NORFOLK CLUE ON KIDNAPING UNIMPORTANT

Col. Lindbergh After Hearing Three Men's Story Considers It So, He Tells Jersey's State Police.

BULLETIN!

Norfolk, Va., March 25.—Despite official announcement from the Lindbergh home in Hopewell, N. J., that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh did not consider information about his kidnaped baby furnished by three Virginians important, one of those informants said today early return of the boy was expected.

"We not only hope but expect the completion of negotiations within a few days," Dean Dobson Peacock said today.

Monroeville, N. J., March 25.—(AP)—Police at an announcement today that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh himself had come to the conclusion that information brought by three citizens of Norfolk, Va., had "no specific significance" in the investigation of the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby.

When Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of state police, was first told yesterday of the report that the Norfolk men had information indicating the baby might be on a yacht in Chesapeake Bay he said it was "absolutely untrue."

In his night bulletin from the Lindbergh home, where he is in general charge of the police search for the kidnapers, Schwarzkopf modified this statement. He said that the Norfolk men had been to the Lindbergh house on Tuesday and that their information had been investigated and found to have no "specific significance."

Speaking for Colonel Schwarzkopf, it was generally supposed that this was simply Schwarzkopf's own conclusion, but today the police chief announced that he had been speaking for Col. Lindbergh, that Col. Lindbergh had had the investigation made himself, and that Col. Lindbergh still believed the information from Virginia to have no "specific significance."

"The Rev. Dobson Peacock and two other citizens of Norfolk are not negotiating for the return of the baby so far as the police authorities at Hopewell know," Schwarzkopf said in his formal morning bulletin today, issued just after his statement that Col. Lindbergh and not himself was the source of the "no specific significance" conclusion.

They visited Col. Lindbergh and gave him information which on investigation was found to have no specific significance in this investigation.

"There is no positive evidence of any kind indicating that the kidnapers fled by way of the Delaware river or Chesapeake Bay. The Coast Guard along Chesapeake Bay has made no report to these headquarters."

Although he made no mention of this in his formal morning bulletin, Schwarzkopf told reporters that police were now looking for a third man besides the two already named.

Hartford, March 25.—(AP)—Connecticut's delegation to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago late in June will be chosen at a State convention to be held in Bushnell Memorial here May 16 and 17.

The dates were selected yesterday by the committee of the State convention named by Chairman David A. Wilson. The selection of a keynote speaker will be made later.

Party primaries will be held under party rules they will be uniform throughout the State. It has been customary for district conventions to select State committeemen to meet on the first night of the State convention during a recess of the convention itself.

GITS GIFT OF CIGARS FOR FOURTEENTH RESCUE

Cincinnati, March 25.—(AP)—Everything comes to him who waits.

Freedland Fisher, a boat tender, pulled Mrs. Sadie Witcher from the Ohio river Wednesday.

She was the fourteenth person he had so saved in the past 35 years.

Mrs. Witcher's daughter yesterday gave several gross of cigars as a thank offering. It was his first such gift.

KIDNAP SCARE SWEEPS CAPITAL

Notes Received By Mrs. Longworth, British Diplo- mat and Movie Actor.

Washington, March 25.—(AP)—A kidnap scare swept the capital today after police disclosed that extortion notes accompanied by threats had been received by Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, Sir Wilmot Lewis, the London Times correspondent, Ben Lyon of the movies and others.

Police, however, predicted an early arrest. They were working on the theory that one man was responsible for several of the notes all threats which involved promise of kidnaping Sir Wilmot's young son unless $1,500 were paid.

Police Set Guard

A police guard was placed at his home and detectives also are watching Mrs. Longworth's. She too was told to pay $1,500 but Paulina, her 7-year-old daughter was not threatened directly. Twice definite instructions were received by Mrs. Longworth as to how to pay the money. An agent followed the instructions, driving slowly in a taxi by the chosen spot for depositing the amount but that promised signal from the extortionist did not develop and the affair fell through.

The Lewis case bothered police most. They included two letters and a telephone call.

Threats Actor

Ben Lyon recently received a note demanding $500 and threatening the safety of his child. He was at a local hotel with his wife Bebe Daniels, but the child was in California. The letter was signed A. A. Carpenter and requested an answer in care of General Delivery. A trap at the post office failed to catch anyone.

SAVANTS SWITCH NERVES IN RATS

Controls of Fore and Hind Legs Changed and No Dif- ference Is Noticed.

New York, March 25.—(AP)—Zoological proof that living nerves can be switched like telegraph wires was presented to the American Association of Anatomists meeting here today.

If the nerve naturally controlling a muscle is destroyed, another nerve can be substituted by operation, and will function the muscle.

These switches have been made and their success verified at Yale University in the Osborn Zoological Laboratory. Donald H. Barron, who conducted the experiments, reported during the anatomists.

The Yale operations go far toward settling a medical question of immediate human application. Years ago Dr. Harvey Cushing of Harvard cured a man of twisted neck by an operation which switched control of the faulty neck muscles from a diseased nerve to a healthy one.

But since then some others have had difficulty in repeating Dr. Cushing's results, a circumstance that raised doubts whether the nerve switching was the real explanation.

Hoovers Plant Tree in Honor of George Washington

It's tree-planting time at the White House—and the "gardener" in this picture is no less than the First Lady. While the President (extreme right) smiling looks on, Mrs. Hoover spreads soil about a cedar tree transplanted from famous "Ferry Farm," near Fredericksburg, Va., where George Washington spent his boyhood. The tree was presented by the George Washington Tree Guild of Fredericksburg.

"HOLY MAN" OF INDIA WILL VISIT AMERICA

Spiritual Adviser of Mahatma Gandhi Leaves Bombay for New Crusade; Says He Is "God and Man"

Bombay, India, March 25.—(AP)—Meher Baba, the Indian spiritual leader whose disciples call him "The Messiah" and "The God-Man" left here today for a new crusade in America.

He intends, he said, to break down all religious barriers, destroy America's materialism and amalgamate all creeds into a common element of love.

For eight years Meher Baba has been observing a vow of silence, which he said he would break upon his arrival at Harmon, N. Y., where he plans to establish a spiritual retreat similar to Mahatma Gandhi's in India.

Giving his first interview to an Associated Press correspondent by means of a blackboard, Meher Baba, who in the eyes of his followers has performed many miracles, said Gandhi had promised to come with him to the United States as soon as his political works had been finished a year hence.

Many Indians regard Meher Baba as Gandhi's guru, or spiritual adviser.

Is "God and Man"

Meher Baba is a parson (priest) of the Zoroastrian faith, and says he is God and man. He explained that he attained a superconscious state in which he merged into God and return again to the universe to carry out his mission of redeeming the world.

Discussing on his blackboard the miracles he allegedly has performed, Meher Baba wrote:

"A person who becomes one with truth can accomplish anything. It is weakness, however, to perform a miracle only to show others one's spiritual powers. Christ, who made the blind see and the deaf hear, and raised the dead to life did nothing to save himself from suffering the agony of the world."

GRIEVES OVER WIFE; HE KILLS HIMSELF

She Committed Suicide In New York and He Drinks Poison In Florida.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—Dependent over the recent fatal shooting of his wife, Louise, in a New York hotel, Gerald Sturgis Greenleaf, of Santa Barbara, Calif., committed suicide in a fatal lodge temple here today by drinking poison.

His body was found in a chair by a janitor. Beside it were several letters and telegrams addressed to friends and relatives with instructions that they be sent.

Among the papers was a clipping from a New York paper of March 4, saying Greenleaf's wife had been found shot to death in an apartment at the Hotel Greystone on the previous day. The newspaper said Greenleaf disappeared after writing three notes, asserting his wife had killed herself and that he was going to take his life by drowning.

One of the notes found beside Greenleaf's body said "after her death I wandered off to make peace with God for my wasted years and found myself here under a strange name, out of my mind in our honeymoon city." The note disclosed he and his wife came here after their marriage in Phoenix, Arizona.

HOUSE ASKS FOR VOTE ON PROHIBITION LAW

Senate Plans to Hold Hearings on Dry Law

Washington, March 25.—(AP)—deferred to April 14 because some of those desiring to testify wish two weeks notice.

Senator Blaine (R., Wis.), today announced hearings would be opened on April 14 by a Senate judiciary sub-committee on proposals for repeal of the 18th Amendment and modification of the Volstead Act.

There are half a score of measures pending proposing various prohibition changes. Lengthy hearings are in prospect but Blaine gave assurance that the committee would conclude in time to permit a Senate vote.

Chairman Norris of the judiciary committee also gave consent to requests of the anti-prohibitionists for a report on the legislation to the Senate. The report doubtless will be adverse, the prohibitionists claiming full command in the Senate.

Blaine said the hearings will be in Meantime Both Armies Engage in Sniping In Shanghai Vicinity.

PEACE CONFERENCE LAGS IN CHINA

Shanghai, March 25.—(AP)—Sino-Japanese peace negotiations lagged precipitately today, while armies of the two nations engaged in sniping and skirmishing a few miles outside Shanghai.

Each blamed the other for a clash between outposts near Kating, and neither has an official explanation of sniping between troops in the vicinity of Chiawangmiao, incidents which added to the general uneasiness.

The Chinese defied the 12 1/2 mile ultimatum limit set by the Japanese when they occupied Chefoo, a Chinese port, and have shown no disposition to retreat across Soochow Creek as the Japanese have demanded as late as Wednesday.

FREE STATE FEARS RIOTS ON EASTER

All Troops To Be Kept In Barracks—Expect Trouble At Newry.

Dublin, Irish Free State, March 25.—(AP)—Fearing a repetition of the bitter fighting which marked the Easter rebellion of 1916, the authorities have ordered all troops of the Free State army confined to barracks on Easter Day when the Irish Republican Army, more active since the Fianna Fail election victory, will march in commemoration of the rebellion.

For the first time in years there will be only a few Irish Republican units in Northern Ireland but it was believed there would be an attempt to hold a meeting at Newry, regarded as a danger point.

FIND MAN'S BODY; GANGSTERS' VICTIM

Had Been Strangled and Then Shot—Was Killed Elsewhere, Police Believe.

New York, March 25.—(AP)—The body of a man with a bullet wound under his left arm and a piece of heavy twine wrapped tightly twice around the neck was found in the driveway between two Midwood street residences in a fashionable section of Brooklyn today.

A milk wagon driver discovered the body which was identified by police from a badge found in the pocket as that of Charles Anderson, 35, of the Bronx.

The badge was issued by Patrick McGovern, Inc., contractors, whose $43,000,000 contract for the construction of a water tunnel to Brooklyn is under scrutiny by the Hofstadter legislative committee. Officials of the contracting firm said that the man was employed as a "top" man on the Bronx division of the tunnel and his duties were little more than those of a laborer. Samuel Seabury, counsel to the committee, said he never heard of Anderson, and that the man had not been summoned as a witness in the committee's investigation.

An assistant medical examiner said his preliminary examination indicated that death was due to strangulation, rather than to the bullet wound, and the man had been dead about three hours. Police were of the opinion the man had been slain elsewhere and said there were marks in the driveway showing the feet had been dragged about six feet in from the street.

Uproar Grets Announcement—Sergeant At Arms Called To Clear Aisles During Excitement—Pro- ponents of Bill Would Tax 2.75 Beer To Help Bal- ance the Budget.

Washington, March 25.—(AP)—For the second time this session, the House pressed toward a vote on prohibition.

Such an uproar greeted the announcement by the chair that a vote would be taken on an amendment to tax 2.75 per cent beer three cents a pint that the sergeant at arms was called upon the floor to clear the aisles of members.

HELP OF BANKERS NOT VOLUNTEERED

Financier States President Asked Them To Act Quickly In Emergency.

Washington, March 25.—(AP)—A statement that formation of the National Credit Corporation last October by bankers was not "voluntary" but was undertaken on the assurance of President Hoover that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would be formed to take over its work was made before the Senate banking committee today by Percy H. Johnston, president of the Chemical Bank and Trust Company, New York.

SILVER CONFERENCE IS BADLY NEEDED

British Financier Writes That World Nations Must Take Up Subject Soon.

Washington, March 25.—(AP)—Sir Reginald McKenna of the Midland Bank, Ltd., London, told the House coinage committee in a letter today that he thought prompt international cooperation on silver "imperative."

His statement was in answer to a request by Chairman Somers of the committee for an expression on the need for an international conference on silver.

PROVES PLANE A SUCCESS BY BREAKING IT TO BITS

Grasse, France, March 25.—(AP)—A plane inventor, Albert Sauvant, evaded police long enough to crack up purposely in his "crash proof" airplane, and was alive today to pronounce it a success.

Sauvant has long been trying to test his ship, which was modelled on a strange shock-absorbing theory, but every time he tried to ride it into a nose dive, the police interfered to keep him from "committing suicide."

As if to show them it was all right, Sauvant made a model plane, and crashed it with a lamb inside. The lamb survived the ordeal, not even though the police removed the wings and landing gear on the premise that thus stripped an airplane is not an airplane.

But they did not reckon on Sauvant's determination. Yesterday he secretly took what remained of the plane to a cliff at Escragnoles, 18 miles from here, and had himself pushed off to the ground, 150 feet below.

The big fuselage dropped like a plummet and was demolished, but the 28-year-old Sauvant emerged smilingly from the debris, unhurt and to his notion, vindicated in his five years of experimental work.

The principle of Sauvant's plane is a carefully guarded secret so far as it applies to mechanical operation, but Sauvant willingly explained how he got the idea.

It originated in a physics experiment with two eggs, an ostrich egg, and a hen's egg placed (and there's quite a trick to this in itself) inside. The ostrich egg was dropped. The ostrich egg will break, but the inner hen's egg will remain intact. Sauvant's plane has a shock-absorbing device in the fuselage filled with oil.

THE NORFOLK REPORT

Norfolk, Va., March 25—(AP)—Hope for the safe return of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby today centered largely on negotiations reported to be under way between the kidnapers and three residents of Norfolk.

At the time negotiations were opened with the three Norfolk men, Dean Dobson-Peacock said, it was reported to them that the baby was "safe and well." He added he did not know where the baby is.

John Hugh Curtis said today he would neither deny nor confirm a report that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh had signed a note assuring the kidnapers that the interveners acted with authority.

Terling the "leak" of news on the negotiations as unfortunate, Mr. Curtis said he had nothing to add to the statement issued early today by the three to the effect that no statements have been authorized and that discussions at their recent conference with Colonel Lindbergh were strictly confidential.

Glass asserted the penalization of 15 day borrowings from Federal Reserve banks would make a "bonus less desirable, would handicap the U. S. Treasury in its necessary financing and would increase the interest rate on government bonds, and thereby the interest rate on all classes of securities, and depreciate the market value of all existing securities."

OPEN FORUM FEARS HAMPERING OF BIG BUSINESS

W. B. Rogers, in Letter To Herald, Urges Civic Welfare Conference.

Editor of The Herald:
Great as is my hope that we shall soon emerge or at least partly recover from this—the cruelest depression in the history of the world—I cannot help recalling that old adage—"It is an ill wind that blows no good."

For example—had boom times continued we would not have seen the organization of such groups as our local Taxpayers' league nor would the spot-light have been focused upon governmental costs. I said in my few remarks at the Republican caucus Tuesday night that we are indebted to the Taxpayers' league and that alone for the large attendance at that caucus and the new interest being manifested in our public affairs. The Herald, in its editorial column of this afternoon handles the matter admirably. As a matter of fact, your editorial writer has a rare faculty of getting his points across in a readily understandable manner. Ambiguity is never in this column.

I said on Tuesday night that I was heartily in favor of all governmental adjustments intelligently effected. The job is much too big for any board of selectmen. Likewise, it is much too big for any group of citizens. I suggest that the board of selectmen at once invite all boards of commissioners, boards of education, the executive committee of the Taxpayers' League, and any others interested in economic but constructive government to a joint conference at which the Manchester budget problems could be discussed. Each official, or officers of the Taxpayers' league, should be urged to attend such a meeting with a definitely worked out plan for his or other departments.

I am in receipt tonight of a letter, written in a most friendly vein, from a leader in the Taxpayers' league. As I have not his permission to use his name I naturally will not do so. But, among other opinions, this gentleman writes: "I think that the League is doing good work in striving to force the Manchester Electric Light people to cut down their rates."

May I most sincerely and with no idea of questioning the honest intentions of the Taxpayers' league take the opposite viewpoint. I do so for this reason. Great as are the burdens of taxes, electric light, water, gas and other public utility assessments upon all of us I personally would take no step in these times which might further alarm big business. Above all, I want to make myself clear here. It has been my observation for more than twenty years that every time the national, state or other governmental bodies threaten big business with restricting or undue legislation it is the rank and file of the people who suffer. I mean by that statement that in addition to the inevitable effects of the depression upon big business we constantly wave a red flag in front of these corporations in the form of price-fixing or other governmental changes we automatically drive these corporations into a further state of curtailment. Those expansions which provide work and put vast sums of money into circulation are held in abeyance. Holders of the stock in these thousands of corporations (I own no stock in any of them) lose their dividends and they stop spending. These conditions make what might be only a normal depression a devastating crisis.

