CORN BORER INSPECTORS CAUSE FARMER'S ARREST

Walter R. Green Told To Burn Cornstalks But Didn't—Promises Court To Do As Ordered.

Walter R. Green, 43-year-old Wapping farmer, was tried in South Windsor town court on a minor but unusual charge. Green, owner of a farm on the Ellington Road about a mile north of the four-corners at Wapping, had been ordered by corn borer inspectors to burn or plough under a field of old cornstalks which had harbored "the borer pest" throughout the winter. When he failed to heed the warning, representatives of the Agricultural Extension Bureau communicated with Prosecuting Attorney Horace C. Vibert and a warrant was issued for his arrest. It was served by Sheriff C. Vinton Benjamin.

Presented before Judge Ralph M. Grant last night, Green said strong winds have kept him from burning the cornstalks. He promised to burn them over, to plough the field or ploughing the cornstalks under and this influenced Judge Grant to suspend judgment on payment of costs which amounted to $10. Another case in the South Windsor court last night attracted considerable attention because of the many tobacco growers living in the section. William H. Shank of East Hartford was fined $50 and costs plus a thirty days suspended jail sentence for selling and delivering a crop of tobacco which he had mortgaged to William R. Wood of South Windsor. The sale was made without Shank notifying the purchaser, M. J. Gans of Hartford, of the mortgage, or Wood of the sale. Sheriff Benjamin made the arrest. A Polish farmhand working for Martin McGrath was given a 30 days suspended jail sentence for beating his wife. A speeding case, the arrest made by Constable Walter Smith, was continued to a later date.

FLOODS SUBSIDING
London, May 25.—(AP)—Floods which have caused nearly $2,000,000 damage and cost four lives in the Ohio will be the principal speaker. The becalmation of the English midlands this week were reported to be subsiding today in word received here over crippled communication lines. The Avon, however, still was nearly 12 feet above normal stage, marooning the new Shakespeare Memorial theater at Stratford.

The premier will give $5,000 to family of Hader and $3,000 to Bibay's family, and a marble column will be erected at Elitzso Field, where they crashed as they were landing from Budapest to attend the convention of trans-oceanic fliers. A commission of aviation experts found the accident was caused by a propeller which broke just a moment before the plane would have landed.

CHINESE STRIKE SPREADS

Shanghai, May 25.—(AP)—The Chinese postal workers strike which has tied up incoming and outgoing mail here and in several other cities since the beginning of the week, appeared spreading today. There was a threat that other labor unions would join with the postal workers and tie up the commercial and industrial life of the whole nation unless the national government grant the workers demands. The strikers here claimed thirteen other cities were added to the list of those supporting them. Incomes must be brought back if we are to end the depression, a New York financier says. And, asks the working man, how about wages?

CAUCUS THROWS OUT IDLE RELIEF PLAN

Fairfield County Officials Defeat Resolution For Voluntary Contributions.

Bridgeport, May 25.—(AP)—A resolution that county employes be asked to make a voluntary contribution of 10 per cent of their salaries to unemployment relief was defeated today, 19-3 at the annual county budget meeting of Fairfield county Representatives in the General Assembly and state Senators. The resolution defeated was offered by Representative Clifford Meany, of Bridgeport.

The caucus voted to submit an estimate of expenditures and receipts that would leave a balance of $185,772.50 to be raised by taxation for the fiscal year beginning October 1, 1932.

This bill came before the caucus on the recommendation made by Miss A. Baker and John S. Thornhill, the latter presiding.

Censure Farm Bureau
The Fairfield county Farm Bureau was censured by the county meeting for having an item of expenditures totaling $500 in the budget, which the commissioners recommended be raised $400 even though Commissioners Thornhill and De Lacour admitted but disclaimed all knowledge of the purpose of the added moneys.

A suggestion was made by Representative Marjorie D. Farmer, of Darien, that no moneys should be approved without full knowledge of the purposes which the application is to be devoted.

Senator Goldstone of Bridgeport offered a resolution that the budget money appropriated but that all expenditures be closely investigated, and that detailed reports on these questions should be mailed to all Representatives and Senators.

Commissioner Thornhill then gave the chair to Hugh Shields, Representative of Ridgefield, and took the floor to launch a talk on salaries and wages of county employes.

CONGRESS HOLDS MEMORIAL SERVICE

Lower House Pays Tribute To Legislators Who Have Passed Away.

Washington, May 25.—(AP)—In honor of its own dead, the House today placed aside legislative duties for a solemn ceremony. The same tribute of comradeship that the playing of taps gives to the soldier, was extended to the legislators who have died since the last session in the reading of a final roll call.

It is an annual custom, made pregnant this year however, by presence on the roll of noteworthy names and by the feeling that many on the list actually had succumbed in extraordinary service of the country under the terrific pressure of the session's reconstruction program.

Longworth Remembered

Nicholas Longworth was the name of all the memorial list of 16 House members which brought back the most vivid memories. Six years their speaker "Nick" was given homage by Republicans and Democrats alike—and by none more loyally than his political enemy and personal friend, Speaker Jack Garner.

Longworth's widow, Alice Roosevelt Longworth joined with relatives of other members memorialized in accepting the invitation to sit on the floor of the House during the ceremonies.

Morrow Heads List

Dwight W. Morrow's name headed the Senate list of three. Still coupled by the added tragedy of the death of the Lindbergh child, none of the Morrow family felt able to attend.

Among the widows who were given honored places at the services were Senator Hattie Caraway of Arkansas, successor to her husband, the late Thaddeus Caraway; Mrs. Henry Allen Cooper, whose husband, the Representative from Wisconsin was long dean of the House; Mrs. Percy E. Quinn, Mrs. Albert H. Vestal and Mrs. Edward M. Beers.

With the exception of a few whose homes were far away a family delegation attended for each memorialized Representative.

Those Honored

The names with dates of death of those honored were: Senator Dwight W. Morrow, New Jersey, October 5, 1931; Senator Thaddeus H. Carey, Arkansas, November 6, 1931; Senator William J. Harris, Georgia, April 18, 1932; Representative Henry Allen Cooper, Wisconsin, March 1, 1931; Representative James B. Aswell, Louisiana, March 15, 1931; Representative Nicholas Longworth, Ohio, April 9, 1931; Representative Matthew V. O'Malley, New York, May 26, 1931; Representative Charles A. Mooney, Ohio, May 20, 1931; Representative Geo. S. Graham, Pennsylvania, July 4, 1931; Representative Charles G. Edwards, Georgia, July 12, 1931; Representative Bird J. Vincent, Michigan, July 18, 1931; Representative Samuel C. Major, Missouri, July 28, 1931; Representative Ernest W. Ackerman, New Jersey, October 15, 1931; Representative Fletcher Hale, New Hampshire, October 22, 1931; Representative Henry M. Wisbach, Texas, November 6, 1931; Representative Percy Quinn, Mississippi, February 4, 1932; Representative Samuel Rutherford, Georgia, February 4, 1932; Representative Albert H. Vestal, Indiana, April 1, 1931; Representative Edward M. Beers, Pennsylvania, April 21, 1932.

MUTINY REQUESTED

Constanza, Rumania, May 25.—(AP)—Mutiny broke out today aboard the British tanker Saxonia. Fourteen Chinese sailors, each of them armed, menaced the officers and then left the ship, preventing its departure.

The Rumanian authorities arrested the deserters and put them back on the Saxonia despite their protests.

SERG. ECKELS AWARDED PURPLE HEART ORDER

Ellington Man, Wounded in France, Gets Unusual Honor; Is Now in the Army.

Staff Sergeant John J. Eckels, U. S. A., whose home is on Mountain street, Ellington, just over the city line, has been awarded an emblem of the Order of the Purple Heart by the War department at Washington. The emblem is awarded to soldiers who were wounded in battle. The Order of the Purple Heart was instituted by George Washington. It was awarded only to three men in the first year of the war. They were men of valor in the early days of the country. In this year of the Bi-Centennial the War department at Washington has decided to award the emblem of the Order of the Purple Heart to American soldiers wounded in battle. The emblem awarded to Sergeant Eckels is the 221st awarded, and was forwarded by the adjutant general of the War department. Mr. Eckels was sergeant in the 102nd Regiment, 26th division, during the war. After the war he was mustered out of service and went to reside on his farm in Ellington because of his physical condition, having been gassed during the war. Five years ago he returned to the army. On June 10 he will leave for Fisher's Island and on June 13 will sail from New York for San Francisco by way of the Panama Canal and will continue to Hawaii. Sergeant Eckels expects to be stationed at Fort Shafter, three miles from Honolulu.

Sergeant Eckels went to France in September 1917, and returned in May 1919, and served on five fronts and was reported killed during a gas attack. For about a month he was blind, but recovered and again went to the front.

For Bootlegging, Xavier Angelot of Tolland, was arrested on Sunday afternoon as the result of a raid at his gasoline station, which is located on the Crystal Lake road, on Sunday afternoon. He was arraigned on the same day before Justice Harry Morganson in the Tolland Justice Court. He was fined $100 on each count, together with a suspended jail sentence, but due to the fact that he was unable to pay the fine he was taken to jail. The station was formerly known as the D. & G. Tavern and is owned by Mrs. Suchs of Eagleville. It was stated today that friends of the young man were trying to raise money to have him released.

