

VALERA OUTLINES FUTURE PROGRAM

Irish Republican Leader To Abolish Oath of Allegiance and Pay Back Loan Made in 1921.

Dublin, Feb. 27.—Eamon de Valera, Irish Republican leader, today sent out in question and answer form, the plan he hopes to follow to increase Ireland's independence from Great Britain when he comes into control of the secretariat government, as he expects soon to do.

The questions asked Mr. de Valera, and his answers to them follow: Q. "What will be the policy of the government which it is assumed you will be asked to form?"

A. "The policy of the government will be to work steadily toward re-establishing unity and political independence in Ireland and to build up industries to supply home needs. For the latter purpose the home market will be reserved for the home producer."

Q. "Will you move within the Anglo-French treaty as it now stands or will you seek its revision?"

A. "We will seek to execute the limited mandate asked for at the elections, but will be glad to avail ourselves of any opportunities that present themselves for negotiating a revision of the treaty so as to bring it into accord with Irish aspirations."

Q. "Are you quite correctly when it is said you will retain in Ireland the next land annuity payment (about $3,000,000, due about June)?"

JAPANESE DENY SOVIET CHARGE

Do Not Plan To Send Troops To Border To Help White Russians, They Say.

Tokyo, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Japan is not likely to court another international crisis with Russia, government spokesmen were quick to point out today in commenting on the queries of the Russian government regarding military operations in northern Manchuria.

The Russian queries, presented by L. M. Karakhan, acting Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, turned General Jiro Tamon's northern Manchuria campaign into an international issue and took official Japan completely by surprise, especially in view of the compliance Moscow heretofore has shown toward Japan's operations in the Harbin district.

Spokesmen for the war and foreign ministries alike asserted today that Russia's "nervousness" over Japan's intentions in north Manchuria were based on distorted interpretations of the situation and magnified a "purely local problem" to unwarranted dimensions.

No Foundation. The War Office said it lacked any information to support M. Karakhan's statement that General Tamon ordered 17 trains of 50 cars each for an advance on the town of Pogranichnaya and there was no intention of an advance to the Russian border.

The mission of General Tamon's intended expedition, the War Office said, was merely to disperse 13,000 followers of General Ting Chao who were reported operating in the Harbin district.

He denied emphatically the Japanese charge that the Russian situation which Japan does not share.

FLOODS THREATEN WEST; REPORT THIRTEEN KILLED

Warm Winds and Heavy Rains Melt Snow in Mountains and Many Rivers Are Overflowing.

Seattle, Feb. 27.—(AP)—On the heels of warm chinook winds and heavy rains, western Washington was in the grip today of the greatest menace from floods and earth and snow slides in years, with 13 lives already taken.

In the mountains of the western Cascades, a death-dealing torrent of water and mud swept away part of the little community of Edgewick yesterday afternoon and four women, two children and one man were lost. The debris was still searched today for two of the bodies.

The melting snow fields in the mountains, in addition to threatening slides and devastation to what ever might be in their path, also filled rivers. In western Washington, the Stillaguamish, Snoqualmie, Green, Puyallup, Raging and Stuck rivers were bank full, or overflowing.

From the Canadian line south to the Columbia river, highways and outcrops were blocked by washouts, wire service was handicapped, and many families were marooned or fleeing from river valleys to higher ground.

Those killed at Edgewick, when a wall of water 150 yards wide and 15 feet deep broke loose from a natural basis, were: Ira Moore, 60. Mrs. Elwood Claggett, 29. Mrs. William Blade and her two children, Rosemary, three, and Margaret, eight months. Mrs. Gust Balder.

BANDIT IS KILLED DURING A HOLD-UP

Three of His Companions Wounded in Gun Battle With Two Cops.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—An unidentified bandit was killed, three others wounded, and T. Philip Perkins, former British amateur golf champion, shot in the hip when one of the robbers tried to use his body for a shield, the attempted hold-up of a fashionable night club here early today.

The shooting occurred in the Embassy Club shortly before 3 a. m. when two policemen, who were eating in the kitchen at the time the hold-up started, opened fire.

George Meyers, 40, Tulsa, Okla., identified as a member of the robber band, in critical condition from a bullet wound in the mouth; Gene Hickman, 50, reportedly another of the robbers, critically wounded near.

Cincinnati, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Samuel Seabury, chief counsel to the Hofstadter legislative committee investigating New York City's government, denounced Tammany Hall and criticized Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt last night at the dinner of the city charter committee.

One of the outstanding developments in Seabury's investigation was the recent removal from office of Sheriff Thomas M. Farley by Governor Roosevelt.

Seabury's criticism of the New York governor was predicated on the executive's delay in acting on charges of alleged illegal practices by Farley.

Nothing having been done about it, I, myself, filed charges before the governor and after two months' delay we got some action," Seabury said. Farley was removed from office February 24.

TAMMANY CALLED NATIONAL MENACE

Samuel Seabury Also Criticizes Governor Roosevelt For Delay In Farley Case.

Seabury referred to Tammany Hall as a powerful national menace.

The power of Tammany Hall is not only a menace to New York City—it is a menace to the nation as well," Seabury declared. "It drives public men, whose instincts would lead them to speak out in protest against corruption that has been revealed."

Seabury remained here today to study Cincinnati's city manager plan of government. He offered a three-point program for reorganization of New York City's government. First, he suggests, revising the charter to eliminate corruption, inefficiency and waste; second, centering of power in a reasonably small council elected by a system of proportional representation; third, the building up of a strong non-partisan group to support good government.

Other Indictments. After discussing the removal of Sheriff Farley, Seabury added: "Also under indictment is the deputy city clerk who, on a salary which never exceeded $8,500 per annum, banked $384,738 between 1925 and 1931. He has, however, not been removed and still conspires to exercise the powers of his office."

A deputy sheriff at a salary of $3,700 a year deposited $28,000 during four months in office, and, when interrogated in reference to it, said it was money which he banked for his brother—that he was really misjudging him, that he was known among his friends as "Big Hearted Joe."

Referring to Tammany as a National menace, Seabury said: "Intoxicated by the absolute power which it exerts in the City of New York and the great influence

CHAMBER REPORTS ON TRADE SURVEY

Sixteen Business Factors in State Reviewed To Show Trend of Business.

Hartford, Feb. 27.—Sixteen business factors indicative of conditions in Connecticut during January 1932 compared with the previous month and with the corresponding month a year ago are graphically tabulated in the new monthly business survey made public today by the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with sixteen leading local Chambers of Commerce throughout the state.

The survey was undertaken at the request of public utility representatives, executives of industrial concerns, statisticians and educational instructors and includes every economic figure available in a state-wide basis and some that never before were so collated.

Business Trends. Business trends as set forth in the survey follow: In January 1932 there were 280,108 telephones in 16 cities compared with 261,771 in December 1931, which was a decrease of 6 per cent and 322,263 in January 1931, a decrease of 8 per cent.

State Payrolls. Payrolls in nine Connecticut cities totaled $15,829,733 in January and $19,610,064 in December, a decrease of 18.9 per cent. There were $46,631,400 cu. ft. of gas consumed in 15 cities in January, an increase of 6.3 per cent over the total of 796,348,000 cu. ft. used in December and a loss of $4 from the total of $19,019,900, ft. used in January 1931.

Electricity consumption in 16 cities amounted to 73,229,829 KWHR., a drop of 1.5 per cent from the total of 74,365,240 kw. used in December.

Bluefield, W. Va., Feb. 27.—(AP) Thirty miners were unaccounted for today after an explosion in the Boiesevan mine of the Pocahontas Fuel Company near Pocahontas, Va. One miner who reached the surface said he heard "some kind of an explosion" and immediately left the workings.

Air Forces and Destroyers To Strike At Distant Points In China To Prevent Troops From Coming To Aid of Defenders At Shanghai—Despite Jap Claims That They Had Captured Kiangwan Village, Reporter On Tour of Lines Finds It Still In Hands of Chinese — Quiet On Shanghai Front Today.

Tokyo, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The Japanese high command, it was learned on good authority today, is prepared to use the air forces and the Navy to strike at distant points in China to prevent further accretions of Chinese army strength on the front at Shanghai.

The commanders at Shanghai, it was learned, have expressed alarm over prospects of the early arrival of large reinforcements there and have decided to employ warships on the Yangtze river to prevent its becoming a highway for the armies which have been reported hurrying to join the 19th Route Army on the battle lines.

The recent air raids by naval planes on Chinese air bases on Soochow and Hangchow were cited as examples of the use to which the air forces would be put.

It was understood Japanese destroyers will attempt to prevent further Chinese troops crossing the Yangtze at Nanjing, where thousands already are reported to have crossed from the north bound for Shanghai. Other warships are expected to intercept movements of troops down the river from Kiang and Hankow. Reports that General Chiang Fah-Kwei's noted Fourth Army, nicknamed "The Ironsides," departed from Yoochow for Shanghai, 30,000 strong, were believed to be partly responsible for this decision.

At the same time it was learned the foreign office has instructed Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu at Shanghai and Ambassador Tameo Matsudaira at Geneva to make known to authorities at the proper time that Japan is ready to halt the conflict at Shanghai whenever the Chinese proved convincingly their willingness to withdraw from the 20-kilometer zone specified by the Japanese in its ultimatum.

The Japanese would undertake, these instructions said, to withdraw their troops after a certain distance, when the Chinese evacuation actually was completed.

Shanghai, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Japanese military authorities said late this afternoon the western extremity of the staunchly defended village of Kiangwan finally had fallen into their hands.

The announcement was made at the end of a day of comparative quiet along the Shanghai front, punctuated by a few spurts of gunfire and marked by the landing of a small force of Japanese reinforcements at the wharves in the Whangpo river.

EX-STATE TROOPER HELD AS BANDIT

Two Others Arrested In Lodging House As They Are Dividing Their Loot.

Providence, R. I., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Lawrence H. Clark of Attleboro, Mass., former Massachusetts state trooper who was arrested here with two others after a holdup of produce company messengers, has been identified by Patrolman Thomas Sammon as one of a trio who attempted to kidnap Israel Dickens on February 18.

Clark, Jeremiah J. Sullivan of Foonoscocket, and Aldie Beausoleil of Providence, were arrested within half an hour of the theft of $2,100 from the messengers late yesterday.

Valuable Baby Gorilla Is On Way to Recovery

Washington, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A young N.G.I. baby gorilla, who was past the crisis and on the way to recovery from pneumonia, thanks to the last word in scientific aid rushed to him at the National Zoo.

An oxygen chamber, brought from the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center in New York, was set up inside his cage after all other means had failed to restore him, and the valuable little animal responded immediately the regenerating oxygen started work.

PLANNING TO UPSET SPANISH REPUBLIC

Ex-King Alfonso and His Uncle, the Pretender, Issue Call to the People.

Paris, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Former King Alfonso of Spain and his uncle Alfonso Carlos, traditionalist pretender to the Spanish throne, have issued a call to Spanish people, the Haya News Agency reported from Madrid today, to band together to overthrow the new Republic in Spain.

The former king's manifesto, the Haya correspondent said, announced he accepted his uncle as head of the family and that they both held the same principle—that everyone must unite "to save Spanish society from the wave of Anarchy and Communism which has invaded it and to gather under the flag, the sacred flag to which I devoted my life."

He proposed to those who remained faithful to the Monarchy to restore it as a form of provisional government which would summon a cortes to draw up a constitution. The present Republic, he said, is no more capable of continuing in existence than was the short-lived first Republic in the '70s.

The manifesto of the king's uncle, Alfonso Carlos, was reported to be in the same vein. The time has come, it said, to protest against the Republic and "constitution which may be the ideal of an Atheist Republic, born of violence in a time of misfortune, but cannot be the fundamental law of Spain."

RAILROAD SLEUTH SHOT BY THIEVES

Was In Grocery Store When Hold-Up Occurred — One Bandit Wounded.

Boston, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A Boston and Albany railroad policeman was shot three times last night while attempting to frustrate the holdup of a small variety store.

The policeman, Philip Sweeney, was taken to a hospital wounded in both thighs and the abdomen. A watch in his pocket, which deflected one bullet probably saved his life, surgeons said. His condition was not regarded as serious.

TO RISK FORTUNE TO AID BUSINESS

Henry Ford Says He Will Spend 300 Million In Detroit and Michigan Alone.

Detroit, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Declaring he was prepared to "risk everything we've got" in an effort to start an industrial revival, Henry Ford announced today he has provided himself with stock of materials anticipating a possible production program of 1,500,000 cars a year.

He estimated his program will call for the expenditure this year of $300,000,000 in Detroit and Michigan alone for raw and fabricated materials, freight and shipping costs and labor. Purchases of raw materials and manufactured parts throughout the United States he said would aggregate $23,000,000 a month.

