

PRESIDENT TO OPEN CAMPAIGN TONIGHT

To Accept Nomination and Explain His Stand On Various Subjects—To Start At 9:15, Standard Time.

Washington, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Republican hosts rallied around President Hoover tonight to head his call to arms for the 1932 campaign. The evening prohibition problems and movies, past and contemplated, to meet the economic situation form the substance of the keynote address Mr. Hoover will deliver tonight in formally opening his drive for another four years in office.

Waiting to hear the last word from the party chieftains, Mr. Hoover only today completed the final test of his speech of acceptance. He has consulted with them apparently over the verbiage of the prohibition declaration and some phases of a legislation program he has in mind for the short session of Congress beginning in December.

A buffet luncheon on the south lawn of the White House to the Republican guests and presided over by Mr. and Mrs. Hoover was the start of the day's program. Tonight at about 9:15 o'clock, Eastern standard time, the President will begin his address which is expected to reach a record audience. It will be broadcast by two nationwide chains and Republican meetings have been called throughout the nation to listen.

It is the first presidential notification to be held here since Calvin Coolidge delivered his acceptance address eight years ago in the hall of the Daughters of the American Revolution just adjoining their new auditorium where the President speaks tonight.

New Leadership. It is an almost new Republican leadership which launches Mr. Hoover on his campaign tonight from that which fought the fight for Coolidge in 1924 and Hoover in 1928. Everett Sanders of Indiana, chairman of the Republican National committee presides over the session. Representative Spell of New York, as permanent chairman of the Republican convention which nominated Mr. Hoover in June, delivers the brief message of justification. Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the late President, and Republican leader of two decades ago, will occupy a box with Mrs. Hoover.

The ceremony will be given over almost entirely to the presidential address sounding the keynote of the quadrennial party election campaign. Obviously the Republicans are eagerly awaiting the campaign cherubim to be strummed by the President. Tonight's theme will be based on the party contest. Not until mid-September at least, is Mr. Hoover expected to make another address. Only three are now in mind—two in the east, one in the middle-west and a third in the north at a place still to be determined.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAM. Washington, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The ceremonies attending President Hoover's acceptance address will be held here tonight.

STATE OF MIND NEEDS REVISION. Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 11.—Revision of the German state of mind, not of her frontiers, offers the sole hope of cooperation between Germany and Poland, Edward Weintal, press attache of the Polish Embassy at Washington, told the Institute of Politics today.

Weintal blamed Germany for the agitation between the two countries due, he said, to her "superiority complex toward Poland" and to her making of a "purely optical unpleasantness of the map" an issue which threatens the peace of Europe.

Any attempt on Germany's part to annex Poland will bring war, he said.

Prof. Herbert von Beckerath, economist of Bonn University, Germany, predicted revision of frontiers would come peacefully through Franco-German cooperation and would be to the interest of Poland.

The Lausanne conference of reparations has shown, he said, that economic considerations alone will assure a peaceful settlement of another great problem. Europe realized, he added, that war would be economic suicide.

Poland was occupied by Max Koller, New York lawyer, of violating her minority treaties with 3,000,000 Polish Jews. He accused Poland of over-taxing the Jews by levying an excessive burden taxation on cities where most Jews live and also, of denying Jewish schools of the public type stipulated by Article 9 of the Minority Treaty.

SPAIN'S REVOLT ENDS QUICKLY; LEADERS HELD

Rebels Fail To Get Support For Monarchist Movement Outside of Cities; Government Troops Are Loyal.

Madrid, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Spain's twenty-four hour Monarchist rebellion was smashed by the government today with the arrest at Huelva of its fleeing leader, General Jose Sanjurjo.

The general fled from Seville shortly before one a. m. after his revolutionary machine which captured the government of the southern city yesterday, had crumbled in front of powerful concentrations of government troops which were converging on Seville from several nearby concentration points.

Civil Governor Guilo Salasos of Huelva reported a few hours later San Jurjo was under arrest at the executive palace there. Three of his chief officers were arrested with him.

The governor telephoned the government here of the capture and Minister of the Interior Gasares ordered the four officers brought to Madrid immediately.

Support Falls. The veteran Monarchist leader gave up his fight at Seville, reports said; when his efforts to rally support outside the city failed. The emissaries he sent to nearby towns were reported to have been thrown into jail. The effect upon the rebels was demoralization, added by the early collapse of the revolutionary movement in Madrid.

During the night dozens of army officers who followed San Jurjo disguised themselves in civilian clothes and began to steal out of the city.

Not To Be Executed. Admiral Azana, the premier, emphatically reported that the ringleaders would be executed summarily.

The nation, however, was under virtual martial law. Strict censorship covered all despatches.

BASEBALL PLAYERS NOW UNDER PROBE

Charge That Several Members of Chicago Cubs Are Gambling On Race Horses

Chicago, Aug. 11.—(AP)—A special dispatch to the Chicago Daily News from Pittsburgh today said that Baseball Commissioner Keneaw Mountain Landis had opened a sweeping investigation of charges that several members of the Chicago Cubs, including Pitcher Guy Ebert, had been gambling on the horses during the managerial regime of Rogers Hornsby.

Commissioner Landis, the dispatch said, went to Pittsburgh today to open the inquiry as the Cubs arrived for their first place battle with the Pirates. He refused to discuss the investigation the dispatch said, but told reporters to "draw your own conclusions."

The News quoted Commissioner Landis as saying yesterday before he departed for Pittsburgh that: "Gambling isn't like drunkenness. If it's a drunkard you have to deal with you can give him a shower and an aspirin and send him out on the field and he will play ball for you at least try. But when you have a player out there on the field, wondering, during a crucial moment of ball game whether Raggedy Pants or some other nag is going to run first or second, the situation becomes acute."

It is a thing that I and the executive committee of every ball club in both circuits want to stamp out and we'll stamp it out even if it means the wrecking of valuable ball clubs. The respective owners would rather see their ball clubs blown to atoms than let such a thing creep into their teams. One scandal such as we had in 1919 is enough."

TREASURY BALANCE. Washington, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for August 9 were $3,649,278.77; expenditures $13,281,186.48; balance, $602,168.43. Customs duties for 9 days of August were $7,100,889.34.

Jimmy's Fate in Balance

A year's sweeping investigation into the administration of the nation's largest city will come to a spectacular climax shortly with a decision as to whether Mayor James J. Walker of New York is guilty of charges of misconduct in running his office and should be removed. The decision will be made by...

Franklin D. Roosevelt, governor of the state of New York and candidate for President, whose chances of election may be affected by his action in the case. Roosevelt ordered Walker to make a public defense of his administration as an answer to a set of "conclusions" drawn from testimony by Samuel Seabury.

GOVERNMENT IN CHINA NOW AT STANDSTILL

Chief of Army Virtual Dictator After Cabinet Resigns; He Says He Will Quit Also Unless Leaders Resume Posts.

Shanghai, Aug. 11.—(AP)—China was a nation virtually adrift today. Chiang Kai-Shek, former president and virtual commander in chief of the army, appeared to be drifting toward the role of Fascist dictator, favoring a tolerant foreign policy, especially with respect to Manchuria.

HATCHET IS USED IN ATTACKING MAN

New Haven Resident Dying As Result of the Injuries He Received.

New Haven, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Daniel Celentano, 40, was attacked and critically injured early today by three men at least one of whom was armed with a hatchet.

At Grace hospital physicians say he was not expected to live. He suffered a fractured skull, compound fracture of the right arm and other injuries. His name was placed on the danger list.

The blood stained weapon was found beside him. Fingerprints were found on the handle.

Celentano told police he did not recognize his assailants and knew no reason for the attack. They knew who I was because they called me by name," he said, "I couldn't see their faces."

Robbery Not Motive. Finding money and a ring, untouched, police believed robbery was not the motive for the assault. Bloodstains in the car parked in its usual place, indicated he had been assaulted as he stepped out of the car in the rear of his home.

Mrs. Celentano says she was awakened by cries of help. She saw men running down the street and called a relative to give chase. Hurrying to the scene officers arrived just as the badly injured man ran to the rear of his home and collapsed. He was unconscious when they reached his side, but revived enough to make a brief statement at the hospital.

BODY OF TOMM FOUND HANGING BY SEARCHERS

Man For Whom Many Had Sought Took His Life With Deliberation; Leaves Directions For His Burial.

Late yesterday afternoon John Orr of 123 Autumn street and Albin Wolfram, who lives across the street, after reading of the disappearance of John E. Tomm of Bissell street, missing from his home since Tuesday afternoon, joined the search for Tomm then going on throughout the southeast part of the town. At 6 o'clock they were working along Glenwood street, a road from Autumn, when they came upon the object of their search. Suspended from a small tree about twenty feet in from the road was the body of the missing man. He hanged himself.

The tree is surrounded by many others and searchers had passed close by during the day without discovering the body. Tomm had carried with him, when he left his home Wednesday, a length of heavy packing twine. He had clambered into the tree, breaking one small branch while doing so, made the rope fast to a limb, fastened it about his neck, and dropped off. The fall was short and he strangled. Evidently Tomm had been precise and deliberate in his arrangements, allowing just enough length of rope to effect his purpose. For a piece of the light rope cut off, lay on the ground, the dead man's toes just touched the ground and his back brushed the trunk of the tree.

Leaves a Note. Orr and Wolfram sent word of the discovery to the police and Dr. W. R. Tinker, medical examiner, was notified. Patrolman Joseph Prentice was sent to the scene and on orders of the medical examiner cut down the body. Dr. Tinker, after an examination, said Tomm had been dead about twenty-four hours.

In a pocket of the dead man's trousers was found a note written in German with a lead pencil. It requested that the writer be buried otherwise inexpensively but asked that the cost be put into a settlement casing. It directed that such money as he had, together with the proceeds of his insurance policy, go to his wife, Annie.

The body was turned over to Watkins Brothers and was removed to their Oak street rooms, which had the cabinet he put into a settlement casing. It directed that such money as he had, together with the proceeds of his insurance policy, go to his wife, Annie.

It was learned last evening that (Continued on Page Three)

TRADE AGREEMENT NEAR AT PARLEY

Details of Other Pact Kept Secret Until Passed By Both Legislatures.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Sources close to Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada were informed today that announcement of a trade agreement between the Dominion and the United Kingdom was impending.

It became apparent that if the Imperial economic conference is to end next week with any accomplishment aside from bi-lateral treaties something must be done soon. The details of the pact between Britain and Canada may not be revealed until the agreement is presented to (Continued on Page Three)

Milk Wagon Drivers Union Defies Chicago Gangsters

Chicago, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Seated at his desk inside a brownstone mansion which within six weeks has become a bullet-proof fortress, a roly-poly little man of 83 years today shouted defiance to gangsters and racketeers.

"Let 'em try to muscle in on us, just 'em try," grinned "Uncle Steve" Sumner, who for 30 years has been secretary, treasurer and business agent of Chicago's milk wagon drivers' union.

He pointed to walls paneled with amorphite, to windows covered with heavy steel mesh screens, to peep holes where gun muzzles fit. This newly equipped arsenal of Chicago's west side is Union's answer to gangster's proposals to "take over" the organization, with its rich treasury and 7,200 members. "Or else"

"If any hoodlums think they can gain control of this union they'll have to move fast," said Uncle Steve. "They talk about 'shooting it out'—well, now we have our own place to shoot it out if there's to be any trouble. They offered us $100,000 to get out so they could 'tribute' to our members," explained "Uncle Steve," "but we told them they came to the wrong place."

That threat, he said, came from Murray Humphries, Frank Diamond, George (Red) Barker and "Three Fingers" Jack White—all former henchmen of Al Capone. Barker since has been slain.

Summer idea to and from his home is an armored car which once belonged to Samuel Insull, former utilities magnate.

WALKER OUSTER TRIAL IS STARTED AT ALBANY

Buying Wave Boosts Stock Market Prices

New York, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The Stock Market ran into further surges of profit taking today, after waves of buying in the rails and farm implements had boosted prices to new peak levels for the recovery during the earlier hours.

Advances of $1 to $4 a share were lost after midday, when a number of issues sold $1 to $2 a share under yesterday's final prices. The volume of trading slackened considerably on the decline.

Bonds were in fair demand for a time, but met some selling, along with stocks. Some of the commodities also ran into profit taking, notably wheat and rubber. Silver, however, was buoyant, with bar silver quoted 1-3 cents higher at 30 cents an ounce. Cotton also was higher.

