Men Who 'Make' Presidents

How Lincoln Beat 'Greatest Boss' Thurlow Weed Defeated By Ballyhoo

The greatest president maker of them all was Thurlow Weed of Albany, shown in upper right, who placed five men in the White House. But when Weed went to Chicago in 1860 backing William H. Seward, New York's governor, shown below him at right, he lost to supporters of Abraham Lincoln, who was nominated in the famous Wigwam, shown in old print above.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of a series of six daily stories on the important part political bosses have played in the choice of the nation's president from the early days of the republic down to the present.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer. (Copyright 1932, by NEA Service)

Washington, June 10.—Thurlow Weed of New York, whose name is now but a vague memory, made more presidents than any one man has made since.

The men he kept or tried to keep from presidential nominations, however, are today more famous than those who landed in the White House through his efforts.

It was Weed, first a Whig and then a Republican, who enunciated the principle that the party must nominate not its best man, but the man with the fewest enemies and able to get the most votes.

Weed was a journalist whose first important break into national politics came as a young man when he accidentally discovered a bribery plot involving members of the New York legislature which, if it had not been balked, would have resulted in the election of William H. Crawford instead of the second Adams.

He grew in influence among New York Whigs, eventually teaming with Senator and Governor Seward and with Horace Greeley. Working through the Albany Evening Journal and behind the scenes, averse to public office, he was the most powerful of the three. He dictated appointments and nominations which they accepted.

At the convention at Harrisburg in 1840 he plotted with Thaddeus Stevens of Pennsylvania to block Henry Clay, the one big national figure who joined the party, who was certain the majority choice of the Whigs.

He and Stevens simply convinced sufficient delegates that Clay could not possibly carry New York and Pennsylvania, without whose electoral votes the party obviously could not win a national election.

It also was necessary to lick General Winfield Scott, the third strong candidate. That was done when Stevens, possessing a letter in which Scott had sought to placate a northern anti-slavery politician, dropped it on the floor at the Virginia delegation's headquarters and left the room. Virginia switched from Scott to Harrison. Harrison was elected over Van Buren.

Weed's political judgment was vindicated again in 1844. He had no one in the bag that time and the convention nominated Clay, who was beaten by Polk, the obscure Democratic "dark horse."

About 1846 Weed decided to get behind General Taylor, who was making a hero of himself in the Mexican War. He sent word to Taylor that he would not open his mouth to politicians and so commit himself. Sure enough, Taylor was nominated over Clay as Harrison had been in 1840—and won.

Weed was in Europe in 1852 while his friends at the Whig convention were busy stopping both Daniel Webster and President Fillmore and nominating General Winfield Scott on the 53d ballot.

He joined the new Republican Party and at its first national convention in 1856 supported the nomination of John C. Fremont, but convinced that the party couldn't win on its first tryout and holding his friend Seward for 1860.

Then he began to lay the groundwork for Seward. He became his campaign manager and worked tirelessly, obtaining Virginia, New Jersey and the job. He went to Chicago with the assurance of victory. There was an enormous popular sentiment for Seward.

But a combination of events and circumstances turned the tide at the convention itself. First, and perhaps worst, Horace Greeley declared against Seward. Greeley took that opportunity to vent his spleen because Seward had never helped him obtain a public office.

Greeley's desertion, after 20 years in which he and the New York Tribune had been the mouthpiece of Seward and Seward principles, was ballyhooed by the opposition and dismayed many of Seward's friends. For Greeley took the position that Seward couldn't be elected.

Here again was a man, Seward, who had made many enemies. The anti-Catholic or Know-Nothing, especially hated him. Henry Lane and Andrew Curtis, respectively Republican candidates for governor in Pennsylvania, ran around talking delegates they couldn't win with Seward on the ticket. The delegates realized the importance of carrying all large northern states.

Weed, trying to move heaven and earth, promised Lane any amount of money for his campaign. Colonel McCormick of the Chicago Tribune led the Lincoln movement. His strategists said he was a good Seward man and worked on the Seward forces to the end that they might not refuse to take Lincoln if Seward failed.

Also, while the Seward man were reading, they packed the hall with Illinois shouters so that only Seward's delegates could get in from the street. There was an enormous Seward demonstration, however, surpassed in noise only by Lincoln's.

It seems agreed that Seward would have been nominated if the convention had balloted on the evening of Thursday, May 17, as scheduled. But the printers hadn't delivered the necessary tally sheets and the delegates and despite the protests of Weed and his men the convention adjourned at 6 p. m.

During the night, in hotel rooms, Lincoln was nominated and Seward defeated. The anti-Seward delegates, previously hopelessly divided, favored Seward and weakened because they couldn't get behind any one man, had been impressed that day by the well organized tremendous shouting for Lincoln. The Lincoln managers worked like mad on the sporting side.

In the small hours of Friday morning two friends of Lincoln sat with two friends of Senator Simon Cameron of Pennsylvania, who had his state's delegation. The latter finally wavered. Cameron promised a cabinet job.

The biggest break of the convention came when Cameron released his delegates and 48 of them went for Lincoln on the second ballot. The favorite sons pined on and Lincoln won on the third.

No single political boss or even a group is credited with Lincoln's nomination. The most potent factor was the new party's essential need of carrying New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Illinois, coupled with the belief that Seward couldn't.

Weed became one of Lincoln's close advisers, helped him pick a cabinet, went to Europe on a Civil War mission for him and frequently was called to Washington for counsel during the conflict.

One of his last political activities occurred when he and other party leaders decided on Grant as the Republican nominee of 1868. It was Weed who went privately to tell Grant—another general—that he was going to be the man.

NEXT: Mark Hanna and some other G. O. P. bosses.

ATTEMPTING TO STOP HARTFORD VETS TREK

Hartford, June 10.—(AP)—A three hour conference in the executive office of the State Capital today failed to dissuade the possible 100 World War veterans from beginning their trek to the National Capitol tomorrow morning.

In an effort to persuade the veterans that they should remain in Connecticut rather than join the thousands already in Washington Governor Cross conferred with Adjutant General W. F. Ladd, chairman Benedict M. Holden of the Veterans Home Commission and the secretary of the commission, Raymond J. Gates, Harry Bendall who is the leader of the Hartford delegation was asked to come to the Capital for a conference and the governor's car was sent for him. He brought with him two companions.

The veterans were told that if their visit to Washington was successful and $2,000,000 bond issue was made so as to pay the bonus in cash it would simply serve to drain the resources of the state of Connecticut into the Federal treasury. The men were told that the state already had done for the veterans and the plan for the future but no argument was sufficient to change their determination to make the trip.

ONLY $62,000 IS LEFT OF KREUGER MILLIONS

New York, June 10.—(AP)—A testimony that of the many millions of dollars tied up in the affairs of the bankrupt Kreuger and Toll Company, allied corporation of the International Match Corporation, only $62,100.94 in cash is known to exist in this country, was introduced today before Oscar W. Ehrhorn, referee in bankruptcy.

Alexis Aminoff, who served as "official observer" for Kreuger and Toll in the United States, said he had been able to learn of only the small cash balances and various blocks of securities.

He testified that the Swedish authorities handling the affairs of all the Kreuger interests informed him that in addition to the cash balances there was an deposit of $79,000 of Kreuger and Toll's per cent secured debentures and 115,245 American certificates of deposit. Kreuger and Toll participating debentures. These were said to be in the hands of Lee, Higginson and Company, Kreuger's fiscal agents in this country.

President Machado drove up as the prisoners were being searched and shook hands with them. "What do you want to kill me for?" he asked them. The men hung their heads and did not answer.

BRODER PETITIONS FOR REINSTATEMENT

Judge Reserves Decision After Hearing Arguments In Superior Court.

Hartford, June 10.—(AP)—Arguments on the demurrer of State Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn to the petition of Edward W. Broder of Hartford, for reinstatement as an attorney at law was heard today by Judge Patrick E. O'Sullivan in Superior Court.

Assistant State Attorney Donald Gaffney, who opened the arguments, set out as the view of the State that the petition was too simple as it alleges only that Mr. Broder was a disbarred and desires to be reinstated.

Mr. Broder, after his conviction of a crime in Superior Court in September, 1930 was indefinitely disbarred by the Supreme Court on November 4, 1930 and on December 6, 1930 the Superior Court entered judgment. Mr. Gaffney and later State Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn argued that this judgment by direction of the Supreme Court denies Mr. Broder the privilege of reinstatement in this court.

John H. Peck, appearing for Mr. Broder, read the statute Sections 5350, and 5351 under which the petition for reinstatement is made and he claimed that the petition is sufficient to have a prompt hearing on the merits of the case.

Campbell brought suit after Mayor James M. Curley directed monthly deductions of one day's pay from city and county employees' wages or salaries.

TODAY IS THE WORLD WAR ANNIVERSARY

On June 10, 1918, German storm troops struck a tremendous blow at the French front on the Marne, advancing more than two miles and taking 8,000 French prisoners.

The villages of Mery, Belloy and St. Maury were stormed by the German forces after a day of desperate fighting.

Pressure on the French was so great that emergency reserve regiments were ordered into the battle zone.

The Austrian battleship Szent Istvan was sunk by Italian gunboats off the Dalmatian coast.

TEACHERS PUT ON SHOW

Chicago, June 10.—(AP)—Geometry teachers doing toe dances, staid English instructors singing popular songs or other pedagogues exhibiting "Pop their pay" still others wisecracking.

That's a cross-section of the program of "School Scandals of 1932" which will be staged and enacted tonight by 100 members of the Chicago Teachers Federation to raise funds for needy teachers whose salaries are now five months in arrears despite occasional partial pay checks.

The downtown theater on Michigan Boulevard where the show is to have a one-night stand, has been donated to the players.

REAL WOODEN MONEY

Chicago, June 10.—(AP)—Wooden money is being used in Chicago. Certificates in denominations of 5, 25 and 100 cents, printed on strips of spruce by the Chamber of Commerce of Tenino, Wash., made their appearance yesterday at the Republican National convention headquarters.

They were brought to Chicago by Mayor James W. Davis of Bucooda, Wash. Many persons bought some of the wooden cash, and some merchants accepted the certificates as souvenirs in payment of small bills.

KING ECONOMIZING

Windsor, England, June 10.—(AP)—King George is economizing on his farm here. He has given up one farm and disposed of the live stock and implements.

