

CIVIL WAR IS RAGING THROUGHOUT CHINA

Manchuria Also Scene of Up-risings — Hundreds of Thousands of Soldiers Gathering On Many Fronts

Shanghai, Oct. 11. — (AP) — North, South, East and West, hundreds of thousands of soldiers waged civil war and rebellion throughout China and Manchuria today from the northern border of Manchuria to the province of Fukien on the south and from western Szechuan province to Shantung on the east.

There were reports also of an insurrection in Peiping is located. These reports were based on a sudden appearance from retirement of General Feng Yu-hsiang, the "Christian general" who recently went from his retreat in Shantung to Kalgan, west of Peiping.

This gave rise to a report he is attempting to gather together the military leaders of the Northwest for a drive against Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang, former Manchurian war lord, at Peiping, to regain control of north China.

In the province of Szechuan approximately 250,000 soldiers are involved in the struggle for power among the military groups. The fighting is centered around Chengtu, the provincial capital and, together with the other troubles, is the cause of considerable uneasiness among National government officials at Nanking.

Entire village were reported burned by troops of both sides. It is feared that large stocks of linen and thread in the hands of up-country workers in that center of the lace and embroidery trade have been seized.

In Manchuria the Japanese were directing two campaigns in the north and the south against Chinese insurgents and against the regime of Henry Pu Yi at Changchun. The drive in the south was directed against 30,000 insurgents while in the north around Manchouli on the Soviet border another large force of insurgents has seized most of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

SEWELL AVERY ENDS HIS LIFE IN APARTMENT

Son of Wealthy Chicago Financier Was Despondent Over Ill Health — Had Turned On Gas.

Chicago, Oct. 11. — (AP) — Sewell L. Avery, Jr., son of the chairman of Montgomery Ward and Company was found dead in their apartment today of asphyxiation.

Avery was 31 years old, oldest child and only son of the manufacturer and financier. He was the manager of United States Cypsum Company, of which his father is president.

A policeman called to the Lake Shore Drive apartment this morning found young Avery dead in the library, gas pouring from a fire log in the grate.

Today was the 33rd anniversary of the wedding of his parents, who were predeceased by the tragedy. Young Avery's mother was the former Hortense Wisner of Pontiac, Mich., his father, besides heading the two big corporations, has become one of Chicago's foremost public leaders as head of Mayor Amberg's civic advisory committee.

For several months young Avery, suffering from nervous collapse and heart affliction, had been under the care of a physician. The butler, Joseph Sustek, found the young man's body, clad in pajamas. He summoned a policeman and an inhalator squad was rushed to the apartment at 208 Lake Shore Drive, but Dr. David Cleveland of the nearby Passavant hospital said Avery had been dead at least ten minutes before he was found.

From the position of the body, the police said it was apparent Avery had turned out the one firelog that had been burning, "heated forward in the lounge chair and against the gas on in both logs. As the gas overcame him he toppled from the chair, his head falling against the still hot log which burned his jaw and lips.

Lieut. Geary of the inhalator squad said he would report the death as suicide while despondent. "The National elections had been held in July to my personal belief that the nation would have experienced the calamity of a Democratic victory. Today, though conditions are still serious, they are gradually improving. Voters are recovering their equilibrium and are beginning to examine with a critical eye some of the glittering promises of the opposing political party. They now realize that what these gentlemen offer is only a series of beautiful words."

IMPROVING CONDITIONS HELPING REPUBLICANS

Col. Payne Says If Elections Had Been Held in July Democrats Would Have Won — Far Different Now.

Stockbridge, Mass., Oct. 11. — (AP) — Colonel Frederick H. Payne, assistant secretary of war, who believes the nation would have experienced a Democratic victory if the National elections had been held in July, today saw a Republican victory in November.

Reports from all parts of the country, he told a Republican rally "lead me to believe that the situation today is by no means as serious as it appeared two months ago."

BACON ADDRESSES 'THE AVERAGE MAN'

Bay State Candidate Appeals To Those Interested In Family Affairs.

Stockbridge, Mass., Oct. 11. — (AP) — Gaspard G. Bacon, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, today addressed an appeal to the "average man and woman" who is intensely concerned with the welfare and happiness of his or her own family.

"This thinking individual," he told those attending a Republican rally here, "who makes up the bulk of our people, has been through hard times. x x x He has been extraordinarily patient and has accomplished little. He has not lost his confidence or his faith, but he is in the mood to analyze and appraise issues and candidates, unswayed by the extravagant claims of would-be officeholders, and perfectly capable of separating fact from froth."

Bacon outlined the record of John N. Garner, Democratic vice presidential nominee, as speaker of the National House. He called attention to the Democratic assault on the so-called Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act and said: "x x x But the tariff bill as passed by them (the Democrats) last winter did not lower a single rate."

"We have but to read the nominations of responsible Democrats," Bacon said. "There is no more serious and more far-reaching Democratic political writer than Frank E. Kent of the Baltimore Sun. In the things Mr. Garner saved had gone through, Kent said, 'the masses would have been sunk in a financial quagmire from which it would be well nigh impossible to extricate them.'"

GUARD SPIKES PLOT TO FREE MADDEN LIFER

Lefty McConnell in Another Attempt To Escape State Prison — New Britain Men Involved, On Trial Today.

A jar of salts containing finely tempered jeweler's saws intended for Michael J. (Lefty) McConnell, one of the five thugs given life sentences for the murder of Captain William F. Madden at the Cheney silk mills here in 1919, has led to the discovery of a plot to free several criminals at the State Prison in Waterbury. The scheme, engineered by McConnell who escaped in 1928 only to be captured again four years later, involved two New Britain brothers, one of whom is in prison and the other now faces a likely term for his part in the affair.

Guard's Clever Work Clever work on the part of a prison guard, posing as a friend of McConnell, led to the clues which last night involved Albert Mankus, a prisoner serving a two to four years term for theft of an automobile, and his brother, Adolph, who lives at 380 North Burritt street in New Britain. Through the Mankus brothers, McConnell communicated with members of the notorious Coney Madden gang in New York and it was through their aid the saws were obtained.

Suspicion was first attracted by the intimacy of McConnell and Albert Mankus during the prison recreation periods. This brought them under surveillance and was rewarded August 31 when the "lifer" reputed to be a member of the Madden gang in New York, made his first overture to the prison guard, Waterbury. The report was relayed to Warden Charles S. Reed who ordered even greater vigilance. All visitors were refused permission to see McConnell with the exception of

MRS. MONKS FACES LONG PRISON TERM

Wife of Wealthy Boston Man Charged With Passing Worthless Checks.

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 11. — (AP) — A sentence of two to twenty years in San Quentin prison today faced Mrs. Antoinette Monks, wife of a prominent Boston family. A Superior Court jury late last night convicted her of two counts of issuing fictitious checks. She will be sentenced Friday.

Winston-Salem, N. C., Oct. 11. — (AP) — Libby Holman Reynolds, under indictment on a charge of murdering her millionaire husband, Smith Reynolds, here June 8, was revealed today as a bondholder in North Carolina, a benefactor of its charities and a lenient creditor.

The revelations came with the filing of letters in the files of J. J. Whitehurst, county auditor of Casart, and made public today in the Winston-Salem Sentinel.

Before the marriage, the letters showed, her father, Alfred Holman, of Cincinnati, the actor as her attorney, wrote the Casart county auditor, inquiring about interest on $5,000 bonds owned by his daughter.

Appraised of economic distress in Casart county at that time, the then Libby Holman authorized her father to compromise. County Auditor Whitehurst advised her to wait, however, and she was so impressed when full payment came that she sent $25 to county charities in Casart and Casart.

The correspondence between Holman and Whitehurst revealed, the Sentinel says, that Holman, asked that the name of his daughter not be revealed as, he was quoted, she often made "anonymous gifts to charity."

AMERICA REPULSES RAID ON DOLLAR

All Declines Suffered Last Week Recovered — Further Gold Drain Unlikely.

New York, Oct. 11. — (AP) — Another ill-fated raid on the American dollar apparently has been repulsed, causing considerable confusion to foreign speculators who last week sold the dollar short.

Action of the principal foreign exchanges shows that virtually all declines suffered last week in dollar terms of European gold currencies were recovered at the start of this week.

Bankers attributed the setback of the international speculators to a growing realization that, however difficult was the situation in this country when it was called on early this year to ship gold to Europe, the dollar today more firmly moored to the gold standard than ever.

Bankers estimate that total foreign balances here do not exceed $500,000,000, a sum which is less than usually is kept on deposit in this country by foreign banks and financial interests. American balances in the principal European gold countries somewhat exceed it, it is estimated, the $500,000,000 figure.

The flow of gold continues westward in favor of America. Last week, American monetary gold stocks increased another $10,309,500. In yesterday's daily gold statement of the Federal Reserve bank of New York, a further addition of $1,065,100 was reported.

Since June 15, when the low point of American gold stocks was reached at $3,908,000,000, the American supplies of monetary metal gold had increased to $4,201,000,000 of Oct. 8. This was a gain of $292,000,000.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 11. — (AP) — Testimony corroborating the claim of Robert Blake, a state witness, that he sought to arrange a suicide story to explain the death of Arthur Malfreft was given by defense witnesses at the murder trial of two former prison guards today.

James Birmingham, a convict and third witness for the defense, told the jury he was approached by Blake, who was head trustee at the Sunbeam camp, and was asked if he would join in the plan to fix up the suicide story.

Harry Schneider, another convict, already had testified he saw Malfreft "make a motion like he was going to shoot."

A fourth group subscribed $147,788.90 in September 1929 for common stock at $100 and convertible $5 preferred at $100, resulting in a net profit of $1,000,000. The group was paid in full on the subscriptions.

Major General James G. Harbord is scheduled to preside at the meeting of the National War Relievement Association, which will be held in New York City on Oct. 13.

Code Message Informed Power Magnate To See Sir Basil Zaharoff, Called the Richest Man In Europe; Has Been Power In Greece For Years — Insult At Zenith of Career Received Yearly Salary of Half Million Dollars.

Chicago, Oct. 11. — (AP) — While Samuel Insull, former public utility magnate was under technical arrest in Athens, pending extradition proceedings in connection with indictments in Chicago for larceny and embezzlement, his former salary was discussed in Federal Court today.

His total pay from various utility companies he headed was said to have been a half million dollars a year at the zenith of his career. Now he is recipient of a pension of $21,000 annually from the three large operating companies of his interests which are solvent.

Insull has said that he lost entirely his fortune of $100,000,000 when his holding companies were wrapped in the depression. His former affluence evidently had made him a friend of the richest man in Europe, Sir Basil Zaharoff, for in one of the coded cables sent him during his exodus from France to Greece, he was advised to see Sir Basil if he "thought wise."

Zaharoff, now 80 years old, has been a power in Greece for many years, although he holds titles in Great Britain and is said to have been naturalized in France. He is a man of mystery but is said to have made his fortune from munitions.

Disclosures of the salaries of Insull company executives were made in a hearing before U. S. District Judge Walter C. Lindley. Oliver E. McCormick, president and treasurer of Middle West Utilities, was the principal witness.

Questioned by attorneys for the receivers, McCormick testified Samuel Insull received $50,000 a year as chairman of Middle West.

"I have been given to understand," McCormick said, "that the administration of his various corporations close to half a million dollars."

Other witnesses testified that he then gave other executive salaries he knew: Harry Reid, president of National Electric Power Company, New York $20,000; Martin Insull, president Middle West Utilities $100,000; Samuel Insull, Jr. vice chairman, $10,000; Walter S. Wyman, Augusta, Me., president New England Public Service Company, $50,000; Marshall Sampson, former president of Central Illinois Public Service Company, $35,000; McCormick's own salary $16,000.

Other witnesses advised Judge Lindley they thought $100,000 a year would be fair compensation to each receiver of Middle West Utilities.

Samuel Insull, Jr., vice chairman of Middle West Utilities, Inc., now in bankruptcy, made public seven syndicates which underwrote various issues of Middle West Utilities stocks. One list of subscribers put up $5,000,000 to underwrite $9,000,000 of Middle West Utilities common stock in May 1925 at $72.50, paying in ten per cent of the subscriptions and liquidating in July 1925, with a profit of about 34 per cent on the amount paid in.

Another syndicate for $10,000,000 subscribed for $7,000,000 shares of the same stock in April 1926, paid in six per cent and profited 51 per cent.

A third syndicate subscribed $9,000,000 in September 1926 to common preferred and prior lien stocks, paid in 50 per cent and profited 90 per cent.

A fourth group subscribed $147,788.90 in September 1929 for common stock at $100 and convertible $5 preferred at $100, resulting in a net profit of $1,000,000. The group was paid in full on the subscriptions.

EX-COLLEGE HEAD COMMITS SUICIDE

Friends Say Dr. Baker Had Brooded Ever Since He Resigned Position.

Washington, Pa., Oct. 11. — (AP) — The body of Simon S. Baker, 65, former president of Washington and Jefferson college, was found in a field two miles northwest of Washington by a pipe line walker today. Police said he apparently had committed suicide.

Dr. Baker, who disappeared in Pittsburgh yesterday after leaving his home for a stroll, had been shot once through the left temple. His body was stretched out along a fence about 300 feet from a main highway. His left hand grasped a pistol.

BEER'S RETURN SOON POSSIBLE, SPEAKER AVERS

Garner Declares Volstead Act Will Be Modified By House Before March 4; Senate Action Uncertain.

New York, Oct. 11. — (AP) — Speaker John N. Garner, Democratic vice presidential candidate, said today he believed "there is a distinct possibility that there will be some form of modification of the Volstead Act to bring about the return of beer before March 4."

"My guess," the Speaker said, "is that there will be some legislation for modification of the Volstead Act when Congress meets for the short session in December."

"I believe this will happen because of the demands of the Democratic platform and the statements by Democratic Congressmen, many of whom are now up for re-election. It is practically certain that such legislation will be acted upon in the House."

The Speaker added that "of course, I can't speak for the Senate."

Before March 4 if beer is brought back by the present Congress, Garner said, "it will have to be before March 4, because this Congress dies on March 4."

WAGES OF WOMEN TOO LOW IN STATE

Department of Labor Finds Needle Workers Can Barely Live On Amount.

Hartford, Oct. 11. — (AP) — Of 7,631 women employed in the needle trade by 106 firms in Connecticut, 5,140 or 67.3 per cent, earned less than $10 a week according to a report compiled by Miss Helen Wood, industrial investigator for the State Department of Labor. This amount is less than estimated by three recent estimates of living costs that would apply to the expenses of employed women, and considered by the investigator as far from adequate to correspond to estimated minimum living costs for single women.

Of the 106 firms reporting, 24 are from New Haven, 22 from Bridgeport and Milford; Stamford 12, Hartford and South Manchester 11, New London and Norwich 11, Norwalk 7, Derby, Ansonia and Shelton 5, Danbury and New Britain 4, Wallingford 3 and others 3.

Less Than $10 Weekly The report shows that 58.3 per cent of those employed in shirt factories earned less than $10 a week, also 41 per cent employed in children's apparel shops, 44 per cent employed in the manufacture of women's underwear and 49.5 per cent engaged in making men's furnishings.

The investigator for the State Department of Labor, to determine the standard of living of the worker found that the claimed higher earnings during the busy season did not compare with the earnings in normal and sub-normal periods. It is also found that of 4,793 women reporting, 18.6 per cent worked less than six months with a firm and 45.3 per cent worked less than two years.

JENKINS MEMORIAL DEDICATED TODAY

New Haven, Oct. 11.—(AP)—A memorial to a man whose life work was the development of the science of agriculture—Edward Hopkins Jenkins, was dedicated today in the form of a new laboratory at Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station. The institution is one which Dr. Jenkins developed from very small beginnings, creating in it departments which have played a large part in the growth of the farming and dairying industries in Connecticut.

