BRIAND PASSES ON; APOSTLE OF PEACE

Famous French Statesman, Premier a Dozen Times, Dies — Had Most Notable Career.

Paris, March 7.—(AP)—Aristide Briand, "Apostle of Peace," died at 12:45 o'clock this afternoon.

"He died in a coma," said Dr. Marx, his personal physician, "after a stroke from which he did not regain consciousness."

"He passed away peacefully without suffering," Professors Dodelot and Vaquez and I saw him at 9:30. He was no worse than he had been for several days and we did not imagine the end could come so quickly.

It was the end of one of the most active careers in modern French political history.

The bent, shaggy-haired old statesman—he was 69—had occupied the post of foreign minister in one Cabinet after another for so long he had made the office almost his own.

It was in that capacity that he participated in the Briand-Kellogg Pact outlawing war as an instrument of national policy.

It was from that office that he played so important a part in the making of the Locarno Pact that became for all the world "The Man of Locarno."

And it was as foreign minister that he conceived the idea of a "United States of Europe," a conception which although it never has been taken concrete form still is being considered by Europe's statesmen.

But it was not only as foreign minister that he made history for France. He was premier a dozen times.

The highest office in the gift of the people was almost within his grasp last May, but some of the policies which he had advocated

GILEAD FARMER MURDERS WIFE, TAKES OWN LIFE

Double Tragedy Occurs This Morning On Former George Miner Place—Had Been Quarreling.

Ignatz Zeberek, 49-year-old Gilead farmer, shot and killed his wife, Anna, age 39, at 10 o'clock this morning and then turned his .32 calibre pistol upon himself and took his own life.

The tragedy followed a bitter quarrel over management of their little farm, the former George Miner place, and financial troubles and was witnessed by the most of the couple's children, of whom there are six.

Police Called News of the shooting was carried first to the farm of Arthur Keefe, who lives nearby and then to the home of Justice of the Peace J. Banks Jones of Gilead. State police were summoned immediately and a detachment was assigned to the case from the Hartford barracks.

Dr. C. E. Fendleton, of Colchester, medical examiner for that district was called and both of the Zebereks were dead when he arrived.

Financial Troubles According to the children their parents have been quarreling for some time over the inability of the father to make both ends meet on the farm.

The arguments of the past few weeks came to a head this morning after Zeberek had disposed of his cows because he had no fodder for them and could not buy it.

A bitter argument ensued and according to one child the father chased his mother into the road threatening her with a pistol.

Takes Own Life Mrs. Zeberek tried to get away from her husband but was unable to. The husband gained on her and fired three shots.

She dropped to the road. She was still living when her children reached her, but it was evident she could not live. Realizing his deed Zeberek turned the gun upon himself. He died instantly.

Governor Leads Kidnap Search

STATE PAYS TRIBUTE TO HOLCOMB MEMORY

Southington, March 7.—Connecticut today was preparing to pay, tomorrow, its final tribute to its former war governor, Marcus Hensley Holcomb, whose long life terminated at his home here late on Saturday.

Men and women who have played notable parts in the affairs of the state during the last half century were expected to attend the funeral services at the Holcomb home, 41 Main street, early Tuesday afternoon.

Death came to the former governor after a period of failing health extending over many months. He died peacefully from the increasing weakness of old age. He would have been 88 next November.

Marcus Hensley Holcomb was born in New Hartford, Conn., November 28, 1844, a son of Charles and Adah L. Bushnell Holcomb. In 1871 he was admitted to the Connecticut bar and the same year began practice in Southington, where he lived all his life.

As a young man he was a Democrat. During the war against hoarding opened in earnest today, throughout the weeks of organization during which appeals through the press, the radio, the mails and posters were made, many hoarded dollars have found their way into banks from pieces of hiding, Knox said.

The psychology of the people has been changed. Where $300,000,000 had been withdrawn by depositors in January before the citizens' organization came into being, the first three weeks in February saw $100,000,000 of the money come back to the banks, Knox said, and there was every reason to believe at least an action against former President is put off until April 4, Lawyer Says.

LEE HEIRLOOMS ARE SOUGHT BY HIS RELATIVES

Descendants of Confederate General Want Stolen Picture Returned; Was Taken During the Civil War.

Washington, March 7.—(AP)—The possibility arose today that descendants of General Robert E. Lee might renew their efforts to regain heirlooms taken from Arlington mansion during the war between the states by Union soldiers.

The presentation to the government last week of a portrait of Mildred Child Lee, youngest of the Confederate general's four daughters, by Mrs. Walter E. Skilton of Concord, New Hampshire, brought forth the statement from Mrs. Robert E. Lee of Washington that the portrait "is a family possession and should be returned to the estate, not to the government."

The painting was cut from its frame on the walls of the Arlington mansion by Mrs. Skilton's father, James A. Learned of the First Massachusetts Artillery.

Terms of Gift Mrs. Skilton's gift was made with the understanding it would be placed again in Arlington mansion, being retained by the government.

On this basis, Brigadier-General Louis H. Bush, assistant quartermaster general of the army said the portrait was accepted "in good faith."

Quartermaster corps officials admitted, however, the heirs might be able to recover the portrait, providing theft were proved.

If the picture is returned to the family, it probably will go to Mrs. Hanson Ely, Jr., of Washington, a grandchild of General Lee and daughter-in-law of Major-General Hanson Ely, United States Army retired.

Previous Suits In a previous suit for family relics presented to the Smithsonian Institution, the Lee heirs were successful and a division of the heirlooms was made.

GOV. MOORE IS UNABLE TO GRANT THEM TERMS

'HOT TIPS' GALORE IN LINDBERGH CASE

But Not a Single Real Ray of Hope For Parents of Famous Baby.

Hopewell, N. J., March 7.—(AP)—Nine telephone lines poured "hot tips" into the garage on the Lindbergh estate today.

The mails added hundreds more. Rumor, fantastic and bizarre, ran riot.

Yet all available trustworthy information and all clues, tips and theories boiled down to the facts: 1—The twenty months old heir of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh has not been found.

2—There is nothing to indicate that authorities have any knowledge of his whereabouts.

3—And despite various reports, there is no definite information that the kidnapers ever have communicated with the Lindberghs since they stole "the most famous baby in the world" from his crib last Tuesday night.

Details Kept Secret Complete information of the progress of the hunt for the child was becoming more difficult to obtain because of an apparent lack of full details on the part of the State Police in whose charge the hunt is presumed to be.

A brief announcement Saturday over the Lindbergh signatures that "Salvy" Spitalo and Irving Bitz had authority to act as "go-betweens" in negotiations for the baby's return, apparently was an action taken independent of the authorities, for the latter professed ignorance of the action.

Spitalo and Bitz have been looked upon as gang allies in the past. They were named by Jack (Legs) Diamond in a statement to a newspaper which was published posthumously.

WOULD WITHDRAW SLEUTHS IF ASKED

New Jersey's Chief Executive Asks Newspapers To "Lay Off" Case For a While—No Real Evidence That Lindbergh Baby Is Alive, He Declares — Parents Arrange With Underworld Leaders To Help In Search But Police Have Nothing To Do With That Angle — Johnson, Man Arrested in Hartford, Is Questioned By Jersey Investigators.

Trenton, N. J., March 7.—(AP)—Governor A. Harry Moore told newspapermen today that he was powerless to grant immunity to the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby but added that he would be willing to withdraw the police if Col. Charles A. Lindbergh should request it.

The governor received reporters at their request in his chambers in the State House.

The first question was whether he would promise immunity if Col. Lindbergh himself should ask it.

"I have no more authority than you to do that," he replied.

"No one can give a pass to break the law. A law is a law. Only a grand jury, by refusing to indict, can grant immunity."

In response to further questions the governor said he would be willing to withdraw the police if Col. Lindbergh should make such a request and he further expressed the opinion that if the newspapers would "lay off" the authorities might "get somewhere."

Publicity Harmful. "At first the publicity was wonderful," he said, "but now because of the many wild statements it is harmful. Personally I think if you all laid off for a couple of weeks we would get somewhere."

When it was suggested to him that the "wild statements" were directly attributable to discrepancies in information given out by the police, the governor said: "No, it is the human equation that enters in."

He was next asked whether there was any basis for the police belief that the baby was alive, expressed at Hopewell today by Police Capt. J. J. Lamb.

No Real Evidence. "We have no tangible evidence that the child is alive," he replied.

"We are watching the case every minute and there are no new developments. We are cooperating with the Lindberghs all the time. My idea is to put every resource of state and nation in the case. The forces of the Secret Service are working throughout the country."

Governor Moore said he knew nothing of the reasons for arrangements made by the Lindberghs to have Salvatore Spitalo and Irving Bitz act as underworld go-betweens.

He said some "very good suggestions" had been made by crime experts of 10 states whom he called into conference last week.

"They have pledged themselves to cooperate to rush everything through," he said.

He concluded the interview with the statement that he had seen no ransom note and knew nothing of any note left by the kidnapers. As to contacting police reports concerning the existence of such a note he said he would speak to H. Norman Schwartzkopf, superintendent of state police.

He said he believed Schwartzkopf would make an official statement about the matter provided there was no "police reason" to prevent him.

ESTATE IS DESERTED. Hopewell, N. J., March 7.—(AP)—The bleak Saurland hills surrounding the Lindbergh estate were almost deserted today as a snowstorm replaced the driving rain of yesterday.

A layer of ice under a thin coating of snow made the roads hazardous and even the most experienced motorists hesitated before attempting to negotiate the almost impassable highway to the Lindbergh estate.

The snow was driven by a stiff wind from the northwest and the barometer had dropped to 28 1-2, considered very low for this section. Old residents feared a March blizzard. The temperature was moderately cold.

Severe Weather. During the night the weather became so severe that state police, apparently assuming not even the hardest would venture forth, withdrew the guard from the barrier two miles from the entrance to the Lindbergh estate.

There is no shelter at that point. The guard at the entrance to the estate, however, maintained its vigil.

Police cars were virtually the only vehicles that attempted to negotiate the hazardous road. Their progress was painfully slow.

The highway is a narrow hilly one difficult to drive even under favorable conditions. There isn't sufficient room for two cars to pass each other without one driving into the ditch.

So, with the snowstorm and falling temperature adding almost insurmountable barriers to motor travel, state police felt confident their task of keeping the curious from the estate today was a simple one.

CONFLICTING REPORTS Hopewell, N. J., March 7.—(AP)—Has ransom been demanded for the Lindbergh baby?

Capt. J. J. Lamb of the state police said definitely today that no such demand had ever been made.

But last week a civilian friend of Col. Lindbergh, closer to him than any police official, said just as definitely that a ransom note had been left by the kidnapers.

Who is right, and what is the purpose of the one who has given misleading information?

Did the civilian informant, who would not let his name be used, think that by erroneously announcing a ransom demand had been made he could hurry the kidnapers into making his demands known lest some impostor reap the reward of his crime?

Using the Press. Was Capt. Lamb following the common police procedure of using the press to mislead the criminal? Did he think that by saying no ransom note had been received he could make the kidnapers believe the first note (if there was one) had blown away and send another which might simplify the police hunt?

This matter of the ransom note is but one phase of the case concerning which divergent reports have been made by police and private investigators. The police situation is complicated by the fact that the investigation at the Lindbergh estate is being participated in not only by the state constabulary but also by detectives from Newark and Jersey City.

In several instances information obtained from police of one of these cities has not jibed with statements by police of the other city or by the state police.

At today's press conference Capt. Lamb was asked when it would be possible to secure an interview with Col. Lindbergh to clear up numerous discrepancies.

"There are no discrepancies given out from here," Capt. Lamb replied, and would say no more.

SENATE DISCUSSES CASE Washington, March 7.—(AP)—The Senate judiciary committee today postponed action on a bill to make interstate kidnaping a Federal offense punishable by death believing that to act on it now would endanger safe returns of the Lindbergh baby.

