General Advance Follows Wave of Fresh Buying; Cotton and Wheat Extend Their Gains During Day.

New York, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Fresh buying shifted eagerly today to the commodities which figured in a general advance and largely took the stage of interest away from security prices although they, too, were higher.

Cotton opened about $1.50 a bale higher and gradually extended its gains. In the dealings, all options on future delivery of cotton were at least $1.50 higher.

Wheat prices, like cotton, benefited from the Farm Board announcement that no large stocks of those two staples now overhanging the markets, the Farm Board having arranged to keep its holdings off the market.

Sharing also in the upward movement were prices of cocoa, coffee, rubber and silver futures. Bar silver was up about 3-8 cents.

Stocks lost most of their momentum after a strong opening, but some held tenaciously to their earlier gains as the market entered the afternoon trading.

U. S. Steel slid back to $51 a share, off 50 cents, after earlier advancing to $52.50.

Buying covered principally in the steels, oils and smelting shares. The rally turned reactionary, however, and Union Pacific dipped below $61.

Automobiles, which thronged the streets and highways of Connecticut the last two days in a crowd described in some sections as the heaviest of the season, brought fatal injuries to three persons during the Labor Day week-end.

Two holiday celebrants drowned. The death, either suicide or accident, of a youth who was struck by a train brought the total of violent fatalities over the week-end to six, while another died during the week-end of injuries suffered last Friday.

Frank Steffy, 5, of New Haven, was fatally injured when struck by a car driven by Gabriel Actio, near a street intersection. Actio took the road's action looked as though he intended suicide as he either jumped.

In Williamstown, Leroy D. Lucey, 16, was killed when hit by a gas car of the Central Vermont railroad. Engineer F. E. Good said the road's action looked as though he intended suicide as he either jumped.

MOVIE EXECUTIVE COMMITS SUICIDE

Paul Bern, Husband of Joan Harlow, Kills Himself in Palatial Home.

Hollywood, Calif., Sept. 6.—(AP)—The death of Paul Bern, popular husband of Joan Harlow, platinum blonde of the screen, confronted Hollywood today with a mystery akin to the death stories which have swept the film world of late.

Slumped before a mirror in a dressing room of his picturesque home, Bern's body was found yesterday, a bullet hole through the head. Detectives said the young film executive obviously took his own life, but they found no hint of the cause.

When found by a butler, John Carmichael, Bern's right hand gripped a .38 calibre revolver, one chamber discharged. On a nearby dresser was another firearm. Beside a picture of Miss Harlow a note lay. It read:

"Dearest Dear: Unfortunately this is the only way to make good the frightful wrong I have done you and to wipe out any subject humiliation. I love you. PAUL."

A postscript: "You understand last night was only a comedy." Miss Harlow Overcome

Miss Harlow was overcome with grief and her anguished cries could be heard by a crowd which gathered about the residence of the movie star, Mrs. M. Hill. Physicians attended her with sedatives. A coroner's autopsy in an attempt to find a plausible reason for Bern's act, was ordered.

Close friends of the 42-year-old film executive, Irving Thalberg, who was among the first to reach the residence after the discovery by the butler, said Bern had appeared during the last ten days. Some expressed the opinion he was on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

Possibility of domestic difficulties between the couple drew quick denials from intimate friends.

At Mother's Home

Miss Harlow was at her mother's home when she received word of her husband's death. She had gone there on Saturday night.

Sunday dinner party was arranged at the home of the actress' mother. When Bern did not appear, Miss Harlow telephoned him. Authorities were informed he told her he was occupied with business affairs and wished to be alone. When she suggested that he return to the home, he refused.

Leaders Trying To Bring About Coalition of Nazis and Centrists To Prevent Non Confidence Vote.

Berlin, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Chancellor von Papen will face the new Reichstag for the first time next Monday, prepared to meet a possible vote of no confidence with an undated decree of dissolution signed by President von Hindenburg.

Hermann Goerring, the National Socialist Speaker of the House, issued the formal call for assembly this afternoon. He announced at the same time that the President will receive him and the other officers of the Reichstag on Saturday.

Undaunted by the difficulties in the way of bringing together such hostile parties as Adolf Hitler's Nazis and the Centrists, former Chancellor Heinrich Brüning visited Speaker Goerring and continued negotiation for a coalition. Such a coalition would provide a safe parliamentary majority.

No decision was expected from their discussions until Thursday, when Hitler will return from the Bavarian Alps. There has been much speculation about how President von Hindenburg would react to a Nazi-Centrist union aimed at the present government of Chancellor von Papen.

The Communists came forward today with a Reichstag bill demanding abrogation of the emergency decree putting into effect the chancellor's program to assist industry and lessen unemployment.

GARDNER IS VICTIM OF 'REPEAT' HOLDUP

Local Man Robbed At Pawtucket In Spot Where He Once Escaped Bandits.

Highwaymen seem to be the special nemesis of Francis G. Gardner of this town, manager of the shoe department of Montgomery Ward & Company, Anytown, plaintiffs in the Gardner suit, the last attack taking place last Friday night in Pawtucket, R. I.

Mr. Gardner, for the past eight months in charge of the Montgomery Ward shoe department, claimed his vacation at his home in Pawtucket when two gunmen confronted him as he was leaving the Pawtucket Golf Club at about 11 o'clock last Friday night, stuck a gun into his ribs as he slowed up his car on the club drive, and took away $25 in cash and jewelry.

Gardner is a former member of the Pawtucket Golf Club and had been attending a dinner dance at the club with his fiancée. When part way down the long drive to the street, a masked gunman jumped on the slowly moving car and commanded him to "stick 'em up."

The driver complied with the robber's demand and was commanded to get out of the car and face about behind the car while the unarmed accomplice "frisked" him. After his hands were aloft the yegg noted his fine wrist watch and remarked: "Fine watch you've got there, buddy." And with that he removed it, also a ring.

The thieves extracted $40 from Gardner's pocketbook, $2 of which they returned when Gardner made an appeal to them for the return of his ring and watch the latter having been a present from his mother. These the bandits gave back. With the $38 tucked away the pair jumped into a parked car and sped away, having cautioned Gardner and his fiancée not to call the police.

Gardner gave chase but the bandit car was soon lost to sight. The pursuers failed to get the license number, the tail light on the bandit car having been turned off. After losing sight of the car Gardner notified the first policeman he met, Patrolman Albert Cheatham, who called the precinct station and reported the holdup. Gardner later reporting in person to Lieut. John Hunter at headquarters. Police failed to locate the highwaymen.

It was in exactly the same spot in March, 1923, that Gardner was held up by two young bandits, but on that occasion the door of the car in which he was riding was locked. Gardner stepped on the accelerator and escaped. The young bandits were captured within a half hour.

Gardner told a Herald reporter this morning that he had to borrow money for the finish of his vacation, which was spent in New York, and said that he considered himself lucky to still have the watch and ring as mementoes of the holdup.

Mr. Gardner is well known in town, having had charge of the local chain store shoe department since coming to this town from Rutland, Vermont, last January.

ARREST THREE HERE FOR BOLTON SHOOTING

Charge Branch of Peace Against Three Westfield Men For Fracas At College Inn.

Frank George and Harry Lashna, brothers, living in Westfield, Mass., are to be given a hearing this afternoon in the justice court in Bolton on a charge to be decided after a conference with those concerned in the case, which is an outcome of a shooting of some kind in Bolton early yesterday morning.

Shortly before 4 o'clock Monday morning the Manchester police department was called by a constable from Bolton informing the local department that a car carrying three men was headed towards Manchester and asked that the Manchester police stop the car. The number and make of the car was given. Sergeant John McGinn at once placed Officers Gavanaro and Cassels on guard at the Center and Officer Prudic was sent towards Bolton with the automobile.

No car answering the number or make appeared and at 4:10 the Bolton constable came to Manchester, imparted the information that there had been an error in the make of the car and also the number. The matter was turned over to the state police. Officer Hunt was sent out to investigate and at midnight last night, in company with another police officer, came to Manchester police station and the two officers started out to locate the men that were wanted. Early this morning the men were arrested.

It is the claim that the three put up their appearance at the College Inn early in the morning, got into an argument and when ordered away by the constable fired three shots, jumped into an automobile and drove away. The warrant under which they were arrested charges breach of the peace.

GERMANY'S REQUEST WORRYING FRANCE

Not To Answer Memorandum On Arms Equality But To Put It Before League.

Paris, Sept. 3.—(AP)—France has called the attention of the United States government to what France considers to be the danger to international conditions and the cause of disarmament of an acquiescence to Germany's proposal for equality in armaments.

From cables which it received this information, it was learned that Germany in her recent armaments memorandum gives the impression that she will not participate again in the world disarmament conference unless she obtains satisfaction concerning the right to increase her armaments to a point approaching the level of other powers.

On the eve of a Cabinet meeting which probably will be held tomorrow it was predicted that France will not answer the German memorandum but will merely join in a concerted reply to be framed after consultation with Washington and the powers which signed the European pact of confidence.

Serious Problem Indications were tonight, however, that France understands the full gravity of the problem raised by Germany, especially because an ambition is attributed to Chancellor von Papen to make a military alliance with France, and because of the late Aristide Briand's efforts through Chancellor Stresemann and later through Chancellor Brüning to create a real workable alliance, if not an out-and-out alliance with Germany.

Some Frenchmen believe Germany's memorandum represented a criminal effort on the part of Germany to establish a military alliance with France on the vital question of armaments as part of General cooperation between the two countries. But it was predicted that Premier Herriot, bowing to public opinion, will avoid bilateral conversations and throw Germany's bid into the concert of powers, into the League of Nations, and eventually into the disarmament conference.

Nevertheless Germany's memorandum will be examined minutely because the French leaders realize that Germany cannot be omitted from efforts to consolidate European peace.

PLAN CLEARING HOUSES TO HELP HOME OWNERS

Washington, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Chairman Franklin W. Fort, said today the Home Bank Board had been assured that regional clearing houses would be organized to help home owners refinance themselves.

The movement, which was put under way by the board at the United States Building and Loan League at its convention in French Lick, Ind., last week, has been approved formally in three states and informally by a number of other state organizations, Fort said.

