

BRAVE COP NABS
FIVE HOLDUP MEN

Pretends Others Are With Him In Raid and They Submit To Arrest.

New York, April 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Frances Phillips was giving a party. The doorbell of her sixth floor apartment rang.

"Who can that be at this hour?" said Mrs. Phillips, for it was just a bit after midnight this morning.

She opened the door and five men, carrying pistols, pushed in. They swept the place with their weapons, and one of them said:

"Upsteadsley. The joint's being stuck up."

Outside the apartment building strolled Officer James R. Robinson. He was thinking how quiet is the life of a policeman.

Just then the elevator boy of the building tapped his arm.

"I say, Old Fellow," gasped the boy, "a quintet of pluguglies just rode my lift to the sixth floor, and I fear they are evil persons."

Officer Robinson rode up to the sixth floor. The door to the Phillips apartment was ajar and he walked in, pistol ready. He saw loot heaped on a table. He saw Mrs. Phillips and her three guests with their hands lifted. And he knew he had five desperate men to deal with.

Throws a Bluff

Officer Robinson is not one to be daunted. Stepping forward with utmost concern, he said:

"Come on, fellows. We've got 'em."

The "we" stuff did the business. The robbers figured there must be at least a dozen policemen behind Robinson in the hallway, so they surrendered, much to the relief of Mrs. Phillips and her guests, among whom was Miss Peggy Robbins of Springfield, Mass.

With the aid of some re-enforcements which were summoned by the elevator boy—for whom the evening was just one policeman after another—he got the prisoners to jail.

After it was over, Officer Robinson returned to his beat. On the way, he passed a placard advertising a circus. It showed a man standing in a den of snarling lions. Officer Robinson paused to gaze in open-eyed amazement.

"Gee," said Officer Robinson. "There's real nerve for you."

MRS. JUDD HYSTERICAL

Florence, Ariz., April 8.—(AP)—Her condition bordering on hysteria.

While Ruth Judd, convicted "trunk" murderess, was in the women's ward at the state prison here today, instead of her cell in condemned row. It was learned the woman, under sentence to be hanged for the slaying of Agnes and Anne Lerol, had been acting abnormally several days. She placed pieces of string across her cell, telling visitors they were "high tension wires."

Mrs. Judd's appeal from her condition was filed yesterday with the State Supreme Court. Her appeal will automatically stay execution, set for May 11. Officials said it was not likely the appeal could be acted upon by the court until late next fall.

CHILD LABOR SEEN AS DEPRESSANT OF WAGES AND ADULT WORKERS

Is Still Prevalent in U. S.; Legal Standards Far Below Those Urged by White House Conference.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Child labor was an almost forgotten social problem until the depression came along. Now, under fire of various government and private agencies, it also is revealed as an economic threat. Today The Herald presents the first of a series of three articles showing the extent of child labor and the conditions under which it is allowed to exist.

By PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Writer

White millions of adults walk the streets today in a vain search for jobs, more than a million children less than 18 years old are working for wages.

Although their elders may have nothing to do, and not even enough to eat, little children who themselves often are under-nourished have entirely too much to do. According to all modern standards at least a million of them ought to be in school.

In some cases, children actually have displaced their fathers and mothers in industry. A youngster of 14 or 15, by working a little harder, a little faster, or longer hours, can do a man's work—at lower wages. This generally marks the fall of his family to semi-dependent status.

Wages scales thus are being depressed, and the bargaining power as well as the self-respect of adult labor correspondingly weakened. Nobody is being aided. Education is curtailed, health impaired, standards of living lowered, and unemployment aggravated.

An almost forgotten social problem during the boom years, child labor now has become an economic menace. And it is still astonishingly prevalent, still present to some extent in all of its shameful forms of old.

Bureau of the of Labor de- cided to "paradox" the king from an ity to earn a they is deprived of his child's heritage. The Children's Bureau and many other agencies taking a similar view now are beginning a determined drive for corrective legislation. The reduction of child labor—and some such reduction now seems certain—will result in emergency unemployment relief and permanent social reform.

$300,000 Out of School

In preparing for their campaign, investigators themselves have been surprised at the extent of the employment of minors and the conditions under which this richest of countries still allows them to work.

Pending the compilation of complete 1930 figures, they estimate that there now are more than 3,300,000 children from 7 to 17 years old habitually out of school. In a normal year the National Education Association believes that some 2,120,000 are at work in gainful occupations.

The latter figure probably is not quite applicable to 1932 because of the scarcity of jobs for children as well as for adults. But even if unemployed, the very availability of so many young would-be workers is calculated to have a harmful effect on wages and living standards.

One In Eleven

However, in 33 states for which there are complete returns from the last census, there are about 500,000 children 10 to 15 years old gainfully employed. Of all the children in this narrow age bracket, one in every eleven is a wage earner. These figures also do not include the largest industrial states. Nor is the census concerned with workers under 10, thousands of whom are illegally employed.

Although enforced idleness is sending many immature workers back to school, large numbers of others are going out to help swell the family income—some of them actually to support their parents. In the 26 states reporting in 1930, 129,532 children 10 to 13 years old left school to take jobs.

Improvement Slow

Those are some of the hard facts of a problem which in recent years has not even been generally known to exist. Although it has been a quarter of a century since national attention first was directed to "America's shame," reforms have been effected slowly. Since 1910 the number of young wage earners has been reduced about half.

True, most working conditions have been improved. The dust-laden atmosphere of mills and mine-breakers has been partly cleared, and stripings no longer sweat out their lives in the notorious "glory-holes" of glass factories.

For all that, machines have brought new menaces to careless, awkward youth. And the minimum age limits for factory work have been raised only about two years.

Few Sections Blameless

From the Connecticut River valley where children of 9 and 10 hunch along nine hours a day in the tobacco fields, to the eastern cities with their factories, street trades and tenement work, to the southern mills and out to the western best fields, child labor is being exploited.

Farming districts are not blameless. Social agencies now consider that industrialized agriculture presents one of the most serious child labor problems. Forty-eight per cent of the young farm workers—and this means regular hired hands, not chore-boys—studied by the White House Conference were under 12, and 25 per cent were under 10 years of age.

In the truck farms and cranberry bogs of New Jersey, boys and girls, some less than 8 years old, work from eight to eleven hours a day. There are thousands of migratory child workers who are transported in trucks and housed in wretched temporary quarters. This nomadic life naturally permits little schooling.

Pennsylvania is one of the largest employers of child labor in the nation.

According to Governor Gifford Pinchot, in April, 1930, there were 225,000 children 14 to 17 years old who had left school, not all of whom had found jobs. They represented three out of ten children throughout the state.

Taking Adults' Places

"There is a tendency on the part of some employers to substitute children for adult workers," declared Governor Pinchot. "Numerous reports come in to the Department of Labor and Industry of employers who have formerly taken no workers under 16 years of age but who now are using younger children as a part of their regular labor supply."

Mill workers of 14 and 15 are on a nine to eleven hour schedule in North Carolina. South Carolina has even more lax restrictions. Children there are required to attend school only 80 days each year, and there are exemptions even to that.

Canneries, traditional exploiters of child labor, often are exempted from factory regulations, despite frequent unhealthful conditions all long hours. Last fall a U. S. Children's Bureau agent found a child of 4 sitting in a high chair and peeling tomatoes in a southern cannery. In Texas, State Labor Commissioner R. B. Gregg reported finding girls of 12 and under working as late as 1 a. m.

One class of child labor which cannot be fully reported by the census—since much of it is kept under cover—is in home industry. Always present in the poorer districts of all large cities, it spreads like a fungus in depression times. Standards set by the White House Conference on Child Health and protection, and the National Child Labor Committee, call for an age minimum of 16, except that children of 14 may work outside of school hours in a carefully restricted list of occupations.

Only two of our states, however, have this 16-year minimum, and the law of one of them applies only to factory work. Six states have a 15-year limit, but two of these have exemptions permitting work at an earlier age during school hours. Thirty-nine states have a 14-year limit, but eight of these also have exemptions. Two states have no general age minimum at all.

The White House Conference has declared for a maximum working day of eight hours, and a 44-hour week for all children under 18. For children under 16, the program calls for an eight-hour day for school and work combined. It is declared that night work should be prohibited for minors under 18, except that boys of 16 might be permitted to work in State legislation in general falls far short of these standards. Four states have an eight-hour day and 44-hour week for children under 18, but in none of them is the law all-inclusive. Thirty-seven states have an eight-hour day and 48-hour week, but there are numerous exemptions. Eight states permit nine to eleven hours daily, and 51 states permit children under 18 to work seven days a week, and seven

ALL WORK AND NO PLAY HELP SWELL THEIR FAMILY INCOME

By working a little faster, a little harder, or longer hours, a child can do the work of an older person—at lower wages. At left is a young girl standing at a bottling machine in a patent medicine plant. Another, lower center, has an all-day standing job in a hat factory. At right is a typical little totler in industrialized agriculture. She knows her potatoes, but not her A-B-Cs. Scenes like the one sketched at top are common in the poorest class homes, where whole families often are engaged in piece-work.