The Poppy Sale conducted by the American Legion and Auxiliary in the city the past week is reported to be most successful. During the ten years Dobbins Post has been in existence in Rockville it has handled hundreds of cases brought to the attention of its officers and members of needy ex-service men, whether members of the organization or not. Through the efforts of the same Legion temporary relief has been afforded to many who needed a helping hand for short periods. It has been the aim of the local Post not to allow its members to apply to the town for aid, except in cases where the drain has been too heavy for the Legion fund to carry. The money from the sale of the Legion Poppy will help carry on this work.

Damon Temple Meeting. Damon Temple, Pythian Sisters, met in Castle Hall on Monday night and the committee in charge of the 19th anniversary reported that all plans are complete for the event which will be held this evening. Members with their families and members of Damon Temple have been invited to attend. There will be an entertainment program and dancing.

A large number of the members attended the meeting of Amantuck Temple in Thompsonville last evening at which time the Grand Chief, Mrs. Francis Chambers of South Manchester, made her official visit there.

Announcement was made at the meeting on Monday night that a district meeting will be held in South Manchester on June 28. The social committee for the month of June includes Miss Mildred Badstueber, Miss Pauline Weber and Mrs. Ellen Foss.

To Appear in Recital. Terese Marie Thrall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Thrall of Grove street, will appear in a recital to be given at the Woman's Club, Hartford, on Friday evening. She is but six years of age and has appeared before the public since the age of four years. The little miss is one of the youngest dancers to appear on the professional stage in the state.

tion from South Manchester will also be present on Thursday evening.

On Friday night Mr. Neelans will preach on "Palm Tree Christians." This will conclude the services of the revival.

Superior Court June 7. The next session of the Tolland County Superior Court will be held in the Superior court room, Memorial building, on June 7. Many cases of importance will come before the court. The cases will be listed and ready for publication in about a week.

Going To Ireland. Miss Mary Ellen Cogrove, niece of Mrs. A. L. Chappelaine of the Rockville House will sail on Saturday, June 4 on the S. S. Britania from New York City for Ireland. She will be accompanied by her cousin, Miss Mary Naughton of New York City. They plan to attend the Eucharistic Congress in Dublin the latter part of June. While there they will visit their parents in Castlerock County, Mayo, Ireland, also other relatives and friends.

News. The Ladies Aid Society of the Rockville Methodist Church will meet on Friday afternoon at the home of Miss Simball of Hammond street.

The card party under the auspices of the Ladies Aid of the W. E. church, will be held in Wesleyan Hall instead of at the home of Mrs. Alice Kingston.

Mrs. John Shea has returned to her home in Brooklyn, N. Y., after spending several days as the guest of Mrs. D. J. McCarthy of Gaynor Place.

Alden Skinner Camp will hold a meeting in G. A. R. Hall on Thursday night. The auxiliary will hold a public whist in the anterooms of G. A. R. Hall on the same evening, at which the first prize will be a $3 piece set of dishes.

Don't forget that the summer months are the best periods in which to enjoy short wave reception. South American stations may be heard especially well at this time and those of you who have short wave outfits need not be surprised to hear from "way down under" in Australia.

The Republican National convention starts on June 14 to be followed by the Democratic convention on June 28. Graham McNamee will do the announcing for NBC while Ted Husing carries on for CBS.

New tubes and apparatus galore will be shown at the radio shows throughout the country. New tubes and devices for television reception have not shown promise, as yet, for a practical, commercial outfit.

The larger stations are becoming worried over the wholesale cancellation of sponsored programs for the summer months. Some advertisers have curtailed their time on the air while others have quit all together with no definite plans for future broadcasting.

When a sponsor of a program fails to renew his contract it means that from one to fifty or more stations feel the loss in revenue.

Amos and Andy have refused a fat offer to conduct a column for a Chicago newspaper. They intend to concentrate on the one feature so long as it holds public favor. It is quite a coincidence that one manufacturer should control two of the most popular features on the air. The Goldbergs are running Kingfish and Company quite a race for popularity.

Called By President. New Haven, May 26.—(AP)—John Day Jackson, editor and publisher of the New Haven Register, one of thirty publishers of the country called into conference by President Hoover, left today for Washington to keep the engagement.

GIRLS' FRIENDLY HOLDS A SUNSET SERVICE

About thirty members of the Girls' Friendly society of St. Mary's church enjoyed the sunset service held Monday evening at Sunset Hill. The girls left the parish house at 6:00 o'clock, each carrying a box lunch. Coffee was served, which was prepared at the home of Mrs. John Turner, nearby.

Later in the evening an appropriate ceremonial service was held, under the direction of Margaret Stratton, chairman of worship. The following took part: Branch President, Hannah Jensen, Associates, Gertrude Lidson and Dorothy Russell, Alice Alden, Edna Cordy, Annie Summerville, Edna Kennedy, Dorothy Jensen, Alice Hall, Evelyn Carlson, and Dolores Trotter. There was group singing at the close of the program. Associate Helen Crawford was general chairman.

LULLS CELEBRATE
GOLDEN WEDDING

Huntington Street Couple Receiving Friends Today In Honor of Event.

Fifty years ago today, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Lull of 82 Huntington street, were married by the Rev. Elias W. Robbins of the Center Congregational Church in the church parsonage, now the home of Mr. and Mrs. U. J. Lupton and family 36 Porter street. Today, on their golden wedding day they are surrounded by their two children, relatives and friends from this and other towns, who have met to wish them continued happiness and health through life.

Early Life
William B. Lull was born in Whitney's Point, N. Y., and came to Manchester as a boy of 14, and obtained work in Cheney Brothers. Boys began work at an early age in those days, and it was not many years before the young silk worker met Nellie Burdick, daughter of Elisha and Maryette Lyman Burdick of South Bolton. They were married May 25, 1882 during apple blossom time and started apple-keeping on Chestnut street.

Two daughters came to bless the union, Miss Carrie B. Lull, and Miss Nellie M. Lull. The former is organist of the Talcottville Congregational Church and is a teacher of the piano. Miss Nellie Lull is a teacher in the Lincoln School.

Their interests

During the years the local couple lived quietly dividing their interests in the children and affiliations with King David Lodge, I. O. O. F. and Sunset Rebecca Lodge. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lull are charter members of the latter lodge. Mrs. Lull is a member of Orford Parish Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution and of the Cosmopolitan Club and is Past Noble Grand of Sunset Rebecca Lodge, and a member of the Center Congregational Church.

In May 1920 Mr. Lull was pensioned from Cheney Brothers and now devotes his leisure hours in the care and attention of his house and grounds on Huntington street. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lull enjoy good health.

Reception
At the reception which is being held this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock and from 7 to 9 this evening, it is expected that guests from Gilead, Holyoke, and Whittamie will be present. On her father's side, Mrs. Lull expects three uncles, all of whom have celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lyman of Gilead, also expected to be present, have celebrated their 50th anniversary.

CALLED IMPORTANT
Lake Geneva, Wis., May 25.—(AP)—Discovery by Dr. Karl Reinhold of the Heidelberg, Germany observatory, of a new planetoid was described today by Dr. Edwin Brant Frost, internationally famous astronomer as exceedingly important.

"The new object," said Dr. Frost, "will make possible a much more accurate scale of the universe. For instance we do not know at present the distance between the earth and sun within 50,000 miles. Measurements with the aid of the new body will enable us to determine distance within 10,000 miles."

U. S. POPULATION DROPS

Bermuda

Chicago, May 25.—(AP)—Prediction that the United States is approaching an era of declining population was voiced today by F. K. Whelpton, University of Chicago research expert.

Writing in the American Journal of Sociology, Dr. Whelpton said an analysis of the 1930 decennial census indicated the decline. There was a drop from 1920 in children under five years of age and an increase in groups of older age.

Dr. Whelpton, who is connected with the Sociology Department of the university, says that the United States has had the lowest birth rate in the world since 1920.

A German has invented a roll of paper that can be withdrawn for taking notes included in the shaft of a pencil.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 25.

A FROZEN ASSET
 The New York Herald Tribune, siding up the coming Presidential conflict in the light of present conditions, professes to believe that if the election were held today as between Mr. Hoover and Governor Roosevelt the former would be overwhelmingly upheld because of his steadfastness in holding to "economic truth" and because of Roosevelt's tendency to wander off into the fields of "economic experimentation."

Tell that to the Marines! The Republican party is not going to win the coming election by standing pat on the traditions of 1896 or 1920. The Democrats are not going to lose it merely because they have a candidate who gives evidence of being willing to try something different. "Tried and true" economics, even when they come direct from the Bible in such declarations as "the poor shall never cease out of the land," are not going to satisfy people who have no jobs.

There is no sap in the "tried and true economics" that have so completely failed to prevent misery in the midst of plenty, out of which the Republican party or any other can boil down a victory in the next Presidential election. The sooner the Herald Tribune and other champions of the as-was realize this the better for the prospects of Mr. Hoover and his party.

