Rhode Island Senator Analyzes Roosevelt's Po- sition On Aid For War Veterans.

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—United States Senator Felix Hebert, of Rhode Island, in a statement released today through the eastern division of the Republican National committee, described Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's statement on the bonus in Pittsburgh last night as "left handed."

"It is not a courageous statement of his position on the bonus," the eastern director of the committee said. "It can easily be inferred that if these were the boom times of four years ago, he would be perfectly willing to allow this huge dispensation of public funds to a particular group of citizens for whom F. publican Congresses have already made ample provision."

Senator Hebert's statement follows: "The best possible construction to be placed on Governor Roosevelt's belated statement on the bonus is that it is a 'left handed' refusal to support a measure which would take $2,500,000,000 from the public treasury in this period of financial stringency. But it is not a courageous statement of his position on the bonus. It can easily be inferred that if these were the boom times of four years ago, he would be perfectly willing to allow this huge dispensation of public funds to a particular group of citizens for which Republican Congresses have already made ample provision. He plainly intimates that when there shall be a surplus in the treasury he will favor the bonus payment."

Lack of Decision
The Democratic nominee continues to demonstrate that lack of decision, that expediency in the face of possible unpopularity with voters which characterized his attitude for a year, when he remained silent and inactive in the face of wholesale expunction of corruption in the Tammany controlled government of the city of New York.

Governor Roosevelt continues to show himself purely an opportunist in government—a man with all shades of opinion to all groups of people. It is particularly significant

AL SMITH OPENS SPEAKING PROGRAM

Former Governor Plunges Into National Campaign With New York Address.

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Alfred E. Smith, plunging into the heat of the National campaign says that the "bright star" guiding the nation into a harbor and haven of repose is complete and full Democratic victory in November.

Chairs echoed in the Tammany wig-wam last night as the former governor, making his first speech of the National drive, spoke the names of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and Speaker John N. Garner. He said: "I have been privileged in the past to know that the loyalty, the devotion of the great Democratic organization of this city will be exerted to the last degree in favor of the election of Roosevelt and Garner."

The crowd jammed the auditorium in Tammany headquarters and overflowed into the streets. There were laughs as the former governor jibed at the Republicans as taking advantage of the "open season on bunk" and cheering when he praised the Democrat record.

State and city issues occupied most of his address, because he said, he would discuss things national in Newark, N. J., Monday night and at the "wind up" in New York city.

WHY ALBIE BOOTH DID NOT APPEAR

Middletown, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Local Republicans who expected to hear Albie Booth, football star and G. O. P. campaigner, speak last night, learned today why he failed to appear.

Officials of the Young Republican Club who sponsored the rally said they had received word he was taken to Middletown, N. Y., by mistake.

TAMMANY ADDS A MILLION TO CITY'S BUDGET

Mayor McKee Calls It a Political Racket and Demands Probe — Stands Practically Alone In Fight.

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The Board of Estimate added $1,000,000 to the proposed 1933 city budget today at a stormy meeting during which Mayor Joseph V. McKee charged that the money was for a "political racket" and announced that he would demand an investigation.

The mayor stood almost alone in his opposition to the budget increase, only George U. Harvey, borough president of Queens, voting against it with him of all the members of the board.

The $1,000,000 had been pared from the proposed budget at previous sessions by eliminating that amount from the appropriation to the Department of Hospitals.

McKee charged that its intended use was for temporary hospital helpers sent to the hospitals by district leaders and not really needed for the proper conduct of the institutions.

The motion to put the $1,000,000 back in the budget was made by Dennis Mahon, president of the Board of Aldermen, who defended the action through long argument during which the mayor made his charges of political racketeering and said he would institute an investigation as soon as the budget hearing was over.

"It is human nature to aid a friend," Mahon said just before the motion was put to a vote, "and the most natural thing in the world if appealed to by some poor unfortunate individual in need of work, to do so if the opportunity is there. In his statement that political leaders put their friends to work, the mayor is sarcastic and has a personal reason for being so, when he speaks of the appointment of friends under how many of his friends he has appointed. Personally I have never sent anyone to the Hospital Department for appointment."

"Call the roll," said the mayor, and a moment later knew that he had been overwhelmingly defeated. Increase of the proposed budget then continued rapidly, the board putting back $561,928 previously slashed from the Board of Education and $600,000 for custodian service in the public schools which had been deleted by the budget director.

Within 80 minutes after the meeting of the Board of Estimate was convened previous cuts totalling $2,161,928 had been restored to the proposed budget.

BANDITS FREE BRITONS HELD IN MANCHURIA

Held For Million In Ransom But Finally Agreement Reached On $32,000; Were Captives For Month.

Mukden, Manchuria, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Kenneth Pawley and Charles Corkran, British subjects who have been in the hands of Chinese bandits for several weeks, were liberated today.

It was reported that they had reached Panahsan today and would be at Newchwang tomorrow, on the way back here.

The rescue, it was said, was effected by members of a Japanese patriotic organization called Seigidan.

Mrs. Pawley and Corkran and another Englishman named Duncan McIntosh, all employees of the Asiatic Petroleum Company, were riding together near Newchwang in the first week of September. They stopped to change horses and were surrounded by bandits.

The two men were bound, but McIntosh managed to break away. He leaped across a ditch as the bandits opened fire on him, gained cover and gave the alarm at the nearest Japanese garrison.

There followed weeks of negotiation during which the bandits haggled about ransom. They were made of hardship for the captives and unusually rainy weather which made the roads difficult impeded the negotiations.

Sends Back Word
Mrs. Pawley sent word back to her friends in the first week of her captivity that being a bandit prisoner wouldn't be so bad if she could only have a bath. Then she asked that the messenger bring her some powder and lipstick the next time he came.

The bandits kept moving from place to place to elude pursuit, meantime imposing extortionate demands for ransom.

"I'm in a vile temper with the fools," Mrs. Pawley wrote at one time. "They probably will want unreasonable ransom but please don't bust yourselves."

TO FILL TILSON'S POST BY SPECIAL ELECTION

Governor Cross Informed Constitution Requires It; Will Be Held During Last Week In December.

Hartford, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Governor W. L. Cross expects to call a special election some time in December to fill the vacancy in Congress created by the resignation of Representative John Q. Tilson, former Republican House leader.

"After conferring with Ernest L. Averill, deputy attorney general, the governor said yesterday, he was convinced he would be required to call an election to fill the vacancy under Section Two, Article One of the U. S. Constitution.

He said he had not decided the date for the election, but indicated he would issue the call on December 4, the day after Tilson's resignation becomes effective.

Leaders expressed the opinion that because of the state laws governing the nomination of candidates and the date of the election, the election would probably be held during the last week in December.

The resignation of Tilson, announced a day too late to permit selection of his successor for the unexpired term at the general election November 8, was criticized in a campaign speech at New Haven last night by Mayor Francis T. Maloney of Meriden as "an outstanding example of broken faith on the part of Republican leadership."

"If the action was not pitiful and serious, it might be regarded as highly ridiculous. Night after night my opponent (T. A. D. Jones), is on the platform telling people that the President deserves and needs his support in Congress, and now facing one of the most important sessions in the Nation's history the Republican politicians of this district decide that it doesn't matter much whether or not we have a Representative in Washington."

He asserted Tilson's action "discloses a lack of gratitude to those

ARGONNE DEBT PAID BY BLOWS IN BRIDGEPORT

Manchester Vet Meets Officer Who Had Him Bayoneted and Breaks German's Nose With a Punch.

The memory of a peculiar shaped scar and a mole on the face of a former German captain, shown under the dim light of a candle in the front line trenches of the Argonne was vividly renewed in the mind of a Manchester World War veteran on a street in Bridgeport last Sunday afternoon.

The episode goes back to the late days of the War during the Argonne drive. Andrew Holzheimer, the Manchester veteran, out on a raid at night was captured by a similar German detachment when he became lost from his party in the fog and shell-torn fields. Once in the trench, the German captain loomed no time in trying to obtain information about the American lines. He interrogated the Manchester soldier in English.

"I am only a recruit," lied the Manchester soldier who at the time held several citations for bravery and the Croix de Guerre with stars for extraordinary heroism. "I am a replacement," he said. The German Captain colored at this pretense, obviously inasmuch as his uniform was mud-spattered and worn with months of service in the lines.

A few guttural words in German and the Manchester veteran felt the sharp point of a bayonet in his back. He clinched his teeth with pain, but stuck to his original story. A German Lieutenant nearby spoke to the captain in his native tongue, "He understood by the Manchester boy."

"He must be right, Captain," said the Lieutenant in low tones. "His uniform is from an old soldier, but he is a replacement." The German attempt was made by the German officers to secure information about the American lines and troops from the "recruit." Two days later he escaped from the Germans and Manchester, Eng., Oct. 20.—(AP)—United States Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon gave his complete endorsement to the record of the Hoover administration today in an address before the English-Speaking Union.

He endorsed the measures taken by the administration to meet the economic crisis, he denied that the American tariff has had the adverse effect on trade with which it sometimes has been credited, and he expressed regret that the American election is not to be decided on the merits of important policy, "but rather on the vague and general issue of discontent with existing conditions."

"There is a disposition on the part of many people which is not unnatural perhaps, however unfair it may be, to blame the President and his administration for the calamities which have overtaken America and the world," he said.

"It would be just as unreasonable to blame the governor of Massachusetts for the low prices of textiles, or the governor of Minnesota for world conditions which have resulted in the low price for wheat."

STATE'S BUSINESS ON UPGRADE, SAYS C. OF C. OFFICIAL

CUTTING EXPENSES NO SIMPLE TASK

Treasury Official Explains How Relief Needs Force Larger Expenditures.

Boston, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Arthur A. Ballantine, under secretary of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts that "a general reduction in Federal expenditures is little more practicable than a general surgical operation."

"The problem of reducing Federal expenditures," he said, "is far from the simple task of effecting the curtailment of a vast total of expenditures, all of substantially the same class. In fact, some expenditures cannot be reduced, others can be reduced only with great difficulty and general expenditures are a comparatively small percentage and are made up of great aggregate of items each presenting distinctive considerations and questions of policy."

"When anyone declares that Federal expenditures can be cut in some impressive percentage, he should be called upon to specify where and how."

Lessen Tax Drain
Ballantine said that the tax drain must be lessened and that the basis remedy from taxes was to lower the cost of government but, he added "reduction is far from simple."

The depression he said "inevitably gave further lift to Federal expenditures, although in this case the life will be temporary. In the case of a business, hard times can usually be promptly met, at least in part, by reducing costs. The situation of the government particularly in the Federal government is different, even while reductions are being made in ordinary expenditures, emergency and relief needs spring from the depression and necessitate unusual expenditures.

Emergency expenditures began in Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of Washington police who was at odds with administration members over the calling of troops to evict the Bonus Army, has tendered his resignation to the District of Columbia commissioners.

Glassford, a retired brigadier general, disputed statements by his superiors that he had said troops were necessary to restore order following clashes between veterans and police.

His resignation, however, grew out of official opposition to changes in personnel he wished to make in the police department.

Criticized because of the manner in which he handled the Bonus Army, Glassford replied by declaring that the situation was never out of control of the police. He contended that the calling of the troops who drove the veterans from government property on July 28 with tear gas and bayonet was unnecessary.

Figures For September Show Average Improvement of Over 14 Per Cent, the First Gain In Many Months — Estimates Un- employed In State Now At 100,000.

New Britain, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Harry E. Hasty, executive vice president of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, struck "a note of optimism" indicated by actual improvement in some important economic fields in an address before the Connecticut State conference of the American Red Cross in session here this afternoon.

"From authentic sources we find definite improvement in sales of electrical energy, car loadings, cotton consumption, bank clearings and sales of life insurance," he said.

Figures for September, he added, show an average improvement of 14 1-10 percent in many hours of employment over the previous month. "The first gain showing for many weary months." The Hartford county group led with an improvement of 25 1-10 percent, based on the average combined experience of 86 separate plants in the county.

States Unemployed
Mr. Hasty estimated the number of unemployed in the state at 100,000.

Miss Eleanor H. Little, research secretary of the Connecticut unemployment situation, said that while the coming Winter would present problems greater than heretofore, Connecticut had the benefit of past experience and the state government was thoroughly informed on the situation and was prepared to act quickly as soon as the Legislature was in session.

Methods Of Attack
Two methods of attack, that of work relief and the registration of the unemployed, were discussed by Miss Little. She said that Hartford had shown how work relief had been performed on a standard equal to that of a commercial undertaking and Waterbury had demonstrated that work relief and direct relief could be effectively coordinated.

"The greater understanding of one group by another, resulting from knowledge gained through development of social work combined with raised educational standards and more enlightened management of industry, are the underlying factors to which might be attributed the remarkable spirit of patience and endurance which has characterized the attitude of the unemployed in the present crisis," she said.

Over 200 Delegates
More than 200 representatives from 25 to the 40 chapters of the American Red Cross were present at the opening session of the conference this morning. Practically all of the chapters were represented this afternoon.

After a welcome extended by Mayor George A. Quigley, five minute addresses on the junior Red Cross were delivered by Miss Mary Concannon of Washington, D. C., assistant to the director of the Junior Red Cross and Robert Goodhue of Stamford.

Walter Davidson, assistant manager of the Eastern area, spoke on the methods of relief being carried out by the Red Cross and cited instances from various parts of the country in which the organization is supplementing the State and community relief programs. Douglas Griesmer, national director of the national roll called the relief nationally that has been given through the Red Cross during the past year and said that although business conditions were on the upturn, the Red Cross has made preparations to carry on the work during the coming winter as it has in the past. He said that it is believed that conditions will be as bad during the winter as they have become recently.

Hoover Denies Reports Of Foreign Investments

Los Angeles, Oct. 20.—(AP)—In a telegram received by C. C. Teague, head of the Republican campaign in southern California, President Hoover stated he had not had a dime's interest in any activity outside the United States during the last five years.

The telegram was in response to an inquiry from Teague who informed the nation's executive that oil workers in California were receiving political pamphlets charging Mr. Hoover opposed the tariff on oil because of ownership of foreign oil wells.

The telegram: "I have your telegram stating that Democratic agents, despite all proof to contrary, are still circulating misleading statements through their fields that I have been opposed to relief of oil industry because of my supposed interest in foreign oil and that I opposed the tariff on oil. This is usual type of politics. I have not in 15 years since I entered public service had a dime's interest outside the United States of any kind including oil. I supported the oil tariff in revenue bill and signed that bill. Without support I gave I do not believe it would have received sufficient vote from non-oil sections to have been carried."

LEVITT ACCEPTS COURT'S DECISION

No Appeal To Be Taken; G. O. P. Electors Not To Be On Their Ticket.

Hartford, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Acceptance by the Independent Republican Party and the attorney-general's office of Judge Edwin C. Dickenson's decision, had closed definitely today the controversy as to whether the regular Republican presidential electors could refuse to run on the Independent ticket.

Ansion T. McCook, counsel for the Independents and Albert Levitt, the party's gubernatorial nominee, notified Judge Dickenson yesterday they would not take an appeal from his decision refusing the party a writ of mandamus to have the electors placed on both parties.

At the same time, Averill agreed to the inclusion of the ballots of the Independent Party designation with all its nominees except the electors.