Dr. Jenkins began as a chemist at the station in 1875 as a part of Wesleyan University. He was director emeritus of the station at the time of his death last November. He had, however, seen the beginnings of the structure which today was formally given his name.

The tablet which bears the dedicatory inscription was unveiled by Dr. E. M. Bailey the station chemist.

Dr. East, in his tribute to Dr. Jenkins, characterized him as foremost among scientists in the fields of agricultural research. He attributed to him many important investigations in agricultural chemistry and agronomy, and extolled him as an admirable pilot for the experiment station staff, the personification of honor, uprightness and truth, and a noble gentleman.

Mrs. Marcel Donze of 75 Oxford street has extended the use of her home for a depression card party for the benefit of the American Legion auxiliary. The social will be held Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Any reserve games may be played and members are urged to make up their own tables. It will be all-pivot with prizes at each table. Mrs. Donze will be assisted by the president, Mrs. Ida Woodhouse; Mrs. J. H. McVeigh, Mrs. Elizabeth Olds, Mrs. Edward Hess and Miss Lillian Finnegan.

MINSTREL AT ST. MARY'S PARISH HALL TOMORROW

Place of Presentation Changed From High School Hall To Church Parish Hall.

The ways and means committee of St. Mary's Men's Bible Class, which is sponsoring the minstrel by St. Monica's choir of Hartford tomorrow evening, has changed the place for the entertainment from High School hall to the Parish hall of St. Mary's Episcopal church. Those who have already bought tickets, bearing the words, High School Hall, are urged to keep in mind the change of hall.

The choir has appeared here on previous occasions. There are several excellent soloists, and a minstrel by all-colored folks in costume is a difficult proposition to beat.

Members of the Girls' Friendly society are assisting the Bible class in disposing of the tickets, and it is their aim to fill the parish hall to overflowing. Admission of children is priced very low so that families can attend.

REGISTRARS SWAMPED BY WOULD-BE VOTERS

Applications Come Into Registrars Today Rapidly—Last Chance To Apply This Year.

With the time limit for filing applications to-be-made voters set for 5 o'clock this afternoon, the Registrars were almost swamped with applicants today. Registrar of Voters Vetch said this afternoon that he thought the number of new voters filing to be made this fall may amount with the late registration election when all records for making voters were broken.

Those who have filed today will be given the electors oath by the Board of Selection and the Town Clerk Saturday, October 22. There is a possibility that an extra session will be arranged for Wednesday, October 19, to complete the long list of would-be voters for the presidential election.

The hours for the two Saturday sessions of the electors board will be from 9 a. m. until 3 p. m., each day, but this is the last for filing applications.

Y. M. C. A. OBSERVING ITS FOUNDER'S DAY

Program To Be Held At Local Institution Tonight—Opportunity To See Building.

Mrs. C. R. Burr, chairman of the committee of decorations at the Y. M. C. A. building where the Founders' Day program is to be held this evening, said that in the early days there will be assistants getting decorations in place and all the force of the "Y" was busy with other details for the general welcome to be given to all Manchester people to inspect the Y. M. C. A. building and what is to be offered there will be exhibitions given of the different games that can be played in the building. An address on the life of George Williams, the Englishman, who was the founder of the "Y" movement, the occasion marking the birth of the Y. M. C. A., will be delivered by the secretary of the Tolland County Y and Wells A. Strickland, president of the Manchester Y. M. C. A., with its international connection will be brought out.

Mrs. W. D. Crockett will explain the part that in the early days the women and what they can accomplish in the work that is offered in the building.

Several baskets of chrysanthemums, orchid dahlias, roses and other flowers were brought to the meeting last evening, some of which will remain for the Founders' day celebration at the Y. M. C. A. tonight. Mrs. R. K. Anderson introduced to the gathering the new Y secretary, Everett G. Simonds, and Mrs. Simonds. The latter joined the Girls' Club tonight.

Information is desired as to the date and place of his next, and the names and addresses of his relatives or any information which would assist in establishing Curran's residence. Any information in this connection should be given to the town clerk for forwarding to the Interior Department.

U. S. Department of Interior Asking For Information About Former Government Patient.

Town Clerk Samuel J. Turkington has received an inquiry from the U. S. Department of the Interior asking for information relative to one Walter Curran who is now in the Federal Government hospital in Washington, D. C. The Department has little information about Curran who is supposed to have resided in this town.

COMMUNITY PLAYERS' REHEARSAL OMITTED

On account of the Founders' day celebration this evening at the Y. M. C. A. the usual Tuesday evening rehearsal of the play, "It Pays to Advertise," will be omitted tonight. Tomorrow, Thursday and Friday evenings full rehearsals of the comedy will take place at the Y.

Through the efforts of Manager Joseph Standley of the Community Players, the High school orchestra, under the direction of Harold Turkington, will furnish music at the time of presentation, Wednesday, October 19, at the Whiton Memorial auditorium. Mr. Standley has also secured permission from the Walter Baker company to give a matinee of the royalty play at 4 o'clock on the 19th at the auditorium. This performance will be open at a nominal fee to all public school children, including those in High school who wish to attend. The cast of men and women readily consented to this arrangement for the benefit of the children.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Janet Tracy of 114 North Main street and Mrs. Sarah Tracy of 136 North School street were admitted yesterday.

Mrs. Louise Kellogg Gives Entertaining Talk Before Garden Club Members Last Night.

Mrs. Louise Kellogg, well known judge of flower exhibits and lecturer on horticultural subjects, who was called upon to address the Manchester Garden club at its meeting last evening at the Y. M. C. A. on short notice, gave an instructive verbal review of a whole library of garden books and magazines which she brought with her for the occasion.

Mrs. J. R. Lowe, president of the club, appointed the following nominating committee to bring in a list of officers at the annual meeting in November: Mrs. J. Taylor, chairman; Mrs. W. J. Williams, secretary; Grace Robertson, and for auditing committee, Mrs. W. W. Bella and Mrs. C. R. Burr.

Mrs. Clifford Cheney gave a report of the splendid cooperation given her by the members of the local club on the occasion of the recent flower and fruit market by the Connecticut Horticultural society in Hartford last month. Mrs. Cheney in behalf of the committee members extended their appreciation of the generous gifts of flowers from Manchester nurserymen and from private gardens, as well as donations of sandwiches and other refreshments sold to swell the fund.

The secretary, Mrs. Mabel Rogers, read a letter of thanks from the directors and staff of the South Manchester Free Public Library, for the beautiful flowers furnished at the time of opening to the public the new library in the School street Recreation Center building. W. E. Buckley, who was appointed to attend to the floral decoration of the new library, met with generous response to his appeal for flowers from members' gardens.

FIGHT OVER WILL IN SUPREME COURT

Money Left To Church Which No Longer Holds Services; Other Cases.

Hartford, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Action to determine who will receive certain money left under the will of Cornelius B. Erwin of New Britain, who died March 25, 1885, was brought today in the Supreme Court of Errors.

In the will $8,000 was bequeathed to the First Baptist church of Oak Bluffs, Martha's Vineyard, Mass., of which $1,000 was to be used for general purposes and $2,000 was to be held as a permanent fund. The income from this was to be used for the benefit of the Sunday school library of that church.

The First Baptist church of Oak Bluffs, however, has ceased to hold religious services, no longer maintains a Sunday school, and has abandoned its Sunday school library. The Hartford National Bank Trust Company trustee for the Erwin estate, has brought suit against the church and other beneficiaries to obtain the advice and direction of the court in the performance of its duty.

Appeal to the Supreme Court was made by the New Britain Institute. The appeal of the case of Dennis P. Sullivan against George S. Willis, treasurer of the town of Shelton was before the court. Action arose after the town assessors whose salary is $200 a year, had been paid $1,700 each for revaluing town property in 1929. The plaintiff claims the city charter provides no salaries can be raised during a term of office, and that the assessors are required to revalue the town once every ten years.

Other cases before the court were: Charles Andrews against Ferdinand Anagnost and Frank Wago against Ferdinand Anagnost and Fairfield County, arising from a motor vehicle accident on the Post road in Fairfield.

Carmela Uva, administratrix, and others against Jerry G. Alony, Fairfield county, arising from a motor vehicle accident in which Joseph Uva, employed by the city of Stamford, was killed. The city paid compensation to six children of Carmela and Joseph Uva, and following the payment of $5,750 damages by Alony, driver of the automobile which caused the death, the city has sought to receive a judgment for compensation payments made or due.

John Taylor against the town of Darien, Fairfield county, an appeal by the defendant from the Superior Court.

SWEAT BOX TRIAL IS NEARING JURY

ing to hang himself" while in the sweat box. Schneider related that after the youth was found dead, Blake came to him and asked if he would tell about Mallefer's "motion."

Guard Notified

Schneider said the "motion" consisted of Mallefer dropping from his room on the chain and that George W. Courson, one of the defendants, was notified. When the door of the sweat box was opened, the imprisoned youth was dead, and the witness about what he had seen.

Birmingham asserted that when Blake came to him, "I told him I didn't want anything to do with it."

"Blake wanted me to say I saw Jersey (Mallefer) make the signs," he added.

C. A. Avriett, of the defense counsel, who had called the witness "on behalf of the defendant Courson," looked up quickly as Birmingham admitted he had been approached by Blake.

He then began asking the convict questions about what he had seen when they brought Mallefer back to camp after he had attempted to escape from a barrel.

FEW FILING PROPERTY LISTS WITH ASSESSORS

Urge Property Owners To Get Them In Now To Avoid Last Minute Rush At Office.

The Board of Assessors is stressing the necessity of prompt filing of tax lists for the year. To date a very small number of lists have been submitted with only three weeks left to complete this matter before the 10 per cent penalty is charged against each taxpayer. It is necessary for the taxpayer to bring his motor vehicle registration to the Assessor's office for proper listing of his car.

LOYAL CIRCLE, KING'S DAUGHTERS, MEETS

Loyal Circle of King's Daughters held its annual meeting last evening, with an attendance of 30. Mrs. J. A. Hood, leader of the circle since its organization in 1911, was re-elected, and as she was ill unable to be present at the meeting a letter of sympathy was sent to her, signed by every one of the daughters present.

Mrs. Rollin Hill, former secretary, who is a leader of junior circles, declined re-election as secretary and Mrs. Charles K. Peterson of North Elm street was elected to fill that office. Miss Mildred Hutchinson remains as treasurer, Mrs. Amesley Trotter as chairman of work and Mrs. William Keen, chairman of the Ways and Means committee. A social time followed the business and refreshments were served.

REVENUE BUREAU ADOPTS NEW RULE

To Be More Liberal In Allow- ing Corporations To De- duct For Charity Bequests.

Washington, Oct. 11.—(AP)—A more liberal policy of permitting corporations to deduct from their gross income for tax purposes contributions to community chests and like organizations has been adopted by the Internal Revenue Bureau at the direction of David Burnet, commissioner.

Under the law, there is no provision permitting such deductions unless the corporation can show there is a direct benefit flowing to it as a result of the contribution. However, under the new ruling, the bureau permits deductions where a corporation can show that at the time it made the contribution it expected to receive a benefit commensurate with the amount.

The bureau also has had referred to it the question whether corporations which own houses in which their former employees live may include part of the rent or occupancy cost in their corporate expense.

While no serious consideration has been given to the subject, it was pointed out that corporations are entitled to write off depreciation on such houses.

Charitable Bequests

The Revenue Bureau, Burnet said in a statement, has frequently had to consider whether contributions made by corporations to community chests are deductible in income tax returns.

"The Bureau invites attention," he went on, "to the fact that there is no provision in any of the Revenue Acts which would authorize corporations in computing net income to deduct contributions to such organizations except the provisions which authorize the deduction of all the ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred during the taxable year in carrying on any trade or business."

Financial Returns

"Although it was previously held that a showing of direct benefit flowing to the corporation as a result of the contribution was necessary, it is now held that a deduction will be permissible if the taxpayer corporation can show that it reasonably contemplated a financial return commensurate with the payment and was motivated by such expectation of a financial return in making the payment."

The United States Board of Tax

Appeals in several cases where payments of this nature have been allowed as deductions has referred to evidence showing that increased business did result. Such evidence of increased business or increased profits relates to the taxpayer's expectation at the time of making the contribution.

"Some of the elements to be considered in a case of this kind would be the size of the contribution as compared with the taxpayer's business and whether such contribution or payment bore a reasonable relationship to the taxpayer's enterprise. In the treatment of these contributions it is the policy of the bureau to be as liberal as possible consistent with the statute."

VON PAPEN IN ROLE OF GERMAN PEACEMAKER

Munich, Bavaria, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Chancellor von Papen, visiting Bavaria to confer with the state officials, told Premier Heide and his colleagues today that he had come to smooth out any misunderstanding which may have arisen between the states and the National government.

"My visit," he said, "has a symbolic significance. The National government realizes that to master its difficulties it needs the united support of the whole nation, especially of those lands which have a thousand years of German culture behind them."

He emphasized that his government stands firmly for the Federalist principle, and declared that he hopes by personal contact to restore the old feeling of unity which bound the German states together.

Afterward the chancellor visited Cardinal Faulhaber and the Papal Nuncio, and later began discussions of constitutional reform.

INVITES NATURE LOVERS

Mount Carmel Conn., Oct. 11.—(AP)—The Sleeping Giant Park Association having achieved its aim of making accessible the entire length of Mount Carmel as a wilderness park and trail, today invited the public, especially nature lovers, to attend the field meeting tomorrow at that place.

The general meeting place will be the knoll back of headquarters on Mount Carmel avenue and from that point, beginning at 11 a. m. parties will be escorted to the top of the recently acquired "Head."

Luncheon will be the basket-from-home order with coffee served by the association. The annual business meeting will be at 2 p. m.

The association lost its president, Prof. James W. Toumey, who had been in office from the inception of the enterprise during the last year. He is succeeded by Arnold G. Dans, of New Haven.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

MANY GRADUATES IN HIGHER SCHOOLS

First List of Those Attending Colleges Or Other Schools Is Made Available Today.

The number of graduates of Manchester High school entering colleges or other advanced institutions of learning is about the same this year as in previous years. Principally the same colleges are represented and these consist largely of eastern schools with a smaller number choosing normal and hospital training schools as compared with other years.

Following is the list of the 44 Manchester young people who have started on their careers of advanced education. Unless otherwise indicated they are graduates of last June, 1932: Bates College, Wells Riskey, Amherst, Richard McCormick, '31; Bay Path, Dorothy Ludwig; Bentley School, William Turkington; Bucksport Seminary, Roger Cheney; Clark, Austin Johnson, '31; Connecticut Agricultural School, Max Goodstone, Bella Silverstein, Anne Tivnan, James Foley, Jane Wadach; Northeastern, Irving August; William and Mary, Dorothy Fraser, '31; Wesleyan, '29, Elena Burr, '30; Wesleyan, James O'Leary and Roger McCormack, '31; Harvard, George Marlow; Ursinus, John Lloyd; Rutgers, Stuart Walcott; Worcester P. L. Dixon Burdick; Lowell Textile, Anthony Urbanetti; Cornell, Ruth Hale; Trinity, Foster Leavitt; Brown-Pembroke, Margaret Quinn, '31; Dummer Academy, Otis Kerr; Worcester Academy, Edward Lithwinski; Wilbraham, Stillman Keith; New Britain Normal, Dorothy Hansen, Ida Reichenbach and Josephine Zokites; Danbury Normal, Anna Willie; St. Joseph's Training School, Margaret Smith, '31 and Dorothea Campbell, '31; Worcester City Hospital, Doris Turkington; Hartford Hospital, Frieda Clegg; St. Francis, Tilda Gamba, '28; Cocker School of Nursing, Eleanor Frenchie; Middlesex Hospital, Lillian Hart, '30; Cooley Dickinson Hospital, Janet Mason, '31; Morse Business, Mary Greel and Esther Tack; Cambridge Secretarial, Dorothy Hultman and Ruth Sonnicksen.

