HOOVER PLANS REST BEFORE HIS RETURN

To Take Leisure Auto Rides With Family In California; May Start For the Capital On Saturday.

Palo Alto, Calif., Nov. 10.—(AP)—President Hoover settled himself back even more firmly in his home here today, determined to obtain a complete rest before returning to Washington to prepare for the meeting of Congress and the last four months of his administration.

Aides of the President said arrangements had been made for several California delegations, and individual friends, to meet him this afternoon but that otherwise the scene of the Hoover home would remain quiet.

The town became more accustomed to the President. The bunting and banners saying "Welcome Home" which had been swung across the streets, were removed last yesterday.

Prepare for Return. Tentative arrangements have been made for Mr. Hoover and the party which accompanied him as he campaigned across the continent to board their special train again Saturday night for a return by a southern route.

This morning aides worked to complete the President's schedule, with two routes under consideration, either of which would carry him south to Los Angeles before turning eastward.

Mr. Hoover today devoted more time to his family than the duties of his office and his campaign have allowed him for many months. His two sons, Herbert Jr., and Allan, along with the wife of the former and their three children, remained at the Hoover home.

Plan Auto Trip. With Mrs. Hoover, the President planned several automobile rides which would carry them over routes they both knew together during the years of their residence here, where both attended the university.

Several formal requests were made to the President yesterday to issue a statement on the outcome of the election, one from Chairman Everett Sanders of the Republican National committee, but he declined, saying his telegram of congratulation to Franklin D. Roosevelt was sufficient.

EIGHTEEN WOMEN IN NEW ASSEMBLY

Three Less Than in 1931; 14 Republicans and Four Democrats Among Them.

New Haven, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The feminine representation in the 1932 Connecticut House will be three short of its 1931 mark. Eighteen women were elected to seats in the Lower branch of the Legislature, returns from Tuesday's election show, while none were chosen in the Senate. Two years ago 21 women were sent to the House.

The new group is composed of 14 Republicans and four Democrats. Ten of the group served in the last session. Fairfield county retains its claim to having the largest number of women Legislators having chosen ten for the new House.

DOZEN KILLED, SEVENTY HURT, AS MOB RIOTS

Young Swiss Troopers Turn Machine Guns On Crowd; One Soldier Is Slain During the Fighting.

Geneva, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The tragedy of a fatal riot echoed through this "city of peace" today after a company of young troopers had turned machine guns on a hissing crowd, killing 12 men and wounding seventy persons. The angry mob killed one soldier.

The disturbance came last night as the climax of weeks of bitter political agitation between Socialists and the local Geneva government.

It began in front of Community Hall where an anti-Socialist political meeting was being held. When the hall became full, the gendarmes closed the doors, but the crowd broke through.

Several hours after quiet had been restored around Community Hall last night, the area was dotted by groups of working men and students discussing the battle.

Denounce Capitalists. Some were denouncing the "capitalistic regime" but most of them were talking quietly of the deadly ammunition of arms in the capital of the League of Nations and seat of the world disarmament conference.

Nicole was arrested today and accused of fomenting revolution. The newspaper Le Journal said street spearmaking preceded the riot and Nicole had been haranguing the crowd.

"To the government which has mobilized against us the police and

NEW MEMORIAL TO UNKNOWN SOLDIER

America again has honored its Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery. A white marble tomb has been superimposed over the slightly elevated temporary granite tomb where the Unknown Soldier was buried with fitting honors in 1921. The new tomb is the work of Thomas Hudson Jones, sculptor, and Lorimer Rich, architect, both ex-servicemen, and was completed for dedication Armistice Day. It is 11 feet high and approximately nine feet at the base. The panel on the end facing the Potomac river depicts three figures symbolizing Valor, Victory and Courage. On the end facing the amphitheater is the inscription "Here lies in honored glory an American soldier known but to God." Above is a view from the amphitheater looking toward the Potomac with the new tomb in the foreground. Below is the view looking toward the amphitheater from the fountain plaza.

GORMLEY MAY PETITION FOR A RECOUNT IN FIFTH

Naugatuck Democrat Defeated For Seat In Congress By Less Than One Hundred Votes.

By Associated Press. The possibility of a recount in the Fifth Congressional District and consequences to the effect of a politically divided General Assembly will have on the legislative program of Governor Cross followed today in the wake of the elections in Connecticut.

Martin E. Gormley (D) of Naugatuck, apparently defeated for the seat in Congress from the 5th District by less than 100 votes by the Republican incumbent, E. W. Goss, was reported as planning to petition for a recount. The Democratic nominee, who was beaten by Goss two years ago, refused to concede defeat in Tuesday's election and has twenty days in which to file a petition for a recount.

FARMER-LABORITES WIN IN MINNESOTA

Three Definitely Elected; Three Others Are Leading the Field Today.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Farmers-Laborites will dominate Minnesota's delegation of nine Representatives in the National House with three definitely elected today and three others ranking among the nine leaders in an at-large election among 31 candidates.

Magnus Johnson, former U. S. Senator, Paul John Kvale, incumbent, and Lieut.-Gov. Henry Arens, became certain winners today.

They moved to under the power of the Farmer-Labor landslide which re-elected Floyd B. Olson, promised the party several other state offices and gave a big majority to Governor Roosevelt who had Olson's endorsement.

Only one of five Republican Congressional incumbents who survived the primaries held a place among the nine leaders today. He is August H. Anderson, in the precarious ninth position. Closely followed by three other Republicans are Harold Knutson, W. I. Nolan and C. G. Selvig. Only one Democrat was among the leaders, Einar Holdale, in sixth place.

A Republican, Theodore Christensen, former governor, led the candidates of his party to hold fifth position with Raymond Lundeen, Farmer-Laborite, in fourth place. Ray P. Chase, Republican, seventh and F. E. Shoemaker, Farmer-Labor, eighth, Lundeen and Shoemaker gained steadily in returns from rural districts which came in slowly as wintry weather left many rural roads blocked.

Voters favoring adoption of a constitutional amendment to authorize a state income tax held a small lead over their opponents but victory was doubtful as a petition requires a majority of all votes cast.

Senator Concedes Defeat; Elected by 50,000 Votes

Newark, N. J., Nov. 10.—(AP)—From an electoral hat which overflowed yesterday morning with an apparent fifty thousand votes advantage for his Democratic opponent, U. S. Senator W. Warren Barbour had pulled today a plurality which will send him back to the Senate.

By the expression "match victory from defeat" ever was apt, it was particularly so today in this contest by Warren Barbour, Republican and Percy H. Stewart, Dem., for the unexpired term of the late Dwight D. Moore.

At noon yesterday Senator Barbour, now serving by appointment, conceded defeat.

SEN. FOX TO ASK FOR RECOUNT, TOO

New London Democrat Claims He Was Not Defeated By Dr. Higgins.

New London, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Former State Senator William C. Fox, Democrat of this city, who on the face of still uncompleted unofficial returns, has been defeated by Dr. William L. Higgins of Coventry for election as Congressman in this district, said today that he would ask for a recount.

Aaron Cook To Represent Shaw, Aldrich and Company With Office In Orford Block.

Announcement has been made today of the opening of a brokerage office in the Orford building by Aaron Cook, of 565 East Middle Turnpike, representing Shaw, Aldrich and Company, Hartford brokers. Mr. Cook has prepared himself for a financial career by studies in several of the leading schools in the country and solicits the patronage of his many Manchester friends. A son of one of Manchester's oldest families, Aaron Cook was born in Manchester and attended Manchester's elementary schools, graduating from the Manchester High school with the class of 1929. He continued his studies, taking an engineering course in Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Worcester, Mass., for one year, in 1927 and attended the Connecticut Business College, graduating in 1928. Mr. Cook graduated from the Bentley School of Accounting in 1930 followed by a course in the Babson Institute in Wellesley, Mass. Last October he was a candidate for the Board of Selectmen on the insistence of his many friends and polled a large vote for a young candidate in politics, being elected. His father and grandfather were prominent in civic affairs. His father, Arthur Cook, represented the town in the General Assembly and was a member of the Board of Selectmen.

GALSWORTHY WINS THE NOBEL PRIZE

Noted British Novelist Honored For His Work in the Literary Field.

Stockholm, Sweden, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The 1932 Nobel prize for literature was bestowed today upon John Galsworthy, the British novelist. The author of "The Forsyte Saga" had been mentioned in newspaper predictions as the probable recipient of the award. Last year's prize was won by Erik A. Karlfeldt, of Sweden. Mr. Galsworthy, who received the prize in 1932, was the first American to be so honored. Since 1901 when the prizes were established under the will of Alfred N. Nobel, Swedish scientist who invented dynamite, only two other Englishmen have won the award for literature. Rudyard Kipling took it in 1907 and George Bernard Shaw in 1925.

Mr. Galsworthy, now 65, published his first novel, "Jocelyn", in 1898 under the nom de plume of John Galsworthy. It was not till 1907 that he attracted general attention with "The Island of Phalaros," the first of a series of novels dealing with the problems of the social world. His famous works

The most famous of his works, of course, are those comprising the Forsyte series which trace the social history of the Forsyte family in England and America. He also has engaged successfully in the drama, a field in which his notable productions include "Loyalists" in 1921 and "Old English" in 1922. He has also written a number of plays. "Tradition credits Galsworthy with launching that other British immortal, Joseph Conrad. Forty years ago Galsworthy made a voyage to the South Seas on the sailing vessel "Torrens." Conrad was first officer. During the long weeks they talked of writing and Conrad showed his friend a manuscript of "Almayer's Folly." Galsworthy was delighted. He urged Conrad to continue his writing and in later years they worked together in London.

WOMEN CONGRAGATED

Hartford, Nov. 10.—(AP)—A message of congratulation was received today by Mrs. Nora Harris, vice chairman of the Democratic State Central committee, from National Chairman James A. Farley expressing pleasure and thanks for the support rendered in the presidential campaign by the women Democratic workers of Connecticut. The results Tuesday were splendid. I am grateful to you and to the women workers for the support accorded our Democratic ticket. Will you please express to the members of your organization my most sincere and heartfelt thanks for the support rendered which made possible our great victory. Personally I am deeply grateful. (Signed) James A. Farley.

Miss Theodora Maxwell Given Farewell Party Before Leaving For Studies. Miss Theodora Maxwell of Hamilton street who left this morning for Boston to enter the Evangeline Booth Memorial Hospital to take the nurses' training course, was given a farewell party by her associates in Miss Mary Proctor's class and other friends in the Salvation Army. The party was arranged by Miss Ellen Lyons and held at her home on Foster street about 20 were present. Miss Lyons in behalf of her friends presented to Miss Maxwell a handsome black and white silk umbrella and a leather writing case.

The Pot Luck supper and social at the Center Congregational church Tuesday evening was well attended and much enjoyed, about 250 being present. It was a great disappointment to those attending, as well as to those in charge, that the movies advertised failed to get in motion. After all efforts the machine would not respond. An attempt will be made to have them at some future time. It was unfortunate too that C. F. Quimby, who was to have charge of games and sociality was absent. Other entertainment was substituted including listening to election returns.

Miss Bertha Barron of West-Middle Turnpike who is to be married this month to James Reid of Rockville, was the guest of honor at a surprise miscellaneous shower given last evening by Miss Sylvia Anderson and Miss Mabel Bjorkman at the home of the latter on Benton street. After the gifts were unwrapped and admired, bridge occupied the evening. A delicious luncheon was served by the hostesses.

Glennay's, well known local men's clothing establishment, announced today that it would be closed tomorrow morning between 9:30 and 11:30 in observance of Armistice Day.

State inspectors were in town today checking up on soda fountains to see that food and drinks served by them are properly handled. Federal inspectors were here also yesterday checking up on industrial alcohol permits.

A canvass of the merchants and business houses around Depot Square and of patrons of the Manchester post office discloses that a great majority of them favor naming the new classified station at Depot Square "North Station." When the offices are consolidated in the new Federal building at the Center it will be no longer possible to call the Depot Square office the Manchester post office. Rather than have the classified office referred to as Station A or Station B the north and south people prefer "North Station."

To settle the bankruptcy estate of the Polish Grocery Corporation the effects will be sold at auction at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. The building at 71 North street which housed the store as well as a hall, club and room and the land are included.

The annual meeting of the South Manchester Fire District will be held tonight at the headquarters of Company No. 3 on Spruce street at 8 o'clock. There is no tax to be laid this year and the chief business will be the election of officers.

STATE'S FINANCES Hartford, Nov. 10.—(AP)—A balance of a mere $100,000 in the general fund of the state of Connecticut was noted in the report for the condition of that fund and of the highway fund, made to Governor Sprague today by State Commissioner Finlay Howard F. Wall. The actual balance as reported for October 31 was $100,586.52 as compared with $7,225,325.25 on the same date last year, a decrease of $7,124,738.73.

DEAD MAN VOTED Norfolk, Va., Nov. 10.—(AP)—The vote of a dead man deliberately was counted at the Court House precinct in Norfolk Tuesday, it became known today.

Fred W. Calvert, who was killed in an automobile accident near Charleston, W. Va., last Thursday, had previously sent in his ballot by mail to Norfolk. A Republican washer challenged the ballot on the ground that a "dead man cannot vote." The judges, however, ruled the ballot had been legally cast when placed in the mails by Calvert and ordered it counted.

Mr. Calvert was assistant manager of a hotel at White Sulphur Springs.

TO TRAIN AS NURSE IN BOSTON HOSPITAL

Miss Theodora Maxwell Given Farewell Party Before Leaving For Studies.

