

G. O. P. REGULARS TRIM INSURGENTS

Manchester Republican Organization Thoroughly Defeats Attempt To Upset Judge Hyde's Committee; Judge Johnson's State Convention Slate Wins; Spiess Quits the Caucus.

An attempt to upset Republican party organization in Manchester, said to have been instigated by Professor Albert Levitt, down-state anti, was completely frustrated last night when Judge William S. Hyde was renominated chairman of the Republican town committee with the power to name his own associates and the Judge Raymond A. Johnson slate of State convention delegates was elected. The caucus, which at times assumed the proportions of a rousing Republican rally, gave the regulars a 5 to 2 victory over the insurgents.

Insurgent Attempt Republican last night's caucus was the most largely attended here in 20 years. The big attendance was directly attributable to the professed attempt of leaders of the Taxpayers' League here to gain control of the local Republican party organization. Sherwood G. Bowers, a League leader, and a follower of Professor Levitt in his fight against the Roraback Republican state organization, was desirous of attending the State convention where an anti-Roraback gesture is planned if sufficient delegates are corralled. Friends of Judge Hyde and Judge Johnson learned of the insurgent plans and turned-out in full numbers, definitely squelching the planned upset.

Spies Quits One of the features of the entertaining caucus was the speedy departure from the hall early in the meeting of Mathias Spiess, president of the League and only recently a Republican. He registered in the party ranks when the Socialist party organization here collapsed. It is thought that Mr. Spiess quit last night's caucus because the gathering failed to heed his plea that the vote on Judge Hyde be by ballot.

Mr. Spiess' speech, if such it were, was later proved to be without justice, since the insurgent vote failed to reach over 189 while the regulars polled 506. Mr. Spiess insisted that a ballot vote should be taken but when the question was put up to the meeting it was turned down, in nowise uncertain terms. Jacob Lauffer, another of the Taxpayers' League leaders, was vehement in his demand for a ballot vote saying that many a voter had lost his job because it was known how he had voted and taken lightly since a vote by acclamation in such a large crowd is nearly as secret as one by ballot.

Meeting Given Treat During the counting of the ballots on the State convention delegates, made necessary because there were seven candidates, the caucus was treated to several interesting speeches and stories by Republican leaders present. So entertaining was the interim that many who had never before attended a caucus said they would surely be present at the next.

The Vote The vote on State convention delegates was as follows: Sherwood G. Bowers 189; Frank V. Williams 128; Willard J. Horton 118; Marjorie Cheney 473; Judge Raymond A. Johnson 468; William J. Shea 481; William J. Thornton 506. The first three candidates were the Taxpayers' League proposals and the last four, who were elected, were the party organization slate.

Vote on Committee First Judge William S. Hyde called the caucus to order shortly after eight o'clock. He was quickly named chairman and Thomas Ferguson was named clerk. When Judge Hyde said the first business before the meeting was the naming of the State convention delegates Judge Johnson moved that the election of the town committee be taken up first. This was voted and the caucus proceeded to name the Republican town committee. Judge Thomas Ferguson assuming the chair during this voting.

Tribute to Judge Hyde Judge Raymond A. Johnson then obtained the floor and said that in excess of the Republican party in Manchester had been due, without question, to the leadership and ability to organize a campaign displayed by Judge Hyde. He moved that Judge Hyde be named chairman of the Republican town committee and that the privilege of naming his own associates be given him. There were several protests but no one opposed to this took the floor to voice any opposition. Jacob Lauffer jumped to his feet and moved that the vote be taken by ballot. Mathias Spiess said also that the vote should be by ballot as did Thomas Trotter. Judge Ferguson then put the

VICTORS

Judge William S. Hyde

Judge Raymond A. Johnson

Judge Hyde and Judge Johnson scored splendid victories here last night when an attempt was made by insurgents to make up of Taxpayers' League leaders to take their Republican party power from them. Judge Hyde was renominated Town Committee chairman and Judge Johnson's slate of State convention delegates was victorious.

HARMONY, KEYNOTE AT THE CAUCUSES

Numerous Contests in State But No Contested Delegation Came As a Result.

By Associated Press The delegate representation in Connecticut to the Republican State convention a fortnight hence, on the basis of town representation in the House of Representatives except where town conventions are needed, was elected last night. The two delegates from each Senatorial district will be chosen Saturday.

State-wide as were the caucuses the party harmony seemed complete. Contests were numerous but out of them came no contested delegations whose standing would be a matter of review by the state committee in perfecting the convention roll.

The contests were over local matters, mainly the chairmanship of a town committee. Others were over election at convention delegates. The contest which put on the best show was in Stratford where Charles E. (Shang) Wheeler had had his control of party affairs threatened by LeRoy Lewis. In a vote of more than 2,000, Wheeler's ticket of delegates won out 1,110 to 988, a margin of 122. Lewis asked all who had been on his side to 'work hard for the interests of the Republican Party.' The town primary lasted from 3 to 9 p. m. and

Girl, 21 Years of Age, Sees Dad for First Time

New York, March 23.—(AP)—A 21-year-old girl saw her father yesterday for the first time but she knew him right away from his pictures. He is Louis Rousseau, French opera singer. He and the girl's mother, daughter of a prominent New York and Dallas lawyer, were divorced a short time before their daughter was born in Dallas, he said. The girl, Miss Louise Rousseau, had no idea where her father was until recently, when she was a student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Then she found his address in a Paris directory of the opera.

STIMSON NOTE ON WORLD COURT STARTS DEBATE

Secretary Says U. S. Has All To Gain and Nothing To Lose By Joining — Johnson Protests.

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Secretary Stimson stated today in a letter to the Senate foreign relations committee that he believes the revised protocol for American adherence to the World Court "fully accepts" the Senate's reservation against advisory jurisdiction by the court.

The secretary's declaration, read to the committee by Chairman Borah, immediately provoked a storm of debate in the executive session and it was decided to ask Mr. Stimson to appear for questioning.

Senator Johnson (R., Calif.), an opponent of the court, declared after the session that "the secretary's statement is at variance with what he has said heretofore."

The committee is sharply divided over whether the revised protocol which Elihu Root helped to frame amply safeguards the reservation voted by the Senate in 1926 to prohibit the court from rendering an advisory opinion in matters in which America is concerned, without first obtaining the consent of this government.

The other powers never accepted this reservation and the revised protocol was drafted.

Stimson Statement Secretary Stimson, who was unable to appear before the committee today because of a cold, ended his letter to Senator Borah with the following statement: "By joining we incur absolutely

POLICE, STRIKERS CLASH IN PENNSY

Officers Clubbed When They Attempt To Break Up Meeting of Miners.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 23.—(AP)—A clash between state police and Larksville borough authorities, resulting in the alleged clubbing of a borough patrolman and a constable when the troopers broke up a meeting of insurgent miners today injected a new note into the unauthorized strike in the anthracite field.

George Bialek, chief of the Larksville police, charged several automobiles with loads of state police came into town today and started to break up a meeting of unemployed miners from a division of the Hudson Coal Company.

No Disorders Borough police were on duty at the time, Bialek said, and there had been no disorder. He termed the action of the state police as "unwarranted."

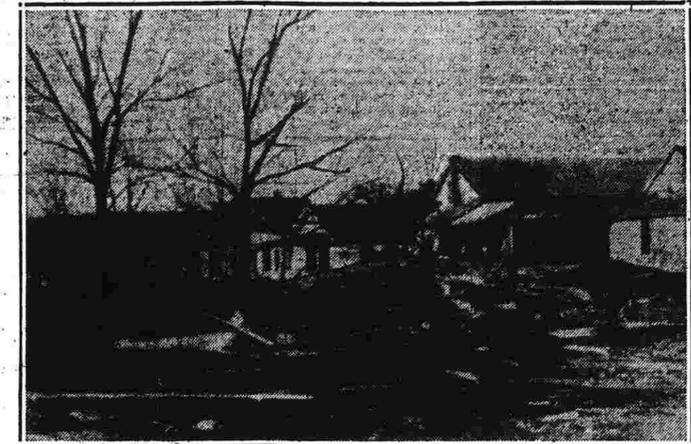

He said the clubbing of his men occurred when they differed with the state police as to the necessity of disrupting the meeting.

Captain William A. Clark, commanding Troop B, state police at Wyoming barracks, termed the account of the affair given by borough authorities as "greatly exaggerated." Only eight or nine state troopers were involved, he said, and he had received no report of any borough police being clubbed.

The meeting of the insurgents was one of a series held every day since the strike started. Most of the picketing in the strike area has been done by miners whose collieries have been abandoned, police said, and some of these men met early each day for assignment to picket duty. About 300 were in the meeting broken up today.

TREASURY BALANCE Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for March 21 were $15,120,405.41; expenditures, $26,871,011.17; balance, $734,043,781.94. Customs duties for 21 days of March were $15,803,889.94.

HOMES LAID WASTE IN CENTRAL ALABAMA

Flattened by the cyclonic winds which whirled through Northport, Ala., buildings are shown here as they appeared, reduced to splinters, soon after the tornado had passed. Scenes of destruction such as this that were visited by a series of fierce twisters in which more than 300 were killed and hundreds injured. Note that while structures in the foreground had been leveled by the winds, others only a few yards away were no more than slightly damaged.

GREAT BRITAIN FIRM ON ALLEGIANCE OATH

Sends Note To Free State Saying That It Is Part of Treaty and Must Be Obeyed—Must Pay Annuities.

London, March 23.—(AP)—Great Britain is determined that Ireland shall neither abolish the oath of allegiance to the British Crown nor discontinue payment of the Irish land annuities, J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, told the House of Commons today.

The British government, said Mr. Thomas, considers that the Free State is bound by the most formal and explicit understanding to continue paying these annuities to the national debt commissioners.

Failure to pay, he asserted, "will be a material violation of an agreement which is binding in law and in honor on the Irish Free State, whatever administration may be in power, in exactly the same way as the treaty itself is binding on both countries."

Text Not Revealed Mr. Thomas did not divulge the text of the British reply to Dublin but

GANGSTER VICTIM FOUND IN AUTO

Hands and Neck Bound With Wire and All Clothing Marks Are Removed.

Chicago, March 23.—(AP)—His hands and neck bound with wire, another victim was found shot to death today in an automobile on Mannheim road, west of Chicago.

Probably he was a casualty of a quarrel over leadership in the teamsters and chauffeurs union, whose quarrel, Timothy J. Lynch, was shot from ambush in the yard of his Maywood home last November. The license of the death car was listed at an address vacated just two months ago by the union offices in Maywood.

The dead man was red haired, about 35 years old. His killing apparently was in the usual gangland manner. Three bullet holes through the head, wire twisted around wrists and neck. Evidently on the floor of a blue sports model sedan parked at Mannheim road and 20th street in Westchester. The revolver, four chambers empty, lying in the snow back of the car. A bullet hole through the automobile top, fired from within. Fingerprints prevented by a single glove left on the floor, and by removal of the ball handle from the rear shift lever.

There was one new departure: A pair of rubber bathing caps, one black and the other white. Police believe they were used to blindfold the victim.

AIRMAIL AWARDS UP FOR DISPUTE

Postmaster Brown Tells Congressmen That Independents Are Starting Trouble.

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Notice was served on Postmaster General Brown today by Chairman Mead, of the House postoffice committee, that unless changes were made in awarding airmail extensions, legislation to that end would be enacted.

This brought a rejoinder from Brown, who was testing out the essence of these complaints is that those complaining have no airmail contracts.

Nothing but contracts will stop these complaints, he added. The postmaster general previously defended the right of the department to make the extensions and told the committee it had heard too much from men who would not be satisfied with any law.

When several committee members cited offers from independent operators who would carry the mail for half present costs Brown said: "That's ridiculous! It's too absurd to talk about."

Urges Competition Mead predicted passage of his legislation to compel competitive advertisement of all future extensions, and cancellation of routes granted by the postmaster general without advertising for bids, unless the postoffice department's policy is changed.

He added he thought it was the committee's "moral duty" to keep complaints against the postoffice department's administration of the air mail law "down to a minimum."

When the question of monopoly was put before the postmaster general, he said: "I don't myself believe in competition in public service."

Stones J. Cracy, general field representative of the American Red Cross, said additional Red Cross workers were arriving in Georgia today for disaster work.

The death list in the vicinity of Carterville, Ga., was increased to 11 today as rescue workers reached an isolated mountain district and found twenty farm houses in ruins.

Here the workers learned Alfred Hightower, 22 year old farmer, had been killed and 14 others hurt. Food and medical aid were carried into the district.

Mass Funerals Mass funerals in many instances for entire families, were held yesterday for many of the victims and the work of burying the dead continued today.

The injuries of many of them with pain told many stories of horror but to a majority of them it was the same story—a deep rumbling that grew louder, a slow moving, funnel-shaped black cloud lying over the town.

The State Department of Agriculture at Montgomery has its country agents in the field checking the damage to crops and property. It is estimated the loss would run into the millions.

At Northport where 32 were killed and more than 100 injured, relief work was well in hand. National Guardsmen were expected to be withdrawn today.

WAR CLOUDS LOWER AGAIN OVER CHINA

Japanese Claim Chinese Are Digging Trenches Within the "War Zone."

Shanghai, March 23.—(AP)—War clouds again lowered over Shanghai late this afternoon as Japanese officials announced they were preparing to take strong measures to block a reported re-entry into the 12-1-2 mile zone by Chinese troops.

The Japanese said they were informed by observers that the Chinese had crossed Soochow creek at Chinwangtao, within the zone of evacuation described in General Uryud's ultimatum of February 20.

Japanese officials asked British consular authorities to request the Chinese to withdraw south of the creek. A spokesman said the Chinese were digging themselves in on the north side of the stream, opposite the Japanese lines, with the apparent intention of remaining.

The pessimistic situation was deepened by the failure of the Nanking government to appoint a military delegate to the peace parleys to replace General Chiang Kuang Nai who walked out of the conference this morning, complaining that the Japanese had sent General Kenkichi Uryud who was only a lieutenant-general and beneath his rank.

Parleys Delayed The prospect tonight was that the parleys would be delayed at least until Thursday.

Japanese authorities expressed concern over the situation might be more deep-seated than appeared. An opinion was freely expressed among the public that the Chinese military leaders were anxious to escape participating in the parleys, believing they would be subjected to criticism regardless of the outcome.

Meanwhile the League of Nations commission of inquiry, which had intended to stay here until a truce was assured, arranged today to leave for Nanking on Saturday.

On the way it will split into two groups, one going to Nanking and the other stopping off to visit the Hangchow airfield where bombs were dropped by Japanese planes. This group will join the others at Nanking later.

For the past two days the commissioners have been studying the local situation with the Chinese and foreign authorities. Japanese businessmen also have been consulted.

At Nanking they will remain until the end of the month before going to Peiping.

NO RAY OF HOPE IN LINDY'S CASE

Today's Bulletin From Home States That No New Clues Are Uncovered.

Hopewell, N. J., March 23.—(AP)—The morning bulletin from police at the Lindbergh home today was in effect a mere reiteration that the kidnaped Lindbergh baby is still missing and that all clues have proven worthless.

Supt. of State Police H. Norman Schwarzkopf said again in the bulletin that information brought by S. Wallace Caldwell of Chicago had been found to have no bearing of value to the case.

He said he had heard nothing of a rumor the baby was held on an island off the Colombian coast.

He minimized the possibility of there being any connection between the kidnaping and the alleged attempt of George Malden to break into the home of J. Seward Johnson.

He said there was no proof one way or the other that a note found on a pigeon's leg in East Stroudsburg, Pa., was a prank.

Concerning a note reported to have been found on a pigeon in South Kent Conn., he said he had only the report and had seen neither the pigeon nor the note.

No Ray of Hope

And that string of negatives was the whole content of the day's official bulletin, which held no single shred of hope that solution of the mystery would soon be reached.

Meanwhile racketeers' reach, groping for the stolen Lindbergh baby has proved no longer than the law's.

Owney Madden whose name looms large in the annals of Manhattan's underworld has been working on the mystery 30 days without result. He has made three trips to the Lindbergh estate.

Madden, who once ruled Hell's Kitchen by terror has been fighting an attempt to return him to Sing Sing prison as a parole violator.

Three undercover men working independently of authorities also have failed to get the baby back thus far. They are Salvy Spitalo and Irving Bits, authorized by the Lindberghs to deal with the kidnapers, and Morris Rosar who announced the baby was safe and would be returned. The announcement was made more than 10 days ago.

WHO WOULDN'T?

Whiting, a close personal friend of Calvin Coolidge, was removed from the official Republican list of delegates yesterday by National Committeeman Louis K. Liggett, who said that "anyone who placed himself above the party" would not be on the regular slate.

Whiting, however, had qualified as a candidate from the First District as an unpledged delegate. He denied his refusal to include the phrase "pledged to Hoover" on his nomination papers had any significance other than to make clear that he did not wish to go to the convention with his "hands tied."

Liggett gave Whiting's place on the official slate to former Mayor Harry B. Putnam of Westfield.

Political observers, in discussing Whiting's action, recalled that he was a personal friend of Calvin Coolidge and voted for his Northampton neighbor at the 1920 convention on all of the 10 ballots which finally ended with the nomination of Warren G. Harding.

From his home in Holyoke last night Whiting denied he had any hostility toward President Hoover and that he regarded the President "very highly." In answer to a question as to the possibility of a move to draft Coolidge, he said his understanding was that Coolidge was not available in any way.

In the Ninth District two Republican slates appeared, both pledged to Hoover, but representing the prohibition factions in the district.

The two Democratic slates, one pledged to Alfred E. Smith and the other to Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, found opposition in several districts as unpledged candidates filed nomination papers with the secretary of state just before the time for filing closed.

OBITUARY

FUNERALS

Mrs. Anna Marie Zaccaro

The funeral of Mrs. Anna Marie Zaccaro was held this morning from her home, 102 Charter Oak street, at 9 o'clock and at St. James' church at 9:30. Rev. Patrick Killen was celebrant of the solemn requiem high mass; Rev. William Reidy, deacon, and Rev. Francis Hinchey of Rockville, sub-deacon. As the body was borne into the church, Organist Charles B. Packard played "Solemn Voluntary" by Reineke; at the offertory Miss Helen Washkewicz sang "O Salutaris."

At the elevation, Mrs. Margaret Sullivan sang "De Profundis" and at the conclusion "Saved By Grace." As the body was borne from the church the organist played "Marche Funebre."

Among many floral contributions was a large wreath from the Sub-Alpine Club.

The bearers were Anthony Cerimonte, Paolo Ferrari, Salvatore Vendrella, Nicola Montano, Louis Russo and Frank Damato. Burial was in St. James' cemetery.

EASTER BREAKFAST

An Easter breakfast will be served Sunday morning at the Y. M. C. A. between the hours of 8:30 and 10 o'clock, in the banquet hall on the upper floor, continuing a custom that has obtained for a number of years at the "White House" now a part of the new institution.

Miss Christine Mason will be in charge and a choice of several appetizing breakfast combinations will be possible, including fruit, bacon and eggs, sausages and waffles, doughnuts and coffee.

It will be noticed that those planning to attend the Easter services at almost any of the local churches, may time their breakfast accordingly. These breakfasts have always been popular and are open to all at a moderate charge.

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—The House took time today to applaud a new record-breaker—Representative Gilbert Haugen, of Iowa. By serving consecutively for 33 years and 20 days he made a new mark for his colleagues and successors to shoot at.

Republicans and Democrats alike arose to honor him.

"He is the grand old Roman of them all, everybody's friend," Representative Snell said.

