TEACHERS OF VERNON'S SCHOOLS APPOINTED

One Member Added To High School Faculty Owing To Increased Enrollment.

Superintendent of Schools Herbert O. Clough has announced the list of teachers for Vernon schools for the year 1932. There has been one change at the Rockville High school. Miss Helen Smith of Manchester is to take the place of Miss Mary Eunice Sprout as teacher of modern history and English. A new teacher has been added to the High School faculty. Francis O'Loughlin, son of Dr. and Mrs. T. F. O'Loughlin of Elm street, will teach mechanical drawing and algebra. This has been made necessary by the large number of pupils enrolled. The full list of teachers follows:

High School—P. M. Howe, principal; A. L. Dresser, science; Kenneth W. Little, machine shop and mechanical drawing; Paul J. Roden, woodworking; Margaret Hart, head commercial department; Mary Whitteley, mathematics; Elizabeth Towle, French, English; Verne Hall, history and civics; Grace Keirstead, physical training (girls); Wendolyn Cook, biology; Mary E. Darling, commercial; Elizabeth Dixon, English; Elizabeth Weed, English; A. E. Chatterton, sub-master, mathematics; Della Partridge, head English department; Margaret McLean, domestic science; Esther J. Fellows, Latin; Eileen Murphy, French; Harriet Wood, English; Miss Helen Smith, English, history; Alice K. Fay, commercial subjects; Barbara Lanckton, commercial; Elizabeth Burger, bookkeeping; Francis O'Loughlin, mechanical drawing, algebra.

Special—Malcolm G. Humphreys, music; Anna B. Hendrick, sewing; Lucia Chalker, drawing. East School—Annie E. Andrews, principal, Grade 8; Evelyn Waltz, assistant, Mrs. W. B. Kibe, Grade 7; Mildred E. Stacy, Grade 7; Florence R. Whitlock, Grade 6; Ruth F. Custer, Grades 5 and 6; Alice F. Clough, Grade 5; Alice Medcott, Grade 4; Mrs. Nelson Read, Grade 3; Constance Brooks, Grade 2; Lilian Randall, Grade 1; Bessie C. Durfee, kindergarten.

Maple Street School—J. W. McClellan, principal, Grade 8; Dorothy R. Wood, assistant, Grade 7; Bessie K. Heck, Grade 7; Modeste Dubay, Grade 6; Charlotte Dreacher, Grade 5; Hattie R. M. Barr, Grade 4; Caroline L. Forster, Grade 3; Mary Wendtner, Grade 2; M. Helen Hendrick, Grade 1; Marjorie Stephens, kindergarten. Grades 4, 5 and 6: Mrs. Julia S. Touhey, Grades 1, 2 and 3; Talcottville School—Annie W. Herring, Grades 1-6.

Vernon Center School—Helen Jacquemin, Grades 1-6. Dobsonville School—M. Gertrude Herkell, Grades 1-6. Ogden's Corner School—Ruth Tyler, Grades 1-6.

Doboz Post Meeting. Stanley Doboz Post, American Legion, held an important meeting in G. A. R. Hall on Tuesday evening when bulletins were read on the membership drive and the section of the World War Veterans Act covering term insurance held by veterans as amended by Congress and signed by the president on June 24.

Each officer of the local Post has pledged his support to the department chairman on membership to work for a larger quota of members before the convention to be held in Waterbury, August 17, 18 and 19. There were three guests, Miss Gertrude Sweeney of Hartford, a member of Stanley Doboz Post, and Miss Marjorie Cormack, members of Jane Delano Post of Hartford. They were called upon for remarks.

There was a special meeting of the delegates and alternates to the district meeting to be held at East Woodstock on Sunday, when one of the local members will be given support for the office of district vice president.

To Install Officers. Mrs. Annie Kravane of Hartford, Deputy Great Pocahontas of Kiowa Council, Degree of Pocahontas, will install the officers of the local council at a meeting in Red Men's Hall on Friday night. She will be accompanied by a large staff of officers. The officers to be installed for the ensuing six months are: Pocahontas, Mrs. Ruth Edmonds; Wenonah, Miss Mary Bresnahan; Prophetess, Mrs. Flossie Chapman; Powhatan, George Weber; second scout, Miss May Phillips; first runner, Mrs. Ellen Fiss; first runner, Mrs. Katherine Preuss; second runner, Mrs. Anna Starke, Mrs. Florence Kraus, Miss Catherine Phillips and Mrs. Rose Marcus; first counselor, Mrs. Bertha Weber; second counselor, Mrs. Bertha Hayes. The auditing committee includes John Kuhnly, Mrs. Nellie Meyers and Mrs. Bertha Weber. All officers are asked to wear white on the evening of installation.

Notes. Mrs. Earl Prutting, chairman of the Emblem Club Cutting committee, together with her assistants are making plans for the annual outing of the club to be held at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Romeo at Crystal Lake on Wednesday, July 13. Transportation will be provided. Cars will leave the Elm Home on Prospect street at 1:30 p. m. Rev. H. B. Olmstead, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, will take his annual vacation in August, and during that month there will be but one service with a layreader in charge.

Miss Muriel Casin of New York City is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Stone of East Main street.

Mrs. Frank Burns of Grand avenue is critically ill at her home. Jack O'Loughlin is spending the summer in Old Lyme. Mr. and Mrs. Francis Pinney of Brooklyn, N. Y. have returned home after spending the past few days with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pinney of Maiden Lane.

Lewis Edwards of Pawtucket, R. I., is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Anna Edwards of this city. Mrs. Maybelle Green and children of Amsterdam, N. Y., are visiting this week with the former's mother, Mrs. Emeline Ludwig.

PUBLISHER DROWNS. Hubbards, N. S., July 7.—(AP)—Philip Grosset, member of the New York publishing firm of Grosset, and Dunlap, drowned in Lake Lawton last night when his canoe overturned. Mrs. Marjorie Miner of San Francisco, who was with him, was rescued.

New York, July 7.—(AP)—Philip Grosset, who drowned in Nova Scotia last night, was a brother of Alexander Grosset, president of Grosset and Dunlap, Inc. He was 53 years old and resided in New York. He leaves his widow and one daughter.

Roger J. Murphy, chairman of the committee stated no ordinance was needed. Instead a resolution was read followed by a motion that carnivals be barred from coming here.

Auxiliary To Finish. The American Legion Auxiliary is making plans for its annual outing which will be held in the near future at the Brigham cottage of Crystal Lake, with Miss Lucile Brigham as hostess. Miss Jennie Bats is chairman of arrangements and she will be assisted by Mrs. Elsie Butland and several other members. Plans will be completed at the next regular meeting, Wednesday, July 13.

Priscilla Turner Winner. Priscilla Turner, young daughter of Mrs. Rhodabell Turner of Union street, an attractive little dancer, took part in a costume parade held in South Glastonbury, July 4. She was awarded one of the prizes.

AUTOMOBILE JUNK YARD RAPIDLY DISAPPEARING

Three Years Ago 400 Piles Where Discarded Machines Were Dumped Were Counted In State.

The automobile junk yard is fast vanishing from the Connecticut landscape. Three years ago there were approximately 400 of these so-called burying grounds and now comparatively few are left. A bulletin of the Department of Motor Vehicles today cites the fact that the number of junk yards licensed as legal businesses under state auspices has dropped from 81 in 1929 to 52 in 1931. In 1930 there were 60. The number dropped rapidly after the state enacted legislation requiring proprietors to take out licenses.

Recognize Beauty. "Citizens of Connecticut" have come to realize that the beauty and attractiveness of the state's highways, forests, streams and hills are assets which will provide pleasure and opportunity for recreation for thousands of residents and for many non-residents under state auspices. The state's highways, forests, streams and hills are assets which will provide pleasure and opportunity for recreation for thousands of residents and for many non-residents under state auspices.

In pursuance of this conviction the state some years ago commenced to develop policies of roadside improvement through two of its departments. The first of these two movements, that of highway planting and beautification which is now a part of the State Highway Department program, nothing is to be said here except that in the opinion of the writer it constitutes one of the most extensive steps forward in human relations which has ever been made.

Of the other, more intimately connected with the Department of Motor Vehicles, a great deal can be reported. "This Department, in view of the fact that it is more or less a disciplinary unit, resorted from the Legislature a mandate to employ reasonable means to get rid of certain objectionable features of highway exploitation for private gain, and has been exceedingly fortunate in its ability to accomplish that end without undue legal opposition and in a spirit of fair play.

"Prior to 1929 garage keepers everywhere had started out to help dispose of worn-out and wrecked motor vehicles, piling them up on some land adjacent to the highway. By legislative action it became necessary to be licensed to accomplish this purpose. As a result the greater proportion of these junk yards soon disappeared."

C. A. C. MEETINGS

The summer schedule of meetings to be held at the Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs is as follows: July 5-16, Baptist Young People's convention; July 17-24, Junior short course; July 25-31, Women and Home week; July 31-Aug. 6, Senior short course; August 9-30, Connecticut Council of Religious Education; Sept. 6-16, New England Scout executives.

17-YEAR LOCUST TURNS UP AGAIN

New Haven, July 7.—One of the most curious of all inhabitants of the insect world, the 17-year locust, has appeared this summer in Connecticut. Entomologists of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station have found it in the woods at Lake Gaillard, North Branford, and near Meriden and it is believed to be present in Litchfield County.

This locust requires 17 years for its full development. The female lays eggs in the twigs of trees. The nymphs hatch and fall to the ground, into which they burrow and where they lay for 17 years, sucking the sap from the roots of trees. At the end of this time, they crawl out and shed their shells, which may be found clinging to trees and shrubs. The male makes an unmistakable sound, a loud and distinct whir, which ceases when he is disturbed, but the female is silent. The locust is a colorful insect, having bright red eyes and transparent wings veined in orange. The body is about an inch and one-half long.

The United States Bureau of Entomology keeps track of the various broods of 17-year locusts. This appearance is believed to be made by brood No. 7, which was in Westchester County, New York, in 1915. Brood No. 3 has been recorded by the Station in 1894, 1911 and 1928.

DO YOU INHALE?

"We've spilled the beans"
in the smoker's interest

Do you inhale? "You've spilled the beans!" said the cigarette trade when first we asked this simple question—a question which long had been treated with silence that would "shame a Sphinx!" Why? Wasn't the subject vital enough to pursue? Or, was there a hidden reason for the general avoidance of the question by others?

Impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it! Do you inhale? Of course you do—and so, in the smoker's interest, Luckies have set faced to "spill the beans."

SOVIET RECOGNITION

It would be interesting to know just who is meant by the "certain quarters in Washington" where Colonel Frank Pope discussed Russian affairs a few weeks ago; because Colonel Pope has now in turn been discussing American-Russian affairs with men high in the councils of the U. S. S. R. government and has more than hinted at the possibility of a resumption of relations between Washington and Moscow—to be carefully and gradually arrived at. Colonel Pope is reported by the Associated Press to have presented to the Russians, for their opinion, a suggestion that the United States send an "unofficial" commissioner to the Soviet Union as a preliminary to possible negotiations for the establishment of normal diplomatic relations between the two countries.

Colonel Pope is an important person and a responsible one. He was assistant chief of the chemical warfare service and reorganized that service for the A. E. F. in the World War. He is a consulting engineer and investment banker. He built the first dye plant in the United States after the war began. He is director in several corporations. He has been, for four years, adviser to the Soviet Chemical Trust on the building of its great plant at Berzinsk. In a recent interview he said that he formerly disliked and distrusted the Bolsheviks but that "I have changed my mind. I think they are fine people, honest, invincible and courageous. I believe they will win through. I think America is making a grave mistake in not recognizing the U. S. S. R. and is losing a big business opportunity."

While America was riding the crest of its fictitious prosperity we thought we could afford the luxury of refusing to have anything to do with the Russians. We thought we could afford to be governed by our fears that, should we resume relations with the Soviet Union and trade with its great purchasing and selling agencies, our own people might become impregnated with the red stain. Very few of us indeed ever did much heavy thinking concerning the consequences of our attitude toward that great assemblage of human beings in a country of immense size and unlimited resources—we didn't have to; we could get along forever without Russia.

Of course we could; but possibly it might make things a good deal easier and more comfortable for us if we didn't try to. Perhaps it might be very much to our advantage to quit altogether this business of getting along without Russia. Certain it is that such a policy is preventing us right now from doing a great deal of business with Russia, business that is now going elsewhere because the Russians are not good enough to be recognized by us.

It is therefore much to be desired that Colonel Pope's "certain quarters" in Washington are sufficiently authoritative and powerful to be effective. If they are, and if the super-patriots will only suspend for a little while their fitters and their denunciations of everything and everybody more radical than Nebuchadnezzar, perhaps in the course of time we could start up some factory fires and put a few thousand hands to work making things to sell to the Bolshies.

Newspapers, like individuals, are more or less creatures of habit. They ought not to be, of course; but they are. Being so, it frequently occurs that they proceed in an accustomed direction after all occasions for progress has come to an end. Everybody is familiar with the phenomenon of the persistent first-paging of certain news stories after the stories have gone "cold." The way some of the papers hung onto the Lindbergh baby story for many days after the public's interest had lapsed is a case in point.

