LA GUARDIA RAPS SOLDIERS' BONUS

New York Congressman Would Rather Help All Jobless With An Unemployment Insurance.

Washington, April 18.—(AP)—Full payment of the soldiers bonus was assailed upon a wide front today by members of Congress who fought during the World War.

La Guardia (R., N. Y.), called for unemployment insurance to help all unemployed instead of singling out one group of sufferers.

Johnson (R., S. D.) and Simmons (R., Neb.) said there should be some changes in the laws but that there should not be full payment of the bonus now.

Advocates of the payment through a two billion dollar currency inflation concluded the presentation of their case yesterday.

Under La Guardia's unemployment insurance proposal, an unemployment commission would be created to maintain an unemployment insurance fund by a welfare tax on employees and employers.

La Guardia said the committee should consider the American people through Congress have properly provided for the veterans.

On the whole, I believe that Congress has responded since 1919 to every demand and every request of the World War veterans.

La Guardia said the number of veterans who took advantage of the 50 per cent loan value authorized

SPECIAL ELECTION VOTE LIGHT TODAY

Expect Nearly 2,000 To Be Cast Before Polls Close At Eight Tonight.

Less than 800 votes had been polled at noon today on the School Consolidation measure, but indications pointed to a large evening vote as is the usual thing in questions of this kind.

The Workers The personnel at the polls today is as follows: Moderator, Otto Nelson; Checkers (Women), Joseph Moriarty and Chas. Griffith; (Men) Otto Sonnicksen and Edward F. Moriarty.

The Assessor's rooms are being used by those opposed to School Consolidation and the room used during the past winter by the Manchester Emergency Employment Association is the headquarters for the advocates of the measure.

Each of the groups are working hard to get out the vote and this afternoon several new workers have been added to the forces.

From those familiar with the situation it was learned today that a vote approximating 1,800 is expected.

The vote of the early morning on school consolidation had almost doubled, 900 women having voted at 2:45 p. m. and 585 men for a total of 885.

The program given by the Beethoven Glee Club at its seventh annual concert was one that has added another page to the colorful musical history of Manchester, and a truly wonderful addition too.

The club, founded in 1925, Helge Pearson, director, has labored tirelessly. Inspired by the dynamic personality of its leader it has earned itself a prominent position among the choral societies of New England.

And last evening's program was one highly creditable to them in the minds of all if the enthusiastic outbursts of applause may be used as a measure.

It was a new auditorium into which one entered to enjoy the work of the evening. To accommodate the combined chorus, director and accompanist the stage had been enlarged.

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS MUST TAKE WAGE CUT

President's Furlough Plan Cannot Be Adapted To Senators and Representatives, Committee Is Told.

Washington, April 19.—(AP)—Chairman McDuffie said today his economy committee had not yet been able to determine how the President's furlough plan could be adapted to Senators and Representatives and it looked "like the members of Congress will have to take a cut" in pay.

McDuffie added the House would have an opportunity next week to vote its choice between a flat salary cut and the five day work week and furlough plan proposed by the President.

McDuffie favors an eleven percent flat cut on all Federal salaries above $1,000, estimated to save $87,000,000.

He explained the committee was giving further study to the President's furlough plan, "in an effort to get it into shape for some Republican member of the committee to present it as a substitute for my proposition."

Bridgeport, April 19.—(AP)—Murder charges against Joseph Journey, Black Rock innkeeper accused of slaying Frank Buda, carpenter, were expected to reach the jury late today.

With testimony for both sides completed last Friday, attorneys began arguments at the opening of court this morning.

Journey attempted to appear at what promised to be the last day of the trial, dressed formally, but was forestalled by Judge John R. Booth.

St. Paul, Minn., April 19.—(AP)—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York has picked up the challenging gauntlet buried at him by former Governor Alfred E. Smith.

Addressing a St. Paul audience last night he denied vehemently the inference of Smith that he proposed "to set class against class" to further the ends of his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

In a voice that was carried by radio to the whole of the northwest and resounded in the nation's press, Governor Roosevelt declared himself pledged to a program calling for national "community of interests" as espoused by his party's founder, Thomas Jefferson.

Beaten by Senate Board Adverse Report Received On Bingham's Legalized Beer Measure.

Washington, April 19.—(AP)—Hope for re-establishment of a peaceful relationship with Alfred E. Smith was expressed today by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York as he started homeward after his first address in the midwest since he became a formal candidate for the Democratic nomination for President.

His address last night a reply by inference to Smith's recent attack at the Jefferson Day dinner in Washington, will be the final chapter in the recent cross-fire between the two men who for many years were close political friends, the governor said he hoped.

That is about right, it is what I hope, the governor said after newspaper comment had been read to him referring to his address as "an answer to Smith which should bring to a close the Smith-Roosevelt breach and substitute peace for misunderstanding."

A large part of Roosevelt's address was devoted to a re-statement of his discussion of water power and the tariff two weeks ago which drew Smith's fire. The latter declared his willingness to "take off my coat and fight" any candidate "arraying class against class" after referring indirectly to part of Roosevelt's original address.

Last night as the great of Minnesota Democrats whose 24 vote delegation to the Democratic convention in June has been instructed to support Roosevelt, the governor said his program called for "an opponent of classes" and after emphasizing on this theme he said "It must be treason, make the most of it."

Sees School Closed. Sherwood Bowers said that the matter of consolidation together with disclosure of conditions in one of the school districts in Hartford, had much to do with the presentation of the plan at this time.

In reply to a question by John Spillane as to the possibilities of "graft" being less under the consolidation plan Mr. Bowers replied that he did not doubt the honesty of any official either as district committee men or school board members.

Edward J. Murphy of the town school board told the meeting that the town school board, which had representation from nearly every district in town, had decided that it would take no side on the question.

TUESDAY, APRIL 19.

REFORMER GOES "WET"

The name of Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst is probably unfamiliar to many of the younger generation, but thirty-five years ago there was none better known throughout the Eastern states. A New York City clergyman, Dr. Parkhurst early in the 90's became head of the Society for the Prevention of Crime and developed into the most effective reformer the metropolis has ever known.

The Police Department at that period was more corrupt than ever before or since. It was in almost open cahoots with every sort of criminal. It had reduced the protection of vice and crime to a science. Dr. Parkhurst set out to get the proofs and did get them. His revelations brought about the famous Lexow Committee investigation, broke up "the system" and finally drove Tammany from power for three years. The name of Parkhurst was hailed throughout the land as the chief of all the agencies of civic betterment.

And now, in the late evening of his life, Dr. Parkhurst, as courageous as he was in the days of his great crusade, comes out as the unqualified and uncompromising enemy of prohibition. He disbelieves in the possibility of solving the liquor problem by drastic laws, and states his disbelief.

Of all the noted individuals who in recent years have come to the support of the anti-prohibitionists it is probable that there has been no other convert whose conversion is likely to prove so influential as that of Dr. Parkhurst. For many years he has stood at the very front of the militant battlers for better morals and better ways of life. His utter devotion to law and order is recognized by oldsters everywhere, even by those who were opposed to him in his efforts.

When such as he pronounce prohibition a complete failure and advocate its abandonment it can hardly fail to cause many very obstinate prohibitionists to take stock of their position and examine the consequences of their attitude.

PAY-ENVELOPE GIFTS

As the time approaches for the termination of the winter financing program of the Emergency Employment Association it can do no harm to take stock of the method by which the association's funds have been raised or to suggest that it might be well to revise that system.

Experience and reflection compel the conclusion that the method of dealing with the human sources of the fund has its faults. Roughly the idea has been to negotiate with the employer through the employer. Each of numerous employing factors in the community was called on to obtain the consent of its employees to contribute sums, usually fixed by percentage of earnings, the employer to withhold the contributions from the pay envelopes.