Haugen came to Congress in 1899 and is serving his 17th consecutive term.

The previous record was held by Henry Harrison Bingham of Pennsylvania who when he died March 22, 1912, had served continuously for 33 years and 19 days.

EXTEND MORATORIUM

Paris, March 23.—(AP)—Reports in financial circles today said the League of Nations financial committee has advised Hungary to continue the moratorium on foreign payments decreed last December at least until the economic position improves.

It recommended also that Hungary make an arrangement with her creditors and that priority be guaranteed for loans in Central Europe sponsored by the league.

The report will not be published until after it is submitted to the League Council next month but it was understood it recognizes the necessity of a loan to Austria and another to Greece and that there was a recommendation for a temporary reduction of 50 per cent in the Bulgarian external debt service.

ATTEMPTS TO KILL FRENCH NET STAR

Woman in Balcony Tries To Hurl Knife At Jean Borotra Playing Below.

New York, March 23.—(AP)—A woman in red, screaming her fury from a front row balcony seat at the Seventh Regiment Armory, attempted unsuccessfully to hurl a knife at Jean Borotra, French tennis star, during a doubles match of the Franco-United States indoor championships last night.

Her arm, flashing with gems, was drawn back as though to send the long paper knife her fingers held down upon the court, when it was seized by a man nearby. His fingers tightened about her wrist, and the knife fell harmlessly to the floor.

At the time of the attempted attack Borotra, paired with Antoine Gentien, was playing against the American team of George Lott and John Van Ryn.

Fights furiously Half a dozen men seated nearby went to the aid of the man who had stayed the woman's hand. She fought them furiously. Her red evening gown was torn, and she lost a slipper. She still was screaming when police later sought to question her. Finally they sent her to Bellevue hospital for observation.

Her identity was not learned. She gave as many as eight names and addresses when questioned at the police station. Many fashionably garbed persons, riding up in costly, chauffeured motor cars, arrived at the police station while she was being questioned, but none was able to identify her.

The excitement was confined to the section of the balcony in which the woman was seated, and the players were unaware of it until the matches ended.

HOLDS HOUSE RECORD

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—The House took time today to applaud a new record-breaker—Representative Gilbert Haugen, of Iowa. By serving consecutively for 33 years and 20 days he made a new mark for his colleagues and successors to shoot at.

Republicans and Democrats alike arose to honor him.

"He is the grand old Roman of them all, everybody's friend," Representative Snell said.

Haugen came to Congress in 1899 and is serving his 17th consecutive term.

The previous record was held by Henry Harrison Bingham of Pennsylvania who when he died March 22, 1912, had served continuously for 33 years and 19 days.

ABOUT TOWN

Senator Hiram Bingham, who will be one of the speakers at the thirty-first annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday evening, April 5, will be the guest of Colonel Clifford Cheney of 40 Forest street, during his stay in Manchester. Senator Bingham and Colonel Cheney were classmates at Yale University.

CLAIMS AMERICANS ARE STARVING NOW

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Representative Conroy (D., Mass.) today told the House rules committee that "Americans are dying of starvation by the hundreds," in appealing for legislative right of way for his bill to provide $700,000,000 for loans to states for relief purposes.

"Their bodies are found in their rooms and pneumonia or something else is given as the cause," he said.

Conroy, chairman of the labor committee, explained his bill would provide that cash be advanced to states on securities and promises to pay.

"The purpose is to grant emergency relief by cooperation of the Federal government with the several states in relieving the hardship and suffering caused by unemployment," he said.

The rules committee took it under consideration.

approached the governor, seated at a large table in the executive reception room and exclaimed: "Governor, we all love you and all of us are back of you."

The four men who flew over were Councilman Wormsland, Pallotti and Roche of Hartford, and a party worker named Orin.

Mrs. Roosevelt told the delegation "Connecticut is almost my home—it is right in my back yard." The governor's home, Hyde Park, is only a few miles from the Connecticut line.

Dr. Dolan said the caravan was made up of representative Democrats from every Congressional and executive district of the state.

BENCH WARRANTS FOR HARTFORD MEN

Hartford, March 23.—(AP)—Bench warrants for the arrest of Raymond H. French, chairman of the Northwest School District committee and Abraham A. Katz, one of the committeemen, on charges of accepting graft from "divers persons" with whom they made certain contracts and transacted certain business," as district officials, were issued by Judge Edwin C. Dickenson in Superior Court this afternoon, at the request of State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn.

This climax to the investigation into extravagance and graft in the administration of district affairs follows close upon the submission of an auditor's examination of the district records and two long conferences with the state's attorney by Katz, one of the committeemen.

Both Mr. French and Mr. Katz are former members of the board of aldermen.

POSTAL SERVICE HERE CURTAILED GOOD FRIDAY

There will be no afternoon delivery at the South Manchester Post Office on Good Friday, it was announced today by Frank E. Crocker, postmaster. The schedule is as follows: full morning city carrier; parcel delivery until noon; regular rural carrier delivery; money order window closed all day; stamp, registry, parcel post and general delivery window open from 7:30 a. m. to 6 p. m.; lobby open from 7 a. m. to 7:30 p. m.

Mails will be received and dispatched according to the regular schedules all day. The Manchester Post Office will operate on the same schedule except that the department has no rural delivery. Postmaster Ernest F. Brown announces.

LIQUOR CONFISCATED

New London, March 23.—(AP)—The aroma of rye, bourbon and Scotch whiskeys and the sparkle of champagne today brought delight to drys, while wets were crestfallen for in the yard in the rear of the Customs house men were destroying $100,000 worth of liquor under the supervision of U. S. Marshal Jacob D. Walter.

The wreckers' hammers were falling on bottles taken from 2,100 sacks of the choicest Rum Row wet goods.

The liquor was that taken from the speedboats Choctaws, Milt, Monalisa and K-2845 and the dragger Olympia, all seized by the Coast Guard. It was stored in the Customs house after being surrendered to the Collector of Customs and consigned to be destroyed by Federal Court order.

DAHLBERG SEEKS DIVORCE

Chicago, March 23.—(AP)—Ernest G. Dahlberg, head of the Celotex Company and developer of vast sugar cane estates, filed suit in the Circuit Court today for a divorce from Mrs. Mary Dahlberg, charging desertion.

The Dahlbergs were married in November, 1921.

Last November, Dahlberg was thrust into prominence in a Senate investigation during which it was revealed that S. S. Eversland, former vice president of the Dahlberg company, had accused the Chicagoan of paying $100,000 to unnamed Senators to obtain a high duty on sugar prior to the passage of the Smoot-Hawley tariff.

Dahlberg was exonerated of the charges.

DELEGATE REFUSES PLEDGE TO HOOVER

Republican Leaders Speculate Why Friend of Coolidge Won't Aid President.

Boston, March 23.—(AP)—Political circles in Massachusetts buzzed with speculation today upon the possible significance of the refusal of William F. Whiting, former secretary of Commerce, to go to the Republican National convention as a delegate pledged to President Hoover.

Whiting, a close personal friend of Calvin Coolidge, was removed from the official Republican list of delegates yesterday by National Committeeman Louis K. Liggett, who said that "anyone who placed himself above the party" would not be on the regular slate.

Whiting, however, had qualified as a candidate from the First District as an unpledged delegate. He denied his refusal to include the phrase "pledged to Hoover" on his nomination papers had any significance other than to make clear that he did not wish to go to the convention with his "hands tied."

Liggett gave Whiting's place on the official slate to former Mayor Harry B. Putnam of Westfield.

Political observers, in discussing Whiting's action, recalled that he was a personal friend of Calvin Coolidge and voted for his Northampton neighbor at the 1920 convention on all of the 10 ballots which finally ended with the nomination of Warren G. Harding.

CONSTRUCTION WORK ON NEW P. O. STARTS

Lot Staked Out Today As Firm Says Local Men Will Be Given Jobs.

John S. Rankin, engineer in charge of construction for Pieretti Brothers of Centerbrook today started the preliminary work on the new Manchester post office. Workmen drove stakes starting at a point 12 feet west of the west wall of the Masonic Temple carrying the lines 78 feet west to Center and along an angle to Main where it is to be the main entrance to the building.

Stakes were also driven on the Main street side of the lot on a 58 foot front. Tomorrow men will be engaged in building sheds for supplies and an office at the rear of the lot. Monday actual work on the excavation will be started.

It is the intention of the contractors, Mr. Rankin stated, to employ as many local men as it is possible to use for the work. Some local workmen have already been engaged, as several went to the office of the company in Centerbrook and they made application for jobs.

A large crowd of people watched the engineer and his workmen stake out the boundaries of the building today.

NEW REVENUE BILL DECIDED TOMORROW

twenty per cent maximum, because of the involved wording of the amendment," he said. "As a matter of fact, the Ramseyer amendment only increases the committee's recommendation by five per cent, but it does lower the exemption from $100,000 to $50,000."

"In Addition" Ramseyer explained the impression was gathered because the amendment proposed by Representative Ramseyer (R., Iowa), said the levies proposed were to be "in addition to the estate tax imposed" by the Revenue Act of 1926.

The committee had proposed an increase from 20 to 40 per cent in the maximum rate, the additional 20 per cent to be a super-tax, and not shared in by the states on an eighty-twenty per cent basis.

Ramseyer also said many members thought the Ramseyer amendment was 45 per cent above the 20 per cent in existing law in view of the Iowa's explanation "that the amendment I offer does not affect the existing law."

FOUR IN ROCKVILLE ARE JAILED IN BOOZE RAIDS

Terms From 10 To 90 Days Imposed by Court Besides Heavy Fines—Boys On Probation.

Rockville, March 23.—(Special)—Rockville police began a clean-up campaign against local bootleggers last night when raiding parties led by Captain Stephen Tobin and Sergeant Richard Shea descended on residents in the Polish section of the city and made four arrests, all on the same charge of sale and possession of liquor. In Police Court this morning, Judge John E. Fisk meted out severe punishment to the offenders, with fines totaling $650 and jail sentences of 220 days.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Girls' Team Defeated 31-18 The girls' basketball team was defeated yesterday afternoon in the second game of the season by West Hartford 31 to 18. Last week the team won from Stafford Springs. The girls' teamwork was not as good yesterday as last week but their guarding surpassed the West Hartford team to some extent. Shots for baskets were not carefully aimed although Ida Richman, who starred in last week's game also, shot the score up twelve points with Doris Von Deck making the remaining six. Both Dot Lyttle and Ada Webb played at center jump and the two teams were about equal in securing the jump. Doris Cervino and Evelyn Peckham showed excellent passing and guarding. Clara Richardson and Ina Geagham were the outstanding players for West Hartford. Whether the team will play any more games this season is not known but there are rumors that several games are pending.

George Cajiton Beeny of Hartford Public High school has entered the lower sophomore class at M. H. S. Because Frank Lens who was to have spoken to the assembly this week, will be unable to be present, Rev. Elmer Thienes will talk. Mr. Lens will, however, address the assembly on May 19.

A photograph and statement are on exhibition at Manchester High to announce that Miss Ruth P. It was arrested last night at 6:28 o'clock on Main street by Officer Raymond Griffin. Waite was examined by Dr. LeVerne Holmes and Dr. Mortimer Moriarty.

Kazakievicius, who lives with William Gedraitis, was arrested after several complaints had been received at the police station that a row was in full blast at 19 Homestead yesterday afternoon. Officer Griffin investigated and found the interior of the house covered with broken eggs and the occupants deep in argument. He arrested Kazakievicius.

GEORGIA'S PRIMARY A ROOSEVELT TEST

New Yorker Certain To Win But Politicians Want To Know His Strength.

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—The third popular test of the Roosevelt strength came today in Georgia's presidential preference primary, a contest in which the New Yorker is sure to win but which is looked to for statistical evidence of his popularity in the South.

Georgia will complete a double three-way test for Roosevelt. He won New Hampshire in New England over Alfred E. Smith. He won North Dakota in the west over Governor Murray of Oklahoma and C. H. Howard of Atlanta who seeks to throw the state's strength to John N. Garner.

The vote today shared attention with another outstanding Roosevelt development in the capital. Last night here Senator Barkley of Kentucky gave his support to Roosevelt as a candidate offering the right leadership for the party's greatest chance at victory since Woodrow Wilson was elected in 1912. Barkley made the declaration in a letter to Dr. James H. Richmond, Kentucky's state superintendent of insurance in which he definitely declined an offer of a favorite son vote for himself from the Blue Grass delegation.

"This is no time for compliments," he observed.

McAdoo for Garner. His statement came soon after William C. McAdoo's call on Speaker Garner and his ensuing prediction that though the Californian would cast her 44 votes for Garner rather than for Roosevelt or Alfred E. Smith, the other candidates entered in that state.

Another Democratic spokesman turned his attention to the Republican Senator Bratton of New Mexico in a statement issued through his party's national committee, said it seemed to him President Hoover's duty toward his country supporters if not the entire country is to give his position on prohibition. He said the Republican Party seemed bent on adopting a platform for a more liberal prohibition attitude, and that the President's acceptance of or objection to such a stand should be known.

Mr. Hoover by virtue of winning Iowa's 25 delegates yesterday, now has a total of eighty votes definitely instructed or pledged, with eleven more claimed. Only Republican delegates chosen, but not for him, are two North Dakotans instructed for "Progress."

Roosevelt, leading the Democrats, will have his total raised to 85 by Georgia's 28. These, however, will not be named today but in state convention, April 6.

GREEN FLIER RESCUES PILOT IN AIRPLANE

San Diego, Calif., March 23.—(AP)—When the Marine Corps made Himer M. Torner an emergency corporal, it did not realize he would take his rating literally. Torner, a novice in the air, went aloft as a passenger in a training plane yesterday with Staff Sergeant Orla S. Hofer.

Over Camp Kearney, at an elevation of 5,000 feet, Sergeant Hofer became ill, fainted and fell against the controls.

Torner saw the plane being a quick but crazy descent toward the camp buildings. Realizing an emergency existed, he crawled out of his cockpit, pulled the unconscious sergeant away from the controls—and the Marines, or rather the Marine, had the situation once more in hand.

Although his maneuvering would not have qualified him for a pilot's license, Torner brought the plane out of its spin with the ground but 500 feet away, shot it up to 3,000 feet and then felling he had mastered the plane, brought it to an awkward landing on the wrong runway at the Army flying field.

When Army officials reached the plane to inquire the reason for the unscheduled maneuvers over their buildings, they found Torner applying first aid treatment to Hofer, who was quickly revived.

HEATER FORCES PLANTS

Pittsburgh, March 23.—(AP)—Engineers have developed an electric heater which "pushes" plant life.

Experiments have shown lettuce breaks ground in three days; tomatoes over the heater are bigger and more uniform than those in adjacent beds unheated; geraniums take root in 18 days instead of 30; from 95 to 89 out of 100 double petunia cuttings take root where five out of 100 formerly did.

The heater is placed in a wooden box under the hotbed. A thermostat controls temperature to uniformity.

Dial Twisters

By W. J. DALTON

The automatic volume control as applied to the newer models of electric radios has been confusing to many listeners who do not entirely understand this worth-while feature. So many complain that the machine does not have the power or selectivity of sets not so equipped. This is a fallacy but only time and experience can show the desirability of this device. The many advantages are well known to engineers designing new models for the coming season and few manufacturers will have the temerity to call their sets complete without including some form of automatic control of volume.

One of the greatest advantages is the reducing of the effects of fading which has been a curse since the beginning of radio broadcasting. The distortion or nasal twang which we hear is a form of fading which cannot be eliminated. This is due, according to scientists, to the lack of sunspots and until these spots again appear (within another year or so) this distortion must be tolerated.

The apparent lack of power in the radio is due to the fact that when the manual volume control is set all stations come in at the same predetermined volume. By that we mean that if you are listening to a Chicago station and then turn to one of the Hartford stations the volume of the Hartford station will not be any greater, due to the automatic volume control not allowing the volume to increase or decrease beyond that set by the manual control. It is the eliminating of the blasting-in of stations that make people think that the set lacks power where, as a matter of fact, the radio is better in distance-getting ability than a set without a v. l.

I am sorry to have one of my readers (the only reader probably) think that I belittled Jimmy Wallington in the last article. I did not mean to give that impression because to our mind his personality is not recalled on the air when given the opportunity. And his opportunity does not occur when George Jessel is around. Little George sees to it that everyone else is subordinate to him even Jimmy Wallington and Rubenoff. Jessel, Edna Wallace Hopper and Elsie Janis are good when they can be seen as well as heard but there is something essential which is lacking when only their voices are in evidence.

A person is great only by comparison; take one person and stack him up against another—one of them will stand out. This is true whether it is over the air, on the stage or in every-day life and it holds true when criticizing the personalities on the Chase and Sarnoff hour. It is so easy to be critical when watching the other fellow do the job.

Another Democratic spokesman turned his attention to the Republican Senator Bratton of New Mexico in a statement issued through his party's national committee, said it seemed to him President Hoover's duty toward his country supporters if not the entire country is to give his position on prohibition. He said the Republican Party seemed bent on adopting a platform for a more liberal prohibition attitude, and that the President's acceptance of or objection to such a stand should be known.

SUNRISE SERVICE FOR GOOD FRIDAY PLANNED

Nearly a Hundred Expected To Gather On Sunset Hill As Epworth League Guests.

Arrangements have been completed for the annual Sunrise Service on Sunset Hill, off Hackmatack street on Good Friday morning at 5:30 o'clock, sponsored by the Epworth League of the South Methodist church. The Young People's Federation has been invited to attend the service as guests of the League and nearly a hundred persons are expected to be present.

The speaker will be Ensign George Williams of the local Salvation Army. Rev. L. Theron French will have charge of the devotionals. Following the service, coffee and doughnuts will be served by the host League.

Those planning to attend are requested to meet at the South Methodist church. If the weather is inclement the service will be held in the church.

THEATERS

STATE

"No One Man" Carol Lombard, Paul Lukas and Ricardo Cortez in a screen adaptation of Rupert Hughes' best seller, "No One Man," heads the new program at the State today and Thursday. Una Merkel and William Collier, Jr., will be seen in the co-feature, "The Secret Witness."

"The Secret Witness" a thrilling mystery story. To tell in advance any of the details of the plot is to destroy a great part of the enjoyment derived from seeing it, but "The Secret Witness" is one mystery that sticks in your memory. William Collier, Jr., has the type of role for which he is best suited, that of a young man the victim of series of unusual circumstances.

The latest news weekly completes this excellent program.

GIRLS FLEE FUMES

Boston, March 23.—(AP)—Sixty girl workers were driven from the plant of the Edgar P. Lewis Confectionery Company in the downtown wholesale district today when a bursting ammonia pipe released its fumes through the building.

The girls were at work on the third floor. The pipe was located in the basement. Six of the girls were taken to the Haymarket relief hospital but their condition was not regarded as serious.

MERCHANT MISSING

Naples, March 23.—(AP)—Ernst Gunther, 64-year-old Norfolk, Va., merchant still was missing today, police announced, although it was reported last night that he had been found aboard the steamer Conte Biancamano.

He was a passenger on the liner for a Mediterranean cruise but disappeared from the ship on March 10 at Philadelphia. Yesterday police were informed he had rejoined the vessel at Naples before it sailed for Genoa. Today they discovered this person was another man of the same name who had been at Sorren since October.

BANK REOPENS

Gloucester, Mass., March 23.—(AP)—The Gloucester National Bank in Massachusetts and fifth oldest in the country which closed its doors Dec. 15, reopened for business today.