McCook wrote Judge Dickenson: "The attorney-general has agreed to recognize the petitions of the Independent Republican Party as valid and sufficient in number with regard to all the candidates for State and Federal offices already nominated. The eight presidential electors, however, are to be omitted. In view of this we have agreed to make no appeal."

To Averill, McCook wrote that it was his understanding that by Judge Dickenson's decision, the electors were to be omitted from the Independent ballot, but that the validity of the rest of the ticket would not be considered.

"If this is also your understanding," McCook wrote, "I will advise my clients, in order to avoid public uncertainty before election day and the possibility of contest after election, to accept the court's decision without delay. I think they will be

REPORT 9 DEATHS; RESULT OF STORM

For Third Day Northeast Continues Along New Eng- land Coast; Much Damage.

Boston, Oct. 12.—(AP)—For the third day a driving rainstorm beat its way down the New England coast and today the northeast had brought death to nine.

Yachting fleets along the Massachusetts coast suffered, roads were flooded, in many places power lines were down and many shore communities were flooded out by rising tides and pounding surf.

At midnight last night five inches of rain had fallen in Greater Boston and the storm, which had been raging but the force of the northeast was abating and predictions were that it would pass out to sea during the day.

Six of the nine deaths occurred yesterday, the second day of the storm. Three had drowned Tuesday when they were swept from the rocks at Jamestown, R. I.

RASKOB GIVES $25,000

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley announced today John J. Raskob, his predecessor had given $25,000 to the Roosevelt-Garnier fund.

Farley made his announcement at a luncheon of Democratic leaders attended by Raskob, who had not previously appeared in the political spotlight since he was succeeded by Farley.

Farley also announced that the Democratic National committee had paid off $100,000 of the approximately $300,000 it owed the County Trust Company from the 1928 campaign.

ARGONNE DEBT PAID BY BLOWS IN BRIDGEPORT

found his way back over No Man's Land to the American line. The incident was soon forgotten in the closing days of the war.

Bridgeport Incident Last Sunday afternoon the Manchester man was standing on one of the busiest corners of Bridgeport awaiting a meeting with a former buddy who had but recently returned from California.

A man crossed the street and was about to pass when the afternoon light fell on a triangular scar and a tale mole. It was the same face, Holzhimer was sure, that confronted him in the Argonne trench the face of the man who ordered the sentry to jab a long German bayonet into his back.

He intercepted the man. "It seem to know you," he said, as he stepped in front of the man. "Haven't I seen you before somewhere?"

"Yah," spoke the man with distinctly German accent. "I think so."

Then the veteran was sure of his man. The voice, the scars, the stature of the man, all were the same.

"Isky," continued the local veteran, his blood boiling. "Were not you the guy that ordered the sentry to jab me in the back with a bayonet to make me spill my guts about the American line in 1918? Huh?"

"Ah," replied the former German officer smiling.

Something about the smile "got" Holzhimer. He forgot that he was on a Connecticut city street 14 years after the war. He could see nothing but that dim German trench in the early morning hours before the gray October dawn. He swung hard to the German's jaw and followed it with lefts and right.

A crack from a policeman's club brought him to the idea of fighting on street. "Buddy?" demanded the cop.

The Manchester vet looked up and into a face he felt to be that of another veteran. He told him about the 14-year-old episode overseas.

"Goch," exclaimed the cop, "if I'd known that I'd never fanned you like I did."

The former German captain, paid in full by the Manchester soldier of 1918 for his bayoneting is in the Bridgeport hospital awaiting the removal of a cast from his broken nose. In his convalescent hours he has had occasion no doubt, to reflect upon the Argonne incident.

Holzhimer, on the other hand, doesn't desire to bear ill will towards the former enemy any longer. He regrets the Bridgeport affair although there was considerable satisfaction in what he did.

He doesn't yet know whether the Bridgeport police authorities will punish him, but if he is fined a group of loyal friends in Manchester stand ready to pay him what it costs.

The extent of their injuries could not be learned.

Another car was involved in the accident. Carlos Ruggies of Springfield, Mass., and Bolton, driving a Cadillac sedan, was immediately behind the Ford when the smaller car skidded. The Ruggies car became involved in the accident and occupants of the Cadillac were injured. Several of the passengers were rushed to the Manchester Memorial hospital by passing autoists.

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS DENY ROGERS' CHARGE

Akron, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Assertions of Virgil Rogers, Democratic State Central committee member, that Akron rubber factories were "intimidating" their employees into voting for President Hoover today, were said to be "without foundation" by three Democratic leaders who investigated the allegation.

The three, Ross F. Walker, member of the Democratic State executive committee, Charles V. Starkey, chairman of the Democratic county executive committee, and Len C. Koplun, chairman of the Democratic county campaign committee, declared they have wired their finding to Chairman James A. Farley, of the Democratic National committee, with a request that he release it to the press.

Farley originally made public the Rogers charges at New York. The Democratic trio said its telegram to Farley read: "This committee is in possession of no evidence whatsoever that Akron rubber companies are using any intimidation or coercive methods to influence votes for the Republican ticket."

"We believe this charge without foundation and a great injustice to Goodyear, Goodrich and Firestone companies."

"Would urge you to release this message to the press in justice to Akron industries."

Representatives of all the rubber companies have denied the allegation. Rogers, in defending his stand, said that while it was true no bulletins had been posted or official statements issued by industrial leaders specifically threatening reprisals in the event Hoover was not re-elected, that "the inferences were plain."

He cited one instance where a local plant had laid off 30 employees recently and repeated a report that the plant would close again unless the Republican nominee was defeated in November.

POUND STERLING STEADY

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The British pound sterling which had dropped precipitately earlier this week, was steady in the New York Foreign Exchange Market today.

The pound opened at $1.39 1/8, of 1-18th of cent for London cables but later more than cancelled this loss.

Wall street advices from Paris said the pound was strong there in terms of the French currency.

Coincident with the steadier tone of the pound in the world money markets were reports that the Bank of England, which had recently withdrawn its stabilization support, was again actively buying sterling in order to keep its price steady.

Violent fluctuations, it was thought would tend to upset international trade.

Power company officials here believed the company referred to may have been the Connecticut River Power Company of New Hampshire, a subsidiary of the New England Power Association which has its main offices in Boston.

It was pointed out here that the Connecticut Power Co. has property in Connecticut only.

The meeting was presided over by Fred Camp, director of elementary education for the state. Paul Collier, supervisor of secondary education, assisted Mr. Camp and representatives from Tolland county and the eastern part of Hartford county were present.

The conference was primarily for principals and superintendents. Mr. Verplanck, Miss Crampton, Miss Bennett, Mr. Bentley, Principal Quimby, A. N. Potter, Chester Robinson, Miss Avis Walsh, Arthur Iling, Miss Gertrude Obermeyer, Edson Bailey and Miss Gertrude D. Condon were among the Manchester teachers present.

The important business of the meeting was to consider courses for the "Submerged Fifty Per Cent," as Commissioner Butterfield calls that half of the school population which does not go into some field of activity calling for specialized training.

The courses in English, social sciences, natural science, fine arts and health are the five-fold basis for the new course to be written into the program of the secondary schools of Connecticut in the immediate future. The people present today discussed the nature of the material to be put into these courses and how they may be extended to serve those who will not attempt to continue their education in college or higher schools of learning.

Notes The junior class at the Manchester high school is being shown samples of rings during this week in order that the rings may be ordered in the near future. Each local jeweler has been invited to meet the committee and exhibit some of his samples and styles. It has been advised by school authorities and the class committee has decided, to place the order this year with the artist.

The first dancing class at the high school was held yesterday afternoon after the dismissal of school. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wirtalla are to direct the students in dancing for a number of weeks, depending on the number interested. Over 135 pupils attended the first class, 82 of these were in the beginner's class and the others made up the advanced class. Hereafter the advanced will meet from 4:40 to 5:40 and the beginners from 3:40 to 4:40.

The band held another practice today, several new recruits turning out.

The cross-country team will hold its first race tomorrow here with Middletown. They plan to start at 2:45 from the Recreation building and will probably finish about the same time that school is dismissed at 3:00.

Exams are being held this week covering the first marking period which ends next week Wednesday. The rank cards for this period will be distributed on November 4.

Miss Eleanor Blish and Miss Mildred Seely, teachers at Glastonbury high school, were visitors at the high school here this week.

Miss Isabelle Scott of the National Music League was at the High school yesterday checking up on the music courses offered at Manchester high.

Ulysses "Cookie" Lupien has made the first football team at Loomis Institute. He plays generally at quarter-back. His brother "Ted" is still on the Harvard squad where he is finding very strong competition this year among the backfield candidates.

SALE SUITS NEARLY ALL SOLD FIRST DAY

House's Expects 200 To Be Disposed Of By Tonight Or Tomorrow At Latest.

The special sale in men's suits which opened at C. E. House and Son's store here today rapidly extended the supply on the high school here this week.

More than 100 suits had been sold at 2 o'clock this afternoon as scores of people came to take advantage of the bargain price of $1.99 per suit. Coats of each suit were laid in separate piles according to size on a long table and as fast as the sales were made, the customer went into the basement with his coat, where he was measured for the pants and other necessary alterations made at a slight cost.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Emil Hocking of 63 Clinton street and Miss Della Murphy of 148 Birch Mountain Road were admitted to the hospital yesterday.

Mrs. Sarah J. Gorman of 288 Oak street and Jean Paquitta of 34 West street were discharged yesterday.

Tonsil and adenoid clinic patients admitted today were: Domanez Foughton of 8 Ridgewood street, Robert Newman of 18 Prospect Road, Elizabeth Taylor of 476 East Middle Turnpike and Richard Hewitt of 37 Ridgewood street.

Mrs. Annie Sloan of 476 North Main street was admitted today.

A well baby clinic for pre-school children will be held in the hospital annex tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock.

GUNNAR JOHNSON WINS HONORS IN "IT PAYS"

His Acting In Community Players Production Last Night Proves Outstanding Feature.

That there is an appetite for high calibre plays in Manchester was demonstrated by the splendid audience which greeted the Community Players last night in their first spoken drama of the current season, "It Pays to Advertise." The audience for the school children was well attended, and the decision to run an afternoon performance pre-vented overcrowding of the Whitton Memorial Library auditorium in the evening.

Music was furnished by a group of players from the High school orchestra under the leadership of

Gunnar Johnson

Harold Turkington. At the second showing Miss Ruth Wickham, violinist, and Miss Grace Sowerter, pianist, played between the acts.

As is well known the theme of the play is the pulling power of advertising, and in the swiftly moving story, this fact was cleverly exploited and interest in the subject of advertising "It Pays" sustained throughout the evening. There was no forgetting of lines, halting or long waits between acts. It was the first theatrical performance in the new building and the lighting effects and the setting set for the morning room scene in the sumptuous home of the soap king, Cyrus Martin, played by Karl Keller. Mr. Keller has ably portrayed important roles in previous productions of the Community Players, but has never appeared in casting her for the part.

Miss Beatrice Coughlin, as a French countess, did especially clever acting and although the roll was assumed for business reasons, her knowledge of the language and her petite, dark beauty, showed the wisdom of the program committee and director in casting her for the part.

Minor feminine roles were played by Miss Pearl Martin and Miss Florence Spillane.

Alfred F. Howes, as the friend of the Martin family had a small part but impressed everybody by the director in casting her for the part.

His other two appearances here were to extend brief greetings to party workers.

The governor was met at the station by Mrs. Roosevelt who came on by train from New York, where she was detained by school teaching duties. She will accompany him through the remainder of the swing through the west and south.

Mrs. Roosevelt took a seat in the second car of the procession behind the governor's machine. She was seated between her daughter and her daughter-in-law as the procession roared away.

SCHOOL COSTS

Editor of The Herald: The editor of the Manchester Evening Herald exhibits sheer ignorance of modern methods of education in his editorial on "School Costs" in the paper of October 15. He points out, that back a few years, in the so-called "boom," the School Board was able to slash a few thousand dollars from their expenditures and wants to know why they can't do it now.

Of course the editor assumes that the attendance in public schools has not advanced, but this condition is far from true. The schools are now being run at a much lower rate per pupil than they were five years ago.

Teaching in a Manchester school is alluded to as a "delightful vocation." I hope the editor doesn't believe this statement, although he made it himself. Most of these teachers are working to survive and as soon as better business conditions

ROOSEVELT STARTS INDIANA CAMPAIGN

To Make Three Speeches In Indianapolis Today; Heads Big Parade.

Indianapolis, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Governor Roosevelt carried his campaign into Indiana today, and was welcomed with a parade as he arrived in Indianapolis at 11:35 a. m. (C. S. T.) from Pittsburgh, where last night he stated his position on the bonus.

The governor's special train reached Indianapolis thirty-five minutes late after having been "lost" for a time in Ohio through a misunderstanding between officials of the Big Four railroad and those in charge of the governor's party.

A caravan of automobiles met the Democratic presidential candidate and a cheer went up as he appeared. He was greeted by Indiana Democratic leaders after which a parade started through the streets of the city.

Three Addresses The governor after the parade was to make the first of three Indianapolis addresses from the balcony of the Hotel English.

His other two appearances here were to extend brief greetings to party workers.

FOREIGN MARKETS NEEDED BY NATION

Senator Borah Declares Neither Party Has Plan To Aid the Farmers.

Idaho Falls, Idaho, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The solution of the farmer's troubles lies in the field of international relations, Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the Senate foreign affairs committee, believed.

Answering questions from a small audience that gathered here in a hotel ball room amid a traveling man's display of Christmas decorations, he referred to a charge he said had been made that he "takes more interest in normal mail and national affairs than in state affairs," and added: "I think when I'm serving the nation I'm serving the state of Idaho."

Later he declared: "Every potato which will rot in the ground for a lack of a market, and the wheat which will be ungarnished, depends on foreign relations."

"If we had any courage in this campaign we would be debating these questions instead of quarrel-ling over whether we voted for a duty on long tailed cotton or not."

No Solution Neither party offers the farmer any way out of his troubles, he declared, and said farmers can expect prosperity for themselves and the nation as a whole only in the restoration of their foreign markets.

"The plan of cancelling war debts in national affairs than in state affairs," and added: "I think when I'm serving the nation I'm serving the state of Idaho."

ABOUT TOWN

Mary Bushnell Cheney Auxiliary, Spanish War Veterans, will hold the first of a series of five whist parties, tomorrow night at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Converse of Centerfield street.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Swedish Congregational church will hold its regular monthly meeting tomorrow evening at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. Elsie Swanson in Southington.

Mrs. Swanson, a former Manchester woman, still maintains her membership in the local society.

The Chamber of Commerce nominating committee convened in the chamber offices yesterday afternoon to consider officers and directors for the coming year. Those selected for the offices will be interviewed and if the appointment is acceptable the list will be announced.

SURGEONS USING ELECTRO-MAGNET

Removes Bits of Metal From the Human Body—Is Unusually Powerful.

St. Louis, Oct. 20.—(AP)—A new "super-giant" electro-magnet for removing bits of metal from the human body, described as the most powerful of its kind in the United States, was demonstrated today for the Clinical Congress of the American College of Surgeons.

Fifteen hundred pounds of wire were used in construction of the magnet, which, with the mounting, weighs about 3,000 pounds. Its generator is powered with a 50-horsepower motor, and it will lift a metal operating table from the floor with ease.