TWO PRISONERS KILLED BY A FELLOW CONVICT

Pittsburgh, April 8 — (AP)—Two prisoners in the Western penitentiary were stabbed to death in a fight with another inmate this morning.

The stabbing was done with an improvised knife.

The dead are Martin Connelly, 29, and Michael Ferraro, 22, both of Allegheny county.

James Gordon, 33, wielded the knife, Warden Stanley F. Ashe said. Gordon was sentenced to the Eastern penitentiary from Philadelphia and was transferred to the Western institution September 14, 1927, after he escaped.

Gordon is suffering from a knife wound. The prison physician said his condition probably is not serious.

The men met during the exercise period. Connelly died within a few minutes after he was wounded. Ferraro lived a half hour.

Warden Ashe said guards had no opportunity to prevent the stabbing and that he had not learned the cause of the quarrel.

There was no confusion among the other prisoners, he said.

It is estimated that 110,000,000 people speak German.

TO SUE COLUMBIA

New York, April 8—(AP)—Reed Harris, expelled student-editor of the Columbia University Spectator, plans to sue the institution.

The suit, in the nature of a test of the right of universities to expel students, will demand about $100,000. Attorney Raymond L. Wise said the figure would be approximately that sum.

"We are motivated by the principle of the freedom of the press rather than any desire to get Harris back into the university," the lawyer said.

Harris, whose editorials have aroused bitter controversies, was expelled after he attacked the food and management at John Jay Hall dining room. A protest strike of students Wednesday caused a riot. Arthur J. Lelyveld has been editor to succeed Harris.

RESIDENTS TO ABANDON ITALY'S SINKING TOWN

Santo Stefano, Italy, April 8 — (AP)—Complete abandonment of this two thousand year old town of 2,400 inhabitants was ordered by Premier Mussolini today following the collapse of its central district last week into ancient caverns by which it is undermined.

The premier's order was issued after experts found that the partially wrecked town rests on volcanic rock honeycombed with caverns which may collapse at any moment and swallow the remaining 200 houses left standing after last week's catastrophe.

A dozen houses tumbled into the gaping earth on March 30 and since then 50 others whose walls were cracked have gradually fallen into ruins. No one was injured in the collapse, for at the first rumble of the cracking ground over the main cavern in the town's center, the people fled to the outskirts.

The outer circle of the city still is standing solidly, but it rests on a dangerous crust of earth. Il Duce has ordered a new Villa Santo Stefano to be built a few miles away on a safe site. Evacuation of the houses still standing here has been ordered for the earliest possible moment and arrangements are being made to house the people in other villages until the government builds the new city.

Name Committees To Handle Work This Year — Is For Needy Veterans.

At a meeting of the Welfare Committee of Dilworth-Cornell Post, American Legion, held this week, Mrs. Ida Woodhouse gave an itemized list of expenditures of the poppy fund for the past year. The Welfare Committee of the Post and auxiliary is composed of the following: Mrs. Ida Woodhouse, chairman; Miss Jessie Reynolds, commander; John L. Jenney and Mrs. Stephen Hale.

Following the meeting Mrs. Edward Quish, chairman of the poppy committee called a meeting of her group and voted to order the quota of poppies for the sale of the last week of May. William Allen of Henry street was appointed publicity manager of the Legion poppy sale.

The poppy relief fund realized through the sale of these flowers gives the local post money with which to carry on its welfare work, all of which is spent in town for relieving distress among comrades

STUDENTS' NARROW ESCAPE

New Britain, April 8.—(AP)—Two men who said they lived at the Alpha Delta Psi fraternity house at Wesleyan University in Middletown escaped harm late last night when their automobile left the highway on Burrill street, plunged down a 15 foot embankment strewn with heavy rocks and stopped on the tracks of the Waterbury-New Britain line of the N.Y. N.H. & H. Railroad.

The driver told the police his name was W. W. Johnstone, Jr. The name of his companion was not obtained. The automobile was seriously damaged, three tires blowing out as the machine bounced over the rocks. Johnstone said he did not observe a curve in the road.

COUNTRY CLUB COURSE TO OPEN TOMORROW

Members Will Be Able To Play Full 18 Holes—Some New Greens Not Yet Ready.

The Manchester Country Club will open its entire 18 hole course to members tomorrow morning rain or shine. It was announced today by William R. Martin, golf pro at the club. It had been planned at first to open only the "old nine" and wait another week for the "new nine" to dry out more. Inspection, however, reveals no need for any further delay and the full course will be opened.

Regular greens will also be used at practically every hole. The new fourth green will be ready Memorial Day but the new fourteenth may not be used until late fall or next spring depending on when the new ploughed fairway is seeded.

Mr. Martin attended a meeting of state pros held in the Hotel Bond last night and reports that there is a desire to again hold the amateur-professional tournament here this year because of the genuine satisfaction with conditions last year. The club has been forwarded a letter asking for a date again this season.

AWAITING INSPECTOR FOR POST OFFICE JOB

Sand Samples Approved and When Inspector Arrives Next Week Work Will Start.

It has been learned unofficially that samples of sand that have been submitted to Washington for inspection before further work can be continued on the Federal building at the Center, have been approved. Several of the local sand dealers made bids for the supply of the sand and sent samples to Washington so it is not known just which samples have met with the approval of the government office. The department at Washington is a letter to Postmaster Ernest F. Brown received by him this morning brings the information that Paul H. Heimer of the building inspection department in Washington has been named as the government inspector for the work here and that he will arrive in Manchester on April 15 to take up his work and will remain through until the work is finished. Under his charge will be the inspection of the different materials that will be used and also the taking of the necessary pictures of the progress made in the erection of the building.

At the present time there are only three men at work. Two of them are making excavations and form boards are being laid out showing where the different supports are to be set. There is little doubt but what the sand that has met the approval of the Washington department will be ready for delivery by next week, or when the inspector arrives, and with this on hand the actual work will get underway.

"PENNY-A-SHELL"
 The "penny-a-shell" bill which is arousing such a furore of indignation among gunners all over the country, may possibly prove to be a "last straw" in the determination of a pretty important problem. That problem is whether the well intentioned efforts of game conservationists are not, after all, like prohibition, an experiment noble in purpose but a mistaken one. Whether the proper course, instead of further persistence in efforts to preserve game and continue the opportunities for hunting, would not be to abandon the whole business, let the game birds and the waterfowl disappear and save for other and more necessary purposes the large sums of money now being spent by the states and the national government in catering to a class of citizens perhaps less appreciative of their benefits than any other whatsoever.
 The penny-a-shell bill was proposed primarily as a means of raising funds for the fostering of the rapidly disappearing waterfowl which constitute in many states the principal game resource. In order, however, to avoid the injustice of requiring all gunners to contribute to such funds when in many states and many localities there is little duck shooting, the major part of the yield of the tax would be restored to the states for the propagation of upland birds.
 It has been expected that such a tax would yield about $7,000,000 a year. Of this five per cent would go to the Department of Agriculture for administration and research and 40 per cent to federal agencies for the enlarging of breeding grounds, refuges and concentration areas for migratory wild fowl. Fifty-five per cent would be allocated to the states for the propagation of pheasants, grouse, quail, rabbits and other wild game. Connecticut's share in this fund, it is expected, would be about $14,000 or $15,000 a year. If 20,000 gunners in this state fired an average of 50 shells each in the season—which they probably never do—the tax on the shells would amount to $10,000 or less than the return to the state to provide living targets for the sportsmen's guns. And at the same time it would make possible those activities which experts declare to be vitally necessary if the migratory waterfowl are to be preserved. It should be remembered that under the proposed law there would be no such tax on shells used in trap shooting at inanimate targets.
 Yet gunners everywhere are protesting vehemently against the bill. They are bombarding their senators and congressmen with telegrams and letters. They are outraged and indignant. They will most likely succeed in killing the measure.
 Last year in Connecticut the 19,000 gunners reporting to the State Commission killed, on an average, more than one pheasant each, in addition to all the other game. Almost all the 21,000 pheasants shot had been released by the state. They cost $2.77 each. The holder of a $3.25 shooting license is permitted by law to kill fifteen pheasants, fifteen grouse, ten quail and as many migratory wildfowl as the federal laws allow. The status of the Connecticut gunner is much the same as that of gunners in most of the states.
 Yet the clamor against the "penny-a-shell" bill reverberates throughout the land.
 There is much to be said in favor of the elimination of every form of taxation for the preservation of wild life. And of course of every public effort to provide gunners with something to shoot. The game laws are beginning to look like almost as complete a fizzle as the Eighteenth amendment. If the gunners won't be aided they won't be—and why should other people worry?

