MAY DOUBLE FORCE NOW IN CHINA

Japanese Cabinet Discusses Situation at Shanghai; Attack May Start Tonight.

Tokyo, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Premier Suiyoshi Inukai called on Emperor Hirohito at the Imperial Palace following a conference of selected cabinet ministers this afternoon. Observers here believe the cabinet planned tentative to send General Uryu's army to Shanghai.

The Premier's visit, coming on the eve of the general election throughout Japan followed a meeting with Minister of War Araki and Foreign Minister Yoshizawa.

The War Office general staff which has been following closely the developments indicated that it was prepared to reinforce General Uryu's command with the character of the Chinese resistance makes it necessary.

If the present Shanghai-Japanese force should be doubled or tripled the War Office was expected to name a special commander in chief with the rank of general.

Last Monday Araki said further reinforcements might be necessary and the belief prevailed today steps already have been taken to cope with whatever situation arises.

Although it was election eve, the public and officials alike gave little attention to anything except Shanghai. It was pointed out that the Japanese attack might be launched as early as 7 a. m. Saturday (8 p. m. E. S. T. today) if the Chinese army's front lines are not evacuated.

Officials said the evacuation area has been outlined with a view to the safety of the ships of all nations entering the port of Shanghai. The immediate necessity, they added, is to compel the withdrawal of the Chinese and after that there would be time to negotiate the status of the evacuated areas, with other powers participating in the negotiations.

The foreign office said official despatches from Geneva, "rectified" its previous advice that the first draft of the League Council's note emanated from American sources.

A spokesman said it was now established the United States was in no way connected with this draft of the note.

The Minsato and Selyukai, major parties in tomorrow's election differ chiefly on economic issues, especially the gold standard, which the Minsato Party favors and the Selyukai does not.

The Selyukai Party whose government is now in power, generally favors inflation and balancing the budget by loans, adding planks for unemployment relief and for relief to farmers. It sponsored the present gold embargo which resulted in a thirty per cent depression of the yen.

The Minsato Party advocates rigid governmental economy and reduction of the national debt. The Selyukai leaders expressed themselves as confident of the outcome of the election, declaring the nation the present time welcomes inflation. The government party which controls the election machinery nearly always wins in Japan. The election therefore was generally considered merely an opportunity for the electorate to rubber stamp a

POLICEMAN FOILS FIVE KIDNAPERS

Were About To Take Two Providence Men Away When He Comes On Scene.

Providence, R. I., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Patrolman Thomas Samon today was the hero of an attempted kidnaping, which he frustrated last night after a gun battle.

The attempt was made to kidnap Israel Dickens and Abraham H. Blivins, both of Providence, as they were about to drive into their garage on Cypress street last night.

Blivins, who was driving, said an automobile drove up behind them and a man leaped out and shouted "go get them." Blivins backed his car into the second machine, forcing it down Cypress street hill.

Patrolman Samon, who was attracted by the commotion, ran to the scene. Four or five men in the kidnapers' car began shooting at him and he emptied his revolver in a return fire.

The kidnapers sped past him up the hill and disappeared. The wind-blown car was shattered, Samon said, and he believed at least one of the occupants of the machine was injured.

The car bore Connecticut registration plates, but witnesses were unable to get the number. The witness Blivins and Dickens said they did not recognize any of the men nor could they give any reason for the attempted attack. It was believed, however, that the kidnapers had intended seizing and holding the two Providence men for ransom.

AMERICANS URGED TO QUIT WAR AREA

About 200 Are In Danger Zone In Shanghai; Soldiers In Bad Spot.

Shanghai, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Hundreds of American residents who live in the most dangerous spots in Shanghai, faced with the prospect of a battle between the Chinese and Japanese armies tomorrow, were advised by United States Consul Edwin S. Cunningham today to evacuate these areas for points of greater safety either tonight or tomorrow morning.

No arrangements were made to take the Americans out of the city itself because the danger was not sufficient to warrant it but Mr. Cunningham joined with the British consul general in issuing the warning to those who lived in the Hongkew and Yangtsepo districts, where the likelihood of Japanese or Chinese shells landing was thought to be greatest.

Previously consular officials considered the possibility of evacuating women and children from Shanghai, but it was finally decided not to take this step.

Between 100 and 200 Americans in the chief danger zones began to leave during the afternoon, following the consul general's advice. The officials continued to consider the foreigners in the rest of the settlement reasonably safe for the time being although plans already have been considered for evacuating the women and children from the city on foreign ships if the situation should grow worse.

The register at the consulate showed 115 Americans lying in Hongkew, twelve at Yangtsepo and 18 at the University of Shanghai between Kiangwan and Woosung. There are also quite a number of retired American sailors, Marines and soldiers who have lived in Hongkew for years but who have not registered at the consulate.

CANNON'S $500,000 SUIT DISCUSSED IN CONGRESS

Blanton Demands a Square Deal For Bishop Although He Helped To Defeat Him At Election.

Washington, Feb. 19.—(AP)—With Bishop James Cannon, Jr., testifying attentively in the gallery, Representative Blanton (D., Tex.) told the House today a court trial of the clergyman's $500,000 libel suit against Representative Tinkham (R., Mass.) was assured.

Tinkham challenged Cannon yesterday to arrange an open court trial of the suit. It was filed after the Southern Methodist churchman had been charged by Tinkham with violation of the Federal Corrupt Practices Law.

Blanton demanded "a fair and square deal" from the Republicans for Bishop Cannon "because of whose efforts your President is in the White House."

"I have only seen Bishop Cannon twice in my whole born days," he said in reply to a question. "Cannon is a mere incident. I'm for the dry cause. Cannon helped defeat me for the United States Senate because I supported our party ticket."

The Texan kept the House in an uproar, intermingling an attack on opponents of prohibition with his answer to Tinkham's speech of yesterday. Bishop Cannon several times joined in the laughter greeting Blanton's remarks.

Blanton's Answer "Will Cannon give the wet cause a square deal?" asked Representative Igoe, (D., Ill.), "or will he give it what I'm going to give it, hell, he'll give it hell," was the reply.

Representative Schafer, (R., Wis.) asked why Blanton had nominated for the Democratic presidential nomination Speaker Garner, who voted against the 18th Amendment.

"The man I nominated knows more about government business than any other man in the United States," Blanton said. "He has the endorsement of both wets and dries."

"We can realize," Schafer said, "why the father of the 18th Amendment, Senator Sheppard, and the step-father, William G. McAdoo, came out for him. He voted against the 18th Amendment and the Volstead Act but he voted for the notorious five and ten law."

During Blanton's speech, Representatives Lathrop, of Maryland, and Beck, of Pennsylvania, leaders of the Democratic and Republican wet blocs, sat near the front of the chamber.

Blanton said: "two thirds of the wets are present" and referred to Beck as "the brains of the wet cause."

Referring to speakases in the National capital, Blanton said President Hoover "could close them up before night if he wanted to," he said.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS USED BY DRYS TO AID CAUSE

Official of Crusaders Tells Senators How Anti-Saloon League Is Connected With Education Association.

Washington, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Rufus S. Lusk, an official of the Crusaders, anti-prohibition organization, testified to a Senate committee today that the National Education Association has undertaken "a prohibition propaganda campaign" in the public schools. He said there is a "tie-up" between the National Education Association and the Anti-Saloon League. Lusk appeared in advocacy of a bill by Senator Bingham (R., Conn.) to allow four per cent beer. He said his organization favors outright repeal of the 18th Amendment.

The appearance of Joy Elmer Morgan of the National Education Association, before this committee, Lusk said, "raised the curtain on a scheme to use the public schools, colleges and universities of the United States as agencies for the dissemination of prohibition propaganda."

No Objections "There could be no objection to instruction being given scientifically on the effects of alcohol on the human system, either in the public or private schools of the universities. But the attempt to use the schools for the propaganda of the organizations supporting the 18th Amendment should be exposed and rebuked."

"Let us trace this modern effort to use the public schools as a prohibition propaganda agency to its source."

"The records of the Anti-Saloon League show that it has spent large sums of money through subsidized organizations for the purpose of getting into schools, colleges and universities with its prohibition propaganda. One of its subsidiary organizations is the World League Against Alcoholism. . . . Other Connections "Now we find that the so-called Scientific Temperance Federation is affiliated with the World League Against Alcoholism, which in turn was created and supported by the

DR. VIRGIL F. DOW, YALE 1856, DIES

Oldest Alumnus Passes Away At Age of 99—Was Ill a Year.

New Haven, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Dr. Virgil F. Dow, Yale graduate of 1856 and the oldest alumnus, died in his home early today. "I would have been 99 years old April 5. Dr. Dow served as a physician with the United States Army during the Civil War. His death leaves Rev. Dr. Augustus F. Beard, retired Congressional chaplain, as the oldest living Yale alumnus. Dr. Beard will be 99 March 11.

Dr. Dow has been confined to his bed, blind and almost totally deaf for the past year. Recently application for a conservator for him was filed in Superior Court.

"I was born in New Haven April 5, 1833 and entered Yale with the class of 1855, dropping back to the class of 1856 during his sophomore year. He took a graduate degree in 1857 and started the practice of medicine in New York City while carrying on further study.

He abandoned his practice for service with the Army of Northern Virginia during the Civil War. Afterward he returned to New Haven where he operated a drug store until 1900.

Witcox was questioned by Samuel B. Harvey, Willimantic attorney, regarding details of the transactions. Cross examination on all the other witnesses had been waived.

W. J. Gilmartin of New Haven a U. S. Treasurer department operative testified to the sale of Liberty bonds valued at $7,500 which Fenton is alleged to have taken from the Town treasury and sold to the Willimantic Trust Company for his own gain.

Warren Brown of Hartford, certified public accountant was on the stand when Judge Frank P. McEvoy ordered a delayed noon recess. Brown who checked the town's accounts after suspicion was directed against Fenton, began tracing his work in investigating alleged discrepancies.

YESTERDAY'S TESTIMONY Putnam, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Testimony that Frank P. Fenton, 58, former Willimantic official, had deposited town funds and proceeds from the sale of bonds allegedly owned by the town to his personal account was on the court records today as

JAP DRIVE EXPECTED SOME TIME TONIGHT

FRIEDRICH AUGUST, FORMER KING, DIES

Most Popular Ruler of His Time Passes; Called "Too Much of a Clown."

Breslau, Germany, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Former King Friedrich August of Saxony, a strap-hanger as well as a former King and last of the Saxon rulers, is dead. He rode street cars most of his life.

The King, whom his cousin, former Kaiser Wilhelm II once called "too much of a clown," died last night at Bybyllentort Castle, near here, from a brain hemorrhage.

His two sons the former Crown Prince George and Prince Ernst Heinrich, with his sister, Princess Mathilde, were with him when the end came.

King Friedrich August III was one of the most popular rulers of his time. He lost his throne during the revolution of 1918 but he did not destroy his sense of humor. He was at his beautiful estate at Moritzburg when the news came that a republic had been established. He was asked by telephone if he would relinquish the throne willingly. "Oh, well I suppose I'd better," he said. "I suppose I have no more power, eh?"

His Betor Informed that the Workers and Soldiers Council had taken control of Saxony his only comment was a retort which has since become a classic in Germany. "Well, then, do your own dirty business by yourselves," he said.

Once he happened to go to Berlin on the former Kaiser's birthday, Wilhelm thanked his "dear cousin" for the delicate thoughtfulness. "Not at all," King Friedrich August replied. "I wanted to come to the show myself."

At the Plauen railway station on another occasion he was recognized and cheered lustily by an enthusiastic crowd. He put his head out of the coach window and suggested in a droll amendment: "Well, you're a fine lot of Republicans, I'll say."

He abdicated his throne by telephone in 1918 because it seemed to be the simplest way of doing it. Since then he lived as a simple country squire, for which nature obviously had intended him.

The World War offered no opportunities to him. In obedience to the Kaiser's call he issued a war-like appeal to his subjects on August 2, 1914, but he visited the front only Chinese Reject Demands That Army Withdraw—Ultimatum Expires At 6 O'Clock, U. S. Time, This Evening and Attack May Start At That Time—American Infantry In Dangerous Spot—Civilians Rushed Out of Danger Zone—Chinese Continue To Send Reinforcements Up To the Front.

(By Associated Press) Two powerful armies waited tonight at Shanghai to go into what was expected to be a battle comparable to some of those in the World War.

The zero hour was 7 a. m. Saturday (8 p. m. E. S. T. Friday) the time at which Japan's ultimatum to the Chinese commander expires.

The Chinese government has rejected the demands made by Japan in serving its ultimatum.

American infantrymen, patrolling the settlement borders alongside Chapel were in one of the most delicate spots along the whole neutral front, close to the line of fire where it was almost certain some stray shells would fall in a general bombardment. The Japanese command said care would be exercised, but if misdirected shells fell in the settlement it could not be helped.

American civilians were hurried out of the danger zones. Tokyo, awaiting a general election tomorrow, heard that Chiang Kai-Shek, influential Chinese warlord, was on the way up to Shanghai with large numbers of troops.

