

JOBS HERE BACK TO NORMAL IN NEXT 2 MONTHS

Sub-Bodies' Reports To Emergency Committee In Accord On Early Restoration of Good Business.

That the employment situation in Manchester will return to close to normal within two months was the consensus at a meeting of the executive committee, municipal contact committee, and chairman of all sub-committees of the Emergency Employment Committee, held at the Hotel Sheridan this noon. A general tone of optimism pervaded the reports made at the meeting, called by the general chairman, Stephen C. Hale.

The meeting was called to discover the amount of progress that has been made since the committee was organized and to discuss the prospects for further alleviation of the unemployment problem. It was reported that 415 persons were registered at the Unemployment Registration Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce as being out of work. Of this number 171 have been supplied with work, although a number were short time jobs.

It was brought out that the Board of Selectmen have done particularly fine work in aiding the situation, having employed 127 men, in addition to the regular force of about forty. These men have been put to work in rebuilding roads, in Center Springs park, and in snow removal, under the $50,000 appropriation voted at a special town meeting.

Improvement at Mills
A report from Cheney Brothers showed that conditions at the plant have been improving steadily and indications are that they will continue to do so. Although there is still much unemployment, it has been the policy of both Cheney Brothers and the Board of Selectmen to provide work for the neediest cases, a policy that met with the hearty approval of the General Emergency Committee at this noon's meeting.

The committee expressed its appreciation of the co-operation obtained from manufacturing concerns and employees of labor in Manchester, with special references to Cheney Brothers and the Board of Selectmen.

It was decided that the committee should hold meetings at least once a week in order to keep in constant touch with the work being done to bring the employment situation back to normalcy.

BRITAIN STUDIES ELECTION REFORM

If Bill Is Passed It Will Make Greatest Change in System Since 1832.

London, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The government today published the text of an electoral reform which, if passed by Parliament, will effect the greatest changes in the British election system since the reform acts of 1832.

The basis of the new measure is proportional representation, which the Liberty Party long has fought for. By seeking its adoption the Labor Party is considered to have a definite bid for continued Liberal support in maintaining the Macdonald government.

The chief proposal of the new measure to bring about proportional representation provides for introduction of the alternative vote under which voters in constituencies which are being contested by three candidates will record their first and second preferences instead of voting for one man only as is the case at present.

How Vote Is Counted
Under the system the first counting of the poll is done on the basis of first choice votes only and if one candidate has a clear majority over the combined vote of the other two he is automatically elected as under the present system.

If, however, the candidate with the largest number of votes has not a clear majority then the candidate with the lowest number of votes is eliminated from the contest and the number of second choice votes recorded on the ballot papers entered for him is apportioned between the two leading candidates and decides the issue.

Other Proposals
Other proposals in the bill include division of certain constituencies at present returning two members to Parliament into two separate single member constituencies, abolition of the business premises qualification for registration except in the city of London—which would mean that no voter would be entitled to vote in two different constituencies; and abolition of the university constituencies.

It also is proposed to fix the maximum scale of candidates' election expenses and to restrict the use of vehicles at Parliamentary elections.

"DEVIL" SCARES YOUNG AUTOISTS

Farm Boy With Horns, Tail and Hoofs Cavorts Along Highways in the Moonlight.

Hittredal, Minn., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Washington Irving's Headless Horseman's reign over Sleepy Hollow has had a modern counterpart on the Hittredal-Ulen highway for two weeks.

Midnight motorists and youths returning from country dances reported seeing a "devil" with horns, tail and cloven hoofs, leaping and cavorting along the highway in the moonlight. Several young men reported to city county officials they lost control of their cars, which were ditched, while the nerves of feminine companions were shattered.

Investigation revealed the "devil" appeared one and a half miles north of here. A farm youth who admitted a penchant for mimicking the "Satanic spirit" was taken into custody, and produced a close-fitting costume, horns, tail, hoofs and all. No charges have been preferred.

NO TAX INCREASES BECAUSE OF TIMES

Bay State Governor Says Public Works To Create Jobs Will Not Raise Rates.

Boston, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Governor Joseph B. Ely is confident that taxes in Massachusetts will not be increased as a result of expenditures in public works to relieve unemployment.

The governor expressed this confidence to members of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange at a dinner last night. He also said that he believed that the administration could relieve the present situation.

"President Hoover," he said, "recommends that in times of depression it is the duty of the government to put its resources in the building of great public works in order to raise the gauge of industry. His advice is sound and worth following."

"When this program is completed in Massachusetts and the emergency over and the wheels of industry are put in motion then you can depend on the state withdrawing from the construction field and adhering to a program of economy."

Lighter Tax Burden
He promised to support any measure that would lighten the burden of real estate and home owners.

Governor Ely said that plans now in process call for anticipating the program of the Public Works Department for two and a half years.

"We hope to complete one highway in this state," he said, "connecting Boston and Worcester and providing a by-pass for the latter city so that a single four-lane modern highway graded at crossing and with ample room at the sides will be available between Boston and Albany, N. Y."

He said that motor registration fees and gasoline taxes would pay for the highway.

"The people of Massachusetts are entitled to know all the details of what is proposed," he concluded, "and as for the results, I will take the responsibility and I am willing to do so."

FASTEST, LARGEST SHIP TO BE BUILT

One Thousand Feet Long and Capable of 30 Knots, the French Line Announces.

Paris, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The French line today announced its intention to construct what it calls the fastest and largest electrically propelled passenger ship in the world.

The length of the ship will be 1,000 feet, and its speed more than thirty knots. Its displacement tonnage was not announced.

Construction already has been begun at St. Nazaire, the announcement said, and it is expected the liner will enter the Havre-New York service in the spring of 1934.

She will have four screws driven by turbo-electric motors drawing their current from four generators driven by turbines operated by high pressure super-heated steam. The evaporating plant will consist of thirty water tube boilers under 450 pounds pressure. The machinery is to be made at Belfort.

The Leviathan, largest American vessel, is 906 feet long. The Majestic, largest British ship, is 915 feet long, although not so broad as the Leviathan. The Bremen, New German ocean greyhound, is 898 feet long, and its sister ship the Europa, about the same length.

The Bremen, Europa and Mauretania all are capable of an excess of thirty knots.

CAMPAIGN PROBES TO BE GIVEN UP

Senator Nye Says He Has To Excuse Witness As Fund Is Depleted.

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—All the money gone, the Nye Senate campaign funds committee was stuck high and dry today with opposition already formed to its relaunching on a voyage of further investigation.

The committee yesterday made a request for immediate action on Nye's resolution for another $50,000.

Nye disclosed he had excused a score or more witnesses who were to have appeared today and tomorrow. He had no money to pay their expenses, so their testimony regarding the Pennsylvania primary and election last year was held up indefinitely.

Some of the Republican leaders want an accounting from Nye. What are the results of the investigations to date? How has the $100,000 allotted the committee been spent?

Moses' Objection
Senator Moses of New Hampshire who is chairman of the Republican Senatorial committee, said he would oppose continuance until answers are given. He will object, he said, regardless of what the audit and control committee decided to do with the resolution at its meeting today. The desire for report and accounting, it was made clear, was voiced without intending any implication of misuse of the committee's funds and powers.

Nye, however, off the Senate floor, said he concluded there was a desire to head off any further investigation of the Pennsylvania races. He had hoped, he said, to end this tomorrow but anyhow felt there was enough evidence in hand for his announced move to unseat Senator Davis, the Republican victor, because of the expenditures made on behalf of his ticket.

Unusual interest attaches to the list this year because this has been a re-assessment year.

AUTO TRAVEL ON DECREASE, REPORT SAYS

Accidents In Nation Increased 12 Per Cent and Deaths Four—Increased Speed the Cause.

Hartford, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Statistics on automobile accidents covering the entire country for last year, prepared by statisticians of the Travelers Insurance Company and completed today for public use, indicate decreased motor vehicle mileage of at least fifteen billion miles or about 10 percent while accidents increased about twelve percent, deaths more than four percent and the injured 13 percent.

The greater number of deaths and injured and damage to property was reflected in fully $300,000,000 in claims paid by the insurance companies writing automobile, casualty, life and accident insurance.

On State Highways
From the figures it is shown that although more than 40 percent of all accidents causing death last year, of 32,500 persons occurred at street intersections, nearly twice as many persons were killed in mishaps on state highways as under any other single set of conditions.

A study of the occurrence of automobile accidents as to locations showed that about 22 percent was by mishaps between street intersections and 21 percent at street intersections. Under the same classification it was shown that nearly 70 percent of the more than 960,000 persons injured became accident victims within corporate limits of towns and cities.

With exact figures as to speed at time accident, incomplete the indication is that the increase in speed played a part in the occurrence of fatal mishaps in rural sections.

Most On Sunday
More accidents resulting in both deaths and injury happened upon Sunday than any other days of the week. An analysis showed, notwithstanding there is less traffic congestion in towns and cities and fewer pedestrians abroad than on any other day. Eighteen out of every 100 motor vehicle accidents happened on Sunday.

WITNESS STABBED FOR SECOND TIME

Officials Puzzled Over Attempts To Kill Woman Who Is Aiding the State.

Portland, Oregon, Jan. 16.—(AP)—An attempt to kill Mrs. H. W. Howard, prosecution witness in the forthcoming trial of Nelson C. Bowles, young Portland millionaire and his former secretary, Irma G. Locks, 28, for the murder of Mrs. Bowles, engrossed prosecuting attorneys here today.

Like Mrs. Bowles, Mrs. Howard was stabbed near the heart. Officers said a man sprang from behind a door at her home with a drawn knife and wielded it with the exclamation "I'll get you this time!"

It was the second attack on Mrs. Howard since she appeared as a "mystery witness" against the millionaire and his former employee. Last December 2 a man entered Mrs. Howard's home, beat her severely and threatened her with death if she testified for the State.

WEALTHY PACKER FALLS TO DEATH

Head of Armour & Co. Toppled Out of Seven Story Window—Had Been Ill.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The career of F. Edson White, multi-millionaire who worked his way up from the ranks to the presidency of Armour & Company, packers, was ended last night in a seven-story fall from a window of a bedroom in his North Side home.

His neck was broken and many bones fractured. His death, Deputy Coroner P. J. Dwyer and P. L. Reed, treasurer of Armour & Company, said, was an accident.

Reed, who was expected to testify today at a coroner's inquest, expressed belief that a fall White suffered last Wednesday night when he arose to address company employees at a dinner was responsible for the accident. He believed the previous accident caused White to become dizzy and lose his balance last night.

Affairs In Shape
Reed said White's financial affairs were in excellent shape and there was no reason why he should take his life. His statement that the death was an accident was concurred in by the deputy coroner, Dwyer. White's body was found on a plot of ground six feet wide and extending the length of the building and Dwyer concluded its closeness to the structure indicated clearly that it was an accident. Otherwise he said the body would have been found at a greater distance from the building.

Reed's Story
White yesterday complained of a headache, he said.

"I arrived at the apartment at 5:30 p. m., he said. "We chatted with Mrs. White in the living room. Then she suggested we could talk better in the master chamber occupied by Mr. White."

MELLON ATTACKED BY OIL PRODUCER

Texan Says Cabinet Member Is Guiding Spirit of Big Oil Firm.

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Secretary Mellon was attacked today at the conference of independent oil producers.

Tom E. Cranfill, of Dallas, said the Cabinet member was the guiding spirit of the Gulf Oil Co. extensive imports by that company were largely responsible for the plight of the industry, he contended.

"Pull off the false whiskers of the Gulf company and you will find the face of Uncle Andy Mellon," he said. He charged the Gulf company with an effort to drive Texas independent producers out of business by establishing a distributing system of their own.

He said part of the industry's troubles were its own fault because "we sat by while the big companies slowly got control of the oil world."

His statement followed the report of W. M. Fulton, of Great Falls, Mont., chairman of that state's delegation, saying the oil industry should have all of the protection possible and that great storage of oil was dangerous to the small operators.

Meanwhile, a resolution calling for a tariff on oil was formulated by a special committee.

Night Sessions Proposed As Means of Avoiding An Extra Term—Democrats In Senate Propose $25,000,000 Fund For Red Cross To Provide Food and Clothing For Needy; Dry Fund Bill Starts Bitter Dispute.

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Night sessions were proposed in the Senate today by Senator McNary of Oregon, assistant Republican leader as a means of avoiding an extra session.

He presented an unanimous consent agreement, the adoption of which he will ask tomorrow, calling for sessions three nights a week beginning Monday.

Meanwhile, issues bristling with controversy absorbed the attention of both branches of Congress.

In the Senate, Democratic leaders prepared to seek approval of a proposal to provide the Red Cross with $25,000,000 for food and clothing to be distributed to the needy.

In the House
The House began general debate on the appropriation bill for the Justice, State, Labor and Commerce Departments. The first of these includes prohibition enforcement funds, bitterly opposed by the enemies of the dry laws.

Meeting at an hour earlier than usual—the Senate ordered an inquiry into bread prices voted the penniless Nye campaign funds committee $50,000 to continue its investigation and resumed its argument over relief measures.

The commerce committee was entrusted with the bread inquiry. It was directed to determine why bread prices have not fallen in conformity with wheat and flour quotations.

All its money spent, the Nye committee was asked for legislation to continue its inquiry.

After the Senate had given the committee together for a resumption of its inquiry into the last Pennsylvania elections later in the day.

Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, urged the elimination of red tape in the administration of unemployment relief.

He asked that the public building program be expedited and reminded the Senate that Chairman Woods, of the President's employment committee, had asked for legislation to free government buildings from some of its present restrictions.

Senator Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, a co-author of the Eighteenth Amendment, observed prohibition's banking methods with an address denouncing the dry laws.

Banking Committee
The House banking committee decided to determine whether it is legally empowered to compel the production of information denied it by two New York bankers.

A decision to begin taking testimony on proposals to prevent farm foreclosures by Federal land banks through the suspension of interest requirements was reached by the committee.

A drive to reduce the bulk of the Congressional Record was undertaken by Chairman Underhill of the House accounts committee. He objected to the insertion of editorials and other "extraneous matter."

The House public lands committee was told by Ralph S. Skelley, former field agent of the Interior Department that no additional legislation was necessary for the adjustment of pending claims of oil shale land.

Kelley was dismissed from the department after a controversy with Secretary Wilbur in which he accused the department of maladministration of the shale lands.

TEMPORARY RECEIVER
Hartford, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Edward J. Daly, a Hartford attorney, was confirmed today by Judge Edwin C. Dickenson in the Superior Court as temporary receiver of the Connecticut Utilities Corporation—a Kingston subsidiary.

William D. Shaw, a local attorney and Russell A. Spalding of West Hartford, were appointed appraisers.

Receiver Daly was authorized by the court to employ Arthur L. Shipman as counsel and on Mr. Shipman's suggestion Mr. Daly was authorized to employ an investigator of the transactions between Kingston and Company and the Connecticut Utilities Corporation.

Mr. Shipman said he was convinced that Kingston had been trading without any corporate action to authorize it.

Manchester's Property List

Tomorrow's issue of The Herald will contain a complete report of all property owners assessed on $10,000 or over, listed alphabetically. Again this year the assessors have done unusually good work and the list is presented ahead of schedule as was the case last year. Incidentally the list is released a day earlier than last year.

Unusual interest attaches to the list this year because this has been a re-assessment year.

FINDS 950 FAILED TO PAY FOR SEALS

Educational Club Puts On Follow-up Drive To Get Anti T. B. Funds.

Mrs. James A. Irvine, treasurer for the Christmas seal campaign, which has been conducted for the second time through mail solicitation, announced today that a total of 950 follow-up cards have just gone out to as many Manchester people who have not yet returned the seals or sent their donations. It costs the committee considerable in postage, stationery and time to do this follow-up work but they believe it will be well worth while if the majority of the appeals meets with some response.

The committee expresses its gratitude to all who have helped it to reach the annual goal of $1,641.17. Last year the amount raised was nearly $2,000, and while the committee does not expect to reach that goal when so many people are affected by unemployment, it would remind those who have not paid for the seals that the need this year is greater than ever.

The Educational Club, which sponsors the sale, finds that more money will be needed for the North End Open Air school, and more is needed for milkery and time to do the Christmas seals work for the prevention of tuberculosis long after the package or greeting cards on which they were pasted has been thrown away; 85 per cent of the money raised locally by the seal sale goes to under-nourished children in the schools for preventive work. It is said to be a fact that in the United States 96 per cent of the amount spent on health work is for care and cure and only 4 per cent for preventive work.

It makes no difference whether the seals are paid weeks before Christmas or weeks after, if only those who have received them will attend to the matter now.

SHEPPARD DEFENDS PROHIBITION LAWS

hol reached an intensive status," he said, "when increased population, x x x x increased chances for gain made possible by the machine age united to bring about the manufacture of intoxicants to an extent that threatened the permanent retention and control of government, the general impairment of health and morals and efficiency."

Wets Divided

Pointing to what he called hopeless division among the wets, Sheppard said "some of them advocate the complete entry of the Federal government into the liquor business, others suggest each state be authorized to engage in the liquor business if it should so desire and still others would leave the situation as it was before the Eighteenth Amendment was adopted."

Government control has demonstrated elsewhere, he said, that it increases the consumption of liquor and results in "unspeakable political corruption and degradation of the government."

"The principal foundation on which prohibition rests today," Sheppard continued, "is the voluntary obedience of the great mass of the American people."

"The comparative handful of prohibition enforcement officials, about 1,700, x x x x scattered among 123,000,000 American people would be overwhelmed but for the fact that they must cope with but a comparatively small and lawless minority."

"To call this enforcement group an army threatening the home, menacing privacy, and imperiling the liberty of the American people is another wet absurdity."

ABOUT TOWN

Principal Clarence P. Quimby and Art Supervisor Miss Harriet B. Condon of Manchester High School attended the visual educational conference at the Hartford State Trade school today.

Archie Kilpatrick of the Herald staff addressed the pupils of the Hollister street school at assembly this morning on the subject, "Life in the Philippines."

Town laborers working on pick-and-shovel jobs at various points about town are discussing among themselves the extraordinary differences discovered in the depth of frost in the ground in different localities. Men working on the bit of Woodbridge street between Woodbridge street and the railroad tracks at the north end found three inches of frost in one spot while five inches of frost extended down six inches. "It's all owing to whether the snow has been piled up on a spot or it warms up," one explained. "Oh, yeah?" commented another with scorn.

January 21 is the date set for Boys' Night at the Eighth school district when the pupils will meet in the Hollister street school between 6 o'clock and 8 o'clock for a night of sports. The boys are to report with their athletic uniforms and "sneaks." There will be a division of classes arranged according to years and weight in the various events.

