

SECRET PROBE ON OF STOCK MARKET

Senate Banking Committee, Behind Closed Doors, Decide To Send Agents To New York To Investigate.

Washington, April 27.—(AP)—A secret plan for investigation of the New York Stock Market was worked out today by the steering committee of the Senate banking committee.

At the end of a session behind closed doors, the newly formed committee was believed to have agreed to send secret agents to New York to study Stock Exchange and brokerage records.

Chairman Norbeck said the group was "working in secret on a program that will best develop the abuses of the system that all know to exist but are hard to prove."

The committee will meet again tomorrow.

WALCOTT LEFT OUT Washington, April 27.—(AP)—The steering committee in charge of the Senate investigation of the New York Stock Market was completed today and Senator Walcott (R., Conn.) who originally sponsored the inquiry, was not included in its membership.

Chairman Norbeck of the banking committee named Senator Townsend (R., Del.) to the group which will direct the course of the investigation.

Other members of the steering group in addition to Norbeck are Senators Couzens (R., Mich.), Glass (D., Va.), and Fletcher (D., Fla.).

Formation of the committee takes the leadership away from the administration group which originally sponsored the investigation into the causes of bear raiding.

The committee met today to begin the task of mapping out the future course of the inquiry.

Man hours worked in 207 plants showed a drop 4.7. Payrolls decrease in number and in cities. Postoffice receipts increased 10.4 per cent.

INDIVIDUAL BANKS PROTECT COUNTRY

Gov. Emmerson Attacks Big Banking Interests In His Address.

Richmond, Va., April 27.—(AP)—Plea for governmental economy, and a ringing denunciation of "big banking interests" were voiced today at the annual conference of governors in session here.

Governor Louis L. Emmerson of Illinois told the states' executives that although he advocated the employment of jobless men on construction projects, he believed no state should "increase the public debt for non-essentials."

His speech was made after Governor Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota had voiced a ringing "no" to the question of abolishing state banks.

He said he saw in individual banking units a protection against "economic imperialism, controlled at the top by our big banking interests."

State banks, he asserted, "are as sound as Federal banks if permitted to compete on an equal basis."

He added that "the weakness of the state banking system may be removed by state regulatory legislation."

Independent Units The speaker saw in the independent unit a "protection against centralization of credit control, and money monopoly."

Scoring bank mergers and chain banks, the speaker asserted that with the merging of the individual units, "the small business man with a financial burden, has a very restricted access to credit and what little he gets he pays for dearly at high interest rates."

"I see neither a prophet nor the son of a prophet but I am frank to say that this brand of high finance cannot long endure. I believe that today's economic imperialism, controlled at the top by our big banking interests, is bringing in the balance. It has not kept pace with our democratic political development; it has not kept faith with the people; it is calloused and indifferent to the distress and misery of the mass of people at the base of our economic structure."

Asserting that the failure of many state banks in his own state, particularly in agricultural districts, did not result entirely from mismanagement and lack of adequate regulation, Governor Olson charged that the Federal Reserve bank "ruthlessly singled out agriculture for deflation."

"Evidence is not wanting," he said. (Continued on Page Three)

ROOSEVELT IS DEFEATED IN BAY STATE PRIMARY

All of Massachusetts' 36 Votes Go To Smith—Vote Almost 3 To 1—Wet Republicans Elected.

Boston, April 27.—(AP)—Massachusetts' 36 votes in the 1932 Democratic convention today were pledged to Alfred E. Smith.

Repeating his success in 1928, when as the Democratic standard bearer he carried Massachusetts, Smith swept through in yesterday's presidential primary to a decisive victory over Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt.

A Smith-pledged slate of delegates at large, headed by a trio consisting of Gov. Joseph B. Ely, and United States Senators David I. Walsh and Marcus A. Coolidge, crushed the Roosevelt slate led by Mayor James M. Curley by a vote of nearly three to one.

President Hoover received 33 of the 36 votes which Massachusetts will have in the Republican convention. He was assured of 31 through lack of opposition, before the primary. The one Republican delegate not pledged to Hoover is William F. Whiting of Holyoke, intimate friend of Calvin Coolidge and successor to the secretary of commerce in the Coolidge Cabinet. He refused to be pledged.

Wets Victorious The only contest in which prohibition was involved was won by a pair of anti-prohibitionist Republican candidates pledged to President Hoover in the Ninth district over two prohibition candidates, also pledged to the President. The winners were Mayor Sinclair Weeks of Newton, son of the late Secretary of War John W. Weeks, and State Representative Albert F. Bigelow.

The total vote cast in the primary ran more than 100,000, twice as large as that cast four years ago, but much less than political leaders had anticipated. Inclement weather and unforeseen apathy in many of the districts of Greater Boston appeared to have contributed to the lightness of the vote.

Bitter Campaign Smith's victory came after one of the most bitterly fought campaigns in the history of Massachusetts. A feud of several years standing between Mayor Curley and the regular Democratic state organization, as personified by Gov. Ely and Frank J. Donahue, state chairman, who named the Smith slate, cast a shadow over the campaign that at times almost hid the real issue—Smith or Roosevelt.

The defeat came as a severe blow to the "Roosevelt" faction. Bishop Page endorsed the appointment of ecclesiastical curts to determine what remarriages the church accept. Bishop McDowell urged the church to stand inflexibly by her principles, but also pointed out she had a duty to those who have broken the principles.

Widener sanction by the church to remarriage was advocated by Bishop Page on the ground that the teaching of Christ and the experience of the church should be followed. (Continued on Page Three)

SMITH VICTOR IN NEW HAVEN; 148 AGAINST 11

In Norwalk Opinion Is Divided As Delegates Are Unpledged—McNeil Claims Victory For "New Guard."

(By Associated Press) What with primary returns from Massachusetts and Pennsylvania to be read with those of the Democratic primaries in New Haven and Norwalk, political developments today made interesting news for those who have been following the party contests in Connecticut.

In New Haven, Democratic organization under Town Chairman David J. McCoy swept the city by taking 31 of the 33 wards in the voting for delegates to town convention which tomorrow night will elect 61 delegates to the State Convention next month.

The delegates in town convention will have 148 favoring Smith for presidency against 11 who support Franklin D. Roosevelt. The outcome is expected to be pledging of the 61 delegates to vote for Smith delegates to the National convention and adoption of the unit rule.

In Norwalk the battle had a divided result. It was asserted today, the Smith men claiming the 16 delegates to the state convention will be for Smith, although unpledged, and the Roosevelt men claiming that the delegation will be free to vote as it desires. The battle was over the leadership of Paul Conroy, state committeeman for about 15 years who is regarded as one of the county veteran leaders. He was beaten out by Dr. R. W. Whigham, a supporter of Archibald McNeil, Jr., candidate for reelection to the National committee. Of the outcome Mr. McNeil said today:

"The victory in Norwalk means that Fairfield county is lined up with Middlesex, Windham, Litchfield and New London counties in the ranks of the New Guard and will go to the state convention ready to support the plans of the 'New Guard.' The Norwalk victory, also won by Dr. Whigham, means that Fairfield county will be almost 100 per cent New Guard organization. We believe the Norwalk delegation will be free to vote as it wishes and that it is not a Smith delegation as has been claimed. The victory of the 'New Guard' in Norwalk means the defeat of Paul Conroy who for many years has been recognized as one of the strongest Fairfield county leaders. The Old Guard lost one delegate in Dr. M. Wolfe.

On the Smith side, Thomas J. Sperry of Hartford said that no comment was to be made for the reason that the results in New Haven for the state, the election of a Smith delegation in Norwalk, and the results in Massachusetts made it unnecessary to reiterate how the Democratic opinion is split. The primaries tonight are in Bridgeport. It is asserted the New Guard ticket will be carried. In two districts there are contests but these are over district leadership and it is claimed to have no bearing upon the general issue.

The rest of the state will have Democratic primaries tomorrow night. (Continued on Page Three) Episcopal Congress Held In Hartford Presents Various Views On the Subject.

CHURCHMEN DEBATE DIVORCE PROBLEMS

Hartford, Conn., April 27.—(AP)—Clergy and laymen attending the National Episcopal Congress turned today from a spirited discussion of the church's attitude toward remarriage of divorce persons to a study of religion's interest in changing economic conditions.

Spencer Miller, consultant on industrial relations of the National Council, and the Rev. J. Howard Mellish of Holy Trinity church, Brooklyn, were to lead the debate on economics at the afternoon session.

The morning was devoted to a communion service, with Bishop John T. Dallas of New Hampshire delivering the sermon. The program of divorce, which opened the conference last night, brought a presentation of diverging attitudes by Bishop Herman Page of Michigan, chairman of the general conventions marriage and divorce committee and Bishop William G. McDowell of Alabama.

Bishop Page endorsed the appointment of ecclesiastical curts to determine what remarriages the church accept. Bishop McDowell urged the church to stand inflexibly by her principles, but also pointed out she had a duty to those who have broken the principles.

Widener sanction by the church to remarriage was advocated by Bishop Page on the ground that the teaching of Christ and the experience of the church should be followed. (Continued on Page Three)

PRESIDENT POINTS WAY TO DEPRESSION'S CURE

Gov. Cross Outlines His Economic Theory

Richmond, Va., April 27.—(AP)—The doctrine of lavish government expenditure as a promoter of economic prosperity was said today by Governor Wilbur L. Cross, of Connecticut to be "unsound in theory, and its fallacy has been demonstrated by the experience of recent years."

Addressing the annual conference of governors here on "reduction in the expenditures of government," Governor Cross said that in the prosperity phase of the business cycle, it should be the care of government, as of the wise individual, to exercise caution and refuse to be swept along too fast on the wave of speculative optimism.

"In the period of depression, government should adjust itself to bad times just as the people must do and, by economy and careful control of expenditures, seek to live as

Reduced Expenditures, Better Distributed Taxation and Balanced Budgets Necessary, He Tells Governors — But To Do This Executives Must Have the Solid Support of the People Themselves, He Declares.

Richmond, Va., April 27.—(AP)—As "the sure highway to national recovery," President Hoover cited to the governors conference today the "absolute necessity" of reduced expenditures, "or distributed taxation, and balanced budgets on the part of government."

Town councils, county commissions, state legislatures and the Congress agree on these fundamentals, he said, but to accomplish them "we must have the intelligent support of the people themselves, that selfish vested interest and vested habit do not, by their organized sectional and group oppositions or individual action, defeat these high purposes."

Expressing a wish for greater co-operation toward settling governmental problems, he suggested that the governors sponsor in their states such conferences as they have been holding here. Having the local executives examine their difficulties together, he said, "would help toward a realization that local expenditures and taxes are a part of a great national problem in stability as well as one of local concern."

Need Adjustment Stressing the need for adjustment in the national budget of Federal, state and local government expenditures rising from $2,900,000,000 in 1913 to $13,200,000,000 in 1930 and the total outstanding debt going from $4,300,000,000 to $30,000,000,000 in the same time. Before the war the total governmental cost represented but 8 per cent of the national income and Mr. Hoover estimated the present proportion at about 30 per cent.

"We cannot restore economic stability in the nation by continuing to siphon so large a part of private effort into the coffers of the government," he said. "Its abstraction from the people stifles the productivity, the consumption and the recovery of employment."

"Nor can we hide our heads in the sand by borrowing to cover current government expenses, for thus we drain the capital of the country into public securities and draft it away from industry and commerce."

He urged study of the tax problem with a view toward reorganization to distribute the burden more evenly, and cutting down duplication in taxation by the Federal State and local governments. Especially he spoke with disfavor of the general property tax, relied on heavily by states and local governments.

"Decreasing prices and decreasing income result in an increasing burden upon property owners, both in rural and urban communities, which is now becoming almost unbearable," he declared. "This burden upon real estate is wholly out of proportion to that upon other forms of property and income."

Need Tax Relief "There is no farm relief more needed today than tax relief for I believe it can be demonstrated that the tax burden upon the farmer today exceeds the burden upon other groups."

In closing, the President paid tribute to the courage shown by our public officials, both executive and legislative, in these problems. "There is no path of roses, he said, but "one to invite the anger of established interests." To the public he addressed this message:

"Be patient, be helpful, recognize the complexity and the difficulty of the problem before these servants of your combined public interest. Support them in their task, for upon their successful conclusion depends a most momentous contribution to our united security, our hope of an early return to stability, and the common welfare of every man, woman and child in our nation."

FULL TEXT OF SPEECH Richmond, Va., April 27.—(AP)—The full text of the President's address follows: "I am glad to accept your invitation to meet with the chief executives of the states. We are all facing great emergency problems of government. We are confronted with maintaining the financial integrity of the government, state Federal, county and municipal."

"We, all of us, are struggling to reduce the cost of government. We are struggling to avoid National state and municipal borrowings (Continued on Page Eleven)

CLOSING ARGUMENTS IN MASSIE TRIAL

Expect Case To Go To Jury Before Adjournment Today, State States Its Side.

Honolulu, April 27.—(AP)—Clarence Darrow, today faced his final attempt to clear four Americans in a murder trial which brought the 75-year-old legal veteran out of retirement.

He was to present a three hour closing argument before a racially mixed jury which is trying Mrs. Granville Fortescue, Lieut. Thomas H. Masie, her son-in-law and two Navy enlisted men for the lynching of Joseph Kahahawai. The Hawaiian allegedly had confessed participation in a criminal attack on Mrs. Thomas Masie, the naval officer's wife.

Although the prosecution was allowed a period following Darrow's address, attorneys for both sides were hopeful the case would be decided by the jury before adjournment for the day. An afternoon session was planned.

"Unwritten Law" Darrow was expected to plead not only the defense contention that Lieut. Masie was momentarily blinded by the wife of the pistol that killed Kahahawai, but also the "unwritten law."

The insanity plea presumably had a joint coming at the hands of Judge Masie in the instructions. This was forecast by a remark by Barry S. Ulrich, associate prosecutor in his address to the jury yesterday.

Ulrich told the jurors Judge Davis would instruct that the insanity claim would not be sufficient. Masie if it merely showed clear Masie to be mentally deranged the moment the shot was fired. Ulrich also said the judge would rule the insanity defense, in order to be considered, would have to indicate the naval officer was mentally deranged through every step of the tragedy.

Neither Judge Davis nor the defense challenged Ulrich's statement. Masie's Testimony In the defense testimony the claim was made Masie's mind went blank when he stood before Kahahawai with a pistol and heard the native confess the attack on Mrs. Masie.

The Navy officer testified he remembered nothing thereafter until he was taken to the police station, less than two hours later. Among Ulrich's statements to the jury were:

"The alleged fact the deceased assaulted the wife of one of the defendants furnished no defense for any of the defendants. You cannot make Hawaii safe against rape by licensing murder," George S. Leisure, Darrow's associate counsel, said today. (Continued on Page Eleven)

REPORTER IS SHOT IN FRONT OF HOME

Had Been Waging Campaign Against Organized Crime In His City.

Canton, O., April 27.—(AP)—Harry Bouklis, a reporter for the Ohio Examiner, a weekly newspaper published by Grover Fleming, was shot and seriously wounded in front of his home here early today.

Two assassins, who lay in wait for the man, opened fire on him with a shot gun. The Examiner had been waging a campaign against organized crime in Canton and other Ohio cities, and while Bouklis was listed as a circulation manager, it generally was believed he was the Canton reporter for the paper. The Examiner has carried many attacks against the Canton police and underworld characters.

