

ROY YOUNG BACKS SECRETARY MELLON Head of Boston Federal Reserve Against Cash For War Veterans.

Washington, Jan. 30.—(AP).—Governor Roy Young of the Boston Federal Reserve bank today predicted a raise in discount rates by the reserve system would follow issuance of government bonds to cash veterans compensation certificates.

Following J. Herbert Case, chairman of the New York Federal Reserve bank, the former governor of the Federal Reserve Board, told the House ways and means committee that if the government issued securities to convert three and one-half billion dollars worth of bonds now held by the veterans "I would predict that the Reserve system would be compelled to raise its own rates eventually to protect its own position."

BUTLER IS PREPARING COURT MARTIAL DEFENSE

In the seclusion of his home and would not talk for publication. Lieut. Lucian C. Whitaker, aide to the general, said he knew of no plans by Butler regarding the court martial proceedings.

General Butler has done spectacular things. As a young marine officer he risked his life to rescue a wounded British soldier in China. He also dared death to go to Mexico City as a spy when the war with that country seemed certain during Wilson's administration.

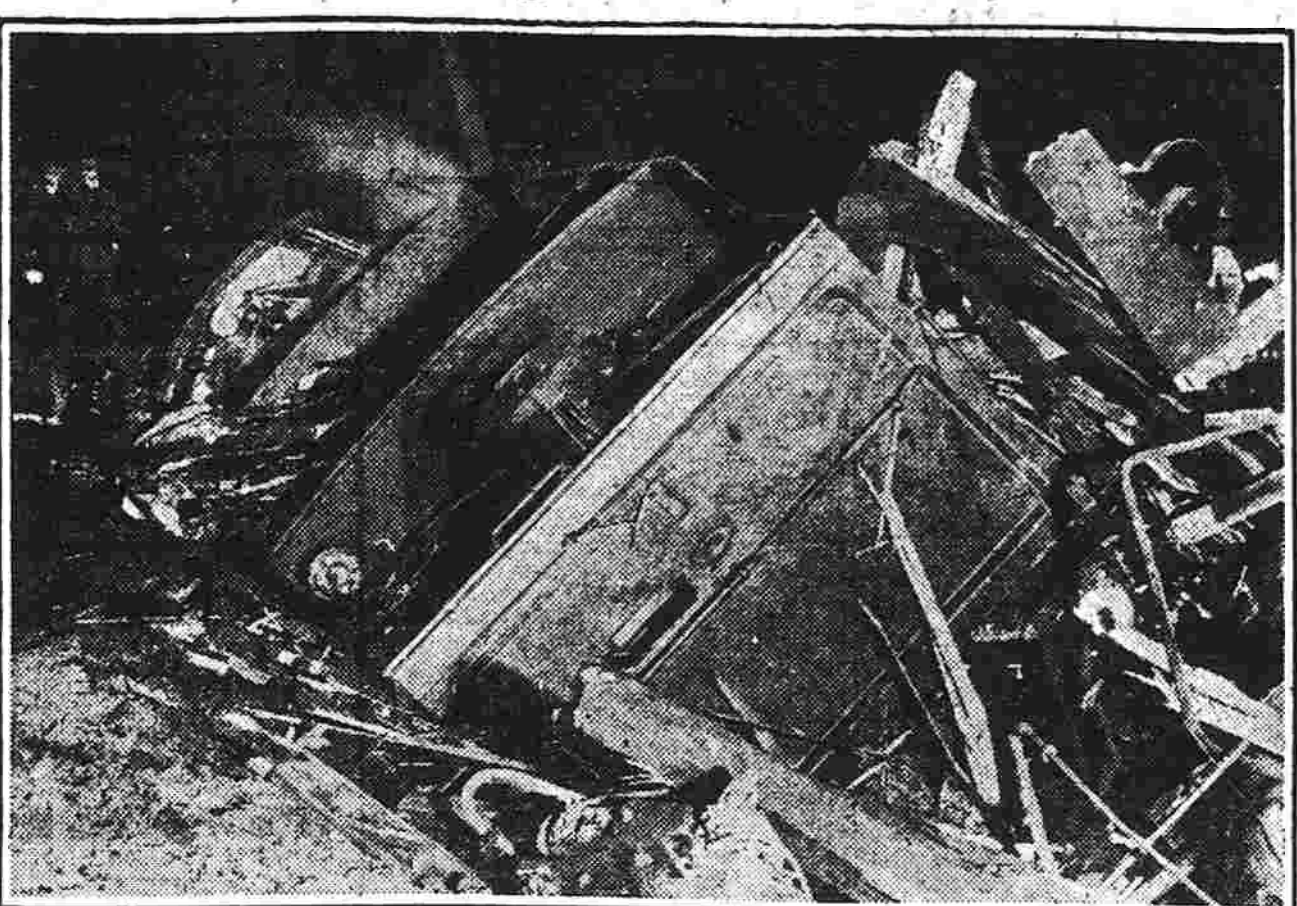

EARLY RUMORS Washington, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Washington early today wondered if Major General Smedley D. Butler's spectacular and dramatic career in the Marine Corps, capped by an official State Department apology to the Italian government had been ended by resignation.

Rumors to the effect that Butler had resigned crept persistently into the capital's discussions of his present difficulties, due to a speech in which he made remarks considered derogatory to Premier Mussolini.

Not First Offense Butler's speech, by no means the first to bring him into conflict with his superior officers was made in Philadelphia, January 19. He was quoted as saying Mussolini had run over a child with his car and driven on. He gave an unnamed friend as his authority.

ITALY'S REACTION Rome, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The annoyance of Premier Mussolini over remarks of General Smedley Butler, describing him as "hit-run" and of a warlike nature was said in official circles today to have been assuaged by the American government apology for the marine officer's words. The Duke was reported as considering now that General Butler's views were those of only one American general and not of the American people and to be thoroughly satisfied with the promptness of the official American apology, which appears to have closed what might have been an unpleasant incident.

Evening papers of yesterday issued after the apology became public, did not comment on the incident but morning papers were incensed. LaTribuna described the Marine officer's remarks as insolent, impudent and ridiculous.

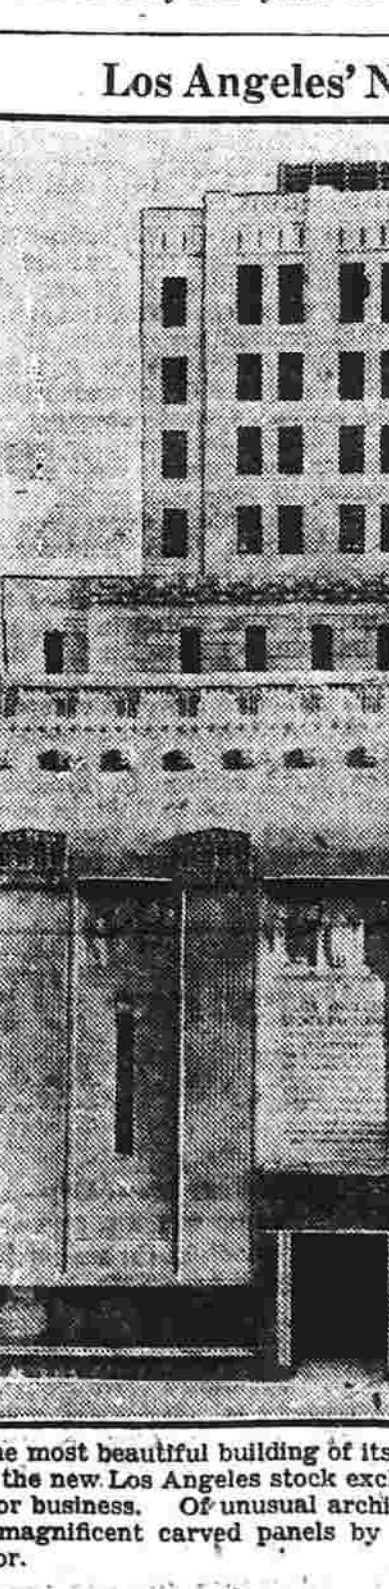

MUSSOLINI'S ANSWER Washington, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini cabled to Italian Ambassador de Martino today he had felt sure that he would obtain "just and prompt redress from the fairness, the loyalty and the friendship of the American government and the American people whose respect for the truth is well known to me."

ADmits HE TRIED TO HELP KEN GOFF Providence, Jan. 30.—(AP)—A new twist was given the Evening Bulletin's series of stories on the Kenneth Goff case today when that newspaper published an admission by Charles Strome, executive secretary of the Holy Cross Alumni Association, that he had written to Congressman George R. Stobbs of Worcester in behalf of the Rhode Island state backfield star, as an applicant for a West Point appointment from the Worcester district.

HOSPITAL FUNDS An appropriation bill for all hospitals in the state receiving direct aid from the State was put in. Among amounts allotted were these: Home Memorial $5,400; Manchester, $5,850; Charlotte Hungerford $7,200; Bristol, $8,000; Griffin, Derby, $8,160; Greenwich $9,200; Danbury, $9,380; Meriden $10,500; Backus, $10,850; Norwalk, $11,130; Lawrence Memorial $12,530; New Britain $15,470; St. Mary's, $16,250; Stamford $17,355; Waterbury $19,525.

Other bills were: Consolidation of New Canaan borough and town; for voting machines in Ansonia, raising the gasoline tax a cent a gallon; forbidding issuance of an operator's license to a driver who has been convicted of drunken driving; raising a commission to study teachers pensions; for the state treasurer to issue $15,000,000 bonds for bridges and highways, ten percent of which would be retired by the motor vehicle department; $300,000 for a trade school in New Haven

ASSEMBLY BILL WOULD CREATE PROBING BOARD

Joseph P. Lawrence, (D) of Stamford. The resolution directs the attorney general to bring original action in the Supreme Court for the purpose of "testing the validity of said alleged 18th Amendment" on the grounds that it is "unconstitutional and void" and has no proper place in the Constitution. It attacked validity of the amendment, on the ground that it deprives the people of the inalienable right to regulate their democratic affairs.

MEAVOY Re-elected Frank F. Meavoy of Waterbury was re-elected a judge of the Superior Court, on nomination of the governor, the Senate vote being 27 and the House vote 233, with no dissent.

Several bills relating to the state prison and to carry out the recommendations of the commission on which inquired into that institution, were put in by Senator Leete. These relate to parole powers, duties of the prison teacher, establishing of a state farm, and erection of a new receiving ward.

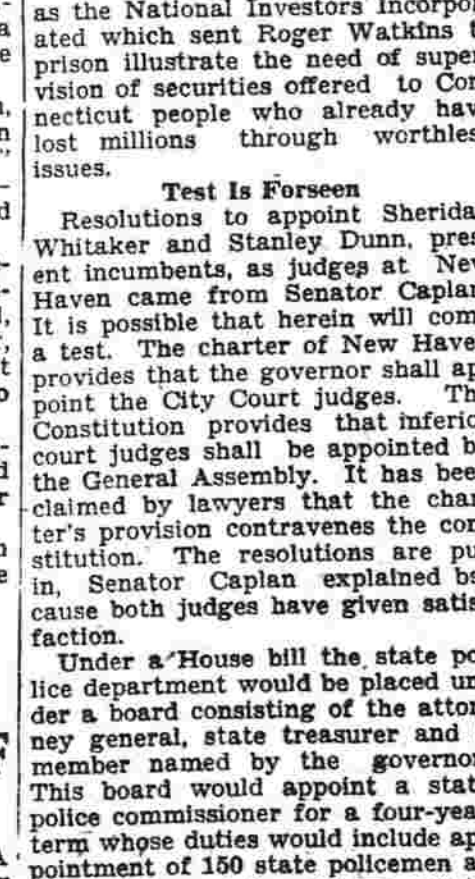

Pension System The commission of last session which has studied a retirement plan for state employees reported through Senator Smith who was one of six on that commission. It would set up a pension system which would retire employees having 20 years or more of service at the age of 65 for men and women, although the former may work until 75 and women till 68.

Other House Bills Danbury bills included: Authorizing clerk of City court to prosecute in the absence of the court attorney; $350,000 school bond issue; appointment of court officer, probation officer and stenographer for Danbury district traffic court.

Other bills provided for: Exempting debtor from execution in actions founded on negligence; authorizing support to name tax commissioner bi-annually; establishing a small claims court and a town plan commission for Enfield; granting state aid money to towns for every bus mile traveled through the towns on other than state highways by common carriers; closing bowling and pool establishments from 1 a. m. to 5 a. m.; making failure of corporations to file annual report for two consecutive years prime face evidence of forfeiture of corporate rights; continuing state capitol, veterans Way and Burr memorial commission and appropriating $740,000 for it.

W. L. CROSS, THIRD LIKES GRANDDAD

Grandson of Governor Wins Medal For His Composition About Him.

Hartford, Jan. 30.—(AP) Wilbur L. Cross, 3d, grandson of Governor Cross, believes his granddaddy is one of the most famous of men. In a contest conducted by the St. Nicholas Magazine, Little Wilbur, 12 years old, won a silver badge because of the things he thought and said of the governor, staking his choice in competition with Napoleon, Julius Caesar, George Washington and others.

This is what Wilbur, 3d, had to say of the present governor of Connecticut: "I think my grandfather is a great man because he does so much for me. Sometimes he gets up in the morning on the wrong side of the bed. There are the times when everybody in the house does exactly what he wants them to do. For instance, as soon as he comes into the room where I am, my aunt will clear the desk and throw all the scraps into the wastebasket, so that he won't blame her for not keeping the desk tidy. But usually he is in the right mood. Every Christmas he gives me a present, and puts some money in the bank for me. "He loves apple pie (he ought to join the Pie-Eaters Club), and anybody that could make a good apple pie would be great to him and I would like to see him do it. I wouldn't say that, because I don't like apple pie. "He likes huckleberry pie even better than apple pie, and if you could see him up at Lake Sunapee, New Hampshire, out getting huckleberries with an old pair of pants, an old shirt, and a farmer's straw hat, you wouldn't think that he was Governor-elect of Connecticut."

TEXTILE STRIKE ENDS; WORKERS WILL RETURN

Danville, Va., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Danville's four months old textile strike was at an end today and 5,000 union workers prepared to ask the mills for reinstatement. The strike ended yesterday by a vote of the workers. C. S. Garrison, public relations representative of the American Federation of Labor, said last night he understood the mills could re-employ from 800 to 1,000 of the strikers immediately and others as machinery was put in order. The strike ended suddenly and apparently without negotiations between the union and mill management. A vote of the strikers was said to have overwhelmingly favored a return to work. Francis J. Gorman, vice-president of the United Textile Workers of America, in an impassioned statement, said that recent actions and statements of the mill management indicated there would be no discrimination against the union workers. The strike was called, he said, because of a belief that such discrimination was being practiced. As the strike drew to an end, it was announced from union headquarters that there were 1,500 cases of influenza among members of families of strikers. It was also learned that 250 non-union employees of the mills were absent from work with the disease.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

St. Paul, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Measures for repeal of Minnesota's newspaper suppression law were before the State Legislature when the United States Supreme Court heard arguments today on the constitutionality of the act. Repeal of the law that has aroused nationwide opposition in newspaper publishing circles is called for in bills introduced in both branches of the Legislature, one of them by Senator George H. M. Lommen, author of the original measure enacted in 1925. A House committee yesterday recommended passage of the repeal measure, while Gov. Floyd B. Olson has recommended withdrawal of the law under which he prosecuted two cases while Hennepin county attorney. The Farmer-Labor platform on which Gov. Olson was elected advocated repeal. No action has yet been taken in the Senate. Minnesota's Supreme Court has twice sustained the constitutionality of the law.

JOBLESS VISIT GOVERNOR

State Capitol, Hartford, Jan. 30.—(AP)—A delegation of about forty work people, called upon Governor Cross today seeking unemployment relief. They claimed that the Hartford charities department had refused aid because they were non-residents. Three spokesmen said they had voted in Hartford. The group discussed their conditions with the governor and left. Governor Cross said to his spokesman that he did not know what could be done towards their relief until he found out the facts. Senator Connor at once sought information, more particularly, he said, to learn why the group had been here on the Legislature's busiest day. Newspaper circulations have jumped in Russia. But, of course, that's where newspapers really are Red.

1930 BUILDING HIT LOW LEVEL

Fell Off 50 Per Cent From 1929 Figure — Expect Boom This Year.

Building activity in Manchester for 1930 dropped to the lowest level in the past several years. Residential construction work as gauged by the building permits dropped off nearly 50 percent from the 1929 level. This reduction in building has imposed a hardship on local contractors, several of whom have entered bids for work in other towns and cities of the State. The situation in which the local contractors found themselves after the sudden decline of last year was not very reassuring. There were very few new jobs to go around. To make matters more difficult, the past year's building depression came at the end of a previously weak building year.

