

HITLER MOBILIZES HIS STORM TROOPS

Are Concentrated Near Berlin—Nazi Leader Demands Chancellorship and It May Be Given To Him.

Berlin, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Thousands of Adolf Hitler's Nazi storm troops were reported concentrating today in the vicinity of Berlin and central Germany. The Nazi commander himself was understood to be ready to lay down a final demand for the right to lead the German government.

"All or nothing" is the reply Hitler was understood to have made to General Kurt von Schleicher, defense minister, when asked for a statement on his attitude. Leftist newspapers made much of the concentration of storm troops. Many persons felt alarm over the situation but others regarded it as a tactical movement.

Two men were killed and a number injured in battles last night, on the heels of the publication of yesterday's drastic decree authorizing the death penalty for many acts of disorder. President Arrives President Von Hindenburg's arrival today was the signal for jockeying for the formation of the new government.

The sudden clamor of Nazi newspapers for the controlling power and the outspoken demand of the official Nazi press agency yesterday that Hitler be named chancellor indicated feelers put out by the government for a compromise with Hitler had been unavailing.

As a result, it was expected Chancellor Von Papen would not be able to present a complete slate for a cabinet to the president but he would have to resort to long negotiations before any new government can be formed.

Not Hostile Alfred Hugenberg's Nationalist press said Hitler's forces were in no way hostile to Von Papen and they hoped to use him as foreign minister in their cabinet. Foreign Minister Baron Von Neurath would be returned to London as business as usual.

Chancellor Von Papen reported to President Von Hindenburg at a meeting for 8 p. m. after which he expected to summon Hitler and Alfred Hugenberg, leader of the Nationalists.

Night police in the section where the government's offices are located again armed themselves as rumors were current that the Nazi storm troops might start trouble. The Wolff News Bureau said it learned from an authoritative source that no army troops except those ordinarily stationed here were now in Berlin.

FISHERMEN SAVED AFTER COLLISION

Excursion Steamer Strikes Smaller Boat and Five Men Are Picked Up.

Boston, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Five fishermen were rescued as the excursion steamer Allerton, bound from Nantasket to Boston, and the flounder boat Santo Padre collided in the Narrows, off Lovell's island, shortly before midnight last night.

The Allerton, in charge of Captain Elmer McFarland, dove to for 30 minutes while her crew in two lifeboats rescued the fishermen. The crew of the Santo Padre included four members of the Coralle family—Joseph, Anthony, Samuel and Charles—and Paul Culla, all of Boston.

Culla, thrown overboard as the ships collided, was rescued by Robert Gorman of Hingham, a passenger on the Allerton. Gorman jumped overboard and held Culla's head above water until the Allerton's crew picked him up.

The Santo Padre, a 40-footer, was struck astern as the Allerton rounded Lovell's island. The excursion steamer was moving along the Narrows, a water passage lying between Nantasket Roads and President Roads, outgoing steamship lanes.

Had 250 Passengers There were 250 passengers on board the Allerton, which was making her last trip of the night to Boston from Nantasket. A panic was averted by the officers of the steamer.

PARLEY'S SUCCESS UP TO BENNETT

On His Reply To Great Britain Depends Outcome of Trade Conference.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 10.—(AP)—The prospect for broad success of the imperial trade conference lay today largely in the hands of Premier Bennett of Canada. On his reply to Great Britain may depend the outcome of the effort to conclude trade agreements between Canada and Britain. This proposed accord has achieved a key position in the conference work.

If the accord is to go through, as matters now stand, it is up to Bennett to make further concessions to British industrial imports into Canada. Has Nothing More Unofficial observers for the most part, inclined to the belief he had nothing further to offer. Conservative newspapers, however, insisted he was ready to give wider concessions to British iron, steel, coal and textile products.

American observers were not so ready to concede that Canada would agree to a tariff of $1 a ton on anthracite coal, for instance, instead of the 40 cents ad valorem now assessed against United States coal. It was pointed out that British imports paid an average of only 13.5 percent ad valorem in duties, compared with 32.2 percent by most favored nations, while the rest of the world, including the United States paid 24.7 percent.

SEVEN DEAD, SEVEN HURT IN MADRID STREET FIGHT

Rebellious Army Troops and Some Civilians Try To Capture Principal Government Buildings.

BULLETIN: Madrid, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Rebellion flared in four Spanish cities today, resulting in at least seven deaths in Madrid during a surprise attack at dawn on the building which houses the ministry of war and the office of the premier. Fragmentary reports from Seville, in the southwest, said that a rebel force under General Sanjurjo had captured the communications building. From Algeciras, in the south, reports said an army detachment had mutilated in the nearby town of Cartagenas, on the southeast coast, also was reported to have mutilated.

Madrid, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Five men were killed and seven wounded in a sharp battle fought in front of the war ministry building today between police and a force of rebellious army troops and some civilians whose aim was the capture of the principal government buildings. The dead numbered three policemen and two of the assailants. Three policemen and four of the attackers were wounded. Two of the soldiers who were wounded died later, bringing the total number of dead to seven. The attack which broke out at dawn was put down after more than

REPUBLICANS PLAN EASTERN CAMPAIGN

To Make Strong Bid For Votes in New England and New York.

Washington, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Republicans today mapped out a vigorous eastern campaign in support of their prohibition submission plank against the Democratic re-appeal. The tentative program called for a speech by President Hoover in Franklin D. Roosevelt's own state of New York and another in New England possibly Boston. Victory in the entire strategic section was as they scanned the acceptance speech Mr. Hoover will make tomorrow night. To Senator Robert of Rhode Island, an opponent of prohibition and eastern campaign manager for the Republicans, President Hoover's much awaited reference to that speech prohibition is "satisfactory."

Hebert added that the reference would "back the Republican re-submission plank." The tentative plans for the President's eastern speeches, probably after mid-September mean, said Republican campaign manager, that they intend an aggressive drive into the region from which Democrats hoped their pledge for repeal would draw many votes. Hebert will be in direct charge of the eastern area. Helping him will be John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, the former House Republican leader and J. Milbank of New Jersey. Tilson will handle speakers and Milbank money.

SEARCH WOODS AND PONDS FOR MISSING MAN

J. E. Tomm, Jobless and Ill, Leaves Home To Go To Spring, Fails To Return; Searching Parties Out.

John E. Tomm, 65 of 142 Bissell street left his home yesterday morning with the expressed intention of going to the spring near the East cemetery off Birch street, to get a jug of water. With the exception of a report that he was seen walking on Hill street and then east of Florence street, no word of him has been received by his family. This morning his relatives were much worried about his failure to return home.

Mr. Tomm, who has been unemployed but little for eighteen months, has been accustomed to go to the spring daily for water, but had always returned in less than half an hour. He has not been feeling well since last February and has been subject to fainting spells, it was said at his home. When he decided yesterday to go to the spring Mr. Tomm suggested that he wait for a few minutes and he could then be taken for a ride to the spring, but he laughed off the suggestion and said the short walk would do him good.

Get No Track When he had not returned at noon yesterday Mr. Tomm went to the spring, thinking that he might have fainted but was unable to find any trace of him. Yesterday afternoon and evening a search was made for him and homes of friends were visited or called by telephone. At the night came on the family became more alarmed. At 8:30 Walter Gismann, his stepson, went to police headquarters and reported Mr. Tomm's disappearance. He described his step-father as 65 years old, weighing about 132 pounds, gray hair and mustache, slightly bald on the front and top of his head. Mr. Tomm wore dark trousers, a light gray shirt, and a straw hat. He speaks with a pronounced German accent.

Police officers of the beats and motor tours were notified and started a hunt through the eastern part of the town covering the roads and ponds above Spruce street and into the Highland Park section. Neighbors joined in the search, which was continued throughout the night. At daylight this morning a new searching party was formed and people living in the upper part of Bissell and Birch street were combing the woods from the cemetery to Charter Oak street. Rejects Suicide Theory Although he had been without work a great deal lately, Mr. Tomm, whom he married two years ago last May as his second wife, said this morning that he did not think that he had committed suicide, a theory on which the searchers

SENATOR CARAWAY LEADS PRIMARIES

Woman Politician Certain To Win On Face of the Latest Returns.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Senator Hattie W. Caraway of Jonesboro, and Chancellor J. Marion Futrell of Paragould, appeared today to have the Democratic nominations for Senator and Governor, respectively, within their grasp on the basis of returns from almost half the precincts in the state. Mrs. Caraway, the first woman ever to occupy a seat in the United States Senate through an election, had more than a two to one lead over the nearest one of her six male rivals, as returns were tabulated from 953 of the approximately 2,100 precincts in the state. These gave her 39,107 votes, with Major O. L. Bodenhamer of Eldorado, past National Commander of the American Legion, running second with 18,787 votes, and Vincent J. Miles of Fort Smith, for 17 years Democratic National committeeman, in third place with 8,080. Former Governor Charles H. Brough had 7,248 for fourth position.

For Out In Front The 59-year-old Paragould jurist, running with the support of Governor Harvey Farnell, was far out in front in the seven-corner gubernatorial race. Returns from 993 precincts gave him 87,083 votes, with his closest contender, former Governor Tom J. Terrill, who had 18,888 votes. The five Congressmen who had opposition for renomination were in the lead, some with narrow margins. Mrs. Caraway, returning after a long absence, was expected to be the most spectacular campaign attraction ever seen, in which she toured the state. (Continued on Page Nine)

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE BEFORE DETECTIVES

Young Woman Was Being Questioned After She Had Stolen Little Girl.

New York, Aug. 10.—(AP)—A 20-year-old girl, found today in a mid-town hotel with a four-year-old Brooklyn child who had been missing since late Monday afternoon, fought three detectives desperately today when they attempted to prevent her from swallowing a pen point.

The girl, Rita Levine, was being questioned in the Missing Persons Bureau at police headquarters about the child's disappearance, when she suddenly picked up a pen point from a desk and placed it in her mouth. The detectives managed to seize her before she swallowed it, and she put up a desperate struggle, smashing the hats of two of the detectives and kicking through a glass panel of a door before the police forcibly removed the pen point from her mouth.

Her Hair Trimmed The child, Florence Markowski, of Brooklyn, vanished from in front of her home about 6 p. m. Monday. Police said she was unharmed. Her golden curls had been trimmed in a beauty parlor, evidently in an attempt to prevent identification. About the only information police obtained from Miss Levine, who lives at 298 Junius street, Brooklyn, before she attempted to swallow the penpoint, was that she had been stopping at Lakeside Inn, Bermuda Beach, Long Beach, N. Y., and came to New York City Sunday night, registering at the mid-town hotel under

TELLS LAST WORDS OF HADEN CLARKE

Capt. Lancaster Describes Conversation of Writer On Night of the Tragedy.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Captain W. N. Lancaster, with voice steady and unemotional, today described for a jury what he called the suicide of Haden Clarke, for whose murder he is on trial. Previously he had returned a calm "no" to a point blank question by James M. Carson, chief of defense counsel, as to whether he killed the young writer who supplanted him as fiancee of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Lancaster's flying companion for five years. "I was awakened by a bang," Lancaster said. "I thought it was a window. I heard 'what is that, Haden?' I called a gurgling noise from his bed. He leaped from his bed, he related, to find blood streaming from Clarke's face, and a pistol lying beside the fatally wounded man. "Haden, what have you done?" he said with his best recollection of his next words. There was no answer.

Had a Long Talk The former British army pilot said he and Clarke, after going to bed in their room at Mrs. Keith-Miller's home had talked at length over their tangled love affairs. "Haden, nearly wept when he told me how their love had grown, and about his position at that time with regard to Mrs. Keith-Miller," the defendant said. "For the first time, Lancaster testified, he learned that Clarke was not divorced. Lancaster said he advised the author to tell the whole story to Mrs. Keith-Miller next day. "The last thing I ever heard Haden say was 'Will, you're the whitest man I've ever known.'"

Lancaster said he dropped into a deep sleep at the conclusion of the talk, to be awakened by the shot. Lancaster said Clarke apparently consented to sign the two suicide notes which he had admitted he forged, but could not do so. "I looked around the room—out in the hall—on the table. I could find no notes or anything to indicate what had happened," he said. "Then I sat down and wrote two" (Continued on Page Two)

Notification Ceremonies To Be Held Tomorrow Evening—Predictions From Various Sections of the Nation That President Will Be Re-Elected By a Large Majority.