Miss Theodora Maxwell of Hamilton street who left this morning for Boston to enter the Evangeline Booth Memorial Hospital to take the nurses' training course, was given a farewell party by her associates in Miss Mary Proctor's class and other friends in the Salvation Army. The party was arranged by Miss Ellen Lyons and held at her home on Foster street about 20 were present. Miss Lyons in behalf of her friends presented to Miss Maxwell a handsome black and white silk umbrella and a leather writing case.

Tuesday evening, following the rehearsal of the Cecilia club at the South Methodist church, of which Miss Maxwell has been one of the pianists, she was surprised with a shower of handkerchiefs and other personal gifts, and last week the Maxwell family remembered her with a fine pen and pencil set.

Mrs. Thomas Maxwell accompanied her daughter to Boston and will remain a few days with her elder daughter, Mrs. Horace Weatherly, of that city.

army." Nicole was quoted as saying, "We must respond by revolution." by a strong off-shore wind as the Then, according to the Journal, a Communist named Lobot, seated on the shoulders of comrades, shouted, "Today there is no longer separation between Socialists and Communists." He went on, the paper said:

"We must unite for revolution. The Soviets are celebrating their 25th anniversary. We all see with them. Long live the Soviet Union."

The bourgeois newspapers said the manifestos were armed with clubs and pepper.

Despite the disorders in the street the anti-Socialist meeting was able to carry out its program inside the hall and adopted a resolution denouncing Nicole and Dicher as "in the service of a foreign power."

There was bitter controversy over responsibility for the tragedy. Conservative newspapers laid the blame upon the Socialist leaders and the Communists for exciting the crowd until it became an uncontrollable mob.

Even Nicole's arrest was criticized. Encore came from several quarters, blaming the authorities for failure to arrest the agitators before the trouble started on Saturday.

Federal and local authorities were severely criticized for bringing in troops, especially the inexperienced recruits who were before had been called upon in such a dangerous situation.

HOLD FAREWELL TEA FOR TEACHER HERE

A farewell tea was given yesterday afternoon at Chestnut Lodge to Miss Jane McQuillan of Willimantic, who is soon to be married to Raymond Reed of Norfolk, a Latin teacher at Bulkeley High school in New London. Miss McQuillan is one of the nine teachers in the public school system here who have been eliminated, effective next Tuesday, as

"AREN'T WE ALL" GIVEN BY LIONS

Cast of 100 Plays To Crowd of 200 At High School Hall Last Night.

Despite the storm, a crowd of over 200 people attended the first performance of the Lion's Club comedy "Aren't We All" in the high school auditorium last night.

A beauty show of 28 girls followed the play. The high school orchestra under the direction of Harold Turkington gave a concert before the curtain on the first act.

The Story Louis Smith as Abner Perkins, proprietor of the Hotel DeLuce, the "Grand Hotel" of the country village, has a genuine hatred for Dick Hathaway, played by Francis Sullivan.

Chestnut Corners is visited by two city slickers, Jim Blake, Gunnar Johnson and Sam Turner, Victor Swanson who planned to steal Hathaway's invention.

The mock trial brought forth much laughter as George Washington Jones, Tommy Conran, was hailed in court before Judge George Lassar for failure to provide for his spouse, Asphasia Jones, Jake Greenberg.

In the other specialty act, "School Daze" Frances Conroy as the teacher had plenty of trouble with her class of all nations headed by Tommy Conran as Eliza Brown; Harry Flavell as Sandy McPherson; Bob Taft as Patrick Flanagan; Jake Greenberg as "Ikey" Cohen and Mark Holmes as Little Willie.

The cast of the girls' chorus was headed by Anita Passacostelli, with the following: Evelyn Bach, Vivian Griswold, Rhina Hall, Mary Marchuk, Joyce Squatrito, Ruth Runde, Bernice Marsh, Anne Tidmas, Eileen Faron, Edith Brown, Doris Geer, Marjory Palmer, Edith Thrasher, Margaret Kotsch, Hazel Johnson, Ruth Lieberg, Helen Holmes, Alice Ewan, Olive Skrabac, Vera Squires, Minnie Brugowski, Claire Kristoff, Anne Klutewicz, Bernice Scolsky, Mildred Prentice.

Miss Mary Breen was soloist in the Baby's Birthday Party, featuring 75 children. Mildred Sutherland was pianist for the entire production.

A capacity house is expected at the final performance in the High School Hall tonight.

DEALERS FAVOR AUTO SHOW HERE

Also Approve Setting Up List of Recognized Sales Houses in Town.

The Automotive Division of the Chamber of Commerce with non-members of the division, last night voted in favor of holding an automobile show this winter and also in favor of setting up an authentic list of all recognized automotive concerns and individuals entitled to jobbers discounts in the purchase of accessories.

The meeting was held at the Castle Farms Inn, twenty-seven being present. A delicious turkey dinner was served by the management, after which the business session was held. A thorough discussion took place on the question of an automobile show and it was unanimously voted to request the executive committee to appoint a committee to investigate the cost of a show and make recommendations at an early meeting.

Last year the show was handled through the Chamber and was presented at one-third the expense of previous years. All present were also in favor of limiting those eligible to jobbers discount to recognized dealers and garagemen, engaged full time in the automotive line. The division was authorized to appoint a committee to draw up the list, to be submitted at the next meeting. It is hoped that this list will be recognized by local jobbers.

West Side Building The winners at last night's set-back were Joseph Canade with 167, Jack Risley with 159, Mrs. A. M. Markham with 157, Mrs. Jessie Nelson with 152, with the consolation prize going to Mrs. Marie Holland with a low score of 92. There were sixteen tables at this sitting.

East Side Building The Inter-Church bowling league will hold a session tonight with the St. Mary's vs Swedish between 7:00—9:00 p. m. from 8:00 to 9:00 p. m. Methodist vs St. James'. The children's swimming classes held on Fridays are postponed because of Armistice Day observance.

The First-Aid classes held on Friday evenings are also postponed until Nov. 18 because of the holiday. The women's plunge periods from 7:00 to 9:00 p. m. Friday evening will be available as the East Side building will be open from 6:00 p. m. for the remainder of the evening.

The third Community Dance will be held tomorrow evening from 8:00 to 11:00 p. m. celebrating Armistice Day. It is expected that the attendance at this dance will be even greater than ever before as there is no other public affair in town celebrating the holiday. The music again will be furnished by Jill and His Band which is making a big hit with everyone that has heard them play at previous dances.

WIFE HURLS CHAIRS AT HUSBAND IN FIGHT

Bridgeport, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Fists of hot coffee, china cups and chairs were some of the articles his wife threw at him when he tried to restrain her from going out with other men, Louis Schmidt, of Norwalk, a crane operator testified before Judge John A. Cornell, in Superior Court today in a special plea for a divorce from Grace Davis Schmidt. Although he is almost 6 feet tall and weighs 180 pounds Schmidt said his wife kicked him and beat him up so often he had a nervous breakdown. They were married in New York November 22, 1925. Returning home Thanksgiving Day, 1930, after an absence of several days, Schmidt said his wife became angry because he scolded her. "She picked up a pot of hot coffee and threw it at me and the assembled guests, all of whom immediately left," the witness testified. On other occasions she tore clothes from his back and ripped his shirts to shreds so that he could not follow her he said. The divorce was granted on grounds of cruelty.

Hayes and Taft, former presidents of the United States, celebrated their silver wedding anniversaries in the White House.

REPORT MORE TIRE SLASHING TUESDAY

Eldridge and Bissell Street Men Tell Police of More Cases of Vandalism.

Of all the automobile owners who had tires slashed late Tuesday night, none fared as bad as Felix Pagan. His car was slashed on Eldridge street, but in his own back yard.

Another case was reported to police headquarters yesterday morning, that of David Collins of 50 Bissell street whose car was also slashed in his yard. Two tires were cut. Added to the five victims reported yesterday this makes a total of seven cars, or 15 tires, in one single night. All occurred between 12:30 and 1:30 in the morning.

Police figure that the work is being done by the same man, and that he operates without assistance. They believe he must be mentally unbalanced but cannot find a motive for such action. It is thought that the man must live in the east side section of the town because most of the tire slashing has taken place there.

Earlier Cases About a month ago the first two cases of tire cutting came to the attention of the police but no publicity was given the fact in the hope that police might catch the guilty person. The car owners involved at that time were Charles Skrabac of 59 North street who had one tire slashed as his auto was parked on Oak street and William Sheehey of 186 Eldridge street who had two tires cut. His car was standing in his yard. Skrabac was out of his automobile only five minutes when his was damaged.

Both of these cases took place late at night the same as those on election night and the slashes in the tires were similar to the recent ones. In each case the cut is a very clean one and about three inches in length. Police figure it might be inflicted with a hunter's or linoleum knife. One police official said it might be the work of a man out of work who had had an automobile taken away from him through non-payments and had become insanely jealous of all people with cars.

One Man's Work The territory included in Tuesday night's rampage was close enough together, so that a man could have easily covered the section in the hour which elapsed from the first cutting reported to the last. Three of the cases were reported to police and two were discovered by the police in their investigation.

The route apparently taken by the tire crank was from Main street on to Bissell where he cut the car tires of Police Commissioner Harry B. Eissel; Recreation Center Director Frank C. Busch and David Collins in succession. From Bissell street the man might easily have walked down Spruce to Eldridge, going up that street to Pagan's where he did his worst damage and then over onto School and Clinton streets to finish his evening's work on cars owned by John Schiebannpflug, Harold Cienson and Rudolph Johnson.

Public Should Watch Police have been keeping a very close watch but so far have been unable to get any clues. It is their intention that the man will be caught much sooner if the public helps maintain a sharp lookout for the man. Police believe he will cut more tires, although he may be sane enough to wait until the present excitement dies down.

RESULTS IN KANSAS Topeka, Kas., Nov. 10.—(AP)—The voters of Kansas who turned their electoral votes to Governor Roosevelt, re-elected a Democratic United States Senator and elected three Democratic Representatives in Congress apparently have returned the Republicans to power in state offices although Governor Harry H. Woodring refused to concede that he had been defeated by Alfred M. Landon, Republican.

With returns from only 179 precincts by 7:19 a. m., Woodring trailed by 3,794. The vote for 2,497 out of 2,876 precincts in the state was, Landon 258,354 Woodring, 254,558. Dr. John R. Brinkley, goat gland specialist who ran for governor as an independent on hopes born of the 188,000 votes he was given as a "write-in-candidate" two years ago, polled 226,802 in 2,497 precincts.

THE BATTLE OF HASTINGS—1066 A. D. "Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by J. Scott Williams... inspired by the surging fury of the Norman hordes under William the Conqueror, in their merciless onslaught against the English in the Battle of Hastings, October 14, 1066. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild" is seldom MILD. No raw tobaccos in Luckies—that's why they're so mild. WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes. "It's toasted" That makes of mild Luckies.

GOV. ROOSEVELT CARRIED BUT 11 N. Y. COUNTIES

New York, Nov. 10.—(AP)—President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt won only eleven of this state's 62 counties in last Tuesday's election—but he defeated President Hoover by more than half a million votes.

An analysis of virtually complete returns today disclosed that Roosevelt annexed only six up-state counties, the huge vote which gave him the state coming from the five counties which comprise New York City.

The up-state Democratic counties were Albany, Clinton, Franklin, Genesee, Rensselaer and Sullivan. Albany, where Roosevelt had his official home during his four years as governor, led with 73,239 to 45,729 for Hoover.

The entire state totals today stood: Roosevelt 2,521,333. Hoover 1,926,600. New York City contributed 1,437,213 to Roosevelt and 575,031 to Hoover.

Despite the huge Roosevelt vote, Lieutenant Governor Herbert H. Lehman led the state ticket. Running against Colonel William Donovan for governor the poll was: Lehman 2,654,977. Donovan 1,813,693.

With four-fifths of the voting districts reported, Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate, had a total of 163,671.

STEAMER IS SAFE

Boston, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Radio communication has been re-established with the British steamer Phemius, which had been feared lost in the tropical hurricane, it was announced today by the Tropical Radio Company.

That the elements all but crushed the steamer was indicated by a radiogram received from the steamer Camden, an oil carrier of the United Fruit Company, which read: "Phemius located, Latitude 18-12, Longitude 80-07. Reports crew well. Have lost funnels, hatches and life boat derricks."

The position given places the Phemius off Cape Gracias Dios, some 180 miles eastward of the Nicaraguan coast. A radiogram from the master of the Phemius read: "Many thanks for your assistance, am expecting a salvage steamer about ten o'clock tonight (No. 9). We have had a rough time. Best regards."

Apparently the Phemius, while able to receive wireless messages, had been unable for several days to send any.

 THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 10.

THE WINTER AHEAD

Now that the all-absorbing six-months job of picking a new President is over it is time to turn to another one. It is that of organizing our hearts and our brains and our common resources for the protection of our fellow men who are in danger. Because they are the victims of social and economic errors in which we have all shared pretty much alike, though innocently, this is a service which every decent American now accepts as his first duty and without question.

It is unfortunate that the Presidential campaign, coming at the time it did and so very largely commanding the attention of thousands of the very persons most likely to lead in any civic emergency, has unquestionably interfered to some extent with the planning of winter relief. The last time must be made up by extra effort and close devotion.

Very soon the local agencies which by common consent are charged with the duty of raising and administering relief funds will, no doubt, have formulated their plans. Their precise nature is a little immaterial in contrast to the hard fact that more relief and consequently more funds will be necessary this winter than ever before—and that there will be fewer persons than ever before who will be able to supply them.