The large cost of transporting cattle to various cattle shows was one of the causes for giving up the farm.

GORDON CONCERT SERIES TO BEGIN ON SUNDAY

Falls Village Foundation Affords Delightful Trip For Music Lovers.

Up a stream known as the Hollebeck brook on the eastern side of the Housatonic river, runs one of those alluring Connecticut state highways which avoids all villages and seems to be going nowhere.

You turn off this highway from Falls Village, climb up a new improved mountain road in the hills of northwest Connecticut and you reach Music Mountain. Here encircled by still higher mountains one has a feeling of being apart from the rest of the world and in close communion with the heavens.

The strains of Mozart and Beethoven resound in harmony with the delightful and inspiring surroundings.

In announcing the third summer season of its concerts on Music Mountain, Falls Village, Conn., "The Gordon Musical Foundation" wishes to take the liberty of reminding its friends that the first concert will take place on Sunday, June 12 at 4 p. m., Daylight Saving time, and every Sunday afternoon thereafter until Sept. 25.

The concerts are given by the famous "Gordon String Quartet" and assisting artists. The Quartet, consisting of Jacques Gordon, Ralph Silverman, Paul Robyn and Naum Benditky, have just completed a very successful tour throughout the country, culminating in a concert at a reception given by President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House.

Another vital function is the Music School maintained by the Foundation, which has been established for the benefit of young musicians, especially for those who are unable financially to study privately, but who are ambitious to make advancement in their musical career.

In the past two seasons, over one hundred of these young musicians from various parts of the country as far as Los Angeles and Canada have been receiving instruction at low cost. This year it is expected the number will be more than doubled.

Any information regarding subscriptions to the Sunday concerts and the Music School may be had by addressing "The Gordon Musical Foundation, Inc.," Music Mountain, Falls Village, Conn.

COMMISSIONS REDUCED

New York, June 10.—(AP)—Brokers who specialize in handling security transactions for the small investor have cut their commission charges to induce small buyers to enter the market more liberally.

The new commission is 12 1/2 cents a share on stock bought or sold for "odd lot" customers.

Under the new commission, a buyer of a small block of 100 par value stock selling at $20 a share pays the odd lot broker 12 1/2 cents a share plus a federal tax of 4 cents and a state tax of like amount. When he sells, he pays another 12 1/2 cent commission.

Under the former rate, rescinded June 6, the small buyer paid no tax but to take care of it the customer was charged a commission of 25 cents a share on his purchase plus 12 1/2 cents on his sale, or 37 1/2 cents for the round trip.

Consequently the small investor now saves 4 1/2 cents a share on his round trip excursions in the market.

saloon, remembering that, "I grew up in an Iowa village with a population of only 700 persons but there were seven saloons in the place. That was typical of old conditions."

At just about that time this writer was also a boy in an Iowa town and that town too had seven saloons in it. But it had 3,000 inhabitants. We take the liberty of doubting whether Mr. Mott's phenomenally drunken village was in the least more representative of the old times, even in Iowa, than our much less sodden community.

However, in spite of Mr. Mott's exaggerated notion of the extent of the saloon evil, he now confesses that in many parts of the country conditions are even worse—and with a sigh agrees that the people ought to have the right to put an end to the noble experiment if they so decide.

Bit by bit—and some of the bits very large bits—the structure of prohibition is falling to pieces. It will soon come down in a heap and with a rush.

muskrat of England and the muskrat of the United States must be two very different animals. Turning to the books he finds no authoritative reference to the presence of muskrats anywhere in Europe and a universal acceptance of the creature as an essentially North American animal.

Whereupon he is compelled to conclude that the "muskrats" that dig into banks instead of building their houses outdoors are nothing but the ordinary water rat of Britain, whose fur isn't worth a hoot and which people won't waste powder and shot on, or wear out traps for, unless paid for it.

And all this fuss because somebody over on the other side has seen fit to belittle our handsome muskrat by bestowing his name on a commonplace rodent of no class at all.

IN NEW YORK

FASHION WORSHIP
 New York, June 10.—Notes on nothing in particular and everything in general... Many of those seemingly devout churchgoers observed in the swankier Fifth Avenue pews on Sunday mornings turn out to be at least two other fellows from the cloak-and-suit belt.

It became the custom a number of years ago for fashion spies to join the congregation of so-called "society churches." Between hymns and sermons they would note what the Blue Book folks were wearing. Even as heads were bowed in prayer, one eye would rove to a nearby hat and frock.

Within a week copies are headed for Kansas City, San Francisco and stops south and north.

And Tony Sarg, most widely known of puppet makers, admits that he started making toys because the English town in which he dwells in New York had no toynaps. Whereas Bill Valle, who must live in the shadow of his crooning brother, Rudy, now labors on a New York newspaper... Since Rudy is out of town a great Bill dwells in lone luxury in Rudy's elaborate apartment... Even as certain tabids were worrying about the sad plight of Hannah Williams after her crack-up with Roger Kahn, the former stage entertainer was reported contracted to the Park Casino and was dwelling in the not-expensive Hotel Pierre.

She Speaks to Conquer
 Variety, theatrical magazine, reports a rising tide of women customers in speakies... Growing editorial, one wag comments: "They used to say a woman talks too much, now they say she speaks too loud." However, there is one ultra-ultra whisper-low, frequented largely by women of the smart set, where each Monday afternoon profits are turned over to some pet society charity.

And Jack O'Carroll tells of the mother, who wanted her son to become a radio star. So each morning she admonished him: "Go to school and study your WABC's!"

That portion of New York which goes to bed with the rising sun usually winds up at one of three eating places for coffee and sandwiches—Dave's Blue Room, Reuben's or Lindy's. They are Broadway's celebrity-haunted graven yards. Gossip columnists spend their last waking hours trying to find dirt at immaculately clean tables.

Anyhow, one would assume that there would be heated and bitter rivalry among the owners. Instead of which Lind and Dave, of Saturday nights, gather their families together and dine at Reuben's and if Lindy has an overflow crowd, he frequently recommends Dave's.

The saddest blow my bump of sentimentality has received in many a month was contained in a brief news dispatch under a San Francisco dateline, announcing the passing of Coffee Dan's. When Mason Street was the "uptown tenderloin" and Lew Purcell's tuned up the first hot Negro band these old ears had ever heard, it was the custom to write the night with ham and eggs at Coffee Dan's, there to be awakened by the din of wooden hammers on tables and silverware on water glasses.

And an anonymous contributor sends me an ancient clipping which begins: "Riverside Drive was brilliant with the lamps of returning bicyclists..."

Wonder what a nice tandem would set you back?
 GILBERT SWAN.

CANCELED OUT

The air commission of the World Disarmament Conference has promptly arrived at what is perhaps the most complete deadlock ever experienced in an arms parley. It has discovered that the only way of doing anything to end the danger of bombing cities and destroying civilian populations would be by scrapping all aircraft, civilian as well as military, since any kind of a plane could be used for bombing operations. Why it was necessary to appoint a commission to find that out isn't clear; the thing is perfectly obvious.

However, we have never been among those who accepted the notion that in the "next war" cities would be destroyed by aerial attack or their populations wiped out by flooding with poison gas from the skies. Because, for the very reason that any old plane is good enough to drop a bomb out of, no nation of any importance would be without the means of retaliation for such attacks; consequently it would be an exceptionally courageous or exceptionally reckless or exceptionally crazy commander-in-chief who would send out his fliers to bomb his enemy's capital, thereby inviting almost certain destruction of his own.

In other words it is a very serious question whether the threat of air attacks on non-popolated does not pretty well cancel itself out; and whether the law of self preservation does not constitute a better guarantee against this class of warfare than all the agreements that conceivably might be entered into, respecting aviation, at Geneva.

France is never going to bomb Rome in the face of the certainty that next day at latest Italian planes would be bombing Paris. And the rule will run everywhere. There could not be in Europe or America a parallel for the Japanese air raids in China for there is no planeless or almost planeless country on those continents.

FOG DISSOLVER

If that New Canaan chemist who claims to have a device for the dissipation of fog for a couple of hundred feet in front of an automobile ever perfects his invention and markets it at a price that the ordinary motorist can afford to pay a grateful nation will arise and call him blessed.

There is no meaner experience than navigating a car through a thick fog. It is dangerous and it frazzles the nerves. One is never quite sure whether, by turning on his headlights, he is going to make matters better or worse. And a night fog is the meanest thing of all.

The promise that we shall be able by and by to push or pull some gadget on the instrument board and straightaway administer a licking to the fog is a highly attractive one. If the New Canaan man is really on his way to the perfection of his device let us hope that his health shall continue to be of the best and that—until the device is in full working order—he will refrain from driving in fogs. The world can't afford to lose that young man. Not just yet.

"MUSKRATS"

One reads with considerable interest the news that muskrats are increasing so fast in Great Britain that they are causing more than a little anxiety through their tendency to undermine railway embankments, roads, etc., and that bounties as high as five shillings apiece are being offered for them. It is a bit puzzling to account for any such increase in a species of animal that, in this country, is too closely hunted for its fur to permit of its becoming much of a nuisance, whatever its habits.

Then one remembers that American muskrats don't undermine railroad banks or roads; and all at once he comes to the decision that the Questions in regard to Health and Diet will be Answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this Paper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed Envelope for Reply.

THE ONION FAMILY

Most patients coming to me for advice report that they cannot use onions, although they like them. Some say that onions cause so much gas, and others report having headaches within a few minutes after eating either onion, garlic, leek, or chives. Those people who consider themselves well will perhaps not be interested in such experiences, but it is not likely that many who are reading this column believe themselves to be in perfect health. Consequently, my readers should be interested in the overwhelming evidence against the onion family.

The onion, as used for food, is the bulb of a plant which is a member of the lily family, and has been cultivated and used for centuries. It was first grown in western Asia, and then by the ancient Egyptians and Hebrews. Doubtless, because the Egyptians liked the onion so well, it was held up as the object of worship long before the Christian era. History records that nine tons of pure gold were spent in buying onions for the workmen who built the pyramids.

DANUBE STATES EXPECT PARLEY TO BUILD AMITY

Vienna (AP)—The Danube states look forward to the Lausanne reparations conference as an opportunity for a Franco-German rapprochement, rather than a cash conference directly affecting government budgets.