As Bouklis was about to enter his home the two assassins hiding near his porch, opened fire. Bouklis saved his life by shielding himself with a large porch chair, which protected him from the bullets.

WILLYS TO RETURN TO AUTO BUSINESS

Resigns As Ambassador To Poland—To Devote All of His Time To Firm.

Toledo, O., April 27.—(AP)—Officers of the Willys Overland Co. made preparations today for the resumption of active control of the concern by John N. Willys, known as one of the outstanding pioneers of the automobile industry.

Willys, at Washington yesterday, resigned as ambassador to Poland, and said he was prompted by a desire to give more attention to the business. At about the same time, the directors re-elected him chairman of the board. All of the other officers and directors were re-elected.

Under Willys' former direction, the corporation several years ago attained a production capacity of 2,000 cars a day, and employed about 26,000 men. Recently, the plant has been using about 6,000 men. (Continued on Page Three)

Croon Craze Dying Out, Say Broadway Observers

New York, April 27.—(AP)—The croon craze is confronting eclipse, and the crooners may have to go back to singing the words. There is a swing from sotto voce to the more robust timbers, and a demand for tunes in heartier vein. The sentiment is for more dawns to come up like thunder and less like buttercups.

The Messrs. Colombo and Crosby, front rank crooners who can take a simple "la-dee-dum-doo" and fluttering bass, into forget-me-nots, are both finding the croon market a bit off from its one-time high. Mr. Rudy Vallee also has discovered that the demand for intimate vocalization is not what it used to be.

Vallee, who has been called the first of the crooners, but who denies he is a crooner at all, is reported by various Broadway minders-of-other-people's-business to aspire to politics. The lowdown on the situation would like nothing better than to be elected to Congress. Vallee himself has not committed himself. This was pointed to by some as emphasizing his qualifications.

There is an unconfirmed rumor that if the croon goes out, the well-known persons said today, however, there was no occasion for any immediate alarm.

Selectmen Look To Existing Bodies Layout Policy For Effecting Change.

Approval was voiced by the Selectmen last night, of the early assembling of the Board of Education of Manchester and the Ninth School District Committee, to lay out a policy of conduct in reference to the school consolidation measure which was voted at the last special town meeting.

When such tax is raised, the taxpayers in each of the districts, previously existing, shall be paid or credited on the rate bill with their respective proportions of any excess of the property of such district over and above its liabilities as ascertained by the town, or in any other manner agreed upon by the parties interested.

Boards Report No Action This morning at 9:30 the Board of Education, the joint school board and the Ninth District Committee met in the hearing room in the Municipal building to discuss school budgets for next year.

The Selectmen heard the petitioners and later tabled the motion until the next meeting. The application of Heritage & Cowland for the re-opening of the Oaklyn filling station on Oakland street was approved.

Ask Bridge Improvement The clerk of the board was instructed to write to the State Highway Commissioner and the Connecticut Company asking that the North Main street be improved where the trolley tracks were removed last year. West of the Hockanum bridge the road is a town highway.

The Selectmen voted to accept the "dirt roads" share for the town of $17,750 allotted for next year, application for which must be made to the State Highway Commissioner in paper form. The share of this allotment granted by the last General Assembly is now being used on town highways for oiling.

Ad Home Gardeners The home garden drive sponsored by the American League in cooperation with the Manchester Emergency Employment Association was reported at the meeting and the town was asked to assist in ploughing, fertilizing and preparing the ground for planting.

ROOSEVELT DEFEATED IN MASSACHUSETTS

to the Roosevelt adherents. Mayor Curley and James Roosevelt, son of Gov. Roosevelt and also a candidate for delegate at large, had hoped to get at least a few places on the at-large ticket and several district delegates. Although a newcomer to Massachusetts politics, J. Roosevelt ran neck and neck with Mayor Curley at the head of the Roosevelt slate.

Gets High Vote
Senator Walsh received the highest total vote on the Smith slate with 152,809 when 1676 out of 1685 precincts, including the city of Boston, had reported. Gov. Ely was in second place with 147,981. Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, of Boston, had 148,560 for third place and William F. Foley, district attorney of Suffolk county, ran fourth with 148,043.

The highest Roosevelt vote, that given to James Roosevelt, was 56,280. Mayor Curley received 56,171 votes with the totals for the remainder of the Roosevelt slate running as low as 44,417.

Others on the victorious Smith-at-large slate were Senator Coolidge, Congressman Connery, Douglas, McCormack and Grandfield, Mrs. Mary L. Bacligupo of Boston, Mrs. Helen L. Rotch of Lakeville and General Charles H. Cole.

The 12 delegates-at-large have a half a vote each in the convention whereas the district delegates have a full vote each. The Republican delegates have a full vote each.

The Republican at large slate which was chosen without opposition consisted of former U. S. Senator William M. Butler, former Governor Alvin T. Fuller, George F. Booth, Worcester publisher, and Mary Pratt Potter of Greenfield.

SMITH'S REMARKS
New York, April 27.—(AP)—The first decisive check in the March of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt toward the Democratic presidential nomination drew from former Governor Alfred E. Smith today the remark:

"Well, I guess this will put a check under the band wagon."

At the time he spoke his slate of delegates-at-large from Massachusetts to the Democratic National convention had defeated the Roosevelt slate overwhelmingly. Massachusetts has 36 votes in the convention.

In Pennsylvania's preferential primary, he was only about 3,000 votes behind Roosevelt, whose supporters had expected him to show enough strength so there could be no doubt of his getting 66 votes out of the state's 76 in the convention.

"This is going to make a difference," Smith observed, "to a lot of fellows who otherwise might have climbed right aboard the band wagon, thinking there was nothing else to do."

Smith would make no definite predictions as to the effect of the Massachusetts and Pennsylvania primaries.

His friends, however, were predicting he would have 200 votes on his side when the convention opens in Chicago. They were claiming Connecticut and Rhode Island for him and were expressing optimism about Vermont and California.

Smith said he had been in his office at the Fidelity State until midnight, awaiting returns.

CHURCHMEN DEBATE DIVORCE PROBLEMS

ence of the church were favorable to the change.

"It does not seem in accordance with his mind to rule that the one unpardonable sin is failure in the marriage relationship," the bishop said. "Moreover, there is always the danger that if conditions are made too severe, the attitude of the church will simply be ignored."

The Rev. John Mockridge of Philadelphia took the position that the church should sanction no remarriage of divorced persons, while nearly a dozen other clergymen expressed opinions ranging from that view to approval of Bishop Page's comments on ecclesiastical courts.

ECONOMIC CONDITIONS

Hartford, April 27.—(AP)—Changing economic conditions have brought a crisis to the Church as well as to secular institutions, Spencer Miller, Jr., industrial relations consultant on the National Episcopal Council, told the denomination's Congress today.

"Reconstruction of attitude, upon the part of the clergy," Miller said, "is a part of the Church's manifest task. It cannot continue to watch from the side lines the battle which it dares not enter. For, in reality, there are no sidelines."

The Church must guide public opinion, Miller asserted, to bring a new fellowship in business, a new integrity in government, and a new sense of responsibility in the world's economic life.

Attacks Politicians
"The masses of the people," he said, "are disillusioned by the time serving politician who through favoritism, nepotism, logrolling or corruption has brought the processes of government in many of our countries to a disgrace to our moral standards."

"They are weary of ecclesiastics who wrangle over such questions as fundamentalism and modernism, high Church and low Church. It seems like a sham battle in the face of the major battles for great causes that range over the world."

"They are surfeited by the plaudits of the college professors and college presidents who stay safely away from the main stream of life; they honor the foreigner and the university world that honors truth both by its utterance and its use."

employees, each averaging four days a week.

In addition to his authority as chairman, Willys is returning to an active part in the company, probably will have voting control through ownership of a large block of preferred stock.

In announcing his resignation as ambassador, Willys said the action was taken "in order to be as helpful as possible in a business way during this difficult period."

"During the years I have been away great strides have been taken by the management of Willys-Overland in improving processes and reducing costs, so that today there is a foundation for future plans that have great promise."

He added: "I leave my post as ambassador to Poland with great recollections of many pleasant memories of hospitality and friendship which I have enjoyed there."

Willys began his business career in 1890 in a bicycle shop at Canaan, N. Y. In 1907, he was purchaser of the Indianapolis plant of the Overland Automobile Co. He bought the plant of the Pope-Toledo Company two years later and made it the headquarters of the present Willys-Overland Co.

These rumors were recurrent until March of the following year when court gossip linked her name to Alvaro.

Then came the Spanish revolution and the parents of both Beatrice and Alvaro withheld their permission for the wedding temporarily.

Later Alvaro's father, Don Alfonso D'Orleans, said that the marriage was far in the future, and alluded to the reduced incomes of both families due to the world-wide economic crisis and the Spanish revolution.

West Point Cadets Put on Their Working Togs

It's usually in colorful, full-dress uniform that the cadets of the U. S. Military Academy appear when they are on parade. But here you see a division of the student soldiers in rough-and-ready field uniforms, and carrying packs, during a working inspection held at West Point, N. Y., the other day.

added, "that it discriminated in favor of speculative stock market and industrial credit as against farm credit."

He said that "the action of the Federal Reserve Board in demanding excess collateral for loans upon farm property and in refusing to renew farm paper forced down the price of farm product by preventing the farmer from holding his products because of a want of credit, and thereby causing a tremendous surplus of farm products to be thrown upon the market."

Must Economize
Later Governor Emmerson in his plea for economy said he could "see no good reason why the government should be immune to the necessity or the desirability to economize. It should at least refrain from extravagances which no business could tolerate, and still keep ahead of the sheriff."

Pointing out that "unlimited spending of the public funds" would result in increased taxation, Governor Emmerson told the conference that "in the long run, government is no different from private enterprise. If it spends beyond the ability of the people to pay, it faces bankruptcy, and governmental bankruptcy means eventual social disorder."

He added that "the unnecessary extension of public works to a point where direct or indirect taxes must be increased, would defeat its own purpose by delaying the eventual return of a sound prosperity to the nation-wide taxes create under-consumption; thereby adding to unemployment rather than assisting it." He offered two "salient factors" in the return of prosperity. First, he said, must come "tax reduction through absolute efficiency and economy in operation of government, through which buying power will be increased in direct proportion to tax reduction," and secondly, "the return of a measure of prosperity to the agricultural sections of the nation."

lected him against the shotgun slugs.

The shooting of Boukias came just six years after the slaying of Don F. Mellett, crusading Canton editor, who was assassinated while waging a newspaper war against crime in the "jungle section" of the city.

Police Chief Earl W. Hexamer, whose administration of the police department has been attacked by the Examiner numerous times, took personal charge of the investigation. He said his men were tracing an automobile said to have been used by the gunmen.

Was Witness
Boukias first came into the limelight in 1923 when he appeared before Governor Vic Donahay as a chief witness in the hearing which resulted in the ousting of C. C. Curtis, as mayor of Canton. Curtis again is mayor of the city.

Boukias also testified against E. E. Curtis, former safety director under his mayor-brother, who was convicted of accepting a bribe. Boukias himself was convicted of perjury.

Several arrests in liquor law cases are listed against Boukias and at the present time one such case now is pending against him in Tuscarawas county.

Doctors who examined Boukias at a hospital said his condition was "fair" and not necessarily critical. Approximately 100 shot gun slugs entered his body.

PREHISTORIC ZOO AT WORLD'S FAIR

Huge Animated Monsters Will Eat, Breathe, Fight At Chicago Show.

A mammoth metal globe, as high as an eight-story building, will represent the earth and house one of the most spectacular exhibits at the Chicago World's Fair in the summer of 1933. Within it, mechanical monsters in a strange prehistoric zoo will reproduce scenes which took place millions of years before man appeared on earth.

The exterior of the ball will be covered with a map of the world. The oceans will appear in gleaming, silver-colored stainless steel and the continents in metal painted turquoise blue. At five-minute intervals, from vents which form the base, puffs of live steam will be released to float upward like clouds. At night, colored lights will play upon the billowing white vapor. The impression, when viewed from the ground, will be that the huge globe is floating in space among the clouds.

Inside, four elevators will carry spectators to the main floor, fifty feet above the ground. Here they will follow winding walks that lead past swamps of prehistoric vegetation and cliffs which form the natural setting for the giant animals. They will see woolly mammoths, saber-toothed tigers, extinct giant turtles, dinosaurs fifty feet long, and carnivorous monsters two stories high, all breathing, eating, and fighting as though they were alive, writes Edwin W. Tamm in the June Popular Science Monthly.

Operated Electrically

Constructed of wood, steel, canvas, and papier-mache, they will be operated electrically. Each will contain from one to sixteen motors, ranging in strength from one-eighth horsepower to two horsepower. In all, approximately 500 electric motors will be employed to give lifelike motions to the animals on display.

Expert operators at switchboards will make the huge creatures sweating, roaring, and growling. They will roll their eyes, lash their tails, and open and close their jaws. Hidden where they can see the crowds, these operators frequently will give spectators a sudden thrill by having the monster suddenly swing toward them with wide-gaping jaws.

Along the railings of the walks there will be hundreds of earphones by means of which spectators may hear lectures on the particular animals before them. These lectures will be repeated continuously by the use of phonograph records in a central control room below. Earphones are to be employed instead of loudspeakers to avoid interfering with the sound effects of the exhibition. For the huge mechanical animals will not only move, but also "talk." Onlookers will hear, among other things, the snarl of the saber-toothed tiger, the monstrous hiss of the great Brontosaurus and the trumpeting of the prehistoric shovel-jawed elephant.

Behind the early-world landscapes circling the walls of the main floor, concealed lighting will create the color effects of sunrise, sunset, and twilight. During dusk, the public will see pterodactyls, giant winged creatures of prehistoric times, go flapping overhead across the darkened sky.

In preparation for this spectacular display, engineers of the firm of Messmore and Damon, New York makers of animated exhibition models, have been working for four years. Each animal is to be constructed the exact size of the ancient beast it represents. Realizing the education value of the display, curators of the American Museum of Natural History have been cooperating to make the exhibits and their surroundings scientifically accurate.

LOVING CUPS AWARDED

Hartford, April 27.—(AP)—Two silver loving cups were awarded for publicity scrapbooks at the morning session of the second day meeting of the thirty-sixth annual convention of the Connecticut Federation of Women's Clubs now assembled in this city.

The cup for the best city scrap book went to Mrs. Elmer F. Ferguson of the New Haven women's club and the one for the best suburban book to Mrs. Frederick E. Bishop of the Southport women's club. Honorable mention for city books was given to Mrs. Douglas F. Brown of the Meriden woman's club and to Mrs. W. C. Warner of the Bristol women's club. Honorable mention for suburban books went to Miss Isabel Alcorn, of the women's club of Enfield and Miss Grace Bacon of the Killingly woman's club.

The awards were made by Mrs. W. J. Slater of Waterbury, chairman of press committee and the judges were Miss Rachel McLaughlin of the Hartford Times and Miss Ida Sherman of the Hartford Courant.

ARCHITECTS MEET

Washington, April 27.—(AP)—The American Institute of Architects opened its 65th convention here today with the announcement of the award of a gold medal to Ragnar Ostberg of Sweden for "the most distinguished service to architecture."

Ostberg designed the Stockholm City Hall. The medal has been awarded only ten times in the last 25 years, twice to British, twice to French and six times to American architects.

LEAPS FROM WINDOW

Bridgeport, April 27.—(AP)—Plunging from the window of a second floor courtroom, Robert H. Roberts, 50, charged with breaking and entering fell 40 feet, landing on the concrete paving of a drive-way. He was taken to a hospital suffering a fractured left leg and possible fracture of the skull.