The time has arrived when it will no longer do for those who heretofore have done less than their just share in this rescue work to continue in their remissness. It is no longer a case of saving one's conscience by the making of little gifts too small to be missed, but rather of taking stock of one's possessions to see how little of them it is absolutely necessary to keep for oneself before turning the rest into the common fund which is to keep thousands from misery.

One has but to listen to the echoes of the feet of those marching millions who thronged to the polls on Tuesday to realize the stupendousness of the forces that are restless under the surface of our American civilization; orderly, well intentioned and still easily controllable forces, but grimly stirred by a fixed determination to arrange matters differently for the future. Light hearted self centeredness cannot afford to either ignore these forces or treat them casually. Even those who hitherto have failed to respond to the humanitarian appeal of physical and spiritual suffering will do well indeed to become aware of what even one more winter of desperation might conceivably do in the way of excitement of the forces of unrest.

JUST A GUESS
 Tabloid newspaper rumors that President Hoover might presently resign the Presidency in favor of President-elect Roosevelt in order to avoid the continuation for three or four months of an administration so emphatically repudiated by the country are probably a product of the imagination. Nevertheless it is not outside the possibilities that Mr. Hoover might decide that, in the circumstances, such a course would be advisable.

The process would be simple. The President would ask his secretary of state to resign, would then appoint Mr. Roosevelt as secretary of state and both Hoover and Vice-President Curtis would then resign. The new secretary of state, Mr. Roosevelt, would then automatically succeed to the Presidency for the unexpired period of Mr. Hoover's term.

good reason for his not remaining in office for the rest of his term. And it is quite inconceivable that he would take any such unprecedented step without surveying all the manifold possibilities and implications of such procedure. The statement, then, that he has about made up his mind to retire before next March, is almost certainly premature and most likely without any basis other than a guess. The novelty of the idea is sufficient to account for its being seized on by newspapers of a class that dote on sensations.

GRAVEYARD SPOOKS
 We have lived a good while but not yet sufficiently long to arrive at a satisfactory understanding of this quadrennial holding up of business because of "political uncertainty."

For many weeks we have been told, this year as always every four years, that business was "marking time" because it didn't know how the election was going. The inference was, of course, that if there were to be a change in the partisan character of the government arrangements that otherwise would proceed could not proceed. We are always told that, whichever party is in power. No doubt it will be just the same in 1936.

But oddly enough, a day or two after election, no matter which the election has gone, business draws a long breath, says, "Well, that's over," and proceeds to do things. It is that way right now. Now that the "uncertainty" is over, there are more orders for steel and farm machinery and automobiles; there is a "revival of confidence," an immediate increase in activity is expected "through a restoration of confidence."

It would have been exactly the same if Mr. Hoover had been re-elected, with a Republican Congress. Not a whit different. Then what on earth was business afraid of? It certainly wasn't afraid of any change through a Republican victory because the Republican party was already in power and its success meant the maintenance of the status quo. It couldn't have been afraid of a Democratic triumph, because that is what happened. Is the inference that American business was worrying lest the Socialists might sweep the country, or the Communists—or lest Willie Upshaw become President?

As a matter of fact business was nervous about the uncertainty for the same reason that a darky is nervous about passing a graveyard at midnight. The darky has as much courage as anybody. He doesn't really believe in ghosts except in a make-believe way. But he knows that, as a darky, he is supposed to be afraid to pass a graveyard at night, so he indulges in a fright and lets his teeth chatter, because it is expected of him.

As nearly as we can make out that's about the reason why business always goes into a blue funk over the "uncertainty" attaching to a Presidential election. It's supposed to be a lot of trouble to be accommodating.

SHOULDER TO SHOULDER
 President Hoover's quick offer of helpful co-operation with the President-elect and Mr. Roosevelt's appreciative reply should be a sufficient guarantee that during the interval between now and inauguration day, and for as much longer as necessary one need have no doubt, these two partisan leaders of yesterday will be animated by the same purpose of bringing about all possible alleviation of the nation's many troubles.

It is a happy reflection that in spite of the heat and passion developed during the campaign and despite the strictures that each heaped upon the other's policies and political theories, neither at any time brought against the other any accusation reflecting on his rival's personal character or patriotism; so that after all there is nothing whatever to stand in the way of their entirely friendly co-operation in the common cause of the country's well being.

It is perfectly evident that there exists between these two men no such bitterness and rancor as have marked the relationships of some of the largest figures in the history of this country. They fought each other with all their strength, but fought decently, within the code of gentlemen. Now that the battle is over, there is nothing to prevent them from putting their shoulders to the same wheel. Undoubtedly they will. Undoubtedly the exchange of messages between them meant something far more important than a mere formal courtesy.

THE LOST CAUSE
 While it remains to be seen whether the repealists will have the necessary strength in the new Congress to put through a resolution of repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, there will be such an overwhelming majority of votes in both branches that there is no question at all about the fate of the Volstead act. It will be repealed and much more liberal liquor legislation will be adopted even if there should be trouble about effecting repeal.

That being the case there would seem to be neither rhyme nor reason about continued adherence to Volsteadism during the coming session of the old Congress. Prohibition as it has existed for the past twelve years has received its death blow in this election. There is no possibility of its continuance after the new Congress begins to function. Then why should not the old Congress begin as speedily as possible the federal taxation of beer and wines, losing no unnecessary day in diverting from the pockets of the bootleg liquor interests and into the federal treasury some hundreds of millions of dollars annually?

So long as there was the slightest chance of retaining Volsteadism in force, it is understandable that convinced drys should stick to their colors and fight back all efforts at modification. But there is no longer any such chance so far as next year is concerned. And the nation is going to desperately need this revenue. It should not be sacrificed on the altar of a lost cause.

TIRE VIGILANTES
 Activities of a tire slasher who has been doing a great amount of damage without discoverable motive may possibly require the formation of some organized form of protection along Vigilante lines. With the best of will and the exercise of a full measure of intelligent effort the police, unaided, might easily find the job of capturing the perpetrator or perpetrators of these outrageous offenses a long one.

It is useless to speculate on the type of individual who is doing this thing. There are many varieties of pervers and some of them go unsuspected in their perversions for a long time. The best chance of finding this particular one would seem to lie in apprehending him in the act. That would be a job calling for many watchers. The police may need some intelligent aid. They should not hesitate to call for it if they feel the need.

This situation is not remotely akin to the situation of the cattle men of the old West when confronted by the problem of rustlers. They sometimes dropped all other business for the time being and went out on a hunt for the thieves, firmly united in a common cause because they never knew whose cattle would go next. As things stand here nobody knows whose parked car is to be visited next by the slasher.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington
RECORDS SHOW SOCIALIST DEMANDS IN PARTY HAVE BECOME NATIONAL LAWS

Washington.—Although Norman Thomas denies that the Socialist vote this year will be a "protest vote" on the ground that his party is the one which has a definite program, he will be receiving thousands of votes from folks who have only the vaguest idea what the program really is.

Ignorance of Socialism continues to be rather enormous, despite the fact that Thomas has expounded it in a long tour on which he spoke to audiences much larger than he had ever had before.

The Socialist program is always interesting because it is so likely to forecast many of the changes in law and government which are to be brought about within the next few years.

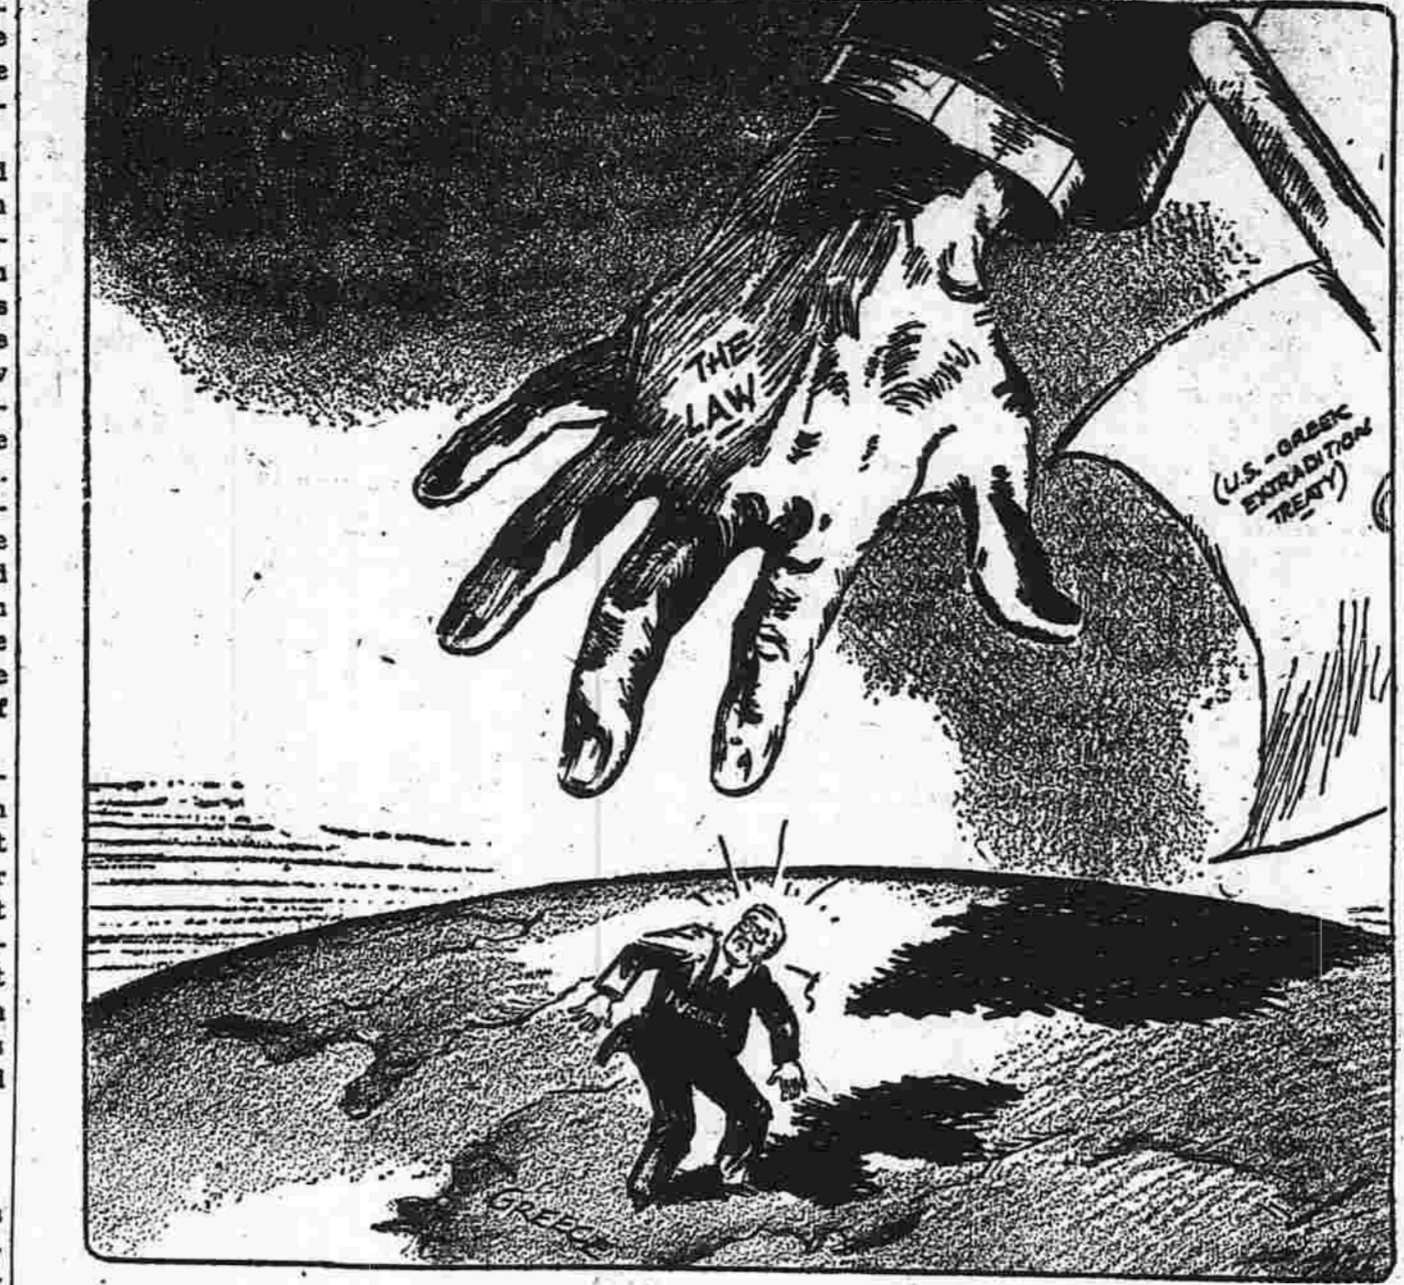

The record shows many such changes which were first demanded by the Socialists and although it cannot be said that they were brought about by Socialist pressure it does appear that the Socialists grab hold of various real and unresolvable issues at times when the major parties consider them too hot to handle.

Thomas hopes that his vote this year will be large enough to spur the major parties to concede some of the Socialist demands, pending the day when a Socialist government can be elected.

The Socialist platform of 20 years ago, for instance, contained many proposals which have since been made law.

