

DEMOCRATS BLAME IT ALL ON HOOVER

Rally Speakers Here Attack Republicans Rather Than Praise Own Candidates.

The Republican administration, President Hoover in particular, was blamed for the present business depression by former Mayor Angelo Paonessa of New Britain and Edward G. Dolan of Manchester in addresses made at the Italian Democratic rally held in Tinker Hall last night. About 200 persons, mostly men, attended. Rocco D. Pallotti, Hartford alderman and defeated Democratic nominee for the State Senate, failed to appear although he was scheduled to speak.

"There has been altogether too much political propaganda in the country," declared Paonessa. "They say that business is picking up, but that is not backed up by fact. If so, where is there any improvement? Is there any in Manchester? Ten thousand men are out of work in New Britain. There is no reason why under proper administration control people should be out of work. Hoover was not sincere in his efforts to help the working class and it is up to a president to take better care of the people."

"The trouble with Hoover is that his heart is in the wrong place. They say that Hoover did some mighty good work during the World War, but he was a Democrat then," Paonessa said. "The former New Britain mayor rapped the president for his action in regard to the ejection of the bonus war veterans from Washington proclaiming 'I wouldn't do to a yellow dog what Hoover did to his own men. The time has come to quit being slaves any longer and revolt from the Republican party,'" he said.

Ex-Mayor Paonessa spoke for about 40 minutes in Italian after being introduced by James Pontillo and then devoted as much more time to assailing the Republican policies in English. During his talk in Italian, it was evident that he was attacking the Republicans rather than blaming the Democrats because the names of Hoover, Curtis, Bingham, Trumbull, and Alcorn were often mentioned. The speaker declared that Senator Bingham doesn't really want four percent beer. "And don't kid yourself into the idea that you are going to see any change in the Volstead Act or 18th Amendment if Hoover and Curtis are elected," he declared.

The speaker was especially bitter in his discussion of President E. Kent Hubbard of the Manufacturers' Association whom he said was working hand in hand with Senator Bingham. Paonessa said Hubbard is against old age pension "or anything that will uplift the cause of the working people." It's a case of rich versus poor and poor against the rich, he stated adding, "We've got to work to win for the forgotten man. As for Hoover, he should be sent to England where he belongs."

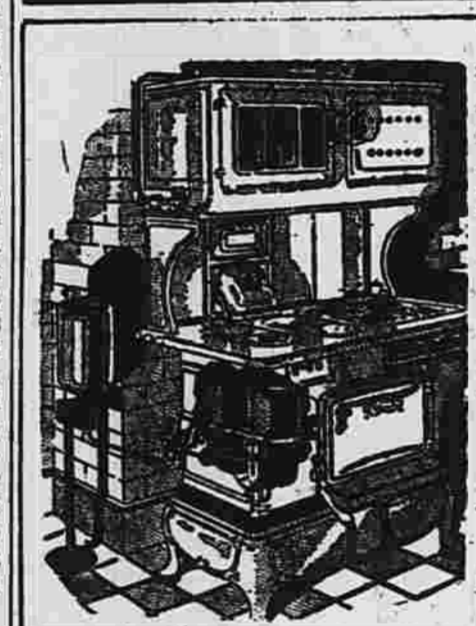

The crowd was welcomed by John F. Limerick who said that the "Republicans want to use you for political use but won't give you any office while the Democrats will." Dr. Dolan spoke after Paonessa had concluded his inspiring address which was warmly applauded at several interruptions. Dr. Dolan told the audience that his presence proved an independence that has never been known here before. He called attention to the claim that the Democrats hold no discrimination against either race or creed but said that the Republicans have. He told in the case of Francis Pallotti who, he said, was denied the lieutenant governorship because the Republicans didn't want a "wop" for governor.

"The Republicans pulled the same stunt right here in Manchester," Dr. Dolan declared, "by dumping Pero overboard after they had gotten your vote. A year ago they did the same to the Swedes. It is right time there to change in the administration policies," he said.