Upon the front page of tonight's Hartford Times, we read where James Lee Loomis, president of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company, speaking in New York Wednesday last, advocated new means of sustaining railway credits. One might ask why Mr. Loomis, an insurance executive, interests himself in railroad problems. Answer, Mr. Loomis is a keen business man who well knows that the public utilities, and here I place the railroads first, are under our economic set-up, the backbone of business. An undermined or weak financial policy for our railroads always plays havoc with all business.

There is no man in Manchester who stands to profit as much through lower electric light rates as I do. As an officer, director and stockholder in the Hotel Bond Corporation of Hartford, I have occasion to check electric light bills which run into the thousands of dollars. Of course, I would like lower rates. But, I am honestly convinced that I would be following a "penny-wise, pound foolish" policy if I sought adjustments of our electric light bills, or in fact any other bills for either service or merchandise, at the terrible price of further hampering big business.

It is the unfortunate men and women out of a job any talk of defending big business subjects one to all kinds of charges. But, after all friends history shows us that during the twenty-three serious world depressions through which the civilized nations have passed jobs were not available until big business breathed new optimism and again started the wheels of industry and the policies of expansion.

I was pleased beyond expression to read today that Ward Cheney, president of the local silk firm, and other silk executives of the country, profess to see a brighter horizon.

Out of this depression will come many lessons. True, they are costly ones to all but more so to our respectable men and women who through no fault of their own find themselves without a job.

It is not my intention to get into a long controversy with anyone over either the electric light rate case or other movements which are

WOMAN IS RUN DOWN AT CENTER CROSSING

Mrs. Margaret Naven Struck By Automobile and Badly Bruised—Taken Home.

Mrs. Margaret Naven, wife of William V. Naven, of 131 Center street, is confined to her bed today recovering from injuries suffered when knocked down by an automobile while crossing the road at the Center last night. Her condition is not serious.

The automobile which struck Mrs. Naven was operated by Clifford E. La Valley of 67 Autumn street and owned by his father, Charles N. La Valley of the same address. The driver was alone in the machine at the time. He claims he did not see the woman until it was too late to avoid striking her.

The right front fender knocked Mrs. Naven down and the rear right wheel ran over her. However, no bones are believed to have been broken although Mrs. Naven is very badly bruised about the body. She is unable to step on her right leg. Both knees were badly bruised. Mrs. Naven was crossing the street prior to joining Mrs. Susan Morrison of Lilley street who was an eye-witness of the accident.

Mrs. Naven declined to go to the Memorial hospital and was taken to her home by Carl O. Pfau, of 50 Jensen street. Policeman Walter Cassella made the police investigation but no arrest was made.

JAKEY CONVICTION

Wichita, Kas., March 25.—(AP)—A conviction under the Federal prohibition law has marked the government's initial effort in Kansas to prosecute wholesalers for distribution for beverage purposes of sub-standard extract of Jamaica ginger, which physicians blamed for many cases of paralysis of the limbs two years ago.

Abraham Michaels of New York, head of the Interstate Drug Company, was found guilty on two counts by a Federal Jury yesterday.

Several retailers of the sub-standard product are serving sentences. Scores of persons throughout the southwest were stricken by the paralysis. Some said they drank the extract as a beverage; others that they used it as a medicine.

Judge Richard J. Hopkins said he would pronounce sentence today. Attorneys for the defendant filed a motion for a new trial.

NEW Y STRESSES WOMEN'S SPORTS Much Attention Given To Activities For Fairer Sex; Full Schedule Planned.

It is not so many years ago that girls and young women first entered athletic contests. The New England girls were always housekeepers, first and last, and the thought of entering athletic contests were frowned upon by mothers who thought that no girl was qualified for the management of their own home unless they knew how to cook, sew, tend the children, perform duties in the dairy and many other such duties on the farm or in village homes.

Enter Many Sports
During the past generation civilization has advanced and girls and young women have changed with it. Nowadays golf, tennis, basketball, and even track are part of the seasonal athletic program of girls and women.

Manchester has her share of athletic young women. The Recreation classes have sponsored many worthwhile athletic projects including swimming, basketball, gymnastic tournaments for the betterment of the town girls.

With the addition of the Morton Y a new avenue of sporting events shapes up for Manchester. Miss Mason director of the girl's activities has outlined the many interesting events in store for the coming season. They are as follows:

High School Age
Friday evening from 8 to 10 a group of girls of High School age meets. This club carries on an active athletic program, having all phases of sports and gymnastics including stunts and tumbling, mass games, folk and clog dancing, badminton, bowling and tennis. It is planned to carry on these activities out of doors as soon as weather permits. Girls of High School age who are interested in this girls' club may secure information from Miss Mason or Mrs. Crockett at the Y. M. C. A.

Thursday evening at 9 p. m. a gym class for business girls and women is held. Badminton, tennis and volley ball and serve-us ball are a few of the activities participated in to date.

Thursday afternoon is given over to dancing school for the grades, three to six for boys and girls. This class is proving quite popular. The class has an average of 100 in the boys and girls classes.

A small but enthusiastic group of women are bowling every Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Badminton has been played at the Y for the past four weeks.

Women's Activities
A group of women have been meeting each Tuesday afternoon since February. Mrs. Arra Sutton Mixer has just completed a series of demonstrations in cookery. Miss Helen Strong, interior decorator with Watkins Brothers spoke on interior decorating, illustrating her talk with samples of fabrics and other materials.

The first of a series of membership teas was held a week ago. Miss Mary Elizabeth Streeter who has been with the YMCA in China for ten years spoke on the China situation. An interesting display of hand made jewelry done by Miss Ruth Cloyes was on exhibit as a suggestion of the type of craft work which could be undertaken if a sufficient number of women are interested.

Contract Bridge
A group of women are meeting each Thursday afternoon for instruction in contract. Afternoon bridge teas and whist parties, luncheons and dinners will be a part of the Y program for women. Easter breakfast, a tradition of the old Community Club, will be served this year from 8:30 to 10 on Easter Sunday morning. Everyone is welcome, but reservations should be made if possible by Saturday noon.

Dramatics
A dramatic club, the Community Players, has been organized under the leadership of Mrs. Joseph Handley. Meetings are held twice monthly, one meeting with a speaker, the other an arranged program. A play, "The Three Live Ghosts" presented last week at the Hollister street school is the first of three plays which this group of players will present this spring. The second play, "The Whole Town's Talking" is now in rehearsal and is scheduled for production April 20.

BAD POLICEMAN

Evansville, Ill., March 25.—(AP)—Policeman Howard Gorgeson weighs more than 200 pounds. Last night he ventured onto the thin ice of Lake Michigan to tell four youths they might be drowned if they persisted in scampering around on the frozen water.

Crack went the ice. Policeman Gorgeson went down to his waist. There he stuck. He couldn't go down farther because the lake wasn't so deep at the spot, but he couldn't get up either.

The question was: Should this policeman be rescued? The boys answered by pulling him out. And what did Policeman Gorgeson do? He took the lads to the juvenile officer who talked to them about thin ice and its dangers.

CHILDREN TO SING "THE EASTER KING"

Chorus of Swedish Lutheran Youngsters Under Helge Pearson To Present Program.

A cantata, "The Easter King" will be presented by the Children's chorus of the Swedish Lutheran church Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Organist Helge Pearson who has been directing the chorus, has been working up considerable solo work in the different numbers. The children have taken much interest in the rehearsals and a program of unusual variety and appeal is anticipated. There will be special Easter recitations, and the primary department of the church school will also have a part in the exercises.

The speaker will be Rev. Roy L. Winters. As customary, each child will be presented with a hyacinth at the close of the service. These hyacinths are always massed at the platform during the Easter day services, and thus serve a double purpose.

RUMANIA TO PAY
—Washington, March 25.—(AP)—The Rumanian Legation issued a statement today saying Rumania will meet all her current obligations when due. The legation said it was authorized to "deny emphatically the rumor, current in some financial quarters, that Rumania intends to suspend payments on her obligations abroad."

"The funds necessary to meet interest and amortization charges for the first half of the year," the statement added, "have already been deposited in the National bank."

ARMED WITH GUN DEFIES CREDITORS

Old Showman Chases Lawyers From House and Threatens Their Lives.

Marland, Okla., March 25.—(AP)—Armed with a shotgun, Col. Zack Miller barricaded himself in his "White House" home at the 101 Ranch today and virtually defied officers to come and get him, after firing a shot which caused two lawyers to flee.

Zelma, "The Elephant Girl" of the now defunct 101 Ranch Wild West Show, was in the ranch house with the pioneer showman and plainman.

A cordon of deputy sheriffs was placed about the house, but no effort was made to invade it. The shooting occurred as preparations were under way for placing on the auction block today the personal properties on the ranch to satisfy the claims of creditors.

Neal Sullivan and R. O. Wilson, attorneys for the receivers, visited the imposing "White House" to discuss details of the auction with Miller, who has been ill and troubled with litigation over the forced sale of the ranch and the wild west show, and family difficulties which resulted in a divorce.

Gets His Gun
When the lawyers entered there was an argument that grew warmer and warmer. Interrupting the conversation, Miller arose from his bed and left the room. Sullivan said he was standing with his back to the door through which the ranchman left. Wilson sat facing the door.

Sullivan heard Wilson exclaim: "My God, Zack, don't get that out." At the same instant he heard the breach of a shotgun close. Without even turning to look, Sullivan bolted from the house as an explosion resounded at his back. Wilson said Miller shot into the floor. None of the shot struck the attorney.

A few minutes later Harold Mead, Kay county sheriff, said he approached the house and was greeted by Colonel Miller peering over a window. Mead said he was ordered to leave at once.

Bruce Potter, Kay county attorney, called the home on the telephone. He said Miller refused to talk to him, but indicated he might communicate later with W. E. Rice, Ponca City attorney.

Sullivan demanded that Potter file a charge of assault with intent to kill against the ranchman.

SILENCE MEANT CANDY
TO THIS WISE BABE
Won't Tell Copper Anything But Knows What Candy Is and the Way Home.

The smartest people aren't necessarily those who do the most talking and the children are included in the same category. Take for example a boy of some six or seven years who walked eastward Main street yesterday in a manner that indicated he might have gone astray from his mother.

Patrolman Raymond Griffin, noticing the boy, stopped him and asked all kinds of questions as to his name, where he lived, how old he was and so on. But to all questions the boy did not utter a word. Perhaps it was tight, perhaps it was just plain stubbornness. When the policeman asked the boy if he liked candy, he really nodded his head indicating that he did.

But once the lad retained the candy, he became as reticent as ever and the policeman was finally forced to give up the questioning. The boy started toddling along up Main street and Griffin followed. He wanted to be sure the boy got home all right. And sure enough he did. At Fearl he turned eastward and walked to Foster where he entered his home as if it were no uncommon experience for him to wander down street and return at his own convenience.

GUARD JUDGE'S HOME
Boston, March 25.—(AP)—The home of Judge Albert F. Hayden, municipal court justice, was guarded through the night after a demonstration or alleged Communist near his home had been broken up by police.

BLAST IN NEW BRITAIN
New Britain, March 25.—(AP)—An explosion of gasoline in a cleaning tub wrecked the plant of the Star Cleaning and Dyeing Company at 234 North street this afternoon. No one was hurt. Store windows 150 feet distant were shattered. The plant is near a large tenement block in which 16 families live. Fire followed the explosion. Damage was estimated at $5,000.

BIG FLANT CLOSURE
Bristol, March 25.—(AP)—The New Departure Mfg. Co., this noon informed its employees that with the close of the schedule of the night crew tonight the plant will be shut-down until Monday April 4. The reason given was a proposed readjustment of production schedules.

Lifting the Curtain On The Crime Trust

Murder Wave Launched Secret Six—City Awakens to Menace of Gangs.

When Colonel Robert Isham Randolph, at that time president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, learned about the murder of a young architect on a Chicago university project, he formed the Secret Six to fight crime. Colonel Randolph is shown at top left of picture above.

By ALEXANDER JAMIE
Director of the "Secret Six" of the Chicago Association of Commerce. Written Especially for NEA Service and The Herald.

America's big cities must curb racketeering. If we don't stop this weedy growth that is now flourishing around the roots of our commercial system, business in general will some day be in the hands of organized hoodlums just as certain lines of business are already in their hands at the present time.

Racketeering - by which honest merchants are intimidated into paying bounty to criminal organizations by threats of bombing and the like—is growing. True, some of the little rackets are fading out of the picture as the result of the depression, but the real honest-to-goodness "big shot" rackets are still thriving.

There are many ways by which criminals force honest merchants to "join" their "associations" and pay the protection money that goes with this. Bombing of a business establishment is only one way. Fires are started, acid and dyes are thrown on valuable stocks, machinery is damaged, strikes are engineered and sabotage practiced in many other ways.

Autos Ruined
In Chicago, truck owners who did not pay tribute to the gang have found their radiators gashed with an ax. Others have had their motors ruined by someone secretly putting shellac, instead of oil, in the engine.

There are, also, active rackets in the labor unions. I believe that certain of the labor unions that are now suffering most from this evil will eventually be destroyed if the honest members of these unions do not take steps to protect themselves, and their organizations, by kicking out the crooks now in control.

My opinion is that the average union labor man does not want that kind of leadership, and yet in many cases these racketeer leaders have fastened themselves in positions of power where they cling like leeches. Such men are the gravest menace to the success and growth of union labor in America.

Of course, all unions have not suffered from this racket. Most of them have been able to keep their organizations clean of hoodlum domination. These labor unions should protect what they now have; others should clean house.

Chicago has had many rackets, but the newest is in the interstate trucking business. It was demanded that truck shipments be delivered to a terminal in Chicago, and not delivered direct to the consignees. The success of such a move would cost shippers and merchants millions of dollars yearly—and needlessly.

Secret Six Formed
The Secret Six was formed by the Chicago Association of Commerce to aid the authorities in combating organized crime of all kinds, and many racketeering cases have been investigated by our organization. Such matters are handled by trained men in one of our several departments and their work has been of great benefit in combating this form of extortion.

Going back a little into the history of the Secret Six, I should explain that the idea for the organization really had its birth in the machine gun massacre of seven anti-Capone gangsters on St. Valentine's Day, 1929. That crime shocked the city and emphasized to business leaders that something must be done for the improvement of law and order in Chicago.

Law Abiding Chicago citizens had become accustomed to seeing organized criminals thrive and and Chicago's gangs that is still going on today. The Secret Six, more properly known as the Committee on the Prevention and Punishment of Crime, was formed by the Chicago Association of Commerce, with Colonel Randolph as its chairman. Though Colonel Randolph's term as president of the organization has since expired, he is still chairman of the Secret Six and its only known committee member. I have been the director, or head, of the committee's investigating forces, from the start.

The name Secret Six is really a misnomer. When the committee of business men was formed to combat crime, Colonel Randolph was asked how many members the committee would contain. Careful, then as now, not to reveal secrets of the organization, Colonel Randolph replied: "That is hard to say; maybe 150 members, maybe only six members."

Our organization assists the only constituted law enforcement agencies—such as the police department, the sheriff's office, the state's attorney's office, the various federal law enforcement bureaus—and helps in work to bring about the detection and punishment of organized criminals.

The Secret Six is supported by voluntary subscriptions of Chicago business men. Through our investigators we have been very successful in getting evidence in a large number of cases that have led to the clearing up of crimes and convictions in the courts. We employ a staff of trained investigators, many of whom we formerly identified with federal and state law enforcing agencies.

NEXT: The steady rise of racketeering by organized criminal gangs and how it menaces business. Labor racketeering and its menace to honest union men.

TODAY IS THE WORLD WAR ANNIVERSARY
GERMANS TAKE BAPAUME

On March 25, 1918, hard-pressed British troops were forced to evacuate Bapaume, Neale and Guisard as dozens of fresh German divisions were thrown into the lines in an effort to smash communications between the British and French armies.

German officials claimed the capture of more than 3,000 prisoners and much equipment at Bapaume. German news agencies announced that the Fifth British Army was completely demoralized and was being taken from the front.

Three French divisions were thrown into a gap between the French and British lines and held on to their positions despite massed assaults of German shock troops. Losses in the great battle being waged in Picardy were running into many thousands daily.

General Pershing announced that two regiments of American troops had taken position on the Picardy battle front. They were the first American troops to engage in a major conflict in the World War.

England reports a great proportion of the crimes committed in that country are by youths between 17 and 25.

