STATE HEADS HOLD PARLEY OVER JOBLESS

Governors Meet In Albany To Discuss Problem With View of Preventing a Repetition of Conditions.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 23.—(AP).—Governors of four neighboring northeastern states met with Governor Roosevelt of New York in the executive chamber here today for a conference upon prevention and relief of unemployment.

The visiting executives were Governors Ely of Massachusetts, Larson of New Jersey, Case of Rhode Island, and Cross of Connecticut. Governor White of Ohio was late in reaching Albany owing to a delayed train. Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania or a representative was expected in time to participate in the executive sessions tomorrow.

The conference was called to order by Governor Roosevelt shortly after noon. He explained that the conference was not called to deal with the present unemployment emergency, but to consider the question as a long range problem.

States Represented

The seven states represented, Governor Roosevelt said, only a little over five per cent of the total area of the United States, but have 32 per cent of the nation's population. The area of the seven states is not wholly industrial, he said, as they produce 11 per cent of the agricultural products.

In these states are seven per cent of all the wage earners, who receive 52 per cent of all wages paid.

"I think, therefore," said Governor Roosevelt, "that we can properly say these states represent a large factor in industrial life of the nation as a whole."

"Problems relating to unemployment, its prevention and relief have become in the past year the overshadowing problems in all industrial states. Problems are not so pressing in the non-industrial states," Governor Roosevelt continued.

"Every governor of an industrial state in this country has been bombarded with a variety of suggestions as to the state's duty in a program for the relief or prevention of unemployment. Since we in America are attempting to deal with the prevention of unemployment realistically for the first time, it is desirable that the various industrial states

WOULD LIFT BAN ON M. D. PERMITS

Senator Copeland Introduces Bill In Line With Dry Board's Suggestion.

Washington, Jan. 23.—(AP).—A bill to remove restrictions on the distribution of prescription liquor by physicians as recommended by the Wickersham Commission, was introduced today by Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York.

The New Yorker said the bill was designed to carry out the only recommendation the law enforcement commission had been able to agree upon—as far as he could see.

Prior to submitting suggestions concerning control of medicinal liquor, the commission concluded the removal of present restrictions would remove "causes of resentment on the part of the medical profession."

"While the bulk of the profession have undoubtedly been scrupulous in adherence to the law," its report said, "prosecutions have been necessary from time to time and palpable evasions or violations come to light continually."

Outweighs Damages

"But we are satisfied that in several particulars the causes of resentment on the part of the medical profession operate against a favorable public opinion to such an extent as to outweigh the advantages to enforcement."

In addition to recommending that the statutory fixing of the amount of liquor to be prescribed by physicians be abolished, the commission recommended abolition of the requirement of "specifying the ailment for which liquor is prescribed upon a blank to go into the public files."

It recommended also "leaving as much as possible to regulations rather than fixing details by statute."

Senator Copeland is a physician. His bill specifically would do away with the statutory fixing of the amount of medicinal liquor and the number of prescriptions which may be written by physicians.

It also proposes to make it unnecessary to specify the ailment for which the liquor is prescribed.

Split Responsibility In Shelling of Ship

Hamburg, Germany, Jan. 23.—(AP).—The Maritime Court of Inquiry which has been investigating the shelling of the Hamburg-American passenger liner Baden last October by Brazilian revolutionaries in Rio De Janeiro harbor, today returned a verdict dividing the blame between the Brazilians and the ship's captain.

DEATH ENDS CAREER OF ANNA PAVLOVA

Dancer Known All Over World Passes Away In Holland; 46 Years Old.

The Hague, Jan. 23.—(AP).—Death today stiller forever the dainty form of Anna Pavlova, whose dancing stirred millions, civilized man and savage alike. She would have been 46 years old January 31.

Pleurisy and influenza, contracted early this week after she had been held for hours by a railroad accident in a waiting train at Dijon, France, rang down the curtain upon a life which for 35 years she devoted to depicting in rhythmic movement the beauty she saw around her.

With her at the end, which was peaceful, were her husband and accompanist, Victor D'Andre, two Dutch physicians and her own Russian doctor, Prof. Valerski, who Wednesday resorted to a pulmonary operation in vain attempt to save her.

Death interrupted her plans to interpret for occidentals what she had found of grace and beauty in a recent visit to Japan, China and Asiatic countries. Upon completion of this project she intended to retire, fulfilling a promise that she would leave the stage while in the prime of life.

Denounced by Reds

Denounced by the Bolsheviks as the "Darling of Aristocrats" Pavlova died in virtual exile from the Russia in which she was born, where she began her ballet lessons at the age of ten, and where she achieved her first success.

It was during her last visit to the United States, 1924, that Pavlova announced her marriage to D'Andre, her accompanist, later revealing that it had taken place seventeen years before.

The dancer was greeted everywhere with acclaim. Probably her most famous ballet was the dance of the dying swan in which she made her debut at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, in 1910.

Anna Pavlova first danced for royalty in 1901 when she was but 16 years old, barely out of the Imperial Ballet School attached to the Mappynski theater, St. Petersburg, appearing before Czar Nicholas, in a command performance.

Later she appeared before and won the approval of most of the crowned heads of Europe.

Anna was born in St. Petersburg, now Leningrad, Jan. 31, 1885. Her father died when she was very young. When she was eight years old her mother took her to the Marynski theater to see a ballet and so impressed was the child that she desired to begin dancing lessons at once. She was not permitted to.

Magnetic Needle Shows Swaying of a Skyscraper

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP).—A magnetic needle which can be placed in the lobby of any skyscraper to trace the building sway in the wind was exhibited to the American Society of Civil Engineers today.

By electrical contact it measures movement invisible to the eye much of which hitherto has only been guessed with aid of mathematics or from studying the accidents it caused.

Dr. F. C. Brown, director of the Museum of Science and Industry, where the instrument is part of the exhibition in connection with the engineers' annual convention, said it "opens new possibilities for measuring stresses and strains."

"It can be applied to almost any moving part in an airplane, and the aviator can observe the kind of stresses being developed in any open or concealed member. It has been used already in finding stresses in the driving rod of a steam locomotive moving at 90 miles an hour, and the strains in the rail as each wheel passes."

The instrument, a "magnetic extensometer," was developed in the research laboratory of the Westinghouse Company at Pittsburgh.

FRANCE AGAIN ATTEMPTING TO PICK CABINET

Parties So Divided That It Seems Almost Hopeless Task—Flandin May Be Called To Form Cabinet.

Paris, Jan. 23.—(AP).—For the seventh time in the life of the present Parliament, President Gaston Doumergue today cast about for strong steady hands to take the reins of the French government and hold them against the straining of the badly teamed parties of the Chamber of Deputies.

Conferees were begun early in the day with the presidents of the Chamber and Senate and Parliamentary committees seeking a premier designate to succeed Theodore Steeg, whose ministry fell in the Chamber last night, 293 to 283 after a life of only two days.

The defeat came on a question of confidence posed after an interpretation of the efforts of the ministry of agriculture, headed by Victor Boret, to fix the price of wheat in France at about $2 a bushel, against 80 cents a bushel in Winnipeg and sixty cents in Chicago.

To Call Flandin

Pierre Etienne Flandin, minister of commerce in the succeeding cabinet of Andre Tardieu and leader of the fight against M. Boret and the government in yesterday's debate, was expected today to be called by President Doumergue to form a new government, although Pierre Lava and Senator Louis Barthou also were mentioned as possible designates. Two or three days probably will be consumed in controversy before an appointee is named.

The opposition to M. Boret's price fixing probably would have been satisfied with his resignation, which he offered along with that of under secretary of commerce, Leon Meyer, but Premier Steeg astonished the Chamber by insisting on making the interpellation a matter of confidence for the entire government and the battle was fought along those lines.

Wheat Prices

Even that it seemed to go well for the government until Flandin took the floor and dramatically painted a picture of the high price of wheat and bread in Paris while wheat was going almost begging in the United States and Canada. His address made a deep impression on the deputies representing the cities.

Ironically enough among those who voted with the majority were eleven Communists whom Premier Steeg has just released from jail. An analysis of the vote indicated that a leader of the high price difficulty to carry on the government for any extended period.

Whoever leads the next government, the port folio of M. Briand, foreign minister, is regarded as assured.

WINCHESTER FIRM IN RECEIVERSHIP

New Haven Firearms Co. Is Solvent But Has Trouble In Borrowing Money.

New Haven, Jan. 23.—(AP).—The Winchester Repeating Arms Company, one of the oldest and largest organizations in the United States was today operating under the administration of a receiver.

The receivership order was given yesterday by Judge Edwin S. Thomas of the U. S. District Court on application of counsel for T. A. D. Jones and Company, coal operators owned by the former Yale football coach. In an answer the company admitted the allegations of the bill of complaint.

William E. Tobler, president and general manager of the arms company for the past six years, and the Union and New Haven Trust Company of this city were named receivers, with Tobler's bond set at $25,000.

Company Solvent

The company is solvent, the directors said but its current operations have become embarrassed owing to the heavy interest and other charges coming due in the immediate future, and to the difficulty of borrowing money at this time.

The firm's assets were listed as $41,561,831.53, and its liabilities as $37,815,638.01.

The Winchester Repeating Arms Company was incorporated in 1896 for the manufacture of the repeating rifle, which had been invented two years previously. During the World War 22,500 men were employed in this plant, manufacturing small arms ammunition, the light Browning machine gun and the service rifle.

Lawyers Attacking Dry Law in Nation's Highest Court.

STRETCH PROTOPLASM TO INVISIBLE POINT

Unusual Experiments Made With the Foundation of All Living Flesh—Import- ant Study Being Made

Easton, Penna., Jan. 23.—(AP).—Rheologists, the newest branch of American scientists, have stretched living protoplasm into a thread so thin it is invisible under a microscope.

Extended thus 20 times successively, the protoplasm each time has recovered rubber-like strength in a report of the first annual meeting of the Society of Rheologists, which was held here recently.

William Seifriz and Janet Plow of the University of Pennsylvania are the authors of the study. They reported that the protoplasm in single cells of onions so that it could be touched with the point of a needle. Sticking glue-like to the point the living stuff was drawn out into a thread.

When no longer visible, the thread still showed its presence by the particles of other cell substances which were seen streaming along the thread as if it were the wire of a cash register. The experiment shows that man can feel the presence of this life stuff back into the region of minute size from which it grows originally, particles so tiny that biologists have been unable to take them apart to see why they are alive.

Important Study

Rheology means the science of flow, and the society was organized in Columbus, Ohio, in 1929 during a meeting of the American Chemical Society. As molecules of all substances, even iron, flow like water at times, especially just before the material breaks, the rheologists believe detection of the laws of flow is of high commercial and scientific importance.

Wheeler P. Davey, of Penn State College, president of the society, explains the phenomena by saying that molecules, instead of obeying natural laws like regiments of soldiers, are about as disorganized as crowds of civilians. When for example, water flows with an average velocity of a few feet a second, some of the molecules at any given instant are travelling forward at a quarter of a mile per second, while others may be moving backwards or sideways in the pipe.

METEOR IS SEEN IN NEW ENGLAND

Hundreds of Persons Report Large Ball of Fire Flash- ing Across the Skies.

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP).—The attention of astronomers was called today to a meteor of remarkable size and brilliance which was observed darting across the skies last night at various points from New Jersey to Vermont.

Hundreds of persons in Elmira, N. Y., saw what they described as a ball of fire with two lines of light behind it, sweep across the heavens from south to north shortly after six p. m. Mary Clegg Suffa, professor of astronomy at Elmira college, said the object was a meteor.

At Syracuse, N. Y., the meteor was visible for nearly a minute. Observers there said its direction was

MILLION IN NEED OF RED CROSS AID

CROSS TO REPLACE STATE TRUSTEES

Picks Three Democrats For Fairfield Hospital Board; Is Out of the State Today.

Hartford, Jan. 23.—(AP).—The absence from the state today of Governor W. L. Cross who has gone to Albany, N. Y., to attend a conference of governors, temporarily ended any further comment by the executive as to his appointment of three Democrats as trustees of the Fairfield State hospital at Newtown to replace three Republicans whose terms expired.

The governor said yesterday that he would talk with Samuel A. Eddy of North Canaan, chairman of the board, as to reports which had come to him that Senator Harold B. Senator, of Bethel, a trustee, had been supplying materials to the general contracting concern which is building the institution.

Picks Democrats

Governor Cross said he appointed three Democrats as he believed there should be Democrats on the board. Two other trustees were reappointed. There are three board trustees to be appointed by June 1 when that number of terms expire. Senator Senior's term does not expire until 1933.

It was forecast last week that the governor would not reappoint Albert J. Hanlon of Greenwald; Mrs. Alice W. Russ, of Shelton, and Harry O. King, of Fairfield, the last named having been mentioned as a possible appointee as aviation commissioner.

Possible Appointees

For possible appointees several months hence the names of Carlos D. Stillson and Representative I. H. Holian of Newtown, are already mentioned.

As Mrs. Russ goes off the board Miss Caroline Ruutz-Rees becomes the woman member of the board. She long has been active in party politics. She is head of a private girls' school in Greenwich.

Senator Senior yesterday said he saw nothing wrong with his business transactions with the contractor for the hospital. They bought of him as a dealer, and he in no way furnished materials to the institution.

SEYMOUR INDICTED ON PERJURY CHARGE

Ex-G. O. P. Leader Held With Grocer G. W. Norris For Giving False Statements.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 23.—(AP).—Victor Seymour, former manager of the western headquarters of the Republican National Senatorial campaign committee at Denver, today was charged with perjury in an indictment returned here by a Federal Grand Jury.

George W. Norris, Broken Bow, Neb., grocer, who attempted to oppose United States Senator George W. Norris in the Republican primary in his race for re-election last year, also was indicted on a perjury charge.

The indictments resulted from testimony given by the two men before the United States Senate committee.

Fewer Persons are Dying Than in Prosperous Days

Chicago, Jan. 23.—(AP).—The mortality figures for the first ten days of January indicate, according to a Mortuary Statistical Bureau here, that deaths in the United States for the month will exceed 141,000 as compared with 129,000 last January and 171,000 in the first month of 1929.

The Institute of Mortuary Research, operated by six burial trade associations, quotes United States Public Health Bureau figures to prove that even death is depressed in low level years.

RIPPER MURDER

London, Jan. 23.—(AP).—A lamplighter going his rounds near the Black Heath football field early this morning found the mutilated body of Louise Steel, eighteen-year-old housemaid, beaten and slashed in a manner reminiscent of "Jack the Ripper," who terrorized London thirty years ago.

That she had defended herself vigorously, for her shoe was gripped like a club in the stiffened fingers. In recent months there has been an unusual number of brutal murders of women in London.

SECRETARY OPPOSES GOOD'S DRAFT BILL

Hurley Against Peace Time Enactment of Measure; Would Wait for a War.

Washington, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Secretary Hurley has reversed the stand of his predecessor James W. Good, and aligned the War Department against peace time enactment of a universal draft law for war emergency.

Chairman James of the House Military committee who introduced at the request of the late Secretary Good a bill proposing drafting of man-power.

The Michigan Representative revealed the War Department's change in attitude in making public previously secret letters.

In 1929 Good submitted a bill for a general draft law to take effect immediately following declaration of war and urged its passage.

Ten months later Hurley wrote James opposing the bill and recommending "no further consideration be given to the request" of Good.

"After more consideration I believe that it is not advisable to ask Congress to enact legislation of this nature in time of peace," Hurley said.

"It seems to me that the best procedure in this important matter is to draft and keep up to date all bills considered necessary in event of war, and to discuss them from time to time with the appropriate committees of Congress. In this way the latest thought would be always incorporated in the bills and Congress would be in a position to act without hesitation whenever an emergency becomes imminent."

SMASHES WINDOW TO STEAL COATS

Arrested, However, Before He Could Escape — Two Hold-ups In Stamford.