Case advanced $4.25 to $62.50, before reacting. International Harvester got up $3 to $34.12. Union Pacific sold at $70, up $2, when another quarterly dividend of $1.50 was announced, but later lost its rise.

American Telephone, after rising $2 to $116.50, sold off somewhat under yesterday's close. U. S. Steel declined about $1.50 to around $41. Miscellaneous issues off $1 to $2 included Santa Fe, New York Central, Consolidated Gas, Dupont, Coca Cola and others.

NOTED POLICE DOG, RIN TIN TIN, DEAD. Was 13 Years Old—Earned Over $300,000 During Life for Its Owner.

Hollywood, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The famous German police dog actor, Rin Tin Tin, credited with saving Warner Brothers from possible bankruptcy before that movie concern gave the world talking pictures, is dead after more than 13 years in the films. Popular the world over among moviegoers, the clever animal star, which earned a fortune in his career, died Tuesday morning.

Death apparently resulted from the infirmities of age. No estimate was available on the life-time earnings of the remarkable canine Thespian but the total is believed to have been around $300,000.

CLARKE DESCRIBED AS DOPE ADDICT

Frequently Discussed Methods of Committing Suicide, His Friend Tells the Court.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Testimony that Haden Clarke, for whom slaying Captain W. N. Lancaster is on trial, was a narcotic addict, that he frequently discussed suicide was given today by Dick Lavender, former companion of Clarke.

"He frequently discussed suicide with me," Lavender testified. He said they had been drinking companions in New Orleans, where Clarke was employed by a newspaper. "Clarke thought I planned to commit suicide, and told me the way to go about it was to do it in a big way. He said a pistol was the best method," Lavender said.

The description of Clarke's habits followed completion, for the time at least, of examination of Captain Lancaster's and injection into the case of the attitude of spectators and one state witness.

Wants Spectators. Judge H. F. Atkinson ordered the jury from the court room while he delivered a warning against any further demonstrations. His comment was the result of applause and laughter yesterday when James M. Carson, chief of defense counsel, apparently won a verbal tilt with State's Attorney N. Verpon Hawthorne.

Hawthorne at that time referred to a statement by Lancaster that some of the letters from Clarke and Mrs. Keith-Miller to him had disappeared.

"The state has been accused of concealing those letters," the prosecutor said. "The state has never seen them."

"The defense has made no accusation," Carson retorted, "but does the state wish to plead not guilty anyway?"

It required a threat by the judge to clear the court room to restore order.

Tanciel His Enemy. J. P. Moe, deputy United States marshal, testified that M. G. Tanciel, state witness had threatened to kill Lancaster if they were placed in the same cell.

The conversation took place, Moe said, while Tanciel was in Federal custody on a charge of impersonating a naval officer. Tanciel and Lancaster were associates in an unsuccessful aviation venture in the west.

"I'll do anything I can to see that Lancaster burns," Moe quoted Tanciel as saying.

Tanciel testified several days ago that Lancaster threatened to "get rid" of Clarke when he heard ru-

FINES OF $1,475 FOR RUM SELLING

Twenty-Seven Violators of Dry Law Face Judge Thomas in U. S. Court.

Hartford, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Twenty-seven violators of the National Prohibition Law faced Judge Edwin S. Thomas in United States District Court today. Seven pleaded not guilty and had their cases continued to the opening of the September term of court in New Haven, September 27. Fines amounting to $1,475 and jail sentences were administered by the court.

Michael Costello of New London, Stanley George Warszawa of East Hampton, Peter Paulson of East Hampton, Cosmo Agrio of Meriden, Max Cohen of New Haven, Peter Morsey of Waterbury and Michael Richtell of New Haven were present in court on charges of possession or sale of liquor. All pleaded not guilty, their cases continued until September 27.

Judge Thomas appointed William Thoms of Waterbury, attorney for Morsey, when the latter said he did not have the money to pay a lawyer.

Fines and Sentences. Joseph Anziano of Meriden pleaded guilty of operating a speakeasy and was fined $400, given a 30 days suspended jail sentence and placed on probation for six months; Edward Grimes, also of Meriden, ten days suspended jail sentence and six months probation; Paul Boska of Stamford, $250 fine, 30 days suspended jail sentence and six months probation; Charles Vetterlein of Vernon, $75 fine, thirty days suspended jail sentence and six months probation; John Anglico, Norwich, ten days in New London county jail at Norwich; Salvatore Viola, Stamford, ten days in Fairfield county jail at Bridgeport; Joseph Galata, Waterbury, ten days in New Haven county jail; Daniel Riordan, Derby, $250 fine, 30 days suspended jail sentence and six months probation; Joseph Soda, Derby, $150 fine; Charles A. Markarewich, Ansonia, nine months suspended jail sentence and probation for two years. John J. Baumer, Naugatuck, $100 fine, 15 (Continued on Page Two)

Mayor Arrives. Executive Chamber, Albany, N. Y., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Mayor James J. Walker, dressed in sombre black arrived in the executive chamber of the N. Y. House at 12:37 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) today to face Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt who must decide whether evidence and testimony produced at hearings of the Hofstadter legislative committee constitute grounds for removing him from office.

The mayor stopped to chat with Edward M. Stanton, his former secretary. He was accompanied by Mrs. Walker, who wore a corsage of orchids at the waist of her black and white gown.

Samuel Seabury entered the chamber first with several members of his staff.

John P. Dunningan and Irwin Steiner, Democratic leaders in the Legislature, and both members of the Hofstadter committee, and John J. McNaboe, Democrat member of the committee, were already present.

John J. Curtin, Walker's chief counsel, came into the executive chamber.

Seated over at one side, in the limited space left for spectators in a room filled with tables and chairs for the correspondents, was Mrs. Seabury, who motored to Albany with her husband last night.

Crowds Not Large. A crowd, by no means large or so vociferous as that which greeted Mayor Walker on his arrival last night waited in and about the State House. There was no cheering. Only the puffing of cigarettes heralded his approach.

Seated with Walker at a table at one side of Governor Roosevelt's desk were: Curtin, George Corbett, W. S. Palmer, and John J. Flynn, a nephew of former Governor Alfred E. Smith, all legal associates of Curtin, and Reuben Lesarun, an assistant corporation counsel who has represented the city at the Hofstadter committee hearings.

Governor Roosevelt, leaning on the arm of Guernsey Cross, his state retainer, entered the chamber at 12:38 (Eastern Standard Time).

Governor Roosevelt began to read a statement quoting the state law by which the governor may remove public officers, including members of the committee, from office. He read a section of the state law whereby the governor may remove the mayor of New York. He then began to outline the (Continued on Page Two)

Few Present When Hearing Begins; Governor Checks Mayor's Lawyer When He Wanders In His Talk; Cautions Him To Confine His Remarks To the Evidence.

Executive Chamber, Albany, N. Y., Aug. 11.—(AP)—A low voiced difference of opinion between Gov. Roosevelt and John J. Curtin, chief counsel for Mayor Walker, developed soon after the hearing on ouster charges opened today. Roosevelt twice checked Curtin during his opening statement, cautioning him to confine his remarks to the evidence against Walker.

"I want to make it perfectly clear that this hearing refers to evidence," Roosevelt cut in as Curtin began an attack upon the action of Samuel Seabury in preparing the case against the mayor. "I hope you will address yourself to that."

"I am coming to that," Curtin answered. "But first I want to lead up to the evidence. I hope you will give us that right, courtesy perhaps."

Curtin contended the mayor should have the right to confront his accusers and be permitted to cross-examine them.

He then argued that removal power cannot be exercised until there has been a public trial with the accusers testifying under oath before the judge. Curtin cited several judicial decisions which he said substantiated his claim.

"That's pretty plain language," as observed, glancing directly at the governor, "no weasel words there."

Roosevelt hastened, his head leaning on his left hand.

Walker, at the foot of his counsel table, beside Curtin, glanced around the room, winking at a friend in the press section.

Seabury's eyes also roved. He glanced several times stopping at the portrait of Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes on the wall of the room.

"I hope it never can be said that the mayor of the greatest city in America, in any way, shall ask his trial judge that witnesses be produced and have that right denied," said Curtin. "It is foreign to fair play."

Curtin held that the evidence played up by the Hofstadter committee has "no more legal value than the story of Robinson Crusoe or Grimm's Fairy Tales."

THURSDAY, AUGUST 11.

HOLE-AND-CORNER

There is one evil too frequently characteristic of municipal government against which The Herald has set its face on more than one occasion and may be depended on to oppose at any and all times. That is the secret conduct of public business.

It is the firm conviction of this newspaper that nothing very seriously bad can happen to a town or city through mistakes or weaknesses of its governing or administrative bodies so long as those bodies conduct their business in the open, in the light of day and before the eyes of the taxpayers and citizens; but that the slightest deviation from the principle of full publicity in all public affairs may easily prove an entering wedge for the upsetting of public confidence and the slackening of official morale.

The Herald renews its declaration of this belief at this time because it is in just such times as this that well disposed officialdom is likely to be tempted to conceal facts and circumstances of public business in a mistaken though honest enough belief that publicity may work some sort of injury to the community.

It is possible that occasion may arise when momentary disadvantage may seem likely to accrue from letting the people know all about their own business, but it is our firm belief that whatever harm may result from such knowledge, directly or indirectly, is very much less than the damage inevitably consequent on the adoption of a policy of secret legislation or administration.

The press is the direct, traditional representative of the public. No newspaper that has the slightest realization of its responsibilities as such representative will fail to resist, with every means at its command, any attempt of municipal officials to conduct the business of the people in hiding from the eyes and ears of their representative. The Herald will never be one of those to fail.

GERMANY

One of the reflexes from the political turbulence in Germany, among the people of this country, is very general puzzlement over the failure of the German people to conduct themselves according to our fixed conceptions of their national character. Americans for generations have been quite familiar with that they believed constituted the whole list of German characteristics as exhibited by so many neighbors and friends of German birth or blood. Who more peace loving, amiable or law abiding than the Germans? Who more conventional or dependable in their philosophy? Who less liable to get into trouble or less likely to make trouble for others? No one.

When the great war came America never lost sympathy with the German people. We all thought alike about them—that their very docility and conventionality, their very devotion to home and family made them easy victims of a madly ambitious ruling class; that they were misled like sheep going over a precipice.

So that the reports of countless bloody conflicts, of desperate hatreds between groups and classes, of constant brawlings and outrages going on all over that country for many weeks have produced confusion and bewilderment on this side of the water. What on earth has happened to the placid Teutonic temperament? We ask each other.

The answer is, Not so much. Germany, as a nation, is almost fourteen hundred years old. And for only a relatively small part of that fourteen hundred years has the mild philo-sophic side of the national character been periodically in the ascendant. The list, alone—of the periods of internecine strife, of wars and revolts and riotings and blood-lettings in German history would fill a volume. And not by any means have these conflicts been the creation of kings and princes with the people led into them unrealizing and without voice. Always have the German people had ideas—ideas about what was good for them, what they wanted, and how to get it. And always have they had a penchant for enforcing ideas upon others.

It is all very well to think of the Thirty Years War as an affair precipitated by rulers animated by religious and political jealousies, but it is ridiculous to assume that that dreadful experience could have been possible if the masses of the people had not been animated by an unparalleled excess of bitter animosities and hatreds. And long before that devastating period, and afterward, German soil showed itself fruitful of the most violent expression of conflicting emotions and beliefs among the people.

Taken in contrast to the manifestations of a generation or two previous to the World War, the turbulence and lack of self control displayed in Germany in the post-war period are indeed bewildering. But considered in the larger light of the history of the Teutonic states Germany may, perhaps, be more normal now than she was in 1880 or 1900.

LEVITT-DRY REACTION

By raking and scraping and by including a number of persons ineligible as signatories the Levitt-Dry combination calling itself the Independent Republican party has managed to gather together 104 names as applicants for a place on the ballot in the November election in the city of Hartford. With more than 87,000 voters on the registry lists of the city the importance of the "movement to defeat Bingham" would seem to be indicated. In Manchester, so far as we are able to learn, no petition has been circulated and likely enough none will be circulated by the Independent Republican party. In all probability none will be filed in a very large majority of the towns of the state.