Production of the new eight and the improved four cylinder models recently announced, Ford said, probably will begin next week, and "before very long we expect to be making from 15,000 to 8,000 cars a day." In the Detroit area alone, he said, 100,000 men will be employed at the standard minimum wage of $6 a day and upward. In addition, he added, 5,000 suppliers of raw and materials throughout the United States will give employment to 800,000 more men.

Parts Arriving. Parts for the new car production have been pouring into the Ford plants here from various sources.

30 MEN TRAPPED IN MINE BY BLAST

But One Man Reaches Surface — Rescuers Forced Back By Poisonous Fumes

Bluefield, W. Va., Feb. 27.—(AP) Thirty miners were unaccounted for today after an explosion in the Boiesevan mine of the Pocahontas Fuel Company near Pocahontas, Va. One miner who reached the surface said he heard "some kind of an explosion" and immediately left the workings.

The thirty men unaccounted for were known to have been at work in the mine.

Pocahontas is 25 miles from Bluefield. Company officials said the operation was non-gaseous and that it was possible the explosion was caused by powder.

TRUCKER DESTROYED

Explosion Destroyed Truck, Killed Driver, Wounded Others

Explosion destroyed a truck, killed the driver, and wounded others in a collision with a building in a city street.

A few Japanese airplanes flew over the line but the Chinese machine guns and anti-aircraft guns did not fire. At 7:30 a. m. Japanese broke the quiet very briefly to toss a few shells in the direction of Kiangwan. The bombardment ended abruptly, however, and quiet again prevailed.

Shortly before noon the Japanese artillery and the guns on the warships in the river delivered a vigorous bombardment on the forts at Woosung and the Chinese defenses on the south bank of the Yangtze following the arrival of the reinforcements. This afternoon a report was circulated that a considerable number of Japanese troops had arrived in similar fashion during the last few days, being brought in on the supply ships which have docked here almost daily.

MRS. HOOVER'S WHISPER ANNOUNCES ENGAGEMENT

Charlotte, N. C., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, First Lady of the Land, was responsible for the recent announcement, earlier than planned, of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth Alexander of Charlotte and Charles Pollard, second son of Virginia's governor, it was learned here today.

Instead of the usual formal announcement, word of the impending marriage became public through a radio announcement which Charles Pollard got the tip indirectly to be sure, from Mrs. Hoover.

Miss Alexander, who is living with relatives in Claremont, Va., was acting as hostess for Governor Pollard at the Alexandria, Va., Washington celebration Monday, having become engaged to the governor's son. She desired to withhold the announcement for awhile.

Mrs. Hoover sitting with the President nearby, admired the girl and asked a nearby woman, "Who is that pretty young lady?" The informant replied giving the girl's name, adding that she was one of the few who knew of the engagement she reminded the First Lady of its secrecy. But Mrs. Hoover whispered.

Word soon found its way to the broadcasting box and during a lull in the ceremonies Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Alexander, Jr., sitting at home in Charlotte heard their daughter's engagement announced, as did thousands of others.

With the secret out, formal announcement followed that night.

In the act of peering from a window. Equally often a Japanese bullet jacket fell before a sniper's bullet. Thus the Sino-Japanese battle in Hongkong continues on, although the sensational and dramatic developments of the first few days of the hostilities have passed.

The Odeon theater, once the town's chief showhouse, is now only a brick shell. A Japanese school building where youngsters once frolicked in safety, is now subjected to an unceasing rain of shells and bullets.

The Japanese naval depot at the north end of the district, a primary objective of the Chinese guns, seems to lead a charmed existence. It is only slightly damaged.

BOMB AIRDROMES

Hangchow, China, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Only superficial damage was done by Japanese aviators who bombed the Chinese airdrome here yesterday.

Anticipating such raids, the Chinese authorities previously had removed most of the airplanes from the hangars. The Japanese destroyed three bombs, partially destroyed the hangars, and shot down one of two Chinese planes which they engaged in an air battle.

Changchun, Manchuria, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Japanese Manchurian forces struck a sharp blow in defense of the new northeastern federated state today by attacking and repulsing a force of Chinese insurgents under General Wang Teh-Lin.

AL CAPONE LOSES APPEAL TO COURT

Chicago, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The conviction of "Scarface Al" Capone on charges of evading income tax laws was affirmed today by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Ever since he was sentenced by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson last October 24, Capone has been in the Cook county jail.

In a 5,000 word opinion the high court upheld the indictments in which the gangster was charged with cheating the government of some $200,000 in tax, the verdict in which he was convicted on five of 21 counts and his sentence of 11 years and fine of $50,000.

Only the intervention of the United States Supreme Court can prevent Capone's removal to the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kans.

CHINESE RAISE FUND

New London, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Six thousand five hundred dollars has been raised by local Chinese for the fund that is being raised by people of this race throughout the United States for use in administering to the thousands of the country who have been rendered homeless as a result of the trouble with the Japanese in China.

With the secret out, formal announcement followed that night.

WORLD SCRAMBLES FOR WAR SPOILS

New Book States That Few of the Pledges Made Were Ever Fulfilled.

New York, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Loss of idealism in the scramble for victor's spoils at the end of the World War is presented as the main theme of the world's struggles, since the signing of the Treaty of Versailles, in "Years of Tumult," an historical review of 12 years of world history, published here today.

Written by James H. Powers, foreign editor of the Boston Globe, the volume is based mainly on dispatches of that newspaper and of the Associated Press, supplemented by reports from special correspondents of the New York Times, Chicago Daily News, New York Evening Post, Baltimore Sun and Brooklyn Eagle.

Like a good reporter, Mr. Powers relies for his interest on recorded facts, leaving the reader to draw conclusions. The Paris peace conference met, Mr. Powers relates, under agreement to be guided by Wilson's fourteen points. It was upon that basis that Germany had surrendered.

The treaty failed to settle the Russian, Austro-Hungarian and Turkish problems, it avoided the Balkan questions and ignored the claims of China to Shantung, taken by Japan from the Germans.

Even before the conference got down to business, Great Britain eliminated "freedom of the seas" from its deliberations. Instead of "removal of economic barriers," new trade barriers were set up. For "disinterested settlement of colonial claims" there was substituted the old imperial adage of dividing spoils among the victors; disarmament was put off.

Manchester Secretary E. J. McCabe of the Manchester Chamber reported as follows: During 1931 there were 5,084 telephone calls, a decrease of 3 percent compared with December 1931 when the total was 5,019 in use in January 1931.

Postoffice receipts for January totaled $7,527, a loss of 22.3 percent compared with the total of $9,892 in January 1931. Bank deposits for January totaled $2,516,297, a loss of 18.4 percent compared with December 1931 when the total was $3,085,398 and a loss of 9.4 percent from the total of $3,777,543 in January 1931.

Electricity consumption amounted to 1,129,899 k. w. h., a loss of 6.4 percent compared with December 1931 when the total was 1,207,475 k. w. h. and a loss of 24 percent from the total of 1,488,083 k. w. h. in January 1931.

the heart; an unidentified bandit who escaped; George Frattino, 30, kitchen employe at the club shot in the leg; John Burns, also known as Frank Woods, employe, shot in the leg.

Among the Guests Perkins was among the guests at the club. The bandits sought to hold up the gambling casino of the club. The two policemen, Mack Oakford and G. J. Davis, in plain clothes were lined up against the kitchen wall with employes as the robbers, masked, threatened them with pistols, rifles and sawed off shotguns.

When police examined the body of the dead leader, they found he had a wooden arm. Examination of his clothing revealed no clue as to his identity, except for a tailor's label marked "A. Y. Yarborough, Chicago," and dated May 18, 1930. Meyers, one of the wounded robbers, referred to the dead leader as Wingle while he was being treated at the hospital.

OPENING STOCKS

New York, Feb. 27.—(AP)—An irregularly higher opening gave way to moderate eastness in the Stock Market today. Prices moved more emphatically responsive to the reduction in the Federal Reserve discount rate was not regarded as particularly surprising, in view of the opinion in banking quarters that the rate reduction could scarcely make itself felt as an immediate stimulus to business.

The week-end trade reviews continued to stress the low volume of industrial activity, but pointed to some scattered improvement in retail trade, and maintenance of the more optimistic feeling of recent weeks. The fewest bank suspensions in nearly a year occurred during the past week, which was regarded as an important factor in maintaining the improved business sentiment.

January railroad earnings, now appearing in some volume, show several roads with operating deficits, but the 10 percent wage reduction, effective Feb. 1, is expected to result in a somewhat better showing when reports for the current month appear. Wall Street is confident that the Reconstruction Corp. will take care of fixed charges of the more harassed carriers during the next few months.

In foreign exchanges, the dollar continued to strengthen as against the French franc, that currency sagging at the start 3-16 to 33.93 1/2 cents, or nearly a cent below the point at which gold takings from New York would be profitable. Sterling cables opened at $3.48 1/2, up 1/8.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JESUS RAISES LAZARUS

Text: John 11:38-44. The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Feb. 28.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of The Congregationalist

What I have said formerly in this column concerning miracles applies with even greater force to this miracle of the raising of Lazarus from the dead. It would be to explain it, it would not be a miracle. In the presence of the miraculous there will always be those who find it easy to believe and those for whom belief is difficult. Discussion of belief and unbelief in relation to such matters can help very little.

Fortunately the miracles recorded in the New Testament take us very quickly beyond the miracle to the spiritual truth and the wonder-working power of the new life in Jesus.

If these miracles were simply and only stories of magic, we should have little reason to dwell upon them for the enrichment of our religious lives. It is the fact that they are associated with the life and teaching of Jesus that gives them significance.

The power of Jesus to give new life to dead bodies would be little if we had no faith in his power to bring life to dead souls.

Our own age reveals strange and intense contrasts in the reaction of various minds to the miracles.

Apart from the two extremes of those who take the literal and traditional view, and the so-called "modernists" who believe that the realities of Christian faith and teaching do not depend upon the literal acceptance of the stories of miracles, we find two attitudes or temperaments.

There are those whose attitude might be called that of material science, who see everything in the world operating within the realm of law, and of laws, the effects of which can be measured and stated in material terms.

But we see, also intelligent men and women who believe that the laws of the universe are not confined to material effects that can be measured. They believe that we are in a world of spirit, and that phenomena quite as remarkable as the miracles described in the New Testament are happening in the world today.

And Jesus said, Lazarus, come forth.

The conflict between these two attitudes and temperaments is exceedingly keen, but it cannot be said that the eminent and the intelligent are wholly upon one side.

Such men as the late Conan Doyle, and Sir Oliver Lodge, have had implicit faith in spiritual powers and forces that operate in quite as remarkable ways as the raising of Lazarus from the dead.

Moderate men who take into account both sides of such issues may feel that these questions are by no means settled. It may be that we are on the eve of revelations and discoveries in relation to the spiritual universe which will change our ideas as much as they have been changed in recent years by discoveries in the physical world, such as radio activity.

It is a truism to say that the physical things that are happening today, and that are commonplace in our lives, would have been as miraculous in the time of Christ as the miracles described in the New Testament.

In the midst of all such thoughts are driven back upon the spiritual interpretation of the Scriptures and the profound significance of Jesus as the giver of spiritual life.

If we do not believe in the life-giving power of Jesus Christ, and the life that he gives, our belief or unbelief about anything else has little importance.

The Resurrection And The Life

BY GEORGE HENRY DOLE International Sunday School Lesson Text, Feb. 28. I am the resurrection and the life.—John 11:25.

That astonishing scene, Jesus, in dead are raised. The miracle does not teach that the Lord will bring the dead back to life in this world. Its chief purpose is to convince us that whoever dead one may be in sin, though he be dead unto corruption, if he will have faith, the Lord can, and will raise him up into the life of heaven. The greater glory of God is that there is no person living so dead in sin, so spiritually broken and corrupt, that the Lord cannot give him the joy of divine life, if there is true repentance and faith, conviction that brings the power to resist sin and turn away from it.

It brings the Lord near to us when we know and realize that it is He who, when that event called death comes, draws the soul-out of the body, and raises the person to live in the spiritual world. And this He demonstrated most effectively by passing through death, reappearing and giving the assurance that because He lived, we shall live also. He is not the God of the dead, but of the living; for all live unto Him. Believe in Him, and He will raise us up not merely to live in the spiritual world where the evil and the good are raised alike, but also to live in His rejoicing life.

MILK PRODUCERS-- You Owe It To Your Business To Read This Message Carefully. You're in business to make money. That's natural. The more milk you sell profitably the more money you'll make. That's obvious. Everything that you do which will enable you to cut costs or which increases the marketability of your milk is good business. That's common sense. The public knows more about "vitamins", "bacteria" and the importance of proper refrigeration for perishable foods than ever before. They have learned too, that these are days when people are more anxious to sell than they are to buy. In other words your customers are a trifle harder to please than they have ever been. Tests made by the Agricultural Experiment Station at Storrs, Connecticut (See their Bulletin 170) have shown that electric milk cooling is more efficient, more economical and more convenient than any other method of safeguarding the quality and marketability of your milk. Successful users of electric milk cooling equipment report that they are paying for it out of savings in labor, elimination of milk spoilage and reduction of operating costs. SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 27.

of interest to even the garden variety of mind in these closing days of February. It is that the quality of Leap Year endowing the girls with the privilege of doing the grabbing had its origin in no less serious a root than the law. Here is what Dr. Armstrong tells us:

This privilege is based on actual legislation, enacted into law by Scotland 450 years ago in the year 1288. Here is the actual wording of the Scotch law:

"It is statut and ordaint that during the rein of her maist blisheit Mageste, for ilk mayden layde of bothe hiegh and lowe estait shall have liberte to bespeke ye man she likes."