The clearing houses will receive applications by home owners already filed with the board in order that building and loan associations may refinance them. Fort said building and loan leagues in West Virginia, Iowa and in Hudson County, N. J., had formally assumed him they would organize clearing houses.

Fort expressed doubt that the board would be able to sell all the $184,000,000 worth of bonds of the 12 regional banks within the 30-day period in the law. He added, however, the board planned to open the banks by October 14 with Federal money if building and loan organizations had to subscribe the full amount.

EXPECT G. O. P. FIGHT OVER LIQUOR GOVERNOR

Senator arrived at 2 p. m. and said his address had yet to be completed.

Most of the State committee members who had been called for a three o'clock meeting arrived ahead of that time. Many were agreed there would be no contest over the nomination for lieutenant governor, their impression being that Governor Wilson would be named without opposition. The resolutions committee was expected to refer to a sub-committee the text of the platform draft.

CHANGE STATE LAWS Hartford, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Senator Hiram Bingham today expressed the hope that the Republican State Convention which opens in the Shubert theater, New Haven, tonight will include in its platform a plank proposing alterations in the present State liquor laws so that they will automatically meet any changes that may come in the National Prohibition Laws.

Though not urging an outright repeal of the State Enforcement Act, Senator Bingham, whose reputation on a "wet" ticket is certain tomorrow, said the easiest way to carry out his program might be to repeal the present State laws and insert in new provisions. He said he would not formally recommend any plank to bring out a platform in the early hours tomorrow morning nor would he appear in person before this committee. However, he intimated that he would make his views known in the hope they would be incorporated in the platform.

"If the national prohibition law is amended or repealed," Senator Bingham said, "the State laws ought to be changed to make them sufficient flexible to meet the new situation automatically."

He said, however, that he did not favor a repeal of the State Enforcement laws without providing for substitute measures that would enable Connecticut to fit into the new situation without the need of further legislation as soon as changes are made in Federal prohibition.

OPEN FORUM

EXPLAIN WHOSE DEBATES

Editor, The Herald: After reading the article in your paper Saturday, September 3, I would like to give you my honest opinion of the article which took place at the West Side playground Friday, September 3.

The president of the West Side club had been previously informed by the Director of the Recreation Bureau that there would positively be no meeting of the "open forum" sponsored by the Recreation Bureau. Therefore the West Side club with the permission of a member of the Recreation committee had taken the responsibility of this affair, which was well attended and enjoyed by all.

The officers of the West Side club had made arrangements with the Bond Bread Company to have their Radio car provide the music for the evening, which they did, playing from 7 o'clock until 10:30 o'clock and not a few times he was asked in your issue of The Herald Saturday, September 3.

The so-called "Ernest Roy" having known of the plans of West Side club took it upon himself to secure an orchestra that arrived on the grounds at 7 o'clock and ordered the Radio car off the grounds and at this point an argument arose between himself and the officers of the West Side club and the Recreation Director. Ernest Roy as he chose to call himself made known his plans to the West Side officers there would have been no misunderstanding in regard to the music. The affair was attended by about 1,500 people. Thanking you for your space, am sincerely,

A. WEST SIDER

HEWES AS COMPROMISE

Hartford, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The name of Colonel Thomas Hewes of Farmington, Governor Cross' staff, lawyer and financier may be presented before the Democratic State Convention Thursday, as a compromise candidate for the United States Senatorial nomination.

Colonel M. A. Connor, quartermaster general, State Senator from the First District and also a member of Governor Cross' staff was authority for this statement. Colonel Connor announced that he was considering such action. His statement follows:

"In view of the confusion which now seems to exist in the matter of the democratic nomination for U. S. Senator, I am considering offering the name of my friend, Colonel Thomas Hewes of Farmington as a compromise candidate. In my judgment, his nomination would make the strongest appeal to the voters of the state and a running mate the Governor Cross would arouse the greatest enthusiasm for the entire state ticket."

amid the feverish trading. Poorer grades at Goldboro sold two to three times higher than last year, and better grades twice as high. First sales on a break of approximately 100,000 pounds were reported at from $15 to $14 per hundred, in contrast to an opening general average of $7.95 in 1931. Today's prices were the first in three years.

BIG HAWK CRASHES INTO SCHOOL WINDOW

Glass Scattered Several Feet and Bird Is Killed—Plan To Have It Mounted. A pigeon hawk flying at top speed in pursuit of prey, crashed headlong into a second-floor window of the Trade School sometime over the week-end and died with a broken neck.

Janitor William Kean found the bird lying between two warps on the floor in the Textile Department. Shattered glass was found on the floor as far as ten feet away, attesting to the hawk's speed at the time of the crash.

CULOTTA DEFEATED IN '48' TOURNEY

Louis Felice Successfully Defends His Title — Culotta Makes Unusual Play.

Charlie Culotta of Spruce street failed to regain his title in the "48" tournament at the Italian Club yesterday afternoon, losing two out of three games to the defending champion, Louis Felice, of Oak street. But in so doing, Culotta set an unheard of mark in the second game and it is believed broke all existing records, when he scored 12 points four times in succession to win the game.

The game of "48" is Italian, brought here from the old country and is very popular among the Italian element. It is necessary for the winner to score 48 points. The game is played on a court sixty feet in length. Each player throws a ball into the air and aims to strike the other end of the court. Four large balls form the outer edge of the circle, each ball having a point value of one, two, three and four respectively. A small ball occupies the center of the circle and hitting it gives the player 12 points. Culotta hit this ball four times in the second game to even the match, after losing the first game, 48 to 38. In this game, Culotta hit the small ball three times.

GIVES BRIDAL COUPLE AN UNUSUAL TEST

New Britain J. of P. Asks Pair If They Know McCluskey and Jerry Fay, Then Marries Them.

Earl W. Howell of 125 Cooper Hill street, South Manchester, and Miss Effie Mildred Fields of Wells street, South Manchester, arrived in New Britain at 11 o'clock Saturday night, armed with a marriage license secured in that town and wanted to be married. Earl had had much experience with a truck, having been a truck driver, so he was using that make of an automobile to carry his bride-elect and his baggage with him when he asked information of the policeman.

The policeman was a man of wisdom and advised that they go across the tracks over to police headquarters where Harry Glinberg, who holds the position of prosecuting attorney of the police court and also is a justice of the peace, was busy checking up some warrants. The policeman presented the couple and explained their intentions. The marriage license looked all right and when Harry saw that as South Manchester he decided to test them out. "Do you know Joe McCluskey?" he asked. They both said they did, described him and told of his recent records. That was O. K. to Harry, but he went on further: "Do you know Jerry Fay?" he asked. They both knew Jerry so Harry, with two policemen acting as attendants united them in marriage according to the laws of the state of Connecticut. The newly married couple left the police station, got into the truck and drove away while a number of policemen stood at the curb and waved goodbye.

MILL VIOLATED LAW Mystic, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Deputy Commissioner of Factory Inspection William J. Fitzgerald has filed with the town prosecutor charges against the proprietors of the Chelsea Silk Company of this place for alleged violation of the labor laws in the employment of women and minors. A total of 84 violations of the law are alleged in the complaint as filed in which 96 are for employing minors more than 8 hours a day; three for employment of minors more than 6 days a week; 31 employing minors after 6 p. m.; three employing minors who had no working certificates; 113 employing women more than 8 hours a day and 98 for employing women more than 95 hours a week.

THROUGH TRAFFIC ON HOLIDAY GREAT

Routes 6 and 101 Bring Large Number of Tourists and Vacationers Here.

Manchester was a passing point for hundreds of out-of-town people during the Labor Day week-end, because it is on one of the main highways between New York City and Boston. Two routes coincide as they pass through the center of the town—Route 6 and Route 101. The former extends all the way to Provincetown on the tip of Cape Cod, and is one of the principal state thoroughfares. The other is the popular Canaan to Putnam route.

Cars bearing license plates from Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Vermont, New York, New Jersey and Connecticut were the most common. Many of the cars had extra baggage strapped to the sides, evidence of either the end or beginning of a holiday vacation. Buses were heavily patronized and in most cases traveled in pairs, the trailers picking up extra passengers along the route. The traffic was especially heavy Saturday and Monday passing both in an easterly and in a westerly direction. Manchester also joined in the pilgrimage, many local people driving to lake, shore or mountain resorts of the final vacation of the summer season. A majority of the Manchester cars, however, are believed to have used the South Main street route to the New London Turnpike which leads to shore resorts along the Sound.

FORD PLANT REOPENS Detroit, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The main plant of the Ford Motor Company, which has been shut down three weeks, was reopened today. Only former employees were being returned, the officials said, adding that men were being returned to work as rapidly as the methods of operation in the departments would permit. The company made no announcement of the number of men involved.

TROPICAL STORMS EXPERIENCE TOLD

New Y. M. C. A. Director Substitutes At Kiwanis For Fred Griffin.

A last minute substitution in speakers was necessary at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Country club this noon, when Fred Griffin was unable to appear. Everett G. Simonds, new director of the Y. M. C. A., was introduced by George Glenn and gave an interesting talk on his experiences during fourteen years in the tropics. He explained in detail the havoc and fear wrought by the terrible hurricanes in the south and told of the preparations made by the people when a storm was in the offing. The speaker also spoke of the experience of a group of youngsters camped several miles from the nearest railroad just before a hurricane. A special train was run to get word to the boys of the approaching storm.

R. LaMotte Russell of the Manchester Trust Company, explained the new savings charge that will go into effect October 1. He said that all the banks in the state would adopt the new charge in the near future. The attendance prize was donated by Wayland K. Straughan and won by Dr. LaVerne Holmes.

HOOPER BACK ON JOB Washington, Sept. 6.—(AP)—After his longest week-end of the season at his Rapidan mountain camp, President Hoover returned to his desk at the White House this morning well before the scheduled time for his usual semi-weekly Cabinet meeting. Throughout the nearly three hour ride, Mr. Hoover conversed with Secretary Wilbur who has just returned from a two month's tour of the west where he had an opportunity to view economic and political trends. Because of heavy rains in the mountains, the presidential party did not follow its customary route, but went through Warrenton, Virginia, by way of Culpeper. Fewer dirt roads were encountered on that route. Mrs. Hoover who went to the mountain camp last Thursday, a day before the President, did not return with him this morning. She probably will return later today.