Thomas J. Carroll, president, and all officers of the institution at the time it was closed remain in charge. The 30-day law was invoked in the savings department as the bank resumed business.

The institution was one of a number affiliated with the closed Federal National Bank of Boston. Recently it raised $250,000 in new capital and effected a reorganization of its financial structure.

The bank was opened in 1796.

SAILORS AT LIBERTY

San Pedro, Calif., March 23.—(AP)—Almost all of the nation's naval strength was assembled today in the San Pedro-San Diego area of the Pacific ocean.

More than 40,000 officers and men from 152 ships were on their first shore leave after a month at sea in the business of playing at war.

The next fortnight will be spent in the two ports for leave and liberty for personnel, and athletic competition for the All-Navy championships in every sport except football. Meantime all ships will undergo an overhaul of machinery in preparation for forced battle practice.

MARLBOROUGH

Mrs. Lydia Kneeland Lord, widow of Roger B. Lord, died at her home in this place Saturday night from influenza. Mrs. Lord was in her 88th year and had spent the greater part of her life in this town. She was a member of the Congregational church and had been a member of the Dorcas society for more than 65 years.

Mrs. Lord leaves three sons, Eugene B. and Norman R. Lord of this place, and Fred M. Lord of Providence, R. I., and one daughter, Mrs. Roswell Chamberlain of Westchester. There are several grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the home Tuesday afternoon, Rev. E. T. Thieme officiating, and burial was in Hillside cemetery.

Miss Harriet Greene and John Papani of Wickford, R. I., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Lord the first of the week.

Joseph Rankl, Jr., and Miss Eugenie Baumgartner of Hartford were married March 16 at St. Andrew's church, Colchester, by Father Griffin. Miss Mary Rankl, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid and John Winiel of East Hampton was best man.

Miss Louise Carroll, a former teacher here, and her mother, Mrs. Edith Carroll, both of East Had-dam, called on Mr. and Mrs. Clayton S. Bolles the first of the week.

Mrs. Gustave Schadle is at the St. Francis hospital, Hartford, for an operation.

There was a meeting of the town school committee at the library Thursday evening. It was voted to ask the same teachers to return another year at reduced salaries.

Miss Fanny A. Bligh, who is a teacher in Glastonbury, spent the week-end at her home in this place.

SUGGESTION REJECTED

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—A suggestion by Senator Tydings of Maryland that a speakership be included in a prohibition fair to be held here April 17, has been rejected.

The Maryland Democrat, an anti-prohibitionist, proposed this in a letter to William Rufus Scott, director of the fair.

In a statement today the organization said a speakership had not been planned because they "are as old as the liquor traffic itself" and had not been produced by prohibition.

A modern soda fountain will be included, however, "to typify the general shift to soft drinks under prohibition."

POPE RECEIVES EX-KING

Vatican City, March 23.—(AP)—The Pope received former King Manuel of Portugal in private audience today.

Although King Manuel is without a throne he was received with the honors accorded royalty.

He afterwards visited Cardinal Pacelli who later returned the call on behalf of the Pope.

FINDS HIGH SPEED WAS FATAL CRASH CAUSE

Coroner Says W. A. Love Could Not Have Made Turn At Rate His Car Traveled.

Coroner John H. Yeomans of Andover has just rendered his formal finding on the death of William A. Love, Harvard student who was killed at Leonard's Corner on the Stafford-Rockville highway on March 11, and places the sole responsibility on the speed at which Love was driving, though he advocates remedying the dangerous situation at the intersection where the accident occurred. The finding is as follows:

"William A. Love, Jr., of Honolulu was instantly killed when the automobile he was driving overturned at Leonard's Corner on the Stafford-Rockville highway on March 11, 1932, about 8:30 p. m.

"Love, a student at the Harvard Engineering School, was operating a Mercedes touring car and was en route from Boston to Poughkeepsie at the time of the accident. He was accompanied by Elizabeth Anderson, also of Honolulu, a student at the New England Conservatory of Music.

"At Leonard's Corner the road from Stafford intersects the Rockville-Tolland highway at right angles. It is necessary for one traveling in the same direction as Love to make a sharp turn to the right after traversing a stretch of road which is straight for nearly a mile.

"The marks on the highway indicated that Love was traveling at such a high rate of speed that it was just impossible to make the turn above described. The car skidded and went nearly sideways for a short distance. It then turned completely over, throwing Miss Anderson out and injuring her slightly. Love remained in the seat and was crushed as the car rolled over.

"The car was apparently in good condition before the crash.

"I find that the accident and the resulting death was caused by the high rate of speed at which the deceased operated his car and by his failure to keep his car under proper control while traveling over an unfamiliar highway.

"I further find that a very dangerous condition exists at this corner and that steps should be taken to improve this."

EX-CONVICT KILLED

Boston, March 23.—(AP)—One man was dead, another wounded and three were in custody today as a result of a police drive against crime.

Harry C. Ellmore, 34, ex-convict known to police as the "Human Fly" for his skill in reaching upper stories of buildings, was killed by a bullet from his own gun in a scuffle with police who seized him as he stepped from an automobile in the Back Bay. His two companions, Mrs. Irene Fore, 25, and Robert Du-cayne, 31, were taken in custody by police.

Ellmore was connected with a recent series of holdups in a winter series of holdups.

Later, Joseph Hopping, 32, was shot in the thigh as he attempted to escape from a squad of officers. Police said he was a friend of Ellmore.

CONVENTION BADGES

Rochester, N. Y., March 23.—(AP)—Badges to be worn by the delegates and visitors to the Republican National convention in Chicago next June are being made by a Rochester firm. The same concern also bid for the Democratic badge job.

Fifteen thousand badges were ordered. One set is for delegates, another for alternates, another for visitors, one for the newspaper folk and a fifth set for National committeemen and convention officers. The last class of emblems will be gold plated. The badge bill will be $7,500.

The face of the badge is Houdon's bust of George Washington. It is well known, as it has been used on all government posters, postage stamps and documents commemorating the bicentennial birthday of the First President. The Capitol dome also is part of the design.

NEW TROOPS SAIL

Tokyo, March 23.—(AP)—Several batches of 1932 conscripts are en route to Manchuria to replace men of General Jiro Tamen's Second Division whose time has expired.

The war office withheld figures but it was authoritatively estimated the recruits approximate 3,000, drafted in January at Sendai and other northeastern towns, home territory of the Second Division. They will begin sailing from Nigata and other western ports tomorrow.

The war office said this was purely a routine replacement and would not increase the strength of the Second Division as the number of men returning home at the expiration of their two-year conscript period will equal the number of recruits sent.

SUSPECT KIDNAPING

Boston, March 23.—(AP)—New England police were searching today for Mary D. Battista, 15, a continuation school pupil and a Newark, N. J., man, who were believed traveling northward in an old touring car.

The man was said by police to have told school authorities the girl's mother was ill and had sent for her daughter.

The girl was excused and when she did not return home at her usual time her mother told police she believed the child had been kidnaped. Police were told the girl's clothing and several pictures of the family also had vanished.

The MODERN ALL-GAS KITCHEN Has Automatic Refrigeration

AS SILENT AS AN ARCTIC NIGHT

The reason for the superiority of the automatic gas refrigerator is summed up in three words—Better—Quicker—Cheaper.

Scientists have long known that the absorption principle used in gas refrigeration is the most effective principle of automatic refrigeration.

Thousands are turning to gas refrigerators in 1932 because they are completely silent, because they have no machinery to grind and wear, because they are more dependable and more economical.

There are attractive models on our display floor in various sizes to meet any purse. And, too, the most convenient payments may be arranged.

MISS FULLER TO TALK ON SPRING DECORATING

Tonight at 8:15 Watkins Brothers will present Miss Margaret Fuller, well known interior decorator, in a lecture "New Ideas for Redecorating Your Home for Spring." The lecture will be held in the store auditorium at 11 Oak street, and is free to the public.

Miss Fuller is a graduate of the Massachusetts School of Art and has conducted interior decorating courses for the retail trade department of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. She has also lectured to numerous women's clubs throughout New England.

Miss Fuller was formerly with the Jordan Marsh Company of Boston for five years as instructor in line, color and design and their relationship to store merchandising; stylist of all home furnishings departments; interior decorator in charge of interior store display of home furnishings, decorated rooms, Budget House, window, etc., and instructor of all sales people in all merchandise.

Last fall Miss Fuller visited Watkins Brothers and redid their suite of furnished rooms for the fall and winter season, the decorative schemes having met with the approval of hundreds who visited the store and inspected the "Cottage."

ANOTHER SPECIAL STAMP

Postmasters here have received notification of another special postage stamp, this one commemorating the sixtieth anniversary of the establishment of Arbor Day which is April 22.

The date also marks the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of J. Sterling Morton, through whose efforts a day was first officially set aside for the planting of trees by the State of Nebraska in 1872. The Arbor stamp will be of the two cent denomination.

It will be first placed on sale in Nebraska City, home of the late Mr. Morton, on April 22 and in other places as soon as production permits, dates to be announced later. Stamp collectors desiring first day cancellations may send a limited number of addressed covers, not to exceed 25, to the postmaster at Nebraska City, Neb., with a cash or postal money order remittance to exactly cover the value of the stamps required for affixing.

Wall Street

New York, March 23.—(AP)—Pending complete establishment of some of the higher prices now quoted, the "Iron Age" finished steel composite price is unchanged this week at 2.04 cents a pound. Raw materials are lower, the composite price for pig iron now being $14.43 a ton and that for steel scrap $8.21 a ton. The pig iron composite is the lowest since September, 1915, while that for steel scrap breaks all records.

Wall street inquirers who have been seeking an explanation for some recent selling of public utility shares in the face of satisfactory earnings, have been told it was the results of agitation in many sections for lower service rates.

Electric power output for the week ended March 19 was 1,537,747,000 kilowatt-hours, a slight drop from the preceding week, and a decrease of 8.6 per cent from the corresponding week last year, for the past three weeks reported production has shown a fairly constant decrease of slightly more than 8 per cent from last year.

C. O. Miniger, president of the Electric Auto-Lite Co., believes business will show some improvement this year. He expressed this opinion to stockholders at their annual meeting.

Another reduction in the price of refined lead was announced today, American Smelting & Refining Co. naming 3 cents a pound, a reduction of 15 points. With this revision lead is off 1-4 cent a pound from its recent level.

POST OFFICE BURNS

Wales, Mass., March 23.—(AP)—Damage estimated at $25,000 was done by fire which burned the two-story frame building housing the Wales post office and the general store of Leon Thompson early today.

Mail in the post office boxes was destroyed.

COOL. ADDIS DIES

Boston, March 23.—(AP)—Colonel E. Addis, retired U. S. Army, and former acting chief of staff of the 94th Reserve Division, with headquarters here, died last night after a lingering illness. Col. Addis who held the Distinguished Service Medal for war-time service entered the army as an enlisted man and won his commission in 1903. He was a graduate of Trinity College, Hartford.

CALLS REFORM BILL MENACE TO BANKERS

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—The Glass banking reform bill was called "dangerous" to national bankers today by Allan M. Pope, president of the Investment Bankers Association of America, at hearings before the Senate banking committee.

Pope said he had consulted with several hundred investment bankers and "with the exception they are opposed to the legislation on the ground that we now are engaged in an attempt to stem the tide of deflation."

He said sections of the measure were "discriminatory" against national banks and predicted this would force the banks to become state rather than National institutions.

Senator Glass (D., Va.), observed that "we were confronted by the same threat when the Federal Reserve Board was enacted."

Pope said the definition describing banking affiliate corporations was too broad.

The bill seeks to divorce affiliates from the banks.

Under the legislation Pope said the Bethlehem Steel Corporation would be termed an affiliate because, he understood, the corporation had recently taken over a banking institution "to protect its stockholders." He argued it was impracticable to have banking examiners examine a concern as large as Bethlehem Steel.

STIMSON HAS COLD

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Secretary Stimson has a cold and a sore throat which made it impossible for him to appear today before the Senate foreign relations committee.

This committee through Chairman Borah had asked the secretary of state to discuss with the committee his opinion of the construction of the Root protocol providing for adherence of the United States to the World Court with reservations.

Secretary Stimson wrote a letter to Borah giving his interpretation of the protocol, which was considered by the committee.

IS ESCAPED CONVICT

New Brunswick, N. J., March 23.—(AP)—Prosecutor Ooglas M. announced today that George Malden, arrested last week after an attempt was made to enter the Highland Park home of J. Seward Johnson, wealthy surgical dressings manufacturer, has admitted he is Richard Cowan who escaped from the new Western penitentiary, Rockville Center, Pa., July 22, 1931.

 WEDNESDAY, MARCH 23.
 CHALLENGING WILBUR
 Comes a bellicose announcement from the "Unemployed Councils of Connecticut, John Weber (Bridgeport) secretary," giving warning that a "state hunger march" to Hartford will be instituted by the "councils" on April 22, the purpose of which is to challenge Governor Cross on his failure to call a special relief session. Seemingly the marchers in this case intend to really march as the hike is expected, according to the announcement, to continue from the 22d to the 28th of April.

We confess to knowing very little about the "Unemployed Councils of Connecticut," but the noise it makes is, one may guess, a bit pinkish. Whether so or not, the Councils (one doesn't know whether to use the term "it" or "they") is refreshingly frank in its dealing with some rather flabby hokum the governor has been dealing out.

It derides His Excellency for promising that "just as there was advance in the session of 1931 there will be advance in the session of 1933," and jeers that the "so-called advance consisted of a mock, playevne dollar-a-year gift to the unemployed workers through a $100,000 appropriation! As far as the governor is concerned the jobless and their families can starve to death quietly in 1932 awaiting the 'advance' of the session of 1933."

From which point it goes on to say that the unemployed won't, at least, be quiet about their starving. A lot of them, representatives elected by block and neighborhood committees of the unemployed and by trades unions, are to descend on the capital, it appears, and ask the governor how come he hides behind the excuse that he can't do anything because the Republican farmers of the Legislative majority won't let him. If it's the Republican farmers who don't care anything about the industrial jobless, says the Councils, let the governor summon them in session and have them in session in Hartford when these hunger marchers get there. The presumption being that we should then see what we should see.

Well, why not? If the governor is really crying his eyes out in private over the plight of the unemployed and is kept from doing anything about it by a lot of wicked Republican legislators, here's a fine chance to put a slug on the common enemy. The governor isn't exactly, in person, what you'd call a rough fighting sort, but here's a lot of hard guys who are, apparently, willing to do any amount of rough fighting for him if he will only prove himself to be their pal; as, from a far distance, he likes to intimate that he is.

Of course, this "hunger march" will probably prove to be just about as important as most other "hunger marches." But it does at least give the promoters a chance to give Dean Wilbur an opportunity to do some more amused explaining. On second thought, however, one may wonder whether he will think the circumstance is really as funny as most public matters.

DE VALERA'S DEFT
 The impression, quite general in the period preceding the recent Irish election, that ascent to the headship of the Free State would disclose a De Valera greatly sobered and grown in poise and moderation, appears to have been founded on a basis of doubtful solidity. It is very difficult to perceive, in his official notification to the British government that the annuity payments on Irish land holdings will be discontinued, anything but an act of invitation to very serious trouble.

Perhaps there is something about this annuity arrangement, that De Valera deems but which is unknown to the rest of the world. But in any general understanding of the situation it is difficult to find a shred of justice on which to predicate the position taken by the new Irish President.

The three million pounds a year involved are money collected from Free State farmers for the repayment of loans made to them by Britain to enable them to buy their holdings at the time the Free State was established. They are like loans made by a bank. There appears to be no claim, by De Valera or anybody else, that the farmers can't pay their installments or that they individually object to paying them. The question appears to be merely one of national policy, whether or not the Free State will declare a repudiation of these individual debts, perhaps on the somewhat fanciful theory that the landlords from whom they were bought had no right to them in the first place. Which would seem to be going a rather long way for a reason for not paying borrowed money.

At an event the proceeding seems at this distance to be needlessly provocative and bound to stir up a great deal of ill feeling where feeling, on the whole, has been very good for a number of years. Moreover it is almost impossible to see how the De Valera position can be persisted in without eventually precipitating a military clash. And, granting the Free State Irish credit for being extraordinarily valorous fighters, their President can hardly expect to whip the whole British empire, army and navy and all.

It may well be hoped that this is some sort of a trading bluff—just what it would be difficult to guess.

GANG "POWER"
 We have seen the following sentiment expressed in several reputable newspapers:

Preposterous as the idea sounds it actually might be a very good thing if Al Capone could be let out of jail to hunt for the Lindbergh baby. In the first place he probably could find it. In the second place it would bring home to all of us the scandalous way in which we have let gangsters erect an invisible government in the United States. The underworld has a frightening amount of power.

There's a lot of nonsense about this. It assumes that the gangsters of the country are linked together in a highly organized machine, like the military forces of a nation or the organization of General Motors. As a matter of fact it is highly improbable that Al Capone has a personal acquaintance of more than three or four hundred persons—or that any other racketeer in the country has. Their opportunities for extensive acquaintance even among their own kind is limited. Crooks exist within rather specialized circles. They have to. One crowd has very little exact knowledge of what some other crowd is doing. Al Capone, looking for the Lindbergh baby, would probably be just a bewildered fat man. He probably couldn't identify half the members of any rival mob in Chicago, let alone being privy to all that goes on in gangland everywhere.

It's the same way with underworld "power." Every gang knows a crooked lawyer or two and gets its own power from the services of these people. But there is no unity among the gangs, no cohesion, no definite program or purpose. It is a case of every gang for itself. The only bond between these various units is the bond of silence and a common cause against the law. Aside from that gangdom is the most loosely organized and least cohesive force in the world.

But ten thousand rats, each operating on his own, can destroy a granary, even though there is no friendship and no common tie among them and no knowledge by each of what the others are doing.

SCIENT DEFLATION
 Hearings on the Glass Banking Reform bill, which it is now planned to hold in response to urgings from various quarters, particularly the American Bankers Association and investment bankers, appear to be the result of a feeling that there may be "something deflationary" about the proposed measure. If this is so it will be an excellent idea to discover it before it is too late and before the bill does more harm than good. No matter how the individual may feel about the recklessness and evil of the boom period inflation, there is very little use in talking about the ultimate benefits of squeezing all the wind and water out of the fiscal structure of American business, because if carried too far deflation can easily leave nothing but a moribund body to be restored to life—and only a divine miracle could accomplish that. We already have about all the inflation we can stand except in certain artificially supported commodity prices, group wages and fixed charges.

It is very much to be doubted whether the Glass bill, which in many respects at least is a merit-ous instrument, was ever intended to be actually deflationary or anything in the world but a protection against any more such frantic periods of banker speculation as we witnessed in the latter '20's. But these are extremely delicate matters and must be handled with much wisdom. There have been critics from the start who insisted that the Glass bill was the result of an impetuosity that sought to accomplish in a few weeks what by rights should be given years of study. They probably exaggerated, but another good looking over, with many eyes and many minds to help before the bill is enacted into law, may do no harm at all.

People Lying Down
 "The Lindbergh incident holds the possibility of arousing people to the fact that they have been lying down on the job by allowing their states and local officials to do so," says Sumners, a former district attorney.

"There is basis for the request for federal assistance when kidnaping victims are taken across state lines, but kidnapings occur within the states themselves and no kidnaping remains sitting on a state line."

"Not only kidnapings, but all crimes, are on the increase," says Senator Norris, who has been both a prosecutor and a judge. "That, incidentally, is one reason I haven't blamed the many prohibition violations on prohibition itself."