At St. Louis University Medical School, where it was demonstrated, its use has been confined to removal of fragments from the eye. It is believed, however, that its tremendous power will make it useful in taking metallic bits from throat, chest or abdomen with a minimum of laceration.

In another clinic surgeons witnessed operations under a modified form of spinal anesthesia lately introduced. As with the earlier form, temporary but complete paralysis of the patient is brought about by the injections into the spine.

Treatment of lung abscesses by pulmonary lavage was also demonstrated. This involves removal of pus and introduction of an antiseptic solution through a rubber tube with a curved end. In order to see the exact position of the tube, the operator employs a fluoroscope.

Segregate Specialists
Legislative attempts by Canadian province of Alberta to segregate physicians desiring the rating of specialist from those not specially trained have been partially successful, Dr. Alexander R. Munroe of Edmonton, Alta., advised the congress.

When certain definite requirements for "specialists" were set up, the most noticeable change was discontinuance of use of the term by doctors who advertised, Dr. Munroe pointed out, however, that the Alberta law failed to give those obtaining specialist standing any privileges not enjoyed by the rest.

Dr. Owen H. Wangenstein of the Minneapolis, in a discussion of the teaching of surgery, stressed the importance of restraining the surgical appetite from operating until a proper appreciation of fundamentals was attained.

Among the latter he classed identification of diseased processes, understanding pathological factors, selection of the best procedure and evaluation of the risk involved in operating upon any given patient.

HENRY FORD ENLISTS AS HOOVER CAMPAIGNER

Detroit, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Disavowing any interest in party politics, Henry Ford today was enlisted as a Hoover campaigner.

In a radio address last night—his first of that nature—the automobile manufacturer said "I support the best man for the job. If Herbert Hoover were a Democrat, with his record during the last four years, I should have to support him."

Much of his address was devoted to the need of "a money system managed as our Weather Bureau is for the protection of the people's business," and he said he would "like to see it done by a man of practical experience like Mr. Hoover."

Congress, he said, "farmed out the national money system to private hands" and "should take back full control of money and give the United States a public service money system as opposed to a private profit money system."

Mr. Ford said President Hoover "is carrying a greater burden than Abraham Lincoln carried—and he is carrying it in a way that places him beside Lincoln in sacrificial service."

DEAN'S WIFE DIES

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Carolyn Moseley Cooley, 77 wife of Dean Emeritus Mortimer E. Cooley of University of Michigan Engineering College, died Wednesday night at the Cooley residence here after a year's illness.

Mrs. Cooley was born Sept. 19, 1855 at Fairport, N. Y. She had lived in Ann Arbor since 1881, two years after her marriage to Dean Cooley.

She is survived by a son, Captain Hollis M. Cooley, U. S. N., Washington, D. C., three daughters, Mrs. William O. Houston of Jackson, Mich.; Mrs. Burton A. Howe, of Greenwich, Conn., and Mrs. Harvey F. Cornwell, of Birmingham, Mich.; a sister, Mrs. Anna S. Moore, of Fairport, N. Y., and eight grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at the residence here at 4 p. m., Friday and at 2 p. m. Saturday in Canandaigua, N. Y., at the residence of Justice Robert F. Thompson of the New York Supreme Court. Burial will be at Canandaigua.

Overnight A. P. News

Cambridge, Mass.—Increase of high school courses to six years and a corresponding decrease in the grammar school term is favored in a preliminary report of a National survey by the U. S. Office of Education.

Boston—Department of Labor and industries census of manufacturing for 1931 shows that 151 manufacturing establishments in Holyoke produced goods in that year worth $45,656,181. The average number of wage earners was 10,363 and the total amount paid in wages $10,674,078.

Boston—Report of 88 highway contractors shows a decrease of 13.2 per cent in the number of workers employed during the week ending Sept. 15 as compared with the corresponding week of August.

Boston—Group of Hingham residents complain against alleged use of non-resident labor on a state highway construction project.

Brookline, Mass.—Members of boot and shoe workers union vote 2 to 1 to adopt an amendment abolishing all sick and disability benefits and increasing the death benefit from $200 to $300.

Boston—Two Chelsea men sought for questioning in connection with recent kidnappings and gang slayings surrender to police and are held as suspicious persons.

Boston—Tom J. Poo, 40, treasurer of the Sun Yuen Hank Company who disappeared several days ago with $10,000 of the company's funds, returns to Chinatown and is forgiven. He returns $2,700 and promises to pay it all back in time.

Arlington, Mass.—Governor Ely says two closed Massachusetts banks are "very close" to re-opening. He did not name them.

Boston—Chairman Maynard of the Democratic state committee says reports from every section of the state convince him that about 1,800,000 were registered to vote in the November election. This number would be the greatest in the history of the state. Boston's registration totals 304,504, a record.

Salisbury, Conn.—President Warner of the Salisbury Outing Club announces the national ski tournament for 1933 will be held in Salisbury.

SNOW IN MONTANA
Miles City, Mont., Oct. 20.—(AP)—A 13-inch snowfall, termed the heaviest in eastern Montana in 29 years, made many side roads impassable, brought out snow plows on the main highways and prevented, or caused changes of plans, in political campaigning.

The storm brought about six inches of snow to Billings and Williston, N. D.

N. Y. BOOTLEGGERS UNUSUALLY BOLD

Deliver Booze Into Very Hands of U. S. District Attorney and Are Held.

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The bootlegging profession gave unmistakable and incontrovertible evidence today of having gone suddenly, completely, and amazingly bughouse.

One of its practitioners had the temerity to send a price list of liquors to the office of an assistant Federal district attorney.

He had the further brassiness to make a delivery of liquor into the very hands of the assistant Federal district attorney.

This distribution of liquor price lists is quite a racket in New York. The brazen booze peddlers stick the lists in mail boxes and under apartment doors. The lists describe all the mainstays of the liquor cupboard from plain alcohol (by the gallon) to champagne (by the pint). Printed on each list is a telephone number. A note adds that deliveries will be made anywhere any time.

Call Bootleggers
It was such a card that came to Fred Pepper, assistant district attorney at the Federal building. He called the number on the phone and asked if "three pints could be delivered right away and gave his address." "Very close," said the man on the other end of the line.

Pretty soon he walked Leo Brunner—with three pints. Pepper told him he was under arrest.

Then Pepper called the number again and ordered three more pints. This time he identified himself as an assistant Federal attorney.

"Yeah," came the voice, "we know that—now, Goombly, please."

"Wait a minute," said Pepper. "You've already set men three pints. It's such good stuff I want three more."

Send Another Man
"We know we sent you three pints," said the voice. "And is our face red? We sent it by Leo—and Leo ain't back yet. We have a feeling Leo ain't coming back."

Pepper sought to mollify him, and finally arranged to meet the man on the street and "talk it over." When the man came he gave his name as Nathan Rock. He joined Leo.

The phone call had been traced in the meantime and raiders found five other youths in a room filled with literature advertising the merits of the various liquors. No liquor was in sight.

The man who was arrested said they were just starting out in business. Mr. Pepper hinted that they also were just going out of business.

PRESIDENT PREPARING NEXT MAJOR ADDRESS

Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—President Hoover is working in preparation for a swift, but strenuous westward trip this week-end for another major speech in his personal campaign for re-election.

Thirteen times as his special train speeds Saturday through West Virginia and Ohio, Mr. Hoover will make rear platform appearances. Then he will climax this late October drive with a campaign speech at Detroit, America's automobile center.

Most of the President's time today was occupied in drafting the Detroit speech.

Also receiving attention were subjects that may be discussed briefly before West Virginia and Ohio audiences.

A short speech probably will be delivered in Charleston, West Virginia, during a half hour pause there early Saturday after a night's run from the capital. This is the longest scheduled stop of the train.

Following in order are twelve rear platform appearances in Huntington and Kenova, West Virginia; and Ironton, Portsmouth, Waverly, Chillicothe, Circleville, Columbus, Delaware, Marion, Fostoria, and Toledo, all in Ohio.

This itinerary will place the President in Detroit just about in time for his speech, scheduled for 8:30 p. m. His subject has not been announced.

LUTHERANS TO MERGER

Philadelphia, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Complete unity of all Lutheran bodies in the United States within the next decade, in the opinion of the Rev. Dr. F. H. Knobel of New York, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, is entirely possible.

Discussing the accomplishments of the eighth biennial convention of the United Lutheran church, which closed yesterday, Dr. Knobel told a group of friends he knew of nothing to prevent such a consolidation.

The United Lutheran Church, the Missouri Synod and the American Lutheran Church are the three major groups in this denomination. Together they represent the third largest Protestant denomination in this country.

WAPPING

There will only be a half day's session in all South Windsor schools today as there will be a teachers meeting with the superintendent, A. L. Young, at the Union school in South Windsor this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. George O. Case of Pleasant Valley motored to Hebron on Thursday to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund H. Horton where they visited friends.

There is to be a rally meeting for all the men who can come to the Parish house next Friday evening at half past seven o'clock, to arrange, if possible, to form a men's Bible class. James Johnston, president of the famous East Hartford Association, will be present and speak. All men are cordially invited to be present.

At the Republican caucus, Raymond W. Belcher was nominated as representative and William Thresher, John S. Clapp, Alfred W. Stone, Kenneth Juno and Charles Jorgensen were nominated for justice of peace.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith and family moved into the north side of O. W. Burnham's house last Saturday. The house was recently vacated by Frederick Jones and family.

Teddy Risley returned from the Worcester Memorial hospital in Springfield, Mass., last Saturday. He will remain home two weeks and then return to the hospital for another week of treatment.

The United Workers will serve a public supper in the basement of the South Windsor church next Friday evening, Oct. 21. Mrs. Olive Clapp and Mrs. Elizabeth Parker will be in charge of it. Following the supper William H. Rhodes of Hartford will give a travel talk. Those who have heard Mr. Rhodes before will certainly want to hear him again.

YOUTH ELECTROCUTED

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—A 20 year old youth, identified only as "Baupre" whose home was Warren, Mass., was electrocuted early today when he encountered a live power wire atop an inbound New Haven freight train near the Hunts Point station in the Bronx.

Two companions of the dead man gave their names as Ernest Dugriner, (79 Central street, Hudson Mass.) and Arthur Getreault, (101 Milk street, Westboro, Mass.). They said Baupre joined them in Boston and all three had come here by freight trains in search of work.

Baupre was about five feet eight inches tall and weighed about 165 pounds. He had dark hair and brown eyes. He wore a dark suit gray overcoat.

SAME CANDIDATES RUN FOR CONGRESS

In Fourth and Fifth Districts They Are Renewing Battle of Two Years Ago.

Hartford, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The congressional campaign in the 4th and 5th Districts is renewing battles fought two years ago by the same opponents.

Representative W. L. Tierney, Democrat, is seeking re-election in the Fourth District against former Rep. Schuler Merritt, Republican, whom he defeated in 1930 by 1,560 votes. In the Fifth District, Rep. Edward W. Goss, Republican, is endeavoring to hold his seat against Judge Martin Gormley, Democrat, who ran only 718 votes behind him two years ago.

The other three district contests and the race for Congressman at large, pit new opponents against one another. If Tierney and Goss should be elected, they will be the only holdover members of the Connecticut delegation in the House.

This election is different from the 1930 one in that Independent Republican nominees for Congress are added to those of the major and minor parties. If the vote is as close as that of the Congressional contests two years ago, political observers believe the Independent Republicans will hold the balance of power.

In First District
Representative Augustine Lonergan, Democrat, who is seeking the Senatorship won the First District in 1930 by a margin of 674 votes over Clarence Seymour, Republican. Seymour again is his party's nominee, running against Herman Koppelman, Democrat. The latter ran in 1928 and lost the district by nearly 10,000 votes to Rep. E. Hart Fenn, Republican incumbent.

In the Second District Rep. Richard P. Freeman, veteran Republican, was victorious in 1930 over William C. Fox, Democrat, by 4,772 votes. Fox is seeking the office again, while the Republicans turned out Freeman in favor of Dr. William L. Higgins, secretary of state.

Freeman two years ago polled 37,801 votes. Dr. Higgins, then on the State ticket, received only 80 less.

The Third District contest brings together "Ted" Jones a newcomer in politics, as the Republican choice, and Mayor Francis T. Maloney of Meriden as the Democratic nominee. Two years ago Rep. John Q. Tilson, Republican, led Major James Shanley, Democrat by 5,080 votes.

Running in the Fourth District against Tierney and Merritt, is Elsie Hill of Redding, Independent Republican, whose father represented the district in Congress for 21 years.

COUNTY Y LEADERS TO MEET SATURDAY

Fall Get-Together To Be Held At Worthington Community House In Berlin.

The fall get-together of County Y. M. C. A. leaders from all sections of Hartford County will be held this coming Saturday at the Worthington Community House, Berlin, beginning with a recreational program at 2:30 o'clock. The program is as follows: 2:30—Demonstration of Group games, Quilts and Volley Ball, in charge of Leonard Black. 4:00—Presentation of craft activities, under the direction of William Hagen of Springfield. A session on the making of useful articles in which a leader can instruct his boys. 5:00—Conference. Groups: Sessions for leaders of Hi-Y Clubs (High School age boys), Pioneer Groups (boys of 12 to 15 years), Craft Groups (of various ages) for an interchange of experiences and planning of the season's program. 6:00—Picnic Supper. 7:00—Captain Ben Scovell, noted actor, in an hour of dramatic presentations. Captain Scovell will also tell of his recollections of Sir George Williams, founder of the Y. M. C. A. in London England, who visited in his home when Captain Scovell was a boy. Local Y leaders are planning to attend.

TWO HUNTERS KILLED

Digby, N. S., Oct. 20.—(AP)—The first three days of Nova Scotia's hunting season have taken a toll of four lives.

Two men were shot after having been mistaken for moose and two drowned.

Cost 85 Cents To Put Rheumatic Cripple Back To Work Again

Now Joyously Happy

While all his family looked on in astonishment and all his friends were amazed, one man took the pain, swelling and agony from his tortured joints in 48 hours and did it with that famous rheumatic prescription known to pharmacists as Allenru—you may do the same.

This powerful yet safe remedy is wonderful—its action is almost magical. Excess uric acid poison—the cause of most rheumatic agony—starts to leave your body in 24 hours.

Just get one 85 cent bottle of Allenru from The J. W. Hale Co.—or any live druggist—take it as directed and if in 48 hours your pains haven't left you get your money back.

It works just as swiftly with Neuritis, Sciatica, Lumbago and Neuralgia.—Adv.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20.

ROOSEVELT ON BONUS

As this newspaper had anticipated, Governor Roosevelt yesterday, by way of announcing his position on the bonus, raked up a forgotten public statement issued by him last April, long before he became the Democratic party's candidate for the Presidency, in which he said that he did not see how a government running behind two billion dollars annually could consider the anticipation of bonus payment until it had a balanced budget. He told his Pittsburgh audience that he had not changed his mind in this relation.

This will delight almost all of those Democrats who had already made up their minds to vote for the New York governor. It gives him one up, in their view, on Calvin Coolidge, who recently intimated that Mr. Roosevelt was holding up economic recovery by avoiding the bonus issue and leaving it a matter of doubt whether, in the possible event of his election, he would stand for the payment of the bonus. They will do some chuckling.