One of the most recent Socialist demands of 1912 to be conceded by a relatively conservative Congress was one to curb the power of judges to issue injunctions against labor. An anti-injunction law was won only after a long fight by organized labor, with leadership in Congress by Senator Norris of Nebraska, but the Socialist party was the first to demand it.

Another "Holding" Concern Ready to Do Business

IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 11.—"Camille," believed by Broadway to have expired finally with the ten-thirty-thirty stock companies, suddenly is dying again all over town.

The delicate lady of the Dumas novel may be heard gasping her next-to-last down in Eva Le Gallienne's Fourteenth Street playhouse; in Lillian Gish's up-town revival, the San Carlos Opera's grand operatic version and, any day now, in the Metropolitan.

Gish vs. Gallienne Broadway's chief interest, however, lies in the race for the first Lady of the Camille.

The La Gallienne and the Gish revivals have all but collided, and these two lovely ladies of the theater are at their most frail and fragile. La Gish, after all, was first since she went out to the broncho belt to play in a mining camp celebration revival. It was decided to take it on the road.

"Camille" came into New Haven recently and a newer generation snickered and even laughed out loud at the sad old tale. Notwithstanding which, Delos Chappell decided to bring it into New York.

Meanwhile, Eva Le Gallienne had included the famous tear jerker in her repertoire and opened in Manhattan several days ahead of her rival players. All of which occurred more than a bit of comment.

Once Called Wicked Yet, with all the giggling and snickerings of the moment, it was only yesterday when "Camille" was called wicked.

The great Modjeska wanted to play it in America. At the time William Winter was the outstanding critic and biographer of Belasco. He took Modjeska aside and whispered in her ear.

No, she must not cast a bluish Recommendation of the Socialists, when not acted on by Congress, have sometimes been carried out in the states. Old fashioned, for instance, is one of them.

Although there seems no immediate prospect of "social ownership and control" of the nation's principal industries or of the abolition of the power of the supreme court to declare federal legislation unconstitutional, most of the other proposals of the Socialist platform of 1932 have been attracting much attention outside Socialist ranks and some of them are going to be important legislative issues until something is done about them. Already they find much support in conservative quarters.

Here are some of the demands which many non-Socialists believe to be reasonable.

Five billion dollar bond issues for unemployment relief and for public works. Free federal-state employment agencies. Six-hour day and five-day week. Compulsory unemployment insurance. Old age pensions. Health insurance. Maternity insurance. Abolition of child labor.

son her great art and talents by playing the role of a fallen woman! He pleaded, urged and begged. But his pleadings were in vain.

"Camille" was ever the favorite of the emotional actresses and Modjeska went on as the Marguerite Gautier of the Dumas book. That the Dumas conception was that of a tubercularly inclined, worn and wizen lady bothered few of the hefty ladies who have played the role. Lillian Gish and Eva Le Gallienne have the "frail femme" quality better adapted to such a role.

At least 500 stock actresses of the ten-thirty-thirty period have caused a stir to wrap into their handkerchiefs at Wednesday matinees.

A Real Camille The tale goes that the actual "Camille" of the Dumas dream lies buried in the cemetery in Paris. She was a real person, beloved by Dumas fils. Dumas père liked this not at all. For she had been a lady of light love—but had really given her heart to the writer. At any rate, the other decided to break up the match and believed that absence could bring forgetfulness. He sent his son to Barcelona, or maybe it was Seville, and when the young man came home death had intervened.

He covered the grave with camellias, while certain worried gentlemen were ransacking her dwelling place trying to get back letters indiscreetly penned.

This, briefly, is a sketchy background of the "Camille" story and now it comes back in a day accustomed to wise cracking and speakeasying. With more than passing Broadway interest in the two performances—if not in the old play itself.

HOW'S SHE HITTING?

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the first of a series of articles dealing with the preparation of the automobile for winter driving.

A stiff autumn breeze, and we're reminded that winter's again around the corner.

That means considerable preparation for cold weather driving, if we're to enjoy the car during the next five or six months.

This preparation, to some, means merely putting an anti-freeze solution in the radiator and letting the car go at that. But the car needs an entire overhauling if it is to go through the winter without damage.

Preparation for the winter means a change of lubrication to fit cold weather. It entails cleaning and overhauling of the engine, especially the timing parts having to do with the combustion of the gasoline and air mixture.

It demands more attention for the battery and ignition system. It covers a change in the cooling system and changing of the parts that make up this important part of the machinery.

And it requires consideration for the passengers in the form of windproof body, and appliances for heating the car to make winter driving pleasant.

Even the tires go in for special attention, and extra precautions must be taken with them to avoid serious mishaps so common in cold weather.

It is an anomalous situation that permits automobiles to go through the entire winter in a run-down, uncared-for condition when most attention is required. The car and its parts stand much more strain in winter than in summer, yet the cold air keeps the driver from attending to the small things about the mechanism and other parts which he usually looks over in more clement weather.

Besides this falling off of attention for the car, there appears less consideration for the engine, adding another strain on the car's winter season.

There's the matter of starting in the morning. We step on the starter, make it turn over the engine many times, choke the engine until it comes firing and turns over, "rev" it up to a high speed, shift into gear and speed out on the way to work.

Health and Diet Advice
 By Dr. Frank McCoy

MORE ABOUT INFLAMMATION

I would like you to learn to regard inflammation in a new way; regard it as the body's answer to poisons, wastes or impurities of any kind which are blocking up a part. Inflammation is simply the method the body has of getting rid of the intruders and returning the part to normal. For example, you cut your finger and germs get into the cut. The germs multiply and feed upon the cells which have been killed and begin to produce toxins. The body is aroused by the irritation and begins to fight back by means of certain inflammatory changes, the purpose being to check or stop the action of the bacteria.

Now, I am going to describe to you one of the strangest aspects of the subject of inflammation. When one who has been chronically ill for some time begins to develop acute inflammatory attacks, this is often a good sign. It often happens that a patient with a chronic disease begins to develop short, sudden acute inflammatory attacks after he begins to use certain eliminative habits of living and this person more likely to get well than one with the same trouble who does not develop the acute inflammatory attacks. I have sometimes observed that patients with chronic arthritis who had been using eliminative habits and begin to mend may have acute attacks of rheumatic inflammation and these patients are more likely to become completely well than those who do not have such attacks. This means that the patient has enough vitality left for the body to attack the acute inflammation and, through an acute inflammatory attack, to get rid of some of it, thus lessening the total amount present.

Other cases of cleansing by means of inflammation are seen when a patient with a chronic disorder develops some form of acute inflammation like a fever and then improves after having gone through with these inflammatory processes.

The best thing to do is not to fight inflammation but to try to encourage its cleansing action. It is really a beneficial measure worked out by the body in an effort to destroy a harmful impurity and afterward rebuild the part. No matter whether inflammation is due to disease or emersion, if it is at all extensive or accompanied by fever, it is wise for the patient to fast. During the fast the products of inflammation are more especially absorbed by the blood and eliminated more quickly than when food is taken. If the inflammation is local, some form of heat applied to the area lessens the pain and congestion and speeds up the repair process.

Whenever you see any "inflamed" area, remind yourself that side by side with the destroying process the repairing process is going on. Then you will not be so frightened and will look forward to the day when the final steps of the inflammatory measure is completed and the part healed and whole again.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 (Shortened Legs)
 Question: Marcus O. asks: "Why does arthritis or rheumatism draw the legs out of place and shorten them in many cases?"
 Answer: Arthritis does not actually shorten the length of the bones, but the entire height of the patient as well as the length of the legs has the appearance of being shortened because of the bending of the joints which often cannot be perfectly straightened when there is a great deal of present, or when large amount of bony nodules form around the joints.

(Apoplexy)
 Question: G. O. B. asks: "What are the causes and symptoms of apoplexy?"
 Answer: Apoplexy may be caused from hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, or from a brain lesion caused by certain diseases. The onset of apoplexy is sudden, causing unconsciousness. Periodic health examinations would disclose the presence of causes which might lead to apoplexy, but the attack may occur so suddenly that the patient does not know anything about it until afterwards when recovering from the "stroke."

(Seems Nervous After Exercise)
 Question: Miss Joan O. asks: "Will you tell me the cause of nervousness after doing various exercises before retiring at night? This nervousness lasts only about ten minutes after I do these exercises. Is it some nervous trouble?"
 Answer: It is best to take your exercises early in the evening at least an hour before going to bed, or, better yet, do them before dinner. The exercises if taken just before going to bed will stimulate you so much that you will probably stay awake for an hour or so. They do not make you really nervous, but simply increase your strength and endurance to such an extent that you feel so much stronger and it is difficult to relax.

(Water-brash)
 Question: Mrs. Irma N. L. asks: "Will you please tell me what causes water-brash? It bothers me through the night. Is it some kind of heart trouble?"

SILENT GLOW

Now you can own a genuine Silent Glow for as little as $22.50! Here's a fine range oil burner, made and guaranteed by the Silent Glow Corp., pioneer range oil makers. Why experiment with an unknown make when the best costs no more?

digestion, and what do you think would stop it?
 Answer: Water-brash usually comes from overeating or using liquid with your meals. Try cutting down on the amount of food you are using at dinner, and do not use any liquids at all after 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

(Salt Water)
 Question: Mrs. Gertrude M. asks: "Is there any harm in drinking a quart of warm water with a teaspoonful of salt for a bowel elimination?"
 Answer: The use of hot salt water has an effect in stimulating peristalsis through irritation. It might be harmful in some cases, but in general the effect is the same as taking laxatives and purgatives. It is far better to find the cause of constipation and achieve a real cure by following the proper rules regarding exercising, dieting, etc.

(Fasting in Bed)
 Question: Mrs. Della MacS. asks: "Is it best to go to bed while fasting?"
 Answer: It is rarely advisable to go to bed while fasting except during a few acute diseases where there is a high fever. The patient becomes very weak while fasting in bed but this is curiously not true if he goes about his regular duties and takes a fair amount of exercise while undergoing a fast.

(Bad Breath)
 Question: Mrs. D. asks: "Why does a child's breath, seemingly sweet at bedtime, become so disagreeable after being asleep several hours?"
 Answer: It will be observed that most people do not have a bad breath just after eating, due to the more pleasant food odors left in the mouth and throat. This would be true early in the evening with a child's breath which becomes worse in the morning if the child is constipated and toxic.

TODAY IS THE WORLD WAR I ANNIVERSARY
 THE KAISER FLEES

On November 10, 1918, the First and Second American armies advanced on a 71-mile front along the Moselle and the Meuse rivers. The Kaiser and the crown prince fled to Holland as the king of Wurtemberg abdicated.

Serbian armies advanced north of the Danube and Save rivers, and entered Sarajevo, some of the assassination which precipitated the World War.

JUST FOR SPITE
 Los Angeles.—Her husband was guilty of numerous infidelities during their nine years of married life. Mrs. Everose G. Lloyd complained in divorce proceedings here. The bill came when he broke all his teeth. Flying into a rage in front of her he jerked the set of false teeth she had bought him for $200 out of his mouth, dashed them to the floor, and stood toothless in front of her. The wife complained.

A STICKER SHIRT
 Des Moines, Ia.—Frank Green, 16, caught a fish, but when he was about to eat it, he found it was a stick of dynamite. He was not the only one to catch a stick of dynamite. One of Eddie's was presented to one of Eddie's friends. He had used it to let go of a fish. It was a stick of dynamite.

TOO OLD FOR THAT
 Akron, O.—When a woman is old enough to be a wife, she's too old to be paddled—especially by her husband. That's what Mrs. Victoria Barrett thinks, and she's using her hubby for divorce after an alleged paddling. She told the court he also objected to her picking cards.

IN CANADA, TOO
 Montreal.—Passenger and air mail traffic in Canada is increasing so rapidly as in the United States. Recent figures of the Canadian Colonial Airways show that the line operating between Montreal, Albany and New York showed an increase of 51 per cent in the number of passengers and 190 per cent in the amount of air mail carried in the past 12 months.

TOWN PROCLAIMS RED CROSS DRIVE

Wells A. Strickland As Town's "Mayor" Calls Campaign a Civic Duty.

Manchester through its chairman at the Board of Selectmen, Wells A. Strickland proclaimed the opening of the Red Cross tomorrow.

This year the economic emergency lends special importance to the annual Roll Call, or membership campaign of the American Red Cross.

The Red Cross is the recognized relief agency throughout the Nation. It is chartered by Congress, headed by the President of the United States and accorded the cooperation of the Federal Government.

The unemployment crisis it has borne a great relief responsibility. It has been the authorized medium for distribution of Farm Board wheat and cotton to those in need of flour, livestock feed and clothing.

Its volunteers have been unflinching in devotion to the task of collecting and distributing supplies, and in production of finished goods from materials.

Notwithstanding all the manifold special calls, such regular Red Cross services as life saving, first aid, public health nursing and home hygiene, assistance to veterans and Junior Red Cross have been carried steadily forward.

Our debt of gratitude is great. Our present and prospective dependence is impressive. Everyone who is able to take out membership, as a good citizen and a patriot should do so.

As chairman of the Board of Selectmen of Manchester, I, therefore, proclaim the Red Cross Roll Call, November 11 to 24, a matter of prime civic duty, and urge our citizenship to lend its heartiest support.

(Signed) Wells A. Strickland.

GORMLEY MAY PETITION FOR RECOUNT IN FIFTH

Another revision of figures in the 35th Senatorial District which showed that E. R. Dimock, (D) had beaten J. P. Cameron (R) by 115 votes, gave Democrats a vote margin in the State Senate for a legislative session which is expected to be one of the most important in years.

