

VETERANS MOVING ON THE CAPITAL

Estimated That At Least 5,000 Are On Way From Various Parts of Country; Commandeering Trains.

(By Associated Press) Five thousand men, some foot-sore, some shabby and many hungry, moved on Washington today from all over the country. They hitch-hiked, commandeered freight trains as they could, rode in trucks, went on foot—any way to get to Washington and join the 2500 already bivouaced there to demand payment of the soldier's bonus.

At Pittsburgh police mobilized at dawn to insure order when the 1,700 men from the west and north arrived. Four units of marchers were escorted quickly through the city yesterday. Many had no time to eat, so quickly did they move on. At Wilkesburg, Pa., merchants donated food.

FRENCH FINANCIERS TO AID MANCHURIA

Banks Ready to Loan Several Million Francs To New State, Massenet Says.

Tokyo, June 6.—(AP)—Alfred Massenet, director of the Franco-Asiatic bank, told the Associated Press today he had come to Tokyo as the representative of a French financial group which includes banks other than his own, ready to lend "several million francs" to the new state of Manchoukuo.

M. Massenet, a grand-nephew of the French composer, arrived here last month, but up to now neither he nor any one with whom he is associated would discuss his mission beyond denying reports he was trying to sell any part of the French claims to the Japanese government.

Further Conferences M. Massenet will stay here until late this month when the Lytton commission, investigating the situation in Manchuria for the League of Nations, comes back. Then he will confer with the commissioners and go on to Changchun and Harbin for conferences with railway officials.

SUSPECT OFFICIAL IN MURDER CASE

Ex-Public Defender Disappears After Grand Jury Returns Indictment.

San Francisco, June 6.—(AP)—Frank J. Egan, San Francisco's suspended public defender, had disappeared again today after a Grand Jury indictment charging him with the murder of Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes. Vincent W. Hallinan, his attorney, promised police he would surrender later today.

Police With Doctor Authorities said Doran told the jury Dr. Housman discussed with him and Egan a suggestion the automobile he said was used to crush the life from the 59-year-old widow be burned. The physician denied the statement.

GROWING STREAMS OF "BONUS EXPEDITIONARY FORCE" VETERANS CONVERGE ON A BEWILDERED CAPITAL

Streams of bonus-minded war veterans pouring into Washington by train, auto, and even on foot, created a situation which was as strange as it was full of dangerous possibilities. Veterans in Cleveland (upper left) swarmed aboard locomotives, stopped them with cross-ties on the track, demanding free rides to Washington. A contingent of several hundred left New York (lower left) hiking after a short train and ferry ride. "On to Washington" was the cry, voiced by leaders such as C. B. Cowan, Cleveland Communist (lower center) who is shown seeking "recruits" for the B. E. F. (Bonus Expeditionary Force.) As new arrivals dropped from box-cars (upper right), authorities made efforts to set up temporary shelters in Washington (lower right) so far as their limited funds would go. The national Capitol (center right) was the goal of all, and every new arrival added tensely to a strained situation.

Republican Leader, However, Believes That Business Cannot Be Completed Before the Convention; Billion Dollar Tax Bill May Be Finished Before Session Ends Today.

Washington, June 7.—(AP)—Faced with a mass of vital legislation, Congress today entered the final week before the national political conventions with a prediction by Senator Watson, the Republican leader, that it could not complete its work before July 1. This opinion was challenged, however, by Chairman Pees of the Republican National committee. He said he believed it would be possible for Congress to get through by June 14—the day the Republican convention opens in Chicago. Both Senators gave their views to newspapermen.

LAST BIG PAYROLL GIVEN TO JOBLESS

Emergency Association Finds Its Work Practically At End As Funds Run Out. The Manchester Emergency Employment Association, Inc., today distributed its last large payroll, completing thirty-one weeks of activity among the local unemployed, who late this afternoon numbered 1,510, according to the registration files at the Municipal Building.

With its work practically at an end, the Association again made a drastic reduction in the number of persons on its payroll, reducing the force to about twenty. This number will be employed on painting jobs and other miscellaneous work. The project at the north end playgrounds will be completed by Thursday of this week.

At this time, it is expected that a definite date when the Association will cease its activity will be set, and further methods of alleviating unemployment will probably be discussed.

GERMAN CHURCH CHOIR IN CONCERT

Render Cantata Under Direction of Organist Fred Werner Last Night. The Concordia Lutheran church was filled last night for the rendition of the religious cantata, "The Grace of God," by both the German and English choirs under the direction of organist and choir director, Fred Werner.

The cantata was rendered by the German choir, consisting of 12 men, and the English choir, consisting of 12 men, and the organist, Fred Werner.

Fred Werner

Fred Werner, last evening's director, and his young singer, Miss Eleanor Werner, who frequently supplies for him, played all the organ music. Rev. E. C. Weber, the pastor, in a few appropriate remarks commended the interest taken by the young people, and the time given generously for rehearsals by both the singers and their director and accompanist.

The soloists, Miss Anna Thuck, Miss Ethel Lange, Miss Elsie Roth, Miss Emily Stavitsky, John and Alfred Lange, were fully up to expectations, and the chorus work was particularly good. The following program was given: Soprano solo—"He That Dwelleth" Soprano solo—"Love Divine All Loves Excelling."

AMERICANS AMONG LEADERS IN GOLF

Sarazen, Smith, Armour In Low Seventies As Play Starts For British Open. Sandwich, England, June 6.—(AP)—A. R. Bradbeer, little known professional from Somerset, today led a fine international field, including three ranking American players, in the first round of qualifying play of the British open golf championship, with a par-shooting 70.

Bradbeer finished with the low score over the par 73 St. George's course to lead Arthur Havers, British winner in 1928 and the last British to hold the title, by one stroke. Gane Sarazen, MacDonal Smith and Tommy Armour, defending champion—the three leading American hopes—were right up in the van, Sarazen and Mac Smith with 72 and Armour with a 75.

Today's qualifying rounds were played both at St. George's and Prince's course, where the tournament proper will start Wednesday, Sarazen, Mac Smith and Havers playing their final rounds over the more difficult tournament course, where par is 74. Armour played at St. George's with Bradbeer.

It was a great day for the British galleries with such old favorites as Ted Ray, with a 73, Abe Mitchell, with a like score, Ernest Kenyon, Tom Dobson and Fred Taggart with 72, and Durcan McCulloch with a 76 more than holding their own with the invading Americans, where the title has gone ten of the last 11 years.

JEALOUSY MOTIVE OF ALLEN MURDER

Librizzi Confesses He Killed Woman So No Other Man Could Have Her.

Bridgeport, June 6.—(AP)—A confession by Edmund Librizzi, 34, of Norwalk that he shot and killed Mrs. Jennie Allen of Westport early last Wednesday because of jealousy was introduced by State Police today at a coroner's inquest into the slaying.

Mrs. Allen was killed while returning from Bridgeport with Librizzi and Captain John Mulhaley who has been held as a material witness.

"I shot her not because I loved her," Librizzi's confession said "but because I had her and I did not want anyone else to have her.

"She knew it was coming and should have had sense enough to stop."

Was Long Planned The document said that Librizzi saw Mrs. Allen and Mulhaley holding hands and that this brought his jealousy to a climax.

"I had been thinking about it (the shooting) for two weeks" the confession continued "and I had threatened to shoot her before. I told her in front of witnesses that I would do it.

"Jennie admitted that she had other men and I told her that I was the most jealous guy that walked on two feet. I told her I would walk out and when I did she would have no one else because I was going to shoot her."

The fact that Librizzi had confessed had been made public last week, but the text of the document had not been disclosed until it was read before Coroner J. J. Phelan.

LEGION AUXILIARY'S PRESIDENT HONORED

Two From Manchester Attend Banquet For Mrs. Williams Held In Hartford.

Mrs. Fred Woodhouse and Mrs. T. E. Brown attended the banquet at the Hotel Garde Saturday evening in honor of Mrs. Louise Williams, national president of the American Legion auxiliary.

Representatives of the state and city governments welcomed the gathering. Mrs. Helen McFarland, department president, presented to Commander Breslin of the American Legion in behalf of the American Legion auxiliaries in Connecticut a check for $3,107 to help carry on the rehabilitation work.

Mrs. Williams gave an inspiring talk on the growth of the auxiliaries and urged all units to increase their membership. All women eligible should count as a privilege to join this organization whose motto is "Serving Others."

At the present time there are nearly 400,000 members in 7,800 units.

NORWICH VOTES TODAY

Norwich, June 6.—(AP)—Former Senator John H. Barnes, Republican, opposed Edward G. Moran, Democrat, in today's city election for the mayoralty, which has been held by Lee R. Robbins, Republican, and former State senator. Both are attorneys and each has had active part for years in civic affairs.

The Democrats again had Charles S. Avery as their candidate for city treasurer. He has held the office many years and probably is the senior of all city and town officials in the state. He is 86 years old, having been born in Groton, December 21, 1845. He was in the State Senate just twenty years ago.

The city ticket calls for election, besides the mayor and the treasurer, of aldermen, councilmen, city sheriff and a water commissioner.

Word of the presence of the bergs was radioed to Boston by the cutter Fontebian which is on international ice patrol duty. The cutter is standing by the bergs and broadcasting warnings.

Local Stocks N. Y. Stocks

Large table of stock market data including local and New York stock prices, with columns for bid and asked prices.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, June 6.—(AP)—Security markets began the new week with a substantial let-down from the levels reached in the sweeping recovery of the past three trading sessions.

Profit taking and hangover liquidation invited by the higher prices was in modest volume, however, and the reaction, while substantial, was not regarded in brokerage quarters as excessive, in view of the extent of the recent upswing.

Common stocks were almost uniformly heavy, but bonds and preferred issues continued to move forward in spots. Shares rallied a little after midday.

Among shares losing 2 to 3 points were American Telephone, American Can, U. S. Steel, Consolidated Gas, Eastman, Corn Products, National Biscuit, Dupont, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco "B", Reynolds "B", Coca Cola, Union Pacific and Santa Fe. Norfolk and Western and Delaware and Hudson lost 4, and special selling appeared in Brooklyn-Manhattan-Transit issues, which broke about 6 points.