New Haven, Jan. 23.—(AP)—A thief early today smashed the display window of the Bohan-Landorf Company, fur dealers, and stole a fur coat valued, company officials said at $185.

STAMFORD HOLD-UPS

Stamford, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Two holdups, one in which two negroes secured $284 from a storekeeper this morning and the other in which the wife of a policeman's wife was too much for a youth about 18, are being investigated by Stamford police.

Peter Phillips, owner of a small store at 13 Chapel street, lost $284 from his person, this morning, when covered by a gun in the hands of a tall negro, while a short stocky negro took the money. They escaped.

BANK TO REOPEN

Bridgeport, Jan. 23.—(AP)—It was predicted that the Central Fairfield Trust Company of Norwalk will reopen its doors to the public Feb. 7, in Superior Court today.

ABOUT TOWN

Mrs. Ralph Rockwell, of Oakland street, is chairman of a food sale which the motion picture committee of Second Congregational church will hold tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Pagan's store on Depot Square.

The Manchester Mothers' Club will go to Vernon this evening where the ladies of Vernon Grange will serve a roast beef supper to the members and their husbands.

The annual meeting in connection with the fourth quarterly conference will take place at the South Methodist church, January 28 and is open to all members of the parish.

The Sunshine Sewing club will meet tonight at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. Alice Thomas, 98 Walnut street.

DOG SENSES SIGNAL AS BABY NEEDS DOCTOR

A two-year-old dog owned by Andrew Clemson of 108 North Elm street answered a 3 o'clock in the morning call for assistance in a case where a baby was ill, according to the story of Harold Clemson, son of Andrew.

The dog, which spends its nights in the cellar, began barking and attracted the attention of Mr. Clemson, who awakened his son Harold and sent him into the cellar to investigate. Reaching the cellar he heard a sound of tapping on the water pipe.

Harold went to the Tracey home and learned that the baby was sick and a doctor wanted. The call for the doctor was sent in by phone from the Clemson house.

OLDEST DOCTOR DIES

Selma, N. C., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Dr. James Clarke Briggs, who gave his age as 108 years and claimed to be the oldest physician in the United States, died here today.

facated with this problem should consider facts and proposed solutions jointly in the hope that out of larger common knowledge and intimate discussion between the leaders of these states, some steps in a program for prevention may be made applicable to a whole industrial area rather than to one state.

Purpose of Parley "The purpose of this conference is to secure in the most convenient form for the executives here gathered, an informal discussion of various aspects of this problem. The discussion is to be presented briefly by persons of special knowledge on special subjects for the purpose of bringing available information into focus for preferable discussion by the governors."

Explaining that today's session would be given over to reports from experts on various phases of the problem, with open discussion of each paper, Governor Roosevelt introduced as the first speaker, Leo Wolman, member of President Hoover's committee on recent economic changes.

In 1928 and 1929, he said, public works construction cost three and a half billion dollars in the United States, giving employment to more than 800,000 persons.

paign fund investigating committee here last fall.

The indictment against Seymour contained eight counts and that against Grocer Norris two. Seymour told the committee headed by Senator Gerald P. Nye last summer that he had not taken an active interest in the Nebraska Senatorial campaign and that he had no knowledge of the grocer's filing as a primary campaign opponent of Senator Norris, until a story appeared in newspapers.

Later the committee was told by Miss Esther Marie Alton, who formerly was employed in Seymour's Lincoln office that he had conducted a "straw vote" in Nebraska to ascertain the most popular man to oppose the senior Nebraska Senator in his campaign for re-election in the Republican primary and that a political statement released by Grocer Norris at the time of his filing as a candidate for the Senatorial nomination was typed in Seymour's office.

W. M. Stobbs, who at that time was state treasurer and who also was a candidate for the Republican Senatorial nomination, later told Chairman Nye that he financed the filing of the papers by the grocer and gave Seymour a $500 bond to give the grocer.

The grocer told the committee that he received the bond. His filing as a candidate was ruled illegal by the State Supreme Court because of its belated arrival.

After Miss Alton had told the committee of the activities of Mr. Seymour, he resigned his position in Denver and returned to Lincoln.

Later Walter W. Head, Chicago and Omaha banker, told the committee he paid Seymour $4,000 "for taking the straw vote" poll of the state.

19,000 FLU CASES

Washington, Jan. 23.—(AP)—An estimate of more than 19,000 influenza cases in the United States was made by Public Health officials today, on the basis of reports showing 3,867 recorded for the week ending January 17.

"There is an outbreak in Europe as well," Surgeon General Cummings said. "It has abated in Poland and France, but still is extensive in Germany and England. Apparently it is in mild form abroad also. The prevalence here is above the normal curve for the season—but not nearly so widespread as in 1928-1929."

DEMOCRATS MEET

New Haven, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Looking to activity without ceasing from now until after the campaign of 1932, the Democratic State Central committee meeting here this afternoon, was to consider plans for intensive organization.

State Chairman P. O. O'Sullivan has announced his idea that the committee should function at all times, perfect town and county organizations and meet from time to time to receive reports and to suggest means of spreading the faith.

Mr. O'Sullivan may present a district plan of organization to the meeting if he finds the committee as a whole is favorable to continued activity. As a part of the new order of things it has been proposed that the party have a publicity department to be headed by Herbert P. Plank who at present is serving as a publicity man at the Capitol for the Democrats.

EFFECTS OF BOYCOTT

Bombay, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Disastrous effects of the Indian boycott on trade is shown in statistics issued today by the Bombay Mill Owners Association which disclose that India's imports of piece goods from July to November last year decreased by 400,000,000 yards. Yarn imports decreased by 5,000,000 pounds.

The association estimates that by next March the total reduction in piece goods imports will amount to at least 800,000,000 to a billion yards.

POLICE COURT

Dennis Harrington, 47, charged with intoxication was sentenced to jail for thirty days by Judge Raymond A. Johnson at this morning's session of the Town Court.

GIRL GETS LIFE

Independence, Kas., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Muriel Sullivan, 18, pleaded guilty today to the murder of Mrs. Maude Martin of Coffeyville. She was sentenced to life imprisonment.

The girl, a waitress at Seminole, Okla., confessed she shot Mrs. Martin for a promised $100 of which she said she received only $85.

Mrs. Martin was slain, the girl said, to prevent her from testifying against Dr. S. A. Brainard, charged with performing an illegal operation which led to the death of Esther O'Dare Nidiffer.

Miss Sullivan said Paul Jones, Coffeyville motor car salesman had hired her to commit the murder.

Jones, Dr. Brainard and a taxi driver were arrested with Miss Sullivan and all face murder charges.

BIG MOVIE SALARY

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Constance Bennett, blonde film star, will receive more than $800 each working hour under a contract she signed today to make two pictures for Warner Brothers.

Miss Bennett is under contract to Pathe until 1934, but she is allowed ten weeks off each year.

SIX TOWNS JOIN FOR BIG ORATORIO AFFAIR

Hartford Production of "The Holy City" To Be Repeated At Columbia On Sunday.

The Hartford County Choral and Orchestral Society will sing "The Holy City" for the Tricounty Union, At Columbia Sunday night. This oratorio by Gaul was presented by the same chorus under the direction of George Curtis Munson at Bushnell Memorial Hall, Hartford, last November. It is to be repeated at the Columbia Congregational church at 7:30 p. m. Sunday.

The production was procured by the united effort of the towns of Colchester, Westchester, Marlboro, Hebron, Gilead, and Columbia.

The success of the Christmas Cantata at Colchester, which was directed by Mr. Munson for the Tricounty Union, has caused those who heard it to look forward to the coming of the present great work with the keenest anticipation.

Henry E. Bonander presides at the piano. Ruth Goodrich Horton, Soprano; Alice Evans Wagner, Contralto; Maurice E. Wallen, Tenor; and Edgar L. Brown, Bass; who were the soloists of the original production will sing at Columbia. These voices will be supplemented by a very large chorus.

BOYS' CONFERENCE PLANS DISCUSSED

Three Manchester Men On Committee To Arrange For Coming Two Days Sessions.

Plans for the 13th annual Hartford County Older Boys' Conference will be discussed at the first meeting of the Conference Committee to be held this afternoon at the Broad street Y. W. C. A. The conference, which each year brings together over 200 of the county's older boys for a two-days' session, is a gathering sponsored by the Hartford County Y. M. C. A. with other agencies in the county co-operating.

Among those serving on the committee this year are: Rev. Chas. G. Noble, Philip Bake, and John Russ of Hartford; William Warner of Wethersfield; Marvin Stocking of Simsbury; Edward Sandshaw of North Canton; Edward Rankie and L. J. Black of Southington; Herbert McKinney, W. H. Petherbridge, and Arthur Davis of Manchester; Rev. E. M. Bussey of Rocky Hill; Rev. E. T. Thienes of Marlboro; Chas. Freeman of Glastonbury; Leroy Roberts of Farmington; and Kenneth Baker of Plainville. The personnel of the committee will be further enlarged through appointments of representatives now being made by the following organizations: Bristol Congregational church; Bristol Methodist Episcopal church; Suffield Congregational church; Rocky Hill Congregational church; Hartford Theological Seminary; John Fitch High school, Windsor; and by Rev. Alfred Heiminger of the First Church of Christ, New Britain.

ARREST GANGSTER IN BUCKLEY CASE

Detroit, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Frank Cammarata, gangster named last August by Thomas C. Wilcox, then police commissioner, as one of the men responsible for the killing of Jerry Buckley, radio speaker, was arrested early today in a residence on Eastlawn avenue.

Inspector John A. Hoffman of the Black Hand Squad said that Cammarata has been sought for months for questioning by the Special Grand Jury in connection with the killing of Buckley and other charges, one being the $2,275 robbery of a branch bank in 1925.

While the latter case was pending Cammarata and Thomas (Yonny) Licavoli, also mentioned in connection with the Buckley case, were arrested in Windsor, Ont., and charged with illegal possession of firearms.

Buckley figured in the case to a more or less extent as counsel for the men, although he did not practice in Canada. Police have been told that a considerable sum of money was raised to procure a new trial for the pair and that Buckley was assigned the task of handling it. Buckley was killed shortly after the men were released from prison, and the story of their misadventure in Canada was one of the first explanations offered for the killing of Buckley.

Wilcox unreservedly named Cammarata as one of the suspects, but his name has not been brought prominently into the case since the investigation was taken over by the Grand Jury. Three other men now are being held on murder charges as a result of the jury's inquiry.

INSPECTOR RETIRES

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—A policeman who peddled his way from a bicycle to a patrol car and an inspector has retired after 34 years in the department.

He is Thomas W. Mullarkey, 60, who joined the force in 1897 and busied himself for eight years in pursuing "scorchers" up and down Broadway. A "scorcher" in the argot of the Nineties, was any gentleman who cavorted his bicycle at more than 18 miles an hour.

Other members of the family are Mrs. Mullarkey, who once sang on the concert stage at Notre Dame; Thomas W. Mullarkey, a student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Paddy, an Irish setter that adds and subtracts numbers just like a human—or so they say.

CHINESE AIR ROUTE

Shanghai, Jan. 23.—(AP)—G. W. Brophy, of Los Angeles, hopped off in a 110-horsepower biplane for Canton today. The first leg of a trail-blazing flight between China and the Philippines.

Upon his arrival at Canton, Brophy, manager of the aviation division of the L. E. Gale Company here, will await favorable weather for the 650 mile flight over the China sea to Manila.

The flight was planned as a demonstration of the practicability of regular mail and passenger service from Shanghai to Manila via Foochow, Canton, Macao and possibly Hong Kong.

STARTS DRY PROBE

Binghamton, N. Y., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Colonel Amos W. Woodcock, National prohibition director, arrived in Binghamton this morning to investigate complaints of laxity in enforcement of the dry law and to "specifically" probe the alleged bootleg activities of Andrew J. Horvath, missing president of the luted State Bank of Binghamton, he said.

While here he will confer with Lowell R. Smith, acting administrator of the Syracuse district and Charles W. Kress, suspended investigator of the department.

TOLLAND

The regular meeting of Tolland Grange was held Tuesday evening with installation of officers. Mrs. Loomis and Mr. Wickham of Manchester were the installing officers assisted by Mrs. Loud and Mrs. Lincoln of Manchester.

The fourth series of whist and dances sponsored by the local teachers was held Thursday evening in the Town Hall with a large crowd to enjoy it.

The Junior Basketeers served a supper in the Federated church dining rooms Thursday evening.

Miss Lucie Usher of Hartford spent Wednesday evening last with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Usher.

The grocery store of William Senk and Son, located in this village was entered last Sunday night. Tobacco, cigarettes, cigars and some money was taken. The store was entered through a rear window. When Mr. Senk opened the store Monday morning he discovered his loss.

Mrs. Harry Wood left Tuesday for Brooklyn, N. Y. where she will spend some time as guest of relatives.

A company of young people and neighbors enjoyed a card party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Avers last Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morganson, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Johnson, members of Tolland Grange, attended a part of the sessions of the Connecticut State Grange held in Bridgeport.

Mrs. Fannie Reeves and daughter Frances Reeves of Jersey City and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hill of Seymour, Conn., were guests of relatives here Wednesday.

The Cradle Roll mothers held their weekly sewing meeting at the home of Mrs. Arthur Bushnell Wednesday evening.

Miss Ethel Usher of Tolland, statistician of the Connecticut Motor Vehicle Department, had an interesting article in the automobile show section of the Hartford Sunday Courant. In her article Miss Usher credits education with a share in the reduction of accidents in 1930.

Dudley Snowman of Hartford Theological Seminary will preach next Sunday in the Federated church.

Miss Mabel O. Forbes of West Haven has been spending a few days at the home of Alfred Potwine of East Windsor.

The office sage wonders what a Notre Dame alumnus has to talk about in the winter time.

Y. W. C. A. INAUGURATES CAMPAIGN FOR FUNDS

Hartford County Association Touches 29 Communities—Order Gifts To Meet Here.

The Young Women's Christian Association of Hartford county and surrounding territory, of which Mrs. Theodore Case of Granby is president, opened its 1931 Finance Campaign on Wednesday, with a luncheon at the Hartford Y. W. C. A. which was attended by campaign workers from the various communities of the district. The speaker was Miss Elizabeth S. Rogers of New Britain, a member of the Rural Communities Department of the National Y. W. C. A.

The County Y. W. C. A. has been operating throughout this district for ten years, and has made a large contribution toward the betterment of social conditions among the girls and women of the small towns and rural sections. Today 29 communities are touched by the association, which has work for all ages from grammar grades on through adult groups. Clubs for grade school and high school girls are organized in public schools, church schools and community houses on request. Girls of all nationalities and all creeds are included, and under the leadership of an adult adviser the girls learn to take their places in the community in which they live and of which they are a part. Their activities include classes in handcraft, outdoor craft, discussions, parties, service projects within their town and adventures in friendship with girls of other countries. There are now 15 of these Girl Reserve clubs with an enrollment of 421 girls.

The association program includes work with young women in business, the professions and industry. There are six such organized clubs and two more being formed. Their activities and program are fitted to meet the needs of the more complex lives of the members, leading them through discussions, socials and study to new and broader interests resulting in richer individual and group life.

The physical, spiritual and mental life of each girl and woman in its territory is the concern of the County Y. W. C. A. It is a part of the National and thereby of the World Y. W. C. A., and is the largest work of every public-spirited and broad-minded citizen of this territory.

The tournament is for boys under 16 years of age regardless of weight, and for boys over 16 and under 18 who weigh less than 110 pounds.

The following teams have been entered in the tournament: Newington Junior High school, Hazardville Recreation Center Association Juniors, Williams Memorial Association (Glastonbury), Glastonbury High School Juniors, Southington Y. M. C. A., First Baptist Boys' Club, New Britain; Broad Brook Grammar school, Enfield High School Cyclones, Manchester Freshmen, and New Britain South Church.

The tournament is in charge of Anthony B. Hill of Broad Brook, assisted by W. H. Petherbridge, Manchester Y. M. C. A. secretary.

