PRESIDENT'S BOARD COMPLETES REPORT

Chairman Wickersham Submits Document To Hoover—He Will Send It To Congress Tomorrow.

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The law enforcement commission's prohibition report was submitted to President Hoover today.

Chairman Wickersham arrived at the White House proper just before 9 a. m. He carried the long-awaited document in a bulky envelope.

The President soon went over to his offices, but whether to study the report was not revealed. He is expected to submit the commission's findings to Congress without delay, possibly Tuesday or Wednesday.

At that time it will be available for publication. The report of the commission as a whole has been described as largely factual, but embracing recommendations for improving conditions in connection with Volstead enforcement.

Repeal Not Favored
The word has been given that no recommendation for repeal or modification is included in this main report, at least. Sources close to the commission said no effort is made to gloss over facts, either favorable or unfavorable to the dry laws, however.

The report as submitted includes individual opinions from among the eleven commissioners. How many dissented from the majority report is expected to be made known only through publication of the documents themselves.

Separate Reports
From the commissioners in recent weeks have come assertions that unanimity could not be hoped for.

Under the plan upon which the report finally was drawn the members have written separate reports or opinions to take care of these divergencies.

The task of studying and reporting on all the nation's laws was put in the hands of the commission and George W. Wickersham, the 72-year-old chairman, exactly 18 months and 23 days ago.

Now that the prohibition report is out of his hands, the commission is to concentrate on other phases of its study. A final report is expected to be made in the spring.

Studies Document
At the White House later, the announcement came that President Hoover had begun to study the prohibition report.

His engagement list was held to the very minimum in order that he might devote the entire day to the task. He expects to send it to Congress tomorrow noon. No summary of the long document will be issued. The conclusions of the majority of the commission have been placed at the very beginning of the document.

NAB BLACKMAILER WITH FAKE PARCEL

Bridgeport and Waterbury Police Set Trap For Man Who Threatened Banker.

Waterbury, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Technically charged with breach of peace, Joseph Sullivan, 35, of varying address, was under arrest here today in what police described as a plot to blackmail a Cortland, N. Y. banker of $50,000.

Sullivan was arrested Saturday at the local postoffice general delivery window where he had gone to accept a package which he believed contained $50,000. The package was taken by Bridgeport police who mailed it to this address in accordance with instructions from Sullivan to Bridgeport postal authorities that if they received package for him there it was to be forwarded to this city.

Have the Letter
Police here said that they were in possession of the original blackmail letter and that it was addressed to a "Mr. Allie, a wealthy Cortland banker." The letter informed Mr. Allie that unless he mailed $50,000 to Sullivan certain activities of his, which he had wanted to conceal, would be exposed.

Captain William Keegan of the local police stated today that Sullivan, who is held for postal authorities, had confessed to writing the letter.

SCORES PAPERS FOR ATTACK ON SALVATIONISTS

New York City Officer In Address Here Says Football Fund Has Been Rightly Handled.

"We owe a great debt to the newspapers of America," said Lieut. Colonel E. B. Underwood of New York, known as the financial wizard of the Salvation Army yesterday at the afternoon meeting in the local Salvation Army citadel. Colonel Underwood was speaking in defense of the Army's alleged misuse of funds derived from the Army and Navy football game played in New York last month for the benefit of New York's unemployed.

Denounces Papers
Denouncing newspapers of New York and Connecticut who had declared in their columns that the money derived from the Army and Navy game was converted to other uses by the Salvation Army, Colonel Underwood defied the papers to find one penny misused of the money taken in from the sale of tickets; the broadcast and the Philco listeners-in tickets at yesterday's meeting.

"I personally visited West Point, Washington and Annapolis seeking to obtain the game after the New York crowd had been turned down," said Colonel Underwood. "Rear Admiral Robinson said he would agree to play for the Salvation Army but"

OPIUM SMUGGLING IS BEFORE LEAGUE

Delegate Says Trade In Drugs Is Continuing On An Enormous Scale.

Geneva, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Facing the important matters of fixing a date for a disarmament conference and arbitrating the German-Polish minorities differences, the League of Nations Council convening for its 62nd session today, turned first to the irritating problem of narcotic traffic.

Illicit trade in habit-forming drugs is continuing on an enormous scale, Leonard Lyall, head of the League's central opium board, told the delegates, and thus far the efforts of the League to stop it have failed.

"Narcotic seizures in the United States and other countries no longer are counted by the ounce, but by the hundredweight," he said. "Under these circumstances it may be necessary for the opium board to denounce countries in danger of becoming centers of this illicit traffic. In other words, it may be necessary to accuse such countries of not fulfilling their obligations under the opium convention."

Called a Warning
In that event, he pointed out, the matter would come before the League Council. "If you are to sit in judgment," he said, "you will agree that it is first necessary that you yourselves should fulfill your obligations under that convention."

His declaration made a marked impression and was interpreted as a warning that certain members of the Council should clean house in the matter of illicit narcotic traffic.

ROBS TICKET OFFICE

Chicago, Jan. 19.—A slender youth of quiet voice and dress, robbed the ticket offices of the Union Station of $10,000 in cash early today. Locked the clerk in the vault and escaped apparently unscathed.

MANY INJURED AS NEW HAVEN TRAINS CRASH

Colonial Express Hits Local Passenger Train Near Readville, Mass.—Engineer Seriously Hurt.

Boston, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A New York bound, N. Y. N. H. & H. railroad express train speeding through a heavy snowstorm collided with a passenger local near the Readville station today. Many persons were injured, some probably fatally.

The express, known as the Colonial, had left Boston at 9:30 a. m. and was due in New York at 3:05 p. m., when a few miles from the city proper and approaching Readville it met the local at an intersection. The latter was passing over the main line. The locomotive of the express crashed into the rear cars of the local and then overturned, pinning the engineer with his cab.

The injured included four negro dining car employees and numerous passengers.

List Of Injured

The first to be taken to a hospital were: Elizabeth Lackin, of Arlington; Mrs. W. F. Tilton of Norwood; Edgar Hopkins; Eugene Hoskins; Emerson Church; Samuel Dixon.

The latter four were dining car employees.

Others treated at various hospitals for injuries were Dr. A. J. Graham, 61, of Walpole, fractured skull; James A. Murphy, Norwood, fractured arm.

James W. Maguire, Woonsocket, multiple abrasions and cuts; Mrs. W. R. Mitchell, Norwood, fractured rib.

Richard A. Mainwarring, Norwood, fractured leg; Mrs. Joseph P. McKinnon, Norwood, fractured arm.

The engineer of the express was George Gladding of Providence, R. I. He was pinned in the cab of the locomotive and considerable time after the accident workers were trying to extricate him by means of acetylene torches.

Fireman Jumps
The fireman, Thomas McHugh, of Providence, R. I., leaped just before the crash and was uninjured.

At the railroad offices it was announced that when the Colonial Express met the local, inward bound from Blackstone and due at Boston at 10 a. m., both engines and four cars of the local were overturned.

The only serious injury known to railroad officials said, was that of Engineer Gladding whose leg had been pinned beneath his locomotive as it rolled over.

"A few persons" it was said reported less serious hurts and eight were taken to the Forest Hills hospital for treatment.

Westbound trains were being routed around the wreck by way of Dorchester.

Gladding, the engineer, was finally extricated from his overturned locomotive and taken to a hospital suffering from burns and bruises.

RIOTERS BATTLE POLICE IN FRISCO

1,000 Jobless Men Start Fights On March To City Hall—Leader Arrested.

San Francisco, Calif., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Rioters fought with police last night as a forerunner to a scheduled "hunger march" to the San Francisco City Hall today.

Twice, police answered riot calls last night from the curbstone meeting place of the unemployed where officers said more than one thousand men congregated.

The second time a mob attacked police in an attempt to free James Lacey, 33, whom authorities described as "a known agitator" and leader of the demonstration.

Reserves Arrive
Four policemen held the crowd at bay until reserves arrived and dispersed the demonstrators.

The first riot call was turned in when a crowd gathered around two rival soap box orators who engaged in fistfights after failing to shout each other.

These two orators Lacey and three other alleged agitators were arrested on charges of disturbing the peace.

DISPUTE OVER RELIEF AGAIN IN THE SENATE

Administration Leaders Opposing 25 Million Fund For Red Cross Rebuffed By Vice President.

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Senate administration leaders opposing the $25,000,000 appropriation for Red Cross relief were rebuffed today by Vice President Curtis.

Meanwhile, the House went forward with a calendar of minor bills, including a number authorizing construction of bridges in various parts of the country.

Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, sought to delay action on the fund for the Red Cross until Feb. 9.

He was ruled out of order by the vice president.

Senator Caraway vigorously criticized those who opposed the measure, while at the other end of the capitol, Majority Leader Tilson said he would do his utmost to defeat it.

Banking Probe
The Senate banking committee, under the chairmanship of Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, began its inquiry into banking conditions.

John W. Pole, comptroller of the currency, urged extension of branch banking by Metropolitan banks, and delegation of power to remove bank officials violating principles of sound finance.

The treasury's proposal to increase the Second Liberty Loan issue from $20,000,000,000 to $28,000,000,000 for refunding purposes was brought to the front by Chairman Hawley of the House appropriations committee and will receive consideration tomorrow.

PREMIER OUTLINES BRITAIN'S POLICY

MacDonald Tells Delegates He Accepts Plan For An All Indian Federation.

London, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Ramsay MacDonald, beginning his long-awaited pronouncement on British policy in India, today told delegates to the Indian round table conference that he accepted the idea of an All-Indian federation as the desire of the round-table delegates.

"It is a great achievement," he said, "both for India and Great Britain. We are grateful to you."