The break in the E-M-T issues was attributed to uncertainty over the coming dividend action, to be considered by the directors later in the month. The day's dividend news was on the whole fairly encouraging.

Lambert cut its annual rate to $4 from $5, but paid an extra of $1. So stockholders get $2 for the quarter, as before. Detroit Edison ordered the regular $1 quarterly payment, but the management announced a reduction might be ordered in the autumn payment, unless business improves.

Brokerage commentators had been inclined to look for an interruption early this week to the rally which set in last Thursday, so sentiment remained guardedly cheerful over the outlook for coming weeks.

The week-end analysis of investment advisory services were more cheerful than they have been for some time. Nevertheless, it was recognized that business activity remains extremely low, and with the usually quiet summer period now approaching, the best that can be hoped for apparently, is a smaller than usual seasonal recession.

Filing of the incorporation papers for the American Securities Investing Corp., which stated, it was the intention to "engage principally in the business of purchasing and investing in bonds or debentures or other obligations" again attracted interest to this powerful banking investment program. So far as could be learned, the corporation has not yet begun operations.

PRINCE TO GRADUATE Washington, June 6.—(AP)—Among Georgetown's 576 graduates today was a young man of royal blood—Prince Nondiyavt Svasti, brother-in-law of Siam's king.

The prince has been a student in the school of foreign affairs. He plans to go to Siam to put into practice the training he has received for a diplomatic career.

For three years the younger brother of Queen Rambai Barni lived and studied in America. He was only when the King and Queen visited the United States last summer that his identity became known.

WRITER KILLS SELF Miami, Fla., June 6.—(AP)—Henry W. Fisher, 77, author of numerous books, several of which purported to reveal the private lives of European monarchs, fell to his death from a ninth floor window of a hotel here today. Notes he left held of his intention to commit suicide.

WELL FITTED Grandma (to grand-daughter engaged to be married): You are young, dear. Do you feel you are fitted for married life? Grand-daughter: Perfectly, grandma—I have seventeen years and three costumes.—FITZGERALD.

ONE SET OF PLATES FOR 2 AUTOMOBILES

Brothers Try To Get Car Home Without License, Are Arrested Here.

Allan Barbrick, 28, of 229 Franklin Avenue, Hartford was fined $10 and costs in town court this morning on the charge of driving an automobile without registration, and Wesley Barbrick, a minor, was fined $5 without costs on the charge of operating a motor vehicle without plates.

"Lost It" Officer Herman Muske was patrolling Main street near Woodland, when he noticed the car driven by Wesley Barbrick with only one license tag. Muske investigated and Barbrick told the officer that he "lost" the tag and the officer allowed him to continue when it was found that his registration tallied with the sole marker on the car.

A short time later, near the railroad crossing on West Middle Turnpike, he came upon Allan Barbrick with a Ford touring car with a marker corresponding with the one he had just left on Woodland street.

It developed that Wesley Barbrick had trouble with his car and telephoned his brother Allan to come and help him out. In performing this, the latter drove an unlicensed car on one of his brother's plates, and both were caught in the act before they could get the cars out of town.

Edmund O'Brien, 24, of 148 Liberty street, Middletown, paid $10 and costs on a charge of intoxication and breach of the peace committed last night on Center street near Pine Forest. The party with which O'Brien was traveling was brought to the police station and when their licenses and registration of the car were found to be in order, were allowed to continue on their way.

Sergeant McGinnis and another followed them to the Forest and found the car off the road and the defendant was making trouble and creating a disturbance in an effort to drive the car.

INDEPENDENT GROCERS HOLDING THEIR OWN St. Louis, June 6.—(AP)—Despite general conditions, independent retail grocery distribution now occupies a stronger position in the competitive field than it did a year ago. C. H. Janssen, secretary-manager of the National Association of Retail Grocers, told members at the opening of their convention here today.

"Corporate chain distribution," Janssen said, "has been defeated almost as much as the market value of its stock, and much of its arrogant ballyhoo has disappeared. It is today confronted with militant, aggressive merchandising on the part of the independent in full effect which is only beginning to be felt."

Economic adversity, Janssen said, has brought into the "spotlight of trade and public view, the inherent weakness and inadequacy of the corporate chain type of distribution, and its barrenness as a community 'utider,'" while such adversity has demonstrated that independent retail grocers are a "pillar of the community."

ON SECRET MISSION Edmonton, Alta., June 6.—(AP)—Headed for an undisclosed destination in the wilds of northern British Columbia, five flying boats under command of J. H. Eastman, Detroit aeronautical engineer, soared up Cooking lake and headed for the west late yesterday.

The expedition, which left Detroit a week ago, landed at Cooking Lake Wednesday. In addition to Eastman there are four pilots and one minor engineer in the party. They expect to be in northern British Columbia about six weeks.

SYRACUSE IS HONORED Syracuse, N. Y., June 6.—(AP)—Syracuse University today at its sixty-first annual commencement exercises awarded an honorary doctorate degree in civil laws to Premier Richard B. Bennett of Canada. Degrees of honor conferred included Major William Duncan Herring, Canadian minister to the United States, and Hanford MacNider, United States minister to Canada, doctor of laws.

GIRLS FRIENDLY HOLDS FIELD DAY

Annual Gathering of Young Women In Hartford and Middlesex Dioceses Is Held Here.

A large gathering of members of the Girls' Friendly society of Hartford and Middlesex Dioceses attended the annual field day held here on Saturday. The local branch served sandwiches and coffee to the visitors at 2 o'clock in the parish house, after which they left for the Golf Links in private cars.

Miss Irene Walters, who was in charge of the sports for the afternoon, had a well-rounded program planned. The first event was the baseball game between the local branch and a team composed of members of St. Paul's Branch of Willimantic. The final score was 12 to 5 in favor of St. Mary's girls.

In the last inning Dot Russell, pinch-hitting for Evelyn Tedford, tied the score by sliding to home plate. Miss Lena Crosscup of Hartford acted as umpire.

Following the entertainment conferences were held for three different groups: Younger Members, Miss Lena Crosscup; Older Members, Miss Lucy Winton; Associates, Mrs. Merrill.

Associate Lillian Reardon was general chairman of the affair and it is due to her untiring work that the afternoon was so successful. Transportation was in charge of Associate Helen Crawford and her committee.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Manchester girls' tennis team certainly pulled through splendidly Saturday afternoon at New Britain.

Miss Edith Brown, who won two of her matches in Keeney Park last week, played in the semi-finals against Miss Anne Faisson from Simsbury. Miss Faisson won from Miss Brown, 6-0, 6-2, and June Deming from Hillhouse in New Haven lost in the finals to Faisson. The score was 6-3, 6-4. The final match was very spectacular as both girls played net and were not only evenly matched but they made excellent placements with air-tight returns. It was Miss Faisson who defeated Miss Eleanor Huebner last year at New Britain.

Miss Jean Williams and Miss Mildred Sutherland were runners-up in the finals losing to Nancy Lamson and Betty Terry of Hillhouse, 6-3, 6-2. Both Miss Williams and Miss Sutherland played back court and the net playing of their opponents was a decided advantage. The Manchester doubles team received silver medals for being runners-up and the winners were presented with gold medals besides the silver cup.

Jim Britton and Bob Smith, number one and two men on the high school boys' tennis team, pulled through to the quarter and final matches respectively. Jim lost in the semi-finals and Smith played with his boy from Hillhouse, losing in a very close match. He received a silver medal for being runner-up. Mike Brosowski, Buddie Kerr, Jim Britton and L. Urbanetti played Hartford Public High school in tennis this afternoon in Hartford.

A LINE ON THE GROUND

President Hoover's plan to meet the unemployment problem and "to stiffen the whole agricultural situation," as announced after a very important Sunday conference on the Rapidan, may fairly be regarded as the peak of all effort to meet the depression emergency through the extension of credit. It would be difficult to conceive of any more liberal program than that presented by the President and his conferees, based on a faith that banking enlargements can solve the problem. If the President gets the legislation he asks, and if the general situation does not then improve considerably, it may be accepted as pretty conclusively proven that he and his advisors are on the wrong track and that it will eventually be necessary to start over again along some other road.

In other words, if the President's plan will not work, the country must seek relief from some entirely new remedy. The one to be resorted to, in such event, would almost certainly be a heavy expansion of the currency. That business would be stimulated and the situation of the debtors relieved by such expansion, everybody knows. The risk lies in the difficulty of stopping the operation of such a remedy before it results in effectual repudiation and complete fiscal demoralization.

However, Mr. Hoover has scratched a mark on the ground indicating the limits of relief through banking operations. If we reach that mark with no important improvement in the state of the patient it is inevitable that the inflation stimulant will have to be resorted to.

THE BOND POOL

One of the most promising things about the American Securities Investing Corporation now in process of formation by a consortium of great banking houses and loosely described in Wall street as the "bond pool" is the fact that its organizers declare they are setting up the corporation for the purpose of making profits. That is a distinct relief from the monotony of enterprises formed to "aid the country" or "come to the rescue of general business."

Happily the "bond pool" will not be able to make any money unless it does aid the general situation by preventing the everlasting sagging in securities values. It is to be anticipated, therefore, that considerable benefit will derive from its formation and from its activities.

sands, no doubt, of worse ones. But he played up the doctoring job from the minute he entered practice as a fledgling practitioner. Every patient had sought medical advice in the nick of time. Every one of them who got well, and that of course was the great majority, had been clutching from the jaws of death. Every one who died had been a desperate case from the start so nobody could blame the physician. In a few years the doctor's name was one to conjure with.

Making a wisard's task out of a perfectly simple resubmission plank is like that. If the party is going to advocate resubmitting the Eighteenth amendment to the people, all there is to be done is to say so. Any police court reporter or any correspondence clerk in a business office could write the plank as well as anybody else; so well as any conferees of older statesmen.

We are aware of having said something like this before. We are saying it again because Senator Messer and Mr. Garfield and other important Republicans are so obviously trying to make this plank-sawing a matter of log-rolling and enormous expenses that the first thing they know everybody will be laughing at them. And it is one of those years when the party has enough troubles without subjecting itself to ridicule—a very dangerous thing to court in politics.

BOOB OF VERDUN

The report that President von Hindenburg will retire from office on his eighty-fifth birthday in October and that he will urge the election in his place of former Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm, restoring the Hohenzollern family to the rulership of Germany, is about as difficult a year to credit as any that has come out of that country in a long time.