WAPPING

The Pioneers of Junior Y. M. C. A. boys played a basketball game with the Buckland boys last Tuesday night which was won by the Buckland boys at the Wapping parish house.

The next meeting of the East Central Pomona Grange No. 3 will be held with East Windsor Grange on Wednesday, February 4. It is to be an all-day meeting and the new officers for the ensuing two years will be installed. There are 963 members of East Central Pomona Grange and 52 of these members are from the local Grange. East Windsor Grange will serve a dinner at noon.

Mrs. Arthur N. Stiles is still at the Hartford hospital where she has been quite ill for some time. The annual community dinner will be held one week from this evening, January 20, at 5:30 o'clock. The committee in charge is Mrs. Ruth Burham, Mrs. Lois S. Collins, Mrs. Ella B. Burham, Mrs. W. G. Twale, Miss Finis B. Grant, Raymond Belcher, Alfred Stone, Walter Skinner and Earl Hayes. Following the supper there will be an entertainment in the hall.

Plans are under way to start a fund to be used in purchasing a pipe organ for the Federated church and making alterations in the church. The following committee was chosen: Albert E. Stiles, George A. Collins, Miss Finis B. Grant and Mrs. Marion P. Pierce.

The Association is starting to raise a budget of $7,000, and it looks for the support and backing of every public-spirited and broad-minded citizen of this territory.

Y. M. C. A. BASKETBALL

Ten teams will compete in the Hartford County Y. M. C. A. junior basketball tournament, the first round of which will be played tomorrow at the West Side Recreation center here, beginning at 2 o'clock. The semi-finals will be played February 7, with the finals on Saturday, February 21, at 3 p. m.

CENSUS REPORT SHOWS STATE FARM ACREAGE

According to a bulletin recently issued by the Bureau of Census, there are 17,195 farms in the state of Connecticut having a total acreage of 1,502,279, and a total value including land, buildings and implements and machinery, of $239,783,598. The figures are given in detail for each county and each district within the state. This is the first Federal census report to show these figures by minor civil divisions.

Of the total farm acreage 24.8 per cent, or 372,147 acres, was crop land on which were harvested in 1929; 3.1 per cent, or 46,899 acres, was crop land which lay idle or fallow; and 0.8 per cent, or 11,542 acres, was land on which the crops failed to mature or were not harvested for any cause. Pasture land with a total of 651,149 acres, representing 43.3 per cent of the total farm acreage of the state, included 127,843 acres of plowable land, 291,405 acres of woodland, and 231,901 acres of other land. In addition to the land cropped and pastured, the total land in farms includes 308,000 acres of woodland not used for pasture and 112,542 acres not in forest, pasture, nor crops, and, also, the land occupied by house yards, barnyards, feed lots, roads, etc.

The total value of farm land and buildings is $227,412,905, of which $112,673,553 represents the value of farm buildings, and of this amount $63,765,093 represents the value of the farmers' dwellings. The value of farm implements and machinery, including farmers' automobiles, is $12,370,693.

GRADUATE FIRST HALF-YEAR CLASS

Mid-Year System Begins Next Monday—64 Constitute First Group.

A class of 64 boys and girls will enter Manchester High School as freshman students next Monday morning as a result of the mid-year graduation system put into effect here several years ago. Four years later at least the majority of these students will comprise the first mid-year class to graduate from Manchester High school.

The incoming Freshmen number 35 boys and 29 girls and of the total come from the Barnard school where they have been under the supervision of Miss Elizabeth M. Bennett, principal. Eight come from the eighth district schools and are Frederick A. Sweet, Marion Reid, Elizabeth Filbig, Ido P. Enrico, George G. Clarke, Adelia Zurawka, Dorothy Brown and Richard Black and one, Elizabeth Polych, from Buckland.

Eighth grade graduation exercises for the Barnard school future Freshmen were held this morning in the school street Recreation Center auditorium. Superintendent of Schools Fred A. Verplanck, Principal Arthur H. Illing each addressed the incoming high school class which will be housed in the Franklin school.

The program this morning was as follows:

- Graduation Program
1. Orchestra.
 - a. Morton High School March. Townsen and Pyle.
 - b. Melody in F. Rubenstein.

DEMONSTRATION FOREST PRESENTED TO STATE

Tract of 186 Acres in Tolland Near West Willington Fine For Forestry Study.

The State of Connecticut has received a valuable gift of forest land from Mrs. William H. Hall of South Willington. The gift includes the birthplace of Mrs. Hall and a tract of 186 acres in the town of Tolland near West Willington station. The property was accepted for the state by State Forester, Austin F. Hawes, who states that the area has excellent facilities for forestry demonstration purposes. It is located on the state highway from Rockville to Willington and has considerable frontage on the Willimantic river. The house will be repaired and used as headquarters for the Soapstone and Nipauck State Forests.

In accordance with the wishes of Mrs. Hall the property will bear the name, "Nye-Holman Demonstration Forest," in memory of her maternal grandparents, Nye, and of her father, Holman. The tract is mentioned in "The Early History of Tolland," published by Case, Lockwood and Company in 1891; the author, Mrs. Loren P. Waldo says, "It is here worthy of notice that the farm on which Mr. Holman and family now reside, was a portion of the land allotted to Ebenezer Nye in 1721 and 1722, and has, as far as can be ascertained, always been owned by him or his descendants."

According to Robert M. Ross, Forester of the Connecticut Forest and Park association, this gift is especially desirable as it borders on a state highway. Mr. Ross states that Connecticut has made little progress in acquiring forest land bordering state highways. While the State owns more than 35,000 acres of state forests, there are only about 3 miles of state highway bordered on both sides by State Forests and 9 miles bordered on one side by state forests. More effort should be made to acquire land for state forests along highways. State ownership of such land is the best way to improve and safeguard the beauty of our highways.

OPEN FORUM

THEATERS AGAIN
Editor, The Herald:

The two articles that have appeared in the "Open Forum" captioned "The Local Theater" have aroused considerable interest among the Cinema fans in Manchester. So I venture to express the opinion of "the younger element" as we were so adequately brought home to us, in his treatise on the above subject.

"The War Nurse," "Hell's Angels," "All's Quiet On The Western Front" and feature pictures of a like calibre bring home to us, who were too young to take our share in the World War, just what you boys who did your duty as Americans were up against in those war pictures "Mr. Citizen" bring back memories you doubtless would rather forget, it brings only an increased respect among "the younger element" for every ex-service man. Thanks to the medium of the talking pictures Warner Brothers and the management of the State theater have presented a lesson of patriotism and respect for veterans in an entertaining way that none of us can possibly forget. Thank You, Mr. Editor.

ROOSEVELT HOME MENACED

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Theodore Roosevelt's beloved Sagamore Hill home was threatened by fire last night.

From one of those huge fireplaces sparks ignited the roof and started a small blaze. Mrs. Roosevelt was notified by an employee and telephoned an alarm.

Eight volunteer fire trucks puffed up the long hill overlooking Long Island Sound and extinguished the flames with chemicals in a few minutes. The damage unofficially was estimated at $1,000.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 23.

ENFORCEMENT ACT

There isn't much chance, in all probability, that the Connecticut Legislature will adopt the bill repealing the state enforcement act. If the decision were put up to the people, as it was in Massachusetts, the probabilities would be all the other way. But there are too many members of the General Assembly who are anxious not to offend the dry voters in their small towns by voting against state enforcement of Volsteadism while Volsteadism would still be enforceable in this state by federal authority. The gain through repeal, even in the minds of some legislators who are not in sympathy with federal prohibition, does not loom large enough to compensate for the anger of their dry neighbors.

It is possible, however, that part of the tyranny might be taken out of the state enforcement act by amendment. There is no need of our police and our authorities slavishly bowing to the dictates of the Volstead law at every point in order to enforce constitutional prohibition. We may assume that it is impossible for Connecticut to put her own definition on the term "intoxicating" and that she must accept the Volstead definition, though there is still good ground for argument on that point; and that her statutes should conform to the Eighteenth amendment in principle and effect. It does not follow, however, that the penalties imposed by this state's laws must conform to any but Connecticut's ideas of justice and fairness, nor that any but our own Legislature's convictions should govern our laws on seizures and search.

If instead of proposing to repeal the enforcement act, Legislative liberals were to concentrate on reducing the excessive penalties provided and such factors as the confiscation of a valuable automobile in a transportation case perhaps involving perhaps a couple of cases of beer on its way to a picnic; and especially on eliminating the iniquitous provision of Section 9798 under which any person with enough enemies can be convicted of selling liquor "on reputation," it would seem reasonable to suppose that the enforcement act could be made something less of a nuisance.

To be sure, that would not be doing what so many people would like to see done—let the federal government skin its own snakes since this Volstead curse was none of our doing in any way—but it would be an improvement on existing conditions at least.

THE WAY TO THE SEA

While Connecticut has done something important in the way of providing public access to its seashore it has done nowhere near enough. If there were half a dozen times as many state park reservations on Long Island Sound frontage it would be none too many. Unfortunately the state was caught napping in this business and delayed the purchase of shore property for park purposes until prices had doubled over and over again and the expenditures involved have become impressive. There is therefore little likelihood that the state will ever own as much seashore park property as it should.

All the more reason why the fullest use should be made of such Sound frontage as it does own or can afford to acquire. Sherwood Island, lying in front of and constituting part of the town of Westport, is a state reservation and has been for sixteen years. Yet because a group of rich men who own estates nearby object to the presence of their neighborhood nothing whatever has been done for its development and, moreover, through these men standing in with the Westport town government and putting over the trick of digging a "mosquito ditch," physical access to the island—it is really a peninsula—has been rendered impossible. Now a group of Fairfield county senators and representatives are making a fight to have this park opened and developed. They should have the support of their colleagues from every part of the state, for their fight is just. There is a high principle involved. It is whether the recreative opportunities of this state are to be enjoyed exclusively by a handful of persons or whether by a whole shall have some share in those blessings of nature which make life worth living. That is a principle with just as much appeal in Hartford or Tolland county as in Fairfield or New London.

THAT ASYLUM JOB

If Senator Harold B. Senior, chairman of the building committee of the Fairfield State Hospital at Newtown, is just now experiencing the uncomfortable feelings of the unjustly accused he hasn't anybody to blame but himself. Members of public building committees who profit in any way from the construction, aside from whatever allowance is made to them by the government, if any, whether the profit be taken directly or indirectly, place themselves in a position where criticism is inevitable. The fact that judicial rulings have held that such a person is not violating the law if he sells supplies to a contractor, whereas he would not be permitted to sell direct to the institution, protects his legal position but it does not guarantee his ethical sense.

Such proceedings are common enough, to be sure; and it is unquestionably true that there is seldom any consciousness of wrong doing. But a person of any sophistication and unwilling to lay himself open to suspicion of that nasty thing "graft" will be very careful indeed, when in a position like that of Senator Senior, to heed the admonition of St. Paul and avoid the appearance of evil.

Meantime it is interesting to note, in connection with the affairs of the new hospital, that Governor Cross has proceeded in good old Jacksonian manner in the appointment of new members of the Board of Trustees, displacing Republicans and appointing Democrats, for no other reason, according to his own words, than that he thought "there should be some Democrats on the Board." Which would indicate that when, last fall and before his election, Dean Cross gave us to understand that his idea of selecting appointees was to pick the best man for the job, regardless of political considerations, there was some small mental reservation in favor of Democrats being the best men.

Nevertheless Senator Senior, in this particular instance, seems to have played into the governor's hands as nicely as though he were eager to assist in furthering the policy of putting none but Democrats on guard.

THE OBJECTIVE

The dry newspapers, naturally, are picking out for argumentative uses such parts of the Wickersham report as best suit their purpose. And the plum of the lot is the conclusion that for seven years the enforcement organization was terrible but since 1927 it has been much better and is getting better all the time.

All right, we'll take the commission's word for that. It has spent time and money enough finding out and ought to know. But nowhere in the report is there a single word indicating that the commission has learned that in the last three years the production, smuggling, sale and consumption of liquor has decreased in the slightest degree despite the great improvement in the machinery of enforcement.

There are more people in the jails than there were three years ago. There are more speakshoes than there were three years ago. There are more bootleggers than there were three years ago. It is impossible to escape the conclusion that there are more customers than there were three years ago. If the erection of a theoretically perfect enforcement machine is the one thing aimed at, perhaps there has been much more progress than in the previous seven years. But if better social conditions, less drunkenness, less crime and less debauchery of our civilization are our objectives, that is another matter for in these three years we have been getting nowhere.

MISPLACING THE BLAME

Repeal of the Winchester Arms Company of New Haven, formerly attributed to the business depression, is probably due, to a considerably greater extent, to the preceding business inflation. During the war the Winchester concern did an enormous business, employing over 20,000 hands and, presumably, making a great deal of money even on a moderate profit basis. When the war was over the Winchester company, having had a taste of very big business, joined the procession of business concerns which undertook to continue the war time industrial boom in times of peace. With plenty of capital and credit the concern jumped into the retail field. It leased stores in many cities at tremendous rentals, stocked them with the products of its own factories and others—hardware, sporting goods and clothing, what not—and embarked on a career of merchandising spectacular in its conceptions, changes and abandonments. Some stores were scarcely opened with one line of goods before the line was completely changed, first stocks swept out and new ones hustled in. Some stores were closed again before the last of the chain was set. It was business in jazz time.

Perhaps these enterprises did not use up any substantial part of the company's war profits; perhaps they paid. But it is certain that the performances of this great industrial concern in the merchandising line excited the wonderment of the retail world for several years and produced such an effect that the present unfortunate situation excites far less surprise than it otherwise might have done. We speak of this because it is a perfect illustration of more than a few of the business evils from which we are suffering. They are not the evils of 1929 or 1930, as a matter of fact, but of 1922-1923.

Washington, Jan. 24.—The group of 13 Republican Senators who joined the Democrats in defying President Hoover when they voted to reconfirm the three federal power commissioners who had fired Solicitor Russell and Chief Accountant King, is most conspicuously characterized by the fact that its members vote as they please, without regard to the wishes of the administration. All of them come from the west.

What causes progressive senators and why do they all come from the west and why doesn't the east produce any and why are they all so interested in the power issue when most of the electricity is consumed in the larger eastern states? Your correspondent referred all this to Uncle George Norris, the Nebraska senator who has been so progressive and so insurgent that some of the regular Republican leaders have spent time and money trying to get him out of public life.

"Vote Own Convictions," says the west, says he, "the people are progressive and independent. These 13 Republicans represent the kind of people who believe they ought to vote their own convictions. Most of us have seen our opponents campaign and lose on the contention that we ought to vote the way the president wanted us to vote."

"Most of the money of the country is in the east and Republican politics in that section, generally, is dominated by big business, which opposes anybody who would interfere with the activities of the power trust. All big business stands together, and the power trust is more powerful than any other part of it. 'I'm inclined to believe that the rank and file of eastern people are progressive, but control of the Republican party there is in the hands of big business and the power trust. I believe that progressives can be elected in the east, but we haven't had first-rate, outstanding men who would come out and try to lick the machines. How could it be done? Well, I think what I did in Nebraska could be done in the east. Just step out and tell the political machines to go to hell and then go out and take the fight to the people in the open."

Says Voters Will Rebel "An outstanding man who would fight for a year or two, promising to vote the way he thought was right, could win in any state. I believe we're going to have some progress here from eastern states because I believe the world moves forward. The truth about the power trust will dawn on the voters and they will rebel. I don't know when that will be, but it's bound to come."

"The progressives of both parties believe it is their duty to prevent the power trust from getting control of all the streams in the country and charging exorbitant rates for electricity on the basis of fictitious values. The fight over Commissioners Smith, Garsaud and Drepper was a matter of simple common honesty and justice, but all the regular Republicans subscribed to the theory that the wishes of the president, a power trust man, must be obeyed."