But there are a good many others besides Democrats to be considered. There are not enough of the latter to elect Mr. Roosevelt or anybody else President of the United States. Mr. Roosevelt must get the votes of some millions of independents, many of them of Republican leanings, in order to win this election. There is no question at all that most of these independents have very strong convictions on the payment of the bonus, being unqualifiedly against it.

These independent voters are not chuckling over Mr. Roosevelt's bonus pronouncement. They will be more easily pleased than we imagine them to be if they like it, even a little bit.

The Pittsburgh bonus declaration is not, after all, in the least definite. It does not commit its author to anything. It is so framed as to leave the way wide open for Mr. Roosevelt, if he should be elected, to accept even so crass a bonus measure as the Patten bill. Because for the purposes of the Pittsburgh promise it would always be possible to balance the budget with fat money, as Patten proposed, pass the bonus payment measure and then deal with the inevitable subsequent unbalancing as a new situation instead of what it really would be, a continuing one.

Governor Roosevelt could have disposed of the bonus question for good and all if he had had the inclination and the courage to say, in plain English, what he evidently hopes the majority of voters will infer, that he is against its payment and would veto any bill calling for its payment if Congress should pass one within the next four years. He did not do this and by his failure to do so he has unquestionably lost stature in the minds of a very great number of thinking voters.

HOW ABOUT THIS?

For many years The Manchester Herald has made a practice of printing, subsequently to each monthly meeting of the Board of Selectmen, the list of bills for the month approved by the Board. It has done this as a service to the community, without charge of any kind to the town, treating this routine report as a matter of news.

The list of bills is always long, sometimes, as in the current instance, running to several columns of space. It is no small item of expense in the setting of the type alone. The list occupies space which, it is just possible, might be used more profitably from the newspaper's point of view. We have taken to wondering about it.

If this monthly list of bills is a matter of real interest to any considerable number of Herald readers we want to continue printing it. If it is little considered, as it is not read by more than a mere handful of The Herald's subscribers or if it takes up the room of other news or features that would make the newspaper more attractive to its readers, we want to drop it.

It may be said that the printing of these periodic lists of bills is not a custom in most towns. Very few newspapers give this sort of service to their communities gratis. In not many towns or cities are the lists of bills printed as paid advertisements. If the citizen wants to know the details of where the money goes he must go to the city or town hall and insist on seeing the books. We conceive the service we have been giving to be a valuable one to the people. But it is of value to The Herald only if it is appreciated. If the readers do not care at all about these bills, or if they care only a very little, we propose to save ourselves the space and the composition and drop out the publication of the bills.

Oddly enough, in all the years we have been printing the monthly list, we have never received from our readers enough comment concerning them, one way or the other, to give us a clue as to whether they are of general interest or not. So we are a bit up a tree.

For this reason The Herald invites an expression of opinion from as many of its readers as it can induce to give it, concerning the Selectmen's bills. Do you want their publication continued? Are you interested in knowing how much this grocer's bill for relief supplies was, or how much that contractor received last month? If so, drop The Herald a line or call up this office on the phone and let us know how you feel about it.

THE GANGSTER WAY

The attempt of lawyers for the North Carolina Reynolds family to get the state authorities to drop the murder charges against Libby Holman Reynolds and Albert Walker, accused of killing young Smith Reynolds, husband of Libby Holman, is one of the most astonishing and most flagrant attempts to defeat the ends of justice that has become public in a long time. It is a good thing for the instigators of this move that the North Carolina authorities are, apparently, too susceptible to the awesomeness of great wealth to be affected in the same manner by this assault on their integrity as if it were made by some inconsequential friends of an inconsequential criminal; otherwise it is highly probable that the persons responsible for the proposal to drop the case might find themselves very suddenly defending an action for contempt of court. Even in North Carolina the affront of the proceeding is not entirely lost, though the courage to rightly resent it appears lacking.

The idea that the courts of a state are to be operated solely with a view to accommodating themselves to the whims of influential individuals is exactly the same as the idea that they should be run to suit the notions of gang leaders. If the state of North Carolina were to drop the case against Libby Holman merely because the relatives of young Reynolds wished to have it dropped, then it would be perfectly logical for the courts of Illinois to drop every gang murder case, because in all such cases the gangs would much prefer setting the score to having the state interfere.

We look for this kind of thing from the gangsters because they recognize no responsibility to society. When we get it from powerful families like the Reynolds it is just a little bit shocking.

NEW YORK SIDELIGHTS

Of all the disclosures of flagrant waste and graft made by such official bodies as the Hofstadter committee and the Lesow group of an earlier day none is ever so intriguing as some of the instances dug up in the haphazard nosings of such unofficial organizations as the Citizens Budget Commission of New York City.

One of the discoveries of that group, according to its chairman, may only mildly surprise those who are informed that the Board of Aldermen maintains a full time sergeant-at-arms, which would seem to be something of a luxury, but the measure of the surprise will perhaps increase a little when we learn that the sergeant-at-arms has no fewer than ten assistants, all full time jobsters on full time salaries.

Then there is the matter of the "engineers" in the Sheriff's office. There are, it appears, three of them. Some inquisitive member of the Citizens Commission inquired as to the duties of the three engineers. "They stoke coal," he was informed. Further inquiry developed the circumstance that the coal for the sheriff's office, stoked by three all-the-year-round employees whose salaries total more than $5,000 a year, is bought out of an appropriation of $1,000. One thousand dollars for coal, five thousand to put it into a furnace. Is it any wonder that a city that runs itself that way gets into a jam?

A WORD TO A NEGROBOY

In the height of a Presidential campaign such as we are just now passing through some speakers are liable to say things that at other times they would never dream of saying. We wonder if Dr. Edward G. Dolan, in the unbounded enthusiasm of his talk at the Democratic rally in the Tinker hall Tuesday night really meant all he told his audience. Perhaps his utterances sounded less extravagant than they appeared in print.

We do not believe that the Democrats of Manchester have been treated so badly at the hands of Manchester Republicans as Dr. Dolan made out. The doctor accused the local Republicans of entertaining racial prejudice and of encouraging a white-perpetrating campaign. The Republicans of Manchester have done nothing of the kind and Dr. Dolan, of all men, should know it.

This campaign will be over in a little more than two weeks. Whether Hoover or Roosevelt is elected we shall all have to live together—that is if we are to live in Manchester. And if Roosevelt should be elected and the doctor should be lucky enough to get a good political job, we are confident that Manchester's Republicans, whom he has so berated, would be as truly pleased as many of his Democratic associates—possibly better than some of them.

THE PARAMOUNT QUESTION
(Chicago Daily News)

In the presence of so grave a crisis as that through which we are now passing partisan politics is of minimum importance. Whether the campaign shall result in a personal victory for Herbert Hoover or for Franklin D. Roosevelt is of very minor concern when contrasted with the well-being of 120,000,000 people. In normal times we may be able to indulge in the luxury of partisan battles and go down or up in support of political opinions.

Right now we are dealing with bread and butter fundamentals. We have a right to consider whether the success of one party or another will mean a quicker and more sure way to maintain the normal existence. Will the election of Herbert Hoover make our jobs more secure or get our jobs back for us quicker than would the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt? Idealists may discard this as materialistic, but men and women who have watched their families suffer from want of the necessities of life, or have lived in daily dread of such a calamity, have a right to be materialistic in such behalf.

Going beyond the question of whether the election of Hoover or the election of Roosevelt would re-assert normal conditions more promptly, we have also a right to analyze the kind of government and the sort of policies each of these men would provide. We know what the election of Hoover would mean. His program is not only definite but it is actually in operation. Already it has produced unmistakable signs of recovery which are certain to be accelerated if he carries the November election. Concerning Roosevelt's program we have available no more than a vague outline. It is not specific, and no part of it is now in operation. Unless Roosevelt becomes more specific before election day this condition is certain to make for hesitation and doubt, with consequent slowing down of business and an increase of unemployment.

As to the kind of government Roosevelt would give us if he were elected, we have a right to examine the character of the man who were responsible for his nomination and who have been most active in his campaign for election. His nomination was procured after a long and bitter contest by the connivance and cooperation of William Randolph Hearst, William G. McAdoe, John N. Garner, Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, Senator Huey Long of Louisiana. All of those men are his enthusiastic supporters today. He has also allied with them in the campaign for election such men as Senator Brookhart of Iowa, Senator Norris of Nebraska and Senators Elaine and LaFollette of Wisconsin. Unless Gov. Roosevelt should be guilty of ingratitude, the counsels of such men as these would carry great weight with him in the event of his election.

The question the voter must determine in this election is whether the Hoover kind of government and the Hoover type of policy shall continue as the best means of escape from the effects of the worldwide depression, or whether we shall turn to the undefined and unknown policies of a man who is totally unfamiliar with the magnitude or scope of problems he would confront, and who would, perforce, lend an attentive ear to the counsels of men like Hearst, Garner, McAdoe, Huey Long and Burton K. Wheeler.

FAST WORK

Jacksonville, Fla.—Frank Rocco, and J. M. Rollo asked to be allowed to plead guilty to highway robbery and start serving time. Judge J. M. Seiler complied with a sentence of 28 years for each. The day before their case came up in criminal court the two men accompanied by a third prisoner escaped by means of hacksaw and rope. Several days later Rocco and Rollo were recaptured but the third man is still at large.

HEALTH-DIET ADVICE
 BY DR. FRANK MCCOY

Questions in regard to Health and Diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this Paper. Letters stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Eye-strain has a detrimental influence upon the entire nervous system. My experience with thousands of patients has convinced me that this is true, and I believe that a thorough examination of the eyes should be included in any complete physical examination. I have been receiving an increasing number of inquiries regarding the functions and care of the eyes. Evidently the public is beginning to realize the true importance of the "windows of the soul."

Let us discuss some of the various types of eyes from the anatomical standpoint. Scientifically a normal eye is described as emmetropic; that is it is normal in length and it focuses without undue effort or strain. The farsighted, or hyperopic, eye is by far the most prevalent. It is shorter in length from front to back than the normal eye and one has to exert an extra effort with the convergent nervous strain in order to focus and maintain clear vision. A nearsighted eye is called myopic. With this type the eyeball is longer than normal. There is another nearsighted condition called pseudo or false myopia of the eye. This is usually caused by an excessive strain on the focusing apparatus. Astigmatism is another optical error with which you are more or less familiar; or at least you have heard it mentioned although you may not understand its meaning. An astigmatic eye is one that is not symmetrical in curvature. An analogy would be a rubber ball which has been slightly compressed thus making the surface flatter in one meridian than in the other.

Another frequent source of eye discomfort is that produced by muscular imbalance of the eyes. This not only includes tendencies of the eyes to turn from their normal position but also actually crossed eyes. It will take up this subject of strabismus or crossed eyes in a future article, especially with its relation to the health and future happiness of the individual.

have perfected a technique which has stood the test of many years practice whereby "draps" are no longer necessary for a complete examination. This has been a great step forward as I am convinced that it is not only more accurate than the older method but also does not inconvenience the patient by depriving him for two or three days of the use of his eyes while reading. The modern optometrist has instruments of precision with which he makes measurements of not only the range of vision but also the actual depth of focus of the eyes. He can look into and note the general health of the eye, accurately measure the actual eye curvature without touching it, and make sensitive measurements of the muscular balance and coordination of the eye. I might mention here that a thorough examination such as that just described requires at least an hour to complete. The examination may be divided into two visits and this is something preferable as the eyes do not become fatigued in the shorter examination periods.

Parents should realize the importance of having the eyes of their children examined at regular intervals so that the strain of close application to school work will be guarded against, and the child allowed to view the world, which it is just discovering, in its true perspective.

(Rose Apple)
 Question: Belinda B. asks: "What is the rose apple and where is it grown?"
 Answer: The rose apple is the fruit of an East Indian tree and is grown in California for its foliage. The fruit, although very fragrant, is insipid and of very little food value. It is used in the tropics for making jelly and preserves.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 20.—Contrast has no geography in Manhattan. It leaps out in Fifth Avenue, Park Avenue or Avenue A.

Thus, well up in Fifth Avenue's most aristocratic regions, you barely to turn a corner and the best of jungle tom-toms comes from an old side street building. This is a Negro quarter and a venerable cult chieftain still engages in voodoo practices—with African drums as his rhythmic background and incantations chanted by a chorus of devotees.

Or take one of the city's most valuable corners. It has become infested with beggars! Limousines drive up Bleecker Street, market center of the Italian section, while servants of the rich purchase certain vegetables to be found only in this area. Livered chauffeurs sit frozen in their wheels waiting for an old Italian woman to end her bargaining.

Elevators in three prominent Broadway buildings are veritable postoffices these days. Out-of-work actors and actresses, wishing to give the folks back home the idea that they have a mid-town address, have their mail sent to these buildings. The elevator boys, wishing to help, save the mail until called for. I have seen as many as 50 letters tucked away in a single elevator.

The proprietor of a tiny hole-in-the-wall coffee shop makes sandwiches for several of Broadway's show magnates, all of whom could well afford the most exclusive places

... A man who blacks boots in 34th Street owned the drug store a few steps away from his bootblack stand ... So it goes!

Latest of the potential hand sensations is Joe Furr, whose forehead wanders back into a perfect shining moon, surrounded by a horsemesh of black hairlets.

Furr appeared "out of nowhere" with the new season and came unheralded to The Village Barn. He had been hidden in Hollywood for a time, playing atmospheric music on the film sets. Last winter he got a chance in a New Jersey road-house frequented by the swanky commuter set. And thus into New York. The particular novelty which will make you remember his name some day consists of the use of a harp, steel guitar, two pianos and other instrumental innovations in the dance band field.

In the theater, the particular acting sensation is provided by Stella and Luther Adler, members of one of the East Side's famed theatrical families. Luther was almost unknown until he appeared as Sol Ginsberg in "Success Story" and stopped the show. Stella was known best to little theater audiences. Broadway expects Luther to become a second Paul Muni—another lad who graduated from the East Side. He has been on the stage since the age of nine, when he appeared with his mother, Sarah Adler. His father, Jacob Adler, is one of the Yiddish theater's leading figures. GILBERT SWAN.

He's got the smallest ash can on the block— But his house is always warm

3 Easy Rules for Using the High Test Fuel 1 Shake less—Because Koppers Connecticut Coke is all fuel, and burns down to fine ashes that drop through the grate with very little shaking.

2 Use less draft—Because Koppers Connecticut Coke is High Test Fuel, it burns evenly without forcing the fire and wasting heat up the chimney. It responds at once to closing as well as to opening of dampers.

3 Fill the fire pot heaping full—You can do this without danger of smothering the fire. Koppers Connecticut Coke is lighter than coal and burns most economically and effectively when you keep a deep fire.

ONCE a week on his way to work he carries out a little ash pail about a foot high. No dust ground into his clothes. No tugging and straining at heavy ash cans for him.

Less work, yet all through the seven months of the heating season his home is warmer and more comfortable than neighboring houses. His family lives better because their home is pleasanter.

"And I save almost a dollar a week, too," he says proudly. There isn't any mystery about his story. He's just doing what increasing thousands are doing—using a fuel that has less ashes and more carbon in it.

WILL RE-DEDICATE ST. MARY'S SUNDAY

Interior of Edifice Recently Renovated—Special Services Planned.

St. Mary's Episcopal church will hold a Rededication Service Sunday, with the Right Reverend Edward H. Coley, D.D., Suffragan Bishop of Central New York, as the speaker.