Now with relation to this movement The Herald ventures a prediction. It is that for every vote lost to Senator Bingham through this attempt of a handful of dry zealots to defeat him he will gain half a dozen Democratic votes that otherwise he would not get.

Mr. Bingham's square-toed and courageous stand on the prohibition question has placed him in an entirely new light in the eyes of many of his natural political opponents in this state. They have come to regard him as one of the few men in the Senate who can be fully depended on in this contest between the fanatics and the liberals in the matter of liquor control, and they admire him in consequence.

Among these inevitably there are many who would, in the natural order of events, still vote for their own candidate for the senate, but who will be quick to come to Bingham's defense, with their ballots, when they see him attacked by persons heretofore identified with the Republican party, for the unfair reason that he has labored openly for what he and the great majority of Connecticut people believe is the right side of the prohibition question.

Nothing is less probable than that the dry Independent Republican movement will draw any substantial proportion of his normal vote away from Mr. Bingham; and nothing is more probable than that it will bring so many new supporters to his side that the senator will run ahead, and it is reasonable to expect a long way ahead, of his ticket on election day.

PERSEIDS TONIGHT

Any time after midnight tonight, if the weather is clear and if you feel disposed to dispense with part of your night's sleep, you can have some fun counting shooting stars. The annual display of the Perseids will then be, presumably, at its height; unless, of course, the depression has affected the business of the celestial bodies, which would seem a little improbable.

10th or 11th of August when the main shock is in evidence. The experts have been promising the biggest show for tonight.

Nobody appears quite sure whether something unusual happened in the comet of 1929 or whether it will be back again some day, as big as life and evidently none the worse for having lost some millions of bits of its structure along the way. queer things, comets. They seem to have a faculty we human folk have never learned—how to waste our substance in riotous living and still have as much as ever. Maybe they've got some kind of a racket.

Anyhow, the tag end of one of them will probably put on quite a show tonight. Providing the clouds don't spoil it.

TONIGHT'S SPEECH

While the traditional formula of "notifying" a Presidential candidate many weeks after his party's national convention that he has become the nominee may have an appearance of silliness it has certain advantages not to be denied. At least it gives the candidate opportunity to make his acceptance syndromize approximately with the times as they are to be on election day, certainly to a greater extent than if it were delivered six weeks earlier. And it avoids the likelihood of the speech proving to be any such scrambling hodge-podge of ordinary political ranting as that delivered by Governor Roosevelt in the scorn of the customary delayed acceptance.

So many persons profess to know what the President is going to say tonight, and what they profess to know is so divergent, that it is an exceedingly good idea to wait until he has said it before forming or attempting to form any judgment on his declaration.

It is probable, however, that never was a Presidential nominee's acceptance speech awaited with quite such profound interest as the address which Mr. Hoover is to deliver tonight. That it may win or lose the election is altogether within the possibilities. If so, it is our guess that it will win it.

Health and Diet Advice

UNPLEASANT BREATH

Far too often one with a bad breath does not realize that he offends those coming in close contact with him; and, as this is a delicate subject no one is likely to discuss it with him, or, as the advertisements say, "your best friend won't tell you." However, once the subject finds that the unpleasant condition actually exists in his own mouth, he is so embarrassed that he immediately starts some action to overcome the halitosis, or, at least, to neutralize it for a few hours by means of a mouth wash.

The causes of bad breath, halitosis, or fetor oris, are many; in some cases two or more causes may be found in the same patient. Probably inflammation of the gums and bad tonsils are the two principal causes, although decayed teeth, catarrh of the nose and throat, upset stomach, constipation, liver trouble, excessive smoking, and some of the forms of lung trouble are other potent causes. Occasional bad breath is due to simple lack of cleanliness in the mouth and teeth arising from the presence of decaying bits of food between the teeth. A simple test to find if the teeth are clean is to draw a thread between two of them. Hold the thread close to the nose and, if a disagreeable odor is found, you may be sure that decomposing particles are present.

If you have a bad breath, you have a good chance of curing the trouble, provided you are persistent. When pyorrhea exists, local treatments given by your dentist, together with the use of the tooth brush, will cause a great improvement, and in time, a cure. Attention to decayed teeth is always of benefit in making the mouth more sanitary. Anyone trying to get rid of a bad breath will find a visit to the dentist a good procedure as he will be able to give you pointers of value in maintaining the mouth in a healthy condition. Bad breath due to tonsil trouble will yield when dentition is once more become normal and sound.

General rules to follow in gaining a wholesome-smelling breath are: First, use a well-balanced diet, correctly combined, such as that given in these columns every Friday. Drink plenty of water between meals, and avoid rich foods such as pastries, gravies and candies. In order to make sure that the bowels will function well, you should use an abundance of the non-starchy vegetables, both cooked and raw.

To assist in eliminating wastes from both the lungs and the skin, take deep breathing exercises every day, together with outdoor exercise to the point of inducing a good sweat; also, one warm shower or bath daily. Pay particular attention to keeping the mouth clean. Brush the teeth regularly. You may use a mouth wash or antiseptic to rinse the mouth and throat before going out. The nasal discharge sometimes gives the patient assurance because he feels that it helps to keep the nasal chambers clean, but you should not depend upon nasal sprays for the entire treatment of catarrh.

If you have bad breath, do not waste time being embarrassed but

UNCLE SAM'S NEW TAXES
WHERE THEY HIT YOU
—AND HOW!

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 14th of 20 daily articles explaining the new federal taxes.

By ROBERT TALLEY
NEA Service Writer

Hot tunes by radio entertainers and phonograph artists, cold blasts from mechanical refrigerators are all the same to Uncle Sam in his quest of new taxes with which to balance this year's federal budget.

There is now a tax of 5 per cent of the manufacturer's sale price on radio sets, combination radio-phonograph sets and on phonograph records, the same being estimated to yield $8,000,000 this year. There is a 5 per cent manufacturer's sale tax on mechanical refrigerators, designed to yield $5,000,000.

Even though the radio set, or combination radio-phonograph set, is merely a built-in part of a table, a book case, a desk or a grandfather clock, the tax applies to the entire piece of furniture since the law covers "all articles designed and manufactured for the accommodation of a radio receiving set or a combination radio and phonograph set."

If a hot song by some radio "torch singer" blows out one of your tubes, there will be a 5 per cent tax on a new one.

All phonograph records are subject to the 5 per cent tax. Household type mechanical recorders (regardless of whether operated by electricity, gas or kerosene) are taxed at 5 per cent of the manufacturer's sale price. This, however, does not apply to large commercial refrigerators of a type not used in the household.

Of course, the owner of an electric refrigerator also pays the 5 per cent tax on household electricity, contained in another section of the tax law. The owner of an AC radio set does likewise. If he has a battery set and buys a new battery for the same, he pays a 5 per cent tax on the battery as a radio accessory; though as an auto accessory a battery is taxed at only 2 per cent.

In some cases, the 5 per cent tax on radios and refrigerators is absorbed by the dealer. In other cases, there have been negotiations looking to 50-50 payment of the tax by the manufacturer and the dealer.

GAVE EMPLOYEES MILLION

Chicago, Aug. 11.—(AP)—It pleases Julius Rosenberg, the late philanthropist, $7,525,000 to guarantee employees of Sears Roebuck and Company against Stock Market losses in 1932.

His benefaction was revealed today when executors of his estate interpreted the action of the Chase National Bank of New York which filed a claim for that amount against his estate.

When values crashed on the New York Stock Exchange in 1929, Rosenberg told his employees they would not lose money in their accounts. He posted 101,359 shares of his company's stock as security against having their accounts sold out.

WANAMAKER BEHEVES

Norristown, Pa., Aug. 11.—(AP)—The divorce suit returned in Reno yesterday of Captain John Wanamaker, Jr., created renewed interest today in the preliminary injunction against such divorce granted in the Montgomery County Court on July 20 on the petition of the first Mrs. Wanamaker.

The question of whether Captain Wanamaker could be held in contempt for violation of the injunction, counsel for Mrs. Wanamaker said today, rests solely with Judge J. Ambler Williams who granted the preliminary order.

IN NEW YORK

Schattchen's Up-to-Date
New York, Aug. 11.—Ever a cunning, versatile and high-pressure fellow, the "Schattchen" has followed time's changing trail from the old New York ghetto to the modern radio broadcast.

A schattchen now advertises his match-making prowess from a Brooklyn and Bronx air station. For the schattchen is a marriage broker, as every follower of the old Fox and Parimitter tales could tell you. He was one of immigration's transplantations from the old world to the new.

Usually pictured as a comic character, he actually was a shrewd, back-slapping fellow who tried to drive the best marriage bargains. He was best known in the Yiddish quarters. His opportunities grew from the continuation in America of the old dowry system.

It was instinctive with tens of thousands to see their daughters and sons "married well." The vast East Side was such a setting, confusing, welter of humanity that he had fertile ground for operation. He became a sort of marital politician; mixing with the heterogeneous masses and making sly notes of good prospects. His next step was to get them together and please the various families.

Vanishing Figure
A professional man—doctor or lawyer—was a schattchen's best asset in the hole. Such came high and any amount of bargaining could be engaged in with the best advantage. With a couple of attorneys and medical men on his list, the marriage broker could become super-smooth. And did! A tradesman with a good business ran a close second. Artists, writers and such were practically written off.

Times changed in the ghetto, as elsewhere, and a younger generation turned rebel. Girls met young men of their age and dictated to their own hearts. Among a small percentage of the oldest, the custom continued—and does to this moment.

are having an argument as to whether it is better to be fat or thin. My friend says that fat people are jollier and I say that slender people are healthier.

Answers: According to insurance experts it is an advantage to be just a little overweight up to the age of 40. Beyond that, however, the benefits also tend to produce a more stable nervous system which would make the person more likely to be happy; but after thirty it is a decided advantage to be slightly underweight as those in this class live longer than those who are overly plump.

BINGHAM'S ITINERARY

New York, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Senator Hiram Bingham will make three speeches August 20 in widely separated sections of Connecticut, traveling from one engagement to another by airplane, he said today.

He is here attending a meeting of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce. In Waterbury he will address the state convention of the American Legion. At 4 p. m. he will address a Republican town meeting on the Giannibroni High school grounds. His third speech will be made that night at the presentation of the opera, "The Mikado," at the Norwalk country club.

PREMIER TO RESIGN

Bucharest, Rumania, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Premier Valde-Voedov announced today he would hand his resignation and that of his Cabinet to King Carol this evening, having completed the task of holding general elections and getting the new Parliament under way.

It was expected King Carol would commission him to form a new Cabinet immediately, with practically the same personnel.

DIPLomat INJURED

Bucarest, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Cde member of the Hungarian embassy staff was seriously hurt and several others were beaten today when the embassy was invaded by a band of young men suspected of being Hungarian Communists. Four were arrested but the rest escaped.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington
 BOTH 1932 CANDIDATES MAY REDUCE CAMPAIGN TOURING TO MINIMUM
 By RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer

Washington—It begins to look as if this presidential campaign and perhaps those of the future, insofar as the two candidates are concerned, were going to become bouts between "masked marvels."

There will be very few of our 120,000,000 people who, if they want to get a good look at President Hoover and Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt this year, will not have to content themselves with newspaper photographs and newsreels.

At any rate, the old practice of extended presidential tours is certain to be discarded by one candidate and still a matter of conjecture for the other. President Hoover may not leave Washington at all, although it is possible that he will journey to one or two nearby cities. The plans of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt are not completed, but many of his friends are arguing against his personal desire of a coast-to-coast speaking tour.

VERTICAL AIR RACE TO BE NEW STUNT AT CLEVELAND MEET
 Cleveland.—(AP)—A vertical air race will be one of the innovations at the 1932 national air races at Cleveland August 27 to September 7.

The race, proposed by the Aero Club of Poland, which will award a marble white eagle, probably will be a free-for-all event for both military and commercial planes.

If successful this year, the race will be an annual event, with the trophy going permanently to the contestant who wins it twice in succession.

Planes in the contest must climb to a height of more than 25,000 feet and then dive back to the starting point. The first to cross the finish line will be the winner.

Two barographs and a thermometer will be carried by each plane to determine the altitude reached. Electrically heated flying suits and oxygen tanks will form part of the equipment of each pilot taking part in the race.

One of the entrants will be Col. George Kossowski, Polish aviator and a member of the international team that will take part in this year's races.

