

JAPAN THREATENS TO LEAVE LEAGUE

If Assembly Adopts Resolution Condemning Japan's Policy in Manchuria; Small Nations Favor That.

Geneva, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Yonuke Matsuo, Japan's special counsel, today threatened before the Assembly of the League of Nations that if it adopted a proposed resolution condemning Japan's policy in Manchuria, there would be "unforeseen consequences."

Matsuo demanded that the authors of the resolution withdraw it or that the Assembly vote on it immediately.

Some observers recalled that authoritative sources in Tokyo said Japan might be forced to withdraw from the League if her Manchurian policy was endangered.

Matsuo said the Assembly's purpose should be to seek a conciliatory settlement and that the resolution, submitted by Spain, the Irish Free State, Sweden and Czechoslovakia, would be hostile to this purpose.

"If it is adopted it shall have consequences unforeseen by the authors," he said.

U. S. Invited The resolution had three points including a proposal that the United States and Russia be invited to participate in a body to attempt a conciliatory settlement.

Others were that Japan's activity in Manchuria was not legitimate self-defense and that the establishment of the state of Manchukuo violated treaties and was not a spontaneous movement in Manchuria.

In reply to the Japanese counsel's demand was deferred while general discussion of the question was resumed.

Japs' Statement The Japanese delegation issued the following statement (the son quoted was unamused but it was presumed to be Matsuo's):

"I am astonished to see the draft of the resolution proposed by the delegations of Spain, Czechoslovakia, the Irish Free State and Sweden, which in my opinion seems designed only to injure Japan."

"For this resolution to be submitted while Japan is endeavoring to explain her position and representatives of Britain, France and other powers, large and small, are proposing conciliation, seems unjust to say the very least."

"Our delegation was convinced that we were approaching an avenue of conciliation but this resolution is entirely contrary to any such spirit. Most members of the Assembly have given addresses in a conciliatory spirit, yet four of them have abruptly proposed this resolution."

"If the resolution had general or even wide support, we would be obliged to doubt the sincerity of the speakers."

Turkey in Favor Hushub Bey, of Turkey, spoke in support of the plan to invite the United States and Russia to share in the responsibility of settling the issue.

Some observers regarded his statement as an indication that Soviet Russia was willing to participate.

Alberto J. Pani, of Mexico, told the Assembly it should vindicate the principles of the Covenant of the League of Nations.

MRS. A. R. HILLYER OF HARTFORD DEAD

Woman Who Made Possible Bushnell Memorial, Passes Away.

Hartford, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. A. R. Appleton Robbins Hillyer, who made possible the Bushnell Memorial auditorium and last survivor of the several children of the late Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Horace Bushnell of Hartford, died this morning at her home, 108 Gillett street, after a long illness. She was 90 years old, the widow of Appleton R. Hillyer, prominent banker and benefactor of the Hillyer Institute.

Since her marriage in 1879 Mrs. Hillyer was one of the most active patrons of the Bushnell Memorial. Her benefactions in this and other fields culminating in January, 1930, with the dedication of Bushnell Memorial for the improvement of the community's cultural life, thus realizing a cherished ambition of many years.

This question was presented today to a Wahtenau county jury which heard on the one side testimony that Hawley, son of a professor in the University of Michigan engineering college, held up two gasoline stations and stole two automobiles, and on the other that he suffers from "mental sickness" traceable to a severe cold.

CLAIM GENERAL MA CAPTURED BY JAPS

Chinese Leader Reported Slain Months Ago, Turns Up Again in Dispatches.

Tokyo, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Su Ping Wen and perhaps Ma Chan Shan—two Chinese generals who long had blocked Japanese domination of far northwestern Manchuria—were reported today to be prisoners of the Japanese army.

Rengo (Japanese) News Agency dispatches from north Manchurian headquarters of the Japanese forces at Tzitsihar, said the Russians had turned over the two Chinese to the Japanese at the border.

General Su fled into Siberia Sunday before the Japanese advance and with some of his followers was disarmed and interned by Soviet authorities.

One of the followers was said to have called himself General Ma. The man who held back the Japanese several weeks in their march on Tzitsihar. Last July the Japanese said they had slain General Ma, but a few days ago the foreign office said it was not certain of this.

At any rate, the man who called himself General Ma was reported by the Rengo Agency as among the prisoners.

The transfer occurred last night at the border city of Manchuria, the agency said. It added that 40 of the followers of Su also were turned over to the Japanese.

Military circles believed the rebel leaders would be court-martialed, some of them on a charge of murder.

These charges would be based on the slaying of Japanese in northern Manchuria last July. The penalty on conviction would be execution.

Reports said the prisoners were (Continued on Page Six)

TO SPEED HEARING OF RECOUNT CASE

Supreme Court Not To Adjourn Until the Dispute Is Settled.

Hartford, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Supreme Court of Errors of the State of Connecticut will not adjourn when recesses on the present docket are disposed of, but will hold the December term open in order to hear motions in the case of Frederick W. Harrison, Republican candidate for Senator in the 21st Senatorial District, it was announced this morning by Chief Justice William H. Malloy.

A petition of Mr. Harrison asking for a re-check of the votes in the recent election was denied in the Superior Court in Bridgeport, and Judge James C. Shannon, representing the unsuccessful candidate, plans to move that the Supreme Court take jurisdiction on an appeal, waiving the usual formalities, in an attempt by Judge Shannon to prevent any delay in the organization of the State Senate in January by obtaining a decision as quickly as possible.

Judge Shannon conferred with Justices of the Supreme Court this morning in chambers. As it is expected that the cases of the December docket will be disposed of tomorrow, it was decided that the court would not adjourn.

As it was somewhat doubtful as to when the case could be ready to be disposed of Judge Shannon was told that when a point is reached where the possibility of a speedy disposal can be more definite, he will be permitted to move for an immediate hearing.

Claims Cold in the Head Made His Son a Burglar

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Did a cold in the head change the timid son of a university professor first to a drum major and then to a highway robber and automobile thief?

Or is the case of Ransom E. Hawley, Jr., just like that of any other 18-year-old youth accused of crime? This question was presented today to a Wahtenau county jury which heard on the one side testimony that Hawley, son of a professor in the University of Michigan engineering college, held up two gasoline stations and stole two automobiles, and on the other that he suffers from "mental sickness" traceable to a severe cold.

JOBLESS FUND PLEDGES ONLY $6,668 TO DATE

Report Meeting Last Night Finds Few Workers On Hand—All Out Canvassing—Division 1 Leads.

The first report of the Manchester Emergency Employment Association campaign, made last night by skeleton teams of the organization at a report meeting in the High School hall, showed a grand total of $6,668.35 secured by pledges thus far in the drive for funds to aid the unemployed during the winter months.

Out Working Only a few of the workers were in attendance last night, due to the fact that the workers were out canvassing, taking advantage of the warm weather. The division totals as reported last night were as follows:

Division No. 1, $1,235.20; No. 2, $408.50; No. 3, $128.25; No. 4, $217.00; No. 5, $351.00; No. 6, $113.00; No. 7, $227.50; No. 8, $155.70; No. 9, $269.50; No. 10, $232.00; No. 11, $329.70; No. 12, $110.00.

Report Again Tomorrow The next report meeting, at which it is expected nearly complete returns will be made, will be held in the High School hall tomorrow night at 7 o'clock. The final report meeting will be held in High School hall next Monday night.

TOO MANY PROBES, SENATOR ASSERTS

Hebert Declares Millions Spent For Investigations Not At All Needed.

New York, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Senator Felix Hebert of Rhode Island, addressing the Association of Life Insurance Presidents today, criticized what he interpreted as a tendency among his colleagues in Congress to propose investigations without regard for cost into activities which may have no relation to government.

"No sooner is an unsupported charge made upon the floor of either branch of Congress," he said, "against some activity which may have no relation to government, than there follows a proposal for investigation without regard for cost."

Senator Hebert, who was in charge of eastern Republican headquarters during the recent campaign, said the tendency in American government appears to be to substitute official judgment for the judgment of government, for that of the individual.

Wrong Impression "We have asked for bureau and commissions and regulatory laws," he said, "apparently deluding ourselves into the belief that we can bring happiness, cure our ills, and solve our problems by legislation."

"We are constantly enlarging our governmental structure, and this at the expense of our freedom of action. With every emergency we add a little more."

What we have yielded out of that domain has never been restored to us in full. The tendency is all the other way. Bureaus once established follow the American idea of becoming bigger and better.

Increase of government from 84 departments in 1800 to 600,000 in 1932, and expenses from $4,000,000 in 1791 to $4,000,000,000 in 1932, does not represent our growth by any means, but rather the profligacy of government generally and the extension of its activities into fields where it was not designed to operate."

New York, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Governor Wilbur L. Cross of Connecticut, told the 28th annual convention of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents today that "in the interest of international business and amity, war debts must be scaled down to a vanishing point."

When finally he freed himself, Beach sent the lobster to the New York aquarium where Curator Hamilton (above) searched records to discover whether the lobster was the largest ever captured.

APOLOGIZE TO BRITAIN? NO! DECLARES RUSSIA

Soviets Refuse To Accede To Demand That Moscow Newspaper Take Back Statements Recently Made

London, Dec. 8.—(AP)—It was stated authoritatively today that the Soviet government has refused to accede to a British demand for an apology for statements published in the newspaper Izvestia, official organ of the Soviet regime.

The Soviet ambassador, in declining government responsibility for the objectionable articles, was said to have refrained from stressing agreement with their substance.

The Izvestia article accused the British intelligence service of having instructed its agents in Riga, Latvia, to obtain documents "real or bogus" establishing a relationship between the Soviet government and the Communist Third International.

This was linked with British claims of evidence that the Third International directed the recent hunger march on London and was working against the British rule in India.

Refuses to Apologize The Soviet ambassador was reported to have declined under the circumstances to offer any apology as was demanded by the British government.

The Russian reply, it was stated, was to the effect that the Soviet government cannot be held responsible for newspaper articles on which the complaint was based.

The newspaper publishing the articles is controlled by an editorial board which is held to be responsible for the opinion it expressed.

This board, in the Soviet government's view, is not an official body and Izvestia's only official insofar as it prints and circulates the government's official orders.

The British demand for an apology from Moscow was revealed in the House of Commons yesterday by Captain Anthony Eden, under-secretary for foreign affairs.

SHIP SEIZURES 12 MILES OUT ARE PROTESTED

Canada Says If It Is Continued She Will Give No More Assistance In Preventing Rum Running.

Washington, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A vigorous protest against the boarding and seizure more than one hour off shore of British vessels, suspected of rum-running, has been lodged with Secretary Stimson by Canadian Minister Herridge.

The Canadian minister, it was learned today, handed the protest to Stimson last Monday. It was caused by a case pending in the Supreme Court, involving the validity of the seizure of the Canadian vessel "Mazel Toy" allegedly eleven and a half miles off the Massachusetts coast. The First Circuit Court of Appeals sustained the seizure holding it valid under the Tariff Act of 1890, which authorizes the boarding of vessels by the Coast Guard within twelve miles of shore.

The Canadian minister in his note, which has been brought to the attention of the Supreme Court, stated his government was unwilling to recognize that the Tariff Act had any binding force outside the three-mile jurisdiction of the United States.

The note said it seemed clear that seizure of British vessels on the high seas under the Tariff Act was not justified by international law.

Must Modify Stand Herridge closed his note with the statement that unless the United States modified its position to accept the construction placed on the treaty by his government, Canada would likely be forced to withdraw its co-operation which had been so effective as to "almost eliminate the contraband traffic on the coasts of the United States."

"It is the view of the government of Canada," the note stated, "that the 1924 convention (for the boarding of British vessels suspected of liquor smuggling) was intended by both of the high contracting parties to constitute a complete pact, covering all circumstances in which the exercise of jurisdiction over British vessels on the high seas could be justified."

TO ASK $200,000 TO ASSIST JOBLESS

State Forest and Park Association Says It Will Be Great Help Both Ways.

New Haven, Dec. 8.—(AP)—An appropriation of $200,000 for the state park and forest commission for relief of unemployed was incorporated in a bill prepared for introduction in the General Assembly next month, will be supported by the Connecticut Forest and Park Association, it was stated today by E. M. Ross, secretary.

Provision for relief along identical lines was made by the last General Assembly. It was expended through work in state forests and parks. The fund of $150,000 was exhausted last spring.

Secretary Ross said today the relief fund proved very effective in assisting the unemployed, and at the same time, much improvement work was accomplished in state forests and parks. The work included mowing for the protection, clearing fire lines, opening abandoned roads, thinning out young stands of timber to increase growth, planting of abandoned farm land and improvement of recreational facilities. However, only a small portion of the 68,000 acres of state forests was improved.

Ross said all the money expended in this relief work goes into the employment of labor. The only supplies and equipment needed are a few tools, such as axes, etc., and most of these are made in Connecticut factories. The men are employed in healthful outdoors work and accomplish much of real value to the state as well as supporting their families.

BRITAIN WILL PAY DEBT TO AMERICA; FRANCE MAY ALSO

Money Due Next Week Will Be Forthcoming, Paris Reports—French Premier Says He Will Recommend Payment To His Parliament Although Public Seems Against It.