This system has one long mark to its credit—it produced the money. On the other hand it has, we are aware, produced some discontent that is not, perhaps, wholly unwarranted. It was inevitable that the contributors to the fund, since the manner of their giving soon lost all the aspects of voluntary offering, should come to feel that they were paying a tax. And with this consciousness of being taxed there arose, as was also inevitable, the question whether they were not being taxed disproportionately to other individuals—the age old suspicion and discontent of the tax payer all over the world.

Not every employed person in Manchester, by any means, fell under the operation of this system. Every contributor knew, or might know, of some person quite as well able as himself to give to the relief fund, who was giving nothing or a smaller sum or giving when and as he pleased. As for himself he began to feel that he was under duress. He was doing his bit and, apparently, getting little appreciation in return for it; he and his sacrifice were being taken altogether too much for granted. It all came back to the mood and the effect of paying a tax which a good many other folks were dodging—some of them well able to pay more than he.

So the individual contributor has been figuring it in somewhat this wise: If this is a matter of taxation why not put it on that basis formally, so that we shall all be in the same boat? If we have got to provide the money to maintain a large number of people who are out of luck and if this money must come out of the community in one way or another, why not incorporate it with the other community expenses and cover it in the budget? If necessary to change the tax laws in order that everybody shall share proportionately, by increasing the personal tax or otherwise, why not get legislative authority to do that? Then, if the care of the jobless shall prove to be a back-breaking burden in addition to our other municipal expenses, perhaps we can do some more whittling on those other expenses.

At all events, the contributor figures, we don't like these pay-envelope chops. We expect to do our share—some of us a good bit more than our share—but if we are giving we want a chance to give in the giving and not the tax-paying spirit. If we're paying a tax we want to have the tax collection strictly on the up-and-up, hitting the willing and the unwilling alike and making everybody come across.

That there is considerable justice to this position is not to be denied. Whether it is liked or not, that position has become pretty general among the pay-envelope contributors and will have to be faced.

It is our considered opinion that the system was a good one—for just one winter. It may very well be that a better one will have to be devised for the carrying on of any further relief work which in any event must be, directly or indirectly, in large part through the contributions of workers.

ADVANCE SIDESHOW

From one point of view Joutett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic National Executive Committee, is a very wise man in calling a platform committee to meet four days in advance of the national convention. The Democrats are not going to be able to frame in a minute a platform that will hold together before the kind of convention they are sure to have. Four days would seem to be none too much leeway.

On the other hand, it is entirely possible for such a committee to start a ruction that will be passed on to the convention and provide it with trouble full fledge and ready to wear; whereas the convention might possibly dodge the danger where the fracas not handed to it would up and going like a mechanical toy.

The Smith crowd want Al to be chairman of the platform committee. The Roosevelt crowd want Cordell Hull. Smith is going to be militantly wet. Hull is a dry, said to be inclined this year toward pussyfooting. Some lineup!

The only trouble with the platform committee meeting is that it will not, in all probability, be public. If it only were it might be like the sideshows where the barker ballyhoos: "The best and funniest part of the performance before passing upon the inside of the big tent!"

BEANS

We are intrigued by an editorial in the New York Herald-Tribune declaring it to be a paradoxical circumstance that New England baked beans and pork should be achieving a widespread popularity in Soviet Russia. Not at all because of what the editorial contains, for it didn't strike us as being so very smart, as for what it omitted—what every New York newspaper comment on baked beans always omits—any reference to the fact that Boston doesn't know beans and that New Englanders who supinely follow the Boston method of cooking beans do not know beans either. That there is, in a word, more bean sense in New York city itself in a minute than there is in all of Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine in a whole bean growing season.

Why these New Yorkers don't make an issue of this bean question we have never been able to understand. Without a scrap of courage they meekly yield the bean palm to Boston. And yet there isn't a beanery in the great American metropolis that couldn't give cards and spades to the best bean cook in the Hub and beat him seven furlongs in the mile.

Moreover, if New York is letting

Boston get away with a canned bean trade in Russia it ought to be ashamed of itself. Because New York bean cooks know how to produce an article of food so completely superior to the Boston variety, not only as to palatability but as to digestibility, that there is no more comparison between them than between twenty year old Kentucky statesmen's bourbon and bathtub hooch.

It seems to us to indicate a low order of patriotism and civic pride for New York to let this bean palm go by default. When will they ever learn, down there, that their own Park Row is the place for beans as is beans?

SPEED

With 13 per cent fewer accidents on the highways in 1931 the number of fatalities increased 16 per cent.

What is the good in reducing the number of accidents if the death rate is to keep on increasing? When a smaller number of accidents produces a larger number of deaths there must be a reason entirely apart from the reasons for the accidents themselves. We suspect the reason is to be found in the steadily increasing speed.

Each year the average mileage per hour increases. Each year, when an accident occurs, the impact is greater. The greater the impact the greater the liability to fatal consequences of an accident.

After all, the discrepancy in the comparative rates of accidents and deaths doesn't appear so very puzzling.

We shall not lower the death list until either there are a great many fewer automobiles on the roads or those on the roads are compelled to travel slower.

When automobile authorities finally admit that fact—which they will in the course of time—they will have a starting point from which to work for a reduction in killings. Not before.

IN NEW YORK

MANHATTANITES TAKE THE TRICKS

Those City Slickers

New York, April 19.—Well fellow cut-ups, if you're interested in following the fun fashions set by the playful city slickers of Manhattan you'll run right down to the nearest toy shop and get yourself a false mustache and perhaps a set of whiskers.

Few public and private events in New York are new complete without a couple of the big town boys giving an imitation of Jack Dalton or a circus ringmaster.

It started one night during the winter months when four tuxedoed gents walked solemnly down the aisles of a theater and took seats in the first row. When the curtain went up, the actors had to call for help to keep from getting stitches in their sides. For the four were wearing trick foliage. Within a few days, tables at the swanky night spots fairly sprouted with toy-store fringe.

Since that time, this little sport has been added to the rules of "how to be the life of the party." Hawkers sell them at the communication train stations; sidewalk peddlers peddle them in midtown Broadway and a number of cigar stands in the swanky hotels carry them in stock.

Speaking of Whiskers

Just the other night, the dignified Horace Green, publisher, changed the game slightly by greeting his guests at a home party while hiding about four inches of the walrus variety, to say nothing of a beard that would have made any member of the late Czar's guard envious.

Which reminds me that a town wit raises the question: If all the New York doormen really were members of the Czar's bodyguard, how did anyone manage to get to him?

Green, by the way, recently discovered that his Murray Hill residence was the former home of P. T. Barnum. So he served pink lemonade, pop-corn and peanuts to his guests.

Madam X to the Rescue

All of which, somehow, recalls the tale passed on by Idwal Jones abut a friend, a lawyer, who recently was named to a New York judgeship. In the rush of clearing up his legal business, the new judge forgot about getting the severe black robe worn on the Manhattan bench.

Almost on the eve of being sworn in, the judge called upon Jones for help. Nowhere, it appeared, could one find such a robe in the stores or shops. Finally a theatrical costumer was located who happened to have a grand silken garment left from the courtroom scene in "Madame X."

A hurried visit to a cleaners'—and the judge was somberly arrayed for his oath.

The Pipes 'o Scripps

Another odd search was that staged the other evening by Robert P. Scripps, of the Scripps-Howard newspapers. It seems he wanted a bagpipe, and he wanted it in a hurry, for he was getting ready to leave for a week-end with friends in the country. His host was a gent who had long boasted of his prowess as a bagpiper. Scripps had decided to call his bluff. It was not long until train time, and no bagpipe was on hand.

He called in Bob Garland, the drama scribe. Bob made a hasty closing-time visit to two big music

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

CHERRY BLOSSOMS DRAW THOUSANDS TO CAPITAL

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer

Washington.—The lovely cherry blossoms of Washington, which are all too often considered the only living thing the capital has to brag about, are observing their twentieth anniversary.

