

ARREST FOUR MEN IN MILLION THEFT

Caught When They Tried To Dispose of Bonds and Stocks Stolen All Over the Country.

Cleveland, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Four men were being held by detectives today as suspects in efforts to dispose of $1,000,000 worth of bonds and stocks, said to have been stolen in New York.

One of the men was from Detroit, one from North East, Pa., and two from Cleveland. Detectives withheld their names. Private detectives who had been working on the case several months said they traced the Detroit man here yesterday from New York and that he had a Cleveland bootlegger. Together they set out to dispose of $2,000 of the securities, most of which were in public utilities. They were arrested at a downtown street corner and later another Cleveland man and the man from North East were apprehended. The second Cleveland man admitted the bootlegger and the Detroit man had attempted to sell him the securities, police said.

NATIONWIDE THEFTS New York, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Reports from Cleveland that four men were held there as suspects in the attempted disposal of more than $1,000,000 in stock and bonds today started private detectives here investigating what they said they believed was a nationwide theft ring. Headquarters for the agency which caused the arrest of the men said the securities apparently had been obtained in thefts over the country. They said some of the bonds in possession of the arrested men were taken from the M. and T. Trust Company of Buffalo, N. Y., on Sept. 23, of this year. Others, they said, were identified as having been stolen from the Gerard Trust Company of Philadelphia, on June 10, also of this year. In the Philadelphia robbery, the detectives said, $100,000 was taken.

Other financial institutions in this country being checked, they said, to determine if there have been loss of securities.

Names Disclosed Headquarters of the agency said two of the men held in Cleveland described themselves as Mike Varga, of 7885 Helen street, Detroit, and Louis Epstein, of Cleveland. The names of the other two were not known. Among the stock and bonds stolen by the agency as having been listed were securities of the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad, the North American Company, State of Illinois Municipal Trust certificates, Radio-Keith-Orpheum, the City of Bogota, of the Republic of Columbia, the Chicago Union Station Company, the Cleveland Terminal Building Company, the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis, International Paper Company, and the Southern New England Banking Company of Massachusetts.

FORMER DRY AGENT SHOT TO DEATH

Body Found Near Road—His Companion Tells Police Conflicting Stories.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—(AP)—A baffling mystery confronted authorities today as they sought further details of a fatal shooting of which Carl H. Reese, 45, former prohibition agent and reputedly wealthy racehorse owner and bookmaker was the victim.

Reese's body, punctured by two bullets, was found near Libertyville late yesterday. Louis L. Howell, suburban politician was held by Lake county authorities while they investigated the affair. Howell said he and Reese were forced to halt by four men in an automobile and that the four fired several shots at Reese. Two of the men, Howell said, got in his car and forced him to aid in disposing of the body. The men, their own car following, forced him to drive to Chicago, he said, where the pair in his car got out and disappeared with their companions.

Because of discrepancies in Howell's story, police said, he was held for further questioning. At first he told them he was driving Reese to Waukegan, to see a man about placing bets, the police reported. Later he changed his story to say that they were going to investigate fishing grounds at a lake. Reese's widow, however, said that her husband had an appointment with members of a Wilmette family who had been receiving threatening letters.

TREASURY BALANCE Washington, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for October 11 were $21,276,000.69; expenditures, $29,984,691.33; balance, $786,978.89.78. Customs duties for 11 days of October were $8,782,471.41.

PLAINTIFF'S KIN ON JURY WRECKS SQUATRITO CASE

Mistrial Is Declared and Auto Death Suit Settled When Court Learns Uncle of a Litigant Is Juror.

A mistrial was declared this morning in the civil suit for $10,000 brought by Rosario Squatrito, administrator of the estate of the late Dominic Squatrito, et al., against John N. Manning of Lebanon, when it was learned that an uncle of Ruth Stavinsky, one of the plaintiffs, was a member of the jury. It was later announced that the case had been settled out of court, but the amount of the settlement was not disclosed.

Third Day of Trial The trial of the case, which resulted from the death of Dominic Squatrito on May 13, last, in an automobile accident, began Tuesday. When it was resumed this morning, Miss Stavinsky told her lawyer, Wilson C. Jansen of Hartford, that a relative was on the jury. Mr. Jansen immediately informed Judge Frederick M. Peasley of the situation and the judge promptly announced a mistrial. The necessity of retrying the case was eliminated when it was stated that a settlement had been reached. Manning was represented by Joseph Barry of Day, Berry & Howard, and Squatrito was represented by Frank L. Vecchiola and S. P. Waszkowicz of Meriden; Miss Stavinsky by Attorney Jansen; Edward Lithwinski, another occupant of the car, by David Woodhouse of Hartford.

VALERA RESUMES ECONOMIC PARLEY

Free State Head Seeks Solution of Difficulties With Britain Over Land Tax.

Dublin, Irish Free State, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Premier Eamon de Valera resumed his duties as head of the Free State and his delegation left Dublin today for England where tomorrow they will meet again with members of the English government in an economic peace conference. This conference will attempt to find solution of the difficulties which have arisen to the customs war now being fought between the two countries.

The paramount issue is whether the Free State will resume paying the land annuities which England demands and to which the Free State claims England has no right. The Free State's position was outlined today by Sean O'Kelly, the vice-president and one of the outstanding figures in the Irish government. He has given virtually all his life to the cause of Irish independence and for many years has struggled side by side with De Valera as the latter's right hand man.

Anxious to End War At the outset, O'Kelly emphatically denied the claim made by some members of the political opposition that De Valera has no desire to terminate the economic war, on the ground that its continuation will favor his program for a reconstruction of Ireland. Not only is the Free State willing to negotiate, he said, but he added, in the direct manner characteristic of his speech: "We are not such fools as to foster deliberately a situation like this regarding the land annuities. Before March, 1932, when the De Valera government came into power, the Free State was heavily burdened by annual payments made to Great Britain without any legal justification, chiefly in respect to the land purchase annuities. These payments, amounting to $5,000,000 a year, imposed a greater relative burden on the people of the Free State than did the reparations payments on the people of Germany, and they regarded most seriously the reorganization of the Free State's economic resources.

Legal Rights "Not for this reason, however, but on the ground of legal and moral right, President De Valera's government has refused to continue the payments in question until Great Britain proves her claim of them." O'Kelly declared that the tariffs which Great Britain imposed on the Free State in retaliation for withholding the annuities payments have had the effect of spurring the Free State toward economic independence.

Hoover Receives Legion Heads

The subjects of payment of the bonus and repeal of prohibition did not come up when two heads of the American Legion visited the White House to pay their respects to President Hoover. Shown here, left to right, are Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the Legion, the President and Col. John Thomas Taylor, head of the legislative committee of the Legion. Commander Johnson later declared, however, that "at the proper time" the Legion would push the mandate of the veterans' organization.

CANADA, BRITAIN ADOPT NEW PREFERENCE TARIFF

Schedule Will Cut Into Exports of U. S. and Other Foreign Competitors; Covers Wide List of Products.

Ottawa, Oct. 13.—(AP)—New preference tariffs negotiated at the recent imperial trade conference here between Canada and Great Britain became effective, throughout the Dominion today. Manufacturers generally hailed the new rates in favor of Canadian-British trade as marking the first step in an arrangement which is expected to give Canada an advantage over American and other foreign competition and confine much British trade within the Empire. The new schedules cover a wide list of products, agricultural and industrial, including Canadian wheat, which will enter the United Kingdom free, while a tariff of about 4.32 cents a bushel will be levied on American and other foreign wheat.

Explains Details In explaining the details of the agreement in Parliament, Premier Borden predicted substantial benefits to trade in Canadian bacon, beef, cattle, milk products, poultry and eggs. One of the first things necessary in order that Canada may receive the full benefits of the new arrangement, he said, is the assurance of a steady supply of goods for export to the United Kingdom.

"Under favorable marketing conditions," he said.

SLEUTHS PROBING RICH MAN'S DEATH

Medical Examiner Calls It Suicide — Police Report Death Was Accidental.

New York, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Police and a medical examiner disagreed today over the death of socially prominent William St. Haskell, 3rd. Haskell, son of the commander of the New York National Guard and recently the fiancé of Miss Eleanor Gould, great granddaughter of the late Jay Gould, financier, was killed by a bullet in his family's Park Avenue apartment last night.

Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales, deputy chief medical examiner, said it was clearly a suicide. Police Lieut. John Eblais said Haskell was shot accidentally while cleaning his revolver. The bullet pierced his brain. Had Been Ill Dr. Gonzales said the family physician informed him that Haskell was 23 and a graduate of Princeton in 1928; was discharged about two months ago from a Bloomingdale, N. Y., sanitarium where he had undergone treatment for a nervous disorder. Young Haskell's engagement to Miss Gould was announced last February. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Gould, announced last June that the engagement had been broken by mutual consent. Maj. General William N. Haskell, the young man's father, was in San Antonio, Tex., when the death occurred. He and Mrs. Haskell, the former Miss Winifred A. Farrell of Albany, have three other children.

GOVERNMENT IS ON TRIAL, SAYS HOOVER TO BAR

Calls On Lawyers of Nation To Defend Our Institutions — Court Reforms Needed, Says President.

Washington, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Members of the American Bar Association were urged last night by President Hoover "to defend our system of government against reckless assaults by designing persons." This message was given them when Mr. Hoover addressed a large gathering of the law profession in Constitution Hall at a special session of the 68th annual meeting of the association. The President said: "It is your task to prove again what none knows better than you, that the very citadel of the rights of the poor against the oppression of rulers and against the extortions of the rapacious is the judicial system of our country and that the impracticable aspect of that system is the Supreme Court of the United States."

Greeted With Applause President Hoover was presented by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes. As he entered the chamber with Mrs. Hoover and Guy A. Thompson of St. Louis, president of the association, he was greeted with applause by an audience estimated at 3,000. Several times his address was interrupted by hand-clapping and at the conclusion he received prolonged applause by arising a second time from his seat. Chief Justice Hughes welcomed the President with the greeting "We tender to him our fitting assurance of profound respect and deserved esteem."

On the platform was a distinguished assemblage of national and international barristers, including Marquis Reading of England, Paul Reynaud, French statesman, members of the Supreme Court and John W. Davis of New York, 1924 Democratic presidential nominee.

Government On Trial "Our form of government is on trial in the eyes of millions of our citizens," President Hoover said. "Economic distresses of unparalleled magnitude are upon us."

Harvard Students Protest Department of Labor Rule

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 13.—(AP)—States and the Secretary of Labor for a revision of the regulation of the Department of Labor of September 1 restricting foreign students from obtaining employment in the United States. "In the vast majority of cases the foreign student is doing specialized work in a non-competitive field. The regulation restricting foreign students to accept employment for a gain cannot be defended because of the fact that in some cases employment may be sought by aliens who are not bona fide students. Abuse of student status does not call for restriction forbidding all alien students. We demand, therefore, that the regulation be revised in such a way as to arrest all abuses of student privileges, but will not effect those foreign students who are industriously seeking to obtain an American education."

SHERIFF REILLY ADMITS HE IS MAN MENTIONED IN PRISON BREAK PLOT

TAXPAYERS TO FIGHT FOR LOWER LISTS

Many Will Refuse To Accept Old Valuations In Face of Sale-Price Cuts.

From the number of property owners applying at the Assessors' office for blank lists to be filled out at home with valuations attached, it is apparent that an unusually large proportion of the town's taxpayers are preparing to put themselves in a position to oppose a continuation of the value customarily placed upon taxable properties on the basis of the previous year's appraisal. For some time it has been the custom of a large part of the taxpayers public to call at the Assessors' office, look over the respective lists already prepared by the Assessors and, if the list is found to agree with the facts as to the number and description of taxable items, to swear it in and leave the valuation to the Assessors, this being done on the basis of continuing values as of the year before. In case any subsequent change in the valuations, it was their duty to notify the lister of such change. If he were dissatisfied he could go before the Board of Relief. The valuation of properties in which there had been no physical changes was regarded under the current system as automatic.