For more than an hour the committee discussed the Lindbergh case and the pending bill by Senator Patterson, (R. Mo.), and concluded that to pass on it now would frighten the kidnapers, add to the agitation and publicity and work against the child's safe return.

Chairman Norris (R. Neb.), also pointed out that any action which might be taken on the bill would not apply to the Lindbergh case anyway as it would not be retroactive.

"The committee," he said, "favors some legislation on the subject but

EX-GOVERNOR DEAD AT SOUTHINGTON AFTER LONG ILLNESS; WOULD HAVE BEEN 88 NEXT NOVEMBER.

BIG CAMPAIGN ON AGAINST HOARDING

Million Volunteers Start Out To Sell Treasury Notes To General Public.

Chicago, March 7.—(AP)—A million volunteers of the citizens' reconstruction organization began to canvass the nation today to sell the government to the people and put more than a billion idle dollars back to work in industry and commerce.

They sang a song of optimism of returning jobs and of better business—and a big talking point was an offering of United States Treasury notes of denominations to suit most pocketbooks, as low as $50, bearing 2 per cent interest redeemable on 60 days' notice. The certificates go on sale March 10.

"We're an employment agency for idle dollars," Chairman Frank Knox said of the drive last night. "If their owners do not wish to employ them in normal ways, the United States government will give them work and pay interest too."

Although the war against hoarding opened in earnest today, throughout the weeks of organization during which appeals through the press, the radio, the mails and posters were made, many hoarded dollars have found their way into banks from pieces of hiding, Knox said.

NO DEMAND FOR RANSOM MADE ON THE LINDBERGH

Nor Have They Received Any Communication From Kidnapers — Police Answer Long List of Questions.

Hopewell, N. J., March 7.—(AP)—Capt. J. J. Lamb of the State police announced today that no demand for ransom has ever been made for the kidnaped Lindbergh baby and that neither the Lindberghs nor the police have ever had any communication from the kidnapers.

This statement was in direct contradiction of information given out by investigating forces at the Lindbergh estate last week that a note had been pinned to the nursery window all demanding ransom and threatening harm to the baby if the text of the note was made public.

It was reported this note demanded $50,000 for the baby's return but this never was officially confirmed.

Capt. Lamb made his announcement today at the morning press conference.

ALCORN IS SILENT AT HARTFORD

Johnson Grilled For 30 Hours and Then Secretly Taken To New Jersey.

Hartford, March 7.—(AP)—State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn and County Detective Edward J. Hickey were understood to be continuing their inquiry today into the story told them by Henry (Red) Johnson, held for questioning about the Lindbergh baby kidnaping.

"We'll be hard at work tomorrow," Alcorn told newspapermen last night after he finished a conference with Hickey, who had taken Johnson to Englewood, N. J., after he had been grilled here for nearly thirty hours.

Alcorn said he could give out no information on the case, and declined to elaborate on his plans for further action.

Car Still Held Johnson's car was still held at the county building. The man himself was spirited away from a cell on the basement floor late Saturday afternoon while the building was filled with newspapermen.

Hickey and Chief Joseph Grogan of West Hartford took him by automobile to Englewood, where he later was turned over to authorities at Newark. The two officers remained over night in New Jersey, giving detectives of that state a full report on the result of their questioning of the sailor, friend of Miss Betty Gow, the baby's nurse.

In the conference yesterday afternoon with Alcorn, Hickey and Grogan were Dr. Henry N. Costello, Hartford medical examiner; Benedict M. Holden, attorney, and Probate Judge Walter Clark. It was not announced what connection the last three men had with the case.

John Johnson of West Hartford, brother of the sailor, who arrived at his home Wednesday, emphasized that the visit was not unexpected. He said Henry Johnson had told them several days previously he was coming to see them.

FORMER SLAVE DIES IN HIS 86TH YEAR

Putnam Man Acted As Powder Monkey During the Monitor-Merrimac Battle.

Putnam, March 7.—(AP)—Thomas L. Taylor who was born a slave and served as "powder monkey" on the ironclad Monitor in its historic engagement with the Confederate vessel Merrimac, died today in his 86th year.

His death was indirectly due to a holdup and beating he experienced in Worcester on Christmas night. Two men hammered him with a blackjack and robbed him of $90. He was in a hospital for a time and after discharge came here and was befriended by Mrs. George L. Miller who is active in work of the women's relief corps.

Last Survivor Taylor probably was the last survivor of the Merrimac-Monitor engagement. Last August the Associated Press reported the death from Raleigh, N. C., of W. F. Blake, aged 81, who was said to be the last survivor of the conflict.

Taylor was born in Currituck county, North Carolina. He was 14 when Fort Sumter was fired on. He and another slave stole their master's best saddle horse and went to Richmond, Va.

Taylor became a messenger for an officer on the Monitor and had a berth on the "Yankee Cheese Box" as it was called by all.

DEATHS IN WAKE OF FREAK STORM

Coast Guardsmen Swept From Ship — Many Ships Lost Off the Coast.

By Associated Press Early spring braggarts ate crow today from an icy plate.

The odds to spring they sang under the spell of last week's warm winds and smiling skies turned into bitter Philipps against wicked weather.

Climate enthusiasts of Dixie had snow to worry over. Northern states heard near-zero gales slipping through the eaves. The Atlantic seaboard was a fury.

The snow-flecked wind's whistle turned to a threnody off Atlantic City when two Coast Guardsmen hurtled to death from a craft aloop in seeking the missing sloop Anna. Half a hundred other sailors went on the missing list as the storm smote vessels big and little.

The storm spelled death to at least six. A farmer stumbled in Georgia and drowned in the rain. A boy died in Florida as the blustering blasts smashed his home.

Sponge Fleet Missing Part of Florida's sponge fleet, prone to disappearance vanished.

Four shrimp boats went down in the same locality. The wind toppled Uncle Sam's flagpole off the Treasury building.

Candle light flickered by Maryland firesides as lines went dead. Snow choked roads in several states saw motorists waiting all night for rescue. Frost whitened even the

COOLIDGE SUIT POSTPONED TODAY

Action Against Former President Is Put Off Until April 4, Lawyer Says.

Northampton, Mass., March 7.—(AP)—Entry of a $100,000 suit against former President Calvin Coolidge and the New York Life Insurance Company brought by Lewis B. Tibbets, St. Louis, Mo., insurance agent was postponed today until April 4.

The delay was announced by Charles E. Weinberg, Springfield, counsel for Tibbets, and means that the former president and the N. Y. Life Insurance Co. will not be required to file an answer until April 25.

Mr. Coolidge and the insurance company of which he is a director, are charged by Tibbets with damaging his business and reputation. Tibbets asks $50,000 each for compensatory and punitive damages.

A radio address by the former president and pamphlets of the address, printed and distributed by the New York company form the basis of the action. Tibbets has alleged, according to Weinberg, that Mr. Coolidge in a radio talk indirectly referred to Tibbets and his insurance methods.

High Winds and Waves Cause Damage in State

By Associated Press. Waves pounded the Connecticut shores and a high wind which did full credit to the month of March disrupted utility services during the week-end as a storm of gale-like proportion swept the state as a part of the disturbance which involved the entire Atlantic seaboard.

NO IMMUNITY FOR KIDNAPERS

(Continued From Page One) we don't think it is opportune to do it now. The committee feels this way about the Lindbergh case: that there is so much publicity that even if the abductors wanted to get in touch with them and bring the baby back they could not do it without getting caught.

Chairman Norris said further that he would not vote for a measure which makes a death penalty mandatory for kidnaping and added he does not think the committee would report such a measure.

ANOTHER WRONG CLUE

Waukegan, Ill., March 7.—(AP)—A third of the way across the continent last night a telephone wire hummed with information about a baby boy with crinkly blond hair.

At one end was Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. At the other was Dr. John Foley, Waukegan city health officer.

"He reached for the telephone," said the doctor.

"That's what he'd do," said Lindbergh.

"Brown eyes," continued the physician.

"Brown eyes?" and the voice of the flying colonel trailed off. There was a conference between Lindbergh and Captain J. J. Lamb of the New Jersey state police. Assured that the eyes were brown, Captain Lamb suggested that the baby, who proved to be Earl K. Woodley, Jr., be allowed to continue with his parents to their home in Minneapolis.

The Woodleys were enroute by automobile from Toledo when the suspicions of a hotel manager were aroused. He called Sheriff Lester Tiffany, and the latter telephoned Lindbergh.

Col. Lindbergh suggested the physician's examination, and an experiment with a telephone. Baby Woodley, like the Lindbergh child, is a telephone addict. He reached for a telephone.

But his eyes are brown and Baby Lindbergh's are blue.

TIP FROM NORWALK

Norwalk, March 7.—(AP)—Jimmy Bistany, owner of a restaurant in the Boston Post road, between Stamford and Norwalk, told the Norwalk police department today that on last Tuesday night about 11:30 o'clock he sold a bottle of milk to a man, who was accompanied by a woman and a baby, in a green Chrysler coupe. From newspaper descriptions of Henry (Red) Johnson, which he read in the Sunday papers, Bistany said that he is reasonably sure it was the same man.

The man came into the restaurant and asked for a bottle of milk, Bistany said. He then wanted to know if he could have hot milk and when questioned he said it was for the baby. Mr. Bistany asked him if he wanted a little sugar in it and he went outside and returned with an affirmative answer.

He handed Bistany a quarter and with the change he purchased a package of cigarettes and drove away.

FERNINO'S STORY

Bridgeport, March 7.—(AP)—John Fernino, 27, of this city, who claims he rode from New York to Bridgeport with Henry "Red" Johnson Wednesday morning is being questioned this afternoon at police headquarters today by Captain John Regan, Supt. Char. Wheeler and two New Jersey police, Sergeant E. Zapolsky and Detective A. Strong.

Fernino who resides in a rooming house in this city, says he was riding on a trolley car last night and happened to see a picture of "Red" on the front page of a newspaper a woman was reading.

"I know that man," he told the woman. "I rode from New York to Bridgeport with him Wednesday."

"Why don't you tell police?" the woman asked.

When Fernino got off the trolley car he approached Sergeant John Halpin of the traffic bureau and after telling his story was taken to Captain Regan. New Jersey police were immediately notified. According to Fernino he was hitch hiking to Connecticut.

QUESTION WOMEN

New York, March 7.—(AP)—Two women and a doctor were questioned at the Astoria, Queens, police headquarters today about a remark one of the women was reported to have made regarding the Lindbergh kidnaping.

Police declined to identify the three persons and the alleged remark was not made public.

A man whose identity was not disclosed, overheard the remark and notified police. The woman who made it, believed to be a nurse, was

MOTOR VEHICLES HEAD GUEST HERE

Commissioner Stoeckel Is Speaker At Kiwanis Meeting This Noon.

The meeting of the Kiwanis club this noon offered a trio of attractions to the members, in that it was the opening day of the annual attendance contest, it gave them an opportunity to inspect the new Y. M. C. A. building and also to hear a talk by Robbin B. Stoeckel, commissioner of motor vehicles of Connecticut for the past seventeen years.

A splendid chicken pie dinner was served by the women of the Y. M. C. A., in charge of Miss Christine Mason, which was thoroughly enjoyed by the Kiwanians. The attendance prize, donated by J. Burr, was won by William Knotha. The attendance was very good and a close contest is expected between the three teams, captained by Charles Burr, Everett Keith and James Turabian.

Mr. Stoeckel proved a fluent and interesting speaker and in his talk narrated much of the activity of the motor vehicle department since it was created 17 years ago. He said that the department had practically unknown in his department, although less automobiles were registered last year than in 1930. The prosperous condition of the department he attributed to the fact that automobiles have become a necessity to the people and not a luxury.

The speaker said that the rapid increase in the number of automobiles has brought about the improvement of highways throughout the state. The roads most used were improved first and this policy is now being followed by the highway department in the matter of improvement of dirt roads.

Mr. Stoeckel said that the motor vehicle department is now as well housed as any department of the kind in the country and that it is in a position to give the best possible service to the public.