PRESS ENDORSES BRITAIN'S STAND

Free State Must Take Oath of Allegiance and Pay Up Farm Loans.

London, March 25.—(AP)—The English press today endorsed the government's attitude toward Eamon de Valera's intention to dispense with land annuities and the oath to the King as part of the Irish Free State's policy.

Yesterday, J. H. Thomas, secretary for the Dominions, told the House of Commons that the British government regarded the oath and annuities as a part of the Anglo-Irish treaty of 1922 and is determined that instrument shall not be violated.

De Valera admits the oath is in the treaty, but insists it is not mandatory except as to matters of taking it, and he holds the annuities due on loans to Irish farmers, are a matter for the Irish people to take care of as they see fit.

The press was disposed today to treat the issue as of great importance but as a matter for calm consideration, some newspapers pleaded editorially for courteous and unimpassioned treatment of De Valera's claims.

Hope For Settlement
There was apparently implied confidence that the difficulty eventually will be settled amicably.

Moreover, doubt was expressed that De Valera had the power to carry his plan through the legislature of the Irish Free State, which recently elected him President, succeeding William Cosgrave.

Among other things the press pointed out that the laboratories, upon whom De Valera, depended for his balance of power, had stated through their leader, Wilson Norton, that they would not tolerate abrogation of the Anglo-Irish treaty, although they were prepared to stand for negotiation of the land annuities.

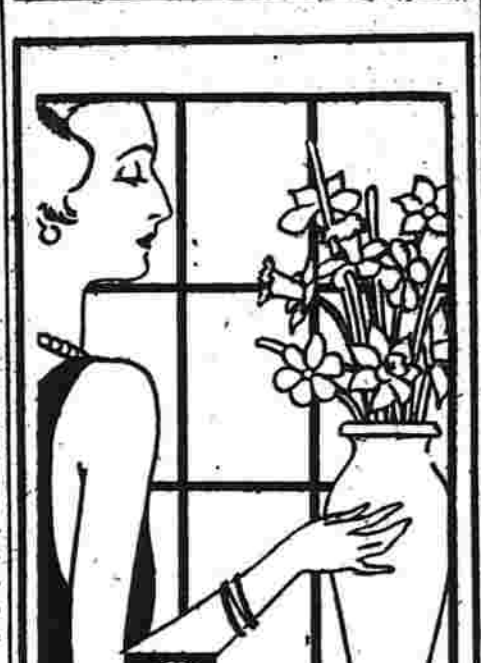

British Notes
It was learned on high authority today that the British note to Dublin in connection with this issue cites articles of the treaty of 1921 to support the British contention that the oath is an integral part of that treaty and that the Free State has the same constitutional position.

As for the land annuities, the note as that of Canada, emphasizes the contention that the Free State is bound to continue their payment in full. This stand is supported by the financial statement of 1922 which the British note maintains, constitutes a solemn undertaking to that effect. The note also points out that the Free State attorney general and the judicial committee to which he referred the point some years ago ruled that the Free State is bound in law and equity to continue full payment.

Always rub with the grain when polishing furniture. The furniture will then polish more quickly.

For your Easter dinner Garzone's have suggested a juicy and tender Sperry and Barnes ham—lovely fresh asparagus, fresh pineapple or Honey Dew melon, and their make it especially delicious—luscious fresh strawberries.

Cold cooked peas, carrots, beets, string beans or almost any cold vegetables, combined with French dressing, make a delicious salad.

For Easter, Marlow's have a wide selection of sturdy plants at 15c and 25c each. There are various kinds of Begonias, Mountain Pink, Flowering Maple and Primrose, to mention only a few. They also have potted tulips at 50c.

To improve the texture of fudge, to make it smoother, add one teaspoonful of baking powder to every two cups of sugar used, when beating the mixture.

CONNECTICUT LEADS IN LEGION CONTEST

Has Passed 75 Per Cent of Its Quota on the Oregon Trail To Portland.

The American Legion department of Connecticut is forging ahead in the national membership race along the Oregon Trail, having passed the 75 per cent of its 1932 quota which is the starting point (Independence, Mo.), and progressing toward Portland, Ore., or 100 per cent. Each advance in percentage of quota attained sends the covered wagon and ox team of this state that much further along the trail. Its percentage at the March 15 tabulation at National Headquarters is 78.48.

It truly is a race for gold, as in the days of old, because there are three sets of cash prizes to be awarded to the winners. The department having a 1931 membership of 35,000 to 38,000 have a chance for a first prize of $75. To win it must be the first of its class to reach Portland, or 100 per cent of its 1932 membership quota. The second department to arrive will be awarded $50.

Similar cash prizes will be awarded to departments having a 1931 membership of from 10,000 to 35,000; and similar cash prizes to the class of department, having 1931 membership under 10,000.

The American Legion Auxiliary also is taking part in the race, and with the national organization of the Legion has a stake of $100, the Legion agreeing it must arrive at least a month ahead of the Auxiliary with at least 10 per cent in excess of percentage of quota as compared with the Auxiliary percentage.

HEBRON

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fannauf of Springfield, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Bosley of South Manchester were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Kibbe.

The Rev. Robert A. Day of Christ Church Cathedral, Hartford, will officiate at St. Peter's Episcopal church on Easter Sunday, and will celebrate the Holy Communion. Service will be at 11 a. m. Mr. Day visited the church many times last year at the communion services, before his return to England. The church people here are pleased at his return to America, and feel privileged to be allowed his services at Easter time in the church.

Miss Muriel Copeland of Chaplin, who was employed at the Edwin T. Smith place last year, spent several days as the guest of Mrs. Edward A. Smith recently, returning to her home on Monday.

A Tri-County Union Christian Endeavor meeting was held at the Hebron Center Congregational church Thursday evening. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed. There were addresses by pastors of several visiting churches.

Mrs. H. D. Barrows and Mrs. Belle Seaman of New London were visitors on Sunday at the home of Mrs. Barrow's sister, Mrs. Edwin T. Smith and family.

Allan L. Carr and several members of his parish were present at a service at St. Paul's church, Willimantic, Wednesday morning, at which there was a celebration of the Holy Communion, the Rev. E. B. Styring, rector, officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie F. Ward attended the funeral of Mr. Ward's uncle, A. Louis Sweet, in Norwich on Tuesday of this week. Mrs. William B. Ward, Mr. Ward's mother, of Norwich, returned with her son and daughter-in-law for a visit here with them.

Mrs. Charles Schmidt of Amston, is spending a two weeks' vacation in New York at the home of her father, John Distler.

A farm bureau meeting was held at the local town hall Tuesday evening, with a representative from Storrs who conducted the meeting. Reports were given on the outlook conference held in Hartford some little time ago when groups representing the various lines of farming held sessions. Discussions took place on the best ways of keeping farm activities going through the depression.

The Rev. and Mrs. Howard C. Champe of Lebanon made a short call at the home of the latter's parents on Tuesday, going on to Hartford to attend a religious meeting.

The youngest daughter Ruth spent the day here with her grandparents. Palm branches were distributed at the close of the morning service at St. Peter's Episcopal church on Palm Sunday. The reader, Allan L. Carr, spoke on the descent of the Holy Spirit. "The Palms" was played as an organ solo for the offertory. Miss Marjorie Martin had been expected to be present and sing an offertory solo, but was unable to come. She will be present at the Easter service and will assist in the music.

Gilled Republicans were apparently more interested in Hebron politics than were members of the party living at the center, when the Republican caucus was held at the town hall, Tuesday afternoon. At any rate, none of the voters from the center were present, and many said afterwards that they did not know anything about the caucus having been called. It was advertised as usual on the town billboard in the center. Justice J. Banks Jones acted as chairman, and Mrs. Robert E. Foote as clerk at the meeting, which opened at 3 p. m. The caucus was held to elect delegates to the Republican state convention to be held at Hartford, April 6-7, and for the appointment of a Republican town committee. Delegates to the convention elected were: Judge Leon G. Rathbone, Mr. and Mrs. C. Daniel Vay, and Clarkson F. Bailey. Members of the town committee named were: Robert E. Foote, Leslie F. Ward, F. Elton Post, and Mrs. Edward A. Smith.

Two dogs owned by Mrs. Ames Sisson strayed from home several days ago, one of them returning, but the other, a Shepherd dog, never turned up. One day this week the dog was found near the railroad track in the vicinity of Daniels' Bridge, where it had apparently been killed by the locomotive.

Schools of the town closed Thursday afternoon for a short Easter recess, to open again Monday morning. Most of the out of town teachers returned to their homes for Good Friday and the rest of the week end.

CANNOT DEDICATE MONUMENT JULY 4

Firm That Has Contract Must Have 3 Months' Advance Notice On Project.

The memorial planned in honor of George Washington to be located at the greensward at Manchester Green will not be ready for dedication on July 4 as had been hoped, it was stated today.

Under the contract the Rockville firm which has the contract must be notified at least three months before the work can be completed. The next meeting of the committee in charge is not until Sunday, April 10.

The exact amount of money which has already been raised is not known at present but the committee's workers—some 60 or more—will report in full at the next meeting. Close to $4,000 is needed for the work. This is expected to be raised.

FRIDAY, MARCH 25.
JUNKED OPPORTUNITY
 Put to the test of fitness for control of the destinies of the nation in a time of grave crisis the Democratic majority in the House of Representatives yesterday registered a failure so decisive and so far reaching in its effect that it is generally conceded to have booted away its party's chance of winning the Presidential election next fall. No such lamentable exhibition of organized futility has been given by a Congressional majority in a lifetime as that furnished by the House's refusal to pass the sales tax measure. At one stroke the whole political situation in the country has been revolutionized and the Democratic party, falling back into its historical position of leaderless and unleadable heterogeneity, has sacrificed every particle of the strategic advantage it had possessed ever since the stock market crisis in 1929.

Yet there is small comfort to even the most ardent Republican in a situation where his party gains in strength at the cost of national well-being. The consequence of the defeat of the sales tax, accompanied as it is by a complete absence of any adequate substitute program, can hardly fail to be the holding up of normal progress back to a rational degree of prosperity. The country is faced again by an unbalanced budget, with the inevitable sequence of further depressed government securities and a further deflation of values.

This is a real calamity, and the responsibility for it lies directly on the shoulders of the Democratic majority in the House which booted its own party program and with cheers pulled down and destroyed the framework of security that itself had helped to erect during this session of Congress.

Yesterday there were at least half a dozen earnest aspirants for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency. Today, it is to be suspected, all the rest of them will be quite willing to let Governor Roosevelt have that distinction; for the chances of Democratic success at the polls in November were slashed by at least a half through yesterday's proceeding.

OPERA

Something is about to happen to opera in New York. The Metropolitan Opera Company, practical monopolist of major opera in the metropolis for a very long time, is, to all intents and purposes, broke. Official announcement is made that its capital of more than half a million, together with most of the reserve, has been exhausted and that there are not sufficient funds to finance another season. Also there is no indication that the present generation of the fashionable families who have subsidized the Metropolitan in the past are inclined to keep on pouring money into the very leaky checkbook of the institution. Intimate goes forth that what is likely to happen to opera is its removal from "Thirty-ninth street to a new home in the Rockefeller Center and its absorption by the radio interests.

So that opera in New York is likely to pass directly from its original stage of a vehicle for the glorification of a local aristocracy to that of a flat commercial business, without any interlude of existence as a purely artistic entity. Probably there is no way in which opera, in a country like ours, could become, let alone remain, an institution wholly devoted to the artistic. It would, like enough, require a great public subsidy to put it in a position for such development—and what would become of such a subsidy, in New York, even the worst guesser can guess. Supported by fashion, opera has been a tall to Fashion's kite. Over in the Rockefeller Center it is pretty sure to become the led slave of Pills and Propaganda.

Whether opera could ever be raised to the status of the noblest and most beautiful musical expression we are not likely to find out in this generation. Fashion merely swallowed it in its medieval form, book, line and snicker, idiosyncrasy and all. Big business will almost certainly distort it into something terrible. The possibilities of a rationalized opera will continue to be something to theorize on and guess about.

STRIKES, HORSE RACES
 The expedition of college students into Harlan County, Kentucky, for the professed purpose of making a "survey" of the situation in the coal fields which has been reeking with labor troubles for months, would just possibly be better worth the risks involved if the "surveyors" were better equipped by experience for their job.

A keen and living interest in sociological problems is certainly appropriate in a group of young men and young women of the student age who are genuinely anxious to learn the answer to the problem of life; and to young men and women who have developed such an interest it is natural to want to see, at first hand, the play of cause, effect and emotions in a battle field like Harlan County. Still and all, the most that such adventurers ought to expect to accomplish by a visit to the war, is to gather for themselves some small shreds of knowledge of what the trouble is about and what kind of people are talking opposite sides in it. That would be very useful information and might help very materially in the rounding of their education and broadening their outlook on existence.

But for these quite immature young people to approach their investigations in the character of sociological or economic experts, and with the assumption that they are qualified to caliper and weigh and measure the issues in the mine war and pass judgment thereon, is to take upon their shoulders a responsibility for which it is extremely unlikely that they are in the least degree fitted.

One has to attend a great many horse races and learn a lot about the tricks of the game before he can qualify as a judge. The conflict between labor and capital, it seems to us, is rather more important and complicated a matter than a horserace. Yet we don't remember any group of college students descending on a race track and preempting the judges' stand.

FLIM-FLAM

The longer you live, said Karl Pretzel's Magazine Book, the more you find polly ood. We are glad that we have lived long enough to find out what a flim-flammer is—in New Haven. With something of the same elation with which we expect to get our first glimpse of a unicorn or a living pterodactyl, we beheld the flim-flammer as he is exposed by the erudite Journal-Courier. He is "an embryonic gangster who does not get the whole way, or who stands knocking at the door of gangland, begging for admittance." It appears that "flim-flammering is getting something for nothing in a sort of underhanded manner."

"Such schemes as the astute manipulation of money in order to pass off counterfeit bills, begging trolley tokens and resending various heart-rending pleas for charity constituting," we learn to our astonishment, "the methods used by those unprincipled people in New Haven." This is very revealing. We had always imagined that flim-flam was about as specific a police term as the cops' lexicon contained. That nobody would ever be referred to or thought of as a flim-flammer whose racket was other than the expert muddling of a clerk or a cashier, in the process of paying with a big bill, so as to get away with both the big bill and the change or at least with more money than the flim-flammer started operations with.

There are infinite varieties of petty swindling but only this one, in police terminology, is flim-flammering—outside that is, of New Haven. It will be different henceforth, no doubt, now that the cops get the new low-down on the word from a town with a campus.

influence, by robbing transportation accidents of their ghastly degree of fatality.

So far, the young Frenchman may have been befriended by sheer luck; but at all events he has had himself dumped off a high cliff in an airplane body that was teetotally smashed 'up but from which he emerged entirely unhurt. And his experiment worked exactly as it should have worked according to his theory. That is a fact which, so far as it goes, must command respect.

At all events, Sauvaut appears to be tackling his job from the right angle. There apparently is not the slightest chance of greatly interesting the world in the avoidance of air and automobile accidents. The next best idea, if it is at all practicable, is the prevention of deaths and injuries in accidents when they occur.

While Sauvaut has been working with air crashes in mind, there would seem to be no good reason why his shock absorbing device, if it be any good in the case of a falling plane, would not be just as good in the case of an automobile hitting a pole at sixty and crumpling up in collision.

CONSOLING

It being now officially spring and the robins and crocuses being either on the job or enjoying promises, it's a fine time to think up things to be seasonally hopeful about or optimistic over. The good old silver lining, you know.

One thing that has just occurred to us is that every time you get ten per cented the size of the cut in the pay envelope is a little smaller than it was the time before. Hoo-ray!

