that we, as mothers, are too quick in backing up our children 'n their battles. As a matter of fact, even if our children are right and they are getting the worst of it, except in very unusual cases where a continued persecution is leaving mental scars, we should allow the youngsters to do without too much sympathy and applause.

It may appear heartless, but it comes back to that deadly and dangerous thing called emotion. Children have to learn to take the rough with the smooth and not have their resentments, jealousies, or angers fertilized by the sympathizing tears of others, even of their mothers. It is a softening process, a sapping, weakening process if repeated frequently enough over a long period of time, this sympathizing business. It is difficult to analyze or say precisely just how much good, or how much that isn't so good, lies in the comforting rays of a mother's condemnation. That it is the nearest thing to God on earth no one would dare to dispute, and yet when a mother allows that sympathy to cloud her better judgment and stand in the way of a child's normal development it may bear questioning. What should we do when our children are having trouble? Be ready behind the lines with our pats and kisses, a first-aid station to injured feelings, or don helmet and gun and go out into the trenches for them ourselves?

In both cases I should say "yes"—sometimes, but only sometimes, more than that, very seldom.

If the Toms and the Marys keep on, and life becomes a real trouble, I should if possible try to remove them both. Not by murder but by strategy, and with as little fuss and talking as possible. I believe in removing a child from any continued unhappiness, if it takes a change of residence to do so, away from persecuting enemies.

A quiet investigation into facts may reveal many things, and if we find that Tom is really mean, and Mary really nasty, the thing to do is to discourage any more intimacy, to find new friends for the injured child and close the old book all together.

An unjust teacher is a rare person. A visit and an honest talk may clear the air here. But it must be made without prejudice, or hostility. Never go to headquarters with defiance but with an open mind prepared to learn and accept the truth. Instead of sympathy you may find that the teacher has a little forgiving to do herself.

"DON'T GROW OLD!"

YOU CAN ESCAPE THE MASK OF AGE

John Boles warns you

JOHN BOLES, Universal, whose excellent singing voice and fine acting ability have made him one of the screen's most popular stars, tells you what he considers woman's most priceless possession.

Learn the complexion secret 98% of the important screen actresses know

"NOWADAYS no woman need be afraid of birthdays," John Boles says. "Charm isn't by any means measured by years!"

"One of the most alluring women I know is . . . But it wouldn't be fair to tell! No one would ever guess—and she's admired wherever she goes."

"These days not only stage and screen stars but hundreds of other women have learned a very important secret of allure. YOUTH is recognized for the priceless thing it is . . . complexions are kept glowing."

How amazingly the famous stars keep youth!

"To keep youth, guard complexion beauty," they will tell you. "Keep your skin temptingly smooth, alluringly aglow!"

The actresses famous for their charm the world over use Lux Toilet Soap, and have for years. So well-known is their preference for this fragrant, beautifully white soap that it is found in theater dressing rooms everywhere . . . is official in all the great film studios.

Of the countless Hollywood, Broadway, European stars who use this white soap, some have the fine-grained skin that is inclined to dryness; some the skin that tends to be oily; some the in-between skin . . .

Whatever your individual type may be, you, too, will find Lux Toilet Soap the perfect soap—so neutral, so bland is its effect on the skin.

EVERLYN LAYE, co-starring with John Boles in a recent picture, says: "Lux Toilet Soap is a wonderful soap."

LUPE VELEZ, Universal's effervescent star, says of this white soap: "It keeps my skin like velvet."

Try To Force Stribling To Sign For Three Bouts

Milk Fund Directors Demand Security of Additional Fights If W. L. Is To Get Shot At Schmeling's Title.

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—The current heavyweight boxing situation, as complex an affair as ever added grey-hairs to a boxing writer's head, has reached the point where the fighters are being asked to sign, not for one bout, but for three bouts.