To Fix Own Values This year, however, there is a manifest disposition on the part of more than a few taxpayers to make their own valuations, which they will submit with their lists of items. In case the Assessors refuse to accept the new values, the taxpayers will be forced to go to court to have their values fixed.

PLUNGE FROM PYRAMID KILLS EXPERT CLIMBER

American Who Recently Climbed 23,000 Feet Meets Death Attempting Feat He Considered Play.

Cairo, Egypt, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Rand Herrom, an American mountain climber, slipped and plunged to instant death today from the top of the Great Pyramid as he was trying to climb the ancient monument.

Herrom, who could not be more particularly identified immediately, was a member of the German-American mountaineering expedition which recently attempted to scale Nanga Parbat. He was returning to Europe and had landed at Sues from a steamer this morning. He motored to Cairo to spend the day at the pyramid, intending to reappear tomorrow at the port of Suez.

Challenged by the height of the Great Pyramid, which rears its head 481 feet above the desert plateau, Herrom proceeded to climb it. It is a feat which many tourists perform with the help of native dragomen and is not considered difficult, although some of the great blocks

BROKERS CONFESS KIDNAPING PLOT

New York, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Two insurance brokers appeared in the police lineup today and repeated the story they told police after their arrest yesterday, that they had kidnaped eight-year-old John Arthur Russell, son of a wealthy stock broker, because of pressing financial difficulties. The brokers, Allen W. August, 33, and George T. Clarke, 28, both of Brooklyn, were arrested after August returned from Cleveland. Each is married and each has a son. The Russell boy was kidnaped September 19 as he was on his way home from school. He was taken to an apartment and one of the kidnapers telephoned the mother demanding $25,000 ransom. Soon afterward police sent out a radio alarm and an intensive search was started.

RELAYED REPORTS TO WARDEN REED

But Warden Charges Fairfield County Official With Attempting On Three Occasions To Pass Verbal Messages To McDonnell By Means of Prisoners He Brought To Wethersfield—Reilly Says "There Is Nothing To It"—Cannot Be Located In His Office Today.

Hartford, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Hugh M. Alcorn, State attorney for Fairfield county this afternoon said his office was pushing with vigor an inquiry into every angle of the plot allegedly planned by New York gangsters to bring about the escape of Michael (Lefty) McDonnell, life prisoner, from Wethersfield State Prison. Alcorn said his probe would go into other counties in the State if necessary, and into New York in an effort to get at the bottom of the plot.

Warden Charles S. Reed charged Sheriff Reilly with attempting on three occasions to pass verbal messages to McDonnell by means of prisoners he brought to the prison from the county jail in Bridgeport. The Times said Sheriff Reilly, however, insisted that he was "noting to it" and that he simply relayed to the warden certain reports he had heard.

Alcorn's Charge Alcorn, prosecuting the charges of participating in the conspiracy against Albert and Adolph Mankus of New Britain, in Superior Criminal Court, read the following extract from one of the letters written to friends in New York by McDonnell: "Received word from (here Mr. Alcorn explained) from a man who is an elective official from a place outside Hartford county—) that you have a message that you are trying to get to me. You know and I know that it is a hard thing for you to get in here to see me. In fact, I would not want you to take the chance, as the people would have the whole police department on your neck. But you can get in touch with the little friend of mine and let him know what the news is, and he can let me know. Here is his address and telephone number: Adolph Mankus, Number 390 Burdett street, New Britain, 818-R."

Sheriff's Answer This paper quoted Sheriff Reilly as saying: "I don't know McDonnell. I've never met him nor ever seen him. A prominent New York sportsman came to me one day with stories on had picked up along Broadway to the effect that friends of 'Lefty' McDonnell had plenty of money for him. I passed that information on to the warden, that's all. No, that sportsman is not around here now. In fact I chased him out of here a month and a half ago."

County Detective Edward J. Hickey said a thorough investigation is under way at Alcorn's direction, and that he could not make any further details public at this time. State's Attorney William H. Conroy of Fairfield county said he was not acquainted with the facts of the case, but that he would confer with Warden Reed as soon as possible for a full report.

A jury in Superior Court at Hartford, April 4, 1919 returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree against William S. Miller, of West Haven; John Neiss, William Bessler, Michael (Lefty) McDonnell and Fred L. Klein, all of Hobboken, N. J., charged with the slaying of William F. Madden, a Cheney mills guard in Manchester, the previous January 30. The men were sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge Donald T. Warner the next day. Madden, a former Trinity college football star and later coach, was shot and killed at night near one of the Cheney Brothers silk stores. Madden and another guard, Clinton B. Macomber, were questioned by a man in an automobile whose actions had aroused their suspicions. The shooting followed. The automobile was intercepted in Hartford within an hour, and Klein was arrested. Miller was later found at West Haven and the other

Prison officials said McDonnell and Mankus communicated with New York gangster associates of "Owney" Madden, widely known racketeer through Adolph Mankus and the Fairfield county criminal, as a result of their messages, a list containing four thinly-tempered jewelers blades was given by Adolph Mankus last Sunday, to a prison guard, who posed as a party to the plot, but who kept prison officials informed. The plans, which started Labor Day, had progressed to a point where McDonnell hoped to be free by October 15. REED'S STATEMENT Hartford, Oct. 13.—Warden Charles S. Reed of Wethersfield State's Prison mentioned the name of Thomas F. Reilly, Fairfield county sheriff, in his statement today concerning the "elective official" alleged to have been implicated in the plot to free Michael J. McDonnell, a convict serving a life sentence. His statement in full follows: "We received information from inmates that Sheriff Reilly was bringing verbal messages to McDonnell through the medium of prisoners he was bringing here from the county jail in Bridgeport. A few weeks ago he was heard and spoke to a trusty working in the prison lobby. This trusty said that the sheriff asked him if he knew McDonnell. "Yes," the man said he replied. "Then he said the sheriff answered: 'You know they don't let anyone see him here so will you tell him they are ready when he is.' "Another report came from a prisoner Sheriff Reilly was bringing up here, who said during the course of the trip the sheriff had him money is O. K. and ready when he is here, and they are ready when he is here. It is easy to see the situation."

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 18.
THE FARMERS DEMAND
 Congress, the administration, General Glasford and perhaps the War Department—who knows?—may have to face a new problem something like that presented a few weeks ago by the E. E. F. at Washington when and if thousands of farmers foregather at Washington for a four days "conference" on Dec. 7. These farmers who are planning to descend on Washington are not the kind who are afraid of the cars. They are of the stripe who started the "farmers holiday" in Iowa and Nebraska and were hot for enforcing the holiday idea upon their neighbors with bale sticks. And there doesn't appear to be a chance in the world of their just going to Washington, "conferring" and going away again without trying to stir up some sort of a fuss.
 General Glasford, whose patient and tactful handling of the bonus army situation for weeks earned him the admiration of the country, evidently doesn't believe there is any such chance. He has just appealed to the District of Columbia Commissioners to ask Congress for full authority for the ranking police officer of Washington to evict any group of indigent persons who may come to Washington. General Glasford no doubt sees plenty of likelihood of needing that kind of authority, because he has just learned, also, that a gathering of Communists at the national capital is being planned for December 15.
 That the farmers will be classified as indigents seems likely, since it is stated on the authority of Lem Harris, executive secretary of the Farmers National Relief Conference, that they will make the journey in trucks, depending for subsistence and shelter on sympathetic agriculturists along the way. Harris says there will be 5,000 of them in Washington.
 The bonuseers had a single demand. These farmers have four. They propose to present them to Congress. The demands are as follows:

1. Debts, rents, taxes, mortgages remain high. Prices are ridiculously low. Therefore we demand a moratorium on all these debts.
2. With 15,000,000 unemployed and no hope of jobs in the cities, we proclaim our right to remain on our farm homes. We demand that all foreclosures, tax sales, or evictions of farmers be stopped.
3. We demand from the dealers, middlemen and food trusts that a deep cut into their swollen profits be used to raise the farm price. We insist that the rise in the price of food products come out of these middlemen profits, and not from increased prices to city consumers.
4. Our crops are bringing no cash return, but sell for a loss. Without money, millions of us cannot buy food or clothing. Our children are slowly starving, contracting pellagra and other hunger diseases. To insure at least the bare necessities of life, we demand immediate cash relief for all poor farmers.

Even so recently as a couple of years ago the farmers' Demand No. 1 would have convulsed many people with laughter. Even now it will be generally scoffed at. Yet somehow it doesn't sound so funny as it would have sounded in 1930. We may have to do some pretty queer things before we iron out the effects of our happiness jamboree sufficiently to go along.
 Demand No. 2 says the same thing in part and in other words. Maybe it's altogether crazy; maybe only crazy a little bit.
 Demand No. 3 is a poser. It is one thing to demand from the government, because, if you are numerous enough or have skill enough, you may get. But to call on the business world to be reasonable and fair and to have a heart, is to whistle up the wind. The business world is a helpless glass in more able to govern its own processes than a man in a barrel going over Niagara Falls. If No. 1 and No. 2 are loony what word have the psychiatrists for No. 3?

 No. 4 is a mere demand for a doll. Perhaps General Glasford will be empowered to turn the farmers about and give them a stiff push in the direction of back home and perhaps that system will work. Just the same it wouldn't be a bit surprising if we were to hear Demand Nos. 1, 2 and 4 very seriously debated in Congress before Christmas.

"SWEAT SHOP REFORM"
 It is becoming apparent that one of the first and most loudly insistent matters to demand the attention of next January's session of the Legislature will be the subject of the "sweatshop," which has been coming in for all the notoriety that the State Department of Labor could give it. If the people of Connecticut haven't become thoroughly stirred up over conditions in the garment trades it hasn't been through any failure of the Labor Department to make a noise about them but because, perhaps, there are so many people who have no jobs at all and who are less disposed than otherwise they might be to become excited over the woes of those who do have jobs, even if they are not very good ones.

Miss Helen Wood, recently assigned by the department to investigate conditions among the needle trades, reports the discovery of a "deplorable" state of affairs. It seems to be largely a matter of wages. Miss Wood finds that 5,130 out of 7,631 women workers receive $15 a week or less, the minimum of less than $5 being received by 569 of these; and a $15 wage, she says, is "less than the amount shown as adequate for an unmarried woman's living costs" in a "recent survey."
 Of these workers receiving not more than $15, 2,613 earn from $10 to $15 a week. Then there is another group receiving from $15 to $20 a week, which numbers 1,874, and another whose earnings range from $20 to $30, numbering 856 individuals. Fewer than a hundred share in wage rates between $30 and $45.
 Now nobody will contend that this is a particularly attractive schedule of wages. Nobody will hold that people who work for a living should not get a better one than that most of these figures indicate. But neither can any one conclusively demonstrate that these 7,631 women would be better off, collectively or individually, if they had no jobs at all; or if they would be any better off for legislation calculated somehow or other to compel their bosses to pay them more. Of course no law that could possibly be passed could compel the employers to keep on manufacturing, even if some law could be validly passed to prevent them from manufacturing at present low production costs. And it is just barely possible that it is only through their ability to hire their employees at such low figures that these garment makers can continue to do business.

It is one of the remarkable facts of the depression that the garment factories have kept going proportionately far better than any other large industry, and the reason is not far to seek. The employers were quick to recognize the arrival of a period of low prices, of sharp cuts in production costs, deeply reduced profits, curtailed overhead and a rapid turnover at figures undreamed of during the flush period. So they have been doing business—and the workers who produced the garments have had, in the trade's deflation, pretty lean pickings; but they have had jobs, of a sort. In the meantime scores of industries that did not so promptly meet the new conditions, but stuck to the hope that somehow or other old conditions would be restored and they would be able to resume at the old prices and old rates of wages, have had no work at all for their employees or very little indeed.
 It may very well be that Connecticut needs a sterner set of laws for the regulation of the sweat shop; that there may be abuses in the garment trade that call for remedy. But it would be a crazy thing to the Incoming General Assembly to go off half cock and pass a lot of laws, even at the behest of the Labor Department, the result of which might be the throwing out of employment altogether thousands of Connecticut men and women.