For a good many years the dries have been good news. They were holding the reins over the American people and driving with a curb bit. It was impossible not to be conscious of them. Nobody ever knew what they were liable to do next—put the Indian sign on tobacco or make it unconstitutional to be an Elk or a Free Mason. They were in a never fading spotlight—held the center of the stage. Wherefore they were good news in spite of the mental and cultural dwarfage of so many of their leaders whose names were perpetually in print. They towered enormously because they stood on top of the greatest mass of misconception ever accumulated since the days of Peter the Hermit. There was no such thing as pretending they weren't a dominating interest. They were true first page stuff.

Now, as though by a terrific cyclone, their foundation of popular misconception has been destroyed. The erstwhile dry dictators and field marshals are suddenly flat down on the ground. And so placed there isn't one of them of stature enough to reach to the knee of an ordinary congressman or legislator. They are liable to be walked on without anybody noticing it.

Wherefore, it is submitted, the dry chiefs of yesteryear have become the smallest change, the merest chickenfeed, as news. What they have to say or what they propose to do is of somewhat less general interest than what the Czechoslovakian Political Club of the Sixth ward of Ashtabula proposes to do about the coming election. They are a last year's bird's nest, a last Christmas lollypop. They are done, over, a sour page of history long completed.

What the professional dries think or plan or say is now and will continue to be of the most casual interest, rapidly growing less. They are the Three Tailors of Tooley Street. Their following is gone. They no longer rate the first page. Now perhaps the cause of temperance will sometimes get a leading place in the press—a place to which its importance surely entitles it but out of which it has been persistently crowded for years by the press agents of professional prohibition.

RELIEF BILL

Before venturing upon any comment today on the controversy over the relief bill—now unfortunately taking on the appearance of a personal quarrel between the President and the speaker of the House—we wish to qualify a statement made in an editorial on the same subject yesterday.

In relation to the provision for the extension of R. F. C. loans to private concerns and individuals we said that "the provision for loans to individuals was inserted in the measure by administration leaders and it was then understood had the approval of Mr. Hoover." We cannot upon search of the files, discover confirmation for that statement. It was at the time our impression—perhaps a mistaken one. At all events Mr. Garner is now assuming full responsibility for the proposal to put the federal government, as Mr. Hoover phrases it, into the "pawnbroking" business. He is certainly welcome to all the glory to be gotten out of it.

The proposal is, of course, an impossible one. And just because it is impossible it seems to us that it provides a very poor basis for the hazardous adventure of a veto if, as the Democratic leaders threaten, Congress refuses to amend the relief bill and puts the onus of its failure on the President in case he makes good his threat.

As a matter of fact it is highly probable that Speaker Garner, whose ruling thought is to get himself and Mr. Roosevelt elected next November, is hoping above all other things that Mr. Hoover will veto the relief bill. Then he and his Democratic associates can go storming up and down the land shouting that the President is to blame for everything—and such is the temper of the people that he will be very generally believed.

SMITH 'REGULAR'

Saturine, unsmiling, Alfred E. Smith has announced that he will "support the Democratic party"; that in his opinion the formation of a third party would not be practical at this time. Answering a direct question as to support of the Presidential candidate he said: "When you say you will support the party that means the nominees, the platform and everything the party stands for."

That is explicit. Smith will not bolt. But one may support a party in the way that the great majority of its members support it, by going to the polls on election day and casting a ballot—doing nothing else. There is nothing about Mr. Smith's statement to intimate that he will or may not do more than that. He may remain regular and yet contribute a great deal less than nothing to Mr. Roosevelt's chances of election. Or he may, as perhaps is more probable, come around to the point of view that it is up to him to display a reasonable amount of interest in the success of the Democratic Presidential ticket.

It is really quite a long time between now and November. And the habit of political warfare is strong upon such people as Al Smith, who have lived and breathed party politics all their lives.

CONGRESS FINDS NEW USE FOR ITSELF IN MAKING NEW CAMPAIGN ISSUES

By Rodney Dutcher, NEA Service Writer
 Washington—Congress has found a new use for itself. It will stay in session it can provide issues, from day to day, for the presidential campaign. The campaign threat is to be somewhat short on controversial issues as everyone knows. Speaking, that's one of the objects it has in staying in session as long as it has. Both the Democrats and the Republicans are busy making themselves a record on Federal unemployment relief.

The Power Grab
 That would have been an issue anyway, however. You get a better idea of the possibility when you observe how successfully the "power trust" issue has been revived. It had been just about forgotten, except by three or four of the western progressives, but now it's good for another few months' ride.

Prior to the conventions it isn't considered a very good form to try to draw prospective candidates out on controversial issues, but afterward, if Congress were sitting continually, members of the opposing parties could daily demand declarations of the standard-bearers.

They might have done that as they debated the electricity tax, which is going to be applied to the consumers instead of the power companies.

Switching the Burden
 It was really an extraordinary thing that happened in the Senate, when the conference committee switched the burden from the public utilities back to the private citizen's back, with subsequent confirmation by a Senate majority vote.

Some persons ordinarily given to conservative speech have described it as "high-handed," "contemptible" and "outraged."

Conference committees are supposed to make a final bill out of a House bill and a Senate bill, compromising and ironing out differences until a product is obtained which will satisfy both branches. The conferees from each house are expected to hold out for the details voted by their colleagues as far as it is practical.

A Roar Goes Up
 Least of all are they supposed to toss in any new ideas or any provisions that have been definitely rejected. So when the Senate conferees came back with a domestic electricity tax payable by the household after the Senate had turned down that proposal it was only natural that a roar went up that the "power trust" had been mixing its fingers into national legislation once more.

Sensors Reed Smoot of Utah and David A. Reed of Pennsylvania both offered amendments which placed the electricity tax on the consumer and the Senate voted both those amendments down.

It imposed a 3 per cent tax upon energy sold by privately owned power companies, exempting municipal plants, with the clear and obvious intent of making the companies pay the levy.

Buyers Must Pay
 It was argued that some of the tax might eventually be passed on to the consumers, but the power companies were opposed on the ground that it couldn't and it seemed that it certainly couldn't until various state regulating bodies had made provisions for including the tax in electricity bills. Instances were cited of power companies still making enormous profits.

But after the Senate had declared itself, Senators Smoot, Reed and Jim Watson of Indiana went with two Democratic Senators to meet the House conferees and they all came out with a provision specifically taxing the electricity buyers, the tax to be collected by the vendor.

What made this all the more remarkable was that the House, in its own bill, had not inserted any electricity tax at all.

Smoot and Reed got away with it, although Howell of Nebraska raised a point of order, and when overruled by Vice President Curtis, forced a vote on the ruling. Smoot and Reed said Congressman Crisp of Georgia, heading the House conferees, was responsible for the change. Crisp had argued that the tax on the utilities would ruin many of them and damage many investors.

The group which voted consistently against the consumers' tax was

HEALTH-DIET ADVICE IN NEW YORK

By Dr. Frank McCoy
 Questions in regard to Health and Diet will be Answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this Paper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed Envelope for Reply.

MY DIET FOR HAY FEVER VICTIMS

I have found it unsatisfactory to test the hay fever patient with the hundreds of different possible substances which may bring on the attack of hay fever in his particular case. I know that these tests are being used by many doctors at the present time, but I have found them entirely unnecessary since the allergic tendency may be entirely cleared up through a comparatively simple fasting and dieting regimen. It does not matter whether the patient was susceptible to golden rod pollen, cat fur, egg yolks or other substances. Once the underlying condition is cured, the patient becomes normal and can breathe in pollen or other substances, which previously brought on an attack of hay fever, with no more discomfort than anyone else. I have many letters on file which were sent to me by hay fever victims who had completely cured themselves by following my instructions and wrote to me to thank me for the relief. I was able to go through an entire season without any return whatever of their former symptoms.

In overcoming hay fever it is first advisable to cleanse the blood stream of the excess of accumulated toxic material, and second to adopt a diet free from those foods which furnish substances causing a congestion of the mucous membrane. It is also necessary to increase the circulation, which is always sluggish in these patients, and to improve the digestion. The best plan is to place the patient on a short water fast, taking nothing but water every half hour and using all that is desired. This water fast should be continued for at least five days. In hay fever, water is preferable to the fruit juices as the latter frequently produce a rash and are suffering from hay fever, and it has been my experience that everyone benefited by the water fast. During this fast the patient should seek to increase the elimination in every way possible; use two enemata daily of plain water and take at least two daily sponge baths in order to encourage the elimination of impurities through the many pores of the skin. Sun baths when possible are also helpful.

Following this water fast the diet must be very strict for several months. Here is the type of diet which I have found most suitable: Breakfast: The whites, but not the yolks of two eggs scrambled gently in a dry, ungreased frying pan over a slow fire. One cooked non-starchy vegetable, using as much as desired. The choice of stewed raisins, prunes or black figs, but no other fruits. Use from three to five prunes or an equivalent of the others. The hay fever victim must be careful not to use too many of the dried fruits.

Lunch: The following cooked vegetables using a small amount of butter for seasoning but no flour or cream gravy and no vegetables not listed: celery, spinach, small string beans, asparagus, summer squash, egg plant, oyster plant, cucumbers, beet tops, small carrots, artichokes, okra, chayotes and zucchini. In addition to the cooked vegetables above, the patient may have the choice of one or two of the following raw salad vegetables: celery, spinach, asparagus, cucumbers, parsley, small carrots, ripe olives, watercress, green onions, garlic, cabbage or other vegetables not mentioned in this list. Also use no salt or dressings except a little oil if desired. Butter may be used on the cooked vegetables. Use no vinegar or lemon juice on the salads.

Dinner: Two cooked, non-starchy vegetables and one or two raw salad vegetables as listed for luncheon. In addition one-quarter of a pound of lean beef, chicken, turkey, rabbit or mutton. Use no other kind of meat, fowl or fish. Use no dessert.

Remarks: Two cooked, non-starchy vegetables and one or two raw salad vegetables as listed for luncheon. In addition one-quarter of a pound of lean beef, chicken, turkey, rabbit or mutton. Use no other kind of meat, fowl or fish. Use no dessert.

The patient should use no milk, toast, chocolate, cocoa, malted milk, crackers, and no foods or drinks except those mentioned in the above list.

Hay fever will usually disappear under this regimen. In severe cases it is sometimes advisable to have local treatments of the membranes of the nose and throat with the actinolite-light in order to toughen the mucous membranes, but the majority of cases will improve just from the dietetic measures I have outlined.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Skin Disease)
 Question: F. D. writes: "Please give me the correct name of this skin disease in English: Lichen Planus Atropous Keratosis Senilis."
 Answer: There is no exact English word which describes this skin disease, but in a sentence I will try to explain its meaning. It is a certain kind of skin disorder which is supposed to be caused by certain algae or fungi, and is more common with elderly people who have oily skins. The treatment I suggest is with radiations from the ultra-violet light, and a fasting and dieting regimen to produce the proper blood cleansing.

(Rash and Petzitation)
 Question: Miss Madeline writes: "Whenever the warm weather occurs or whenever I take a hot bath, a rash seems to break out on my skin. It itches and then disappears after a few hours. What would cause this?"
 Answer: Such rashes are quite common in people who have sensitive thin skins. Some form of actinoid seems to be the underlying condition and the excess and extreme elimination of perspiration through the pores of the skin due to the heat causes them to become irritated. Diet seems to be an important factor in correcting the trouble, using large amounts of the alkaline-forming foods and smaller amounts of acid-forming foods. Always drink a large amount of water and increase the amount of exercise used each day.

made up entirely of Democrats and Republican progressives.
 In spite of general anxiety to rush through the tax bill, 33 Senators voted against the ruling even though it would have prolonged final passage indefinitely. The bill is bound to provide campaign fodder in some states.

 Beverly Payne, favorite of yesterday's movie fans, now hostesses bridge sessions at a New York hotel.
 And Marguerite Clark, of the same vintage, is reported operating a dancing school with her sister.
 How has the cycle of time does spin? Anna Mae Wong's kid sister, Ying Wong, is about to break into the movies.
 Ed Wynn, whose funny hats have helped make him famous, buys the most conservative beanies for street wear.
 As a music critic, signature, Pierre Key is the best challenge as a "natural"; although the late A. Toxin Worm was just about the last word in names for a press agent.
 Doug Fairbanks pays fifty bucks per bottle for hair tonic.
 And look at him... Maurice Chevalier rerehears his French songs in New York and his American songs in Paris. So what?
 Adrienne Allen, outstanding newcomer of last year's Broadway season, is already yelling "Uncle" in Hollywood.
 "So far I've done one rotten film and they seem to have decided I'm a palace actress," she postcards.
 Which means that she'll probably be a star on Broadway again next season.
 And one of the better stage actresses!
 And after all he's had to say about the movies, Theodore Dreiser is dickering to sell film rights to "Sister Carrie."
 Lupe Velas rarely answers when addressed in her native Spanish.
 Unless it's a fellow countryman.
 Miss West goes to Hollywood shortly.
 And Lilyan Tashman may desert the film for a time for a music show plant.
 The bonus army at Washington has been trying to get Elsie Janis to do a peace time "sweetheart of the regiment" act, but she can't see it.
 And Amelia Earhart still has that $20 with which she started for Europe.
 Like the late Captain Dolph's original first buck, she intends to keep it for good luck.

