Assembly Bill Would Make Wilkins' Commander a Naval Aide Who Would Carry Pennant To Pole.

State Capitol, Hartford, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The possibility of Connecticut's flag being carried to the North Pole or at least far north, was seen today in the resolution offered by Senator Cooney, of Hartford, authorizing the governor to appoint Captain Sloan Danenhower, of Lyme, a naval aide on his staff. The governor also would be called upon to present a state flag to his new naval aide to carry with him as commander of Sir Hubert Wilkins' expedition by submarine, to the North Pole.

The resolution was referred by the Senate to the committee on military affairs. Its text was as follows:

Whereas, Sloan Danenhower, of Lyme, Conn., is to be the commander of the submarine which will bear Sir Hubert Wilkins' expedition to the North Pole, and

Whereas, the designer and constructor of the submarine and practically one half of the crew are Connecticut men, and

Whereas, it is desired by the General Assembly to recognize the courage and enterprise of the citizens of this state in embarking upon this expedition,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Assembly convened:

Section 1—The governor is authorized to appoint Sloan Danenhower as naval aide with the rank of captain.

Section 2—The governor is further authorized to present Captain Sloan Danenhower a state flag to accompany the expedition.

See Contest Ahead

The likelihood of a contest in the Ansonia court was seen in the resolution for Albert B. Gardella. Other resolutions are in for Carlos H. Stiers and Milton C. Isbail.

Both branches adopted a resolution appointing William F. Bailey,

ONE MAN IS SHOT IN TRAIN ROBBERY

Six Bandits Rob Sleeping Passengers in Pullmans and Flee With $6,000.

Bellefontaine, O., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Working with quiet but grim precision, six train bandits routed sleeping Florida-bound passengers for their berths as a Big Four train neared here early today, shot one man and made away with cash and jewelry estimated at $6,000.

Evidently timing the holdup well in advance, the gunmen, all masked and armed, invaded the next to the last Pullman of the train, enroute from Detroit to Cincinnati. One man who shouted in alarm was shot and critically wounded and the remaining six passengers were marshaled in the drawing room with the porter and a brakeman.

Leaps From Train

One robber stood guard while the rest went through the car, snatching money and valuables. As the train slowed down for Bellefontaine, they leaped from the rear car and disappeared into the darkness. The time between their leap and the arrival of the train was sufficient for them to escape before a search by deputy sheriffs, police and railroad detectives.

The man shot was Edwin K. Nelson, of Tampa, Fla. He shouted when aroused and was ordered to "keep quiet." He shouted again and was shot, the bullet piercing his right arm and chest.

One Woman Passenger

Mrs. E. G. Batharian, Detroit, the sole woman passenger, said she lost $3,000 in diamonds and cash. She was forced to join the group of subdued group huddled in the drawing room. While the robbers leisurely went through the car, Brakeman Morris came through and immediately was placed with the prisoners.

The robbery occupied about an hour while the train proceeded from Carey, about 45 miles north of here, to Bellefontaine. They disturbed no other car. Railroad detectives thought the robbers probably climbed aboard while a halt was made at Carey for coal. Officials surmised the men had an automobile waiting for them here.

After an hour's delay, the train went on to Cincinnati, where the robbed car was to be routed on to Florida.

TREASURY BALANCE

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for January 20 were $3,106,970.96; expenditures, $6,080,589.64; balance $174,869,508.25.

AS REDS STAGED "HUNGER RIOT" IN N. Y.

A Communist "hunger demonstration," starting peacefully in front of New York's City Hall, turned into a desperate battle between police and 2000 rioters. Pictured above is one of the numerous sidewalk melees which marked more than an hour of fierce conflict. Note a woman Communist defying police night sticks to go to the aid of three fellow rioters who were felled in the fighting. The riot began when Reds charged a cordon of police after their demands for free food, wage doles and reduced rents for the unemployed had been refused by city officials.

GOLDEN EAR LOBES NEXT BEAUTY STUNT

Los Angeles, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Green eyebrows, silver-tipped eyelashes, golden ear lobes. That's what the men may expect from the women in the near future, B. H. Myerson, Chicago beauty-ologist, told a convention of hairdressers here yesterday.

And that's not all. He said fingernails would be painted to match the color of the gown and the hair, with a quick mysterious dye yet to be made.

STUDENTS RIOT AGAIN IN SPAIN

About 3,000 of Them On Strike In Madrid — May Spread To Other Cities.

Madrid, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Disorders broke out among students in the University of Madrid today and student leaders in fiery addresses demanded the establishment of a republic in Spain.

Despite the continuation of martial law which was proclaimed during recent revolutionary attempts, about 3,000 student members of the University Scholars Federation struck as a protest against the government.

Meetings were held in the university buildings and the monarchy denounced.

Despite the disorder no serious fighting was reported.

Heavy police detachments were rushed to the university to prevent manifestations outside the buildings.

Cause Of Disorders

Primary cause of the disorders was said to be the demand of students for release of about 50 of their colleagues and six professors, in jail as the result of a government roundup of several thousand alleged Republican suspects in December.

It was reported that the students had sent representatives to other universities throughout Spain to agitate for a general university strike next Saturday.

This afternoon a group of students and members of a Monarchical organization called the Legionnaires of Spain, opposed to radical doctrines, clashed and stones were thrown. No injuries resulted.

Later guards repulsed the efforts of manifestants to seize a portrait of King Alifonso hanging in the university auditorium. Many professors sided with their pupils, refusing to hold classes.

One of them was Sanchez Roman, professor of the law faculty, who said "If Spain has no constitution why should I lecture to my class on politics?"

Government officials and university authorities conferred on the situation this afternoon.

SLEUTHS THWART KIDNAPING PLOT

Four Men and a Woman Ar- rested As They Try To Abduct Child.

Detroit, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A $100,000 kidnaping plot against one of the young children of Horace S. Maynard, wealthy Detroit business man, was thwarted by detectives last night with the arrest of two men who went to the Maynard home, the officers said, to abduct the child.

Later two other men and a woman were arrested, and the four men were said by Duncan B. McCrea, assistant prosecuting attorney, to have confessed. They were held on charges of conspiracy to kidnap. The woman was held as a police witness. Advance information, detectives said, enabled them to prevent the kidnaping. A squad of detectives was concealed in the Maynard home in Rose Hill Park, exclusive suburb, and others surrounded the house.

Details of Plot

The plot, as reconstructed from information received in advance and from the confessions, police said, was directed against whichever of Maynard's two children came first to hand when the kidnapers entered the house. It was conceived by two unemployed men who met casually on a bench in Grand Circus Park a week ago, McCrea said, and the other men, also unemployed, were taken into it later.

Those under arrest are: George B. Spears, 45, formerly a public accountant in the General Motors building, where Maynard has his offices; Kenneth Harrington, 29, former Detroit policeman; Bernard Aduky, 31; Anthony Orlando, 31, and Oriando's wife, Lena.

FLAPPER DISAPPEARING COLLEGE SURVEY SHOWS

"Clinic For Co-Eds" At Syracuse Held For a Year Makes Some Interesting Discoveries About Girls.

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 22.—(AP)—A "Clinic for Co-eds" at Syracuse University has discovered that the flapper is no more.

The clinic is the office of the dean of women, and the acting dean, Eugenie Andrus Leonard, spent nearly a year studying the thoughts and reactions of freshman girls to academic pursuits, friendships, recreation, clothes, religious ideals, vocational aspirations, use of money, contacts with home and health habits.

Some of the clinic's findings: That 33.3 per cent of the girls smoked in high school, while 41 per cent have the habit in college—a gain of 7.5 per cent in the change from home restrictions to campus freedom.

Eighty-five per cent of the first year girls already have decided what their work is to be after graduation.

Loved Many Times

Twenty-eight per cent of the co-eds avowed they had been in love many times; eight per cent said they had had occasional "crushes" on boys; 21 per cent said they had loved twice; 10 per cent said they had loved once; 31 per cent said they never had been in love.

Sixty-two per cent said their mothers agreed with their opinions about "necking" and "petting."

Ketanin Religion

Only one per cent said they had changed all of their religious beliefs since coming to college. Sixty-four per cent had retained all their religious ideas, while 33 per cent had changed a few.

Forty-four per cent agreed with their mothers' religious beliefs, 43 per cent with some of them, six per cent with a few, and two per cent with none.

Sixty-six per cent of the co-eds talk over their love affairs with their mothers. Sixty-seven per cent thought their mothers understood present day sex problems of young people; 25 per cent thought not.

Some Suggestions

Here are a couple of co-eds' suggestions:

"I would have been glad to have known more. I think my younger brother and sister will be better fitted for college when their turn comes because of the hints I have given them."

"A girl should know how to take care of herself under all conditions. She should know how to dress, how to smoke, how to drink a little, how to pet so she won't be surprised into anything, how to keep her heart and not to fall easily and how to get along with other girls."

FREE BILL APPROVED

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The Free bill to restrict immigration for two years as an unemployment measure was approved today by the House immigration committee.

The measure, along with one suggested by Secretary Stimson, reduces immigration from European countries by 90 per cent of existing quotas.

It would permit only 10 per cent of the immigrants who entered from western hemisphere countries during the last fiscal year to enter during each of the next two years.

It also would limit immigration from the Philippine islands to the mainland to 500 annually. However, it would permit Philippine immigration from the islands to Hawaii under existing labor department regulations.

LAUNDRY MIXED; SO WAS 'PHONE

Heywood Brown's Wife Got Some Weird Messages Until the Mystery Was Solved.

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A laundry sure enough had Ruth Hale's number. But she got it back.

That's why the wife of Heywood Brown had been getting strange telephone calls from irascible parties: "Come over and get the wet wash." "When you gonna send back those shirts?" "My collar buttons are missing again."

The telephone company explained that in the new system of exchanges the laundry, by mistake had been given the equivalent of Miss Hale's number in dialing. They righted the wrong.

FASCISTS ARREST NOTED FINANCIER

He Lost Heavily In Stock Crash and Is Being Held For "Public Security."

Turin, Italy, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Arrest of the Italian financier Riccardo Gualino yesterday by the so-called "political squadron" of the Fascist Party of Turin for "motives of public security" was revealed here today.

Gualino's name was not on the prison register, his incarceration being indicated merely by his initials.

In financial circles Gualino was said today to have lost heavily because of the world depression. A year or more ago his indebtedness to the Banca Agricola Italiana reached 500,000,000 lire (about $25,000,000) two-fifths of which was properly secured by collateral, it was reported.

Appeals for Help

About a year ago the Banca Agricola Italiana was said to have appealed to the Banca D'Italia for help, having lost about seven times its capital. The Banca D'Italia agreed to rescue it upon condition that Gualino's indebtedness was either cleared or secured.

As a consequence Gualino made an arrangement with the government.

Scramble for Deliveries In Latter Half of Year

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The National Council of Traveling Salesmen's Association made public today its reply to a questionnaire on conditions sent out by the National Business Survey Conference and predicted the last half of 1931 would "wind up in a frantic scramble for deliveries."

Directors of the United States Chamber of Commerce are to meet in Washington tomorrow to consider the answers in the survey. The reply of the salesmen's associations was signed by Seymour N. Sears, chairman of the board of the National Council, and addressed to Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the business survey.

LIBERIANS OPPOSE HEALTH EDUCATION

Dr. Smith On Return Says He Has Little Hope Work Will Continue.

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Dr. Howard F. Smith, Public Health Service surgeon who spent the past year in tumultuous Liberia, returned to Washington today without Fifi, his chimpanzee, but with an impressive record of accomplishment.

Dr. Smith, recalled from Liberia because his yellow fever eradication campaign was not supported by the recently-fallen Liberian government, had complained of enforced inaction which gave him time to teach his monkey vaudeville tricks.

However, Dr. Smith said he did receive $3,000 of the $18,000 promised him for the year's sanitation program, and with it he removed from Monrovia a thousand tons of old tin cans; took the first house-to-house census of that city—total 9,863 inhabitants—wired no street names; no house numbers to guide him; card-catalogued all the houses as to open wells and drain pipes, and ascertained 96 per cent of Monrovia houses were breeding mosquitoes, 84 per cent of them of the yellow fever variety; compelled cutting of weeds, cleaning of rubbish, treating of breeding waters.

Death Rate Drops

"As a result of that campaign," said Dr. Smith, "the death rate for May was always highest, because it is the yellow fever month, dropped from 35, lowest May record in any previous year, to 7 the lowest death record in a single month ever entered in the records of Monrovia."

Dr. Smith said he had no hope the disease-eradication work would continue after he left, since a majority of the Liberians were opposed to it. However, he paid glowing tribute to the work of Lucille Todd, a negro nurse formerly with the New York Health Department, who had dedicated four years of her life to welfare service in Liberia.

Of the slavery situation he said simply: "You can believe anything you read in the report of the special commission of inquiry."

APPROVE FAITH HEALING

London, Jan. 22.—(AP)—With only three dissenting votes the Lower House of the Canterbury Convocation of the Church of England gave its approval to faith healing and asked that it be given the official sanction of the church.

The approval took the form of a petition to the Archbishop of Canterbury, asking him to appoint a joint commission to frame a provisional service of prayer for the imposition of hands. This service to be used until a permanent and fully authorized form could be issued under synodical sanction.

CONTINUES FLIGHT AROUND THE WORLD

Mrs. Bruce Who Started From London, Sept. 25 Is Now At St. Louis, U. S. A.

St. Louis, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Victor Bruce saw an airplane in a salesroom in England late last summer. A tag on the plane said, "It will take you any place you want to go."

"Will it take me around the world?" she asked a salesman.

"Sure," the salesman replied.