All these countries, however, are decidedly interested in the possibility of a Franco-German understanding. They are unanimous in the opinion that there is slim hope for a general recovery in southeastern Europe until the great powers agree among themselves.

Jugo-Slavia, however, is in no mood to surrender her stake in reparations payments, which this year would amount to nearly $20,000,000. She protested vigorously against the Hoover memorandum and feels that her objections were rather brutally ignored.

These reports were seized upon by some observers as indicating a switch from French influence in the Little Entente, made up of Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Jugo-Slavia. The attitude of Czechoslovakia toward the Tardieu scheme for Danubian co-operation also was widely interpreted as a swing away from French leadership.

HABITUAL EATERS OF ONIONS LESS AFECTED

In Europe, the laboring classes eat onions as we eat apples, but of course are not injured as much by this as some of us might be by only a small amount of onion used to flavor a salad. The injurious effect of any particular article of food is gradually lessened by its long continued use over many years. However, those of my readers who now feel the bad effects of onion will be wise to discontinue its use, and not try to force themselves to get used to this odoriferous member of the lily family.

Garlic, leeks, and chives are also members of the lily family, with the same properties as the onion, and although they make very palatable seasonings, they produce the same irritating effect in the gastro-intestinal tract and cannot be recommended as good food.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Electricity in Body)
 Question: T. U. inquires: "Could you tell me the cause of excess electricity in a person? I notice sparks every once in a while when I touch something made of metal as the hot water tap or the electric light."
 Answer: What you have felt is probably static electricity which may be generated by your shoes as you walk across the carpet. Just try this experiment: shuffle across the room without your feet leaving the carpet, then touch the hydrant and you will find you will be able to get a spark from your fingertips. If this does not occur, it may be possible that your electric light fixtures are defective, and you may be getting a spark off a real 110 volt alternating current. Better have an electrician examine the wires. If there is a "short" in the light socket, you may get a severe shock if you touch the metal of the socket, and the water faucet at the same time. Many people have been killed from

GREAT GOLD HUNT BRINGS HEIRLOOMS TO BANK OF ITALY

Rome (AP)—A gold hunt unprecedented in many years is going on in Italy.

It seeks not a much hidden treasure as forgotten treasure.

In consequence old gold watches, bracelets, earrings, "battered" coins, chains and brooches have come to light from many cases.

All are being in a growing stream to the Bank of Italy.

This government bank is offering the high rate of $300 a pound for the precious metal. All the gold received will be added to Italy's reserve backing up her currency. She now has a 40 per cent coverage.

No bitterness for Hoover
 White says negroes are no longer succumbing to "blandishments and lies of professional politicians, white or black," and predicts that they will "come into their own in this year of depression." He says neither party appears to be going to present a candidate who stirs negro enthusiasm.

Hoover, according to negro leaders at the recent N. A. A. C. P. convention here who might or might not be able to swear the race from its traditional Republican path, has caused resentment by dealing with illy-white southern Republicans, by refusing to consider appointing negroes to office, by the Parker nomination, "Jim Crowing" of Gold Star mothers and the suturing of negroes from unemployment and depression.

The Roosevelt Angle
 Also, they say, negroes remember that Governor Franklin Roosevelt wrote the constitution of Haiti after directing the invasion of that black republic by marines, who are still there.

In the south, where the situation differs from that in the north in various ways, there is a considerable belief that such states as Indiana, Illinois and Ohio will eventually become Democratic if negroes undertake to exercise independent political power.

Political Follies of '32

POLITICIANS WILL SOON START SCRAMBLE FOR NEGRO "BALANCE OF POWER" VOTES
 By RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer

Washington—Sometime along toward the middle of the summer the politicians will start worrying about the negro vote.

They usually do in any contest that looks as if it might be close, and the friends and leaders of the negro race have been prophesying that there will be more than the usual reason for concern in 1932 because the negro is becoming increasingly independent and articulate in those states where he is permitted to use the ballot.

Any time they begin voting as a group the negroes will theoretically hold a balance of power between the majority parties in several states—13 states according to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which lists them as Delaware, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Massachusetts, New York, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia and New Jersey—with a total of 37 electoral votes.

THE REALOK Gesture

The Republican party has generally considered the negro vote as its own. Democratic Chairman John J. Raskob made some attempt to organize it for his party in 1928, but the results were inconclusive. Now the N. A. A. C. P. is trying to get it out of the Republican camp and use it, not for the Democrats, but as an independent force which can be wielded for its benefit of the race.

It is contended that the negro, since they are normally employed in greater proportion than whites and nearly all dependent on wages, have been suffering disproportionately during the depression. They are being urged to vote with especial reference to social or economic measures such as unemployment relief, old age insurance, enfranchisement and abolition of lynching.

The most convincing demonstration of any stirring of negro political consequences thus far observed came with the reelection of President Hoover's nomination of Judge John J. Parker to the supreme court. Walter White, secretary of the association, started a lot of people here in the demonstration of pressure for White with special reference to politics which he carefully analyzed northern senators from states with large colored populations during the preliminary lobbying against Parker. White apparently caused several senatorial votes to switch.

The N. A. A. C. P. cites the defeat of Ex-Senator Baird of New Jersey when he ran for governor, claiming evidence of an overwhelming negro vote against him because of his vote for Parker in the Senate.

Copper's Advice
 Meanwhile Congress continues to have a negro member and there are negroes in the Illinois and New York legislatures. There are congressional districts in three or four other northern states where the colored vote comes close to a majority of better.

The negro press, it is said, shows an "increasing disposition to support colored candidates when other candidates of the regular parties do not suit it."

Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, although a Republican, has urged negroes to vote against a certain political party.

At the present time Columbia is leading the Inter-County League with three straight wins. June 12 they will play a Williams team at Columbia.

AT THE STATE "Carnival Boat"

"But the Flesh Is Weak" Bill Boyd in a stirring tale of the tall timbers, "Carnival Boat", and Robert Montgomery and Nora Gregor in "But the Flesh Is Weak" make up an excellent double feature which will be shown at the State tonight and Saturday. "Carnival Boat" is the first picture laid in a logging camp since talking pictures came to the screen. It is a welcome change from the local one has been accustomed to see in talking pictures. Bill Boyd has never had a role more to his liking and he is seen in a picture that keeps one in a high state of excitement from start to finish. Romance and comedy are set against some of the most thrilling and beautiful mountain woods scenes the screen has ever shown. In the atmosphere of a logging camp and a river carnival show boat the love story of a young lumberman and a red-haired singer is told. Ginger Rogers plays the part of the showboat singer, while Herbert Ross and Fred Kohler have other important roles.

"But the Flesh Is Weak" is an adaptation of the famous stage hit, "The Truth Game", and in it, Robert Montgomery is seen as the clever but laughable Max, impoverished young aristocrat who resolves to marry a rich girl. He finds a prospect in a wealthy noblewoman, works all his engaging charms, wins the girl's love—then falls in love with her best friend who hasn't a penny. Plenty of fun in this one from beginning to end. Edward Everett Horton, Nora Gregor, C. Audrey Smith and Nils Asther have the leading supporting roles.

The first installment of a new serial picture, "The Last of the Mohicans", with Harry Carey and Edwin Booth will start on Saturday. John Barrymore in his latest and most interesting story, "State's Attorney", will be shown at the State Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

CLIFF EVANS ORCHESTRA AT SANDY BEACH

Among the great number of nationally known radio and recording orchestras that have been brought to Sandy Beach Ballroom, Crystal Lake, Cliff Evans and his orchestra of Boston, Mass., have proved to be one of the outstanding attractions and will be featured in a request return engagement at Sandy Beach tomorrow evening. Cliff Evans and his orchestra, topping "Mart" Gowans' former star with Mal Hallett's orchestra are conceded to be the finest dance band in New England and their return to Tolland County's playground tomorrow evening the 11th, will prove one of the big hits of the season.

Arrangements were completed today by the management with the Flotilla orchestra of Hartford to play at Sandy Beach ballroom every Sunday evening for the balance of the season starting Sunday the 12th. This WDRS broadcasting orchestra is immensely popular throughout the state and will present a change of program including the latest dance tunes and in addition will offer a rare program of entertainment features.

BYRD PLANS SECOND TRIP TO ANTARCTIC

To Leave Boston Early in the Fall and To Bear All the Expenses Himself.

Boston, June 10.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd plans a second Antarctic expedition—this one for the purpose of studying more closely the territory Marie Byrd Land and to elaborate on scientific data gained previously.

The expedition would leave Boston early in the fall and would remain in the Antarctic the greater part of two years.

The expedition, as planned, is smaller than the first, experience having assisted Byrd in planning a more compact outfit.

But One Ship Used to transport the equipment. The Bear, built in the 70's and used for years by the Coast Guard, has been obtained and is being fitted in Oakland, Calif. It is expected she will arrive in Boston July 1.

Lincoln Ellsworth, Polar explorer, will probably be in the same region about the same time and has received permission to use the base at Little America.

Lincoln Ellsworth, Polar explorer, will probably be in the same region about the same time and has received permission to use the base at Little America.

Nearly all the scientists that accompanied Admiral Byrd before will go with him again. Harold G. June will be senior pilot and Captain Ashley McKinley will take charge of aerial survey.

Byrd hopes to salvage the "Stars and Stripes" and "Floyd Bennett," planes left behind after the previous expedition. He plans to use them to carry freight to the various bases.

The voyage will be Byrd's own financially. He believes that present conditions have hampered scientific progress which, he also believes, should go on. He doesn't think, however, that money needed for other purposes should be expended now and for that reason he is endeavoring to finance the expedition himself.

If the Bear can be frozen in the ice the party will make its headquarters on the ship. If that is not feasible the stay will be spent on the ice.

LAWYERS STUDYING SEABURY'S REPORT

probable action. In sounding this warning, the governor followed the course of procedure laid down last year in a similar situation when charges were pending against another official.

Study of the eight volumes of evidence sent to the governor by Samuel Seabury, counsel to the Hofsstadter committee, will require two or three weeks, it is believed.

The governor said it would be necessary to check all the testimony with the allegations of the National convention, at which Roosevelt is a leading candidate for the presidential nomination of his party.

Governor Roosevelt maintained that what is described as an "analysis" of the case against the New York mayor, constitutes "charges," and added: "I see no reason for quibbling over terms."