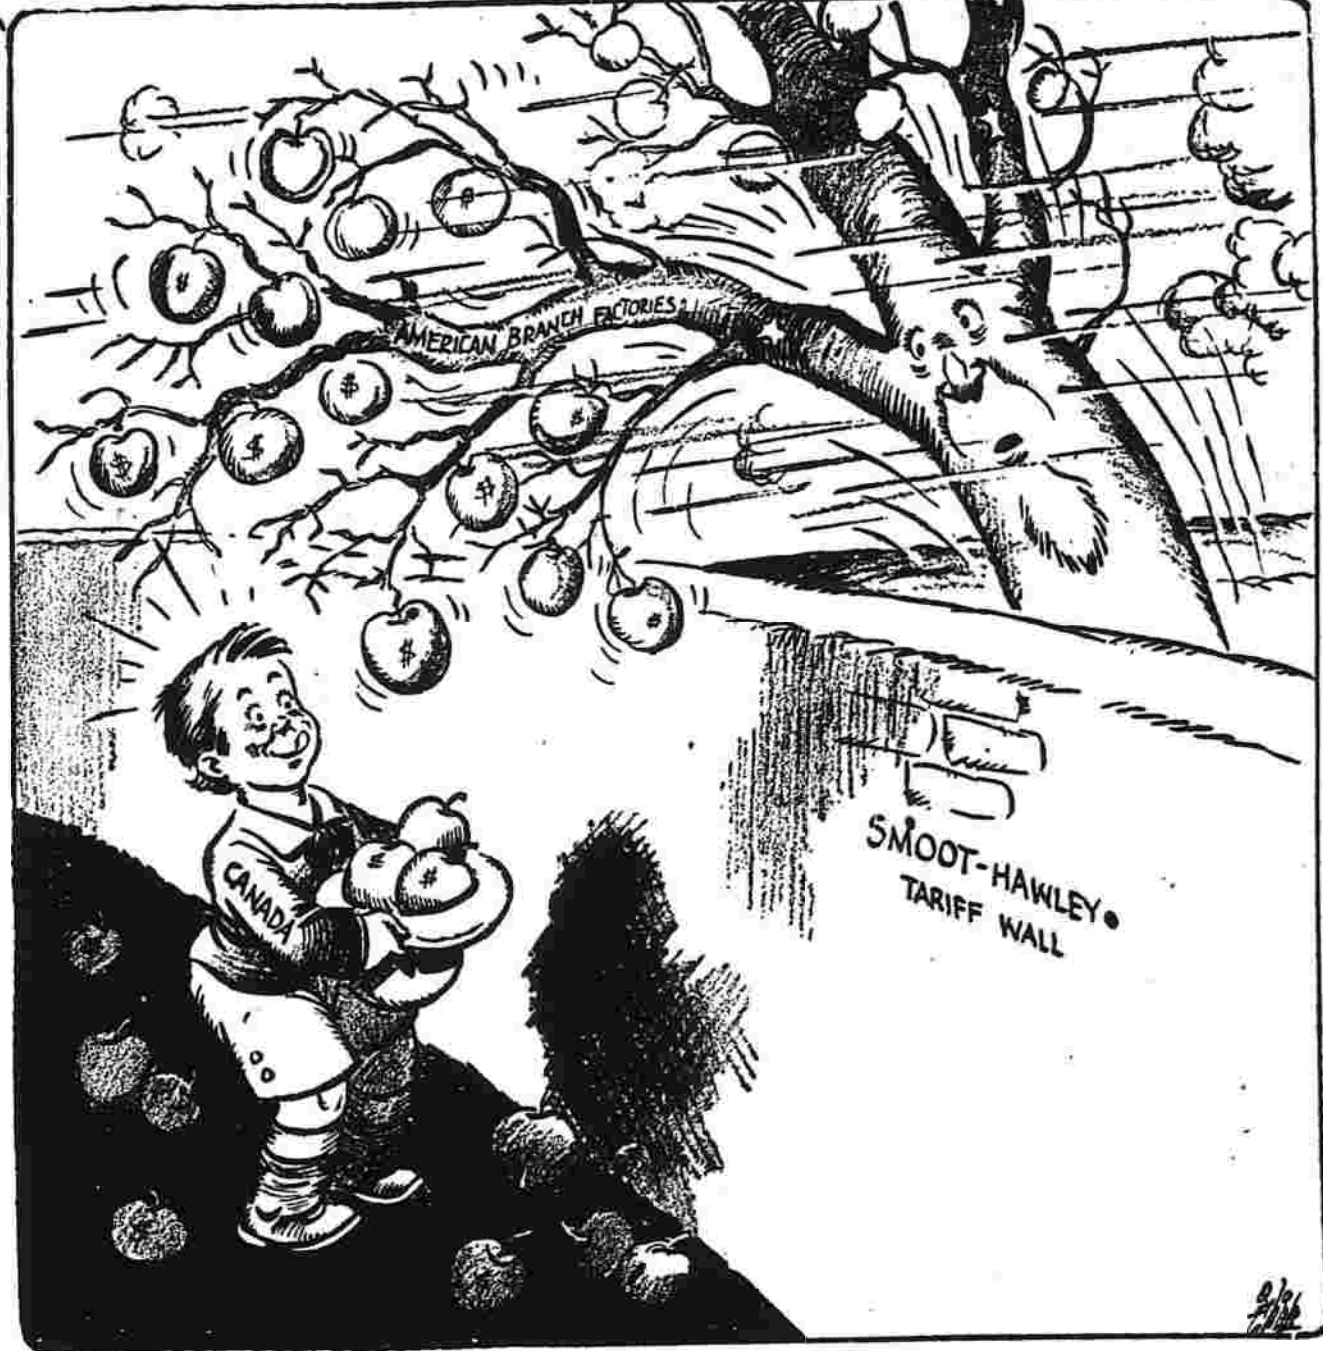

IN NEW YORK

Curley Reminiscences
 New York, March 25.—Of the many persons who add to the minor insanities of this era, one of the more successful and persistent is Jack Curley, who not only matches arenas but also engineers marathon dances, flag-pole sittings and other freak endurance tests.

As might be imagined, many are the amusing and odd incidents and personalities encountered. "But there's one team in particular," recites Curley, "that staged a funny one—a married couple by the name of Beckland. It was over at a Brooklyn marathon dance. Being a husband and wife, they went through the usual spats about a lot of things, and couldn't agree on a lot of others. And that's what made it funny. For they started dancing together in the contest and after half a dozen days, Clarence, the husband, wanted to quit. But the missus wouldn't and agreed that maybe they had better stop. By this time the hubby was stubborn and wouldn't. As the result they danced for 24 days."

One of Curley's saddest experiences was staged in Hagerstown, Md. There he relates, he heard about a young flagpole sitter known as "Spanish" Smith. This lad appeared to have staying qualities that gave him the advance appearances of a champ. "So he gets up on his pole, and he starts training," goes on the narrator. "And it looks like nothing can bring him down. He's headed straight for the world's record. He's there 47 days when along comes a hail storm anyone around there had ever heard of. And there's one huge hailstone . . . it hits him square on the back and knocks him off his perch. And there went my champ."

CLIMATE AND HEALTH
 Someday you may live in a home where you can have any kind of climate you want. Press a switch and your rooms will be cooled or warmed by electricity hidden in the walls while artificial sunlight may be flooded on all day or all night, just as you choose.

Our architects are now working on such plans for the ordinary home. Such things are not as far fetched as they sound—many theaters at this time are able to control the climate within their walls. In theaters the main problem is one of cooling, for it is estimated that an audience of 2,500 in one hour generates enough heat from body warmth to melt ten tons of ice.

However, until we can control our climates in our own homes, we will have to get along with the climate of the places where we live as best we can. Many people believe that one climate is superior to another from the health standpoint, yet I believe that human beings can be healthy in any climate now inhabited by man. Picture the fur-clad Eskimo, living in his igloo made of ice. He is as healthy as the South Sea Islander living in a land of flowers and sunshine. These are two entirely different climates, yet both produce healthy humans.

It used to be the custom for doctors, when they couldn't cure a patient, to advise a change of climate. While this sometimes seemed to accomplish a temporary cure, it often happened that as soon as the patient returned home his old trouble came back. Those who cannot make a change in climate at this time should not worry unduly. They should remember that such a change is expensive and not always successful. In fact, it is always a bad plan to advise a patient to make a change solely on account of the climate when he does not have enough money and must worry over expenses. This causes a strain which generally does more harm than good.

I believe that before the patient without very much money tries another climate the wisest plan is for him to first make a determined effort to get well at home. Undoubtedly most patients make the best progress along the road to health when surrounded by the familiar home ties, provided the right treatment is used at the same time. In every case climate will be found not to be the most important factor, by any means. Any disease, as a general rule, can be cured in any climate. The most important factor is the care and diet of the patient. The great cause of disease must always be considered to be bad habits and change of climate cannot correct faulty living. Health is entirely possible for you to regain where you live. You have only to learn to remove those habits which have been interfering with your health.

In any serious disease it is important that the patient receive proper care and advice. This is I believe, much more important than the climate. If the patient has confidence in some institution or doctor in some other locality than his own, a trip may be justified. Also, if the patient has plenty of money and wishes to try to get well where the climate is agreeable, he undoubtedly has a right to do so. Change of climate and environment is often pleasant and stimulating, but, if a patient is going to be lonely and worry about finances, he had better make every effort to get well in his own home town.

Now for three years I have had a sore spot in the pit of the stomach and under the right ribs. But, after taking an enema, the soreness disappears but returns again after I eat my meals. What is the cause of this soreness, also cure for same?
 Answer: It is difficult to attempt to tell you what is causing the soreness in the pit of the stomach and right side without being able to examine you. It might be due to adhesions from the appendix and gall bladder operations, or it might come from the stomach condition such as gastritis or ulcer. While this sometimes seemed to accomplish a temporary cure, it often happened that as soon as the patient returned home his old trouble came back. Those who cannot make a change in climate at this time should not worry unduly. They should remember that such a change is expensive and not always successful. In fact, it is always a bad plan to advise a patient to make a change solely on account of the climate when he does not have enough money and must worry over expenses. This causes a strain which generally does more harm than good.

(Water on Knee)
 Question: O. O. writes: "My mother is 45 years of age and there seems to be a swelling on her knee. Is this 'water on the knee,' and, if so, what is the indication of it? Is it very serious? She says it does not bother her at all."
 Answer: Of course, I cannot diagnose your mother's case through this column, but it is more than likely that she is developing a form of arthritis, one type of which is not painful.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER
 BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

Washington, March 25.—A large, knotty, old Norse farming man, Gilbert N. Haugen of Iowa, on March 23 will break the past record for continuous service in the House of Representatives.

He arrives at that distinction nearly 73 years old, after a life spent in agriculture and in the service of agriculture as a member of Congress since March 4, 1859. He was chairman of the agriculture committee of the House in the period when farm relief became a foremost national issue and his name was perpetuated in legislative history by his co-sponsorship of the McNary-Haugen bill.

Didn't know of record? On March 23 Haugen will have been a representative for 23 years and 20 days. When I called on him he didn't know that would constitute a new record. He was accustomed to being the member of longest service in recent Congresses, little interested in any additional honors of the sort.

For 20 years Congressman Henry Harrison Bingham of Pennsylvania held the record which Haugen now surpasses. He died March 22, 1912, after 33 years and 19 days in the House.

Haugen looks out of kind, blue eyes from under shaggy white hair. Sharpening a pencil with a jack-knife, he says he hopes to be here many more years and feels as if he would. No longer chairman of the agriculture committee, thanks to Democratic control, he still hopes that the equalization fee which he devised as the chief piece of machinery in the McNary-Haugen bill will yet be used to save the farmers.

Cites Case of Wheat Farmers. "With the equalization fee, farmers in the last year would have received from 30 to 35 cents a bushel above the world price for their wheat," Haugen says. "The Farm Board has done all it could, under the present act, but it has had no method by which to make the tariff effective."

The Spanish-American War was just over when Haugen came here and Speaker Tom Reed had just left. D. B. Henderson doing his place in the chair.

"The farmers were going fairly well then," Haugen recalls. "I went on the agriculture committee at once, but you didn't hear much about farm relief. I'd say the first step in that direction was the Roosevelt and stockyards act in the Keasler administration. That was when the western insurgents began to appear as such. We were fighting the

Remembers Cannon Fight
 The next high spot in Haugen's memory is the famous House insurgent revolt against the "boss rule" of Speaker Joe Cannon about 1909, led by the now Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska. Haugen says proudly, that he was in the ranks.

He recalls no more spirited uprising in congressional history. These, he says, are days of harmony. Meanwhile, however, he had begun to study the competition of oleomargarine with butter and became one of the first proponents of oleo legislation. He became chairman of the agriculture committee in 1919.

The real farm relief drive of the '20's, he says, began with the Norris-Sinclair bill, which he compares with the present act under which the Farm Board operates. But he insisted that the surplus crops must be sold rather than held and that the costs and benefits must be equalized among the producers. Hence the equalization fee which caused the McNary-Haugen bill to be vetoed, no matter how often it was passed.

Says Tariff Issue Now
 "There's no issue today between the parties except tariff," Haugen says. "I don't remember that there was ever any other."

He owns more than 4000 farm acres in Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota and Canada and superintended them until the war. Now he leases them to tenants and "this year, with expenses paid, didn't make half enough to pay taxes."

He has been a widower since 1912 and lives here in a hotel. A son works at the National City Bank in New York and a married daughter lives in Iowa. Out of active farming, he likes flower gardens and sometimes picks flowers to take to his office.

JUST PLAYFUL
 Los Angeles.—Poor Robert Williams Weirick! He was so mistreated by his wife, he says, that he sought a divorce. He charged that the little woman was so jealous that she pulled out his hair and scratched his face with her finger nails. One of her habits was to hurt pots and dishes at him when she suspected him of paying attention to other women, he said.

pointed out that "vocations" and "vacations" refer to the two most important activities in our lives. One must pick a vocation that will improve ones personality when he is older. He must be prepared for changes in his line of work no matter what it may be. "Vocations are created—they are made from what we really are. One must have something in mind besides dollars and cents, and when their chance comes, no matter how little it may offer, they must make the most of the opportunity in order to produce value." He pointed out that vacations are needed also but that they should not be wasted. One should have some constructive hobby which will interest him, one should read good books, see good pictures, meet good people, and think good things. If this is done a person will assume the knack of making his work inspiring and will be more and more of a success as he grows older.

Notes
The elective cards have been circulated throughout the school again. There have been some changes in the curriculums and it is necessary for each pupil to have the approval of each of his teachers that he is having at the present time in order to continue with the same subject next year. In order for the art studio to earn some money for some things that are needed, the senior girls have been making school banners. They are stunning in red felt with M. H. S. and the class number desired painted in white paint on the front. They have been well advertised and practically every girl in the school has managed to scrape a few cents together to purchase one. Much merriment has been caused about school (and someone has even thought of putting up a beauty parlor or a barber shop) because of three boys in the school who are attempting to "set the styles" for the rest of the school. Two of the boys have "pineapple haircuts" and the third is growing a moustache.

Y. M. C. A. Notes

The final basketball night program at the Y. M. C. A. takes place tomorrow night when three games will be played. At 7 o'clock Joe's Filling Station will meet a group of three boys in the school who are attempting to "set the styles" for the rest of the school. Two of the boys have "pineapple haircuts" and the third is growing a moustache.

Next week an extensive program is planned, the details of which will be announced later.

ORATORIOS FEATURE TONIGHT'S PROGRAM

Good Friday Musicals In South Methodist and Swedish Lutheran Churches.

Two sacred oratorios will be presented in local churches tonight, climaxing the observance of the anniversary of the Crucifixion of Christ. Dubois' "Seven Last Words of Christ," will be sung at the South Methodist church, and Maunder's "Olivet to Calvary," will be sung at the Swedish Lutheran church. Both services will start at 7:30 o'clock and the public is invited to attend. A chorus of thirty-five voices will sing at the Methodist church, under the direction of Archibald Sessions. The assisting soloists will be Miss Eleanor Willard, Philip Mays and Robert Gordon. An augmented choir will sing at the Swedish Lutheran church, with G. Albert Pearson and Wilbur Judson as soloists and L. Jurdette Hawley and Miss Eva M. Johnson as accompanists.

The annual three-hour union service of Protestant churches began at noon today at St. Mary's Episcopal church. The speakers were Rev. Watson Woodruff, Rev. Frederick C. Allen, Rev. Herman O. Weber, Rev. L. Theron French, Ensign George D. Williams and Rev. J. Stuart Wall. "Olivet to Calvary" the Swedish Lutheran oratorio recalls simply and reverently the scenes which mark the last few days of the Saviour's life on earth, and some of the reflections suggested thereby. The rejoicing of the multitude with hosannas and palms, the view of Jerusalem from the steep of Olivet, the lament over the beautiful city, the scene in the Temple, and the lonely walk back over the Mount at night, form the chief features of the first part. Part II opens with the Supper of the Passover, at which Jesus washes His disciples' feet, and gives to His friends the new commandment of love for one another as the sign of true discipleship. From this the scene passes to the infinite pathos of the Garden of Gethsemane, the

The rejoicing of the multitude with hosannas and palms, the view of Jerusalem from the steep of Olivet, the lament over the beautiful city, the scene in the Temple, and the lonely walk back over the Mount at night, form the chief features of the first part. Part II opens with the Supper of the Passover, at which Jesus washes His disciples' feet, and gives to His friends the new commandment of love for one another as the sign of true discipleship. From this the scene passes to the infinite pathos of the Garden of Gethsemane, the

Next week an extensive program is planned, the details of which will be announced later.

CHINESE BANDITS KIDNAP AMERICAN

Ransom Already Paid But Brigands Demand More; Government Has Scheme.