Roberts was held in connection with the burglary several days ago of a small store. He leaped after hearing the court bind him over to the Superior Court.

SKYSCRAPER WINDMILLS TO TURN AIR INTO POWER

May Tap the Gales At High Altitudes With Vanes Over 500 Feet In Diameter.

Will "skyscraper windmills" open the way to a new era of cheap electric power? This is the suggestion made by Hermann Honner, German structural engineer. To tap the power of high winds that blow at great heights above the earth, he has designed a type of windmill the dimensions of which all but stagger the imagination. Its 1,400-foot tower would top New York's Empire State Building by a dozen stories. For vanes, it carries a pair of wheels with spokes like airplane propellers—each wheel 524 feet in diameter, or the length of two city blocks!

When they turn at their estimated speed of seven and a half revolutions a minute, says Popular Science Monthly, the rims are traveling at 142 miles an hour. Electric dynamos, with casings large enough for a man to walk through, are to be mounted at the hubs. If more power is needed, three pairs of wheels may be used. A "three-wheeled" tower, costing a million dollars to erect, would supply the electric needs of a city of 100,000 inhabitants, Honner estimates, at a cost comparing favorably with steam and water power. He visions the first application of skyscraper windmills, however, in remote lands such as Egypt, Algeria, and Patagonia where coal and oil are transported with difficulty.

Speaking as an experienced builder of towers, for he designed and erected an 850-foot radio tower near Berlin, and other tall structures, Honner sees no obstacles to the building of giant windmills. With a framework of massive steel pipes electrically welded, such a windmill would be sufficiently strong with a minimum of weight.

STIMSON TO LEAVE FOR HOME FRIDAY

Geneva, April 27.—(AP)—Colonel Henry L. Stimson's plan for a five-power disarmament conference on Friday evaporated today when Premier Tardieu of France said he could not attend. The American secretary of state announced that he would sail for home next Tuesday.

The meeting would have been attended by Colonel Stimson, M. Tardieu, Prime Minister MacDonald, Chancellor Bruening of Germany, and Dino Grandi, the Italian foreign minister.

Yesterday the secretary, Dr. Bruening and Mr. MacDonald waited at Colonel Stimson's villa for Premier Tardieu, but it returned from Paris in time so the three statesmen conferred among themselves and arranged another meeting for Friday.

Then this morning word came from Paris that M. Tardieu had an attack of laryngitis which would prevent an immediate trip to Geneva.

SWEETHEART IN PRISON, ANNOUNCES ENGAGEMENT

New Britain, April 27.—(AP)—When state prison gates closed on Virgil Gill yesterday they did not end the romance between him and Mrs. Mabel V. Hunter of this city with whom he was arrested in Cincinnati, Ohio, after they had run away from New Britain.

Mrs. Hunter today announced her engagement to Gill and said their marriage would take place "as soon as possible."

Gill and Mrs. Hunter were in Superior Court before Judge Arthur P. Ellis yesterday on a statutory offense. Gill who was on parole from State prison, after serving part of a term for his connection with a payroll robbery in Hartford, was sentenced to one to five years. Mrs. Hunter was sentenced to six months in jail with execution of the penalty suspended. She was placed on probation for a year.

Immediately after their trial Joseph Hunter, her husband, applied for and was granted a divorce.

Mrs. Hunter today expressed her faith in Gill and said she would remain loyal to him. Before she and Gill ran away to Cincinnati, she had been employed as a stenographer in a local factory office.

STARS AND DIRECTOR ARE UNDER SUSPENSION

Hollywood, April 27.—(AP)—Two motion picture stars, apparently have determined to have settled, by court action if necessary, whether the studio management rules or accedes to desires of stars and directors.

Mariene Dietrich, blonde German-born star; James Cagney, actor and Josef von Sternberg, director, who "discovered" Miss Dietrich, are under suspension.
Von Sternberg left Hollywood for New York last Saturday saying he held the story provided for his next production unsuitable. Miss Dietrich siding with the director, refused to report for work yesterday under Richard Wallace, substitute director. S laries of both were stopped.

Cagney was suspended yesterday after he demanded a $2,400 weekly increase in salary. He had been signed under a long term contract at $1,600 weekly. Cagney said he would leave Hollywood soon on a motor trip through the Canadian Rockies and unless his salary demand is heeded, will quit motion pictures and enter Columbia University to study medicine.
If the contracts are found legal and the studio is given the right to dictate to its artists and should the artists refuse to appear they would be barred from other studios under an agreement of leading producers of the film colony.

ESKIMOS STARVING

Fairbanks, Alaska, April 27.—(AP)—Eskimos in the district between the mouth of the Yukon river and Hooper Bay, where a tidal wave last December destroyed food supplies, are so desperately in need of "sustenance they are re-

Francis Menager, superior of Jesuit missions in Alaska. The tidal wave carried ice blocks 20 miles inland and destroyed several native villages and food supplies over a vast territory. Father Menager said resources of the missionaries have been depleted. Sickness was appearing among the natives and there was danger of floods from melting snow.

They're Milder and they Taste Better too"

THERE'S SOMETHING DIFFERENT about the flavor of CHESTERFIELDS—something about the blending and cross-blending of fine tobaccos—that gets to you, every time.

THERE'S SOMETHING DIFFERENT about their mildness, too. It is the mildness that comes from the ripest, sweetest, mellowest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos. There is no bitterness in them... no harshness.

THERE'S SOMETHING DIFFERENT about the taste. It is that good, pleasing taste that comes from the right kind of tobacco, cured in the right way—cured for two years or more. It means that to make CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes, millions of dollars are tied up in tobacco leaf—but it's worth it.

THERE'S SOMETHING DIFFERENT about CHESTERFIELDS—THEY'RE MILD AND YET THEY SATISFY!

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 27.

power and its wealth. In every city of the land there is a duplicate of it, large or small; and it is safe to say that there is not a decent citizen in the land who does not long to see these gangs, big and little, stripped of their power.

But where does this power come from? Straight from the ranks of "decent citizenship"; from the pocketbooks of men who would not dream of violating the law themselves and who have no sympathy whatever for the underworld.

Lawlessness, more audacious than any the country has known before, is thus based on the support of the law-abiding. The underworld draws its funds from the respectable.

Every man who buys a drink contributes to the reign of the Capones, the Rothsteins and the Diamonds. The drinker violates no law—but he supplies the money with which gangland flouts the law on a stupendous and horrifying scale.

There is the real problem of prohibition. It is illegal to sell booze, but legal to buy it. Is the remedy to penalize the buyer also—or, perchance, to legalize the sale of beer, knock most of the props out from under gangland, and divert this stream of money from the underworld to the United States treasury?

AT THE RIGHT END

It is to be hoped that something more than a set of resolutions or a mere "proposal" to amend the rules will come out of the State Bar Association's recently aroused determination to do something about the loading of the Connecticut bar with undesirable lawyer material. Reforms that might well have been set on foot a dozen years ago, when the trek of the unfit into the profession of the law noticeably began, are now seriously proposed and it will be a good thing for our civilization if they are established.

There are so many bad influences at work in the country that it is not easy to guess which may be the worst of the lot; but certainly the unscrupulous lawyer, recurring in large and constantly increasing numbers, occupies a place near the top.

It will seem to most of us that the Bar Association contemplates going about the business of "reprofessionalizing the profession" in the right way when it proposes to pass upon the fitness of a young man for the practice of law even before he begins his studies. Heretofore every attempt to exclude unsuitable candidates for admission to the bar has encountered one well nigh insurmountable obstacle. The candidate has, presumably in good faith, devoted years of study to preparation for the law as a life work.

Many times he or his family has made great sacrifices of money and time to provide for his legal education. He can pass the bar examinations. He is, at the same time, very bad lawyer material. He is almost certain to win his way to the bar unless he has been guilty of some actually criminal thing—which is rarely the case—for bar associations hesitate long and seriously to exclude such a candidate even though their committees know well enough that he is lacking in the background, the moral fabric and the deep rooted principles that every attorney should possess.

Obviously the time to turn back such aspirants is at the beginning, before they have wasted their time and their money on legal schooling and while there is yet opportunity for them to turn to some other pursuit for which they are less unsuited.

The Bar Association has set up for consideration various other rules looking to the protection of the profession against persons of the wrong character traits or wrong upbringing. But it will seem to many that all these are mere matters of routine compared with the provision for subjecting to the most painstaking scrutiny every law freshman who hopes to practice in this state.

NOT A SETTLEMENT

Yesterday's primaries in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania had been heralded as promising to shed much light on the probabilities as to the Democratic Presidential nomination. Now that they are over the Roosevelt and Smith factions of that party can go right along with their respective claims and neither will be in any perceptibly weaker position than it was on Monday. Smith has swept Massachusetts—which is equivalent to the capture of Holland by the Dutch. Roosevelt appears to have come out of the Pennsylvania contest a bit bedraggled as to the size of his pluralities but with the delegates in his pocket, substantially as many as his managers had figured on.

The Smith boosters will, of course, claim that the overwhelming vote for their man in the Bay State and the closeness of the contest in Pennsylvania prove that the New York governor cannot be nominated at Chicago. The Roosevelt faction will hold that Massachusetts and Philadelphia are in no wise representative of Democratic sentiment in the country—and the campaign will proceed exactly as if there had been no primaries at all in two states.

BULL FIGHTS VS. MOVIES

The bull fight is popularly supposed to be Mexico's favorite diversion; but a brief article in a theatrical magazine recently indicates that the movies have pushed the bull ring into a very poor second place.

During 1930, there were sold in Mexico City and its environs some 18,500,000 admissions to places of public amusement. Of these, almost 16,000,000 were tickets to the movies; and only 160,000 were tickets to bull fights.

Just what all of this proves is not entirely clear; in the United States, for example, the movies outdraw baseball by a wide margin, but baseball is far from losing its popularity. It does indicate, though, that the bull fight may not be quite as great an obsession with the Mexicans as we commonly suppose.

IN NEW YORK

Bartering in Blood

New York, April 27.—New York's sturdy army of blood-donors has grown to 2000 within the past few months, what with many husky but jobless men recruited from the streets and given successful tests. Veteran donor and "king of corpuses" is Tom Kane, a former sailor. He holds a record of transfusions. He has refused a fee in more than half these cases because the patients couldn't afford the expenditure.

The young Samaritan walked into a Manhattan hospital about 18 years ago after reading a newspaper appeal for volunteers when a 13-year-old girl lay desperately ill.

His corpuses were of such Grade A quality that physicians put him at the head of their lists.

Kane's adventures since that time have ranged from the bizarre to the highly dramatic. His high point of pride is the occasion when, called on in a hurry case, he found himself at the bedside of Caruso.

He was on duty when Berhardt, Valentino and other famous folk were stricken. He arrived on the run when Jack "Legs" Diamond was shot in a New York hotel room.

One night, Kane was advised that both he and a patient would enter the operating room masked. Doctors gave a brief explanation that secrecy was necessary.

Later he was told the name of the invalid: a member of one of America's richest and most high-gat families!

But He Kept His Head Alexander Woolcott, famed for his hair-trigger sallies and retorts, was sitting as chairman at a meeting that had caused one member of the audience annoyance.

The gent rose from his chair and remarked sarcastically: "I came here to have my face lifted—and now..."

"Pardon me," parried Woolcott. "I don't understand this gentleman. Just a few hours ago he telephoned and said he wanted his seat saved."

Mr. John Mr. John, as they call John Ringling, circus king, in "the profess", now maintains such urban quarters in Manhattan as might be associated with a city fellow.

Not only does he have a suite in one of the swankier hotels, but he has also blossomed out with an apartment in the tonier sectors.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

GARNER RANKED HIGH AMONG EXPERTS IN GAVEL-BAGGING

BY RODNEY DUCHER
 NEA Service Writer

Washington.—Speaker John N. Garner, who now has almost enough gift gavels to supply all the state legislatures, bangs as loudly as any speaker in recent decades when the need arises, according to experts on gavel-bagging.

Gift gavels usually receive a try-out Garner customarily uses an "issue" gavel, done in dark wood, from the House carpenter shop. And his blows are mere taps with the hilt unless there is unusual disorder.

The late Nick Longworth used an effective light tap.

Perils of the Gavel Gavels are seldom broken, despite the legends that Garner broke three early in this session. Occasionally they crack. Ramseyer of Iowa once broke one when he was in the chair, but House attacks can't easily recall another occasion.

Tragedy threatened once when the late Martin Madden of Illinois swung a gavel to call time on Ogden Mills, now secretary of the treasury, who had the floor.

Madden, a loud banger whenever he held the chair, lifted the weapon high and as it began to descend the head flew off and whizzed within a few inches of Mills' ear. The gavel head landed harmlessly in the aisle, months, what with many husky but jobless men recruited from the streets and given successful tests.

How Drunks are Handled Every week the Capitol police grab two or three ebriated citizens who enter the sacred precincts under that mighty dome, with or without the idea of starting something. Alcohol, it appears, often makes a citizen burn with some issue or other which he must have out with one or more members of Congress.

Recently a set of Capitol police rules, framed, was set up at one entrance of the huge rotunda, including this: "Any drunken or otherwise disorderly person shall be removed to the guard room until he can be sent to the police station, unless in the discretion of the captain or lieutenant on duty it is considered better to remove the person so offending from the building and set him free outside the Capitol grounds."

Most visiting drunks are simply led away and turned loose.

Cranks Numerous Few sessions have attracted so many cranks, nearly all of the harmless varieties. Members have developed a technique of avoidance and escape which is usually effective.

Senator Couzens of Michigan and Senator Barbour of New Jersey each spent half an hour or more recently with a gent who had promised to tell them all about the Lindbergh baby mystery and failed to make good.

Long years ago it was a crime to "imagine the king's death" and people were executed for it, but in the Capitol rotunda I heard of an official guide telling a group of tourists the other day:

"If President Hoover dies in office, his body will lie right here on this spot."

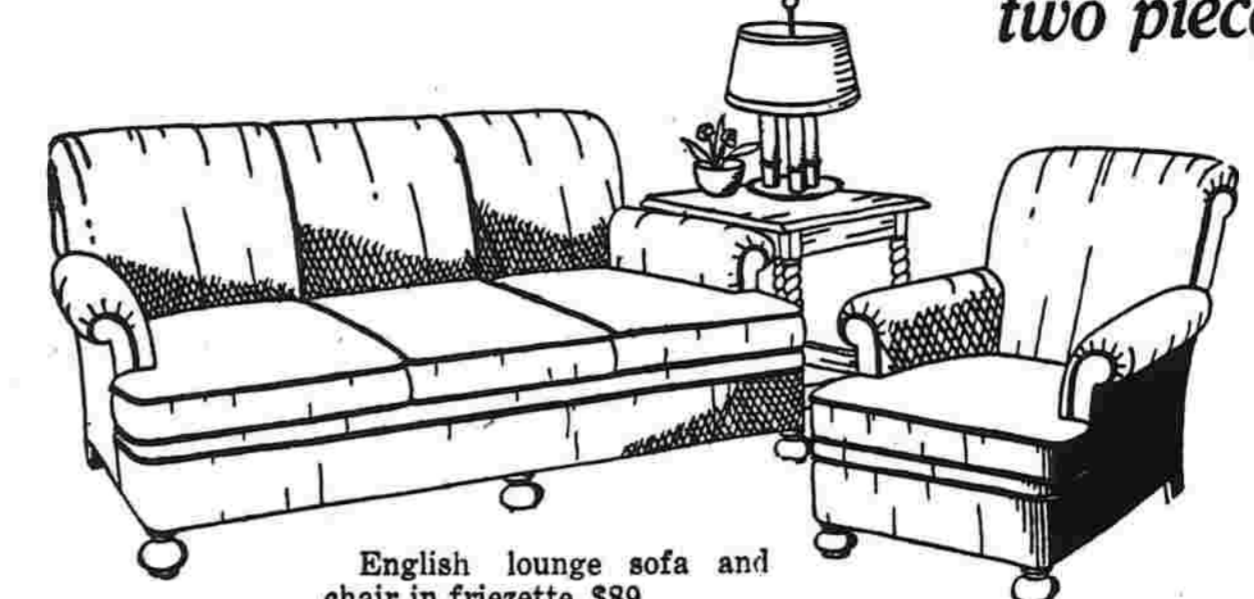

Yes, They Wear Pants Another unusual sight up there: Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts, walking in the corridor outside his chambers, coatless, vestless, suspended and smoking his pipe.

