

SENATOR ROBINSON AGAINST DEBT CUT

Democratic Leader Warns Mellon That Congress Will Not Stand For Reduction For Great Britain.

Washington, March 17.—(AP)—Administration intimations that Ambassador Mellon will enter into negotiations with Great Britain shortly for revision of that country's war debt to the United States brought a warning in the Senate today from Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader.

Demanded that the administration regard the debt problem "from the standpoint of the American taxpayer rather than that of British taxpayer," the Democratic chief added "any reduction of debt settlements, especially when proposed by Mr. Mellon will require very careful consideration by the Congress in order to safeguard the best interests of the government which Mr. Mellon is presumed to represent."

Newspaper Story Senator Robinson based his declarations on a newspaper story published here today purporting to attribute to Mr. Mellon the view that Great Britain faces a hardship in paying its wartime obligations in a depreciated currency.

Senator Reed (R., Pa.), recently voiced sympathy for the British on the war debt problem and he is regarded as an administration spokesman. Robinson cited "the annual deficit of approximately two and a quarter billion dollars facing the treasury."

Balancing Budget Then the Democratic leader continued: "And with the greatest difficulty confronting Congress in efforts to balance the budget; in spite of numerous demands for emergency appropriations, some of which probably must be made, this government is going out of its way to reduce the amount which may be received from foreign debtor governments for the purpose of relieving their taxpayers from hardship and financial strain."

By abandoning the gold standard and depreciating their currencies governments which are in debt to the United States have obtained a great advantage over us as competitors in foreign commerce. One of the penalties of the policy referred to is found in meeting gold payments. It is an effort to be made to commit the United States to the absurd and impossible undertaking

REGIME IN MANCHURIA REPORTED AS TOTTERING

Revolts Occur In Several Provinces—Troops Refuse To Serve Under Gen. Ma, the New War Minister

Tokyo, March 17.—(AP)—The new dictatorship government in Manchuria of the dapper young Henry Pu-Yi, heir of the ancient Manchurian emperors, was reported tottering by Japanese press dispatches today over the question of General Ma Chan-Shan, who has been named its war minister.

Revolts which have occurred at Tachio and Manchul, in General Ma's province of Heilungkiang, have caused the former defender of Taitshar to rush home from the new dictatorial court at Changchun, reports to the Rengo News Agency said. General Ma left in the midst of the triumphant ceremonies surrounding the Pu-Yi inauguration.

Several groups of Chinese troops in Heilungkiang refused to celebrate the establishment of the Pu-Yi government and rose against General Ma himself, declining to transfer their allegiance.

It also was regarded as noteworthy that the course of the inspection tour of General Shigeru Honjo, Japanese Manchurian commander, included an airplane trip to Taitshar yesterday in company with General Ma.

POWER COMPANY SPENT $200,000 GETTING VOTES

Federal Trade Board Told of Maine Campaign—Correspondence Destroyed; May Call Officials To Washington To Explain.

Washington, March 17.—(AP)—Testimony that the New England Public Service Company spent $200,000 to obtain a favorable vote in a Maine referendum on an act to permit power export was given by the Federal Trade Commission today by William T. Chantland, a commission attorney.

Chantland, who went to Maine in August, 1930, to investigate the act, said he was told by the committee that handled the campaign that the correspondence had been destroyed because the room it occupied was needed.

Members of the committee were quoted as saying they believed records of accounts and expenditures of the campaign were sufficient. This testimony was received in the commission's investigation of the public service company after Commissioner McCulloch, who was presiding, ruled it was pertinent.

Robert E. Healy, counsel for the commission, said in introducing such testimony the commission was not indicating any views for or against state acts which prohibit export from Maine of surplus hydro-electric energy.

To Call Officials Chantland's testimony was taken as a preliminary to the calling of officers of the New England company for direct testimony on the campaign expenditures.

The attorney testified he had gone to W. S. Wyman at the company's office in Augusta and had secured from him "without any question" the details of the company's campaign expenditures.

Chantland further testified that Dempster McCormick, publicity man of the Middle Western Utilities Company, indirect owner of the New England Company, had been sent to Maine to assist during the campaign.

DE VALERA PLANS A UNITED IRELAND New President Wants To See Free State and Ulster Government Merged.

Dublin, March 17.—(AP)—The wearing of the green had a double significance in Erin today. It was the 150th anniversary of St. Patrick's landing and it brought a new plan for union of the north and south of Ireland.

Eamon De Valera, new president of the Free State announced last night a four point program for his administration. One point was for an eventual merger of the Free State and Ulster governments, age-old division on Irish affairs.

