CUT STREET LIGHTS, SCHOOLS IN BUDGET

Republicans in Usual Town Election Victory—Crowder Meeting Slashes Selectmen's Figures in Two Items Only.

Republicans in Manchester checked up their usual town election victory yesterday and following the all day polling at the Municipal building over 700 voters met in High school hall to vote on the Selectmen's recommendations for the annual budget. The election results produced practically no features, but the town meeting in High school produced plenty. Two of the Selectmen's appropriations recommendations were cut, the street lighting them going from $25,350 to $20,000 and the education item being reduced from $28,000 to $30,000. Otherwise the board figures were supported by the meeting.

In both instances the decreases were sponsored by men of Board of Selectmen experience. Sherwood Brown moved the $20,000 figure for street lights and Frank W. Williams moved the $30,000 figure for education. No debates developed in any of the other appropriations but exchanges almost personal in nature featured the street lights and education arguments. One of the high lights was the verbal speaking of Willard B. Rogers gave some in the audience who were heard to "booo" when he arose to speak. Rogers invited those who had "booned" to repeat it outside after the meeting. No one accepted the challenge.

Moderator Thomas Conran had named Judge William S. Hyde to act as chairman of the town meeting. Judge Hyde called the meeting to order at eight o'clock and proceeded with the business as listed in the call. The reports of town officers as appearing in the annual town report were accepted and the state aid road fund allotment of $2,500 was voted. Motions were presented by Chairman Thomas J. Rogers who had the honor of reading the report for the last time in 10 years. In quick succession the following appropriations were voted: Charities, $50,000; highways, $40,000; oiling, $5,000 (G. H. Waddell explained that the state is supplying the oil and the town the labor); concrete gutters and sidewalks, $500 (no new construction is planned); garage maintenance, $3,500; storm sewers, $15,500; new bridges, $3,500; cemetery care, $7,000; garage maintenance, $3,000; parks and trees warden, $5,500.

Street Lights When Selectman Rogers made a motion that the sum of $25,350 be appropriated for street lights the first real interest in the evening's session developed. Jacob Laufer wanted to know what cost of lights was last year. Selectman Rogers explained the agreement with the electric company whereby the town got $30,000 worth of lights for $30,000. Selectman Rogers arose and moved an amendment to the motion making the appropriation $20,000. Matthias Spiess read some figures on street lights in other towns and cities saying that Manchester led towns of its own size in the number of street lights. Selectman Keith then stated that sales of street in the town or city under comparison was the proper way to measure street lights. He explained how the lights had been curtailed last year before the agreement with the electric company was made.

Frank V. Williams stated that the town had made a good deal with the electric company but that there was a catch to it. He stated that the electric company had been reminded that if the town were in no better financial standing this year it would not take a penny more until the appropriation. He said that the street lights program could be slowed down or speeded up to meet the town's financial condition. He believes now is the time to slow down. Selectman Rogers said that he and the rest of the board would certainly stand having the lights curtailed if the other people in town could. Rogers said that the reduced program would mean turning out about 715 lights. Jacob Laufer said that the cost of lights in New Haven is less than in Manchester.

Rogers' Spat Then Willard B. Rogers arose. It was here that he took some in the audience to task for jeering a speaker. He said that they could boo all they cared to, but "if it takes all night you'll have them until you're through." He referred to those who had "booned" as "ignorant birds." He said that he was in hearty accord with Mr. Williams on reducing expenditures in favor of the families that are in need. He said he was willing to take a survey of the lighting program would be sufficiently satisfactory under the $30,000 appropriation. Theodore Zimmer said there were no lights on his street and there was no danger either. He said the town could do without some of the lights very easily. George Stayrman said that there were too many lights in his neighborhood. He urged cutting down expenses to help the needy.

900,000 Voted. Selectman Rogers said that the town was cutting down pay but not the school on Page Two.

STRICTLAND HEADS TOWN'S SELECTMEN

Newly Elected Board Organizes This Afternoon; Hackett On Police Board.

Wells A. Strickland was elected chairman of the newly elected Board of Selectmen which held its organization meeting this afternoon at the Municipal building. He has served on the board for ten years and is a well known Manchester contractor. His home is on Oakland street.

Re-Election. Mr. Strickland is the owner of large curbstone quarries in Buckingham and has earned a fine reputation in Manchester both from a business and social standpoint. For eight years he has served on the highway committee of the Board of Selectmen. He is of the conservative type—not hasty in his judgments but very dependable.

The new Board of Selectmen consisting of Wells A. Strickland, Aaron Cook, W. George Glenny, John L. Jenney, George E. Keith, Sherwood G. Bowers and William W. Robertson was sworn in by the clerk of the board, George H. Waddell, at 2:06 and the business of appointing the special officers and committees followed.

Police Commissioner John H. Hackett, well known Buckingham grower, was named to serve on the Board of Police Commissioners in place of Willard B. Rogers who voluntarily retired from that office. Hackett won over John J. Shea of East Center street who is an assistant manager in the Montgomery Ward Company store. The tally was 13 to 8, Hackett winning four to three.

BILLION ADVANCED BY FEDERAL BOARD

R. F. C. Reports On Loans Thus Far Made — Applications Decreasing.

Washington, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Advances of $1,125,734,958 "in actual cash" to aid agriculture, commerce and industry from the Federal Reserve Board were announced today by the Reconstruction Corporation in a summary of loans made during the first seven months of operation.

From February, through August 31, the corporation said $1,119,593,430 was loaned to 5,599 borrowers and $64,201,568 through the secretary of agriculture to 507,822 farmers for crop production purposes.

In addition, advances to states and political subdivisions for relieving distress were totaled by the corporation at $5,495,171 from the settlement of the relief law in July to the close of business September 30. Loans Kept Secret. The corporation's statement showing that its financial operations have involved about one-third of the $1,119,593,430 fund placed at its disposal by Congress, does not mention individual borrowers. Its chairman, Atlas Pomeroy, has protested the ruling of South Trimble, clerk of the House, making public the July report to Congress on individual loans. Trimble is expected to decide Thursday whether the August loan report will be made public.

Head G. O. P. Ticket in New York

Col. William J. Donovan (left), World War hero, was chosen today at the New York state convention of Republicans to head the ticket as candidate for governor. F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aviation, to be his running mate for lieutenant governor.

REPUBLICANS POWERFUL IN RURAL CONNECTICUT

Campaigns Brought Out Heavy Vote But No Startling Shifts Noted in the Small Town Elections.

Republicans remained firmly entrenched in rural Connecticut today as a result of the annual town elections held yesterday in 127 of the 169 communities in the state.

Active campaigns conducted by the two major parties in the hope that the elections might give some indication as to the state vote in November brought out an unusually heavy vote. There were large turnouts in many towns. The political leaders were virtually agreed no marked trend was disclosed to serve as a criterion for next month's general elections.

On the basis of party affiliations Republicans captured eleven Democratic towns but this gain was virtually nullified by the loss of ten towns.

Middletown, the only sizable community to elect a city ticket, remained Democratic, but Republicans succeeded in cutting down Democratic majorities of two years ago. Democrats also clung to their control in Stamford, East Granby, Ellfield, Plainville, Stafford, Haddam, Bolton, Ashford, Old Lyme, Waterford and Litchfield.

Merritt also remained Democratic but Republicans did not touch the re-election of Raymond Park, the Democratic incumbent, as first Selectman. The Republicans, however, won all of the contested offices.

In Western Perkin The Democrats failed to carry a single town in the Connecticut general election. The corporation said $1,119,593,430 was loaned to 5,599 borrowers and $64,201,568 through the secretary of agriculture to 507,822 farmers for crop production purposes.

The corporation said that of its $1,119,593,958 direct loans, borrowers on August 31 had repaid $150,880,827.