Dr. Dolan then told of the accomplishments which he credited to the presidency of Woodrow Wilson, the Democrat. He gave the Democrats the credit for instituting the Federal Reserve Bank, income tax, for giving women the right to vote, for settling a major coal strike, for making an eight hour working day and praised the war conduct of President Wilson. Dr. Dolan said the party is to take the old adage, "By Their Deeds Ye Shall Know Them."

Dr. Dolan ripped the Harding administration calling attention to scandal; said Coolidge sat tight kept cool and let water roll over the dam; and shouted that Hoover went into the White House through bigotry and false promises. He said that Republican speakers everywhere are on the defense. He accused the Republicans of racial prejudice and religious bigotry. The speaker rapped Hoover for signing the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill which he said had caused other countries to raise their tariff and has chased much business out of the country. "Some people may try to tell you that there isn't much difference between the Republican and Democratic policies, but they don't let them kid you. The difference is as great as between a chestnut horse and a horse chestnut," Dr. Dolan said in concluding with a plea for voting Democratic next month.

LA FOLLETTE OUT FOR GOV. ROOSEVELT

Progressive Republican Senator Says He Will Vote For the Democrat.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., Progressive Republican, issued a statement today advocating the election of the Democratic presidential nominee, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

He also advocated the election of Democratic state candidates. "Senator LaFollette said that while he had 'no illusions about either of the two old political parties,' he felt that Progressives of both parties could expect some co-operation from Roosevelt but none at all from President Hoover. The Republican candidates for governor and senator, he charged, attained victory through a 'slush fund' and by employing 'tactics taken from the book of Samuel Insull.'"

The LaFollette statement placed an official Progressive "taboo" on President Hoover, former Governor Walter J. Hohler, who defeated the senator's brother, Gov. Philip LaFollette, for re-nomination, and John B. Chaplin, the young Ashland editor who nosed out Elaine.

It was evident, Senator LaFollette said, that Hoover would block Progressive measures in Congress while Roosevelt "indicates a willingness to co-operate with Progressives on legislative action to meet the extraordinary (economic) crisis."

"I shall, therefore, vote for Governor Roosevelt because I believe he offers the only immediate hope for the relief of 10,000,000 unemployed men, women and children, and 6,000,000 farmers, who with their families, are threatened with the loss of their entire stakes in our economic order," the senator said. "If he is elected I shall feel free to oppose any of his policies which are not in accord with my own convictions."

HOUSE'S TO SELL SUITS FOR $8.50

Another Sensational Disposal At Local Store Starts On Thursday.

C. E. House & Son, Inc., will hold another sensational sale of men's clothing starting Thursday, Oct. 20. One year ago this month House's held the first of these clothing sales when a lot of over 800 suits were sold at the sensational price of $11. This year better quality clothing will be sold at the still lower price of $8.50. These sales of men's clothing have given House's a far-reaching reputation for value giving. In view of a repeat sale of this type it is expected that the store will be filled to capacity tomorrow morning because many customers said last year that if any such sale was held again they were planning to purchase two and three suits instead of one. House's are enabled to hold these extraordinary sales due to their connections with a large buying syndicate in New York who purchase carloads of these suits at a time. Such volume buying means low prices for the customer.

AL CAPONE HEARING IS SET FOR NOV. 14

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Hearing on a habeas corpus petition by which Al Capone, former Chicago gang overlord, seeks his release from the Federal prison here, was postponed today until the week of November 14.

The postponement was ordered by District Judge Marvin Underwood on account of the condition of the calendar of the court, and a case now on trial which promised to take up the remainder of the week. Assistant District Attorney Hal Lindsay, who handles most habeas corpus cases in the District Court here, said the calendar for such cases was full, so that it would be difficult to work the Capone hearing in.

The postponement, he said, was taken with full consent of counsel for Capone.