NOT TO SEEK OFFICE Willimantic, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Judge Foss announced today he will not seek reappointment as judge of the town court of Windham and the city court of Willimantic at the expiration of his term May, 1933. He said the salary of $1,000 was not commensurate with the time required by the position which he has held for fifteen years.

EXPLOSION HURTS THREE New Haven, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Three persons were confined in hospitals today as a result of an explosion at a Quinapiac dwelling. John Morgan, 38, his wife Mary and a sister Mary Madigan, were burned and were carried out of the building by a neighbor. Their condition was said not to be serious. Gas escaping from a stove was believed to have caused the explosion. The resultant fire caused $5,000 damage.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 6.

that Mr. Coolidge has not set an example in the production of effective advocacy which might very well be followed by some of Mr. Hoover's most vociferous and conspicuous boosters, even though it involve the scrapping of some of their most exalted, not to say silly, periods.

Mr. Coolidge, by confining himself to facts, has drawn a far more convincing and heartening picture of President Hoover's services to the nation during the trials of the last three years than any presented by Mr. Mills or Mr. Hurlley. Yet he has withheld no part of the measure of credit due to Mr. Hoover.

There are votes for Hoover—many thousands of them—in this paragraph: "The voters will have to be given more reasons than have yet appeared before they discharge their tried and experienced leaders. It is not time to sacrifice the great value we have in the idea of governmental good will. It can be preserved only by retaining the present administration."

BETTER IGNORED

The Connecticut League of Women Voters is presenting to both the major political conventions in this state, today and tomorrow, a set of principles which it asks both these bodies to incorporate in their respective platforms. One of them calls for the establishment of "definite standards of wages and shorter working hours" for women and children in industry. Another, at least by inference, opposes any serious economies in the operation of the schools. Both, it seems to us, indicate a certain degree of superficiality.

To calmly request responsible political parties to declare for the legal establishment of a minimum wage scale is a proceeding far more revolutionary in purpose than, it is to be suspected, the authors of these demands realize. Certainly if the state could regulate wages of women and children it could also regulate the wages of men; even the League of Women Voters would scarcely contend otherwise. And it has long been recognized that paternalism could go no further than in the fixing of wages to be paid by employers in competitive business.

That it might be an utterly ruinous paternalism is very generally recognized. It is all very well for the League of Women Voters to determine that certain classes of employees in this state are getting too little pay for their labor and to demand laws that would compel the employers to pay more, but how about the competitors in other states employing the same class of labor and paying the same meagre wages, or perhaps less? Does the League imagine that these women and children for whom it is so solicitous would benefit by its proposed action—that they would have their pay raised in conformity with some rigid state law? It is unlikely when the employer could—and surely would—remove his business to some other state where he could produce his goods as cheaply as his competitors.

Just about as casual thinking is indicated by the educational demands. Says the League:

We believe that it is necessary that the state should develop a system of state aid for education which shall insure that a reasonable minimum standard of education shall be available for every child in Connecticut.

We deplore the tendency lately shown by certain towns to curtail educational services. We believe that especially at this time of economic stress it is of the utmost importance that the state pursue a liberal policy toward every form of education, not only for children and young people but for adults whose lack of employment gives them opportunity for supplementary training.

There are not, probably, six persons in the entire membership of the League of Women Voters who are in actual definite agreement as to what constitutes a "reasonable minimum of education." Outside the League there are increasing thousands who are losing all faith in the whole trend of public education, fearful that after several generations of enormous expenditure it has led us nowhere but to mental bewilderment and national ineptitude. To propose, therefore, the unabated continuance of the ruinous extravagance of a public education of a wholly problematical value, at a time when every nerve must be strained to prevent actual physical suffering and universal bankruptcy, is to propose a sheer lunacy.

It is to be hoped that the resolutions committees of both the state conventions will have the courage to ignore these impractical snap-shot demands.

EXCELLENT CHOICE

While Manchester naturally yields with some regret the distinction of having the fourth Senatorial district represented by a Manchester citizen—unless by some utterly improbable turn of events a Democrat from this town should be nominated and elected—Republicans and independent voters here will welcome the nomination of Kenneth F. Cramer of Wethersfield for that position.

Mr. Cramer is the type of citizen of which the Legislature cannot have too many representatives. He is keenly intelligent, forceful, articulate, able to make his own determinations and sturdily willing to fight for them. A service man, he has been prominently identified with American Legion activities in this area and in consequence is quite well known throughout the district as well as in his home town and in Hartford, where he is in business.

He has had Legislative experience, having been a representative from Wethersfield in the last session and serving on the important Appropriations committee.

A ready and convincing speaker and of commanding platform presence, Mr. Cramer will undoubtedly be heard from, to real effect, during the campaign. Fourth district Republicans did well by themselves and by the district when they selected him for this important nomination.

GOOD EVIDENCE

Henry L. Mencken has incorporated some of his cynical brioisness in a book, "Making a President," which consists largely of a series of news dispatches from the national Republican and Democratic conventions but which contains some Menckensisms of later thought. As usual he rips and tears at pretty much everybody in sight, and makes it excessively clear how little he admires Franklin Delano Roosevelt. Then he says: "I shall vote for him, as in duty bound. Anything to get rid of Hoover and his camorra of Republican blacklegs. I'd vote for a Chinaman to beat him, or even a Methodist bishop." And after having delivered himself of this Mr. Mencken predicts, nevertheless, Mr. Hoover's re-election.

We submit this as about the best evidence we have seen, in the form of individual opinion, that the Republican national ticket stands the better chance of victory in November. National Committee chairman and publicists who are the personal friends of the candidates, when they make fulsome promises of victory, are about as well worth listening to as the chirping of a cricket to the seeker after real straws. But when a person like Mencken, in touch with a thousand sources of information, dislikes a candidate as much as Mencken dislikes Hoover, yet admits that he will probably win, there is some value to the prediction.

IN NEW YORK

Grim Epitaph
 New York, Sept. 6—Several cronies of Wilton Lackaye, who died the other day, gathered in the Lambs Club on the night of the veteran actor's death and sought to write a fitting epitaph.

This one was considered particularly fitting: "For once he has no comeback!"

Lackaye's quick and trenchant wit was all too little known outside theatrical circles. It will be surprising if someone fails to collect the best of his famous moats, many of them stingingly barbed when aimed at a conversational adversary. Uprais the fellow who tried to match remarks with him.

When Lackaye, due to heart trouble, went into "involuntary retirement" some six years ago, he took an old brownstone house at 30th and Fifth Avenue. Commenting about it at the club, Lackaye said: "You see, we use the 30th Street side for the entrance and the Fifth Avenue side for the entrance."

A Brilliant Wit
 The Lambs Club still chuckles over an occasion, some years ago, when one of Lackaye's favorite cuff buttons came up missing. That evening, on the bulletin board appeared the other button, with a little note: "Mate of this button lost—will either buy or sell!"

Aked one evening what was his definition of "tact," Lackaye replied: "If a gentleman happens inadvertently into a bathroom and observes a lady bathing in the tub and then backs away saying: 'Oh, pardon me, sir—pardon me, sir!'—that's tact."

Freddie the Frog
 In the old days of Rector's, Lackaye was pictured sitting at a round table with his fellow wags and players, George M. Cohan, Willier Collier and Renold Wolf.

It was on such an evening that the legend of Freddie the Frog was said to have been born. This has remained one of the prize George Cohan anecdotes. And the truth of portions of it was solemnly sworn to one to this day.

Freddie the Frog was a contortionist. He was one of the roomers at an old actor's boarding house where Cohan was dwelling. Others roomers included a snake charmer, a flock of midgits, a Hindu side-show fakir and other show folk.

You Needn't Believe It
 Freddie the Frog was an inventive fellow. New ideas for contortions would come to him in the night. He would leap out of bed and grab his frog suit which always was on a chair close at hand. He would rehearse a new stunt and then return to sleep.

On this night, Freddie used the chancellor for a brass and managed to get himself beautifully twisted. In so doing, he turned on the gas and was soon so stupified that he couldn't untwist himself. A roommate discovered him from the next room. The fire department was called. In the excitement, the snake charmer, fearing a fire—tried to get her snakes out. Three escaped. A hysterical Irish landlady encountered one of them in the hall.

When the fire hose was dragged through the hall, a back-stewed hooker mistook it for a hose and leaped from the window. Hours passed before Freddie the Frog was untwisted and brought back to consciousness.

Well—the story is something like that. Which gives you some idea how the actor folk once amused themselves over the dinner table.

Speaking of which recalls that contortionists have come upon evil days. There is little or no demand for them in the theater and the circuses have room for but a few. Many have turned to adagio dancing and general acrobatics.

Health and Diet Advice
 By Dr. Frank McCoy

BUTTER VALUABLE IN DIET

Butter seems to have been used in some form ever since the earliest domestication of animals. Butter can be and still is, in many parts of the world, made from the milk of sheep, goats, mares, buffaloes, and even other animals, but, because of the economy of production, cows milk is now the principal source of butter fat in practically every civilized country.

Butter is a very valuable food for everyone and especially for children, since cow's butter contains more of the fat-soluble vitamin A than any other food in comparison to the amount ordinarily used. It is advisable to use a certain amount of fats each day both for their nutritive value and because of the lubricating effect upon the alimentary canal. Animal fats would be very satisfactory if used raw, but they are unpalatable in this form to almost anyone except an Eskimo. When cooked, however, these animal fats are changed somewhat and certain fatty acids are released which make them more difficult to digest. Butter, if fresh, does not present this difficulty, for it can be eaten either uncooked or pasteurized without the presence of the free fatty acids which cause digestive trouble.

The old-fashioned method of preparing butter from soured cream has been entirely done away with in modern dairies. This is the reason it is so difficult to obtain farm butter-milk. In large cities practically all of the butter-milk now sold is of the cultured variety. The newer creamery method is to prepare the butter from sweet cream by precipitating the milk through the use of chemicals, after which the butter fat is churned and washed into the finished pleasantly flavored product.