The sad plight of Young Bill Stribling, Macon, Ga., contender might be taken as an example. Young Bill's father-manager "Pa" Stribling was all set to sign Bill to a title match with Max Schmeling in June. Now they're asking him to agree to two more battles in the event that Strip relieves Schmeling of the championship. They want Bill first to meet Primo Carnera in September "they" being the Hearst Milk Fund officials and Bill Carey president of Madison Square Garden, unofficially.

They would have Strib agree to fight again in 1932 against the best available opponent for the Milk Fund alone. Under the terms of this three edged proposal, Stribling would post $25,000 of his 12-1-2 pct cut in the Schmeling-Stribling "gate" as a forfeit for the match Carnera.

"Pa" Stribling took this offering under advisement although it was plain he was not pleased with it.

Yesterday's conferences were between milk fund promoters, representatives of Stribling and Schmeling, and Bill Duffy, American manager of Carnera.

Bill Carey was not there for a New York commission forbids, under pain of suspension, any promoter to negotiate with a suspended fighter.

Carnera has been under suspension here since his unsatisfactory bout with Leon Chevalier in California last year, and Schmeling and his manager Joe Jacobs were placed under the ban last week when the commission vacated Schmeling's title because he failed to agree immediately to a title bout with Jack Sharkey.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

ROCKNE'S AUTOMOBILES

Knute Rockne, winning the Erskine Award for the championship football team, was given another automobile the other day. What does Rockne do with his old automobile?

Our Notre Dame correspondent tells us that Rockne is a demon at riding the clutch. He uses up a car in no time at all, leaping into the machine to dash around the campus with all the vim and vigor of the Ben Hur chariot. He doesn't follow the roads, but whenever he sees a short cut across country, he follows it, bumping and swerving across the fields.

Rockne's old automobiles aren't worth much. He doesn't let them over a curb with his machine skids across the snow into a fence, knocks off a bumper or two against the corner of a building, or forgets and leaves the ignition on all night. Sometimes he drives with the emergency brake on too, they tell us.

Automobiles aren't so good after they are used a year in blocking and tackling.

Edgren Speaks Up

The other day Bob Edgren, veteran boxing writer and columnist who recently was appointed to the California Boxing Commission, denied permission to Tommy Freeman, the new welterweight champion, to engage in an overweight affair. It was Edgren's view that Young Corbett III had won similar contests from Young Jack Thompson and Jackie Fields while these two genets were holders of the title, and that they should be recognized as outstanding challengers.

If you remember, Tommy got the title on a most questionable decision over Young Jack Thompson. Probably Tommy deserves the championship, since Fate stepped in and robbed him of it a couple of times when it seemed that he had it won fairly. But we do not care to see Freeman or anybody else, as champion, engaging in overweight non-title contests. Edgren's view, while contrary to the general practice allowed by various boxing commissions during the last decade, is for the best interests of boxing. Edgren is a boxing devotee of the old school of fighting men. When he speaks against such matches as the bout proposed for Freeman, he is moving in the right direction.

Variating Thrones

The New York Boxing Commission was on a real rampage the other day when it declared Max Schmeling no longer heavyweight champion of the world. The august body also ruled that Mickey Walker wasn't middleweight champion. The N. B. A. also has ruled Mickey out of the picture. Wonder what the Elks and Odd Fellows think about it?

FLORIDA REGATTA TO SEE SPEEDBOAT OF NEW TYPE

COCHET DENIES HE'LL TURN PRO

Insists He Will Help France Keep Davis Cup and Not Join Tilden, Kozeluh.

Paris, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Henri Cochet, ranking tennis player of the world and leader of the French Davis Cup players told the Associated Press today he had "absolutely no intention of turning professional."

"My only present ambition is to be able to do everything possible to keep the Davis Cup in France," he said.

Despite this emphatic denial, considerable agitation was apparent in tennis circles here. Friends said offers made him to tour with William T. Tilden as a pro were so tempting they were fearful Cochet could not resist them long, despite his business connections here which, he said, would not permit him long absences from Paris.

There was a report in New York yesterday that Cochet had practically accepted an offer to join Jack Curley's professional troupe, which at the present includes only Tilden and Karel Kozeluh, Czech professional.

