Norman Thomas, Socialist Candidate, Says Cleveland Speech "Sounds Funny."

Washington, Aug. 22—(AP)—Criticism from political foes descended today on Franklin D. Roosevelt today for utterances in his campaign address Saturday at Columbus.

Prominent Republican spokesmen were joined by Norman Thomas, the Socialist Presidential candidate, in pressing on Roosevelt inquiries as to why, as governor of New York, he had not already instituted the reforms in stock exchange and bank regulation which he espoused at Columbus.

In addition the state department accused him of insinuating that the department had "assisted the bankers in the past" by passing on or approving foreign loans. It again denied this activity and said "it would be interesting to know whether Mr. Roosevelt intended to revive this long since discredited story."

"Can't Think Clearly" Rep. Snell, Republican leader of the House, himself a New Yorker, issued through the party's national committee in Washington an attack on the Democratic candidate. It accused him of having facts wrong in his speech, of joining unrelated incidents and of possessing a "congenital inability to think clearly."

Senator Moses of New Hampshire gave out in New York a statement to the effect that Roosevelt's address was worded in terms of childish intelligence, while "the presidency is a man's job."

Thomas, addressing a socialist rally in Providence, R. I., said he agreed with most of the things Roosevelt said about President Hoover but "they sound funny from the lips of a Democrat."

ROOSEVELT PLEASSED AT OHIO AFTERMATH

Impressed by Reception in Republican State—Some Messages "Not Flattering."

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Governor Roosevelt today was manifestly gratified by the receipt of many telegrams commending him for his presidential campaign address at Columbus, last Saturday.

Both the governor and his political advisers were pleased by the reception accorded the Democratic presidential nominee at many points in Ohio, regarded for years as a republican stronghold in presidential elections.

The major part of this week will be devoted by Mr. Roosevelt to a continuance of the hearings in the case of Mayor James J. Walker of New York.

On Saturday the second stump speech of the national campaign will be made by the governor at Segrist, N. J., where a meeting of Jersey Democrats has been arranged by Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, Democratic leader, and one of the chief Al Smith boosters at the Democratic national convention at Chicago.

WOODSTOCK GIRLS' CAMP IS CLOSED

Friday Marks Final Day—This Year Said To Be One of Most Successful Ever Held.

Friday marked the final day of the Girls' Camp at Camp Woodstock. Some of the Meriden girls who were the first to arrive when camp opened, were the last to leave, which is one evidence, at least of the successful season at camp under the able leadership of Mrs. W. D. Crockett of Manchester.

Thursday was the last full day at camp, and it was crowded with activity, culminating in the closing banquet at 8:30 p. m. This proved to be one of the best ever held at camp, both from the point of view of the excellent meal, and from the happy fellowship. At the banquet and following awards were made for the camp honor system.

The first emblem was awarded to Eunice Barrett, East Hartford, Barbara Murray, Southbridge, and Grace Cooke, Gloria Pelton and Arlene Smith of Meriden; the second emblem was awarded to Persis Bevin, East Hampton, Florence Doolittle, Meriden, Marian Munday, Southbridge, Harriet Smith, Willimantic, and Ruth Wright, Meriden; the third emblem was won by Persis Bevin, Florence Doolittle, Ruth Wright and Betty Wright; the fourth and highest emblem was awarded to Betty Wright of Meriden and Anita Weir of Rockville.

The banquet was followed by a very impressive candle light ceremony under the direction of Miss Abbie Scott of Putnam. It was planned to hold the service at the council ring near the lake, but the weatherman decided otherwise, for a heavy downpour made it necessary to hold the service in the dining hall. Even the rain could not dampen the spirit of Camp Woodstock, and memories of this service will remain with the campers for a long time.

There was much enthusiasm among the girls, and already they are talking of having a reunion this winter in order to prepare for a larger and better camp next year. Those attending camp from this section were: Marion Price, Marion Reid, Agnes Shearer, and Mrs. W. D. Crockett, Directress.

FARMERS' MARKET SUCCESS FIRST DAY

About 50 Truckloads of Produce At Buckingham Corners Yesterday.

One hundred farmers from Manchester, Bolton and Glastonbury have united in the interest of selling their products on a wholesale basis with the distributing point being located at the Buckingham four-corners. The wholesale market opened yesterday and will continue to operate from 8 to 6 each day of the week except Saturday.

About fifty farmers parked their truck loads of fruit and vegetables at the station yesterday and did a comparatively satisfactory business considering that it was the opening day. The farmers pay a membership fee of two dollars a year to belong to the association and ten cents each day they bring a truck load to the wholesale market.