Washington, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Republican leaders in the drive to re-elect President Hoover today began their invasion of the national capital for the notification ceremonies of tomorrow, bringing with them predictions of the Chief Executive's return to the White House for another four year term. Led by Chairman Sanders of the Republican national committee, the party leaders reached the capital early this morning from Chicago. "I don't want to go into predictions as to states and sections," Sanders said as he left the Union station, but you can go as strong as you like in predicting that Mr. Hoover will be re-elected by a large majority."

With the Republican chairman were Robert Lucas, executive director of the Republican committee; Mrs. Lena Yost, director of Republican women's activities; Henry Field, Republican Senator nominee in Iowa; Victor Over, Senator Brookhart; Harrison Spangler, Republican national committeeman from Iowa; and Mrs. Bertha Bauer, Republican national committeewoman from Illinois. Others Expected. Other leaders expected tonight and tomorrow morning for a buffet luncheon and garden party at the executive mansion tomorrow in honor of the notification ceremonies and for the notification ceremonies tomorrow night when Mr. Hoover will make the repeated address sounding the march music of his campaign. Sanders, who has been charged directly by President Hoover with the duty of re-electing him, was chary of comment upon his arrival. The former secretary to President Coolidge said he had no engagement to discuss campaign affairs with President Hoover.

He explained plans for the western campaign to re-elect the President were completed, and that the eastern campaign strategy had been virtually settled, but he declined to go into details. Checking Machine President Hoover continued checking up on the new Republican machine, giving attention to the central headquarters in Chicago. Henry J. Allen, director of publicity, and Representative Ramseyer of Iowa, director of the Speakers' Bureau in Chicago, joined Mr. Hoover in a White House party. The President also received reports from other Republican leaders arriving for the notification ceremony. Senator Walcott told him his own state of Connecticut would be Republican "by a safe margin." Walcott conceded there would have to be a fight to get New York but he believed the Empire State could be won. Mrs. Ruth Pratt, Representative from New York, called on Mr. Hoover and stated upon her departure "New York is for President Hoover."

PLENTY OF CREDIT FOR NEW ENGLAND

First Federal Reserve District Advises Business How To Obtain Loan.

Boston, Aug. 10.—(AP)—There is plenty of credit available for New England business men wherever loans are justified. The banking and industrial committee of the First Federal Reserve district has sent statements to that effect to every trade, business and credit organization in the district. Carl D. Bennett, chairman of the committee said: "It has been alleged that in certain communities there is a reluctance upon the part of banking institutions to show in their statements any borrowings from the Federal Reserve banks. Although such borrowings would serve a slightly constructive purpose, and would serve to increase the deposits of banks without impairing their liquidity, and would bring in the community new capital for essential requirements."

The search was taken up again this afternoon, but up to 2:30 there were no new developments.

NEW HAVEN ROAD
PLANS AIR LINE
New Haven, Aug. 10.—(AP)—John J. Pelley, president of the New Haven road said today the railroad plans an air passenger service between New York and Boston with a stop here "when the time comes for a demand for such a service."

The statement came as the result of a hearing before an aldermanic committee last night at which counsel for the railroad opposed the construction of an agreement with the American Airways granting the petitioning firm exclusive right to the municipal airport. Because of the New Haven road's tentative plans, Pelley's statement today said, the railroad does not look with favor upon the city's exclusive rights which would be a possible competitor giving them exclusive rights to the airport.

NEW HAVEN ROAD
New Haven, Aug. 10.—(AP)—John J. Pelley, president of the New Haven road said today the railroad plans an air passenger service between New York and Boston with a stop here "when the time comes for a demand for such a service."

The statement came as the result of a hearing before an aldermanic committee last night at which counsel for the railroad opposed the construction of an agreement with the American Airways granting the petitioning firm exclusive right to the municipal airport. Because of the New Haven road's tentative plans, Pelley's statement today said, the railroad does not look with favor upon the city's exclusive rights which would be a possible competitor giving them exclusive rights to the airport.

MURDER OF PRIEST REMAINS MYSTERY

First Reports Say He Was Killed By Jap Soldiers In Manchuria.

Tokyo, Aug. 10.—(AP)—The murder of Father Konrad Rapp, German Benedictine missionary, on the evening of June 5 near Yenki city in the Chientao district in Manchuria probably will be added to the list of unsolved international mysteries.

Japanese military authorities deny that Japanese soldiers were responsible for the missionary's death. The German Embassy is unable to make formal representations because there is no proof implicating Japanese soldiers.

Monignor Mooney, an American who is apostolic delegate to Tokyo, has asked the Japanese government for further information regarding Father Rapp's death, but thus far has received nothing beyond a military report.

Japanese Version The official Japanese version is that Father Rapp passed a small Japanese outpost near Yenki, and that on the following morning his body was found at the roadside some distance away. This version presumes that the slayers were Korean Communists or Chinese bandits.

Another story which reached Peiping a fortnight after the slaying through Korean and Chinese channels, is that Father Rapp was bound from Yenki to a nearby mission to attend the funeral of two German priests who had died of typhoid. Enroute, according to this story, he was murdered by drunken Japanese soldiers who were enraged because Father Rapp remained mounted on his horse while he talked to them. In the Japanese military code this might be regarded as a mark of disrespect.

55 Bayonet Cuts This story is that the soldiers beat the priest, stabbed him with bayonets and then, to remove evidence of their guilt, killed him. It is said the body bore thirty-five bayonet cuts and several bullet wounds.

Replying to these charges, Japanese military authorities declared that the assailants must have been Chinese or Koreans wearing stolen Japanese uniforms.

Albert Tigges, the German consul at Mukden, went to Chientao late in June to investigate, but was unable to find witnesses who would substantiate the anti-Japanese version. He obtained nothing to refute the assertions of the Japanese military authorities who are the only real authority in remote Chientao.

DIPLOMATS AT WORK Berlin, Aug. 10.—(AP)—The murder of Father Konrad Rapp, a German missionary in Manchuria, has provoked diplomatic interchanges between Germany and Japan.

The German consul at Mukden was sent to the scene of the killing last June after the murder had taken place, but at present it has not been determined whether the priest's assailants were Chinese bandits or Japanese soldiers.

SIX HURT IN WRECK Norwalk, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Six persons were still confined to the Norwalk hospital, New Canaan, after an automobile crash in West Norwalk, Aug. 7, in a serious condition with a fractured skull and fractured leg.

Irene Smilansky and Miss Hoyt were discharged from the hospital after receiving treatment.

70 P. C. OF CONN. HOMES HAVE GAS

Only 60 Towns Served But Large Percentage of Population Is Reached.

Although only sixty of Connecticut's 169 towns are reached by gas service, nevertheless that service is today being furnished to almost seventy per cent of the state's total population, according to an analysis of the most recent Connecticut statistics compiled by the American Gas Association from the reports of thirteen public utilities doing business in the field of manufactured gas.

The total population of the sixty towns to which gas service is available is 1,408,185. Gas service is not actually available to all of these people, however, since many of them live in outlying or rural districts of the towns, which are distant from the pipe lines. Of the 1,806,900 people in the state, the 1930 Federal Census figures, 1,121,931, or 62.8 per cent of the total population, have gas in their homes. This figure refers to domestic service only and is exclusive of industrial, commercial, house heating and miscellaneous customers.

The number of homes in Connecticut which are metered for gas service is 573,841 as compared with a total of 301,277 homes in the state.

In addition to the above, Connecticut public utility companies also serve 13,449 industrial plants and commercial establishments, the latter including hotels, restaurants, stores and the like. These places account for a large proportion of the total consumption of gas in this state, the uses for gas in industry having multiplied considerably in the past few years. In fact, the greatest future expansion in the field of manufactured gas is expected by company executives to be in the industry, although the domestic field with its new appliances, refrigeration and general house heating by gas, also leaves room for a much greater utilization of gas fuel than is made at present.

Due to the large expense and many difficulties involved in extending the gas distribution system over long distances, extension of service to the 109 Connecticut towns now not reached will undoubtedly not take place for some time to come. The fact that less than one-third of the state's population lies in those towns shown that the homes are widely scattered and cannot be served except at such a large investment per home in pipe lines as to make the cost of service prohibitive.

ORDERS P. S. C. PROBE

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Governor Edward R. King today demanded of the Senate a complete and candid investigation of the "system" by which the public utilities commission established the rates and charges the commission has allowed them to levy and collect.

Appearing before the Senate, the governor urged an exhaustive survey of the commission's relationship with utilities over a period of at least ten years. The inquiry, he said, is necessary to restore public confidence and the resignation of Chairman W. D. B. Atney on the eve of the Senate investigation of charges brought against him of accepting favors from utility executives.

"During almost ten years," the governor said, "the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission was the only commission of its kind in America which failed to start a single rate investigation on its initiative. In numerous cases it has failed to act when it should have acted. What was the reason?"

WALKER IS PREPARING FOR ALBANY HEARING

New York, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Apparently gathering a record of the accomplishments of his administration to bolster his defense before Governor Roosevelt in Albany tomorrow, Mayor James J. Walker today was receiving detailed reports of the activities of each of the city departments since he took office.

The mayor is scheduled to appear before the governor in Albany tomorrow afternoon to answer charges brought against him as a result of hearings of the Hofstadter legislative committee.

The order for reviews of the accomplishment of the departments went out late yesterday to each of the commissioners. They were instructed to have their reports in the hands of the mayor by noon today.

The mayor is scheduled to go to Albany on a late afternoon train today.

Meanwhile, Samuel Seabury, counsel to the committee, held a final conference today with seven of his aides preparatory to his appearance at the mayor's hearing in Albany tomorrow.

The conference was held mainly for the purpose of making a last-minute check on the voluminous data that will be taken to Albany to meet any contention which the mayor may make with reference to evidence adduced against him before the committee.

Seabury will be accompanied to Albany by seven aides who have been instrumental in gathering evidence against the mayor. He would go to Albany this afternoon or this evening.

STATE LOSES CASE

Shelton, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Continued for several months, the case of the State of Connecticut vs. the Charles H. Bush and Son, Danbury construction company, was filed in the Shelton City Court this morning before Judge W. L. Goulding and a decision of applying non-citizen labor in the work at Laurel Heights sanitarium in Shelton of the State Labor Law.

In previous testimony State Inspector Hugh Burns had said that he found four men, residents of Rhode Island and Boston employed in tile-setting at the Laurel Heights construction and reiterated this statement in court this morning.

According to the testimony of defense witnesses not more than one tile-setter and his helper were employed on the job at that time, and some of them did not see any.

JOB FOR 8,000 IDLE

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Milwaukee is approaching winter with the assurance it can give employment to 8,000 or more jobless on ten day shifts out of funds donated by city employees.

The city workers have donated ten per cent of their salaries to make up the $200,000 fund sought by the common council's unemployment committee. The money will be spent for improvements to city property.

Working hours of most city departments, meanwhile, have been shortened to make up for the cut in salary.

Camden, Me., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Miss Helen Hubbard, daughter of Dr. Kent Hubbard, of Middletown, Conn., president of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, was married here today to Washington Dodge, 2nd, of New York and San Francisco.

The ceremony was performed at St. Thomas Episcopal church by the Rev. Ralph Hayden, rector. Afterward a reception was held at the summer home of Mrs. George L. Otis of New York, the bride's grandmother.

Dodge graduated from Yale where he was a member of the Yale News staff in 1928, and is now employed in the business department of the magazine Time.

AUTOMOBILE PRODUCTION

New York, Aug. 10.—(AP)—The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce today estimated that automobile production in July amounted to 113,800 units in the United States and Canada. This represented a contraction of 41 per cent compared with June production, which held up fairly well because of the late start in getting output underway this year, and was 49 per cent under July, 1931. For the first seven months of this year production amounted to 1,024,567 units, or 45 per cent under the same 1931 period.

ON THE SPOT? The faction conference of Democrats at New Haven having agreed with eager unanimity upon the renomination of Governor Cross, and upon nothing else in the world, the situation warrants some mild speculation as to why this particular unanimity.

One may wonder whether there is any parallel between the unanimity of the New Haven meeting and the forecast unanimity of the coming state convention on the Cross nomination, on the one hand, and on the other the completely unanimous nomination of Deacon Hen Adams as representative in the Vermont legislature by the Republican caucus at Wilmington once upon a long gone time.

Wilmington was then and probably is now about three to one Republican. But the Republicans suffered from factionalism. The faction to which Deacon Adams belonged had bolted the party nominee, a "Page" man, the year previous because it became known that one day, when he fell overboard out at the lake while tinkering with a launch engine, he was shivering from his emersion, he took a drink of the Demon Rum out of the hip flask of a sympathetic passerby.