Mrs. Bruce decided to try it if the tag told the truth. She obtained the co-operation of the manufacturers in teaching her to fly and seven weeks later, Sept. 25, she left Heston Flying Field, near London, on a globe-encircling flight. She flew over Europe, skirted the Persian gulf, crossed French Indo-China, flew along the Chinese coast, visited Japan, from whence she shipped her plane to Vancouver, British Columbia. From Vancouver, Mrs. Bruce flew down the Pacific coast to San Diego, Cal., and thence across the continent to St. Louis, arriving here late yesterday.

Continues Flight

Mrs. Bruce will continue her flight today, journeying by stages to New York, where, if she can obtain a plane of sufficient gasoline capacity, she will fly across the Atlantic. If not, she will ship her plane, arriving in England about Feb. 15.

"Oh, yes, I've had a few thrills and spills," Mrs. Bruce said today as she prepared to resume her flight. "I had seven forced landings during the flight. One was on the coast of French Indo-China. It was 100 miles to the nearest town, and I spent three days among barbaric natives while a messenger brought assistance."

Mrs. Bruce, who is 29, and her husband are well known in England as automobile racing drivers. Her first stop after leaving St. Louis will be Chicago. She flew here from Dallas, Texas, yesterday.

SAYS POLITICS ARE INVOLVED IN CONTRACTS

Hartford Paper Asserts Fa- voritism Was Shown In Purchase of Building Ma- terials For State Hospital.

Hartford, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The Hartford Times today said political favoritism in the purchase of building materials for the new $8,000,000 Fairfield State hospital at Newtown was a factor in the appointment of three new members of the board of trustees of the institution by Governor Cross.

The disclosure reported by the Times cited particularly the contracts for lumber and cement given to State Senator Harold B. Senior of Bethel, chairman of the building committee of the project and a material dealer.

Reports that Senator Senior was taking a dual role in the construction of huge insane hospitals as supervisor of the project in the capacity of chairman of the building committee of the trustees and as source of supply for various materials used by Abbadesse and Brothers of New Haven, general contractors, and by subcontractors culminated today with the admission, by the New Haven firm, that Senator Senior's company had supplied all lumber and cement for the job.

Other Reports

Another report, to the effect that Mr. Senior is also involved in the supplying of brick for the project, could not be verified today. R. O. Clark of East Berlin, whose Eastern Brick Company is manufacturer of the brick being used in the buildings, refused to say whether or not the Bethel yard operated by Mr. Senior is handling the brick.

The three Republicans whom Governor Cross dropped from the commission are Mrs. Alice W. Russ of Shelton, former Republican National committee woman, Albert E. Hamilton of Greenwich and Harry O. King of Fairfield. In their places are named Dr. Daniel T. Banks of Bridgeport, Caroline Rutz-Rees of Greenwich, former Democratic National committee woman and Frank Wright of Newtown. F. S. Wayland of Waterbury and Charles G. Morris of New Haven were both reappointed. Mr. Morris to serve until 1937; Mr. Wayland, like the other three appointees, to serve until 1935.

Sold Other Supplies

Senator Senior, it is reported by sub-contractors has sold various other supplies, aside from lumber and cement on the job. There is no indication that he has received more than the usual profit from the business done through his establishment.

It is generally felt, however, that the deal represents an unwholesome situation. Mr. Morris, informed of

PRESIDENT LEAVES DOORS STILL OPEN FOR DRY REVISION

ALMA RUBENS DEAD; ONCE NOTED STAR

Victim of Opium Habit She Makes Valiant Fight To Come Back and Fails.

Los Angeles, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Death has ended the valiant fight of Alma Rubens to conquer narcotic addiction and make a comeback in motion pictures.

Miss Rubens died last night of pneumonia, but the coming of Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Emphasis was made today by Senator Fess, Republican, Ohio, to the point that President Hoover in objecting to the Wickersham commission's substitute 18th Amendment had not closed the door to all revision proposals.

Party leaders looked significantly at the statement of Senator Fess, who is chairman of the Republican National committee and an adviser of Mr. Hoover's. He was at the White House yesterday.

The Ohioan, one of the staunch supporters of National prohibition himself, would not say that Mr. Hoover favored any other revision or had any other idea for modification in mind.

Door Not Closed

"I just simply say," explained Fess, "that Mr. Hoover did not close the door to any revision when he rejected this substitute amendment because it would throw prohibition forever into politics."

The law enforcement commission said in its conclusions:

"All the commission agree that if the amendment is revised it should be made to read substantially as follows:

"Section 1. The Congress shall have power to regulate or to prohibit the manufacture, traffic or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into and the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes."

DEBATES CONTINUE

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The wave of prohibition activity unleashed by the Wickersham commission report surges on today in and out of Congress, developing what appeared to be a remobilization of wet and dry forces for intensified conflict.

Beyond the still stirring excitement over newspaper stories that the commission had been influenced by President Hoover to change its report—these drew emphatic denial from the law enforcement group itself—there was a well marked tendency on the part of some friends and foes alike to pin the future political fortunes of the President to the dry cause.

In the storm of an anti-outburst appeared yesterday by Senator Tydings of Maryland, Democratic prohibition opponent, for an inquiry into how the commission reached its conclusions, and the pending Howel bill to give the District of Columbia a stringent enforcement act.

Last night Jettie Shouse, chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic national committee in a statement criticized both the commission report and the President's failure to endorse the complete document.

"The one concrete thought contributed by the commission" he said "is a proposed revision of the 18th Amendment if the continued effort of enforcement under the existing statutes should prove unsuccessful."

"That seems conservative enough but President Hoover makes the comment that he sees serious objection to it and therefore must not be understood as recommending it."

Conclusion Obvious

"The conclusion is inescapable that the President appointed this committee not to seek a remedy for the existing evils of prohibition enforcement but with the not wholly ingenious reservation that if it found according to his own ideas it would be all right, but that wherever it departed from these ideas he would repudiate the report."

At the same time Henry H. Curtis, president of the association against the prohibition amendment, asserted his organization's opposition to any change but outright repeal and added criticism of Mr. Hoover's transmittal with its definite stand against repeal or revision.

Spokesmen of two dry organizations, the Board of Temperance and the Methodist Episcopal church and the W. C. T. U., said the President's message removed all doubt but that Mr. Hoover was aligned on the dry side. Making Senator Fess of Ohio earlier it clear he was speaking not as chairman of the Republican national committee and without consultation with the President, gave it as his personal belief Mr. Hoover's stand was the one he would maintain in the presidential campaign next year.

HOUSE DEMOCRATS DISCUSS HARMONY

Hold Conference On Kimmel Resolution Which Produced the First Roll Call.

State Capitol, Hartford, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A "harmony" conference of the House Democrats held today agreed on a method of procedure during the sessions and gave promise, members afterwards said, of unity of action.

The Kimmel resolution which produced a roll called last Thursday was discussed by the minority leader, Mr. Markham, of Hartford, who voted with the Republicans, explained that he did so as he regarded the resolution merely the pro test of some members as to their own committee assignments.

SOVIET RUSSIA AGAIN IS 'THREATENED BY WAR'

Moscow, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Soviet Russia is threatened with the greatest war in history, Commissar of War Voroshilov declared in an address here today to the Congress of Communist Youth.

The Soviet Union, he declared, must organize the masses not only for the purpose of defending the country against inevitable intervention, but for victory over "the country which first draws the sword against us."

Three million young Communists are in the Congress of youths, he said, and 200,000 of them are in the army. He urged the entire membership to begin intensive training for defense of the state.

"Our country," said he, "is a Socialist island surrounded by capitalist enemies, and it is obvious that the international bourgeoisie are preparing to march against us."

He asserted that the Soviet Union is in the grip of an economic crisis, "blames the Soviet Union for all its misfortunes and is preparing for war against us."

He indicated that preparations for defense already were under way with the declaration of war in June and all light and heavy industry will be mobilized.

DEGREE OF POCAHONTAS GREET'S GRAND OFFICERS

Sunset Council, Degree of Pocahontas, received a visit from several of its grand officers at its last regular meeting in Tinker hall. Visitors were present from Hartford, Rockville, Middletown, Bristol and Winsted. One member was from a Degree of Pocahontas in the State of Maine.

The degree work was exemplified on four candidates. Deputy Susie Kastner took the part of the degree mistress who was unable to be present on account of illness.

Deputy Great Pocahontas in behalf of Sunset Council presented a gift to Great Pocahontas May Hall, who in turn and also in behalf of the council remembered Mrs. Kastner with a gift.

Both expressed their appreciation in a few well chosen words. Mrs. Hall and the Great Keeper of Records, Harriet Wright, made remarks on the work of the order, and Mrs. Wright expressed a desire to meet keepers of records from Sunset Council who were unable to attend the business. After the meeting they had an opportunity of greeting her personally.

Chairman Evelyn Akrigg and her committee served a tasty luncheon.

JUDGES GATHER, ADOPT ASSOCIATION BY-LAWS

Judge R. A. Johnson of This Town Vice President of New Organization.

Thirty-five members of the Connecticut Association of City and Town Court Judges met last night at the Hartford Club for the purpose of adopting a set of by-laws drafted by the executive committee, and to discuss ways and means to help each other in the court work. The organization was perfected a month ago when Judge Frank A. Foss of Willimantic was elected president, Judge Raymond A. Johnson of this town vice president and Judge James E. Cannon of Windsor Locks, secretary.

The judges last night enjoyed a dinner after which the subject of the proposed district court system for Connecticut was discussed at length. This bill is advocated by the Judicial Council. No definite action was taken by the association on the matter last evening. It is planned to meet sometime in February, probably at New Haven.

R. O. CHENEY, JR. ILL, TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Removed to Hartford Institution Today Suffering With Ulcers of the Stomach.

Richard O. Cheney, Jr., a member of the firm of Cheney Brothers was removed from his home at 95 Forest street to the Hartford hospital in Holloran's ambulance at 11 o'clock this morning seriously ill with ulcers of the stomach.

Mr. Cheney has been under doctor care since early October but his condition first became serious Saturday night when he had a hemorrhage of the stomach and sinking spell. Last night the attending physician decided that it was necessary to remove the patient to the hospital.

POLICE CHIEF TO ASK FOR BAN ON FIREWORKS

As a result of a vote passed at the last annual meeting of the Connecticut Police Chiefs' Association there is to be introduced at the present Legislature, probably next week, a resolution asking for a state law to abolish the use of fireworks.

Fourth of July and only allowing for their use in municipal celebrations under proper restraint. The resolution will be presented by a representative or senator from the lower part of the state. It has been found that the law governing the use of fireworks at present in force is lacking in many ways. The state law and the different acts of town and cities conflict and in some cases it has been hard to prosecute because of lack of "teeth."

ABOUT TOWN

In the excavation of the cellar of the club house which is to be built on Golway street by the Lithuanian Co-operative Association frost made necessary the using of picks to soften up the top surface before it was possible to use horses and a scoop to get away the dirt. The land is of gravel formation and below the frost line there is expected to be little trouble in digging.

There have been no developments in tracing the money amounting to $115.71 that was taken from the Polish Co-operative Store at 71 North street Tuesday afternoon.

In addition to the ice that is to be cut at Globe Hollow, Case's, Satter's and Sperry's in Bolton, L. T. Wood expects to be able to cut considerable ice to store in the ice houses owned by him on Hayward Lake, Bolton Notch.

$20,000 IN BOOZE SEIZED AT WHARF

New London, Jan. 22.—(AP)—In from rum row with a full load of liquor, the 59-foot motor boat Goose of Bridgeport was seized by a Coast Guard "reception committee" at a Saybrook wharf today. Her crew of four jumped to the wharf and fled. The prize was brought here for surrender to Customs authorities. Her cargo was estimated at between 800 and 400 cases of assorted liquor, valued at $20,000.

The seizure was made by the patrol boat CG-234 from the local base, in command of Boatswain Floyd C. Overhauser, who is one of the three ranking "experts" of the Coast Guard anti-smuggling forces here. The others are Boatswain Alexander C. Cornell and Theodore C. Loesch.

On the lookout for one of three boats which it was thought might try to land liquor at Saybrook during the night, Overhauser under cover of darkness moved the 234 in alongside the Saybrook wharf last night and moored her there. At 2 o'clock this morning, the Goose, traveling stealthily slid in along the opposite side of the wharf and was moored. As ropes were made fast on the beam from the searchlight service craft illuminated the wharf, the crew realizing that she was trapped leaped to the wharf and ran away.

MAIL DRIVERS FREED

Bridgeport, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Declaring the court is powerless to enforce any regulations hampering the mails, Prosecutor James C. Proctor today recommended noles in the cases of the eleven mail truck drivers arrested for obstructing the John street sidewalk. Judge A. J. Meritt accepted the recommendations and the charges were dropped.

Prosecutor Shannon said that since the arrests the postal authorities had voluntarily taken steps to remedy the conditions. A white line has been painted in front of the parcel post station about five feet from the building. Trucks loading and unloading parcels will not pass this mark, thus leaving a five foot passageway for pedestrians. Trucks that have completed unloading are not to be permitted to park in front of the station and decorations. The menu will include soup, baked ham, apple sauce, mashed potato and turnips, creamed onions, celery, olives, pickles, rolls, apple pie and cheese, salted nuts, mints and coffee.

Rev. Elmer Thienes will be the toastmaster. The speaker of the evening will be the Rev. M. E. Osborne of the Rockville Methodist church. Mr. Osborne was born in India and it is expected will have something to say about the country of his birth. He is well known to a number of local boys who have spent their vacations at Camp Woodstock.

George Beer will speak for the fathers and it has not been definitely decided whether he will be invited to give the invocation. The program will close with general dancing to which all will be welcome.

FLIERS SWAP PLANES

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Frank Hawks, speed flier, and David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of Navy for Aviation, swapped planes today but not for keeps.

Hawks and Will Rogers took off from Washington this morning on a Red Cross tour of the country in Ingalls' plane, which he loaned Hawks for the trip.