Accidents Biggest Problem. The greatest problem of the department, he said, is that of accidents and he regretted to admit that the progress towards solution of this problem had been slower than expected. Applicants for drivers' licenses are being given a stricter examination and character is being stressed more than ever before. The speaker stated that 85 out of every hundred applicants develop into good drivers but the remaining 15 percent cause trouble. He divided these drivers into two classes, the overconfident and the timid and said that they were responsible for a major portion of accidents. The department, he said, has examined 1,600 applicants a month since last July.

Mr. Stoeckel said that more attention will be paid to discipline and that a determined effort will be made to obtain the cooperation of every driver on the road. Mr. Stoeckel has already begun this work through conferences with bus companies and commercial companies and appeals to individual drivers. The success of the department in this work, he said, means greater happiness and welfare of the people through elimination of accidents.

SEARCH BOARDING HOUSE

Saco, Maine, March 7.—(AP)—A baby boarding house operated here by Mrs. Howard Pinkham, a resident of New York, was searched today by New York police in the Lindbergh kidnaping case, was searched today.

Chief of Police Charles H. Goodwin and two patrolmen made the search. Only two children, about 3 years old were found.

VATICAN ANXIOUS

Vatican City, March 7.—(AP)—The Lindbergh kidnaping has caused a deep feeling of sympathy among the officials of the Vatican.

"It was an execrable crime, certain to horrify anyone of the most elementary sentiments of humanity," Monsignor Ottaviani, papal under-secretary of state, said today. He expressed the hope that the child would be returned soon.

MOST SUCCESSFUL AUTO SHOW ENDS

Attendance and Volume of Sales Break All Records, Dealers Report.

An average daily attendance of 1250 persons was recorded during the four days of the Golden Opportunity Automobile Show which closed at the S. State Armory Saturday night and the total attendance exceeded 5000 persons. The show will go down in the history of the Automotive Division of the Chamber of Commerce as the most successful ever held locally, from both the standpoint of attendance and volume of sales.

It was reported today that twenty-one actual sales were made by the ten automobile dealers who exhibited at the show and that numerous prospective buyers were obtained. Accessory men and local merchants who displayed merchandise were also complimentary over the amount of business created by the show.

By actual count, slightly less than a thousand persons attended the show on Saturday afternoon and evening, bringing the total recorded attendance to 5000. However, no check was made between the hours of 5 o'clock and 7 o'clock in the evening, when additional hundreds inspected the various exhibits.

Bill Waddell's orchestra furnished music Saturday night until 10:30 o'clock, the closing hour of the show. Immediately afterwards, the exhibitors removed their displays and today the decorations and booths are being dismantled.

LOCAL MAN IS FINED ON A LOTTERY CHARGE

C. S. Tomm Convicted In East Hartford of Having Tickets In Possession; Taxed $50 and Costs.

Clarence S. Tomm of this town was fined $10 and costs in East Hartford police court this morning on a charge of having lottery tickets in his possession last Saturday. He was arrested by Lieut. Max Knie of the East Hartford police Saturday at 419 Connecticut Boulevard and was released under bonds of $500 for his appearance this morning.

At the time of his arrest he admitted selling lottery tickets and had 100 tickets on his person when searched. He was represented in court this morning by Attorney William J. Shea.

TOWN SCHOOLS RE-OPEN AFTER WEEK'S VACATION

One More Vacation Before Term Ends In June—All Teachers Report For Duty.

Manchester public schools reopened today for a continuation of the school year which concludes in June. There will be only one more vacation before the year ends, that coming eight weeks from now. It starts on April 29.

The past week afforded many of the teachers who live far from here to go home and visit relatives. Those who live nearby often go home week-ends. Several Manchester teachers live in Maine. All reported back for duty today.

Local friends of Miss Annetta Louise Klee, received announcements today of her marriage to Charles Hugins, which took place in New York on Saturday at the Church of the Transfiguration. Miss Klee has taught in the Eighth District schools for a number of years.

MISS HELEN B. STRONG IS ENGAGED TO MARRY

Interior Decorator For Watkins Brothers To Wed John Hills Shaw, of West Hartford.

Of interest to Manchester people is news of the engagement of Miss Helen Bartholomew Strong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Norman Strong of 228 Edgewood street, Hartford, to John Hills Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Shaw of 215 Brace Road, West Hartford.

The wedding will be held at the home of Miss Strong, 471 North Main street, at 8:30 followed by a reception high mass at St. Bridget's. Rev. C. T. McCann celebrated the mass. A delegation from the Ladies' Polish Alliance headed by Mrs. Charles Klabanski, was present. They occupied nine cars in the funeral procession. At the offertory, Mrs. Margaret Shea sang, "Ave Marie" and at the end of the mass, "Some Sweet Day". The bearers were W. Placzarski, J. Ukasak, T. Opalach, M. Dubonowski, J. Zapata, and J. Pawchki. Burial was in St. Bridget's cemetery.

COURT BUSINESS TAKES NEW LIFE

Eight Cases On Docket This Morning—Disposed Of In An Hour.

March, so far, is apparently making good for the business lost in February in the police court. Over the week-end eight arrests were made by the police and this morning the cases were all disposed of in less than an hour. Of the eight cases five had to do with the motor vehicle laws. The most serious was that of Peter Krar of Glastonbury who is charged with driving without a license. He posted a bond of $150 for his appearance in court this morning. But when his case was called he failed to show up and accordingly Judge Ramond A. Johnson ordered the bond forfeited. Joseph Gardner who was with Krar also furnished a bond of $25 for intoxication and this too was declared forfeited.

George Coleman of 142 Birch street was found guilty of intoxication, breach of the peace and assault on his wife and sent to jail for 30 days. The room took place at the home Saturday evening. Mrs. Coleman was the principal witness and she was not any too willing to testify. She did admit, however, that her husband was drunk and that he had slapped her and also that he had abused his oldest daughter. He put the family out of the house. These rows are not infrequent, she admitted.

Lee Bukkus, 19 years old, of Wallingford was picked up by Officer Muske Saturday night in an intoxicated condition. It was the first time the young fellow was ever arrested. He is out of work and Judge Johnson gave him an opportunity to make good by suspending judgment.

Four other men were each fined $10 and costs for driving without a license. They were Peter Guerra of Hartford, Ernest S. Tyrrell of Bloomfield, Isaac Birnbaum of Tolland, Turpin, Manchester, and Edwin Fuller of Hartford.

LOCAL MOOSE ATTEND NEW HAVEN SESSION

Royally Entertained At Conference Held There Yesterday—Hear Fine Addresses.

A large delegation from the local chapter of the Women of the Moose and men from the Loyal Order of Moose made the trip by special bus yesterday to New Haven to attend a conference of the Loyal Order of Moose and their auxiliaries being held there. This conference was the second winter meeting to be held in the state of these orders. The attendance at this conference numbered about 400. Mrs. Johanna Hickether, Deputy Grand Recorder, of Irvington, New Jersey presided over the meeting.

Mrs. Elizabeth Roche, Sr. Regent of New Haven chapter and Dictator Herman Silverman of the New Haven lodge welcomed the visitors. Addresses were given by his honor John W. Murphy mayor of New Haven, Mrs. Johanna Hickether, Deputy Grand Recorder, Frank A. Montie, chairman of the state field day committee of South Manchester, and Dictator Herman Silverman of New Haven lodge. Mrs. Percy Walden, president of the civic association of New Haven gave a very interesting talk on child welfare.

A large class of candidates was initiated into the New Haven chapter in honor of Grand Recorder, Katherine Smith. The initiation work being conducted by the officers of the New Haven chapter and the new members were welcomed into the order by appropriate songs and remarks from honorary officers present. Mrs. Johanna Hickether, deputy grand recorder read a message from Grand Recorder, Miss Katherine Smith of Mooschook, III., who was unable to attend this meeting because of other business. Publicity clippings from other chapters were on exhibition and were read with much interest.

Musical selections were given by the children from the New Haven Institute of Music. The Brooklyn, N. Y. chapter had a large delegation in attendance, making the trip by special buses. Fancy drill exhibition were given by the degree team of the Brooklyn chapter, the Junior Legion of New Haven and by the City of Elms chapter of New Haven lodge of the L. O. M.

At 7 o'clock a roast beef supper was served by the New Haven lodge degree team. During the supper Frank A. Montie requested all present to arise and with heads bowed to offer a silent prayer for the safe return of the baby Charles A. Lindbergh. A New Haven quartet gave a number of vocal selections during the banquet.

An informal reception was held following the supper. Yesterday's conference opened at 9 o'clock in the morning and continued through until a late hour last night. The Manchester delegation left at noon for New Haven to attend the afternoon and evening sessions, they returned home at 11 o'clock last night.

The American Legion auxiliary will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in the State Armory. Mrs. Clifford Saulit urges all members who have finished squares for "Grandmother's Flower Garden" quilt to return them at this meeting.

In Diamond Case. Spitalo was questioned late last year in connection with the Lindbergh murder but was not held.

Some newspapers saw in the announcement an indication that Colonel Lindbergh had heard directly from the abductors and that the naming of Spitalo and Bittz was the result of such communication.

This morning's New York American said a communication "accepted as a valid message" from the child's captors had reached the Lindberghs and that it gave assurance that "the baby is alive and safe."

However, early today Captain J. J. Larnob of the State Police was asked: "Has any communication purporting to come from the kidnapers and stating that the baby is 'alive and well' been received?"

His reply was: "No such messages have been received by this department."

Spitalo spent Sunday visiting numerous hangouts where outlaws are known to hang out, and in passing the word to his allies to be on the watch for any word of the kidnaping.

"If this was a professional job," he said, "I think it will be able to obtain the baby's release. If amateurs did it, I am not so sure. They might not be willing to trust me."

Johnson Still Held. Henry (Red) Johnson, the sailor friend of Miss Betty Gow, nursemaid to the stolen baby, still was detained early today. He was arrested in Hartford, Conn., late last week when police found his automobile and a milk bottle in it. He has been questioned at great length since that time, both by Connecticut and New Jersey authorities. Today he was held by Newark police. There was no indication that he had made any statements involving either himself or Miss Gow in the kidnaping.

A statement by Johannes Junge, husband of a seamstress employed at the home of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow (Mrs. Lindbergh's mother), in Hartford, Conn., that he had seen Johnson from suspicion as a participant in the kidnaping. Junge said he and Johnson went to the Morrow home last Tuesday night—the night of the kidnaping—about 9 o'clock, and that Johnson telephoned Miss Gow from there. When she told him she could not see him that night, Johnson took Junge for a ride in his newly purchased automobile. They drove around Englewood, Junge said, until midnight.

The abduction occurred sometime between 8:30 and 10 p. m. Not Completed Yet.

When Captain Lamb of the state police was asked today what the result of the questioning of Johnson had been, he replied: "The questioning is not completed as yet."

Spitalo and Bittz are the only two go-between the Lindberghs have singled out by name. Scores of others, however, have offered their services and have promised to protect the interests of the kidnapers so long as the child is returned unharmed. Every church in America—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish—has been designated by spokesmen for each as ready and anxious to receive the baby into their care with no questions asked.

Dudley Field Malone, prominent international lawyer; Bernard MacFadden, publisher; Warden Laws of Sing Sing Prison; Mrs. Charles Lindbergh, Sr., of Detroit (grandmother of the baby); and many others have been designated as ready to serve as intermediaries. Pat Crowe, who was acquitted when tried for the Cudaby kidnaping in Kansas many years ago, was one of the first to offer his services.

General Advice. The general advice of those in authority as well as of well wishers has been that the return of the baby is of such transcendent importance that any thought of arrest and conviction of the kidnapers is not now a matter of consideration. The Lindberghs themselves have followed this reasoning from the outset, and have indicated their willingness to meet the kidnapers' terms, whatever they may be.