This is a business which, if it is tackled at all, must be conducted very carefully and very wisely and without too free acceptance of the views of the State Labor department or its delegated investigators.
HIGHER POLITICS
 President Hoover exercised much self control when he addressed the members of the American Bar Association at Washington prior to the dedication of the new home of the United States Supreme Court. When a Presidential candidate in a campaign such as this and in the crucial days of October, when restraint is usually cast to the winds, can deliver a lengthy address and keep it as free from any partisan political tinge as Mr. Hoover did, it is an achievement in itself.

 But if Mr. Hoover did not talk partisan politics he did talk real politics—the kind of which we hear far too little in a campaign year. It was higher politics when the President hit straight from the shoulder at the degeneration of that large part of the legal profession which forgets that its members are actually members of the government, obligated to the service of the nation and the community.
 "Too many men," said the President, "have been allowed to take this oath and then to be false to it. They use the complexities of law and procedure not to effect justice but to defeat it. These men you must scourge from the temple which they profane."
 It was the best sort of politics when Mr. Hoover, on this important occasion when the nation's eyes were momentarily on the legal profession, had the resolution to practically demand, in the name of the country, that the bar take the leadership in the reform not only of an outrageous system of criminal court procedure but of an equally outrageous and ruinous system of bankruptcy laws.
 Mr. Hoover is about to go campaigning again. He may think that the subjects he dealt with at Washington yesterday are not sufficiently striking to be used as electioneering material. We wish he would try using it, not of course as principle topics but as relatively important ones. Perhaps there is more enthusiasm to be aroused by promising the people energetic action for the reform of the bankruptcy courts than by declamatory pronouncements on subjects of far less importance to the mill-run citizen. There are plenty of near-bankrupts, and they could be much impressed by a guarantee of a square deal.

BEER AND BAIL PLAYERS
 New York, Oct. 13.—Col. Jake Ruppert, whose name keeps bobbing up whenever the Yanks happen to be up and coming, has two attractions to offer Manhattan.
 The better known, thanks to prohibition, is the colonel's ball team, the Yankees, and the support of that team is the Ruppert brewery. Only the colonel knows which comes first in his enthusiasms, which manage to keep well adumbe at the age of 65.
 The round-faced, shrewd and zestful old fellow hopes that his brewery will be functioning in a larger manner a few months from now; he feels fairly certain that his ball club will be up on top for many a season. His team, it would appear, provides whatever kick may be missing from his brew.
 He was born to brewing; he has acquired the sporting instinct. And having struggled up from the bottom when his father was teaching him the business, he knows the value of a dollar. Yet, in the baseball world, he tomes that dollar freely about in order to build a winning team. His purchase of players has meant the expenditure of some $3,000,000—and his sports seem never to tire. Yet his business sense is said to have brought back heavy returns from a big league team which had a way of winning now and then.
Beer and Books
 Nor is baseball his only hobby; he collects books, facts and many tapesies. In his brewery is a library, supervised by an elderly employe who carries on endless research in the subjects of beer-making and its by-products. There are several hundred volumes devoted to various parts of the world; why Munchner is different from Pilsner—all that sort of thing.
 He has the "mean keg" attitude about entertaining. Whenever the Yanks are involved in a world series game and the locale happens to be New York, the colonel transposes and holds open house for the crowd. The ball room of a hotel is turned into a huge dining room and press room. Visitors can eat as much and as often as they like.
 In the brewery there is a little private room where friends are entertained a couple of times a year.
Beer and Business
 He rarely approaches the quarters of the team he owns until after a game. Such a visit occurs usually when the Yanks win. Then he comes smiling rolyndly, with congratulations and a plea for further victories. Babe Ruth, whom he purchased for $100,000, generally gets the colonel's first commensurate honor as Ruppert's most valued investments.
 If his team is losing, it is his disposition to send messages rather than to appear in person. Often he will summon a trainer or lesser official for a confab; often he will have his own men bring him the news of the game.
 He has never been timid in urging a winning team and he has been fabulously generous in scouting all the country's for unknown players.
 When it comes to making beer, his own judgment comes first; in baseball, he will listen to others and encourage their opinions.

Behind the Scenes in WASHINGTON
IN NEW YORK

NORRIS AND ROOSEVELT, BOTH PROGRESSIVES, COULD TELL EACH OTHER A LOT
 Washington, Oct. 13.—Governor Roosevelt's pilgrimage to the home of Senator George W. Norris in Nebraska brought together the two progressives, most respected of all the progressives with the only candidate of progressive tendencies who has been conceded a chance at the presidency since Woodrow Wilson strode across the political horizon.
 Each could have told the other quite a lot, although probably neither did.
 Norris might have told Roosevelt what sort of an experience it is to be absolutely fearless in politics, to stand through a lifetime for principles and convictions in the face of every conceivable obstacle and pressure, to refuse consistently to play politics for votes or personal gain.
 And Roosevelt, making an open bid in the west for support of all the progressives to whom Norris is a hero, might have explained to Norris the impossibility of being elected president without compromising, trimming, evasion and learning the art of never displeasing anybody.
 Norris probably understands all that because he showed no hesitation in again bolting the Republican party to support the Democratic candidate. Just the same, here was a marked contrast between the battle-scarred, hundred per cent courageous Nebraska and the candidate whose enemies unanimously chorus, with some help from his friends that he has "no guts."
 Norris stands out in marked contrast with anyone you can think of in public life. Other Republicans, progressives merely sulk in their seats, idle and ineffective, but Norris is an incorrigible warrior.
 Nearly 25 years ago he was a congressman during a fight that broke up the caustic rule of Uncle Joe Cannon in the House of Representatives. In that fight in the Payne-Aldrich tariff struggle and his strategy which made the Binger investigation possible he first came from the party of the "noble experiment" was a flop.

Queer Twists In Day's News
 Liverpool.—The blue Mediterranean sea lost none of its romance. When the liner Doric docked at a Mediterranean sea, nine couples announced their engagement.
 Medford, Ore.—When Mrs. W. R. Porter heard a suspicious noise outside her tent in a campground, she looked her gun, placed it against the side of her bed, and satisfied she was well protected against any prowler who might attempt to steal from the tent, she went to sleep. In the morning the gun was gone but nothing else was missing.
 Oklahoma City.—Dancing Master L. E. Butterick asked a divorce from his "partly deaf" wife, alleging she injured his business by walking backward in front of him to read his lips as he instructed his pupils. He also asked an injunction to bar Mrs. Butterick from his ballroom.
 Indianapolis.—A local hotel management office a certain man doesn't like a box of cigars he "bought" at its cigar counter. The "customer" also ordered some newspapers, requesting they be delivered to his wife in a room at the hotel, and saying she would pay for both. She wasn't registered.
 East Liverpool, O.—Not content with a $400 cut in his salary, S. E. D'aw superintendent of schools at Wellsville, voluntarily reduced it $600 more. Day action, to help the school board stay within its budget, will make his new salary $3,000 a year.
 Pittsburgh.—Edwin J. Crater told an alderman he thought his name might be binding because his name was misspelled on the license. So he married again and now is in jail on bigamy charges. The name was "Carier" on first license and "Crater" on second. Wife No. 1 made the charges.
 Chicago.—Mrs. Ina Bourakaya, Polish contralto, believes grand opera, now somewhat neglected by plutocratic financial "angels," is finding its salvation in a shrill-screamed America, whose music-consciousness, she said, is growing. She expressed the opinion upon arrival to sing in "Aida" Saturday when Chicago opens an experiment with regular grand opera.
 Philadelphia.—Observing his job's birthday in the Bonborough hotel, which he has lived for the last 75 years, Jacobs Wright said he finds only one drawback to advanced age— "he's not quite spry enough" to get around to see baseball games. He plans for a night of the "noble experiment." "No kick to the media accounts," he says.
 Sydney, Australia.—John Fugh put his razor blade in his mouth while he whipped up a lather. When he got ready to shave he had, he said, "he had swallowed it in a fit of forgetfulness. Fugh streaked to a hospital, where amazed physicians found that the blade had apparently not even nicked Fugh's inside. Lead reports were that the blade was still in him, and he was feeling practically no pain.
 Elkton, Md.—Discovering the loss of an envelope containing $581 in cash when she reached Philadelphia, a woman tourist hurried back to a restaurant near here where she had stopped. A search of the place failed. Finally she and a boy went through the rubbish in the garbage pail and there was the envelope and money. The boy received two dollars for his help.
 St. Louis.—Booker T. Wash is good for something, even in Federal eyes. Instead of being poured down the gutter, 3,100 gallons of alcohol seized by prohibition agents in St. Louis has been ordered sent to post offices and customs agencies in Nebraska, Minnesota and North

HEALTH-DIET ADVICE
 BY DR. FRANK McCOY
 Questions in regard to Health and Diet will be Answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this Paper. Enclose stamped, unaddressed Envelopes for Reply.

THE TREATMENT OF ACNE
 Those who are troubled with acne will find it necessary to do everything to promote the efficiency of the intestines. These patients should also use plenty of multi-producing foods, such as cooked and raw leaf and root vegetables, and should avoid the more concentrated highly caloric foods. They should also use plenty of physical exercise. The face should be washed carefully twice a day with warm water and plenty of soap so as to thoroughly cleanse the pores of the skin. The soap should then be rinsed off with plain water.
 The permanent cure of acne depends upon the elimination of those irritating materials which have produced the disease. This is most quickly accomplished by an exclusive acid fruit fast for a few days. Any fresh acid fruit of the market may be used. In winter apples or oranges are always obtainable. During other seasons of the year cherries, apricots, plums, grapes, etc., prove effective. The fruit fast should be continued for several days and the patient will generally notice that the inflammation of the skin has subsided to some degree, after which a general diet may be used, simply avoiding the fat containing and the concentrated starch, or sugar foods by using an abundance of the non-starchy vegetables, both cooked and raw as these supply plenty of safe bulk to encourage the normal elimination of intestinal wastes.
 The patient should also practice daily exercises. One of the best types are the exercises which develop the muscles of the abdomen. Swimming and walking are beneficial.
 Late researches indicate that it is advisable to eat plenty of the foods containing calcium as this element helps to retard inflammation in the skin. Some of the foods richest in calcium are: watercress, lettuce, spinach, cabbage, Swiss chard, turnips, lemons, oranges, milk, cottage cheese, asparagus and strawberries.
 Severe cases may find that steaming of the face after washing it thoroughly is helpful. This may be accomplished by laying hot towels on the face. This will soften the blackheads which may then be gently pressed out with a clean towel. It is also well to keep the scalp clean of any accumulations by washing it at least two or three times a week so that the fingers do not carry off or grease from the hair to the face.
 Severe cases may also require local treatment. One of the best methods I have found is the ultra-

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 (Red Hands)
 Question: B. E. asks: "What would cause extreme redness of the palms of the hands and sides of the feet? They do not itch and there is no irritation, but the color remains."
 Answer: The redness of the palms and feet is probably due to defective circulation. This is sometimes a result of having the hands and feet frozen many years before the redness is noticed. The freezing injures the blood vessels, so that later on in life a normal tone of the blood vessels is lost and dilation takes place, causing undue retention of blood in those parts affected.
 (Splice)
 Question: Mrs. Dorothy E. writes: "Please advise what you think about splices."
 Answer: The main fault I have to find with splices is that they tend to over increase the appetite which encourages one to eat more than he would otherwise. There is no doubt but what all conditions have some irritating effect upon the mucous membranes of the stomach and intestines, and, therefore, may be one of the causes in the development of stomach and duodenal ulcers.
 (Muscle Twitch)
 Question: J. I. 2. writes: "Please tell me through your column why the facial muscles about and below my left eye twitch disagreeably every now and then. I am a man of fifty-four."
 Answer: Your trouble is due to a depleted nervous system and appears only in the muscles below your left eye simply because there is some interference with the nerve going to that section. Besides adopting a general hygienic regimen for nervousness, you might receive help for your trouble by having a few osteopathic or chiropractic treatments to the muscles and nerves of your neck.