Motor Hints
 Thirty Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Mobile Club of Hartford.

NORGE

WHY PISTON RINGS LEAK
 When a motorist is told that the piston rings on his motor leak he usually concludes that this is a case of the rings losing tension and failing to press firmly against the cylinder walls. He does not stop to consider eight other leading causes. The joints of the rings, for instance, may have lined up thus permitting a direct exit for the oil to work up into the cylinders and gas vapor to work down into the crankcase. Excessively wide rings gaps also cause leakage. Frequently the rings are not wide enough for their grooves, or the grooves may be worn.

Ring sticking, usually from gum deposits, is a frequent troubler. Frequently rings are warped so as not to seat evenly on their lands. One of the lesser known causes of ring leakage is a result of excess oil pressure or the use of oil with too thin a body. In many cases rings are found to be worn or out simply from lack of oil.

Ring sticking, usually from gum deposits, is a frequent troubler. Frequently rings are warped so as not to seat evenly on their lands. One of the lesser known causes of ring leakage is a result of excess oil pressure or the use of oil with too thin a body. In many cases rings are found to be worn or out simply from lack of oil.

ADJUST TOE AND HEEL
 Much of the difficulty in adjusting brakes is due to the failure to obtain correct toe and heel positions of the shoes. The result is grabbing, squealing and various other annoyances too well known to bear repeating.

Inspection holes in the brake drums are handy for checking the clearances between the shoes and the drums at the toe and heel positions. The methods of adjusting vary with different systems, but where an inspection hole is provided the job is simplified. Some mechanics drill one-half inch inspection holes where there are not provided.

Occasionally the lining of the shoes will be a little too rough or too thick at the toe or heel. This can be filed off. Most of the grabbing of internal brakes occurs at the ends of the shoes, especially with the self-energizing type.

SPEEDS UP FUEL SUPPLY
 While modern engines are economical in proportion to the work they do there are times, such as when running fast up hill, when fuel is being used at an abnormal rate. It is at such times that the fuel line is apt to prove inefficient.

A small dent in the line may be sufficient to reduce the flow of gas to the carburetor. Such a dent is quite apt to be found where the line starts at the main gas tank.

The strainers at the carburetor and the fuel pump or vacuum tank may need cleaning out. In replacing these be sure to tighten the connections as any suction leakage will slow up the movement of the gas. The fuel pump may need a new diaphragm; the vacuum system may need a larger tank.

In summer "gas lock" often serves to slow up the movement of the fuel. This is essentially an overheating condition and it can be met by using baffle plates to protect the lines from engine heat.

It continues to be a mystery to many automobilists as to why modern clutches do not seem to need more adjustments. When plate clutches first came into the picture it was necessary to adjust them occasionally in order to compensate for wear on the linings. These linings still wear, but why not the usual adjusting.

This is best explained by referring to the clutch used on one of the popular cars. The stamped cover plate of this clutch carries twelve pressure springs and six release levers. The springs act directly against the pressure plate, thereby automatically compensating for all wear on the friction disc or facings.

Of course there is a limit to the process. When the facings become too badly worn or if the plates become warped, it is necessary to order a replacement of these parts. With the newer clutches, however, proper pedal clearance must be maintained.

You probably won't care to do this job yourself but it may enable you to help the mechanic reach a correct diagnosis of engine trouble cylinders for leakage.

First, the bottom of the crankcase is removed. Then the engine is cranked until the particular piston being checked is sent upward on its compression stroke. Now listen for a hissing his in the crankcase, but be careful not to confuse this with the normal hissing due to oil having drained from the rings. Repeat the test for each individual cylinder, removing the plug for those cylinders not being tested.

If the hissing of the escaping gas continues for a minute or two the indications are that the oil is not the right grade or is too thin. Rapid escape of gas, however, indicates broken, warped or gummed rings. It may mean a cracked piston or scaped cylinder walls.

Most car owners who know anything at all about the mysteries under the hood appreciate that if the supply of water in the radiator isn't adequate the engine will tend to overheat, but how many know that a reduction in the volume of water reduces the efficiency of the air cooling system?

What has air cooling to do with a water-cooled engine? The average motorist asks. The answer is that the engine is almost as good as dead.

Often in connection with the radiator, the main bearings have to be taken up to a certain point and then suddenly overheat when the water level gets too low.

HOW'S SHE HITTING?
 By James F. Donahue, NEA Service Writer

Motorists, like the woman who dotes on talking about her operation or imaginary illness, often imagine their cars are guilty of some false operation, and waste a lot of money in repair bills.

The most common of these imaginary illnesses is oil pumping, and many service station mechanics have been treating automobiles for that disease when, as a matter of fact, it didn't exist at all.

Of course, some motors do pump oil after they have been run for 10 or 15 thousand miles rather recklessly. But as many motors, suspected of pumping oil, are quite innocent of the charge.

When valves begin to wear and do not seat properly, they begin to leak and the spark plugs get cooled quickly. This begins to show in an engine miss or knock that grows more frequent as the trouble is continued. Immediately on observing this trouble, the hasty motorist diagnoses it as oil pumping and takes his car to a garage.

A good mechanic will only grind down the valves, clean or replace the plugs and return the car untouched as to pistons and rings.

On the other hand, the engine might be running on the wrong grade of oil to keep it going properly, an oil line connection might be loose, engine head or spark plug gasket might be defective, or the water pump might be leaking. Any of these might produce symptoms that may lead the driver or a disinterested mechanic to think the engine was pumping oil.

When the motor does pump oil, the solution lies not alone in the installation of oversize piston rings. Such an operation means the job is only half done. New rings often postpone the ultimate cure, but it must come in time.

That cure is rebering of the cylinders and installation of oversize pistons, as well as rings.

This operation may be expected after 25 or 30 thousand miles. The constant push and pull of the piston rod, hitting the piston against the sides of the cylinder walls, finally wears down these walls from their perfectly cylindrical shape to that of an oval.

The result is that oil is pumped up through the gaps formed at either end of the oval-shaped cylinder and the piston may be heard to slap against the sides of the wall.

The grinding operation, as a sure remedy produces over-sized cylinders but returns them again to their form. For these, oversize pistons must be installed, with new pistons and rings.

And the engine is almost as good as new.

GIRL RESERVES' YEAR DESCRIBED

Faculty Advisor Reports On Organization's Activities Last Year.

Miss Selah Richmond, faculty advisor of the Girl Reserves Organization at Manchester High school, has filed her report for the year ending in June and has both progress and success. Her report is as follows:
ACTIVITIES
Report of Girl Reserves (1931-32)
The Girl Reserves have had a very enjoyable and successful year. At the fourth meeting in the fall a recognition service was held for all new members. This was conducted by the new officers and the chairman of the membership committee, and was most impressive.
Many new members joined the club, making a total membership of 58. In inviting girls to join, our purpose has been for the club truly democratic. The membership has been open to all girls of the upper classes who wished to join and who were in sympathy with the standards of the club. Dues were thirty-five cents for the year. Meetings have been held every third Wednesday from 7:15 until 9:30 o'clock, with an average attendance of about 44.
Nearly all the meetings have included the following activities, usually planned and carried out by various groups and standing committees:
1. Picnic at Sunset Hill.
2. Girl Reserves in Manchester (Fest for the year)
3. Girl Reserves Around the World.
4. Recognition Service.
5. "Hobbies"—With a talk on airplanes by Eleanor Hubner.
6. Talk by Miss Kirschbaum, Y. W. Sec'y from Eastonia.
7. George Washington program.
8. Bridge party to raise money for "Y" work in China. ($10.00 was sent from our club).
9. "Good Manners"—an original play given by five Senior girls.
10. Party at North Manchester "Y".
11. Playette given by girls from Swedish Lutheran church. Report of the Bristol Older Girls' Conference—Doris Joluson.
12. Final meeting and picnic at Highland Park. Installation ceremony for new officers. Presentation of honor rings to four Senior girls—Louise Janssen, Hilma Dahlman, Phyllis Kratchmar, Louise Kelsch.
At Christmas, the girls filled two large boxes with toys, games, food, etc., for poor children of Manchester.
Bernice Harrison has acted as our inter-club council member, meeting with other Girl Reserve members of the county once a month at the Hartford "Y". She has also served as secretary of the Hartford County Girl Reserves.
Miss Casey has been invaluable as co-advisor, always being ready with helpful ideas, whether for programs or for games, and with her car for transportation.
SELAH RICHMOND,
Advisor with Marion Casey.
Officers 1931-32
President—Louise Janssen.
Vice President and Chairman of Membership Committee—Barbara Hyde.
Secretary—Phyllis Kratchmar.
Treasurer—Louise Kelsch.
Inter-Club Council Member—Bernice Harrison.

Chairman Publicity Committee—Jeanette Petticola.

THEATERS AT THE STATE

Double Feature Bill

One of the best balanced double feature bills shown for some time will be shown for the last time today. This program is headed by James Dunn, Peggy Shannon and Spencer Tracy in "Society Girl". The co-feature presents Nancy Carroll, Richard Arlen and Pauline Frederick in "Wayward Women". This exceptional program will be shown for the last time tonight.
Jack Oakie, Richard Arlen and Virginia Bruce in "Sky Bride" and Joan Bennett and Ben Lyon in "Week Ends Only," are the feature attractions on the new program that will be shown Friday and Saturday. "Sky Bride" unites Oakie and Arlen, the stars in "Touchdown" once more, this time in the air. However, it is not a war story, the two fliers are stunting for an air circus. "Sky Bride" is a thriller, there is a depth of human interest in the story that makes the central figures live gloriously. Furthermore, there are laughs, big laughs and plenty of them. Jack Oakie supplies the barrage of laughs which balances perfectly the virile attractiveness of Arlen. Virginia Bruce is a lovely young blonde who gives the right touch of romance that greatly adds to the entertainment qualities of "Sky Bride."
"Week Ends Only," with Joan Bennett and Ben Lyon, is ideal warm weather entertainment with plenty of speed and zip. It is the story of a society debutante who suddenly finds herself fatherless and penniless. She secures a novel job through a butler and blossoms out as a "week-end girl," paid handsomely by bored hosts and hostesses to supervise and entertain guests at week-end functions. The job leads to complications that are both entertaining and exceedingly humorous. Miss Bennett was never better than as the week-end girl. Ben Lyon, as a young artist struggling for fame, and a living, provides the other half of the delightful romance in his usual capable manner. Among those in the large supporting cast are John Halliday, Walter Byron, Halliwell Hobbs and Henry Armetta.
James Cagney in the picture that is the talk of the screen world, "Winner Take All," will be the attraction at the State Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Here is a picture that has everything—comedy, romance and thrills.

HEBRON

The Fourth passed off more quietly than usual, partly on account of the rain during the day. Also the presence of state police who patrolled the streets during the night before and early morning of the fourth helped greatly in controlling disorder. There was about the usual amount of bell ringing in the night, but church authorities were on hand to prevent too noisy or long a demonstration. Small boys jangled the school house bell at the center practically all day at intervals.
Henry Walter Breault, a soldier in the United States Army, who has just returned from Honolulu, in the Hawaiian Islands where he has been stationed for the past three years, spent the Fourth of July with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Breault. He left the next day for Newport, R. I., where he will be stationed for the next four months. His parents had not seen him for three years, and greatly enjoyed his visit.
Miss Marjorie Martin, of the Dalton, Mass., public library, spent the week-end and holiday with her mother, Mrs. Josephine Martin. Mrs. Martin and her daughter also entertained several other guests on the Fourth. Mrs. George Ladd, Mrs. O. S. Walker and daughter, Miss Mildred Walker of Worcester, Mass., were also Sunday guests.
Mr. and Mrs. Newton B. Winchell of New Haven and their daughter, Miss Gertrude Winchell were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gallagher on Monday.
Hebron Grange contributed a float in the Grange parade at Andover, July 4th. Quite a number of Hebron people were present although the rain put a damper on the proceedings, and kept many away.
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fillmore celebrated the first anniversary of their marriage, which took place July 4th, at the Hebron Center Congregational church in 1931. They spent several days on a motor trip, visiting Eastern Point, New London, and Watch Hill, R. I.
Herbert Porter, Gordon Bevin of East Hampton and Miss Helen Hough motored to Cornfield Point where they were the guests of friends on Sunday.
Alfred Bushey and Miss Olive Smith of Hartford were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel G. Horton at the Horton bungalow over the week-end and Monday.
Professor and Mrs. Eugene Chase entertained a number of their friends at "Shadow's Mark," their country home on the Bolton road, Monday. A party of about twelve partook of a picnic dinner served in the capacious kitchen before the big open fire-place in which a wood fire burned. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Longshaw K. Porritt and their two children, the Misses Sally and Allison, and Miss Caroline Hansell, of Hartford, as well as local friends.
Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Campbell of Hartford and a friend were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Griffin.
There was a good attendance at the Hopevale Methodist Church Sunday afternoon, at the service conducted by Allan L. Carr, pastor at St. Peter's Episcopal church. Mr. Carr plans to have a service there on the first Sunday of each month through the summer, at 2 p. m. Among those present were Mrs. Helen White and her daughter, Miss Betty White. The latter was formerly Miss Margaret White of the town of Danbury.