Shanghai, March 25.—(AP)—The Chinese government, agreed today to go in for kidnaping in a big way as a desperate coup to save the life of a captive American. This situation arose when the friends of Charles Baker, a Yangtze river boat captain, of Pasadena, Calif., found themselves at their wits end to pay the ransom demanded in exchange for his life. Lansing Hoyt, president of the Yangtze Steamship Company, Baker's employer, tried paying a ransom but the brigands got the money by a ruse, and kept their prisoner. All governmental agents were helpless, since Baker was held in Kienlin province, where they have complete control. Baker wrote that he was "living in hell."

ROCKVILLE

Corporation Tax
On Thursday the town of Vernon received a check for $17,782.31 from State Treasurer Roy C. Wilcox as its share of the corporation stock tax levied on the capital stock of banks and insurance companies. Last year the amount received was $66,666.73, showing a big reduction this year from that of 1931. The state treasurer is distributing among the towns of the state $1,174,771.37 as their share of the corporation stock tax. This distribution is usually made on April 15 but has been advanced several weeks with the belief that the financial condition of many towns is such that the earlier payment will be of great advantage. This year the tax shows a reduction of more than 50 percent from that paid in 1931, the total then being $3,197,184.35. The reduction in the payments to many of the towns are far in excess of this percentage.

OUT O' GAS DRIVERS ARE FREQUENT YET

Despite Large Number of Stations Autoists Still Have Dry Tanks.
When the first automobiles sped up and down the streets of Manchester and along the dirt roads, gasoline filling stations were few and far between. Now they are located at almost every intersecting road. Still, drivers are just as careless today—probably a bit more so—than 20 years ago about their gasoline supply.
"Out of Gas"
Local garages, service stations and filling stations having service cars report an average of a dozen or more drivers "out of gas" each day. The largest crop of "out of gas" customers who call in for a gallon supply from their dealers, comes over the week end. Calls come from drivers "out of gas" and singularly enough, sometimes when the stalled car is within a short distance of a filling station, that the driver either does not know, or does not care to know, anything about gas.
The new model cars are equipped with dash gauges showing the supply of gas in the tank. Sometimes these gauges stick and this is responsible, in many cases, for the sudden depletion of the gas supply in some cars. Other drivers, driving too close to the low mark, suddenly find themselves stranded, with either a long walk or a long wait, or both in prospect.

CUT OWN SALARIES
Boston, March 25.—(AP)—The Massachusetts Senate has voted itself a 10 per cent cut, but only after a bitter debate.
The Se ate voted yesterday, 33 to 7, in favor of a resolve which would save the state $58,000 by reducing by 10 per cent the salaries of both State Senators and Representatives. The measure now goes to the House, which last Monday refused by a vote of 38 to 116 to adopt a motion calling for a 10 per cent cut for Representatives.
The Senate, while voting to cut its own pay, rejected an amendment to make the reduction apply to all state employes receiving more than $2,000 a year.

NEW CAPONE LEADER

Chicago, March 25.—(AP)—Frank Nitti, reputed "enforcer" of "Scarface Al" Capone's crime empire, returns home from the Leavenworth penitentiary today to hunt for the rumble of his nomination to the command of the Capone syndicate.
The federal government exacted 15 months of his freedom for dodging income tax collectors and he is at liberty again, but his chief, Capone, and Jake Guzik, the syndicate's business manager, have similar debts that remain to be squared.
Guzik was given a week's stay yesterday before going to the Leavenworth penitentiary to serve a five year term and Capone has been granted a 30 day extension during which he will remain in the county jail pending his appeal to the Supreme Court from a conviction that brought him an 11-year sentence.
With Sam Guzik, another of the Capone chieftains, serving the rest of his year term at Leavenworth and Al Capone's younger brother, Ralph, out of the way at McNeill's Island in Puget Sound, Nitti, it is rumored in Gangland, succeeds to leadership.

DEATH ENDS LAW SUIT

Medfield, Mass., March 25.—(AP)—Death has ended the 20-year battle for freedom and fortune of Mrs. Sarah Chapley Renfrew. She died in the Medfield State Hospital at the age of 74.
Mrs. Renfrew fought for a score of years in the courts over the estate of her husband and engaged in many years of litigation in an attempt to obtain control of a trust fund of $113,000 left by him.
After three states had attempted to confine her in an asylum, Mrs. Renfrew finally surrendered to Massachusetts authorities and was committed to the state hospital here.
Her last marriage, in 1919, came as a climax to one of her appeals to escape confinement. While the hearing was in progress she escaped from officers in Boston, fled to New Hampshire and married Robert W. Renfrew of Springfield. The marriage was annulled.
Judge Louis L. Green, her guardian since last fall, has been named administrator of her estate. He said her burial would be at York, Me.

MAY PROBE CAMPAIGN

Washington, March 25.—(AP)—Some Senate Republicans are weighing the possibility of seeking senate inquiry into the charges of fraudulent financing of the 1928 Smith presidential campaign.
Senator Dickinson, (R., Ia) the author of a resolution for investigating the 1928 campaign and Senatorial campaign expenditures, said today he believed this inquiry, if authorized, would have authority to go into the allegations by Patrick F. Kenny regarding a bank note to finance Alfred E. Smith's campaign.
"I have no personal interest in the matter," said Dickinson, "and I have not enough facts to ask for the investigation of 1928 but I do believe if my resolution were adopted he could go into the Kenny charges."

GET NEW CUSTOMERS

Several filling stations have service cars which they maintain for this purpose. Many a new customer for the filling station, or garage is secured following a gas delivery to a stranded car along the highway.
DEPRESSION BUYERS
Then there are "depression buyers" of gas, those who patronize the filling stations for one, two, three gallons to tide over the day's run in the good old days the command was "fill 'er up"—now it's—"three's all she'll hold." Maybe this has something to do with the new brand of road service. The automobile manufacturer who produces a car which receives its power from the air or some such similar process would be the hero of the day.

PETROLLE BATTERS BATTALINO BADLY

Canadiens Top Rangers 4 to 3

Stanley Cup Holders Start Title Defense With Hockey Victory; Lepine's Goal Wins.

Montreal, March 25.—(AP)—The Montreal Canadiens for two years winners of the Stanley Cup are off to a fine start in defense of their world championship even though a victory may not bring them the trophy again this year. The Canadiens last night turned back the New York Rangers, winners of the American group honors 4 to 3 in the first game of the play-off series. The second game will be played here Saturday night. The teams jump to New York for the third game Sunday night and finish up the series there. The Canadiens were out ahead most of the way last night but they had a tough battle before they finally won. The Rangers twice came from behind to tie the score in the first two periods but lost out in the third when the Habitants rang up two goals before the final New York tally.

Howie Morens, speedster of the "Flying Frenchmen," spent the Habitants out ahead the first time and little Aurel Joliat did it the second time. In the third period, Johnny Gagnon tallied for Montreal and then passed to "Pit" Lepine for what proved to be the winning tally. The Cook brothers did all the Ranger scoring, Bun getting the first goal and Bill the other two, both on passes from Frank Boucher.

Lineups and summary: Rangers: G. Hainsworth, D. Selbert, R. S. Mantha, Johnson, L. D. Burke, Boucher. Canadiens: W. Cook, J. Gagnon, F. C. Cowley, W. Joliat. Ranger spares: Milka, Gainer, Desjardins, Murdoch, Keeling, Somers, Heller, Dillon, Brennan. Canadian spares: Bondou, Wasnie, Leduc, Lepine, Larochelle, Munro, G. Mantha, Lesieur, Alexandre. Referees: Mike Rodden and Bill Stewart.

Fargo Express Wins On Technical Kayo In the Final Round

Hartford Boy Suffers First Knockout But Is Not Floored Once; Commits Fistic Suicide By Carrying Fight To Petrolle; No Question As To Better Man; Bat Cut To Ribbons; Said To Have Been Overmatched.

New York, March 25.—(AP)—Perhaps he doesn't care for that sort of thing, but it seems an undoubted injustice that Billy Petrolle never gets a whack at a fistic championship. Considered in many quarters the greatest fighting man now in the ring, a logic contender for either the lightweight or welterweight title, the Duluth veteran is just as far away from a championship as he ever was.

Kayo In 12th To his string of victories over Jimmy McLarnin, Justo Suarez, Eddie Ran and Billy Townsend, Petrolle added another last night—a decisive triumph over Christopher (Bat) Battalino of Hartford, former world featherweight champion and called recently the modern "Batling Nelson."

A near capacity crowd of 18,000 spectators looked on as Petrolle cut Bat to pieces with vicious rights and lefts to the head, brought blood streaming from a c'sen cuts and finally stopped him after one minute and 31 seconds of the 12th and final round. Bat Overmatched Despite a series of spectacular triumphs over Kid Chocolate, Fidel La Barba, Al Singer, Earl Mastro and Eddie Ran, Petrolle was the betting favorite at 7 to 5 as they entered the ring. And before three rounds were over, it was apparent Battalino was overmatched.

The Hartford boy committed fistic suicide by carrying the fight to Petrolle. McLarnin after taking one terrific beating from Petrolle had learned that style of battling was a better fate. Having survived eleven rounds of Petrolle's withering fire, without once being blasted off his feet, Battalino seemed certain to lose on a decision. But the official records show a technical knockout midway in the final round with the Nutmeg battler still standing on his feet but lying helpless against the ropes.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 25.—The New York Yanks hope to win the American League pennant and if they do they have an idea they ought to do well in the world series. So far in the training camps and the National League teams and have won eight of the games, two of them with the Champion Cardinals.

Bradenton, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—Max Carey still is looking around for a trade to strengthen his Brooklyn Dodgers. With Del Bissonnette out of action for five or six weeks Carey must solve the first base problem before the season starts. He'd like to get Jim Bottomley but the Cards probably would ask more than the Dodgers would pay. Carey might be able to get Pat Crawford, utility infielder with the Cards.

Los Angeles, March 25.—(AP)—So pleased is Manager John McGraw with training conditions here that he already has decided to bring his New York Giants to Los Angeles again next year. Not once has the weather interfered with the daily practice sessions. McGraw says it's the first time in 17 years his team has enjoyed such uninterrupted work.

Savannah, Ga., March 25.—(AP)—Exceptional plays counted for and against Tom Oliver yesterday. The Red Sox center-fielder turned in two brilliant catches on hits that might have gone for extra bases. So when he got up to bat the Hartford team held him to one hit by snaring two hard batted balls.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—This was an off-day for the Phillies and gave them a chance to rest before their combat with the Yanks at St. Petersburg tomorrow. Yesterday was an off-day too for they were beaten 5 to 3 by the Newark team.

HULTMAN'S

But Battalino had gained his most notable victories by his eternal aggressiveness and seemed to think he could whip Petrolle that way. But the Billy was too wiley for him. As Battalino tore in Billy retreated firing damaging punches into Bat's face and body. In the third round he nailed Battalino with a smashing right uppercut that smashed the Hartford boy's nose to the bone and before the bout was over Battalino was bleeding from cuts over both eyes as well as from the nose.

Game to Finish Through rounds after round Bat gamely stood up under terrific punishment but he finally weakened in the 12th. Two smashing punches to the body made Battalino sway. Another volley to the head sent him reeling into the ropes. Still he refused to go down, but obviously he was out on his feet and Referee Gunboat Smith stepped in and awarded the fight to Petrolle on a technical knockout. Petrolle weighed 139 pounds, Battalino 135.

Bat's First Kayo In addition Petrolle gained the distinction of being the only fighter ever to score a knockout victory over the Hartford battler. And while the Fargo Express was clearly entitled to the verdict, Battalino's gameness made him deserving of a better fate. Having survived eleven rounds of Petrolle's withering fire, without once being blasted off his feet, Battalino seemed certain to lose on a decision. But the official records show a technical knockout midway in the final round with the Nutmeg battler still standing on his feet but lying helpless against the ropes.

Athletics Appear Strongest in Loop

Jacksonville, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—Faith in the New York Yanks, hope in Washington Senators and a charitable belief in the potency of precedent may combine to make things tough for the Philadelphia Athletics in this year's American League pennant race.

Even so, it is extremely difficult to figure just how Connie Mack's formidable cast of players, be stopped from making it four in a row and a league record, unless the opposition has some novel plans, hitherto concealed, to check Gehr, Earnshaw, Walberg, Simmons, Cochrane and Fox.

So long the A's have this six ply backbone, they cannot be regarded otherwise than as strong favorites again to win the American League flag. Their pitching outclasses that of any other club in the league. They have the punch to slug it out with any rival club, even the Yanks, and Connie Mack's reserve strength, on which he rode down the stretch last season, looks to be even better.

Mack is the only American League manager who has ever held a championship combination virtually intact for more than three seasons. Mack admits real fear of the Yanks and their "murderers row" but it is difficult to see how the New Yorkers can displace the A's without big improvement in the pitching corps. The Yanks were the biggest runmakers in the majors last season but wound up in second place, 18 1-2 games back of the Mackmen.

Although the rest of the American League clubs manifest improvements, Washington is the only other one justifiably considered a pennant possibility. The Senators couldn't stand the pace last year, but they have speed, pitching and defensive strength to which has been added the punch of outfielder Carl Reynolds.

If Cleveland could combine its best features with those of Washington this would be a different story. The Indians carry a real sock, which has been especially damaging to the Yanks but their defense is spotty and they still lack a first class shortstop.

The Browns, best of the second division clubs, have no chance to crash the first four. The Boston Red Sox who surprised even themselves by finishing sixth last season, rely on pitching to keep them there, despite the death of Big Ed Morris. Bucky Harris pins the Tiger hopes on improved hurling.

The White Sox, newly in charge of Lew Fonseca, depend on a revamped infield and the return of Pitcher Ted Lyons.

The dime-a-dance girl

By JOHN CLAYTON

BEGIN HERE TODAY
ELLEN ROSSITER, beautiful 20-year-old, loves LARRY HARBROW-GATE, young artist. When he becomes engaged to another girl Ellen agrees to marry STEVEN BARCLAY, 27 years old and wealthy. Her impoverished family is indebted to Barclay.

Barclay has been married before. Scandal accompanied his Mexican divorce from LEIDA GRAYSON, dancer. To avoid publicity Ellen and Barclay are secretly married. They drive to his Long Island home, deserted except for FERGUS, the butler. There Barclay suffers a heart attack. LOUIS SYMES, Barclay's lawyer, arrives with doctors and nurses. Barclay dies at dawn.

Symes tells Ellen her marriage is not legal because papers proving Barclay's divorce have been stolen. Ellen yields all claims to Barclay's fortune to avoid scandal. Then she learns Larry Harrowgate is Barclay's nephew. Heartbroken, she returns home.

Ellen distrusts Fergus. She goes back to work as a hostess at Dreamland. Larry comes there, tells her his engagement is broken and asks her to marry him. Ellen has not the courage to tell him of her marriage to Barclay.

Larry shows Ellen an anonymous letter he has received threatening to tell newspapers that Barclay died as a result of a night of carousal with a feminine companion. Ellen knows Fergus has written the letter.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLV

Days slid by in which nothing happened. Two weeks—three weeks and no more was heard of Fergus. Larry had sent the money to the anonymous claimant. Once or twice he mentioned the matter, congratulating himself that he had handled it successfully. Ellen, her heart pounding, would agree that he had done the only thing that was to be done. She was half-bill from waiting and worrying. A sense of relief and disaster was always with her. A dozen times she had started to tell Larry everything and a dozen times a word from him, a gesture, an expression had stopped her.

Larry came often to the Brooklyn apartment these days. He was dejected when he came to see her. Molly had patched up their differences, had even come to like each other. Larry and Mike were close friends. It was Larry who had stood by when Mike essayed his first attempt to walk on crutches. All Mike's women folk had been ruled out of the room lest the boy should fall. They had been called in after the first walk was a triumph.

The apartment which was to be Ellen's and Larry's home was decorated and furnished. Larry fretted over the plain gold ring in his pocket and with fits of feverish impatience insisted that he and Ellen race to City Hall so that she might wear that ring, too. Always she refused. The day she gave was that she had not met his mother. Although Larry had never confessed it the girl knew Mrs. Harrowgate had refused to meet her. She knew that the refusal distressed Larry. Thus the happiness of the engagement days alternated with moods of black despair.

Then on a Friday three weeks later there was a change. The bustling day had begun just as any other day with a haphazard breakfast shared by Molly and Ellen and served on the card table in Mike's bedroom. Everything was friendly and homelike with Molly's chatter of the coming marriage to make it so. Molly knew nothing of the blackmailing letters to Larry. Knew nothing of Ellen's secret fears and tremors. Ellen had thought it better to keep her own council. So Molly could rattle on, serene and confident, absorbed in wedding plans.

"But there's Larry's mother," Ellen offered in a subdued way. "Old cat!" Molly said rebelliously, breaking a piece of toast.

"You shouldn't talk that way," Ellen protested though in secret agreement. "After all, she's only 'Larry's' her only son."