Paris, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Premier Herriot, in conference today with Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, received the impression that England will pay the $85,550,000 due the United States on Dec. 15.

The report was that the premier left the conference disposed to recommend to the French Parliament that this country pay the $20,000,000 interest due America on the same date, but with the stipulation that this will be the last payment pending negotiations.

It was understood that M. Herriot told Mr. MacDonald that he would have to consult Parliament before taking a definite stand.

Mr. MacDonald told him, he said, that public opinion in England favored payment to the United States. He told the British prime minister that French opinion seemed to be against payment.

An official communique issued after the conference said the two countries will continue independent action with regard to the debts but also will continue their efforts to obtain by international co-operation measures calculated to promote the economic restoration of the world.

Might Hurt Accord Information from official quarters was that when Mr. MacDonald explained the nature of the British opinion concerning the American refusal to adjourn payment he insisted particularly that agreement on the Lausanne accord and the American attitude might constitute a menace to the Lausanne accord.

M. Herriot emphasized that there is general opposition in France to payment of the December installment on the part of both Parliament and the public.

He explained this hostility is based especially on the moratorium initiative taken by President Hoover and on the communique issued at Washington after the President had conferred with the British government and for the conclusion of both countries gave detailed study to the situation which would result from America's refusal of postponement, particularly its effect on the Lausanne accord and on the arrangements existing between France and Great Britain concerning the French debt to England.

A note issued by the semi-official Havas News Agency said the solidarity of views between France and England "has been affirmed recently by Great Britain, which refused to accept a moratorium and separate treatment offered her by the United States for the payment due in December."

M. Herriot, this note said, thanked Mr. MacDonald for this "gesture of the British government and for the constant occupation of Great Britain to do nothing and accept nothing which would cause prejudice to France."

The note added that it would be erroneous to suppose that today's conversations were aimed at establishing a united front between France and Great Britain.

The statesman who met today, the note said, considered all possible solutions, from non-payment to unconditional payment, and deemed it best to negotiate, to find a solution which would lead to common action.

Meeting Tomorrow M. Herriot said this evening that he would appear before the finance committee of the Chamber of Deputies tomorrow morning and before the foreign affairs committee tomorrow afternoon.

Meanwhile, certain prominent figures, including members and former members of Parliament, drew up a resolution urging that Parliament refuse any request for an appropriation to pay the December installment, and that the Parliament uphold the government in its efforts to negotiate a final settlement of the debts problem.

The resolution asserts that resumption of the payments interrupted by the Hoover moratorium would destroy the Lausanne agreement.

CONGRESS SETTLES DOWN TO BUSINESS

Pitches Into Work To Hasten Action On Farm Relief Measures.

Washington, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Congress pitched into the work of its short session in earnest today, perfecting organization, taking up legislation for debate and laying plans for speedy handling of farm relief and veterans' economy questions.

Before taking up the Philippine independence bill expected to be passed in about a week, the Senate agreed to reassignment of Republican committee posts necessitated by vacancies. The Democrats passed up the chance to seek control.

The rush to get out a beer bill for House consideration continued in the ways and means committee, with witness after witness testifying in favor of a 3.2 brew. Dry spokesmen will be heard later.

The joint veterans committee decided to start tomorrow on short hearings on veterans legislation and economy plans.

Cold Wave Is on Way To the Eastern States

(By Associated Press) A cold wave is sweeping down out of the northwest today and is causing much discomfort to those living there and who were unprepared for the onslaught.

An unofficial temperature reading at Georgetown Lake, near Ancon, Mont., recorded 30 degrees below zero. Thief Falls, Minn., had 25 below while in Wallace, Idaho, a blizzard, with 13 below was raging.

Temperatures in the east were sagging. Baltimore, Washington and Pittsburgh reported a rapid downward movement of the mercury and the weatherman said the extreme east could count on a cold snap today.

In Chicago where there was a sharp drop to 11 above zero last night, a word of consolation came for future generations. It was voiced by Dr. R. E. Wilson, formerly of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who said in an address, people are now living in the "tail end of the glacial age" and that 1,000 years from now the earth will enjoy perpetually warm, mild and dry weather.

SALE OF CHRISTMAS TREES STARTS TODAY

John McConville Is First Man To Put Them On Sale Here; Cold Wave Helps.

The Christmas tree season struck Manchester today along with a cold wave and brisk wind. John McConville of Homestead Park was the first man to put the trees on sale. His place is at Main and Birch as usual. This morning he was busy waiting for the trees to be carted against and this afternoon he carted the trees to their place. The trees appear smaller on the whole than last year, probably largely due to the belief that people will not want to pay as much this year. The trees have been stored in McConville's for a few weeks while he waited for the season to approach and for a cold wave which makes an appropriate time to start the sale.

MANCHESTER GRANGE MEMBERS ACTIVE

Manchester Grange members began a busy week by attending in large numbers the meeting Sunday evening at the Union church, Rockville, addressed by the High Priest of Demeter, Charles M. Gardner. Yesterday 26 members of Manchester Grange attended East Central Pomona Grange's all-day session at Suffield. Mrs. Laura Loomis of this town was re-elected secretary, and is now beginning her ninth consecutive year in that position. Last evening more than 30 local Grangers attended the meeting in East Windsor, where the local degree team put on the third degree.

At the meeting on Wednesday evening of next week, Manchester Grange will observe neighbors' night. There will be a candle light service and presentation of certificates to eight Grangers who have given 25 years or more of service.

END OIL IN NORFOLK (AP) Norfolk, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Mystery still surrounds the presence of oil on the surface of an area of ground in the rear of Hotel Martini. Noticed several days ago, it was believed to be due to leakage of the sewer pipe in that vicinity and a firm of plumbers was engaged to ascertain the source of the trouble. The sewer pipe was found to be in proper condition. In a test to discover whether or not the moisture in the area referred to was oil workmen set fire to grass which covers the section, and it burned readily. The oil smells like kerosene. It was thought at first that it might have leaked from an oil storage tank but a checkup showed there was none in the vicinity.

BEER CALLED HEALTHFUL AT CONGRESS HEARING

stipulated that witnesses would be limited to ten minutes apiece in the interest of speed.

SPREAD OF HEARING. Washington, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The House ways and means committee today sped its hearings on beer, with a view to winding up Tuesday and submitting a bill for House action later in the week.

Chairman Collier announced the plan for getting some form of bill before the House proper without delay. One after another, the witnesses for and against the legislation are to be paraded before the committee, so that early next week it can go into executive session to decide on the alcoholic content and tax to be recommended.

Witnesses were told their time for testifying would be limited to ten minutes each.

Representative Stafford (R., Wis.) as the first witness at the second day of hearings, said the people had approved the Democratic platform for modification of the Volstead Act, adding that this "profoundly influenced the vote in Wisconsin."

There is no need for me to dwell on the economic advantages which would come from the return of beer," he said.

If the bill legalizes wines, Stafford felt there should be a "saving clause" so that if wines were held unconstitutional, the beer clause might still stand.

Nearly all committee members were present, but the audience was small compared with that which jammed the huge committee room yesterday.

Advocates of modification were being heard first. Subsequently prohibitionists will give their objections.

Stafford said if Congress passes a law legalizing 3.2 per cent beer, it would "in no way supersede state laws which declare such brew intoxicating."

Dry States Protected. "In other words states which are strongly dry would not have been forced upon them," he declared.

Pacing up and down before the committee, he said a decision by Justice Brandeis of the Supreme Court had declared "all ales and porters" intoxicating.

Some of them contain ten and twelve per cent of alcohol. In my opinion beer of six per cent is intoxicating.

"But nowhere do we find any decision that beer of more than 1-2 of 1 per cent is intoxicating, as beer, say, with a content as high as 2.75," he held the opinion that the average beer sold in Milwaukee before prohibition was not intoxicating.

Representative Dyer (R., Mo.) also urged speedy action, testifying "I think we are agreed that the American people have issued a mandate to Congress to modify the Volstead Act."

Members of the judiciary committee, he invited the ways and means committee to read his group's record of testimony on prohibition.

COMMUNITY PLAYERS HEAR "CYRANO" READ

New Series of Monthly Meetings in Begun — Short Play Is Presented.

Last night at the Whiton Memorial auditorium the Community Players began a new series of monthly meetings. A short business meeting was followed by the reading of the play, "Cyrano de Bergerac" which may be seen in Hartford the coming week. Joseph Handley read the synopsis, and excerpts giving a fair idea of the plot were read by Miss Pearl Martin, Robert Marchant, Victor Swanson and Arthur Harold Garrity, all of whom were seated on the platform.

"This was something the players have not heretofore attempted and the result was both educational and entertaining."

After a brief intermission the curtain was drawn again to disclose a cheery breakfast room scene for the play, given under the direction of Alfred F. Howes. Mrs. Everett J. Simonds, wife of the director of the Y. M. C. A., was cast in the role of mother and Gunnar Johnson as father. Mr. Marchant as the son Jack had a healthy appetite for venison which was served on the table.

The British-American club has secured the Masonic Temple banquet hall for its annual dinner for members and their wives or women friends on Saturday evening, January 14. Chef Urbano Osano will serve a turkey dinner. Further details are incomplete as yet.

BIDS LOCAL INTEREST IN ART EXHIBITIONS

Mrs. Austin Cheney Seeks To Arouse Enthusiasm In Art Society's Lecture Course.

Mrs. Austin Cheney, a member of the executive board of the Hartford Art society, is endeavoring to create local interest in the coming course of art lectures and exhibitions by eminent artists at the Morgan Memorial, Hartford. Mrs. Cheney has a supply of season and single tickets and has arranged with the Dewey-Richman company to handle same.

The Hartford Art society, which is sponsoring these lecture-exhibitions, has conducted the Hartford Art school for more than 50 years, and young people from this and other parts of the state have had the advantage of the best instructors obtainable.

The first lecture, Monday at 8 p. m. will be given by Thomas B. Neumann on international art and the third by Kinon Nicolaidis, April 4, on American art. Mr. Neumann's exhibition is open this week at the Morgan Memorial.

Mrs. Corrine Murphy of Birch street left for Willimantic this morning to visit her sister.

Leo Brozowski of North street, badly injured in an automobile accident in South Windsor and a patient at the Manchester Memorial hospital for several weeks following the accident, is now in the aid of crutches, to get out of doors.

The Woman's Auxiliary of St. Mary's Episcopal church will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at the parish house. The business will include the election of officers. The hostesses will be Mrs. James Harrison and Mrs. Frank Crocker.

The Christmas lighting system was turned on today to allow men in the employ of the Manchester Electric Company an opportunity to replace burned out bulbs.

Thomas Raby, who for several years furnished radio entertainment at several different places through his "central control" station in the Watanoke Hotel is no longer a radio fan. Tom left the Watanoke for a private residence and soon abandoned his hobby.

Wapping Grange No. 30, will hold the twenty-second meeting at the school hall next Tuesday evening, Dec. 12. It is to be competitive night. The married members vs single members. Chairman of the married members is Frank House and his helpers are Mrs. David Carter, Mrs. Ruth Burnham, Mrs. Rosa Nevers, Mrs. Oscar Strong, Harold Turner and Edward P. Collins. Chairman of the single members is Miss Doris Benjamin with Miss Lillian E. Burger, Miss Dorothy Drayner, Miss Margaret Reinhold, Miss Mary Gardinas, Alfred Stone, Harry Twele and Paul Smith. There is to be a roll-call. What is one of the best qualities a man can possess? Answered by a woman and what is one of the best qualities a woman can possess? Answered by a man.

ABOUT TOWN

The regular open air service of the Salvation Army will take place this evening at 7:30 at Birch and Main streets.

The December and January groups of the North Methodist Ladies Aid Society will combine forces in conducting the supper, sale and entertainment at the church tomorrow evening beginning at 5 o'clock and continuing through the evening.

Robert Sanderson, of 10 Church street, has returned home from Mt. Sinai hospital where he underwent two serious operations. Mr. Sanderson met with a very painful accident Sept. 29, while at his work as a shipping clerk at Garber Brothers, Hartford.

Mrs. Thomas Ferguson, who has been seriously ill for several months at her home, 175 Main street, is recovering slowly. She is now able to sit up for a short time each day.

John F. Shea of East Center street, assistant manager of Montgomery Ward and Company, resigned his position from the local chain organization today.

The annual meeting and election of officers of Washington Loyal Orange Lodge No. 117 will be held in Orange Hall tomorrow night. In addition to the annual reports and elections of officers there will be other important business to come before the lodge.

The fatal accident through which Edmund Merz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merz, died through the local station at 10:40 this morning. The engine was drawing a baggage car and two coaches. It was a show troupe en route to Boston.

Work was started yesterday afternoon erecting the Christmas lights around Depot Square and a North Main street. Canvasers yesterday secured enough money to guarantee the cost of erecting the lights and paying the rental fee to the South Merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce.

The 40-foot long extension ladder, supposed stolen from the building being remodelled by Louis Jaffe on Purnell Place, has been returned. It was "borrowed" by a friend of the contractor.