The Indians, said the prime minister, must settle their own communal disputes, for Britain is neither pro-Hindu, pro-Moslem, nor pro any section of the Indian population.

Up to Themselves
"The attitude of the British government," he said, "is to be ascertained by the Indian people themselves. It is nothing more than an overpowering desire to let you settle your own affairs."

He said he did not like the idea of placing "safeguards" about the proposed Indian government, but he pointed out that they exist in every constitution in the world.

"It is not that we want to interfere," he said, "but such safeguards as the financial safeguards which are proposed are necessary to keep India right in the eyes of the world."

He declared that all Indian com-

BUS SKIDS INTO HOCKANUM, BUT NOBODY'S HURT

Stops Two Feet Short of Being Submerged At the Familiar Danger Point At Oakland Bridge.

A Hartford-Worcester-Boston Pierce-Arrow bus, owned by Carl A. Aseltun of 253 Shrewsbury street, Worcester, enroute from the Hartford Terminal to Boston and driven by Harry B. Jewell of Church street, Northboro, Mass., skidded off the Tolland Turnpike on the Deming street curve, scene of innumerable accidents, at 11:15 this morning and plunged into the Hockanum River just west of the Oakland Bridge.

In the bus as passengers were A. Gordon O'Brien, 21, of 216 Huntington avenue, Boston, a surveyor, and Henry Hembrecht, 16, of 29 West street, Hartford, an upper senior in the Hartford Public High School.

Three Helped Out
The driver of the Boston-bound bus and the two passengers extricated themselves from the car, submerged to the bottom of the windows, assisted by Tony Dix of 279 Tolland Turnpike, who was notified of the accident by Mrs. Catherine Klus, of 218 Tolland Turnpike, a next door neighbor. Neither the driver of the bus or either of the two passengers was injured as the car stayed upright when it toppled over the bank and slid into the river with its rear end a bare two feet from shore. Two feet more and it would have been submerged.

The driver of the bus said that he was coming down the Deming street hill at a moderate speed when at the junction of Tolland Turnpike and Deming street, he saw a car coming fast across the Oakland Bridge. He said he turned out to the right and his right hand wheels went off the road on the curve and started skidding. He applied his brakes but the course of the car was down across the field over frozen ground and grass, and the brakes failed to slow down the speed of the car. After sliding about 150 feet the car had just momentum enough to reach the bank of the river, 15 feet west of the bridge, and settle into the water up to the lower part of the windows.

The passengers feet were wet in getting to shore and the driver, the last to be taken out, was thoroughly soaked. Neither passengers or driver admitted any injuries.

Has Done It Before
Mrs. Klus, who witnessed the accident, corroborated the story of the bus driver in his statement that he was going at a moderate rate of speed and that a car was approaching across the bridge. Mrs. Klus saw the car plunge into the river and called Mr. Dix. Mr. Dix has figured in the role of rescuer in several

DISCOVER STILL IN HAT FACTORY

Five Men Working In Plant Arrested By State Police; New York Residents.

Danbury, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Five men were arrested and a plant for the distillation of alcohol was confiscated by State Police from the Ridgefield Barracks this morning.

The men gave their residences as New Rochelle and New York City. They are charged with transportation of liquor and with manufacturing the plant which was set up in what about twelve years ago was operated as a hatter's fur shop here.

Harold Peterson of New Rochelle, was arrested on the outskirts of the city at 7 o'clock this morning after two State Policemen had followed him from the plant. On his truck the officers found 106 cans, each of five gallons capacity. The arrest was the signal for the other State Police to raid the plant and several officers entered there at 8:30 o'clock, hurrying here from the Ridgefield Barracks as soon as the arrest was reported. In the plant, in charge of the distillation at the time was Angelo Chinnl of New York City.

In another part of the building, three more men were found. This section was fitted up for the living quarters of the employees with cots for sleeping, a gas stove and a kitchen and pantry. It was not necessary for the men to leave the building from their living quarters to the plant.

AUTO INSURANCE

New Haven, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The recent announcement that automobile insurance rates in Connecticut were to be increased was the chief subject for discussion tonight by the New Haven association of insurance agents.

Mrs. Minnie Cedarholm, secretary of the Socialist Party today made known that at a meeting in Bridgeport yesterday, the executive committee drew up a letter to Governor Cross in behalf of the Socialist Party in Connecticut urging "immediate steps be taken to ward an investigation in the unwarranted increase of liability insurance upon automobiles recently announced by insurance companies."

Stock On Hand At Silk Mills and In Leading Stores Responsible For Assessment Losses—Value of Automobiles Decreased.

Manchester's grand list of property valuations on the assessments of 1930, a re-valuation year, was completed today and totals $52,867,969. This is a decrease of $652,636 over the list of 1929. The grand list of 1929, after the board of relief changes had been made, totaled $53,520,605.

Stock Cuts.
The big decrease this year is due to large cuts in stock on hand in the Cheney Brothers silk mills, decreases in stock in some of the leading stores here and a decrease in nearly a quarter of a million dollars in the valuations of automobiles.

17 Mills Sure.
A tax rate this year of 17 mills is indicated by these figures. The rate of last year was 16 mills, but this year's grand list must raise a tax, nearly $890,000 the recent appropriation of $50,000 for unemployment relief boosting the town's appropriations to the highest point in the history of the town.

The following abstract from the board of assessors' figures will prove interesting in the light of comparison:

	1929	1930
Dwellings	3858	3911
Barns, sheds, garages	4831	4938
House lots	6840	6817
Buildings for business	301	283
Mills, manufactories	56	46
Land acreage	13858	13886
Horses, mules	270	265
Neat cattle	522	536
Automobiles	4652	4734
Manuf. goods	$7,760,426	$6,733,958
Cables, conduits, pipe lines	$1,155,214	$1,481,759

It will be noted that the number of house lots this year has decreased. This seems impossible, but in re-assessing the various properties it was discovered that there were several proposed real estate developments that had not been successful or were not properly classified. These developments were placed under acreage this year instead of house lots.

Auto Values Cut.
It will be also noted there is a decrease of 10 in the number of manufacturing places. This is the result merely of reclassification, since some of the places previously placed under manufactories really belonged under classification of a different kind. Although the number of automobiles owned in Manchester increased $2 this year their valuations as a total decreased $228,565. This is due to the fact that a great many car owners kept their automobiles instead of buying new cars. The depreciation figures used by the assessors consequently cut the total down nearly a quarter of a million dollars.

Cheney Decrease.
The biggest decrease of course was in the Cheney Brothers silk mills. This year is $15,193,144 a decrease of $896,079. This is due to a big decrease in the amount of stock on hand, and is sufficiently large in itself to account for the decrease in the total grand list this year.

The Board.
The board of assessors this year is composed of S. Emil Johnson, chairman, Thomas Lewis and Loren C. Clifford, Jr. Neil Cheney is the permanent clerk of the board.

REV. DR. LEWIS ILL

Waterbury, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Although Waterbury hospital authorities today were unwilling to report definite improvement in the condition of Rev. Dr. John N. Lewis, rector of St. John's Episcopal church here, it was stated that he was resting more comfortably today than at any time since he entered the hospital.

Dr. Lewis, who has been rector of St. John's church for the past 30 years, was admitted to the hospital Friday evening following an acute attack of angina pectoris.

His personal physician describes his condition as "satisfactory" and hopes for a change for the better.

TEACHER AT M. H. S. HURT IN ACCIDENT

Miss M. Elizabeth Lee In Critical Condition After Tree Crash In Canaan.

Miss M. Elizabeth Lee, teacher of ancient and medieval history at Manchester High school, narrowly escaped death in an automobile accident Friday night while on her way to Canaan where she lives.

Miss Lee was driving alone in her 1930 Reo sedan when it is believed she was crowded off the highway by another machine causing her car to crash head-on into a large tree.

Miss Lee's condition is still critical, her mother, Mrs. Ada Lee, informed The Herald by telephone this afternoon, but it is believed she will recover. She has a bad scalp wound which was at first believed to be a fracture of the skull although present indications do not bear out such an injury.

Miss Lee's nose was broken, her face badly cut and she suffered numerous body cuts and bruises, especially around the knees. She was unconscious when found lying on the side of the road by George Reimer of Manchester who is a state policeman attached to the Canaan barracks.

Miss Lee is confined to her home under the care of Dr. Forbes S. Adams who lives in the same house, and a trained nurse. Her condition is such that Dr. Adams expressed the opinion she would not have survived the long trip to a hospital Friday night. Mrs. Lee said the improvement noted this morning was regarded as indicative of ultimate recovery.

Miss Mary M. Sweeney of 9 Edridge street, teacher at the Barnard school, usually accompanies Mrs. Lee every Friday afternoon to spend the week-end at her home which is also in Canaan but was unable to go Friday because of an eighth grade social and plans to attend the John McCormick concert in Hartford yesterday. The week previous four teachers made the trip.

Miss Lee stays at Teachers' Hall while teaching here. Her work is being taken care of by Clarence Davis during her absence. Another member of the faculty is at home recovering from a recent acute appendicitis operation. She is Miss Janet Wilcox of North Adams, Mass.

BUS SKIDS INTO HOCKANUM, BUT NOBODY'S HURT

Similar accidents at this dangerous point. The passengers and driver were taken into Mrs. Klus's home and dried out their soaked clothing around the fire.

Thirty feet from the edge of the river the bus broke off a sign post owned by C. H. Dexter, owner of the paper mill property, tossing it to one side as the bus slid off into water about four feet of water at the edge of the river.

Officer John Crockett investigated. No arrest was made. The towing and derrick car of the Depot Square Garage was called to the scene of the accident to remove the car from the river and a crew from the garage was working upon the removal of the car late this afternoon.