In the absence of definite word that any communication has been received from the kidnapers, some authorities today were considering the possibility that ransom was not the object of the kidnaping. The history of previous kidnapings has been that the abductors invariably communicated with the parents immediately. The absence of direct and reliable word from them within six days was seen by some as pointing to the possibility that the abduction was motivated solely by a desire

CULBERTSON PUPIL TO TEACH BRIDGE HERE

Mrs. Clifford W. Gay To Give Class Or Private Lessons At The Hotel Sheridan.

Manchester bridge enthusiasts will be interested in the fact that an accredited Culbertson teacher, Mrs. Clifford W. Gay, is living in town, at the Hotel Sheridan for the present. Mr. Gay is merchandise manager for the J. W. Hale Company. Mrs. Gay has had extensive experience as an instructor of both contract and auction bridge, both class and individual work. She has had much success in coaching bridge clubs, and her rates for class and individual instruction are most reasonable. She intends to give private lessons in the homes of pupils or at her rooms in the Hotel Sheridan.

MONDAY, MARCH 7.

MARCUS H. HOLOMBE

Marcus H. Holcomb, war governor of Connecticut, will be remembered as long as this generation shall survive, as an outstanding example of unbending fidelity to a rigid code of honor in office.

The unusual personal dignity of the man, approaching austerity; his extraordinarily sound judgment, sometimes arrived at only after laborious study; the great depth of his quiet friendship; his deep appreciation of disinterested friendship directed to himself—these characteristics of the fine old war governor become minor matters when considered in the light of his measuring of the responsibilities of government.

Connecticut has never had a governor who gave more of himself to the discharge of the duties of his office than Marcus H. Holcomb. It is not too much to say that she never had a better one.

With high courage and grim determination he followed his unyielding code in the discharge of his public duties as he had, throughout his entire career, in his private life. And in the late evening of his days he bravely carried on, despite failing health and growing infirmities, a gallant, honorable gentleman, beloved of the people of this State for qualities as admirable as they are rare.

THE TAX RATE

At the adjourned annual town meeting tonight the voters of Manchester will be called on to fix the tax rate for the coming fiscal year. The duty is a serious one and, like a good many other duties, one likely to be more effectively and wisely performed if approached in a courageous spirit than if handled too cautiously. Caution is an admirable quality but it is blood kin to one much less admirable—cowardice.

The budget to be presented by the Selectmen will be, it is expected, accompanied by a recommendation of a 17 mill tax. It is extremely doubtful that a 17 mill tax will meet the actual requirements of the situation.

If such a tax should produce every dollar of the revenue which it is theoretically capable of producing, it would take the closest kind of figuring to meet all expenditures and avoid a deficit. Frankly it is improbable that it will bring in that complete theoretical revenue. There are a good many people in Manchester who will not be able to pay their taxes this year unless conditions very suddenly and very materially improve. The percentage of uncollectible lists will, almost certainly, go up.

The addition of another mill to the tax rate would not be welcome to most quarters, to be sure, but it would not, in many instances, be a serious hardship to those who are able to pay the 17 mill rate. And it would make a very great difference, in all likelihood, in the fiscal situation of the town before the end of the coming year.

In this there is no suggestion of the spending of a single dollar of public money, because of an 18 mill rate, that would not have to be spent under a 17 mill rate. We are not urging the increase of any appropriation by so much as a dime. But we do not believe that Manchester can afford to risk a deficit. And if by a miracle there should be a full collection, then any small surplus that might develop could be employed to the further reduction of the town's indebtedness and the wiping out of a little more of that always hungry and always consuming thing, the interest account.

It would be far better to adopt an eighteen mill tax—a rate which in comparison with those of most other municipalities is low—and insure the preservation of our credit and standing than to shave the tax a mill and end ourselves up against the same kind of tail-pulling necessities that have so injured the credit of many American communities.

"PRIVATE MATTER"

The action of Colonel Lindbergh in turning to the underworld for assistance in the recovery of his kidnaped baby carries with it implication more far reaching, it is to be assumed, than the distracted parent could possibly have realized. No doubt nine out of ten fathers would do the same thing if somehow or other led to believe that it provided the one way of getting the child back. But it is a proceeding to take away the breath of the law abiding citizen just the same. Possibly later developments will cast a new and more favorable light upon it.

That there has been no disposition on the part of the public to spit hairs in the interest of law observance, in this whole kidnaping matter, is indicated by the fact that there was not a breath of criticism from any quarter when Colonel Lindbergh appealed to the kidnapers to accept ransom under promise of immunity. Yet if ever there was such a thing as compounding a felony this was it. Universal popular opinion, however, sanctioned such proceeding in view of the end sought.

When, however, it is proposed to displace the whole organization of the law and turn the task of recovery over to that sinister element with which organized society has been conducting a losing war for ten years, it becomes a serious question whether even the emotions of a bereaved parent have any right to weigh against the infinite harm done to our whole social system.

If Lindbergh's baby should be restored to him through this stroke the Gang and the Racket will be formally coronated as twin rulers of America and the forces of law and order, already tottering, will become utterly discredited. Next to Lindbergh the greatest man in America will be, in view of the rabble, the crook who because of his crook-wisdom was able to turn up the missing baby.

Nothing is clearer than that this kidnaper hunt has gotten completely out of hand. When Colonel Lindbergh takes the position that the crime is a "private matter," as the New Jersey police say he does, his anxiety and perhaps to some degree his self centeredness are leading him into precarious paths. All the machine gunning in Gangdom is "private matter," too.

ARISTIDE BRIAND

In the death of Aristide Briand France loses her ablest and most resolute champion of peace—and the extent of the loss of the world is not to be computed.

For years it has been the one great purpose of the great French diplomat to bring about in both France and the Central Powers the realization not only that there must be no more wars between them but that the prosperity and the advancing civilizations of all of them depended on economic co-operation and political good understanding. To this end he strove far beyond his physical strength. He wore out his life in desperate efforts to attain it.

He has left behind him the impress of a master mind devoted to a master thought. Utter patriot as he was and completely devoted to the well being of France, he sowed the seeds of permanent international comity in Continental Europe which, it is easy to believe, will one day bear splendid fruit.

REMAKING THE MAP

More Japanese divisions landing at Shanghai and more on the way provide no surprise whatever for any but that handful of individuals, if it exists, which still retains the notion that the Japanese, when on political purpose bent, may sometimes speak one word of truth.

It is perfectly apparent that Japan intends to go just as far and just as fast in the subjugation of China as opportunity permits. She has already made sure of the full control of the lower Yangtze Valley. If the Chinese themselves cannot stop her—and it is very doubtful if they can now organize in time to do anything of the kind—she will be as firmly in the saddle in China proper as she is in Manchuria before the Western powers realize what has happened.

While all America is devoting its whole thought to the whereabouts of a stolen baby and all Europe to mutual suspicions over frontiers Japan is remaking the geographic and economic map of the world.

HOARDING DRIVE

One of the most interesting undertakings, from a psychological standpoint, that has been entered into since the beginning of the war upon the depression is the drive against hoarding. It is doubtful if there is, in the history of this or any other country, any record of success for an effort to set free hoarded funds by the force of sheer argument. If this drive accomplishes such a result it will establish a precedent.

To our way of thinking the people who pack away their money in socks, teapots or safe deposit vaults wouldn't be doing that thing if they were the kind of people who are amenable to argument or appeal. They are that way because they are that way—and they will remain that way.

That the baby bonds will pull out some of the hoarded money is highly probable. Two per cent as contrasted with the nothing per cent paid by the sock or the deposit vault is the kind of argument that such folks can understand. They can also understand that a United States bond bearing interest is as good security and a better investment than the government bond bearing no interest—which is all the dollar bill is.

But words, mere words? Why waste them?

Washington—Brav ry, ability and sincerity is a combination not common among the job-holding politicians of Washington. It is likely to mean defeat in the next election when the constituency finds out about it. But there are a few such men here who manage to stay on the job.

Congressman Charles Robert Crisp of Georgia, usually called "Judge" or "Charlie," is one. Lately he has been getting a vast amount of attention because he became acting chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee when Chairman Collier of Mississippi took sick.

He is in command of the task of devising methods of raising new taxes amounting to billions of dollars.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McLOY

WHAT IS AN ADHESION?

Have you ever seen a plant that became unhealthy because it was "root-bound?" When the roots are tangled and batted together and the plant becomes undermined and sickly. In a way, about the same thing happens when a patient's intestines become grown together by adhesions do not move and function normally, but become all bound up, and the same thing happens to the human being that happens to the plant; he becomes sick.

Many people hear about adhesions but they really do not know what an adhesion is. The first step in the formation of the ordinary variety of adhesions is prolapsus. As the stomach and the intestines sag down into the pelvis, they become crowded and the surfaces of the various organs rub on each other. After sufficient rubbing, inflammation sets in and as always happens when inflammation is present the blood vessels throw out a great deal of lymph.

When adhesions have formed, the parts where the greatest irritation was located have healed by means of scar tissue, which is formed by the lymph changing into a thick, tough substance which is a fibrous tissue. Whenever the scar tissue forms it binds the two surfaces in such a way that they are truly grown together. It is the rule for several adhesions to be found at one site. An adhesion really represents a successful effort at healing an inflammation by the formation of scar tissue.

Adhesions may be found around the gall bladder, bowels, uterus, appendix, injured joints and around healed surgical incisions. While many patients believe their adhesions are the result of an operation, it is undoubtedly true that the majority of adhesions are the results of prolapsus or inflammation and are found in patients who have never been operated upon.

One of the most far reaching effects of intestinal adhesions is a severe constipation, resulting from the interference with normal movements of the bowels, due to binding, kinking, or narrowing of the inside of the bowels, any of which may obstruct the normal passage of the bowel contents.

The presence of "Attic" adhesions around the gall bladder may cause a distressing illness which is hard to diagnose from other gall bladder disorders and stomach ulcers.

Adhesions are often an important obstacle against recovery where the art is crippled with rheumatism or arthritis, as in such a case the adhesion may become a focal point of infection. The intestinal toxemia which is the real cause of most types of rheumatism becomes much worse where adhesions are plentiful and a complete cure, especially with arthritis, is often impossible until the adhesions of the bowels are broken or loosened.

Surgery is not usually necessary where internal adhesions are present. Bloodless surgery by means of manipulative treatments has been remarkably successful in hundreds of cases under my observation. In tomorrow's article I will discuss this beneficial type of treatment. It is always good to know of this method for the treatment of adhesions, as you may sometimes be in need of

IN NEW YORK

A Perfect Gorilla
New York, March 7.—Strange, indeed, are many of the off-stage tales that theater folk tell.
There's the one, for instance, about Allen Jenkins. Jenkins made a large hit just the other night in one of the newer Broadway shows. He appeared as a Chicago gorilla imported for a New York gang job. Critics and audience gave him a great big hand. Here was the "toughest" gent on the stage; an almost perfect characterization! He looked like a thug in his make-up and he acted like one. Jenkins started home feeling pretty good.

Meets a "Pro"
Jenkins lives up town, somewhere in the hundred-and-thirties! To enter his apartment he must pass through a darkened lobby. As he swung open the door, something hit him. When he regained consciousness he was lying chilled and hurt on the floor. His overcoat was gone; so were his watch and money and ring and tie-pin.
On the first night that he had been a stage bruiser, a real live yegg had robbed him.

Another Gabriel Gone
It's strange, too, how death seems to stalk the actors who have been playing the role of the "Angel Gabriel" in "Green Pastures."

The first one to have this role was crossing the street, hurrying to the theater, when an automobile sped around the corner. Unlike Gabriel, no horn was tooted. The actor was knocked to the street and was dead within a few days.

An understudy took the role. The show went on tour. And just the other night he came back from Cincinnati the body of Samuel Davis, who had been playing Gabriel during the road tour.

He's Persistent, Anyway
For some years, radio studios have employed a couple of chaps who could imitate birds and cats and dogs.

There was one fellow who kept coming around trying to get a chance, but various inventors had come along to supply noises; and when noises were needed there were always the recognized experts. But studio folk felt sorry for the gent who kept coming back and back—so they finally gave him a chance to pound a gong. But the gent's thespian pride got the better of him.