Construction for 1931 appears brighter if the building permits for Dec. 1930 are taken as a criterion of what is in store for the next six months. Several long-deferred projects have gone ahead through sheer necessity and it is expected that a demand for new construction will soon be felt. The construction activity in Manchester for the past five years is summarized as follows: 1928, 573 building permits total of $968,225; 1927, 388 permits total of $928,815; 1926, 374 permits, total of $1,296,541; 1925, 329 permits, total of $823,025; 1924, 268 permits, total of $375,595.

Twenty-nine wood single dwellings and three fire resisting dwellings were built during 1930 for a total of $203,000 this being over 50 per cent of the value of construction work done during the year in Manchester.

Mrs. Angier said that although her son did not himself hurl any of the fruit, he was one of three Harvard students who were detained by police after Rudy Vallee, radio crooner had been bombarded from the balcony of a Boston theater. His father is Professor of psychology at Yale. No plans have been made for her son, Mrs. Angier said.

2 TROLLEY CARS CRASH HEAD-ON IN TALCOTTVILLE

boles of the cars telescoped. Both motorists stuck to their posts and Tedford was rather badly cut by glass. He was fixed up by a physician later. Lewis escaped injury. The passengers were badly jostled about and many of them suffered from bruises and abrasions about the knees and legs through being thrown against the seats ahead. One girl whose identity could not be learned became hysterical and fell to the floor of Tedford's car. She received soon and was taken away in a passing automobile.

By 7:35 all the women passengers were taken up by an automobile and were on their way to their destinations. An extra bus was sent out from Manchester in charge of Gus Waltz to bring in the school boys. The colliding trolley cars were so tightly wedged together to pull themselves apart by their own power and at 8 o'clock the company's wrecker arrived from Hartford and worked for work clearing up the mess. At 9:10 its job was done.

The cause of the two cars meeting they did could not be explained at this morning and was made the subject of an investigation. Lewis' car crossed Depot Square here at 7:04, on time, he says, and reported to the dispatcher's office here, where Dispatcher Thomas Tedford was on duty. Lewis says he got orders to turn right at the depot. Tedford's car, he says, left Rockville at 7 o'clock and when it reached the Dobsonville switch, where it ordinarily would have met Lewis' car, the signal was set at the perpendicular so he proceeded expecting to cross the other car's path later. Several passengers on Tedford's car said they, too, saw the open signal. Whether the Dobsonville signal had gotten out of order or not, was one of the matters under investigation.

Motorman Tedford, who used to live in Manchester, and Dispatcher Tedford, are brothers.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Jan. 30.—Department store sales in December in the New York Federal Reserve district were 6 per cent smaller than in the corresponding month of the previous year, the review of credit and business conditions of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York says. This decrease occurred although last month had one more selling day than December of 1929. Wholesale business averaged 15 per cent smaller last month, while reporting chain store systems averaged 6 per cent below the year before.

Graham Paige Motors Corp. has increased production schedules and taken on more employees as a result of stimulus given the motor industry by the automobile shows. A total of 2,130 workers now is employed at the main factory in Detroit and the body plant at Wayne, Mich., an increase of 400 this month. In addition 125 men were added at the body plant at Evansville, Ind.

Reflecting the glutted condition of the money market in January, the average renewal rate for call money for the month was 1.716 per cent, against 2.16 per cent in December and 4.74 per cent in the first month of 1930. The high of the month was 3 per cent but since January 5 both renewal rate and the rate on new loans held stationary at 1 1/2 per cent.

The Clyde Steamship Company of Boston announced today that it would pay off its 5 per cent bonds maturing February 1 of which $812,000 are outstanding of an original $6,000,000 issue. The company is a subsidiary of the Atlantic Gulf and West Indies steamship lines.

The monthly sales survey by Standard Statistics, issued today, says that because of restricted ability to buy goods, trade during the next few months will continue at a less active level than was witnessed in February and March, 1930. The survey says that "a good market is found for low priced articles which are classed as necessities; collections continue slow, however, and care should be exercised in granting of credit. Executives may expect that in the aggregate accomplishments will fall well below the first quarter of 1930."

Despite a weak statistical position due to the fact that inventories at the end of December 31, 1930, were a record high, the paper industry in the newswprint paper industry has not suffered, and no early change is indicated, says Standard Statistics Company. The demand is nearly 20 per cent below a year ago and the company forecasts no improvement in the first quarter. Current production is only slightly below shipments.

A cold does 3 things "Pape's" stops them all

A cold always affects you in at least three ways. Air passages are inflamed and irritated. Perspiration is checked. Bowels are clogged with acid wastes from the mucous discharge. So doctors say you must do three things to be rid of a cold. Pape's Cold Compound does all three! It reduces inflammation and swelling of the mucous membrane;

DRIVER, HITTING CHILD, FAILS TO MAKE REPORT

Lucille House, 8, Injured On Center Street By Man Who Placed Valve On His Fins.

An automobile driver who slipped out of the situation without effectively disclosing his identity, but either whose given or surname is believed to be Malcolm and who is a young man of about 22, yesterday ran down Lucille, the eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Urbane House of Rosemary Place, on Center street. He made no report of the affair to the police. The little girl was crossing Center street on her way to school when she was struck. She was knocked down and suffered bruises on the face, one tooth was knocked out and there were minor injuries of both body and head. Onlookers said the car that struck her continued on for about 300 feet before the driver stopped and turned back. He helped carry the child home but got away speedily, making light of the child's injuries and saying that he was in a hurry.

The first the police knew of the accident was last night when a representative of an insurance company appeared at the police station inquiring about the report on the accident as the driver in the case carried liability insurance in his company. Afterward he went to the House home but it was understood no settlement was reached. Not only did the driver fail to report the case as required by law but the police said no complaint had been lodged by the parents of the child.

PROPOSE NEW GRADING OF APPLES IN STATE

Suggest Revision of Present Law to Allow For Standardization to U. S. Grades.

Hartford, Jan. 30.—The establishment of voluntary grades for apples through the amendment and revision of the present apple law which was placed on the statutes in 1919 is the aim of the Connecticut Pomological Society in sponsoring a bill which went to the Legislature yesterday. The new bill incorporates the United States apple grades and makes the Commissioner of Agriculture responsible for establishing such additional grades for closed packages of apples as are necessary. Many of the desirable features of the present law are to be retained, the principal change being that the growers will have open to them the choice of three methods of marketing their fruit while under the present law all apples in closed packages have to be sold according to Connecticut grades. In addition the grading will be voluntary instead of compulsory as at present. The Legislative Committee of the Society under the leadership of Charles L. Gold of West Cornwall, held several meetings with the fruit growers prior to the introduction of this bill and it was the consensus of opinion that the best interests of the Connecticut fruit men could be served by making it possible for them to market their fruit in one or more of the following methods: first, according to Connecticut grades; second, according to United States grades; and third, to market them ungraded. President S. P. Hollister of the Society explained that the adoption of this bill would allow the Connecticut grower who had established a name for his product in this state to continue using Connecticut grades. At the same time it would be possible for any grower who is depending upon an outside market where only United States standards are recognized to use the United States grades. It would also take care of a season of low prices, he stated, by making it possible for the grower who could not afford to grade at prevailing prices to sell his product ungraded. S. McLean Buckingham, State Commissioner of Agriculture, under whom the present apple law is enforced, in commenting upon the proposed bill stated that he believes the legislation proposed by the fruit growers is a step in the right direction, as it provides an apple grading program for Connecticut which makes it possible for the grower who desires to establish a reputation for his apples to do so without forcing the grading program on those who do not wish to use it. "Apples are the only agricultural product" Commissioner Buckingham said, "which the Connecticut farmer has been required to sell by grade although grades have been established and are being used more extensively each year on other products. The department finds from its experience in enforcing the laws that voluntary grades in Connecticut are accomplishing greater results than compulsory grades and materially simplify inspection. "From our experience with graded products in Connecticut and grad-servations made in other states, I see no reason why the fruit growers as a group should not be satisfied with the proposed bill. PAPER RAPS MacDONALD

Bombay, India, Jan. 30.—(AP)—While Mahatma Gandhi and other leaders of the Congress Party examined Ramsay MacDonald's Indian proposals with a view to finding a basis for peace negotiations, the official newspaper of the party today printed a violent editorial charging that India "must make secession our national religion." Characterizing MacDonald's speech at the round table conference as a bogus peace gesture, the paper urged the people to make their answer emphatic and uncompromising, asserting that resistance to British rule must be continued with renewed zeal. "Only so long as we stand firmly against whatever comes will our enemies realize that our determination to be free is too strong to be defeated by overtures from any quarter unless those who bring them come submissively, prepared to accept Gandhi's demands as a basis for negotiations," the editorial said.

TO DISCUSS TOBACCO INDUSTRY ON TUESDAY

Public Meeting To Be Held Under Farm Bureau Auspices At South Windsor.

Tobacco men from East Hartford, Manchester and South Windsor will meet in the Town hall in South Windsor, Thursday night, February 2, at 7:30, to discuss the outdoor tobacco industry. Dr. H. B. Boyd of the Connecticut Agricultural College will present charts and figures on the present "blender type" situation which indicates an over supply of blunder tobacco leaves. Dr. Boyd in his discussion at other similar meetings sounds a danger warning to producers and urges attention to production costs that will enable our growers to compete with Wisconsin. Dr. P. J. Anderson of the Tobacco Experiment Station, and J. S. Owens of the College will discuss the possibilities of reduced costs of production through more careful purchase of fertilizers. Dr. Anderson, one of the country's outstanding tobacco experts, has been experimenting with fertilizer materials at Windsor for a long period of years and he shows the possibility of reducing costs of production very materially through this channel. Charles D. Lewis of the Farm Bureau will discuss the present situation briefly. Following the College and Farm Bureau speakers the meeting will be turned over to representatives of the New England Tobacco Association and Fred B. Griffin, L. B. Haas will speak briefly on the work of the association. Free and open discussion will be allowed and encouraged in hopes that some sound solution for the outdoor growers' problems may be found. The meeting has been arranged by J. E. Shepard, R. D. Stearns, members of the County Tobacco committee; R. P. Jones, Farm Bureau Director for South Windsor, and Harry Farnham, director for the New England Tobacco Association.

GIRLS' 1-4 CLUBS ARE FORMED HERE

Cooking and Sewing Groups Are Organized At Lipp Home Wednesday Night. Two Girls' 1-4 clubs were formed at the home of Jacob Lipp, 118 Keeney street, Wednesday night, one a cooking club composed of older girls and the other a sewing club of younger girls under the leadership of Mrs. Alton Hall of Foley street. A leader for the cooking club has not yet been selected. Miss Dodge of the Hartford County Farm Bureau helped organize the two clubs and spoke of the good work being done in other clubs in this county. The officers of the older girls' cooking club are: President, Bernice Lipp; vice-president, Maude Sullivan; secretary, Edith Brown; treasurer, Mary Dietz; reporter, Marjorie Palmer. The cooking club will meet the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month. The officers of the girls' 1-4 sewing club are: President, Elena Keeney; vice-president, Ayis Palmer; secretary, Josephine Gaudzicki; treasurer, Mary Anderson. The next meeting of the sewing club will be held at the home of the club leader, Mrs. Alton Hall, 26 Foley street, Tuesday, February 3, at 7:30 p. m.

POLICE COURT

William Chadwick, 62, of Hamlin street, was picked up on Ford street, near Main last night by Officer Walter Cassells and was in the Town Court this morning charged with intoxication. He pleaded guilty and a fine of $10 and costs was imposed. He might have gotten away with a suspended sentence had he not told Judge R. A. Johnson that he had never been arrested before. He had evidently forgotten that he was picked up last May and held at the police station for a day or sober up and because of his age was allowed to go at that time. He was placed in charge of the probation officer to pay the fine and costs. Edward J. Graham of Lebanon, charged with speeding, pleaded guilty. He was arrested by Officer Cassells at 11:10 last night at Manchester Green after being trailed from Cooper street to the Green. A fine of $10 and costs was paid.

Owl Lures Detroit Hawk to Death

An imitation owl made of papier-mache finally lured the hawk that had been killing pigeons in downtown Detroit to its death, after police marksmen had failed to stop the bird. Sergeant John Wentland, crack shot of the police department, hid on the top of a skyscraper and put the imitation owl on the parapet. The hawk swooped down to the attack, and Sergeant Wentland killed it with two shots. The sergeant and his son, John, Jr., are shown here with the bird.

TOLLAND

Raymond Waser of the Hartford Seminary will preach next Sunday, Feb. 1, in the Federated church. Feb. 8, Mrs. Frank Landolt will preach and the Rev. Henry Curtis McDowell a graduate from Talladega, Alabama, now a missionary on the west coast of Africa will preach Feb. 15. Mrs. Charles H. Daniels has returned from Evanston, Illinois, where she attended the midwinter meetings of the commission on missions (Congregational). Mr. and Mrs. Preston Meacham entertained a party of friends at a card party in their home Thursday evening. Lawrence and Shirley Clough who have been ill with grip are now able to again attend school. Mrs. Hoyt Hayden entertained the Cradle Roll mothers at their weekly sewing meeting Wednesday evening. Owing to the extreme dry weather during the summer months many of the farmers in town are obliged to buy hay or sell their stock. Many wells are still dry and the people are drawing water in barrels from ponds for household use and to supply their stock. Mrs. Charles H. Daniels entertained ten young ladies to supper Sunday night after which was held a fireside service. Mrs. Annie Larsen entertained relatives from Glastonbury, Wednesday. Carlton Buckminster of Rockville was a visitor Sunday at the home of Roy Dimock. The next Cradle Roll mothers sewing meeting will meet next Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Lena Dimock.

VALJEAN BOUND OVER ON BURGLARY CHARGE

New Haven, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Norman Valjean, 31, of New York, was ordered bound over to the Superior Court today when presented in City Court on two charges of statutory burglary growing out of the alleged theft of a fur coat from the display window of a local store. Bond was set at $10,000. Valjean, taking the stand, denied he smashed the store window and fled with the coat, which was later found in a neighboring doorway. However, prosecution witnesses testified he has admitted a jail break from Fitchburg, Mass., nine years ago, and has further admitted that he is wanted for breaking display windows in Chicago, Providence and other cities. In his testimony today Valjean admitted the truth of some of the statements given in the record, which was read in court. He was arrested in a local hotel a week ago shortly after the theft of which he is suspected occurred. Questioned about a similar affair in which a jewelry store window was broken several months ago and some of the articles on display taken, he admitted being in this city on that day but denied he committed the crime.

HIGHWAYS QUICKLY CLEARED OF SNOW

Macdonald, However, Cautions Motorists Against Possible Development of Ice Conditions.

Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald announced early last night that all highways in Connecticut had been cleared of yesterday's snowfall, but cautioned against the danger of freezing and the probable development of ice conditions which would make motoring hazardous despite the fact that the snow had been removed from the highway pavement. He urged the use of skid chains as the best precaution against accident. Highway crews were at work last night placing sand upon hills, curves and crossing approaches as a precaution against the ice hazard. Reports of the various department divisions showed that the snow had varied from about one half inch in depth along Long Island Sound to six inches in Litchfield county. The average depth was two and one-half inches. The plows used by the department in snow removal are of no avail in the clearing of snow less than one or two inches in depth, since the passing of traffic rapidly eradicates the snow. Consequently, plows were used yesterday only in those sections of the state where the fall was heavier.

STYLE SHOP'S BIG SALE ATTRACTS LARGE CROWD

The Style Shop is holding its first big sale since coming to Manchester. It was advertised exclusively in The Herald and Mr. Adams, the manager, says that he is more than gratified with the results. This store is one of a group, the next nearest one being in Willimantic. It has always been the policy of the organization to really give the public honest-to-goodness values. Mr. Adams, the manager of the local store, has had many years' experience in this type of business, especially ladies' coats, having been associated with several large retail and wholesale coat houses in New York. ADVOCATES A TARIFF Rome, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Senator Guglielmo Marconi, reporting for the National Council of Research, today recommended to Premier Mussolini that the Italian chemical industry, particularly those branches producing therapeutical remedies, but protected against foreign competition, presumably by a tariff.

REBEKAHS EXPECT GOOD ATTENDANCE AT TRAVELogue ON TRIP THROUGH EUROPE.

