

WORST BEHIND US COOLIDGE STATES

Praise President "As Man Who Saved Country From Disaster and Is Entitled to the Nation's Gratitude."

New York, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Calvin Coolidge, coming from his New England retreat to praise President Hoover as a man who saved the country from disaster, has signalled the start of the final phase of his party's campaign.

"If saving the country from one impending disaster after another provides any basis for gratitude, President Hoover is entitled to gratitude," he said.

Worst Troubles Past He declared the country "knows that its worst troubles are probably past and economic recovery is beginning."

In his deliberative voice, Mr. Coolidge "let at what he called a 'pending Democratic Treasury bill' and said that assurance that it could be defeated by a Republican majority in reviving all kinds of business."

COMMENTS ON SPEECH New York, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Senator Felix Hebert of Rhode Island, eastern Republican campaign manager, predicted in a statement today that former President Calvin Coolidge's speech in Madison Square Garden last night "will re-elect President Hoover."

Other comment on the Coolidge speech issued from the headquarters of the eastern division of the Republican National committee follows: Henry W. Taft, brother of the late Chief Justice and President—"It was a great speech. It was most persuasive and should have enormous influence throughout the country."

George Z. Medalle, Republican candidate for the United States Senate from New York—"It was one of the greatest speeches I ever heard in any political campaign. Its message to the American people should provide the solution on election day."

INSURGENTS' PLAINT TO GO TO HOOVER

President's Secretary Writes That Prof. Conover's Letter Will Receive Attention.

New Haven, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Independent Republican headquarters announced that assurance has been received by Prof. Milton Conover, the party's candidate for Senator, from Lawrence Richey, secretary to President Hoover, that the move to have the names of the Republican presidential electors excluded from the Independent ballot will be brought to the President's attention.

Richey wrote in reply to a letter from Prof. Conover in which the latter warned of a possible loss of votes for the President if the Republican electors are not placed on the Independent ballot.

In reply to a similar letter from the Senatorial candidate Henry J. Allen, publicity director of the Republican National committee, expressed appreciation to Prof. Conover for "calling to our attention the situation that exists in Connecticut."

His Second Letter In a second letter to Richey made public today by the Independent headquarters Professor Conover wrote: "I sincerely hope that some one can convince the Republican Presidential electorate nominees that it would be to their interest to allow their names to appear on the ballot for the Independent Republican party."

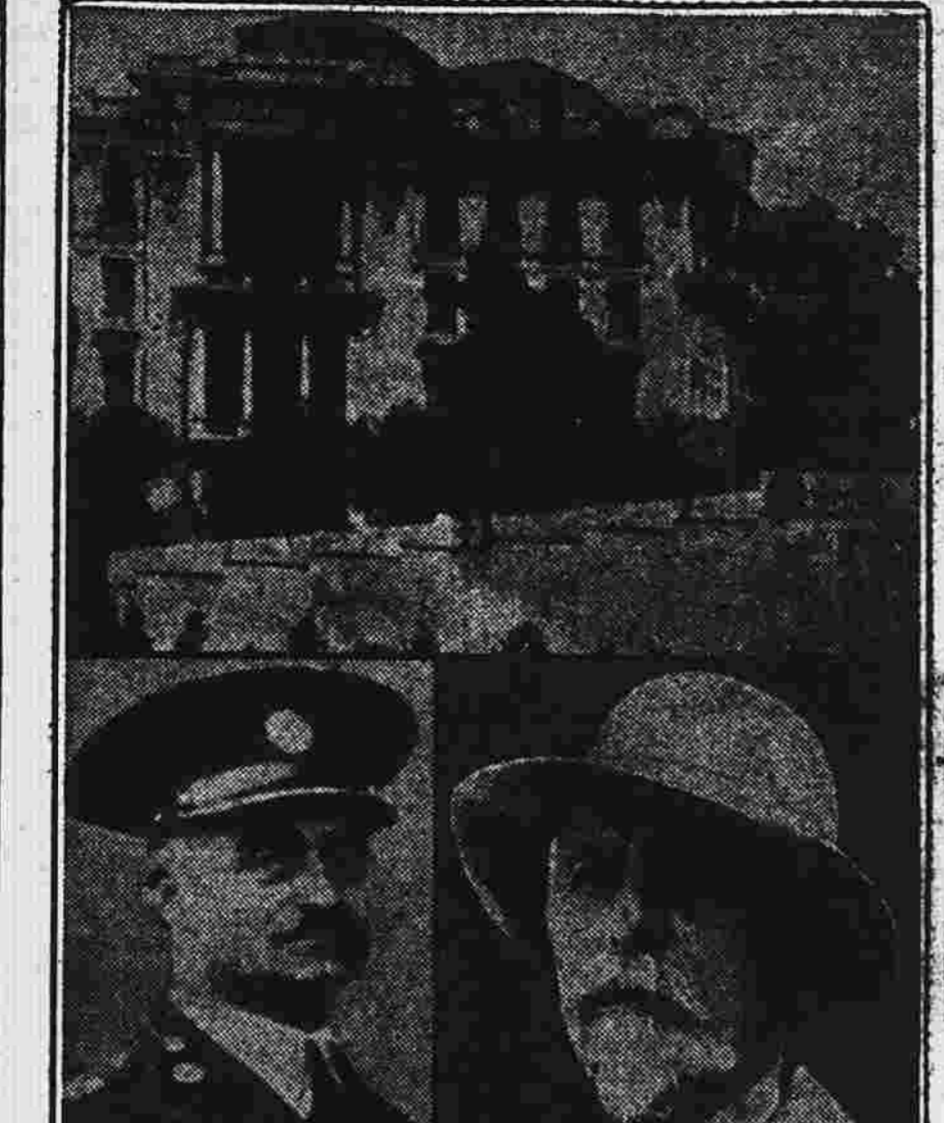

Prof. Conover reiterated his pledge of "loyalty to Mr. Hoover." A hearing in the mandamus proceedings instituted by the Independent Republicans seeking to force the secretary of state to include the Republican electors on the Independent ballot will be held in Superior Court at New Haven Friday.

Burley, Idaho, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Senator William E. Borah, Idaho Republican, says "the most encouraging event" in the present National election campaign is the disregard by both major party candidates for President of their platforms, "in important particulars."

Disregarded Platforms Said the Senator: "I say to you frankly that what I shall have to say in this campaign will not be in harmony with either the Democratic or Republican platform adopted at Chicago. But in this respect I am neither an exceptional nor original. Both candidates for the presidency of the leading parties have in important particulars disregarded their platforms."

OPEN FORUM

CRITICIZES ROGERS' SPEECH. Editor, The Herald: Some thoughts came to my mind after the string of words our Willard put together and poured over the members of the Kiwanis Club. It is amazing to what lengths a man will go. The faculty with which he flings figures around in his comprehension. In the midst of his numerous activities would it be asking too much to call for the authorities on which he bases his statements or is he solely indebted to his imagination for his facts. He blandly wonders how many of his hearers knew "that for a week after England went off the gold," "standard, there was a real feeling" among financial and business "leaders in this country that we "would follow suit." This he imparts with the delightful air that, of course, being one of the leaders, he knew all about it. A queer idea he must have had of the intelligence or knowledge of his listeners as President Hoover in his Iowa speech recently broadcast the same information all over the country, why shouldn't his hearers know all about it? Yet Senator James A. Reed of Missouri comes along and with no uncertain voice says it ain't so, or to be strictly accurate "it is absolutely untrue." You may make your own choice about it.

DRY LAW CAUSED INCREASED CRIME

Public Demands Liquor and Gangsters Supply It, Says Lawyers' Report. Washington, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A report to the American Bar Association said organized crime by gangsters is based largely on supply and demand and that prohibition "brought about a demand for the services of outlaws such as we never had in this or any other country prior to prohibition." The report on "Mercenary Crime" was made by the committee on criminology designated by the organization two years ago to study gangsters and their operations. "In the life of our cities we have had various lawless gangs over the last 100 years" the report said. "However these gangs did not flourish and prosper to any great extent until the advent of prohibition x x x." "We do not want to be understood as holding a brief for or against this law; we simply point out what we believe to be a fact, that prohibition brought about a condition of times and customs and law which made it easy for the gangster to obtain a large personal organization at a small risk and that it also brought about a demand for the services of outlaws such as we never had in this or any other country prior to prohibition." The report said despite the prohibition laws there was "a general and widespread demand on the part of a large section of the American public for intoxicating liquor" and that "few people, if any" considered violation of the dry laws involved moral turpitude.

FENCE OFF PLAYING FIELD AT MT. NEBO

Will Keep Spectators Off Field and Will Protect the Playing Surface.

A heavy wire cable fence is being strung around the Mt. Nebo Recreation Center football field and the work will be completed shortly. The purpose of the fence is not only to keep the crowds off the playing surface during the games but also to help protect it at all times. The cable is being strung at a height of forty inches on both sides.

The five sets of bleacher seats from the West Side playgrounds have also been transported to the Mt. Nebo field where they have been placed for use at future games. Three are on one side and two on the other. The cost of putting up the fence and moving the bleachers will run quite high and in order that this will not come out of the Recreation Center's limited budget a rental charge is made for use of the field.

This fee will continue until such time as the expenditure on the field has been met. Next spring there will be a necessary added expense in fertilizing and seeding the field over again. The gridiron is in very satisfactory condition now but there is danger of ruining it if not properly maintained. Many have expressed the opinion that the field is the best that Manchester has ever possessed.

WARNS OF SKIDDING ON FALLEN LEAVES

Department of Motor Vehicles Says Hazard Is Second Only To Coating of Ice.