HOT IN ENGLAND
 London, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Most of southern England sweltered in a heat wave today as the temperature hovered around 80 degrees. One of the worst August fogs in years shrouded the channel, brought shipping almost to a standstill, and disrupted the plans of two English swimmers who had planned to start across the channel this morning.

The fog was thick over the Thames Estuary, delaying water traffic in the morning, but this afternoon conditions were improving. A small plane launched from the Little Bumpstead airfield in the fog and came down at Fyfehook to refuel after a 500-mile flight. She took the air again immediately for Southampton.

PLANT TO REOPEN
 Chicago, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The South Chicago plant of the Illinois Steel Corporation, a U. S. Steel Corporation subsidiary, will resume operations tonight after being idle since July 20. It was expected that virtually all of the 6,000 men employed prior to the shut down will be retained soon.

Sufficient orders have been accumulated to keep the plant in operation for 10 days. Additional orders are expected shortly, so officials are hopeful the plant will remain in operation.

MATHEMATICIAN DIES
 Toronto, Aug. 11.—(AP)—John Charles Fields, head of the mathematical faculty at the University of Toronto, died last night at his residence here. He was 70 years old.

He earned prominence in 1906 by his treatise "Theory of the Algebraic Function of a Complex Variable" which had received world-wide acclaim.

Born in Hamilton, Ont., he won his Ph. D. at Johns-Hopkins and came to the University of Toronto mathematical faculty as a young man.

BARRETT THE WINNER
 Louisville, Ky., Aug. 11.—(AP)—U. S. Senator Alben W. Barrett has won a sweeping victory for Democratic nomination. With four-fifths of Kentucky's precincts counted today, he had 307,328 votes to 48,808 for former Senator George B. McCain.

McCain conceded the victory and wired congratulations to Barrett. Dr. J. B. Williams, the other Senatorial candidate, polled only a few thousand votes. Republicans will select their Senatorial nominee in a convention later.

Motor Hints

Timely Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Automobile Club of Hartford.

Squeak First At Ends

One fortunate thing about spring squeaks is that they invariably develop at the ends. This makes them easy to eradicate. Pressure is greatest at these points and it is here that it is most difficult to hold lubricant.

Even where springs are covered and packed in grease the ends often rust and set up their discord of squeaking. Many an owner has discarded the covers on the theory that because squeaking started up again they were useless. The best policy is to protect the springs with the covers but inject penetrating oil into the spring ends from time to time.

Where the "drive" is through the springs, as with Hutchkiss drive, the springs are likely to become noisy after a hard, fast ride. This is explained by the fact that the greater amount of power sent to the rear wheels increases the pressure between the spring leaves.

Breaker Gaps Will Vary
Contrary to popular belief, breaker points should not be given the same setting on all makes and models of cars. The range may be as much as from .015 inch to .027 inch.

For this reason it is necessary to consult the instruction book, or suitable reference tables, before making an adjustment. When out on the road and caught with ignition trouble there is always the risk of having some roadside mechanic use his own ideas as to the spacing of points.

There seems to be no special rule for point spacing. It is not true, for instance, that the higher the compression the smaller the gap should be. One company has been using .015" gap with its normally high compression heads, while another company uses .030" for a motor that is of nearly as high a ratio. One of the low compression motors calls for a breaker gap of .018".

Trouble From Warped Head

One of those insidious troubles that can cause no end of trouble for a motorist is a warped cylinder head. The effect of such warpage is to start several different kinds of serious leakage. This is what happens:

Water from the cooling system leaks into the cylinders, thus continually reducing the amount of cooling fluid and tending to overheat the motor. While water is leaking into the cylinder the combustion gases are leaking into the cooling system. This results in acids and accelerated rusting of the radiator. Since any engine pumps a certain amount of oil into the cylinder, the oil is forced into the cooling system where it forms a coating on the jacket and the inside of the radiator core. The result is less efficient cooling. In winter anti-freeze can leak into the cylinders, and thence down into the crankcase, causing bearing trouble.

Locating Odd Car Noises

Car noises are not always what they seem to be, nor do they originate where you would most likely expect them. One common mistake is to think you hear a humming noise in the rear end while the motor's timing chain actually is causing the trouble.

Usually it is possible to determine whether a noise is in the rear end or the transmission by coasting, but one owner who went this far with his diagnosis failed to consider the fact that when the clutch was disengaged the engine was ticking. At idling speed the loose timing chain did not hum.

A skip in the motor often has been mistaken for looseness in the universal joints, and often when there is too much play in the rear end the motor will seem to skip and buck at low speed in high gear. The wise motorist quickly considers the other end of the car if the opposite end seems to be troublesome.

Correct Type Plug Needed

If a habit of wearing away too rapidly the indications are that the plugs are not of the right heat type for the motor. If plugs operate at too high a temperature their points burn off. This condition is aggravated by the fact that when the points are worn the spark will be backing. This slows down the motor on a hill and starts overheating.

The thing works both ways. If the points foul too readily the engine will require hotter plugs. Too often motorists assume that because the points continually became covered with carbon soot the rings are passing oil excessively.

So, too, pre-ignition often is mistaken for a carburetor motor. One owner had the head removed expecting to find an unusual amount of carbon and instead found the trouble could have been avoided simply by changing to a cooler type of plug.

Explains Use of Eccentric

The eccentric adjustment on the brakes is one of those things which, if overlooked, is certain to upset the most painstaking efforts to put the brakes into efficient condition. "Eccentric," according to Webster means "not in the center." Let us see how this applies to brakes. The first step is to jack up all four wheels. Somewhere around the backing plate of each brake drum, on a raised number of makes of cars, will be found a small eccentric lock nut. This should be loosened. The immediate effect is to centralize the brake shoes in their respective drums.

Next turn each eccentric nut in the direction of the respective wheel rotates when the car is moving forward. Do this until each wheel presents a slight drag when turned trued nuts in the opposite direction over by hand. Then turn the eccentric until the wheels are free of drag.

INDISPENSABLE

One city man called upon another, and, after a glance around the office, inquired: "How's your new office boy getting along?"

"Fine," was the reply. "He got things so mixed up that I couldn't get along without him!" — The Humorist.

ATHLETIC PROGRAM AT CAMP FRIDAY

Brigade Inspection Saturday; Guardsmen Leave For Home Early Sunday.

Company G of the 168th is firing for record on the new Rogers Lake rifle range at Niantic, while the Howitzer company, is qualifying men in the trench mortar and Howitzer directional fire tests.

It is expected that the Brigade will hold an athletic program on the parade ground tomorrow.

Some fine events are expected to be run off in track and field with swimming races at the Pine Forest beach.

A Brigade inspection will be held Saturday morning on the parade ground, the men laying out their entire military equipment for inspection by the camp commander.

Camp will be broken before daylight Sunday morning, the Manchester units leaving Niantic by train for the home station shortly after 8 o'clock.

Company G Notes: A certain "company" of Corporal Gardner's squad must use a lot of hair combs.

Private Ferrell keeps the boys in good spirits with his sax. Shotgun Clifford is having his troubles again on the range.

Mike Civello is a bear for gunnery. He uses so many that "Barge" Murphy has run out of stock.

Pvt. Vennart has been serenading the third squad for the past three nights with his ukulele.

ROCKVILLE

NEWLYWEDS TO SPEND HONEYMOON IN IRELAND

Miss Christian Cortden Becomes Bride of James H. Kerr At Ellington Congregational Church.

A wedding of social interest took place at the Ellington Congregational church on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The bride, Miss Christian Cortden, daughter of Mrs. Mary Cortden of the Somers Road, became the bride of James H. Kerr, of Boston, Mass.

The groom, Mr. James H. Kerr, of Boston, Mass., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert William Kerr of Greenfield, Ireland.

The church decorations were attractive and consisted of Queen Anne's lace, larkspur, ferns and gladioli.

The bride party proceeded down the aisle of the church. Miss Ruth Charter, organist, played Lohengrin's Wedding March and for the recessional she rendered Mendelssohn's "Midsummer's Night Dream."

Rev. John T. Nichols, pastor, performed the ceremony. The single ring service being used. The bridesmaid was Miss Barbara Lincoln of Hartford.

The groom's best man was John Kerr of Boston, Mass., brother of the groom. The bridesmaid was Miss Ruth Charter of Ellington.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her only brother, Clyde Cortden was given in white satin. Her veil of lace and tulle fell from a cap trimmed with orange blossoms.

The bride was dressed in a gown of blue, with hat to match. She carried pink roses, and the little flower girls wore pink organdy.

Editor, The Herald: As a member of the executive committee of the New England Council, the objective of which is to aid in the intelligent stimulus of business, I cannot refrain from paying tribute to the faith that actuated the executive heads of Watkins Brothers in throwing off the retrogressive shackles of depression and announcing to the world: "Our Faith in Manchester, Connecticut, and the U. S. A. is unshaken."

We refuse to adhere to the too-frequently accepted doctrine that business has "gone to the dogs." We have weathered the storm by keeping our house in order. We know the depressed business cycle is on the wane. And we are now confidently bidding for the business we feel sure is to be had, if properly sought.

Some would call it "nerve." Others would call it "faith." Call it what you will. As one who has at least tried to keep familiar with business trends, I'm predicting that the plans which C. Elmore Watkins outlines in The Herald of today will prove sound.

First, I have no doubt whatever that the present great stock of this progressive firm is sold, and a certain most of it will be, the firm proposes to renovate and re-decorate its already beautiful store. Fourth, it then proposes to enter the fall season with a practically new stock.

One of Connecticut's best known and most successful traveling salesmen asked to see me at my office in the Hotel Bond this morning. Previously, he had fairly radiated optimism when he visited me. Today, he entered as though the world had toppled about him and he said in a warily wary voice: "Mr. Rogers, I came in to ask for a little advice. My sales are nil. I think I'm licked. What do you recommend?"

I was about to light a cigar. I knew the gentleman smoked cigars. I said: "Light a cigar. Relax for a moment." He said: "Look out of that window old man. (He isn't an old man, else I would have said that). Have you noticed how brightly the sun is shining today? Has it occurred to you that this is the same old world as the one I saw months ago, when I was achieving outstanding success in your chosen vocation. True, we have had distressing business setbacks. True, all of us have been hit. But, these are the times that challenge a man. The real reason you have convinced yourself that you are licked. It isn't so long ago that you proudly told me in this office of your unusual success. Then, the greatest obstacle only spurred you on. Now, even imaginary troubles make me feel that I am now in a through smoked glasses. Snap yourself out of your present mental dilemma. True, one can't pull himself up by his boot-strap but anyone can work just a little harder."

But, the depression is over. True, peak times are not here. But, true, peak times won't be here for some time. But, if a few more firms take the same attitude as Watkins Brothers are today taking, it won't be long until the shelves of stores will be empty, the wheels of industry will start to hum, prices will soar, and better times will be with us. I congratulate Watkins Brothers. Not because it is Watkins Brothers, but because this firm has blazed the way for other business. I wish the firm unprecedented success in what is in my humble opinion a definite contribution to more prosperous days.

Respectfully submitted, WILLARD B. ROGERS.

WROUNG INFORMATION

Editor of The Herald: This is to call attention to an error by the Manchester Lodge, No. 1477, Loyal Order of Moose, printed in Monday's Herald. The item stated that Senior Dictator Frank A. Monte and Dictator John F. Limerick were the first members of Manchester Lodge to receive a bronze statue of James J. Davis, founder of Mooseheart, in recognition for outstanding work in the interest of the order.

This is incorrect, as I was awarded a similar statue by the grand lodge of the order in 1927. The award was sent to me by Mr. Davis with a personal commendation. I make this correction merely to remove any misunderstanding in the minds of your readers.

Sincerely, JOSEPH BARTO.

RACKETEER MURDERED

Chicago, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Joe "Big Rabbit" Connell, 35, who police said, saw in the imprisonment of Al Capone an opportunity to extend a small neighborhood beer business into larger fields was killed by several men in an automobile who fired on him as he stood in front of his saloon last night.

Police said he had undertaken to sell beer to other speakeasy proprietors at $30 a barrel, 25¢ less than the price reputedly charged by the Capone syndicate.

Recently he was reported to have made extensive inroads on the syndicate's trade on the north side. Police said they learned a week ago that Connell had been warned to cease wholesaling beer and confine himself to his saloon business.

Apparently, they said, he disregarded the warning.