Casey Jones, New York pilot and flying executive, will bring Ingalls to New York this afternoon on the rapid little "mystery ship" which has carried Hawks on so many record-breaking jumps about the country. Ingalls will fly the speed plane back to Washington and use it for a few days, perhaps until his own is returned to him.

WANT 3 P. C. BEER

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Immediate legalization of 3 per cent beer was urged in the House today by Representative William E. Hull, Republican, Illinois.

A resolution also was introduced by Representative Celler, Democrat, New York, to carry out the Wickersham commission's recommendation for removal of restrictions on doctors' prescriptions of liquor.

Hull told the House "for the first time in the history of this country, if not in the history of the world, crime has become a paying institution. The unenforceable prohibition law is responsible for a most vicious development in American community life and if it is allowed to continue we will be under the combined domination of the bandit, the burglar, the bootlegger, the narcotic vendor and the racketeer."

Waterbury, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The Waterbury posts of the American Legion may receive the $5,000 balance remaining in the United War Work Fund which is sought by the Waterbury unemployed committee for use in its welfare work. Attorney General Warren B. Burrows filed an answer to the Superior Court action brought by Attorney W. E. Thomas and Lewis S. Reed in which he declared that in his opinion the turning of the money over to the American Legion would be more in keeping with the original purpose of the fund than diverting it to the unemployed committee of Mayor Frank Hays.

KELLY WANTS TO PLAY HIS BASEBALL IN EAST Chicago.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs have advised George Kelly that he'll not be needed this year. Rogers Hornsby counseled the big first baseman to try the Los Angeles Pacific coast team, Cub farm, but Kelly wants to play in the east.

Kelly was with Cincinnati at the beginning of the season last year. He was released to Minneapolis of the American association. The Cubs beckoned to him when Charley Grimm was hurt and Kelly's hitting was a factor in the Cubs' pennant challenge.

CUBAN PUBLISHERS PROTEST CENSORSHIP

Havana, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Rafael Govin, owner of El Mundo, Diario de la Marina, the two largest Spanish language morning papers in Cuba, today issued a protest against the government ban placed against them and seven other publishers January 9.

The publishers were suspended for having indirectly contributed to sedition in Cuba by giving prominent space to anti-government activities. The statement they jointly issued follows, in part:

"Article 25 of the Cuban Constitution prohibits press censorship of any kind and guarantees freedom of the press, freedom of thought and freedom of speech. The Constitution expressly declares that this is one of the articles which cannot be suspended under any circumstances, and the law recently passed by the Congress suspending the guarantee made no attempt to suspend this article, x x x

"Leaving aside the legal situation, the law invoked to suppress the newspapers is a Spanish law enacted in 1870 in Spain and promulgated in Cuba in 1902.

"We cannot believe that a law enacted by the Spanish government sixty years ago nullifies the Constitution of Cuba, which expressly nullifies all laws in conflict therewith.

"We believe that the government has taken advantage of this law of antiquated Spanish origin to avoid further publication of dispatches dealing with the conditions which at present prevail throughout the country."

Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, said he was sure Meyer would want the nomination to go back, in view of the charges.

Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, declared it was "perfectly useless to try to blacken the character of a man like Meyer" and urged Brookhart's motion be defeated, but he finally agreed to Norbeck's proposal.

MAY BUY OIL CO.

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—It was reported in Wall street today that Cities Service Co. is arranging to acquire the Warner Quinlan Co., an important refiner and distributor of petroleum products in New Jersey and New York.

While the report could not be confirmed, it was learned in petroleum circles that Cities Service has had its eye on Warner-Quinlan for some time, with a view of possibly acquiring it to increase its outlets in the east.

Warner Quinlan, which listed total assets of more than $300,000 in its last balance sheet, is a complete unit in the industry, having producing properties in Texas and Mexico, and its main refining plant at Warner, N. J.

Its distribution in New York is through subsidiary, the Municipal Service Corp.

SEES NOTHING WRONG Hartford, Jan. 22.—(AP)—State Senator Harold B. Senior of Bethel, Republican, and chairman of the building committee of the board of trustees of the new Fairfield state hospital admitted today that he had supplied most of the material including bricks, cement and lumber for the first wing of the new institution being built at Newtown.

Senator Senior said that other concerns including the Howard Company of New Haven, had also sold supplies to the contractor. He said he was wrong in this situation. Senator Senior said, "Before the contract was let to Abbadesse I did not quote for any part of the job. All I did was as chairman of the building committee, to offer my services to the contractor by volunteering to furnish whatever supplies that he might ask me to get for him at reasonable prices."

The Senator would not disclose the cost of the supplies he furnished Abbadesse. He admitted, however, that he earned profit by ordering material directly from the manufacturer at factory prices having them billed to him and then selling to the contractor at market prices.

He denied that he acted as an agent on a commission basis, but he considered himself in the position of a dealer. Asked whether his participation in the transactions was unethical in view of his position on the board, he said he could see nothing wrong in it.

In regard to the contract, the Senator said, Abbadesse was compelled to obtain approval of the trustees only on materials that were not standard. This meant that the materials he supplied, all of them standard, were chosen at the discretion of the contractor, he said.

MEYER'S NOMINATION BACK IN COMMITTEE

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The Senate today recommitted to its banking committee the nomination of Eugene Meyer, Jr., of New York, to be governor of the Federal Reserve Board.

The Senate agreed unanimously after Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, protested he had not been given an opportunity to question the nomination charges that Meyer had "conspired to cause the failure of joint stock land banks."

Brookhart moved to recommit the nomination. Before a vote was taken, Chairman Norbeck of the committee asked unanimous consent to have the nomination referred back. The request was supported by Meyer's friends.

Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, said he was sure Meyer would want the nomination to go back, in view of the charges.

Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, declared it was "perfectly useless to try to blacken the character of a man like Meyer" and urged Brookhart's motion be defeated, but he finally agreed to Norbeck's proposal.

HOOVER TO SPEAK

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—President Hoover, as president of the American Red Cross today accepted an invitation to participate in the special drought relief program arranged by the Red Cross for the National Broadcast Company to be broadcast tonight from 9 to 10 o'clock.

The President will speak from the White House. The entire program is to be devoted to the campaign of the Red Cross to raise ten million to relieve suffering in the drought stricken areas. Other speakers will include former President Coolidge and Alfred E. Smith.

DRY LAW'S FUNDS TROUBLE CONGRESS

Disputes Between Wets and Drys Disturb Session In Both Branches Today.

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—With the Wickersham report freshly in mind, the House today resumed the controversy over prohibition enforcement appropriations. The Senate decided meanwhile to recommit the nomination of Eugene Meyer, Jr., to be governor of the Federal Reserve Board to the Interstate Commerce committee. This action was urged by Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa.

The House wet bloc started going right down the line in opposition to all sorts of funds to promote enforcement, allotted to the Justice Department in its supply bill. It met failure.

Representative William E. Hull, Republican, Illinois, urged three percent beer. Representative Celler, Democrat, New York, introduced a resolution to carry out the Wickersham recommendation that physicians' liquor prescriptions be freed of present restrictions.

Asks For Delay Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, an advocate of repeal, said there was no time for prohibition legislation this session, but that full hearings should be held next year.

Representatives Blanton—Texas Democratic Prohibitionist—and LaGuardia—New York Republican anti-Prohibitionist—disputed in the House over the Wickersham report.

Republican House leaders decided to send the Senate's $25,000,000 appropriation for Red Cross relief to the appropriations committee for investigation. They are anxious to defeat the proposal.

Several committees were active. The Fogg bill to reduce immigration by ten per cent for two years was approved by the House immigration committee. It has administration support.

Butleg Banking George L. Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Reserve bank, testified in the Senate investigation of banking conditions and warned that measures to curb speculation on the Stock Exchange must take into consideration a "bootleg banking business" outside of Reserve Board control.

The Senate agriculture committee approved a bill by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, to provide $3,000,000 for health work in the drought area.

The House judiciary committee approved the Wagner-advance planning employment measure, which passed the Senate yesterday. Substituted for the original bill to meet the objections of the administration, it would authorize a commission to lay advance public works and building programs to be initiated during periods of depression and unemployment.

Postoffice Leases The Senate postoffice leasing investigating committee ordered an appraisal of a number of lease hold sites to determine their true values for comparison with the values claimed by the leaseholders for rental purposes to the government.

Senator Stephen, Democrat, Mississippi, introduced a bill to permit the government to make loans to railroads for construction purposes. The bill calls for appropriation of $25,000,000 to be used as a revolving fund for this purpose.

The measure would make it lawful for railroads subject to the Interstate Commerce Act to apply to the Interstate Commerce Commission for loans for construction of extensions, branch lines, or new lines.

FEAR 50 DROWNED

Vienna, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Reports from Constanta on the Black Sea, today said fifty persons drowned after the steamship Javaria buckled amidships and sank with 36 of the crew and 14 passengers during a gale which swept the Black Sea last night and today.

The Javaria could not be identified immediately but she was believed to be a Russian vessel. The storm also was violent in the Aegean Sea and there was a report that an American armored cruiser whose name could not be ascertained, had rammed the Greek ship, Nikolief, cutting her in two, but saving the crew.

Near Sinope a Turkish steamer was reported to have sunk, but there were no details. A German and British ship were said to have collided damaging both badly.

BROKERS SUSPENDED

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The New York Stock Exchange today suspended Lorenzo E. Anderson & Company of St. Louis for insolvency.

The suspension was the first of the year and the eighth since the Stock Market break in October, 1929.

The announcement was made by Richard Whitney, president, from the rostrum of the exchange. He said: "I have been advised by the committee on business conduct that Lorenzo E. Anderson & Co., of St. Louis are in such financial condition that they cannot be permitted to continue in business with safety to creditors or to the Exchange."

The firm also was suspended by the New York Curb Exchange. The St. Louis firm, which had no New York office, did a commission business in securities. It dealt in grain. It was organized in May, 1913, and bears the name of the founder who died some years ago. His son, Oliver J. Anderson, organized O. J. Anderson and Co., St. Louis, which has no connection with the suspended company.

of Bethel, an auditor of Fairfield county, an office he has long held. A bill concerning birth control was offered in the House by Mr. Peck, of Bristol, and sent to the judiciary committee. It would give physicians the right to give advice.

IN THE SENATE State Capitol, Hartford, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The Senate session was very short, and few matters were offered. The first appropriation bill of the session, that which carried allowances for deficiencies in various departmental accounts, was offered by Senator Smith of the appropriations committee.

Senate Bills Among other Senate bills were those to exempt from taxation for those two years houses built and completed in 1931 and 1932; placing burial associations which provide for burial by contract or insurance funds, under the insurance commission; changing the charter of the Naugatuck court to provide for an assistant prosecutor; to permit Bridgeport to issue emergency relief bonds not to exceed one million dollars; to allow increase of the capital stock of the Hartford Life Insurance company not to exceed $5,000,000; providing for retention by the state of fifteen per cent of a highway contract money for sixty days after completion of a contract; revising the corporate existence of the International Realty Company; to permit issuance of an embalmers' license; Thomas F. Reilly of Bridgeport.

IN THE HOUSE State Capitol, Hartford, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The House adopted a bill increasing the membership of the appropriations committee from two Senators to three and from eleven Representatives to 13. This committee is governed by statute law and the change could not be made by rule. The recent change in rules by which the Democrats gained a Senate member of committees did not apply to the appropriations committee.

Other bills would put North avenue in Fairfield, and Brandy Hill road in Thompson in the trunk line system. Senator Robison, of Meriden, had a bill to have taxes paid by certain corporations paid direct into a town or city treasury.

Other Bills Other bills were: Ansonia to issue $75,000 bonds for streets and sewers; trustees of Staples free school in Fairfield to sell property known as the Easton school; requiring owners of motor vehicles to submit to the motor vehicle commissioner upon request the name of the person driving the vehicle at any certain time; setting forth the fourth Wednesday of the next session of the General Assembly as the expiration date for recess appointments; authorizing the governor to designate by annual proclamation October 11 as "General Pulaski's Memorial Day"; appropriating $34,900 to the Trumbull Airport commission for 1931 and 1932.

More judicious resolutions appeared with a controversy looming in Shelton. In addition to those for Joseph G. Shapiro and John N. Sinsabaugh, incumbents, a resolution was offered for Wesley J. Goulding.

Other bills were for Merritt O. Ryder and Cornelius Price, Plainville; J. Lambert Degnan and William Hurley, Southington; William Heald and Ernest K. Taft, Stratford, and Maurice A. Germond, East Haven.

WOODCOCK PLEAS WITH BOARD'S PLEA

Dry Director Will Gladly Take More Agents As the Commission Suggests.

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Prohibition Director Woodcock today answered the contention of the Wickersham commission that his request for 500 additional dry agents was too small with the statement that "if Congress wants to give me more we will accept them gratefully."

Can Use More "The request for 500 additional agents," he said, "represents my judgment, the attorney general's judgment, and the judgment of the budget bureau. If Congress wishes to increase this number we will gladly accept them. As for the speed with which we can put these men into the field, that, too, is in the hands of Congress. We have laid plans for calling the bureau's 24 instructors to Washington in June for a refreshing course of instruction."

CIGARETTE WAR ON

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Signs of a fresh cigarette price-cutting fight, from which the industry has been comparatively free for several months, appeared today in an announcement that the Schulte Retail Stores Corp. had reduced the price of several popular brands to 11 cents a package to meet a special offer by another organization.

NEW FORM RATE BOOK IS IN USE THIS YEAR

Neil Cheney, Clerk of Assessors, Busy Making Out List To Avoid Last Minute Rush.

Neil Cheney, clerk of the board of assessors, is at present working upon the rate book, which will contain 6,300 names. A loose leaf book is being used and it is possible to type in the names of the property owners who will appear on the list, which the clerk is now doing. Against the name of the property owner is the valuation of the property as set by the assessors which are written in with ink and can be altered when the board of relief deems it necessary to make any change.