"The statistics further show," the corporation said, "that there has been a steady decline in applications for loans from banks since April. In that month 1,249 applications were received, and in August only 889."

Farm loans made by the secretary of agriculture averaged $136.47 each and were made in every state except Rhode Island. Total applications for business (Continued on Page Seven)

DONOVAN NAMED BY REPUBLICANS IN YORK STATE

World War Hero Chosen By Acclamation To Run For Governor—F. Trubee Davison To Be Running Mate

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 4.—(AP)—John H. McCooey, Brooklyn Democratic leader, today proposed two compromise tickets, both headed by United States Senator Robert F. Wagner for governor and an effort to break a deadlock in the Democratic State convention between those favoring Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and the group, including Tammany Hall, opposing him.

McCooey, the peace-maker, between the Tammany-upset alliance and the Lehman group, first advanced a slate that ignored Lehman but included former Governor Alfred E. Smith for the United States Senate.

Smith, who is supporting the lieutenant-governor and intends nominating him, refused to accept a place on that slate. The revised McCooey offer included Ishman as the Senatorial candidate.

Both proposals gave Mayor John Boyd Thacher of Albany a place, either lieutenant governor or comptroller. Thacher is the gubernatorial choice of the Tammany upsets.

Gov. Roosevelt, who is supporting the lieutenant-governor for the nomination, was silent today regarding the progress of negotiations toward an adjustment of the differences. He remained at the executive mansion. The convention last night invited Mr. Roosevelt to address it before adjournment.

Neither candidate for either of the offices was submitted to the delegates and Colonel William J. Donovan, who commanded the "Fighting 68th" New York Regiment in the World War, and F. Trubee Davison, who drives an ambulance in France before the United States got into the war, were unanimously chosen to head the state ticket.

No other candidates for either of the offices were submitted to the delegates and Colonel William J. Donovan, who commanded the "Fighting 68th" New York Regiment in the World War, and F. Trubee Davison, who drives an ambulance in France before the United States got into the war, were unanimously chosen to head the state ticket.

Both nominations were received with wild acclamations, the delegates patting around the auditorium amid the thunderous din of drums and cheers and automobile horns.

Himself a Candidate Davison, who is assistant secretary of war, was himself one of the leading gubernatorial candidates until Sunday when he withdrew in Colonel Donovan's favor.

After Donovan and Davison had been nominated, State Chairman W. Kingsland Macy announced that official notification of Donovan and Davison would take place in the auditorium at 9 o'clock (Eastern Time) tonight, following a parade through the streets.

The nominations for governor and lieutenant-governor followed adoption by acclamation of a state platform which endorsed in 14 words the Federal administration's position on prohibition, the prohibition convention in Chicago refused to back the prohibition plank in the National platform.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The Chamber of Deputies decided to call on President Rodriguez today in a body and demand the expulsion from Mexico of the Spanish delegate to the League of Nations.

The decision followed an animated session in the Chamber last night. It was proposed by Luis Leon, editor of El Nacional, organ of the Revolucionary Party who bitterly denounced the Catholic clergy. Previously the deputies had voted to send a commission to call on the President, but at Leon's suggestion they decided to go in a body.

HOOVER PLANS SPEECH ON WAY TO DES MOINES

New York Democrats Deadlocked on Slate

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 4.—(AP)—John H. McCooey, Brooklyn Democratic leader, today proposed two compromise tickets, both headed by United States Senator Robert F. AMERICAN BANKERS WON BATTLE AGAINST WORLD

But Other Countries Realized It Before We Did and Drain of Gold Stopped, Says Noted Financier.

Los Angeles, Oct. 4.—(AP)—America matched her strength against a world that thought financial ruin was in store for the United States, and won, Harry J. Hans of Philadelphia told the American Bankers Association in his presidential address at the annual convention here today.

"Harrier conditions today," he said, "represent a real re-establishment of fundamentally sound banking, business and general economic conditions," as compared to the "banking panic" that surrounded the convention a year ago.

In the very trough of the depression, he said, foreign interests, believing financial ruin was ahead for the United States, continued to dump securities in American markets and withdrew the proceeds in gold.

U. S. Victorious "Then suddenly in July came the end of Europe's ability to take further gold from this country," Hans said. "America had matched her strength against the world and had won, but other countries seemed to Chicago, Oct. 4.—(AP)—La Salle street — Chicago's financial mart openly doubted today that the absent Insulls would be returned to the U. S. if, as it stands Attorney John Swanson obtains indictments against them as a result of the giant utility companies they once controlled.

While Swanson was marshaling evidence to present to the county Grand Jury rumor was current in business circles that Samuel Insull, Sr., now in Paris, and his brother, Martin, now in Ottawa, Canada, would fight to the last ditch any attempts to extradite them.

Swanson last night announced he would seek indictment of the brothers on charges of embezzlement, larceny, and larceny by bailee. Several days ago the prosecutor asked the Insulls to return voluntarily for questioning in connection with investigation of the burst utility bubble.

Dummy Account Testimony, before the Grand Jury, Swanson indicated would revolve about a reputed deal in which $394,700 was taken from the treasuries of various Insull firms to bolster an alleged dummy brokerage account for Martin Insull.

The Insull brothers are British subjects. The La Salle street reports said Martin was counting on his citizenship to prevent his return from Canada and that Samuel, by presenting himself as a resident of Chicago, would not permit an ocean voyage, could forestall extradition.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—(AP)—London, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Disputes from Dublin to London regarding today reported rumors which however could not be confirmed, that President De Valera, does not intend to nominate a successor to former Lieutenant-Governor McNeill, who resigned yesterday, and that the Free State planned to cut away entirely from the British Commonwealth. A dispatch to the Daily Mail said the question of continued membership of the Free State in the Commonwealth probably would be raised tomorrow if negotiations were resumed by De Valera and J. E. Thomas, British secretary for the Dominion.

Puts Finishing Touches To Address He Will Deliver In Home State As He Nears End of Trip; Crowds Gathering For Monster Demonstration.

On Board Presidential Special, Mr. Hoover headed into his home state of Iowa today with the campaign speech he will deliver tonight at Des Moines partially completed, but with the remainder, described by one of his secretaries as the fighting part, unfinished.

The Chief Executive worked to put the finishing touches on his speech in which he will discuss agricultural and other problems as his special train was speeding through the farm states of Illinois and Iowa in a steady fall of rain.

His aides indicated he might not complete the address until he is near Des Moines.

Mrs. Hoover Greets Crowds. Meanwhile, Mrs. Hoover took over the function of greeting crowds gathered around the rear platform of the special train during the early morning stops.

"I think you people are mighty nice to come out on a rainy day like this to say hello," the First Lady said, waving her hand to a group gathered at Ottawa.

Someone suggested, "three cheers for the wife of the best President" and then the wife gave a cheer which one of the group called to ask if they could see the President for a minute.

"I think so," Mrs. Hoover said. "He is very busy writing something right now, but I think he can come out before the train starts again."

The special got under way, however, with the Chief Executive still busily engaged at his improvised desk. He had said that "the fighting part" of his address, upon which he was to be speaking, might run to the length of nearly 4,500 words.

THOUSANDS GATHERING. Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 4.—(AP)—From every corner of the compass Iowa Republicans streamed into Des Moines today to hear President Hoover, a man and a party candidate for re-election, deliver the opening address of his 1933 campaign.

A party of the state's leading Republicans, headed by Governor Dan Turner, waited at Davenport to welcome the President and to accompany him across the state, leading up to a demonstration as he parades through the city.

The President's special train was due to arrive in the city at 6 p. m. and there was a crowded schedule before he was to be departing tonight. Following the parade, Mr. Hoover was to go with Mrs. Hoover to dinner at the home of Governor and Mrs. Turner, leaving there to speak at the Coliseum at 7:30 p. m. At the conclusion of his speech he was to go to the Plaza Hotel, the Capitol and to the State Temple for introductions before the crowd gathered to hear his speech.