26 GRADE CROSSINGS CUT IN THREE YEARS

State and New Haven Railroad Join in Elimination Work—Only 131 Left Now.

Twenty-six of the more dangerous grade crossings in Connecticut have been eliminated between January 1, 1929 and the present and two more are now in the process of being removed, current statistics of the Connecticut Public Utilities Commission reveal, the removals having been accomplished jointly by the state highway department and the New Haven Railroad.

On December 31, 1931, the number of highway grade crossings in Connecticut, not including industrial crossings, was 671. This number was classified as follows: Crossings on Trunkline Highways, 70; Crossings on State Aid Highways, 61; Crossings on City Streets, 111; and Crossings on Town Roads, 429. Thus, on Connecticut's main highway system, that is, trunkline and state aid roads, there are only 131 crossings left at the start of the year and these were all protected in one approved manner or another, so that exercise of normal caution on the part of motorists would avert all chance of accident.

Of the 671 crossings existing on all highways and city streets at the start of the year, only 648 were active, no trains at all being operated over twenty-three of them. Of the total crossings, 369 principally on rural or less frequently traveled highways were protected by warning signs only, while the balance were equipped either with crossing gates or automatic flashing, red light warnings.

On January 1, 1929, there were in Connecticut 897 crossings. Today, this number has been decreased to 671 with two more eliminations in progress. In the United States, during the six-year period from 1924 to 1931, there was an increase of 7,927 grade crossings. Thus, the grade crossing situation in Connecticut is exactly the reverse of that in the country at large, this state showing a steady decrease against the latter's increase.

Not only has the number of crossings decreased in Connecticut, but likewise the number of accidents occurring at crossings has substantially dropped, both because of improved protection by the railroad in giving warning of the approach of trains and also because of the constant educational program which has been conducted to instill greater caution in drivers when approaching railroad tracks. In 10 years, ending 1931, grade crossings accidents per 100,000 motor vehicles registered in Connecticut have decreased 67 per cent, while motor vehicle registrations have increased by 126 per cent.

Among the major grade crossing elimination projects undertaken in Connecticut within the past three years were those involving the construction of the large bridges at Cornwall and Lime Rock on the upper Housatonic River, the Thomaston elimination and the project at Jewett City.

Has Revolutionary Relic

Ashmun N. Read of Lawrence street has a beautifully carved powder horn which his great-grandfather, Amos Read, had carried in the Revolutionary War. Engraved in the horn are these words: "Amos Read—His horn made in Corte Lande Manor December 25, 1776." There are other engravings like a grapevine, a couple of sailing vessels, a coat of arms and what resembles a sailing battleship.

Mr. Read wrote to the librarian of the New York Historical Society and found that the powder horn inscription probably refers to Van Cortland Manor, which extends for ten miles along the Hudson river from Groton river to the dividing line of Putnam county and twenty miles east of the Connecticut boundary line.

Amos Read was pastor of the First Baptist church established at Jewett City and gave it to his son, Thomas G. Read, who left it to his son Horatio Read of Lison, an uncle of Ashmun Read. After his death it became the property of the latter.

GETS NOTED PAINTING

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Dr. Thomas Barbour, director of the Harvard University Museum, today announced the gift to the university of one of the most celebrated paintings of John James Audubon, famous American naturalist.

The painting, known as "The Wild Turkeys," was presented by John E. Thayer '85, of Boston and Lancaster, in memory of the late Outram Bangs, curator of birds at the Harvard Museum of Comparative Zoology. Bangs was an intimate friend of Thayer for more than 50 years.

"The Wild Turkeys" was painted by Audubon in Liverpool, England, in 1826 and was presented by him to the Royal Institute of that city in recognition of the many kindnesses he had received while in Liverpool. The picture remained in Liverpool until 1831, when it was brought to this country. It was sold to Thayer by descendants of Audubon in 1908.