There was no session of St. James' school today in observance of the holy day.

Mrs. Corrine Murphy of Birch street left for Willimantic this morning to visit her sister.

Leo Brozowski of North street, badly injured in an automobile accident in South Windsor and a patient at the Manchester Memorial hospital for several weeks following the accident, is now in the aid of crutches, to get out of doors.

The Woman's Auxiliary of St. Mary's Episcopal church will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at the parish house. The business will include the election of officers. The hostesses will be Mrs. James Harrison and Mrs. Frank Crocker.

The Christmas lighting system was turned on today to allow men in the employ of the Manchester Electric Company an opportunity to replace burned out bulbs.

Thomas Raby, who for several years furnished radio entertainment at several different places through his "central control" station in the Watanoke Hotel is no longer a radio fan. Tom left the Watanoke for a private residence and soon abandoned his hobby.

Wapping Grange No. 30, will hold the twenty-second meeting at the school hall next Tuesday evening, Dec. 12. It is to be competitive night. The married members vs single members. Chairman of the married members is Frank House and his helpers are Mrs. David Carter, Mrs. Ruth Burnham, Mrs. Rosa Nevers, Mrs. Oscar Strong, Harold Turner and Edward P. Collins. Chairman of the single members is Miss Doris Benjamin with Miss Lillian E. Burger, Miss Dorothy Drayner, Miss Margaret Reinhold, Miss Mary Gardinas, Alfred Stone, Harry Twele and Paul Smith. There is to be a roll-call. What is one of the best qualities a man can possess? Answered by a woman and what is one of the best qualities a woman can possess? Answered by a man.

Washington, Dec. 8.—(AP)—President Hoover was complimented today on his action in calling out Federal troops last summer to evacuate the Bonus Army.

29 BOXES OF CLOTHING IN GUILD COLLECTION

Total of 309 Garments Contributed in the First December Collection.

Twenty-nine boxes of new clothing have been distributed to needy families by members of the Needlework Guild, it was disclosed today. The remarkable growth of this new organization has aided in bringing comfort to those in distress. Some of the contributors sent in as many as a dozen or twenty new garments.

The Public Health Nurses spent a busy afternoon checking their list of the families and packing the boxes. Several of the directors of the Needlework Guild volunteered as delivery messengers. They report no danger of race suicide since they found many families with seven to nine children. Some people who are in need of help cannot bring themselves to ask for charity in this manner. They will be assisted in a confidential manner by Mrs. R. P. Knapp.

The reserve stock of supplies which the Guild has on hand will be stored in the Red Cross building at the Municipal building where all public health nurses will have access to it and can cooperate with the distribution of the new Red Cross garments. A total of 309 garments came in the December collection, practically all of which will be distributed by Christmas as the nurses and directors learn of additional needy cases. There will be another collection in January.

OBSERVE HOLY DAY IN CATHOLIC CHURCH

Feast of the Immaculate Conception Celebrated in Masses Here This Morning.

The Feast of the Immaculate Conception, a holy day of obligation in the Catholic churches, was observed locally with large attendance in Manchester. Catholic churches this morning received masses were celebrated in St. James' church this morning, at 5:30, 7:00 o'clock and 7:40 a. m. At the 7:40 mass, the attendance was so large that many were unable to get in. The number of people who received communion filled the altar rail five times. Masses were sung in St. Bridget's church at 6 o'clock and 7:30 a. m.

PRISONER REPORTED LOST IS FOUND IN JAIL

Hartford, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Stanley Piorowski, 25, of this city had eaten, slept and worked in the New Haven county jail as a Federal prisoner since Oct. 31, although there were no prison records of his presence there. This was revealed in United States District Court Wednesday afternoon after frantic hours had been spent in the U. S. district attorney's office in search of the lost prisoner.

Piorowski was finally located in the New Haven county jail where he had been returned Oct. 31 following his plea of not guilty to counterfeited bill passing charges. He could not furnish the $5,000 bond asked for his release. It appeared that the prisoner was taken back to the jail along with several arrested persons. He, however, did not wait to be checked in but went directly to his cell.

Judge Edwin S. Thomas sentenced him on his plea of guilty to one year in the Hartford county jail, execution suspended, and three years probation when he was released in Federal District Court here yesterday afternoon.

SUIT OVER CHILDREN

Bridgport, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A stipulation relating to the custody of the two children of Mary J. Lashar of Binghamton, N. Y., and Raymond C. Bullard of Fairfield, was presented to Judge Frank P. McEvoy of the Superior Court today by Attorneys Philo C. Calhoun, representing Mrs. Lashar and Edward K. Nicholson, representing Mr. Bullard.

The stipulation provides that the two children, shall be in the custody of their mother at Binghamton during the school year, from Sept. 1 to June 15 and with the father during the vacation period from June 15 to Sept. 1.

WAPPING

Mrs. Eugene W. Platt and two children of Wapping are spending a few weeks at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Frink of Andover.

The Wapping Parent-Teachers' Association will hold its next meeting at the school hall Monday afternoon, December 12. There is to be a speaker who will speak at the close of the business meeting.

All schools in the Town of South Windsor closed at noon on Tuesday and the teachers held their regular meeting with the Superintendent, at the Union school in the afternoon.

The Parent-Teachers' Association food sale which was held at the J. W. Hale store at South Manchester last Saturday afternoon was a success.

CUBE STEAKS POPULAR, REQUIRE NEW MACHINE

Pinehurst Forced To Get Bigger Cutter To Meet Demand of Manchester Housewives.

Walter P. Gorman, proprietor of the Pinehurst Grocery, today had installed a large Model J automatic cube steak cutter to take the place of a smaller machine that has been in use at Pinehurst for some time. The machine was installed by the Cube Steak Machine Company of Boston, Mass.

Since the installation of the smaller machine Mr. Gorman says the demand for this type of steak has grown immensely. He said that the smaller machine could not meet the demands put to it by Pinehurst's customers. Hence the purchase of the largest machine of its kind made.

Cube steaks are being featured in practically all economy menus and housewives are finding out rapidly what tender, palatable cuts of meat can be secured at the lowest prices if they are run through the cubing machine.

DRYS IN CONNECTICUT FILE THEIR EXPENSES

Hartford, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The State Temperance and Anti-Saloon League received $862.98 and spent $910.95 in its campaign prior to the November election, according to a statement of receipts and expenditures filed with the secretary of state today. The statement was signed by Superintendent E. C. Prettyman and assistant treasurer F. C. Young.

The league, which has headquarters in New Haven, received $862.98, $791.04 of which was given by Milton Conover, Yale professor, and Independent Republican candidate for U. S. Senator. The latter party gave $49.94 and there were other smaller donations.

The expenditure of $910.95 went for clerical help, mailing expenses, telephone calls, etc.

ODD FELLOWS' HALL DANCES OPEN TONIGHT

The first of a series of dances will be held tonight at Odd Fellows' Hall, at the Center. These dances are sponsored by a group of local fellows, and if successful will be held weekly. Jill and His Band will furnish the music for the evening of enjoyable dancing on the recently refinished floor of the hall.

It is planned that for a novelty for the last hour of dancing the band will play an all request program of popular dance tunes. Those attending are invited to place their request with Jill. Dancing will take place from 8 until 12. A large number of people are expected. The admission paid is extremely low.

COMMANDER TREADWELL TO BE BANQUET GUEST

Annual Gathering of Stanley Dobosz Post To Be Held At Rockville House On Jan. 19.

Department Commander Joseph Treadwell of New Britain will be the principal speaker at the annual banquet of Stanley Dobosz Post, American Legion, to be held on Thursday evening, January 19, at the Rockville House. A turkey dinner will be served and the following committee is in charge: William Foenhart, Clayton Thrall, M. J. Webster, William Loos and Oscar Phillips. A program of first-class entertainment is also being arranged.

The above committee made a report on the banquet at a meeting held Tuesday night in G. A. R. Hall. The annual banquet is the big social event of the organization during the year.

Department Commander William Q. Pfunder reported that the committee in charge of the Red Cross Roll Call, had been quite successful, and nearly $700 has been turned over to the treasurer of the Rockville Chapter, Red Cross, some of which was collected by the Legion Committee and some returns made directly to the treasurer, William Partridge. The Rehabilitation Committee has set $19.60 to the State Organization, and each member will give the sum of twenty-five cents to meet the quota of $100.

The membership committee, of which George N. Brigham is chairman, has already secured 125 members of the Post's quota of 260, and he requests all who have not paid their dues to do so as soon as possible so that the quota may be reached soon.

Woodstock Camp Plans
At the annual meeting of the Camp Woodstock Trustees held in Willimantic this week, the directors were authorized to plan for a six weeks camp period for boys and a two weeks camp period for girls in 1933. The boys' camp dates are June 28th to August 9th, and the girls' August 11 to August 25th. The last week in August was reserved for the 4-H Club Camp of Windham County. A meeting will be held on the first Wednesday of each month from now on to plan for the holding of Camp reunions, engaging of personnel, improvements and the details of the season's program.

Camp officers have been elected for the coming year as follows: President, Alexander Maitland of Thompson; vice-president, Sherman Eddy, Avon; second vice-president, Robert E. Hyde, Ellington; secretary, Hoyt W. Harden, Tolland; treasurer, Albert Williams of Woodstock. A tentative budget for 1933 was adopted, which provides for material improvements in the camp property and equipment. The directors and a committee of three will work together in making these plans.

Rosalie Lodge Elects
Mrs. Adolph Franz was re-elected president of Rosalie Lodge, auxiliary to the Hauri Gauri, at a meeting held on Tuesday night in G. A. R. Hall. Other officers elected are: Vice-president, Mrs. Fannie Mann; right hand assistant to president, Mrs. Emma Richter; left hand assistant, Mrs. Max Kabrick, Sr.; right hand supporter to the vice-president, Mrs. Oscar Badstueber; left hand supporter, Mrs. Carl Lehmann; treasurer, Mrs. Carl Mann; secretary, Mrs. Martha Frische; financial secretary, Mrs. Martha Gerstenlauer; past president, Mrs. Rose Gressner; inner guard, Mrs. Clara Wormstedt; outer guard, Mrs. Annie Wetstein; conductress, Mrs. Susie Ulltsch.

A New Year's party is being planned for Tuesday evening, January 3, at which time members are asked to bring a small gift for exchange.

Planning Christmas Cheer
The U. C. C. Club of this city is planning to bring cheer to the hearts of children and shut-ins during the Christmas season. The president of the club is Miss Ruth DeForest, and together with the girl members is dressing dolls to be given out as gifts. The boys are making toys. On Friday evening, December 22, the members will go out Christmas caroling to the shut-ins and thus bring them cheer in this manner. The club includes a splendid group of young people, who are out to do good in the community.

Jefferson Club Active
The Jefferson Club of this city plan to maintain its headquarters for the coming year, and a report from the organization shows a large membership. It has entered its second year of political activity, and is in a good financial condition. For the ensuing year the club will hold dances, informal luncheons, minstrel shows and other programs. The proceeds will be expended toward the expense of boosting their candidates for nomination. A meeting of the Jefferson Club will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the rooms in the Exchange building, corner of East Main and Market streets.

FORESTERS TO INSTALL OFFICERS JANUARY 3

Installation of the newly elected officers of Court Manchester, Foresters of America, will be held Friday evening, January 3, with Deputy Grand Chief Ranger, John F. Limerick in charge. The list of new officers was published in The Herald last night. One name was incorrect, that of Thomas Szpienza, senior beadle.

The state officers who were present at the election meeting were Grand Chief Ranger, Harry W. Streck of Bridgeport, Grand Secretary Thomas O'Loughlin of Naugatuck, Grand Junior Woodward Frank Odum of Unionville, Grand Junior Beadle Thomas Jones of Hartford, Grand Trustee James H. Reddin of Bridgeport, Past Supreme Chief Ranger M. Cole Kennedy of Hartford, Past Grand Chief Ranger Frank Barrett of Hartford.

The meeting marked the 36th birthday of the court and the organizer and founder, Patrick H. Dougherty, was present. The organization promised to take an active part in the emergency relief work this winter.

from her late home on High street on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The home would not hold all the friends who called to pay their last respects.

Rev. George S. Brookes, pastor of Union church, officiated, and told of the many splendid qualities of the deceased. There was a wealth of floral tributes. The bearers were: David McCormick, Edward Doherty, James Heffernan, Michael J. Conway, Charles Murphy and Maurice Spurling. Burial was in the family plot in Grove Hill cemetery.

The school physicians for this period have begun their inspections of the various children in the schools of the town of Vernon. They are being assisted by Miss Margaret Dornheim, school nurse. The physicians on duty at the present time are Drs. F. M. Dickinson and Dr. T. F. O'Loughlin. Many defects in the children have been noted and word is sent to the parents advising what course to take to remedy the matter.

Christmas Savings
The Rockville National Bank has out approximately $28,000 to members of the Christmas club. This is twenty-five and thirty percent less than what was distributed by the bank last year.

