

HOOVER SUGGESTS A HIGHER TARIFF

Or Else Have Foreign Currencies Stabilized, He Says—Flood of Cheap Goods Swamping Nation.

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—In the face of impending discussions of debts and economics with foreign nations, the view was expressed today in the highest administration sources that either American tariffs must be raised or foreign currencies stabilized.

Three nations—Finland, Latvia and Czechoslovakia—now have fallen into line behind Great Britain and Italy in seeking and being granted a discussion with the next administration of their debt terms.

In these discussions, President-elect Roosevelt has determined to put this nation's bargaining power into play to get trade advantages for this country.

From quarters qualified to speak the mind of President Hoover, it was word today that he felt the United States was just beginning to feel the full effect of the departure from the gold standard of Great Britain and other nations last year.

Flood of Cheap Goods

A heavy influx of foreign goods, sold more cheaply on the American market than they could be produced in this country, was said to be necessitating either tariffs be raised, or the forthcoming world economic conference must meet soon and move toward a stabilization of currencies.

In Geneva today the preparatory commission for the world parity conference is working on a preliminary plan for the meeting.

Meanwhile, the Senate foreign relations committee favorably reported the Borah bill to authorize $100,000 for expenses of American participation in the economic conference. President Hoover requested the sum.

Tariffs, currency, and the question of finding markets for American goods are likely to be an important part in the debt discussion. A request for an opportunity to participate in these came today from the Finnish minister and the State Department was informed that the Latvian minister would come to Washington tomorrow to make a similar application.

Their War Debts
Finland owes $8,800,000 and Latvia, $7,000,000.

Indication already has been given that all of the nations, such as Latvia, Finland and Czechoslovakia, that have not defaulted would be given the same opportunity for discussion as has been accorded Great Britain and Italy.

The outline of President Hoover's views described him as feeling that what countries are not able to pay in cash one of the compensations

FREE STATE'S VOTE HEAVIEST EVER

Leaders Predict An Extremely Close Race Between Cosgrave and De Valera.

Dublin, Irish Free State, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Counting of the heaviest vote in Irish history began today; with indications of an extremely close race between President Eamon de Valera and William T. Cosgrave for the presidency.

A definite trend in yesterday's election of a new Dail Eireann—the Irish House of Representatives which in turn elects the president of the executive council—was not likely to develop until tomorrow. In some scattered districts clerks will not be able to open ballot boxes until then.

Many Riots
Rioting, which featured many meetings during the whirlwind three-week campaign, carried right through into election day with the biggest free-for-all at a polling booth in Ashburton. Tear gas bombs used by troops, summoned from an army barracks several miles away, finally ended the row. Civil guards previously found they were unequal to the situation.

Offer Even Money
Bookmakers were offering even money that De Valera would retain supreme power or that Cosgrave would win the necessary majority to retain the presidency.

De Valera, who desires complete independence for England, was believed by some observers to have gained heavily in the rural districts. Cosgrave, who, on the other hand favors continuation of the Free State as an integral part of the British Empire, was believed to have run strong in the cities. The vote ranged from 70 to 90 per cent in the unfranchised electorate, based on a 1,730,000 in the 1927 registration.

HUGE PROGRAM FOR SATURDAY'S SHOW COMPLETE

Benefit Basketball Game Here Saturday To Be Supplemented By Vaudeville, Presence of Famous Flyer.

A three-hour program of the most diversified entertainment ever offered in Manchester has been completed for presentation at the annual basketball tilt between the local Old Timers and the New Britain Old Timers, to be played at the State Armory Saturday night. The program was announced today by J. Leo Fay and J. Bennett Chitt, who are handling the arrangements, and will be presented according to a time schedule that will allow one and one-half hours for dancing.

Col. Chamberlin Coming
One of the outstanding figures in the aviation world will be on hand, Colonel Clarence Chamberlin having promised positively to appear and give a ten-minute address on his famous trans-Atlantic flight. Chamberlin hopped the Atlantic from New York to Eiseleben, Germany, a distance of 3,911 miles, the second longest non-stop flight in aviation history. He is rated as one of the most efficient pilots in the world, his record for safety being extremely fine. In a telephone conversation with the editor of The Herald Col. Chamberlin said he would positively be here.

Connecticut's political world will also be well represented as Mayor William Quigley of Hartford and Mayor George Quigley of New Britain will be present to give brief two-minute speeches. Many other local and state notables in many fields of activity will also attend.

Vaudeville
The vaudeville acts have all been obtained and are said to be of unusually fine caliber. Ernie Woodell, charity superintendent of Westchester, who formerly starred in a pantomime act in Scotland, will present a Scotch act that abounds in humor and mirth. The Dancing Sailors, a team from Hartford, will appear in a clever dancing act. This duo are scheduled to appear in the big time this fall and are hailed as masters of terpsichore.

James "Dodger" Dowd, physical director at the Berkshire School in New York, will bring thirteen boys from his school, between the ages of 12 and 16, to present a high class tumbling exhibition. This team has taken many prizes in competition and are sure to hold the interest of those in attendance. To round out the program, Arthur McGinley, sports editor of the Hartford Times, will give a humorous monologue. He is a specialist at wirecracking. Each act will be limited to ten minutes and will be carried to the crowd on an amplified voice.

College Students Pay $1.52 for Week's Board

Yonkers City, Ia., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Seventy years ago the University of Iowa announced in its catalogue that "the price of board varies from $2 to $3 a week."

During the current school year twenty-three men are receiving three meals a day on the same campus at an average weekly cost of $1.52.

The new "low" in weekly board bills is the accomplishment of Kellogg House, a co-operative dormitory whose occupants claim to have met an all-time record for group success in reducing the cost of higher education.

Members of Kellogg House, many of whom are from the rural districts, have managed to reduce their weekly board bills to $1.52 by growing their own vegetables, raising their own chickens, and using their own wash water.

SCOTT PHOTOGRAPHED AS TECHNOCRATS SPLIT

For the first time since Technocracy became a national byword Howard Scott (center), chief Technocrat, posed for a picture with two friends as he discussed the schism that has come in ranks of the Technocrats. Four leaders withdrew from the Technocratic organization, announced they would continue the energy survey under another name and without Scott's aid. Scott, however, announced that Technocracy "must go on." With him as he met photographers were Prof. M. King Hubbert (left) and Dal Hitchcock (right).

UNITED STATES MOVES TO PREVENT CONFLICT

World Powers Called To Act As Peacemakers Between Peru and Colombia; War Threatens Over Port.

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The smoldering conflict between Peru and Colombia over possession of the Amazon river port of Leticia has been brought to the attention of world powers signatory to the Kellogg Peace pact by the American government.

In a hurriedly called meeting at Secretary Stimson's home last night, diplomatic representatives of those nations considered the threatened war between Peru and Colombia and Colombia's appeal for joint action under the Kellogg Treaty to avert a crisis.

The Colombia note asked that the world powers call on Peru not to violate the Pact of Paris. The Leticia port was ceded to Colombia by Peru under a treaty signed in 1922. Last September Peruvian Nationals seized it and now Colombian naval vessels are enroute to recapture the city.

Several days ago Peru sent a note to the League of Nations, protesting against what it termed a violation by Colombia of Article 15 of the League's Covenant.

Reply Is Drafted
Stimson's aides were understood to have spent yesterday in drafting a reply to Colombia's appeal. Among the diplomats who met at Stimson's home last night were the ambassadors of Japan, France and Great Britain. The Italian and German ambassadors also were understood to have been invited.

In 1925 under American good offices, Colombia, Peru and Brazil agreed in Washington to settle their boundary questions on the basis of the 1922 treaty between Peru and Colombia.

Negotiations between Peru and Colombia at Rio de Janeiro over Leticia recently came to naught when Peru rejected a Brazilian proposal to hold that port for Colombia for a short time after which negotiations were to proceed for revision of the 1922 treaty.

Stimson has scrutinized every action touching the Kellogg Pact and yesterday, a few hours after Colombia dispatched her appeal, it was predicted that United States support

DR. MERRITT H. EDDY IS 100 YEARS OLD

Vermont Physician Is Oldest Practicing Doctor In the United States.

Middlebury, Vt., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Dr. Merritt H. Eddy, America's oldest practicing physician, today celebrated his 100th birthday.

Since 1865 Dr. Eddy has cared for the wants of a host of patients in the surrounding countryside. He has shaken sleep from his eyes to cradle through snow blanketed roads to a sufferer's side and he has driven his horse and carriage through hooded streams to usher a new babe into the world. Today, the feebleness of age upon him, he advises his patients from his bed.

PREDICT A BREAK IN WESTERN STORM

For Last 24 Hours Snow, Gales, Have Taken Lives and Harried Shipping.

San Francisco, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Temporary cessation of the general storm that drove across the Pacific coast states during the last 24 hours was predicted by the United States Weather Bureau today.

The storm, which whipped southward from the Alaskan gulf to Santa Barbara, Calif., followed in the wake of another disturbance. 24 hours previously, that took three lives. Two men were frozen to death in a Nevada blizzard and a third was trapped in a snow avalanche in the Southern California mountains.

Yesterday's general storm carried destruction in its wake, harried shipping and may have caused at least one death. A 14-foot sailboat was washed ashore in San Francisco Bay and authorities were seeking to establish its ownership.

Snow in Mountains
Snow drifted high in the mountains of Oregon, Washington, Nevada and California. Search continued near Grants Pass, Ore., for Clarence A. Gilre, San Francisco salesman, missing since Dec. 24. His disappearance was found in Big Bear Basin four days ago.