At the caucus in question Deacon Adams' name was the only one presented. Not a word was uttered against his nomination. It was made with profound unanimity. Nobody more eager for the Adams nomination than the Pagettes. Then on election day every last Pagette, with what in Vermont would pass for shrieks of glee, voted for the Democrat—with the usual result of a Democratic representative from Wilmington.

As one wonders whether this New Haven unanimity and the Wilmington unanimity are off the same piece he encounters a little puzzlement when he seeks to identify the Connecticut Democratic faction corresponding to the Republican Page faction in Wilmington—whether it might be Old Guard or New Guard that was joyously anticipating a chance to sock "the old man" on election day. And the more one ponders this thought the more difficult it becomes to decide which crowd has the greater cause for an itching of the knuckles.

Because the Governor has at one period insulted and belittled the Old Guard, treated its leaders and members like tramps; and at a later period has turned his back squarely on the New Guard, his political creator, servilely seeking the friendship of the faction he had so flagrantly offended; because he has shifted and straddled in his factional allegiances until it is impossible to guess which of the Democratic crowds has the greater reason to yearn for a chance at an election day socking.

Perhaps it will turn out the reasons are so nearly equal as to explain to doubly sinister effect the New Haven unanimity, and that the dear old governor is in for such a cross-fire of socks from both sides, in November, as will make of him the state's most monumental example of a man put on the spot for betrayal of faith.

MAKE IT A RACE As from time to time some political believer in ghosts and hobgoblins lets off the cuckoo cry about the Republican party in Connecticut being a one-man machine and the mere creature of that dreadful man John Henry Horaback, it is no wonder that a wry smile dawned on the countenance of the sophisticate. "It is the one-man machine, joy from being a reality that in this highly critical Presidential year the Republican party, in this state is not only not being bossed—it isn't even being led. If any one requires proof of that fact let him observe the single fact that we are within twelve weeks of our state election and as yet not the smallest move has been made within the Republican party toward the selection of a candidate for governor. Beyond secondings here and there of The Herald's nomination of State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn and a sleepy suggestion from some other quarter that the party might again draft former Governor Trumbull, there has been no apparent concentration of thought on the subject.

In other words, three months before election day the field is wide open and anybody can enter—and win if he has the goods and the energy. Moreover the Republican aspirant with the goods not only can win the nomination but he can win the election, because this is a Republican state and every particle of the apparent advantage held by the Democrats six months ago has been dissipated by their foolish agreement to run Governor Cross again and by the circumstance that the low point of the depression was reached and passed so long before the election.

All the Republican party needs is a sound and widely known candidate at the head of an average good ticket to carry the coming state election. This being the case it is time that the leaders throughout the state were bestirring themselves. The election is not going to win itself but can be won, with a vigor and fighting candidate for governor, one who is alive to the realities, whose integrity is beyond question and whose high intelligence and courage have been proved.

Former Governor Trumbull, we feel sure, does not aspire to the job. And the Republican party is far from being so poorly supplied with candidatorial material that it is necessary to drag him back out of his private concerns and compel him to serve the state as its head for another two year term. Mr. Alcorn is, it seems to this newspaper, the ideal candidate. If anyone knows a better one it would be a timely service to trot him out now. It is anybody's race, so far as we can see and we think we can see most of the way, but there's no such thing as a race without entries.

HOOPER AT 55 Today Herbert C. Hooper, President of the United States, passes the fifty-fifth milestone of the road of life. It has been in his case an extraordinarily busy life, filled at every stage with great experiences, some of them, even before he assumed the Presidency, stupendous. Yet it is doubtful if the sum of all of them, up to and including his attainment to the headship of this nation, called for a hundredth part of the fortitude and of effort to the very limits of strength that have been demanded by the packed and heaped-up stresses of the last thirty-four months.

No other President in peace time, quite possibly no other President either in peace or war, has ever had to shoulder such heart-breaking burdens as this man. It is no wonder that his pictures show an ageing somewhat greater than accounted for by three added birthdays. No wonder that, braided under the mammoth load, the President's attitude toward his problems has seemed a bit rigid, a trifle lacking in flexibility. His has been a terrible responsibility—his exalted position little to be envied. May his 55th anniversary find his path easier and his efforts crowned with success.

STIMSON SPEECH We wish we could share the enthusiasm of some of our neighbors for what the Hartford Courant calls the "momentous declaration" of Secretary Stimson in his recent New York address that the pact of Paris "necessarily carries with it the implication of consultation," thus rendering superfluous and unnecessary any specific promise on the part of the United States to consult with other signatories in the event of a threat to world peace. Somehow we are unable to get up any internal excitement over the Stimson speech.

A definite agreement to a consultative pact, which despite Mr. Stimson the United States has obstinately refused to enter into, would constitute a sufficiently vague and meaningless obligation at best. Any such promise could be technically fulfilled at any time without contributing a grain of helpfulness to the other consultants or accepting any commitment whatever. Then when you further diminish the prospects of useful action by insisting that it is not necessary to promise even to consult, for the reason that you have already signed some other agreement which is a mere declaration of a general principle, you get a long way from the sermon on the Mount when a wise man than Mr. Stimson said: "Let your communication be yes, yes, nay, nay; for whatsoever is more than these cometh of evil." Our friend the Courant expresses the belief that the importance of Mr. Stimson's reverberating thunder will be realized more speedily abroad than at home. Perhaps. But even in Europe and the Orient, where the language of diplomacy has not only come from evil but has produced and reproduced evil incalculable for centuries, it will probably be the opinion that if the United States means to convey the impression that she would join in any consultation necessary for the preservation of peace there is nothing in the world to prevent her saying so in terms. Nothing but the fear of offending that rapidly disappearing little group of hidebound isolationists of whom the shining example is Hiram Johnson. It wouldn't be promising much.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

GROWING PRESSURE IN WALKER CASE PUTS ROOSEVELT ON "SPOT" By RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer

Washington. — Powerful groups in the Democratic party are bringing conflicting pressure to bear on Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, the presidential nominee, as he considers the possibility of removal of Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York City. Conservative politicians in eastern states urge the governor not to remove the mayor, according to reports here, whereas many leaders from the south and west, who for want of a better name may be described as liberals, tell him that his only course is to fire little Jimmy.

It is not suggested that politics, rather than the merits of the case, will sway Roosevelt. Yet it is a curious note that the merits of the case usually are obscured as the politicians debate the political consequences of the two courses which are open to him: The politicians, it is true, will argue that Jimmy does or does not deserve to be booted out on the basis of the evidence, but it would be difficult to find one who displays any actual concern over that point.

East Against Ouster The chances of Jimmy's removal seem very bright, but the politicians on both sides of the issue will argue up to the last moment. Opposition to the removal, it is said, comes from eastern states where politicians, including some of the Tammany men, largely were opposed to Roosevelt's nomination. The argument from those quarters is that the party is extremely unliberal in the election which is carrying New York state, that Roosevelt must carry New York City in order to carry the state and that he can't carry the city if he removes the popular mayor and offends a large section of Tammany at the same time.

It is contended further that Judge Samuel Seabury and his investigators never really "got anything" out of Jimmy, that nothing of a criminal nature has been proved against him, that it never was demonstrated that a specific individual gave Walker a specific gift to obtain a special favor and that the evidence is not so strong that his removal would not be charged up to politics. "You must be great enough to do the unpopular thing," Roosevelt is said to have been told in reference to the probable national reaction.

Nearly Cases Repelled The other leaders are more or less excited about that type of propaganda, which, until recently at least, was being followed in New York by a wide belief that Jimmy would be saved. They have kept up a strong counter-propaganda in the direction of Albany. They say the governor will have a hard time avoiding dismissal of Walker in view of the rule he laid down in the Tin Box case—that public officials must explain large bank accounts. Reverting to the evidence, they recall the $10,000 letter of credit and the added $8000 which funded Walker's European trip and was traced back to a front client who later got the franchise—and to the various other incidents on which Seabury cast light.

Fussyfooting Feared Some of them even have passed the word to Albany that if Roosevelt removes Walker he will carry every state. They believe it would kill the belief that he vacillates and would set him up as a firm hero of the Cleveland or Wilson type. They argue that the only way to get along with Tammany is to fight with him and that Tammany can't harm the ticket unless Roosevelt gives the Republicans a chance to use it in a campaign slogan against him. They recall that Roosevelt, pussyfooting with the organization for a couple of years, attracted no criticism while receiving no credit and then found Tammany fighting him to the last ditch at the Chicago convention. They feel that New York soon will forget Walker and that with renewed upstate strength and the city ball in the hands of his friends, Roosevelt will have little trouble carrying his own state.

Health and Diet Advice By Dr. Frank McCoy THE TREATMENT OF TUBERCULOSIS The practice of overfeeding the tubercular patient is one that I cannot too strongly condemn, and I disagree emphatically with those authorities on tuberculosis who recommend stuffing with milk and eggs and complete rest in bed. I believe that this stuffing process so commonly used is responsible for much of the early deaths from this disease. It is a well-known fact that the digestion and assimilation of one suffering from this disease is always impaired. This being true, how can anyone by any right of the imagination believe that, if more rich foods are used, there will be a beneficial result? Nothing but indigestion and excess fermentation can result from such a ridiculous practice. One who is as weak as a tubercular patient can hardly be expected to have the power to assimilate even as much food as the ordinary person.

Health and Diet Advice

No medicines are of any particular value in tuberculosis, but a cure is almost always possible and the treatment is comparatively simple. It consists of: Plenty of fresh air; the right kind of food, and not too much; occupational therapy; rest; and a contented mind. These methods of sound simple, yet it is sometimes difficult to get a patient to adhere to this regimen for the required length of time. It is so easy for the patient to break over the traces and do wrong things, so that a relapse occurs. Because of this tendency the patient's mind should be employed with some constructive work which does not require much physical effort. There is no disease where greater care is necessary than in tuberculosis to bring about a cure, yet the cure will almost always result if the patient persists in the right method.

This first essential step is to eliminate the excess of toxic material from the body and especially from the lungs. I have found that this is accomplished with the greatest rapidity through a short fruit fast followed by a diet rich in proteins and non-starchy vegetables. Those foods such as carbohydrates and fats should not be used until the system has had the opportunity of expelling the accumulated phlegm which has already formed in the lungs.

Outside of the need of wholesome food in the right quantity and quality, the most important thing for the tubercular patient is to gain strength. If there is any way this can be accomplished except through exercise, I do not know of it; however, this exercise must be taken in moderation. The exercises rest treatment is weakening on the one hand, while violent exercises would only add to the enervation already existing and be injurious to the lungs. The sensible plan of exercising can be adopted by tanning the muscles each day. The patient who has been in bed for several months should start with light exercises for the fingers and forearm muscles; next the legs should be exercised while lying on the back. Easy exercises can be taken such as slowly raising and lowering the legs, and swinging the knees up and down toward the chest. The knees can be allowed to be slightly bent and the muscles all over the body tightened and relaxed alternately about the rate of eighteen times a minute. Care should be taken that the lungs are not contracted and extended to the greatest extent. No exercise should be taken at a time when there is much fever, but the tanning exercises may be used at other times, about once each hour while the patient is awake.

When the patient begins to gain in strength he can get up and take short walks several times daily, at first just around the room and finally out of doors, increasing the distance only a few steps at a time. The sleeping quarters should be where the air is fresh but not cold enough to be irritating to the

IN NEW YORK

Trunk Babies New York, Aug. 10 — "Trunk babies" held a position in the theater akin to the F. F. V's of the south. To say of an actor, "He's a trunk baby," is to concede a ripe tradition. It's all very well for dear old England to slap a plaque on Arnold Bennett's house, but at this moment the Fifth Avenue residence of Mark Twain is a shell waiting the executioners. Thus it has been for a couple of years. Teddy Roosevelt's Gramercy Park residence is a memorial, and the old Poe cottage may be located far up on the island.

One of the few markers in midtown is a modest bronze plate to Alan Seeger to be found in front of a rooming house in Washington Square South. Because of the uncertainty of wreckers' moods, a tree was planted just across the way as a second memorial. If the house is torn down, the tree will remain. "Nice Boys" Even in the days when Seeger lived there, it was a rooming house and it is as transient today as it was then. The room which Seeger occupied adjoined that of Stephen Crane and several others who occupy high places in American letters. Young artists and writers are still drawn there. Somehow, they manage to pay their bills more promptly.

A few years ago, talking with the pleasant old landlady, I was told that more of the brilliant young crew had attracted a great deal of attention at the time, but had seemed to "be such nice boys." A friend of mine once occupied the rooms in which Twain had written most of "Innocents Abroad." He had great difficulty getting these quarters, although the rent was fairly steep. It seemed that young writers from all over the land had some superstitious theory that creative effort would be stimulated by the atmosphere. Of course, it wasn't.