Magazine Subscription

The Magazine Subscription Campaign showed no signs of arousing much enthusiasm until this week, but then, it takes a little time for all good things to get started. It is hoped that this campaign will have excellent results as Manchester High school is depending on it to help run her athletics for the sesson. Each home room has been divided into two teams—the Red and Green which, by the way, Mr. Quinn by heads as the school leader; and the Blue and Gold team which Mr. Illing heads. Besides these two head leaders each room has elected a captain for its two teams. It is the duty of these captains to keep the room posted as to the number of subscriptions each day and to collect the money which is turned into the office. Every person, besides working for individual prizes and passes to football, baseball and basketball games also is bearing in mind the fact that the room obtaining the most subscriptions will receive a theater trip with all expenses paid.

Following is the list of captains in the main building: The Red and Green team: Esther Wells, Kathryn Mrosek, Dorothy Wengrovous, Francis Barrett, Alice Johnson, Barbara Martin, Mildred Schuetz, Dorothy Johnson, Lockhart Rogers, Urum Keeney, Francis Mahoney, Doris Johnson, Phyllis Burham, Edward Hutchinson, Helen Erickson, Susane Easton, James Williams. The Blue and Gold: Katherine Wenzler, John O'Leary, John Katkowski, Louise Anderson, Robert Vennart, Robert Knapp, Winfred Sargent, John McKeena, Horace Snow, Fred Lavey, Margaret Kerr, Kingsley French, Arthur Brown, Ruby Jarvis, John Farr, Irving Camber and Lena Wiley.

Girls' Athletics

As there is no seventh period this year it is rather a handicap for those girls who were in the habit of doing some of their homework during the last period in order that they could turn out for practice in the various sports after school. A fair number of girls from all classes, however, went to the first practice in the various sports which have started among all classes recently. As soccer is a comparatively new game it was necessary for special direction to be given during the gym classes and at that time the Charter Oak field was used.

Hockey practice is to be held every Monday night from now on and that means that all classes may turn out. It is the "Blue" and "White" team idea this year. Every girl makes a team and from these teams the best players are picked to be on either the "All Blue Team" or the "All White Team" whichever the case may be. These two teams play each other for the school championship and it is possible that a game with another school will take place although nothing definite has yet been decided. About twenty-five girls went to the first hockey practice and fifty Freshmen attended the first soccer practice on Tuesday night. Life saving classes will be held regularly this year also. Thus far there is a class of about thirty-five. All of these girls are aiming for their badges which they will undoubtedly receive under the instruction of Miss Blanche Feder, physical education instructor at the High School.

HEADS CENTRAL VERMONT

St. Albans, Vt., Oct. 11.—(AP)—S. J. Hungerford of Montreal, acting president of the Canadian National Railways, and once an employe in the St. Albans locomotive and car shops, today was elected president of the Central Vermont railway.

The election was made at a meeting by the board of directors at which two new members of the board, a general attorney and the reorganization of the executive committee were voted. Hungerford succeeded Sir Henry W. Thornton, resigned.

PLENTY OF GOOSE TO EAT.

Water Valley, Miss., Oct. 11.—(AP)—There was plenty of wild geese to eat here today.

A southbound squadron crashed as the birds, hurrying away from northern waters, flew low through fog and misty rain.

Hundreds of them flew at buildings and wires at full speed. Their frightened honking brought out the citizenry almost en masse. Scores were killed with sticks or captured barehanded.

G. O. P. CAUCUSES TODAY

Hartford, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Republicans in nearly every Connecticut town will hold caucuses today and tonight to select nominees for the State House of Representatives, justice of the peace, and probate judge. The latter will be nominated at this time only in towns which constitute a separate probate district.

The caucuses are expected to decrease the number of Republican leaders who had been planning to go to New York to hear Calvin Coolidge deliver a campaign address. However, a sizeable group will attend, it was announced at State headquarters.

Insects devour one-tenth of the world's crops.

Hartford, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The body of a man found in the Connecticut river at South Glastonbury, Sunday, has been identified as that of Oscar Poudre, 33, of Hartford, who escaped from the State hospital at Middletown a week ago. The identification was made by the man's widow. Officials expressed the opinion Poudre committed suicide.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

RIDE 'EM, COWBOY

"Nature in the Raw"—as expressed in the famous rodeo cry; inspired by the picture in the July issue of the National Geographic Magazine taken at the Ski Hi Stampede, Monte Vista, Colorado. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 11.

THE BIG SHOT

The biggest, straightest, hardest hitting shot fired by the Republican party in this campaign, not excepting the powerful and effective speech of Mr. Hoover at Des Moines, is the smashing attack delivered by the Republican National Committee on former Senator Jim Reed of Missouri, whose bitter and hateful nature and whose malicious detestation, poured out equally upon Herbert Hoover and President Wilson in war times, are ruthlessly exposed by the pitiless committee's statement.

Not in a long time has a Presidential campaign in this country been marked by such a sensational attack, by a responsible political authority on any individual, as this one. But it is absolutely justified, not only by the facts concerning the Missouriian and his chronic disloyalties and hatreds, but by the astounding circumstance that this man Reed has been deliberately chosen by Mr. Roosevelt and his managers as the leader of a major assault now being organized to be made on Mr. Hoover in an effort to offset the effects of his Des Moines address.

It was sheer good generalship for the Republican committee to anticipate the reckless and spiteful charges and misstatements that Reed was certain to make against Mr. Hoover and to prepare the minds of Reed's hearers with a right understanding of the quality and character of the man who makes them. You can't fight politicians of the Reed school by adhering to the rules of the ring. He is the kind that bites and gouges and kicks. The only way to deal with him is to hit him as often as possible with anything hard and heavy that comes handy. In this case it is his own record of foul, dirty vilification of any one whom he disliked or could not either use or bully.

Reed hated Herbert Hoover during the war because Mr. Hoover was a big man, doing a big job, as he has always hated any superior man. He squandered endless hours of valuable Senate time in senseless and malignant attacks upon him, calling forth the sternest kind of rebukes from members of his own party. He hated President Wilson because the President towered above him intellectually, morally and in every way save in a capacity for poisonous vituperation. He fought the war President at every turn until Mr. Wilson said of him "He has repeatedly forfeited any claim to my confidence that he may ever have been supposed to have and I shall not willingly consent to any further association with him." If Reed is returned to the Senate he will, of course, be a man without a party, repudiated by Democrats.

Reed was read out of his party in his own state. His departure from the Senate was welcomed by self-respecting Democratic members who felt that his presence there was a contamination.

And this is the man who is set up by Franklin D. Roosevelt to attempt to undo, in the interest of the Democratic candidate, the work that Mr. Hoover has done in the interests of the Republican party. Nothing that has transpired in the campaign, in our firm belief, is comparable to this exposure of the quality of the support on which Mr. Roosevelt relies.

Already Roosevelt has hob-nobbed with two of his "great chieftains" bitterest enemies, Senator Johnson in California and Senator Norris in Nebraska. Already he had done enough, it would have seemed, in the way of risking alienation of the Wilson Democrats—and these are most of the Democrats. Now he piles on the culminating insult to these people.

It would have been the sheerest olly for the Republican committee to do otherwise than as it has with the material so crassly placed in its very hands by the Democratic candidate and his advisers.

NOT A TRUE NORM

There is some encouragement in the statistical report of the Manufacturers Association of Hartford County, which shows that in September, for the first time in three years, there was a definite though rather slight upward trend in employment in this area.

It might not be unreasonable to point out to the association, however, that its statistical system would present greater opportunities for the stimulation of confidence—which we take to be one of the important purposes of these reports—if a shift were made in the basis of its comparisons between present employment and "normal" industrial activity. For some reason that will not be altogether clear to a good many persons the association is comparing employment in these times with "the accepted normal of January 1, 1929." By this figuring employment was shown in the latest report to be 86 per cent of "normal."

While it is probable that January 1, 1929, is a date that does not fit the very peak of employment, since there had been some falling off to jobs for a good while before the crash in the securities market, it is beyond all doubt that the country's industries were still, at that time, tremendously over stimulated and artificially expanded. There was nothing normal about 1929, 1928 or 1927; certainly not in the matter of jobs.

As a matter of fact it would take some very clever statistical work indeed to discover what date, since the war, has the right to be considered as representing an employment norm. Yet if we are going to compare, from time to time, present employment with "normal" employment, it would seem to be quite necessary that we ascertain within reasonable limits when the normal period was. Otherwise we shall be misrepresenting the present, perhaps quite unfairly to general business and to the detriment of a common understanding of the nation's problems.

We shall simply never be able to re-establish satisfactory life in this country if we continue to think in terms of the latter 1920's when we talk and speculate about normal conditions, and so long as we insist on regarding the standards of those times as something to be, somehow or other, restored. Eventually we shall, beyond doubt, climb to a still better and a happier and more wholesome set of standards than those; but it is absolutely inevitable that they will be different. January 1, 1929, is no mark to shoot at. Nor does it provide a reasonable or profitable basis of comparison as we begin the slow, steady pull up the grade. It could be wished that the Manufacturers Association might find a truer norm.

FARM TAXES, VALUES

The Middletown Press has a poor opinion of the value of a summary of taxes on farm lands that is being widely circulated throughout the country and the purpose of which is to show the rapid increase in the burden of taxation on the farmer. The Press cites the reference to Connecticut farms, which sets forth the increase per acre to have been from an average of 53 cents in 1913 to $1.61 at present, or a little more than 200 per cent. It points out that such figures are valueless, standing alone, because they ignore the increase in the value of the acreage, which it says has advanced, in about the same period, from an average of $73 to one of $150.

Grant that an increase to double in the value of farm lands offers some compensation for an increase to three times in taxation, there is one important fact that our neighbor appears to have overlooked; which is that the increase in values is theoretical while the increase in taxation is a grim and immutable fact. We wonder whether the Press got its figures from any set of records showing the actual prices at which Connecticut farmlands have changed hands, or if they come from assessors' books; whether they are merchantable values or values arbitrarily fixed for the purposes of raising taxes.

The farmer knows perfectly well how much per acre he was taxed in 1913 and how much he is taxed for the same land in 1932. But if he or anybody else knows for a fact that his land is worth twice as much as it was in 1913 he must have some source of information not available to everyone. The real value of a Connecticut farm is what somebody will pay for it. Judging by the number of them that were abandoned between 1913 and 1929 it is assuming a good deal when we take it for granted that somebody would pay twice as much for any Connecticut out across now as in the year before the World War.

We have a suspicion that the Press, if it were disposed to make some money by dealing in farm lands, might be able to pick up quite a few assorted Connecticut farms at a very considerable discount from twice pre-war prices; that, in fact, it might not have much difficulty in finding plenty of farms for which the owners would be very well pleased to realize the 1913 valuation without any increase at all.

But the little old tax rate is a definite, fixed and remorseless institution. There is no discounting that.

DIFFERENT ENDING

In a newspaper shop a new angle on an old story is always intriguing. For which reason the story of Stephen Slasko and the Reagan brothers comes like sweet water in the desert.

Slasko lives in Stratford, as do John and Joseph Reagan. So when Slasko saw the Reagans, quarreling and threatening mutual annihilation in front of a Bridgeport theatre, he felt impelled, as a fellow townsman, to become a peacemaker. He suggested that it was unseemly for brothers to quarrel, let alone fighting.

Now this is the same old story—the story of the third party who seeks to intervene in a family row. It goes on in the historic way. Both Reagans turned upon Slasko and one of them beat the other to it by smashing a bottle over the pacifier's head, putting Stephen out cold.

It is at this point that the story becomes interesting because different. Slasko did not remain out cold. He came to with surprising suddenness, arose to his feet and beat upon the Reagan brothers, separately, simultaneously and in turn until both lay unconscious on the sidewalk. Then he walked away and left the mopping up to be done by the ambulance service and the cops.

It is of no importance, relatively, that the Reagans went first to a hospital and afterward to the coop, or even that Stephen also had to go through the formality of being arrested. The high light is that this is probably the first time on record anywhere that the kindly soul who sticks his beak into a fracas between relatives didn't get all the worst of it. And may be the last.

IN NEW YORK

The Breaks, Me Boy!
 New York, Oct. 11.—There's a sentimental tale connected with the young Mr. Matt Malneck, who arranges the musical scores for Paul Whiteman's band.

Whiteman's father, you may recall, was Wilberforce Whiteman, a well known musician in the Denver school. Whiteman pere organized a student orchestra, and whenever Paul happened to be touring the West he would take time out to attend a recital of the tyros.

One night, several years ago, sitting on the platform as a guest of honor, Paul heard Matt play. Matt was a second violinist. Whiteman decided to make the youth his protégé. Matt began to write his own songs, turning out such tunes as "I'll Never be the Same" and "I'm Through With Love."

When Whiteman and his former arranger, Ferde Grofe, split up, the youngster stepped in.

The other day, I met Malneck preparing to sail for Europe with Jack Robbins, the music publisher. Whiteman and Robbins are sending him over to contact with the leading European publishers and composers. They believed they have a very important young composer "in the bag" and intend to back him to the limit.

And all because the rotund Paul chanced to stop for one of his father's concerts. It's the breaks—my lads—the breaks!

How "Maedchen" Came

Yet the newest name on Broadway is that of a magnate's son—oh yes, there are still some magnates! He is Gifford Cochran, and his daddy is a former vice-president of the U. S. Steel Corporation. He gambled with art and seems likely to win. But for some rich young man, "Maedchen in Uniform," one of the five best films this playgoer has ever seen, might never have come to America. The performance in this picture of Miss Gertha Thiele, a Berlin lassie unknown to this country, is as near perfection as anything the camera has caught. And get annoyed if you will, you can all have your Garbo. I'll take Fraulien Thiele.

It took courage and money to bring this picture to Broadway, since advance reports had said that it stressed certain aspects of a young girl's emotional life and growth. But so subtly and poignantly has the picture been filmed, that any whispered hints must be negated. It ranks with "All's Quiet on the Western Front," "Variety," "Potemkin" and such film classics.

Where to Go
 Which reminds me that Walter Chrysler, Jr., son of the auto magnate, is being groomed for an official reception committee glad handler of New York and will soon be introduced by the new Acting Mayor McKee.

ABOUT THE ONLY THING THE GOVERNMENT HASN'T DONE FOR HIM

Behind the Scenes in WASHINGTON

FEW CAMPAIGNERS WRITE OWN SPEECHES, BUT DOLLY GANN IS FIRST TO ADMIT IT.

Washington.—The time has almost come when your correspondents conceivably, under pressure, might write for me, Mrs. Gann told reporters in St. Paul—and up went a new high-water mark for candor in political utterances. Mrs. Gann was explaining why she didn't care to comment on prohibition and recent political developments; she just made prepared talks.

The point may be lost on those who suppose that politicians, from presidential candidates down the line, invariably concoct their own speeches.

All the important campaign speakers, including President Hoover and Governor Roosevelt, receive plenty of help in preparing their speeches even if the speeches are not prepared for them in entirety.

Presidential candidates are more likely to insist on inserting their own ideas and phrases than lesser campaigners, but only because theirs is the greater anxiety.

Mr. Hoover has a secretary, French Strother, who has little to do except collaborate on the presidential speeches and messages, although the chief executive often dictates the high spots. Ogden Mills helps to "whisper" a Hoover speech down with finesse.

Governor Roosevelt has a couple of university professors who work with him on his addresses and they have been receiving many compliments for the success Roosevelt has had on his western trip in avoiding "putting his foot in it."