AT PARSONS

"The Cat and the Fiddle" Composer and author work hand in hand in the production of Max Gordon's musical triumph, "The Cat and the Fiddle," which will open at Parsons Theater, Hartford, for an engagement of three nights and Saturday matinee, beginning October 27. "The Cat and the Fiddle" is described as a musical love story by Jerome Kern and Otto Harbach. Kern, who did the score of "Show Boat," is recognized as the most musically and melodiously of American composers for the stage. In the book, Harbach, author of "Rose Marie" and "No, No, Nanette," has written a piece that is witty, witty and human. Unusual settings of great beauty have been done by Henry Dreyfuss, who has ingeniously handled them by means of a revolving stage. Some of the sets are highly stylized, notably one with an ostrich feather tree.

"The Cat and the Fiddle" has been the outstanding musical success in New York, where it ran for fifty-three weeks and played to more than a million dollars. "The Cat and the Fiddle" comes direct from its New York engagement with the entire New York cast, a group of Albertina Rasch dancers and an augmented orchestra.

SHOT ACCIDENTALLY

Torrington, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Alec Poniatowski, 14, was on the danger list at the Charlotte Hungerford hospital today with a bullet wound in his chest received last night, it is said, when a revolver in the hands of his brother, Fred, 19, was accidentally discharged. No effort has been made to remove the bullet which is lodged close to the heart.

The fact that the shooting was an accident was uncovered by the police only after members of the family had been questioned at considerable length. Immediately after the shooting the brother had taken the revolver and hurled it into a pond near the house. The first story was that the injured boy had shot himself.

New York.—No one can put a whole meat diet over on Sultan II, old lion at the Bronx Zoo. When keepers substituted it for good red beef to save money, he went on a hunger strike. Leopards, tigers and other lions joined in. Romping grizzlies played football with whale chunks. Now beef is back on the menu.

Sydney, N. S.—Two girls heard a sharp report and saw a man slump behind the wheel of a passing car. "Man shot" they told the desk sergeant at a nearby station. Dashing madly to the scene police found the car but a passerby explained the driver fainted when a tire blew out, was revived and kept going.

Seminole, Okla.—Ghosts beware. Police Judge Hoffman has obtained permission from the City Council to put negro prisoners to work at beautifying the cemetery. The work would begin at 1 a. m., with guards close enough to prevent escape and too far away for comfort.

San Francisco.—When the cat's away the mice will play—but what does the cat do when the mice are away? Police discovered an answer as they dashed into Bandoni's haberdashery and discovered Bandoni's efficient black mouser enthusiastically mauling a burglar alarm push-button.

Sydney, Australia.—A dog actor made a hit with natives of Papua when they saw their first movie, says Governor Sir Herbert Murray. It was a comedy and ended with the bulldog chasing a burglar all over the landscape. The natives, convinced the dog was real, promptly passed the hat and offered the cinema-proprietor five pounds for it. Petersburg, Ind.—Moonlight shining on a concrete highway gave a flock of ducks the illusion that the road was a stream of water. They swooped down and hit the road so hard seventeen were killed.

Chicago.—Pity the poor racketeer. Gordon L. Hostetter, executive director of the employers association, figured it out that since the period of 1924-1925 bombings in Chicago have fallen off 43.100 of a bomb a month.

Two Rivers, Wis.—Members of the welfare committee of the Common Council say they have learned that unemployment during the last two years has made late sleeping a habit with many persons. The committee received requests for 100 alarm clocks from men who will be given temporary jobs by the city.

Since alarm clocks are not on the free list, the workmen will have to find other means of being awakened.

Lawrence, Kas.—It concerns health instead of morals, so a "no kissing" edict has been continued by officials of the University of Kansas hospital. School authorities ordered students visiting the ailing of the other sex should be chaperoned. Some students complained the rule was "an intimation of moral instability" but were mollified when told it was promulgated to prevent the spread of contagious diseases.

