

VETS' BONUS BILL TO BE CONSIDERED

Step Toward Victory For 20,000 Ex-Service Men Now In Capital—Still Must Go To Senate.

Washington, June 13.—(AP)—The House today voted to call up the $2,400,000,000 cash bonus payment legislation for formal consideration.

This action represented a step toward victory for the 20,000 war veterans who have poured into Washington to demand immediate payment of the bonus certificates.

While the vote was being taken, and long before, the House galleries were packed with former service men who watched tensely all proceedings. Outside long lines of veterans stood, hoping to gain admittance.

Hoover To Veto It

If the House approves the bonus payment on the final vote, the legislation still must run the gamut of the Senate and the White House. What action the Senate will take is problematical. But President Hoover has promised a veto.

Action today came on a motion to bring the resolution by Representative Patman (D., Texas) up for consideration. The vote was obtained through a petition signed by 145 House members.

STATE DELEGATION DISCUSSES ALCORN

Sentiment Favors Him For Governor As Connecticut Group Arrives In Chicago.

By THOMAS FERGUSON
Chicago, Ill., June 13.—Special—With the nomination of Herbert Hoover as Republican presidential candidate assured and dismissed from the minds of the delegates to the 18th amendment and the possibility of its repeal is the main topic here. Very little else is being discussed as delegates from Connecticut and those of neighboring states gathered in the Congress Hotel. It seems that something definite must be done about the dry law in this convention if the favorite subject of conversation among the delegates is any criterion.

Bingham Works Hard

Working hard and with a determination to gain every advantage in his repeal fight is United States Senator Hiram Bingham. His physical stamina is being given a severe trial here in Chicago as he goes about lining up opinion and securing promises of support among the delegations. He is determined to make a minority report on the floor of the convention if he is being out of the race on his demand for a repeal plank.

Alcorn For Governor

The Connecticut delegation reached Chicago ten minutes ahead of time yesterday. On the train coming out the state politicians talked largely about the governorship. Sentiment is growing rapidly for the naming of Mr. Alcorn and members of the Connecticut delegation feel he would be a sure winner for Governor of the state. Mr. Alcorn, Levery of Fairfield is being mentioned as his running mate.

Hartford County Politicians Off for Chicago

Rainey Says Gross Incompetence Has Been Shown In Making Estimates On Bal- ancing the Budget.

Washington, June 13.—(AP)—A statement by administration leaders that the new revenue and economy bills would cost $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 in balancing the budget drew sharp criticism today from House Democratic leaders.

Representative Rainey of Illinois, House Democratic leader, told newspapermen the Treasury's "gross incompetence has been shown by the estimate that $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 more is needed to balance the budget."

He added it was his opinion this new estimated deficit could be met only by additional taxes. But Representative Crisp of Georgia, acting chairman of the House ways and means committee when it handled the new tax law, said in an interview he saw "no need for more taxes."

Rainey held the "difficulties can best be met by taking out of the law some of the nuisance and excise taxes before they become effective and replacing them with a sensible general sales tax."

Must Revise Taxes.

PROHIBITION BIG ISSUE AT G. O. P. CONVENTION

Hurley Denies Rumor He Seeks Curtis' Post

Washington, June 13.—(AP)—The Republican National convention Secretary Hurley of the War Department told newspapermen today he is not a candidate for the Republican vice-presidential nomination.

Commenting on reports from Chicago mentioning him as a possible nominee for that post, Hurley said: "I am not and will not be a candidate for the vice-presidency."

The secretary conferred during the morning with President Hoover, and together they received late reports on the developing affairs of the Republican National convention by long distance telephone.

Later in the day, he said he had not yet decided whether he would attend the convention, adding he might possibly remain in the capital.

"If I do go," he asserted, "I will make it perfectly plain to the delegates at Chicago that they can't shoot at my old friend Charles Curtis with me."

Hurley said the wet and dry problem and not the vice-presidency appeared the chief issue at the convention.

Everything Else Forgotten By Party Leaders As They Try To Reach Compromise— Delegates Pour Into Chicago For Opening of Parley Tomorrow; Cur- tis Will Probably Be the Choice For the Vice Presi- dency.

Chicago, June 13.—(AP)—A rushing June hall storm of wet and dry proposals pelted the Republicans today as the accumulated prohibition troubles of a decade monopolized the whole attention of the assembling National convention.

So many and various were the cross-currents of opinion that party leaders all but gave up hope that anything like a compromise acceptable to all would be ready when the first convention session opens tomorrow in Chicago Stadium.

The impetus for submission of a straight repealer was carried forward as the New Jersey delegation approached with a proposal just about as wet, and trains from everywhere poured into the city the first real convention crowds of 1932. But the drys were busy buttonholing old friends from the prohibition ranks, and while they lost hope for an out and "no change" pronouncement, they seemed confident that plain repeal likewise would fail.

Seeking a Formula

Between the two millstones, a coatless and perspiring group of party captains labored in the Congress hotel, with many a telephone call to Washington, to find that long elusive formula which would give the greatest satisfaction to the greatest number.

They stuck to the outlines of the tentative plank brought from the capital, recognizing a difference of opinion, proposing another vote by the people, and carefully refraining from recommending either retention, repeal or revision. During the morning the counsel of war was joined by three more Cabinet members, Secretaries Stimson, Hyde and Dool.

Hour by hour the probability increased that the convention itself would have to fight it out at Wednesday's platform session.

In the decision on prohibition were to be made on noise and flourish alone, the vets probably would have it. Yesterday they made a monster demonstration over Lake Michigan dumped "old man prohibition" into the deep from a high flying airplane and tonight they will continue with a parade through downtown Chicago.

Most of the delegates predict how it all would come out as the last of the delegations trickled into town for tomorrow's opening convention session in the mammoth, flag-dressed stadium.

Hopes For Best

James R. Garfield, of Ohio, the platform committee chairman, would only say he hoped for the best.

It will be Wednesday before any sort of plank comes out of the committee. Tomorrow's opening session will be short, devoted to test formalities and to the keynote of Senator L. J. Dickinson, of Iowa.

Wednesday is platform day and Thursday is to see the nominations completed, if all goes smoothly, and final adjournment.

Most of the great seemed today to have been taken out of the anti-Curtis movement which has mustered so strong an undercurrent 48 hours earlier. Word went around President Hoover so much desired Mr. Curtis's renomination that he was prepared to make an issue of it if necessary.

BINGHAM TO LEAD WET PLANK FIGHT

Connecticut Senator Spends Day Preparing For Battle; Doings of State's Envoys.

By W. J. G. Myers.
Chicago, June 13.—(AP)—The militancy of United States Senator Hiram Bingham, coming as he does from one of the two states which never ratified the 18th Amendment, may give Connecticut in the Republican National convention the distinction of leading the fight against existing prohibition conditions.

The senator issued a statement demanding a platform declaration for repeal or falling in this behalf, and resolutions committee of which he is a member, submission of the question to the people, with modification of the Volstead Act as a minimum.

"The Connecticut delegation reached here in the late afternoon and its members were hardly settled in their rooms at the Congress Hotel before Bingham was at work rallying a group of delegates and others sharing his views in his first effort to consolidate his position. Last night he was one of the chief figures in a gathering of foes of prohibition at the Sherman House. He outlined his plan of campaign which was to be through a minority report which would give him opportunity to argue his cause. In this way his home state would be able to hear a broadcast to hear him plead for repeal.

National Defense.

With all his work directed towards the main issue the senator also declared his support of a plank on national defense, for more liberal support of aviation, and for governmental economy. That the platform might have a declaration on

New York, June 13.—(AP)—W. C. Redfield, secretary of commerce during the Wilson administration, died at his Brooklyn home today. He was 73 years old.

Death was unexpected. Mrs. Elsie Redfield, whom the former statesman married in 1908, found her husband dead when she went to his room to awaken him this morning. The Redfields had two children, Humphrey Redfield and Mrs. Charles K. Drury.

Mr. Redfield was known as a "business man's legislator" because he advocated the application to government of same principles which he championed in business. When he entered Congress in 1911 the tar-

DOLE TOO POPULAR, SAYS MAYOR MOORE

Ashburnham, Mass., June 13.—(AP)—Mayor J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia today said "there is too great a tendency in these times to seek the soft and easy thing, the path to easy money; to squirm, dodge, run or hide from work." "The Dole, straight or disguised, is entirely too popular."

He spoke at commencement exercises at Cushing Academy.

"There is prevailing too generally the idea that ease, comfort and riches are to be obtained through scheming, through pulling this wire or that, ingratiating one's self with the influential, by speculation or by getting it from the state," the mayor said.

"Today as ever, the primrose path of dalliance winds in pleasant but deceptive curves to degeneracy and final adjournment."

POLICE FIND BOMB NEAR CAMP OF VETS

Officials Refuse To Comment On Case At Capital; Dyna- mite Also Discovered.

Washington, June 13.—(AP)—Although officials refused comment, the Washington Post today said it had been found in an abandoned building near quarters occupied by two thousand of the bonus seeking veterans.

The building is on Pennsylvania avenue at 4th street, a few blocks west of the Capitol grounds. The bomb was found in a search conducted by Metropolitan police and a detail of veterans' volunteers to out any agitators found quartered close to the ex-soldiers.

W. A. Edwards, one of the marchers from Baton Rouge, La., was said to have found the bomb, but both he, veterans leaders and officials refused to confirm the story.

Not described

The missile was not described by the Post's informant beyond the statement that it was neither an army grenade or a time bomb.

Saturday morning two and a half sticks of dynamite with fuses and caps were found by searchers who went through the Anacostia receiving camp of the veterans' army. It was concealed in bedding in an area which had been occupied by members of the Workers Ex-Servicemen's League, a Communist group.

Police refused, and so did the veterans, officers to say whether they linked that discovery with Communist activity.

HAUSNER RESCUED; ADRIFT FOR WEEK

New Jersey Flier Picked Up Off Coast of Portugal; Given Up As Lost.

Newark, N. J., June 13.—(AP)—Stanislaus Felix Hausner, New Jersey movie operator, was rescued from a trans-Atlantic flight from New York to his native Poland, ended in the sea, was exhausted today to tell the story.

He was resting aboard this ship and under treatment but was expected to be completely restored to health before he arrives at New Orleans which probably will be in two weeks.

It was decided last night to abandon Hausner's red monoplane, in which he drifted for a week after falling a few hundred miles short of the European coast.

Darkness which fell shortly after Hausner was rescued made it impossible to pick up the plane.