Blames Corruption
 "My own idea is that corruption in high places is an important cause of disregard for law. Where corruption exists all the people are affected. They see those high in official or social life getting away with it. Then men who have been partially dishonest and those with criminal leanings become dangerous criminals. When one class doesn't receive justice and another does, there is always a crime increase. Realization that justice is often partial grows in the last 15 years. When justice becomes expensive it often goes astray."

"Economic conditions have had something to do with increased lawlessness and war has been a larger factor than usually supposed. War tends to increase inequality and the power of wealth to dominate and control. War is a brutalizer. It is mass murder and lowers everybody's standards. When a whole people goes in for destruction of life and property their hearts are hardened and their finer sensibilities that should be in all hearts."

Voted Against War
 Norris is the only senator who voted against the World War, but has nevertheless been continued in office by his state.

"If dishonesty in government were rapidly punished and law administered to all alike, the powerful and weak, it would have had a wonderfully good effect despite the war's evil influences," he continued. "But justice often assumes a partisan or social aspect which prevents respect for courts and officials. We can't arouse enough public sentiment under the present political system."

"At the root of it all is the fact that the people ought to insist on honesty and efficiency and keep their local, state and national governments cleaned up."

People or Automobiles
 Attorney General Mitchell wrote the Senate Judiciary Committee that it had been reported to him that in kidnaping cases "local authorities, because of inefficiency or corruption, have failed to afford protection."

But "direct and primary responsibility rests on state authorities," he said, and the federal burden of enforcing criminal laws already is "exceedingly heavy."

He agreed, however, that it was more heinous to steal people and take them across state lines than automobiles—which constitutes a federal offense—and that the added cost of enforcing a federal anti-kidnaping law would not be great.

Washington Letter

Washington—The rising wave of kidnapings which culminated in the abduction of the Lindbergh baby is part of a general crime increase which has its roots in community inertia and dishonesty and inefficiency in government.

That view is shared by Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska and Congressman Hattin W. Sumners of Texas, chairman of the Senate and House Judiciary Committees which have considered the bills to make interstate kidnaping a federal offense punishable by death or life imprisonment. Attorney General Mitchell agrees that "the breakdown of state authority" in kidnaping cases is "disturbing."

Following the period of elimination and rapid reducing which I described in yesterday's article, it is advisable to reduce the weight more gradually and one should select the diet carefully and avoid those foods which are especially weight producing. By following this method you will continue to lose slowly and safely, reducing not more than two or three pounds a week, until you are near your normal weight when you will begin to scarcely lose at all. This diet may also be used for a limited time for those who are trying to avoid gaining weight. The foods you should eat are limited amounts of proteins, such as lean meat and eggs, and large amounts of the non-starchy vegetables. You may eat the following vegetables: Celery, small string beans, beets, or carrots, lettuce, zucchini, summer squash, egg plant, cucumbers, asparagus or spinach. Do not feel that you will starve to death for the body may be sustained by other foods if enough protein is used along with the non-starchy vegetables which contain the essential organic salts and vitamins.

After your weight has been reduced sufficiently, introduce fats and starches slowly into the daily diet. By filling up and eating large quantities of the non-fattening vegetables, both raw and cooked, one will not so greatly miss the foods which one has been accustomed to such as cakes, puddings, bread and rolls, beans, candy and doughnuts.

Here is an outline of a menu which you may use:

BREAKFAST: One egg cooked without grease, two or three slices of toast, small dish of stewed, dried or fresh fruits without the addition of sugar.

LUNCH: One or two raw vegetables and one or two cooked vegetables, with a small amount of butter, from the non-fattening vegetable list given above. On alternate days it is well to make the lunch of one kind of the following and using as much as you desire: Oranges, grapefruit, tomatoes, apples, grapes, cherries or apricots.

DINNER: One-fourth of a pound of lean beef, mutton, lamb, turkey or chicken cooked without grease. One or two of the non-fattening vegetables raw and a similar number of the vegetables cooked.

No spices should be used in preparing the vegetables and very little salt. A very small amount of butter may be used to season them after they are cooked. A glass of orange or tomato juice may be used before you retire if you wish.

While you are on this diet, you should take vigorous physical culture exercises for a few minutes twice a day, the first thing in the morning and again just before you retire. You should also take a walk twice a day, breathing deeply and gradually trying to increase the distance, stopping whenever the heart begins to beat rapidly or you begin to feel fatigued. Swimming is a splendid exercise for those who are reducing as it builds up firm hard muscles under the skin and distributes the fat evenly.

While you are reducing, try to live right in every way that you know how. Common sense should tell one to obtain sufficient sleep, avoid worry, avoid the use of drugs or beverages which would interfere with elimination. Anyone who conscientiously follows the instructions which I have outlined in this series of three articles on reducing should have excellent results. If anyone should notice any symptoms about which he is alarmed, I would be very pleased to have him write to me, stating the problem. If you wish to know approximately what your normal weight is, I will be glad to tell you if you will send me your age, height, present weight and also a photograph of yourself which will show your build. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 (Report Shows High Acidity)
 Question: Mrs. T. K. writes: "I would like your opinion about the enclosed examination report. I don't understand it. I have not been feeling well for some time, and I am unable to sleep soundly."
 Answer: The urinalysis report shows high acidity and the presence of a large number of calcium oxalate and triple phosphate crystals. You can overcome acidity by using a preponderance of fruits and vegetables in your diet since they are mostly alkaline forming. Avoid foods which contain oxalic acid, such as cocoa, tea, pepper, sorrel, spinach and rhubarb. You should also make every effort to avoid worry and nervousness, trying to cultivate a calm, happy disposition since the presence of phosphates usually indicates nervous or mental strain.

(Chewing Gum and TB)
 Question: H. writes: "I am tubercular, my digestion is weak, can't smoke or drink much, so chewing gum takes my mind off of food. Wonder if you could tell me if chewing gum for an hour or so after each meal is helpful or harmful."
 Answer: If you are tubercular, you need to eat the right kind of

TODAY IS THE WORLD WAR ANNIVERSARY
 FURTHER GERMAN SUCCESSES
 On March 23, 1918, the great German offensive in Picardy continued, the attackers driving the British back more than five miles on a 25-mile front.

German bulletins on the battle said that their troops were on schedule in the drive and had taken more than 25,000 prisoners.

The Fifth British Army, under General Gough, was in full retreat and was almost demoralized, the German reports said. The group in question was composed of 200,000 veteran troops.

Admitting that the fate of the war hung in the balance, French divisions were hastily rushed into the breach made between the British and French lines and succeeded in stopping, for the time, the German assaults. In this phase of the action, 30,000 French troops were opposed by nearly 150,000 Germans.

Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, in command of the British forces in France, asked for further French and American reinforcements immediately in view of the prospects for still further attacks from new German divisions reported to have been moved into the salient created by the offensive of the three previous days.

IN NEW YORK
 POPULATION, 15 POUNDS
 New York, March 22—While it might seem, offhand, to indicate an overweight or malnutrition, the fact remains that the population of New York (or Manhattan, if you prefer) will be fifteen pounds this year. And this shows a considerable gain in weight.

For I have it in a note from the City Directory offices that the big town's list of names will require three volumes; one combining Manhattan and the Bronx; one for Brooklyn. And it will be a particularly complete grouping of the citizenry, since work of getting the statistics was turned over to an army of unemployed men who received from $3 to $4 per day.

Brooklyn, by the way, is now this shows a considerable gain in weight.

Talented Mr. Rhoades
 From Samuel J. Gates, a consulting engineer of Milwaukee, Wis., comes a note informing me that I didn't do complete justice to the writings of John Harlan Rhoades, the banker-philanthropist. In a recent column I revealed that, in addition to attending to vast estates and handling great fortunes, Mr. Rhoades sent $5 to a columnist on the Springfield (Ill.) Republican, Reading of this in Milwaukee Journal, Mr. Gates writes:

"You made no mention of the fact that Mr. Rhoades is author of an interesting little volume: 'Thoughts of a Man at Fifty.'"

"Nor did I, not having been aware of its existence."

At any rate, within its pages you'll find such epigrams as this: "It's a poor mirror that cannot repay a smile."

And there's a story of a Wall Street banker who was approached for a loan. The banker declined at first, but the borrower seemed so eager that the banker said: "It'll be a good sport. It happens that I have one glass eye. If you can tell me which one it is, you can have the loan."

With some hesitation the stranger said: "I think it's the left one."

"Because it's the more sympathetic,"

By the way, thanks Mr. Gates, and sorry I haven't room for your entire letter.

question on whether the vote be by ballot or not. The motion was lost and the meeting proceeded to act on the previous question, the naming of Judge Hyde as committee chairman with the privilege of naming his own committee. When this vote was put it was carried by nearly a unanimous vote, very few contrary voices being heard. It was at this point in the caucus that Mr. Spies walked forward, picked up his hat and coat and walked the length of the hall and out the rear door.

The Delegates The next business of the caucus was the naming of delegates to the State convention in Hartford April 6 and 7. These delegates will in turn name the delegates to the Chicago convention who will pick the Republican presidential ticket. Senator Robert J. Smith said that it was courtesy to send the representatives in the General Assembly to the state conventions. He nominated Miss Marjory Cheney, Judge Raymond A. Johnson, and in addition, William J. Shea and William J. Thornton.

Thomas Trotter placed in nomination the name of Sherwood G. Bowers of whom he said "He has done more for politics in the short time he has been in it than any other man in town." Walter Mahoney then placed in nomination Frank V. Williams and Willard J. Horton. Judge Hyde named as tellers, C. Elmore Watkins, Thomas Trotter, Isaac Proctor, N. B. Richards, Walter Mahoney and Joseph Charter. The Judge Johnson slate of four was placed on prepared ballots and Sherwood G. Bowers and Frank V. Williams had prepared individual ballots. Judge Hyde announced that the voting was not by slates but by individuals.

Tellers' Task With all the ballots collected the tellers proceeded with the difficult task of counting. There were so many split votes that it took nearly a half hour to count the votes. However, the tellers saw that the Judge Johnson slate would win easily since there were over 400 straight votes for the Cheney, Johnson, Shea and Thornton delegates. In the meantime Judge Hyde announced that the winning delegates would meet in Wells Hall, East Hartford, Saturday morning, for the purpose of naming a delegate-at-large. It is customary to name the State Senator from this district to that position and no doubt Senator Robert J. Smith will get the nomination.

Rogers Called On Judge Hyde called on Willard B. Rogers to address the caucus while the votes were being counted. Mr. Rogers said that he thought they ought to thank the Taxpayers' League for taking an interest in the caucus and getting out such a large vote. He said he had been away on a trip and had come home to find the town unable to sell its bonds because of unfavorable publicity. He said that the members of the Taxpayers' League had caused the story to be spread that the town was broke. Mr. Rogers said that this was far from the truth and should be corrected.

The Campaign Touching on town politics Mr. Rogers said he was sure that Judge Hyde would welcome the assistance of any member of the Taxpayers' League or anyone else who was desirous of working for the interests of the Republican Party. He said that the Chicago convention would no doubt renominate President Hoover. He said that he, like many others, had disagreed with the President in some of his policies, but who, he asked, in the same position could have done so well? Mr. Rogers closed by telling the gathering that Manchester was better off than any other textile city and urging the people to work together to the end that better times will soon arrive. Mr. Rogers, always an entertaining speaker, was roundly applauded for his talk.

Col. Cheney Col. William C. Cheney, next called upon, said that a good speaker had to be either well prepared or inspired. He said that the large gathering of Republicans should be an inspiration for any speaker. He said he always enjoyed Willard Rogers' speeches because he used both his ability to talk and the "oil can" well. He said he used to attend conventions regularly and hoped before his time in the caucus he would see it to send him again to a state convention.

Smith, Bowers Talk Senator Robert J. Smith said that Col. Cheney reminded him of a legislator who vehemently opposed a bill just to let the folks back home know he was there. He said he was pleased to see such a large attendance and hoped it promised success in the rapidly approaching campaign. Sherwood G. Bowers was called upon and he said that in answer to Mr. Rogers he wished to state that the League had brought out the town finance story in order to stress the need of school cuts. He was sorry, he said, if it had done any harm.

Judge Johnson's Talk The next speaker called upon was Judge Raymond A. Johnson. He said that he was glad of the opportunity of speaking to a Republican gathering in Manchester so that he could answer the attacks of a gentleman from the southern part of the state who had been going about charging that Judge Johnson was an "anarchist." Judge Johnson, who was referring to Professor Levitt, said that Manchester could handle its own affairs without the assistance of the man from Redding. He cited the fact that Mr. Levitt could not handle affairs in his own home town since he had been roundly defeated in every attempt to gain recognition there.

Debate His Republicanism Judge Johnson said that the man in question had been attempting to get control of the Republican party in the state. If the truth were known, he said, he doubted if the man from Redding was even a Re-

WHERE SOUTHERN STORM STRUCK HARDEST, KILLING 30

After the dark, funnel-shaped clouds had taken their dread toll, this is the grim scene of destruction that was presented to the camera's eye at Northport, Ala. In this city—reported to be hardest hit by the cyclonic winds that swept five southern states—nearly 30 persons were killed, scores were injured, and entire neighborhoods were leveled as if by a gigantic hand. Note the splintered ruins of the house in the right foreground, its furnishings scattered by the fierce twister. In the background are hundreds of bales of cotton, scattered from a demolished warehouse. Dispatches placed the number of dead at more than 300 in widely scattered communities in Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky and South Carolina. This NEA Service-Herald picture was taken by special airplane to Atlanta, Ga., flashed by telephoto to New York, thence rushed to Manchester.

publican himself. If he himself were an anarchist, said the Manchester judge, certainly his records did not bear that out. He said he was willing to stand or fall on his record in the State Legislature. He thanked the gathering for the opportunity of expressing his views.

Educators Heard Principal Clarence P. Quimby, head of Manchester High school, and well known for his ability to tell entertaining stories, then favored with one of his "Down East" yarns. His story was about a Maine farmer's means of making seedlings "take hold." He said he hoped that the Republicans would "take hold" and push through to a victorious campaign. Superintendent F. A. Verplanck said he had voted the Republican ticket when he was 21 and had voted it a great many years but this was his first political speech. He preferred to be far from the turmoil, but he said it in a way that indicated that a school superintendent wasn't far from the turmoil after all.

Anecdotes Miss Marjory Cheney when called upon by Judge Hyde said that she could not help recalling a favorite remark of an Irishman, an old friend of her family. "I'd rather be fighting than losing," Judge Hyde told of an incident when he worked as a boy in the Cheney mills. He was standing at one end of the room doing nothing when Col. Cheney came through. When he had left young Mr. Cheney said anything? "Will Mr. Cheney say anything?" The man with him said "Well, he probably won't say anything but he'll think like hell."

That Publicity R. LaMotte Russell upon a question from Willard B. Rogers explained the difficulty of selling the "town's paper," or floating its bonds. He said that the town's credit was excellent and nowhere near the borrowing limit, but when possible purchasers of the bonds read the Manchester Electric Company, and couldn't pay its teachers or police, they immediately withdrew their offers. (Ed. Note: The Herald did not carry any article of this nature, the stories appearing in out of town papers circulating here.) When the vote was read and Judge Hyde declared the Cheney, Johnson, Shea, Thornton slate elected, the meeting was adjourned.

the total vote cast was three-fourths of the party enrollment. In Fairfield the forecast that Senator Albert E. Lavery might be unseated as town chairman was not borne out. He was undisturbed but the caucus agreed on a new town committee on which all sections of the town would be represented. The ripple at Shelton was election of F. A. Weiman for chairman over John B. Dillon who for several years has been making efforts to obtain control here. The vote was 219 to 37.

Raymond A. Johnson in Manchester easily won over the opposition offered by the Republican League. The vote was 469 to 189 for Sherwood G. Bowers. In Middletown In Middletown an effort by Senator Don Cambria to reorganize the town committee failed and he was defeated for convention delegate. The Republican League obtained only one delegate to the convention, George W. Hull at Burlington, who had forty votes to twenty for Maurice Hogan. The league's second candidate lost out. Hogan was elected town chairman as Hull declined re-election.

In New Canaan a reorganization ticket won 193 to 157 and among those defeated was Representative Nellie Stewart. In Hamden the organization ticket won 1,179 to 780. In Bolton Town Chairman Samuel Woodward was beaten by Adolph Droll, 16 to 14. In Westbrook Chairman W. H. Lewis lost to John A. Holbrook. In Hampton, Clinton A. Oliver becomes town chairman by being out R. M. Burchinal. Elbert A. Darbie in Killingly looking for a contest was disappointed as only five votes against him for town chairman were cast. Former Senator J. J. Floyd was chosen as town chairman at Waterford with 61 votes to 54 for T. B. Woodruff. The balance-wheel of a watch moves more than 3,500 miles in a year.

"Never before was the world in greater need of the orderly development of international rules of conduct by the wise method of judicial decision, which we Americans are so well acquainted with in the development of the common law of this country. "We have delayed long in availing ourselves of that opportunity. I sincerely hope that we will now assume the privileges and the responsibility of taking a part in that growth in the future. "So far as this protocol is concerned" Mr. Stimson wrote in a lengthy explanation of his views, "I can add nothing to the clear exposition of its history and meaning which its author, Mr. Root, gave to your committee a year ago.

"I concur with him that the protocol fully accepts the five reservations of the Senate resolution of 1926, and thereby imposes the jurisdictional restriction upon the World Court as to advisory opinions which was sought by the fifth reservation of the Senate.

Fifth Reservation "That fifth reservation, on its face, was directly addressed to the court; not to the Council or the Assembly which request opinions but to the court which renders them.

"Its language was 'that the court shall not render any advisory opinions except' upon the terms laid down in the reservation. "When by the consent of the various nations embodied in the Root protocol it became a part of the statute creating the court, it constituted a statutory restriction or jurisdiction."

Chairman Borah said: "Many members of the committee were not satisfied with the secretary's letter. Indeed, it was contended that it led to confusion. It was decided to await the pleasure of the secretary of state to ask him some questions. We will proceed as soon as the secretary is able." No meeting will be held before next Wednesday.

It Will Pay To Change To Modern Electric Refrigeration

ELECTRIC REFRIGERATORS AT A NEW HIGH POINT

Dealers This Year Showing Units Embracing Many Features That Are Novel And of Great Usefulness.

The electric refrigeration industry is, this year, presenting the finest array of models in household refrigerators yet to be seen. They embody all the latest refinements in design, construction and power plants. They can be obtained in colored finishes to harmonize with present day color schemes in the kitchen. Many modern homes built in the last few years provide a special alcove in the kitchen for an electric refrigerator.

Electric refrigerators have been perfected to the point where they are absolutely quiet in operation and require little if any attention, while many of them have the new temperature control systems whereby the temperature may be changed to meet the requirements of frozen desserts. Some models have a fast freezing system that will make ice in a little over an hour.

Most modern electric refrigerators are also featuring special dehydrating bins for vegetables. These porcelain containers are kept beneath the freezing unit and vegetables placed in them will keep a long time and be just as fresh as the hour they were bought.

Practically all makes of electric refrigerators are today featuring the all metal porcelain box construction. The rolled or pressed steel box makes a perfect job as far as finishes are concerned and also from the point of view of sanitation. Surface cracks, seams and joints are eliminated. This all makes for better refrigeration.

Manchester dealers offer the public all the well known and nationally advertised types of refrigeration and are now prepared to show you the latest models.

FAIR WEATHER FAVORS CEREMONY OF F. V. W.