Charley Ferry, stage driver on the Elly-Tonopah route in Nevada, has not been reported since he left Elly a week ago.

A score or more of Nevada Legislators were prevented from reaching the capital, Carson City, snow-blocked highways held many of them at home or in scattered communities on the highway between Reno and Carson City.

Near Grass Valley, Calif., a party of prospectors, numbering 35 men and women, awaited Red Cross relief. They were stranded in heavy snow.

STAGE MAY LOSE LIBBY REYNOLDS

Noted Torch Singer Is Suffering From a Nervous Breakdown in Hospital.

Philadelphia, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Broadway never may hear Libby Holman Reynolds' torch songs again.

Since the tragic death July 6 of her husband, Smith Reynolds, heir to tobacco millions, she has indicated her desire for quiet and retirement.

Mrs. Louise Carpenter Jenney, niece of Pierre de Post of Wilmington, Del., and close friend of Mrs. Reynolds, disclosed yesterday the young actress is being treated for a nervous breakdown at the hospital where her child was born two weeks ago.

Her age, although he weighed only about three and one-half pounds at birth and has been kept since in a "hot-bed" or modified incubator, was said by physicians yesterday to have gained four ounces.

Mrs. Jenney's statement was given out in the law office of John R. R. Scott and William T. Connor, 150 South Second Street.

300 MEASURES OFFERED BY STATE LEGISLATORS

Al Capone's Petition For Freedom Denied

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 25.—(AP)—September his petition for habeas corpus was filed in the local Federal Court today dismissed the petition for a writ of habeas corpus whereby Al Capone, notorious former Chicago gangster, sought his release from the Atlanta Federal penitentiary under the statute of limitations.

Capone was convicted of violating the income tax laws in 1926, 1927 and 1928 and was sentenced to serve ten years in the Atlanta penitentiary.

The gangster in his bid for freedom alleged the three year clause under the statute of limitations had expired before he was indicted on the charges of which he was convicted.

He entered the Federal penitentiary here in May last year and last

THORNTON SUBMITS BRIDGE RELIEF BILL

Local Representative Would Have Upkeep Taken Over By the State.

Representative William J. Thornton, of Manchester, today presented in the General Assembly a bill proposing that the Connecticut River Bridge, known as the Bulkeley Bridge, at Hartford, and its approaches be added to the turnpike system of state highways and hereafter be supported by the state. Mr. Thornton told The Herald today that he had canvassed a great many of the Legislators and is convinced the bill will be passed with but little opposition.

Man Murdered But Would Not Reveal Hiding Place To Slayers.

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 25.—(AP)—A treasure hunt in which the American Red Cross had the charts and did the digging today had netted some $6,000 in gold and currency from hiding places on the North Arkansas farm of R. F. Leigh, aged recluse, who suffered torture and hanging rather than reveal his secret to anyone else.

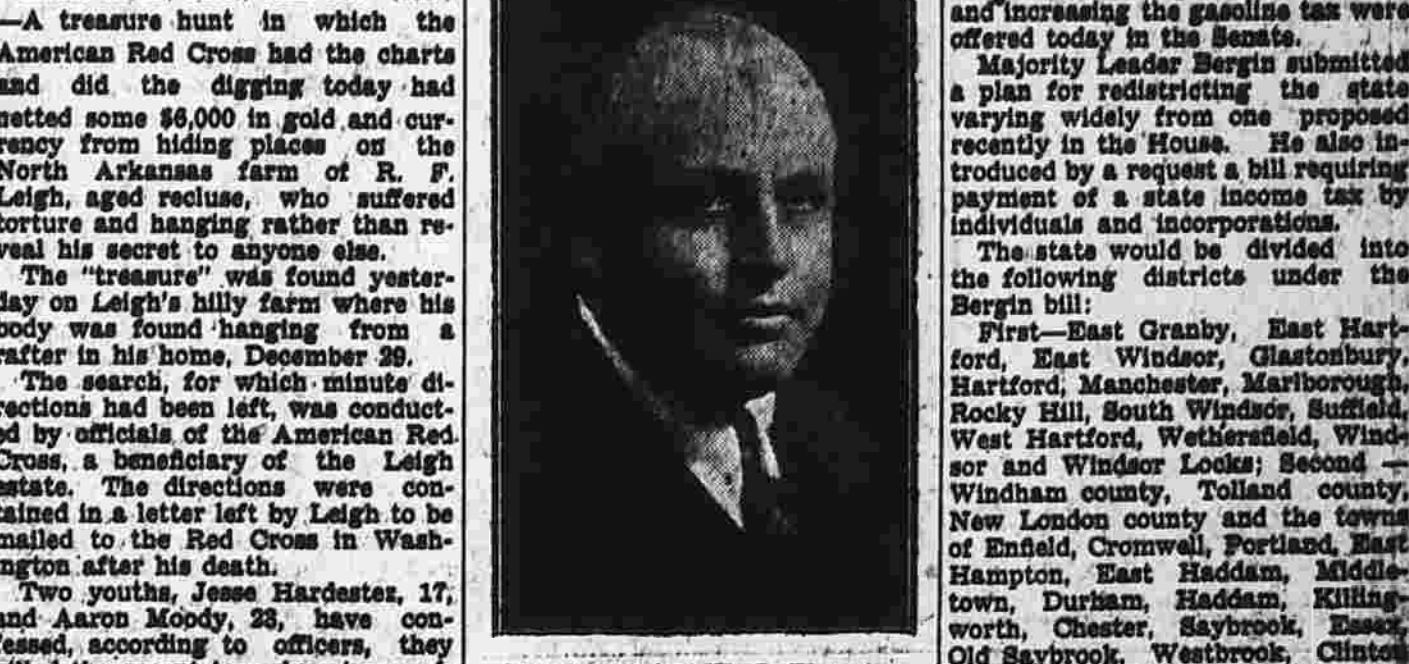

The "treasure" was found yesterday on Leigh's hilly farm where his body was found hanging from a rafter in his home, December 28.

The search, for which minute directions had been left, was conducted by officials of the American Red Cross, a beneficiary of the Leigh estate. The directions were contained in a letter left by Leigh to be mailed to the Red Cross in Washington after his death.

Two youths, Jesse Hardesten, 17, and Aaron Moody, 23, have confessed, according to officers, they killed the recluse in an effort to force him to reveal the hiding place of his money. He died with the secret left in the unopened letter and the youths found only a few dollars and an old watch.

A year before his death, Leigh gave to a neighbor, Elton Reeves, two sealed envelopes, one of which he was asked to send to the Red Cross in Washington upon Leigh's death. Reeves was to open the other.

Brokers Go On Strike; French Bourse Tied Up

Paris, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The Bourse was tied up today by a strike of brokers who refused to quote prices in protest to the Chamber of Finance committee's action yesterday in tearing down the government's contemplated economic policy reinforcements watched the scene.

There was no trading, no quotations, including those of foreign exchange, were posted except "rumor" (government loans) when the Bourse opened at noon.

The big building was devoid of the usual noise, with brokers quietly standing around the boards which were blank except for "speculator's" figures.

The entrance to the Bank of France also were guarded by soldiers with fixed bayonets.

Chamber Action
The chamber of deputies committee yesterday returned a budget of 215,000,000 francs in economic aid and 2,800,000,000 francs in new taxes provided. The government had called for 10,000,000,000 francs in economic aid and new taxes.

Notice of the chamber's action was given in the law office of John R. R. Scott and William T. Connor, 150 South Second Street.

Flood of Measures Swamps Assembly As Deadline Nears—State Income Tax Suggested and Old Birth Control Bill Bobs Up Again—High Court Judges Approved.

Hartford, Jan. 25.—(AP)—A mass of proposed legislation dealing with a wide variety of subjects poured into the General Assembly today as Senators and Representatives rushed to introduce their bills before the deadline set for the filing of new business.

With Friday fixed as the limit of filing, approximately 300 measures were offered, several of them carrying large appropriations.

Two bills provide for a state income tax, while other measures proposed an old age pension plan, division of the state into six congressional districts and increasing the gasoline tax.

Birth Control
Two bills familiar to veteran Legislators again made their appearance. One would permit physicians to give contraceptive advice in the interest of a patient's health and the other would allow women to serve juries.

Both Houses confirmed the appointment of six justices and judges of the Supreme Court and Superior Court.

Appropriations totaling $850,000 are sought in four bills for developing the Long Island Sound state park. In the Senate an appropriation of $1,300,000 was asked to finance an old age pension plan, proposed by Senator Fitzgerald. A second old age pension plan, that recommended recently by a commission named two years ago, called for $25,000.

Taxation of property used by Yale University for athletic was proposed in another measure.

BERGIN'S DISTRICT BILL

Hartford, Jan. 25.—(AP)—More than 100 bills including proposals for a state income tax, establishing an old age pension plan, dividing the state into six Congressional districts and increasing the gasoline tax were offered today in the Senate.

Majority Leader Bergin submitted a plan for redistricting the state varying widely from one proposed recently in the House. He also introduced by a request a bill requiring payment of a state income tax by individuals and incorporations.