Their brief period of bloom is considered the very best time of the year to come to Washington and for weeks ahead there seems to be more interest in the question, "When will the cherry blossoms be out?" than in such problems as the budget will be balanced and whether our form of government can survive.

The people of this city, strangely enough, make as much of a rite out of visiting the cherry blossoms each year as do the folks who come all the way to Washington for it.

The first blossoms appear on a thousand trees which encircle the Tidal Basin below Potomac Park. After many preliminary excursions of investigation, the buds burst, the news is flashed to the newspapers and photographers, professional and amateur, start on the run.

Everyone Goes

The rest of Washington follows, more or less en masse. Pretty girls have their pictures taken, nestling against flower-laden boughs. The Japanese ambassador and his family, with the ladies sometimes in costume, go to pay their respects.

Everybody gets excited and fragrance mingles in the air with exclamations of admiration and delight. Arguments break out as to whether the blossoms are more beautiful this year than last.

Boys and girls, husbands and wives walk hand in hand beneath the big white trees. Sentimentally buds and blooms, sometimes reappearing in hearts where it hasn't been known for years. "Springtime in Washington" becomes a fond lifetime memory.

The twentieth anniversary of the cherry trees, coming at a time when Japan is somewhat unpopular in stores. Yes, they had bagpipes, but the manager had to admit, the instruments "had to be conditioned." They would not recommend any for "moment's notice" use. There were no papers at the local theaters, and members of a Scotch society regretted that their pipes were going to be in use.

The search ended at all places, in the offices of Attorney Francis X. Hennessy, with whom bag-piping is a hobby.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Excitement sends the blood pressure up immediately, perhaps up thirty points. If you are excited the first time your doctor examines your blood pressure, it would be a good plan to go back and have it taken over when you are more used to the procedure and feel calmer.

As a general rule, one having high blood pressure shows a tendency toward a rosy, florid complexion, is over-weight, and usually brimming over with energy and vitality such patients often being successful in business. However, even thin, pale, people are sometimes affected.

High blood pressure is frequently found associated with hardening of the arteries, obesity, nephritis and glandular disturbances. Temporary high blood pressure may occur in women at the menopause.

The common symptoms of high blood pressure are dizziness (especially when bending over), headaches, flushing of the face, sensation of fullness through the head, ringing in the ears, shortness of breath, nosebleed, bulging of the veins of the forehead, and occasionally, fainting.

High blood pressure is caused by a toxic state of the body, produced largely by dietetic errors. "Over-eating of starches and sugars is undoubtedly an important factor. Before a dangerous pressure exists harmful poisons must first have been present and circulating in the blood over a long period of time. Many other factors may make the conditions worse, among them being eyestrain, excessive use of alcohol or tobacco, mental strain, toxic poisoning from constipation, over-indulgence in pepper, spices and salt, and pus pockets around the teeth, gums or tonsils.

If the blood pressure is not reduced to safety and goes over 185 or 200, serious conditions such as complex and heart failure may result.

The cure of high blood pressure is readily accomplished by changing wrong habits of living over to good ones, first relieving the body of its toxic wastes by means of the eliminating powers of the fast and enemas. It is significant that medical authorities, such as Osler, say that "ANY EFFORT TO REDUCE THE PRESSURE BY DRUGS IS USELESS AND INADVISABLE (except in endocrine disturbances)."

The patient should rely upon natural means for successful reduction of his high blood pressure. There is no question about a cure through dietetic means if you are willing to follow a very strict diet. I have never seen a case where the blood pressure was not made more normal by this method. After the fast, when the pressure has been reduced to normal it is of the utmost importance that the patient realize that he must avoid excessive starches and sugars and that a permanent cure depends entirely upon the regulation of the use of such foods, and often upon avoiding them for a long period of time.

The patient should use frequent enemas in order to flush the toxic poisons out of the bowel more quickly. Short cool showerbaths are very beneficial, as they attract the blood away from the interior of the body and distribute it among the smaller vessels of the skin. The patient must at all times try to remain mentally tranquil as worry or anger may bring on a dangerous crisis.

After the blood pressure has near-normal by dieting, the patient should take moderate exercise, such

GRAY GETS 20 YEARS

Boston, April 19.—(AP)—"Bad Willie" Gray, bandit, was sentenced to from 20 to 30 years in State Prison today. A jury late Saturday night convicted him of three charges growing out of a holdup of a grocery store several weeks ago.

Judge James H. Sisk of the Suffolk Superior Court also gave Gray a sentence of from 15 to 15 years for assault with intent to murder Phillip Sweeney, a railroad policeman, who was shot and wounded concurrently with the longer one.

Gray invaded a store where he said he understood a payoff in a lottery was to be made. He exchanged shots with Sweeney and each was wounded. Gray was captured in a New Hampshire camp and later escaped from the Charles street jail here. He was captured late the same night.

John J. Foley of Brookline, accused that Gray's accomplice, the holdup attempt was freed when the jury disagreed in his case.

ROOSEVELT'S POSITION

Boston, April 19.—(AP)—W. H. Mitchell, president of the Liberal Civic League, Inc., today made public a telegram which he said had been received from Franklin D. Roosevelt, candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. It was in answer to a request by the league for Roosevelt's stand on prohibition.

The telegram, Mitchell said, read as follows:

"Please consider I still maintain 100 per cent my earlier expression of opinion favoring the return of control of intoxicants to the several states. That is definite. I have on many occasions agreed with your statement that the time has come for definite action."

TODAY IS THE WORLD WAR ANNIVERSARY

GERMAN PLAN NEW DRIVE

On April 19, 1918, British troops beat off several assaults on the strong positions they had taken on Mont Kemmel on the Lyse sector.

Three fresh German divisions were reported reinforcing the troops which had been on the offensive in this sector for 10 days and a further great effort to reach the channel ports was expected.

Australian and Canadian divisions which had participated in the great battle of Picardy were moved up to support the hard-pressed English soldiers.

Italian troops reached France and prepared to take their place on the western front.

The German long-range gun resumed its bombardment of Paris. Losses there were slight.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Pains in Chest)

Question: Mrs. Edna Mae R. writes: "Can you tell me, doctor, without examination, what occasional pains in the chest and around the heart would indicate in a woman fifty years old? Have been told by an alarmist these pains might mean cancer."

Answer: Pains in the chest and around the heart might be from various causes, such as pleurisy, gas pressing against the diaphragm, angina pectoris, intercostal neuralgia, pleural adhesions, etc. It is, of course, impossible for me to tell you what the pains are without having the opportunity of making an examination. Cancer is a very serious disorder and no layman should attempt to diagnose it. Do not allow yourself to be guided by such an opinion.

(Hot Cakes and Sorghum)

Question: L. asks: "What do you think of sorghum with hot cakes or waffles? Has it any particular food value? Is it fattening? It is being used using honey, but I have become tired of it."

Answer: Sorghum molasses is as good as any other kind of sugar to use with hot cakes or waffles. Only a small amount of any kind of sugar should be used and the not cakes or waffles should be baked thoroughly so as to dehydrate them as much as possible. No grease should be used in preparing either hot cakes or waffles. Some of the new thick aluminum cooking utensils require no oil or grease.

FILLING STATION ROBBED

Keene, N. H., April 19.—(AP)—Two men, armed with pistols, today held up a gasoline filling station and obtained $60. They escaped in a waiting automobile driven by a third man.

Thomas Gorges, a station employee, was forced into a back room by the holdup men after they had drawn their pistols. They then took the money from the cash register.

An unsuccessful attempt to enter the office of a coal company nearby was reported to police soon after the holdup.

