VETS MAY RENEW LAPSED POLICIES

Extension Grant Voted By Congress and Bill Has Been Signed By President.

World War veterans who have permitted their war risk insurance to lapse now have the privilege of renewal for the next five years, according to an announcement made today by Commander Joseph Moriarty of Anderson-Shaw Post, V. F. W. A measure creating this additional five year period extension was recently passed by both branches of Congress and signed by President Hoover. Details of the provisions were forwarded to Commander Moriarty by National Headquarters, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S.

The Act The legislation enacted provides that, at the expiration of the five year period a five year level premium term policy may be renewed for a second five year period at the premium rate for the attained age without medical examination. In case the five year period of any such policy has expired prior to and within the limits of the date of the enactment of this amendment proviso and the policy has not been continued in another form of government insurance, such policy may be renewed as of the date of its expiration on the same conditions upon payment of the back premium within five months of such date of enactment.

The Administrator of Veterans Affairs is required to notify holders of such policies of the provisions of the amendment. In this connection to World War veterans was one of the objectives of the V. F. W. legislative program in the present session of Congress, declared Commander Moriarty.

SECRETARY MILLS RAPS ROOSEVELT IN ADDRESS and challenged him to deal with the facts instead of indulging in vague and unsupported attacks.

Eulogizing the record of President Hoover in office, Secretary Mills declared: "In my opinion, no man living has the qualifications for the task, equal to the qualifications of President Hoover. Himself a veteran in government service, he is the leader of a seasoned organization, which for three years has been waging on many fronts the battle against depression. In this time, at the very peak of the struggle, to order the veterans to the rear and put the raw recruits in charge? I think not."

The Secretary's attack on Governor Roosevelt's title to campaign as a liberal was based on revelations of misgovernment in New York City, and Governor Roosevelt's failure to clean up his own party organization in this state.

It is understood that control of the National committee, and the campaign plans will center in New York, with Farley actively in charge, and that the Roosevelt campaign will be run on simpler and less expensive lines than that of Alfred E. Smith four years ago.

In a speech before women speakers in the party's $1,000,000 "Victory Campaign" on March 2, Shouse said the headquarters in Washington had cost $10,000 a month or more for the last three years, and that John J. Raskob had advanced "every penny" of the money.

deputies reconvened there were pessimistic reports of falling support for the government and rumors that the Right Party, upon which M. Herriot was favored to depend for support following the defection of the Socialists, also would desert him.

The premier and his finance minister, Louis Germain-Martin, battled alternately for the bill. There was a further discouragement when former premier Andre Tardieu's lieutenant, former Finance Minister Raymond, announced his friends of the new Republican group would abstain from voting.

The premier, mounting the attack, said his government was adhering to a policy of courage because it was essential that the budget be balanced. Alluding to the recent conference on reparations at Lausanne, he said: "I have encountered immense obstacles during the last few weeks. The interests of France have been safeguarded. The fate of my government is of no importance to me."

The Story of Twelve Dry Years Prohibition At The Crossroads

How Temperance Army Went Over Top After 100 Years Of War On Nation's Thirst

PROHIBITION MAP OF U. S. JAN. 1, 1919. WHITE—DRY BY STATE LAW. SHADED—LOCAL OPTION. BLACK—WET.

Here are two of the leaders in prohibition victories of a decade ago—Andrew J. Volstead (upper left), former congressman from Minnesota, and the late Wayne B. Wheeler, moving spirit of the dry cause.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of four sketches on the history of prohibition, made especially timely by the recent action of the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

THE 18TH AMENDMENT

Section 1. After one year from the ratification of this article the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors within the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited.

THE TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT

The temperance movement itself is as old as America itself, despite the fact that the early inhabitants were largely men who liked their liquor strong and knew how to hold it.

THE 18TH AMENDMENT

Section 2. The Congress and the several states shall have concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Mexico City—Lips that touch liquor too often shall never associate marriage vows in San Luis Potosi, says the governor. Comes a dispatch declaring he has promulgated a law requiring candidates for matrimony to show a doctor's certificate announcing they are not wedded to the bottle.

Heavy Penalty For Players Who Have Fist Fights

Kovis Pitches Pirates To A 3 to 1 Victory

West Sides Beaten In Y. M. C. A. League; Hewitt's Witness Harts Team's Chances Considerably.