The first time he went on the air he couldn't resist the temptation to show how good he was at imitations. Not only did he bark the chimes, but he also whanged like a dog.

There was nothing to do but fire him.

Wants Original Role

The episode was considered so funny that a playwright gagged it up and put it into a new show, "Wild Waves."
When it came time to cast the show, a number of types were rounded up for casting. Well—you've guessed it—the gent who had figured in the fantastic adventure showed up trying to get his original role.

Just a Voice

There's another show in town wherein the voice of a telephone operator comes booming through a radio loudspeaker. The actress is not seen.

The part is played by a girl who started with a small summer stock company up country, but upon reaching New York suffered from the not unusual malady of stage fright. In order to accustom herself to the stage she sits back of the wings and taps the role of "a voice."

PRICES ARE REDUCED ON FRIGIDAIRE'S

One Model Priced As Low As $130—Sales Were Deferred Because of Price.

Dayton, O., March 7.—Frigidaire Corporation today announced sweeping price reductions on its complete line of household refrigerators. The lowest priced model, the ML-4 is listed at $130, at the factory.

The drastic reductions were made as a result of a nation-wide survey which indicated that there are hundreds of thousands of people who would like to own a Frigidaire, but have deferred its actual purchase because of price, according to H. W. Newell, vice president in charge of sales, who made the announcement. "This information has convinced us that such people who are already familiar with the superior features of our product, will want to place orders immediately, when they learn of these new prices, which shatter all former standards in the electric refrigeration industry," he said. "In line with General Motors' policy of passing savings on to the consumer, we have anticipated the economies in manufacturing that can be effected by greatly increased production and are offering the public the advantage of these savings in advance."

Frigidaire Corporation brings sixteen years of manufacturing experience, its mammoth factories covering 53 acres of floor space, the talents of hundreds of engineers and its well known financial resources into service in making what is regarded as the most sensational announcement in the history of the refrigeration business. "It is facilities of such tremendous proportions that enables Frigidaire to provide the lowest priced quality refrigerators in the world," Mr. Newell continued. "The entire line of household Frigidaires have the same storage space, same freezing capacity, same ice trays, same shelf area and the same powerful two-cylinder compressors that have made Frigidaire known all over the world."

"Only the price has been changed. We have maintained our standards of workmanship, our standards of materials and all the features of our products. Nowhere is there any compromise with quality. In taking this step we are making it possible for those who know and want the best in refrigeration to have it. No longer will it be necessary for many to consider a so-called 'second choice' refrigerator, with a genuine Frigidaire to be had at the new price levels. This move further indicates the pioneering spirit that has been responsible for Frigidaire's many famed and important contributions to the economy, convenience and healthfulness of electric refrigeration. These contributions have won for it more than 2,000,000 users in all parts of the world."

"And now, by the most sensational step in our history, we have shattered all former standards of value and have made it possible for people to buy a good refrigerator, of high reputation at a low price and to do so without entertaining any doubts regarding its ice freezing capacity, its dependable operation and its ability to give life-time satisfaction. The Frigidaire nameplate is in itself a sufficient guarantee. That is why even the lowest priced model can be depended upon for long life, low current consumption, quick freezing or large quantities of ice and for unerring food preservation on the hottest of days and under all conditions." The widespread popularity of the Frigidaire line is best attested by the fact that in 1931 this company built more household models than during the previous year. A factory announcement stresses the point that Frigidaire follows the well known General Motors policy of assisting dealers to build a sound, profitable business, assuring permanent representation and readiness to extend customer service.

SWEDISH LODGES GIVE TEMPERANCE PLAY

Good Sized Audience In Orange Hall For Presentation Saturday Night of "Think of Mother."

More than 125 people attended the presentation of the Swedish play, "Think of Mother," at Orange hall Saturday night. The play was given by members of Norden Lodge, I. O. G. T., of New Britain, and sponsored by the Connecticut Grand Lodge and Enlight Lodge, No. 42, of this town. The play was in three acts and depicted the beauty of mother love and the evils of intoxicating liquor. Every member of the cast gave a splendid interpretation. The audience enjoyed every moment of the play to the utmost and showered compliments on the cast upon its conclusion.

Following the play, refreshments were served in the basement, after which dancing was enjoyed to music furnished by Norden Lodge. Visitors were present from Hartford, New Britain and Manchester. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Carl A. Anderson, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Otto Johnson, Algot Johnson, Mrs. Carl Egan, Henning Johnson and Mrs. Ellen Mo-dean.

Four continued cases were heard in the Rockville Police Court on Saturday morning by Judge John E. Fisk. John Yurgel, who was before the court two months ago on a charge of non-support, and who claimed at the time that he was not working, and whose case was continued until Saturday, will appear before the court on March 14. The case was again continued as it is thought by that time the men will have settled their grievance.

George Alszewski, charged with assault and battery, and breach of the peace, was discharged, the court adopting this measure in view of the fact that the man is unemployed and has a family.

Two Plays Tuesday

The Older Girls' Class of St. John's church will present two plays on Tuesday evening, March 8 at 8 o'clock in the parish rooms of the church on Ellington avenue. The proceeds are to go toward the annual Easter Missionary offering.

"Our Aunt 'rom California," is the first one to be presented, and is a one-act hilarious farce, the tale of a rich aunt desiring to secure one of three sisters to accompany her to Europe. Those taking part are Helen Underwood, Barbara Bronson, Inez Abrahamson, Barbara Theurer, Lillian Welz and Gertrude Wise.

The second play "Patsy," is a comedy in two acts. Patricia Muldoon or "Patsy" for short is a lovable Irish lassie. The story tells of various escapades that she gets into and the clever way she manages to extricate herself. Those in the cast are Inez Abrahamson, Barbara Bronson, Gertrude Wise, Lillian Welz, Barbara Theurer and Helen Underwood.

Tickets are on sale by the cast or the leader, Mrs. Franklin Harlow.

KEMP'S IS NAMED FRIGIDAIRE DEALER

Latest Models of Famous Electric Refrigerator Now On Display in Store Here.

Kemp's, Incorporated, local merchants are announcing today their appointment as Frigidaire dealers in this vicinity, by the Frigidaire Corporation, a subsidiary of General Motors Corporation. For some time the Frigidaire Corporation has been considering the appointment of another dealer in this town, and it was only after careful consideration that Kemp's Inc., were selected for the important task of handling this fine electric refrigerator locally.

Kemp's, Incorporated, have had marked success in the music and furniture business and have built up a clientele of the finest and highest character. Their reputation for having quality merchandise in their particular lines has become generally known and accepted, and because of this fact, it is not a surprise that they were selected as agents for the Frigidaire Electric Refrigerator.

Latest Frigidaire models are now on display at Kemp's, Inc., 783 Main street, and the public is cordially invited to see the display at their convenience. The complete line for 1932 is a very large one, there being eleven models, ranging from 3.7 cu. ft., to 18 cu. ft. in size. Frigidaire features are well known and this year's models contain these features; namely, lifetime porcelain inside and out; cold control for faster freezing; the hydrator for freshening vegetables; the quickcube tray for the easy removal of ice cubes, and many other important features which make this truly advanced refrigerator outstanding in value, convenience and economy. Frigidaire-Moraine, an addition to the regular line, offers Frigidaire advanced refrigeration in cabinets of Duco. Here is obtainable the known value—all the time-tested dependability and economy that the name Frigidaire assures at a sensational price. These attractive models offer the same artistic design which has made wives . . . The same type of power-Frigidaire so popular among householders. Frigidaire's quiet Frigidaire mechanism . . . the same type of high-speed freezing unit and a host of other advanced features, at a price easily within the means of everyone.

EVANGELIST OPENS FIERY CAMPAIGN

Rev. John Fleming Brings His Message To Manchester In Series of Revivals.

"That I may know Him, and the power of His resurrection, and the fellowship of His sufferings, being made conformable unto His death." Philipians 3:10.

Rev. John Fleming, of Kentucky, opened his two weeks' series of revival meetings here Sunday evening in a fresh battle against sin and unrighteousness in Manchester.

"I'm here with the same suit of clothes on," he said. "I'm preaching the same Gospel. Let's have a good old fashioned revival. What do you say? No, sir, I haven't changed a bit."

John Fleming, plain John Fleming as the Nazarene folk call him—complimented the little church body for their interest in the church by spending $10,000 for the new alterations.

"I always like to preach in a clean church," he said. "You serve notice on the world that you are alive—that God is working in your midst. We're going to have a good time. Don't you believe it."

John Fleming made reference to the world-wide hunt for Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., during his opening remarks.

"I firmly believe that God will return to the Lindberghs—their infant son. But there is another phase to this case which I must bring out in my sermon tonight.

"As I'm preaching the same Gospel, I find that Christ, the Savior of the world, was born in a manger. He didn't have even a bed or a pillow on which to lay his head.

"That I may know Him . . . You don't need me here in this meeting if you have the Christ-like spirit."

"That I may know Him . . . No wonder he spoke about yokes in His word. He knew what a yoke was and he suffered the throes of Hell when he came out of it victoriously.

Oratorical firebrands John Fleming's appeal struck home to the hearts of the well-filled church last night.

San Pedro, Calif., March 7.—(AP)—To test the Navy's power to the limits of the Pacific coast, 153 warships concentrated in Pacific waters today in the most comprehensive maneuver ever attempted by any nation during peace time.

Selling from this port tonight at midnight will be 86 ships of the scouting force under Vice Admiral Arthur L. Willard.

The fleets have been designated as the Black and the Blue forces, the former seeking to defend the entire coast line from Puget Sound to lower California and the latter having as its aim the capture of one of three strong points of the coast—either on Puget Sound, San Francisco or Magdalena Bay, Mexico.

Hartford, March 7.—(AP)—The Democratic State Committee meeting Friday to fix the time for party primaries to elect delegates to the spring state convention and to fix the time and place of that convention will be at the Hotel Bond at 8 p. m.

The meeting of the victory campaign fund committee of which Charles S. Morris of New Haven is chairman, will meet Wednesday at 1 p. m., at the Church-Wall, corner of Church and Wall streets, New Haven.

"We are living in terrible times," he continued. The evangelist told a story of a meeting which he held in a church in Richmond, Virginia.

"Do you know Jesus," I asked at the end of the meeting. "We know your brother, Bona," they replied.

"Are you saved?" I again asked them. "We belong to the Church." "Are you sure of your eternal future?" I pleaded.

ing to 2,500 people in a church in Knoxville, Tennessee, a few months back. There was a big prosperous looking man in the front row. That man is a Bishop," I said to myself. The Devil supported me in my thinking. But I preached on. I kept my eye on the big fellow in the front row. When I got through the old boy witted. He got through to God.

"He told me later that he was in line for Bishop," I said to myself. Under my preaching, and the notoriety of it, blocked that. He was fired from his church with 4,000 members. But he kept on with God. He preached on the air shortly afterward and gave his testimony to thousands. That's the real religion. Don't carry the Devil's garbage—throw it out. Keep a clean heart and a clean mind."

The evangelist told a story of a well-digger in Texas who had put his last dollar into an oil well.

"There goes the last dollar, boys," he said as he urged the drillers to continue on until the last faint hope of striking oil had all but gone. "My home is gone, my money, my bank account—there's the last dollar. Drill 20 minutes more, boys. They drilled. No oil. He urged them again. I've put all I had into this well, boys, drill just 20 minutes more. They kept on for five minutes more.

"The five minutes had barely elapsed when the drill-point broke through into the oil-sand. With a roar of escaping gas the black stream of crude shot up along the drill stem. He scooped up a bit of the crude and put it on his head and danced around the drill crew. He became rich beyond his dreams in one moment.

"So can you, brother—sister. You can become rich, not in this world's goods, but in the best stock in the world, Eternity. That you may know Him and the power of his resurrection, and the fellowship of His sufferings, being made conformable unto His death."