The government was reported sending reinforcements to the Japanese expeditionary force. Up in Manchuria it was reported that the executive committee of the new independent state had chosen Henry Pu-Yi, the former "Boy Emperor" as the chief executive.

The League of Nations Council called a special meeting for this afternoon at the request of the Chinese delegate.

PREPARE FOR ATTACK Shanghai, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Chinese guns played a heavy tattoo over newly-evacuated Shanghai today in what was looked upon as a prelude to battle.

The Japanese said three of their bluejackets had been killed during the bombardment. The Chinese were making for only brief periods when General Uryeda said unless the Chinese had withdrawn from their front line positions at Chapel and Woosung by 7 a. m. (6 p. m. E. S. T.) the Japanese will take independent action.

"Thus far" he added significantly "we see no sign of a Chinese withdrawal."

There was no sign that the Chinese had any other intention but to fight it out with a determined stand.

Speed Up Work The only effect the Japan Ultimatum seemed to have had on the Chinese soldiers was to speed up their program of strengthening defenses and increase the number of sentries along the road.

For miles behind the Chinese lines the countryside bristled with defenses. The troops continued to "stay put" in the line all the way from Chapel to Woosung. Machine guns were being placed in position at frequent intervals.

The entire area is dotted with grave mounds which rapidly were being converted into machine gun nests. Many of the shallow trenches are habitable for only brief periods because they hold water to a considerable depth. Many bridges were converted into movable structures, well protected by machine gun fortifications. Most of them can easily be removed if a great shelling comes down.

Reports were being circulated that Yen was prepared to protest to the whole council against the creation of an independent Manchurian state, which was announced yesterday at Mukden.

The council met primarily to consider China's request for a session of the full League assembly. Joseph Paul-Boncour, foreign minister designate in the French Cabinet now being formed, presided.

Dr. Yen reviewed the situation in China up to now and asserted there exists at present a state of open war in which Japan is taking the offensive.

He indicated China will not accept the ultimatum delivered yesterday at Shanghai by the Japanese commander.

PILE UP EVIDENCE AGAINST FENTON

Banker Introduces Checks Which Clerk Deposited To His Personal Account.

Putnam, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Prosecution witnesses in the trial of Frank P. Fenton former Willimantic town clerk, in court on embezzlement charges continued today to pile up evidence in an effort to show the defendant had converted public funds to his own use.

John H. Wilcox of the Willimantic Trust Company introduced three checks signed by Fenton as treasurer and made payable to him as clerk which he alleged were deposited to his personal account in the summer of 1927. The amounts total $1,050.

Wilcox was questioned by Samuel B. Harvey, Willimantic attorney, regarding details of the transactions. Cross examination on all the other witnesses had been waived.

W. J. Gilmartin of New Haven a U. S. Treasurer department operative testified to the sale of Liberty bonds valued at $7,500 which Fenton is alleged to have taken from the Town treasury and sold to the Willimantic Trust Company for his own gain.

OBJECTION INVALID

Geneva, Switzerland, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The Japanese legal objection to a Chinese demand for a meeting of the League of Nations assembly to consider the Far Eastern dispute, was held invalid today by the twelve neutral members of the League Council.

Sharp tension developed at the meeting of the neutral twelve which was preliminary to meeting of the whole council called by W. W. Yen, the Chinese delegate to the disarmament conference.

The decision of the neutral twelve came after reports had been made on the Japanese objection by a "jurists' committee."

Reports were being circulated that Yen was prepared to protest to the whole council against the creation of an independent Manchurian state, which was announced yesterday at Mukden.

The council met primarily to consider China's request for a session of the full League assembly. Joseph Paul-Boncour, foreign minister designate in the French Cabinet now being formed, presided.

Manchester Group Take Interesting Tour of City — David Addy Describes Some Visits.

A local party, comprised of Ensign George Williams, Harold Turkington, David Wilson, William Platt, Henry Tedford and the writer went to New York on Tuesday to buy some musical instruments. Between business transactions we went sightseeing on the East side, and the Bowery in particular, where the sotsam and jetsam, human derelicts of life's sea are cast on the beach. Here are numerous missions, two of the most popular being the Bowery Mission and the Salvation Army Hotel which are side by side, not only in regard to location but in their purpose and endeavor to lift fallen men physically and spiritually.

The lobby of the Bowery Hotel was crowded with the office type, and the air was thick with tobacco smoke and other pungent odors to which my olfactory nerves were highly sensitive. Here was a long line of men at the counter buying a five cent meal. On nearly every vacant lot a group of men could be seen grouped around a bonfire of paper and ruf ish; even the bootblacks and vendors tending their fires in the gutter as they vociferously solicited our patronage.

On West 14th street there is located a half million dollar hotel for working girls of the office type, built and operated by the Salvation Army. It is known as the John and Mary Markie Hotel, and was made possible through a gift of Mr. Markie to be used for this specific purpose in memory of his wife. It has a beautiful home atmosphere and is equipped with every modern convenience, including a gymnasium and swimming pool. The board ranges from $8.50 to $13.00 per week, and we know the meals are good because we ate supper there. We were personally conducted through the building as well as the adjoining Salvation Army headquarters, a most modern office building.

A most interesting study in Social Service was made by our party at night. There is a large building, jointly owned by the Gold Dust Corporation, The American Tobacco Company and the Heckler Flour Company, which after being idle for five years has been turned over to the Salvation Army to feed and house the homeless and unemployed. Into this building we went about 8 o'clock and found the New York Staff Band giving a concert to the 2,200 men who are the guests of that institution. We were immediately recognized, and upon being announced from the stage as coming from South Manchester received an ovation or rather a hearty welcome from that vast throng. Harold Turkington and the writer were asked to conduct the band in the playing of two marches, one of them being his own composition. The auditorium was equipped with amplifiers and microphone on account of its size. We were afterward escorted through the plant and were amazed at its immensity. In New York City there is a central bureau where the charity organizations are co-ordinated to prevent duplication.

When an applicant for relief is deemed worthy he is given a ticket to a specified relief depot, such, for instance as The Gold Dust Lodge. When admitted to the institution he is given physical examination and thereafter once a week. Before retiring at night he is given two checks; one to stay with his clothes in checking room and the other to wear around his neck. He says goodnight to his clothes and, dressed in dishabille, plus his shoes and hat he goes up to bed, which may be four floors higher up. His bed, instead of a mattress has a closely woven wire spring which is covered with a blanket. Under his pillow is a night gown which is replaced in the morning, and the number and condition of these bags indicate that the owners of them are not of the lowest type of society, such as we found on the Bowery.

Bed linen is changed twice a week, and ample facilities for washing, artificial drying and pressing clothes are provided. A barber shop in the basement gives a shave for a nickel and a haircut for a dime, and gives a certain percentage of free shaves daily. The commissary department is the busiest of all, supplying full meals twice daily. The time required to serve a meal is two and a half hours. Over 32,000 meals were served last week at an average cost of 4 1/2 cents. A large amount of bread and other foodstuff is donated which brings the cost down to 2 1/2 cents per meal. Not much overhead there. There are four dormitories, each holding 600 beds or a total of 2,400. The dormitories resemble in size and appearance an entire floor of one of Hartford's department stores. The building is managed by a retired Colonel who once held a high executive position and who is by experience well qualified to take care of his guests.

That these guests are not transient is indicated by the fact that they have a physical examination once a week, and that on Tuesday night when there were the number of new arrivals was only fourteen. These new men were brought up to the front of the stage after the concert and introduced to their brothers who gave them a rousing welcome. The impression left upon me was that were it not for this and similar institutions, New York would be a hot bed of anarchy and crime. On leaving for home one-half hour before midnight, we saw on Broadway at Times Square hundreds of men standing in line receiving soup or coffee distributed from a kitchen on wheels operated by a large New York newspaper.

The soup had to be puer and free of all foreign matter because the millions of all revealing lights of that amusement center left nothing to chance. Surely here was a paradox—the gayest avenue in America with its merry-makers inside in the warmth, and outside, the breadline on one of the coldest nights of the winter.

DAVID ADDY.
NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Manchester Evening Herald:
Mr. Editor:
In making a brief study of the national affairs of the past four years in our national government in Washington, D. C. I am under the impression that we must have a Third Party in our national politics.

In a magazine at our local library I came across a very interesting article which was prepared by a writer and called "The League for Independent Political Action." As I have read and studied the article and shall try to explain to our local citizens what this Political Party plans.

Everyone knows that this country is now in the midst of a tragic breakdown of industry, employment and finance, along with all the suffering of human beings one sees and hears. The Republican and the Democratic parties cannot meet this emergency, for they are the servants of the forces of men who have promoted the policies which have in a large measure brought about this crisis. Only a new party can restore the government to the service of the people. Such a party will take steps in a far-sighted plan to build a new social order with stability of work, security of income and a higher standard of living for all wage and salary earners, through increased purchasing power. This party will restore reality by attacking the concentration of wealth in the hands of a few and by preventing the insecurity, disproportioned risk, fear and loss of civil liberties which are a lot of many.

We have at present no real party government because both old parties do the bidding of that government created by a few to serve the interests of a few. The bankruptcy of the old parties is a challenge to every American citizen who desires public and not private ownership of the government. There is now need of a new Political Party that will face our National Problems, and this Third Party will recruit its strength from the ranks of workers, farmers, professional people, small merchants and many others who believe in economy and progressiveness. May I take the word?

Employment
The forces which control employment are national and not local. The dole of private charity has proven inadequate and demoralizing, as well as a burden to welfare and character building. Every person who is willing to work must be guaranteed an income and the purchasing power of the people must be increased. I am at this moment going to use a few figures which were used by the Third Party for an illustration. That a Federal appropriation of not less than $250,000,000 a year, during the emergency for the relief of those who are out of work. Also a Federal appropriation of from three to five billions of dollars for the carrying on of useful public works such as housing, to eliminate the slums in cities which so many families of workers still live, bridge and highway construction, public parks and other public works too numerous to mention, and these sums to come from bonds to be amortized by higher income and inheritance taxes on wealth of those in the higher brackets. I firmly believe that child labor laws should be abolished, and that old age employees should be pensioned and supported by State and Federal government. I also believe that a six hour working day should be the standard working day in all of our industries and trades throughout the country, and that the greater part of our industries re-employ men who were replaced by women a few years ago. Although many say that the machinery has taken the place of some of our working people in industries, but surely enough, a man cannot replace the part of the machine and still enjoy his work and feel contented when he arrives at his home to his family and say that a good day's work has been done. The man and machinery must be there to manufacture the goods, and man must operate machinery both for profit of employers and employees wages, and until then industries will not return to normal.

Power and Public Utilities
The Public Utilities companies throughout the United States have established the greatest racket in the world, taking each year from the pockets of the working people in America at least $500,000,000 through unfair charges and excess rates. Experience has shown that regulation cannot be relied upon to protect the public. Private ownership of the power industry and public utilities in the U. S. has failed to serve the public, and resulted in evils intolerable in a democracy.

Money and Banking
The present crisis reveals in a dramatic way the failure of our banking system to function in the interest of the public, the shameful disregard by many financial leaders of the trust committed to them, and the need for reorganizing banking more than anything else. Our banks should be reorganized to make it function as a social institution rather than in the hands of a few private promoters. In the past few years one could only pick up a daily newspaper and read, column into column of banks closing their doors, small and large ones, not because of dishonesty but because of those higher ups in banking business where loans to foreign lands go into millions and billions of dollars, while America has left bonds, notes, etc. Money, real American dollars left to use in this country would mean the turning point to restore American business to normalcy. The credit plan for business series has established the market situation as is today, and surely that when American people who share but little profit from their earnings can buy only on credit, so that in time payments more money was spent for every article bought than the value of the purchase.

Now in closing Mr. Editor, I feel that to re-establish our system of American business to normalcy, the employers, whether banks, industries, farmers, government, officials, whether Federal, State, or local must put working men back to work, so that they may earn the dollar which will give man, woman and child, happiness, health and Liberty.

Thank you.
Unemployed.
Editor's Note: "Unemployed" is seeking a third political party is respectfully referred to the Communist Party.

After going to England in search of peace, Mahatma Gandhi finally sailed for home with the threat that India and Britain may come to blows. It is very difficult to fight a war with patience.

CHANGING MENU COOK'S ENIGMA

How To Get Out of the Cooking Rut Told At Herakl's School.

Ever hear of a cooking rut? Miss Claire Andree of the De Both Home Makers' Schools, food and cooking lecturer, who will open her course of lectures and demonstrations in Manchester on February 23, under the auspices of Manchester Herald, says a cooking rut is very easy to fall into and very hard to get out of.

There are thousands and thousands of women who never progress beyond the frying pan. There are thousands of stoves whose owners are never used. There are thousands of homes where the menus are as regular and unimaginative as the meals served in a penal institution. The cause of this cooking rut may lie in the fact the housewife only knows certain dishes and is either too lazy or too fearful to attempt new ones or because she knows she can cook those certain dishes well and doesn't care to chance failure.