"Several years two men in the public service—Russell and King—had been trying to prevent the power people from padding the value of their dams and plants on public streams. The value must be fairly fixed because under the power act the power companies are allowed a reasonable return on their real investment and because when their 30-year lease expires the government can take over the plants at investment cost. "The companies had to make an accounting to the government and King and Russell usually found more fictitious value than real value in their claims. All sorts of absurd items—such as neckties given away at banquets and the banquet themselves—were charged up as investment. Naturally, Russell and King incurred the enmity of the power trust, and the power trust's men among their superiors. "The first thing this new outfit in the power commission did was to remove those two on the pretext that they were 'trouble-makers.' The Senate naturally was incensed at the discharge of the only two faithful public servants connected with the commission and took advantage of its ruling permitting reconsideration of presidential nominations. For, if the administration policy is to prevail, we might as well surrender to the power trust. "No one has denied these facts. It is generally recognized by regulars and progressives alike that King and Russell were honest, faithful and entirely correct in their course of action."

WOULD RENEW TRUCE

Paris, Jan. 23.—(AP)—A spokesman for the French government today said that France would look favorably upon any Italian suggestion for renewal of the naval construction truce which was said earlier this week to have expired. France was said still to cling tenaciously to the belief that a naval arrangement with Italy is possible if Italy will consider that French fleets are maintained not with Italy in mind, but as a means of protecting French sovereignty at home and in numerous distant colonies in the same sense that the British fleets are used. Rome dispatches last night said that Italy also was favorably inclined to continuation of the truce.

DRESSING THE MIND
 We choose our clothes mainly for decorative purposes and not so much for protection against the elements. Perhaps we waste a great deal of energy, and certainly spend larger sums of money than necessary in selecting our clothes from the ornamental rather than the practical standpoint. Do we not also dress our minds in much the same manner? Our educators attempt to develop a child's mind in such a way that as the child studies the routine school subjects his mind will be conventionally decorated with mental frills and lace which will be of little or no value to him throughout his life. How much real good does the average growing child receive from so many hours spent in the study of dead languages and higher mathematics? The professors who teach such subjects can do of course not be expected to advocate the substitution of more practical subjects which themselves are not trained to teach. The argument is often made that the study of languages and higher mathematics is necessary to "train the mind," but no good reason has ever been given why the memory and intellectual faculties can not be improved by the study of certain subjects which will have a more practical, everyday value. If the school years are not extended, would it not be better to substitute such studies as physiology, food science, chemistry, biology, sex science and the science of raising children, for some of the years spent in the study of mathematics, dead languages, mythology, history, etc? Can we not find time to teach the child how to live? We know that most of our actions are determined by our desires, emotions, and feelings. Everyone admits that self-preservation is the first law of nature, and yet your child who graduates from college this year may be able to tell you all about the mythical Apollo, or recite the orations of Cicero, but does he know such a simple thing as how food is digested in the body or how the blood circulates? He may be able to do intricate problems in trigonometry, but can he sit down to your table and show you which foods combine harmoniously and which make bad combinations? He may be able to tell you the love story of Helen of Troy, but does he know a single sensible thing about his own emotional nature, his future sex life, marriage relations, or the propagation of offspring and the raising of children? All education is useful, but I cannot keep from pointing out to parents the advantage to future generations of insisting that such subjects as physiology, biology, food chemistry and sexology be made important subjects in the curriculum of our educational institutions. Let us bring up our children to be at least healthy animals who will know the real worth of the important things in life, and add the frills and lace to the mind if there is any time left.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 (Scars)
 Question: Mrs. B. A. writes: "When I was a baby I had a burn on my cheek which left a scar about the size of a dime. The skin is not discolored, but merely sinks in. Is there any way to draw this out on a level with the rest of my face?"
 Answer: A good method of treatment is the use of the ultra-violet light to sunburn the scar and the immediate area around it. The edges of the scar can also be removed by burning with a high-frequency spark. Through this method the color of the scar and surrounding tissues can be blended together so that the scar does not so easily show.

(Swollen Eyelids)
 Question: E. K. writes: "My husband's eyelids are always swollen. The whites of his eyes are yellow. His eyesight is excellent. He is subject to asthma. Would this not be the eye condition? He does not drink and keeps regular sleeping hours."
 Answer: The same faulty diet which is causing your husband's asthma may be responsible for the discoloration of the eyes and the swollen lids. Please write me again and give me your full name and address on stamped envelope so I can send the proper dietetic treatment for asthma. (Salt and Nephritis)
 Question: D. D. asks: "Would a half teaspoonful of salt in the morning be harmful to one who has had acute nephritis? Would drinking a lot of water counteract the salt?"
 Answer: The salt would certainly be irritating to one with acute nephritis. You probably take the salt as a laxative, but would do better to discontinue its use and substitute enemas.

SUICIDE VERDICT
 Shanghai, Jan. 23.—(AP)—A verdict of suicide by poisoning was recorded today at the inquest in the death of the Baroness Paulette de Pidoll, who died here yesterday morning in the country hospital after returning to Shanghai from Japan. The baroness was the estranged wife of Baron Charles De Pidoll, local representative of a Luxembourg steel combine.

ADMIT MURDER
 Chicago, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Police said they held two young men today who had confessed a slaying and 89 robberies in the Chicago area. Francis Smyth, 23, and Leo Frankel, 27, had admitted responsibility, they said, for the death of Robert Wallace of Evanston, president of a firm of architects, who was caught in the crossfire of a running battle between police and two bandits several weeks ago.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 24.—In spite of any and all warnings issued by this and other columns dealing with New York, the average tourist still asks to see the Bohemians in the process of Boheming about Greenwich Village.

And the tourist busses, catering to their public, drive quickly through the tangled thoroughfares, chanting as they did 15 years ago—"We are now in Greenwich Village where men wear their hair long and women wear their dresses short." Just why this still gets a laugh from the crowd is still one of those perennial mysteries—for women have worn their skirts far shorter than any style ever set by the Village and only a few new arrivals from the Paris left bank go about without haircuts.

Atmosphere is piled on thick for the benefit of the visitors—and it is into this made-to-order atmosphere that the unwary stranger is lead. One of the first stops of the average bus is the Pirate's Den, where year on year gents in masquerade do their best to be picturesque.

The doorman of this spot has for some years been a struggling artist, using his pirate disguise for a meal ticket. The next stop is somewhere in the neighborhood of MacDougal street, where the scenery is made-to-order for the Saturday night trade, even to the extent of putting third-rate poets on display.

The old figures are gone—and this particular tourist's guide seeks herewith to put visitors on the track of what's left.

The Grub Street Club meets on Monday nights at the Green Witch Inn. Here gather young writers, poets, artists, under the chairmanship of Charlie Harrison, who wrote that swell war novel, "Generals Die in Bed." Eli Siegel, the official Village poet who came into sudden fame by winning the Nation prize a few years back, holds soirees on Friday nights.

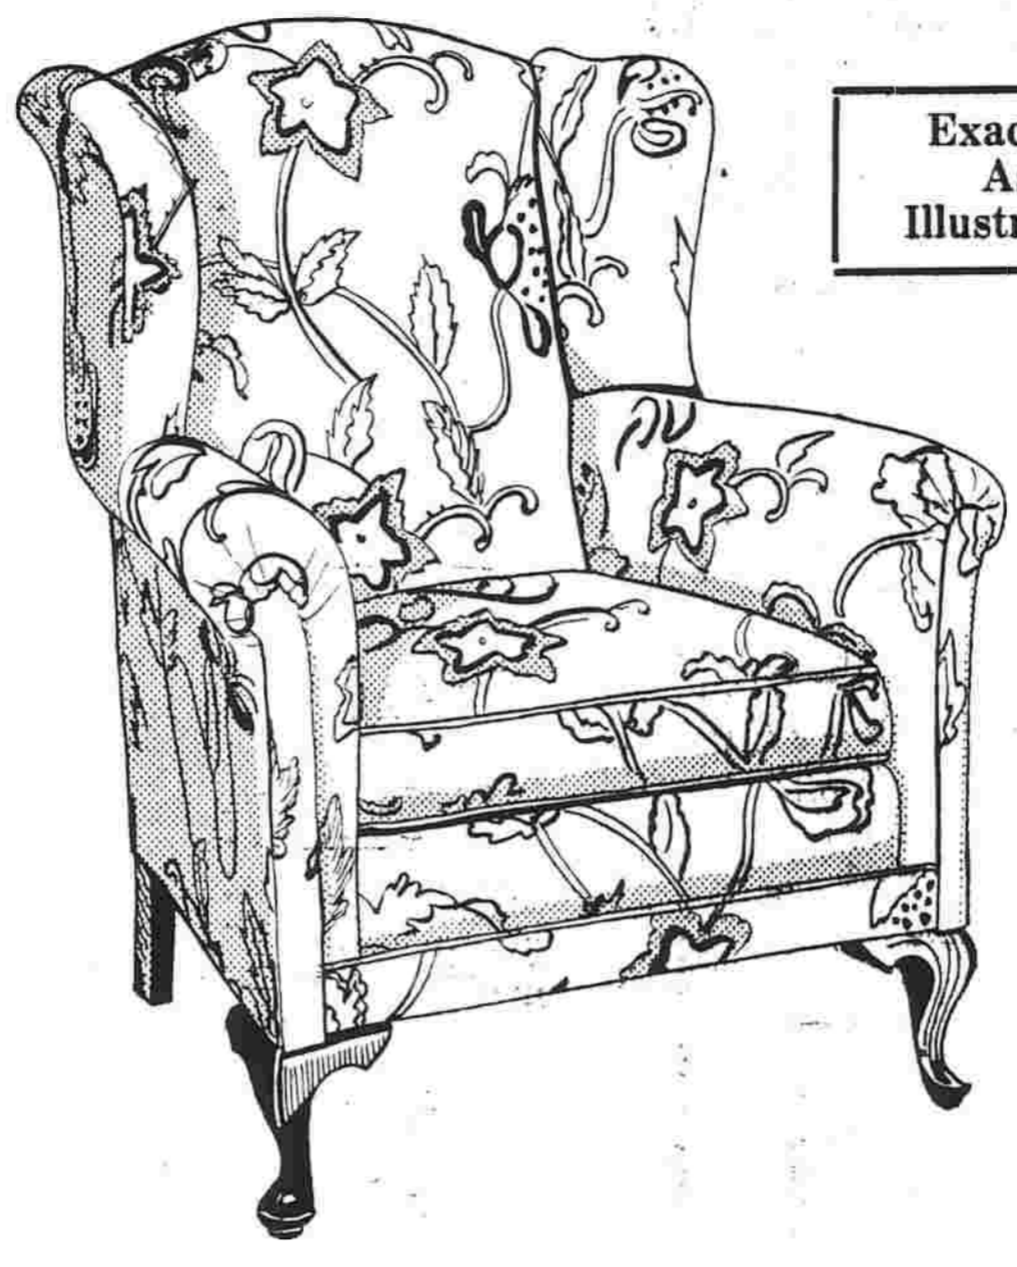

In Fifth Avenue, not far from Washington Square, Junyita Clivette, poetess, author and hostess, holds Saturday evening salons for those who are overflowing at the soul. Romany Marie, in Eighth Street, serves strong Turkish coffee to a horde of small talkers, discussing everything from politics to art.

There are a few other coffee shops trying to keep the old village

ARTICHOKE SALAD: Place a thick slice of tomato on lettuce leaves, then half of an artichoke (canned). Depress the artichoke with the back of a large spoon sufficiently to hold the desired amount of cold diced chicken, presumably left over from Sunday. Any other cold meat may be used, or omitted entirely, using a dressing of olive oil or peanut butter thinned with a little milk.

Note: When potatoes are boiled with their jackets on they should be washed and a narrow band of skin cut from the centers. This tends to let the steam escape more rapidly after being cooked, and renders the potato more mealy and palatable. It also makes it easier to remove the skin at table. Potatoes in water are salatable for several hours if kept uncovered on the back of the stove.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Glasses)
Question: J. G. writes: "I have worn glasses for about ten years and recently after reading some literature I have discarded them. Will this be harmful to my eyes? Is there anything I can do to help them without returning to the use of glasses?"
Answer: The eyes bear a close relation to health, and you should not discard your glasses without consulting an optometrist. There are certain exercises which may be used which will in many cases strengthen the eyes so that glasses may eventually be discarded, and I will be glad to send instructions if you will forward a large self-addressed stamped envelope.

(Milk Toast)
Question: E. J. B. asks: "Would Melba toast with milk, either hot or cold, make a good combination for a meal?"
Answer: Melba toast does not make a good meal by itself. It is prescribed in my diets mainly to take the place of bread in the diet. Both toast and milk have a tendency to produce constipation, and it is not wise to use them at the same time unless a large amount of leafy green vegetables are used with the milk and toast combination.

(Gritting Teeth)
Question: Mrs. G. H. A. asks: "What causes a person to grit his teeth at night?"
Answer: The usual cause is from digestive disturbances, but with children may be from the presence of intestinal parasites, such as pinworms.

WELLER TO LEAD HASKELL ON GRID FOR THIRD TIME

Lawrence, Kas.—(AP)—It's becoming an old redskin custom to elect Louis Weller captain of the Haskell Institute football squad. Weller, a 150-pound halfback, will lead the rambling redskins for the third time in the 1931 gridiron season.

Weller's Caddo tribesmen call him "Little Rabbit," and his opponents know him as one of the most elusive backs in football.

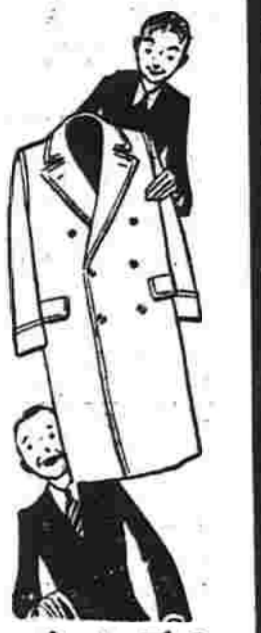

Haskell defeated all its 1930 opponents except the University of Kansas.

Manchester And Bristol Need Victories Tonight

Defeat Would Jeopardize Either's Pennant Chances

Manchester Must Win At Middletown and Bristol Over Meriden To Keep States Clean For Second Manchester-Bristol Clash On February Sixth.

GAMES TONIGHT

Manchester at Middletown. Meriden at Bristol.

Manchester's undefeated high school basketball team will trot forth on the Middletown High school court tonight in search of its eighth consecutive victory, a feat it may realize only after a stubborn struggle.

Any team in any sport is conceded somewhat of an advantage when fighting in its own backyard so to speak. Consequently Manchester cannot afford to enter tonight's fracas too over-confident. Conference is a valuable asset to any club but there is a limit.

Middletown was defeated until it bumped head-on into Tommy Monahan's enraged warriors still smarting from the sting of Manchester's 32 to 23 triumph a few weeks ago. Since losing to Manchester, Bristol has been raising havoc with all opposition. East Hartford almost has grounds for a legal suit for damages it received in a 71-12 slaughter.

Bristol Proves Nemesis

Then Bristol moved down to Middletown where they took Coach Rand's undefeated hoopers "for a ride" to the tune of 38 to 13. This defeat just about eliminated Middletown from any serious consideration so far as the C. C. I. L. championship is concerned and tonight Bristol will entertain Meriden, a team that all but put the skids under Manchester a couple of weeks ago.

If Bristol defeats Meriden in an impressive manner tonight, it is bound to rule as favorite over Manchester when the two teams clash again in Bristol on Friday, February 6, irrespective of Manchester's four point victory here several weeks ago. That game is going to be one worth going many miles to see and Bristol is only about 30 miles from town. Manchester is sure to have a big representation in the Bell City that evening.

Windham High Next

But for the fact that it must be patient. There are two more games to be played before the Bristol encounter. First comes the one at Middletown tonight and then the first of an annual home and home scrap with Windham High in Willimantic. That comes in Bristol and Meriden in a row—both on the opposing school's home floor.