SUPREME COURT CORNERSTONE LAID

President, Chief Justice Hughes and Head of Bar Association Officiate.

Washington, Oct. 13.—(AP)—In the presence of a distinguished audience of the judiciary and the American Bar Association, the cornerstone for the new home of the Supreme Court of the United States was laid today with President Hoover officiating.

After he had handled the tiny trowel while rain fell softly, he passed it to Chief Justice Hughes, who also dabbed mortar on the huge marble stone, and then stepped aside for Guy A. Thompson, of St. Louis, president of the Bar Association, to do the same.

Beginning while John W. Davis was delivering an address on behalf of the Bar of the Supreme Court, the drizzle continued throughout the brief ceremony held across the plaza fronting the Capitol.

All members of the Supreme Court save Louis D. Brandeis were present. Aged 76, he stayed away because he feared the chill weather. Attorneys attending the annual meeting of the American Bar Association composed the larger part of the audience that watched the ceremonies at the partially completed structure.

Among them were Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state, the Marquis of Reading, British statesman, and his wife, and several members of the Cabinet.

Mrs. Hoover accompanied the President. Near her sat Mrs. William Howard Taft, widow of the late Chief Justice.

President Hoover did not speak. He and Mrs. Hoover returned to the executive mansion immediately after the ceremonies.

FISH BEING POISONED

Hartford, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Supt. Arthur L. Clark said today alleged poisoning of the Quinnipiac River by a Southington Monthy detouring company causing death to thousands of fish and a few birds this week, will be the basis of legal action by the State Board of Fisheries and Game.

Above and below the Southington section the stream is state leased for fishing, and this year Connecticut placed 7,316 brown and brook trout with an aggregate weight of more than a ton in the Quinnipiac.

The complaint that fish were foundering there was received Monday night. Fish and Game Warden Charles Allshouse of Granby saw, he said, thousands of fish dead or dying. The board is saving a dozen of the fish and samples of the water analyzed.

The investigating wardens said they have not definitely determined which factory is polluting the river.

STATE'S TOBACCO CROP

Hartford, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Connecticut tobacco growers reported today that their shade grown crop, while reduced at least 25 per cent in acreage, was so favorable that a noticeable shortage probably would not be shown.

3 Easy Rules for Using the High Test Fuel

1 Shake less — Because Koppers Connecticut Coke is all fuel, and burns down to fine ashes that drop through the grate with very little shaking. Once a day is often enough to shake—less frequently in mild weather.

2 Use less draft — Because Koppers Connecticut Coke is High Test Fuel, it burns evenly without forcing the fire and wasting heat up the chimney. It responds at once to closing as well as to opening of dampers.

3 Fill the fire pot heaping full — You can do this without danger of smothering the fire. Koppers Connecticut Coke is lighter than coal and burns most economically and effectively when you keep a deep fire.

These 3 rules mean less work and less attention. Your Koppers Connecticut Coke fire requires less work in firing and in taking out ashes, banks perfectly and provides a steady warmth for less cost.

BIG DAY FOR WETS, DRIES, NOVEMBER 8

First Chance Since Prohibition To Record Yes and Votes On Amendment.

Connecticut voters on election day, November 8, will have opportunity to express themselves definitely by a "yes" or "no" vote on the prohibition question. This will be the first time since the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment that this will have been possible.

The action of the 1931 session of the General Assembly in making possible such a referendum was given emphasis today in a statement made public by Prof. Charles M. Bakewell of New Haven, Republican nominee for congressman-at-large.

"This referendum calls for a definite vote on the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment," the statement said. "Those who favor directing the Connecticut Secretary of State to petition Congress on behalf of the state of Connecticut to adopt a repealing amendment will vote 'yes' on the paper ballot or voting machine, as the case may be. Those who oppose so directing the secretary of state will vote 'no'."

"In making this referendum possible, it was the purpose of the Republican members of the General Assembly at its last session to seek a clear-cut vote on this issue from all complications with other issues. Those who wish a change to be made in existing conditions growing out of the adoption of the prohibition law are expected to vote 'yes.' Those who are in favor of a continuance of the amendment are asked to vote 'no.'"

"Within thirty days after the election, if a majority cast their ballots in favor of submitting the petition, the secretary of state is directed by the statute to transmit the petition to Congress. The form of the petition is as follows:

"The people of the state of Connecticut petition the Congress of the United States to submit to the several states the following amendment to the Federal Constitution: 'Article XX. Article XVIII of the amendments to this Constitution is hereby repealed. The power to regulate or to prohibit the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors is reserved to the several states. The Congress shall have the power to regulate the sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors in interstate commerce in a manner not to abridge or deny the powers herein reserved to the several states.'"

"I am of the opinion that no more opportune time could be had for such a referendum than at present. It offers a fair avenue for voters of opposite beliefs on the merits of prohibition to show conclusively to Congress and the country at large what existing sentiment is in the state. The Republican party urges every voter in Connecticut, regardless of beliefs on this subject, to vote on this referendum."

"As President Lincoln once said, 'with public sentiment on your side anything can be accomplished without it nothing.' Dries as well as wets should welcome the opportunity to determine definitely what public sentiment on this question is in Connecticut."

BIG CONTRACT AWARDED

Washington, Oct. 13. (AP)—The Postoffice Department today awarded to the International Envelope Corporation of New York and Dayton a contract for 9,529,183,000 stamped envelopes and newspaper wrappers to be supplied in the four-year period beginning January 1, 1935.

The price was $11,881,141. The International corporation holds the present contract.

BIG HOOVER AUDIENCE

Cleveland, Oct. 13. (AP)—Approximately 20,000 persons are expected to gather Saturday night to hear President Hoover's views on support in this pivotal state.

There will be three separate audiences at the public hall, where his address will be delivered. About 10,000 persons will be seated in the main hall, according to present arrangements, and behind him, in the music hall, will be 8,000 more, mostly Republican organization workers. A curtain that ordinarily divides the main hall from the music hall will be raised.

In the basement, several thousand more will be able to hear his address by means of amplifiers. More amplifiers will carry his address to those expected to congregate in the street. After his formal talk, the President will speak briefly to the Republican workers, then make short appearances before the basement and street crowds.

MOROS DEFEATED IN FIERCE BATTLE

One Constable and Six Insurgents Killed—Savages Are Driven Into Woods.

Jolo, P. I., Oct. 13. (AP)—In fierce fighting today the highway trained Philippine constabulary routed war-like Moro outlaws from their fortified village at Tayanagan. One constabularyman and six Moros were known to have been killed.

After three days of fruitless negotiation to obtain surrender of the outlaw leaders, sixty constabularymen attacked the entrenched Sulus at 7 o'clock this morning. Hand grenades, rifles and bombs figured in the fighting which lasted until 3 p. m.

The natives fled their village, in which 400 warriors, women and children had taken refuge, shortly after the constabulary attack. The Moros scattered but continued fighting for hours. Another battle is expected tomorrow.

Six constabularymen were slightly wounded. Captain Leon Angeles, provincial commander who led the constabulary, said he believed the Moro casualties exceeded the six known to have been slain.

Today's fighting brought deaths from the latest Moro outbreak, which started with Sunday's ambushes in which ten constabularymen were slain, to 49. Three other officers were slain in two subsequent skirmishes.

CALLS SOUTH BETRAYED

Bessemer, Ala., Oct. 13. (AP)—Bishop W. N. Ainsworth of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, told the Alabama Women's Christian Temperance Union last night the south "has been betrayed by the politicians."

"There is nothing in common between the 'Tammany-made' leaders of the east and the people of the south," he said.

"Politicians of the south should be held strictly accountable for their betrayal of the south. The time will come when they will be scourged from their positions."

Turning to prohibition Bishop Ainsworth said the dry laws had not been a failure. His yearly travels averaging 30,000 miles in various sections of the country have shown him only two intoxicated persons, he added.

He predicted that in time civilization will make no distinction between liquor and narcotics.

SPORTSMAN'S FUNERAL

New Haven, Oct. 13. (AP)—Many men who had been associated with him in harness racing for two generations were at the funeral today of John H. Dillon, sportsman and merchant. The solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated in St. Joseph's church.

Dillon died Monday. He had horses on the Grand Circuit and other race tracks for the greater part of his adult life.

HOOVER RECEIVES B. E. F. DELEGATES

They Present Petition Asking For Clothing and Beds For Homeless Veterans.

Washington, Oct. 13. (AP)—President Hoover today received personally a delegation from the Bonus Expeditionary Force, after its leader, Hobe Smith, had departed for more than an hour with one of the President's secretaries.

Frank T. Hines, director of veterans affairs, stood beside the Chief Executive's desk as the B. E. F. delegation filed into Mr. Hoover's private office. Those in the lobby outside could hear the President say: "Gentlemen, I am glad to see you."

Smith placed upon the President's desk a petition asking that members of the B. E. F. be given clothing, coats, mattresses and blankets and a food allowance of not less than 15 cents a day.

Two women were in the delegation. "We were received by the President and shown every courtesy," Smith told newspapermen as they left the White House.

"We gave our petition to General Hines in the presence of the President. We pledged our unwavering allegiance to the Constitution and the flag," Smith said.

The petition, approved by a recent convention at Uniontown, Pa., concluded: "We, the assembled representatives of the B. E. F. do hereby certify you and those of your administration who took part in, and the means used in the forcible eviction of the B. E. F. from the District of Columbia on July 28th and 29th, 1932."

In addition to the clothing, blankets and food, the petition asked that the President "recognize the need for the immediate payment of the adjusted service certificates."

The demand for direct relief, the resolution said, was made after a law had been enacted by the last Congress providing an appropriation of $50,000 for "the entertainment of French veterans."

BEER WAR STARTS

Bridgeport, Oct. 13. (AP)—What the police believe the beginning of a "beer war" between two local factions, started early this morning when Ralph Johnson, alleged "beer baron" who operates the Palace Chop House at 117 Congress street, was seriously slashed with a knife about the face, head and neck by some person as yet unidentified by police because of Johnson's refusal to talk.

At 3 o'clock this morning Johnson stepped out of a taxicab at the emergency hospital, bleeding badly from his face and neck.

It was learned that he was later transferred from the Emergency hospital to the Park City hospital where he has been placed under observation.

AL SMITH'S SPEECHES

New York, Oct. 13. (AP)—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith, beginning next week, will make six speeches in behalf of Democratic State and National tickets in New England, New Jersey and New York state, it was announced at his office today.

His first address will be delivered in Tammany Hall, New York City on October 19, the announcement said. The next date, tentatively set awaiting word whether the Armory can be obtained that night, is October 24 in Newark, N. J.

Former Governor Smith is scheduled to go up into New England on October 27, making speeches at Boston, and Providence, Rhode Island, that day. Another speech is to be made October 28 somewhere in the Albany district, possibly in Albany or Troy, N. Y. The final address listed in the announcement is set for Buffalo on October 29.

HUNT FOR SLAYER OF DRY OFFICIAL

Murderer Takes Gun From Agent's Holster and Kills Him On Street.

Stillwell, Okla., Oct. 13. (AP)—Officers hunting the eastern Oklahoma hills for Ed Dudley, accused killer of Howard B. Oursler Federal prohibition agent, were joined today by Colonel George H. Wark, Kansas City, district prohibition director.

There was no trace of Dudley, Republican nominee for constable, who fled after allegedly shooting the dry agent with Oursler's own pistol after the officer had sought to question him on the main street of Stillwell concerning reported "whisky sales."