The space that is also provided for the rate is at present left un-filled as the rate of taxation will not be set until the annual adjournment meeting to be held in March. With this rate set it will be then possible to start in and figure the tax bill. Instead of making it necessary to have the whole rate book figured before it is turned over to the collector, it will be possible for him to start in at once with the rate maker. As the "A" list is completed, or a page or two of it figured, Collector Howe with his assistant can start making out the bills and this will give him a start of at least ten days over that of other years.

The rate book instead of being one that might be carried around in a pocket is one that will be kept at the office as it will be 14 inches and contains all of the necessary information as to the amount of the list and the rate and tax bill. In order to have the names already in the book the work has been started and it will be finished long before the board of relief makes its changes. This can then be corrected on the rate book and a like change made by making out a new bill by the tax collector, putting him in a position to have all completed so far in advance that there will not be a rush in getting out the 6,300 bills within a short time.

COLLECTOR LOST $50,000 AT FARO

Was in Next Room "He knew it was for the purpose of collecting the fare debt. He knew it, he knew that it was adopted, his nephew sat in the same room with me while I continued to play faro, and Mr. Litsinger was in the adjoining room."

Mrs. Blackledge, Chicago club woman and the widow of a drug-gist, was made internal revenue collector in April, 1929, for the Chicago and Northern Illinois District, second largest in the United States. The woman's winnings from three card players in a Springfield hotel were understood to have reached $207,500 when they asked that she produce $50,000 cash in place of the cheque she had brought to Springfield. She returned to Chicago and placed her request before Litsinger, she said.

Litsinger alleged that Mrs. Blackledge borrowed the money on the pretext that it was needed to settle details of her late husband's estate.

SEN. SMITH ASKS FOR STATE FUNDS

Departments In Need of Money He Tells Senate; Unemployment One Cause

State Capitol, Hartford, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The deficiency appropriation bill which the Senate today received from the appropriations committee through its chairman, Senator Smith, of Manchester, carried a total of $1,513,985.81 to cover accounts unpaid in the past fiscal biennium. The total compares with $1,022,255 in the deficiency bill of 1929 session. Some $32,000 had been struck out by the committee after departmental heads had heard in explanation of items.

NO DISCREPANCY New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Judge William S. Kenyon, member of the Wickersham law enforcement commission, telegraphed the New York Sun today that an "attempt to create" a discrepancy in the commission's report on prohibition was "ridiculous."

ABOUT TOWN

The scheduled hockey game between Manchester High and Kingswood school at Hartford has been called off, it was announced this afternoon. The game was set for today.

The condition of Miss M. Elizabeth Lee, Manchester High school teacher, who was injured in an automobile accident near her home in Canaan last Friday night, remains about the same although some improvement has been noticed.

The firemen of Hose Company No. 1, Manchester Fire Department, will hold a special meeting at the hose house, Main and Hilliard streets, tonight at 8 o'clock for the transaction of several matters of business, including the date and place of the annual banquet.

Dr. Fred A. Sweet, of 42 North School street, retired dentist and former president of the Eighth School Utilities district, was discharged from the Manchester Memorial hospital this afternoon. He had been confined to the hospital since January 6 for intestinal trouble which necessitated a major operation. His condition is now much improved but it will be some time yet before he will be able to be about as usual.

The second lesson in the Scoutmasters' training course will be given at the Center Congregational church tonight at 7 o'clock. All Scoutmasters, assistant Scoutmasters and troop committeemen interested will be welcome to attend.

tributing the relief funds voluntarily, by individual freewill gift, and lending its sanction to the employment of public money in relief measures, the Red Cross being the distributing agent.

We have had no idea of opposing both these plans, even though there are elements in both that are objectionable. Frankly we are somewhat skeptical as to the suffering in the so-called drought areas being as desperate as certain senatorial orators picture it. It is not very convincing of imminent peril of starvation to countless thousands of people in Arkansas, for instance, when Senator Caraway melodramatically informs his colleagues that a 70 year old legless man was found dying of exposure beside the road and that a trapper was found starving to death in his hut on the Cache river—when the Senator was seeking to impress Congress with a casualty list. Homeless men and hermits die alone of cold and hunger and old age in other states and at other times. These Arkansas have been starving to death for weeks—but there is no official report of any increase in the normal death rate in that state.

comprehensible performance were it not for the attitude of a single member of that body, Mr. Lemann. Mr. Lemann is the only member of the commission who refused to sign the report. He issued an individual statement declaring that he favored immediate repeal of the amendment. Now he is quoted as absolutely refusing to explain why he declined to sign the main report, saying that he will not do so unless compelled to by some unexpected development. It seems to us that there is considerable significance to this statement. If it doesn't imply the existence of circumstances better, for somebody's reputation, left undisclosed, it doesn't imply anything. Perhaps Mr. Lemann, not being willing to say more, should not have said this much. Perhaps, having said this much, he ought to say more. Perhaps the Senate, which has a passion for investigation, may follow Senator Tyding's advice and proved the unexpected development to which Mr. Lemann referred, in the shape of another "probe."

Washington Letter
 BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer

Washington, Jan. 22.—Women are more valuable than men in Liberia's domestic slavery.

The International Commission of Inquiry, which investigated slavery and forced labor in the African republic reports that between 1912 and 1920 the redemption price for female slaves was about $20 and that for men about $15, but that since 1920 the price for women has been $30 and that for men has remained the same.

Domestic slaves become such under the "pawning" system which is officially recognized by the Liberian government but which the commission severely condemns. In return for money, human beings, usually old relatives but often wives or mothers, are given into unrepentant servitude for indefinite periods and with little chance of redeeming themselves.

Woman Pawns for $5

Pawns may be repawned by the holder, and the commission found persons remaining in pawn for 10, 20, 40 years or for life. One woman had been held in pawn six years for the sum of $5. Instances are cited where, in order to pay government fines or taxes, many natives pawned wives, sisters or children for from $15 to $40.

Late in December, the State Department sent a scathing note of censure to the Liberian government, which is supposed to have caused the resignations of President King and Vice President Yancy. Secretary Stimson said the report established the direct criminal participation of the Liberian government in the shipment of forced labor to Fernando Po and said King was aware of the various practices.

The note mentioned evidence of torture and the "pawning" system. Liberia has promised to clean up, it said, but had done nothing in that direction and guilty officials remained in office. Stimson virtually threatened to break off relations.

One of the many pitiable stories told in the report, on which the note is based, concerns a long march of several hundred Wadabo women who went to Cape Palmas in 1928 to petition Yancy not to send away their husbands and brothers to Fernando Po, a Spanish colony. The women "ranged helplessly about the town and their petition was ignored."

Strange names are found in the evidence taken by the commission—such names as Sea Breeze and Sea Breeze No. 2, Africa, Tin Cup, Book Don't Lie, Black Man's Trouble, John No. 1, John No. 2 and John No. 3.

A profitable traffic grew up at one time among persons who could lure boys for shipment out of Liberia to other African points using various wiles. One woman, who was said to have worked for Yancy and the postmaster general, testified that "civilized" persons were paid $5 for each boy recruited and native $125. She severed relations with the postmaster general when she discovered she was being paid the native rate.

Stories of floggings recur time and again in the report, but Liberian soldiers and others who had power over the forced labor on the fields also engaged in most bitter tortures. An apparently well known practice, the commission says, was that of tying victims with ropes, dangling them in the air, building fires under them and throwing red pepper into the flames.

The "basket punishment" was a favorite punishment and amusement of soldiers guarding the road workers. A big basket loaded with earth and heavy stones was lifted by four soldiers and placed on the prisoner's head, the prisoner then being ordered to walk. Many men were killed thus when their necks were broken, according to the evidence, and others received fatal injuries. A large number of deaths from beatings were also reported.

In one instance reported, the natives retaliated. Two hundred women

SYMPTOMS OF DISEASE

In yesterday's article I attempted to paint a picture of perfect health. Without attempting to teach my readers to diagnose their own troubles I will in today's article describe certain conditions which indicate some deviation from the normal condition of perfect health. The reader may be suffering from some disorder.

If the hair is falling out too rapidly.

If the scalp is scaly or the hair has lost its lustre.

If the hearing or eyesight is impaired.

If there are noises in the ears.

If the eyelids are irritated or the whites of the eyes discolored by enlarged veins or yellow color.

If the gums around the teeth are inflamed or there are any dead teeth in the mouth which may have abscessed roots.

If the skin is sallow, pimply, too pale, dry or scaly.

If breathing is interfered with, either in the nose or from faulty chest expansion.

If when resting the respiration or breathing time is more than 18 times a minute, or the pulse faster than 72 times per minute; or if the pulse is not approximately four times the breathing rate.

If the body is at any place unduly covered with fat or if one is thin and emaciated.

If there is distress after eating, or too much gas and flatulence.

If the bowels move only once daily, or the stool is too liquid, too dry, or there is too much mucus.

If the urine is cloudy, scant, dark colored or too copious.

If there is not an urging appetite in the morning to eat breakfast and a strong desire for one or two other meals during the day.

If the sleeping time is broken up by restlessness, dreams, nightmares or difficulty in breathing.

If upon awakening, one is not eager for work and anxious to attack the problems of the day.

If one has spells of nervousness, irritability, desire to avoid people and is intolerant of his friends' views and actions.

The above symptoms are some which are present in different disorders. If you have any of these conditions of which you are con-

DEFLATION

Manchester, through the operation of events in its major industry, has been required to face the problem of wage deflation somewhat in advance of a general recognition of that condition throughout the country as a whole. Because this is so the community will have to figure out for itself, without waiting for the experiences of the whole nation, how the changed condition is to be met. Obviously there must be readjustments elsewhere to balance, reasonably, the readjustment of the incomes of a large part of the town's population on a somewhat lower scale.

Nevertheless a great many people are hard up and must be helped. It certainly is not our purpose to bring arguments against helping them.

But as between the proposition to appropriate $25,000,000 from the United States treasury and the one to withdraw $10,000,000 from the pockets of the people through voluntary contributions the choice, while narrow, seems to us to be in favor of the former method. We find it quite impossible to subscribe to President Hoover's letter to the leaders whom he asked to help out the Red Cross drive, so far as this statement is concerned:

IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 22.—The other day it was recorded briefly hereabouts that the "White Rats" had turned up their toes, and thus passes the first dynamic organization of theater folk in Broadway records. The Actors' Equity has come since and flourishes in the face of all opposition.

The Rats, however, were a vaudeville organization and came into being some 30 years ago. The Equity appeared on the scene, later, with a more general union for performers.

A virile, young, belligerent group, they fought the theater managers to a showdown, and, some say, committed suicide doing it. At any rate, before they had finished they had at least succeeded in teaching these same managers that actors were people and it might be wise to try and get along with them.

The first Rats' strike is theater history, bitterly fought by the late E. F. Albee. They were strong enough. But they came back a second and a third time—and as in certain free-for-all scraps, the end found all concerned gasping for air. Meanwhile 20 years had gone by, and everyone had grown older and wiser. Albee never did manage to become the theatrical colossus he might have been.

The most picturesque figure in the Rats' organization was an Englishman named Harry Mountford. He was not the founder. This had been a Utopian-minded variety player, George Golden. In those days $100 per week was big coin, and a week's engagement was about all they could hope for.

Mountford was half of an act but recently arrived from London, where he already had been quite active in getting the actors interested in organization. And it was not long before he was heading the American organization.

Well, that's all over now—nights of walkouts and picketing and picturesque labor warfare just inside the theater doors. Vaudeville isn't what it once was and the films have upset the whole show business.

Some time ago we intended to record something about the memorial folks in Evansville, Ind., built for Joe Cook, the comical cuss. Joe says a bronze plaque now at the spot where the circus clown came into the world. Joe was 17 years of age when he walked out on the old homestead where the back yard provided him with plenty of space for learning his early tricks.

He is one lad who clicked the bright lights without forgetting the old home town. In almost every performance he finds some way of getting the name of Evansville into his lines and has a dozen stories which he recites at Oak and Fourth streets, which was the corner nearest his residence.

There are a number of prominent theatrical folk who grow wistful for their native heath the moment a new show is in the making. At least two producers always insist on trying out their new productions in the towns they hailed from.

And you can leave it to the Manhattan sidewalk merchants to take advantage of anything that happens to be in the public eye. Not so long ago, one of the larger chain banks closed its doors after a run. Within a few days the dignified Wall Street gent awakened to find a hawkler in front of every important office building and bank in the money belt.

The peddlers were snapping bits of rubber—and chanting:
 "Come on, getcher a rubber check... a rubber check on the Thimgumby bank for 10 cents... a nice rubber check for 10 cents... take one home and give the folks a laugh."

Boston, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The British Auxiliary Schooner Firelight was taken into custody today by the Coast Guard patrol boat Harriet Lane, the commander of the latter radioed Coast Guard headquarters here. The patrol boat's commander said he was bringing the schooner to Boston for investigation.

The Firelight was once previously brought to this port but no longer was found aboard her and she was released.

The stock market has been deflated. Food prices have been deflated. Wages have begun to be deflated. Raw materials have been deflated. Manufactured commodities have been deflated in a crazily spotty way, some of them completely and some hardly at all, and complete deflation is inevitable for all of them. But rents have not been deflated, nor the price of coal, nor hospital charges, nor physicians' and dentists' services, nor the rates for electricity or gas, nor railroad or trolley or bus fares, nor theatre admissions, nor those of any one of a dozen other items that enter into the cost of living.

Some of these things are beyond the reach of purely local action, and no doubt will not be correspondingly adjusted without delay or without a struggle. But others are wholly within the control of Manchester people and these people will not be doing their part toward the restoration of normal conditions until they, too, have accepted the theory of deflation and made cuts in charges, rates and intake.