The Center church annual supper and meeting will take place in the banquet hall next Wednesday evening at 6:30. Printed reports of the various organizations of the church will be distributed and verbal reports given by Rev. Mr. Woodruff and several of the officers. Mrs. Bert Knight and the women whose names begin with the letters G to M, will be in charge of the supper. Mrs. Stephen Hale will be toastmaster and music will be furnished by the Hollywood quartet.

Eight pupils are to be graduated from the Hollister street school of the Eighth district, and enter Manchester High school in the first year class to be admitted to that school. They are Frederick Sweet, Ido Enrico, George Clarke, Richard Black, Dorothy Brown, Elizabeth Flagg, Marion Reiter, and Adella Zurnask. From the Backus, of the Seventh district, there will be one pupil, Elizabeth Polyatte.

The series of classes in soap sculpture sponsored by the Hartford County Y.M.C.A. is continued with the first lessons of the new year to be held this afternoon and evening at the headquarters of the County Y.M.C.A., 93 Elm Street, Hartford.

The evening classes will be from 7 to 8 o'clock. The schedule for the balance of the season is as follows: Friday, Jan. 30; Friday, Feb. 13; Friday, Feb. 27 and Friday, March 13th.

Contractor Arthur Hutchinson of North Elm street is making alterations at the home of his mother, Mrs. Lovina Hutchinson of Gilead.

The entertainment at the Highland Park community clubhouse to-morrow evening promises to be one of unusual interest, featuring as it does two plays by talent from the Columbia Congregational church and special orchestral music. The program is open to all whether residents of Highland Park or any other part of the town, and will begin at 8:15.

As December is the month that most of the fraternal societies elect their officers, the schedule for the new board of officers takes place. According to the Manchester town directory there are eighty-five lodges and societies in Manchester, but this does not include many of the church societies.

The business depression has not had any pronounced effect on the number of inmates at the Manchester Almshouse. The number of inmates being cared for is twenty-two, and of these one is not a town charge but is having the expense paid by relatives. Of the twenty-two inmates five are women and seventeen are men. The average number of inmates at the Almshouse for several years has been seventeen. Early in the month there was twenty-three, but death removed one and another was taken in charge by friends.

All those who assisted, directly or indirectly, in the production of the Lions Club musical comedy "The Aeroplane Girl," have been invited to attend the dance at the Hollister Street School at 8 o'clock tonight. Because of difficulty in extending personal invitations to everyone the Lions Club have extended a general invitation. Each member may bring a friend with him. Music will be furnished by Francis Hart and his Call of the North Syncopators. Entertainment will be presented and refreshments served in the course of the evening.

The regular monthly meeting of Hose Company No. 2 of the Manchester Fire Department here last night was followed by an oyster supper, served in the social rooms.

A special rehearsal of the Beethoven Glee Club will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in preparation for the annual concert. No rehearsal will be held Monday evening as the Swedish Lutheran church will hold its annual meeting.

The junior boy's glee club social, scheduled for Monday evening, has been postponed but the regular rehearsal will be held at 8 o'clock at the Swedish Lutheran church.

While Hugo Pearson of 815 Main street, who was working for Walter Olson in Bolton yesterday afternoon, was chopping wood for a fire, the axe cut through his left foot to the bone. The wound bled profusely. After first aid was administered, Hugo was brought to Memorial hospital here for treatment. Later he went to his home in the Podrove building.

Shining Light Circle of Junior Kings Daughters will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Center Church house.

Seven members of the Manchester Lions Club went to Rockville Wednesday night and visited the Lions Club there. They were: George H. Williams, Howard Cross, Lincoln Carter, George Bagley, Alex Jarvis, Garfield Keeney, and Peter Salmonsens. This was the first in a series of visitations scheduled for 1931.

G. Albert Pearson will be the assisting artist with the Ross Trio, which goes on the air from Station WDRG at 9 o'clock tomorrow night.

Pupils of the upper grades of the Eighth District school were planning the presentation of a show early next month or possibly the latter part of this month. At the time of the presentation of the show Educational Club members will be invited to attend.

OBSERVE 40TH YEAR OF KING'S DAUGHTERS

Ever Ready Circle Celebrates Its Fourth Decade of Existence At North Congregational.

Ever Ready Circle of Kings Daughters celebrated its fortieth anniversary with an appropriate program at the Second Congregational church last evening. A chicken supper was served in the vestry under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Wright and a large committee. The decorations, in charge of Mrs. W. W. Ellis, were in purple and white. Mr. White who had been complaining that the apartment was too warm, opened the windows and sat in the seat swinging his feet and laughing as we talked. I wanted him and Mrs. White to accompany me and Mrs. White said she thought, but Mr. White said he thought, "Mr. White rest. So I told him goodbye. While I was talking with Mrs. White in the living room her sister, Miss Kathleen Pearson went to answer the telephone and discovered Mr. White was gone."

He was born in Peoria, Illinois, September 9, 1873, and began his career as a packer in 1890, with only a common school education as his background.

S. A.'s MONEY WIZARD COMES HERE SUNDAY

Lieutenant-Colonel Edward B. Underwood of the Salvation Army, New York City, who will conduct the morning and afternoon services at the local Citadel this coming Sunday is known as the financial wizard of that organization. He directs the Army's appeals and drives for funds in the eleven Eastern States, known as the Eastern Territory. He usually has on hand two or three million dollars.

Colonel Underwood, for 35 years served the Salvation Army as an officer, entering the work from Bay City, Mich. He has been attached to the New York City Headquarters in various capacities for twenty years, and for the last ten it has been finding the whereabouts to keep the machine running. He is probably the best known Salvation Army officer in the city's political and social welfare circles. During the Great War the Colonel served as one of the Army's leading war workers in France, and in the occupied territory after the war. The Evangeline Quartette, composed of four lassie officers from New York City, will accompany the Colonel and assist in the services. They are said to be very remarkable singers.

The selections will be from noted English composers, among them Elgar, Barnby, Bainton. The chorus numbers have been chosen for variety and set forth outstanding features of these well known composers. In one of these "Go Forth Upon Thy Journey" from Elgar's "Dream of Gerontius," the bass solo part will be taken by Robert Gordon. Another number decided upon by Mr. McKinley is Barnby's "Hosanna in the Highest." His organ numbers will include compositions calculated to interest the most critical audience.

Mary Brian Turns Sophisticate and She'll Be Wee Bit Bad in New Film

BY DAN THOMAS

Hollywood—Introducing Mary Brian. There's something about that name which sounds familiar. You might even think you know this beautiful young screen actress. But you don't—at least not the one we have in mind.

The Mary Brian about whom this story is being written is a brand new gift to the silver screen. A few months ago, Mary was known as the sweetest, prettiest fun-making girl in all Hollywood. Then she went to New York to make the film version of "The Royal Family." And when she stepped off the train here the other day she was different. She still is the sweetest, prettiest, fun-making girl in town. But New York did something to her—broadened her and made her more sophisticated.

As a result Mary's next picture and incidentally her first starring one, will be "The Confessions of a Co-Ed," supposedly taken from a co-ed's diary. Mary is supposed to be just a wee bit bad in this film. Studio executives would not have dared give her a few months ago. They don't need to worry, however. She'll carry it all right because in addition to her other qualities she also is a good actress. "I don't know what I'm supposed to confess in the picture but I hope they make it good," Mary told me. "In fact, I don't know much about the picture as I haven't read the script yet. However, I understand my part will be quite a bit different from anything I ever have done before. I hope so as I think most of the roles I have played in the past have been rather uninteresting."

And then the brunet beauty launched into an account of her trip to New York. While she was working in the picture life wasn't as different than it is right here in Hollywood. She drove from her hotel to the studio in the morning and from the studio to her hotel at night. Then she went to bed—which is about all a girl can do when she is working.

Went to Shows

But after the picture was finished well, things started to pull back. "I was so afraid the studio was going to call me back here before I had time to see anything that I was almost afraid to go to bed at all for fear of missing something. I went to a show every night and almost every afternoon as well. And I went to night clubs and a lot of other places, just lightening, too. Gee, I'll bet a person could spend a thousand years in New York and still not see everything."

The agreement will also provide for advances from banks totaling more than $500,000 to furnish working capital, enabling the corporation to continue its operations.

REPUBLICAN RAPS LUCAS IN SENATE

Cutting, of New Mexico, Attacks Him For Sending Letters To Old Employees.

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Robert H. Lucas, executive director for the Republican National Committee, was denounced by some Republicans in the Senate today for sending a letter to his former subordinates in the Internal Revenue Bureau asking them to keep him informed of political conditions.

The letter was dated October 6, shortly after Lucas resigned as commissioner of internal revenue to accept his present position. It was read to the Senate by Senator Cutting, Republican, New Mexico, who said he believed the issue raised involved the question of party government.

Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, asked if this letter was sent to the men who check the income tax returns of citizens all over the country.

"I understand so," Cutting replied. Couzens called attention to statements which have been made in the past that "the commissioner of internal revenue can control the politics of the nation."

Johnston's Remarks. Senator Johnston, Republican, California, also interrupted, saying "It is obvious the internal revenue collectors, acting for the department in Washington, through internal revenue taxation attempt to or do control the politics of the nation."

Cutting said he did not want to draw any conclusions along that line.

The letter read by Cutting was on stationery of the Republican National Committee. In it, Lucas said "you can be of great help to me by keeping me advised of political conditions in your section."

The New Mexico Senator read further from the Lucas letter and said the collectors he had appealed to might be termed "political spies" for Lucas.

Cutting said he thought Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential candidate in 1928, was entitled to a "square deal" and that Lucas had evaded the issue in replying to Smith's demand for an apology from the Republican committee for "permitting" Lucas to send out a bar-room cartoon in the last election with a "false" quotation.

"I hold no brief for Alfred E. Smith," said Cutting, "but he is entitled to a square deal and he is not to be lied about."

ASKS GOVERNOR CROSS FOR A JOB AS FOOTPAD

German Professor Makes Odd Request Which Causes New Executive To Chuckle.

Hartford, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The most difficult assignment that has been given to Governor Cross comes from a distinguished professor in the University of Berlin, Germany. All the professor wants is an honorary place in the Governor's immediate circle. He asks to be appointed to the Governor's "staff of foot-pads."

Governor Cross enjoyed a prolonged chuckle today over this request which came by letter from the German professor who lived in this country until the World War broke out. Though the governor is given extraordinary powers in emergencies, he gives no indication, for the present, at least, that he is even contemplating designating any group either in the Legislature or in the state offices as his staff of foot-pads.

The Governor, besieged by applications for appointment to state office, said he was surprised that none has applied to him as yet for a place on the board of examiners for embalmers.

"I have received numerous applications for appointments," the Governor said, "but none for the board of examiners of embalmers. However, a distinguished professor in the University of Berlin has written for a place on his staff of foot-pads."

LEVY BOROUGH PRESIDENT

New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Samuel Levy, president of the City Board of Education, was elected borough president of Manhattan today by the Board of Aldermen.

He succeeds Julius Miller, elected a Supreme Court justice last November. The only dissenting votes in the balloting were cast by the three Republican aldermen.

Mr. Levy is an active philanthropic worker and president of Yeshiva college, Orthodox Jewish institution. He is a lawyer and reputedly wealthy.

MAY BE DEPORTED

Stamford, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Gratitude for a night's lodging in the local jail, provided by Chief John B. Brennan, today led to a confession from Walter C. Keywood, 29 year old Scotchman, who admitted to having taken French leave from the ship on which he served as a steward in 1925.

"America is all right but I'd rather face the music now than go on the street corner as a bum," Keywood told police. Keywood is being detained and will be returned to England by immigration authorities.

COLLECTOR PAYS UP

New Britain, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Tax Collector Charles F. Lewis of Berlin, who is also prosecutor of the town court, yesterday made payment of approximately $4,200 to Arthur L. Woodruff, town clerk and treasurer, having been ordered to do so not later than noon today by the Board of Selectmen through a letter from Judge B. F. Gaffney of New Britain, counsel for the town of Berlin.

Collector Lewis failed to turn in tax receipts on January 5 and the Board of Selectmen began an inquiry. Town Treasurer Woodruff said the collector told him he was unable to withdraw money in his account as collector from the Commercial Trust Company of New Britain, which is in the hands of a receiver and was obliged to borrow enough money to make payment at this time.

Collector Lewis is employed in a responsible capacity in a factory in Kensington and has been tax collector for more than ten years. His compensation for the position is on a commission basis.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK BRIGHTENING UP

Editor of Trade Journal Declares Bottom of Depression Has Been Reached.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Marc C. Rose of New York, editor of "Business Week," today said the bottom of the business depression has been reached, the tide has turned and the year 1931 will mark the beginning of a gradual return to normalcy the world over. At the mid-winter meeting of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, Mr. Rose spoke optimistically of the future, but warned "the greatest factor in recovery will be the initiative, the courage, the ingenuity of the American business man."

"Business will improve during the first quarter," Mr. Rose predicted. "The start, judged by past cycles, will be slow—although there is a chance it may surprise us. March, April, May should show an upturn plain to everyone. We shall have a summer let-down which may discourage the faint hearted."

Better in Fall. "Business should turn upward again in the fall. The fall peak should be higher than the spring peak. Business will taper off at the year-end."

"We are at the bottom of a worldwide business depression which, measured by many of the statistical yardsticks commonly relied upon, is the worst ever known. But measured in terms of human hardship and suffering, it is far from the worst ever known. This is due in part to the fact that the American people, year by year, in better shape, to withstand a siege from the wolf at the door in some previous depressions."

"Second, I think it is due to a much more enlightened policy on the part of employers."

"It was the wrecking of the exceedingly complex and delicate credit machine that plunged us off the rails. Periods of depression are preceded by periods of wild speculation. This time it was Wall Street," he said.

NEWEST SECRETS OF SEA ARE TOLD BY MATHEMATICS

La Jolla, Calif. (AP)—Mathematics is taking over the depths of the sea as one of its latest fields of usefulness.

An oceanographer, sitting in his laboratory, can plot wind velocities, temperatures and the amount of salt in ocean water to map ocean currents with fair accuracy.

And he can predict velocities and directions of these currents at various depths with considerable certainty.

The mathematical method is considered especially appropriate for dealing with large-scale ocean currents, especially drifts which regulate climates of nations and even of continents, and which affect the fertility of the sea in food production.

How these indirect mathematical methods have been developed is described by Dr. George F. McEwen of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography of La Jolla.

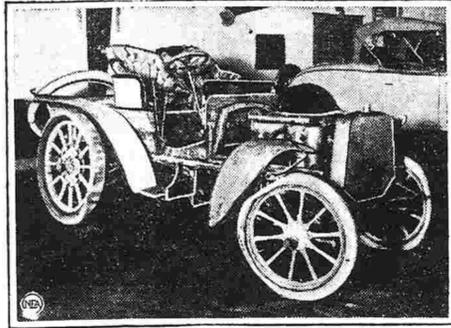

The ocean rivers are so huge and complicated that complete observations of them upon and under the surface have been impossible.

Resourceful oceanographers have largely overcome this handicap by discovering the laws of motion of both surface and deep waters.

Winds give surface water a motion of about two per cent of the wind velocity. This is modified by depth, friction, temperature, coast and bottom contours and the varying weight or density of the water.

Even the earth's motion is a factor. It causes ocean currents to deflect to the right in the northern hemisphere and to the left in the southern hemisphere.

Baron Rothschild's Panhard... cost 16,000!

(By NEA Service)

Reno, Nev., Jan. 16.—An automobile originally for Baron Rothschild, and which saw service in this state for more than 20 years, is again in the limelight, but this time as a curio. Hauled in from a mining camp near the old Comstock lode, this old car was used at a display in 1921, and it attracted more attention than the new models. This old car was built by Panhard & Levasor in France in 1902 at a cost of $16,000. Baron Rothschild entered it in the Paris-Madrid road race the following year. How it fared in this contest is not known. In 1904, it was purchased by F. W. Woolworth of ten-cent store fame, who took it to New York and used it for a year.

Colonel W. S. Proskier, prominent Nevada mining man, bought the car from Woolworth in 1905 and brought it to Nevada. For 20 years it was used in traveling to all parts of the state, road conditions, or the lack of a road, failing to stop the old Panhard. When it was retired five years ago it was still in running condition, and mechanics declare it could be put in order again.

The car, has four cylinders. It is said to be the last model to use automatic intake valves, which worked by the suction of the pistons. Transmission and differential are one unit, and the rear wheels are chain-driven.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The stock market paused for breath today, after its abrupt decline of the previous session, and recovered a little in spots, as bears grew nervous and drew in their short lines. The market grew extremely dull on the advance, however, and neither speculative faction manifested much courage. Trading was desultory and light and price movements in the main were narrow. Fresh heaviness of wheat had a dampening effect upon stocks.

Such stocks as U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone and Electric, American Water Works, Public Service of New Jersey, Westinghouse Dupont and Air Reduction sold up a point or so, but advances were not well maintained. Allied Chemical rose nearly four points, then lost much of its gain, while Steubenville was under pressure and slipped close to its 1930 low as brokerage gossip had it that its fourth quarter net left little if anything for the common stock. Some of the most sure, noteworthy movements in the market were under pressure, reflecting the sudden death of the company's president.

News of a character to influence the security market was almost completely lacking, and traders in the main were content to stay on the sidelines. It was generally acknowledged in brokerage circles that yesterday's decline was accompanied by extensive bear selling but it was sharp enough to inspire caution.

In addition to wheat, silver was again under pressure, slipping back 5-8 of a cent to 28 1-2 cents an ounce, duplicating the historical low established a week ago.

The talk of plans to make an international loan to China to stabilize the metal appears to have brought out considerable opposition in banking circles where feasibility of such a loan is questioned.

On the other hand export copper prices for March and April shipment were increased .05 and .10 of a cent a pound respectively. Export sales continued in fair volume but domestic buying was still quiet and it was said in trade circles that the situation during the next few weeks will depend upon continued demand from abroad.

It was notable that the annualist weekly index of commodity prices showed a negligible change from the previous week. For five weeks it has fluctuated within a range of less than half a point, the narrowest movement in a year. This lends support to the hope that stability is being or has been achieved.

Furthermore, the analyst index of business activity, as announced in preliminary form for December, showed a reduction of only 1-3 of a point from November which is described as "a tentative sign that we have reached the bottom of the present depression." This index is weighed for several trends.

The foreign exchange markets gave further evidence that the efforts to relieve the strain on sterling exchange on Paris were meeting with success and news of further negotiations toward that end was regarded as constructive. The financial community was interested in the League of Nations meeting to examine the Briand Pan-European Federation plan, but scarcely looked for immediate developments. Credit rates remained stationary.

GOES BACK TO BASE. New London, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Coast Guard destroyer Porter, which was damaged when she struck a submerged object in Napeague Bay off the north shore of Long Island Sunday left today for New York her regular base.

A board of investigation which is inquiring into the accident has completed its report and is taking testimony is concerned but a final report on the accident will not be made until examination of the vessel's hull is made in dry-dock.