Quick Change Artists Visitors often ask why metal memorial tablets are not placed on New York dwellings and bulidings. An optometrist should be able to tell you upon examining the eye whether or not an improvement would be expected in your case. As a rule it is necessary to wear glasses.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS (Reducing Limbs) Question: Miss Arvia S. writes: "Kindly advise me whether massage will reduce unsightly fat calves when remainder of body is fairly slim. Also, please discuss the foods used or the habits of living which go to cause the formation of uric acid." Answer: Soaking the lower limbs in hot water and ospon salts for from fifteen to twenty minutes, followed by a massage without the use of oil, although mineral oil may be used, if you desire. Rubbing the leg from the foot towards the hip, is often helpful in reducing the fat of the legs. Walking is also advisable. The best exercise to use is to stand on one foot, balancing the body by placing one hand against the wall and raising alternately on the toe and heel. Uric acid is normally excreted by the kidneys. An excess amount is sometimes present in such diseases as rheumatism and gout and is due to improper metabolism in the body. The regimen outlined in my Cleansing Diet Cou.se will usually correct this trouble.

(Astigmatic Eye) Question: Mr. Aaron M. writes: "Please tell me the cause of astigmatism of the eye and is there any cure?" Answer: An astigmatic eye does not have any definite known cause. It is a defect in the shape of the eyeball. An optometrist should be able to tell you upon examining the eye whether or not an improvement would be expected in your case. As a rule it is necessary to wear glasses.

GERMANS TROWN BACK On Aug. 10, 1918, British troops continued their victorious drive against the Germans on the Somme front, driving forward in many places and increasing the number of prisoners taken in three days to more than 38,000. There have been no bank failures in China since Columbus discovered America. They cut their heads off over there. They ought to cut some off over here. —Rev. James F. MARVELOUS MANHATTAN BY WILLIAM GAINES. New York—Most of the Broadway shows of the past season ended up in Cain's theatrical warehouse, before many people got to see them, so I thought you might like to know something about the place. Forty-seven years ago, in August a retired policeman named John J. Cain got himself a horse and wagon and some storage space, and started the business of carting and keeping the scenery and effects of stage productions that had come to the end of their Broadway or road runs.

UNCLE SAM'S NEW TAXES WHERE THEY HIT YOU —AND HOW! BEER, WINE ILLEGAL, BUT THEY'RE TAKED JUST THE SAME Editor's Note: This is the 18th of 20 daily articles explaining the new federal taxes.

By ROBERT TALLEY NEA Service Writer (Copyright 1932, by NEA Service) Both beer and wine are illegal in the United States, but Uncle Sam is overlooking no bet when it comes to collecting taxes from home-brewers and amateur wine-makers in this big effort to balance the federal budget. Home-brewers and basement wine-makers are counted on to add a large share of an estimated yield of $82,000,000 from the new federal tax on manufacturers of brewers' wort, malt syrup, etc., and grape rather than drink water will pay on that, too—for mineral water is also taxed.

In many cases the tax is hidden in an increased retail price of the product. —The tax on brewers' wort is 15 cents a gallon and the tax on malt syrup, etc., is 3 cents a pound. Oddly enough, the law says that malt syrup, etc., is exempt from the tax if it is sold for such legal purposes as to a baker for making bread, to a manufacturer of medicinal products or textiles. But if it is sold for other purposes (home-brewing) the product is taxable. The tax on grape concentrate, etc., is 20 cents a gallon. Oddly enough, the law exempts from this tax any such product "which contains sufficient preservative to prevent fermentation when diluted."

A good home-brew drinker and his friends can get away with a five-gallon "batch" of home-brew weekly. A three-pound can of malt makes a "batch." At 3 cents a pound, that is a tax of 9 cents a week or about $5 a year for the home-brewer. And if you prefer neither home-brew, wine or beer and would rather drink water, there is a hook on that, too, for mineral water and table water, selling at over 12-15 cents a gallon are taxed at 2 cents per gallon.

TO SPONSOR STEAMER Camden, N. J., Aug. 10.—(A.P.)—Mrs. T. V. O'Connor, of Buffalo, wife of the chairman of the United States Shipping Board has been selected to sponsor the steamship Washington at its launching at the New York Shipbuilding Company yards here August 30. The Manhattan sister ship, starts its maiden voyage from New York today. Identical with its sister vessel, the Washington becomes one of the two largest liners ever built in this country. Both ships are 100,000 tons and each has a gross tonnage of 100,000.

NEW BRITAIN MAN KILLED Sherbrooke, Que., Aug. 10.—(A.P.)—Death in a hospital here last night of Henry Binette of New Britain, Conn., brought to a close the death list in a highway accident. A car containing nine United States citizens, three of them children, overturned and caught fire following the bursting of a tire on the highway between Manawatu, Quebec and Sherbrooke, Quebec.

Red peppers, used in making salads and pickles, are thought to have been used by American Indians more than a thousand years ago.

SCRUBWOMAN FINDS PEACE SHE SOUGHT

Anchors Her Little Boat Near Gulf of Mexico and Will Remain There.

Grand Isle, La., Aug. 10.—(AP)—The scrubwoman of the middle west who pointed the nose of her skiff down the Mississippi river and rowed away from civilization, has cast her lot here with the descendants of the pirate Jean Lafitte—and she likes it.

Randi Lerohi has found the peace she sought. To the natives of French, Spanish, German and other extractions, she is the "mystery woman." When she arrived three months ago, they welcomed her with their frugal hospitality but she would have none of it.

"I want to be left alone"—she said. And she has been left alone. The U. S. Coast Guard station has added her to its guarding duties. She first anchored a stone's throw from where Jean Lafitte and his crew once moored the fleet that preyed upon Spanish galleons. The Coast Guard towed her into the sheltered waters of Bay des Lettes and anchored her craft, "The Wanderer," in the quiet waters back of this island.

Here she has stayed in the Gulf of Mexico's hot sun and salt breezes which once she said she hoped would bring relief to a back bent from miles of floors scrubbed clean.

Land of Her Dreams That she has found the land of her dreams and is vouchered for by John Ludwig, whose old store lies in the island's postoffice, and Captain Martin Anderson, head of the Coast Guard.

To Ludwig's store, the scrubwoman comes monthly for provisions, paying with the old large one dollar bills.

Her skiff is secured to the life boat which New Orleans sympathizers gave her. A canvas cabin protects her from the rain. Therein she defies any breach of the privacy she demands. And the natives respect her wishes.

Grocer Ludwig said that on every provision tour the aged woman asks for a letter from St. Paul Minn. A letter with money. The last trip she bought cord and said she would make a crabbing net.

J. P. PHELAN DIES

Toronto, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Thomas P. Phelan, 80, millionaire president of the Canadian Railway News Company and former ace of steepchessers in North America, died last night.

A native of Lewiston, N. Y., Mr. Phelan had a romantic career from the time he landed in Canada at the age of 15 after swimming the Niagara river. His first Canadian job was peddling newspapers on railway trains.

The Canadian Railway News Company was organized in 1882, and since then Phelan had been prominently identified with it. He founded a chain of 1,000 restaurants the company owns from coast to coast in Canada.

The ex-newsboy owned or partly owned many famous horses, including Hercules, Driftwood and Lion Heart. He was credited with winning more steepchess than any one man in North America. For many years he rode his own horses.

JAIL ALIMONY DODGER

Hartford, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Failure to pay the $12 a week alimony ordered by the court when his wife obtained a divorce nearly two and a half years ago brought Luigi Gallucci, of Middletown to the Hartford county jail this afternoon for an indefinite stay. Judge Edwin C. Dickinson ordered him committed for contempt of court, until he pays at least $200 of the $1,400 of which he is in arrears.

ROCKVILLE PLAN ANNUAL FLOWER SHOW TOMORROW

To Meet At Kostolefsky Home In Evening To Make Arrangements For Exhibit.

The August meeting of the Rockville Community Garden Club will be held on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kostolefsky of West street. This will be one of the most important meetings of the year as plans will be perfected for the annual Fall Flower Show which is to be held on September 10 and 11.

The meeting will be called to order at 8 o'clock by the president, James Galavin, but the members are urged to arrive early so as they can visit the beautiful gardens before dark.

The meeting will be held as scheduled regardless of weather conditions. It is most important that all chairmen of committees be present so they can obtain the different views of the members in regard to the various phases of the show. It is expected the chairmen will also name their assistants at this time.

Margaretha Lodge Picnic Mrs. Ida Weber will be the hostess at a Margaretha Lodge picnic and meeting to be held this evening at her summer home on Tolland avenue. Supper will be served at 6:30 o'clock and will consist of salads, cold meats, rolls, pickles, watermelon, kuchen, cake and coffee.

The grounds will be attractively illuminated with colored electric lights and Japanese lanterns. The committee in charge has left nothing undone to make the event a complete success. The bus leaving the center at 4 p. m. goes directly to the cottage and the members should make a special effort to go at this time and enjoy a social hour before the supper.

In the evening there will be a program of entertainment and "dog" roast. The committee in charge includes: Mrs. Augusta Pitkit, Mrs. Lydia Tennstedt, Mrs. Mary Hartman, Mrs. Freida Glass and Mrs. Ida Weber.

Marriage Intentions Filed The following marriage intentions have been filed at the office of the town clerk in the Memorial building:

Ador J. Bonvouloir, 41, Hartford, and Mrs. Gertrud R. Hart, 35, Vernon Center. This intention was filed on Saturday.

Joseph G. Zowada, 26, East Main street, Rockville, and Helen C. Hinzman, 27, King street, Rockville. This intention was also filed on Saturday.

J. Edward Hemmann, 29, Orchard street, Rockville and Beatrice R. Rhodes, 20, Brooklyn street, Rockville.

Happy Circle 4-H Club The next meeting of the Happy Circle, 4-H Club, of this city, will be held at the home of Miss Helen Meyers of Mountain street, this city, at which time the members will can beans as the feature of the afternoon's program. Miss Frances Costello is leader of the club and she has announced that splendid work is being done by this group of young girls.

On Saturday the group enjoyed its first annual picnic at Land-O-Pines, Stafford Lake. Luncheon was served and a "dog" roast enjoyed. Transportation was provided.

STATE'S NEW RIFLE RANGE AMONG BEST

Col. Harry B. Bissell Played Big Part In Construction of Rogers Lake Camp.

Colonel Harry B. Bissell, chief of staff of the 43d Division, National Guard, took newspaper men Monday on an inspection tour of the National Guard rifle range at Peck Farm where Company G and other units of the 2d battalion of the 169th Regiment are firing this week for record.

Colonel Bissell pointed out the advantages of the range, which expert riflemen say makes the range on par with the nationally known range at Camp Perry, Ohio.

On Rogers Lake The new range replaces an older one located at the opposite end of the Stone Ranch, allowing that area to be used for troop maneuvers and a field artillery and howitzer range. The new range, situated on the east shore of Rogers Lake in the northern part of the town of Old Lyme is so constructed as to be but 14 degrees off true north, giving the range sunlight, antiaircraftwise, all day during firing periods.

By cooperation with the state water commission and pollution commission, adequate water has been supplied from a deep well, the water being pumped to a tank on the high ground on the southerly part of the range from which point it is distributed to all parts of the area.

These In Charge Plans for the range were approved by a board named by Brigadier General William F. Ladd, the adjutant general of the state and which included Colonel Bissell, Colonel Michael A. Connor, the Quartermaster General, Lt.-Colonel Robert F. Gadd, Lt.-Col. Joseph P. Nolan, Major A. Frederick Oberlin, Captain Ashley Griffin, and Captain Charles R. Sargent of Manchester, regular army officer.

The range has 40 targets, set up 200 yards from the firing point, with provisions made for extension up to

BISHOP IS BURIED

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Funeral mass for the Most Rev. Daniel Joseph Curley, third bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Syracuse, was held in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception this morning and was followed by an eulogy, the ceremony of final absolution, before interment in the crypt under the altar where the bishop's two predecessors lie.

The rites opened with the chanting of the office for the dead—matins and lauds—by more than 300 priests assembled in the sanctuary. Officiating at the mass were His Excellency the Most Rev. John J. Dunn, auxiliary bishop of New York, assisted by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Daniel Doody of Utica, with the Rt. Rev. Msgr. James P. McPeak and the Very Rev. Msgr. Charles F. McAvoy as deacons of honor.

VESSELS COLLIDE Dover, England, Aug. 10.—(AP)—The Nelson line freighter Moliere, from London to South America, collided during a dense fog in the channel today with an unidentified French steamer.