VETS TO PROTEST Hartford, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The billing of James J. Lee of Willimantic as state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in an announcement of Democratic political rally here tomorrow night has aroused the ire of several local foreign war veterans with the result that a formal protest is anticipated at the next meeting of the local post.

TODAY IS THE WORLD WAR ANNIVERSARY

AUSTRIA'S FLEA DENIED

On Oct. 19, 1918, President Wilson refused Austria's request for peace, stating that the independence of the Czechoslovak and Yugoslav nations had been recognized by the United States and that with these nations would rest the decision as to any peace terms proposed by Austria.

Americans penetrated the Kriemhilde line at several points between the Argonne and the Meuse and forced the Germans to retire to the Freya line. Allied armies reached the Dutch frontier; Americans and British advanced southeast of Cambrai and the British extended their gains east of Douai.

The French reached the Hunding line in Champagne and captured St. Germainmont. The Germans began the evacuation of Brussels.

FAVOR WHIPPING POST Woodbury, N. J., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Whipping posts as an "economy" measure and as a deterrent in "crime" are advocated today by the Gloucester county October Grand Jury for New Jersey lawbreakers. After returning 283 true bills against law violators, the largest number for any grand jury in the history of the county, the jurors adopted a resolution requesting state legislators from Gloucester county to introduce and support in the legislature a bill permitting the establishment of whipping posts.

Judge Austin H. Swickhamer said the resolution would be turned over to the Gloucester county clerk to be sent to county legislators.

MRS. CHENEY HOSTESS TO GIRL SCOUT COUNCIL

Mrs. W. O. Cheney, a member of the entertainment committee of the Girl Scout Council, gave a delightful tea for 25 members of the council and leaders at her home yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Gilbert Ashley, commissioner of Hartford council, gave an interesting report of the national convention recently held at Virginia Beach. One of the things Connecticut is especially proud of is the fact that it has the largest percentage of Girl Scouts in the United States and is striving to keep a the top. Mrs. Ashley said that they were so delighted to have Mrs. Hoover attend, and as she is a personal friend of the president, Mrs. Frederick Edey, she introduced her as "Scout Lou Henry Hoover."

Those who attended from New England were delighted and impressed with the hospitality of the Virginians. All were very grateful to both Mrs. Ashley and Mrs. Cheney for the pleasant afternoon.

BREWING SCHOOL REOPENS Chicago, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The nineteen young men who long for Master Brewers' certificates and are going to school to get them, will have to learn how to take the "kick" out of fruits of their labor. They began their studies yesterday at the Wahl-Henius Institute of Advanced Brewing.

"We'll teach them to make light and dark beer," said F. M. Dupont, dean of the school, "just as we used to in the good old days. Then we'll teach them to take the alcohol out in accordance with government regulations."

Until yesterday the school had been closed since 1916.

You do not have to learn new methods to cook electrically. Electricity simply brings an easier cleaner, more economical way to cook.

Electric cooking is as clean as the sunshine that streams in your window. No flame, no soot, nothing to blacken or smudge. Just think... the owner of an electric range never has to scour the bottom of a pan.

Electric cookery is convenient. The modern electric range, equipped with automatic clock and timer will give you every afternoon off.

Electric cookery is sure. Simply turn a pointer to the desired heat and the heat will be maintained automatically.

Electric cookery adds deliciousness and nutritiousness. There is no flame to dry out the natural flavors and tasty juices.

Electric cookery is economical. The cost of preparing a meal electrically is less than a cent per person per meal—as low as any fuel—and this cost does not include other savings—less soap, and cleaning powder, the savings from food shrinkage and the savings that result from better health and added leisure.

A DOWN PAYMENT OF $15 WILL INSTALL ANY ELECTRIC RANGE IN YOUR HOME WITH 2 YEARS TO PAY THE BALANCE.