With the return of fair weather, a large crowd of Hartford County representatives of the Veterans of Foreign Wars is expected at tonight's ceremony of initiation and presentation of colors at the State Armory. Every ex-service organization in town has been invited by Anderson-Shea Post to witness the ceremony as well as the general public.

Comrades John Allen and Elmer I. Hotchkiss of the Grand Army and John Anderson of West street, father of Ernest G. Anderson will be accorded honorary membership in the local post. The meeting will be in charge of Commander Joseph Moriarty and the degree work will be given a large class of candidates by the Walter J. Smith Post degree team of New Britain. The National Army band will play for the ceremonial.

MERZ TEAM LEADING IN NORTH END SETBACK

The Merz team in the North End Community setback tournament went into first place as the result of last night's play and topped the Watkins team from the lofty position that they have held since the first night of the starting of the tournament into eighth place. There were many substitutions last night as a large number of the regulars of playing cards last night attended the Republican caucus. Those marked with (x) have not as yet been on the floor which leaves the standing to date as follows: Merz, 2,819; Farrand's Shavers, 2,802; Wapping No. 2, 2,784; Reid, 2,764; Manchester Water, 2,750; Moriarty's, 2,741; Woodland, 2,739; Watkins, 2,719; Pagan's, 2,714; Hose No. 1, 2,712; Foley's, 2,699; McCarthy's, 2,688; Hagedorn's, 2,648; Veterans, 2,648; Mints's, 2,648; Midway's, 2,644; Burr No. 2, 2,640; Farrand's Barbers, 2,648; Burr No. 1, 2,544; Wapping No. 1, 2,517; Dalton's, 2,517; Keith's, 2,498; Keller's, 2,450.

STARTS FILIBUSTER

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—For the second time in the last few days a futile attempt was made in the Senate today to get action on the Democratic road construction unemployment relief measure. The measure, carrying $132,500,000 as passed by the House and $3,450,000 more added by the Senate roads committee, was brought up under a rule terminating consideration at 2 p. m.

Senator Hayden (D., Ariz.) told the Senate it could be passed before that time if no filibuster was made against it but arrival of the hour found Senator Bingham (R., Conn.) a strong opponent of the measure, reading extracts from the Congressional record to his colleagues.

JOBLESS GIVEN WORK

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—President Hoover was informed today the American Legion's re-employment drive now in its fifth week had returned 312,897 jobless men to work.

Mark T. McKee of Detroit executive director of the campaign said he placed this figure before the President. He said word just received by the Legion placed the figure for yesterday's re-employment at 13,393 in 1,791 different towns and cities.

"Although the drive was originally set for one month" McKee said "the Legion intends to reach its objective of one million jobs and will continue the campaign indefinitely."

GAS OVERCOMES SIX

Bridgeport, March 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Kozlowski, 40, and her five children were overcome by coal gas fumes in their home early today. They were taken to a hospital where their condition was reported fair.

Mrs. Kozlowski started washing clothes after her husband had gone to work early this morning. The children whose ages run from two months to 14 years were still in bed. An hour later Mrs. Kozlowski began to feel dizzy. Going to the bedroom she was unable to rouse the children. She opened a window and shouted for help just before collapsing. Neighbors investigated and summoned an ambulance.

MANY GROUPS ARE BUSY AT LOCAL Y

Winter Activities Being Re-adjusted To Spring and Summer Conditions.

William H. Petherbridge, secretary of the Manchester Y. M. C. A., today made the following announcement concerning the various group organizations now affiliated with that organization and the programs under which they are operating and plan to operate in the near future:

"The Young Men's program is organized on the group plan and their activities vary according to their interests," said Secretary Petherbridge. "The Young Men's Community club which has been organized for a period of three years, has as its chief interest the various seasonal athletic activities. Another young men's club has been playing basketball under the name of 'Joe's Filling Station' and Joseph Zaparka has been guiding its members in their activities. A group of young men have been meeting on Monday evenings and have devoted their chief interest since the 'Y' opened to basketball, playing under the name of Reid's All-Stars."

"A group of ninety-two men have been meeting every Tuesday evening in the Community setback tournament. This group is considerably larger than it has been in previous years. Many of these men come to the Y at 7 on Tuesday and Friday evenings and enjoy a workout at volleyball, serve-us ball or hand-ball."

"This group is also finding the periods from 5 to 6:30 on Tuesday and Friday very convenient for exercise and a good shower following the day's work. Still another group drops in during the day for a game of hand-ball or some other form of exercise."

"Clubs and groups of various interests are in the process of organization among the men. A group of ten men is enjoying bowling on Monday evenings."

"The basketball season is coming to a close this week, and many of these groups will turn their interest to baseball and many other summer activities. The Manchester Y. M. C. A. will participate in the county and state championships in outdoor track this spring and many of the groups are planning to train for these events in the very near future."

"Boys' Program The boys' program of the Y. M. C. A. is carried on under a group plan. Several of the older boys in the community are giving their time to these groups as leaders without compensation. These groups meet once a week, at which time they enjoy a period of recreation in the gymnasium under the direction of their leader, hold their business meeting and participate in some activity either craft or athletic."

"The Pioneers under the leadership of John Mikolet are holding their craft and business meeting on Friday evenings. There are eleven boys in this group. The North End Boy Club with Edward D. Wilson as their leader meets on Tuesday evening. The chief activity of this group of eleven boys has been athletics."

"The Oaks, a group of eight boys with Raymond Merz as leader, have decided to devote their chief interest to making things out of leather. The Trojans, a group of smaller boys, nine in number, with Taddens Bars as leader, has just recently been organized, and are planning to devote their time to wood-carving and wood-work."

"The craft shop under the leadership of Albert Oderman, is beginning work in metal, copper and pewter, woodwork, leather. Benches and tools are supplied for their use."

"A model airplane group meets every Thursday evening under the leadership of Alexander Kompanick, an employee of the Pratt and Whitney plant. He has eight boys signed up."

"Among the high school groups, there are seven clubs. The Aces with nine members, Falcons with thirteen, Pirates with five, Original Thirteen with twelve, Bon Ami Chicks with eight and the Buckland Group of fourteen. Karl Nielsen, Raymond Coleman, Andrew Fiedler and Ronald Dalgic are doing excellent work with their groups."

"In addition to these thirteen groups the Y. M. C. A. is sponsoring a Scout troop, Troop 9, Boy Scouts of America, of which Franklin Smith is scoutmaster, assisted by Krist Kaestlen, Alex Kompanick and William Miner."

"All these clubs have their own constitutions and bylaws, their own officers and under the direction of their respective leaders work out their own programs. Two gymnasium classes are offered to these groups throughout the week. Emphasis in these classes is placed on recreation rather than on skill. These thirteen clubs and one Scout troop have a membership of 146 boys."

"A small group is under process of organization among the boys between the ages of eight and twelve. This group meets on Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock, and has a game period followed by a shower bath."

"Special afternoon periods are arranged for the boys to use the bowling alleys and billiard tables, at special rates."

"Organization of these groups was started early last fall, and was made possible by the splendid cooperation of the Eighth District schools."

"Summer Program The program of the Y. M. C. A. will continue into the summer with the use of the playground and the many activities that it offers, including baseball, volleyball, swimming, tennis, horseshoes, and craft and game periods for the younger people. The indoor program will be active also though the definite activities have not as yet been scheduled."

U. S. COURT APPEALS AL CAPONE'S APPEAL

Chicago, March 23.—(AP)—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals refused today to listen again to Al Capone's appeal from his conviction for dodging Federal income taxes.

The court disposed of the matter in short order, having received only yesterday the government's formal answer to the Capone arguments for a new hearing. Previously the Third Circuit Court of Appeals had upheld the conviction before U. S. District Judge James H. Wilkerson, who imposed a sentence of 11 years in prison and a $50,000 fine.

Only an appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court stood between the gangster and punishment now, and it was considered likely the appeals court would issue the mandate sending Capone to a Federal penitentiary without awaiting the anticipated appeal to the highest tribunal.

TO GIVE AWAY DRESSED RABBITS AT EXHIBITION

Two dressed rabbits will be given away tomorrow night at the show being conducted by the Manchester Rabbit Breeders in the store next to the Montgomery Ward building on the west side of Main street.

These two meat rabbits will be skinned and cleaned in the show window and will be ready for the oven when delivered to the holders of the right ticket stubs. The rabbits are being donated by two local breeders in the interest of advertising the breeding of rabbits.

Three more rabbits will be given away Saturday night at 8 o'clock but the holders of the tickets must be present. Tomorrow night's drawing takes place at 8 o'clock. Any one of the rabbits will make a dinner for at least four persons.

Illuminated menus are now being used in some dark restaurants.

ZEP IN BRAZIL

Fernambuco, Brazil, March 23.—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin, flying from Friedrichshafen with passengers and mail, was sighted over this city at 5:00 p. m. (2:00 p. m., E. S. T.) today.

She prepared to alight before dark. This is the first of a series of flights scheduled for this spring between Germany and South America.

A Better Kelvinator for less money

While the prices of the 1932 "K" Model Kelvinators are substantially lower than in 1931, they have no less than 20 distinct improvements in design, convenience and beauty.

There are eight beautiful "K" Models from which to choose—four with lacquer exteriors and four with porcelain. All have one-piece porcelain interiors—eight freezing speeds—stronger cabinets—better insulation—higher legs—better hardware—electric lights on the porcelain models—greater height—porcelain cooling units.

Come in and see them. You'll be astonished to see how much value a few dollars a month will buy.

'Bottling' of Coins Brings Hoarding Crisis in France

BY MINOTT SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer
Paris, March 23.—So much bottling is going on in these uncertain times in France that the money market is feeling the strain more and more each week. The bottling is not of the familiar variety that forms one of the chief industries of the country, but rather the bottling of small coins.

The discovery made some weeks ago that an ordinary litre bottle, such as is used for wine or mineral water, will hold 1000 francs in 50-centime pieces, has stirred the imagination of the thrifty French to such an extent that the mint is working overtime to keep small coins in circulation.

There is no more clearer proof that the people are hoarding, only instead of using the familiar wool-sock they are putting coins into bottles and laying the bottles away, nicely sealed, in the expectation that the contents will improve with age.

The dearth of small coins has been noticed most strikingly in the southeast districts of France. When a group of Marseilles tradesmen asked the finance ministry why an adequate supply of small coins were not available, the solemn official reply was that coins were being bottled as fast as they were produced. Banks have been asked to release their 50-centime pieces to satisfy the needs of storekeepers.

Last year the mint produced 65,000,000 50-centime pieces, but so far this year the weekly production has practically doubled. More one-franc pieces are also being coined, probably as the result of a new trick bank which takes 100 francs worth of the coins, but the demand for two-franc pieces is not so great.

Although the new silver 10-franc coin, which has been so long awaited, has been minted in large amounts, they have not yet been released. The Bank of France is doing some hoarding of its own, and has on hand more than 10 billion of these coins.

Nothing has been done about the proposed 100-franc gold coins further than acceptance of the design. This coin will somewhat resemble the old gold louis which tempted the people to tuck them away in pre-war days.

It is no secret that officials of the Bank of France fear that the gold and silver coins, if put in circulation now, will be hoarded to such an extent as to disturb the balance between paper and metal.

Further proof that the French are saving is found in the statement of bank deposits last year, which established a record. Deposits in savings banks rose from 42,300,000 francs in December, 1930, to 49,040,000,000 francs at the end of last December. The depositors totaled over 18,000,000, or nearly one-half the population of the country.

Ordinary savings banks increased their deposits over five billion francs and the postoffice savings department showed an increase of about six billion.

MINERS AS FARMERS

Halifax, N. S., March 23.—(AP)—About 200 miners already have signified their intention of taking up farming. Premier Harrington told the Legislature's committee of the whole yesterday when the "land settlement bill" was discussed. The bill designed to give coal miners with farming experience a chance to revert to the farm under government assistance, was passed after debate.

Assistance for the fishing industry was sought by Gordon E. Romkey, who moved a resolution requesting the Legislature to seek from the dominion government bonuses, loans and additional markets for Canadian fish. The fisheries had not received proper recognition from any government, he said, and no industry in the province had declined to the extent of the fisheries. Debate on the resolution was adjourned.

Total value of all the gold in the world is estimated at more than ten and a half billion dollars.

ASKS WORLD BANKERS TO CONVENE ON SILVER

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—The House committee studying silver has asked economists, bankers, or government officials of eight nations what their attitudes would be toward an international conference on the metal.

Chairman Somers of the House coinage committee made this known today as his group sat down to hear Bernard F. Baruch, financier, approve the international conference idea and say he thought the initiative for such a conference should be taken by the United States.

The request for expressions on a conference went, among others, to Sir Robert S. Horne, member of Parliament; Montague Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and Sir Charles Addis, Bank of England, in Great Britain; Clement Moret, governor of the Banque de France; Emile Moreau, Banque de Paris and des Pays; and Joseph Caillaux, Chamber of Deputies, France; Sir Herbert S. Holt, president of the Royal Bank of Canada; Augustin Legorrette, general manager of the Banco Nacional de Mexico, and Alberto J. Pani, minister of finance, Mexico; Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, Germany; Sir Osborne A. Smith, governor of the Imperial Bank of India; Tsuyi Pei, manager of the Bank of China; Professor Gustav Cassel, of the University of Stockholm, Sweden.

The car in which the four were riding was carried for nearly three miles on the pilot of the locomotive before the accident was discovered by the engineer.

The dead are: Everett Mastin, 42; Miles Cummings, 36; Dorothy Darlington, 17 and Renetta Storr, 18, all of Point Anne.

Mastin, driver of the automobile, was a taxi-owner and was taking his three passengers to Belleville.

OLD UMPIRE DIES

Norwich, March 23.—(AP)—Charles F. Daniels, 83, one of the original National League baseball umpires and credited with starting Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia American League club on his big league career, died today in a hospital.

Daniels was found unconscious Monday by a farmer on a country road in Colchester. Officials expressed the opinion he tripped in a rut during a snow storm.

Paris Artists Trade Paintings For Groceries as Slump Comes

Paris, March 23.—Art that used to be art for art's sake has become art for life's sake in countless studios here because of stern economic facts. The result is an era of bartering which in principle is not far removed from the practice of savage tribes in the heart of Africa where money is unknown and only worldly possessions are understood.

A picture may be swapped for a ton of coal, a suit of clothes, or a supply of meat and vegetables, according to the artistic value of the picture.

The bartering system has been openly in vogue since the Salon of Exchange, which recently closed with happy results for the exhibitors. It was the first experience of its kind in memory, when artists showed their wares without any expectation of cash payments, but agreed to exchange them for useful commodities.

Business was good, and strange customers, who hitherto had not been collectors, came to exchange odds and ends of material value for works of art.

Such a practice has not been unknown in the past, but it was always done secretly, with little gossip about it. An artist could arrange affairs with his doctor or his landlord with a canvas, but it was an affair between men. Now it has become an accepted business.

The time has gone, in the present state of affairs at least, when rich patrons befriended artists who showed talent. The artist who wishes to live by his art must also use his wits.

His system, which is so simple, is being practiced without any shame or false ideas. If it were adopted generally it would change our whole system of economic life. Artists with bank accounts have been amused perhaps, and cartoonists have been making fun with sketches showing the exchange of a mattress or a goose for a painting, but in many of the studios on the Left Bank the bargaining is the means of life.

The healthiest sign about this state of affairs is that the artists are going on with their work for whatever they can get.

Another sideline of the artistic world that has been hard hit by the depression is the field of the model. Artists are taking fewer models and paying them less, while the ranks are growing because so many persons are out of work and they turn to odd jobs like that of posing.

Paris Artists Trade Paintings For Groceries as Slump Comes

Some pathetic figures may be seen every Monday morning in front of the Grande Chaumiere, world famous academy of art in the Latin Quarter. This has become known as the Model Market. Those who wish to pose gather there in the hope that they may be chosen by an artist for a week's work, or whatever arrangement they can make.

Models who used to be able to command a dollar an hour are now willing to work for enough with which to eat. There are those who do not care who may see them, and others who sink into the corridor while they are waiting. Among the latter are the girls who, curiously enough, while they make a business of posing in the nude, will take cover at the sight of a photographer.

GERMANY PROTESTS

Berlin, March 23.—(AP)—Germany has filed protests in Kaunas, London, Paris and Rome against the dissolution of the Memel Diet yesterday by decree of Antanas Merkys, the Lithuanian governor, charging the action was illegal.

Edward Simaitis, new chairman of the Memel Council, introduced his new pro-Lithuanian directives to the Diet yesterday but met a vote of no confidence by 22 to 5. Thereupon he presented Merkys' dissolution decree.

FIND HALE'S BODY

Guayaquil, Ecuador, March 23.—(AP)—Authorities at Bahia notified the government today that the body of Winfield Hale, an American aviator, had been found in the wreckage of his plane on the beach about five miles north of Bahia.

Hale was identified by means of papers in his pockets. The body was taken to Bahia for burial in accordance with the Ecuadorian law and the papers were turned over to the American consul. The plane carried the identification "Vell 02374."

Authorities said Hale's home was Walnut Creek, California.

IT WAS SUCH A THRIFTY INVESTMENT

IT KEEPS MY MILK SO FRESH

SUCH MARVELOUS FROZEN DISHES

I like it! I like it! I like it!

An Electric Refrigerator benefits the entire family

IT'S hard to say who benefits the most when an electric refrigerator goes to work. It guards the health of growing youngsters—keeping their milk and food fresh and wholesome—always safe. It helps to make the most delicious dishes—crispy salads, frosty puddings, shivery jellies, icy drinks.

And the thrift of it! All sorts of leafy vegetables that would wilt without adequate refrigeration, it keeps perked up—fresh and appetizing. Little odds and ends left from yesterday's meals may be transformed into delectable snacks for luncheon today. Adequate refrigeration prevents table butter from becoming cooking butter—it keeps the cream from souring—it keeps fruit, meat, vegetables from being thrown away.

Can you think of any purchase that would be more beneficial for every member of your household? Can you think of any other investment you could make as unselfish—as thoroughly generous—as this one which benefits not just you, but all those whose health and happiness mean so very much to you?

You can buy an electric refrigerator on the easiest terms.

NEWSPAPER ATTACK FIRES LA GUARDIA Congressman From New York Strikes Back At Chicago Tribune In Speech.

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Representative La Guardia (A. N. Y.) today rose in the House on a point of personal privilege and issued a "a cowardly attack" an editorial in the Chicago Tribune directed at him.

The portion of the editorial to which La Guardia objected read: "La Guardia, who is an alien in mind and spirit from Americanism, who has no loyalty to our form of government and shows every indication that he is willing to destroy it."

Speaker Garner ruled that La Guardia "has cleared himself of a question of personal privilege."

"Mr. Speaker, there are only two things that a poor man has in this country," La Guardia said. "They are his honor and his love and loyalty to his country."

"It is certainly stooping pretty low when a newspaper because of differences of opinion, honest differences of opinion, will make such a cowardly attack on a member of the House."

"The writer of this article no doubt wrote it under instructions and the purpose is manifest."

"The Chicago Tribune, apparently disagrees with my views on maintaining a policy of taxation which this Congress has adopted of a progressive, graduated tax on incomes and disagrees with me in my efforts to prevent any system of taxation which will put a greater burden on the great masses of the American people in order to relieve a favored, privileged minority."