The woman's world is not so very large—her sphere of activity is apt to be framed by the limitations of the home. Yet the kitchen can be made into a studio, an arena of pleasant adventure, a creative workshop and an open door to quiet fame. The kitchen, too, can develop character, spur the mind, widen the horizon and fill what otherwise would be a dull day with gay striving and happy triumphs. The school recommends variety. Not only for the food value given the eaters but in addition variety often takes the place of high cost. For instance porter house steaks three times a week may be filling, body building and appetizing but the skilled cook can substitute many things far less costly and just as pleasing to palate, eye and stomach. Not only does the rut cooker find cookery a drudge but she falls short in her family responsibilities by failing to give to her family that pleasing speculation and eager wonderment as to what new miracle the table will hold every day.

The seeing wife should realize that her husband isn't slow to boast of her ability to cook. Ever hear a man telling a group of envious comrades all the details of what he is apt to describe as a "bang-up dinner"? You would be surprised how many details he can relate and you may be sure to find a listener ready to go home and ask why they can't have the things that bring Smith to work each morning with a smile and a new tale of table wonders.

Many cafes and hotels have risen to world fame because of the deliciousness of a single article of food but the cafe diner has his choice of scores of other restaurants for other meals. The home patron has to take what is before him and even if the cook has a dish in which she excels beyond anyone in the neighborhood the family grows surfeited fast enough.

"Let your husband want to hurry home to see what is waiting," urges Miss Andree. "Don't let him come home with the sure knowledge that this is a bad dinner day. Ever notice the eagerness with which people pick up menus at a banquet? The element of surprise is there. Ever notice how your husband eats an enormous dinner when you are invited out but has a bird-like appetite at home? There is a reason. There is a reason for all things. Your friend's dinner was no better than the one you cooked just like it last week. He just picked at that. Perhaps it was because he knew all that day and the day before he was going to have that very thing. He was mentally tired of it before it reached the table.

Any game becomes a task if it has to be played over and over again without variation. Just as almost any task becomes a game if it has variety, the element of win or lose and a chance for individual triumph. Cooking can be of infinite variety. It can give a wonderful personal triumph and a chance to match your knowledge against all the troubles that arise from lack of knowledge. "Boy, that was a wonderful meal!" are words that never yet brought a frown or a tear to the cook. "I'm not very hungry" is apt to be another way of saying "I don't like this dinner" and it doesn't take super-intelligence for the wife to recognize the disguise.

Miss Andree has profited by the researches of the De Both Home Makers' Schools and passes on to her pupils methods for making cookery as endless a pattern of pleasing gastronomic pictures as ever was woven by the makers of tapestry or rug.

More than 500,000 acres of land in 19 states were added to national forests in the United States during the past fiscal year. Purchase of this land was made at an average cost of $3.50 an acre.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Troop 6 of the South Methodist church held their regular meeting Tuesday night with 20 scouts present. Junior Scoutmaster Russell Stevenson assembled the troop at 7:30 then turned the troop over to Seaman Francis Moriarty who led them in the repeating of the scout oath and flag ceremony.

The troop formed two teams to compete with each other in staff relay and obstacle races. Scouts Irwin, Schoen and Trotter picked their partners for a rescue race, several preliminary races were held then Trotter won out in the finals. A period was held for practicing lower building and one team accomplished the feat in 11 seconds.

Tests passed for the evening were Schoen, Morse signalling, Trotter and Irwin, story of 14 mile hike, and Riley safety. Trotter and Irwin were presented with their second class badges and Della, Lewis, Edmondson and Brown received their tenderfoot badges.

On Saturday afternoon at 2:30 the troop will assemble at the old golf grounds on East Center street for a test passing and game period. If there is snow on the ground, scouts should bring their skis and toboggans.

Next Tuesday the troop will act as hosts to all the scouts in honor when the monthly Court of Honor will be held in the banquet hall of the church. The court will begin promptly at 7:30.

Sea Scouts The S. S. S. Manchester held their regular meeting last night at the South Methodist church. Officer of the deck Fraser formed the crew at 7:30 with the repeating of the sea scout promise. Skipper Mercer gave out several announcements concerning the Court of Honor which will be held at the church next Tuesday and about the hike at Camp Pioneer on Friday and Saturday of next week.

A. N. Potter, civics merit badge examiner gave a very interesting talk on civics. As most of the crew have this merit badge to get before becoming Eagle Scouts, Mr. Potter's talk was in preparation for the final examination.

Edmondson, officer of the deck for next week relieved Fraser and closed the meeting with the repeating of the Scout Oath.

German women and girls are said to spend twice as much on cosmetics and perfumes as English women do. According to official figures, this expenditure in Germany works out 25 cents a person every 200 days.

LORD MAYOR TELLS OF HIS VISIT HERE

Pamphlet of 25 Pages Makes Up Official Report—Story of This Town.

A copy of the report of Lord Mayor George F. Pitt's official visit to the United States last September and October, has been received by E. J. Holl, who was chairman of the reception committee in charge of the Lord Mayor's visit here on Tuesday, October 13. The report is contained in an attractive pamphlet of twenty-five pages and includes the speech of Rev. Robert A. Colpitts, at the official dinner at the Masonic Temple.

Pictures of Gifts The pamphlet also contains photographs of the various gifts which were presented to the various towns and cities that were visited, and includes the itinerary of the trip from start to finish. It is printed on a smooth white paper and is bound with a heavy gray paper, carrying the coat of arms of the city of Manchester, England.

Under the heading, "The Manchester," the Lord Mayor writes: "Perhaps of the places included in the tour none gave more intimate pleasure than Manchester, New Hampshire, and Manchester, Connecticut, the two 'daughter' towns which were included in the itinerary. In both instances the warmth of welcome was unmistakable, and it is considered that if only for the friendship and goodwill displayed by these communities towards the Mother City the tour had been well worth while. It was obvious that they had more than a passing interest in the City to which they had paid the high compliment of adopting her name.

Friendly Spirit Further on the Lord Mayor continues: "Manchester, Connecticut, was touched on the return journey from Boston. Once again the friendliness, the desire to entertain, and the wish to please were clearly evident. From the time of leaving the train at noon until departing at night the hospitality was continuous, and a most interesting program had been prepared.

"The town has a simple character and beauty which is altogether delightful. It is situated in the lovely fertile valley of the Connecticut River, eight miles east of Hartford, and has a population of 23,000. "Broad, well-kept streets, attractive houses, mostly surrounded by spacious lawns, trees everywhere, give the town a restful character and a sense of 'home.' "There are twenty-four local industries, the principal ones being silk and soap.

Arrival Here "Arriving at Hartford, the civic party were met by Mr. Edward J. Holl, Chairman, and members of the Reception Committee. A brief greeting, with good wishes, was conveyed by the Mayor of Hartford, and the party motored to Manchester, Connecticut, escorted by a police motorcycle escort. The town was en fete, flags were flying in the main streets, and people lined the footpaths. It was learned that the luncheon hour had been doubled in honor of the occasion to give the workpeople the opportunity of joining in the welcome.

"At the City Hall a crowd of people was waiting and there was a guard of honor of British and American War Veterans. The official reception took place on the steps of the City Hall, where the Lord Mayor received a large gilt key as a sign of the open door of the City. The Lord Mayor and the Town Clerk wore full robes, the Mace being in attendance, and the proceedings were broadcast by wireless.

Parade "Luncheon was served in the City Hall, and then a procession was formed for the parade through the town. This consisted of police, fire brigade, bands, and being piped band in Scottish dress—Scouts, and British and American War Veterans. The people of the town gave the civic party a wonderful and touching reception. The parade ended with an inspection of the British and American War Veterans by the Lord Mayor.

"The civic party were conducted to Educational Square, where over 1,600 high school and grammar school children gave an impressive performance in saluting the flag of the United States and in singing both the American and British national anthems. During the proceedings the Lord Mayor presented the official gift of the oak plaque and explained its historical association with Manchester to the children. The Mayor's speech was also called upon to give an address.

Tapestry "Later the well known silk mills of the Cheney Brothers and the factory of the Orford Soap Company were inspected. The Cheney Mills were especially attractive, with their garden setting. It was notified that Messrs. Cheney Brothers were weaving a piece of silk tapestry combining in the design of the Manchester England Coat of Arms in true colors, and that the tapestry would be presented by Manchester, Connecticut, as an official gift to the Mother City.

"Tea was taken at the Country Club, where there was a distinguished gathering of ladies, to whom the Lady Mayoress was asked to speak. A rest was then taken at the home of Mr. Frank Irving, Jr., by his kind invitation, until the evening.

Banquet "The evening's entertainment opened with a visit by the Lord Mayor to the local British-American Club, where he was the subject of the presentation of a desk-set. From there he joined the members of his party at a banquet at the Masonic Temple. Amongst the 250 guests, were the Mayor of Manchester, Connecticut, Senator Frederic C. Walcott, Mr. Frank Cheney, Jr., and Mr. E. J. Holl, chairman of the reception committee, and other leading citizens.

"The first portion of the proceedings was broadcast. It was an exceedingly happy function and several masterly speeches were delivered. One particularly that of the Reverend R. A. Colpitts—was outstanding, and the Lord Mayor has considered it worthy to be included in this report. The tone of the evening was wholly that of genuine pleasure at the presence of the visitors from the Mother City and the sincere desire to prove that the link with her was something of which they were very proud. It was a memorable event which will long be remembered by those present. "In the late evening the civic party returned to New York."

CREW NEARLY STARVES

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 19.—(AP)—The motor-vessel Whichone which sailed from St. Pierre three months ago bound for "nowhere" with liquor cargo, has crept into port with a crew that went without solid food for 16 days.

Customs officers sealed the liquor holds when the vessel entered the harbor last night, but Capt. Chesley Anderson and his crew often were too eager to eat to pay much attention to that.

A motor gave out while the Whichone was far at sea. Later the fuel feeding the remaining motor was exhausted. The water supply was used up; and the larder soon was empty. The liquor that choked the hold was no substitute for either. The craft was 91 days out of St. Pierre when it made this port.

EX-KAISER BETTER

Berlin, Feb. 19.—(AP)—A dispatch from Doorn, Holland, to the Monarchist organ "Der Aufrechte" today said former Kaiser Wilhelm II has entirely recovered from a recent attack of bronchitis but has dropped his usual work in the garden of Doorn Castle to avoid exposing himself to quick changes of weather.

Te takes his daily walks as usual, however, the dispatch said.

Now that Gandhi's spinning wheel has been seized for taxes, some enterprising American salesman will probably try to sell him a bedsheet.

TWO FIREMEN HURT AT WOONSOCKET FIRE

Woonsocket, R. I., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Two firemen plunged from a ladder 40 feet to the ground, and suffered serious injuries today while they were fighting a fire in an unoccupied nine-tenement wooden building that caused damage estimated at $20,000.

Fireman Louis P. Sutherland, high on a ladder against the burning structure, was struck by a powerful stream of water from a fire hose and, losing his hold, fell. In falling, he struck Lieutenant John J. Skiffington, just below him and both men dropped to the ground. Sutherland, landing face downward, suffered a dangerous injury to his forehead and possible internal hurts. Lieutenant Skiffington landed on his back and received a possible concussion of the brain and, it was feared, injuries to his back.

The fire department suffered a third casualty when Fire Chief Augustine J. Gote hurt his left arm while combating the flames.

The cause of the fire, which destroyed the interior of the building, was not ascertained. The house had been locked and boarded up.

TWO FARMERS KILLED

Budapest, Hungary, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Two farmers were killed and twelve others severely wounded in an attempt to carry out a tax moratorium declared by villagers at Pacha.

The villagers forced tax officials to return cattle they had seized for unpaid taxes. A clash with the gendarmes followed in which the latter opened fire after the people pelted them with rocks.

The news of the clash provoked a stormy protest by Leftists in Parliament today.

ECONOMIC EELS

At Hamilton College in Clinton, N. Y., it appears, an undergraduate ordinarily must have devoted six hours to eel fishing before he can graduate—a fact just now brought out by the circumstance that there is no snow and the curriculum must therefore be changed.

We are firmly of the belief that a much more useful requirement would be that the candidate for a sheepskin must have gone angling and have caught and removed from the hook six eels. And we are quite serious about it.

Everybody ought to go fishing for eels, and ought not to be allowed to quit until he has learned how to take care of himself in combat with several of those peculiar fish. And this whether he has the slightest expectation of making his living catching eels or not.

It is highly probable that if every American voter, before receiving the franchise, had been required to show that he was capable of handling eels, many of our present politico-economic woes would be non-existent.

And here is the reason. You simply cannot handle an eel daintily; you cannot palter and misnancy with him; you cannot subdue his gyrations and his devilish devices for snarling up your line by moral suasion or admonition; you cannot halt his squirming by holding him between thumb and forefinger; you cannot still an inch of him at a time. There is just one way to manage an eel. You have to seize him, not as you would a club or a hayrake, but between elevated middle finger and the backs of the fore and third fingers, and you've got to grab him tight and hold fast. Then you've got him licked. And try to lick him by any less resolute or uncompromising method!

This problem of municipal, state and national expenditures and taxation is a very slimy, very powerful and extremely energetic social eel. And it is glaringly obvious that nine out of ten of the people who are making such a mess of wrestling with it never caught an eel in their lives.