DAISY WILL TELL MORE ABOUT CLARA

Secretary To Film Star Resumes Stand — Rex Bell Gets Vaudeville Offers.

Los Angeles, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Daisy De Voe's promise of more lurid pictures of off-stage life in Hollywood and of affairs in the home of Clara Bow, whetted interest on charges of stealing $15,800 from the red-haired actress.

The big show was expected to be without its headliner again for the film "It" girl who once employed Daisy as secretary-confidante is nursing a bad cold and a case of nerves.

Miss De Voe was expected to resume the stand in her own defense and carry out, as far as the limitations of testimony taking would permit, her avowed intention of "telling plenty" on Clara.

Defense Counsel Nathan Freedman expected to conclude Daisy's testimony within three or four hours, after which, he said, a score of witnesses would be called to bolster up her case.

While she is specifically charged with theft of $15,300 from her former employer, Daisy is purported to have confessed to the misappropriation of almost $35,000 from the film actress. She also is said to have admitted attempting to extort $125,000 from Miss Bow on pain of disclosure of the contents of intimately and affectionately worded telegrams and letters from Clara's admirers.

A New Clara Bow Out of the first week of the trial Miss De Voe has emerged a new Clara Bow, says Clara herself. Declaring her faith in humanity was gone as a result of the tales of her former confidante during the testimony taking, Clara announced she was through with "frivolous stuff."

"I'll never trust anyone again," she wailed. "I gave Daisy free rein and she bit the hand that fed her." The trial has brought a pleasant reaction to Rex Bell, film player and present "boy friend" of Clara. It was learned that Bell was considering an offer made by a leading vaudeville circuit, heads of which figured that any young man favored by Miss Bow at present should "pack in" the fappers all over the land.

"I've got to see Clara, through this before I make a decision," Bell said. Clara had lots to say about Daisy Saturday, in an unofficial way. The little redhead cried a lot while telling her side of the snub, and wound up by simply stating she was ready to "kiss the money and things good bye" and charge it all up to profit and loss.

The thing that hurt most, she explained, was the loss of what she thought was a friend. "I was just lonesome," she said. "I hate to think I'm all alone again." "A Noble Wedding" is the title of the play to be presented in Turn Hall on North street, February 14 for the benefit of the Polish National Catholic church fund.

State Trooper J. J. Wasilus arrested them in consequence of a $15 check passed on a merchant here Saturday, made payable to "William Devos" and signed by "Sam Smith." In other instances the fictitious names "Sam Stone" and "Albert Hall" were used, the trooper said.

REFUSES TO PROSECUTE MEN WHO ROBBED HOME

Greenwich, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Burglary charges against three New York men arrested here Saturday were dismissed in town court today when the owner of the burglarized home declared he knew the prisoners and characterized the affair as a prank.

Those under arrest were Edward Swanson and Lawrence Haines, seamen, and Arnon De Valles, driver of the New York taxi in which the party and their loot were found. Herbert W. Friend, owner of the home from which the silver and a valuable portrait were stolen, refused to prosecute today, saying that the other men had conducted a similar burglary in his New York home a year ago.

The three were found early Saturday morning with a valuable portrait made by the artist Copley in 1871, various silver trinkets from the home in their possession, all taken from Friend's unoccupied home. The painting was estimated at between $10,000 and $20,000 while the other articles, Friend said, had a combined value of about $1,700.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The financial markets began a new week reluctantly today, thoroughly under the influence of the sharp decline in share prices that followed the breaking of the 1930 minimum levels, but bear prodding failed to bring out important liquidation, and the market seemed to stand still. Trading was in extremely low volume. The bond division was likewise apathetic, although prices there showed a fairly good undertone.

The share market was again under the influence of the disclosure of the annual earnings statements about to appear, with such important dividend readjustments as may be indicated. The comparative stability of indication of business activity from November to December, now that the figures are available has led to the hope that depression has reached bottom but the financial community is evidently anxious to take a more accurate measure of the shrinkage in corporate profits, before beginning to the prospects of recovery.

At the moment many projected domestic issues, it is understood are being held up, however, and there is further talk of still another reduction in the New York rediscount rate, as a means of forcing hesitant funds in to long term investments.

The low prices for merchandise are meeting gratifying response in many cities. The bureau of labor statistics shows that the index of wholesale prices dropped 2.12 per cent in December from the purchasing power of the 1926 dollar up $1.27 3-5. The Standard Statistics index of industrial production for last month was announced as only one point below November. In November it dropped 3.7 points and 6 points in October, so that the curve seems clearly to be flattening out.

TREATED FOR BROKEN LEG, DIES SUDDENLY

Johan Kanehl Passes Away As Heart Attack Or Shock Follows Confinement.

Johan Kanehl, 60, of 111 Florence street, died very suddenly early last evening at the Hartford hospital where he had been undergoing treatment for a broken leg. Either heart attack or a shock is believed to have caused death.

Only a few hours earlier, Mrs. Kanehl had been at the hospital visiting her husband and they had discussed his expected discharge from the hospital to take place early this week in view of the improved condition of his leg which was broken in a fall from one of Cheney Brothers' automobile trucks November 21. He had been confined to the hospital since that time.

Born in Germany, Mr. Kanehl came to this country and settled in Manchester 31 years ago. He had been employed at Cheney Brothers for 25 years. Mr. Kanehl is survived by his wife, Mrs. Emma Kanehl, five daughters, Mrs. Edward Hanson of North Main street, Mrs. Oscar Koch of Chicago, Mrs. William Hagemon of Knighton street, Manchester, and Dorothy Kanehl who lives at home.

Mr. Kanehl also leaves two brothers, William and August of Center and McKee streets respectively, and four sisters, Mrs. Carl Kingbaum of New York, Mrs. Anna Leonard of Wells street, Mrs. Ernest Koch of Chicago and Mrs. Henry John of Germany.

not for the New York crowd. I personally interviewed the President of the United States, the Secretaries of War and the Navy and the Commandant of West Point and Annapolis, spending much time in this connection. Can you imagine the Republican administration in Washington letting the Tammany crowd in on a proposition like that?" inquired the Colonel smiling.

"There had been many applications for the Army and Navy teams to play but the Navy finally agreed to play for the Salvation Army," continued the speaker.

"The game was played on Dec. 13, and although late in the season the day was perfect. The Salvation Army had 1,000 lassies collecting money and selling tickets. The sport writers of the New York papers were antagonistic, thinking they should have handled the whole affair. We received the greatest single amount of money ever taken in at a game, between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000 and before the money was counted the papers of New York demanded a report. All this in face of the fact that only a few days ago we received the Navy report on the game.

"The accounts of that game were handled by outside auditors as is usual in Salvation Army procedure. There were three sources of revenue for the New York unemployment fund: the sale of tickets, the Philco broadcast tickets and the sale of programs. From this arose a demand made by the New York American Legion to share with them in the amount procured and after we had deliberated on the matter and refused they charged in articles sent to the New York papers that we were discriminating against them.

Made Report
"As soon as they were ready I sent reports to every newspaper in New York with a statement and only the New York Herald-Tribune printed it."

Colonel Underwood denied the statement made by the Bridgeport Herald that the money had been used to buy property in New York and also that the money had been sent to Great Britain to help the Army there, and that the property, which Colonel Underwood said "had been in the works for some time before the game" was not purchased by money derived from the Army and Navy game.

"If we were doing wrong we ought to be exposed," said the Colonel expressively. "I would be the first one to expose it myself. The trouble has been caused by the damnable lying sheets telling it as Gospel Truth that has caused all the uproar."

Plan
Colonel Underwood explained the system of apportionment of the money derived from the sale of Philco listeners-in tickets, and stated that every dollar would be returned to the territory from which it originated. The speaker said he could not understand the antagonism of the American Legion of New York as the Salvation Army was always a friend of the soldiers and sailors.

"The Salvation Army is going to spend that money for unemployment the same as they agreed to do," declared the speaker. "The Army has not betrayed its trust and the public can depend on the Army to spend it for the purpose for which it was intended."

Labeling the Bridgeport Herald as a "damnable rotten sheet out gunshooting for divorces and scandals," Colonel Underwood and Brigadier Bates of Hartford, who was in charge of the meeting, said that they had no quarrel with respectable newspapers, but it was the "damned lying sheets" that had caused all the trouble.

Some Compliments
Brigadier Bates of Hartford complimented the Hartford Courant and Times on their treatment of the Salvation Army, calling the Brigadier out of bed on occasion on an question involving Army matters of import. Adjutant Heard of the local Army Corps complimented the Manchester Evening Herald respecting their handling of Salvation Army matters, locally, to the accompaniment of applause by the large congregation.

GREAT ROCK SLIP AT NIAGARA FALLS

New Horseshoe Falls Created When 150 Feet of Stones Fall Into the River.

Buffalo, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Niagara Falls today boasts two horseshoe falls instead of one. The second one, created by a series of rock slips Saturday night and Sunday morning, is much smaller than the famous horse shoe between Goat Island and the Canadian shore, but in the opinion of geologists, it will grow.

The one thousand foot crest of the American falls prior to Saturday night was in practically a straight line. The rock slip has created a rift in the line about 300 feet from Luna Island.

The U shaped indentation in the brink created by the slide is estimated to be 150 to 200 feet deep and 150 feet in width.

Cave Not Damaged
It was said at the falls today that apparently the cave of the winds had not been affected, though the broken rock and stone may have obstructed the pathway leading to this scenic feature of the falls. Because of the prevalence of ice and snow no attempt had been made today to enter the cave. A fall of rock in the cave of the winds eight years ago injured several sightseers.