Now if the World Calendar Association is seeking a tip as to a method of popularizing its work, we would suggest that if it will invent some way of converting every year into a Leap Year and put Leap Year's privilege into statute form, as the Scots did so long ago, it may arouse a brand new and astonishingly large interest in calendar reform on the part of a highly important part of the population which doesn't, at present, care a hoot about it.

has proceeded headlong on that theory. Perhaps her informant may have been some very shy agent of the cotton textile giants in her Massachusetts district.

In fact Japan produces, according to an authority recent enough to serve in a general way if not precisely, a little less raw silk than China and only about one-fifth more than Italy. There are, besides, a number of other silk producing countries which, while growing much less of the commodity than these three, still present an important total of raw silk production.

Mrs. Rogers, in her head-over-heels boycott project, would not only be willing to ruin an American industry from which many thousands of workers obtain their livelihood but would stand ready to demoralize a basic business in half a dozen countries—as though the world's trade were not sufficiently shot to pieces as it is. All for the sake of registering a protest against the action of one out of many silk producing nations.

Fortunately nobody is likely to pay any attention to Mrs. Rogers' silly and mischievous scheme.

 Red the clouds that sweep the sky,
 Tempest is the Mare's Tallowing;
 Gallions strange with their purple
 bale
 On the horizon's verge set sail.
 Night falls, and the stars are few,
 A bird cheeps from a sheltering laurel;
 Looms with mystery the Yew
 That lights by day her lamps of coral;
 Blustering gales from the west ride
 up,
 Aeolus brews a stormy cup.
 Dark without, how fair the room
 In its winking flame and shadows
 vagrant;
 Sunshine, prisoned in the gloom,
 Dances free on the hearth where fragrant
 Peats, a-flower in the silence, glow;
 (Hark! how the winds rough riding go!)
 Slowly, in a rippling tide,
 Soft music stills the life diurnal,
 Stirs, with the wild winds that ride,
 The magic of this hour nocturnal

Hushed is the heart, the rune is run . . .
 Spirit, wind and flame are one.

TINGLE TOES (From The Cruise)
 Just burning up with wanderlust
 Scot rambling to the air,
 Got tingle-toes and bound to bust
 Loose somewhere.
 Where they tramp, how they fare,
 Much I care!
 Long to catch a load of moonlight
 In my hair.

As hungry for new range to roam
 As lover for his bride,
 Could never cramp such toes at home
 If I tried,
 Roads are free, yzwing wide,
 Wind's my guide,
 Till I tuck the tang of sea foam
 In my hide.

Far pasture grasses grow more
 Free
 Grass sweeter than fields nigh,
 Tempt tingle-toes beneath their clean
 New blue sky,
 Toes take the trail, miles fly,
 See them his
 Till I mare a spark of star sheen
 In my eyes.

THREE POEMS (From The New Statesman and Nation)

BAPTISM
 Deep in a forest pool
 By night, unseen,
 I bared my body to the sleepless cool
 And made it clean.

The stream encompassed me,
 Even my soul;
 Heart's blood of Earth flowed round
 me—I was free
 And I was whole.

TIME
 The years as they are done
 Within the pale of sealed,
 Nor stands, are 'tis begun,
 One hour revealed.

Here through the fragile room
 Of one slight second sped,
 Life is: and into gloom
 As swift has fled.

THE LIVING DEAD
 Courage falters, tears are dry,
 Heart and soul are like to die;
 Listless down the lanes of time
 Lags this being that is I.

Hang these limbs about my spine
 Limp as linen on the line,
 Nor for me the blood still flows
 Round this body that is mine.
 —Miles Tomalin.

THE AMBASSADOR (From The Adelphe)
 I am alive, and I Know neither which way they have gone,
 Those others, living to the full,
 Nor which way I must go—to pull
 Against the stream, or with it drift,
 This stream that flows so sluggishly

That like a huge snake lurches on,
 Slower coiling, slower to lift
 Its side, hulk down to the sea

HEALTH-DIET ADVICE
 Dr. Frank McCoy
 "The Best Way to Health"

LITTLE STARCH IN TURNIPS
 The turnip is a hardy biennial of the mustard family and native of southern Asia. It stores up nourishment in its root the first year so that it will be enabled to develop its seed stock the second year. Man takes advantage of this by utilizing the root as it is stored with these nourishing substances. We know that turnips were one of the principal vegetables used by the Greeks and it is likely that this vegetable furnished them with a good portion of the mineral elements and vitamins of the diet.

There are many varieties of turnips, the principal three being the white, flat turnip, the yellow globe, and the rutabaga or Swedish turnip. The turnip may be used either cooked or raw vegetable and the tops may be used as greens. When added to vegetable stews, the turnip gives a sharp, snappy flavor. Before cooking the greens, much attention should be given to extracting the acid and grit from the leaves. It is best to soak them for an hour in a large pan of water and at the end of this time lift out the greens and rinse several times under running water.

The pungency of the turnip is chemically related to the pungency of the radish and cabbage, being a compound of sulphur, and is for this reason gas-producing for most people. During cooking the pungency is somewhat destroyed, especially if the cover is taken off the cooking vessel at least part of the time.

Even though large, turnips do not contain any appreciable amount of starch. The carbohydrates (about eleven per cent of the turnip) consist of glucose, sugar pectose, pentosans, and cellulose.

Turnips are among the richest foods in mineral elements and contain a large amount of potassium, calcium, phosphorus and chlorine. Here are some recipes which you should try:

Turnips, Carrots and Peas
 Dice and cook one bunch of small carrots and one bunch of small turnips together. When cooked, add a medium can of peas. Add butter when served.

Turnip Shells
 Wash and remove the tops from turnips, scoop out the inside leaving a one-half inch case. Boil in hot water for fifteen minutes. Fill with ground roast lamb without seasoning. Place Melba toast crumbs on top and place a thin slice of turnip or tomato over this. Place in a hot oven and bake. Occasion-

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS (Only One Kidney)
 Question: Mrs. Susan L. writes: "Would a young man who had an operation and lost one kidney have a right to expect marriage. He is 27 had the operation at 15 years. He is a minister and seems well except nervous at times. Would he not be in grave danger of either diabetes or Bright's Disease? He is a splendid fellow and my daughter wants to marry him, but I feel he cannot live long in such a condition."

Answer: A man with one kidney will often live as long as if two were present as the remaining kidney to compensate becomes larger through use. It would, however, be advisable for the young man to have an examination to see if there is any kidney trouble present.

(Aluminum Cooking Vessels)
 Question: Mrs. Susan L. writes: "While attending a demonstration of aluminum ware, it was explained that foods should not be cooked in the oven as there is a poisonous gas formed after the oven reaches a certain temperature. I should like your opinion on this."

Answer: While I heartily approve of aluminum cooking vessels, especially the waterless type, I do not know of any harmful gas generated in the oven which could be absorbed by the food and injure it in any way.

(Little Brother's Weight)
 Question: H. inquires: "How much should a baby boy weigh that is two years old and weighed ten pounds at birth? I think he is of the 'Fox' type that you spoke of some time ago."

Answer: A child two years of age should weigh about twenty-five pounds. A 10 per cent variance in either direction would be considered normal.

Down to the harbor wall
 The tumult of his spirit moves.
 The side of the wall has long been made

The stink of Alexandria's trade—
 Oil, skins of fruit, chalk oozing white,
 Cracked jars, bilge, refuse. To the west,
 That side, the broad sea surging proves
 Her armor, where the sun each night
 Stains with his death's blood in bequest
 Her all gold, beyond the harbor wall.
 In my hair.

Sinking in embers
 The sun, the sea, men, and the world.
 This boy went carrying home to bed
 His body, his weary mechanical tread
 His fingers that shrank in trembling cold
 From the walls of the puzzle that prisoned him fast—
 But his spirit of questioning sails
 unfurled,
 Was ferried across in that hour of gold—
 The ambassador, dying adven-

 To Rome rising as a phoenix on those embers.

INTIMACY (From The Commonweal)
 We drained the pool today,
 It was not deep
 As we had thought
 Nor so meticulously
 wrought.
 We found a frog or two,
 A fish,
 The fragments
 Of small blue dish
 And one lackluster,
 Cracked glass bubble;
 Nothing to keep,
 For all our trouble.

TODAY IS THE WORLD WAR ANNIVERSARY
 GERMAN ATTACK FAILS

On Feb. 27, 1918, heavy German attacks on French positions at Butte du Mer 'I failed'.

Two attacks were launched, both of which were beaten off with heavy losses by French artillery and machine gun fire.

The positions which were the German objectives had recently been taken by the French.

The action was the most severe in several weeks on the western front and indicated that spring operations were about to begin.

Nancy, France, was bombed by German airplanes, but damage was reported as slight.

German troops in Russia continued their unopposed advance, occupying Borisov and numerous small villages.

The Man From Home
 New York, Feb. 27.—Notes from a convenient conf. . . I hope that Kokomo, Ind., doesn't soon forget Daniel Voorhees Pike. . . Pike died when William Hodges passed on the other day. . . He was, you may remember, "The Man From Home." . . Millions became acquainted with him and Kokomo became identified throughout the land as the home of this homely, shrewd and lovable fellow.

Pike was the creation of Harry Leon Wilson and Booth Tarkington, two gentlemen from Indiana who were collaborating on plays at the time. . . It was the best role Hodges ever had.

Duke Coming Back
 A note to Thyra Sampter Winslow: "Thanks for that autographed copy of your new book, 'Blueberry Pie.' I liked particularly the story of the dog and the vaudeville team." And a wire from Duke Ellington saying that he'll be back at Harlem's Cotton Club for a time after his recent tour of the countryside.

Note to those fellow column gents and producers participating in the Central Park Casino brawl wherein Earl Carroll spotted and Mayor Walker looked on: "Boys, boys, where do you think you are—in Hollywood? This is the big town, not Billingsgate!"

But Carroll did spring a funny line. Zigfeld and George White were at the same fracas. And Carroll commented: "Nice to be in the room with three producers, all of whom are important—to each other!"

I hear a lot of advance rumors on Noel Coward's next play. So elaborate will be the production that nothing this side of the Metropolitan can handle it. And they're saying it will prove him the most important playwright alive next to Eugene O'Neill.

Speaking of the Met, it took the opera managers some 50 years to get around to Verdi's "Simon Boccanegra," which is now likely to be the biggest of this year's grand opera hits.

And when the Verdi work was put on, it settled the questions that have been going around concerning Lawrence Tibbett. . . Had Tibbett "gone Hollywood?" . . . Had his movie career spoiled him for the great operatic work? . . . And what was radio doing to him?

Well, today you'll hear Tibbett referred to as one of the few truly great artists turned out in America. . . He began eight years ago and gained first recognition when he sang Ford in "Falstaff."

The old cuffs reminds me of a few hobbies I heard about recently. Jed Harris, the producer, collects tiny toys. . . Neysa McMein is a ping-pong champ of amateur rating. . . Ethel Barrymore would like to be a piano virtuoso and give recitals for her friends. . . John D. Rockefeller, Jr., prefers a commuter train into town to the swell-elegant cars he might ride in.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington.—One of the things that has made Speaker Jack Garner so popular in the House has been his willingness to let other members take such glory as they find in sponsoring bills.

He thinks too many bills are introduced and that there are too many laws. In 80 years here, he estimates, he has introduced about 60 measures, which is certainly a low record for such a long period.

Prominent members are often asked by outside groups to sponsor bills in which they are interested; some congressmen and senators are very keen about doing that. But, although Garner has often been willing to prepare bills he has turned them over to others. In that way he has built up much good will among Democrats less influential than himself.

Representing a district of about 500,000 persons, like all other members, sometimes has to introduce pensions and private relief bills. The only bill of greater import which he has put in this session is one which would cede the abandoned military reservation of Camp Eagle Pass to the city of Eagle Pass, which is in the Garner district.

"I think we could repeal about a third of our laws and the country would get along just as well," Garner says. "We have a lot of obsolete laws and there are many activities that could be cut out. Every law we pass means a certain additional expense, directly or indirectly. About 15,000 bills are presented here in the average Congress."

The great volume of bills consists of private measures—for the benefit, that is, of an individual, usually a veteran or his heirs. These are carefully scrutinized, but of course there is a liberal standing policy as regards all veterans.