Not that it is at all incredible that royalist sentiment might be strong enough in Germany to bring about an abstractly parallel situation; but it does seem incredible that it should be seriously proposed to put at the head of the government an individual whom so many Germans hold in profound contempt and whom so many others abominate.

The Crown Prince was never a German idol; far from it. He was, even before the war, regarded by any number of his people as a wastrel and a fool. In the war he was distinguished only for the enormous destruction of German lives in the fruitless and strategically unjustifiable series of desperate attacks on Verdun. It has always been inconceivable that any other commander than a son of the Kaiser would have been permitted to continue for months the slaughter that went on in the hills and ravines in front of the great French fortress. Verdun deeply sapped the manpower and the will to victory of the German nation and for the German people have always felt that the witless Frederick Wilhelm was responsible.

Even if it is on the cards that Junker Germany shall mount the saddle it seems pretty nearly inconceivable that it can find no better instrument for its own ends than the Boob of Verdun.

"NECESSARILY"

Despite the fact that it has no sporting section and no funny strips in the Congressional Record is an intensely interesting daily. Its regular readers get a great kick out of it. For example: Senator Sheppard of Texas is one of those truly good men who stand in the front rank of the completely holy. He exudes purity. He was so filled with concern for the morals of humanity that he became author of the Eighteenth amendment. That Senator Sheppard should tell a lie, even a little one, is unthinkable.

on the imagination as does the idea that Senator Sheppard really believes the hog-wash he occasionally talks about prohibition. There is hardly anybody so unnecessary, anywhere, as Huey Long.

DISTRICT SYSTEM

An especially interesting phase of the affairs of the Washington School District of Hartford is developed by a study of the auditor's report showing astonishing slovenliness in the control of the district's expenditures. That phase is the good showing made by the district, in per-pupil costs, as compared with the expenditures of the Hartford schools as a whole.

The auditor shows that there was unparadiseable extravagance, if nothing worse, in the expenditures on grounds and buildings and cheer-trickery in the accounting on supplies. Hundreds of thousands of dollars, according to the report, have been wasted during the last eight years. And yet there has been no time when the district committee could not successfully invite comparison between its expenditures and those of other districts in the city.

The inference in this is unescapable. It is not that the affairs of the Washington district were wisely and properly administered, but that the whole school system of Hartford comes under suspicion of waste and extravagance.

FAR APART

Those politically suspicious persons who think they scent a possible alliance between Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler and Senator Borah and the development of a third party out of such a union of minds seems to be reconciling the irreconcilable. How it would be possible to get Butler and Borah into the same new-party boat when the former is presently the most outstanding wet in the country and when Borah, for some strange reason of his own, seems to be getting drier and drier each day, is quite beyond understanding.

IN NEW YORK

New York, June 6.—So long as there remains one contemporary white hair or one in creasing bald spot on Broadway, the name of Mrs. Finkelshtein will find its way into reminiscence table talk.

Mrs. Finkelshtein is most historic of all theatrical boarding house landladies. Someone told me the other day that the slate upon which she kept books is a collector's item, in the possession of a stage veteran.

On this slate there were no debit and credit columns, instead were two headings: "promises" and "paid-up."

They tell of the arrival at this old, twenty-sixth street, establishment of Mrs. Minnie Adams and daughter, Maude, as the signature read. They were among the few cash customers. Maude was trying so hard to get along on the stage. And then the break came in Ely's "A Temperance Town," and Maude rose rapidly to stardom. Then there was that fellow who would beg to use the dining room lamp after dinner, so that he could write sketches. His name was George M. Cohan. The sketches were later used by the Four Cohans.

HEALTH-DIET ADVICE
 By Dr. Frank McCoy
and the Best Way to Health

PHYSICAL EXERCISE BENEFICIAL. Physical exercise as an aid in developing increased strength probably originated with the caveman, who used heavy bones and tusks for his dumb-bells. All people of whom we have any record considered exercise as valuable for increasing health and muscular strength.

Physical culture may be used to advantage by those who are thin, low blood pressure, biliousness, poor circulation, underweight, poor appetite, etc.

How to Take Your Exercises. The first thing to do is to choose a regular time for exercising. This may be the morning, evening or afternoon. The second thing to do is to EXERCISE MODERATELY at first. Many people, at the start, exercise to exhaustion, their flabby muscles become sore and painful, and in a few days they have become so discouraged that they stop exercising altogether.

Bad Habits. Question: Mrs. W. S. J. asks: "Will you please tell me whether strawberries or tomatoes are bad for a weak bladder?" Answer: Strawberries, tomatoes, and other acid fruits must often be used with caution by those who have cystitis.

Baked Potatoes. Question: Miss Ella asks: "Will you please inform me why a baked potato contains less calories than a potato cooked otherwise?" Answer: There is very little difference in the caloric value of a baked potato and one cooked otherwise.

 New York, June 7.—(AP)—Anna Pavlova's estate, estimated at $300,000 when she died in January, 1931, is actually nearly twice that large, due to her skill in investing money. It was estimated many years ago that she had a net worth of $1,000,000.

AIR PATHS OF GLORY

Since the dramatic rescue of the then Capt. John Rodgers and his crew when their Navy plane, P-N-9, No. 1, went down in the Pacific and floated for nine days, many great flights have obscured the terrific ordeal they survived. But Rodgers will always be a great hero in naval annals. He is shown as he appeared, haggard but neck encircled with lei, after the rescue. The P-N-9, No. 1, is below.

BY DEKTER TEDD
NEA Service Writer.

"And Rodgers was a spunky lad, in naval battles handy."—Old Song. There had been seven admirals in the Rodgers family. It was a tradition to be a fighting man in the U. S. Navy. John Rodgers IV was a fighting man and he figured in the most dramatic episode in the annals of aviation.

The plane he commanded, the P-N-9, No. 1, went down in the ocean, 25 hours out from San Francisco on the way to Hawaii. Instruments were not so accurate then, it had strayed from its course and was out of fuel. Captain Rodgers and his crew of four men faced almost certain death.

"We Won't Give Up"
The seaplane stayed afloat, tossed by rolling seas. "We won't give up," said Rodgers firmly. "Right," said his four companions.

A blazing semi-tropical sun baked them, dried their throats. They hoarded the little water supply by taking small sips. They put up sails, made of pieces of canvas. The captain steered and encouraged the crew.

Stantz worked feverishly to construct a sending set from the radio apparatus. It couldn't be done. The receiving set worked, though. Over it came mocking messages: "Plane P-N-9, No. 1, believed lost with all aboard. Destroyers report no sign of it." Occasionally came a cheering message: "We'll find you yet, John. Don't give up."

As if a Rodgers would ever give up! Hours passed into days. The waves still could not conquer their prey. The craft stayed afloat. Black shapes of sharks, fins cutting the surface, shot by. The crew must have been a little delirious. They laughed hollowly. They had names for the sharks—"Minnie, Fannie and Horace."

Came more radio messages: "Hope practically abandoned for Rodgers and crew." The lines in the captain's face were as stern and as firm as ever. A week passed. The food was all gone. They sipped of water could not relieve their burning throats. But Rodgers wavered not at all. His order was: "Only a sip." It was obeyed. Those haggard men recognized leadership.

They burned rags in a bucket as a signal. Weakening fast, the seaplane cracking ominously, they knew help must come soon or it would be too late. And then suddenly they saw a black shape on the horizon. It came closer. It was a submarine.

That dramatic rescue cannot be forgotten, nor the surprise of millions of Americans when word reached California that all were saved. It was the Rodgers tradition to be victorious. That fight to live, seven years ago, will always be remembered.

Three Words
There is a grave near Havre de Grace, Md. On the headstone is the name Commander John Rodgers IV, U. S. N.

After the rescue he was promoted to assistant chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics in Washington. He was honored by his government and by the people. Then a year later a land plane in which he was flying over Philadelphia crashed into the Delaware river. With him was a pilot, Samuel Schults.

Mortally injured, crushed, Rodgers' last words will always be recalled by men who appreciate the traditions of the Navy. He was to die within an hour, but Rodgers opened his eyes and his lips formed the words: "How is Schults?"

quiet at the Hartford Club that night. Middlebury, Wethersfield, Hartford, Windsor, and Agawam and Springfield, Mass., all cities through which Washington passed, will be the scenes tomorrow and Wednesday of speeches, ceremonies and military displays reminiscent of the Revolutionary leader and first president.

State Celebration
The occasion is the two-day Connecticut celebration of the bicentennial of Washington's birth, designed as a succession of events at zones actively identified with his life. Five military organizations will form the nucleus of the first of four parades in Middletown tomorrow morning. The first and second companies, Governor's Foot Guards, will appear in their scarlet grenadier uniforms. The Putnam Phalanx of Hartford will wear the blue and buff of the Continental army. Other organizations will be the Richmond Light Infantry Blues, the New Haven Greys and the Second Company, Governor's Horse Guards, of New Haven.

Governor to Speak
Governor W. L. Cross will head the list of speakers at the Wethersfield celebration that afternoon. Others will be Governor Joseph B. Ely, of Massachusetts; Colonel John H. Cutchins, of Virginia, and former Congressman E. Hart Fenn. The banquet that night at the Hartford Club and a military ball in the State armory will complete the day's program. Major Georges Theriault, air attache at the French Embassy in Washington, will represent his country.

Wednesday, the governor's official party will go to Agawam, Mass., stopping at the Oliver Ellsworth House in Windsor, for the dedication of the first marker on the Massachusetts George Washington Highway. At the same time the military units will parade in Hartford.

Governor Cross and his party will be joined by Governor Ely and a Massachusetts delegation at Agawam. In the afternoon a second highway marked will be dedicated at the entrance to the Eastern States Exposition grounds in West Springfield. The military units will parade for the fourth time there.

The present claims amount to only a small portion of that sum and the claimants are aware of the necessity of recognizing the vast changes which the past fifteen years have brought, and are willing to settle on a realistic business basis.

One of the newspapers printed a story to the effect French interests have offered to lend 300,000,000 francs to Manchukuo with a Japanese guaranty, but M. Masselet said his group was not that strong and that nothing on such an extensive scale was contemplated.