The House continued even more dominantly Republican than two years ago with 71 Democrats and 193 Republicans. The political division in the Senate will be 18 Democrats and 17 Republicans with Lieut.-Governor-elect Roy C. Wilcox, a Republican, as the presiding officer.

Governor W. L. Cross, whose policy met frequent opposition from Republicans in the 1931 General Assembly, has already announced a five point program which he hopes will be adopted during the 1933 session.

Like two years ago when he urged that the state government be based on "partnership" rather than "partisanship," he has already asked for Republican support.

Governor's Statement In a statement following his reelection the governor said: "As governor-elect, I bespeak again the co-operation of those of Republican faith in the General Assembly who put the welfare of the State above the narrowness of party."

In this same statement he said: "I feel that inasmuch as I have been elected the second time with a larger majority than the first that it is evidence the people will demand the Legislature to support me and my proposals."

Among the proposals which he announced in his five point program during the campaign were revision of the public utilities law; enactment of sales tax law to provide funds for relief of the unemployed; employment insurance and old age pensions.

The Republicans defeated the public utilities program proposed by the administration two years ago. The Legislature also refused to establish an old age pension plan, but named a committee to study the question.

Governor Cross has announced that work has already been started on the draft of the proposed sales tax bill.

Although one of the principal issues during the last session, the prohibition question is expected to play a relatively unimportant part in the next session. By an overwhelming vote, the electorate voted to instruct the General Assembly to petition Congress to repeal the 18th Amendment. The carrying out of this mandate, it was generally believed, will be little more than a formality.

BUSINESS PICKS UP Detroit, Nov. 10.—(AP)—K. T. Keller, president of Dodge Brothers Corp., said today that approximately 30,000 employees of the motor manufacturing company are now back on part time work pending the introduction of a new model. He said that 10,000 more are scheduled to recall within the next two or three weeks when production begins.

GREEN'S PUPILS HOLD ARMISTICE PROGRAMS

Two of Them Held This Afternoon—Students in Poems and Dramatizations On Peace and War.

Two Armistice Day programs were observed at the Manchester Green school today. At one o'clock the upper grades gathered in the hall for their recitations and at two o'clock the primary assembly was held.

The program for the upper grades assembly was as follows: Flag Salute; Singing, Star Spangled Banner; Poem, Old Glory, Bernard Chappell, Grade 5; Meaning of Armistice Day, Russell Frenkie, Grade 5; Song, Peace, Grade 5; Scenes in the Trenches, Grade 6; Singing, America, the Beautiful; reading, Armistice Day, Marjorie Streeter, Grade 5; End of the War, Grade 8; Great Little Rivers, Dorothy Streeter; Singing, America.

The primary assembly program was in charge of Miss Ethel Baldwin, first grade teacher, and every pupil in the first grade had some part in the program. It follows: Dramatization, Little Black Sambo, by Lois Clark, Russell Jordt, Howard and Robert Bledsoe; Flag Drill; Singing, America; Flag Salute.

The eighth grade pupils at the Green school have elected class officers as follows: President, Marjorie Raley; vice president, Barbara Cahoon; secretary, Robert Johnston; treasurer, Russell Richards.

STORM LASHES BEACH; MUCH DAMAGE IS DONE

Porches were torn away, underpinnings weakened and docks crumpled by the mighty force of the waves and wind. Automobiles, their engines choked by water, were stalled all across the state.

At Niantic, a half mile of the New Haven railroad's bank was washed out, making it impossible to use the eastbound track. Another high tide during the afternoon, it was feared, would increase the damage.

Small boats were beached near every harbor. Many tore loose from their moorings, while a few were dashed to pieces. Cellars in shore cities were flooded, the damage at Stamford reaching $50,000.

Saved By Alarm Clock Near Westerly, R. I., two families on a hunting trip were saved by the ringing of an alarm clock at 2:30 a. m. They fled from their cottages, which three hours later were swept out to sea.

The high water at the mouth of the Connecticut river caused flooding inland as far as Deep River. The long dock at the Pease House at Saybrook Point was submerged and damaged. Electric power and telephone service were interrupted at Saybrook Junction during the storm's height.

Traffic Tied Up Harbor traffic at New Haven was tied up, while at Milford police, firemen and volunteers formed a road patrol throughout the night to warn motorists of the flooded roads.

The Ocean Beach boardwalk was carried away, while along the Thames river front boats were wrecked and wharves destroyed. In Harbor View, a Norwalk suburb, men went from one house to another in rowboats. Several roads near Westport were closed to traffic.

STORM KILLS TEN By Associated Press. A tropical hurricane which bore down on the Bahamas and Cuba, leaving at least ten dead and several score of others injured, swept up the Atlantic seaboard today until the fury of its winds had spent itself on New York, New Jersey and New England.

FIFTH IN HALING FAMILY IN ASSEMBLY

Bolton Honors Milton Haling With Legislative Seat — Is Fifth To Be Thus Named.

When Bolton elected Milton Haling on Tuesday to be its Representative in the General Assembly it was sending no new name to the House of Representatives. Nor is Milton Haling the first in his line to be thus honored.

Mr. Haling who is well known as the owner of Fanhall Tavern at Bolton Lake was born in Marlborough. His grandfather, Alfred Haling, represented Marlborough in the General Assembly when sessions were held in both New Haven and Hartford. His father, Henry Haling, was in the House in 1876 and an uncle, John Haling, won election to the assembly from Marlborough as an Independent. John Haling was succeeded in the House of Representatives by his brother, A. Watson Haling.

Several years ago the newly elected legislator moved to Bolton where he has served as an assessor and as a selectman. Milton Haling's election to the Assembly carries out a tradition in his family despite the fact that a different town confers the honor.

BEER COMING BACK WETS' PREDICTION

For further evidences of anti-prohibition sentiment, these groups point to votes in nine states Tuesday to repeal their constitutional bond provisions or state enforcement acts.

Next week the Anti-Saloon League convenes here at the call of F. Scott McBride, superintendent, to analyze election returns, plan an "unending" campaign against prohibition changes. Among dry leaders commenting on the election, was Fr. A. J. Barton, president of the National Conference of Organizations Supporting the 18th Amendment.

He said modification efforts by the Democrats would constitute "an open attempt to nullify the Constitution of the United States" and predicted Congress "will hardly assume so bold and defiant an attitude."

FIVE DAY WEEK

Cincinnati, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Porcior and Gamble today announced a five-day working week for its general office employees effective immediately.

The five-day week for all factory employees of the concern started October 15.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Armistice Program. A most effective, well organized, and appropriate Armistice Day program was put on at the High school this afternoon for the upper classmen and members in the Franklin building.

The program was under the able direction of Miss Harriet D. Cotton and Arthur N. Potter, who by the way, had much to do with the program of the same sort last year. The Misses Betty Blackburn, Sadie Copeland, Madeline Jacquemin, Winifred Lee and Betty Walworth, members of the senior art class had charge of preparing the assembly especially in suggesting and aiding in gathering together the various articles which were necessary for the tableaux. The excellent tableaux, although not calling for more than one or two participants were taken from War Memorials designed by leading American sculptors since the Great War.

Albert Pearson assisted in the program as he directed the musical selections that were played and sung during the program and which were especially suitable.

Following the salute of the flag led by the junior class president, Eric Hanson, Miss Betty Harvey gave the introduction to the program and her piece was entitled "November 11, 1918." The assembly then sang in unison the well known war tune "Over There" and then the curtains were drawn aside and a tableaux, in which a number of boys posed in uniform, was shown to the students while Miss Ruth Lee read the poem "Marching Away."

At the conclusion of the assembly singing "A Long, Long Trail" another tableaux "Red Cross Nurse" with Miss Mable Graham and Dana Cowles posing while Miss Madeline Jacquemin read the poem entitled "Red Cross." Another tableaux including "Salvation Army," participants including Miss Jessie Hutchinson, H. Ericson and soldiers, following the war song "Pack Up Your Troubles."

Another tableaux "Peace" in which Betty Walworth and Faith Owers took part was shown while the poem "Verse for Patriots" was being read. Miss Winifred Lee sang a solo "I Salute Thee" with a strong voice which completely filled the large auditorium. Two tableaux followed this selection. One entitled "Humanity and Justice" was shown while Hazel Driggs read Longfellow's famous poem "Peace." The other was "The Boys Come Home" and the participants were all dressed in uniform.

Captain Allan L. Dexter represented the American Legion and spoke a few words on the significance of Armistice Day in concluding the program.

It was announced in assembly that subscriptions to "Somanth" would count toward a pass to athletic games.

The football team and the C. C. I. L. championship soccer team will have their pictures taken Monday afternoon. Cross country team will have theirs taken later on Monday they will be in New Haven taking part in the State interscholastic meet over the Yale Freshman course.

When the Honor Roll was announced the names of Rita Beaupre '34 on the "B" and Wilson McCormick '35 on the "B" were omitted through error.

There were sixteen boys who attended band rehearsal yesterday which was held in the basement study hall of the main building. Director Turkington is much pleased and expects at least twenty with instruments next week. On account of the Barnard school assembly yesterday the boys glee club met in the Barnard school gymnasium.

The Freshman-Sophomore Dramatic club has been fully organized now and intends to hold regular meetings from now on. They are taking countries as a whole and discussing the drama of each. In connection with one of their discussions a very interesting and entertaining meeting was held this week on pantomime. People were called on for impromptu sketches after the different phases of pantomime had been explained. Miss Helen Page, coach of the dramatic club intends to hold try-outs for the Christmas play sometime during the week.

MEMBERSHIP DOUBLED IN MONTH

Number Reaches 335 — Plan To Observe World Week of Prayer Next Week.

The board of directors had their regular monthly meeting last night with ten members present. Reports showed that the membership had more than doubled during the past month under the leadership of R. K. Anderson and his many workers. This puts the number at 335 to date and more are joining every week.

A new membership committee and committees for social and athletic work were authorized and will be appointed in a few days.

Plans for the World's Week of Prayer which the Y. M. C. A. of the world celebrate every year were made. The observance of the week will begin here next Sunday afternoon at half past five and each week day except Saturday next week a special period will be set aside from 6:40 to seven o'clock each evening at which time all incoming members are invited to attend these services. "Our Resources in God" is the theme for the week and is very timely in times like these when the world is so upset and needs the stabilizing influence of God's spirit manifested. All friends of the Y. M. C. A. are invited to these meetings.

The association is much pleased and expects at least twenty with instruments next week. On account of the Barnard school assembly yesterday the boys glee club met in the Barnard school gymnasium.

Plan for Better Control-of-Colds Proved by Tests

Greensboro, N. C.—Clinical tests and use in thousands of homes have proved the new Vicks Plan for better Control-of-Colds. The number and duration of colds reduced by half! More than half of the cots of colds saved! Full details of the Plan are in each package of Vicks Vapo-Rub and the new Vicks Nose & Throat Drops.—Advt.

LOCAL GROUP ATTENDS STATE A. A. U. SESSION

At a meeting held last night New Haven of the Conn. A. A. U. pictures were shown of many track and swimming events held recently at the Olympic games in Los Angeles. These pictures were shown by A. C. Gilbert, New Haven man who was manager of the American Athletes in the village.

The annual Cross Country Run was also discussed and mentioned by the A. A. U. with many prominent runners mentioned as competitors this year. The trip was made last night by Charles Wigren, vice-president of the A. A. U.; James Crowe, local runner, and Director Frank C. Bush of the Recreation Center.

Week-end MURDER

GABRIELLE FORBUSH

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The story opens with a prologue in which a murderer is committed to a homicidal maniac. Later he boards a train for Long Island, thinking of the pleasant week-end he is to have there. The name of the murderer is not disclosed.

The scene shifts to the Long Island home of LINDA and TOM AVERILL, married three years and much in love. Linda announces that instead of three guests over the week-end they are to have five. The guests will be: COUSIN AMOS FEABODY, elderly, distant relative of Linda's who was in New York on business and invites himself to visit the Averills; CAPTAIN DE VOS, handsome Belgian representative of a European perfume manufacturer with whom Averill hopes to do business; MR. STAYLANDER, middle-aged manager of the firm Averill works for; MAEVIN PRATT, former suitor of Linda's whom she has not seen for several years, and LIAN SHAUGHNESSY, Irish writer on a lecture tour. Tom goes to the train to meet these guests.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER II

"Cousin Amos would land here in five minutes it takes me to wash up!" murmured Linda rebelliously as a loud, rarely-heard front door bell reverberated through the quiet house. The crunch of gravel outside had warned her, but she had hoped it might be a belated delivery to the kitchen. "And he would ring that fire-gong instead of walking right in the open door!"

As Linda's eyes lifted to his she met a look of frank friendliness.

Frankly she mopped her hands and shook back the damp hair which demanded coming before she could decently appear in public.

"There goes poor Rosie! Upstairs, of course, and I told her I'd let in the people when they came. Drat—I've spilled that powder all over the dresser!"

But in the sketchy yet effective modern manner Linda appeared combed, powdered and only a little breathless hand on the back of the buxom Irish girl who admitted the first of the week-end visitors.

"Hello, Cousin Amos! (Thank you, Rosie!) Come in and welcome!"

"Linda, my dear, how are you?" The rather pleasantly pink-cheeked, middle-aged man who had waited correctly on the doorstep outside and gestured to the chauffeur of a severely impressive limousine. The man brought into the entrance hall a handsome, if somewhat antiquated, suitcase and one of those prim, two-handled satchels which seem to have been invented to fit the descriptive name of "Boston bag." A nod—no more—dismissed the chauffeur and in a moment the fine car slipped silently away from the broad colonial entrance of White Haven.