So it takes no master mind to realize that Manchester can afford to do only one thing this evening and that is beat Middletown. No one will care particularly whether or not the margin is as great as Bristol's 38-13 victory at Middletown. That is beside the point. Victories are what they pay off on and not the margins by which they are scored.

Split Even Last Year

Last year Manchester and Middletown had two corking good games. The first went to Middletown 24 to 22 after an overtime struggle down in Middletown and just about ruined Manchester's championship aspirations. A return game here was won by Manchester but the score was 19 to 17 which needs no further comment. Middletown has lost two star players from last year in Gustaf and H. Umba but Manchester has lost Dowd and Nicola, so it's tit for tat in that respect.

Middletown has played four games, beating its Alumni 45 to 25, West Hartford 23 to 14 and East Hartford 24 to 20 and losing to Bristol in the twice-mentioned figures. C. Umba and Angeri will be in forward positions for Middletown with Del Vecchio center and Ward and Belgiorne in the backcourt. Manchester will depend upon its regular five which means that Jimmy O'Leary and Johnny Tierney will have upper berths, Capt. Howard Turkington at the tap-off with Domenick Squatrito and John Hedlund doing patrol duty. Middletown had McCarthy, Tom Johnson and Coach W. J. Clarke is most likely to call upon Lerch, HoHale or Kerr.

Bristol Or Meriden

Danny Ahern of Middletown may referee the Manchester-Middletown game. There is considerable interest here in its outcome but even more, perhaps, in the result of the Bristol-Meriden clash. These are the only two games in the league this week, inasmuch as West Hartford and East Hartford played during the middle of the week with West Hartford edging out a 17 to 16 winner in a spirited battle that found the McGrath men losing their 26th consecutive game in two seasons.

HYATT PLAYING PRO BASKETBALL IN LOS ANGELES

Coach Dean Gives Former Pittsburgh Ace Much Praise For Ability.

By EVERETT S. DEAN, Basketball Coach, Indiana U.

Last year Charley Hyatt of Pittsburgh was selected as forward on College Humor's All-American basketball team. Many critics who have seen him in several games say he is the greatest college player of all time. Western trips were taken during Hyatt's three years of competition and throughout the Western Conference he was acclaimed the greatest player of recent years.

Hyatt was 6 feet 2 inches tall and of a frail build. His muscles were of the wiry, lithe type, possessing unlimited energy and endurance. His body did not make him great, however. It was a cunning basketball instinct coupled with a strong will that turned the trick. He had all the ideal requirements for a good basketball player except a perfect physique. Hyatt's play manifested an attitude on ambition to excel and to win. Regardless of the time left in the game his spirit always showed confidence and hope. He was very responsive and had the ability to rise to great heights when needed most. He was very unorthodox in his movements yet his reactions to situations on the floor were natural and instinctive. His unusual cleverness was a combination of basketball instinct and cunning. He was one of the greatest shooters the game has seen.

BETTING IS WORST FOE FOOTBALL HAS ASSERTS DUFFIELD

Southern California Quarter-back Gives His Opinions On Gridiron Sport; Favors Psychology.

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Gambling, if you ask Marshall Duffield, University of Southern California quarterback and honor student, is the spectre which hangs menacingly over intercollegiate football.

Quiet spoken, serious minded, the blonde giant whose broken field running is so often disheartened opponents today turned back the pages of three years' gridiron history and put his finger on what he believes to be the game's chief foe—betting.

"This, more than all the efforts of subsidizing, large gate receipts and specialization, will, in Duffield's opinion, send football to an ultimate fall unless a halt is called. "Players are approached by friends, fraternity brothers, alumni, outsiders," said Marshall. They all ask the same question: "How will the game come out? I want to put my dough on it."

"Duffield fits into the category of 'youngsters' for he will be graduated from the college of liberal arts with a major in economics in June at the age of 21. Then he plans to continue his studies at Harvard."

So far as the game itself goes, Duffield firmly believes psychology leads all other elements in accounting for victories.

"Take our one-sided victories over Stanford and California last season. It was the first time in many years that S. C. had beaten these two traditional rivals in the same year.

"We went into the Stanford game bawling like a bunch of kids. Coach Howard Jones had us keyed up to the highest pitch and after we got the jump on them we knew they couldn't win. They knew it also and that's why the score was 41 to 12. The 74 to 0 victory over California was the same thing.

"With Notre Dame it was different. The same keen rivalry of the California and Stanford games was absent. All Coach Jones could say to us was that Notre Dame had a great team; that the players were smart and that Coach Rockne was a good coach and a good sportsman.

"We couldn't get fired up about it, with the betting odds in our favor and no sentiment back of the contest. Then when Notre Dame got the first break we just folded up. If it had been Stanford or California it would have been different.

"While I think the breaks of the game make a lot of difference, it seems to me the psychological aspects overshadow this."

CRESCENTS DEFEAT FALCONS BY 29-16

The Manchester Green Falcons proved to be no match for the Crescents last night and lost 29 to 16. The Crescents' pass-work and excellent shooting could not be stopped and early in the second half several of the Crescents' players who have not seen action for the last several games, were in the limelight. Winston Smith, midge forward, dropped in three double dunks and Sheldon played a good game at guard.

Smiler for the Falcons was the mainstay for his team. He seemed to be all over the floor. Both Pinney and Hastings were pretty well guarded.

Manager Herbert Maguire has booked the Highland Park Five for next Tuesday at the Methodist gym.

FOXX SCORES EAGLE WHILE TEACHING WIFE

Fort Myers, Fla., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Jimmy Foxx already is credited with the first eagle ever scored on the 16th hole of the Fort Myers golf course but he would like to duplicate that performance on the 430-yard 18th hole before he gives much serious thought to the coming baseball season. The slugging first baseman is teaching golf to Mrs. Foxx.

"It things go well, it looks like another notch for the 'A' is commented, 'but it's going to be a harder job than we had last year. "In the National League it's anybody's race," he said.

Then there's the dumb fellow who took his wrinkled suit of clothes to a press agent.

Boston Bruins Lose; Leadership Menaced

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—For the second time in three meetings of the current National Hockey season, the New York Americans turned back the Boston Bruins last night, 2 to 1. New York's great defense again was the big factor in the triumph with a mistake by Tiny Thompson, Boston goalie, giving the Americans the winning goal.

With the score tied at 1-1 in the middle of the third period and the Americans a man short on a penalty, Billy Burch made a shot from the blue line and Thompson misjudged it. The puck slid past his hands into the net for the deciding tally of the game.

Happy Emma started the Americans off ahead 46 seconds after the opening whistle, taking a neat pass-out from Burch to score. The A's held off the powerful Bruin attack until late in the second period, when Dutch Gainer grabbed a loose puck and scored the tying goal.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—(AP)—A wild scoring plunge in the first six minutes of play in the final period, during which they rifled in three goals, carried the Chicago Black Hawks to a 5 to 2 National League hockey victory over the Philadelphia Quakers last night.

Renaissance Five Toys With Hartford's K. of L. BOWLING

Colored Stars Thrill Large Crowd and Score More Or Less At Will But Renaissance Has No Player Equal To Bethards.

The Hartford Knights of Lithuania who were just barely nosed out by the Rec Five here Tuesday night, were given a lesson in advanced basketball at the Foot Guard Hall in Hartford last night. The Renaissance of New York, claimants of the world's colored championship, were their teachers.

The Renaissance won officially 44 to 34 but it was quite apparent they could have run up a much higher total had they felt the inclination or the necessity. Though perhaps not as sensational as in previous performances in Hartford, the Renaissance nevertheless treated the big crowd to a real treat.

The spectators got much more enjoyment out of watching the colored team pass than shoot.

Like the parlor game, "Button, button, who's got the button," the Knights at times had difficulty discovering just who had the ball. The Renaissance looked superior to the Philadelphia Colored Giants, also claimants of the world's colored title, as a team although Jack Bethards who played here with the Giants a few weeks ago is far above any individual on the Renaissance including even the sensational "Pappy" Ricks. "Tate" Cooper, giant center with a pair of arms that dangle below his knees, is the pivot key about which the Renaissance function. Tonight the Renaissance play the Springfield Visitation at Welfield.

The Knights were without the services of Stan Shimkas, regular center, in last night's game as a result of an injury suffered in a fist-fight here Tuesday with Wardy Waterman. A report in a Hartford paper last night that Shimkas may bring suit against Waterman was said last night to be improbable.

Much interest is being shown over the coming to Hartford next week Thursday of Leslie Mann, former World Series baseball star, who will be the main speaker at the annual meeting of the Hartford County Y.M.C.A. A. A. that evening.

Mr. Mann has announced that he will bring some moving pictures with him, that will be of special interest to all baseball enthusiasts. Mr. Mann is now representing the National Baseball Commission, and his visit here will follow upon his return to the East from appointments in Chicago.

WEST SIDES BEAT FELLOWCRAFT FIVE

Mattson Leads Attack As Locals Come From Behind and Win In Final Period.

The West Sides got back into winning form last night when they defeated the Fellowcraft Five in the Northwest Gym at Hartford by a 33 to 23 score. It was a close game for three periods with Hartford having the edge most of the way until the final period when the West Siders struck their stride and forged into the front to remain there until the final whistle. Mattson was back in the Manchester lineup and scored seven field goals. Aello was best for Hartford.

POUGHKEEPSIE RACE ONLY 2 DAYS BEFORE YALE-HARVARD RACE

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The Poughkeepsie Regatta, most spectacular of the country's rowing classics will be rowed on the Hudson June 17.

Only once before in the history of the regatta has so early a date been fixed but it was necessary to take advantage of favorable tide conditions that would not be favorable again until July.

Nine crews again are expected to compete in the four mile varsity race. They are Cornell, Columbia, Syracuse, Pennsylvania, Navy, Washington, California, Wisconsin and M. I. T.

The regatta will precede the annual Yale-Harvard classic at New London by only two days.

Eddie Shea Is Favored Over Battalino Tonight

Berg Also Choice Over Hess In Two Star Bouts At Chicago; Shea, Like Bat, Is Slugger, Not a Boxer, So Anything May Happen.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Goldie Hess, blonde youngster, from Los Angeles will have a chance to win the world junior welterweight championship tonight when he engages Jack Kid Berg, spectacular British holder of the 140 pound title in a ten round battle.

Hess and Berg share the headline role in Chicago Stadium card with Bat Battalino, world featherweight champion, who is meeting Eddie Shea, rugged Chicago contender.

Both contests are scheduled for ten rounds but the featherweight battle is a non-championship affair as Shea agreed to weigh in above the class limit of 126 pounds.

Berg recently returned to America from London and has not fought since defeating Billy Petrolle in New York last October. However the popular little English boxer probably will enter the ring a prohibitive favorite.

Battalino will be entering in his first contest since he beat Kid Chocolate in a 15-round bout in defense of his title in New York last month. Shea, always a menacing contender in the featherweight class, jumped to the top rank of challengers when he scored an upset victory over

GLENNEY'S

FOR GINGER'S SAKE

By ETHEL HUESTON
© 1930 THE ROBBS-MERRILL CO.

"Er—what's your name?" she demanded in a sudden sibilant whisper. "Holloway," he whispered. "Bard Holloway."

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Life in the little town of Red Thrush, Iowa, was too unexciting to suit GINGER ELLA TOLLIVER, so she conceived the idea of organizing a Junior Country Club and thus saving the younger set from complete boredom. Accordingly she arranged for the purchase of the Hill Rush farm, a 10-acre tract with an old rambling house on it, and she arranged with JENNY BROOKS and her husband, blind BENNY BROOKS, to act as chaperons.

The club was to be exclusive. No parents allowed—and no children. The motion was heartily seconded by Ginger's intimates, all of them leading spirits in Red Thrush—BDDY JACKSON, WESLEY MEEKER, and PATTY SEARS.

The farm and farm house bought, Ginger proceeded with a general overhauling in which all the high school kids of Red Thrush enthusiastically assisted. Furnishings were donated.

It was agreed that the purpose was to have a good time. And one day, while the rehabilitation of the old house was going on, Ginger was in the kitchen of her home making cookies, assisted by GOOBY, the cook, when a stranger called. He was bearded and unprepossessing looking, and he offered something to eat. Ginger declined in exchange for a sketch of her. Thinking he was an elderly man, she began to lecture him for his apparent lack of ambition. But he was only 27, and when he had shaved off his beard was attractive—and he was an accomplished artist, for he made a very fine drawing of Ginger and then asked for the privilege of doing her in color some day.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX

Her breath in her throat, lips eagerly parted, Ginger bent over her drawing. There was her tilted chin, there her pouting pursed-up lips, and the sweep of the curly lash that shadowed but could not hide the glint of gold in blue.

"Look, Goody," she cried, "Why it looks like me—almost!"

Goody looked and marveled.

"Could you maybe then," she began diffidently, "make a picture look like that and look like me?"

"I'm the cook here, Miss Phil. I can't feed anybody and for what?"

"I'll have to see what I can do about that," he assented pleasantly. "But in the meantime—"

He placed a strong, long, sun-burned hand upon his belt to indicate cavernous depths below.

"Oh, hurry, Goody!" cried Ginger. "The poor dear is hungry. It's just lovely. Make it a very good dinner, Goody. Open a can of the branched peaches. Give him the rest of my fruit cookies. It's a lovely picture. Are you just going on and on—for ever—from house to house—from town to town? Don't you ever get tired?"

He smiled across at her. "I haven't got it. It's really rare sport. On warm nights I roll up in my blankets and sleep out in the open—under the stars. See the moon come up—and then go down. See the night creep away and the dawn creep in. Hear the crickets say good night and the robins good morning. Wake up with my face cool and damp and covered with wet night air. It's rare. I tell you. It's the only genuine joy to live there is."

He sat down gratefully to the beautiful repast the admiring Goody had placed before him and for a few minutes devoted himself to it in complete silence. Ginger looked at her eyes that meant business, but the artist did not know Ginger Ella.

"I got the idea from a couple of college girls back East," he went on. "I was driving down with a chap from Boston to New York and they struck me for a lift. They were hitch-hiking for the week-end, but they weren't broke. They wore good clothes and had plenty of money. So we asked them what was the big idea anyhow and they said they stayed boozed up with chemistry and Greek for just so long and then they had to break loose for a private course in joie de vivre. I must say they were full of their subject."

Evening Herald Pattern

By Anabelle Worthington

Spring's gift is the lovely crepe printed silks, so smart, so fascinating and wearable for all-day occasions.

Today's dress delights in a plain crepe cowl yoked neckline. And it's amazing how charming and flattering this addition can be. The little flounced sleeve frills repeat the plain crepe in their lining.

This model is decidedly slimming and therefore suitable for many figures. The curved outline of the skirt seeming that tapers to the center-front waistline conceals hip breadth.

Style No. 2985 may be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

Plain flat crepe with contrasting shade and patterned and plain crepe wools are splendid combinations.

You will see one attractive style after another as you turn over the pages of our new Spring Fashion Book.

Styles for children or the miss, the matron, the stout—and a series of dressmaking articles. It is a book that will save you money.

Price of book 10 cents.

Price of pattern 15 cents.

Be sure to fill in the size of the pattern. Send stamps or coin (coin preferred).

Hints On How To Keep Well by World Famed Authority

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

The air that is inhaled through the nose and through the mouth, preferably the former, passes by means of the trachea or windpipe to some larger tubes known as bronchi, which then divide up into still smaller branches, from which the air passes into the cells of the lungs. The smaller branches are called bronchioles.

There are "vital" at the end of any word means an inflammation. Therefore, bronchitis is inflammation of the larger tubes, bronchiolitis is inflammation of the smaller ones.

When the air enters the nose it is warmed and otherwise modified. Thus solid particles which it contains, including carbon, dust, bacteria or other materials, adhere to the moist surfaces of the cavities through which the air passes.