Police said they believed the car used by the robbers had a Massachusetts registration.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT FAILS

Waterbury, April 19.—(AP)—Joseph Selansky, 52, took a drink he believed was poison and then turned on gas jets of his kitchen stove this afternoon but was unsuccessful in his suicide attempt. A woman neighbor chanced into his kitchen, found him unconscious and called policemen. Selansky was taken to Waterbury hospital and revived. He is married and has children. The drink he took was lemon oil.

SHOT IS HEARD AROUND THE WORLD

Short Wave Hook-Up Carries Noise — Gov. Ely Discharges the Musket.

Schenectady, N. Y., April 18.—(AP)—An echo of the "shot heard round the world," that signaled the beginning of the American Revolution at Concord 157 years ago, went riding around the globe again today on short wave radio.

The shot of today was fired by Governor Joseph B. Ely at a musket which was fired from an ancient long barreled-bayoneted musket actually used on that historic occasion.

The musket shot literally was heard around the world today over a globe girdling short wave hook-up linking the General Electric company's experimental radio station with a similar station in Holland, by relay to Java, thence to Australia, and then back to the United States. The sound of the shot returned to Governor Ely in the radio station here a perceptible split second after the trigger had been pulled.

Opens His Talk Governor Ely introduced by E. A. Wagner, manager of the Pittsfield, Mass., plant of the General Electric, opened his radio talk by a recitation from Ralph Waldo Emerson's poem of the "Emballated Farmers." "Today," Governor Ely said, referring to the beginning of the revolution, "we are passing through another period of trial and stress. Men's souls are again being tried in a great dislocation in the fields of economic, industrial and social relationships. Faith and work established our nation, and faith and work will lead us out of our present distress."

The Massachusetts governor, after he spoke before the microphone, fired the shot for news cameras. The ceremony was picked up and broadcast on regular wave length by WGY and a national hookup. Prior to the broadcast, Governor Ely chatted with persons at Sydney, Australia, standing before a microphone with a head-set clamped over his ears. It was the Massachusetts executive's first radio conversation with the Antipodes.

A hearing was held in the Rockville Police Court room on Monday morning on the accident of three weeks ago when Mrs. John Farrari of Village street, driving a Ford car, collided with a bicycle on which Kenneth and Mary Farrell, children of Mr. and Mrs. James Farrell of Village street, were riding. The Farrell children were riding on the sidewalk on Village street just as Mrs. Farrari was driving out of Becker Place, a blind corner.

The youngsters were taken to the Rockville City hospital where the girl was treated for slight injuries. Kenneth was found to have a fractured skull. He has been under the care of Dr. John H. MISS WEED DIES

Greenwich, April 19.—(AP)—Miss Emily Stuart Weed, member of a family which was prominent here during the Revolutionary War era, died at her home in West Place, last night. She was over eighty years of age.

Miss Weed's grandfather, Isaac Weed, long kept a tavern on the Post road famous for its hospitality in stage coach days. The father, in his 18th year was a member of a company which escorted General Lafayette from New Rochelle to Greenwich on an official visit. The general gave Weed a silver button from his coat which has been kept in the family.

Miss Weed was the daughter of Jacob Talmadge Weed and her mother, Marilda A. Weed, was related to John Adams, second president of the United States.

Miss Weed and her sister Adelaide Marilda Weed, who survives her, have lived in a house near the two hundred-year-old homestead which they had sold. Queer Twists In Day's News

Hilton, N. Y.—When they made cradles in 1822, they made cradles. Mrs. Lloyd Burritt has one made in that year. In it have been rocked five generations of her family—and it looks good for five more.

Avon, N. Y.—The sparrows are smart, but they can't fool the folk out this way. One bird lover built a bird house for wrens last year, using an entrance door as large as a quarter. During the winter the sparrows were pecking at it with their bills, enlarging it sufficiently so that they could use the house. The bird house owner, however, has chucked them out and fitted the opening with an iron washer. Let the sparrows try pecking at that awhile.

the MAN HUNTERS

BY MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SUSAN CAREY, 19, pretty and as plump as a peach, lives with her AUNT JESSIE in Chicago and takes a secretarial course in a downtown business school. There she meets BOB DUNBAR, heir to a fortune. She secures a position as secretary to ERNEST HEATH, architect. JACK WARING, Heath's assistant, tries to start a flirtation but is rebuffed. MRS. HEATH, young Susan. BEN LAMPMAN, a young musician, takes her to a studio party but she does not attend it. Dunbar takes her to luncheon and tells her he is going to Europe. Susan's aunt departs on a visit and ROSE MILTON stays with Susan. Lonely, the girl goes for a drive with Waring and RAY FLANNERY, employed in the next office. Waring gives her a ride which resolves never to go with him again. Ben Lampman asks Susan to marry him and will not accept her refusal as final. Waring apologizes for his childish behavior. In a newspaper gossip column Susan reads that Bob Dunbar is to be married.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVIII

"I'm afraid you'll have to work overtime tonight, Miss Carey. That was Mr. Heath's cool, matter-of-fact well bred voice. "Can you tell me your family?" It won't be long, only until about nine, but I must get this Weatherhill business finished."

"I'll call my aunt," Susan said. "Good girl," he approved. Meeting Ray in the wash room a little later, Susan mentioned that she would be working late. Ray's round, interested eyes unwinkingly survey her.

"Ooh, you've made it up with Jack then?" Susan flushed at the implication. "I'm working for Mr. Heath," she said with dignity. Ray applied a touch of mascara and stood back to judge the effect.

"That skinnit!" she disposed of Ernest Heath summarily. "He's not," said Susan indignantly. "He's very nice." "Yes, I know," Ray scoffed. "He has a castle out on the north shore and a lotta polo ponies and all that stuff and he thinks people who work for him are made of iron or something. Ever hear of a man who if you had a date, even, surmised Ray shrewdly.

"He's the kind that thinks a girl goes straight home and says her prayers every night. That is, if she doesn't happen to belong to his set or whatever they call it. Whew! The way some of these rich babies carry on is nobody's business. From what I hear, his own wife can step some herself."

Susan's curiosity was piqued, although the conversation offended her. "What do you know about Mrs. Heath?" she asked in a tone calculated to nettles Ray. Ray laughed. "Oh, I get around," she said mysteriously. "I hear things."

The entrance of a spectacled superior secretary, from down the hall ended this colloquy and Susan returned to the office. It was six o'clock. Presently it was seven and she was still toiling over her notes, the thick, white sheets in an ever-growing pile beside her. Pierson took off his eye shade, grunted at her, and departed, wearing slammed the door and went down the hall on light, dancing feet. Then the gate of the elevator clogged and the whole building seemed to re-lapse into silence.

In the inner room Mr. Heath worked over his blueprints. He was so impersonal a figure that Susan was scarcely conscious of his presence. The back of her neck began to ache and she realized suddenly that she was ravenously hungry. She looked at the clock. It was a quarter past seven. "Surely he doesn't expect me to work all evening without dinner," she thought indignantly. "Why, the man's inhuman!" She rested her head on one hand for an instant and it was at that very moment her employer looked up.

Shaken out of his absorption, Heath noticed the pathos of the weary young figure. "Good Lord, I'm completely forgot about food!" he muttered to himself. "Miss Carey, look here!" Susan sat up and shook the mists out of her eyes. "I'm sorry, I was just resting. I got so fearfully tired," she murmured confusedly.

The man came and stood beside her desk, his lean, dark face expressing his concern. "I completely forgot you'd had no dinner," he said.

said. "What shall we do about it? You must be worn out, poor child." His tone was half-humorous, half-caressing. Susan seemed to him at the moment indeed the merest child.

"Let's see," he was thinking aloud. "There's a place across the street that does very well for lunch, a sort of grill room. Suppose I ring them up and have something sent over? It will only take a few minutes. How would you like a club sandwich and milk-tea-ginger ale, anything?" His tone was decidedly jovial.