AS GAS GETS STALER GAS GETS WEAKER

STALE GAS IS FEEBLE... fresh GAS PACKS POWER

YOU KNOW that gasoline evaporates. But have you ever thought what that means? It means that, little by little, the "light ends"—the "easy starting" elements—drift off into thin air.
And as gas gets stale, a chemical change takes place—and hence the longer gas is stored, the weaker it gets. The less power it gives you. And it gets stickier, too. More apt to foul valves and carburetor. More apt to knock on the hills.
The whole petroleum industry has long known these facts. Gulf has long studied the problem—and now announces a system that assures the motorist of getting FRESH, FULL-POWERED gasoline!
First, by giving you the best gasoline that can be made—by so refining this gas that the elements that cause rapid deterioration are eliminated. Which means that Gulf gas stays FRESH longer.
Second, by getting this NEW-MADE gas to you in a hurry.
From refinery to pump, the Gulf distribution system is geared up to high speed. Gulf has carefully placed its many huge refineries in many sections of the country—so that a stream of FRESH gas can easily be kept flowing to every one of the 45,000 Gulf stations.
A tremendous fleet of fast trucks rushes FRESH gas to Gulf pumps every day in the year.
Only FRESH gasoline packs full power. Get all the power you pay for. Get gas that's FRESH-MADE—and that is delivered FRESH. Get Gulf—exclusively. You'll have a livelier motor. A quieter motor. A faster motor.

get THAT GOOD GULF GASOLINE—it's fresh

Y. P. B. ENDORSES 18TH AMENDMENT

Pass Resolution Re-Affirming Faith in Prohibition — 50 Attend Encampment.
Over the week-end of July 1-3, 50 young people representing every section of Connecticut gathered at Camp Mohawk in the Litchfield hills to attend the fifth annual encampment of the Young People's Branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. At the closing session the following resolution was passed:
"WE of the Y. P. B. fifth annual encampment believing that alcohol is a narcotic poison detrimental to health and character, and believing that the 18th Amendment has been the most effective method yet devised for abolishing the liquor traffic, resolve that we stand firm in our faith in the 18th Amendment and pledge ourselves to encourage and promote education against the liquor evil, renew our pledge to abstain from alcoholic beverages and support for public office only those who stand for law observance and law enforcement."

SEEK INSANE MAN
Hartford, July 7. (AP)—Police throughout Connecticut have been asked to watch for Roy E. Bassett, 49, insane convict who had escaped from Nebraska and Washington hospitals. Bassett is alleged to have obtained 200 false Travelers checks here this week. The checks bearing the name of the Royal Bank of Canada were of $50 denomination. The printer became suspicious, notified a banker who in turn notified the police.

POHLMAN GIRL DENIES RACE TO WED NEGRO

William street, this town, a friend of Miss Pohlman.

Rumor Starts

Two weeks ago Miss Pohlman came to her home here and announced to her parents that she had been married.

The parents could give no information and the bride herself denied having wed Thompson. But the story continued to grow until yesterday Miss Pohlman and her father, Mrs. Thompson, called The Herald to give a society item.

Authorities Queried Today The Herald was asked to do a story on the marriage. This aroused the news editor's suspicions that perhaps Miss Pohlman was not truthful in her own account of her wedding and the Harrison authorities were queried resulting in the information related above.

After his release from Wethersfield State Prison Thompson was employed for a time at the Orford Soap Company plant at the north end. It is reported that not officially, that Thompson left his work at the soap shop when he found he had been overpaid to the extent of seven or eight dollars. It was said at the time he felt that his honesty was being tested but this is said not to be true.

Plays in Orchestra Thompson learned to play the trombone like an expert while a musician in the prison band and after leaving his work he went to New Haven where he has since been playing with a colored dance orchestra. He has made frequent trips back to Manchester when not employed in the band and was seen several times by north enders with Miss Pohlman.

It is known that during the latter part of his prison term Thompson corresponded with a girl in New Haven purported to be his sweetheart and upon his release he had no time in getting in touch with her. How his new romance impresses his New Haven friend is yet to be chronicled. Those who have talked with Miss Pohlman's friends say she intends to live at her parents' boarding place in New Haven.

Not Colored Miss Pohlman's statement to the Harrison, N. Y., authorities that she is colored is not true. She comes of a well known and highly respected family at the north end. A few years ago she had a desire to go on the stage and appeared in amateur productions here as a dancer. Recently she has been acting as a model for students at the Hartford Art School. It is understood her parents will seek to have the marriage annulled and have taken steps in that direction.

Yesterday's announcement of the marriage in which Miss Pohlman made several errors was entirely without the sanction of her parents. They wish it understood that they do not countenance the girl's actions. She is of age and free to lead her own life, they say.

WAPPING

Miss Angie Barber of Brooklyn, New York, came to the Henry Loomis Homestead on Tuesday afternoon to spend the month of July with her mother here.

Two East Hartford boys, riding together on a bicycle Saturday night on the Wapping-Ellington road in the town of South Windsor, were struck by an automobile and seriously injured. Thomas McMahon, 14, of 22 Woodbridge avenue has a skull fracture. His condition is serious. Arthur Paradise, 16, of 22 Bolden street, may have had his skull fractured. He was bruised over the right eye and was cut in many places on the scalp. His condition is fair. Both boys are at the Hartford hospital, where they were brought by the driver of the car that struck them, Richard J. Marchese of 40 Irving street, Hartford, deputy dealer of weights and measures. He was driving towards Manchester, following about 50 feet behind another car, when the preceding car pulled out to permit him to pass. The bicyclist, Marchese came upon the bicyclists going in the same direction and swung further to the left to avoid hitting them. The boys also turned to the left and the fender of Marchese's car struck the rear wheel of the bicycle. State Police W. C. Nelson and Patrick O'Toole investigated and no arrests were made.

Mrs. Harry P. Files had as her guests at Bonney Eagle Camp in West Buxton, Maine, recently Kenneth Lee Juno, and Miss Marie McGowan.

Mrs. Hannah Weld has returned to her home in Brookfield, Conn., for the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson entertained a large number of friends and relatives at their new home on the Oakland road, opposite the Old Wapping Creamery, recently.

Mrs. May (Foster) Barber of Westfield, N. J., is the guest of her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Walter N. Foster. She expects to spend two weeks visiting relatives and friends around here.

EARTHQUAKE RECORDED Washington, July 7.—(AP)—A severe earthquake beginning at about 11:30 a. m., E. S. T., was reported today by Director J. S. O'Connor of the Georgetown University seismograph observatory. This continuing shocks the disturbance could not be ascertained immediately.

RECS ENDORSED IN 9TH'S SESSION

Sense of Miss Bennett who, she said, had the interest of the children of the town of Manchester at heart and that she is the "best woman in town for the job." The matter was finally put to vote by written ballots with J. Leo Fay and Mabel Rogers serving as challengers.

No Fay The number of votes cast was 133 with Martin receiving 90, Miss Bennett 41, with one blank and one doubtful. The winner was present at the meeting but Miss Bennett was absent. Incidentally, the position which Miss Bennett lost, was not a remunerative one. It calls for plenty of time and effort to handle recreational affairs and gives nothing in return. Martin's term will be for three years.

No other contests resulted and in each call for officers the incumbents were re-elected. They included Howell Cheney as chairman of the Ninth School District committee; Charles R. Hathaway as district treasurer; Earl G. Seaman and Louis H. Martz as auditors. The meeting lasted two and a half hours, the first hour of which was taken up with the long, detailed reports of the district officers as well as the reports of Nathan Hale School, Barnard School, Repairs, West Side Rec. Repairs, Bunce School, Repairs, Paid for Furniture, Rent, Special Heat, Bonds paid, Interest paid on Bonds, Notes paid, Interest paid on Notes, Payable.

Appropriations The appropriations voted by the meeting which was attended by only about 200 persons, were as follows: $14,000 to meet the current expenses of the Recreation Centers which is a reduction of $3,000 over last year; $11,500 for current maintenance of the library which is to be transferred to the Rec, a decrease of $3,500; $3,000 for necessary alterations to the Rec to provide for library accommodations; $5,000 to pay the town for rental of the building for recreational purpose; and $2,500 for miscellaneous.

It was explained that the town may decide to give the use of the East Side Rec without rental charge and Selectman George E. Keith asked the district to make this request at the annual town meeting in October. It was his opinion that inasmuch as many people from outside the district use the Recreation Center facilities, that the town should shoulder at least part of the expense.

Tax Paid A one mill tax was laid and this will amount to $95,975. Selectman Keith said it would be cheaper to borrow the money than collect it at this time. He favored a higher tax when business conditions improved. The matter was discussed at length between Mr. Keith and the chair of a standing vote Mr. Keith's tax was defeated 41 to 19.

The district voted to obtain a ten year lease of the Recreation Center building for library purposes. It was pointed out that by moving the library to the Rec more than $2,500 can be saved the district each year. The 1931-32 year cost was $109,024.82 as compared to $115,968.58 for the year which has just ended. Most of the increase came in teaching and transportation. The cost per student per year, however, was about eight dollars less, $108.58 against $116.60.

Chairman Cheney's report for the school committee showed a three per cent decrease in total grammar school expense for 1931-32 over the previous year. The year ending in 1931 cost $169,855.39 as compared to $160,685.39 for the past school year. This decrease of $9,169.99 is chiefly due to lower wages. The average daily attendance was 1,915 pupils, a drop of 85. The average cost of educating a pupil for the past year was $88.91 which is about a dollar less than the previous year.

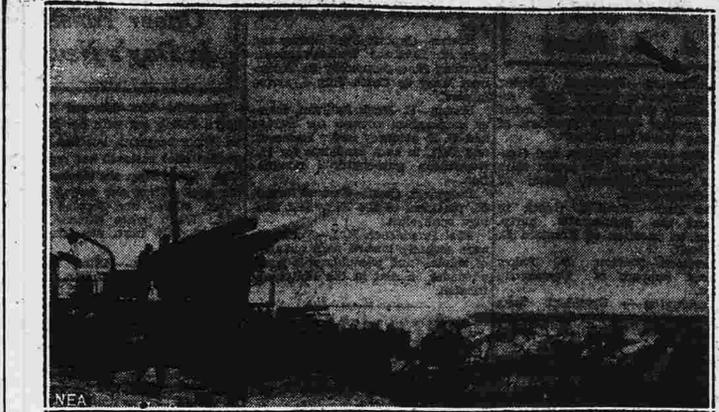

The chairman's report for Manchester High School revealed an increased expense of $6,942.06 caused by increased attendance, or 6.4 per cent. The 1931 figure was $109,024.82 as compared to $115,968.58 for the year which has just ended. Most of the increase came in teaching and transportation. The cost per student per year, however, was about eight dollars less, $108.58 against $116.60.

Collector's Report Tax Collector Fay's report showed that he had collected $84,006.00 which was divided as follows: Tax, interest and liens for 1929, $73,957; for 1930, $191,666; for 1931, $83,740.61. This leaves an uncollected balance of $6,840.42 for 1931 of 7.55 per cent. The collected tax percentage for 1931 was 92.45 per cent. Taxes due for previous years as follows: 1930, $1,896.29; for 1929, $1,772.36; for 1928, $233.78 and for 1927, $128.59, total $10,871.64.

Arrow Marks the Spot Where Shell Was Last Seen

See the shell? The arrow points to it. The missile was on its swift way out of the muzzle of an eight-inch mounted railway gun at Fort Hancock, N. J., when this picture was snapped. Thirty-nine shells, fired from guns like these and from twelve-inch mortars, put to rout a mythical enemy fleet eight miles away. The shots registered 232 seconds after being fired.

NEW LIBRARY Howell Cheney gave some interesting information concerning the changes that are to be made in removing the library from the Eldridge building on Main street to the new site at the Recreation Center. He explained that the plans for the new building have been prepared and on which bids had been secured called for a cost of about $2,500.

The library will be located at the west end of the Recreation building and the main section will be what is now the small auditorium with a stairs entering the second floor of the building from the interior of the library. The rooms above the library will be changed into working rooms where books can be rebound and numbered. There will also be a reference room leading to the south section of the first floor taking in the small office and running down towards the desk, taking up the space that is now occupied by reading tables. There will be provisions for reading tables in this section and there will also be enclosed a section that will contain reference books that are used by students of the upper grades of the district and High School. It will be necessary to use glass in covering in some of this section and also cases that will contain maps that might be used for reference purposes. The so-called reference room will be closed during the night. The office of the librarian will be on the first floor.

GRAND CIRCUIT

Cleveland, July 7.—(AP)—Another event record was topped in the Grand Circuit racing at North Randall track when Ankabar, driven by Parshall, won the second heat of yesterday's Ohio State stake for 12-class trotters in 2:01 3-5.