WIFE IS ANXIOUS

Newark, N. J., June 13.—(AP)—"How long will it be before he is back?" Mrs. Martha Hausner, 22-year-old wife of Stanislaus F. Hausner, asked today as her husband aboard the S. S. Circe Shell, which rescued him from the sea yesterday off the coast of Portugal, was headed for New Orleans.

Her voice betrayed the anxiety she had felt since he took off from New York a week ago last Friday on a trans-Atlantic flight he hoped would take him to Warsaw, Poland. When she was told the slow freighter on which he is returning probably would be two weeks on the way to New Orleans, she said she would wait in Jersey City for his return.

The flier's wife prayed daily for his safety and had never given him up.

WALL ST. APPROVES REPORT ON GOLD

League Urges World To Em- brace Old Standard Once More; Bankers' Argument

New York, June 13.—(AP)—The final report of the League of Nations gold delegation, which urges the world to embrace the gold standard once more, strikes a responsive chord among Wall Street's leading bankers.

Agitation for managed currencies, bimetalism, and monetary experiments, which has thrived upon the lean years, even as the bimetallic controversy flourished in the trying period of the 1890's, has been viewed almost incredulously in Wall Street, where the gold standard is regarded as almost a sacred commandment.

The gold standard, reduced to its simplest terms, is by no means a recondite principle. It merely fixes the value of a currency in terms of gold. This means that the government, through its Treasury or central banking machinery, agrees to buy or sell gold at a certain price. In the case of the American dollar, that price is $20.67 an ounce, or 20 2/3 grains of gold per dollar.

Merely Fixes Price

This, of course, merely fixes the price of gold, not its value. If gold gets scarce, and its value goes up, the dollar will buy more commodities. What actually happens is that price of commodities goes down. If gold becomes more plentiful, the reverse should happen unless other factors intervene. But the advocates of the gold standard believe that the yellow metal is as stable or more stable, than any other metal possessing essential monetary qualities.

"The gold standard, from the time of its fairly general adoption in Europe and America in the 1870's, seemed to work with increasing satisfaction, save for the economic upsets of the 1890's, until economic affairs were completely thrown out of kilter by the World War. All of the powerful nations, save the United States, were toppled from the gold standard, and their post-war efforts to climb back and stay back have been unsuccessful save in the case of France."

Paper Money Used

We have learned to do with very little gold in our day to day business, settling out transactions with bank checks and paper money which merely represent the buying power of the much gold. But the metal becomes of paramount im-

FARMERS DEMAND REPUBLICAN AID

See Party Leaders and Ask To Have Relief Plank In- serted In Platform.

Chicago, June 13.—(AP)—Leaders of the three largest groups of organized farmers today sought a few minutes from James R. Garfield, chairman of the resolutions committee, in which to urge a farm relief plank for adoption by the Republican National convention.

The American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange and the Farmers' Union, were in virtual agreement upon the points of a resolution to be presented by a joint representative.

An amendment to the Federal Marketing Act to take care of surplus crops through the tariff, bettering rural credit, economy in government and stabilization of the farm dollar were the thoughts decided upon for incorporation in the organized farmers' plea.

Reach Agreement

While the principal details of the three groups remained far apart, that difficulty was surmounted by agreement to urge that the Federal Farm Board be authorized to adopt the method of its choice or a consolidation of the best points of the three plans sponsored by the farmer groups.

There remained thoughts of the demonstration before the resolutions committee at Kansas City four years ago when farmers stormed the resolutions committee hearing and there was a determination of the leaders not to repeat the gesture.

The farmer groups sent Earl C. Smith of Detroit, Ill., to see James R. Garfield, chairman of the resolutions committee in an effort to obtain time for presenting the proposed farm relief plank.

MORROW SERVANT NOT IMPLICATED

Latest Police Theory Col- lapses—Brinkert Did Not Know Violet Sharpe.

Trenton, N. J., June 13.—(AP)—The morning news bulletin issued by State police indicated that the investigation of the kidnaping and murder of the Lindbergh baby and ransom reached a dead end after collapse of the police theory that "guilty knowledge" had caused the suicide of Violet Sharpe.

Ernest Brinkert, New Rochelle ex-convict named by Miss Sharpe before she took poison as her part on the night of the kidnaping, continued work on his written statement at the police barracks at Alpine. His alibi has been corroborated.

To Check Statement

"He will conclude his written statement today," Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of State police, announced, "and has volunteered to stay at Alpine until it is completely verified."

Schwarzkopf said the police knew of no funeral arrangements having been made for Miss Sharpe, who was a waitress in the home of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, grandmother of the Lindbergh baby.

Telegrams from Detroit, he said, indicated that no results had been obtained by questioning Harry Fleisher, former Purple gangster who recently surrendered after a long police search for him. No report had been received concerning the examination of Robert Burns, who also is held in Detroit.

TO DEMAND PROBE

Trenton, N. J., June 13.—(AP)—Senator Emerson L. Richards, Republican leader, today asserted an investigation of the entire police handling of the Lindbergh kidnaping case was virtually a certainty.

"The Lindbergh case," the senator declared, "has been slaughtered to make a Democratic holiday."

Commenting on the suicide of Violet Sharpe, waitress in the Englewood home of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, grandmother of the murdered baby, after police questioning, the senator said five major blunders had been made by the State police and the detective Harry.

Describe Blunders

The blunders he listed were the detention of "Red" Johnson, Betty Gow's sweetheart; the futile payment of $50,000 ransom money by Dr. Richard H. Conroy, aged Bronx intermediary; John H. Curly's box of Col. Lindbergh and the police; the finding of the baby's body five miles from the Lindbergh state at Hopewell; and finally, the suicide of the waitress.

Richards said he planned no immediate move to request the governor to call a special session of the Legislature. A police investigation, he said, would probably be instigated by the Republican Senate.

MEANS HEARS SELF CALLED RACKETEER

Ex-Government Agent Also Referred To As "Slippery and Slimy" By Attorneys.

Washington, June 13.—(AP)—The identity of E. Means was questioned today by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover as the prosecution opened jury arguments in the trial of the ex-convict on charges of swindling Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean out of $104,000.

Mother love, Rover said, impelled Mrs. McLean to hope she could aid in returning the kidnaped Lindbergh baby while Means was willing to capitalize on human misery and woe. She is alleged to have given Means the money to recover the child.

"Means' diabolical plan," Rover charged, "was a tissue of lies from beginning to end. When Gaston Means told the truth, he lied to get out of it."

Mrs. McLean, Rover said, may have been unwise, but she had enough business judgment to insist at all times that the $100,000 ransom money turned over to Means was not to be parted with by him until the child "had been returned" and properly identified.

As Rover termed Means a "slippery, slimy racketeer," the jury defendant sat in his chair, his head cocked on one side, gravely chewing tough drops and watching the government attorney.

The singer believed a junior company would obviate the necessity of importing singers, and at the same time give young American singers opportunity to obtain operatic training and experience without leaving their native shores.

TWO CASES OF INTEREST IN SUPERIOR COURT

Mrs. Sophie Waslewicz's Suit Against City For Fall Last Winter Is One of Them.

Two jury cases of interest will be presented at the session of the Tolland County Superior Court on Tuesday morning. The first is that of Mrs. Sophie Waslewicz against the city of Rockville. The plaintiff is seeking the sum of $5,000 for injuries she claims she received as the result of a fall on the icy sidewalk on West Main street more than a year ago.

The second case is that of Harry Gibson of Village street against Alexis G. Boredeau for injuries received when he was struck by an automobile driven by the defendant. The accident occurred last winter when Boredeau was driving down Village street and the automobile struck Gibson as he stepped off the sidewalk near the corner of Orchard and Village streets. The latter received injuries and he was a patient at the Rockville City hospital for some time. He claims Boredeau was at fault.

A second group of jury cases will be heard on Thursday morning when two cases will be presented: Edward Huemer against Moses Talge and Susan Demikat against Moses Talge, the result of an automobile accident. Judge Carl Foster will be on the bench.

Rotary Traffic

A rotary traffic system has been installed at the foot of Union street on West street, where the new stretch of state highway is located. This is to offset the traffic hazard presented by the new entrance to the city. When the new highway was opened the first of last week it was found that traffic tended to beat Union street traffic directed toward the new entrance.

The police and city officials, after watching the autists for a period, decided to build the rotary system. It was placed in operation on Saturday. Although the new entrance to the city was built by the State Highway Commission the city is paying the expense of installing and maintaining the system. It is hoped in this manner to avert accidents which might occur should the "speedway" be left unprotected.

Bitten by Dog Allan Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Phillips, a pupil at the Maple street school, was badly bitten by a dog owned by Mrs. Edna Phillips, of Orchard street, on Sunday afternoon. The youngster was riding on his bicycle when the dog ran out and embedded his teeth into his leg. Allan was immediately taken to the office of Dr. R. C. Ferguson by his father and given treatment. An investigation is being made by the dog warden.

This is the second case of its kind during the past week. Thomas Doyle of West street being bitten by a dog in Ellington several days ago.

Children's Day at Union church was largely attended, the auditorium being filled to capacity. A program of songs and recitations was given by each department of the school. Mrs. Mae Chapman Holt presided at the organ and Mrs. Pauline Cooley Mattheson at the piano. "Billie" Herzog, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Herzog of this city a pupil of Henry M. Schonebeck of East Hartford, played cornet solo, melody in F, at the offertory. He was accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Mae Chapman Holt.

After the services the congregation was invited to the chapel where a splendid display of Junior Achievement work was on display. The articles were made by children of the church school.

To Enter Bangor Seminary Raymond Fiedler, son of Frank Fiedler of 17 Prospect street graduated this week from T. Hermon school, Northfield, Mass. He has returned to this city for a period and plans to enter Bangor Seminary in the fall. Mr. Fiedler is a member of Union Congregational church and was active for several years in the work of the young people. His course at Mt. Hermon was most successful, receiving high marks.

Funeral of Amelia Hook The funeral of Mrs. Amelia Hook, 83, was held from her late home on Union street at 130 Union street on Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. C. E. Johnson, pastor of the Rockville Methodist church, officiated. Burial was in the family plot in Grove Hill cemetery. The bearers were Frank Walters, Arthur Walters and Arthur Marshman of Springfield, Mass.; Jesse Mitchell and Bernard Kelly of Ellington and James Coughlin of South Manchester.