Mr. Curley said he had "sounded out" Cochet on the possibility but that he had received no answer from him on offer he had made.

The Nut Cracker

O'Goody was reading in the paper the other day that Ray Blades had undergone an operation on his ankle, but says he hasn't noticed the headline anywhere "Blades Under Knife."

Manager Dan Howley of the Reds saved a girl from drowning at a Florida beach the other day. Maybe he can keep the Reds from sinking this year.

How is it that Chicago wants a heavyweight championship prize fight? Haven't they enough rackets there now?

Mickey Walker took on a young New Jersey butcher in a restaurant the other night and emerged with a black eye. Mickey is overemphasizing fighting, it appears.

Things weren't bad enough. Along comes a man named Ewue and wins a chess title.

Tom Conley, Notre Dame's 1930 captain, is to coach at La Salle College, a new school at Chicago. How will he ever get along without some alumni to help him?

The Georgia Tech coaching staff was shaken up the other day. It is quite a coincidence that Tech had a poor football season, too.

OAKES ARE BACK IN FIRST PLACE

Construction Beaten By Young Timers; 3-String Record Broken Twice.

Several changes occurred in the Commercial Bowling League last night. First, and most important of all, the Construction team was ousted out of first place when the Young Timers took three points from within their grasp. Second, Oakes Service scaped the British Americans four times in succession to supplant the Contractors in the lead. There were a few other changes in the standing. But, wait, there is still more news. The league three string mark of 405 made by Ernie Wilkie was broken, not once, but twice. Dominic Beletti bettered it with 413 and then Charlie Kebart, town champ, went him still better with 424.

CAMPBELL LEAVES FOR U. S. WEDNESDAY

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Captain Malcolm Campbell, British sportsman, apparently is fully convinced that the financial controversies between authorities of Daytona Beach and representatives of the American Automobile Association will not prevent his proposed attempt to set a world automobile speed record on the Florida sands next month.

Campbell said in London yesterday he would sail for the United States on Wednesday. With him he will bring his new 1400 horsepower Blue Bird racer with which he hopes to break the present record of 231 miles an hour set by the late Sir Henry Seagrave in 1929.

The financial controversy revolves about the adequacy of the sum of $4,000 Daytona Beach has offered to cover the actual costs of staging the trials.

ROCKS OF WYOMING FOUND TO BE SOURCE OF POTASH

Washington.—(AP)—The rocks of Wyoming are full of "a great potential source of agricultural potash."

So says a report by S. L. Madorsky of the bureau of chemistry and soils to the American Chemical Society.

The fertilizer occurs in a mineral named Wyomingite. The bureau proposes to extract the potash "by some manner of furnace process" and experiments to develop this furnace are under way.

Navy's Bill Ingram California's Coach

Succeeds "Nibs" Price As Mentor of Bears; Was An All-American Quarterback For Navy In 1918; Is Only 34 Years Old.

Berkeley, Cal., Jan. 13.—(AP)—University of California's Bears, once the toast of far western football, will bid for gridiron glory this year under the leadership of smiling Bill Ingram, late of the U. S. Naval Academy.

The appointment of "Navy" Bill was announced yesterday by the executive committee of the associated students, ruling body of student affairs at the university. It was a move formidably as Ingram had been signed to a three-year contract ten days previously by Graduate Manager W. W. Monahan, who went east last month to select a new coach.

Ingram will succeed Clarence M. "Nibs" Price, who resigned last season after a five-year reign. Price traveled a rough and rugged road and had much opposition. Those who profess to see a new era of football in California believe Ingram will receive the support of the entire student body.

The new coach will take over his duties March 1. He already has sent word he will recommend as an assistant E. E. Miller, present line coach at Annapolis. It was understood Jack Chevigny, assistant to Knute Rockne at Notre Dame, was in line for the other assistant berth.

Neither a "miracle man" of football nor one of the old masters, Ingram nevertheless has a record comparable to any of the younger coaches. He is 34 years old.

"We have chosen Ingram because of his splendid qualities of personality and leadership," Monahan said.