Funeral of Wilson Dunbar

There was a large gathering from Hartford, Manchester, New Britain, Ellington and this city present at the funeral of Wilson Dunbar on Wednesday. Services for the young man who was drowned in the Willimantic River at Willimantic on Sunday were held from the undertaking parlors of Luther H. White on Elm street, at 2 p. m. Rev. I. L. MODERN REFINING AIDS ENGINE PERFORMANCE

The slow starting and comparatively poor acceleration of the motor cars of several years ago was doubtless due in large part to the presence of large amounts of resinous substances in the gasoline refined at that time, according to the local agent of the Gulf Refining Company, who points out that these deleterious substances are removed from gasoline before it is marketed today.

"These substances have a disadvantageous effect on motor performance because they clog the valves and may even collect on the intake manifold," this authority said. "Formerly it was not possible satisfactorily to remove them. Now we have learned to do so in the refinery. We are still up against the problem of these substances forming once again in the gasoline in storage. Moreover, when stored for any length of time gasoline loses much of its anti-knock qualities, becomes less volatile and is deprived of much of its efficiency as a motor fuel. For this reason automatic engine caution motorists against using gasoline which has gone stale."

It is so easy for one to remain silent when deriving pleasure from our associations, as we generally feel the necessity for voicing opinions only with those things causing us displeasure.

The spirit of altruism backing the presentation of this series of concerts is deserving of the highest praise. The average listener seldom gives thought to the enormous amount of time necessary to prepare a weekly program such as this and avoid repetition. The fact that this time is so willingly given in a gratuitous spirit is something which Manchester should appreciate to the full.

Hats off to our Salvation Army Band, its director and the cause they represent. Mr. Manchester bears in mind that this organization exists, when service of a remunerative order is needed.

Very truly yours, SYDNEY FRENCH, 15 Scarborough Road, So. Manchester, Conn., August 10, 1932.

TARIFF REDUCED

Paris, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The government today reduced the tariff tax on hams and salt pork from the United States to four francs a kilogram following representations from the American Embassy.

Previously these commodities had been classified under the maximum tariff of eight francs.

The quotas on banana imports were renewed today through December.

It was understood that Premier Heriot has completed his reply to the recent American memorandum regarding a Franco-American commercial treaty, and that the document will be presented to United States Ambassador Edge before the end of the week.

INDUSTRY GUARDS WORKERS' HEALTH

Director of State Bureau Says Employers Really Accept Advice.

Connecticut industry for the most part takes adequate steps necessary for the protection of its workers against diseases which are apt to result from the operation of industrial processes and from the handling of certain materials, it was stated by Dr. Albert S. Gray, director of the Bureau of Occupational Diseases of the State Department of Health, in the department's weekly broadcast last night.

The program during which Dr. Gray briefly outlined the work of the industrial hygienist was another of the series dramatizing the summer activities of the department's "Watchman Family." Dr. Gray is the role of uncle, visiting the family in explaining his work as an industrial hygienist states that industrial executives realize that it is to their advantage to make necessary improvements, since unhealthful conditions adversely affect their workers' output.

The hygienist's job is to make tests of the working environment in order to determine whether the materials and processes used are creating conditions which might adversely affect the worker's health. When such conditions are found, suggestions for overcoming them are made. The recommendations are then submitted to the factory owners and are worked out in detail by their own engineers.

FOR DEBT CANCELLATION

Sunapee, N. H., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Members of the second annual summer conference of the National Congregational and Christian seminar on international relations yesterday expressed the belief war debts by European powers to the United States should be cancelled only if progress toward reduction of armaments is made by debtor nations.

The viewpoint was contained in a letter signed individually by members of the seminar and addressed to a group of prominent Congregational ministers of Great Britain who signed an appeal to join in the cancellation of war debts with the remission of reparations.

The committee which drafted the letter included the Rev. Edward C. Boynton of Scarsdale, N. Y., the Rev. Dr. Charles C. Mills and the Rev. Dr. John M. Phillips of Hartford, Conn.

EXPECT RECORD CROWD AT SANDY BEACH

It is expected the record crowd of 1500 that were present at Sandy Beach, Crystal Lake, last Sunday to enjoy the music of McKinley's Victor Recording orchestra and Smiling Jack Keeney and his orchestra will be surpassed this week as new attendance records continue to be smashed at this popular resort.

Thousands have visited Sandy Beach this week and an extra special dance program has been arranged for the week-end bringing to the lake, New York's wait king, Jack Carlton and his orchestra for a special engagement. This is the first appearance of this famous dance orchestra in Connecticut and a rare treat is in store for Sandy Beach patrons who will be privileged to hear the champions for forty cents instead of the usual dollar admission that is charged in many ballrooms to hear them.

Sunday evenings are now the most popular of the week at Sandy Beach with a record crowd attending these dance affairs each Sunday evening. Special dance music has been booked for Sunday eve the 14th when "Bully" and his orchestra starring "Bill" Jones and a galaxy of clever dance musicians come to Sandy Beach for a special engagement.

Young Sully directing his band is a rare treat and this talented group of stars are sure to bring a capacity crowd to the lake Sunday eve. Neff's "Old Saw Mill Gang" in a program of modern and old fashion dance tunes are scheduled to provide the music for the regular Friday eve dance.

Coming to Sandy Beach soon as such celebrated dance bands as for LOVE or MONEY by CORLEY

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MONA MORGAN, receptionist in a Wall Street law office, is in love with BARRY TOWNSEND, rich and socially prominent. She met Barry through STEVE SACCA-RELLA, her childhood sweetheart, who has returned to New York after three years' absence. Steve has been in South America where, largely by chance, he has become associated with Barry, owner of a diamond mine long believed worthless. Together they have made the mine pay and are now business partners. Steve owns a huge diamond called "The Empress of Peru," LOTTIE CARR, fashion model, joins Mona, Barry and Steve on several dinner and dancing engagements.

Mona's brother, BUD, becomes involved with gangsters who plan to steal the big diamond. Steve suspects this, traps Bud and when he confesses helps him escape to South America where he is to have a job at the mine.

Some time later Barry invites Mona, Lottie and Steve to spend Sunday at his uncle's palatial country home. It is a delightful day but Barry fails to propose to Mona as she had hoped he might. He asks her to dine with him next week but when the day arrives she fails to hear from him. Barry is ill with influenza.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XX
 It was, of course, out of the question for Mona to go to see Barry. Neither could she telephone. She shrewdly suspected that, with Barry's uncle back from White Sulphur, even Steve kept away from the Townsend country home.

"I've been in this office for three years nearly," she mused, "yet I've never seen the firm's most remunerative client!"

Nor had she, Mr. Townsend was one of the favored few who used the private elevator leading directly to Mr. Garretson's own office.

Mona glanced at her wrist watch and saw that it was well past her usual lunch time. Well, now that she had delayed this long she would wait and lunch at the Savarin. It was expensive but occasionally she went there, ordering the least costly dish on the menu. Mona felt sick at heart. The influenza might keep Barry at home until he sailing date and by that time perhaps he would forget her!

A moment later Mollie Drury passed Mona's desk, dropping a folded newspaper. "Get a load of that!" Mona said mysteriously.

The society page was folded outward to display a rather pretty, yet vacuous face. It was the face of a girl named Genevieve Dower. "Miss Genevieve Dower," the caption ran, "daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Aldrich Dower of East 72nd street and Southampton, L. I., will be presented at a dinner dance to-night at Pizor's."

Mona raised uncomprehending eyes and Mollie shrugged. "Engaged, so they say, to Barry Townsend! Remember seeing him around here?"

Mona remembered—as Mollie had expected, "Engaged?" she repeated. "The paper doesn't say that, does it?"

"The paper doesn't—but Dr. Dower and Barry Townsend's uncle are great pals. They were down at White Sulphur with Mr. Garretson."

Mona looked again at the portrait. The face was familiar but the name—ah, she recognized it! Barry had been called to the telephone last Sunday when Jimmie reported, "Miss Dower is calling?"

"Is it announced?" she asked dully.

Mollie raised her hands, indicating disinterest. "Not yet, I guess. The girl probably wants a fling in society before she marries."

Who could want a fling, Mona thought desperately, with Barry waiting? She said nothing however and Mollie, only half satisfied with the effect of her news, descended to eat her lunch.

who had hired her, arranged her work, and given her frequent raises in salary.

At five o'clock Mona took the subway and rode to the hospital, reflecting as she struggled through the crowds that this was the first evening in a long while that she had not made the trip in Steve's car.

At a corner shop she bought tobacco and oranges and selected some cartoon booklets for her father who was an enthusiastic admirer of Mickey Mouse.

Following the stiffly starched nurse into the doctor's office, Mona's heart grew lighter. With Dad well once more she would be so much happier. Bud was no longer a worry. Kitty was doing well at school. Ma had felt better lately too. There was only the problem of raising the money for her father's treatment.

Steve might loan her the amount, Mona reflected. But no—she couldn't ask him for it. She had taken such pains to make clear to Steve just what she could accept from him and what she could not.

Mona recalled one of Lottie's axioms concerning men. "They'll spend a fortune on you for things you don't need or even care about. Oh—the lobster Newburg I've eaten when I needed shoes! The orchids I've worn when I was wondering how to pay the rent! Whenever you really need something you can count men out."

She remembered that once when one of the girls had been in urgent need of money Lottie had conducted a sale and many of her friends had generously thrown in various treasures. Lottie as auctioneer, glib of tongue and generous herself, had rapidly raised the required sum.

Mona, however, had nothing to sell. The emerald coat might have brought $500 but it had been returned to Pilgrim's the day after its arrival. She had declined the diamond necklace. No—there was no way except to ask her employer for an advance.

Dr. Dean, a slender, blond young man of earnest mien, looked up as she entered his office. The doctor's air was preoccupied and important. He had just come from a conference, he said, at which her father's case had been discussed. Dr. Fredericks, the well-known specialist, had been present and had agreed with the other doctors' findings; the radium treatment was not only advisable but essential.

In brief, technical language Dr. Dean sketched the condition, the treatment under which that condition would yield, and finally the prognosis and cost.

"As I told you before it will be $500. But when you consider that your father will be here under observation for several months that sum becomes nominal. However, we are not concerned over the payment you can take your time for that. Dr. Fredericks, who comes to the hospital frequently, will be consulted from time to time. All you need to do, Miss Moran, is sign a document signifying your agreement to the plan of treatment. The money can wait on your convenience."

Dr. Fredericks entered the room then. He looked the antithesis of Dr. Dean—older, jovial, dark and stocky. Save for his smile and general air of efficiency, he might have passed anywhere for a badly dressed grocery clerk.

But when he spoke Mona's attitude toward the man changed completely. Here were knowledge, experience, quiet assurance. Moreover Dr. Fredericks was frankly pleased by Miss Moran's beauty.

The girl felt that at any cost she must place her father under this doctor's man's care. Dr. Fredericks talked the younger doctor nodded solemnly and the nurse, glancing up from her files, smiled approval.

"I brought my father a few little things," Mona told Miss Folsom after she had signed the agreement and said good night to the two doctors who were discussing other mat-

'Carpet Phonograph' Tests Fabrics With 'Years' Of Wear In One Day

Washington (AP)—The years of countless steps that gradually wear out carpets are crowded into a single day by a machine developed at the U. S. Bureau of Standards.

It will wear out a sample of carpet completely in a few hours instead of a generation by producing at high speed exactly the same stresses and strains on the fibers that result from years of walking, scraping and scuffing.

A machine that makes so many "steps" in so short a time will be useful in showing how and why various kinds of carpet materials wear out, and how they can be better built to resist wear, it is reported by E. F. Schiefer and A. S. Best, scientists of the Bureau.

The new device does not actually put on a pair of shoes and walk rapidly over the carpet until it is worn out, but it has exactly that effect on the carpet, they explain.

When a person walks over a carpet the soles of his shoes bend the fibers of the "pile" forward and backward, push them downward, and twist them slightly sideways. The carpet-testing machine does the same thing. It speeds up this wear by subjecting the carpet to continuous "walking."

A circular piece of the carpet to be tested is tacked to a round turntable. Two wheels with sole leather "tires" rest on the surface of the carpet. The turntable is pressed against the wheels with about 150 pounds pressure, the weight of an average man.

One wheel is turned by a motor, in turn causing the turntable and its carpet sample to revolve. The revolving of the turntable causes the wheels to turn in the opposite direction. By the action of the wheels the carpet fibers are bent both forward and backward.