Motor vehicle operators should be alert at this season of the year to the hazards and dangers brought about by the slipperiness of modern pavements where the fallen tree leaves come to rest, says the Department of Motor Vehicles. The activity of the State Highway department in clearing away accumulations of leaves on the highways and street departments to the same end greatly reduced the peril but often the leaves fall more quickly than they can be removed and motorists must be watchful. Barring only a coating of ice, dead leaves, when wet or in a process of rapid decay, offer the most serious threat to adequate car control on a smooth pavement. Many accidents have been caused by the skidding of cars which began at places in which wet leaves had gathered.

The night driving grows increasingly perilous because of the fact the fallen foliage is so readily moulded into a smooth covering of the road surface that the lights of swiftly moving cars do not always make its presence visible. At this season, too, there is much fog to add concealment to the menace.

In the whole of last year there were 4,911 accidents including fatalities which occurred because pavements were slippery due to the presence of ice, rainwater, fallen leaves or oil. There were 1,050 accidents in which skidding was given as a cause and 10 of these involved fatalities.

It is especially necessary that motor vehicles be provided with adequate tires in good adjustment, proper headlights, tires with good tread and windshield wipers that are in working condition during this season to insure their safe operation under the more trying circumstances of fall driving.

VICE PRESIDENT CURTIS NOW SPEAKING IN IDAHO

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Vice President Charles Curtis swung into Idaho for a brief stop at Lewiston today after declaring the Republican Party is working to put agriculture on a parity with industry.

The problem of agriculture, he said, centers on the necessity of bringing the farmers into a situation of equality with industry. "The problem has been met somewhat, but much remains to be done. It is an important question in this campaign, and if you voters are to decide just which of the two Great Parties is best fitted to solve it fairly and justly, you must consider their records and decide upon their accomplishments.

"It is toward this end that the Republican Party in its platform pledges itself to make such revisions of tariff schedules as economic changes require to maintain the parity of protection to agriculture with other industries."

These 3 rules mean less work and less attention. Koppers Connecticut Coke requires less work in firing and in taking out ashes, burns perfectly and provides a steady warmth for less cost. They simply took the advice of one of the thousands of enthusiastic users of Koppers Connecticut Coke, and tried this better fuel that sells for less. WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 12.

COOLIDGE'S O. K.

The highest significance of Calvin Coolidge's Madison Square Garden speech derives from the fact that Mr. Coolidge was President of the United States in the days of the nation's most abounding prosperity, that his name is more intimately associated with national well being than that of any other man in any period, and that this historic figure, who would be more than human if he were not very jealous of his monumental reputation as a great leader in economic wisdom, last night put the seal of his unqualified approval on the administration of his successor; paid President Hoover the tribute of declaring, in effect, that Mr. Hoover has done everything for the country's well being that he himself could have done. Mr. Coolidge did not, of course, employ exactly that language, since modesty forbade; but the completeness of his endorsement of the Hoover policies carries with it the unavoidable implication that they would have been, without the crossing of a t or the dotting of an i, Coolidge policies if the former President had still been in office during these last three and a half years.

One does not look for oratory from Calvin Coolidge, and one does not get it. His is the homespun style, always has been. He deals with fundamentals, in his rare speeches, in his writings, in his thinking. He believes, thoroughly, that this business depression is due in the main to a failure of credit. He believes thoroughly that the only road to restoration has lain and now lies in credit's restoration. In his New York speech he put his absolute O. K. on President Hoover's vast and unremitting plans for credit rehabilitation, and he made very clear his reasons:

"We have become a great industrial democracy. It has been the theory of the Republican party that the welfare of the people could be best promoted by strengthening and enlarging that system. We have sought to create a condition under which the ordinary man would have the best possible opportunity to find a market for whatever he had to sell, whether of production or labor. We have tens of millions of wage earners in this country. The Republican party has never believed that they could be furnished with suitable permanent employment unless some one could derive a reasonable profit from employing them. We have advocated strengthening the position of the employer so that he might pay better wages to his employees, enlarge the consumptive capacity of the people and increase the market for the farm and factory. * * * Always the end has been to improve the well being of the ordinary run of people. * * * It is inevitable that when a concern can only make a loss it will discharge labor. * * * It is difficult to conceive any important business that does not involve the question of credit. When credit begins to be impaired business becomes paralyzed. * * * Since the main cause of our difficulties lay in a failure of credit the first object should be to restore credit. That is the policy which President Hoover has constantly advocated. He has no wish to assist a bank because it is a bank. * * * He has been seeking to preserve and restore the independent economic condition of the great mass of the people. Their suffering was brought about to a large degree by the failure of credit. If that credit can be renewed, if confidence can be restored, the people can go back to work and their suffering will cease.

No, Mr. Coolidge is no orator. He weaves no magic spells with words and voice. But he stands, in the mind of the country, for an era of plenty, of a job for everyone. His unreserved endorsement of the Hoover administration and the plain, uninvolved reasoning that leads to that endorsement, should be worth more to the Republican cause than hundreds of thunderclaps from hundreds of platforms. He speaks with the nation's clearest voice of authority.

TANGLED UP
For a while after making his New London acceptance speech, in which Governor Cross bragged about how much he was able to get out of a Republican Legislature, Wilbur left it to his political strikers to go about the state bewailing the "lack of co-operation" given by the G. O. P. majority in the General Assembly. Now he is tooting his own little horn to that very effect. The difficulties he encountered in getting results out of an allegedly antagonistic Legislature constituted a major part of his speech at Bridgeport the other day.

Either Governor Cross was blocked and hampered by the Republican majority in the last Legislature or he wasn't. If he brags of achievement how does he account for it in the face of antagonistic Republican control of the Legislature? If he complains of non-co-operation, how can he also claim credit for the Legislature's work?

However, since the governor has succeeded in making plenty of enemies in both factions of his own party, and since those Republicans who helped elect him in 1930 have ever since been wondering what was the matter with them, it probably makes little difference how illogical or silly Wilbur waxes on the stump. The people of this state will safely elect former Governor Trumbull, who is a man to be taken seriously and who is able to get results without all these difficulties—and have done with the Cross nonsensicality for good and all.

SUPER-UNIVERSITY
The ordinary mill run American will be, it is to be presumed, quite overawed by the extreme loftiness and top-sidedness of the new Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, where Dr. Albert Einstein is to be head of the School of Mathematics. Even very great personages now shining magnificently on the thrones of what we have been so naive as to call our "great universities" must be hanging their diminished heads in sore consciousness of their littleness. For here, if you please, we are to have a real university—not in the shallow and pin-headed American conception of the term, but in the sense in which the superior culture of Europe might accept it. None of this mixing up of academic departments with post-graduate schools, no paying attention to such crass and commonplace problems as even Harvard sometimes deals with—the fitting together of a certain measure of culture and preparedness for getting a living. Nothing like that. This is to be a school of the higher research for the higher intellects, a nursery of pure scholarship. We shall all, doubtless, be enormously proud of it. But only the elect among us shall have even a glimmering of what it is all about.

PRECIOUS TIME WASTED
This campaign hasn't forever to run. There is no possible sense in denying that the Democrats had a flying start in the very nature of things. The business collapse came during a Republican administration and the crowd, lacking any clear understanding of what brought it about, naturally attributed all their troubles to the party in power. Wherefore the Republican job has been to make the people understand that the administration party has done everything possible to improve conditions and that it has been as successful as any reasonable being could expect any party to be. There is no doubt that the party speakers, and particularly Mr. Hoover, have succeeded to a very considerable extent in allaying unthinking resentment and in convincing a great many voters, at first inclined to bolt, that their best interest lies in the re-election of Mr. Hoover and the continuation of the Republican party in power.

few weeks, a marked improvement in textile and other manufacturing, which to a considerable extent has been maintained.
So that when the politicians are quarreling among themselves as to whether somebody came near to knocking the gold standard for a goal or whether nobody did, or how or when or where, they are losing the ear of the public, which doesn't give a rap—and which has good reason for not giving a rap.

The effect of this is that the campaign is getting nowhere, at a time when it should be apparent to Republican leaders that there is still some distance to go, considerable gain yet to be made, before there can be any definite assurance of victory. There are less than four weeks remaining. There is material enough that is tangible, concrete, in Garnetism, in the threat of Southern ascendancy, in the mushiness and futility of Roosevelt's fiat by economic program, in the history of President Hoover's titanic and intelligent and successful efforts to minimize the effects here of the world's muddle, to enable the party to make, before election day, the gains it must make. It never will make them by devoting its time to hysterical shiverings over an imaginary danger narrowly escaped. Not when the biggest part of the country refuses to consider the thing a danger at all; not when such regional influential members of the party as Senator Borah are out today with open declarations for currency expansion.

BELFAST RIOTS
If the cause attributed to the rioting in Belfast by one American correspondent is a true one, the unhappy situation there is the result of a pretty contemptible piece of meanness. There has been, of course, a great deal of unemployment and distress. A considerable number of relief workers had to be employed. This correspondent asserts that discontent among these workers over the rate of their pay prompted them to instigate the disturbances, egging on the many more or less desperate people among whom they were operating to the making of public demonstration against the authorities.

Probably when the relief workers sowed the seeds of disturbance they did not expect that bloody rioting would ensue, but at least they should have known that they were playing with fire.

Evidently Belfast, like a good many cities that you can reach without crossing blue water, has been insufficiently careful in the selection of the persons charged with administering relief.

GREAT MEN
Nowadays, when you see a newspaper cut of a touseled-male person bawling into a microphone you have to look at the caption to discover whether it is Babe Ruth or Huey Long. These two intellectual giants look enough alike, in the mike pose, to be at least twins. At that, Babe would probably make a better senator than Huey and there are at least four hundred ball players that would do better at the job than the Babe.