"You're quite as good as he is and he has the sense to know it even if his mother 'as't. Our family—the English branch of it anyway—is every bit as good as the Harrowgates' even if we don't happen to be in the Social Register."

"She hasn't been exactly anxious to meet me," Ellen said.

"Here, use your napkin," Molly spoke hurriedly to Mike. Returning to Ellen, she observed, "Well, Larry, think you're all right and personally I rather have my husband think I was perfect than his mother."

"I suppose there is something in that," Ellen conceded with a rueful laugh.

At 10 o'clock Larry arrived unexpectedly. He was in the mood Ellen loved best. Bursting into the living room he swept her into his arms and did a mad dance.

"We're going to be married in two weeks," he sang out. "Everything's fixed. And you're going to meet Mother today."

"But—but!" Ellen stammered. "How did you manage it?" Proud color stained her cheeks.

"Now Ellen, is that nice?" Larry reproached. "You'll have to take Mother as she is. He will slowly, uncomprehendingly, 'I'll be honest. Getting her to come around did take some managing. I did it by casually mentioning that high-hat English aunt of yours. Mother tumbled. Like all Americans she thinks an English countess is one of God's chosen."

For a moment Ellen felt a pang of disappointment and hurt pride but Larry's pleasure and eagerness carried her along. After all she wanted to marry him. It was up to her to make his mother come to care for her.

"Does your mother understand," she asked quietly, "that none of us has seen Aunt Myra for years?"

"I told her that. And she wants you to come to tea this afternoon," Larry finished triumphantly.

"But I haven't a thing to wear!"

Larry knew she had surrendered. "You've got of things," he said firmly. "Even if you hadn't sweet-heart, you'd be a queen to me in calico."

He really meant that. Ellen fumbled with pleasure and went to tell Molly. All three of them bubbled and laughed and planned through the luncheon preparations. Afterwards Larry helped dry the dishes and then departed.

"What an error for Mother," he explained. "She wants some things from my uncle's place. Since the suit has been settled it belongs to her. You know the house is quite a show place." He interrupted himself to say suddenly, "Why don't you go out with me?"

"To—to your uncle's home?"

Sleet drummed against the window panes but inside was utter silence. Ellen was conscious of an inward trembling. She glanced toward Molly and saw that her mother's face was pale.

"There'd be plenty of time," Larry urged. "I think you'd like to see the place."

"I have seen it," Ellen said, swallowing.

Larry turned in surprise. "I told you that your uncle was a friend of mine. He took me there once," she concluded weakly.

It was Molly who came to the rescue. "I'm sorry but Ellen can't go," she said firmly. "I'll need her here."

She returned at exactly four o'clock. In spite of all her resolution Ellen was frightened. She felt young and inexperienced and sat close to Larry as the car sped through whirling snow up Park Avenue. Above them lights twinkled against the early dusk. They stopped at a towering apartment house, entered a jewel box of an elevator and were lifted upward.

Ellen drew a deep breath. Her eyes were like stars and her cheeks were blazing. With Larry she entered a richly furnished, warmly lighted apartment. The curtains were drawn and there was a crackling fire in the grate.

Mrs. Harrowgate came to meet them. She was a smart, thin, skillfully made-up woman wearing a Paris gown. She appeared hospitable and at the same time vaguely formidable. She seemed anxious to make amends for the past yet her manner was not quite convincing.

It seemed impossible for Larry's mother to make a generous surrender. She did apologize casually for her negligence but it was with an air of expecting instant pardon. Ellen smiled shyly in commendation and inclined her head. She knew she would never come to like Mrs. Harrowgate but she could get along with her. The older woman dropped a light kiss on the girl's forehead, linked arms with her and drew her forward into the warm, flower-scented living room.

Ellen was never to forget the hour that followed. There were tea roses in a blue bowl on the low polished coffee table where Mrs. Harrowgate stationed herself to pour the tea. Always ever afterward the sweet heavy odor of being the same back to the girl. She would see that room again in all its luxurious and infinite detail. She would hear Mrs. Harrowgate's throaty voice slipping along in conversation that was gracious but not from the heart. She would remember Larry's dark red head against the blue of his chair and the special smile he flashed toward her frequently.

An outsider would have observed only a starchy-eyed, flushed young girl in a smoky velvet dress, sitting at tea with a man who obviously adored her and an older woman who adored them both. But for two of them the meeting meant much more than that. To Larry and to Ellen this was the beginning of true happiness. Nothing now stood in the way of their marriage. What Mrs. Harrowgate was thinking and feeling would have been hidden from an outsider as it was hidden from Larry by his mother's deft and accustomed wordiness.

The hour fled away. Ellen glanced at the busy and smiling man who left. He stirred, prepared to rise. Mrs. Harrowgate caught the gesture.

"Don't go until you've had a cocktail," she said. "It's almost dinner time and I'd like one myself."

The Harrowgates there was something a little bleak in her expression. At any rate Larry settled back.

"Well—just one," he said.

Mrs. Harrowgate touched the bell. Ellen leaned back against the soft, luxurious cushions and smiled at Larry. She understood. She heard the butler enter, heard Mrs. Harrowgate give the order. Some indefinable impulse made her glance over her shoulder.

The butler was Fergus. Ellen looked directly into his cold, contemptuous eyes.

MARVELOUS MANHATTAN

By WILLIAM GAINES

New York.—There are many high-falutin places where the work of an artist may be displayed to gain the notice of the high-brows. But few of them serve as well toward attracting the attention of the general public as an advantageously located shop window.

After all, if the artist's ability is not intended to be kept a secret of the limited initiates, what counts is to catch the eye of the public—which can manifest or utterly ignore talent.

Frances Savage, a truly American subject, did a bronze bust of Abraham Lincoln. Her permission was requested for a showing of the bust in a Fifth avenue shop window during the week of February 12. And, as you know, a great deal of emphasis has been placed on America's heroes this year, for one reason or another.

The bust interested the man on the New York sidewalk. He had been taught by his school teacher to regard Lincoln as an idol, but what more, he found that the art of Frances Savage meant something to him in some perhaps inexplicable way.

He wasn't equipped to talk about the "strongly marked planes, a rugged surface that conveys in visible terms the essential quality of the man," as one and more of the local experts since have commented, in effect. His impression was, "That's pretty swell."

Art A-Booming
As a consequence, the reputation of Frances Savage boomed until, during the showing of some of her sculpture at the Women's City club, she found herself among the much-talked-of artists of the day.

She exhibited busts in bronze, plaster for bronze, and cement, and the expert opinion was that she has "the invaluable quality of mutability."

The thing that counts, though, is that Frances Savage, by a showing in a shop window, snared the fancy of the public after her intensive period of training in this country and abroad.

In the future, whether she does bronzes of Jefferson Davis or Lee, or just more heads of the day, she will hold the interest not only of the professional aesthetes, but of the window shoppers—and they are the magnifiers of reputation.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON
HE DIED, BUT HE STILL TRIUMPHED

Few philanderers ever get the chance to continue their amours beyond the grave—which, everything considered, is perhaps just as well. But this is just what happens in Henry C. Rowland's "Many Mansions," and the result is an unusual and rather entertaining novel.

The hero of the book is a gay blade who drives his car over a precipice and comes to in the next world. He finds it an exceedingly odd place.

No restrictions whatever are laid upon him. He can do exactly as he pleases, and there is no one to admonish him or scold him. The setting and the company seem to be just what an accomplished rake would dream of.

But it happens that he once loved a girl; and he finds that she, too, has just passed over the divide and he wants her just a little more than he wants a career of self-indulgence. So his education commences.

He begins by living among the cute men, at the bottom of the scale of the brute creation. Slowly he ascends, moving into a satirically-conceived sort of country-club set, through a land of strat-laced Puritans and up to an odd variety of over-ponder university. And then, just as he reaches the point at which he can join hands with the girl he loves, the author calls both of them back to life and lets them meditate on the things they have learned.

This novel is rather disjointed at times, and here and there it falls to be as neatly handled as one might wish. But it does constitute an interesting discussion of moral, human aspirations and the ultimate significance of things in general, and I believe you'll find it worth your while.

"Many Mansions" is published by Ray Long and Richard R. Smith, Inc., and retails at $2.

INCREASE IN PARROT FEVER DEMANDS

Six Deaths from Malady Reported in California

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The recent increase in parrot fever, or psittacosis, in California and other western states constitutes such a menace to human health that radical measures must be taken if its spread is to be stopped.

Six deaths and six other cases have been reported from California within the past few months. All of the people infected, with a single exception, had been in contact with recently purchased parakeets, most of them bought from itinerant bird vendors.

In nearly every instance, according to the report of the director of the California State Department of Health, at least one of the birds became ill and died before the onset of the symptoms in the human case. In one case the person who was infected with psittacosis had not been in contact with a parakeet but had nursed a patient who was suffering from the disease.

The symptoms of the disease as it occurred in California were the same as those in psittacosis elsewhere.

The person suddenly becomes ill with severe headache, fever and chills, then the whole body begins to ache, coughing begins and then there is consolidation in the lung similar to pneumonia.

As the disease becomes more severe the patient may develop delirium. Since the condition begins like influenza or pneumonia, that is the diagnosis most frequently made until the case suddenly reveals its special character. Death occurs in from one week to 14 days in the fatal cases and those patients who recover must undergo long convalescence because of the weakening character of the disease.

Most of the parrots responsible for the outbreak in the eastern part of the United States in 1929 came from South America. The parrots responsible for the present epidemic were supposed to reflect "I" and you bent every effort to do them justice.

Right now, your hair is the biggest asset you have, if you do your best with it. Its color makes little difference. Whether it is eyes supposed to reflect "I" straight or curly makes little difference, also, for there are wonderful new ways of waving hair and there are some hairdressers who understand how distinguished straight-haired women can be.

It doesn't even matter today if your hair is thin or thick. All the old standards of beautiful hair have gone by the board, with the exception of one. That is its glossiness. Hair has always been spoken of as halo, a crown of glory and other descriptive ways of meaning that it has a sheen.

Does your hair have sheen? Well, it should. And there are ways of inducing sheen.

Health is the first fundamental that you must consider. If you are burning the candle at both ends, your hair will grow drab and show you up far more than any other part of your body. Get your full amount of good, unbroken sleep on an excellent bed, with plenty of fresh air playing about you.

Next, your diet tells on your hair. When you are buoyantly alive and alert, with your body functioning properly, your hair reflects it again. Eat plenty of fruits, fresh vegetables, go on a liquid diet for lunch and get in good shape.

Last, and very important, take care of your hair's health. It too needs sunshine, fresh air, rest from hats, exercise.

My advice to everybody whose hair is not greeting spring with a sheen is to go get some treatments. Go without your touches and save enough for a treatment and some tonic. Follow every move that your hairdresser makes in treating your scalp and brushing your hair. Go

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

A CHILD, TOO, SEEMS "ESCAPE" FROM REALITY

Many children won't face the world—cannot, indeed. Do not be surprised at this statement, please, because just as many grown-ups cannot face it either. They shrink from reality, from the hard bare facts of living that spell duty, responsibility, routine, work and various other complications that fall to their lot.

The truth of the matter is that all of us have our times when real life becomes distasteful and we long to get away.

Then what do we do? Well—various things. A woman goes shopping—that is a withdrawal and explains why some women seek a store for pastime. Or she goes to a movie, or buries herself in a book, or goes to bed and sleeps, or resorts to more healthful forgetfulness by taking a walk. A man goes for golf or fishing; or to his club, or to a ball game. And both men and women seek bridge.

Not all these things are escapes invariably. But they are, as often as not. Any thing by which we get away from the world's hammering is an escape.

And many children seek escape too. Play must not be considered in this light, of course, because play is fundamentally constructive during the growing period.

The child's faculties are developed by every effort of play, as well as his muscles, and it is the way nature takes of developing mind and body.

I am convinced that many mothers who have adopted the new idea of never telling a child a fairy story, about unreal world and people that do not exist, are trying to counteract any tendency of his to live away from reality. They want their children to be come matter of fact, that is, to center their attention on facts and not become dreamers.

Imaginary Unhappiness
But my way would be a different one. Our imaginations are sources of the greatest happiness and without them life would be a mechanical thing indeed. We all believe in the unreal. When we see a sunset we don't analyze it in terms of chemistry and astrophysics and geography, but is the unnameable thing that belongs in our imaginations.

The best way to help a child face reality is to stop his secret source of unhappiness, for unhappiness is the reason for all escape. A child who constantly reads and will not join in with other children, many times does so because of a deep reason suspected by one. Something deep in his heart that torments him.

Study such children, talk to them, try to find out if they are unhappy at school, discontented in the family, possessed of fears or intense self-consciousness.

Then go about eliminating the cause by fact and kindness and cleverness. If the obstacle that keeps him from his normal world is removed and he becomes vitally happy and interested he won't be so keen about escaping—about reading and sleeping and all that same and do thou likewise. Mornings and evenings. Liven up the old scalp. Brush up the hair. Massage and put zest and sparkle into your old top!

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

—Healthy Hair—
Hair is having its innings this year.

A few years ago, the way you made up your mouth made all the difference in the world. Later, eyes were supposed to reflect "I" and you bent every effort to do them justice.

Right now, your hair is the biggest asset you have, if you do your best with it. Its color makes little difference. Whether it is eyes supposed to reflect "I" straight or curly makes little difference, also, for there are wonderful new ways of waving hair and there are some hairdressers who understand how distinguished straight-haired women can be.

It doesn't even matter today if your hair is thin or thick. All the old standards of beautiful hair have gone by the board, with the exception of one. That is its glossiness. Hair has always been spoken of as halo, a crown of glory and other descriptive ways of meaning that it has a sheen.

Does your hair have sheen? Well, it should. And there are ways of inducing sheen.

Health is the first fundamental that you must consider. If you are burning the candle at both ends, your hair will grow drab and show you up far more than any other part of your body. Get your full amount of good, unbroken sleep on an excellent bed, with plenty of fresh air playing about you.

Next, your diet tells on your hair. When you are buoyantly alive and alert, with your body functioning properly, your hair reflects it again. Eat plenty of fruits, fresh vegetables, go on a liquid diet for lunch and get in good shape.

Last, and very important, take care of your hair's health. It too needs sunshine, fresh air, rest from hats, exercise.

My advice to everybody whose hair is not greeting spring with a sheen is to go get some treatments. Go without your touches and save enough for a treatment and some tonic. Follow every move that your hairdresser makes in treating your scalp and brushing your hair. Go

BABY FRETFUL, RESTLESS?

Look to this cause
When your baby fusses, tosses and seems unable to sleep restfully, look for one common cause, doctors say. Constipation. To get rid quickly of the accumulated wastes which cause restlessness and discomfort, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Castoria, you know, is made specially for children's delicate needs. It is a pure vegetable preparation containing no harsh drugs, no narcotics. It is so mild and gentle you can give it to a young infant to relieve colic. Yet it is as effective for older children. Castoria's regulative help will bring relaxed comfort and restful sleep to your baby. Keep a bottle on hand. Genuine Castoria always has the name:

HOUSE ASKS FOR VOTE ON PROHIBITION AGAIN

government. I do not regard it as a political question but a governmental question.

"I am going to continue the policy of considering it a governmental question. Republican members of the committee had as much to do with formulating the bill as the Democrats.

Our purpose has been to formulate a bill that would return the revenue to balance the budget."

As soon as the House convened Crisp demanded a roll call to bring all the members to the floor.

The galleries were unusually crowded again with women predominating.

Surrenders Gavel

As the roll call ended, Speaker Garner surrendered the gavel to Representative Bankhead of Alabama, who has presided over all the sessions on the tax bill.

Crisp explained to the House that one of Doughton's amendments adopted yesterday would remove the excise taxes from domestic lubricating oils, wort malt, grape concentrates and imported oil.

He offered an amendment to permit a vote on restoring these taxes and to allow Representative Cullen (D., N. Y.), to offer his amendment to tax 2.75 beer three cents a pint.

Cullen then offered his beer amendment and Representative Blanton (D., Tex.), a prohibitionist, immediately made a point of order, contending it was not constitutional and not germane to the bill.

Blanton said it would be "futile" and "useless" for the chair to rule for a vote on the beer amendment.

"I know it has been ruled by several speakers that neither the whole House nor the speaker has anything to do with constitutional questions," Blanton said.

Blanton conceded, however, that Bankhead had the right to overrule his objection and other precedents.

Representative Cochran (D., Mo.), said Blanton was trying to influence the presiding officer and to intimidate his ruling before it was made.

Up to the House

Crisp said he believed the amendment to be germane. The Georgian is considered an outstanding parliamentary expert.

"Whether or not it is constitutional is for the House to decide it. It is ruled in order," Crisp said.

Representative Hoch (R., Kan.), said the amendment sought to levy a tax on a product now unlawful.