Cities finding that they are paying half as much again in salaries as in reason they can afford to pay, instead of firmly grasping the fact that salaries must be cut a third, timidly suggest that their public servants accept a "voluntary" and temporary reduction of five per cent, or seven per cent or, in especially courageous instances, ten per cent. And the very timidity and feebleness of the suggestion starts the salary getters to thrashing about frantically and scaring the community into a fit—just as the timorous and snabby sutterings of a fisherman's fingers set a lively eel into an awesome twisting spasm.

The town eel, the state eel, the national eel—they're all alike in that they'll squirm and wriggle and twist out of every attempt to control them with tenderness and caresses. You've got to grab 'em quick and grab 'em right and treat 'em rough. And you'd be surprised to know how quickly an eel will quit wriggling when he feels the pinch that's meant.

HOME LOAN BANK

Hearings are being held in Washington on the proposed federal home loan bank bill which is brought forward to make effective President Hoover's plan to promote a revival of home building both as a social benefit and an important stimulant to general business.

For some reason the proposal seems to have relatively few enthusiastic supporters and a considerable number of critics.

There are some, to be sure, who argue that if the federal government is to come to the aid of financial institutions suffering from the freezing of their assets there is no good reason why it should not extend similar aid to a frozen real estate market. But there seems to be a larger number of persons who foresee in any stimulated building boom a still further shrinkage in real estate values through an excess in supply over any competent demand.

As a matter of fact there seems to us to be the greatest possible difference between those financial relief measures that have already been adopted and this one proposing to back home building. It has been very plain since the beginning of the depression that the country must choose between two courses, one being readjustment of all business to a permanently deflated condition, with all losses written off and a new start made all around; the other being to force, by any measures promising such result, a partial return of the deflated values reaching to a point where general bankruptcy would be avoided and the crisis tided over without the extreme of distress and confusion. There are still some thinkers who sincerely believe that it would be better, in the long run, to let the deflation run its natural course; but there are many times more who prefer to dodge the crisis if possible, which is natural and quite possibly wiser than the other way.

However, the home loan bank plan seems to us to belong rather to the readjustment school of economic thought than to the principle of preventing crises, toward which the rest of the financial legislation has been directed. It is one of those things for which the country might be better off a hundred years hence, but which, in its creation, might easily entail a good deal of hardship in the immediate future. For our part we can't quite see the home loan bank plan as a team mate with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Steagall-Glass bill. It faces in a different direction.

LAME DUCKS PASS

Both houses of Congress being now in practical agreement on the passage of a "lame duck" bill, after ten years of effort to bring about the adoption of such a measure, there is no reason to doubt that such an amendment to the Constitution will be submitted to the country before Congress adjourns.

Though the measure provides a seven year limit for the ratification of the amendment there is little likelihood that any such time will be consumed in its endorsement by the requisite number of states, which is three-fourths of all of them.

The House resolution carries a provision—to which the senate will undoubtedly agree in conference—that ratification by a state legislature shall not be valid until the entire membership of at least one branch of that legislature shall have been elected subsequently to the date of the amendment's submission. That would, of course, prevent any action being taken by any state during the present year, but since all or practically all the states hold legislative elections in Presidential years and all or practically all of the legislatures will hold sessions in 1933, there is no reason why the ratification of the amendment of the measure need be delayed beyond next year.

Obviously there is no way in which the amendment can become operative early enough to advance the inauguration of the next President to January 4 instead of March 4, but it is rather more than probable that the next Presidential inauguration will be the last to be held so long after election, and that after next year there will be no more "lame duck" sessions participated in by members who have already been defeated.

It has taken a long time to get this legislation through Congress, the House having blocked it six times after it had passed the Senate, but it corrects a grievous situation and is as welcome as if it had come ten years ago.

A BELFAST BOY

In connection with the passing out of the old Police Gazette, pink ancestor of the present day tabloids and once rated all the way from dirty to daring but actually a Sunday school pamphlet compared to some modern periodicals, there comes to us a special delight on its upholder the late Richard K. Fox.

Much has been written lately about that enterprising individual's career as the publisher of a successful sporting and crime news weekly and as a promoter of ring and track contests over a long period of years, but we have seen no reference to his antecedents before he appeared upon the New York scene.

It will interest a good many of Manchester's numerous Ulsterites to learn that Richard K. Fox was a Belfast boy, the son of parents in very humble circumstances who somehow or other managed to scrape together money enough to send their son to this land of promise. And that their loving sacrifice did not go unrewarded, for Richard Fox proved to be a good son. As he prospered in America he did not forget the old folks at home and presently they were being maintained in a degree of comfort and comparative affluence far greater than they knew in their early lives.

Richard Fox invested a tidy sum of money in a number of houses in what became known as Fox Row in the Ballymacarret district of Belfast and the income from that property went to his father and mother as long as they lived. They died in the fullness of time on dates quite close together and there was no time in their illness for their son to reach their bedside. But he had them buried in what was then a lovely rural cemetery at Knock—it is now within the city limits of Belfast—and a handsome monument stands there in their memory.

Richard K. Fox in his day was a very notable figure in certain large American circles, and a good many of these people, acquainted with the story of his early life, used to visit the Knock graveyard when on Irish tours, and have the old gravedigger John Lytle, a celebrity whom some Manchester folks may possibly remember, point out the resting places of the parents of the greatly admired Fox.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Feb. 14—Good-looking young men, rather than attractive young women, are in greatest demand at the agency which furnishes companions for lonely folk in New York.

The percentage of lone ladies who wish to step out in trust-worthy company, and pay for the privilege, appears to be vastly greater than that of forlorn, companion-seeking gents.

And despite unemployment among the white-collar professions, young men who will work at the "host and hostess" business are difficult to obtain.

Either they do not possess the requirements, they cannot give proper references or they balk at the possibility of being considered "gigolos." The references, of course, must be 100 per cent.

An agency cannot afford to send out either a young man or woman likely to cause the slightest embarrassment to a customer. Particularly is this true in the case of the male companions. He must watch his style even if the paying client shows signs of graying romanticism. The case of the hostess is even more important. The man who seeks a partner for an evening must have the best of credentials. Once he has selected his partner for an evening and put up his money, it is understood that the girl is not to be asked her phone number or address.

Such is the agreement so that she can walk out on her host at the slightest hint of undesired freshness.

And there are girls for every sort of an evening—a whole card index of them, with photos and descriptions and personal interviews if desired.

There are girls who will go to speakeasies and take a few drinks; who will make a round of night clubs and dance and exchange snappy patter; and there are girls who will go to dinner or banquet or high-bat parties or literary gatherings; girls who will go to theaters but won't drink; girls who insist on the selection of the night spots.

The host is usually a person who doesn't know his way around. Hence the necessity of protecting him as well as the girl. For she must not lead him to "guy" joints or allow him to be "held up" at "take spots."

Once the customer has made his decision, he need merely say "All right, let's go places." And the party starts.

The reverse is true of the male escorts. They are, first, presumed to go where their companion wishes. Generally, the decision is up to them and, too, must know their way around. They must have the addresses of good speakeasies and dance spots and know a certain number of varied places.

For the client is very likely to be a stranger in town for a few days or a New Yorker who seldom steps out and hence knows little about the big town.

It's all very amusing—and quite a profitable business in a town where so many lonely persons find themselves seeking entertainment and amusement.

Strangers, as a matter of fact, get a better sight-seeing break than most New Yorkers. The dyed-in-the-wool resident doesn't have the time or, as a resident, he hesitates to ask questions.

So he pretends to know about twice as much as he does and, hence, can rarely give an accurate address for the post office or the Tombs.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

Washington—One of the current ironies is that the unemployment relief issue, commonly considered as important as any now before the country, broke out in Congress just in time to be buried in the newspapers and in popular discussion by the more spectacular warfare in China.

That fact will not, however, deter your correspondent from announcing that he is practically the only person in Washington who has read through the 161 large pages of tiny type on which Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin set forth the answers of mayors and officials of 810 municipalities to his questionnaire on distress conditions and the need for direct federal relief.

American mayors—brilliant and stupid, sincere and phony, honest and crooked—are a fascinating lot. As a group, they are much nearer the people than Congress.

One suggests, without reference to the fact that many describe a sad situation and that a majority favored federal relief, that their personal messages to LaFollette form a composite human document of absorbing interest, whether proving anything or not.

They reported provision of relief for families of four ranging from $1 to $20 a week, averaging $8.07. A few had no unemployment problem.

Scores burst with pride in stressing their ability to "take care of our own."

Others pleaded frantically for help.

BODY ODOR

Body odor, popularly advertised as "B. O.," is rightfully termed a social mistake. Whether a strong unpleasant odor arises from the feet, breath, underarms or other sources it is unpleasant to one's companions, and it is easier to keep friends when the condition is corrected. Body odors are usually more noticeable at social affairs where people are close together and the air is warm and humid. Fastidious women always take particular pains to be absolutely clean when they do not drive others away by an offensive odor which would detract much from their daintiness.

It is not the best plan to try to disguise strong body odor with strong perfume nor to use certain medicated preparations. If you find it advisable to use a deodorant occasionally, one should be selected which simply removes the odor while not interfering with the normal perspiration. An unpleasant odor is always annoying to others, but sometimes the one with this complaint does not know it exists.

The unpleasant odor is usually due to impurities which are deposited on the skin by the sweat glands; however, normal perspiration does not have a bad odor. A noticeably foul perspiration may indicate a deep-seated toxemia in the body or it may be caused by the invasion of the sweat glands by certain types of bacteria which produce an odorous excretion.

If the elimination of impurities and wastes from the lungs, kidneys, or bowels is blocked, a body odor may develop as the skin begins to assist in the elimination of such wastes. Those with constipation are especially likely to suffer from an ill-smelling sweat under the arms. It is well known that many sick people have a very offensive perspiration. An experienced physician is usually able to distinguish the different odors and often obtain the clue even before an examination as to whether the patient may have rheumatism, diabetes, tuberculosis, cancer, etc.

Whenever a bad odor persists in spite of the most scrupulous cleanliness, the patient should realize that his system is toxic and should take steps which will eliminate the poisons as soon as possible. When the body's elimination proceeds in a normal manner, the offensive odor often disappears completely. Temporary bad odors may be caused by eating foods such as onions or garlic, or they may be due to strong emotional disturbances such as fear or anxiety.

In the toxic types the quickest results for correcting the body odor may be obtained by cleansing the system with a short fruit fast. The perspiration may perhaps be more odorous than usual during the first two or three days of the fast when the skin elimination is more rapid, but later on one will note a decided improvement. During such a fruit fast be sure to take at least one or two warm shower baths a day and a plain warm water enema. In almost every case body odors become less pronounced if the bowels can function two or three times daily, in all cases the use of frequent bath-

"Our taxpayers have been skinned out of all they have . . . former men of wealth are broke; some of the shiftless may die of exposure," said Furry of Van Buren, Ala.

"Would not presume to advise on such a momentous question," wrote the modest Clark of Hermosa Beach, Calif.

Someone should make a poem about Mayor Will Falley of Mill Valley, Calif. What a rhyme! "Kindly quit fighting the administration," he told LaFollette. "We fail to admire an obstructionist." Note: Hon. LaFollette's secretary will please show him this and not pigeon-hole it."

Needles, Calif., had its problem relieved when its employees left town to look for work elsewhere. Manager Goodwin of San Jose: "By the way, is coffee supposed to be more nourishing than wheat? . . . I favor fewer questionnaires."

Marshall of Hialeah, Fla., said employment had increased, thanks to race track building.

Village President Saunders of LaGrange, Ill., urged that the federal government be operated as efficiently as LaGrange.

"I cannot give an intelligent answer," said Bills of Mattoon, Ill., "regarding federal relief."

"I think we are overdoing it here," said Baldwin of Horton, Ia., reporting that 100 families of four there received $2.50 a week relief. "All we get from the president's committee in Washington is worthless advice," wrote Larkin of Alexandria, La.

The C. E. House outfit defeated the George H. Williams team in the first game of the second half of the West Side league. The Williams team staged a strong bid for the victory but the shooting of Kerr and Maloney was too much for Williams' outfit to overcome.

REC AND GUARDS UNABLE TO AGREE ON TOWN SERIES

Former Votes To Quit Home Games Unless Guards Accept 60-40 Split.

The prospects of a town championship basketball series seemed brighter during the last few days but the storm clouds have again gathered and this time there seems little chance of their disappearing in time to do either the Recreation Center or National Guards, not to mention the public, any good.

At a special meeting last night the Rec Five voted to give the Guards until next Wednesday to accept the customary 60-40 percentage basis inasmuch as three other suggested terms had been rejected by the Guards who still hold out for an exchange of equal guarantee on the first two games with 60-40 on a third if such became necessary.