Press Conference. A press conference and reception arranged by Iowa newspapers will be scheduled between the conclusion of his tour and the departure of his train for Washington.

Meanwhile Mrs. Hoover was also booked for a full program in greeting crowds of friends from Waterloo, her home town, attending the parade, making a whirlwind visit about the city, and perhaps delivering short talks.

Today's crowd was not exclusive, by made up of Iowans. Huge motor caravans from Missouri, and Nebraska made their way into the city early in the day and hundreds of other cars were on hand from Illinois, Minnesota, South Dakota and other midwestern states.

Leaders of the Farmers Holiday Association, sponsor of the present farm strike, declared they intended to parade as planned as a protest against present farm prices. The parade was scheduled to begin and end at the State House, starting about 11:30 a. m.

BACK TO HOME STATE. Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Back to his native prairie and his childhood friends came Herbert Hoover today.

POPULATION RACE NOW ON AGAIN

Tokyo Claims Five Millions and New York Comes Back With Twelve.

New York, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The official standings in the population race of the world's great cities were upset in the last week by new totals announced from New York and Tokyo.

New York's unofficial metropolitan population reached the huge figure of 12,055,187 while Tokyo, on the other side of the world, came up from the mark officially to place third by announcing its population as 8,312,000 jumping ahead of Berlin, Chicago, Paris and Moscow.

Officially New York, with a population of 6,881,915 in its five boroughs, plays second to metropolitan London with 8,302,812, but the Merchants Association of the American metropolis announced there are more than 12,000,000 human beings in the city proper and twenty three adjoining counties of New York's trade territory.

Tokyo, which had counted its population at 5,600,000 and its area as 21 square miles, went on an annexation spree, absorbed 23 villages and towns, increased its square mileage to 283 and its population to more than 5,900,000.

The official standings now are: Greater London 8,302,812; New York City 6,881,915; Tokyo 5,912,000; Berlin 4,360,000; Chicago 3,376,424; Paris (within walls) 2,875,088; Moscow 2,748,000. Metropolitan Paris including the territory outside the walls is about 4,977,464.

Counting New York's metropolitan territory about 40,000,000 of the world.

KING CAROL WANTS SON BROUGHT BACK

Orders Princess Helen To Return To Rumania At Once; Objects To Publicity

London, Oct. 4.—(AP)—King Carol of Rumania has cut short the visit of Crown Prince Michael in London with his mother, Princess Helen, the Princess was quoted by the Daily Mail as saying today, and has threatened her with never seeing her son again.

She charged her former husband with "persecution and had faith" for the action which, she said, was taken because the King was resentful of the sympathy for the British people have shown for Prince Michael since he arrived in London two weeks ago.

Michael seems to stay six weeks, she said, but she was informed by an aide that he had been ordered to return to Rumania in 1926 but had not done so.

BIG PROPERTY LOSS BY FOREST FIRES

Mill Town in Oregon Wiped Out—Blaze Raging On a Fifteen Mile Front.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 4.—Driven by a 40-mile gale, a forest fire roaring along a 16-mile front through the town of Mill, Oregon, was reported to have consumed the town and to have wiped out a small town and destroyed property valued at more than $1,000,000.

Apprehension also was felt for the safety of 26 fishermen unaccounted for when the more than 300 men on the fire line were ordered to retreat. The mill town of Mill was reported destroyed after all residents had fled.

The blaze was the worst of a series that continued to make the greatest fire statistics Oregon has experienced so late in the season for several years.

Water Supply Menaced. Another fire threatened the water supply of Corvallis. Still another advanced within 10 feet of a church at Westport. A forest fire destroyed the town of Mill, Oregon, and killed two horses three miles east of Newberg. Several other larger forest fires were reported in the state.

The fire raged to within half a mile of the mill buildings at Corvallis. It is reported that the mill buildings and the town of Mill were destroyed. All residents were reported to have been removed to Westport, Ore. Three trustees of the First State Building Company returned to the town of Mill. A camp near the town of Mill was reported destroyed.

The blaze followed a storm on a lightning storm that fell during the night. It is reported that the fire was caused by a lightning bolt striking a tree near the mill buildings.

FIND WOMAN DEAD IN A HOTEL ROOM

Gun Clutched In Her Hand But Note Left By Her Hints At Murder Case.

New York, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The body of a woman, with a revolver clutched in the right hand and a bullet wound behind the right ear, was found today in her room in the Hotel Cadillac, 43rd street and Broadway.

About the time the body was found the management received a note, presumably from her, stating that if she was found dead it would be a case of murder, by a man who had been following her for several days.

The woman who was found dead in the room was registered at the hotel under the name of "Mrs. E. M. Miller, 121. She was a woman of about 35 years of age, and was identified by Miss Miller, New York.

Miss Miller is a student nurse at Memorial Hospital. Worcester, Mass., and she had been unable to contact her home in New York. She was reported to have been following her for several days.

STATE SURVEY FINISHED

Hartford, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Governor Cross said today he has received from Angus P. Thorne of Bridgeport the report of the special inquiry made in several other states and towns relative to their economic conditions. The governor conferred with Thorne for some time Monday.

The governor said the report is voluminous and that it will require several days of study before he makes any statement relative to it. Thorne had made general reports to the governor as to the results of studies made, and as a result the governor is not unfamiliar with the findings in general, but he will ponder the details of the special inquiry before making a statement.

N. Y. REPUBLICANS ADOPT PLATFORM

Single Sentence Expresses Attitude On Prohibition; Bonus Is Not Mentioned.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 4.—(AP)—The prohibition attitude of the New York State Republican Party was expressed in a single sentence of the platform adopted by the Republican State convention today.

The platform made no mention of the soldier bonus.

The platform said that "for four years Gov. Roosevelt and his Democratic advisers have had every opportunity to suggest some solution to the many problems which as a result of the investigation of State departments which 'already has suggested economies amounting to $38,000,000.'"

The Republican Party, said the platform, "pledges itself to the most rigid economies in our state government and to an effort to bring about a reduction of the cost of government in the various counties, cities and towns."

Support of the $30,000,000 bond issue, for continuation of the state's unemployment relief program—a question to be submitted to the voters by referendum at the November election—was advocated in the platform.

Work Relief. The Republican Party believes in work relief for the unemployed who are able to work, and home relief for those unable to work.

The setting up of unemployment reserves, to which the state should contribute, was proposed.

The Republican Party, said the convention through its platform, "commends organized labor for its restraint, its sense of public responsibility and its patriotism during the trying times through which the state and the nation have been passing."

The current milk price problem in the state had its reflection in the plank on agriculture.

Moore, who caused the mistrial by approaching defense counsel after the trial had run two weeks and was nearing conclusion, threw himself on the mercy of the court today, coming to the hearing into his case without counsel although he had been informed he was entitled to such representation.

"I'm sorry," he told Judge Frank J. Coleman in a strained voice, "I didn't mean to harm anyone."

Judge Coleman said he was convinced there was no corrupt intention upon the part of the juror when he called on Defense Attorney Charles J. Margiotti at the Pennsylvania hotel last Friday.

"For that reason," the judge said, "I am not going to send you to jail."

The judge's voice was kindly. Moore stood before him, hat in hand, straight as an Indian, his eyes watery.

CALL of the WEST

BEGIN HERE TODAY

STAN HAZEL, owner of ASPER DELO, member king, of crooked practices and of having men shot who try to check up on his activities. Ball says he is making a check for cattle interests. DeLo says he will prevent it in person. Upon hearing DeLo's office Ball says DONA, asper's daughter, from kidnapers... Learning her name he tells her he is STANLEY BLACK and slips away.