Our best butter at the present time comes from large and well-organized creameries since there it can be scientifically prepared so as to avoid all possibilities of uncleanness. By avoiding the contamination from outside sources and through washing and pasteurizing, creamery butter will keep longer without becoming rancid than farm butter.

Unsalted butter is not as popular a table article in this country as it is in Europe. It does, however, have a fairly big sale in larger cities for the purpose of "re-constructing" cream and milk for restaurant and ice cream factories. Used in this manner it is just as wholesome as fresh cream and has the advantage of being kept a longer time without spoiling.

Butter which is slightly rancid may be made sweet again by washing it in sweet milk and then washing out the milk with water. This process washes out the butyric acid which gives the rancid flavor. If you want your butter to keep its fresh flavor, be careful to keep your ice-cream box clean and keep the butter away from odorous foods, such as onions, since butter readily absorbs and holds odors. In France this property of butter is made use of in salting perfumed butter. The odor is given to the butter by surrounding it with a sheet of muslin and placing it between upper and lower layers of flowers.

In some families where the income is small and the butter bill a considerable item, oleomargarine and nutmargarine are extensively used. Most of these butter substitutes are made from peanut and coconut oil combined with milk and flavored with salt. These butter substitutes naturally do not contain as much vitamin A as butter, but some of the larger margarine manufacturers are now putting out a type of margarine which is comparable with butter in this respect.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 (Heartburn)

Question: Mr. Kenneth McK. writes: "I am 59 years old and suffer almost continually from heartburn. Sometimes I have very serious attacks, with smothering. Have had attacks of cramps in muscles of legs, usually at night, and it seems worse after a hard day's work. What would you suggest?"

Answer: You are probably suffering from indigestion due to faulty food combinations. The symptoms you describe may come from this excessive fatulence affecting your heart. Have your heart examined and, if the trouble is there, write me again, giving me your full name and address on a large stamped envelope, and I will send you an article explaining how to help the heart through curing flatulence.

(Fopcorn)

Question: Mrs. K. inquires: "Is there any food value in popcorn? If so, what?"

Answer: There are a great many calorie or heat units in popcorn, the food value consisting mostly of starch. It is a wholesome staple food.

(Papilloma of Bladder)

Question: N. writes: "An examination by cystoscope showed papilloma of the bladder. I will be glad to hear your opinion as to what should be done now."

Answer: A papilloma of the bladder is usually caused by irritation from cystitis and the small ones will sometimes disappear when the irritation of the bladder is corrected. Large ones may have to be removed surgically.

TODAY IS THE WORLD WAR ANNIVERSARY
 GREAT GERMAN RETREAT

On Sept. 6, 1918, the German forces on the western front began a retreat on a front of more than 90 miles, with allied forces in constant pursuit.

The retreat all along the line was carried out under heavy artillery fire, and the coolness and precision of the movement was remarkable under the circumstances.

French soldiers occupied Ham and Chauny and advanced to a total depth of more than six miles east of the Canal du Nord.

British forces advanced as much as seven miles on a 12-mile front and Americans, more stubbornly opposed, gained five miles.

The American troop transport Mt. Vernon was torpedoed off the French coast, but was able to make port under her own steam. Thirty-five members of the crew were killed.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

WILL SANDERS AND FARLEY SUFFER USUAL FATE OF CAMPAIGN MANAGERS?

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 N.Y.A. Service Writer.

Washington—The men who manage and direct political campaigns are a hapless lot. They love them and usually they are not especially lovable. If their candidate loses they usually drop off into oblivion and even when he wins they are likely to learn that there is a Jesus and a heaven job.

In fact, you might say that Democratic political managers have usually been happily forgotten once their man lost the election, whereas Republican managers more often than not have remained in the picture a while only to squirm and suffer.

Will Sanders and Farley, the two sets of millionaires, who Calvin Coolidge's campaign manager and all got out of it was a temporary appointment to the Senate and a couple of tragic tries at being elected, that job with Cal's endorsement.

Mr. Sanders has been in the position of campaign contributor, if he is to be believed.

The Hoover Henchmen
 Mr. Hoover's hand-picked Republican national chairman have been, successively, Dr. Hubert Worland, Claudius Huston, Senator Simon Pess of Ohio and the great congressman Everett Sanders, whose public job was that of secretary to Coolidge.

Sanders is new at the post, having been appointed for the 1932 campaign, but the other three went out to the tune of much rejoicing, whether loud or subdued, among Republicans. Work was the victim of his own ineptitude, Huston the victim of his private activities as disclosed by the Senate lobby committee and Pess merely a victim of Feasism.

Mr. Sanders may yet fool everybody by blossoming out as an able, effective manager, but most of the comment on him to date has been confined to speculation as to how he came to be considered for the job, let alone appointed. He may be considered as a more or less typical Republican campaign manager, however, and one is reminded that his home state of Indiana has bred plenty of good politicians, even though Mr. Sanders does seem to be a rather colorless, unimaginative person.

Benjamin and Brown.
 A couple of gent's in the background, holding no official campaign position, are expected to do most of the fast, more important thinking.

First, there is Hoover's close friend Ray Benjamin, who is credited with a great mind and great political sense and then there's Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, one of the few administration politicians on whom no flies have been observed at one time or another.

Robert E. Lucas, who has been executive director of the national campaign and really ran things during the Feas tenure, is now a mere assistant to the chairman at Chicago national headquarters and seems to have been relegated to the comparatively obscure position for which he has been held ever since he tried to trick Senator George Norris out of nomination and election in Nebraska. One hears that they wouldn't even let Lucas call himself "assistant chairman."

Farley's Outlook.
 It must be admitted that Jim Farley, the Roosevelt manager, is widely respected and liked. Farley was guilty of the two-thirds rule fiasco and other fumbles at Chicago, but he came through on top. Of course if his man loses the election no one is likely to hear of Mr. Farley again and there are plenty of pitfalls ahead of him prior to November.

Most of those who know him wish him better political luck than fell to Clem Shaver, the fine old West Virginian who went into oblivion after John W. Davis was licked in 1924, or John Raskob, who after losing with Al Smith built up a fighting party machine, spent a lot of money and the legend of Freddie the Frog was said to have been born. This has remained one of the prize George Cohan anecdotes. And the truth of portions of it was solemnly sworn to one to this day.

Freddie the Frog was a contortionist. He was one of the roomers at an old actor's boarding house where Cohan was dwelling. Others roomers included a snake charmer, a flock of midgits, a Hindu side-show fakir and other show folk.

You Needn't Believe It
 Freddie the Frog was an inventive fellow. New ideas for contortions would come to him in the night. He would leap out of bed and grab his frog suit which always was on a chair close at hand. He would rehearse a new stunt and then return to sleep.

On this night, Freddie used the

40 ATTEND LUTHER LEAGUE CONVENTION

Townfolk Play Prominent Part At Waterbury—Several Here Honored.

The Luther League of the local Emmanuel Lutheran church played a prominent part in the 26th annual convention of the Hartford District Luther League, the three day sessions of which came to an end yesterday afternoon at Waterbury, Manchester had the third largest representation of the 19 Leagues in the state at the year's session Sunday night, when forty responded at the roll call.

At the annual business session yesterday morning, Erik W. Modan of 50 Laurel street, was elected editor of the Colicchio News, official organ of the Connecticut Luther League Convention, succeeding Ralph M. Johnson of New Haven, who has been editor since the paper was created in 1925. Modan was also elected alternate to the Synodical Christian Conference, to be held at Upsala College in New Jersey next February.

Pearson Named Again In a remarkable demonstration of admiration and respect for the delegates re-elected Helge E. Pearson, organist and choirmaster of the local church, as director of the huge Hartford District chorus. Miss Eva M. Johnson was re-elected treasurer.

The local League placed second in the track meet at Fulton Park yesterday afternoon, although only two athletes were entered. Irving Carlson scored a double triumph, winning the 75 yard dash and the broad jump, the latter with a leap of 18 feet, one inch. Third place was won in the relay by a team consisting of Carlson, Everett Solomonson, Arthur Anderson and Erik Modan. Solomonson won second place in the dash, Manchester's total score being 14 points. Naugatuck won first prize with 37 points, which were won mostly in the girls' events.

The Northern Luther League defeated the Southern League in a five-inning baseball game, when Rev. K. E. Erickson, pastor of the Emmanuel Lutheran church, smashed out a double in the third with two men on, to break up the game, then tied at one-all. Gunnar Johnson, in centerfield, made the last put-out to cut short a Southern rally in the final inning.

Rev. Erickson was one of the two principal speakers at the convention, addressing the League at the Y. P. S. Service at the First Congregational church Sunday evening. Rev. Erickson warned the young people of the evils of love pictures, dancing, swearing, card playing and smoking. He urged his listeners to think less of worldly things and live lives in keeping with the will of God as revealed by his only son, Jesus Christ.

Those who do not appreciate the true significance of the Resurrection of Christ should seek more earnestly the Grace of God from His Son who dwells within the hearts of mankind, the speaker said. Man should pray that his will may be in harmony with the will of God.

Raps Movies Rev. Erickson enumerated many of the things which tend to draw men away from the will of God. Love making on the screen, he said, is so rotten that the word "love" is almost synonymous with sin. He urged the congregation to stay away from dirty and sordid pictures for the aim of the theater managers is money and they claim they are making money on the type of pictures they show.

On the matter of cards, Mr. Erickson said that they are not evil when played at home for pleasure but that they should be avoided because some member of the family is in danger of being ruined by the gambling instinct engendered in him in his own house.

He characterized dancing as "playing with fire," and cited the case of Ivar Krueger, the match magnate, as one who has lost all his thought of God for the things of the world. "As faith in ourselves grows, faith in God decreases accordingly," he concluded.

Good Representation Manchester's delegation at this service was exceeded in number only by the host League and Naugatuck, five miles from Waterbury. The local League traveled the furthest distance to the convention of all.

The Hartford District Chorus of 114 voices sang, with G. Albert Pearson singing an incidental solo in "Even Me."