"Freedom of Press. Gentlemen, I believe in the freedom of the press. I believe in free speech. I am often, and naturally attacked and criticized and very often misrepresented because of the active attitude I take on many issues in this House. I do not complain. I realize it is a part of our work, but I do resent, and I protest at an attack of this kind, inspired to create passion and prejudice and animosity in order to becloud the real issue, that of taxation, before the House."

"La Guardia said the same family that controlled the Chicago Tribune owned a paper in New York that criticized him Sunday and misrepresented him to a certain extent, but that it was within proper bounds."

"Gentlemen, there are certain things that even a member of Congress cannot submit to, and this is one of them," La Guardia declared. "Shortly afterward Representative Blanton (D., Tex.), took the floor 'to right a wrong.'"

"No man in the House is more loyal, more patriotic," Blanton shouted. "It is an outrage on justice and decency for any newspaper to malign him. I do not complain. He gave up his high place during the war and risked his life for his country and his flag."

"When that paper says he is an alien in mind and spirit it says what is untrue."

"When he's fighting against prohibition he's a king in the eyes of the Tribune but when he fights for the common people that paper crucifies him."

"There is no more valuable man in the House than Major La Guardia."

ABOUT TOWN

Herman Rosenthal has returned from Pennsylvania and has resumed the management of the local store of the Duhill Chain Stores Corporation, in the Johnson block.

Gospel Hall officials have completed plans for a three-day Christian conference to be held at Odd Fellows Hall, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, with meetings at 10:30 a. m., 2:30 and 7 p. m. each day. There will be no services, therefore, at the Gospel Hall on Center street Easter Sunday.

Many of the out-of-town speakers have been in Manchester previously. They include James Wall of Atlantic City, John Dickson of Providence, R. I., James McCullough of Stratford, Hugh McEwen of Pembroke, Pa., Joseph Pearson of Manchester, N. H., and Charles Somers of Topsham, Washington. The public is invited. Tomorrow evening at 7:30 there will be a prayer meeting at the Gospel Hall, 415 Center street.

W. B. Rogers of East Center street has had a new car, a Buick, which James M. Shearer is managing, a five-passenger Victoria coupe. Mr. Rogers is an ardent Buick enthusiast. He never drives a car when the newness has worn off and, incidentally, this is his tenth Buick.

The regular Thursday afternoon prayer meeting of the women of the Church of the Nazarene will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock with Mrs. Samuel Richardson of 67 Oak street.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hathaway, whose marriage took place in New Hampshire March 20, on their return from their honeymoon will occupy one of the suites in "The Gables," E. J. Holl's apartment house at 118 Main street.

Rev. Watson Woodruff of the Center Congregational church will be the speaker at the union Holy Thursday service to be held tomorrow evening at 7:30 at the North Methodist church. An unusual feature will be the use of the Wesley form of Sunday service. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed. The meeting is open to all attendants of the North Main street churches and any other interested.

Mrs. J. R. Lowe of Porter street, president of the local Garden club, who is a member of the staging committee for the National Flower and Garden show at the State Army, Hartford, April 2 to 10, has been notified to attend a meeting of the committee tomorrow.

The duties of the committee to procure all necessary equipment and accessories and to direct the placing of exhibits in assigned locations. Mrs. R. K. Anderson and Mrs. W. W. Ellis are members of the general decorating committee. Mrs. Clifford Cheney is chairman of the show and her assistants are Miss Mary Chapman and George Clark.

Mrs. Timothy Doyle of Deming street, one of the oldest and best known residents of that section of Manchester, was this morning removed to a private hospital in Rockville. She has been ill for several weeks.

Samuel Mason, who has been connected with the Prudential Insurance Company of America through its Manchester branch office for nearly twenty years, checked out last night and will engage in other lines. His "debit" was in the outskirts of Manchester and also extended into South Windsor and Talcottville.

The north end barber shops will close at noon Friday, but will keep open all day Thursday.

Mrs. Olive G. Hayward, former matron at Teachers' Hall for many years, now living at her home in Walpole, N. H., is spending a week's visit at the home of Superintendent and Mrs. Fred A. Verplanck on Main street. Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Hayward was the guest of honor at a tea at the home of Mrs. Verplanck which was attended by chairman of thirty schoolteachers who knew Mrs. Hayward during their school year residence at Teachers' Hall.

A pre-natal clinic will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the Memorial Hospital clinic building on Haynes street.

The Swedish Lutheran church choir will rehearse tonight at 7:30 in preparation for the cantata, "From Olivet to Calvary" which they will sing Friday evening.

The Friendly Bridge club will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. Cleon Chapman of Strickland street.

Mr. and Mrs. D. D. McDaniels of Springfield have moved into Apartment 2 of The Gables, formerly occupied by the family of Thomas F. Moriarty.

No. 1 company of the South Manchester fire department was called out this noon at 12:40 for what proved to be a grass fire in the rear of 172 McKee street. The fire was extinguished and the company back at its house in ten minutes.

Leo J. Cleary, of 237 Center street who has been seriously sick for the past six weeks has so far recovered as to be on duty at the lunch room.

Clarence Wetherell of 123 Wells street, is ill at his home with the grip.

Dr. Amos E. Friend, who has been suffering from pneumonia, has so far recovered as to be up and about his home on Comstock Road and expects to be able to resume his practice next week.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, March 23.—(AP)—The Stock Market drifted aimlessly today, absorbing occasional trickles of selling without difficulty.

The mid-week business statistics failed to provide any fresh sustenance for the market, and uncertainties surrounding the fate of the tax measure in Congress tended to keep traders cautious.

The list sagged a point or so in the early dealings, recovered during the morning, then eased off slightly after midday. Leaders ranged fractionally lower by early afternoon.

Some special selling appeared in Proctor and Gamble, which dropped about 4 points to a new low in the early dealings, then recovered. Early losses of a point or so in U. S. Steel, American Telephone and American Can were recovered, then these issues eased off fractionally. Trading was again extremely sluggish.

Wall street is now awaiting with keen interest the intensive automobile sales campaigns planned for early April. Any pickup in sales should bring a belated upturn in steel production. "Iron Age" estimated ingot output this week as unchanged at 25 per cent of capacity, but said that an upturn seemed to be promised within the next fortnight.

Electric power production for last week was off 8.6 per cent from last year; the most favorable comparison thus far reported, save for that shown in the week ended March 6, which was off 8.7 per cent. The weekly freight car loadings figures, showing a gain of 16,000 cars over the previous week, were not regarded as particularly encouraging, since the gain was accounted for by a special movement of coal. Miscellaneous freight and less than carload lots, chief barometers of general business activity, actually showed large declines.

Since the suicide of Ivar Kreuger, the European situation has been attracting considerable attention, particularly that in Central Europe. The recent impairment of Germany's favorable trade balance has aroused some uneasiness over the Reich's ability to continue to meet payments on its private debts, but most quarters in Wall street feel that payments will be fully met until the Lausanne conference in June, and are hopeful that a satisfactory solution of the German difficulties may come out of the conference. There is believed to have been some selling in this market of foreign holdings of American securities, as result of the Kreuger situation, which has presumably tied up funds in some centers. Publication of the collateral behind the Kreuger & Toll participating debentures, showing that such high grade security as the French Government bonds had been removed, did not serve to brighten that aspect of the picture.

GREAT BRITAIN FIRM ON ALLEGIANCE NOTE

He assured some opposition questioners that it would be made public in due time.

This is no time for panic, he told the House, "but the matter is serious and the best way to deal with it is not" by debate in the commons.

Pressed for details, he said he had no intention of going into them. "My answer is clear and explicit," he declared, "the annuities are a bargain between two peoples hitherto honorably kept, and we intend that the agreement shall stand."

The Labor member, George Buchanan, of Glasgow, exclaimed: "It is a declaration of war by the Right Honorable gentleman?" There were loud cries of protest from the ministerial benches.

Buchanan finally resumed his seat shouting: "It is a declaration of war, a declaration of war for £3,000,000."

Another Scottish Labor member, James Maxton, wanted to know if the Irish nation was not going to be treated as well as foreign nations with whom Great Britain was negotiating regarding the revision of treaties.

Thomas made no direct reply but begged the members of the House to say nothing in debate which might embitter the situation. He concluded: "But equally I must make it clear to this House and to the country that the statement I have read leaves no shadow of doubt on two points, namely, the oath and the annuities. This is the considered judgment of the government and that is where we stand in the matter."

J. W. Dulanty, Irish high commissioner in London, listened to Mr. Thomas' statement from the gallery of the House of Commons. Immediately after Mr. Thomas finished, Dulanty telephoned to Dublin.

Dublin, Irish Free State, March 23.—(AP)—Flanna Fail members of the Free State Dail were jubilant today at President De Valera's action in serving notice upon England that he intends to abolish the oath of allegiance and discontinues payment of the land annuities.

The newspapers took opposite view in accordance with their political tendencies. "We owe no allegiance to the British Crown and we will yield none," said the Irish Press, a Flanna Fail organ.

The Irish Times, voice of southern unionism, asserted De Valera had challenged England to a direct quarrel and that England's reply "must be of the sternest kind."

The Times demanded an immediate session of the Dail to meet this "national emergency."

Meane there was concern, especially in view of the events of the past two days, over the possibility of disorders over the week-end when the Easter week uprising of 1916 will be commemorated. All Free State troops will be confined to barracks.

NOTED SCULPTOR DIES. Denver, March 23.—(AP)—Professor Boris Schatz, 89, of Jerusalem, painter and sculptor of Jewish religious subjects, died here last night. He had been making a world tour. Professor Schatz was born in Russia and educated in European universities. He was court sculptor to the King of Bulgaria and founded a National Art Academy in Jerusalem 25 years ago.

ANTI-DRY WOMEN GET SHERMAN AS A SPEAKER

Hartford Courant Editor Will Address Rally At Masonic Temple On Monday Evening.

Maurice Sherman, editor of the Hartford Courant and a representative of the Crusaders, has been secured by the Manchester Branch of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, as one of the speakers at the rally to be held at the Masonic Temple, Monday evening, March 28. Mrs. Lucius F. Robinson, Jr., chairman of the Connecticut organization, will preside.

As previously announced, Mrs. John Cates of New Haven, who has taken a deep interest in the anti-dry movement, and has addressed audiences in all sections of the state, will be the principal speaker.

Others on the platform will be Lucius F. Robinson, Jr., head of the Connecticut Crusaders; Mrs. Stuart Clement of New Haven, state secretary of the Anti, and Mrs. A. Morgan Pease of Hartford, county chairman.

A recently inaugurated research department making state-wide investigations found that 97 per cent of the replies to questionnaires sent

DRY-CHIEF TO VISIT PHILLY'S SPEAKEASIES

Philadelphia, March 23.—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. James K. Shields, New Jersey state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, told the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin by telephone today he would accept an invitation to visit 17 alleged speakeasies said to be operating in the Chestnut Hill section of Philadelphia.

His host of the tour, if the arrangement is carried out, will be Joseph S. Clark, Jr., an attorney and executive commander of the Pennsylvania Crusaders, anti-prohibition organization.

The offer was made last night in a debate in the Moorestown, N. J., high school.

At that time, Dr. Shields said: "For two years I have challenged every man that has talked about the large amount of liquor sold in speakeasies to take me with him and show me what they see. I have never had a single person make good yet."

Mr. Clark replied: "I have lived in Chestnut Hill for many years, and I can remember the time when there was only one saloon there. I challenge you to pay me a visit at any time and I will show you there are 17 speakeasies."

The bulletin said Dr. Shields told that newspaper by telephone from Newark today: "I will go with Mr. Clark whenever he sends me notice, unless, of course, I have an engagement which cannot be broken."

Mr. Clark expressed himself as delighted.

"I will be glad to make arrangements for the trip in a very short time," he said.

HAD 16 BANK ACCOUNTS. New York, March 23.—(AP)—Members of the legal staff of Samuel Seabury announced today that John J. Meyer, a former member of the examining board of plumbers, had been sought unsuccessfully for months for examination before the Hofstadter legislative committee.

Meyer was an important witness in the investigation of charges that former Magistrate George F. Ewald bought his seat on the bench. At the time of Meyer's disappearance he had 16 or 17 bank accounts from which he had withdrawn all funds. The Seabury staff now has these bank accounts.

STUDENTS WARNED AGAINST JACKETS

Told Not To Wear Them When They Study Conditions of Kentucky Miners.

New York, March 23—(AP)—Two hundred college students with a caution ringing in their ears today to take a look at the coal strike area of eastern Kentucky. "Don't anybody wear leather jackets," shouted Rob F. Hall, president of the Social Problems Club of Columbia University, in giving instructions at a meeting last night. "Why not?" chorused the students. "Because a leather jacket is the mark of a Communist," he replied. Young men and women from Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Columbia, College of the City of New York, New York University, Smith and Hunter colleges are expected to be in the delegation. They were warned against prejudice and told to remember their object is sociological research.

Suspected As Reds

Before giving his advice about leather jackets, Hall told the students the mine operators suspected them of being Reds. He also told the girls not to wear fancy clothes for that might antagonize the miners.

Allan Taub, counsel for the International Labor Defense, who also spoke, derided reports that Kentucky graduates of leading American colleges would meet the students and try to persuade them to go home. He said he had it on good authority the reception committee would be made up of hoodlums and thugs, graduates of the crime centers of the south.

The students will go by bus and motor car, uniting Friday noon in Knoxville, Tenn., before crossing the border into Kentucky and spreading out into Harlan and Bell counties.

MIDGET LITHUANIA HAS NO SHARE IN WORLD'S TROUBLES

Kaunas, Lithuania.—(AP)—A happy oasis in the desert of world economic depression is Lithuania, midget state of 2,200,000 inhabitants, with an area not quite as large as that of West Virginia.

"We hardly notice that there is an economic crisis," said Dr. Francis Daidis, departmental director at the Lithuanian Foreign Office. "The very fact that more primitive social and economic conditions obtain with us than with highly industrialized states has proven a great boon."

"This country is almost entirely agricultural. All told, we have only 8,000 industrial workers, and 85 per cent of our population lives on farms. "The farmer produces for himself what he needs, so we have been able to regulate our imports according to our exports. We could, in fact, at any time stop imports altogether if that were necessary."

"Every country bordering upon us or near us had to take stringent measures against the exportation of capital, but not Lithuania. The lit continues to be worth ten American cents, as it always was."

HIGHLAND PARK CARD PARTY SERIES FINISHED

Mrs. Julia Donze and Walter Senkell not only won the capital prizes for the series of six setback parties conducted by the Highland Park Ladies Sewing Circle, but also won first honors at the final sitting last night which was attended by more than fifty persons.

Second prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Walker. Third prizes were won by Mrs. Irving Taylor and John Tedford. All the above awards were in currency. Consolation prizes fell to Mrs. Catherine Rohan and George Beer. The latter received a carton of safety matches and Mrs. Rohan a combination calendar and telephone index. The door prize, a pot of jonquills, made by the president of the circle, Mrs. Philip W. Taylor, was drawn by Mrs. Catherine Sinnamon.

At the close of the games the members served doughnuts and coffee. It was announced that a new series of setback parties would begin on Tuesday of next week, under the auspices of the ladies of the Highland Park Community club.

FACIST ANNIVERSARY

Rome, March 23—(AP)—Facist Italy celebrated today with imposing ceremonies the anniversary of the foundation of the Facist party. Thirteen years ago today Benito Mussolini, of Milan, and a band of men, determined to wipe out Communism in Italy, met in San Sepolcro Square, Milan, and formally laid the basis of the new political party and issued the first points of the Facist proclamation.

Today as many of those men as are alive received a document signed by Il Duce, recalling that historic meeting. For this afternoon Mussolini called a meeting of the National Council.

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP

INTIMATE GLIMPSES AND INSIDE STUFF ON THE MOVIE COLONY

BY DAN THOMAS

Songs Did It!

Hollywood, March 22.—Goings on around the movie colony: Ray West, song writer and radio crooner, back home again. . . . And the divorce clouds all have blown away. . . . Which shows what songs can do.

When Mrs. West obtained her interlocutory decree last fall, Ray got a job as orchestra leader on a round-the-world liner. By the time he got to Honolulu, he had dashed off a new song, "Farewell. . . and sent it home. From Japan came "Honey-mooning. . . From China, "Cross-Words. . . "Caressing" followed from Havana.

And when Ray followed a few weeks later, his wife was at the pier waiting with open arms for him.

Vivienne's a Blend Now

Barbara Kent claims to hold all records for changing clothes. In a recent picture she had to make eight complete changes in one day. . . . And Vivienne Osborne has become a blond for art's sake. . . . She tried all kinds of blond wigs for her current role but none of them looked right. So she got out the old peroxide.

A letter from Dolores Del Rio in Honolulu where she is making "The Bird of Paradise," says that the funniest scene in the whole picture is one which never will reach the screen.

That was when Joel McCrea, garbed in rubber boots and a trench coat, had to rehearse a passionate love scene with Dolores, who was wearing a muddy yellow slicker. Yes, it rained there quite a bit.

That O'Brien Family Again

It begins to look as though the O'Brien family is trying to get a corner on this industry. Pat has been doing all right by himself ever since he arrived here for the leading role in "The Front Page." And now his wife, Patricia, former Broadway actress, has entered the racket. Her first role is in "Widows Might."

Also Edna Murphy, blond wife of Mervyn LeRoy, is back in town again to resume her screen career. "Wonder when she is going to file those divorce papers? She and Mervyn have been separated for some time now."

Joan's Wedding Bells

Those wedding bells which are to announce that Joan Bennett has become Mrs. Gene Markey still are being delayed because Joan can't get away from the studio long enough for the ceremony. And Gene is getting impatient. In all probability the affair will be staged next month.

Little Rochelle Hudson has a new favorite pastime now. It's billiards. She had to learn the game for a picture. Then was put into another film instead. But she continues to play just the same. That new beauty shop of Marie Marzall's, where all employees are 60 years of age or older, is good. Marie believes they know more about wrinkles.

Woolsey Was a Jockey

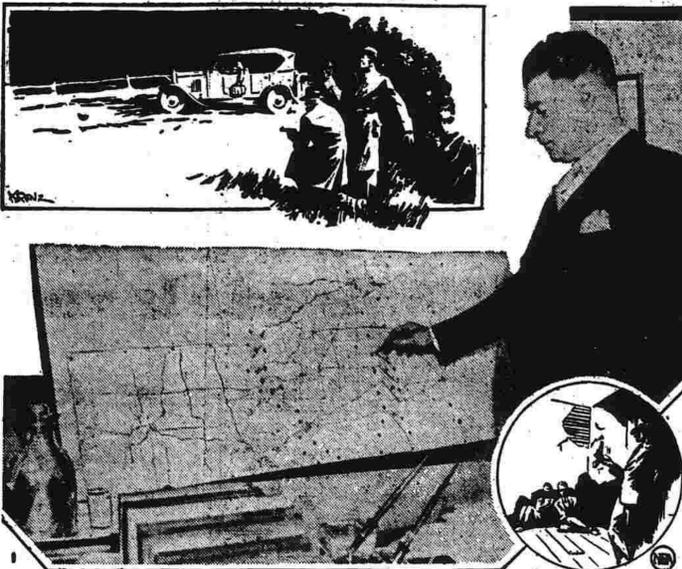

John Boles and his wife heading for Malibu, Warner Baxter starting for his first visit to Palm Springs, and Sally Eilers returning from the Hoot Gibson ranch all in the same day. Now all we need is for Robert Woolsey to come back from Agua Caliente and all four points of the compass will be represented. Bob likes the horse races at the Mexican resort. He used to be a jockey himself once. . . . And before he learned to stutter Roscoe Ates was an automobile race driver. Now look at him.