The walls of the bronchial tubes are constantly covered with mucus and the whole respiratory tract has little hairs or cilia which wave in such a manner as to force foreign substances outward. When these substances reach the sensitive portions of the breathing tract, the coughing mechanism helps to throw the foreign substance outward.

There are cases, of course, in which the bacteria are not thrown out or in which their virulence is so great that they promptly infect the tissues.

Damage to the surface of the tubes may result by constantly inhaling dirty air, dust or gases. Inflammation of the surface may result from poisonous substances. Very large substances may actually lodge in the tubes and irritate them.

When these things happen the germs cause an infection and the result is an acute form of bronchitis or inflammation which may be a person with chronic bronchitis coughs constantly, particularly during the night when he is lying down the mucus tends to accumulate.

This mucus may be stained by carbon if the person lives in a smoky atmosphere, or if there is a considerable amount of pus, the mucus may be yellow or green.

A person with chronic bronchitis is usually tired and depressed. He may get out of breath because of the interference with his breathing in association with the absorption of the bacterial poisons there may be fever and a general reaction of the body.

Because of the difficulty in coughing, changes take place in the lungs whereby they become constantly partially distended with air. This brings about further difficulty of breathing and more wear on the heart because it is harder to get the proper amount of oxygen into the blood.

Obviously the treatment of bronchitis depends on many factors. A good climate is important since in this way the patient is relieved from the smoke and the fumes and the dust which keep his tissues constantly irritated.

Infections in the nose, throat and teeth as well as in the sinuses should be cleared up because they act to pour germs constantly into the lungs. There are various drugs which are eliminated by means of the respiratory mucus membranes when taken internally. These drugs have the value of combating the germs which may be on the surface of the mucus membranes.

There are other drugs which aid a free flow of mucus, thus serving to wash the surfaces of the mucus membranes free from the irritating materials. It is exceedingly important that the patient get plenty of rest and the attending physician can prescribe drugs which will be of great service in aiding sleep.

THIS AND THAT IN FEMININE LORE

The third lesson in the present series which Mrs. Arra Sutton Mixer is giving on consecutive Tuesday afternoons at the Manchester Community clubhouse was well attended, more than sixty women gathering in the small assembly hall. The subject of her lecture-demonstration was "Thirty-Minute Dinners" and leaflets with suggestions for four different menus were distributed. Dishes prepared and which the women present had an opportunity of sampling at the close of the lesson included: peppers with stuffing, sponge jelly roll, gingerbread upside-down cake. Each one was pronounced delicious. Two other recipes on the leaflets are also given, individual salmon puff and deviled lamb chops.

Sponge Jelly Roll

3 eggs.
1 c. sugar.
1-4 tsp. salt.
1 tsp. lemon.
1-4 c. cold water.
1 c. pastry flour.
2 tsp. hot butter.
2 tsp. baking powder.

Sift flour once, measure, add salt, baking powder and sift once more. Break eggs into bowl; beat to froth, add sugar, water, lemon and flour, beating thoroughly with egg beater after each ingredient enters bowl. Lastly, whip in butter and pour evenly and thinly into large shallow pan, 12x14 inches, which has been greased and dusted with flour. Bake at 400 degrees 12 minutes. Turn out on a cloth sprinkled with sugar and trim edges. Spread over with a layer of jam or jelly, working rapidly. Coax first roll gently, then finish rolling rapidly. Wrap in cloth for a while after rolling.

Individual Salmon Puffs

Add shredded salmon to a medium white sauce. Pour in greased custard cups. Cover with buttered crumbs. Mince cold potatoes. Add salt, pepper, bits of crisp bacon, put in greased pie plate and dot with butter. Bake these dishes at 400 degrees, 30 minutes.

Deviled Lamb Chops

1 tsp. salt.
1-2 tsp. butter.
2 tsp. oil.

Mix salt, pepper and oil, spread on both sides in hot buttered pan.

Remove from fire, spread on both sides with mixture made of:
1 tsp. dry mustard.
1 tsp. salt.
1-8 tsp. cayenne pepper.
1-8 tsp. paprika.
3 tsp. melted butter.
2 tsp. vinegar.
2 tsp. Worcestershire Sauce.
2 egg yolks.

Roll in buttered bread crumbs, place on grill pan; broil 20 minutes. Place 2 tomatoes cut in half lengthwise, 4 slices pineapple cut in half and rice croquettes on grill pan. Brush over with butter and broil with chops for 20 minutes.

Gingerbread Upside-Down Cake

Put hot apple sauce in baking pan. Cover with gingerbread mixture.
1 flour.
1-4 c. sugar.
1-4 tsp. salt.
3-8 tsp. soda.
1-2 tsp. baking powder, 1 egg.
1-4 c. molasses.
1-2 tsp. ginger.
1-2 tsp. nutmeg.
1-4 tsp. cinnamon.
1-2 tsp. fat.
1-2 c. sour milk.

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Beat sour milk and add molasses and well-beaten egg. Pour this into dry ingredients, mix well, then beat in melted fat. Pour over apple mixture. Bake at 400 degrees for 30 minutes. Serve with or without whipped cream.

Peppers With Stuffing

1 c. rice.
1 (5 3-4 oz.) can of deviled ham.
1-2 lb. American Cheese.
3 c. milk.
3 tsp. butter.
5 tsp. flour.
1-4 tsp. celery salt.
Salt and pepper.

Cook rice in salted boiling water until tender. Remove stems and seeds from peppers, split lengthwise and wash. Cut off tops and fill with stuffing. Sprinkle with crumbs or grated cheese. Bake at 400 degrees for 30 minutes. Add rest of cheese to white sauce, stir until cheese is melted, season well and serve with the peppers.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
© 1931 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Will a new necktie make Tommy stop teasing the cat, or a new hair ribbon make Myrtle practice any better? Perhaps they might.

In order to get on the safe ground of common sense, however, it is necessary to say that in order to keep Tommy a good boy, and Myrtle a dutiful girl, the parent should be the bureau drawer with expensive surprises. Even if it were possible the novelty would soon wear off.

But there is a psychology about clothes and neatness that affects behavior. It is the same psychology that keeps up a man's self respect if his suit is mended and pressed, no matter how old it is, the urge that lies behind the line of stockings and gloves in a woman's bathroom, the desire to appear neat only in the eyes of her friends but to know that she is well turned out herself.

It is the psychological phase of dressing that behooves me to write in the interests of the children, for it is something that develops in the individual very early in life. It is no special attribute of maturity.

A Perplexed Mother

Some time ago a certain mother, distressed about her boy's misconduct, came to me with her problem. When I saw the youngster himself later, I jumped to a conclusion immediately, for although his mother herself was as neat as wax the child might have come from the gutter as far as his appearance went, and he probably had. If his clothes were in a condition that matched the gutter, the law of attraction would carry him there.

His home was the medium-type American home where there was little extra money but plenty of water and soap.

His mother insisted that she tried to keep the boy clean, but couldn't. I know all about that problem, too. Nobody expects boys to look like collar ads. They do get dirty and tousled and all that. Who would want it otherwise?

But this boy was very dirty, very tousled, and very ragged. He lost his self-respect; it was plain. I told her as tactfully as I could that she might try sending him to school in his Sunday best for a day or two until his other clothes were cleaned up and mended.

A Schedule of Cleanliness

"Make him bathe every morning before school," I suggested. "Be sure he has a clean handkerchief, that his stockings are darned, his shoe laces tied, and no buttons are off his shirt. His old clothes can be fixed up for further wear, but observe if a few days of wearing his good clothes does not affect his conduct favorably. He will have something to live up to and perhaps he will surprise you."

Checking up later I found considerable improvement.

The advice was not new. I had given it with gratifying results in other cases.

We should start very early to train children to neatness, cleanliness, and the right kind of pride in dress and personal appearance. Boys and some girls go through a certain stage of carelessness but there is a difference. They will "come back" to early training.

If any mother feels futile and discouraged by the continual strain of keeping her family in order it may comfort her to know that this very impetus of good appearance is one of the most powerful forces in life. Her work is anything but in vain. But I should give the children their share in the responsibility—that is, half of it. Be sure to start them on the right road very, very early, until habit becomes character. Good behavior does not always dwell in the camp of the well-dressed, but exceptions never weaken a truth.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By Sister Mary

Scientists are constantly investigating and adding fresh data to facts about foods and nutrition. That "minerals" are a necessary factor in the diet has been an accepted principle for years and we drank milk for its lime and ate spinach for its iron. Now we are learning that copper should be present in small amounts if full benefit is to be derived from the iron content of foods.

Chemists have found that fresh calves' liver contains the most copper of all foods studied. All the animal livers are rich in copper; calves being the richest, beef next and pig liver third.

The University of Wisconsin has studied both the iron and copper contents of food in extended research. The results are interesting and decidedly helpful to home-makers when planning the family meals.

Dr. C. A. Elvehjem, one of the chemists of the Wisconsin laboratory, has arranged the following list of foods in regard to their copper content: nuts, dried legumes, cereal, dried fruits, poultry, fish, animal tissues, green legumes, roots, tubers, leafy vegetables, fresh fruits, and non-leafy vegetables.

The leafy vegetables, although rich in iron, are poor sources of copper. Milk is low in both iron and copper. Celery was found to have the lowest copper content of all the foods analyzed. Oysters have recently been recognized as important sources of copper.

In planning menus, it is necessary to keep in mind that one mineral is not effective without the other. Each mineral is dependent on the presence of some other mineral if the human body is to use it to its best advantage. The body makes better use of the lime in milk if iron is included in the diet and the iron gains increased potency by the addition of a food rich in copper.

Many other minerals enter into the science of foods and nutrition and investigators continue to seek definite knowledge of their uses in the body. For the present, the interested housewife must be satisfied with a rather limited report of the results.

The earth is said to weigh six sextillion (a six with 21 zeros after it) tons.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Isn't it a curious thing that all your friends will notice an added pound or two before you do? And, isn't it queer, too, that intimates, seeing you after a few months or years have elapsed, will notice that you have grown older, when you really feel just the same yourself? Check up on your beauty if you intend keeping it. You don't trust the laundry with your sheets and table linen without looking the package over and checking on it. How can you trust Time—the greatest thief of all—with your beauty, without checking it?

First of all, get that bathroom scales habit. I am not one who thinks women should grow raw-nerved and scrawny trying to look like their debutante daughters in slenderness. Each season of life has its own beauties. The mature woman looks better and feels better, with roundness to her figure, rather than angularity which by no means means like youth.

But I certainly do not like over-stuffed women. I think they hate themselves too. So, check up on what you yourself think is the normal weight for yourself, that weight at which you look best and feel best, and stay there. Nothing keeps you there the way the bathroom scales habit does. Cultivate it.

Next to the bathroom scales habit comes the honest-mirror habit. Now, personally, I believe every woman, once she has done her best in the confines of her own boudoir, should have a rose-shaded mirror, delicately, to glance into as she dashes out the front door. That will set her up and give her that confidence she needs. But, having that flattering

Action Without Harm Whenever Constipated

Here's a way to be rid of constipation and its ills—a way that works quickly, effectively, but gently.

A candy Cascaret at night—the next morning you're feeling fine. Breath is sweetened; tongue cleared; biliousness, headaches, dizziness, gas vanish. Repeat the treatment ing waste out of your system. See how appetite and energy return; how digestion improves.

The action of Cascarets is sure, complete, helpful to everyone. They are made from cascara, which doctors agree is actually strengthening bowel muscles. All drug stores have the 10c boxes.—Adv't.

91, He Choose Bride of 19

The figure 91, after all, is only turned around—so Aaron Fretz, Edmond, Okla., Civil War veteran, sees no reason why his marriage with Bertha Eckert shouldn't be a success. Fretz is 91 and his bride, who has been his housekeeper for the last two months, is 19. They are shown here together. The groom has three children by a former marriage, each past 50.

IF BABY HAS COLIC

COLIC comes suddenly. Your first intimation that something is wrong may be a warning cry in the night. If you have a bottle of Castoria handy you needn't worry, for a little of this pure vegetable remedy will soon have baby his happy self again; let him go back to sleep.

Castoria is always the sensible thing to give an illing child. When a child is restless, fretful, with coated tongue, bad breath and lack of appetite, it is a mother's standby. Most mothers give Castoria an important place in their homes. Ready for sour stomach, constipation, or upset. When buying Fletcher's Castoria always look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. This identifies the genuine product.

ROCKVILLE

Purchase Property
The building occupied by the E. H. Preston Co., was sold today to Harry W. Flamm of "The Royal." The property was acquired from the Hartford Connecticut Trust Company, executors of the estate of the late Mrs. E. Stevens Henry. This site was intended for a bank building for the People's Savings Bank, but the trustees decided not to build, and all rights to the property were given up.

The late E. H. Preston conducted a furniture store and undertaking establishment in the building for many years and about sixteen years ago, after the death of Mr. Preston, James R. Quinn purchased the business and rented the building.

Mr. Quinn, knowing he might have to leave at any time, purchased half interest in what is now known as the Quinn and Schaeffer block, at the corner of Elm street and Park Place. He has his undertaking business, a furniture store and The Ruby Shoppe in this block, and no doubt the remainder of his goods will be moved to his new place of business in the near future.

Mr. Flamm, when questioned on the subject, stated he would acquire the property today, but declined to discuss plans for the future.

Firemen's Fair Program
Although the Firemen's fair is not to be held until February 12, 13 and 14 at the Town Hall, Memorial Building, the committee has been very active completing plans for the entertainment program. One of the outstanding features of one of the evening's entertainment, will be the appearance of four-year-old Teresa Marie Thrall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Thrall of Meriden, whose mother was the former Miss Mary Scholl of Hale street, this city. The child appeared recently in a program in Meriden, at which 1,200 people were present.

The little miss appears in dancing and acrobatic numbers, which makes a big hit with any audience. The entertainment is being secured through the Clements Entertainment Bureau. Thursday night will include Ching-Ling Chu, Chinese magic act; Gallagher and Tann, two tramps from Hoboken. Friday, February 13, Boudini and Co., acrobaticists; Rudy Jordan and Co.; Harry Tomlin, rag picture artist. Saturday, February 14, Two National acrobats; George Gillette, humorist; dancing numbers, Teresa Marie Thrall.

Carlton Buckmaster and his orchestra have been engaged to furnish music for the three nights.

Heads Past Chiefs
At the last meeting of the Past Chiefs Club of Kiowa Council, Degree of Focubant, Mrs. Ellen Fias was elected president for the coming year. Other officers are as follows: Vice president, Mrs. Bertha Schaeffer; secretary, Mrs. Nellie Jackson; treasurer, Mrs. Carrie Kane. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ellen Fias on Union street, February 19, which is on a Thursday night, the date being changed on account of the Foresters anniversary.

Officers Named
The following officers of the Tolland County Welfare Organization have been announced: President, Lebbeus Bissell; vice president, Mrs. Fred Sykes of Stafford Springs; treasurer, Mrs. Anna Wells of Somers; secretary, Miss Mabel Sheridan of Manchester. Committees were named as follows: Membership, Mrs. Edward Yeomans, Andover, chairman; Mrs. Percy Bard of Stafford Springs and Mrs. I. Tilden Jewett of Tolland; program, Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welsh of Columbia, chairman; Mrs. Charles H. Allen, Rockville; Kenneth W. Messinger, Hartford; Mrs. Katherine McCarty, Rockville, and Mrs. Freeman Patten of Stafford Springs; social, Arthur Mosely of Stafford Springs, chairman; legislative, Mrs. I. Tilden Jewett, Tolland, chairman; publicity, Mrs. Fred Sykes, Stafford; Mrs. William McBee, Willington; Mrs. Alexander Bunce, Bolton; Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welsh, Columbia; Mrs. Stimpson, Tolland; Miss Mabel Mathews, Mansfield; Miss Katherine McCarty, Rockville; Mrs. Louis Gowdy, Somersville; Mrs. Mattie Barr, Ellington; Mrs. Winton, South Coventry; Mrs. Benton, Andover, and Mrs. I. Tilden Jewett of Tolland.