Manager James E. Gorman of the Rec submits the following:

The Rec basketball team after a meeting held last evening at the School street Rec hereby make the following statements in regards to the town series:

- At the first meeting of representatives of both teams a tentative agreement was drawn up which was entirely satisfactory to the Rec team and supposedly satisfactory to the Guard team. However, no definite decision could be made at this time by the Guard representatives inasmuch as the representatives had not consulted with the players on the Guard team prior to the meeting. As published in The Herald after a meeting of the players, the National Guards, refused to play under the conditions agreed upon at the meeting and offered instead a proposition entirely alien to any agreement ever before considered in any town series in any sport. For the benefit of those whose memory plays them false the original agreement was 60 percent and 40 percent of the net receipts for the series, the winning team to receive the larger share. The counter agreement of the Guards was a $50.00 home and home guarantee for the first two games and 60 percent and 40 percent for a third game if the third was necessary.
- The Rec team through the medium of the sports' writer of the Herald, on the night the National Guards played the Babson Institute team of Boston, submitted several counter proposals. The Guards refused to consider these counter proposals as outlined by the Rec and instead offered to play on the same home and home guarantee basis even though the amount be higher than $50.00.
- The action taken by the Guards proves conclusively to the

Skating Champions Keep Their Titles

Montreal, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Sonja Henie, little Norwegian girl who has reigned as queen of the world figure skaters since 1926 and Karl Schaefer of Austria, have earned the right to wear their crowns for another year.

Early this morning after a couple of hours of deliberation and calculation the judges officially awarded them the titles as world figure skaters in the women's and men's singles respectively. Both were defending champions in the title events and favorites after their brilliant triumphs in the 1931-32 winter olympic games at Lake Placid, N. Y.

At the same time, M. and Mme. Pierre Brunet-Joly of France who won the third of the olympic figure skating titles, won the pairs championship. Dazzling a crowd of more than 12,000 with the easy way in which he performed the most difficult figures Miss Henie easily was the star of the show last night in which 14 women skaters from seven countries and nine men representing six nations evolutions Schaefer one of the rising stars of the skating world had a small margin of victory in the men's singles although his free skating also was nearly perfect.

Fritz Berger of Austria was awarded second place in the women's singles; Constance Wilson Samuel of Toronto third and Maribel Vinson of Boston fourth.

Mrs. Samuel's brother and partner in the doubles skating, Montgomery Wilson, took second place in the men's singles. Ernst Baler of Germany was third and Marcus Nikkanen of Finland fourth.

In the pairs, Hungary's star team of Fraulein Emilie Rottler and Herr Lando Szollas were second and Beatrix Loughran and Sherwin C. Badger of New York third.

The championships were to open this morning with the 500 meter race and the 5,000 meter title was to be decided this afternoon. The entry list includes 35 skaters from seven nations.

The Boston Bruins and Detroit Falcons struggling to a scoreless tie last night, went into a deadlock with the Chicago Black Hawks for second place in the league's American division. They are ten points behind the leaders, the N. Y. Rangers.

The Montreal Maroons, third place team of the Canadian division beat the N. Y. Americans 3 to 1.

To complicate the situation still further Toronto's Maple Leafs moved back into a tie with the champion Montreal Canadiens for the Canadian division lead, five points ahead of the Maroons by defeating the Rangers 5 to 3.

SHEA AND JAFFEE ABSENT FROM RACES

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 19.—(AP)—A prime international field was entered in the world speed skating championships starting here today but the absence of Jack Shea and Irving Jaffee left the foreign stars without a chance for adequate revenge for the beating in the Olympics.

Jaffee withdrew because of an injury and Shea could not spare any more time from his studies at Dartmouth.

The championships were to open this morning with the 500 meter race and the 5,000 meter title was to be decided this afternoon. The entry list includes 35 skaters from seven nations.

HOCKEY

RACE TIGHTENS

New York, Feb. 19.—(AP)—If the National League's hockey clubs stick as close together down the home stretch of the campaign as they are at the three-quarter mark, a great playoff series should be in store.

The Boston Bruins and Detroit Falcons struggling to a scoreless tie last night, went into a deadlock with the Chicago Black Hawks for second place in the league's American division. They are ten points behind the leaders, the N. Y. Rangers.

The Montreal Maroons, third place team of the Canadian division beat the N. Y. Americans 3 to 1.

Record Crowd Sees Dempsey Outpointed

Newspapermen Vote 18-2 For Levinsky With Four Calling Bout a Draw; No Knockdowns in Four Round Fight.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey's visions of another chance at the heavyweight boxing championship of the world, today seemed to have been only a mirage.

Last night in the Chicago Stadium, before a record smashing crowd of 23,322 spectators who left $74,119.95 at the gates, Dempsey in the opinion of a big majority of newspapermen and about the same percentage of the spectators, took a beating in four rounds from King Levinsky, the socking Jewish boy from Chicago's ghetto.

The bout was billed as an exhibition and there was no official decision. A poll of writers at the ring side, however, gave Levinsky 18 votes, Dempsey 2 and four called it a draw. The ovation the grinning kingfish received as he left the ring indicated the crowd felt the same way about it.

Giving away six and one-half pounds and nearly 16 years, Dempsey was the same scowling, glowering Dempsey who knocked out Jess Willard, Georges Carpentier and Luis Firpo—until he went into action. He came out weaving and bobbing, but slowly, and Levinsky who radiated confidence from the time he climbed into the ring, met him, took everything he had to offer and it seemed, gave back just a little bit more.

Dempsey sent plenty of his vicious belts to the body in the first two rounds and the cocky King took a few and then held on. Starting with the third there was less steam in the punches which used to lay opponents low and Levinsky cut loose and hammered both hands to Dempsey's head and body and built up the margin that convinced writers and spectators. Dempsey showed distinct signs of wear after the first round when he stalked to his corner. After the other three rounds the stalk became a shuffle.

Regardless whether he can ever reach the point of engaging in a real battle, Dempsey demonstrated he still is a champion at the box office. The crowd was the greatest ever to watch an indoor fight and the gate was gratifying to the stadium corporation and the boxers. Dempsey had the option of 60 per cent of the receipts and paying Levinsky $7,500 or he might take 45 per cent and leave the King with 15 per cent.

Dempsey's only comment was: "He's a good boy and a dangerous puncher."

Levinsky, more cocky than ever said: "Aw, he ain't hot, but he can still punch. His left hook is good. But the King can take them."

Gandhi's son went to jail "for his country" instead of getting married. Maybe he's just anticipating the alimony racket.

"I WONDER if I'm losing my husband's love? A few months ago I wouldn't have dreamed that he'd become careless about shaving. Surely he'd resent it if I neglected my appearance. Is it possible he doesn't realize how repulsive a growth of stubble can be? And if his beard is distasteful to me, I can just imagine what the people around the office think. Here he is going off to work, and he hasn't shaved since last night. He continually finds some excuse for neglect. He tells me he hasn't the time, or his face is too tender and he can't buy good razor blades. Well, maybe he's right. But even if it is a nuisance, I should think he'd care enough for me to shave more carefully and more often."

Today there's no excuse for stubble. A while ago close and frequent shaving may have been decidedly unpleasant—particularly so for men with tender skin. Now Gillette is offering a new and decidedly better blade that shims through beard without a trace of harshness or irritation. It is remarkably keen—especially made for sensitive faces. Learn how comfortable shaving can be. Buy a package of Gillette Blue Super-Blades on our positive money-back guarantee. Try a blade, or two. # The dime-a-dance girl

By JOAN CLAYTON

BEHOLD HERE TODAY
 Beautiful ELLEN ROSSITER, a salesgirl in Barclay's Department Store, lives with her extravagant mother, MOLLY ROSSITER, her older sister, MYRA, and her young brother, MIKE. The two girls support the family. Molly foolishly spends money saved to pay the rent. Ellen decides to work nights at Dreamland as a dance hall hostess until the sum is made up. The hostesses must wear evening dresses and Ellen has none.

STEVEN BARCLAY, 27, and Ellen's employer, sees the girl crying and discovers the situation. He lends Ellen a lovely frock when she refuses to accept it as a gift. Ellen forgets his kindness when at Dreamland she meets handsome LARRY HARBOR-GATE, an artist. Later she learns he is engaged to ELIZABETH BOWES, a debutante. Even though she believes him to be a philanderer she continues to see him.

Ellen quarrels with her mother, refusing to break an engagement with Larry to accept one from Barclay. She goes to Coney Island with Larry and finds herself more and more in love with him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XV

Monday was sale day at Barclay's. Monday was the day the basement invariably reached its peak for the whole week. The girls dressed Mondays. Most of them on Sunday critically examined the store advertisements to determine which counters were to be inundated. That particular Monday Ellen and Jenny Elkins, her counter mate, were the victims. Their counter drew a large and vociferous proportion of the crowd. Nineteen-cent cretonne, hundreds of bolts, apparently were passionately desired by every woman in New York.

Ellen as she mechanically cut lengths of gay colored material and tossed them to the wrapper, as she tried vainly to keep some order among the bolts on the counter, as she again and again assured cross and weary shoppers that any one of the patterns was precisely what was wanted for summer dresses, had not a minute to think of herself or Larry. She had dreamed of him the night before. No dream had a chance of survival at Barclay's on Monday morning.

Toward 11 Ellen began to notice that Jenny Elkins, a little chatter-box on Mondays, was silent. Ordinarily nothing could stop Jenny's active tongue. She was always talking and giggling between sales or during them, calmly oblivious of the fury of her customers. Ellen missed her cheerful chatter and her breathless assurance that "the boy friend" had said or done the night before.

During a temporary lull, she ventured to move to Jenny's end of the counter to ask how she had spent the week-end.

The other girl continued making out her sales slip. Since Jenny did not speak, Ellen decided that she had not heard the question. She repeated it. Jenny raised a flushed face.

"Doing nothing much," she answered coolly.

"I haven't done anything to offend you, have I?" Ellen asked in surprise.

"Of course not," Jenny responded shrilly.

She tore off the sales slip, handed the carbon to her customer and affably urged the perspiring woman to come again to Barclay's. She was so affable that the customer looked a bit startled as she hurried away. She was less startled than Ellen. Ellen knew how Jenny felt about customers.

Unfortunately at that moment her attention was diverted by a renewed run on cretonnes. She was compelled to dash back to her own place. Eventually she decided to ask Jenny to lunch with her. She really preferred to lunch alone, but she had no intention of permitting her counter-mate to sulk over an imaginary injury.

At the stroke of 12 and before Ellen had a chance to speak, Jenny disappeared. That was odd, too. Generally there was some casual discussion of luncheon plans. Ellen ran toward the employee's stairway and caught up with Jenny who was making her way to the rest room.

"I'll stay up to lunch if you don't go over 50 cents," she offered jolly, knowing how broke Jenny invariably was.

"Sorry," Jenny answered.

"Look here," Ellen began suddenly and with spirit, "if you're not in such a hurry as all this. Let's stop a moment."

She walked through the door at the second floor and into the practically deserted furniture department. After a longing glance at the stairs and a fearful, fascinated glance at Ellen's back, Jenny followed.

"Now, out with it," Ellen said. Jenny was plainly embarrassed. She looked at Ellen uncomfortably, started to speak but instead locked her lips in stubborn silence. As she remained her composure Ellen saw with growing nervousness that Jenny had assumed a look of covert curiosity as though there were something new and disturbing about Ellen which she had never seen before.

"I've always liked you, Ellen," she said at last weakly, "but a girl has to think of her reputation."

"What in the world do you mean?" Ellen demanded angrily.

"It's your fault," Jenny continued, glibly in a ringing confidence. "You've always pretended to be—oh, well, sort of different from the rest of us. I wouldn't have said a word if you hadn't insisted. But the whole store's talking."

Ellen remembered abruptly that when she had gone to the locker that morning a small group of whispering girls had been gathered around the mirror. She knew most of them, but as she had approached they melted away before she had any opportunity to greet them.

"What are they talking about, Jenny?" she asked.

"I guess you know well enough," Jenny replied, airy again. "It's you and Mr. Barclay. His secretary got the bill this morning from the florist shop. I saw it myself."

"Why, Jenny, how can you be so silly as to think that his sending flowers—" Ellen began.

"There's more to it than that!" Jenny interrupted. "Mrs. Bondy knows someone who saw you going out on Sunday morning. Ellen Rossiter, I'd never have believed it of you!"

Ellen was appalled. Mrs. Bondy was a notorious gossip who held forth from the benches on the fourth floor. A sharp-eyed, active woman she saw everything, heard everything, told everything. Time and again she had been proved wrong in her facts but her stories were so circumstantial, so loaded with titillating detail, that seldom was her veracity questioned. Ellen saw that it had not been questioned in this case.

Shaken and horrified, she realized the futility of protest. She knew the store too well for that. If at that moment she had sworn to Jenny that she had at 3 o'clock on Sunday morning been miles from Barclay's apartment she would have told the truth. But Jenny would not have believed her. Already the other girl had begun to enjoy herself, was doubtless, Ellen thought, storing up the interview to relate to her friends and acquaintances.

"So you see how it is," Jenny concluded. "A girl has to think of herself."

She shrugged ever so slightly and moved away.

Ellen remained standing near the elevator until Jenny had slipped out of sight and the door had swung after her. Presently she turned and started stiffly down the stairs. She would not go into the common rest room where others would cease their conversation as she entered. She would not risk their staring, curious, inferential glances. Not now.

There was only one thing to do. After a lunch hour spent walking blindly up and down Fifth avenue Ellen decided on that course. She would see Steven Barclay no more. She would give him any excuse except the real one. She could not give him that. Let him think that she was ungenerous, that she despised him, that she was a false friend. Let him think what he would. He would never, she thought, hit upon the truth. Surely no one would be bold enough to carry tales to him.