DUDLEY WINTERS loves Dona. He agrees to make Asper give up the wild idea of going to Three Rivers and running Ball off the company property. Dona goes with him. They find a manhunt in progress with Ball as the objective. Asper is badly wounded from a gunshot but cannot be kept in bed. Dudley pretends to care, but certifies that they had been prevented from using by Dona's being unwell. They tell Asper they are married. Ball overhears this announcement, while in for food. He is caught by SWERGIN, Asper's timber boss, who has been a leading figure in the hunt. Ball is taken to a cabin while Swergin goes out to gather a mob for a lynching. He surprises his captor and escapes.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVIII

The moon had flooded the very last patch of timber on the upper reaches of Folly Mountain, Dudley stood on the bottom step and looked up at Dona. His handsome mouth had widened in a smile of indulgence. Dona could not see his eyes because of the shadows but she was sure they held a flickering banter at her hesitancy. After all, Dona had publicly announced that she was his wife. And she was a modern girl—the slender, active beauty who could ride, play tennis and swim, yet who could grace a luxurious easy chair with tantalizing languor.

"Hates to give up her freedom," Dudley thought to himself.

"I don't give up!" Dona told herself, but she knew Asper Dudley to slip an arm around her. "We must stop in and see Dad," she said aloud.

Dudley gave her a little squeeze but Dona pulled away from him.

They found Asper awake and apparently waiting for them. "I should think you love birds would be froeing!" he greeted them.

"We've been watching the moon uncover Folly Mountain," Dona said in a low voice and her words sounded strangely tight.

"Just a bit of night air," Dudley grinned.

"Well, run along now. It's getting late. Time for an old fellow like me to get some sleep." Asper's eyes held a hint of moisture.

Dona bent and kissed him. "You're waiting for them, Dad! And, as your nurse, it's my duty to take care of you. Is there anything you want?"

"Not a thing. You're not to bother about me. I'm going to sleep like a spruce log tonight. Won't wake up a single time." Asper closed his eyes and settled back against the pillows.

"Well, then—good night." Dona took her father's hand and gave it a final squeeze.

Dudley caught her arm and led her from the room. Outside the girl halted. Noisily she closed the door behind her.

"I'll move my things to your room," Dudley spoke with a tone of mastery he had never dared use before.

"You can't do that!"

"Why not?" Dudley demanded.

"We're married, aren't we?"

"You know we're not married."

Dona flushed. "We will have to go down to Seth Doby's and find Sam Dean before we can be married. I never thought you'd stick for all the bunk!" Dudley was beginning to be impatient.

"Well, you know it now!" She would not keep an edge from her voice.

"All right. We'll drive down there tonight."

"You know I won't leave Dad."

The girl felt she was gaining ground.

"You won't be able to put this on over," Dudley warned her.

Dona took a step toward him. "Dad, please be good to me! I know I'm a little fool but I want everything to be right. You will, won't you?"

He frowned slightly. "I'm the fool, I guess," he growled and turned on his heel.

Dona watched him go to his room. He shut the door with a snap and did not look back. She sighed and again slipped out into the moonlight. In the shelter of the cherry brush at the end of the building she sank down and gave herself up to her emotions. A shadowy form on the hillside caused her to make an effort at control. A man was coming toward her. She could see that he was tall and slender. With a little gasp Dona fled around the corner.

She did not want to return to her room so she wandered down to the corral. There she found Malloy, silently smoking a cigar and gazing out into the night. He nodded to her but did not speak. Dona climbed up beside him and sat with her chin in her hands. She wanted to ask the silent cowboy a question. It was on the tip of her tongue when a man came running down the hill.

Malloy did not make a move to get down from his perch, though the approaching man was evidently very excited. A flare of moonlight opening through the usual spruce revealed their hurried visitor. Swergin, bald and saggy, was approaching.

Malloy did not move but he did gave a shrill whistle that brought two men from the shadow of a wall. "Hear what the boss says?" he drawled.

The men scattered to rouse the rest of the camp. Swergin halted before the two on the fence. "Get down from there and get busy on your horses!" Swergin bellowed. He did not seem to see Dona.

Malloy sid from his perch into the corral. Wild excitement broke loose. Men ran about saddling up while Swergin shouted orders. Ball had visited the camp and was close in. Every man was to use his rifle. The bandit was to be run down. Dona sat watching the picture. She wished the hunters luck but she did not move to join them. Why she could not have told.

The corral was a swirl of dust. Riders galloped out through the open gate and thundered up the slope. Swergin was the last to go. He waved the hunters down from the fence. Now she looked about and saw, with a start, that Malloy was again seated beside her, smoking calmly.

"Why didn't you go?" she demanded.

"There's enough men up in that scrub timber to capture an army—let alone one man," Malloy answered, blowing a ring of smoke out from under his wide hat.

"If you don't want to be loyal and help run this murderer, why don't you quit?" Dona spoke sharply.

"I reckon as how I will quit one of these days. Yes, soon as I get square with his outfit I'll haul my freight," Malloy drawled.

"If my father owes you anything you can get it at once," Dona flared.

"I aim to collect when I get ready," Malloy's grin was wide and by Olive Roberts Barton BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

"I had a great father," said my friend, remembering that he did not—would not—contemplate fear of any sort in his children.

"If he was able to keep fear out of the family, he was smarter than most fathers," I commented. "What did he do so?"

"Nothing, except to shame us to death every time we admitted we were afraid of anything. We boys would have endured anything rather than his rage or contempt. So we learned to pretend we were brave."

This was interesting and I encouraged him to go on. I wanted to hear about the outcome of such a procedure. Was there such a thing as driving out fear by sheer will? Had this man made a study of his sons by some contagious application of his own courage?

"We used to keep older in the cellar," this man went on. "Every night it was my job to go down with a stone pitcher and shake it up out of the barrel. I used to drive and shake till my teeth rattled because it was as dark as pitch and the bit of candle I carried only made jumping shadows."

Only Heightened Fear

"One night I heard a noise. I didn't stop to turn off the light and ran screaming up the cellar steps three at a time. Father was so disgusted he nearly whaled the life out of me."

"After that I always came up smiling and boasting that it wasn't anything to go down in the dark. Said I must have been pretty nervous that other night. And he'd lay his heavy hand on my tow head and say, 'I knew my boy wasn't a coward. There's nothing on earth to be afraid of.'"

"Did it change you?" I asked.

"Change me? To tell the truth, it did. To punish me for being afraid seemed to be the very thing watching her grimly. From up the slope came the thunder of hoofs. A group of the riders were returning. They were crowded close together and traveling at a trot. Malloy slid from the fence.

"You run on to bed," he ordered gruffly. His voice was anxious in spite of its drawl.

Dona realized that he was trying to get her away before the men arrived. She was determined to stay to see what had happened. "You can't tell me what to do," she flared and stepped back from the open gate.

Malloy shrugged his shoulders and stood waiting. The men trotted up and as they came it was plain that the form of a man was lying limply across the saddle of the foremost rider.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

SHE WAS RICH BUT SHE JUST HAD NO BRAINS

"Madam" is an Acid Portrait of a Meddling Woman Whom Society Dropped

"Madam," by Richmond Barrett, is a novel about a woman who had a whole lot of energy and a whole lot of money, but very little intelligence and no morals at all.

You might expect that such a person would do some rather odd things. Right you are—she does; and Mr. Barrett's novel is occasionally very funny and occasionally painfully bitter as it recites her adventures.

She fell out of New York society because she got too wild for society to swallow; but she had a vast capacity for self-deception and by changing a chronic invalid she was able to mitigate the sting of her fall and devote herself to ruining the lives of her relatives and her servants with magnificent abandon.

It's hardly worth while to go into details about it; the book itself gets wearisome long before you come to the end, and the people in it are so uniformly despicable that you feel like calling for something by Dr. Henry Van Dyke when you finish it. But the portrait is a good one; the cynicism of the brazen meddler who can rationalize every act and persuade herself that supreme selfishness is flawless altruism—it comes to life, somehow, and you accept it.