The market is located in an open lot which has been donated by the East Hartford Water Company to the farmers for their use without charge. Joseph C. Tiboni of Buckingham is the market manager. The farmers are specializing in peaches, apples, tomatoes, cauliflower, corn and beans with potatoes to be included later.

The idea of the wholesale market is to induce dealers in fruit and vegetables to come to the Buckingham point to buy their fruit and vegetables and make the return trip during the night so as to have the products fresh for sale the following morning. Buyers are expected from New York, Boston, Worcester, Springfield, Providence among other large cities in southern New England. One Manchester fruit dealer sold forty baskets of peaches less than five minutes after he arrived yesterday.

The state agricultural department and farm bureau are both solidly behind the new marketing idea which the farmers have devised to improve their conditions. The farmers do not advocate retail sale, wishing to specialize on a wholesale basis. It is hoped that the market will attract many out of town buyers.

True Love Triangles—1

How Tragedy Ended Famed Aviatix's Double Romance

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of six stories detailing glamorous romances that have marked true love triangles of 1932, a subject made timely by the three-cornered Libby Holman-Smith Reynolds-"Ab" Walker tragedy in North Carolina. The remaining five stories will follow daily.

By NEA Service

Five years ago a tall young aviator who had been a World War pilot in the British army and a diminutive, but nervy, young woman who had been in an airplane only once before in her life, took off from London on a 13,000-mile flight across open seas and burning deserts to Australia, half-way around the world.

In the same year a young newspaperman, whose mother was a professor of journalism in Miami, Fla., reached the age of 21 and turned to broader fields of writing.

Last February, fate—or some mysterious and inscrutable destiny—drew these three lives together. A sinister love triangle developed, soon to be followed by grim tragedy. Ten weeks after their meeting the young journalist was dead, the aviator was charged with his murder and a hysterical woman was trying to explain to police how she had loved both men but had found it difficult to choose between the two.

So runs the thread of Florida's most sensational love triangle which has just been brought to a climax at Miami with the trial of Captain William N. Lancaster, 34, former British fighting pilot, on charges of murdering Haden Clarke, 26-year-old Miami journalist, for the love of Mrs. Jessie Keith-Miller, world-famous Australian aviatix, his flying companion for five years.

Captain Lancaster's defense was that Clarke had committed suicide because of dependency. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty after deliberating nearly five hours, exonerating the noted flyer of the state's charge that he slew Clarke because of jealousy. The verdict was cheered by countless spectators.

Florida's sensational love triangle closely resembles the Libby-Holman-Smith Reynolds-"Ab" Walker tragedy in North Carolina. A man died, shot through the head in the middle of the night, the friend accused of murdering him claims it was a case of suicide, and the whole thing turns on the alleged love of two men for the same woman.

Haden Clarke, the journalist, had been commissioned by Captain Lancaster and Mrs. Keith-Miller, famed flyers to write the story of their adventurous lives in book form. He was working on the first chapter, their daring flight from England to Australia. . . . he never lived to write the last, for which his own mysterious death would have provided a sensational climax.

With all the keen imagination of a novelist, Clarke perhaps could not have contrived a fictional "murder mystery" stranger than his own. Here are circumstances adduced in court:

During Captain Lancaster's absence, Clarke and Mrs. Keith-Miller had fallen in love while working on their book.

Lancaster, hearing of their plans for marriage, wired them his best wishes and asked the couple to defer the ceremony until he could return and serve as best man.

Next day Lancaster flew in from St. Louis, they met him at the Miami airport and drove him to Mrs. Keith-Miller's house where all three lived.

At 3 o'clock the following morning, Clarke was mysteriously shot through the head—with a pistol that Lancaster had bought in St. Louis. Lancaster, whose bed was in the same room, declared it was suicide, that he had been awakened by the shot.

Nearby were found two typewritten notes, signed in pencil with Haden Clarke's name. The notes said he was dependent, that he was committing suicide.

Lancaster and Mrs. Keith-Miller were arrested, questioned and released. She declared that Clarke had several times threatened to kill himself and that once they had discussed a suicide pact.

Eleven days later Lancaster was again in jail, this time on a charge of murder.

A handwriting expert, employed by the local prosecutor, had pronounced the notes forgeries. They had not been written by Clarke.

Lancaster then admitted he forged the death notes. He explained that he had realized quickly that the circumstantial evidence was against him, that he had to do something. So, he said, he wrote the two notes on Clarke's typewriter, tried to rouse the dying suicide victim so he could sign them and, failing in this, forged Clarke's name. He said he was sure Clarke would have signed the suicide notes, had he been able.

Lancaster explained he had bought the fatal pistol in St. Louis to give to a Miami friend in return for a borrowed weapon that he had pawned in El Paso. He denied that his bed was unrumpled as though he had not been in it that night.