REPORT GOSSIP

It is not altogether surprising that the unaccountable peculiarities of the Wickersham report, which was signed by ten members though a majority of them were out of sympathy with its most salient implication, should have given rise to rumors of shenanigan in connection with it. It is not surprising that gossip is going about to the effect that changes were made in the document after it was signed, nor even that those changes were made at the solicitation of President Hoover. Nor is it anything more than was to have been anticipated that somebody in Congress—it happens to be Senator Tydings of Maryland—would ask for an investigation of the processes by which the report was arrived at.

CANADIANS' OPINION ON THE DRY REPORT

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Canadian newspaper comment on the Wickersham report: This report should at least be a warning to Prohibitionists in Canada. We believe that governmental control now in vogue in the different provinces is the best way of dealing with the liquor evil.

Ottawa Journal: The commission hasn't got anywhere, hasn't said anything that tens of thousands haven't said before, hasn't revealed anything that everybody didn't know before. So Volsteadism and all that goes with it, will go on—for the present. There will be speakeasies, and bootleggers, shootings and bribes and wood-alcohol poisonings and deaths.

Montreal Star: About the only thing the commission agreed upon is that prohibition is not now being enforced. Of some interest to Canadians is the conclusion that the King government's legislation placing an embargo upon liquor destined for the United States has been a failure. Canada has sacrificed considerable revenue by reason of this futile gesture, and at a time when the national income from other sources is declining.

DO YOU GET IT?

It has been figured that the average operating cost per mile of a five-passenger automobile is six and a half cents, or one and one-third cent per mile per person.

Business is business. And the business that does not adjust itself to changed conditions is not keeping abreast of the times. Whether it be the business of renting houses, or fixing teeth, or repairing automobiles or human stomachs or selling clothes or fuel or public utilities services, it is not going to continue to prosper in a period of deflated values and incomes as it prospered during inflation. Because the lowered income of the masses of the people simply will not go round, and some of these businesses, unless they adjust to new conditions, will stop.

There is mighty little chance of the voluntary drive being a success; and if these people are really hungry the time to feed them is now.

The first meeting of the committee to plan the program of the 1931 Hartford County Older Boys' Conference was called for this week Friday at 5 o'clock, and will be held at the Broad Street Y. W. C. Of interest is the fact that the majority of this planning committee's members are themselves older boys and therefore especially qualified to represent the interests of the boys who will attend the conference in the spring. The conference is held annually under the auspices of the Hartford County Y. M. C. A. with other agencies in the county co-operating.

PEOPLE OR GOVERNMENT?

This newspaper may have seemed to its readers to be somewhat inconsistent in its attitude toward relief of the drought sufferers, since on one hand it has expressed the belief that Manchester people cannot be expected to respond heartily to the President's call for contributions to a Red Cross fund of ten million dollars and on the other hand has pointed out that Congressional appropriations to Red Cross activities are likely to change reactantly accepted charity into dollars demanded as a right.

Obviously there is distress in the drought stricken states and though there is a peculiar vagueness and lack of detailed information as to the actual degree of that distress, it is probably extensive enough and serious enough to create an emergency demanding humane relief. So that the country seems to be confronted by a choice between con-

EINSTEIN LECTURES BEFORE SCIENTISTS

They Believe His Latest
Theory Will Explain Many
Secrets of the Universe.

Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 22.—(AP)—A key to the innermost secrets of nature has been presented a class of distinguished physicists and mathematicians by Albert Einstein in the latest and greatest creation of his world-famed brain, the unified field theory.

Theoretical physicists proclaimed it as the most simple theory that will explain all the secrets of space and the universe. Mathematicians find it the most gigantic problem ever presented them.

It embraces and goes beyond the general theory of relativity, for it places electro-magnetism side by side with the propagation of light, gravitation and quantum mechanics under one general law of unity.

Simple Explanation
Face wreathed with smiles, the benign little German professor explained yesterday that he sought to write in the most simple complete equation one basic law explaining the universe and its properties. To his amazement, he said, when he had completed the theory, he found it contained the laws of his old gravitational theory combined in harmony with Maxwell's laws of electro-magnetism.

The thirty listeners in the little class room included Richard Chace Tolman, physicist mathematician, who holds to the theory the world is running down; Paul S. Epstein, theoretical physicist, and Dr. E. T. Bell, mathematician.

Talking in German one hour and a half, Einstein demonstrated on the blackboard in the international shorthand language of higher mathematics symbols, string after string of equations, that finally evolved one little group which brought forth gasps of astonishment to meet the smile of Einstein's content.

Unknown Quantities
The equation for the theory of relativity contained ten unknown quantities, four of which had to be assumed. This greater puzzle contains sixteen unknown quantities with four to be assumed.

Einstein explained that the fundamental equation is presented for mathematicians to proceed and work out equations for experimental work. Experimental proof of his unified field theory is already at hand, he revealed, in its application to laboratory results with weak electro-magnetic and gravitational fields. More work remains to be done experimentally with stronger fields in those lines.

The equation reveals that symmetrical tensors relate to the gravitational fields and anti-symmetrical tensors relate to the electro-magnetic field. Some work on terrestrial magnetism remains to be done.

He explained the unified field theory as a conception for a new geometry for space that mathematicians must bring into reality. Constants in this geometry will be the speed of light, charge of the electron, mass of the electron, mass of the proton and Planck's law on photo electric constants.

When mathematicians work out the formulas for his theory, he explained, the application of such formulas to experimental results already achieved in physical and astronomical laboratories can be had, and he predicts that many laboratory mysteries will thus be explained.

MISSING JUDGE'S WIFE FINDS ODD PACKAGE

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Evidence throwing new light on the disappearance of Supreme Court Justice Joseph F. Crater but revealing nothing as to his whereabouts, was under scrutiny of authorities today.

The evidence included $6,690 in cash, a bundle of securities, insurance policies and a list of creditors in the judge's handwriting, marked "confidential" and ending in these words: "I am very weary. Love, (Sig) Joe."

Mrs. Stella Crater, his wife told District Attorney Thomas C. F. Crain she had found the package in a bureau drawer since returning to her Fifth avenue apartment last Sunday from Portland, Maine.

As the apartment had been searched thoroughly by police detectives, Mr. Crain expressed the opinion that an unidentified person had placed the articles there some time between Sept. 7 and Sunday.

Among the papers was a $500 check made out to Judge Crater by himself and indorsed under the date of August 30, 1930—24 days after he dropped from sight.

OPEN FORUM

THE LOCAL THEATER

Editor, The Herald:
I have read with considerable interest the "Open Forum" letter written by "A Citizen," and captioned "Our Local Theater." I believe he is sincere in his convictions, and he does not inject any animosity into his kindly advice to the local manager to improve on his "selections" and eliminate from his programs productions that tend to leave a depressing effect.

I do not intend to take issue with this gentleman, but I would respectfully suggest to him that if he were a theatrical manager and attempted to apply his entirely honest theories to this type of enterprise he and his backers would have a very severe headache within a very short space of time.

I say this from actual experience. Although not classified as an "Old Timer" I have had about 12 years experience, ranging from the circus, on to the old time "three-a-day vaudeville, into the legitimate and thence to the movies. And I have seen hundreds of men—and that's not an exaggeration—go broke attempting to furnish the public with such a type of amusement as Mr. Citizen suggests. Incidentally, I tried it out on my own hook and went broke twice.

I still have a yearn for the "show shops," and I still keep in touch with the business, merely as a matter of interest. And although the State is the only theater in town, I wonder if Mr. Citizen realizes that from a standpoint of talking picture exhibition it has one of the finest equipments in New England; is operated by one of the largest chain groups in the world, and has for a manager a man who started in the days when film was hand-cranked into a canvas bag and who has dealt in every angle of "the game." Furthermore, if it were not for the fact that the State was operated by a chain group you would not be getting the productions such as you are now privileged to see at such nominal prices.

Both producers and exhibitors are inclined to good, wholesome productions. They have produced some wonderful pictures, but they have had no box office value—and that's the test of public approval. Here's a few that have "fallen down" miserably, not only at the State, but throughout the country, even with millions of dollars spent in advance publicity—George Arliss in "Disraeli," and "Old English;" "The Big Trail," one of the finest pictures ever made; "The Rogue Song," with the incomparable Tibbett; "The Vagabond King," with Dennis King, and "Tolerable David," one of the most "faithful to book" productions released during the current season.

Does Mr. Citizen know that "Amos and Andy" was a financial flop, for the exhibitors. There's a picture that was made "for laughs." And if it had not been for a gigantic coast to coast exploitation, and the simultaneous release by the producers to 324 theaters to take advantage of the exploitation program the picture would have been an utter failure from a financial standpoint to the producers.

Now let us judge the depressing effect of such productions as "Hell's Angels" and "War Nurse." These two pictures are known by theatrical men as the two greatest "naturalals" of the year. Both have drawn unprecedented crowds wherever shown, and are still box office magnets. "Hell's Angels" is classified as one of the six best productions of 1930. Some critics ranked it in first place. Richard Watts, Jr., critic of the New York Herald-Tribune, said of it, in part—"Magnificently brilliant—superb!" and Irene Thayer, a New York observer adds that it is "one of 1930's most important screen vehicles."

"War Nurse," originally scheduled as a Class B production when leased, immediately swept the country. But a few months ago "The Astor" in New York advertised all seats reserved, selling four weeks in advance, at $2 prices. It was shown here for 40 cents.

This is not an advertising scheme, Mr. Editor, and I hope you don't demand space rates. Warner Brothers probably do not know that my name is in the city directory. I am merely prompted to advise Mr. Citizen that from my meager knowledge of the business his well meant advice is not practical from a box office standpoint, and that's what counts if Manchester is to be still favored with the best current productions.

I submit to Mr. Citizen that here is a good test between good, clean, wholesome and true to life screen presentation and the sensational: Abraham Lincoln, truly one of the greatest and, to my mind, the best talking picture of 1930, is now available to theaters operating on a nominal price scale. Its major figure is Walter Huston, acknowledged to be the world's most accomplished portrayer of Lincoln. The film unfolds a perfect screen story, having been handled by the cutters so that it does not contain a flaw. It is plus the entertainment that Mr. Citizen suggests. It undoubtedly will be shown here, and when its run has been completed I respectfully suggest to Mr. Citizen that he ask Manager Campbell for a comparison of its drawing power as against either "Hell's Angels" or "War Nurse."

Thank you, Mr. Editor.

TAXI DRIVERS STRIKE

Providence, Jan. 22.—(AP)—This city was practically without taxi service early this morning as 176 drivers for the Yellow Cab Company which controls all but a few independent cars went on strike. The action was taken at a meeting which lasted from midnight until 3:30 a. m. The men demanded an increase in wages and shorter working hours.

TIRE INCREASE

Automobile tire production in 1931 will reach 72,600,000, according to a recent estimate. This is an increase of 16,000,000 over the production of 1930.

That the fire was of great intensity is unquestioned as shown by the accompanying photograph, on the right, of the ruins. In fact it was the biggest fire in a residential type of building that has occurred in Manchester in a good many years. The Electrolux Refrigerator shown in the photograph is now on exhibition in our display rooms. When it was removed from the debris, to the amazement of all it was found intact and also was found to be in perfect operating condition.

HIGHER PRICES FOR TICKETS IN OFFING AS DRIVE ON THEATER BROKERS FAILS

Play in a Small Town Setting Features Stage Week

By GILBERT SWAN NEA Service Writer

New York, Jan. 22.—A failure instead of an opening has furnished the biggest news of the theater week on Broadway. Not the failure of any current stage production—for that would be the news—but the collapse of the League of New York Theaters in its efforts to rescue ticket prices from the nether realms of banditry.

For five months now, under the nominal leadership of Alfred E. Smith, this group of theatrical managers has waged a vigorous offensive against gouging ticket speculators. And just about the time that the average playgoer had begun to assume the battle won, the league announced, along with the resignation of its executive secretary, that speculation and the activities of gyp brokers could not be controlled without legislation.

Simultaneously came the withdrawal, as an actual seller of tickets, of a telegraph company which for two months had undertaken to buy and deliver tickets for a mere 30-cent commission. The attempt is estimated to have cost it a good-sized fortune.

Just now, all the brokers are celebrating the league's defeat by indulging to their hearts' content in a general scramble for "buys" of large blocks of seats at the hit shows. So New York visitors are likely to find themselves again paying traditionally fancy prices.

But the Theater League, or what there is left of it, wants you to know that the cause is not yet lost. It is launching a drive for legislation that would prohibit the reselling of theater tickets under certain conditions. And meanwhile it is pointing out that the powerful combinations of legitimate brokers which grew up under the league's rule are not likely to demand more than a 75-cent premium.

The speculators chose a strategic time to go on the warpath. For so restricted is the choice of words while attractions are being advertised that it is difficult in controlling the market. Nearly half of Broadway's legitimate theaters are dark. With some 36 shows running—as against nearly 50 at the same time last year—there is virtual certainty that more than half a dozen of them are about to suffer timely deaths.

Of the week's openings, three deserve mention: and of the three, "Tomorrow and Tomorrow" deserves some praise. Philip Barry wrote it, and at once absolved himself of such charges of silly whimsicality and snobbishness as followed his "Holiday" and "Paris."

For his new play is thoroughly affecting and sympathetic. Barry really didn't write the plot. He adapted it from the story of Elisha and the Shunnamite woman, but so managed to keep it within the realms of modern reality and science that on one feels stifled by miracles and obscure symbolism.

Elisha, it may be remembered, caused the barren Shunnamite woman to have a child, and long afterward revisited her and brought the dead child to life again. In "Tomorrow and Tomorrow," that's what a young English scientist does for the wife of an Indiana business man.