"Madam," which might be classed as hammock reading with a dash of bitters, is published by Liveright and retails for $2.

MARVELOUS MANHATTAN

WILLIAM GAINES

New York.—There's an unusual angle to this story of the actress who married the man—Belle Blanche.

It's another one of those pretty romances of Broadway which bob up from time to time, and weigh against the familiar situation of the stage beauty who marries wealth for a brief and sensational plunge.

Belle is back on the stage after a 17-year absence, because her husband's fortune was swept away. Her life of luxury and ease a thing of the past, she came back to help her husband in his battle to provide for her and her two children.

She was at the height of her career at 22, appearing with George Cohan in the Dolly Sisters and Peggy Wood in the "all star" cast of "Hello, Broadway." It was then that she became engaged to Larry Cohn, the breaker. She married him, returned to the stage briefly, to fill one previously booked vaudeville engagement; then went into retirement.

Came the Crash

Things went well for Cohn. His money piled up. They had a fine estate at South Orange, N. J., and a costly apartment on Central Park West. Then came the crash. Every thing was wiped out. Cohn had to sell his seat on the exchange.

"I would have been a poor sport not to want to do everything to help," Belle told me. "Even so, it took a lot of coaxing before Larry would consent to my return to the stage."

She found a place waiting for her in vaudeville, and plans to go into a production this season.

"All the while I was away from it, I never lost my affection for the theater," she said. "And she continued her vocal training."

Belle began her career as a child of 10, making her first Broadway appearance at the old New York theater, operated by H. E. Sire. Her name was Belle Blanche.

There's Drama in New Gowns—and Style Thrills in Their Lines.

All gowns have a flair for drama this year. Some of them go about it quaintly, while others have a decided leaning toward sophistication. And some, as the three pictured frocks show, know how to combine the two.

The afternoon tea gown at the top is fashioned from supple black velvet that molds the body in a devastating manner. The round white ermine collar, with its many little tails is demure and wise enough to know it. The sleeves are particularly fascinating and romantic with their rabbit-ear cut. The skirt is ankle length and the belt is rather high.

A new crushed velvet material has been used for the dress in the center. It, too, understands the art of clinging to a svelte manner. This frock, created by Marcelle Dormoy, has a cowl neck and brief sleeves. It is especially good in pure white, but light colors are attractive, also. The fabric supplies all the ornamentation except for two clips that decorate the neckline, one on either side.

Black takes some more honors in the third dress. The frock, which is a copy of Mainbocher, comes in sweater in a rich dull black. It follows the simple princess-line, molding itself to the body, and paring below the hips. The skirt touches the floor. The suggested epaulets are lined with pink and the cluster of soft flowers, which supply the only ornamental note, are of a matching pink.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Toile Baths as Beauty Aids

An old story says that Nero's wife, Poppaea, always took along 50 asses when she went traveling. Not because she liked the menagerie, but because she thought her skin would be softer and smoother if she bathed in milk, and refrigeration being what it was in ancient Rome, she couldn't take along a camped supply.

Milk hasn't lost its medicinal properties through the years. It is a beauty aid when warmed and applied to the face.

It would take more quart bottles than most cupboards contain, though, to put on the stunt that Poppaea did. As substitutes there are oatmeal and barley bathings which can be placed in bath water occasionally.

Another tonic bath comes from the use of sea salt. Epsom salts are especially good, for they will draw out the acid impurities of the skin. Try rubbing your body with a rough cloth, now and then, that has been dipped into a salt water solution. Have the water cold. Rub quickly and briskly. This will speed up circulation.

Certain soaps which have refreshing, medicinal properties are inclined to refresh and invigorate. You must decide which soap you prefer. This same rule applies to bath salts.

The scent of pine is always enchanting. You can close your eyes and imagine that the clean, fresh odor is coming to you from tall green trees that are swaying in the autumn wind. After all, the imagination plays a great part in any tonic effect that you want to achieve. Let yours go.

If you have access to a pine woods gather the needles, soak them in boiling water, and save the liquor to make your bath more fragrant. You will feel invigorated, physically and mentally, when the herbs have done their healing, cleansing work.

TOO AMBITIOUS? MAYBE YOUR ADRENAL GLANDS ARE WORKING OVERTIME

Overactivity May Lead To Exhaustive Opinions

EDITORIAL NOTE: This is the fourth of a series of five-panel articles on the part the glands play in the human body.

By DR. MORRIS FREEMAN, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The adrenal glands are two in number, situated deep in the abdominal cavity just above the kidneys. Each gland contains two parts, a medulla and a cortex, and both are essential to proper functions of the body.

A complete destruction of the cortex of the adrenal gland by tuberculosis or other disease results in the appearance of the condition called Addison's disease, formerly invariably fatal but now relieved through the use of a specific extract of the cortex of the adrenal gland called cortin.

Moreover, according to Dr. Walter Timms, the secretion of this cortex is associated particularly with the activities of the sex glands and with the proper development of the secondary sex characteristics. In case of disturbance or degeneration of the cortex, abnormal pigmentation of the body develops giving a bronzed appearance.

The secretion of the medulla of the adrenal gland is a substance called adrenalin which is of the greatest importance for proper activity of the human body. An excessive supply of this substance produces rapidly of the pulse, flushing of the skin, a lessening of the secretions of the body, a heightened temperature, blood pressure and chemical activity in the body.

The effects on character are an excessive feeling of well being, the individual becomes a little too dynamic with a little too much initiative and optimism. Usually such patients are easily excited.

On the other hand, an absence of this secretion makes the individual unfit to cope successfully with either the physical or mental activities of life. There are rapid changes in the blood pressure with a tendency to low blood pressure, a general loss of tone in the skin, early exhaustion and weakness.

Such people cannot undertake work that requires much energy or with which there is associated a sudden demand for exertion. They dislike sudden speeding and will not climb stairs. They have a tendency also to slow pulse, intense perspiration and excess activity of the intestinal tract.

Obviously, such patients require constant stimulation such as may be given to them by the use of stimulant drugs or by providing the secretion of the glands as prescribed by their physicians.

MCGRAW DENIES RUMOR OF CLUB IN MONTREAL

Not To Operate National League Team There, He Says; Three Yanks To Marry; Cubs Disperse.

New York, Oct. 4.—(AP)—If a National League baseball team is to be operated in Montreal next season, John McGraw knows nothing about it. And, so far as could be ascertained today, neither did anyone else.

Commenting on reports current at Montreal that he would head an organization seeking transfer of a National League franchise to the Canadian city, McGraw said: "I am not interested in any deal playing a National League club in Montreal or anywhere else. There is no basis for such a report."

As the tale was told in Montreal, McGraw and some unnamed associates were seeking to purchase one of the league's franchises with the idea of moving it across the border.

THREE YANKS TO MARRY

The World Champion New York Yanks were back in town today for a few days before splitting up for the winter. Three members of the team planned marriages in the few days, Sam Ewing with Rachel Smith, Birmingham, Ala.; Bill Dickson with Violet Arnold, Jackson Heights, and Vernon Gomes with June O'Dea, musical comedy actress.

CUBS RETURN HOME

Chicago, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Already scattered by the bombardment of New York Yanks' guns, Chicago's Cubs today dispersed for the year following by rumors that several of them would be elsewhere next season.

Most of the vanquished athletes were in their way home or headed for hunting trips, to which many baseball players are addicted during the off season.

Reports which lacked anything like official verification, said Hugh Grimes, Boston, and Johnny Moore, veteran, and young Stanley Mack, probably would move on. They may be used as trading material in moves to obtain a starting left-handed pitcher and a batsman capable of hitting the ball frequently and long.