Senator McKelvy was a straight-heat winner in the 2:12 class trot, and Dick Reynolds was the victor in the 2:18 class pace.

Today's program of four races was topped by the Edwards Stake for 12-class pacers.

MCADOO ON VISIT TO HOUSE SPEAKER

Predicts California Will Go Democratic—Denies Report of Revenge Motive.

Washington, July 7.—(AP)—William G. McAdoo, said today after a conference with Speaker Garner that the Democratic vice presidential nominee had promised to speak in California during the campaign.

McAdoo, a former secretary of the treasury, said details had not been arranged, but added: "He will certainly appear at Los Angeles."

McAdoo was in excellent spirits after his early morning talk with Garner and predicted the Democratic ticket "will carry California, Mr. Hoover's own state."

He expressed gratification at Alfred E. Smith's announcement he will support the party ticket and described as "Republican propaganda trying to stir up trouble" reports he had thrown California's votes to Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt because Smith blocked him in 1924.

"I feel sure that Governor Smith, a fine Democrat, would support the ticket," McAdoo said. "It was extremely unfair to the governor to suggest that he would not support the party."

Not Revenge "There was no element of revenge in any action of mine at Chicago. If there had been, why should I have gone to Roosevelt who led the fight for Smith in 1924?"

McAdoo smiled as he made this statement. He added: "The condition in the country is so grave that we did not want to do anything to endanger the opportunity of the Democratic Party to render the service it can to the country at this time."

McAdoo was asked what he thought of Garner's speech yesterday, demanding that the loaning powers of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation be broadened.

Agrees With Speaker "I think the Speaker is absolutely right in the position he has taken," the former treasury head said. "It is absolutely indefensible to give all this relief to special interests and not to all the people."

"The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has helped many banks throughout the country but I notice by their year end statements in yesterday's papers that a great many are carrying in excess of 70 per cent in reserves. They are not lending and have stopped functioning."

"Therefore, it is essential to open other credit resources to the people."

"Mr. Garner's plan would have the effect of loosening all other credit. Its principle is sound. How can we run the government for the few."

"All this talk about danger to the Treasury, with the credit of the United States behind it, is pure bunk. I am quite sure a Democratic administration could use these resources to the benefit of the entire people."

"I think we have a splendid ticket and I have no more doubt of its election than that we are talking here."

McAdoo, who is a candidate in the Democratic Senatorial primary in California, said he did not "care to say anything about prohibition at this moment."

Later, McAdoo went to the Senate office building to discuss National committee matters with Senator Cohen of Georgia, a vice chairman of the committee.

"I am the National committeeman from California now," McAdoo said, "and I am trying to find out what I have got to do as such."

He said he had no other conferences scheduled for the day, and would visit with a number of personal friends before his departure tonight for Akron, Ohio, where his plane was forced down yesterday by fog.

He hopes to take off from Akron early tomorrow morning for California.

MRS. MCCORMICK'S FUNERAL Paris, July 7.—(AP)—Funeral services were held today for Mrs. Katherine Madell McCormick, mother of Colonel Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune. Mrs. McCormick died on Tuesday.

Dean Frederick Boskman of the American pro-cathedral conducted the services. Norman Armour, charge d'affaires of the American Embassy, attended with Col. DEMOCRATS PRAISE DR. DOLAN'S WORK

Open Fall Campaign With Testimonial Dinner For Local Man Last Night.

Connecticut's opening gun in the fall presidential campaign was fired last night at a reception in honor of Dr. Edward G. Dolan, a member of the Democratic state central committee as a representative from the Fourth Senatorial District, at the College Inn at Bolton. The reception was attended by more than 300 Democrats of the District and the gathering was pervaded by a high spirit of optimism over the chances of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt's election to the presidency.

Dr. Dolan Praised The reception was arranged by a committee headed by Selwyn James J. Covey of East Hartford to show their appreciation of Dr. Dolan's efforts at the Chicago Democratic Convention as contact man for the New England States. Dr. Dolan was highly praised for his untiring work and interest in the Roosevelt candidacy by all of the speakers, who included David A. Wilson, chairman of the State Central Committee; Colonel John L. Purcell of Hartford; Mrs. Rose Russell of Norwich and Labor Commissioner Joseph M. Tose of New Haven who acted as toastmaster.

Dr. Dolan pleaded for harmony in the Democratic party in Connecticut and stated that as far as he was concerned there is no longer a New Guard or Old Guard but a whole guard which would wholeheartedly fight for the coming campaign. He also outlined the trip to the Chicago convention, the convention itself and its aftermath.

Campaign Details Mr. Wilson explained the details of organizing for the fall campaign. Colonel Purcell spoke of the work necessary for victory and Mrs. Russell described her trip to the convention. Others seated at the head table were: Vincent Dennis, former chairman of the Democratic Town Committee of Hartford, George Kimball of Hartford and Peter Conner, head of the Victory drive.

Mancheater was well represented at the reception, as were Newington, Wethersfield, Rocky Hill, Marlborough, Glastonbury, West Hartford, South Windsor, New Britain, Bristol, Waterbury and South Norwalk.

Dancing The main hall of College Inn was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Refreshments were served and dancing followed until late in the evening. The large crowd present made it necessary to obtain additional chairs in order to provide seats for everyone.

SMITH TO SUPPORT NOMINEE OF PARTY

May Bury Hatchet Capitol hill was wondering today whether the famous "A" and "Frank" friendship would be patched up now that the party battling is over. The former governor gave no hint as to that in New York, and Mr. Roosevelt said just thirteen words after reading the Smith announcement. "Governor Smith's statement confirms my confidence that he would support the Democratic Party."

There was further reason for Rooseveltian confidence in a local development. The powerful Albany Democratic organization, long fiercely hostile to Mr. Roosevelt, both as governor and as presidential candidate—its leaders joined Tammany in a diabolical stand at Chicago—will lead their followers in a huge Roosevelt celebration tonight.

In big newspaper advertisements the Albany party leaders told about the "great neighborhood party" for the governor. Privately leaders predicted that at least 15,000 would parade to the executive mansion.

Planning Campaign The governor is busy daily with state business, but he is finding time to plan for his campaign. While the general outlines are in a local position on the pressing campaign problems have been pretty well set forth in speeches during the last year or so, he is preparing for the addresses on particular subjects which will provide the major spots in his campaign.

Yesterday he talked to economists about the effects of the depression upon agriculture and with members of the state power authority about waterpower. Waterpower has been a great issue in New York state for decades and much of the political success of former Governor Smith and of Mr. Roosevelt in state politics has been laid to their handling of the highly controversial subject.

Today Mr. Roosevelt will conduct six clemency hearings for condemned murderers. In each case only the executive's intervention can save them from execution.

Tomorrow he will go to his Hyde Park home for a week-end of political conferences there and at New York.

VICTIM OF PREJUDICE IS CLAIM OF CURTIS

New York, July 7.—(AP)—The World-Telegram printed today an interview with John Hughes Curtis in which Curtis asserts he was the victim of prejudice and sentiment when he was convicted of hindering capture of the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby.

"I felt the waves of mob anger against me as strong as the waves of an ocean beating against the shore," Curtis said in commenting on the trial.

"I was an outlander, a stranger, a man suspected of harming the Lindbergh family. The spectators cheered when the judge dismissed the arguments of my attorneys; they were silent when my counsel won."

Curtis said there was one phase of his experience that may never be known.

"There is one story," he said, "which I shall not tell now. That is the account of what happened to me during those eight days with the police and in the Lindbergh home. No good can come of it. No good can come of anger and bitterness and recriminations."

THREE MINERS KILLED

Greensburg, Pa., July 7.—(AP)—Three men were killed and four injured, two critically, when caught beneath a fall of slate in the Edna No. 1 mine of the John Carr Coal Company today.

The dead: George Parnell, 47, mine foreman; Angelo Reroli, 30, timberman; Paul Semmes, 24, miner.

The men were clearing away an earlier fall of slate when another slide crashed down upon them. Several other miners who were working nearby escaped and were brought out safely.

The mine, located about nine miles west of Greensburg in Hempfield township, is operated by the John Carr Coal Company but is owned by Hillman Coal and Coke.

The U. S. Bureau of Mines at Pittsburgh sent two men to the scene to aid company workers.

PRAISES BOTH PARTIES

Washington, July 7.—(AP)—Democrats and Republicans alike were praised today by the League of Women Voters for planks favoring United States participation in international conferences and for reduction of armament by agreement among nations.

Miss Margaret M. Wells of Minneapolis, who pleaded for these and other League proposals at the Chicago convention, said the Democrats went "further" on unemployment, advocating unemployment insurance under state laws as well as asserting Federal responsibility in a crisis.

The particularly praised the Democratic plank sponsoring human welfare and child protection measures. This was added to the party program by the convention after the platform committee had passed over a league recommendation for it.

Miss Wells will serve here as a resident officer of the league.

DEATH ACCIDENTAL

Bridgport, July 7.—(AP)—Accidental death is found by Coroner J. P. Phelan in the death of John Augustus Edmund, 66, a resident on the Padanaram road, Danbury, who was fatally injured in an automobile collision on the morning of June 29.

In his report today Coroner Phelan says that Mr. Edmund was a passenger in an automobile operated by Nelson W. Woodard, who was driving at the time of the collision at the junction of Padanaram road, Balls Pond road and King street, the car collided with one driven southward by Edward P. Schroeder, 4 King street. The latter driver, because of a wide turn made by Woodard, supposed he was going to turn into King street and swerved to the right to avoid collision. The two cars came together as the Woodard car was continuing into the Balls Pond road.

CAUGHT IN DOPE RAIDS New York, July 7.—(AP)—Harry Paradise, a soda clerk who, police said, was a member of a very good family in Boston, and Harry Smith, whose record showed he had served a term in prison for burglary, were arrested among 15 prisoners taken last night in narcotic raids in the West 40's in the vicinity of Broadway.

Smith's record, police said, showed he had escaped from Deer Island in 1924, while serving a three-year term, by swimming ashore, but was later returned, and returned to the island where he had to serve 185 days in addition to the remainder of his sentence. They refused to give out the address of Paradise's family in Boston.

Both were held for trial.

RIOTS IN GERMANY Berlin, July 7.—(AP)—Communist riots at various places in Germany resulted in a number of casualties today.

A policeman was killed at Scherwin and at Bitterfeld a man was fatally shot in a demonstration against reduction of the vote. Several persons were wounded in a riot at Timmerberg.

Nurmi is due in New York that morning with the Finnish Olympic team en route to the Olympic games at Los Angeles.

KIWANIS CAMP OPENS MONDAY

Boys To Have First Two Weeks At Hebron—Committee To Inspect Site.

The Kiwanis Kiddies Camp at Hebron will open for its annual camping period Monday morning and Tuesday afternoon. The camp will have more than eighty boys and girls of Manchester during the coming month. Forty-three boys will be at the camp for the first two weeks and forty-three girls for the last two weeks, a total increase of thirty children over last year, made possible by increased facilities at the camp.

Helge E. Pearson returns again this year as director and will be assisted by Gunnar Johnson, Fred Johansson and Lenart Johnson. Mrs. Seraphine Pearson, camp hostess, will also return this year and will be assisted in the kitchen by Herbert Johnson.

New Dormitory A new dormitory has been built by the Hebron Game Club, making it possible to accommodate sixteen boys and girls than last year. The camp has received its annual renovation and is now ready for occupancy. The larger dormitory has received a fresh coat of paint and seems to be waiting patiently for the cries of the children's voices as they arrive to get their allotted beds and clothing.

Six men, under the supervision of Mr. Pearson, have donated their services every day during the past week and have worked hard to prepare the camp in time for opening Monday. The popularity of the Kiwanis Camp is steadily increasing from year to year, as is shown by the fact that more than 100 boys have applied for admittance this summer. As only forty-three can be taken care of, Miss Jessie Reynolds of George H. Waddell has been forced to select only those who need the two week's vacation the most.

Fine Chef Probably the fact that Mrs. Erickson is returning as camp chef has brought back tempting memories to the children of the fine food that was prepared for them last summer. Mrs. Erickson was one of the most popular members of the camp staff last year.

During their two weeks' stay in camp, the boys will be supervised by the Pearson's assistants. From the time they arise in the morning to the time the bugle sends them to bed, the girls' camp period, from July 25 through August 6, will be in charge of Marion Browning, Olive Smith, Thelma Carr and Dorothy Armstrong. These young, well-trained and experienced grammar school teachers and have volunteered their services this year to aid in putting the camp over financially, as have the male members of the staff.

Medical Exams Dr. D. C. Moore and Dr. Fred Bushnell, both members of the Kiwanis Club, will lend their services to the camp. Dr. Moore today examined all the boys who will go to camp on Monday and Dr. Bushnell will inspect the camp before it opens to make sure the camp is clean and sanitary in every way.

The boys will be taken to camp in automobiles driven by Kiwanians, including Dr. D. C. Y. Moore, James Nichols, C. R. Burr, E. J. Hill, Dr. LeVerne Holmes, James Turnbull, W. G. Glennon and Thomas Perry. One group will gather at the High School and another at the railroad station at Depot Square early Monday morning.