Mrs. Cratty Injured
Mrs. Lottie Cratty of Cottage street, widow of Patrick J. Cratty, was badly bruised on Tuesday evening in East Hartford. She was awaiting a trolley at the corner of Burnside avenue and Elm street and as she stepped out to signal the car, an auto driven by William Briggs of 26 Beach street, Hartford, approached. He applied the brakes, the car skidded and hit Mrs. Cratty. She was taken to the home of her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Walker on Burnside avenue and was attended by Dr. H. B. Haylett. Policeman John Fitzgerald investigated the case and Briggs was held for court on a charge of failing to notify the Motor Vehicle Department of a change of address.

Mrs. Cratty narrowly escaped being thrown under the trolley car. She will be laid up for some time.

"Red Acre Farm"
"Red Acre Farm," a comedy in three acts was successfully presented at the Ellington Town Hall on Wednesday evening under the auspices of Ellington Grange Dramatic Club. The play was directed by Robert Greenwood. Many people from all over the county were present.

It was the story of a family in meager circumstances soon to be foreclosed upon for the mortgage on their home.

It is expected the comedy will be presented elsewhere in the near future.

Good Will Card Party
The Good Will Club of St. John's Episcopal church will hold a public card party in the parish rooms on Friday evening, February 6. Anyone wishing to attend can make up their own table. For reservations call Mrs. Franklin Harlow, Mrs.

Winnie Goldstraw or Miss Priscilla Backofen. Prizes will be given at each table.

Committee Appointed
The following committee has been named to take charge of the February meeting of the Mothers' Club of Union church: Mrs. A. J. Costello, Mrs. Alfred Neumann, Mrs. Otto Kasulke, Mrs. Bessie Heck, Mrs. Thomas Ryan, Mrs. Anna Bilson and Mrs. Bernard Woodley.

Library Officers Elected
William Maxwell, secretary of the Rockville Public Library for the past forty years, declined re-election at the annual meeting held on Wednesday, and his successor is Frederick N. Belding. Colonel Francis T. Maxwell was re-elected president, Charles Phelps vice president and the Rockville National Bank, treasurer.

In the report of the librarian, Miss Edith Peck, there is shown an increase in the number of books circulated and also in the number of books available to the public.

Broken Ribs
James B. Quinn has two broken ribs as the result of a fall from a board while visiting the scene of the ruins of his summer home, which was destroyed by fire last week.

Named Director
Colonel Francis T. Maxwell of this city was recently elected a director of the First National Bank of Hartford. Denison C. Talcott was elected a new director of the bank. Charles Bottomley of Ellington avenue, this city, was re-elected a director of the Capitol National Bank of Hartford.

Notes
Lewis Chapman has returned from a trip to Boston, Mass.

Albert Hannawald is at the Hartford hospital under observation. One of the outstanding features of the evening's entertainment, will be the appearance of four-year-old Teresa Marie Thrall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Thrall of Meriden, whose mother was the former Miss Mary Scholl of Hale street, this city. BANK ATTORNEY ASKS TO BE QUESTIONED

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP.)—Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr. had before him today a request from Isidore J. Kresel that he be examined immediately in the investigation of the closed Bank of United States.

During testimony brought out yesterday by Max D. Steuer, investigator of the bank, Kresel's name was mentioned among a group described as controlling the bank.

The institution has no connection with the United States government.

Kresel was attorney for and a director of the bank and is now conducting an appellate division inquiry into New York's Magistrates' Courts. He wrote Bennett he was unwilling to be silent while "baseless statements designed to reflect on me are disseminated."

David Tishman and Joseph C. Brownstone, members of the bank's board, testified yesterday that directors were permitted to borrow as much as 23 times their deposits. Steuer, who is conducting the inquiry as deputy attorney general and assistant district attorney, said directors "were the only people who could not lose a nickel by the bank's failure."

BIG FISH AND PLENTY TAKEN THROUGH ICE

Warden Luettgens Says Long Time Ponds Have Been Frozen Accounts For It.

Deputy Game Warden Walter E. Luettgens is authority for the statement that a great amount of fish is being taken from the ponds in all sections of the state. This is true in the territory in which he has supervision and from other deputies he has been informed that like reports are being received.

The long period this winter in which the ice has been solid enough to allow continued fishing through the ice has resulted in many more fishermen getting out. Not only are there many fish being caught, but there is an unusually large number of large fish being taken from the waters in the state.

BUCKLAND SETBACK

With but one more sitting to be played next week, the Buckland Setback tournament will come to a close. The Democrats are leading with a score of 1,450, but they are the only team that has not punched or served on the floor. The All Stars, with a score of 1,411 are in second place or only thirty-nine points behind and as they are leading the team in third place by sixty-four points they are sure to be the winners as the Democrats cannot add to their score.

The standing after last night's session was as follows: Democrats, 1,450; All Stars, 1,411; Optimists, 1,347; Keeney's, 1,323; Hackett's, 1,290; Four Roses, 1,274; Sons of Rest, 1,259; Hartman's, 1,251; Buckland, 1,219; Foley's, 1,213; Wapping, 1,202. Bascom and Schoisky were high men with scores of 103 and Gus Magnuson and Conroy were runners-up with 94.

WARD CHENEY CAMP PLANS ACTIVE YEAR

First Meeting Held Last Night Develops Enthusiasm Over Social Program.

Ward Cheney Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, held its first regular meeting of the new year at the State Armory last evening. Commander Arthur Keating who assumes leadership for the third time, reports a good attendance of the comrades and considerable enthusiasm over plans for social activities for the year 1931. The first event will be an old-fashioned party in Tinker hall, such as the veterans used to give in Cheney hall in years past. Later the camp will give one of the famous beanbakes and dances with entertainment numbers, which it is expected will attract comrades and auxiliary members from surrounding towns.

Ward Cheney Camp now has an auxiliary with more than 50 members and believe it is time they should help to bring their patriotic work before the public. All friends will be welcome to attend any of these socials in prospects. Committees and dates will be announced later.

Commander Keating invites all who served in the Spanish War who are not now members of the camp, to join and do their bit for good legislation and the upbuilding of Americanism. The camp was organized in 1908 in Cheney Hall with nearly 30 members and after 23 years many of the veterans are still in active work for the organization, whose object is loyalty to country and state. A number of the present members of the camp served in Cuba, Porto Rico or the Philippines during the Spanish-American War. Commander Keating suggests that the definition of Americanism formulated a few years ago by the American Legion and other patriotic bodies, be repeated here: "Americanism is an unflinching love of country, loyalty to its institutions and ideals, eagerness to defend it against all enemies, undivided allegiance to the flag and a desire to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and posterity."

Shipments of bottled beverages in 1929 in the United States were valued at $267,000,000.

CONSTIPATION BRINGS MANY ILLS

Did you know that constipation often brings despondency? Poisons spread through the system. You lack pep. Headaches become frequent. No wonder you have the "blues."

Yet constipation can be overcome by having sufficient roughage in your diet. A pleasant way to obtain this roughage is through eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

You will enjoy this delicious cereal. And how much better for you than taking habit-forming laxatives.

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN, eaten daily, will relieve and prevent both temporary and recurring constipation.

ALL-BRAN also contains needed iron to build up the blood. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

NOTORIOUS "YELLOW KID" IS AGAIN IN TROUBLE

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 23.—(AP)—The "Yellow Kid," Joseph Well, faced two hurdles on the path to freedom from jail today, both of them charges of operating confidence games.

Harry Maule, a Racine, Wis., contractor, had Well and a companion, Fred Buckminster, arrested in Chicago Wednesday on a charge of fleecing him of $6,500. They denied the charge.

Another complainant, Edward R. Gilsdorf, 68, arranged to view Well today in hope of verifying his opinion, formed from newspaper and detective bureau photographs, that Well was one of three men who took $150,000 from him last spring in Reno, Nev.

Gilsdorf told police a man, whom he believed was Well, scraped an acquaintance with him in a Hot Springs, Ark., hotel, introduced him to a "former judge" who was about to "lose his position as handicapper with a racing association for giving tips to his friends," and was persuaded to bet on horse races.

He said he won $150,000 with funds advanced by the first man but the "bookie" refused to pay until he showed cash to that amount as evidence of good faith. He returned to Chicago and sold mortgages and bonds, he said, but the three stalled him off during a trip to Reno and took the money during a night visit to a mountain cabin.

NEW STATE FOREST

New Haven, Jan. 23.—(AP)—A valuable tract of forest land in Toland, near the West Willington Station, has been added to the system of State forests. The land is the gift of Mrs. William H. Hall of South Willington and its acceptance by State Forester Austin F. Hawes in behalf of the state was announced today.

The property which contains 186 acres and the birthplace of Mrs. Hall, will be known in accordance with the wishes of its donor as the Nye-Holman Demonstration Forest in memory of her maternal grandparents and her father. It is located on the Rockville-Willington highway and has considerable frontage on the Willimantic river. Mrs. Hall's birthplace will be repaired and used as headquarters for the Soapstone and Nipmuck State Forests.

State Forester Hawes said the property has excellent facilities for forestry demonstration purposes; while Robert M. Rose, forester of the Connecticut Forest and Park Association described the gift as a very valuable piece of land.

FREIGHT TRAIN DERAILED

Fitchburg, Mass., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Four cars of a Boston-bound freight train were derailed and overturned when a brake rigging broke a half mile from the local station of the Boston & Maine railroad today. No one was injured, but rail traffic was tied up for three hours.

McNEAR-MURASKI

Miss Stephanie M. Muraski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Muraski of 98 School street, was married Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock to Charles H. McNear, son of Mrs. Charles McNear of Windsor Locks. The ceremony took place at St. James' church at 9 o'clock. Rev. W. P. Reidy, the rect-r, officiated.

The bride was attended by Miss Irene McNear, sister of the bridegroom. The best man was George Taylor of Hartford.

The bride wore a gown of white satin, with veil of tulle which fell from a cap of lace and orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and sweet peas.

Miss McNear was attired in pink silk crepe and carried an arm bouquet of Butterfly roses.

Following the ceremony at the church a reception was held for the members of the immediate families at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. McNear on their return from a wedding trip will live on Wolcott Hill road, Hartford.

common foe to drive suffering and want from our country.

John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross; Mrs. August Belmont, Mary Pickford and Will Rogers emphasized need for speedy relief.

President Hoover and Mr. Payne spoke from Washington, Mr. Coolidge from his home at Northampton, Mass., Mr. Smith, Mrs. Belmont and Miss Pickford from New York and Will Rogers from Little Rock, Ark., a stopover point on his airplane tour of the south in quest of funds.

The addresses were transmitted by NBC over WEAF and WJZ.

TRIO BURNED TO DEATH

Mont Alto, Pa., Jan. 23—(AP)—Two children were burned to death and their mother and baby sister critically burned in a fire which destroyed their home early today.

The dead are Martha, 14, and Richard, 10. Children of Roy Brechvill. Mrs. Brechvill and Bertha, aged 2, are in a hospital.

BIG BRISTOL BLAZE

Bristol, Jan. 23—(AP)—Every available fireman in this city summoned by three alarms early today battled for over an hour in freezing weather a fire which badly damaged a three story brick building at West and School streets. Damage estimated at $25,000 resulted.

The fire, the cause of which was undetermined, is believed to have started in a barber shop owned by Ernest Bergeron. Mrs. Eleanor St. Cyr and her family were forced into the street in scanty attire as the flames reached their second story tenement.

Damage estimated at $15,000 resulted to the building which is owned by Mae E. Cowles of Plantsville.

Now that the Soviets are shipping electric light bulbs expect some writers to make light of the fact.

RED CROSS BROADCAST

New York, Jan. 23—(AP)—A Red Cross plea for $10,000,000 to aid drought sufferers in 21 states,—led by President Hoover, in a remarkable coast to coast radio broadcast last night—lay on the heart of the nation today. On a program picked up from four widely separated cities, former President Calvin Coolidge and Alfred E. Smith, former governor of New York, supplemented Mr. Hoover in urging "that in the face of calamity lets unit in

MANCHESTER'S EXEMPTED LIST NEAR FIVE MILLIONS

Schools Chief Item With Churches and Societies Next—Soldiers and Sailors Exemption Included.

Manchester has exempted property to the amount of $4,774,807 in addition to the grand list of $32,867,969, or a total valuation of property within the town limits of $37,642,776. Taxes can only be collected on the grand list of $32,867,969 and it is on this amount that the rate of tax is set.

In the list of exemptions, $459,277, or about ten per cent, is allowed to sailors, soldiers and the blind, an amount that if added to the town's millage is equal to about nine mills. The chief items of exemption are schools which have been valued at $1,431,076, and the town-owned property valued at $1,401,411.

The next chief item of exemption is churches and societies, which are tabulated as amounting to $1,217,200. While this is a large item it is less than would have been the case had the old method of assessing been followed. Instead of granting full exemption for all grounds back yards of churches as was once the case when horse sheds were the rule they are not taxed. Such is not the case today as any church owning such kind of property which is a source of revenue are not allowed exemption any more.

The plaintiff in the case refused to be interviewed, referring the matter to her attorney, E. V. Newton of Worcester. Mr. Newton could not be reached by phone last evening, but it is understood that several moves in mind which will surprise the defense.

ON TRIP TO CALIFORNIA MEETS FORMER RESIDENT

Edward Elliott, Sr., who sailed three weeks ago today from New York for California, his destination just two weeks after sailing. The trip was from New York to Cuba and through the Panama Canal to the Pacific and up the coast to California. The boat sailed from New York at 11 o'clock and was just 11 o'clock two weeks later when it docked in Wilmington.

He made known his arrival by telegram a week ago and since that time has written telling how he enjoyed the trip and pointed out in the letter just how small a world this is after all.

On board the boat he came in contact with a former resident of Manchester, James Metcalf, who made his home in Manchester until thirty years ago living on Winter street. He has been a resident of Paterson, N. J., for thirty years, and like Mr. Elliott was taking a vacation trip. They became pals aboard the ship, which added to the enjoyment as there was much that both could talk about concerning Manchester of forty to fifty years ago and the residents of those days.

BLAST STARTS BLAZE Westport, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Fire starting from an exploding gasoline stove late yesterday swept through the home of Robert C. Shall here, resulting in damage estimated at $20,000.

The explosion occurred as Shall completed installation of the stove. He was hurled across the kitchen and burned slightly about the face but was able to run to the telephone and call the fire department. A fireman rescued jewelry and clothing belonging to Mrs. Shall.

The fire spread from the kitchen through the upper floors and completely across the attic.

DEFENDANT DENIES

HE IS AFRAID OF JURY

Samuel Nelson, Jr., Principal In Tall Cedars of Lebanon Mock Trial Is Interviewed.

The rumor that Samuel Nelson, Jr., well known business man, defendant in the breach of promise suit to be tried in High School hall, evening, had left town may be authoritatively denied. Mr. Nelson was found at his home by a representative of The Herald today and readily consented to make a statement.

"Far from intending to avoid facing the handsome jury," said Mr. Nelson, "I am only too desirous of appearing before them, and am confident that I shall walk from the courtroom a vindicated man, and the base conspiracy, engineered by an out of town alleged lawyer to milt me of my hard earned wealth will fail."

Mr. Nelson said that he was enjoying his usual good health and partaking of his usual six or seven meals per day, with an occasional lunch between, but it was noted by The Herald representative that his eyes had a haunted look, while the trembling of his hands indicated that he was under a severe nervous strain.

The plaintiff in the case refused to be interviewed, referring the matter to her attorney, E. V. Newton of Worcester. Mr. Newton could not be reached by phone last evening, but it is understood that several moves in mind which will surprise the defense.

METEOR IS SEEN

IN NEW ENGLAND

northeast and that flashes of light shot out from it as though it were disintegrating. John E. Morse of South Newfane, Vt., and his wife said it appeared to be about the size of a large automobile headlight. It disappeared with an audible explosion far to the north.