TO PAY OFFICER. Stamford, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Despite the fact that the board of finance refused Tuesday to appropriate $2,500 as her salary, Judge G. J. Fennell today announced that Miss Mabel Sprague would continue to function as juvenile probation officer and that the judges would expect the city to pay her salary. He pointed out that the general statutes give the judges the right to appoint probation officers and fix their salaries.

New Air Tie-Up May Lead To Far East Mail Route

Washington.—(AP)—An air route near the top of the world to the Orient is envisioned by W. Irving Glover, assistant postmaster general in charge of air mail.

He termed his idea "nebulous" and lying far in the future but sees the first step undertaken when the proposed tie-up of American and Canadian lines by air mail service between Winnipeg and St. Paul and Minneapolis.

This line would join America's network of mail routes with existing Canadian services which run from Winnipeg to Regina, Calgary and Edmonton. There is a gap between Edmonton and Fort McMurray, which is to be closed and a line continues due north to Akhvik, beyond the Arctic circle.

Somewhere along the northern line, Mr. Glover said, a route could be branched across Alaska and Bering Strait into Soviet Russia and down to China and Japan.

"This is not an improbable route by any means," he said. "Careful study has been given the proposition by the postoffice departments of Canada and the United States and they do not intend to stand idly by and permit this opportunity for a direct hookup with the far east to be supplied by any other countries."

With inauguration of proposed transatlantic service connecting through United States mail lines with a route crossing into Asia, he said, mail from Great Britain to China and Japan could be speeded up two weeks.

Boston, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The four-masted schooner Lieutenant Samuel Mengel laden with 1,100 tons of guano was in distress off the Delaware capes her owners, Foss and Crabtree were informed today. She carried a crew of eleven men. The Coast Guard cutter Mendota was standing by.

Heavy seas prevented the Mendota from taking the schooner in tow and another Coast Guard vessel, the Carrabasset was going to the scene. The schooner's sails were torn away, reports to her owners said.

TEXTILE WAGES BEING REDUCED

Lower Rates Becoming Effective In New England; Done Quietly.

Boston, Jan. 16.—For some weeks a tendency towards lower wage in the textile mills of New England has been asserting itself, with the result that a few of the larger units and it is believed, several of the smaller mills have effected a lower schedule affecting varying proportions of their personnel.

The present movement has proceeded quietly, attracting little attention. There has been a complete change in method from that previously pursued, the last prior incident of which was a flat 10 per cent cut almost universally effected in New England cotton mills in late 1927 and early 1928. The most spectacular feature of this wave of wage reductions was a six months' strike at New Bedford.

Workers willing. In the present case the lower levels have usually been put into effect with the consent of, and following consultation with, the operatives. Not infrequently the management has promised the workers employment at full time, or at considerably advanced operating schedules, if lower wages were accepted. In a few cases operatives have not acceded willingly to the cuts.

Currently lower piece rates are effected in the Nashua Manufacturing Co. plant at Lowell, affecting 150 hands. Operations are being increased to a 5 1/2-day week, however. At this company's plant at Nashua, N. H., piece rates have been lowered, affecting 350 operatives who are now working full time as against three days per week. This scheme will probably be extended at Nashua.

At the Amoskeag Manufacturing Co. plants at Manchester, N. H., gradual cuts averaging around 10 per cent have been effected in various departments in the cotton mills. The saving was permitted substantial orders to be accepted. At the Pacific Mills plant in Dover, N. H., a 10 per cent reduction was effected some time ago.

Smaller cotton and woolen mills in various communities in Massachusetts and New Hampshire have not into effect cuts of varying amounts. In some cases the movement has been initiated by the operatives, who would prefer to work at lower wages than to have the mill shut down entirely. One method of reducing wages has been to name lower piece prices on new constructions, particularly in fine goods mills. In many mills payment for 60 per cent to 75 per cent of the work is made on a piece basis.

A great many mills have been realizing lower labor costs by installing "labor extension" systems whereby the skilled help has done more work. This has resulted in higher wages to the skilled operative, and has permitted elimination of some unskilled help. At the Pequot Mills at Salem the system has been worked out with the assistance of representatives of the union.

Some Opposed. There are certain large and important mills which have not reduced wages. Among this number are Pepperell Manufacturing Co., Pequot Mills and Wamsutta Mills, large sheeting producers. The latter is situated in New Bedford, at which city no wage cuts have been effected.

Some manufacturers strongly oppose any reductions. The chief significance of the present trend is that it is taking place without dissension, as reflected in strikes. On the contrary, agreement of the operative has in many cases been secured. What reductions have taken place have come after declines in commodity prices which have helped lower the cost of living.

UNDAUNTED. Of all the important industries in the United States, the automotive industry has been foremost in recognizing and submitting to the changing economic conditions of the country.

The last year has been hard on practically all branches of domestic and foreign business, but it seems to have struck the automobile business hardest of all. Production dropped nearly one-half and sales fell accordingly. Prices were reduced in far greater proportion than in most other industries.

Yet the surprising thing, despite this severe blow, is that every organization in this business continued to add improvements to its products and to spend more money for further helpful research. Motorists this year are reaping the benefits of last year's improvements in the face of a general price decline, more so than ever before.

TO ENLARGE SHELTER HOUSE FOR SKATERS

Capacity Taxed When Ice Is Good So Park Department Decides To Make It Bigger.

Plans have been made to widen the building owned by the town at Center Springs Pond used for the convenience of skaters during the skating season. For the past two years the wooden building erected after the dam was built on the west shore of the pond has been found inadequate for the convenience of the town's skaters.

The Park Department will detail men to widen the building about four feet on the front or east side which will bring the front of the building nearer the shore of the pond.

Frank Walleit, custodian of the building and special constable appointed during the skating season on duty at Center Springs Pond, has maintained a check room for skates and outer clothing at one end of the building, and on Sundays and periods of good skating "he checking space was completely filled. With the new addition to be completed immediately, patrons of Center Springs Pond will find more room available for checking skates and a larger room for putting on and removing skates.

RADIO ADAPTER SHOWS AVIATOR ROUTE TO PORT

Washington, (AP).—A radio expert who became indebted to aircraft for aid in test work has paid in kind to the aviation world. He developed a homing device for lost airmen and envisioned other uses for the direction finder in guiding watercraft to port and war-time functions of spotting enemy ships at great distances by their radio broadcasts.

The expert is G. G. Kruesi, of Western Air Express. Aircraft had come to his rescue when, as an employee of a commercial radio company, he worked on developing directive beam transmitters.

He was unable to test the invisible beams on the ground, so he depended on them to the sky and employed planes with special equipment that flashed a light which beams were intercepted.

His taste of flying led to aviation radio work, supplemented with lessons in piloting. The homing device was worked out in three months under direction of Herbert Hoover, Jr.

The finder connects to any radio receiver so that an airmen using a broadcast set may be guided to his destination by the broadcast of a station sending entertainment.

The pilot who has a short-wave receiver is led to the radio beacons. Connecting to a set by three wires, the device consists of a loop antenna, an adapter containing tubes and coils, and a dial with a needle.

The equipment weighs 10 pounds, though Kruesi expects to cut the weight in half. It has a probable range, he said, of 120-150 miles when tuned to a program broadcasting station or 125 miles with a federal radio beacon.

Its chief purpose, Kruesi said, will be in guiding itinerant aviators who fly between points not on regular airways and pilots on scheduled routes who are forced by storm or wind from the "path" defined by radio beacon broadcasts.

SAVES HIS CHILDREN

Norwalk, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Dashing from a next-door house, into his own home, which had burst into flames while he and his wife were making a neighborly visit, Albert Mola, late last night rescued his two children, three and five years of age as the fire was eating its way into their bed room on the second floor. The stairway collapsed but a few seconds after the father reached the street with a child in either arm.

The blaze started from an overheated furnace and completely gutted the two-family structure at 9 Burrit avenue. Loss, set at $12,000, is not covered by insurance, as Mola was forced to allow the policies to lapse on account of being jobless for six months.

Gangster Chief Faces Pen

This is one of the few photographs ever taken of Jack Guzik, for years one of the "big shots" in Al Capone's Chicago gang, who will soon be just another convict in a federal penitentiary. Convicted of failing to pay income taxes on more than $1,000,000 in income for 1927, 1928 and 1929, Guzik has been sentenced to five years in prison and has been fined $17,500.

FOR SUN AND SEA BATHING

The white bathing suit is having a vogue all its own at southern resorts this winter. This stunning white suit, displayed at a fashion show at Miami Beach, Fla., has the new camisole sun-back, is one-piece, fitted, replete with little tuckings and feminized with a bow-knot ornament in both the back and the front. A three-quarters jersey coat of white, lined with gay gold color, tops it, and a small, knitted beret and clogs complete the ensemble.

How's She Hitting?

By ISRAEL KLEIN, Science Editor, NEA Service

A break in the cold, stormy weather should be the occasion for checking over the important parts of the automobile and improving its operation. During winter the chassis particularly seems to be neglected to the extent of finding frozen spring shackles, dry joints and thickly encrusted spring leaves when the job finally is tackled.

Winter is just the time when the chassis requires special attention, when every joint should be kept well lubricated, in order to enjoy the comforts of motoring. Yet the car more often is neglected at this time than in summer.

Cold weather is not conducive to working on the car, of course, but there should be no excuse for neglecting it when a warm spell arrives.

The first thing to do is to clean the body and chassis. Mud is harmful to the paint, and leaves spots that are indelible if allowed to dry. Mud on the chassis is almost like rust—it eats into the joints and weakens the essential parts of the car. It should be washed off thoroughly. Caked underneath the fenders, it is harmful to these parts and, if allowed to remain there, would eventually cause their rusting and breakdown.

Outside of the wholesome feeling that a clean car produces, it helps to lengthen its life. After being cleaned, the car should go through an entire greasing and change of oil. Many a car, ordinarily greased every 1000 miles in summer, is hardly touched over the entire winter. Yet it is now when the chassis needs lubrication if at all.

If the car has been neglected, the spring shackles may be found frozen and immovable. These, however, should be loosened and fresh grease shot through from one side to the other. Otherwise the manufacturer should not be blamed for the resulting lack of riding comfort.

The springs also should be cleaned and given an oil bath, while a shot of graphited oil might be injected between the leaves in order to help lessen the shock of riding bumps.

Every joint in the chassis, in the brake rods, at the wheels, the universal and steering gear should be lubricated for easier and better operation. That will help the engine pull the car more easily and will help the driver stop it more effectively.

Over the winter, the motor might have become covered with oil. When the motor is hot, this oil heats up and throws its flames back into the body. A warm day might be the time for the motorist to clean off this oil with some kerosene.

While the hood is up the spark plugs might be removed and cleaned of carbon, and the points set so that the gap is equal to the thickness of a thin dime. If the points are worn seriously, the spark plugs should be renewed.

At the same time the distributor cover should be removed and the contacts cleaned. Every connection in the ignition system should be cleaned and tightened so as to assure perfect contact. The cylinder head may need tightening and the pack nut in the water pump taken up a bit. The fan should get a touch of oil or grease, as provided for, and a few drops of light oil should be put into the generator.

The battery, too, should be filled with water and the terminals cleaned and tightened. A fresh coat of grease or vaseline on the terminals will prevent their corrosion. Thus the car can be prepared for easy and comfortable motoring for the rest of the winter, or at least until the next warm spell comes along. Such care prolongs the life of the car.

SAILING FOR SWEDEN AFTER LONG DELAY

Woman Whose Infected Hand Prevented Ocean Trip Finally Leaves For Homeland.

Delayed seven weeks from the original date of sailing by an infected hand, Mrs. Ivar E. Carlson and five children of 32 Essex street, leave tomorrow on the Swedish-American liner "Gripsholm" for Sweden, where they plan to reside permanently. Mrs. Carlson's husband, a carpenter, intends to join his wife in their native country in the near future.

Passage to Sweden had been booked for Saturday, November 29, but two weeks before Mrs. Carlson's right hand was infected by a silver of steel in the index finger. The infection became so painful that she was removed to the Memorial hospital on November 18, remaining there for about two weeks. Since then she has been awaiting the time when the injury will have healed enough to allow traveling, and obtained passage on the "Gripsholm" for tomorrow.

Mrs. Carlson's five children are all girls, ranging in age from 14 months to eleven years. They are: Gerda, fourteen months; Louise, three years; Margaret, seven years; Lilly, nine years, and Anna, eleven years.

Freed by Peru

Captured and imprisoned for three months in the recent Peruvian revolution, Commander Harold B. Grow, U. S. N., retired, is pictured above as he returned to New York after his deportation from Peru. He organized a military air force under President Leguia before the revolt, and was arrested by rebel troops while on a flight to drop propaganda pamphlets in the interests of the doomed government.

As far as a woman is concerned, "taking it on the chin" means merely another application of the powder puff.

BREAD BOOTLEGGED FROM BELGIUM IRKS BAKERS OF FRANCE

Lille, France, (AP).—The bootlegging of bread from Belgium into France has reached such proportions that the recent Congress of French Millers and Bakers asked the government to stop it.

Frenchmen residing along the Belgian frontier for some years have been authorized to purchase two pounds of bread in Belgium. As long as the price in Belgium and France remained about at par, these purchases were insignificant.

Recently, however, French bread soared, and with the difference in relative value of the currencies, helping the bootleggers, a wholesale traffic in loaves was organized. Proprietors of some large hotels and restaurants have been using Belgian bread exclusively.

OUR OPERA STAR
IN "LA TRAVIATA"

Rosa Ponsella Sings Difficult Role for the First Time in Her Native Land.

New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—For the first time in her native country Rosa Ponsella essayed today the difficult role of Violetta in the opera "La Traviata."

The role has been prized by many famous sopranos—Patti, Tetrazzini, Melba, Hempel, Galli Curci, Farrar, Sembrich and Bori among them, but Miss Ponsella who was born in Meriden, Conn., has sung the role only once before. That was in London last spring. Her appearance in it this afternoon was at the Metropolitan Opera House.

The first Violetta was Savini Donatelli at the La Fenice theater in Venice in 1853. She was more than portly, and in the last act when the doctor announced she was dying of consumption the audience burst into prolonged laughter. The leading tenor was hoarse, too, and the affair was a fiasco.

But Verdi, composer of the opera, remained tranquil. He wrote to a friend: "The failure was due either to the singers or me. The public and time will decide."

Director Gatti-Casazza of the Metropolitan, who knew Verdi in his later years, indicates with a shrug of the shoulders that the public and time made an enthusiastic decision in favor of the composer. The opera rivals "Il Travatore" in popularity.

Story of Camille
"La Traviata is based on the book "La Dame aux Camelias" by the younger Dumas, who wove the story about the life of Marie Duplessis, famous demi mondaine of the Third Empire. It often is played in English as "Camille."

The first performance in the United States was at the New York Academy of Music December 3, 1856. It was revived at the Metropolitan in 1909 for Caruso and Sembrich. Galli Curci's first American appearance in it was 1916. Notable sopranos who sang it abroad were Spessa, Piccolomini, Bellincioni and Storchio.

Mlle. Duplessis was a tall woman of ample physical charm, and the Violetta she suggested is usually assigned to singers of like proportions. The most difficult part is the death scene. All the singers, save possibly Bori, have had to apply powder plentifully to make themselves pale enough.

SPENSER'S BIRTH
On Jan. 16, 1552, Edmund Spenser, called "the prince of poets in his time," was born in London.

He graduated from Pembroke College, Cambridge, at the age of 24. Two years later he went to London and found a place in the household of the Earl of Leicester, who later brought him to the attention of Queen Elizabeth.

In 1579, at 27, he wrote and published "The Shepherd's Calendar," which marks an epoch in the development of English poetry. It is said to excel the rhythm of Chaucer. Through the influence of Leicester, Spenser was appointed chief secretary to the lord lieutenant of Ireland. Queen Elizabeth conferred on him an estate at Kilcolman, where he wrote his greatest work, "The Faery Queen."

In October, 1598, his castle was sacked and burned by Irish rebels and his infant child perished in the flames. Spenser returned to London broken-hearted and impoverished. He died a year later and was buried near Chaucer in Westminster Abbey.

FIGHT ON FREIGHTER
ENDS IN A MURDER
Philadelphia, Jan. 16.—(AP)—With one man aboard dead and another, his alleged slayer, in irons, the coastwise freighter S. S. Nantucket returned to port today.

The dead seaman, Julius Walker, 29, negro fireman of Savannah, Georgia, was killed during a fight, which grew into such proportions that a wireless call for Coast Guard assistance was sent. Walker died shortly after his jugular vein had been severed by a pocket-knife.

The trouble started over possession of a coat hanger three hours after the freighter had cleared this port for Boston, Mass. A second wireless message sent shortly after the first read: "Never mind Coast Guard, man dead, returning to port."

After surrendering Robert Parsons, 29, the alleged slayer, and four other negro stokers, who are held as material witnesses, the Nantucket, owned by the Merchants and Miners line, cleared again for Boston.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
(Nephritis)
Question: Mrs. W. G. asks: "Should a woman over sixty who has albumin use eggs in any form? Should she use cream of tartar in the drinking water, and is sugar harmful in this complaint? She has been advised to drink a tea made from the digitalis plant. Is it good for her?"
Answer: The albumin found in eggs while similar to the albumin found in the urine is not the same and has no special bearing upon nephritis—the usual cause of albumin in the urine. I do not advise cream of tartar in the drinking water, nor sugar, for this condition.

Digitalis is a poison and a tea made from it could not be beneficial in nephritis. The best thing for you to do would be to send me your name and address on a large stamped envelope so I can send you my articles on the subject, with complete instructions.
(Milk and Stewed Fruit)
Question: Mrs. R. D. H. asks: "Does milk combine with raisins, dates and figs, and is banana squash as starchy as the Hubbard squash?"
Answer: Milk combines well with dates, raisins, figs or, in fact, any other fruit. Banana squash is practically as starchy as the Hubbard squash.

(Stinging Tongue)
Question: R. H. writes: "I have been troubled with a stinging in my tongue for a long time. It is getting on my nerves until I can't stand it much longer. I have tried the best doctors and they can't help me, so they told me to write to you."
Answer: There may be a number of causes for the stinging sensation in your tongue. I appreciate the expression of confidence from your doctors and if you will send me their diagnosis of your case I will be very pleased to give you my advice.

UNION LEAGUE CLUB
TO MOVE QUARTERS
New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The Union League Club will pick up its Republican traditions next month and move them to a new home on Park avenue.

The Brownstone building on Fifth avenue at 39th street, where in fifty years the members watched the transition of the section from genteel dignity to the club's atmosphere to a commercial surge that hemmed them in with imposing structures, will be wrecked and a skyscraper will replace it.
There will be many modern features in the new clubhouse, notably the ladies' dining room.
There will be squash courts, a gymnasium, a Turkish bath, a billiard hall, a golf practice court, and all the latest inventions for the use of such rays as ultra-violet and infra-red. The principles of the club will go marching on "to promote, encourage and sustain by all proper means absolute and unqualified loyalty to the government of the United States; to discountenance and rebuke any moral and social influence, all disloyalty to said government and every attempt against the integrity of the nation."
The new quarter will be opened February 2.