HOUSES AND RENTS
 According to the National Industrial Conference Board the decrease in housing rents from the peak has been 28 3-8 per cent. That decrease has been brought about by sheer inability of tenants to pay more. At the same time rents remain much higher than they were previous to the boom period, for they rose 60 per cent from the pre-war period before they stopped going up. And building prices, which actually doubled during the hey-day, have decreased only 12.8 per cent from the peak.
 These figures present a complete picture of the stagnation in building. The most sanguine investor never expected to get more than ten per cent of income out of improved real estate. If his expectations of profits from investment in building were greater than that they were based on his hopes of gradually increasing valuation and a sale some day at a big price.
 When he has to pay within 13 per cent as much for a new house as he would have had to pay in 1929, and when he must rent it for almost 30 per cent less than in those days, it is perfectly apparent that his margin of ten per cent for income has entirely disappeared—and more too.
 The situation has arisen which this newspaper predicted from the outset of this depression when we insisted that if the wages in the building trades were not completely liquidated there would soon be no building, because it would not be possible for houses, built at still inflated costs, to earn their passage with tenants' wages generally deflated. There is no building to speak of. Building trades workers are idle. Material producers are idle. Dealers in building supplies are suffering. The effects of the paralysis reaches away back to the forests, the quarries and the mines. Adjustment of building trades wages to conform to average wages would bring the costs of construction down to reasonable correspondence with the fall in rents. It would be possible for investors to see a chance to get out with a whole skin. Building would start. The business of material supply would pick up. There would be work in the factories, forests, mines and quarries. No boom, perhaps but new business, real business.
 And building trades workers would have one dollar to rub against another now and then instead of standing about with empty pockets dreaming of the "good old days" of fabulously high wages—that did so much to bring on the hard times.
OPPORTUNITY
 There may be some difference of opinion as to whether the course of the Republican state convention in ignoring the prohibition question, so far as official pronouncement is concerned, was good or bad tactics; there is none, however, about the good sense of the gathering in paying no attention to the effort of the drags to obtain an endorsement of prohibition enforcement if the convention did not intend to take an open stand on the question in the opposite direction.
 The greatest danger in this matter, as it relates to the national convention of the party, is that the platform will not be unequivocal for prohibition reform, while there is a large probability that the platform of the opposition party will contain some definite declaration along that line. If the state conventions begin by officially sidestepping the prohibition issue there is some danger that the national convention will follow suit. For that reason a good many Republicans in Connecticut will regret that the state convention here did not deem it wise to put itself on record in addition to electing a preponderantly wet delegation to the national gathering. With their candidate for the United States Senate standing forth more prominently each day as the national leader of wet sentiment, Connecticut Republicans might very well have taken a place in the van of the movement for prohibition reform conspicuous enough to command very serious attention at Chicago.
 Of course no positive injury was done by the policy adopted at Hartford yesterday. But it will seem to many that there was a loss of opportunity, the effect of which may bear somewhat upon the course of the national convention and which, by a stretch of imagination, might even have some ultimate influence upon the result of the November election.
BUTLER AND HARRIS
 President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia has long occupied a distinctive position before the American public as one of the nation's leading liberals and as head of what by common consent has come to be regarded as the country's leading liberal university. It is very difficult to see where both Dr. Butler and Columbia can fall to take on a slightly smaller stature in popular esteem unless there is some more satisfying explanation than has yet been made of the expulsion from college of Reed Harris, editor of the student newspaper "The Spectator."
 Harris was supposed to have been expelled by Dean Hawkes because of "scandalous" statements made in his newspaper concerning dining room management. But this allegation takes on the aspect of mere pretense when it is shown that the same charges that he made in the dining hall matter had been made by a previous editor in the same college paper without exciting the resentment of the authorities. Partisans of Harris in the university declare that he has been crucified for his temerity in attacking the athletic policy of Columbia—a policy which in the last few years has been created, it is suspected, by an influential group of the alumni.
 There is much to support the accusation that the expulsion of the student editor is a manifestation of a purpose to suppress the freedom of the press. This would not excite any wonderment at all if the incident had occurred in any one of many American colleges and so-called universities. But when a great liberal institution like Columbia and a famous exponent of advanced thought like Dr. Butler abandon the principle of complete freedom of thought and expression, as they appear to have done in this case, then the matter takes on a high importance.
 It is sincerely to be hoped that some new light will be thrown on this proceeding that will restore to Dr. Butler the great measure of public confidence that he has so long and abundantly enjoyed.

Health and Diet Advice
 By DR. FRANK MCQUEY
ORIGINAL THINKING
 The other day in reading a book on copyrights I came across some descriptions of suits for plagiarism where one author was suing another for stealing his brain creation. In almost every case the fact was brought out during the trial that both parties to the suit had borrowed ideas and plots from some preceding author, perhaps one long dead. This brought to my mind the fact that few people are original thinkers. The most learned men are often but memorizers of knowledge; many scientists are but classifiers of discovered facts and theories. So much has been discovered and said and thought in the past that it is sometimes difficult to distinguish between original thought and that which has been stored up in the subconscious mind. Of things we have learned or had taught us. Almost everyone grows out of childhood with a lot of prejudices and notions which must be gradually worn off and knocked out by the hard school of experience. One with a plastic mind has a great advantage because he can the sooner correct his errors.
Mental Exploration
 An original thinker is a rare individual, but even though he may be mistaken in his theories and his opinions, he can usually create a place for himself among the notable of the earth. He must learn the difficult method of thinking along original lines. He must not depend too much on others but must develop self-reliance. Even a really successful man or woman has learned to depend upon his own abilities early in life. The man who is weak and wavering in his thinking and his handling of the problems of life rarely achieves more than mediocrity.
 Children should be taught to decide problems for themselves and to act upon their own initiative whenever possible. No greater handicap can be given a child than that of pampered attention and deciding all his problems while he is still young. Would you expect the physical muscles of a child to develop if you forbade him to crawl and walk and climb trees? How can one expect the mental strength to develop if the child is not permitted to do his own thinking? Every individual who has accomplished anything of value in this world has had problems to solve and decisions to make in early youth. Important as physical exercise is, mental exercise in our present day and age is more important. Children are always asking questions; they want to know things and, when a child asks a question, it should be given a reasonable and truthful answer. Of course, the child requires the guiding hand and watchful eye of someone who has had more experience, but nevertheless, the child should be allowed to make his own decisions whenever possible and should learn self-reliance.
Work and Play
 No matter how wealthy the parents are, the child should be taught that any kind of useful work is desirable and, if properly done, enjoyable. You may remember the answer that a child gave when asked to tell the difference between work and play. The child said, "If I like to do it, it is play; if I don't like to do it, it is work."
 While children have more plastic minds than adults, it is possible for anyone to learn the sensation of

WET-DRY POLITICS MAKES STRANGE BEDFELLOWS!
 By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer.
 Washington.—Party platforms take in scores of subjects, but doesn't it strike you as peculiar that the only plank which causing discussion in either party is the one covering prohibition? Excited speculation a out that one plank has been in progress for many months, with never a word to indicate that certain other issues demand consideration.
 And that same wet-dry question, more important in politics than ever before despite the pressure of many other problems, has produced a situation in the Democratic party that no one could possibly have anticipated four years ago.
 Most of the drags among politicians in the south and west are supporting the wet. Governor Roosevelt of New York, whose bitterest opposition comes from dripping wet leaders in the east. Two of the party's most rabid drags, Senator Sheppard of Texas and William G. McAdoo, are endorsing Speaker Garner.
 Almost everyone here is convinced that Garner, if nominated, will declare for re-submission which, according to official dry warnings, would make him a wet. McAdoo has committed himself to the extent of heading the Garner state of delegates entered in the California primaries.
Hoover and Grant!
 Mr. Hoover has often of late been compared with Lincoln and Washington by fellow Republicans, but it remained for Senator Simon D. Fass of Ohio, chairman of the G. O. P. national committee, to liken his administration to that of Grant. Fass entered his "teens during the Grant period, but he is a great scholar and it is generally conceded that the scandals of the Grant administration, involving a host of high office-holders, are unmatched in American history. But Grant old Fass, addressing a Young Republicans group at Washington, said: "The opposition to General Grant in his first term was just exactly as the opposition we have in our