Would Re-open Markets
He declined to name specific sums, but he did say that if Manchukuo and Soviet Russia readmit the French claimants to participation in the railway it was certain that a good market would be re-opened in France for investments in Manchukuo enterprises but not for political loans.

In the Diet this afternoon Premier Saito told a questioner he knew nothing about negotiations for a French loan to Manchukuo. The foreign office also denied that Japan was negotiating for the purchase of any part of the French claims in the railway.

The spokesman added, however, that Japan welcomed the prospect of French investment in Manchukuo and would similarly welcome investment by the United States and other foreign interests. He said he could see no reason why Japan should be asked to guarantee foreign investments in Manchukuo beyond the obvious fact of Japan's support of the stability of the regime at Changchun.

Nicholas Murray Butler says the United States needs a third political party. Gosh, isn't it bad enough with two?

COUNTER REVOLT BEGINS IN CHILE

Army and Navy Supports Movement—Students in Strike But Capital Is Quiet.

Santiago, Chile, June 6.—(AP)—Counter-revolution directed against the Socialist regime which set itself up here on Saturday has broken out in southern Chile.

It was understood the Army and Navy were supporting the movement. Reports from the south this morning, said the military and naval garrison at Concepcion and Falcabundo had joined the counter-revolutionary forces.

General Fuga, minister of the interior in the new government, said he had expected some incident, but he did not believe the counter-revolution would be very serious. If necessary, he said, he will send planes down to bombard the rebels.

Montero Flees
Juan Esteban Montero, ousted by the Socialist Junta, left town last night and today was reported to be somewhere along the coast trying to join the southern force. It also was reported that former President Ibanez, who has been living in Argentina, had crossed the border into Chile by air, landing at his ranch near Talca.

This morning university students declared a strike in protest against the Junta government, but the city was quiet.

Colonel Marmaduke Grove, the new minister of defense, issued a personal statement today in which he said that "our revolution will not degenerate into a military dictatorship."

NO WORD RECEIVED OF ATLANTIC FLIER

NO WORD RECEIVED
London, June 6.—(AP)—European anxiety over the fate of Stanislaus P. Hauser, Polish-American flier increased today when no word had been received of him since he took off from New York last Friday for a flight to Poirnd. A despatch from Warsaw, the Polish capital, said the city was greatly worried. Air authorities there made frequent unavailing telephone calls to various European air fields seeking possible word of the flier.

conditions which can not be corrected. And the problems of the banking system, he said, are bound up with those of commerce.

In the opinion of Mr. Young, who recently declined to be considered as a Democratic candidate for president, the present economic reversal was caused by the wide variance between the high living standards of the industrial population and the low standards of the farmers.

Situation Unbalanced
"It was our unbalanced situation which caused our trouble," he said. "The living standards of our industrial population were lifted to a high level on back of an impenetrable tariff wall. Those of our agricultural population, which was subjected to a world competition, could not normally be maintained at an equal level."

"No upward trend can take place," he cautioned, "unless we all go up. No permanency of any trend can be guaranteed unless we have sound and fair balance between all the units in our economic body."

PLOT TO MURDER MUSSOLINI FAILS

Saturday a police inspector noticed the man and demanded that he produce his identification papers. When he could not produce an identity card he was searched, and the bombs found.

"Those are bombs," said Sbardotto, "but don't be afraid. They won't explode unless I touch them." He reached into his vest pocket and drew out a pistol, explaining he intended to kill himself if he failed in the attack on the premier. Later at police headquarters he signed a formal confession.

A gangster's bullet passed through a New York man's hair without hitting him. Must have been a parting shot.

I couldn't believe my eyes!

It didn't seem possible that after so many years of bother, annoyance and really hard work, I could have my family laundry so perfectly washed for so little money.

Because of limited finances I've tried every available method of laundering to get the work done well and economically. Then I tried New Method's "PROSPERITY" Service—gave it a real test—and I can say enthusiastically that I have at last found the answer to my laundry problem.

Frankly, I could hardly believe my eyes when the first bundle was returned with the laundry slip calling for only 88c. Think of it! I had 109 pieces perfectly washed and everything returned in such a wholesome manner. Colored articles separated and in a waxed paper—everything shaken out, fresh, airy, just as every fastidious woman would have it. Really, I was amazed.

A typical "Prosperity" bundle!

1 Undershirt	9 Blouses
4 Shirts	2 Boys' baseball suits
2 Underdrawers	1 Khaki shirt
4 Union Suits	2 Khaki pants
2 Pajamas	6 Pillow slips
11 Pairs Socks	4 Sheets
4 Pair silk stockings	3 Hand towels
1 Waist	3 Dish towels
6 Aprons	6 Bath towels
2 Dresses	6 Napkins
1 Bloomer	4 Wash cloths
2 Slips	19 Handkerchiefs
2 Silk Blouses	109 Pieces washed
2 Pair golf hose	22 Lbs. 88c.

Detailed description below—

YALE TO SURVEY AUTO ACCIDENTS

Law School Professors To Work Out a Plan To Improve Compensation Acts.

New Haven, June 6.—(AP)—A plan of payment based on workmen's compensation ideas for those injured or the dependents of those killed in automobile accidents was recommended today by Dean Charles E. Clark of the Yale Law School, at a New Haven bar luncheon.

Such a plan, he said, would have the advantages of the present system of liability insurance, where payment and that the monetary recovery usually will not repay the actual out of pocket expense.

A study of the subject has been carried on by the committee to study compensation of automobile accidents, headed by Arthur Ballantine, New York attorney, and undersecretary of the treasury. The director of the study was Shippen Lewis, Philadelphia attorney.

"Case studies" he said "brought out that where there is no insurance the victim has about one chance in four of receiving some payment and that the monetary recovery usually will not repay the actual out of pocket expense."

The unequal distribution of money by the insurers is most important as bearing upon the plan adopted in some European countries and in the state of Massachusetts, of requiring all motorists to carry insurance. The committee's case studies showed clearly x x x that the payments were going generally in small amounts to a vast number of claimants, x x x this points to the inadequacy of the plan as indicating probably unnecessary payments to many and inadequate coverage of the really deserving cases. The occasional large court judgment x x x makes the inequality more glaringly apparent while probably x x x forcing insurance premiums up. In fact, it appears that automobile accident litigation in Massachusetts has practically doubled.

Object of Survey "The committee carefully considered the possibility of working out a plan of payment without respect to fault or negligence based upon the workman's compensation idea. This would provide a definite though limited sum proportioned to the injury to be paid in all cases. It is committee's belief this plan will cost the motorist and the insurance companies little if any more than the Massachusetts system and will provide more adequate coverage for the accident victims. A schedule of rates based upon the act of the Massachusetts workmen's act, would, it is estimated, actually have cost the Massachusetts motorists less than has their present system.

COVENTRY

Law School Professors To Work Out a Plan To Improve Compensation Acts.

New Haven, June 6.—(AP)—A plan of payment based on workmen's compensation ideas for those injured or the dependents of those killed in automobile accidents was recommended today by Dean Charles E. Clark of the Yale Law School, at a New Haven bar luncheon.

Such a plan, he said, would have the advantages of the present system of liability insurance, where payment and that the monetary recovery usually will not repay the actual out of pocket expense.

A study of the subject has been carried on by the committee to study compensation of automobile accidents, headed by Arthur Ballantine, New York attorney, and undersecretary of the treasury. The director of the study was Shippen Lewis, Philadelphia attorney.

"Case studies" he said "brought out that where there is no insurance the victim has about one chance in four of receiving some payment and that the monetary recovery usually will not repay the actual out of pocket expense."

CALLS DE VALERA ANOTHER KERENSKY

Ex-Finance Minister Says President Is Heading For a Dictatorship in Ireland.

Roscommon, Irish Free State, June 6.—(AP)—President Eamon De Valera was told today by the Conservative opposition that he might be serving as "the Kerensky" for a "semi-Communist dictatorship" in Ireland.

Ernest Blythe, former finance minister, and supporter of former President William G. Cosgrave's party in the Dail Eireann made the Kerensky reference in a speech.

It was possible, Blythe said, that the president and his associates were unconsciously playing the party of "A Kerensky who weakens and vacillates" made possible the accession of Bolshevism in Ireland after the World War.

Considerable drilling and some display of arms had occurred recently in the Free State he said.

De Valera warned the Dail not to let it be a parade of the Irish Republican army to the government building in Dublin.

The Irish Republican army, an unofficial group which fought for years for a free Ireland, was banned under the Cosgrave regime.

This year, following the election of De Valera as president it turned out in large numbers for Easter Week ceremonies memorializing the Easter Week uprising in 1916 when a number of the Irish patriots lost their lives.

Last week a report was published in London saying Russian ships had been prevented by the British Navy from landing arms in Ireland for the Republican army.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Everett, Mass.—Chief of Police William Hill, addressing his men at memorial services at the cemetery said: "You never know when death will strike. Leading his men in formation from the cemetery, he collapsed and died.

Lebanon, Pa.—Another year's rent for the Taber Reformed church has been paid. For 172 years it has been the same, as provided by George Steitz, founder of Lebanon. The rent is a red rose.

Greenville, Ky.—Wednesday will be "get married" day in Muhlenberg county. All who wish to launch marital bargues are invited to get their licenses then without costs. The reason is the apathy toward marriage hereabouts lately, which the county is anxious to have something done about.

Chicago—A genealogical society contends that because Mrs. Mary Alexander Dahlberg, former wife of Bror Dahlberg, didn't like the looks of her family tree after the society showed it to her, she has refused to pay for the research—the sum of $1,700.

Sandusky, O.—The Federal government is now officially the caretaker of the little cemetery on Johnson's island where are buried 206 Confederate soldiers who died in Union prisons. Formal ceremonies were conducted yesterday.

Philadelphia—As the police hear it, John Cupo, 21, bragged that he could drink alcohol "straight," as they used to say in the barrel houses. The first swallow caused him to sputter and spill the rest on his clothing and on the floor. John Boccaltupo tossed a match at him and Cupo was badly burned. Boccaltupo is held on a charge of "assault and battery by burning."