You seldom see any of the "nine wise old owls" except on the bench. Seeing them sitting in their black robes, many persons have asked whether they wore trousers under their dignified parade, between plush ropes held by attendants, from the dressing room to the courtroom, you will observe pants poking from beneath the robes.

They don't one understands, wear coats or vests underneath. A concealed coal fire keeps them always warm.

POLICE PAY CUT
 The course of the Board of Police Commissioners in reducing the pay of all members of their department 15 per cent and determining on a further cut of 5 per cent in the organization's overhead expenses is entitled to both the approval of the people of Manchester and the ungrudging acquiescence of the men of the department.

Nobody likes to have his pay cut. When the cut affects some other fellow it is a far-off affliction, but when it hits one's own stipend it produces an acute pain. It is an unpleasant experience as well as a very, very common one these days. Almost any person can think up, without much trouble, a dozen excellent reasons why he ought to be exempt from the prevailing disorder of reduced wages and salaries. And the police, it is to be presumed, are no exception to the rule.

Just the same, they should and doubtless will accept the inevitable without any undue amount of kicking. For one reason, they recently went through the experience of a skipped payday, and the effect of an unbalanced budget was brought home to them pretty forcibly. They know at first hand that fact which it seems so difficult for many to realize, that a town with an empty treasury is a poor paymaster and a town without first class bank credit in an emergency is liable to have, at almost any time late in the fiscal year, a strong box solid full of thin air.

The Police Board's action is in direct line with that policy of economy which has been forced upon the community by existing circumstances. It was taken with sufficient reluctance a number of months after such a proceeding had been urged on the board by the Selectmen. The police ought to be quite sure, therefore, that it was a matter of Hobson's choice with the Commissioners—that they did not make the cut for the fun of it.

The pay of Manchester policemen has never been excessive. And if any of the town's public servants earn their money it is the cops. At the same time there is no question about the purchasing power of that pay being greater now than it has ever been, by quite a bit, and even after the fifteen per cent cut comes out, a policeman's pay in Manchester will still represent considerably more in value than it did some years ago.

Another thing about the policeman's job—it is a steady one. He doesn't have to stand in much dread of going on a four-day or two-day week basis, or of being sunk without warning some Saturday night. The flush times are over and most people have had to do a lot of re-adjusting of their ideas and their expenditures. Some will probably have to do considerably more. The police force members will be better off than any number of their friends. We look to see them take this unpleasant experience in a proper sporting spirit.

"SOAK THE BUYER"
 Anyone who thinks it would be possible to enforce a law providing five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine for purchasers of bootleg booze is entitled to work fervently for the passage of the proposed Sheppard law in Congress.

That such a law would collapse of its own weight seems likely. But even the most devout enemy of prohibition must admit that there is a certain amount of logic in the idea.

The biggest problem that prohibition has brought—the one that often must seem utterly insoluble—is the fact that offenses against the dry law are all financed by law-abiding citizens.

Al Capone is the archetype of the beer kings. He has built up a criminal organization startling in its power and its wealth. In every city of the land there is a duplicate of it, large or small; and it is safe to say that there is not a decent citizen in the land who does not long to see these gangs, big and little, stripped of their power.

But where does this power come from? Straight from the ranks of "decent citizenship"; from the pocketbooks of men who would not dream of violating the law themselves and who have no sympathy whatever for the underworld.

Lawlessness, more audacious than any the country has known before, is thus based on the support of the law-abiding. The underworld draws its funds from the respectable.

HEALTH-DIET ADVICE
 BY Dr. Frank McCoy
 "The Best Way to Health"

SOME CAUSES OF FLATULENCY
 We frequently read of prominent people who died suddenly as a result of heart attack. If the true cause were stated, the news item would probably read: Mr. — after partaking of a conglomerate mixture of foods, developed a sudden attack of flatulence and the gas pressure against his heart stopped its beating. Had he been able to avoid this gas formation, he probably would have lived many years longer, even though his heart was chronically diseased."

Flatulence, while not considered a disease, is a symptom which causes much distress and anxiety among patients and may in some cases be dangerous in many cases. There is a small amount of gas present in the alimentary tract at all times—it is the excessive amount which causes painful symptoms.

Principal Causes
 There are about four principal causes of flatulence: First, many people, without realizing it, swallow large quantities of air; second, through mixture of alkalies and acids in the stomach and small intestines; third, through the fermentation of starches and sugars in the small intestines and colon; fourth, the use of certain foods which are in themselves gas-forming because of their peculiar composition.

As examples of these four causes let me cite the following:
FIRST. I have examined many patients under the X-ray who, not having any gas in their stomachs, would begin belching. Immediately I could see them swallowing bubbles of air which soon filled their stomachs and caused unpleasant symptoms. This is simply a bad habit and must be corrected.

SECOND. About an hour after one eats a meal a large amount of hydrochloric acid has formed in the stomach. If at this time you swallow some alkali, such as soda, gas will immediately form the same as if you mix lemon juice and soda in a glass. A similar condition may occur when there are excessive amounts of digestive juices so that a large amount of hydrochloric acid and the alkaline bile become mixed. We know that the body tries to change the digestive fluids to meet the imposed requirements. For instance, if an excess of meat is used every day, the gastric juice gradually becomes more acid; if too many carbohydrates are used, the result will be the formation of more bile; if both too much meat and bread are used, there will be an excess of both gastric juice and bile—this will always produce excess intestinal gas.

THIRD. Many are familiar with the use of starches and sugars for making home brew. A similar condition may occur inside of the body. Starches, especially when cooked in a heavy layer of grease, are not completely digested by the digestive juices and starch fermentation will result, producing a large amount of gas. The combination of sugar and starch is also readily fermentable, and some foods, which are difficult to digest because they contain large amounts of cellulose or protein mixed with starch, will also result in a starch fermentation. Dried beans and peanuts are examples of this because they contain such a mixture of starch and protein. Green corn may cause flatulence in some people because the hard skin around the starch inside is not completely penetrated by the digestive juices and the starch begins to ferment. People with good digestive organs are not liable to this form of flatulence as those in whom the digestive juices are not sufficiently strong.

FOURTH. Some people are especially sensitive to certain foods which, because of their chemical composition and structure, produce flatulence. The foods most frequently bringing on this condition in sensitive people are garlic, onions, cabbage, radishes, leeks, chives, peppers and turnips.

MILLS ASSAILS BONUS PAYMENT

Treasury Chief Declares Obligation Not Due Until 1945.

Washington, April 27.—(AP)—Secretary Mills today loosed a powerful administration offensive against cash payment of the soldiers' bonus.

He spoke before the House ways and means committee appearing as a witness in its extended hearings on the issue.

In language no less forceful than that of Charles G. Dawes employed before the same committee a week ago, the new treasury chief drove home his opposition to the $2,400,000,000 outlay, whether paid in borrowed money or through inflation of the currency.

"The measure now before you is designed to pay an obligation not due, in money that is not honest," Mills said.

"To select this moment," he went on, "to destroy our hopes of a balanced budget and to deal a smashing blow to national confidence, is to me simply incomprehensible.

"For a great, powerful nation deliberately to adopt this insidious and essentially dishonest device would to my mind be worse than an act of financial bankruptcy.

"Destroy confidence and you dry up credit and paralyze enterprise. No measure was ever drafted better calculated to destroy confidence than the one now before you.

"When we were doing that jungle stuff out in Hollywood I was thinking about kids every time we shot a scene," he said.

"People I don't know keep calling my hotel," Johnny Weismuller, still in his twenties, struggles manfully against letting all of this affect him.

"What does your wife think about all these women?" I asked him.

"She's afraid," Johnny answered, in his straight-forward and unaffected manner. "She's afraid for me. I can't understand her at all.

"It is richer by far in tradition than any other of the city's open spaces, and well deserving of its birthday gift—a course of beauty treatments.

"The passage of this bill would, in my judgment, deal such a severe blow to public confidence as to make the consequences almost incalculable."

MARVELOUS MANHATTAN

By WILLIAM GAINES

New York—Johnny Weismuller, the fastest man in the water, who took to the tree-tops as Tarzan of the movies, shrinks like a modest violet from the adulation of so many women.

Since his 6 foot 3, 195-pound physique won the admiration of movie fans, it has been a problem for him to escape all his feminine fans in private life.

"When we were doing that jungle stuff out in Hollywood I was thinking about kids every time we shot a scene," he said.

NAZI'S PROTESTS

Munich, Germany, April 27.—(AP)—The headquarters of Adolf Hitler's National Socialist Party announced today a resolution would be introduced in the Reichstag when it convenes May 9 asking for the appointment of a committee to investigate what, if any, public funds were spent for the election campaign of President Paul von Hindenburg.

Motions also would be presented, the announcement said, calling for the dissolution of the Reichstag and the revocation of the emergency decree dissolving the Nazi storm troops promulgated by President von Hindenburg before the recent presidential run-off election.

The Nazis also protested to the Federal election board, which meets May 3 to confirm officially President von Hindenburg's election, that the freedom of the election was violated by one-sided use of the radio by von Hindenburg and Chancellor Bruening during the campaign.

The radio privileges were denied Hitler, the protest charged.

FRENCH PREMIER ILL; NOT TO ATTEND PARLEY

Paris, April 27.—(AP)—Premier Andre Tardieu was ill of laryngitis today as a result of the strenuous work of his election campaign and it was announced he would be unable to participate in the projected five-power parley at Geneva next Friday, arranged by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson.

M. Tardieu's physician ordered him to quit the campaign and as a result his final speech, scheduled for Belfort, tomorrow, will be read by one of the members of the Cabinet.

The premier telegraphed Joseph Paul-Boncour, his colleague at Geneva, asking him to inform Secretary Stimson, Prime Minister MacDonaid, Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy the other members of the five-power group, that silence and complete rest have been imposed upon him.

"When I learned yesterday the desire of my colleagues to see me at Geneva," he said, "I replied yes in spite of the fact that I was ill. But the laryngitis has progressed and the doctor has forbidden two nights of travel. I am sorry but I cannot get away."

"Stumping" Job At the Green Endangers Lives When Dynamite Turns Lazy.

Two Bolton men working on a Manchester Green farm narrowly escaped death last week while dynamiting stumps, it became known today.

They had placed two dynamite charges under stumps, lit the fuse and made hasty retreat. When the explosion came it sounded like a "doubleheader."

SPIALE AND BITZ WITHDRAW FROM CASE

New York, April 27—(AP)—Salvatore Spiale and Irving Bitz, who were designated by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to act as intermediaries in the negotiations for the return of his kidnapped son, today withdrew from the world-wide baby hunt.

Abraham Kesselman, lawyer for the men, said the recent payment by Lindbergh of $50,000 to a person believed to have been a representative of the kidnapers was the reason for their withdrawal.

"I know that Spiale pleaded with Colonel Lindbergh not to pay this $50,000 through Dr. Condon," Kesselman said. "I do not know what prompted him (Spiale) to do so or what information he had on which he based his attitude."

The ransom money was paid on the night of April 2 by Dr. John F. Condon, known as "Jafale". The money was handed by Dr. Condon over a fence in St. Raymond's cemetery, the Bronx, to a man who represented himself as an agent for the kidnapers. The child was not returned in exchange for the money.

Kesselman said neither Spiale nor Bitz had "any idea as to the identity of the kidnapers."

Spiale and Bitz were appointed "go-between" by Col. Lindbergh on March 5, four days after his son was snatched from his crib in the nursery of the fier's New Jersey home in Sourland mountain.

UNEMPLOYED PLAY
Knoxville, Tenn.—Unemployment isn't going to keep those in the ranks of the jobless in this city from playing. They have built and equipped their own play center in a building here. The Recreation Center, just opened by Fred Parkhurst, director, has push ball courts, lounge room, magazine and newspapers, and games.

PRAYER SAVES STORE
Cincinnati, O.—The power of prayer now has a staunch supporter in Mary Wilhelm, 45, owner of a confectionery store here. Recently two robbers entered the store and attempted to rifle the cash register. Miss Wilhelm blocked the path to the money and prayed audibly that she be spared from the robbery. The two men eyed each other quizzically and hurried away.

NEW VAPOR LAMP
Cincinnati, O.—Two scientists of the University of Cincinnati have produced a new mercury vapor lamp that is said to be much longer lived than ordinary lamps. The inventors are Dr. D. A. Wells, assistant professor of physics, and Dr. Isay Balkin, instructor in physics. Lamps on test have been burning continuously for more than 2,000 hours.

Motor Hints

Timely Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Automobile Club of Hartford.

Tests Wobble In Wheels

Wobbly, unbalanced wheels play such a role in making front end shimmy a motoring pest it is surprising that more motorists do not jack up the car and check over these sources of trouble. Here are a few simple rules to follow:

Check first for wheel looseness. In doing this be sure you are not mistaking this for looseness in the steering king pins.

Next spin the wheels and note if the tire runs true. This test will reveal a tire that is badly shaped. Do not always stop spinning at exactly the same point.

Wheel trueness can be checked by holding the sharp end of a screwdriver against the inside of the tire rims while the wheels spin. The scratch thus made on the rims should make a perfect circle.

Most owners are puzzled when, after an apparently successful operation on the motor, the same sort of trouble bobs up again.

A typical case will illustrate this. Having new rings installed in his motor the owner discovered that there was the same tendency toward excessive thinning out of the oil. Previous to the work the engine was overworking, because of too low compression, and there was too much oil dilution. He did not realize that because the revamped motor was tight and stiff he was obliged to choke it more in starting.

After the revamped motor was broken in conditions righted themselves. It applies to many a service job.

Thinking More Mileage
A motorist wants to know why it is that his engine will use more gasoline on some days than on others, the condition of the car, the driver and the weather being the same. He noted a marked difference in mileage, being careful to check up over a long enough period not to be misled by the gas gauge.

The way momentum is used probably explains the bulk of the mileage difference. Few of us realize that we frequently waste a considerable amount of power because of miscalculations, traffic conditions, traffic lights and the behavior of other cars. We all drive more or less in a parade. If it moves smartly we save gas.

In other words, the difference in mileage has a lot to do with thinking. Sometimes we think more miles to the gallon. Everytime we step on the brake pedal we're wasting gas, because if we did not have to stop we could utilize a lot more momentum.

Proves Too Rich Mixture
One of the strange points about car ownership is the fact that although most owners are trying for better gasoline mileage few stop to realize that most idling mixtures are entirely too rich. The modern engine, due to free wheeling, is idling much of the time.