The interior of St. Mary's church was recently renovated, greatly adding to the beauty of the edifice, the exterior of which was redecorated a few years ago.

Bishop Coley graduated from Yale in 1884 and from the Berkeley Divinity School in 1887. He was curate of St. John's church at Stamford, then minister in charge at Christ church, Savannah, Ga., before coming here.

The service Sunday morning will include the dedication of gifts, presented by members of the church as memorials to loved ones.

Bishop Cross, who will speak in the evening, was rector of St. Thomas' church at Sturgis, South Dakota, from 1907 to 1910; of St. Peter's church at Sheridan, Wyoming, from 1910 to 1916; at St. John the Evangelist at St. Paul, Minn., from 1916 to 1924, when he was made Bishop.

CALLS ROOSEVELT TALKS GREAT MYSTERY STORIES

Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Striving to complete his campaign speech to be made at Detroit Saturday night, President Hoover today abandoned his office in favor of the secluded Lincoln study of the White House.

There he received Secretary Mills and several other callers. The Treasury minister, saying he had discussed not only the President's coming address but the speech of Franklin D. Roosevelt last night at Pittsburgh, asserted of the latter's talk:

"It was like his Tokopa farm speech and other great mystery stories."

Earlier, too, Mills told newspapermen he would answer Roosevelt's statement last night concerning the bonus and the administration's fiscal policy in an address next Tuesday night in Cincinnati, "provided I can wait that long."

Other callers who talked with the President in the Lincoln study included Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, who has seen Mr. Hoover at least once a day since his return from Cleveland.

CHARGED WITH ARSON

New London, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Charged with arson, Captain John A. Fish of the town of Groton was arrested last night by Trooper Arthur Katho of the Groton Barracks of the State police and was to be presented in Groton Town Court late this afternoon. Fish was held in $5,000 bonds.

The arrest was made following an investigation of a fire which destroyed the house and barn of the Fish poultry farm, maintained by Fish off the Boston Post road in Groton. The fire was discovered about 4 o'clock Monday morning and Fish was reported to have left for New York several hours previously.

Six children took part in the fantasy first named, with Barbara Lundberg as the dream fairy. Pupils of Mrs. Walter Wirrala executed dances to the play and between the acts musical accompaniments were played by Mrs. Edward Montie.

Barbara Carter, looked the part in a dance "The Magic Doll." Marion Montie and Dorothy Robinson appeared in a "Dance of the Ginger-snaps," and soft shoe routine, and Marion danced a military tap.

LEAPS TO DEATH FROM 11TH FLOOR

Former Official of Armour and Co. Had Been Ill For Over a Year.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—(AP)—George M. Willett, former vice president of Armour and Company, today plunged to death from a window of his eleventh floor apartment. He fell to the street fully clothed.

Willett resigned recently. He was injured in an automobile accident and had been unable to work for a year.

Willett was 62 years old. His widow and her mother had breakfasted with him. They had observed to him at the time: "You're rather melancholy this morning."

"I'm not particularly," she said he replied. He agreed to take a walk with her later, but wanted to read a newspaper first. She left the apartment to get a paper, and when she returned he was dead.

Mrs. Willett said she threatened suicide last June, brooding over his inability to recover from the injuries he had suffered.

Willett entered the employ of Armour and Company in 1890 as cashier of a branch at Ironwood, Mich.

RUSSELL HOPTON HAS PARTS APLENTY BUT LITTLE TO DO

Hollywood — As Russell Hopton rather too modestly puts it, he's had very little to do with a lot of pictures.

Thirteen films in the last year have had the open, square-cut Hopton features on their footage, features that wouldn't have cut a fraction of a figure in silent films—and didn't—but which somehow seem to be remembered by talkie fans even when they don't know the name of Russell Hopton.

His best role so far, or his most prominent, has been in "Radio Patrol," but you may have caught glimpses, even views, of him in "Night World," "Street Scene" and "Arrowsmith."

In "Arrowsmith" he had one of those roles that began as little and grew to much. He played Ronald Coleman's side-kick. You'll see more of him in "Once in a Lifetime." He is now of Universal's contract hopes.

Not So Good at Selling Ten years ago, Hopton was selling films for the company that now has him under contract. He'll tell you now that he did an indifferent job of it. All his life he'd wanted to be an actor. He was equally and in his father's real estate office in New York. He wanted to be an actor—and he came to Hollywood.

He had $500 saved up when he reached Los Angeles, and only nebulous ideas about getting into pictures. After a while he got into extra work, then chucked it for production. He became an assistant prop-man at United Artists for $35 a week, then an assistant director to D. W. Griffith.

Gets Acting Job Griffith advised him to avoid the rut that he was heading for, and so he obtained an acting job—on little more than nerve and a tall tale about his experience—in a stock company at Long Beach. His work brought him stage parts in Los Angeles, and thus back to pictures.

His first film was "Call of the Fleeb," with Ramon Novarro. He played Dorothy Jordan's sanctimonious brother, and after the preview thought his picture career would end where it began. He was wrong, of course. "Street Scene" and "Arrowsmith" brought him a contract.

"I give myself four years more to become an actor," he says, "and then I'm going to be a director—the best director in these parts, or else."

MADE JOHN HOT Boston, Mass.—You can't blame John Callahan for getting all burned up. Just a few minutes before he was going to move his home furnishings to another house, a fire started which destroyed most of the furniture. Although firemen saved much of the furniture, the damage was estimated at $300.

TWO MEN RESCUED BY COAST GUARD

But Trying To Locate Yacht Rescuers Are Almost Drowned Themselves.

Boston, Oct. 20.—(AP)—A victory over the elements was won shortly before dawn today by four Coast Guardsmen who put out at midnight in the teeth of a howling gale to the rescue of two men on a foundering yacht.

Flares had been reported off shore, somewhat to the south of Boston and warrant officer Frank Holbrook, skipper of the City Point Coast Guard Station with three of his men started for the scene in a lifeboat. Before they were well on their way sea came aboard their small craft and drowned out the engine. For two hours Holbrook and his men struggled to keep the picket boat afloat. Another boat from the Coast Guard station finally came to their assistance.

Yacht Is Located Holbrook and his crew in another boat resumed their search for the disabled yacht, the Yawl Leisure. She was found in danger of being swamped by the sea. The crew of the Coast Guard boat pitched and rolled and threatened to pound each other to pieces, a line was passed and the yacht taken in tow. With her crew of two, Paul Doherty and Merl Eaton, the Leisure was brought in safely.

1930 and increased in 1931, but showed their real increase in 1932 when total expenditures reached the high figure of five billion. This represented an increase of $1,500,000,000 from fiscal year 1927, which was the recent year showing lowest expenditures.

"Apart from the special items of increase, the net expenditures of the Federal government were no more in 1932 than five years earlier.

"The administration has fought for the curtailment of expenditures where curtailment was possible. The budget submitted to Congress by the President last December was necessarily planned so as to provide for carrying on the government according to existing legal requirements. Nevertheless, that budget showed reductions in expenditures of $970,000,000 below 1932 expenditures.

"The President insisted on further economy through changing the law so as to bring about curtailment of certain functions and reduction in the cost of established services."

He said that such expenditures as immediate cash payment of the bonus "which would have required an expenditure of over $2,000,000,000" still have to be fought, "for they destroy any hope for relief of the burden of Federal expenditures."

Ballantine said that Federal tax revenues were about halved as a result of the depression and detailed the taxes which had been instituted or raised to cover the decrease.

CHANGE IN LEADERSHIP DANGEROUS, SAYS MELLON

which the United States and to a certain extent the world also will mark time until the new administration takes charge next March and is ready to make decisions then as to its policies x x x.

"It is doubly unfortunate, therefore, that this election at such a critical moment and fraught with such significance for America and the world should be decided not on the merits of some important policy but rather on the vague and general issue of discontent with existing conditions which are beyond the power of any man or government to control."

Mr. Mellon explained how the United States goes about "the always difficult business of choosing a government."

On the major issues, he said, Republicans and Democrats do not differ greatly. On prohibition, agriculture, taxation, even on tariffs, he said, they are master together today than ever before.

The Real Question "The real question is not what should be done but how it is to be done," he continued. "The President and his advisers have built for the nation temporary shelters against the economic hurricane, and a defense against fear and panic."

He described the Reconstruction Finance Corporation measures for expansion of the powers of the Federal Reserve System, new taxes to balance the budget and other emergency steps.

"As a result of these measures," he said, "we have been able to meet in full every demand that could be made upon us. We have proved that our financial strength is more than adequate to withstand any shock from the outside world, and that no power outside the country can undermine the dollar."

Outlining the American efforts to co-operate with other nations to restore world finances, mentioning America's wholehearted support of the forthcoming world economic conference.

Tariff Policy "The American tariff policy," he asserted, "has not had the adverse effect on foreign trade with which it has sometimes been credited.

"It is not generally appreciated that of nearly $4,500,000,000 in goods imported in 1929 almost exactly two-thirds came in duty-free, and this percentage held good for the years immediately preceding and following.

"Our first concern must be to restore prosperity within our own borders and to build up the consuming capacity of our own people. If we in America can do that by means of our tariff and you can do the same thing for Britain by your agreement at Ottawa, then let us wish each other well and enter upon a friendly race to see which can do the most for our own people, knowing that in each country increased prosperity must inevitably have a beneficial effect on the other and on the rest of the world also."

"The rapid and abnormal increase in production which the war made necessary, and out of which America has sometimes been accused of causing the direct cause of most of our troubles today, especially in agriculture and basic raw materials.

Paying for the War "The present economic crisis is in part the price we pay for the war, and it is not a sufficiently compelling reason apart from the other horrors of war why we should organize ourselves for peace and determine that no nation on whatever account shall be allowed to disturb the peace of the world."

"The President and the American government have given evidence of their sincerity in seeking to reduce armaments and preserve peace."

Mr. Mellon said there is no way under the American Constitution by which the United States could effect a National Government with the authority and the almost unanimous support which the British government has enjoyed during the past year.

Democratic as well as Republican leaders in Congress co-operated in the most patriotic manner, he said, in putting through the strictly emergency legislation which the President recommended to Congress.

"Aside from this co-operation," he said, "the President has not had a free hand but has had to fight every inch of the way, for we have not changed our position on the issue of the country ever has known."

that this is not the well-ordered criticism of a man of stature great enough to be President of the United States. It is merely a repetition of a statement made six months ago, before Governor Roosevelt was the candidate of any party for this high office."

Omaha, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley today said Governor Roosevelt was "dodging the issue" and resorting to "flagrant misrepresentation" in his presidential campaign speech at Pittsburgh last night.

Discussing the Democratic nominee's governmental economy program in an interview before starting for Chicago, Secretary Hurley cited points on which, he said, Roosevelt "failed" to declare himself.

"His Pittsburgh speech on economy convicts him of political cowardice," Hurley said, adding that his discussion of governmental expenditures "was another example of the evasion which has characterized all his campaign speeches. He was afraid to make the issue squarely for fear of offending various groups."

Hurley said that Roosevelt, in emphasizing the increase in the cost of government in recent years "was guilty of flagrant misrepresentation by failing to explain that a large part of the increase was due to extraordinary, nonrecurring emergency items in connection with depressed conditions in industry and agriculture."

Fails to Explain Among the points which Roosevelt failed to explain, he said, were his exact proposals for effecting a 25 per cent reduction in governmental costs; whether the reductions would include curtailment of veterans' allowances; and whether the reduction of a billion dollars off the present four billion dollar budget or whether in a showdown the Democrats by juggling figures will make it mean something else.

"He failed, in making a belated announcement of his opposition to immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus to give his view on the Democratic flat money method of financing it.

"His implication that present Cabinet members are not under steady pressure from the President to make savings at every possible point is pure, unadulterated Democratic bunk."

willing to put their own inclinations in the background for the public good."

Levitt's Statement Levitt in a statement said: "We shall do what we can to instruct the voters so as to vote for Hoover electors on the regular Republican ticket and to elect the other candidates on the Independent ticket."

Six tickets will appear on the ballot and all of them will have candidates for presidential electors except the Independents. Besides the Republicans, Democrats and Independents, the other parties will be the Socialists, Socialist Labor and Communists. The Independents will appear at the bottom of the voting machines and on the extreme right on the paper ballots.

"A WISE DECISION" Waterbury, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Albert Levitt of Redding, Independent Republican candidate for governor, interviewed by the Waterbury American this morning said that Judge Edward C. Dickinson, who ruled this week that the regular Hoover electors could not be compelled by a mandamus to serve on the Independent Republican ticket, had rendered a wise decision.

In accordance with the best practical sense of the people, he also praised the honesty and fairness of Attorney General Ernest L. Averill for his conduct of the mandamus hearings.

His statement was as follows: "Judge Dickinson was a very difficult problem to decide. His decision was a wise one. He has demonstrated again that if issues of serious public moment are permitted to come before the judges of our state, justice will be done in accordance with the best practical needs of our people."

Averill Fair "I have had so many unpleasant things to say about Deputy Attorney General Ernest L. Averill that I wish to take this opportunity of stating that he was honest and fair in his conduct of this case. It was unfortunate that other public duties kept him in Washington at the time he had promised to be at the trial in New Haven. His absence created a difficult issue, which would not have arisen had he been present. But upon his return he made a complete and honorable effort to undo the evils which his absence had produced. He kept his word as an attorney and as a public servant of the State of Connecticut. He is much to be commended for his action. I know he will be good enough to forgive me for praising him in this way in the public press."

Mr. Levitt explained that he referred to the situation which arose at the courthouse on Friday when Anson T. McCook, counsel for the Independent Republican Party, explained to the court that Mr. Averill had agreed that the case would be limited to the status of the Hoover electors, and there would be no con-

BRAVE DOG DIES

Bridgeport, Oct. 20.—(AP)—"Skip" as Irish larricks, had been told to guard his master's car when it was placed in a garage.

His barking attracted attention when a fire started in one of two cars and spread to the building. But he refused to budge when firemen accompanied by his master, tried to call him outside. He was killed when a blazing beam crashed down upon him. The two cars and the garage were destroyed.

PARALYZED VICTIM

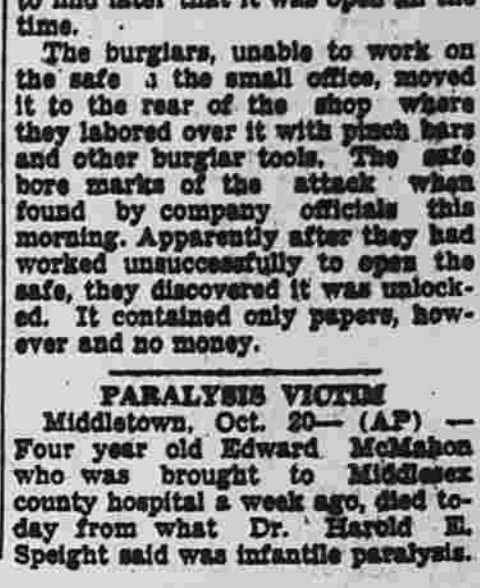

Middletown, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Four year old Edward McKMahon who was brought to Middletown county hospital a week ago, died today from what Dr. Harold H. Speight said was infantile paralysis.