Postpones Visit Here
Rev. George S. Brookes, pastor of Union congregational church, who was to have exchanged pulpits with Dr. John N. Lackey, pastor of the Central Baptist church in Hartford on Sunday of next week, received word that the latter has received an urgent call to Chicago and will be unable to visit Union church at this time. Dr. Lackey will come here in January.

Special Sunday Service
On next Sunday night at Union congregational church, there will be a splendid program presented by the Liedertafel club of this city and the Little Symphony orchestra. These two organizations are very popular and there should be a large audience out to hear them. Max Kabrick directs the former club and Carl Prutting is in charge of the orchestra.

Notes
Mrs. Louise Hayes and family of Spring street have returned from several days spent in Providence, R. I.

On Friday evening, December 16, Alden Skinner Auxiliary will hold a Christmas party. All members are asked to bring a gift. Members of Skinner Camp and the G. A. R. are invited to attend. The committee in charge includes Miss Lillian Greenwood, Mrs. Annie Stepe, Mrs. Fred Lippman, Mrs. Mattie Degenkolb and Mrs. Lulu Binheimer.

Emil Kroymann, superintendent of the M. E. Sunday school, will address the Sunshine class on Sunday. Mrs. Fred Rabe of Hartford has been spending several days in this city, being called here by the death of her sister, Miss Hattie Glaeser.

GETS THREE MONTHS JAIL FOR 3 MISDEMEANORS

George Coleman Appeals Sentence — Family Row Last Sunday Brought Arrest.

George Coleman, of 134 Birch street, who was arrested Sunday afternoon charged with intoxication, breach of the peace and assault on his wife, was sentenced to 90 days in jail, 30 days on each count, when presented before Judge Raymond A. Johnson in Manchester town court this morning. Coleman, who was represented by Attorney George C. Lesser, took an appeal and a bond of $500 in his behalf was furnished by William Carr on property he owns at Spruce and Maple streets.

Coleman's arrest followed a family argument in which it is claimed he struck his wife several times. His wife and two daughters, Margaret and Lorraine, testified to the assault. Patrolman Rudolph Wirtalla, who was called upon complaint of Coleman's family, testified as to the intoxication of Coleman and also the fact that a crowd gathered outside the house when the argument was heard.

It developed that the family row ensued when Coleman tried to fix an oil burner. Coleman claims he was told to leave it alone and that his wife threw a tea kettle at him. He said he didn't strike anyone but only tried to liberate himself when his wife and two daughters attacked him. Natalie Ambrosini was called as a witness and testified that he didn't consider Coleman intoxicated. Judge Johnson wasted little time in passing sentence. He found Coleman guilty on all three counts and sentenced him to 30 days in jail on each count. It was Coleman's third appearance in court this year on similar charges. Coleman appealed as stated above.

SWEDISH SUNSHINE CLUB DINNER NEXT SATURDAY

Turkey To Be Served By Ladies' Aid Society—New Slate of Officers To Be Presented.

The Sunshine Club of the Swedish Congregational church on Spruce street will hold its annual banquet and meeting Saturday night in the church parlors. The banquet will start promptly at 6:30 and the menu will include turkey. It will be served by the Ladies Aid Society of the church.

A short business session will follow at which time the various officers will make their reports for the past year. The nominating committee, headed by Ernest C. Johnson, will present its new slate of officers for the members to vote upon. There will be a few other items of business after which there will be a period of entertainment in charge of Miss Mildred Peterson who is president of the organization. The committee in charge has worked hard and plans an evening full of activities. The Sunshine Club is composed of the young people of the church and its object is to promote good fellowship among the members. In addition to Miss Peterson as president, the club has Miss Jeanette Johnson as vice-president, Miss Margaret Stevenson as secretary and treasurer and Mrs. Ernest Johnson as vice secretary and treasurer. The club meets monthly in the homes of the various members and the sessions open with a short business meeting followed by a social and serving of refreshments.

14 MINERS KILLED

Madrid, N. M., Dec. 8.—(AP)—This coal mining town, one of the oldest in the state, mourned 14 of its inhabitants, today killed in an explosion and at the same time rejoiced in the safety of 84 who escaped a similar fate, while at work in the Morgan-Jones mine yesterday. Federal and state officials began an investigation. Mine owners, although not certain of the cause, said gas may have ignited. Four of the bodies were found soon after the explosion in a drift tunnel. The other 10 were discovered about a mile underground about 10 hours later. The bodies were kept in the shaft until night, and then taken to the hospital of the Albuquerque-Cerrillos Coal Company, owners of the mine. A large crowd of relatives followed the trucks a mile from the mouth of the mine to the hospital and there positive identification of the dead was made. The dead were all of Mexican descent.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8.

NO ROOM FOR ARGUMENT
 President Hoover's budget message, being a sheer demonstration in arithmetic, is scarcely open to argument. Unless members of Congress are prepared to dispute the thesis that two and two make four under any and all circumstances, it is impossible to see how they can deny the complete virtue of Mr. Hoover's exposition of the fiscal situation of the country. It is impossible to question his deduction of a continuation of enormous deficits unless expenditures are reduced and income increased to the point where they will balance. And if Congress is unwilling to have the nation travel still further along the road to bankruptcy no course remains but to comply in principle with the President's suggestions. It is not to be believed that this Congress or the next or any other will ever be so lost to a sense of its responsibilities that it will ignore the stark facts of fiscal mathematics once they are truthfully presented.

It does not necessarily follow that Congress must subscribe in detail to the fiscal theories of the administration—and it probably won't. Mr. Hoover, for example, has ignored one potential credit and one potential debit which Congress is extremely liable to employ in its calculations—the revenue from legalized beer on the one hand and on the other the fact that the war debts cannot be regarded as a dependable asset, certainly not after the current instalment.

But it is inconceivable that Congress, after the example of its own wild performances at the long session and their consequences, will not seriously buckle down to the task of stopping wastage and increasing income. It has the power and the responsibility. It will be sure to employ the one in recognition of the other. What it must do it will do.

CURRENCY EXPANSION
 In 1930, within a few months after the beginning of the depression and when it had become evident that this country was confronted by a down-hill movement in general parlance—and did—there was just one newspaper voice in this Eastern country that lifted itself in warning that there could be no restoration of values, on the farm, in the factory or warehouse, in the bank or anywhere else so long as the only full legal tender currency and the measure of all valuation remained the gold dollar. That voice was the voice of the Manchester Herald.

We expressed this conviction, not without fear and trembling knowing that we were preaching a doctrine long regarded as economic heresy, because it seemed to us to be very clear and very true; not in any expectation of being able to make a ripple on the hard shelled faith in the gold standard which had become the political religion of a very great majority of the American people.

It has taken three years of unparalleled unsettlement, distress and worry, of loss and chronic unemployment and every sort of human misery short of actual general famine, to prepare the minds of the classes and the masses of America for the toleration of a suggestion of currency expansion as a means of relief from the burden of expanded debt that has crushed business flat. That time, however, has arrived. It is obvious that we are on the very verge of a well nigh universal rush to the saving waters of inflation. And, because the approach to currency expansion shows signs of becoming a stampede almost as soon as it gets under way, there is going to be considerable danger of getting to over our heads and drowning in the very medium that, rightly employed, might mean our national salvation.

The Western farmers are out with a plan to devalue the gold dollar by reducing its metal content—an idea which has its points, to be sure, but which after all would leave the road open for a repetition of the present situation in a few years. Somebody offers the bizarre solution of the issue of a billion dollars of federal construction currency, to be self liquidating through what amounts to a stamp tax on transactions—a two cent stamp to be attached to each dollar each time it is spent until it has changed hands fifty times, when it would have paid for itself and be retired. We may expect within the next few months to witness the appearance of a hundred queer schemes of expansion. And it is to be suspected that some of them will be slyly and indirectly advanced by foxy members of the creditor group with the deliberate purpose of discrediting the whole expansion movement.

It is going to be a real job, even after the country is brought to understand the vital necessity of bringing the American dollar into reasonable balance with the volume of American debt, to devise an expansion method that will automatically and inevitably protect the country against wildcat inflation such as took place a few years ago all over continental Europe. But it is a job entirely within the capacity of the American people and their government, if they use their heads.

BEAM AND NOTE
 This newspaper, being constitutionally Republican in its politics, pointed out, the other day, that a lot of Southern Democrats in the House of Representatives, by running out on their own platform and voting against the Eighteenth amendment repealer, killed the chance of getting prohibition out of the Constitution this year. Seven of these individuals constituted the entire Arkansas delegation. There were plenty more of them.

Democratic papers, on the other hand, attribute the defeat of the amendment resolution in the House to lame-duck Republicans. There were seventy-one of them among the "No" voters.

Well, we were right and the Democratic papers are right. The Democrats killed the repealer by not voting it and the Republican lamheads killed it by not voting for it, even if it was only killed once. But we still maintain that there is a decided difference between the position of the Democratic dries and the Republican lame-duck dries, and that it is all in favor of the Republicans. The Republican dries were never pledged by their party platform to vote for unqualified repeal. The Democrats were.

The Republican lame ducks who voted against the repealer had every political right to do so. The Democratic dries had no political right to do so.

So we insist that those Democratic newspapers that are trying to fasten on the Republicans the odium of the failure of the repeal resolution have a mighty broad and blinding beam to rub out of their own eyes before they tackle the mote in the eye of their Republican brother.

GRABBING THE MARKERS
 Very interesting, to a person of any imagination whatever, is the strenuous, not to say violent, campaign which Motor Vehicle Commissioner Stockell and the State Police Department have just inaugurated against the old car. The complications potential in this crusade are almost unlimited.

We are told that the stern and zealous Mr. Stockell, through his vigilant coadjutors of the State Police, is not only going to see to it that your automobile is all that an automobile ought to be but, if he finds that it does not measure up to his ideas of a vehicle desirable to have on the road, he is going to command you to get out, take away your markers and have the objectionable old crate towed away, presumably to the scrap heap. The fact that his department may have taken your $17 or whatever just the day before and issued registration for it is to make no difference. If it's a bum car—it's out! Nor do you get your money back, nor your carfare home.

That's the way the case is presented by Mr. Stockell's office. We don't believe it will operate quite so drastically. It is to be doubted if the young men of the State Police force will follow Mr. Stockell quite so far. They will not be anxious to court a swarm of damage suits. Most of them know enough about the law to regard asstance that perfectly unconstitutional section of the statutes which purports to give the commissioner of motor vehicles the right of eminent domain over every automobile in the state of Connecticut. They would not like to rely on any such statute for defence in a legal action brought by a registrant whose property had been confiscated without due process of law.

That statutory section is interesting. It reads:

No provision of this chapter shall be construed to prohibit the commissioner from suspending or revoking any registration or any operator's license issued under the provisions of any statute relating to motor vehicles, or from suspending or revoking the right of any non-resident to operate, or the right to any operation of any motor vehicle within this state, FOR ANY CAUSE THAT HE MAY DEEM SUFFICIENT, with or WITHOUT A HEARING.

That is perhaps the most extraordinary piece of legislation ever solemnly entered in the statutes of this state. It is utterly unconstitutional and has remained on the statute books for the sole reason that it has not been legally attacked.

Of course Mr. Stockell must know this and the State Police must know it. It is doubtful if the threat to set motorists afire because their cars do not meet the peculiarly personal ideas of the commissioner of motor vehicles will be very extensively carried out.

That the public should be protected against the presence on the road of automobiles in a dangerous state of mechanical delapidation is, of course, unquestionable; even though it is a fact that far more fatal accidents are caused by good cars driven at high speeds than by old ones driven either fast or slowly. But that can be done without recourse to methods at which even a Mussolini would hesitate. And, we make no doubt, will be.

BUNIONS ARE PREVENTABLE
 Whoever invented the shoe with the pointed toe let the civilized foot in for a lot of misery, including bunions. You may have seen someone with a round hole cut out of the side of the shoe; this is sometimes done to relieve pressure on painful bunions which usually occur at the base of the large toe. A bunion may become swollen and inflamed and cause intense pain on walking, or it may grow slowly larger without much discomfort. It causes distortion and disfigurement of the foot and, once a large bunion has formed, it is likely to remain and cause pain for many years. Occasionally, rheumatic toxins settle in a bunion and the pain becomes sharper before rainy or cold weather.

The way in which a bunion develops is as follows: In between the two metatarsals of the foot, the strong tendon which moves it, nature has provided a device so that the tendon may slip easily over the bone without friction. This device is in the shape of a small sac, inside of which is a lubricating fluid which is smooth, as gelatine or gravy. This arrangement, called a bursa, separates the tendon from the bone. However, if the bursa is injured during pressure from a tight pointed shoe or from a blow, it may become inflamed and lose its property of secreting fluid. Then the two surfaces become dry and, when moved over each other, pain occurs. Such inflammation is termed bursitis and, when the bursa is involved is one of those in the big toe, this special kind of bursitis is called bunion. The large toe no longer points straight ahead but is cramped over toward the second toe. A similar bursitis may happen to one of the bursae of the other toe joints, but the big toe is attacked more often than the others.