The new Westwood masie golf course having a grand opening. It's lighted for night playing. And promises to be a favorite spot for the screen colony this summer.

Lifting the Curtain On

The Crime Trust

What Chicago's Secret Six Found Out About Kidnap Business Methods.

Alexander Jamie, director of Chicago's "Secret Six," is shown here as he traces on a map the route a messenger was ordered to take with ransom money for the release of a kidnap victim. The messenger is 300 miles away. He will be signaled to throw the money from his car. In this way, the kidnap rings avoid ambush when making their collections.

BY ALEXANDER JAMIE
Director of the "Secret Six" of the Chicago Association of Commerce

Kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby has focused public attention on this newest big-scale activity of the underworld.

There are two distinctly different kinds of kidnaping. One is the kidnaping of gangsters by gangster rivals for revenge or for business reasons. The other is the kidnaping of private citizens, most often adults, to obtain huge ransoms for their release.

The first method is old, having been employed in practically all wars between rival gangs. The second is something relatively new—that is, on an organized scale—and if it is not curbed it may lead to very serious conditions.

The Secret Six has records of 31 recent kidnapings for ransom in Chicago and vicinity. Doubtless, there have been many more such crimes that never were reported, because the kidnapers chose victims who are engaged in some illegal or quasi-legal business—victims who will not be likely to go to the police with their troubles.

Therefore, any effort to estimate the amount of ransom money they have collected would necessarily be a guess. But undoubtedly, the total would show a tremendous figure because demands for as much as $150,000 have been made in individual cases.

Kidnap Ring

Kidnaping for ransom is relatively new and therefore, as yet, difficult to fathom. It is not known about the east and other parts of the country, but our evidence indicates that most of the major kidnapings in the mid-west have been committed by a group of about 15 men. They go where their business requires.

These professional kidnapers have a very definite system and there are many indications that big kidnaping jobs in the midwest have been pulled by the same gang.

The first step of the gang is to send out a "finger man" to get all possible information on the intended victim. This "finger man" carefully checks his quarry to find out his ability to pay, his personal habits, when he goes to and from his home and his place of business, who his friends are, the kind of auto he has, its license number, etc.

All this, the "finger man" reports to the chief of the kidnap ring. If the report is satisfactory the quarry then becomes a subject for action. A few nights later, as the selected victim is driving home, his car

"Every line of business is today the prey of the organized gangster and racketeer—no business today is safe from the depredation of the crime trust." Congressman Charles A. Karch, above, Illinois Democrat, recently asserted in a speech in Congress.

"The American crime trust is as surely a trust in restraint of trade, in restraint of human liberties, human life, human happiness, as any trust ever investigated and broken up by the Federal Trade Commission in contravention to the Sherman act."

is forced into the curb by an auto containing four or five men. They cover the victim with guns and force him into their own auto. He is laid face downward on the floor of the car, his wrists tied behind him and a blanket placed over him.

The men in the rear seat sit with their feet on his blanket-covered form while the car is driven to the gang's hideout, often many miles away.

Victim Blindfolded

Arriving at the hideout place, the victim is blindfolded before he is taken from the car and led inside. The house is usually in some remote location. Two guards are placed over him. After threats of death and torture, he is directed to write a letter to friends requesting that they pay the stipulated ransom. The victim is seated at a table, given pen and paper and warned to look straight ahead while the blindfold is temporarily removed so he can write the letter. His captors stand behind him and thus he never sees them.

The kidnapers contact with the designated friend by means of the telephone, and tell him that the victim will be released unharmed if the ransom money is paid. Then the victim's own note is mailed to the friend as proof of his predicament.

More telephone calls from a mysterious source give instructions for payment of the money, usually in small bills.

Route Outlined

By means of highway route numbers that are given him to follow, the messenger is to drive toward a point perhaps 300 miles distant. Somewhere along this line—anywhere in the 300 miles—he will be signaled by a car, usually of his tail-light if at night, by a certain honking of the horn if in the daytime. At this signal, he must throw the package of money out of his car and continue driving straight ahead. Thus, the kidnapers can pick a clear spot, with no possibility of ambush.

Once the money is collected, the captive is freed. Usually he is driven a long distance and dumped out on a lonely road late at night. As when taken, he is kept on the car floor under a blanket and he is warned not to remove his blindfold until after the kidnapers' car is out of sight.

The victims are usually returned unharmed, but these kidnapers are desperate and will kill if resisted. In a recent case they shot and wounded a man and killed his wife when they resisted capture.

Gang war kidnapings are brutal affairs, often followed by torture, to exact rival gang secrets, and then by the murder of the victim. There has been a case in which the captive's ears were twisted off with pliers.

Leaders at Large

A number of arrests have been made in this kidnaping-for-ransom racket around Chicago and the mid-west, but I believe the real "big shots" are still at large.

Since kidnap victims are often taken from one state to another, I strongly believe we need a federal anti-kidnaping law, such as is now proposed in Congress, to combat this crime. Federal law makes it a felony to transport a stolen auto from one state to another. Isn't a human being entitled to as much protection?

As matters stand now, when a kidnap victim is taken into another state the officials of that state have no power to bring witnesses from the original state before their grand jury.

Moreover, the moral effect of a federal law would be a great deterrent. Regardless of the weakness of many local law enforcing units in this country today, Uncle Sam's laws still command keen respect.

NEXT: How gangs can be destroyed. . . . The alliance between gangsters and crooked machine politicians and what it leads to. . . . How good citizens can clean up by electing honest officials.

Helsingfors, Finland, March 23.—(AP)—Whiskey is pouring into Finland by the thousands of cases in preparation for the resumption of the war.

The first consignment of 5,600 cases came from Scotland. Sweden contributed 75,000 liters of brandy and 22,000 of punch. The first shipment of cognac from France is due to arrive about April 5, the day the Prohibition Act lapses.

REPORT NEW BATTLE

Changchun, Manchuria, March 23.—(AP)—A new battle in which five Japanese and 43 Chinese were killed broke out today in the wilderness north of Kharin province against the new Manchurian state. It was the fourth encounter in 24 hours and occurred at Taochiatun, 35 miles southwest of here on the south Manchuria railway. The revolt is reported to be under the direction of Tsing Hai, anti-Japanese warlord. Japanese forces said the Chinese retreated after the encounter.

More than 150 were reported killed yesterday in battle at Nanhuto, Huanghuo and Tatun.

The average man would not be affected by the proposed $5 a barrel tax on beer. His production seldom gets that far ahead of consumption.

Reasons For Backfiring

Backfiring through the intake, popularly known as "popping back," is not always due to a lean mixture. Too many owners assume that when this becomes excessive they must jump out and give the carburetor knob a whirl.

"Popping back" may develop when the motor is just starting up or after it has been well warmed up. In both cases this may be due to sticking valves. At high speed a weak valve spring will fail to close its valve promptly, resulting in escape of the burning mixture into the intake.

In hill climbing one of the most frequent causes of backfiring is an overdose of carbon. As the motor heats up the carbon glows and pre-ignites the mixture. This is usually the reason for the motor's behavior if there is a sudden and excessive amount of backfiring. The spacing of the spark plug points is another factor to be considered.

Noise In Rear Axles

That sharp clicking sound that occurs when the car is starting in low usually is due to one of the rear wheels not being tight enough. Whether the noise develops depends somewhat on the position of the wheels at the time of the start and the way the clutch is engaged.

The rear wheels fit on tapered axle ends. The effect is similar to the glass stopper of a vinegar cruet. If there is slippage this is apt to be sudden, resulting even though the wheels appear to be extremely tight.

Jack up the wheels, remove the hub caps and cotter pins. Then with a large wrench give the wheel nuts another fraction of a turn. This is just the reverse of the situation with the front wheels where the nuts are drawn up only tightly enough to prevent looseness. The front wheels rotate on the axle ends; the rear ones turn with the axles.

Out Of Starter Jam

When the starter gear jams one's natural inclination is to apply main force, but that invariably delays the process of getting out of the predicament. A starter pinion has a way of demeshing if given the benefit of a little coaxing.

This is the same as saying that it is bad business to get out the tow line and have the car pulled. If this is done it is usually necessary to loosen the starter from the engine in order to permit the gear to release from its jammed position against the flywheel ring gear. It is of course equally bad to push the car with the aid of another one. Not only does this serve to jam the gear tighter than ever, but invariably results in marring the bumpers.

Moderation and coaxing pay in a situation of this sort. Switch off the ignition, place the car in gear and rock it back and forth a few times. This is the quickest way of urging the gear to snap out.

Compression Robs Spark

Failure of the engine to start, so often attributed to poor compression, is more likely due to too much compression for the strength of the spark. If this point were more clearly recognized there would be more interest in trying to keep the battery up to par and the electrical system functioning efficiently.

One of the more important things to bear in mind about the engine is that compression, while essential to combustion and power, has an adverse effect on the ignition. The higher the compression the harder it is for the plug to fire. This is adequately taken care of by the newer ignition systems and the newer plugs, but many millions of motorists still are trying to make both ends meet.

A plug that will fire perfectly when outside the engine may fall down completely while operated inside. Compression is the explanation.

How To Thaw Out

What to do when the radiator freezes isn't always a simple matter. Towing the car to a heated garage is the most logical solution, but where this isn't possible the owner is obliged to try other plans.

One scheme is to reverse the direction of rotation of the fan by looping the belt. In all cases remove the radiator cap in order to allow steam to exit, otherwise there will be dangerous internal pressure. Also cover the radiator with a lap robe. By concentrating heat on the core the ice which accumulates at the bottom can be melted more readily.

It is not always advisable, however, to keep the engine running throughout the entire thawing process. Just run the engine enough to keep the temperature of the water at the top of the core hot enough to melt the ice-caked bottom.

Meet The Ring "Click"

Among the many queer noises which the motor can and does make perhaps "ring click" is the least understood. It is the result of special conditions with the rings and usually is due to stickage.

Also if a ring has sufficient tension it will click. Gas pressure gets between the ring and the cylinder wall, causing the ring to collapse temporarily. When the ring again expands it strikes the wall with an audible noise.

Ring click is also heard many times when cylinders are worn and eroded or if the pistons are loose fitting. When the piston rocks gas pressure gets between the rings and the cylinder wall to produce ring collapse.

Most of the trouble, however, is due to fitting a new ring to an old piston without first seeing to it that the grooves are clean, free from taper, and that they are deep enough to accommodate the rings.

Scientists estimate that 40 per cent of the land area of the earth is desert, 30 per cent is productive, and 30 per cent is poor grazing land. Forest, high mountains and waste. There is no agreement as to the exact portion that is inhabitable.

INTENTIONAL DUPE

The dime-a-dance girl

By Joan Clayton

BEGIN HERE TODAY

ELLEN ROSSITER, beautiful 20-year-old, loves LARRY HARROWGATE, young artist. When he becomes engaged to another girl Ellen agrees to marry STEVEN BARCLAY, 37 years old and wealthy. Her impoverished family is indebted to Barclay.

Barclay has been married before. Scandal accompanied his Mexican divorce from LEDA GRAYSON, dancer. To avoid publicity Ellen and Barclay are secretly married. They drive to his Long Island home, deserted except for FERDUS, the butler. There Barclay suffers a heart attack. LOUIE SYMES, Barclay's lawyer, arrives with doctors and nurses. Barclay dies at dawn.

Symes tells Ellen her marriage is not legal because papers proving Barclay's divorce have been stolen. Ellen yields all claims on Barclay's fortune to avoid scandal. Then she learns Larry Harrowgate is Barclay's nephew. Heartbroken, she returns home.

Ellen distracts Ferdus. She returns to work as a hostess at Dreamland, a dance hall. Larry comes there, tells her he loves her. He asks, "You weren't married, were you?"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLIII

Ellen's heart was beating temptuously. Larry waited for his answer. Suddenly the girl said what she had not meant to say.

"No—I—I didn't get married."

Over and over she had told her sick and guilty soul it would be so easy to explain everything. Now it was too late. Ellen had never seen Larry more deeply moved, more desperately serious.

"You couldn't?"

"You couldn't marry anyone else. Tell me you couldn't because you belong to me?"

"That's an odd thing for you to say," she faltered.

"I know it is," he agreed with a short laugh.

She sat perfectly still, her blue eyes on his and one of her hands clasped in Larry's. He leaned nearer.

"You mean I hadn't any right to say that?"

"I guess that's what I mean," she said, a little undecided. "You see you didn't say a word."

"It didn't occur to me," he said, faintly scowling. "It's damned hard for me to be honest now. It's hard for me to remember how smug and complacent I was during those days before I got that last note of yours. It's easy enough to remember how I've felt since—half crazy from thinking I'd lost you."

"Do you know why I came here tonight?" he demanded.

"No, I don't know."

"It was because I thought it would help cure me. I thought I saw you again and thought you were lost to me. I almost turned and ran. Then I thought I'd have to show you that you couldn't hurt me, though really you'd hurt me worse than anyone ever will again. So I danced with Tony. She told me—and that's all there is."

"That day you wrote the note to me at the store—you didn't feel that way then?" Ellen questioned.

"No, I didn't," Larry confessed, groping for the words. "I wanted mother to meet you because I liked you. I liked you a lot from the first, Ellen, but I didn't realize I loved you, that you were my whole life. And then mother—"

"Didn't want to meet me," Ellen completed the sentence.

"He went on, neither denying or affirming her statement. "I was content that things should drift along with us until you showed me they just wouldn't drift."

"But you were engaged," she pointed out, wondering that the fact that had once made all her days so wretched seemed now of no importance.

"True again. But that didn't seem important to me. I did think of telling you, thought of it several times, but I never seemed to find just the right occasion. You know how that is, don't you?"

He stopped and then went on again. "You'd understand better if you knew Liz Bows. She slips in and out of two or three engagements every season. There was a time when I thought I cared for her enough to be engaged, even to think of marrying her. Her family was delighted and mother was too. But then Liz came home from Europe. I had your last note and knew I'd lost everything, everything in the world, Ellen."

"I went out to your house that night, Ellen. Did you know that? Your mother told me you never wanted to see me again."

"Mother did what she thought was best," Ellen said slowly.

"You hadn't any idea what I went through that night," Larry said passionately.

She shook her head in correction.

"I think I do know. Tell me how?" he demanded hungrily.

But she could only look at him, her lips unsteady, her eyes bright with tears and her hands pressed in his.

"Can you understand, Ellen, how a man might unconsciously think a girl would wait when there wasn't any reason for her to wait except that she loved him? Can you imagine how a man might be so stupid and conceited and selfish? If you'll only forgive me you'll never be sorry."

Her heart overflowed with love and forgiveness and warm pain.

"Why, Larry, sweetheart, don't talk that way," she said gently. "I won't let you say such things about yourself. Of course I forgive you. I could forgive you anything."

He seized her hand and pressed it to his lips. "Ah, you're sweet, sweet, sweet," he muttered.

"Does this mean we're engaged?" she asked faintly.

"You bet it does," he laughed. "It'll be no long engagement either. We'll go tomorrow to get the rings."

"Isn't this fun?" Ellen said on a long breath. "We're both of us crazy, just plain crazy! Your mother will hate me. Don't tell me she won't because I know. The people you know will call me a taxi dancer. I heard Lona Clendening that night, you remember—that night at your studio. But all that just doesn't seem important! The important thing is that I love you, Larry!"

"The important thing is that we love each other and that we found it out in time," he amended.

After that they talked and talked. Dancers, chattering and laughing, drifted past the little table but to Ellen and the others were only dim shapes, vague as the music which seemed to come from so far away. Only Larry was real. Only Larry and the fact that he loved her and the swift plans they were making.

They arranged their future and Molly's and Kate's. Ellen laughed at Larry's desire to adopt a ready-made family but she was touched by it, too. It would be the best thing in the world for him declared irresponsible Larry. He really meant it. They talked of his work and of how Ellen would help him. Mentally they built the picture on the walls of the Metropolitan and on the walls of the Louvre. They selected a place to live and furnished it completely. They talked of the years to come.

Afterward they stepped out on the balcony to watch the rosy, flaming lights of Broadway and Larry laughed excitedly because the glow turned Ellen's hair to a deep sullen red. As she leaned dreamily against him, Ellen thought that tomorrow she would tell him of the one thing which had not been mentioned.

They met, as arranged, next morning on Fifth avenue. He was late and as Ellen sat waiting in the lobby of a smart hotel she grew abnormally nervous. What had delayed Ellen and what could have delayed him? She tried to appear easy and as much at home as the others about her. She kept her small hands folded and her small feet quiet and averted her eyes from the clock.

All at once she saw Larry swing through the revolving door. Again the day was glorious! He glanced hurriedly about and caught her eyes. Both smiled with infinite content and Larry moved swiftly across the room.

"We're starting out with the biggest chrysanthemum you ever saw," said, tucking her hand under his arm. "It's in a window around the corner. An exact match, Ellen, for your hair!"

A moment later they were pointing out to an interested florist the bloom in question. The great magenta russet flower was pinned firmly to Ellen's coat collar.

She was in ecstasy on the trip down the avenue. To have Larry here, to know that he was proud of her and that he loved her was incredible. The day itself was incredible. The air was cool and sweet, the sky a bright, electric blue and the sun so brilliant that all the blossoms seemed freshly painted. The shop windows had never displayed merchandise more enticing, more tempting, more desirable. Ellen wanted to dance and sing. Instead she sedately matched her pace to his and felt the petals of the shaggy mum against her cheek with every step.

They reached Thirty-fourth street and a small, select jewelry shop, a shop so artistic that for decades it carried no sign to guide the shopper. As she walked down a long, silken rug into an atmosphere of almost cathedral-like austerity, Ellen tried to look casual and dignified but did not succeed. She looked exactly what she was—a rapturous, embarrassed young girl with flushed cheeks and brilliant eyes.

Larry was as absorbed in the purchase as she was. The two bent their elbows on the shining counter and pondered over dozens of rings while the watching clerk suppressed a smile. The engagement ring was an easy choice, a clear blue diamond guarded by emeralds. Both exclaimed at once over it. Larry said they did not need a box. Ellen trembled, blushed, agreed. Glory flashed on her finger and glory flashed in her heart.

Selecting the wedding ring was more difficult. The clerk brought out a second tray and then a third. All the rings were dignified and simple, so similar that to any except lovers there would seem to be no choice.

"Here it is!" Larry cried out suddenly.

He held up a slim platinum circlet set with diamonds. It might have been a twin of the ring at home that was locked in Ellen's dressing table. Her face paled with the memory.

"Don't you like it?" Larry asked, surprised. "Try it on."

Ellen's hands were clasped behind her back.

"Why—I don't you think it would be better to have the wedding ring more simple?" she appealed, confused and horribly frightened.

"The young lady is right," broke in the clerk.

Ellen sent him a misty, grateful smile. After a moment of disappointment Larry agreed that perhaps they should choose something plainer. The "something plainer" was not platinum at all but white gold carved with minute orange blossoms. They left the ring to be engraved.

A German photographer has invented film rolls for a camera from which a single negative can be removed for developing without exposing the other sections of the film.

"RIDING HIGH IN FASHION"

ON THE LEFT, BELOW, A NAVY BLUE, DOUBLE-BREASTED, BROAD-SHOULDERED JACKET SHOWS DECIDED MILITARY INFLUENCE. IT IS WORN WITH GAUZE BLUE BREECHES AND A NAVY PANCAKE BERET.

BELOW, CROCHETED GLOVES OF RED STRING.