More than 9,000 bills have been introduced in the House already during this session and about 3,700 in the Senate. Many of the Senate bills duplicate House bills.

There are more public bills this year than ordinarily because so many problems are in the public mind which evoke schemes to solve them by legislation.

Mr. Joe Crall, congressman from Los Angeles, has introduced upwards of 40 bills, more than any other member of Congress. The vast majority are pensions and relief measures. It was one of Crall's minor bills when the House was about to pass the other day when it was suddenly discovered that the bill had been passed at the last session and the money paid to the beneficiary.

Tom Blanton of Texas had previously pointed out to the House that the "energetic and ambitious" Mr. Crall, on the first day of this Congress on which bills could be introduced, had put in 398 of them—one of which would total five billion dollars from the treasury for unemployment relief public improvements.

If other members had been as prolific, Blanton said, the House would have had 169,985 bills that day!

But of course the country's largest soldiers' home is in Crall's district and many old veterans go to California to spend their last days. And there are about 1,500,000 persons there, pending readjusting, which is a lot of folks to represent.

On the other hand, some representatives have introduced no bills at all, including Busby and Dosey of Mississippi, Clay Stone Briggs of Texas, Drewry of Virginia, Dieterich and Granata of Illinois, Crump of Tennessee, Stokes of Pennsylvania and Wood of Georgia.

Sam Shortridge of California has been leading the Senate field. He had tossed in 201 bills prior to the holidays. Next were McNary of Oregon, 128; Walsh of Massachusetts, 108; Capper of Kansas, 92; Jones of Washington, 86, and McKellar of Tennessee, 77.

Whereas, Adolph Zukor keeps one of the highest powered boats on the Hudson just off the front yard of his summer home so that he can come racing to business. Claudette Colbert has her dress-

The Advertisements
 . . . printed for your convenience

Suppose all the advertisers in your favorite newspaper should stop advertising for a week.

What inconvenience would result! How much telephoning and shopping around to get the answers to such questions as: "What's playing at the local theaters? When will that new vacuum cleaner be on sale? Who is offering shoe bargains? Where can I buy that dry shampoo Emily told me about?"

The answers to these questions, and to hundreds of similar ones that people ask every day, are news Vital news. You're interested to learn who won yesterday's ball game. But you're really interested to learn that a certain store is selling a product you need for a price you can afford to pay.

Furthermore, the advertisements save your time, for you can read them quickly. They save your energy, for you can read them at home, away from the pushing crowds, and plan just what to buy and where to buy. And they save your money, by enabling you to adjust your needs to the limitations of your budget. In short, they are pocketbook editorials, condensing and interpreting for you the merchandise news of the day.

DRYS GAIN SLIGHTLY AS PROHIBITION POLL ENTERS SECOND WEEK

Wets Still Ahead With 80 Per Cent of Total Vote Reported in Literary Digest Referendum.

The vote for continuance of the eighteenth Amendment registers a gain of 15.85 per cent to 19.28 per cent of the total vote in the second week's returns of The Literary Digest twenty million ballot nationwide poll, as announced in tomorrow's issue of the magazine.

An additional tabulation of over 450,000 votes is reported, making a total of 703,935 received for the current tally. Of this tabulation, 149,526 voters, or 19.28 per cent, favor continuance of the Prohibition Amendment and 625,806, or 80.72 per cent, favor repeal.

Nine states, the initial returns of which are tabulated in this section, published reports of the poll include: Connecticut, Maine, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont and West Virginia.

Additional returns are also reported from Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, and Virginia.

All of the States so far reported show a majority sentiment in favor of repeal.

North Carolina still leads as the driest State reported with a percentage of 42.21 for continuance, a slight increase over the previous week's returns.

The wettest State in the current returns is New York, from which 87.02 per cent of the ballots counted are for repeal, which is a slight decrease in its wet sentiment over the prior returns.

West Virginia and Indiana are second and third in dryness with percentages for continuance of Prohibition of 35.95 and 35.42, respectively.

Second and third in wetness of the States now reported are New Jersey and Connecticut, where the vote to date shows 85.57 and 84.89 per cent, respectively, for repeal.

Maine, which has long been stated as a dry State, shows a sentiment of 67.73 per cent for repeal.

Rhode Island and Connecticut, the only two States which have never ratified the Prohibition Amendment, are both voting over five to one for repeal in the current tabulation.

Governor Ritchie's home State of Maryland gives a current vote of approximately four to one for repeal and its neighboring southern State of Virginia shows a sentiment of over three to one for repeal.

The Literary Digest again cautions those who would deduce the national trend from these early figures to await further returns before making any conclusions as Kansas and a number of other reputedly dry States have not been heard from yet.

Attention is called also to the fact that hundreds of thousands more ballots are anticipated from the seven States reported this week.

Special Prohibition polls for clergymen, doctors and bankers and lawyers will be conducted at an early date, in addition to the main poll. The Literary Digest announces.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Chicago: If he'd only sign it "Herbert C. Hoover" instead of sans the C things might be a bit better. An Illinois numbingologist, who contends that the fate of nations is determined by combinations of letters, has made this suggestion to the citizens' reconstruction organization.

Mr. Hoover's middle name is Clark.

Princetonville, Ill. The Princetonville shoe store of shoe boxes but is short on shoes. Some thief came in, took the shoes, carefully replaced the boxes (empty) and departed.

The police (as the papers so often say) are investigating.

Boston: A voice over the telephone tipped police yesterday the whereabouts of a stolen package. The policeman who took the phone call (a cautious soul, said: "Who might you be, telephoning such things to the police?"

"I said the voice (a velvety baritone, though without the slightest hint of a croon), "am a very smart gent. I know all about such things. You will do well, officer, to keep in touch with me."

In the evening up without giving his phone number.

Boston: Dog lovers and also lovers of persons bitten by dogs will be interested in knowing that the case of John Fahey vs. Isaac Simon has been taken under advisement by the court. Fahey seeks damages. He says Simon's dog bit him.

"The dog," he said, "came at me. I said, 'Nice Doggie.' I acted nonchalant. I said, 'Go 'way, doggie, go 'way.' I tried to appear uncerned. And how did the dog respond to my kindness? He bit me. He re-bit me. I abandoned my non-chalance and fled precipitately from the locality."

A policeman, who went to the Simon home after Fahey had made a complaint said:

"Mr. Simon told me they had a dog. I told him I had a complaint. He said 'It is ridiculous. Our dog is very gentle, he wouldn't bite anyone.' Then the dog came around the corner—and bit me twice."

New York: Wonder what a radio crooner gets a week? In an action at law in Federal Court it was set forth that Russ Colombo, who classifies as a crooner, receives $7,000 a week.

Old Jack Dempsey may be a hollow shell, but he always has plenty of nuts in the suitcase.

NEW LIBRARY BOOKS

A list of books recently added to the South Manchester library with a brief resume of each, follows:

George Washington, Republican Aristocrat, by Bernard Fay: The book is not a complete biography but an interpretation, rather, of Washington as a rich planter and aristocrat who "at the critical moment of the century, not only stood for Republican precepts of government, but allied himself with a party which was to transform democracy, until then merely an abstract, historical ideal. It is almost impossible to say anything new about Washington, but it is possible to say old things in a new way, and this Mr. Fay has accomplished with no little skill.

Long Christmas Dinner and Other Plays: by Thornton N. Wilder: Nine Christmas dinners in the Bayview household are represented in the title play in which the characters grow old on the stage, enter and depart this life through two doors, symbolizing birth and death. The other plays—one or two quite fantastic—are Queens of France, Fanny and Curie. It. Such things happen only in books, and The happy journey to Trenton and Camden.

Way Out of Depression, by Hermand: Arendt: The gold standard, looked upon for fifty years as essential for financial stability, has broken down. Prices of securities and commodities have melted away. A rising tide of communism, radicalism, and revolt threatens the foundations of Western Civilization. Is there any way of restoring order, or even checking the threatened debacle of world finance? Here is an excellent presentation of the case for international bimetalism. With little hope of new gold discoveries, the author argues that the money must rest on a base that cannot keep up with the needs of business, unless silver is remonetized. The book contains good material for debates.

Stepping Westward, by Laura E. Richards: This story of a long and useful life carries the reader back to famous days in the past and to the sight of famous people. Mrs. Richards is the daughter of Julia Ward Howe, well-known author of "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and of Samuel Gridley Howe, noted in his day as a doctor, philosopher and philanthropist. Among the friends with whom she grew up were the Hawthorne family, Louisa Alcott, and many other literary figures of Boston, Cambridge and the surrounding area.

Our elaborate machinery of distribution works automatically and makes no distinctions.

"The result is as so many observers have remarked, a veritable slice of American life. And a very big slice too."

"It has been estimated that, roughly speaking, a Digest ballot finds its way to two out of every three American families.

"And every State receives a quota proportionately to its voting strength.

"During 40 years an elaborate machinery has been built up, a system of distribution and of mailing lists which are kept continually up to date by a staff of trained workers."

The second report of The Literary Digest Prohibition Poll taken two years ago, at approximately the same time of the year, asking three questions instead of two, showed a special Prohibition poll for clergymen, doctors and bankers; 224,141 for modification; and 287,885 for repeal of the Prohibition Amendment.

QUOTATIONS

There never has been a clearer case of international aggression and violation of the covenants (than at Shanghai).

—Dr. W. W. Yen, chief Chinese delegate to Geneva conference.

There is little need for me to comment in appreciation of the 11 years of service you (Mellon) have given to your country. I know of no more magnificent tribute that has come to a public servant than the universal expressions of the press toward you during the past few years.

—President Hoover.

This whole nation will respond either in time of peace or war, by sacrifice and endeavor and arms, and bear any hardship imposed, no matter how severe, whenever danger assails the republic.

—Congressman B. M. Chipfield of Illinois.

COLORFUL DANCE AT THE CAPITAL

Colonial Ball Attracted Diplomats and Members of Hoover's Cabinet.

Washington, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Society in hooped skirts, knee breeches and lace ruffles, powdered tresses and wigs, put on the most gorgeous show of the season at the Washington bicentennial ball Monday night.

The affair was a brilliant opening attraction for the nine months' celebration of the 200th anniversary of George Washington's birth. Nothing quite like it has ever been seen in the capital.

The big ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel was thronged with colonial-costumed men and women from official, diplomatic, and residential society circles. Vice President Curtis was there with his sister, Mrs. Dolley Gann. She wore turquoise blue taffeta costume, trimmed with coral. Mrs. Sol Bloom, wife of the associate director of the bicentennial, was gowned in lavender moire draped over a petticoat of silver lace.

Among other striking costumes glimpsed in the maze of gleaming brocades, flashing swords and waving plumes was a demure rose pink silk gown worn by Miss Caroline Hyde, daughter of the secretary of agriculture. It was trimmed with rare old lace which had belonged to her grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jefferies Chewning, Jr., came as Mr. Chewning's ancestors, Colonel and Mrs. William Ball. Mrs. Chewning is the daughter of Senator James Couzens of Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Fairfax of Virginia, went attired as Lord and Lady Fairfax. Mrs. Fairfax wore a ring given by George Washington to his brother Lawrence, at the time of the latter's marriage to Anne Fairfax. The ring has since been handed down to the eldest member of each succeeding family. It holds a large diamond surrounded by 13 small diamonds which represent the original colonies. Mrs. Fairfax's gown was garnet colored velvet trimmed with rare old Duchesse lace.

Mrs. Hoover left Wednesday night for week's rest in Florida. She was accompanied by Mrs. Edgar Rickard of New York, who has been a White House guest for several days. Mrs. Mark Sullivan and Captain and Mrs. Joel T. Boone. At Charleston, South Carolina, the party boarded a Department of Commerce boat for Miami.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson entertained a large company at luncheon Wednesday in the Wilson home on S street in the Potomac and up into the Virginia hills on Friday afternoon to the big riding hall at Fort Myer. Small of tanbark and gun powder supplanted perfumes as the vice president, the secretary of state, and many of the diplomatic corps viewed feats of horsemanship displayed by the Third Cavalry and the Sixteenth Field Artillery. It was the last of the Friday exhibitions at the fort for this year.

DROWNED IN LAKE
Bridgeton, N. J., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Woodward Worth McCloskey, 33, former secretary of the New York City Young Men's Christian Association, was found drowned today in Tumbling Dam lake.

His mother, Mrs. Marty McCloskey, said she and her son were listening to a radio program early today when she went to the kitchen for a minute. Returning she said she saw her son climbing out of a window clothed in his pajamas and wrapped in a blanket.

She followed as soon as possible, but lost sight of him and notified police. The body was found in 12 inches of water about six feet from the shore.