Ingram was a backfield star for Navy from 1916 to 1918, being named All-American quarterback in the latter year. He learned his football under Gil Dobie and in 1919 was recalled to Annapolis to act as his assistant.

He coached William and Mary College during the 1922 season and for the next three years had charge of the University of Indiana. He returned to Annapolis as head coach in 1926 where, in the last five seasons, his teams won 32 games; lost 13 and tied 4.

He also organized and coached the first two east teams for the annual post-season classic in San Francisco known as the East-West Shrine's Charity game.

No mention was made of salary, but it was believed he will receive at least $10,000 a year.

DEATH BEATS RACE BY FAST AIRPLANE

Wife of Bob Shawkey, Former Yankee Skipper, Dies Before He Can Reach Her.

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 13.—(AP)—A scant 20 minutes after her husband had left Jacksonville in an airplane in an effort to reach her bedside, Mrs. Jacqueline Shawkey, wife of Bob Shawkey, former N. Y. Yankee baseball club manager, died in a hospital here early today.

Mrs. Shawkey who was 37 years old and a native of Denver, Colo., succumbed to pneumonia. When her condition became critical a chartered plane was dispatched to Jacksonville yesterday for Shawkey who was en route here from the north by train. Shawkey reached Jacksonville earlier in the night but his departure by plane was delayed until 12:10 a. m., today because of bad weather.

It wouldn't be a bad idea, however, for somebody to propose that they cut out the gate in boxing.

Dudley Wins Los Angeles Tournery By Two Strokes

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Led by Big Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., pro, a chosen hurdler of the winter golfing army today took the rainbow trail to Agua Caliente, seeking the $25,000 pot of gold which awaits tomorrow the winner of the world's richest tournament.

It was the smiling Dudley's right to head the march for yesterday he demonstrated a golden golfing touch by winning the Los Angeles $10,000 open and the attendant first prize money of $3,800.

Coming almost out of nowhere yesterday with a 68, one under par, his former Georgian gambler with his shots and won a champion's place in the sixth annual Los Angeles test by posting a score of 285 to lead the field by two strokes. Dudley never before had won a major tournament. Eddie Loos and Al Espinoza came in with 74's for a total of 287 and second place. They won $1,312.50 each. Next came Tommy Armour who tied with Frank Walsh, Chicago, with 288. This earned them $500 each. Dudley came home with a sena-

WEST BASKETBALL STRONGER OFFENSE

Indiana Coach Likes His Own Style of Game Better Than That in East.

By EVERETT S. DEAN Basketball Coach, Indiana U.

Indiana University's basketball team recently returned from a trip to Philadelphia and Pittsburgh where it met and defeated the University of Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh teams. No doubt this is an opportune time to say something about the differences between western and eastern basketball.

Intersectional basketball games are fine providing the trips are not too long and the games not too many. The Athens (Tex.) five, national scholastic champions last year, made a bad mistake by combining too many games with a long trip during the recent holidays.

Intersectional games may be said to be beneficial because of the opportunity to exchange baseball ideas. Each section of the country has its strong points and each section can learn something from the other.

Western basketball features and favors the offense over the defense. Because of this the game has developed to the stage where it is full of breathless action, hotshots, sensational dribbling, flashy passing and uncanny shooting. The dribble has been used to its fullest possibilities and this has helped make the game popular. Aggressive offensive basketball has won a large following in the west. The game adapted on its own merit to the position of second among major sports. With its increased popularity it has come improved facilities and equipment.

Eastern basketball exemplifies a more even balance between the offense and defense. The defense is also more freedom, with the result that the east has more contact, resulting in a much rougher game.

Their method of face guarding, which is guarding an opponent with back to the ball, is conducive to roughness and is discouraged in the west. They also favor the defense by calling traveling much closer than do. Blocking is not allowed in the east while it is the general practice in the west.

Each section can learn something from the other but it is human nature to like the things and play to their liking and defensive basketball carries the wallop that makes the game popular.