Remedial Measures
Remedial measures to minimize erosion and preserve the beauty of the falls and provide for a greater diversion of water power purposes here have been held up for two years because of the failure of the U. S. Senate to ratify a treaty drawn up by the International Niagara Board, composed of engineering representatives of the American and Canadian governments, and signed by members of this board on January 2, 1929. The plan, estimated cost of which was $1,750,000, was ratified by the Canadian Parliament, May 20, 1929. However, the protocol never was reported out of committee by the United States Senate.

Under the terms of the treaty, the Niagara Falls Power Company was to pay half the cost of the remedial work and the other half to be paid by the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario and the Canadian Power Company Ltd. The additional diversion, which would provide 135,000 more horsepower, was to be for a period of seven years. If the plan was found to impair seriously the beauty of the falls, it was provided that additional diversion provision of the treaty might be rescinded at the close of the seven year period.

DISPUTE OVER RELIEF AGAIN IN THE SENATE

proved the administration's $90,000,000 naval construction bill, including provision for a six inch gun cruiser, which was rejected by the House naval committee.

Muscle Shoals
Off the floor, the Senate conferees on Muscle Shoals were charged by Representative Reece, Republican, Tennessee, with full responsibility for delaying disposition of the plant.

A legislative program restricted largely to supply bills was termed an effective blockade to enactment at this session of the Capper-Dickinson bill for closer Federal regulation of grain exchanges. Representative Dickinson, Republican, Iowa, co-author of the bill, said he did not expect such a controversial measure to get beyond the stage of hearings. Legislation to speed up unemployment relief through public construction was approved by the Senate judiciary committee.

The committee voted to report the bill recommended by the Justice Department to allow the government to acquire sites desired for public construction by payment of the estimated value without waiting for completion of condemnation cases.

Veterans' Compensation
A concerted drive to get the American Legion on record in favor of cashing veterans' compensation certificates was begun by House proponents of the plan.

Hartford, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Attorney Thomas J. Spellacy of Hartford has been named ancillary co-receiver with the Irving Trust Co. of New York for the four Schuller-United, Inc., stores in the state by Judge Edwin S. Thomas of the Federal District Court, it was announced here today. Bond is set at $25,000. The company's assets in Connecticut are estimated at $450,000. The four stores are in Hartford, New Haven, New Britain and Bridgeport.

munities, small and great, must be safeguarded in any constitution for India.

It was interpreted as a reference to Mahatma Gandhi when he said he regretted that all the elements in India were not represented at the round table.

Raps Gandhi
"He who stirs up dissension and suspicion among any people is doing a disservice," he said.

One of his most important pronouncements was a promise to grant amnesty to political prisoners in India if appeals made in their behalf at the round table conference are responded to in India by civil quiet and order.

He said also that the necessary steps would be taken for the separation of Burma from India. This was an outstanding issue of the conference.

The delegates gathered for this final plenary session in full Oriental regalia, the Indian princes wearing ornate turbans and flashing jewels and the women delegates clad in flowing gowns with multi-colored shawls.

The task of solving the Indian problem, the prime minister told the delegates has not been completed yet.

"We have gone as far as we can go here," he said, "how you must go back to India and we must go back to our public opinion, both of us striving to complete the tasks we have begun."

The delegates followed his every word with rapt attention as he read a declaration by the government deciding to transfer full responsibility for the government of India to the Federal and provincial Legislatures.

Details Incomplete
The work of negotiations for the future Indian government will be continued without interruption, he said, but details of the structure are still to be decided upon.

The Indian National government, he said, will be in the form of an All-India federation with the spheres of defense and foreign affairs remaining under the control of the Imperial British government. Certain reservations will be necessary, he added, during the period of transition.

He spoke for about an hour and concluded his address amid great applause with a declaration of hope that India soon would be welcomed into the British Commonwealth of Nations as a dominion with full responsible self-government.

The prime minister indicated, after this speech was over, that he would confer with Lord Willingdon, the new viceroy of India, as soon as he arrived from Canada concerning means of conducting negotiations for the working out of the new Indian constitution. Lord Willingdon is due here within the next few days.

SURETY COMPANY SUES CAPT. PENTLAND

Seeks To Recover For Payment On Bond For Military Property Before Armory Days.

Captain John Pentland, who was the first captain of Company G of the 160th Regiment, reorganized after the close of the war, serving from December 1, 1922 to December 1, 1926, has been made defendant in a suit for $735 brought by the Aetna Life Insurance Company, which issued the surety bond required to cover the government property in his charge while captain of the company.

When Captain Pentland was in charge of the company there was no armory here and the drills were held in the basement of Barnard school. The lockers of the company were also in the basement and on several occasions complaint was made not only by Captain Pentland, but by inspecting officers that the lockers were such that proper protection of the government property could not be given. This was one of the arguments set forth when the petition for an armory in Manchester was made to the Legislature through the committee on Military Affairs.

When a check up of the goods that was left in his charge was made on his retirement as captain a shortage was claimed and the surety company that had furnished the bond made a settlement with the state and the United States government for the articles checked as missing.

This settlement was made some time ago and it was supposed that the incident was closed until Saturday when papers were served on Captain Pentland by Deputy Sheriff James H. Johnston. The case is returnable to the Court of Common Pleas of this county in the February term.

Westminster Cathedral, England, is to be decorated all over inside with mosaic work, at $15 a square foot. The whole task will cost about $5,000,000, and may not be completed for about 200 years.

EDUCATORS STUDY COLLEGE REFORMS

Students Ask For Courses In Health, Value of Money and Family Life.

Winter Park, Fla., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Nearly a score of prominent educators were meeting here today at the invitation of Rollins College to formulate new guiding principles for college education in America.

They were presented as a nucleus for a discussion, with four reports prepared by students, faculty, and alumni of Rollins criticizing present day college curricula and advocating reforms. The report of a committee of students under chairmanship of George Holt, son of Hamilton Holt, president of Rollins College, was the most radical.

The students asked for courses in health, value of money and time; the individual and the family; citizenship; appreciation of the arts; philosophies and religion and the world we live in.

"We are taught dates," they wrote. "Formulas, scientific principles. We are taught that certain poems and novels are more highly regarded than others; but we are not shown how to make a living; how to keep accounts; how to get on with our husbands and wives; how to bear our children or how to vote."

Other Courses
The report also asked for courses in the study of the uses of leisure and money, for training in the scientific principals of marriage relations and child rearing and for broader courses in citizenship.

The report also suggested: Personal letters of recommendation should be substituted for degrees.

Football should not be encouraged at the expense of other sports.

Hazing should be ruled out of college life.

Freshmen, sophomores, junior and senior classes should be abolished and the student body be divided to upper and lower groups.

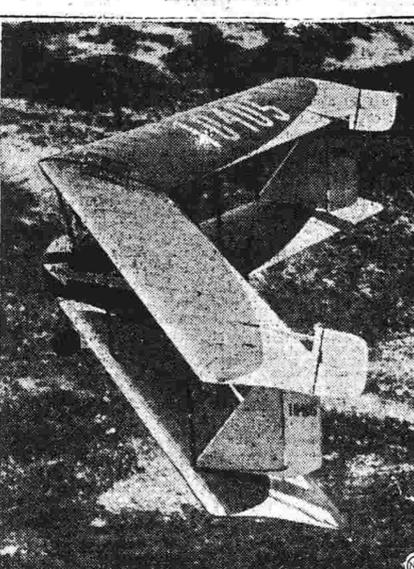

Students should be permitted to advance in their classes as fast or as slowly as they like with no time element in the curricula.

COLD IN SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, Mass., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Temperatures generally below zero early today marked the coldest day of the season to date and extremes of 10 below were recorded in several localities with average of about minus 4.

In places having some altitude, notably Brimfield, a breeze of some velocity intensified the hills.

It's the "Safety" Plane—Curtiss' Latest Invention.

This tailless, V-shaped plane of the pusher type, pictured in flight near Miami, Fla., represents the dreams of the late Glenn Curtiss, aviation pioneer, of a practically fool-proof craft which can be produced cheaply. Embodying the plans made by Curtiss shortly before his death, the "Arrowhead Safety Plane," as it is called, is powered with a three-cylinder motor and has a landing speed of only 19 miles per hour. It is declared that it cannot loop, spin or dive and may be manufactured to sell for about $1,000.

STEAL RADIO AND OIL FROM FILLING STATION

Bolton Notch Establishment Raided; One Man's Footprints For 2-Man Load.

The Socony filling station of the Standard Oil Company of New York, located on the Manchester-Williamantic road near Fayward Lake at Bolton Notch, under the management of Charles Mertens, Jr., of 8 Wetherell street, this town, was broken into and robbed of an Atwater-Kent radio and four gallon cans of oil in the early hours of Saturday morning, it was learned today. The station has been in operation only four months.

Entrance was gained through a window, which was pried open, breaking the catch and a pane of glass. A desk standing in front of the window was moved in removing the radio and oil. State police of the Stafford Springs barracks are now working on the case.

Investigation disclosed footprints leading from the station to the pond in the rear and belief is expressed that the robber or robbers had a car parked a short distance down the road and reached it by skirting the shore of the pond. The footprints are those of only one person but the bulkiness of the articles stolen would bear out the idea that more than one person was involved.

THE RED REPORT

It is very much to be doubted whether Congress will follow very closely the legislative lines laid down for it in the report of the Fish committee which for months has been conducting an investigation into radical activities in the United States. It is far more likely to draw a vertical line through that report, setting on one side of it such recommendations as deal with the admission into or the deportation from the United States of alien trouble makers who seek to interfere with the government of a country not theirs except by choice and on the other side of it those suggestions of the committee which seek to forcibly suppress the political opinions of native Americans.