A Pittsburgh judge fined a woman $5 for making goo-goo eyes at him. From now on, Pittsburgh women will insist on trial by jury.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S AUTOMATIC CLUTCH?
Completely Automatic. Makes driving supremely simple. You don't have to touch the clutch pedal when starting from a standstill, when changing gears, or even to use reverse.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S CENTRIFUGAL BRAKE DRUMS?
New and larger brake drums of combined steel and cast iron. A steel drum with cast-iron lining—the drum and the lining permanently fused together. Brakes that last longer, remain cooler, retain uniform efficiency.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S SILENT GEAR SELECTOR?
It isn't gear-shifting in a Chrysler any more—it's gear-selecting. When you release the accelerator, you move the lever freely into place in any direction without touching the clutch pedal—starting from a standstill or traveling at any speed, or when reversing. It's easy; it's effortless.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S FREE WHEELING?
Chrysler's Free Wheeling is an entirely separate unit at the rear of the transmission. When you are free-wheeling in a Chrysler, the transmission gears are at a standstill, disconnected from both the engine and the rear wheels.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S HYDRAULIC BRAKES?
Chrysler Hydraulic Brakes excel because they are simpler. They have fewer parts. They never need lubrication. They are always equalized because they equalize themselves. All new taxicabs in New York are required by city ordinance to have Hydraulic Brakes.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S DOUBLE-DROP GIRDER TRUSS FRAME?
The modernizing of the motor car has imposed new demands upon automobile frames, as well as other units of the car. Chrysler engineers have developed a frame of entirely new design. Amazingly rigid construction—a distortion-proof foundation for the body.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S OILITE SQUEAK-PROOF SPRINGS?
Regardless of mud, snow, ice or dirt, these springs will not squeak. Springs that never need lubrication. The steel leaves of the springs are separated by Oilite—a patented metal that contains its own lubrication. These great springs are standard on all three new Chrysler Eights.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S SPEED AND PICK-UP?
You may never care to drive 75—85—90 miles an hour, but the great power that makes these speeds possible makes Chrysler performance, at any speed you choose to drive, the most enjoyable performance under the sun.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S EFFORTLESS STEERING?
Women especially enjoy Chrysler steering. It not only makes driving easier, but it is so much easier to get in and out of parking spaces. And Chrysler steering is protected from road-shocks.

FOUR COMPLETE LINES—GREAT RANGE OF PRICES... 19 BODY MODELS
A new Chrysler Six with an 82-horsepower engine and five body models, $885 to $935 (Automatic Clutch on all Sixes, $8 extra); a new Chrysler Eight with a 100-horsepower engine and five body models, $1435 to $1695; a new Chrysler Imperial Eight with a 125-horsepower engine and three body models, $1925 to $2195; a new Chrysler Imperial Custom Eight with a 125-horsepower engine and six body models, $2895 to $3595. All prices f. o. b. factory. Duplicate Safety Plate Glass standard on Custom Eights. Obtainable on Six and Eight Sedans, $17.50; on Imperial Sedans, $20; all 2-passenger Coupes, $9.50. We repeat—what is there to match these new Chrysler?

FILMS FORCE END OF BROADWAY HIT

Actors In "The Devil Passes" Signed Contracts To Go To Hollywood.

New York, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Making an unexpected thrust at the drama, the films are forcing the closing of a Broadway hit before expected. This is Benn Levy's "The Devil Passes" which has been a play leader for twelve weeks and must go on tour while still attracting profitable audiences.

"The comedy is a peculiar one which demands a group of ten stars, especially cast for their individual roles. Diana Wynyard, Basil Rathbone, Cecelia Loftus, Robert Lorraine, Ernest Cossart, Mary Nash and Ernest Thesinger are among the players.

Most of them entered the play with previously signed contracts which demand their early departure for Hollywood. So Producer Arch Selwyn is sending the company out on a quick tour before releasing them to the movies.

The tour begins in Boston on March 28.

The Group Theater, that coterie of youthful state experimenters sponsored last fall by the Theater Guild, has been set upon its own and is now an independent theater.

Having already offered the successful "The House of Connolly" and the unsuccessful "1931—", they now have in production Maxwell Anderson's newest drama, "Night Over Taos." It was first called "City Forgotten." Frenchot Tone has the leading role.

Only three new plays are due to arrive next week, the first one being the Theater Guild's production of the Irish drama, "The Moon and the Yellow River."

On the next night Peggy Fears, former "Follies" beauty and now the wife of a millionaire movie magnate, makes her debut as a Broadway manager. She will present "Child of Manhattan," newest play of Preston Sturges, who wrote "Strictly Dishonorable." Dorothy Hall and Reginald Owen have the leading roles.

The Provincetown Playhouse resumes the theatrical season in Greenwich Village again with a play called "Park Avenue, Ltd."

BILL TO PROTECT BANK DEPOSITORS

Reserve Bank Members Would Be Required To Establish a Guaranty Fund.

Washington, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Senator Fletcher (D., Fla.) today introduced a bill to safeguard against losses of deposits through bank failures.

Each Federal Reserve member bank would be required to contribute a sum equal to five per cent of its capital to establish a "depositors' guaranty fund" which would be a first lien against all net assets of a bank becoming insolvent.

A similar provision was contained in the bill by Senator Glass (D., Va.), making numerous other revisions in Federal Reserve banking law and now undergoing alterations.

The Fletcher bill also strengthening the Federal provisions of the banking laws still prohibiting suspension of sentence, parole or pardon.

"The records show," Senator Fletcher said, "that during the year ending October 30, 1930, there were 136 cases in which there were convictions for violation of the penal section of the National banking law and in which sentences were imposed, and that in 70 of these cases probation was allowed, and in 13 of the remainder fines only were imposed."

Senator George (D., Ga.) endorsed the Fletcher bill in principle, saying "no appropriate steps have been taken to guarantee the safety of accounts, particularly of the old people."

TOO MUCH TALK
St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Bishop William N. Alsworth of the Methodist Episcopal Church South says while there is far too much drinking under the prohibition laws "it is greatly over-talked."

"A bottle in bag or a pint at a party," he told the southern convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America at its closing session here last night, "cause more talk now than a carload at every corner did in the days before prohibition."

Before prohibition he went on there was "a saloon on nearly every corner and liquor was hauled to them by the train load. Only an occasional automobile load goes through now."

Most of the deliveries, he said, "are made in a satchel."

Los Angeles, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A divorce from Ian Keith, film actor, was granted today to Ethel Clayton, motion picture actress, after she testified Keith drank liquor to excess, became irresponsible and called her "all sorts of names."

The couple was married in 1928 and separated in 1931.

GET GLOWING REPORTS ON HELPING JOBLESS

New York, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The organizations conducting the campaign to give jobs to a million unemployed reported today that pledges for immediate expenditures that will employ lab' are being made in many communities. Today's report lists the following cities and the amounts collected for wages:

Superior, Wis., $750,000; Clarksville, W. Va., $91,083; Jackson, Minn., $32,500; Michigan City, Mich., $32,900; Ogden, Utah, $20,000; Sheboygan, Wis., $13,500. This is in addition to previously reported totals of over five million dollars for Minneapolis, and over four million dollars for Cincinnati.

Communities reported to have permanent jobs for the unemployed included Detroit, Mich., Decatur, Ala., Fayetteville, Ark., LaJunte, Col., Millerton, N. Y., Avon Park, Fla., Oasio, Wis., Antigo, Wis.

Boulder Dam was heard from in the job-getting drive, when Las Vegas, Nev., informed headquarters it has put 104 to permanent work on that project.

The town of Burdick, Kans., has informed New York headquarters that it has no employment problem its only sufferers from lack of work being two widows who are kept busy "taking in washing."

LENZ AND LIGGETT WIN BRIDGE MATCH

Surrender of Cornwallis' forces at Yorktown brought the war to a virtual close. Capture of Lord Cornwallis' army at Yorktown, Va., which brought the war to a virtual close, was chiefly due to Washington's far-sightedness. After unsuccessfully pursuing Lafayette and destroying property in Virginia, Cornwallis entered Yorktown and fortified the city, unwittingly building his own prison to escape from which he was forced to surrender.

Washington bade his closest staff officers good-bye on Dec. 4, 1783, and formally resigned 19 days later.

He returned to Mount Vernon, where business affairs kept him busy for the next four years.

(This will be interesting.) The entertainment and amusement committee consisting of Comrades McDowell, Bristow and Taggart and who have been working hard this past month to promote entertainment and recreation for the Post during the winter months will also make their report. Commander Malin and Comrades Taggart and Baker will meet at the home of Comrade Baker on W. Elm street this Saturday evening to study and discuss a set of By-laws which have been drafted. These By-laws will be presented to the members of the Post for their approval at this monthly meeting. So we urge every member to be present.

but on October 21, 1781, his 7,000 British regulars were forced to surrender, practically ending the war. Washington was kept busy for the next two years winding up military affairs. He urged Congress to demand greater liberty for the colonies and also to settle claims of the soldiers and officers. He bade farewell to his closest staff members in New York on December 4, 1783, and on December 23 resigned his commission in the state senate chamber of Maryland in Annapolis. Within a few hours, Washington was home again at Mount Vernon, where his affairs as a gentleman-farmer occupied his time for the ensuing four years.

Legion Notes
The regular monthly meeting of the Post will be held at the State Armory, Monday evening at 7:30, with the past commanders in charge. The first commander of the post, Clarence E. Bissell now located at Providence, R. I., will occupy the post of honor. He is assisted by Harry Maidment first vice, Doctor R. P. Knapp as second vice, Walter Sheridan as past, Francis E. Bray chaplain, John Pentland sergeant at arms and Victor W. Bronke as adjutant. Several candidates will be initiated and business of an important nature will be up for discussion, as well as final action on the proposed amendment to the By-Laws changing the opening time of Post meetings.

ing: Mrs. Florence Plitt, first; Mrs. Loretta Shee, second; and Mrs. Mullen, consolation. Cake and coffee were served.
The regular meeting of the auxiliary will be held next Friday evening at 8 at the State Armory. There will be several ladies initiated into the auxiliary and the social committee are planning very nice refreshments and a good crowd is hoped for.
Next Monday the regular Bi-Weekly Card Party will be held at the Rose House in Manchester. Set back and bridge will be played. There will be a cash prize for high score in each, also a consolation. This is a joint affair with the Post. Edith Mahoney, chairman of the raffle on the two $5 gold pieces is very anxious to get returns in and will appreciate it if these reach her not later than at the meeting next Friday evening.
Miss Joanna Powers, Oak Street, who has been a patient at the Manchester Memorial Hospital has returned to her home.
The Sick Committee report that they have called on Ruth Frazer, of Edgerton street, who has been seriously ill, and report that she is much better.

in close order drill, gun drill, physical training, pistol marksmanship, and nomenclature of the company weapons.
The quarterly drill payroll has been prepared and sent to the regular army instructor's office for forwarding to the finance office. Checks should be received early in March.
A thorough inspection of lockers and check-up of equipment and clothing issued to the men will be made before arrival of the new checks in order that deficiencies be adjusted when the checks are delivered.
The first drill of the new quarter will be held on next Tuesday night. The regular weekly school for non-commissioned officers will be held on the preceding Monday night. Instruction in marksmanship of the 37 millimeter gun and 3 inch trench mortar will occupy the most important part of the drill schedules during the next two months in order that personnel may be prepared to take the gunners' tests during the field training period in August.
The monthly meeting of the Howitzer Company Association will take place after drill on Tuesday night. In addition to the regular reports of officers it is planned to take up the matter of the spring and summer sports program. Members should come to the meeting prepared to make suggestions in regard to the same.
Edward Edgar, a member of the Howitzer Company, was the winner of an automobile given away at the Shrine Circus in Hartford this week. The Howitzer Company surpassed all of its previous attendance records with a mark of 95.2 per cent for the month of February. This figure represents an average attendance of sixty men out of a total strength of sixty-three. A remarkable distinction should place the company very close to the top in the regimental attendance standing.
The ten recruits, who were attached to company headquarters for instruction in the inspection and in the drilling in the School of the Soldier under the command of Corporal Merrill Collins.
Several officers of companies located in Hartford have been ordered to take examinations for promotion. These advances in rank will result from the recent promotion of Lieutenant Colonel Nolan to the rank of major, succeeding Nolan as commander of the Third Battalion, 169th Infantry, Lieutenant Colonel Nolan is in command of the regiment during the absence of Colonel Petty in India.

Sprinkle broken bits of well-browned bacon, and fold omelet over all. When sufficiently browned, turn omelet into hot platter, garnish with parsley and serve immediately.

Following the business session the Reverend R. A. Colpitts, pastor of the South Methodist church will address the comrades. We do not know on just what subject the pastor will speak, but the reverend gentleman might select what is interesting and worth while listening to. The members are requested to bring a donation of cigarettes for the veterans at the Newington hospital.
The Drum Corps has accepted an invitation from the corps representing Rau-Locke Post No. 8 of Hartford to take part in a competitive drill which will be held in conjunction with a military band on the evening of March 5th at the state armory, Hartford.
March 16th, Wednesday night at 7:30 is the date set for the second in a series of card parties arranged by the Ways and Means committee for the benefit of the welfare fund. Here's hoping that this one will be a greater success than the last one, but you'll have to go home Ladies and gents.
The regular monthly meeting of Hartford County Association will be held at New Britain Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Legion Home. An interesting meeting is expected. Those wishing to attend should contact Commander Jenney.
We have been unable to find out who won the rifle match held last Sunday morning at the armory, between our team and the one from Co. G. Probably the scores were not so good so they are not showing them. Hey what! Loss to us!
House chairman, H. P. Sullivan and his trusty crew will serve the eats Monday night, and boys you are in for a treat.