LOCAL BRUIINS DRIVE PUCK INTO NET OFTEN

The energetic young Bruins, claimants of the town junior hockey title, took the North Ends 7 to 1 in their second venture into rink competition this season. The Bruins had the puck sliding about pretty much to their liking and seemed to be able to swish it into the net whenever they felt inclined.

WILL CONSIDER PLAYING ABROAD

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—National tennis rankings in the future are to be made on the basis of play made as well as at home under a ruling approved by the United States Lawn Tennis Association. The action of the tennis association was interpreted in some quarters as paving the way for the ranking of Big Bill Tilden and Mrs. Helen Willis Moody as this country's number one ace for the 1931 season.

Rankings are to be submitted for approval at the annual meeting of the association in February.

Visitation Club Beat Rec Previously 37-27

McCLUSKEY WON LEAD IN MEDLAY

Tripped By Another Runner Else Lead Would Have Been Much Greater.

Joe McCluskey did his part to help Fordham win the mile and three-quarters medley team race in the track meet at the 118th Regiment Armory in Brooklyn Saturday night, but his mates were unable to keep the advantage and placed fourth, Millrose winning.

News of McCluskey's fate in the race was delayed unavoidably yesterday. The Herald dispatched a telegram to McCluskey yesterday when the press association wires had failed to report the event and his answer came too late for publication in yesterday's Herald. Here it is:

"I ran first and finished fifteen yards ahead at mile mark although I was tripped and fell. Then teammates ran badly and finished fourth. Millrose won."

The Springfield Visitation Club, one of the five two teams to defeat the Rec Five this season, will furnish the opposition at the Rec gym here tonight. Springfield defeated the Rec 17 to 27 early in the season and hopes to repeat tonight. Springfield will also provide half of the preliminary bill for the Tasty Yeast Jesters are coming down to tackle the Young Men's Community Club in a return game, having won a previous tussle 30 to 22 in Springfield. Manchester fans will also see a new person in the officiating capacity. He will be Bill Coyle of Wallingford.

So it is plain that Manchester will be out gunning for Springfield tonight in both ends of the double-bill. This is the first time this season that a team to take the measure of Manchester has appeared here in a return game and there ought to be plenty of excitement.

A Sound Alibi

When the Rec Five played at Springfield, several of its regulars were not in logs. Waterman, for instance, had to jump coach Farr, Ballyspeer and Quish were also missing. Abe Silverman was imported from Hartford to play with Manchester. At half-time the locals were out in front by one point but when the Visitation struck its stride in the second half, it was just too bad for the makeshift Manchester combination.

Since defeating the Rec, the Visitation has won from Burlington, Vt., 33 to 32, Connecticut Yankees 41 to 29, and Pittsfield Eagles 46 to 34, and met defeat by the Pittsfield Eagles 35 to 35, Glens Falls, N. Y., 35 to 32, and Plymouth, Mass., 40 to 36. Jachym who plays center for the Visitation is a former Notre Dame captain having piloted the 1928 team. Fitzgerald and Shea are playing league baseball. Marchione was with the Rec for a while last season and "Red" Farnell played in Manchester several times a few years ago.

Burr Is Released

Manager Henry Clune said last night that his team was out for revenge and determined to get it at all costs. He announced that Clune's reluctance, the release of Sid Burr, former Trinity star, who, although a fine player, was a notch or two below the caliber of such performers as Holland, McCann and Farnell. The release of Burr is being effected by cutting the squad to eight players. Crowley and Conway will not appear with the Visitation tonight, the former because of illness and the latter because he officiates basketball games on Tuesday and Saturday nights.

The Community Club will lineup with Segar and Coleman, forwards, Layne, center and Custer and DeMylykangas, rf. The north end club is coached by Paul Cervino who was something of a guard himself in days not beyond easy recall. He was especially noted for his long shots. It is understood that Paul has moulded together quite a strong combination over at the Community Club and the efforts of his cohorts will be watched with interest tonight. Perhaps the Community will prove itself deserving of entering a three-conference series with the West Side Club and the East Side Cresent for the junior town championship.