Rev. John Fleming will continue his series of Evangelistic meetings throughout the next two weeks, each week-day evening excepting Saturday and twice on Sunday at the first Church of the Nazarene, Main street.

"I always like to preach in a clean church," he said. "You serve notice on the world that you are alive—that God is working in your midst. We're going to have a good time. Don't you believe it."

John Fleming made reference to the world-wide hunt for Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., during his opening remarks.

GREAT MARCH KING, SOUSA, IS DEAD

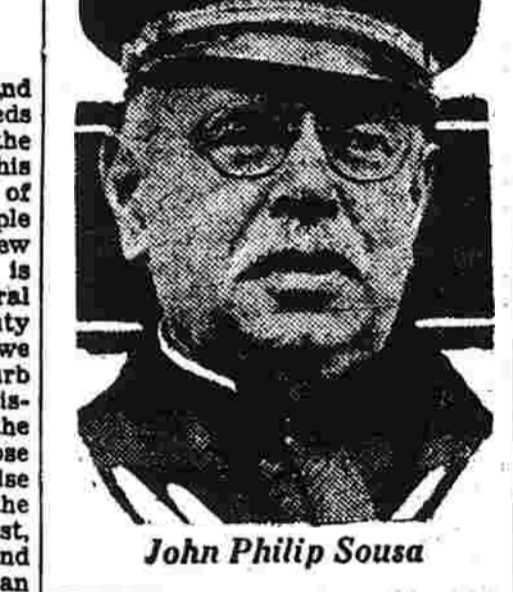

Composer of "The Stars and Stripes Forever" Dies Shortly After Rehearsal.

Washington, March 7.—(AP)—A snow-bushed capital sheltered today the body of John Philip Sousa, the great march king, whose career as a bandmaster over forty years led him to the pinnacle of international acclaim.

Sousa died in Reading, Pa., early Sunday morning. It was just a few hours after the 77 year old conductor had directed a rehearsal of a local band. He attended a banquet in his honor, retired to his room and was found shortly after by his secretary, stricken by a heart attack which snuffed out his life.

They brought his body to Washington—home. He was born here and here his father obtained him a place in the Marine Band when 13 years old. He will be buried Thursday at Congressional cemetery with such honors and ceremonies as his family will accept.

They were gathered today, Mrs.

John Philip Sousa

Sousa and two daughters, coming from New York, the conductor's son, John Philip Jr., on his way from California.

Most popular of his compositions, Sousa always believed was "The Stars and Stripes Forever." His last was the "George Washington Bicentennial March."

TWO WOMEN SLAIN

Balsam Lake, Wis., March 7.—(AP)—Concerted efforts to identify two women slain and burned beyond recognition in an automobile near here were being made by the authorities today in the hope this would help establish a motive and possibly some leads to the assassins.

Motorists who were attracted by the blazing car and put out the flames with snow found the bodies yesterday. One of the women had been shot through the head and the other's skull crushed by a heavy instrument. Their faces had been disfigured with acid and the clothes of both saturated with gasoline.

Investigators expressed belief the double killing was the work of gangsters and speculated as the license plates had been removed and the spare tire tossed inside the car to be consumed by the fire. A piece of unmarked hotel stationery led to the discovery of the victims left a St. Paul hotel Saturday after registering as Margaret and Margie Perry of Chicago, both probably assumed names.

The bodies were brought to a local undertaking parlor last night and a dentist inspected the dental work while a pathologist searched for other marks of identification to aid the investigators.

STORM WHIPS TOWN BUT DOES NO HARM

Rain, Wind, Hail and Some Snow Lash Manchester During Night.

Manchester fortunately escaped damage from the heavy wind and rain storm which swept the Atlantic coast from Georgia to Maine yesterday and last night lashing shipping and disrupting communication. In many places the snowfall was the heaviest of the winter but here in Manchester rain accompanied the intermittent snow and hail leaving no trace of either.

A high gale added to the fury of the storm locally, swaying big trees and hurrying the rain, snow and hail against the windows with considerable force. The storm interfered with the view of motorists making the driving anything but a pleasure.

No accidents of any nature were reported although one automobile was reported stranded in the grass plot at Center and West. Center streets. John Digney, head of the town highway department, said this morning following a thorough inspection, that he had discovered no damage at all either from fallen trees or road washouts.

The dime-a-dance girl

By Joan Clayton

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Beautiful ELLEN ROSSITER, employed at Barclay's Department Store, works nights as a dance hall hostess. She lives with her mother, MOLLY ROSSITER, her elder sister, MYRA, and her brother, MIKE.

STEVEN BARCLAY, 57 and owner of Barclay's, is in love with Ellen. Twice she refuses to marry him. Ellen loves LARRY HARKOWGATE, an artist she has met at Dreamland. Newspapers announce Larry's engagement to ELIZABETH BOWES, a debutante. Ellen hopes the announcement is untrue but when Elizabeth returns from Europe, Larry curiously tells Ellen he cannot see her for some time.

Heart-broken, Ellen tries to forget. Gradually she comes to think less of Larry and more of Barclay. Her brother is injured in a traffic accident and Barclay provides money for the boy's care. One night he tells Ellen he has called for DR. STENGLER, a Viennese physician, to perform an operation on Mike's legs. Ellen tells Barclay she wants to marry him.

He loves Myra, fast asleep in the next bed, the rumpled sheet thrust away from her body revealing the rise and fall of her dull gold braids as she breathes. Mother must have returned from the hospital.

Ellen was out of bed at once and without stopping for slippers she ran into the kitchen. An alert, competent looking woman stood at the stove arranging curls of bacon on the broiler. She turned at Ellen's impetuous entrance.

"The janitor let me in," the woman explained, apparently oblivious of Ellen's surprise. "You and your sister were so sound asleep it seemed a shame to disturb you."

"Oh," said Ellen blandly. "I'm Mrs. Stanley. Mr. Barclay's town housekeeper," continued the untruffled voice. "He thought you'd be needing me. I just stopped on my way at the corner store and bought the things for breakfast."

"I'm not sure—"

"You run right back to bed," Mrs. Stanley said placidly. "I'll bring your breakfast in to you."

"We're not used to breakfasting in bed," Ellen laughed self-consciously. She did not know quite how to meet the situation.

"You'll get used to it," Mrs. Stanley promised confidently. "You'd better get back into bed now. There's someone looking at you from across the way."

She pointed to the window. Ellen fled.

She woke Myra and broke the news.

"I think it's swell," Myra declared, yawning. "Your Steven's thought of such a thing in a millisecond. Bert wouldn't have lion years. I, for one, am certainly willing to adopt the habit of breakfasting in bed for a while anyway."

"It looks as though we'd have to," Ellen admitted, a small frown between her eyes. "Mrs. Stanley certainly has an air of 'Here's your breakfast—now you eat it.'"

"Then what's all the shootin' for?"

"I know Steven didn't tell her to march in on us like this—that was her idea," Ellen went on. "Just the same I'm not sure I like having our lives snatched out of our hands this way."

"Anyone who brings me breakfast in bed can certainly snatch my life," observed Myra. "I won't object."

She laughed and Ellen laughed too. After all she found it pleasant to lie in bed and breakfast from a tray at the very hour she had so often been rushing for a subway train. Pleasant to have Mrs. Stanley moving about quietly putting the apartment to rights and asking no questions about anything.

"If this is demoralization," Myra remarked as she dipped into a slice of pale green melon, "I'll never get enough of it."

"It is nice," said Ellen contentedly.

"Nice? It's perfect!"

"What are you going to do today?" Ellen asked after a pause.

"Well, after we leave the hospital I'm going to spend the afternoon hunting an apartment," Myra answered. She blushed and added, "Bert is going to see Mr. Barclay this morning."

"Have you two set the wedding date yet?" Ellen demanded.

"Do you think it would be fun if we both were married together?"

"I think it would be grand."

"There was perfect peace between the two girls. It was a little later when they had begun to dress that Myra unconsciously delivered to Ellen a stab of pain.

"When are you going to give up your job at the library?" Ellen demanded, as she twisted to see if the skirt of her jersey suit hung properly.

"I'm not giving it up at all," Myra answered. "They're letting me have two weeks' vacation and that's all I'll take." She went on self-consciously, "You see Bert and I will be just starting out—not at all like you and Steven. Steven won't be drawing a grand salary. Barclay's for some years to come. It's the dream of our lives to have our own home. You know that house we've been looking at Sundays for centuries? Well, it's still for sale."

Ellen lost interest in the hang of her skirt. It was on the tip of her tongue to suggest that Steven would help with the house. She knew he would be glad to. Something in Myra's face stopped the words.

Perhaps Myra read her thoughts, for she said uncomfortably:

"Ellen, honey, there's something I think you and I should settle right now."

"What is it?"

"You'll be living a life quite different from Bert's and mine," Myra said on. "You'll have lots of things we won't have for years and may never have. You may be tempted to give us things we can't afford. And we won't want to take them."

"You just said," protested Ellen with an uncertain laugh, "that you loved having breakfast in bed—loved being lazy."

"So I do, goose. But this is different. Mrs. Stanley is here because of you—not because of Bert. Mother and Mike, of course, are different. But Bert and I are young and strong. We don't want things made easy for us!"

It was then that Ellen felt the wrench of pain. Until then it had not occurred to her that Myra would not have the same things she would have and share the same pleasures. Myra certainly was entitled to her pride. In that instant Ellen seemed to feel their lives slipping apart.

"But surely," she persisted, her lips quivering suspiciously, "when Steven and I come back from Europe you won't be too proud to stay with me sometimes."

"Of course not, silly!"

Even with her sister's firm around her Ellen continued to feel a sense of loneliness; a queer premonition that something was about to tear her away from old familiar things. She did not want that to happen.

At the hospital the two girls found Mike as active a convalescent as his heavy plaster casts would permit. Ellen left Myra there and returned alone to the apartment. The conversation of the morning still lingered in her mind. She blamed herself bitterly. Surely she was not marrying Steven for money or the things she thought he would do for her family. Surely she was not so unfair as to love him less because she had discovered it would be impossible for her to give her sister the luxuries she herself was to have. Ellen climbed the stairs feeling discouraged.

Steven was waiting for her in the apartment. When she saw him everything seemed all right again. She liked him so much that in time she was sure she would come to love him. When he kissed her there was nothing lacking in his kiss because she had determined to find nothing lacking.

She gave him an amusing account of the morning and he confessed that for 30 years Mrs. Stanley had ordered him around exactly as she had ordered Ellen.

"That was all right," Ellen said. "But what is it you wanted to tell me?"

Barclay laughed, dug into his pocket and produced a passport which he flipped toward her. It was made out for Mr. and Mrs. Steven Barclay.

"We're to have the bridal suite," he explained, deeply pleased. "That's why I was so long reaching here. I took quite a while to persuade Lord Somebody or Other he didn't want it."

"Oh what fun!" breathed Ellen, conjuring up a vision of herself stretched in a steamer chair, lazily watching the sparkle of blue waves and the leaping, curving bodies of dolphins sporting in the sunshine.

"How would you like it if Bert and Myra were married with us?"

"Fine idea," he responded absently.

There was something more he wanted to say and he did not know how to say it. After a moment he cleared his throat and began:

"Ellen, did you plan a big wedding? I mean did you think of

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

Every woman who buys and handles food should realize the importance of sanitary food protection and the danger of health risks through food contamination. She may not be able personally to supervise all the operations in her household before the food reaches the table, but she can insist on special precautions which will protect her family against those diseases which are known to be transmitted through the careless handling of foodstuffs and the utensils used in their preparation.

It seems to be accepted these days that any person suffering from a cold should isolate himself from his fellow workers. However, in the home kitchen, little attention is paid to this measure. Of course it's often impossible for the woman who does her own work and has "just a cold" to keep out of the kitchen, but she will take the simple precaution of covering her nose and mouth to safeguard the health of her family. The silver and dishes used by any member of a family who has a cold should be covered with boiling water and allowed to stand at least five minutes before washing with the rest of the dishes. This is particularly true of the service which comes in contact with the person's mouth.