A certain Captain Ginsburg of the War Department is famous for the Irish witticisms he puts in Secretary Hurley's speeches. Former President Coolidge once found that a "ghost" writer had copied a paragraph verbatim from an encyclopedia for a Coolidge dedication speech.

An ex-newspaperman is credited with the famous "chicken in every pot and a car in every garage" which popped out in one of Hoover's 1928 speeches. In fact, scores of public men have their speeches prepared for them—either because of a lack of ideas or lack of time.

MARVELOUS MANHATTAN

New York.—Broadway's social season got under way with the opening of the Pierrette Danante club, which stages its swanky supper dances in one of Park avenue's grand hotels.

Society has a headline representation at these Saturday night affairs, and some of the town's better known artists and writers mingle with the stage folk. The board of governors includes such names as Jeanne Aubert, Howard Chandler Christy, Walter P. Chrysler, Jr., Peggy Fears, Bert Loyal, Herbert Marshall, S. H. Rothafel, Lenore Ulric and Mrs. Julius Walsh.

One sees all of these, and dozens of other glittering characters at the dances. There's always a sprinkling of debutantes on hand.

The inevitable star-gazers and autograph-hunters hang around the doors to watch the famous come and go.

On the opening night this awestricken assemblage was treated to the sight of one of the vivacious debbies sliding down the brass rail of the grand stairway, just inside the Park avenue entrance, into the arms of her escort. Such fun!

where to go and what to see in the evenings:

George Olsen's band is moving to the New Yorker hotel. So the Pennsylvania Grill will have Roger Wolf Kahn. Emil Coleman's high hat jazz orchestra will be in the Serf Room of the Waldorf. The Pierette Club will move from the Pierre to the Waldorf for Saturday night dances. Guy Lombardo will be, as usual, at the Roosevelt. The Lido Gardens will open in the old Lido Club site. The Harry Richman is likely to have his own club again by winter. Sophie Tucker may be heard at the Paramount Grill floor show.

Gritty Girl

The road ahead looks rosy for Katherine Hepburn now, since the Broadway actress scored a Hollywood triumph in her picture with John Barrymore. But behind Miss Hepburn's screen and stage success is a story of heartbreak that only a very determined and talented young woman could have brought to such a happy sequence.

A Hartford, Conn., girl, she was graduated from Bryn Mawr and, it seemed at first, was destined to step right into Broadway prominence. She had out quite a figure in school dramatics, was possessed of undeniable beauty and an attractive personality. A Baltimore stock company manager, ambitious to make the Broadway grade himself, gave her a good part in a show he was bringing here.

Miss Hepburn played the part for one performance in a Great Neck tryout. "Amateur" as written all over her.

In the next three years she had a couple of understudy jobs, but waited in vain for an opportunity to play. When she landed roles in other productions, either she failed to make the grade herself or the show keeled over quickly.

Even in the show which finally brought her to the attention of Broadway, "The Warrior's Husband" of last season, she was dropped from the cast as un satisfactory. But it so happened that the girl who took her place was less liked by the management. Production had to be rushed. There was no time to rehearse another newcomer, so Miss Hepburn was recalled.

All at once she found herself. When "The Warrior's Husband" opened she scored a personal hit. The mark of the amateur was gone.

NECESSITY

GETTING BACK AT HER

Health and Diet Advice

By Dr. Frank McCoy

CHRONIC CATARRH MAY RESULT FROM COLDS

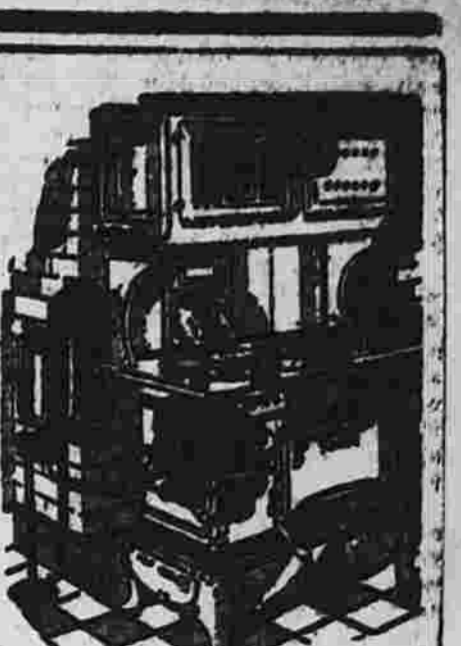

Frequent colds usually result in chronic catarrh, which is very much more difficult to get rid of than it is to prevent colds. One can usually prevent colds by avoiding becoming overtired, eating properly, obtaining normal stimulation, sleeping in plenty of fresh air and by taking some time, at least once a week, for games in the fresh air and sunlight. The cold may be considered an acute inflammation and catarrh the chronic inflammation.

Most of those who are interested in the cause and cure of catarrh have probably suffered from many colds in the past. Where chronic catarrh exists, the mucous membranes of the nose, throat, sinuses, etc., are constantly throwing out an excess of mucus, containing epithelial cells, white blood cells, and organic mineral matter. This discharge may be present in the air passages such as the nose, throat or lungs, or it may even come from the stomach or alimentary canal. There are some doctors who believe that appendicitis and inflammation of the gall-bladder, as well, comes from primary catarrh of the nose and throat. In fact, an excessive discharge of mucus in any part of the body whatever may be placed under the heading of catarrh.

The fundamental causes lying back of any of these types of chronic catarrh are always an excess accumulation in the blood of too large a quantity of material formed from the incomplete combustion of carbohydrates. These substances are acid forming and consequently lower the alkalinity of the blood. Many commercial foods are so deprived of their alkalinity that they are also acid forming and produce a lower state of alkalinity in the blood. When too large a quantity of them is eaten and there is a lack of normal elimination, these effete materials must be thrown out in some manner and the body often uses the mucous membranes as a channel for this elimination.

It is advisable for one suffering from any form of chronic catarrh to first eliminate from the diet, for a time at least, all starches and sugars so that the blood has an opportunity to get rid of the excessive amount of waste products which cannot be used in the building of normal cell structure. The body tends to eliminate these unnecessary wastes if one only gives it a chance to carry on elimination in an uninterrupted manner. I find that short fasts taken occasionally with an alkaline-forming diet in between are most satisfactory in overcoming catarrhal conditions in any part of the body, after the tendency to excessive acidity has been corrected, the blood will have a chance to regain its normal tone and functions.

At the same time that the fruit fasts are taken it is also wise to stimulate all of the other eliminative organs of the body, especially the skin, kidneys and intestines. Large quantities of water should be taken between meals and a good sweat included each day, and it is also a good plan to take for some time at least one enema daily. If the mucous membranes are very much engorged and inflamed, it is usually advisable to obtain some local treatments of them with the actinic or ultra-violet ray as this ray has a tendency to toughen and make healthy the mucous membranes. In bad cases it may take some time to bring about a complete cure but, if one will be patient with these treatments and stay on a rigid diet, a permanent and lasting cure is bound to result.

CHILE RECOVERY SPEEDED UP AS ELECTION NEARS

Santiago, Chile.—(AP)—The government is intensifying its efforts to have the nation in good economic condition before the October 30 elections, in which voters will select delegates to a convention which will write a new socialist constitution.

Continuing the government program, which previously had set September 10 as the approximate date for the elimination of unemployment in Chile, President Castillo Davila has declared "war on all economic fronts against the crisis."

Government Backs Campaign
 By a campaign of propaganda, advertising, motion picture films and mass meetings, the government expects to cut down unemployment to a minimum, increase production to a figure approximating "good times," and bolster public confidence in the peso, the latter an admittedly huge task.

Labor Minister Juan Roselli, one of the president's closest advisers, has initiated a drive for higher salaries for employees of all classes.

In itself, the move is viewed as an official admission that the peso has slumped so far that present wages are insufficient in the face of the increased cost of living.

Cabinet Enacts Speculation
 The entire cabinet is assisting the new price control board in an endeavor to eliminate speculation in prime necessities. There has been some hoarding by middlemen, and wages are insufficient in the face of the increased cost of living.

Some wheat has been purchased outright in Argentina, but the government wants to exchange wheat, nitrate and copper for wheat and other imported products.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Trying to Gain on Milk)
 Question: Miss Josephine K. writes "I enjoy reading your articles; they are interesting as well as helpful. I have been drinking milk to gain weight, a pint for breakfast, a pint at ten o'clock, at three o'clock, and before retiring. Have been drinking it this way for two months but do not seem to gain much. Do I drink enough? Do I drink it at the right hours?"
 Answer: If you take your milk along with other foods, you will only bring on some disorder because of this over-feeding. If you want to try to gain weight through taking the milk diet, it is necessary to give the milk alone. Take a glass of milk every half hour during the day which will give you about six quarts daily. If you can drink this much, you are bound to gain weight, but it might not be good weight, and may leave you after you have stopped taking the milk as fast as you put it on during the milk diet.

DEAN BAKER RESIGNS

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Dean Hugh P. Baker has resigned from the head of the New York State College of Forestry, Syracuse University, and has accepted the presidency of the Massachusetts State College at Amherst, Mass., where he will succeed Dr. Robert W. Thibault, resigned. Dean Baker made this known today.

Dr. Baker was elected to the Massachusetts post at a meeting of the trustees of the state college in Boston last Thursday night and it was regarded as probable that he would accept. His resignation was deferred, however, until he could talk the matter over with Chancellor Charles W. Flint of Syracuse University.

A NEW AND FINER ELECTRIC RANGE

Here is a range of radical new design—a range where ample table space is always right at hand—a range that saves hundreds of footsteps three times a day.

A Universal range with the famous Universal oven.

And moreover, an electric range—economical, modern, almost magical. A range that cooks with heat as clean as sunshine.

And as for price—well—when you see it you will wonder how so fine a range can be priced so low.

REED MAKES REPLY TO HOOVER CHARGES Says President's Scheme To Reduce Farm Prices Is Responsible For Slump.

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Talking from the same speaker's platform on which President Hoover recently started his campaign, James A. Reed, of Missouri, attacked the administration last night in a political speech billed as a reply to that of Mr. Hoover.

Reed charged disregard of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law by Republican administration, the Smoot-Hawley tariff and what he described as President Hoover's "scheme to reduce the price of American farm products" were responsible for present economic conditions.

The former Democratic Senator branded the President as an exploiter of foreign enterprises whose "scheme" he said was "to reduce the price of American farm products" and declared that by so doing he "laid the foundation for agricultural bankruptcy."

Reed charged that as food administrator, Hoover fixed the maximum price of wheat at $2 per bushel in the United States while in foreign countries it was selling at considerably higher prices.

Reed said that the close of the war, the farmers, instead of having accumulated money, had his notes in the bank, and his mortgages in the vaults of the mortgage company.

POPULAR MARKET'S ANNIVERSARY SALE

Manager James Bruno Promises Price Cuts Way Below Regular Market.

The Popular Market located at 855 Main street, in the Rubinow building, is observing this week, the anniversary of its first year in business.

James Bruno, manager of the Popular Market, stated today that during this week the owners of the chain of markets, of which the Popular Market is one of the leading units, in appreciation of this anniversary, will offer a new low level, forgetting profit entirely, with only the desire to obtain actual cost from their sales.

These specials will be an attempt on the part of the management of the Popular Market to express their appreciation of the ever increasing patronage received by them from the residents of Manchester and vicinity.

Parting from his prepared text Reed launched an attack on the last 12 years of Republican administration with a charge that "the Sherman anti-trust law went into the discard" at the start of the Harding administration.

20 SOVIET LEADERS EXPELLED FROM PARTY

Moscow, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The central control committee of the Communist Party today expelled twenty of its members, some of them prominent leaders of the Soviet regime since the days of the revolution.

The group included Gregory Zinoviev, former head of the Comintern and Leo Kameneff, brother-in-law of Leon Trotsky, military leader of the revolution, who is now in exile in Turkey.

The 12th "plenum" of the Comintern concluded today with a statement saying it "noted the end of the capitalist stabilization period" and predicted the imminence of fierce class struggles, culminating in wars and revolutions.

CALL of the WEST

BEGIN HERE TODAY

STAN BALL accuses ASPER DELO, timber king, of crooked practice and of having men shot who try to check up on his activities. Ball says he is making check and DeLo tells him he will personally prevent it. Upon leaving DeLo's office Ball saves DONA, DeLo's daughter, from kidnappers. He slips away when he finds who she is, telling her his name is STANLEY BLACK.

DUDLEY WINTERS, in love with Dona, goes with her to Three Rivers to persuade DeLo to abandon the fight with Ball. He tries to get her to marry him on the way as a means of getting DeLo to give up his plans. Dona narrowly escapes doing this by meeting Ball on his way to the timber camp. They find Ball accused of killing a ranger. Asper is wounded from ambush but refuses to stay in bed. Dona tells him she has just married Dudley to keep him out of the hunt.

Ball comes in for supplies and is captured by SWERGIN, DeLo's big timber boss. He escapes after hearing Dona tell her father she is Dudley's wife. Dudley insists on a real marriage but Dona holds back. She rides out to see if she can find Stanley Black, who she thinks is at Blind River. She meets him on the trail, not knowing he is Ball. He promises to rid the range of Stan Ball. On the way to camp Dona stops at a cabin and sees a glove she thinks is Stanley Black's in a Spanish girl's room.

Valuable records are stolen from the office and the clerk says Ball stole them. Asper DeLo is furious and refuses to leave with Dona and Dudley.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIV

For the first time since their arrival at Three Rivers Dona and Dudley were now aware of Swergin's seriousness in the matter of capturing Stan Ball. All night after the raid on the main office men were riding and running about on foot. Morning found the entire camp abuzz for action, with the big timber boss handing his men as he would have on a river drive.

Dudley found the whole thing intensely exciting. Dudley could not recall Folly Mountain as clean as a swept floor. Not a foot of the high country was to be left unchecked. Every brown bear, cougar and mountain sheep was to be routed out of hiding. It was a little like the small crusades. Dudley could not realize that the whole thing was not just a colorful pageant. The heavy guns and the plentiful supply of ammunition added the grim touch necessary to dispel illusions; those guns were muzzle-loaded with real powder.

Dona went to see Carter. She found him outside his office door, sunning himself. Carter was slender with a weak droop to his shoulders. He lifted a pair of colorless eyes to Dona's face as she greeted him.

"You are Mr. Carter?" "The man recognized DeLo's daughter but he did not get up. He nodded his head and continued to sun himself.

"I came to see if you were badly injured last night and to say that we are sorry. Father cannot get about just yet." Dona watched Carter rub a patchy growth of black beard on his chin.

"I reckon nobody ever had a closer scratch than I held up a hand-gard hand. I reckon the Timber Company owes me some extra for this." His pale eyes lighted a trifle as they fixed themselves on Dona's face.

"Certainly, Dad will see that you are properly rewarded." Dona could not help wondering where Swergin had collected so many odd characters. Carter was an oddity and no mistake. Of course only such men would stay and work under the lash of Swergin's tongue and fists. Three Rivers was certainly a camp of the old school.

Carter smiled a thin smile but did not add anything.

"You knew Ball—that is, before he started his fight against the Timber Company?" Dona was seeking information.

"Sure. Knew him for a strapping big cowpuncher that rode a black horse."

"And you saw him last night?" Dona put the question abruptly.

"Sure I saw him." Carter returned Dona's smile with a defiant glance that fell as she met it. "He steps right in through the big window and goes for his guns." Carter made a shift and dropped his good hand to his side.