It is exactly in proportion as the President has manifested the inventiveness and the courage to try new devices and methods to revive business that he has retained the confidence and faith of the people and it will be exactly in proportion as the people believe that he will go on with further experimentation in their interests if need be that they will support him on election day.

No more certain way of losing the election could be conceived than for the defenders of the Republican party to broadcast the impression that Mr. Hoover belongs to that fatalistic group of troglodytes whose feet are stuck in the "tried and true" mud of utterly discredited economic error.

This 1932 Presidential contest is about as much like the one of 1920 or 1924 as a horned toad is like a basket of lilies of the valley. And the way to drive voters to the opposition is to accuse the opposition's candidate of being an experimenter. The people are fast getting into a mood to try anything once, even cannibalism with any old stuffed stand-patter as the dinner dish.

WALKER SIDE ISSUE
 Today was reached the climax of the Hofstadter legislative investigation into the government of New York City when Mayor Walker was given his opportunity to explain many things.

The investigation has continued for so long a time that the facile attention of the people of the East, which was attracted to the probe and lingered with it for many weeks, has very largely turned to other matters in more recent months.

Before turning away, wearied by the long drawn out tale of sordid corruption and betrayal of duty by almost countless Tammany jobholders big and little, the public mind had become unalterably convinced that the quality of official morality simply is not in the governing machine of the greatest American city; it had become inured to all surprises.

In the city itself there is still a great deal of interest—like that taken in a circus—in the Senbury investigation and particularly in the quizzing of Jimmy Walker. But to the outside public almost the only concern is the possible effect of probable Walker revelations upon the Presidential election.

if the committee's counsel, Samuel Seabury, when he gets through with his grilling of the mayor, petitions the governor for that official's removal from office? Will Mr. Roosevelt have the courage to comply? And if he does what will be the consequences to himself and his Presidential aspirations? Will Tammany, in revenge, be able to prevent Roosevelt's nomination at Chicago? And if not will it be able to defeat him at the polls in November—as it undoubtedly would seek to do?

Nobody cares much what Jimmy says for himself. Nobody believes that he can purge himself of the charges that he has always played the Tammany game in the regular Tammany way. And nobody expects that the people of New York City will think, on the whole, much the less of him no matter what gruel is shown to be his. It is the Roosevelt candidacy rather than Jimmy that goes on trial today.

CAN'T MAKE IT WORK
 The business of enforcing the Volstead act is becoming more and more difficult as one federal judge after another discovers points of incompatibility between that law and the Constitutional rights of citizens. Now, according to a decision by Judge Elisha H. Brewster at Boston, it is determined that dry agents no longer may hold up individuals whom they suspect of having flasks on their hips and searching them, even if the suspects are found in speakeasies, unless the officers are provided with warrants for the arrest of the individuals.

Last week Judge George W. Anderson, also in Boston, ruled that motor vehicles carrying liquor cannot be searched nor the operators arrested unless a proper warrant is displayed. Dry agents, Judge Anderson held, must have personal knowledge that liquor is aboard a vehicle before they can legally stop it.

There is little satisfaction in all this to those persons who believe in law and order. No comfort in the knowledge that the federal laws can be flouted with impunity. But neither would there be any satisfaction or comfort in readjusting the effect of these decisions in the only way possible to make the Volstead law enforceable—by again amending the Constitution and repealing sections of the Bill of Rights.

Obviously, in the light of these rulings, the fault lies either with the Constitution or the Volstead act. It is unthinkable that the best of the Constitution shall be scrapped to make a sumptuary law work. The only way out seems to be to either repeal the Volstead act—so clearly unconstitutional in many of its provisions—or else amend it to conform to the basic law of the land.

NOT A PRIVATE MATTER
 The fact that more than a score of Manchester people have been put under treatment for the prevention of possible infection with rabies, over a period of many weeks, without any effort on the part of the authorities concerned to make the situation known to the public would seem to reflect a curious misapprehension of their responsibilities. Publicity is one of the most important of all agencies in the protection of the people against such dangers as those created by a hydrophobic epidemic and it is very difficult indeed to understand the attitude assumed in this instance toward possible exposure of the townspeople to unwarranted danger.

There might very well have been less liberty for dogs, much less handling of animals by owners and their families and much earlier reports of suspected cases of rabies if the town had been "informed of the presence of the disease here at the beginning.

One can understand that official frames of mind which leads its possessors to keep officially acquired information of any sort away from the people on the ground that it is none of their business or because it might unduly alarm them, but it is not easy to be patient with it when the knowledge concerns a public peril against which the public has every right to be warned.

This rabies situation is serious. It may be that it has not been aggravated by the policy of secrecy pursued. On the other hand it may have been. In our opinion it was a decided error of judgment not to keep the public fully informed and at least give it a chance to protect itself. The presence of hydrophobia in a community is not a private matter.

FRANCE AND GOLD
 There are stirrings and mutterings of half awakened suspicions that industry and trade, national or international, cannot be substantially and healthfully restored until something effectual has been done about the money base on which rest not only all credits but general prices.

FIND AMERICAN'S BODY
 Paris, May 25.—(AP)—The body of a man taken from the Seine yesterday was identified today as William Kotler, 25, of Boston, Massachusetts, who disappeared May 12.

Identification was made by Kirkland Springer, an American friend. Kotler had been missing for some time before he disappeared. He had stated to friends he might either be in the French Foreign Legion or in the committee's counsel, Samuel Seabury, when he gets through with his grilling of the mayor, petitions the governor for that official's removal from office? Will Mr. Roosevelt have the courage to comply? And if he does what will be the consequences to himself and his Presidential aspirations? Will Tammany, in revenge, be able to prevent Roosevelt's nomination at Chicago? And if not will it be able to defeat him at the polls in November—as it undoubtedly would seek to do?

Answer: It would not be necessary for a man to wear a hat except in bad weather, and there is no reason for using a hat in temperate climates except to conform to conventional standards so as not to appear queer. It appears advisable, however, to wear a hat if one must be in the direct rays of the sun in a tropical climate for many hours at a time.

(Pleats of the Stomach)
 Question: Mrs. Alicia W. asks: "What is a pleat of the stomach, what it consists of and how can it be cured for such a condition?"

Answer: Pleats of the stomach simply means protrusion of the stomach. This is caused through a weakening of the abdominal muscles and a stretching of the ligaments which attach to the stomach. A cure can be achieved through strengthening the abdominal muscles and increasing the functional tone of all the abdominal organs.

40 MEN IN SWAMP
 Tokyo, May 25.—(AP)—A dispatch to the Rengo (Japanese) News Agency from Hanoi, Manchuria, today said 40 persons were killed and more than 100 injured yesterday in a flood in the province of Yunnan.

The report said a flood caused by heavy rains had inundated a large area of the province.

HEALTH AND DIET ADVICE
 By DR. FRANK MCCOY
BAKING, ROASTING, BROILING, GRILLING AND BRAISING.
 Baking is a process of cooking food in the dry heat of an oven. Great temperatures are in this way possible, but the interior of most foods will scarcely ever reach the boiling point. Baked foods are drier than boiled foods, and some dehydration takes place in the exterior parts of all baked starchy foods. Baked foods are better than boiled foods because all of the juice and mineral elements can be retained.

In baking meat in the oven, the temperature very hot and keep it hot for about fifteen minutes. This will seal in the juices. Then reduce the heat and baste frequently to keep the meat moist and well-flavored. Baking seems to bring out some of the most extractive more strongly than any other method.

For baking beef or mutton, bake twenty minutes for each pound, allow twenty minutes extra. Pork or veal take twenty-five minutes for each pound, allowing twenty-five minutes over.

Baking is a wholesome method of preparing food, especially those which you might ordinarily think of as being baked, such as carrots, beets, cauliflower, string beans, peaches, and celery. The larger and more solid foods may simply be placed in the oven with a pan underneath to catch the drippings, but the small leafy vegetables should be placed in a baking pan with a cover on to maintain their moisture. Many different vegetables may be combined in this manner.

Roasting, broiling, and grilling are practically the same process and consist in cooking food by direct radiation in an unconfined atmosphere.

Roasting is similar to baking, except that it means cooking over hot coals or open fire. It is now often used to mean baking in the oven. The larger joints of beef and pork are referred to as roasts, even though they are really baked.

Broiling and grilling are terms applied to cooking about a dozen pieces of meat. These three processes aim at quickly coagulating the surface of the meat so that the most of the juices are retained, and those which escape form the meat gravy used for basting or pouring over the food to prevent drying, and to more uniformly distribute the heat. Because of the high temperature on the surface of the meat, a peculiar tasty substance is produced which gives the delightful flavor to the roast meat. Operation of broiling or grilling is possible because of scorching. When grilling, the cuts are cooked quickly and it is necessary to use more tender and expensive meats. Fish, small steaks, chops and bacon may be done in this way. The food is put under the hot metal grill over the hot coals and seared on both sides. It is frequently turned to insure even cooking, and a chop may be cooked in a minute. In this way, while a steak takes no more than ten to fifteen minutes. This process of cooking is very economical and tasty method of cooking meat since all of the food value is retained by the covered process and the flavor is enhanced by the grilling. The process is of particular value in cooking tough meat.