Dish-Washer Must Be Hot

At all times dishes and glassware should be washed in sudsy water as hot as the dish washer can stand and rinsed in scalding water. Glassware will stand very hot water if it is placed flat in a

A THOUGHT

The Laborer is worthy of his reward.—I Timothy 3:13.

It is our actual worth which determines our value.—George Bancroft.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Seeing Clearly

Clear eyes that look upon life with curiosity and freshness are a tremendous asset to anyone.

The tired business woman they often seem an end in themselves. It is so easy not only to get tired but to have your eyes show it.

You can't be too good to your eyes. They may stand a lot of punishment but in the end they resent it and tell the world so.

A young girl has written to me asking if she should wear glasses. She obviously is near-sighted yet she fears that wearing glasses may make her so much less romantic that young men won't look at her.

That attitude is as short-sighted as anyone's eyesight possibly can be. My answer is to wear glasses, by all means, if you can't see without them. Eye strain causes nervous trouble, often affects the stomach and whole system.

If you can wear glasses for close work and go without them on the street or evenings do so. Any good specialist can tell you whether or not you need glasses and what kind. But don't neglect your eyes!

Often tired eyes result from other things. Bad lighting is a constant strain. Too much smoking is bad. No rest periods cause fatigue. Take five minutes of morning and afternoon rest your eyes.

Whether you are a file clerk, a doctor, a home-woman, or a debutante, five minutes morning and afternoon won't be missed. Lie down if possible; sit down if you can't lie down. Put hot cloths or hot pads of cotton over your eyes. Press gently on the muscles just under the inside line of your eyebrows. You can find these muscles easily. Your eyes feel better the minute you press them gently.

Nights, sleep with hot pads over your eyes, too. Wash your eyes with boracic acid mornings and nights. Again in the daytime, if you are bothered with them at all. Wear brimmed hats for bright sunshine. Read with eye shades shielding them. Save them as much as possible. Their returning brightness will reward your efforts.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

HOW CHILD'S "BAD" HABITS GROW

Need I repeat that the minds of children work strangely? So strangely that we, their elders, know almost nothing about them—and of course the children themselves do not.

We go about blindly trying to train them when we are absolutely ignorant about the whole business. It is like the old way of doctoring, guessing at one medicine after another when a person was sick.

When I say "we" I mean parents as a whole. Students of child nature are trying to tell us as hard as they can if we would only listen.

The whole idea of child training is based on two facts: "Allow the child to become himself, not anyone else," and "Know yourself thoroughly first before you attempt to doctor his actions to suit you."

Along this line let me go into one thing—that we like to call in little children "bad habits." The psychology of a habit is interesting.

What are "bad habits?" They are what we, their elders, call bad, not what the child thinks is bad. There is a decided difference. Our "nice" minds, a terrible word, jump at something a little child is doing innocently and naturally enough and we scold and threaten.

Here's what we are doing. We are fixing that habit. We are setting his interest in that habit in cement and he will go back to it—the next time perhaps privately, so we won't know. Or if he doesn't precisely do that, the urge to do it is still there, in some way, some day it will come out, perhaps in a more violent form, perhaps in another form altogether.

The refrigerator in which food is stored must of course receive careful and frequent cleaning. The milk, cream and butter have a special provision for them in many refrigerators, but they should be kept covered in any event. Left-over foods should be cooled as rapidly as possible before putting into the ice-box.

from the ashes, are recorded in every book of economics. Revolutions have been followed by new governments, which have perhaps through their own excesses succumbed to new revolutions. Through it all mankind invariably triumphs, probably because his economic experiments are merely experiments and cannot interfere with the biologic laws established by nature.

It is well in such a time of stress, when worries accumulate, and when mental balance is threatened, to repeat the old aphorism "Tomorrow is another day."

HEALTH

EAT SUFFICIENT FOOD, EVEN WHEN WORRIED

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a series of five articles by Dr. Fishbein on health for the business man and office worker.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

When times are hard few people have to be advised not to overeat. The mental strain and the physical tiredness associated with the period interfere, as has been previously said, with the appetite. Hence, one should not overeat. It is obviously of the greatest importance to force the foods that are necessary to health. Everyone must have enough calories to carry on his daily efforts without breaking down the tissues of the body. For the average business man that means from 2,400 to 3,000 calories a day. The diet must include therefore some cereals, some meat, some fresh fruit, some vegetables and milk or milk products in abundance.

The physical side of life includes cleanliness, which will be accomplished by a lukewarm bath at least once each day, and oftener if necessary; the diet which has been described; exercise, which should be sufficient in amount only to slightly stimulate the activity of the tissues and not to build big muscles; rest sufficient to overcome both mental and physical fatigue, and, above all, good mental hygiene for the development of proper attitude toward life and work.

It is well enough to suggest that times will not improve through constant emphasis on the depression. We are told not to use the word "depression," even to enter on a conspiracy of silence. But we must work our way out of our troubles rather than to adopt the idea that they will disappear. If we do not think or talk about them.

It is important, moreover, to look at all of our situations with an historical perspective. The history of the world shows that mankind has triumphed over plague and infections. Human beings have passed through periods of famine and hunger. Financial panics, from which business has risen like the phoenix

McCluskey Beats Own Record by Fifth of Second

CAPTURES TWO MILE RACE DESPITE COLD

Ranney of Cornell Takes Lead In Final Lap But Manchester Boy Finishes Strong To Win By 15 Yards In Record Time; Herald Sports Editor Finds McCluskey's Popularity At High Crest In New York; Fordham Ace Looks Forward To Olympics and Then Business Career.

BY TOM STOWE
Herald Sports Editor

Manchester scarcely realizes the tremendous popularity and athletic fame with which the name of its native son, Joe McCluskey, is acclaimed in New York. He has established himself as the greatest track athlete ever developed at Fordham and seems destined to become one of United States' heroes in the approaching Olympics.

Back here in Manchester we cannot fully comprehend the extent of McCluskey's climb up the ladder to the Hall of Fame. One has to go to the gay Metropolis to gain full appreciation. Picture, if you will, a crowd of nearly 10,000 men and women, most of them standing up in the seats shouting frantically, "Come on Joe!" That's the almost unbelievable sight which I was privileged to watch in the huge 258th Field Artillery Armory Saturday night as McCluskey successfully defended his two mile title in the Indoor Intercollegiate, officially known as the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America, or the ICAA track and field meet.

Joe McCluskey

Idol of Fandom
McCluskey, like another more recent track star Gene Venske, is the idol of Manhattan's sophisticated sport lovers. His great ability in long distance runs coupled with his modern and dignified demeanor, has earned the 20 year old Manchester boy an unlimited number of friends and supporters who find intense satisfaction in watching him break record after record as he prepares himself for the Olympics.

Saturday night's meet not only brought McCluskey victory, but also another record for in besting a field of 17 two milers from the leading colleges in the East. Joe clipped a fifth of a second off his own record set last year when he was clocked in 9:17.8. His time Saturday was 9:17.6 and only for a cold which has bothered him for several weeks, the Fordham flash might have done much better.

In the Infirmary
McCluskey spent the first four days of the past week in the infirmary at Fordham and at that time Father Hogan was opposed to permitting him to compete in the indoor intercollegiate. Wednesday afternoon found the former Herald newsboy out training again. He could not endure the thought of passing up his title without a fight. He is now running until the Penn Relays in April.

The two mile run was the next to last event on the three and a half hour program. It began an hour before midnight. Long before the race started, Joe was out on the track to limber up and someone in the press box was heard to remark, "There's the greatest little two miler in the country." And judging from the realms of publicity which the Manhattan press devotes to McCluskey's feats, the speaker was not exaggerating.

Came From Behind
The start of the race and McCluskey took the lead followed by Murphy of Harvard and Ryan of Manhattan in the first lap. Then Joe dropped back to second and later to third. The runners had to circle the track twelve times to complete the distance. McCluskey soon took the lead again followed closely by Ryan of Manhattan, Ranney of Cornell and Dean of Pennsylvania.

The crowd remained unemotional during the first mile but as the remaining laps faded, interest began to rise and increased until the wind was standing up shouting wildly as Ranney of Cornell shot out ahead of McCluskey early in the final lap. Ted Husing, veteran radio announcer for the Columbia system, sitting next to me yelled, "There goes the end of McCluskey." But Joe soon proved that Husing was a bit premature in his judgment by regaining the lead and going out nearly twenty yards in front with a half a lap to go. Ranney's closing sprint exhausted his physical strength and he was passed by Dean down the home stretch. McCluskey winning by about 15 yards. Joe seemed in fine condition despite his troublesome cold. He calmly walked over to a nearby bench and sat down while waiting for the official time to be made public. Throughout the race, Joe carried a watch in his hand, looking at it at the end of each lap to help set the proper pace but of course this would not enable him to record split seconds. When the time, a new record, was announced, a smile of satisfaction spread over his face. His day's work was well done. Shortly afterward, he was back in the infirmary to spend the night.

Running Just Hobby
McCluskey's room in St. John's Hall where I was an overnight guest, gives little indication that it houses one of the most famous athletes in America. It is typical of any college student's room. College banners decorate the walls and there are a few magazine pictures of attractive girls, but no newspaper photographs or clippings are in sight anywhere. These are carefully hidden from view in a drawer of his desk. Unlike many successful athletes

TWO MILE RUN

Won by Joseph P. McCluskey, Fordham; Daniel E. Dean, Pennsylvania, second; Albert F. Ranney, Cornell, third; John J. Ryan, Manhattan, fourth; Frank D. Murphy, Harvard, fifth. Time—9:17.6.

(New Intercollegiate indoor record; old record, 9:17.8, made by Joseph P. McCluskey, Fordham University, March 7, 1981.)

who had pushed Norwood Hollowell of Harvard to a 4:12 2-5 mile, the fastest in college history and the fifth fastest ever recorded, came back and ran a great half-mile anchor leg and captured the two-mile relay from Boston college.

Joe McCluskey, Fordham's great two miler, clipped a fifth of a second off the record he set a year ago, running the distance in 9:17.6-10. Ted Lee, latest of Yale's great line of pole vaulters, raised the indoor record for the pole vault to 13 feet, 5-8 inches, adding three-eighths of an inch to the mark Barbara Berlinger of Pennsylvania set in 1981.

New York University, Harvard and Pennsylvania easily were the "class" of the meet. Pennsylvania won points in eight events but failed to get a single first. Harvard scored in seven events, winning three.

Many of the star New York University performers are due to appear again tonight in the annual games between the infirmary yesterday morning. The Norwegian Turn Society games Saturday mark the last appearance of the eastern athletes. The feminine performers take the center of the stage then with National women's champions at New York. The big ten meet the same night, tops of midwestern competition.

Willie Macfarlane strolled out on the turf a few yards from the Palma Ceia clubhouse and swung his driver twice.

"Practice is all over," he said. He was headed for the first tee of his first match in the Gasparilla open tournament at Tampa.

"You're not going to hit any shots?" I inquired.

"Not till the match starts," said Willie. "I've never been able to see the good of it—for me, anyway. I can tell by swinging a club if I'm swinging it right. I don't have to know ballis round with it."

"If I'm swinging right, it's O. K. If I'm not—well, when I used to expend a lot of energy hitting practice shots, I don't remember that I ever got to swinging better. Usually it was worse. Funny game, golf. When you're right, you're right, and when you're not, you're wrong, and that's that. So I don't waste any more time and energy hitting a lot of practice shots."

Willie did very well, at Palma Ceia. He divided the money for the low qualifying score with Dick Metz, half his age, each producing a 67 and a 69 on the par-70 course. He defeated Herman Barron, 1 up; Basil Brooke, 4-3; Eddie Schultz, 5-4; and Wild Bill Melhorn, 1 up, in 18-hole bouts on his way to the finals with Paul Runyan, who won the match, 3-1.