Oursler's body will be sent to Pittsburgh, Pa. He came to the Muskogee enforcement office last July following a four-year service in Kansas City. His widow survives. Murder charges were filed against Dudley soon after Oursler had been shot fatally and Eimer Phillips, working with the agent, had been shot in the knee.

Witnesses said Dudley jerked Oursler's pistol from his holster and after a struggle the weapon was discharged. Oursler, witnesses said, told Dudley after he was shot to "put the gun down; it isn't worth it."

Dudley ran unimpeded out of town and into the mountainous country to the east.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH

Three Rivers, Que., Oct. 12. (AP)—The accidental discharge of his shotgun on a partridge hunting expedition was responsible for the death of Josephat Daviault, police concluded today after an investigation into the death of Daviault in a hospital here last night. The Cap De La Madeleine youth was taken to a hospital yesterday with fatal wounds in the body.

THE HOMEMAKER Carries Your Fuel No Running Up and Down Stairs.

Gases are the weary tiresome tripe down cellar to fill the oil bottle. Instead a few strokes on the small pump near the stove and the tank is full again. A visible indicator on the tank shows the exact amount of oil at all times. No more running down to the basement—no more heavy oil jugs to carry—no chance of spilling oil.

CALL of the WEST

STAN BALL accuses ASPER DUDLEY, timber king, of crooked practice and of having men shot who try to check up on his activities. Ball says he is making a check and Delo tells him he will personally accompany him. Upon leaving Delo's office Ball meets DONA, Delo's daughter, from kidnappers. She slips away when he finds who she is, telling her his name is STANLEY BLACK.

DUDLEY WINTERS, in love with DONA, goes with her to Three Rivers to persuade Delo to abandon the fight with Ball. He tries to get her to marry him on the way as a means of getting Delo to give up his plans. DONA narrowly escapes being kidnapped by meeting Ball on his way to the timber camp. They find Ball accused of killing a ranger. ASPER is wounded from ambush but refuses to stay in bed. DONA tells him she has been married DUDLEY to keep him out of the hunt.

Ball comes in for supplies and is captured by SWERGIN, Delo's big timber boss. He escapes after hearing DONA tell her father about her marriage but DONA holds back. She rides out to see if she can find Stanley Black, who, she thinks, is at Blind River. She meets him on the trail, but she is in the hands of Blind River men. DONA promises to help her if he will help her to find the range of Stan Ball. On the way to camp DONA stops at a cabin and sees a glove she thinks is Stanley Black's in a Spanish girl's room. Valuable records are stolen from the office and ASPER Delo is furious and refuses to leave with DONA and DUDLEY. A posse gets on Ball's trail and it is reported he is cornered. DONA rides out with a rifle. She sees Ball slipping away from the posse and shoots him. He falls, bleeding and takes her prisoner.

CHAPTER XXVI

DONA faced her captor with flashing eyes. Stan Ball returned the defiant glance with a grim smile. "My quarters are passable though possibly a trifle primitive for one accustomed to luxury," Stan motioned toward the mouth of a cave. "Will you enter or must I carry you?"

DONA's anger lessened a trifle. Then she thought of her father and panic seized her. He would be up and riding the hills like a mad man when word came that she was a prisoner. ASPER would not keep her from her father and DUDLEY would not be able to keep it from ASPER. For a moment her determination to play as bold a game as her captor weakened.

"I hate you and loathe you! I wouldn't ask anything from you for myself but this will kill my father," Ball stood with his feet planted wide apart. For a full minute he looked at her. "I'll see that your back ends at the morning. To let you go tonight would mean that you would be lost in this high country. To take you down tonight would be suicide. Your father has not earned that at my hands."

"I suppose you will not grant you immunity?" DONA's eyes blazed.

"You certainly will have to swear not to reveal this hiding place. I may have to use it several days more in order to make a get-away."

DONA's voice was dead and hard.

"And I won't promise you anything except that I will escape at the first chance and that I will stop at nothing to have you taken," DONA's cheeks flushed as she gave him her answer.

"That's settled then! You stay here as my guest," Stan motioned toward the entrance of the cave.

With her head up DONA entered the dimly lighted interior. Stan pushed her ahead of him and struck a match. By its flickering light the girl made out the rude interior of the place. An old lamp stood in a niche in the wall. Stan lit it and turned toward her.

"Be seated while I get supper," he nodded toward a stone slab covered with blankets to serve as a bunk.

DONA, sank down on the pile of blankets and crossed her legs. She was watchful and ready to take any chance. Her eyes took stock of the interior of the room in a vain search for a rifle or other weapon. There was no gun in the room except the heavy revolver that swung at Ball's hip. Her eyes returned to her lean captor.

Stan bent over an open fireplace shaped of rock slabs with a smoke deflector to send the fumes through a crevice in the ceiling. He set the wood on end, Indian fashion, and applied a match. Beside the fireplace was a little collection of cooking utensils. Stan produced a piece of bacon and sliced it. He showed a tin of water near the flames to heat, then he uncovered four speckled mountain trout. Soon a savory odor began to permeate the air of the cave. DONA sniffed disdainfully. She was not sure she would eat.

Stan Ball sat back on his heels and watched the trout sizzling in the pan with the bacon. When the water began to simmer and he pulled it back from the flames and sifted tea into it. After turning the trout several times he arose and pulled a wide slab of stone over beside the cot. Producing two tin plates, he laid out a knife, a fork and spoon, his entire stock of silver. Two tin cups were added to the table and a tin can of sugar.

The trout were done brown by this time and he dumped two of them on the plate before DONA. Three slices of crisp bacon were added. He showed the plate toward her and reached for the tin of tea.

"Humble but wholesome," he remarked. "I have no read. It's too bulky to carry." He added this by way of apology.

DONA took up her fork which was her allotted piece of silver. She would be as good as he and as able to meet his plans. The food was good and she would eat it. That would deplete his store sooner.

The first mouthful convinced her that Stan Ball was an expert at frying trout. She realized, too, that she was very hungry. In silence they ate and drank. Stan sat close to her on the stone bed. The handle of his revolver was a scant 10 inches from her hand as she laid down the spoon, but she did not attempt to jerk the gun free. DONA knew the cat-like speed of the man she had to deal with. His gun hand would move like lightning.

Stan reached for her plate and gathered up the few dishes. He turned his back squarely upon her and filled a can of water for dishing. DONA sat still and watched him. She was not foolish enough to believe that this was her chance. She would wait for a better opening, one that was sure.

Stan washed the dishes and put them away carefully. Then he sat down on the slab of stone that had served as a table. With deliberate care he sifted a little tobacco into a cigarette paper and rolled a smoke. DONA moved slightly. A picture fastened up on the bare stone wall caught her eye. It was a photograph of herself, taken when she was at finishing school. Her eyes flashed but she did not say anything. Ball saw that she was looking at the picture and a thin smile parted his lips.

"My most prized possession!" He spoke slowly and the smile faded from his lips.

"You know what you want, don't you, Mr. Ball?" There was a cutting edge to the girl's voice and a sarcastic note in it. "Even though it can do you no good."

"It has done me much good," Stan stated simply.

His answer angered her more than a bantering reply would have done. She sat very straight and her little chin came up stily.

"And these," Stan waved to a pile of magazines and several books, "are very helpful to a fellow who has to stay cooped up all day."

DONA's eyes flickered ever so little as she noticed that he had helped himself to magazines and books from the shelves of the office building at Three Rivers. The books were all good literature and the magazines of the better class.

"You approve of my reading?" There was a light of amusement in his gray eyes.

"You probably haven't opened any of them," she answered coldly.

"But they make nice decorations," he insisted.

DONA shrugged her slender shoulders and refused to reply.

"You hate me and that is all right, but you are my guest and I want you to be comfortable and to be entertained," Ball cast an amused eye over the stiffly erect figure on the cot. "I would suggest that you make yourself easy."

"I am as easy as any girl could be with open to your kind about," DONA snapped. "I would consider it a great favor if you would go outside where you could watch the entrance and leave me alone."

Stan nodded and got up. "Make yourself at home. I will take care of my lady outside." He bent low to keep from bumping his head on the ceiling of the cave and disappeared.

DONA sat for a long time without moving. She could hear her captor outside talking to the black mare. Cool air began to creep into the cave, indicating that evening was at hand. DONA stretched her legs and tried to see out into the clearing but a curve in the entryway made it impossible. She sat back and gave herself up to bitter contemplation of her fate.

She was a prisoner but that did not worry her. That she was in the power of Stan Ball, a killer, did not worry her either. What did make her uneasy was the thought of her father. She remembered with an angry twist of memory that Stan Ball had shot her father and that Ball was responsible for her present plight. From the first he had been the cause of all her trouble. She made a vow that she would exact the last drop of revenge against him when the chance came.

Stan emerged into the yellow light of the cave. He had taken care of his horse and was back to see how she was getting along.

"Time to turn in," he said shortly. "We'll have a heavy day tomorrow if things break right."

DONA met his eyes with a level gaze. "I happen to be sitting up tonight," she said stily.

"I happen to be deciding these things for you!" he stated and began to untie the scarf that was knotted loosely about his throat.

YOUR CHILDREN

Dear knows what people thought when they saw you wearing it after that!"

Heleen has her way

"And it seems to me that every time I want you to do an errand you have to run over to her house to get your bicycle. When you two go to the movies she always chooses the show, you never go where you suggest. If you want to play a game, she wants to take a walk. Walking you go. But if you want to walk, she decides it's to be something else."

"But I like her mother. She's awfully nice to me."

"Nice! Of course she is. I see Heleen's good points, too, but she is mercenary, if you know what that means. She will always be nice to people she can work. But there, dear. Don't feel too bad about all I have said. However, I wish you wouldn't be so easy and wouldn't let her walk all over you."

The next day Lois came to her mother weeping. "Heleen won't speak to me. I wouldn't let her copy my night work and she's going with Grace."

"Well, I wouldn't cry. It was bound to happen."

"She—she was wearing Grace's new raincoat and Grace was treating her to ice cream at the drug store."

"She will always sell her friendship, always. After a while she will desert Grace for someone with bigger and better favors. Alice is a real friend. Go and hunt up Alice."

"I don't care. Yes, I will. She's not mean, a bit."

Children need help and advice in dealing with "mercenary" children. There are a great many like Heleen who leave you hat the rest and lead a path of unhappiness behind them.

Lois colored painfully. "If we get mean about it she won't go with me. She's always saying I'm a little bit young and things like that. I want her to be my friend because—well—everybody wants her. But she says she likes me best and all the girls wish they were me."

"Lois, she wore your hat the night you were imposed upon every day and I can't stand it. She's just working you. The other day she wore your new hat before it was out of the box almost. Suggested you trade for a hat. So she wore your hat the night she went to school and you wore hers."

Mother says "No!"

"I never saw such a family," declared her mother indignantly. "They wouldn't buy a book or anything else for their children on any account, but they get every book that comes into this house before we see it ourselves. Now I'm going to lay down the law. Nothing else goes out of this house. Remember, if Heleen wants something come and tell me."

Lois colored painfully. "If we get mean about it she won't go with me. She's always saying I'm a little bit young and things like that. I want her to be my friend because—well—everybody wants her. But she says she likes me best and all the girls wish they were me."

"Lois, she wore your hat the night you were imposed upon every day and I can't stand it. She's just working you. The other day she wore your new hat before it was out of the box almost. Suggested you trade for a hat. So she wore your hat the night she went to school and you wore hers."

HEALTH

SCARLET FEVER ANTITOXIN URGED ONLY AFTER EXPOSURE TO GERMS

Disease No Longer Menace If Once Was

By DR. MORRIS FISHER, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Ordinary scarlet fever is an acute infectious condition which comes on suddenly with vomiting, high fever, severe sore throat and a brilliant red spotting or rash over the neck, chest and back. There is likely also to be a very intense redness of the inside of the mouth and the tonsils, and an appearance of the tongue which is like that of a strawberry.