The Rev. S. L. Hanson of Middletown was elected president of the District, succeeding Rev. Oscar Winfield of Meriden. Ralph Johnson of New Haven was elected vice-president, and the following were re-elected: Miss Agnes Lindholm of Ansonia, secretary; Carl Lind of Stamford, treasurer; and Martin Wickstrand of Meriden, statistician. Albert Carlson of Hartford was elected delegate to the Synodical Christian Conference. Mauritz Johnson of New Haven was re-elected business manager of Colicchio News.

An invitation was received from New Haven to hold the 37th annual convention in 1933 in that city. The invitation was accepted with thanks. Although rain threatened to interfere with the convention program Sunday and yesterday and undoubtedly kept many away, the average attendance at the various sessions was over 500 Leaguers.

TO INSPECT BATTLEFIELDS Paris, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, as a member of the battle monuments commission, planned today to leave here tomorrow with General John J. Pershing for a two or three-day motor inspection trip to the World War battlefront.

PRESIDENT'S PROGRAM HALTED THE DEPRESSION

Clyde, N. Y., Sept. 6.—(AP)—President Hoover's program in the opinion of F. Trubee Davidson, assistant secretary of war, is responsible for halting a spread in the economic depression.

Dedicating a monument to George Washington here yesterday, Davidson, a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, told his audience that "President Hoover, the members of his administration and a sturdy group of faithful" in Congress "have cleaved the way through opposition which, for the major part, was led by persons whose patriotic genes were dulled by partisan prejudice."

"The President's program," said Davidson, "has checked the ravages of economic ills and... confidence is conquering the terrible psychology of fear that for a time paralyzed initiative and blackjacked the nation." The monument was a gift to this community of the Sons of Italy of Wayne county in connection with the Washington bicentennial.

Davidson drew a parallel between President Hoover and George Washington, who he said was attacked "by a small, aggressive group of politicians who preyed upon a spirit of discontent produced by economic depression that spread over the United States soon after the Revolutionary War."

HUNT FOR DESPERADOES

Muskogee, Okla., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Three desperadoes were hunted in eastern Oklahoma's hills today after terrorizing the Braggs mountain vicinity with a series of crimes which left one woman dead, another near death and a small boy wounded.

Firing a shower of bullets into an automobile which they sought to stop on a mountain road last night, the three killed Mrs. Susie Sharp, 48, of Braggs, perhaps fatally wounded her daughter, Mrs. Pearl Anderson, 26, of Long Beach, Calif., and shot Mrs. Anderson's 5-year-old son in one leg.

The three highwaymen a little later held up H. J. McQuowan of Muskogee, pulled him from his car and sped away in it.

After wrecking McQuowan's machine in a ditch, the trio halted another car in which a patrol of Boy Scouts was returning to Muskogee. Ejected the boys, and took the car. Owen Sharp, driver of the automobile in which his mother was killed, escaped injury, as did two other occupants of the car, Edna Fulton and Kenneth Walker of Braggs.

CAPITAL DESERTED OVER LABOR DAY

Only One Cabinet Officer In Town—President Is Now At Rapidan Camp.

Washington, Sept. 6.—(AP)—This Labor Day week-end finds the capital virtually abandoned by the top ranks of Federal officialdom.

President Hoover is at his Rapidan camp in Virginia for one of his longest rests in recent months. He arrived last night after driving through a heavy rainstorm that served to break the extreme heat wave of the past week.

Here at their desks were only two of the President's Cabinet and one of these officers planned to leave. Postmaster General Brown said a would remain but Secretary Donnell of the Labor Department will go to Syracuse, N. Y., for a Labor Day speech.

Secretary Wilbur is expected back tomorrow from a western trip and probably will spend the holiday catching up with accumulated correspondence. Vice President Curtis was visiting his daughter near Providence, R. I.

EXPECT SHOWERS

The thunderstorm which made mountain roads dangerously slippery during the President's trip was a possible forerunner of many like showers over the week-end. Forecasts indicated showers generally today and tomorrow, with Monday's weather still in doubt.

Secretary Stimson was at his country home at Huntington, Long Island. Attorney General Mitchell was vacationing nearby. Secretary Mills was in Saratoga, N. Y., Secretary Chapin in Maine and Secretary Adams in Cambridge, Mass.

Secretary Hurley rested over the week-end at his country home near Leesburg, Va., while Secretary Hyde was speaking in Shenandoah, Iowa.

HUTCHINSON IS FINED BY DANISH GOVERNMENT

Copenhagen, Denmark, Sept. 6.—(AP)—George Hutchinson, American fier leading a party of eight from New York to London over the Arctic air route, was fined 1,000 kroner (approximately $180), by the governor of southern Greenland for landing in Greenland without a permit.

The governor, notifying the Danish government of the penalty today, said Hutchinson's conduct since arriving at Godthaab had been exemplary and that he had expressed sincere regret for his error. The governor said he did not know yet when the Hutchinsons would continue their flight.

The Hutchinson party includes Mrs. Hutchinson, their two children and a crew of four. They included Gills and in their itinerary when they left New York, but the Danish government withheld permission for a landing there, explaining that should the plane come down in some inaccessible spot they could not assume responsibility for the safety of the crew.

CHORUS GIRLS INJURED

Philadelphia, Sept. 6.—(AP)—A chorus girl suffered a broken ankle and a dozen other members of the cast of "Flying Colors," the new Howard Dietz revue, were cut and bruised in the collapse of fan-shaped trellis on the stage on the Forrest theater—but the show went on.

The trellis, holding most of the cast in a colorful setting for the finale, collapsed just as the curtain was about to rise on the closing number last night.

The crash could be heard in the audience, but Clifton Webb, Charles Butterworth, Patsy Kelly and Jean Sargent, headliners, quickly rushed before the curtain, sang the finale music and brought the revue to a close before the audience knew what had occurred.

Teddy West, the most seriously hurt, is in a hospital today with a broken ankle. Virginia Whitmore and Carol Renwick, two other chorus girls, were treated at hospitals, but all the others received first aid treatment back stage.

LONGERAN STATEMENT

HUNDREDS HOMELESS

Brownsville, Texas, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Hundreds of persons were homeless but the rich citrus and farming lands of the lower Rio Grande Valley appeared to have escaped major damage as the Rio Grande floor crest swept slowly toward Brownsville and the Gulf of Mexico today. Lowlands adjoining the river were under water but levees and floodways protected other sections.

Just how many lives had been lost in the upper stretches of the river, where the property damage was greatest, was not definitely known.

Loss in Val Verde county alone was estimated at $2,000,000. Several hundred families were destitute in national church, Dr. Frank M. Dickerson, Frederick Monon and many others. Mr. Newton is very active for his age and gave up his work in Broad Brook only a few years ago due to impaired sight.

Even Preserving Is Cool Work... Now That I Have An ELECTRIC RANGE

During the preparation of even elaborate dinners—if you use an electric range—your kitchen is cool and comfortable—delightful to work in.

An electric range is carefully insulated to keep heat from escaping. The inside of the oven can be 550 degrees in temperature. Yet you can safely lay your hand on the outside of the oven.

The heating units are cleverly constructed so that the appropriate cooking utensils cover them completely—absorb the heat. Think of being able, on the warmest day, to bake cake, roast meat, cook preserves—in a cool kitchen. To come from the kitchen to the dinner table—looking and feeling fesh and dainty.

Jones-Phelps Miss Mildred

for LOVE or MONEY by CORLEY

BEGIN HERE TODAY MONA TOWNSEND, beautiful young widow, inherits her husband's millions with the provision that she must not re-marry. Her marriage, arranged by her husband's lawyer, who was Mona's employer, was a strange affair, leaving her free at the end of a year to become her husband's wife in actuality or secure a divorce. Mona, in love with her husband's nephew, BARRY TOWNSEND, agreed to the marriage when she thought Barry was lost to her. She employs LOTTIE CABR, a fashion model, as her secretary-companion and they set out for South America, where Barry and STEVE SACCARRELLI, partners in a diamond mine. Mona's brother, BUD, works at the mine. Mona hopes for a reconciliation with Barry. She believed Barry is entitled to a share of his uncle's fortune and wants to find a way to arrange this legally. Learning that Barry and Steve are on vacation at Holiday Island, the girls leave their boat at Port of Spain. They meet Barry and Steve who takes them to Holiday Island. Barry and Steve are cordial but their greeting lacks warmth. Mona wishes she had not come. Barry does not ask for explanations and she cannot make them.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLIII The days drifted by. Long, sweet, drowsy days followed by long, cool evenings. Mornings, after early coffee, the four would go to the beach for a swim in the green-blue water that flooded the sand with transparent depths. Protected by the palm trees, they would rest on the sand, basking at the glare, drinking the milk of fresh coconuts gathered by the inevitable native boys. The girls rarely saw Bud. Ever on the alert, even in this drowsy heat, Bud was dashing for supplies in the boat, rising early and repairing to the section of the island set apart for the airport, swimming alone, his bronzed body graceful and swift in the leaping foam. Bud ate any time, anywhere he happened to be from deliciously filled trays prepared by old Maria. Barry and Steve, in wane linen and pith helmets, were frequently summoned to settle questions at the airport. Frequently, in the cool of the morning, they goified. They would disappear immediately after the 11:30 luncheon, or "breakfast," as they called it, ostensibly to sleep but frequently to figure on paper, to discuss matter at the mine, to attend to correspondence. The famboyants about the house blossomed, covering the rear facade with a shower of petals at every gust of breeze. Holiday House, Mona found, was the only estate on the island and Holiday Island comprised 35 square miles. A fringe of native huts, close by but hidden in a tunnel of trees, accompanied the core of servants. "This place, here?" Barry repeated, in response to Mona's timid query. She still felt ill at ease with him and the conversation between them had never veered from generalities. He looked about affectionately at the huge house flanked with its veritable Eden. "Oh, it's just an old plantation house. They used to raise sugar here for the market, when there was one. Too much dieting nowadays!" "Well," said Lottie, "maybe we die but you, like us, bet we don't you, than if we looked like Miss Grace!"