During the course of his American lecture tour, this brilliant physician-psychologist stays for a long time at the home of a young manufacturer and his wife. The con-ple had longed for children, but not until the Englishman becomes a girl poet who is burlesqued through the earlier scenes and suddenly becomes a personage who is supposed to be taken seriously. Withal, the show is pleasing, since Kelley can write pithy and fast-moving dialogue.

WIDOW IS ENTITLED TO BARTON ESTATE

Husband Willed It To Yale University If She Rewed; She Did.

New Haven, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The Supreme Court of Errors by an interpretation has decided that the widow of Clarence E. Barton, former assistant State attorney here, is an heir to that portion of her husband's estate which is not specifically mentioned in his will.

Barton who died five years ago, provided that if his widow remarried she and their two children should not receive his estate. It was to go to Yale except $10,000 outright to the children.

Arthur Chambers, former judge of the New Haven court, is guardian of the children. He and Mrs. Barton were married Tuesday.

A few days ago the Supreme Court gave an opinion in a test case brought by the trustee of the Barton estate, a local bank, to prevent Yale University from receiving Barton's share of his mother's estate.

The court did not undertake to construe Barton's will entire, but it did hold that Mrs. Barton was entitled to 1520 shares of stock which came to her husband's estate from his mother.

The court in its reference to the Barton will said it could not conclude that the testator intended to disinherit his infant children of so large a sum and give it to Yale as a means to preventing his widow from remarriage. It pointed out that some matters in the will were not before the court and so opinion on them was not given.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, even when you brush your teeth. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't take for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware a substitute.

FOR GINGER'S SAKE

ETHEL HUESTON
© 1931 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Life in the little town of Red Thrush, Iowa, was too unexciting to suit GINGER ELLA TOLLIVER, so she conceived the idea of organizing a Junior Country Club and thus saving the young set from complete boredom. Accordingly she arranged for the purchase of the Mill Rush farm, a 10-acre tract with an old rambling house on it, and she arranged with JENNY BROOKS and her husband, blind BENNY BROOKS, to act as chaperons.

The idea was that the club was to be exclusive. No parents allowed—and no children. The motion was heartily seconded by Ginger's intimates, all of them leading spirits in Red Thrush—EDDY JACKSON, WESLEY MEERER, and PATTY SEARS.

Ginger was the daughter of a minister and the stepdaughter of a very wealthy woman, the former PHIL VAN DOORN.

The farm and farm house bought, Ginger proceeded with a general overhauling in which all the high school kids of Red Thrush enthusiastically assisted. Furnishings were donated. Eddy Jackson even gave an old mare, named MRS. JACKSON.

It was agreed that the purpose was to have a good time. And one day, while the rehabilitation of the old house was going on, Ginger was in the kitchen of her home making cookies, assisted by GOOBY, the cook, when a shadow fell across the doorway.

It was a stranger, bearded and unprepossessing looking, and he offered to do a sketch of the cook, in exchange for a meal. Ginger defied him to do a sketch of her. Thinking he was an elderly man, she began to lecture him for his apparent lack of ambition.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER VIII
"Say," the artist interrupted at last, "are those my grandchildren you're crowing about? How old the devil do you think I am anyhow, Kate?"

"My name's not Kate."
"My error," he said. "I apologize. This is Iowa, and I was thinking of Shakespeare."
Ginger decided to accept the apology. He might have been intending a compliment. A reference to Shakespeare was usually complimentary, and she was offhand like that she could not place Kate.

She considered his question. He wasn't so old probably as her father, he wasn't gray but that long, black beard was deceptive.

"Oh, about 50, I suppose," she said at last.
"Fifty—good lord—about 50?" He appeared suddenly to Gooby. "Is she an her right mind and all?"

Gooby thought a moment and gave it as her opinion that she was. "Say, let me tell you something, Miss Defective-Delinquent, or whoever you are, I'm just 27 years old."
"Twenty-seven?" Ginger was amazed. "Why, you're not so old as Eddy Jackson."

"I'm not so old as a lot of people," he said moodily. He dropped the cover on his pad of paper and tossed it upon the table. Then he reached firmly into his portfolio.

"Miss," he said to Gooby, "can I bother you for a little nice hot lather?"
"Lather?" echoed Ginger. "You mean plain soap and water? I didn't know they used lather in—Gooby, a bowl of soap and hot water, at once."

"I'm going to shave off this damned beard," he said. "Me and my grandchildren! Humph!"

"I didn't mean to hurt your feelings," said Ginger gently. "You don't look exactly old—but Biblical. That's it—Biblical. You look like all the disciples at the last supper—except Judas, of course," she added politely.

Doggedly, before the limpid eyes of Ginger, he shaved off the silken black beard.

"Thanks," he said grimly.

He accepted the pan of hot water and the cake of soap from Gooby, and then, doggedly, before the limpid blue eyes of Ginger Ella, which melted swiftly from boundless amazement to irrepressible laughter, he shaved off the silken black beard.

By the time he had finished she was quite doubled up in her chair with mirth, and Gooby was chucking largely into the bowl of raisins.

"They all wear them in Paris," he explained, patting his face with a handkerchief. It's quite the rage. "He wiped his razor and put it back in the portfolio. Then he reached the pad and pencils.

"Are—aren't you going to finish my portrait?" she queried humbly.

"Not if I've got to hear any more about Defectives and Delinquents," he said stubbornly. "No dinner's worth it."

"I won't," she promised. "Not a word. Do finish it. I'm quite keen to see how you think I look."

So he tipped back the kitchen chair, hoisted his knee and went on with the drawing.

"You're not bald, or anything, are you?" he asked suddenly.

"Bald? Certainly not."
"If you just take off that red rag a minute," he said ingratiatingly.

Ginger flushed violently and jerked it off. "I just put it on to be sanitary," he said sulkily.

She shook her head with nervous impatience, and her hair flew into a bright cloudy tangle. He smiled.

"Nice," he said and went on with his drawing. "I'll put the red rag in the picture because it's how I saw you first, but I like you better without it."

Ginger leaned toward him over the table—closer and closer. Her eyes looked not at his work on the pad of paper, but into his face, a thin, tanned face, with big gray eyes that seemed swimmingly dark with shadows.

He leaned forward suddenly and touched the tip of her chin tilted up toward him. His hands were burned brown by the sun. "And pink," he added laughing.

Color swept the creamy face. She gave a little nervous laugh and drew herself up with prim dignity, smoothing her hair.

The artist went on with his work. "You see, these chaps who make a living writing about us Dependents, Defectives and Delinquents," he said cheerfully, "overlook a few minor considerations. There is talent, for one thing. There is art. And there is beauty."

Uncle Sam's Planting Pointers

WINTER INJURY

By D. Victor Lumsden
Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture

Do not allow short-cut paths across your lawns and gardens just because the grass and plants seem dead and the ground is frozen. Interest in outdoor activities is now at low ebb and we are prone to neglect the garden in winter, but when spring comes we will regret the indifference. Soil that is tramped frequently while the ground is frozen or in a wet, thawing condition, will be in poor condition for growing plants next spring.

Furthermore, the habit of "short-cutting" is easily acquired and is difficult to break. If necessary, erect a temporary fence as "short-cutting" starts.

Ice is another enemy of woody plants used for ornamentation on home grounds. If you live in a region where sleet and ice on plants weigh them down or break off branches, take precautions against such injury to plants. Drive heavy stakes near plants that grow high and narrow, as many evergreens do, and tie the plants to the stake so that the chance of damage from this cause and from heavy winds will be diminished.

The practice of sprinkling salt on icy walks is to be discouraged if the soil adjoining is used for growing plants. The brackish water resulting will injure or kill grass and shrubs nearby.

Another type of injury is caused by snow and ice sliding from a roof and dropping on plants in a foundation planting. Remove the snow before it has a chance to slide, or, if that is not possible, build a wooden structure over plants in precarious positions.

Have you ever wished that your too solid flesh would melt? There is a method if you'll assist in the disappearing stunt. It will help you lighten the burden of the scales, when you try them again.

A weekly weighing record is better than a daily one, for a slow reduction is more natural, healthful and lasting. Besides, it is possible to lose inches, without vanishing pounds, so the measuring system is advocated, also.

There are seven exercises for reducing the shoulders and arms, each of which should be done 10 times, night and morning, gradually being increased until you can manage 100 times very easily.

Stand erect with your limbs together, and stretch your arms forward. Separate the arms sideways, wide inhaling through your nose. As you bring the arms down, breathe out through your mouth.

The position for the next exercise is the same, but this time swing the arms across the body first with the right one above and then the left.

The third one requires that the arms be extended sideways and then swing upward, making a complete circle.

Take the erect position again, with your hands at your sides. Raise on your toes, lifting your arms over your head. Inhale as you raise and exhale as you return to position.

The next exercise requires an erect position with arms extended upward. Swing the arms down in front of your body, and touch the ankles from left to right, then backward to first position, bending the trunk at the waistline.

The sixth exercise of this group requires the same erect position with limbs together, but the arms are extended sideways. Bend your elbows, bring arms up to the head, and then straight over the head, and back to position.

The concluding one consists merely in swinging both arms up and down rapidly, alternating left and right.

BYRON'S BIRTH

On Jan. 22, 1788, Lord Byron, one of the greatest English poets, was born in London.

Two years after he entered Trinity College, Cambridge, he issued his first volume of verse, "Hours of Idleness." It was fiercely criticized, but instead of discouraging him, this incited to continue with his poetry.

Following his return from a trip on the continent, Byron published the first part of his Childe Harold, which met with immediate success. A few years later he produced Don Juan, his masterpiece.

In the summer of 1823, Byron sailed for Greece, to aid with his influence and money in that country's struggle for independence. There he found nothing but confusion and contending chiefs, but in three months he succeeded in evoking some kind of order out of the chaos. His health, however, began to fail, and he died from exposure and fever on April 19, 1824.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
© 1931 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

One cause of disobedience is the obscurity of the command.

If an order to a child is not given clearly and concisely it will in all probability not be clearly understood. A child does not inquire, as a rule, as an older person would do, for a more direct understanding. Being inarticulate himself he takes an order as he hears it and makes his own interpretation as best he can.

If we storm and tell Tommy that he should have more sense than to skate on a pond where the ice is thin and he goes back the next day and falls in we are likely to regret it. We should wait for a time not filled with other matters in his small mind. Or, if it is necessary to speak quickly, the better plan is to have him stop immediately whatever he is doing, tell him to try to listen and understand what we are saying, have him repeat it or in other ways make certain that he has not merely heard our words but has made a real mental picture of them.

There is another thing. Forgetfulness is not disobedience; carelessness is not disobedience, and neither is accident. We have also to allow for impulse and curiosity, both as natural to children as their heartbeats.

Nothing can be classed as disobedience except a deliberate plan to break law, and even then I think we need to put on our glasses and look at ourselves. A jury might indict us parents more frequently than our children.

No time for scolding. Children should not be scolded for this. We lose our habit of concentration only too soon as we grow older, and it is not a bad gift that children have of losing themselves completely in their play, their book, their task.

What we parents do constantly is to give orders to our children at ill-chosen moments when their entire attention is focused on something else. If we want to be sure of our words are going to register, we should wait for a time not filled with other matters in his small mind. Or, if it is necessary to speak quickly, the better plan is to have him stop immediately whatever he is doing, tell him to try to listen and understand what we are saying, have him repeat it or in other ways make certain that he has not merely heard our words but has made a real mental picture of them.

HEALTH

CHILDREN SOMETIMES CONTRACT TUBERCULOSIS FROM ADULTS

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Years ago a German investigator, basing his opinion on a tremendous number of postmortem examinations, issued a statement that practically every child became infected with tuberculosis before reaching the age of adolescence.

Modern methods of hygiene, the use of preventorium in which malnutrition is controlled, and similar methods of study have unquestionably lowered the incidence of tuberculosis among children in most communities.

The San Francisco Tuberculosis Association, through Drs. L. B. Dickey and R. P. Seitz, has just made available the results of an examination of 3500 children in that city in an attempt to find out how prevalent tuberculosis is among boys and girls in that community.

The method used was the tuberculin test, in which small amounts of the sensitive substance is injected into the skin. Of the 3500 children tested, 824 or 23.5 per cent reacted positively.

It is the general belief that infection in childhood is probably acquired in large part by contact with cases of tuberculosis in other members of the family.

Girls still spend a larger part of their time than boys in the house. They are thus exposed to more intimate contact with members of the family who suffer with tuberculosis.

Doctor Seitz believes that boys have probably just as much of a chance, because they circulate more and are more likely to come in contact with a number of people than are girls.

Investigations throughout the world show an incidence of tuberculosis in children varying from 31 per cent in Iowa, to 46 per cent in Philadelphia, 50 per cent in Minneapolis, 43 per cent in New York, 75 per cent in Buenos Aires and 94 per cent in Vienna.

The authors are convinced that the most plausible explanation of the lessened amount of infection among children throughout the world is early recognition of cases of tuberculosis in adults as sources of infection and their early removal from the environment so that they no longer serve as permanent sources of infection to children who may be members of the same family.

Barry Wood Lays Blame On Fans For Grid Ills

Harvard's Star Quarterback Says Spectators Are Responsible For Talk About Over-Emphasis In Football.

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Although dozens of specialists have rediagnosed football's ailments and again traced them back to the epidemic of a player, Barry Wood, captain-elect, to attempt to isolate the germ of this pernicious gridiron disease.

He believes that the stands of the massive college stadiums are the incubators of this germ and that the spectators are more susceptible to it than the players or coaches.

"Most of Harvard's over-emphasis," Wood said, "can be found in the stadium and not down on the playing field. Graduates and other supporters of the Harvard team are even more disturbed about the outcome of a game than the players themselves, most of whom play for the fun of the game."