WORK ON UNLOCKED SAFE

Bridgeport, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Burglars who broke into the Albert Johnson company, auto painting shop at 88 Holland avenue last night, went to plenty of unnecessary trouble to open the office safe only to find later that it was open all the time.

The burglars, unable to work on the safe's small office, moved it to the rear of the shop where they labored over it with pincers and other burglar tools. The safe bore marks of the attack when found by company officials this morning. Apparently after they had worked unsuccessfully to open the safe, they discovered it was unlocked. It contained only papers, however and no money.

HOOVER BLAMELESS SANDERS DECLARES

Takes Issue With Democratic Speakers Who Say President Caused Depression.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Chairman Everett Sanders of the Republican National committee today took issue with Democratic spokesmen who, he said, had charged that President Hoover was responsible for "the world depression." He spoke at a Republican luncheon at the Hamilton club.

"For weeks now," he said, "Democratic orators, headed by the Democratic nominee himself, have been telling the voters that the world depression is the result of maladministration in Washington."

"Some have held President Hoover personally responsible while others have claimed that the Republican Party and its governmental principles have been to blame for this economic cyclone of world-wide scope. The President also has been held to blame for not taking earlier steps to meet the disaster. The last man to utter this calumny in Chicago was Governor Ritchie."

"What are the facts?" "Mr. John Raskob, former chairman of the Democratic National committee, said in his radio address of October 27, 1930: "In closing let me say that no country in the world, not even our own, was ever in any splendid position to go forward and enjoy a period of prosperity as our country is today. Everything has been thoroughly deflated and business is now turning upward. The momentum is necessarily slow at first but within three months with the impetus the automobile industry is sure to provide, starting with the January shows, we will quickly leave depression behind and all be singing 'Happy Days Are Here Again.'"

"Does anyone believe that the then chairman was about to burst into song if he believed that the depression was only starting?" "Raskob didn't know."

"But Governor Roosevelt and his lieutenants at the time, President Hoover should, in the fall of 1930, have been taking steps to stop the depression which he should have known was just starting."

"Mr. Raskob didn't know." "The full force of the world-wide depression had not yet reached our shores."

FIRST HUNTING ACCIDENT

Danbury, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The first casualty of the bird hunting season in this vicinity occurred at 7:20 o'clock today when Jerry Kubisek, 25 years old, of Shelton, received the full charge of a 20-gauge shotgun in his back when a gun in the hands of Americo Castini, of Danbury, prematurely discharged as he was releasing the safety catch on the trigger to bring down a pheasant on the wing in the Beaver Brook section of this city.

ZION LUTHERAN CONFERENCE ENDS

New England District Pastors Here For Three Days; 39 In Attendance.

The three-day fall session of the Lutheran Pastoral Conference of the New England District of the Missouri Synod, held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Zion Lutheran church here, came to an end yesterday noon. Attendance at the sessions totaled 39 pastors, including a Norwegian, a Lithuanian and a pastor from the English district of the Synod, only two members being absent.

During the meeting, Rev. R. Tews of Westfield, Mass., presented a paper on "What a Pastor Should Read," naming theological and secular books and the daily and monthly press, the latter to a limited extent. There was discussion on the Encyclopaedia Americana and the International, pronounced superior to the Britannica, and also different cases and situations in congregational life were subject to debate.

Rev. A. Brun of Brooklyn, N. Y., president of the Atlantic District of the Missouri Synod, presented a plan for the proper handling of the million dollar debt of the Synod, the plan involving a contribution of five cents weekly for one year per each communicant member. The Synod has a total communicant membership of 750,000.

The services throughout the session were well attended. Thirty-two pastors took Holy Communion Monday evening. The choir sang "Our Father, Who Art In Heaven." The collection was designated for the Pastors' and Teachers' Widows' and Orphans' Fund.

Professor W. Hausmann, M. A., presented the peculiar difficulties and needs of the Concordia Collegiate Institute at Bronxville, N. Y. He said that the health of the faculty and student body is excellent, that the recreation facilities have been greatly improved, that the control of studies is well in hand and that the students are very industrious. The college has 150 pupils.

The visiting pastors were delighted with the beauty of Manchester, commenting on the new Post Office and the fine arrangement of public buildings at the Center. The ladies service at meals in the basement of the church was highly praised, as was the generous hospitality of the members of the Zion congregation in housing ministers overnight. The address of thanks was delivered by Rev. P. Loeber of Boston, his remarks being partly in a humorous vein.

THIS IS THE TIME TO GUARD HEALTH

Colds Caught Now Are Lasting and Drain Energy From the Victim.

Now is the time for everyone to give additional attention to the protection of their health. The unseasonable weather of the past few weeks has resulted at this time in what might well be called an epidemic of colds. The type of head and chest colds that linger on and are hard to dislodge. These lingering hacking colds are a drain on the energy resistance of your body to other diseases that are much more serious.

Ounce of Prevention
The old adage that "An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth a Pound of Cure" might well be applied in this case and adults will do well to do everything in their power to avoid catching cold and above all not to neglect any slight attack but immediately start doctoring it. Particular attention should be given to the children. Keep them out of drafts. Dress them to correspond with the weather conditions. Keep their feet dry and warm. See that they receive rich nourishing foods thus building up their resistance as well as protecting them from catching colds. Marlow's undoubtedly carry one of the finest stocks of children's wearing apparel in Manchester and for the rest of the week they will offer to the shoppers of Manchester an opportunity to purchase at remarkably low prices several of the necessary items that are invariably needed for the youngster wardrobe at this time of the year. Sleeping garments that will keep him or her warm and comfortable despite a sudden fluctuation of temperature during the night. Heavy winter underwear and outer clothing that will be needed during the cold days ahead as well as during the damp penetrating days so prevalent lately. Proper clothing will help to ward off sickness.

Good Foods
Rich nourishing foods are a vital factor in preserving health. The Popular Market is the place where you may purchase the finest cuts of meats without increasing your food budget. The large purchasing power of this chain makes it possible for them to purchase quality meats at a low figure and to pass the savings thus obtained on to you in lower prices. A great many parents are thus obtaining the finest cuts of meats to serve on their table without an increase of expense. This week to encourage the shoppers of Manchester to try out the money-saving values to be obtained at this markey they will place all their Saturday Specials on sale tomorrow at 1 p. m., and in addition will offer every customer with the purchase of $1.00 or more a pound of lard-free, a beautiful addition to the menu in sea food and the Popular Market on Thursdays and Fridays offers to the public one of the largest selections of sea food obtainable in Manchester at reasonable prices.

The Waranoke Farm handles only rich, pure Jersey milk and cream. Physicians everywhere recognize the health building value of milk and particularly Jersey milk. The Waranoke Farm obtains its milk from its own herd of thoroughbred and tested cattle. If your child is not in the best of health or weakly try giving it pure Jersey milk. You will notice an almost immediate change. Your youngster even if it is in the best of health will build-up

LINDLEY M. GARRISON DIES FROM STROKE

Former Secretary of War and New Jersey Vice Chancellor Was 68 Years Old.

See Bright, N. J., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Relatives gathered here today to arrange funeral services for Lindley M. Garrison, former secretary of war and a vice-chancellor of New Jersey from 1904 to 1913. Mr. Garrison was at his summer home here since early summer. He suffered a series of strokes, the last of which, yesterday, proved fatal. He was 68 years old.

Born in Camden Nov. 18, 1864, Mr. Garrison attended Phillips Exeter Academy, Harvard and received his LL.B. degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1885. He received honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws from New York University, Rutgers, Kenyon and Brown.

Mr. Garrison married Margaret Hildeburn of Philadelphia in 1900. She died some years ago. Surviving are two nieces, Mrs. Douglas Herr of Essex Falls, and Mrs. Merritt Lane of Summit, and an nephew, Carlton Garrison of Cambridge, N. J., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Stanley Wendle, 26, who escaped from the Vermont state prison at Windsor Oct. 4, was captured today in a hotel room. He had served ten years of a minimum six-year sentence when he escaped. Prison officials trailed him through Connecticut and New York cities before catching up with him at Cambridge.

IF YOU GET UP NIGHTS
Try This 25c Test
Physic the bladder as you would the bowels. Drive out impurities and excessive acids that cause irritation, burning and frequent desire. Get a 25c test box of BU-KETS, the bladder physic, from any drug store. After four days if you are not relieved of getting up nights go back and get your money. BU-KETS containing buchu leaves, juniper oil, etc., acts pleasantly and effectively on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. If you are bothered with backache or leg pains caused by bladder disorders you are bound to feel better after this cleansing and you get your regular sleep. J. H. Quinn & Co.—Adv.

AUTOISTS PROTEST

Ansonia, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Frank H. Gates, national vice president of the American Automobile Association at a Rotary meeting here yesterday presented a report of the commissioner, Robbins E. Stoeckel, the activities of constables in the village of Trumbull in the town of Nichols who he said arrest motorists for slight inadvertences. The A. A. A. he said, has been compelled to warn its members to stay out of Nichols and the reputation of the town is such that even residents of the place are ashamed to admit they live there.

Commissioner Stoeckel said that he has a plan whereby mere inadvertences on the part of drivers would not be tried in court. While some constables are motivated only by a sense of their duty, in some instances they are seemingly interested in their fees, the commissioner said.

STORMS IN CANADA

Winnipeg, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Southern and western Manitoba today was digging from under a combination of sleet and snow storms that had already taken the life of one person, paralyzed communication and power lines and left countless automobiles stalled in drifts with an unknown number of occupants.

In the area between Portage la Prairie and Brandon, in western Manitoba, snow fell to a depth of two feet.

The death reported was that of William Fleet, 49, who was killed when his automobile was struck by a train near Portage la Prairie.

MILLS TO REPLY
Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Secretary Mills said today he would reply to the speech last night by Franklin D. Roosevelt, objecting to the administration's fiscal policies and expressing himself on the bonus, on next Tuesday night in Cincinnati.

The Treasury secretary asserted the Democratic nominee was "still dodging" on the bonus issue. "Roosevelt indicated," he told newspapermen, "that if there was surplus in the Treasury he would pay the bonus next week. He hasn't met the issue. He is still dodging. He hasn't indicated whether as president he would sign a bonus bill or not."

CALL of the WEST

BEGIN HERE TODAY

STAN BALL scores ASPER DELO, timber king, of crooked practice and of ordering men shot who are sent to check up on his activities. Ball says he is making a check. Delo says he will personally prevent it. Upon leaving Delo's office Ball saves DONA, Delo's daughter, from kidnapers. He tells her his name is STANLEY BLACK.

DUDLEY WINTERBES, in love with Dona, goes with her to Three Rivers to get Delo to give up the fight with Ball. He tries to marry Dona and gets the certificate signed. Delo is ambushed and wounded badly. SWERGIN, Delo's hard timber boss, blames Ball for the ambush and for the killing of a ranger. Dudley has taken to riding in the hills, hunting Ball. Dona tells her father she has married Dudley and shows the certificate in an attempt to get him away.

Ball comes in for food and hears of the supposed marriage. He is surrounded by a posse. Dona rides out and sees him escaping. She shoots him and he takes a wound, capturing her. He takes her to his cave hideout. Swergin finds the cave while Ball is out and captures her upon his return. He takes Ball to a cabin and sends for men. Dona is sent on ahead while the men plan a lynching.

SUN LAMPS HAVE THEIR MERITS BUT MUST BE USED WITH CARE.
Doctor's Advice Urged for Safety's Sake.

DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

There are now available to those who want to get sunlight various methods of securing the ultra-violet value that it contains. Natural sunlight may have disadvantages that are not associated with the artificial sources, for sunlight is not available on cloudy or rainy days, and varies in intensity with the time of day and with the season of the year.

The use of sunlight outdoors has the added value of fresh air and the stimulation that comes with being outdoors.

The vitamin D value therefore may be available not only in the sunlight and in artificial light, but in irradiated foods, in viosterol, cod liver oil, or in other ways.

There is a lamp that is merely to prevent rickets or a deficiency of vitamin D does not need to be as powerful as one that is used for certain forms of disease. Among the lamps available for use in the home are those which develop ultraviolet through an arc carried by mercury in a quartz tube. The passing of the electric current causes the mercury to pass into the vaporous state. The large lamps are more powerful than sunlight for the amount of ultra-violet that they provide.

There are also available bulbs of the usual incandescent type which have heating tungsten filament and a small pool of mercury. When the current is turned on the filament becomes heated and vaporizes the mercury to establish an arc. Such a lamp is much less intense than the quartz mercury arc. Indeed, Dr. Macrae asserts that its total light intensity at three feet is about one-half that of average sunlight.

Another type is the carbon arc, which develops the ultraviolet through the passing current between two carbons composed of mixtures with various metallic substances. Comparisons have been made as to the value of all of these devices for the prevention of treatment of rickets. It is found that the amount necessary for the prevention of rickets is about one-fourth of that desirable for the cure of this disease.

In determining the exact relationship, it was found that the quartz mercury arc was 30 times as powerful as the mercury tungsten glass arc, and about 100 times as powerful as midday summer sunshine. Moreover, it was 480 times as powerful as winter sunshine, and an ordinary incandescent lamp was so feeble to have little, if any value. The carbon arc has about the same value as the quartz mercury arc.

It is, of course, difficult to select the proper dosage of ultraviolet for various purposes. It is known that overexposure is dangerous. Excessive exposure to ordinary sunshine will bring on listlessness, irritability, fatigue and even fever. Certain skin diseases become worse on the administration of light.

There is the possibility that continuous excessive use may cause the depositing of calcium in the tissues. A certain exposure of the light is beneficial to the development of the red blood cells, but overexposure may do harm.

It is, therefore, well to bear in mind that sunlight or ultraviolet rays should not be had in excess and that in every instance it is even the slightest doubt it is well to consult a physician who has special knowledge of this subject.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olivia Roberts Barton
GIFT BY NEA SERVICE INC.
Every Girl's Education Should Include Homekeeping.

It is interesting to hear people discussing the education of their girls. This school and that school is considered. This one specializes in vocational work, that one in languages, the other in culture and social training.

Clara isn't sure but she thinks she would like to be a secretary. No—maybe she would rather teach and go to a real college and specialize in something. At the last minute she decides it is hard to get a position anyway so perhaps she'll just go to a finishing school and get what she can.

And when the last bag is packed and she boards the train, both in her mind and in her parents' minds there is a vague confusion about the future. The next three or four years are taken care of, but what after that?

Work? Maybe for a while.

This vague confusion, however, contains a certain optimistic form of rather dim optimism. Both Clara and her parents think she will get married.

Oh, yes, she may put in a year or two at a job of some sort, if she has elected the type of school that trains for it, or she may stay at home for a while and fill her time with society. But that is merely incidental and ten to one they all know that she expects to meet some nice young man, marry him, have a nice little home and probably children.

Before Clara departed she was in high school. She had to study a good bit, and then "she was young," as her mother said, "and needed to have a good time." She wasn't asked to help with the house work much, if ever, because "you are only young once and she'll have to come to it soon enough some day."

Practically Forgotten

And they put her on the train for four years at college to fit herself for the practical life she will live afterward but the two or three years' interval, or five perhaps, that lie between her commencement and her wedding day.

Thus such a girl is married she has to start to learn all over again. And I take my hat off to the thousands who do buckle down and learn how to work and keep house. But a large percentage find it utterly foreign to their entire life. Trouble starts naturally when the struggle proves too much for their patience and unpreparedness. Husbands suffer, everything goes wrong, the budget proves contrary. They break up finally, because after four years' preparation in domestic education they are not prepared in any way for their real life work.