Case Continued The case of Jeremiah Hamilton of 216 Linden street, Worcester, Mass., which has been twice continued in the Tolland Justice Court, has again been continued for an indefinite period, because of the illness in a hospital of Mr. Hamilton.

The case is the result of an accident on the Tolland turnpike, near the city line, more than two weeks ago when a truck driven by Hamilton and owned by the Max Joseph Poultry Market, Worcester, collided with a parked automobile in which were two Talcottville men.

DO YOU INHALE?

Why is this vital question so much avoided by other cigarettes?

EVER since Lucky Strike created that special process for purifying fine tobacco and told the full facts about cigarette smoking—the industry has been in an uproar. For Lucky Strike has dared to mention things that were considered "taboo" in the cigarette trade. You may have noticed a striking avoidance generally of the word "inhale" in cigarette advertising. Why? Goodness only knows! For everybody inhales—knowingly or unknowingly! Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette. That's why it's all-important to be certain that your cigarette smoke is pure and clean—to be sure you don't inhale certain impurities. Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question—for it gives you the protection you want... because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

MONDAY, JUNE 13.

INGLORIOUS

No glory has ever attached to the New Jersey State Police Department through its connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping case. To observers on the outside it has been apparent that there was lack of skilled leadership, definite purpose and concentration on the main problem; and that there was altogether too much of a tendency to play to the gallery.

What is likely to prove the final chapter in the great sensation—the suicide of the Morrow waitress, Violet Sharpe—gives no promise of redeeming the reputation of the State Police or that of Superintendent Schwarzkopf. On the contrary, there is a growing conviction that the girl, wholly innocent of any connection with the crime, was driven to distraction and self destruction by the employment of crass and stupid brutality on the part of Schwarzkopf's men.

We do not share the nice-nilly notion that suspects in criminal cases are entitled to the utmost politeness and consideration when they are being questioned and that police quizzes constitute a general outrage; the police would get nowhere if they were deprived of their power to do a bit of well placed bullying now and then. But in the present instance it appears that the New Jersey officers had no reasonable grounds for suspecting Miss Sharpe and were willing to risk driving the girl mad on the barest chance that she might possibly know something about the case.

That was bad enough, but Schwarzkopf's sullen refusal to exonerate the memory of the dead girl, now that it has been pretty conclusively shown that she had no more connection with the affair than Mahatma Gandhi, indicates a narrowness of view and a smallness of character out of keeping with his man-size job.

The least that the New Jersey State Police could do in this case would be to admit a mistake and express regret that they drove the Sharpe girl into her grave through their own blundering, instead of pretending that they still have reason to believe the girl knew something about the kidnaping. We may be quite sure they have no such reason, else they would have been very prompt to present it in extenuation of their course in hounding her to suicide.

THE CHILE BUKUS

The sudden deposition of Carlos G. Davila as head of the junta that has taken over the Chilean government is the first really sinister episode in connection with that coup.

Davila, who is almost as well known in Washington as Senator Borah, has been regarded by informed Americans as a perfect safeguard against any such repudiation of foreign debts or confiscation of foreign properties as has been apprehended in certain quarters. He was rated as the cleverest, possibly the brainiest, member of the diplomatic corps in Washington until the previous revolution resulted in his recall. He is a newspaper publisher whose two publications follow the general lines of the better class of papers in this country. He has countless friends in the United States and in his experiences and outlook is rather more of a Yankee than a Latin. His influence in Chile has heretofore been great.

But when Davila linked up, for the purposes of a bloodless revolution, with Colonel Marmaduke Grove, a Chilean by birth but with the blood of an impulsive Irish adventurer in his veins, apparently he made a mistake. Grove is a wild topical. It was he who got up the proclamation under which the junta seized the government. It promised all sorts of commensurate reforms. Davila stood forth with a wink, and straightway proceeded to let it be known in this country that the proclamation was for home consumption only—that all that would be done would be to chop out graft and economic follies and give Chile a good government.

He evidently reckoned without Grove. The latter has now thrown out Davila and for the time being is in command of the situation. There may be consequences of much gravity to American interests.

It is, however, reported that Davila has the stronger pull with the army, that President Carlos Ibanez may be brought back from exile and a new junta formed with Davila at its head. Those who know the latter will be betting on him.

WHEAT ODDS?

As the Republican national convention opens at Chicago, it is difficult to understand the depth of feeling reported to exist between the forces standing respectively for re-submission of the Eighteenth amendment and for repeal. We cannot, for example, see where Nicholas Murray Butler finds grounds for declaring that a resubmission plank in the platform would be a "hypocritical, meaningless and childish straddle." On the other hand it is about as difficult to understand the panic into which the bare idea of a repeal plank appears to throw so many of the advocates of re-submission.

The position of the drys, who are equally opposed to proposals for either repeal or re-submission, is comprehensible enough. They know that the only way the fiction of prohibition can be maintained is by keeping the whole question away from the ballot box. Why the opponents of prohibition cannot see as much as the drys see in a puzzle.

To our notion it makes very little difference indeed whether the Republican party at Chicago declares for repeal of the amendment or for its re-submission to the people. It amounts to precisely the same thing. Once the people get a whack at the amendment it's goose is cooked.

Then why the delegates at Chicago should be getting all stirred up over a question of difference between tweedle-dum and tweedle-dee constitutes a conundrum. Mighty few people outside the convention will care a hoot whether the platform calls for repeal or re-submission, because they are merely two names for one thing. The only important matter is that it call for one or the other. And that appears to be thoroughly well settled already.

MILLS' BAD IDEA

It is possible that after Secretary of the Treasury Mills has sat through the Republican national convention he will know things about the beliefs of some of his fellow Republicans which hitherto he has not suspected. It is also possible that he may perceive reasons for being grateful that he was not permitted to have his own way—which he certainly will not be—concerning the subject of money standards.

Mr. Mills has gone out to the convention with a callow notion of having the G. O. P. go out of its way to claim credit for the creation of the gold standard and to announce to the world that, come hell or bad weather, the party intends to see to it that nothing shall happen to that magical institution.

If the party were to make any such declaration it might as well fold up. The worship of the gold standard is, like Mr. Mills, a thing of New York and the East. The best that the West can be expected to do for the gold fetish is to tolerate it for a short time longer. And if Mr. Mills and those who march with him on this subject can do so much as to prevent some of the Western Progressive Republicans from making a convention issue of some sort of inflation proposal they will be doing very well indeed.

The currency problem is not at all likely to be an issue of this campaign but it almost certainly will be the big issue in the next one, in 1936—and the Republican party would be most unwise advised if it were to take a position this year that would be extremely liable to be fatal in 1936.

RAINS

Well, the rain came. How badly it was needed everybody knows who has care of growing things, or eyes for them. But it came, and it came in the nick of time. The earth was parched but not to the point of destruction or even serious injury to crops or plant life. It had not been exactly a drought—just a severe dry spell. Farm folks and gardeners worried a bit. And then the rain came.

It almost always does. It almost always comes before any serious harm has been done through its lack. And now that it has come, and all drought danger is over, what part did the worrying have in bringing it? Absolutely none, of course.

Some of these days the economic rain will come. Some day the wells of business will fill up again and the streams of industry will be singing the old song anew. It will come, in all human probability, before it is too late. And presently we shall have forgotten all about the drought dust that has settled on the wheels and the death of juices that has befallen the body of commerce.

But what part will worry have taken in bringing the refreshing rains? Just none.

PIFFLING

The quirks that criminal law occasionally takes—to the delight of the crook—are beautifully illustrated in an appeal that recently landed in the Illinois supreme court.

Eight men were convicted of kidnaping a man for ransom. Their attorneys are asking for a reversal on the grounds that where a crime is a felony in common law—as is the case with kidnaping—the indictment must use the term "feloniously." And in the indictment in this case, that word was used in only one of the several counts.

Hence the lawyers want their clients turned loose.

The presence or absence of that word can have had nothing whatever to do with the fairness or unfairness of the trial those men got. Their rights cannot in any real sense have been infringed by its omission. And yet—so strange are the ways of the law—such a piffling technicality can be the basis for an appeal!

IN NEW YORK

Without the Diamonds
 New York, June 13—No scarlet-tinted boulevard frames that girdling, hard-boiled jade, "Diamond Lil."

Instead, you'll find Mae West, who wrote, acted, fought and served time for her trolley types, hard at work in a neat Long Island country place. With Lil's spangled gowns tucked away in the trunks, she affects plain, dark house dresses. At the moment she is penning a vaudeville act which Harry Richman may use when he brings two-a-day vaudeville back to Broadway.

It will be, one hears, something of a dramatization of herself with the birth and reappearance of Diamond Lil as part of the theme.

When in New York, Miss West has away either in a Park Avenue apartment or a hotel suite on the fringe of Broadway. She is rarely seen in the night life crowds. She has placed her scenes and characters in a dozen dives, yet insists she's never been in one. On one of the few occasions I have seen her mingling with the city "celebs," it was a literary tea.

Taking Miss West at her word—she is a retiring person; it bothers her to be pointed out as a celebrity; she has a large library and is a great reader; doesn't smoke or drink; has never found time for marriage; friends and neighbors have difficulty associating her with the characters she plays; is always working on a new play, though frequently never finishes them; has a faultless sense for success; sincerely believes the public wants sex on the stage and wants it to be frank; likes to garden—and does; has been on the stage since the age of six!

All of which is a far cry from "Diamond Lil."

Political Follies of 1932

NORTH CAROLINA GOVERNOR WARNS NATION OF DANGER FROM HUNGRY MEN

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer.

Washington. — Governor O. Max Gardner of North Carolina is another governor who refuses to forget the "Forgotten Man" in the 1932 political follies.

"The issue in this campaign will be the right of the little man to live," said Gardner when he was here recently.

"The primitive question of his right to eat becomes of increasing importance. This is not demagoguery, but a problem of social justice. Our people are naturally conservative, but they can't be sneered at when they are hungry."

Seen Danger of Revolt

Gardner supports Governor Roosevelt of New York for the presidency. Like Roosevelt, he warns of the "danger of revolt" if something is not done for millions in want.

"The North Carolina governor was in New York City a few weeks ago to borrow $5,000,000 for his state. On his way downtown he left a taxicab and stood for half an hour with a long line of men before an employment agency.

"I was impressed by the mutterings of those men," he reported.

The Volcano Top

"I think Congress realizes now that we are sitting on top of a volcano. We are lucky that we have no predominance of the temperate, emotional Mediterranean Latin stock in this country.