Wood, a level-headed and clear thinking youth who is forward passer ranks with the famed Benny Friedman, has no illusions about football. Though it is just a game, a source of pleasure to him, he has made an extensive study of it. As a quarterback he knows the coach's viewpoint as well as that of the player. He is convinced that neither is seriously affected by so-called over-emphasis.

Wood blames the spectators for most of the game's irksome features, for the looker on, he charges, is responsible for the unwholesome fact that college football players compete under a greater mental strain than do members of other sports teams.

"The pressure on a player," he explained, "is greater in football than in any other sport because a gridiron mistake is generally much more costly than an error in baseball or a slip in hockey. Too often the player who muffs a forward or fumbles is harshly judged by the crowd and forced to bear a heavy share of the blame for a defeat."

SPORT PLANTS

Rowing, described by the Carnegie Report as apparently "the only major branch of intercollegiate athletics from which commercialism is absent," nevertheless has come in now for some criticism on the rebound.

A good many of the college folks do not like the way football has gotten around since last season. It is not strange, therefore, to find an effort to divert this barrage of criticism, if it must be laid down, to some other sports.

Here's what Creative Manager J. J. Anonymous has to say about it.

"Why all this uproar about football, about spring practice and training camps? If you think we over-emphasize matters on the gridiron, look what we do in rowing.

"Of course, I know that no mercenary motives are involved, for the great receipts from rowing, if any, hardly are sufficient to pay for balling out the boats. Nevertheless, if it's over-emphasis you're looking for, how do you reconcile rowing programs that include practice on the indoor machines most of the winter (Yale having 19 "eights" drilling); outdoor workouts as soon as the ice breaks up, an attack on rowing followed by three or four weeks up the Hudson or up the Thames, as the case may be, for the final big races?"

"I have yet to hear any outcry against the entire country support program that keeps the oarsmen at work for some time after the school term closes.

"Moreover, rowing is a costly sport to maintain. Only some 15 colleges in the entire country support it. Cornell spends around $25,000 annually to uphold its great traditions on the water. Washington raised something like $10,000 by subscription to send its crews to Foughkeeps last year. Several rowing coaches, such as Young Dick Glendon at Columbia and Rusty Callow at Pennsylvania are among the best paid of all athletic mentors.

"It don't offer us an attack on rowing, I think it is worth all its costs for the finest kind of tradition it sustains in sport. The Poughkeepsie Regatta and the Harvard-Yale races are among the finest events of strictly amateur character. However, some of the critics of football would do well to balance their viewpoints with some of these facts."

From time to time bobs up the question of why West Point, with all its natural advantages of location on the shores of the Hudson does not go in for rowing.

The answer is simple enough. The Army is content to leave such affairs to the Navy. In short, a crew of Cadets hardly would be looked upon as an appropriate and dignified affair, in keeping with the best military traditions, despite the fact that Washington's soldiers once manifested their rowing ability on the Delaware.

It is not generally known but Army reluctantly turned down an offer from a prominent Harvard alumnus some years ago to establish rowing at West Point, with all the facilities, including a coaching endowment.

HUNTER WILL PLAY WITH BILL TILDEN

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The influence of Bill Tilden, one of the most important factors in the tennis career of Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y. publisher, has led Hunter to join the ranks of professional players. He announced his decision to turn pro yesterday and gave as the principal reason for his decision a desire to follow the path of his friend and doubles partner.

Hunter will join in the exhibition being arranged by Jack Curley for Tilden's professional debut in Madison Square Garden, February 18, but will not follow in the tour Tilden and Kozeluh will make later. His business of publisher of New Rochelle newspaper keeps him close to home and his exhibitions will be limited to weekend appearances in the east.

PLAN SECOND EASTERN COLLEGE BASEBALL LOOP

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Plans for a second baseball league of eastern colleges are being formed by Jack Coffey and Albert E. Nixon, graduate managers of athletics at Fordham and N.Y.U. respectively. Invitations to join the organization which is to be called the eastern college baseball association have been extended to Army, Colgate, Syracuse, Boston College, Holy Cross, Lafayette, Georgetown, Rutgers, Fordham and N.Y. University. Coffey said yesterday. The teams usually schedule the many games within the group, which includes most of the leaders outside the eastern intercollegiate league.

DON TO TRY OUT IN IRELAND

Belfast, (AP)—Kake Don, who in Miss England II will attempt to set a world's speedboat record at Buenos Ayres in March is expected to make preliminary trials in the latter part of January or Lough Neagh, near the Antrim golf links here.

BAPTIE GIVES GLADYS A LINDY SPECIAL

Local Sport Chatter

Manchester basketball fans will take interest in the outcome of the game between the Renaissance and the Knights of Lithuania at Foot Guard Hall in Hartford tonight. The colored team is a heavy favorite but the game may prove very close.

Stan Shimkus, K. of L. ceater, is not expected to play because of his jaw injury which he was smacked by Wardy Waterman in a fist session during the Rec-K. of L. game here Tuesday night.

Manchester High moves down to Middletown—that is its basketball team do—tomorrow night to entertain the teams representing that institution of learning. This is the second of Manchester's five consecutive out of town games. Next will come Windham, then Bristol and then Meriden.

Waterman took a leading role in aiding the Hartford K. of C. topple the Holy Name team of Waterbury in Hartford last night. Two field goals and five fouls were the result of his scoring effort but his passing accounted for many other tallies.

Say what you will, this Waterman is a basketball player extraordinary. He compares with the best running about the Connecticut courts today. And the reason is obvious, he uses his brains as well as his skill.

At times Waterman's tactics border on unorthodox and the fans give him the merry razzberry but this does not seem to bother his playing. As a matter of fact, Waterman seems to relish this sort of an outburst from the spectators. It sort of gives him the will to play even harder. No sir, Waterman doesn't have to take his hat off to any of the boys playing professional ball about the state today, but some of his opponents make no mistake if they at least tip their hat to him.

Kingswood School of West Hartford entertains Manchester High in a hockey game on her own rink this afternoon and is favored to win over the locals who are just branching out in a sport which is more or less new to them.

Only two more week ends remain for fishing through the ice. The season closes with the fading of the present month. There have been some good pickerel catches by Manchester men in nearby ponds and lakes this season.

Whenever and wherever the Renaissance Five of New York plays, one of the most interesting characters on the floor is Pappy Ricks, one of the highest scoring forwards playing the game of basketball. The Renaissance are world's Negro champions and Ricks, snatched and all, usually does the bulk of the scoring for his team. The Renaissance play the Springfield Visitation at the Westfield Community hall surface tomorrow night.

Local Sport Chatter Real Izaak Walton Needed To Reel In Steel Shod "Fish"

Center Springs Pond will take on a Metropolitan aspect the afternoon of Sunday, Feb. 1, with an array of skating talent such as has never been shown by any previous Ice Carnival in this town. First and foremost on the lists of talent booked by the carnival committee is the famous pair of figure skaters direct from the Ice Club, Madison Square Garden, New York City, Norval Baptie and Gladys Lamb. This nationally known skating team, viewed by hundreds of thousands each year in the New York rink where they dazzle spectators daily with their artistic figure skating exhibitions, will arrive in Manchester Saturday night, Jan. 31 to head the list of one of the best carnivals ever staged on Manchester ice.

Norval Baptie, 32 years of age, and still the most spectacular skater in America, has been engaged for the season in New York to instruct the American Olympic entries in speed and figure skating. Due to friendships formed two years ago when the New York skating team headed the carnival program, Baptie and Lamb agreed to come this year if possible. Due to the carnival being held on Sunday, it was possible for them to get a release for the local engagement.

Last Sunday Baptie thrilled 40,000 people on Conservatory Lake, Central Park, New York with one of the most unusual exhibitions ever held anywhere. A game fisherman, equipped with heavy rod and reel attempted to bring the great skater "gaff" on the soft Central Park Ice but failed. Plans are under way to repeat the stunt in Manchester which, by the way, took the sporting writers of New York by storm.

Claim Nothing Heroic About Lassman's Death

Boys Swam Unassisted When Canoe Capsized But Lassman's Condition Was Too Weak, Parents of Boys Tell Newspaper.

Boston, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The Boston Post says that "Al" Lassman, former N. Y. U. football star, did not die a hero's death at Camp Zakelo in Maine last summer, according to a statement signed by parents of 22 boys who attended the camp.

The Post says that the statement of the parents exonerated "Izzy" Zarakow, former Harvard football coach who conducted the camp, of any selfish motives and declared an injustice was done to him and his staff. During the investigation of Lassman's death, Zarakow was accused by Lassman's friends of suppressing information concerning his death.

The Post says the parents' statement refuted the story, given wide circulation at the time that Lassman drowned after rescuing three boys when their canoe overturned.

The statement was signed by the parents of the three boys involved in the Lassman death, the Post reports. It attributed Lassman's death to his weakened condition from old football injuries. When the canoe overturned the three boys swam halfway to shore when another boat picked them up, the report insisted.

MANY OUTDOOR WINTER SPORTS

Ice Yachting, Skiing, Curling, Skating, Sliding; Yes, Even Swimming.

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Young moderns have yanked the icy beard off of Old Man Winter, and revealed a gay young playboy.

Now he's the life of the party at hundreds of northern resorts, joining arms with sports enthusiasts in cutting figure eights at the skating rink, whirling down the toboggan slides at 60 miles an hour, making birdlike flights from the ski jumps, or competing in hockey games and curling matches.

Old Man Winter seems to like his new role as party man, too. He has cooperated in the last few weeks with weather ideal for snow and ice sports, and northerners from New England to the far west are out in force.

Out on the Pacific slope, Washington is preparing to set some new ski jump records January 25, when some of the leading ski jumpers of the United States and Canada will compete at the Leavenworth club on the eastern slope of the Cascade mountains.

Nels Nelson, of Revelstoke, B. C., will defend his world's record jump of 240 feet.

At the other end of the United States, Speculator, in the southern Adirondacks, is preparing for an event in late January or early February which will draw leading skaters of the United States. A series of snowshoe and ski races also will be staged.

Debutants and their brothers are gathered at Lake Placid, N. Y., for the winter sports which yearly attract a large part of the world of fashion.

The middle west is discovering curling, an old Scotch game, and thousands of Chicagoans are attending indoor and outdoor tournaments.

Curling resembles somewhat the ancient sport of nine-pins, except that instead of stones with handles are used instead of balls.

Each tosser is assisted by a sweeper who brushes the course of the stone furiously when more speed is needed, or piles snow in the way if it seems likely to overshoot its mark.

Ice yachting is another sport that is coming back in a big way on the Great Lakes. More than 100 of these sailing craft now skim about the winds of Lake Erie at mile-a-minute speeds.

In Colorado, which will witness the United States Western Ski championship meet at Steamboat Springs February 13 and 14, the winter sports enthusiasts have discovered a new sport in coyote hunting with hounds and horses, all in the ancient fox-hunting manner.

But skiing and skating still remain the old stand-by throughout the snow country, and dozens of tournaments will attract thousands of fans and contestants in nearly every northern state.

Many colleges have adopted a formal winter sports program with success, financial or otherwise.

northern states also boast Polar Bear clubs, whose members brave icy waters for winter swimming.

KAMM FOR FONSECA TRADE IS RUMORED

Chicago, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Reports that the White Sox would trade third baseman William Kamm to the Cleveland Indians for first baseman Fonseca, American League batting champion in 1929, were today. The release by the White Sox of "Bud" Clancy, regular first baseman to Jersey City of the International League stirred up the report. The White Sox are left with no regular at the bag except possibly Johnny Watwood.

Cleveland, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Billy Evans, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, has sought to obtain Willie Kamm, Chicago third baseman, for some time. He offered to trade Lew Fonseca for Kamm at the major league meeting in New York, but the White Sox turned thumbs down at that time.

BOB WALSH GOES TO THE SKEETERS

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—With the resumption of trading between the majors and the International League, the N. Y. Yankees sent one pitcher to Jersey City and received one from there. Bob Walsh, son of the Skeeters on option in order to the famous Ed Walsh, was sent to the Skeeters on option in order to give him more seasoning. John Allen, speedball artist, was bought from Jersey City yesterday.

Anthony L. Randall, commissioner of the Hartford County Y. M. C. A., A. A., will be in charge of the meet.

BATTALINO FIGHTS ED SHEA TOMORROW

Two Titleholders On Same Card; Both Face Rugged Opposition In Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A near capacity crowd is expected to watch a pair of boxing champions in action against dangerous foes at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night. Jack "Kid" Berg, world junior welterweight champion, will defend his crown against Goldie Hess, freckled faced chin pounder from California in one attraction while in the other, Bat Battalino, ruler of the featherweights, meets Eddie Shea, Chicago Italian, in an overweight match with no title involved. Both fights are ten round affairs.

Stadium ticket officials said today that sales already have passed the $17,000 mark. The fighters ended up their training yesterday.

ARMY AND NAVY WINS ONCE MORE

The Army and Navy Club horse-shoe pitchers took another prey last night in the East Side All Stars, and are now looking forward to a possible third and deciding match with the West Sides next week Wednesday.

Reinhardt "Punk" Lamprecht, better known in baseball circles, was outstanding last night when he tossed 14 ringers to help his partner, Jim Thomson, beat Fallon and Hughes in a special aftermatch to 34. The scores of the regular matches follow:

Thomson and Lamprecht won from Walsh and Wieman, 50 to 31; Giorgetti and McCaughey lost to Fallon and Hughes, 50 to 47; and Giorgetti and Hughes, 50 to 47, and Giorgetti and Wieman, 50 to 23.

Ringers were scored as follows: Thomson 14, Lamprecht 18, Giorgetti 19, McCaughey 3, Walsh 9, Wieman 7, Fallon 15, and Hughes 13.

This Game of GOLF

I see by the papers that the United States Golf association has banned the sand-wedge, as it is called—the concave-faced, flange-sole, 25-degree implement to which Horton Smith introduced Bobby Jones at Savannah last early spring and thereby (very possibly) enabled Bobby to win the British open championship at Hoylake, later in the season.