The rash lasts from three to five days. The fever goes on at the same time. Then the fever gradually disappears and the rash fades. From a week to 10 days after the disappearance of the rash the skin begins to peel or, as is said scientifically, to desquamate.

Some years ago Dr. George F. Gladys Henry Dick found the cause of this disease to be a germ of the type known as streptococcus which produces a poison, usually, to the material in which the germs are growing. When such germs get into the body they produce scarlet fever.

In addition to the poison that they produce and which is found in the material in which they grow, the germs also develop another poison which gets into the human body or into any living animal when the germs themselves die and disintegrate.

It is believed that such secondary symptoms of scarlet fever and such complications as the infected glands, infected ears, generalized blood poisoning and similar disturbances are due to the secondary poison.

The Dickes developed a method of testing the skin of human beings to determine whether or not they were likely to develop scarlet fever if exposed to it.

Moreover, they found that injection of a small amount of the toxin or poison would cause the human being to develop resistance to the disease.

Furthermore, they found that the injection of a horse with this poison would cause the horse to develop in its blood an antitoxin which was of value in overcoming scarlet fever. It should be realized, of course, that the antitoxin may be given in an ordinary case of the disease and overcome the disease itself, but at the same time the patient may have the complications that have been mentioned.

In instances when the fever is low and the patient not very sick, it does not appear to be desirable or even worth while to inject the antitoxin. However, if the patient is very sick and if there are complications, it is customary to give an injection of the antitoxin; and there is already plenty of evidence to indicate that it is effective.

Because scarlet fever is not a contagious disease any more, it is and especially not worth while to inject every child with a preventive vaccine or to inoculate it with the toxin against scarlet fever. Such a method should be used only when a child has been definitely exposed to a case of the disease or when there is in the community a severe epidemic of scarlet fever.

There seems to be good evidence that the child who is injected will develop a resistance against scarlet fever lasting at a minimum one year, and perhaps much longer. There are no records of any severe accidents or injuries following the use of these preventive methods.

TODAY IS THE WORLD WAR ANNIVERSARY

ALLIES DRIVE ON

On Oct. 13, 1916, Americans advanced on both sides of the Meuse, taking all their objectives. The French took Leun without a fight and also took La Fere and occupied the massif of St. Gobain.

British troops advanced into the suburbs of Douai. In the Balkans, the Allies took Nish.

President Wilson replied to Germany's note, which partially accepted the peace terms, and asked for a mixed commission on the evacuation of invaded territory. The president declared there would be no armistice so long as the Germans continued their ruthless warfare, that there would be no agreement with an autocratic German government and that allied military chiefs alone would direct the evacuation of invaded territory.

Here's a corner that would promote industrious, stay-at-home habits in any youngster. The desk, lounge set and bookcase are placed together as a unit, and are served by the same floor lamp.

By JULIA BLANSHARD
New York, Oct. 12.—This month is the time to set the stage for a happy home life this winter.

Of course the home is your stage and the living room the set that is used oftentimes for pleasant family dramas.

The biggest single trouble with most homes is that there simply isn't a comfortable spot for everybody to read in, play solitaire or do that bit of mending that needs a good strong light for efficiency's sake, not to mention the avoidance of eye strain.

Most living rooms have one prize corner, often with a squishy chair that you long to sink into, and perfect lighting that saves your eyes. But almost every family has a "sleazy" person who catches that corner right after night. It may be a debutante daughter who knows that the world is hers; it may be a selfish little 12-year-old son, engrossed in a western story; or it may be Dad.

New interiors, planned for this winter when the home is likely to mean more than just a place to hang your hat, concentrate on perfect spots for reading and working.

One of the neatest tricks along this line comes in a series of magic rooms a big department store has planned. Borrowing ideas from ships' reading rooms and hotel lobbies, a modern parlor has been planned. It has a modern table with four modern chairs placed at two sides and a perfect lamp to light the whole. Here the children could study in peace, and no one would have an "alibi" that he hadn't a place. Here two people could compete in double solitaire, letters could be written, magazines could be read or mending done.

It is a smart addition to a modern home all done in metal and gay washable upholstery, green or red. The chairs are tremendously comfortable, built on just the right slanting lines to let you relax and yet sit up to the table. Moreover, they are light-weight, easily movable, and easily cleaned.

The table is a handsome piece of modernism. Its metal base is very decorative and its metal top is perfectly smooth. The lamp that goes with this has a black base and shades of the new faded shades that diffuse the light, so it won't hit you in the eyes. You can have the mirror to complete the unit, and a nice, decorative bit in, too.

This happens to be a very modern answer to a home's problem. The new line like all modern things is adaptable to other types of furnishing.

YOUR HANDS

Your hands and fingers have a very important part to play in the work of the world. They are the tools with which we do our work. They are the tools with which we create our world. They are the tools with which we build our future. They are the tools with which we live.

Hands should be soft. Don't let rough water and harsh soaps irritate them. Use an oil or cream every time you wash them. A few drops, rubbed into the palms, will help you to keep them soft and supple.

Gloves should be worn for any work that must be performed under water or with irritating substances. At first the gloves may feel cumbersome. Your fingers may move awkwardly as they perform simple tasks. But in a surprisingly short time, you will be so accustomed to their presence that you will feel unnatural when you are without them to perform distasteful tasks unaided. Never keep rubber gloves on for a long period. Remove them frequently as breathing spaces are good for the pores of the hands.

There is beauty in your finger tips. But if you don't play your hand wisely it isn't going to stay very long.

Manchester High's Cross Country Team Meets Glastonbury; Seven Races On Schedule; Here's the Team

Twenty-eight students turned out to compete for the seven places on Manchester High school's cross country team, coached by Pete Wigren, and Murch, Packard, Danaher, Demahie, Frasch, Coburn and Toman were successful in making the first team. Manchester will open its season in Glastonbury tomorrow.

Thirteen runners have been retained on the squad, the others being Peckham, Anderson, Cude, Smith, Stouffer and Hagenow. With several veterans of last year's team back this year, Coach Wigren expects a most successful season. Seven meets have been scheduled. Only two of which will be out of town. They include the annual five mile race sponsored by the Recreation Centers on Thanksgiving Day.

The complete schedule is as follows: October 14—Glastonbury, there. October 21—Middletown, here. October 27—Weaver, there. November 4—Norwich, here. November 10—East Hartford, here. November 18—Hartford, here. November 24—Thanksgiving Day race, here.

CANZONERI KAYOES FRANKIE PETROLLE

End Comes in Third Round; Chocolate in Title Bout Tonight.

New York, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Coming almost together, the closing of New York's outdoor fight season and the opening of the major indoor campaign serve to affirm Tony Canzoneri's place at the head of the lightweight division and Frankie Petrolle's place at the head of the featherweight division. In the New York State Athletic Commission's list of champions.

Tonight's 15-round scrap between Kid Chocolate, the clever Cuban negro, and Tony Canzoneri, New York's champion, will be the first of a series of fights which will be held in the city. The place has been vacant here since Bat Battalino forfeited the title through his inability to make the 136-pound limit, although Tommy Paul of Buffalo was recognized as champion by the N. B. A.

Last night in the chill breezes of Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Canzoneri opened his assault on the Petrolle family with a smashing, three-round knockout of the junior member, Frankie, in a non-title bout. In the month he is to defend his crown against the older and more experienced Billy Petrolle.

Although outweighed by nearly eight pounds, Canzoneri left little room for argument. He checked Petrolle's advances with a steady flow of punches to the head in the first two frames and then put him out completely after a little more than a minute of the third with a shower of left hooks followed by a right uppercut to the chin. Tony weighed 133 1/2; Petrolle 140 1/2.

Chocolate, who holds some recognition as junior light weight champion, and who failed in one attempt to capture the featherweight crown from Battalino, ranks as a 2 to 1 favorite to win tonight's battle. He met Feldman once before and gave him a thorough trimming in a 10-round bout.

Do You Remember?

One Year Ago Today—Walter Johnson was signed to pilot the Washington Senators for another year. Josephine McKim, Olive Hatch, Jennie Cramer and Margorie Lowe shaved three-fifths of a second off women's American 300-yard swimming relay. Time: 1 minute 37 seconds.

Five Years Ago Today—Harry Fox Whitney was made a member of the New York Jockey Club. Ruess copped $10,000 Chicago Day Handicap at Arlington.

Ten Years Ago Today—Billy Mickel, St. Paul heavyweight, won on foul from Tommy Gentry, also of St. Paul. The foul which ended the fight came in the tenth round of a 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

AMERICAN GRAPPLERS TOO ROUGH FOR PARIS

Paris, Oct. 13.—(AP)—All-in wrestling, as the modern imported game is called here, is too rough for Paris.

Not only did the wrestlers hurt each other in the spectators' laps and continue their bouts in the high-priced seats, but the crowd took to throwing all sorts of things in the ring, including chairs.

WEE MONTE PARKE AFTER BROTHER'S JOCKEY LAURELS

A Sensation At Lincoln Fields, He Carries On At Latonia; Stardom Ahead.

Latonia, Ky., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Little Monte Parke is out to bring to the family name what riding honors his brother Ivan did not share in 1923 and 1924, before forced from the saddle by increasing weight.

Monte accepted his first mount on Whipper Cracker at Lincoln Fields September 12. Since then at the same track, he piloted home seventeen winners, eight within a week, and twice scored on three first-placers in as many days.

Goldblatt sees stardom ahead for his protégé.

He has a good seat, a strong pair of arms, a good judge of pace, and nerves of steel," the trainer said after obtaining first call at Latonia for his youngster.

Ivan Parke led the winning jockeys of the 1923-24 season, in 1923 riding 178 winners out of 718 mounts, and in 1924 having 205 first-placers out of 844 mounts.

A good straight arm is a great help to open field running. Sit the arm in a sharp push, not a blow, and after delivered the arm must be drawn away quickly to prevent the tackler from getting hold.

The freshman football squad at Washington university this fall was the largest in years.

VITAL GAMES DUE SATURDAY IN BIG TEN CONFERENCE

Purdue and Michigan's Title Hopes Threatened By Wisconsin, Ohio State.

By JIMMY DONAHUE, NIA Service Sports Writer

"Dr. Clarence 'Fat' Spears, jovial mentor of Wisconsin, and Sam Williams, head man of the Ohio State football squad, may cast their teams in the roles of heart-breakers the coming week-end and blast the hopes of Purdue and Michigan for the Big Ten title.

The Badgers meet the Boilermakers at Lafayette, Ind., and the Buckeye riders take on Michigan at Columbus in the two handliners of the conference battles. And it's not unthinkable to say that one and perhaps both Purdue and Michigan will come out on the short end of the score.

Ohio State has ever been a thorn in the side of the Wolverine. Last year the Buckeyes, figured to be the underdog, rose in their might, smacked the Wolverine all over the lot at Ann Arbor to win 20-7, and thereby spoiled Michigan's claim to a clear title in the conference.

This year the setting is practically the same. Michigan, by its win over Northwestern, is installed as the favorite. But Ohio takes tremendous heart and after being held to 7-7 tie last week by an Indiana team ranked as its inferior, the Buckeyes are sure to play football as it should be played. That tie with Indiana hurts!

"The Bucks, in early season, were said to have the finest material in the game. Sam Williams, who's runner up to Gil Doble for the "gloomy" title, even admitted it. Five regulars were back for the line, and a group of sophomores looked fine.

The problem was to replace Bill Bell and Bob Haurbitch, star tackles of last year. There was plenty of material to pick from, including Regis Monahan, Fred Conrad, Ted Roesquist, Ludwig Yard and Harry Nelson.