"The thing that has kept us from real trouble is the fact that a man with patience and not too much pride can still get something to eat. Charity has responded nobly. How much longer this benevolence will continue to manifest itself is a serious question. We know that many cities are running out of funds for unemployment relief.

"We will find a way out by orderly procedure rather than revolution, but, meanwhile, any procedure will be better than letting the people lose faith in our form of government."

Question of Survival

Gardner believes most of us are still thinking in terms of 1929 and

Fortune Ryan, the son brought out a book of verses about a year ago. He signed it with the name "Barry Vall," and some time passed before the mystery of its authorship was solved.

When in the creative throes, he rises at 4:30 in the morning, pays his respects to the sun, wakes up with a cup of black coffee—self made—and begins his muse wooing.

Pilgrimage

Once a year, Odessa, Mo., city of 2,000 souls, goes down en masse to the home town depot to see a youth spent in the show business. After going out with a tent show, Mayor Lightner organized his own troupe and set forth. He trouped with and was a close personal friend of Houdini and Thurston, the magicians.

"We can never really balance the national budget until all people balance their own personal budgets," he said. "The merchant's budget is out of balance. So is the farmer's and the householder's. Balancing the national budget would be no cure. Balance them today and they're out of balance tomorrow. Live At Home Program
 In North Carolina, Gardner explained, a "live at home" program was launched so that people of the state, which had been especially hard hit in its agricultural sections before the stock market crash, might be persuaded to raise rather than buy their foodstuffs and livestock feed.

He estimates that a year of this intensive campaign kept $16,500,000 within the state which would otherwise have gone outside for purchases. About 850,000 school children were enrolled in the drive and all farm agencies. Everybody went to canning with the idea that nothing must go to waste.

Gardner's Record

Gardner has attracted national attention by driving through a program which has cut the cost of state government $7,000,000 a year and at the same time cut the taxes on property—especially small homes and farms—by $12,000,000.

That was accomplished by taking the schools and roads of the state all under state control, with large resultant economies, and some shift of the tax burden. "Taxes on property must be reduced" became the governor's slogan when the slump hit North Carolina.

"We shifted five or six millions in taxes to corporate wealth," he says, "and reduced taxes on land by 88 cents per $100."

Gardner had to fight with the state legislature for his program and carried it to the people. President Hoover has not yet called him into conference to find out how he did it.

 FRENCH FORCED BACK

On June 13, 1918, German shock divisions operating near Noyon in the Marne salient resumed their hammering at French lines and forced a withdrawal south of that city.

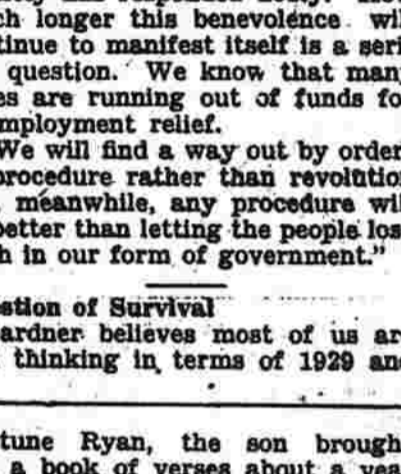

German official bulletins again claimed that the French troops had been "crushed" and claimed more than 20,000 prisoners in the previous week's fighting.

French counter-attacks gained ground in some sections, but the day's fighting on the whole was unfavorable for them.

American marines repelled a desperate attack on Bourges by the crack German Fifth Guard division, inflicting heavy losses. It was the third such attack which had been repulsed in less than a week.

"SICK" GALL BLADDERS

Many people over forty, especially women, are troubled with "sick" gall bladders. The gall bladder is a pouch found under the liver and attached to it, the purpose of the gall bladder being to act as a small reservoir for bile, which slowly flows from the liver into it. From the gall bladder the bile is fed into the intestine, when it is needed for digestion. A normal gall bladder is about three or more inches long, is pear-shaped, and holds about one ounce of fluid. Between the gall bladder and the intestine is a duct or canal, through which the bile drains; the lining of this canal is folded and twisted. The gall bladder duct unites with another duct coming directly from the liver; the two of them being called the common bile after they have joined together.

JUST WHAT HAPPENS

A "sick" gall bladder may refer to an inflammation or enlargement of the gall sac itself, or the symptoms may arise from a blocking of the common bile duct. An enlargement of the gall bladder is usually due to an inflammation of this cystic duct, conveying the bile to the duodenal intestine. You can readily see that, if the duct becomes swollen and inflamed, it will interfere with the flow of bile, and consequently the bile accumulates in the gall bladder, and this organ enlarges. Bile is retained in the gall bladder and the liver is unable to discharge its continually forming bile. This brings on biliousness, headache, nausea, indigestion and jaundice.

An inflammation of the gall bladder may frequently exist with or without the presence of gall stones. Where the stones are present they may irritate the gall bladder further, leading to an acute attack of inflamed gall bladder, and where they are not yet present, the inflammation of the gall bladder will pre-dispose toward their formation in the future.

The cause of a "sick" gall bladder may be found in any condition which holds back the free flow of bile. Sleeping over for long periods, propping the little exercise, sitting position during working hours, constipation and over-eating are common causes.

The symptoms of a sick gall bladder are many and varied; often the patient has no idea that his gall bladder is suffering from any

TRY TREATMENT BEFORE OPERATION

The surgical treatment for this condition is an operation to explore the gall bladder, drain it, and break up any adhesions which may have formed around it. While this operation may be necessary and helpful in certain cases, my experience in my private practice has shown me that the largest majority of these cases can be cured through fasting and dieting. It is first a question of cleaning out the liver and gall bladder through fasting and restricted diet, then teaching the patient how to live so that his gall bladder will not again become "sick."

The first step in the treatment is the olive oil and fruit juice regimen. Just before starting the patient usually takes four ounces of olive oil, together with four ounces of grapefruit juice, lemon or orange juice. The oil and juice must be beaten together so that they are emulsified as well as possible. This should be taken on an empty stomach, several nights, being followed by a fast on orange juice, grapefruit juice or lemon juice. The fast and olive oil treatment will in many cases accomplish a thorough "cleaning out" of the gall bladder and duct.

NEW ENGLANDERS OFF FOR PARLEY

Delegates On Special Trains Near Chicago—Connecticut's Delegation There.

Aboard Massachusetts Republican Special, Enroute to Chicago, June 12.—(AP)—With their votes for President Hoover counted and ready for recording, New England's delegates heard Chicago prepared today for the opening of the Republican National convention Tuesday.

The Massachusetts delegation, aboard a special train which left Boston at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, carried 35 votes pledged to President Hoover and one delegate, William F. of Holyoke, who was elected as unpledged. Whiting, former secretary of commerce, refused to pledge himself and he is virtually the only New England delegate whose position was not determined in advance.

Behind the Massachusetts group as it neared the convention city were the delegations from Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, aboard another train. The Rhode Islanders, bringing eight votes for Hoover, left Saturday and were due in Chicago last night. Connecticut, with 19 more votes, went separately Saturday.

Maine has 13 votes in the convention, New Hampshire, 11, and Vermont, 9.

Discuss Details

With no possibility of a contest for the presidential nomination, the New Englanders concerned themselves with other convention details and with the completion of their own organizations. Prohibition, the vice-presidency and internal politics within the individual delegations, were the principal subjects.

Massachusetts will not complete its organization until tomorrow forenoon when a chairman will be chosen and those who will serve on the various convention committees will be named. George F. Booth, Worcester publisher, and one of the state's four delegates-at-large, is favored for the chairmanship with William M. Butler, former chairman of the National committee and another delegate-at-large, as likely choice for the place on the resolutions or platform committee.

The New Hampshire delegation probably will wait until it reaches Chicago and learns President Hoover's stand before deciding on prohibiting Governor Winant said the question might come up at today's organization session, but that the final decision probably would be later.

The prohibition issue was in the forefront of discussion among the delegates. The recent declaration of Butler in favor of re submission of the 18th Amendment made the possibility of his selection for the platform committee significant. The probable stand of Senator George H. Moses of the New Hampshire delegation also was a matter of interest to the delegates.

As To Vice Presidency
At least two of the delegations—those from Massachusetts and New Hampshire—had their eyes on the vice-presidency in the event that Vice President Curtis should not be the Hoover running mate. Former Governor Alvan T. Fuller has the backing of the Massachusetts group as a result of a recent declaration in his favor by Mr. Booth and Governor John G. Winant of New Hampshire has the support of some of the members of that state's delegation.

The Massachusetts group is faced with a contest in the selection of a National committeeman to succeed Louis K. Liggett. The election will be held Wednesday forenoon and the names of Butler and John Richardson, one of the original "Hoover for President" workers in Massachusetts in the field.

Have Strong Support
Both Butler and Richardson have strong support among the Massachusetts delegates but the election of neither is certain. Butler supporters were chiefly among the older party leaders, who were urging his selection on the basis of his successful conduct of the Coolidge campaign and the strength they believe his Coolidge Association would add in the National campaign.

The contest for National committeewoman was attracting almost as much attention among the delegates. Mrs. Frank Roe Batchelder was opposing Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer of Boston, incumbent, for the position.

Mrs. Batchelder, of Worcester, has long been prominent in Massachusetts politics, and her supporters claim to have enough strength to elect her Wednesday.

Four years ago Mrs. Batchelder's friends hoped to place her on the Republican National committee but in a contest for that place against Mrs. Thayer she was defeated by a narrow margin.

CONNECTICUT FIRM FOR REPEAL PLANK

Senator Bingham To Carry Fight To the Floor At the Chicago Convention.

Chicago, June 12.—(AP)—Firm demands from New York and Connecticut for prohibition repeal planks stirred Republican platform builders to new efforts today for a declaration adaptable to the uncertain and unfathomed sentiment of tomorrow's convention.

A re submission plank leaving the way open for retention, revision or repeal of the buffeted Eighteenth Amendment was the end sought in the renewed efforts of administration leaders to meet the conflict now certain to go to the floor for settlement.

Prohibition was the dominating and bewildering problem confronting the Republican resolutions committee which meets officially tomorrow for the first time.

Sec. Mills Chosen
New York's 97 delegates without a dissenting voice put Secretary Mills of President Hoover's official family, on the resolutions committee at its caucus last night. But before the Treasury head could leave the room with his formal qualifications, the delegation quickly adopted unanimously a resolution for repeal.

Meanwhile Senator Bingham, (Conn.), member of the resolutions committee, arrived at Chicago and announced he would not only make a fight for repeal in the committee but would carry it to the floor in a minority report if defeated.