COLUMBIA

A meeting of the grammar school graduates for this year was held at the Center School with Miss Comstock Thursday. The following class officers were elected: President, Stephan Kozak; Chestnut Hill, Secretary Evelyn Chownace; Old Hop River, and Treasurer Catherine Ambrose. Pine street. Class motto "Onward forever." Class flower, Rose. Class colors blue and gold.

Rehearsals for graduation are underway at the respective schools. There are eight graduates, two from Chestnut Hill, two from Old Hop River, two from Pine street, one from Center. The graduation exercises will be on June 4 at 8:15.

STORMS IN CANADA

Regina, Sask., June 6.—(AP)—Central and southern Saskatchewan counted two dead and minor property damage today after a wind and rainstorm that swept the province during the week end.

Two girls were killed at Gravenhurst yesterday when they stepped on a high voltage wire that had been blown down by the strong wind.

At Chaplin and Valjean, south of here, the wind reached cyclonic proportions and overturned barns and small outbuildings.

TO REPLACE TROOPS Tokyo, June 6.—(AP)—The War Office announced today it had decided to replace an unspecified number of Japanese troops in Manchuria by cavalry units because of special tactical needs of the campaign to put down Chinese loyalist insurgents.

The announcement did not say how many cavalry units would be sent or whether the shift would mean an increase in the total Japanese military strength in Manchuria.

UNION LEADER DIES

New York, June 6.—(AP)—Benjamin Schlesinger, 56, founder and for 32 years president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, died at 4 a. m. today at Colorado Springs, Colo., a message to union leaders and relatives here announced.

Schlesinger had been ill of tuberculosis. He left New York last Wednesday, accompanied by his son, Abraham, for Colorado Springs, arriving there Friday. Union leaders said the long trip evidently overtaxed his strength, for he suffered a hemorrhage this morning and died in a short time.

The body will be brought to New York at once, and it is planned to have a public funeral from headquarters of the Ladies' Garment Workers Union on Thursday. A delegation of vice presidents of the union will meet the body in Chicago to escort it to New York.

FISH, GAME SUPER LOCAL CLUB GUEST

Arthur Clark Outlines Plan of Commission—Chief Warden, State Sec'y Guests.

The six-year program of the Connecticut board of Fisheries and Game and the improvements planned for hunting and fishing in this state were thoroughly outlined before the Manchester Rod and Gun club at its quarterly meeting Saturday night. The meeting was held at Canon's cottage at Bolton Lake and followed a chicken and lobster dinner.

The principal speaker on the after-dinner program was Superintendent Arthur Clark of the Fisheries and Game board. Mr. Clark has just assumed the position, succeeding the late Superintendent Titchcomb. Other honored guests were Secretary of State William H. Higgins and Chief Game Warden Joseph P. Williamson.

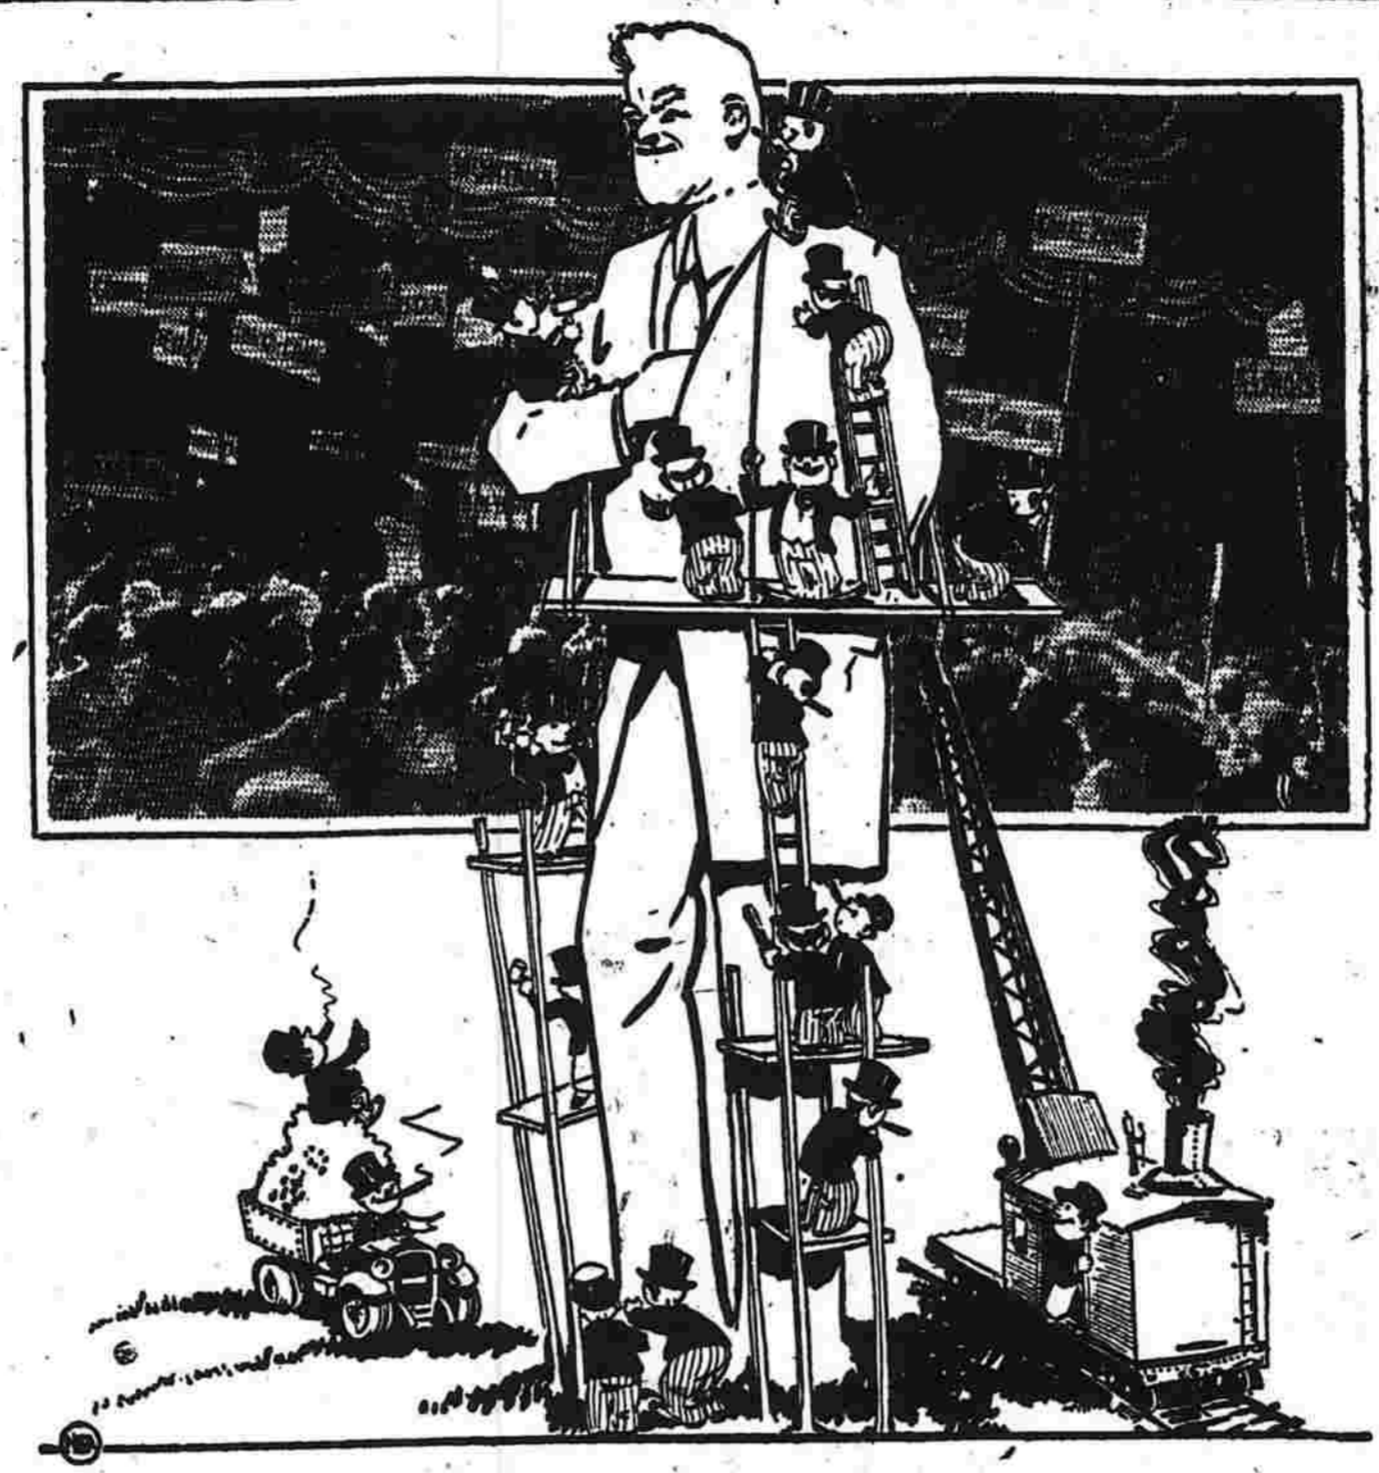

Sup. Clark said that although the commission does not exactly condone private clubs maintained for the purpose of holding private fish and game sanctuaries it finds these clubs useful in aiding the propagation of fish and game and protection of the state maintained game lands and streams. He stressed the fact that the state needs more assistants in its warden service. He suggested that stocking of streams and covers by private clubs was not altogether satisfactory and that an attempt would be made to add to the number of deputy wardens.

Chief Warden Williamson cited some of the difficulties encountered in enforcing the fish and game laws while on an arrest at the Burlington hatchery at two o'clock Saturday morning when a man was caught netting trout in the hatchery stream. He thought that better co-operation could be secured through the local courts in punishing offenders.

Secretary of State William H. Higgins complimented the club upon its good work and showed his enthusiasm by joining the membership.

Men Who "Make" Presidents

How Party Bosses From Days of Jefferson Have Run Nation's 'Big Show'

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer

Washington, June 6.—From the days of Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton down to the present, political bosses have played a major part in the making of presidents. Pending events at Chicago this month will have no exception. Convention delegates may vote, cheer and stage wild parades around the convention hall—but the decisions upon which they act usually are made in advance at quiet conferences between the men who pull the strings from behind the scenes. It has been estimated that 1,000 of the 1,154 delegates to the Democratic convention this year will be controlled by 25 or 40 men. Such bosses reign supreme in most large American cities today and quite a few of them will control full state delegations at Chicago.