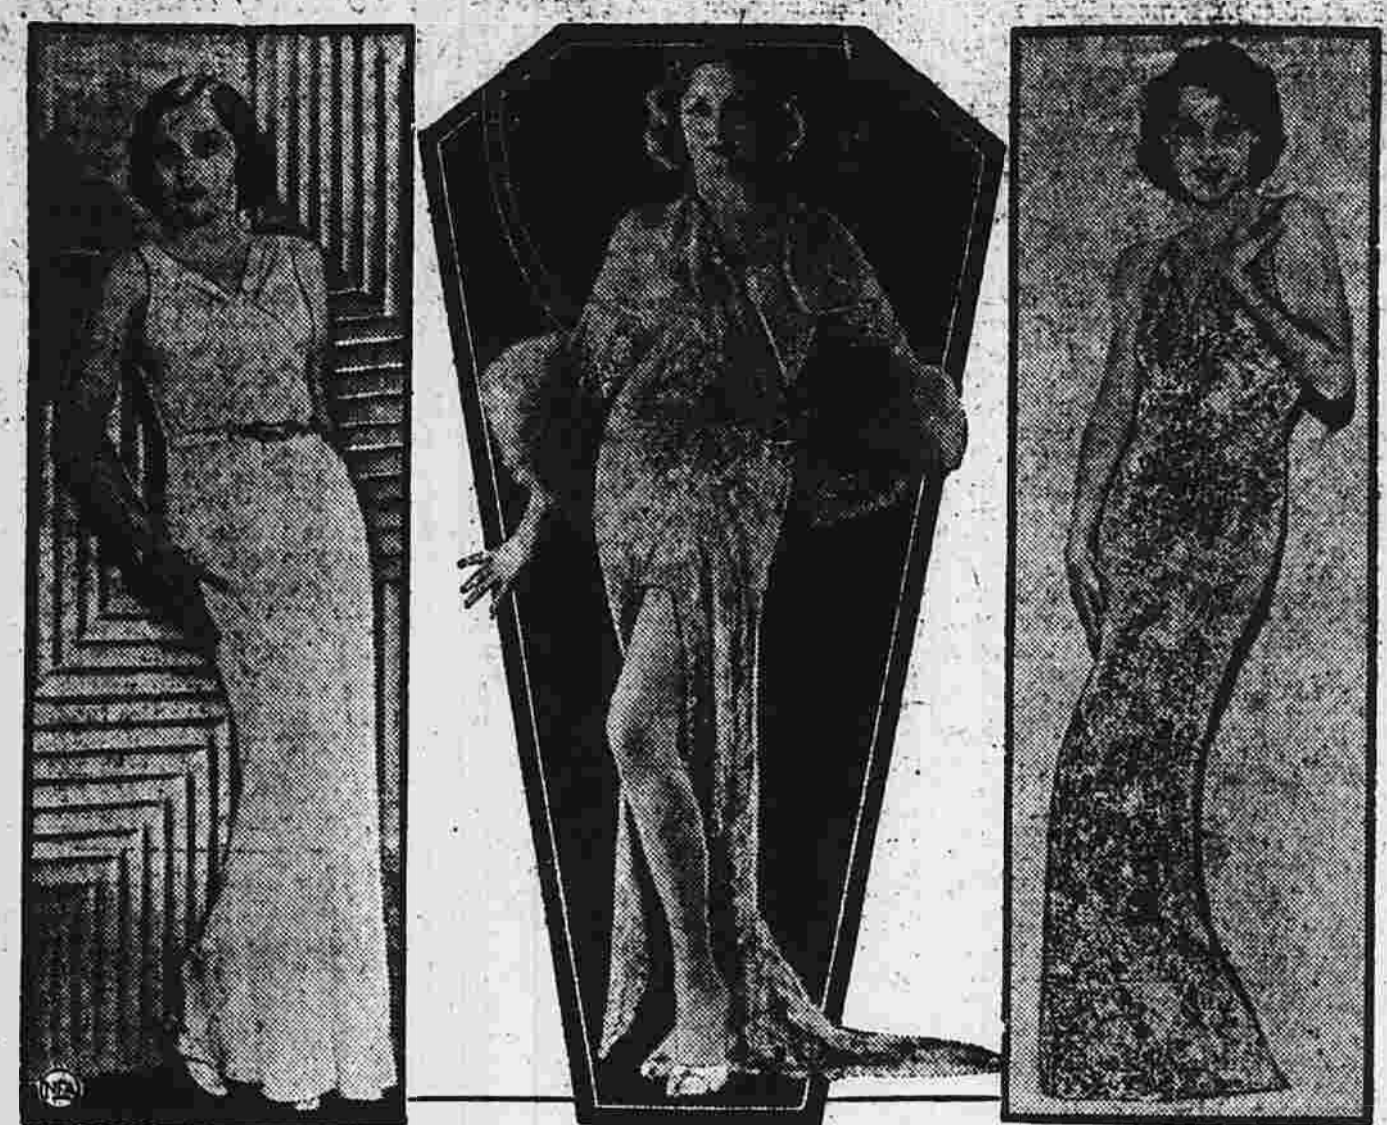

"And what did you do?" Dona bent forward, ill interest.

"I went for the gun I have in my desk. Then he cut loose and shot my hand. Carter touched the bandage gingerly.

Dona nodded sympathetically. "Remember, I will see that Father rewards you." She gave him a smile and walked back toward the scene in the big yard.

Dudley was riding at a gallop looking for her. He plugged up and pulled his horse to a ploughing stop in true grandstand style. "Where have you been hiding?" he demanded.

Three Hollywood Hunches for Allure

You put your best foot forward, then raise the heel, one hand goes to one hip, shoulders are squared and the hip goes forward ever so slightly. And there you have the Hollywood hunch—mouvedom's approved posture for allure. Here is a trio of styles: Left, Adrienne Ames, who wears an evening gown of untrimmed white satin of classical lines. Center, Claire Dodd in a fur-trimmed filigree negligee. Right, Frances Dee in a daintily cut gown of golden sequins.

plain that he had been very busy giving orders, as the floor was tracked with boot marks and cigar stumps. Dona crossed to his side and perched on the foot of his bed.

"You have been violating my orders again!" she shook a finger under his nose. "Do you want me to move in here and make you behave?"

Asper grinned. "I'm the usual ungrateful patient. What I get well I fire my loving nurse." He caught her hand.

"You are not well and you're not firing this nurse!" "Doc says I can sit in a chair on the porch. Now, as a good nurse, you'd better help me out there."

Asper proceeded to swing his feet over the edge of the bed. "My slippers, nurse!" he called, as though Dona were in the next room.

A tender smile spread over the girl's face as she ran for the slippers. Asper was nearly his old self again and would be well in no time. For a moment she was really happy and a great weight lifted from her heart.

Asper insisted on having his chair placed so that he could watch the slope of the mountain and the upper clearing. He was eager to get the very first news of the capture of Ball.

"They'll have him before noon, sure as shootin'," he rumbled.

Dona smiled and seated herself on the top step. She was eager to see what happened but she was not really anxious to have this hunt succeed. A thought kept bobbing up in her mind that would not be stilling easily. Here were dozens of men going out to get one lone bandit. The odds against Ball were 100 to 1. He was a lone wolf, a killer, but that did not lessen the odds.

Dona's thoughts turned to the previous day and a cloud passed over her happiness. Stanley Black had been such a disappointment. More than a disappointment, Dona knew, though she refused to admit it. With white sunlight playing through the green needles above her head and a cedar bird calling from the jack pine behind the building, she knew a desolation of spirit that even the recovery of her father could not banish.

A rider appeared at the edge of the clearing and Dona roused herself. The man came down through the cutting at a gallop. As he came into view of the corral below a dozen men leaped from the shade of the saddle house and ran for their horses. Dona watched the oncoming rider and noticed that he headed for the corral. It was evident from the way he leaned far over the horse's neck that he was bringing news.

"Run down to the corral and see what has happened," Asper DeLo's voice shook with excitement as he called to Dona.

"I'll be back in a minute," she replied over her shoulder as she ran down the steps.

The rider was pulling his mount to a sliding halt as Dona reached the corral. Malloy was first to reach him. "News!" the tall punched drawled. Nothing seemed to ruffle or excite him.

"Plenty" the man grunted, sliding from his horse. He seemed to enjoy holding back his information. "Have they got him?" Dona burst out.

"Got him cornered and the gang is closing in on him. He was trying to make a break over the hill and into the cow country. The gang is up on the slope at the fork of the Blind River trail. They want all the rest of the men out there to help pull the net tight around him. There sure is going to be some shooting!" The man slapped his lather-covered horse. "Get me another nag."

"Get the roan ready and slip my rifle into the scabbard," Dona ordered.

Malloy gave her a searching look that trailed off into a cynical squint. "You got the fever, too?" he asked shortly.

"Possibly," Dona met his gaze squarely. "But get my horse!" "O. K., ma'am." Malloy bowed stiffly and vanished into the saddle house.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Having cleaned up the sun splashes and other woes of summer, don't think you have done your best by your skin.

Winter makes heavy demands upon it. Unless you take precautions to prepare against the ravages of cold weather, you will have double duty softening and smoothing your skin again.

A clean skin is the only skin to have. But never, never wash with soap and water and then dash out the door. Take your time about it, and remember it is much better to do your soap and water cleansing at night, finishing up with a good heavy massage cream.

There is little reason for not keeping your skin soft this winter. Unless you have some skin or organic trouble, a bad skin is merely a sure sign of a careless person.

Find a cream that suits you and stick to it, religiously, night and morning. This year, there are several "stabilizers" on the market that do the trick or smoothing the skin and nourishing it at one and the same time, supplanting cream.

A neat bottle of one of these, kept close to hand and used liberally, eventually gives you that satiny-look skin you want.

If your skin is dry, use an oily cream or an oily stabilizer. Omit the soap. See that you never go to bed without a creaming and never put on your make-up without the same.

If you are a business woman, invest in a tube of the new all-purpose cream, which is the equivalent of all the stabilizers. Use it before you go to work. You can take off your worn-out morning make-up with one squeezing of it, cleanse your face thoroughly with another, and you are ready for a new and stunning make-up, also being assured that your skin is fortified against cold wind or frosty air.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON
ASSERTS 990,000 DIED IN FLIGHT OF 'WHITE' ARMY
German Writer Tells of Horrors in Russia After Red Revolution

If there ever was a genuine reproduction of hell on earth, it must have been in Russia and Siberia during the two or three years immediately following the Russian revolution.

"Between White and Red," by Eric Drieger, tells of the things that happened there while the various "white" armies were trying to overthrow the Bolsheviks, and there is enough horror and human suffering in his pages to leave you heart-sick.

Drieger was a German soldier, captured by the Russians early in the war. Escaping from prison after the revolution, he joined the "white" army of Admiral Kolchak in a vain attempt to get back home.

"Between White and Red" tells what he saw.

He shows us an "army" of half a million men, accompanied by half a million civilian refugees, retreating across Siberia in midwinter under conditions so frightful that a scant 10,000 lived to reach their goal; he shows us battles in which all prisoners were executed, in which all captured officers were tortured to death; he shows us starvation, sickness, pain, weariness and despair at the common lot of millions of people for months at a time; and he voices, too, a bitter criticism of the Allies for their half-hearted support of Kolchak's expedition—a support, he says, which simply intensified the misery and prolonged the agony.

"Between White and Red" isn't pleasant reading, but it certainly is illuminating. Published by Scribner's, it costs $2.75.

Try to Keep Out of Quarrels
When the east wind blows, it is said, nobody is in good humor.

Perhaps that is why autumn brings "off days"—days when we get up with a chip on our shoulders and are ready to bite the head off anyone who looks our way.

October, of course, is not likely to bring so many rainy days. But I am looking forward to the dull dark days when children are shut in and trouble is almost inevitable.

What shall we do when the children begin to quarrel inside the house and out?

Take sides? Step in and make their quarrels our quarrels? Get nervous and excited and work out when Dick and Jim begin to bicker and fight? Or call Mrs. Brown on the telephone and tell her we simply won't stand for the way Jack is treating our Harry?

Don't Worry Parents
The quarrels of children are not serious. Usually they are merely an assertion of will, a contest for supremacy, or the resentment of an imposition that evaporates almost as quickly as it gathers.

The words children say, the things they do when they are angry, are usually exaggerated. They lack vocabulary to express their precise feelings and lack the tact, patience, and wisdom to right affairs where older people could do it very nicely without trouble.

A boy will threaten to knock somebody's block off or call him a liar because he is limited in words to express his feelings. A punch in the nose is his way of showing affront, a stand-up-and-knock-down fight is merely the elemental way of letting off steam and expressing things that cannot be said in words.

If children quarrel in the family, the wise mother will suggest something to take their minds off the argument. She won't nag and fret and plead, "Children, if you don't stop fighting, I'll run away and stay away!"

Postpone the "Lecture"
It is all right for her to remind them that it is unpleasant for everybody around when there is fussing, but not at the time of the trouble. If she does, almost every word she says will be used against her. Like every other reminder, talking should be done between times, not during a crisis.

As for quarrels with other children, it is better not to interfere unless there is continued abuse and a real reason for righting things. After all, life is one long battle. When children grow up they will have to take their own parts. A little pugnacity or spunk is a good thing. We cannot understand, quite, the motives or reasons behind their fusses, anyway.

We should not take their quarrels too much to heart. We would be very busy and very unhappy if we did.

"AMERICA'S PRIZE WOMAN"

Her Hobby is Entering and Winning, All Kinds of Contests.

Florence Lee Kraus... Just can't resist a contest.

By JULIA BLANSHARD

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 10.—Some women can't see a round-the-world cruise advertised without wanting to pack. Others need only one look at "Hats Reduced" sign to start shopping.

But Florence Lee Kraus can't see or hear of any contest being announced without putting on her thinking cap and getting into the race.

Miss Kraus is Alabama's prize lady, probably America's leading one. She has won first place in more contests than most folks ever enter. In addition she has won other prizes in more contests than she can remember.

"Think twice before you get into your first contest," is her advice. "Before you know it, the contesting habit gets you. It is much worse than bridge or crossword puzzles."

Prize Lots—Lots of Prizes
This unusual hobby started in the first place by Miss Kraus' genuine interest in homes. She is a realtor by profession. She was attracted, one day several years ago, by the announcement of prizes for floor plans for vacation cabins. That night, though she never had tried to draw anything, she began putting onto paper the kind of cabin she would like to own. She won the first prize, two lots in Denver. "I'm still paying taxes on them, though I'll probably never see them," she laughingly said.

The following summer she got $15 for a clean-up-and-paint campaign. A slogan, a dozen toothbrushes for an ad suggestion and a crate of fruit for a recipe. She was off! Every contest from then right on down to the present has intrigued her.

Two years ago, competing with 348,000 contestants, Miss Kraus won second place and $1,000 in a home furnishing contest. Last summer she won a month's free tour of America's leading cities and finest homes, plus $150 in cash, by re-jelving her own home, showing what furniture it now has, what she would like to have and just where each piece of furniture would be placed in each room. Miss Kraus is nothing if not thorough. She made a pen and ink copy of everything to be used, even down to one window in each room to show the drapes, the shades and even the shade pulls.

Some humorous situations have arisen through her hobby. She doesn't smoke but has won several cartons of cigarettes and a box of cigars. She writes such a hand that even her best friend can't read it, but she won first prize for individual handwriting, plus a good gallon, for a fountain pen. She never has indulged in any exercise more violent than talking, which she does at the rate of a mile a minute, but won a beautiful athletic costume for re-creating an old established line. Just last month she won a crate of fruit of the only variety that she never eats, for a 250-word letter on why this special fruit is invaluable!

"The very word 'kitchen' worries me, but I'm always going into contests for menus," she told me. This summer she won $10 for one menu. In addition to these prizes she has won a floor waxer, an electric range, a mechanical refrigerator, and various other household appliances, plus innumerable small cash prizes for everything from names for products to household hints.