From the militant Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, member of the New York delegation, came similar expressions along with the statement that the re submission proposal was a "fraud."

BILLY MINSKY DEAD

New York, June 12.—(AP)—Billy Minsky, who came up from the east side to make Broadway burlesque-conscious once again, is dead.

A bone malignancy caused his death yesterday at the age of 41. Minsky, former messenger boy, started producing burlesque in the National Winter Garden in Houston street. Last year he put burlesque into the Republic theater on West 42nd street, once the home of "Abie's Irish Rose," and the cash rolled in.

Groups of merchants and preachers protested what they called the "opening influence" of his flamboyant posters, but no action was taken.

The Minsky chain, now grown to several theaters, will be managed by his brother Herbert.

De Valera was her only son by her marriage to Maria De Valera, a Spanish sculptor whom she met in New York shortly after her immigration from County Limerick, Ireland. After his death and her subsequent marriage in 1887 to Charles F. Wheelwright, Mrs. Wheelwright sent Eamon to relatives in Ireland. He last visited his mother in December, 1927.

Mrs. Wheelwright, who was 74, came to this country in 1876.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 9:30 a. m.

BIG FORTUNE SHRINKS

New York, June 12.—(AP)—The socially prominent widow of the late Reginald Vanderbilt now has an income of only $1,400 a year, it was disclosed today by George W. Wickerson, guardian for her eight-year-old daughter, Gloria Laura Morgan Vanderbilt.

It had been assumed when the Vanderbilts will was probated in 1925 that "the entire residuary estate" left to Mrs. Vanderbilt after a trust fund was provided for the child was large. When debts and expenses were paid, however, the total was only about $100,000.

Wickerson made the disclosure in asking Surrogate's Court to grant a continuance of the $4,000 monthly allowance for the support of the child. The petition was granted.

The trust fund for the child was worth $2,734,187 last December 31. It produced in 1931 an income of $113,678.

Santiago, Chile, June 12.—(AP)—A renewed threat of confiscation of the $375,000,000 investment in the American controlled Conch Nitrate combine was seen today in the resignation of Carlos Davila, former Ambassador to Washington, from the Socialist Junta, which controls the government.

Senator Davila resigned last night from the week old cabinet of the ousted President Juan Esteban Montero on June 8.

His resignation was believed to have been forced by the other members of the Junta because his policy toward foreign interests, particularly Cossack was considered too moderate.

There were unofficial reports that an army group was attempting to bring back former President Carlos Ibanez from exile at Mendoza, Argentina, to form a new Junta with Davila's aid.

Senator Davila refused to comment on his resignation.

Contrary to widely accepted beliefs, the men are doing most of the talking here.

Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, vice chairman of the Republican National committee, wouldn't even see reporters today.

The Post Office Department is well represented by four "generals": Postmaster General Brown and Assistant Postmaster Generals Arch Coleman, Irving W. Glover and John W. Philip.

Bina M. West Miller, Michigan committeewoman, who has a garden party every summer Thursday at her home in Fort Huron, couldn't get out of the hospitality habit here.

She fixed up her Chicago apartment as much like a rose garden as she could, set her perpetual calendar at Thursday, (if never rains on Thursday, she says) and invited Republican committee women and their friends to all-afternoon teas yesterday and today.

CAPTAINS' DINNER NEEDS SUPPORT

Hope To Have Bigger Turn-out of Townspeople To Meet Athletes.

With all of the six college captains to be honored planning to attend, the success of tomorrow evening's testimonial dinner arranged by the Chamber of Commerce and Evening Herald working in conjunction, seemed assured. The only other really essential point is that the townspeople turn out for the affair.

The dinner is open to the entire public at one dollar per ticket.

The captains to be honored are only those who are captains of various college teams now. Probably few other towns or cities in the United States ever boasted six college captains at the same time.

Those to be honored are Al Lupien, baseball captain at Harvard; Jeff Helm, basketball captain at Princeton; Joe McCluskey, track captain at Fordham; George Stavitsky, co-captain of basketball at Grove City; Francis Burr, captain of swimming at Wesleyan and Miss Ruth Behrend, women's tennis captain at Tufts.

The dinner will be served promptly at 7:30 after which there will be a program of speaking, the final details of which will be completed late today.

All of the captains will be called upon for a few brief remarks. C. P. Quimby will be toastmaster. Other speakers will be limited to a very few minutes.

The dinner will follow an exhibition two mile run which will mark Joe McCluskey's farewell appearance in the east prior to his departure for the Olympic trials.

He will run against a relay of three M. H. S. athletes, Al Lengel, Sandy Burns and Ed. Arch. Franz Wittmann, star dash man on the H. S. team, may run against Wes. Warwick, local boy starring at Loomis.

This program takes place at the West Side playgrounds starting promptly at 6 o'clock. The testimonial dinner will be in the school street Recreation Center gymnasium.

COVENTRY BOY TO FLY TO 4-H CONVENTION

George H. Kingsbury To Leave For Washington Tomorrow Morning—To Speak Over Radio.

George H. Kingsbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Kingsbury of North Coventry, and the fourth 4-H club member to win National recognition in the history of the organization in this state will fly tomorrow morning to the National Encampment of 4-H club members to be held in Washington, D. C.

George will be one of a party of four to leave the Renschler Field, and has been chosen by the National 4-H organization to deliver a radio talk from station WRC, Washington, N.E.C. station over the A. & P. program Friday morning from 8:45 to 9:30 A. S. T.

Young Kingsbury's activities in 4-H club work have been varied and constant since 1924. His first affiliation with the organization was with the Tolland County Dairy club, otherwise known as the "Teec-dee-see" as a charter member.

The following year he was connected with the Tolland County Forestry Club and was one of two members who completed the course.

During 1925-26 he made the Tolland County Dairy judging team and competed at the Charter Oak Farm, Hartford. In 1927 he won a trip to the National Dairy judging contest held in Nashville, Tenn. one of three from this state to be thus honored.

In 1928, George and Arnold McKinnon won first prize at an exhibition held in Rockville by the Tolland County Farm Bureau in canning and later won 5th place at the State Fair, Hartford in this event.

In 1929 he was instrumental in the organization of the North Coventry Junior Dairy Club and during 1930 George and his sister, Cora, another honored 4-H club member, canned 600 quarts of tomatoes, all of which were sold to earn money to assist meeting the expenses of education.

He was selected in 1930 and also last year as one of the State's 12 delegates to attend Camp Val, at the Eastern States Exposition, Springfield, Mass., but was unable to attend either year. Two years ago he won the State Garden judging championship and exhibited his own collection of vegetables winning third prize that year.

Last year Cora E. Kingsbury was selected as the State's outstanding 4-H club member and won the trip to the National Convention. Just to keep the honor in the family, George worked hard during the past year and personally takes care of his animals and won the trip to the National Convention. Just to keep the honor in the family, George worked hard during the past year and personally takes care of his animals and won the trip to the National Convention.

He has attended the annual C. A. C. short course and has attended the Older Boys and Girls Conferences at Storrs each year. He is now assistant Garden Club leader in his home town.

George has never had the opportunity to fly before and is looking forward to his first aerial jaunt to Washington, a distance, air-line of 300 miles early tomorrow morning.

There Is No Guesswork About The Economy of ELECTRIC REFRIGERATION

[Look on the table—on every plate—in every glass—are evidences of the thrift and convenience of an electric refrigerator]

The convenience and comfort of electric refrigeration are but a small part of the total advantages of owning a good electric refrigerator to protect the food which you buy for your family.

The dollar and cents savings which electric refrigeration enables you to make are more important considerations these days when economy is urgent in most homes.

The economies of electric refrigeration are twofold and positive. Electric refrigeration, therefore, can be considered as an investment to save you money. In the first place the operating cost for electricity is very low. In the second place, users find there rare substantial savings in buying in quantities, in utilization of left overs, and in reducing spoilage practically to nothing.

At no time have these savings been more striking than at the present when electric refrigerators have undergone a downward revision in prices.

Improved electric refrigeration may be purchased at much lower prices than in former years. Take advantage of these new prices and investigate now.

Good Food and Good Refrigeration Go Together

Good food and good Electric Refrigeration go so naturally together that Pinehurst and other leading markets and several refrigerator dealers in the town are stressing the importance of the proper preservation of food through electric refrigeration.

The subject is of paramount importance because of the fact that a large percentage of the cost of an electric refrigerator is returned to the purchaser through the saving of food that in the past has been spoiled by improper refrigeration.

The steady, even temperature of the modern electric refrigerator has accomplished great savings and has made possible many short cuts in the preparation of meals. Electric refrigeration has provided convenience and economy that makes the investment in an electric refrigerator not only a paying one, but a necessary one for proper housekeeping.

Electric Refrigeration will save many dollars on your monthly food bill.

CLEAP YEAR BRIDE

By Lantz Lou Brookman
BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHERRY DIXON, 19 and pretty, falls in love with DAN PHILLIPS, newspaper reporter, whom her wealthy aristocratic parents have forbidden her to see. When Cherry learns Dan's telephone messages have been kept from her she steals out of the house to meet him. Her father discovers this and threatens to send her to California. Cherry defies him and he orders her to leave.

She goes to Dan, tells him what has happened and asks him to marry her. The ceremony is performed that night by a justice of the peace. Cherry looks for an apartment but is discouraged to find them so expensive. Dan works late one night on a tip that TONY TOSCALLI, gangland chief, is coming to Wellington. Cherry mooningly gives this news tip to a reporter on the rival newspaper. The other paper gets the story and Dan's boss threatens, "One more slip and you're fired."

DIXIE SHANNON, movie critic, helps Cherry find an inexpensive apartment. She also introduces Cherry to handsome MAX PEARSON.

CHAPTER XVII

Cherry's laugh was not as convincing as it should have been. She could feel the hot color in her cheeks. She said, "How do you do, Mr. Pearson. I've heard Dan speak of you." Lowered lashes covered her confusion.

"I'm glad to know you," Pearson said. "Great boy, Dan. But of course you know that. He's to be highly congratulated."

"Isn't he?" Dixie aimed in gaily. "Too bad you missed the party, Max. We had a real celebration the night of the wedding. You should have heard Beach and Pat Warner warbling. 'Oh, Promise Me!'"

Dixie's chatter relieved the tension. When Cherry looked at Pearson again she wondered what could have made her imagine there was anything unusual about him, manner of an extremely good-looking young man.