"Just leave your bags here," urged Linda. "Tom will take them upstairs. He's gone to the station, but he'll be back in 10 minutes or so."

"Nonsense!" Having bestowed a firm yet emotionless kiss upon Linda's cheek, Cousin Amos now hung a light overcoat over one arm and pinned it to the crook of the handle of a neatly folded umbrella, picked up the Boston bag and was preparing to lift the heavier suitcase. "No, child—I need no assistance. You would find this portmanteau difficult, no doubt, but to my stronger arm it is nothing." He gave a keeping himself in fine physical vigor, you know, and though older than your husband in years, I flatter myself that few young men have my robustness. If you will show me the way, I'll go upstairs to remove traces of the journey."

Linda went ahead, keeping up such conversation as was necessary and inwardly entertained by Cousin Amos' unwavering firmness to form. He would "remove the traces of the journey," even though the smooth hours run from town had been achieved in the beautiful enclosed car of a commuting banker-acquaintance.

"Quite an establishment you have here, my dear—quite an establishment!"

In spite of his assurance of physical vigor, Cousin Amos had stopped at the top of the rounded staircase, ostensibly to catch the view through the long windows of a central upper hall. He was breathing a little quickly, but seemed to think that fluent conversation, properly spaced, would conceal the fact.

"There will be other guests?" Cousin Amos made no promise about the casement window but his pained look gave way to one of polite interest.

"Four others—all men."

"Four! I trust it is convenient for me to—? But I see you and Thomas keep up a large establishment. He must be prospering—preparing mightily."

Linda kept her patience.

"We have a good-sized house," she laughed. "Tom's uncle left it to him last winter and as his mother lives by herself in a little house down the road we moved out from town to live here until we sell it. Then, too, Tom is salesmanager of a firm that has connections all over the world and has to entertain people all the time. Instead of sending some of them to hotels we have them here—the firm allows us so much a month. It's pleasant for out-of-town guests and it helps us swing the house."

"You—swing—?" began Cousin Amos with his bland persistence when the sound of gravel impetuously ground below a motor's wheels brought a welcome interruption.

"There's Tom!" exclaimed Linda.

stiffing her relief politely. "And he has two of the guests with him. You'll excuse me Cousin Amos? When you are rested join us downstairs. We'll have tea on the lawn. Go out the front door, on this side the house—you drove up to what really is the back door. You'll find us."

"I shall rejoin you later," answered Cousin Amos, not disposed to hurry. "I do not drink stimulants, as you know—but a glass of cold water—it refreshes without taking the appetite." He consulted the little French clock on the mantel. It pointed exactly to five.

"Dinner will not be until a quarter after eight," announced Linda firmly. She saw horrified disapproval flash into the childlike eyes. The correct mealtime, for a Feabody, was never later than 6:30. "I'm having a few outside guests to dinner, Cousin Amos. We'll dress after tea. Come down when you're ready"—and she flew down the steps, hastily patting her hair into order.

"Linda!" Tom was calling up and she answered almost at his elbow.

"Here—sorry!"

Introductions were over quickly but she needed no explanation as to which man was which. At her right, a tall, beautifully erect, slender, yet youthful figure suggested inescapably the European. She could not have analyzed the impression but she would have known him long where for a Continental. Somewhat a little more courtly in his simple greeting, his clothes so correct and yet subtly more sophisticated. Yet, as her eyes lifted to his, she met a look of frank friendliness which she would have thought distinctively American.

On her left, a shorter, stockier figure, not really as short as he seemed by contrast with Tom's loosely-knit six feet and some inches, and the other man's rather unusual height. A square-jawed, taut, individualistic thinness presaged a poker-faced as De Vos was open as a smiling.

"Mr. Staylander!" She smiled gleefully at her own accurate memory, but her air was one of competent hostess-ship. "Tom—will you take Mr. Staylander and Mr. De Vos upstairs? We'll have tea on the lawn as soon as it's convenient for everybody. Mr. Staylander is new to us, you know, and Mr. De Vos is the end room. Cousin Amos said he would be down soon."

By telegraphic matrimonial wireless she flashed her husband the information that Cousin Amos had arrived, was installed and had already been a little difficult. And by return communication, as he started up the stairs, her husband signalled back that he would do his best to help her out, that she was looking adorable, and that so far all was well.

THAT'S STEPPIN' ALONG.

Bloomington, Ill.—Two local aviation enthusiasts have designed one of the smallest planes in the United States. It is known as the "Flash," and was built by Owen Tilbury and Cecil Pundy. It has a wing span of only 14 feet, is 11 and a half feet long, and is only three and a half feet high. A speed of 150 miles an hour on straight-away flights is claimed for it.

FLY TO FISH

Montreal.—Sportsmen who enter Canada for hunting and fishing are finding they can reach more remote parts of the country and better sport, by flying into the interior. A flying service for hunters and fishermen is being operated from this city, St. Donat, St. Agathe and St. Alphonse to northern camps.

LIGHTHOUSE ON WHEELS

London.—Croydon Aerodrome is using a lighthouse on wheels. The "lighthouse" is a huge beacon light which is moved around the field on a truck for guiding night landings and take-offs. Its position is determined by the direction of the wind, and the direction is shown by a checkered flag which waves above it.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

by Alicia Hart

BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

If you are in an experimental mood about your hair, why not try a pompadour?

Yes, pompadours are in again. But not the old-fashioned, made-over-rats kind. The 1932 pompadour is flat, sleek and glittering. It is modified to suit the times, the hats and the girls!

This is the way to pompadour your hair this winter. Brush, comb and pull your hair back from your forehead temples and ears evenly, without a ripple to its shining surface. When you get it back over the crown of your hair, then it is time to do something to break the surface.

The best thing to do is to have it fall in triple diagonal waves from one half-exposed ear to the other. If your hair is long, either have the ends curled and arranged in place at the nape of your neck, or else tuck it into a soft roll. Be sure that either roll or curls stay in place. Nothing will do but utter neatness, if you take to pompadours.

I already have described the halo of curls across the front of evening coiffures that gives the effect of a pompadour. This coiffure is good on the young girl and also on the older woman with gray or white hair. But it must be a restrained halo of curls. There is one word of warning about these new modified pompadour effects. They do emphasize the nose, first and foremost.

If your features are regular or if they are small or if they are finely chiseled, this is one coiffure that makes everybody recognize this fact.

And, if your nose is larger than you might wish it, a gentler coiffure, one that brings the hair down onto the temples or has a few curls to break the hard line will be a wiser choice.

PLANES SET CLOCKS

Chicago.—When transport planes fly over Southtown, residents of that district adjoining the municipal airport set their clocks. The people have come to rely on the clock-like regularity of these planes arriving at and departing from the airport. The district newspaper has compiled a chart of the planes' passage over every part of the village and, when one is heard, the clock is checked to see if it's keeping good time.

A reader wants to know if Wall Street isn't a little bit afraid to support Roosevelt, a Democrat. The answer is Wall Street is a little bit afraid to support anything just now.

SEE TOOK NO CHANCES

Boston.—People may laugh at superstition, but not Mrs. Thelma I. Morrell. The other day in probate court Mrs. Morrell was stopping onto the witness stand in her suit for divorce from Gerald V. Morrell, whom she dropped her glove. Looking at the glove, she said: "I don't like to pick it up. It's supposed to be bad luck to pick up your own glove." Her husband quickly stooped and picked up the glove and returned it to its owner. Mrs. Morrell won her case.

THIS FAST LIVING

Berlin.—The postoffice in Berlin is such a fast place that they had to install a refrigerator system to keep the mail from burning up. Friction is so great in the underground mail tube system they use to deliver mail to branch postoffices, that they had to refrigerate the tubes to prevent overheating. This tube, operated by compressed air, carries mail at the speed of 2,000 feet a minute.

How One Woman Lost 10 Lbs. in a Week

Mrs. Betty Luedtke of Dayton writes: "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it."

To take off fat easily, SAFELY and PAINLESSLY—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast, go lighter on fatty meats, potatoes, butter, cream and pastries—it is the safe way to lose unhealthily fat and one bottle that lasts a week costs but a trifle. Get it at J. H. Quinn & Co., South Manchester, or any drugstore in America. If this hot bottle fails to convince you, this is the safest way to lose fat—money back.

But be sure and get Kruschen salt—imitations are numerous and you must safeguard your health. Adv.

Hints on How to Keep Well by World Famed Authority

DON'T OVERLOOK THE IMPORTANCE OF ADDING FIBRE TO YOUR DIET

It's Badly Digested, Too, Doctor Says

By DR. MORRIS FISHER, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Most people have the feeling that a diet of fish is not really as valuable for building human tissue and preserving human health as is the meat of animals. This notwithstanding the fact that there are nations in the world which subsist almost wholly on fish and seem to do very well at it. The human body requires certain essential food substances in order to repair itself satisfactorily and to have energy to do its daily work. These substances have been repeatedly mentioned as proteins, carbohydrates and fats, mineral salts and vitamins.

The flesh of most of the fish commonly used in the diet, such as halibut, cod, whitefish, salmon, trout, pickerel and perch, will average from 15 per cent to 18 per cent protein, as contrasted with approximately 21 per cent protein for mutton, beefsteak and pork.

Because of the large amount of water in the flesh of fish the protein calculated in dry solids of the flesh of the fish is from 85 per cent to 90 per cent, as contrasted with 65 per cent to 70 per cent of protein in the dry solids of the meats that have been mentioned.

The flesh of fish generally contains protein, fat, mineral salts, particularly iodine and phosphorus, and vitamins. Most of the fat in the flesh of the fish is stored in the liver, except for the salmon, mackerel, sardines and herrings, which have from 10 per cent to 15 per cent in the flesh generally.

A dietetic authority indicates his belief that whitefish generally is more easily and rapidly digested than the meats generally eaten. Indeed, it makes a relatively slight demand on the digestive organs. Of course, those meats that are rich in vitamins are digested with greater difficulty than those that have less.

The flesh of fish is also particularly valuable as a source of vitamin A, which is associated with growth and general increase in resistance to disease; and with vitamin D, which is important in the relationship of the use of calcium and phosphorus by the body.

It must be remembered that cod liver oil and other fish liver oils, notably the halibut and salmon oils, are rich in vitamins A and D. Moreover, the use of fish also contains vitamin B and vitamin E. Careful studies have been made as to the vitamin content of various edible parts of the fish. These indicate that oysters give the most complete vitamin value, followed by salmon and herring as good seconds.

It may be taken for granted that no single article of diet is complete in itself. The human body does well on a well balanced diet containing some of several important substances. Since it is obvious that the flesh of fish lacks in fat and in carbohydrate, a meal of fish is well supplemented by butter and by bread and potatoes, which provide fat and carbohydrates.

There was a time when considerable doubt adhered to the use of fish in the diet because of the dangers of fish taken from contaminated waters and kept under improper conditions, which permitted germs to multiply.

Nowadays the catching, keeping, shipping and marketing of fish are controlled to a considerable extent by health regulations. Moreover, the waters in which the fish swim are also protected by laws which tend to guard them against initial contamination.

Dropped in at a Forty-second street burlesque the other night, just to see what effect, if any, temporary "padlock" had had on the way of "reform." I'm sure I can't tell you what the effect was (if any). I don't happen to be a regular patron of the strip and slapstick shows, but the one I saw the other night looked and sounded just about like those I recall in the days before Mayor McKee put a ban on them.

The Forty-second street burlesques, you may remember, were licensed for reopening without Mayor McKee's knowledge or consent. But the burlesque is a Broadway theater which folded for lack of business is still folded. However, there's still another burlesque on Broadway.

Novelist Goes Hungry

Saw Charles E. Farmer, novelist, for the first time in a couple of months and didn't recognize him at first. He's taken off 45 pounds in six weeks—"by starvation," said when he knocked off another five, he was going to stop and get himself something to eat. (No, you're wrong; Farmer's last book is selling. His is just a free will diet.)

Dick Barstow, a popular vaudeville man who teams with his sister, Edith, was in England recently. When he booked passage, he had the idea of bringing a dog and paid for transportation for the mutt—which he didn't even select.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton

BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Today's Many a Modern Cinderella is angry because there was no unpaid balance. They didn't trust her any too well at the store these days and her mother never went—just telephoned.

Mr. Briggs was grim. There were no better bananas, and her mother had declared she must have them. He'd told her so in the beginning. He growled on and the child took it slightly enough but stung with every word.

"Oh, just take it that way, over your arm."

"People will wonder why I'm carrying clothes around this way," said the little girl.

"Don't be so persnickety. Nobody will think anything about it."

Upstairs Mr. Briggs with the gray coat and trousers and vest, huddled into an small a bundle as she could manage. She got out through alleys and dodged people she recognized by crossing the street.

Fidelity she was there and it was over.

Home again her mother said, "These bananas they sent me are terrible. I wish you would take them back to the store and tell Mr. Briggs if he's going to send me spoiled fruit I shall stop dealing with him."

"Couldn't you call him up?"

"Yes, I'll call him. But you start off with the bananas and get better ones. I need them for the salad."

Janet took the bananas reluctantly. She knew her mother would be angry because there was no unpaid balance. They didn't trust her any too well at the store these days and her mother never went—just telephoned.

Mr. Briggs was grim. There were no better bananas, and her mother had declared she must have them. He'd told her so in the beginning. He growled on and the child took it slightly enough but stung with every word.