Knows Her Subjects
Miss Kraus is fully as interesting as her hobby. Southern born, Southern bred, never guilty of sounding a single "r" in any word, she has an indefatigable energy that is astounding in anyone so slender and frail-looking as she. Her hobby, in contest, she goes into research on the subject with a thoroughness that would put a scientist to shame. She digs into books at the library, queries experts on the subject, delves into history, gets literary references and ends by doing such a thorough job that she has had a fine time, whether she wins or loses.

She is as orderly about keeping files of everything as she is in digging up material. Here is one of the things she has written on the subjects of contests and private citizens has. So well-known is her hobby in her home town that whenever any club or commercial organization starts a contest they go to Miss Kraus for suggestions on rules, prizes and judging.

"I have no preference in contests," she told me. "Any contest is to me what firing a pistol shot is to runners waiting for the signal to start. I'll make a stab at anything."

Hat Hints from Hollywood

Their hats are in the ring of fashion leadership and voters may find it difficult to make their choice. Film beauties attending tennis championships at Los Angeles wore the newest fall millinery. Kay Johnson, above, favored a low-crowned sailor of etched plaid fabric with Ascot scarf to match. Below, left to right: Jean Bennett, wearing a fitted black velvet with ribbon trimming; Bessie Love, in a simple hat bere; and Florence McKinney, whose two-toned red hat matched the printed silk scarf of her frock.

Inflections in Shaving
Unsatisfactory Barber Shops May Lead To Three Diseases of the Skin.

By DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

There are three different diseases of the skin which may affect the region of the beard in men, and which are usually picked up in dirty barber shops.

The scientific names for these conditions are impetigo, sycoasis and ringworm. Ringworm used to be called barber's itch, but even before that it was known in England by the slang term "dirty shave."

Dr. I. H. McCaw of Ireland contrasts the way in which these three diseases begin. Impetigo, which is the infection by the germs that produce pus, begins with a small blister. The germs enter the skin through slight abrasions, such as may be produced during shaving. The blister breaks and a clear serum comes out, which contains the germs. In this way the germs are spread to the surrounding skin, where new blisters form.

Physicians find it rather simple to control this condition if it is seen early. The use of proper ointments of ammoniated mercury and of antiseptics added to the shaving water usually brings about a prompt cure. Precaution should, of course, be taken to prevent infection of other people.

A little more severe than impetigo and likely to last longer is the condition called ringworm or barber's itch. Everybody now knows something about athlete's foot, which affects not only the skin of the feet, but also the groin and the buttocks. The same type of organism may also attack the beard and the scalp.

The organism that causes hair follicles and produces inflammation. An abscess follows, then there are raised, red, crusted lumps which are tender and painful. The condition may look like abscesses, but if the crusts are removed only a small amount of blood-stained serum comes out.

The doctor makes a definite diagnosis by looking at the roots of the hair under the microscope so that he can actually see the ringworm or fungus that causes the disease. Physicians usually control this condition by removing the hair, perhaps by the use of the X-ray, and then applying various drugs which will destroy the fungus.

The third condition which affects the beard is usually difficult to stamp out. It represents infection of the root of the hair by an organism which produces pus; known as syphiloderm. The face seems to be red and dusted over with small pustules and crusts. There is burning, itching or pain. The condition gets so deeply into the hair, perhaps by the use of the X-ray, and then applying various drugs which will destroy the fungus.

On Oct. 11, 1918, American troops completely cleared the Argonne Forest of its enemy.

The British advanced northeast of Cambrai, taking Ivry and Fresnes. Germans abandoned their line along the Seneze River and the British closed in on Douai.

The French forced an evacuation of 37 miles in a six-mile thrust on the St. Mihiel front and Germans evacuated the Chemin des Dames. Teutons were reinforced in Siberia while the Serbs advanced toward Nish.

Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary announced his decision to unite Croatia, Slavonia, Bosnia and Herzegovina in one state. On the same day, Dr. Alexander Wekerle, Hungarian premier, resigned.

Playing Golf Four Years She Wins Way to Titles

Patricia Beyer Has Amazing Record of Accomplishments; Terrific Drives a Feature.

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 11.—Oklahoma soon may be heard from in national women's golf competition and the Sooner state is placing its hope in a player who is just completing her fourth year of play.

She is Patricia Beyer, 27-year-old Tulsa divorcee, and already she has an amazing record of accomplishments, not the least of which include the 1932 Women's Trans-Mississippi championship, runner-up in the year's Women's Southern tournament, quarter-finalist in the Women's Western and two consecutive Oklahoma state titles.

Miss Beyer first turned to golf in 1926. In her first tournament she took a total of 138 in qualifying.

Industriously she worked at the game, and within a month and a half she had clipped her score down to the 90's.

It was in 1931 that she won her first important championship, being medalist and champion in the Oklahoma state. Her qualifying score was an 80. Several times she broke 80 during 1931, getting as low as 76.

After winning the Women's Trans-Mississippi this year in June at Hot Springs, Ark., the Tulsa woman right into the Southern, her play extending over two consecutive weeks of grueling play. She lost, 1 down, to Mrs. Ben Fitzhugh, Mississippi state champion from Vicksburg.

From the Southern she went to the Women's Western at Peoria, Ill., to reach the quarter-finals in that event and finally lost to Miss Lucille Robinson, Des Moines, Ia., youngster.

Failure to fly her entry in time kept Miss Beyer out of the women's national tournament at Salem Country Club, Peabody, Mass., but next year she hopes to be among those present.

Terrific drives feature the Tulsa woman's game. Almost invariably she is between 200 and 250 yards down the fairway and there have been days when she has "hit them out" as far as 275 yards.

Junior Basketball League is being formed in Manchester by Frank C. Busch, director of the local Recreation Centers, and entries are now being received at the School street Rec. All boys 16 years of age or under are eligible to join this league.

The first entry was the Hartford Newboys, a team that reached the final of the Hartford County Y junior tourney last season. It is planned to play the league games on Saturday afternoon at the West Side Rec for the duration of the basketball season.

Further information may be obtained from Mr. Busch at the School street Rec.

Golfers Paired Off in Annual Tourneys. Hot Springs, Va., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Sixteen contestants in the men's division and eight in the women's event were paired off today in the first round matches of the 20th annual Hot Springs golf tournaments.

Mrs. Glenna Collett Vaux of Philadelphia won the medal in the women's division with a 77 was paired with Miss Olga Hoelzer, of New York. Fay Ingalls of Hot Springs who topped the field in the men's tournament in the qualifying rounds with 76, had as his opponent Irving T. Smith, of Greenwich, Conn. Smith shot 84 yesterday.

PITTSBURGH-ARMY CLASH MAY SETTLE NATIONAL HONORS

BATES TIES YALE? YES, YES, GO ON! Here's Story Behind Recent Upset; Involves Coach Dave Morey.

New York, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Two of the East's major football powers, Pittsburgh and Army, are paired off in a duel at West Point Saturday which should go far toward determining whether either can be reckoned a contender for the mythical National championship.

Both elevens are tackling subjects so difficult an undefeated season clearly would entitle them to consideration for National honors.

Pitt, beaten only by Notre Dame last year, and considered on a par with any eleven in the East, apparently has another brilliant array. Army lost a great back in Ray Stecker, but Major Ralph I. Sasse has plenty of backfield talent to choose from. Pitt walloped the Cadets last year 2 to 0 but there is every prospect of close, hard fought action this time.

At least two others of the East's undefeated and untied teams are certain to wind up on Saturday with a spoiled record for New York University and Georgetown will battle in the Yankee Stadium in New York and Dartmouth and Penna will clash at Philadelphia. None of these has been checked yet.

Brown and Yale, both undefeated will meet in the Yale Bowl, but Yale although it has escaped defeat, already has been tied twice by Bates and Chicago.

Other interesting frays are in prospect between Princeton and Cornell, Lafayette and Colgate, Carnegie Tech and Washington-Left, Columbia and Virginia, Navy and Ohio U., Holy Cross and Detroit, and Syracuse and Southern Methodist.

Yale Gets Lecture. New Haven, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Admittedly displeased with some angles of his team's play against Chicago, head Coach Mal Stevens returned to instruction in fundamentals to start the Yale squad's preparation for the Brown game Saturday.

Stevens lectured the team for more than an hour yesterday, criticizing them more sharply, one listener said, than he has ever spoken to one of his elevens before. Individual players and their play against Chicago, were singled out as his targets.

Afterward the players went out for a short drill on fundamentals. While the linemen worked on blocking and tackling under line coach Aram Walsh, Coach Stevens instructed the backfield in handling the ball, passing and kicking. Later he led the first and second string backfields in a dummy forward passing scrimmage.

Local Sport Chatter. Manchester High School tackles Meriden Friday afternoon in Meriden in the third League game of the local High School football schedule. Meriden trounced Southington in its opening game and eked out an 8 to 6 victory over East Hartford last Friday.

Manchester's showing against Bristol will probably install the local team as the favorite. Meriden, according to those who saw Friday's game, is an exponent of the old Minnesota shift.

On the following Friday, Manchester engages East Hartford at Mt. Nebo. Although beaten in both League starts this year the East Siders are a team to be reckoned with and should give the red and white a hard battle.

WINTER HOLDS NO CHILL FOR THESE ST. LOUIS GRIDDERS

St. Louis, Oct. 11.—When winter's blizzards from the north whip the gridiron on which the football team of St. Louis University plays it late games, two of that school's players will be right at home in the frigid temperatures.

The two gridders, Joe O'Connor, end, and George Nisbet, tackle, conditioned themselves last summer by working in an Arctic seal fishery.

The boys were well up north, being located in a fishery on St. Paul's Island, one of the Fridolf group in the Bering Sea, 200 miles west of the Alaskan mainland, and more than 2000 miles north of Seattle, Wash.

The weather was plenty cold all the time the boys were there, ranging from 20 to 40 degrees above zero. With this snappy weather they attempted to teach the Eskimo laborers the rudiments of football, but the northerners weren't so hot for that game.

The work itself was conditioning, consisting of stripping rubber off seals. Sometimes one man would strip as many as 100 seals in a day.

Grange carried the ball eight times for the Bears, gaining 127 yards, scoring two touchdowns and throwing a pass for another.

Back in the days when he was a high school boy, his father remunerated him for each touchdown in the amount of 25 cents. Red probably always will remember earning $1.50 in a game between Wheaton and Downer's Grove high schools.

He also probably can remember shakily playing for $12,000, his share in the receipts in his first pro game, at Chicago, eight years ago. Grange himself only knows how much he has earned in actual play.

It was not the pay he received for time upon the football field that really counted in his case. Red made his fortune from the signing contract—such as $300,000 moving picture contract and a few thousands thrown in here and there for indorsing soap, fountain pens, washing machines, and so on.

His Greatest Game. That old Number 77 flashed up and down the gridiron so many times that it is hard to say which game of Grange's was his greatest. He has provided thousands of people with the greatest football they ever saw.

Maybe it was his game against Michigan. The point there is that Michigan was all set to stop him. Illinois formations had been studied carefully by Yost and his associates, and every precaution had been taken to throw angry bodies into his pathway.

It was a noble gesture on the part of Michigan to call the opening block-off kerplunk into the hands of Grange himself. The Ghost responded with a 95-yard run down the field, ending in a touchdown.

Before the hubbub had subsided, Grange had reeled off another 70-yard run. The customers weren't all seated before he had gone scooting down the field for yet another and Yost had allowed his cigar.

'Do Or Die' Hokum Now Dead, Claims Minnesota Grid Coach

By ROY F. HENDRICKSON. Minneapolis, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Dying of "dear old do-or-die" has gone out of fashion in American college football coaching—if it ever did exist outside the movies and fiction—in the opinion of Bernie Bierman, University of Minnesota coach.

Bierman, who practiced his conviction on his championship, Tulane teams, is known as a leading exponent of the "keep cool" school of gridiron teachers.

That genius of legend and the cinema who exhort, "inspires and does all the plain and fancy thinking for his squad as dead as the flying wedges of the 'nineties, in Bierman's belief.

Having done some research on the subject, he finds those "types" may have existed in a few cases, but now are becoming rarities.

Intelligence Comes First. Bierman's own technique of bracing up players between halves is a long jump from the hard-boiled master mind of the screen who storms and swings his arms about in gestures combining the best traditions of high-powered oratory and gymnastics.

His theory—to which several other coaches subscribe—is that the game has developed to a point where playing smartness and analytical intelligence are most required.

Mistakes within the class where they might have been prevented, he reasons, are chargeable to lack of knowledge or keenness rather than lack of inspiration.

Like a Teacher. Bierman's between-halves system, instituted at Montana and carried on through three championships of the south while directing Tulane's Green Wave, is in striking contrast to the frowning, gruff-voiced dynamic type of orator.

He is more like a teacher calling attention to errors made in an examination. He reads from a note-pad the mistakes and weaknesses which impressed him most, calls attention to gaps which caused certain plays to fall flat.

He offers a little praise to individual exhibitions of brilliance, where that brilliance has been the result of taking utmost advantage of the play.

Demands Thought. An athlete may be a giant, an occasional star through sheer physical instinct, but he doesn't meet Bierman's dimensions unless his play is constantly that of carrying out the pre-arranged scheme of attack.

Bierman seldom applies strong language, never lashes a player off-storically. If an athlete cannot follow coaching instructions by reasoning that they are logical, Bierman will have none of him.

As for dramatizing by the old "do or die" inspirational exhortation, Bierman is convinced that if he ever tried it both he and his players would break out in a long laugh which would slow up everything.

TERRY WILL REBUILD GIANTS COMPLETELY

New York, Oct. 11.—(AP)—"Memphis Bill" Terry has hauled out the big broom, swept four players westward to St. Louis, and started a cleanup campaign which threatens to make the New York Giants all but unrecognizable when once they begin their labors. In a straight player trade, Terry sent Bill Walker and Jim Mooney, south-paw pitcher, Outfielder Ethan Allen and Catcher Bob O'Farrell to the St. Louis Cardinals in exchange for Ray Starr, rookie righthanded pitcher, and Gus Mancuso, young catcher.

Other deals are on the way. As was disclosed at Giant headquarters and not a player on the team, except Mel Ott and Terry himself, seems certain of remaining on the roster for 1933. There were rumblings the Giants were trying to do business with the Boston Braves and Cincinnati Reds and one rumor linked the club in a swap with the National League champion, the Chicago Cubs. The names of Freddie Lindstrom, Hughey Crite and Francis (Shanty) Hogan were freely mentioned with the Giants casting covetous eyes in the general direction of Hazen "Kiki" Cuyler, Pat Malone and Frank Demaree.

When he was signed recently to a two-year contract as manager of the Giants, Terry said he would rebuild the club from the ground up.

Resume Activities at West Side Rec. Basketball, Bowling and Badminton Program Planned by Director.

Although it is quite warm just yet for indoor sports, Director Frank C. Busch is now laying plans for a basketball and volley ball league to be held at the West Side Recreation Building. The basketball league will function on Monday and Thursday evenings with the opening games November 28. The volley ball league will also start Wednesday evening, Nov. 30.

Any member of the Recreation Center is eligible to play in either or both leagues. In order to ensure every member a chance to play, the personnel of the teams will be selected by a committee picked by the director. This has been the plan in all previous sports held at the West Side and it has always been satisfactory to all concerned. It is hoped that those who at present are not members of the Recreation Center will join up in time to get in on these leagues.

A badminton club is to be formed to play at the West Side Recreation building on Tuesday and Thursday from 5 to 7 p. m. It is hoped that anyone interested in badminton who wishes to join this club do so at an early date. More info. will be furnished upon calling either Recreation Centers.