The suggestion that the Communist party be declared "illegal" and that the states be requested to take appropriate action to have it excluded from recognition is loaded with dynamite. It is perfectly obvious that there can be no political freedom in a country where one or two political parties are given the power of suppression over other political parties. That would be to establish the system in operation in Italy, where Fascism is empowered to suppress all opposition and in Russia where Communism has the power to suppress all opposition. If America had had such a system 75 years ago the Abolitionists would have been suppressed, because they were held, by the parties then in the ascendant, in just about the same esteem as Communism is now held by Democrats and Republicans. If it had had such a system thirty years ago the Prohibitionists would have been suppressed with very little ado.

So far as the Fish report adheres to the lines of rational courage it has its very decided merits; there is a growing impatience with the toleration of foreign agents who are in this country for no purpose but to make trouble and no principle of political liberty would be violated by throwing out those who are now here and in keeping out those who seek to come. But when it collapses into panic fright and cries out for the country to protect itself behind a rampart of oppressive and outrageous internal laws, it is unworthy of respect.

It is refreshing to note that one member of the committee, Mr. Nelson of Augusta, Me., refuses to be stamped and makes a report of his own which contains infinitely sounder sense than that of the majority. He, too, recommends more stringent administration of the visa laws, the deportation of undesirable and criminal aliens and the more careful postal supervision of radical publications. Then he goes on to say that new economic and social conditions require a new attitude of thought and a more liberal approach to some of our problems.

The crisis that American industry is facing speaks in no uncertain terms of something wrong in our social and industrial system which calls for further and deeper study of causes, effects and cures.

Bolshevism was born out of a social and political chaos that can never obtain here in America. There will be no weakening in our ideals of democracy—simply an extension of those ideals into other fields.

In proportion as we work out economic justice here in America and so order our social system that labor shall share in the economic life of the nation as fully as it now shares in its social and political life, in just that proportion will radicalism fall of its own inanition and the threat of Communism cease to disturb us.

Here is something that Congress can put its teeth into and chew on for a long time to come. It is the utterances of constructive statesmanship. It seems to us that this Republican representative from the state of Maine has exhibited, in his supplementary report, much more intelligence and ability to think than all five of his conferees on the committee—several times over.

TOBACCO KIDS

We haven't the slightest doubt that the members of the Consumers League of Massachusetts who are conducting a fight against the employment of children in the tobacco fields and who seem to feel under a moral obligation to extend their activities into this state are convinced that they are engaged in a humane and necessary work. The trouble with them is that they are governing their action by theory and have too little actual knowledge of what they are talking about.

The cruel exploitation of child labor is a subject over which it is perhaps easier to stir up a wave of indignation than over almost any other. And it must be admitted that it takes no extraordinary gift of dramatics in order to draw a picture of tobacco plantation children toiling in the heat and dust that will bring tears to the eyes of the sympathetic. There is, however, one angle of this question that is clearly apparent to the residents of tobacco towns but which is missed altogether by those who only read about the system and who read, as a rule, only what is written by reformers.

That angle is presented every summer afternoon when the truck loads of tobacco workers return to town from the plantations. The children who climb down from those trucks are not pale, weary, worn little slaves; they are husky, virile, full of laughter and fun. We have been impressed by that fact hundreds of times. And seeing these children, light hearted, gay, full of activity, we long ago quit worrying about the problem of child labor in the tobacco fields.

Tobacco culture is a very special sort of business. It happens that a considerable part of it consists of light operations carried on by hand and close to the ground, for which the small stature of young children especially fits them. They can perform with ease work that would break the back of an adult. They suffer no physical ill effects from it. They work in groups and regard it as fun. The jobs are limited to the summer vacation and their earnings are, relatively to their ages, very substantial. There are hundreds of families in every Connecticut tobacco town that are able to maintain a better scale of living because of the earnings of the children at healthy outdoor work.

It is, of course, just possible that there may be in certain cases abuses in the supervision of these children. If so they should be corrected, of course; but any ill considered action looking to the prohibition of employment of youngsters under factory age in tobacco culture would inevitably do far more harm than good to the children, to say nothing of the unescapable injury to the tobacco business itself.

Our advice to the Consumers League in this business is to go slow, wait until next summer and then send some open minded representatives into the tobacco towns with instructions to observe the effects of these jobs upon the children themselves. If they can find a healthier or happier lot anywhere the League will have something solid to go on.

ers with guns. Two of the police were fatally wounded. So was the Negro groceryman. Later a great mob of whites invaded the hospital where the Negro had been taken, determined to lynch him. He escaped that fate by dying in his bed. Presumptively, from the Southern point of view, the Negro has no rights whatever, not only as against the aggressions of whites but of whites who have tried to make him think, perhaps successfully, that they were Negroes.

There have been endless lynchings of Negroes in the South. We never heard of one, however, which quite so clearly illustrated the unreasoning, stupid prejudices of a large class of white people in that region as this attempted lynching which only failed because death intervened.

HOW COME, FACTIONS?

Just when everybody supposed that the distribution of committee places in both houses of the General Assembly was quite satisfactory to the Democrats of the state, along comes the Bridgeport Times-Star, which is close to the ruling powers of the party, and declares that while the Senate appointments were all right those in the House were almost all of Democrats in name only. "It snubbed the militant faction of the Democratic party and fraternized with the faction which has long been docile under the Republican rule of the state," says the Times-Star.

Well, well—what does all this mean—factions? There must be more going in Democraticdom than the rest of us had supposed.

BY RODNEY DITCHER

Washington—Mr. John D. Raskob again will find himself a political issue in 1932. The Republicans will make the most of him, as they did in 1928 and tried to with less success in 1930.

Nevertheless, it does seem as if the Democratic national chairman were unlikely to prove as big a liability to his party as he has been an asset. Or anywhere near it, unless Raskob makes himself a bigger issue than he now is.

Mr. Raskob is the party's nice big sugar daddy. It is he who has been putting up nearly all the money which has enabled it to operate with an able, effective all-the-year-around party organization which has functioned so well in hammering away at the administration and in waging the congressional campaign last fall. He both created and financed that organization. Only $15,000 in contributions to the party were reported for 1930, whereas the receipts were $217,000.

The party now owes $628,000, of which $220,000 is due Mr. Raskob and $408,000 to the County Trust Company of New York in which Raskob and Alfred E. Smith are heavily invested. Raskob advanced $150,000 in 1930 and also contributed $200,000 directly to congressional campaigns.

Well, you see how important Raskob has been to the Democrats. While he has not at with new sinews of war he has kept out down its deficit substantially. No party has ever been so indebted to a single "angel." No wonder that you never hear any more audible criticism of Raskob within the Democratic party.

But the Republicans are going to remind you of it. Last fall they whooped up the fact that in three summer months Mr. Raskob had "lent" the party $40,000 while other contributions totaled $150.

The Raskob financing gives them the chance to say that Raskob has bought the Democratic party and now owns it. They will shout to the country that it is a very bad thing for one man to own a political party.

That Mr. Raskob is especially unfitted to be owning a party and that the Republicans are the party of the people. All of which will not do the Democrats any good, but they can still afford to be thankful to Mr. Raskob.

It will be charged that Raskob, in return for his financing, expects to be made secretary of the treasury and perhaps really control the White House and that anything of the kind would be pretty awful. A great deal will be heard about the Raskob "plot" to seize the government. And much about the Raskob "plot" to upset the 18th amendment.

On the other hand, Raskob's friends will depict him as a noble soul, full of altruism and devotion to the public good. Although he is an ex-Republican who took the Democratic chairmanship through devotion to his friend Al Smith, they will assert that he is now a splendid type of Democrat of whom all hands ought to be proud.

Didn't Relish Defeat

Of course there is another possible explanation of Raskob. No millionaire business man with Raskob's record of success would relish the Democratic defeat of 1928.

The personal attacks for which Raskob came in, partly because he was a Catholic, might have caused him to quit in disgust after the campaign. And they might have imbued him—perhaps did—with a grim determination to fight on to a Democratic victory. If only for the intense personal satisfaction of a big hard job done well. Men have spent millions for more frivolous and useless purposes than the success of the Democratic party.

But Raskob's position can become much more delicate than it is. Already there are fears and predictions that the Democrats will have to take his hand-picked candidate. There

NIAGARA

Brides and bridegrooms may cheer up. Scientists tell us that the fall of rocks from the parapet of Niagara Falls, while it is part of the operation of erosion which will eventually reduce the great cataract to a mere run of rapids, does not indicate that that sorrowful time will arrive for a great many thousand years. It is only the morbidly speculative who will reap any considerable quantity of gloom out of the overnight change in the line of the great falls. Reports from the scene are to the effect that only these persons most familiar with the contour of the cataract would notice that anything particular had happened. So the effect of the rock slide will be slight upon all Americans except those who belong to the same class with the gentleman whom Mark Twain tells of finding weeping disconsolately over the tomb of Adam. There are folks who will be grief stricken at this new evidence that sooner or later the falls of Niagara will disappear. But they are almost as pessimistic as those speed fans who worry nights lest the Connecticut Legislature shall some time make it a crime to drive an automobile at sixty miles an hour around the Ten Curves.

SOUTHERN ATTITUDE

It may possibly require a peculiar geographical qualification to understand the mob psychology of Southerners where Negro violence is concerned. Louisiana police with blackened faces and wearing old clothes raided a grocery store kept by a Negro, alleging afterward that they suspected it of being a gambling place. The proprietor and other Negroes fought the raid-

IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 18.—The mild and pleasing little rackets, which carry no guns and issue no threats, are infinitely more profitable in the big city than those which fence with the law. To be sure, they require more brains, more organization and more world knowledge. They angle for two sorts of climbers—social and literary. And the Broadway woods are filled with easy game. There are any number of plump, impressionable ladies willing to stalk down a social or literary lion at any cost—and there are many smart folk quite willing to agree to such, at so much per guidance. The introduction of nouveaurich newcomers into the more scented and salted circles is one of the neatest and easiest ways to increase a bank roll. One woman requires three assistants. The person picked for guest of honor is some prominent politician, sporting figure or visiting notable. And it's all within the law—which is the nice part of it.