"Red" Kovis, star hurler for the Trade School, pitched the Pirates to a win in the Y. M. C. A. league last night by the score of three to one. He allowed the West Sides only three scratch hits and was invincible in the pinches, fanning ten men. Kovis was too much for Hadden who fanned three times in a row. The first inning Smith and McConkey struck out and Hadden flied out to Wogman who made a spectacular catch of a high twisting foul. Rogers grounded out, Wogman reached first on an error, stole second and scored on wild pitches by the erratic Hewitt. The West Sides were held well in hand until the sixth. The Pirates scored again in the second when Harrison and Kovis singled, Nielsen walked and Harrison scored on Hewitt's wild pitch which hit the backstop and allowed him a base. In this inning Werner made a wonderful run to snare Loveland's line drive which would have been good for a triple. Harrison started the fourth with a scorching double and scored again on a single by "Dane" Nielsen and a wild pitch by Hewitt. In the fifth Rogers singled and Wogman grounded out to Hewitt who threw to Fulkowaki at second to catch Rogers and then to first to catch Wogman for a double. In the sixth Fulkowaki reached first on an error and stole second. Werner walked and Fulkowaki scored on a high fly which Phillips caught after a great one-hand catch at short left, but too late to get Fulkowaki at the plate. Nielsen was found guilty of four errors but redeemed himself by catching a high fly at short left which would have scored a runner if he had misjudged it. Hewitt paved the way for defeat by his erratic wild pitching. This is the Pirates first game in the second round. Wednesday night the Cardinals and the Sox. Am! will play.

By Associated Press. Baseball holds scarcely any jobs more thankless than the task of filling the third base shoes of Harold (Pie) Traynor but Tommy Thevenow is making an excellent stab at it. Since Traynor went out with a finger injury last week, Thevenow not only has fielded well but has shown distinct signs of emerging from his long batting slump. Yesterday it was his hitting that enabled the Pirates to trim Brooklyn 5 to 3 and give Steve Seaton his ninth victory of the season. Tommy drove in two runs with a single and scored the last run on Lloyd Warner's third single. It was Pittsburgh's ninth victory in 11 games. Since May 19 the Pirates have won 34 games and only lost 14.

When he returns to Utvalds, Garnier intends to forget visitors, telegrams and letters.

"I want complete rest and I don't want to be bothered about anything, except fishing," Garnier said. He added that he would have nothing to say on public affairs for three weeks after his return home.

NON-COMMITTAL VERDICT IN THE REYNOLDS CASE

Beginning in early afternoon, questioning of witnesses, led by Mrs. Reynolds, occupied a six hour session. The jury heard the 38 year old widow, daughter of a Cincinnati attorney, describe unhappiness which prompted young Reynolds to make suicide threats on several occasions.

Thought Elin Cray. Some of these times she said, she was led to believe he was crazy. At least once she said, she expressed the belief to him. That was the last Sunday he lived. It caused him, she said, to leave her and spend the night at a hotel, from which he said he would go next morning to "have his head examined."

She explained that he was melancholy, fearful that a lapse of virility would cost him his love. Once she said, she urged her husband to have an affair with another man. To this suggestion she said, she replied:

"No, no. I told him my love for him was too good to be impaired by any one thing."

Coupled with her revelations of her brief wedded life was Walker's story of the tragic night when, after Smith had been "peevish" at Libby all night, the tobacco her announced he "was going to end it all."

Reynolds rushed up stairs. Walker said, and the sound of a shot was heard immediately afterward.

Questions by Solicitor J. Eric McMichael were directed at uncovering all possible information concerning the relationship between Walker and Libby.

Miss Ruby Jenkins, nurse at Baptist hospital where the dying Reynolds was held, testified that she was taken early the morning of July 6, was a witness. She said Libby, clad in negligee was taken to a room and that soon Walker appeared. The nurse and Miss Ethel Shore, night supervisor, said they heard a commotion in the room and investigating, found Libby and Walker struggling to arise from the floor.

"Oh my baby, my baby!" Libby was quoted as saying, and "Don't you know I'm going to have a baby?" In reply to Walker's question concerning what she meant.

Miss Jenkins said she heard Walker tell Mrs. Reynolds not to discuss the shooting before others.

Walker denied he had been making a hobby of the birthday party for C. G. Hill, where others who attended testified, merrymakers were drinking corn whiskey and "cheating" with beer.

Hill testified that Libby and Mrs. William Vaught of Greensboro, whose husband recently was burned to death as he lay in a bathtub of their home when it was destroyed, apparently were engaged in a drinking contest at the party.