Bankhead held that the amendment was germane and that a vote could be had on the issue.

In his ruling Bankhead said: "It applies to non-alcoholic beverages. So far as I know the Supreme Court has not ruled that 2.75 percent beer is intoxicating."

Debate then began on the amendment itself.

Cullen took the floor in behalf of his amendment, calling attention to "the deplorable condition" of the Treasury.

"The revenue bill is a recognition of the necessity of balancing the budget," he said. "This amendment if adopted would bring into the Treasury from $350,000,000 to $450,000,000 in revenue without interfering with any industry but bottle gin."

"We only need a majority vote to define and legalize what constitutes an intoxicating beverage. The American Federation of Labor has gone on record in favor of this non-intoxicating beer."

"This amendment would bring a great increase in employment. I am thoroughly convinced that if my amendment is adopted the tax burden will be greatly lifted."

Representative Grandfield (D., Mass.), interposed that prohibition had cost the nation $12,000,000,000, while Representative Celler (D., N. Y.), said the tax proposed was higher than the war rate.

Blanton was the first opposition speaker.

"It is just a question of raising revenue, we could establish an international lottery here in Washington that would raise billions," he said, "but we wouldn't do it because it would be a bad thing for the people."

"It is against the fundamental law of the land to sell intoxicating liquors. It is in the constitution that it is our sworn duty to uphold. Against Constitution."

"Every distinguished wet in Congress is here today to try to vote beer into the bill, contrary to the constitution."

Blanton tried to get more than five minutes to speak, but Celler objected.

Representative McCormack (D., Mass.) a ways and means committee member, said the country is in an emergency and more business is needed.

"This is the only new industry I see that can come in at this time and give the needed employment," he said. "This also would greatly reduce the cost of government."

Would Be Beneficial

Representative William E. Hull (R., Ill.) said opening of the breweries would be of great benefit.

"It would do more to bring about prosperity than anything else this Congress could do," Hull said. "It would cost $200,000 to recondition each of the 1,600 breweries in this country and $150,000 of this would go to labor."

"This amendment would do away with saloons entirely, for it would be sold in case only."

Representative Oliver (D., N. Y.) said:

"We wets are offering to drink up the deficit. If the dries don't accept this amendment they can balance the budget."

"We have had dry Congresses and dry Presidents for ten years and now we are faced with a dry deficit."

Representative Dyer (R., Mo.), argued that scientists, chemists and people from all over the country had testified before the judiciary committee on bills to legalize beer and that not one of them had held a 2.75 per cent alcoholic beverage would be intoxicating.

"This amendment would not only bring in money but aid enforcement of the law," he said.

Representative Cochran (D., Mo.), joined supporters of the amendment with the statement that it would provide a painless tax.

A Prohibitionist—Representative Guyer (R., Kan.)—criticized wets for their support of the amendment.

"I deny the right of any man who takes an oath to support the Constitution to introduce a resolution which violates that Constitution," Guyer said.

"It has been said here that a majority of the people are against the 18th Amendment. How did you find that out? Four years ago Alfred Smith had the courage to say he was running on a wet platform and he was the worst defeated candidate for the presidency in the history of the world."

Representative Mary T. Norton (D., N. J.), the first woman member to discuss the amendment, said it would "bring revenue to a depleted Treasury and happiness to this country."

Representative Simmons (R., Neb.), said the wets were "trying to bring back a traffic that has damned and corrupted and ruined everything it touches."

Representative Mead (D., N. Y.), said "prohibition is doomed. Every session of Congress in the last ten years has been an increase in number of the House wet members."

Representative Chindblom (R., Ill.), said he was in favor of the amendment not only because of this revenue, but because "it'll do more to curb lawlessness in the metropolitan districts than anything else."

Representative Johnson (R., Wash.), quoted Benjamin Franklin as saying, "that beer's food value is not worth its salt."

"The people cannot drink themselves into prosperity," Johnson added.

TRYING TO SAVE DOOMED NEGROES

Application For Rehearing of Appeals Made In Behalf of Seven Men.

Montgomery, Ala., March 25.—(AP)—Applications for a rehearing on appeals to the Alabama Supreme Court were filed today in behalf of seven negroes sentenced to death at Scottsboro a year ago for attacks on two white girls.

George W. Chamlee of Chattanooga, Tenn., chief counsel for the negroes asked the court to set aside its judgment rendered yesterday whereby the sentences were affirmed for seven of eight negroes convicted. May 13 was designated as the date for their execution.

The eighth negro was granted a new trial on the claim he was only 15 years old when tried and therefore the court lacked jurisdiction in his case. Chamlee said "if the court denies us the rehearing we will immediately take steps to carry the case before the U. S. Supreme Court."

To Oppose Application Attorney General Thomas E. Knight, Jr., said he would oppose application for rehearing "or any other attempt to delay further execution of the sentences of the courts."

It was a year ago today the negroes were taken from a freight train to Paint Rock, Ala., and charged with attacking the girls who were hobnobbing their way home from Huntsville, Ala., from Chattanooga, after a fruitless search for work.

Since the arrest of the negroes a year ago hundreds of protests against the sentences have been received by Gov. Miller and members of the Supreme Court.

TRAWLER SINKS

Boston, March 25.—(AP)—The Boston Steam Trawler Albatross sank 14 miles off Boston Lightship last night after her crew of six had battled vainly to stem rising water from a leak.

The ship was returning from a two weeks trip to the Georges Banks and had 15,000 pounds of fish aboard.

The power pumps were started and rising waters were halted until the mechanism failed and the engine room was quickly flooded. As the trawler began to settle down the men took to two small dories.

Although handicapped by a rough sea they reached the lightship about five hours later.

DEATH TOLL 362

Birmingham, Ala., March 25.—(AP)—The gravity of the south tornado aftermath became more apparent today as field workers for relief forces discovered additional dead, injured and homeless.

C. H. MacFarland, American Red Cross field director for North Alabama, said the devastation brought about by storms in five southern states early this week had been "vastly under-estimated."

Today the total known dead stood at 362 divided between Alabama with 299, Georgia with 40, Tennessee with 18, South Carolina with 3 and Kentucky with 2.

Unofficial estimates placed the number of injured above 3,000 and the homeless at 8,500. Property damage estimates ranged from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000.

ENVOY READY TO LEAVE FOR HIS NEW POST

Washington, March 25.—(AP)—Andrew W. Mellon, ambassador to Great Britain told newspapermen today he had no "knowledge of any change" in the foreign debt situation.

Leaving the chambers of the House foreign affairs committee where the former treasury head was received and tendered the best wishes of this group in his new post, Mellon was questioned by newspaper men.

"Do you think Europe will pay us any debt this year?"

"You know as much about that as I do," was Mellon's quick response.

"I have no knowledge of any change in the situation and see no likelihood of any change at the present time," Mellon replied to another query.

Mellon was accompanied by David Finley, who was his special assistant at the Treasury and will go with him to London.

The ambassador said he expected to leave Washington next Tuesday and sail from New York about April 1.

Mellon seemed in excellent spirits. He made a short talk to the committee behind closed doors, was applauded and then posed with the group for photographs.

Chairman Lathrop said later Mellon had not talked business but that the committee had invited him to come because it was endeavoring "to become better acquainted with our foreign representatives."

FRIEND TOLD HIM ABOUT ALL-BRAN

And It Brought Relief From Constipation

Those who are bothered with constipation should read Mr. Gelpke's unsolicited letter:

"I have suffered with constipation for years. A friend of mine told me to try ALL-BRAN. I have taken ALL-BRAN for the past six weeks as a breakfast food. It has regulated my bowels as clockwork. Now I would not be without a package at all times."—Mr. Leslie Gelpke, 273 Ridgewood Ave., Newark, N. J.

Common constipation—with its headaches, loss of appetite, sleeplessness—is due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines. Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. Both are present in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Being a natural corrective, ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming.

Try ALL-BRAN in place of pills and drugs—so often harmful. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—serious cases with every meal. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

In the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

GIFT FOR UNIVERSITY

Portland, Maine, March 25.—(AP)—Princeton University is to receive the $225,000 estate left by the late Charles E. Stevens of Cape Elizabeth, on the death of a son, Berca E. Stevens, of Oakland, Calif., and two other beneficiaries, according to the will filed for probate here today.

The estate is left in trust with the bulk of the income to be paid to the son during his life time. Miss Annie C. Wilcox of Meriden, Conn., a cousin of the elder Stevens is to receive a monthly income of $50.

At the death of these two and a third beneficiary the trust is to be dissolved and the principal given to Princeton. A portion of the income is then to be used for maintenance of Campbell Hall and the remainder to be applied to scholastic aid of dependants of the class of 1877.

NIGHT MAIL SERVICE

New Haven, March 25.—(AP)—Overnight airmail service between the east and west coasts to speed up business transactions was predicted today by Captain Frank Hawks.

The night mail is most popular, the speed flier said in an article in the Yale Daily News, "because it enables checks received at the end of one business day to be cleared at the beginning of the next day in cities of 1200 miles away at the same time they would pass through local clearing houses."

Mrs. Samuel Woodward was previously vice-chairman. The other members of the committee are Frank Collins, Mrs. Ellen Dregher, Alexander Bunce, Mrs. Minnie Albas and Fred Flack. HUSBAND DIES

Bridgeport, March 25.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Owen Keenan, both in their 70's patients at Hillside home hospital have been parted by death. The husband died last night.

For two years Mr. Keenan nursed his wife who had had a paralytic stroke in their home. On March 11 he had a stroke and fell to the floor. Four days later a neighbor found both on the verge of starvation. Fuel and food were in the next room but neither could reach it. They were taken to the hospital for care. Mrs. Keenan whose death was expected was slightly improved today.

Brazil Indians Have Adam and Eve Legend

Washington, March 25.—(AP)—A Brazilian Indian version of the fall of Man, in which an Indian "Eve" was tempted by a serpent and brought into the world was disclosed today by the Smithsonian Institution.

The legend, part of the creation tradition of the Keresan Indians of the Rio Grande country was reported by Dr. C. Daryl Forde of the University of Wales who studied the Indians under auspices of the Smithsonian.

The first humans were two women, Iatiki and Naotiti, according to the Indian story. They were created in a dark place underground by a God called Uktatiti. When he helped them get above ground the two women quarrelled as to which was the older. They agreed finally that the one upon which the sun first fell would rank first.

Iatiki stole a march on her sister by sending a raven to shade Naotiti with his wings so the first rays would fall on herself. Iatiki's skin was tanned by the sun and she became red. Naotiti remained white.

Naotiti was lonely and listened to the suave serpent who tempted her to seek companionship with the rainbow. She bore two children as a result of her alliance with the rainbow.

This made the God Uktatiti angry, as he had had other plans for populating the world. Now he refused to go ahead with his plans and as a result sin and death were brought into the world.

Later Naotiti went away with one of her children and became the mother of the white race, while Iatiki adopted the other child and founded the Indian race.

HUBBY IS WANTED BY ROSA PONSELLE Opera Star For Last 13 Years Says There Is Something Missing In Life.

New York, March 25.—(AP)—Rosa Ponselle, 34 year old prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company is seeking the missing link in the charmed chain of her life—a husband.

Her glamorous dramatic soprano voice has brought her international fame. Her wealth includes a penthouse overlooking the Hudson, a villa in Switzerland, swift motor cars, beautiful clothes, travel. Her Latin charm and beauty have brought her many admirers, but no answer to her prayer for a husband.

"All my girlhood was a battle between career and marriage," she said today. "I have the career, I must now have a husband. If the right man came along I wouldn't hesitate a moment."

For the last 13 years Ponselle, a native of Connecticut has sung with the Metropolitan opera company. She has been singing in public ever since she was five years old. She couldn't stop now and she doesn't want to.

The Right Man

"If he were the right man, you see, I wouldn't have to give up my career entirely. But I would want to be able to stay in one place long enough to maintain a home for him and raise children," she said.

The two greatest thrills in Ponselle's life she said today were singing, and pretending she was the mother of the neighbor's baby when she was a little girl.

"I used to put on a ten cent wedding ring and a long dress and wheel the prettiest baby in the block, up and down the street. I looked older than my age and some times I actually got away with my pretense," Ponselle wears a wedding ring on the third finger of her left hand. She never takes it off, believing it will bring her marriage soon. She found the ring in a railroad station several years ago.

Once In Love

"I've had proposals, of course, and once I thought I was madly in love, but it didn't take the dark eyed singer admitted.

Ponselle's ideal of a husband is some one tall and blonde, serious minded and wholesome. She doesn't want a mollycoddle, or a man so poor she will have to buy his neckties. Most of all he must be understanding.

"I'm old enough to get married," she said. "I want to have children. There is nothing more beautiful than to enjoy the companionship of one's children. Somehow life becomes strangely empty without these things."

Any man who can solve the depression can be president, says an economist. But why would a man like that want to be just president?

EVEN THE OPERA IS FACING RUIN

Reduced Receipts At the "Met" Have Practically Wiped Out Capital.

New York, March 25.—(AP)—A torrent of red ink may sweep Grand Opera from its faded plush surroundings at the "Met" to a new haven among the masses.

Till that society sighed to read an announcement that the Metropolitan Opera Company, for almost half a century the backbone of some of the world's most famous singers and New York's most noted old families, has suffered large losses.

Reduced receipts have practically wiped out its $550,000 capital and most of its reserve, leaving it without enough funds to assure season, the announcement said.

Newspapers saw in the statement an opening for an attempt to make the man in the street opera connoisseurs.

The New York Times said:

"For any other enterprise than the Metropolitan Opera, such an announcement would be that it was in such financial straits that it would have to close.

Its Real Meaning

"Its real meaning, however, is understood to be that a crisis of paramount importance has been reached in the history of opera in New York, which will permit a departure from aristocratic traditions of support and form antiquated traditions of production, as well as an eventual departure from the present site to a new opera house at the Rockefeller Center between Fifth and Sixth avenues and 48th and 51st streets, where the electrical industry behind radio broadcasting is eager to make opera popular in America."

Paul D. Cravath, newly elected chairman of the opera company, did not disclose what steps would be taken, but his announcement said:

"An earnest effort will be made to secure such co-operation on the part of all concerned in the continuation of opera in working out a plan for such reduction in expenses and other measures as will be necessary to make it possible to present Metropolitan opera in New York next winter."

STATE POLICE REPORT

Hartford, March 25.—(AP)—A total of 618 arrests were made by the State police during February and the officers traveled distances of 189,884 miles, according to the monthly report of Commissioner A. Sunderland submitted to Governor Cross. Stolen property totaling $8,861 was recovered and liquor and equipment valued at $12,161 was seized.

The department earned $11,204.85 and its total expenses was $33,124.25. The department inspected 2,692 weights and measures and 146 motion picture theaters. There were 1,068 complaints received, of which 124 resulted in investigations for the motor vehicle department and 944 in criminal and other investigations.

The expenses of the department are apportioned as follows: personal service $21,653.99; equipment $906.60; contractual services $4,038.41; supplies and materials $6,525.25.

Of the 618 arrests made, 431 were for motor vehicle law violations. There were 23 arrests for liquor law violations.

PROSPERITY SIGN

Oklahoma City, March 25.—(AP) More oil to sell for more money—the oil man's dream—will become an actuality here next month.

Just after three large companies had joined in giving notice they will pay a top price of $1 a barrel for crude oil beginning April 1, the Oklahoma corporation commission responded to a demand of purchasers by increasing the daily allowance of the great Oklahoma city field 10,000 barrels to a maximum of 115,000 barrels.

Dollar oil—the unfulfilled objective of Governor William H. Murray's martial oil well shutdown of Oklahoma wells—was agreed upon by the Continental, Sinclair and Barnsdall companies. It represents an increase of 15 cents a barrel.

ABOUT TOWN

Miss Ruth Wilding night nurse at the hospital is spending a short vacation in Bermuda.

David Hall of 29 Griswold street, was driving a truck owned by the H. & M. Transportation Co., with which he is associated, early Wednesday morning when it caught fire on the road between New Haven and Wallingford and was damaged beyond repair. The light load was also a loss. Mr. Hall was on his way to Hartford from New York after having delivered a full load of freight at the latter city.

Mathias E. Spels, of 28 West Center street, is confined to his home with a severe cold.

There has been a new sign erected at the intersection of Main and Haynes streets with an arrow pointing to the west and the word "Hospital" placed on the sign in large black letters against a white background. Above this is a light that will burn all night and will assist strangers in going to the hospital during the night.

The Manchester Kiwanis club weekly meeting is called for 12 noon Monday at the Hotel Sheridan. The speaker will be Esmaigal George Williams of the Salvation Army. His topic will be "Air, Food, Sleep, Water." This is his first appearance before the club, and as the attendance contest is in full swing, there ought to be a 100 per cent turn-out to greet him. Harold Turkington will furnish special music and Lawrence W. Case will donate the attendance prize.