IN NEW YORK
 A Really Exclusive Place
 New York, May 25.—New York's "diamond grotto," until recently a picturesque sidewalk mart reminiscent of the old Curb market, now lies in a hazy, deserted, highly melodramatic in its appointments.

When $25,000 worth of baubles flash casually about in the course of a morning, the hint of menace might be expected to penetrate the very walls. . . . And does!

At regular intervals, about a foot apart, buttons protrude. Were a careless member of the diamond exchange to lean against the wall, a blast of stings would be set off sufficient to awaken even a policeman.

And the doorman, who peeps through the heavy metal barrier, is more particular than even the "look-see" men of the $1-per-drink speakeasies.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON
 WITH RODNEY DUTCHER
 By RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer

The overwhelming sentiment for federal economy, however, may offset the gains of the relief forces which would otherwise be expected. The new proposal for a bond issue is designed partly to meet that objection.

Three Courses Open
 Farmers, however, are sure to have their innings before the session ends. The three large farm organizations—American Farm Bureau, National Grange and Farmers' Union—have presented a triple-barreled program which, in a possibly modified form, seems likely to pass both Houses of Congress some time after tax legislation is finished.

The farm bill introduced by Chairman McNary of the Senate Agriculture Committee would empower the Federal Farm Board, at its discretion, to employ the equalization fee—part of the Farm Bureau, the export debenture plan— or a prohibition of selling farm products below production costs—as proposed by the Farmers' Union. President Hoover has in the past emphatically disapproved both the equalization fee and the debenture scheme and may be expected to veto them.

World "Economic" Crisis
 Each of the three plans is based on the idea of separating relief from two parts, first that is now ineffective on crops which have export surpluses, and second, that for sale abroad. The bill makes it entirely optional with the Farm Board whether to use any one or more of the plans.

An attempt will also be made to aggregate $100,000,000 of Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds for financing the export of wheat and cotton, so that if the main body of legislation is enacted it will not start under such a serious handicap as would be presented by those holdings.

Under the equalization fee, surpluses of farm products would be bought up by the board until an "American price" equal to the "world price" plus the tariff (the tariff is 43 cents on wheat, for example) was established. Farmers would be paid that "American price," minus an equalization fee computed and charged by the board to pay expenses of handling the surplus and selling it abroad.

The Debenture Plan
 If the debenture plan were employed, farmers or co-operative exporting commodities would receive treasury certificates or debentures amounting to half the tariff. Anyone exporting less than half of what, that is, would receive debentures worth 50% of the amount of the tariff. The assumption is that this plan would also keep throwing wheat into the export market until the domestic price went up. The board would have to regulate the quantity of debentures issued.

Under the third plan, the board would purchase surplus wheat and sell it abroad at a profit.

But now, O Lord, how art thou father; we are the pig, we are the potter; and we all are the work of thy hand.—Isaiah 64:1

TO FOREB MERRY
 Brussels, Belgium, May 25.—(AP)—Julius Reubin, who was arrested by King Albert the Belgian, for constituting a new government, was released today by the Belgian government.

M. Reubin was released today in addition to the other 1000 Belgians who were arrested in the camp at Mauthausen, Austria, after the German occupation of the country.

FALLS 900 FEET;
SNOW SAVES HIM

Mountain Climbers Tell of Their Experiences When They Return.

Fairbanks, Alaska, May 25.—(AP)—Graft Pearson was dubbed the "Durable Swede" after he survived 900-yard tumble over a precipice and a 40-foot fall into a crevasse. His ears also were frozen as a party of four successfully climbed both peaks of Mount McKinley, the highest in North America.

These additional facts about the 30,000-foot mountain climb which veterans at scaling peaks describe as one of the greatest of all time, were given yesterday on the return here for medical treatment of Pearson and Harry Leike, Leike, superintendent of McKinley National park, suffered a frozen right foot in the ascent, earlier this month.

The two others in the expedition, A. D. Lindley, Minneapolis, and Erling Strom, Norwegian, came out by airplane and are en route to Seattle on the steamship Alaska.

100 Below Zero

Leike reported finding a thermometer left 15 years ago at the 15,000-foot level with its indicator forced to the bottom of the bulb. He estimated the temperature there must have dropped under 100 degrees below zero.

"No one will ever know what degree of cold has been registered on Mount McKinley since the thermometer was left by Archibishop Stuck and Harry Karstens," said Leike.

The Stuck-Karstens expedition of 1913 was the only other one ever to reach the highest peak. Leike estimated the temperature at the top of the south peak, the highest one, was 30 below zero when he and his companions stood there.

When they began their descent Pearson made a somersault fall over an icy precipice, being stopped at 300 yards by soft snow. His pack, ice axe, mittens and cap were stripped from him. Before he could scramble back for his cap, his ears were frozen.

On the descent the party found the bodies of two members of another expedition who were killed in falls. They were Allen Carpe, New York, and Theodore Kivren, Japheth City, N. J., members of the Chicago University cosmic ray expedition.

W. C. I. U. S. POLICY

Evansville, Ill., May 25.—(AP)—The National Executive Committee of the Women's Christian Temperance Union announced today its political policy for the fall presidential campaign would be decided at the 57th annual convention at Seattle, Wash., August 12 to 15.

The convention announcement declared the union was confident "the masses of American women are not deceived by wet propaganda, but that intuitively the women, aroused to the necessity for home protection, will rally as a mighty army of defense against the return of the legalized liquor traffic."

"We believe that nothing short of repeal and freedom from every restraint will satisfy either the commercial liquor traffic or its supporters," the announcement said. "Accordingly we stand unflinchingly for the letter and the spirit of the 18th Amendment."

JAPS DEFEAT REBELS

Harbin, Manchuria, May 25.—(AP)—Japanese troops operating against Chinese insurgents today swept into Heilun, about forty miles north of Harbin, and captured 500 prisoners, three armored cars and several field guns.

The insurgents fled to the northwest. The battle was fought with only minor casualties on the Japanese side; several men being wounded.

The attacking troops belonged to the division of General Hirose operating under General Shigeru Honjo, commander-in-chief of the Japanese army in Manchuria, who arrived in Harbin this morning to take personal direction of a vigorous general assault against insurgents whose operations have threatened Harbin itself.

TYPHUS EPIDEMIC

Warsaw, Poland, May 25.—(AP)—The interior ministry reported today that there was considerable spotted typhus in northeastern Poland and along the Soviet frontier. Figures up to May 15 showed 21 cases and one death.

Newspaper dispatches from Vilno said 180 new cases were discovered yesterday and 20 persons died. Frontiers along the frontier asserted there was a big epidemic on the Soviet side of the border, with more than 100 deaths but as the border is almost hermetically sealed these reports were doubted.

PRINCE OTTO TO MARRY

Budapest, Hungary, May 25.—(AP)—Royalist circles here were busy today for reports that Prince Otto of Yugoslavia, pretender to the throne of Hungary, and Princess Marie of Bavaria, are about to be married.

The princess who is 18 years old is the daughter of Prince Franz, brother of Prince Rupprecht, head of the house.

The family of the bride-to-be was the most powerful of the year in a country which has been a scene of civil war. The prince's marriage is important in view of the political situation.

SUDS MOTOR LATEST IN AUTO ENGINES

Detroit, May 25.—(AP)—Detroit has the first suds motor—a futuristic automobile engine.

Using soap suds to cool its pistons and water in its exhaust valve, this engine develops a big increase in power—one third more than gasoline alone.

The suds and water are not fuel, but super-coolers. They demonstrate the profit in supercooling certain extra hot spots in the present type engines.

This motor is set up in a research laboratory under direction of Earl Bartholomew. It has a single cylinder, three and one-quarter inches by five. It is also high compression. So high that compression alone can ignite the gasoline unless the suds and water are turned on.

Cooling the exhaust valve alone increases power eight percent.

Data obtained on a single cylinder engine may appear to be only of academic interest inasmuch as such well cooled valves and pistons are not now commercially available," Bartholomew said. "These experiments however, do point the way for future engine design developments. A great advance in engine efficiency will come about when means are found to cool pistons more efficiently by some method other than contact with the cylinders and lubricating oil."

Iceland Route Favored For Atlantic Flights

Rome, May 25.—(AP)—Regular air service between Europe and America could be developed if a method were devised of making an airplane alight on water even if fog were so thick that it was impossible for the pilot to see the surface.

Earold Gatty, Australian who went around the world in eight days with the American Wiley Post in 1931, told the trans-oceanic fliers convention today.

Gatty suggested a north Atlantic route by way of Greenland, Iceland and Labrador.

"The presence of numerous landing places and the absence of long flights over open water renders the Greenland route valuable," he said.

"Now, if we develop blind landing as we have blind flying, the route will be available all the year round."

It would be necessary, Gatty told the airmen, to land in 300 to 300 feet of fog.

Wolfgang von Gronau, who flew 4,670 miles from Germany to Chicago via Greenland, supported Gatty's contention.