Charles Earle, 14, an amateur astronomer of Atlantic City, N. J., said the meteor, which appeared to him about half the size of the moon, crossed the sky from east to west. He said it was visible for about 15 seconds. It was bright red, with a tail of dark red and yellow. He estimated the length of the tail as about 20 times the diameter of the body of the meteor.

Professor Carolina Furness of the Astronomical Department of Vassar College at Poughkeepsie, said the meteor probably was of the type known as a fire ball, similar to the one observed November 19. She said meteors of that type seldom hit the earth but are consumed before they reach it. The meteor was seen to the southwest of Poughkeepsie traveling in a westerly direction a short distance above the horizon.

MILITARY RECEPTION

Hartford, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The governor's staff is instructed in special orders issued by the office of the state adjutant general to be in attendance upon Governor W. L. Cross in New Haven on February 16 when a military reception and hall will be given in his honor by the Second Company, Governor's Foot Guard.

ABOUT TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. George Betts of Spruce street have gone to Florida for a stay of a month.

Mrs. Andrew Northrop of North Main street is in Springfield, Mass. She was called there yesterday by the death of a niece.

The report of temperature varied from five below to eighteen above this morning. While there was a big difference of opinion just what was the correct reading it was the unadvised opinion of all that it was cold.

Arthur L. Hultman and Earl Clifford of Hultman's are both confined to their homes with the grip.

The monthly meeting of the town school board, adjourned from 9:30 this morning until 2 o'clock this afternoon with only current bills to dispose of. The petition of residents of the west part of the Seventh District for transportation of children has not as yet come before the State School Board, which will not meet for action for another ten days. As questions of this kind are decided by the State Board after an appeal has been taken from town school boards there was nothing to present to the meeting on this question.

People who happened to be on Main street at 7:15 this morning would have been treated to a parade in which three per cent of the horses in Manchester took part. The horses in the parade were all owned by L. T. Wood, local ice dealer, and were on their way to Globe Hollow Pond. The total number of horses in Manchester, according to assessors' figures is 265, and Mr. Wood had eight of them on Main street this morning.

The monthly meeting of the Hartford County American Legion posts and auxiliaries will take place Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Foot Guard hall, Hartford.

Hose Company No. 1 of the Manchester Fire Department at its special meeting last evening made plans for its annual banquet and ladies' night program. The committee pointed to engage an orchestra, caterer and to attend to other details of the affair is as follows: William Griffin, chairman; Joseph Shonesski, Lawrence Mooney, Walter Moske, Chief Edward Coleman, Frank Brennan and Thomas Scott. The banquet and dance will take place at the fire headquarters, Main and Hilliard streets, and the exact date in February will be announced later.

The Young People's branch of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet this evening at 7:30 at the home of Dr. Elbert Shelton, 105 Chestnut street.

STATE COP FINDS

MOTHER MURDERED

a room in a hotel in Rome on Wednesday. Suits' throat was cut with a butcher knife.

Three times yesterday the Suits home here was searched for Mrs. Manning but without result. The body was found this morning. The woman's son collapsed at the sight of his mother's body. Manning, who learned only two or three weeks ago that his mother had come from Mount Vernon a month ago to take up duties as house-keeper for Suits, visited Mrs. Manning Sunday, the last time he saw her alive.

Neighbors had not seen the woman about the house since Monday afternoon and after the finding of the body of Suits in Rome they communicated with police.

The first search of the home yesterday by police revealed that Mrs. Manning apparently had packed up her belongings preparatory to leaving the house. The packed suitcase was found.

Then they found several towels in the bathroom that appeared to be stained with blood. This spurred them on to an intensified search and convinced them that the woman had been killed.

In Suits' automobile police found two bloodstained blankets. After returning and again searching the Suits home, they were about to give up when discovery of a turned up edge of a piece of linoleum in the kitchen led them to the trap door. The body was jammed into the small space below.

IMPROVE ARMOY FLOOR FOR BALL

Masonic Dance Patrons To Be Assured of Best Conditions This Year.

When the 20th annual Masonic Ball gets under way at the State Armory, Monday evening, February 16, at 9 o'clock, those who are planning to attend can rest assured that the spacious floor will be in the best condition possible to obtain the utmost enjoyment out of dancing to the strains of the Pickwick Arms orchestra. The floor will be conditioned by a committee, headed by Harry Bissell.

The decorations of the Armory are being taken care of by L. N. Heebner and will be announced in a few days. Walter Waddell is in charge of the refreshments and the great size of the affair much easier to handle than in years past. The seats at Cheney Hall will be brought to the Armory for the occasion.

In engaging the Pickwick Arms orchestra of eleven pieces the Masonic Ball Committee has the highest general quality to her dancing made last year in mind, and the favorable impression last year is expected to go a long way towards swelling the attendance at the ball to the well over five hundred couples. Herbert L. Tenney is general chairman of this year's ball.

enter the school until she was ten years old, however.

Her frail delicate body, which in the years to come was to be so much admired and was to give a peculiar ethereal quality to her dancing, the girl considered a liability and it is said that she took cod liver oil in a futile attempt to gain weight.

Her first appearance in London was made in 1910 at the Palace theater with Michael Mordkin. She scored an immediate success in the "Swan," "Butterflies," "Valse Caprice" and other dances and was acclaimed as the sensation of the century. She went to Paris, and also scored a triumph and then crossed the Atlantic to New York.

Her American debut was made with Mordkin on March 1, 1910, in Coppelia. The performance, which was at the Metropolitan Opera House, did not begin until after 11 p. m. It lasted until after one a. m., the next morning, but the spectators, forgetting the fatigue remained to give her an ovation.

Pavlova traveled extensively. She danced all over the world; and everywhere where she was acclaimed, as the greatest ballerina since Marie Taglioni, Fannie Elslser, and Carlotta Grisi, of the first part of the Nineteenth Century. After several years association she and her partner, Mordkin separated, gossip ascribing the estrangement to professional jealousy.

She never cared for Isadora Duncan, and considered the modern talkies and movies as "killing the true dance, the most beautiful of all the arts." Swans and shoes were her hobbies. She is said to have gained the inspiration for her famous dance by watching swans in a public park at St. Petersburg. She had many pairs of especially made shoes which she would not allow anyone else to touch.

Her last appearance in the United States was in 1924-25, but she was planning to return this year or next with Escudero, partner of the Argentine dancer, La Argentina.

In the course of her 1924-25 tour Pavlova announced, at Boston, that she and her accompanist, Victor D'Andre, had been married. Later in London she revealed that the marriage had taken place seventeen years before.

She had very little to say about her private life, insisting always that to the public the artist was an "illusion" and that she would do nothing to shatter the image. She said that Pavlova was wife and an artist, the artist were two separate beings which she intended to keep distinct.

Pavlova left Russia prior to the revolution and did not return thereafter. Of late years she was understood to have incurred the antagonism of the Soviet authorities who considered her a friend of the bourgeoisie and capitalist classes.

DESCRIBES TEACHING IN SCOTTISH SCHOOLS

SENSE AND NONSENSE

THE WIFE
 If to all your folks she's sweet,
 Cooks the things you like to eat—
 Tho she drives from the back seat—
 Still, she loves you;
 When she runs to get your pipe,
 Likes your jokes, the over-ripe,
 Then you know you're just her type—
 And she loves you!

When with golfbug you are cursed
 And she says your health comes first—
 Tho in loneliness she's versed—
 Then she loves you;
 If she looks like she could cry
 When you don't kiss her good-bye,
 Never ask the reason why—
 For she loves you!

If she greets you with a grin,
 Never waves the rolling pin—
 When your alibi is thin—
 Then she loves you;
 Tho the dinner is a loss
 When you're late—if she's not cross
 But still feeds you "applesauce"—
 Then she loves you!

When she buttons up your coat,
 Puts the muffler 'round your throat,
 And your overshoes you tote—
 Then she loves you;
 Tho your hair is turning gray
 And you're lame as old dog Tray,
 And she's jealous anyway—
 Then she loves you!

Passenger—Have I time to say goodbye to my wife?
 Conductor—I don't know, sir, how long have you been married?

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS

Some folks like to be rocked to sleep—others prefer smooth sailing.

long have you been married?
 They've invented a camera one hundred and fifty times faster than the ordinary, so now they can take movies of the modern girl.

Jake—What kind of a party was it?
 Fred—Well, at about 1:30 a. m. the automatic fire sprinklers started to work.

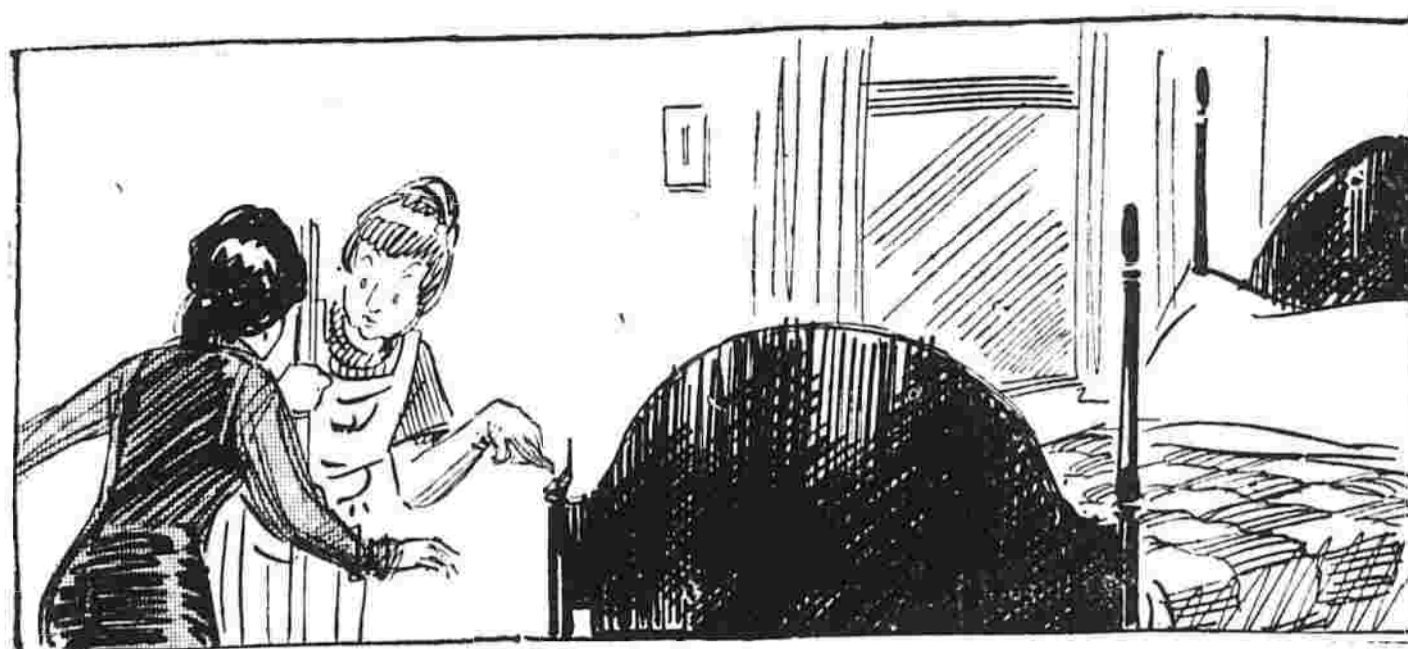

People who do most for the public are appreciated least by the public.

Charity begins at home. Very often cutting down the wife's allowance.

Neighbor—Mary, how do you like the new baby at your house?
 Little Mary—It's a scream.

A lot of radio artists might better be put under the ether than on it.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.)

The little duck boys stopped and smiled. Said Clowdy, "Say, are those ducks wild? And if they are, why don't they fly right out and get away? Or, maybe they are scared they'd fall. They don't seem worried. Not at all. I think it's mighty fine how, in the baskets, they all stay."

"They're trained," replied the little lad. "If they'd escape, it would be sad. You see, I'm bound for market where some money I will get. Perhaps they like to ride like this 'cause nothing ever goes amiss. I've never lost a single duck. Each one is like a pet."

"They're pets?" Wee Clowdy spoke again. "I'd think you'd hate to sell them then. Whenever I have owned a pet, I learned to love it. Gee! I wouldn't let it get away. Right with me it would always stay. How can you give those fine ducks up, I really cannot see."

The boy looked sad, and slowly sighed. In just a moment he replied, "I never want to give them up, but have to, anyway. You see, we sell the fine duck meat for money so that we can eat. We buy all of our groceries with what I get every day."

Then Clowdy tried to pet a duck. He really didn't have much luck. At first it tried to bite him. Then it quacked and quacked real loud. Clowdy looked astonished. He was just as frightened as could be. The way he jumped away and stared amazed the Tynymites.

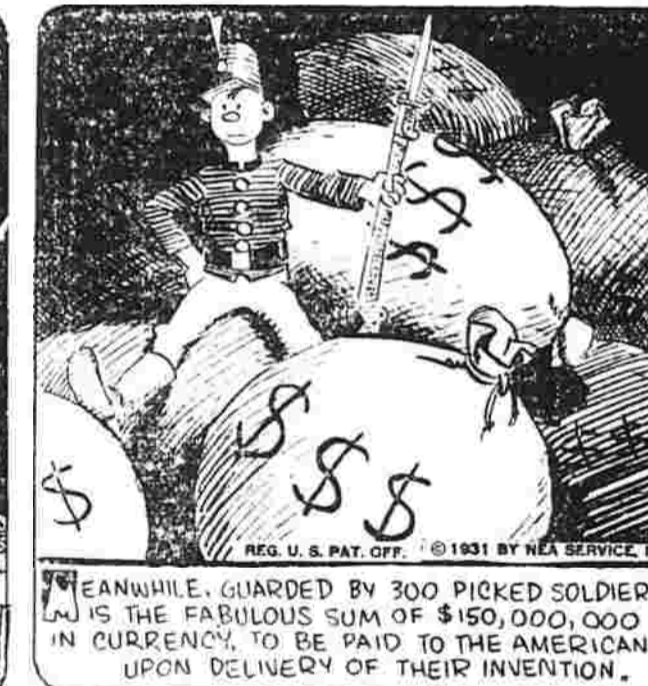

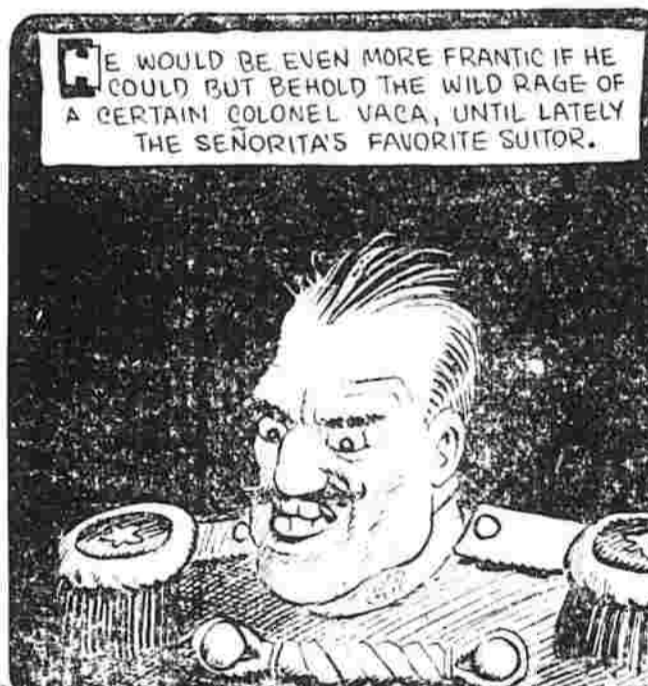

"Just wait," cried Clowdy. "You can bet that I will boldly pet him yet. He tried again and then the duck stood high upon its feet. The next thing that the Tynymites knew, into the air the mad duck flew. It landed right near Clowdy and went running down the street."

(The Tynymites see some more strange sights in the next story.)