Why hadn't Dan told her Pearson was so handsome? He was as tall as Dan, had a solidly built, seemed superfluous. Cherry admired the way he carried his shoulders, too. Straight as a soldier.

"Pearson was an ardent pacifist and thought it amusing that she should have considered him soldierly."

She glanced at him again. It was the dark eyes with their flashing brilliance that had attracted her so much distinction to his face. The other features were well modeled, particularly the chin which was rounded yet forceful.

His hair, beneath his hat brim, looked almost black. Dan had said Pearson was saying to Dixie, "Well, I see another of your Hollywood friends has slipped off the marital shackles. What a way to talk when Cherry here is a bride!"

"Oh, excuse me." He turned to the other girl. "But of course the Hollywood variety of marriage does seem a little different. Can't you see those that are made in heaven?"

Was he laughing at her? Cherry could not tell. Dixie went on confiding gossip about the film star's divorce and the marriage to follow as soon as legal obstacles had been cleared away.

"Have you ever paid this place a visit before?" Pearson asked Cherry as they turned in before the impressive stone entrance of the News building.

"No, I haven't." Before she could say more she felt a hand on her arm and turned.

"Dan!" Cherry exclaimed.

He stood before her smiling.

"Hello, folks. See that my wife's in good company. Thought it was you ahead of me, Cherry, but I couldn't be sure. What have you been doing all day?"

Pearson excused himself and disappeared. Dixie and Cherry together told Dan about the apartment from which they had just come, about terms and arrangements that could be made with the present tenants.

"Well, if you like it so much, honey, why didn't you take it?"

"You're the one to be satisfied."

Cherry insisted Dan should see the place also. The discussion ended with another telephone call to Mrs. Clark. That evening Cherry and Dan climbed the long flight of stairs together and knocked at the Clark's door. When they departed half an hour later a deposit on the first $20 rent had been paid and it was agreed the new tenants should move in Monday morning.

For the next three days Cherry was unusually busy. She set forth on her career as a housewife by investing in two huge and impressive cook books, a smaller volume which she found on the same counter in the book store entitled "The Budget Book or How to Operate a

GLADYS PARKER

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

What will the coming summer mean for the children? And what will it mean for mothers?

June is the month for decisions—a time when some definite should be mapped out for the long hot pull ahead.

Usually we take the course of least resistance and let things drift. In one way it is, perhaps, not a bad idea because a certain inertia or mental let-down is a good thing for everybody.

But in various ways it often defeats its own end, the resulting chaos and disorder, the disorganization of living, and irregularity of hours contributing to short tempers and frayed nerves all along the line.

When school is over, the children sleep late, come straggling down to breakfast at any time they choose, and face an empty day with nothing to do.

Vacation Worries

A universal sigh goes up all over the land from mothers: "We Late vacation. It is one thing for the children, but another for us, trying to keep them amused."

If they would look at it another way and substitute the word "busy" for "amused" it might rather serve them. Children have to be busy, very busy, to be healthy and happy. But that vacation days must be filled entirely with play and entertainment is a fallacy. If children are busy they entertain themselves. Movies, picnics and pleasure parks are all very well, but at the very best they only fill in intervals.

In the first place I think there should be a regular get-up hour, and not too late at that. Get them up in the early cool of the morning and make them eat breakfast together. It starts the day well.

Then divide up the work among them, the little tasks they are able to do. Betty can make the beds if she is over 8. Bob can get a bucket and broom and attend to the porch and walk.

You will have to overlook discrepancies, and not wait that you can do it better and faster yourself. There is more involved than just rough beds and streaked boards. The children are learning. All good things are not taught in school.

Strive for Orderly House

It is largely a question of a mother's judgment. These tasks should not be too long, too hard, or too arduous. The general idea is to get things done, and done reasonably early in the day. A house in order is generally a cooler house and a happier one.

The other hours can be filled in with making things. Are there any old boards about so Bob can construct a see-saw, a dog house, a little shanty in the yard? Betty would like to help, I am sure, unless she is rather shy. Let them repaint some old chairs or whitewash the cellar, in old clothes and old gloves.

Real things to do—not eternal play—are fascinating to children. Anything but boredom and loafing.

A real plan, general as it may be, will take the terror out of summer when the big front doors of the school close for the last time.

Exchange of Ham for Stale Bread Brings Mad Rush to Moscow Stores

Moscow.—(AP)—Scenes reminiscent of a New York department store bargain day rush were enacted here when three stores of the Moscow swine trust offered the privilege of buying sausage and ham without the necessity of standing in line to all those bringing it to the bread.

Seeking to stimulate its collections of feed for hogs, the swine trust neglected to take into consideration the large number of those wanting sausage and ham and the natural antipathy of the population—born of long hours of patient waiting to buy food-to-ward forming in queues to take their turn to enter the stores.

A number of customers tried to sell fresh bread without success, and later it was found that sales from the bread stores had soared enormously during the period that the ham and sausage offer was in effect.

After the three stores had collected a ton and a half of stale bread and forth, until the article ended they reduced their price for the bread to three kopecks a kilo.

The action of the swine trust was severely criticized by the newspapers, which termed it speculation.

Von Bulow, in "Memoirs, Is Bitter Against Incompetence of Kaiser." Advisors

Germany got into the World War solely because of the excessive stupidity and incompetence of her statesmen in 1914, and lost it—once she got it—because no one seemed to have sufficient intelligence to throw the stupid and incompetent ones out of office.

So declares the Prince von Bulow, pre-war chancellor of the German Empire, in his new book, "Memoirs." This book, covering the years from 1909 to 1919, is one of the most interesting and illuminating books on the war yet written.

The villain of the piece—naturally, perhaps—is von Bulow's successor as chancellor, Bethmann-Hollweg. Upon him von Bulow pours a merciless fire.

Eye Don't Just See; They're Seen? Socks around that are shades darker than the cheeks above them as there are boys' necks that show where the washing stopped.

Necks have a habit of growing old before faces do. They darken if not cared for. Because of this, it is necessary to be more lavish in the use of powder when dealing with them than it is when you are dusting your face with powder. Use powder freely on your neck. Put it on, with your finger tips or a brush especially designed for powdering. Then remove it with another brush. Don't let anyone know the artifice that you have been practicing. Your skin will retain enough powder to make it appear youthful.

Necks require nourishing creams. They have to be fed, stimulated, cooled, if they are going to stay slim and straight. But if you take care of them they will hold your head proudly and no one will watch you unfasten your coat, or wish you would remove a scarf, no the barometer of your age can be consulted.

Bathing helps the neck, too. There are patterns on the market which will help you to stimulate the blood current. Or the back of your hand may act as a substitute, if you prefer.

Don't let your neck grow fat. Hold it straight. Pretend that you have a book on your head. If you let your chin sag, it will fall to the ground. Practice this method until you hold your neck as a slim, straight column regardless of what you are thinking.

No neck which has rolls of fat can be beautiful. Sometimes the act of reducing makes a plump neck, which was firm and straight, unsightly because the loosened flesh hangs in folds. Because of this, any dieting or strenuous exercise in which you indulge should be determined under the advice of a medical authority. Likewise, in the parts of the body may suffer from a health as well as a beauty angle if reduction is not suited to your needs.

Be careful not to push your head forward as you walk. It not only makes you appear to be too eager to get where you are going, but it makes your neck ugly. There is nothing graceful or regal about it. Hold your head as though you are going to meet life and are excited at the thought but aren't breaking your neck to get there.

Daily Health Service

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER

Just why anyone becomes a vegetarian has never been established. In some instances it seems to be merely a desire to be different from the majority.

On the other hand some people are so sensitive regarding the sight of flesh or blood that they simply cannot eat meat because they see it exposed in the butcher shop. Other vegetarians are actually so concerned about pain caused to the lower animals that they avoid animal food for that reason.

Vegetarian eat milk, eggs and cheese which, with the vegetable products as much as the flesh of the animal.

Dr. Adolph Abraham, of the Westminster Hospital in London points out that the intestinal tract of man is incapable of manipulating a sufficient amount of vegetable material to insure receipt of the caloric value needed for good health. If, however, cheese, eggs and milk are included, the minimum amount can be had.

On the other hand, there is plenty of evidence that protein is superior for tissue building to vegetable protein, regardless of caloric value. An occasional vegetarian distinguishes himself as an athlete or strong man.

This does not prove that every one who is a vegetarian will be an athlete nor does it indicate in the slightest that other athletes will do well on a similar diet.

There are plenty of notions regarding the training of athletes that have never been established scientifically. One recent writer on athletics has suggested that long distance runners eat such things as will give power of endurance and increased nerve force, and that hammer throwers take food and liquids which would make flesh and bone.

Such statements are absurd as there are no such foods which possess specific qualities. In the older days of the time of John L. Sullivan athletes never kept in training, but immediately after a match dropped all restrictions and took vast quantities of beer and meats and put on weight.

Therefore, became necessary for them on going into training to adopt the most rigid diet. This brought about the notion that certain foods were not suitable for athletes.

The argument has been made that the modern sophisticated diet of man leads to gastric ulcer, cancer, Bright's disease and similar disturbances. Recently a study was made of two native tribes—the Kikuyu and the Masai.

The Kikuyu live entirely on vegetables; the Masai eat meat, blood and milk. Neither of these savage tribes averages the European height, but the average height of the meat eater is five inches more than that of the vegetable eater, and their strength is 50 per cent greater.

It was found, furthermore, that gastric ulcer, rickets and practically every disease, except intestinal obstruction, was more frequent among the vegetable eaters than among the meat eating tribes.

NOT SO BAD

Salt Lake City, Utah—By reading a good book for two hours a day, Kenneth Ensign, 19, can escape serving a prison sentence of from five years to life. These terms, passed by Judge James H. Wolfe after Ensign had entered a plea of guilty to a robbery, are to be checked regularly by the youth's father, to whom he has been paroled. The reading course is to extend over a period of two years.

Home Economically," and a becoming pink and white apron.

There was packing to do and though it was only her own clothing and Dan's it seemed an enormous task. It was not finished until Sunday when Dan came to her rescue and by the simple process of tossing everything in sight into two large suitcases, sitting on them and thus forcing the edges together so the buckles could be snapped, the packing was completed.

They stood together on the threshold of the room they were about to desert. It was littered with papers, discarded odds and ends, and looked dingier and uglier than ever.

"Somehow I hate to go," Cherry said regretfully. "We've been so happy here."

"You think I'd unpack all that junk?"