He said it was possible to alight in fog by gradually coming down to a level of nine feet above the sea, when the water is visible, or by trailing a hundred feet of wire which lights a lamp on the instrument board the moment it touches the water.

The day when airplanes will cross the South Atlantic in six hours and the north Atlantic in ten was foreseen by Dieudonne Costa, Paris-to-New York flier. He gave trans-Atlantic aviation a brilliant future but a dull present.

"Trans-Atlantic flights," Costa said, "have had considerable moral results but diminish'd, not to say no, practical results."

CONGRESSMEN ILL

Washington, May 25.—(AP)—Seven House members were reported on the sick list today at the Capitol. They were Representatives Abernethy of North Carolina; Boylan of New York; Chapman of Kentucky; Lea of California; and Tucker of Virginia, Democrat; and Murphy and Seiberling, both Ohio Republicans.

All were reported by Dr. George W. Calver, Capitol physician, to be recovering.

ROB 60 PERSONS

Montreal, May 25.—(AP)—Eight robbers, two of them carrying revolvers held up sixty patrons of a gambling establishment in Cote St. Michel, on the northern outskirts of Montreal, early today and escaped with $4,500.

AUSTRIA NEEDS LOAN

Vienna, May 25.—(AP)—Austria's transfer moratorium will be announced Saturday, the newspaper Der Tag said today, unless the League of Nations comes to her rescue by a new loan, which the greatest optimists doubt.

Pessimistic reports to the Cabinet by President Klenzbeck of the National bank regarding his negotiations at Geneva have convinced the Cabinet, the newspaper said, that the final step must be taken in order to safeguard Austrian currency. The Cabinet announced it was preparing the declaration of the moratorium, which will be submitted to Parliament.

It was pointed out that Austria's willingness to fulfill all its obligations but is not able to transfer interest payments in foreign currencies.

Whether the League of Nations loan would be hit by the moratorium was still undecided, the newspaper said.

BIRTH CONTROL DEFEATED

Washington, May 25.—(AP)—The Hancock bill to legalize the distribution of birth control information was defeated today by the House ways and means committee in a 30 to 4 vote.

At a session behind closed doors, the committee ordered the birth control measure reported to the House unfavorably. This blocks any opportunity to use a discharge petition to force a House vote.

Hearings were conducted on the bill two days last week. Its chief sponsor was Mrs. Margaret Sanger, prominent birth control advocate.

SUBS IN U. S. WATERS

On May 25, 1918, German submarines arrived in American waters and began to raid shipping within a few hundred miles of the principal Atlantic ports. Precautions were taken at once to guard against the possibility of air raids on the coast.

The War Department in Washington announced that the first shipment of American planes had arrived in France and were being used in a training camp back of the lines.

Operations on the western front were of a purely local nature. A new German major offensive was expected at any moment.

German troops continued their advance into the Ukraine, occupying important towns and seizing large quantities of food supplies.

British successes against Turkish forces continued, and English officers reported that the morale of the Turk soldiers was beginning to break.

PHILANTHROPIST DIES

Berlin, May 25.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—Dr. James Simon, philanthropist, merchant and leader of German Jewry, died here yesterday at the age of 81.

He was one of the founders of the German Orient society and he contributed generously to finance German explorers in the Near East.

MUSICAL MERITS
A BIGGER ATTENDANCE

Program For Benefit of Church
Vacation School Is Poorly Supported.

The musicale given at Second Congregational church last evening for the benefit of the church vacation school merited a much larger attendance. The Manchester Plectra orchestra, of about 25 pieces, Mrs. A. N. Merrifield, director, played a wide variety of tuneful melodies as the program below indicates. Eight of the young women who are members of the G. Clef Glee club gave evidence of their excellent training under the direction of Helge Pearson. A male quartet composed of Corwin Grant, Rev. L. Theron French, Rev. F. C. Allen and William Spencer sang, unaccompanied, two favorite numbers. Miss Ada Robinson played for the orchestra. Miss Eva Johnson for the ladies' octet, and Miss Pauline Bibe accompanied Chester Shields, Manchester's widely known boy soprano.

DISCOVER NEW "PLANET" IS CLOSEST TO EARTH

visibility in the evening sky in August or September when the sun is lower on the horizon. He said he was unable to give further details because of the brief opportunity he had to observe the star.

Most of the recently discovered planetoids are at a great distance from the earth, in orbits far out between Mars and Jupiter. Most of them are quite small and the importance of the latest discovery is its extreme closeness to the earth. Until a few weeks ago the nearest known planet was "Eros" which in 1931 was 17,000,000 miles distant. A few weeks ago, however another was discovered only 10,000,000 miles away. It was named the "Delport object." But there has been some dispute whether it is a planetoid or a comet.

The value of this latest one — "1932" — is its probable usefulness in measuring more accurately the distance between the earth and the Sun.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Troop 4 Twenty-five Scouts were present at the regular meeting of Troop 4 held Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. A baseball game was played before the opening exercises.

After the meeting had opened a few races were run in preparation for the June meet. Obstacle Race, the Relay, and the Broad Jump teams have been picked.

The meeting was closed at 9 o'clock by giving the Scout Oath. A play which is to be presented at an entertainment given by Troop 4 was practiced after the meeting.

Notes

Frank Sturtevant has returned to the Troop after a few weeks absence caused by a bad cut.

Scout Jimmy Neill, Jr., has been advancing rapidly for the past few months and he expects to get his Star award at the next Court of Honor.

Troop 4 will give an entertainment and movie benefit at St. Mary's church parish on Friday evening, the 27th. The charge for adults is 25 cents while that for children is 15 cents.

All those in the play are requested to be present at special meeting this Thursday evening.

MISS PIESCICK WINS
POSTER CONTEST

Gets $20 Garden Club Award
For Best Art Work For Flower Show.

Miss Josephine Piescik of School street who is this week graduating from the Hartford Art School, received the new $20 prize offered by the Hartford and Connecticut Valley Garden clubs for the best poster advertising their June 15 Flower Show at the old State House in Hartford. Competition was open to the classes in advertising and design at the Art School, and first, second and third year students submitted posters.

Miss Piescik's design which will be reproduced in quantity, is in black, white and dull yellow. Years ago while in High school, a pupil in Miss Harriet Condon's art classes, she submitted a poster advertising the Manchester Garden club's spring flower show of that year which created much favorable comment. Her work at the Hartford school has been most successful and her designs in costume and illustrative advertising have been accepted by several of the largest Hartford stores and the J. W. Hale company of this town. During the celebration of Hale's 50th anniversary sale in 1930, Miss Piescik illustrated the styles of the day and those of 50 years previous. She has also been employed on occasions in Cheney Brothers' designing department.

The Hartford Art School will begin its 55th year in September. Regular classes closed today, so that the annual exhibition of students' work may be arranged. This exhibit will be open to the general public from May 28 until June 5, inclusive from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. A preview and tea for members of the Hartford Art Society and parents of students will be held at the school, 280 Collins street, Friday from 4 until six o'clock.

MANY PARENTS SEE
CHILDREN IN SCHOOL

Parents' Night Schedules Being Executed Now—Regular Sessions Held.

The largest gathering of parents in years greeted the children of the Manchester Green and Porter street schools last night during "Parents' Night." No regular program of entertainment was planned in either school, the teachers conducting their regular classes during the evening.

Work done in the regular course of study was on exhibition in the class rooms and in the domestic science and manual training departments of the schools. Of special interest were the descriptive art posters and drawings on historical subjects in all the rooms. Many fine pieces ofloyd work were on display and the domestic science room was filled with the work of the youthful seamstresses.

This evening the Buckland school will hold the annual parents' night and the North School street intermediate grades and the Hollister street primary grades will hold open house this evening also from 7 to 8 o'clock. The North School primary grades and the Hollister street middle and upper grades will be in session tomorrow evening. The South school parents' night will be tomorrow evening.

The Oakland and Keeney street schools will hold their sessions for parents from 2 o'clock until 3 o'clock on Friday afternoon. During the past several years parents have been favorably impressed with the regular course of studies of children and have expressed a preference in several districts for the regular school program on Parents' Night.

Different Dress
Quite differently attired for presentation before the court when arrested was George Colemah of Birch street. Coleman was brought into the police station in his B. V. D.'s. He had caused a disturbance at home and the police were appealed to. When Sergeant McMillan called at his house he said "I do not choose to be arrested." He refused to dress for the policeman and the sergeant brought in his man in his underwear.

Later the policeman went to Coleman's house to get his clothes for him and returned to the station with trousers belonging to Coleman's son. In court today Coleman asked for a continuance until Friday so that he can get an attorney. This was granted.

CHAMBER RE-ELECTS TRUMBULL AS HEAD

R. Lamotte Russell Also To Continue As Treasurer For the Next Year.

Hartford, May 25.—(AP)—Three officers of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce including Henry Trumbull of Plainville, president, started today on another year in their posts.

They were re-elected yesterday at the annual meeting, following a discussion of business conditions in the State and the adoption of a resolution approving measures to reduce the cost of government.