Leading patriots of New York, loyal to the Union, organized the club in 1883 during the Civil War. The organizers were Republicans. The club's 1,800 present members are Republicans. Republican presidents since Lincoln have been honorary members and not a few active members. Former President Coolidge is an active member. Herbert Hoover is on the honorary list.

Condition Of State Roads

Bridgeport, Jan. 16.—(AP)—An oil heater explosion this morning in the basement of the George E. Clark's building, Fairfield avenue and Broad street, tossed a 65 year old janitor nearly 20 feet and cracked the structure, shattering or cracking five plate glass store windows and more than a dozen small windows in upstairs apartments. Damage was estimated at several thousand dollars.

Terry Larkin, the janitor, who was almost overcome with carbon monoxide gas with three other members of his family about two weeks ago at his home, was standing near the heater when the explosion occurred. He was thrown into a corner of the cellar by its force, but not seriously hurt. No fire followed the explosion.

URGES A BOYCOTT ON SUBSTITUTES

Farm Bureau Head Wants Public To Buy Real Butter To Aid Farmers.

Concord, N. H., Jan. 16.—(AP)—The boycotting of butter substitutes by state institutions and the New England public was offered today by George M. Putnam, veteran rural leader, as one plan to aid the farmer to recover his "economic equilibrium."

Putnam, for 13 years president of the New Hampshire Farm Bureau Federation, is one of the oldest Farm Bureau leaders in point of service in the country. "I question the wisdom," he said in his address today, "of using any substitutes for dairy products at any time. There certainly is no justification for it under present conditions, when good grades of butter are selling at 28 to 30 cents a pound, the lowest price since 1910. "Under existing conditions, I believe the state should give preference to products produced by its own citizens and taxpayers."

Farming Problem. In his consideration of the national farming problem, he said: "We have all failed to accept what we know to be a fact, that with an industry in distress which represents nearly one-third of the population of the nation and a capital investment greater than $54,000,000, as does agriculture, we cannot have general prosperity. "I firmly believe that the first great step is to put our own house in order; as producers to take possession of the orderly distribution of the commodities we produce, so that we may have a large portion of the consumer's dollar."

The Tax Burden. Discussing the tax burden, he said, "while our present taxation system places undue hardship on owners of tangible property, it bears especially hard on the farmer. With the declining farm income, and the great increase in taxes, it is a self-evident fact that relief in some form is not only desirable, but absolutely necessary to the future success of the agricultural industry."

Tax revision to equalize burdens and lessen levies on farm property and timber land. Further development of cooperative marketing. Immediate completion of tuberculosis tests of cattle. Enlargement of scope of Agricultural Department's Bureau of Markets.

Tolland residents, more especially the older inhabitants, are much pleased in the gift of Mrs. Alice Holman to the church of the late William Durand Holman and Mrs. Holman of the Holman homestead of 185 acres of land to the state forestry department. This farm is situated mostly in Tolland bordering on the Willimantic river with a small acreage of meadow across the river in Willimantic. At one time when Mr. Holman was alive it was a noted stock farm known far and wide for its prize Devon stock raised and sold by Mr. Holman for which he took great pride in their growth and beauty, exhibiting at many of the fairs and carrying home the ribbons. The tract given will be used by the State Forestry department for demonstrating forestry planting and care.

AGED TREASURES OF PERSIAN SHAH GET FIRST DISPLAY

London.—(AP)—Dazzling jeweled armor and plate from the royal treasures of the Shah of Persia is being shown here at the International Exhibition of Persian Art.

The jewels reputedly were part of the loot of Nadir Shah when he invaded India in 1724. One piece is a golden bowl with an emerald an inch and half in diameter in the bottom. Another is a necklace of solid diamonds with pendants of rubies and emeralds. A ceremonial shield, heavily encrusted with rubies, emeralds and diamonds, set into a background of vari-colored enamel, is another treasure. In addition a vase solidly encrusted with diamonds on a bright enameled background is shown.

These have never been seen before outside Persia. They are not, however, used by the present Shah, who does not care for splendors of monarchs who preceded him.

CHILEANS REVAMP NAVY AS GUARDIAN OF SOUTH PACIFIC

Santiago, Chile.—(AP)—"Guardian of the South Pacific" is the title applied to the revamped Chilean navy, now one of the outstanding fleets among the minor naval powers.

Largest in the Pacific, except for armadas of the United States and Japan, the Chilean navy is just completing a three-year program of modernization and expansion. The Almirante Latorre, a battleship built in England before the World war, is being refitted in English yards and soon will steam back to this country.

Carrying ten 14-inch guns, in addition to smaller bore rifles, the battleship has been refitted with oil burning engines, has been given new battle control equipment and has generally been revamped at a cost of $6,000,000.

When the Almirante Latorre gets home the Chilean navy will count one battleship, four cruisers, eleven destroyers, nine submarines, a new submarine tender, two new oil tankers, a submarine mothership, two mine sweepers, a large schoolship and several lesser craft.

Six destroyers and three submarines are brand new and follow the latest designs in naval engineering. The navy has about 10,000 enlisted men, including the coast guard and the personnel at the naval academy and naval stations. The 1931 budget submitted by the minister of ma-

SLOW EMOTIONS HINDER GUARDS, TESTS INDICATE

New Wilmington, Pa. (AP)—Why a star basketball forward can flash over the court and cage a basket before the guards of his opponents' team can reach him is explained by a psychologist who is also a coach.

Men who play the forward position in basketball have a quicker physical reaction and are more emotional and impulsive than guards, says J. D. Lawther, psychology professor and head basketball coach at Westminster college here.

He learned this by testing athletes with special apparatus. An electric tapping machine showed their physical reaction speed. Forwards could average 240 taps in 30 seconds while guards averaged about 217 taps, Lawther said.

Changes in the electric conductivity of the skin showed why forwards are more emotional than guards. These changes reflect the effect of an outside emotional stimulus upon a person.

A machine that tests the changes indicated forwards are much more susceptible to these stimuli than the less flashy guards.

NOT A BIG MATTER

For the preservation of consistency and perhaps for the obtaining of a slight percentage of improvement in the quality of the appointments it would perhaps be just as well if the Legislature were to adopt the recommendation of the Judicial Council and change the method of selecting police court judges to appointment by the governor, as is the case with the judges of the higher courts. But that the gain so made would be of great importance, as some advocates of the change seem to believe, is an assumption somewhat lacking in evidence.

The notion that by making the governor rather than the Legislature the appointive power over city, town and borough judges we should be "taking the courts out of politics" is probably nothing but a notion. Is there anything about the job of governor of this state which guarantees that its holder may not be subject to political influences just as well as the Legislature? Or anything about the past performances of the Legislature to indicate that it is more amenable to political steering than an administration?

But that is less the point in this discussion than the fact that the police courts of the state have been, for many years, rather well conducted under the existing system of appointments. We are not in the least sure that within their spheres of action their administration will not compare favorably with that of the higher courts.

The demand for some sort of reform of the police courts in this state is a comparatively new growth and its seeds are not easily identifiable. Where and when have there been such abuses in the lower courts as to require the making over of the system in favor of an experimental one? What is all the shooting about, anyway?

Is it possible that some Connecticut citizens who follow the New York papers more closely than they do their own are contracting an attack of suspicion of police courts in this state merely because they have learned that a bunch of crooks have been obtaining appointments as police magistrates in New York City?

New York and Connecticut may be geographical neighbors but they are as far apart as the poles in their political methods. In this state the police court judges, as a whole and with very few exceptions indeed, over a period of many years have been diligent, fair and very little influenced by political friendships in the discharge of their duties.

It seems to us that the proposed alteration in our system of appointments, while not particularly objectionable, would work neither any great improvement nor any great harm. That, in other words, it is a matter of far less importance than is being attributed to it.

FORGIVEN DEBTS

We take it that the Bridgeport Post thinks Albert H. Wiggin, head of the Chase National Bank, doesn't know very much about business principles. Mr. Chase has been arguing that war debt reduction on a large scale would be good for international trade and for all concerned. The Post, while granting that some measure of reduction might possibly be claimed with justice because of the increased value of the dollar since the debts were contracted, is of the opinion that otherwise the idea is an economic absurdity. "If it would work abroad it would work at home," says the Post, "but nobody dares to apply such a plan at home, or to suggest it."

We wonder if the editor of the Post ever reads the news columns of his own paper and if so if he has ever taken note of the frequent items dealing with business difficulties. We wonder if at some time or other the Post's own business office has not entered into an agreement with other creditors of some advertiser, fallen into trouble, to accept a settlement on a basis of a mere fraction of the face of the account—so that the involved debtor might have a chance to work himself out of his difficulties and, in the meantime, keep on advertising. And whether the fundamental purpose of the bankruptcy laws was not, primarily, to promote the interest of general business by preventing the cluttering up of the avenues of trade with financial wreckage.

At all events, despite the Post's cavalier dismissal of the idea as preposterous, debt erasing is a very important factor in business right here in America and right at this very moment. The courts, when they find a debtor incapable of paying, relieve him of the obligation to pay. And very often the creditors, by anticipating such action, make it unnecessary for the debtor to appeal to the courts. So that, after all, the reduction of war debts as between nations is not so completely without parallel as between individuals.

Most successful business men are agreed that about the least useful thing that can be done to a struggling customer is to put him out of business by insisting on the pound of flesh when he gets into a hole. And it is a rare community indeed which can say that none of its goods and best customers for big orders or labor was ever purged of his debts by law or by creditors' agreement.

A SCHOOL BOGEY

There is one feature of the process of consolidating school districts under the general statutes of this state which was not brought out at the mass meeting on "Wednesday night" but which might be expected to have an important influence on the decision of some voters on the subject.

That is the provision that whatever so-called equalization tax might be levied on the voters of a district may be spread over a period of years and need not be collected, as might be supposed, in a single payment in the year following the vote to consolidate.

Section 963 of the General Statutes provides:

Whenever any town shall have assumed control of and appraised its school property it may, by vote in town meeting, extend the time in which the taxpayers of any district or districts shall be required to pay the excess of assessment over the appraised value of the property in such district for a period not exceeding five years.

Under this provision of the law it is obvious that arrangement could easily be made for the installment payment of the tax in five equal portions. This would relieve the situation of any fear of an undue burden falling on property owners in those districts which have the smallest amount of proportionate net assets to contribute to the consolidation jackpot.

As the districts on which the assessment falls heaviest are those which have the heaviest debts and as these debts would have to be liquidated anyhow, the division of the assessment into five parts leaves the property owner in a position robbed of all its terrors.

Nobody, even in the heaviest assessed districts, would be even seriously inconvenienced, let alone burdened, by the shifting of ownership and debts to the shoulders of the town.

CONN. JOB BODY

There is nothing very revolutionary about Governor Cross' employment ideas, so far as they have been expressed. In fact the appropriation of $10,000 for the expenses of the Governor's Committee on Unemployment, figuring as a major achievement in that line, is not likely to agitate the people of the state very deeply in any direction.

Not that the appointment of such a committee and its financing by the Legislature is an insignificant action, for it is not. The state should have such a body. In view of recent developments perhaps we should always have had such a body. But we take it that its major significance is that Governor Cross does not come into office under the impression that it is up to him and the Connecticut Legislature to cure the business depression in this state and that he has no panacea to offer.

Well, nobody expected the new governor to wave a wand and command up jobs for a good many thousand unemployed, any more than they expected Governor Trumbull to do that sort of thing. It would take more than one year of industrial depression, and more than two years, to work the state of Connecticut around into a state of mind where its people would countenance drastic economic experiments. So the appointment of a good committee to do what it can in getting enlightenment and perhaps finding a clue to what it is all about is perhaps as excellent a thing as any governor could accomplish under the circumstances.

At all events Governor Cross isn't holding out any golden promises on which to default later.

NEW HAVEN CULTURE

The cultured New Haven Journal Courier fairly bubbles over with pardonable civic pride as it points out that all in the same week the Elm City is to entertain such intellectual topnotches as Walter Lippman, journalist; Maurice Hindus, lecturer on Bolshevism; The Ben Greer Players; "Up Pops the Devil"; George Russell (AE), and Chesterton and Darrow in a debate on religion.

With all these diversions for "those New Haveners who live actively in the mind" (quoting the Journal Courier) the second city in the state ought to be able, so far at least as its superior classes are concerned, to pry its thoughts loose from the sour fact that a holdup a day takes the money away.

BABY BOLSHEVISM

Frankly, we don't know much about this Jones-Capper maternity bill beyond the fact that it is another piece of federal meddling with the affairs of the people, this time to promote the care and well being of mothers and infants in such states as will accept the bill's terms—which Connecticut will not. But we do know that an endless amount of promotion work has been done by uplifters to effect its passage; and we can't help wondering why busybody federalists should be so deeply interested in seeing to it that the nation's babies successfully grow up when they are so utterly indifferent to the problem of how the infants shall get a living after they have achieved manhood and womanhood.

Strangely enough many of the same people who are almost madly enthusiastic about purely socialistic details of government are the most violent enemies of the general idea of socialism. If Bolshevism as a whole is a horror, why Bolshevize the babies? These folks puzzle us profoundly.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 16.—The other day M. Sime Silverman, who answers to the name of Sime and came from at least one of our very better universities, celebrated the 25th birthday of his periodical Variety, which is referred to as "the actor's bible."

And, scanning the contents, it's possible to find a brief and rather wistful history of a Broadway that changes as often and as quickly as its famous lights and signs. It's seemed to me for a long time that Variety, because it belonged so definitely to "the profess," has never quite been given its proper place in Americana. Some day we'll be going to it, as we go today to the ancient copies of Police Gazette, for tips on the times.

The lingo—argot, if you prefer—alone has been worthy of an etymologist or philologist. To the uninitiate, its word coinage must have seemed like some hieroglyphic language. And if one cared to go high-brow, it would be possible to write quite a sizable essay on its reflection of certain social aspects—a livelier comment than many are likely to suspect. This isn't accidental—its word coinage is the work of the cleverest and most intelligent young men to be found in Manhattan's writing crews. I recall having met several who, so it was whispered, were college degree men having a swell time.

Nor should the discovery of the late Jack Conway to pass casually. Conway seemed to me the slang classic of our times, and I have never figured out just why the

WHAT TO DO FOR BLACK EYES.

Once in awhile the newspapers print the picture of a famous person who has been given a black eye in a fistie encounter. For example, a lot of free publicity was given a girl belonging to a noted sister team and also to the mother of a well known female evangelist on account of black eyes. While a black eye, in a case like this, may be worth thousands of dollars in damage suits or free publicity, the majority of people are unable to profit by black eyes. In many cases, the ridicule which lasts as long as the eye is discolored is much more painful than the injury itself.

Nature endeavored to protect the eye with a bony defense consisting of the cheekbone and the bone under the eyebrow, so that a blow aimed for the eye, over this hard bony defense is laid a rich supply of blood vessels and also a supply of soft tissues and skin. When the tissues and skin over the bony ridges are struck forcibly, the small blood vessels are mashed between the bone and the outer covering. Thus the blood vessel walls are damaged and the blood seeps out into the nearby tissues.

A black and blue eye is like a bruise. It is painful when touched, may throbb, and the length of time it may exist depends upon the extent of the injury. The best thing to do when you have received a blow upon the region of the eye is to use cold applications as soon as possible and continue them for the first hour. If you are unable to treat the eye with cold until it is already discolored, then use hot applications for a half hour at a time, applying them as often as four or five times a day, as this will assist in taking down the swelling and reducing the congestion. Cold water, when raised up away is of value in lessening the amount of blood which oozes in under the skin from the capillaries. The old standby was raw beefsteak; however, I am sure that you will find cold water applications will do more good.

It is not usually advisable to drain the blood by piercing the skin, as infection may result unless great care is used. After three days, if the discoloration persists, the eye may be gently massaged with cold cream, rubbing it in gently with the fingers, but no rubbing should be done the first day, as it would cause further bleeding.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Pyorrhea)

Question: J. K. asks: "Would pyorrhea cause redness and twitching of the eyes and numbness of the nose? Is there any cure for pyorrhea without having the teeth extracted?"

Answer: The poisoning from pyorrhea may produce the symptoms you have described. It is possible to bring about a complete cure of pyorrhea at certain stages, but you must go to a dentist who is a specialist in this line of treatment and who will treat the teeth and gums over a period of several months. At the same time, your diet must be well balanced to avoid acidosis and over-acidity of the stomach, which is doubtless a fundamental cause in addition to the pyorrhea infection.

(Wholewheat)

Question: Mrs. T. D. asks: "Where can one buy the wholewheat for mush that you mention from time to time in your weekly menus? Also the wholewheat spaghetti? I have inquired all over town and no one has ever heard of it."

Answer: You can buy the cleaned wheat from any health food store and even from a feed and grain store. Wholewheat spaghetti is sold in many stores. I do not recommend any special brands of prepared food articles in this column, but I will be glad to send you the names of certain stores handling these products if you will send me your name and address on a large stamped envelope.

(Sarcoma)

Question: Mrs. L. G. W. asks: "Can sarcoma be cured without medical treatment, and how?"

Answer: The sarcoma is a kind of tumor and may form in any part of the body. The treatment, whether medical, surgical or dietetic, would depend upon the type and location of sarcoma. It would be unwise for me to attempt to give you any definite advice in this column about such a condition.

magazines and book publishers didn't lasso him while there was a chance. Perhaps it wasn't the right moment in time. But had he remained alive, he would certainly have changed certain slang tossers who appear to have been sprung up on his knee. And, at least to this scribe, Conway and the late Tad were responsible for some of the most colorful slang creations of the era.

As for the paper itself, here are a few examples of its headline classics: "Ballyhoony on Beauty by Mme. as Glorified Boloney at $10 per."

Or "Night Club Hostesses in Panic as Dime Chasing Gets Tougher." Or "Chattering Dirt Diggers Kill Twilight Festivity." Or "Wives Squawk at Office Hint."

Or "Flat Scale to Re-educate Crashers." Or "Philly's Legit From 10 to Six Houses."

If you know the language it's simple. But if you don't, run out and buy a slang dictionary.

Nor can anything stress the transient quality of the "big street" quite so much as a reference to something that was "something" a mere 25 years ago.

This Lillian Russell is on the cover with the slogan: "The World's Most Beautiful Woman."

And in a boxscore of the most popular performers of the moment, the vote shows Irene Franklin to head the vaudeville list. Eva Tanguay to be second and Alice Lloyd, Yessie Victoria, Gertrude Hoffman and Marie Dressler to be in the heavy running.