IN NEW YORK
IN THE NEW YORK MANNER!
 With a High Hat
 New York, April 8.—For years I have been hearing about "the New York manner." Ads in the smart magazines and newspapers referred to "dressing in the New York manner," dining in "the New York manner" or to hats, ties, shoes, apartments and what-not "in the New York manner."
 All this has been very vague to a fellow who bought the first hat anyone handed him and covered under the convincing sales line of any smart clerk. According to accepted style standards, Jimmy Walker is supposed to have all the better clothes prescriptions. Yet it has seemed to me that his duds were a little too theatrical for my tastes.
What It Takes
 At any rate, we have at hand at least something approximating a definition of "the New York manner." I begin to get an inkling of just what this expression conveys, thanks to an estate matter that bubbled up in the Manhattan courts just the other day. It seems that the father of one Marcus Daly, an 11-year-old lad, had wished the boy to be "brought up in the New York manner." Daly, Sr., died and trustees came around for permission to draw against the estate for the lad's upbringing "in the New York manner."
 And here, for your information, were a few of the items . . . Rent of a Park avenue apartment, $1,000 a month; traveling with go grass, $3,500; dentist bills, $1,000; Christmas tips, $750; school supplies and Christmas presents, $1,500; dancing school, riding lessons, etc., $500; pocket money, $250 (umm, what I could have done with a couple hundred back in Fort Hu-ron) toys, $500; entertainment, $1,000; tutor, $500 . . .
 So it goes. Obviously, to have the "New York manner" one must first have lots of "what it takes." But I wonder if Marcus, reared in any more fun than we kids who prowled about the river front, found arrow-heads and played one-o-cat on the sand lots.
 You can't tell where playwrights will turn up these days, when Wall Street rocks listlessly in the business doldrums and Congressman Strovich turns out to be a manuscript heaver. The most recent revelation concerns Julian Thompson, whose comedy, "The Warrior's Husband" is one of Broadway's ne'er opuses.
 Thompson has been a big business man for many years. He is treasurer of a big drug store chain and an executive of a Wall Street firm.
 It's at the Saturday night May-fair dances that you can check on all the wandering movie folk hereabouts. And it's there, or at the Pierrette, that you can hear whatever type of buzzing suits the ears.
 At the moment Lupe Velez, Dorothy Hall, Ros'ka Dolly and Peggy Fears are four centers of attraction. Some will tell you that Lupe took a job with the Ziegfeld show so that she would be certain of being in New York when the roving Gary Cooper returns. More likely she wants to make a large Broadway "trep" so that the Hollywood boys will know her when they see her again. Anyhow, Gary will be back any day now.
 Rozika, having just married Irving Netcher, might be expected to be in the show window. And "soch jools!" So is Carmen Pantagos, here from the Hollywoods on her honeymoon. Claudette Colbert is packing up for the West, notwithstanding the fact that the Hollywood boys will know her when they see her. She's been in the show window at the Hollywoods for some time.
 The note December 23 left instructions for the disposal of his body. Another addressed to the relative with whom he had been living and dated today, asked forgiveness for shooting himself on his property.
 He leaves a widow and three children.

HELEN JACOBS ALSO TO PLAY IN EUROPE

Berkeley, Calif., April 8.—(AP)—Invasion of European tennis courts this year by two famous California Helens was assured today with the announcement of Miss Helen Jacobs that she would leave Tuesday for Berlin.

Yesterday Mrs. Helen Williams Moody announced she would sail from New York April 27 to compete at Paris, London and Wimbledon.

Miss Jacobs said she would enter the German championship tournament next month but had not decided about other tournaments.

ART KELLEY PAIRED AGAINST ED ELLIS

Unusual interest is being manifested locally in the all-star boxing show of the C. D. K. club at Rockville next Tuesday by reason of its being the occasion of young Art Kelley of Bigelow street appearing on the card with Eddie Ellis of Rockville both 125 pound boxers.

Young Kelley is under the care of Frankie Busch and has made rapid progress since taking up the boxing game and should give the fans plenty of action. He is said to be a clever boxer and a hard hitter. Raymond Pagan will also meet young Tommie Brit of Rockville in the opener Tuesday night. Tommy Tucker and Larry Holt of New Britain, a stable mate of Jerry Verry, are matched for the semi-final bout and Steve Carr and a fast 160 lb. boxer with several knockouts to his credit will feature the final. The usual high-class card of ten bouts is attracting a great deal of interest and a big demand for ringside seats. Billy Taylor is to referee the card Tuesday night at Rockville, and the opening bout will commence at 8:30. A big delegation from town will attend the show and applaud the two local boys.

BRAVES, RED SOX BOTH BACK HOME

Boston, April 8.—(AP)—Boston's big league clubs, the Red Sox and the Braves came home today for a little rest on their home grounds before the opening of the season.

The Sox were a little downcast over the absence of Pete Donahue, their new righthanded pitcher who was left in New York to nurse a badly infected right leg.

Bill Hargrave, Braves catcher, drove in five of the Braves runs, scored two himself, had seven put-outs and one assist against Washington yesterday.

STELLA WALSH NOW OLD ENOUGH TO VOTE

Cleveland, April 8.—(AP)—Stella Walsh, the "fastest woman" sprinter, was 21-years-old yesterday and she celebrated the event by appearing before a federal naturalization clerk to swear to citizenship papers.

Miss Walsh took her citizenship step at the first opportunity in order to be eligible to represent the United States in the coming Olympic games at Los Angeles. She will receive her final papers late in the summer.

She was born in Poland and came to the United States with her parents as a baby.

PHILLIES AGAIN CAPTURE SERIES

Philadelphia, April 8.—(AP)—If either the Athletics or the Phillies feel like working hard today there's nothing to stop them, but neither team has much to gain by it.

The Phillies clinched the mythical "city championship" for the third consecutive year yesterday taking their third game from the A's 3 to 2 in 10 innings.

YALE AND ARMY IN POLO FINALS

Cadets Beat Harvard 11-4 and Bulldogs Top Penn Military Academy 15-9.

New York, April 8.—(AP)—Yale and Army are the finalists in the National Intercollegiate indoor polo championships. Polo followers already are conceding the Elis the victory tomorrow night.

The cadets played some unexpectedly good polo last night when they defeated Harvard 11 to 4 in a semi-final clash but they do not appear to be in the same class with the Elis who are rated at 21 goals on the handicap lists.

Yale, defender of the Class A title as well as the intercollegiate crown, last night gave an example of the difference between the teams by conceding the strong Pennsylvania Military College trio a seven-goal handicap and then walking away with a 15 to 9 triumph. It took the Elis nearly three periods to capture the lead but their play was far above that of their rivals, Mike Phelps, Yale No. 2, scored enough goals himself to equal the P. M. C. handicap.

The second Class D finalist was decided when the Squadron A twice eliminated Yale's junior varsity 11 to 3. Squadron A will meet the Ramapo Valley Polo Club in the final Saturday. The Class C tourney was brought down to the semi-finals with victories for the West Point officers and the Farmington Valley Club of Hartford, Conn. West Point defeated the Cleveland Riding Club 9 to 4 and Hartford beat the 124th Field Artillery trio of Chicago 8 to 5½. The other semi-finalists are the First Division of Fort Hamilton, N. Y., and Princeton University.

SCHMELING TO TRAIN AT GREENVILLE LODGE

New York, April 8.—(AP)—Max Schmeling, heavyweight boxing champion will start training May 10 at Greenville Lodge, two miles from Kingston, N. Y., for his title match with Jack Sharkey of Boston.

Schmeling is due to arrive here today from Germany and a short exhibition tour ending at Fort Wayne, Indiana, April 28.

MOORE PROVES ASSET TO MCGRAW'S GIANTS

Springfield, Ill., April 8.—(AP)—The closer the Giants to home the more clearly it becomes apparent Eddie Moore may be a mighty useful utility infielder to have around.

Eddie has filled in at second base, shortstop and third at various times this spring and has been batting well. The Giants score five runs against Detroit in one inning yesterday and three of them came home on a rousing double by Moore with the bases filled.

OLYMPIC HOPES by CLARE BURCKY

The tall kid who set an unofficial world hurdles record last year, then admitted "I'm not so hot; plenty of men can beat me," happens to be one of Uncle Sam's best bets in the 1932 Olympic games. His name is Jack Keller, of Ohio State University.