A vacuum cleaner sucks away the material worn off from the carpet so it will not interfere with the carpet's surface serves also to keep it approximately at room temperature.

To measure how much a carpet is worn by the testing machine, the experimenters designed a sensitive gauge to measure thickness.

The wheels of the "carpet phonograph" (above) enable science to give a rug in one minute the wear equivalent to nine months' actual use. Below is the device which measures the damage done by the "phonograph."

GLORIFYING YOURSELF by Alicia Hart BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

LIPS THAT TOUCH LIPSTICK—close your lips and your mouth grows beautiful again.

If your lips are too full don't blend the lipstick to the outer edges. Using a heavier color on the upper lip and a lighter one on the lower lip helps, too.

If your lips are too thin you may need to let the rouge come beyond the line of the lips.

If they are normal use rouge over the entire surface, blending it naturally.

Some people have better luck in keeping lipstick on, if they apply a coating of it, dust it with powder, and then apply some more.

Lipstick adheres more closely to lips that are dry at the time of the application.

Don't purse your lips together when you are making up your mouth. That type of mouth posture once upon a time, hasn't its place on your face now, unless it is natural. You aren't trying to make a new mouth. You are merely improving on the one that you have, or brightening its color.

The competitive system of production for profit under private control has now become so faulty and so great a burden on society that its failure is apparent to all.

It can safely be said that in the long national history of China the present is perhaps the most critical period.

I am conceding the fact that I am 76 as much as possible. It is wrong to say I am "thoroughly old." I am not. I am very much overworked and have been all my life.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

FEARS FOR YOUR SUMMER MENU.

BY SISTER MARY.
 Fears of some variety are in the market almost the whole year through, but the delicious Bartlett pear is at its best during August and September.

Many other high quality varieties follow the Bartlett, prolonging the season into the late fall. In spite of their seeming sweetness, pears are somewhat acid and consequently are an excellent tonic fruit.

Their flavor is refreshing, tending to tone up a tired summer appetite. Used fresh in salads, fruit cups and desserts, or as a breakfast fruit, they provide a welcome change.

Unlike most fruits, pears are best picked green and allowed to ripen in storage. In this way the fruit develops better flavor and finer texture than tree-ripened. In choosing pears, those on the verge of greenness rather than ripeness are desirable.

Baked Pears.
 Baked pears may be prepared like baked apples and are especially good for breakfast with bacon and eggs. If wanted for dessert, they can be pared and cored, sprinkled with sugar and baked, covered, in a moderate oven for an hour.

Served with whipped cream and ginger cookies, they make an inviting last course for an August dinner. Two tablespoons sugar for each pear makes the fruit pleasantly sweet for the average taste.

A little powdered sugar mixed with the sugar adds zest to the fruit, too. Stuffed pear salad always is popular and when fresh, perfectly ripe fruit is used the salad is delicious.

Cream cheese mixed with preserved ginger and finely chopped nut meats is a delectable combination. Chill pears, pare and cut in halves lengthwise and remove cores. Sprinkle with lemon juice to prevent discoloration. Drain the ginger from its syrup and mince. Work nuts and ginger into cream cheese, adding cream if necessary to make soft enough to mold. Mold in small balls and place a ball in the cavity of each pear.

Serve on crisp lettuce with French dressing to which orange juice has been added. Fritters made with pears are very good, too. Served with ginger sauce, pear fritters make a fitting dessert for a vegetable dinner. Pare fruit and cut in very thin slices. Drop into fritter batter and fry in deep hot fat.

Science is utterly incompetent to explain the existence of the world as we know it now.

It is my duty and high honor to say that the government of the United States in the last two elections has fulfilled its word in directing an honest and free suffrage.

One of the most interesting aspects of old age is the change in the mind and ability to sleep. Because the aged sleep less continuously, they frequently estimate the amount of sleep at much less than it really is.

However, it is quite certain the aged are able to use much less sleep than vigorous, active people, and it is not desirable to get them into the habit of taking sedative drugs.

It is likely, according to Sir Humphry Rolleston, that ex-

DON'T LET JUNIOR BECOME OVER-EXCITED

Nerve are telegraph wires. They possess automatic shut-offs. When the brain becomes fogged or excited the switch to the stomach closes and that station ceases work.

Excitement consists of many things. Happiness, sorrow, anger, fear, or any complex suddenly accentuated will almost certainly hit at the stomach, especially if the sufferer happens to be of a sensitive, high-strung nature.

Several times this summer I have observed children who were supposed to have a complaint due to heat, go down with fever, purging and vomiting after some form of unusual excitement. It did not occur to their mothers that nerve strain may have been the principal cause. But there was not much question in my mind that it was to blame.

There is this to be said about a party or a picnic: Through sheer anticipation a child becomes taut. He thinks about it beforehand, then there is the actual preparation and the trip.

Quadruple his emotional state keeps up through the day, often accompanied by physical over-exertion.

All Parties Aren't Fun
 We have a habit of thinking that anything in the nature of a holiday or celebration delights a child. For the most part it does, too. But it depends very much on what she does with it. A little girl recently was invited to a lovely party where all the other children were strangers. She could not protest against going because she saw how delighted everyone else was about it. They all kept talking and talking about what she must wear and the important children she would meet.

She was coached about things to do and not to do. Naturally shy and unadjusted, it was hard for her to meet even one strange little girl and make up with her.

Being thrown suddenly into the midst of two dozen was torture. Yet she smiled and tried to be friendly and put up the appearance of having a good time.

The automatic shut-off clicked. Her stomach was not receiving. But beautiful refreshments were served and although she was not hungry she was urged to eat this and that, and she did.

Home—just in time. Bed, fever, throwing everything off she had eaten. Doctor! "Summer complaint." Which was partly true, as heat never helps.

This was fear, or a complex at work. Happiness emotionally overtone will do the same thing. Any kind of excitement.

The crux of it all is that at the very time children should not over-eat or eat at all, they eat. Any type of celebration is inevitably accompanied by unusual or rich food.

A nervous child is fortunate if he lives a quiet uneventful life, especially during the hot months.

Hint on How to Keep Well by World Famed Authority

No. 2 of Six Articles

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of six articles by Dr. Fishbein on Good Health at Sixty. Others will be printed daily until the series is completed.

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
 Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

One of the things which every person over 60 must realize is that his organs are functioning more slowly than in his youth and that allowances must be made for this change.

The glands tend to function less in old age, so that the skin becomes dry. Even the gastric juice contains a lower percentage of hydrochloric acid, and for this reason there is difficulty with digestion.

Moreover, the mucus in the intestines becomes less, so that there is a tendency to dry up of the intestinal contents and therefore to constipation.

One of the significant changes in old age is the blunting of sensibility to pain. This is very important because the breaking down of the tissues leads to sensations that are uncomfortable. For the same reason disease in old age comes insidiously.

Whereas pneumonia, heart disease or stones in the kidney or gallbladder may cause agonizing pain to a young person, they come on so insidiously in older ones that they may be unrecognized until they have reached the point where help is difficult. Even cancer comes on insidiously in the aged.

The sensations of taste and smell also become weaker so that food is not so appetizing. Everyone knows also that sight and hearing are greatly depreciated in the elderly.

One of the most interesting aspects of old age is the change in the mind and ability to sleep. Because the aged sleep less continuously, they frequently estimate the amount of sleep at much less than it really is.

However, it is quite certain the aged are able to use much less sleep than vigorous, active people, and it is not desirable to get them into the habit of taking sedative drugs.

It is likely, according to Sir Humphry Rolleston, that excessive sleep is more harmful to them than too little. The mind becomes much more easily fatigued in old age than in middle age.

Gradually the power of affection wanes in the old, perhaps because they have become habituated to the loss of relatives and friends. Probably they are more self-centered; time passes slowly and their minds are occupied with their own feelings.

ANOTHER ANCESTOR
 Minneapolis, Minn.—Delving geologists have been digging up prehistoric men all over the world, and the latest one to be brought to light is the "Minnesota Man," whose bones were found by road builders.

Dr. A. E. Jenks of the University of Minnesota, has pronounced the skeleton to be that of a primitive youth about 20 years old who roamed this state 20,000 years ago.

Reduced 30 Pounds
Never Felt Better
 Safe Way To Lose Fat

Take the case of Miss Madeline Crowley, for instance, who lives in Little Rock, Ark. Just read her letter:

"I have used Kruschen Salts for one year—when I started I weighed 140 pounds—now I weigh 110 pounds and never felt better in my life."

That's the big reason a host of men and women take Kruschen to lose weight—as the fat goes, you gain in health—skin clears—eyes grow bright—activity replaces in-dolence.

Take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—cut down on city-made potatoes and sweets—a far of Kruschen that costs but a trifle lasts 4 weeks—get it at J. H. Quinn & Co., South Manchester—or any druggist in the world—but for your health's sake demand and get Kruschen Salts—Advt.

HERE'S A LIST OF FIVE BEST BOOKS IN JULY

"We Begin," Given Place of Honor in Review of Month's Publications

The month of July brought several really good books to the market, and any list of the "five best books" of the month is bound to contain some first-rate reading matter.

Here are the books that seem to this reviewer to have been at the top of the month's output:

"We Begin," by Helen Grace Carlisle. This novel of three people who came over on the Mayflower is beautifully written and deeply interesting—a book that will make the legendary folk of 1620 seem always a little more human and understandable to you. Please don't miss it.

"Forge," by T. S. Stripling. In this book Mr. Stripling depicts the south during reconstruction days and paints a living picture of a tragic and confused epoch in our history. The book's style may be undistinguished, but there's solid nourishment in the narrative.

"Dawn in Russia," by Waldo Frank—a discussion of the Soviet experiment which ignores statistics and tries to examine the tangle of ponderables; one of the best books on Russia yet written.

PUZZLED

By HELEN WELSHMER
WHY does a little house, lamp bright
 Against a darkening street,
 Make me remember wistful things,
 Like lilac trees, rain sweet?

AROSY breath where two could warm,
 Gay love, broken leaves of bread,
 The rhythm of a small-child's laugh,
 Low lying overhead.

WE never speak of things like these—
 There is no reason why
 The lamps that other women light
 Should make me hazy by.

Italy Defeats Great Britain In Olympic Regatta

SARAZEN CARDS 152, FAILING TO QUALIFY

Hopes of Winning Pro Tourney Fade, But Gene Has Slim Chance To Play; Klein Leads With 144.

Rockville Center, N. Y., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Gene Sarazen's hopes of capping his United States and British open golf championships with a victory in the Professional Golf Association's tournament at St. Paul Aug. 30-Sept. 3 faded yesterday when he failed to place among the 14 qualifiers from the Metropolitan district.

Sarazen, who turned down an invitation to compete at St. Paul without playing the qualifying rounds, shot a 152 to finish in a seven-way tie for the last three positions. His par four on the first extra hole, however, was not good enough, Johnny Golden and Mike and Joe Turnesa carding birdie 3s.

With the hopes that one of the qualifiers will decide to withdraw, Sarazen, Leo Diegel, former P. G. A. champion, Tony Manero and Henry Miller, an unknown New Yorker, carried on Sarazen won on the third extra hole with only a slim chance of playing in the finals. There is a chance Charles Lacey, assistant pro at Sarazen at Lakeville, might drop out, leaving the way open for Sarazen to compete for his third major title. Lacey shot a 150 today, two strokes better than his employer.

Willie Klein, Wheatley Hills professional, showed the way to the qualifiers with a 36-hole card of 144. He toured the first 18 holes in 69 and the afternoon round in 75.

Four strokes behind with 148's trailed Billy Burke, former national open titleholder, Walter Kozak, Tom Boyd and James Hines. A. E. MacQuinn, Jr. led the 18-hole round with a 73-78-148. Other qualifiers were: Paul Runyon, Charles Lacey, Bobby Cruickshank, Pat Currell, Johnny Farrell, Henry Barron, John Golden, Mike Turnesa and Joe Turnesa.

Sarazen never could get going, taking a 76 on both rounds. He had a chance for a 151 on the last hole but took a six.

Leading 8-4 When Rain Halts Game In Fifth; Gustafson Stars For Married Men.

The Married Men had it all over the Single Men in the West Side's annual set-to last night on the Racetrack lot, the Benedicts winning 8-4. Those who have not yet led a blushing bride up to the altar failed to hit "Hokey" Gustafson, in the box for the oldsters, when hits measured.