They usually are the men who nominate candidates for the presidency. If enough of them decide to support a certain man, they block—and a man satisfactory to the bosses gets the prize.

As a group the bosses have national politics so well under their control that it is ridiculous to suggest that the voters have anything to do with choosing the party national candidates.

The Republican bosses will have little to do this year except to go through certain formalities. Roosevelt, for instance, is expected to be nominated without opposition. The Democratic bosses will have a much more difficult time. There is much doubt whether they can do that because there is no solid lineup of machine-controlled delegates in the northeast such as he has killed off leading candidates in both parties in the past.

Some of the most powerful Democratic leaders, however, are opposed to Roosevelt. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, and they hope they can get enough help from other powerful bosses whose position is as yet uncertain to keep Roosevelt out of the nomination and to nominate their own candidate.

There is much doubt whether they can do that because there is no solid lineup of machine-controlled delegates in the northeast such as he has killed off leading candidates in both parties in the past.

The really potent figures at the Democratic convention will be the candidates themselves. It is expected that for instance, Roosevelt, with 500 or 600 delegates will be able to have a very loud voice in picking the nominee in case he should not be nominated. And Smith, with perhaps a couple of hundred more also will have a strong voice. The unexcused Roosevelt will have the 94 votes of New York and thus far he is the only one who knows what he is going to do with them.

Mr. Curry, who has working arrangements with some upstate New York machine leaders, announced confidently that the 94 would be voted under the unit rule. There are Roosevelt delegates in the group, but apparently they won't be able to help themselves. The unit rule, often imposed by state conventions, requires delivery of the whole delegation vote as a unit to the designated candidate.

The strongest boss in the anti-Roosevelt group is Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, who will deliver New Jersey's 32 for Smith and connive as he never did before to destroy Roosevelt at the convention. Beside such men as Hague, National Chairman John J. Raskob and Executive Chairman Shouse will be of little effect except as they may use personal influence and persuasion—although they also are counted anti-Roosevelt.

Hague is a machine boss in the strictest sense. He also is a Democratic national committeeman and takes a very active interest in na-

SWEDISH SOCIETIES' MEMORIAL SERVICE

Assistant Pastor Is Also Bade Farewell At Yesterday's Gathering.

A good sized crowd was in attendance at the morning service at the Swedish Lutheran church yesterday when four fraternal organizations honored their deceased members in a memorial service. Rev. Roy L. Winters, assistant pastor of the church for the past two years, delivered his farewell sermon, and thanked the congregation for the pleasant associations during that time.

Rev. Winters also wished the members of the church every success under the leadership of the new pastor, Rev. Knut E. Ericson of Chicago, Ill., who is expected to arrive here on Monday, June 13.

IS BURNED TO DEATH

Chicago, June 6.—(AP)—James Mundon, 40, was trapped and burned to death in the lives of 30 other persons were imperiled early today in a confectionery store fire which Mundon apparently had set with his own hand.

Gasoline with which the store interior was soaked spread the flames so rapidly to dwellings above that only heroic rescue work of firemen and the police prevented heavy possible loss of life. Two children were rescued by police from a roof of an adjoining building. They had been driven there by the fire.

Police Serg. Frank Malone said all signs indicated Mundon had spread the gasoline and set fire to it, and found his escape blocked when a rear door jammed. His charred body was found within, Louis Somaras, who said his brother, John, owned the store, was arrested and John was sought.

TWO DIE IN CRASH

New York, June 6.—(AP)—Two men were instantly killed, a third was fatally injured and a young woman was seriously hurt when their automobile collided with a street car at Broadway and 251st street, the Bronx, early today.

Edward Mead, 31, of Yonkers, N. Y., driver of the car, and Edward Tracey, 30, of New York, were killed instantly. Michael Frost, 27, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., died a short time later.

The young woman, listed as Frances Cullane, 26, of New York was taken to a hospital suffering from a fractured skull and fractured arm.

Anthony Spagola, of Yonkers, motorman of the trolley car, said he saw the automobile approaching at a high rate of speed and stopped his car. He stepped outside and the automobile crashed head on.

QUAKES IN CUBA

Santiago, Cuba, June 6.—(AP)—Two earthquake shocks struck Santiago during the early hours today and sent residents of the city scurrying into parks, streets and open places.

The first shock, which occurred at 12:50 a. m., was a light one but the second, at 4:05 a. m., was strong enough to remind the people of the disastrous quake of last February.

ANNUAL BROWNIE REVEL

The annual Brownie Revel took place at Camp Norton Saturday afternoon when nearly 100 Brownies gathered on the hill, and at the call of Mrs. Robert Dewey, "Big Brown Owl" came skydiving down to greet her. After the opening and singing Mrs. Louis Marte gathered them under the shade of the trees and delighted them with a lovely fairy story.

Big Brown Owl told them to watch for their fairies. Then the fairies, each dressed in a different color, came running up the bank into view and each stationed herself at the proper place where the different groups gathered to play a relay of games. In charge of the Brownies of the Owls were the games, they all assembled to the shade of a tree and enjoyed cups of orange sherbet, furnished by each pack.

The attendance stars which are given to each Brownie who is present at all meetings or misses one from illness, were awarded by Big Brown Owl to the following: Perfect attendance, Isabella Heritage, Ruth Heritage, Peggy Brown and the Virginia Lathrop. Those missing one on account of illness: Marguerite Barry, Frances Cude, Dorothy Durkee, Geraldine Fisher, Marion Johnson, Patty Chartier, Olive Palmer, and Lolla Callis.

Big Brown Owl told them that the wicked witch, Mrs. Marte told them she would like to be better, and though if she did something for the Brownies it would help her, so she led them through the Magic Wood, where the wicked witch, seated on the stump of a tree surrounded with leaves, saw a bunch of Brownies a bunch of lilytops.

Several parents and friends were present to enjoy the afternoon with the children. The success of the affair is due Mrs. Robert Dewey, chairman of the Brownies, and her committee.

Flowery Chic for June Brides or Bridesmaids

The bridesmaid's muff and wee hat of artificial violets is something new for June weddings. The bridesmaid's dress is a little cow-necked, sleeveless gown of lace and chiffon in a heavenly aquamarine blue, with puff-sleeved jacket to match.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY

The thoughtful housewife usually plans her dessert from three angles: nourishment, cost and beauty. The summer dessert especially can be planned to provide much nourishment for the meal. The nourishment required in the dessert is determined by the rest of the meal. Calculate the calories and observe the protein contained in the main part of the menu. If the first course of a luncheon is a rich cream soup, a dessert made of milk and eggs is not suitable. If the meat course has been a heavy roast, a light, cooling dessert should be chosen. But when the meat course has been light, as is often the case in hot weather, the dessert can well make up the necessary protein in its milk and eggs.

A very sweet dessert often adds much to the fuel value of a meal, for sugar is a quick energizer or stimulant. In summer the sweetness of desserts should be given careful attention. It should, of course, be sweet enough to be palatable, but over-sweetening produces just that much extra heat.

If the meal has been lacking in bulk and breadstuffs, a rice or cereal pudding fills the need. Contrast in Courses. If the meat and vegetables have been expensive, serve an inexpensive dessert. This does not mean a commonplace one, but rather one that is simple requiring no large amount of cream nor expensive, elaborate ingredients. Contrast is always essential and a simple dessert should follow an elaborate main course.

Fruit is the ideal dessert for summer on several counts. One of the criticisms of the food of the average family is that too little fruit is used in the daily diet. The serving of fresh fruits saves time, an important factor in a busy mother's day. Waste can be avoided if several varieties are cut up together. Served in combination, none need go begging because there's not enough to go round. Slightly sweetened and chilled, there's nothing more refreshing than a fruit cup.

Fruit juices stiffened by the addition of gelatine make excellent weather desserts for almost all ages and types. The person who is dieting to reduce may have this dessert without cream, while the one who wants to gain in weight will find the fruit stimulating to the appetite with the cream adding many calories to his diet.

Rice puddings always are acceptable and can be as inexpensive and simple as one wishes. When made with milk and eggs, they are very nourishing and are particularly suitable to serve after a summer vegetable-plate dinner.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
CHERRY DIXON, 19 and pretty, falls in love with DAN PHILLIPS, newspaper reporter whom her wealthy, aristocratic parents have forbidden her to see. When Cherry learns Dan's telephone messages have been kept from her she steals out of the house to meet him. Her father discovers this and threatens to send her to California. Cherry defies him and he orders her to leave.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XI

Cherry said "Oh—" and then her voice dropped in disappointment. A bell boy in blue uniform stood at the door. He held a large pasteboard box bearing in large letters the name, "The Stanley Company."

"Package for you, Mrs. Phillips," Cherry told him to put the box down and rummaged in her purse for a coin. The door clicked on the youth's retreating back.

There were her purchases of the afternoon. "I consider the package," she thought. "Ninety-three dollars and seventy cents spent for a few simple garments. Suddenly she wished she had not gone shopping. It seemed a huge sum—$93.70. Why, it was almost $100. In the store she had thought only that the dresses were becoming, that she wanted Dan to see how well she looked in them.

Now she would have to tell him how much they had cost. She wished she had bought something for Dan instead of for herself. Here it was the first day of her marriage, and she had spent almost the whole time buying two dresses. The dresses should have been taken out and hung away so they would not be wrinkled in the closet. Cherry carried the box unopened to the clothes closet and pushed it back in the shadows. Then she straightened with a sigh and returned to the window to wait for Dan.

She thought she might see him coming down the street but half an hour later when his key turned in the lock the sound startled her. "Oh, Dan—I'm so glad you've come!"

She flew into his arms. Dan's arms, so strong, so comforting. The touch of his cheek against her temple. Swift, reassuring kisses. Suddenly the dreary, old-fashioned room might have been a palace. It might have been a moon-drenched tropical garden or a silvery ship deck. Cherry knew only that where Dan was must be and there she would be happy. Money, beautiful surroundings, pretty clothes, what did any of these matter?