HEALTH-DIET ADVICE

CARROTS AND CARROTTIN
 The carrot has long enjoyed a reputation for being a wholesome and healthful vegetable, but nowadays clever cooks are learning many new and attractive ways of preparing it. A long time ago the carrot leaves or green fronds were used to ornament the heads of Court ladies. We do not use the carrot leaves in this way, but we often use shredded carrots and leaves to dress up and ornament other foods. For example, a few shredded carrots in a vegetable salad make it much more attractive to the eye and more tasteful. While carrots play an important role in salads, they are still at home in stews, soups, meat loaves, puddings and a variety of other dishes. Fortunately, the carrot is one vegetable which is obtainable practically the entire world over, even during seasons when other vegetables are scarce.

Carrots may be classed with the non-starchy vegetables which they are small, a time when they also have the sweetest flavor and are the most tender. They contain the alkaline elements of iron, lime, sodium, magnesium and potash, and also from 5 to 10 per cent of sugar. The yellow coloring matter which they contain is called carotin, which is sometimes extracted from them and used to color butter or margarine. This yellow coloring matter is also contained in sweet potatoes and yellow squash and is so closely allied to vitamin A that it is almost inseparable.

If a large quantity of carrots or other foods containing this yellow pigment are used, there is a tendency of tinting the skin to a slight yellowish color, especially the palms of the hands. This is so slight as not to detract from one's appearance but seems to be useful, especially with people who do not tan readily.

In buying carrots, choose the smallest you can find, for they have the least starch and the best flavor.

have been some indications, though not unmistakable, that Raskob would seek the nomination of Owen D. Young of the General Electric. Young would be acceptable to many Democrats but anathema to many others who worry about the "power trust" and the domination of big business in politics.

There will be a widespread roar if Raskob tries to jam through the White House and that anything of the kind would be pretty awful. A great deal will be heard about the Raskob "plot" to seize the government. And much about the Raskob "plot" to upset the 18th amendment.

On the other hand, Raskob's friends will depict him as a noble soul, full of altruism and devotion to the public good. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Nursing Mother)
 Question: Mother asks: "Are there any rules for a nursing mother to follow in regard to her diet?"
 Answer: There are many rules which are important for a nursing mother to follow. She has a double duty: first, the obligation to her child, and then the duty to herself to keep well at this time and avoid injury to her system caused through feeding her baby from her own milk without supplying it with the necessary elements to replace and repair tissues. I have written many special articles on this subject and will be glad to send them to you if you will send me your full name and address on a large stamped envelope.

NAME SCARES AUDIENCE

Chicago, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The audience in a South State street theater saw something not on the program last night, but which gave them a momentary thrill without extra charge.

A man in the crowd jumped over the footlights and announced in no uncertain tones:

"I'm Al Capone."

The chorus screamed and fled, leaving the stage to the newcomer, who then leaned over and asked the orchestra to play something. By that time the police arrived and took him to a hospital for observation.

He gave his name as William Carsnak and said he couldn't remember why he had used the gangster's name.

FIND ANCIENT WHALE

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The attempts of a small dog to bury a bone on the ocean sands have led scientists of the O'Rourke Zoological Institute here to uncover the fossilized remains of a whale they say they believe swam in the Pacific 500,000 years ago.

The scientists established a camp on the ocean front at Pacific Beach and today were completing excavation work begun when the dog exposed part of the skeleton.

Part of the head of the huge mammal, several ribs, a hip bone, three vertebrae of the tail, two from the neck and other bones already have been uncovered.

The whale is believed to have been of the balenoptera borealis family and is estimated to have been about sixty feet long, considered large in its period.

Plane Lands in Buffalo Street

This airplane made an unorthodox landing in the middle of a downtown Buffalo street when its motor died while its pilots were taking part in a night flying exhibition to dedicate the city's new street lighting system. The plane came down near the New York Central railroad station, shown in the background. The pilots escaped uninjured.

Man Lived in America Over 20,000 Years Ago

Los Angeles, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Proof has been found that man lived in southwestern America 20,000 years ago with ground sloths for companions.

Dr. James A. B. Scherer, director of the Southwest Museum, said today that the first sure proof of a dawn age man's existence on this continent has been uncovered with human bones in Gypsum cave, near Las Vegas, Nevada.

Before the cave was excavated paleontologists and geologists believed man had made his advent in North America not more than 10,000 years ago.

The first evidence yielded by the cave was a dart. It was found beneath refuse left by sloths, but was not considered sufficient proof that man had been there before the giant creatures disappeared from the earth. Later pieces of baskets were found. The bones of some luckless man, who probably was killed by a sloth or other animal which wanted his cave-home, were found at last by Mark R. Harrington, of the museum's staff. They reposed beneath a strata bearing sloth refuse, and near them was the charcoal of a fire.

SAYS HE FELL

Waterbury, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Joseph Lombardi, 23, of 352 South Main street, who has been at Waterbury hospital since early yesterday in a serious condition from a wound penetrating his body, was considerably improved today and now has a chance for recovery, hospital authorities said. Interviewed again today by detectives, Lombardi still insists that he incurred the wound by falling down a flight of stairs.

WILD OIL WELL THREATENS CITY

Oklahoma City, Jan. 19.—(AP)—An oil well blew wild inside the city limits of Oklahoma City today, injuring a workman seriously and imperiling the "Doorstep" oil field and adjacent industrial and residential districts.

The well, No. 1, Wapaco, of the T. B. Slick estate, is about a mile from the city's principal business block. Lower connections were cut by sand and blown under great pressure as the well was being opened for production. When it was completed last October the flow was 58,000 barrels daily.

Two companies of the Oklahoma National Guard were ordered out. All city firemen were ordered on duty.

The spray was being blown southeast over the great oil field.

The injured man was A. Rush, Oilton. He was reported struck by a connection.

All fires in a radius of one half mile around the well were ordered extinguished.

TO CHANGE STUDIES

New Haven, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Vital changes in the administration of Yale college and changes in the curriculum designed, according to Dean Clarence W. Mendell, to place the initiative for a comprehensive education more directly on the students will be placed in force next year according to today's issue of Yale News, undergraduate daily.

Among the changes proposed are abolition of midyear examinations, new requirements for degrees, great emphasis on the final examination, the inauguration of three reading periods throughout the academic year, and drastic changes in the methods by which instructors report on the value of the work done by each student. These changes, it was stated, have for their purpose the emphasis of method and mastery of subject rather than the acquisition of a certain number of credits.

They were passed by the Yale faculty and approved by the Yale Corporation for inauguration next September.

SEIZED RUM RUNNER IS TAKEN TO DRYDOCK

New London, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The speed boat May B former rum-runner which was recently added to the Coast Guard section base force and is expected to be an important factor in patrol duty, today was at the yard of Adams and Hillyer, Inc., for repair of leaks which caused her to fill with water while lying alongside the state pier.

The speed boat, which was in process of overhaul, was discovered with decks awash, held by her mooring lines, Saturday, and a call was dispatched to the Dumont Marine Service station here. An attendant went to the pier with a portable pump and pumped the water from the craft.

She was then taken to the Adams and Hillyer Yard and placed over a carriage. Examination yesterday morning showed that she had taken water during the night and she was then hauled out.

It was reported Saturday night that an inquiry into the sinking was to be held, but Coast Guard officers indicated today the matter was closed. Much of the water was said to have entered at loose connections and it was because of this that the boat was hauled out.

The engines aboard the vessel were taken down prior to the mishap being overhauled preparatory to being replaced when the speedboat's hull was reconditioned. The May B was seized by the Coast Guard September 20, after running aground in Block Island Sound, near Montauk Point while carrying a load of liquor. The crew of the speedboat went over the side and escaped by wading to the Long Island shore.

MACDONALD READS TEXT OF PROPOSAL

British Premier Makes Public Declaration of Policy At Indian Conference.

London, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The text of the British government's declaration of policy in India, as read today by Prime Minister Ramsay Mac Donald at the last session of the Indian round table conference, follows:

"The view of His Majesty's government is that the responsibility for government in India should be placed upon the legislatures, central and provincial, with such provisions as may be necessary to guarantee during the period of transition the observance of certain obligations and to meet other special circumstances; and also with such guarantees as are required by the minorities to protect their political liberties and rights.

"In such statutory safeguards as may be made for meeting the needs of this transitional period, it will be a primary concern of His Majesty's government to see that the reserved powers are so framed and exercised as not to prejudice the advance of India through the new constitution to full responsibility for her own government.

Not Finally Settled

"His Majesty's government while making this declaration is aware that some of the conditions essential to the working of such a constitution as is contemplated have not been finally settled, but it believes that as a result of the work done here they have been brought to a point which encourages the hope that further negotiations at this declaration will be successful.

"His Majesty's government has taken note of the fact that the deliberations of the round table conference have proceeded on the basis accepted by all parties that the central government should be a federation of all India, embracing both the Indian states and British India in a bi-cameral legislature.

"The precise form and structure of the new federal government must be determined after further discussion with the Indian princes and representatives of British India.

Range of Subjects

"The range of subjects to be committed to it will also require further discussion because the federal government will have authority only in such matters concerning the states as will be ceded by their rulers in agreements made by them upon entering the federation.

"The connection of the states with the federation will remain subject to the basic principle that in regard to all matters not ceded by them to the federation, their relations will be with the Crown acting through the agency of the viceroy.