Such old timers as Bill Brennan, Harry White, R. Gustafson and Tim Fogarty made life miserable for McConkey and Kerr. Approaching showers cut the game short in the fifth inning.

Races assigned to Clansmen will include a one mile relay, a clansmen's race, past chiefs' race and clansmen's race for members over 45 years of age. Two prizes will be awarded in each event. Special attractions will be a five-a-side football game and quilt pitching.

"BIG ED" TEACHES 'EM ALL, PITCHING, CATCHING OR GOLF

Famous Spitalb Hurler Now Pro In Meriden; Dreams of Return To Big League As Manager.

Meriden, Conn., Aug. 11.—(AP)—"Big Ed" Walsh, who once smoked them over the plate for the Chicago White Sox, still sends the ball arfing—but the tee has replaced the mound.

When the famous spitalb hurler retired from baseball he turned for his livelihood to golf—his second love. He can be found any day now, holding down his first job as a professional at the Meriden Municipal Golf Course.

Walsh, looking only 35 of his 51 years, started playing golf in 1918, learning the fine points of the game from such notable exponents as Walter Hagen, Chick Evans and others famous in the realm of golf. Walsh, who is concentrating on golf instruction, takes his job seriously.

"I have always liked teaching," he says, "because I have a great deal of patience. And being the coolest guy in the world myself, I never raise the bastards."

In his tidy little workshop, Walsh is working on a new type club which he claims will add 15 to 20 yards to the drive. Always handy with carpenter tools, Walsh displayed with pride his lathe and other implements of the trade.

Walsh, who is concentrating on golf instruction, takes his job seriously. "I have always liked teaching," he says, "because I have a great deal of patience. And being the coolest guy in the world myself, I never raise the bastards."

"In the fall I never miss a day. I have one real dog, a pointer, and we bag as many birds as the next one."

Phasant, any style, is his favorite. Besides teaching golf, Walsh has regular classes in baseball, specializing in pitchers and catchers. Between times he plays exhibition baseball, usually fanning four or five batters in a row before retiring to a coaching position for the balance of the contest.

Edward A. Walsh, the "Big Ed" of the American league, dreams of some day returning to big league baseball as a manager. In the meantime he practices putting a hop-on the ball with a golf club.

Tennis Coach Of Kings' Retiring After Half-Century Teaching Game

London, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Alfred White, known as "the tennis coach of kings," has announced his retirement this month as professional at the Hampton Court Tennis Club after an association with royalty extending over 50 years.

In his younger days he served several years as professional at Harvard university. It is the ancient game of "real" tennis, as distinct from modern lawn tennis that White played and taught such eminent pupils as King Edward, King George and the late Duke of Clarence. The court he presided over so long at Hampton Court palace is the last in the world.

White, who is concentrating on golf instruction, takes his job seriously. "I have always liked teaching," he says, "because I have a great deal of patience. And being the coolest guy in the world myself, I never raise the bastards."

MINISTER DEFENDS TITLE OF CHAMPION TRAPSHOOTER SOON

Eight Former Champs Entered; Crown Never Won Twice By Same Man; Tourney Opens Aug. 18.

Vandalia, O., Aug. 11.—(AP)—The adage "they never come back" seems to hold true in trapshooting more than in any other sport.

They've been holding Grand American Handicap trapshooting tournaments since 1900, but no marksman has ever been able to score two victories.

This year the thirty-third Grand American will be held here at the permanent home of trapshooting, Aug. 18-27, and there will be nine former champions entered, all trying to do what no marksman has ever been able to accomplish—win the Grand American a second time.

Minister Holds Title
Rev. Garrison Root, United Brethren minister of Defiance, O., who won the 1931 title by breaking 98 targets from the 17-yard line, will be back on the firing line.

So will Little Rufus King, Jr., of Wichita Falls, Tex., youngster who shattered 97 from the 18-yard line in 1930 to win top honors.

Another Texas, Mose Newman, cattleman from Sweetwater, who broke 98 from 20 yards in 1929 to win from a field of 1,100 marksmen, will try again this year.

The Andrews, Spartanburg, S. C., director of the American Trapshooting Association, won the big classic, in 1928 with 95 from 20 yards, and will be a certain starter again.

Otto Newlin, former major league baseball player from Georgetown, Ill., figures another from 20 yards to win top honors in 1927 will be good enough to give him a repeat.

Farmer's Score Unequaled
They will all have a hard time stopping Charley Young, retired farmer of Springfield, O., who won with 100 in 1910.

Looms As Close Rival Of American Oarsmen

CRABBE PUTS U. S. IN LEAD OF SWIM

Los Angeles, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Clarence (Buster) Crabbe of America momentarily halted Japan's swimming invasion by defeating Jean Tarris, France, by six inches in the 400-meter free style final yesterday.

Japan had been favored to win but Crabbe and Tarris staged such a brisk race the Japanese had to be content with third, fourth and fifth.

Crabbe set a new Olympic record of 4 minutes, 48.4 seconds and bettered Arne Borg's record but while he was winning, the International Swimming Federation was accepting various and sundry world records including Tarris' time of 4:47 for the distance, taking this honor from the victor.

Four other events of the Olympics which are yet to be contested, were affected by the lowering of new world's standards.

These were the 1500-meter free style, with Borg's record of 19 minutes, 7.3 seconds; 300-meter breast stroke set by Walter Spence, Canada, at 2:44.8; the 400-meter free style for women at 6:31, which is one of Helene Madison's sixteen marks, and the 100-meter backstroke for women established by Bonnie Mealing, Australia.

Crabbe's men's team lead with the total standing at 42 against 37 for Japan. The women's team lead was increased to 39 against 12 for Australia, when Uncle Sam's three feminine spring board diving experts swept the first three places.

In doing so they duplicated the performance of the men's spring board trio composed of Mickey Riley Galtzen, Harold Smith and Richard Deneger, several days ago.

Georgia Coleman, Los Angeles; Katherine Rawls, Miami Beach, Fla., and Jane Fauntz, Chicago, took the first three places in the order named, but only after Miss Coleman and Miss Fauntz had been requested to put on suits with less exposure of the spine.

Seeking victory in the 1500-meter race today, Crabbe had as one of his chief opponents, Kitamura, 14-year-old Japanese boy, who did not participate in the 400-meter event. Andrew (Boy) Carlton, Australia, and Tarris, also figured to be dangerous.

Finals of Eight Oared Event To Be Held On Saturday

With U. S. Favored To Win—Double Sculling Event May Also Go To the Yankees.

Long Beach, Calif., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Italy's powerful and well spirited eight oared crew today loomed as the best load for the United States to beat in the five star feature of the Olympic regatta.

The big cheers yesterday were quite properly reserved for the University of California's crew, the second the university has sent into the world champion regatta. It measured fully up to high expectations in winning the second and last heat of the trials with apparently plenty in reserve all the way.

Italy sprang the big surprise of the day by beating the Cambridge University crew, representing Great Britain by nearly two lengths. Canada was second to the United States entry. Italy not only upset a British crew which was one of the big favorites in the advance but turned in faster time for the 2000 meter straighter than the Americans.

The United States and Italy thus qualified automatically for the finals of the eight oared competition, to be held Saturday.

Great Britain, New Zealand and Brazil were bracketed in today's first eight oared heat, while Germany, Canada and Japan were the other. Each race promised a close contest.

Italy's crewman made a sensational showing in the first two days of trials, winning three of the twelve preliminaries. Great Britain also gained three victories while the United States and Poland scored two each and Canada and Australia one each.

Americans' Best Chance
The Americans' best chance of carrying off championship honors outside of the eight oared class, appeared to rest on the experienced double sculling combination, Garrett Gillmore and Ken Myers of Philadelphia. They won from Germany's pair, yesterday by nearly three lengths in 7:14.3, with much the best performance in this class.

The American singles sculling champion, Bill Miller of the Penn A. C. Philadelphia, appeared certain to clinch a place in the final although he was beaten decisively by Bobby Pearce, Australian holder of the title in their first heat Tuesday. Miller in today's trials to select two more finalists, opposed G. Douglas of Uruguay and Joe Wright Jr. of Canada. Leslie Southwood of England and Pearce qualified for the finals in their first trials.

The U. S. four with coxswain was drawn against Germany, Japan and New Zealand in today's first event of a program devoted entirely to selecting additional finalists from the boats previously defeated. The American four without coxswain was bracketed with Germany and Canada.

The United States pair, without coxswain, faces Holland, New Zealand and France. The first in each of these races to go into the finals.

Victoria, B. C., has invited swimmers competing in the Olympiad to appear there after the games.

A'S BEAT CHICAGO, TAKE SECOND PLACE

Yanks Hold Nine Game Margin; Pirates Break Losing Streak, Splitting Doubleheader.

The early August road tours in the major leagues, the time when the fittest clubs must show their fitness to survive, have ended with high honors for the New York Yanks, leaders of the American League, and few if any for the Pittsburgh Pirates at the head of the National.

The Yanks came through their trip to the middle west with only a half game missing from the margin they started out with after winning ten of fifteen games. The Cubs on the other hand finished with a record of seven victories and twelve defeats that completely wiped out their lead. Today they faced Chicago with a margin of only three percentage points.

Pirates Break Losing Streak
While Chicago was kept idle by rain yesterday, Pittsburgh broke its ten of fifteen games. The Cubs on 2 victory over the Boston Braves in the first half of a doubleheader and they kept their hold on first place. They followed it by losing 3 to 2 although Larry French allowed only four hits.

Brooklyn, which started the National League by the success of its home stand, topped off by taking two games from the Cincinnati Reds 6-1 and 10-9 in 13 innings, to make it 14 victories in 18 starts.

The St. Louis Cards completed the downfall of the Phillies with an 11th inning onslaught and an 11-5 victory.

Philadelphia's Athletics whose western tour was about as successful as that of the Yanks captured second place in the American League by beating the Chicago White Sox 4-3 while rain held Washington and Cleveland idle, dropping the Indians to third.

The Yanks meanwhile maintained a nine game margin over the A's by taking a 7-6 decision from the St. Louis Browns.

Young Tommy Bridges who pitched a one-hit game his last time out, stopped the Boston Red Sox with three hits and hurled Detroit to a 6-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

TRADE SCHOOL STARS DEFEAT FACULTY, 11-9

Score In Every Inning To Eke Out Triumph Over Hard Hitting Instructors.

The Trade School All-Stars, composed of the best material in the Drafting, Electric, Machine and Carpentry departments barely managed to squeeze out an 11-9 victory over the Faculty, behind the effective relief hurling of young Alitch Profs, who baffled the instructors with a wide variety of hooks and speed balls. Jakiel who started the game for the Stars, lasted until the third inning, when he allowed six runs on hits by Higgins, Panciera and Kovis. Oriowski was rushed in at this point and retired the side in quick order.

From then on, the Faculty were helpless, while the Stars were putting the game on ice by touching Ehmalian for five runs in the fifth. Blonias had a perfect day at bat, slugging out two doubles and a single, and Oriowski collected a double and two singles. For the instructors, Panciera led the attack with two bingles, besides performing brilliantly on the field. Higgins poled out the longest hit of the day starting the fireworks for the Faculty, with his beautiful bingle to right field.

ITALY, UNITED STATES ARE EVEN IN BOXING

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Remaining combats in the international boxing campaign to determine Olympic champions turned into the third day of competition today with rousing battles forecast.

Ten bouts this afternoon paired off eight rivals each in the flyweight and welterweight class, and four in the lightweight group. American standard-bearers were called into action in three engagements, Lou Salica of Brooklyn, best 112-pounder, drew Wener Spangal of Germany. Nat. Bor, Fall River, Mass., lightweight, favorite to capture a crown for the United States in this class, was paired off with Thure Ahlgvist, rangy lad from Sweden. Clever Eddie Flynn of New Orleans, had Robert Barton of South Africa, as his welterweight opponent.

Yesterdays Stars

By the Associated Press
Frank O'Doul, Dodgers—Hit two homers in first game and scored winning run in nightcap in double victory over Reds.

George Watkins, Cards—Drove in five runs with three hits in 11-5 victory over Phillies.

Walter Berger, Wesley Schulerich, Braves—Hit home runs in Braves 3 to 2 victory over Pirates in second game.