Other points were abolition of the oath of allegiance to King George and of the more than $10,000,000 a year in land annuities paid to the British government and suspension of the military courts set up by the Cosgrave regime to try Irishmen for offenses against the government.

Today's Celebration The center of the day's ceremonies today in honor of St. Patrick was at Saul, County Down, where the old was broken for a giant statue of the saint to be erected immediately on the mountain of Slieve William, 400 feet above the shore where he landed in 432 A. D. to begin his missionary work.

Train Leaves Rails But No One Injured

Baltimore, March 17.—(AP)—Passengers aboard the Capitol Limited of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad were shaken but no one was hurt when the fast train from Chicago to New York was derailed at Weverton, Md., at 7:27 a. m. today.

Three sleepers, the club car, dining car and locomotive, tender left the rails but none of them tipped over.

B. and O. officials here said the cause of the accident was not determined and started an investigation.

They said it may have been caused by some mechanical defect in the locomotive or coupling, or in some failure of the track itself.

The fast express had slowed down somewhat at the Weverton station which is at the junction point of the Hagerstown branch of the railroad.

Slight damage was done to the cars. Two lines of the four tracks at that point were blocked.

A Detroit-Washington train following less than three-quarters of an hour later, was stopped at Weverton and the passengers transferred to it.

Approximately half of them were bound for Washington while arrangements were made for the others to reach their destinations at Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

The Capitol Express passengers were only about half an hour later in arriving at Washington.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

St. Patrick's Day is with us again, and we can't think of anything to say about Ireland, except: The Land of the Fray and the Home of the Brave. (That's not very good, but somebody might like it.)

Bobbed hair and short skirts were too sensible to last . . . If Uncle Sam's money talks it's probably with a foreign accent. . . . In the old days they talked about their crazy quilts. But they never saw our present-day pajamas . . . The politicians now tell us that prohibition is neither here nor there. And for once they're right . . . When you find the "sugar baby" you'll usually find the "sap" . . . The radio has got to the point of where we can't look at the rainbow without wondering what its advertising . . . We can't decide which is the curse of drink, the price or the quality . . . Radio's bringing back property; headache manufacturers are getting rich . . . In these days, a bigamist is merely a man who attempts to save time by trying out two wives concurrently instead of consecutively.

There is some doubt as to where Saint Patrick was born but none about the fervor with which March 17 is celebrated.

Doctor—Well, my good man, have you any temperature this morning?
Patient—No, the nurse took it.

Teacher—If a group of sheep is a flock, and a group of cattle is a herd, what is the name for a group of camels?
Johnny—A carton.

Wife (paying hubby a surprise visit at the office, and clapping her hands over his eyes)—Guess who it is?
Tubby—Stop that fooling and get on with your work.

How To Keep The Fuller Brush Man From The Door
1. Hang a scarlet fever sign outside.
2. When you see him coming, throw a lot of old brushes out of the window, announcing at the same time in a very loud voice that you never use them anyway.
3. Turn vicious dogs loose on him.
4. Hire gangsters to hold him up and steal his samples.
5. Close up front door. Built secret passage into your house.
6. Station a squad of marines round front door.
7. Burn down house.

Hash: We sympathize naturally with the underdog. But not infrequently, he belongs beneath, right where he is . . . How strange that the vocal part of movies should disturb the sleep of people who nap right through a sermon . . . Outside of the fact that we are bossed by tradition, restrained by the conventionalities, and ruled by habit, we are a free and glorious people . . .

One reason why European scenery attracts tourists is because they don't have to read it . . . When a fellow is so in love that he offers himself to a woman, he feels he is giving her something pretty nice . . . As the old saying goes: "Everything comes to him who waits—or eats hash." So if you have been waiting for the end of this dish o' hash, "here 'tis."

WEARING THEM HIGH
A man who had been a guest at a fashionable hotel was paying his bill. He looked up at the girl cashier and asked what it was she had around her neck.
"A ribbon, of course," she said.
"Why?"
"Well," he replied, "everything is so high around here that I thought perhaps it was your garter."—Tit-Bits.

ALL OF THEM?
"I see from your advertisement in the newspaper that you have just received two hundred hats from your Paris branch."
"Yes, madam, that is correct."
"Very well; I would like to try them on."—Answers.

POLICE COURT

Peter J. Happeny of Knighton street, night fire truck driver at Hose Company No. 3, faced a charge of reckless driving in Manchester Police Court this morning as a result of an automobile accident on Main street near Wells late yesterday afternoon. In court this morning the case was continued to Thursday, March 24.

Happeny was driving an automobile owned by the Dougan Dye Works and was engaged in delivering clothing at the time. He was driving south on Main street and struck a Ford sedan owned by William Spacek of Hillstreet Road which was coming north. The accident resulted when Happeny started to turn into Wells street.