She would say nothing, offer no explanations to the curious. She would have to stare them down. There was nothing else to do.

Throughout the afternoon she treated Jenny Elkins with the same cool disregard that Jenny herself had shown in the morning. She succeeded to the extent of giving the young woman a puzzling and uncomfortable afternoon.

It was nearly 4 and Ellen, had begun to feel the lack of her lunch when Molly Rossiter telephoned, with her usual disregard of the fact that Ellen was supposed to be in business calls during business hours. Jenny answered the telephone and very formally told Ellen that she was wanted.

At that moment Ellen knew she could have brought Jenny back to her, chiefly because it was agony for that little magpie to be silent for any long period. Instead Ellen, with just as much formality, accepted the telephone.

For once Molly was not in trouble. For once Ellen was glad to see her. For once her mother's voice was very dear to her just then.

"Don't you suppose, honey, you could get away from Dreamland tonight?" Molly began. "We are having guests."

"I'm going to," Ellen replied, conscious that Jenny lingered in earshot.

She added curiously, "Who?" in a voice so low that Jenny missed it.

"Why—" her mother hesitated and then bubbled with laughter.

"I'll be there," Ellen promised.

As she moved back to the end of the counter she wondered why her mother called Myra's fiancé "guests." For years Bert had run in and out of the apartment which he lived there. But Ellen was now troubled and worried by her own problem to ponder long about so small a mystery.

HEBRON

Charles Johnson of Manchester, arrived on Monday at the home of the late Mrs. Ames W. Sisson, in Hopevale, expecting to spend two days or so with her. A few hours after his arrival, however, Mr. Johnson was summoned home on account of a serious accident. His nine year old son, Harvey, who is injured in an automobile accident. The little fellow suffered a broken leg (broken above the knee) a broken arm and a broken jaw, besides injuries to his nose and to his finger. He was taken to the hospital for treatment. Detailed particulars as to how the accident happened, owner of the automobile, etc., have not as yet been received here.

Some of the parishioners of St. Peter's Episcopal Church accompanied Mr. Allan L. Carr, local reader, to service of Holy Communion and Litany at St. Paul's Church, Williamette, Wednesday, at 9 a. m., the Rev. B. B. Styring, rector, in charge.

Some of the local farmers began to cut this week. The ice harvest was only eight inches or so in thickness, but it is feared that there may be any opportunity to do better by waiting, owing to the lateness of the season.

Allan L. Carr will speak at the Lenten service at St. Andrew's Church, Norwich, Friday evening, at 7:30 p. m. He will also speak the following week, Friday evening, March 4, at the same hour, at Christ Church, Middletown, at a Lenten service to be held there. He plans to take with him several of the junior choir members to assist in the singing at both places.

There was a good attendance at the Lenten service at St. Peter's rectory Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mr. Allan L. Carr was in charge and after the scripture readings and prayers spoke briefly on the Apostles' Creed. A chance was given for questions to be asked and discussed, the meeting taking on an informal character. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Marion Gott, Wednesday, February 24, at the same time.

St. Peter's Parish Aid met at the rectory immediately following the Lenten service Wednesday afternoon. The subject of repairs and renovation on the inside of the rectory came up for discussion, and it was voted to hire Harold Gray to put the kitchen and pantry in proper shape, renovating and repairing, and doing anything needed in the two rooms. The rectory has not been renovated since Mr. Carr came to occupy it about two years ago, except that a little temporary fixing up here and there has been done. The Parish Aid voted to be responsible for the expense of the work done by Mr. Gray. Tea and cinnamon cakes were served. Work was planned for the next week on some bed quilts which were begun some years ago and never finished. The society hopes to be able to finish and sell the same.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 (Premature Baldness)
 Question: Mr. Albert Y. asks: "What is the cause and cure of a man 22 years old becoming bald? He also grinds his teeth almost constantly in his sleep, and his jaws and ankles crack most annoyingly at times."
 Answer: Sometimes baldness in young people occurs as a result of a fever or from some constitutional disease, but most cases of baldness are due either to a lack of the proper circulation to the scalp or to a lack of certain mineral elements in the diet. These can be secured in most of the fruits and vegetables, especially those listed as follows: Asparagus, cucumbers, lettuce, bran, dandelion, parsnips, fruit skin, strawberries and beets. It would advise a thorough diagnosis including blood examination.

She charged that her husband, Panfilo Elizarraras, had deserted her in Mexico in 1909 and that she had not heard from him until he wrote her in 1918, saying he was blind and destitute. She came to the United States and took in washings to support him. Lately, she said, he became mean and threw her out of the house she had purchased.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

What are you, mother, to your children. Are you a combination of trained nurse, cook and school teacher only, or are you also a friend?

Children need to be looked after—they need to be clean, to be fed, to be comfortable, to be schooled. But they need your friendship just as well as need your friends; in fact, they need it more.

Too many children look upon their mothers as those inevitable persons who give permission or deny it. The contact ends there for youth does not know real appreciation of physical care. It accepts it as a matter of course and the mother who wears herself out over the stove, the tub and the sewing machine seldom gets the tribute she deserves, unless she extends herself still further into their imagination.

Here are some of the things that your boys and girls would appreciate outside of their creature comforts:

"I have you say, 'Children, let's go out and do some window shopping. Dad says the sporting-goods store has some wonderful birds and animals. If you like we'll go to the pet-store too and see if they have any new puppies."

"I read a very thrilling story last night. It's about a man who lived alone and one day he found a buried treasure. He felt that he couldn't live alone after that because he could do so much good with the money. Then he went out—'You can tell them the whole story and they will love it."

Or, "Come on, children. If you'll help me with the dishes later on I'll play a game with you. Now what shall it be?"

"I heard a good riddle today, but I won't tell it until you two each think up one for me."

"When I say 'mothers' I mean fathers, too."

Do your children think of you as a combination of office and an evening paper, sir, with "yes" and "no," "do" and "don't" as your vocabulary, sprinkled generously with scoldings?

Have you ever thought over this business of being a friend, a sociable friend, I mean, to your children? There is a lot of trouble and responsibility connected with being a parent, in these days especially, but try to iron the furrows out of your mind and your face for a while each day, and make life with your children something real, and not always too earnest. Try to have a little fun in the family.

"I have to get a new hat. What color do you like best? Betty, perhaps you would like to come along with me after school tomorrow."

"Jimmy, Mr. Smith told me of a grand new book for boys. How would you like to get it out of the library and we'll read it together."

"Children, what shall I do about Grandma's dress? Do you think she'd like blue or lavender? We'll vote on it."

"Come on, let's all sing something. I never can remember words, so I'll just fill in when I can. That 'fourteen' song you both sing in school is lovely."

"Jimmy, you need two new shirts. Do you want me to buy them or would you rather choose them yourself? Perhaps one of the boys would go to the store with you tomorrow and you can bring him back to dinner."

"I heard a good riddle today, but I won't tell it until you two each think up one for me."

"When I say 'mothers' I mean fathers, too."

MAKES SUDDEN STOP

New Haven, Feb. 19.—(AP)—To avoid striking mail bags which had fallen from a truck onto the rails in the Bridgeport Station early this morning, the engineer of the New Englander, train 178 over the New Haven road from New York, made an emergency stop, resulting in a broken drawbar on a combination coach and a broken steam line on a sleeping car.

On arrival here the damaged cars were replaced by others and the train proceeded, being late in arrival at Boston where it was scheduled to be at 7:52. Railroad operating officials said the damage to the cars was not serious.

If happiness has not her seat

We may be wise, or rich, or great,
But never can be blest:

Could make us happy lang,

That makes us right or wrang.

Yellowed piano keys are unsightly, especially when it is such a simple matter to whiten them. Make a paste of whiting and lemon juice and rub this on the keys with a piece of soft material, taking care that none gets in between the keys. Leave this on for a few minutes and then remove with a damp cloth and polish with a dry duster.

Velvet has been very popular this season and very often in light shades for evening wear. Of course they are very easily soiled and to keep velvet always clean and fresh, rub it in hot bran. Shake well to remove all of the bran. A whole frock can be cleaned in this way, keeping a small supply of the bran heating all the time.

ADVISES TRADE SCHOOL STUDENTS STUDY CIVICS

Town Treasurer Waddell Tells Local Pupils Knowledge of Town Government Is Essential.

Students of the Manchester Trade school were advised by Town Treasurer George H. Waddell yesterday to learn as much as possible about their town governments because it will be beneficial to them later in life when they become taxpayers and want to know how money is spent.

Mr. Waddell was the second prominent town official to address the students of this institution at a public assembly. Chief of Police Samuel G. Gordon having previously spoken to them. Harold C. Alvord, secretary and treasurer of the Manchester Trust Company is to speak next Thursday and Eldred J. McCabe, executive secretary of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce will be the following assembly speaker.

Town Treasurer Waddell explained the intricate system upon which the town is operated touching on how money is raised to meet town expenses, how various branches of the town organization function together harmoniously, about the Board of Selectmen and their duties, how money is raised for school systems and the town's two volunteer fire departments and the street department activities. Mr. Waddell proved to be a very interesting speaker to the students who accorded him a fine ovation at the conclusion of his talk.

HIGH SCHOOL FACULTY HOLDS ANOTHER SOCIAL

Bridge Features Party—Decorations In Keeping With Washington's Birthday.

The second of a series of socials for members of the Manchester High school faculty was held last evening in the music room of Teachers' Hall located next to the high school. The room was appropriately decorated in a style commemorative of the birthday of George Washington.

Miss Harriet D. Condon, supervisor of art at the school, had charge of the decorations which consisted of red, white and blue streamers over the windows and silhouettes of George Washington and Martha Washington over the electric light fixtures.

Practically all members of the faculty and a few invited guests were present for the occasion. Bridge was played and refreshments served. There was also a bit of entertainment furnished by various members of the faculty.

SIGN 36 EXHIBITS FOR AUTO SHOW

Ten Dealers To Display 16 Makes of Cars—Stoeckel Unable To Be Here.

Sixteen makes of automobiles will be exhibited by ten local dealers at the Golden Opportunity Automobile Show, which will open at the State Armory on Wednesday afternoon, March 2, and continue through Saturday, March 5. Besides automobiles, there will be at least twenty-six other exhibits of products sold in Manchester, including numerous displays by accessory men.

Because of illness, Robbins Stoeckel, state motor vehicle commissioner, will be unable to appear at the banquet, which will officially open the Automobile Show, Wednesday evening, to be held in the basement of the Armory. This will be an all-membership meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and the Lions and Kiwanis Clubs have also been invited to participate. An attempt is now being made by the speakers committee to obtain Malcolm D. Rudd, deputy commissioner as principal speaker.

Practically every available space in the Armory has been contracted for by automobile dealers and accessory men, only three vacant spaces remaining. It is expected that these will be sold before the end of this week. The automobile dealers and the makes of cars they will exhibit are as follows: George L. Betts; Hudson and Essex; H. A. Stephens, Pontiac and Oakland; James Shearer, Buick; W. A. Cole, Willys Overland and Willys Knight; Walter Hoffman, Studebaker and Rockne; Edward Crawford, Oldsmobile; Ernest Roy, DeSoto, Hupmobile and Plymouth; Walter Jacoby, Chevrolet; Henry Schaller, Dodge and

DUFFY-REALE SUIT TRIED, ADJOURNED

Will Be Completed Next Tuesday—Reale Suing Constable For $1,500.

Constable James Duffy took the witness stand yesterday and testified in his own behalf before Judge Newell Jennings in superior court at Hartford where he is the defendant in a $1,500 suit for damages brought by Salvatore Reale of Manchester. The case was adjourned until next Tuesday.

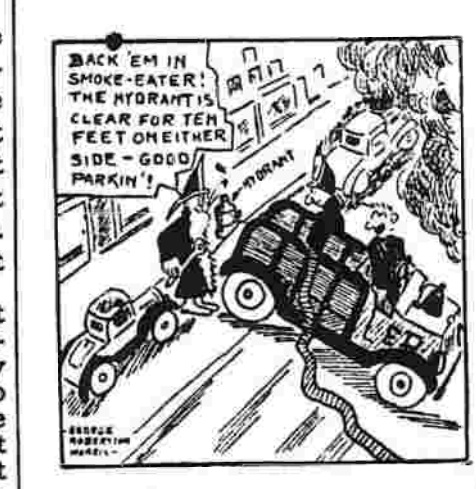

Judgment was returned against Duffy some time ago and the present action has been brought by Reale because he has been unable to collect payment of the $1,500 he claims is due him through the court action. It is the claim of Reale that in order to escape being forced to pay the amount, Duffy transferred a half-interest in his wife, a second mortgage is also involved.

The case is to come up again next Tuesday to which it was adjourned yesterday. Attorney William S. Hyde of Manchester is defending Duffy and B. J. Ackerman is looking after Reale's interests. The trouble originally resulted when Duffy used force when Reale is alleged to have offered resistance to arrest following refusal to pay a bill Constable Duffy had been asked to collect. The case aroused considerable interest when tried in superior court several months ago.