Miss Grace was a recent importation from Port of Spain, invited out of deference to conversations. She was a sort of official chaperon, the sister of a college professor with a family of instructor sons. At the moment the house was in her capable hands. Seated on the terrace, they could hear Miss Grace giving orders to the servants, who adored her. "Maybe buccaners live in the house," Barry went on. "I don't know. Anyhow it has been pretty much a one man's island all the while." They were seated on the terrace at the tea hour which brought the four together, refreshed and freshly garbed, after the exigencies of the morning. Barry gazed with pride at the house, rising above the surrounding shrubbery, house wide, roomed, ample and high-towered. Overlooking the sea as it did in a wide sweep, buccaners of old might well have set their watch there. "Whoever lived here kept slaves," Steve said idly. "It's a funny thing. I could live in New York all my life and study at school about the slaves in the south but no visit to Harlem ever got me very much excited. But here! Just the thought of slaves working under this broiling sun burns me up."

"The slave owner here," Barry went on, "resorted to that rotten trick they learned in St. Lucia and in Martinique. They brought over the fer-de-lance to keep the slaves from running away!" "Running away?" Lottie's eyes were wide. "How could they do that?" "Where would they run to?" They'd run mostly to the high bush. That section pretty well grown up, that you see for miles beyond the golf course. There are waterfalls in there, they tell me, though we've never come upon one. Well, the slave owners thought the slaves would streak for the bush. They are always superstitious too, believed the slaves had supernatural ways of getting messages to each other from island to island. But they couldn't work any of their magic here in plain sight on the sugar cane fields so the make, the fer-de-lance, was planted in the bush. "The make was supposed to drive them back?" asked Mona. "To frighten them back! To keep them out of the bush entirely. It was a bad move, though. The fer-de-lance grows white men taller than it did slaves. They had to bring over the mongoose to destroy it." "Are there any of them left?" asked Lottie fearfully. "None," Lottie didn't believe so. The man who sold us this island said his father had seen one years ago and the butcher at Barbuda, where we sometimes go for supplies, said that the father had died from a bite. Naturally while negotiating a sale our man didn't tell us that!"

Lottie's eyes were on the horizon following a trail of smoke lying out against the water like gauze blown by the wind. "Then there may be some here yet," she said casually. "And you lived here?" "I've lived in Florida," Barry answered, "yet there are snakes there." "Maybe that's different?" "Lottie!" Steve turned to her amusedly. "If I asked you very politely to come with me to the high bush would you go?" "But would you ask me?" Lottie retorted, cocking her head. "I'm a dangerous blond. I might compromise you." "Maybe I wouldn't mind." Lottie's eyes roved to Barry. Apparently he had not heard this answer. It was the first personal thing to enter the conversation. Or perhaps Barry had heard! Now he rose, stretched a bit and, taking leave of the others with a brief nod, sauntered toward the house. Lottie and Steve, unheeding, were once more sitting in a g-y hat. Perhaps they would rather be alone but Mona couldn't leave them! It would seem too pointed, too much as though she were following Barry. She would be quiet but she would have to remain. "What are you waiting for? And for how long? Barry and Steve would ultimately be leaving Holiday Island and setting out for the mine. Though they seemed in no hurry to leave, it occurred to Mona that they might be delaying their departure until she and Lottie had announced their plans. Days said by. More drowsy days filled with sunshine. They all went to Grenada one morning in the launch to bring back supplies. They had lunch on the crest of a hill, Mona resting, while Steve and Barry sought out carpenters who were to be engaged for work on the hangar. On these little Jaunts Mona was always proud of the boys. In their immaculate linen and pith helmets they looked like West Indian potentates, as indeed it is possible they were regarded. "Mona," said Lottie cautiously as they sat together on a wide veranda awaiting Barry's return. "has Barry said anything?" "His tone was quiet, lifeless. 'Anything?' I guess you've heard all he has said."

There was a pause freighted with questions. "Has Steve said anything?" Mona asked presently. "Has he ever mentioned Barry and me? Or has he said anything about me? Has he ever mentioned the ranch he and Barry were in to leave Twilands a year ago or my—my marriage or the money I have now—or anything? Has he ever—" "It's all so queer," Lottie interrupted. "I have a sort of feeling that Steve and Barry are waiting for us, perhaps, to open the subject." "Do you really think that?" "Maybe," Lottie considered her well-shaped nails, meditatively and then into silence. She laid an affectionate, tender hand on Mona's arm. "Darling," she went on presently, "why don't you speak to him? After all you were the offender—" "I'm the offender," repeated Mona slowly. "Oh, Lottie, it's all the biggest mess! Here we are, guests in their house, upsetting all their plans probably. Getting poor Miss Grace over to chaperon—" "She likes it. She does on it!" Lottie said soberly. "And that, Mona, is our biggest bet!" "Miss Grace?" "Of course. Whose idea was it to bring her here to preserve appearances? Do you suppose appearances would matter or even enter anyone's head down here if you were just an ordinary person to Barry? That boy loves you, Mona!" Her tone italicized the statement. "Why don't you give him a chance?" "Do you think he needs one?" Lottie's glance was withering. "Think he wants one?" Mona pursued.

HAIR BRUSHES ARE REALLY COOL. Hair brushes should be purchased because of the length and firmness of the bristles, and never, never because the amethyst colored handle matches the curtains at your windows! Hair brushes are not ornaments. If they are used that way, they are missing their calling by more than one hair's breadth. They are tools. And they should be workable ones. Put your hair brush out of sight, in a drawer or a box where dust particles will not have much of an opportunity of clinging to it. Keep your hair brush scrupulously clean: Every time you shampoo your hair, wash your brush. Otherwise you'll be defeating your own purpose. Wash the brush in between, also. This same rule applies to combs. The actual process of hair brushing is designed to make the hair stronger, and the circulation of the blood sweeter. Using the hair brush, place a strand of your brush, turn it over on the brush.

A BOOK A DAY BY BRUCE CATTON

RED HERRING IS NEAT. LOGICAL TALE OF MURDER. Reporter Writes of Another Reporter's Effort to Commit the Perfect Crime. When an ambitious young man tries for years to write a novel, and discovers that he'll never make the grade, he is apt to fly off the handle in a big way. In "Red Herring," by Edward Acheson, this is just what happens. The would-be novelist is a newspaper reporter. He spends all of his spare time trying to write a story about a man who committed a "perfect crime," and he studies his subject, with the aid of a friendly police detective, until he knows all about how crime should be committed. "He can't make the story tell; and at last, brooding deeply, he hits on the idea of committing the perfect crime himself. That way, he won't have to waste all the research he has performed. So he goes to it, robs the local bank and gets away with something like $80,000. His crime is just as close to perfection as he had figured it would be. No one dreams of suspecting him, and everything is lovely except that— Well, it would hardly be fair to tell you the conclusion. The book is a kind of mystery story, and under English common law a reviewer is supposed to keep mystery story climates to himself. I can only say that the conclusion is neat and logical, and that the book as a whole is entertaining—even though the author, himself a newspaperman, doesn't quite make his newspaper scenes convincing. "Red Herring" is published by Morrow, and sells for $2.

FEDERAL REVENUES

Washington, Sept. 5.—(AP)—With July revenue of $221,859 thus far reported from the new tax on brewer's wort, malt and grape concentrates, it is estimated 1,400,000 gallons of these products went into beer and wine production this month. At the internal revenue bureau where these reports were received, it was further estimated that the beer and wine industry was about five times the volume of its taxable ingredients. Since malt used for medicinal purposes and by bakers is exempt from the 15 cents a gallon levy, the bureau said the revenue was derived from manufacturers whose products were intended solely for beer and wine.

Gar Wood Victorious In Speedboat Races

English Officials Suggest That Rules Be Changed For Next Year's Contest; Their Proposals.

Detroit, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Harmworth trophy competition, which has brought nothing but grief to foreign challengers since Gar Wood won the plaque for the U. S. in 1920, may be run under different rules next year.

J. Lee Barrett, secretary-treasurer of the Yachtmen's association of America said late yesterday that the Royal Motor Yacht Club of England proposed elimination of the rules providing that a boat which fails to start a heat before the winning boat finishes, or which does not complete the heat within three hours after the winner finishes, be disqualified for the remainder of the races.

Other Proposals
It also proposed an entry be barred only from the one heat should it be out of the race in case of trouble during a race.

The British club also proposed a boat which crosses the starting line while jockeying for position at the start be permitted to leave the course without penalty and that it be disqualified only for the one heat should it interfere with another entry.

Barrett also said there was a possibility the course hereafter might be laid out in statute instead of nautical miles.

SUB-ALPINES WIN FIVE OUT OF SIX

CARDEO HOPES TO PRODUCE A WINNING TEAM AT MISSOURI

Maps Out Three Point Program To Put Claws In Tigers; Has Nine-Game Schedule.

Columbia, Mo., Sept. 6.—(AP)—With a three-point program stressing "smart" football players, the Notre Dame system and the unified support of undergraduates and townspeople, Frank Cardeo, a freshman of the coaching business, will attempt to overcome the obstacles which led to Gwin Henry's departure from Missouri.

Despite a nine-game schedule which pits his Tigers against Northwestern in the season opener just three weeks after practice begins, the former All-America quarterback is hopeful of making a good showing.

Fourteen letter men from last year's squad will be on deck, including Carl Johannmeier, Percy Gill and George Stuber, backfield stars. Stuber played at quarterback; Gill's specialty was punting; while Johannmeier was both a ball carrier and kicker. Capt. Kenneth Kerby, tackle, is expected to be one of the mainstays of the line.

Ball Carriers Speedy
Much of the available backfield material inclines toward speed rather than size, but Missouri fans believe this may be a favorable factor in adapting it to the Notre Dame system.

A good showing of his new charges in scholarship was especially pleasing to Cardeo for whom "A man smart enough to play the right kind of football," Rockne's old field general says, "will be smart enough to get passing grades in his studies."

Last spring, following his appointment, Cardeo issued an appeal to townspeople for wholehearted support of the team. Now he's engaged in a continuation of his campaign to make them "football-minded."