In his letter accompanying the "analysis" Mr. Seabury set forth a list of fifteen allegations against Mayor Walker, on which the committee counsel, saying he acted as a private citizen rather than as a quasi-public officer, urged the mayor's removal from office.

Close upon the filing of the Seabury "analysis," William J. Schiefel, chairman of the New York City committee of One, Thousand, telegraphed the governor yesterday that his organization was filing formal charges against the governor.

It was indicated also that other organizations in New York City, including the Citizens Union, either would take similar action or would support the Committee of One Thousand.

MRS. HUCKNALL LEADS CLUB-MATE FOUR JP

Bridgeport, June 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Thomas Hucknall of Woodway, the defending titleholder, went to lunch 4 up over her club-mate, Mrs. James R. Arnell of Greenwich and at the end of the first 18 holes in the final round of the 18th annual Women's State championship golf tournament at the Brooklawn Country Club today.

The second half of the championship match got under way at 2 o'clock, with Mrs. Hucknall now a decided favorite to win her fourth straight title and equal the record of Miss Georgina Bishop, of Brooklawn, in 1927.

Mrs. Arnell, who played a splendid game with her wood shots during the early round of the tournament, was off form with her wood shots and was very nervous on the green today.

SCRIPPS-HOWARD PAPERS ARE OUT FOR AL SMITH

tion of Hoover as a certainty and observes that the nomination of Roosevelt is a possibility. "Between Roosevelt and the White House," it continues, "there now stands a man endowed in the very highest degree with those qualities which both Hoover and Roosevelt lack and which the country so directly needs. That man is Alfred E. Smith."

"Something down deep in the human being determines the type. As blue and as brown, some eyes are negative and some positive. In Roosevelt and Smith we have the extremes as Roosevelt generalizes, Smith is specific. As Roosevelt loves to delay, Smith loves action. Irresolution is ingrained in the one; boldness in the other, and the times plead desperately for boldness."

After contrasting Smith's Jefferson Day speech in Washington, May 17, with Roosevelt's speech in St. Paul, May 23—declaring Smith's speech left no doubt as to what he would do were he at the helm, and describing Roosevelt's speech as "columns of graceful generalities," the editorial continues:

"It is with regret that we say that in Franklin Roosevelt we have another Hoover. For him in the beginning our hopes were high. But the events that have occurred since Roosevelt became governor of New York have drawn the parallel between the man in Albany and the man in Washington. The parallel is as inescapable as is the contrast between the Roosevelt-Hoover type and Smith."

"In our solemn judgment, the election of either Herbert Hoover or Roosevelt in November next would be a blow from which this nation would not recover in a generation."

SARAZEN WINS BRITISH OPEN BY 5 STROKES

Britain, 292. W. H. Davies and Arthur Lacey, Great Britain, 293. Fred Robson, Great Britain, 294. Henry Cotton, Abe Mitchell, Archie Compston, Great Britain, 295.

It was the 11th American victory in 12 successive years of the blue ribbon event of golf, the only break being Arthur Havers' victory in 1923, when Hagen finished second.

It was Havers who was the threat to Sarazen as he shot a 68 in his third round to pull up within four strokes of the flying American.

The 1922 American open champion scored his 283, two strokes under Bobby Jones' winning total of 1927, early in the afternoon and then watched those who had a chance to catch him, fade away under the pressure of having to shoot sub-par golf.

Sarazen has been well up in the British Open field for several years, finishing second to Walter Hagen in 1928 at the neighboring Royal St. George's course for his best effort up to today.

Setters U. S. Record Sarazen's score bettered not only the British record but was three strokes better than the best winning total in the American open, Charles (Chick) Evans' 286 at Minneapolis in 1916.

MacDonald Smith, other member of the American "Big Three," had the heart-breaking experience of scoring a 288 for a total good enough to have won all but the current British championship and the 1927 event. Smith, a native of Carnoustie, Scotland, has been striving for years to win the British title and although always up in the running has always been just a little shy of championship play.

Other final golf totals follow: MacDonald Smith, United States 71-73-71-70—285. (X) T. A. Torrance, Great Britain 73-73-77—301. W. T. Twince, Great Britain 80-74-71-77—302.

HOOVER CABINET HOLDS A VERY LONG SESSION

Washington, June 10.—(AP)—President Hoover held an unusually long meeting today with members of his Cabinet, the last gathering of his official family before the start of the Republican National convention in Chicago next Tuesday.

A majority of the Cabinet members will leave the capital in the next few days for the convention. Unanimously however, they asserted, that despite the lengthy Cabinet meeting there had been no discussion of politics, and that the question of the Republican Party's stand on prohibition had not been mentioned.

Only a few of the Cabinet men will be left in Washington after Monday. Postmaster General Brown already has gone to Chicago. Secretaries Stimson, Hurley, Wilbur, Hyde and Doak plan to join him shortly.

Secretary Mills, one of the President's most constant advisors, was represented today as not having made up his mind whether he could go. At his office, however, it was said he hoped to make the trip.

Secretary Adams intends to remain here, along with Attorney General Mitchell, the lone Democrat in Mr. Hoover's Cabinet.

INVESTING PUBLIC BEING SWINDLED

Connecticut Official in Boston Speech Tells of the Profits in Oil Sales.

Boston, June 10.—(AP)—C. H. Adams, director of the state sale of securities department in Connecticut, today told a conference of New England states that the investing public was being swindled in the sale of oil royalties.

Adams said the profits to brokers in selling such securities have been exorbitant in some instances.

Big Profits "The New England states should consider this subject carefully," Adams said, "because there are cases in this section of the country where the brokers have taken a tremendous profit from such sales. I know of instances where they have bought the royalties for $500 and have sold them for $5,000. The public is being swindled and I think that something should be done for its protection."

George A. Rich, secretary of the Boston Stock Exchange, said that under Massachusetts law brokers involved in cases referred to by Adams could be dealt with but Adams said there was no such law in his state.

The conference was called to discuss "blue sky" laws of northwestern states with a view to obtaining greater uniformity in the legislation.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, June 10.—(AP)—The stock market reflected a moderate but distinct improvement in financial sentiment today.

A bullish government wheat crop report, checking the protracted decline in that commodity, indications of fairly early cessation of the outflow of gold and a somewhat more encouraging survey of general trade conditions appearing in the weakly mercantile reviews probably were the chief factors conducive to a better feeling.

Further skyrocketing of Auburn, at the expense of the bears, also had its effect. The advance was checked after publication of the unfiled steel tonnage figures, but the list maintained a good undertone. Advances of 1 to 2 points were common for a time. U. S. Steel and American Can lost early gains of a point, then came up slightly again.

American Telephone after an extreme gain of 3 1/4, then stiffened. American Tobacco "B", Liggett and Myers "B", Public Service of New Jersey, Union Pacific and Eastman, lost about half of 3-point gains. Auburn shot up more than 15 points, then reacted 5. Case was firm, in sympathy with wheat.

The upsurge in Auburn has been typical of this erratic issue. On Tuesday it sold slightly under 34, and today went momentarily above 50. Tangible developments to account for this upswing have been meagre, and apparently it reflected a scramble of an overcrowded bear interest to cover, when announcement of the price reductions failed to bring out the selling expected. There are but little more than 300,000 shares of the issue outstanding, so it is extremely sensitive. This compares with 49,500,000 shares of General Motors outstanding.

Indications the outflow of gold may be drawing to a close had a distinctly favorable effect upon sentiment. In some quarters, it was expected that the Bank of France might complete repatriation of its balances here, probably around $200,000,000, within little more than a week, that the Swiss franc had about completed its withdrawal, and that Belgian and Dutch central banks had already done so. While the movement has not threatened to make serious inroads into our monetary base, a heavy outflow of the metal usually has an adverse psychological effect.

A clue to the liquidation of the first three days of the week appeared in the consolidated weekly condition statement of the New York City banks for the week ended Wednesday night, showing a drop of $78,000,000 in loans against security collateral, including both the loans to brokers and dealers, and those to individuals. That was widely interpreted as indicating that the rally of late last week invited further liquidation of impaired loans.

SCHULTZ-JONES SUIT HEARD IN ROCKVILLE

The suit brought by Charles and Michael Schultz of Vernon against Mrs. Katherine Jones of 186 Center street was heard in Tolland County Superior Court at Rockville yesterday by Judge Carl Foster.

The prohibition leader said then he had no first hand knowledge of a speakeasy.

The Schultz brothers are suing for damage to their truck, which it is claimed was struck by the automobile driven by Mrs. Jones.

Attorney William S. Hyde represented the Schultz brothers, and Martin Gormley of Naugatuck represented Mrs. Jones. Judge Foster reserved his decision.

SARAZEN WINS
Sandwich, Eng., June 10.—(AP)—Gene Sarazen, long hitting American golfer, today won the British Open golf championship with a record score of 283 to carry on an American golfing sweep, in the event unbroken since 1923. MacDonald Smith was second with 285 and Arthur Havers third with 289, the latter finishing with a 75 when he needed a 69 to win.

Sandwich, England, June 10.—(AP)—Gene Sarazen, who led the British Open golf field by four strokes at the end of the third round scored a 74 on his final 18-hole round today for a 72-hole total of 70-69-70-74—283.

With the Prince of Wales a spectator for the last five holes, Sarazen scored even par for the formidable Prince's course to finish two strokes under the record total of 285 for the British Open set at St. Andrew's in 1927 by Bobby Jones who scored rounds of 68-72-73-72.

Jones's 68 in the first round of the 1927 event still stands as the record at St. Andrew's.

Sarazen gave Prince's such a licking as he never had suffered before, his four rounds being thirteen strokes under "perfect figures."

Arthur Havers, British open title in 1925, was four strokes behind Sarazen starting the final round and needed a 70 to tie or a 69 to win. Havers was the last Briton to win the title.

Gene finished out with a birdie four on the last hole, just missing a seven-yard putt for an eagle three and a 73 which would have made Havers repeat his 68 of the morning to win.

Sandwich, England, June 10.—(AP)—Gene Sarazen blazed a trail of sub-par golf across formidable Prince's course today to lead the field at the end of the third round of the British Open golf championship with a record total of 70-69-70—209, four strokes ahead of the nearest competitor.