Committee The committee in charge of the Kiwanis Camp this year consists of Thomas Pearson, chairman; W. G. Glennon, C. R. Burr, R. LaMotte Russell, Helge Pearson, Frank Cheney, Jr., Dr. D. C. Y. Moore, Walter Gorman, W. W. Robertson, E. J. Hill, William B. Halstead and W. H. Wilcox. These men will inspect the camp tomorrow night, at which time a chicken dinner will be served by R. LaMotte Russell and Frank Cheney, Jr.

The stage is all set for the biggest and best camp in the history of the Kiwanis Club and with a few finishing touches all will be in readiness for the opening of the camp Monday morning.

house and down some steps, into a basement, I think." He said he was kept there until an hour before his release. He thought there were four or five men in the gang. He was well fed and had plenty of cigarettes to smoke, but the taps was kept over his eyes.

Hoaxers Arrested After young Bohn's return, police revealed that three men who had been arrested last night, had been released from the elder Bohn, had been arrested Tuesday and that they face charges of attempting to perpetrate a hoax.

Chief Thomas Dahill said the men had confessed they had promised to return to Haskell Bohn if the money was forthcoming. They gave directions where to leave the money. A fake package was prepared and taken to the designated spot.

Arrest of the men followed. They gave their names as Harold Wilder, 22, alleged leader in the attempted extortion; Louis Bartol, 30, and John O'Connor, 29. Whether they had any connection with the actual disappearance of Bohn was not announced by police.

Late yesterday Chief Dahill had gone to Crookston, Minn., to investigate the "confession" of a prisoner there that he was one of the Bohn kidnapers and that young Bohn was being held at a farmhouse near Emerson, Minn. The "confession" turned out to be a hoax.

CHURCH VACATION SCHOOL ENROLLS 100

Attendance Continues To Increase—Is Equal To Number Enrolled In Other Years. The attendance at the North End church vacation school, which opened Tuesday morning for its sixth consecutive year, continues to increase so that at present the enrollment is well on toward 100 and equal to previous years. The junior department which usually draws the largest number has well over 40 pupils, and is domiciled at the Second Congregational church. The primary and intermediate sections are at the North Methodist church.

Miss Lucile Clarke of Porter street is superintendent of the intermediate department. Miss Eleanor Owens is pianist and others assisting are Miss Edith Lippincott, Harry Elliott and William Dewart. Miss Gertrude Carter is superintendent of the primary department. Miss Faith Owens, pianist. Mrs. Alfred Hayes is assisting, also Charity Edgerton and Ruth Wiggins.

Miss Frances Corrow, superintendent of the Junior Department, has for her assistants, Shirley and Sarah MacLachlan, Marion Pierce, Marguerite Peabody and Stacie Halladay. Dorothy Ludwig is pianist.

HOUSE APPROVES FUND TO SEND VETS HOME

Washington, July 7.—(AP)—Responding to a request by President Hoover, the House appropriations committee today approved a $100,000 fund for transporting the army of bonus-seeking war veterans back to their homes.

This action came as police intervened to prevent what appeared to be imminent trouble at the bonus-marchers camp at Anacostia. A threatened disturbance quickly subsided when police stepped in.

The legislation to take the former service men away from Washington will be reported at once by Chairman Byrnes to the House for action after disposition of the relief bill. The Senate already has passed a bill to authorize loans to the veterans for their return home.

The $100,000 fund is to be spent to provide railroad transportation and subsistence at the rate of 75 cents a day for each honorably discharged war veteran encamped here. Advances not repaid would be deducted from the face value of the bonus certificates.

President Hoover made his request for the appropriation in a special message yesterday after Capitol leaders urged quick action upon receiving reports of threatened rioting.

SAYS PHILLIPS SEEKS GOVERNORSHIP OF STATE

Hartford, July 7.—(AP)—Kenneth Wynne, executive secretary of Governor Cross, today said that Alfred N. Phillips, Jr., of Stamford was seeking the gubernatorial nomination himself, and, in fact, had urged delegates to the National Convention to support his candidacy.

"Of course Mr. Phillips could be expected to oppose the availability of Governor Cross for renomination, because he, himself, was trying to pledge delegates to the National convention to support him for the nomination," Mr. Wynne said.

"This is sufficient answer to Mr. Phillips' charge against the governor now."

Mr. Wynne referred to the criticism of Governor Cross's convention activity that came from Mr. Phillips yesterday. The former Stamford delegate charged the governor as too friendly to the Roosevelt delegates in having seconded the Garner vice presidential nomination without consulting Connecticut leaders.

Mr. Phillips had no comment to make when asked at his office in New York if he was to be considered a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination.

"I have nothing to say," he stated.

KREUGER LOST $800,000 TRADING IN NEW YORK

Murphy testified that records of the Chase National Bank showed Kreuger & Toll, as well as Mercator, had paid several large sums to the brokerage firm of Lewine and Bijur. The records showed, Murphy said, that the money had been transferred from the Kreuger & Toll account to the brokerage firm, but not necessarily under the Kreuger & Toll name.

Both Lewine and Bijur said they had no knowledge of having ever received any payments from Kreuger & Toll.

OUBLEW STILL MISSING

New York, July 7.—(AP)—The New York City police are still missing over the Atlantic today, more than 36 hours out of its hangar at Lakehurst, N. J., scanning the waters for some trace of the racing yacht Curlew.

The Curlew, manned by five amateur yachtsmen of New York City had not been sighted since it left Montauk Point for Bermuda twelve days ago. All of the 26 other entries either had reached the island or had been accounted for.

The Akron which is supplementing search of surface vessels in the search for the missing ketch, passed over Hamilton, Bermuda, early last night and caused much excitement among the island population.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, July 7.—(AP)—The Stock Market drifted idly today, as uncertainties over developments at Washington and Lausanne kept traders on the fence.

In the main, the list was inclined to follow its recent pattern of declining in the first hour and hardening thereafter, but the movement was extremely narrow. An upturn in the B-M-T issues tended to prop the list during the late morning. A mid-day slump in International Shoe was momentarily unsettling, but the market stiffened thereafter.

Brooklyn - Manhattan - Transit Common and Preferred rose about 2 points; International Shoe dropped more than 6 points, getting close to 20. Early losses of a point or so in such issues as American Telephone and Consolidated Gas, Eastman and Corn Products were regained. The American and Foreign Power Common and Preferred issues, and International Telephone advanced moderately. The tobacco shares, and some of the railroad stocks, were unchanged.

U. S. Steel recovered a loss of 5-8. Armour of Delaware preferred gained nearly 3 points.

International banking quarters remained moderately hopeful over Lausanne, feeling that American construction developments were bound to come out of the parity. Foreign bonds were again steady to firm, and buying of such equities as American and Foreign Power and International Telephone may have been prompted by a feeling that the bonds were coming together on economic problems. In commodities, the sweeping advance in hog prices has attracted considerable attention in financial quarters, and presumably was responsible for the upturn in Armour of Delaware Preferred.

New York transactions advanced in response to the mayor's call for a unionification conference.

The break in International Shoe carried that issue down to a price of less than half the year's peak of 44-3-8. The company issued its earnings statement for the six months ended May 31, showing net of $3,687,973, as compared with $4,513,832 in the like period a year previously. While the drop in earnings was moderate compared with the shrinkage in many other lines, payment of dividends at the current rate incurred a deficit of $2,343,749 for the six-month period, leaving little confidence in maintenance of the 38 annual rate on the common. This stock has been commanding high premiums in loan market, making the short position costly, but at least one prominent bear operator holds that unwillingness to loan shares to shorts is a sign of vulnerability.

The deadlock at Washington over the relief measure was naturally displeasing to Wall Street, as it prolonged legislative uncertainties, but U. S. Government bonds held up well, seemingly indicating a feeling that not extremely costly legislation will be enacted. The official rate for call loans was finally reduced to 2 per cent from 2-1-2, the lowest since October, but the 2-3 per cent rate had been out of line with the open market for some time.

ARCHBISHOP'S MOTHER DIES

Dublin, July 7.—(AP)—Mrs. Maria Curley, mother of Archbishop Michael J. Curley of Baltimore, Md., died early today at her home in Athlone, aged 82.

The funeral will be held Saturday at 3 p. m. and the funeral mass at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Curley, who had been ill for some time died at the little farmstead at Gold Island, on the outskirts of Athlone, where she spent most of her life.

Archbishop Curley was at her bedside. He spent most of his time there since the Eucharistic Congress which closed on June 26 with a pontifical high mass at which he was the celebrant.

GANGSTER VICTIMS

Chicago, July 7.—(AP)—The beer war apparently is raging again along Chicago's South Side gangland front.

James "Red" McGee, a former policeman and "Warrior" Larkin, reputed hit man of Edward "Spike" O'Donnell, were the latest victims.

Two gunmen last night invaded a roadside operated by McGee, and killed McGee and Larkin, known as "The Goat" with shotguns. A third man, George Vanderliaw, a waiter was seriously wounded.

The killers escaped in an automobile.

FLANDERS POPPIES CULTIVATED HERE

Mrs. Louis J. Neron Grows Flowers From Seeds Gathered in France Nearly a Decade Ago. Prototypes of the famous French poppies that inspired the immortal poem "In Flanders Fields" were grown in Manchester by Mrs. Louis J. Neron of 561 Center street and a display of the blooms is on exhibit at Metter's Smoaks Shop today.

Mrs. Neron obtained a bottle of the poppy seeds when she visited France nine years ago. The seeds were stored away and forgotten on her return to Manchester and it was not until this spring that Mrs. Neron discovered the bottle. She decided to experiment with the seeds and planted a bed in her garden. A heavy windstorm scattered the seeds, with the result that the poppies grew up all over the garden.

Mrs. Neron has two varieties, one a large bloom of a pale pink color and the other a somewhat smaller bloom of a dark red touched with black spots. The latter seems to be the original of the imitation poppy that is sold by service organizations on Memorial Day.

SEEKING A MOTIVE FOR REYNOLDS' ACT

(Continued from Page One) come for his children and his wife, who died later, was believed to have left a similar will. Under this plan the vast estate sometimes estimated at $100,000 was not to be divided until his children were 28 years old.

Provisions for income for their children were made but not for their wives or husbands, attorneys said after an examination.

Smith Reynolds' first wife and his baby daughter who was relinquished to her in their recent divorce, likewise will not participate in his estate. He settled $1,000,000 on them.

WOULD GO EXPLORING

New York, July 7.—(AP)—For more than a year young Smith Reynolds, who committed suicide yesterday, had negotiated for a chance to go along on the proposed round-the-world journey of the American-East India expedition.

Three weeks ago he was informed there would be no place for him in the expedition personnel.

Capt. Harry Carpelan, head of the expedition, made it known through his secretary at the expedition headquarters here today he had been in touch with Reynolds within the past week but could not recall just what day it was.

Carpelan said he had known Reynolds very well for several years, Reynolds first applied for appointment to the expedition staff in March 1931 in a letter.

It was said at the headquarters office today Carpelan had given the application long consideration. He finally decided that because of the ship he is planning to use there was no justification for taking along anyone who was not of definite value either as a scientist or an expert.

He declined to discuss the suicide today and would not disclose the nature of the telephone conversation he had with Reynolds within the past week.

"It is too sad an affair," he said.

CURTIS TO CAMPAIGN

Washington, July 7.—(AP)—Before the summer is out some of those who said in Chicago that Vice President Curtis was too old to run for re-election with Herbert Hoover may wish they hadn't talked so much.

The 72 year old candidate is ready to take the stump for an energetic campaign. He is famous for his vigor in the hustings. In 1928 he campaigned in 33 states, speaking as many as 14 times a day. Only last year made eight speeches in a single day.

Curtis has no plans for the present campaign. He is leaving that up to the committee in charge but is ready to do what they want him to. Before he starts campaigning Curtis plans a vacation. He has presided over the Senate day in and day out for seven months and the sessions of late have been running long overtime.

BRADDOCK ATTACKS COFS

North Bergen, N. J., July 7.—(AP)—Pugilist Jimmy Braddock went along to the police station early today to object to the arrest of his brother, Alfred, and two other men, who were accused of breaking the windows of a woman's home when she refused to admit them at 4 a. m.

His objections landed him in a cell on a charge of assault and battery. Police Captain Louis Bachmann had a broken nose and Patrolman Robert Murphy a black eye.

MRS. MARGARET ARNOTT GIVEN SURPRISE PARTY

Aged Mother of Late Judge Arnott Reaches 88th Year—Remembered With Many Gifts. Mrs. Margaret Arnett of 125 East Center street, widow of the late William Arnott, was pleasantly surprised yesterday when a party of friends called to help her celebrate her eighty-fifth birthday and remembered her with gifts. Mrs. Arnett is the mother of the late Judge Alexander Arnott who died at his home in Florida in April, and whose death was followed within a day or two by Mrs. Arnett's only daughter, Mrs. Margaret Arnett Collins. Judge Arnott's widow presented her mother-in-law with a birthday gift before leaving for her cottage at Black Hall, and wrote her a letter of congratulations which she received yesterday.