CALL of the WEST

BY R. G. MONTGOMERY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

STAN BALL accuses ASPER DELO, timber king, of crooked practices and of ordering men shot who try to check up on his activities. Ball says he is making a check and DeLo tells him he will personally prevent it. Upon leaving DeLo's office Ball saves DONA, DeLo's daughter, from kidnapers. He slips away when he finds who she is, telling her he is STANLEY BLACK.

DUDLEY WINTERS, in love with Dona, goes with her to Three Rivers to get DeLo to give up his mad fight with Ball. They find Ball accused of killing a ranger. Dudley has secured a license and has had a marriage certificate filled out to marry Dona. She uses the certificate after DeLo is ambushed and wounded to keep him from taking any more part in the hunt. Ball is caught by SWERGIN, DeLo's timber boss, while listening to Dona tell of her marriage. He escapes but believes her married. Dona rides out to find Stanley Black, who she believes is in the country. She meets Ball and thinks him Stanley Black. He promises to rid the range of Ball, the office and Swergin's man insists Ball wounded him and took them. A posse surrounds Ball. Dona goes out and sees Ball escaping. She shoots at him and he takes a wound, capturing her and taking her to a cave.

Asper learns of her capture and heads a posse but fails to find her. Ball makes Dona promise not to leave and goes for water and food. Swergin finds the cave and Dona. He waits for Ball. Ball is captured and taken to a cabin. Dona is left with him while Swergin goes for men. Swergin returns with men and sends Dona on ahead. His crew are a tough looking bunch and Stan Ball knows they intend to lynch him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI

"So you was warnin' that gal again me?" Swergin thrust his face close to Stan's.

"And if my hands were untied I'd smash your dirty face." Stan Ball's eyes were hard as steel.

"No use being a hog! You won't get to camp out with her any more." Swergin leered and his lips parted.

"You dirty rat! You may string me up but I'll still be on your trail!" Stan hissed.

Swergin stepped back. He was alone with his prisoner and so sure of him that he was willing to take his time.

"So I'm a dirty rat, eh?"

"Get it over with," Stan snapped.

"There ain't no hurry. They don't even know down at camp that you are caught," Swergin smiled broadly.

"You feel pretty safe with your Pass Creek gang at your back," Stan sneered.

"Pass Creek is a nice place and has a nice location," Swergin chuckled as though enjoying a big joke.

"Hey, boys!" He called. "Come down and get him!"

A half dozen rough timber men crowded into the room. They jerked Stan from the wall and pushed him toward the door. He went with his head up. His hat was brushed off but he did not ask for its return.

The men led him outside and mounted their horses. Ball was ordered to walk ahead of the leading rider. There were 20 men in the gang from Pass Creek and the file of riders, with Stan ahead, moved slowly toward Three Rivers by the Pass Creek trail. It was no part of Swergin's plan to have the lynching done near the cabin in the timber. Stan plodded along over the rough ground. His hands had ceased long ago to have any feeling beyond a stinging numbness and he had given himself over grimly to his fate. There was little chance that anything would happen to save him. The only friends he had were far beyond the rim of Folly Mountain and he had made them promise that, whatever happened, they would not ride into the timber country.

His chief thoughts were for the slender girl who had faced him in the cabin and whom he had come to care for so devotedly. He was not sure that he had been able to convince her that he was wholly bad and had an aching fear that she was not safe with Swergin about. The big timber boss might have a plan which involved the girl. He had been able to get away with so much at Three Rivers that there was no telling what he might attempt.

The cavalcade wound down the low divide separating the Pass Creek trail from the Three Rivers slope. Swergin had now forged out ahead with another rider. "Looking for a suitable tree," Stan thought grimly.

Of one thing he was sure and that was that he would rob the big boss of any satisfaction he might expect from weakness or breaking on his prisoner's part. Stan intended to give them a display of nerve that they would remember.