Curricula Are Remedied

This is why so many schools this year have added to their curricula practical courses in domestic education, even some of the most fashionable.

At last we are coming to it. Personally I think a girl can learn beautifully at home if her mother is wise and makes up her mind to teach her. Every girl should know how to cook, and sew, and iron and clean, and, yes, to wash, too.

She may have a castle but she is more likely to have a cot.

I believe in education for girls, the more the better. But I do not believe in anything that interferes completely with preparation for an obvious life work. And the obvious life work of most girls is housekeeping.

USE MORE LIPSTICK IN THE EVENING

There are smart lip tricks for evening that the well-groomed girl can learn to use this winter.

The color of your lipstick is all important. No matter how carefully delicate you make your lips for daytime, when night comes you rouge your lips heavily and get away with it.

In fact, unless you do your best by your mouth when you dress for a party you will lack character under the bright glare of electric lights.

If your lips have a thin line, lipstick them clear to the outer edge—and heavily. Use a shade of lipstick that accents your mouth, and remember that red grows darker under bright light and a light lipstick is better than a dark one.

If you have a cupid's bow, or a mouth that remotely resembles the bow perfectly, leave the least bit of an uncolored line down the middle of your upper lip. This adds youth and devastation to the best cupid's bow. Go easy on the lower lip's coloring. Leave all the work to the upper one, to get the best effect.

If your mouth is just plain uninteresting, and you admit it to yourself in the privacy of your own boudoir, here is a trick you can try. Lipstick the under lip heavily, touch the upper one lightly. This gives an intriguing, different look to the face that your best friend may be puzzled about, but fascinated by, nevertheless.

And whatever type of lips you draw this winter, be sure to color the inside of the lip as well. Even a bit of lipstick on the gums is a good idea. It gives a vital, healthy look.

Winter clothes demand new make-up. Using the brilliant clear rouges and lipsticks of sunny summer with the dull, rich zimia colors of winter clothes throws your whole color scheme off balance.

Winter make-up is less expensive this year. There is little excuse for not changing color with the times.

If you are going in for the new wines or plum shades in your clothes, just reflect on what a mistake it is to use bright, tawny make-up or deep, clear definite. Step up to the counters in your department or drug stores, or into a beauty shop, and spend 15 minutes looking at the new shades.

You match up your gloves and stockings or your dresses and hats. Why not learn to match your cheeks and lips to your clothes? At least get the same family of reds, or get reds that go nicely with the blues, the grays or the browns that you are using.

Not only wash your rouge and lipstick off at night, but do something about your eye-shade, your eye-brow color and your powder.

A survey of types, made recently, has revealed that there are more women and girls of "medium" type of coloring, mid-way between blonde and brunette, than either definite type. Many makers have new "medium" toned powders on the market for use with the new clothes.

There is a difference this winter in daytime and evening powder. There always has been, as a matter of fact, but now everyone can have herself of the opportunity to look a little different in the evening by getting one of the new boxes of powder that have two-tones in one box, one for daytime and the other for evening.

ing through the station, I saw a woman, carrying an infant, stop to unlock one of the vaults. She took out a change of baby clothing, dressed the child there before the eyes of the hurrying throng, deposited some packages, and then took her infant along for another assault upon the bargain counters.

A station guard said it was by no means the first time he had seen that performance there.

CHAPTER XXXII

Dona rode down the trail slowly. Stan Ball's black mare did not want to go. The horse kept turning her head and edging off the trail. But she remembered that her master had given her orders to obey the slender girl so she made a half-hearted attempt to step along.

The lumberjack who was acting as Dona's escort did not seem to mind riding slowly. That morning he had shot her and his big, raw-boned frame jolted up and down when his horse trotted.

Torn between a wild eagerness to be back with her father and fear that all was not well on the back trail, Dona rode along. Dudley scarcely entered her thoughts. So many strange things had happened in the past week, so many amazing twists of fate, that life had begun to seem unreal. Always a girl under Dona's decision, rapidly and drove straight to a finish, she was surprised at her present state of uncertainty.

She could not understand Stanley Ball with his clear gray eyes, his chirpy talk and his fearlessness in the face of death itself. How could a man like that be an outlaw and killer? The question kept pounding in her brain as she rode.

The black mare's hoofs clicked on the trail with an even rhythm and soon Dona's thoughts were beating to the same measure. Ball had admitted that he was guilty of all the charges against her. That meant he had shot her father, killed a ranger and wounded several men. Dona was back exactly where she had started. But a man who had committed such crimes would never have treated her with the respect and dignity that Ball had shown each time they had met.

The escort was riding ahead now. He had eased himself in the saddle by throwing one leg around the horn and his body jolted grotesquely as his horse picked its way. Dona watched him narrowly.

She slowed her horse a little to see if he were watching her out of the tail of his eye. This man slowed, too, and she knew that he was keeping a close check on her movements. Suddenly Dona pushed the mare ahead and rode abreast of him.

"Do you suppose they have the job done yet?" She motioned with her hand in the direction from which they had come.

The man looked at her, then grinned. "They'll bring him down the trail a ways, then—" He jerked upward with one thumb and his grin widened.

Dona's lips went white. "I'm going back to put a stop to it!" she cried.

The black mare had halted. The man pulled his horse to a stop. "No use to butt in," he growled.

"I'm going back!" she cried. "I'm going back!" The girl's eyes were ablaze and her lips trembling.

The dull fellow beside her drew a deep breath of admiration at Dona's striking beauty, but he shook his head. "All over by now," he grunted.

Dona took in the situation at a glance. Her companion was unbalanced in his saddle. One leg was cast over the horse. His gun hung from his hip on her side while his big hands rested on the saddle horn. He was drinking in the picture she made. With a lightning movement Dona lashed out with her quirt, at the same time swinging the black mare up against the other horse. The lashing leather strips cut across the fellow's eyes and cheeks, blinding him. Dona reached over and jerked his gun loose, then cut his horse cruelly across its flanks. The animal snorted and leaped into the air. Like a big sack of meal, the man sailed into the air and landed in a heap on the ground.

Dona did not wait to see if her victim arose. She ran the black mare up against the back trail. Would she be in time? The question pounded in her brain.

but no one in the group facing them cared to test his aim.

The black mare whirled suddenly and was off like a flash. Three leaps took her to cover and Stan lowered his gun. He saw that Dona had dropped here and that she had slumped forward over the saddle horn. He slipped an arm around her and held her thus while the mare fled to the safety of the high country.

Stan placed several miles between him and the posse before he halted. He doubled back and rode across his trail to come out on the same side of the slope as the men had been on. At a cool spring he dismounted and carried Dona to a grassy bank. Laying her down gently, he brought cool water in his cupped hands and began bathing her face.

Her eyes flickered open and she sat up. Stan smiled as the girl stared at him with a foolish look on her face.

"I thank you," he said simply.

Dona mopped the water from her face. It was a face that mirrored mingled emotions.

"I seem to be a prisoner again," she said and a little smile puckered her full lips.

"Not for longer than you wish," he replied.

"Then I must get home at once," the girl said and stood up shakily. Stan Ball bowed and offered her a steady hand which she grasped. The inconsistency of Dona's actions made him smile. She had rescued him and now she wanted him to take her into camp in broad daylight, an act that would be sure to place him once more in the very danger from which he had just escaped.

STAGG, BORN POOR, AIMS AT MINISTRY

Here Is First of Three Stories On Life of Famous Athlete and Coach, Retired Because of Age Limit.

EDITOR'S NOTE: In this story, the first of a series of three on the life of Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg, young Stagg is taken through his boyhood struggles prior to his appearance at Yale in 1884.

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Editor

Amos Alonzo Stagg, the man who was to coach at the University of Chicago for 41 years, and who was to earn among other tributes that of Knute Rockne who called him "the greatest of them all," started out in life to become a minister. And it cannot be said that he suffered any great change of mind in becoming a football coach, for Stagg retains a great deal of the kindly old small-town parson. Of all the coaches I know, the term "character-builder" comes nearest to fitting Stagg.

He was born into a poor family at West Orange, N. J., Aug. 16, 1862. His father, Amos Lindley Stagg, was the father of six other children, and every one of them had to keep busy to make both ends meet. Young Stagg had the usual chores that fall to the lot of a poor boy—chopping wood, carrying coal, weeding the garden, starting fires in the stove.

If he had followed the example of the young men with whom he played the games of boyhood, Stagg would have terminated his schooling after the fourth grade. A high school education in those days marked a young man as distinctly "upper class."

There was something of his ancestors in the boy, some of the indomitable spirit that carried them through the Revolution as brave soldiers for the Colonies.

He decided he would go through high school at all costs. There was no high school in West Orange, and in order to enter the high school in Orange, Stagg had to think up some way of paying tuition without money.

He did it by attending to furnaces, mowing lawns and other odd jobs that got him out of bed early and kept him up late. He completed his course in three years, and got the idea that he would like to become a minister.

The tuition fee at Yale then was $50 a term, and Stagg, seeing no way to acquire that much money, wrote to President Noah Porter at Yale, asking for help, or advice. President Porter replied that "opportunities for self-help present themselves and are soon discovered by those who keep their eyes open to discern them."

The first big hurdle Stagg faced was the entrance examinations. Some sort of preparatory school work was necessary. Stagg decided to try Phillips Exeter. He worked hard during the summer after his high school graduation, but despite heroic economy, was unable to save enough to start at the prep school until after the Christmas holidays.

He then had $21, and a suit that had been given to him by his friend, George Gill, son of the mayor of Orange.

It must have been a battle. Stagg himself used to say that that winter at Phillips Exeter was the bitterest winter he ever spent. He lived on a 15-cent-a-day allowance for food, which for the most part was milk and bread. He dwelt in an unheated garret, where he struggled with the intricacies of mathematics, Latin and Greek.

Stagg's first prowess in athletics was on the baseball diamond. He was not proficient at football as a boy in grammar school or later in high school. It was his ambition to become a pitcher.

As a boy of 13 he struggled with a curve ball, and he used to pitch hours daily trying to master a "bender." Finally, one day he was rewarded, and he ran excitedly into the kitchen to exclaim to his mother, "I've got it!"

At Phillips Exeter, Stagg became well known to college recruiting agencies which even in that ancient day were functioning, and he received several invitations from local schools, assuring him of a position on the varsity nine if he would enroll.

He might have taken one of these but there were no divinity schools at the colleges which invited his matriculation. He had set his mind upon becoming a "preacher."

He determined to take a chance, to appear at Yale and in the words of President Porter to "keep his eyes open and discern whatever opportunities for self-help presented themselves."

He was 22 years old, and he had $22 in his pockets when he presented himself at Yale in 1884 as a would-be divinity student.

It was hardly suspected that September day that here was a man who was to become one of the greatest athletes in Yale history and one of the world's outstanding leaders in sports.

Soccer Notes By Observer

As a result of the games last Sunday the position of the teams in the League standing remain unchanged.

The Portuguese, however, have established themselves more firmly in first place. Their victory over the United was more or less expected. Now that they have gotten a clear lead it is going to be difficult to dislodge them.

The victory of the Hartford soccer club over the local last Sunday brought them close on the heels of the United for second place. The two teams meet on Sunday to dispute each other's claim to hold the second place standing.

League Standing	Won	Lost	Tied	Pts
Portuguese	4	0	0	8

Games for Sunday, Oct. 23: United vs. Hartford at Hartford; Manchester vs. Chance Vought at Manchester; Germania vs. Portuguese at Gastonbury.

I Hear That: Three of the local players are now on the injured list. They are, Thompson, A. Lindsay, and J. McDowell. They are expected to be out of the game for several weeks.

Many of the local followers are wondering when A. Rollinson, the local player who is at present with the Hartford Soccer club, is going to take the necessary steps to don a striped jersey for the home town team. He scored two goals last Sunday and gave a good all-around display.

F. Hewitt who has played several games at outside left for the locals has asked to be released. It is understood that Frank intends to leave town soon. His official release has been forwarded to the proper authorities.

The arrangements for the Soccer game on Armistice Day is proceeding apace. The veterans have gotten together quite an imposing array of players and they are quite serious as to probable ending of the game. The players names which follow are requested to keep in close contact with W. Moore and J. McCallough at the B. A. Club, E. Corcoran, S. Corcoran, T. Corcoran, B. McVeigh, F. Cunningham, T. Martin, W. Hudson, A. Smith, M. Patton, D. McConkey, D. Vennert, J. Vennert, S. Little, M. Dreyburg, J. Watt, G. Poots and J. Poits.

W. Brennan is quite pleased over the enthusiasm shown by the players at his bi-weekly classes. Incidentally, Bill also admits that the training is also getting himself into good shape.

Bob Mason who played with the two Manchester teams several years ago is coming around this week to get into shape again and hopes he will be ready to turn out a week from Sunday.

EAGLES MEET MARQUETTE
Boston, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The undefeated Boston College Eagles take wing today for Milwaukee, with high hopes of checking the golden avalanche from Marquette after three consecutive setbacks.

Coch J. McKenny has named 26 players for the trip and every one of them is in prime shape for the Eagles have had little work since the Columbus Day game with Centre College. McKenny hopes to open up his aerial back for the first time this season against Marquette, for Pete Chemulovich, keyman in the passing plays, has regained his peak after a long lay-off with injuries.

STAGG AS A BOY—AND A CHICAGO CUTUP

One of Amos Alonzo Stagg's earliest pictures, taken when he was 5 years old, is shown at the left. Stagg in a playful mood, shortly after going to Chicago as coach, 41 years ago, is pictured at the right.

COACH SUTHERLAND GUESSES WINNERS

Picks Army, Harvard, Colgate, Stanford, Tulane, Minnesota Among Others.

By DR. J. B. "JOCK" SUTHERLAND
Champions of the various sectors of football will be decided during the next few weeks. In the games of Saturday, Oct. 22, some strong teams are opposed, and close scores forecast.

Here are my guesses at the results of Saturday's games: YALE-ARMY—We beat Army last week, but had a strenuous day doing it. Yale has not shown enough, in my opinion, to defeat Army.

DARTMOUTH-HARVARD—Dartmouth gives evidence of having a powerful team, but I think Harvard has too much steam for the New Hampshire boys.

PITT-OHIO STATE—Pitt will meet the test here. Ohio State showed more against Michigan than the scores indicate. I think Ohio State will win it.

NAVY-PRINCETON—Navy was beaten by Ohio University last Saturday, and will be anxious to redeem itself against Princeton. I pick Navy.

COLGATE-NEW YORK U.—The New Yorkers, working under a new system, may not be far enough along to hold Colgate in this game. I favor Colgate.

MICHIGAN STATE-FORDHAM—Fordham looks to me like a decided favorite in this game.

CHICAGO INDIANA—This seems to be Stagg's best team in years, but the same is true of Indiana. Indiana is too powerful for Chicago.

KANSAS-NEBRASKA—Despite the one-point defeat by Minnesota, Nebraska looks for a good year, and should have not too much trouble beating Kansas.

OKLAHOMA-KANSAS AGGIES—Oklahoma has a fine team this year and should win.

COLORADO-COLORADO AGGIES—Colorado seems to have the edge.

MISSOURI-IOWA STATE—I pick Iowa State.