The state would be divided into the following districts under the Bergin bill:

First—East Granby, East Hartford, East Windsor, Glastonbury, Hartford, Manchester, Marlborough, Rocky Hill, South Windsor, Suffield, West Hartford, Wethersfield, Windsor and Windsor Locks; Second—Windham county, Tolland county, New London county and the towns of Enfield, Cromwell, Portland, East Hampton, East Haddam, Middletown, Durham, Haddam, Killingworth, Chester, Saybrook, Essex, Old Saybrook, Westbrook, Clinton and Madison; Third—Southington, Meriden, Middletown, Wallingford, Hampton, North Haven, North Branford, Guilford, Eastford, East Haven and New Haven; Fourth—Middletown, Naugatuck, Prospect, Cheshire, Oxford, Beacon Falls, Bethany, Seymour, Woodbridge, Derby, Ansonia, West Haven, Orange, Milford, Stratford and Bridgeport; Fifth—Colebrook, Hartland, Granby, Barkhamsted, Torrington, New Hartford, Canton, Simsbury, Eastford, Hartington, Burlington, Avon, Farmington, Plymouth, Bristol, Plainville, New Britain, Newington, Berlin, Wolcott and Waterbury; Sixth—Salisbury, North Canaan, Canaan, Norfolk, Winchester, Goshen, Cornwall, Sharon, Kent, Warren, Litchfield, Thomaston, Waterbury, Morris, New Fairfield, Brookfield, Bridgeport, Roxbury, Woodbury, Southbury, Newtown, Bethel, Danbury, Ridgefield, Redding, Monroe, Shelton, Trumbull, Easton, Weston, Wilton, New Canaan, Stamford, Greenwich, Darien, Norwalk, Westport and Fairfield.

Senator Bergin said the income tax bill had been sent to him either by the Socialist or Socialist-Labor Party.

It provides for payment by individuals of taxes ranging from 5 per cent on incomes of $1,000 to 50 per cent on incomes of more than $50,000. Corporations would pay from 8 per cent on incomes of $1,000 to 48 per cent on incomes of more than $50,000.

IN THE SENATE
Hartford, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Measures establishing an old age pension plan, dividing the state into six Congressional districts and increasing the gasoline tax were offered today in the Senate.

LOREE HAS STOCK IN N. Y. CENTRAL

Head of Delaware and Hudson Has Acquired Ten Per Cent Interest.

New York, Jan. 25.—(AP)—E. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson Company announced today that that company had acquired an interest of approximately ten per cent in New York Central railroad.

For some time there have been rumors that the Loree-controlled railroad was acquiring a substantial interest in New York Central. It was reported that Loree associates would seek representation on the board of New York Central.

Recently the Union Pacific sold a large block of New York Central stock, switching its investment into Pennsylvania. It was said that some of the former Union Pacific holdings may have been transferred to the Delaware and Hudson.

Vincent Astor, the Delaware and Hudson directors announced, has been elected a member of the board of managers and directors of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad Corp. to fill the vacancy caused by the death of E. H. Outerbridge.

Rich Railroad Delaware and Hudson is one of the richest railroads in the United States. Its president, Loree, was an associate of James J. Hill, pioneer railroad man and the shrewdly handled Delaware and Hudson head has been described as a "throw back" from the pioneering days of American railroading.

At occasional intervals, he has completed some spectacular transactions, the buying in Central being his first for some years.

In 1927 and 1928, Loree started the railroad world by aggressively buying up capital stocks of the Wabash and Lehigh valley railroads, two systems which it was reported the Pennsylvania wanted for merger purposes.

The venerable railroad man spent some $40,000,000 for his interests in the two roads. In 1928 he sold them to the Pennsylvania for about $68,000,000, netting his road a profit of $28,000,000 or 50 percent.

Small jobs such as electrical fixtures, plumbing in the workroom, plumbing, and painting remain to be done after the building has been completely equipped with furniture. A sorting table was found broken yesterday after being uncrated. New furniture arrives for the new building daily.

Nearly all of the steel grating for the office has arrived and will be placed in position soon. The marble work around the sidewalks is non-completed. Frank E. Zimmerman of the South Manchester post-office has been in charge of placing the furniture for the past ten days.

The marble work on the sidewalks of the lobby is of superior matching. The tile floor of the lobby is being laid today.

'LITTLE WOMEN' APPEALS ESPECIALLY TO KIDDIES

Louise Alcott's Famous Story To Be Dramatized Monday Night At Whiton Auditorium.

Children in Manchester schools are anticipating with pleasure the play, "Little Women," to be given Monday evening at the Whiton Memorial auditorium by the Community Players.

This dramatization from the book "Little Women" by Louise Alcott is in four acts and has an especial appeal for children. High school art pupils under Miss Harriet Condon's instruction have painted worthwhile posters advertising the play. Boys and girls in Miss Hazel Lutz's class in the Barnard school, and in the Eighth district have also been drawing excellent posters, to be placed in the stores and public buildings.

The performance is under the sponsorship of the Educational club which is composed largely of public school teachers and representative women. They feel it a particularly opportune time to present this play during the centennial year of the birth of the author. The profits will be devoted to conducting dental hygiene work among the children.

But the aged couple had not hidden all his money in one place. His letter of directions contained: "Go into the rock house in the yard. Over the door is some rock laid on the plate. Take them all down. There are just the north-west corner of the front post of the porch. Go about 50 yards to a wall of rock. In it you will find two boxes with a few thousand dollars in currency."

Going to the designated spot near the wall, overgrown with grass and vines, the group began to dig. Several inches under stones and dirt the first box came into view. More rock moving brought the second box from his hiding place. Bills of large and small denominations were revealed in the boxes.

BARUCH KEEPS SILENT ON ROOSEVELT MEETING

New York Financier Refuses To Discuss Subject of Today's Conference.

Warm Springs, Ga., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Two days of intensive study of the world economic situation with President-elect Roosevelt were concluded here today by Bernard M. Baruch, New York financier.

The New Yorker smilingly declined to answer the question whether he would be a member of the Roosevelt Cabinet. Nor would he discuss the details of his long talks with the President-elect.

It was believed that the foreign come up right at the start of the new administration and the railroad problem were uppermost.

Because Mr. Roosevelt is going to use his secretary of state as his right hand man in the forthcoming negotiations with the foreign nations on debts and tariffs, the speculation persists here that Mr. Baruch or Owen D. Young will be the man he selects for this post, but "it is only speculation."

Attempts to draw out Mr. Roosevelt and his adviser on the stories coming from abroad about the demands and attitudes of the other powers on debts and economies bring only smiles here.

There is no doubt Roosevelt has his program and that it does not include cancellation of the debts but that is all that is known. He will do his own trading.

The railroad situation continues a topic late today with Walker Hines, war time railway administrator, coming in.

ANSONIA NEGROES TESTIFY AT PROBE

Say They Were Offered Bribe To Switch Support To Congressman Goss.

Naugatuck, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Five Ansonia negroes testified at the Gormley-Goss Congressional hearing here today that as members of the Ansonia Negro Democratic club they were approached by Gordon Ritchie, negro, of New Milford and asked if they would switch their club's support to Congressman Goss for $300.

Two of the men, Edward Clayborne and Charles Tinney, said Ritchie displayed a check for $50 which bore the name of Congressman E. W. Goss. They said they refused the $50 and when Ritchie registered election eve, supposedly with the offer $250, they refused to deal with him. Leslie Wayans, George Goldson, and Joseph Jackson, the other three negroes, said they heard about the check but did not see it. Clayborne said he recognized the name of Edward W. Goss on it. Tinney said he didn't remember the first initials but did recall having seen the name of Goss on it.

Wayans, Goldson and Jackson said by the time Ritchie returned they had been celebrating and didn't know what transpired. They said they refused to talk. Superintendent Policeman Charles McCarthy of Ansonia, brother of Representative Leon McCarthy, and asked what they would testify to. Officer McCarthy will be called to testify as to how he learned the negroes would be witnesses. They also said Ritchie, the negro figuring in the check episode, election eve, was in Ansonia yesterday but they wouldn't talk with him.

Patsy Zollo, president of the Beacon Falls Italian Democratic club, said Louis Lera of Waterbury and a man named Summa tried to "bribe" him by throwing the club's support to Goss in exchange for a "barber commission."

L. M. Mitchell, of St. Louis, assistant manager of the mid-western area of the Red Cross, came to Arkansas to investigate.

He went to Leigh's home yesterday and found the two neighbors on guard.

They read the directions again: "Stand in the front of my house. Look just to the right of the north-west corner of the front post of the porch. Go about 50 yards to a wall of rock. In it you will find two boxes with a few thousand dollars in currency."

FIRE IN MILFORD

Milford, Jan. 25.—(AP)—A fire in the post office block in Main street this noon gave firemen a hard battle but it was held within the building. Most of the tenants had losses.

The blaze began from an unknown cause in the Simpson Photographic studio on the second floor while the proprietors were at lunch. Their loss was $3,500. Losses aggregated $8,000 and $10,000. There was partial insurance.

Healthier?
Health, say statistics, has been generally better during the depression. There must be something in having the time and money to be sick. Under such conditions, we pay a lot more attention to minor ailments; perhaps we imagine the existence of some. Time will tell whether people are really healthier, or whether they are just neglecting troubles that might better be taken care of.

Gray and Flame
A favorite color combination right now in smart circles is gray and flame. The colors of the outfit can be carried out in gray eyeshadow and poppy red rouge and lipstick. This combination sounds as though it would produce a very bizarre and loud effect. However, if the make-up is used cautiously, with just a touch of color, one is not conscious of it at all, but simply gets an impression of color harmony.