A year ago Keller stepped over the 120-yard high hurdles at the Kansas Relays in 14.3 seconds, one-tenth of a second under the world record Earl Thomson set in 1920. A few days later he was offered membership in Bucket and Dipper, Ohio State's much-coveted honor society. He refused with the statement: "They only wanted me because I happened to win some race, and not because they liked me personally. Anyway, I'm not such a hot athlete. Plenty of men can beat me."

That was early May in 1931. An outdoor season and an indoor campaign have elapsed. Keller today is national collegiate and Western Conference high hurdles champion. In his final start of the recent indoor season he eclipsed world record time in the 50-yard highs. His mark was 6.2 seconds. Watch him in the coming outdoor campaign.

THE BRITISH PAYOFF

Only a handful of our local boys will compete at Sandwich this year for the British Open championship. Among others, there will be Harry Cooper, Tommy Armour, Gene Sarazen, Walter Hagen and Mac Smith.

Probably the reason why more of our young professionals do not care to make the journey was expressed by Witty Cox, Brooklyn professional. Asked if he was going over, Witty replied, "Guess not. They don't pay off over here on honors any more."

In other words, the cash prize involved in the British Open is negligible. And a great many of our young men figure that the fame doesn't amount to much. Can it be that our professional golfers are becoming mercenary?

The Mauler's Views
 Coming to the end of his exhibition trail, Jack Dempsey gives an interesting view of himself.

"I think the tour has done me a lot of good," he says. "It has proved to me that I can still take a punch."

Those who saw Old Will in some of his bouts, notably those with Kingfish Levinson and Babe Hunt, do not have to be told that he still can take a punch. In those two, at least, he had to take it.

But the ability of a man to take a punch leaves this ringfighter a trifle cold. After all, Dempsey demonstrated that capacity in his affairs with Gene Tunney, when he

New Tax Bill To Claim One Million For U. S. Treasury; Payrolls Close To $5,000,000; Eats Cost Another Cool Million.

New York, April 8.—(AP)—Major League baseball even if it draws no better than last year, figures to put between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000 into circulation during the 1932 campaign.

In addition to this substantial contribution toward stimulating the country's business, close to $1,000,000 under the proposed new tax bill, will be collected by the sixteen National and American League clubs for the benefit of the U. S. Treasury.

Despite its proportions and well established organization, the big league game as a whole will be lucky to break even in 1932.

Nine of the 16 clubs finished "in the red" last year. The majority this season again likely to have difficulty keeping off the financial shoals despite economies effected by the reduction of salaries, and the player limit.

Only three clubs can count on doing a million dollar business—the N. Y. Yanks and Giants and the Chicago Cubs. Brooklyn was in this class two years ago and is one of the biggest potential money makers in either circuit but the Flatbush folks are flakey. Cincinnati and Detroit were hit hard at the "gate" last season. The world champion Cardinals don't make much even when they win.

All the magnates are hoping there will be no duplication of the one sided finishes of 1931. Attendance last September fell off like the leaves of autumn when the Athletics and Cards ran away from the pack.

The payrolls for the two leagues run between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 in the aggregate. The players account for at least 80 percent of this Nowadays the big league athletes travel in pullmans and live at the best hotels. The railroad expenses are more than twice as heavy.

Chain stores systems and training expenses combine to eat up close to $1,000,000.

The Manchester Hortons ended a very successful basketball season with a win over Morse Business College of Hartford, 66 to 57. Chapman and Hedlund starred for the winners. Bissell was best for the losers. The Hortons won 9 and lost only one game during the season.

BEGIN HERE TODAY SUSAN CAREY, an orphan who lives with her AUNT JESSIE on Chicago's west side, finishes her course at business school where she has met BOB DUNBAR, son of a millionaire...

Susan came out of Ernest Heath's office shaken but serene. The dreaded interview was over and with it had gone her sense of wonder and awe...

MRS. DREAR AND MRS. CHEER Mrs. Drear: Aunt Emmy gave me these pretty Muskats, but they're too nice for every day. I'm afraid to wash 'em. Mrs. Cheer: Stuff and nonsense! What's the good of nice things tucked away in a dresser drawer? Oxydol won't harm a hair of that lovely wool.

north side not far from Lincoln Park. Ben, who had been in New York, told Susan the place was just like Greenwich Village, and Susan believed him. She was a little awed at her good fortune in being introduced to such a charmed circle...

The girl strained back her curls, creamed and splashed and rinsed her face. She bathed and got into fresh clothing. In spite of herself and her almost sullen determination not to feel better, Susan's spirits began imperceptibly to rise. She felt a sense of elation as she surveyed herself in the spotted, ancient glass of the oak dresser in her room...

Nothing, Susan felt, would surprise her after the events of this altogether surprising day. Over and over again she read the letter in a street car teeming with hot humanity she rehearsed the little scene. She could not help admitting that Waring had behaved rather well. But of course it had been his own fault, she assured herself...

'DEPRESSION' DANCE AT THE REC TONIGHT

Director Lloyd Believes Dancing Should Be Provided For Young People—Charge 10 Cents.

A "Depression Dance" will be held at the School Street Rec auditorium tonight under the auspices of the Recreation Centers and admission will be only ten cents. The Junior Boys' Club orchestra of ten pieces will play from 8 until 11. Regarding the dance, Director Lloyd has the following to say: "The young people of today want to dance and I feel a proper place should be provided for them to do so where they can be well supervised by responsible people. This dance tonight will be chaperoned by members of the Recreation Centers' staff of workers. "If this dance proves popular to the young people it will be continued each week until the weather gets too warm."

Queer Twists In Day's News

Madrid—Jose Maria Mencias y Rebolede de Palafox, Duke of Zaragoza, has a job. He's Spain's foremost locomotive engineer. He took to the throttle years ago for thrills. Now he's a Republican and works by Necessity. Yesterday he piloted President Zamora.

Dracut, Mass.—Unlike Nero, Hoseman Jeremiah Angiun did not fiddle. But the results were similar. Angiun told a judge he was playing a hose on a burning house when up came Beauty and playfully turned off the water. When the fight was over the house wasn't there.

New York—Park avenue ladies are "hitting the duceen." The fifth Earl of Gosford showed them his miniature briar pipe — made for smoking between the acts. Now a lot of women are smoking them.

Washington—Take it from Mrs. Frank Mondell, President Hoover writes a terrible hand. She had so much difficulty deciphering a greeting he wrote to the League of Republican Women that Mrs. Hoover had to help her out.

Washington—To prove his inability to write poetry, Governor Theodore Roosevelt composed some blank verse. A quarterly devoted to poetry published it.

Constantza, Rumania—Thousands of quail and pigeons found a haven from death on the bounding billows. Migrating from Asia Minor to Central Europe, they were caught unaware by a cold snap.

Oklahoma City—Twenty years of patching shoes have brought financial independence to Felix Lee. To now he and Mrs. Lee are celebrating with a trip to Europe.

A brand new 12-cylinder motor car goes with them so they may tour the continent leisurely. The only patches carried will be for possible use on inner tubes.

Oklahoma City—J. C. "Raring Jack" Walton ousted as Oklahoma's governor in 1923, is to try another avenue shop.

WAPPING ASSOCIATION PLANS BIG PRODUCTION

Parent-Teachers Group To Give "Henry's Wedding" Thursday and Friday, April 14 and 15.

Mrs. Wilbur Hills is general chairman of the committees in charge of the amateur productions "Henry's Wedding," to be presented at the Wapping Grange Hall on Thursday evening, April 14, and at South Windsor Hall on the following evening, Friday, April 15. The production is sponsored by the combined Parent-Teachers Associations of Wapping and South Windsor.

A meeting was held Monday night, at which the various committees were chosen. They are as follows: Cast committee, A. Bidwell and Mrs. Holden; ticket committee, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Williams; publicity committee, Mrs. Collins; and costume and property committee, Mrs. Burger and Mrs. Stoughton. Miss D. M. Jowett, representative of the Universal Producing Company, who is here to stage the production, explained in detail the plans for handling the show.

Sodium thiosulphate has been found to be a remedy for ringworm of the feet by Dr. William Gould, of Albany, N. Y.

One secret of getting ahead

You need good health to succeed. Many a man has seen his chances go because he was too sick to keep pace with competition. Often his poor health was due to constipation.

This ailment frequently causes headaches, loss of energy, sleeplessness. It takes the "punch" out of your day's work.

Try eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Science shows this delicious cereal supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. How much safer than using pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

In the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

ANCIENT RIVALS PLAY BASKETBALL AGAIN

Swedish Lutherans Here To Meet Hartford First Lutherans Tomorrow Night.