The backfield of last year was pretty well intact. Carl Cramer, brilliant quarterback, was there to maneuver the team. Captain Lew Mansfield was figured to have a good year, as well as Michael Vuchinich, great defensive fullback, and Bill Carroll, the "blood express" half.

It's all Purdue this year, according to early dopesters. But the amiable Dr. Spears doesn't think so. Back in the Big Ten after a couple of seasons of Pacific coast football, "Fat" is all set to stage an uprising in the conference.

His team won its first game this year for the first time, and looked pretty good. Doing it, Captain Kabat was the center of a strong line, and the backfield showed the crushing offensive power that Spears likes to develop.

But Purdue has a great team. Just how great it will be shown in the Wisconsin battle.

Its initial battle against the Gophers revealed a strong line, a backfield that has not yet hit its stride, a couple of kickers that know no peer, and a passing attack that will surely improve before the season is far gone.

Johnny Oehler, captain and center from Stanton, Ill., showed how a defensive center should be played. Time and again he broke through the Minnesota line to stop Manders and Lund.

Paul Moss, end, continued his brilliant play of last year, and his five games were around his end. His kicking was a bright spot of the game.

If the game is close, Wisconsin will have to watch chunky Paul Fardoner, the Boilermakers' quarterback, who is a whiz at kicking field goals and punts after touchdowns. In two years he has missed only one in 14 attempts for the extra point.

Ray Horstmann, fullback, showed his ability by tearing through the strong Minnesota line time after time.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here are selections of a famous football coach and a noted sports writer of the winners in the big games to be played Saturday, Oct. 15. If they can select winners so can you. Make your own selections, keep the chart, and compare your winners with those of Sutherland and Brauer.

SUTHERLAND PICKS: Pitt, Ohio State, Yale, Tulane, Nebraska, Southern California, Syracuse, Stanford—Among Others.

By DR. J. B. 'JOCK' SUTHERLAND, Football Coach, University of Pittsburgh. Strength was manifested in unexpected quarters in the Big Ten last Saturday, while elsewhere throughout the country the chief surprise was at New Haven where well-coached Stagg eleven led Yale.

Pitt, Notre Dame, Army and the strong coast eleven of Southern California and Stanford showed expected power. Tulane indicated it has another strong eleven by beating Georgia, whose showing was a little disappointing.

Important games are coming up Oct. 15. Here is my view of the outcome: MICHIGAN - OHIO STATE - Michigan had breaks to beat Northwestern and will need all her resources to lick the Buckeyes. Given one point, or a touchdown, to show the issue, I select Ohio State.

PITTSBURGH - ARMY - If Pitt gets past this one, which the Army has been saving up for, we will have to play our best football. But I select Army to win.

GEORGETOWN - NEW YORK U. - The New York team has only to play up to its form to the Rutgers game to beat Georgetown.

BROWN - YALE - The Chicago fullback will be a lesson to the Bulldogs, who have been losing by getting ahead. My guess is Yale.

PENN STATE - HARVARD - Penn State has not shown much this year, and Harvard should have no trouble winning this one.

CORNELL - PRINCETON - What Columbia did last Saturday, Cornell should be able to do this week.

PRINCETON-CORNELL TUSSELE A NATURAL Play 22nd Game of Ancient Series Saturday; Other Contests.

New York, Oct. 13.—(AP)—One of the most natural of football "natural" is scheduled for next Saturday when Princeton and Cornell meet at Princeton in the 22d game of their ancient series.

They have been in general, fairly well matched and each draws especial attention this season, the Tigers because of their new coaching regime, and the indications of success that already have followed the work of "Fritz" Cramer and his assistants; Cornell because the illness of head coach Gil Doble has hampered the development of a promising squad.

So far there is no favorite for the game. The return of the veteran Doble and of Johnny Ferraro, star back who was hurt in the opening game, may make a considerable difference.

At West Point Army and Pitt come together in a game which seems destined to eliminate one of the contenders for the mythical eastern championship. The Penn-Dartmouth clash bring together another pair of undefeated teams as does N. Y. U.-Georgetown. Other "big games" among teams of the eastern section are Harvard-Penn State; Lafayette-Colgate; Carnegie Tech-Washington and Jeff and West Virginia-West Virginia Wesleyan.

Strong inter-sectional opposition for some of the eastern leaders is found in the Syracuse-Southern Methodist, Columbia-Virginia, Navy-Ohio U. and Holy Cross-Detroit clashes.

YALE REGULARS RETURN

New Haven, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The radical realignment of the Yale varsity squad which Coach Mal Stevens instituted after the Chicago game did not last. With two exceptions, the original lineup went into Saturday as the varsity, played a defensive game in a supervised scrimmage in the bowl. Hughes remained at left end and Joe Johnson, last year's freshman captain played again at center.

Walter Kimball, the aggressive but light candidate for Jack, surrendered his place again to Jack Sargent, while Frankie returned to right guard. In the backfield, Crowley and Lavering who traded places Tuesday, returned to fight halfback and fullback, their original positions.

The promotion of Hillman Holcomb, a substitute right guard to the varsity squad brought the total to 37.

Punts—Passer

By The Associated Press

Worcester—If looks like the old army game for Holy Cross this season, in addition to Captain John McEwen, former Army and coach of the varsity, who was quarterback; Gabe Vidal, who was quarterback on the 1916 Cadet team which McEwen captained, stopped in yesterday to lend his assistance.

Cambridge—What may be the turning point in the eastern Harvard football season is scheduled to take place in a class room today but the result won't be known until next week. Jack O'Leary, star back, has to take an examination and get a grade of C or better to remain eligible.

West Point—It won't make much difference if the score is as high as it was, last year when Pitt beat Army 26 to 0, but the cadets are working hard on a factor that may decide a close game. Long seasons this week have been devoted to booting the extra points after touchdowns—one of their weak spots in early games.

New Haven—Whether or not Yale coaches have picked the right varsity combination remains to be seen but they apparently have decided their first choice was correct, despite the Bull Dog weakness in the first two games. After shifting the line around Tuesday, they shifted back yesterday, putting all but two men in their original posts.

Providence—There seems to be a ray of hope for the Browns coaches no matter what the Bruins do in practice. Their final hard scrimmage with the Yale game was particularly bad but one of their tutors said "Some good football surely ought to follow that work."

Manova—Dartmouth's regulars set only have been threatened with a slump but they have had their ups and downs. In their last game, several players had only part-time work yesterday as their substitutes shared the places on the varsity.

Bob McClure, 17-year-old University City Mo., track star, who equaled the world indoor high school mark in the 80-yard dash last year, has entered Washington university.

Colorado's most promising candidate in the year old 80 yards dash was a 16-year-old boy who weighed 125 pounds and has won 21 of 26 bouts by knockouts.

WEAVER TRAMPLES LOCAL BOOTERS, 4-0

High School Suffers Worst Defeat In Its History; Play Meriden Next.

Manchester High's soccer team was trampled into the earth yesterday afternoon at Keney Park, Hartford, by Weaver High. The score was 4 to 0. Incidentally, this was the worst defeat that the High School booters have suffered since they were organized two years ago.

Manchester played ragged ball throughout the game, not once showing its real caliber. Weaver was quick to get the jump, scoring twice in the first quarter and topping it off with two more in the final period. Goldenthal, who scored three goals, was the whole show for Weaver, while Captain Kennedy played best for Manchester.

A drastic shake-up in the local lineup is expected before the first League game with Meriden Saturday afternoon, at Charter Oak street, at 2:30 o'clock.

Bristol and East Hartford have decided to put soccer teams on the field this year, and the C. C. I. L. will be represented by Manchester, Meriden, East Hartford, West Hartford and Bristol. Bristol will play here Saturday, October 22, and Manchester will journey to East Hartford some time in November.

The lineups: Weaver (4) Levy, Cohen, Schwoisky, Lerner, Leberman, Dunn, Sherman, Verrangis, Kaplan, Gols, Goldenthal, J. Leberman, Substitutions, Weaver, Lewis for Kaplan, Kaufman for Lerner, M. H. S. J. DeSimone for Henry, War for McVeigh, Egan for Stone, Gandy for Coran, Scott for Barico and Samson for Coran.

Wesley (4) Leary, O'Leary, H. S. Star, according to reports from Wesleyan University at Middletown, James O'Leary, one of the best athletes to graduate from Manchester High school, is continuing his brilliant athletic career at Wesleyan.

O'Leary is a member of the freshman football team, and has already distinguished himself in scrimmages against the varsity.

O'Leary is an outstanding prospect for the varsity next year. Playing a halfback position, he carries the ball like a veteran and is one of the best backfield backs on the freshman squad.

O'Leary was regarded as one of the outstanding boys at Manchester High school in many years. Not only was he a versatile athlete but he also attained unusually high marks in his studies—something which isn't too common nowadays among college or high school athletes. He played baseball, football, track, basketball and tennis with about equal skill. To name his best sport would be difficult. It has been many long years since Manchester High school had such an all-around athlete. And above all, he was extremely well liked.

EX-CHAMPS BATTLE FOR WOMEN'S TITLE

Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare and Miss Helen Hicks in Finals Today.

Hot Springs, Va., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Two former National champions were at grips on the Homestead links today for the women's championship in the annual Hot Springs golf tournament.

The contenders, Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare of Philadelphia, and Miss Helen Hicks of New York, Long Island, advanced to the finals with brilliant victories yesterday.

Mrs. Vare defeated Mrs. Kenneth M. Saggaman of Boston, N. J. 4 and 3, and Miss Hicks won from Mrs. Dorothy Vire Hulme of Philadelphia, 4 and 3.

A quartet of survivors remained in the play for the men's championship, with George H. Finner, Jr., of Pittsburgh, Stanley Stone of Philadelphia, William H. Platt of Philadelphia, and Thomas R. Hulme fighting over the Casanova course for the right to compete in the finals tomorrow.

Finn won his quarter-final match with Edwin E. Vax, Jr., of Philadelphia, 2 and 1; Stone defeated Kenneth M. Saggaman, of Boston, N. J., 2 and 1; Hulme defeated Irving T. Smith, of Greenwich, Conn., 2 up, and Platt eliminated Richard Tyner, of Greenwich, by the same score.

The Tale of the Tammany Tiger: No. 1

Tammany Builds Powerful Political Machine Through Defending The "Under-dog"

The Tammany Tiger grows ... and his growl is heard not only in New York's five populous boroughs, but in voting booths on far-distant Main streets of the land.

All of which is part of a tale which began way back when old New York was young. It came to pass that there were born some shrewd politicians who awakened to the fact that the vote of an oppressed, ignorant and exploited immigrant from Europe was quite as good as that of an aristocratic and privileged fellow who happened to be two leaps removed from the American Revolution.

Each district leader has a captain. Each captain has a staff of lieutenants. Most of them are locally prominent in public life. Most Tammany Club members hold city jobs.

At election time it's up to the captain and his staff to get out the votes. Rewards and punishments await the varied results. A captain who can get big results will go far. One who doesn't will come to a hasty finish.

Time was when the Tammany organization was limited to the area between the Harlem River and the Battery. This has stretched. And John McCooney, Brooklyn chief, is now a mighty figure.

But it's another John Curry who reigns in Tammany Hall. One day a week is "open day" for Curry. He is Mayor Walker's chief.

Tammany Hall, having been born in the ghetto sense, looks out on Union Square, where the Underdog squats on benches or grown radical fights with the cops. In keeping with its traditions, the Hall is of Colonial design. There is a touch of the stage set about it.

Curry's office in the Hall resembles the director's room of a big corporation. He is attended from the outside by a thick and long glass partition. The only political sign is provided by a decorative porcelain tiger, the sign of a loyal benchman.

District leaders are named according to assembly districts. There are 39 such leaders. Since women have had the vote, there are thirty-five feminine co-workers. The women are

Executive Committee. The leader of Tammany Hall is chosen from this committee and holds the title of chairman of the committee.

And when all is said and done, much of their power lies in the fact that they work the year round. They do not get together merely at election time; they are active in their district from one season to another.