Her bow was damaged and she put back to London with water in the fore hold. The French vessel continued her voyage.

Many tobacco growers have started harvesting their tobacco crop this week.

J. Watson Viber, Jr., of South Windsor, celebrated his fifth birthday Monday afternoon by having his young cousins at his home.

STEAMER CHANGED COURSE

Boston, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Captain James O. Sandbury of the steamer Nantucket which was in collision Saturday night with the steamer Martha's Vineyard, off Oak Bluffs said today a steamboat inspector's hearing the accident would not have occurred if the Martha's Vineyard had not changed her course.

Both vessels suffered minor damage in the collision and no one was seriously hurt.

NORWALK BOOMING

Norwalk, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Following the optimistic business announcement of The Hat Corporation of America here yesterday, stating that 1200 employees were working full time, several other hat manufacturers in the city, employing a total of approximately 500 workers, made similar statements today.

Officials of the American Hat Company, employing a full time crew of 250, declared that the demand is more than seasonal; at the Falco Hat Company plant it was stated that the firm is working 23 hours a day with a force of 100 and that 50 more will be employed within a few days; a capacity force is working six days a week at the Leval Hat Company, and more than a score of workers are on a full time schedule at the D. L. Davis, Inc., factory.

WATKINS' HUGE FURNITURE SALE CHALLENGE TO CHANGING TIMES

Amazing Values Offered As Method of Meeting Re-adjustment Needs — Disposal of Large Stock Necessary—Does Not Mean That 58 Year Old Firm Is To Go Out of Business.

Watkins Brothers, Incorporated, for the past 58 years the leading household furnishings establishment in Manchester, today announces the opening of a gigantic sale of $175,000 worth of furniture and floor coverings.

C. Elmore Watkins

of the rapidly changing era of merchandising, Watkins Brothers Inc., has built up a business in this period, based on sterling merchandising methods, quality stocks and has won friends each year to hold fast the good will and friendship through perilous times.

New Measures Sought In the rapidly adjusting era of changes in policies of business and industry in general, it is increasingly evident that heroic measures must be brought to bear to stimulate buying by the public.

The Plain Untarnished Truth A statement by C. Elmore Watkins "For more than 58 years Watkins Brothers have conscientiously and progressively served our part of the state of Connecticut in such a way as to win and hold fast the good will and friendship of a constantly increasing number of substantial families numbering into the thousands."

"We must readjust our stock immediately to meet today's existing conditions. There can be no half-hearted efforts now and so we plainly and forcefully announce here-with:

"Probably never again, we trust, in this generation, will such an opportunity of necessity be repeated for the people of this part of the state to buy fine furniture and floor coverings at such prices! DRASTIC MEASURES ARE NECESSARY! WATKINS BROTHERS, INC. C. Elmore Watkins, Treasurer."

Watkins Brothers Fine Furniture Store

the Watkins Brothers, Inc., management has frequently passed values in lower prices on quality goods along to their clients, still the action has not been of sufficient scope to bring the town and country out of "the doldrums."

Hold Two Persons On Murder Charge Fingerprints Made Basis; Aged Recluse Was Killed In Her Mansion.

Natchez, Miss., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Fingerprints of the eccentric master and mistress of "Goat Castle," a run down mansion, have been made the basis for murder charges against them in the slaying of their aristocratic neighbor, Miss Jane Surget Merrill, aged recluse.

Miss Dockery, known as the "Goat Woman" because of her herd, and Dana, adjudged in court to be mentally incompetent and placed in the "Goat Woman's" care, already had been charged with slaying Miss Merrill. Both entered "amplicito" denials and had counsel to represent them today.

Miss Dockery is the daughter of a Confederate general and was edu-various departments for this epic event. Remarkable Reductions will be given on all merchandise as can be seen by the advertisements in today's Herald. Less than five per cent of the stock of the store will not be included in the sale.

Several such sets retelling a year ago at $1,000 will be sold in this sale for less than cost of the buffet. The finest furniture obtainable in the Nation's best furniture mart, of the most excellent workmanship and designs will be sold during this sale.

WALKER'S HEARING TO BE TOMORROW

Cast of Characters in Noted Trial To Be Held Before Governor Roosevelt.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 10.—(AP)—The cast of characters—a widely dissimilar cast—is complete for a political drama such as the Dutch burghers of early Albany and their progeny to the present never before witnessed. The drama is "The Hearing of Jimmy Walker" set for tomorrow.

Up To Governor The heaviest lines of the drama fall to Seabury and Walker but the chief role is Roosevelt, who when the last of the arguments for or against Walker remaining as mayor have been made, must decide which it will be.

A Guide To Buying
An advertisement recently featured this quotation from John Ruskin: "There is scarcely anything in the world that some man cannot make a little worse and sell a little cheaper, and the buyers who consider price only are this man's lawful prey."

Those of you who are back from vacation and getting your housekeeping in order for the winter might include in your plans the services of the New Model Laundry. How much simpler your work will be if you send your weekly laundry to the New Model (Dial 8072).

A window display at the local Montgomery Ward store, featuring new fall dresses, attracted me to the Fashion Department where the most remarkable values I have ever seen are on sale at the extremely low price of $1.50. It seems almost unbelievable that such excellent materials and up to the minute styles are available, and at such a price.

Always Something
Now we hear about buttonholes made of preserved mushrooms—actually, a Parisian designer hit upon the idea, treats the mushrooms so that they are hard and unbreakable, and colors them in all shades by hand painting. Her collection varies from tiny ones for buttonhole flowers to big plants for house decoration, the petals made of mammoth mushrooms.

JAPAN CONTINUES TO RAP STIMSON

into words of the most offensive character his domestic views, how of utter failure to understand Sino-Japanese relations.

Whether an official protest will be filed at Washington was understood to depend largely on what Ambassador Debutch recommends.

The foreign office spokesman complained especially of Stimson's publication of the 1918 note, heretofore a secret document, without consulting Tokyo.

Answering Critics
"Evidently," he said, "the secretary was trying to answer opponents who are charging him with undue harshness toward Japan by showing that the last Democratic administration also criticized Japanese policies on the Continent of Asia."

The spokesman said the foreign office believed the speech was part of an effort of the Republican administration to popularize its foreign policy on the eve of election.

"For that reason," he added, "it is a mistake to attach undue importance to the speech."

Not the Aggressor
The 1918 note referred to was Secretary Lansing's note to Japan criticizing Japanese military action in Siberia.

"It is impossible to doubt," the spokesman added, "that Secretary Stimson has been accusing Japan of aggression in Manchuria, although his remarks all have been confined to the polite indirections of diplomacy."

In his strong interpretation Monday night of the Kellogg-Briand pact as an instrument for outlawing war, Secretary Stimson asserted a spirit of direct concern to all the nations signatory to the treaty.

Abandoning the old concept under which other nations than the disputants were supposed to maintain neutrality, the secretary took the view that under the treaty the signatory nations would and it necessary to consult with each other regarding the moves they might take to avert active conflict.

He reviewed the dispute between China and Japan over Manchuria, which now is being studied by a commission from the League of Nations, and the efforts made by the other nations of the world to bring about a peaceful settlement.

"Finally," he said, "when in spite of these efforts Japan has occupied all of Manchuria, the American government formally notified both that government and China, on January 7, 1922, that it would not recognize any situation, treaty, or agreement which might be brought about by means contrary to the covenant and obligations of the pact of Paris."

A month or so later, he added, 49 members of the League of Nations, Japan alone refraining from voting, adopted a similar resolution.

SEVEN DEAD, SEVEN HURT IN MADRID STREET FIGHT

An hour of intermittent heavy fighting, during which the Cibeles plaza and adjoining streets were raked by machine gun fire.

Authorities described the attacking forces as disaffected troops, Communists, monarchists and other extremists.

The first attack began in front of the war ministry building.

Two automobiles filled with the attackers appeared before the building, heavily armed, and were met with a burst of fire from the government police, under the personal direction of Director of Public Safety Llanusa de Arco, commander of the Tetuan cavalry unit, was expected momentarily. Government officials said the cavalry troop started toward Madrid from Alcalá de Henares, but returned to its barracks of its own volition.

The Socialists General Workers' union announced it had called a mass meeting in which it was understood a 24-hour strike would be declared in protest against what it called "a monarchist rebellion." Labor headquarters sent delegates to the working districts to urge workmen not to support the movement.

names of those arrested in connection with the attack, but it was understood several officers of the army were included.

By 7 p. m. people were going to work as usual and only the heavy guards posted at strategic points gave a hint of what had happened.

Groups of Republicans assembled in the center of the Puerto Del Sol, however, and paraded, carrying banners, shouting "Long Live the Republic!" and demanding the death penalty for the rebels.

They were followed by a thick load of the police guards who fought in the battle a short time before. Loud cheers greeted the appearance of the victorious defenders.

Among the Rebels. Captain Manuel Silvestre, son of the late African campaign in 1921, was among the wounded rebels. The arrest of Lieutenant Colonel Eduardo Lizarrza de Arco, commander of the Tetuan cavalry unit, was expected momentarily. Government officials said the cavalry troop started toward Madrid from Alcalá de Henares, but returned to its barracks of its own volition.

insurance steamer and the mail passenger. The Santo Padre, badly damaged, was taken in tow by fishermen and brought to the fish pier. Members of the Padre crew were brought to Boston by the Allerton. Anthony Corallo, skipper of the Padre, denied his running lights were dim. He said they were electric and the required number were lit. Captain McFarland said he ordered the engines reversed and swung his wheel as soon as he saw the fisherman.

Associated Press reporters, two of whom were forced to seek shelter in a small vestibule in the communications building while bullets splattered on the walls around them during the battle, estimated that approximately two companies of rebel soldiers were engaged in the fight.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MONA MORAN, receptionist in a Wall Street law office, is in love with BARRY TOWNSEND, rich and socially prominent. She met Barry through STEVE SACCAHELLI, her childhood sweetheart, who has returned to New York after three years absence. Steve has been in South America where, largely by chance, he has become associated with Barry, owner of a diamond mine long believed worthless. Together they have made the mine pay and are now business partners. Steve owns a huge diamond mine called "The Empress of Peru." LOTTIE CARR, fashion model, joins Mona, Barry and Steve on several dinner and dancing engagements.

Mona's brother, BUD, becomes involved with gangsters who plan to steal the big diamond. Steve suspects this, traps Bud and when he confesses helps him escape to South America where he is to have a job at the mine.

Some time later Barry invites Mona, Lottie and Steve to spend Sunday at his uncle's palatial country home. They make the trip in Steve's roadster. Barry is a delightful host. However, when he and Mona are together he falls to propose.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIX

Mrs. Faxon joined the young people at luncheon. Elizabeth, Barry's sister, had telephoned, she said, Elizabeth, marrying early, was the mother of four children and kept in daily touch with the Townsend ménage yet Mrs. Faxon mentioned her call as if it were an occasion.

"Want anything?" Barry inquired.

"Just to say hello. And to suggest that you might like to drive over for dinner this evening."

"That reminds me," Barry exclaimed, "I thought it might be a good spot to have dinner at the camp. There are steaks around somewhere, aren't there? Jean could make—"

"Splendid!" Mrs. Faxon said delightedly, and took the reins of preparation out of Barry's hands. "I'll send Jimmy down to get the place warm and dusted."

Turning to Mona she went on, "You should feel duly flattered. Barry shows the camp only to his closest friends. I've known of people to hint for weeks."

"It's my private thinking place," Barry admitted.

After luncheon the four piled into Barry's roadster and made a tour of the countryside. They stopped for tea at a small inn and when they returned to the motor car Barry drove with Mona beside him; Steve and Lottie, in the rumble seat, were apparently deep in some gay secret. Steve's cheeks, punctuated by Lottie's high-pitched chatter, reached Mona in the front seat.

The car ran smoothly along the highway, dipping with the hills, rising again amid rows of oaks and maples. It glided past the carefully checked meadows that made up the well-groomed estates of the rich.

Here all was luxury—no huddled towns of tiny houses, no glaring billboards, no small shops.

As the road twisted and turned the sinking sun reddened, ahead of them danced to the left, then the right again and finally disappeared, as if to terminate the pleasant game of hide and seek they had been playing. Almost immediately they were back at Twilight, returning by a new road. Dark was settling in the trees.

The girls ran upstairs, laughing and chatting.

"Hey you!" Barry called.

"That's for me," explained Lottie. "Didn't I tell you he always calls me that?" She turned and said, "What?"

"Hey you! Dinner is broiling. Come on!"