Spiced
A ham served with baked apples that chime with sugar crystals makes a hearty course. For a 12-pound ham you need:
1 teaspoon mustard
1-2 cup brown sugar
1-2 teaspoon paprika
1-2 cup vinegar
1-2 cup water (in which ham was cooked)
6 red apples
Whole cloves
Plunge ham into water, boil ten minutes, reduce heat, simmer two hours. Remove rind. Sprinkle the fat surface with mustard and paprika. Four over the vinegar and (300 degree F.) one hour. Baste frequently. Sprinkle fat surface with brown sugar, dot with whole cloves. Place washed and cored red apples, sprinkled with sugar, around the ham; continue baking without basting one hour.

BROTHERS BEATEN IN BARROOM FIGHT
Victim in Meriden Hospital Gave Wrong Name When He Was Treated.

Meriden, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Repercussions have already begun to result from the "free for all" fight at the Old Colony Inn which resulted in two men receiving terrific beatings and the alleged proprietor had been arrested during the liquor slot machine raid which followed the battle.

A man who described himself as Frank Pietro, 25, of Astoria, L. I., after being arrested at the hospital where he was taken for injuries he received in the fight during the melee alleged last night he is John Sainardi of 28 Bridge street, Waterbury and a brother of Frank Sainardi who remains at the hospital under treatment for injuries received during the battle.

John Sainardi was released this morning under a $500 bond placed by his father, Rocco Sainardi of Waterbury.

Reason for Fight
The condition of Frank Sainardi is reported today as "pretty good considering the nature of his injuries." The brothers are alleged to have attempted to "muscle in" on a stag party being conducted at the inn by New Haven and Waterbury men. As a result of their "interference" a fight started and the two intruders were severely beaten, kicked and battered.

A man who describes himself as Peter Sullivan, 27, of New Haven was arrested as proprietor after the police raided the inn and seized a quantity of liquor and a slot machine.

Hearing Saturday
It is expected that all three cases will be heard in Police Court Saturday morning at which time Frank Sainardi is expected to have sufficiently recovered from his beating to leave the hospital.

Shortly after the injured men entered the hospital for treatment an automobile crashed into the Yaleville culvert. The men occupying the car are understood to be from New Haven and police have intimated they may have been from the party which was at the inn when the battle started.

Another throw-back from the affair came when the New Haven police put on the police automatic telegraph machine a message to Mrs. T. Maresca of 79 Carlisle street, New Haven was stolen in Meriden after it had been used to take one of the men injured during the Old Colony Inn. fight to the Meriden hospital.

Slings Them Up
In a magazine article, the employment manager of a large company states that he notes an applicant's carriage before anything else. He believes that he can tell a great deal about the character and spirit of a human being by the way he walks, and especially by the position of the shoulders and head. The incisive type, he says, carries the shoulders forward and the chin down. While the too-confident type has the chin well forward and shoulders conspicuously braced backward. The well balanced individual reflects this trait, the writer says, in a well balanced carriage. But we wonder what he does when he strikes the exception that proves the rule.

NEW AIR LINE SEEKS TRANSPORT DATA
Want To Learn Flow of Traffic—Clarence Chamberlin President of Company.

The problem of when most New Englanders want to leave their homes or offices and go to New York and when most New Yorkers want to depart for New England, now is the subject of an interesting and comprehensive survey being made for the New York & New England Airways, Inc.

"We want to sell swift transportation to New England," said Clarence D. Chamberlin, president of the company, "and naturally we must learn at what hours most persons want to travel."

Out Rates
"For a 15-day period, which began last Monday, we cut our rates to $3.90 or less than railroad fare. The loss we'll charge up to experience because we must learn definite facts about the flow of traffic and the hours when we must provide maximum service."

Also, a group of expert observers has been employed to make a similar check on railroads, buses, steamships and automobiles. Their reports will be co-ordinated with those from the airplane survey.

Already New Englanders residing in the metropolitan area are availing themselves of the swift aerial trips to spend week-ends at Times Square to Holmes Airport in New York City, 50 minutes in the air and 10 minutes to the center of Hartford, the travelling time is reduced to only one hour and 20 minutes. Many persons leave on the last plane Friday or Saturday afternoon and return either late Sunday or early Monday morning.

"To be truthful, though, I believe many of the travelers use the time-saving argument only as an excuse because they get real pleasure from flying in swift, comfortable airplanes," said Mr. Chamberlin.

Economical
"Almost everyone is interested in aerial transportation. They know it not only is tomorrow's method of travel but actually is here for us today. The short, pleasure trips at airports gave the public an idea of the future. Now, the average man and woman wants the experience of actually going to a definite destination swift, safely and comfortably. Also, with modern equipment and money saving developments, air travel is becoming virtually as economical as by railroad."

Records of the 15-day test, giving the homes and destinations of passengers and other data, will be made public as an aid to providing information on the travel requirements of New England.

Y. M. C. A. Notes

Mrs. Lewis Ross of Hartford widely known public speaker on Current Events has been secured for a course of five talks on Friday evenings beginning Feb. 3rd. These lectures are to be open to the general public and members.

The Senior Basketball League had two closely contested games last night. The first one between the Rangers and Joe's Service Station was fast and furious. Joe's big tall center, Phillip Welles is unexcelled when it comes to getting the jump and also covers the floor and half the area around over the heads of the smaller players and can come as nearly reaching up and putting the ball into the basket as any man on the Y. gym floor or any where else in this part of the world it appears.

Joe's men took the lead at the start and held it clear through but didn't dare go to sleep for a second with the fast passing and good team work of the Rangers. The final score was 34 to 25 in favor of Joe's.

The second game between the Eagles and Shamrocks was a very nearly a description of what a well plucked Eagle was like. The Shamrocks were almost a Sham. Shamrocks look the way they walk substitutes last night that neither team could be recognized. The Shamrocks showed some of their old time dash however and with Vincent Moriarty and Ray Reid adding to joviality of the affair it was a real evening of good sport. Incidentally the Shamrocks look the way they walk a trimming and are again able to vouch for a victory.

Tonight the Junior League will have four games. At six o'clock the Oxford's will play the Wildcats. At seven o'clock the North Ends will play the Community Flyers. At eight the Cubs are scheduled to play the Falcons and at nine o'clock the Buckland boys will endeavor to tame the Tigers. Carl Jamroga will referee.

TRUCK OF BROTHERS FRIEND INJURES BOY

Albert Heim, Burnside Lad, Thinks Maybe a Sedan Did It After All.

Albert Heim, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Heim of 1495 Silver street, Burnside, East Hartford, was struck and injured by a truck driven by Robert De Pietro, and owned by his mother, Mrs. Emma De Pietro of 396 Forbes street, East Hartford, on Spencer street near Miller's Filling station last night at 8:15. The boy received a deep cut on the back of his head which required ten stitches to close, and injuries to his left shoulder and about his body.

The Heim boy was walking along Spencer street when he was struck by the De Pietro truck. Se geant John McGlinn who investigated, found indications that the boy had been struck by the fender of the truck. De Pietro said that he could not tell definitely whether he had struck the Heim boy or not.

The injured boy said that he saw a sedan coming along Spencer street just before he was struck and thought that was the car that injured him. He was taken to Manchester Memorial hospital by De Pietro. His condition was reported somewhat improved at the hospital today. No arrests were made.

De Pietro and an older brother of the Heim boy are members of the Howitzer Company. George Heim was called from drill at the hospital last night when his brother was taken to the hospital following the accident.

MANGAN MAY RUN

New York, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The New York A. C. hopes to persuade Cornell University to waive its rule prohibiting outside competition by undergraduates during the school year that Joe Mangan, middle distance ace, can compete in the club's annual track and field games Feb. 18. In view of the fact that Cornell has abandoned its track program, Mangan, who is a member of the Winged Foot Club, probably will be allowed to compete in the Baxter Mile, classic event of the games.

The club also would like to have him run the 1500 meters in the National A. U. championships, to be held here Feb. 25, in which the New York A. C. will be defending team champion. Mangan is intercollegiate mile champion.

WAPPING

Wellman Burham has been confined to his home here for several days with an attack of the grip.

There was a meeting of the directors of the town of South Windsor's public librarians' last Monday evening, which was held at the Sudd Memorial Library.

The Bon Ami club of Manchester motored to Wapping school hall last Saturday evening where they enjoyed a turkey supper with all the fixings, served by Wapping Grange. There were about seventy of them. Mrs. Mary Hills was chairman with Mrs. Walter N. Foster, Mrs. Walter N. Batey, Mrs. Harold M. Turner, Mrs. Rose Frink, Miss Margaret Welles and Alfred Stone and Francis Foster as her helpers. The waitresses were Miss Doris L. Benjamin, Miss Dorothy Maloney, Miss Dorothy Twiss, Miss Margaret Reinhold, Mrs. Dorothy Drayer, Miss Miriam Welles, Miss Ellen Foster, Miss Esther Welles, Miss Dorothy Cotton and Miss Margaret Welles.

Wapping Grange also furnished an hour's entertainment as follows: monologue by Oscar D. Strong, tap dancing by Master Crockett, solo by the Misses Dorothy and Helen Frink, a sketch by Miss Miriam Welles and Miss Margaret Welles, after which dancing was enjoyed until twelve o'clock.

The Christian Endeavor members and their friends will hold a social next Friday evening in the basement of the First Congregational church of Broad Brook and Scantic are invited.