Invariably when any new vacuum operated device is added to a car this excessively rich idling mixture is discovered. Recently an owner installed a device to inject, through the intake manifold, a chemical to remove carbon. Experimenting, he tried holding the valve open continually, thereby admitting a considerable amount of extra air to the intake. The engine ran faster and better, proving that the mixture had been set too rich.

The same thing was noted by a motorist who substituted a vacuum operated windshield wiper for an electric type. Most of the so-called gas savers simply capitalize on the fact that most engines already run on too rich a mixture.

For Checking Low Pressure
The pressure regulator of the engine's lubrication system is one of the parts which, unless fully understood, may lead to trouble. Increasing the tension on the spring of the regulator will increase pressure but unless the system has been checked for other trouble this increase in tension may simply change the effect without correcting the cause.

Pressure varies according to viscosity of the oil, speed of the engine, temperature, condition of the bearings and the adjustment of the pressure regulator. If it is not possible to maintain the normal pressure for the particular type of motor then something is wrong. There may be leakage. The oil may be breaking down because of insufficient quantity or poor quality. There may be trouble with the oil pump.

Clogged oil lines cause a pressure rise. This is just the reverse of what some owners expect. Watch it.

Tell Why They Miss
When the engine misses on a hard pull uphill most drivers imagine they have a troublesome valve. In checking this sort of trouble, however, experts seldom consider the valves.

The most likely cause, they say, is incorrect carburetion. Next in order comes the possibility of improperly adjusted plug points. A partial "surface short" of a plug will have a similar effect. This sort of condition is caused by the plug insulator accumulating sufficient carbon deposit to tempt the current to short across the surface instead of across the gap.

A weak coil will also cause a miss, especially if the coil is well warmed up. Too far an advanced spark is another of the possibilities. One thing most owners never consider, even though the car may have given war-horse service, and that is, poor compression in one or more cylinders.

Schwab intimated that he was almost broke in a speech the other day. We hope he isn't in such a bad way that the government has to give him another $1-a-year job.

FOUR WON'T WAIT TILL SOBER, FINED

Bolton Justice Took Car Key For Safety But Local Men Made Fune.

John Bartley of 143 Eldridge street was fined $100 and costs in Justice Eaton's Court in Bolton yesterday afternoon on a charge of driving drunk and $25 and costs for driving without a license. Raymond Barley, Harrison Wilson and Dewey Walker, all of Manchester were fined $5 and costs each for intoxication.

The convictions were the sequel to the arrest of the four motorists in front of the filling station of E. C. Broil at Bolton Notch. The car, driven by John Bartley, stopped at the filling station and Mr. Broil, himself a justice of the peace, reached it and took the keys from the car when he decided none of the men was fit to drive. He notified the State Police when they insisted on their right to proceed. The men were locked up in the Manchester jail awaiting trial.

The car had been involved previously in a slight accident on the Bolton-Coventry road.

WOMAN KILLS SELF

New York, April 27—(AP)—The body of an attractive blonde woman who committed suicide in a Brooklyn rooming house Sunday night was identified today as that of Mrs. Louise Elizabeth Frankovich, 27, of New London, Conn.

Identification was made by the woman's husband, Michael Frankovich, who was taken to the morgue after enlisting police aid in his search for his wife.

Frankovich said he had been employed as electrician at Hampden Roads, Va. The couple had been separated about a year. There are two children, Caroline 7, and John, 4.

New London, April 27—(AP)—Mrs. Louise Elizabeth Frankovich, 27, of this city, who committed suicide in a Brooklyn rooming house Sunday night, had gone to New York to effect a reconciliation with her husband, a sailor in the Navy, now stationed at Norfolk, a sister here said today. The sister refused to give her own name or to tell anything about the family of her sister.

SPRING FEVER
Los Angeles—Twas warm, and the breath of summer was in the air. Patrolman Charles R. Fallon, of Beverly Hills, heard a noise on his beat and saw a man enter a grocery store. "Ho hum," yawned Fallon. And he sat himself down to wait for the thief to convict himself. Sure enough, Walter Kilpatrick shortly emerged with the contents of the store's cash register. Fallon had no trouble at all in arresting him.

THUNDER SHOWER IS TRAILED BY SNOWFALL

Biggest Flakes of Season, and Most of 'em Come Today But Don't Last Long.

With the month of May only four days away, Manchester took its first thunder storm bath of the season early last evening and then this afternoon was temporarily dressed in white with a raging snowsquall. Both were very brief.

Very slight snow flurries fell this morning but at 1:15 this afternoon the air was suddenly filled with a swirling mass of flakes, larger than any of the winter. The squall lasted only about 15 minutes. At 1:30 the air was clear again. The thunderstorm last night was even more brief. There were a few flashes of lightning and a brief downpour.

So the Governor of New York Said to the Governor of Maryland—

Maybe one had called the other "Mr. President" just to hear how it sounded. Whatever the jest was, it brought smiles to the faces of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt (left) of New York and Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland. Both possible Democratic candidates for the presidency are pictured here as they attended the annual governor's conference at Richmond, Va.

PREPARE FOR BATTLE

Canton, China, April 27—(AP)—Cantonese leaders predicted today the 20,000 Communist soldiers approaching Amoy and Foochow would turn from their objective to face the Canton army now entering Fukien province.

Reports here indicated the two armies would soon meet in a decisive engagement.

cities of Fukien Province, are on the coast northeast of Canton.

The Canton army has also started its re-conquest of Kiangsi province, adjoining Fukien and Kwangtung provinces.

Several recent surveys by city engineers show that in metropolitan areas from 15 to 1,800 tons of dust fall on each square mile of territory every year.

JUDGE'S FARM RELEASE

Houston, Tex.—When it comes to farm relief, Federal Judge Kennedy has some ideas of his own. Charles Wels, farmer, was convicted of making whiskey at his home. He was fined $300 and given 46 days in jail. The judge, however, suspended the fine for five years and gave Wels 30 days in which to do his early planting before he reported to start serving his sentence.

WHEN ALL'S WELL

Chicago.—Although it's hard to believe, Chicago has a "quiet hour" practically free from gunfire and exploding bombs. Robert Guthrie, public utility man, has discovered that four in the morning is the quietest hour in the Windy City.

PROTESTS DISCHARGE OF MARRIED WOMEN

Hartford, April 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Edith Valet Cook of New Haven made known today she had written Governor W. L. Cross and the heads of the several state departments and commissions expressing concern of the Connecticut League of Women Voters over a report that married women employes of the State might be dismissed as an unemployment relief measure. Mrs. Cook is president of the body. She said in a letter after alluding to the report and the opinions held elsewhere on the general subject of employment of married women: "May we urge upon you the consideration of this point of view (unjust discrimination) and express hope that Connecticut will not adopt the unfair principle of arbitrary discharging married women from the public service?"

NEW TRIAL OPENED

New Haven, April 27.—(AP)—A blue blazed trail over Mt. Carmel in Hamden was announced today as completed and ready for the feet of hikers by the Connecticut Forest and Park Association. The trail is from the entrance of Sleeping Giant Park on Whitney avenue to the Wharton Brook State Park on the highway between New Haven and Hartford. Between the two trolley lines which supply transportation to either end the distance is six miles. The trail climbs a shoulder through the gap of the range with a side path to the Giant's head, passes the stone but on the third peak, works east to the base of Kia's Knob. The river is crossed by the Tully road at Quinnipac. The new trail opens portions of the Sleeping Giant Park before inaccessible.

PRINCE GETS A JOB

Paris, April 27.—(AP)—A new hand reported for work at eight o'clock this morning in the Ford plant outside Paris and punched the clock as Mr. Orleans. In better days his chief claim to distinction was that King Alfonso of Spain was his first cousin and that Isabella II of Spain was his grandmother. That was when he was Alfonso D'Orleans.

He wrote Henry Ford some time ago asking for a job at Detroit and Mr. Ford offered him a place in the center and furnishing a collection plate. Silk-hatted cherubs peer from among the money bags below her. At the right is suggested David L. Hutton, her new husband, and at the left reclines a figure resembling her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy-Hudson.

SNOW IN WINSTED

Winsted, April 27.—(AP)—Snow fell in Winsted and Norfolk early today and the temperature went down to 35 degrees following a thunderstorm last night. The ground in Norfolk was white in spots. Fruit trees were not believed to have suffered as buds are only slightly developed.

Aimee "Done" in Oil by Prize-Winning Artist

The painting, "Apparition Over Los Angeles," shown above, has been admitted to the walls of the California Art Club at last after being barred by judges of the Los Angeles Museum exhibition as "too controversial." The same judges awarded the artist, Barse Miller, a prize, however. The painting depicts Angeles Temple with Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton in the Lady Godiva manner floating among the clouds in the center and flourishing a collection plate. Silk-hatted cherubs peer from among the money bags below her. At the right is suggested David L. Hutton, her new husband, and at the left reclines a figure resembling her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy-Hudson.

OPEN FORUM

MR. GLENNEY BIDS ADIEU

Editor of The Herald: Thomas C. Glenney of North Coventry, Connecticut, now leaves for Letts, Iowa.

He wishes to say good-bye to all his Manchester friends and to thank them for all their kindness and attention to him during the two years he was permitted to visit South Manchester. I pray that God may bless every one of you and that the trade depression will soon come to an end.

I finish my farewell message with the verse of a hymn which is very often sung by the Salvation Army:

Stand up, stand up for Jesus,
Ye soldiers of the cross,
Lift high His Royal banner,
It must not suffer loss.

From victory to victory,
His army doth He lead,
Till every foe is vanquished
And Christ is LORD INDEED.

God save the King,
God save Ireland.

Amen.
THOMAS C. GLENNEY.

URGES ACTION NOW

Editor, The Herald: While in Providence Sunday, I discussed with several men the recommendation of the Providence finance board that $4,000,000 be provided for relief work during the approaching fall and winter. Similarly staggering sums are being discussed in many other cities. It is very apparent that such estimable citizens as Mathias Spiess, president of the Taxpayers' League, and Selectmen Sherwood

G. Bowers and Frank V. Williams are still in doubt as to the wisdom of the special $50,000 appropriation at the annual town meeting in October.

A little more than a year ago, I urged, through the columns of The Herald, the beginning of definite plans for relief work in Manchester during the winter drawing to a close.

Regardless of what plan we are to follow, now is the time to start the groundwork. If we are to raise a substantial fund through private contributions, we should start some plan of collection now that those who want to help may give a little each week or each month.

Likewise, if we are to be forced to make another substantial town appropriation this should be known that our town officials may plan for same.

I know that no one wants to make political capital or seek personal aggrandizement because of any human steps we decide to take to make sure that many of our best men, women and children shall not be allowed to suffer during the remainder of this depression. Surely this is a subject to which too much consideration cannot be given. And surely it is one upon which we should all unite upon some common ground.

That we may have the benefit of many opinions, won't The Herald urge its readers to publicize their views for out of a cross-section of viewpoints we may improve our relief work and certainly that is an objective all of us are seeking?

Most sincerely,
WILLARD E. ROGERS.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, April 27.—(AP)—The number of dividend paying common stocks in the steel group appears to be getting close to the irreducible minimum. Inland Steel fell from the group along with U. S. Steel Common. Another casualty of yesterday was Jones & Laughlin Steel Preferred, whose quarterly payment was lowered to $1. This is the first break in the $1 rate, to which the stock is entitled, since its creation about ten years ago.

It is reported the Otis Elevator Company has booked a $200,000 contract for the installation of elevator equipment in the new post office and court house in Detroit, Mich.

Nine of the first 28 railroads to report March results showed increases in net railway operating income over March, 1931, suggesting a continuance of the trend shown in February, when many of the carriers made better showings in operating results than in the like 1931 month. Of the first 28 roads reporting for February nine also showed higher net railway operating income than for February, 1931.

Warren Wright has been elected a director of the Paramount Public Corp. to fill a vacancy. He is president of the Calumet Baking Corp. and a director of the General Foods Corp., the John R. Thompson Corp., and the First National Bank of Chicago. The annual meeting of Paramount Public has been postponed until May 10 for a vote by the necessary two-thirds stocks on the proposal to change the common stock of the company from no par value to $10 par.

The "Iron Age" composite prices are unchanged this week at 2.87 cents a pound for finished steel, $14.35 a ton for pig iron and $8.04 a ton for steel scrap.

SPECIAL NEWS EDITION

New Haven, April 27.—(AP)—The Yale News, normally of four or six pages, published a 14-page special edition today in connection with the dedication of Briton Hadden Memorial Hall, the new headquarters of the daily.

The dedication was scheduled for this afternoon, with a program of speakers headed by President James Rowland Angell. Hadden, who established the magazine Time and was twice chairman of the News and graduated in 1920. He died in 1929.

Today's edition of the News was featured by the publication of a hitherto unpublished group of Hadden's undergraduate sketches.

HEAVY THUNDER STORM

Danbury, April 27.—(AP)—During a heavy thunder storm which passed over this section of the state last evening lightning struck in several places in the surrounding country. A large barn on Clapboard Ridge, north of this city, owned by G. M. Rundle, was burned, together with six cows and about 75 tons of hay. A historic elm tree, more than 100 years old, on the farm of David D. Hawley in Great Plain district, was struck by a bolt and badly damaged.

thrift! thrift! thrift!
every day that an Electric Refrigerator is in your Home

THE story of an Electric Refrigerator is a story of thrift in food savings. Summer and winter, spring and fall—24 hours a day—it is busy preventing spoilage and waste—keeping your perishables crisp and fresh—making delicious, inexpensive salads—declaring daily dividends upon your investment.

For a moment let's forget all the glorious fun there is in owning an electric refrigerator. Forget, if you can, all the marvelous frosty salads, frozen puddings, chilly bouillions, icy drinks it helps to make. And forget its convenience, and the protection it offers by keeping food and milk so fresh and wholesome. Let's just look at an electric refrigerator from a strictly business standpoint—size it up purely as a wise investment.

Count up the vegetables, the fruit, the meat, the butter that adequate refrigeration keeps from being wasted. That is thrift! Count up the many intriguing delicacies you can make from little bits of this and that left over from yesterday's dinner. The lettuce, celery—all the leafy green things that it keeps from wilting. That is thrift! Count up the scores of inexpensive frozen desserts that you can make—the bottles of milk and cream that it keeps from souring. That is thrift!

You can buy an electric refrigerator on the easiest terms.

Dial Twisters

By W. J. DALTON
The Mills Brothers are hitting the high spots on their road to riches. Now they are following the usual procedure by making personal appearances in various theaters throughout the United States. Their program will be broadcast from the cities in which they are playing. Ed Wynn, the well known star of many Broadway successes and otherwise known as the perfect fool, made an auspicious start last night in his initial broadcast. The program is different and should continue to be a success unless over-commercialized. Ziegfeld, also, is doing big things by the way of the air. He must be a showman for the reason that his glorification of Eve's daughters is still a hit even though we get it through the ear instead of the eye. Who receives the more fan mail, Amos or Andy? Your wrong, Andy does. When Amos, Andy and the Kingfisher opened their bank some time ago they received hundreds of one dollar bills from listeners. These were to be placed on deposit. A 21-year-old youth in Indiana has what is believed to be the first "cold" or tube-less radio. If his idea is practical his financial worries are over. Big Crosby will be 28 years old on May 2. Arthur Pryor is 61. Helen Willis Moody is to be interviewed tonight, by Grantland Rice. Ya tennis fans should listen to WTIC at 10 p. m. Black make-up instead of red is used when entertainers appear for television broadcasts. The color red shows up as white when televised. The artists must make quite a picture in the studio. George Jessel is no more, on the coffee program. For our part we would just as soon listen to Rubinfon and his violin for a complete Sunday evening program. And our enjoyment would be entirely satisfied with the return of some such program as the Dutch Masters Minstrels, remember them? WTIC in Bridgeport is airing some real talent lately. Sunday noon we heard a piano played as we had seldom heard one played before. The music was bubbling over with personality. A few years back this station's stock in trade was a room full of phonograph records. Few realize that some of the best programs on the air come from our station, WTIC. Each Sunday evening WTIC features "Orchestral Gems" which originates in Hartford. The "WTIC Playhouse" is broadcast with artistic talent and is well liked. There is no more powerful station in the United States than WTIC and it's worthwhile features command a tremendous audience.