Closest to the flying American was Arthur Havers, last Briton to win the open title, in 1923, with 213 and four strokes back of him were Arthur Lacey and Charles Whitcombe, British professionals, tied for third place.

MacDonald Smith, apparently making another vain quest for the title he has sought so many times, was tied for fifth place with the British professional, W. H. Davies, at 218.

Archie Compston, giant British pro, and Tommy Armour, defending champion from Detroit, were next with 219 and Percy Allis, another British pro, had 220.

With Sarazen playing easily and confidently, already started on his final round with a 4-4-3 before, half of his pursuers had finished their third, it appeared no one but Havers had a chance to catch him.

THIRTEEN UNDER PAR
Sandwich, June 10.—(AP)—Gene Sarazen, stocky American pro, took an apparent strange hold on the British Open golf championship by shooting another par-cracking 70 in the third round this morning. Sarazen's aggregate for the first 54 holes of the 72 hole grind was 209—13 strokes under par.

Only a complete collapse in Sarazen's game in the fourth round later today could beat back the New Yorker's bid, playing the greatest golf of his career, Gene's 64-hole aggregate of 209 was made up of successive rounds of 70-69-70 for perhaps the greatest showing any player ever has made in the first three rounds of this famous classic.

New Record Likely
Sarazen in the fourth round would be good enough to enable Sarazen to break the record low total of 285 hung up by Bobby Jones in winning the British Open at St. Andrew's in 1927.

Sarazen clipped three strokes off par on the first nine this morning, turning in 33. He found some trouble coming home but negotiated the final nine in 37, one under regulation figures.

Sarazen carried with him a gallery of 2,000 persons and rolled up his third brilliant round in a row in a rare summer morning to dismay the rest of the field.

At best, not more than a dozen had even the slightest hope of catching the American ace unless he should happen to get lost in one of Prince's big bunkers during the fourth round.

with John De Forest, the British amateur champion, for a picture of the "Two British Golf Kings."

No Great Fortune
Sarazen had a great good fortune on his third round no spectacular play, just a round of good golf with occasional slips such as a bad mashie-niblick shot at the fourth which cost him a five.

Starting with a par four and then a birdie, Gene hit the hole from ten yards at the third for two but the ball didn't drop. Then came his bad shot at the fourth. At this hole he overran the green about 80 yards. He stopped up to the ball and apparently thought the shot was too easy for he missed the green and then took two putts.

Gene sank a five-yarder for a birdie three at the seventh. At the eighth he hit the flag with a No. 2 iron, then sank a two-yarder for an eagle. He got his par four at the ninth to turn in 33.

Two of the other British threats to Sarazen, Charles Whitcombe and H. Davies, also fell off slightly in the third round to drop further behind the American. Whitcombe took a 73 for 217 and Davies needed one more stroke for 218.

Tommy Armour, defending champion from Detroit, needed 74 strokes for his third round and a 54 hole total of 219, ten strokes back of Sarazen.

Havers Shoots 67
Arthur Havers, who won the title in 1925, the last Briton to score, set a new course record of 68, six strokes under par to finish third round only four strokes behind Sarazen with a 64-hole total of 213.

Havers putted for a record of 67 on the last green, where he was on in two, but he missed the long one and holed out for a birdie four and his 67, two strokes under the record set yesterday by Eric McMurrie, Scot amateur and Don Curtis, young British professional and equaled by Sarazen yesterday.

KISSMAN PITCHES TEAM TO VICTORY

Allows Lucky Strikes Only Three Hits and Old Golds Win 3-2.

Led by Kissman's fine pitching the Old Golds took the Lucky Strikes into camp last night at the Charter Oak field by a score of 3-2. Kissman held the usually heavy hitting Lucky Strikes to but three hits and struck out twelve. He was given air tight support by his mates. Sullivan also played a good game for the winners.

Brozowski the Lucky Strike pitcher was also very effective. He allowed but three hits, but he was not quite up to Kissman's standard. Leone heavy hitting Lucky Strike slayer for the losers. One of his two hits which was a double scored two men in the second inning.

Unless some further notice is given last night's game ended the American Legion League which has been in progress for the past month under the able guidance of Frank Cervini.

COEN IS LEADING LOTT IN CONTEST

Memphis, Tenn., June 10.—(AP)—The unofficial crown of tournament favorite tottered perilously on the head of George Lott of Chicago today as he resumed a set-in-final quarter-finals match with Wilbur (Junior) Coen of Kansas City in the national clay courts tennis championships.

Play was halted by darkness yesterday after Coen humbled Lott, seeded No. 1 and second ranking player on the national lists, 3-1 and 6-1, and then lost the third set 3-6.

MacFayden Is Failure In Debut With Yanks

By Associated Press.
Danny MacFayden, the pride of Somerville, Mass., and the man for whom the Yanks made an important outlay of players and money last week, begins to shape up as the prize puzzle of the 1932 campaign.

He won 16 games and lost only 12 last year for the sixth place Boston Red Sox. Then he turned right around this year and lost ten of his first eleven efforts for the Sox. The popular theory was that it didn't count, that MacFayden's defeats were chargeable to the offensive ineptness and fielding weaknesses of his teammates, but the transaction had an entirely different complexion today and there was even some doubt the Yanks had driven such a shrewd bargain after all.

MacFayden made his maiden appearance in a New York uniform yesterday against the Detroit Tigers and lasted only six innings as the Tigers scored a 5 to 4 victory. They pounded MacFayden for 11 hits and scored all their runs before he was relieved.

The loss reduced the Yankees' lead over Washington to five games, the Senators grasped the opportunity to beat Chicago 6 to 5, largely on errors by "Red" Kross and Bill Sullivan. Cleveland defeated Philadelphia 9 to 8 in a slugging match and knocked the Athletics from third place in the American League standing down to fifth.

George Blasholder of the St. Louis Browns chalked up his seventh victory of the year as the Browns took their third straight from Boston 3 to 1.

Hack Wilson was the day's fair-haired one in the National League as he clubbed Brooklyn to a 6 to 2 triumph over his former compatriot, the Chicago Cubs. His homer with the bases full and a single drove in all the Dodger runs.

The loss did not deprive Chicago of the leadership however, and Boston was dripping its second in a row to the onrushing St. Louis Cards 2 to 1. Bobby Brown, the Braves sensational rookie suffered his first defeat.

Mel Ott's two home runs provided the Giants with another victory over Cincinnati 3 to 2. Although outbit 12 to 7, Pittsburgh bunched its blows to squeeze out a 4 to 3 win over Philadelphia.

"Out Or Safe" Play At Home Plate Starts Turmoil That Still Boils; Game Played Under Protest.

In one of the weirdest games ever played on the Fouracre lot, the Echoes of the West Side League topped the Pilots last night by one run after two hours and a half of constant wrangling over a decision of Umpire Billy Dowd at home plate. The Echoes won 6-4.

Waddell, rightfielder of the Pilots, was injured when attempting to hunt in the fifth inning, a missed ball which struck him in the eye.

In the fourth inning "Red" Hadden of the Echoes tried to score on an infield hit and was called out and later safe at the plate. An argument arose over the play which was not forced, players claiming that Catcher Larry Maloney did not touch the runner.

After 15 minutes of arguing over the decision the teams were called off the field and they started to go home. The crowd razzed the players and they came back and started the argument all over again and delayed play another ten minutes or so.

The game was finally played under protest. In the seventh inning the echoes scored three runs to win the acetic contest. There will be a meeting Monday night after the game at which time the trouble will be discussed. Those requested to attend are Capt. Bogdon of the Echoes, Capt. Maloney of the Pilots, John Falkowski, Earl Bissell, Swick Gustafson, Al Ford, Nick Angelo, Fritz Wilkinson, Bert McConkey and Billy Dowd.

MORE PROOF of RIVERSIDE QUALITY

"I Have Never Seen Anything Like It"

Montgomery Ward & Co. 1315 W. Nickerson St. Chicago, Ill. Seattle, Wash.

Three years ago in July I purchased a Riverside 33x6.00 for my Studebaker Commander. This tire was in service on the rear wheel for two and one-half years before changed to the front. It gave 49,128 miles of continuous service without ever having been off the rim, and my car has had hard wear, traveling over many miles of rough country roads. Such service as rendered by that tire is certainly worthy of publicity. I have never seen anything like it in automobile tires.

Sincerely yours, W.C. Bailey

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CHERRY DIXON, 19 and pretty, falls in love with DAN PHILLIPS, newspaper reporter whom her wealthy, aristocratic parents have forbidden her to see. When Cherry learns Dan's telephone messages have been kept from her she steals out of the house to meet him. Her father discovers this and threatens to send her to California. Cherry defies him and he orders her to leave.

She goes to Dan, tells him what has happened and asks him to marry her. The ceremony is performed that night by Justice of Peace. Next day Cherry makes some purchases on a charge account but returns when her former maid comes to see her and promises to promise to send her clothes.

Cherry looks for an apartment but is discouraged to find them expensive. Dan telephones that he will be delayed. He tells Cherry that TONY TOSCALLI, gangland chief, is expected and that he is waiting for the officers who intend to arrest Toscalli. Cherry meets GABRIEL HENDRICKS, reporter on a rival newspaper, and unconsciously tells him about Toscalli.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XV
It was almost midnight when Dan came. "Hello," he said as he paused on the threshold. "Thought you'd be asleep."

The only light in the room came from the lamp on the table, casting white light in a circle of a dozen feet and leaving the rest in darkness. Cherry sat in the big chair, half obscured by shadows. She sprang up.

"Oh, I'm so glad you've come! Is everything all right? I thought you'd never get here. I've been so worried, Dan!"

She slipped her arms about him, plunging for an instant and then raised her lips for the kiss she expected. It did not come.

Cherry's startled eyes rose to meet Dan's. She saw that he looked tired and rather pale.

"Is anything wrong?" she demanded.

He drew away. "Nothing," he said indifferently, "except that the whole thing was a flop. You see, I'm around that damned station until every westbound train until tomorrow morning came in. Not a sign of Toscalli. Not unless he knows how to make himself invisible. Lord! That's the sixth story that's topped on me this week. Bates swore the tip was authentic. Just talked to him over the phone and he still insists it was. Seems to blame me because the big bozo didn't get here!"

Phillips flung himself into a chair. The girl looked down at him. "Aren't you going to kiss me?" she asked quietly. "Aren't you glad to see me?"