V. E. W. AUXILIARY GETS FLAG FROM D. OF U. V.

Union Veterans' Daughters Present Emblem Last Night; Supper Follows Session.

Mary C. Keeney Tent, daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, presented a fine American flag last night to the auxiliary of Anderson Shea Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. The presentation was made at the regular meeting of the auxiliary at its meeting at the State Armory last evening. The project of presenting the nation's flag to various patriotic associations was one undertaken by the officer, of Mary C. Keeney Tent last year. Past President Beatrice Dart and her staff were present last night and several of the members. The flag was accepted by the auxiliary's president, Mrs. Elizabeth Phelan.

Supper was served after the business session to the auxiliary members and their guests, and cards occupied the remainder of the evening.

"Here's why, in a nut-shell... The oil that has proved to be good at 100-miles-an-hour is a better, safer oil at ANY speed!"

"It has extra resistance, extra lubrication value! It gives more protection against heat, wear, and repairs! It's far and away better than the oil that 'just gets by' at ordinary speeds!"

Gulf Supreme has proved its ability to take super-punishment. On August 8, 1932, it out-performed special racing oils in an Official AAA test on the Indianapolis Speedway. It lubricated a speeding Duesenberg racer in a one-hour, non-stop run—at an average speed greater than 100-miles-an-hour. Not once did the oil pressure vary by the width of a pencil mark! Change to Gulf Supreme today! It can take super-punishment, cut lubrication costs... save on repairs... and last longer.

TRUNK LINE BRIDGES

The bill fathered by Representative W. J. Thornton of this town, placing the maintenance of the Bulkeley Bridge at Hartford upon the State Highway Department as part of the trunkline system is calculated to relieve a situation which has long been unjust. If the bill passes, as it certainly should, it may lead to the correction of a curious state of affairs throughout the commonwealth.

From the beginning the Connecticut River bridge at Hartford has been maintained by the Connecticut River Bridge and Highway District, which consists of the city of Hartford and the towns of East Hartford, Manchester, South Windsor and Glastonbury. Every year this town has to make its contribution toward the upkeep of the structure. It is not a large annual sum but it is just another $500 or so to be added to the local budget.

Originally this might have been fair enough, since beyond question the bridge when built was of immensely more use to the communities constituting the district than to anybody else. Now, however, the traffic crossing the bridge comes from everywhere. The whole state uses the bridge, and any amount of its traffic originates far beyond the state's borders. Only a fraction of the benefits are in any degree local. The logic of the situation is completely altered.

The bridge is, of course, an integral part of the state's highway system in fact. It should be officially recognized as such and the burden of its maintenance placed where it belongs—on the State Highway Department.

It has always been mystifying why the trunk line principle of the Highway Department should collapse in a faint every time it approaches a sizeable bridge. Just why the state should build little bridges and culverts over numberless brooks in the country and then demand that cities or towns of counties or bridge districts should build or rebuild or maintain trunkline bridges when they happen to cross navigable water it is not easy to understand.

Yet there are plenty of such instances and they always exasperate the citizens of the communities that have to tax themselves for bridges to carry trunkline traffic which the state has considerably brought right up to the bridgeheads over state-maintained roads.

An excellent place to start a reform in this policy is with the bill introduced by Mr. Thornton. Of course, if the state takes over the Hartford bridge it will undoubtedly be asked to take over others. Which, when the circumstances at all resemble those in the case of the Bulkeley Bridge, it should do. The state is not only better able than the municipalities to maintain trunkline bridges—it would be its obvious duty to do so even if it were not so much better off in taxing power.

SILVER'S REBUFF

The country is full of inflation talk—and it is just as well. It is even regrettable that the subject did not take command of popular attention two or even three years ago; because it is a difficult one on which to form an intelligent opinion and a matter that is probably more important than any other in connection with a solution of the depression.

Yet after more than three years of hard times it is still a complete mystery to the great majority of Americans—in Congress and out of it.

posals, one for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, the other providing for the purchase of silver bullion and its coinage in limited quantities into a currency backed by gold. The latter is a mere trick of printing greenbacks on disks of silver instead of on paper. It would be a revival of the old Sherman law which Grover Cleveland forced Congress to repeal. It bears no faintest relation to the actual remonetization of the white metal. It would be impossible for any legislator who knew why he was in favor of free coinage to be also in favor of a purchase-coinage act. The two proposals are actually antagonistic and unapproachable through the same avenues of reasoning.

The prompt and conclusive manner in which the senate rejected these two widely differing silver proposals shows that there is no chance whatever for any expansion of basic currency by this Congress. That does not necessarily mean that it will not be a paramount issue in the next Congress. It does not necessarily mean that senators and representatives from both parties who are at present quite positively opposed to reflation will not be in favor of it before the year has rolled away.

To the present generation the currency question is strange and new. This applies to a large proportion of the members of Congress as well as to the citizens at large. But it is forcing itself upon public attention; and it is one of those questions which like slavery or prohibition, are entirely capable of taking complete control of the national mind, in a relatively short time after simmering for many years.

KEPT AFTER SCHOOL

It is to be regretted that President-elect Roosevelt is understood to be definitely determined to confer on war debts revision only—at first, at least—with those debtor nations which did not default their December payments. Mrs. Roosevelt is a school teacher but the President-elect is not, and this good-little-boy and bad-little-boy distinction smacks of the sheep and goats classification sometimes encountered in elementary school administration.

There is no essential difference in the problems of France and Belgium from the problems of Britain or Italy, and it is inconceivable that so vital a subject as debt revision can ever be made to hinge on such a minor incident as whether the December payments were met by some and skipped by others of the debtor nations—they had all skipped plenty just before that and, besides, none of the defaulting states has ever definitely repudiated.

We have had a good many promises that Mr. Roosevelt was going to do things "in a big way." To a good many there is something just the opposite of big in this idea of keeping the naughty nations after school and attending to them after the good little pupils have gone home.

SHOWS AND BULLETINS

At ten minutes before eleven yesterday more than a thousand persons stood in a long double queue on Fifth street, New York City, waiting to buy tickets to get into the new Radio City Music Hall. At the same time another queue of about equal length extended along Forty-ninth street, patiently waiting to get into the New Roxy unit. At the same moment, strung along, the opposite side of Sixth avenue were about as many persons as in the two queues, packed into silent groups of fifty or a hundred every member of which was tensely scanning the bulletin boards of the numerous employment agencies that dot the west side of the avenue in the Forties.

This writer happened to observe this situation and has since been wondering how many of the people in those theatre queues—men and women, old and young—who had the leisure to go to a show in the forenoon, would be over on the other side of the avenue today, staring at the bulletin boards; how many had, perhaps, been there the day before and, despairing of being the thousandth person whom job-lightning would strike, were blowing in possibly the last half dollar on a couple of hours of light and color and forgetfulness. Some of them looked it.

PROFESSORIAL HOKEY

Professor W. F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago says the tin can was at least partially responsible for getting American women the vote. "It first led to canning factories," he remarks, "then it reduced the time in preparing meals in the home; it thus gave women more time for activities outside the home, including participation in the movement for woman's rights and the suffrage."

Many women—and men too—will be interested in this. Not, perhaps, quite so much in the revelation of the social and political influence of the tin can as in the variety of canned bologna they manufacture in Chicago University. The professor may possibly sense a depression coming in university chairs and be practicing with a view to getting into the broadcasting business. "How a package of McCillendy's hairpins stopped the World War."

A PRACTICAL MEMORIAL

One of the most suitable war memorial schemes yet propounded seems to be the one suggested by a group of conservationists in the United States and Canada, who are urging that a 10,000,000-acre international forest along the international boundary be dedicated in memory of American and Canadian soldiers of the World War.

To begin with, there is something peculiarly suitable about using a forest as a memorial to war heroes. A forest is ever living, growing, green and peaceful; it aptly symbolizes our faith that those who gave their lives in battle did not sacrifice themselves to lasting darkness but simply went on, heroically, to a new life and a new growth.

IN NEW YORK

Counting Old Idols
 New York.—First there was a publicity item mentioning the road tour of William Faversham and then there was a party for Francis Lederer, one and only matinee idol of the moment.

At any rate, the argument arose concerning the aging matinee heroes of a generation. Well, Faversham was one. But the first I happen to recall was Nat Goodwin. Then came Dustin Farnum in "The Virginian." E. J. Sothern, Olin Sleumer and suchlike were idols on a slightly higher plane. Henry Woodruff, with his mass of blond hair, sent them palpitant from "The College Widow." And the dapper, graceful Donald Brian came along in "The Merry Widow." And he's gone back to that role after all these years.

John Barrymore was another and Bruce McRae went to Denver for summer stock at Elitch's. H. E. Warner was a handsome chap and a good actor. And for a time they didn't seem to be able to get enough of Lou Tellegen. On the west coast Lewis Stone was a handsome stock company lead and Charles Ruggles was playing juveniles in the old movies.

There are few, outside the movies today, with such followings as these command.

Which recalls that William Courtleigh used to come around in road show comedies. What brings that to my attention is a neat notice stating that his widow has opened a tea room on the Boston Post road.

 The Senate bill which would deny entrance to foreign actors, musicians and such "unless great established artists" sent me running to my files. Broadway would be a barren of key players but for dear old London and way points. And several had only hearsay reputations when they arrived.

Practically the entire cast of "Criminal at Large" was English, and most of these had been merely heard about when they arrived, although very popular at home. Alexandra Carlisle, who won the "best diction" prize of the year, is a Londoner. Beatrice Lillie has practically been adopted. Charles Laughton who has become one of the best movie character men since Jannings, arrived but a season or so ago in an English importation. But the list goes on and on.