Mrs. Faxon had gone ahead with Jimmy and the huge basket of supplies. Mona and Lottie, Steve and Barry, set out to follow over the gently freezing road, then struck out crossroads for the camp.

On the veranda the appetizing odor of broiling steak greeted them. Jimmy, kneeling before the flame, was guarding the place de resistance tenderly but relinquished his place immediately to Barry. Jean, smiling from the kitchen door, was mixing salad dressing. The camp now was warm, cozy and delightful.

Mrs. Faxon, busying herself at the table, called them at last to sit down.

When they had finished eating they turned on the radio and danced. Mona, puzzled at first, decided that Barry was avoiding her.

When he addressed her he seemed to keep the conversation on a general note. The servants departed carrying the emptied hampers and Mrs. Faxon, from her crepe and five seat, beamed on the little party approvingly.

"She likes us," Mona thought. And she was right. Mrs. Faxon thought of Mona eagerly and her friends Lottie, laughing and amusing.

"Barry should have more good times like this," Mrs. Faxon was telling herself. Loyal to the club, the dissension between Barry and his uncle worried her. She did her best to help each of them arrive at a more complete understanding.

At least all of them left the little camp wrapped in darkness and silence. Mona thought, as she took Steve's arm, that the whole day had been over too soon. Lottie walked with Barry and he told her of the southern cross of the tropics and the lunar rainbow he had seen once in Port of Spain.

"Everyone was awfully about the lunar rainbow, I remember. Steve and I had gone to bed. The night was dark and the white moonlight had ever seen and when I heard a noise in the night, I got out of bed and saw the rainbow hanging above the house across the street. The rainbow was a faint arc of color. When I mentioned it next morning everybody was much more excited about that than they had been about the murder. Billings were frequent enough but lunar rainbows were rare."

"As Mona drew on her hat before the mirror she thought with a pang that in a scant quarter of an hour she would leave this delightful place. How easy her entrance had been and how simple her departure! Another 15 minutes and then an exit through the door. She might never enter Barry's life again!

She left Lottie busy before the dressing table and descended the stairs just in time to hear Jimmy call Barry to the phone.

"Mr. Dower calling," he said. Presently Barry reappeared and caught Mona's hand in his own. There was no one else in the hall and he drew her into the drawing room.

"Does it make any difference to you that Steve is my friend?" he asked. "I mean, do you like me any better because of that?"

His eyes, looking into hers, were troubled. "You didn't like me at first at the office, did you?" Barry went on.

Mona drew her hand away gently. "Of course I like you," she said promptly though a trifle shakily. She had wanted to see Barry alone. The moment was here now.

"All right then," Barry was saying in a low tone. "Have dinner with me Monday? Tuesday then? Confound it, Wednesday!"

"Call me Wednesday morning," Mona agreed and the three of them were off.

Monday and Tuesday passed for Mona in a glow of happiness. She was to see Barry Wednesday.

But Barry did not call on Wednesday. The telephone rang frequently. Five calls came for her but none was from Barry. At four o'clock Steve telephoned.

"Barry was ill," he said. Out at Twilight, Mrs. Faxon was afraid it was influenza.

YOUR CHILDREN

Childbirth at Home Requires Careful Preparation. I think it desirable for expectant mothers to have their babies in hospitals.

It would be more than foolish not to realize that equipment today for childbirth has reached a stage that no home can ever approach for safety of health and life.

But there are conditions existing today that make it impossible in some cases to expect hospitalization. In some of the smaller towns and even in the larger cities on account of lack of funds, hospitals have had to close and many of those operating have had to reduce expenses and therefore their work of mercy.

Less Charity Today. It must be remembered that no case is free. Although a patient may not pay, somebody pays. Those who have kept up these "free" wards and operating and delivery rooms have had incomes reduced terribly. By reduced dividends and heavy taxation of incomes their benevolences in many cases have ceased.

Another view of the situation is this. Many of those who formerly could pay their way cannot pay now. It is a tragic problem for the woman who faces motherhood and knows that she may not expect the sanctuary of a house of healing.

I had all my babies at home. And only once did I have a trained nurse. This, of course, at some time ago, coming mother was not so other way out; to know that it can be done.

Count ten again and let yourself relax. Repeat this exercise four times.

Keep your position by the wall. Imagine that a hook has been let down from the ceiling and attached to the center of your head. Pretend that someone is pulling the rope, and you are being drawn up. Your chest will raise and expand. It can't help it. This uplift movement is a youthful one.

Keep your shoulders relaxed and forward. Let your arms swing toward the center, too. The old habit of throwing your shoulders back is neither graceful nor helpful. Besides, it throws you out of shape.

Now, still holding this position, walk across the floor. You will be surprised at the ease with which you are able to do it. Instead of withdrawing from life, you are cultivating a posture that goes to meet it.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

by Alicia Hart
BY NEA SERVICE INC.

You may be a little too thin, or a little too plump, but if you carry yourself as though you were at least a second cousin of a princess, your grace and graciousness will make up for the misappropriated inches.

Every now and then a poet breaks out with a rhyme about someone who walks in beauty. Anyone can do it. But it may take time. And it does require practice.

If you want a pleasing posture, here are some exercises which will help you attain it.

Stand against a flat wall. Make sure that your heels, your buttocks, the blades of your shoulders and the back of your head touch the wall. Now mentally count ten. Forget about your breathing. The thing that you are trying to do is touch the wall with the small of your back. Of course, you can't. But make a grand effort, and note the way the muscles respond.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

As each vegetable comes into season and becomes plentiful, its possibilities must be studied and carefully worked out if the homemaker receives full value and benefit from it. Vegetables provide an abundant, varied and low cost this time of year, if time and thought are spent in their preparation.

The cooking of vegetables in combinations is a worth-while way to save work and fuel. Mild flavored vegetables especially lend themselves to this sort of cookery. Combined with a strong flavored vegetable, the result is a pleasant and out-of-the-ordinary whole.

Turnips and potatoes are a time-honored example of such a combination. Inexpensive vegetables combined with expensive ones frequently make it possible to economize without sacrificing palatability.

Summer squash is a splendid vegetable, but it is often criticized as tasteless because it is thoughtlessly prepared and served. It is especially good in combinations on account of its bland flavor. Combined with tomatoes and cheese it offers a well-flavored main dish of high food value.

CLUB DIRECTOR PRAISES WORKING GIRLS' COURAGE

Majority Are Helping Families Financially; Few Want Either Aid or Sympathy.

By HELEN WELSHIMMER

New York, Aug. 9.—The depression that has been upsetting all sorts of air castles for many girls has had one splendid feature, according to Mrs. Ida J. Hutchison, director of one of the largest and oldest clubs for young women in New York City.

It has proved that girls are good sports. They don't complain. They take their blows and come up smiling. And if it is all the same to the general public, they don't want any sympathy!

For 20 years Mrs. Hutchison has been the director of the Kiltredge Club for Girls, which is housed in an old stone building near the East River. An average membership of 700 of the younger business women of New York come to the club in search of recreation, self improvement and health programs.

"Most Live At Home." "Nearly every girl and young woman in the club lives at home with her own family," Mrs. Hutchison says, which upsets the old theory that most girls in New York struggle along in rooming houses or crowded apartments. "And nearly every girl is helping her family financially. In many cases the father, mother and several brothers and sisters are out of work. The girl is the support of the household."

"Their terrific courage almost startles me. They don't complain. They don't mind sacrificing. It is almost impossible to find out just which ones need economic help. When a girl finally admits that she might be able to use 'just a little money,' it is a sign that she needs it desperately. In every instance, with one or two exceptions, the thousands of girls who have received loans during the years have paid them back entirely. They also insist on performing some service for every cent they accept."

Some of the girls make splendid salaries. But as their responsibilities increase they meet them just exactly as the lesser salaried girls do, Mrs. Hutchison has found.

"Have Summer Camp." "During this period it is especially necessary to conduct a campaign to keep up the morale of girls," says the woman who has become a specialist in the art of understanding.

"I keep repeating to them that everything is going to be fine in a little while. I am making them go to our camp in the mountains, whether they have any money or not. They will pay us back later. They refuse to go any other way."

The Kiltredge Club has one of the best known little theater groups in the country. Dancing, musical programs, bridge, swimming, riding, tennis, gymnasium work, classes in crafts, interior decorating, domestic art, typing, shorthand—that's the way the schedule of activities begins, and every girl is free to choose as many interests as she wants.

"The club spirit is necessary, just at this time when money is scarce," Miss Hutchison says. But she also has noticed that the old desire for homes and marriage, instead of careers, hasn't changed.

"Girls enter employment, as a rule, because they are pushed into it," she explains. "When they get into it they like it. But I have observed that they are always delighted when they are going to be married. They don't want to go back to their offices. If they do continue their work, it is always understood that it is 'just for a little while.'"

"The classes which are devoted to making things for the home are always crowded. The cooking class is especially popular. Just one class with a domestic slant has changed! Once upon a time we had four embroidery classes. They were large, too. Today we have one small one."

But that is as it should be, she believes. Girls are taking their stitches along more practical patterns.

INCREASING NUMBER OF AGED ADDS TO HEALTH IMPORTANCE

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of articles by Dr. Fishbein on Good Health After 60. In this series he explains the pitfalls to health for the aged, and tells how to avoid them. The remaining articles will be published daily in The Herald.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Although 100 years of life is possible to human beings, only 80 people in 3,000,000 reach that age. And more than two-thirds of the persons who do reach that age are women.

The reason for this latter fact is that women are usually less exposed to accident and infection and, what is more important, are more apt to lead temperate lives.

Census figures from Great Britain show that the average number of persons more than 100 in the British Isles is about 110, and that 80 of this number are women.

These figures are not absolutely accurate, since most old people are proud of their age and tend to exaggerate. For example, in nearly every census, more people who give their ages as over 81 are found than people who give their ages as between 85 and 90. British health authorities assume that many jump from 85 to 91 in a year or two.

However, the span of life is gradually increasing, and in time we may expect to have more and more people above 90. The rapid reason for this remains the rapid decline in death rates for infants.

Thus, a man born in 1854 had a life expectancy of 40 years. Now he may reasonably expect to live to be 59. Having reached the age of 60, a man's expectancy of life is now 14 1/2 years and a woman's is 16 years.

Since heredity seems to play a large part in longevity, it is conceivable, according to Sir Humphrey Rolleston of England, that encouragement of intermarriage between families that tend to live long would produce stock that tended to live long.

However, such experiments among humans are almost impossible, and this theory must remain largely a matter of conjecture.

One of our greatest problems we have to face is to make the life of the aged person a happier and health one. They must realize their shortcomings in regard to strength and ability to throw off disease. While these around them should ways take into consideration changes which come with advanced age.

If older persons observe the simple rules of health, there is no reason why their declining years should not be happy ones.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

Five Men Are Unable to Control Fate in "The Gap in the Curtain"

In "The Gap in the Curtain" John Buchan considers the things that men might do if they could get a certain glimpse into the future.

By one of those bits of hocus-pocus permitted to novelists, he has five Englishmen shown a copy of a newspaper dated exactly one year ahead.

A financier learns that a certain great merger is to be announced on that date. A politician discovers that a supposedly unimportant statesman is to become prime minister then. A young aristocrat learns that he is to sail on an archaeological expedition to Yucatan on that day. And two other notices.

Mr. Buchan then shows how these five react to the news.

The financier does his best to cash in on his knowledge—and succeeds in losing 20,000 pounds. The politician, striving to insure his own fortune, manages only to drive himself out of politics. The young aristocrat goes to Yucatan despite every effort to dodge it. One of the two forewarned of death goes way to panic—and dies on schedule.

Only the fifth man is able to circumvent his fate, and he does it by accident rather than by design.

Mr. Buchan's point is that it isn't enough to know what is going to happen, unless we also know how it is going to happen. A glimpse into the future, he concludes, is worse than useless unless it tells every thing.

He makes of "The Gap in the Curtain" a thoroughly interesting book. Published by the Houghton-Mifflin Co., it sells for $2.50.

Census figures show that twice as many women as men live to be 100. That certainly shows full of hope for the future about talking your soul to death.

Counting themselves over one eye is one of the tricks that a large number of the new fall hats are practicing. They swing down on the right side of the forehead in a demure manner and sit up on the left side in an audacious gesture that reveals most of the hair. The contrast of the two moods is decidedly effective.

At left is a beige stitched velvet with a brim that is set high on the crown in the back, coming low over the right side of the head. The other hat, of stitched black velvet, opposes a turban effect. Clusters of black and white flowers are attached to either side.