Sunset Rebekah lodge's committee in charge of the forthcoming lecture by Charles Burr, "Bicycling Through Europe," reports considerable interest and a good advance sale of tickets. The lecture will be illustrated by stereopticon views of the places visited by Mr. Burr during the several months he spent in Europe last summer. Miss Beatrice Ciolow is chairman of the committee of arrangements. At the close of the program tea will be served. The proceeds will be for the Groton Infirmary fund. The regular meeting of Sunset Rebekah lodge Monday evening will begin at 7:15 to allow for Mr. Burr's travel talk at 8:15, to which all will be welcome at a nominal admission charge.

RECOVER 11 BODIES

White Haven, Cumberland, Eng., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Eleven bodies had been taken today from the Haig Pit, where an explosion yesterday imprisoned more than fifty miners. Seventeen miners still were missing in the shaft. Twenty five were rescued. The rescue workers labored frantically today to get at the missing men before fumes should kill any who might be alive. The cause of the accident was not known. Each of the dead were brought up soon after the blast and the bodies of two others were removed by rescue crews early this morning. Twelve who got out alive went to a hospital suffering from gas and burns as did also ten from the adjacent Wellington pit which was flooded by fumes. Thirty were affected in the Wellington pit but 20 of them recovered after treatment.

FOREST COMMISSIONER TO BE SPEAKER HERE

Austin F. Hawes To Address Garden Club Members At Meeting On February 9.

Austin F. Hawes, state forestry commissioner, has been engaged by the program committee of the Manchester Garden club to address the February meeting of the club at the Center church house. This meeting will take place Monday evening, February 9 in the Robbins room, with a business session at 7:30. Mr. Hawes will begin to speak about 8 o'clock and will show a number of interesting slides illustrating what the forest commission is trying to do not only to provide places of recreation in summer, but a source of income from the state forests which now number 17. Mr. Hawes and his subordinates are now doing a fine piece of work in the different forests by furnishing employment to hundreds of unemployed men throughout the state in thinning out the forests, and incidentally providing free fuel for needy people by carting it away. The commissioner has always been handicapped by inadequate funds. There is a bill at present before the Legislature requesting $100,000 to carry on this work, which if it passes will mean that the forest commissioner will be able to use many more of the state's unemployed, to the lasting advantage of the forests and the lessening of the deadly fire menace, as well as providing food and clothing for distressed families. Members of the club are urged to reserve the above date and to invite interested friends to the February 9 meeting.

MELLON IS SCORED FOR VIEW ON VETS

Texas Democrat Declares Secretary Has Always Been Against Legislation.

Washington, Jan. 30.—(AP)—While Secretary Mellon today was voicing again his objections to cash payments on veterans compensation certificates, his recommendations were attacked by Representative Patman as being tempered by personal views in Congress yesterday.

"His feelings naturally cause him to make estimates in accordance with his opinions," Patman said. "His feelings are such that his mistakes are always against veterans."

Patman added that he did not mean to imply Mellon "is dishonest or there is any corruption."

The secretary, who appeared yesterday before the Senate committee, meanwhile reiterated before the House ways and means committee his objections to cashing the certificates.

Undersecretary Mills followed Mellon and said the Treasury is very much concerned over an anticipated $375,000,000 deficit for the year.

No Tax Increase Mills added, however, "we are not recommending an increase in taxes at the present time."

The Treasury official made the statement in an argument with Democratic leader Garner of the House over interpretation of the provisions of the Veterans Compensation Act.

In reply to a question by Chairman Hawley as to the amount of money available in the Treasury for payment on the certificates, Mills said: "not a penny."

J. Thomas Taylor, legislative representative of the American Legion, said before the Senate committee his organization had taken no stand on the question of whether the full face value or the current value of the certificates should be paid.

Taylor presented the resolution passed by the national executive committee of the legion at Indianapolis last Sunday.

Members of the committee asked what the resolution meant by endorsing "the principle of immediate cash retirement" but Taylor said he could not interpret the phrase.

"It means it rests with Congress what method should be adopted," Taylor said.

Would Help Conditions Thomas Kirby, National legislative chairman of the Disabled American Veterans, told the committee cashing the certificates would not only benefit the veterans but would be "an extremely valuable method of meeting the National depression."

Kirby urged early enactment of legislation to provide more hospital space for disabled veterans. Their program, he said, calls for 5,000 beds at a cost of $15,000,000.

"The cash bonus is needed," Kirby said, "but the hospitalization program is the thing most imperatively needed at the present time."

A motion of Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, to consider the hospitalization program immediately after the close of the present hearings was unanimously adopted.

Representative Connery, Democrat, Massachusetts, described the resolution adopted by the Legion executive committee as "a straddle."

"Like the Wickersham report," Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana, interjected.

Connery said the veterans are overwhelmingly in favor of payment of the full value of the certificates.

Representative Clancy, Republican, Michigan, recommended that veterans be allowed to borrow money on their certificates at six per cent instead of four per cent.

SCORE CHILD MARRIAGES

Lahore, Punjab, India, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Resolutions against child marriage, polygamy, opium, alcohol, white slave traffic, child labor and another urging raising of the age of consent for girls to eighteen years were passed today by the Asian Women's Congress, representing the women of a score of Oriental countries.

In the concluding session Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, released this week from Yeroda prison, Poona, where she was confined for offenses growing out of the civil disobedience campaign, was elected president of the Congress as "recognition of her services for India's advancement."

Delegates to the Congress urged that in order to promote the spirit of religious tolerance, love and harmony among all communities, the lives and teachings of the great religious leaders should be taught in public schools and a comparative study of the great religions of the world should be included in the curricula of colleges.

EVELYN SEEKS DIVORCE

Chicago Jan. 30.—(AP)—Evelyn Nesbit, former wife of Harry K. Thaw, is seeking a divorce from Virgil James Montali, known on the stage as Jack Clifford.

The suit it was learned today, filed in Superior Court, charged Clifford deserted her in New York ten years ago. Miss Nesbit and her husband who at one time was her dancing partner, were married in 1916.

ROCKVILLE

Prize Speaking Contest

The Alumni association of the Rockville High school has offered prizes for a High School prize speaking contest, a custom of the organization each year. The terms are as follows:

The contest shall be open to all undergraduates of the school, with the exception that the first prize winner of a contest shall not be eligible to enter another contest. The first trials will be held by a committee of the teachers Thursday, February 12, at 2:30.

The best eight speakers selected in these trials shall compete in the final contest on Friday, March 20. Position on the program shall be determined by lot. The first prize shall be ten dollars, the second prize five dollars, third prize two and one-half dollars, all in gold. The three judges will be appointed by the president of the Alumni association. Points considered in determining prize winners will be enunciation, delivery, expression, preparation, presence, subject matter, gesture.

Legion Auxiliary At the American Legion Auxiliary meeting in G. A. R. hall Wednesday evening it was announced that the State President, Mrs. Florence Erbe, of Southington, would be present at the February meeting and talk on "National Defense."

The Stafford Springs Auxiliary will be guests. There was a large attendance. Mrs. Florence Birchall of Willimantic, district membership chairman, gave an interesting talk. There will be a district meeting in Moosup on Sunday and a large number of members from this city are planning to attend. At this time the membership drive will come to a close.

At Close of Round Table Conference on India

Though Premier Ramsay MacDonald's Labor government is under fire from many sources, results of the nine weeks' Round Table Conference on India have won praise even from opposition parties in the British Parliament. The history-making meeting in London is pictured above as it closed after plans had been made for transferring to the Indians the rights and responsibilities of administering many of their own affairs. Premier MacDonald is seen standing as he addressed the conferees.

MENUS For Good Health

Saturday Breakfast—Browned Ham; crisp Waffle; stewed Apples.

Lunch—Lima Beans; baked ground beefs; Celery.

Dinner—Broiled Lamb Chops; buttered Carrots and peas; Pineapple and Cabbage salad; Ice Cream.

*STUFFED TOMATO SALAD: Four large tomatoes, one cup of finely chopped celery, one-half cup grated raw carrots, and oil dressing. The tomatoes should be scalded quickly and peeled. Scoop out the centers, leaving a tomato shell, and fill with the mixed celery, carrots, oil, and a small amount of the tomato pulp. Serve cold on lettuce.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS (Falling Hair) Question: M. E. B. asks: "Is it true that falling hair is caused by certain foods which we eat?"

Answer: There is no certain food which causes the hair to fall out, but certain bad food combinations may produce an acidosis or lowered alkalinity of the system where the food elements from which the hair grows are destroyed. The one with falling hair should use the proper food combinations, and include in the diet plenty of those foods containing the hair-building minerals, such as asparagus, lettuce, bran, dandelion, parsnips, fruit skins and beets.

(Browned Flour) Question: Mrs. L. G. asks: "Will you kindly tell me what you mean by 'browned flour'?"

Answer: Put the amount of flour desired in a dry pan, place over the fire and stir vigorously with a fork until it is browned thoroughly, from the browning effect of the hot pan.

(Deafness) Question: J. G. J. asks: "Could a person affected with deafness due to a collapse of the eustachian tubes expect any relief by taking a fruit fast or the orange juice diet? Do you feel that the poisons developed in the alimentary tract have any direct bearing on the ears or hearing?"

Answer: The fruit fast may be of help in removing earwax deposits from the inner ear. I would also advise you to have treatments through vibration, suction and finger surgery. The latter treatment may be applied directly to the eustachian tube. Certain specialists have just discovered that poisons from the alimentary canal have the effect of causing deafness. I have been claiming this, writing about it, and proving it for nearly a quarter of a century.

FORD PLANT BUSY

New York, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Reports in Wall street are that the Ford Motor Co., soon will increase its output and add to its employment rolls.

The reports said several indications point to such a move. One company financing Ford retail paper nationally, reported that business had been increasing steadily during the last two weeks. It was said the recent price cuts undoubtedly stimulated business, roads out of Detroit are reported again lined with carrier trucks delivering new cars and a company supplying material reported it had increased releases for next week.

The Ford plants have been working on part time since operations were resumed after the holiday shut-down.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 30.

RELIEF MUDDLE

The realization is growing that the relief situation, from a national point of view, has become a mess. Refusal of the Red Cross to assume the responsibility for the administration of the proposed $25,000,000 fund has, when all is said and done, just about put an end to any prospect of Congressional appropriation of any size or kind. If Congress, as some of its members threaten, should undertake to erect its own relief machinery we should almost certainly be setting the stage for one of the worst scandals in the history of American government.

It is doubtful if even the Senate would risk it. On the other hand it is almost impossible to see how the Red Cross can now make good the promise of its chairman, Judge Fayne, to take care of the sufferers in the drought states, even should the situation "grow to three times what we have estimated." There is no denying that the organization's refusal to handle the proposed fund has left the Red Cross open to attacks, however unjust, on its capacity. If the Red Cross, it will be pointed out, cannot function when the magnitude of the task approaches maximum size, it is not so potent and resourceful as has been generally believed. And the growth of such ideas will do the great humane institution no good whatever.

What the popular reaction toward the refusal will be may very soon be disclosed by the progress of the Red Cross' own drive for $10,000,000 for drought relief. If that undertaking does not suffer seriously it may be an indication that no irreparable harm has been done. But if the decline of the organization to participate in government relief results in a closing of the public purse, then we shall be in a deadlock, with the sufferers holding the bag, so far as any national action goes.

The proposal to make the Salvation Army, instead of the Red Cross, the distributing agency for a great government relief fund is not likely to be taken seriously for the reason that the Army's organization reaches only a few communities, relatively to the whole number affected, and while extraordinarily efficient in its own field could hardly be expanded sufficiently in time to be of service.

There is just one encouraging aspect of the muddle. That is that the whole subject of relief may be squeezed out of the national zone and forced, willy nilly, into the zone where it belongs—that of the municipality and the state.

It is, on the whole, inconceivable that the states of Tennessee, Kentucky, Arkansas and Georgia, for example, cannot, if put to it, take care of such parts of their populations as must be fed and clothed. It is inconceivable that Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Jersey, for example again, cannot take care of such parts of their own populations as must not only be fed and clothed but housed.

Not yet has there been any evidence that the powers of relief of either the drought stricken states or the states suffering from industrial paralysis have been exhausted, or even importantly tapped. We hear at times a tremendous lot about states' rights. More about states' responsibilities would have a welcome sound.

MELLON'S ALARM

So many of America's big business idols have turned out to have not feet of clay but heads of concrete since the depression period set in, and so many perfectly idiotic ideas have emanated from sources heretofore supposed to be fountains of economic wisdom, that it is improbable the veterans who want their adjusted service certificates cashed will withdraw their demand because of the lamentable picture drawn by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

Mr. Mellon has made a couple of terrible guesses in the last couple of years in matters of deficits, and so forth, anyhow. So his prediction of universal disaster should one of the bonus bills pass will not be likely to have as much effect on the country as it might have had a few years back.

It is one thing for Mr. Mellon to say that a bond issue to pay off the service certificates would retard business recovery and unemployment, that it would destroy the value of bonds and lift the prices of everything else at the same time and that it would absorb half the capital available for investment in any normal year—and it is another thing to prove it or to make people generally believe it.

Does the secretary imagine that the service men are going to take three billions in currency, put salt on it and eat it? Apparently. As a matter of fact the payment of this money to men who want it for immediate use would withdraw it from the usual channels for only a very brief time. If all the service men could get their money the same day the cash would all be back in the banks again the next day—or all but a very small part of it. Even the bootleggers have bank accounts—as do plenty of service men and all store keepers. There won't be a dollar more or less of currency in the country, because of such a distribution. Why talk of inflation?

And how can you inflate values and deflate bonds by the same process? You can, to be sure, temporarily, affect premium values on bonds by throwing great new issues onto the market, but you don't cut the real values a particle. All you do is to relieve the investment strain on the older issues.

Probably it is this one reflection that is carving Mr. Mellon's soul. As a banker he is essentially bonded. He knows about a great many millions of dollars worth that would inventory a shade lower than they do now, perhaps on the day after a bonus bill of this kind had been passed and signed.

But there are other people to be considered besides the owners of bonds. The holders of long range investments, as we remarked the other day, can't expect to come through this crisis unscathed any more than anybody else. And the soldiers and sailors need the money.

It is very much to be doubted whether Mr. Mellon succeeds in scaring off the supporters of the service certificate measures. A few years ago, yes. But a few years ago is now some years ago.

THAT SPEED TEST

The speed test between the Coast Guard patrol boat No. 145 and the rum runner Josephine K., held yesterday in the waters off the New Jersey coast, which developed that the government vessel was the much faster craft of the two, puts Boat-swain Karl Schmidt, commander of the patrol vessel when it shelled the Josephine K. and killed its skipper, in a very delicate position. It also can hardly fall to cast doubt on other statements of Schmidt's concerning the affair, particularly that having to do with the positions of the vessels with relation to the twelve mile treaty limit.

Schmidt had justified his shelling of the Canadian schooner on the ground that she was outfooting his craft and was about to escape. Either he or other Coast Guard members speaking in his interest had stated that the Josephine K. was a 14-knot ship under her auxiliary engines. The test proved that under the utmost pushing by a Coast Guard crew, which had every reason to get the last foot of speed out of her, the Josephine K. could do less than ten miles an hour while the patrol boat was making well above eleven. Under such circumstances the eventual escape of the rum runner was highly improbable if the patrol boat had continued chasing instead of starting to shoot.

The Coast Guard people have stated that they knew the Josephine K. well; that they have followed or chased her twenty times. It would appear that they must have been fairly familiar with her capacity for making speed. All in all it looks remarkably as though Boat-swain Schmidt had deliberately misstated the facts.

If he misrepresented the facts in the matter of the relative speed of the two boats, and if it is shown that he deliberately fired a shell into a vessel which he was overhauling, knowing her and knowing that she was registered under a friendly foreign flag, what reason is there to believe what he says about the vessels being within the twelve mile limit? Even if he knew exactly where he was—which is improbable, this is a particularly nasty piece of business.

APOLOGY

If a general officer of the United States military forces makes in public a charge against the head of a foreign government and the charge is shown to be untrue, then it is, conceivably, the right and proper thing for the government of the United States to extend to the injured foreign ruler its regrets. Such an apology is no more degrading to the government making it than it is degrading to a gentleman to apologize for inadvertently stepping on the toes of another person in a crowd.

In the Smedley Butler affair, however, there is something else involved. General Butler is accused of relating in a speech an unpleasant incident, concerning Premier Mussolini of Italy, which a friend told him about. For his alleged indiscretion General Butler is to be tried by court martial.

The point is that he has not yet been tried. His position is that of any accused person. He is to be regarded as innocent until proven guilty.

Then why on earth this premature apology to Mussolini? It is not the apology itself but the utterly improper timing of it that shocks the sensibilities of the people of the country. There was plenty of time for expression of regret when the facts had become established beyond the stage of mere rumor.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 30.—In an unnoticed second of a great city's routine, some of the grimmest scenes are staged.