Neither Grimes nor Smith were much help as pitchers, and Moore's hitting was streaky. Mack showed promise and rates as good trading timber. Grimes plans to undergo another thorough examination, after which he may have his ailing appendix removed.

SPORT SLANTS

MANCHESTER, N.H. (Special)

Old man Stagg leads his Chicago alumni back east early this October for a visit to the home state, following the 27-0 trouncing that little Albie Booth helped administer to their last season at the Midway.

The dean of American football coaches, or at least the co-dean, if he may be called, for the time being, with Pop Warner, has done a long time moving his boys back among the top-flight teams on the basis of performances.

They may have been getting a lot out of the game, benefiting themselves for the future and they have not been securing many touchdowns since John Thomas and "Five Yards" McCarthy left Chicago.

There were sufficient signs of an upward trend for the Mar: in last, however, for the time being, with Pop Warner, has done a long time moving his boys back among the top-flight teams on the basis of performances.

Iowa State's football comeback under the coaching of George Yessler, credited with checking the Cyclones' two-year losing streak in 1929-30, depends considerably upon the ability of Dick Gray to shake himself loose for the sort of runs that made him a conspicuous Big Six star last season.

Grefe is captain and quarterback of the team this year. He does the passing as well as most of the bull-lugging. Last fall he gained more ground than any other Big Six back in conference games. He should be aided this season by the blocking of Ivan Simpson, former fullback who was out with a broken leg last year, and Ed Schatzroth, 185-pound half-back, according to the early season reports from Ames.

Iowa State takes on Nebraska and Kansas for its first two conference games, October 8 and 15, by way of losing no time getting into the thick of the conference scramble.

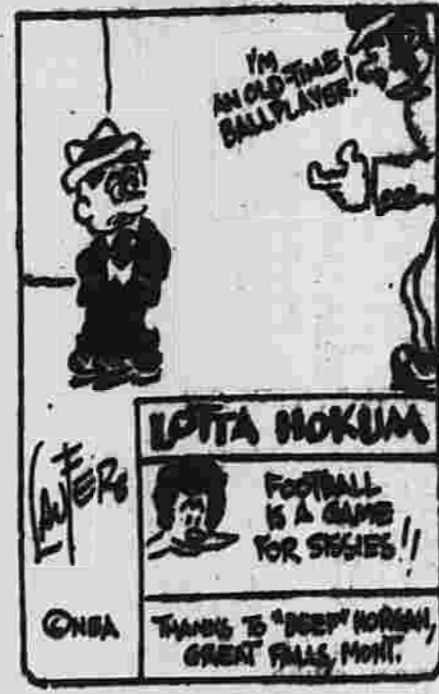

Bob Supple, beginning his 20th season as coach of the Illinois team, with a long record of championships won, is estimated that the 1932 boys are eager to do their part toward restoring the erstwhile gridiron glories.

This squad looks more like an ordinary Illinois team two years ago, but they are leaner-looking, leaner.

Will the boys have a good season as usual, or will they be the victims of a slump?

STAGG TO EXPOSE HIS SECRET SHIFT IN THE YALE GAME

Chicago Meets Eli At New Haven This Saturday; Were Beaten Last Year 27-0.

By WILLIAM BRADSHAW, NBA Service Sports Editor

New York, Oct. 4.—Back to the campus he left 41 years ago to become a football coach, Ames Alonzo Stagg will take his Midway Maroons this Saturday, Oct. 8, for a kick at the Yale bulldog.

He is bringing what is purported to be a "whirlwind shift," the "whirlwind shift," which has been shrouded in secrecy since its inception in the fertile scone of the Old Man.

It might not be amiss here to express the apprehension that he will use a "whirlwind shift" to hold Yale even for the Yale bulldog, and the Maroon, rather than kicking the animal, may find itself in need of a new seat for its pants.

Staggling out one man in the Yale backfield for respectful observations is not hard at all. The man is Bob Lanister, who alternated with Albie Booth last year, and who was so busy getting around that half the time the spectators didn't know whether it was Booth they had paid to see, or Lanister.

The other backs are Parker, Crowley and Levering. They are veterans, and have taken to the Notre Dame shifts, which were an innovation last year, just as though their names were Gerald or Schwartz.

Mr. Stagg has something, of course, besides that electric run-about and his new whirlwind shift wall, and young Pat Page, son of the Maroon assistant coach, is expected to star in the backfield. He has some very fierce-looking young men in John Womer, a guard; Tom Flinn, quarterback, and Cecil Storey, fullback.

It isn't a bad team, but a victory over Yale would have to be regarded as an upset.

EAGLES BEAT CLERKS OF ROCKVILLE, 14-0

The Eagles defeated the Clerks of Rockville yesterday by the score of 14 to 0. The first touchdown was made by Copeland after a run of about 10 yards to score. The second was made after the Eagles had marched down the field to the 5-yard line and from there Slaga plunged over. Both after points were scored by placekicks by Copeland with Balco holding.

Phillips of the Clerks caused the Eagles plenty of trouble, making several nice runs. In the last quarter the Manchester team twice had the ball inside Rockville's 5-yard line only to lose the ball on downs. The game was hard fought and cleanly played although the weather was better suited to baseball than football.

Greeney, Lucky 'Irish' Guard, Heir To 'All-America' Locker

Big things are expected this season of Norm Greeney, veteran Notre Dame guard. He has been assigned to old "No. 12," famed locker at South Bend which has held the battle-scarred molossins of a long line of All-America warriors.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 4.—(AP)—From the standpoint of tradition, Norm Greeney of Cleveland may be considered Notre Dame's most likely 1932 All-America prospect.

Greeney, a center right guard, this fall is keeping his football duds in a gymnasium locker—No. 12—which has been the passing property of All-Americans almost continuously since 1924.

Adam Walsh, center and captain of the famous Four Horsemen team of 1950, started the locker's "career." Bud Roering, who stepped into Walsh's shoes to win almost equal fame in 1928, had the same locker.

John "Clipper" Smith, guard, had it in 1928 and 1927, and he won All-America honors the latter season. His 1928 team missed All-America distinction, but Jack Cannon, another guard, restored its glory by parading his molossins there in 1929.

In 1930, Marty Brill, halfback, was the occupant of "old 12," but last fall the guards repossessed it, and Nurdy Hoffman, now an assistant coach, won an All-America berth.

PAWNEES BEAT ACES

The North End Pawnees scalped the Baldwin Paint Shop Aces Saturday morning at Hickey's Grove 6-0. The Pawnees lone score came in the first quarter when McCarthy received the ball on the kickoff and with the fine interference of Switkita and Willis made a 90 yard run for a touchdown. The Aces made a big bid for a tie game with 2 minutes to play. The Pawnees line then tightened and took the ball on downs to end the game. Switkita starred in the defense for the pawnees. It was Switkita's fine work that went a long way to keep the Aces from scoring.

DONALD MCGRAW FRIENDLY FEUD RENEWED OCT. 15

Mentors of Detroit and Holy Cross To Meet Again When Teams Clash On Gridiron.

Detroit, Oct. 4.—When the University of Detroit football squad meets Holy Cross at Worcester, Mass., on Oct. 15, a friendly rivalry that has lasted since 1908 will be renewed between Charles E. "Cus" Dorais, Detroit coach, and John J. McEwan, Holy Cross mentor.

It all started when McEwan scouted Dorais when that young fellow was playing quarter for a high school squad. McEwan sent him to Minnesota for a tryout, but he proved too light. Young Dorais packed up his grip and left for Notre Dame, where he turned out to be one of the best quarters ever developed there.

In his senior year Dorais, captain of the Irish, took the team east and drubbed the Army. McEwan played center for the cadets.

More than a decade passed before the two met again. Detroit, coached by Dorais, played the Army, coached by McEwan, four times, and got four drubbings.