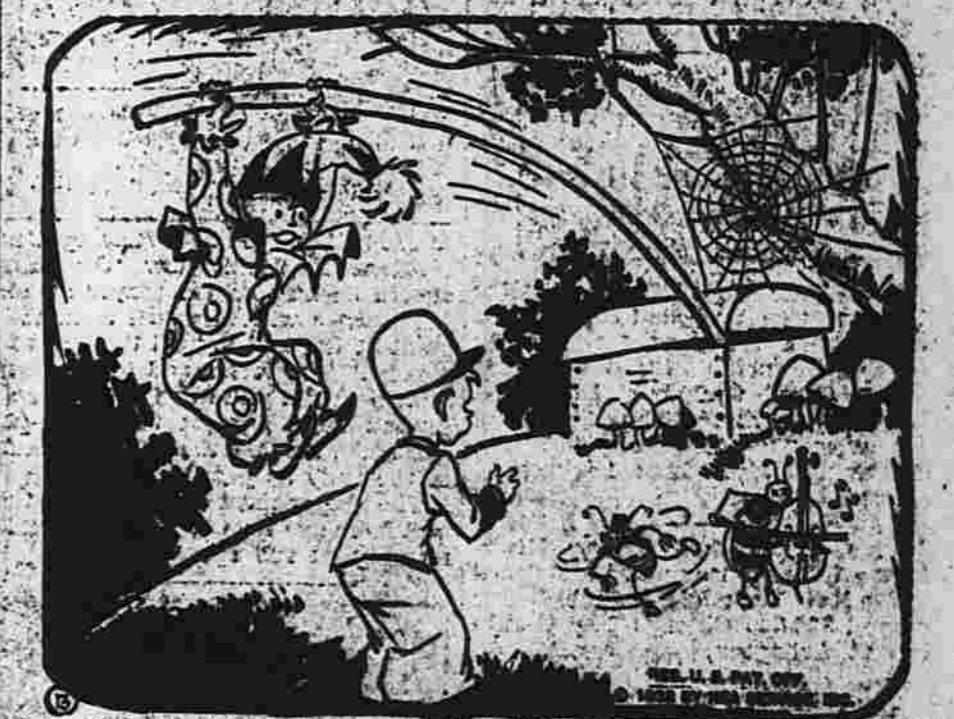

Thus it functions as a machine which over the years, bit by bit, knows every door by heart. Which, whatever else may be said of Tammany, is the basic secret of its power and strength.

When all the district leaders get together they make up the County

GAS BUGGIES-The Maid's Day Off

The box was quite a mystery and Scotty said, "We'll have to see what we can do to open it. What can you suggest?" "Of course we have no key to it, so that thought will not help a bit. We'll all suggest a plan and then we'll use the one that's best."

SENSE AND NONSENSE

A New Tune To An Old Song
Save your pennies for a rainy day. The time-worn motto used to mean: But we'd save them now for the misadventure tax. And all we do is pay and pay.

The good old days were those when you could measure a man's importance by the amount of guff he had on his shaving mug at the barber shop.

Hobbs—What's the idea of a small firm like yours having such a large, massive safe?
Dobbs—It helps the morale of our creditors.

Newspaper Reporter—Senator, have you brought many people to your way of thinking?
Senator—Shortsighted—No. Public opinion is something like a mule. It won't go where you want it to go. In order to keep up the appearance of being a driver I had to watch the way he was going and follow on behind.

The secret of a long life may be summed up in four words: "Work hard and behave." It is a good combination. As a rule, the man who does work hard behaves. Most of the meanness in the world is hatched up by idle minds and idle hands.

She—My nose is only half as big as yours.
He—Yeah? Let's measure them.
She—He—SMACK!

Pups At Our House!
We got a new porch 'at's screened all 'round. Where skeeters and flies and bugs abound. A new oil stove, and that ain't all—We've got new pups to our house!

An Elbert's pants got a city press. I've got ticks an' a speckled dress. An' plain ivy, an' that ain't all—We've got new pups to our house!

LOOSE STUFF—It's getting mighty expensive for a husband to take an interest in modern household devices. . . . One thing about a boy or girl who works part or all of his way through college, at least he learns how to make his way. . . . The world still is looking for the great statesman who will invent a lot of taxes which the other fellow will have to pay. . . . Failure sits on the doorstep of the man who hates what he has to do. . . . You may think you are firm but your wife knows you are only stubborn. . . . We hope people will never think as little of us as they do a congressman. . . . There are probably ten men who go to court to get even to one who goes to get justice. . . . A man's greatest fault is to be conscious of none. . . . No interest gets some low when you're paying it. . . . Sometimes our most distant relatives are our nearest kind-folk. . . . None of us object to flattery provided we are the object of it. . . . If it were not for safety razors, barbers might have to go to work at something else to make a living. . . . The stone that is fit for the wall does not long lie in the ditch. . . . Another trouble with the man who knows nothing is that he is always the last to find it out.

When a man continues to pile up more enmity than good will in his community, there's something wrong and the chances are the wrong is not with his fellowmen.

Becky—For vy mama does papa wear duck pants?
Mama—He's studying to be a quack doctor. Now run off to bed.

Elderly Man—Well, little girl, and what are you going to be when you grow up to be a big woman like your mother?
Modern Child—Dist. of course.

We noticed a bit of advice in a recent comic strip: "If you would help keep the wolf away from the door, try keeping the hog away from the table."

TURKEY, GOOSE, PIG AGAIN TO THE FORE

Number One's Historic Annual Thanksgiving Event To Have 35th Repetition.

The Annual Thanksgiving Eve Social and Dance will be conducted by Hose and Ladder Company No. 1, S. M. F. D., this year as usual. It will be the 35th annual staging of the affair and the Masonic Temple will be the scene. The date is Wednesday, November 23. The usual raffish turkey, goose and pig prizes will take place, the drawing being made from the regular admission tickets.

For many years this event has been one of the leading seasonal affairs in the town and in addition to the three historic prizes it was formerly the custom to give away other poultry and also vegetables. The extra prizes were dropped out a year ago when the company finished paying for its newest equipment item—a big ladder truck. Unlike the other units of the South Manchester Fire Department, Hose Company No. 1's outfit is the property of Cheney Brothers and the company itself.

Albert Robinson is chairman of the general committee, which also includes Arthur Lashinsky as secretary, Joseph Moore as treasurer and W. J. McCormick, Lawrence Williams, E. L. G. Hobenthal and George W. C. Hunt.

NEW "REC FIVE" PLANNED

A meeting to organize a Recreation Centers basketball team will be held at the School Street Rec tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. It was announced today by Director Frank C. Busch. All local players are invited to attend the meeting and everyone will be given a fair chance to make the team, which, as in past years, will be known as the Rec Five.

The Rev Five had a good season last year and with the return of some of the veteran players expected, it is predicted that another successful season is in store. Plans for the season will be discussed at the meeting and a manager will be appointed. James Gorman managed the team last year.

SCHOOL BOARD AGAIN TO PONDER ITS BUDGET

Will Tackle Problem of $58,000 Reduction At Its Meeting This Evening.

Manchester's Board of Education, comprising of seven men and two women, convenes at 8 o'clock tonight at the office of Supt. F. A. Varplack to continue its study of steps to be taken in connection with the $58,000 school budget reduction voted at the recent town meeting. There is no assurance that the committee will decide upon any definite action at tonight's session, which will be the second since the board came into power with the recent town election. The problem at hand is a major one and members say they intend to study the matter thoroughly before making decisions.

At the first meeting the board considered various methods of effecting the reduction, such as discontinuing kindergarten, dropping physical education, closing some of the schools in the outer districts and transporting the children to the larger schools and further reducing the teachers' salaries which have already been cut 15 per cent. Several other suggestions were also discussed.

The local post will march in a body with the drum corps of Dilworth-Cornell Post, American Legion, leading. The ceremony in the town hall will be open to the public without charge. Afterward refreshments will be served by the Rockville post and dancing will be held in town hall.

Post members from Hartford, East Hartford, New Britain, Thompsonville, Bristol, Rocky Hill, and Manchester will attend.

A little brown screech owl took refuge in a tree near the school yesterday when the householder opened the hatchway to take out articles for the town collection in the forenoon. All day long he remained in the comfortable basement and never a screech or a sound came from him. In the early evening the owl was in the same place, though means of escape were left open. The family were considering adopting him as a pet, and were pondering over what to feed him when another visit to the cellar disclosed the fact that he had flown to the nearby woods.

PREPARE TO RESURFACE NOTCH-ANDOVER ROAD

Unlikely, However, That Either Major Job On Andover Road Will Be Finished By Spring.

Two major improvements are being made to the state highway which links Bolton Notch and Andover, the most important of which is the elimination of the railroad crossing and underpass at Andover. The other alteration consists of perfecting grading the road between the two towns and laying a concrete surface. The two projects will not be concluded this winter.

It is planned to abandon the grade crossing completely when the new highway is finished but it will be necessary to keep the underpass open for the convenience of local Andover traffic. Through traffic, however, will remain on the north side of the tracks and thus avoid the underpass.

The new connecting link of roadway between Bolton Notch and Andover is being done by Amos Bridgman and Sons of Hazardville. Knoda Brothers, Inc., of Manchester are assisting in both jobs, but principally in the latter project. They have rented their air compressors, pumping outfits and trucks.

Manchester people who have been using this roadway will probably be less inconvenienced if they travel over the Coventry road unless absolutely necessary to use the Andover road over which one-way traffic prevails. The Notch-Andover road was rebuilt and a coating of gravel laid about a year ago. Now that it has had time to settle properly a concrete surface will be poured after the slight grade errors due to settling have been corrected.

C. R. TURKINGTON HEADS DISTRICT EPWORTHERS

Elected President At Uncasville Gathering, Wadsworth McKinney Vice-President.

Clarence R. Turkington of 34 Garden street was elected president of the Norwich District Epworth League, at the annual conference of the District held at the Uncasville Methodist church yesterday afternoon and evening. Wadsworth McKinney of Pine street was elected first vice-president. Both young men are members of the Epworth League of the South Methodist church.

The conference opened at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, with a devotional service. Singing was led by Rev. L. Tharon French of the North Methodist Larger Parish. Prayers were led by Rev. O. L. Monson of Uncasville.

The business meeting followed, in charge of President John Wraza of Willimantic. Mr. Monson, assistant secretary and business manager of the summer institute, gave a report showing that 85 delegates attended the institute and that a substantial financial balance was on hand. A telegram of greetings was sent to the Providence District Epworth League, in session at Attleboro.

A vote of thanks was extended to Dr. George G. Scrivener, dean of the Institute, and Rev. Monson, for their work at Willimantic during the summer. A nominating committee was appointed to prepare a slate of officers, to be reported at the evening session.

A banquet was held at 6 o'clock, the evening session being conducted by the president. Group singing was led by Mr. French. Eighty-four delegates answered the roll call. The nominating committee made its reports and the delegates elected the persons recommended. Other officers elected, besides those already mentioned, were: Lillian F. Donaldson of Stafford Springs, second vice president; Gilbert Minor, Jr., of Jewett City, third vice president; Ella F. Linscott of New London, fourth vice president; Harriet I. Plummer of Rockville, secretary; Eleanor Atwood of East Hartford, treasurer; Ella Howard of New London, junior league superintendent; Rev. O. L. Monson of Uncasville, Rev. French of Manchester and Rev. W. D. Hamilton of New London, counselors.

It was voted to send Mr. Monson to the Deans Conference in New York. Dr. Scrivener then awarded diplomas to those who attended the institute during the summer.

The speaker at the evening service was Dr. A. Danforth of New London, who gave a fine address on the subject, "A Circle, an Eclipse, a Triangle and a Square." Indian dances were interpreted by the Boy Scouts of Troop 11 of Norwich. A game and social period brought the conference to a close.