Thus, in the East River there is a spot where, if the weather is fair, the yachts of the rich lie at anchor. They are polished cloud-white and their brasses glisten in the sun. On deck gay folk sit beneath gay awnings and sip at cocktails or tea. Voices raised in chatter and laughter drift ashore.

And thus, on the East River, furnishing a shore-line background is Bellevue Hospital, Manhattan's city hospital. From one point upon the hospital grounds a pier extends into the river. From the pier a boat leaves each day, and the weather does not matter. And this boat churns past the gay yachts with their gilt and white, and goes impersonally upon its way.

It is taking the daily cargo of unknown dead of a great city to unmarked graves!

Some days it takes 20, and some days it takes 50. The average is around 150 a week; some 7,000 a year. Seven thousand persons who can disappear, yet nobody knows and nobody cares. Seven thousand men and women without names; without identities; without hopes.

Incredible as it may seem, this happens year in and year out. If one man disappears, or one woman disappears, an entire city is asked to take up the hunt. But 7,000 can drop out of sight—and who knows?

They are the John Does and the Jane Roes found dead in gutters! The vast army of unknowns who find huddling in doorways on "blister" nights! They're the men who fill the 10-cent flop houses and drink the fatal "smoke" of Bowery joints. They're the men who have deliberately erased the past in one way or another; torn an old identity from themselves and drifted into complete anonymity.

These are a great city's beachcombers—and a metropolis has beachcombers as surely as any fabulous South Sea island. You'll see them in the dark of nights prowling like stray cats among the city's garbage cans.

But when the little boat leaves the Bellevue wharf, a score of them go to an unmarked grave. This is a general burying ground they call Hart's Island. And on Hart's Island they cannot be any more particular about immediate burial than can men in war time. They are dumped 150 at a time into a hole in the ground—and that is all.

Another hole is dug and awaits the coming of another 150!

Hart's is a somewhat braky island, and there's a sandy hill where the burial ground has been arranged. As near as New York can be said to have a Potter's Field—this is it!

And just as the bright and shining yachts lie at anchor down the river, Hart's Island looks across at the homes of the richest folk of Manhattan—on the millionaires' castles and manors of Great Neck and Sandy Point.

With the aid of a spyglass one can look from Hart's Island and see the suburbanites at tennis. You can see green shrubs and trees, you can see in the wind and the colorful sweaters and the colorful dresses. . . . On the other hand, standing on the shore of estates, it's possible to be reminded of the nameless dead by the melancholy droning of a bell-buoy which clangs an endless dirge.

Now and then, they'll tell you at the island of a mother, a sister, or a son who come and ask . . . asking questions and going away. . . . Going away never sure. . . .

Maybe this was their lost one? . . . For as there are not 7,000 unknown lost ones each year?

Washington Letter

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

Washington—Jan. 30.—It was officially announced a while ago that the government had required contractors on federal work to maintain wage scales at pre-depression levels, but now there are union labor officials bitterly asserting that this assurance was the same sort of thing as the familiar story about there being no unemployment and the other one about how the Red Cross was adequately handling the drought relief.

Probably some subordinate government official will have to be severely reprimanded—or perhaps not. Anyway, someone appears to have been fooling President Hoover. It was Mr. Hoover, in fact, who made that official announcement. He said, just before Christmas:

"The federal government has necessarily required contractors to maintain wage scales at their pre-depression level. . . . There have been some difficulties with minor contractors, but these have been adjusted. . . . The president has informed the various executive departments that the policy of the federal government is that wages on contracts let by the government shall be held up to the standards existing in the districts where the work is done."

Union Heads Protest

Someone has been fibbing to Mr. Hoover or outrageously deceiving him—or else workers on government construction jobs are making gross miscalculations of the contents of their pay envelopes when they get them.

Secretary John J. Gleason of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers' International Union has been making earnest protests to Mr. Hoover about it. The electrical workers' union has squawked, too, and the complainants say all the types of building trades workers have been hit by wage cuts on government jobs. In two instances the government itself is accused of cutting wages.

This international union has called attention time after time to contracts for government work in various communities where the local prevailing rate of wages has been totally disregarded," says the monthly magazine of the bricklayers' union.

"Contracts have been awarded to employers of non-union workers, recruited from sections where organization is almost unknown, accustomed to low living standards and low wages. By this means wage and living standards have been menaced in communities where measurably good wages have been established between workers and contractors after years of patient effort and at the cost of much sacrifice."

Cuts Wage Cuts

Congressman Kvale of Minnesota complains that when members call up superintendents of construction in various government departments they are informed that there has been no official notice of any administrative orders about wages.

Gleason wrote to Hoover after the presidential announcement to protest alleged wage cuts on army barracks at Fort Riley and Langley Field, on the Federal Reserve Bank addition at Richmond and Veteran's Bureau construction at Northport, L. I., Augusta, Ga., and Knoxville, Tenn.

Some of these wage decreases amounted to 50 per cent. The construction company operating at Langley Field, for instance, was said to have cut masonry mechanics from $1.50 to 75 cents an hour.

Other instances, he cited, Gleason said, and contracts were continually being let for government work to contractors "notorious" for wage-cutting. He recalled that the War Department had advised Senator Capper that it couldn't do anything about the wage cuts at Fort Riley and that the War Department, Treasury and Veterans' Bureau were fully aware of what was happening.

"Powerless," Says Treasury

The complaint was turned over to the treasury, which frankly replied that it brought what pressure it could to bear on contractors but that the law required contract awards to low bidders and that contractors consequently could not be "restricted in regard to their labor."

The treasury said it wanted to notify contractors that they must conform with the government's wage policy, but that such notice had been held up pending approval of the comptroller general. Gleason replied that the question had been before the comptroller general for several months, with no action taken.

He listed an additional dozen government building projects where contracts had been let to wage-cutting firms and said that the War Department and Interior Department had rendered wages on their own initiative at an experimental dam at Vicksburg, Miss., and an Indian school at Chilocco, Okla.

STOPPING A CHILD'S COUGH

During this time of year many mothers are kept awake night after night by having their children cough. There is nothing more ruinous to a good night's sleep than listening to a youngster who is having spells of coughing. I am therefore going to outline a simple treatment that the mother can use which usually has the effect of stopping the cough, thus allowing both mother and child to have a good night's rest.

When the cough has been brought on by a cold setting in the throat or bronchial tubes, then the best thing to do is to use the sweating treatment. Put the child in a warm bath and heat the water gradually until as hot as he can stand. He should be left in for from ten to twenty minutes, or until he begins to perspire. Have the bath room warm. Take the child from the bath, dry quickly, and rub the chest and upper back with camphorated oil or some of the eucalyptus oils or menthol ointments. Then cover this with some old silk and pin around a vest made from an old woolen blanket or woolen sweater. While the child is still warm wrap him in a woolen blanket. Pin this around the neck and put the child to bed, being careful not to chill or overheat. File more blankets over, keeping preferred to using cough syrups to cure the cough. Many of these syrups contain chloroform and have the effect of suppressing the cough without removing the cause which is producing it.

This treatment which I have outlined helps in removing the cause and usually leaves the child feeling better than before the illness.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 (Soda and Gas)

Question: Grandma writes: "I am troubled with gas, and a friend of mine told me to take powdered borax. I have been taking baking soda. Which do you think is best? I am an old lady seventy-five years old and want to do the right thing. I do not want to take anything that will injure me, as I enjoy good health."

Answer: Why take either of these remedies, for if you eat according to my weekly menus published in this paper you should not be troubled with excessive gas. If you will send me your name and address on a large stamped envelope I will be glad to send you some special articles on the subject of excessive gas. As you just signed your letter "Grandma" and as there are so many Grandmas in the world, I am afraid a letter would not reach you as easily as it does Santa Claus.

(Skin Turning Yellow)

Question: McR. writes: "My skin is slowly turning yellow. Can you give me any method of bleaching it?"

Answer: You may be developing jaundice, in which case you should take a strict fasting and diet treatment. If your yellow color is not caused by excessive bile in your blood it may be because you are eating too many carrots. The carotin or yellow color of carrots will discolor the skin, usually starting in the palms of the hands. This coloring in the body is apparently harmless. If carrots cause your color and you want to get rid of it, it will be necessary for you to leave them out of your diet for several weeks before your color will become normal.

(Fattening Foods)

Question: F. P. writes: "As I am a little overweight, would like to know if raisins, grapes, and sweet potatoes are fattening."

Answer: These foods may be said to be fattening if they are taken in large enough quantities, but small amounts would probably not put on added weight in your case, as you say you are only a little overweight.

ERROR CORRECTED

New Haven, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The Associated Press in a dispatch Jan. 27, erroneously stated that control of the National Industrial Loan Corporation had been purchased by George Groves of Baltimore.

The company purchased by Groves was the National Industrial Service, Inc., while the National Industrial Loan Corporation with headquarters in Hartford, is still in operation as an independent company. In addition, Groves has recently purchased the Franklin Thrift and Loan Association of Connecticut and the National Credit Corporation.

The Associated Press is glad to make this correction.

Oso, Norway, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Discovery of wreckage of the Norwegian steamer Oly along the northeast coast of Iceland has given rise to fears that the vessel founded with her eighteen-man crew.

FLORISTS EXHIBIT ARE CARNATIONS

Growing Much Larger But Are Losing Their Fra- grance—In 15 Colors.

Pittsburgh, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Carnations and flappers are on a diet, but the carnations are getting larger than ever.

With size, though the carnation is losing its fragrance. The public apparently prefers size to scent, the growers say. Color, too, is largely a matter of the staple red and pinks and yellows and whites of old, all because of public taste.

Nevertheless, fifteen color classes, from white through a multitude of pinks and reds to almost purple, are arrayed at the show of the American Carnation Society here competing, variety against variety, color against color, for the judges' favor. They have been brought here from nurseries from New England to the southwest, and strangely enough, blooms from the extremes, New England and Denver, dominate the show.

Thrive on Salt

It's a matter of circumstance and diet. Carnations thrive on salt. That's why New England, with its sea breezes, holds the advantage on the one hand. Carnations flourish in high altitude. That gives Denver growers an advantage, though they are forced to supply salt artificially. But in both New England and the southwest and points between, growers are reverting to use of the natural fertilizers of the past. Especially are they watching how much "food" they give their blooms, for carnations, like man, can't overeat and survive.

Large Flower

The result is a larger, stronger, more colorful bloom. With those qualities, the growers hope to capture the public fancy, now enamored of the rose.

Four varieties, bred and pedigreed like race horses from the strains of the past, are in the field this year for the Fred Rorer Medal, pinnacle of American carnation supremacy. They are the "Wildfire," a flaming scarlet developed by F. Rorer and Son, of Lafayette, Ind.; the "Patrician," an aristocratic white of Bauersteinkamp Co., of Indianapolis; the "Brilliance," a delicate cerise-pink of C. B. Johnson, of Woburn, Mass.; and the "Flesh-pink," "Rapture" of John Steidle, of Clayton, Mo.

Though the color stand-bys still rule, carnations have their novel-ty. Chief among them this year are whites shading to pink at the tips of their petals; yellows rarely tinged with pink at the edges; a colored rain; and yellows boldly flecked with red, looking almost like orange pom-poms from a distance.

TRIED TO WRECK TRAIN

Monterey, Mexico, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Jesus Vasquez and Armando Flores were in jail here today awaiting trial on a charge of attempting to wreck the northbound Mexico City-Laredo passenger train Wednesday. They are alleged to have confessed that they placed several large stones on the track at the entrance to a bridge midway between here and Laredo. These were removed by a road employe who also stopped the train in time to avoid an accident.

The reason for the attempt has not been divulged.

FIGURES IN CLUB ABBEY DRAMA

THE FIGHT AT THE CLUB ABBEY

Here are the principal characters in the blazing drama that made a shambles of the Club Abbey, in New York, the other day at dawn. The invasion of Arthur (Dutch) Schultz, lower center, and some of his henchmen resulted in a gun battle, his own wounding, and subsequent disappearance. Charles (Chink) Sherman, right, was shot and slashed. But his life is believed to have been saved by Mavis King, left, Broadway's best-known cigaret girl, who snapped off the lights and rushed Sherman to a hospital.

Broadway Night Clubs Are Under Police Fire

EDITOR'S NOTE: How the underworld has gained a strange hold on New York's night life, and how defiant gangsters and get-rich-quick racketeers make their headquarters in the night clubs frequented by innocent diversion-seekers and out-of-town visitors, is explained by The Herald and NEA Service in a series of three special articles, of which this is the first.

BY PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Writer

New York, Jan. 30.—Hello sucker! Welcome to New York's night club! But do you know why you pay $2 a bottle for ginger ale when you visit the Broadway joy-joints. Or why the cover charge is $10 for a table the size of a platter—and carbonated hard cider costs $24 when it comes to you in a champagne bottle?

Here's why: You're paying the personal and professional expenses of New York's gangsters and racketeers. You're buying diamonds for the big-shot mobsters, and sudden death for their enemies. You are making donations to the $100,000,000 fund that racket chiefs in this city alone collect each year from an indifferent public.

But because such vicarious thrills cost money, you have a grand time spending it. You have a reserved seat at the headquarters of the criminal upper crust. You, and thousands like you, get a kick out of rubbing shoulders with men whom the prosecutors would like to send to the electric chair, and with underworld czars whose very presence is an invitation to a sudden hall of sub-machine gun bullets.

Which is precisely the reason why the Broadway hot-spots are doing very well for themselves. Amusement, in all its aspects, is New York's best racket. For the out-of-town visitor and money-laden citizenry always can be counted on, apparently, to play and pay. Theater tickets, prize fights, visits to speakeasies, all require their offerings on the gay altar of illicit enterprise.

Would Close Clubs Earlier

But it's at the night clubs, where jazzman, unclad cuties and synthetic hilarity hold sway, that racketeering extortion is carried on to a degree of defiance beyond the dreams even of a Capone. Which is natural enough, since the bright spots, or at least the vast majority of them, are owned, controlled, operated, protected, and preyed upon by members of the underworld, with all of them making capital of the fact that they also are frequented by gamblers.

The recent wrecking of the Club Abbey by a flare-up of warfare that seriously wounded at least two notorious "clubmen" and imperiled the lives of panic-stricken customers, again has called official attention to the strangle-hold that the underworld has obtained on the city's night life. Pointing out that almost every one of the many shootings in these bright spots has occurred in the early morning hours, Police Commissioner Mulrooney is backing a campaign to close them at 1 a. m.

Heretofore, Gotham has had a 3 a. m. curfew law for late diversion seekers. But its effect always has been annulled by the fact that clubs run in connection with hotels could, and consequently did, stay open as long as they pleased. The result was that most of the clubs moved or altered themselves, in some remote fashion, with some of the less prominent hostilities. With a consequent increase, reformers charge, in immorality.

Filled With "Celebrities"

Just such a spot was the Club Abbey, which is connected with the Hotel Harding. It and the Silver Slipper, which opens and closes sporadically with raids, padlocks and bravas, are perhaps the most generally Broadway-wise of all the Main Stem's establishments. Here, and in a dozen others of lesser prominence, you can find those persons who, under the unusual standards of Broadway, are classed as celebrities—politicians, big and little lawyers, jurists, actors and actresses, "fixers," fighters and promoters, divorcees and divas.

Only at clubs like the Lido, Montmartre and El Patio can you count on finding a preponderance of the elite Park Avenue "carriage trade." But in the intermediate to be raised by clever forgery. And just so he won't be able to recognize the place he may be beaten up and hauled away in a taxicab.

The Committee of Fourteen, a prominent group of volunteer vice investigators, estimates that 95 per cent of the night taxi drivers are allied with these clubs, and receive as much as 40 per cent commission of the proceeds from each customer they bring in. And in a recent investigation which included 1330 night clubs, 1134 admitted prostitutes were found.

No such crude tactics are employed on Broadway. The shirted, be-diamonded gangmen here are playing for bigger game, just as they were doing the other night when the Club Abbey was made a shambles.

Averted Gang War

Arthur (Dutch) Schultz, one-time beer czar of the Bronx, and associate of another brew merchant, Big Bill Dwyer, for two years had been at odds with the Broadway mob because of the murder of a friend and henchman, Deputy Sheriff Noe. The slaying almost precipitated a gang war between Schultz and Jack Legs Diamond, but it was averted by Owne Madden, kingpin of New York rackets.