Now the two meet again. McEwan is coach of Holy Cross, and the tangle between the two teams ought to be interesting. It looks as though Dorais has a chance to avenge those four defeats at the hands of the McEwan-coached Army.

Local Sport Chatter

Old rivalries will be renewed Saturday, when Manchester High school meets its most important football enemy in the C. C. I. L., namely, Bristol. The game will be played in Bristol.

Judging by last Friday's game against Middletown, Coach Tom Kelley's charges are yet a bit uncertain and shaky, but extensive practice sessions this week should put the squad in shape for the battle Saturday. Bristol was victorious last year by a score of 13 to 0, and then Manchester had the indomitable Squatrito. Bristol had played two games this year, losing the first to the Alumni, 7 to 0, and winning the second from East Hartford, 15 to 7.

East Hartford seems to have all the makings of a fine team this year. The defeat in Bristol was lucky for Bristol, as East Hartford failed to within a few minutes of the end of the game. It was Gurski who made a brilliant run to place his team in position for the winning tally.

Following Saturday's game, Manchester meets Meriden High in Meriden Friday, October 14. East Hartford comes here on the following Friday, October 21.

West Hartford opened its season last Saturday with a 30-0 League game against Stafford Springs, winning 13 to 0. West Hartford plays here on October 23.

Bulkeley High, beaten by East Hartford last week, came back Saturday to defeat Crosby High, 8 to 0. Bulkeley will play Manchester here on Saturday, November 6.

Hartford High, to which Manchester bowed 20-3 in the season's opener, continued its winning ways Saturday by trouncing Springfield Central, 20 to 0.

WEST SIDES PRACTICE

The West Side football squad will hold an important practice tonight at 6:30 at the West Side Y.M.C.A. There will be a short meeting after the practice and all members of the squad are requested to be present.

BUTTS' ARM INJURED

New York, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Babe Ruth's right arm, bruised by a pitch from Guy Bush in Sunday's game with the Chicago Cubs was still so swollen and painful today that the babe called off a planned golf game.

Ruth expects no permanent ill effects from the bruise but said he planned to take things easy for a few days.

For the first time since maroon was adopted as the University of Chicago's color in 1894, the football team this fall will wear other than solid maroon jerseys. White, with maroon arm strips, is the new color scheme.

NOTRE DAME'S GRID TEAM REALLY IRISH THIS YEAR

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 4.—(AP)—When the Notre Dame eleven is referred to this year as the "fighting Irish," the statement really will be less than 46 per cent correct.

But players of Irish extraction predominate. Of the 110 players on the roster, 30 are all-Irish, 50 are German-Irish, and eight others classified as French-Irish, Italian-Irish, Bohemian-Irish, American-Irish, Scotch-Irish, English-Irish and Canadian-Irish bring the total of sons of the old sod to 98.

The rest of the team is divided among 23 nationalities, Germans taking second place with 18 members, beside the six Ger-

HORNER-SINKUS BOUT LEADS CARD TONIGHT

Indoor Boxing Season Starts In Rockville—Good Card For the First Night.

With the opening of the indoor amateur bouts at the Town Hall in Rockville tonight fans by the hundreds are awaiting the opening of the doors, and for the first bout to take the floor. Never has such a fine array of amateur boxers ever been assembled on one complete card as tonight's show.

Best talent in the glove throwing game have been picked by George to take part in this grand opening show of shows. Connecticut and Massachusetts cities have already filed entries with the cream of each team chosen.

The feature return bout will bring together some other than Jackie Horner of Broad Brook and Charlie Sinkus of Worcester. Little need be said about the action that will be seen, when these two boys clash again, as those witnessing their first meeting are well aware of the fighting ability of each.

Joe Suloto of Hartford who has been hankering for a return bout with Bobby Michaels gets his wish tonight as Suloto's opponent in the main event will be the latter's former All-Manchester end for two years while Squatrito received honorable mention, is now preparing to return to his old home.

Setting Frenchy of Rockville returns to the wars tonight meeting Henry Walsh of Hartford. Jerry Vary of New Britain is down to box Romeo Dube of Holyoke in a bout that should be sensational.

The under card to the bouts mentioned will bring together such boys well known for their fighting ability as Al Pinkham, Holly Mann, Freddy Moran and Tony Fantele of Hartford. Ten fast all star bouts await the fan at the Rockville Town Hall tonight and all present will witness a show that will long be remembered for the thrilling fighting and evenly matched bouts seen.

The doors will be opened at the Hall at 7:00 p. m. with the first bout at 8:30.

Wait Holmer and Mickey Erickson played football together not only three years at Northwestern, but four years before that in high school and three post-graduate seasons in pro football.

Billy Holmes, 19-year-old Shan rock, Tenn., golfer, is the new holder of the Caprock golf title.

Eli Meet Chicago This Saturday and Tigers Play Columbia; Both Games a Real Test; Other Contests.

New York, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Princeton's new football regime will undergo its first real test this Saturday when the Tigers meet the Columbia outfit. Still in the elementary stages of a new football system taught by H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, the Tigers have small hopes of whipping the New Yorkers, but they expect to put up a creditable performance at least.

Critics who watched the Tigers beat Amherst last Saturday said they were at least two weeks behind Columbia in point of development. They thought Crisler, called from Minnesota to lift Princeton out of the football doldrums, had done much but that plenty remains to be accomplished.

Yale To Be Watched Another member of the one-time "Big Three," Yale, will be watched with considerable interest. The little Bates last week, are looked against Alonzo Stagg's Chicago Maroons next Chicago with what looks like the best team Stagg has developed in years, should make all kinds of trouble for Old Eli, unless May Stevens, however, can demonstrate a class superior to that which Bates stopped without much trouble.

The absence of Bob Lanister undoubtedly removed some of the potency from Eli's offensive and they may do better with the position in his customary position at left halfback.

Other Grid Duels These two games perhaps will arouse more general interest, but from a competitive standpoint the duel between Fordham and Princeton probably will attract the most attention. Princeton is in the most grueling sort of action and both look powerful again this year.

The Dartmouth-Colgate game at Hanover is another that promises close action and New York U. may give a hard fight, though the Varsity will be strong favorites.

Eli's Practice

New Haven, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Weaknesses in signal drill and formation that appeared in the Water game were corrected in the Eli coaches as preparation for the Chicago game next Saturday started.

An hour's lecture yesterday was substituted for a hard workout. Afterward the varsity ran through a light signal drill and dummy drill. A new lineup, using Chicago plays defeated the second team 7-4 in a 20-minute scrimmage.

Lanister remained out of yesterday's signal drill, although it was expressed he would be back tomorrow. Jack Killebrew, reserve right tackle, who remained out of early season practice because of examination, was promoted to the varsity. He was a reserve right tackle last year.

FUNTS AND FASSES

By the Associated Press.