She looked up at him through shining, tear-splashed lashes. "Why, darling! What's the matter?" "It's—it's because I'm so happy, Dan!"

He crushed her close again in a quick embrace, laughing. "It's that the way you show it when you're happy—getting your eyes all red with tears? Someone will be saying Dan Phillips beats that beautiful young wife of his or locks her up without anything to eat."

"Say what?" "Say what?" "I love to hear you call me your wife."

Tender words, softly whispered. Precious, precious moments. They stole past swiftly until the orange glow faded above the ragged city skyline and dusk settled in the streets.

"Was it a long day, Cherry? Were you lonesome?" "It doesn't matter now. Everything's all right so long as you're here again."

"What did you do this afternoon?" "There it was! A cold hand seemed to settle over the girl's heart. She didn't want to remember the way she had spent the afternoon. Cherry evaded; "Oh, I went out for a while and walked around. Then I came back to the hotel and read the paper and waited. I spent a lot of time getting ready for dinner."

"We went to the Wellington tonight but—well, the fact is I intended to get a check cashed and then forgot. Would you mind if we drop in at a little place I know over on Locust street? Nothing very fancy, but the food's o. k."

She assured him she did not mind. Out on the street Cherry raised her head proudly. She wished the whole world could see her walking beside this tall young man who loved her and was so good to her. She wished above all else that her father and mother might see their daughter at that moment.

Perhaps Dan read her thoughts. He took her arm as they crossed a street and the pressure of his fingers was more than solitude. He said in a low voice: "Not sorry about anything, are you, kid?"

"I'm never going to be sorry about anything again, Dan. Not ever!" "Neither am I!"

Like happy children they laughed aloud. The awkward thing was that each of them really believed it. The "little place over on Locust street" proved to be exactly as Dan had described it. It was not fancy in the least. The sign on the window read "Schroeder's Restaurant."

Charlie Schroeder, the proprietor, came forward to meet them. He greeted Dan cordially and led the way to a table in the rear of the long, narrow room. "It's a fine evening, Mr. Phillips. Great weather we're having these days. Takes people out of doors—makes them hungry. You like this table? It's all right, yes? Now then, maybe you'll have some of the pot roast and noodles."

Schroeder was a short, fat man with faded cheeks and small eyes that seemed to crinkle with perpetual good humor. His manner was almost that of a host. He bowed and smiled at Cherry when Dan introduced her, then hastened to greet some newcomers.

The restaurant was about half-filled. There seemed to be more men than women at the tables. The furniture was all of dark brown wainscoting high way up the walls. Ceiling lights cast a mellow glow over the room that had seemed dark when Cherry entered. As her eyes became accustomed to the dim light she found it restful.

The tables had crisp white covers and no flowers. Waiters, carrying heavily laden trays, set down dishes that were "lick and generous-sized. Dan glanced up from the menu card. "See anything you like?" he asked.

"Yes, lots of things. I'll have the roast lamb or broccolo." "Dan gave the orders, then leaned back comfortably. "Now then," he said, "I guess we'll eat. To tell the truth I'm almost famished. Only had a sandwich at noon. That restaurant out at the airport doesn't go in for anything very elaborate."

"Oh, tell me about it, Dan. Did those girl fliers finally get here?" Phillips shook his head in disgust. "No, after we hung around about three hours the word came that they'd been engine trouble and landed in some God-forsaken corn field. Probably be held up for a day or so. Anyhow Groves will be on the job tomorrow and I don't have to worry about it."

He gave her a sketchy report. Police station. A run out to a suburban community where a grocery store had been held up. A session with Patrick Maloney who appeared to be commissioner of public safety. The airport. Back to the office and away with Reeves, photographer, to get pictures for a feature about traffic conditions under the antiquated regulations the News was campaigning to change.

"And you've to write about all those things? I don't see how you could ever do it—" Phillips grinned. "This wasn't much of a day," he said. "Wait until something really happens! No, I didn't write much. Most of the stuff I telephoned."

There was something Cherry had forgotten. Now she spoke of it. "Did you see the morning paper? I mean what it said about us?" "Sure. Front page and everything. The News and Sentinel both carried your picture. 'Society Bud Weds Reporter.' That shows you where I come in, doesn't it?"

"Light left his eyes. 'We haven't had much chance to talk,' he went on. 'I've—well, I've been thinking about things today. First of all I want you to know I think it was pretty swell of you to stand by me when your father said all he did. That's real loyalty. Yes sir! With a girl like you, Cherry, I'm not afraid to tackle anything!'"

Her eyes answered him. Phillips continued. "I know we'll get ahead all right, but it's going to mean going slow for a while. You won't mind that, will you, darling? All I'm getting is 50 bucks a week now. Not bad as the pay is here on the News but of course I'm going to make a lot more. I've always thought I'd write short stories or maybe a play. Maybe I couldn't—maybe I wouldn't be good enough—but anyhow I'm going to settle down and give it a try. You know there's lots of money in short stories if you can sell to the right magazines."

"I'll work as I've never worked before. It's true I haven't saved much but, thank God, I've never gone in debt. We'll move from the Bismark and find a cozy little place. There must be some somewhere that aren't too expensive. We'll make a budget and I'll cut down on lunches—"

Now was the time Cherry should have told him about the charge account and the new dresses. She might have made a clean breast of the affair, explained how she had really been trying to be economical and would be more careful in the future.

She should have said, "Dan, dear, I've made a bad start, but I'll make it up by doing my share and learning to save in the future. I do want to help you! I do want to do my part!"

Instead she turned her head away and appeared to be interested in something across the room. When she looked back all she said was, "I'll start looking for an apartment tomorrow."

They had finished dinner and returned to the hotel. The big box from Stanley's was just as it had been in the clothes closet, but Cherry did not mention it.

TODAY IS THE WORLD WAR ANNIVERSARY

MARINES GAIN
On June 6, 1918, American marines engaged in the sector north-west of Chateau Thierry, stormed the German front and gained two and a half miles on a two-and-a-half mile front. The combined American and French troops also had a winning day, advancing two-thirds of a mile near Veully in Poteffe.

The Bolshevik government, sorely beset by German pressure, offered to surrender the Russian Black Sea fleet to Germany on condition that the ships be returned to Russia after the war. German subs accounted for the sinking of the British steamer Elisaveta, and the Konigen Regentes, a hospital ship, off the English coast.

Mexican Heroine
Capt. Violeta Peralta Gonzalez, chief of the Mexico City women's police corps, is considered a real heroine in her home town. Demure, petite, black-eyed, and young, she trailed and captured her brother's alleged slayer, Lucio Hernandez, a dangerous bandit. He now is being tried on two murder counts.

DAILY HEALTH SERVICE

Hints on How to Keep Well by World Famed Authority
TEETH SUFFER FROM DIET OF CAKES, PASTES REVEAL
Deduction Based on Survey Conducted in Hawaii
BY DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Conditions of diet and nutrition vary throughout the world in different nations. Hence careful studies of such diets in relation to the development of the teeth afford interesting information as to the factors responsible for dental decay.

In Hawaii, fruits, vegetables and fresh seafood are to be had in abundance at all seasons of the year. The population includes representatives of all the human races living in groups in close proximity and yet maintaining racial customs and food habits.

Advantage was taken of this opportunity for a comparative study of teeth by Drs. Martaa R. Jones, Nils F. Larsen and George P. Pritchard, who made some extremely interesting observations. They examined 1761 preschool children and found 82 per cent to have an excellent condition. Of all the children examined, between 50 and 75 per cent at various ages up to 6 years had this condition.

In these children the enamel was soft in texture and easily scratched. The teeth that were partially disintegrated were found to have an extraordinarily large amount of cement substances in the enamel. The cause of these changes in the teeth was not apparent, since the children were not subject to malnutrition; most of them had been fed at their homes and most of them had lived all their lives in a sun-flooded environment.

In further prosecution of the attempt to find out why the teeth of the children had thus disintegrated, the observers found that the diets of children 3 years of age or older which contained fruits and vegetables in amounts sufficient to produce an alkaline reaction in the ash were invariably associated with sound enamel or arrested decay, regardless of how the diet was otherwise constituted.

On the other hand, active decay was always associated with diets which contained acid elements in excess. The giving of various amounts of vitamins, calcium and phosphorus failed to retard the disintegration of the teeth. They were convinced that any type of diet or any factor or combination of factors which tended to decrease the amount of alkalinity in the tissue fluids and oral secretions proportionately increased the liability of the enamel to decay.

Investigators have learned that it is not possible to pin responsibility on any one factor in the diet for some of the extraordinary disturbances that may take place in the human body.

The studies made in Hawaii reveal also the necessity for maintaining in the body a suitable alkaline reaction. There is also involved the question of suitable use of the teeth in chewing food.

A scientist says that insects can be trained to do tricks. Hoover should appoint him chairman of a commission to prevent black heads for it will keep the dirt wiped off instead of ground into the face.

During the hot months, get little wads of cotton—they come in different colors—and use them in your guest room. Put a fresh one in your purse, to wipe your forehead, handkerchief into it. Lamb's wool puffs and even dew puffs in the summer time get dreadfully soiled when flapped over a perspiring face. A clean puff each day will do much toward preventing black heads for it will keep the dirt wiped off instead of ground into the face.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF
GADGETS SOLVE BEAUTY PROBLEMS
Good things come in small gadgets—at least that's the newest rule for toilet articles. The handiest gadget of them all is this new white pencil in appearance and which has space for refills of the white "leads." The point is rounded and you use it to outline the white margins of the nail, taking care not to insert it too deeply between the edge of the nail and the cuticle because it is apt to bruise without drying up the skin. Be sure to drop it in your week end bag.

There's a new beauty treatment you can give your face in two minutes that is just as effective as the twenty minute treatment—simply because a purse size bottle of liquid has been devised that has in it all the things that make a beauty necessary in a cleansing cream, astringent, nourishing cream and a foundation lotion. Think of it! I keep this little rose colored liquid in my purse and use it to freshen up my face all the time during my shopping. It takes off the dirt and old make-up. It leaves your skin feeling cool and smooth and moist so that rouge and powder cling to it. Besides the bottle all you have to have is a little piece of absorbent cotton. It's indispensable for motoring and traveling by boat or train. Drop this one in your purse for daily use.