But Madden, said to be part owner of the Club Abbey, left town. Charles (Chink) Sherman, who has been mentioned in connection with everything from the operation of rum fleets to the importation of narcotics—and who is known to have been a big-time gambler, associate of Arnold Rothstein, and former business partner of two millionaire racketeers—acquired a share in the Abbey and was making it the headquarters of his crowd. Along the Main Stem's "bullet belt," you'll hear that Chink was "on the make"—that he was "muscling in" on night club ownerships on a large scale.

It was in front of this very club that Schultz's friend, Noe, was slain. And it was to this club that Schultz, his bodyguard and gun-bearer, "Marty the Wolf," and two others went the other morning about dawn. They found Chink Sherman and a party in the "wise-guy" corner, a place reserved at the rear where leaders of the mobs sit with their women.

Wounded Attackers

Many persons must know exactly what happened then, but no one is telling. But before Sherman went down, shot and slashed almost to the point of death, he had wounded, perhaps killed, Schultz and at least one other of the attackers.

As customers smashed tables and mirrors in their stampede to safety, little Mavis King, most famous of cigaret girls, turned out the lights. Meanwhile the invaders removed their casualties, and she later took Sherman to a hospital, crying hysterically the while that "We'll get even with 'em, Chink."

Police are seeking the vanished Schultz, or his body, anxiously wondering if this affair will lose the desperate night club feud which long has been threatening. Certainly, they admit, the stage is set for it.

TAKES PICTURES OF SPEEDING MOTOR

New Invention Makes "Still" Pictures So That All Parts May Be Studied.

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—A stroboscope so powerful that still and motion pictures of a 160-horse power motor can be made while the machine is running at full speed has been developed at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The stroboscope is a scientific device for "stopping" motion to study parts of machines operating at high speed.

Development of the new type of stroboscope has been accomplished by Harold E. Edgerton, a member of the technology instructing and research staff. Announcement today of its existence has opened up a new field of research in the study of moving machinery, the announcement said. Photographic exposures with the new instrument are made at ten one-millionths of a second.

In pictures taken of a 160-horsepower motor, although the motor was turning over at a rate corresponding to a ground speed of 95 miles an hour, every detail of the moving parts was shown as clearly as if the machine were standing still.

The new device is used chiefly in the study of rotating electrical machinery, but it can be employed to "stop motion" in almost any type of machinery. It is especially useful in determining the behavior of cams, springs, valves and other moving parts.

A unique feature of the technology stroboscope is the electrical circuit which causes a condenser to discharge periodically through a thyratron mercury arc tube. An intense blue acting light of extremely short duration, precisely timed to correspond with the speed of the machine under observation, is produced by a large current through the tube, and makes it possible to adapt the stroboscope for photographic as well as visual observation.

SHOOTING OF GOV. GOEBEL

On Jan. 30, 1930 Governor William Goebel of Kentucky was shot by an assassin in front of the state capital.

The preceding June, Goebel was nominated for governor by the Democratic party. Seeding Democrats nominated John Y. Brown. As a result, the Republican candidate, W. S. Taylor, was elected by about 2500 votes. Goebel, however, contested the election, and a legislative committee was about to report in his favor when he was shot.

The Democratic members of the legislature immediately declared Goebel governor and the oath of office was administered to him on Jan. 31. He died the following Feb. 3. Goebel had won a reputation as a trial lawyer and a state senator. In 1897 he secured the passage of the "Goebel law" requiring the courts of all power in the appointment of election officials, and creating a state election commission of three members, chosen by the legislature, which should have the power to appoint local boards on the same principle.

SYMPHONY TRACES TRENDS IN MUSIC

A musical panorama, tracing the major trends in music in sweeping fashion, will be presented by the Philco Symphony Orchestra in a special transcription program which will be broadcast on Monday, Feb. 2 from station WTIC of Hartford. The program, which progresses from the conservative classics of several centuries ago to the modern music of today, will go on the air at 10:00 p. m. The symphony musicians, comprising the largest symphony orchestra organized exclusively for broadcasting purposes, will open their program with compositions by the classicists Beethoven and Brahms and will bring it to a close with a work of the representative contemporary composer Alexander Scriabin. Before whose music was considered revolutionary when it was first presented, it will also be included on the program. Beethoven's overture to Collin's tragedy "Coriolanus" will be followed by a typical Brahms Hungarian dance. Before playing the titanic "Rhin Journey" excerpt from Wagner's opera "Siegfried" the orchestra will present a familiar selection from the famous Peer Suite of Grieg. The transcription programs over the local station are presented by the same musicians as are heard every Tuesday evening on the Philco program over the Columbia chain. The program in full is as follows: 1. Overture to "Coriolanus" Beethoven 2. Hungarian Dance No. 6 Brahms 3. Morning Mood from Peer Gynt Grieg 4. Siegfried's "Rhin Journey" Wagner 5. March from "Prince Igor" Borodin

Washington, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Industrial preparedness was viewed by Assistant Secretary Payne of the War Department today as of equal importance with organization of man-power in any scheme of national defense.

WAPPING

The United Workers met at the First Congregational church last Friday afternoon, at half past one, where they tackled quilts and also did other work for missions throughout the Hartford East Association of Congregational churches. The next meeting of Wapping Grange will be held Tuesday evening, February 10, and it will be Valentine's Night. Everyone is requested to bring a valentine. The following members are named as a committee to provide for the entertainment program: Miss Clara Chandler, Miss Doris Rockwell, Miss Ellen T. Moody, Homer Lane, Jr., William Burnham and Francis Foster. There will also be a roll call, each member responding by telling something they would like to have the Grange do in the coming year.

SAYS FORCED LABOR IS USED IN RUSSIA

London, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The British government today published in a Blue Book documents dealing with Soviet labor legislation which, although submitted without comment, were regarded as strikingly confirming assertions that much of Soviet grain and timber sent abroad is produced under forced labor. The Blue Book cites decrees showing that aside from prisoners under sentence who are employed in the penal camps, others may be compulsorily employed in loading or unloading grain cargoes and preparing and hauling timber when other means of providing an adequate supply of labor have been exhausted. One decree says that "rich Kulak elements are to be engaged at lower rates of pay than other workers."

KILLS GOVERNOR'S FRIEND WHILE GUEST AT HOME

Mazatlan, Sinaloa, Mexico, Jan. 30.—(AP)—General Pedro Gaxiola, governor of Sinaloa, thanked a heavy duty Spanish hussar and lock on his bedroom door today for his life. Shortly before midnight after he had retired, a guest in his home, Leopoldo Barragan, arose and shot and killed another guest, Manuel Mejia, and then, pistol in hand, tried to break into the governor's room. The police were called but Barragan shot and killed one of them and wounded another before dashing out of the house. The pursuing officers shot him dead finally after a chase of several blocks. Barragan had come to Mazatlan to complain of alleged political persecution in his home town. Angostura, and the governor took him to his home as a guest. The governor said he believed Barragan was demoted.

NEW QUAKES IN MEXICO

Mexico City, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Renewed earthquakes over southern Mexico yesterday caused some damage, particularly in Oaxaca where several buildings collapsed. The tower of the temple at Tlaxiaco, Oaxaca, caved in. A girl was injured in the collapse of a building at Miahuatlan. Many houses were thrown down in Huasteco, Vera Cruz, where those residents who had not already done so abandoned their homes and set up improvised tents in the open spaces. The revenue cutter service of the U. S. Coast Guard was organized in 1790.

TWO NEW PROGRAMS SOON TO BE HEARD

"Sweethearts of the Air" Starts Feb. 6—Male Song Recital On Feb. 15.

New York, Jan. 30.—(AP)—New radio programs are appearing with more and more frequency. Since the first of the year, quite a number have had their premiers. Now two more are to start. One, to be called "Sweethearts of the Air" is to present a mixed quartet in semi-classical and popular songs via WABC and stations beginning Sunday, February 6. It is to go on from 5:30 to 6 p. m., E. S. T. The second feature is to be a male song recital, opening Sunday, Feb. 15, on the WJZ chain. It is to be a 13 weeks series. The time is to be 3:30 p. m., E. S. T.

After their three appearances on the Columbia chain from which they withdrew because they did not want to become "conventionalized" the Three Eskers have resumed their "Footite Follies" program on WMAQ, Chicago, on Tuesday night. At WMAQ their title is "Three Doctors."

Each Saturday night at 11 o'clock for the next few months, signals of W2XAF, Schenectady, on 3148 meters, are to be directed to Venezuela with special programs by the Syracuse University.

Try these on your radio tonight: Mme. Frances Alda and Frank La Forge via WJZ and stations at 7:15. Appeal for the Red Cross relief fund by General John J. Pershing, WABC network at 8:15. Arthur Murray opening a dancing class series on the WJZ hookup at 8:45. Review of fifty years of vaudeville in the Theater of the Air, WJZ and stations at 10:30.

Tomorrow is to bring: Philharmonic Symphony society children's concert at 11 a. m., on WABC chain. Weber and Fields opening on WJZ and chain at 8. Will Rogers Red Cross program, WABC and network at 10.

G CLEF GLEE CLUB SEEKS NEW MEMBERS

Rehearsing Now For Fourth Annual Concert — To Join Beethovens In April Program.

The G Clef Glee Club of the Swedish Lutheran church has begun rehearsal for the fourth annual concert and at this time will accept applicants for membership in the organization. As only a limited number of voices is accepted, it is suggested that all applicants communicate with the chairman of the membership committee, Miss Faith Fallow, 169 Main street, Tel. 6097.

The G Clef Glee Club has been organized since June 1927, and is composed of young women from the North and South Methodist churches. Second Congregational, Swedish Congregational, St. Mary's and Swedish Lutheran churches. Rehearsals are being held weekly in the Swedish Lutheran church from 7 until 9:30 in preparation for concert work. This club has become very well known in the past three years, having given concerts in all parts of Connecticut under the direction of Helge Pearson.

At this time the club would like to increase its membership so that work can be completed on Handel's "Messiah" which is to be given with the Beethoven Glee Club some time the latter part of April.

Tests have shown that heating radiators have greater efficiency when coated with lead paints than when flake-metal paints are used.

How to Escape FLU

- 1 Avoid so far as possible the places where flu germs are most likely to be spread; overcrowded cars and public meeting places; overheated, stuffy rooms. 2 Be careful of close contact with others and beware of all coughs and sneezers; breathe through the nose, get fresh air, but avoid drafts or chilling. 3 Get lots of rest. Eat plenty of citrus fruits. Keep the bowels open. Take extra recreation to keep in good physical condition, so your system will have high resistance against germs. 4 Above all, avoid catching colds. They lower your resistance to the flu germ. Ward them off. At the first sign of any cold, take Bayer Aspirin and remain indoors if possible until your cold is gone. If you have a sore throat, dissolve some Bayer Aspirin tablets in water and gargle. This will relieve the soreness and reduce the inflammation. 5 If you have any reason to suspect even a touch of flu, call your doctor at once.

Spring Fashions Bloom in Paris Intricate Designs and Odd Colorings Babble Dress-making Copyists. Paris, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Gay stripes and splashing prints designed in zigzag and complicated lines moved in bright pageantry through the salons of one of the most prominent Parisian dress makers last night as the latest work in spring fashions. Subtle coloring and intricate design combined to make the spring fashions some of the most complicated Paris has seen since the days of muton legged sleeves. Dress-making copyists were promised the stiffest job they have had in years. Even monotone dresses of apparent simplicity revealed triangular or square piecing of the most intricate design. Others were frankly mystifying, with ruffles winding from hip to hem in intricately cut drapes and graduated pleups. Cream Puff Sleeves Black and dark blue chiffon or crepe afternoon frocks featured cream puff sleeves made of myriad rows of valencian lace or dark shadow lace sleeves under waist-length capes. The simplest daytime models had standing, flat, or rib collars of white pique or bright silk Scottish plaids, while several models displayed silk and satin skirts showing several inches below the hems. Even sports models, featuring green, blue, beige and red plaids and stripes combined with plain colors were exhibited with complicated vests and trousers, blouses. The evening gowns used several materials and colors in one model. White cotton lace combined with organdy, velvet leaves and flowers applied on net, rows of narrow lace stitched on voile, and black stitching on light crepe, were among the newest evening notes. Brilliant large flowered chiffons designed in overlapping drapes and tiers were a favorite among the exhibits. The jewels displayed with the gowns were as complicated as the dresses. Brilliant, colored with crystals, corals, and jade were designed in three tiered necklaces and bracelets generally contrasting in color with the gown. NEW QUAKES IN MEXICO Mexico City, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Renewed earthquakes over southern Mexico yesterday caused some damage, particularly in Oaxaca where several buildings collapsed. The tower of the temple at Tlaxiaco, Oaxaca, caved in. A girl was injured in the collapse of a building at Miahuatlan. Many houses were thrown down in Huasteco, Vera Cruz, where those residents who had not already done so abandoned their homes and set up improvised tents in the open spaces. The revenue cutter service of the U. S. Coast Guard was organized in 1790.

Canadiens Doing Better Work Than Boston Sextet

Maul Quakers 7-1 After Latter Had Tied Bruins 3-3
Two Nights Previous; Bruins Top Rangers Again 4 To 3.

New York, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The Montreal Canadiens, who beat the Boston Bruins in the final playoff for the Stanley Cup last season, seem to be trying this season to show again they have the better hockey team and the National League schedule is providing them with abundant opportunities.
After the New York American's defeated Boston last week, the flying Frenchmen stepped out and gave the Americans a severe trimming. Tuesday Philadelphia held the Canadiens to a tie and last night the Quakers defeated for a 7 to 1 victory.
The Bruins did not do so badly for themselves last night. They retold the ancient story of beating the New York Rangers coming from behind to take a hard fought game 4 to 3.
Like Boston, the Toronto Maple Leafs had to come from behind in the third period to beat Ottawa 3 to 2.

PLAINVILLE BOWLER BEATS KEBERT HERE

Silveit Averages 131 and Has High Single of 171 To Win First Leg of Match By 69 Pins.

Bill Silveit of Plainville rolling at Conrats' alley last night defeated Charlie Kebert by 69 pins in their first leg of a home and home match. Kebert turned in the creditable average of 124. Silveit won six games, Kebert three, with one tied. Silveit came within five pins of breaking the alley record when he hit 171 in his last game. Up to the end of the ninth game, Kebert was behind only 13 pins. Silveit got eight marks in his final effort. The scores follow:

CHICAGO MAY BUCK MAX-STRIB FIGHT

Chicago, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Chicago Stadium officials today were silent on current report they would attempt to match Jack Sharkey and Mickey Walker for a bout in June as a counter attraction to the New York Madison Square Garden's proposed Schmeling-Young Stribling fight at Soldier Field, Chicago.
Walker always has been a big attraction in Chicago and the Chicago Stadium officials admit their belief that he and Sharkey would provide a match able to attract customers away from the heavyweight championship fight.

CLEVELAND CLUB, HERE ON TUESDAY, HAS FINE RECORD

"Shorty" Gill's Outfit Has Won 470 and Lost 57 In 14 Years of Basketball Playing.

Next week promises to be a memorable one in Manchester basketball circles. There are two events scheduled which have aroused unusual interest. By the order of their occurrence they are the appearance of the Cleveland Favorite Knits with "Shorty" Gill, a player seven feet, three inches tall, here against the Recreation Center on Tuesday evening and the long-awaited second clash between Manchester and Bristol high schools to take place in Bristol on Friday night.
The Manchester-Bristol game has been discussed publicly and privately for several weeks and needs no further comment at the moment. Everyone is well acquainted with the facts surrounding the Manchester-Bristol series and would no doubt like to learn much more about the buckeye state whirlwinds who come here to swap shots with the Rec Five. The Favorite Knits have been organized for fourteen consecutive seasons during which they won 470 games and lost only 57. Last season's record shows 40 victories against 11 defeats.

TILDEN-HUNTER UNION MAY HELP BRING AN OPEN

By CLAIR BURCKY
NEA Service Sports Writer.

New York, Jan. 30.—Now is the time for the United States Lawn Tennis Association and the French and British Tennis Federations to forget their snooty ideas and sanction the first annual International Open tennis championships for 1931.
And why not? Professional golfers here and abroad have been allowed to cross niblicks and click glasses with the amateurs. Nobody ever got hurt in the mixups, unless it was the professional who for quite a few years now has stood in the background as Bobby Jones accepted the championship cup.
It seems worthy of a trial. The amateur bodies alone stand against it, although Louis J. Carruthers, now head of the U. S. L. T. A., has said he would cast his vote for such an event. Top ranking American, English and French amateur racquet players for several years have favored a tournament in which they could meet Vincent Richards and Karel Kozeluh, the leading professional tennis players. Only one such tournament would be needed to convince the few skeptics among tennis fandom.