The Ford was very badly damaged but the other machine, though its radiator was smashed, was driven away under its own power. Happeny said he did not see Spacek until it was too late to avoid a crash. Tire marks on the road show that Happeny started to turn for Wells street fully 50 feet before the street intersection was reached.

Raymond N. Finklestein, a salesman of 14 Derby street, Worcester, Mass., was fined $2.00 and costs in police court this morning for failure to stop at a stop sign on the corner of Main and Oak streets March 3. Officer Rudolph Wirtalla testified in court this morning that he gave Finklestein a ticket about 6 p. m. March 3 to report at the police station for the usual traffic fine. Finklestein reported at the station and demanded a trial, saying he did not fail to stop at the intersection and would not pay the two dollar fine.

Bond of $10 was furnished for his appearance in court March 10 but Finklestein was late. He said that police told him that he was due in court at 10 a. m. When he appeared court was over and Raymond's 10 spot was in the safe in lieu of his appearance.

Finklestein still had a little fight left in him and asked for another hearing today. On the stand he said he did not fail to stop at the sign and said Officer Wirtalla could not see him as he was facing the other way and talking with someone on the sidewalk. Wirtalla denied having talked with anyone at the time and said that Finklestein shifted into second speed and made the turn into Main street.

Judge Johnson slapped a $2.00 fine and costs of $7.32 on Finklestein in addition to the forfeiture of the bond of $10 made last Thursday for his failure to appear. Finklestein thought he would like to appeal the case again but when told by Judge Johnson that a bond of $10 was required he paid up and left the courtroom. Altogether he paid a total of $19.32 for a traffic violation.

Armand F. Bourassa, 24, of 892 Burnside avenue, paid $10 and costs yesterday in court for driving without a license.

The Junior choir of St. Mary's Episcopal church will hold its rehearsal Saturday afternoon at 4:30.

TEACHERS' HALL COOK RETURNING TO AUSTRIA

Mrs. Anna Blossom To Meet
Husband Who Could Not Gain Entry Here.

Mrs. Anna Blossom, cook at Teachers' Hall, 1180 Main street, is on the high seas today bound for her native home in Austria, where she will re-join her husband after five years absence. Mrs. Blossom was married six years ago while on a visit to her homeland. Six months later she returned to her work in the United States hoping to be able to make arrangements for her husband to come to this country. She was not successful in this endeavor and finally decided to return home.

Word that her husband's mother was ill induced her to leave earlier than had been planned and she sailed Wednesday at midnight from New York. Prior to her departure, waitresses and others employed in the dining room and kitchen of Teachers' Hall held a surprise party in her honor. Mrs. Blossom was presented with a handsome traveling bag by her co-workers and other gifts by residents of the boarding house. Features of the party were solos by Miss Sophie Naszkowski and dances by Miss Patricia Gedra, dining room waitresses. Mrs. Ruth Kissman, the new cook, also featured with humorous stories.

Mrs. Kissman has been doing the cooking at Chestnut Lodge during the vacation of the regular cook there and previously was employed at the Cheney restaurant which has since been discontinued. She worked at Teachers' Hall once before doing relief work during a vacation.

The Sewing club of the American Legion auxiliary which was to have held a meeting for work tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Sarah Pentland, will omit this get-together because of illness in the Pentland family.

John I. Olson yesterday completed painting and decorating the 60-room dormitory recently constructed in Manchester by the Manchester Construction Company. Painters and decorators have been working on the job for the past two months.

Our New Friday Shopping Plan
To Relieve
The Jam of Saturday Shoppers

Last week we tried this new Friday shopping plan for the first time and it met with instant success. Customers were more than pleased with the idea. Remember all items advertised in Friday night's paper for Saturday business in the Self-Serve and Health Market will be placed on sale Friday afternoon from three o'clock on. This will allow all those who can come down Friday afternoon and do their shopping, avoiding the Saturday rush, an opportunity to buy all items that are advertised in the Herald Friday night.

It has been physically impossible to handle the crowds on Saturday morning and this method is being tried out again this week. We urge you to take advantage of it. Remember! You can have one bundle or a truckload delivered for 10c. You can save that on one item alone by buying at Hale's Food departments.

Burning better coal is step number one in the heating economy program. Using the proper size is step number two. While the third is a possible change in your methods of heater management. Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite will take care of step number one. And we'll take care of steps two and three by a personal call or our booklet.

Old Company's Lehigh hard coal is pure; uniform, high in heating value and low in ash. It burns long, evenly and thoroughly and gives more heat per dollar than any other domestic fuel.