Alumni Still Split
One of the hurdles facing Cardeo, whose only coaching experience was obtained last year as assistant under Noble Kizer at Purdue, is the dissension among alumni largely responsible for Henry's resignation under fire.

One group, pointing out that Henry had developed fine teams in state and national play, and winning three conference titles, and coming close to three others, favored Henry's retention.

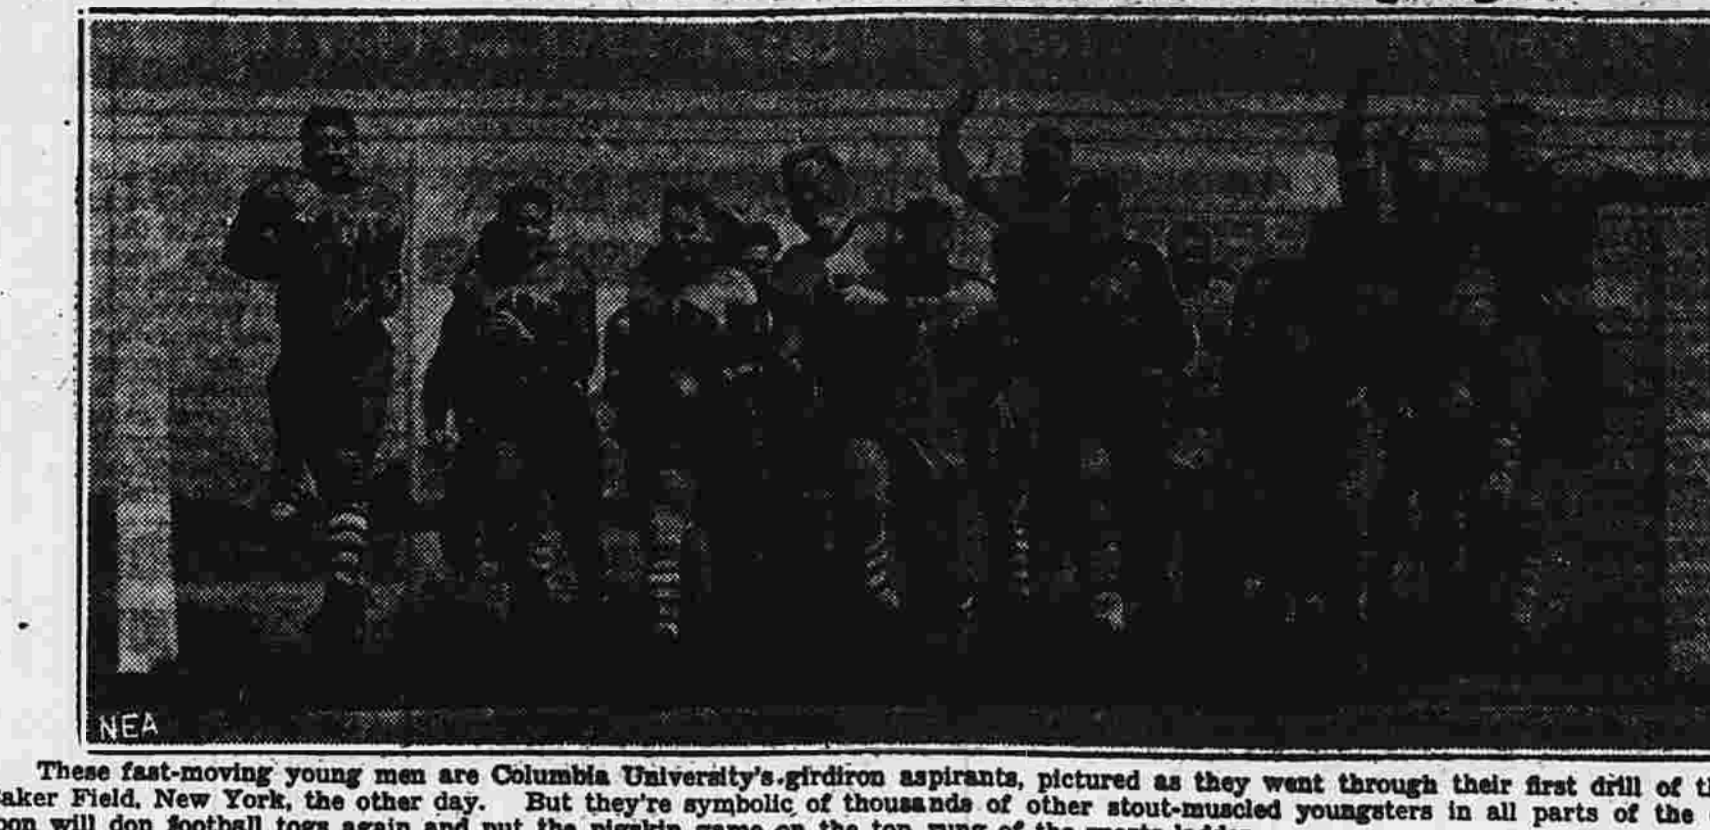

Went On Strike
The opposing group, apparently more articulate, was dissatisfied with the team's showing last fall. Allied with the latter faction were parents of some football candidates who believed their sons had not been given enough chances at gridiron glory.

Following Henry's resignation the entire team went on strike "on strike" in protest against what they considered unfair treatment of their coach.

The Manchester Country Club golf course was a busy place for the week-end and holiday, large numbers of local golfers and their guests playing Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Two tournaments for the club members were on, a match play against two Saturday and a klicker's handicap yesterday.

In Saturday's match play against par Arthur A. Knoffa and Earl Ball-seper were tied at one up. Second was Harry Benson who was even. Two were tied for low gross Saturday, Jack Cheney Jr. getting a 40-34-78 and Harry Benson hitting 37-39-78.

Here They Come! Proving King Football Soon Will Reign Again.

These fast-moving young men are Columbia University's gridiron aspirants, pictured as they went through their first drill of the season at Baker Field, New York, the other day. But they're symbolic of thousands of other stout-muscled youngsters in all parts of the country who soon will don football togs again and put the pigskin game on the top rung of the sports ladder.

WEST SIDES BEAT ACES TO EVEN TOWN SERIES

Win Second Game, 5-3, Behind Stellar Pitching of Mattson, Who Allows Seven Scattered Hits.

Harold Mattson, lanky blond twirler of the West Sides, held the Manchester Aces to seven scattered hits while his mates gathered ten bingles off the slants of Jack Godek although a little wild, was master of the situation at all times. Godek pitched fine ball for the losers but his mates failed to give him the necessary support with the willow.

Last Sunday Godek won a ten inning pitching duel from "Jake" Hewitt, another one of the West Side speed ball artists, but Sunday the Aces were forced to accept the short end of the score as Mattson, although a little wild, was master of the situation at all times. Godek pitched fine ball for the losers but his mates failed to give him the necessary support with the willow.

The West Sides scored two runs in the first inning as O'Leary first man up drove a single to left field and Hedlund dropped a neat ball down first base line, and was safe when Godek hit him with the ball. O'Leary went to third, McCann and O'Leary worked the squeeze play to perfection, O'Leary scoring on a close play at the plate.

Hedlund went to third and scored on Sendrowski's long fly to right field. Hedlund was caught at second. Hadden went out via the infield and that ended the first. They came back in the third chunker to score two more. Hedlund drove a single through short. Stavinsky tucked up McCann's grounder and pitched first. Sendrowski singled through second base and Hedlund scored. Sendrowski stole second and went to third on Hadden's out and scored when Pitt threw wide to Stavinsky on "Chuckle" Smith's hit to second. Tierney hit a high fly to McCann for the third out.

Mattson held the Aces to three hits until the lucky seventh when Hedlund, who replaced Pitt worked "Mat" for a free ticket out and tied to centerfield and Godek fanned. "Hook" Brennan, "the Hack Wilson" of the Aces single to right field. "Hook" went to second and "Dave" McConey brough both men home on a net single to left field that rolled through Hedlund's legs. McConey stole second and scored on a single by "Big George" Stavinsky to left field, when Hedlund again miscued. Smith caught Varrick's high fly and prevented further scoring. The Aces scored three runs on three hits and two errors.

The West Sides chalked up their final run in the seventh, also, when "Hank" McCann doubled to right field and scored on Bycholski's error and scored on Sendrowski's long drive to Brennan. Burkhardt singled to right in the eighth for the Aces but was thrown out trying to steal second base. The next five men went out in order and the West Sides trumped the Aces 5 to 3.

Hedlund, O'Leary and Tierney were credited with two hits apiece for the West Sides, while the hits of the Aces were evenly divided, with McConey's hit bringing home two runs.

About one hundred cash customers and six hundred others watched the game. The collection amounted to $26.00. Next Sunday the boys will battle for the third and deciding game. The score:

BLUEFIELDS LOSE TWICE IN 3 GAMES

Beaten By Sub-Alpines, Frankin A. C.; Defeat Cardinals.

The Bluefields took advantage of the holiday to play three games over the week-end to bring their total up to 16.
Tuesday afternoon the Sub-Alpines opposed the Bluefields at McKee street, and the game was marred by frequent squabbles. In the third inning Carroll, who was umpiring the game and strikes, called Kovis safe at home in the midst of a rally and when the Sub-Alpines vociferously objected, declared the game forfeited to the Bluefields 9-0. Rather than halt the series the Bluefields management decided to continue play and permitted a Sub-Alpine player to finish the game as umpire, and conceded the put out at the plate. The Sub-Alpine won the completed game 5-2.

Monday morning the Bluefields met the Burnside Cardinals at McKee street, winning 1-0. This was a fast, interesting game, free from interruptions and was completed in 1 hour and 35 minutes.
Monday afternoon the Bluefields journeyed to New Britain and lost a close game to the Franklin A. C. Many favorable comments came from the crowded bleachers over the snappy ball the young Bluefields played. In this game "Walt" Snow hit a home run.

LEONARD MEETS DUBE IN FEATURE TONIGHT

Head Card At Sandy Beach Amateur Show; Horner-Simkus In Semi-Final.