The first step in the treatment is to properly fit the foot with a shoe having a round toe and flat heel. If you cannot obtain such a shoe in an ordinary shoe store, you may have to go to a special orthopedic store where the shoes are fitted according to the shape of the feet. A local treatment to relieve the pain is to use hot compresses or hot foot baths containing some opium salts for about fifteen minutes twice a day. Cutting a slit or hole in the side of the shoe may lessen the discomfort. Rubbing the foot and bathing it first in hot and then in cold water will also help. Once in a while we find a doctor who advises the patient to walk barefoot in the dewy grass. It may be a good plan to relieve the feet by walking around at home in either stocking feet or loose bath slippers.

Bunions sometimes become quite serious and may finally stop the movement of the toe or they may contain pus. Whenever such complications appear to be present, the best plan is to consult a foot doctor, or chiropodist, who will be best able to advise about the treatment after he has examined the foot. Bunions are entirely unnecessary afflictions and may be avoided by wearing the right kind of shoes which give the big toe plenty of room.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 (Soda In Vegetables)
 Question: Mrs. Josephine D. writes: "I would like to know what you think of using baking soda in cooking vegetables."
 Answer: I do not recommend the use of soda in cooking vegetables, as it is wholly unnecessary if the vegetables are properly cooked, although I do not believe that the use of bicarbonate of soda is particularly injurious.

(Purpose of Menus)
 Question: Miss Arleen O. writes: "Have just started reading your articles and would like to know if your menus are for reducing, or are the menus composed of properly combined foods for the average person? Also, how is Melba toast prepared?"

 Answer: The menus are intended as a guidance to the average person who wishes to follow a correctly balanced diet. The regimen is neither a reducing nor a stuffing one, but rather for the normalizing of the weight of the individual. Also, these menus are not meant for those under special dietary instructions of their physicians. Melba toast is made by slicing white bread one fourth of an inch thick, removing the crust, and toasting in a slow oven until it is a golden brown all the way through.

(Postponed Reducing)
 Question: Mrs. Henry C. inquires: "How can I take a reducing diet without injuring my nursing baby?"
 Answer: It is not wise for you to try to reduce your weight while you are nursing your baby, as the baby's supply of nourishment will surely be cut down. Do not nurse your baby for longer than six to eight months, and then you can start reducing.

(Cataract)
 Question: Mrs. Theda M. writes: "I would like to know if there is any treatment that will restore cataract eyes."
 Answer: It is sometimes possible to stop the formation of cataracts through adopting hygienic ways of living, but this is usually not advisable after the cataract has really started. It is generally better to let the growth continue until it reaches a size where it can be removed by a skillful surgeon. There is a fair percentage of good results from these operations. It is often necessary to remove the entire lens of the eye, but wearing glasses with heavy lenses will substitute for the one removed so that often a patient can see just about as well as before the cataract started to grow.

(Outstanding Ears)
 Question: Edna W. H. asks: "How can I train my son's ears to lie closer to his head? He is 15 years old."
 Answer: You should have begun to train your son's ears to lie closer to the head when he was younger. At his age the cartilage of the ears is well formed and not so easily trained. Holding the ears back all night with adhesive tape is probably one of the best remedies, with older persons plastic surgery is sometimes resorted to.

(Tubercular Bowels)
 Question: Mr. Wm. H. inquires: "Will you please explain the symptoms of tubercular bowels?"
 Answer: One of the common symptoms of tubercular bowels is dysentery or frequent movement of the bowels. There is also a temperature, running up higher in the afternoon, much as in tuberculosis of the lungs. I would not advise you to try to diagnose your own case, as sometimes colitis is very similar to tuberculosis of the bowels, and you may become unduly frightened or worried.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington
 LABOR WILL HAVE LOUDER VOICE IN NEXT CONGRESS

Prospects Regarded Bright for Passage of Measures Championed by Organized Workers

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer

Washington—Legislation endorsed by organized labor, embracing most of the more popular progressive measures as well as proposals of special interest to wage earners is likely to take a decided spurt in the next Congress.

Measures strongly opposed by organized labor, such as the sales tax, probably will have to be passed in the forthcoming short session or not at all.

These predictions may be made partially on the theory that President-elect Roosevelt will be more likely to aid than to obstruct progressive and labor legislation, but more especially because for at least 20 years no Congress has been elected which professes so much sympathy with the masses of workers as does the Seventy-third.

WATKINS

At least 11 of the 16 new Senators in that Congress had strong backing from organized labor in the campaign and a glance at the other five indicates that three or four of them will be sympathetic. Dozens of Senators and Congressmen whom labor considered inimical were defeated.

This means that certain measures heretofore controversial or neglected are going to be passed and that others not long ago considered "radical" or impossible of passage, will be brought up for a hearing. It also means that labor will have a larger voice in attacks on other problems in which it considers its interests involved, such as economy and railroad legislation.

The last session's only major labor victory was the anti-injunction law.

It seems certain that Congress will demonstrate a more sympathetic and aggressive attitude toward unemployment relief—relief of distress, relief of unemployment itself and for machinery designed to reduce unemployment in the future.

Last winter labor backed the La Follette-Costigan $375,000,000 direct Federal relief bill, which would have undoubtedly passed the Senate had it been the Senate we will have after March 4. It will be demanding relief in larger sums this winter and, if it doesn't consider the short session's legislation adequate, in the special session Roosevelt is expected to call next spring.

The five-day week in government service has been promised by the Democratic platform and that, along with the labor day, is a cardinal point in labor's program. The American Federation of Labor's executive council reports that the present amount of work available would not provide willing workers with more than 30 hours of employment a week, while the five-day 40-hour week and the six-hour day 36-hour week represent standards applicable to normal times at present.

Shorter working schedules for government employes is urged for their effect as an example and the Interstate Commerce Commission, by Congressional resolution, has been investigating the proposal of a six-hour day for railroad workers.

A movie company sends out a glowing blurb about a reproduction of Al Smith's Empire State tower for a melodrama. "A giant ape, measuring twenty feet in length, will be made to climb the tower with a woman in its hand. At the pinnacle the ape will be attacked by several squadrons of army bombers and pursuit planes."

We bet Al wouldn't stand for such monkey business in real life.

The Fletch club staged a fashion parade for the benefit of the Actor's dinner fund, and the list of mannikins read like a Who's Who of the stage and screen. Those who showed the new styles and how they would be worn were Margaret Churchill, Beverly Bayne, Helen Ford, Osa Munson, Mary Duncan, Helen Broderick, Evelyn Herbert, Helen Chandler, Marilyn Miller, Grace Brinkley, Jennie Smith, Natalie Schafer and Jesse Royce Landis.

Miss Munson, incidentally, fell in love with one of the creations she modelled, and wrote out a check the next day.

His neighbors have offered to pay his moving charges if he will get out.

Slips That Count
 Jones was going to town, so his wife asked him to order a pound of butter, two pounds of lard, and three gallons of oil.

"All right," he said, "I'm sure those great things will slip my mind." Tri-Bits.

More than 80 per cent of the 100,000 annual cases of diphtheria in this country occur between the ages of one and five years.

HOW'S SHE GETTIN'?

The inside of an automobile is more or less taken care of when winter rolls around and the motorist is faced with either preparing the cooling system and engine against freezing weather or doing without his car.

But the outside, which is presented to the elements a lot more than the inside, is neglected. And it's generally the protection of this outside—car finish and top—that results in a longer life of the car. The paint finish of a car is susceptible to the rigors of winter. Alternate freezing and thawing of moisture collecting on the body serves to weaken the paint pigment. In city driving a lot of impure water from melting snow, containing harmful chemicals brought down from a smoky sky by falling flakes, is splashed on the paint finish by passing cars.

Sleet and hard-driving rain don't help the paint any. And, during prolonged spells of wet weather, any little nick in the paint finish is apt to rust under, raise a blister and peel during the first spell of warm weather.

Better have the old bus gone over in some body repair and paint shop. It won't cost much to have the rusted spots on the fenders and around the door edges sanded down and painted over. And it will often save a lot in prolonging a new paint job which winter's action on a car's surface often hastens.

It's a good idea to keep the car well polished in winter. An oil or wax base polish is good during this season as the oil and wax tend to keep the water from direct contact with the paint, and shield the finish from harmful effects of dirty water.

And while you're thinking of the outside, remember the top. The leather fabric finish of the top soon loses its luster and commences to crack after a couple of hard winters. The minute holes left in the surface of this material widen every year.

As they widen, moisture seeps through, runs through the headlining of the car, and down the door pillars. This action not only rapidly rots the headlining material, but also rots the door posts, if they are constructed of wood. Soon the doors commence to sag, and the headlining begins to sprout white and green fungus.

Give the top a good heavy coat of reliable top dressing to tide it over the winter. It will pay in the long run.

A BOOK A DAY
 BY BRUCE CATTON

Fourth Volume of Von Bulow's "Memoirs" on Romance of the Past

The first three volumes of the "Memoirs of Prince von Bulow" were highly valuable for the revelations they made of European politics before the war, Bulow was in a position to tell secrets and to make pungent criticisms, and his writings were of vast importance.

Volume Four is now available, and it dips back to tell the first part of the late chancellor's story, the part which the other three volumes passed over—the story of his boyhood, his young manhood, and his early years as a fledgling diplomat.

It lacks, consequently, the historical importance of the other books. But in some ways it is more humanly interesting, for it gives a sentimental picture of an era that has vanished, the era when the German empire was young and lusty, when young officers could be sure that to serve the kaiser, was the greatest privilege a man could ask.

Bulow was a child of his time. He gives the most entertaining, perhaps, in describing his experiences in the Franco-Prussian war. Here we get a story-book war—gallantry, self-conscious heroism, gay trappings and inspiring bugle calls.

The atmosphere that shaped Bulow's youth is extinct as the dolls now. But it exists in this book—romantic, rather whimsical, appealing.

Volume Four of the Memoirs, published by Little, Brown and Co., is priced at $5.

DESPITE GUARDS MONEY IS LOST Men and Machine Watch Wall Street's Millions Day and Night.

New York, Dec. 8.—(AP)—This is a story of how men and machines day and night—protect millions down under a street that literally is lined with gold. And yet even that protection is not always sufficient.

Five $100,000 Liberty Bonds disappeared from the safe of the Connecticut Bank and Trust Company and today two men are under arrest in Boston as suspects.

Many Wall street institutions are interested in the outcome of this case because it may offer suggestions for improved protection of money and securities.

During the day a great portion of the protection is obvious even to the passerby. But during the night—when millions rest in vaults set in the earth—the deserted streets give little indication of the activity below.

Beneath the sidewalks men and machines labor, carrying fortunes to their hiding places.

Save Waste Paper In a huge room in another section of almost any metropolitan bank other men and other machines are sorting waste paper—one of the most important jobs of the night.

After sifting, the matter is labeled and preserved for at least three weeks. One bank saved its waste for a whole year.

Special guards armed with tear gas and riot guns patrol the corridors about the vaults.

In one vault 74 feet below the street level, microphones take up the vigil inside the huge money chamber as soon as the sixty-ton door is locked.

A man sits at an electric board in a control room, many feet away. Should a moment where there one in the vault—make the slightest noise, this man would hear it.

3 EASY RULES for Using Koppers Connecticut Coke

1 Shake less—Because Koppers Connecticut Coke is all fuel, and burns down to fine ashes that drop through the grate with very little shaking.

2 Use less draft—Because Koppers Connecticut Coke is High Test Fuel, it burns evenly without forcing the fire and wasting heat up the chimney.

3 Fill the fire pot heaping full—You can do this without danger of smothering the fire.

These 3 rules mean less work and less attention. Your Koppers Connecticut Coke fire requires less work in firing and in taking out ashes, banks perfectly and provides a steady warmth for less cost.

HE HAS learned that the important thing is not how much fuel he uses—but how much heat there is in the fuel.

It banks easily and comes up with the quick heat you want early in the morning.

The fewer tons of Koppers Connecticut Coke you will need, cost less a ton. When you burn Koppers Connecticut Coke you get better heat and more heat, with less work, and for less money.

Twice as many people use Koppers Coke now as did at three years ago. That is because people who try this scientific fuel never want to go back to less efficient, more costly fuels.

It is easy to enjoy the advantages of using Koppers Connecticut Coke. Act right now. Phone us or your fuel dealer and order for delivery at your convenience.

ASK HERO'S BURIAL FOR CAPTAIN ROSE

Beauregard, N.Y., Dec. 8.—(AP)—A hero's burial in Arlington cemetery has been requested for Capt. George H. Rose, skipper of the Munson liner Western World and retired naval officer, who was decorated for bravery in the Boxer rebellion.

His body was found yesterday in the bedroom of his home at 1474 Gaylord avenue by his wife, Eva. A bullet had pierced his heart. Police Rose said he had been long ill and six weeks ago a serious kidney ailment developed.

Born in Stamford, Conn., 52 years ago, Capt. Rose enlisted in the Navy in 1885 and served three years. He was decorated with the Congressional medal for bravery in carrying messages through Chinese lines in four battles in the Boxer rebellion.

In 1901 he entered the Merchant service, and in 1917 reenlisted in the Navy, rising to the rank of lieutenant in the World War and to lieutenant commander in the reserve after the Armistice.