"Of course I am." He arose, kissed her cheeks absently and then sat down again.

"What a day!" Dan sighed. "Boy, I wish tomorrow was my day off! It was the first time he let me have a beer, remiss in the attention of a sweetheart. Cherry was hurt. Dan scarcely seemed to realize she was in the room. After worrying all evening about him this was the way he came back!"

She sank to the floor in front of him, settled herself comfortably and rested one arm on his knees. Cherry was determined to win him from this mood. Suddenly, she looked up. "Maybe" she should, she said, "but I'm glad that terrible man didn't get here."

"Why?"

"Because I was so afraid for you! Think what it would mean to me if anything should happen to you, Dan. I couldn't stand it. I just couldn't. That's why I was so frightened."

He put a hand on her shoulder, patted it reassuringly and told her that she had been a foolish child.

That was better. Much better. He was her Dan again and he was smiling. Suddenly Cherry remembered her own conversation with Dan. Not exactly. She said hesitantly:

"There's something I think I should tell you. It's something I'm afraid I shouldn't have done." Dan was amused. "Confession?"

"Well, something like that." "What could you have done that is so terrible?"

"I don't believe you'll like it." "But what is it?"

Cherry found it harder to explain about her conversation with Garth Hendricks than she had thought it would be. She told Dan about going to dinner at the Maple Leaf tea room and seeing Hendricks there.

"Then I really don't know how it happened, but he told me he was on the Sentinel and we began talking about newspaper work and about its being exciting and—well, I said that if you weren't a newspaper man you'd had been with me instead of with Tony Toscalli."

"Cherry! You didn't!"

"Yes. And then he asked some questions and I explained why I wasn't really with Tony, but you were waiting for him."

"Did you tell him where?"

"I-I guess so. Oh, Dan, I didn't know you would tell me to tell. I didn't know it was wrong!"

after you deliberately gave the story to the Sentinel!"

The angry words continued. Phillips was tired and exasperated. He forgot that to Cherry the world of news was a completely foreign place. He forgot he was speaking to the girl whom a few days before he had promised to love and cherish forever. The utter stupidity of what she had done was unthinkable to him. It was more than stupidity; it was disloyalty.

"But I didn't know it was wrong!" she protested tearfully. "I wouldn't have done it for the world if I'd known!"

"Well, from now on please remember that anything you hear about the office is under your hat. It's not to be mentioned to anyone! Do you understand?"

Cherry had been weeping for several minutes. For the first time Dan seemed to become aware of it. His tone softened.

"All right then," he said. "We won't say any more about this. Maybe it's not as bad as I thought. Maybe it was something else that stopped Toscalli."

She did not answer. Cherry had turned away and her face was hidden in her hands. Her shoulders moved slightly and though there was no sound he knew she was sobbing.

Dan watched uncertainly a moment, then moved toward her. "Don't cry, Cherry," he said. "It's going to be all right."

Since she did not speak he came nearer and slipped an arm about the girl. "Don't," he said again. "I can't stand it to see you unhappy, Cherry. Look at me. Please, dear!"

From the muffled depths of Dan's tweed shoulder Cherry said half-audibly. "You—called me an idiot!"

"You know I didn't mean it. I was just—well, I just meant you didn't think—"

"And you said I wanted to have you fired?"

"Oh, now please, darling! Let's forget about it."

"But I can't forget! I didn't dream you'd ever speak to me that way. You wouldn't if you loved me. And if you don't love me I don't want to live! Oh, I'm so miserable—I just don't care what happens!"

The tears renewed more violently. Dan stroked the dark silken head. He cupped one hand under the girl's chin, raised the tear-stained face.

"Sweetheart," he whispered. "You know I love you. I was a brute to say those things and hurt your feelings. Forgive me, w. t. t. you!"

Tenderly he kissed her forehead, her cheeks, the lower eyelids.

"Sweetheart," he whispered. "You know I love you. I was a brute to say those things and hurt your feelings. Forgive me, w. t. t. you!"

"You mean—I'm not true? You mean you don't hate me?"

"Hate you? Why, darling, you know I'm crazy about you. I'd give those tears now and tell me I'm forgiven. It was my fault, Cherry, every bit of it, but I'll never be such an imbecile again. I swear I won't! Now then—let's better."

Five minutes the storm was over. In five minutes Cherry was bright-eyed and smiling and recounting her experiences of the morning. Dan, pulling off his tie before the mirror, turned and caught the girl's two hands.

"Everything's o. k. now, isn't it?" he asked.

Cherry nodded. But everything was not o. k. Cherry and Dan had had their first quarrel and, though each might deny it, the memory hid left its scar. The perfection of their happiness together had been marred.

Cherry took up her search for an apartment again next morning. She acted on knowledge gained the day before and ignored the attractive advertisements of buildings in Eastwood, exploring neighborhoods closer to the downtown section. There were plenty of vacant apartments in the east 40's and 50's, but none of them approached Cherry's ideal of the big studio with sunny windows and a fireplace. Most of them were over the shops with noisy street cars clanging past. Where there were windows they looked out on dark courts or neighboring buildings that shut off the sunlight. Frayed furniture, ugly walls and floors—and for such quarters the astoundingly high rental of $50 and $60 a month! Cherry tried not to be discouraged. Last night's experience had made her humble. She must show Dan that she could shoulder her share of the load, that she could play a wife's part.

At five o'clock she conceded defeat for the day. She had agreed to meet Dan at the entrance of the public library at 5:30 and there was just about time to keep the appointment.

She arrived exactly on time, but Dan was not there. At last she caught sight of his gray hat in the crowd crossing the street. He was walking with his head slightly forward, hunched in his pockets.

Cherry went to meet him and called brightly, "Hello!"

The young man looked up. She knew instantly that something was wrong. Something had happened!

"Sorry to be late," Dan began. "The car called me in."

"Oh, Dan—" Her eyes darkened with the unspoken question. Phillips nodded.

"Yes," he said harshly. "You've guessed it!"

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON
WEY DETECTIVE STORY IS LOSING ITS POPULARITY

Exceptionally Poor Writing Seems Responsible for Decline of Mystery

Authors have reported recently that the detective story is rapidly losing its popularity; and the most casual glance at current detective fiction will tell you the reason why. The mystery story, as a general rule, is it atrociously written, utterly humorless and devoid of the slightest kinship with reality.

Consider, for instance, "Have His Carcase," by Dorothy L. Sayers. This tells how a Russian, a golo was found lying on an English beach with his throat slashed from ear to ear. Lord Peter Wimsey, who seems to go about England detecting for the fun of it, solves the murder—and introduces you to such a hopelessly complicated, involved and generally witless homicidal plot that the chances are ten to one you'll quit the book long before you reach the end. And, I might add, if you do you're smart. In fact, if you're really smart you won't even start it.

Then there's "The Listening Woman," by Macalick Sparrow. An old gentleman gets into his bed-room, at midnight, and the story comes to us through a dull-minded servant woman, who gets the low-down by keeping her ears open. At no time is it really clear just what has happened, and at no time does the gentle reader get a hook.

Far better is "Clerical Error," by Anthony Rollis; a tale of a mild English rector who becomes a homicidal maniac, poisons his wife, a prominent parishioner and an anti-clerical lawyer, and finally gets tripped up because of the suspicion of the local doctor. It's not a mystery, but it is interesting and fairly plausible.

"Have His Carcase" is published by Brewer, Warren and Putnam. The other two come from Little, Brown and Co. Each is priced at $2.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

Hot days make us think of refreshing drinks for summer afternoons and evenings. The think of ice against glass has a cooling effect that we all welcome as the thermometer mounts.

More than this, any drink made with fruit has a definite place in the diet. We all realize the importance of eating fruit for its mineral content and vitamins, and we should not forget those necessary six glasses of water a day. In a fruit punch, we find these essentials combined in a pleasing fashion.

Scientists tell us that water has the property of absorbing more heat than any other substances. It will absorb the heat from your body, and in passing in the form of perspiration the evaporation cools you; hence there is a good reason for sipping a cooling beverage not only in the immediate cooling effect but in the ultimate effect.

It is also interesting to know that ginger ale and innumerable other bottled beverages made with "charged" or "carbonated" water are healthful drinks, according to the Chemical Research of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. These beverages are of some food value due to the sugar used in their making, while the fruit juices, acids and extracts and other flavors from aromatic herbs and roots as well as the carbon dioxide gas present act as a tonic and mild stimulant.

Most fruit drinks must be made to "taste" but there are certain precautions and suggestions worth keeping in mind. When you are making drinks for summer refreshment, take care not to make them too sweet. A sugar syrup is better than plain sugar for sweetening. The flavor of the finished drink is more bland and smooth. However, it should be remembered that the syrup acts also as a stimulant as well as a sweetener.

Hints on How to Keep Well by World Famed Authority

BAD AIR, LACK OF SUNSHINE ARE BLAMED FOR DIARRHEA

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of two articles by Dr. Flaherty on summer diarrheas in babies. The second will be printed tomorrow.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

At a time when our infant mortality rates were such as to startle the world, many children suffered severely with diarrheas in the summer. It was soon found that these diarrheas were due in many instances to infections from milk and food supplies. Today the type due to such infections has been brought rather well under control, but there are still many cases from other causes.

In a survey of the American F. C. Rodda points out that diarrheal diseases prevail where bad air, lack of sunshine, and filth interfere with proper hygiene of the human body.

Excessive heat is an important factor, because high temperatures act as depressants. A lowering of body fluid is associated with high temperatures. Moreover, foods in general tend to ferment and spoil quickly.

One investigator found that heat decreased the amount of hydrochloric acid in the secretions of the stomach. This, in turn, lowers the ability of the stomach to aid in digestion, permits the development of germs which would otherwise be destroyed, and favors the development of toxic substances due to decomposition.

It has been found that repeated attacks of diarrheas interfere with ability to digest foods. Therefore, the first attack may not be severe, but continuous attacks become more and more difficult to handle, so that the most serious mortality occurs late in the summer and in the early fall.

During the first few days of life the child may have six to 12 actions of the bowel each day without harm. Toward the end of the first week of life there may be frequent actions, which are probably due to the fact the child has not had sufficient food. At such a time the increased feeding will bring about control of the condition.