Young Leonard of Stafford and Romeo Dube of Holyoke, one of the best writers to ever box here from the Paper City, will meet in the feature bout at Sandy Beach Arena, Crystal Lake tonight. Leonard and Dube met at the lakeside arena two weeks ago in the feature bout with Leonard declared the winner after three rounds of the best fighting seen. Dube has been anxious for a return, sure he can defeat the Stafford boy, and tonight's battle will tell the tale.

Jackie Horner who met with a slight accident and was idle from the ring for a few weeks returns to the arena, making Charlie Simkus of Worcester in the semi-final bout. Simkus like Horner has rested up on every hand and Coach Juhn (Jock) Sutherland's face is dark.

"A bad year," mutters the sober Scot, speaking in jerky sentences and shaking his head. "My second year in the Pennsylvania hills near Johnstown—but shadows lurk on every hand and Coach Juhn (Jock) Sutherland's face is dark.

"After the opener with Ohio Northern Sept. 24, there's West Virginia, Duquesne, Army, Ohio State, Notre Dame, Pennsylvania, Nebraska, Carnegie Tech., Stanford. All of 'em good, all of 'em after us."

"My problems? Hum, I've got six problems. I need six linemen; six of them—and where am I going to get them? Got an awful schlemel. Not a let-down any more," said Dube, and started counting them off on his fingers.

"The first bout will get under way at 8:15 p. m.

HOLLAND EASILY BEATS URBANETTI IN QUARTER-FINAL

Gains Victory In Straight Sets, 6-2, 6-2, In Forty-Five Minute Match; Hawley Plays Tonight.

Walter "Ty" Holland, defending champion in the 1932 men's singles tennis tournament, easily eliminated Lebro Urbanetti in a quarter-final match at the Jenson court Saturday afternoon. Urbanetti was believed a strong possibility to overthrow the titleholder but Holland won in forty-two minutes by the score of 6-2 and 6-2.

This was the only match reported in the singles tourney. As a result of his victory, Holland enters the semi-finals. His next opponent remains in doubt as Bill Hand and Mac Macdonald have still to play their second round match, the winner to meet Robert C. Smith for the chance to play Holland.

No matches were reported in the women's singles tourney and none in the men's doubles, which opened over the week-end. Tom Hawley and Rev. Watson of Waterbury, number 2 in the latter tourney, will meet Harold and Horace Burr at the Country Club tonight. Al Madden and Herman Montic will meet Lebro Urbanetti and Carl Johnson at the Nathan Hale court tonight.

PITTS' GRID COACH PLUNGED IN GLOOM

"A Bad Year," Mutters the Sober Scot At Training Camp Interview.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 6.—(AP)—September's brilliant sun bathed Camp Hamilton—early season training camp for the football squad in the Pennsylvania hills near Johnstown—but shadows lurk on every hand and Coach Juhn (Jock) Sutherland's face is dark.

Triumph Over A's In Doubleheader To Stretch Lead To 12 1-2 Games; Cubs' Lead Cut.

By HERBERT W. BARKER

The pennant-bound New York Yanks garnered the most valuable harvest of Labor Day's crop of doubleheaders.

Facing the Philadelphia Athletics, their closest rivals, the Yanks tossed their twin mound ace, the very left-handed Vernon Gomes and right-handed Johnny Allen, into the fray and emerged with two wins that left them only six more to win in order to clinch the American League flag.

As the teams stood today the Yanks led the Athletics by 12 1-3 games.

Gomes turned in his 23d victory against six defeats in the opener which the Yanks won, 4-1. Allen won his 18th game against two losses in the night cap giving the A's nine scattered hits as the Yankees won, 6-3. Babe Ruth hit his 40th homer in the first game.

Effective pitching by Alvin Crowder and Fred Marberry gave Washington two victories over the Boston Red Sox 6-3 and 9-8 and Cleveland walloped the St. Louis Browns twice 12-9 and 6-4. Earl Averil clouting his 29th and 30th homers in the opener. Earl Whitball pitched seven ball as Detroit turned back the Chicago White Sox 5-3, but the Sox came back to take the nightcap 3-1 as Mill Gaston allowed only five hits.

In the National League, Pittsburgh shaved another game off the Chicago Cubs' lead by whipping the St. Louis Cards twice 4-3 and 3-1. The Cubs split a double header with the Cincinnati Reds winning the first 9-3 but dropping the second 6-5.

The Phillies advanced to within two and one-half games of the third place Brooklyn Dodgers by taking the Giants over the hurdles twice, 3-2 and 5-4, despite Mel Ott's 30th and 31st homers.

The Boston Braves moved into sixth place, two games behind the Phillies, as a result of two triumphs over Brooklyn, 13-3 and 6-4.

COOLIDGE FOR HOOVER AS CRISIS LEADER

statesmanship, sound economies and a humanitarian spirit. He discusses its principal planks in the light of existing conditions, going back first to the speculative era of 1928-29.

"The past three years," he writes, "have brought the greatest problems. While the Republican party does not claim it can perform the impossible, it is willing to be judged on its record. In the winter of 1928-29 it was apparent that the country was engaged in too much speculation."

"I was alarmed at it and kept in contact with the Federal Reserve Board, which is an independent bipartisan body established under the Federal Reserve Act."

"This action had some effect in the early spring, but in the summer of 1929 a fresh wave of speculation started. At this same time the business world was shocked by the land and general business in this country. This brought on a heavy liquidation, which resulted in a violent decline in the stock market in October and November."

"Coolidge goes on to recall indications of a business revival in the winter of 1930, with a subsequent crash in farm products, the economic breakdown of Germany and Austria, bank failures and hoarding in this country, departure of England from the gold standard and the growing increase of unemployment."

"Solving the Problems" These he terms as "some of the problems" and adds: "Let us see how they were solved."

Declaring that except for the early speculation the causes of depression lay outside this country and beyond its control, he writes: "Perhaps it would, therefore, be more in accord with the even-handed justice demanded by the facts to stop blaming depression on the conditions of depression, the devastating effects of which arose almost entirely outside of its jurisdiction and beyond his control, and judge him in accordance with the policy of the President has been able to propose and apply remedies."

Banks "Digestive Organs" Mr. Coolidge reviews the efforts to prevent wage cutting, the campaign for public works construction, "the constructive action" and "beneficial results" of the Farm Board, the anti-hoarding drive, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's organization and work and the President's program of economy and increased taxation.

Defending the granting of relief loans to banks, railroads and insurance companies rather than to individuals, the former President says: "The policy of the President has been to place nourishment in the digestive organs of society in order that through the natural distribution of the channels already in existence the whole body would be strengthened and able to function in the usual way."

After comparing the domestic situation with that of the rest of the world and asserting that "our government has met every obligation when it fell due, maintained the gold standard, and has the highest credit of any nation in the world," Mr. Coolidge takes up the prohibition issue. Reviewing the Republican plank, he says: "While the working out of details will no doubt be difficult, yet the principle announced of retaining the benefits and reforming the abuses is always a sound method of procedure."

HOLIDAY PRODUCES FAMILY QUARRELS

Breach of Peace Cases Before Court Here—Continued Cases Yesterday.

Labor Day produced two breach of the peace cases for police court hearing this morning but neither of them seriously offended anyone except the immediate families of the guilty persons. Frank Zielwicz of 8 Regent street was arrested last night at his home following a fracas. Zielwicz had been drinking but when Patrolman Raymond Griffin arrived at the home the man was not intoxicated. Zielwicz's wife was the complainant but in court today she was an unwilling witness. Judge Raymond A. Johnson suspended judgment in the case upon payment of the court costs.

The Dispersal of Fashion

In days of yore, but now long past, Our maidens didn't starve for fast; They thought plumpness was no vice They oft employed a strange device

Excelsior! But styles will change exceedingly; As slim as poles girls seek to be, They diet, roll, and try to shrink Because the slender ones, they think,

Excel, sir! But slimmness takes it on the jump, And styles will soon decree, "Be plump!"

And then will business be all jake For factories equipped to make Excelsior!

Wife—Don't you know the stuff you're drinking is slow poison? Etbulous Husband—That's all right, I'm in no hurry.

There's a tremendous surplus of wheat in this country, but it could be worse. It could be spinach.

Homeseeker (to native of Brushville)—Is this a healthful town? Brushvillite—Yes, certainly. When I came here I hadn't the strength to utter a word; I had scarcely a hair on my head; I couldn't walk across the room, and I had to be lifted from my bed.

Homeseeker (with enthusiasm)—You give me hope. How long have you lived here? Brushvillite—I was born here.

We noticed an item in the Brushville Bugle last week, evidently written by a high school graduate. It stated that "Company F had been mustered out."

Jasper—What does the professor of Greek get? Ethel—Oh, about $3,000 a year. Jasper—And the football coach? Ethel—About $5,000 a year.

Jasper—Quite a difference, eh? Ethel—Well, silly, did you ever hear 40,000 people cheering a Greek recitation?

The sound of a meek masculine voice came over the receiver of the doctor's telephone. "Doc, my wife has just gotten a hitch in her jaw-bone and can't open her mouth. If you're out this way in the next week or so, you might drop in and see if anything can be done for her."

The boss drives his men—the leader coaches them. The boss depends upon authority—the leader on good will. The boss inspires fear—the leader inspires enthusiasm. The boss says, "I"—the leader says "We". The boss assigns the task—the leader sets the pace. The boss says, "Get here on time"—the leader gets there ahead of time. The boss fixes the blame for the breakdown—the leader fixes breakdown. The boss knows how it's done—the leader shows how. The boss makes work a drudgery—the leader makes it a game. The boss says, "Go"—the leader says "Let's go."

Eloise—I had a quiet evening alone with a book last night. Vivienne—I'm afraid that's going to happen to me some night too.

For some months past the commercial traveler has been a most independent individual—taking orders from nobody.

"Go to father," she said, when I asked her to wed; And she knew that I knew what a life he had led. And she knew that I knew her father was dead! And she knew that I knew what she meant when she said, "Go to—Father."

Dorothy, attending Episcopal church for the first time, was surprised to see the people about her kneel suddenly. Turning to her mother she asked what they were going to do. Her mother—Hush, darling, they're going to say their prayers. Dorothy—What! with all their clothes on?