He entered the Munson service as a captain in 1919. The Western World was to have sailed for South American ports Saturday.

The widow and three children, George Jr., Anna and Florence, survive.

FARM HAND KILLED

Bethany, Conn., Dec. 8.—(AP)—An automobile driven by Roy S. Wildman, vice-president of the American Brass Company of Waterbury, struck and fatally injured Thomas J. McGovern, aged 36, a farm hand last night as he was walking along Amity road near the Airport.

Witnesses told police McGovern was staggering along the highway and appeared to be under the influence of liquor. Traffic was heavy at the time. Wildman was not held. McGovern's body was taken to a funeral home in Waterbury, and officials began a search for friends or relatives of the dead man. The scene of the accident was inspected by Coroner James J. Corrigan preparatory to his inquest.

STORE MANAGER ROBBED

Revere, Mass., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Two "customers" greeted James Franklin, chain grocery store manager as he entered his place of business today. One of them hit him in the eye and the other took $22 out of his pockets, whereupon they pushed Franklin down the cellar stairs and piled 500 pounds of potatoes on top of the bulkhead. After that they took $14 more from the cash till. Franklin's cries attracted another store manager who released him.

Chocolate-LaBarba Contest May Bring Back Some of Old Glamour To Featherweight Class That Has Been Missing For Many Years.

New York, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Kid Chocolate, a slim negro boy, dazzling in his skill, and a chunky, curly headed puncher from California, Fidel LaBarba, can bring back to the featherweight division Friday night some of the glamour and thrill a great fighting weight has been losing steadily with the years.

They meet for 15 rounds in Madison Square Garden, with Chocolate's claim to the featherweight championship, granted by the New York state athletic commission, at stake.

With these two rests much of whatever chance the 126 pound class has at the moment of regaining the prestige the division knew when it was ruled by such men as "Ike" Wier, the "Spider" Terry, Terry McGovern, Abe Attell, and the prototype of all negro warriors since his day, George Dixon, the "little chocolate."

The featherweight class has taken on weight and topped far since Wier, a skinny Scottish lad who recognition as the first champion back in the '80's. The "Spider" came to America and fought Frank Murphy, an Englishman, 80 rounds to a draw in defense of his honors.

The title passed to Billy Murphy, an Australian, who quickly outgrew the weight limit that stood then at 118 pounds. He forfeited and along came George Dixon, the same year, to fight Nance Walcott in a London ring for the championship and a side bet of $2,000. Dixon won in 18 rounds and reigned for nine years.

Then a human torpedo, as great in his way as Dixon, and as opposite in his fighting style, "Terrible" Terry McGovern, caught the negro master on the down grade. In 1889 and knocked him out in eight rounds.

But McGovern, great as he was, met an early master. An unknown from Denver, Young Corbett, fresh as the morning dew, caught Terry at Hartford, Conn., in 1890 and knocked him out with a two round knockout. They fought at 126 pounds, eight above the limit and Corbett never claimed the title.

Both quit the featherweight ranks and Abe Attell fought "Brooklyn" Sullivan for the championship in 1904 with the weight limit raised to 123 pounds. Sullivan won the first time on a foul, but Attell scored a four round knockout in their second battle.

Then came a glamorous line of champions, John J. Kilbane, conqueror of Attell in 20 rounds in 1912; Eugene Criegel, the non hearted Frenchman with the won torn face who knocked out Kilbane in six rounds at the Polo Grounds in 1923, and lost the crown only three months later to bounding Johnny Dundee.

Evil times fell upon the class with Dundee's retirement in 1925. A tournament crowned Louis Kid Kaplan champion in 1927, another made Benny Bass his successor and in 1928 Tony Canzone, present lightweight king, whipped Benny. Adolfo Ruiz beat Canzone and Battalino defeated Ruiz and excess weight forced Battalino out a year ago.

New York recognizes Chocolate as champion, the National Boxing Association claims Tommy Paul, and California hails Baby Arizmendi as the titleholder.

So Chocolate and LaBarba, the latter a former flyweight champion, can settle only one third of the controversy. Odds are for Chocolate slightly. Each has a ten round decision in two previous meetings.

BASEBALL OWNERS EXPRESS OPINIONS

New York, Dec. 8.—(AP)—"Expenses from top to bottom will have to be cut" says Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"More trades," says Billy Evans of Cleveland. "Stronger clubs should dispose of surplus talent to weaker clubs."

"Our players limit should be lowered to 22," says Gerald P. Nugent of the Phillies.

"Baseball is a highly speculative interest. The club owners assume all the risks," says Charles A. Stoneham of the New York Giants.

"The player must hustle every minute and show he appreciates the fans' interest," says Bob Quinn of the Boston Red Sox.

"Give the fans a winner and they'll break down your fences to get in," says Louis Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox.

These are some of the opinions expressed by Major League club owners in a copyrighted symposium gathered by the World Telegram in anticipation of the annual major league meetings next week.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

When Wallace Wade left Alabama two years ago, it appeared that the Crimson Tide was due for a few years of pale pink gridiron performance. Wade left the school at the height of its football power. A reaction seemed to be the thing to expect.

Well, it hasn't happened. And one of the main reasons why it hasn't (with apologies to Johnny Frank) has been the coaching by Crain "Shrewd Tommy" Thomas, one of Rockne's old quarterbacks.

Looks Deceitve "Shrewd Tommy" might never be suspected of being a quarterback if you judge by looks. During his three years of running the team, 1920-1922, he was a round, chunky chap, resembling more a butcher boy than Rodin's "The Thinker."

FRANK THOMAS

This shrewd with a nice, round face on the campus could be an awfully tough taskmaster on the gridiron. As a quarterback he bossed such men as Harry Mehre, now coaching at Georgia; Chet Wynne and Roger Kiley, the mentors who led Auburn through an undefeated season this year; and Hank Anderson, now the Irish teacher.

He called signals for Mohardt, Deach, Barry, Castner and other storied Notre-Dame halfbacks.

Breaks in Horsemen "Shrewd Tommy" is given credit by many for developing the possibilities in Sleepy Jim Crowley. Thomas was a senior and had been regular quarterback three years when Soph Crowley came along.

The raw young man who was to become "the Four Horsemen" first romped under Tommy's direction. He played an important part in the development of first light backfield ever to be rendered a first string assignment at South Bend.

He ruled with a soft hand, using what the ads might call "a pleasing personality," to get a lot of work done.

Boys Pass It Along Thomas was one of the great successors of Notre Dame quarterbacks under Rockne. Before him was Brandy, who passed his knowledge along to the fat boy, and after Thomas came Stuhldreher, who handed his "stuff" down the line until it reached Carideo.

It Was No Pipe The task Thomas faced two years ago at Alabama was no bargain. He took up the job of teaching the Notre Dame system where something entirely different had been preached before. It begins to appear that he has done it pretty well.

Last year his team, far from slumping, led the nation in scoring, with 360 points, and won every game except that with Tennessee. This year Alabama again lost to Tennessee, but the Tide shares that defeat with a couple more pretty good elevenes. Georgia Tech also pulled a surprise at Alabama's expense, but the recent victory over powerful St. Mary's helped to wipe that off the slate.

The Shining Barb Tommy's ways with the boys are much like Rock's. He does not rave and bellow when mistakes are made, but carefully points out what is wrong. When he "rides" a player, he throws in the saving wisecrack that brings a grin to the offender's face.

Besides all that, he's a great little guy. The boys play for him.

Purdue will lose 11 varsity footballers by graduation next spring, five of them—Moos, and Letzinger and Janecak, guards; Capt. Gehler, center; and Horstmann, fullback—regulars.

GREENLEAF LEADS IN BILLIARD PLAY

New York, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Ralph Greenleaf today holds his usual position at the top of the standings in the national pocket billiard championship tournament. The 38 year old titleholder has won his two starts, while five others, Erwin Rudolph, Cleveland; Andrew Ponsi, Philadelphia; Bernice Allen of Kansas City, Pasquale Natale of Chicago and James Carasc, Wilmington, Delaware—are close behind with one victory each.

Portsmouth Takes Pro Football Lead

The Portsmouth Spartans, playing 11 men through the entire game, defeated the Green Bay Packers, perennial champs of the National Football League, 19-0, and took the lead in the professional football hands. The game, played at Portsmouth, O., featured the play of the Spartans' line which broke through repeatedly to spill Packers' ball carriers behind the line. The above photo shows Herber of Green Bay about to be thrown for a 6-yard loss to the Packers' 1-foot line.

REC FIVE PLAYS PITTSFIELD FIVE

The Recreation Center basketball team left for Pittsfield, Mass., 8:15 this afternoon where this evening it will play the Pittsfield Eagles. A game scheduled in Adams, Mass., for Sunday has been cancelled. Next Tuesday night the Rec will meet the American Legion of Housatonic, Mass., at the Rec gym. On Thursday of next week the team plays at New Britain and on Saturday at Branford.

BASKETBALL PROBLEMS

ALWAYS PASS AHEAD OF THE RECEIVER.

By NAT HOLMAN Star Player, Coach and Author of "Winning Basketball."

To test any player's knowledge of fundamentals and his judgment in deciding problems quickly, I often call the boys around me during practice sessions and quiz them.

I give them hypothetical situations and call for rapid answers as to what they would do or advise under such circumstances in a game.

Following is one of the problems: Q.—What is the best method of feeding the ball to a player cutting for the basket?

A.—Always make your pass ahead of the runner and time it so he doesn't have to retard his speed in order to catch it. If you are close to the man cutting, a two-handed chest pass thrown ahead of him is most desirable. If some distance back, a sharp one-handed wrist pass thrown from the shoulder, or a bounce pass, is recommended. When the runner is close to the basket, decide upon which side of the backboard he would prefer to shoot and make your pass in that direction.

NEXT: Plays from tip-off. Teams in the Knights of Columbus basketball league in Chicago, where some of the fastest basketball in midwest independent ranks is played, have decided not to adopt the rules changes ordered for this season.

REC FIVE PLAYS PITTSFIELD FIVE

The Recreation Center basketball team left for Pittsfield, Mass., 8:15 this afternoon where this evening it will play the Pittsfield Eagles. A game scheduled in Adams, Mass., for Sunday has been cancelled. Next Tuesday night the Rec will meet the American Legion of Housatonic, Mass., at the Rec gym. On Thursday of next week the team plays at New Britain and on Saturday at Branford.

BASKETBALL PROBLEMS

ALWAYS PASS AHEAD OF THE RECEIVER.

By NAT HOLMAN Star Player, Coach and Author of "Winning Basketball."

To test any player's knowledge of fundamentals and his judgment in deciding problems quickly, I often call the boys around me during practice sessions and quiz them.

I give them hypothetical situations and call for rapid answers as to what they would do or advise under such circumstances in a game.

Following is one of the problems: Q.—What is the best method of feeding the ball to a player cutting for the basket?

A.—Always make your pass ahead of the runner and time it so he doesn't have to retard his speed in order to catch it. If you are close to the man cutting, a two-handed chest pass thrown ahead of him is most desirable. If some distance back, a sharp one-handed wrist pass thrown from the shoulder, or a bounce pass, is recommended. When the runner is close to the basket, decide upon which side of the backboard he would prefer to shoot and make your pass in that direction.

NEXT: Plays from tip-off. Teams in the Knights of Columbus basketball league in Chicago, where some of the fastest basketball in midwest independent ranks is played, have decided not to adopt the rules changes ordered for this season.

SPORT PLANTS

We have decided to select an All-America football team from the "forgotten men"—that great group of players who do not get the season's headlines, nationally, for one or more of these reasons: (1) they played on obscure teams; (2) they played on losing teams, under a consequent handicap; or (3) they started on teams which were good, but lacked the proper publicity.

It is not a hit-or-miss selection. In the mass of All-America material sent to this department there are striking testimonials to individual prowess, including records and proofs. I have the endorsement of coaches as to some of these performers who had little or no chance to impress the big league observers.

Some of these names on the list are well known nationally, where their efforts have been applauded, but I doubt if any one of them rings familiarly beyond that. Let's give this All-America a hand: Ends—Myers, North Dakota State, and Wood, Furman (S. C.); Tackles—Stewart, Miami (Ohio), and Sklar, Oregon.

Guards—Martin, Colorado College, and Resnick, Rutgers. Center—Hutton, Albright (AP.). Quarterback—Wright, No. Texas Teachers.

Halfbacks—Schums, Wesleyan (Conn.), and Smith, Idaho. Fullback—Kraus, Gonzaga (Wash.).

Furman's Great End Dan Wood was one of the main reasons why the Furman University "Purple Hurricanes" had an exceptionally good season, holding Army to a 13-0 score and otherwise piling up a record of victories over South Carolina, Mercer, champions of the Dixie Conference; Davis, Illinois; the Citadel; Newberry, Wofford and Erskine.

Jimmie Thompson of Greenville, S. C., testifies to the havoc Wood raised with opposing teams and avers that Tulane's Jerry Dalmeyrie, 1931 All-America end, never played a finer game than the Furman star.

No "All-Big" Team Our efforts to assemble the tallest, heaviest football talent in a theoretical team of mammoths, fall a trifle short. Perhaps the Far West's nomination of Isaacson, 265-pound Washington tackle, as a starter, scared off the spirit of rivalry.