Mrs. Keith-Miller said Lancaster had come to her room, awakened her and informed her that Clarke had killed himself.

By means of Captain Lancaster's diary, introduced at the trial, the prosecution unfolded a story of the British war flyer's burning love for the chubby little Australian aviatix—who weighs only 90 pounds and so small that she has to be propped up in her seat with cushions in order to reach the plane controls.

caster made during his western business trip—while Clarke and Mrs. Keith-Miller remained in Miami to write the book—are as follows:

"Thursday, March 10, San Angelo, Tex.—Wire from Chubbie. God bless her. How dear she is to me!"

"Thursday, March 24, El Paso, Tex.—No news from Chubbie. She has disappointed me far more than this damned expedition."

"Monday, March 28, El Paso, Tex.—Letter from Haden Clarke and Chubbie. Very disappointed. Looks as though Chubbie just dashed off a note as a sort of duty. Haden a little more enlightening; hope he is keeping his promise to me."

"Wednesday, March 30, Nogales, Ariz.—No news from Chubbie. Why does the child not write?"

"Saturday, April 2, Los Angeles.—Russell shows me two of Mrs. R.'s letters. One says 'Chubbie and Clarke came around tonight, and they were all ginned up. I really think now that Clarke has gained Chubbie's affections and that Bill has lost them.' . . . Mental agony. Hell."

Entries of similar vein continued almost up to April 20, the day that Captain Lancaster flew into Miami from St. Louis. It was early the next morning that Clarke was found shot through the head.

At the trial, Mrs. Keith-Miller defended Lancaster in her testimony. She said she had loved Clarke and had contemplated marrying him, but insisted that her love had since faded because she had found that Clarke had lied to her.

She refused to say whether she was still in love with Lancaster. She did say, however, that she was "still very fond of him."

A witness produced by the state testified that Lancaster had threatened to "get rid" of Clarke. Lancaster denied it.

Numerous defense witnesses, including doctors, supported Lancaster's claim that Clarke had shot himself.

Had Haden Clarke lived to finish his book on the two lovers whose fame as daring aviators was worldwide, it would have been a colorful story even without the tragic chapter that his death provided.

Diminutive Mrs. Jessie Keith-Miller, daughter of an Australian minister, had been an accomplished athlete and tournament swimmer despite her size. She had married J. M. Keith-Miller, an Australian journalist, at an early age. Tired of the prosaic life of a housewife and craving excitement and adventure, she had gone to London in 1927 to seek the same. She was not long in finding both.

At a dinner party in London she met the tall, handsome, smiling Captain Lancaster—who had been a war-time captain in the Royal Air Force at the age of 20. Their admiration was immediate and mutual, despite the fact that Captain Lancaster had a wife and two children and she had a husband. The latter has since divorced her.

On Oct. 14, 1927, they left England in a small open cockpit plane, the Red Rose, on a 13,000-mile flight to Australia. Mrs. Keith-Miller had been aloft only once before the takeoff—an occasion when Captain Lancaster had taken her up to show her what airplane riding was like. On the long trip to Australia he taught her to fly.

The story of that journey—the longest flight ever made by a woman—is one of the sagas of the air. Caught in a sandstorm between Palestine and Bagdad, the two flyers were forced to descend at a Royal Air Force post in the desert.

A piston jammed when they were crossing India, forcing them down. Shortly after leaving Bangalore, Burma, a poisonous snake was found coiled in the cockpit. Mrs. Keith-Miller killed it. A. Muntok, Batavia, their plane overturned in a take-off. Mrs. Keith-Miller got a broken bone. Their ship was rebuilt at Singapore and they continued on via Java and Timor, finally arriving in Australia on March 19, 1928. The last 800 miles was flown over dangerous ocean seldom traversed by steamer.

Their five-year friendship began on this epic air voyage. They have been flying companions ever since. The two came to America for the Cleveland Air Races of 1930 and in October of that year Mrs. Keith-Miller set a new transcontinental record for women by flying from New York to Los Angeles in 25 hours and 44 minutes.

In December, 1930, she lost her bearings in a storm while flying from Havana to New York and made a forced landing in the jungles of Andros Island, in the Bahamas. Guided by natives, she walked 16 miles to the nearest wireless station and from there notified searchers—who had given her up for lost—that she was safe.

Later she and Captain Lancaster moved to Miami to make their home.

Mystery of Death of New Haven Pastor and Teacher Deepened By Secrecy.

New Haven, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Members of St. Louis church, groping in a maze of perplexing circumstances for an explanation of their pastor's death, paid their last tribute today to Rev. Joseph P. Courmyer, whose body was found in his closed garage several hours after a search of the rectory had revealed the body of Miss Lavinia Moran.