ATTENDANCE RECORD

Thompsonville, Conn., Feb. 19.—(AP)—When Mrs. Christine Doyker scored a five dollar gold piece from the Connecticut Daughters of the American Revolution this week for having had five years perfect attendance in Enfield evening school, a record for evening school attendance in the state may have been established. This was the opinion of local school officials. Mrs. Pauline Angelica has had a perfect attendance record for three years in the local school.

HIGHWAY HINTS AND HAZARDS

Keep Hydrants Clear

It is difficult sometimes to find a parking space. It is a bother and delay to search for a space when one is available near a hydrant. But think of the difficulty and bother and trouble your car might cause if it blocked the path of firemen when a near-by building was ablaze. The law requires that vehicles be parked 10 feet from a hydrant. Be sure to comply. Thank you.—The Connecticut Department of Motor Vehicles.

CHANGING THE SUBJECT

WIFE: Darling, I have a lot of things I want to talk to you about. HE: Good! It is usually things you haven't got that you want to talk about.—Lustige Blaetter, Berlin.

What is the PRICE OF BEAUTY?

Without health there can be little natural beauty. The wise woman knows that the condition of her body shows itself on her face, her complexion, and in her eyes.

She takes care to avoid constipation. This treacherous ailment frequently causes headaches, sallow skin, pimples, premature aging.

Try the pleasant "cereal way" to protect yourself from constipation. Science has proved that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron, which helps build up the blood.

The "bulk" in this delicious cereal is much like that of lettuce. How much safer than abusing your system with pills and drugs—so often habit-forming!

Two tablespoons daily will correct most types of constipation. ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

TO SHOW PRESSURE COOKING AT WARD'S

A demonstration of particular interest to housewives will be held all next week at the Montgomery Ward Store here.

They will learn how, with modern pressure steam cooking, a whole meal can be thoroughly and tastily cooked in 10 minutes' actual cooking time, against the usual methods taking several hours.

No woman wants to stay in the kitchen longer than necessary, no matter how interested she may be in the food being prepared. Every woman should be as efficient in her household jobs as she expects her husband to be in his line of endeavor; therefore, to cook scientifically she accomplishes three things: she saves a vast amount of time; she cooks the food better; and she eliminates constant personal watching, stirring, scraping or turning such as the ordinary cooking requires in attention. Pressure Cooking cooks food in its own juices and retains the precious body-building vitamins and mineral salts that usually escape in ordinary cooking. Steam pressure cooking is recommended by health authorities, dietitians and home economic experts everywhere.

The fact that the Windsor Pressure Cooker, being featured in this demonstration at Ward's has been tested and approved by the Good Housekeeping Institute is a recommendation that speaks for itself. Pressure Cookers are also endorsed by the Department of Agriculture and are the only safe way of canning non-acid fruits and vegetables. They are approved by the National Canners' Laboratories, Home Canners' Association and home makers. Housewives and students in cooking school classes are particularly invited to see the demonstration of cooking complete meals in 10 minutes and to taste the improved flavor of food when perfectly cooked with all the precious juices, vitamins and mineral salts retained.

—TWOULD BE A SHOCK.

MISTRESS: Mary, I'd like you to polish the silverware until I can see my face in it.

MAID: I wouldn't, if I was you, mum.—Answers.

STORES TO STAY OPEN WASHINGTON HOLIDAY

Not To Be Observed As General Holiday Here—Banks, Schools and Offices To Close.

Manchester stores will remain open all day Monday, Washington's birthday, according to a vote taken at the last meeting of local merchants. At the annual meeting of the South Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce the matter was left to the Executive Committee for decision and the committee brought the question up for vote at the meeting Monday evening. As no reasons for observing the day were advanced it was voted to remain open.

It is expected, however, that local chain stores will close all day, as will the banks and schools. The leading business offices in Hartford will close and it is further understood that Hartford stores will also. Washington's Birthday takes on special significance this year, in that it is the 200th anniversary of the birth of Washington.

The United Kingdom produces about two-fifths of the world output of marine engines.

SEEK FRESH CLUES IN BLAGDEN CASE

Auto Found Was Not Used By Alleged Kidnapers of Rich Sportsman.

Cleveland, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Fresh clues were sought by police today in the hope of solving the kidnaping mystery related by Harry Blagden, wealthy, 40-year-old New York state sportsman.

Blagden staggered into the Cleveland suburban home of a friend, Claude Peck, Early Tuesday, after disappearing last Thursday night at Lake Placid, N. Y. He said three men had kidnaped him and brought him here in a truck, and that he escaped by overpowering one of them while the other two were absent.

Cleveland Heights police and H. N. McCann, a New York state trooper who came here to investigate, for a brief time late yesterday thought they were near a solution.

They discovered an automobile bearing a New York license, and answering the description of an auto seen last Saturday night by garagemen at Saratoga, N. Y., who said it was occupied by two men, one of whom looked like Blagden.

Further investigation, the police said, disclosed that the automobile discovered here was a false cleft, and that its owner, J. M. Johnston, of Cleveland, had no connection with the case.

Blagden's story was that he was kidnaped from a Lake Placid cottage, given knock-out drops in a bottle of beer, and was held prisoner several days before he was brought to Cleveland by truck. No trace of the truck or the kidnapers has been found.

Although Blagden sent a note to one of his brothers, during his absence, saying the kidnapers demanded $1,000 ransom they failed to appear when the money was ready.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Feb. 19.—(AP)—A momentary bear panic at the opening of the Stock Market was Wall street's response today to the Stock Exchange's latest restriction on short selling.

After a few minutes of feverish trading and swiftly rising prices, however, the market regained its equilibrium. Early upturns of 1 to 7 points were out in half by profit taking by bulls, but the list again turned quietly upward for a time after midday, with trading proceeding at a normal pace.

The high-fliers were largely among the favorites of professional traders, which had received substantial bear interest. Eastman shot up 7 points, then lost about half of it. Auburn rushed up 6, lost all but a point of its gain, then turned upward later. U. S. Steel rose 3 points, then held around 2 points.

American Telephone pushed up 3%, and lost all but a fraction of its rise, before turning firm again. Santa Fe rose 3, only to lose most of its gain.

These movements were typical. Some issues actually showed fractional recessions from yesterday's final prices during the morning downturn.

Brokers and traders were greatly confused as to what the ultimate effect of the new ruling would be, but since it does not take effect until April 1, several of the more experienced traders who were short of the market were said to be taking their time about covering.

The Stock Exchange's new rule, as announced last night provides that brokers must secure the specific permission of traders long of the market before lending their stocks to short sellers. It was acknowledged that this would considerably reduce the amount of stock available for bear operations.

It is notable, however, that it does not affect the in-and-out trader who covers his short sale the same day, since his sale is covered before delivery of the stock sold would be due. Some brokers felt that the new ruling might mean that shorts would have to pay substantial premiums to borrow at all times, but felt that many large holders of stocks would be glad to loan at profitable rates, so that somewhat restricted bear activity would continue.

Aside from the somewhat artificial stimulus given the market by the new bear ruling, the list was helped by Washington reports that the Glass-Steagall bill might be passed by the Senate before the end of the day, news that the Reconstruction Finance Corp. has already extended about $2,500,000 in loans so far this month, continued strength of U. S. Governments in the bond market, and a strengthening of the dollar as against the French franc in the foreign exchange markets.

The weekly mercantile reviews reported little in the way of tangible improvement in business and trade. Bradstreet's said, "while business in most cities throughout the country remains very much at a standstill, reports from 55 leading cities reveal in some cases more optimistic sentiment."

If it were possible to reach the moon, an adult weighing 175 pounds on earth would weigh only 29 pounds on the moon.

TARDIEU ACCEPTS CABINET POSITION

But Will Return To Geneva To Head the French Arms Cut Delegation.

Paris, Feb. 19.—(AP)—It was announced today that former War Minister Andre Tardieu had agreed to accept the post of minister of state without portfolio in order to return to Geneva as the head of the French disarmament delegation.

The Havas (French) News Agency confirmed in its Geneva dispatches that Joseph Paul-Boncour had agreed to accept the ministry of foreign affairs in a Painleve Cabinet.

This would indicate the heads of the French disarmament delegation at Geneva would retain their posts if M. Painleve were successful in his formation of a ministry. M. Paul-Boncour, originally chosen to head the French delegation, was forced by illness to yield his position to Tardieu, the deposed Laval's war minister. Later Paul-Boncour went to Geneva as vice chairman and became temporary chief of the delegation when the Laval Cabinet was swept out of office by the French Senate.

AMERICANS URGED TO QUIT WAR AREA

ment were in a bad spot in case the expected battle should begin.

In the event of an artillery attack from Japanese batteries in Hongkew these men would find themselves virtually in the line of fire and in extreme danger from shells which overshoot the mark.

Marine officers described the position as "precarious" and directed extension of the sandbag barricades along Soochow creek.

This afternoon, General Uyeda, the Japanese commander, said his men had been instructed to exercise caution but he added that "it is likely some shells might fall wide of their mark, in which event we would be regretful but unable to prevent it."

Marine officers said since they had been on patrol along Soochow creek 100 shells had fallen in that vicinity, subjecting the American force to real danger. It was only good luck, they said, that none of them had been killed.

once during the war, on November 13, 1918. He arrived in the morning, met Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria in the afternoon, heard a report of the activities of the Saxon Army Corps and went home again in the evening.

He was born at Dresden May 25, 1865, the first child of King George of Saxony and the Infanta Anna of Portugal. When he was 22 he married Archduchess Louisa of Austria-Tuscany at Vienna. It was a love match, certainly on his side, but destined to end tragically.

Louise, five years his junior, had advanced ideas and the atmosphere of the Saxon Court under King George, unnerved her. After bearing August Friedrich three sons and two daughters, she eloped in 1902 with M. Giron, her children's French tutor. She and Friedrich August were divorced in 1903. Later, she tired of M. Giron and in 1907 was married to an Italian singer.

She divorced him four years later and went to Brussels where she wrote a book called "My Life."

PILE UP EVIDENCE AGAINST FENTON

The second day of his trial opened. The state called 14 witnesses yesterday. Fenton, for 30 years Iowa clerk and treasurer of Windham and a prominent citizen of Williamette, is charged with having embezzled more than $22,000 in public funds.

A. W. Buchanan, Jr., an executive of the Windham National Bank testified yesterday that on three occasions Fenton had drawn money from the town account and had deposited the money to his personal account. The total transferred in three transactions he said was $975.

John H. Wilcox, an official of the Williamette Trust Company said Fenton had in 1925 an 1926 sold bonds waded by the town with a total value of $9,500 in three separate transactions and had deposited the proceeds in his personal account. In addition, interest on town bonds was also deposited to Fenton's personal account, Wilcox said. Both witnesses claim the transactions in detail.

More than 50 exhibits, most of them bank and town records, were introduced yesterday.

TWO MEN MURDERED

New York, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The bodies of two men, both of whom had been shot to death, were found today stuffed in the rumble seat of a parked automobile in West 114th street.

The cover of the rumble seat had been forced down to conceal the bodies, and blood streaming from the machine attracted a pedestrian who notified the police.

The body of one man was slumped down on the rumble seat and the other was on the floor. Each man appeared to be not older than 28 years.

The pockets of the men's clothing had been turned inside out and there was nothing that might lead to identification.

An ambulance surgeon said the men had been dead only a short time.

ROSA PONSSELLE ILL

New York, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Rosa Ponselle suffering from a cold which she contracted while singing in Washington Wednesday, postponed today on the advice of her physician a concert scheduled in Baltimore tonight.

Miss Ponselle's doctor said she would be able to leave tomorrow night for Cleveland, where she is to sing Monday night. Her manager said she would keep the Baltimore engagement in March, probably March 18.

MAY DOUBLE FORCE NOW IN CHINA

change in government which occurred last December when Premier Inukai's Cabinet succeeded to that of former Premier Wakatsuki.

The military campaigns are not an issue in the election. Both parties are supporting the government in the Shanghai campaign.

Mr. Araki, the minister of war, told the Associated Press correspondent the possibility of reinforcements under Chiang Kalia Shek might compel Japan to send an additional expeditionary force to Shanghai.

90,000 Chinese "Our intelligence reports," he said, "indicate that there are at present 90,000 Chinese soldiers facing our men in the Shanghai area, including Chiang's troops which are reported to have joined the 19th Army. If these reports prove true we may be compelled to reinforce our expedition proportionately."

He declined to say just how strong reinforcement he considered necessary, but he explained it probably would require ten or fifteen days to put the additional units in Shanghai.

He would not say definitely that the Japanese would not operate beyond the 12 1/2 mile zone to which the Chinese Army has been asked to retire. If the Chinese should attack Japanese on the borders of that zone, it might create a situation requiring a further Japanese advance, he said.

He declined to say whether the contemplated reinforcements already are prepared to leave for Shanghai, pointing out that the general staff always held the army ready to deal with emergencies. It has not been decided, he said, whether a high ranking general will be sent to Shanghai as commander in chief.

CLAIM MISS COOK PLAYED GRIM HOAX

gram would be impounded on the arrival of the Chinese Prince and sent to Gibraltar where an autopsy is being performed on the body of the girl, who was buried there. Photostatic copies of the original will be made for relatives and attorneys representing the girl's and Arnold's interests.