Under average conditions the digestive system of an infant will tolerate a considerable amount of abuse. However, in hot weather an excess of fat or of sugar in the diet and an excessive amount of roughage may cause diarrheas.

TOMORROW: What to do for diarrheas in babies.

SAVED BY HOURS
Boston.—Just a few hours saved George Brumlick, a German from Pilsen, from being sent back to his native country. The young man, less than a day away from his 21st birthday, was admitted to the country by reason of his father's citizenship. Had he been a day late in landing, he would have been barred by the quota law. Brumlick had intended going to New York, but when things were explained to him, he departed here.

DYES HIS TIES

El Paso, Tex.—Known as "the man with a new tie every day," Tom Ford, bartender in Juarez, who has achieved nation-wide renown for his taste in neckwear, has at last revealed the secret of his daily change. It's not that Tom buys hundreds of ties every year. Oh, no! Tom confesses that he dyes 'em. The 240-pound bartender has received so much mail asking for some of his old ties that he needs a secretary.

DECLARE WAR ON INSECT ENEMIES

I was in Congress one day when a representative from the West introduced a bill about grasshoppers. They are destroying crops everywhere and the government's aid is needed to exterminate them.

There are other insects that are enemies of mankind in a different way, that spread disease among people—namely, the innocent fly and mosquito.

The government has done wonders in the tropics in keeping down mosquitoes, carriers of deadly tropical fevers. Our northern ones are supposed to be less deadly, I do not know. All insects are strange things. Some of the obscure and most fatal diseases whose cause has never been discovered may some day be traced to mosquitoes.

Since last summer I look doubtfully at the picture of safety we have drawn. A member of our family was ill to the point of death for months with a tropical fever that he undoubtedly had contracted by the bite or sting of an insect. And he had not been anywhere near the tropics. He had been, however, to a camp.

Flies Are Perilous
We know that flies—or suppose so—do not have this power, but we also know that a fly crawling over filth or coming out of a sick room, can carry infection on its feet. If we were to examine each fly with a microscope we should find almost everything there, I am sure. It would not be a pretty picture.

The baby gets such and we cannot imagine how it happened, we are so careful of his bottles and nipples and milk. Each thing bottled and covered and kept in a clean cold refrigerator.

No one ever thinks of the one window that lost its screen, or the other one with a big hole in it. No one bothers with a swatter when the kitchen door, opened and closed every few minutes, lets in a new batch of intruders. A few flies more or less, a mosquito or two, what do they matter? Just little bugs that don't bother anybody, except that the mosquitoes make the children scratch. In some places mosquitoes are as common as flies.

Fight for Safety
The natives say you get "immune" to them as you get, and laugh if you are fussy. After last summer I have had time to think that over.

There is only one way to be safe and that is to war on any or all insects that are around. This is the time of year to do it. A fly killed now means something like a million less by August. Mosquitoes the same.

Don't leave poisoned paper about where children can get it, but take any and every means of overcoming these pests in your home and neighborhood. Little ponds or pools that breed mosquitoes should be covered with a thin layer of oil. It kills the eggs, for the eggs hatch on water.

Wrap every bit of garbage in paper if your lifting company does not object (and they shouldn't) before it goes into the can. Then put a newspaper over the top before the lid goes on. That makes it fit tighter. Don't allow any garbage or crumbs or sugar or fruit to lie in the kitchen. They invariably draw flies.

If you have no screens, netting tacked on the windows does very little. Baby carriages should be covered with mosquito netting when outdoors.

Pacifism is misplaced when it comes to life-destroying insects of any kind. Let us all join in a big campaign.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

"SEEING RED" FOR BEAUTY'S SAKE—If you are going to have the right kind of face, you must make the most of your features. You can't apply lipstick and rouge and powder just any careless way and expect your face to grow lovelier. Beauty has to follow a definite pattern just as surely as anything else.

When you use rouge, remember that you aren't painting your face red just to display a brilliant color. You are trying to enhance the beauty of your face and to improve the contour of your face by calling attention to its good points and blotting out the poor ones.

First of all, make sure that your powder suits the shade of your skin. A warm tone is more likely to hold the vibrant flesh tints that you are seeking than a cold tone. Put the powder on your face. Don't be afraid that you are using too much. But when your face and neck are covered, dust off the surplus with a small brush designed for dusting off purposes. Don't let your skin look as though it had been powdered. That gives you an artificial basis which spoils the whole effect.

Don't let your rouge cover too large an area of your face. If it follows the cheekbones to a point near the temple, and doesn't extend beyond the eye, it is more likely to add a sparkle to your eye than if you let it come down your face. However, every face has its own contour which must be studied. Take your rouge pot and try various methods of brightening your skin. If you are doubtful as to how to begin, wash your face thoroughly. Then splash cold water on it until you see color beginning to show. When you are quite sure that you have defined the area where nature meant your face to single with an active blood current, cover that spot with rouge. Make sure that you blend the color in such a way that it will shade into your flesh tone, rather than stand out, as though it had been painted with a charcoal brush. You don't want to wear a mask. You want to let your own face get credit for your beauty.

Sometimes a touch of rouge on the chin, especially if you have a dimple, will do wonders for you. When it comes to lipstick, be careful that you don't apply it in such a way that your mouth will look like a hurt, red line. Avoid a wounded appearance. All you

Buildings On Lanz Farm Destroyed—Rockville Firemen Aid In Saving Two Homes.

Fire destroyed two barns owned by Charles Lanz, whose place is on the state highway at Vernon, yesterday afternoon. The firemen succeeded in saving the Lanz home and that of Mr. Eadie, across the street. The latter's caught fire three different times. Water was pumped from a well in the rear of the Lanz property and a bucket brigade was formed to the Eadie home. It was several hours before the fire was under control.

ED MURPHY TO PLAY AT RAU'S SATURDAY

One of the best dance orchestras at Rau's so far this season will play Saturday, June 11, when Ed Murphy brings his Hotel Bancroft Orchestra to Crystal Lake. Murphy has a splendid reputation all through the New England States and another capacity crowd is expected at Rau's this week-end. There are twelve men in the band and they play a type of music similar to that great favorite Edward J. McEnelly whose place they often take at the Butterfly Ballroom in Springfield when that band is on tour. They played for the Military Ball in Manchester last winter.

Next week-end Harry Brinkman and his Society Orchestra will be at Rau's and the week after that Bill Dehey and his Merry Makers will be the attraction. On Wednesday, June 15, the Wheel Club of Rockville will run a benefit dance with Eddie Abrahamson and his Commanders furnishing the music. The Wheel Club are running this dance for a worthy cause and the management at Rau's sincerely hopes that the faithful patronage of this ballroom will help out the Club on this occasion.

FOR FOREIGN LANDS About $35,000,000 will be spent by American tourists who will "do" the continent this year on vacation, the American Automobile Association reports.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Cairo, Egypt—A story recalling old-time trials by ordeal comes out of Beit Rims, Palestine, according to the Egyptian press. Owners of a plantation there were enraged by thefts of valuable fruit. They raided two neighboring villages and rounded up about 50 men. These they forced to lick a red-hot iron, on the theory that the innocent would not suffer, but the guilty would be burned. The torturers were arrested.

London—Pity the poor chimney sweep. His job is vanishing. A generation ago there was a flourishing colony of sweeps in the area called one square mile, London City. The few left foresee their doom because of gas and electricity. Pottsville, Pa.—George Steele made a hole in the wall of the House of Detention, but was caught before he could escape. A gang of convicts of the county prison was brought over to plug the hole. Among them was Chester Chernowsky. Instead of fixing the hole he walked through it and vanished.

Balmian, Australia—H. E. Sheehan is wealthy but he sued the Municipal Council for 12 cents overcharge on his tax bill and won. "I allow people to get away with 12 cents, they may try for 12 dollars next time," he said.

Cebu, P. I.—Bull fights have been revived here, but the bulls fight each other, not men. They are carabao or water buffalo, weighing a ton or so each, and they go at it fiercely. It is an ancient sport of the Moro Rajahs.

Fraserburg, Cape Province—A woman lost a diamond and found it five months later by giving a birthday party. She chose a chicken from her sock for the birthday dinner, and when it was killed, there was a diamond in its gizzard.

BOOD RETIRED Hartford, June 10.—(AP)—Frank Root, for nearly fifty-four years executive clerk at the State Capitol, has been retired on pension. The State Board of Finance and Control at its meeting on Thursday granted Mr. Root's application for a pension, and in accordance with an act of the last General Assembly, he will receive full pay for the remainder of his life.

U. S. TEAM WINS Eastbourne, Eng., June 10.—(AP)—Sidney B. Wood, Jr., and Gregory Mastry, representing the United States in an informal tennis series with a British team, forged to the front today by winning the doubles from an Collins and J. C. Gregory, 6-3, 6-3, 5-7, 10-8.

Mrs. Hucknall is seeking her fourth consecutive title. She tied for low medal score in the qualifying round with an 87 and shot an 84, to settle the tie and to set a new course record for women, in the first round of match play.

Mrs. Arenell, a comparative newcomer to competitive golf in this state bettered Mrs. Hucknall's course record yesterday with an 83, at the time eliminating Miss Elizabeth Skinner four and three in the semi-finals.

Mrs. Hucknall easily beat Mrs. J. B. Kirby of Highland 5 and 4 in the other semi-final.

Mrs. Arenell led from the second hole after halving the first in her match with Mrs. Skinner. At the turn she was three up.

Mrs. Kirby took the lead on the third hole of her match with Mrs. Hucknall, but lost it on the sixth when Mrs. Hucknall sank a par 4 to go one up. On the seventh she sank a 25 foot putt to go two up, then won the 9th, halved the 11th and won the 12th and 13th to clinch the match.

This mixture may also be molded into this croquette and broiled under the same, turning to allow cooking on both sides.

thing to do for aches which are slowly but surely getting "thick". Not swollen, but just plain stiff. Surely there must be some proper exercises or treatments which would remedy this.

Answer: If the thickening of your ankles is caused by fatty deposits, you could reduce them somewhat by following a correct diet and taking exercise by raising and lowering your weight alternately on the heels and toes. Massage would also be beneficial. However, if the enlargement is of the bone, you are probably suffering from some constitutional disease which would require a careful diagnosis.