Aside from disclosing that the 43-year-old priest was killed by carbon monoxide, officials declined to say what, if anything, they had found during their three-day investigation that might link his death with that of the school teacher. Even more reluctant were they to discuss whether the death of the 39-year-old teacher was due to other than natural causes.

High Mass Celebrated Meanwhile in the ivy-covered church of which he had been pastor since 1919, a high mass of requiem was celebrated for Father Courmyer. At the same time Miss Moran's funeral was held at St. Brendan's church in another section of the city.

Officials were known to incline toward the theory that the priest committed suicide in his automobile Wednesday about the same time Miss Moran, an active worker in the parish, died. The latter's body, partly clad, was found in a bedroom. A three-day search for the dress she wore when her nephew drove her to the rectory Wednesday has been fruitless.

The results of a second autopsy on Miss Moran's body was awaited by Coroner James J. Corrigan from Medical Examiner M. M. Scarborough. Beyond explaining that, as in any mysterious death, the teacher's internal organs were being analyzed to learn if they contained poison, the coroner declined to advance any theory on the cause of her death. Previously, he had expressed the opinion that a third person was not involved in the deaths.

Guard of Honor Members of the church honor societies stood guard during yesterday and through the night over the sealed casket containing Father Courmyer's body. A long line of persons, many of them the priest's parishioners and friends, and others attracted by curiosity, filed into the little church. A few stopped at the bier in front of the altar to pray but most of them paused briefly and passed on.

In all Catholic churches of the city, prayers were offered for the dead priest.

The number of murders in England last year was 108, which is slightly below the pre-war figure. Only 10 are among the unsolved crimes.

for LOVE or MONEY

RESIGN HERE TODAY. MONA MORAN, receptionist in a small law office, receives an amusing proposal of marriage. Her employer tells her a wealthy client wishes to marry her immediately with the understanding that for a year she occupy her own apartment, have unlimited charge accounts, do as she pleases. At the end of that time she is to decide whether to become the man's wife in actuality or secure a divorce.

Mona is in love with BARRY TOWNSEND, rich and socially prominent, who is the business partner of her old friend, STEVE SACOARELLI. Barry and Steve operate a diamond mine in South America. Steve, born to poverty, has recently sold a huge diamond called "The Empress of Peru."

When Mona asks the name of the man who wishes to marry her she is told it is Barry Townsend. Not until the ceremony is about to be performed does she discover the bridegroom is young Barry's uncle, of the same name. Steve and young Barry have returned from South America believing her sweetheart lost to her, marries the uncle. LOTTIE CABR, a fashion model, is Mona's only confidante.

Six months pass and Mona lunches with her husband. It is the first time she has gone anywhere with him. He tells her he has bought the diamond, "The Empress," for her. Mona, knowing the bitter feeling between uncle and nephew, tries to bring about a better understanding but fails. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIX. Mona raised startled eyes. "When you are gone?" she repeated. Her husband surveyed her gently. "My dear, do you believe for an instant that I think I shall live forever? His tone was light but for all that Mona knew he was aware of that which had been concealed from her so carefully. He knew he had been given only one year to live.

For months she had spoken. Then the man said cheerfully, "Since life is short and time is fleeting there are several things I would like to do. The first is to see you as frequently as possible. I want to talk to you about, to show you off if you don't mind the phrase—to provide you with gifts. I want to meet your family, too. I'd like to feel that this rather abrupt move of mine has benefited them in some way. Of course," he added hastily, "I know you are doing everything for them you can think of. Perhaps I can think of something more."

"You are so kind," replied Mona uncertainly. "I have promised to do the one thing I want most. Will you arrange things for Barry?"

He glanced sharply toward her. "Change my will, you mean?"

Townsend looked away. "One thing at a time, my dear," he said. It came into the girl's mind that not once had he ever called her "Mona." "One day at a time," he repeated. "Today let's drop in to call on your family."

He moved forward to give the order to the chauffeur but Mona stopped him. "Maybe I'd better telephone first," she said, "to let my father know. You know it will be a great event for mother."

"Why, of course. We'll telephone first," he spoke to the chauffeur then. "Jackson will stop at the next corner."

Mona was to discover that her husband fitted in with the life of the Moran household beyond her most optimistic expectations. After that first visit when Ma had hurried into her new silk gown and, with a single sweep, cleared up that trash of Kitty's from the dining room table, when Dad had apologized for his lack of a shave and Mona herself had taken to showing her nervousness, the Townsends came often to the Third avenue flat. It seemed strange, indeed, to Mona to learn that her husband, with his splendidly erect carriage and distinguished air, was really a little younger than her father. The two men had, it seemed, skated on the same park pond long years before.