"I'm so terribly hungry," Susan confessed with a little laugh, "that anything at all would be just heaven!"

"That's that, then," announced Mr. Heath firmly, reaching for a telephone. Struck by another inspiration, he wavered. "I may as well have a bite myself," he said with the air of a man settling a momentous question.

"Look here, let the rest of that go until you've had food. You're half-dead with fatigue now and I don't want any mistakes in those figures."

Susan complied, willing enough to enjoy the respite. The man shifted some papers aside and seated himself on the edge of her desk. "There's something I've been wanting to speak to you about anyhow, Miss Carey," he said, dropping his bantering tone for a more serious one. "Miss O'Connell isn't coming back. She doesn't feel too fit and it appears she has some Florida land and proposes to go down there to live. I only learned this yesterday," he interpolated.

"What I wanted to know is, do you think you could carry on alone? It will mean a raise in salary and more responsibility. You seem rather young for the job but if I may say so we like your work and think well of you. What do you say?"

"I'm delighted," fluttered Susan. "I'll do my best and hope you'll be satisfied with me." "Good!" He smiled at her. "Why, he's really awfully nice," thought Susan. That stiffness and coldness she used to attribute to probably mean he's terribly shy.

"Where do you live?" Heath asked abruptly. She told him. Briefly she sketched in her life with Aunt Jessie in the little house. "Rather dull, eh? But you don't mind that?" The shrewd eyes twinkled at her behind the nose glasses.

"It is dull," Susan confessed, "and I do mind sometimes awfully. What further revelation she might have yielded up is impossible to say at that moment as an aproned waiter arrived staggering under the weight of a heavy tray.

"In here!" Mr. Heath directed, leading the way to his private office. "We may as well eat in comfort," that was his impulsive remark. The waiter's impulsive face behind it. If he considered it unusual for employer and secretary to lunch together in private he concealed it.

Mr. Heath fussed over the tray. There, that was Susan's. Was it all right? He was hungry himself. He had only had a bite at the club at noon. Susan who had expected to find the tete-a-tete faintly embarrassing was pleasantly surprised. Ernest Heath was an entertaining host. He talked well and seemed to exert himself to put the young secretary at her ease.

said good-night to him demurely. No, she had not minded working at all. It was quite all right. A cab? She smiled faintly. No, Aunt Jessie would probably not approve of a cab. The cars went just a block from her door. It was not quite nine. She would be all right.

Women's Votes Important
Five million votes is the aim of women in the coming Spanish poll. Three women now serve as deputies in the National Assembly, Victoria Kent, a radical Socialist and lawyer; Clara Campoamor, a radical Republican and lawyer; and Margarita Nelken, a Socialist writer. These three women disagree on the effect a large vote would have. Senorita Campoamor believes a large feminine vote would safeguard the republic's continuance. Senorita Kent believes women have monarchistic and Catholic church sympathies and that a large vote by them would upset the republic.

FAIR-HAIRED BOY LIKELY TARGET FOR ECZEMA

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiea, the Health Magazine

Investigations made in the last 20 years show that a vast number of people are sensitive to various substances and that they respond to contact with these substances by asthma, hay fever, eczema, eruptions, headaches, and various minor disturbances.

The substances to which they are hypersensitive are articles of food, the pollen of plants and many other substances in the ordinary environment.

In children the symptoms of asthma are associated with so many symptoms related to the throat the asthma, which is most common, is a festation of asthma, may be obscured.

Consequently the parents and sometimes the physician, according to Dr. George W. Bray, may label the condition recurrent bronchitis until later either the frequency of the attacks and repeated breaking out or the detection of the typical asthmatic wheeze leads to the correct diagnosis.

Such children are notoriously difficult to feed or to wear, many foods disagree with them, and they develop a distaste for foods which the parents cannot understand.

It is sometimes possible to desensitize allergic or hypersensitive children by giving them a course of treatment.

Fort Worth, Tex.—The dignity of the law was suddenly transformed into a painful incident here when Motorcycle Officer J. L. Hart and Emergency Officer R. R. Howerton halted a drunken trio in a car. "TO PER IS NOTHING"
Los Angeles, Calif.—Paul Armstrong, 16, seated at the wheel of an expensive automobile, was halted in a wide road along a boulevard by Motorcycle Officer E. J. Lynch. "Well, well, Barney Oldfield, Jr., that was a neat 70 miles an hour," commented Lynch. "Why, officer?" Armstrong said proudly, "that was nothing. I was doing 103 miles an hour. His driver's license may be revoked.

WITHDRAW MORE TROOPS
Shanghai, April 19.—(AP)—The Japanese forces here were further reduced today when 900 officers and men of the Fourteenth Division left for Japan.

Armistice negotiations between the Chinese and Japanese were expected to be resumed in a few days. In the meantime the two forces remain facing each other on a front line ten miles west of Shanghai.

Minor skirmishes take place continually, but both sides have been centering their attention upon defensive, rather than offensive action.

BE KIND TO ANIMALS

Connecticut Humane Society Sponsors Bulletins This Week on Care of Pets.

This is "Be Kind To Animals." It is often because the nose passages are not clean. The cat will refuse food when he cannot smell it.

The Connecticut Humane Society is drawing the attention of the people of the state to the national observance of this anniversary by issuing a series of bulletins on the feeding and care of pets, one to be printed each day. The suggestion is being made that these bulletins be clipped out for your scrap book and future reference.

"YOUR CAT"
Though it is difficult to provide a definite diet for a cat, because their choice of food varies widely, there are certain standards that should be maintained to keep them healthy and in good fettle.

One of the main essentials is cleanliness, and that doesn't mean bathing the cat, he rarely needs bathing.

Owners of cats frequently wonder why the appetites of their pets fail.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Your Eyes Need a "Vacation"

The prettiest eyes in the world get tired. And, when tired, no eyes can be the prettiest in the world!

If your lids seem heavy and your eyes lusterless, why not try sleeping evenings? Call a halt on social activities and go to bed with the chickens for a few nights.

Also, keep the system in good order. Drink a cup of hot water, with a half lemon's juice, on rising and on going to bed. That adds sparkle to eyes. Try it. Also try a diet of green stuffs and fresh fruits, especially citrus ones, and give up rich things and mincing between meals and late at night. The less food and the more sleep you get for a few days, the better you'll be.

Eyes show fatigue, discouragement and defeat more quickly than any other part of the body. You can put your eye on its feet again by reviving the latent beauty in your own eyes.

If you have never used eye drops, try them. There are several kinds of reputable ones that give luster to eyes.

Eyes with straggling lashes and bushy eyebrows never can quite emerge to claim the attention they should have. Do something about both your lashes and brows and then make up your eyes to look divine.

Eye shadow, especially the cream kind, should be used so carefully that no one can tell it is there. It should just make your eyes look lovely, that is all.

Some women have their eye lashes dyed nowadays. When done expertly, this necessitates only a little retouching every month or so. It is as scientifically done as dyed hair, just as successful, and certainly can add character to eyes that have heretofore been inadequately framed by pale lashes.

Germany is said to be developing a new mysterious death "tone" machine. This machine, it is said, may be able to destroy battleships and airplanes through inaudible sound waves it will send out.

YOUR CHILDREN

COMFORT COMES FIRST IN "FRAMS"

Years ago they didn't know much about baby carriages, perambulators as the British call them—"frams" for short. I like the word because it is so easy.

In the old days coaches were constructed with prudences and care, but then came an in-between period when "go-carts" suddenly appeared on the scene. Were they comfortable? No, they were not—decidedly. But they had all sorts of tricks for folding up and being transported on street corners because there were few automobiles and mothers simply had to have something that would park in a car entrance.

I am delighted to remind you, mothers, that most baby carriages are made of wood, big or little, cheap or expensive. You cannot go far wrong as to comfort no matter what you buy.