"With a legislature constituted on a federal basis, His Majesty's government will be prepared to recognize the principle of the responsibility of the executive to the legislature.

A Governor General

"Under existing conditions the subjects of defense and external affairs will be reserved to a governor-general and arrangements will be made to place in his hands the powers necessary for administration of those subjects.

"Moreover, as the governor-general must as a last resort be able to maintain in emergency the tranquility of the state and the rights of the minorities he must be granted the necessary power for those purposes.

"As regards finance, the transfer of financial responsibility must necessarily be subject to such conditions as will ensure the fulfillment of obligations incurred under the authority of the secretary of state, and the maintenance unimpaired of the financial stability and credit of India.

"The report of the Federal structure committee indicates some ways of dealing with this subject, including a reserve bank, service of loans and exchange policy which in the view of His Majesty's government, will have to be provided for somehow in the new constitution.

"It is of vital interest to all parties in India to accept these provisions to maintain financial confidence.

"Subject to the provisions the Indian government would have full financial responsibility for methods of raising revenue and for control of expenditures on non-reserved services. This will mean that under the existing conditions, the central legislature and the executives will have some features of dualism which will have to be fitted into the constitutional structure.

Reserve Powers

"The provision of reserved powers is necessary under the circumstances and some such reservation has indeed been incidental to the development of most free constitutions.

"But every care must be taken to prevent the arising of conditions which will necessitate their use. It is, for instance, undesirable that the ministers should trust to the special powers of the governor-general as a means of avoiding responsibilities which are properly their own thus defeating the development of responsible government by bringing into use powers meant to lie in reserve and in the background.

"Let there be no mistake about that.

"The governors of the provinces will be constituted on a basis of full responsibility. Their ministries will be taken from the legislature and will be jointly responsible to it. The range of provincial subjects will be so defined as to give them the greatest possible measure of self government.

Authority Limited

"The authority of the federal government will be limited to the provisions required to secure its administration of federal subjects and to discharge its responsibilities for subjects defined in the constitution as of All-India concern.

"There will be reserved to the governor only that minimum of special power which is required to secure in exceptional circumstances the preservation of tranquillity and to guarantee the maintenance of rights provided by statute for public servants and the minorities.

"Finally, His Majesty's government considers that institution of responsible government in the provinces requires both that the legislatures should be enlarged and that they should be based on a more liberal franchise.

"In framing the constitution His Majesty's government considers that it will be its duty to insert provisions guaranteeing to the various provinces, in addition to political representation, that the differences of religion, race, sect or caste shall not in themselves constitute civic disabilities.

SETS TRIAL DATE

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Federal trial of the Bankers' Capital Corporation and Howard H. Gunder, chairman of its board; Roland J. Randall, president; Everett J. Sturges, former Connecticut banking commissioner; and Philip Gunder, charged with mail fraud was put on the calendar today for February 2.

Judge Knox reduced Howard Gunder's bail from $15,000 to $12,000 and that of the other individual defendants from $10,000 to $5,000 apiece. Defense Counsel Mortimer Hays, moving for the reduction, said a year had expired since they were admitted to bail on not guilty pleas and the tenure of the bonds had ended. He said it was an undue hardship to require them to pay premium for a second time on $50,000 bail. The new amounts

MORE FLU CASES

New London, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Six more Coast Guardsmen from local units were admitted to the Mitchell ward of the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospitals here today with influenza while health officials at the section base and receiving unit strove separately to check the malady which has already claimed 35 victims here.

None of the 35 have been critically afflicted but all have been found to have high temperatures. Prompt action on the part of the Coast Guard health authorities in getting the victims under treatment early is believed by local hospital authorities to be responsible for the fact that the cases have not become more serious.

For GINGER'S SAKE

by ETHEL HUESTON
© 1930 THE BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

"Oh, Ginger!" cried Patty Sears. "It's just precious! How did you ever think of it?"

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GINGER'S FATHER was a minister, and her stepmother a very wealthy woman, but life in the little town of Red Thrush, Iowa, ran too slowly to suit Ginger and her set. So she announced to her friends, EDDY JACKSON, PATTY SEARS and WESLEY MEEKER, that she was going to start a home for the Bored.

To JENNY BROOKS, wife of old BENNY BROOKS, who also had a son, she confided her intention of organizing a Junior Country Club. She asked Jenny to act as her agent in the purchase of the Mill Rush farm, a 10-acre tract with an old farm house, from JOLIN WESTBURY. The rest of her plans were still in her head, unformulated.

"And," she told Jenny, "be sure to bring him down in his price. About half of what he asks will be right."

To Jenny, who, with her husband, was to be chaperone, the venture promised to great many dollars saved, as a summer on the farm would mean a trimming of living expenses. The house on Mill Rush held interesting possibilities for an imagination as fertile as Ginger's. On the other hand, it was doing its present owner no good, and he was anxious to sell. Westbury finally got down to $2000, whereupon Jenny said she would have to ask Ginger's advice.

Within 24 hours the farm had been bought for $1500, and the organization of the Junior Country Club was under way.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

The Junior Country Club was something to do. But conservative parents who comfortably believed that an entire summer of hard work would go into the necessary renovation of the property were a bit of a surprise. They had not figured on Ginger Ella.

It was upon a Monday, the day after Easter, that inspiration visited her upon the parsonage lawn. By Tuesday night she was the owner to the extent of $250 down—of the Mill Rush estate. At ten o'clock on Wednesday morning she was on the premises for a thorough inspection of her property. Dab Barnes, the carpenter, was making estimates on the cost of materials and labor for necessary repairs and Ginger Ella herself may be sure with note-book and pencil of her own, dogged his heels, not only contesting every figure.

She was delighted to find the house in better condition than had appeared. It would require complete redecorating and new hard-wood floors downstairs.

A few slight repairs would render the roof water-proof, and the foundations were firm, but the porches would require strong re-enforcement and general rebuilding where railings and stairs were broken. The chimneys were sound and after cleaning them out the fire-places "drew" as well as ever. The plumbing had to be renewed throughout and new stoves and ice-chests installed in the kitchen.

The partition between the two large rooms, the dining and sitting rooms that had been, was to be removed, making an ample ballroom, with the old "parlor" converted into a cozy lounge.

Over the bedrooms on the second floor Ginger pondered a long time. The idea of small private dining and sitting rooms was very tempting, for there was something particularly, devilishly engaging in the mere sound of the words—a notion imbued from novels and motion pictures, as she lacked all personal experience with them. But in the end her practical nature triumphed and she decided to retain them as sleeping apartments, looking forward to future week-end parties.

Ginger saw no reason to bother with the old attic, as it was a queer ungainly affair, jutting off into curiously shaped corners under the gables. But Dab had ideas of his own about it. For a mere trifle, he said, he being already at work on the place, the gable corners could be divided into separate rooms by the use of a cheap grade artificial boarding.

"When you come into your money," he said firmly, "you'll want a lot of servants here, and that'll give accommodations for four."

"Yes," she said dryly, "when I do—and when do."

On the other hand, the four unconventional attic sleeping rooms would allow for larger week-ends, and as Dab promised to put in the

THE BOOK SURVEY

When "The Hounds of Spring," by Sylvia Thompson, came out some four or five years ago the critics put on their dress blues, lined the rails, dipped the national ensign and touched off a 21-gun salute. This month another book by this talented author, "Portrait by Caroline," is presented to a waiting world; and I am trying to figure out just why this book should leave me so cold.

It is a deftly handled, well written book. Its central figures are a young British doctor, his wife—Caroline—and a young historian, a friend of both of them, who rents a house near theirs in a small English village; and the plot manages to get away, a little bit, from the conventional triangle groove. Caroline, deeply in love with her husband, also falls in love with the historian, and manages to stay in love with both men at once. Naturally, everybody involved has very dismal time.

Caroline and Peter, the historian, decide that it wouldn't be quite sporting to run away and leave the doctor in the lurch. Besides, Caroline loves the doctor too much to break with him. So they go to him and tell him that they are in love, but agree that they will continue simply as good friends. And so the tale wags on, until finally Peter finds the strain too great and leaves.

All of this is handled in Miss Thompson's usual clever and well-bred manner; but, as I say, the book failed to move me very greatly. When I got through I didn't feel as if I'd read anything, and I'm trying to discover why this should be.

The author takes a typical English village of those times and describes an ordinary day in its existence. He begins at the manor house and works his way down to the novels of the lowliest laborers. He tells how the village governs itself, how it observes holidays, what sort of doctors it has, how it treats its criminals, what sort of wages its farm hands earn, what sort of clothing its various inhabitants wear, what they eat for dinner and how it is cooked, what sort of schooling the children get—and so on, covering every imaginable point, so that you finish the book with an intimate and detailed knowledge of life in Shakespeare's time.

It makes an engrossing book, and I'm glad to recommend it to you. It is published by Harper & Bros., and sells for $3.50.

R. E. LEE'S BIRTH

On Jan. 19, 1807, Robert E. Lee, commander-in-chief of the Confederate armies in the Civil War, was born in Westmoreland county, Va., the son of a Revolutionary War veteran.

At 18, he entered West Point, received a second in his class and graduated in the Texas border. He was recalled to Washington in March, 1861, when seven states had formed the Southern Confederacy. A month later Lee sent in his resignation, and within two days, was made commander-in-chief of the military forces at Richmond.

After successfully leading his forces in the early days of the war, Lee finally yielded to the superior armies of Grant, surrendering his army at Appomattox courthouse, Virginia. Lee then accepted the presidency of Washington College, now Washington and Lee, at Lexington, Va., in which post he remained until his death in 1870.

YOUR CHILDREN

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen in a recent article untangles some of our muddled ideas concerning her new bill in the House of Representatives.