Swergin halted in a clump of aspens and motioned for the men to head off the trail. Stan was driven to the spot and pulled to a halt. Like a band of Cossacks, the men closed in about him and silently head off the trail. Stan was driven they knew exactly what to do. They crowded around their prisoner and the man who had been riding with Swergin unstrapped a lariat from his saddle and began uncoiling it. The big fellow who had driven Stan ahead of his horse shouldered to the cowboy's side.

"Ter goin' wants there won't be much chance to snooty," he grinned. "Got anything to say? He bent toward his prisoner.

Stan smiled and met the man's gaze with steely eyes. "Only that I hope you enjoy the party."

The man grinned and backed away. "Get on the end of that rope!" he ordered, as he tossed the rope over a limb above Stan's head. Swergin crowded through the through for a final thrust at his hated enemy. He glared at Ball as though disappointed at finding him so self-possessed.

"You turned out to be pretty good," he grinned.

Stan refused to reply.

Still Stan refused to speak. He had decided hours before not to tell anything he had discovered in his checking of the activities at Three Rivers. He was aware that this was a picked group of men who were in with Swergin and that if he did speak, no word of what he said would get to Asper DeLo or anyone else. But he was struck suddenly by a desire to stave off the tightening of the rope that the big lumberjack was slipping over his head.

"You can't get away much longer, Swergin." He gave the timber boss a level look and laughed in his face. "Who's going to stop me?" Swergin gritted.

"I sent in a report to the state and to the federal government. I even told them to expect just what you are doing right now and I've named half of your men." There was a glint of triumph in Stan's eyes. He was lying but he was scoring.

A mutter rose from the men and even Swergin was taken back.

"We ain't responsible for nothing. We're working for the timber company," the big fellow who had adjusted the rope muttered.

"You are guilty of theft and murder," Stan shot at him. He was gaining a little time and throwing a scare into the dull-witted fellows who had him in their power.

"I thought you had this all fixed?" The big fellow turned to Swergin.

"Yeah," a voice from the crowd put in. There was an ominous rumble from the circle of men and dark faces thrust toward the timber boss.

"You dumb fools!" Swergin belatedly said to let this slicker talk you out of this job? He is just jobbin' you. Old Asper DeLo takes the rap for all we been doin'. We been stealing the timber for him, ain't we?"

The men began to shift uneasily under his glare and the three who had dropped the end of the rope picked it up again.

"What names did you put in that report?" one big fellow demanded.

Stan realized that here was an advantage. He, faced them and smiled. "I'll never tell that. Why should I tip any of you off?"

"You'll tell!" the big fellow edged in threateningly.

Swergin shoved him back and stood facing his men like an old lobo wolf with his pack against him.

"Are you boys yellow?" he roared. "Want me to do this job myself with a six gun?"

"Let him do it," someone from the back of the group called.

"Yeah. If he's got names sent in we'll be up fer killin'," someone else suggested.

Swergin was in a red fury. "You fellows are as dumb as the mules you drive. How could Ball send in the names of the men who were to be here before this happened? He had to guess and nobody will believe his guess. He's admitted that he pulled all these killings. While that girl was talking to him he told her he pulled them. You can all get up and swear to that." Swergin spoke slowly so that his words could sink in.

"That's right," the big fellow growled. "I'm ready to go."

But the men on the rope hesitated. Their first lust to kill had lost some of its edge.

"I'm an officer of the law and I'm supposed to clear out and let you fellows do this. I can take care of all of you if I'm in the clear myself but if you're going to make me shoot this varmint I'll be in bad. Swergin paused and faced the men. Stan watched the faces about him. He could see that Swergin was about to win his point.

"Or I can take him in and let him spill all he knows before a court. How would you like that?" This was Swergin's trump card and he played it with a flourish. "I believe I'll do just that."

The man stirred and began to exchange glances.

"You've all had a cut," Swergin went on.

"String him up!" one of the men no the rope snarled.