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Dartmouth's husky team was leading the field in the Eastern Intercollegiate basketball race today. The Indians upset Yale, 29 to 27 in a spectacular game last night to gain undisputed possession of first place with two victories and no defeats.

Although handicapped by the absence of Albie Booth who was ill, Yale's smooth working outfit piled up a 17 to 10 lead in the first half. Then Dartmouth flashed a brilliant offensive pulled up to even terms and went into the lead on Pickens' field goal with five minutes to play. The defeat dropped Yale into third place with two victories and one defeat. Columbia is second with one victory in as many starts. Cornell and Princeton each has lost one game while Pennsylvania has dropped two.

The next league games will be played Saturday night with Columbia opposing Cornell at Ithaca and Princeton meeting Dartmouth at Hanover.

It was all very distressing at the time, with the Three Dukes obliging and fair and sympathetic, but they have begun to regret their hasty decision.

The situation of the Three Dukes has become very embarrassing indeed in their efforts to regain control of a situation that has flustered right out of their grasp.

Against Schoof, Baer blew up physically in the middle of the fight and didn't catch his "second wind" until the last round.

Among many interesting speculations aroused or stimulated by the retirement of Bobby Jones.

It had become a tradition in golf that no man who has beaten Jones in a major championship, or has lost to him in a personal finish.

This quaint tradition has some foundation in the cold statistics. Here are a few notes.

Davy Herron defeated Bobby in the final round of the national amateur championship of 1919 at Oakland.

Francis Ouimet defeated Bobby Jones in the semifinals of the 1920 amateur championship.

In 1922, Gene Sarazen beat Bobby by a single stroke in the national open at Skokie.

The following directors were elected in 1924: Charles E. Jacobson, Harold C. Alvord, John H. Hyde, John Mahoney, Samuel G. Gordon.

Thomas Ferguson and F. A. Verplanck. At the close of the regular session the directors met and re-elected the old staff of officers.

In 1924 Jones beat Bobby Cruickshank in a play-off for the national open at Inwood.

Willie McFarlane defeated Bobby in the play-off in 1925, which required two rounds.

It was Joe Turnesa who fought Bobby to the wire in 1926. He never has been close again.

A total of 385 women held pilot licenses and 5 were included in the group of licensed mechanics.

In 1928 Jones and Johnny Farrell tied for the national open at Olympia Fields.

The year after Olympia Fields, at Winged Foot, Jones won after a play-off with Al Espinosa.

It's queer history. And it will be curious to see of Macdonald Smith, who fought Jones to the wire at Hoylake.

The Tinies climbed out of the truck and Clowny shouted, "This is luck. I love to watch real fishermen, when fishing's really good. They all seem happy as can be. A lot of fish we'll likely see. I'd like to run right out and help those natives, if I could. The Travel Man said, "Wait, my son. Just watching them will be real fun. The way they fish is different than any way you've known. A line and hook they seldom use. And very few fish do they lose. You see, they have big basket nets, a way that's all their own. "They wade out where the water's deep and there they stand, all trying to keep quiet for a little while. And then they drag real quick. The baskets pick up fish galore. The natives drag them in to shore. We'll watch them while they do it. You'll agree it's pretty slick. And so the Tinies watched and saw a sight that filled them all with awe. The natives' did just as the Travel Man had said they would. They shortly caught their share of fish. Enough to make a tasty dish. Wee Scooby gave them credit, about, loudly. "Gee! They're good!" The fishermen soon stopped and then the Tinymites moved on again. "Let's journey to Victoria Falls. It's quite a sight to see," exclaimed the kindly Travel Man. So to the truck the Tinies ran. They shortly reached the Falls sight and 'twas pretty as could be. "Come on," the Travel Man cried out. "We'll hike down close and look about! They reached a rocky ledge where they could get a dandy view. And there they stood for half an hour. The water dropped down in a shower. "Oh gee. It's wondrous," Clowny cried. "The water's green and blue." (The Tinymites meet a native girl in the next story.)