UNCLE SAM'S AIDS TO FLOWER GARDENERS

Should Be Planned To Fit Design of House
This is the eighth of a series of articles on flower gardening written especially for NEA service and The Herald.
By DR. WILLIAM A. TAYLOR, Chief, Bureau of Plant Industry U. S. Department of Agriculture
Porch and window boxes, as soon as they are placed and planted, become part of the architectural scheme of the home. This is an added reason for careful and intelligent planning. The boxes themselves and all plants to grow in them should, harmonize with each other and with the general style of the home. There are flowering plants and foliage plants suitable for box culture in variety enough that most gardeners will be able to make selections that will prove suitable and attractive additions to the architectural plan and will still satisfy personal preference in flowers. Annual plants are the first reliance of most gardeners, although the geranium, one of the tender perennials, is one of the flowers most adaptable to box culture. Ageratums, Chinese plinks, pansies, crotons, fancy-leaved caladiums, mignonette, nasturtium, petunias, and verbenas are of easy culture, and with exception of the pansy most of these thrive in full sun. Calliopsis, snapdragons, and heli-chrysis or strawflower are easy to grow and somewhat taller. Cacti for South Window For the hottest southern exposure portulaca or some forms of cacti are growing in favor. Flumbago, dracenas, and grevillea or silk oak are tender perennials usually regarded as greenhouse plants but suitable for boxes in the sun when it is convenient to buy plants in the winter. Gardeners usually transplant to boxes instead of planting seed in them. TOMORROW: Starting plants indoors.

ROCKVILLE

Edward H. Keilner, Rockville real estate dealer, who won a case which involved more than $700 on a sale of property in which Louis Koelsch was the defendant several weeks ago, was awarded judgment by default in a case against Steve Gerick in Tolland County Superior Court today. The judge allowed him three percent commission on the sum of $10,000, with interest amounting to $312. No appearance was entered for the plaintiff. Gerick bargained to sell his farm in South street to Gus Colonius of East Hartford. They were to meet at the law office of a Hartford firm and draw up papers to complete the deal. Keilner claims that he said his prospect would wait a long time but Gerick did not show up. Keilner claimed he was entitled to the commission even though the deal did not go through. Helen S. Stager was granted a divorce from Frank J. Stager on grounds of cruelty and was granted the custody of two minor children and alimony of $20 a month. The divorce case of Florence A. Barker vs. George W. Barker was put over as was that of Dorothy Maud Williams vs. Leslie A. Whitman. Gertrude L. Hart was granted a divorce from William W. Hart on grounds of desertion. The $10,000 suit for damages of William Grady of Vernon against the town of Vernon as the result of an accident on the Dobsonville bridge in March 1931, was heard during the afternoon and was continued today. In the foreclosure case of Thomas F. Horan vs. Marcella Lavine judgment was granted and the limitation day set for May 23. The case of Raymond Forster vs. George A. Anthony was taken off the list. The case of Albert E. Wilkinson vs. Town of Mansfield was settled out of court. Heads Boys' Band At the annual meeting of the Rockville Boys' Band on Monday night, Joseph Hammond was elected president. Other officers are: Vice-president, John Ash; secretary, Carl Prutting; director, Henry M. Schonrock; librarian, Joseph Goldmister. The band has had a most successful year, under the able leadership of Mr. Schonrock and Manager Carl Prutting. They have booked several engagements for the summer season. Friendly Class Banquet The 26th annual banquet of the Friendly Class of Union church will be held in the church social rooms on Wednesday evening, May 4. Dr. Henry Luce has been secured as the speaker of the evening. He is from the Hartford Seminary Foundation. Luther H. Fuller is to act as master of ceremonies. At 8:30 a turkey supper will be served by the Ladies Aid Society of the church. Mrs. Irene (Scharf) Isch of Wethersfield will sing several songs and readings will be given by Mrs. O. C. Peterson of this city. There will also be remarks by Rev. George S. Brookes and the teacher Rev. Charles P. Redfield. Louis Milana, 72, died at his home on East Main street on Monday night following a short illness of the heart trouble. He was born in Italy the son of Benjamin and Tessie (Polomba) Milana, and came to Rockville about sixteen years ago. Mr. Milana had been employed at the Minterburn mill of the Hockanum Mills company for a number of years and had been retired for

URGES GREATER CARE IN GRANTING CREDIT

Leon A. Thorp Tells Credit Association That Smaller Volume of Trade May Be Safer.
At the regular monthly meeting of the Manchester Retail Credit Association held last evening at the Hotel Sheridan Leon A. Thorp, advertising manager of the Manchester Herald, spoke on "Credit Conditions." "Business and individuals are suffering today from an overdose of credit," said Mr. Thorp. "People are still trying to pay for merchandise that they actually couldn't afford to buy three years ago. "To my way of thinking the Manchester Retail Credit Association is a splendid idea that has resulted in credit protection for many business men. You have at your disposal the facilities of the Manchester Rating and Collection Bureau organized a year or two ago. "It is the aim of this bureau to establish a reasonable system of credit for its members. They have been doing a fine job and the data they have gathered together is extremely valuable. It has required a great deal of time and research to get it, something that cannot be accomplished by the individual business man even at a very great expense. "It is better for business men to get together and exchange credit information. It is to your advantage. Business cannot afford to let the secrecy of another day dictate today. "I believe that it is better to do less volume and do it for somewhere near cash or else on credit that you are quite certain is sound. "The postin of a credit manager is more difficult today than ever before. In fact it is one of the very important jobs in any organization. Personal feelings must be subordinated as much as possible in credit relations. Facts and figures must be faced squarely and decisions made to the best advantage of the situation without letting the human element play a too strong part. "All business will be in a much healthier and more liquid condition when reasonable credit restraint has taken the place of unlimited credit extension." ADMIRAL WELLES DIES New York, April 27.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Roger Welles, retired veteran of the Spanish-American War and the Cuban and Philippine campaigns, died yesterday, aged 69. He was born in Newington, Conn., and entered the Naval Academy at 17. Among the decorations he received was the Atlantic Battle Medal for his services in the battle of Nipe Bay in the Spanish-American War. During his 40-year service he was successively assigned to the Board of Inspection and Survey in Washington, the Naval Training Station at Newport, R. I., the Naval Intelligence Department, the Fifth Naval District at Hampton Roads, Va. In the last two assignments he was commandant.

COLLEGE HEAD DIES
Detroit, April 27.—(AP)—Students and alumnus of University of Detroit today mourned the Very Rev. John P. Mc Nichols, S. J., under whose administration as president the university enjoyed its greatest development.
When he assumed the presidency in 1921, the university was housed in a few downtown buildings. At his death, which came last night at Ann Arbor, from a heart attack, the institution embraced 80 acres at the outskirts of the city and his dream of a $40,000,000 college plant had been one-fourth realized.
Although a comparatively young man—he was only 37—Father Mc Nichols' health broke several months ago under the strain of unremitting effort to develop the university into one of the middle west's major educational institutions. He was born in St. Louis, Mo.

TOLLAND
Miss Ruth Cowles of Johannesburg, South Africa, was the guest of the Tolland Federated church on Sunday. Miss Cowles spoke to the church school at the regular session, first to the primary department and later to the whole school, telling her hearers about her experiences in learning the Bantu language and her early work among these people. In the evening at 7:30 o'clock she addressed a fine audience of adults, young people and children on her experiences in the slum district of Johannesburg and of her work in hospital and welfare clinic movements. After her talk the audience was invited to see her pictures and curios. While in Tolland Miss Cowles was entertained in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Simpson. She will leave for South Africa in about ten days. The Federated church is much interested in the work Miss Cowles is doing in Johannesburg, having a share in supporting it. Mrs. Virginia Fulewider of Birmingham, Ala., who is a guest of friends in Farmington, called on friends here Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Campbell and son Wallace, who have been spending several days at the Steele House, have returned to their home in West Hartford. Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the parsonage of the Federated church, Romaine Emil Loberman of South Willington and Miss Marie Kuklik of Mansfield were married by Rev. James A. Davidson, pastor of the church. The bride and groom were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Celsi. The Tolland young people of the Christian Endeavor Society have been invited by the Ellington Chris-

STUDENT DISAPPEARS
Schenectady, N. Y., April 27.—(AP)—Arthur S. Plummer, 20-year-old Union college freshman from Maiden, Mass., walked from his room Monday afternoon and has not been seen since, police here have revealed. The last person to see Plummer, the son of Arthur J. Plummer, a Boston attorney, was his roommate, Myron V. Palmer of Rochester. Palmer said yesterday that Plummer left supposedly to mail his laundry home, but since his disappearance, Palmer recalled that his roommate seemed to be packing clean clothes. It was reported his college work was satisfactory. Friends said he had hurt his head severely several days ago in a friendly wrestling match and that he had complained of pains in his head since. They believed he might be suffering from annesia. The youth's disappearance was revealed last night.

PRESIDENT POINTS WAY TO NATIONAL RECOVERY

Our tax revenues have all greatly diminished.

"We must find new tax revenues to supplant those sources which have been dried up by the depression, so far as our deficits cannot be made up by drastic reductions in expenditures. We must resolutely balance our budgets.

"The economic safety of the Republic depends upon the joint financial stability of all our governments. That stability of the nation is to be attained not alone by the financial stability of the Federal government. It lies equally in the financial integrity of every state, county and municipal government. As executive we are charged under our constitutions with the duty to recommend methods and measures to our legislatures to these ends. I know of no more difficult task. Yet the foundations of recovery of business, of employment and of agriculture depend upon the success of our efforts and the efforts of our legislators.

"You are meeting here to consider many phases of these questions. It is to urge the National aspect of our continued financial problems as well as our Federal issues and to discuss some measures of co-operation that I have accepted your invitation to address you today.

Quotes Figures

"A few figures will assist us in considering the cost of government and the extent to which it has increased in the last 20 years, although all our figures are approximations and have many different bases of calculation. For purposes of illustration I have taken the year 1913 as the last year to reflect pre-war conditions, the year 1924 as far enough removed from the actual war years to fairly indicate the trend, and 1930 as the last year for which figures are available.

"Expenditures including debt retirement from surplus were approximately as follows:

1913 - Federal, $700,000,000; State, $400,000,000; Local, $1,800,000,000; Total, $2,900,000,000.

1924 - Federal, $4,100,000,000; State, $1,400,000,000; Local, $5,400,000,000; Total, $10,900,000,000.

1930 - Federal, $4,200,000,000; State, $2,300,000,000; Local, $7,500,000,000; Total, $13,200,000,000.

"Our outstanding debt was approximately:

1913 - Federal, $1,000,000,000; State, $300,000,000; Local, $3,500,000,000; Total, $4,800,000,000.

1924 - Federal, $21,300,000,000; State, $1,100,000,000; Local, $8,000,000,000; Total, $30,400,000,000.

1930 - Federal, $18,200,000,000; State, $1,800,000,000; Local, $12,600,000,000; Total, $32,600,000,000.

"The causes which have led to this extraordinary increase in expenditures and debts are familiar. They include the burden on the Federal government imposed by the war.

"This accounts for nearly $2,000,000,000 of annual expenditures and for most of the increase in the debt. You will observe that outside of the war influence our greatest increase in costs of government lie in local and municipal agencies.

"Increased Population

"In all our governments, however, Federal, state and local, enlargement of expenditure and of debts has been caused in part by the increase in population, the rise in commodity prices and wages; by the improvement and new building of roads, streets, waterways and airways, imposed on us through the development of the internal combustion engine; and by the growing sense of social obligation to improve education and to enlarge activities in behalf of welfare and relief.

"In addition, I regret to say, increase of government expenditure and of debt has been caused by sectional and group demands and by a large expansion of National, state, and local ventures into business—most of which we perform in a most costly manner. Just as the methods and practices in private business and living have had to be overhauled in this emergency, so also must we overhaul the methods and practices of government.

Government Costs

"Today we are clearly absorbing too great a portion of the National income for the conduct of our various branches of government. Using the most reliable figures available, it appears that before the war the total cost of our National, state, and local governments represented only about 8 per cent of our National income. In boom times, when we might hope that the National income would increase more rapidly than the cost of government, nevertheless the cost of government actually increased to such an extent that it represented approximately 15 per cent of the National income, of which less than 3 per cent was directly due to the war. Today, with the falling off of business, the aggregate expenditures of National, state and local governments probably represent more than 20 per cent of the National income.

"Before the war theoretically every man worked 25 days a year for the National, state and local governments combined. In 1924 he worked 46 days a year. Today he works for the support of all forms of government 61 days out of a year. Continued progress on this road is the way to National impoverishment.

Cut Expenditures

"Some of the expenditures in government can be reduced by postponement of less urgent matters some by permanent elimination of curtailment of functions and activities which have been created over the last fifty years in response to the desire for expanded service by the community. These expanded services are somewhat obsolete but many of them meritorious. But every executive is confronted by the fact that they are established by law and can only be reduced by authority of new legislation.

"There has been also the growth of useless duplication and waste. Many of you have already pointed out and are today struggling to reduce the multiplicity of local governments. Many of these administrative units have been rendered obsolete by improved communications and transportation. In the Federal government we have likewise a large number of functions which should be grouped and consolidated.

"In an emergency these weaknesses become more apparent, and public attention to government and taxes offers opportunity for their revision. We can not restore economic stability in the nation by continuing to siphon so large a part of private effort into the coffers of the government, its abstraction from the people stifles the productivity, the consumption, and the recovery of employment.

Cannot Hide Heads

"Nor can we hide our heads in the sand by borrowing to cover current government expenses, for thus we drain the capital of the country into public securities and draft it away from industry and commerce. Thus a dominant National necessity is to reduce the expenditures of all our governments.

"This is not only the need, it is the universal demand.

"I know that every dollar of decrease in expense, every plan of consolidation in governmental activities, touches some sensitive spot where it causes pain and resentment. While the people as a whole demand and applaud these endeavors toward economy, in the sections and groups greatly impede the concrete efforts of all executives and legislators.

"As a result one of the difficulties that all executives face is the tendency to secure reduction of expenditures at the cost of those services necessary to protection of life, property, defense, and other vital functions rather than to reduce those items which excite the political interest of special groups.

"Another of our difficulties is to arrange our reductions of expenditures so as not to work undue hardships upon a vast group of public employees and to be careful that, while we strive on one hand to assist the unemployed by public works, we do not add to the pool of unemployed through dismissal of large numbers equally deserving, public servants.

Shorter Working Time

"I am in hopes that in the Federal government we can compass the need of reduced expenditure and at the same time, by introduction of shorter working time for each employee, can give all of them a living, can maintain to them the standard of American life and can avoid the inhumanity of thrusting them upon the local communities for support against destitution.