In addition Trumbull those re-elected were James T. Moran of New Haven, vice president and R. LaMotte Russell of South Manchester, treasurer. Albert E. Lavory of Bridgeport was elected a vice president.

The resolution which will be forwarded to Congress expressed the desire and intent of this state wide organization to give every possible moral aid in support and the most definite backing for every move or measure designed to reduce the cost of Federal government.

Jobless Problem
James W. Hook of New Haven, chairman of the state unemployment commission, outlined three attitudes on the question of unemployment relief and said the commission had selected none of the three to recommend to the General Assembly.

One of the three attitudes, that of compulsory reserves for unemployment relief to be set aside in times of prosperity, was vigorously supported by Dr. Royal Meeker, New Haven economist.

The other two suggestions by Hook were that nothing more be done than is being done at present; and that something be done voluntarily by worker and employer.

Richard M. Bissell, president of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company attacked the taxation of insurance companies in Connecticut, saying some companies would be better off if moved to another state.

WAPPING

Mrs. Mary (Morgan) Foster who lives with her daughter, Mrs. May (Foster) Barber at Westfield, N. J., celebrated her eightieth birthday at the home of her son and family, Walter N. Foster, at the Foster farm on May 23. During the afternoon thirty of the Morgan family from different parts of the state, called to her great surprise and enjoyment. Many of them she had not seen for some time. Following the refreshments a large birthday cake ablaze with eighty candles, was carried in for her to cut. A very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed by all present.

The South Windsor Garden club, who were to hold a flower show in the basement of the First Congregational church Wednesday afternoon and evening, May 26, have decided to postpone the show till Wednesday, June 2, on account of the backward season.

Mrs. Anna Curry of Windsor spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Bidwell.

Among the canvassers for the Manchester Memorial hospital drive from Wapping were E. D. Sullivan, Miss Faith M. Collins, Miss Doris L. Benjamin, Walden V. Collins and Luther Burnham.

A benefit dance for the South Windsor baseball team will be held at the Club Don Gil, Station 56, Friday evening, June 3. Mike Hennessey and his orchestra will furnish the music. The committee in charge of arrangements is Robert Murray, Roy Patra, Benedict Driscoll, John Kaubegger, Elmer Haddon and Robert Starr.

The young people's society of Christian Endeavor of Wapping have received an invitation to meet with the Christian Endeavor Society of East Hartford next Sunday evening. This is Rev. Truman H. Woodward's society, who was a pastor of the Federated church here.

Miss Angie Barber who spent the week-end at the Old Loomis home-stead, returned to her home in Brooklyn, N. Y., Sunday evening.

NO AMERICAN LEFT

Paris, May 25.—(AP)—Owners of the motorship Georges Philippar, which burned last week in the Gulf of Aden, today published a revised list of the missing containing 82 names. Apparently none of them was American.

On the list were 19 women, 11 men and 5 children who were passengers. There was a separate category including the names of 14 natives of the Far East.

New York, May 25.—(AP)—The helpless wife of Preston Sturges, who wrote the Broadway hit "Strictly Dishonorable," has filed suit to annul her marriage. She maintains the divorce which separated him and his first wife was not legal.

Mrs. Sturges was Eleanor Post Hutton before she eloped with the playwright two years ago, among the disciples of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Hutton.

[Look on the table—on every plate—in every glass—are evidences of the thrift and convenience of an electric refrigerator]

THIS WAY it is a wise investment. Adequate refrigeration is food insurance. Its cold, even temperature protects your meat, fruit and vegetables from spoiling.

THIS WAY it is a wise investment. It guards the health of growing youngsters by keeping milk wholesome and sweet—always safe.

THIS WAY it is a wise investment. The ends of roasts, the "dabs" left over from other meals it helps to make into chilly soups, souffles and frozen salads. Nothing need be thrown away—everything is used.

refrigerator so economically that you may enjoy them every day—and all sorts of cooling beverages with tinkling cubes of ice.

THIS WAY it is a wise investment. An electric refrigerator may be had on such easy terms that you can easily meet the very small payments. You begin to enjoy the benefits of an electric refrigerator the very day it is delivered to your home!

Consider quality above price when buying an electric refrigerator. Select one adequate to your family needs. A good rule is to provide a cubic foot of refrigerator capacity for each member of your household.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

CHAPTER I

The green roadster cutting its way, sleek and ribbon-like down the boulevard came to an abrupt, jolting stop at the intersection with Twenty-fourth street.

Cherry Dixon's chin rose to meet the sweep of the cold wind. Flitting ends of a coral scarf escaped from her throat to do a mad dance over one shoulder. It was one of those days in early April when brilliant sunshine showered down on the world without warming it. The pale gold radiance seemed almost to make the air more biting. But it was spring sunshine, spring air and the combination was irresistible.

Cherry crooked her wrist for a quick glance at a watch dial. Only 1:10 now. She was not due for 20 minutes. There was plenty of time—oh plenty to reach the Wellington for her 1:30 engagement.

She had known all along there was time enough. Little danger that today of all days she would be late!

Another half for traffic lights and then on again. Cherry's impatience was gone. What a day it was to be 19, to know the beige suit was as becoming as it was new, to be on her way to meet an exciting young man and to know—at least to know almost—that he cared as much about the meeting as she did!

Warm color that could not have been accounted for by the April wind crept into Cherry Dixon's cheeks. A chance observer, feminine, would have been almost sure to think "Lucky girl!" at sight of Cherry, so pretty, so youthful, at the wheel of her expensive roadster. A chance observer, masculine, would have been almost sure to think, "Lucky break to know a girl like that!"

Well, Cherry thought that she was lucky. For none of the reasons chance observers might have cited, however.

It had been the greatest luck in the world, surely, that for the second time in a week she was to see Dan Phillips. Oh, it had been simple to manage, telling mother about the Guild committee meeting and to drive into town alone. There had been a committee meeting—well, Gretchen postponed it. For that matter, what other girl of 19 would have to explain where she was going and with whom if the notion to take a drive at midday happened to strike her?

The roadster reached the viaduct and was swept into the slow stream of east-bound travel. At Twelfth street—Wellington's busiest thoroughfare, boasting three buildings 20 stories high—the flash of green cabs, limousines and small, wheezing vehicles.

There was no time now to try to justify her deception, no time for day dreams. The shrill, authoritative blast of an officer's whistle sent the green cab manager expertly to keep abreast of the current. Three blocks more and the roadster swerved to the curb before the Hotel Wellington.

Cherry stepped out, surrendered the car to a doorman and entered the gray stone building. She crossed the lobby and mounted the broad stairway leading to the mezzanine. Mazie Cassidy, whose glowing titan curls and blue eyes made the cigar stand a highly decorative corner of the lobby, tapped the arm of her friend, Joe Kampschmidt, who was leaning over the glass surface of the counter.

"Well—look what blew in!" Mazie whispered in a tone that belied her indifferent-gaze.

Kampschmidt concentrated on the slim figure ascending the stairway. "Some baby!" he said casually. "Who is she?"

"Some baby's right!" Mazie commented. "What I wouldn't give for the dough her old man's got! Cherry Dixon—that's her name. Lives out in Sherwood Heights in one of those swell houses with a yard around it big as a farm. I've seen her picture on the society pages. Most of the time she's away—in Europe or at some swell school or something. Gosh—some people have all the luck!"

"How about me, Mazie? Do I get a break? Trip or are you going to another of your sixteenth cousins' weddings?"

Mazie grinned. "You can call me," she said. "About eight o'clock. There's a new orchestra at the Crystal Ballroom."

Whereupon Miss Cassidy and her friend forgot their interest in Cherry Dixon for more personal subjects.

It was 20 minutes after Cherry Dixon's arrival that a tall young man strode into the Wellington lobby. He wore a gray suit and carried a topcoat. His gray felt was tipped at an angle just slightly rakish. Broad shoulders, rather angular. Not a handsome young man but an attractive one.

In a dozen strides he had reached the stairway. Someone sang out, "Philips!" just before he rounded the bend of the stairs. The young man turned, waved in salute and continued on his way.

The mezzanine floor of the Hotel Wellington was a rather narrow gallery running the length of the building. It was thickly carpeted and furnished in shades of wood green, bronze and ivory. Groups of overstuffed chairs, benches and four high-backed lounges were arranged along the first floor. Small desks and chairs stood beside the wall. The lighting was dim because heavy draperies shut out the daylight and only small desk lamps supplemented it.

The young man in gray gained the top step and looked about. None of the persons in sight seemed to interest him. There was a stout man in dark-rimmed spectacles writing at the nearest desk. Facing on two matrons engaged in conversation. One of them gesticulated emphatically. At the extreme end of the gallery a small boy was bobbing about after a mechanical toy.

The young man stepped forward uncertainly. All at once he caught sight of a beige shadow; nearly hid by the sides of a wing-backed chair. He made for that chair.

"So there you are!"

"Oh, Dan!"

"Cherry!"

Brown eyes laughed up at gray one. The girl was prettier when she smiled. The green velour of the chair was a perfect background for her coloring. The small, rather oval face was creamy ivory except for dark eyes darker. Her lips were crimson, possibly explained by the silver vanity case she held. Nature had designed those lips a trifle wide but the effect was charming.