However, there are a few suggestions that may help you in selecting the right conveyance for "hiznener." When you go into a store and see scores of varieties it is hard to choose sometimes.

Guard Against Breezes
If your baby is brand new it is better to have rather deep, roomy comfortable carriage with some sort of movable hood. And if you live in a place where summer takes its time in coming and spring winds must be expected, it would be well to look at the back also. It would be a good idea to have one of those extra squares of corduroy or cloth that snaps over the open space behind not quite protected by the hood. Some carts have one, but if you don't want to go to the expense you can make one at home. That space around the baby's head, only an inch or two, should always be closed on a hot day. Besides there is a next winter.

It is wise to look ahead in other ways also. Will you be able to buy a second carriage when the baby is sitting up "chairwise" for his outings? If not, many of the varieties now have the let-down front, and turn into real go-carts. These are very nice indeed. All I would suggest here is not to get them too low to the ground because small babies should never be too close to the dusty street.

There are all sorts of push-abouts for tiny children and they answer a certain purpose, of course, but these often have no springs at all. Some carts have a quite low seat. They are all right for an older baby for a short stroll, but I have seen many beginners in them and felt like stepping up and saying to their sweet young mothers, "My dear, excuse me, but your poor baby's backbone is getting an awful rattling!"

The "pram" you choose depends largely on the age of your baby, where you live, and how long you expect to use it. Get it made in a while, don't get it on the tires, and watch the brake to see that it holds well.

MURDER IN WILDERNESS
Quemal, B. C., April 19.—(AP)—The northland wilderness, where illimitable elbow room falls to deter men from killing each other, has a new slaying mystery.

Near Frozen Antler creek, ten miles from Barkersville, the body of Mile Kopok, prospector, was found. A wound in the back of his head looked as though it had been made by a bullet.

The body was discovered about 75 yards from a cabin Kopok shared with Witold Mowokowsky during a brief partnership last year. Mowokowsky, who wintered "outside," returned a month ago. On hearing that his erstwhile partner had gone in ahead of him, Kopok, who spent the winter at Lilloet, also started toward the prospecting place.

FIND STOLEN SUITS
Hamden, April 19.—(AP)—Eighteen suits, believed part of the loot seized in the burglary of a clothing store early yesterday were recovered today by Hamden police in a shack. No arrests have been made.

The burglars took 90 men's suits and 15 boys' suits with a total value of $2,052 from the store of Max Morrison, Dixwell avenue.

High School to Open Baseball Season Tomorrow

Form Soccer League Involving Manchester

Greater Hartford Circuit To Start Next Fall; Local Inter-Class League Begins Today; Bright Prospects Here.

When the soccer season rolls around next fall, it will usher in a new schoolboy circuit known as the Greater Hartford Soccer League of which Manchester will be one of its members. Coach Hugh Greer will again direct the local athletes. Manchester made a fine showing in soccer last season and looks forward to even greater success next fall. The other five members of the new league are Hartford Public, Bulkeley of Hartford, Weaver of Hartford, West Hartford and East Hartford. Each team will meet the other twice, once at home and once on the opponent's field. The league champion will probably meet the high school which captures the southern sectional title in this state. An interclass league is due to start today and this will help Coach Greer get a further slant on any new talent which may develop before the fall campaign begins. The school team will play a ten game schedule in the league with four additional contests. Practice will start the Friday after school opens next September. Already considerable enthusiasm has been worked up over the rapid progress which the sport has made. The only last season material to graduate includes: Whitman, Ruth and G. Johnson. Greer will probably build his offense around: Davis, Corna, Grey, Fraser, Enrico, Roney, Scott and McVey and his defense around: Zaboury, J. DeSimone, M. DeSimone, Kennedy, Haberen, Leslie, Civello, Nackowski, Nichols, Ferr, Lennon, MacCauley, Henry, McCann and Camber. Several other students, engaged in other sports now, will play soccer in the fall.

OPEN VOLLEY BALL SERIES TOMORROW

Rec and West Sides Clash In First of Town Title Matches.

The game tomorrow night between the West Sides and Rec volleyball ball teams promises to be very interesting inasmuch as both teams are regarding themselves town champions. Both teams have many supporters. Volley ball fans cannot afford to miss this series as it promises to be filled with many interesting plays. The games to start at 8:30 p. m. Sam Robinson will officiate as referee, Speed Schields as umpire and there will also be other officials for the linesman calling and scoring. There will be a practice session for the Rec team tonight, 6 to 7 at the East Side building.

At four-year intervals since 1896, with the exception of the war year of 1916 when the games were canceled, an American has won Olympic high jumping honors. And why should it be different this year, particularly with a George Spitz waiting around for a chance to crack the record? The best Olympic leap, 6 feet 6 inches, was made in 1924 by Harold Osborn, former University of Illinois star. Spitz is a clinch to beat that, and perhaps Osborn's world record leap of 6 feet 8 1/2 inches. Indoors a few weeks ago, the lanky Long Islander, a sophomore in dentistry at New York University, hoisted his body over the bar at 6 feet 7 inches, tying his own world indoor record. In the series of indoor meets that followed, he leaped 6 feet 7 1/2 inches, 6 feet 7 5/8 inches, 6 feet 7 3/4 inches and, in one grand effort, 6 feet 8 1/2 inches. Tremendous form alone are responsible for Spitz's position in the athletic world. Had he been an average high school jumper, instead of an interscholastic champion from the beginning, his ungainly scissor style probably would have been changed by some coach. But because he was an exception, none tried to change him. Here's hoping the Olympic coaches will let him alone—he'll win for them if they do.

New Grid Rules Cause First Football Injury

Wilmington, O., April 19.—(AP)—The revised football rules, relating to the kickoff, were exposed today to a coach's criticism that they were responsible for the critical injury of one of his players. Tom Williams, 19, a Wilmington High school player, suffered a brain concussion in a practice game yesterday while trying to block an opponent. Coach Amos Smith said Williams, playing a guard on the defensive line, was exposed to greater possibility of injury because the new rules prevented him from meeting the full speed of an opposing player with equal force. The Wilmington team went through a 10-game schedule last season, undefeated and without a serious injury, but Smith predicted the new kickoff rule will "result in more injuries than ever."

Rickey Again Defies Cardinal Fans By Sending Slugging Hafez to Reds

St. Louis (AP)—Branch Rickey equal the 17 victories Burleigh Grimes, now with the Cubs, contributed last year. And if Hack Wilson, a between-trains Cardinal last winter, should have a good year with Brooklyn while Cardinal outfielders slumped that would be something else. The latest example of his independent judgment is the Chick Hafez deal, which some fans believe a blow to the Redbirds. Pointing to Hafez's record as a hitter, they question the advisability of sending him to Cincinnati for a young pitcher and a utility player. It was the same, though, last season when Rickey decided to sell Taylor Douthett "to the river." A none too gentle chorus cried their doubts regarding a rookie center fielder named Pepper Martin, or something like that. Even more violent were the protests late in 1926 when Rogers Hornsby, who had just led the Cardinals to their first National league and world championships, was sent to New York in a deal for Frankie Frisch. The local chamber of commerce was even moved to try to stop the trade, and there were appeals to Commissioner C. I. Landis. Eventually the furor died down, however, and Frisch went on to win the "most valuable player" award. This season, as usual, there will be a few unknown quantities on the Cardinal roster. It remains to be seen whether Rip Collins, with possible assistance from the slugging International league recruit, Ray Pepper, can satisfactorily fill Hafez's shoes in left field. There is the further problem of developing pitching strength to Ray Kolp, Reds—Scattered five hits and by shut out.

Art Shires, Braves—His singles against Giants drove in three runs.
Babe Phelps, Dodgers—Blanked Philadelphia with six hits.
Thirty applications were received for the position of Butler university football coach at Indianapolis, Ind.
Jack Coombs has started his fourth season as baseball coach at Duke university.