"The other side of our problem is taxation. It confronts all of us in four phases.

"First, the need for ultimate reduction in the tax burden.

"Second, the need, in the existing emergency, for new forms of taxation to replace those sources of revenue which have failed us under present conditions in so far as we can not possibly offset the whole loss of public income by reduced expenditures.

"Third, the great problem of duplication in the tax field between Federal, state, and local governments.

"Fourth, reorganization of the tax basis so as to secure a more just distribution of the tax burden as between the various groups of taxpayers.

Tax Reduction

"Our problem in tax reduction would be a simple equivalent of our savings in expenditures if it were not for the drastic decline in tax receipts—Federal, state and municipal. This decrease has been of serious dimensions because tax sources, particularly for the Federal government, and to a lesser extent state and municipal governments, are dependent upon business activity, upon profits and income.

"The revenues of the Federal government have diminished over 50 percent, and this mainly in one group—the income taxes. And in result the contract obligations alone of the Federal government exceed our tax income.

"As a result of the decreased income of our governments, National, state, and municipal, are frantically searching for new sources of taxation. In this process we are too often duplicating taxes upon the same sources.

"No matter how we disguise it with names such as 'excise,' 'luxury' or 'sales,' the result is the same. The National, state and municipal governments are competing with each other for revenue from business activities. We are all seeking further revenue from business activities.

"While the National government imposes no direct taxes on real property, the state and local governments are all pressing upon each other in taxing it. This same real estate indirectly bears in part the burden which the Federal government lays on profit and income. It all reflects in the rent.

"All these cross purposes contribute to economic duress. The many provisions of multiple taxation multiply so much that a taxpayer coming under several jurisdictions may find himself paying an wholly unreasonable amount for the support of government. The tax levies of the various taxing authorities all constitute a burden on the National income, and in times of depression, when the relative weight of that burden is increased, lack of co-ordination in the system becomes a matter of prime importance.

"One of the taxes which is responsible for a disproportionate part of the hardship of our present tax system is the general property tax. While the National government imposes no such tax, the state and local governments rely heavily on it for revenue. The taxes upon real property are the easiest to enforce.

Owner's Income Drops

"The tendency under pressure of need to continue these taxes unchanged in times of depression, despite the decrease in the owner's income, places undue drag upon that segment of the community in which real estate is the chief property item. Decreasing prices and decreasing income result in an increasing burden upon property owners both in rural and urban communities, which is now becoming almost unbearable.

"The tax burden upon real estate is wholly out of proportion to that upon other forms of property and income. There is no farm relief more needed today than tax relief for, I believe it can be demonstrated that the tax burden upon the farmer today exceeds the burden upon other groups.

"With view to making a suggestion that may be timely to this subject—that is, the conflict between methods of taxation in different segments of government and consideration of the whole question of distribution of the burden of taxation, it seems to me urgent that we should, all of us, through our financial officers give renewed examination to this subject in the light of conditions today and by exchanges between them reconsider the possibilities of the whole problem of better coordination, greater simplicity, and, above all, better adjustment of the burdens among our people.

"Gentlemen, the purpose of my address is to express a desire for greater co-operation and co-ordination of our mutual problems. Just as you are meeting here today to develop helpful action out of common experience, I take the liberty of suggesting to you that similar conferences and examination of problems by the executives of your local governments in each state would be productive of useful results.

"It would help toward a realiza-

Sumptuous gowns and rich furs, worn by the First Lady and the ladies of the cabinet, ushered in the Baltimore opera season. tion that local expenditures and taxes are a part of a great National problem in stability as well as one of local concern. It would contribute to their resolution to bring about constructive economy and co-operation.

"We, as executives, all agree upon the absolute necessity in the interest of the Nation as a whole of reduced expenditures, of better distributed taxation, of balanced budgets. Our town councils, our county commissions, our state legislatures, and the Congress agree upon these fundamentals.

"That is the sure highway toward National recovery.

Public Must Assist

"But to accomplish these things we must have the intelligent support of the people themselves, that selfish vested interest and vested habit do not, by their organized sectional and group oppositions or individual action defeat these high purposes.

"Especially do I take this occasion to pay tribute to the courage shown by our public officials, both executive and legislative, in these problems. Their task is no light responsibility. This duty offers no rosy path to popularity. Rather, it is one to invite the anger of established interests. With the utmost care that can be exercised by the executive officers and the legislators throughout the nation, and with the utmost goodwill, it is bound to cause individual hardship and to grieve the friends of many worthy causes.

"Nevertheless, the duty is inexorable, and its discharge rests inescapably upon all public officers. Its final results will redound to the general public benefit.

Message To Nation

"Therefore, I say to the public: "Be patient, be helpful, recognize the complexity and the difficulty of the problem before these servants of your combined public interest.

"Support them in their task, for upon its successful conclusion depends a most momentous contribution to our united security, our hope of an early return to stability, and the common welfare of every man, woman and child in our nation."

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

It was announced this morning by Principal Quimby that James Toman, '33, is to be awarded the Gorgas medal for his essay "Misquitos, Their Menace, Danger, Control." Toman's composition was selected by the faculty from a group of essays handed in to represent the school in the fourth annual Gorgas memorial essay contest.

The winning high school essays are now in the hands of the judges, and it is hoped that state winners can be announced within three weeks.

The local contestants prepared their papers under the direction of Chester L. Robinson, teacher of chemistry and head of the science department of the school. Toman will receive his bronze medal at the assembly tomorrow afternoon.

The assembly speaker for this year will be Frank A. Coan, who for many years was a foreign secretary in Y. M. C. A. work. His talk tomorrow will be upon "India," and he will speak before both assemblies. At noon he is talking to the students of Loomis Institute and will address the Franklin Building assembly at 1:45, the main building assembly at 2:35. Local people interested in the MAN HUNTERS

BY MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 SUSAN CAREY, 19, and beautiful, works in the office of ERNEST HEATH, Chicago architect. One of her admirers is BEN LAMP, who asks her to marry him. She refuses. JACOB WARING, who works in the same office, asks Susan to go driving one night. Waring sees her and Susan resolves never to go with him again. She falls in love with BOB DUNBAR, young millionaire, whom she met at business school. She believes he is engaged to DENISE ACKROYD, pretty debutante. Heath feels a paternal interest in Susan but his wife dislikes her. Denise Ackroyd asks her to attend a week-end party and ROSE MILTON, Susan's best friend, lends her a suitable wardrobe. Bob Dunbar appears at the party. He drinks too much and engages in a fist fight with Ben. Later he demands to know if she is going to marry Ben.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXV

Ernest Heath was in his library alone. With a sigh of disgust he pushed back the plans on which he had been working. Odd how sometimes everything seemed to go stale, he thought. He had been fighting off this feeling of futility for weeks. He awoke with it in the morning. During the day he seemed able to shake it off but when he was tired or when his brain lagged as it did now it returned in full force.

"What I need is a holiday," he told himself. He rose and strolled about restlessly, picking up small objects and putting them down. He supposed Ruth would be quite late. She was playing bridge at the Hamiltons and they had planned to go later to the club to dance. He might as well go to bed but since he was not in the least disposed to sleep he wandered into the garden. He stood there gazing up at the cold, remote, inaccessible sky, as if it might provide an answer to his problem.

It was a perfect fall night. There was a cool, high wind from the west and a strange stillness seemed to brood over all. It was always quiet there but tonight seemed especially so. Thus it was that when a spluttering sound suddenly rent the stillness the listening man felt his nerves tingle with annoyance. There was a grinding of gears. There was, just once, a faint cry. Heath began to run in the direction of the noise. Down the lane he went, hatless, a tall man in a dinner suit.

When he reached the intersection of the main road he was breathless. He looked to right and left and for an instant he saw nothing. There a little way beyond he caught sight of a lean, greyhound shape at the side of the road. He walked briskly in its direction.

For a moment Heath thought the car was empty. The judge then he discovered what his misapprehended eyes had previously missed. Two tall, young figures. A girl and a man. Relief surged over him and anger, too.

"Young fool!" he muttered. "I might have known there was nothing really wrong."
 He started to return to his quiet garden when something about the girl's pose arrested him. A fragment of what she was saying reached him.

quietly, addressing the girl whose face was only a white blur in the darkness. "Is there anything I can do? I thought I heard a crash—"
 He was shaken when the voice that answered proved to be that of his secretary. Trembling, excited, yet unmistakably Susan Carey's.

"Mr. Heath!" that voice said. "I wonder if you would be so awfully good as to take me back to the Ackroyds. I'm staying there and the others have gone to another party and I have a raging headache."
 Heath concealed his surprise. "I should be delighted," he said, ignoring her escort and wishing he had not left his eyeglasses on his study desk. These tall, young ruffians all looked alike.

"I should be delighted," he repeated. The youth said something in a low voice, too low for Heath to hear. The older man waited, embarrassed. Then he felt a light touch on his arm.

"Shall we start now?" Susan said. She trembled, he said, ignoring her escort and wishing he had not left his eyeglasses on his study desk. These tall, young ruffians all looked alike.

"I should be delighted," he repeated. The youth said something in a low voice, too low for Heath to hear.

"Shall we start now?" Susan said. She trembled, he said, ignoring her escort and wishing he had not left his eyeglasses on his study desk.

"I should be delighted," he repeated. The youth said something in a low voice, too low for Heath to hear. The older man waited, embarrassed. Then he felt a light touch on his arm.

as the lights of another car showed on the drive. Heath was disturbed. Bad luck Ruth's getting back just then. Ruth would be certain to misunderstand. He turned off the ignition, muttered "Excuse me a moment," to Susan and jumped out. The lights of the Hamiltons car swept around the drive and he could see Ruth, holding her furs superbly about her, going up the flagged path. He would have to explain. It would be better that way. She turned as he halted her.

"I thought you'd be in bed hours ago."
 "Don't bother to ring. I have a key," he told her.
 She faced him in the hall, flicking her eyes insolently over him.

"What on earth have you been up to? Your hair's blown every way."
 He began haltingly to tell her but she interrupted him.
 "Some girl from that Ackroyd child's party?" she inquired. "Yes, they were tearing things up at the club. Ronny said. A rowdy young crowd. I can't think why Letty Ackroyd permits it to go on. Of course she's never home and Mrs. Fleury is just a figurehead."

Patently Heath pursued his narrative. "But you don't understand, Ruth. This girl—she's Miss Carey."
 "Who on earth—?" Then the woman's face hardened. "Not—oh, you can't mean—this is too funny!"

"It's very awkward," he said quietly, "but of course I'll see that she gets home all right."
 His wife's eyes narrowed. "She's cleverer than I thought," she said icily. "She's determined to be no fool. This was as good a way as any."
 "Don't be foolish," Heath said sharply. "The girl's as innocent as a child."
 Ruth dropped her wrap on a chair and reached for a cigarette. Her brows were stormy.

"The whole story sounds absurd," she said, "and I warn you if you take this girl home now it will be the worst night's work you've ever done in your life."
 "I don't know what you mean," he turned to go.
 "Don't you? Well, perhaps you will one of these days."
 There was a note of menace under her mocking laughter.

Essad-Bey Tells Wild Tales of Asian Adventures in "Blood and Oil".

The reading public, evidently is a bloodthirsty and hard-boiled group. At least, there does not seem to be any other way of accounting for the popularity of the books written by Essad-Bey.

This gentleman has just produced "Blood and Oil," in which he details the adventures of his youth and early manhood in the wilder sections of the Caucasus. If you go for blood and thunder, especially the former, you'll probably like it.

Essad-Bey's life that was, to say the least, eventful. He grew up in the oil regions of Baku, and before, during and after the World War these regions were the scene of almost uninterrupted turmoil.

Old-fashioned neutrality disappeared with the signing of the pact of Paris—Nicholas Murray Butler, president, Columbia University.

YOUR CHILDREN

DON'T GUESS T.H. MARY'S FOOD PROFESSIONAL ADVICE IS NEEDED.

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

I shall take it for granted that you have a formula for your baby that is agreeing with him, or at least that he is under the supervision of a doctor or someone who knows.

If your baby is ill, if his food does not agree with him, you should not experiment and guess at this and that. Take him to a doctor, or if you have simply no money for a doctor, go to the Board of Health and inquire for a free baby clinic. This is very important. It may mean his life.

But assuming that all is well, that his bottle agrees with him, that he is fat and rosy and getting along fine, have you started his cod liver oil yet, and orange juice, or as a good substitute, canned tomato juice?

Please do not think that these things are just notions, some of the new high faluting ideas "these specialists" are always talking about. It is not a notion that nearly all children born before 1915 had still have rickets. Nobody can talk about cod liver oil in those days and the consequence is that almost everyone had wrong bone formation of some sort when he was small, and soft teeth.

Rickets cannot be seen, and it cannot very often be guessed at. But the story of rickets is long. Not only poor bones but other diseases follow in its trail.

Teeth of tomorrow will be good teeth, not filled with the crumbling dentine we have fought all our lives to save. And all because our mothers did not know about cod liver oil, or the doctors either in those days. Not as a steady diet, that is.

All children before 1915 did not have rickets in spite of the sweeping statements to that effect that mothers who escaped it were mostly country children and children who lived in southern climates. The reason is obvious. Sunlight is either a substitute for the oil or the oil for sunlight. Choose the comparison you prefer. It is the same chemistry found in both, but it is true.

But some rays of the sun are powerful and some are not. Winter sun usually forming its way through fog or smoke, if it shines at all, is not as efficacious, although any sun is bet than none. And to go out with merely hands and face exposed is not enough either. However, country babies are in greater luck than city children because of greater sun advantages. This does not mean that country bred children should never have cod liver oil. I believe the only exception recommended is the hot summer months when the oil dosage is either reduced or taken away altogether.

The amount given varies and the age varies. Your doctor may recommend starting on six drops twice a day at six weeks or he may prescribe more. The dose will be increased gradually.

From two to six the problem becomes variable. Some children will not need cod liver oil during this period, others will take it until they are three or four. Still others, will need it at certain periods—say after a illness, during malnutrition, or a shut-in season of bad weather. Always it should be given under professional advice.

But please do not guess at doses. Be sure you receive and understand directions. If all does not go well, be sure that should be reported to the doctor at once. He may use entirely new tactics then. All bottle babies should be fed under doctor's orders, and even nursing babies, for these too will need supplementary foods at an early age.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

by Alicia Hart
 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

SPRING DEMANDS A SPRINGY STEP

Do warm days make you foot conscious? Most feet need some spring treatment to withstand the hot weather successfully. Exercise is one of the best ways to treat them right.

I have spoken of wriggling your toes whenever you think of it. Now try this. Stand in your bare feet, turning your soles so that they face each other as you can make them, resting your weight on the inside of your feet. Walk about this way. Of course it is awkward and you never in the world would be caught doing this exercise. But it strengthens the arch. And you need a good arch to give you a springy step.

Now do this same thing on the outside of your feet, facing your soles towards each other. Walk about several seconds both ways, morning and night.

Tip-toe about the room too. Harder to do but excellent if heel walking. You can only do it bare-footed. Just walk about on your heels, with your toes pulled up. Before you do any of these exercises, try to imagine yourself a small child standing in some nice wet mud. Or sand, if you don't fancy mud. Wiggle your toes about and turn your feet this way and that, as you would if you were trying to get them both all covered up with mud or sand. Then, stand on one leg and hold the other out and kick and kick all the mud off, if there had been mud.