It wasn't long ago that George Lott made the startling disclosure that tennis was making him a gentleman of the transient type. In his discourse on "tennis bums," he mentioned no names other than his own, but at the time it was not difficult to think of a few. Anyhow, Lott accepted a job and shortly deserted bachelorhood. If he turns professional, don't be surprised.
Bill Tilden being an athletic fellow and very moody at times, I'd prefer to debate neither his financial status nor his wandering propensities, but I am reasonably certain that tall William might have continued in amateur tennis for another decade without being voted a pension from the U. S. L. T. A. Ten more years of tennis campaigning would make Big Bill considerably more than a middle-age man, and just as grouchy.
But Bill has turned pro. He has offered to demonstrate, for generous compensation, his strokes on the movie screen. He has consented to tour the country playing exhibitions, gambling his drawing power against the money of the fans. He has indicated that he will accept the professional razzberry without undue putting as of his amateur days.
Indebtedness to his pal Tilden, who hauled him back to the top in 1927 after he had slipped from the pinnacle of tennis, was the reason given by Francis T. Hunter for abandoning the amateur ranks. Hunter also found the financial offer most tempting, although it is understood that his string of newspapers will see him comfortably through the present business depression.
Hunter will play under the Tilden banner in all of Big Bill's week-end exhibitions in the east. He will participate in the opening stand of the troupe at Madison Square Garden on Feb. 18 when Tilden meets Kozeluh in the feature match. In all he expects to play about 40 matches, most of them on eastern outdoor courts this summer.
There was a persistent demand in Paris last summer for a meeting between Henri Cochet, the recognized world singles champion, and Kozeluh, professional king at that time. Cochet was sympathetic toward the agitation. Pressure was brought to bear on the French Federation but that body stood pat and the proposed match was never staged, though charity was to have been the benefactor.
In this country charity is quite a topic of conversation. U. S. L. T. A. executives could sport a gaudy feather in their respective derbies if they'd sanction an open tournament.

No Babies For Us Says Mrs. Dempsey

New Orleans, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Old fashioned married life—sitting in the chimney corner and such—has no appeal for Jack Dempsey and his wife, Estelle Taylor, who met here today, each headed in opposite directions.
"I'm going to work and stay with the stage as long as I can hold myself together," said Mrs. Dempsey. "When I lose my youth I'll resort to monkey glands and face lifting to keep myself presentable."
"Babies? Never! They are not in my scheme of things at all. I couldn't be a fifth wheel in Jack's life. I tried to travel with him, but found myself always an outsider in a man's world of fight talk."
Jack couldn't get a word in edgewise while his lady was talking but he did manage to say:
"I like running around, having plenty to do."
He admitted he called his wife over long distance each night and that his telephone bills averaged about ten dollars a day.
They will spend a couple of days together in New Orleans, and then will go their way. Being apart, both agreed, has not cooled their affection for each other.

McGRATH RECALLS CORBETT-CHOYNSKI BATTLE ON BARGE

BY TIM McGRATH

(Copyright, 1931, NEA Service Inc.)
San Francisco, Jan. 30.—A middle western sport fan writes to ask if Jim Corbett and Joe Choynski fought before their famous battle of 1889 on a barge near Benicia, California. They fought twice, Corbett winning the first meeting, in 1884—and the second being stopped by police.
In fact, this second fight caused the barge battle. When police halted the fight in a barn, both men insisted upon settling matters as soon as possible.
There was bad feeling between the youngsters, each a San Franciscan, with his own following. The California Club offered a 10,000 purse—big for those days—but the boys preferred to fight for a fraction of that amount if they could murder each other. The prize was $1000, winner take all.
It was arranged for a meeting in a small barn loft in San Anselmo, across the Golden Gate from San Francisco. Just a favored few could be accommodated. A committee took the weapons of any guests carrying these.
T. T. Williams, later a prominent newspaperman, was timekeeper.
Corbett's seconds were Tom Williams, wealthy sportsman; Porter Ashe, nationally known society figure, and Billy Delaney, afterward a famous manager of fighters. In Choynski's corner were Nat Goodwin, Jack Dempsey, the Nonpareil and Eddie Graney, famous referee of later years. Patsy Hogan was the referee.
Goodwin paid a man $40 to go to San Rafael, nearby, wire the theater in San Francisco that he was sick, and cancel the matinee.
Corbett was forcing the action, when in the sixth round, the sheriff and a force of deputies raided the barn. There was a wild scramble for the door, two small windows, and a rickety stairway down from the loft. Some of the dignitaries of the day looked most undignified as they leaped from the barn and ran. No arrests were made.
Corbett and Choynski escaped in ring togs. Hogan called the fight a draw—and he ducked himself. The unsatisfactory ending only increased bitterness between the two factions. It was inevitable that they'd meet again soon.
Through Eddie Graney, I attended the barge battle, six days later—one of the classics of the prize ring. I was in Choynski's corner.
We all quietly boarded a launch before daylight headed somewhere. In Suisun Bay, we tied to the barge, owned by Williams, one of Corbett's seconds. The same seconds and officials as at San Anselmo officiated.
Choynski's two-ounce gloves were

WEST SIDES TRIM WHEEL CLUB 38-28 IN ROCKVILLE TILT

Wiley, Mattson, Falkowski Lead Attack; Game Cleanly Played Before Small Crowd At Turn Hall.

The West Side Club of Manchester went up to Rockville last night and defeated the Wheel Club at Turn Hall in a basketball game which was witnessed by a small crowd. The score was 38 to 28.
Unlike many Manchester-Rockville clashes in past years, the contest was devoid of any serious rough play or unportsmanlike conduct on the part of the players. The West Sides reported that they got a square deal.
Rockville had a 12 to 6 lead the first quarter and things didn't look any too rosy for the Hunt clan at that time but when halftime came around, the locals were leading by two points. The third quarter found Manchester three more points ahead and in the final period, the West Sides increased this to ten.
Billy Wiley was in rare form last night. The stocky local guard tallied five times from the floor, had a perfect average from the foul line and did not commit a single personal foul—a record that isn't often duplicated. Mattson and Falkowski were also in the best of form. Ambrose and Stone excelled for the Wheel Club.

MANCHESTER NEEDS VICTORY ONLY TO KEEP SLATE CLEAN

Willimantic's Record Unimpressive But Always Plays At Top Form Against Manchester; Defeat Would Hurst M. H. S.'s Standing In State.

Win or lose, Manchester High gets a breathing spell tonight when its basketball team journeys to Willimantic to try conclusions with a supposedly weaker Windham outfit. The Silk City athletes will enter the contest without the usual strain which a C. C. L. game causes. Windham is not a member of the league.
This does not mean Manchester will be disappointed if it loses. The local team is undefeated in eight games and is most anxious to go through the rest of its season unbeaten if possible. But the point is that in case Manchester should unexpectedly run against defeat tonight, such a loss will in no way jeopardize its pennant aspirations.
Bristol is Favored
Meanwhile Manchester's chief rival, Bristol, entertains West Hartford in a league encounter. While Bristol is a heavy favorite to not only win, but also pile up a formidable margin, the fact remains that there is always the possibility of an upset and such an outcome would be very detrimental to Bristol's hopes of tying Manchester for the pennant by beating the locals in Bristol next Friday night.

Windham hasn't had a particularly successful season, winning only two games according to information received from the Willimantic Chronicle sports department a few days ago. However, Willimantic fans are willing to forget the past if Windham can take its biggest rival, Manchester, tonight. Consequently Manchester may have to display its very best to emerge the winner. Unlike Bristol, Manchester has a habit of beating its opponents by much closer scores than the Monmouths.
Three games will be played tonight. The fresh arm quietest engage in battle at 6:45, the junior varsity at 7:45 and the varsity at 8:45. Johnny Manion of East Hart-

WEST POINT MUST INVESTIGATE CHARGES

Washington, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Charges that West Point authorities have permitted proselyting of football players are to be investigated by the Military Academy.
Such an inquiry was demanded by Representative Fish, Republican, New York, late yesterday. General McArthur, the chief of staff, said the charges would be forwarded to the academy for investigation.
Fish asked an investigation of the activities of W. T. Wrightson, a member of the Army athletic association and of Paul Carroll, a cadet, in connection with alleged efforts to induce Kenneth Goff, star Rhode Island state football player to enter the academy.

ford is understood to have been selected to head Manchester's little army of basketball athletes leave the East Side Rec at 6 o'clock tonight.

Future Considered
Manchester High is looking forward to competing in the Yale Tournament this season for the state championship and has hopes of proving itself one of the two best teams in the state and thereby qualifying for the New England tournament to be staged this year at Newport, R. I., after a lapse of several years. It was formerly held in Goddard gym at Tufts College in Medford, Mass. The following Associated Press dispatch today from Newport states that only two Connecticut teams will be eligible to compete, one from the eastern section and one from the western. Manchester may possibly prove the best in the eastern sector.

Newport, R. I., Jan. 30.—(AP)—The New England Interscholastic Basketball Tournament will be held here on March 19, 20 and 21, the committee of local business men who have been promoting the meet announced last night.
Eight New England scholastic teams will take part in the tournament. Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Rhode Island, will enter one team each, while Massachusetts and Connecticut will enter teams from both the eastern and western parts of their states.
Negotiations are under way with Tufts college, where the tournament was formerly held, for the "Fletcher Cup" as a trophy.

GLENNEY'S

For GINGER'S SAKE

by ETHEL HUESTON
© 1930 THE BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Life was never dull with Ginger Ella Tolliver around. Whenever there was a threat of it Ginger got a new idea. Thus she suggested a Junior Country Club to save the younger set of Red Thrush, Iowa, from utter boredom. It was to be exclusive—no parents, no babies. Accordingly Ginger, whose father was a minister but whose stepmother, the former Phil Van Doorn, was both wealthy and indulgent, purchased the Mill Rush farm, a 10-acre tract with an old house on it, which she proceeded, with the assistance of her friends, to overhaul and furnish.

Red Thrush seized the idea with enthusiasm. The younger set would paint Iowa nights a deep rose red. One day, while the rehabilitation of the club house was going on, an artist called at the Tolliver kitchen and offered to do a portrait of Ginger in exchange for a meal. After he had shaved off his beard, Ginger found to her amazement that he was both young and good looking. And he had talent. He had studied in Paris, and his name was Bard Holloway.

Ginger, never at a loss for ideas, thought it would be a good one if Bard remained a while in Red Thrush. She would see that he got enough commissions for portraits, which would be better than hobnobbing through the country, and he could do the mural decorations at the new club house. So, very cleverly, she got her stepmother to prevail on Bard to accept an invitation to stay at the Tollivers', and with this accomplished she took him to Mill Rush and got him started on the decorations.

Bard thought "Joie de Vivre" would be a good name for the club. It was adopted. And he thought it would be splendid if they could import Nicoletto Calleno from Chicago. For Nicoletto was handsome and he could cook and sing and strum a guitar. He would make a picturesque addition to the club. So he sent for Nicoletto. But on the morning of the grand dance he arrived at the Tollivers not one Latin youth but what seemed an army of them. Little Angelo was a musician, and Pietro could cook. And Benito could sing. And how! Nicoletto could not come, it seemed, and the girls were disappointed. So they were installed at the club.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XV

"Phil, tell me, what shall I wear?" Ginger demanded. "I don't know," said Phil. "I don't think I have, but is it the most becoming?"

"No, it isn't. And it is entirely too formal for a dance like this. I would wear the ivory chiffon with your sapphire chain and bracelets."

"Oh, but it is so—simple. It is just school-girlish. It doesn't begin to live up to what it cost. The red one is much more striking."

"It is not so becoming."

"But the other girls will be so much brighter."

"They will not be more attractive."

"Oh, dear," mourned Ginger.

She carried the investigation further.

"Father, which do I look nicest in—the white dress or the red one?"

"Which white one do you mean?"

"The one that Phil brought me from New York—the one I wear with the sapphires."

"I don't seem to remember it," he said, frowningly anxious with his very best judgment.

"What's the red one like?"

"Oh, father, you must remember the red one—that trails just a wee bit in the back."

"I can't seem to place it," he admitted.

"You come right upstairs," she said sternly. "You can get out of this by quibbling. I'll try them on for you."

She regaled him with a private showing of the gold gown, the red, the ivory white. He studied them all anxiously, frowning over the rim of his glasses.

"They're just beautiful, every one of them," he decided cheerfully.

"What difference does it make which you wear when they're all so nice?"

"Oh, father," she protested, "it makes ever and ever so much difference. Now look especially at these two. Here, I'll put the red one on again."

"It's very pretty," he smiled approval. "I like red."

"Is it prettier than the white?"

"Well, no, I can't say that it is any prettier."

"Well, is the white prettier than the red?"

"Well, maybe in some ways it is. I like the blue beads."

"Oh, dear!"

"Why don't you ask Bard? He's an artist. He ought to be a good judge of clothes."

"Oh, father, I can't ask him. I want to show him."

That was entirely too deep for her father.

But in the end, for her confidence in Phil was great, Ginger got into the ivory white that melted at the throat into a delicate lace that was like her own skin in its velvety softness.

She put the sapphire chain about her throat, slipped the bracelet upon her white arms, and put on her silken slippers with the high blue heels. And again and again she changed the arrangement of her hair, puffed it here, patted it there—started all over again.

"Do I need more rouge, Phil?"

"No indeed, Ginger. You are just right. You have never been so lovely."

"My hair is terrible," mourned Ginger.

Nor was Bard Holloway without his private plans and worries. By a bit of sly maneuvering, unknown to Ginger, he had arranged for Gooby to press out his dinner clothes—clothes which had done hard service in New York and Paris. They were lying out neatly upon his bed, with ties, with shirts, with waistcoats.

He was sorry they had let down the rules about what the well-dressed man was wearing with a dinner jacket. Since either was correct he could never be entirely sure which to choose, black waistcoat or white.

For himself he favored black, but after all, that fine white French one of his was something you didn't see very often. He was sure there was not another one like it in Red Thrush—maybe in all of Iowa.

His patent leather shoes were old and more than a bit the worse for wear, but he had engaged the good offices of Hamill to restore to them something of a polish.

It was not without a great deal of interested curiosity that Hamill accepted the unusual commission.

"Guess them slippers ain't Miss Ginger's now?" he said, with an eye upon the low heels.

"No, they are mine."

"Yes? Reckon you'd don't wear 'em in public, do you? Maybe them's those mules I been seen' about in the papers."

"No, they are for dancing," said Bard, somewhat embarrassed.

"Yes?" Hamill rattled slowly.

"Guess them Frenchmen wear clothes pretty much like women," he commented shrewdly.

Bard was glad to make his escape without further discussion, and the old man, puzzled, American shake of his shaggy head set to the work of polishing.

"Gosh," said Bard, as he struggled manfully with his tie, "life's just great. Joie de Vivre—from henceforth you're my middle name. Guess the gods ain't holding any grudges against me! Guess I hit it just about in the jolly old O. K. this time!"

Boysishly he had planned his appearance. Ginger would be ready first, waiting for him downstairs, perhaps tapping an impatient toe for his tardiness, bright eyes intent upon the broad staircase, where he must presently appear.

He would run lightly down—he had seen it done a hundred times on the stage—gives in one hand, hat in the other—head high over the stiff collar—and she would lift up a white hand in surprised and delighted greeting from the big chair.

He opened his door softly. It was already 10 minutes past the time she had set for their departure. She was bound to be waiting. At the end of the hall he was confronted with a full-length mirror, and after the first sudden wave of satisfaction with his general appearance, he stopped for a more minute inspection.

He turned carefully from side to side, admiring the cut of his coat in the rear, drawing in his waist and straightening his shoulders.

The prison population of the country has almost doubled in the last 25 years.

Dress Warmly and Sensibly to Ward Off Winter Colds and Flu

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of three articles written especially for The Herald and NEA Service by Dr. Morris Fishbein, noted authority on how to avoid influenza and its greatest contributory cause, the common cold. This series is especially timely in view of influenza epidemics reported in various cities.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Red flannel underwear for the average worker has long disappeared from the American scene. It is still occasionally seen in foreign districts and in lumber camps. The coming of the automobile and the steam-heated office and home have made it necessary that underclothing and indeed clothing in general be rather for indoor wear during the winter of the year. It is then possible for the worker to put on enough extra clothing before going outdoors to take care of his temperature needs.

Modern Dress Blamed
Everyone can remember when women began to outstrip the man so far as clothing was concerned. It is difficult to state whether the brevity of the clothing or of the diet was responsible for the rise in tuberculosis in young women which began coincidentally and which has persisted for several years. Dr. Hoy Dearholt has ascribed it primarily to modern dress, and he believes that it could be cut down if dress reform would be encouraged. The vast majority of physicians are convinced that insufficient protection of the body by suitable clothing is in a measure responsible for the frequency of colds, of influenza, and of pneumonia. Tuberculosis prospers in soil that is represented by modern women, poorly nourished and insufficiently dressed.