MAY RETURN TO STAGE. New York, July 12.—(AP)—The cigarettes that glowed with promise for Libby Holman are suddenly ashed, but the torch of her theatrical life, based on a flaming invitation that she pick it up from where, for love, she flung it aside.

Even Broadway, to which sorrow is outlaw, realizes in its theatrical sophistication that tragedy—like a cloud of tobacco smoke from the mouth of smoking man, god, has screamed its glitter and make-believe from Libby Holman now.

But these will be other seasons, other songs to be sung, other torches to be borne; and Broadway wonders if Libby Holman then will be a quiet widow of Winston-Salem or, before "Moanin' Low" in the Manhattan music halls.

Only a few days before her husband's tragic death from a bullet, Miss Holman conferred in Winston-Salem with her stage manager, Wagon signifying the conference may have had Broadway does not know; but Broadway never hesitates to guess.

Lure of the Footlights. It guesses that Libby Holman, before tragedy struck, had seen anew the light of the torch and its flame blinking like her own name so often blinked in the Broadway lights, was setting her stage ambitions afire again.

It guesses that, no matter what happiness her marriage may have brought, what prospects it held, the torch shimmered in her heart. The grandeur of her Winston-Salem home, its gaiety and a life from cues and comedians, were sweet; but so were memories of the orchestra in the pit striking into "Moanin' Low."

SENSE AND NONSENSE

GOD'S PROMISES

God has not promised skies always blue,
Flower-strewn pathways all our lives through;
God has not promised sun without rain,
Joy without sorrow, peace without pain.

But God has promised strength for the day,
Rest for the laborer, light on the way;
Grace for the trial, help from above,
Unfailing sympathy, undying love.

Pat (speaking to the operator of the Brushville telephone exchange)—Hello there! I want to know where I can get hold of Mrs. Murphy.
Operator—I don't know—she's awful ticklish.

Older Sister—Dad says that he thought nothing of studying five hours at night.
Younger Brother—Well, I don't think so much of it myself.

"I didn't fully appreciate the depression," said a chap down at the cigar store "until the wife lost her job."

"Nobody," writes the author of a recent article on poker-playing, "will admit that he means a living at joke-writing." Well, dear brother, nobody does.

Hal—Thinking of me, dearest?
Mae—Was I laughing? I'm sorry.

Mother—Have you anything to say before I whip you? This is going to hurt me more than you, Willie.

Willie—Well, as long as you haven't done anything wrong, Ma, suppose you let yourself off.

We Much Prefer a Cow to a Saxophone Because, in Addition to Making the Same Noise, the Cow Gives Milk.

Dick—You took that little blonde from the notions department home last night, didn't you?
Tom—I'll say I did, and I kissed her goodnight, too.
Dick—What did she say?
Tom—Oh, she just said, "Will that be all?"

STATIC: No matter how sick a man gets around the house his wife does most of the suffering. . . . He is a wise man who either speaks the truth or says nothing. . . . We are optimistic enough to believe that the depression will end eventually despite all congress can do to prevent this. . . . Today the question of who won the war is not nearly so important as who is going to pay for it. . . . Of all the passions, jealousy exacts the hardest service and pays the poorest wage. . . . One good action is worth a hundred good intentions. . . . It is less important to get an order than it is to fill it right. . . . Every man's conscience is just a little different from every other man's. . . . Before marriage a man swears to love, after marriage he loves to swear. . . . Thought is company only for those who are capable of entertaining it. . . . Do you remember the time when the telephone was a convenience? . . . Man has his troubles, the same as woman, even though he has considerably less to say about them. . . . Preparedness may invite war, but it doesn't tempt other nations to land troops at your unprotected seaports. . . . No party is a complete success these days unless somebody makes a fool of himself. . . . It takes a lot of energy to make up for bad judgment.

Student—I'll stand on my head or bust.
Gym Instructor—Never mind, Miss Travis, just stand on your head.

IRATE GOLFER—You must be the worst caddy in the world.
CADDIE—Hardly. That would be too much of a coincidence.

Harris—Hear about Harry Brent being in the hospital?
Casper—In the hospital! Why I saw him last night dancing with a daisy blonde.
Harris—Yeh! So did his wife.

Visitor—Where does this lane lead to?
Native of Brushville—Well, its led half of the young folks around these parts into trouble.

WIFE: Yes.
HUBBY: Well I wish to goodness you had married him.
WIFE: I did.—Lustige Zeitung.

FIRST ACTRESS: In my love scene in the first act I didn't know whether to close my eyes or not.
SECOND ACTRESS: I noticed a similar indecision in the audience.—Sydney Bulletin.