Of the group, only Irene Franklin has been heard from upon the stage in recent years. She was as good a variety trouper as ever in "Sweet Adeline." Marie Dressler has done one amazing comeback in the films. And Eva Tanguay, threatened with possible blindness, was reported retiring to a country place somewhere in New York state. Gertrude Hoffman has turned out many groups of dancers and has a grown son in the theater.

WRINKLED VELVET

If you hang your velvet frock or coat in the bathroom, far enough from the tub so it won't get wet, and turn on the hot water in the shower and shut the bathroom door, the steam arising will do wonders to get the wrinkles out and make your velvet look as if it had been scientifically steamed and pressed. Perform this process some time before you want to wear the garment, as it should be allowed to hang in a dry room after the steaming is over.

STICKING DOORS

If doors tend to stick, especially the swinging door into the dining room, first try soaping all the outer edges. If this doesn't work, look the door over, discover just where it sticks and shave off a little of the surface.

SKATE AT HOME

Come winter, and many fortunate householders have found that they can convert their back yards into ice-skating rinks for the children. If there's a hollow in the ground, water from the garden hose will provide the ice on a freezing day.

"This Is Baby's Birthday Party Day!"

Daily
Washington Letter
 By RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer

Washington—Recent guerilla outbreaks in Nicaragua, in which eight American marines have been killed and several wounded, do not presage civil strife in that republic if even any general disturbance, according to Dr. Juan B. Sacasa, the Nicaraguan minister.

Dr. Sacasa speaks with some authority about Nicaraguan warfare. When he was constitutional president one of the generals of his army was Augustino Sandino, serving then under General Jose Moncada, now president of Nicaragua. Sandino refused to capitulate when the United States guaranteed free and fair elections to Sacasa and Moncada and it is he who is credited in dispatches with being behind the recent slaughter of marines in the remote northern mountainous wilderness of the country.

The dry season has just begun, enabling marauding bands to move about more freely. Dr. Sacasa points out. The coffee crop is beginning to come in, resulting in increased agricultural activity and an obvious incentive for trouble-makers.

Says Guards Are Capable
 There are still about a thousand marines in Nicaragua, but the government with its 1800 marine-trained members of the Guardia Nacional is able to take care of any organized banditry, in Dr. Sacasa's opinion. Although banditry has naturally been stimulated as Nicaragua suffered with other countries in the world-wide depression, the minister's government is exercising what it considers adequate activity to cope with the present threat.

The guerillas, Sacasa explains, can cross and recross the Nicaraguan-Honduran border at will. But they did not hold a single town and must depend for their semi-security on the almost impenetrable nature of the wilds in which they operate.

The leader of the few score guerillas who recently attacked the marines is said to have been Miguel Ortiz, an old Sandino lieutenant, but Sandino himself has not been officially or infinitely located since nearly a year ago when he left Mexico.

Several factors contribute to saving Nicaragua from the political upheavals experienced by other Latin American republics, Dr. Sacasa says. The presence of the marines, presumably, would be sufficient. But it is also true that, with those free and fair elections, the Liberal government of Moncada has been twice voted into power by large popular majorities and has had the support of the people.

Plan Many Improvements
 "Most importantly," the minister continues, "Nicaragua has had her civil war and is now going in for peace and rapid but orderly development. The development of public works on a large scale is providing employment and the extension of communications and roads to hitherto remote points is tending to increase national unity as well as to build for prosperity."

"Our external and internal debt is only $4,000,000 and the government owns both the railroad system and the national bank, plus a new mortgage bank recently established to aid agriculture and industry. With Moncada's honest, able administration we have been able to avoid what otherwise might have been disastrous effects of the slump in our coffee, banana, cattle and sugar industries."

"The fine new presidential palace at Managua is nearly completed. It stands on the site once occupied by the razed fortress, La Loma. Previously anyone who captured strategic La Loma automatically dominated Managua; it always stood as a temptation to any ambitious malcontent who thought he might be able to seize it."

Build New Roads
 "The new road from Managua to the Atlantic coast has been begun and General Moncada hopes to finish it during his administration. It will bring the capital within a day's travel from the coast and far nearer the United States. The trip from Managua to the coast is now made dangerously in gasoline river boats. "Many other new roads are being built, including one asphalt highway into the department of Carazo. Railroad extensions are being constructed and dams for power and light as well as water supplies. Railroad extensions are being laid out with thought to tourist travel, which we expect to be stimulated, and we will develop an entirely new port—Nacacole on the Gulf of Fonseca which will give Nicaragua a commercial outlet to Salvador, Honduras and Guatemala."

Although most of Nicaragua's development program has been consistent in the face of the depression, salaries of her officials—including diplomats—have been cut 20 per cent. President Moncada has sought a reduction of the Guardia, which now costs more than a million dollars a year, and substitution of less expensive municipal guards in many towns.

WHAT GOVERNMENT DOES FOR VETS OF WORLD WAR

Here's List of Services Supplied To Those Who Fought For Country By Federal and State Agencies.

The following information will be of interest to all veterans of the World War and particularly those who have since become disabled due to sickness or other causes:

Federal Compensation: This is the most widely known of all phases of relief and is the principal source of relief. It is paid by the Veterans Bureau for disabilities due to service and proven as such, to the satisfaction of the Bureau. In general, the disability, if not incurred in service, must have been in evidence within one year from discharge. There are, however, several diseases, among them tuberculosis, neuropsychiatric disease, spinal meningitis, paralysis and amoebic dysentery, which are automatically presumed to have service connection if they caused a disability of 10 per cent or more prior to January 1, 1925. In all cases where disability is the result of service application should be made, if it has not already been done.

Federal Disability Allowance: This was the bill passed July 3, 1930 and provides an allowance for permanent disabilities not due to service, if over 25 per cent. The application form is much simpler than that for compensation. The rates are as follows: 25 per cent, $12.00 per month; 50 per cent, $18.00 per month; 75 per cent, $24.00 per month; 100 per cent, $30.00 per month. No veteran is eligible who has not served ninety days between dates of April 7, 1917 and November 11, 1918, or one who has paid an income tax the year prior to application. I recommend that this application be filed for every veteran whose compensation is in doubt or of doubtful favorability, as one won't interfere with the other. Disability allowance never goes back prior to the time of filing application, hence the argument for filing at once. It is interesting to note that there have been cases where veterans have filed for disability allowance and upon receipt of their A. G. O. record at the Veterans Bureau, it has been possible to connect their disability under the old Act, which is, of course, a distinct advantage to the veteran.

Disability Claims: The Veterans Bureau in Hartford to date have received Disability Allowance applications from 2,071 veterans and these applications have been disposed of as follows: 1,126 have been acted upon favorably, 464 have been disallowed and 481 are still pending. The ratings on the claims allowed are as follows: 25 per cent, 674; 50 per cent, 265; 75 per cent, 66, and 100 per cent, 121. These figures are as of November 30, 1930.

Interesting Information Gathered From Veterans Bureau Records: Number of examinations made during November, 975; number of treatments rendered during November, 1,216; amount granted on bonus loans since April 1, 1927, $1,985,528.57; number of loans granted during November 1930 (bonus loans), 454; amount granted on bonus loans during November, $49,203.85; number of insurance loans granted during November, 1930, 80; amount granted on insurance loans during November, 1930, $32,359.54; amount of insurance premiums collected during November, checks, cash and money orders, $61,355.74; amount of compensation paid out during the month of November, $208,616.14; amount of disability allowance paid during November (Pension), $18,293.42.

Federal Allowance to Dependents of Deceased Veterans: This is payable to dependents of deceased veterans, when the death of the veteran was due to service connected disability. If the veteran died from any other cause than that for which he drew compensation, nothing will be paid to dependents. This is an injustice and probably will be corrected at the next session of Congress, but it is the law now.

Federal Hospitalization: All veterans of any war are entitled to free hospitalization in a government hospital for treatment of any disability, providing there are facilities available. This includes railroad and sleeper fares to and from the hospital.

Federal Burial Allowance: The total allowance is $107.00. The sum of $100.00 is a burial allowance given in cases where a veteran's estate is less than $1,000. The sum of $7.00 is allowed for the flag and is allowed in every instance, whether the veteran's death is due to a service connected disability or not.

Connecticut Funeral Allowance: The State of Connecticut allows the sum of $100 to defray the funeral expenses of a veteran whose estate is insufficient to pay the necessary expenses of his last sickness and burial.

Federal Grave Marker: If the veteran's family desire the State Marker, it will be erected by the Adjutant General of Connecticut and it will be marked with the name of the deceased, date of his death and the organization to which he belonged, if the same is furnished by the Adjutant General. If the stone is to be erected in the State of Connecticut, transportation of the stone will be paid by the State, to the town in which the stone is to be erected.

National Homes: Any veteran serving in the wars of foreign expeditions of the United States is eligible to enter these homes and if necessary may receive domiciliary care and treatment in the hospital connected with these homes. Application for entrance to a National Home should be made through the Regional Manager of the United States Veterans Bureau. The government will furnish the transportation for the veteran's initial entrance into the Home. In case a veteran leaves any of the National Homes and desires at a later date to return, he will then have to pay his own transportation. If a veteran desires to re-enter a Home, it is possible sometimes to secure a reduced rate from the railroads. This applies, however, only from New York to Homes in the South or West, and it does not apply to transportation to the National Home at Togus, Maine.

Fitch's Home for Soldiers, Noroton, Connecticut: Any veteran who is a resident of this state and who served in the Military or Naval forces in the United States in time of any war, in any Indian campaign or the Philippine insurrection, the China Relief Expedition, the Mexican Border Service in 1916, or the forces of any government associated with the United States in the World War is eligible for entrance to this Home. If a veteran of any of the wars or campaigns noted above served in any of the campaigns or wars, but was not a resident of Connecticut at time of his enlistment, he is eligible to enter Norton Home provided he has lived continuously in the state of Connecticut for at least two years. The commission will furnish the veteran with transportation to the Home and if it is a case that requires an ambulance, that will be furnished by the Veterans Home Commission at no cost to the veteran. If, however, a veteran does not desire to make application, he may present himself at the Home and upon presenting his honorable discharge from service, he will be given a $40.00 advance.

Adjusted Service Certificate or Bonus: The Congress of the United States has passed legislation which will permit the veteran to make application for this certificate up to and including January 1935. All veterans who have not made application for this bonus should get in touch with the Welfare officer of the Dilworth-Cornell Post.

Citizenship: Congress at various times has passed certain laws by which citizenship is offered under certain conditions to citizens of other countries who served in our armed forces during the late war. The expiration date of this privilege has been extended up to March 1, 1931. Any veteran of the World War in Manchester who wishes to take advantage of becoming a citizen should get in touch with the Welfare officer of the Dilworth-Cornell Post.

The necessary banks for making application for various forms of relief can be secured by writing or calling at the Veterans Bureau in Hartford or by getting in touch with the Welfare officer of the Dilworth-Cornell Post, American Legion, James A. Irvine, at Cheney Brothers employment office.

LEGGIE O. K.'s EMBARGO ON WHEAT AND FEED

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Chairman Legge today indorsed the Burtens bill for a two year embargo on wheat, feed, grains and butter.

In a letter to Representative Burtens, North Dakota, Legge said the bill "is along the right lines as affording perhaps the quickest method of dealing with the situation."

"However," the Farm Board head continued, "it is immaterial to us how this relief is arrived at, but present conditions certainly justify action on the part of Congress to meet the present emergency. Just how this relief is to be afforded is perhaps not material. Some time ago in writing Senator Capper, I suggested that unless there was an improvement in world conditions we would ask for a temporary embargo on wheat imports; however, just as strong an argument could be made on other grains, including beans."

"Some of these commodities are coming into the country on a basis that seems as though the price obtained for them would hardly pay the cost of transportation of the areas in which they are produced. So far there has been no improvement in world prices. Many students of the situation seem to think that there is a probability that they will go still lower. I therefore hope that before the present Congress adjourns they will find it possible to pass such legislation as will protect the American producer during this period of distress."

ACID THROWER JAILED

New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Henry R. Kennard, 33, was sentenced to twelve years in prison in General Sessions Court today. On September 20 he threw acid on his mother-in-law and she died. He pleaded guilty to second degree manslaughter. Kennard, who was from New Bedford, Mass., was separated from his wife. He entered her apartment by a fire escape and finding his wife in bed with her mother, Mrs. Albina Black, threw acid on them. When he returned a week later for his mail he was arrested. He admitted he had thrown the acid, saying he was jealous of his wife and had tried to prevail on her to move to Troy, N. Y. The wife was also burned by the acid.

Fox Firm Bans High-Priced Shows

ABANDONS PRACTICE OF GIVING ITS PICTURES BIG OPENINGS

BY DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

Hollywood.—Is the day of the $1.50 motion picture drawing to a close?

That is what Hollywood is wondering as a result of the Fox studio's recent act of canceling the opening of Will Rogers latest picture, "Lightnin'," scheduled for the Carthay Circle Theater here. The picture has been advertised for some time as the next attraction at the Carthay, when its booking was suddenly cancelled and "Min and Bill," an M-G-M picture featuring Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery, substituted.

The Carthay and Chinese, both Fox controlled theaters are the only houses in Los Angeles giving two shows a day at $1.50 a seat. And the next attraction at the Chinese is to be a Paramount film, "Morocco."

Further impetus was given the rumor that both of these theaters will be turned into popular priced, continuous run theaters by the announcement of Fox officials that the Fox picture will ever again be given a big opening in Los Angeles.

Conrad Nagel played in 31 films in two years.

When no explanation was forthcoming with the announcement, those on the inside took it to mean that Fox executives had suddenly come to the conclusion that the public no longer is willing to pay such high prices for its screen entertainment.

While looking over some statistics out at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot the other day we discovered that Conrad Nagel, whose stock soared quite a bit with the coming of "Talkies," has hung up a picture-making record that is several jumps ahead of any other featured player in filmdom.

During the past two years Nagel has played in 31 pictures. And listed among the recipients of his love-making in those films are Dolores Costello, Norma Talmadge, Norma Shearer, Pauline Frederick.

Lillian Gish, Greta Garbo, Eleanor Boardman, Renee Adoree, Genevieve Tobin, Catherine Dale Owen, Loretta Young, Anita Page, May McAvoy, Lila Lee, Myrna Loy, June Collyer, Lella Hyams, Kay Johnson and Bernice Claire.

"Oh boy, it seems good to get the old war paint on again."

The speaker was Norma Shearer and she had just finished posing for a newswall shot in her first appearance before a movie camera since the birth of her son, Irving. "I am feeling wonderfully well and am awfully anxious to get started on my next picture, 'Strangers May Kiss.'" Miss Shearer continued.

The next time Wally Beery goes hunting he's going to first make sure that he has some place to keep his game before he shoots it.

A few days ago, Wally took a little hunting trip down to the Grand Canyon and came back with three deer, only to discover that not a single cold storage plant in Los Angeles could keep them for him, as one of them has a license to keep wild game. The venison now is at Wally's house packed away in salt brine and the actor is wondering what he is going to do with it.

BUCKLAND SETBACK

The Buckland Setback tournament, sessions of which are held each Thursday night in the Buckland school hall, is being led by the Optimists with a score of 1,347. They have not as yet been called to the floor to punch as have all but one other team, the Democrats. The All Stars, in third position have had their night to punch and, only 99 points behind the leaders, are in a good position to jump into first or second place after the sitting next week. The standing today is as follows:

Optimists, 1,347; Democrats, 1,315; All Stars, 7,248; Keeney's, 1,137; Hackett's, 1,142; Four Roses, 1,133; Hartmann's, 1,128; Sons of Rest, 1,117; Foley's, 1,090; Wapping, 1,072; Buckland, 1,060. The two leading teams have played one more game than the rest. At last night's sitting Magnuson and Carroll rolled up a score of 105, which is only 1 point less than that set by the Burr players in the Community club league.

FINED FOR INTOXICATION

FOR GINGER'S SAKE

By ETHEL HUESTON
© 1930 THE BOBBES, MERRILL CO.

"What Price Is It?" Jenky asked the question in simple interest, but Joplun took it for a sly defense.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GINGER ELLA TOLLIVER was bored. Ginger's father was a minister, and her stepmother, the former "PHIL" VAN DOORN, a very wealthy woman, but life in the little town of Red Thrush, Iowa, ran too slowly to suit Ginger and her set. So she announced to her friends, EDDY JACKSON, PATTY SEARS and WESLEY MEEKER, that she was going to start a home for the Bored.

To JENKY BROOKS, former school teacher, wife of old BENNY BROOKS, and an ally whom she could trust implicitly, she confided her intention of organizing a Junior Country Club. She asked Jenky to act as her agent in the purchase of the Mill Rush farm, a 10-acre tract with an old farm house, from JOP-LIN WESTBURY. The rest of her plans were still in her head, unformulated.

"And," she told Jenky, "be sure and bring him down in his price. About half of what he asks will be right."

To Jenky, who, with her husband, was to be chaperon, the venture promised a great many dollars saved, as a summer on the farm would mean a trimming of living expenses.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER III

Jenky set her small bobbed head determinedly. Joplun Westbury had the reputation of being pretty crafty, but Jenky was going to exercise some craft on her own account. In her anxiety to obtain terms which would be satisfactory to Ginger Ella, she showed a troubled uncertainty which Mr. Westbury took for personal dissatisfaction with his terms, and she could not have assumed a more effective way of dealing with him.

To tell the truth, Mill Rush was of so little value, and had been bought less for sale so long, that he had forgotten all about it. It was not a farm—not as farms go in Iowa. It comprised about 10 acres of land which could not possibly be farmed with the exception of a few small separated garden spots. The tillable land had been sold away from the house in every direction, 20, 40, or 60 acres at a time, to enlarge good farms adjoining.

The house on Mill Rush was not a farmhouse, either. It was impractical, rambling and attractive, built of gray stone and time-stained shingles, with queer porches here and there, and with an oddly gabled attic.

The house, indeed the entire establishment, was the work of a man who had greater talent for life than agriculture. And upon his inevitable failure, he had let the farm go to Joplun Westbury on a mortgage and returned to his home in the East. And Joplun, realizing that a farm endowed with an artistic, charming cottage, located at a picturesque and inaccessible point on Rabbit River, was not in any sense an agricultural prize in Iowa, had cleverly managed the sale of the valuable farm land, bit by bit, leaving the house and its 10 acres of scattered brushwood, rocky bluffs and scattered bits of garden land to fall into complete and becoming decay.

As soon as Joplun realized that it was indeed that very useless bit of rocky, brush-grown land that Mrs. Brooks was interested in, the natural enthusiasm of the realtor swept into his head.

"Mill Rush—sure I know where you mean—out on the Rabbit! Gosh, what a site! What a view! It's a swell place! Ideal location, Mill Rush is, right on the rocks, right in the woods, right by the river. Falls just a little above the house, and the best fishing pool on the river right behind it. Ideal for a summer home for a town woman like yourself."