WOMAN SENTENCED

New Britain, July 7.—(AP)—Miss Marion Bohman 25, who gave a Hartford hotel as her address, was sentenced to jail for 30 days in Police Court today by Judge M. D. Saxe for obtaining wearing apparel at a store under false pretenses. The police alleged that she obtained the garments and posed as a woman who had a charge account at the store. She refused to make an explanation to the court.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

by Laura Lou BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CHERRY DIXON, pretty 19-year-old daughter of wealthy parents, falls in love with DAN PHILLIPS, newspaper reporter. She quarrels with her father about Dan and then, taking advantage of Leap Year, asks Dan to marry her. They are married and move into a cheap apartment. Cherry's struggles with housework are discouraging. DIXIE SHANNON, movie critic of the News, is friendly with Cherry. She meets handsome MAX PEARSON, also of the News.

After several weeks Cherry's mother becomes seriously ill. The girl is called home and there is a reconciliation with her parents but pride will not allow her to accept financial aid from them. When MRS. DIXON is stronger she and her husband leave for several months at the seashore.

Cherry and Dan are invited to a swimming party at a nearby resort. Dan is delayed and Cherry starts with Max Pearson. A storm overtakes them and while they are waiting for it to pass he tells her he loves her. They finally reach home but after that Cherry avoids Pearson.

BRENDA VAIL, magazine writer, comes to Wellington. Dan meets her and she asks him to collaborate with her on a play. Dan spends most of his evenings at Miss Vail's apartment working on the play. Believing Cherry is lonely Dan asks Pearson to drop in to see her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Cherry dropped her face into the box as the street car lurched forward. There was a vacant seat here and she made her way toward it. Twice the car jolted and almost flung her into the laps of other passengers. She reached the seat and sank into it. It was 11 o'clock of a bright September morning. Cherry had been going to do down town. The yellow house dress, the making of which had caused her so much anxiety, had turned out well. Dixie Shannon had seen the dress and liked it. Now Cherry was on her way down town to buy the material for the new dress. She had been thinking of making another dress for herself and one for Dixie who had agreed to pay $1.50 over the cost of the material for the making.

"It will give me something to do evenings," Cherry had said when she had agreed to Dixie's request. "I'll give you for you, too. The same shade as mine or as near like it as I can find."

The shopping was to be done in the basement of Sherman's Department Store. Dixie had directed Cherry to that emporium and she had for the first time in her life gone to the store. She had thought that would have cost 20 cents more anywhere else. Yard goods. Household equipment. The potted foliage plant that looked so well on the window sill.

Going to Sherman's was a pleasant adventure. Cherry leaned back in her seat and looked out at the street. She had no need to hurry today. The apartment had been let in apple pie order. It would be fun to windowshop after she had made her purchases and have a look at the new fall styles.

Cherry was wearing a white linen dress and her Panama hat. She noticed that the two women who sat in front of her wore hats of felt.

"I suppose it's time for them," the girl thought, but somehow "I can't realize the summer's over." Idly she glanced about the car. There were four straw hats and nine of felt. Yes, autumn had certainly arrived. Cherry decided to get out her old brown felt for her next trip down town and walked the two blocks to Sherman's. The entrance to the large building was swarming with customers and inside the store even more crowded. Cherry saw huge placards that read, "Anniversary Sale," and "Sherman's for Service."

A woman dragging a little girl by one arm jammed her way into the elevator. She crowded Cherry against the wall but it was only for a moment. Then the car stopped and the door swung open again. They had reached the bargain basement.

The crowd about the yard goods counters was larger than Cherry had ever seen but she did not mind.

known. Of course you're the domestic type. Men of Dan's talent and ability are so often attracted by girls who have led a quiet home-life. And it's so easy to understand Dan's such a brilliant young man. He has a real future and I know you're not going to stand in the way."

"Stand in the way?" Cherry repeated. "Why, what do you mean?"

Miss Vail said soothingly. "Only that of course he'll want to branch out—broaden his horizons—meet other creative artists—and well, in short, learn to express himself. And you mustn't worry your pretty little head about it. Dan has temperament and it would never do to stifle it."

"I guess I don't understand much about temperament," Cherry said. "I don't think Dan's being stiff. Of course I know he's anxious to go to New York."

"He must. Oh, yes, it's the place for him," Miss Vail said. "Cherry raised troubled eyes. 'I hope you won't encourage him too much about going away,' she said. 'If it's what he needs of course he'll have to go. But he's been getting along pretty well here. I don't see how we could manage to leave very soon.'"

Miss Vail dismissed these objections with a wave. "Nothing is impossible when it's a question of art," she said. "Nothing!"

Cherry had finished her ice. "I hope you'll excuse me, Miss Vail. 'I didn't notice how late it's growing.'"

"Oh, but you're not going?" "Yes, I really must," Cherry arose. "Thank you so much for the luncheon."

Brenda Vail's smile was guileless. "It's been a pleasure. But I'm not going to be satisfied unless I see more of you soon. Drop in any time."

Cherry's answer was mumbled. She turned and hurried away, assuring herself that if she had stayed another moment her anger would have gotten the best of her.

"I don't care how smart Brenda Vail is!" she stormed to herself. "I don't care if she does write stories and sell them to magazines! She doesn't have to talk to me as though I don't know a thing and she doesn't have to tell me how brilliant Dan is and what's for his good. I guess I know Dan as well as she does!"

Throughout the trip home Cherry's rage continued. It was not until she had reached the apartment, had dropped her packages and her hat to sit down and think things over calmly that the angry mood subsided.

She reminded herself of the night drive only the week before and how ashamed she had been of her earlier jealousy.

"I won't be jealous!" Cherry told herself staunchly. "I won't!" Consequently when two nights later Dan told her Brenda Vail had invited them to a little dinner party Cherry begged off on grounds of a headache. She urged Dan sweetly to go without her that he agreed.

YOUR CHILDREN

MOTHERS CAN ONLY DO THEIR BEST

A young mother complained to me recently about many things. "It is very discouraging to bring up babies these days," she said. "My goodness! Every time I forget to fill an empty bottle on the instant with cold water, or the lid is off the nipple jar, or the baby grabs something that isn't sterilized and puts it into his mouth, I feel like a criminal."

And she went on to mention another article of mine about older babies in which I advised putting everything possible out of reach. Al- though in which I had suggested that the dishes out of which little people eat their meals be scalded or boiled once a day.

"Dear me!" I cried in instant alarm. "I hope I haven't given several thousand women the blues, not even the palest shade of baby blues. I was merely trying to inform them about standards. There has to be a standard for everything. You know, a starting point, something to work from, or toward."

"Then you don't expect mothers to live up to the letter?" "How can they if they do their own work and take care of their own babies? I did it. I know how many steps there are in a day, how arms have to fly, and brains have to plan."

"But there is no harm in knowing how things should be done if the children are to stay as well as they should. To do everything every day in every way perfectly, keep a home going, and everybody happy, it would take several people, including an experienced nurse."

"I am so relieved!" she sighed. "I really do the best I can. I try so hard to have the baby's things just right and little Roy's things, too. I don't slip up often, but it does happen sometimes, just as I said."

"It pays to be conscientious." "Any mother that is as conscientious as you are, my dear, will have healthy babies. These suggestions and rules of mine are not intended to discourage such as you. But you see there are so many young mothers starting from scratch who have not the least idea of how to safeguard a little beginner and it is better to let them know about certain things."

"I mentioned putting things away because I had a very sad experience one time myself when I was a young mother about something I had not put out of sight. It was too sad for me even to tell you about it now."

"And I advised scalding or boiling the children's dishes and to keep them apart, because one of the most severe cases of intestinal infection one of my babies ever had was transmitted, I know, from her father, who was in bed at the time with the same intestinal infection. Some dish or spoon had gotten through apd had not been scalded clean."

"But don't worry—just do the best you can. It is all any of us can do. When we know a few things, however, it should be a help, not a hindrance."

Hated is nearly always honest—rarely, if ever, assumed. So much cannot be said for love.—Ninon de Lenclos.

Hints on How to Keep Well by World-Famed Authority

USE OF CATHARTICS IS BLAMED IN APPENDICITIS DEATHS

BY DR. MORRIS FISHERMAN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

In the United States and Canada, appendicitis is responsible for some 25,000 deaths each year. It has been estimated that the death rate from this disease almost equals the combined death rates from obstruction of the bowels, ulcer of the stomach and intestines, and gallstones.

Moreover, even though medical science has developed suitable technique for the diagnosis and surgical treatment of this condition, the death rate continues to rise.

Studies by investigators in many different clinics indicate definite reasons for the increase of deaths, some of which are particularly important because of their popular understanding of these reasons would certainly result in a lowering of the rate.

Practically all investigators are agreed that the common household custom of giving a severe cathartic at the onset of every ailment in the stomach and abdomen is largely responsible. It is now agreed by most competent physicians and surgeons that immediate operation in an acute appendicitis is necessary if lives are to be saved.

If the operation is done within the first 24 to 36 hours after the symptoms appear, the death rate is low. If the operation is done 72 hours later, the mortality is increased. If it is done 96 hours later the mortality is exceedingly high.

In a recent review of 100 cases, Dr. C. F. Dixon analyzed reports of 5,232 cases operated on over a period of five years. Every patient who died had one or more cathartics before any attempt was made to make a scientific diagnosis of the cause of his symptoms.

Doctors learn early in their career the characteristic symptoms of acute appendicitis. These symptoms include in the abdomen, particularly in the right lower quadrant, tenderness over the muscles of the abdomen when any attempt is made to press on the tender point.

In some 60 or 70 per cent of all the cases there is also extreme nausea. In most cases the number of leukocytes is increased in the blood, as can be determined by any physician with a simple blood count. It is not well to count on too high a fever, because the temperature may not rise to an exceedingly high point. The fever will fall should the appendix rupture, only to rise again, of course, when peritonitis sets in.

With the onset of pain, tenderness, rigidity, and with inability to find any definite cause for the pain, the average person will do well to consult his physician immediately.

Drastic cathartics should never be taken except under medical advice. Laxatives should be taken only when the cause of the abdominal distress is quite definitely related to dietary indiscretions or chronic failure of the bowel to act.

A Thought

All the sinners of my people shall die by the sword, which say, The evil shall not overtake nor prevent us.—Amos 9:10.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

PREPARE ELBOWS AND KNEES FOR BEACH

Your bathing suit may be a bewitching yellow, or a gay red scarlet that would make the mermaids at the bottom of the deep blue sea grow envious, but if you have rough, knobby places on your elbows and your knees, you needn't try to qualify as a bathing beauty. You will be judged out.

When the sun shines down on your legs and arms, every blemish is so clear that you might as well have a spotlight focused on you. The thing to do is to banish them. Cleanliness comes first, of course. Nothing is more helpful than warm water and plenty of pure soap. Rough cloths or bath brushes will break down the defenses that clogged pores are putting up, and give your skin a chance to breathe. A shower, taken with cold water, just before you go down to the beach to get into the swim, will make your skin glow with a healthy color.

Drink plenty of water, too. This will give the impurities that are clogging your skin a chance to be carried away in perspiration. But you must relieve your body of this material by washing it away.

There are certain grains and mealy mixtures that are excellent for wearing away the rough skin that clogs on elbows and knees. Make a paste of the grains, work it in to the places which require it, and you will be delighted with the smoothness that will result.

THIS AND THAT IN FEMININE LORE

Grasses

July is the month to divide your old iris clumps or to increase the roots of choice varieties by division. Scrape away the soil of the latter and you can see where to make the division. A single strong eye with a fan of leaves will suffice for the latter, but of course three or four sets of leaves will make a better showing the following season. When transplanting the roots, cut the leaves off about half their length, preferably not straight across but with a point in the center of the fan and cut slantingly each side of the point, or like an inverted V. Lime and wood ashes are good for bearded irises, and bone meal, while for the Japanese variety liquid manure will increase the size of the blossoms rather better than using it as a mulch. There is no question but that the tall bearded irises are probably the most satisfactory of all hardy flowers for large gardens and for home owners who have little time to cultivate them. The tall bearded irises are always a safe bet in situations where our most popular flowers will not always do well. The irises with yellow shades predominating are the hardest of all.

There's a place in the sun for the babes of working mothers of Norfolk, Virginia. Infant coats of sun-tan are getting to be the style. Working mothers of Norfolk go gaily off to their tasks, leaving their babies in the care of a sanitarium at Virginia Beach. And the youngsters themselves face the sun without any qualms over blisters and freckles, and have a much better time than they would if they stayed at home. They are given the right sort of nourishment and they have plenty of company of their own age at the community sandpile by the ocean.

Without doubt the smartest bathing suit you can wear is the knitted one-piece model, so if you are real clever you can knit your own, so advise Vogue, and adds, "they can be knit in a very short amount of time." But the most of us would do well to buy our suits if we want to do any swimming this season, besides, it's cheaper to buy than to knit.

grown from Sutton seeds. A graduate of the Royal Horticultural college, he pursued his studies in Germany and France, and all during his life traveled extensively to widen his knowledge of horticulture and secure new novelties for introduction to his customers. He found time to serve his city for three terms as mayor. Four of his five sons made the supreme sacrifice in the World War, then the death of Mrs. Sutton occurred. The English paper says he was a man of great personal charm, that he loved his beautiful home, "Hillside," and his lovely garden.