She got others not much better and then had to stand her mother's mutterings about what she would do to Mr. Briggs one of these days.

One Ounce After Another

She took out the garbage because her mother was "dressed" and would get her good shoes muddy in the yard. That was all right, but when she came in she tracked in mud and was told she made work.

They all went down to dinner and her father talked of balls and hard times. She was very tired and dispirited. Her home seemed a sad place of unpleasant tasks, unpleasant words, and no thanks.

She knew tomorrow would be like this. No thanks, no appreciation, no happiness—only things to be borne. Many little girls are Cinderellas, and they have their counterparts in unhappy little boys. We are so likely to forget that children have pride and are more sensitive, to unpleasantness than we are. Let us all try to remember.

busy ones, and in the last hours Dick found himself with a dog ticket and no dogs. So what? He went out dog shopping, and he and his new peech made the ship with seconds to spare, and sister Ruth hysterically screaming from the top of the gal's plank for them to hurry up.

MARVELOUS MANHATTAN

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York.—An old road custom of the midget troupe is helping a group of men weather tough times in a theatrical hotel in the West Fifties.

The little fellows sleep crosswise in double beds, instead of up and down. Four to six of them fold the cover back from one side, tuck it in at each end, and crawl in bed together.

Sometimes the midget's two rooms of the hostelry accommodate a whole colony of 20. As one of another finds work, or borrows, or is helped by friends, they pay. The management is considerable. It has carried plenty of actors on the cuff who are not midgets.

On the road a midget troupe seldom requires more than a single room. If the hotel managers haven't a sense of humor when it comes to making them a rate, a couple of them may weather tough times and act as "hosts" to the rest.

New York has quite a sizeable midget population. There are well known little couples—husband and wife—who go their way about the streets, indifferent to stares. Several well appointed apartment homes with all furnishings on a diminutive scale.

Usually these small folk keep to themselves, but there are a few "mixers" among them in show circles.

VENDRILLO HAS MANAGED LAST FIVE GRID CHAMPS

Piloted Cubs and Majors To Title Since 1927; Expects Red Men To Take Crown From Eagles This Year.

When the Eagles and Red Men open the annual football series for the town championship at Mt. This tradition has been established during the last five years, during which Vendrillo has been manager of every team that won the championship. Back in 1927, he managed the Cubs in their victory over the Cloverleaves. He repeated in 1928 and also in 1929. And then in 1930, when the Majors brought the title to the North End, Pete was manager of the champions. He was also with the Majors when they retained the title last year.

HOCKEY SEASON OPENS IN 3 CITIES TONIGHT

New York, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The National Hockey League opens its 1932-33 season in three cities tonight. The return of King Winter to the sport world will be held in Toronto, where the Maple Leafs clash with the Boston Bruins; in Montreal when the re-built Maroons entertain the N. Y. Rangers and in Detroit where the Red Wings, a team that even has changed its name, play host to the speedy Chicago Black Hawks.

Toronto again starts off as a favorite in the race for the Stanley Cup, symbol of the world's professional hockey championship, which will be awarded for the 41st time.

MANCHESTER WINS HARRIER TITLE IN TWO LEAGUE MEETS

Only Three Teams Entered And High School Trounces East Hartford After Beating Middletown.

Manchester High School's harriers captured the C. C. I. L. title yesterday afternoon with a smashing victory over East Hartford High in the latter school's course, by a score of 16 to 39. Billy Murch, star miler, finished first in the time of 11:53. He was followed to the tape by Fackel, Donahue and French, in that order, all of Manchester. Crandall of East Hartford was fifth and Dannaher of Manchester sixth. East Hartford runners took the next four places. It was the third year for the local cross country team, the second in the C. C. I. L. As only three teams are entered in the League, Manchester wins the title by beating East Hartford and Middletown. As less than four teams are entered, a trophy will not be awarded the winning team. Coach Pete Wiggen will take his charges to New Haven, Monday, for the first annual cross country run for the state championship on the Yale University course. He expects his team to make a fine showing and Murch will be one of the favorites to finish well up among the leaders.

ALAN GOULD

SPORT SLANTS

Many a grandstand play has nothing more behind it than the cheap publicity of some empty head who never had a large feeling, human, kindly or otherwise, outside of the sphere of his own particular physical activity.

That's why some of the things Babe Ruth does stand out so against a background of things others try to do solely for effect.

He is noted to report that the night of the world series game in which the Babe slashed a pair of home runs to demoralize the Cubs, he ate a large dinner and then went downstairs to the ball room of the hotel to plead with the orchestra leader for a job for a friend.

He came away later for another small errand he felt he should do. A bomb explosion blinded a Chicago boy shortly before the series started. The youngster, an innocent bystander, had a ticket for the games in Chicago. He was in a hospital. He'd never see those games, or any other.

The Babe heard of that while with the orchestra leader. He went alone to the hospital. For a couple of hours, alone with the boy, absolutely unknown except to the youngster, he told about the home runs, went over every play in the ball game, loaned the kid his eyes for the evening.

There aren't many nicer ways of celebrating victory.

Needed a Friend
There's one owner of a major league ball club who has fought reverses for seven years. He knows now he won't last through the winter. He may lose the property, and his last cent with it. But he'll go out with one memory as fine as that of the blind boy.

Last spring he was in such financial distress that he just about conceded the end. There was a note due in a few days for $75,000. He had just $15,000 in cash. And not another resource in the world.

He lay awake nights, thinking, figuring, trying to find a way out, trying over in his mind, for some friend he had overlooked who might come to his aid. He had no security that wasn't already mortgaged. Every last man who owed him a favor had helped already, or turned him down.

One Last Hope
Finally he remembered an old acquaintance he hadn't seen for years. The tie wasn't close, just friendship long ago. But it was the last desperate chance. He had to take it. He jumped a train, hurried to this man's business office. The friend was happy to see him, not effusive, just pleased. He wanted to know about the family, about friends. The baseball man's face was drawn as he answered: "I'm afraid you won't be so interested," he burst out finally, "when you know why I'm here. I've got to tell you now. Listen...."

Past And Present Soccer Exponents To Clash Here

Old Timers Play Local Soccer Club In Exhibition Game Tomorrow Afternoon As Part of Armistice Day Program.

The past and the present of soccer exponents will meet in an exhibition game tomorrow afternoon as part of the Armistice Day celebration. The game will be played at the Charter Oak street grounds starting at 2:30 o'clock.

According to the Old Timers starting line-up, the present representatives will have to show their paces to keep ahead. A few years ago this team of older players could have taken the field against any soccer club in the state with every confidence that they would be several goals ahead of the opposition.

Both in goal and at fullback the team is well served. The halfbacks were all players with ability above the average. One can easily visualize the playing of all three in days of yore. How they could tackle, trap, pass the ball and shoot for goal. But the forwards! Ah! there is a line which would satisfy the most critical of soccer fans. The players on the wings were all schemers of the first degree. They had speed and could shoot from almost any angle.

The center is not yet a "has been," though he is modest enough to try and convince most people that he is. He is the spearhead of the attack and has all that is needed for an ideal center-forward; speed, height, weight and a powerful accurate shot. All in all they constitute an imposing array.

The present team is going to take no chances and will turn out the strongest possible team. The probable line-up of the Old Timers follows: Goal, Gordon; backs, Corcoran and McCann; halfbacks, McVeigh, Cunningham and Martin; forwards, Paton, McCoskey, Lindsay, Maxwell and Little.

ACES PLAY COLUMBIA

The Charter Oak Aces will journey to East Hartford Armistice Day to play the Columbia A. C. football team that beat Cleary's Lunch 18 to 0. The Aces are confident to win. The Aces will practice Friday morning at 10 o'clock at the Charter Oak field.

GUARDS PRACTICE

The National Guards basketball team will practice at the Armory at 7:30 o'clock tonight. "Ding" Farr, forward with the Red Five, has joined the squad.

EAST HARTFORD IS EASILY BEATEN BY LOCAL BOOTERS, 4-0

Manchester High Gains Seventh Straight Victory; Has Held Opponents Scoreless In Five Games.

By trouncing East Hartford, 4-0, yesterday afternoon at East Hartford, Manchester High's booters left no doubts as to whom the C. C. I. L. title belongs. Manchester scored a goal in each period, Scott in the first, Kennedy in the second and third and little "Red" Reimer in the last.

East Hartford's team was built around Gioielli, the center forward. East Hartford tried hard but could not penetrate the local defense. Rooney played a strong all-around game for Manchester.

Coach Greer's squad has won seven games in a row. Their record for the season is eight wins, one tie and one defeat. They have not been scored upon in five successive games. The aim of the team is to beat Weaver High next Tuesday, in a game to be played at Charter Oak street. Weaver trounced Manchester recently, 4-0.

Saturday, Manchester will journey to Suffield, where they will play Suffield Prep. The bus will leave at 8:30 o'clock in the morning and the game will start shortly after 10 o'clock.

COLUMBIA-BROWN GAME IS FEATURE

Punts—Passes

By Associated Press
West Point, N. Y.—Casey Finnegan, North Dakota State coach, believes his team will show more power against Army Saturday than it did last week in taking its first defeat of the season from George Washington. The Bisons will have the benefit of four days practice on the scene of the game, he explained, and Wendell Schollander, the team's only reliable passer, will be back after two weeks' absence.

Princeton, N. J.—Princeton's football coach ought to show plenty of coordination or just the opposite, according to how roommates got along. Eight pairs of them are on the squad, Furnell and Garrett; Kadic and Kalbaugh, Bales and Smithies, Chamberlain and Coggeshall, Crutchank and Rubin-Miller, Van Dyke and Stewart, Hallett and Gugley, and Weaver and Haggin.

Providence, R. I.—Brown's practice sessions offer abundant proof that the Bruins are playing hard football this year. Three players, Penn Hargrove, Harry Spinney and George Payne, suffered minor injuries in a brief assignment scrimmage yesterday.

New Haven—Injuries have left Yale in a hole when it comes to figuring out the starting lineup for the Princeton game. Vic Mallin, regular center and Jimmy DeAngeli, guard, suffered leg injuries in practice which look serious and Joe Crowley and Walter Kimball are doubtful starters.

Three former West Pointers—Major Bob Neyland, Col. Paul Parker and Major Bill Britton—form the coaching staff of the University of Tennessee.

HOLY CROSS GRID COACH SUSPENDED

McEwan Charged With Interference In Athletic Dept.; Is Ousted Indefinitely.

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Captain McEwan, head coach of the Holy Cross football team since the start of the 1930 season, has been indefinitely suspended by Rev. Timothy J. Phelan, S.J., moderator of athletics. Rev. Father Phelan, acting on the recommendation of Rev. John M. Fox, S.J., president of the college, last night announced the suspension in a letter to Captain McEwan "on account of your interference with the proper working of our athletic department by an unauthorized though widely published attempt to discharge one of our staff."

Father Phelan said Arthur E. "Bunny" Corcoran, and coach at Holy Cross for the last six seasons, will be given temporary charge of the squad.

The decision to suspend Captain McEwan marks the first official college action of an unfortunate coaching controversy which is said to have been smoldering on Mt. St. James for some time. It burst into flame after the 1931 season, when McEwan announced that Bart Sullivan, veteran Holy Cross track coach could not continue a his trainer.

This attempt to oust Sullivan who has been track coach at Holy Cross for twenty years and who is popular with Holy Cross alumni 10-1 defeat by Brown when Captain McEwan announced that Bart Sullivan, veteran Holy Cross track coach could not continue a his trainer.

CROP OF BAD NEWS HITS YALE ELEVEN

Two More Players Are Added To Injured List; Princeton Game Next.

New Haven, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The crop of bad news in the Yale football camp grows bigger as the "Big Three" contests draw nearer. Vic Mallin, regular center, and Jimmie DeAngeli, the lightweight guard, have been added to the injured list and probably will be unable to play against Princeton Saturday.

Both were injured Tuesday but it was not until yesterday that it was discovered that their injuries were serious. DeAngeli is hobbling around on crutches, while Mallin suffered a severe hip injury.

Joe Crowley, regular right half-back and Walt Kimball, right end, who has been out with a leg injury, reported for work yesterday. The coaches however, were doubtful as to whether they would be in shape for Saturday's contest.

Mallin is the second center to go on the injured list. He joined Joe Johnson. A leg injury also has deprived Coach Mal Stevens of Bill Browne, substitute quarterback.

Do You Remember?

One Year Ago Today—Judge Walter Weston, who spent his time caldwelling through Chicago and Pittsburgh to coach Carnegie Tech, announced he was through a. an active coach at the Smoky City institution.

Five Years Ago Today—Yale demonstrated that the loss of Bruce Caldwell through injury didn't affect his power. The Ell beat the Princeton Tiger 14-0. Army beat Notre Dame 18-0.

Ten Years Ago Today—Tom Richard opened up the Chicago and Pittsburgh to coach Carnegie Tech, announced he was through a. an active coach at the Smoky City institution.

Coach Wilfred Clarke

son on Friday evening, December 2, against Rockville High in the Windy City. Expects Fine Team
Coach Wilfred Clarke is confident of placing a fine quintet on the floor this season, for a schedule of eighteen games, that includes one with New Britain High and two with Hartford Public High, in addition to the regular list of twelve league games, two games with Rockville, two with Willimantic and one with the Alumni.

Practice sessions have been confined mostly to shooting baskets far and just who will be chosen to make up the first squad of ten players and the second squad of fifteen players remains in doubt. Coach Clarke has lost virtually all of his regulars through graduation, but this fact, as noted, has intensified the High school mentor a bit.