Health and Diet Advice

ACNE OR PIMPLES
Attacks of pimples or acne are very common conditions among young people, usually at the age when they are most sensitive about their appearance. I have had many young patients confide to me that they did not like to meet people or go to parties because of these unsightly blemishes. It would be interesting to know how many inferiority complexes had their start in a disturbingly pimpled face during the ages from twelve to twenty.

brings about an increased elimination through the skin. This in itself would not likely cause an inflammation of the glands unless accompanied by waste products which seem to be produced by intestinal putrefaction. Constipation must be one of the most important causes since it is practically always present, and I am sure that overeating on starchy foods, fried foods, pastries, and oily foods must also be considered a contributing cause. A lack of exercise, anemia, poor air, late hours, the use of certain drugs, failure to properly clean an oily skin, bad teeth and gum troubles are other causes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
(Fractured Tibia)
Question: Nannette P. asks: "How long does it generally take for a fractured tibia, five inches above ankle, to heal, and what are the foods one should use to help in the process?"

Answer: It would be difficult for me to determine the length of time it would take for the bone to knit, without first carefully examining the fracture. The foods containing calcium, large quantities of which are found in cress, lettuce, spinach, cabbage, Swiss chard, turnips, lemons, oranges, milk, cottage cheese, asparagus and strawberries, are the most valuable to use during the repair of a fracture.

(Acid and Gall-bladder)
Question: Mrs. McR. asks: "Is it true that one who has no gall-bladder stores up more acid continually?"
Answer: It is possible for one to continue in good health after the gall-bladder is removed if the bile flows into the intestines from the liver at regular intervals after food is eaten. Bile is alkaline and, therefore, counteracts the stomach acids as they enter the small intestine. If the bile is detained too long in the liver or does not flow sufficiently, there will be an over-acid condition of the intestines, and this causes certain digestive troubles. This may be true with those who have a gall-bladder as well as those who have had it removed.

(Cottage Cheese)
Question: Marienne P. asks: "When cottage cheese is used in place of meat, what is the approximate portion per person?"
Answer: It is all right for most people to use about one-quarter of a pound of cottage cheese in place of the same amount of meat. This is approximately an ordinary sauce dish full.

Behind the Scenes in WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington.—It's a strange business when a multimillionaire such as Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills is made the one big gun of the Hoover campaign, assigned almost single-handed to save the president's skin and to follow around behind Governor Roosevelt to undo whatever good the Democratic candidate may have done for himself.

Not many years ago it would have been considered virtually suicidal to hand such a job to anyone who symbolized great wealth, Wall Street and the ultra-conservative in politics as Mills does.

Today virtually all the members of the cabinet are millionaires and the administration is so frankly conservative that selection of Mills as its chief strategist and tower of strength in this campaign is appropriate.

Mills, however, does not owe his present position either to his wealth or the fact that he is a regular of regulars. He has been given this high trust and great power partly because Mr. Hoover's other close advisers and speakers obviously haven't the qualifications for the job and partly because Ogden has proved himself such an able citizen.

After looking over the rest of the field and past the long spare frames of Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, one comes to chubby little Mills and concludes that he was the answer to a White House prayer.

It will be interesting to see how it works out as Mills goes tearing around the circle in Roosevelt's wake, dissecting and scolding the governor's speeches, harpooning him from the rear. It would be more fortunate if Mills had had time to acquire political stature and prestige comparable to that of Borah and Hughes, the two heaviest Hoover orators of 1928. He has come along with remarkable speed, however, and western Republicans can be sure that, with the president off the stump, Mills is the best they will get.

Mills never has made any bones about his social-economic beliefs. He works in close contact with the nation's financial leaders and he holds that the country is best off when in the hands of men accustomed to handling millions.

Mills, more than any other man, is identified with the depression policy which has produced the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and which is based on the theory that the only real prosperity is the sort which has to "trickle down to the masses."

Unless the country has already attacked itself to that brand of conservatism and is largely sympathetic with the Hoover policies, Mills may get none too warm a reception out west.

He makes the best defenses of the administration that have yet been heard, but it is doubtful whether any speaker this year could sway a great number of votes one way or the other. Hence the secretary's chief function is likely to be to get western Republicans pepped up and out on the job.

Oggy—that's his nickname, although ex-Secretary Mellon called him Og—stepped into the campaign at the Chicago convention when he became Hoover's chief fighting champion in the fight over a prohibition plank.

He was found to possess the below of a bull along with the best qualities of public speakers. His mighty voice threatened to burst the amplifying apparatus and was especially effective in drowning out the boating of the wets.

He entered a career of politics 20 years ago, stepping from the lap of luxury into ward politics, then to the legislature, then to Congress. Six years ago he ran against Al Smith for governor of New York, made some bad bones and lost by 250,000 votes.

He was made undersecretary of the treasury by Coolidge, applied himself assiduously, took over more and more responsibility from Mellon and was handling moratoriums, trying to balance the budget, retrenching and framing tax bills long before he became secretary following Mellon's resignation.

MCDONNELL AIDES ATTEMPT ESCAPE

Mankus Brothers Try Court Room Break As Their Sister Faints At Sentence.

An unexpected court uprising climaxed the trial of the Mankus brothers of New Britain yesterday afternoon when they were brought before Judge Frederick M. Peasley in Superior Court to face charges of conspiring to help Michael J. (Lefty) McDonnell escape from State's Prison at Wethersfield.

A sister of the accused fainted, her husband assaulted County Detective Edward J. Hickey and the two brothers, Albert and Adolph Mankus, tried to escape—all at the pronouncement of sentence of from two to five years by Judge Peasley.

No Charges

Court officials were busy for a few minutes but the trouble was quickly subdued. Mrs. Charles Kejewski, the woman who fainted, was revived. Deputy sheriffs pinioned the arms of her husband after he had struck Hickey in the face with his fist but the county detective declined to press charges and his wife to return to their home on 380 North Burrill street in New Britain. Meanwhile in the prisoners' pen other court officials quickly handcuffed the Mankus brothers when they made their futile attempt to escape.

The Superior Court room was crowded at the time and there was considerable excitement until order was restored. The Mankus brothers were taken to State's Prison. Sentence of from two to four years for theft of an automobile and his time was to have expired next March. His brother was living with the Kejewski family. Another younger brother was in court and wept throughout the proceedings.

In Conspiracy

The Mankus brothers were accused of conspiring to help McDonnell, one of the five sentenced to life imprisonment for the Captain William F. Madden murder here in 1919, make an escape next Saturday. The chain of evidence included discovery of a jar of salve containing four small saws and several letters written with invisible ink which were intercepted by a faithful prison guard who won the confidence of McDonnell. State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn described McDonnell as a dangerous man with a killer's instinct, in court yesterday.

SMITH TO SPEAK IN HUB

Boston, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Alfred E. Smith of New York will speak in Boston on Thursday night, October 27, in support of the National and State Democratic tickets.

Joseph A. Maynard, chairman of the Democratic State committee, last night announced the decision of the former New York governor to speak here.

According to an itinerary announced several days ago, Smith will speak here four days before Franklin D. Roosevelt comes here himself. The Democratic presidential nominee is scheduled for an address here October 31.

Governor Joseph E. Ely, who placed Smith's name in nomination at the Democratic National convention, will appear on the same program as Smith.

NEW ENGLAND CROPS

Boston, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The New England crop reporting service today estimates the commercial apple crop would total 1,940,000 barrels. This compared with 1,075,000 barrels harvested last year.

The service said that while the apple crop is quite spotted in some localities, it is generally good in most parts of New England.

Believing the report said, are a good crop this year particularly in Maine and New Hampshire while the production of McIntosh materially exceeds that of last year. Apples this year are generally of good size and color and comparatively free from insect and disease injury where good care has been given to the crop.

STUDENTS FORGET LOVE

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Student worries about love, social affairs and religion appear to have dropped during the depression, says a survey made public at Purdue University today.

This survey compares the things which worried students sufficiently to interfere with their studies in 1929 and in the present year. It was made among students of elementary psychology by Dr. G. S. Brandenburg and his staff.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Budapest—Every man, woman and child in the village of Lenti-Hegy, Transdanubia, is drinking wine instead of water since the town well went dry.

Seattle—E. C. Parks was enroute home with a bale of hay on the rear bumper of his automobile when the exhaust set it on fire. A fire company, caught up with Parks, who was unaware of the fire, and extinguished the flames.

Chicago—Happy days are here again for Chicago school teachers. The $2,400,000 school payroll for the first half of April was met by the sale of tax warrants to local banks, and they were rejoicing in the knowledge that money is always welcome, even if it does arrive a bit late.

Boonville, Ind.—Arthur Griffith pointed his gun at a friend and pulled the trigger. Nothing happened, but the friend reprimanded him for it. To show the gun wasn't loaded, Griffith held it to his own head, and pressed the trigger.

Pittsburgh—The trees are cutting capers in western Pennsylvania. At Sharon, far from the southland, a dog is thriving—loaded with fruit.

Westmoreland county several apple trees, not content with bearing blossoms on their laden branches.

Dallas—District Judge Adams fined "Dignitary" McCraw $25 for contempt of court, after the prosecutor made sharp retort to the remark of another attorney.

McCraw returned to the courtroom presently and turned over 500 nickles to Jim Barber, clerk, offering no explanation for giving the small change.

Salt Lake City—Four convicts in the Utah State penitentiary, who were placed in solitary confinement when they were found digging a tunnel under the wall of the prison, have been ordered released from "solitary" long enough to fill in the 20 foot long shaft they excavated.

After the work is completed, they will be returned to their "one man" cells.