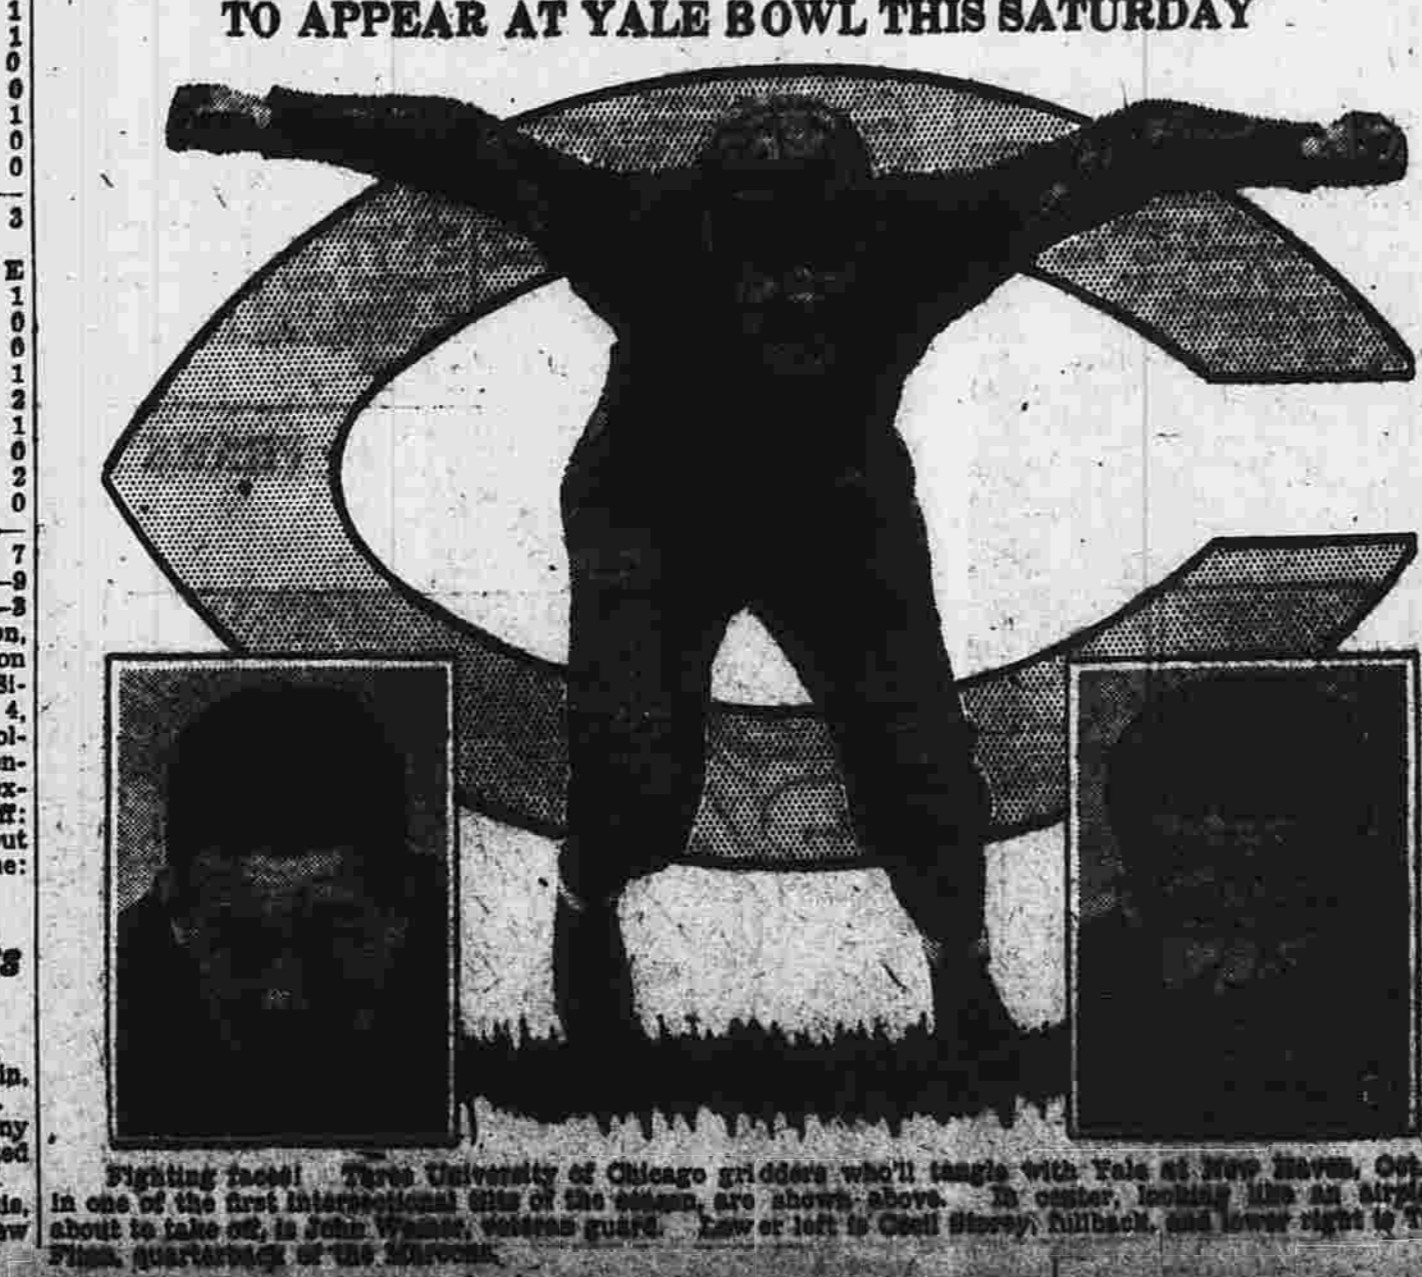

Hanover—Head Coach Jackson Cannon has distributed square-toe shoes to his Dartmouth players. They've been using pointed toes and missing most of the extra points after touchdowns, so Cannon decided on a change in equipment.

Cambridge—Jack Crispard, one of Harvard's best halfbacks, is giving football the "go by" just now. He is working out with his teammates in preparation for an examination. George Lewis will decide whether or not he will be eligible for football.

New York—It's a far cry from 1900 and the first New York University-Rutgers game which Rutgers won 72 to 0. The New Jersey school hasn't beaten N. Y. U. since 1903.

West Point—Army, expecting to take Carleton in its stride this week, is aiming at the encounter with Pitt's great eleven October 13. The Cadets took a 25 to 0 beating from the Panthers last year and hope for revenge.

Billy Holmes, 19-year-old Shan rock, Tenn., golfer, is the new holder of the Caprock golf title.

HIGH SCHOOL TENNIS

The semi-finals of the High School tennis tournament are being played this afternoon.

By FRANK BECK

Well, he could have been trained real well and he could throw a lasso well.

They watched his long rope fly through the air, trusting it would catch most anywhere.

"Oh, try again," cried Dunoy. "We are getting dinky as can be from bumping on this flat car."

"Hurry," cried Wooley. "This is good! This you will succeed with!"

And then they heard a sudden thump. The rope had landed on the stump.

They shortly found that the line of rope soon pulled too tight if jerked the speeding flat car.

Before the Tynymites could do a single thing, right off they flew. The lasso stung that Sooty pulled had not turned out so well.

"Yes, I was dumpy," he shouted. "Why, I should have known I was off!"

"I'm sorry we were all thrown out of the lasso. I would catch most anywhere."

"I'll say you have," said Dunoy. "When that lasso snapped, we were all trapped."

"How I wish I could see you at our next meeting. I'll be right here, now I look around."

They shortly found that the line of rope soon pulled too tight if jerked the speeding flat car.

You can say one thing for a crooner... he takes up radio time that might be used for a political speech.

Helen—You mean to tell me that Harold just sat here all evening with his arms folded?

It might help some, too, if instead of waiting for prosperity to turn the corner, we hustled around the corner to meet it.

Teacher—Jimmie, can you tell me how matches are made?
 Jimmie—No, ma'am, but I don't blame you for asking.

Teacher—What do you mean?
 Jimmie—Well, my mother says you have been trying to make a match for 30 years.

A fellow who lives on charity provided by the city had an offer of a job the other day, but he passed it up, stating he preferred to remain independent.

First Man—Rather a sharp thunder storm last night.
 Second Man—I hadn't noticed. I was talking with my wife all evening.

The congregation of a little church gave a Free Will gift of $50 to their minister who had just been initiated into the glories of parenthood. Before the services began, one deacon whispered to another, "I'll bet he thanks God for the money before he does for the baby." The minister arose to pray, "Our Father," he said, "We thank Thee for this timely succor which Thou hast sent us."
 The deacons don't know who won.