The newest pore compact are made to look like cigarette cases and have your initials on them. (Don't expect that initial will help you to recover it when it is lost!) The handiest compacts are the pancake kind, with an unsuitable grainy consistency in these days when you ask for quantity plus quality. The mirror is large enough to see more than half of your nose at a time, too, which adds greatly to efficient use of powder. Still the compact with the sun tan shade exactly matching your skin, checking up the shade of tan each week-end as you accumulate more, to be sure powder and complexion match.

During the hot months, get little wads of cotton—they come in different colors—and use them in your guest room. Put a fresh one in your purse, to wipe your forehead, handkerchief into it. Lamb's wool puffs and even dew puffs in the summer time get dreadfully soiled when flapped over a perspiring face. A clean puff each day will do much toward preventing black heads for it will keep the dirt wiped off instead of ground into the face.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

SEE THE DOLLAR SIGN?—Some $ooft at dollars, so they say. I have seen some that seem that way. But I have seldom seen a man who saw the same but he would scan.

A dollar sign with interest And swiftly seize it like the rest.

A dollar sign's a thing to praise. It leads the world in lots of ways. You see it in society, In politics it seems to be, In business you will see a few, In Congress and the senate, too.

It's sort of liked by Wall Street men, And lands in Sing Sing now and then.

And yet it is a thing to bless When it is used in righteousness. That's why this Simple Song of mine Is sung to praise the dollar sign.

—Douglas Malloch.

STINGS:—A college is a place where you get a diploma for choosing silly courses that give you things called credits. It's because only that the good die young that we have to have the electric chair. Do you know the difference between life and love? Life is just one fool thing after another, while love is two fool things after each other.

And the next thing you know, some woman will want the Grand Canyon renamed Rudy Valley.

Best matter at love making doesn't always make a good future husband.

Fewer college girls marry, which may indicate that higher education improves the judgment.

A fond grandpa one day recently wanted to make a gift of a coin to his young grandson, aged about five years. Taking out a handful of coins of all denominations from his pocket, he told the youngster he might select any one he desired as his own. The boy happily fished around among the pieces of money and finally selected a quarter.

Grandfather (somewhat surprised)—Sunny, how much is this worth? (pointing to a nickel).

The Boy—Five cents.

Grandfather (indicating a quarter)—And this one?

The Boy—Twenty-five cents.

Grandfather (pointing to a half dollar)—How much is this one?

The Boy—Fifty cents.

Grandfather—Well, then, why didn't you select the fifty-cent piece instead of the quarter?

The Boy—Well, I can spend a quarter, but if I had a half a dollar, I'd have to put it in the bank.

A Statistician Is a Man Who Discovers Information Like This: Fifty Per Cent of Married People Are Women.

The Angry Suitor—You're hardly ever at home nowadays, always going out—with other men.

His Fiancee—Why, I've been in every night this week, with two exceptions.

The Angry Suitor—Who were they, I'd like to know?

Bright Boy—Daddy says you are a responsible man. Is that right?

Suitor (to boy's sister)—Well, sunny, I'd like to think so.

Bright Boy—All right then. Just stand here for a few minutes and be responsible for that broken window across the street. So long.

LET NO GUILTY MAN ESCAPE
WARNING—Unless the parties, who allow their police dogs to run at large, in the vicinity of the Fourth Street School building, are tied at once. They will be rounded up and shot.—JOSEPH GRIGG, Chief of Police.—Bangor, Pennsylvania, newspaper.

We read of a young Chicago woman who shot her husband the day after their marriage, probably having in mind the slogan: "eventually, why not now?"

Doctor—I'll have to amputate your left hand and remove your stomach.

Patient—Well, goodbye, paw, goodbye, maw.

NO COMPLIMENT
Doctor (to elderly woman): And how are you feeling today?
"Oh, doctor, much better! The improvement is really remarkable."
"I'm glad. It won't be long now before we'll be having you looking your old self again."
"Sir, what do you mean by that?"—Answers.

THE SOLUTION
"I know how to settle this unemployment problem," said the club wag. "If we put all the men of the world on one island, and all the women on another, we'd have everybody busy in no time."
"Well, what would they be doing?"
"Why, boat-building,"—Tit-Bits.

BLUE LANGUAGE
Passenger: Why did you have your car repainted blue, VI?
Driver: Well, you know how keen I am on color schemes. It matches the pedestrians' language.—The Humorist.

JUSTIFIED FRIGHT
"Why do you continue to go with Jack? He's a bad egg."
"I'm afraid to drop him."—Tit-Bits.

Rev. J. B. Chapman, Nazarene District Superintendent, Preaches Sermon.

"A live, vital orthodox church is the only hope of the community," declared Dr. J. B. Chapman, General Superintendent of the Eastern District of the Nazarene Church, at the re-dedication ceremonies held in the newly remodeled church yesterday afternoon.

Rev. J. B. Chapman

Dr. Chapman, an eloquent speaker, had just returned from a 30,000 mile tour of the Nazarene Missionary fields, visiting 100 missionaries of the church in Guatemala, Trinidad, Barbados, Peru, Argentina, Africa and the British Isles when called from his home in Wollaston, Mass., to officiate at the dedication of the local church.

The church was well-filled at three services yesterday, commemorating a step forward in the growth of the Nazarene denomination here, in the re-dedication of the fine, newly remodeled church on Main street. Work was begun a year ago by David Chambers, local contractor. Special music was provided by the church orchestra and vocal selections by members.

In his address yesterday afternoon, Dr. Chapman quoted Cardinal Richelieu of France: "If there is not a God, we are now in a position where he will have to have one."

Church Needed Emphasizing the great need of the church in the community, Dr. Chapman said, "Whenever they try to run civil government without God, it will break down. The church dominates and controls good government."

Dr. Chapman in his sermon of dedication complimented the members of the church on their new acquisition, the spirit of progressiveness expressed, and the will to carry on in the furtherance of Christianity, at a time when all activities in this connection are being decreased.

The speaker traced the activities and growth of the church from its beginning early in the present century with approximately 6,000 members to the present membership of 100,000. "We have had the largest and best year in our history during the past year," reported Dr. Chapman. "We have approximately 2,000 congregations or churches. In these churches we have 200,000 members in the Sunday school. We have missionaries in 12 different missionary fields and 40,000 members in the Young People's Societies."

Church Schools The growth of denominational schools has been in keeping with the growth of the church, he said. At present there are church schools and colleges in Nampa, Idaho; Wollaston, Mass.; Pasadena, Calif.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; Nashville, Tenn.; Olney, Ill.; and Hutchinson, Kansas. During the past year 10,000 members have been added to the church, 9,500 in the United States and 1,000 in foreign lands.

The first meeting was held in the John Wesley Pentecostal church (then called) November 11, 1897, in the Manchester Town hall. Rev. W. Howard Hoople of Brooklyn, N. Y., chairman of the Missionary Commission of the Association of Pentecostal Churches began a series of meetings here on that date.

Before Rev. Hoople left he called the little band of worshippers together and organized them into a Pentecostal Church. It was on the night of November 18, 1897, that the First Church of the Nazarenes of South Manchester was established.

The first officer of the church was Fred J. Buzzell, clerk, and the charter members whose names were first inscribed on the church rolls were: Mrs. J. Buzzell, John H. Forayth, Thomas Wilson, Mable Mercer, and later the names of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Phillips, Mrs. Buzzell and Mr. and Mrs. William Collins were added.

Meetings were first held in the homes of members, the Swedish Zion church on Spruce street until the assembly voted to buy a large tent on June 15, 1898. In this tent revival meetings were held by the Rev. H. N. Brown.

First Deacons The first deacons of the church were elected November 27, 1898, as follows: Thomas Wilson, Arthur Mercer, and Fred J. Buzzell. Rev. J. C. Johnson was the first acting pastor.

A Sunday school was formed December 13, 1897, and the first superintendent was John H. Forayth. In March, 1898, the name of the church was changed to the Pentecostal Church of the Nazarene and in 1915 was again changed to the Church of the Nazarene.

The first church was built in 1897 on land procured from Cheney Brothers and the church board voted last year to make the necessary addition and repairs to the structure. Under Rev. Harris B. Anthony, who came to the local church over a year ago, the church has added many new members and is in a fine financial condition despite the depression.

IMPROVEMENT CLUB SEEKS NEW MEMBERS Meeting To Be Held Tonight At Fire Headquarters—Robertson To Be Speaker.

A special effort is being made to secure new members for the Manchester Improvement Association to be presented at the meeting of the association to be held tonight in fire headquarters at Main and Hilliard streets. William Robertson is to give a talk on his travels around the world to the club and there are to be musical numbers given by the Bill Quartet, which takes its name from the fact that each member is named Bill. Arrangements are being made to furnish refreshments after the meeting.

23 FIRES IN MAY CHIEF FOY REPORTS

Only Two of Them Were Bell Calls and Cummings Home Was Most Serious.

Chief Albert Foy of the South Manchester fire department reports that during the month of May there were twenty-three alarms to which district apparatus responded, but of these alarms there were but two bell calls, the other 21 being still alarms. The most serious of these fires was at the home of R. W. Cummings of South Main street when there was trouble with the alarm, which resulted in bringing out all of the different companies and caused the congestion on South Main street that resulted in the arrests that were made at the fire just one week following.

ODD FELLOWS HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICE

Three Branches of Order Attend Church and Hear Sermon By Rev. R. A. Colpitts.

The South Methodist Episcopal church was crowded for the regular Sunday morning worship yesterday when all local branches of the Odd Fellows including King David Lodge, Shepherd Encampment and Sunset Rebekah Lodge were present for a special memorial service. The latter branch had its largest turnout since its organization. Two general officers from New Haven were in attendance. The Odd Fellows took no part in the service but furnished flowers in memory of their deceased members.

Rev. Robert A. Colpitts, church pastor, took for his subject, "Faith With God," from St. John 17 and 18. His point was that the only means God has of answering our prayers is through human instrumentality. During his very interesting and much appreciated address, Rev. Colpitts took occasion to say that in this difficult day when one hardly knows which way to turn it is such organizations as the Odd Fellows, the Church, the better class of institutions in general and loyal individuals who help show us the way out. He stressed the vital importance of devotion of loyalty.