"Go ahead; get it over," another shouted.

Stan knew he had lost the last chance. He set himself for the end.

JEAN HARLOW FIGHTS FOR HUSBAND'S ESTATE

Los Angeles, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Legal echoes of the suicide of Paul Bern, film executive, were heard today in Los Angeles and Sacramento where an attorney, A. E. Sheets, was named to represent the late executive's widow, Jean Harlow, screen actress, in her fight against possible claimants to Bern's estate.

Miss Harlow's attorneys in Los Angeles said they would offer for probate today the will in which Bern's entire estate was left to the platinum blonde actress. Bern ended his life six weeks ago in the palatial residence he gave Miss Harlow as a wedding present two months before his death.

No mention was made in the will of Dorothy Millette, Bern's former sweetheart, who leaped from a Sacramento river boat and ended her life a few days after Bern died. Bern's estate is valued at "more than $10,000." Nothing was willed to Bern's brother, Henry, New Rochelle, N. Y., business man, or his two sisters, Selda Summers and Mrs. Frederike Marcus.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

IN THE MODERN HOUSEHOLD PRACTICALLY EVERYTHING IS OPERATED BY SWITCHES EXCEPT THE CHILDREN.

Brushville Barber—Tommy, run over and tell the editor of the Bugle if he's done editing this week's issue of the paper I'd like my scissors.

Jones' New Neighbor—Your dog bit me, and I'll have the law on you! Jones—My dog didn't bite you, and you'll not have the law on me. The law's on my side.

Jones' New Neighbor—Prove it! I challenge you to prove it. Jones—Very well. My first proof is that my dog has no teeth. Second, he is not ferocious. Third, he is very particular who he bites. Fourth, I have no dog.

Mrs. Perkins—So Mrs. Riggs started going to church again. Change of heart? Mrs. Harrold—No, hat.

There are four thousand muscles, we are told, in the body of a moth. The best time to overpower the insect is when it is torpid after a heavy meal of flannel trousers.

Aviator—I'm going to make a parachute jump from 10,000 feet tomorrow. Old Lady—What if the parachute don't open? Aviator—Oh, that won't stop me.

What has become of the old-fashioned boy who used to buy a buggy with a small seat so the girl would have to sit up close?

EMPLOYER—I want you to prove your power as a salesman. Just sell that gentleman some of those cigars. SALESMAN—But I sold him some of them last week.

EMPLOYER—I know, but selling them to him again is where the real test is going to come in.

Doctor—Great Heavens! Who stuffed that towel in the patient's mouth? Patient's Husband—I did, Doctor. You said the main thing was to keep her quiet.

YOU HAVE NO DOUBT OBSERVED THAT PLENTY OF PEOPLE CAN BE FOUND WHO ARE WILLING TO TELL YOU HOW TO SPEND YOUR MONEY RATHER THAN THEIR OWN.

ODDS AND ENDS: You may love yourself, your enemy and your work without ever being troubled by rivals. In the old days girls used to threaten to go home to their mother, now they threaten to go to their lawyer. . . . The girl who can throw the bouquets at a boy seems to be the first one to get the wedding bouquet. . . . Well, there's one thing—to manufacture the bathing suits seen on the beaches during the past summer, didn't need much backing. . . . Men continue to strut in spite of what happens to the globblers. . . . Persons who are loveable are never heard complaining that there's no love in the world.

Gentlemen: In reply to your advertisement for an organist and music teacher, either lady or gentleman: Having been both for several years, I offer my services."

Able—Nice flock of pigeons. Fancier—Those are gulls. Able—Well, gulls or boys, they're a fine flock of pigeons.

Grocer—What was that bride so angry about? Clerk—Oh, yesterday I persuaded her to buy some of those canned biscuits, and she was disgusted to find they weren't baked and hot when she opened them.

A woman whose husband received several of those odd-shaped animal ash trays says they would be fine if only the man had to clean them.