Propbet's Fate
The Big Shots were on the spot early for the most part, in the first Gasparilla open, and their fate in the second reflection that medal play retains on great advantage over match play, at that gate.

The Big Shots almost invariably are in the running, or at least in the field, until it is all over.

Showing what a brilliant, minor propbet this correspondent is, I fancied I could see Sir Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen in the final. The draw came out, with Walter in the top bracket and Gene in the lower, the prospect brightened a bit.

I also said, and was quoted liberally in a Tampa newspaper, that I considered Sarazen the most formidable golfer in the United States today. I still say so. But Gene was defeated in the first round of the Gasparilla affair, by Eddie Schultz, who was not driving within 40 yards of Gene, and was cutting them a bit, at that.

Gene Switches Clubs
Sarazen, let me observe, is hitting the ball about 20 yards farther from the tee than I have even seen him; and his iron play, making due allowance for the sandy Florida turf—which does not suit his style at all—is equally impressive.

Americans Seem Out Of Hockey Playoffs

New York, March 7.—(AP)—The close National Hockey League race produced its first sign of a showdown last week as the hapless New York Americans were virtually eliminated from the struggle for playoff positions.

While their rivals, the Montreal Maroons were winning two out of three games, the Americans lost two and tied one to fall six points behind with only seven games to go before the season ends March 22. Their faint hope of getting "in" lies in the fact that the Maroons have played three more games.

The Maroons took a 1-0 decision from Chicago and beat Boston 3-1, losing 1-2 to their Montreal rivals, the Canadiens, in between. The Americans tied Detroit at 2 all last night after talking beatings from Toronto and Chicago. The other battles went on almost without a change. The Canadiens pulled out ahead of Toronto in the race for the Canadian division lead by playing and winning one more game after a 7-6 defeat by Boston. They left them even Tuesday. The rivals played a 1-1 tie Saturday.

Chicago regained second place in the American division from Detroit by defeating both New York teams after losing to the Maroons. The Blackhawks turned back the New York Rangers 4-3 last night on Tommy Cook's goal in overtime. Detroit lost a 3-1 game to the Rangers before trying the Americans.

Bat's Punch Hardens With Added Weight

Great Slugging Match Expected When Petrolle and Battalino Clash In Garden Ring Friday Night.

New York, March 7.—(AP)—Two powerful punchers, Christopher (Bat) Battalino of Hartford, and Billy Petrolle, of Fargo, N. D., meet at Madison Square Garden for 12 rounds on Friday night in the week's outstanding boxing event.

As featherweight champion, Battalino was not noted as a great puncher, but the ten pounds he has put on the last few months apparently have doubled his hitting efficiency.

In his two matches among the lightweights, Battalino knocked out Al Singer and Billy Shaw in two rounds apiece. Neither of these two boys, however, can be compared to the crowd-pleasing Petrolle, who packs a knockout wallop in either hand.

The poundage has been set at 140 pounds. Petrolle, who usually scales about 139 pounds, probably will have a chance to gain no more than three or four pounds.

Two of Petrolle's recent knockout victims, Billy Ran, of Poland, and Billy Townsend, of Vancouver, appear on the St. Nicholas Arena card here tonight. Townsend, incidentally, will have a chance to gain a little second hand revenge on Petrolle for he is matched with Billy's less-famous brother, Frankie Petrolle, in the ten-round semi-final. Ran, a deadly right-hand puncher, meets Marty Goldman of New York in the 10-round main event.

Other leading matches nationally send Benny Bass, Philadelphia lightweight, against Wesley Ramey of Grand Rapids, Michigan, at St. Louis Wednesday, and Fidel La Barba of Los Angeles featherweight, against Vargas Milling of the Philippines, at Hollywood, Friday night.

ATHLETICS SEEM STRONG AS EVER

Fort Myers, Fla., March 7.—(AP)—Instead of either being broken up, as some experts predicted, or showing any tendency to disintegrate three straight years at the top of the American League, as many expected, the Philadelphia Athletics now appear stronger than ever.

If anything is going to stop them from running up a record streak of four straight pennants it will likely will have to be old-fashioned law of averages. This factor, aided and abetted by Grimes, Hallahan and Martin, accomplished the downfall of the Athletics last October, but it has damaged neither the class nor the morale of the club. Of its seven rivals it fears only the New York Yankees.

Barring accidents, Connie Mack will stand pat on the lineup that spread-eagled the pennant last season. The only outside prospect of a shakeup lies in the possibility of big Jimmie Foxx being shifted to third and replaced at first by Oscar Roettger, now trying a comeback familiar shuttle. Barring mishaps after several rides on baseball's team will start the 1982 season, with Foxx, Bishop, Williams and Dykes again composing the inner defense.

The twin factors upon the A's base their confidence in the forthcoming campaign are: First the apparent good health and strength of all the seasoned stars, most of whom suffered from illness or accidents last year and second the acquisition of several from the best young players the club has had since Grove, Earnshaw, Cochrane and Simmons established themselves as the "Big Four."

The A's are rich in reserve power. The training sieve has revealed unusual pitching prospects in Law and the 19-year-old Philadelphia boy and Joe Bowman, 21-year old recruit from Portland of the Pacific Coast League. Both are righthanders. They looked good in their exhibition debut against the world champions, allowing the Cards only three hits in six innings. Krause has so impressed Mack that the veteran leader figures to make this youngster a starting pitcher to work along with Grove, Earnshaw, Dykes and Mike racy. Merritt Catron from Harrisburg, Pa., is another good righthanded prospect.

Outside the pitchers, the outstanding addition is Ed Coleman, a fancy slugger from Portland who will underwrite the agile Bing Miller in right field.

Simmons and Mule Haas, have no competition of course for the other outfield berths.

Mickey Cochrane after being beset by a variety of ailments, appears again in the best of health and ready to produce the pace and spirit that has been so vital in the club's pennant successes.

Local Sport Chatter

The Rec Five will practice at the state armory from 6 to 7:30 tomorrow evening in preparation for the second town series with the Guards Friday night.

No definite date has been set yet for the proposed basketball game between the High school and Trade school. It may be played this week Wednesday.

Joe McCluskey says that he is pretty certain Domenico Squarito, F. H. S. all-around athlete will graduate from the local school.

Ted Husing says that no sporting event he has ever broadcast gave him a bigger thrill than the recent winter Olympics at Lake Placid.

John McCluskey, also a student at Fordham, saw his brother set a new two-mile intercollegiate record Saturday. John never misses a race in which Joe runs if attending is at all possible.

Manchester High undoubtedly has a better basketball team than Lyman Hall of Wallingford and probably a better one than some of the others to qualify for Yale, but the teams are selected on records rather than late season form.

Only one telegram of congratulation reached Joe McCluskey after his race Saturday night. That was a night letter signed by Jimmy Neill, Harold Maher, Winnie Turkington, "Hank" McCann and "Huck" McHale. Joe was very pleased with its contents and said it was one of the best he ever received.

CABINET RESIGNS

Oso, Norway, March 7.—(AP)—All the Cabinet ministers who served under the late Premier Kolstad submitted their resignations today to King Haakon, who asked they remain in office for the time being.

At an extraordinary Cabinet meeting previously the ministers united in voting tribute to the late premier who died on Saturday.

Legion's Jr. World Series Slated for New Hampshire

Manchester, N. H., has been selected as the city where the 1982 world series of the American Legion Junior baseball program will be played.

The new booklet has pictures of each of the state championship teams of the 1981 season and photographic shots taken during the Junior World Series games last year. Among the illustrations in the new guide, which has been compiled from the experience gained in five previous years in Junior Baseball are the two major league umpires who officiated at the Junior World Series; Captains of the two teams competing in the finals at Houston, Texas; and the Junior World Series Pennant, being presented to the South Chicago Champions during the big World Series.

The Advisory Council of the American and National Leagues of Organized Baseball has again agreed to underwrite the expense of the national elimination contests of the American Legion Junior Baseball program to the extent of $50,000. The sixteen president of the clubs of the two leagues unanimously agreed to sponsor the program for 1982.

The Minor Leagues, at their annual winter meeting, expressed a deep interest in the program and have assured us they will again cooperate by giving the use of playing fields.

The office of the National Americanism Commission is now busily engaged in the preparation of the new Junior Baseball Handbook, London, March 7.—(AP)—The palace of the shepherds of Palestine has been discovered by Sir Flinders Petrie, the archaeologist, at Tel El Ajul, he stated in a letter received today by Sir Charles Marston.

"Next to the fortress" Sir Charles said "is another building which probably was their temple. The site has been compared to that of Pompeii, from the fact that the city was only partially destroyed. We knew that many houses were three stories high and there is sufficient evidence now available that the city was flourishing when the Egyptians, after the death of Joseph, were oppressing the Israelites."

SENSE AND NONSENSE

Never mind the business outlook—be on the outlook for business. If you look for business you will inevitably find it.

BELIEVE IN SIGNS? On the porch of a Missouri country store, the following sign is posted: PLEASE DON'T SIT IN THE DOOR. SIT ON THE BENCH OUTSIDE. A CUSTOMER COMES IN ONCE IN A WHILE.

No one can make a product or render a service so cheap that someone cannot do it worse and sell it for less. One great mistake most people make is that they do not check up on liars more than they do.

Agnes—You say you are going to marry a man with an income of $10,000 a year and try to persuade me it is a love match?
Clara—It is. I love money.

"A good many town men would enjoy better health and feel better if they could be led out and exercised every day like a valuable horse." No doubt many of them would be willing to try the experiment if someone can be found to furnish the oats and hay between times.

Nurse—Bobby! What would your father say if he saw you'd broken that branch off?
Bobby—He'd say, trees are not so well-worn now as they were before the war.

SOMETHING TELLS ME: That the best boss that many a man has had is his wife. That truth is stranger than fiction because it is so little used. That a fool and his money is soon parted.

That garbage collectors are more useful citizens than autograph collectors. The man beating around the bush may have a bird in the hand that he wants to trade for two in the bush. That some women add to natural hideousness by using hair dye.

That brevity is the soul of witness. That some people do most of their reading in the bathroom. Parker—I hear you dropped some money in the Stock Exchange. What were you, a bull or a bear?
Jarvis—Neither. Just a simple ass.

Folks, grab your spades. It is time to bury depression.

Cashier of Bank—Before I cash this check, may I ask if you have anything about you by which you can be identified?
Sweet Young Thing (turning colored and faltering)—Well—er—I have a mole on my left knee.

HASH: Then there's the man with the artistic temperament who chews art gum after every meal... Nothing seems to jump out of reach quicker than a promising future... Good whiskey is said to be a cure for snakebite. But who wants to be bothered with a snake around the house? And why wouldn't it be well to advocate feeding more wheat to humans as well as to hogs? A hen that mistakes a mail plane for a chicken hawk should be examined by an alienist. Another thing this country needs, is to make more gangsters chain-gangsters. Maybe a laugh! good for what ails us, but Alas! what ails us isn't good for a laugh... They cure Scotch people from stuttering by making them talk over the long distance telephone... Do you remember when the man of the house had to have a black broadcloth suit to wear in case some of his friends should die? ... Men are creatures who cut down great trees to build a city and then plant little saplings to beautify it. Tax paying comes at the wrong time of the year. When is the legislature going to attend to that? The trouble with the 99-year lease is that so few persons live to enjoy them... Trying to keep a watch right with three or four different radio hours may run the works... A certain man calls his wife Crystal because she's always "on the watch."

ANYTHING TO OBLIGE

"Gracious! You seem to have had an accident!"
"Yes," said Jackson. "I tried to climb a tree with my automobile."
"What did you do that for?"
"Just to oblige a lady driving another car. She wanted to use all the road."—Answers.

ROAD TO WEALTH

"I am losing my memory. What can I do?"
"Borrow as much money as you can."—Flegende Blaetter, Munich.

ONLY NATURAL

"What are you looking so sheepish about this morning?"
"I couldn't sleep and was counting them all night."—Pathfinder.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Anyone is likely to get upset when things are on the downswing.