Whether or not excessive smoking of cigars is also a factor is another question, although Dr. Wolff Freudenthal is convinced that excessive smoking and insufficient sleep are also concerned.

The famous German hygienist, Rubner, feels that light clothing and the resultant chilling of the body are important factors in the increased mortality from respiratory diseases particularly tuberculosis in young women.

Dr. R. L. Russell of the Missouri State Department of Health says: "A person can stand a great deal of stormy, disagreeable weather without endangering his health if he keeps his feet and clothing dry, so raincoats, umbrellas and the lowly overshoes in various forms, styles and colors, are of considerable importance."

Every hygienist knows the difficulty of securing dress reform when elevating his chin the least bit. He tried the gloves in the right hand, then in the left—lifted the chin a bit more—

The door beside which he had been standing for this precautionary and examination opened with great suddenness and Ginger was obliged to pull herself up sharply to avoid a genuine collision.

Her lips parted slowly, her eyes widened.

"You are just lovely," he breathed softly. "you—look—nice."

He shook off the slight confusion her unexpected appearance had caused. "Oh, Ginger!" he said, and once again, "Oh, Ginger!" He entirely forgot the good entrance he had so carefully arranged.

"You are just lovely," he said. "You are an angel! Oh, how blue!"

"My sapphires," she stammered, laying a nervous hand upon the pendant at her throat.

"Your eyes," he said. He moved closer to her. "Ginger, you make everything inside of me—my heart—my breath—my very soul—turn upside down. I feel that I am—almost—standing on my head. You are so beautiful."

"You—you look nice," she reported feebly, and felt for the first time the vast utility of words. "You look so nice that I'm afraid—I'm going to cry."

They both laughed a little, self-consciously, and she patted her eyes with a wisp of a lace handkerchief. "I never looked as nice as this before," he said.

"Didn't you?"

"Guess not. I never made anybody cry with it before."

She laughed at that. "I'm not crying. Not really crying! I'm just excited—and surprised and so many things have happened. I don't see people look as nice as that very often."

"Ginger?" It was Phil's cool low voice from below.

"Yes," was the fluttering answer. "I'm on my way."

ing about 30 per cent of wool, that the underwear should have full-length arms and legs, and that the child should wear long stockings, which may be part wool, during the winter season.

In addition, the child under four years of age when taken outdoors should wear leggings and an outer coat which can be fastened well around the neck and allow a knitted sweater underneath.

It is opposed to fashion. But the evidence available is more than sufficient to indicate that dress reform is badly needed from the point of view of health, so far as women of the teen age are concerned.

Cover Child's Knees
Perhaps the silliest custom has been the feeling of certain mothers that little children should wear socks, going with the knees and legs bare, in order to harden them. Almost invariably it is the slender, undernourished child whose mother becomes afflicted with this notion.

The best authorities are convinced that the child should wear in winter undergarments containing about 30 per cent of wool, that the underwear should have full-length arms and legs, and that the child should wear long stockings, which may be part wool, during the winter season.

Learn your best profile angle, so if ever you want to flash it on anyone hurriedly, you will know just what it is and how to show it to advantage. A famous motion picture star has one terrible side view, one almost perfect one. For years she had a clause in her contracts that only profiles taken on the good side could be used, and she stuck to it and made her photographers follow it.

Certain hats flatter your profile immeasurably. Never buy a hat for its front view only. Consider the left side, the right side, from the front and the back. Take your time and make an all-around-the-head survey. For certainly if you forget to let your profile flatter you, no one will admire it.

The way you do your hair has much to do with your profile picture. This spring there are so many new coiffures that it seems a perfect time to do your hair a new way, a way that flatters both sides as well as the front view.

Know your profile and then see what you can do to help it.

It seems to be open season on blackheads, from the numbers of requests for instructions of how to rid the skin of them.

Blackheads are one of the most frequent causes of poor complexion and are due to a congestion in the fatty glands. If the end of such a gland becomes clogged up, the end of it dilates and a worm-like congestion follows. The outer edge of this, appearing on the face, usually about the nose, forehead and chin, looks black and hence the name.

There are various ways of ridding a skin of blackheads. The most successful, it seems to me, is the vapor bath which we have discussed and when the skin becomes softened, squeezing the blackheads out, using cotton to cover your fingers or the instruments that you use for "the squeezing."

One imperative rule here. Be sure to use a disinfectant the minute the little worm-like bit of fat bobs out of your skin, dab on a clean bit of cotton dipped in disinfectant. For these glands are in an unhealthy condition, just ready to pick up some germ or other that may be floating your way and you will have pimples and pus instead of the blackheads you have just removed. If you are not careful.

If you can afford it, a good treatment or two for blackheads is money well-spent. But you must keep your skin scrupulously clean afterwards, for the healthier and more normal your skin becomes, the fewer and fewer blackheads you will have. They certainly are no, addition to any beauty.

And right here, I'd like to offer another suggestion. You cannot be too scrupulous about keeping your compact powder puff clean. Would it seem absolutely impossible to suggest that you have a clean one each day? You don't think it's too much to ask of handkerchiefs, do you? Or of shields? If you get a quarter's worth of little powder puffs, or even a dime's worth and keep them washed and clean, you will find you have discovered one way to help keep blackheads off your face. For soiled powder puffs are one of the great offenders in this blackhead business.

Way To Get At A Cold Is Through the Bowels
As soon as you catch cold, the pores close; perspiration is checked. Gases and waste can't escape through the skin. That's why your doctor's first advice in case of colds is a mild laxative like Cascara. Medical authorities agree it actually strengthens bowel muscles. You get cascara in its most pleasant form in candy Cascarets.

Remember this when you catch cold; whenever breath is bad; tongue coated; or you're headachy, bilious, constipated.

Why resort to harsher things when Cascarets activate the bowels so quickly, so harmlessly and pleasantly—and cost only a dime?—Adv.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Profile hats are the coming style for spring, set back and a-tilt the head to show your profile off to advantage.

How many of us, I wonder, do the best we can by our profiles? How many, as a matter of fact, know our own profiles when we see them?

Get acquainted with your profile. Your earnest friendliness may improve it! For there are certain ways you can give your profile, certain ways you can aid and abet it in becoming as smart and attractive as possible.

First of all, get the double mirror habit each day for a short time. Look at yourself. Would you be better looking if your hair was lifted off the ear, curled around it, or curled in front and over it?

Are you, by any chance, getting a "chou-chin"? How about wearing a chin strap, daily massage and a better posture? For posture, you know, has much to do with whether or not your chin sags.

A definite aid to better profiles is the small slumber pillow, or no pillow at all. You women who still love to sleep upon a mound of feathers, with your head propped up all out of natural posture, should realize that it encourages a double chin. Try a baby-size pillow and see if you aren't just as comfortable. Certainly you gain in psychological uplift at denying yourself something for beauty's sake should make up what you lose in height from your head-rear.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton

It is a hard thing to advise mothers on the subject of dressing the baby's feet and legs these cold days, because houses are as different as climates, and what is suitable for a child in the way of warmth in one community would be risky for others in an entirely different atmosphere.

However I think there are a few general rules that all mothers might keep in mind, or hear about if they do not already know them. After seeing a poor little mite the other day whose woolen stockings were as tight as the kid covering on an old-fashioned doll, I decided that the advice I gave to that surprised mother might not come amiss to others.

The truth is that if it were possible to avoid the risk of colds babies would be better off without anything on their feet and legs at all. But in midwinter we will have to discount that, for first of all these same little feet and legs need to be nice and warm, so the next best thing is to see that not only should stockings be lightweight wool, or cotton, but that they are very, very loose. Never mind the way they look as long as they are clean; let them stick out beyond the toes if they will, and don't try to stuff fat little calves into stockings two sizes too small for them.

Most careful mothers now use wooden frames for drying woolen stockings; this keeps them from shrinking, but one reason why I favor cotton, or the more luxurious silk, is that most wool does thicken after many washings unless it is a fine quality of merino.

Unless the baby is in a cold house, or is outdoors a great deal he does not need a heavy stocking. And, I say this again, guardedly, it would be fine for his feet, muscles, and bones if he could go without any foot covering whatever. In warm weather he may do so safely.

The baby with unhampered feet is going to have the strongest feet when he grows older. There is small question of this.

A young baby need no extra shoes or booties. And the food specialist now advises "no shoes" until the child walks. Also he urges mothers not to buy the first shoes with stiff soles as was formerly the custom, but glove-like affairs with soft pliable soles, that will allow every small muscle and bone to play as nature intended.

Arch trouble in later years often goes back to babyhood. Bound feet, feet kept too hot, feet thrust too early into stiff shoes all contribute to trouble later on because the muscles have had no chance to strengthen at the proper time.

Hints On How To Keep Well by World Famous Authority

DIABETES MORTALITY GAINING IN SPITE OF INSULIN REMEDY

Increase in number of cases is blamed for higher death rate among older victims.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Since the introduction of insulin in 1923, medical men generally have realized the great importance of this remedy for the saving of life and for the conferring of usefulness on numerous persons who would previously have been invalidated by the disorder.

Recently Drs. L. F. Wendt and F. B. Peck have reviewed more than 1000 cases studied from 1919 to 1929. Thus there is a comparison possible of what has been accomplished by the new remedy of insulin, introduced in 1923. Of the 1073 cases, 315 were treated with insulin.

By proper control of the diet it is not necessary to use large amounts of this substance, and these investigators believe it is better to use smaller doses, repeated at more frequent intervals if necessary.

The investigators find that there has been an increasing mortality from diabetes because of the fact that there are more cases of the disease and that they are more severe in recent years than formerly.

The general death rate from diabetes still continues to rise in spite of insulin, but there has been a decline in the death rate of persons below the age of 19. The total number of deaths below 40 years of age also shows a slight decline.

However, from 40 years onward the death rate is rising for the simple reason that hardening of the arteries and gangrene, as complications of diabetes, make the condition very serious. Particularly serious is the age of obesity, the investigators say, is the age of diabetes, of hardening of the arteries and gangrene.

Hardening of the arteries is the most difficult problem and is responsible for most of the rising death rate.

If the patient with diabetes comes promptly under the care of a physician, if he follows the instruction as to diet and hygiene, and if he is treated properly by means of insulin and other available methods, his opportunity for life and for a useful existence is greater than ever before. But he must remember that insulin is not a cure for diabetes; it

Baldwin and Churchill At Odds Over Indian Policies, News Reports Say.

London, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Birth of a new faction within the ranks of the Conservative Party was seen in some circles today as the probable denouement of the disagreement on Indian policy between Stanley Baldwin and the outspoken and dynamic Winston Churchill.

From correspondence between the two leaders just published, it appears Mr. Churchill while his "warm personal friendship" for Mr. Baldwin is undiminished, thinks it best "that he should abstain from meetings of the party's business committee, or war council—which is composed of the inner few and includes chiefly former Cabinet ministers."

Thrusts and Counters Interest to Local Soldiers

Company G held its regular weekly drill Monday evening. It is gratifying to the officers of G Company to see the attendance at drill increase each week. Let's do our bit towards making it 100 percent.

Company G has always had a fine record at these inspections and hopes to gain an even better rating this year.

The annual Federal inspection will take place Wednesday, Feb. 4. The company will assemble at 7 p. m. The uniform will be the new Melton uniform, cap, O. D. shirt, black tie, leggings, russett shoes.

Major LeVerne Holmes of the Medical Staff gave an interesting talk on first aid before the enlisted men and officers of the Howitzer Company at the last drill.

All the men are advised to have a clean shave and a haircut for the Federal inspection next Wednesday. After the fine showing last year, these two important items should not be over-looked because we want the Howitzer Company to be on the list of the Very Satisfactory companies as usual.

The official pointed to a box of left-handed gloves: "There must be lots of one-armed, right-handed men in town. When those gloves come in they were paired. Now all that's left are lefts... that is—the rights that were there, together with some of the lefts are gone. Right after the workmen come in for gloves all the rights left immediately. Lefts are left in abundance... and say... if you know any one-armed left-handed men who need good working won in a day and a section when this depended to a large extent on a quick eye and an equally alert trigger finger. "Bad John" had both. While he had been in ill health for some time, he apparently made a complete recovery from his sickness last fall and his death today came as a surprise to many of his friends.

"BAD JOHN" WRIGHT DIES AT AGE OF 88

All of Wright's peace officer casualties were the result of fugitives refusing to surrender. Earlier in life "Bad John" participated in the famous Wright-Hall feud in which a large number of men were killed. It was never established whether "Bad John" added any notches to his gun stock in this feud and in later years he refused to talk about it.

Ten Years Older
Although he did not know the exact year of his birth in Letcher county, Kentucky, near the Virginia line, Wright guessed 1843 was the year. "Those who knew him said he was at least ten years older. Wright, whose enormous stature also had given him the nickname of "The Tall Sycamore of the Elk-horn", was a guard at the Wise county, Virginia, jail when Fox knew him. The novelist and Wright became fast friends and Wright's experiences as drawn out by Fox furnished much of the color of the "Trail of the Lonesome Pine."

Although his early career gave fiction the character of Devil Judd Tolliver, Wright never read Fox's stories. After 40 years as a peace officer, his principal ambition, he told an interviewer last summer, was to have the true version of his life written and printed.

Known As "Uncle John"
Known in his declining years as Uncle John, respected as a fearless officer of the law, he lived in a little cabin on the north fork of the Pound river, not far from Wise, Va., "The Gladeville," where the noose claimed several killers whose deeds provided material for some of Fox's characters.

Two years ago Wright made a public confession of religion and was baptised in a mountain stream ceremony that attracted the hill folk from far and wide in Kentucky and Virginia.

Straight as an arrow until his last illness, peering sharply through glasses he had worn only a few years, Wright liked to welcome visitors and had no hesitation in talking of events and places described in Fox's stories. Often he guided callers to where the Lonesome Pine stood and where Lonesome Love was born. He once told a reporter, "the Lonesome Pine was cut down and saved into lumber. Some of it was used for beams in that old water mill you might have seen down there at the side of Pound village."

He knew Fox quite well, he often told visitors.

Carole Lombard figured first in a bathing suit at Mack Sennett studios. Newspaper personality contest was Mary Brian's stepping stone to fame. Film translation of popular novel, "Ex-Mis-triss," is called "Beauty and the Boss."

Wagging tongues tell of a prominent screen actress who sat next to the Prince of Wales at a dinner in London. At a loss as to how to start the conversation, she finally turned to him and said, "What nationality are you?"

Monte Blue is back at work again after a year's absence, silencing rumors he planned to quit the films permanently. Conservative, Blue saved enough to live on comfortably for the remainder of his life. But the call of filmland was too strong. Now he's playing the leading role in "The Flood" opposite Eleanor Boardman. Victor McLaglen's favorite dish is rice by itself or with curried chicken. This taste he acquired during wartime experience as a provost marshal in India.

Nadine and Katherine Dennis, extras, each receive $3 a day, but their pet cat, Pussum, gets $50 for one day's work in studios. Charles Chaplin wears his traditional derby, moustache, cane and baggy trousers in "City Lights," his long-awaited movie. It has no dialogue but present synchronized music.

"Bull pen" means large dressing room where extras make up, in film-land jingo. A bearded actor is called a "beaver." "Cocoonuts" means dollars. And "gow" is a sound-proof booth.

All work and no play makes jack.

WOMAN DRIVER HELD

New Britain, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Miss Ada Gellish, 25, was held in $1,000 bond on a charge of manslaughter in police court today while the police investigate the death of Raymond Hamilton, 6, who was fatally injured when run down by the automobile Miss Gellish was driving Wednesday. The case was continued to February 3. The boy was running across the street on his way to the Camp school when he was struck. She furnished bail.

Hollywood, Jan. 19.—Have you heard that—

Constance Bennett weighs only 99 pounds, but she's within a half inch of Venus' measurements. Her hobbies are bridge, living in France and good books.

George Bancroft carries a revolver when traveling. He likes peanut brittle. And calls his wife Pussie. Scar on his right hand is from removal of tattoo mark acquired when he was in the navy.

Eva Southern has longest eyelashes in Hollywood. Moon Mullins, Notre Dame footballer, gets movie tryout. Ina Claire wears chinchilla coat valued at $25,000, in her Miss Johnstone next film.

Julianne Johnstone started as a stage dancer. Then she came to Hollywood, but later returned to stage. Films claimed her again and, recently, she returned to her first love and is appearing in popular night club here.