Likely Candidates
The most likely candidates at present are Johnson, Turck, Garone, Neil, Mahoney, McPartland, Judd, Tedford, Altien and Sartor, but the possibility exists that others will develop before the opening of the season. Other candidates will most likely come from the football team after Saturday's grid contest, including "Chet" Sandowick.

Regulars of last year, lost through graduation, include Kerr, Turkington, Brown, Venart, Squarrito, Lerch and O'Leary. The team had a successful season, losing six games out of eighteen played. These were lost to Bristol, 2; Meriden, 2; Rockville, 1; and the Alumni, 1.

Coach Clarke does not expect to have any individual stars on this year's squad, but expects to have a quintet that excels in teamwork. The new rules against stalling will make little difference to the Red and White as Coach Clarke has always taught a fast offensive style of play, with no stalling. He does believe that the rules will make the game very fast, with plenty of excitement for the spectators.

The new rules are aimed at the "bucket" style of play at the foul line, popularized by Bristol High and "Sugar" Hugret. The rule does not apply when the pivot play is worked at other points on the floor. The need for the Recreation Center to advance beyond the middle of the floor on the offense in ten seconds, which will handicap many teams using the slow offense or the zone method.

Last year, Bristol High won the C. C. I. L. championship with Meriden C. C. I. L. second and Manchester third.

Sport Forum

Dear Editor: This letter is from Cleary's football team. A group of players of the team approached Mr. Busch, director of the Recreation Center, and asked for permission to use Mt. Nebo field. This request was made for Armistice Day.

Mr. Busch informed us that a sum of money was required for the use of the field, and the sum was beyond our means. Seeing the field is not being used Armistice Day, it is why should we not use Cleary's Lunch team and only playing for the sport as the game. Mr. Busch once stated that he would do all he could to accommodate the team in the field. We believe he is not keeping his word.

Hoping Mr. Busch will change his decision, we remain,
Sincerely,
Capt. James

P. S. Thanking you for the letter and hoping for better sports in the future.

Wallace—Why, it's marvelous. I write a scenario in a couple of days and they pay me a fortune for it. Scribbler—Friend—Yes, I know, but it's too strange for me. I once was asked by a film company to submit something. I sent them four scenarios and blamed it if they didn't return me mine.

ABOUT TOWN

Members of the American Legion auxiliary who plan to take part in the Armistice Day parade are requested to assemble at the Army and Navy clubhouse tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

The young people's department of the South Methodist church school will hold a party in the banquet hall of the church tomorrow evening at 7:30. The affair will be in the nature of a welcome to the new classes who have recently entered this department. Games and stunts will be in charge of Mrs. Arthur Gibson's class and refreshments will be served by Miss Jean Towle's class.

Members of the Manchester Mothers' club are reminded of the November meeting tomorrow evening at the Center church house. Mrs. Robert Dewey will be chairman of the hostesses and the speakers will be Miss Inez Peck of Hartford, chairman of the Child Welfare department of the American Legion auxiliary and Miss Lucy C. Shanahan, department director of the Commission for Education of World War Orphans.

The Booster Club of the North Methodist church announces a roast pork and sauerkraut supper for Thursday evening, November 17 in the large vestry of the church, tickets for which are in the hands of the members. Melvin Cox, chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Clayton Holmes, Mrs. William E. Shaw, Mrs. John J. Flavell, Mrs. Mark Holmes and Mrs. Thomas D. Smith. The club served one or two similar suppers last winter and they proved very popular.

The Manchester Green Community club will run its regular setback and dance tomorrow evening at 8:15 at the Green school assembly hall. The men's committee is offering at this series, turkeys for first prizes and dollar bills for second. Refreshments will be served and dancing will round out the evening.

Mrs. Sedrick Straghan and daughters Elaine and Joyce of East Center street left this afternoon for Southfield, Mass., to spend the remainder of the week with Mrs. Straghan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Ward.

The regular meeting of St. Mary's Woman's auxiliary will be omitted tomorrow evening on account of Armistice Day. The meeting will be held on Friday of next week, and the speaker at that time will be a young Chinese student from the Keene School of Missions, which is a part of the Hartford Seminary Foundation.

PROGRESS IN PERMANENT PEACE TO BE SHOWN

Dr. Gaylord W. Douglas To Be Good Will Speaker At South Methodist Church Sunday Night.

Dr. Gaylord W. Douglas of Springfield, Mass., is to be the speaker at the last of the "Good Will Services" at the South Methodist church on Sunday evening at seven o'clock. Dr. Douglas has spent the entire summer in Europe and during that time visited Geneva. He is thus eminently fitted to discuss international relations and will have as his subject "The Pathway to Permanent Peace." This subject is particularly appropriate coming so near to the Armistice celebration and all who are interested in the matter of world peace are invited to hear him. Dr. Douglas was formerly Head-master of Wilbraham Academy. He is now New England secretary for the National Council for Prevention of War.

BRITISH WAR VETERAN ADDRESSES STUDENTS

Captain Fred Malin Speaks To Upper Grades of Hollister St. School Today.

Captain Fred Malin of Mons-Tyres Post, British War Veterans was the speaker at the Hollister street school at 2:45 this afternoon at an assembly of the upper grades in commemoration of Armistice Day. Captain Malin, a member of the British Air Force during the World War spoke to the children on the meaning of Armistice Day. At assemblies yesterday afternoon in the Robertson and Hollister street schools, the pupils united in carrying out the scheme of contrasting schools of the early American days with modern schools as part of the Educational week program.

The old school with its rough benches, dunce stool, birch rod, and droning chorus recitations was very cleverly depicted by the pupils of the literature classes, while pupils of the English classes showed the modern school with its newer phases of work, including character education, sewing, cooking, manual training, nature study, music appreciation and education for leisure time.

Students of the social studies classes presented a brief history of the schools of Manchester. Pupils taking part in the old school were Julia Converse, Eugene Kelly, Georgina Dewart, Alaina Kaakid, Edward Frasier, Janet McCarthy, Billy Shea, and Austin Custer.

In the new school were Irene Jarvis, Helen Hohl, Helen Gudjuna, Margaret Napoli, Henry Brooks, Amelia Strimke, Edith Lucas, Dorothy Johnson, Francis Wallist, Valerie Miller, Theodore Brown and William Tedford.

James Curtis, Frank Galinat, Robert Alley and Elizabeth Finnegan of the Social Studies Classes each outlined a particular school event in Manchester's history. Parents were invited to the assembly. The Robertson and Union schools will conduct a similar program for parents Thursday at one o'clock.

SCANDIA LODGE HOLDS INITIATION ON NOV. 17

Men's Degree Team To Be In Charge of Work a Week From Tonight.

Scandia Lodge, No. 23, Order of Vasa, will initiate a class of candidates at the next regular meeting, Thursday evening, November 17, at 8 o'clock at Orange Hall, with the men's degree team in charge of the ceremony. Following the meeting, refreshments will be served and a setback tourney will be held.

The degree team will consist of Eric Nelson, captain; Herbert Johnson, president; Elmer Thoren, vice-president; Carl J. E. Anderson, past president; Sven Carlson, chaplain; Erik Modean, master of ceremonies; Victor Anderson, assistant master of ceremonies; John Polson, Harry L. Gustafson, John B. Benson, Gustave Lindgren, Olaf Erlanson and Oscar Johnson.

The committee in charge consists of John Polson, chairman; Mrs. Ellen Modean, Mrs. Victor Anderson, Mrs. Malcolm Anderson, Carl J. E. Anderson, Oscar Johnson and Albert Swanson.

DISABLED VETS HERE ORGANIZE

Charter of Manchester Post, D. A. V., Is Signed By 35; Name Officers.

Manchester Post, Disabled American Veterans, held its election of officers and installation last night at the Armory and 35 men, disabled in service, signed the charter of the post. The officers of the newly formed post are: Commander, George G. Schreck; senior vice commander, John Rady; junior vice commander, Alton Lathrop; chaplain, Daniel Walker; sergeant-at-arms, Donald Miller; officer of the day, Clyde Davis; adjutant, Albert D. DeWitt; treasurer, David McCann; board of trustees, Arthur McCann, Fred Woodhouse, Robert Donnelly; post physician and surgeon, Dr. LeVerne Holmes.

The installing officer last night was William Dodd, National organizer of West New York, N. J., assisted by officers of the State of State Commander John J. Mulligan of Waterbury headed by Junior Vice Commander Peter Nugent of New Haven. Commander Mulligan was unable to be present due to illness.

The regular meeting nights of the new post has not been selected but Commander Schreck urges all members who signed the charter to watch for notices of the next meeting date. Members of the post wishing to attend the Armistice Day ceremonies at the hospital are asked to be present at the Army and Navy Club Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

DRIVING RAIN AND WIND FELL TREES, WIRES HERE

Electric Company Official Says Storm Last Night Equalled Any This Year.

A howling gale accompanied a driving rainstorm last night causing considerable damage to electric light service and delaying all types of activity. No serious accidents were reported.

An official of the Manchester Electric Company said the storm was as bad as any this year. One large tree blew down just north of the railroad bridge on Adams street blocking traffic until the highway department removed it.

Electric lights in the houses in that vicinity were out. The town of Bolton, and Lydall and Vernon streets in this town were in darkness from 2 until 9 this morning because wind tangled the wires. Pitkin street service was also affected when swaying trees snapped off wires.

The Southern New England Telephone Company office here reported ten lines out of order. Not all had been repaired by 9 this morning but the service would be open again in a few hours it was said. Men engaged in repair work were forced to work in a steady rain which continued to fall this morning.

Trinity Past Noble Grands association will meet Wednesday afternoon of next week at 3 o'clock at Odd Fellows hall, East Hartford.

RAILROAD EMPLOYEES FURTHER ORGANIZED

Local Group To Seek Legislation Equalizing Burden Between Trucks and Railroads.

A full meeting was held last evening of the Railroad Employes and Taxpayers Association at Manchester and progress was reported in the development of the organization and further plans were made to carry out the policies to which the association is pledged. Thirty additional members have been secured since the first meeting and to further increase the membership a committee consisting of H. H. Brooks, Frank Swain, Daniel Griffin, Fred Taylor, Archibald Stevenson and William Johnson was organized to enroll business men and taxpayers in the association with a view of securing a more equitable distribution of taxes for highway construction and upkeep between the public and the operators of freight trucks and highway coaches on the public roads.

It is the plan of the Association to present bills to the next Legislature requiring motor vehicles operating for hire to pay sufficient taxes as are necessary to compensate the State for the cost of constructing and maintaining the highways over which they operate and to effect an equitable distribution of such costs between the private automobile owner and those operating for hire. It is also proposed to endeavor to secure enactment of legislation restricting the gross weight and speed of motor vehicles operated for hire in the interest of the safety of the general public and also to regulate the hours of service of the drivers of such vehicles.

Stories were related of truck drivers being required to work unreasonably long hours without opportunity for rest thereby endangering the safety of private car drivers and of a trucking concern that compelled a driver to operate a heavily loaded truck with defective brakes resulting in serious accident and also of heavy overloading of trucks which caused additional strain upon the highways resulting in damage, which conditions it is the desire of the association to overcome by means of proper regulation.

A large amount of interest on the part of the general public was reported by the various committees and it is anticipated that a large membership will be secured and restrictive measures aimed toward safeguarding the use of the highways for private car drivers can be enacted at the coming legislative session.

WARDEN C. S. REED CHAMBER'S GUEST

To Be Speaker At Annual Meeting At Country Club Tuesday Night.

Charles S. Reed, warden of the state prison at Wethersfield, has accepted an invitation to speak at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at the Country Club next Tuesday evening. His subject will be "Prison Problems of Today." The other speaker, previously announced, will be Ward Duffy, managing editor of the Hartford Times. Tickets for the meeting are now on sale at the Chamber office, at the lowest price in many years. The Chamber of Commerce will assume part of the cost of the dinner, which will be served by Catano of the Coffee Shop. All members are urged to make their reservations immediately, as the number available is limited. Reservations will close Monday night.

A business meeting will be held before the speaking program, at which the nominating committee will present its recommendations for the coming year. The date is headed by E. J. Murphy as president.

ACTOR-FIREMEN GIVEN A REAL REHEARSAL

Called To Anderson Home On Still Alarm Just Before Curtain Call For Their Show.

Several members of the cast of "Aren't We All?" took part in an unexpected rehearsal last night. They were members of the South Manchester Fire Department and were supposed to take part in a fire scene in the play. It was near curtain call when the alarm came from the home of Frank H. Anderson at the top of Boulder Road off Pitkin street. They went to the scene with their unit, Hose Company No. 3.

The fire was not serious, being only a chimney where ten girls were back just in time for the play. The fire was in soot in the chimney. A wood fire was burning in the fireplace at the time. Rather than risk sending his men out on the slippery roof in the driving rain Chief Albert C. Foy made use of a fusible stick which, when placed at the foot of the chimney, generates a gas that smothers fire.

WE SHALL NOT FAIL THEM!

TOMORROW we pay homage to those men who fought and bled upon a glorious battlefield. They were men of indomitable will and unswerving purpose and we can well cherish their memory. But let us not forget the idealism for which those men fought—they fought not to win a war but to win everlasting peace.

We must not break faith with them! In remembering and commemorating their stirring deeds let us dedicate ourselves to their ideal and pray that our youth and the youth of other nations shall never again meet upon a battlefield.