"Can it be farmed?" asked Mrs. Brooks anxiously.

"Farmed? Sure it can be farmed. All Iowa can be farmed. Greatest little farming state in the Union!"

"I thought it would be too rocky," she said slowly. She was relieved, and it was gratitude that slowed her voice. Ten acres of beans and peas and garden truck—and a summer to can it for her winter's use!

"I'm glad it can be farmed," she said.

"Well, of course it can't be farmed, not every foot of it," explained Joplun Westbury. "What can you expect at that price?"

"What price is it?" She asked the question in simple interest, but Joplun took it for a sly defense.

His soul as a realtor was torn within him. He wished to obtain every available cent for the place, but he knew that Mrs. Brooks had very little money at best, and that she—the only nibbler at this none-too-tantalizing bait—might be easily deterred from purchase.

He did not wish to scare her off. He knew only too well that from the common utilitarian standards of southeastern Iowa the place was worthless. The house had fallen into disrepair, the brush and, and it lay entirely off the good state road at the end of about a mile and a half of the worst wood lane of which even Iowa is capable.

He spoke guardedly. "Well, there's about 10 acres," he said. "Right on the river woods—"

"Isn't it too bad about the rocks?" Mrs. Brooks spoke from her heart, for 10 acres of garden would mean almost wealth. But Joplun thought it was just her sick way of reminding him that the place was no good.

"It's a very nice house," he said vaguely.

"Is it indeed?" she demanded hopefully. "I was afraid it would be all tumble-down by this time."

Plainly those inquiries of hers displayed but a moderate interest.

"Well, of course it's run down a bit," he agreed. "Chimneys down maybe and some windows out. Needs painting and plastering and what-not. Foundations have to be tightened up, I suppose, and roof repaired. But it's a good house, and that's the main thing."

"Oh, dear," said Jenky. "It's got to be painted and plastered, and have new doors and windows and a new foundation and a new roof you might as well build a new house. Nothing there but the walls."

Her voice was anxious, because she was wondering what Ginger would say to that.

Joplun thought it was sarcasm which edged her voice.

He smiled good-naturedly. "But my dear woman," he said, "at that price you can afford to fix up the old house."

He considered carefully. "Well, now, there's about 10 acres—good Iowa farm land—"

"If it can just be farmed," she said hopefully.

"Lots of Iowa farm land brings five hundred an acre," he said.

Jenky shivered. He mistook the gesture for a shudder of dissent.

"Well, now, I tell you what. Of course, some of this land can't be farmed. Pretty, yes. Picturesque, yes. House, yes. But it can't be farmed—not all of it can't. Say $3000—"

Jenky stood up. It was a mere instinctive matter of respect in her, for she could not consider the expenditure of thousands in a sitting posture. But Joplun Westbury felt that she was going to walk deliberately out of his office and abandon the project.

"Oh, well, now," he laughed pleasantly. "It's not quibble. Twenty-five hundred—"

"Oh, you can have it on terms. You don't have to pay 2500 down. Say—uh—"

He stole an appraising look at her, noted the modest gown, with bits of tear from the tearing of rags, noted the anxious line between her eyes—"say 500 down and—uh—25 a month."

"I'll think it over," her voice was faint. "I'll have to ask Ginger Ella."

His eyes narrowed. He knew Ginger Ella. "Oh, yes, she's a great little pal of yours, isn't she? And she's a great kid, too. Well, if she's a friend of yours she'll advise you to snap it up quick."

"I'll tell you what I'll do—seeing the place is just standing idle and doing nobody any good—I'll let you have that place for $2000, 300 down and 25 a month. You can't ask better than that. You see what Miss Ginger has to say to that kind of proposition."

"I will," promised Jenky eagerly. "I'll ask her this very night."

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

There are tricks to every trade, and making up the eyes is no exception.

A touch of rouge to the lids, a very gentle touch, may give a healthy glow and make the eyes look bigger. But this must be done skillfully or you will give the impression of inflamed eyes.

As a last finishing touch, a touch of rouge at the very inner corner of the top eye lid often gives the eyes themselves a brilliance otherwise missed.

Jade eye shade may do wonders for the very fair, fragile blonde. And if you happen to be a redhead, a natural Titian redhead, you may find that you can stand a blue eye shadow twice as thick and twice as effectively as your paler sister who has merely blond hair.

Artists of the stage often do wonders in elongating the appearance of the eye by heavily coloring, in little V-shaped dabs, the lids at the corners of the eye, both by the nose and on the outside of the eye.

All of these tricks are variables. You may find them workable for you and not at all practical for the friend who goes about with you.

Remember that the more obvious your own coloring, the bigger your own eyes and the more beautiful, the more of a task you have making them up, for it must be done so subtly. Obvious make-up is out this winter. Obvious eye make-up is in twice as bad taste as obvious lipstick and rouge.

If you want to place a bit of brown or black mascara at the outer edge of your eyes to elongate them, do it very carefully with a small brush. If you want to use the eyebrow tone to these important spots, your regular eyebrow pencil may serve you. You must have something smaller at the point than a mere finger to draw these little arrows right. Even when you use your eye shadowing in heavy quantity to give you this color.

The fellow who leads the college yells, says the office sage, would do well to observe the cheer throughout the year."

Hints on How to Keep Well by World Famed Authorities

APPENDICITIS OFTEN IS FATAL DUE TO DELAY IN TREATMENT

Sudden Disappearance of Pain Doesn't Mean Sufferer Has Recovered from Attack.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygieia, the Health Magazine

Almost every person now knows what is meant by the term appendicitis. The little "outshoot" from the bowel becomes inflamed or infected and then sets up a disturbance and has been made known to the public through just and anecdote and in many other ways.

Nevertheless, the disease continues to take a high toll of human beings, both in terms of severe sickness and in death, for the simple reason that proper treatment is undertaken too late to give the patient full advantage of what medicine can do to help him.

The story of an attack of appendicitis is relatively simple. The person who is concerned suddenly feels a pain in his abdomen which may be slight and rather general. Gradually the pain becomes more severe and establishes itself in the right lower side of the abdomen.

The spot is tender and sore, sometimes so tender that the person cannot even bear the weight of the clothing on the skin. Associated with the pain is a certain amount of nausea with vomiting. The vomiting usually continues to grow worse. The fever may be fairly high, but infrequently is slight.

If the appendicitis is mild, the symptoms may disappear after two or three days. They are likely in such instances to recur at various intervals. Sometimes instead of disappearing the pain becomes worse, vomiting becomes serious and the fever rises.

Even in such cases, if the person goes to bed and weathers the attack, he may get well in eight or 10 days. However, he is taking the same chance that he would take if he walked about with a bundle of explosives in his back pocket.

Not infrequently, after two or three days, the pain will suddenly become less, the fever will go down, and the person will think that he is well. What actually happens is that the severely inflamed appendix, pushed to the bursting point by the pus and other material within it, has burst open and releases the infection into the abdominal cavity. This means peritonitis.

If the infection is held in the region of the appendix, there is still an opportunity to save the patient by having the tissues wall off the infection or by having the abdomen opened and the infection cleaned out. If the tissues fail to wall off the infection, the peritonitis spreads and the person dies not of the appendicitis but of the secondary peritonitis.

Of course, a competent physician makes certain of his diagnosis by making sure that no other condition which resembles appendicitis, such as inflammation of the gall-bladder, of the kidney, or of the tubes in women, is responsible. He may also examine the blood to make certain that there is infection, as is shown by the fact that the white blood cells are greatly increased in number.

One of the most dangerous things that a person can do when confronted with symptoms of pain here described is to take a cathartic. This irritates the bowel, forces it to motion, and promotes fairly early rupture of the infected appendix.

SUCH BIGOTRY!

"Yes," remarked the young typist to her girl friend, "I like the new job and the boss, but he seems a bit bigoted to me."

"Bigoted? In what way?"

"He seems to think that words can only be spelled his way."—Newcastle (England) Chronicle.

FOLLOWING ORDERS

"So you have been bedridden for three years?"

"Yes, the doctor came three years ago and said I was not to get up until he came again, and he has never been here since."—Kariakuren, Oslo.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
© 1931 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

"I should think that family of Mrs. Smith's would go crazy. She nags at those poor children from morning to night."

How many mothers have said this, never stopping to think that they themselves may not have escaped the poison.

It is so easy to nag. We all do it occasionally. It comes of responsibility, or rather from an exaggerated idea of responsibility. The habit of correction grows and we become naggers before we know it.

It is customary to think of nagging as scolding in some form or other, but this is only a fraction of the whole picture. Indirect forms of it are more irritating to our families than the direct explosion.

We do not think we are wearing the nerves of the children to a fringe when we keep reminding them over and over of unimportant things, or of things they would do anyway without reminding, but I know that nothing breeds resentment in small breasts half so fast as this very course.

An Over-Zealous Mother

For instance, Johnny has had his lunch. It is time to start to school. He goes to the stairs.

"Be sure to wash your hands and brush your hair," calls his mother.

"Aw, I was just going to," retorts Johnny. "Darn it all, I don't have to be told everything," he grumbles to himself. "I wish Mom would leave me alone."

His mother, however, has fallen into a habit that she cannot break. When he was little he had to be told daily of the mid-day ablutions, but with the routine fairly established it was time to break off. Perhaps he will forget occasionally, but what is a little mussed hair to peace of spirit?

Multiply this episode by the hundred little things a day he does and who can blame him if his disposition turns sour?

Here's a Common Fault

Another form of nagging is to trip the children up by ferreting out the things they have forgotten to do or have done wrong. We overlook the dozen things they have remembered to do, the good things they have accomplished and pick out one little forlorn flaw. Then we pounce. "Johnny, did you take that book over to Mrs. Brown?"

We know very well that he did not, but what a kick we get out of watching him squirm.

When we repeat certain things automatically day after day until they are threadbare, the children listen automatically. In fact they don't hear us at all. Too many commands, too many reminders, too many questions all come under the same head.

Tactful suggestions, or an occasional downright plain talk that means business are entirely different things. It is the constant dropping that wears away the soul.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY

Red makes an excellent fat for all spice cakes and cookies. At this time of year flour is apt to be quite fat, but if the fat is used in place of other shortening for baking, waste is avoided.

Pineapple Tapioca

1 cup pineapple
1/4 cup powdered sugar
1/4 cup minute tapioca
Boiling water
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt

Drain the pineapple, sprinkle with the powdered sugar, and let stand 1 hour. Soak the tapioca 1 hour in cold water to cover. Add to the pineapple syrup enough boiling water to make 3 cups; heat to boiling point. Add the pines, drained from cold water, sugar and salt. Line a pudding dish with the pineapple, cut in small pieces, pour over tapioca mixture. Cook covered in oven at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Serve with a creamy sauce or top of bottle.

For TEETHING troubles

FUSSY, fretful . . . of course babies are uncomfortable at teething time! And mothers are worried because of the little upsets which come so suddenly then. But there's one sure way to comfort a restless, teething child. Castoria—made especially for babies and children—is perfectly harmless, as the formula on the wrapper tells you. It's mild in taste and action. Yet it rights little upsets with a never-failing effectiveness.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given to tiny infants—as often as there is need. In cases of colic and similar disturbances, it is invaluable. But it has every-day uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue

Knights of Lithuania Play Here On Tuesday

New Britain Game Cancelled Because Club Has Discontinued Home Games; K. of L. and Rec Battle Is a "Natural."

GREENWICH COACH

Clifford H. Gustafson

A basketball attraction that Manchester fans have long clamored for has finally been arranged. It features the Rec Five and Hartford Knights of Lithuania and will be played here next Tuesday night.

Manchester was originally scheduled to meet New Britain's National Guard quintet here but this game was cancelled last night by Manager Benny Clune when he learned that New Britain had decided to quit playing home games and pick up a little easy cash on the road before definitely disbanding.

While New Britain admittedly has a very powerful team, one that could or should, give the Rec Five a real run for their money, Manager Clune felt that under existing conditions the public would not warm up to such a game.

Consequently he got in touch with the Knights of Lithuania and succeeded in reaching terms.

No Other Games With Manchester High booked out of town for five successive weeks, there will be no other basketball attractions in town for Manchester fans to witness.

This fact, coupled with the splendid reputation of the Hartford team should attract a capacity crowd.

Manager Benny Clune said today that he realizes several of the games played here this season have not started on time and the result has been disappointing to the fans.

This fault will be remedied in future games, Manager Clune declares.

Under no circumstances will I tolerate a repetition of such practice," Clune told The Herald today. Visiting teams will be warned to be here on time or else their games will be reduced.

The habit of waiving personal fouls will also be discontinued, visiting teams being warned that they must bring enough players to make no such drastic action necessary.

Many fans have been heard to express disapproval of overlooking personal fouls. They argue that this is part of basketball and that to eliminate ejecting players on four personal fouls is a strict violation of the rules which govern the game.

William Eddy of Simsbury, former Connecticut Aggie basketball star, will referee the Manchester-Hartford tussle.

Deadly Rivals The Rec Five and K. of L. are deadly rivals. They have met several times in the past few years and exceptionally close games have invariably resulted.

The game here Tuesday will be the first of a home and home series. Both teams are composed of the most experienced of the younger players in the state.

Many friends of Clifford "Curly" Gustafson read with interest notice in yesterday's Herald of his appointment as director of physical education of the Greenwich High school in Greenwich, Conn.

He is widely known here, especially in athletic circles, having achieved considerable prowess in both basketball and track at Manchester High school.

He still holds the school record for the 100 yard dash here with 10.2. Gustafson was a member of the class of 1921.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Chicago's Black Hawks moved two points closer to Boston in the battle for the leadership of the American division of the National Hockey League, whipping the Bruins 2 to 0 in an ice-melting struggle that kept more than 15,500 fans in constant uproar here last night.

Duke Kutkowski took a pass from Tommy Cook near the end of the second period for Chicago's first score and early in the third session, Mark March staged a beautiful single-handed drive to count the second.

The first two periods were sensational enough, but hardly compared with the final six minutes of the match, when the Hawks penalized five times in short order, put up a great defensive effort. Goals by Chuck Gardiner made almost impossible saves, thwarting a five-man Bruin offense, while the Hawks were two men shy.

The contest was rough but the officials called few penalties until they had to bear down on the Hawks for flagrant exhibitions of tripping and careless stick handling.

GOLDEN CLINGS TO LEADERSHIP

Dudley Only One Stroke Behind At End of Halfway Point At Agua Caliente.

Agua Caliente, Mexico, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Johnny Golden's remuneration for the golf he played in the Agua Caliente $25,000 Open tournament a year ago was $100, yet today he passed the half-way mark of the second renewal with a one stroke lead in the quest for the $100,000 first place money.

Playing a steady and frequently brilliant game during the first two rounds, this rotund professional from Noroton, Conn., wrote his name at the head of the list in the world's richest championship with scores of 70 and 73 for 143. This was 11 strokes better than he was able to do in 1930, although the course since that date has been increased from par 71 to par 72.

Another spectacular finish yesterday gave Golden the privilege of leading. He had completed the first nine in 38, two over par, due partly to a six on the eighth. Then he came back with a rousing finish, bagging two birdies on the last two holes for 35, one under and a 73.

Second among the 52 of 89 starting professionals was Ed Dudley from Wilmington, Del., who stepped into the role of a major money winner only a few days ago by taking the Los Angeles Open. By sinking long putts with abandon, Dudley clicked off a 73 yesterday and finished in second place with 144.

Tied for third was the Scot, MacDonald Smith, New York and the Spaniard Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, California, with 146. Five others were clustered at fifth. They were the defending champion, Gene Sarazen, Horton Smith, George Von Elm, Ralph Guldhall, Dallas, and Willard Hutchinson, Chicago. They each had 147.

Johnny Dawson, Chicago, and L. A. Byerly, Portland, Ore., topped the list of 11 surviving amateurs with 154.

The final round will be played Saturday.

FRESHMEN BEAT EAST HARTFORD Manchester High's freshman basketball team squared accounts with East Hartford here yesterday winning in a masterly fashion 39 to 19.

John and Johnston led the attack for Manchester and Turcek also played a leading role.

East Hartford won 21 to 16 in a previous game at East Hartford but was no match for the improved Slick City Yearlings yesterday. Manchester has played one other game, losing to Bristol, 22 to 19.

CASEY'S HICKS CHASED BACK INTO THE STICKS Casey's Hicks were chased back in the "sticks" Wednesday night by the Victors who emerged from a basketball clash in a manner befitting their name.

The score, 34-30. Emile Viot, Trade School star, ran wild for the Victors, accounting for 20 of the 34 points. Happeney also played a splendid game for the Victors. His passwork and defensive play were very instrumental in the victory.

Nearly Ninety Recruits In The National League

New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The eight clubs of the National Baseball League will give trials to nearly 90 new men this spring with the International and Pacific Coast League furnishing the most promising recruits.

Five regulars of Rochester, International pennant winner, will seek berths. "Rip" Collins, first baseman, and Paul Derringer, pitcher, go to the St. Louis Cards; George Grant, another pitcher will get a chance with the Pittsburgh Pirates, and John Berly, another fliker, with the New York Giants.

Outfielder "Red" Worthington, gets a chance with the Boston Braves.

From Baltimore, Stewart Bolen, crack right-hander, goes to the Phillies and Outfielder Vince Barton will try to crowd into the Chicago Cubs lineup. Reading's star catcher, Bob Grace gets a chance with the Cubs.

The leading coast league recruits are Wesley Schulmerich, who hit .380 for Los Angeles last season, and would like to approach that mark with the Braves. S. Hath, Hollywood first baseman goes to the Cincinnati Reds and Johnny Vergez, clever infielder, purchased by the New York Giants from Oakland.

The American Association also will not lack for representation. Brooklyn has purchased Clyde Day, veteran right-hander, from Kansas City, and Hal Wiltse, former Red Sox and St. Louis Browns pitcher, is up with the Phillies from Milwaukee.

The Giants will try out Tom Nash, former University of Georgia football star who batted .354 with Asheville in the Sally League last year. Howard Grossklos, an all-around athlete at Amherst, will try out for a place in the Pirates infield.

Take 8-0 Lead First Quarter and Coast Along To Well Deserved Victory.

The Majors basketball team defeated the Franklin No-Knocks of New Britain at the Harding gym on Hollister street last night by a 21 to 10 score. The teamwork of the local combination was so good that there was no outstanding star.

The scoring was well divided. Jackson played best for the Hardware City quintet. The Majors took an 8 to 0 lead the first quarter and were up 14 to 5 at halftime and 16 to 7 at the termination of the third quarter.

High School Picked To Triumph Tonight

Manchester High School Will Journey to West Hartford Tonight for the First of its Five Straight Road Games During which its Chances for a C. C. I. L. Pennant Will be in Jeopardy.