Company G
The company commander wishes to sincerely thank the officers, non-commissioned officers, privates, lat class, and privates for their splendid efforts which resulted in the company getting a "very good" rating at the annual Federal Inspection. Company G is now rated as it should be and it is believed the company will continue to maintain its present high standing in the regiment.
The inspecting officer was particularly pleased with the manner in which the company paper or "Administrative" work is handled and he also stated the company supply rooms were as clean and well arranged as any he had seen.
The large crowd watching the inspection from the balconies drew the remark from Major Maddox that "Manchester is certainly interested in its soldier boys." This has always been true and the major was so informed.
The drill Monday was the last of the present quarter. The next drill will be held Monday, March 7th. Payrolls have been completed, signed, and at this writing should be in Boston. It is expected the checks will be in and ready for distribution on March 7th.
There will be no drill Monday, Feb. 29th. The non-commissioned officer school will resume sessions Sunday, April 3rd.
Private 1st Class, John McKenna has applied for a discharge to enable him to enlist in the U. S. Navy. McKenna desires to see a little of the world and he believes a hitch in the navy will satisfy the desire. We regret having to lose Private McKenna as he has always been an excellent soldier. Our best wishes go with him.
The results of the examination for promotion held Feb. 8th are as follows: Howard Cassella an Edward DeHan 124 points each, Kenneth Moriarty 119 points and Clarence Vennard 112 points. Cassella has been appointed sergeant and the other men will no doubt be appointed in the order named as soon as vacancies occur. The high mark attained by Private DeHan shows that he has been doing considerable studying. The marks attained by the other men who also passed the examination were exceptionally high.
Now that Federal inspection has been disposed of the company training will consist of those subjects which pertain to the period of field training. There will be a Brigade at Niantic this summer and it is expected competition in things military and otherwise will be very understanding. It is expected the company will bring home a good share of the honors.
Howitzer Company
Once again the Howitzer Company cannoneers put across a "Very Satisfactory" inspection, being given a very high rating by Major F. M. Maddox, the inspector. The company fell in at 7:30 p. m. and were given a thorough inspection, which was followed by inspection periods

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
(Angina Pectoris)
Question: Glen J. writes: "I have an unusual case of angina pectoris. What kind of work can I do that would not hurt me? Would a fast help me?"
Answer: Many cases of angina pectoris are greatly benefited by the orange juice fast. The diet after the fast must be rigidly guarded as to the correct food combinations. Very little exercise should be taken during the fast, but after the diet is started, moderate exercise should be gradually increased as the strength of the patient permits. The work should be very light.
(Blood Tests)
Question: Mrs. Karl H. writes: "Will you kindly advise me if a test that would determine the presence of the disease, such as tumor or cancer, and what organs are affected? Is such a test possible or plausible?"
Answer: Such tests are not accurate as far as being able to distinguish from these tests whether you have a tumor or cancer. I know the tests you refer to and exaggerated claims are made for them which cannot be substantiated. It is possible to determine the presence of cancer and found more and more work for his hands, he sought and developed more and more accurate time-recorders—the water clock (clepsydre) credited to the Chinese as early as 266 B. C., the Sundials of ancient Babylon, Egypt, Greece and Rome, the portable astrolabe of China and Arabia, the hour-glass of Charlemagne, and King Edward's time candle.
It was not until twelve or thirteen centuries after the birth of Christ, however, that the introduction of the portable clock was invented, the first authentic record of such a mechanism being the clock made by Peter Lightfoot, an ingenious monk, in 1385. Fifty-four years later in 1399, the famous clock in the Cathedral at Rouen, still the official timepiece of this historic French town, was erected.
First Watch.
The first watch was made, twelve years after the discovery of America, by a young locksmith, Nuremberg, Peter Henlein, who fashioned his "portable clock" while hiding in a monastery where he sought sanctuary when charged with murder. This "Father Adam" of all watches was spring-driven and made entirely of iron. It was half foot high, correspondingly as thick, and lost about one-half hour in each twenty-four hours.
The first wrist watch of which there is any record was a New Year's gift to Queen Elizabeth in 1571, described as a "rich jeweled armet having in the closing thereof a clock."
The story of the watch, from these early days on, is a fascinating story of patient evolution and constant refinement—the introduction of glass crystals in 1630, the invention of the hair spring (originally a pig's bristle) in 1661, the addition of the minute hand in 1670, the application of jewels in 1704, and the appearance of the first keyless watch in 1765.
There are over 94,000 newswpapers and magazines published throughout the world.

Auxiliary Notes
The Welfare Circle will meet with Mrs. Mae Wilde, Walker street, on next Tuesday afternoon, March 1.
Plans have been completed for the annual Child Welfare conference for Area A, which will be held at Hotel Bond in Hartford on March 11 and 12. Miss Inez Peck, Dept. Child Welfare Chairman is in charge.
Five of the Departments have their "Covered Wagons" off on the Oregon Membership Tour. Connecticut has only attained 57.9 per cent of its quota so it's up to each and every one of us to do our bit to get the "Nutmeg State" wagon on the trail.
We are happy to learn that several of our members who have been on the sick list the past month are on the mend.
One hundred fourteen new Units of the Auxiliary have been chartered since January 1, bringing the total number of units in the organization up to 7,631.
The County meeting will be held in New Britain on February 28 and it is hoped there will be a good attendance from Manchester.
British War Veterans
The regular monthly meeting of the Moneys-ypre Post will be held Wednesday evening, March 3rd at 8 p. m. in the Army and Navy Club. All members of the Post are urged to attend this meeting as it is a very important nature will be discussed. The reports of the three committees which were appointed at our February meeting will be heard.
The Committee on Caps which is headed by Comrade Henry Anderson will make a report on the progress they have attained in the securing of caps for the members of the Post.

East opened the king of hearts, and Lenz looked upon imminent disaster. He captured with North's ace and led six rounds of clubs and three of spades, utterly riddling the good defense strength of East and West. From East's spade discards he deduced four spades in West, and when East's lone diamond knave fell, he read West for the protected king.

WAPPING
The Parent Teachers' Association will sponsor a play, "Henry's Wedding," to be given under the supervision of a producing company. A professional coach will be in charge. The play will be given on Thursday, April 14 in Wapping school hall and on Friday evening, April 15, in the South Windsor Town Hall. It is to be given jointly by the Wapping Parent Teachers' Association and the South Windsor Parent Teachers' Association.
Walter G. Foster, Jr., who has been ill at his home for a week with the grip was able to sit up Thursday.
The basketball game between the Wapping girls and the Ludlow girls at the Wapping parish house Thursday evening was won by the Wapping girls, 20-19. The local girls treated the Ludlow girls to coffee and doughnuts. Miss Mary Connery was hostess.
Mrs. Ralph Wetherell have moved into their new house. The play given by the dramatic club of Wapping Grange, entitled "Go Slow Mary," was presented for the second time Thursday evening before a good audience at the Wapping school hall under the auspices of the Parent Teachers' Association.

Two Members of Cast III—Will Be Given In Two Weeks—Setback Party Success.
"Sally Lunn," the two-act comedy drama which was to have been the leading attraction of the Manchester Green Community club's entertainment, cannot be presented tonight because of the illness of the director, Miss Margaret Spring, who also takes part in the play. Mrs. Emma Dowd, another of the cast is ill, and the whole program has been postponed until two weeks from this evening.
The Green Community club's setback and dance last night was well attended, 19 tables being in play. First prizes were won by Mrs. George Graziano and Walter Ebert, second by Mrs. Martha Coe and David Hadden and third by Mrs. Peter Donahue and E. Richard Hart. Mrs. William Jones won the door prize. Fruit nut-drop cakes and cocoa were served by the committee at the close of the games.

DOCTOR KIDNAPED
Detroit, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Found in a ditch near New Baltimore in a semi-delirious condition, Dr. Albert B. Plater, head of the American Friendship Society, matrimonial agency through which Harry F. Powers West, Virginia "Blues Beard" met a woman whom he later was charged with having murdered, reported to police that he had been kidnaped by two men as he was entering his home in Grosse Pointe Park last night.
Plater called to distinguish a blazing automobile, found Dr. Plater in a nearby ditch where he had been thrown by the kidnapers, who then set fire to his car after removing the license plates.
He was given medical treatment and then taken to the Mt. Clemens police station, where he told officers he had received letters threatening to take him "for a long ride" if he did not leave the city.
Dr. Plater and his wife, Olga, were sponsors of the society which was discontinued shortly after the Powers case.

BROWN CONVICTED
Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 27.—(AP) William Irving Brown, 18, of Newport, who fatally shot his step-father Richard E. Wilson, during a quarrel has been convicted of murder in the second degree. The conviction carries a mandatory life sentence.
The conviction was brought in by a Middlesex county jury last night after more than five hours deliberation.
Brown, during his trial, maintained he shot his step-father in self-defense while quarreling with him in the attic of the Wilson home. He said he resented Wilson calling his mother vile names. The prosecution contended the shooting occurred because Brown was afraid his step-sister, 11 years old, might complain to her father of alleged advances made to her by Brown.

The dime-a-dance girl

BY JOAN CLAYTON

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Beautiful ELLEN ROSSITER, a salesgirl in Barclay's Department Store, works nights as a dance hall hostess. She lives with her mother, MOLLY ROSSITER, her older sister, MYRA, and her baby brother, MIKE.

At the dance hall she meets and falls in love with handsome LARRY HARBOWGATE, an artist. Later she learns LARRY is engaged to ELIZABETH BOWES, a debutante.

STEVEN BARCLAY, 57 and owner of Barclay's, is in love with Ellen. Without the girl's knowledge her mother invites him to dinner, borrowing money for the occasion. Ellen is furious, but when Barclay arrives she is compelled to be friendly. That night he asks her to marry him. She refuses.

Gossip circulates at the store and Ellen asks to be transferred to another department. Barclay makes her an assistant buyer at an increased salary. She refuses to lunch with Larry because of her new job and because she comes to Dreamland that night to apologize.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVI

Ellen had never thought of Larry in connection with anything so prosaic as work. To her he went with the gayety, the lightness and laughter in the world. She knew he was an artist but when she had teased him for details of his work he only told her lightly that he was not an over-zealous artist.

So she was considerably surprised a few days later when he came to Dreamland to ask if she would pose for him. A special show—the Shane Show he explained—was to be held in six months. If he could get one of the greatest models in the world to pose for him, he would be famous. Ellen's first impulse was to refuse him. She was too busy. Surely he could get someone better for a portrait, a society woman perhaps or an actress, someone well known. But he persisted. It would take only such a little time he pleaded. If she couldn't or wouldn't pose, then he simply would not enter the competition. Ellen hesitated, torn between prudence and desire. At last, against her better judgment, she agreed to do as he wished.

"Ah, you're a darling to say you will," he exclaimed in relief and satisfaction. "I won't take much of your time. My studio has night lights and things. Sometimes if you're not too tired, you might drop in here after you're through here."

Again the girl hesitated.

"I don't want to sound like a prude," she said frankly, "but I'm afraid I couldn't do that."

Seeing he was puzzled, she went on her clear, ringing tones on his mother wouldn't hear of such a thing—and not because she doesn't like you, either. It's because she's old-fashioned, I guess, and I'm old-fashioned, too. I couldn't go to your studio at night without a chaperon. I wouldn't feel right about it."

"It would be all right on Mondays and times like that though. Myra could come then, too," she added.

"You do see, don't you?" she asked appealingly.

"I never saw a girl like you," Larry said wonderingly. "You don't drink. You don't smoke. And here you are insisting that you have a chaperon while I paint you in a gown Queen Victoria would have worn if she'd had the figure for it."

The light note went out of his voice. He pursued the subject with a kind of reluctant and unwilling admiration.

"You're a queer little Puritan, Ellen, but I'm not sure I don't admire you for it. Girls nowadays are to free and easy—the kind I seem to know, anyhow. They've tossed away a lot trying to grab off the sort of freedom that doesn't seem to make them happy when they get it. It seems a silly thing to say, but I'm going to say it. You're a wise little girl, Ellen. You've caught his breath and laughed a confused, uncertain laugh. It wasn't much. But Ellen treasured those words.

Often during the next two weeks she went to sleep dreaming dreams of Larry. She was seeing a different side of him these days, was learning that he could work as well as play at tight tension. She loved this different side of him. She loved the inexhaustible enthusiasm he exhibited for color, for paint, for canvas, for real labor.