Now do this same thing on the outside of your feet, facing your soles towards each other. Walk about several seconds both ways, morning and night. Tip-toe about the room too.

HEALTH

WHAT DOCTORS KNOW ABOUT YOUR BRAINS

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
 Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

The difference between man and the ape is the difference between an automatic machine and reasoning power. In other words, brains make the human being different from the animal.

In Liverpool, Dr. W. Blair-Bell, noted British surgeon, considered some of the means devised for determining whether or not a person has the amount of brains necessary for success in life. It is commonly said that one man has brains and another has not, the comparison usually referring to what most people consider average.

The mental tests commonly used fail to take into account numerous factors which are significant; for example, the amount of sleep that the individual has had, his physical state of health, and perhaps the variations in the "testers."

What we call intellectual gifts, such as the ability to learn music, the ability to figure accurately in mathematics, and the ability to remember, are probably inherited in many cases. Theoretically it should be possible to breed people with extraordinary memories or of special musical talent. Some day the world may make a serious effort in this direction.

Memory is called on to play a part in most mental activities. However, all intellectual abilities are capable of education and further development, the degree of development depending, of course, on the amount with which one begins.

Records are available of a lightning calculator who was taken to Cambridge University and who gave marvellous answers to all of the questions, but who could not tell how he got his answers. Neither could he apply his methods in practical use.

In his case it was too late to educate him. He did not have brains; he had talent. No doubt, most of us begin with some brains, but they are of little use unless they are properly trained and adjusted to daily life. A motor

Dixies, Burnsidess Settle Court Feud Here Tonight

Basketball's Finale Promises Excitement

Series Stands At One Game Apiece; Championship of Greater Hartford At Stake In Rec Gym; Bissell To Referee.

A large delegation of Hartford basketball fans may attend the game at the Rec gym here tonight between the Original Dixies and the

Ted Torrant

All-Burnsidess which will decide the championship of Greater Hartford. Rivalry between these clubs has reached a high pitch during the past week or so, especially since the Dixies trounced Burnside 34 to 18 to square the series after losing the opener 44 to 33 a couple of weeks previously.

The titular struggle is due to start at 8:15 and will be preceded by a preliminary tussle beginning an hour earlier. Art McKay's orchestra will play for dancing which will follow the main attraction. This evening's program definitely closes the local basketball season.

The probable lineups will be as follows: Dixies: Silverman, if Hurley, c. Cotter Waterman, rg. W. Thayer Torrant, if Hickey Sherwood Bissell of Manchester has been named to referee the deciding game of the series. Another local angle will be the presence of Elmo Mantell, "Wardy" Waterman and Jim Cotter, members of the Rec Five, in the lineups of the two teams.

The Dixies and All-Burnsidess started playing very late in the season and defeated all of the leading teams in Hartford thus resulting in

Tommy Murphy

The Kevin Barry's claim on the title being somewhat discredited. The Dixies depend mainly on their pass-work and all-around court generalship while Burnside relies principally on the sensational shooting of the Thayer brothers. It should be a battle well worth watching.

The preliminary game tonight will be between the West Sides and Manchester All-Stars and this, too, promises to be hard fought and interesting.

BOWLING

STATE TOURNEY

The official opening day of the Fourth Annual Connecticut Duckpin Tournament has been set for Saturday, April 30 with teams comprising the Eastern Connecticut district opening the program. So far 20 teams have officially entered which at first sight does not appear to be enough to warrant the success of the tournament but Mike Miller of Danbury, Secretary of the affair, states that many have promised to enter teams although their entry blanks were not in his possession at the time he gave out the information.

So far the opening day will be confined to the Willimantic Elks, Ryans Maples of Hartford, Westport Recreation Roger Sherman of New Haven, Lucky Strikes of Willimantic, and the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Co. Girls. These teams will roll singles and doubles in the afternoon and the fives in the evening. There is a possibility that New London, Norwich and South Manchester may also be on hand for the opening day games.

So far the girls entries have been confined to the Rockville-Willimantic team, the Shincosis of Derby and the Waterbury Stars, but entries are anticipated from the Genlot Girls, the Morgan Five, Ryans Maples, Bristol and South Manchester. In the men's division New Haven has entered the Rogers Recreation, Hartford the Morgans, Meriden the Casinos, Bridgeport, both the Danlands and the Sokol-Rosebuds, Danbury the Lee Hat Co., and Derby lining up with the Shincosis men. The Blue Ribbons have split up their team so that Carl Frisk and Mike Mogino will be with the Maples of Hartford, Bill Tato with some Waterbury entry and Jack White will be defending both his titles under the Roger Sherman colors. Both Nick Tronick and Joe Cackel will undoubtedly be rolling with some New Britain organization.

While the entry to date is a fair one it is not in keeping with the anticipated number. Entries will still be accepted and entries will come for a number of teams if any desire to take part in the opening day.

TWO-MAN MATCH
Tonight at Murphy's alleys Charles Kebart and Tommy Conran will bow Howard Murphy and Pete Lacasta in the first half of a home and home match the final half to be bowled at Conran's alleys Thursday. Howard Murphy is out with a challenge to any bowler in town and stands ready to bowl Kebart for the town title for which there has not been a match this season. Kebart would like to roll a home and home match with Moran of Rockville.

Few American Golfers Will Play In England

New York, April 27.—(AP)—Baseball attendances have been good during the first few weeks of the campaign. But a steady falling off in receipts has been shown in nearly every major league park. Before the summer is over, there is reason to believe baseball admission prices must be reduced. The practice followed in many of the parks, of converting ordinary grandstand seats into reserved seats with an added tax, for important games on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, may find the fans cold.

JONES BEATS TERRY IN CLOSE BATTLE

Trenton, N. J., April 27.—(AP)—Gorilla Jones, Akron, Ohio, negro, recognized as middleweight champion by the N. B. A., has abruptly halted the upward climb of Young Terry. "Trenton buzz-saw," Terry carried the fight to the champion throughout their 12-round title bout here last night only to lose the decision on points.

Last Night's Fights

Trenton, N. J.—Gorilla Jones, National Boxing Association middleweight champion, outpointed Young Terry, Trenton, 12. (Retained title).
Des Moines, Ia.—Eddie Anderson, Casper, Wyo., outpointed Paul Wangley, Minneapolis, 10. Mickey Genaro, New York, and Tony Ligouri, Des Moines, drew, 10.
Indianapolis—Roy Wallace, Indianapolis, and Sammy Kid Slaughter, Terre Haute, Ind., drew, 10.
Portland, Ore.—Wildcat Carter, Seattle, outpointed Eddie Edelman, left-handed Eskimo fighter, 6.
Los Angeles—Max Baer, Livermore, Calif., defeated Paul Swiderski, Syracuse, N. Y., (by a technical knockout, 7).

FOXY PHANN

IT'S EASY TO BLAME IT ON THE DEPRESSION—MAYBE YOU'RE NOT IN A RUT...

Thanks to Ben Eastman, Mr. E. J. Genung of Seattle no longer is, without argument, the best half-miler seen on the Pacific Coast. And if I were your Uncle Sam, I'd make sure the boys left the issue open until the finals of the Olympic 800 meters run at Los Angeles this summer.

And lastly, to avoid international protest, I'd warn Dr. Peltzer and Danz of Germany, Larva of Finland, Barsi of Hungary, Tavernari of Italy and a few more to stay out of the way, lest they be completely routed.

Until Eastman came in with world record time for the 800 the other day, Genung, a University of Washington star for three years, held fast to the "coast title," more or less rightfully. Now western fans are promised a local grade battle, one that may result in still newer and faster world records.

Heretofore, Uncle Sam has been content to enlist sprinters and field event men from the coast region. But on the basis of past performances, Eastman and Genung are likely to be one-two in this 800 meter rating, a distance at which sprinting and a distance running overlap.

Genung knows international competition. He tasted it in the British Empire-United States games of 1930. Running the anchor leg in a medley mile team race, the Seattle boy left his British opponent half a lap behind without exerting himself.

ATHLETICS TUMBLE INTO SIXTH PLACE

Beaten 10-2 By Red Sox With Grove On Mound; Yanks Win.

Beaten in six of their last seven starts, their pitching and fielding equally ragged and their morale not what it once was, the Philadelphia Athletics started today from the "unkind" blow of all. The Boston Red Sox, who in recent years have been just a warm-up for the American League champions, put on the finishing touches yesterday when they lapped Lefty Grove 10 to 2 and sent the Mackmen foundering into sixth place. Such a thing is almost unprecedented, since the Sox 16 times last season in 20 engagements, Grove doing the honors three times, twice by the stoutest route.

AMBITIOUS MRS. HILLS VERY ACTIVE IN GOLF

Kansas City, April 27.—(AP)—The ever ambitious Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City hopes to try for the English, French and German women's golf titles in 1932 and almost certainly will make a bid for the American championship at Salem, Mass.

WALKER-LEVINSKY

Chicago, April 27.—(AP)—Mickey Walker will be the favorite when he climbs into the Chicago Stadium ring Friday night to meet King Levinsky, but the Kingfish is so confident of victory that he has decided to pass up an offer to box in Australia.

The King wants to be around to challenge the winner of the heavyweight championship battle between Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey next June, and he figures a victory over Walker will qualify him.

Legion's Junior Loop To Start on May Third

Four Teams To Take Part In Six Week Schedule; All Games At Charter Oak Street Field.

Plans have been completed for the opening of the Manchester Junior Baseball League which will get under way Tuesday, May 3. The league will consist of four teams to be known as the Lucky Strikes, Chesterfields, Camels and Old Golds. Each team will consist of 18 players. Games will be played each Tuesday and Thursday night at the Charter Oak street grounds. The league will run six weeks so that each team will meet the other twice.

Following is the schedule:
May 3.—Lucky Strikes vs. Chesterfields.
May 5.—Camels vs. Old Golds.
May 10.—Lucky Strikes vs. Camels.
May 12.—Chesterfields vs. Old Golds.
May 17.—Chesterfields vs. Camels.
May 19.—Old Golds vs. Lucky Strikes.

May 31.—Old Golds vs. Chesterfields.

June 2.—Lucky Strikes vs. Camels.
June 7.—Old Golds vs. Lucky Strikes.
June 9.—Camels vs. Chesterfields.
The league will give the boys a chance to play with an organized team and also give the coach a chance to look over the boys and select the best from the league to represent the Dilworth-Cornell Post on the diamond. Following are the captains and players of each team:
Lucky Strikes
(Captain, Fredrick McCurry)
Catchers: Everett Arlington, Walter Forde; pitchers, Wm. Leone, Jos. Muldoon, Jr., Wm. Cotter, Jr.; first base, Wm. Kesh, Jack May; second base, Michael Swilke, Louis Vinice; shortstop, Winston Smith; third base, Michael Brozowski; outfielders, Arthur Fallon, Arlington La-Cross, Howard Moore, Edwin Kose, Warren Anderson.

FIELDS-MCLARNIN

Chicago, April 27.—(AP)—Matchmaker Nate Lewis again is negotiating for a championship bout between Jackie Fields, world welterweight champion and Jimmy McLarnin in the Chicago Stadium. The only hitch is a stipulant by Jack Kearns, manager of Fields, that McLarnin promise a return bout should he win. Pop Foster, McLarnin's pilot, has said he will not agree to that condition.

PLAY PRO GAMES

Chicago, April 27.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago Cubs will play doubleheaders at Wrigley Field May 29 and June 3, to square up for games postponed because of cold weather Monday and Tuesday, President W. L. Veck announced today.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, April 27.—(AP)—The Stock Market was inclined to venture cautiously higher in another session of light trading today.

The list pushed up a point or two at the start, then relinquished its gain during the middle of the morning.

Appearance of support for U. S. Steel and General Motors at the bear market lows was encouraging, however, and rails led another little rally after midday.

The dividend and earnings news on U. S. Steel appeared to have been largely discounted. That issue sagged 5-8 to 28 1-4, then recovered to above 29.

Miscellaneous issues advanced 1 to 2 points after midday included Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, Pennsylvania, American Telephone, North American, Pacific Gas, Allied Chemical, Drug, Air Reduction, American Tobacco "B", Liggett and Myers "E", Corn Products, Borden, Standard of N. J., and American Can.

While Delaware and Hudson, U. S. Steel Preferred sold off 2 points, despite ordering of regular dividend on that issue, but recovered later.

Rails were apparently helped by ordering of the regular dividend of $2.25 by Delaware and Hudson, and continuation into March of the slight improvement in railroads earnings in February.

Roughly a third of the roads which have thus far reported net operating income for March showed gains over the same month of last year, although many of the carriers are still failing to earn fixed charges.

The midweek business statistics made a somewhat mixed showing. The electric power production figures for the week ending April 23 showed a drop of 12.3 per cent against 9.8 per cent in the previous week, and the largest comparative decline so far this year.

It was notable, however, that there was a sharp gain in power consumption in the like week a year ago, in contrast to moderate decline in the preceding two years.

The "Iron Age" weekly survey tended to counterbalance the adverse effects of the omissions of common dividends by U. S. Steel and Inland Steel, reporting ingot output at 23 per cent of capacity against 22 1-2 in the previous week, and adding that the immediate outlook was for further improvement.

The sky cop flew around a bit. He seemed afraid that he would hit a tree or two in landing. "Here's a safe spot," Scouty cried. The sky cop answered, "Thank you, son. I'll show you how neat landing's done." And then he floated down and landed right by Scouty's side.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

The Modern Version
 Mother, may I go out to swim?
 Yes, my darling daughter,
 But if that's the suit you're gonna wear
 You'd better stay under the water.

There is one thing to be said about this depression. At least it has silenced the chorus of rising young financial geniuses who used to brag about the stupendous amount of money they were making.

Wife—Paul, this suit is very shabby. May I give it away?
 Hubby—Heavens, no. That is the suit I go in to protest against my taxes.

Modern Version: "What the Lord giveth, the installment man taketh away."

Attaboy!

Hero—Cur! Where are those papers?
 Villain—They are at the blacksmith's.
 Hero—Ha! So you're having them forged?
 Villain—No, I'm having them read!

The guards want about their task of affixing the electrodes to the body of the doomed man in the electric chair. The chaplain bent over him and asked:
 Chaplain—Have you any final request, my poor mortal? I am here to do anything you ask.
 Doomed Man—Yes, parson, it'll comfort me a whole lot if you will just hold my hands.

"Burglars are usually gloomy men," observes a writer. You certainly never find them singing at their work.

Little Mary was left to fix lunch, and when mother returned with a friend she noticed Mary had the tea strained.
 Mother—Did you find the lost tea strainer?
 Little Mary—No, mother, I couldn't, so I used the fly swatter. Mother was nearly swooning, so Little Mary completed it with:
 Little Mary—Oh, don't get excited, mother, I used the old one.

A train was approaching.
 Dennis—Here she comes.
 Casey—Here it comes, you mean.
 Murphy—Yes is both wrong, it's a mail train.

That man's fashion expert knew onions when he predicted that there will be little change in men's clothes this spring.

A young lawyer who had been taken into partnership with his father soon got the idea that he was the whole firm, and fell into a habit of saying, at the conclusion of every successful case: "Well, father, I won that case all right." Finally, the old man, becoming irritated, protested: "George, it seems to me that whenever this firm does anything you might give me half the credit. Don't put on so many airs." The youth took the advice to heart, and a few days later rushed into the office: "Father, I—I mean we—are being sued for breach of promise."