U. S. Favored To Win Eight Oared Championship

Suffer Three Setbacks In Smaller Boat Tests

American's Most Serious Opposition Will Be From Cambridge, Representing Great Britain—Australian Defeats Yankee's Best Sculler.

Long Beach, Cal., Aug. 10.—(AP)—"This was dreadful day" in the Olympic naval battle with the University of California's powerful, undefeated crew a favorite to defend America's eight oared championship.

After three straight setbacks for the United States in the first day's engagements among smaller craft, the big California battleship was relied upon to fire a broadside to offset these reversals.

The Americans had a fight on their hands with the formidable Canadian crew besides the eights of Germany and New Zealand to contend within the first trials. Under conditions which seem only the Cambridge University crew without further argument, the United States eight figured to "shoot the works" along the 2,000 meter straightaway.

Victory today would ease the Californians fight to retain the title won by another Golden Bear boat four years ago.

The Americans' most serious opposition otherwise figured to come from the Cambridge University crew representing Great Britain, a top-heavy choice to beat Japan, Italy and Brazil in today's second heat.

There's a second chance however, for all the crews beaten in their classification tests under a "reclassification" system, designed to get the four best entries into the finals for each event. The winner of each first preliminary and the winner of each of two subsequent trials gets into the finals.

This system offers a fresh chance tomorrow for Bill Miller, national sculling champion and the other Philadelphia oarsmen defeated yesterday. Miller, despite a gallant effort trailed a length behind Bobby Pearce, the famous Australian sculler and Olympic champion. Pearce exhibited the finest combination of skill and power of the day in negotiating the 2,000 meters in seven minutes and 20 seconds.

Leslie (Dick) Southwood of Great Britain joined Pearce qualifying for the finals by overhauling G. Douglas of Uruguay in an exciting finish to win by a length in 7:42.3.

Poland's husky oarsmen handed the Americans their other two setbacks, beating the Penn. A. C. four with Coxswain in a race in which Japan was last and then scoring decisively over the United States' Clark twins, Gene and Tom, in the pair-oared event without coxswain.

Each of these nations scored clean sweeps in fights yesterday and last night that saw 19 aspirants swept into the discard. Italy team winner in 1928 had victorious candidates in the flyweight, lightweight and welterweight ranks.

Germany also had winners in each of these events while Americans had their hands raised in bouts in the flyweight, bantamweight and welterweight classes.

FRANCIMORE LOSES FIGHT TO HORNER

Knocked Down Twice In Feature Bout At Crystal Lake; O'Bright Drops Decision.

Mike Murphy, the Italian slugger from East Hampton, who has come a long way under the direction of Pop Bride, did not win his match with Young Griffo of East Hartford in the semi-final of ten well-matched bouts staged by C. D. K. club of Rockville at Crystal Lake last night. But he continued to make a fight of the three rounds scheduled losing a decision to Young Griffo, because the latter fought "Heads Up" all through and gave to the largest audience that has yet gathered at the Stafford Springs Arena plenty to cheer about.

The Murphy-Griffo fight was not the only good card of the ten presented. Jackie Horner, 187, Broad Brook, fighting Jimmie Francimore, 162, kept the final bout in action and in the first round Horner had Jimmie down twice on his knees. The beating that he was getting came to a stop in the second chapter when Horner swinging a right cross opened a cut above Jimmie's left eye and the referee ended the fight, awarding Horner the decision.

Charles Backofen, 129, Rockville, making his first appearance in the roped circle was sent against Ted Roy Chink, 125, Monson. The fight lasted one round, almost, and in that time Backofen was down for good.

Fred Williams, 149, of Thompsonville, found Guinn the better man all through the three rounds and the decision went to Guinn.

Local Boy Loses
Adolph O'Bright, 125, Manchester, exchanged wallop with Tony Phillips, 129, Rockville, and Phillips got the decision because he did more fighting than O'Bright, who did too much posing and little fighting.

In the scrap between Bill Polwitz, 145, East Hartford and Jackie Williams, 149, Monson, the first round went to Williams, but the second went to the East Hartford man, who sent Williams to the floor for a count of seven, but Williams fought back hard in the third and won the award with a score of 13-12.

Al Russell, 165, Monson, won over Young Stanley, 156, Thompsonville, by left jab and overhanded rights and then sending a right to the jaw that told on Stanley.

Frenchy Wins by K. O.
Battling Frenchy, 174, Rockville, again won his fight by the usual way, a knockout. The victim was Al King of Somersville, who was put away with one of Frenchy's hard right swings in the first round.

Eddie Banning had no trouble in winning from Al Satryb, 138, Rockville and in doing this administered good licking to the Rockville boy. East Hampton's youth was the better boxer and hit hard and often.

Jimmie Britt, 110, Rockville, won from Norman Lasch, 110, Danielson in a decision.

Huck Betts, Braves—Shut out league leaders Pirates with four hits to win 4 to 0.

Harvey Hendrick, Reds—Scored tying run in 9th and drove in winning tally in 10th against Brooklyn.

Vernon Gomez, Yankees—Held Browns to eight hits and fanned five to win 19th victory of the season.

GREEN SCORES 3RD WIN OVER FIREMEN

Hose Company, No. 2, Last Night's Victim, 9-4; Has Beaten No. 3 and 4; Play Irish Nine Tomorrow.

One big inning, the fourth, was too much for Hose Company No. 2 last night at Jarvis Grove, and the best stepping Manchester Green club took the firemen, 9-4. Cone and Viot, for the Green, whiffed 10 firsts, but the Centermen could do no better than collect four hits off the slants of the Green hurlers.

The Green team is making something of a record for games played and won. The members wrestle bags of cement in construction work during the day, and play almost every night, winning nearly all their games. None of the fire ladders thus far have scored a win off the Hubbard boys.

The Irish Nine hopes to stop the Green Thursday night at the Charter Oak grounds. The game will start promptly at 6:30. Borelio, the Green's best hurler will be in the box tomorrow night.

SUB-ALPINE WINS AGAIN
The Sub-Alpine squeezed out a 3 to 2 victory over the Irish Nine last night at Charter Oak field.

The Irish Nine took a two run lead at the outset. "Red" Kowalski singled with two men on base in the second inning to score the only runs seen for the Irish Nine. Fraser's single also scored a run for the Sub-Alpine in their half of the inning.

"Chick" Fraser pitched shutout ball for the rest of the game allowing only one man to reach first base. He also struck out nine batters.

"Jack" Hewitt, fire ball expert from the west side weakened in the sixth inning as the Sub-Alpine scored two runs to win the game.

The Sub-Alpine A. C. will play Home Co. No. 1 tonight at Charter Oak street. "Fox" Happenny will pitch for the Home Co. and Gustav will pitch for the Sub-Alpine.

BIRCHES TROUCE SPRUCES
The Birchess defeated the Spruces in the West Side Jr. League, Monday, 11 to 8. The Birchess got away to a seven run lead but the Spruces came back with six in the sixth. Wet grounds handicapped the fielders and as a result ten errors were chalked down.

BULLDOGS TRUMPH
The West Side Bulldogs took the second game of the series with the Manchester Green winning yesterday's game 10 to 9. They were trailing the Green three runs in the last of the seventh and with two out they staged a three run rally to tie the score. Earl Moore's timely hit sent over the tying counter in this frame. In the extra inning, E. Chelama walked, stole second and continued on to the plate on a wild throw. B. Oliver got four safe hits for the Green. The next game will be played next Monday morning at the Green.

Kaye Don Sails For U. S. Today

London, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Kaye Don, Britain's speedboat racing idol and holder of a new world's record upon the water, left here today for Southampton to sail on the steamer Majestic for the United States where he will race against Gar Wood for the Harmsworth trophy at Detroit.

A large crowd of cheering British admirers bade him farewell. "I am making no promises," he said, "except this—I will do the best I can against Wood's boat which has a much greater horsepower than my 'Miss England III.'" With him was Richard Garner, who will ride with him as mechanic, and W. F. Sturm, his American manager. They will land in New York and go immediately to Detroit to tune up the 'Miss England III' before the races. (Done said that no general sale of tickets is held for this game and that it might be well for the Cubs to spend the next four months in attempting to obtain tickets—and get a couple for us.

Rapid admirers of Joe McCuskey insist the local boy was robbed of second place in the steepclimb through the official's error which caused the running of an extra lap. Such a contention is pure nonsense and is unworthy of anyone with a degree of intelligence. It is so far-fetched that rebuttal is unnecessary.

It would be as fair to say that Iso-Hollo was robbed of the chance to establish a new world and Olympic record for the distance. As it is, McCuskey holds the unofficial world's record of 9:14.5, one-tenth of a second lower than Iso-Hollo's time in the trials.

The Boiler-makers defeated the Dynamiters in the Manchester Green boys' league Monday night in a slugging contest, the score being 24-18. The Boiler-makers would like to meet any boys' team averaging 20 to 24 years of age. Games may be arranged by calling 6786.

Joe McCuskey's father tentatively planned to leave Los Angeles for home yesterday, expecting to arrive here Saturday or Sunday. Joe plans to be home August 22. He expects to stop off at Chicago on August 18 to compete in a special A. A. U. track and field meet.

If the Yankees win the American League hunting, no matter who they oppose in the World Series, we have our prediction ready, in rhyme and everything:
Bet the family plate, my dearies,
On the Yaniks to cop the Series.

And we also have our say-so on the national tennis championship, to be held at Forest Hills next month:
No matter what Americans play,
We'll bet our nickel on Cochet.

RETZLAFF KAYOED IN OPENING ROUND

Bout Lasts 2 Minutes, 43 Seconds; Battalino and Leonard On Brooklyn Card Tonight.

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Isadora Gastanaga, latest Spanish importation has just about ruined Charley Retzlaff's heavyweight aspirations.

The Spaniard knocked out Retzlaff in the first round of a ten round bout at the Queensboro stadium last night. The bout lasted only two minutes, 43 seconds.

Metropolitan fans will turn to Ebbets Field, Brooklyn tonight when Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion meets the rough and ready Tranton, N. J., middleweight, Paulie Walker in a ten rounder. Christopher (Bat) Battalino of Hartford, faces Billy Townsend, Vancouver, welterweight in the ten round semi-final.

FIGHT'S A DRAW AS BOTH BATTLERS SCORE KNOCKOUTS
Marion, N. C. (AP)—It was a big night for fight fans here when "Bad Eye" Whitaker and "Big Foot" Calk were matched for the heavyweight title of the city.

Both men had good fight—plenty of action as the big boys slugged each other—for four rounds. The crowd was happy—here was a fight worth seeing.

The fighters were evenly matched and during these last four rounds neither could be said to have an edge. Then the abrupt end—both fighters started power-house blows from the floor, scored simultaneous hits and both fell. The crowd yelled and the referee counted. At "ten" both lay still.

Both managers put in claims for the title, but the referee ruled otherwise. He called it a "draw knock-out."

Pirates Drop 10th Consecutive Game

Defeated By Braves, 4-0; Cubs Within Half Game of League Lead; Gomez Wins 19th, Ruth Gets 32nd Homer.

The St. Louis Cards, it would seem, finally have located the batting punch they missed at the close of the 1931 season.

Yesterday they walloped five Philly pitchers for 25 hits to gain an 18 to 13 victory and strengthen their hold on sixth place.

Frieh, Bottomley and Collins collected four hits apiece, Bottomley's string including two homers. The Phillies collected 19 hits of which Dick Bartel made four.

The Chicago Cubs moved to within a half game of the National League lead by nipping the New York Giants 4 to 3 with a two-run rally in the ninth, while the Pittsburgh Pirates were submitting to their tenth consecutive defeat, a four to nothing setback plastered on them by Fred Setts and the Boston Braves.

Harvey Hendrick clipped a double and three singles as Cincinnati tripped Brooklyn 9 to 8 in 10 innings.

Babe Gets 32nd Homer
The Yankees added another half game to their already impressive American League lead by beating the St. Louis Browns 5 to 3. Vernon Gomez was his 19th victory but it took Babe Ruth's 32nd homer with two on in the sixth to provide the winning margin.

Washington turned back the Cleveland Indians 4 to 2, although Fred Marberry had to relieve Alvin Crowder in the ninth.

Detroit pounded Boston pitching for an aggregate of 26 hits, and won both ends of a doubleheader 5 to 3 and 9 to 7.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

I am a little thing with a big meaning. I help everybody. I unlock doors, open hearts, dispel prejudice, I create friendship and goodwill. I inspire respect and admiration. Everybody loves me. I bore nobody. I violate no law. I cost nothing. Many have praised me, none have condemned me. I am pleasing to those of high and low degree. I am useful every moment of the day—I AM COURTESY.