AYERS AVAILABLE TO UNITED PARTY

Westport Professor Would Be Senate Candidate If Factions Are Dismissed.

Bridgeport, Aug. 22. (AP)—Formal announcement of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for United States senator was made today by Harry M. Ayers of Westport, in a statement to the press.

His friends are going to play for a dance and variety entertainment to be held at the Lakeside Casino, South Cove, on Tuesday night, August 30. The Democratic party is giving a special benefit fund under the auspices of the Women's Junior League of Voters, Frances Baldwin, the Melody Girl, popular singer of WTIC and the N. B. C. network, will also appear in person, on the benefit program.

Prof. Harry M. Ayers, the senatorial nomination was given at the Bridgeport city convention last week and Bridgeport's forty-nine delegates were pledged to him. Prof. Ayers' statement says further that "in Connecticut, victory gathers around Governor Cross" to whom every Democrat is urged "to give his first thought and best effort." The statement continues:

"In the spirit of this time desire nothing for myself that is not thought of by the party as definitely conducting to the desired victory. I, for its own sake or for myself, desire no office and no one of my friends does me a service by doing the party a service who puts forward my name in a spirit of factionalism. I do not claim the right to ask for anything at the hands of the Democratic party in Connecticut and I do not feel no personal disappointment of frustration if I never receive anything. Most of all I do not wish to destroy by own ideal of a united and victorious party by permitting an atmosphere of factional strife to gather round me."

WOMEN ENDURANCE FLIERS STILL IN AIR

Valley Stream, N. Y., Aug. 22. (AP)—With eight full days in the air as their immediate goal, Mrs. Frances Marsalis and Mrs. Louise Thaden flew on today, already surpassing the old endurance flight record for women.

The young matrons started their flight at 1 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, this morning, the women passed their 150th hour in the air. The fliers today took under consideration a suggestion that they fly to the National Air Show in Cleveland before landing.

The rules for endurance flights demand that the plane land on the same field from which it took off, so if the women fliers should be forced to land between here and Cleveland their more than a week in the air would all go for nothing and the old 123 hour record of Bobby Trout and Edna May Cooper would still stand.

HANK KEENE GETS FAN MAIL FROM ENGLAND

Radio Listener in London Picks Up Local Entertainer's Program—Coventry Entertainment.

Yesterday a postal card sent by a radio fan from London, England, was received here by Hank Keene. The card was addressed to Mr. Keene in care of Station WEA, New York. The officials of the National Broadcasting Company stated that it was quite unusual to receive fan mail from across the ocean in response to a program given at that time of day, especially in the summer time, especially in the summer time, especially in the summer time.

Incidentally Hank Keene and his Connecticut Hill Billies are going to play for a dance and variety entertainment to be held at the Lakeside Casino, South Cove, on Tuesday night, August 30. KEITH'S TO SELL NOKOL BURNERS Local Furniture Store Takes On Line of Oil Burners; Leader in Field.

In taking on a line such as the Nokol automatic oil burners, an announcement of which is made in the advertising pages of this paper, the Keith Furniture Company is stepping a little out of its usual field. However, this is quite a natural development for a dealer in home furnishings who is alive to the real requirements of a modern well-appointed home.

There is nothing in the world today that offers more improvement in the way of home comfort and convenience than the use of a modern automatic oil burner. People everywhere, but particularly in sections that have had to depend in the past on high priced coal, have come to recognize oil heat as the real thing. People want the convenience of permanent, care-free, heating service, and want the comfort of continuously warm, clean, and healthy air, with temperature adjusted automatically to weather conditions. They want the freedom from drudgery of furnace care that has been the price of all furnace heat in the past.

No longer will the owner of a modern up-to-date home put up with old-fashioned imitations in his heating plant. That means automatic heat is going to be in universal demand. The largest organization for it, existing homes will be converted over to oil burner equipment. There is no doubt that oil heat has the popular call and will be the generally accepted thing in the future.

There is no doubt either that the Nokol burner is the outstanding leader in the field of automatic furnaces. Made by the oldest manufacturer of such equipment, and the largest organization in the kind in the country, a pioneer in introducing the first oil burners years ago, and a progressive force in developing all of the subsequent improvements which have been introduced in such equipment, the Nokol burner has come to be recognized as the standard to which all others must measure up. This is true all over the country, but particularly in this section, where for many years past Nokol has been held in high regard, manufactured by a Connecticut factory, and distributed in Manchester and vicinity ever since oil burners came into general use.

There are about one hundred Nokol burners already in use in this town. Many of the earliest types are still giving highly satisfactory service, and the latest types are still giving beyond question the same pride and satisfaction to every owner.