It is, in brief, a bill to create in the President's cabinet a Department of Home and Child, putting the institution of the family and the home life on a par with business, affairs of state, agriculture and national defense. Not that the interests of the children are now fairly well covered in the various departments of government in the national capital, but it would assemble these departments under one head with concentric organization and power.

Without going into the matter seriously, it is difficult for the person to decide whether to regard such a move favorably or otherwise.

Without question Mrs. Owen is qualified to know a good bit about the advantages to be gained by the establishment of a Department of Home and Child in the cabinet. She has been engaged in many activities that deal with family life, in both community and state organizations.

I myself have stood outside the door, unable to convince my wavering mind that the American home needed any more superimposed law than it now has; that it should be kept free and apart from too much bureaucracy seemed paramount to me, for who can class the home with those other departments that must function under a load of technicality and system? Although such technicality for the public good.

Perhaps others have stood with me. Would a new department mean

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

For a first class, tonic bath, nothing is better than the sea salt bath. You can purchase sea salt at any drug store. If you can't find any, common kitchen salt is an effective substitute.

You should put from a half cup to a hole cup of salt into a hot tub of water, depending on the size of the tub. Most tubs call for a full cup and a very big tub calls for a little more.

This bath should be sat in for some few minutes, with a brisk brushing with a bathing mitt or a brush on the limbs, arms and body while in the tub. It invigorates and stings the flesh into a liveliness.

The Epsom salts bath is in a class by itself. It is claimed to have reducing qualities and I daresay more Epsom salts have been used for this purpose than all other kinds of bath salts put together. It must be taken hot to slendelize. Moreover, you must sweat afterwards, rolled in a blanket or put in a steam room.

But the Epsom salts bath serves as a tonic and is excellent for soaking out the impurities in the skin. Put a full cup of Epsom salts in a tub of hot water and sit in it for 20 minutes, adding hot water as the temperature of the bath cools.

Other tonic salts baths can be had by purchasing certain European mineral salts. These salts are usually sufficient to produce the same effect of a reducing treatment at one of the spas. You use very hot water with them and sit in it for from 15 to 30 minutes.

Another salt bath probably grew out of the fact that some fastidious lady once traveled without a private bath adjoining. She had to have her salts baths, so invented this substitute. Take a cup of kitchen salt, put it in a basin of cold water, dip a harsh sponge or a body-brush into it and scrub yourself up and down the arms, across the chest, the back and on down, even dipping the feet, one by one into the cold salt water and out again. Then dry yourself with a Turkish towel, giving yourself the best rub-down you've ever administered or had administered. This, incidentally, is a fine step towards getting the skin all smoothed out and refined all over the body.

Way To Get At A Cold Is Through the Bowels

As soon as you catch cold, the pores close; perspiration is checked. Gases and waste can't escape through the skin. That's why your doctor's first advice in case of colds is a mild laxative like Cascara. Medical authorities agree actually strengthen bowel muscles. You get cascara in its most pleasant form in candy casarets.

Remember this when you catch cold; whenever breath is bad; tongue coated; or you're headachy, bilious, constipated.

Why resort to harsher things when Cascarets activate the bowels so quickly, so harmlessly and pleasantly—and cost only a dime?—Adv.

West Side Quintets Lose In Glastonbury

Loss of Mattson and Bissell On Personal Fouls Accounts For West Side Club's Defeat, 49-26, While Girls Lose 40-19.

The West Sides went down to Glastonbury Saturday night but failed to bring home the "baco" when the Glastonbury A. C. forced them to take the short end of a 49-26 score. Glastonbury started things going immediately after the opening whistle when they scored twelve points before the West Sides could get started. Chapman broke the ice for the locals with a neat basket and it was then that the West Sides began to "open up" scoring 10 points in the last five minutes of the first half. The score at this point was 21-10.

There was plenty of excitement in the third period. With Mattson, Falkoski and Chapman leading the charge, the West Sides soon cut down Glastonbury's lead and the crowd was wild with excitement as the third period ended with Glastonbury holding the edge with a mere four points. Score 28-24. The West Sides went to pieces in the final quarter when Mattson and Bissell were sent to the showers with an overdose of fouls. The locals could not stop Glastonbury from this point on. Kiebish, Andrews and Wisley had things much to their own liking in the final quarter, scoring sixteen points between them and Glastonbury soon piled up a commanding lead as the referee's whistle ended the game.

The game was exceedingly rough and the locals were not very enthusiastic of the deal which Referee Eddy handed them. The West Sides play a return game with Glastonbury at the "Rec" Tuesday evening, preliminary to the Rec-Knight's game, and from all reports there will be plenty of fireworks. Eddy will again referee.

In the preliminary the much more experienced Glastonbury girls turned back the West Side girls with a 40 to 19 defeat. Coach Mac Macdonald's cohorts put up a game fight in the first half but just didn't seem to have the endurance of Glastonbury girls in the second half. The score in first half was 19-13 and Glastonbury, The Misses Hollister, Hodge and Loveland were the best for the victors while the Misses Washkewich, Jackson and Burdick did well for the West Siders.

Coach McCann has called a special practice session of the West Side Basketball team for Monday night at the newly renovated gym in the West Side Rec. Following its custom of taking on all comers good or not so good the West Siders have a busy week planned out. Tuesday night they will try to avenge themselves against Glastonbury at the East Side Rec. preliminary to the Rec-K. of L. game. Wednesday the boys in blue and gold will tackle the St. Stanislaus team in Meriden. This bunch recently gave the Hartford Collegians a strong combination of college and school men a good drubbing so the West Siders will have their hands full. For Thursday night the opposition signed by the West Side dual management will be furnished by the Fellowcraft Club of Hartford at the Hopkins street gym in that city.

PENN PLAYS YALE TOMORROW NIGHT

No Other League Games This Week Because of Midyear Examinations.

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Owing to midyear examinations only one game will be played in the eastern intercollegiate basketball league this week, Penn's Quakers traveling to New Haven for a clash with Yale tomorrow night.

League developments over the week end held the champion Columbia Lions holding undisputed possession of first place. The Lions out-pointed Cornell in a sensational battle at Ithaca, 35-33, while the greatly underrated Princeton Tigers were upsetting Dartmouth 30-25 in the first real form reversal of the campaign. Dartmouth dropped back into a tie with Yale for second place with two wins and one loss. Princeton holds fourth place with an even split in two games while Cornell and Pennsylvania bring up the rear with two defeats in as many games.

Says
DR. J. F. X. STACK
Health Commissioner, City of Hoboken, N. J.

... one of 56 health officials from 56 different points approving Cremo's crusade against spit or spit-tipping.

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Dr. Stack's letter.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"
YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

Dr. Stack writes: "I am heartily in favor of your campaign to better your industry by making it cleaner."

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it... Smoke Certified Cremo - a really wonderful smoke - mild - mellow - nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

Salesman—Why don't you buy a new car? That wreck isn't fit for your wife to drive. Man—I know it. That's why I keep it.

This is the season when a young man can't decide whether to get married or drive with one arm for another year.

Mrs. Hazel—"What a dreadful language your parrot uses. Mrs. Knutt—Yes. My husband bought the bird in town and brought it home in his car. And I understand he had three blow-outs and engine trouble on the way.

Maybe a watched pot never boils, but a watched meter doesn't have that effect on a taxi passenger. If you expect to die a natural death these days it will probably happen in an automobile accident. Cars are not all they're cracked up to be. Speaking of coincidences, a Pennsylvania man's car was smashed to pieces when he was driving it to the junk yard to sell.

A Hebrew and a Scotchman had a collision. They both got out of their cars and for a few moments the argument waxed hot. Then the Jew said: Jew—Can't we fix this thing up? Here, take a drink.

The Scotchman accepted the bottle and downed a man's size drink at one gulp. Jew—Have another. The Scotchman drank a second and a third. When the liquor was all consumed, the Jewish person called a policeman, and said: Jew—Here, officer, this fellow smashed into me. He's drunk, just smell his breath.

Lemuel—What would your wife say if you bought a new car? Samuel—Look out for that traffic light! Be careful now! Don't hit that truck! Why don't you watch where you're going? Will you never learn? And a lot more like that.

An Automobile in the Hand is Worth Two in the Ditch.

First Motorist—Why does a chicken cross the road? Second Motorist—Because its tired of life, I suppose.

Harrington—Were you impressed with the sculpture in Europe? Moneybags—No, you can see just as good radiator caps right here in America.

Then there is the Scotch motorist who bought exactly 10 3/4 gallons of gasoline for a 215 mile trip because the salesman told him the car would do just 20 miles to the gallon.

Williams—I've bought the little lady a machine of her own. Messick—Packard, Buick, Chrysler or Ford? Williams—Washing machine.

HOPES TO CUT ICE AT GLOBE TOMORROW

L. T. Wood Has Filled Houses At Case's and Salter's—Expects Good Crop This Year.

L. T. Wood on Saturday completed the filling of the Folly Brook ice house, best known as Case's, located in the western part of the town. He has also filled the ice house on Lydall street with ice cut from Salter's pond and tomorrow, if the weather permits, will start cutting on Globe Hollow. Given proper ice weather which will allow the filling of the Globe Hollow house there will be a sufficient crop to carry through the summer. There will be no ice cut on the Sperry Pond, only for immediate use and also for those in Bolton and Manchester who store ice for their own use.

Globe Hollow, which produces the greatest amount of ice, when it freezes over, has also the necessary machinery for the filling of the house with less labor and much faster than any of the other houses and when filled to capacity together with the crop from Salter's and Case's proves sufficient to take care of the needs of Mr. Wood's customers. In addition to filling of the ice house Mr. Wood hopes to secure a crop sufficient to allow for the stacking of several hundred tons outside of the house, as he has done in other years.