Mr. Yearwed—A bunch of pretty college girls have opened a mending shop right near my office. I think I'll turn my socks over to them.

His Wife—Poor boy. I have sadly neglected your socks. But just leave them home with me. I like to darn socks. I really and honestly do.

Begin to make your friends big promises about what you intend to do for them. You may be sure, it won't be long until you have lost them.

A New York acquaintance of ours, after many years as a happy bachelor, found himself at last hooked and booked for matrimony. Early on his wedding day a friend met him, carrying a wreath tied up with deep mourning ribbons. Friend—Good Heavens, man! I thought this was your wedding day. New Yorker (glumly)—So it is. Friend—Then what on earth are you doing with that funeral wreath? New Yorker—Oh, it's all right. I'm just going to lay it on the Statue of Liberty.

In the good old days a fellow could go with a girl for three years and have it cost him less than one date with a gold-digger does nowadays. And he wasn't considered a tightwad either, you bet.

Bookkeeper—I'd like to get out this afternoon to get married. Big Boss—Can't you wait till Sunday? Bookkeeper—No. She's going away for the week-end.

SOMETHING TELLS ME:
That an oak starts its life with scorn at its feet.
That a secret lives longer if it is put in circulation.
That the heathen Chinese may be peculiar, but so are we to him.
That the road to success has many detours for him who has a poor vehicle.
That the signs of the times are often like an old billboard painted over.
That your appreciation of bliss perhaps depends on your degree of ignorance.
That in view of all the divorces we recommend to the best-man start getting married.
That one should beware of the handshaker; he may be clenching the other fist.
That some judges sitting on a bench ought to have to sleep on one in the park.
That it is too bad you cannot take off your shoes in a parlor car like you can in the parlor at home.

You may have noticed that most all the dead bodies found these days are naked. In the old days, they at least left the clothes on 'em.

Newly-Elected Sheriff—I want to thank you for your help in the campaign.
The Editor—But we were all against you. So were all the other papers in the county.
Newly-Elected Sheriff (smiling)—That's why I was elected.

A woman well on in years, entered a drug store and said:
Lady—Have you any creams for restoring the complexion?
Druggist—Restoring, miss? You mean preserving, don't you?
And he then sold the woman $17 worth of complexion creams.

Old Ragson Tatters came in today from Brushville and a friend asked him if it was hot out Brushville Way. To which old Ragson stilled:
Ragson—Hot? Boy, you don't know what hot is. One day this week I saw a hound dog chasing a cat down Main street in Brushville—and both were walking.

D-A-N-C-E EVERY THURSDAY COLLEGE INN, Bolton

ABOUT TOWN

The family of Robert J. Dewey of Stephen street are spending their vacation at Fairfield Beach.

Linn Lodge, No. 72, Knights of Pythias, will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in Orange hall. All members are urged to be present as plans for the annual outing will be completed.

Charles E. Lathrop of Burnham street is spending the week at Feeding Hills, Mass.

Mrs. George F. Dominick of Greenwich is expected at the end of the week for a ten-day visit with her sister, Mrs. Horace B. Cheney of Forest street.

Members of Ward Cheney Camp, U. S. W. V. and Mary Bushnell Auxiliary have been invited to attend an outing conducted by the State Department in Hurd's Park, Portland, next Sunday.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Miss Avis Walsh, who with Miss Celia Richmond and Miss Helen Fage is studying in English colleges this summer, last week attended a reception given by the Duke of Marlborough at Blenheim Palace.

Miss Jeanne Low of the French department is now studying in Paris.

Miss Helen Estes who has been studying with Francis Cowles Strickland and his Stockbridge Players in Stockbridge this summer is having some practical dramatic experience. It has been learned that Miss Estes made a favorable impression in the first play in which she was cast and that she will have a part in the play "Finale," which is playing at Stockbridge the week of August 15. Laurette Taylor has the leading role.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester L. Robinson, who are spending the summer in Warren, Me., have been putting in some time recently on Gay's Island. Seats and desks have arrived to be placed in Room 24. This room for eight years has been used as a library. It will now become a session room. It is to be Edson M. Bailey's home room and seniors will be assigned to it.

Mrs. Arthur Illing of Chestnut street joined her husband, who is vice-principal of the High school and principal of the Franklin building, today. Mr. Illing has been living in Cambridge and attending classes at Boston University. His classes end on Saturday and he will then return here with Mrs. Illing.

A number of graduates have made applications for post graduate study for next year. Under the new policy of the school they will be permitted to take such courses as they may need to prepare them for further and higher education but they will not be able to return to take up subjects in which they have already received instruction.

WELFARE GROUP'S SPLENDID WORK

Public Health Nurses and Members of Committee Have Fine Summer Record

Public Health nurses and the women who compose the Child Welfare committee have been doing a splendid work this summer, when the need for it has been greater without doubt than in any previous year in the town's history. For instance, members of the committee have personally called on the mothers of children who are to enter school for the first time in September, and have urged their attendance at the clinics held in every one of the districts.

Lists of these families were furnished in each district by the public health nurses, and when it is known that the total number of such calls made is more than 150, and more than 100 defects discovered and corrected, an idea of the importance of the work may be gained. This included 35 vaccinations, 29 children whose teeth needed attention, 11 who required tonsillectomy operations, 13 were suffering from malnutrition, 8 defective posture, 6 glandular trouble and 1 each tongue-tied, flatfooted, nasal obstruction and umbilical hernia. One patient was transferred to the sanitarium at Norwich, 7 children were taken to Dr. Cole Gibson's clinic at Undercliff, two were diagnosed as active tubercular cases and applications filed for admission to the sanitarium and 1 child was transferred to the Children's village. One case of scarlet fever was discovered and immediate steps taken to prevent its spread.

The above is only one branch of the work performed by the nurses and doctors who conducted these clinics during the month of June. For instance, the total number of public health nursing visits made was 253, while 228 attended the various clinics. The cost of a visiting nurse's call is estimated at 99 cents. The charge of $1.00 is made, but during the month of June only $111 in fees was collected, showing the need for this form of nursing by those unable to pay for it.

ANOTHER BAD $5 BILL PASSED AT NORTH END

Albert Heller of the Manchester Grain and Coal company found in his cash drawer today a counterfeit five dollar bill. It bears the serial number of B 92040635 A, series of 1928 A, federal reserve note on the Bank of New York, and the signatures of A. W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury and W. O. Woods, Treasurer of the U. S. The face of the bill is a fair imitation of the government issue, but the reverse side with the Lincoln Memorial and figures in the corner, shows very poor work and the paper does not compare with the silk-threaded government quality.

ALL-AMERICAN MUSIC DELIGHTS PARK CROWD

S. A. Band Concert Scores Unusually—Swedish Composers To Be Played Next Week.

The All American program played by the Salvation Army band at its weekly concert at Center Park last night was well rendered and equally well received. The songs of the Evangel were rich in harmony, the melodies of American air were snappy and received generous applause. The marches were unusually bright, with the exception of the festival march, "Bliss Our Army," which demands a very strong drum. Judging by the response of the large audience and by comments heard the concert was one of the best of the series.

To Thomas Maxwell goes the credit for the spectacular climax, which was very realistic, and nicely worked out. He had arranged a large silk American flag in center of the band stand so that when the band struck up the Star Spangled Banner the stand lights went out and a spotlight played upon the flag as it rippled in the breeze created by a large electric fan. The "bombs bursting in air" were represented by blank revolver shots fired by Leslie Kittle.

Next week the band intends to put on a program of Swedish music, or music arranged by composers of Swedish origin. Band Master Addy says the band is most appreciative of the large and attentive audience that turns out every concert night, not forgetting the weather-man, who has been most considerate for the last six successive Tuesday evenings.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. George Wogman of Stone street was the guest of honor at a surprise birthday party given yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Otto J. Johnson of Russell street. About 25 of her relatives, neighbors and friends were present, including her sister from New Britain, and all enjoyed a pleasant social time.

Mrs. Johnson in behalf of the gathering presented to Mrs. Wogman a ten-dollar gold piece and a crystal necklace. She also received individual gifts and several bouquets of flowers. A buffet lunch was served, the dining room decorations being gladioli. Friends contributed different dishes and a feature of the repast was a large birthday cake beautifully lettered in green and white.

PARTY CHANGES NOT ALARMING

Republicans Say Many Are Enrolled In Ranks Who Vote Otherwise.

Republican party leaders here are not seriously disturbed at threats of inroads in the G. O. P. ranks by Democrats seeking a change in the party affiliation of voters in Manchester. Party affiliation does not control a man's vote in an election. Republican town committee members say that they much prefer to have voters who plan to desert them, at election time enrolled with the party for whose candidates they intend to vote.

No Criterion For many years Manchester has had two political parties. The number of voters are to a great degree registered with the Republican party. But the great majority of voters registered as Republicans is no criterion at election time. In 1922 with a little over 9,000 voters or the list there were 6,900 registered Republicans and about 1,000 registered Democrats. Yet the Republican vote was 5,200 and the Democratic vote was 2,468. That goes to prove that not all registered Republicans here voted the Republican ticket. Leaders in that party realize, of course, that many voters in Manchester are registered in the major party ranks simply to take part in the Republican Primary.

True of Socialists What is true of Democratic-voting registered Republicans is true also of Socialists and Socialist-Labor adherents. Some of Manchester's leading Socialists have been registered Republicans for years and yet they wouldn't think of voting anything but Socialist at election time. They go into the Republican party Primary, however, and have a part in saying who that party's candidates at election will be. Being perfectly aware of this not too concealed deception the Republican town committee members take the stand that any departure of such voters from the Republican ranks is nothing to be alarmed at, but rather to be welcomed. They simply say that voters who desert the party at election time have so placed in the registered ranks of the party and should line up with the party for which they vote.

Mischievous Threats

Threats of bringing the Republican registrar, Robert N. Veltch, to task for not signing names with a certain party because he believes the signatures do not belong to the voter named, are being considered as ridiculous. The Democratic party has a registrar who must assume an equal share in this responsibility and in case of a dispute the Board of Selectmen can settle the matter. It is a simple matter for the voters desiring to transfer their party allegiance to tell either registrar up to and including Friday of this week. If any names are left off the caucus lists and the voters so effected state they gave some, one authorization to make a change the matter can be easily rectified by the registrars.

Expected Deflection The Republican leaders expect some deflection from that party's ranks this year not necessarily as far as registrations with the parties are concerned but at election time. They do not propose to let the Democrats make any big gains, however, and are confident that Manchester will give President Hoover its usual substantial Republican majority.

The regular meeting of Monday Evening, British War Veterans will be held this evening in the Army and Navy Club. A full attendance of members is desired.

CENTER OF ANDOVER THREATENED BY FIRE

Historic Building Known As "Bee-Hive" Damaged By Blaze—Road Pumper Big Help.

Special to The Herald. Situated at the end of a row of residences, next to the Andover postoffice, and directly across the street from another row of residences, among them the home of the late Judge Edward M. Yeomans, the large, old-fashioned house known as the Bee-Hive might have proved a serious menace to the whole center of the village when it caught on fire Tuesday afternoon. The fire started in the big chimney in the ell of the house, and burned through into the apartment in the northwest corner of the second floor. This apartment is occupied by Mrs. Mabel Duchane, who discovered the fire and immediately notified the postmistress.

The telephone company rang the fire call on the town phone lines and a large crowd gathered quickly. The one factor which saved the entire building from burning, and probably other nearby residences, was the temporary pumping system installed by the road men for use in their work on the main road. By means of this system water was drawn through a hose from a brook quite some distance away. The Willimantic fire engine responded to a call, but the fire was partially conquered when it arrived. The fire swept up through the

WOODLAND ST. VISITS SON IN CHICAGO

Richard Wright Returns Home After Two Week Trip To See His Son Francis In His West City.

Richard Wright of Woodland street returned home this morning after a two week visit with his son, Francis Wright, in Chicago. Mr. Wright made the trip to Chicago by bus, taking 40 hours one way. The fare, he said, is the big advantage the round trip ticket—costing him a little less than $80. He says of the bus while traveling and it was necessary to make but three changes. Mr. Wright found his son, Francis, in excellent health and prospering. The younger Wright, it is well known here having been a good athlete in High school and playing baseball with various north end night. He is now in the insurance business and also practicing law.

W. Harry England last night sold to Robert and Sara Cole a seven-room bungalow type house at St. Philips and Coburn streets. There is also a two-car garage on the lot. The property is known as Lot-11 of the Coburn Green Tract. This is the second house sold by Mr. England in the past week, each being a single house equipped with modern improvements throughout.