London—A hearty trencherwoman and no mean tea drinker is Mrs. Caroline Merriott, London's oldest woman. Celebrating what she called her 107th birthday recently, she put away five loaves of tea and large supplies of roast beef, potatoes, greens, plum tarts and cheese.

Philadelphia—The police butted into trouble today—and then the trouble returned the compliment. In the darkness two patrolmen heard a noise on a vacant lot. They cautiously investigated, creeping up in their best slithering manner. Suddenly they were attacked from the rear. They turned about and learned the answer to "what goes about 'abuttin'." It was a goat.

Chicago—Judge John H. Ehardt of Berwyn wondered where all the defendants were when 25 men arrested in an alleged gambling house failed to appear. He wasn't enlightened until a stranger arose to speak.

"The boys would have been here," he said, "only they thought the case had been fixed." Judge Ehardt then fixed it, forfeiting all their bonds.

Detroit—Police have introduced the "ice cream degree" and in its one trial it worked. Sixteen-year-old Joseph Lark, accused of a hold-up in which a man was shot, without two days of questioning. Then police gave him two helpings of ice cream. Lark disposed of both.

"I'm feeling pretty good now," he announced. "I did it."

Ottawa—The governor-general put his hands to the plow when he officially opened the inter-national plowing match at the Dominion experimental farm yesterday. His excellency, the Earl of Bessborough, plowed a furrow in connection with the opening ceremony while Premier R. E. Bennett, Hon. Robert Weir, minister of agriculture and directors of the match looked on.

Greensburg, Pa.—In Mount Pleasant township where unemployed men work out their taxes repairing streets, a man whose taxes were paid applied for a job. Investigation revealed he owed his tailor a bill and the tailor couldn't meet his taxes until the bill was paid. They agreed the debtor would work off the tailor's taxes. Town officials are scratching their heads.

Oklahoma City—Accused of selling liquor, George Reeves, negro, pleaded extenuating circumstances. "Didn't you know you were selling that whiskey to an officer?" Judge Foster asked him.

"No, Your Honor," replied the defendant. "I'm stone blind and couldn't see."

The arresting officer testified Reeves was not handicapped in making the correct change.

"Twenty dollars and costs," the court decreed.

Roseburg, Ore.—Bill McDowell, Roseburg youngster, still plans to learn the trick of the cowboy, but following the unexpected denouncement of his one man rodeo, he will combine his study for the present to fancy roping. Bill rounded up the family cow, manipulated himself onto her back, and started out for a bit of rough riding. The cow showed hitherto concealed energy and Bill went sailing over his head. He'll start in on the roping as soon as his broken arm is well.

Cedar Falls, Ia.—Not that you should judge a freshman at Iowa State Teachers College by the answers he gives in an intelligence test, but then—here are some of the freshmen's answers:

Prosecution—The killing of a large number of persons.

Adulteration—Growth from childhood to maturity.

Jamboree—Shallow one-headed drum with jingles at the side.

Atheist—A plant or animal that lives at the expense of others.

OLD WASHINGTON ROAD NOW ON STATE TRAIL

New Haven, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A road traveled by George Washington in his journeys from Wallingford to Durham has been taken into the trail system of the Connecticut Forest and Park Association. This has been marked as a tramping trail.

Washington went over it in 1775 when he was on his way to take command of the army at Cambridge, Mass., and again October 19, 1789, when he was on a tour of the country as President. Modern hikers will tramp the road, but Wallingford rode over it.

Markers have been placed on the trail by citizens of the two towns and on the 19th, an anniversary date, there will be a pilgrimage of foot and horse over this trail. It is "Blue-blazed" and is a feeder to the Mattabessett trail which it intersects.

FORD TO HELP NEEDY

Detroit, Oct. 12.—(AP)—On the assurance of the Ford Motor Company that it is prepared to handle the Dearborn welfare problem this winter, the Dearborn City Council has abandoned a proposal for an extra tax to meet the needs of its unemployed.

BANDITS KILL WOMAN

Harbin, Manchuria, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Mrs. C. T. Woodruff, wife of an official of the British-American Tobacco Company, was shot dead today by bandits as she attempted to save her two sons from kidnaping.

The crime was committed in broad daylight on one of the principal streets of Harbin and the whole city, which lately has been a prey to such raids, was raised to a high pitch of excitement.

Mrs. Woodruff's chauffeur was seriously wounded, but the children were unharmed. The bandits escaped.

On behalf of the foreign consular corps, George C. Hanson, the American consul-general, made renewed representations to the Manchukuo and Japanese authorities for greater police protection. The citizens of Harbin, he said, are afraid to venture into the streets.

WHY NEW HAVEN MAN WAS ALWAYS MISSING

Had Two Wives—When With One Other Would Report To The Police.

New Haven, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Police said today they have apparently learned why Pasquale Ricciuto, a Hartford man, frequently reported missing to Hartford and New Haven officials.

They charged that Ricciuto, arrested on a technical charge of illness, has a wife in Hartford and another in New Haven. When he stayed in Hartford officials said Mrs. Ricciuto of New Haven would report him missing and when he came to New Haven Mrs. Ricciuto of Hartford would appeal to the police to search for him.

Florence Sherman of Park avenue, Hartford, told police she married Ricciuto on May 7 and that she knew him as Andrew Rosa. Police also said they were investigating a complaint that Ricciuto had sold an automobile for a friend and had kept the money. He will be arraigned in City Court tomorrow.

VICTORY BY ROOSEVELT WOULD HALT RECOVERY

the recovery," the secretary said. "Another reason for my belief that election of the Democratic candidate would be bad for business is the provision in his party's platform and assertions in his Sioux City speech calling for a tariff revision."

Would Disturb Trade "There is nothing that would be more disturbing to business at this time or in the near future than a complete tariff revision. It would throw business into an attitude of uncertainty, injuring the confidence upon which it is rebuilding itself now."

Secretary Mills, who will make a campaign address in Minneapolis tonight, said his visits through the west "have failed to convince me that Roosevelt is the threat that I had been told by Democrats he would be."

He said he was convinced that California would be won by Hoover. In Missouri, he said there "will be a tight fight."

"As a matter of fact I haven't found any Roosevelt sentiment anywhere—I have simply found persons who are against Hoover," he said. "There is an absence of enthusiasm for Roosevelt and the only serious threat Republicans must overcome is a negative attitude in some areas against the President. But that is being overcome."

Secretary Mills characterized last night's New York address by former President Coolidge as "a humdrum, the kind I would like to make if I could."

of 12, billed as Mlle. Petite De Forest and with his hair in long curls because his parents thought it better to bill Jimmy's amazing serial acts as performed by a girl.

He drifted into the Bowers fight clubs but was never much of a success as a fighter and soon became a trainer and manager.

Toured Europe Hearing of the fine exercises used by European athletes De Forest went back to the continent in the early '80's and toured various army camps, learning training and massage methods.

Returning to the United States he soon gained a reputation as a second and trainer. He handled Tommy Ryan for years. Kid McCoy and other greats of the ring and was in Dempsey's corner when the man mauler whipped Jess Willard for the heavyweight title. He later managed Luis Firpo but was let out by the South American before the Dempsey fight.

Although De Forest himself never would give his age beyond the vague statement that was "somewhere under 70," close friends say he probably was somewhat over that age at his death.

SILVER QUARTER TEST DOES NOT WORK OUT

Washington, Oct. 12.—(AP)—August Magni has this measure of consolation—he proved false the old theory that toaststools stewing in a pot will turn a silver quarter black.

August and his wife, Eva, thought perhaps the fars of their boarding house might be enhanced by such a method of the ordinary delicacy as mushrooms.

With a basket and aided by two boarders they picked nearly a bushel. The "mushrooms" simmered on the stove when August, to make sure they were what he thought they were, said: "If silver turns black we'll know they are toaststools."

A shiny silver quarter came out of the pot just as shiny as the mushrooms were when August, after a few minutes' cooking, had contracted pneumonia.

Mrs. Reed was formerly Lura M. Olmstead of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. They were married August 1, 1887.

FARMER ORGANIZERS ARE HELD FOR COURT

Middletown, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Raiph Jacobs of West Springfield, Mass., and George Hutchinson of Norwich, Conn., charged with National, Inc., of Norwich were held in $15,000 bonds each today when arraigned in Superior Court on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses.

State Attorney E. E. Spencer charged the pair had been soliciting membership for their organization and collecting membership fees by falsely telling Middlesex county farmers that the organization had been endorsed by Gov. Cross.

Two counts were lodged against Hutchinson and State tickets against Jacobs. They were arrested last night on bench warrants issued by Judge P. B. O'Sullivan and will be tried during the November term of court.

Farmers Cross recently notified the Farmers National Inc., describing itself as an organization for cooperative marketing, that he would not sanction its activities.

REQUEST SEN. JOHNSON TO STATE POSITION

Los Angeles, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A telegram calling for a public statement from United States Senator Hiram Johnson of California in support of the Republican National and State tickets was sent to the Senator at Washington last night by a group of publishers.

The telegram, sent by E. P. Clarke, publisher of the Riverside, Cal. Press and Enterprise, after a meeting called by Louis E. Mayer, chairman of the Republican State committee and film producer, read: "Representatives of seventy southern California papers, men and women, in conference here tonight, decided to urge you to issue a statement in support of the Republican National and State tickets."

"An emphatic declaration from you in support of the Republican National and State tickets, in the campaign would have an important influence on the results and might be the determining factor in carrying California for the Republican Party."

INSULL IS FREED BY GREEK POLICE

ment to insure strict application of the law. Plans Long Stay Insull's original plan was to stay here about eight months, he said, but he indicated he intended to remain now at least until after election in the United States.