Several of Mr. McFee's Westport artist friends accompanied the blond, into the courtroom.

AUTHOR SEEN

Bridgeport, Feb. 19.—(AP)—William McFee, romance writer and producer of the artist's colony at Westport, was seen today by Superior Court Judge Kibodoff before an action. Speaking with an accent and cupping his ear to come deafness, Dr. McFee, on the stand before Judge Richards Booth, related details of his shattered romance which began in Smyrna during the World War and ended while he was running a marine engineer on a fruit ship.

FORMER BURGLAR TELLS LIFE STORY

Harry Haines, Now Salvationist Convert, To Speak At Citadel Sunday.

"A song about home and mother got me interested in rescue work, but there was no sentimentality about my reformation. That was cold business and a sense of preservation of life."

A quiet little man, almost drab except for the occasional spark of fire that kindled the bright eyes behind the big horn-rimmed spectacles, was speaking. He is Harry Haines, reformed burglar and lock breaker of the old school, who will relate his life story at the Salvation Army citadel at 661 Main street Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. Mr. Haines is now one of the extension secretaries of the Goodwill Home and Rescue Mission, whose headquarters are at 42-44 Eagles street, Newark.

That a book may never be judged by the cover is amply proven by Harry Haines' colorful career. He will be seventy-one years old this month, and almost 30 years of his life was spent in crime. Haines came to this country from Scotland in his early teens. On the boat he met Jim Dunlop.

"Old timers," said Haines, "will remember that name. He thought I looked like good material and he broke me in. I became a burglar, first a helper, then active. My background was good, my father was a minister, four brothers were in the clergy. But I wanted excitement. Burglary in those days was different than it is now." He sniffed a penny what we were after. We knew to "We planned our work here after a penny what we were after. Not but we only used them in self-defense. Our toughest job was to keep the man we were robbing from becoming excited and shouting. Nowadays they shoot first and take what they can get later. And usually all they get is a jail sentence, if not the chair. I spent 30 years on the Bowery but I never slept there. Why should I? I had money and there were good hotels close by."

"In my various encounters with the police I was hot seven times. When I was in a hospital in Pittsburgh, they gave me morphine to relieve the pain. I continued it. After a year I tried to stop and found I couldn't. It took me eleven years to get rid of the habit that was ruining my life. And in a way, it helped me to conversion. Mother Mandelbaum, who was a famous Bowery fence and one of my backers, claimed she and her associates spent $45,000 trying to cure an addict and failed. But I didn't."

"When I got out of jail for the Pittsburgh job, a couple of pals and myself took an apartment at 40th Street and Broadway, then known as Longacre Square. Outside of our window the Salvation Army held meetings nightly. One song about home and mother brought back memories. I couldn't keep it out of my mind. I attended meetings for six weeks and finally decided to join and help keep other lads from going through what I had endured. Miss Sarah Wray was in charge of the meetings. A fine woman."

"So I decided to give myself up. When I went to the police they thought I was crazy, that the morphine had hit what brain I had left. But I proved I was sincere. I returned $124,000 of stolen money. But, chuckled Haines, not to the cops. I had to appear in every town that had charges against me. I took a forty-year sentence in Deer Lodge, Mont., twenty years in Denver, but why detail them all?"

"I was sentenced to 268 years, altogether. I thought that was enough for one lifetime. That was in 1890. Teddy Roosevelt intervened for me, and through his help, I served only twenty-one years. When I came out I took up riveting in the ship yards. Senator Copeland, then Commissioner of health in New York, heard about me, and asked me to go among men and speak. I visited thirty-one states and covered 32,000 miles. I think I've aided many who thought they were beyond help. Burglars in the old days were business men."

The present crime wave, Haines said, was mostly springing to the decline of religion in the home. He also blamed pool rooms and hangouts where dope peddlers congregated. Haines has been in Newark with the Mission three years. For twelve years before he was a secretary in the Bower Y.M.C.A., New York City.

GERMANS TAKE LUTSK.

On Feb. 19, 1918, the Germans continued their drive into Russia, capturing the towns of Lutsk and Dvinsk.

Lenin and Trotsky signed a statement announcing the complete surrender of the Soviet government and asking the Imperial German government to name its peace terms.

Russian troops were refusing to fight.

On this date, British troops in Palestine advanced two miles on a 16-mile front, encountering stiff resistance from the Turks.

Fighting on the western front was confined to trench raids by both sides, neither having any great advantage.

It was announced in official circles that German troops from the Russian front were arriving in force.

SAILOR HATS FEATURE MILLINERY FOR SPRING

New York, Feb. 19.—(AP)—It's a man's world after all, fashion experts once again have conceded.

The tendency toward a tailored silhouette was an outstanding surprise of the spring showing of the Retail Milliners' Association of America which closed Thursday in the wee hours of the morning.

The sailor hat, tilted rakishly, and the left side of the head predominated.

The feminine fussiness that characterized last spring's millinery was noticeably absent.

"Two types of hats prevailed. One was the sailor, from the regular shape to the little Breton with the brim turned up. The other was the little close fitting chapeau, such as the turban, toque or beret."

The hats shown for dress occasions digressed into the models of

SHAW NOT HURT

Capetown, Union of South Africa, Feb. 19.—(AP)—George Bernard Shaw seemed more angry than hurt today as a result of an automobile accident Wednesday in which he and his wife were severely shaken up and bruised. The Shaws are here on vacation.

When called on the telephone today Shaw expressed annoyance that the news of his accident had leaked out and refused to discuss it.

It was understood that the accident was not the reason he cancelled sailing reservations for England and that both he and his wife were completely recovered but are prolonging their stay indefinitely.

He informed everybody at breakfast today that he never felt better in his life. He has spent his mornings working and his afternoons motoring about the country.

KILLS SELF WITH BOMB

Brno, Czechoslovakia, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Joseph Stava, a cabinetmaker, blew himself and his shop to bits with a bomb when a tax collector arrived to foreclose on the shop. He first chased out the collector with one hand grenade and then set off the other in the shop.

WASHINGTON BIRTHDAY PROGRAM COMPLETED

Rockville To Have Memorable Day Monday—Miss Church's Pageant a Feature.

The Washington program scheduled for Monday, February 22, is about complete and all committees concerned have worked to make it a memorable day in the history of the city of Rockville.

At 10 a. m. the whistles will blow and bells will ring, this being the hour George Washington was born. Following there will be a sports program under the direction of Roger J. Murphy and more than a hundred young people will take part in the events to be held in the Sykes Gymnasium.

In the afternoon at 2:30 and 4 o'clock a pageant will be presented under the direction of Miss Lela Church entitled, "What Makes a Man." There will be about one hundred and fifty in the cast. This will be held at the Sykes auditorium.

In the evening at 8 o'clock a splendid program will be carried out, with Rev. George T. Sinnott, pastor of St. Bernard's Catholic church as master of ceremonies. Commander W. S. Alexander of the American Legion will be the speaker. There will also be a film of the motion picture on "The Life of George Washington."

The Jefferson Club of this city held an important meeting in its rooms on Thursday evening, at which time it was planned to hold some interesting debates as follows: Can the City of Rockville operate on a ten mill tax rate? Should labor saving machinery be assessed for the support of those they throw out of work? Why we should have lower water rates? Why the Town of Vernon should reduce its budget for the coming year.

Would the enactment of a universal eight hour day law eliminate unemployment? Why the taxpayers of the United States would save in abolishing prohibition? Why we should seek a 25 percent reduction in gas and electric rates in the town of Vernon.

The committee on debates will endeavor to secure Professor Albert Levitt in the near future to deliver an address on the Power Question to the citizens of this community.

Lions Ladies' Night
District Governor Philip Jacobs of Norwalk, Conn. speaks at 7 o'clock. This was the first Ladies' Night of the Rockville Lions Club and there were more than eight members with their wives or lady friends present. Francis Prichard, president of the local club presided. There were several pleasing numbers by the Hartford Lions quartet. There was also a brief talk by the president of the Hartford Club, Mayor A. E. Waite, a member of the club was also called upon for a few remarks.

The dinner consisted of broiled chicken and all the fixings, and was served in the usual Chapdelaine manner. Stanley Usher of Hartford, who accompanied the quartet at the piano was a former Rockville boy, and an organist of note.

To Manufacture Ice
Alfred F. Ludwig, Rockville ice dealer, who recently purchased the Armour building for speculation, has decided to install ice making equipment and manufacture ice for local use. With the unusual weather this year, which has prevented ice dealers from harvesting ice, he is planning to look after his local trade. Mr. Ludwig states he will be able to take care of all customers and the price of ice will not be increased.

Class Banquet
The Delphi Alpha class of the Baptist church held its annual banquet in the church dining room on Wednesday evening. A chicken dinner, with all the fixings was served with Mrs. Eugene Edwards in charge. This was also the semi-annual mite box opening, the money being used to support a native bible worker in Africa.

Valentine games were played and prizes awarded. Mrs. Stephen Von Ewuh had charge of the decorations, which were most beautiful.

NOTED AUTHOR'S WIDOW PASSES AWAY IN TOKYO

Tokyo, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Setsuko Kitazumi, whose husband was the late Lafcadio Hearn, author, is dead at the age of 69.

She and Hearn were married at Matsue in 1891, shortly after his arrival from the United States. Mme. Kitazumi died yesterday after a long illness from arterio-sclerosis at the home in a Tokyo suburb where they both lived until the author's death in 1904.

Sometimes after his marriage Hearn became a Japanese subject and adopted his wife's family name, Kitazumi. Three sons and a daughter of the couple survive.

Although her husband's fame became widespread in the western world, Mme. Kitazumi had little contact with the Japanese society into which she was born. She will be buried tomorrow by his side in Zoshigaya cemetery, in Tokyo.

ROOSEVELTS AT TOKYO
Tokyo, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, new governor of the Philippines, with Mrs. Roosevelt and his daughter Grace, arrived here today by automobile and were guests of Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes at the United States Embassy.

They disembarked from the steamer President Taft at Yokohama, enroute to the Philippines from the United States. Governor Roosevelt will have an audience with Emperor Hirohito tomorrow.

Rochester, N. Y.: The snow hereabouts is particular where it falls. It fell to a depth of four inches in one ward yesterday and only half an inch in the other 28. The reporter neglected to say whether the ward was Democratic or Republican.

GOV. CROSS TO OPEN NEW LONDON MUSEUM

New London, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Formal opening of the Lyman Allyn Park and Museum by Governor W. L. Cross will be on the evening of March 2, and the museum will be opened to the public the next day.

The ceremony will be preceded by a dinner at Mohican Hotel at which the governor, members of his staff and friends of the museum will be guests of the museum management.

The governor will declare the building officially opened and James A. May, mayor of New London will welcome the addition to the city.

The exhibits to be displayed will be largely from traveling collections. Yale University will lend a group of American furniture, glass and silver from the Garvan collection and there will be 40 paintings by modern American artists and a group of international water colors.

The museum will specialize in drawings, prints, small sculpture and objects of industrial art. The park and museum are made possible out of the estate of Mrs. Harriet Upon Allyn, who died Nov. 30, 1926 which had a value of about $1,000,000. This was to be used as a memorial to the testatrix's father, Lyman Allyn, who was the seventh lineal descendant of Robert Allyn, who settled in New London county in 1651.

The others sank through the floor and Mr. Dempsey went manfully to the arena where he took it on the chin.

Honolulu: "Mary," said a voice from London, "had a little lamb." It was an adult voice, and it was purely business. The telephone folk were making tests to link Honolulu with European countries by radio-telephone.

URGE PREMARITAL PHYSICAL EXAMS

State Health Department Director Says "Marriage Is Like a Grave Crossing."

"Getting married is certainly as serious an undertaking as crossing a railroad track, so we may wisely be admonished to 'stop, look and listen,'" Dr. Henry F. Tabbot, director of the Bureau of Venereal Diseases of the State Department of Health, declared yesterday in stressing the importance of future health and happiness of the premarital physical examination.

Although the idea of teaching young people to fall in love intelligently may appear absurd, he said, parents should instill into the lives of their children such ideals of manhood and womanhood that when they grow older a firm background of the fundamentals is established upon which to pass judgment for, "after all, the most important thing in the world is home-making."

"About one-half of the states," Dr. Tabbot continued, "have gone so far as to pass specific legislation that certain mental and physical fitness be required before the marriage license is issued. In some states, the regulation is so premarital examination is quite specific. Sponsors of such examinations claim certain good features, which, if nothing more, have a definite educational value. Individuals upon going to a reputable physician for some special examination may often be made aware of the seriousness of certain communicable disease and the physician can give advice accordingly. No premarital examination exists in Connecticut but there seems to be some need for it. However, the public should be constantly reminded of the dangers pertaining to the communicable diseases that may affect their children as well as the health and happiness of the marital partners."

"Certainly no more opportune time could be suggested for a clean bill of health than prior to marriage. Thorough medical examination including certain laboratory tests will in most instances give one the information of his or her physical condition. For the most part the persons entering into marriage contract are responsible for their own future