Adolphe Menjou, Hollywood's answer to a tailor's prayer, says it's easy to be well dressed. Wear suspenders because they drape trousers properly. Have your shoes shined daily and keep the heels built up. Keep your hat clean and in shape. Never appear unshaven or with hands un-

ANOTHER BURGLARY IS ATTEMPTED HERE

Thorp Home On Tanner Street Entered; Culprits Are Frightened Away.

An attempt was made last night to burglarize the home of Leon A. Thorp, advertising manager of The Herald, who lives at 18 Tanner street but the sudden return of Mr. Thorp for the purpose of closing the garage doors scared the would-be robbers away empty-handed. This was the seventh break perpetrated in Manchester or vicinity in the past two weeks, the total representing four filling stations, a store and two private homes that have been entered.

Lights Burning
Mr. Thorp's arrival at his home came at the opportune moment. The house was ablaze with light and when he entered the living room the drawers of the buffet were found half open but nothing had been removed. The culprits escaped by the same route they entered, a side door leading to the cellar and kitchen, which had been overlooked when the house was locked up.

Sergeant John McGinn of the Manchester police department was called and his investigation disclosed tracks leading to the rear of the Thorp garage onto Harry street where they were lost. The police believe that the robbery was attempted by two young men, who were accompanied by a dog as the tracks showed.

Investigate First
That Mr. Thorp's home was not the only one being considered for burglary last night was proved by the finding of tracks around the home of William J. Shea, assistant prosecuting attorney of the local court, who lives opposite. The tracks circled the house and at one point showed that the burglars jumped up and down in an effort to find out if anyone were home or not. As the former proved to be the case, the Thorp home was selected for entrance.

The first robbery occurred at the Soony filling station at Bolton Notch on the morning of Saturday, January 17. A radio and four gallon cans of oil were taken. The second took place the next day at the filling station of Benjamin A. Strack on the North Coventry-Bolton road. Strack was held up at the point of a gun but as there was no money in the till the bandit took a package of cigarettes.

Other Robberies
Exactly a week later, Sunday night, January 25, the Windmill filling station, operated by Frederick England, at Manchester Green, was entered and robbed of articles of a total value of $44.19. Two nights later, Tuesday of this week, the home of R. V. Treat, police commissioner, on Center street, was robbed of silverware, jewelry and money amounting to between $500 and $600. The next evening the postoffice and general store at Wapping, run by Harry W. Snow, was entered and merchandise valued at over $200 was taken, including a new radio. That same night or early yesterday morning the Love Lane filling station, owned by Clarence Jeffers was broken into and a supply of clothing removed.

TURKISH RASPUTIN DYING
Istanbul, Turkey, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Sheik Essad, so-called Turkish Rasputin, is dying in the prison at Menemen and probably will not live to hear sentence pronounced on him February 3 for his part in the recent Adnenen religious revolt.

It was believed that 37 of those who stood trial for the revolt would be sentenced to hang, among them Sheik Essad and five others more than sixty years of age.

Police investigations reveal that Nimet Hanim, third wife of the Sultan Vahideddine, is one of the 200 aristocrats suspected of being acolytes of Essad.

Victor Hugo got $75,000 for his 'Les Miserables.'

YOU NEVER KNEW BRAN COULD BE SO DELICIOUS

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is a delightful surprise. It is as good to eat as it is good for you.

This appetizing ready-to-eat cereal protects and relieves you from constipation—and from the headaches, the dizziness, the lack of "pop" that go with it. Start the whole family on this health-bit tomorrow. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN, e. ten daily, will prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In severe cases, eat ALL-BRAN with each meal.

Delicious with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron, which brings color to cheeks and lips. At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

$100,000 OFFER MADE TO BUY HOCKEY TEAM

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—An offer of $100,000 for the Ottawa Senators Hockey Club, the price at which the present owners of the National League team have said they would sell it if the purchasers agreed to keep the team here, was made last night while the Senators were losing a game to Toronto. The offer was made by Harold Code, Ottawa lawyer, on behalf of a group of local men.

MARY CAREW MEETS STELLA WALSH AGAIN

New York, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Mary Carew, Massachusetts girl who defeated Stella Walsh, Cleveland flier, to win the National Indoor 40-yard title last year, has entered the Millrose A. A. games to be held in Madison Square Garden a week from tomorrow night. Miss Carew will battle Miss Walsh in the trials at 60 yards and in the final, should both qualify, at 50 yards.

BERG VS. PERLICK

New York, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Jack (Kid) Berg, British lightweight ace, and Herman Perlick of Kalamazoo, Mich., clash in Madison Square Garden tonight for the third time. Berg won both their previous meetings and rules a heavy favorite.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

THE VERY MAN!

Jack Sharkey wrote to a New York newspaper man who has been nice to him the other day and said he was still looking for some first class heavyweight with enough courage to meet him. Let's see—Jack Sharkey? Oh yes, isn't he the Boston sailor who was knocked out by Romero Rojas back in 1924?

Progressive Indians

The plan of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler for the endowment of athletes by the alumni seems to have been adopted at least in part at Indiana University. That is, if there is any truth in the report that part of Pat Page's $12,500 annual salary as coach was paid by certain prominent old grads. And, just in passing, we offer hereby to Dr. Butler, free to be used as part of his plan next year or the year after that, the suggestion that when a university desires to get rid of a coach who is serving under contract, it is always well to pay the fellow off upon dismissal, whether or not he still has more than a year to serve under the aforesaid pact.

Bidding for Sewell

Cousin Ed Barrow of the Yankees modestly announces in his urbane way that the Yankees had to outbid seven other clubs to obtain the services of Joey Sewell, who was unconditionally released by the Indians after 10 years of service. Cleveland baseball writers were careful to point out just after Cousin Ed's outburst, that since the Yanks might have had Sewell for the waiver price of $7,500 any time during the last six months, maybe the bidding was done with business college currency, and just as a generous gesture to little Joey. But Joey Sewell may turn out to be a valuable man for the Yankees, despite the Cleveland scribes.

Distress Note

Frank January Bruen, former general manager of the 600 Millionaires' Madison Square Garden, obtained Primo Camera and Jim Maloney for a bout in Miami Beach, March 4. President Will Carey of the Garden offered him $5,000 for the privilege of taking the fight off his hands and holding it at Miami. Frank told Will that wasn't enough, in consideration of the merit of such a contest.

So Will had nothing left to do but promote a bigger and better fight for Miami, between Risks and Walker, and set the date a little ahead of Frank's show—February 24.

Boys will be boys.

THURNBLAD WINS 3 CUSHION TITLE

Chicago, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Arthur Thurnblad of Chicago is the new three-cushion champion of the world. He won the title, worth between $20,000 and $30,000, by upsetting Arthur H. Hays Sulzberger, setting another Chicagoan, Allen Hall, 50 to 43 in 53 exciting innings last night in the final match of the 1931 championship tourney. Thurnblad's victory was one of the most surprising triumphs since the days when Willie Hoppe toppled over the gray thatched masters of yesterday.

Pachyderm Harvester Has Colorful Career

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER NEA Service Sports Editor

New York, Jan. 30.—In the early 90's in San Francisco a copy boy named Jack Curley was promoted to a job as police reporter on the Chronicle.

He was "a romancer" then. The charm that was San Francisco's in those days caught and held him. In the harbor were square-rigged ships. Horse cars labored up the hills. The streets seethed with color. Adventurers were everywhere. There were gas-lighted theaters and small fight clubs. Men lived in a daring way.

But it was because Curley was a romancer that he was fired as a police reporter and a few days after he had been given the job. A former Chronicle reporter met him one night on the streets, told him a fantastic dream and Curley rushed to print with it. It sounded good but was without foundation.

The other night a new record for crowds at Madison Square Garden was set when 22,000 people jammed the building for a wrestling match. The match was promoted by Jack Curley.

He is a romancer still.

Jack Curley, referred to often as the owner of "the pachyderm farm" on Long Island, manager of a string of wrestlers that show their wares from coast to coast, has come up through adventures that would fill a book. A book? At his home he has more than 60 scrapbooks filled with newspaper clippings that form a history of the growth of certain sports in America. He has been everywhere, apparently, and seen everything.

For years he has good-naturedly been the brunt of newspaper jokes poked at the wrestling fraternity. He has promoted all sorts of things, from sea cruises to concerts by the Vatican choir, but Curley, eminently, stands for wrestling.

And during the years when wrestling was in disrepute, his wrestlers still went over with a bang in the smaller towns.

At 55 Curley is in almost as good condition as any of his grapplers. He never has taken a drink or smoked a cigarette.

Golf Industry Becoming Highly Profitable Here

New York, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Golf in England and along the Atlantic seaboard flourished like the green bay tree during 1930 and prospects for 1931 are no less bright.

In the thickly populated eastern states, golf is in the nature of big business, with millions invested in property and clubhouses and a weekly payroll that runs into hundreds of thousands of dollars. The Massachusetts Golf Association lists 117 member clubs, with $2 belonging to the National organization and 54 clubs in New York State hold memberships in the United States Golf Association, the largest representative of any state, 27 are listed from New Jersey, 25 from Pennsylvania, 12 from Connecticut, ten from Delaware, and four each from Rhode Island and New Hampshire.

President Talbot C. Chase, president of the Massachusetts body, estimates that 3,000 men are on the payroll of the Bay State clubs and that the payroll runs above $50,000 a week. "Construction work in Massachusetts, it is estimated, will cost more than $1,000,000 this year. The Connecticut Golf Association reported play was greatly increased last year on the courses of its sixty member clubs and similar reports were received from the 29 private clubs and 20 semi-public courses in Maine.

Golf was on the boom in New York state generally with five new courses planned for the Albany region and the eleven existing clubs reported conditions never better.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Troop 7

The meeting opened at 7:15 with the Scout Oath. There were nine Scouts present. After the opening exercises the meeting was turned over to Franklin Smith, scoutmaster of Troop 7.

He immediately drew up the little group and explained to them the importance of entering the Town Contest this year.

Patrol Rescue race, Obstacle race, and Skin the Snake races were run off in preparation for the Town Meet.

Dues and attendance were then taken. After this followed three snappy games with basketball. The meeting closed at 9 o'clock with the Twelve Scout Laws led by Scoutmaster Ross Abbott.

BRIGGS TO PRACTICE WITH REC MONDAY

Paul Briggs, former Torrington High school sensation, who has just been signed by Manager Benny Clune to play center with the Rec Five, will report for practice Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Rec gym.

Briggs will be up at center against "Shorty" Gill, plus seven members of the visitors.

HOW THE COLLEGES STAND ON SPRING GRID PRACTICING

New York, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—The process of defating football has begun. Of 34 eastern colleges and universities compiled by the Associated Press, only 14 have definitely decided to continue spring football practice. Eleven plan no drills in the spring. Nine have not yet disposed of the question.

Among colleges which will retain the spring training idea, curtailed in some instances are the Navy, Rutgers, Dartmouth, Cornell, Villanova, Syracuse, Colgate, Pittsburgh, Washington & Jefferson, Duquesne, Penn State, Bucknell and Temple.

Dropping this feature entirely will be the Army, Carnegie Tech, Lafayette, Maryland, Rider College of Trenton, N. J., Swarthmore, Haverford, Swarthmore, Penn Military, Allegheny and Geneva.

Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Columbia, N. Y. U., Fordham, Brown, West Virginia and Pennsylvania have not yet decided whether spring practice will be held.

BASKETBALL

WATERMAN HELPS

Hartford, Jan. 30.—The city title hopes of the Y. M. H. A. team were smashed to smithereens last night at Foot Guard Hall by a Knights of Columbus quintet that had one of the biggest nights any city series entrant ever had. The final score of a game that became a rout was 48 to 21. A crowd of about 700 people saw the game.

Miss Elin M. Petersen of Farm Drive will return home tonight for a week-end visit with her parents. She is a student at Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Tomorrow evening at the Highland Park Community club the combined entertainment, athletic and educational committees will provide a full evening's entertainment for the members and their friends. Miss Lillian Grant of Cambridge street, well known reader and impersonator, will be the guest entertainer, and talent from Case Brothers mill and the community will assist. The curtain will rise at 8:15 and those wishing good seats should be on hand early.

Mr. and Mrs. August Seifert of 90 Grand street, Rockville, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Helen, to William H. Gahrman of 97 Hollister street.

The following committee from the Epworth League of the South Methodist church has been appointed to make arrangements for the session of the Midwinter Institute at the church Friday evening of next week: Miss Gladys Harrison Miss Florence Lewis Miss Hazel Driggs, Ray Mercer and Howard Holman.

The regular Friday evening whist and dance will take place this evening at the City View dance hall on Kenney street.

David McCann, personal tax enroller, has completed the lists, with the results that the names of 5,800 women and 3,735 men appear as liable to personal tax payment. The smaller number of the men's names is accounted for by the fact that many men get exemption under the law through military and fire department service. The enrollment this year, 9,335, is 50 greater than last year.

Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Kehler presented a little sketch in costume entitled, "Between Trains," and gave four other impersonations which were well received.

The Sunshin Sewing club will meet this evening at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. John Zimmerman, 33 Church street.

Mrs. Alexander Berggren of Linden street received a pleasant surprise yesterday afternoon when members of the Ladies' Sewing society of the Swedish Lutheran church called to assist her in celebrating her birthday. They brought with them a handsome chair and bridge lamp as well as a full supply of dainties to eat. Mrs. Berggren also received other gifts including flowers. Her daughter, Miss Helen Berggren, sent her an airmail letter of congratulations, and another daughter, Mrs. Gertrude O'Brien, came up from New York to spend the day with her mother.

Mrs. Hattie M. Quinn who was buried Wednesday, January 28, 1931, leaves seven children by her first husband, Arthur Johnson, of Rockville. The children are William, Howard and Harold and Mrs. Joseph Wright of Ellington, Mrs. Lloyd Niles of Windsor, Mrs. Attilio Bonollo of Manchester and Mrs. Frank Mallon of Pearl street, South Manchester, and eight grandchildren.

Notices have been posted on two large maple trees in front of the High school stating that the trees are to be removed shortly. The purpose of the notice is to learn if anyone has any reason why the trees should not be cut down. It is understood that the reason is because the maples are so close together at that point that they seriously affect the growth of other trees in the same group.

Miss Alice Carmody, Nathan Hale school teacher, has returned to her home in Newtown following an attack of the grip which prevented her from teaching this week.

You should be in school now. Trained young men and women are not thrown out of work. Get the training now. Enter Monday at the Connecticut Business College.—Advt.

The combined bridge and whist card party at the High school assembly hall Monday night is expected to be largely attended. The affair is for the benefit of the senior trip to Washington.

Cold weather gripped Manchester today following the light snowfall of yesterday. The average temperature early this morning was under ten degrees above zero in some places.

The various groups which compose the Wesleyan Circle at the South Methodist church are planning to present a short play on the occasion of the coming annual meeting.

Sidney A. Brown of 1180 Main street is making satisfactory progress at the Memorial hospital where he recently underwent a minor operation. He is employed as a chemist at the Rogers Paper Manufacturing Company.

Miss Leonora S. Hanna, principal of the Washington school, is confined to Teachers' hall with a severe cold, but is now beginning to show improvement.

The Hustler Group of the South Methodist church will meet at the home of Mrs. John Dowd on Summit street at 7:45 Monday evening.

John Stevenson of Main street has entered the employ of the C. E. Burr Nursery Company in the collecting department. He was formerly assistant manager of the Atlantic and Pacific store near Main and Eldridge streets.

The advance sale of tickets for the Hose Company No. 2's annual banquet to be held at the Masonic Temple tomorrow night, indicates there will be a good attendance. The Clements Entertainment Bureau of Hartford will supply the vaudeville program. Tickets are on sale at the Center Soda Shop.

Miss Esther Granstrom, Barnard school teacher, is recovering from a touch of the grip which has kept her from her work for the past week.

Drawings on a pair of skates and a sweater will be made at the Center Springs Pond tonight. Incidentally, the snowfall of yesterday has been removed and skating is again in order.

BUCKLAND SETBACK

As was predicted the All Stars carried off the honors in the Buckland setback tournament that has been in progress weekly at the Buckland school. They rolled up a total of 1,583 points leading the Optimists, who finished second, by a margin of 101 points, their score being 1,482. Keeney's finished third, just one point behind the Optimists with a score of 1,481. The other teams finished in the following order: Hackett, 1,418; Sons of Rest, 1,416; Four Roses, 1,401; Hartman's, 1,378; Foley's, 1,350; Buckland, 1,348; Wapping, 1,318. Magnuson and Carroll were high men last night, scoring 105 points and Stein and Hadden were low with 86.