The Greek minister of interior issued a statement saying that the American government still could ask for the re-arrest of Insull and his extradition despite the fact that the formalities in connection with the Greco-American treaty of extradition have not been completed. Documentary evidence would be necessary, the minister explained.

The statement added that the request would be considered by the Athens Court of Appeal, which would decide whether extradition was justified.

Again today Premier Venizelos, talking on the telephone with the minister of interior, asked for the details of the arrest of the Chicagoan.

Insull visited the chief of police to express his thanks for the treatment accorded him. "We consider you as a guest, not as a prisoner," the chief responded.

While heating the side of a 55-gallon gasoline drum with a blow torch preparatory to cutting a hole for a filling plug, George Porterfield narrowly escaped injury early this morning when the end of the drum blew out, smashing through the garage door and blowing parts of the door across Pearl street.

The drum had been used for gasoline and the heat against the side of the steel drum expanded the gas in the interior, causing the explosion which was heard several blocks away. A large number of people gathered at the garage shortly afterwards to learn the cause of the loud report.

NATION NEEDS HOOVER, SAYS FORMER PRESIDENT

Coolidge Urges Re-election of Republican Standard Bearer To Uphold the Credit of the Nation—Defends Tariff—Attacks Roosevelt's Silence On the Bonus—Warns Against Change In Administration—Does Not Mention Dry Law—Full Text of His Address.

New York, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The complete text of Calvin Coolidge's address in Madison Square Garden last night follows:

My Fellow Countrymen: This meeting was arranged by a body of public-spirited New York people and the National Republican Committee, for the purpose of helping to re-elect as President of the United States Herbert Hoover. I have accepted an invitation to address you in order that I might express my opinion on some of the issues of the campaign, reiterate my support of the President and reassert my faith in the Republican party, the most efficient instrument for the good of our government and the welfare of the people of a great nation.

We ought to bring to all our tasks a spirit of good cheer, but a national election which is to determine the destinies of more than one hundred and twenty million people for the next four years cannot be considered as anything less than a serious undertaking to be seriously approached and seriously discharged. After all contentment has been won from duty well done, from meeting the obligations of the present as they occur.

Some people are saying that as things could not be any worse we might as well try to change. This is a very dangerous principle to apply to the discharge of the duties of American citizenship. Things are much worse in other parts of the world, they could be a great deal worse here than they are and would have been much worse if it had not been for the vision, the courage and the leadership of President Hoover.

Points Way to Progress

Before we decide that we want a change we ought to address ourselves to the chances of securing any improvement. We shall be most likely to find progress in holding fast to that which experience has proved to be sound and just and true.

Calling a ballot to determine who shall be President of the United States ought to take on a judicial function. The ability, experience and character of the candidate, the policies with which he has identified himself in the past and those which he proposes for the future, the standing of his associates and advisers and the results which have generally been secured by the administration of his party ought all to be carefully considered. No other attitude in approaching an election is worthy of a free people.

No Need of Change

We are told that business is not good, that the fault must lie with the Administration and therefore the proper remedy is to vote against the President. No government has ever yet been devised that could make the people prosperous all the time. But a bad government will constantly keep the people in distress. Our National government has adopted one measure after another to support and encourage business and agriculture. The present economic distress is world-wide. Our own fundamental conditions were so sound that we have been able to prosper in the face of the distress better than could be expected in other countries. If there was anything which a government could do to prevent the decline in business the world has experienced it must be that some government somewhere would have been wise enough to apply a remedy. If no such remedy anywhere has been found the inference is practically certain that the present economic condition was brought about by forces no government could foresee and prevent.

Easy to Criticize

It is very easy to criticize after the event. Constructive leadership is not so easy. I have no taste for criticizing. I much prefer to present the constructive and statesmanlike program of my party. But when it is constantly charged that President Hoover lacks leadership I hope it may be pardoned for a slight reference to what appears to be of interest in its place. As early as November 1928 the Democratic leader publicly urged the presentation of a constructive program by his party. In the campaign of 1930 another authoritative promise of a constructive program was issued. The Democratic leader again warned his party in November 1931 to present a constructive program, yet when that party elected a Speaker of the House and assumed control of the body no program had yet been presented.

The President in his message pointed out the necessity of increasing revenues and cutting down expenses. In the campaign of 1930 another authoritative promise of a constructive program was issued. The Democratic leader again warned his party in November 1931 to present a constructive program, yet when that party elected a Speaker of the House and assumed control of the body no program had yet been presented.

which had the unanimous support of the fifteen Democrats and ten Republicans of the committee. What then happened is well known history. The Democratic members of the House deserted their leaders, destroyed the bill, and of their 180 only 40 supported it on the final vote.

Expenditures Out

In their efforts for economy, which the President had already recommended, a special committee was appointed which finally reported a bill reducing expenditures by about two hundred million dollars annually. When the Democratic House finally passed it they had again deserted their leaders and rejected all the proposed savings but about forty million dollars. No constructive program for the revival of industry and commercial and financial relief was presented by the Democratic Party in the last session of Congress.

But that is only a part of the record. Meantime President Hoover had proposed the formation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, strengthening of the Federal Land Bank system, the amendment of the Federal Reserve laws to provide more adequate credit and safeguard the gold standard, the creation of the Home Loan Discount banks and all the other legislation passed by the last Congress for the general relief of the economic situation. Many times he had the assistance and support of individual Democrats with the record where does the country think it can most hopefully turn for leadership?

Sound Money Needed

"One of the greatest services which the Republican Party has rendered has been the support of sound money. During the war President Lincoln was obliged to issue fiat money, the uncertainty as to the value of our currency which this created was one of the causes of the panic of the early 70's. Finally the Republican Party passed a law over Democratic opposition declaring that some years in advance greenbacks would be paid in gold, but the value of our currency, and the power of the government to redeem this pledge remained in doubt and caused years of business stagnation. At last the Secretary of the Treasury John Sherman collected a large supply of gold in the greenbacks that were presented the uncertainty ended and a business revival began. The credit of the nation was thereby established.

"The next assault on our currency system was not made with paper but with silver. That situation brought on the panic of the early 90's. When it was settled, by the election of President McKinley, that the national credit would be maintained another era of pronounced prosperity followed.

Our Credit At Stake

"We have recently gone through another period when the credit of the nation has been at stake. Our power to continue the gold standard was doubted and foreign creditors withdrew their deposits. At the same time under Democratic leadership it was proposed to issue $2,300,000,000 in greenbacks to pay the veterans' bonus and other measures that would have ruined the National Treasury, destroyed the market for government bonds and forced the abandonment of the gold standard. Under the leadership of President Hoover this calamity was averted. The passage of these measures by the Congress nearly a century ago had the same effect on our gold as offset by emergency legislation. In June the financial integrity of our government appeared to be permanently established. Congress finally adjourned and our gold began to come back. The decline in trade ceased, confidence began to return until at the present time the country knows that its worst troubles are probably past and economic recovery is beginning.

"The defeat of the Democratic greenback era and the free silver issue were both followed by periods of prosperity under Republican administrations. The assurance that the pending Democratic raids on the Treasury would be defeated by a Republican victory in November would not doubt have the same effect in reviving all kinds of business. An early and timely word from the Democratic candidate for President that he would reject the proposal to increase the national debt by $2,300,000,000 to pay a bonus would have been a great encouragement to and guaranteed the integrity of the national credit. While he remained silent economic recovery was measurably impeded.

For Common People

"One subject constantly recurs in our National political campaigns which it is difficult to discuss without apology. . . . But it is put forward with so much boldness that it cannot be entirely ignored. The charge is that the Republican Party and its candidates do not show any solicitude for the general welfare of the common run of people but are interested only in promoting the interests of a few favored individuals and corporations of large possessions. This charge is made against the party of Abraham Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt and Herbert Hoover. Lincoln and Roosevelt are both dead. No one has any personal authority to speak in their name, but the humanitarian spirit which they exemplified in their lives and the purveyor of half truths and unsubstantiated theories.

"In the course of our economic progress we have become a great organized industrial democracy. It has been the theory of the Republican Party that the welfare of the common people could best be promoted by strengthening and enlarging that system. We have sought to create a condition under which the ordinary man would have the best possible opportunity to find a market for his wares, whether he had to sell, whether of production or labor. We have tens of millions of wage earners in this country. The Republican Party has never believed that they could be furnished with suitable permanent employment unless some one could derive a reasonable profit from employing them.

Declares Faith in President

"We have advocated strengthening the position of the employer in order that he might pay better wages to his employees, enlarge the productive capacity of the people and increase the market for their farm and factory. We have sought to increase the returns of agriculture in order that it might better supply our people with food and enlarge the market for our industrial output.

Question of Method

"All this is a question of method, of the adoption of a means to an end. Always the end has been to improve the well being of the ordinary run of people. If any candid examination is made of the progress we have accomplished under this system in the last two generations I do not think any one can seriously contend that it has not been a success. The scale of wages has constantly increased, the standard of living has constantly risen. We have had temporary reactions when prices have fallen and readjustments have been necessary. We are passing through such a period at the present time, but we have always merged to find ourselves able to acquire new strength. But the principle is the same in good times as in bad. The Republican Party believes in encouraging business in order that the benefits from such business may minister to the welfare of the ordinary run of people.

All of our wage earners by giving the most casual thought can not fail to recognize the soundness of these principles. It is inevitable when a concern can make a profit by operating that it will be in the market for labor and materials, but when it can only make a loss it will discharge labor. This is what happens inevitably during an era of falling prices such as we have had from the summer of 1929 to the late spring of 1932.