Things at home, financially speaking, were going much better since she had received the increased salary from the store but the additional money from Dreamland was still necessary. Not for much longer Ellen hoped.

Molly, fretful and distressed over the continuous companionship with Larry and not to be consoled by the fact that Ellen was seeing a great deal of Steven at the store, had grown strangely apathetic. She seemed temporarily to have lost her ability to spend money before it was earned. Nevertheless Ellen had often the feeling of a tight-wire walker. She knew, did Ellen, how easily a budget can be upset.

There were other things that gave her the feeling of a tight-wire walker. For one thing, even though she gave him countless opportunities, even though she could feel that he and she were coming closer and closer to some inevitable climax, Larry failed to say one word about his engagement. The name of Elizabeth Bowes, the gay debutante who was fitting over Europe before returning for her autumn wedding, had never been mentioned between them. Even as she fell more and more helplessly in love with Larry, Ellen could not forget how unfairly he was treating her.

She was attempting to crowd too much action, too much excitement, too many emotions into 24 hours. She was always twisting and turning one side was common sense and on the other was her own heart. That she had deeply and unintentionally hurt Steven many times she knew. At luncheon with him her thoughts would stray to Larry.

She would wonder what he was doing, where he was, what he was saying in those hours he spent away from her. Then she would start with a sudden realization that she had heard not one word of what Steven had been saying.

Larry, even if he had been more honest with her, she knew would still remain one of those suitors who can never be depended on. He blew hot and blew cold; laughing a minute and quarreling the next. After those spirited quarrels he generally stalked away without a word. Ellen would cry herself to sleep, convinced she would never see him again. The next night he would turn up at Dreamland, unabashed and unrepentant, the cause of the quarrel and the quarrel itself forgotten. Oh, it was maddening never to know where one stood, though little Ellen saw thousands of other girls have thought.

She had some times the strange feeling that in this double, or rather, triple life she was leading she was losing Molly, losing Myra, losing the home she was certainly losing touch with her duties at the store. She knew that Lorene Elcott was disappointed in her though nothing had been said. She knew all these things and yet could not feel regretful.

Larry's very contradictions were a delight; the burning, feverish love she felt for him was an answer to her wild, young prayers of the year before. Nothing mattered when she was with him except that she should please him. Nothing mattered except that here was another evening, an evening when she might learn where she stood with him. She was always straining toward that issue. Always he was eluding it.

Then came an August night when Bert and Myra accompanied her to the studio, one of the free Mondays that came all too seldom. It was unaccountably hot even with the studio skylight wide open and all the casement windows denuded of curtains and swung out into the airless, starchy night. At about 8 o'clock Bert protested he could hear no more and dragged Myra out to a neighborhood movie. They were returning for Ellen at 10, the hour the posing invariably was ended.

Larry worked for some time after they left, absorbedly mixing his colors and absently wiping his brush on his faded smock, standing off to observe an effect, squinting at the canvas and then at Ellen almost as though he had never seen her before. But at 9 o'clock he turned his brush around and dragged Myra out to a neighborhood movie. They were returning for Ellen at 10, the hour the posing invariably was ended.

down at the dusty grand piano which commanded one corner, pushed back the top and attempted to remember enough of her childhood instruction to pick out a simple melody. The instrument was badly out of tune and her amateurish efforts were ludicrous. She was giggling at the discordancy when the door opened and Larry came in, laden with green bottles and a brown bag of sandwiches.

She shook her head when he insisted that she keep up the good work and rose hastily. So hastily that she knocked to the floor a photograph which had been lying face downward on the piano. She picked it up and gazed at the photograph.

Smiling out at her was the face of Elizabeth Bowes.

Ellen's heart failed at this visual evidence of the unknown girl's position of the man she loved. She felt as if the blood were draining slowly from her body.

"Oh," she said, after a horrible, endless interval. "What a—pretty girl."

"Yes, isn't she," Larry agreed.

"She's rather a good sort," he said casually. "A friend of mine. What do you say we eat?"

Ellen, a bright fixed smile on her face and death in her heart, agreed that they should eat. Oh, why hadn't he told her the whole truth? She thought she could have forgiven him everything if only he had told her. She desired passionately to blot him forever from her sight and from her memory. She wanted to tell him that, brutally and cruelly. She desired that he should be hurt as she herself had been hurt. But she restrained her passionate, accusing words. She said only that she would dress while he laid out the simple meal.

Her voice sounded flat and tame.

"What's wrong with you?" Larry asked, puzzled.

PARIS FAVORS CONTRAST

Of course you've heard lots about the new jacket-like dress now so much favoured by Paris. The jacket and skirt are so different in appearance that they don't even seem like a near relation. And they are of every material imaginable.

Today's model shows a snappy idea. The skirt is carried out in one of those lovely soft sheer wools in a tweed effect in beige and blue tones. The Vionnet blouse, that by the way gives the figure such a graceful slowness through its wraped diagonal closing, of a rough finished crepe silk in light navy blue shade. It's a dress that will give you marvelous style. While it's lovely for street for early spring, it's exceedingly jaunty for spectator sports.

And it's simplicity itself to make it.

Another youthful scheme is navy blue sheer woolen skirt with vivid yellow crepe silk blouse.

As a one-piece dress, it's also delightfully smart, especially in one of the small patterned crepe silk prints. Choose bone buttons to tone with the predominating tone of the print you select.

It's a darling type for summer wear. Make the skirt of white wooly type cotton of diagonal weave, and the blouse of cherry red rough crepe silk, preferably with short sleeves for sports. Tomato-red lined used for the entire dress is stunning.

Style No. 2545 has had its sleeves 14, 16, 18, 20 inches, 36 and 38 inches bust. For the 16-year size it takes 2 yards of 39-inch material for the skirt with 2 1/2 yards of 39-inch material for the blouse.

Beautiful styles covering the complete range for the woman, miss, child and the stout, articles showing what hats will be worn, hairdressing hints, attention to detail, and the way to better dress and will help you economize. Just write your name and address clearly on any piece of paper. Order one book. Enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin and mail your order to Fashion Department.

Be sure to fill in the size of the pattern. Send stamps or coin (coin preferred). Price of book 10 cents. Price of pattern 15 cents.

Los Angeles—Folly and Rover can have crackers and dog biscuits galore now. Polly, pet parrot, and Rover, pet dog of the late Sarah C. Lincoln, share $5,000 in her will. Mrs. Maude E. McKean is taking care of the $5,000 willed to the two pets.

Portland, Ore.—G. Ellis Porter met a stranger and they went for a walk. Shortly after they met another stranger and the three of them started a game of matching pennies. The result of Porter's chance acquaintances turned out to be the loss of $160 in matching pennies.

Hints on How to Keep Well by World Famed Authority.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of three "tim" articles on Baby Teeth by Dr. Fishbein.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, JOURNAL of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, and the Health Magazine.

The chief reason for preserving the baby teeth is to keep the mouth in the right shape for the second teeth.

All of the 20 teeth that are called temporary teeth are usually in the mouth by the time the child is three. Behind the first set is the second set. In order to have the second set properly developed, the food must be right and the mouth free from infection. The only certain way to control infection is to have dental care when it appears.

The most important permanent tooth comes in between the fifth and sixth year of life and is known as the six-year molar. It comes in six teeth back from the one in the front of the mouth in the center.

There are four six-year molars, one on each side of the upper and lower jaws. They should have the most careful attention. Once gone they are not replaced except with artificial teeth. If they decay and are removed without proper dental attention, the entire expression of the face and of the mouth may change.

In the absence of the proper molars, food is not sufficiently ground before entering the stomach.

Every child should see a dentist following the appearance of the six-year molars. Only a generation has passed since dentists first began to give special attention to the teeth of the child.

Now the subject is so important that there are many dentists who specialize exclusively in children's teeth. They are concerned with seeing that all the teeth are straight, that the teeth are properly spaced, that the teeth are properly

OGHTA BE A LAWYER

Miami, Fla.—A bandit held up W. R. Williams, taxi driver, and took $1.55 from him. He handed Williams back ten cents for "street" car fare and then got in the taxi to drive off in it himself. Williams started arguing, told the bandit a hard luck story, and the argument finally wound up in Williams getting his taxi.

JOLLY OLD FELLOW

London—Seated before a roaring fire was Peter Ball when Manchester police captured him. Ball was well dressed—too well dressed. He had on two suits, four shirts, three pairs of underwear, three vests, two pairs of socks, three belts and a knitted woolen jacket. He explained that he was cold.

MARVELOUS MANHATTAN

By WILLIAM GAINES

New York—Out in a Chicago studio, the villain choked the heroine, with one brief minute left for her expiration or rescue.

She gasped and screamed into the microphone. A radio network picked up her sounds of anguish and carried them to the far reaches of the land.

In the Manhattan office of the broadcasting company a telephone rang. A stern voiced man said he represented a society which protects children from abuse. Some are given temporary shelter under its roof.

"That woman's screams are frightening our little ones," thundered the voice. "We want you to order the program halted immediately."

What the public probably will want to know is why the gentleman complaining did not turn off the radio. And so do we. Nevertheless the obliging radio man glanced at the clock. It showed the program had a bare 30 seconds to run.

"Yes, sir," he said. "We'll fix things up for you immediately."

And the radio episode went right off the air, as per schedule.

Tattle Tales

If present plans carry through, New York soon will have opportunity to read a journal made up principally of selected letters to the editors of metropolitan dailies. Its proponent believes that much humor, and some wisdom, does not get the attention it deserves because not enough people make a practice of reading the public forum column.

There will be some juicy selections from questions and answers departments too.

Where the old World building still stands is said to be the scene of the hanging of Jacob Leisler, native of Frankfurt, Germany, who briefly exercised the authority of a dictator over New York.

Margaret O'Connor, diminutive ash blond secretary of a local entertainment chief, was called the "most beautiful young mother in America" by a committee composed of John Barrymore, F. Scott Fitzgerald, and Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr. She divorced one of the most decorative show girls on the Broadway stage, is the gift of Indianapolis.

Ray, a Yankee, made a trip into Texas several years ago, and from his berth in the sleeping car he watched the fleeting landscape. A huge yellow moon appeared on the horizon, growing more brilliant as it seemed to shrink and climb into the clouds.

Ray's aesthetic soul was smitten and he began formulating the idea which resulted in a tune you probably remember—"Under a Texas Moon."

Ray's sister is Grace Perkins, who has written some popular novels.

All For a Dime

Edmund Lowe, whom we now have in our midst, twice passed the hangout of an enterprising panhandler, as he went and came.

"Mister, can you spare a dime for a cup of coffee," Lowe was solicited for the second time.

"Why, my good man," said Lowe, "I just gave you a dime a few minutes ago."

"Oh, was that you?" retorted the panhandler. "Gee, I'm sorry, but I spilled that frat cup."

CAREFUL BACHELORS

London—Scottish bachelors had better be careful this leap year. Seven hundred years ago the Scottish Parliament passed an act imposing severe penalties on any bachelor who refused a proposal in leap year. The act has never been repealed. The leap year idea is said to have originated in Scotland.

One way to get Shanghai off the front page is for President Hoover to appoint a commission to investigate it.

About Face!

Usually nobody in the world notices a facial defect as much as the woman who has one. To no one else does it make so much difference.

I have a letter from a mother telling me that her young girl's nose is tremendously long and asking if there is anything she can do to help matters.

Yes. By all means there is something you can do! Don't make the child nose-conscious! In the first place, when the girl is grown, her whole face may have caught up with her nose and its size may be just right. If you have talked and talked about it none all her adolescent years, even if her nose turned out the loveliest one in all America she would never know it. She probably

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

It is the second place, what if her nose is too long and too big, in your opinion. There are no standards of beauty. Beauty doesn't depend on any single feature. Women who possess no single feature to boast of can become known as beauties, so great is the artistry of make-up, of general grooming, of clothing oneself becomingly.

I know a Continental woman who has atrocious features, eyes that are too far apart and just a little bit wall-eyed, to boot, and her neck is tremendously long. Yet she plays up to her unattractiveness, wears chic things that emphasize her long neck, wears her hair back from her face and holds herself so proudly that you wonder why anyone ever thought perfection of facial features the least bit interesting, stacked up against this woman's fascination.

If your facial defects are the kind that you can have remedied, by all means do so. But don't let them defeat you. Set a new standard of attractiveness! Do the very best you can by yourself and then proceed to be so interested in life and interesting that no one can overlook you. You can turn most defects into assets, if you go about it right.

There have been two negro senators and 21 representatives who have served in the United States Congress since adoption of the Constitution.

Only two out of every 1000 persons reported missing in England are never heard of again.

MISSING COUPLE SAFE

Baltimore, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Dr. and Mrs. F. Fielding Reid were believed today to be well on their way to Boston aboard their $1-foot cruiser Catherine B.

Defeated once last week by motor trouble, the couple left the dock of the Maryland Yacht Club Thursday morning for a "last run" and did not return.