Separate Department. With such a line as the Nokol oil burners, an organization like Keith's is bound to have outstanding service. This service is as it does equipment, both for heat and power installations, from the smallest homes to the largest public buildings or factory requirements, this line is completely adequate in every detail wherever fuel burning systems are in use. Keith's are developing a separate department in their business to this field exclusively and will be supported by competent factory engineers who are available in this territory at all times, so that they will have complete facilities adequate to take care of any conceivable requirement of equipment.

CAMP MEETINGS BEGIN SUNDAY

First Service Held in Outdoor Auditorium At Willimantic Grounds.

Special to The Herald. Willimantic, Aug. 22.—The seventy-third session of the Willimantic Campmeeting opened yesterday under beautiful skies and with an attendance of several hundred people. A comfortable temperature permitted the service to be held in the auditorium beneath the trees.

The meeting was under the leadership of the District Superintendent, Rev. George G. Scribner, who led in the alternate Scripture reading. Prayer was offered by Rev. Otis Lee Munson, of Uncasville. The choir was largely composed of young people who had been at the camp last week, and been drilled under Messrs. Pierce and French each day in the singing of hymns and choruses.

They rendered an anthem, with solos by Rev. L. Theron French and Mrs. Florence Cashman. Bishop Burns was introduced by the district superintendent very happily. The bishop took for his text, "I will make a man more precious than gold." Personality is power, greater than all else—campaigns, organizations, parties. The eighteenth amendment will not be successful unless it is supported by the men of men's hearts. Mere laws cannot do it. We need brave personalities like Garrison and Phillips and Lincoln.

It was a little known man in Philadelphia, Christopher Dock, who was so great a personality, in 1782, that he found religious education in his day school, where he prayed for his boys and girls. His righteous slogan was "Education without spirituality is a ghastly failure." Bishop Stuntz's grandmother was a personality that set her mark on succeeding generations because she would not marry her sweetheart till he was converted to God. Wendell Phillips' personality stood against slavery, and the abolition of slavery was due to him. There was an old Methodist preacher named Peter Akers at a campmeeting. Lincoln heard him denounce slavery and predict war, and he swore eternal enmity to slavery. The personal power of this Lincoln, more than anything or anybody else freed the slave. America seems to be forsaking Christ and going back to paganism. We will make heart decisions today. Let us go to God, and Christ may be honored, and a sober nation be ours, for the benefit of the whole world.

Afternoon. It was estimated that about a thousand people were on the grounds in the afternoon. The program in the auditorium was Rev. E. A. Dent, of the New York East Conference. Rev. J. W. Eller, of Putnam, offered prayer and the Scripture was read by Dr. Dent. Mrs. Florence Cashman rendered a solo, and the chorus under direction of the Rev. Dr. Dent's sermon was based on Matt. 5:47.

He said he'd been on the ground, off and on for a quarter of a century, trying to make a dent some where. We may rebel against this question, but down deep in our hearts we know it is right. It is those who do more than others that make the world advance. A descendant of Geo. Washington recently reported by airplane in a few hours over territory which Washington four years to go over. Edison did "more than others" and we have the electric light.

The basis of material progress is always moral and spiritual. In war we have improved methods for unleashing our bombs. The cave man may have used a stone, a modern barbarian uses a bomb, but both kill. Have we made any progress as to aims? Are we above the law of the jungle? Moses' law was "an eye for an eye, but Christ says the great law of love is to be our law. It is safe and constructive. There was an interesting Epworth League service at 6:30 at Sunset Rock, led by Rev. L. Theron French of Manchester.

Last evening a service was held at 6:30 at Sunset Rock with Rev. L. Theron French as speaker. He gave an illuminating address on Christ's message. "The kind who do not fast, save through prayer and fasting." He especially emphasized the latter, saying that fasting did not mean mere abstinence from food, but a thorough consecration of the will of God. A good service was given in the auditorium greeted the evening preacher, Rev. Allen E. Claxon, pastor of Trinity M. E. church in Providence. R. I. Prayer was offered by Rev. O. E. Tourtellotte, of East Hartford. Mrs. Cashman rendered a solo.

The preacher's text was "Ye are salt of the earth. Ye are the light of the world." Dr. Claxon said there was no special value in being religious merely, but the question was, what kind of religion have you? It must be "salt"—"Ye are the salt of the earth." Religion is not the church, not saying prayers, not merely giving a tithe or offering. Religion that is true contains these things, but it is the Federal forces that help officers of religion, but only one Christ.

DEMOCRATS TO PICK THEIR SLATES FRIDAY

Much Depends On Endorsements Given By Town Committee—May Mean Primary Fight.