Question of Credit

"Now it is difficult to conceive of any important business which does not involve the question of credit. When credit begins to be impaired business becomes paralyzed, wages decline and employment decreases; the bank refuses to make loans because it fears they will not be repaid; the depositors withdraw their money because they feel it is not safe; producers refuse to sell on time because they are afraid they cannot collect. If this process continued far enough universal bankruptcy would prevail. The people who properly suffer from these conditions usually take care of themselves while many wage earners, small home owners and farmers are unable to pay their interest and taxes or provide themselves and their families with food, clothing and shelter. These are the people that everyone recognizes need the help of the strong arm of the government.

Do Not Satisfactory

"The first thought for relief would probably be a dole and a loan but a little consideration would show that increasing their debts and destroying their independence would scarcely be considered a real service to people in distress. Such a remedy merely treats the symptoms without removing the cause of the distress. The answer comes back according to the words of Holy Writ that they who drink of the water of government is to help the people to any permanent relief it must be through some system of giving them permanent employment so that they can meet their obligations, reduce their debts and pay their own living expenses.

"Given the problem then a resorting to normal wellbeing is the great need of people who find themselves unemployed. The fundamental remedy is not some form of pauperism, but a return to self-respecting, self-supporting and independent existence. Since the main cause of our difficulties lay in a failure of credit, the first object should be to restore credit. That is the policy which President Hoover has consistently advocated. He has no wish to assist a bank because it is a bank, a railroad, an insurance company, a more this campaign has progressed the more I am convinced that the public welfare requires that he should be re-elected.

"I cannot close without commending to the people of New York, your candidates for the Senate, Mr. McCall and the State Electors, headed by Colonel Donovan and Mr. Davison. They have records of service in civil and military life that have marked them for distinction. While they are in office your State will be certain to have an administration of pronounced economy and efficiency which ought to characterize the conduct of your public business."

WOMAN SAW DIRECTOR TAKE HIS OWN LIFE

Los Angeles, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The coroner's office announced today there would be no inquest into the death of George Davidson, test director of the Fox Film studios, who was found shot to death in his apartment yesterday. Investigation, the office said, had definitely established the case as one of suicide.

Mrs. Constance Smith, biographical actress and wife of Jack Smith, Dallas, Tex., rubber man, voluntarily appeared at the sheriff's office last night and said she was a witness to the suicide and said she had fired the apartment after Davidson had killed himself.

"Yesterday morning he telephoned my home that he was coming over and shoot me and cause trouble unless I agreed to marry him," said Mrs. Smith, the mother of four children. "Hoping that I might prevent any disturbance to my parents and also quiet him, I went to his apartment at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Smith said she pleaded with him for three hours to go to work at his studio, and that when she turned her back he shot himself. She said he had been acting in an irrational manner for several months.

Davidson formerly lived in Wichita, Kas., his mother resides in New York, and a former wife, Thelma Roberts, an actress, lives in Oakland, Calif.

CALL OF THE WILD

BY R. G. MONTGOMERY

BEGIN HIS TODAY

STAN RAY, accused ASPER DELO, timber king, of crooked practice and of having men shot who try to check up on his activities, today says he is making a check and Dele tells him he will personally prevent it. Upon leaving Dele's office, Ray waves DONA, Dele's daughter, from kidnappers. He slips away when he finds who she is, telling her his name is STANLEY BLACK.

DUDLEY WINTERS, in love with Dona, goes with her to Three Rivers to persuade Dele to abandon the fight with Ray. Dele tries to get her to marry him on the way as a means of getting Dele to give up his plans. Dona narrowly escapes doing this by meeting Ray on his way to the timber camp. They find Ball accused of killing a ranger. Asper is wounded from a gunshot but refuses to stay in bed. Dona tells him she has just married Dudley to keep him out of the hunt.

Ball comes in for supplies and is captured by SWERGIN, Dele's big timber boss. He escapes after hearing Dona tell her father she is Dudley's wife. Dudley insists on being married to her, but she refuses. She rides out to see if she can find Stanley Black, who she thinks is at Blind River. She meets him on the trail, not knowing he is Ball. He promises to rid the range of Stan Ball. On the way to camp Dona stops at a cabin and sees a glove she thinks is Stanley Black's in a Span- ish girl's room.

Valuable records are stolen from the office and the clerk says Ball stole them. Asper Dele is furious and refuses to leave with Dona and Dudley. A posse gets on Ball's trail and it is reported he is cornered. Dona rides out with rifle.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXV

Asper Dele was bending forward eagerly as Dona came to a breathless halt beside his chair on the porch.

"Did they get him?" he demanded.

"They have him surrounded and expect to capture him at any minute. The man who brought in the word says they expect a final fight up at the branch of the Blind River trail."

Dona patted his hand reassuringly. "They'll capture him."

Asper chewed viciously on his cigar. He had not been allowed to smoke for days and now was making the best of the black stogie the doctor had given him. "I hope they bring him in," he muttered.

"I'm going to ride up a little way and see if I can learn anything more," Dona tried to speak unconcernedly.

"Be careful, D. There is danger with men using high-powered rifles," Asper was eager to have her bring news yet he was cautious.

Dona arranged his chain and blanket and gave him a hurried kiss on the cheek. Then she ran toward the corral.

The roan seemed to know where she wanted to go. He struck out toward the saddle that overlooked Blind River at a swinging gallop. His slender rider, let him have head until they reached the Blind River trail, then she headed him south, straight up the mountain. She remembered a high point overlooking the slope from which she could check the movements of the posse.

Why she rode out to watch the hunt was not clear in her mind. She could not get back to camp without as soon as the men would get in. Something led her to take her stand and watch. It might have been morbid curiosity or feminine instinct. Whatever it was Dona obeyed it and pulled her mount to a halt on a jutting ledge that overlooked the slope below.

A little meadow hedged in by heavy scrub growth lay at her feet. Farther down the slope she could see men riding around a heavy patch of timber. The ground was rocky and tangled with thick growth and connected with the timber directly below. Men with rifles crawled from bush to bush while the mounted men rode in an ever-closing circle around the rocky ambush.

Dona loosened her rifle so that she could get it handy. She was not sure what she was doing but she broke out of the connecting timber and tried to cross the meadow but she intended to be ready. Several rifle shots rang out from below as excited men caught glimpses of what they thought was the bandit.

Dona settled back to wait. Suddenly a black horse burst from the timber just below her. Its rider was bending low over the saddle and a graceful lope. Dona reached down and jerked her rifle loose. The rider was too far away to be halted but he was within easy rifle range. Suddenly she remembered the roan's fear of a gun. She slid from her horse and dropped to one knee.

The front head of her rifle steadied and she pressed the trigger. She was not uncertain for a second of the identity of the man escaping from the circling posse. He had slipped through that line and was well on his way to freedom. Her rifle cracked viciously. The rider straightened, then pitched over the side of his horse. He rolled over twice, lay still. The black horse ran on and halted under cover of the timber.

Slowly Dona got to her feet. She felt dizzy and sick. She had shot a man! The report of her gun would not attract attention because of the occasional firing from below, with heavy feet she began to descend to the meadow. She had to go to the man she had just killed.

The 75 yards down to where he lay seemed miles and she moved unthinkingly. Dona clung to the side and plodded on. Now her own rifle jacket draped the man's head. One leg was pulled up in a twisted

MACDONALD GOES TODAY

London, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald celebrated his 68th birthday yesterday at No. 10 Downing street, where his attention was demanded by matters connected with various pending conferences.

There was one short-break this afternoon, however, when the members of his family arranged to participate in a birthday-tea party.

"We are having a birthday cake, no course," his daughter Isabel said. "In spite of the many calls upon him and his long hours of strenuous work, father is in very good health now and we are all looking forward to a quiet little celebration."

ALL-HARTFORDS PLAY RED MEN HERE SUNDAY

Game At Mt. Nebo At 3 O'Clock; Field In Perfect Condition; Bleachers Erected For Spectators.

The Red Men A. C. will meet the All-Hartfords at Mt. Nebo Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It was announced today by Pete Vendrillo, local booking manager. This will be the third game of the season for the Red Men, who won their first game from Williamsett, 6 to 0, and were held to a scoreless tie by Windsor Locks last Sunday.

The Mt. Nebo gridiron is now in perfect condition for spectators and players alike. Bleachers have been erected and a fence encircles the playing field, with benches for the players on each side. With these finishing touches, the field is undoubtedly one of the best in the state.

The All-Hartfords lineup includes the Conroy brothers, Jack Scully, who played with the Majors last year; Landes, Soloway, the latter all-state end in 1929; and Scott, who played with the Vermont Academy eleven. The All-Hartfords have met some of the toughest semi-pro teams in the state, losing a close decision to the All-Torringtons, 7 to 0, and a similar game to the Wacos of Wallingford, 6 to 0.

Since then, the All-Hartfords have added several outstanding players to their lineup and an exciting battle is expected Sunday.

Coach Walter Harrison expects to start an entirely new backfield Sunday. It is possible that Squatrito will be given a chance at a backfield position. Heoman will alternate with Hansen at quarterback. The other changes have not been made as yet, but will probably be completed at practice at the East Side Rec Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

It is requested that all players attend this season. Those who do not will jeopardize their position on the team as the management points out that only by constant practice can team work be reached and players who do not practice have no value. Failure of local players to report at practice will cause the importation of out-of-town gridsters.

SHIFTY BACKS VIE WITH STRONG LINE

Syracuse - Southern Methodist Eleven To Tangle This Week.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 12.—It will be one of the strongest lines in the east against one of the shiftest backfields in the southwest when Syracuse and Southern Methodist University from Texas tangle in an inter-sectional football game here Oct. 15.

Syracuse will have the line, built around Captain Tom Lombardi, tackle, Joe Vavra, sophomore tackle, and Al Gutman, end. Southern Methodist's Mustang backfield, which Syracuse's line will have to stop, centers around Captain Howard Sprague and Kenneth Travis, both brilliant backs.