TEXAS-TEXAS AGGIES—This one appears to be already won by the Aggies.

GEORGIA-VANDERBILT—Two well-matched teams. A tie score would not surprise me.

TULANE-AUBURN—Tulane will have trouble beating Auburn, but I think it will win by a close score.

KENTUCKY-V. P. I.—Both teams are unusually strong, but V. P. I. impressed me as the stronger and therefore the winner.

FLORIDA-NORTH CAROLINA STATE—North Carolina State by a good margin.

TEXAS-RICE—Texas should win by a good score.

Punts—Passer

(By Associated Press)
Newton, Mass.—At least the Boston College players won't be stale from too much practice when they meet Marquette Saturday. They leave for Milwaukee today with only two full practice sessions behind them since the Center game October 12.

Cambridge—A little thing like rain can't stop Eddie Casey, Harvard's coach. Casey discovered a set of portable goal posts and set them up in the baseball cage for an indoor drill for his kickers.

West Point—Army's coaches can't quite understand why the Cadets are rated as strong favorites over Yale, the Elis have a strong defensive line, they say, and fewer points have been scored against Yale than against Army. They also point out that a week is not much time in which to recuperate from the Pitt game.

Hanover—It's just one hard blow after another for Dartmouth's hopes. The latest is that Al Baldwin, veteran tackle, will be out of the Harvard game. He suffered a recurrence of an old ankle injury when playing against Penn and has an attack of boils besides.

STRICKEN AT FIGHT
Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 20.—(AP)—John Brandt, manager and vice-president of the American Trap Shooting Association died of a heart attack here last night. Brandt was stricken while attending a fight and died enroute to a hospital.

WHITE SOX PILOT PLANS MOVIES TO EDUCATE ROOKIES

Attendance At Baseball Films Will Be Part of Daily Stint At Spring Training.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—(AP)—White Sox rookies will have plenty of time to go to the movies next spring when they go into training at Pasadena, Cal.

Attendance at movies—baseball movies—will be a required part of their daily stint under Manager Lew Fonseca's new educational program.

Billy Sullivan, young first baseman-catcher, is an amateur movie cameraman and he shot four reels of baseball as played by league leaders during the fall end of the 1932 season. These form the nucleus for Fonseca's celluloid curriculum.

Ted Lyons, ace pitcher, is the hero of one, showing how to keep runners on bases, his change of pace, and other club tricks. Fonseca himself enacted a real demonstrating approved batting style, how to get a fast start to steal a base and sliding.

Fonseca's only misgivings are what the reaction of Al "Bucket Foot" Simmons, slugging new acquisition from the Athletics, will be when his notoriously unorthodox form is flashed on the screen as an example of how not to bat!

NATIONAL GUARD SPONSORS EXTENSIVE SPORTS PROGRAM

Little College's Victory Spelled Fame For Metcalf

Oberlin, O., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Oberlin 7; Ohio State 6.
That was the score back in 1921 which embosomed Thomas Nelson Metcalf's name in football's hall of fame and started him on the path that has led to the post of director of athletics succeeding Amos Alonzo Stagg at Chicago University.

Oberlin, coached by Metcalf, was a small school. Ohio State was a prospective Big Ten champion. The Oberlin eleven was supposed to put up a good "practice game" for the big machine down state.

Instead, the game was one of those surprising upsets in which the underdog not only won but showed a clear superiority. Oberlin went on to finish the season undefeated.

Metcalf played on Oberlin's football team at end, but was too light to much damage. He was better at track, being the first man west of the Alleghenies to run two miles in less than ten minutes.

After graduation he was an assistant coach at Oberlin two years and head coach one year, then went to Columbia for his doctor's degree, where he became coach and led Columbia through an undefeated season in 1915.

Metcalf was back at Oberlin from 1919 to 1922, letting other teams, including Cornell and Ohio State, defeat his proteges but three times in four years. Two years at the University of Minnesota as head of physical education were followed by eight years of similar work at Iowa.

ATTENDANCE DROPS AT COLLEGE GAMES

May Lead To Further Reduction In Prices, A. P. Is Told; East Suffers.

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The football public is getting "choosier" about its games and even the enthusiastic "old grad" wants his money's worth when he goes back for a game is indicated in reports of a general decrease in attendance at college contests this season.

Reports from all over the country show declines of from 10 to 50 per cent from last year's figures and gate receipts falling off even more. Many colleges plan further reductions in the hope of bringing out the crowds, but a few instances of increased attendance show that the crowds are still there when the games are good or a team is having a better than usual season.

The East, the Midwest, the Rocky Mountain district and parts of the South have produced a few "big crowds" at Stanford, Utah, Auburn, North Carolina State, Duke and a few other colleges report general gains.

The East and the Big Ten have suffered seriously from the declines, however, and retrenchment plans are under way. William J. Birmingham, director of athletics at Harvard, where attendance has been poor, outlined the situation in the East along with a suggestion for solvent problem.

"The decline in gate receipts for the big games," Birmingham said, "will lead to further reduction of prices," he told the Associated Press. "It is possible a solution will be found in establishing a wider range of prices for major contests, the top price for which now is $4 plus tax, less than it was a year ago."

COLGATE-N. Y. U. BATTLE FEATURES

Game May Prove Most Exciting In East; Both Teams Unbeaten To Date.

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Two teams which have been keeping their gridiron feasts pretty much to themselves during the hulloaboo over the early season big games, Colgate and N. Y. U., offer what may be one of the most exciting and decisive games on this week's Eastern football program.

After defeating Robert and Rutgers, New York University came to life last week against first major opponent and ran Georgetown ragged. On the same afternoon Colgate crushed a strong Lafayette team.

The Colgate-N. Y. U. game is the only one this week which brings together two of the east's unbeaten leaders although many of the "big" teams encounter plenty of opposition.

Harvard another candidate for sectional honors which has not been fully tested, encounters an old and tough rival in Dartmouth, while Ohio State and Michigan State furnish severe inter-sectional opposition for Pittsburgh and Fordham. Carnegie goes west to meet Notre Dame, looking for an upset at the best and Boston College plays Marquette at Milwaukee. Columbia, Penn and Brown take on minor opposition in Williams, Lehigh and Tufts respectively.

Competing with these leaders for the attention of fandom are such traditional struggles as Yale-Armv, in which the Cadets figure to have an easy victory. Others are Princeton-Navy; Penn State-Syracuse and Wesleyan-Amherst.

Both Companies Vote To Back Basketball Team Also Plan Amateur Boxing At Armory; McVeigh and Hathaway In Charge.

The local National Guard units—Company G and the Howitzers—are planning to sponsor an extensive sports program this winter, it was announced today by Captain James McVeigh of Company G, who with Captain Russell E. Hathaway of the Howitzers, has been placed in charge of arrangements. The program will open with basketball and boxing and if these two projects prove successful, the companies will consider other athletic and social entertainment.

Both companies have voted to sponsor the National Guard basketball team this year, and Wilfred Clarke, High School mentor, has again been appointed to coach the squad, which enjoyed a most successful season last year. Clarke intends to put another high-class team on the floor and this should assure the support of the public.

At the present time, plans are indefinite as to the program of boxing bouts, but committees headed by Captains McVeigh and Hathaway will meet in the near future to discuss and perfect plans for the operation of bouts at the Armory.

The presentation of amateur boxing bouts is favored but professional bouts will probably be presented once in a while. It is felt that Manchester would be an ideal place in which to hold a sport of the kind, because of its nearness to Hartford and other points where fight enthusiasts abound. The success of amateur boxing will possibly lead to the sponsoring of other sports by the companies. The large amount of floor space available at the Armory, makes the building a likely place for an athletic or social program.

Frank Busch, director of the Recreation Centers, is assisting the companies in an advisory capacity. In announcing the companies' plans, Captain McVeigh said that in his opinion athletics should be a part of the National Guard program. Not alone to make a financial profit, but also for the physical benefits that are derived from sports of all kinds.

YALE REGULARS BACK IN LINEUP SATURDAY

New Haven, Oct. 20.—(AP)—It's been nothing but bad news for the Elis during their hapless football season, but Yale followers think the tide might be changing. Bob O'Connell, injured since the early part of the season, is back on the job to bolster up Mal Stevens rather inadequate supply of ends.

O'Connell was sent in at his old post at left end to replace Gil Wright when he reported for yesterday's practice. Stevens also announced that Bob Lessor, left half-back who has been bothered by injuries since the start of the season, was expected to be in tip-top form for the Army game Saturday. The Elis outplayed on some new plays yesterday, and heard a lecture from Stevens on how to stop Army plays.

REG FIVE PRACTICE

The Red Five basketball team will practice at the school gymnasium 7 o'clock tonight. All local players are invited to try out for the team.

SCHAAF-WINSTON IN NON-TITLE GO

Technicality Removes Heavyweight Crown From Tonight's Bout In Boston.

Boston, Oct. 20.—(AP)—A technicality has caused the Massachusetts Boxing Commission to remove the New England heavyweight title trappings from tonight's Ernie SchAAF-Unknown Winston bout and shorten the distance from 12 to 10 rounds.

The boxing officials ruled that since Jack Sharkey was also the world champion, he was also the New England titlist, despite the fact that Sharkey has no intention of appearing in any ring in this section except for exhibition purposes.

SchAAF claimed the sectional title after knocking out Jimmy Maloney about a year ago.

SchAAF is a top-heavy favorite over the Waterbury negro, a dangerous foe during the early rounds, when he gambles all on a speedy knockout. This pair met in Holyoke early in the summer, and SchAAF made a sorry showing during the opening stages. The negro, however, faded rapidly when his stiff rights failed to bother the rugged Viking.

This engagement, however, had a sorry effect on SchAAF, for he was decisively beaten in his next two starts, by Stanley Poreda and Maxie Bear. The Boston blond will battle, unadvised by Sharkey, his co-manager for the world champion in now hunting big game in Nova Scotia.

CHAPTER OAK GIRLS BOWL BRISTOL GIRLS

Tomorrow night at Farr's alleys, the fast Bristol Girls bowling team will meet the Charter Oak Girls. The match is slated for 8 o'clock sharp.

Another match is also booked at the same alleys, between Cleary's Hot Dogs and the Coventry Road Crushers. This is the first appearance of Cleary's Hot Dogs which is under the captaincy of Mike Sulis. This match is also slated for 8 o'clock.

LEAGUE MEETING
Another effort is being made to get the captains of the various teams which took part in the Commercial League last season to meet tomorrow night at Farr's alleys. Five teams have already signified their intention to join the league, British Americans, Sub-Alps, St. Mary's, Independents and Pirates. The league would like to hear from the Construction, Bon Ami and the Officers, or any other organization that would like to enter a team. Don't forget tomorrow night at Farr's alleys.

VARIETIES OF STEERING ILS Some idea of the complicated nature of steering trouble can be seen in the number of general conditions that should be looked for.

CARS develop the habit of wandering and weaving, which may be due to too little caster, loose wheels, tight steering assembly or to defective shock absorbers.

CHECKS REAR TIRE WEAR When a front tire starts to look funny the average motorist takes it for granted that there is something wrong with the steering or the alignment.

CAR SPEED SPEEDS RUST How car speed itself has become one of the leading causes of the speeding up of radiator rusting is one of the most interesting of the modern chapters in motoring.

FREE WHEEL SAVES PLUGS Because so many drivers have used free wheeling unlawfully there is a tendency to overlook the various savings which it can effect.

NOT FAULT OF GENERATOR The generator is blamed for many things that do not concern it at all. This is especially true of difficulty in obtaining a satisfactory charging rate.

HITCH-HIKER STYLES El Paso, Tex.—Introducing a new style of hitch-hikers proved to be disappointing to Hazel Dye, 18, and Dorothy Roe, 17, of Chicago.

HOW'S SHE HITTING

By NEA Service

The most pleasant music to the ears of the automobile driver is the sweet purring of a motor.

THE most atrocious noise, for which there's no excuse, is the squeaking of the brakes.

Brake squeaking is the result of a scraping or plowing action of metal on metal in the lining.

Metal dust comes from scratching of the brake drum by the wire in the brake lining, high rivet heads, or particles of steel from the drum itself.

It is sometimes the least divergence from true circularity that causes brake bands to wear down at one point and cause squealing.

Use of a lubricant is not advised to take the squeal out of brakes. Sometimes dry powdered graphite, which will not collect dirt, is applied, but even this is only a makeshift.

Application of an oily or greasy lubricant is dangerous. It often leads to violent seizing of the brakes, causing uncomfortable driving and perhaps serious damage to the car.

Nine-tenths of the brake jobs that go to service stations, it is estimated, are found to have no free movement at the exterior of the support of the brake.

This is like a brake lining out of true, causing hard spots, particles to be ground out by the brake action so that squealing is the result.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

What This Country Needs
 More Buy and less Cry,
 More Spunk and less Bunk,
 More He Men and fewer Yes Men,
 More Know Men and fewer Yes Men,
 More Work and less Shirk,
 More Trying and less Sighing,
 More Leg Shaking and less Head Shaking.

Young Wife—I must apologize for the cake I made, dear. I think I left something out.
Husband—Nothing you left out could make a cake taste like this. It must be something you put in.

For everything one is given he is denied something else. For instance, one can't have youth and discretion too .... Think it over.

Mr. Shatterfox—What did you hear at the Opera yesterday, dear?
Mrs. Shatterfox—All sorts of things. Dan Hooker is going bankrupt, Mrs. Amos Maynard has dyed her hair, and the Whittington's are having a divorce.

She—Who was that girl you just spoke to?
He—Never mind, darling. I'll have enough trouble telling her who you are.

First Flea—Where will you send little Hoppy when he grows up?
Second Flea—Oh, I suppose he'll go to the dogs like his father.

The following is a reply received by Guilford College, North Carolina, in answer to an advertisement they inserted in the paper:
 Gentlemen:
 "In reply to your advertisement for an organist and music teacher, either lady or gentleman; Having been both for several years, I offer my services."

"Men will wear brown this winter," says a style expert. They will if they did last winter.

Office Visitor—I desire no remuneration for this poem. I merely submit it as a compliment.
Editor (with true journalistic courtesy)—Then, my dear sir, allow me to return the compliment.

Edith—Joe is going to the dogs, isn't he?
Harold—Well, at least he's meeting them more than halfway.

English Professor—Tell me one or two things about John Milton.
Student—Well, he got married and he wrote 'Paradise Lost'. Then his wife died and he wrote 'Paradise Regained.'

Stray Stuff—There are several young men in Manchester whose incomes is about 2 a. m.—It wouldn't do for women to be too smart, else there would be a lot more backslaps than there are.—Courtesy time is pretty apt to be turned down.—Printed letterheads are a great institution. They help you translate a business man's signature.—It is claimed that nobody knows just what static is. We do. It is a blamed nuisance.—How can you keep yourself warm at night? Reach for a blanket instead of a sheet.

Ship Captain—Would you like to see my bridge?
Lady Passenger—Sir!

The man who has a fairly good job and starts in for himself, usually finds he had better have stuck to the job. True, many men have lost their jobs. But also, many men have lost their business.

An honest confession is good for the soul, but it has to be snappy to be good enough for the tabloids.

You needn't ever expect to find a person, who will scratch your back and not expect you to scratch his.

Joe—I've changed my mind.
Josephine—Well, does it work any better?