Stamford Star Does It Again—And How Easy!

The superiority of Ben Eastman, California middle distance star, is graphically illustrated in this unusual picture, showing the rest of the field of "also rans" far behind Blazing Ben. Just after Ben had breached the tape, it was announced he had set world's record for the half mile in 1:01.3, which was three-tenths of a second under the old record. Eastman also set a new 440-yard record this year in 46.4.

CARDS AND GIANTS BOTH UNIMPRESSIVE

Favored National League Ball Clubs Start Season With Surprising Slumps.

With the big league ball season one frigid week old today, it begins to look like the champion St. Louis Cards are to receive what is known as a run for their money in the national league. In losing their fourth straight game yesterday the champions set a new low mark for the last two seasons, dropping into seventh place. Charlie Root of Cubs set them down with four hits yesterday and would have scored a shutout but for an error by Herman in the ninth. The score was 3 to 1. The one cheering note so far as the Cards are concerned is the fact the New York Giants, generally regarded as their most serious rivals, have got away to an even worse start. Walter (Huck) Betts of the Boston Braves handed them a 7 to 1 beating yesterday sending them definitely into the basement. Cincinnati beat the Pirates 5 to 0. Babe Phelps, a sensation for Brooklyn in 1930 and a flop in 1931 made his 1932 debut by blanking Philadelphia 5 to 0 on six hits. Glenn Wright, Dodger shortstop hit a homer and two singles. The Washington Senators supplied the fireworks in the American League by beating the Athletics 15 to 1. Wes Ferrell rang up his second win of the season as Cleveland beat the Chicago White Sox 2 to 1. Whit-low Wyatt of the Tigers likewise scored victory number two and the Tigers beat St. Louis 14 to 7. The Yanks and Red Sox were not scheduled.

Do You Remember?

One Year Ago Today—Thirty-nine-year-old Jimmy Teniga, of Medford, Mass., failing 10 times in the Boston A.A. marathon, triumphed in his 11th attempt as 500,000 along the route of the annual grand looked on. Only 39 of the field of 203 runners finished the race behind Henigan.
Five Years Ago Today—St. Louis baseball fans got their first look at a major league championship bunting in 38 lean years as the Cardinals unfurled theirs in pennant-hoisting ceremonies. The Cards then knocked off the Cubs, 4 to 2, behind Snider's five-hit pitching.
Ten Years Ago Today—World heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey, vacationing in Europe, called on his "Battle of the Century" opponent, Georges Carpentier, in London, where the "flower of France" was filling a theatrical engagement.

SANDE WILL RIDE IN COMING DERBY

New York, April 19.—(AP)—Earl Sande again has designs on the Kentucky Derby. Winner of three derbies, a feat equaled only by the great Isaac Murphy, Sande once again has answered the call of the turf with hopes of being the first jockey to pilot home four winners in the $50,000 Blue Grass classic to be run at Churchill Downs, May 7. Sande hasn't yet got a mount for the race, but he has several prospects. Maxie Hirsch, trainer of Mrs. Louis G. Kaufmann's Tick On Post has promised him a mount.

USE MOST AIR MAIL

Washington—Figures compiled by postal authorities show that Pacific Coast business firms and individuals are the largest per capita users of air mail in the United States. During 1931 more than 406,000 pounds of air mail—an increase of 116,000 pounds over 1930—were shipped between Seattle, Wash., San Diego, Cal., and intermediate points.

ROCKVILLE HERE WEDNESDAY AND MIDDLETOWN ON FRIDAY

FOXYPHANN

THE FELLOW WHO HITS - AND RUNS AWAY SHOULD TUCK ALL THE BASES OR HE'LL BE BENCHED SOME OTHER DAY.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

Between now and June 16 things may become very much better or very much worse, but the Schmeling-Sharkey fight ought to draw $500,000 anyway. With a $15 top, the gate might go even beyond that. Not even the most optimistic will venture a guess above $600,000.

One Lesson Learned

Having predicted last year that the United States would win back the Davis Cup and that Cornell would be first under the wire at Foughkeepsie, this column has ceased forecasting on tennis and crew events.

About Top Flight

Old horsemen say Top Flight will not win the Derby because fillies cannot keep their minds on the race in the spring of their third year of life. The fillets.
Too Many Minds
New York baseball writers declare Schumacher of the Giants will be the city's pitching sensation. Cleveland writers believe the great discovery of 1932 will turn out to be Oral Hildebrand. Just as a rash guess, his column believes that either the New York writers, or the Cleveland writers, or both, will be wrong.

Dempsy-Carnera

While it is the unalterable belief in this corner that Jack Dempsy is not coming back at all, he is the very man to knock Carnera for a loop.

The Schaefer Bat

The camouflaged bat that Goose Goslin tried to get away with recalls the curved club that Germany Schaefer wanted to use many years ago. It was shaped like a parenthesis, mark, and it was Germany's idea that by swinging the convex surface into a ball he could get more power behind a blow. They wouldn't let him use it.

Hard On the Eyes

The theory of the striped bat of Goslin's was that it would get pitchers' goats. This was denied by Tommy Thomas of the White Sox, who declared that pitchers aim at a spot, and disengage the bat. Thomas, however, expressed the opinion that it would be disconcerting to infielders.

Herman in Form

Babe Herman started the season for the Reds in perfect form. In the very first game, he slammed one across to the fence in right center, and that's a smash in the big Cincinnati park. However, he "unloaded" over a first base ball and was hurt to a single.

The Hob Step

The United States has not won a hop, step and jump event in the Olympic games since Myer Prinstein's victory in 1904. And there doesn't seem to be a chance this year, either, with Mikio Oda coming over with the Japanese team.

Two Home Games Start

1932 Schedule; Neubauer, Smith, Pitching Aces; Many New Faces in Togs; Bristol Favored.

Manchester High will open its 1932 baseball season this week with two home games at the West Side playground. Rockville comes here for the lid-lifter tomorrow and on Friday the first Central Connecticut Interscholastic League contest of the season will be played against Middletown. Only three of the first string players who finished last season in uniform are back for the latest of Coach Tom Kelley's editions. They are Captain "Buddy" Kerr, Jimmy O'Leary and Francis Mahoney. Two other veterans are Ray Berger, one of last season's pitchers, and Dominick Squatrito, who was not in uniform at the conclusion of the season. Veterans lost through graduation are Johnny Hedlund, Roy Fraser, Johnny Tierney, Dave McConkey, Eddie Werner and Cliff Magnuson. Coach Kelley has a staff of four hurlers, the most promising of which seems to be young Billy Neubauer. Neubauer pitched for the Yankees against the Regulars yesterday afternoon and his team won by a score of 2 to 1. Another pitcher who also shows signs of developing into a dependable hurler is Bobby Smith, the tennis sensation, who transferred to Manchester High from Farmington a year ago. Another youngster who is coming along fast is Norman Lashinski. He was on the mound for the Regulars yesterday dividing the work with Berger. Smith pitched the closing inning for the Yankees and stood off a closing rally. Stanley Kataveck appears to be the most promising of all the catchers. Two others seeking the job taken care of by Hedlund last season are Mike Habern and Harold Civello. For first base, Kelley has several applicants, namely, Squatrito, Johnny Lerch, Johnny Lloyd and "Cookie" Lupton. At second, there are "Chuckie" Smith, and Cotton; at short, Captain Kerr and Andy Raguska; at third, O'Leary. In the outfield, Mahoney, leading hitter on last year's team; Rautenberg, Hickey and Jimmy August. Smith may be used in the outfield when he is not pitching. He is the first lefthand hitter with the team in making the varsity that Kelley has had in the seven years he has been coaching baseball here. All of his players, strange to relate, have swung right handed.