She laughed. "Oh, of course I don't mean it. Not really. The new place is going to be ever so much nicer. Only I'll always remember this room, Dan."

He drew his arm close about her, kissed her. "The cab will be waiting," he said. "We'd better go down."

Cherry's trunk had been sent ahead to the new address. The rest of the baggage was stowed into the taxicab beside Cherry and Dan. It seemed a short ride to their new dwelling.

The janitor answered Dan's ring and helped carry the bulky suitcases up the stairs. Then, as soon as the new tenants had received their keys he departed. "Sorry I can't wait to help unpack, dear. See you tonight."

"At 8:30?"

"As nearly as I can make it. Bye."

The door closed after him. Cherry stood in the middle of the floor and surveyed her new home. Oh, it was going to be lovely here! It was so much nicer than she had remembered. The worn furniture, the cheap, make-shift decorations took on new attractiveness because she thought of them as her own.

The day dreaming ended abruptly as Cherry remembered that she was to be unpacked. She took off her hat and coat, inspected the single clothes closet and hung them away. The closet seemed rather small and there was a great deal to go into it. Well, if the Clark had managed she could.

There was a knock at the door and she opened it. The janitor was there to tell her the men were bringing up her trunk. When it arrived Cherry persuaded the janitor to linger and help her get the bulky suitcases open. He was amiable and asked if there was anything else with which she needed help.

Cherry said no and the man left.

Somehow the baggage seemed to fill the entire room. It wasn't as large a room as she had thought. Where and how to begin?

There didn't seem to be much choice. Cherry remembered the pink apron, got it out and tied it around her waist. Then she pushed up her sleeves and set to work.

She forgot time in her eagerness to put the new home to rights. At last she straightened from the suitcase over which she had been bending. Her back ached and she rubbed it. Cherry looked at the watch on her wrist.

Almost two o'clock! Good gracious, was it so late as that? She realized she was tired and sank into a chair with a sigh. She had been working steadily since early morning. Dan's things had all been unpacked and put away. Most of her own hung in the closet.

"I'm hungry," Cherry thought, "and there's nothing to eat."

She arose and went to the kitchen. Praise be! Here on the pile of plates was a small tin box of tea and on the lower shelf was a box of wafers about half filled.

Cherry lighted a blaze under one of the stove burners, burning her fingers with the match. She put on water to heat and waited until the kettle began to hum. Then she made tea and poured a cupful. The tea and the box of wafers made her lunch.

Her arms and shoulders ached from the morning's exertion. Cherry decided to leave the room as it was. The really important event of the day was to be the evening meal. It would be the first she had ever cooked for Dan, the first in their own home. She thrilled at the thought!

Cherry washed her face and hands, dabbed on powder and then got into her coat and hat. Just in time she remembered she must have her key and went back for it.

The grocery store was a block away. Mentally Cherry checked over the list of things she must buy. It would have to be a large order. She wanted beefsteak for the meal, wafers to go with it, and potatoes of course. Then there must be a salad. Stuffed celery would be nice and there was a recipe in the cookbook. For dessert strawberries and cream. She thought the meal would be especially nice she wanted salted nuts and olives.

In the store she remembered she would need ever so many more things—rolls and butter and coffee. The young man who took the order was helpful. He reminded her to buy eggs, a bottle of milk and fruit for breakfast.

The purchases, set out on the counter, astounded Cherry. There were so many packages and they were so big.

"I'll carry them out to your car," the clerk offered.

"I'm sorry but I-I haven't a car."

"We can send them but we charge 10 cents for delivery service."

Cherry nodded. She was counting out money to pay the bill. Three dollars and 86 cents. She dug out the last coin from the bottom of her purse and discovered there were only six pennies left.

"I guess I'd better take the things with me," she said hesitantly. The obliging clerk crowded the groceries into three big sacks. They filled both the girl's arms. Balancing the heavy load perilously Cherry set off down the street.

She had not gone a dozen yards when the sound of an automobile horn attracted her attention. Cherry turned to face Max Pearson at the wheel of a black roadster. He had pulled the car to the curb.

"Going to let me give you a lift, aren't you?" Pearson called as he stopped to the pavement. He was smiling.

Evening Herald Pattern

A light topped bodice on this wee maid's dress is so charming and different.

And it's the easiest thing imaginable to make it.

Isn't it darling the way it simulates a front scalloped collar?

For the original, a yellow and white linen print used plain toning yellow linen contrast.

Other schemes as orange-red linen with plain white linen, plain pale blue pique with a blue and white dotted pique and green and white dimity print with plain white are effective.

Style No. 2702 may be had in sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 10 requires 2 1/8 yards of 25-inch material with 5-8 yard of 35-inch contrasting.

Two Purpose

This hat serves two purposes. The stitched piping trim can be worn for winter without the braided crown and with wash dresses you can have different colored kerchiefs which fasten with a button and buttonhole over the right eye and tie a knot at the back, making a neat finished crown.

Gurske Allows M. H. S One Hit; Bristol Wins 2-0

Manchester Can Win Tennis Championship

Need Victory At Meriden Today To Win League Title; Victory Over Bristol, 5-0, Indicates Triumph In Final Match.

Another Central Connecticut Intercollegiate League athletic championship is expected to come to Manchester High school late this afternoon when the league tennis finals are played in Meriden-weather permitting.

Manchester and Meriden are tied for first place with only the match against each other to play. The locals won 3 to 2 when they played in Manchester a few weeks ago and with Bobby Smith, runnerup for the state schoolboy title, playing this afternoon, Manchester is regarded more or less of a certain winner.

Manchester will probably place its three best bets, Smith, Britton and Urbanetti, in the singles, with Britton and Smith forming one doubles combination and Urbanetti and Brozowski the other. Saturday Manchester evened matters with Bristol, the only school to beat the "Silk City" combination in league competition.

Manchester beat Bristol worse in tennis than Bristol beat Manchester in baseball, triumphing five matches to none. Smith played number one singles and took the measure of Con Becker 6-3, 6-2. Then he went to the baseball game in which it was necessary to him to participate in order to receive his letter.

BASEBALL TONIGHT

Both local twilight leagues resume play tonight. In the Y. M. C. A. loop the Eagles and Pirates clash. The north end field has been completely renovated. In the West Side circuit the Airs and Pilots will play on the Four Acre lot.

McCLUSKEY RUNS TOMORROW NIGHT

Makes Farewell Eastern Pre-Olympic Appearance In His Home Town.

Tomorrow night marks the last time Manchester admirers of Joe McCluskey will have an opportunity to watch the town's first Olympic hero in action before he leaves for the West coast. The 33-year-old track star is scheduled to run a two-mile exhibition at the West Side playgrounds. The race will start promptly at 8:30 o'clock.

Opposing McCluskey will be a three-man relay team from Manchester High school consisting of Al Lengel, Sandy Burns and Billy Luce. The first two will run three laps apiece and the baton will then be handed to Murch to travel the last four laps and light it out at the finish. Murch is the new mile sensation discovered by Coach Charles W. Wigren at Manchester High. He is being hailed as a "second McCluskey."

Whether or not McCluskey will be able to beat three freshmen is a question. The first two boys, Lengel and Burns, are expected to keep about even with McCluskey and Bycholski, who will probably do about the same until the last lap when he will undoubtedly throw the throttle wide open in an effort to break the tape ahead of the Fordham flash. The feature will be the duel between McCluskey and Murch down the home stretch.

St. John Hits Homer As Gems Win Another

The Kentucky Colonels will find themselves playing an undefeated baseball team when they take the West Side field against the Manchester Gems here Friday night. The Gems have won seven straight games.

Saturday the Gems played the Winsted A. C. at Gilbert High school park in Winsted and scored an 8 to 4 victory. One of the features of the battle was a home run by "Lefty" St. John who clouted the first ball pitched in the second inning over the fence in right field. "Woody" Walleit and Jack Stratton, battery for the Herald in the West Side league last season, worked their first game for the Gems and went like first class veterans. Walleit was a trifle wild but steady in the pinches. He was given good support.

Frank Conway, former New Haven Eastern League hurler, occupied the mound for Winsted but was nicked for 17 bingles by the Gem batters. Stratton, Walleit and Ernie Dowd each made three hits. Unusual in the fact that ten left-handed bats took part. Winsted used six and the Gems had four.

Lermond Beats Record Set By Joe McCluskey

New Olympic Threat Looms To Manchester Boy's Olympic Aspirations; Mark Is Lowered Nearly Five Seconds.

New York, June 13.—(AP)—The East's challenge to Olympic hopes from other sections of the United States is not to be overlooked according to the boys who said it with performances instead of words in the two day Metropolitan Amateur Athletic Union meet which also served as a district trial for Olympic candidates.

Three marks were recorded in the field events Saturday and Sunday that were better than the winning performances in the 1928 Olympic games. Two of these nine performances were turned in by members of the 1928 United States team who are trying to learn places on this year's squad.

Lt. George Lermond set himself up as a real threat in the three thousand meter steeplechase when he clocked in 9:55 8-10 nearly five seconds better than the American record Joe McCluskey set earlier this year and only two seconds slower than the best time which Lermond ran the event at Amsterdam.

John P. Anderson, former Cornell star, who took fifth place in the discus throw at Amsterdam with a 147 foot toss, showed his "come-back" stuff again by flinging the plate 186 feet six inches, more than a foot farther than Clarence "Bud" Hauser had to throw it to win in 1928.

RUTH WALLOPS TWO HOMERS, YANKS WIN

St. Louis Browns Real Jinx To Senators; Braves Lose In 13th.

By Associated Press For the information of American League pitchers the sure way of stopping the Washington Senators is to put on a St. Louis Browns uniform. The Senators can hold their own with the rest of the league but as soon as they see one of Bill Killefer's clobbers take the mound they roll over and play dead. So far this season they've played the Browns seven times and the Browns have walked away with six victories.

George Herman Ruth personally conducted the New York Yanks to a 18-5 victory over Cleveland, hitting his 19th and 20th homers and a double to drive in six runs. The Detroit Tigers did some high powered batting in the fifth and seventh frames to tumble the Philadelphia Athletics 6-5, despite Jimmie Fox's 22d home run.

Peter Jablonowski, former Cleveland hurler made his first start for the Boston Red Sox, and was the victim of his teammates errors, bowing 4-1 to the Chicago White Sox. In the National League the Chicago Cubs stretched their lead to a game and a half by winning a wild 13 inning battle from the Boston Braves 5-3. Art Shires homer in the seventh sent the game into extra innings.