Manchester High school will journey to West Hartford tonight for the first of its five straight road games during which its chances for a C. C. I. L. pennant will be in jeopardy.

Manchester is favored to win tonight's game but there is no telling how the other four contests with Middletown, Willimantic, Bristol and Meriden will come out.

An upset tonight is also entirely within the realm of possibility.

Manchester is favored simply because West Hartford has already dropped three league games, losing to Bristol, Meriden and Middletown and winning only from East Hartford which has not won a game in two seasons during which it has compiled a record of something like two dozen consecutive defeats.

Meriden invades East Hartford tonight and there isn't much probability that McGrath's team will turn to the opposite side of the ledger, Meriden being one of the strongest teams in the league.

There is much interest in the outcome of the Bristol Middletown game in the latter city. Middletown like Manchester, is undefeated and may give Bristol a close battle.

Manchester, however, is worrying more about Bristol than Middletown and therefore would shed no tears if Middletown continued unbeaten tonight.

Tomorrow evening Bristol has another tough nut to crack when it goes to Willimantic to clash against Windham High. If Bristol can win both of these games, it will have accomplished a praiseworthy feat.

Windham, of course, is no slouch in the league.

The probable starting lineups for tonight's Manchester-West Hartford game to be played in the William H. Hall high school building on South Main street in West Hartford are as follows:

Manchester W. Hartford O'Leary, lf Parsons Terney, rf Hunting Turkington, c Lehey Squatrito, rg Sperry Hedlund, lg Hedlund Referee: Bill Coyle of Wallingford. Time 8:30. Preliminary between junior and varsity teams at 7:30.

CLARA JACKMORE HITS 128 SCORE

Miss Clara Jackmore, one of the leading bowlers in the league conducted by Cheney Brothers Girls' Athletic Association, rolled a score of 128 in a special match at the Charter Oak alleys in Hartford last night. It was the highest score Miss Jackmore has ever made and she came within a hair's breadth of getting a couple of additional spares which would have boosted her total considerably higher.

The town record here is in the early 1930's. Incidentally, Clara's sister, Nan Taggart, holds the league record here for this season with the same identical score, 128.

STATE FORESTER OUTLINES WORK

New Haven, Jan. 16.—(AP)—More than two score men have been given employment by the state forester, Austin F. Hawes, of Hartford under an appropriation of $7,000 allowed by the state board of finance and control, in December and this money will last until the second week in February. Yesterday the General Assembly received a bill calling for an appropriation of $100,000 for use by the state park and forest commission in clearing up wood lands in the state reservations.

A review of the use which is being made of the $7,000 is pointed to by the state forester as the way the proposed appropriation would be used in aiding the unemployed.

How Work is Done
The men are used in cutting out fire lines, brushing out wood roads and thinning out stands of trees. During the past week forty men have been employed, an equivalent of 965 man hours. The distribution of work has been as follows:

Cooksonpet state forest in the town of Haddam, Killingsworth and Chester, 14 men from Middletown, 8 from Haddam and six from Guilford. Paugnut state forest in Torrington, 12 men employed by the city of Torrington and transported by the city.

This week additional crews are being taken on, at Natchaug forest in Eastford, 12 men from Willimantic, six from Portland, three from Hartford. Pachaug forest in Voluntown, six men from the village of Voluntown. There are 11 men working near high rock in Naugatuck who are being paid by a private party but their work is supervised by a forester. Charlie Chaplin's Leading Lady Has Never Been Seen on Screen!

Virginia Cherrill Started Work in Hollywood Two Years Ago and Made Three Pictures, But First One Will Not Release Until Next Month.

BY DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

Hollywood, Dec.—There is one actress in Hollywood who has been in pictures slightly more than two years yet she never has been seen on the screen.

And the reason is that two years ago she was signed as leading lady for filmdom's biggest star—Charlie Chaplin.

Virginia Cherrill, the beautiful blond actress of whom we are speaking, came out here from Chicago to visit Sue Carol, a school girl chum. Chaplin saw the young Chicagoan at a party one night and was so struck by her beauty that he asked her to visit his studio to have a screen test made.

The test resulted in Miss Cherrill being signed for the feminine lead in "City Lights," Chaplin's latest picture, not yet released.

Virginia attracted considerable attention, as have all of Chaplin's leading ladies. That all happened two years ago, but the public still is waiting to see the new discovery it heard so much about. And the reason is that Chaplin followed his usual custom in taking two years to complete his film which is scheduled for its first showing next month.

Now that she is off the Chaplin payroll, however, the young actress really is getting busy. She was signed to a long term contract by the Fox studio a few weeks ago and already has completed her first picture, "Girls Demand Excitement," which incidentally is also her first talking film. At present she is playing one of the featured roles in "Three Girls Lost."

"I am very glad to have had the opportunity of working with Charlie as he is a remarkable man and I think I learned more from him than I could have in any other way," Virginia remarked. "But at the same time I am glad to be on the Fox lot now because I am being kept busy and I think it will be good for me to have a few pictures out."

"I was scared to death when I started on 'Girls Demand Excitement' because I was afraid I would forget anything in my life. Even in school I always managed to get by some way without memorizing anything. But strangely enough I haven't had a bit of trouble in remembering all of my lines so far."

With the training she had under Chaplin, who is considered Hollywood's outstanding genius, plus her natural talent for acting, Miss Cherrill should go a long way. At least that is the opinion expressed by Fox officials after seeing the first picture she made for them.

Virginia has no pet hobby, does not excel in any particular sport and has no special boy friend.

ELLSWORTH HONORED

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Lincoln Ellsworth, American explorer, came to the White House today to be presented with the gold medal voted by Congress after his famous Polar flights of 1925 and 1926.

He was invited to lunch with the President and Mrs. Hoover.

In 1929, Congress voted special gold medals for Ellsworth, Roald Amundsen and Umberto Nobile. Both participated with Ellsworth in the trans-Polar flight of 1926.

Nobile has never been to the United States to receive the medal and Amundsen was lost in the Polar wastes during a search for part of Nobile's party when the Italian dirigible cracked up on another Polar flight.

President Hoover received in the name of the nation the American flag which Ellsworth took over the top of the world from Kings Bay to Point Barrow, Alaska.

ROB LUNCH CART

Milford, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Two bandits early today leisurely entered a diner on the Milford turnpike, held up the attendant, rifled the cash register of $25, helped themselves to a cruller each and escaped.

John Zahcenst, counterman and the only occupant of the place reported that a third man watched outside while another sat in their car and kept the motor running during the holdup.

DOLLAR VALUE DROPS

Shanghai, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The Mexican dollar plunged to a new low level of 21.8 gold cents here today.

Nationalist government postal authorities said as a result of the persistent decline in silver they were considering a further advance in the international postal rates. These rates were increased 50 per cent last July as a result of the silver slump.

DIES FROM FALL

Danbury, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Samuel Savley, a trainman of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., was fatally injured last evening when he slipped on the ice in New Haven railroad yard here as he alighted from a freight train and fell striking his head upon the ground. He died later in the Danbury hospital as the result of a fractured skull.

Here you see charming Virginia Cherrill who has been Chaplin's leading lady for two years but who has never been seen on the screen.

SENATE TO PROBE PRICES OF BREAD

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The Senate today adopted without debate a resolution for investigation of the reasons for the failure of the price of bread to reflect the decline in the price of wheat and flour.

Inquiry also will be made to ascertain whether bread prices are at their present level because of "combination in restraint trade."

The Senate interstate commerce committee was given $15,000 from the Senate's contingent fund for the study.

The resolution was a combination of proposals offered by Senators Wagner, Democrat, New York, and Brookhart, Republican, Iowa.

It said the price of wheat and flour had undergone a precipitate decline during the past year, that the price of bread had not gone down in proportion; that the price of whole wheat flour was now higher than white flour, and that the price of brown and unrefined sugars was now higher than white and refined sugars.

All of these contentions would be investigated.

The study concerning sugar prices will be conducted simultaneously with that into bread prices.

THREATEN TROOPERS

Hartford, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Earl Palmer and Charles Buck, the two former convicts who were picked up near Cornwall by State Police and who are wanted in Greenburg, Westchester county, N. Y., for theft of a taxicab, threatened to use a machine gun on the troopers at the Casanar Barracks and also promised the taxi driver with "a ride to the cemetery" if they went "up the river."

Palmer and Buck were each held in bonds of $25,000 as fugitives from justice after they had declared their intentions to fight extradition to New York state, and Buck had an additional bond of $2,000 fixed for having carried a concealed weapon. They had been identified

HOWITZER COMPANY

The annual meeting of the Howitzer Company Association was held Tuesday night at the Company room in the Armory. The new constitution was read by Lieut. Helmar G. Anderson and with the exception of a few minor changes was accepted by the members. The matter of loans was discussed but no action will be taken until a further date, probably at the next monthly meeting.

Due to the prevalent hard times and unemployment of many members of the Company, the regular monthly feeds and the annual banquet have been indefinitely postponed.

Congratulations are in order for Private Anthony Mozzer, better known to the boys as "Tony," is to be married next Wednesday. The Company officers and enlisted men wish "Tony" all the luck in the world when he leaves the ranks of the bachelors to join the married men.

The basketball team made it four straight when they beat the Holy Trinity team in a fast and hard played game Tuesday night. Immediately after the game, Chester Sendrowski was elected captain and he will direct the destinies of the team in the future.

Corporal Bober was not satisfied with playing a quarter of the game the other night, so he put the gloves on with Private "Sailor" Mozzer. Sergeant Fatscher acted as referee and after taking one look at Bober he awarded the fight to Mozzer.

All members are expected to attend the next drill, when the Company will be inspected by Mayor Buck. The men will wear melton uniforms, white shirts and black ties.

Company G has finally accepted the challenge of the Howitzer Company for a mixed series of games, the first game to take place next Monday night.

CUTS HAND WITH AXE

Mrs. Elsie Taylor, 19, of 11 North school street is suffering from the effect of a painful accident. She undertook to chop some kindlings, holding a piece of wood with one hand and swinging the axe with the other. The axe hit the hand and the tip of the index finger was cut off almost to the first joint. A small bit was also chipped out of the middle finger.

FIND CHIEF'S BONES

Sarnia, Ont., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Discovery on Walpole island of what are believed to be the bones of Tecumseh, famous Indian chief and ally of the British forces in the war of 1812, was reported today by members of the Walpole Island Soldiers' Club.

The find was made a week ago at the residence of Sarah White, 85-year-old widow of a former chief, but the information was withheld pending partial authentication which the members of the club now believe they have.

PROHIBITION LAW IS 11 YEARS OLD

Just As Much Controversy Over It Today As When It Went Into Effect.

Washington, Jan. 16—(AP)—It was eleven years ago today that the liquids usually associated with the swinging door and the brass rail lost their legality. As prohibition stretched into its 12th year, there appeared little diminution in the conflict that has marked its history since midnight January 16, 1920 when the Nebraska Legislature placed the 18th Amendment into effect by submitting the necessary 36th state ratification. There was expectancy today in fact, among leaders of both the wet and dry forces concerning the imminent prohibition report of the Wickersham Law Enforcement commission. From both camps have come expressed hopes that the long awaited document will bolster their contentions.

Debate Today
Further tumult along the prohibition path was seen in the more than $2,000,000 added appropriation requested by the Prohibition Bureau to place 500 new dry agents in the field. The House was to start debate on that today. The Supreme Court is to enter the field soon by considering the Clark decision holding the 18th Amendment invalid. Just as prohibition's 12th year starts with prospective debate over a Wickersham commission report, so did the 11th year. From the recommendations then submitted already have come among other things, the transfer of the Prohibition Bureau from the Treasury to the Justice Department, and modification of the Jones "five and ten" prohibition law, approved by President Hoover only yesterday.

DRUG STORE ROBBED

New Britain, Jan. 16—(AP)—Police today were without a clue to the identity of three unmasked holdup men who covered James R. Halloran, owner of a pharmacy at 149 Lafayette street last night while he was preparing to close the store and stole $15 from the cash register. They overlooked the day's receipts, which had been placed in a safe.

One man walked in and pointing a gun at Halloran, ordered him to hold up his hands. Halloran advanced toward him belligerently but was halted when two other men, both armed, entered. The first man emptied the drawer of the cash register and the trio then fled, jumping into an automobile which was parked at the curb, with a fourth man at the wheel.

Musical Aviators' Radio Orchestra Made Up Of Bonafide Plane Pilots

New York—(AP) Tom Truesdale, hailing from the southland, may be just another of New York's radio orchestra leaders.

But that's not all. At heart he's an aviator, as are all ten members of his orchestra. So air minded is this group of young instrumentalists that they even carry out the idea in their attire. They wear flying apparel of the dress-uniform type.

Besides, in the New York hotel where they daily send out their tunes they have rigged up a full-sized replica of a folkler plane against one wall of the room. The cabin, open on the side, serves as the orchestra pit, while a wing stretches over the dance floor.

The Musical Aviators sprang into being somewhat in this way: Truesdale, born in Columbia, S. C., in 1904, the son of the Rev. Dr. R. S. Truesdale, now pastor at Hawthorne Lane church, Charlotte, N. C., started playing the violin at seven. When he was ten he made his first public appearance in a student concert.

Interested in travel, he came to New York to study music. Then he made a concert tour in the south. That wasn't enough, travel, he thought. He left for Europe. He met several musicians also traveling just to satisfy the wanderlust.

Tom decided to form a band, toured Europe and played in such cities as Paris, Berlin and Madrid. Meanwhile he made side trips to Africa.

Returning to America, his "bug" on flying developed considerably. He started training in an airplane, joined by each member of his orchestra.

Then came the decision to develop a fliers' band. There followed a vaudeville tour, an engagement in New York and almost daily programs on the WABC network.

These musicians, headed by their leader, spend all their spare time and even their spare change in aerobatics. They tell this story about one of the boys: During a nightly performance, this musician suddenly slumped off his chair.

The doctor's diagnosis indicated lack of sleep and too much air travel.

Tom Truesdale, as much aviator as musician, attires his orchestra in fliers' uniforms.

MERGER NEEDED OR ALL EUROPE CANNOT EXIST

Briand Tells Delegates At Geneva That Nations Must Unite If They Are To Live; Hard Road Ahead.

Geneva, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Europe has come to the belief that her nations must unite if they are to live. Aristide Briand today told delegates from twenty-six European states gathered here under the auspices of the League of Nations to examine his plan for a pan-European Federation.

"We have a long road to travel," he told the Assembly as he opened his sessions, "and we must map it out. We must never be swayed from our purpose and in our task we will reject the co-operation of none."

Dr. Julius Curtius, Germany's foreign minister, echoed the French chairman's declaration, asserting that his nation, supporting any program of co-operation and peace, agrees that in these first meetings economic collaboration among the nations must be emphasized.

For the commission's guidance, Briand said, the league secretariat has prepared a report on the league's work for European organization during the past decade and a similar report has been made available by the international labor union. These data, he said, will form a basis for this commission's economic discussions.

Dr. Curtius seized upon Briand's assertion that the commission would reject any co-operation with Germany when Germany's proposal to invite Russia and Turkey to sit with the commission would be considered. Briand replied that he already had indicated he wanted to call on all governments to participate but that there still was a question as to the proper time for inviting these non-members of the League of Nations. The commission itself must decide this, he said.

Not Represented
Turkey and the Soviet Union are the only European nations not now represented at this meeting.

Dino Grandi, Italy's foreign minister, supported the contention of Curtius that both Turkey and Russia be asked to sit in.

Italy, he said, favors a European union which would include all the countries which make up Europe. Otherwise a union excluding some nations merely would divide Europe into two camps.

Arthur Henderson, for Great Britain, suggested that this question be decided by a small committee. His proposal was adopted.

Before the delegates dispersed, however, he declared twice above the minister told them that Italy regards disarmament as essential to any plan for European union and the basis of European security.

WITNESS STABBED FOR SECOND TIME

Howard was found by neighbors who had heard her screams. She had been stabbed twice above the heart, slashed across the face and beaten on the head. She was reported in a critical condition but police said they expected to interview her today.

Mrs. Bowles died from a knife wound inflicted while she was in Miss Louck's apartment last November. Both Bowles and Miss Louck who were present, told police after a conversation over domestic affairs involving Miss Louck.

Discrepancies in the statement of a physician who had been called to attend Mrs. Bowles and who admittedly ordered the body removed from the apartment before notifying the police, led to the arrest of Bowles and Miss Louck.

BIG HOSPITAL GIFT

Baltimore, Jan. 16.—(AP)—A gift of $700,000 which eventually will go to Johns Hopkins hospital was revealed today in the will of William A. Marburg, former vice-president of the American Tobacco Company, which was filed for probate in Orphans' Court. The will disposed of an estate estimated at $2,100,000.

The $700,000 was left in a trust fund to go to Johns Hopkins upon the death of the last surviving child of Theodore Marburg, former minister to Belgium and brother of William Marburg. Another trust of $50,000 for his sister, Emma Marburg was to go to the hospital upon her death. Mr. Marburg died last week.

met the princess as they climbed out of the ship.

The heir to the throne, saw a group of photographers and motion picture men being held back by soldiers. He waved his hand to them and grinned.

"Let them come," he told the port commander. "But you've got to be quick about it," he added for the benefit of the camera men.

For five minutes the cameras clicked as the two princes posed, then they climbed into the air attaché's car and started for Paris.

Major Fielden, their pilot, said the weather had been "pretty soupy" and at times they had to climb to 5,000 feet.

START OF FLIGHT

London, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The Prince of Wales got off to a flying start today on his tour to South America. With his brother, Prince George, he left Hendon Airport in a plane bound for Paris on the first leg of a tour which will take them over 18,000 miles.

Apparently Prince George decided at the last minute to accompany his brother on the airplane journey. Shortly before they left it had been announced that the King's younger son would cross the channel by steamer. They were together in the passenger plane when it took off at 1 p. m. (8 a. m. E. S. T.).

The Duke of York and the Duke of Gloucester were at the airfield to bid their brothers good-bye.

Miss Own Plane

This first stage in the long journey of the royal "salesmen" was in the prince's own plane with his personal pilot at the controls. It is a "Puss Moth" painted in the brigade of guards colors, red and blue.

The prince was wearing an everyday business suit with a long astrakhan-lined coat and derby hat. His brother wore a gray lounge suit, a fur-lined coat and a derby.

It is in the capacity of merchant princes, with British good will their chief commodity of sale, that the royal brothers set out on their trip which will take them from England for more than two months and involves visits to most of the important South American cities.

His Chief Task

The British heir's chief task will be the inauguration of the British Empire Trade Exhibition at Buenos Aires, March 14.

The prince has spent long hours of studying Spanish and in interviews with business men returned from South America, in general making a close study of the problems which he will be called upon to face. His younger brother, Prince George, has shared to a considerable extent in his studies.