A rivalry that has been dormant for more than a year will come to life again tomorrow night when the First Lutheran church of Hartford and the Swedish Lutheran church here renew their basketball feud at the Hartford Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 o'clock. The local Lutheran League will be represented by the Terrible Swedes and the Hartford League by the team that reached the finals in the Church League without losing a game.

Because of the intense rivalry that exists between the churches, a huge crowd is expected to be present. Plans have been made for the attendance of a large following of

DEMOCRATS PREPARING FOR JEFFERSON RALLY

Washington, April 8.—(AP)—Four Democratic presidential possibilities, including Franklin D. Roosevelt, will be absent from the party's Jefferson Day rally here next Wednesday.

The others who have declined invitations include Melvin Traylor, of Chicago, and Governor Murray of Oklahoma, who said they had prior engagements. Murray is campaigning in the west. Former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri is recovering from an operation, but will be unable to attend.

Roosevelt's notice had not been received at the Democratic National committee today, but his friends here said they thought his duties at Albany would prevent his coming.

Among the speakers at the rally will be Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Senate leader; Alfred E. Smith, Newton D. Baker, Governor Ritchie and White, James M. Cox, former Governor Byrd of Virginia, John W. Davis, Representative Rainey of Illinois, the House leader, and Nellie Taylor Ross.

Speaker Garner is expected to attend, but he will not deliver a speech.

NEWSPAPER CONFISCATED

Budapest, Hungary, April 8.—(AP)—A new daily, calling itself "Nameless News" appeared on the streets this morning but was confiscated as soon as police saw it was a substitute for the Socialist newspaper Nepszava which was suppressed earlier this week.

Typesetters on other newspapers who returned to work today after a 24-hour strike were enraged by the confiscation of the new paper, which they contended was illegal.

All other papers except Nepszava resumed publication today.

WRECK CAR BUT THEY DON'T KNOW OWNER

Two Hartford Men In Rockville Court Today Held For Taking Auto Without Permission.

Temporarily unable to tell the owner of an automobile they took without permission due to drinking too much liquor, two Hartford men, Arthur Mason and Ronaldo Leblanc, both 31 and both of 631 Park street, had their cases continued in Rockville Police Court this morning until tomorrow to give the men time to sober up.

They were arrested at 2:30 this morning when the car they were driving west on the main highway just east of Talcottville, overturned twice. Neither man was injured badly. Mason was driving and is charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. His companion is charged with intoxication.

They were still under the effects of the liquor at court time this morning and could not think who they borrowed the automobile from. The court decided to give them time to think the matter over thoroughly. The car was damaged quite badly.

HAWKS BLAMES SELF FOR CRASH OF PLANE

Worcester, Mass., April 8.—(AP)—"It was all my own fault for trying to take off from a soft field without a sufficient run. I cracked up through my own fault and I'm not going to attempt to pass the buck."

These words, mumbled through the swollen lips of Captain Frank M. Hawks today marked his acceptance of the responsibility for the crash of his big monoplane in the rocky "grave yard" of Worcester airport yesterday.

MRS. HILL AGAIN WINS GOLF TITLE

Sedgfield Country Club, Greensboro, N. C., April 8.—(AP)—For the second successive year, Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, today won the Sedgfield Country Club's women's dogwood golf tournament, defeating Miss Margaret Maddox, the Georgia champion, in the finals, 7 and 5.

The earliest history of pipe organs cannot be traced exactly, although it is assumed that they were developed from bagpipes and Pan pipes.

STUDENTS FIGHT FIREMEN

Cambridge, Mass., April 8.—(AP)—Deputy Fire Chief Cutler L. Vose of the Cambridge Fire Department today said he would seek redress for injuries suffered last night by Captain Thomas F. O'Connell in a demonstration by Massachusetts Institute of Technology students.

Captain O'Connell was bruised and cut when several hundred students surrounded fire apparatus sent to the vicinity of the institute to extinguish a bonfire. Several firemen engaged in fist fights with students who mounted the apparatus. Four other firemen suffered minor injuries.

Last night's affair duplicated in some ways a demonstration of a year ago in which several pieces of fire apparatus were seized by students.

SENATOR BORAH CHECKS JOHNSON'S STATEMENTS

Washington, April 8.—(AP)—Judge James H. Wilkerson of Chicago, in a letter to the Senate judiciary sub-committee considering his nomination to the Circuit Court, explained today his reasons for overturning the agreement for sentencing Al Capone to 2 1/2 years on a plea of guilty.

The letter was in reply to a request from the committee for his views on the case, but Chairman Borah did not make it public.

Receipt of the letter, marks the final phase of the committee's inquiry into the fitness of Wilkerson. A meeting is expected to be held within the next day or two to vote on his nomination.

Wilkerson rejected a recommendation of District Attorney Johnson that Capone be sentenced to two and one-half years after pleading guilty.

The case went to trial and Wilkerson sentenced him to 11 years.

Johnson in testimony before the committee said he felt the judge had done right.

In his letter Wilkerson said he had authorized Johnson to make the recommendation but emphasized that he was not bound by it.

This same point was made by Johnson, in his testimony, and members of the committee said Wilkerson's letter checked with most of the details of the district attorney's statement.

CHILD ELECTROCUTED

Toronto, Ont., April 8.—(AP)—Early every morning two year old Charlie McBride toddled into his "Daddy's" bedroom, turned on the light and romped with his father.

Today the little fellow entered the room as usual and climbed on a radiator to reach the electric light switch. But the room remained dark and the father did not awaken.

Half an hour later, as the morning sun light flooded the room, Charlie's sister came into the room and awakened McBride.

"Daddy," said the little girl, "isn't that a funny place for Charlie to sleep?"

The father saw the child lifeless slumped across the radiator. In reaching for the switch he had touched the light cord and the full force of 110 volts had passed through his small body.

Dip a half dozen tomatoes into boiling water, slip off the peel, and hollow out slightly at stem end. Fill with the cucumber and gelatin mixture and place on ice to become firm. Serve the tomatoes on lettuce, with a cream cheese dressing which is made by thinning the cheese with cream to the desired consistency and adding a little chopped parsley or chives. Garnish with a bit of pimento.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Amount of Drinking Water Vary-able)
Question: Mr. Peter G. asks: "How much water should a healthy person consume during the 24 hours without overworking the kidneys?"
Answer: The amount of water drunk during the day depends upon the amount of exercise taken, the weather, the amount of seasoning in food, and the proportion of fruits and green vegetables used. If one uses plenty of green vegetables and fruits, it is not necessary to drink much water. The kidneys eliminate only part of the water taken into the body. Much is also eliminated through the breath, skin and bowels. A person living on a well-balanced diet may get along with as little as one quart of water a day, but this may be increased to several quarts or even gallons in warm or dry weather, or if highly seasoned or concentrated foods are used. Unless there is a tropical condition, it is safer to drink too much water than not enough.

(Spots Following Pimples)

Question: Stella writes: "I am pleased with the results from using your diet for acne. The red lumps have disappeared, and the face is clearer and smoother; however, purple marks remain where the lumps were. Will they gradually disappear, or is there any treatment I could use for them?"
Answer: I am pleased to know that you have obtained such good results in overcoming your acne. The purple marks are liable to remain for some time, until the con- dition has entirely cleared up. A treatment with hot and cold wet application should be of assistance, and, if this does not entirely over- come the trouble, these spots should be treated with the ultra violet or actinic light.

MRS. HARRIMAN ILL

New York, April 8.—(AP)—The whole town of Arden, N. Y., is grieving—for Mrs. Mary Averell Harriman is ill. Sometimes called the Chatelaine of the Hudson Valley, the widow of E. H. Harriman, railroad king, lives in a 120-room house stocked with treasures, but she knows and takes an interest in the humblest inhabitant of the town.
Art is one of her passions but she doesn't stop with collecting Cop- leys, Stuaris and Whistlers. She has financed hundreds of poor boys and girls who wanted to study in Rome or elsewhere.

E. H. Harriman was a poor young man when he married her, and it is said a small fortune she inherited gave him his start on the meteoric career.
Little is known of her, because like Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt she has shunned the limelight. She has always tended to pay more atten- tion to charity, friends, family than to social functions.

GIRL SCOUT OFFICERS ELECT EXECUTIVES

The April meeting of the Girl Scout Officers' Association was held at headquarters on April 16 with 17 members present. The Officers' Association voted to give to head- quarters the draperies for the win- dows. The new officers elected for 1932-33 were president Mrs. Henry E. Durkee, vice president Mrs. John F. Tournaud, secretary and treas- urer Mrs. Lorin L. Joslin.