Mrs. Frank V. Williams, superintendent of the primary department of the Second Congregational church school, will be rehearsal for tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock at the church. The children will have a part in the Easter concert to be given at 7 o'clock on Sunday evening, previous to the presentation of the Easter drama "Christ Comes to His Disciples" by the Everyman's class.

A number of local members of the Salvation Army will attend the meeting this evening of corps around Hartford, to be held at the auditorium, 334 Trumbull street.

Stewart C. Hyde, son of Judge and Mrs. William S. Hyde of 234 Main street, has been elected assistant sports editor of the Willistonian, the weekly paper of Williston Academy in Easthampton, Mass.

The Hartford Connecticut Trust Company acting for the William L. Buckland estate has sold a house and two acres of land at 59 Woodland street to Joseph Astrauski, a carpenter, of New Haven. The sale was made through the Robert J. Smith agency. Mr. Astrauski intends to remodel the house and move his family here.

The Manchester Green Community club will give the usual Friday evening setback and dance tonight at the school assembly hall. Six cash prizes will be given the winners and refreshments will be served. All players, whether living in the Green section or not, will be welcome.

The American Legion rifle team will practice this evening at 7:30 at the State Armory.

John Stavitsky, bicycle repairman on Fumell Place, was before the town court this morning on the charge of intoxication and breach of the peace. He was brought in on complaint of Clarence Jaycox who has the store next to Stavitsky's. Jaycox testified that Stavitsky was drunk and used vile language. A fine of $10 and costs was imposed for intoxication, and on the breach of the peace charge judgment was suspended.

ADVICE TO VALLEE STIRS SONGSMITHS

New York, March 25.—(AP)—All Mr. Rudy Vallee has to do to make a name for himself—again—is to write a theme song for prosperity.

President Hoover handed the megaphone message the assignment yesterday when Vallee called at the White House to pay his respects. "Mr. Hoover smilingly told me Vallee said 'that if I could sing a song that would make people forget their troubles he would give me a medal.'"

The idea of a serenade to the goddess of plenty—"Cornucopia, Here We Come" was a title one song writer thought up, quick as a flash—bounced around Tin Pan Alley today like a ball on a roulette wheel looking for a good number to land on.

Prosperity lyrics suddenly were thicker than Mississippi mud. A thinker who had been at work on a "row" titled "With You, Dear Elaine, in Spain in the Rain" tore it up and began humming madly. "I've got it," he said. Then sang "Do Not Say You Can't Afford It." "Spend Your Dough, Don't Hoard It." Klitzberger a companion in crime. Listen to this:

"Oh, it's just around the corner, Bay Bee Prosperity and I ain't meeting may be."

"That's great. And then you could go on with: From Main to Alabama Every uncle, aunt and mammy, Every trade, every profession, Rollers 'down with the depression.' Thus it went. The idea was at work in Tin Pan Alley biting this song writer and that. About all they needed were four more lines and then a smash finale to give the song a chance to show their gold teeth on a high note. They were quickly provided by a newcomer who, catching the idea contributed:

Oh, say can you see Anything that's bothering me? I'm so happy I could sing Whoops my dear or anything." Whereupon all the others struck by the same amazing inspiration for a last climatic line shouted in unison: "Here comes pros-per-ity!"

Queer Twists In Day's News

Philadelphia—Former Judge Benjamin Ranshaw (Dem.) crashed the Union League Club (Rep.) and came out black in the face. Sauntering to his office, he stepped on a loose grating and did a shoot the chute to the club's coal bin.

Chicago—Child prodigies are a drug on the market, so far as Northwestern University is concerned. Two hundred of them filed entrance applications. The university will take 20, all of them under 15 years.

Bainbridge, Ga.—Here's an auto thief with some of Houdini's skill. Police used two pairs of handcuffs to lock the steering wheel of their car. Now they're out the cuffs and the car.

New York—The interest rate looked good but the security didn't. Entering a pawnbroker's, a gentleman produced a pistol and a note saying: "Dear Sir: If you give an alarm you will be killed. You will give me $200. It will be repaid in 90 days at six per cent interest. Sincerely yours, Wilbur T. Harris."

The pawnbroker pushed a button and a policeman called "Wilbur." New York—Leon Grinbaum and Leon Alterman buy Uncle Sam hot and bothered. They are stowaways from Russia. It's illegal for them to be here and illegal to send them back to Russia, because that's a land not recognized. So the two Leons are thinking of vanishing into a vacuum.

Kennett, Mo.—Police started checking up on a fire that destroyed one house and damaged eight. They said Mrs. Sarah Gibson admitted starting the fire so she could get away from her husband by going to jail.

KILLS SIX AND SELF
Jena, Germany, Mch 25.—(AP)—Seven persons were dead here in a domestic tragedy which came as a sequel to the divorce of Dr. Wilhelm Meurer, prominent attorney, and his wife.

Dr. Meurer shot and killed his wife, two children, his parents, a visitor, and himself. He was despondent over the pending separation of the family.

SENATE TO CALL DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Will Ask Chicago Officials About Conditions in the Windy City.

Washington, March 25.—(AP)—The Senate judiciary sub-committee considering the nomination to the Circuit Court of Judge James H. Wilkerson, of Chicago, decided today to call District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson in a further investigation of the appointment.

Chairman Borah said the committee had decided to invite Johnson in connection with some matters mentioned yesterday in the letter received from the president of the Chicago Crime Commission. Johnson prosecuted Al Capone, who was sentenced by Wilkerson to 11 years in the penitentiary for tax evasion.

Borah would not reveal why Johnson was being called or what part of the Loesch said the committee wanted to question him about.

Loesch's Statement

Loesch said that organized gangdom in Chicago was seeking to release Capone through control of public officials and urged confirmation of Wilkerson to aid law enforcement. He said rejection of the nomination would be claimed by the criminal organizations of Chicago as a victory.

PATROLMAN IS SHOT BY INTOXICATED MAN

Danbury, March 25.—(AP)—Patrolman Favorita Mazza, of the Danbury police department, who was shot by Salvatore Brantulino, a laborer, last night while trying to arrest the man after he had attacked two citizens with a revolver, is resting comfortably at the Danbury hospital today and his recovery is expected. One of the bullets fired at close range penetrated the policeman's large intestine, an operation performed disclosed. The other wound was a flesh wound.

ROME OBSERVES DAY

Rome, March 25.—(AP)—At the altars of Rome's numerous churches, priests today commemorated Good Friday, the anniversary of the death of Christ. Processions of the faithful went this morning to the churches of St. Peter's, St. John's and Holy Cross, where relics of Christ's passion and death were displayed.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, March 25.—(AP)—Good Friday found most of the world's financial markets closed. In New York security and commodity exchanges suspended operations, although the banks were open. European markets generally observed the day and some of them will not open until next week.

Wall Street had to wait until tomorrow to see what effect defeat of the sales tax would have on security prices here. The vote came after the New York stock market, but in San Francisco and Los Angeles receipt of the news was followed by a decline in quotations and an increase in trading volume.

Easter retail trade has been considerably smaller than last year, reports from the stores here. Cold weather was partly responsible, but Mr. and Mrs. Public apparently decided to "make the old things do" as far as possible.

C. Solidated Oil Corporation, formed through merger of Sinclair Consolidated Oil and the Fracris companies, has applied to the New York Stock Exchange for listing of 14,311,432 shares of its capital stock.

Hide prices made new low records here this week. The decline was attributed chiefly to seasonal slackening in shoe and leather trades.

GOOD FRIDAY IN N. Y.

New York, March 25.—(AP)—Meditation on Christ crucified hushed Broadway's gayety today. Temples of mirth became temples of religion for Good Friday.

At the Palace Theater, vaudeville's pinnacle, the Rev. Dr. Howard Chandler Robbins spoke at services conducted by the greater New York Federation of Churches. Lutherans attended three services at the Globe. All over New York preachers dwelt on the seven last words of Christ. The Rev. Dr. Fulton J. Sheen, of Washington preached at St. Patrick's Cathedral and the Rev. Milo H. Gates, dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, conducted a three hour service there.

"LOVE INTEREST"

London.—British film magnates have refused to produce films taken on the dangerous British Himalayan Expedition last year because they do not contain a "love interest." F. S. Smythe, leader of the expedition, says the picture contains the following items: "A 25,000 foot out Tibetan cameraman collapsed and another porter had to carry the apparatus to the top. It cost the poor devil all his toes from frostbite. All this was filmed, as well as many escapes from death and unexcelled scenery. Still, we just must have 'love interest.'"

OLD GUARD SEES GOVERNOR CROSS

Mystery Surrounds Visit of Democratic Leaders at the Capitol Yesterday.

Hartford, March 25.—(AP)—"Old Guard" Democratic leaders today refused to give out any information concerning their sudden and mysterious conference with Governor Cross at the State Capitol yesterday.

Apparently acting by agreement among themselves, they referred all questions to Governor Cross, saying that any statement must come from him as the "leader of the Democratic Party in Connecticut."

Governor Cross, however, has also refused to reveal what took place behind the closed door of his executive chamber for one hour and a half yesterday afternoon. His only statement is that "national and state politics were discussed in a general way without anything definite having been reached." There was every indication that eleven "Old Guard" leaders who suddenly appeared at the Capitol yesterday from Hartford, New Haven, Waterbury, Meriden, and Oxford, the "Old Guard" strongholds of the state, had hoped to keep their visit to the governor from the public. So far, nothing could be learned, they had no appointment.

It was the first time since he took office that Governor Cross faced the leaders of the various groups in the party who had been considered either militantly or legally hostile to him ever since the "New Guard" took control of the party.

PYTHIAN SISTERS

Will Present "The Chintz Cottage" at Odd Fellows Hall Next Tuesday Evening.

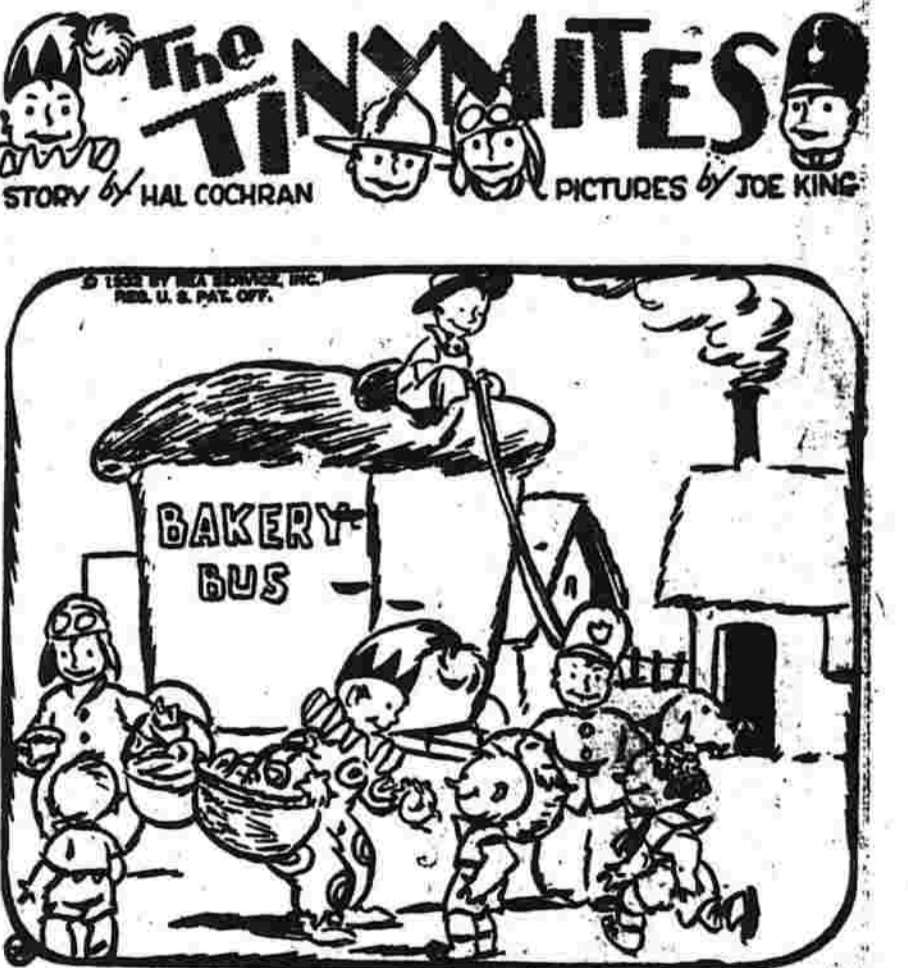

Mrs. Mark Holmes plays the leading part in "The Chintz Cottage," the three-act play which Memorial Temple, Pythian Sisters, will present Tuesday evening in Odd Fellows hall, under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Handley. Mrs. Samuel J. Kearnes, in the role of a maid, has an excellent part and handles it in a way to furnish much of the comedy. Others who will appear in the play are Mrs. Walter Henry, Mrs. Herbert Alley, Miss Lillian Copeland and Ernest Brigham of Hartford.

The play is a modern one. All three acts take place in the same living room scene, and on the same June day in England. Musical numbers will be presented between the acts and home made candy will be sold. The entertainment is under the direction of Mrs. Helen Henry, Mrs. Sarah D. Miller and Mrs. Mary Hills of Wapping.

GAS BUGGIES—Such a Relief

(READ THE STORY, THE N COLOR THE PICTURE) The Tinmites watched the town tots run up to them. "Ge, this will be fun," cried Windy. "I hope all these tots have pennies they can spend. They know what this is all about. We'll sell a lot of things, no doubt. No wonder Mister Beakerman tells us he is their friend."

 Percy—Oh, that's all right. I'm going out for more candy.

Have you heard about the Scotchman whose son had the ambition to be a musician? So the old man let the boy's hair grow and told him the rest was up to him.

It is time for all who have faith and confidence in this nation to "enlist in the fight" which the president is leading against hoarding money to bring us quickly to better times.

Secretary—A man has just called. He wishes you to tell him the secret of your success in life.
 Financier—Is he a newspaper man or a detective?

DON'T BLAME THE EDITORS FOR THE NEWS THEY PRINT. THEY DON'T MAKE IT.

Musical Teacher—Who can tell me the National air of Italy?
 Bright Boy—Garlic.

STATIC: By the way, do you remember the days when extra dividends were so common they didn't even make headlines? . . . What both political parties seem to need is the services of an eminent musician to compose their different songs. . . . Another trouble with this country is that too many of our high-toned wives are always in bed at one o'clock a. m. and p. m. . . . It seems to take more than Fleischmann's Yeast (not adv.) to make men rise to the occasion. . . . Before graduation the college student is fired with ambition—afterwards with enthusiasm. . . . Love, is what makes a man cunning in his evasions with his mother—and to the boys at the office—and then forget to brush the powder off his nose.

Harry—And at Ethel Greer's request you gave up drinking?
Harold—Yes.
Harry—And you stopped smoking for the same reason?
Harold—Yes.
Harry—And it was for her that you gave up dancing, card parties, and billiards.
Harold—Absolutely.
Harry—Then why didn't you marry her?
Harold—Well, after all this reforming I realized I could do better.

Getting married, is like having a tooth out—a man can face it more bravely if it happens to him suddenly and he has no time to think about it.

Twenty Years Ago
 Not a man was found stiff in his garage as a result of breathing carbon monoxide gas.
 No woman exclaimed to a barber: "He's all right in the front, but I don't like the way you've trimmed it at the back of my neck."

 Your ears were not assailed by somebody's excited declaration "Say, last night I got station GLUZ Hokum City, on my three tube heretogermanium."
 Nobody interrupted you at your work asking you for a word with six letters meaning a musical instrument used by the natives of the Scattered Islands of Archipelago.
 You did not hear an invitation like this: "Try some of it, Bill; I made it myself. First, you get a nice keg or a big crock then you take nine baskets of grapes, and—"
 But somewhere a mother said: "Zenobia, pull down your skirt and don't cross your knees that way."

The good old name of Smith is said to be a British family name meaning an iron worker or smith.

THE PESKY THINGS!

"What's the matter with your feet?"
 "I've got corns."
 "Why don't you do something for them?"
 "Why should I? They've never done anything for me!"—Passing Show.

SEE THROUGH THIS!

SHY SHOPPER: I want a pair of spec-trimmed hornicles—I mean sporn-rimmed spectacles—Dash it! I mean heck-rimmed spernacles—

SHOPWALKER: I know what you mean, sir. Mr. Brown, show the gentleman a pair of rim-sperned spectacles.—Smith's Weekly, Sydney

PRETTY GOOD REASON

"Why did you break off your engagement?"
 "Well, we were looking over our new house when my prospective mother-in-law said it would be small for three persons, so I gracefully retired."—Fawn, Vienna.