Schultz Wins For Oaks
Harold Schultz pitched and batted the Oaks to a 15 to 1 victory over the Maples in the West Side Junior League Wednesday morning. He held the Maples to a single infield hit by Winsler until the last inning when F. Brimley connected safely and drove in the run which deprived Schultz of a shut out. Friday morning the Chestnuts play the Pines.

Oaks 220 308-19
Maples 006 001-3

Friday night brings together Team 1 and Team 6 in the only match scheduled for that night. Team 8 took three straight games from Team 3 on Tuesday night, the scores of 18 to 5, 15 to 16 and 15 to 11. The match Friday night will get under way at 6:30 sharp. Team 8 continues to lead the West Side Senior Volley Ball league with 11 victories against one defeat.

PLAYGROUND NOTES

All West Siders interested in forming a tennis tournament, should get in touch with instructor Walter Holland. He is planning to run two classes, one for boys under 16 years of age and one for boys 16 and over. There are already about twenty entries and as the tournament opens next Tuesday there are only a few days left to get your name in. The drawings will be made over the week end.

NORWICH TOURNAMENT OPENS
Norwich, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The fastest field ever to compete for the Noyes trophy teed off today for the qualifying round of the Norwich Golf Club's invitation four-day tournament.

The list of more than 100 players was sprinkled generously with the cream of Connecticut golfers. Among them were Bobby Grant, State and New England amateur champion who was favored to win both the medal and the tournament; Burt Remick, defending champion; and Dow Aherm of Wallingford who lost to Grant in the New England finals.

Sixteen players will qualify for the championship flight with the 36 hole final scheduled for Sunday.

FIREMEN AND GREEN PLAY DECIDING GAME

Meet At Jarvis Grove Tomorrow Night, 6:30; No. 4 Out To Clinch Series.

Hose and Ladder Company No. 4 will tackle Manchester Green in the third and deciding game of a series at Jarvis Grove tomorrow night. The firemen won the first game, 19 to 8, and the Green took the second, 4 to 2. The sports department was in error last night in stating that the Green had won all its games with the fire ladders.

Both teams are confident of victory and a red hot battle is assured all who attend. The game will begin at 6:30 o'clock, with Joe Maloney handling the indicator.

Here's how the teams will lineup:

MARVELOUS MANHATTAN

New York.—Greenwich Village has a new fortnightly newspaper, the Times, "devoted to the art, history, music, literature, drama, ethics, and patriotism of Greenwich Village."

A dozen purposes are listed as the goals of Mr. Penfold's publication, the first of them being: "To restore the spirit of pure Americanism which once prevailed in Greenwich Village."

Another interesting intent is: "To prove that all the discontent, dissatisfaction and unhappiness of modern times is caused by the failure of marriage and that all degrees of marital failure are due to the infantile behavior of husbands."

Mr. Penfold's paper is rich in notes about personalities you must have heard of, if you've ever heard of the Village. We learn, for instance, that Maxwell Bodenheim, the Village bad boy, has been appearing at new rendezvous on the week-ends, personally peddling copies of his "latest daringly sexual novel."

ROBBERS ARE FOILED

Bethel, Aug. 11.—(AP)—No trace has been found by the police of a quartet who broke into the roadside store of James Sullivan, near the Bethel-Redding town line at Putnam Memorial Park, four miles south of this place shortly before midnight last night and pilfered cigars, candy and other supplies.

Mr. Sullivan was aroused by a burglar alarm which he installed in his store after previous burglaries and running out from his home surprised two youths and two girls as they ran from the place evidently alarmed by his approach. He fired his revolver at them but they succeeded in reaching their car parked off in the direction of Bethel. Local and State police were notified and made search for the party.

OCEAN COAL MINE

Seattle, Aug. 11.—(AP)—W. S. Benjamin, a deep sea diver, was at sea today to pick up a family heirloom—some 500 tons of coal that was sunk in the Rosario straits nearly 60 years ago.

With his equipment installed in a power launch, he planned to "work" his "coal mine," located near the San Juan Islands, off the northwest part of the state. The cargo was aboard the American bark Union, which was down in 1875.

His father, A. O. Benjamin, also a diver, he explained, bought the Union from the underwriters in 1880, planning to raise her and install steam, but never got around to it.

JUST FOOLED 'EM

Toronto.—The family of James Middleton, 12, was terrified when he calmly walked downstairs and said: "I've emptied a bottle of iodine." Someone rushed for the telephone. Someone else rushed him into a chair and stood around him. Screams screamed as an ambulance rushed to the house. As soon as James could calm the family, he explained that he had emptied the iodine over his hands and arms, and that he hadn't drunk any.

The Thymites were fairly strong and so it didn't take them long to move the heavy boulder from the monkey's tail.

"We'd best start out at any cost, and look for Duncy, we'st lost. Perhaps we'll have to climb some trees. The monkey will show us how."

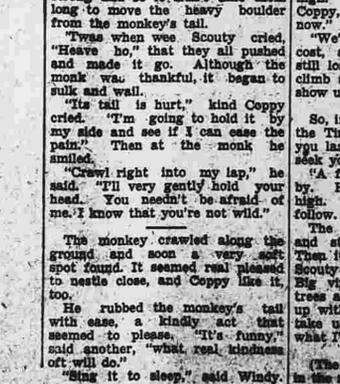

"It's tail is hurt," kind Coppy cried. "I'm going to hold it by my side and see if I can ease the pain." Then at the monkey he smiled.

"Crawl right into my lap," he said. "I'll very gently hold your head. You needn't be afraid of me. I know that you're not wild."

The monkey crawled along the ground and soon a very soft spot found. It seemed real pleased to settle close, and Coppy like it, too.

He rubbed the monkey's tail with ease, a kindly act that seemed to please. "It's funny," said another, "what real kindness off, will do."

THERE WAS A TIME WHEN A MAN HAD TO READ SEVERAL FASHION MAGAZINES TO FIND OUT ALL THAT WOMEN WERE WEARING. INSTEAD OF JUST SITTING IN THE SAME ROOM WITH THEM.

We heard a man say the other day that he was keeping three wives, and he isn't a bigamist, either—his own, his son's and a married daughter.

Then there's the story about the actor who toured the country in "Hamlet."
Friend—What kind of a run did you have in Savannah?
Actor—Well, we beat the audience over the county line by three minutes.

It was a pretty wise old guy who said: "The man who isn't a fool half of the time is usually a fool all of the time."

THIS IS THAT: When a woman feels depressed she puts on her newest clothes, and a man puts on his oldest. . . . What makes it tough these days, is there is so much to laugh off and so little to live on. . . . The person who really likes to get things done seldom attends a committee meeting. . . . We may all eat hominy before we die, but we'll never see women wearing cotton stockings again. . . . To get on a man's friendly side say, "You always admired your judgment." . . . Gladys Gladys says: "If kissing really does shorten life, a date with a few boys I know would prove absolutely fatal."

Missionary—My friend, are you traveling the straight and narrow path?

In silence the man handed over his card which read: "Signor Balancio, Tightrope Walker."

Fishing may be a pastime at which there is a fish at one end of the line and a fool at the other, but our observation has been that the fish does not always perform his part of the combination.

ABOUT TOWN

A business meeting of the combined Democratic clubs of Manchester is called for this evening at 9 o'clock at the fire department headquarters, Main at Hilliard streets.

Mrs. Grace Derrick and family of Buckland left today for Pine Grove, Niantic, where they will spend their vacation.

Dr. Thomas H. Weldon's family will remain at the Weldon cottage at Crescent Beach until September. Dr. Weldon plans to be at his office all day on Friday.

The Women's Democratic club held a successful fund sale and card social yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harry Rylander of Grove street.

Miss Hannah Hughes of 123 Cooper Hill street has entered the Hartford hospital for observation.

The Men's Society of the Emanuel Lutheran church will hold a hot dog roast at Pine Grove Tavern on Tolland Turnpike tomorrow afternoon and evening. Transportation will be furnished and members will leave the church at 4 o'clock, others leaving at 6 o'clock. Algot Johnson is chairman of the committee in charge.

S. Emil Johnson of 19 Johnson Terrace, returned yesterday afternoon from a two months vacation spent in Sweden.

GAVE WRONG NAMES IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Two Local Persons Involved in Niantic Crash But Wrong One Was Named Driver.

A maze of incorrect information was released after the accident in London last Thursday night, which involved two local persons, but the correct facts were disclosed today, following further police investigation. As it now stands, Harry E. Thoren of 224 West Center street was the driver of the car which figured in the accident, and not Dexter Dahlman of 28 Bank street as previously stated. At the time of the mishap, the driver's name was given as Harry Larson. When this information was checked it was stated that Dahlman was the driver, followed today by the correct statement that Thoren was at the wheel. Four persons were injured in the accident, when Thoren's Buick roadster left the road near Niantic and went over an embankment. The most seriously injured was Pat Clark of Niantic, who was admitted to a hospital with internal injuries.

HEAVY RAIN HERE IN EARLY STORM

Thunder and Lightning Accompany Downpour Between 1 A. M. and 4 A. M.

A series of thunderstorms visited Manchester shortly after midnight last night, bringing plenty of rain. The electrical display was sharp at 1 o'clock this morning and the rain fell steadily until 4 o'clock, beginning again at 6 o'clock. At 7 a. m., the rain stopped, but the sky was overcast. Showers at regular intervals had enabled a larger number of people to keep home gardens in excellent shape this year, than in several seasons past.

Plenty of Water. The water in the South Manchester and Manchester reservoirs is at the highest mark attained in several years, with good prospect for the winter months if an average amount of rain falls during the fall months. Brooks and springs are full, and the foliage and grass is in excellent condition, due to the abundance of moisture.

For the second time this year the drainage outlet near the Rogers Paper Company on Prospect street was out of its banks this morning, due to last night's downpour. No trouble with the storm drains last night was experienced although J. Frank Bowen reported this morning that many catch basins are being cleaned out by the department employees today.

An average crop of hay was harvested in July and prospects are good for the best second crop of grass or other dairy crops in years.

Rain Record. During the heavy rainstorm of Wednesday, July 27, two and one-half inches of rain fell, with one inch falling within the hour at 5 o'clock. The report was made by Cheney Brothers which company has a rain gauge in operation in connection with the South Manchester Water Company plant in the southeast part of town.

UNDERWATER SWIM TO FEATURE MEET

Eddie Lithwinski To Have Competition This Year; Must Enter Names.

One of the outstanding features of the annual town championship swimming meet, to be held at Globe Hollow, Saturday afternoon, August 20, will be the competition for the underwater swimming championship. This is listed as a separate event and was won last year by Eddie Lithwinski, who also captured the senior swimming title.

The event is open to anyone of any age, the title going to the person swimming the longest distance under water. More competition will be given Lithwinski this year, as many swimmers have been practicing regularly for this event. All persons wishing to enter the swimming meet should submit their applications at once, in order to be classed in their own division by Frank Busch. Entries for the meet are coming in rapidly and it looks as though every event will be keenly contested. The program will consist of from thirty to forty events.

The races between children who have learned to swim to the raft for the first time should be especially interesting this year. The ages of the entries in this class range from six to eleven years, with both girls and boys entered.

ITALIANS TO HONOR THEIR PATRON SAINT

Those Who Came From Cosombrato D'Aste, Italy, To Gather At Sub-Alpine Club Sunday.

Italians of Manchester and vicinity and various parts of the state, who came to this country from Cosombrato d'Aste, Italy, will gather at the Sub-Alpine Club this Sunday for a grand festival in honor of Madonna del Carmine, patron saint of the Italian city. An extensive program of sports and games has

SMALL CROWD LISTENS TO SOCIALIST LEADER

Former Terryville Judge and Strike Leader Speaks Asks For a "New Deal"

Former Judge John Carabine of Terryville addressed a small gathering in Center Park last night in the interests of the Socialist Party. Carabine, who was a former strike leader and who now lives in Springfield, was introduced to the people by Myer Gere of Hartford. Carabine urged his listeners to vote the Socialist ticket at the fall election for "a new deal," claiming that the two major parties held no hope for the common people for they are both allies in purpose.

The meeting was arranged by Fred Sims of New York, organizer for the Young People's Socialist League who has just completed a coast-to-coast tour in the interest of the junior organization. A former meeting conducted by this group was stopped by police when they tried to address a crowd on the sidewalk at the corner of Myrtle and Main streets without a permit. Rain cut short last night's meeting.