It is very important that all scouts wishing to build fires must have two permits: one from the Fire Warden of the district and one from the owner of the land. It was voted to fine each absent member 25 cents except in case of illness. It is necessary that the members attend these meetings. The Council will

RIVER IS RISING

Greenfield, Mass., April 8.—(AP)—The Connecticut River rose unex- pectedly today. At Turners Falls, 45,000 cubic feet of water per sec- ond was going over the dam. Flood gates were open at Bellows Falls, Vermont, and a 150 foot splash- board was swept away at Vermont. The rise in the river was attributed to snow which melted during the last two warm days.

CHANGE TARIFF SAYS ROOSEVELT

New York Governor To Lay Before Country Definite Economic Program.

Albany, N. Y., April 8.—(AP)—Governor F. D. Roosevelt plans to lay before the country a definite program which he believes would put it back on its feet economically. The first three points of the program—which will be an important part of his platform if he is nominated for the presidency—he explained in part last night. They were:

Restore the purchasing power of the farming half of the country. Aid the small banks and through them the home owners and farm owners faced with mortgage foreclosure by "at least as much" as the $2,000,000,000 reconstruction program for the big banks, the railroads and the corporations.

Revises "this foolish tariff of ours" to stimulate trade by permitting the other nations to sell to us so they will have funds to buy in return, creating demand to put idle mills to work.

Dozen Vital Factors The governor said these were "only part of ten or a dozen vital factors" needed to restore prosperity. He is expected to take up other parts of his program in later addresses. He spoke over the radio last night.

He directly accused the administration of President Hoover with having "totally failed to plan ahead in a comprehensive way" with waiting "until something has cracked" before attempting reconstruction work and then of thinking only of the Federal government and the local government, and by state and local governments will completely solve the unemployment problem. But it is clear that even if we would raise many billions of dollars even all that money would not give employment to the seven million or ten million people who are out of work.

Purchasing Power Turning to his first point, restoration of the purchasing power of the farming half of the population he said they had lost their purchasing power because farm products were bringing less than the cost of production and that "the result of this loss is that many other millions of people engaged in industry in the cities cannot sell industrial products to the farming half of the nation."

He probably will elaborate on his plan for restoring the farmers buying power in his St. Paul address April 18.

Explaining his plan to aid the small banks he said this would enable many banks to carry mortgages which they otherwise have to foreclose. In attacking the tariff he said that if our mills ran at 80 percent of capacity we would have to sell to other nations, as we could not use all. Under the Hawley-Smoot tariff he said we could not sell, because the only way other nations could buy from us was by paying in their own goods or raw materials which he said was impossible with the present high rates.

POPE SEES EDITOR Vatican City, April 8.—(AP)—Pope Pius today granted a private audience to Frederick T. Birchall, former managing editor of the New York Times.

ROCKVILLE

ELIMINATE 2 SCHOOL JOBS, REDUCE SALARIES

Vernon School Board Adopts Economy Measures At Its Monthly Meeting.

At the monthly meeting of the Vernon Town School Committee held in the office of Superintendent H. O. Clough it was voted that all salaries in control of the Board be reduced. This will mean that the teachers will have a five per cent cut in pay.

The teacher's committee reported on a list of teachers for the next year and the report was approved. It was proposed to do without a special teacher of drawing the coming year and to discontinue the "opportunity" room for the same period. With the discontinuance of two teachers the saving in salaries will be about $7,500.

It was the unanimous feeling of the Board that every expense not fully justified be eliminated the coming year.

Mr. Hough reported briefly on the condition of the schools. There have been a considerable number of cases of illness of pupils and teachers during the month. Whooping cough and chicken pox caused the absence of many, while others were ill of colds.

Busch Case Brought Up State's Attorney Thomas F. Noonan appeared before the Supreme Court of Hartford on Thursday where he argued the suit against the Armour Company and the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, brought by Mrs. Bertha Burkhart, administratrix of the estate of the late Mrs. Pauline Busch of Mountain street, who swallowed a piece of tin from a can of corned beef which resulted in her death.

The verdict was in favor of Mrs. Burkhart when the case was tried in the Hartford Superior Court, but the defendant appealed the case. Youngster Badly Injured Charles Melion Kibbe, 4 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Kibbe of Meadowbrook street in Ellington, is at Stafford Memorial Hospital where he was taken following an accident. His father was backing his automobile into the garage, when the youngster got on the running board. He was thrown off as the car went over a soft piece of the road and the wheels passed over his body. A specialist from Springfield was called to the hospital and an X-ray picture showed two bones in the boy's neck broken. He was placed in a plaster cast and will remain in that condition for at least six weeks. Although Charles is in a serious condition it is expected he will recover.

Rev. George S. Brookes was the speaker at the meeting of the Rockville Lions Club held at the Rockville House on Wednesday at noon. He spoke on "Noted Persons I Have Known." The committee in charge of "The College Flapper," which was presented here a week ago, reported the show was a financial success.

The nominating committee was named to select a list of officers for the coming year. They are Dr. R. C. Ferguson, Dr. Martin V. Metcalf and William Conroy. A report will be made at the meeting to be held on April 20.

Masonic Club Coming The Masonic Club of the Travelers Insurance Company will make an official visit to Fayette Lodge, A. F. and M. M., on Tuesday evening, April 26, at which time the club will exemplify the Master Mason degree on a candidate, who is employed by that company. Following the meeting there will be refreshments and music by the Temple Quartet of Hartford. The committee in charge consists of John Kynoch, Alexander McKenna, Kenneth H. Smith, Everett W. Bell, Charles E. Tennert, J. Everett North, Carlton Pease, Ralph A. Wilcox and Elbridge K. Leonard. Disatisfaction at Dobsonville There is considerable dissatisfaction among the people of Dobsonville because they are not to be accommodated with hourly bus service. The buses which now go that way are those at 7:17 a. m.; 1:15 p. m.; 4:15 and 7:15 p. m., out of Hartford; and the 8:22 a. m.; 2:22, 5:22 and 8:22 p. m. trips out of Rockville.

It is reported that the residents will hold a meeting to see what can be done about the matter.

The Friendly Class of Union Congregational church has made plans for its 26th annual banquet to be held on May 4 in the social rooms of the church. The committee are: Dinner, Mrs. Emily Liebs and Mrs. Emma Mead; entertainment, Rev. George S. Brookes, Luther H. Fuller; decorations, Mrs. Mary Gregus, Bob Gregus, James R. Quinn and Miss Flora Snyder; honored guests, Miss Edith J. Smith; tickets, Mrs. Rose O'Brien, Mrs. Annie Bilsion and Mrs. Mary Klinton.

The Rockville Emblem Club held a social and special meeting at the Elks Home on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30. Brads was played, prizes going to Mrs. Edward Burns, Mrs. Abe Fine of Rockville and Mrs. James Foley of Manchester. Mrs. Charles Redmond of Broad Brook hostess. At the meeting on Wednesday afternoon, April 15, officers will be elected for the coming year.

John Bock of School street is a patient at the Veterans' Hospital in Newington.

Miss Anna Hall of Brookly street has returned to her studies at the Academy of the Holy Family at Baltimore, after spending the recess with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hall.

SPECIAL AUDIENCE Vatican City, April 8.—(AP)—Hugh S. Robertson and Douglas Gibbs, representatives of the Rockefeller Foundation which is financing a public health center under construction here, were received in a special audience today by Pope Pius.

TWO-THIRDS OF STATES VOTE OVER 2 TO 1 FOR REPEAL OF PROHIBITION

Poll of Entire Portland, Me., Registered Voters Shows Women Voting Wet; Cause of Ballot Duplication Told By Digest Editor.

Thirty-two states representing a combined population of over 85,000,000 are voting from two to one to six to one wet as more than 4,000,000 ballots are tabulated in this week's returns of The Literary Digest according to figures published in the magazine tomorrow.

Nine states with a total population of over 19,000,000 register a dry sentiment of 40 per cent or more. Of these states Kansas alone gives a definite majority for continuance of the Prohibition Amendment, while North Carolina is almost dry.

The wettest section of the United States as evidenced by the poll figures extends from the Mississippi river to the Atlantic Ocean about the Mason-Dixon Line, with the dampest concentration in the group of states of New Jersey, New York, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

The dryest sector is the belt of twelve states extending from Texas and Oklahoma to the Atlantic Ocean including Kentucky and Virginia and excluding Florida.

The Pacific Coast states are voting slightly over three to one wet, about the same as those states in the upper Mississippi Valley.

The Rocky Mountain section registers approximately three to two wet sentiment for repeal.