Before the princes left York House both of them talked by telephone with the King and Queen at Sandringham.

Tonight and tomorrow they will remain in Paris proceeding thence to Santander, Spain, where they will board the liner Oropesa for the trans-Atlantic voyage. Before they finish this tour the princes will use almost every means of travel, including train, lake steamer, automobile and even the humble mule.

FOUND DEAD IN BED

Meriden, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Miss Viola Macomic, 21, who came here recently from Chicago, was found dead in bed in her room at the Y. W. C. A. here today. Dr. DeForest Lookwood, medical examiner, pronounced death due to natural causes and probably from a heart attack.

Miss Macomic came east with her aunt, Miss Margaret Macomic of Center street, Wallingford, following her father's second marriage. She was a student at the Laurel Business School here.

CLARA BOW REPLACED AS STAR IN PICTURE

Rumor Says Star's Present Legal Troubles Is Behind Move of Film Company.

Hollywood, Calif., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Clara Bow was removed from the position of a co-star with Gary Cooper in the film, "City Streets," by officials of the Paramount-Public Corporation today. Her place will be taken by Sylvia Sydney, recently of the New York stage.

The announcement marked the first time since Clara became a starring figure that she has been replaced in a picture.

Studio officials would not comment on testimony which was written into the trial of Daisy De Voe, ex-secretary to the actress, on grand theft charges.

It was: "I wanted to keep Clara out of the papers because one more slam in the papers and Clara is through in pictures."

Studio officials said they knew nothing about a report Miss Bow desired to go on a vacation because she was in a nervous condition from the rigors of the trial. The actress is under contract to Paramount but no announcement was made concerning her future activities with the studio.

STRANDED IN ISLAND

Hyannis, Mass., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Erving C. Wright, member of the Boston sporting goods firm of Wright and Ditson, was rescued from an island in Barnstable Harbor early today, suffering from frost bite and exposure. He was taken to the Cape Cod hospital where his condition was said not to be serious.

Wright lost his boat yesterday while duck hunting and was stranded on Jewel Island. It was midnight when his cries for help were heard.

TALES OF PRINCE IN LATEST BOOK

London, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Once upon a time—this is a true story appearing in a book called "South of Suez," by the South African, William J. Makin—there was a Prince who danced with a golden haired show girl in a desolate town on the coast of Africa.

"How's business with your troupe?" the Prince asked her. "Rotten," the little girl answered. "Well," said he "if you're playing in any town where I happen to be, let me know and I'll come to your theater. That ought to help business."

The Prince, of course, was the Prince of Wales, and this is only one of the stories about him in Makin's book which was published today.

In another anecdote he discloses that the heir to the British throne would like to be a newspaper man if he didn't have to be a prince.

"If I were not the Prince of Wales," Makin says he heard him say one time, "there is one job I would be delighted to tackle—special correspondent to a newspaper. Going out after a story must be one of the finest jobs in the world."

15 HURT IN CRASH

New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—About 15 men and women were injured today when the second car of a Hudson tube train from Jersey City split a switch leaped from its trucks and partly telescoped the first car.

The accident occurred at the line's New York terminus, Sixth avenue and 32d street. The force of the impact threw the first car against the row of girders. Five other cars remained on the rails.

None of the injuries was believed to be serious.

CADETS TO CRUISE

New London, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Coast Guard cadets will leave this port for a foreign cruise aboard the cutters Sebago and Mendota, June 19, with Gibraltar as the first port of call, according to tentative plans as approved service headquarters at Washington, the Academy announced today.

The cruise will extend until August 31, with 12 days at the end being devoted to maneuvers in Gardiners Bay.

The cadets who will make the cruise will leave here May 20, aboard the cutters, for Parris Island, S. C., where small arms target practice will be held. They will return here aboard the cutters June 16, to complete arrangements for the cruise.

BRIDEGROOM SENTENCED

New Haven, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Ernest F. Jacobs of New Haven, a bridegroom of two weeks was sentenced to one to four years in state prison and his companion and brother-in-law, Arnold Handy was given a suspended reformatory sentence on charges of robbery with violence when they appeared today before Judge A. C. Baldwin in Superior Court.

Jacobs entered a plea of guilty. The pair were arrested by State police of the Westbrook Barracks upon the complaint of Samuel Moslowitz, a poultry dealer who said they had robbed him of $68 and his truck near Guilford January 8. The truck was recovered in North Branford later the same day.

COLD IN BAY STATE

Springfield, Mass., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Temperatures ranging from 2 to 4 degrees below yesterday's low points were reported today from nearby western Massachusetts points. The U. S. Army hospital thermometer, conservative and regarded as somewhat official, registered two below zero compared to even zero yesterday. Brimfield which had four below yesterday was eight below today. Places nearer this city had five and eight below.

FINANCIERS REFUSE REQUEST OF HOUSE

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The House banking committee today ordered an investigation of the refusal of Charles A. Mitchell of the National City Bank and George W. Davison, of the Central Hanover Trust Company to supply certain financial statements.

A motion by Representative Beedy, Republican, Maine, to name a sub-committee of five to determine the legal rights of the committee in forcing the New York bankers to supply information demanded during the investigation of chain and group banking was unanimously adopted.

Mitchell declined to supply a separate financial statement of the National City Company, an affiliate of the bank of which he is chairman of the board. Davison, Chairman of the board, also refused certain detailed financial data requested during the inquiry.

Mitchell wrote the committee it was "a settled policy" of his institution not to publish a separate statement for the National City Company.

The issue of requiring Mitchell and Davison to furnish information was raised by Representative Steagall, Alabama, ranking Democrat on the committee. It was brought out that the special investigating powers of the committee, which included the right of subpoena, expired last December 1.

"I do not want anything published to hurt anybody," Steagall said. "But the committee should be the judge of that."

Beedy contended that "the only way for the committee to retain its self respect is to insist on compliance with its request."

ALFARO BACK HOME

Colon, Panama, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Dr. Ricardo Alfaro, former minister to the United States and now president-designate of the new Panama government, arrived here today from New York for his inauguration.

The pier was thronged with a cheering crowd which followed him through the city to the government building where he held a reception prior to his departure for Panama City, where the inauguration ceremony is to take place this afternoon.

A heavy guard of Canal Zone police accompanied him to the boundary line.

MAIL TRUCK DRIVERS HELD IN BRIDGEPORT

Bridgeport, Jan. 16.—(AP)—A conference was held today between Thomas J. Mallalieu of Washington, D. C., superintendent of the postal service, Mayor Buckingham, and Archibald McNeil Jr., president of police board, over the arrests of eleven mail truck drivers.

The trouble arose over complaints of pedestrians that they were obliged to walk in the roadway of John street at the postal station, because mail trucks were parked so as to obstruct the sidewalks. A count was made of the number of persons who were forced off the sidewalks and as complaints continued the police department was instructed to enforce traffic orders.

Drivers were handed summons to be in court yesterday but their cases were continued for a week. The conference today was a means taken to see if the complaints can be quieted by stopping the parking of trucks.

John street is narrow but it is a highly used way for persons in that section.

NOTED SURGEON DIES

Baltimore, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Dr. Hiram Woods, 73, one of the pioneers in the field of ophthalmology and a nationally known eye surgeon was dead at his home here today, a victim of pneumonia.

The death of Dr. Woods cut to three the surviving members of the Princeton University graduating class of 1879, which numbered President Wilson as one of its eight members. He was a pall-bearer at Wilson's funeral.

FENTON SAYS AUDIT OF BOOKS IS WRONG

Willimantic, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Frank P. Fenton, former Windham town treasurer and town clerk today said that the printed report of an audit made in the fall of his accounts and which was distributed last night was the first time he had seen the figures of that audit.

The audit would make the "unexplained deficit" in Fenton's accounts as treasurer of $87,476.68. Mr. Fenton said that with the report of the town's auditing in hand he would arrange to have his own audit and he forecast that it would show no deficit.

The town officials expect to look to the company which bonded Fenton as treasurer for town reimbursement. Prior to two years ago the bond was $10,000 but by reason of a change in the law in 1929 his bond later was $36,800.

The printed audit distributed today was provided under an appropriation of $400, made at the November town meeting.

Fenton says the auditor did not fully examine the records and many essential accounts were not included.

STIMSON PROTESTS PRESS CENSORSHIP

New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Protests were sent today to President Machado of Cuba and Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson at Washington by the Press Congress of the World against the suppression and censorship of Havana newspapers.

The messages, signed by President Walter Williams of the University of Missouri on behalf of the Press Congress, were made public here by James Wright Brown, of the executive committee.

"Censorship of newspapers in any form disturbing or restraining dissemination of news or freedom of comment on news, to say nothing of suppression of all such publication, is inconceivable in this day of enlightened education," the protest to President Machado said.

The protest to Secretary Stimson said, "Surely our interest in the welfare of the people of Cuba well justifies vigorous representations by our State Department to the government of Cuba. It is also incumbent upon leaders of the press in this country to protest vigorously the autocratic policies of dictatorship as exercised in the case of the suppression of these Cuban newspapers."

Famous Gambling Casino Empty Except For a Few Pikers; Prince Louis Talks
 Monte Carlo, Monaco — (AP) — While Prince Louis is attempting to restore order in this tiny principality, its Casino is nearly empty and the little marble clicks mournfully around roulette tables bare of gamblers.
 The few that are there are what the croupiers call under their breath "pikers." Ten francs—forty cents—extended with a trembling hand on the red or black appear to be their limit, both maximum and minimum.
 Granting his first interview in many years, Prince Louis of Monaco told the press after the recent trouble in the principality, that "the partial suspension of the constitution and dissolution of the national and municipal councils would last until complete calm has returned."
 Greeted by a Molotov
 When Prince Louis came back from Paris recently, he was greeted at the station here by thousands of manifestants shrieking: "Liberty and Abdication."
 The army of Monaco, three officers and 82 carabinieri, charged the disturbers, arrested eleven, seven of whom were sentenced to jail terms ranging from one to nine months the next day. Two carabinieri were wounded.
 Prince Louis then dissolved both the national and municipal councils and informed the citizens that there would be no further election until peace reigned among them.
 "From now on I am going to insure peace in this principality," Prince Louis continued. "Under no circumstances will we again permit our foreign guests to be disturbed."

HOOKS AND SLIDES
 BY WILLIAM BRADUCHER
IT IS JUST TOO MUCH
 The spectacle of the New York Boxing Commission handling the heavyweight championship of the world as though it were a political committee chairmanship would be funny enough to knock the customers out of their seats if the result were not so tragic.
 The commission made Max Schmeling champion on the strength of a synthetic victory over Jack Sharkey, a victory the German plainly did not deserve. Now, to gratify an overweening presumption that justice shall be the creation of their hands alone, they take it away.

SUCH TALK!
 In effect, it is like saying: "You, Max Schmeling, are the heavyweight champion of the world only so long as you do what we say you must. Violate our program for the handling of the heavyweight championship and the title shall be snatched from your hands. You must fight Sharkey or relinquish the heritage which John L. Sullivan handed down."
 Judging by the actions of the commission, the heavyweight championship which came down through the years from Sullivan to Tunney, has been placed in the hands of a little group of politicians for administration. Whether this be a sign of the most egregious sort of plain premeditated murder is hard to decide. This, however, is evident: IT IS JUST TOO MUCH.
 The New York Boxing Commission has tried to make the heavyweight championship of the world its political plaything, the piece of resistance of a rousing racket. Tradition that time has honored, tradition that even thugs have always respected, the commission has flouted to satisfy personal political conceit.

FALSE AUTHORITY
 The commission has even gone so far as to reverse its own brazen presumption with an even greater show of false authority. What right did the commission decide in the first place that either Sharkey or Schmeling should be champion of the world?
 Having assumed that authority, however, and lifting the four penalties ruling to make it easy for either Schmeling or Sharkey to draw their swag despite any foul, the commission sonorously asserted last summer that Max Schmeling was champion of the world. Now the commission just as boldly asserts that Schmeling is not champion. He was champion through part of the summer, the fall and early winter. If he was champion at all, is he not champion now? Doesn't a champion have to lose his title in the ring?
 It becomes a question of wondering how long the men and women who like boxing are going to stand for this sort of cheap racket. With such a spectacle as this, how can an admirer of boxing hope for anything but the ringsters themselves—treachery, skullduggery and low larceny?

LIKE LOAD OF BEER
 The heavyweight championship before the days of boxing commissions, was held in some esteem. But as a plaything of pusillanimous politics, it amounts to no more than a truckload of beer being made the subject of a quarrel between rival gangsters.
 Edicts like the New York Boxing Commission hands out have done much to kill a splendid sport.

BETTER WEATHER REPORTS
 Bridgeport, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The Connecticut State Grange was today on record as opposing the daylight saving plan and favoring more specific weather broadcasts for Connecticut.
 Resolutions to this effect were passed at the closing sessions of the 46th annual convention here yesterday afternoon. A copy of the resolution opposing separate weather forecasts for the state and evening broadcasts of the forecast was sent to Senator Hiram Bingham.
 In the discussion, delegates declared that the weather broadcast in which Connecticut is given as portion of southern New England is too general and sometimes inaccurate. The day light savings plan, it was reported, disrupts farm schedules.

RESCUED AT FIRE
 Bridgeport, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Firemen protected by smoke helmets felt their way through the dense clouds blocking the passages and safely evacuated nine children and their parents roused from sleep when fire early today gutted the cellar of a four family house on Hallett street.
 Mrs. Edith Onderko was partly overcome as she tried to carry out her three year old son. Firemen rescued her and the boy and sent her to emergency hospital for treatment.
 Clouds of smoke rolling up from the burning rubbish in the basement prevented the use of the single entrance. Firemen passed the endangered persons through the windows to the arms of policemen waiting on the outside. Efforts of parents and neighbors to aid in the rescue work were prevented by the smoke.
 Chicago, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Eppie Moss, 41, a divorcee and a department manager for a wholesale jewelry, was found strangled to death yesterday in a garage at the rear of her home. A piece of rope was wound tightly about her throat.
 Three persons, including her roommate, Mrs. Belletta Morse, told police they saw her slayer, a youth about 20 years old, leave the garage. The police were unable to fix a definite motive. The victim's purse, containing a small amount of money, was found near the body.

ACCIDENTS GAVE CARIDEO CHANCE FOR RECOGNITION
Says He Got His Biggest Thrill Out of His First Tackle; Pays To Take Chances.
 South Bend, Ind., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Frank Carideo marshaled two of the mightiest teams in football history, won unanimous selection as the All-American quarterback two years straight, heard more than a million fans cheer his exploits and yet—his greatest thrill of all came on the first play he ever made for Old Notre Dame—a play that didn't even muster a cheer. The piker was his first tackle.
 "My thrill of thrills in football came on an afternoon in October, 1928," said Carideo. "We were being pushed all over the field by Little Loyola college and Coach Rockne, perhaps in desperation sent me into the game with a flock of subs. No sooner had I staggered stage-struck into the game when a Loyola back wriggled through and charged at me—the last obstacle between him and a touchdown. I lunged at him wildly with everything I had and downed him. I hugged him for what seemed to me to be an hour—he must have thought I was a mad man—and got my big thrill when the referee pried me away. I'll never forget it."
 A quarterback who calls a play and then backs down from it at the insistence of his dubious mates never will be a success, Carideo believes. "Once you decide on a play, carry it through," he explained. "Every quarterback sometime will experience a mild rebellion among his team mates. During the game with the Navy last fall I had mine. The ball was in mid-air in our possession. It was fourth down and three feet to go. I decided to try for a first down instead of punting safely. Several of the fellows told me I was crazy to risk it. But I stuck by my guns, we made the first down by the unexpected thrust and marched down for the first touchdown. In the Carnegie Tech game when we had the ball on the sideline, second down and nine to go, I called for a drive right along the line instead of the customary sweep to the other side or the conventional sten-out and the boys played so perfectly that I slide along the line for a firstdown—one play that beat the Tartans."
 Carideo attributes his whole football career—a career that will be extended as a teacher next fall when his drills Purdue's backfield—to "accidents." He accidentally got into football at Mount Vernon N. Y., high school when 15 years old; he accidentally started his quarterback career at Dean Academy, Franklin, Mass., when the coach used him because the other quarterbacks forgot signals and Frank always corrected them and he was transformed to quarter from half-back at Notre Dame by Rockne for just the same reason. But no accident will cause Notre Dame to forget him. He is one of the smartest players Notre Dame ever had.

THE NUT CRACKER
 A rattlesnake chased Johnny Farrell at Miami the other day. Up to that time we had thought everybody immune from those Florida rattlers except Babe Ruth.
 Rattlesnakes shouldn't bother golfers, says O'Goofy, because most of them are hard-bitten.
 They used to be known as prize fighters. Now they are prize fighters.
 Swathmore agrees with several other colleges that football was over-emphasized. There isn't any doubt of it, so far as Pennsylvania was concerned. Come out, Penn! Remember something such score as Penn 63, Swathmore 0.
 How does it happen nobody has suggested a charity ski-jumping tournament? Such an event would be cold enough for the most ardent lover of charity to watch.
 In his new film, Art Shires is flattened by a rival ringster. O'Goofy says he'd bet Lena Blackburne would have loved to have played opposite Art in the picture.

Continue doing this around and around the clock, checking off a letter at the same interval each time, until you have checked off the 11 letters. Then, if you have picked the right starting point and the right interval, you will have spelled out an appropriate word.

RESCUED AT FIRE
 Bridgeport, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Firemen protected by smoke helmets felt their way through the dense clouds blocking the passages and safely evacuated nine children and their parents roused from sleep when fire early today gutted the cellar of a four family house on Hallett street.
 Mrs. Edith Onderko was partly overcome as she tried to carry out her three year old son. Firemen rescued her and the boy and sent her to emergency hospital for treatment.
 Clouds of smoke rolling up from the burning rubbish in the basement prevented the use of the single entrance. Firemen passed the endangered persons through the windows to the arms of policemen waiting on the outside. Efforts of parents and neighbors to aid in the rescue work were prevented by the smoke.

ABOUT TOWN

There is to be an important meeting of the Polish Co-operative Corporation this evening in their hall on North street which all members of the corporation are asked to attend. The meeting will be called at 7:30 and at that time there will be a report on the resources and assets of the corporation, which will include a complete inventory of the store conducted by the corporation and the amount of outstanding unpaid bills due. The store which is conducted by this organization has found it necessary to extend credit to their regular patrons and in some cases, due to the shortage of working hours, there have been some exceptionally large bills contracted for groceries and meats.

The actual digging for the new building on Galloway street to be erected by the Lithuanian Co-operative Association will be started on Monday. The work so far accomplished has been the staking out of the building and soundings have been taken to see just what can be found in the way of sand and gravel. There is considerable gravel that can be used in the mixing of the cement that will form the foundation and there will probably be enough sand for the plastering that will have to be done in the building.