It is also planned to have a bowling league and any team in town will be eligible to enter this league, with special rates for members bowling.

Punts—Passer. Pittsburgh—There's no telling what the Pittsburgh Panthers will be able to do from an offensive standpoint once they start using their new repertoire of plays. Against their first opponent, the Panthers gained 1800 yards, using only six running plays.

Syracuse—Followers of Syracuse's football fortunes probably still are wondering how the Orange came to lose to Ohio Wesleyan. Syracuse gained more than 400 yards against the Ohioans yet lost 19-12.

Princeton—On the sidelines most of last season with injuries, Jack James, Princeton halfback flash, is getting all the football practice he can this year. The Tiger first team was given a holiday yesterday but James appeared in uniform and helped the second team beat the third eleven by three touchdowns.

New York—Under Lou Little's coaching Columbia has high hopes of turning in an undefeated record this year. Since Little arrived at Moravian Side Heights a little over two years ago, the Lions have won four major games. His three immediate predecessors won only three major games over a span of ten years.

Texas' Unusual Joins. Although he was not a regular last year a Purdue University football team, John Oehler, center, and captain of the team this year.

FANS 14 IN A ROW AS CARPENTERS WIN

The Carpentry department defeated the Drafting department, 3 to 0, in the Trade School League, when Farwell struck out fourteen men in succession, after allowing two men to get on base in the first inning. The carpenter's hurler was reached for only one hit, that a double by Quartus.

McCurry of the Draftsmen allowed five hits, which accounted for two of the Carpenter's runs. A strategy double play, McCurry to Rubacha to Quartus, cut short a threatened scoring bee in the fourth, with the bases loaded. The Carpenter's accounted for their third run in the fifth, when Jarvis reached first on an error by Hoffman, stole second and third, and came home on a passed ball.

The Draftsmen only threatened to score once, in the first inning. Quartus, the first man at bat, rapped out a double and went to third on an error by McAdams. From then on Farwell had the game under complete control.

Hurling Power Aim of Senators Pilot. Washington, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Power in the pitching box and brawn behind the bat stood forth today as the prime aims of Clark Griffith, owner and Joe Cronin, new manager of the Washington baseball club, for entering the 1933 campaign.

Cronin, who at 26 succeeded Walter Johnson as pilot of the American League Senators, talked things over quite a while with Clark Griffith yesterday. The result is expected to be some swapping of players.

"I'm not willing to do any talking about the identity of the regulars we think we might improve upon," Griffith said, "but I will say that we agreed that we need strength in the box and behind the bat if we are to be serious contenders in the coming race."

CAME THE DAWN. Two youths were driving home from a convivial night in the big city.

"Jack," said Tom, "I was'cha to be careful. First thing y'know, you'll have us in the ditch."

"Me?" said Jack, surprised. "Why I thought you was a-drivin'."—The Wheel.

Ruled Out. Nollie Feltz, captain of the Tulane university eleven, and star of 1931, has been declared ineligible on the charge he played professional baseball in 1927 at Stationburg, Miss., in the Cotton States League. Tulane has protested the action which was taken by the Southern Conference, denying that Feltz had signed a contract. Feltz declares he received no money for playing.

Eight football captains of Washington university were in the line-ups in the 1932 alumni-variety game.

GRINS from the GRID

GRINGS from the GRID

Meehan, N. Y. U. coach, had watched Herman Hickman Tennessee's great guard, break through the line and wreak devastation in the New York backfield. Hickman's huge, squat form appeared in the thick of almost every play.

And though convinced of Hickman's greatness, the coach wanted to hear from one of his own players an expert opinion on Hickman's ability.

Leaving over one of the exhausted linemen, the coach asked, "Tell me, just how good is this Hickman?"

Came this startling reply: "Well, I'll tell you, coach. He's just this good. In the third quarter he called me a dam' Yankee and I made believe I never heard him."

Throughout the game, "Chick" you so—YANKEE!

MY, WHAT A NICE DAY TODAY, ALL DAY!

Hooks and Slides by William Braucher. Certain alumni of Michigan, Pennsylvania, Iowa, Nebraska, and Northwestern and a few other major universities must have heaved a sigh the other day upon reading in the sports pages passages something like this:

"Grange carried the ball eight times for the Bears, gaining 127 yards, scoring two touchdowns and throwing a pass for another."

The old Galloping Ghost still can get around on that gridiron. Twenty-nine years old now, and still a bit different from the young man who wondered if he would be able to make the freshman football team at Illinois about this time 11 years ago.

Always a Football Player. The red-head from Wheaton, Ill., is one of the happier examples of the overdone saying, "Once a football player always a football player." He is one of the few who has made pro football pay. Jim Thorpe is the unhappier example. Old Jim hasn't a dime.

Grange always played for money. Back in the days when he was a high school boy, his father remunerated him for each touchdown in the amount of 25 cents. Red probably always will remember earning $1.50 in a game between Wheaton and Downer's Grove high schools.

He also probably can remember shakily playing for $12,000, his share in the receipts in his first pro game, at Chicago, eight years ago. Grange himself only knows how much he has earned in actual play.

It was not the pay he received for time upon the football field that really counted in his case. Red made his fortune from the signing contract—such as $300,000 moving picture contract and a few thousands thrown in here and there for indorsing soap, fountain pens, washing machines, and so on.

His Greatest Game. That old Number 77 flashed up and down the gridiron so many times that it is hard to say which game of Grange's was his greatest. He has provided thousands of people with the greatest football they ever saw.

college at Lewiston, Me., twisted the bulldog into a tailspin, and the final score was a 0 to 0 tie.

Behind such an upset there usually is a story, and the story in this case is Dave Morey, coach.

Since his graduation at Dartmouth, where he was one of Walter Camp's All-America selections, Morey has been coaching here and there. Mostly he has been prepping the little ones to bowl over, the big shots of the football world.

In 1923 he led a group of Vermont college boys from Middlebury against Harvard and ran the Crimson ragged for a 6 to 6 tie.

He bobbed up next at Alabama Poly where for two years he threw surprise after surprise into the southern teams.

In 1928 he was helping Major Canavan at Fordham. He appeared at Bates in 1929.

Bates had forgotten what to do with the ball after making a touchdown, it had been so long since any Bates player had crossed the line. That year 15 men came out for football.

His opening statement to the squad was significant of what was to come.

"I do not doubt that we can get together a team that will make a touchdown. But we are going to have a team that will win. Either that or I will hang up my cleated shoes forever."

The team scored in its very first game, against the Amherst Aggies. Harvard took the second game, 48 to 0.

Morey made good on the third game—the struggle with Maine, Maine, by the way, had won by a score of 46 to 0 the year before. Little Bates sent Maine home talking to itself about a 6 to 0 beating.

Local Sport Chatter

Manchester High School tackles Meriden Friday afternoon in Meriden in the third League game of the local High School football schedule. Meriden trounced Southington in its opening game and eked out an 8 to 6 victory over East Hartford last Friday.

Manchester's showing against Bristol will probably install the local team as the favorite. Meriden, according to those who saw Friday's game, is an exponent of the old Minnesota shift.

On the following Friday, Manchester engages East Hartford at Mt. Nebo. Although beaten in both League starts this year the East Siders are a team to be reckoned with and should give the red and white a hard battle.

West Hartford, with a team hailed as the outstanding contender for the C. C. I. L. title this year, will open its League season Saturday against Bristol, in a game that should definitely decide the title winner. West Hartford was beaten Saturday by Bulkeley, 12 to 6.

The town tennis doubles finals were not played Sunday as planned, as Walter Holland was unable to play. The finalists are Holland, Bissell and Jesania-Smith. The match will probably be played as soon as convenient for the players.

Can Be Seen Easier. A white ball that can be seen much more easily by both spectators and players has come to be used by many amateur and professional basketball teams throughout the United States.

Baseball Game. Gilbert's All-Stars will play the Grove Icebergs of Buckland in Buckland Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

He Must Be Wrong. MR. NEWLITWED (diffidently): I don't like to mention it, dear, but there seems to be something wrong about these biscuits.

FOOTBALL SKETCHES

When Dr. Carl S. Williams, former star quarterback and later coach at Pennsylvania, originated the lateral or backward pass, he started a football play that has become famous as a point scorer.

Dr. Williams first used the play in 1903 when Penn, with a very light squad, defeated a much stronger Cornell team. Bob Zuppke, Illinois coach, later employed the lateral with his incomparable Red Grange in 1925, and sent that star over for his second touchdown against the school that originated the play.

But the lateral was a costly play if it was broken up in those days, as was proven when Yale attempted it in that memorable game against Princeton in 1914.

Princeton had tied Harvard the week before. The team was doing a great comeback after being defeated earlier at the hands of Cornell and West Virginia.

Yale, too, had been defeated, but if a team in the Big Three managed to beat its other two rivals, its season is a success no matter how many other games it lost.

The Yale-Princeton game was 57 minutes old and the score stood tie at 6-6. Yale had the ball on its own 30-yard line. The Princeton goal was too far to attempt a drop kick or field goal. Yale was desperate and resorted to a lateral.

Kempton, a Yale back, started an end run. A Tiger man was about to make the tackle when Kempton tossed the ball laterally to Neville. But the Princeton line was charging fast and hurried the play. Before Neville reached the designated spot, the ball struck the ground and came to a stop for a moment.

URSULA PARROT SEEKS DIVORCE IN BRIDGEPORT

Bridgeport, Oct. 11.—(AP)—State referee Isaac Wolfe has recommended to the Superior Court that a divorce be granted Ursula Parrott, wife of the late John Parrott, who is known as her husband, Charles T. Greenwood, New York banker on grounds of intolerable cruelty.

Max Spelke of Stamford, counsel for Miss Parrott, said he expected to appear before Judge John A. Cornell Friday to ask that the referee's recommendation be approved.

At a private hearing in New Haven last week the referee testified before the referee that she was a victim of her husband's cruelty. She charged Greenwood with using abusive language and at one time pinched her while he was under the influence of liquor.

Miss Parrott, author of "Ex-Wife" and "Strangers May Kiss" asked she be allowed to use the name of Parrott. She does not seek alimony.

RESUME DAVIS TRIAL ON NOVEMBER 28

New York, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Retrial of United States Senator James J. Davis on lottery charges today was set for November 28 by Judge Francis G. Caffey.

Davis will be tried with three co-defendants who are Raymond Walsh, Bernard C. McGuire and Theodore G. Miller.

Louis Mead Treadwell, youthful prosecutor, called the case and told the court that November 28 had been agreed on by counsel because of other obligations of Senator Davis.

Charles H. Tuttle, one of counsel for Davis, appeared but made no comment before the court.

Treadwell also called another lottery case against Conrad H. Mann, director general of the Eagles; Frank E. Hering, editor of the Eagles' magazine; McGuire and Walsh. This was adjourned until October 17, at which time a demurrer will be argued.

Still another case against McGuire, Miller, M. J. Rivise and the Western Union Telegraph Company was set for trial on December 5.

BRIDGE TOURNAMENT

New Haven, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Bridge players will gather in four cities tonight to start play in the Connecticut State Contract pair championship tournament, sponsored by the recently organized Connecticut Bridge League.

District qualifying rounds will be played in Bridgeport, Hartford, New Haven and Waterbury tonight, October 18 and 25. The finals will be held in New Haven November 5.

POPE ADVISES DOCTORS

Vatican City, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Pope Pius today encouraged physicians to oppose birth control and propagate sexual morality, in a letter to the Archbishop of Florence in connection with the forthcoming convention of Catholic physicians. The convention is expected to give much attention to this subject.

SAMUEL J. TURKINGTON, Town Clerk.

MAINE'S ELECTION FURTHER MUDDLED

Augusta, Maine, Oct. 11.—(AP)—A muddled political aftermath of the State election of September 12 was further confused today by a demand for a recount of ballots cast for U. S. Representative in the 3d Maine District.

In a petition to the governor and council last night, Ralph O. Brewster, of Dexter, Republican, called for the recount, charging "more than 1,000 votes were affected by 'fraudulent practices, illegal acts and errors.'" The governing body will hear the petition tomorrow.

Brewster was defeated for the office by John G. Utterback, Democrat, Bangor, by 294 votes by returns given by the governor and executive body two weeks ago.

His latest recount request came on the same date that the Republican gubernatorial candidate, Burleigh Martin of Augusta, defeated by Louis J. Brann, Democrat, Lewiston, petitioned the secretary of state for permission to inspect all ballots cast for governor.

All in One District

Both actions climaxed a post election situation marked by an investigation by the attorney general's department into voting procedure in 11 Aroostook county towns, all in the third district; his refusal later to make public his findings and the subsequent circulation of petitions demanding publicizing of his report.

The latter have not yet been filed.

Utterback had no comment to make on Brewster's petition but in Waterville, F. Harold Dubord, Democratic National committeeman, declared the former governor's allegations "have no foundation in fact."

Almost at the same time that Martin filed his inspection petition, the secretary's department discovered an error in its tabulation of the vote for governor which raised Brann's plurality by 805 votes over the 1,553 vote lead he was credited with receiving.

Martin said Brann's increased lead would not alter his intention to inspect the ballots. Officials estimated such an inspection would require six weeks.

Another Petition For Recount Is Made By a Defeated Republican.

THREE PERSONS INJURED IN BRIDGEPORT CRASH

Bridgeport, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Three persons were injured, one of them seriously, when a coupe crashed into a milk wagon at Stratford and Central avenues at 2:30 a. m. today, knocked the driver into the street and scattered bottles of milk in all directions.

Margaret Donovan of Naugatuck was taken to Bridgeport hospital where it was reported she was on the danger list. Her brother, John Donovan of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., driver of the coupe was held on a charge of reckless driving in $1,000 bonds. His case was continued until October 18 in City Court today.

Donovan, driving at 35 miles an hour, according to the police, smashed into the side of a horse-drawn milk wagon, owned by the Mitchell Dairy Company and driven by W. J. Wargo of 427 Worden avenue. The milk wagon was hurled to one side. The milk bottles fell in all directions.

Wargo was knocked from his wagon but escaped serious injury.

Donald Rogers of Mt. Vernon, another passenger with Donovan also received slight injuries.

Donovan, driver of the coupe, who was slightly injured, told the police the first he knew of the accident was when he became conscious of walking in the street in search of a policeman.

FEDERAL BUILDINGS

Washington, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Already 230 buildings costing $88,391,219 have been erected by the Federal government in a public buildings program which eventually will cost $700,000,000.

In a summation today, the Treasury reported that stage reached September 30. There is available for the work $496,463,842 authorized by Congress in addition to the $100,000,000 allowed by the Relief Act. The Treasury is opening bids for sites for the latter.

In the original program beside the buildings completed, the Treasury has under contract 390 projects which will cost $311,472,932 and has purchased sites for buildings in the District of Columbia costing $28,047,504.

Further, 121 projects are either on the market, the bids for construction have been received, or the specifications are being drawn. These projects when completed will cost $35,340,300.

STORM WARNING

Washington, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The weather bureau today issued the following storm warning: "Advisory: 10 a. m. no report near tropical disturbance but probably central a short distance south of Campeche, Mexico, moving west or northwest with diminished intensity."

FUMES FELL THREE

Norwalk, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Three young women are recovering in the Norwalk hospital today after having been overcome by gas fumes during the night. They are Betty and Helen Sakely, sisters, 17 and 19 years old respectively and Jermaine Jarvis, 18.

Ralph Triano was on his way to work at the Norwalk Tire and Rubber Company at 6:30 o'clock this morning when he noticed three limp forms in varied colored pajamas in the roadway and on the sidewalk in front of 1 North avenue. He stopped his car and found the three girls, also employees of the tire firm, where they had crawled out of their rooming house. He picked them up and rushed them to the hospital where they were revived. They will all recover.