So far as our returns show he is not only the biggest lineman on any prominent gridiron this season, but the biggest since Georgetown's Harry Connaughton, all 375 pounds of him, made The Associated Press All-America.

Marshall Rieck, Brown's burly guard, weighed 285, and John Valenti, substitute Pittsburgh tackle, scaled 240 on the hoof. Tackles of the 220-pound variety were common, although Harvard's Mal Bancroft claims the additional distinction of standing 6 feet 8 inches in height. Nebraska was able to put an entire team on the field averaging over 6 feet, including Leland Coppel and Bernie Masterson at 6-3 each.

BOB MERCER GETS LETTER IN FOOTBALL

Middletown, Conn., Dec. 8.—Robert E. Mercer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mercer of 15 Elmo street, South Manchester, was tonight awarded a varsity letter in football by Wesleyan University. Mercer played end last season on a Cardinal team which lost but one of eight games. Mercer is a junior at Wesleyan and a member of Alpha Chi Rho. He prepared at South Manchester High school.

Clyde Unisa, Jr., shot a 485-yard par-five hole in two strokes at the West Palm Beach, Fla., Country Club course.

Rough and Tumble Contest Is Result of Tension Between Players and Loose Officiating; Guards Suffer By Losing Temper.

The National Guards met defeat for the first time this season when they bowed to the St. Mary's in East Hartford last evening by a score of 46 to 37. The game was played in St. Mary's hall before a large and very excitable audience. The game was rough and tumble from the time and this detracted greatly from what might otherwise have been a good brand of basketball.

The battle was loosely officiated by Joe Santerson and the players took advantage of every opportunity to inject personal contact and feeling into the spirited play which at times took on the aspect of a football scrimmage. The Saints played a bruising, smashing, aggressive type of game that threw the Guards completely off their usual style of play.

Instead of avoiding all possible personal contact and sticking to their well known passing and clean guarding game, the Guards lost their temper and mixed with the Saints on a rough and tumble basis. Being much lighter, the Manchester team was at a distinct loss in this attempt and it did not begin to play the brand of basketball of which it is capable.

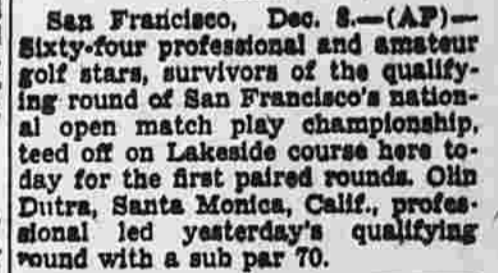

Five players were ejected from the fray, three on personal fouls and two for indulging in a fist-smacking melee. The latter two, Ernie Dowd and "Bevo" Hurley were aroused over a combination of close guarding and holding that went unnoticed. The fire-up came in the last minute of play but the players of both teams joined in separating the pugilists at a point when it seemed spectators might become involved.

Hurley, "Red" Malloy, and Paul Briggs did the bulk of the scoring for the Saints with Bob Cronin and George Stangle keeping the backcourt situation well in hand. The Manchester scoring was pretty much split up among the whole team. A continuing range boom, however, by McGann did not improve the Guards' faltering teamwork. The Guards found fault repeatedly with the work of the referee and let this affect their playing. All in all, it was a poorly played game that ended in an equally poorly manner. But the fact remains that the Guards were largely to blame for their own downfall. Even the way they played, the locals lost by nine points. A few weeks ago, the Guards gave the Saints a bad beating here at the armory. Tomorrow night the Polish Collegians of Chicopee, Mass., play the Guards here.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Detroit—If you want action, go out to the Highland Park police station, say "pancakes" to Captain John Parfhausen—and then run.

For the captain's special good part of the day of vanishing the bathroom at home, and then discovered he had been using maple syrup.

"I hope the boys at the station don't hear about it," he remarked as he paused in his efforts to remove the sticky stuff.

But Mrs. Parfhausen saw to it that they did.

Cairo, Egypt—The first Egyptian postman, Ahmed El Sayed Basdan, who was appointed 42 years ago, is hit weary of going into retirement after walking an estimated 142,575 miles, more than five times the circumference of the earth.

Chicago—The investment Alfred E. Kalberger made in a watchdog looked like a gilt edged proposition, until burglars came along, stole his $200 fur coat—and departed, taking the dog, too.

COUNT BEATEN UP BY POLO PLAYER

Los Angeles, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A dispute over a polo player's pay cost William Schurch de Witte, former Russian count and second cousin of King Carol of Rumania, partial blindness, a broken nose, two black eyes and the loss of several teeth, he told the California Accident Commission.

He said Morgan Flowers, polo player of King Carol, actor-writer, gave him the beating. Fisticuffs started, the count related, after Flowers demanded $450 which he said was owed him for playing polo by E. John Brandeis, multi-millionaire formerly of Oklahoma. De Witte was secretary for Brandeis who sponsored a polo team.

Called before the commission, Flowers did not deny the beating but asserted the Russian started the citation. The commission took action on De Witte's plea for aid after hearing both stories yesterday.

De Witte is the grandson of the late Sergei J. De Witte, former Russian premier.

SEIZE RUM BOAT

Morehead City, N. C., Dec. 8.—(AP)—The boat Padadish, of Nassau, flying the British flag, was held here today by Federal authorities after 700 cases of bonded liquor had been reported found aboard the vessel. Nine members of its crew were under arrest.

The boat, a new one equipped with twin motors, smoke screen and other devices, was seized yesterday between Portsmouth Sound and Cape Lookout by Coast Guard boat 232 under command of Boatswain C. H. Barker.

H. S. Barbrey, prohibition officer who assisted a land crew in capturing two trucks and part of the whiskey which was being landed near here, said the prisoners would be given a hearing at New Bern today or tomorrow. He said he did not know their names but that he understood they were being held aboard the Coast Guard cutter Pamlico.

The Padadish was to be taken to Wilmington where the whiskey is to be stored.

POLICE RAID DRILLERS

Belfast, Ireland, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A large number of police officers converged last night on a field at Finaghy, near Belfast, where Republicans were conducting military drills.

Upon the arrival of the officers the assembled recruits dashed away in the darkness but six of their number were arrested.

'WILDCAT' RADIO SET FOUND ON 'RUNNER'

New London, Dec. 8.—(AP)—La Mascotte IV, a vessel on the Coast Guard run runner suspect list was seized by the Coast Guard last night and with her crew of five was held in custody today on the charges that a "wildcat" radio transmitting outfit was set up aboard the craft.

The vessel, a 110 footer, operated out of Greenport, L. I., and registered at New York was seized off Gardiner's Island by a Coast Guard patrol boat from local base. The names of the members of the crew were not immediately available at headquarters but it was said that Salvatore Mascella of South Amboy, N. J., was the owner of record.

The activities of La Mascotte had been under surveillance of the guard for some time and she was frequently reported moving in and out of Greenport.

Coast Guard officers here directing the drive against liquor smugglers became suspicious that a radio transmitting set was aboard La Mascotte and last night the order to pick up the boat was issued.

At 5 p. m. yesterday La Mascotte, along with the Java, Artemus, Lady Hamilton and Sylvia all vessels on the Coast Guard run runner suspect list was reported at Greenport, L. I., and about two hours later reported as having stood out from there.

JOBLESS LEAVE FOOD

Washington, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A number of poor and needy who live by the railroad track had free food today—canned goods, potatoes, onions and other vegetables.

It came from a cache stored by leaders of the 2,500 demonstrators who were confined by police to a three-day stay on a street near the railroad.

Railroad police found the supplies—estimated by them as sufficient to feed all the demonstrators for one day—last night after the last truck had left. They turned it over to those in want.

Of all the demonstrators only about 15 were left today. They were members of the "rank and file" group of war veterans demanding bonus. They will present a petition to Congress and leave Saturday or Sunday.

ENGINEER SUSPECTED

New York, Dec. 8.—(AP)—George Austin, 50-year-old construction engineer, was held in $1,000 bail today for the Grand Jury on charges of grand larceny. Although he has been living here, Austin's permanent address is Stamford, Conn., where his wife lives.

He was arrested on complaint of Anna Brennan, a nurse, who occupies an apartment on the same floor as his at 136 West 78th street. Miss Brennan charged that while she was taking a bath yesterday Austin slipped into the apartment and stole two diamond rings and a diamond bracelet valued at several hundred dollars. She had left the hall door unlocked, she said, and glanced out and saw him leaving the room in which she kept the jewelry. Austin insisted that it was a case of mistaken identity.

MILK MORE HEALTHFUL

Madison, Wis., Dec. 8.—(AP)—A machine to impart the health giving qualities of vitamin D to fluid milk at the rate of more than three thousand quarts an hour had its final tests at the University of Wisconsin today.

Developed to make the Steenbock process for directly irradiating milk with vitamin D commercially feasible, the machine will be available to all creameries licensed by the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation.

Dr. Harry L. Russell, director of the foundation, said each quart of irradiated milk is equivalent in anti-rachitic value to a teaspoonful of cod liver oil. The flavor of the milk is not altered by the process.

Prof. Harry Steenbock of the University's agricultural school developed the process of irradiation.

POLAND'S SECOND NOTE

Warsaw, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Polish government has sent to the ambassador at Washington its second note regarding the $4,430,000 claims additional data to support the request for postponement of this payment and revision of the 1924 debts agreement.

BICYCLE RIDING

Editor, The Herald: In the "Open Forum" of last night's Herald there is a plea of great interest made by K. G. M. in behalf of protecting the lives of bicyclists from automobiles. Kindly permit me to second the motion of this writer, and also that of the editorial "Bicycles" in the same issue of the Herald. In fact the editor expressed himself in a similar excellent way in an editorial of a year ago, entitled "Bicycles To The Left," which was in the issue of Dec. 4, 1931. The latter editorial lies before me as I write.

Just at that time, as some of my friends may remember, I was in our fine Memorial Hospital with a broken jaw, the result of colliding with an auto which had started to make a left turn up into Lily street, as I was coming north on the east side of Main street, not so far away from "this miserable spot of highway" which K. G. M. refers to on Main street. I have thought that the editor wrote that last year's article out of sympathy with me in my mishap and in my belief in a good and over-ruling Providence, have marvelled many times since my accident that I was only stunned for a short time and not killed, but thanks to the quick stopping of the auto by its driver, I was not crushed.

Falling on the hard asphalt road evidently caused the breaking of the lower jaw.

The editorial of 1931 began thus: "The same guardian spirit which is supposed to protect fools, sailors and drunk men, or some kindred watcher, must have continually been on the job of the cyclist." This general and forceful statement, together with following one concerning "ten thousand hair-raising escapes" for both cyclists and motorists I heartily agree with. Not classing myself in either group, on our chief of police, I have sometimes considered I must have been in the first class simply because I did not ride on the sidewalk, as urged by our friend K. G. M. Some time after I had gotten out on the streets again, I made a call on our chief of police, and we talked over this sidewalk matter. As nearly as I can recall the outcome of the conversation, it was like this: 1. The law against bicycle riding on the sidewalk was not made because it hurt the sidewalk, but might possibly injure pedestrians in their rightful use of it. 2. The law was made long ago when bicycles were in their infancy, and old and young were glorying in the exuberance of what then seemed almost like flying.

As some of us older boys remember, cyclists got reckless and on their silent steeds dashed by pedestrians on the sidewalk as close as they dared, sometimes starting them in glee, and too often hitting them and knocking them down. Of course a law was made to stop this recklessness. This law is not wholly outmoded yet. But let us remember this was before the coming of the automobile. Conditions of travel on highways have utterly changed. When bicyclists were compelled to travel out in the roadway, they had little fear of injury from horse drawn vehicles. But as the multitude of motor vehicles increased, dangers to bicyclists increased also, and it does not seem to me that a town has any right now to force its citizens off the sidewalk into the path of the increasing number of autos that through our highways. A bicycle is not a motor vehicle in the sense an auto or a pedestrian walking on pedals.

Let me seem fanciful in this, and seem to indicate that I want unlimited freedom in this pedal walking on the sidewalk, let me hasten to say that plain common sense and gentlemanliness should be the guide of the sidewalk cyclist. I confess to have kept the spirit of the present law against riding the wheel on the sidewalk almost invariably, although sometimes seeming to go against the letter of the law, when in order to protect myself from harm by autos I have steered up on

MONKEYS BRUSH TEETH IN CARVETH WELLS FILM

"When I came back after a six years' sojourn in the Malay jungle and told true stories about fish that climb trees, or earthworms that whistle and sing, or fish that come out of the water, blow up and bounce on the beach like rubber balls, I was branded as a cheerful liar," says Carveth Wells, explorer, author, lecturer and radio star. "And when I went right on talking about full-grown deer so small that they are fried whole in a pan—monkeys that come down to the beach at night and morning and brush their teeth; about being snow-bound in a blizzard on the equator—well, my audiences called me a liar and let it go at that.