DEFIES INJURY TO WIN PRIZE

Philadelphia, April 19.—(AP)—Miss Helen J. Ashbrook, who doctors said last October would probably never ride again, is today the grand champion rider of the Saddle Horse Show Association of Philadelphia. Seven months ago the 18-year-old daughter of Samuel B. Ashbrook, wealthy business man was thrown by her horse and seriously hurt at the Doylestown Fair. Physicians then feared she might be permanently crippled. Prior to last night she had only ridden twice since the accident. After an exhibition which riding experts rated as the best seen in several of the Association's shows of recent years, Miss Ashbrook was awarded the title of grand champion.

BOSTON MARATHON BEING RUN TODAY

Boston, April 19.—(AP)—A place on an Olympic marathon team and the laurel of the Boston A. A. marathon classic beckoned today to 258 distance runners who waited for the starter's gun at Hopkinton, more than 26 miles of feet blistering road away. Of the crowd who will leap away at noon, however, only a small percentage were conceded a chance of winning the grind.

BOOTH STILL UNABLE TO RESUME BASEBALL

New Haven, April 19.—(AP)—A hope that he might be allowed to rejoin the Yale baseball team because of the steady improvement in his health since his recent discharge from a sanatorium has been dashed for Albie Booth, versatile Eli Athlete. Dr. David R. Lyman examined the three sport star yesterday and advised him against resuming, at this time, his athletic career. The doctor, however expressed satisfaction with the improvement in Booth's condition.

ANDOVER

At a simple, but impressive service at the First Congregational church of Andover, Friday evening, before a large congregation from this and other nearby towns, Wallace I. Woodin was ordained to the Christian ministry. Mr. Woodin has been lay pastor for the past year. Previous to that he spent eighteen years as general secretary of the Connecticut Council of Religious Education. Before coming to Connecticut he had been assistant secretary of the Ohio Sunday school association for two years, and had done similar work in Columbus, O., for a year.

On Friday afternoon Mr. Woodin was examined by a council of clergy men. He was "wholeheartedly and unanimously" accepted by the council as one to be ordained to their number. After the meeting of the council a dinner was served to the councillors, visitors and officers of the church.

In the evening the service or ordination took place. "Intermezzo" by Messinger was played by Nathan Gatchell. The report of the council was followed by the hymn of praise, "Holy, Holy, Holy," by the congregation. The call to worship was given by Rev. Marion J. Treger, of Middletown. Rev. David W. Lovett, of Willimantic, read the Scripture and an invocation was given by the Rev. George S. Brookes of Rockville. The congregation then read the confession of Faith. Nathan Gatchell offered the prayer, accompanied by a cornetist and flute player, accompanied the special choir in the rendering of the "Penitential," by Deane. During the anthem interludes were played by the musicians.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. Professor A. J. William Myers, of Hartford. Following this the prayer of ordination and the letter accompanying service was given. Rev. Theodore Alsworth Greene, of New Britain, offered the prayer. The congregation then sang the hymn of aspiration, "Spirit of God, Descend," and the charge to the candidate was made by Rev. Herbert P. Woodin, D. D., of Saybrook. The right of fellowship was extended by Rev. Charles G. Johnson of South County, preceding the hymn of consecration, sung by the congregation. Rev. Wallace I. Woodin pronounced the benediction, and the postlude "Choral" by Martin Luther was rendered by the organist.

WAPPING

There was a birthday surprise party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Graham Jr., of Pleasant Valley last Friday evening, in honor of Mr. Graham's birthday. There were five tables of setback. The refreshments consisted of pineapple ice, sandwiches, sandwich crackers, home made cake and coffee. Besides a birthday cake, Mr. Graham was presented with a silk lounge robe, a good sum of money was made for the Wapping and South Windsor school children. There was $122.00 taken in at the door at Wapping and $69.75 in South Windsor.

BANK ASSETS DROP

Waterbury, April 19.—(AP)—A decrease of 50 per cent from the book values of the assets of the Kazemkas and Company, closed private bank of this city, was shown today in the appraisal filed with the clerk of the Superior Court. PASTOR IS SENTENCED

Hartford, April 19.—(AP)—Joseph H. Stokes, pastor of the Church of the Triumphant Life on Prospect avenue, was sentenced to jail for six months and the sentence suspended and a fine of $1,000 imposed for violation of the stock sales fraud, in Superior Court today.

Stokes, son of the minister on the same charge was sentenced to one year in the county jail. The cases were presented by State Attorney Alcorn who recommended the sentences as imposed by the court. Robert F. Butler, counsel for the Stokes made an eloquent appeal for mercy for the older man. Judge Hill, said in pronouncing sentence that the court's problem was not to cut down the sentences as recommended by the state attorney, but rather to consider whether they were commensurate with the severity of their crime and penalty provided by the statute. He said it seemed clear that mercy had been extended by Mr. Alcorn in his recommendation.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

A farmer friend tells us that the price of fresh eggs has been so low since the first of the year, that his hens, instead of cackling when they lay one, blush.

To many of our dear citizens seem to think that the Lord put them on earth to pry into other folks' affairs and regulate their morals.

One morning the parcel post carrier had a package for a Mrs. Goldstein, who lives in the outskirts of the Big City. He blew his whistle several times and yelled the name of Goldstein before a voice from the top floor answered, "Yaas?"

Postman—A package for Mrs. Goldstein? Will you please come down and sign for it?

Voice From Above—Wot kinda package?

Postman—A large one.

Voice From Above—From who comes it?

Postman—From a Mr. Steinberg.

Voice From Above—From whut?

Postman—From California. Will you please come down and sign for it?

Voice From Above—Wot's in de package?

Postman—I can't tell you, madam. I don't know.

Voice From Above (in a surprised tone)—You ken't tell me wot's in de package?

Postman (losing all that was left of his temper)—No, madam, I can't.

There was a pause.

Voice From Above (finally)—Well, you'll hev to come back tomorrow. Mrs. Goldstein ain't home.

The purpose of government is not to support the people, but to maintain conditions under which they can support themselves—Probably Cain would have turned out better if Mother Eve had been up on child psychology—Other folks will tell you very confidentially how to run your business. But if you take their advice and you fail, they won't worry about it. They're likely to think that it's good enough for you—and it really is—A girl can marry the man she might love, but she ought to love, but if she marries the man she does love, it's just luck—A great many times women act dumb because it seems to be to their advantage to do so.—The younger set appear to regard marriage as a sort of endurance test—Which the one who can prove that he or she suffers more, wins the prize.—When the business of the country gets down to brass tacks we hope it won't be sitting on the pointed end—Should young men seek the advice of old men? There aren't as many facts to support this question as you might think—The first kiss used to be the climax of love—now it's merely the overture.

Some men were born for great things.
Some men were born for small;
Some—it is not recorded
Why they were born at all.

Father—Yes, my boy, I'm a self-made man.

Son—Gee, Pop, that's what I admire about you. You always take the blame for everything.

Willie Hick listened attentively one day to the story of the lamb that was eaten by the wolf.
His Mother—You see, Willie, if the lamb had remained in the fold, where it belonged, it would never have been devoured by the wicked, cruel, wolf, would it?
Willie (thoughtfully)—No, we would have had it for dinner.

Henderson—Why are you in the Air Force now? I thought you were in the cavalry.
Peterson—I got transferred.
Henderson—Why was that?
Peterson—Well, after an airplane throws you out, it doesn't generally walk over and bite you.

First Furniture Maker—That bookcase isn't an antique, is it?
Second Furniture Maker—No, but another day's work and it will be.

METAL SHORTAGE

Palo Alto, Cal.—Within a century the world will commence to feel a shortage of metals, Prof. Theodore J. Hoover, dean of the Stanford School of Engineering, and brother of President Hoover, reports. He says that the world uses more than 1,000,000 tons of metals a year and that the metal age will soon end at that rate of consumption.