The Original Rudy
 Here's "one of those things": When Hubert Prior Vallee first made his bow, he was more than passingly influenced by one Rudy Wiedoeft, saxophone virtuoso. In fact, the day came when Rudy Vallee became the name of Hubert Prior Vallee.

Very well—Rudy Wiedoeft, still a fine artist, was discovered playing anonymously in one of the big orchestral saxophone groups. Just another member of the band!

Tenor Returns
 John McCormack's fifty-second crossing from his native Ireland brings another sentimental pilgrimage to an end. Each year, he goes back to "the old home" for the holidays, joins up with his clan and his old cronies and returns with a flock of thorny sticks for his friends.

A Thought

Lord, thou wilt ordain peace for us; for thou also hast wrought all our works in us.—Isaiah 26:12.

Blessedness is promised to the peacemaker, not to the conqueror.—Quaker.

GOOD HUNTING
 Columbus, O.—One would hardly expect to shoot bear in the heart of a city the size of Columbus, but Patrolman Charles Hull did. The bear, however, was not an entirely wild one. "Pete," the bear, had belonged to Fred Workman since it was a cub. The bear became so unruly that Workman asked Corporal Ralph Waugh and Patrolman Chas. Hull to have him killed.

Health and Diet Advice

By Dr. Frank McCoy

MILK, A USEFUL FOOD WHEN RIGHTLY USED

It would be a hard task to find an article of diet more written about than milk, which has been called the most nearly perfect food. The beauties of the Roman era are said to have taken baths in milk; and we hear a great deal about the extremely long and healthy lives of peoples using an abundance of fermented or soured milk; three thousand years ago Moses laid down the rule that milk and meat should not be taken together and this still stands today as a sound rule to follow. The latest news is to feed vitamins D to cows as it is thought that milk from them will help to prevent rickets in babies.

When we speak of milk we refer to cows' milk although that from buffaloes, asses, goats and reindeer has been used. It is a firmly composed milk and one of the most valuable foods, provided one understands its proper use in the diet. Correctly combined it makes a good food for both children and adults and babies thrive on pure milk and orange juice.

Milk contains important amounts of calcium and phosphorus and these elements are needed to build good bones. Calcium is often deficient in the average diet, but both milk and leafy vegetables are rich in it and these two foods should therefore be used to give the calcium which might otherwise be lacking.

Whole milk is one of the best sources of Vitamin A and it contains vitamin B, as well. Milk is classed as a protein food, protein being used by the body for growth and repair of tissues. Milk also contains fat and carbohydrate and must be considered as a very nourishing food. Many people look on it as a drink, but it should be regarded as a solid food and should be "chewed" in the mouth, for such is the action of the stomach juices. Instead of swallowing it in big gulps, you should mix it around in the mouth with the saliva, and swallow it in small sips. One taking a quart of milk will get about a meal's worth of food, though he had made a meal of meat, butter and sugar. Milk is lacking in iron and vitamin C but, if orange juice is added to it, or tomato juice, one may live on the combination for years.

The following milk diets for stomach ulcers for several weeks or months will be well-nourished, provided that they use from four to six quarts of milk per day and provided that they use some of the fresh acid fruit juices in addition. Milk has been called a "protective food" and this is meant that it contains food elements which make up for those lacking in a diet of proteins, grains and tubers. By using milk the diet will be better balanced than it would be if meat and bread were used alone. Other protective foods are raw fruits and leafy vegetables.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Amaurotic Type Baby)
 Question: Mrs. S. writes: "Last summer our baby, now seventeen months old, was picked as the healthiest of sixty babies, but, after recently taking her to the hospital for an attack of convulsions, the doctors have notified us that she is a baby of the amaurotic type and say that we must lose her. They never suspected this for she would smile and laugh like all children, would play with toys and has always eaten well. The convulsive attacks cause her to turn purple and the doctors say she may live well, or milk and oranges may be used, forming a delicious, digestible and nourishing lunch." (Tomorrow—"What Kind of Milk Best?")

Answer: If your baby is really of the amaurotic type, it is very difficult to advise you definitely. This disease seems to be hereditary and run in families, but the cause of the disease is unknown. Regarding your having another child, this would have to be left to your own discretion, but the chances are about fifty-fifty that others would be similarly affected. I might say, however, that it is very easy to make a mistake in diagnosis with similar conditions which are not necessarily of the fatal type. The retina of the eye should be examined by the disk and the cherry-red spot, which is diagnostic of the disease, is present. I would certainly try a fasting and cleansing diet regimen to see if this would not produce some improvement, and, if there is no result, an attempt of treatment at the present time.

(Hypertension)
 Question: U. asks: "Can over-activity of the thyroid gland be cured?"
 Answer: An over-activity of the thyroid gland is called hyperthyroidism and can be cured through dietetic measures. A series of short fasts, alternating with a careful diet will bring about satisfactory results. The diet should exclude starches and sugars for a long period of time.

Obie nudists are planning a summer camp. This should clear up technical unemployment among nudists everywhere.

Behind the Scenes in WASHINGTON

BUDGET-BALANCING JUST MONKEY BUSINESS NOW

Hope Fades for Squaring Up Uncle Sam's Books as Income and Sales Tax Proposals Encounter Trouble in Lane Duck's Congress

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer

Washington, Jan. 25.—Budget balancing, temporarily, seems to be just a form of monkey business.

Those of us who predicted that this session of Congress would come to a halt because of the budget may have hoped to be disappointed when Mr. Roosevelt called his impressive New York conference with Democratic congressional leaders. But the prediction stands, more emphatically than before.

And the reaction to the conference and its results has been one of the sourest you ever heard of. This reaction seems to be shared even by most of the conferees, and it appears that Roosevelt himself doesn't feel any too happy about it.

It appears that Roosevelt hadn't any revenue-economy program to put up to the leaders, as they expected, and that the leaders hadn't any program to put up to him, as he doubtless expected. So they just talked. And issued a statement, part of which obviously didn't mean anything, and the rest of whose meaning is a matter of dispute. For prospect of action we wait, as usual, for the special session of the next Congress.

The declaration in New York for an income tax boost which would also lower exemptions so as to take in a couple of millions of persons in the small-income class was accompanied by differing estimates of the return and was followed by so much disagreement in individual statements that no one can be quite sure whether the Democrats really meant it or were only fooling.

Adding a couple of million small-salaried folks to the tax list is at least as politically dangerous as a sales tax and the Democratic leaders are a group of smart politicians, from Roosevelt down the line.

It was the one thing 'no one' really seemed to have thought of before, and that may be the reason the Democrats suddenly grabbed it, and pushed it forward, but no one can be found who will take credit for promoting the idea.

There may be a good theoretical argument for spreading the income tax base, but that certainly wasn't motivating the House leaders and conferees.

Everyone has had a chance to get sore at the proposal. The small-salaried people and the progressive are sore because it hits at a class already hard hit by income reductions and other depression misfortunes. And sore, too, are the conservatives who want some action on a sales tax and the proposed large cut in veterans' expenditures—two highly important measures which are said not to have been mentioned.

One recalls, also rather sourly, that the House leaders recently went into a huddle among themselves and then announced that they were seriously considering a sales tax. Everyone supposed they had consulted Roosevelt about it but Roosevelt promptly let it be known that he was "horrified," and that was the end of that.

Added to the other surprising aspects of the budget balancing whirrig among the Democrats is the fact that everyone admits the impossibility of passing the income tax boost at this session even if the leaders seriously tried to put it over. Naturally that begs speculation as to whether they didn't have some hidden motive—a such as propaganda for the sales tax, the beer tax or the Democrats.

Meanwhile, no major taxes or economies have been agreed upon, and it is doubtful whether any intelligent, well-considered program of taxation and economy can be worked out at a special session before the beginning of the next fiscal year in July.

As for the part of the statement that didn't mean anything—the budget balancers once more grossly underestimated the deficit for purposes of statement-making. They placed it at $482,000,000, ignoring the expected failure to collect $300,000,000 in debts and the $500,000,000 for sinking fund requirements. Only a few days previously in the House, Chairman Joe Byrnes of the Appropriations committee and one of the conferees had set the deficit at $1,000,000,000.

FIRE DAMAGES CHURCH

Everett, Mass., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Fire which threatened to sweep St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church was brought under control early today after $6,000 damage had been caused.

The blaze started in the vestry and worked its way to the altar. Heavy smoke hindered the firemen in their work and necessitated the sounding of three alarms, bringing apparatus from Revere, Chelsea and Somerville to the scene.

The blaze was discovered by a pedestrian, who sounded the alarm and it was some time before firemen could get through the acrid smoke into the building.

Water caused the greater part of the damage and some windows were damaged by firemen groping in the smoky darkness of the building.

POOR SALES POLICY

Evansville, Ind.—How can a man expect to sell anything when he carries people half to death when he approaches them? The other night, Mrs. E. E. Sells surprised a knock at her door and there stood a man with a pale over one eye, trembling and pointing a gun at her. She screamed and the door slammed shut. The man had been in the store for some time, and had been waiting for a customer to come in. He had been waiting for a customer to come in. He had been waiting for a customer to come in.

ROCKVILLE CONGRESSMAN SELECTS GREENWOOD SECRETARY

Wethersfield Man To Make His Home In Rockville—Goes To Washington March 1.