This is a surprise to me, though I should not go so far as to term it a shock, as I have absorbed so many shocks in golf that after giving up the title of Boswell of Bobby Jones I think I shall attempt to copy right the non-de-guerre of Shuck Absorber.

But I am surprised, that the U. S. G. A. put the old ban on the sand-wedge. You may remember a little column of mine weeks ago, saying the sand-wedge was on the carpet—as, indeed, all new forms of clubs must be—but that nothing had been said about it ahead of the meeting. And I predicted confidently that nothing would be said. I mean I thought the wedge would be approved.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAYER DIES DURING GAME

WRESTLING

Los Angeles, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Taking the first and only fall of the match, Ed Don George successfully defended his newly acquired claim to the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world last night when he vanquished Henri De Glane, French mat gladiator.

After 21 minutes and 7 seconds of furious wrestling the former University of Michigan athletic star who recently defeated Gus Sonnenberg for the title claim pinned the Frenchman's shoulders to the mat with a body hook and half nelson.

During the brief struggle De Glane suffered a fractured shoulder and was unable to continue, losing the match by default.

100 MILES AN HOUR

Belfast, Northern Ireland, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Kaye Don, motor boat racer, was officially timed at more than 100 miles an hour this morning in a series of trial runs in "Miss England II," the boat in which he will try to set a new world's record in connection with the British Trade Exposition at Buenos Aires next March.

The concave and flange blade, with a deep notch between the back part of the sole and the rest of the head, indubitably is a departure from the traditional form and make of golf clubs. There is no mechanical contrivance about it, and the shaft is plain.

It appears that the U. S. G. A. committee on implement and the ball considered that the curious architectural design of the wedge was too substantial a departure from tradition. And that, of course, is that.

Perhaps it was more a question of mathematics than mechanics. But the U. S. G. A. is the doctor, for this country, at any rate.

FIVE MINERS TRAPPED

Stoke-on-Trent, Eng., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Frantic efforts were being made today to rescue five miners entombed in a deep pit of the Shelton Iron Company mine at Hanley.

The pit roof of the mine caved in trapping the men. This afternoon the rescue crews were getting replies from the buried men to signals tapped out on pipes leading through the pit. It was hoped that they could reach the victims in time to save their lives.

LABOR GOVERNMENT REMAINS IN OFFICE

London, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Although defeated in the House of Commons by 33 votes on an amendment to his education bill the government of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald remained in office today considering the issue at stake in the amendment of a minor character.

The refusal to resign after defeat led Winston Churchill, Conservative "humiliation" and comment that Mr. MacDonald was "the greatest living master of the art of falling without hurting himself."

The government accepted the amendment, which was forced by one of its own members, John Scurr, a Roman Catholic and a few hours after their defeat succeeded in passing the amended bill on its third and final reading by a vote of 256 to 238, a majority of 18.

Most of the Liberals abstained from voting on the second division.

In passing the protest 34 Labor M. P.'s, deserted to the opposition, which claimed that the appropriation involved was too great for the government to assure. The government defeat caused considerable excitement and cries of "resign" were heard.

CONTRACTORS CHARGED WITH GOUGING PAINTERS

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Charges that a contracting firm engaged in painting the interior of the new House post office have been gouguing journeymen painters by compelling them to pay a fee to an employment agency before hiring them have been brought to the notice of the Federal government.

The complaint originated with Mayor Tully of New Haven and has been taken up here with Rep. John Q. Tilson, Republican House leader who in turn has submitted the facts to the Treasury Department.

It is understood that the contracting concern has been asked for an immediate explanation.

The allegation is that the Alliance Construction Co., who has the job, is requiring applicants for work to register with a specified employment agency which charges a $10 fee.

United States Attorney John Buckley of Hartford has also been advised of the proceeding.

STEAMSHIP SINKS

Philadelphia, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The steamship Commercial Mariner, of the Moore and McCormack lines, sank in the Delaware river below Wilmington, Del., today after colliding with the steamer San Simeon, of the Quaker lines.

The Commercial Mariner sank by the stern, after being rammed by the San Simeon, of about 8,000 tons registry.

Members of the crew of the Commercial Mariner were rescued by the San Simeon, but as the bow of the wrecked steamship stuck out of the water, officers of the sunken ship reboarded her.

No one was reported hurt and the San Simeon proceeded to her pier in this city.

Advance Guards

Thrusts and Counters Interest to Local Soldiers

Company G underwent preliminary inspection Monday night. The inspecting officer was Captain Charles Sargent, regular army inspector attached to the 169th Regiment. Captain Sargent made a thorough inspection of the men and equipment. The members of the company from the commanding officer to the privates were questioned regarding their duties after drill close order and extended order drills were held. The non-commissioned officers drilled groups appropriate with their rank. Bayonet training was handled by Sergeant DeHan, physical training by Sergeant Pagan. After the inspection and examination Captain Sargent declared the company to be in good condition and gave no reason why it should not emerge from the Federal inspection with a high rating. He also expressed himself as well pleased with the type of men now in the ranks of Company "G."

A special meeting of the company of former members has been held after the drill to discuss details of the annual banquet which is to be held Saturday night at the armory. Some of the men have started to fast in order to do justice to the broilers and spaghetti which are on the banquet menu. A Shore Haven Golf club has been invited to attend the dinner and it is expected a great many "battles" will be re-fought.

The rifle team is busy this week preparing for the annual indoor rifle match. Some good scores have already been made and it is expected the men will give a good account of themselves. The company completes the indoor firing next Monday night. Lieut. Horace Murphy of the Howitzer Company has been designated range officer.

Joseph Zeilonis of Union street has enlisted in Company "G" for three years. Joseph is a high school student being a member of the sophomore class. He is the type of man that makes a good soldier and great things are expected of him as his name dries on his enlistment record.

Company "G" has six sets of brothers on the rolls at the present time. It is believed this is a record in the regiment. An effort will be made to learn if another outfit can boast of having as many brothers enrolled as has "G" Company. The brothers are as follows: William and Walter Crockett, John and Sherwood Anderson, William and Edward DeHan, Edward and William Hampton, George and Edward McKeever, Patsy and Tude Vince. Sergeant Gotsz has a brother who is considering enlisting in "G" in which case the brother groups will move up to seven.

Private William Skoog has been recommended for promotion. Corporal-to-be Skoog is a thorough soldier and is one of the neatest men in the company. He is popular with the officers and men, who are pleased to see him move up in the ranks.

REDS TAKE HOLIDAY

Moscow, Jan. 22.—(AP)—All Russia was bedecked today in Communist banners and black-bordered red flags as millions of Russians observed a national holiday in commemoration of the seventh anniversary of the death of Nikolai Lenin.

Government offices and all the stores were closed and only the trolley cars, trains and machinery of other necessary labor were functioning. The people were skiing, skating and participating in parades and meetings at which Leninism was extolled.

This is one of the five national holidays still left in Russia, all others having been abolished last year as inimical to the progress of the five-year industrialization plan.

Communists were particularly jubilant today because of reports that the five-year plan is succeeding even beyond expectations. Enthusiastic speakers asserted that Russia today is better off than any other country in the world.

REED O. K.'S WORLD COURT

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A reservation to the revised protocol of American adherence to the World Court is favored by Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, one of the foreign relations committee which now has the document.

Senator Reed during examination yesterday of Elihu Root before the committee said he was "on the fence" on the court issue. He said later that with a reservation making certain the contentions of Mr. Root that the revised protocol did not impair safeguards previously provided by the Senate, he would have no objection to the protocol.

The Pennsylvanian wants it specifically provided by a reservation that American participation in the "vetoes" against the World Court rendered an advisory opinion in which this country has, or claims to have, an interest, without its consent.

POISON DART MYSTERY

Chicago, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Chicago's poison dart mystery has ended so far as criminal prosecution of William Kuhn, 23-year-old brokerage clerk is concerned. Kuhn was freed of the charge that he wrote extortion letters threatening death by "poison darts" to Miss Marion S. Wright, a society debutante. He then served notice that he would sue Miss Wright and her father, and others for $100,000 damages. The others to be named in the action are Alexander Kamie, chief investigator for the "secret six" crime fighting organization, of the Chamber of Commerce; Edgar Dudley, an assistant investigator, and Ferdinand Watzek, of the crime detection bureau. Kuhn said he would charge false arrest and malicious prosecution.

FIREMEN'S SETBACK

HINTS AT DISHONESTY

New Haven, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Dean C. W. Mendell of Yale sharply criticized the "growing disregard" of Yale's traditional standard of honesty in the classroom and on examinations in a statement published in today's edition of Yale News.

"Tradition at Yale up to a very recent time" the statement said "has held dishonesty in the class room and on examinations to be inexcusable and a disgrace to the university. The responsibility for administration has but one attitude toward cheating, an attitude shared, we believe by the undergraduate body. That is, a stern, imperative that the cheating student be wiped out."

BUSINESS STEADIER, SAY FURNITURE MEN

Returning From Style Shows F. J. Limbacher, of Watkins, Reports On Improvements.

"Business is returning to a steadier basis, employers are pointing towards normal operation and the new year appears to have brought everyone to the point of normal buying and normal thinking," Frank J. Limbacher of Watkins Brothers said today upon his return from Chicago and Grand Rapids, where he attended the market and style shows first, select the new furniture designs. A good cross section of the attitude of the dealers of the country can always be gained at the furniture markets.

"Normal buying and normal thinking, rather than the abnormal effort to effect a spurge of buying," Mr. Limbacher said, "is the aim of the retail furniture dealers in 1931. The National Retail Furniture Association, which held its annual convention in Chicago, made public a survey it had just completed showing that the general feeling exists that the bottom of the depression at last has been reached."

"The public needs a mental relief from the worry of job uncertainty, he believes, before a return to normal economic conditions may be accomplished."

"A better mental attitude must be induced," Mr. Limbacher explained. "This worry over employment uncertainty can be dissipated only when employers will emphasize the permanency of positions and if everyone will get to work and stop wallowing and moaning about business conditions. The new era of business progress will be slow and cautious."

Generally, the retail association's survey showed that the newspaper advertising budgets of furniture dealers will be maintained at the same basis for the first three months in 1931 as in the corresponding period of 1930.

"Retail furniture dealers, therefore, will not attempt to induce the public to buy beyond normal capacity," Mr. Limbacher continued. "At the close of the year the majority of retailers reflected a greater percentage of open accounts to volume of sales which indicates a greater tendency of the public to buy on installment credit. Collections in the last part of the year have been considered fair in spite of financial stringency."

SENSE AND NONSENSE

Mary, Mary, quite contrary—How your hem-line grows! It used to swirl above your knees, Now it nearly hides your toes.

Brushville Judge—See here, I'm going to put a stop to this here horse stealing, or none of us will be safe.

Young Bride—I haven't the heart to fry the eggs. They look up at me so piteously out of sad yellow eyes.

Looking back over the years, the proverbial line of least resistance seems to be a woman's waist line.

Hat Clerk—A wonderful fit, old man.

Customer—Yeh, but suppose my ears get tired?

A New York salesman was staying in a Texas hotel where he observed an old-fashioned roller towel. Salesman (to man in wash room)—Say, doesn't the owner of this hotel know that its against the law of the state of Texas to use roller towels now?

Man Addressed—He knows it all right enough, but I reckon that law wasn't passed when this towel was put up.

Flapper Motto—Better be fat in the head than thick at the hips.

The life guards at the bathing beaches ought to make good book-keepers. They all know how to handle figures all right, all right.

A young man, who had an enormous mouth, became engaged to a girl, and went to her father to ask his consent.

Youth (smiling broadly to hide his confusion)—I have come to—to ask you for your daughter's hand.

The Father—Excuse me, but will you close your mouth for a moment so I can see who you are?

The trouble with the Federal Farm Board seems to be that too many people are trying to make splinters of it.

One thing you never hear one girl say to another any more is: "Why don't you take a tuck in it?"

Teacher—Willie, give the definition of 'home'.

Willie—Home is where part of the family waits until the others are through with the car.

Disgusted Little Brother—Aw, its a girl. I saw 'em putting powder on it.

Teacher—Tommy, if you had 50 cents, and you loaned your father 30 cents, and your brother 20 cents, how many cents would you have?

Tommy—I wouldn't have any sense.

Ragson Tatters—How do you like that new mare of yours?

Windy Wolf—Oh, fairly well. But I wish I had bought a horse. She's always stopping to look at herself in the water puddles.

The flapper was truly repentant and sought to make amends.

Flapper—Jack, I am very sorry I treated you the way I did last week.

Jack—Oh, that's all right, honey. I saved $30, while we weren't on speaking terms.

The young farmers were boasting about the size of the vegetables they had grown. Finally, one of them turned to Uncle Seth:

Young Farmer—What was the biggest thing you raised this year, Uncle Seth?

Uncle Seth—A squash.

Young Farmer—Well, how big was it?

Uncle Seth (drawing)—We never measured it, but we used the seeds for snow shoes.

First Traveling Salesman—Being on the road ain't what I used to be.

Second Ditto—Naw, I've been on the road for ten years now and never had to sleep at a farmer's house yet.

BUS SNAPS BIG STONE THROUGH SHOP WINDOW

In the gravel that was spread on the roads to prevent skidding there was deposited near the Center a large sand stone oval-shaped and weighing about twelve ounces. This was in the roadway yesterday when the 11 o'clock bus from the South End started north. On reaching the Center the stone was in such a position that it was struck by one of the tires of the bus and thrown into the air a distance of fully twelve feet. It went through one of the small lights above the plate glass window in the Odd Fellows block in the store occupied by Curran Brothers as a barber shop. The stone fell inside and is being kept as a reminder of the accident.