He stopped and then went on again. "You'd understand better if you knew Liz Bows. She slips in and out of two or three engagements every season. There was a time when I thought I cared for her enough to be engaged, even to think of marrying her. Her family was delighted and mother was too. But then Liz came home from Europe. I had your last note and knew I'd lost everything, everything in the world, Ellen."

"I went out to your house that night, Ellen. Did you know that? Your mother told me you never wanted to see me again."

"Mother did what she thought was best," Ellen said slowly.

"You hadn't any idea what I went through that night," Larry said passionately.

She shook her head in correction.

"I think I do know. Tell me how?" he demanded hungrily.

But she could only look at him, her lips unsteady, her eyes bright

with tears and her hands pressed in his.

"Can you understand, Ellen, how a man might unconsciously think a girl would wait when there wasn't any reason for her to wait except that she loved him? Can you imagine how a man might be so stupid and conceited and selfish? If you'll only forgive me you'll never be sorry."

Her heart overflowed with love and forgiveness and warm pain.

"Why, Larry, sweetheart, don't talk that way," she said gently. "I won't let you say such things about yourself. Of course I forgive you. I could forgive you anything."

He seized her hand and pressed it to his lips. "Ah, you're sweet, sweet, sweet," he muttered.

"Does this mean we're engaged?" she asked faintly.

"You bet it does," he laughed. "It'll be no long engagement either. We'll go tomorrow to get the rings."

"Isn't this fun?" Ellen said on a long breath. "We're both of us crazy, just plain crazy! Your mother will hate me. Don't tell me she won't because I know. The people you know will call me a taxi dancer. I heard Lona Clendening that night, you remember—that night at your studio. But all that just doesn't seem important! The important thing is that I love you, Larry!"

"The important thing is that we love each other and that we found it out in time," he amended.

After that they talked and talked. Dancers, chattering and laughing, drifted past the little table but to Ellen and the others were only dim shapes, vague as the music which seemed to come from so far away. Only Larry was real. Only Larry and the fact that he loved her and the swift plans they were making.

MARVELOUS MANHATTAN

By WILLIAM GAINES

New York.—Color film, certain wise men in the business end of the movies point out, has had several "comeback" tests in the past after defects and expense removed it from the screens of the land. Each return has marked great progress in technique.

Laboratory improvements, they say, may assure general and lasting favor for color film in feature picture production the very next time, it gets a good chance—and that, despite the skeptics, will be the first time financial conditions warrant the taking of any more chances by the industry.

At any rate, it seems safe to say that color film is no more "dead" than old Aunt Cynthia's straying cat.

But the same movie gentlemen are not so sure that wide film is going to find wide use. They point out that, while its employment was impressive in panoramic shots, it exaggerated figures to the degree of doing something harmful to the more intimate scenes.

They say the logical development will be the provision for all de luxe theaters to switch to wide screen effects in the course of a showing—an arrangement which is no novelty to big town fans. As for the closure of Joan Garbo and Clark Gable in the clinch or shots of the poor but honest heroine's two-by-four hall room, they won't be magnified.

All of which again illustrates the senseless ultimately enforced upon so-called commercial art. Consideration of the box-office protects it against running complete ga-ga over each new idea, yet encourages it to accept, in moderation, the best new movement has to offer.

Slow Motion Pictures

Polo, now so popular with the film blades on the West Coast, has been taken up by a group at the Flatbush short subjects studio.

The "Independent" movie producer is having his inning, right now. And how a lot of the executives hooked up with the "major" picture companies would love to have a bit of independence—from this and that, you know.

A weak Broadway play is not always a debacle for the leading player, especially if she can turn it to the ends of a personal success as did Dorothy Hall, the blond girl from Bradford, Pa. We understand that Miss Hall's value in the eyes of movie producers leaped a couple of figures, after the New York critics raved about how she soared above her stage material.

It was a jolt on the chin to those advocating a wholesale revival of production in the East when Paramount finally closed down and moved out of the big Astoria stadium. It was only a matter of months back when "Gertie" was asserting that production was cheaper and more efficient at Astoria than in Hollywood. Then some cogs slipped, somehow.

Personality Puffs

Margaret Fishback, the verse maker, has long hair—much longer than any male poet's we know of.

Fannie Brice, the galloping comedienne, won't use songs that she has to stand still to sing.

Sylvia Sidney is a flower of the Bronx.

No bad pun intended, but Owen D. Young is a surprisingly youthful looking man to be in his place.

JUST A VISIT

Woman (at employment agency): I want a good cook for my country house.

Manager (turning to secretary): Have we anyone here who would like to spend a day or so in the country?—Tit-Bits.

NOT SO FAST

"Henry," said Mrs. Glipping, in tearful tones.

"Well, my dear?" replied Henry, looking up from the paper. "What is it?"

"If I were to die tonight would you marry again?"

"Not tonight."—Tit-Bits.

Playoffs in Hockey To Start On Thursday

Canadiens Finish First For Second Time; Meet Rangers in Title Series; Bruins and Americans Out.

New York, March 23.—(AP)—The National Hockey League season has come to an end with the Montreal Canadiens on top of the Canadian division for the second straight year. Facing the possibility that the Toronto Maple Leafs might send them into second place in the final game of the season last night, the habitants showed some of their best speed and sharp-shooting to down Toronto by a 4 to 2 count. The Detroit Falcons finished third in the American group turning back the New York Rangers, first place team of the division, 5 to 4. The New York Americans and Boston Bruins who finished out of the playoffs waged a slow scoring contest in which the Americans won 1 to 0.

Cancer-Free Spot On 'Roof of World'

Lures Science to Seek Ancient Herbs

New York.—(AP)—On the "roof of the world" in Indian Tibet, where British medical records indicate cancer does not exist, the Roerich Museum of New York is starting a unique biological experiment.
There is a mystery about this Tibetan cancer-free district. Ancient books show that cancer once flourished there, and that it was fought with juices of plants and herbs.
These books never have been translated by moderns and the Roerich experiment will combine an expert translation with the latest scientific methods of studying the plants to check against the lost lore.
The site is the district of Lahoul. Dr. Georges Roerich has collected there two or three dozen of the books for translation. Dr. Walter N. Koelz, botanist and zoologist of the University of Michigan, is investigating the plants.
The incidents which inspired this work were related by Miss Esther J. Lichtmann, vice president of the museum, who recently returned to New York.
In one indisputable respect these Tibetan plants are different from anything else. They are giants. Miss Lichtmann saw "forget-me-nots" the size of pennies, royal blue poppies, rhododendrons as large as trees, mosses nearly the size of marsh grasses.
"There is one root," Miss Lichtmann says, "given to children to improve their memories. That's what the Tibetans say about it. This may mean that memory works better under some stimulus in the root, or that there is a blood change."
"A tailor with toothache came to our camp for relief. We gave him everything available, including narcotics, but without much effect. Then we saw a Tibetan physician insert into a cavity in this man's tooth what appeared to be a tendril of a plant. He left it there a few minutes, then twisted it around and drew out a nerve. The tailor said he was cured."
"The books Dr. Roerich has gathered describe a great deal of a disease not named but precisely like cancer. There are pages of descriptions and other page on page advice how to treat the trouble with various plant remedies."
"These books are of great antiquity, hand-written, the heritage of Lamas. Their translation is a big undertaking."

HIKING THEY WOULD GO
Knoxville, Tenn.—Eleven members of the Smoky Mountains Hiking Club left for a week-end hike in warm, spring-time weather. Soon after they started it began to rain. The rain turned to snow. The temperature dropped to 12 above zero. Blinding snow forced the party to spend the night in the mountains, and they were 24 hours getting back to shelter.

GOLF DIVORCE
Indianapolis, Ind.—Golf has made many "temporary" widows, but it's not been implicated in many divorces. Myra Schwartz brought "golf" divorce suit to court here. She explained that her husband, Raymond H. Schwartz, was unable to shoot par on the course. That made him sullen, brought about family troubles, and resulted in her seeking a separation. Mrs. Schwartz explained.

WISE JUSTICE
Houston.—Julius J. Salmon, 82, feeble and almost deaf, walked before Judge Kennerly on a liquor charge. Questions put to him had to be shouted. "I am 82, judge," Salmon said, "and this is the first time I was ever arrested. I just sold a little whisky to get me some bread and meat." The judge let him go after getting his promise to report back to court for an accounting next September.

WHY, HERBIE!
Los Angeles.—Herbert Hoover a home-wrecker! But he doesn't know anything about the divorce suit against his wife saying "it all started over Hoover." Wahrman explained that his wife told him after he expressed the opinion that the Hoover administration would bring about a change for the better. "Anyone who would vote for Hoover ought to starve to death." The fight that led to divorce then started.

GOOD NEWS KILLS
Denver, Col.—It may have been good news to someone, but information that he had inherited $25,000 from his dead brother's estate was fatal to Alexander McGavock, 74. After receiving the news from Ireland, the home of his brother, McGavock collapsed. His weak heart failed to stand the shock and he died a short time after.

"Prince Royal? Who's That?"

Title is New Disguise for King George's Only Daughter.

Princess Mary, Princess Royal.

London, March 23.—Princess Mary, only daughter of the King and Queen of England, is going about the country these days in disguise, as it were. Oh, she is not wearing a false nose, or dressing up as a charwoman or anything of that sort. Her disguise is her new name and title. "Mary" has disappeared entirely since her royal father conferred upon her the title of "Princess Royal."
Britons have not yet become used to it, so when they see that the Princess Royal is to open a bazaar or inspect a hospital, they scratch their heads. Many of them vaguely recollect that a Princess Royal died not so long ago. After a while they will get as used to the new title as was the case when the king's second son became the Duke of York.

Changed Name Four Times
This makes the fourth time in her 35 years of existence that the king's daughter has borne a different name. Born a princess, she was christened Victoria Alexandra Alice Mary, and as a fair-haired child, the only girl in her father's family, became popular as Princess Mary. On February 23, 1922, she married Viscount Lascelles. Her title was then officially fixed as Princess Mary, Viscountess Lascelles. By the death of his father a year or so ago, Lord Lascelles became the Earl of Harewood. His wife, thereupon became Princess Mary, Countess of Harewood. From now on she will be known simply as the Princess Royal. No longer will her Christian name nor the title of her husband be trailed along.

Outside of the Queen herself, Princess Royal is the highest title a woman can bear in Britain.
For the past 205 years it has been conferred upon the eldest daughter of the sovereign. Old King George II, a German prince from Hanover, became King of England in November, 1726, and on the following August 30, 1727, by royal warrant conferred armorial bearings on "our eldest daughter, the Princess Royal Anne."

Princess Louise Held Title
After King Edward VII came to the throne, he conferred the title in 1905 upon his eldest daughter, Princess Louise, Duchess of Fife. As she lived for a long time after King George's only daughter was born, Princess Mary had to do without the title. The death of Princess Louise on January 4 of last year cleared the way for naming Princess Mary as Princess Royal.

The new Princess Royal has not been as much in the public eye since she married as before. She still retains her interest in the Girl Guides and in various charitable undertakings, but devotes a great deal of time to her own homes. She and Lord Harewood have two children, Lord Lascelles, nine, and Hon. Gerald Lascelles, seven. After the death of her father-in-law she and her husband not only maintained his splendid country residence, but when in London kept up a big town house, Chesterfield House, in the swell Mayfair district. Recently, however, it was announced that, owing to hard times and high taxation, they were giving up this place.

It was then that a little mystery was solved. About half a year ago Queen Mary bought a rather simple three-story brick house at 32 Green street, right off Park Lane. There was much speculation at the time as to what was the purpose. It was rumored that the Queen was going to give it to her third son, the Duke of Gloucester, for a bachelor town home. However, the other day it was announced that the Princess Royal and her family were to occupy it when in town.
One of the economical advantages of the Green street place is that it will not require for its upkeep one quarter of the staff needed to run Chesterfield House. And it is just a short auto ride from there to Buckingham Palace, where the Princess Royal can run in at meal times to be with her mother, the Queen. There has always been an especially strong attachment between the two.

It will be noted that in all the two centuries, Princess Mary and her aunt, the late Princess Louise, are the only Princesses Royal who did not marry royalty.

SIX SAILORS RESCUED
New York, March 23.—(AP)—The crew of six men of the schooner John and Mary, rescued 300 miles east of Cape Henry after they were forced to abandon their craft in a full gale, arrived today on the rescue ship, the motorship Tidewater Associated.
The 49-ton fishing schooner had run out of gasoline and was helpless in the gale. Her master, Captain John Naley, and his crew took to their boats and were picked up March 8.
The John and Mary is owned by Gustave A. Gustafson of Brooklyn. She was built in 1926 at Friendship, Maine.

The TINNITES!
STORY BY HAL COCHRAN PICTURES BY JOE KING

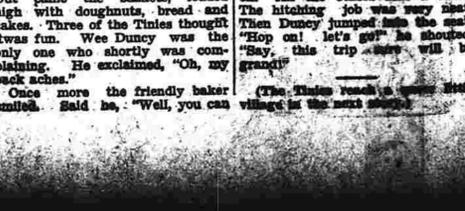

Princess Mary, Princess Royal.

By FRANK BECK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)
"Now that we've seen the wagon, we must get as busy as can be," said Scouty. "There are baskets waiting in the baker's shop. We're promised we will load them all, even though they're big, or very small. Be careful, kids, in bringing them out here. Don't let them drop."
The baker smiled and said, "I'll take the heavy ones and that will make it easier for all of you. This task won't take so long. If you can work with all your might until you load your share in right, I will admit, quite gladly, that you Tinnites are strong."
So, everybody turned right in to work. They did it with a grin. On came the baskets, loaded high with doughnuts, bread and cakes. Three of the Tinnites thought 'twas fun. Wee Duncy was the only one who shortly was complaining. He exclaimed, "Oh, my back aches."
Once more the friendly baker smiled. Said he, "Well, you can rest, my child. Or else bring forth my trusty dog. He's tied to yonder tree. He pulls my wagon all around and I think he's a real fine hound." "Cofree this appealed to Duncy and he cried, "That just suits me!"
He found the dog a friendly sort and cried, "I'll turn you loose, old sport. Then, next, I'll hitch you to the big bread wagon. Gee, what fun! The dog seemed glad when he was free and Duncy shouted, "Follow me!" The other Tinnites watched them as they both came on the run.
"Hey! Help me!" Duncy loudly cried. "And then the dog soon will be tied up to the heavy wagon." All the Tinnites had a hand. The hitching job was very neat. Then Duncy jumped into the seat. "Hop on! Let's go!" he shouted. "Say, this trip sure will be grand!"
(The Tinnites reached their little village in the next second.)

He had spoken to her on the street and she was properly insulted.
She (indignantly)—I don't know you from Adam!
He (mildly)—You ought to. I'm dressed different.

In the beginner's class at school one day, Johnny was asked to spell "frog." He did not know how but after a moment's hesitation decided to make the attempt "F-r" he started, then stopped. Just then the boy sitting behind him struck a pin into Johnny's leg, Johnny felt the pain and exclaimed: "Oh, Gee!"
"Correct," said the teacher.

A professor always made the students of his class count to 100 before they spoke. One day as he was lecturing to his class, every student began to count. The professor wondered what brilliant thought had entered their heads. They kept on counting, "Ninety-nine, one hundred. Professor! Your pants are on fire."

Some men's wives are so economical that they do without practically everything their husbands need. . . They keep saying that the dollar's purchasing power has greatly increased. And so has its elusive-ness! . . . Some men buy fur coats to keep their wives warm—others buy warm coats to keep them quiet. . . Church is about the only place a man can hear a five dollar talk for a quarter. . . You can never convince a girl in love that she is making a fool of herself—any more than you can an intoxicated man he is making a spectacle of himself. . . Rev. J. S. Neill, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church, will preach this evening at the Lenten service at 7:30 at the church.

Inasmuch Circle of Junior Kings Daughters will meet tonight at 7 o'clock at Center church house.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Warder of 118 Main street are spending a few days in New York City.

Half a dozen plump robins were noticed yesterday in the trees on Spring street, another evidence that spring is here although the weather remains wintry.

Miss Josephine Piescik and Miss Susan Allen, local girls who attend the Hartford Art School, will begin their Easter vacation tomorrow, resuming their studies Monday, April 4.

Rev. F. C. Allen of the Second Congregational church will be the guest speaker at the Lenten service and supper at the Congregational church in Newington this evening.

Cards received from Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Crowell of Highland Park, who are on a Mediterranean trip, convey the news that the cruise is benefiting their health. They begin their Easter vacation tomorrow, returning to their home in Cherbourg, France on Monday.

Members of the Luther League of the Swedish Lutheran church were guests of the Hartford League last night. The G. C. Glee club, under the direction of Helge Pearson, contributed four numbers to the program, which included an illustrated lecture on the "King of Kings." Following the program, refreshments were served and a social hour was held.

Linne Lodge, No. 72, Knights of Pythias, will hold its regular meeting in Orange Hall at 8 o'clock tonight.

All members of Mon-Ypres Command, British War Veterans of Manchester, wishing to attend the ceremony of presentation of colors to Anderson-Shea Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, are requested to meet in front of the Army and Navy club at 7:15 tonight. From the latter point the post will go to the armory where the ceremony will be held.

William Skoneski of North school street, son of Mrs. Josephine Skoneski, and a student at the Bryant-Stratton college, Providence, has been honored with election to the office of president of the newly instituted chapter at the college of Phi Sigma Nu fraternity. The installation exercises of the Iota Chapter were held at Stratton Hall. Fourteen of the students became charter members of the fraternity which has national recognition and branches in most of the leading cities throughout the country. Phi Sigma Nu is planning on a fraternity house at the opening of the fall term. Mr. Skoneski is expected home tomorrow for the Easter vacation.

Temple Chapter, O. E. S., will hold its regular meeting this evening at 7:45 at the Masonic Temple. The business session will be followed by a "poverty social." Miss Marion Dorward will be in charge of the music. Star members are reminded to bring donations of grocery staples to this meeting for others in need. Refreshments will be served by a committee of which Mrs. Lucy Hall is chairman.

Housewives, and especially mothers of young children, are reminded of the lecture tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the School street Recreation Center by Miss Beatrice Hall, nutrition director for the Connecticut Dairy and Food Council. The local Child Welfare committee is sponsoring the affair, and expects to plan similar talks if the interest manifested warrants. Miss Hall's subject will be "How to Live Well on a Low Income."

INDUSTRIES HERE WILL CONFER UPON SAFETY

Several local concerns to be represented at State Meeting in Hartford Tuesday.

Several local industries are planning to send representatives to the second annual Connecticut Industrial Safety Conference, to be held at the Hotel Bond in Hartford, Tuesday, March 29. Last year more than a dozen Manchester men were in attendance at the conference in New Haven.

These industries are also members of the Manufacturers Division of the Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber will be represented by E. J. McCabe, executive secretary. The opening session will be held at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning and the closing session at 3:35 o'clock in the afternoon.

The speakers will include Lewis W. Stevens, general superintendent of the Veeder-Root company, Inc.; Oscar A. Phelps, personnel manager, Fuller Brush company; Sidney E. Cornelius, manager, Manufacturers Association of Hartford County; Cyrus S. Chins, director of Industrial and Public relations of the United States Rubber company of New York; Samuel M. Stone, president, Colt's Patent Fire Arms Mfg. company; Miss Frances Perkins, industrial commissioner State of New York; R. J. Reigeluth, vice president, C. W. Blakeslee & Sons, Inc., of New Haven; Joseph M. Tone, commissioner of labor of Connecticut; and Professor R. J. Smith of Yale University.