A meeting of the Democratic town committee has been called for Friday evening. At this meeting the town committee will select a list of names to be presented as candidates for town offices and also representatives and justices of the peace, candidates that the committee will back at the primaries in September. The meeting on Friday will have much to do as to who will or who will not follow the Democratic standard in the town or state elections.

Just who the committee will support for the office of registrar is going to be an important matter and around this decision will result whether or not a real contest will be made at the primaries or not. The other offices that the party is entitled to, are held by old liners who have thrown their weight with the younger Democratic organization, but Edward Moriarty, deputy registrar, who has been acting since the resignation of Registrar Green, is to be a candidate and failure to endorse him for the position is likely to result in a real honest to goodness primary fight, something that has not been the rule in Democratic primaries for several years.

The meeting is being held Friday night in order to give a chance to check up on the names selected and to be sure they will stand for office so a correct list can be filed on or before Monday of next week, the last day when applications can be filed.

Hartford, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The first step leading to definite recommendations as to the relief needs of the state which was taken by Angus P. Thorne of Bridgeport, special investigator, at a conference with Governor Cross and other state officials at the Capitol today. Mr. Thorne was reported to have made an informal preliminary report preparatory to filing his official report with the governor perhaps within the next two weeks. Governor Cross will use this report to decide whether conditions warrant a special session of the General Assembly or an appeal for loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

VERNON CENTER CRASH

Rockville, Aug. 22.—As the result of a head-on automobile accident on the Vernon Center road near the Fred Ecker farm, last night Thomas Hayes, 52, of North Main street, West Hartford, was presented before Judge John E. Fiek in the Rockville City Court this morning charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Fines ranging from $10 to $100 and costs of $15.18 was imposed, but there is likely to be a civil action as the result of the accident as four of the five occupants of the car with which he collided were injured and required medical attention and there is fear that one of the persons injured, is suffering with a fractured skull. X-rays have been taken but are not as yet developed for reading.

INTEREST IS GREAT IN HOTEL AUCTION

Buyer Prospects Come From As Far West As Nebraska; Sale Wednesday.

Prospective buyers from Connecticut, Massachusetts, New York, and Nebraska have shown an interest in the disposal of the Hotel Sheridan which is to be sold at public auction Wednesday afternoon. Included is a prominent chain of hotels in Boston, two corporations in New York City, a hotel owner in Astbury Park, one in New Britain and two in Nebraska.

The auction is to take place at 2 o'clock Wednesday in the vacant lot immediately south of the hotel. There is a possibility that if the crowd is not too large that the auction may be held in the dining room of the hotel. Robert M. Reid and Son are the auctioneers. The Manchester Trust Company is the executor of the estate of the late John P. Sheridan who died about five years ago. It is located at Main and Pearl streets.

Auctioneer Reid explained that the hotel and business building is a unit. The present operators will prepare lunch as usual at noon Wednesday and the new owners may take it over immediately and put on dinner in the evening if they wish. Everything will be in readiness for an immediate change-over in the buyers' wish. Mrs. Ann Waddell and Miss Mildred Erickson are the present managers of the hotel for the estate.

NO BAND CONCERT TOMORROW NIGHT

Several Salvation Army Musicians Are Away So Program Is Called Off.

Because many of the important players are on vacation at the Salvation Army Camp Meeting at Old Orchard, Me., this week, the regular band concert by the Salvation Army band in Center Park tomorrow night has been cancelled, it was announced today by Bandmaster Dan-iel Addy. The final concert of the series will be given in connection with the reception to Joe McCluskey Tuesday evening, August 30.

A meeting of the welcome home committee will be held in the Municipal Building tomorrow night, at which the various sub-committees will report their plans. The band will present the concert in Center Park, following the public reception there, according to tentative plans.

TRUCK ABANDONED, BRAKES FOUND POOR

A truck loaded with railroad ties was found standing alongside of the road on Oakland street Saturday night by Policeman Raymond Griffin. The truck was in trouble and the driver had left it there. An inspection made showed that it was without proper brakes, there being no emergency brakes upon the car at all. Thinking that the person who was driving the car might have continued on for help no action was taken until late Saturday night when the name of the owner was traced through the markers on the car.

MANY SEEK REC DIRECTOR'S JOB

Frank Busch and Ty Holland Mentioned—Must Cut Down Expenses.

With the resignation of Lewis Lloyd as director of activities at the Recreation Centers, much speculation and rumor has arisen over his probable successor. With Frank C. Busch and Walter "Ty" Holland being mentioned most often as possible choices for the position, Lloyd leaves next month to accept a position as supervisor of recreation at the Hope School in Millfield, N. Y.

His resignation was accepted by the Recreation Centers committee at a meeting last Wednesday night, but the matter of his successor was not discussed. It is known that applications for the position have been received, but members of the committee are non-committal until another meeting is held. Busch is life guard at Globe Hollow and has been assistant to Mr. Lloyd. Holland is in charge of playground activities at the West Side and is widely known for his athletic prowess.