Lombardi's deeds on the gridiron are well known from last year. In addition to being a tough guy to get through, Tom was the crew captain for Syracuse this season. The other two linemen are said to be among the best in the east.

Although beaten in its first two starts this year, the Mustangs, smarting under the defeats, are bound to give Syracuse a battle worthy of an inter-sectional tangle. If there is a dry field for the contest, S. M. U. may dazzle the easterners with a fast passing attack. The game will be interesting from an inter-sectional point of view, and the Dallas school is sending more than 600 rooters to see the game.

JOCKEY CLUB OPENS FALL RACE MEETING

Lanonia, Ky., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Its stalls filled with one of the most imposing arrays of horses gathered at any track this year, the Lanonia Jockey Club this afternoon opens its fall race meeting.

The feature event is the Columbus Day Handicap, a six furlong event for all ages. Top weight, 120 pounds, has been assigned to My Dandy, the one-eyed "iron horse" from Chicago. He is seven years old but this year has won at least eight races and been in the money nearly 20 times.

Callop, Gold Step and Brown Wisdom and Playtime are other fast-steppers which will compete in the handicap.

The horses, with weights and jockeys, follow in order of their post position: Playtime, 108, Finnerty; Brown Wisdom, 111 (K); Callop, 108; Pichon; Our Cherrycock, 109; South; My Dandy, 110; Corbett; Gold Step, 110, McCoy.

TITLE RACE IS HOT IN THE SOUTHWEST

Texas Christian and Texas Aggies May Decide Issue Saturday.

College Station, Texas, Oct. 12.—An early season battle that will have a lot to do with the football championship of the Southwestern Conference will be held here Oct. 15 between the Horned Frogs of Texas Christian University and the Local Texas Aggies.

Although the Aggies have been stopped by Tulane, and at that only by a score of 26-14, they have hopes of coping the Conference title if they can hurdle the Frogs.

The Aggies have beaten Texas Tech by a score of 7-0. The latter school beat Southern Methodist last year's Conference leader, 6-0. So it looks like the College Station boys might have some makings of a championship eleven.

The Frogs started the season by drubbing North Texas State Teachers 14-2, and Daniel Baker 55-0. But they nearly ran into a tar pit at Louisiana State, where they were held to a 3-0. In some sections this victory was considered an upset.

Coach Madison Bell of the Aggies knows it wasn't so much of an upset. He's preparing for a tough game after a couple of weeks of intensive playing.

Recently the Aggies played three games in eight days. They tangled with Tulane Oct. 1, Sam Houston State Teachers on Oct. 5, and the Texas A. and M. on Oct. 7. Which is a lot of football playing in eight days.

The squad, however, is not any the worse for wear. The backfield of Frenchy Domingue, quarter, Captain Jimmy Aston and Rue Barfield, halfbacks, and Ted Spencer, full, is all set for the game with the Frogs. The line is one of the heaviest in the Conference, and averaged about 190 pounds. The backfield averages 180.

The Texas Christian outfit is bringing here one of the best defenses in the southwest. But it was rumored after the L. S. U. game that the offense could stand a little jacking up. Coach Frankie A. Schmitz is pointing his crowd at this angle of the game, and the Aggies are apt to find a whirlwind attack sweeping them off their feet.

The Frogs are hot after the title this year. They held it in 1929, and were beaten out by Texas in 1930 and Southern Methodist last year.

The team is composed of a wealth of last year's men, all but one of whom have won two letters. Captain Johnny Vaughn, guard, is one of these men, and a terror in the line. Another is Sub Captain Blannard Spearman, halfback, one of the most dependable ground gainers in the Conference.

In Ben Boswell the Frogs have a versatile tackle who can boot the ball as well as fill in the line with his 220 pounds. His field goal was the margin of victory in the Louisiana State game last year.

The team is composed of a wealth of last year's men, all but one of whom have won two letters. Captain Johnny Vaughn, guard, is one of these men, and a terror in the line. Another is Sub Captain Blannard Spearman, halfback, one of the most dependable ground gainers in the Conference.

WASHINGTON STATE PRIMED FOR BEARS

Recent Defeat Still Ranks As Cougars Prepare For California.

Pullman, Wash., Oct. 12.—Washington State's Cougars are a lot tougher than you would believe after their recent defeat at the hands of Southern California.

Coach Babe Hollingbery's charges are still ranking under that "C" beating, and the University of California will have a battle on its hands when the two teams meet at Berkeley Oct. 15.

It has been pointed out that the defeat by Southern Cal came as the result of two blocked punts and a lucky dash by Trojan Ford Palmer, and after he had caught a pass from McNelis. The Cougars, after losing these three breaks of the game, couldn't get going.

But the California Bear is going to face a different team than Southern Cal did. Washington will be playing heads-up football. And with a team like the Cougars have this year, it will be a good brand.

In George Sander, Washington State has one of the best tri-throw back of the coast. This 175-pound lad is especially adept at kicking, constantly booting 70 yards.

Hollingbery has two candidates for the fullback post who are making each other hustle. One is Stanley Colburn, 190-pound line smasher, who was the regular starter last year. The other is giant George Theodoratos, 240-pound Greek plunger.

Two men in the line who stand out like a sore thumb this year are Walker Camp, a two-year veteran tackle, and Clem Sean, guard, who shines at playing in the other fellow's backfield.

EAGLES TO TACKLE ELEVEN THAT HELD RED MEN TO A TIE

Meet Windsor Locks At Hickey's Grove Sunday Afternoon; Are Confident of Victory.

Elated by their smashing 26-0 victory last Sunday over the Hartford Spartans, the North End Eagles will now undergo their supreme test of the season when they meet the Windsor Locks town team Sunday afternoon. The visiting team is the squad which battled the Red Men here last week to a scoreless tie.

The Eagles in booking this game wish to show they are a team of high standing and are ready to meet the best in this part of the state. Among the list of teams which the Eagles will play are the Thompsonville Greys, New Britain Pawnees and other clubs of like caliber.

Coach Moakie has promised plenty of drilling for this game and he expects his boys to prove their worth. The players are in first-rate condition in that they received no injuries in last week's game. The Eagles will practice tonight at Hickey's Grove at 6:30 p. m.

CANZONERI MEETS FRANKIE PETROLLE

Outdoor Bout Tonight If Weather Relents; Title Go Next Month.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Graduation from the role of football hero to the stage or movies is a story often told before.

But it is left to Tom Jones, a five-year ago Jones was a sensation as a quarterback on Indiana University's freshman football team. The Indiana coaches rubbed their hands in anticipation of what would happen to foes of the Crimson the next fall when Jones became eligible for the varsity.

They were doomed to disappointment, for in the spring of 1928 Jones "went musical." He was starred in the university's lavish stage production, "Jordan River Revue." Success was followed by romance.

It was taken a lot of work, but months of hard physical training have put him in fine condition. The freshman of 1927 is down to 190 pounds, which is anything but heavy for his height of more than six feet.

He wants to win the regular quarterback position and in early practice has received much attention from Coach E. C. Hayes.

It may be a decisive factor in Indiana's success or failure this season.

Indiana Back Deserts Stage To Play In Football Drama

Back to his first love, football, Tom Jones, Indiana U. grid aspirant, is back in school after five years of appearing before the footlights. He's a quarterback.

CLEAN SWEEP AIM OF EASTERN TEAMS

Six Inter-sectional Grid Battles This Week; Some Doubtful.

New York, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Eastern eleven, standing by to repel invaders, are aiming at a clean sweep of six inter-sectional football battles this week but their prospects are none too bright.

Starting with Boston college's duel with the "Praying Colonels" of Centre college at Boston today, the inter-sectional slate carries through the Ogdthorpe-Duquesne clash at Pittsburgh Friday night and ends with Saturday's games between Columbia and Virginia; Southern Methodist and Syracuse; Detroit and Holy Cross, and Navy and Ohio University.

Of these the East is counting almost certainly on victories for Columbia, Boston college and in all probability, Syracuse, but the other games seem distinctly doubtful.

CHANGES ARE MADE IN YALE'S LINEUP

New Varsity Team Takes Field In Practice and Scores Readily.

New Haven, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Four linemen were relegated to minor teams and positions of two backfield players were altered in a drastic realignment of the Yale varsity team following the Chicago game.

Appearing in scrimmage for the first time yesterday, the new team showed strengthened offensive power, while little of the defensive strength which featured the previous game was apparent.

Support Rewards Manager of World Champions With Increase In Salary; Three Major League Posts Open.

By HERBERT W. BARKER Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The signing of Joseph Vincent McCarthy to a three year contract as manager of the New York Yankees leaves only three major league managerial posts still to be filled.

At least one of these is virtually certain to be stricken off the list with the probable reappointment of George Gibson as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who amazed the experts by finishing second in the National League race this year.

There is more than a little doubt, however, with regard to the managerial jobs open with the Cincinnati Reds and the Boston Red Sox.

The release of Dan Howley left the Cincinnati post wide open. There has been no definite indication yet as to his successor, although the name of Donie Bush has been mentioned frequently in connection with the place.

The situation at Boston is a little different. Marty McManus, veteran second sacker handled the team during the 1931 campaign after the resignation of John (Shano) Collins, but whether Marty will be given a contract for the 1933 season still is open to question.

McCarthy who never played a major league game in his life and yet has managed pennant winners in both big circuits, was understood to have been given a substantial increase in salary. It was said the new contract called for at least $100,000 for the next three years.

J. P. CHENEY ELECTED TO GOLF COMMITTEE

Harvard Cambridge—The Harvard football team was slated to see several different kinds of football today. The morning program called for a scrimmage against the scrubs using Penn State plays, and in the afternoon the Crimson players were to see the game between Center and Boston College.