"Any expert would have said, too, that Cherry Dixon's nose was a fraction short of classic standards. Somehow the defect increased instead of detracted from the piquant total.

The tilted brim of her close fitting brown hat revealed a crescent of dark hair over one temple. Except for the brown hat and coral scarf, Cherry was entirely in beige—beige suit and sweater, beige pumps and cobweb hose, gloves and even a purse of the same shade. The tone suited her perfectly.

Dan Phillips pulled the nearest chair nearer and swung into it. "A thousand pardons if I'm late," he began. "I had three blocks and a watch set 'em all—"

"But you're not late. You're five minutes ahead of time. See?" Cherry held up a slender wrist banded with platinum. The tiny oblong dial on the platinum band recorded every minute past one. "I came in early to do some errands and finished them sooner than I expected," she added. Preparation No. II for Miss Cherry Dixon that day, but surely she must keep him from guessing at her eagerness. "These three clocks each keep different time and I couldn't be sure—excuse me, Miss Dixon, but I've got to stop right here and tell you that of all God's fairest creatures you are the prettiest, the most utterly devastating."

"Please, Mr. Phillips!" The cheeks were crimson but the girl's eyes were laughing.

"Mr. Phillips? I thought it was going to be Dan from now on!"

"Well then, Dan, stop it. You're making fun of me!"

"If I ever heard blasphemy—I Coyotes and cuttlefish! Why, my dear young woman, I've soon cut off my right arm. What I really want to say is that the prettiest girl in the world is looking prettier than she has any right to look. What's going to come of this? You can't keep it up, you know. These old eyes won't stand it. You can't keep getting more beautiful every time you see me!"

Cherry rose to meet the teasing. She said demurely, "Sorry, sir. You can always look away, you know."

"But that's just what I can't do—and don't want to. Say, are you as shaggy as I am?"

The abrupt change of subject made the girl laugh. "Parlating," she said. "Fustively parlating."

"Then let's see how you Phillips resounding crack and was on his feet. Cherry arose and for an instant they stood there, the girl's head only a little above the youth's shoulder. Here eyes looked at the young man's face sobered. He touched her arm and together they moved toward the stairs.

Five minutes later they faced each other across a narrow table in the hotel's ivory and blue dining room. Phillips had finished giving the order.

"And how did you improve the shining morning hours?" he asked.

"Oh, doing lots of things. Mother's having a small tea next week and I helped with the invitations. Then some dresses came and when I tried 'em on they were all wrong and I had to telephone about sending them back and arrange for a fitting. After that Sarah gave me a shampoo and a manicure and—"

"Silly! Of course, the real reason is because Father doesn't approve of girls working. He's terribly old-fashioned. Mother is, too."

"That's not old-fashioned. If you'll tell me one reason in the world why the daughter of Walter J. Dixon should bring a typewriter—"

"Oh, but it's not just about me that he feels that way. Father doesn't think any girls should work."

Phillips smiled wryly. "He doesn't exactly look like a young man of the press, either, does he?" he asked.

The girl was startled. "Why, he doesn't even know—I" she began.

Phillips cut in. "Doesn't know his daughter has made the acquaintance of a poor news slave named Daniel Phillips? Oh, no. I merely heard the financial editor giving an account of a first hand encounter with your father. Boy—how that man loves the Fourth Estate! 'Scandal mongers'—that's what he calls 'em. Those were a few of his pet names."

The dark lashes lowered. "His daughter doesn't think those things," the girl said.

Their eyes met. There was a moment's silence and then Cherry went on hurriedly. "It's because she doesn't understand. He's so terribly dignified—and well, he just doesn't understand! All his life Father's been giving orders and seeing people jump to obey them. Of course he's really wonderful but he has so many old-fashioned ideas—"

"You don't have to tell me! Blue ribbon aristocracy with three rings around it—that's the Dixon family. Money bags and the good ship Mayflower! Cherry, Cherry, to think the likes of you should be seen in a public eating place with that low-down Dan Phillips!"

"He's not low-down and he's practically the only friend I have! Dan, do you realize it's been terrifying to me here in Wellington?"

"Lonesome! Haven't you the cream of the town's society to pick from? Haven't you lived here since infancy?"

"I was born here. I've lived here of course, too, but when I was a little girl there weren't half a dozen children I was allowed to play with. When I was 12 they sent me to school in France. The last two years I've been at Miss Rathbourne's. During vacations I came home but the boys and girls I used to know aren't here and I can't seem to get acquainted with the others. They've gone to western schools and scortified and all sorts of sports I don't understand. Father doesn't approve of girls playing golf and tennis so I never learned. It's because he hates country clubs. And I've never seen a football game. In school at Miss Rathbourne's I had a good time but now that I'm home again it's so lonesome!"

Phillips face sobered. "Poor little rich girl," he said softly. "Poor little rich girl who has everything in the world except what she wants! Cherry—I'm a swell one to be saying it but if there's ever anything in this world I can do for you all you have to do is say the word. You know that, don't you?"

The pink flush came into the girl's cheeks again. "You've been doing things for me ever since the minute I first saw you!"

"One month ago today, wasn't it? That's why we're celebrating."

They both laughed. As vividly as though it had been yesterday Cherry talked about that first meeting—selecting March day with slippery pavements. Herself, snugly wrapped in beaver, at the wheel of the green roadster. The approach to the Court street bridge and sudden change in traffic lights. Another car close behind her. The crash—"

"It developed that the men in the touring car—there were two of them—were not injured, at least not seriously. A few cuts and bruises. The rear of Cherry's roadster had been dented. The other driver denied it so vociferously that 20 minutes later before a police captain he was charged with driving while intoxicated.

Cherry, bewildered and frightened, heard the charge. She did not understand why she had to be there. What alarmed her most was the increasing fear that her father would have to know. All her life long the possibility of displeasing her father had been held over Cherry as the ultimate threat. He would be furious—might refuse to let her keep her roadster!

That was when Dan Phillips appeared. Dan, loitering at district headquarters, had in five minutes collected details of the collision. They were scribbled on copy paper, ready to be telephoned to the office. All at once Cherry Dixon's helplessness, her obvious fright did something to Dan's news sense. He happened to be the only reporter present.

"Look here," he said to her. "You'd like to get out of this, wouldn't you?"

"Oh—they'd only let me go home—"

"Want to file charges against that fellow? You could collect all right."

Cherry denied, wanting to do anything except escape. The damage to her own car was slight. She would pay for the repairs gladly from her allowance—anything to end the first and be away.

"See what I can do for you!" Phillips had volunteered.

That had been the beginning. For Dan, almost immediately, was escorting Cherry from the building. Together they drove south in the roadster. Together they stopped at a down town tea room. The reporter had insisted Cherry needed something hot to drink, something to quiet her nerves.

Nothing about the affair appeared in the columns of the Wellington News and nothing of it reached the ears of Walter J. Dixon.

That was the way the surprising friendship had come about. A dozen times since then the young couple had met. It was Cherry who had found excuses when Dan wanted to call for her at Enclartop, the Dixon home. She had been vague about it knowing well that a bombshell would explode if either her father or mother should suspect her of associating with a News reporter.

But in a tiny corner of Cherry's mind she knew the conflagration was imminent. She had been drifting with delightful, breathless madness toward something she refused to face. She didn't want to stop drifting. It was such paradise!

She knew—and refused to know—what had happened. Cherry was in love.

Today, since it was the one in seven when Dan did not have to work, the two had planned to lunch together and then drive into the country.

They finished their coffee and left the dining room. Outdoors the sunshine was glorious, banishing every possible care. The roadster was brought around and Cherry had stepped into it when she heard someone call.

She turned. A short, heavily built man had caught Dan Phillips' arm. He had been running and gulped for breath. "Say—" the newcomer exclaimed, "The Boss is looking for you! Don't you know what's happened?"

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

DIET FOR BEAUTY

The best way really to get a little waist-line is to start by dieting.

That always has such an ominous sound. You always feel like saying "I told you so!"

Try going on a liquid diet, mostly orange juice, for three days. Have your coffee and your tea black and unsweetened, but don't sneak in any bits of loaf or sweet rolls or any crumbs in a cup of chicken bouillon you might have for lunch.

If you are serious about this waistline, don't even have hot soup. Stick to orange juice and your morning beverage for three days. There is a reason for this. You will be even better if you could just quit eating three days. Give your system a chance to be thoroughly cleaned out. And rested.

Then begin a scanty diet, eating a single vegetable for lunch, and this excludes all starchy vegetables. You can eat a portion and a half, if you must. But why not try controlling yourself? It has a psychological effect!

For dinner, a lamb chop or a bit of chicken or lean, rare steak. A fresh vegetable salad with it, with only lemon juice for dressing. No potatoes, and no bread. Certainly no desserts. And no beverages, not even black coffee. You eat more when you drink hot drinks with your meal.

If you could skip yourself this much for a month, you will be much slenderer through the stomach, and proud of yourself. But of course no strict diet should be undertaken without your physician's approval.