In view of the fact that the Recreation Centers budget for the year was cut $3,000 to a total of $14,000, it is possible that the position may remain open for some time as every attempt is being made to keep within the budget.

CARDILICO STILL CASE IS AGAIN POSTPONED

Attorney Hyde Unable To Be In Court In Rockville So Ad-journment Is Asked.

Rockville, Aug. 22.—Louis Cardilico and his son Paul, who were arrested by the Rockville police in connection with the finding of the large skull several weeks ago, scheduled to come before the Rockville City Court this morning for a further hearing and the possible binding over to the Superior Court of Tolland County for the September term, took another sudden change. The case was called, but did not go to trial. Judge William S. Hyde of Manchester has been representing the two men, was ready to go to trial when the case was called in the City Court two weeks ago, but was not present in court this morning having asked for an adjournment until September 2, which was granted.

Since the arrest of the two men soon after the still was discovered Federal men have entered the case and it was because of their entering the case that the hearing assigned for the police court here two weeks ago was adjourned. Federal agents have been working in Rockville for several weeks and in addition to the arrest of the two men first taken in there has been another arrest, that of Stanley Redens, by Federal men. It was expected that there might be interesting developments in the case when it came to trial this morning.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

A Thought For Today!
A little pluck when hope burns low,
A little laugh when life seems slow—
These are the things wise men know.

The general impression seems to be that unless America cancels the war debts it is going to be impossible for Europe to start another war.

Boy—Daddy, what is an oboe?
Father—Why, son, that's an ill wind that nobody blows good.

Stray Missiles: A man dives into matrimony the first time, the second time he probably slips in, but after that you'll find some woman pushes him in.... A few little love pats on the cheek will win a girl but to win a man try patting him on the back.... Who said girls aren't saving? Some have the first love letter their husband ever wrote them.

Wife (at bath room door)—Dinner's on the table, John. Hurry and flush your bath.
Husband—Coming dear! Just one more stasse and I'm thru.

A little girl hearing her mother say that a dog belonging to one of the neighbors was missing, remarked: "I guess, mother, the dognapers got it."

Teacher—Willie, can you tell me why Thomas Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence?
Willie—"Cause he couldn't afford to hire a stenographer, I guess.

Long ago the doctors abandoned the idea that bleeding the patient would cure all his ailments, and sooner or later the same light may dawn on the tax-levying agencies.

Mother—Come to bed, Geraldine.
Geraldine—I'm all wrapped up in a problem.
Mother—Well, tell your problem to go home.

Jessie—If I were you, I wouldn't be so forward.
Lettie—If you were like me, what a time we'd have.

Hot Weather Briefs: An optimist is one who expects the latest safety razor to be really better.... Bigamy is having one's wife too many—and the same thing can be said of monogamy in a lot of cases.... We learn more from years than from books.... It is said that "money talks." But not when it's hoarded.... A woman's instinct is what tells her she's right, whether she is or not.... How easy it would be to suppress the wicked if all other people were honest.... The voice of the people never croons.... It is possible to run into debt but you'll probably have to crawl out.... The heart has no wrinkles.... Prohibition closed the front door of the saloon but opened the one at the rear.

Times Change: In the olden days girls used to faint; now they pass right out.

Flo—How sweet of you to back that horse because it had the same name as mine.
Jim—It had the same habits, too. It got there half an hour late.

"You're crazy," said the mattress to the quilt.
First Movie Fan—I saw a million-dollar movie this afternoon.
Second Ditto—Gosh, I wonder what they spent the million for?
First Ditto—I think they spent it for advertising.

The fact that the Philippines had a surplus in the treasury is probably only another proof that they are not capable of self-government. All civilized governments made a deficit these days.

Fred—Say, boy, I've got a girl that's only been kissed by two parties.
Jacob—Yeah, I know that kind, by the Democrats and the Republicans.

Slender figures are all right in their place, but we don't admire those in our bank book.

AUTOS ARE SAFE

Chicago, Ill.—Almost never are people in autos struck by lightning, according to the National Safety Council. The reason is that a driver, because of the car's body, is completely surrounded by electricity conducting metal. In addition, wet rubber tires provide an electrical connection to the ground. Autos are safer, therefore, even though, like all objects that rise above ground level, they may attract lightning.

AVIATION PROGRESSES.

Mexico City.—Aviation in Mexico has progressed in leaps and bounds in the past five years. The Aviation Department of the Ministry of Communications and Public Works has announced that the country now has 195 airports and landing fields as compared with eight about five years ago. The present number does not include emergency flying fields.