Charles S. Greenwood, of 340 Main street, Wethersfield, selected by Dr. William L. Higgins, Congressman from the Second Congressional district, as his secretary in Washington to reside in Rockville. Dr. Higgins stated yesterday that he arranged with Mr. Greenwood, who is now employed at the Veterans Federal hospital in Newington, to reside in Rockville, the seat of Tolland county.

Relative to his plans in Washington, Dr. Higgins states that he and his secretary, Charles S. Greenwood, will leave by auto for Washington on March 1st.

On the same evening he plans to attend a conference to be called by Bertrand Snell of New York, Republican leader of the R-publican elect in the 73rd Congress. This group will consist of members of the House of Representatives only. Four definite reasons are given by Dr. Higgins for leaving for Washington on March 1st, as follows: First, to attend the conference of the Republicans-elect; second to attend the presidential inauguration; third to make arrangements for his office; fourth, to make a general inspection and to appoint an assistant secretary.

Big Decrease in Grand List The next grand list of the town of Vernon for 1932 amounts to $9,973,863 whereas a year previous the total taxable property amounted to $10,174,496.

The decrease of close to $200,000 shown in the abstract of the Board of Assessors, of the town of Vernon, which includes the city of Rockville, is accounted for by the big decrease in the value of inventories in local factories and stores.

The grand list amounts to $10,120,189 with exemptions of $197,956 and adding the increase in exemptions of $2,677, the total gross decrease amounts to $200,633.

The Board of Assessors, consisting of James A. Elliott, chairman, William V. Sadiak, secretary, and John L. Brown, officially turned their books over to Miss Edith Casati, assistant town clerk, yesterday afternoon. They are now open to public inspection before the meeting of the board of relief. Many people are eager to see how the board made changes during the depression.

The assessment of the local mills and factories is practically the same as a year ago, and with the installation of the artificial ice plant by Alfred F. Ludwig, the factory valuation was increased from $1,824,200 to $1,827,000.

"Goods on Hand" shows a decrease of $115,630 over a year ago when the total amounted to $728,625.

The total number of lists amounts to 2415 at the present time and some 548 people failed to file their lists which was an increase of 51 over a year ago. All of these 548 parties were penalized ten per cent.

The taxable acreage of the community has grown some 4,620 acres during the year. This is due to the fact that the Connecticut Company discontinued their lines and the old road beds are now listed as taxable property.

The new buildings, especially dwellings, averaged but one, a month, there being but 12 for the year. The acquiring of property by ex-service men is in evidence during the past few years for a jump of close to five thousand dollars is shown in the two years. The present exempt list is $146,326 while in 1930 it amounted to $141,564, and a year ago the figure stood at $143,648.

Recapitulation The following is the recapitulation of the town: 1510 dwelling houses, $3,113,600; 1988 barns, sheds and garages, $532,435; 2312 houses and building lots, $997,175; 146 commercial buildings; 17 mills, water power and machinery, $1,827,000; 709 neat cattle, $32,090; poultry, $7,430; 161 horses and mules, $8,740; carriages and wagons, $1,250; 1,627 autos and trucks, $425,190; watches and jewelry, $1,565; furniture and musical instruments, $135,630; mechanics tools and farm implements, $28,750; goods on hand $612,995; cables and conduits, $200,000; bonds and etc., $2,000; all other taxable property including gas pumps, $11,676; 548 grand list items per cented, $28,459; Grand list total, $10,120,179; less exemptions, $146,326; net Grand list of taxable property, $9,973,863.

The major taxpayers of the town, listing those above ten thousand dollars are as follows: Lucina Ackley, $19,200; Charles H. Campbell, $12,850; George W. Allen, $10,975; American Mills and Daniels Mill, $262,000; George Arnold, Jr., $11,320; William J. Aust, $14,975; Walter Backofen, $10,690; F. H. Belding, Talcott avenue, $91,866; F. H. Belding, Vernon farm, $22,150; Arthur T. Blaseel, $27,470; Blatter Sisters, $14,710; John P. Nolan, $18,453; Charles S. Bottomley, $13,985; F. W. Bradley, $31,765; Morris Brown, $18,600; A. M. Want Democratic Member Plans are underway for the selection of a Democratic member of the Board of County Commissioners for Tolland County. With this in view no action was taken yesterday at the County Caucus held in the State Capital in Hartford.

The meeting of the representatives and senator from Tolland County was held in Room 78 at 2 o'clock, being called by Representative Sherwood C. Cummings, of Rockville, as senior member.

Dr. Edwin R. Dimock of Tolland was nominated as permanent chairman and Representative Edwin O. Smith of Mansfield was elected clerk.

Immediate adjournment was taken, subject to the call of the chair.

A conference of the Democratic members in executive session followed at which time it was hoped to select a candidate for the Tolland County Board of Commissioners to replace Dr. William L. Higgins, who retired because of his election to Congress. Mrs. Anna Wells Leonard, aged 97 years, widow of the late Louis Leonard, died at the Rockville City hospital, on Tuesday morning. Death was caused by pneumonia following a short illness which extended over a week. Mrs. Leonard was born in Sanover, Ill., the daughter of John and Anna Bumble Wells. She resided in Rockville for the past 37 years. Mrs. Leonard was a member of the Union Congregational church, the Friendly Circle of the church and took an active part in the affairs of both organizations. Mrs. Leonard is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Harry Wells, with whom she made her home since the death of her husband some four years ago; a sister, Mrs. Walter Davis of Minneapolis, Minn., and also three grandchildren. The funeral will be held from the home of her daughter at 15 East street on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. George S. Brookes, pastor of the Union Congregational church, will officiate. Burial will be in the family plot in Grove Hill cemetery.

NO SOLUTION FOUND IN JERSEY MURDER

Police Now Say Rich Man Shot One of His Assaultants Before He Died. Palyzes, N. J., Jan. 25.—(AP)—A new note was injected today into the search for a solution of the mysterious death of Bradley Brown by investigators who indicated he may have been slain by persons who wanted to seal his lips.

It is also possible, detectives asserted, that Brown wounded one of his assaultants. "Find the companion or companions who drove home with Brad Brown that night," said Chief Edward Williams of Riverton, "and you will have the key to the mystery."

Ellis Parker, chief of county detectives said: "Four shots were fired from the weapon found at Brown's side. Brown was shot twice and a third bullet was found in the speed boat in the garage. The fourth shot probably hit one of his slayers. This is the only way we can account for its disappearance."

Chief Morris Beck of Palmyra, who expressed the conviction Brown was deliberately slain by someone who wanted to "keep his mouth shut," said he would not say at this time why he thinks so.

THEATERS AT THE STATE

"The Animal Kingdom" There is dynamite in almost every foot of film and every word uttered in "The Animal Kingdom," the feature attraction at the State tonight and Thursday. Ann Harding and Leslie Howard have the leading roles. It is Philip Barry screened at his best. What a subtly powerful drama he has written! What cruel truths it abounds behind gay repartee! The title is based on the belief that human beings, in their love lives, are still living pretty much in the animal kingdom.

It is the story of a man married to the wrong woman, Leslie Howard has lived for three years with Daisy Sage, played by Ann Harding, as his mistress. He thinks he is in love with the society debutante, Cecilia Henry, played by Myrna Loy. He marries her, only to find out that his real and true love is for his former mistress, Daisy. The true situation is also known to his wife Cecilia, and how this peculiar triangle is worked out provides a story that has created plenty of controversy wherever it has been shown. "The Animal Kingdom" played to eight months' capacity in the New York stage with Leslie Howard starred in the same role he plays on the screen. The usual program of short subjects rounds out a well-balanced bill.

The management of the State will present the first of a series of popular International Nights tonight, the first being observed as "Polish Night." Tonight's program will consist of seven acts, all of Polish extraction. A varied program of vaudeville acts will be presented, dancing, singing, musical and novelty acts being included. The best

ONE AUTO IN SEVEN SATISFACTORILY SAFE

Of 14,000 Examinations Made Less Than 2,000 Were In Perfect Class Inspectors Report. In examinations of 13,973 motor vehicles on Connecticut highways during 1932, inspectors of the Department of Motor Vehicles discovered a total of 16,118 defects in mechanics, more than 9,000 of which were of the more serious nature such as faulty brakes, defective lighting equipment, poor tires or lack of adequate signaling devices, says a bulletin of the Department today. Less than 2,000 cars were found to be satisfactory, from the safety standpoint, after

KILLS WIFE, DAUGHTER, THEN KILLS HIMSELF

Son, Remaining Member of Family, Runs Out of House and Summons Police. Erie, Pa., Jan. 25.—(AP)—A man, his wife, and their 21-year-old crippled daughter were found shot to death in their home early today. Police, summoned by Leonard Shaffer, 27, the only remaining member of the family, describe the case as "double murder and suicide."

The youth, who ran to police headquarters in his pajamas, told the officers, they say, that his father, John Shaffer, 34, shot his mother, Margaret, 33, and then fired on his sister, Virginia. "He was going to shoot me but I ran," police quote Leonard as saying.

He told them that his mother and father quarreled. The woman threatened her husband with separation, police were informed. Shaffer then picked up a shotgun and fired two charges at his wife, according to Leonard's story. "Next he shot the girl and, 'falling to get me,' his son said, 'killed himself.'"