A total of 4,009,499 ballots are tallied this week of which 1,046,113, or 26.09 per cent vote for continuance of the prohibition.

ance of Prohibition and 2,963,386, or 73.91 per cent are for repeal.

The dry vote shows a seventh consecutive gain during the poll ranging from 15.85 per cent of the total vote of the first week's return.

Nevada continues to lead the Anti-Prohibition column increasing its wet vote again this week to 57.73 per cent.

The District of Columbia is still voting over 3 to 1 wet.

As an answer to charges that the Poll does not represent the women of the nation, The Literary Digest tomorrow will publish returns of a special referendum of all registered voters of Portland, Maine, which was selected, it is stated, because it was one of the oldest Prohibition centers in the whole country.

The canvass was so arranged, announcement is made, that the ballots returned by women voters could be distinguished from those returned by men voters and still remain secret ballots.

14,598 ballots were mailed to men and 11,958 ballots were mailed to women, the total of which constituted the entire registered electorate of the city.

Of 3,981 replies returned by men 970, or 24.36 per cent voted dry and 3,011, or 75.64 per cent voted wet.

Of the 11,958 ballots mailed to the women 1,126, or 9.45 per cent voted for continuance of the Prohibition Amendment and 1,072, or 9.05 per cent voted for repeal.

Not including the Portland votes, the state of Maine balloted 7,826 for continuance and 17,863, or 69.54 per cent for repeal.

With the votes from Portland included, the state of Maine shows 9,922 dry vote and 22,876, or 69.97 per cent wet votes.

The Literary Digest points out that in this comparison of where the exact number of women voting is known, the returns for the state of Maine show a percentage of 69.54 for repeal and the city of Portland shows a percentage of 69.67 for repeal.

"The most important effect of this extraordinary test should be, it seems to us," The Literary Digest will state in its issue tomorrow, "to convince every reasonable person in America not only that the poll gives full expression to the will of the women of America as a whole, but also that it embodies the authentic voice of the whole people."

"Further, that every one of the other current carpings on the poll by professional carpers amounts to so much blab and weariness of the ear-drums.

"The Digest does all that it possibly can with constant expenditure of time, labor and money to guard against defects creeping into the poll."

"With jealous care it keeps on revising the list of 20,000,000 men and women. But in such a human roster—a nation in itself—could there be such a thing as 100 per cent accuracy?

"The guesses apparently have no basis that assuredly reaching The Literary Digest are examined by vigilant inspectors, quick to detect multiple ballots from the same post office, and the name of the state in the same handwriting, and that all fraudulent ones are detected and thrown out as duplicates.

"Dr. William Seaver Woods, Editor-in-Chief of the magazine, states that he has received a number of complaints from people who claim to have received more than one ballot.

lot. This he accounts for by the fact that The Literary Digest is conducting supplementary polls of lawyers, bankers, doctors and clergymen concurrently with the main referendum and the letter of instruction that accompanies the ballot in each of these minor polls informs the receiver that the additional ballot may be a duplication, but that it will not be counted in the main poll.

The eighth report in the 1930 Literary Digest Prohibition Poll giving three options on the ballot instead of two showed a total tabulation of 4,535,507 votes of which 1,248,589, or 30.09 per cent were for enforcement; 1,231,849, or 29.68 per cent were for modification; and 1,689,579, or 40.23 per cent were for repeal.

They were sending bubbles on their way. One settled on the bubble man with quite apparent ease.

It rolled around his face a bit and then it nose broke into it. The bubble went kerplow and made the poor old fellow sneeze.

He promptly jumped up to his feet and cried, "I see you're not discreet. Instead, you want to tease me. I will spank you all for this."

"We're sorry that the bubble broke," said Windy. "It was not a joke!" "Yes, have to pay," the man replied, "when something goes amiss."

Then Dunce had a real smart hunch. He gave the bubble man a punch and in his hand he held a pin. His hunch worked out just right.

The bubble man was full of air. He met his finish, then and there. One great big puff and old man bubble was out of sight.

(Something very strange happens to Dunce in the next story.)

SENSE AND NONSENSE

One thing about radio advertising: They can't put it across unless you turn it on and consent to listen.

An old man of 80 having taken to the altar a damsel of 17 the clergyman said to him: Clergyman—The font is at the other end of the church. The Old Man—What do I want with the font? Clergyman—Oh, I beg your pardon. I thought you had brought this child to be christened.

Fenelope—Surette never sees any of her husbands for alimony. Theresa—No, when she leaves them they're bankrupt.

Folks, here's a little poem by Grenville Kleiser that we think is mighty good. Read and ponder over it. It's called: PLEASANT STREET The folks that live on Pleasant Street Are just the kind you like to meet; Smiling lips and twinkling eyes That makes you think of sunny skies.

They always have a word to say That sends you happy on your way; It gives new zest merely to meet The folks that live on Pleasant Street.

Their dispositions are serene. You know the people that I mean? The kind you always like to meet, I wish more lived on Pleasant Street.

There is only one more thing to be feared: Warner Brothers and some biscuit company might combine to make talking animal crackers.

HASH: Russia is going to try to borrow some money from us. One trouble with an anti-capitalistic state is that it takes a lot of capital to run it. . . . When you want a coke and the drugstore is closed, try the nearest coal dealer. . . . Still, the only interest some people have in their government is about seven per cent. . . . The modern home is a place where everything except the children is regulated by a switch. . . . There are plenty of men who are willing to do most anything to succeed, but settle down to work and stick to it.

It was kit inspection, and the soldiers had their things laid out on their beds. The orderly walked into the room and approached Private Brown.

Orderly—Three shirts, Brown? Private Brown—Yes, sir. One on, one in wash, and one in the box. Orderly—Two pair of boots? Private Brown—Yes, sir; one pair on and one pair in the box. Orderly—Two pair of socks, Brown? Private Brown—Yes, sir; one pair on and one pair in the box. Orderly—Good! Now, where's the box? Private Brown—Don't know, sir; I've lost it.

Another? She was only the garbage man's daughter, but she inherited a swell dump.

It may be true that the new skirts are longer, but the saying that a man can't hide behind his wife's skirts hasn't yet become a fact except on days when the sun isn't shining.

Wife—Henry, you were swearing terribly in your sleep last night. Husband—I had a bad dream. I dreamed there was an angel by my side.

Wife—Surely that was nothing to swear about. Husband—Well, doggone it, the angel turned out to be you.

QUOTATIONS

Since this agitation for government wage reductions started I've been about as popular as a polecat at a picnic.

—Congressman John McDuffie of Alabama, Democratic whip.

The joke telling professor is often a horrible bore.

—Professor E. M. Chamberlin of Boston University.

Ninety per cent of the membership of the House is on record as believing the credit of the government should be sustained and the budget balanced. The only thing to do is to let the House choose and reject.

—John Nance Garner of Texas, speaker of the House.

It must be realized that there is no longer any such thing as frozen credit. It is simply lost money.

—Foreign Minister Marinkovitch of Jugo-Slavia.

We have reached a point where the aid of governments or the gifts of individuals, no matter how generous, are insufficient to meet the conditions which have come upon us.

—J. P. Morgan, financier.

PREPARE CENTER PARK FOR SUMMER SEASON

Park Superintendent Horace Murphey has placed the spring wire barriers across Center park to allow the park lawn to get started following the spring rains. Crossing the park from the east entrance to west across the grass has worn it down to a wide brown belt across this section, and citizens are asked to observe the protective barriers until the ground has hardened and the grass has started. The park department force is working today cleaning the hedges and shrubbery of leaves and the winter accumulation of paper and rubbish. Trees are being trimmed and the usual spring work is being done in all the park plots about town.

ADVANCES IN MEDICAL STUDY ARE DESCRIBED

Dr. D. C. Y. Moore Addresses Trade School Students At Assembly Yesterday.

Dr. D. C. Y. Moore was the assembly speaker at Manchester Trade school yesterday afternoon and he gave a most interesting and educational talk on medicine. Dr. Moore's subject was "The Old and New in Medicines." During his discourse he spoke on how the doctors fought against the prevailing diseases such as scarlet fever, spinal meningitis and smallpox years ago and compared it to today. Dr. Moore showed the progress that has been made from time to time and compared the modern ideas with those of yesteryear when doctors were far more handicapped than they are today. He also showed ed moving pictures of the Manchester Memorial hospital. Next week Thursday the assembly speaker will be William B. Halsted, manager of the Southern New England Telephone Company. During the past few months such prominent Manchester men as E. J. McCabe, Chief S. G. Gordon, H. C. Alvord and G. H. Waddell have addressed the Trade school students in a series of lectures on various subjects at the request of Director J. G. Echmalian.