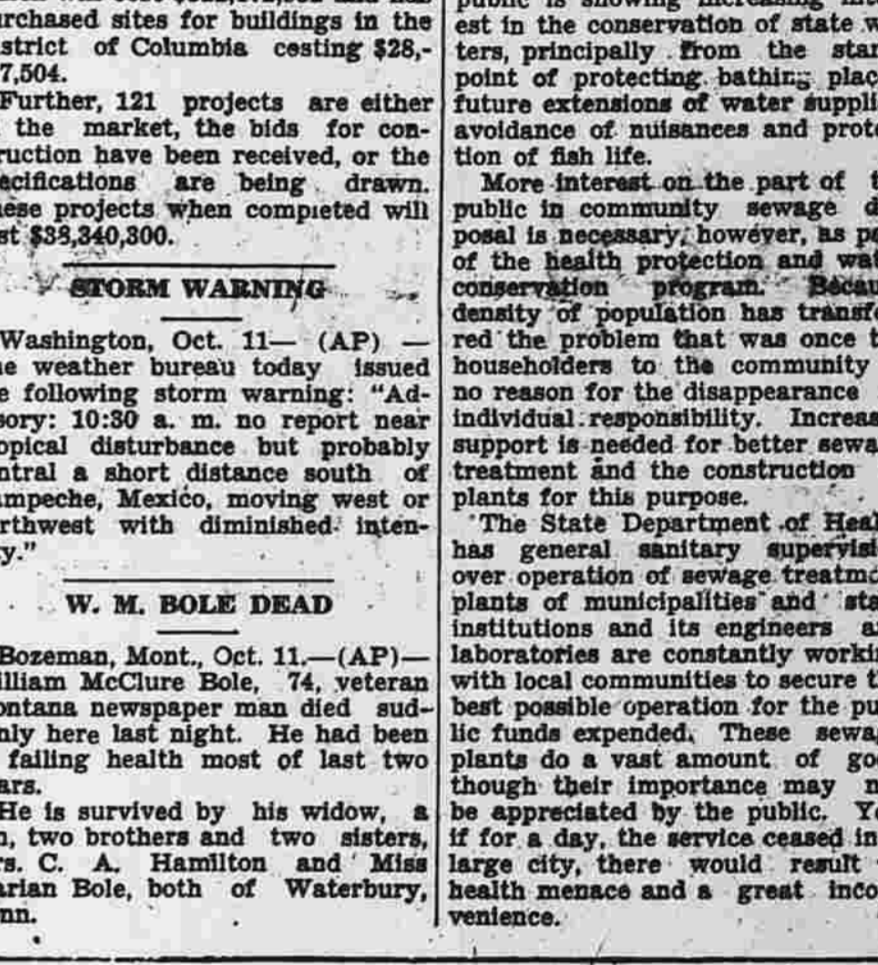

The girls, who occupy an apartment together, apparently had forgotten to turn out a hot water heater and the heater had burned the oxygen in the air and stifled them.

W. M. BOLE DEAD

GAS BUGGIES—Ask Dad—He Knows

SENSE AND NONSENSE

"Life is a gamble,"—yes, but at least you can play your own cards.

Mrs. Perkins—I hear that your sister is married. Is she happy?
Mrs. Simpkins—Very. There's only one thing annoys her. She can't bear her husband.
Mrs. Perkins—But one can't expect everything.

Why is it that if business has gone where everyone says it has, some of the frozen assets don't thaw out?

Friend—Who really is the boss in your home?

Husband—Well, of course Josephine assumes command of the children, servants, dog, cat and canary. But I can say pretty much what I please to the girls.

Our idea is that most of these people who are healthy enough to go through the physical culture exercises, really don't need them.

Teacher—What is an island?
Bright Boy—A place where the bottom of the sea sticks up through the water.

If you want to escape the worries and anxieties of future depressions you have only to obey one little economic law: spend less than you make and save the difference.

Wife—On your way home from the office, will you stop by the department store?
Husband—If I must, but I positively will not attend one of those serenade sales.

"How can I work?" a tramp said to a woman. "Work's what kills my poor wife."

Failure is caused not so much by what we can't do, but rather by what we can do—and don't.

There are many steps on the ladder leading to success, but few of them are dance steps, mimes a local man. Yes, you are right. He's so young man, say more.

Father-in-law (surveying daughter's new home)—What I particularly like about you, Edward, was that you made no appeal to me for help in furnishing your new home.

Son-in-law—Yes, Dad. Well, you see, the first installment isn't due for nearly a month.

STRAY SHOTS..... The present system of game conservation is more of a jobholders' conversation. Every country has its national dish, from the way the girls fall for it, ours must be the old applesauce.... A Hivision has wrecked more men than the vision goes a long way—too much too little.... Sometimes a boy's love is so blind he can't even see his own faults.... Faith and love are two things that can't be compelled.... Don't give anyone a piece of your mind; you need it all yourself.... Marriage is the banana skin on the doorstep of romance.... A parasite is a person who goes through a revolving door without pushing.... Girls object if you string them along, but they love it if you cable them.... Hailroads is better than no breath at all.... A sure way to destroy an ideal is to realize it.... Most any mystery, however unimportant, may easily arouse great interest.

It is bad enough to have to regret some of your thoughts but they will not get you into nearly so much trouble as some of your deeds.

Weatherwords.
As a rule, man's a fool.
When it's hot, he wants it cool.
When it's cool, he wants it hot.
Always wanting what is not.
Never liking what he's got.
I maintain, as a rule,
Man's a fool.

Jack—My dad's a bone specialist.
Jill—My dad shoots craps, too.

ABOUT TOWN

A surprise birthday party was given last Saturday night in honor of William Pallat of Buckland. A buffet lunch was served and followed by playing games and dancing. He received numerous gifts from the guests. About 40 guests were present from Manchester, Hartford, New Britain, Plainville, South Windsor and Buckland.

The new series of setback games will start Saturday evening under the direction of the Masonic Social Club in the Temple. The grand prize for this series will be a 10-pound turkey, in addition to the regular prizes awarded each night of play. Regular bridge parties will be held each Monday night under the direction of Holger Bach and David Nelson. Jack Hayden won the prize in the last setback series, a large mantle clock.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the North Methodist church will conduct a rummage sale Friday of this week in the Coughlin building, Depot Square. The sale will begin at 10 a. m. and continue throughout the day. Collection of donations will be made Thursday and friends wishing articles called for should notify Miss Emma Colver, dial 6644, or Mrs. C. I. Balch, president of the society.

Members of Temple Chapter, O. E. S. are reminded of the meeting tomorrow evening at the Masonic Temple, when the past matrons and past patrons are to exemplify the degrees. Supper will be served in the banquet hall at 6:30 at a nominal price, under the direction of Mrs. Hector West and Mrs. James Nichols. Mrs. Harry Armstrong will have charge of the dining room and Mrs. Robert J. Smith will decorate the tables with flowers from the gardens of members of the chapter. It is hoped a large number of the members will plan to attend both the supper and meeting.

The church school board will meet this evening at 7:30 at the Church of the Nazarene.

FINDS IRISH CITIES HIT HARD BY DEPRESSION

Frank Mullen Describes His Recent Trip For Men's Friendship Club Here.

Last night at the meeting of the Men's Friendship club held at the South Methodist church, a good attendance of men heard Frank Mullen speak on the recent trip he made to Ireland. The talk was most interesting and covered many topics of interest to most of those present. Stating that in general most of those who at one time or another arrived in this country because of either economic or political reasons he dealt with this aspect by saying that those features still were existent as strong today as ever but the opportunity to escape from them is not available as in former days.

In describing his trip over to Ireland he stated that the ship he was passenger on was enveloped in fog for three days and nights and in consequence at times the ship had to stop. He mentioned how it was now necessary to fill in official documents relating to ones financial affairs and make declarations that they would not accept work of any nature while over there either for wages or without, thereby securing the unemployment scheme; which he said were in his opinion of great benefit and had assisted in many ways. His description of the passing of the ship along the north coast of Ireland from Rathlin Island until their arrival at Belfast was interesting and was depicted in a manner that visualized the beauties of this section in a fine manner. He referred to the tragic situation existing in Belfast where as one passed the large shipyards there the empty ship ways showed how this industry was affected as an aftermath of the late world war, this circumstance having its effects not only in Belfast but also in the surrounding area. Belfast he said was one of the most up-to-date cities he had seen and in every way was a credit to its citizens, from the progressive spirit shown as well as the well kept streets and its many beautiful buildings. In the rural areas he said that the evidence of depression were not so evident as the many small farms were peopled by those who were content with a sufficiency enough for their own small needs, and they were also able to dispose of what surplus they had without any difficulty. A contrast was shown as the speaker dealt with his visit to Dublin where the people seemed to be in an unsettled condition that cast a feeling of gloom on most of those whom he came in contact. In a visit he made to Guinness' Brewery, he related how when the guide learned he was from the United States, he referred to this country in anything but complimentary terms, as he said that prohibition in the U. S. had affected that industry in a hard way. The Phoenix park covering an area of seven miles was mentioned as well as the Zoological Gardens where it is claimed, it is the only place in the world that lions are bred while in captivity. Taxes are high in general as examples showed how some commodities had increased in price. Tobacco formerly two pence an ounce is now eight pence an ounce and the high cost of autos and the heavy tax on gas made the using of cars prohibitive to any except the people with means. In conclusion Mr. Mullen stated that what was most essential in his opinion for prosperity in Ireland was a unity among the people, although he confessed he could not see much hope for this in the near future as the differences that existed in former years did not show any sign of abatement. He also stated that he was satisfied from his observations that Great Britain would meet all her debts although it was recognized that it would take from 40 to 50 years to do so. After answering many questions, the speaker was accorded a hearty vote of thanks which was passed by acclamation.

GIRLS FRIENDLY SOCIETY MEETS

Regular Monthly Devotional Service Held At St. Mary's Church Last Night.

St. Mary's Girls Friendly society held its regular monthly devotional service last evening, with the recitation by J. Stuart Neill as leader. The junior choir under the direction of Violet Madden sang. At the close of the service a business meeting was held in the parish house, at which time tickets were distributed for the play the society is sponsoring, "Efficient Aunt Em." This three-act comedy will be presented by members of Manchester Grange, Monday evening, October 24 in St. Mary's parish hall. After the business session last evening games were played under the direction of Mary Law and Evelyn Carlson, and refreshments were served by the younger members.

BEETHOVENS PLAN MONTHLY CONCERTS

Will Present Musical Program At Sunday Evening Service In Emanuel Church.

The Beethoven Glee Club last night voted to present a monthly program of music at the Sunday evening service of the Emanuel Lutheran church. The club will sing at the first Sunday evening service each month. At the rehearsal last night, the social committee reported that the annual Halloween masquerade party will be held Monday evening, October 31, in Bolton.

PHEASANT CRASHES THROUGH WINDOW

Found in Living Room None the Worse For Its Break-Caught and Then Released.

Pheasants are not desirable alarm clocks just because they can smash through window panes bright and early in the morning and awaken everyone in the house. At least the family of Mrs. Elizabeth Leppen at 25 Wadsworth street prefers the alarm clock.

The bird broke into the Leppen home at 6:30 yesterday morning making his entrance by breaking the window pane in the living room. His sudden entry sent the curtain shade flying up to the rod with a bang that frightened Mrs. Leppen who thought at first that a picture must have fallen off the wall. Entering the room she found the pheasant on the carpet and he quickly flew into another room. There was danger of further damage to vases and other furnishings but fortunately no more accidents resulted. Mrs. Leppen was at loss as to how to rid herself of the unwelcome visitor until the milk man, William McKinley, came along, caught the pheasant and freed it from a window.

PARTY FOR WHOLE FAMILY IN TEMPLE

Supper, Dancing, Bridge and Games For Children On Friday Night.

The Masonic fraternity and affiliated orders will hold a get-together social and dance in the Temple, Friday evening, October 7 including bridge whist and setback and games for children under the direction of Wilfred Clarke and Miss Dorothy Hansen. The program consists of a dinner to be served in the lower hall at 6:30 p. m., followed by an entertainment in the main lodge room at 7:45. G. Goodspeed, bass soloist and C. Flynn, baritone soloist of Hartford will entertain with several selections; E. A. Brigham in a musical novelty act and G. Thompson and C. Back in a comedy act. The Temple quartet under the direction of Harry Armstrong will render several selections during the evening. At 8:30 p. m., dancing will be in order in the lower hall and bridge, whist and setback settings will be arranged in the cloak rooms. Games will be played by the children in the lodge room under the direction of Mr. Clarke and Miss Hansen. Bill Waddell's orchestra will play for dancing. Tickets will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children under 12 years of age admitting the holder to the dinner and the entire program. The committee on arrangements is headed by John McLoughlin assisted by Peter Wind, Leroy Norris, William Ellis, Robert McLoughlin, Holger Bach, Leo Stiles, James Baker, Frank Schiebel, Loren Clifford, Aaron Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Straw, Mrs. Russell Tryon and Mrs. Wallace Robb. Ticket returns should be made to Leo Stiles, this evening at the Temple.

COURSE IN FIRST AID AT RECREATION CENTER

Dr. R. P. Knapp of Cheney Brothers To Be In Charge-Ten Lessons Included.

One of the new features of the Recreation Center program announced yesterday is a course in first-aid work which will be given from 7 to 8:30 each Friday evening in the east side building under the direction of Dr. Robert P. Knapp, head of the Medical Department at Cheney Brothers. Special letters talking of the benefits of first-aid training have been mailed to the heads of every business concern where there is possibility of accidents. The letters urge the firms to designate one of more of their men to take the course and thereby be of value to them in case of accidents. The course is in ten lessons and the range of subjects is extensive. They are as follows: What first aid to the injured includes; bandages; injuries in which the skin is not pierced or broken; injuries in which the skin is pierced or broken; bleeding; injuries due to heat and cold; suffocation and resuscitation; unconsciousness; common emergencies; industrial accidents. The physical educational training part of the Recreation programs will be taken care of by Director Frank Supph and Associate Director Miss Gertrude Peck, the former attending to the men and boys, the latter to the women and girls. The program for the fall and winter season is one of the most extensive ever planned.

WASHINGTON MONUMENT AWAITING BETTER TIMES

John Jensen, Committee Chairman, Says Only $650 of $4,000 Needed Has Been Raised.

The movement to erect a monument at Manchester Green to the memory of George Washington during this year the bi-centennial of his birth, has failed thus far, it was admitted today by John Jensen, chairman of the committee in charge. Only about $650 of the necessary $4,000 has been raised. Mr. Jensen stated that the committee consisting of Griswold Chappell, Myron Peckham, Mrs. Jennie Cook and John Kunsis, will remain intact and will resume its work as soon as business conditions improve sufficiently to warrant another attempt. The idea originated with Memorial Lodge, K. of P., and other local organizations were invited to take part. Past chancellors' night will be observed by Linn Lodge, No. 74 Knights of Pythias, at the regular meeting of the lodge in Orange Hall tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The oldest past chancellors of the lodge will occupy the chairs during the meeting, and District Deputy Grand Chancellor Alexander Berggren of this town will be a speaker. Other members of the lodge will also speak and members of the Beethoven Glee Club, who also belong to Linn, will sing. Refreshments will be served, followed by a social hour. The chairs will be taken by the following past chancellors: Oscar L. Anderson, chancellor commander; John E. Johnson, vice chancellor commander; Ernest Kjelson, keeper of records and seals; Arvid Gustafson, master of finance; John L. Olson, master of exchequer; William Carlson, prelate; Algot Johnson, master at work; Harry L. Gustafson, master at arms; Albert Swanson, inner guard; and Carl J. B. Anderson, outer guard.