Army West Point—If this week's practice sessions are any indication Army and Pitt are going to fight it out along the tradition lines of "straight" football Saturday. Both are concentrating on running plays in their drills but preparing for all sorts of tricks from the opposition.

Yale New Haven—Yale's failure to win either of its first two games or to do any heavy scoring has brought a shakeup of near record proportions in the Ell lineup. Only three men remained in their original positions after Coach Mal Stevens got through shifting them around yesterday and four lost their first team positions.

Cornell Ithaca—Cornell preparing for the Princeton game, has the services of its head coach for the first time since the season got under way. The veteran Gil Doble, who has been out of action for three weeks with an attack of rheumatism, was able to get out yesterday and take charge of the work.

SPORT SLANTS

Who is the better first baseman of the two, Bill Terry of the Giants or Lou Gehrig of the Yankees, taking into consideration their hitting as well as fielding ability? Inquires J. M. of New Haven.

Personally, with the 1932 season freshest in mind, we would prefer Gehrig to Terry, although Jimmie Fox would be our choice over either one, if the field is throwp open.

Gehrig has the edge over his rival across the river, however, because of his greater durability and consistency, his longer range hitting of the type that more often breaks up the old ball game.

In other words, Gehrig's look of the defensive polish and speed that characterizes Terry's play is not sufficient to offset his bigger threat at the plate. The batting averages do not show an advantage for either but in the home run and run-batted-in departments the big Yankee slugger has a decided margin.

Terry's fielding, in the opinion of some unbiased critics, has frequently equalled anything in the repertoire of Hal Chase, who set the standard in fashionable performances for all first basemen. The Giant manager, however, has not been so consistently brilliant on the defense within the past year or so as he was at his peak in 1930, when he also batted .401.

Gehrig's fielding figures for 1931-32 were slightly better than those of Terry, measured by the mechanical yardstick of chances accepted, but Memphis Bill must still be given the defensive edge.

Neck and Neck There is a striking coincidence in the batting marks of Gehrig and Terry, each of whom made his first bow to the New York baseball customers on trial in 1929, and each of whom has just rounded out ten seasons in the major leagues.

For the nine-year period up to this time, each showed a hitting average of .342. This season Gehrig finished third in the American League race with an unofficial .350. Terry ranked runner-up to Lefty O'Doul in the National League with a mark of .349. The Giant pilot collected more hits but Gehrig scored and drove in more runs.

Their offensive records are so remarkably close that over a ten-year stretch Gehrig has reaped over 1558 hits and Terry 1553.

Consistency His Jewel The Yankee first sacker makes up in his consistency and reliability what he lacks in poise and agility. Starting June 1, 1925, Gehrig has now finished playing 1197 consecutive games, exclusive of 19 others in four world's series. Having an on record he figures to pass Everett Scott's world record of 1307 games some time around the first of next August.

Gehrig has led the American League four times in the vital department of runs-batted-in, within the past seven years. Only Ruth, Simmons, and Fox, in separate years, have topped the Yankee cleanup clouter in this respect. Terry, of course, is one of the most dangerous batsmen in baseball but over the stretch of the past half dozen years his records are not so impressive as those of his Yankee rival.

Philadelphia, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Columbus Day found more than 500 clergy and lay delegates from this country and Canada gathering here for the west-long biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America which opens tonight. Preliminary activities indicated delegates would consider more than the controversial issue proposed among them—being the proposal to merge the church's 13 semi-autonomous national jurisdictions, and the eligibility of women as delegates to future conventions.

A report of a committee of six appointed at the Milwaukee convention to make a study of "the church's arrangements for training her ministers" evoked considerable debate yesterday when it was submitted to a joint committee for final consideration before presentation to the convention.

Pacific Seminary
A section classifying the seminaries according to a set of proposed standards was struck from the report and termed "invidious comparisons." Establishment of a Pacific seminary on the Pacific coast was urged and a suggestion that all the seminaries be asked to standardize the length of their school year at 36 weeks was inserted.

No representatives of the seminaries attended the meeting at which the proposed report was considered and it was indicated numerous other portions of the document might meet strenuous opposition on the convention floor Thursday.

Majority and minority reports on the question of electing women delegates are to be submitted by an ad hoc committee appointed at the last convention. This study was undertaken following receipt of a memorial from the National Board of the National Board to consider the question to determine if election of women delegates to synodical meetings is "unscriptural."

The opening service of the Holy Communion will be held tonight in Holy Communion Lutheran church when the Rev. Dr. Frederick H. Knobel, of New York, president of the United Lutheran church, will deliver the sermon.

In Harrisburg, Pa., a four fold objective for the Brotherhood of the church was presented at the annual sessions of the Brotherhood's two-day biennial convention there.

The program calls for "winning the man outside the church to a christian life," for bringing back lapsed members, for keeping young people interested in church work, and for better church attendance by men.

The Rev. Dr. Franklin F. Fry of New York, executive secretary of the Board of American Missions of the denomination, tonight said there are 60,000 non-church members in the United States in comparison with 62,000,000 members of all churches.

Hartford, Oct. 12.—(AP)—With twenty rallies already scheduled at Republican State headquarters, officials said today that next week will be most active so far in the campaign.

Joseph C. Scott of California, who placed President Hoover's name in nomination at the National convention, will speak at one of the major meetings to be held here Tuesday. Another out of state speaker to appear in Hartford will be Judge J. Myette of the Rhode Island Court of Common Pleas who will address a rally of French-Americans October 21.

Editor, The Herald:
Every town has its fault finder. Every street has its neighborhood group. Not a thing comes to him that's a sticker. In a business way he is a slouch. He grumbles because he is living. He'd growl if he had to be hung. He never was known to be giving. A penny, except with his tongue.

He kicks on the question of taxes.
He rears at the church and the state. He swears all the Selectmen have axes. And any killing the town sure as fate.

He says he has inside information.
That will put the clique on the run. But, sit out the whole situation. And you can't find a thing that he's done.

He insists that the country is "rotten."
That business has gone to the dogs. With pledges of parties forgotten Says representatives all have turned hogs.

He talks a whole lot about money.
And you listen to tales he has spun. But add them all up and it's funny. You can't find a thing that he's done.

He insists there should be a new party
That puts politicians to rout. Just something substantial, and hearty And he wouldn't mind helping them out.

But when it comes time for election.
He don't stand a chance for Selectman. For, they can't find a thing that he's done.

He's a pessimist, now and forever.
You've got one, compare him with ours. He imagines that he is the level. Controlling all parties and powers.

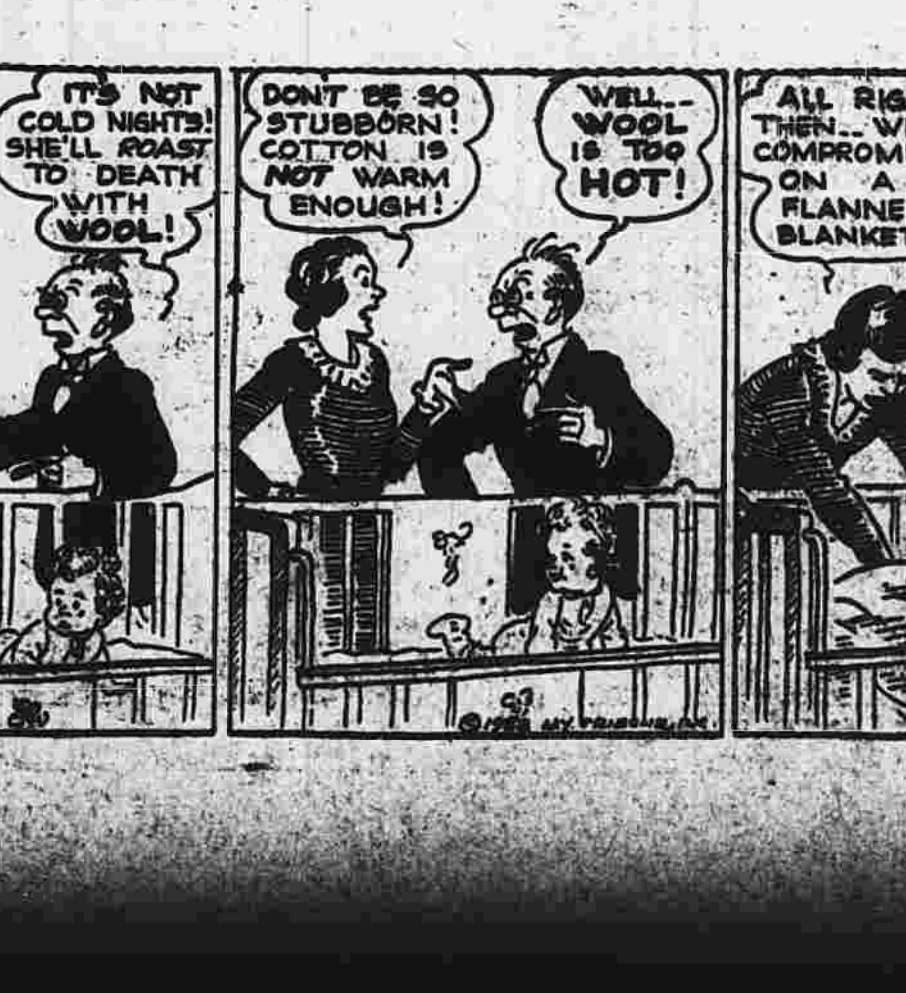

They all of them tell the same story.
And explain how great battles are won. But YOU would be covered with glory. If you'd find out a thing that he's done.

—That's all there is, there isn't