Fruit granites are one of the most deliciously simple, refreshing and cooling of summer foods. Heavy syrup is combined with fruit juice and water and the mixture is half frozen. Liquid enough to drink it just misses being an ice. All the canned fruits and most of the fresh ones can be used single or in combination, and any flavor can be chosen. Jellies can be combined with a citrus fruit, such as red raspberry and lime, blackberry and lemon, currant and orange. The fruits and berries are strained so that seeds do not enter the granite.

One of the most delicious combinations for a dessert salad is red raspberry and peach with cheese balls, called Salad Melba. It can be eaten either frozen or jellied. If the latter is desired increase the amount of gelatin in the recipe to two table-spoonsful.

Salad Melba
One quart red raspberries, 2 cups diced peaches, 2 teaspoons granulated gelatin, 1 cup mayonnaise, 1-2 cup whipping cream, 4 table-spoons lemon juice, 1 package Philadelphia cream cheese, 2 table-spoons butter, salted almonds.

Crush berries and extract juice. Pour 1 cup water through crushed berries. Soften gelatin in 2 table-spoons cold water and dissolve over hot water. Add to berry juice with lemon juice and a little sugar if necessary. When mixture begins to stiffen, pare and dice peaches. Add at once to jelly with mayonnaise and cream whipped until firm. Fold lightly to mix ingredients and turn into mold. Pack in eight parts ice to one part ice cream salt and let stand three hours or longer. Combine cheese and butter, working with a fork until smooth. Make into tiny flat cakes about the size of a quarter and stick pointed ends of almonds into each cake. daisy fashion, making the almonds the petals, and the cheese the center. Serve the salad on crisp chilled lettuce with a garnish of mayonnaise and a "daisy."

CUYLER IS BLAMED FOR GIRL'S ACTION

Former Chorus Girl Says She Shot Cubs' Shortstop Because Kiki Interfered.

Chicago, July 7.—(AP)—Manager Rogers Hornsby and his Chicago Cubs carried on their National League pennant fight today without the services of their star young shortstop, Bill Jurgens while the police investigated the events that caused a pretty brunette to shoot and wound him as well as herself.

Although the woman, Miss Villet Popovich Valli, a divorcee and a former chorus girl, insisted she intended only to shoot herself, the police were in possession of a letter that cast a murder and suicide complexion on the case.

The letter addressed to Miss Valli's brother and written just before she invaded Jurgens' hotel room yesterday and wounded him twice, blamed Kiki Cuyler, Cub outfielder, and Lew Steadman for breaking up her romance. She advised her brother, Mike Popovich a Chicago Y. M. C. A. employee, that she planned to kill Jurgens and herself.

"To me life without Billy isn't worth living," the letter read in part, "but why should I leave this earth alone? I'm going to take Billy with me. We were getting along famously, just as everything should go, but a few people like Kiki Cuyler and Lew Steadman forget there might be anything fine and beautiful in our love for each other and dragged it in the mud.

Cuyler denied that he had interfered with the romance, except to admit that Jurgens asked his advice and that he told him he was "too young to think of love. I merely told him he was too young in the game."

Cuyler said he told him he should get established in baseball first and then think of love. Neither the girl nor Jurgens was in a serious condition today.

WILL THESE STARS MAKE US FORGET 1928?

The only flat race the United States could win at Amsterdam in 1928 was Ray Barbuti's victory in the 400 meters. Barbuti is shown, right, as he breached the tape in victory, and you need only look at his distorted face and distended eyes to know that he wasn't joking. The sprinting stars of 1932—Metcalfe, Topping, Simpson, Wykoff and Tolan—are expected to restore the racing glory the United States had in the old Olympics.

COLLEGE CREWS TO RACE TODAY

Start Trial Heats in Competition For U. S. Olympic Assignment.

Worcester, Mass., July 7.—(AP)—Overflowing with natural rivalries the Olympic rowing trials open today with nine of the nation's best college and crew eight's churning up the splendid 2,000 meter course on Lake Quinsigamond, birthplace of eastern row racing.

Several of the grueling sport's most pressing questions will probably be definitely answered before the regatta closes Saturday when the victor will be designated as America's entry for the international event at Long Beach, Calif., next month.

Rowing followers should learn among other things if Harvard deserved to lead Yale by three and a quarter lengths on the Thames and if just how the Ellis' Ed Leader stacks up with his keener rival Coach "Ky" Ebricht who came here sounding the war cry for California.

Each of the nine crews is in perfect trim for this afternoon's sprinting event, divided into four heats. California will go into action against the Princeton rowing club and in the third heat Penn crew will attempt to stroke a forty beat against the Syracuse eight.

Three crews, Yale, Washington and the California junior varsity will race in the fourth heat; after which the starting field of nine will be down to four semi-finalists.

Calls U. S. Olympic Team Strongest Ever

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of 18 articles by Mel Sheppard, hero of the 1908 and 1912 Olympic games, now a noted coach in New York City. Sheppard writes of the bright deeds of other years, and reviews the United States' chances in the 1932 games at Los Angeles.

By MELVIN W. SHEPPARD
Former American Middle Distance Star and Olympic Winner
(Copyright 1932, BY NEA Service)
Originally invincible in the modern Olympic games because of our numbers and the great emphasis we place on sports, the United States has been slipping in the more recent Olympics, especially in the running events.

In 1928 we won only one individual race, the 400 meters, which Ray Barbuti of Syracuse refused to run. All the other track events, including the hurdles, the steeplechase and the marathon, went to foreign rivals.

There was some balm, but not much, in the fact that our relay runners captured the 400 and 1600-meter relays. Finland, on the other hand, won four individual running titles, including the steeplechase.

That was an inglorious performance for American runners. It will not happen again this summer in Los Angeles. Conditions this year will favor the American team more than ever before. There will be no excuse if we do not present a team well selected, well trained and well acclimatized.

We will have the preponderance of numbers, partly because of the distance most foreign squads will be forced to travel; partly because economic conditions have forced them to cut down their squads.

We should have an American team that is more on edge than ever before, if only for the fact that the games are being held at home and the final trials at Palo Alto, Calif., under exactly the same conditions and climate obtaining at the Olymp-

Locals Now Definitely Out of Running For State Title; Antonio Hits Two Homers But Loses Second By Not Touching Home.

Numerous errors turned Manchester's bright hope of victory into defeat when they were defeated by the Hartford Post in Hartford last night by the score of 15-9. The game was exciting throughout. It was a free slugging contest, both teams getting many hits.

Antonio hit a homer with two men on base in the second inning. He hit another one in the fourth but was called out because he didn't touch home. However, Antonio's fielding was poor. Many Hartford runs were scored on his bad judgment of hit balls.

HAWKS WIN

The Hawks chalked up another victory in defeating the Bobcats Tuesday by the score of 14-10. Zwick and Grelz of the Hawks each made three hits out of four trips to the plate. Ridolfi and Madden were the heavy hitters for the Bobcats. The Bobcats lost all chance of a rally in the ninth when Madden was hit by a batted ball.

LEE WILEY WINS

Waterbury, July 7.—(AP)—Miss Clare Smith of Pine Orchard, New England champion had advanced to the semi-finals of the upper bracket of Hartford, considered one of the outstanding contenders in the absence of H. H. Hyde of Hartford, present titleholder, reached the quarter finals by eliminating J. B. Morse, New Haven 9-7, 6-1.

Mrs. A. C. Chapin of Springfield, Mass., state champion, defeated Miss Eleanor Crow, of Rye, 6-1, 6-4 in a second round match. Play entered the third round in both the men's and women's singles.

ROOKIES FEATURE BASEBALL REPORTS

Several Play Leading Roles In Great National League Race This Season.

The present National League race might well be termed the "race of the rookies." The Pittsburgh Pirates, leading the field by three and a half games today, could trace their success directly to the pitching of Steve Swartz and Bill Swift, who between them had won 18 games, and to the fine play of their young keystone combination, Tony Piet and Floyd Vaughn.

The second place Chicago Cubs have benefited by the sensational hurling of Lonnie Warlick and the bangup play of Bill Herman at second base. Huck Betts and Bobby Brown have their consistently great pitching kept the Boston Braves at or close to the top ever since the race began.

Swetonic who argues with Betts of the Braves the distinction of leading the National League's pitchers scored his ninth victory yesterday by beating the Giants in the first half of a double-header 4 to 2 on six hits. Larry French stopped the New Yorkers 3 to 1 in the nightcap.

Warneke rang up his 11th triumph, halting the Phillies 6 to 1 and putting the Cubs back in second place one percentage point above the Braves who lost to St. Louis 4 to 2.

Cincinnati and Brooklyn battled all afternoon without getting anywhere in particular. The Reds took the first game 6-4 but the Dodgers came back to win the second 3-2 behind Freddy Heintz.

SUB ALPINE LOSES CLOSE CONTEST, 4-3

The Sub-Alpines treated the Hartford Wild Tigers to a 4-3 ball game yesterday at Charter Oak street. Two errors, two misjudged fly balls, and a hit scored their four runs in the four innings.

The Sub-Alpines scored two runs in the first inning, "Bingo" Sturgeon driving them home with a smash to left. "Chick" Fraser pitching good ball but given bad support, was out-pitched by a small margin by Abel who allowed only three hits.

The Sub-Alpines seek a game with the Privates, a team beaten by the Wild Tigers.

HAGEN MISSING

Ottawa, July 7.—(AP)—Mystery surrounded the whereabouts of Walter Hagen, defending titleholder and Tommy Armour, another of the prime favorites, shortly before a great field of today in the first round of the 72 hole Canadian Open golf championship.

Nothing had been heard of the two Americans late last night. Eighteen holes were scheduled today with 18 more Friday after which the field will be reduced for the final 36 Saturday.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

Bachelors would marry, but the thoughts of getting into hot water gives them cold feet.

Harvey—I dreamt of you last night.
Edith (coldly)—Really.
Harvey—Yes; then I woke up, shut the window, and put an extra blanket on the bed.

She—How did you like the banquet last night?
He—Not at all.
She—Wasn't the food good?
He—Yes, very good—but I sat next to a cross-eyed lady who kept eating from my plate all the time.

Clara—What are you thinking of?
Rudy—Nothing.
Clara—Oh, do take your mind off yourself.

Timid Young Lady (to aviator)—I wouldn't mind flying provided I could keep one foot on the ground.
The Pilot—Then if you fly with me you'll have to have a mighty long leg.

Voice (after an interval)—Are you still holding the line?
Mr. Collins—Yes.
Voice (not Miss Cahill's)—Well, go hang your shirt on it.

Inspector—Hold on, young lady, what have you to declare?
Sweetness—Oh, Mr. Inspector, I declare you're handsomer than any man I saw during my two months stay in Europe.
Inspector (blushing)—Er, ah, hurry up, madam; move along and give some one else a chance.

ABOUT TOWN

The newly elected officers of Scandia Lodge, No. 23, Order of Vasa, will be installed at a regular meeting in Orange hall at 8 o'clock tonight. District Deputy Arthur Lans and his staff of Hartford will have charge of the ceremonies. Refreshments will be served.

Miss Barbara Hyde of Russell street has returned after a visit with her cousin, Miss Virginia Clarke, at Woodmont.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart G. Segar of 124 Oxford street have as their guest this week, Elwood G. Peters of Wellesley, Mass., formerly of this town.

On account of the outing at Camp Woodstock Saturday, the Y.M.C.A. building on North Main street will be closed all day. Swimming lessons will be given by David Hamilton tomorrow morning instead of Saturday this week.

Two short plays were given by the Willing Workers society at their outing yesterday at the Highland Park Community clubhouse. One of them, "Mrs. Allison's Downfall," was presented by Helen Demko, Marjorie Reichenbach, Anna Howarth and Betty Warner. The other entitled "A. T. I. S. Musical Presentation" was acted by Catherine Winzler, Elsie Klein, Erna Suchy and Martha Roth. Other features of the picnic were a dog roast, games and a hike up the mountain. Mrs. H. O. Weber chaperoned the girls.

The Ladies Sewing society of the Lutheran Concordia church will have an outing on Wednesday of next week at the Boy Scout cabin in Glastonbury.

UNDER-ARM ODOR FOREVER ENDED

A touch or two of PERSTIK under the arms in the morning—and excessive perspiration is curbed for the rest of the day.

Just as anti-perspirant liquids did away with dress shields, so PERSTIK is now here to check under-arm perspiration even more efficiently. PERSTIK is a pure white greaseless stick, in an attractive black-and-white enamel case that you'll be proud to carry in your purse. PERSTIK healthfully reduces the perspiration excess by acting as a harmless astringent. Use it after shaving or after bathing—it won't irritate. The J. W. Hale Co. department store is featuring Perstik. To the fastidious woman there is nothing more important than the prevention of perspiration odor. Perstik does this most effectively... safely... economically. Tear this out as reminder to get a Perstik today. You'll never want to be without Perstik, once you own one.