(Cracking of the Jaw)
Question: Ernest Q. asks: "What causes a cracking of the jaw every time I chew food? I might mention that I am troubled with ringing ears."

Answer: Sometimes what appears to be cracking of the jaw is caused by the clogging with mucus of the eustachian tubes leading from the pharynx to the middle ear. The tubes are stretched when the jaw is moved and produce a cracking. The presence of the ear noises would also tend to indicate that this condition might be the cause.

Question: Mildred F. writes: "In watercress a good vegetable to use and are the stems eatable as well as the leaves?"

Answer: Watercress is a rather spicy, leafy salad vegetable and may be used in combination with other vegetables rather than as an entire salad as it is commonly employed. Watercress may also be used as a cooked vegetable if added to milder flavored vegetables such as spinach, beet tops, etc. The stems are as wholesome as the leaves.

STUDENT IS KILLED

Greenwich, June 10.—(AP)—Malcolm McCollom, 16, of Greenwich, a Choate school student, was injured fatally at 1:20 a. m. today in an automobile accident in Cos Cob.

The youth, whose parents Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. McCollom, are in Europe, died in hospital a half an hour after an auto driven by his companion, Arthur T. Sullivan, 21, crashed into a guard rail on the Boston Post road. Part of the rail pierced the windshield and struck McCollom on the face.

Sullivan drove to the left side of the road to avoid a section of the highway under construction. Officials said the driver was guarded by a red lantern. Sullivan was held pending a coroner's inquiry.

HERRUP'S NOW SETTLED IN THEIR NEW LOCATION

Hartford Furniture Store Located At Trumbull and Allyn Streets Following Fire.

Herrup's well known Hartford furniture store, is now completely settled in their new location at the corner of Trumbull and Allyn streets, following a disastrous fire which destroyed the original store and the intervening period awaiting the completion of alterations at their new location.

The merchandising policy of the store has always been very original and in many cases far ahead of competitors. They were prominently quoted by one of the country's leading magazines about a year ago in a story devoted to their type of furniture merchandising and its success.

The new store is very attractively laid out and has an exceptionally amount of window frontage on both Trumbull and Allyn streets. On the second floor they have 23 different rooms arranged with furniture displays to show what can be done for certain sums of money and how well a room may be laid out.

At the present time the store is conducting another sale of tremendous magnitude that has already created widespread buying. It has always been a policy of Herrup's to mark their merchandise at as low prices as possible, consistent with the quality offered to effect a quick turnover of stock. This means more merchandise can be bought during a given period and thereby help keep manufacturers busy.

WAPPING

There is to be a rehearsal at the church on Saturday afternoon at half past one o'clock (D. S. T.) for the Children's Day Festival, "Every Child" This will be the last rehearsal and it is hoped every one who are to take part will be present.

WEINDEL CASE SETTLED

New York, June 10.—(AP)—The Times says the five principal legatees under the $30,000,000 will of the late Miss Ella V. Von E. Wendell have settled with five of the eight outstanding claimants.

The amount of the settlements was not revealed but they were understood not to be large. The five claimants are Vaughn Barney, Leah Barney, Mrs. Walter Swatte and Mrs. W. A. Irwin of Seattle and Mrs. Effie Bush of Alameda, Cal.

ROOSEVELT MAY SPURN AID FROM TAMMANY

New York, June 10.—(AP)—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt's pre-convention campaign manager has issued what newspapers here interpret as a warning to Tammany Hall that Roosevelt can win the presidency without Tammany support.

So far Tammany has not declared for Roosevelt. Its chief city officer, Mayor James J. Walker, is under fire and the decision whether to remove him or clear his rests with the governor.

James A. Farley, Democratic state chairman who is managing the Roosevelt campaign, predicted last night Roosevelt would be nominated on the first ballot at Chicago and would win not less than 345 of the 581 electoral votes at the election. This would give him a safe majority without the 47 votes of New York.

He declared, however, that Roosevelt stands "by far the best chance" of carrying New York State, a feat no other Democrat has achieved since Cleveland.

"Governor Roosevelt" he said "is the first Democratic candidate for governor to be elected without the need on any majority in the City of New York whatever. He is the only candidate who ever carried the up-state territory by any majority at all, and he not only carried it but with the surprising majority of 175,000 votes, excluding any votes in New York City."

Tammany's strong hold is in New York City.

Farley's estimates of Roosevelt's delegate strength did not agree with those of supporters of Alfred E. Smith.

MRS. OWENS DEFEATED

Jacksonville, Fla., June 10.—(AP)—Democratic nominations for two of Florida's contested congressional seats have fallen to prohibition referendum candidates and a third to a repealer while a referendum advocate and a dry will fight it out for the fourth in a runoff.

Virtually complete returns from Tuesday's Democratic primary indicated victory for Mark Wilson, West Palm Beach attorney who wants the 18th amendment repealed, in the fourth district congressional race. The incumbent, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen conceded his nomination. She ran as a referendum candidate.

In the presidential preference, Governor Roosevelt of New York received an overwhelming endorsement for Florida's fourteen convention votes.

URGES ARMS HOLIDAY

London, June 10.—(AP)—An arms holiday of ten, twelve or fifteen years will be proposed by Prime Minister-Mac Donald at the Geneva disarmament conference next week, the Daily Mail says.

This paper, which has come to be regarded as an accurate medium for expression of Mr. MacDonald's views, said the prime minister considers a long arms holiday the alternative to reduction of armaments, prospects for which do not appear bright.

Mr. MacDonald and Sir John Simon, the foreign secretary, are leaving for Paris tomorrow for preliminary sessions of the League of Nations conference with Premier Herriot of France. It was expected that he will become the champion of an arms holiday.

"ALL-BRAN LIVES UP TO REPUTATION"

Her Constipation Overcome by This Delicious Cereal

If you are troubled with constipation, read Miss Bundy's enthusiastic letter:

"I would like to congratulate the one who discovered ALL-BRAN. It really does live up to its reputation when it is said to 'relieve constipation'."

"I used to feel poor all the time—just down and out—and after reading an advertisement in a magazine about ALL-BRAN I got a box. It has evermore helped me, and it is not hard at all to eat."

Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN brings two things needed to correct common constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Within the box, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears the intestines of wastes.

How much safer than taking pills and drugs—so often harmful. ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming. Two tablespoons daily will overcome most types of constipation.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

The TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN PICTURES BY JOE KING

The Tinymites were tickled pink. Said Happy Dumcy, "Gee, to think that we are going to have a ride right in a big parade."

"Well sit upon this wagon, high and wave at folks as we pass by. Tonight we will be dreaming of the hit that we have made."

"Just then they heard a huge blow and found themselves in a very tight spot. The parade was starting from the grounds."

"Don't worry," said a man, near-by. "Just sit real quiet, lads, and I will turn and wave my hand when it is your turn to inspect."

"Oh, your imagination's strong," said Windy. "I am sure you're wrong. We'll only stretch a couple blocks."

SENSE AND NONSENSE

When Things Go Wrong.
When things go wrong as they sometimes will,
When the road you're treading seems all up a hill,
When the funds are low and the debts are high,
And you want to smile, but you heave a sigh,
When care is pressing you down a bit,
Rest—if you must—but you dare not quit.

A Chinaman opened a laundry on a street between a drug store on one side and a restaurant on the other side. The druggist put up a sign: WE NEVER CLOSE. Then the restaurant put up a sign which read: OPEN AT ALL HOURS. The Chinaman, not to be outdone by his neighbors, put up a sign which read: NE NO SLEEPY TOO.

A youth whose sweetie used to stand in the door and wave at him, was asked why she didn't wave any more. This was the reply: "It didn't prove to be a permanent wave."

History Professor—What were the dying words of Lord Chesterfield?
Class in Unison—They satisfy.

A family doctor is one who can lance a boil without calling in a di-g-nostician and a dietitian.

Jane—Buddy told me I was the slight wonder of the world.
Mary—What did you say?
Jane—I told him he had better not let me catch him with any of the other seven.

Ever hear the one about the man who married a Scotch wife because he knew she'd never give him a piece of her mind?

You can hardly blame the social ton if he longs to relax once and awhile and associate with a few roughnecks.

If a man has lost an eye, a hand or a leg, he gets plenty of sympathy, but if he loses his hair it is considered a great joke. So ha ha, and also ho ho.

A tourist, traveling through western Kansas, saw a man sitting by the ruins of a house that had been blown away, and stopped to ask:
Tourist—Was this your house, my friend?
Native—Yep.
Tourist—Any of your family blown away with the house?
Native—Yep; wife and four kids.
Tourist—Great Scott, man, why aren't you hunting for them?
Native—Well, stranger, I've been in this country quite a spell. The wind's due to change this afternoon. So, I figure I might as well wait here till it brings 'em back.

After years of research, scientists have discovered that the kind of hens that lay the longest are dead hens.

Windy item from The Commanche, Oklahoma, Clarion: "The high wind damaged two school houses and injured three teachers, Miss Elkins, Mr. Wylie and Miss Benford. Miss Elkins had a gable end blown off and was moved six inches on her foundation."

Grandma—It says here that young women are abandoning all restrictions. Now, mind, don't let me catch you goin' out without yours, Ethel!

RED HOT MAMMA
Things were rather strained between the two sweethearts.
"But, George, darling," she said, "I do love you still. You cannot imagine how warm my love for you is."
"Oh, but I do, all right," he returned. "I've always noticed how my money burns when I'm near you."—Answers.

THE RIGHT CHANGE
"How much is a marriage license?" asked the young man.
"Two dollars," replied the clerk.
"I'm, I've only got $1.50 with me."
"Then you're lucky."—Tit-Bits.

TELLING THE BOSS
Manager: Henry, you wear a very old-fashioned coat in the office.
Clerk: Yes, it is a bit out of date. I bought it the last time you gave me a raise.—Answers.

OH! THAT'S DIFFERENT
JONES (hot and tired, to neighbor's son): Hello! Father wants to borrow something as usual, I suppose?
BOY: Yes, please, Mr. Jones. He says could you 'bidge him with the loan of a corkscrew?
JONES: A corkscrew? Certainly! You run along, Bobby—I'll bring it round myself!—The Humorist.

ONE LITTLE WORD
"It must have made George feel good when Peggy told him he was one in a million."
"Quite the reverse. What she really said was that he was only one in a million."—Pathfinder.