Friends said that the boat was washed for the first time in the process and was finding the motor running smoothly, probably decided to proceed at once.

The route charted would take the craft into the Delaware Channel, the narrow bay, Chesapeake Bay, and the Chesapeake.

BASKETBALL

WEST SIDE LEAGUE

The C. E. House outfit nosed out the Hultman team in the last few seconds of play last night in the West Side League, 38-36. The score was tied with a minute to play when "Smookey Joe" Eron tossed in the winning basket. Donahue and Kerr starred for the winners and "Charley" Bycholski accounted for fifteen of his team's points.

The second game proved to be a free scoring affair, the teams making a total of 128 points. Glenney's started out with a bang and threat-

Foreclosure on Farm

A $7,500 foreclosure suit has been brought against the farm in Vernon owned by Rose Matia, the plaintiffs in the case being Sykes and Annie Bamforth.

The farm was sold by the Bamforths to the present owner in December, 1926, the sellers taking a mortgage for $4,275. The Bamforths allege that town taxes on the property have not been paid since 1928 and that the property has been encumbered by a Federal Land Bank loan of $4,200. The plaintiffs seek foreclosure, possession and $2,500 damages.

Three are several parcels of land involved in the transactions, Attorney Edward J. Loneragan is acting for the Bamforths.

Mrs. Thure Hanson of Worcester, Mass., is spending a few days with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. P. J. O. Cornell of Church street.

Fred Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Wood of Talcootville, will play two violin numbers at the service in the Vernon Methodist church tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The selections will be Ave Maria and Nazareth, by Gounod.

A special meeting of Helen Davidson Lodge, Daughters of Scotia, will be held Monday evening at the home of Miss Esther Sutherland, 163 Eldridge street, when arrangements will be made for the official visit of the grand chief daughter, Wednesday, March 9.

The Dorcas society of the Swedish Lutheran church will hold its monthly meeting Wednesday at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Conrad Casperson of Spring street. The members are requested to bring to this meeting the silk pieces for the patchwork quilt.

Miss Hazel Trotter's many friends will be glad to know she is able to be out again after being confined to her home on East Center street by illness.

Cheney Brothers Girls' Athletic Association will hold its annual meeting and luncheon at Cheney hall, Tuesday evening, March 15. At this time the directors will award prizes to the players in the bowling league who made the highest scores in the tournament which closed on Tuesday. The coming annual business session, with election of officers will be held at 7:30 and a short program and luncheon will follow.

The Center Church Women's Federation will be in charge of the supper at the Lenten Institute tomorrow evening. This will be the third in the series of Sunday evening gatherings which are proving so popular with the church folks. Music will be furnished by Barbara Stoltenfeldt, pianist; Helen Viertel and Donald Chulow, violinists, and Elizabeth Woodruff, cellist.

Thirty members of the Epworth League of the South Methodist church took part in a straw ride to Clifford D. Cheney's cabin in Glastonbury last night. Games were enjoyed and hamburg sandwiches, coffee, rolls and do nuts were served. Clarence Turkington was chairman of the committee in charge.

Carrying out the idea of drawing speakers from various fields of endeavor, the Everyman's Bible Class which meets each Sunday morning at 9:30 at the Second Congregational church, will be addressed tomorrow morning by a representative of the teaching profession. Willard Sisson, of the faculty of the Hartford high school system, will bring his interpretation of christian principles based on the teacher viewpoint. His discourse will be on "Can a Christian Believe in Evolution?" An invitation is extended to all men interested to hear Mr. Sisson.

A modern and old-fashioned dance will be held at Jenck's Lone Oak tavern in Pleasant Valley, South Windsor, tonight, sponsored by Anderson-Shea Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Art McKay's orchestra will furnish the music for dancing. The committee in charge consists of Police Lieutenant William Barron, chairman; Harold Dougan, Edgar Morgan, Herman Reinholdt and Edw. Brown.

At a meeting of the Masters and Wardens of the lodges in the Sixth Masonic district which includes Manchester which was held at West Hartford last evening, Peter Wind, Hartford Master of Manchester Lodge of Masons, was elected vice-president. The next meeting of the association will be held at the Masonic Temple here on March 31.

D. OF L., ORANGEMEN HONOR WASHINGTON

Daughters of Liberty and Orangenmen of Washington Lodge held a joint celebration in Orange hall last evening, of the Washington Bicentennial. The Daughters presented a pageant depicting scenes from the life of George Washington. Each participant was gowned in Colonial dress which added to the effectiveness of the historic pageant.

Rev. J. Stuart Neill, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church, delivered a short lecture illustrated with stereoscopic slides, portraying the life of Washington from birth, through boyhood and young manhood, marriage, the Revolutionary War period, to his death. A program of instrumental and vocal music and old-time dances followed.

PLANS SOME CHANGES IN THE PARK BUILDING

The reconditioning of the Park building, which was ravaged by fire recently, has begun and extensive alterations and additions are being planned by William Rubinow. Most of the work will be confined to the northern part of the building where the flames did the greatest damage, and the alterations will include a lobby in the north entrance to the second floor. This lobby will give Mr. Rubinow window display space on three sides instead of two.

Holger Bach will have charge of the woodwork of the Club of the painting, Johnson and Little of the plumbing, Ray Hagedorn of the electrical work and Andrew Ansaldo, of the plastering.

MISS METCALF SHOWERED

Miss Esther Metcalf was the guest of honor at a surprise shower which followed the regular meeting of the Hunters group of the Wesleyan Circle last evening at the home of Mrs. Russell Haley of East Center street. Following a short business meeting the sixteen young women present adjourned to the dining room which they found artistically decorated in a color scheme of green and yellow. In the center was a basket filled with packages. Miss Metcalf was much surprised to find the shower, which was of all sorts of beautiful pieces of apparel, was for her.

Mrs. Haley was assisted by Mrs. Thomas J. Rogers in serving a luncheon consisting of frozen fruit salad, nut bread sandwiches and other dainties.

Miss Metcalf's engagement to Milton Nelson was announced a short time ago.

Y. M. C. A. Notes

There will be eight games of basketball at the Y. M. C. A. today. The program is as follows: 12:45, Trojans vs. Rangers; 1:30, Arrows vs. Vikings; 2:15, Bon Ami Chicks vs. North End Boys Club; 3:00, Pioneers with Troop 9, Boy Scouts; 4:00, Farmington Junior High vs. Brown Brook Grammar school in County Y league; 4:45, Herald Newsboys vs. Thompsonville Seconds in County Y league; 7:00, Pirates with opponent as yet unannounced; 8:00, Original Thirteen with opponent as yet unannounced.

Mild weather conditions interfered with the plans of the South Methodist Epworth Leaguers for a sleigh-ride last night and instead twenty-eight of them had a straw-ride. They secured a large hay-rick from L. F. Wood and made a trip to Mrs. Clifford Cheney's cabin in Glastonbury, where they had games and stunts and gathered around the open fire for singing. Hot hamburger sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee were prepared in the kitchen. The young people had a thoroughly enjoyable time returning to town before midnight.

THREE CAR CRASH ON SILVER LANE

Manchester People Involved In Accident That Sends Five To The Hospital.

Five persons were admitted to the Memorial hospital early today following a bad automobile accident on the Silver Lane Road at Forbes street in East Hartford. None is seriously injured and two have been discharged following treatment. Three cars were involved in the crash. Another accident was said to have occurred near the Silver Lane Pickle factory but details were not available at the East Hartford police station.

Road surfaces were hazardous this morning due to an icy coating that was not discernible until drivers applied their brakes. A heavy fog that continued through most of the night left the ice coating when the heavy mist on the ground froze. The danger was over as soon as the sun was high enough to melt the thin ice.

Those involved in the accident which sent five persons to the local hospital involved cars driven by Miss Frances A. Sroka of 193 Spruce street and Miss Sarah L. Sherman of Talcootville. Riding with Miss Sroka was her father, Frank P. Sroka. In the Sherman Pontiac sedan were Mrs. Martha N. Bassett, wife of Herman G. Bassett, of 15 Ashworth street, and Mrs. Anna V. Johnson, wife of Rudolph A. Johnson, of 29 Clinton street.

Miss Sherman and Mrs. Bassett were able to leave the hospital after being treated for lacerations. All the occupants of both machines were badly shaken and cut by broken glass from the windshields. The Sroka car is understood to have skidded into the Sherman automobile on an icy stretch of the state highway. A third car barely avoided a crash but a fourth piled into the wreckage. The name of the driver of this car could not be learned. Walter B. Joyner of Manchester was the driver of another car which barely missed being involved in the wreck. He assisted the stranded persons. All were on their way to Hartford where they are employed.

Accident at Cemetery Automobiles owned by Alvin G. Brown, of North Coventry, and Earl F. Wood of Church street, Brown figured in an automobile accident opposite the East Cemetery shortly after 8 o'clock this morning. Both cars were going west the Brown car following the automobile driven by Wood.

As Wood started to cross over to the south road, he applied his brakes just as Brown did the same and the cars skidded and came together. The Brown car was badly damaged having both the left running board smashed and the frame of the body sprung in addition to a broken door. The Brown car was less damaged escaped with a bent front left fender and a twisted bumper. None of the drivers were injured. Officer Arthur Seymour made the investigation and no arrests were made.

HAROLD DOUGAN NEW HEAD OF THE YD CLUB

Yankee Division Vets Sup. Sing, Elect Officers and Revive Old War Days.

The YD Club held its annual meeting and banquet last night in the hose house at Hilliard and Main streets. About thirty members attended.

Potato salad and baked beans were served at 7:30 preceding the annual meeting.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Harold Dougan; vice-president, Harry Mathias; secretary, Clarence R. Wetherell; treasurer, Edgar T. Morgan; board of governors, John Newman, Arthur McCann, Joseph Moriarty; auditors, John Bausola, Thomas Brown. The investigating committee was reappointed, Harry Biswell, Edgar T. Morgan, Fred Hope.

A vote of thanks was extended to the retiring president, William Shields.

After the short business meeting Harold Dougan, pianist, played some of the old songs of 1917 and 1918 with everybody joining in the chorus, reviving the old days on the other side.

REC NOTES

All members of the Rec Five basketball team have been ordered to report for practice at 1:45 tomorrow afternoon at the Rec gym in preparation for the town series next week. No excuses for absences will be accepted. It was stated that the Rec volleyball team will play the New Haven Y. M. C. A. in the Rec Gym at 4 o'clock this afternoon. This match is between the first teams of each institution.

REC CENTERS BEAT TRAVS IN TOURNEY

Win By 25 Points To 15 In Mixed Program of Pool, Ping-Pong, Bowling.

The Recreation Centers defeated the Travelers in a closely contested sports program at the School street Rec last night, winning 25 to 15. The program was highly exciting every minute of the evening as the teams fought for victory in ping-pong, pocket billiard and bowling, and when the smoke of battle had cleared away the Rec won five of the eight events scheduled, with its remaining three in possession of the Travelers.

One of the high lights of the evening was the opening ping-pong contest between Ed Guinan, one of the leading tennis and ping-pong players in East Hartford, and Charles Wallcut, town ping-pong champion. Guinan took the first game at 21-17, then lost the second and third, 21-18 and 21-5, to give Manchester its first five points. Mrs. Gladys Wilkinson had little trouble in disposing of Miss Edna D. Noyes in each event, 21-6 and 21-9, and Mrs. Lillian Farr practically duplicated her feat a moment later when she triumphed over Mary Tobin, 21-14 and 21-10.

But after losing three successive matches, the Travelers were able to click smoothly and the next two matches went to the visitors, Thomas Pickett defeating Harry Larson, 21-13 and 21-17, and Donald Monroe topped Phil Farr, 21-16 and 21-14.

With the score standing at 15 to 10—five points being awarded in each event—the Travelers continued their winning ways when Grace and Chestnut won the pool tourney over Gardner and McLeod, 100 to 72. This tied the score at 15-all and enthusiasm ran high as the teams adjourned to the bowling alleys to settle the matter.

The girls' team competed first and Manchester's five bowlers emerged with a 23 pin lead at the end of the game. Try as they might, the Travelers were unable to reduce the lead but nearly ran the event to three times when they lost the second by only two pins, the score being 454 to 451. The first game ended 434 to 411. The total score was 887 to 862, a margin of 25 pins for the Recs.

Trailing by five points, the Travelers team went into action but failed to win the first game as the locals ran up a 595 score to 546 for the visitors. The Travelers came back in the second game to triumph by 25 pins but this margin failed to eliminate the 49 pin lead which the Recs piled up in the first game, and Manchester clinched the sports program, 25 to 15.

More than fifty persons were present and following the contests, the gathering enjoyed shrimp salad, rolls, coffee, ice cream and cookies. Dancing afterwards lasted for nearly an hour, to music by the Boys' Club orchestra, consisting of Fred Beste, Earl Moore, Bud Moore, Ernest Squarito, Edward Kosinski, Roland Lashinsky, Earl Shedd, John Lloyd and Larry Metter.