Cut out taxi riding, or automobile riding. Walk. Start early and if you live in a city where it is a good laugh to think of walking to work, at least walk a dozen blocks or so before taking the car.

When lunch-time comes, instead of setting down to eat, drink and gossip with friends, have your fruit juice and walk. There's nothing like using your legs to help reduce the waistline.

YOUR CHILDREN

POLENNESS IN CHILDREN

Customs concerning the manners of children change with the times. There was the children-should-be-seen-and-not-heard period that lasted quite a while. Next came the era of the show-off where the child was the center of the scene.

Three-year-old Charles lisped "Twinkle, twinkle, little star!" and twelve-year-old Dora clung to the Curfew Bell.

About the time the word "parlor" became "living room" gestures changed to "living room" gestures. Little girls "curtsied" and tiny fellows bent over like croquet wickets, folding an arm somewhere amidst hips as they did so.

At all costs they must impress mother's friends with their knowledge of what was what in child etiquette.

And this was all right as far as it went except that too frequently the boy and the "curtsy" were all they did know of any kind of social grace.

But in former days the manners of children were super-imposed. They were largely farcial and unnatural. Natural manners must be bred in the very spirit to be real. They didn't fit them well—they were stilted and unreal and were about as consistent with childhood as a black eye was with a Fauntleroy suit and a torn ruffle resulting from Kate Greenaway shinning over a fence.

Consider the Child

Now lest I have horrified a few mothers who take pride in their children's curtsy with perfect add' health, that I do not care of either. I only disagree with the make either a little boy or girl too foolish.

I love nice manners in my form, but I like natural gestures. I am very fond of a little hand that is for me to take and a direct and friendly, "How-do-you-do." If a child likes to curtsy or bow to her, or him, do so by all means. It is the great point to quarrel over.

It is just that posing—if it is posing—like a certain point of polite behavior that his brother of five sends foreign and foolish and so on upward down the line.

The great thing is not to make them self-conscious, and to associate good behavior with pleasure.

The general rules of conduct that govern older people are in the main correct for them too. Except for older people should not be lacking, but any performance that shows, do this because I am just a child, to my mind is out of order.

Childhood should never be exploited, suppressed, nor apologized for.

HEALTH

SUFFERING AND MONEY

SAVED BY DENTAL EXAMINATIONS OF CHILDREN, SURVEY REVEALS

By DR. MORRIS FISHER

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

In order to find out how many children in this country suffer with decayed teeth, officers of the United States Public Health Service arranged for the examination of the mouths of children in four states by a personnel especially trained in dentistry.

The states included in the examination were Georgia, Illinois, Missouri and Maryland. Twelve thousand four hundred thirty-five children were examined by the dental officers.

The children who suffer with decaying temporary teeth are mostly in the group from four to eight years old; those who are having difficulty because of remaining roots are in the group around eight to ten years of age. It is found that children six years of age have the highest percentage of temporary teeth with cavities.

So few children had the cavities of their temporary teeth properly attended to and suitably filled that the number was negligible. Whereas the care of the temporary teeth is necessary if the permanent teeth are to be properly spaced and suitably developed, the temporary teeth once lost, there still remains the possibility of good care for the permanent teeth.

Unfortunately, however, there were vast numbers of children 14 to 15 years of age whose permanent teeth were nearly destroyed by decay. Actually 90 per cent of all of the children of all ages had one or more teeth decayed, missing or filled.

It should be borne in mind that the examinations made by the school inspectors are merely casual examinations and not at all to be compared with the type of examination that can be made by a private dentist with special instruments, such as mirror and explorer, to aid in detecting cavities.

For this reason parents should see to it that every child has its teeth examined at least once every six months from the age of two years onward in order to make sure that decay will be detected at the

The cost of government must and can be reduced. It is a grim necessity. The annual earnings of the people have been reduced 50 per cent during this period, yet we are at the highest peak in history. The economic structure cannot stand the strain for long.

LOCAL HIGH WINS TENNIS CONTEST

Defeats Weaver 3-2 When Hartford Team Quits Match In Favor of Supper.

Manchester High defeated Weaver High of Hartford in a tennis match played at the Manchester Country Club yesterday afternoon three to two. This afternoon Rockville plays here.

With the score standing two matches for each team and Mike Bronowski of Manchester leading Al Lieberman of Weaver, 6-3, 2-2, the Weaver team suddenly decided that it was time to go home for supper and declined to finish the match. Such action calls for a default.

Bobby Smith of Manchester gave Louis Stein of Weaver his first setback of the season, winning handily at 6-4, 6-2. Eddy Greenberg upset Jimmy Britton 7-5 and 6-4. In the doubles Greenberg and Stein topped Smith and Britton 6-0, 6-4 while Urbanetti and Bronowski beat Al Goldenhal and "Manny" Burgess, 6-2, 5-7, 6-1.

LUCKY SKULL CAP PRICE OF VICTORY

Billy Murch's victory in the mile run at the Connecticut Interscholastic Saturday at Yale Field won him his red and white skull cap which he has worn in all of his races this year.

Billy Murch's victory in the mile run at the Connecticut Interscholastic Saturday at Yale Field won him his red and white skull cap which he has worn in all of his races this year. Somebody apparently stole it for a souvenir at the New Haven meet. Billy regarded the cap as a token of good luck.

The cap bore the autograph of nearly every member of the Manchester High school track team and Billy had kept a place reserved for Joe McCluskey to put his name. He had even requested Coach W. Wigren to be sure and get Joe to do him the honor. In both the meets at Rhode Island State College and Yale University, Murch ran a split second over 4:30.

It is interesting to recall that McCluskey's best time as a Freshman here was 5:06, 26 seconds slower than Murch is now running, as a yearling. In his senior year, McCluskey reached 4:35 2-5 only five seconds faster than Murch has already run. McCluskey holds the state record of 4:37 1-5 and Murch's time of 4:40 3-5 made at Yale Saturday is the second best record for conference competition.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

IN STYLE
She looks as if she is "all there," but please know, that is more a I could truthfully say about her clothes.

With all the debunking that novelists have engaged in in recent years, it seems a little odd, that nobody has re-written the adventures of Robinson Crusoe from Friday's point of view.

YOU'RE NEVER BROKE IF YOU HAVE SPENT IT ALL FOR SOMETHING WORTH WHILE.

The nervous young suitor entered her father's room to pop the all-important question. Young Suitor—I—er—er—want to marry your daughter. Girl's Father—What! Marry my daughter. I'm astonished. What on earth do you mean? Young Suitor—Now, now, don't talk like that! You're prejudiced against the girl. She's all right, really.

A PERFECT SNAP: "Half the attraction is gone because you run no risk in trying to kiss the modern girl," says a writer. Well, she might be yawning.

Kittie—Gee, but that boy last night was fresh. Mabel—Why didn't you slap his face? Kittie—I did; and take my advice, never slap a guy when he's chewing tobacco.

Faith
Lord, give me faith to live from day to day
With tranquil heart to do my simple part,
And with my hand in Thine, just go Thy way.

Lord give me faith—to trust if not to know;
With quiet mind in all things
Thee to find;
And childlike go where Thou wouldst have me go.

Lord give me faith—to leave it all to Thee.
The future is Thy gift, I would not lift
The veil Thy love has hung 'twixt it and me.

First Film Actor—We're remodeling our home in Beverly Hills.
Second Film Actor—We've just had a party in ours, too.

Nothing Seems To Go To A Girl's Head Quicker Than Flattery About Her Feet.

Proud Mother—My little daughter can spell her name backwards.
Bored Listener—But she is so young! what is her name.
Proud Mother—Anna.

The crooners seem to be vanishing from the air almost as quickly as they appeared. Wonder is they have lasted so long.

There's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip,
Said the girl who used to care;
So she dropped the heir to the million,
And married the millionaire.

The inherent laziness of most of us makes us want to start out where our parents left off, or take over a prosperous and growing business someone has tolled for years to establish, rather than build up a rundown concern.

Perkins—Harrelson sure wears snappy clothes.
Clothing Dealer—They should be. He buys them with rubber checks.

Life Is A Funny Proposition After All. Most Of The Young Folks Are Fooled And The Older Folks Are Foolish.

Flapper Ann—I don't know why, but I feel so lonesome tonight.
Bashful Joe—Sh-sh-shall I call up my b-b-brother? He plays a b-b-banjo.

SHE: I wish you would give up smoking, dear.
HE: But all great men have smoked.
SHE: Well, just promise me that you won't smoke until you're great and I'll be satisfied.—Answers.

JUST ACQUAINTANCES
"I've lost my umbrella," said the fussy man.
"What kind of a handle did it have?"
"I don't know—I only borrowed it yesterday."—Answers.

NOT NEAR ENOUGH
Her automobile had broken down and a farm laborer offered the services of his horse.
"Thank you very much," she replied, "but you need 14 more—our car has 15 horsepower, you know."
—Buen Humor, Madrid.

THE BLOW HARD
BOBE: There I was on a lonely road, miles from anywhere, with a blazing car, no water, no fire extinguisher, or anything. What do you think I did?
"Took a deep breath and blew it out," said one of the bored club members.—Answers.