One of a large group of St. Louis Cardinals grandees, Bill Rhem, pitched the Phillies to an easy 4-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Making his first start in Philly regalia, Rhem allowed only six hits. The two other National League games were rained out.

LOCAL PIRATES LOSE AT WETHERSFIELD 5-0

The Wethersfield A. C. ball club scored its seventh victory of the season and the sixth of its last seven starts at Wethersfield Saturday, shutting out the Manchester Pirates, 5 to 0.

Vicino pitched brilliant for Wethersfield, allowing only five hits and not permitting a Manchester player to reach third base. Gaslow led the winners' offense with a home run and a double. Bergendahl contributed a fine catch of a high, twisting foul.

How They Scored H. Sonstrom bolted a short fly to center that wanted for a hit and Falco scored, Gurske stopping at third. Marco filed to Rautenberg in center and Gurske scored after the catch. Utke walked. Sonstrom was caught at second and his brother strayed out to end the troublesome inning.

Locals Take Second Position In League

Neubauer Pitches Fine Game For Manchester But Mates Cannot Give Him a Single Run To Work On; Both Scores Made In Seventh.

Manchester High closed a successful baseball season Saturday with a 2 to 0 defeat administered by Bristol. The Silk City team won 11 games and lost only three during the campaign and finished second to Bristol in the Central Connecticut Intercollegiate League. Francis Mahoney was elected to captain next year's team.

Bristol won Saturday's contest mainly because Albie Gurske was pitched almost perfect baseball for his teammates. He allowed only one hit that a clean drive to right center by Mickey Katsaven in third with no one on base. He retired thirteen batters on strikes, walked only two and allowed but one runner to reach second, that being Jimmy O'Leary who walked and stole second in the seventh.

Billy Neubauer pitched very creditably for Manchester but without a single run to help along his cause, Neubauer's efforts were in vain. Only six hits were made off his delivery. Neubauer also struck out six men. Neither team scored for six innings and then Bristol suddenly broke forth with a rally that produced its pair of tallies in the seventh.

Andy Falau, Bristol's great catcher, opened with a single through Kerr at short. Gurske bunted down third and the throw by Ruguskus to first was bad and the runners raced to third and second, respectively with no one out. Gurske crashed into O'Leary at first on the play.

How They Scored H. Sonstrom bolted a short fly to center that wanted for a hit and Falco scored, Gurske stopping at third. Marco filed to Rautenberg in center and Gurske scored after the catch. Utke walked. Sonstrom was caught at second and his brother strayed out to end the troublesome inning.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

The dollar you spend now is worth $1.50. The dollar you save now is worth 75c.

A bobbed-haired, scantily clad flapper was making her application at the peary gates, and St. Peter was putting her through her category.

St. Peter—What was your occupation?
Flapper (tittering)—Men called me a gold digger.

St. Peter—I'm sorry, but on account of the paving we can't let you in here.

Photographer (to lady about to be photographed)—Please look pleasant, lady, and in a few minutes you may resume your natural expression.

If the money in the savings banks of this country were distributed evenly, every person would get just $220. The first word in the above sentence is all that is important.

Doctor—You are overworked. You must take more exercise—much more exercise.

Patient—You mean I must work harder?

Doctor—Just the opposite. You must do gymnastics.

Patient—But I am the circus acrobat.

Idle dollars are like the loafing individual—contributing nothing to the prosperity of the owner of the community.

Human Virtues

- Be brief tactfully.
- Be aggressive pleasantly.
- Be emphatic diplomatically.
- Be positive graciously.
- Be right always.
- Be kind always.

Tit for Tat: For all any of us knew, the fish that got away may go back home and lie about the size of the bait he stole.

Bank Customer (looking at canvas stretched from wall to wall over top of teller's cages)—Well, well, what's this? I didn't know the circus was in town.

Bank Teller—What do you mean?
Bank Customer—With the tent-like coverings above you and ladders wherever you look, this bank has the appearance of a circus grounds.

Bank Teller—Oh, that isn't it at all. We're having the ceiling lowered about six feet.

Bank Customer—What's the big idea?
Bank Teller—To cut down on the overhead.

What some folks would call good coffee others would refer to as the most scandalous concoction ever brewed by man—or woman. It's all in the taste. Hooch is the same way.

Mrs. Eastend—You'll not find me difficult to suit, Norma.
Norma (the new maid)—I'm sure not, Ma'am; I saw your husband as I came in, Ma'am.

"Dear, dear, you mustn't play with papa's razor, baby. Mother has a can of peaches to open."

A few left-overs: No man ever made anything by disobeying a po-

litanist's order to "move on." He moves anyhow. . . . Everybody discounts the boasts of parents when they tell about their married sons and daughters. . . . Stop and think how carefully you would treasure your good health if you had to pay a fancy price for it at the store. . . . If a stranger fails to respond to your friendly overtures, you can bet good money he is a friend of some- one who doesn't like you. . . . Some young ladies toil not—rather do they spin—yet they can weave a spell around any man's heart. . . . The most patient persons we know are those awaiting for the meek to inherit the earth.

What every woman knows: "Beauty is in the eyes of the beholder," says an old proverb. This is what makes mirrors so popular.

Dolly—Handsome men are always conceited.

Dick—Not always; I'm not.

BOW-LEGGED BUSINESS

Evansville, Ind.—Bowlegged men owe a lot to Mrs. Minnie Koehne. It was revealed at the Indiana Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club's convention here that Mrs. Koehne runs a business in South Bend that manufactures a device to make pants hang straight on bowed legs. She says she's even sold her appliance to two princes of royal blood.

SANTA CLAUS

Vancouver, B. C.—His concern over the plight of Mrs. Catherine Luton caused William Horne to fall into the clutches of the law. He was arrested on two charges of theft, and a charge of stealing an automobile. He was found in the car with a large quantity of women's clothing. "I stole, not for any material gain for myself, but to help Mrs. Luton," he said. "She is destitute and alone. Her husband is serving six months in Oakalla."

GREEN WOOD INCREASES CHIMNEY FIRE HAZARD

Many People Burning Wood In Stoves Now For Cooking and For Heat and Chimneys Are Sooted.

Manchester is due for more chimney fires this winter than ever before, if green wood is burned this autumn and winter. Due to the conditions existing today, residents of the outlying districts have gone back to the wood stove to supply heat and for cooking purposes.

Many yards in the outskirts are piled high with oak, maple and birch wood-piles, destined to be burned this winter. Pastures have been cleaned of straggling birches; large oak and maple and elm trees have been cut to supply fuel and the old-time saw-rigs have again put in an appearance about town.

For years the fire departments were kept on the jump during the fall and winter, due to the large amount of chimney fires, caused by burning unseasoned wood. In the old days, wood was cut in the late winter and spring, seasoned all summer, and split and piled in sheds out of the weather for the next winter. There is no danger to chimneys from burning dry wood, the green, unseasoned wood causing most of the trouble by caking and sooting the chimneys.

Several men who formerly worked in the local industrial plants have made saw-rigs out of old cars and are prepared to cut wood during the summer months.

CASES OF SIX UNDER ARREST AWAIT JUDGES

Drunk Driving, Traffic Violations and Theft Charge Over For a Week.

Six arrests were made over the week-end all of which cases will be continued until June 20 when Judge Raymond A. Johnson and Deputy Thomas Ferguson will return from the Republican National convention in Chicago.

John T. Johnson of 52 Ashford street, Hartford, was arrested by East Hartford police late Saturday night following an accident at the corner of Griswold and Center streets. Johnson, driving west, struck a car driven by Frank Donadio of 90 Walnut street at the intersection and continued on without reporting the accident.

There were several witnesses at the scene of the accident, all of whom reported the car involved in the crash was a Ford coupe. Captain Herman Schendel telephoned the information to the East Hartford police and shortly afterward a Ford sedan was picked up with a badly smashed fender. The car was stopped for investigation, and the driver held on a charge of drunken driving.

The charge against Johnson here is reckless driving and evading responsibility. Sergeant John McMillin investigated.

Stanley Slaga, 16, of Union street was arrested Saturday by Officer Herman A. Muske for the theft of a Ford sedan and a saw-gumner and a box of wrenches from Raymond L. Lathrop who is engaged in cutting wood and lumber on a lot off Union street.

Edward L. Moxier, 24, of 305 Autumn street, was arrested Saturday night and Raymond Bronke of 65 Bissell street, East Hartford, was arrested early Sunday morning and charged with driving a motor vehicle on the rim of the wheel. The charges against these men are new to the local court. The arrests were made in the respective cases by Officers Joseph Prentice, who found that Moxier had driven from Spencer street at the Manchester line to his home on Autumn street and Officer John Cavagnaro who arrested Bronke for driving on the rim along Woodbridge street from the Green.

Francis A. Remkiewitz, 20, of 57 Village street, Rockville, was arrested Saturday on Oakland street by Officer Herman Muske for driving without a license and an improper registration.

James Gilbert of 21 Peck street, Fall River, was arrested near midnight last night by Officer Joseph Prentice for driving without a license.

Mrs. Rose Kronick of The Wilrose Dress Shop is in New York making another selected purchase of exclusively styled frocks for summer wear.

MRS. BINA WEST MILLER CONVENTION SPEAKER

Mystic Review Members Hope To Hear Their Supreme President From Chicago.

Mystic Review, Woman's Benefit Association members, will be interested in the news that their supreme president, Mrs. Bina West Miller, of Port Huron, Michigan, will undoubtedly have the honor of addressing the Presidential nominator of Herbert Hoover during the Republican National Convention in Chicago this week. It is of course not known exactly what hour on Wednesday or Thursday this will take place. Members are requested to watch press announcements.

Mrs. Miller is not only one of the country's outstanding business women and head of the largest insurance organization of women, managed solely by women in the world, but she has found time to take a deep interest in Republican politics, and has been honored on previous occasions by election to prominent committees.

The Beethoven Glee Club will rehearse at the Emmanuel Lutheran church at 7:30 o'clock tonight, in preparation for the reception at the church Friday evening and the Luther League convention the following week-end. The children's chorus will rehearse at 6:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hess of Pine street celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage yesterday. They had planned no special observance and were pleasantly surprised when invited to dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kittle of Summit street Sunday evening. The centerpiece was a beautifully decorated wedding cake made by the Center Cake and Pie Shoppe. Later in the evening another surprise came in the shape of a fine chest of silverware, the gift of a group of their friends.