"But I was telling the truth, and in a measure have lived down that reputation and now that equally strange things are revealed in my latest picture in which I appear, 'The Jungle Killer', I am willing to stand on the 'Believe It or Not' platform and let it go at that.

"It was not until I wrote my book, 'Six Years in the Malay Jungle', the preface to which was written by Doctor Frederick Lucas, director of the American Museum of Natural History, that the public became a little more tolerant," continues Mr. Wells. "Doctor Lucas vouched for the truth of all my lies and then it occurred to people that, after all, I only had the faculty of making the truth sound like a lie.

"In other parts of Africa, I found many strange things that are embodied in 'The Jungle Killer' and a lot of bunk about supposed perils that it gives me pleasure to debunk."

PROHIBITION MAKES YEAST BUGS LAUGH

Washington, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Mr. Nathan E. Williams of Washington was announced.

The ways and means committee of the House of Representatives today forwarded Chairman Collier, presiding at the hearing on legalization of real beer, inquired whom he might represent.

"Only myself," said Williams, and proceeded:

"You can't stop nature's law of fermentation by Congressional law. You gentlemen have seen the festive dandelion pursued on the Capitol grounds for this purpose.

"When Congress enacted prohibition every yeast bug in the land chortled in glee and if you haven't heard a yeast bug chortle, put Traveler—Is this hotel run on the American plan?

Clerk—Yes, any of the bellboys will supply you with liquor.

When the wife raves that the hubby is impossible to live with, he doesn't know whether to answer "Is that a promise?" or "How soon?"

Small Boy (struggling with his home work)—I wish you would help me with this problem, Dad.

Dad (from behind his paper)—Can't, son. It wouldn't be right.

Small Boy—I don't suppose it would, but you might have tried.

It Takes 110 Pounds of Sugar A Year To Satisfy The Average American. But Nobody Yet Has Discovered His Capacity For Taffy.

Mother—Tommy, what are you doing in the pantry?

Tommy—Oh, just putting a few things away.

The only excuse for running to a neighbor's home in your pajamas is to have the house on fire and the telephone out of order.

Waiter—Isn't this pie just like your mother used to make?

Billy—Yes, indeed, but it isn't cut like my mother used to cut it.

What A Quiet Peaceful World This Would Be If It Were As Easy To Get The Nations To Disarm As It Is To Get The Girls To Disrobe.

Fat Lady—I would like to see an evening dress that would fit me.

Clerk—So would I, madam!

 FRIDAY, DECEMBER 9, 8:15
 MANCHESTER GREEN
 COMMUNITY CLUB
 Turkeys, 1st Prizes. Dollars, 2d Prizes.
 Refreshments. 35 cents.
 All Players Welcome!

ABOUT TOWN

Leslie Dotchin of 14 Wadsworth street who has been ill for several weeks past with jaundice is now convalescing, but it is expected he will be unable to resume his work at the Travelers Insurance company for some time yet.

Mrs. Brigadier Bates of Hartford will open the Christmas sale of the Women's Home League at the Salvation Army citadel this evening at 7 o'clock.

The entertainment given by the young people of the Christian Endeavor society last night at the Second Congregational church was well attended. The program included two one-act plays, "Who Kissed Barbara?" and "Henry's Mail Order Wife," piano solos by Miss Dorothy Gess, tap dances by Miss Gess and her brother William and harmonica and violin numbers. Roger Winton directed one of the plays and David Williams the other. Both proved highly amusing. Home made candy was sold during intermission.

The Manchester Mothers club will meet tomorrow evening at the Center church house for its monthly business meeting. The speakers will be Miss Pauline Burbank of the Whiton Memorial library whose subject will be "Children's Books," and Kenneth P. Fallon of New Haven, who will talk on "Children's Toys." An exchange of inexpensive Christmas gifts will take place during the evening. Mrs. Joseph Tedford and Mrs. B. L. Knight head the committee of hostesses.

Delta Chapter, No. 5, Royal Arch Masons will put on the work at West Hartford Chapter, No. 63 this evening. Automobiles will leave at the Masonic Temple at 6:45 and will accommodate all companions who care to go.

Dr. Julius Hulteen of Hartford will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Men's society, Friday evening at 7:30 at Emanuel Lutheran church. He will discuss "Old Christmas Customs." An old-fashioned Christmas lunch will be served and all will be welcome to attend.

Loyal Circle of King's Daughters will serve a chicken pie supper between the hours of 5 and 7 o'clock this evening in the banquet hall of the Center Congregational church. During the evening there will be a sale of a variety of gift articles and household goods, and an exhibition of patchwork quilts for the most part pieced by or the property of the circle members.

A union meeting of the congregations of the North Methodist and the Second Congregational church will be held in the latter building, under auspices of the young people societies of both churches. The guest speaker will be Rev. George G. Scrivener, district superintendent of the Norwich area. Dr. Scrivener was formerly pastor of the South Methodist church here and a leader in young people's work last summer at the Willimantic campgrounds. The service will be at 7 o'clock.

The Justamere Bridge club will hold its first meeting of the season tomorrow afternoon with the president, Mrs. Cleon Chapman, of Strickland street.

The King's Herald and Home Guards will meet at the South Methodist church tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The cabaret dance given by the John Mather Chapter of DeMolay last night at Masonic Temple attracted about seventy couples. The Harlem Troubadours, a colored orchestra, furnished the music and assisted in putting on a snappy floor show. Tony O'Bright, local xylophonist, assisted by Ken Hudson at the piano, added a bit of local touch to the entertainment.

Another cold wave struck Manchester today adding to the hope of many Manchester boys and girls that there will be skating by Christmas. Fishermen also awaited eagerly suitable ice for carrying out their favorite sport.

Mrs. L. N. Heebner of Park street, wife of the late L. N. Heebner who died a few weeks ago, will leave Saturday for Newton Highland, Mass., where she will live with her daughter, Mrs. Everett Bunker during the winter months. She is storing some of her furniture and plans to return to Manchester next spring.

The Manchester Green Community club will give the weekly setback and dance tomorrow evening at the Green school assembly hall. Playing will begin at 8:15 and the men and women running up the highest scores will win Christmas turkeys and dollar bills. Refreshments and dancing will be in charge of the men's committee.

WILLIAM LYONS PHELPS INSURANCE DAY GUEST

Famous Professor Has Prominent Place on Program For Next Thursday.

Professor William Lyons Phelps, well-known to thousands as a brilliant author and lecturer, will have a prominent place on the Connecticut Insurance Day program at Hartford next week, Thursday, Dec. 10th. He will be one of the three distinguished "after-luncheon" speakers who will address the delegates to this eighth annual get-together of Connecticut insurance men.

Professor Phelps is Lamson Professor of English at Yale and is also the university orator. His interests include music and the arts, of which he is patron, critic and leader. The "arts" of commerce and industry also appeal to his philosophical nature and he is in great demand as an inspirational speaker at business gatherings.

His associates on this luncheon program will be Hon. Wilbur L. Cross, governor of Connecticut and Paul L. Hald, president of the Insurance Executives Association of New York. This will be Mr. Hald's first speech before a group of Connecticut insurance men since accepting the presidency of the recently formed organization of which he is the head.

General Chairman George E. Turner, president of the First Re-Insurance Company, says that from present indications this year's Insurance Day will be a most successful occasion. Although there will be many interesting and instructive features, the conference will adjourn promptly at 5:30, thus permitting all Connecticut delegates to reach their homes at a convenient hour.

Although Connecticut Insurance Day is sponsored by various state insurance organizations and the attendance will be drawn largely from men who will be welcomed at this one-day convention. Both morning and afternoon sessions will be held at the Aetna Life Insurance Company building on Farmington avenue, the hour for registration being 9:30 a. m. The only charge will be a $2.00 fee which will include luncheon, general sessions and departmental sessions. Insurance Day is the big event of the year for all Connecticut insurance men—life, fire and casualty and doubtless there will be an unusually large attendance.

LOSES FINE SWEATER, IS BOUND TO FIND IT

Ben Clune's Red and Black Wool Jacket Has Police and Detectives On Its Trail Now.

A valuable red and black wool sport jacket owned by Ben Clune, manager of the Recreation Center basketball team, was stolen from the Recreation building Tuesday night and police here and in New Britain are seeking to trace its thief. The sweater was highly prized by Clune who said it was the only one of its kind made. He placed the value at $25.

In addition to the sweater, a pair of new gloves in the pockets of the sweater, were stolen. On the night the sweater was stolen, a basketball team from New Britain played Clune's team at the Rec and he said that the visiting players left their coats in the same room with his sweater. Yesterday morning Clune went to New Britain where with the help of a detective, he interviewed some of the New Britain players but so far the sweater has not been discovered.

Ten years ago Clune and another Manchester man by the name of Trotter had two overcoats stolen at the Rec. It was discovered that two strangers stopped at the Rec for a shower. They were traced and caught in Willimantic. The pair was arrested and each got a thirty days' jail sentence. Clune, however, is not anxious to have the person who stole his sweater arrested and will even give the thief the new pair of gloves if he will only return the sweater. Last year Clune, the cross country runner here an athlete from Newark, N. J., offered Clune a good price for the sweater but Clune informed him money could not buy it.

EDUCATIONAL CLUB AT FULL ACTIVITY

Many Projects Undertaken Entirely By Volunteers; No Overhead Costs.

The welfare work of the Educational Club is in full swing. During the past week the sale of Christmas Seals has been going on. From the sale of these seals the club receives a great deal of the money used to carry on its work. Of the total amount realized every cent goes for welfare work among the children of Manchester. The Educational Club has no paid clerks nor office expense of any kind. All work in connection with the sale of the seals is done by volunteer workers and members of the club.

A resume of the various projects of the club is of interest: Three hundred dollars have been appropriated for the Nutrition Class of the Nathan Hale school. This class is made up of 20 pupils between the ages of six and twelve years. Each morning these children receive servings of milk or cocoa, sandwiches or hot cereal. Each afternoon they are served with milk or cocoa. Talks are given on proper foods, health rules and rest. Charts are kept where weights are carefully watched. All members of the class are gaining in weight so far this year. One member has gained five and one-half pounds. Children whose parents can afford to pay toward the cost of the food received do so. The remainder of the cost is covered by the Educational Club.

At the Robertson school, the club is sponsoring another Nutrition Class. Here the need is greater. This class is made up of 40 pupils. Hot lunches are being served each day. The menu varies. Some of the foods served are creamed dried beef, corn chowder, beef stew, creamed codfish, bean soup, country chowder, bread, butter and cocoa. The bread and vegetables are donated. Four hundred dollars has been given by the Educational Club for this school.

Forty-three pupils at the Hollister street school are receiving cocoa and sandwiches each day. This bread is also donated. Part of the cost of cocoa is covered by the sale of cocoa to other pupils who are not members of the Nutrition Class. Seventy-five dollars of club money has been given to back this work. In the Lincoln and Washington schools needy children are being given free milk. Each school has received seventy-five dollars for this purpose, from the club.

At the Nathan Hale school each kindergarten child receives each morning a serving of milk or cocoa and nutritious crackers of various kinds. One hundred dollars of the club money has been voted for this cause. Children who can afford to pay for this service do so. Corrective Work In addition to the nutrition work, the club is doing much corrective work among children. The hospital chest clinic has received $100 for its work with children. This is used for X-ray work. One hundred fifty dollars has been set aside for the use of the school nurses and dental hygienists so that they are able to have dental work, tonsillectomies and correct eye treatment done for children whose parents are unable to finance such care. In some cases parents have been able to repay the club a little at a time. When possible, this is done. Seventy-five dollars have been voted for the extraction of teeth in cases that are urgent and for which parents are unable to pay. The written consent of the parent is required for such extractions.

Last year $50 was used for the filling of teeth of children in the Nathan Hale Nutrition class. This was done in order to save permanent teeth which would have had to be extracted if not treated at once. The club financed this project because of inability of the parents to do so.

Dental Hygiene The work of the dental hygienists in the schools this year is being supported by the Educational Club. The funds from the Christmas Seal sale have made possible much of the work outlined. The need will be even greater this winter. Won't you enclose, in the envelope you have received, your returns for the seals and mail it today so that this good work may go on uninterrupted?

Y. P. FEDERATION MEETS HERE TOMORROW NIGHT

Final Meeting of Season To Be Held At Second Congregational Church At 7:45 P. M.

The Manchester Young People's Federation will hold its final meeting for the season at the Second Congregational church tomorrow evening at 7:45. The committee in charge of arrangements, Miss Marjorie Crockett, Miss Shirley MacLachlan and Herman Johnson have secured an excellent speaker in Rev. Oliver V. Bell of Hazardville. Instrumental music will be furnished by a quartet from the Salvation Army band, a men's octet from the Emanuel Lutheran church will sing and the well known juvenile entertainers, Joyce, Constance and Emma Lou Kehler, will be heard in musical numbers and sketches.

Rev. Bell is considered one of the foremost religious educators in this area. In co-operation with the other pastors in Hazardville, including Father Brennan of the Roman Catholic church—who is a Manchester boy—he is giving leadership to one of the most outstanding projects in weekday schools of religion operating in Connecticut.

A social period with refreshments is to follow the address and program tomorrow evening.