DANCE TOMORROW NIGHT AT SCHOOL STREET

A banner crowd is expected at the regular community dance to be held at the East Side Recreation Center tomorrow night when the "Flirt" 12-piece band will play their first appearance in Manchester. In bringing this dance to the Recreation Center, Director Frank C. Bush hopes it will meet with the approval of everyone. It has been his policy to give the people of Manchester an evening's enjoyment at a very small admission charge. Frank Sadtors, leader of the band, has a sunny appreciation of musicians and with their dressy uniforms they make a very neat appearance. The dancing will be from 8:30 until 12 o'clock.

APPALING HEALTH REPORT

Halifax, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The health record of the students at Da. Louis is simply appalling," declared President Carleton W. Stanley on hygiene at the university. He estimated that of the male student body only 11 per cent would be fit to pass an army examination. University records showed 38 per cent of the students suffered from faulty eyesight.

Although the year 1933 will undoubtedly reveal a much larger total of examinations, due to the expanded effort in this branch of the inspectors' work, it may be expected that there will be a smaller proportion of cars with defects since knowledge of the approaching campaign has already inspired many automobile owners to repair weakened mechanisms and correct such conditions of deterioration they had previously neglected.

The Department of Motor Vehicles, 2,668 advertising signs which had been placed in such a way as to jeopardize proper sight-lines for traffic, made 1,354 investigations for various sections of the Department in connection with administrative or disciplinary work, re-licensed 53 junkyards, and it checked of public service activities and operators, performed a large amount of work designed to improve the safety of persons traveling in buses.

Special public service licenses for operators were issued to 583. There were 2,971 renewals. Licenses of 22 were rejected and five applications were withdrawn before action was taken. Fifteen operators were warned for violations of rules of the road, and 195 operators were suspended for

VICKS MAKES SPECIAL OFFER TO EVERY ANTISEPTIC USER

Makes Possible, At Small Cost, Test of the New Vicks Mouth-wash and Gargle—For Halitosis, Oral Hygiene and Other Antiseptic Uses. Local Druggists Have Limited Supply of a Special Trial Size—A 25c Value for Only 10c.

Users of mouth-washes, gargles and antiseptic lotions can now save more than half the costs of this modern daily necessity. This tremendous saving comes with the introduction of the new Vicks Vaseline Antiseptic by the makers of Vicks VapoRub.

That all antiseptic users may test for themselves its quality—and its economy—the makers have supplied druggists with five million bottles of a special trial size at less than cost. This is a 25c value, but is priced at only 10c while the supply lasts.

Born in a depression year, Vicks Antiseptic is priced accordingly. The regular size is a large 10-ounce bottle—a usual 75c value—priced at only 35c. This new low price level is made possible by record low prices of raw materials—combined with Vicks mass production and worldwide distribution of quality products. Mild Enough, Strong Enough. Vicks Vaseline is a balanced antiseptic. Mild enough to use daily without risk to delicate membranes. Strong enough to do everything an oral antiseptic can and should do. Vicks Chemists could produce nothing better... and they were aided by the chemists, pharmacologists, and bacteriologists of their 16 allied organizations, here and abroad.

Vicks Antiseptic is designed, of course, for all the customary uses of an oral antiseptic. The most convincing evidence of its quality and savings is to get a trial size of Vicks Vaseline, and use this generous quantity in the usual way. Your druggist has it. Get a bottle today for each member of your family who uses an antiseptic mouth-wash, gargle or lotion.

They might give would be a stabilization of their currency.

At Mr. Hoover's suggestion the Treasury recently investigated the increasing importation of products into the United States from nations that have abandoned the gold standard.

At hearings held by the Customs Bureau testimony was given that manufacturers of rubber soled shoes, earthenware, Christmas tree electric bulbs and other products were closing their factories because of inability to meet cheap prices offered by foreign producers.

Japan's Exports. Testimony was given that Japan's export into the United States of millions of pairs of rubber soled shoes, made possible their sale in this country at less than the material costs the American producer.

Japan also has sent a huge volume of cheap rugs into the United States. It was said, in addition to joining other European countries in selling sardines and canned fish here at prices American producers can not meet.

War debt debate flared up anew in the Senate with Robinson (R., Ind.), asserting that the country was on the direct road to either cancellation of the foreign debt or at least to reduction.

"It is this in my view of the fact that the entire country—I dare say 98 per cent of the people of the country—are opposed to any such procedure," Robinson asserted.

Robinson read a headline from a local paper saying, "Roosevelt opens war debt hearings to all countries that paid on December 15."

"I feel that this should be brought to the attention of the Senate, the House of Representatives and the country," he said. "It is a matter of the greatest importance."

As the Indiana Senator began his debt speech, Senator Long (D., La.), called for a quorum so that his party leader, Robinson of Arkansas, might be present for the discussion.

The two Robinsons clashed sharply on the war debts several days ago.

WANT FINAL SETTLEMENT. London, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Chief aims of the British government at the proposed Anglo-American conference in Washington soon after March 4 will be to reach a new debt settlement that will be "final" and "not involve resumption of German reparations."

Even before the British government has taken official action on the American government's offer to discuss the debt, Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain has declared these must be the "essentials" of a new agreement.

This declaration of British policy was welcomed in the London newspapers today as a clear and able statement of the British view.

"We shall gladly discuss with our American friends, whenever they are ready to receive our representatives, the lines on which an agreement can be reached," he declared in a speech at Leeds last night—the first official statement indicating acceptance of the American offer made last week.

"Total cancellation of the war debts and reparations would be the best thing that could happen to the world as a whole," said Chamberlain in the British government's finances and a likely delegate himself to the Washington party. He intimated, however, that cancellation might be "going further than American opinion is yet prepared to accept."

German Reparations. To avoid resumption of German reparations on the old scale, European debtors have practically agreed that the United States must grant similar concessions to those which they promised Germany at the Lausanne conference. German reparations were practically wiped out—scaled down to about one cent on the dollar—providing the United States should cancel the debts owed by the European allies.

Chamberlain said: "I realize the difficulties of the American government and, remembering how long it took to persuade the European nations of the evil results of reparations, I can well understand how important to the United States which subject of war debts presents to the farmer of the middle west from that which appears to us."

Later he quoted a resolution passed by a "number of Cotton Exchanges in America" as saying: "It is clear that six-cent cotton and 40-cent wheat are inevitable so long as international commercial and financial relations remain as they are. x x x We urge every farmer to demand that the government confer at once with foreign debtors with a view of finding a re-arrangement of the debts."

During the debt discussions last December, Chamberlain made a similar observation in the House of Commons intimating the "truth" concerning the war debts was "hidden from the American farmer."

Last night he spoke of "an important and enlightened section of opinion in the United States which is not far from our own viewpoint."

Must Use Goods. In the end, he said, all debt payments must "take the form of sending goods or of rendering services." Effective means of payment, he added "could only be found by increasing sales of foreign goods to American, or what would come to the same thing, diminishing purchases from America."

"Increased sales might be effected," said Chamberlain "by drastic reduction of the American tariff or, in the case of countries of the gold standard (including England), by depreciation of their currencies in terms of gold. Decreased purchases could be insured either by depreciating currency or by increasing the tariff against America."

The disturbing consequences of such policies, he added, were "important to the United States which depends to a large extent upon foreign markets."

FINANCIAL NEWS

By AARON COOKE

Questions may be submitted to this column. Those questions deemed of group interest shall be treated in articles; those deemed otherwise shall be treated individually.

The markets still showed an irregular tendency on Monday. High grade bonds were firm while stocks were somewhat lower.

At the close with a slight net gain for the day as did other commodities. The markets cannot be expected to do very much when our statesmen still persist in trying to provide a bi-metallic base for money in this country by coinage of silver at a fixed ratio with gold.

The bill was killed but it scares many people and says what little confidence they might have in United States Government issues and commodities showed firmness. The stock market had no following and about 500,000 shares were traded.

Market policy as shown by the turnover reflects a hands-off policy. It is significant to note that on a stagnant day, there is no real liquidation, prices seem to drift lazily and pressure does not follow prices down.

Debt conversations should provide some stimulating news shortly for the market.

The Federal Budget must be balanced and the credit of the United States must and will be kept intact, for upon this credit rests the whole confidence of our financial and business structure.

The Federal Budget for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933 is stated to be about four billions of dollars. Roughly speaking, this amount is split up (1) Interest and sinking fund on public debt, $1,138,700,000; (2) Cost of veterans, etc., $928,000,000; (3) Cost of army and navy $648,300,000; (4) Expenses of entire government, $1,216,198,000.

In the expenses of the entire government is a charge of $638,100,000 for public works. This leaves $578,098,000 actual remaining expenses of government over which the National Economy League is making such a fuss. The three large items which are costly are (1) Enormous interest and sinking fund charges on Federal debt; the only way to get around this item is to default and we can't afford to do this; (2) Cost of veterans aid; cutting of veterans aid will never improve business, it will relieve Federal costs somewhat and place it on Municipal shoulders; (3) Cost of army and navy; disarmament is the solution but, our raising of tariffs and debt contrivances and making ourselves generally disliked abroad will never allow us to cut down on this item. It cut down on our Federal budget it will be necessary for us to become Pacifists. We must become world minded and figure that the other fellow has as much right to live business-wise as we have here.

The improvement of general business is the only solution of our budget difficulties. This improvement depends on Washington, it is too bad the disposal of lame-duck sessions has to wait to this year, of all years. Many other antiquated measures and politicians should be brought up to date. A good sense of business is like attitude would do wonders toward healing our business wounds. Another great help would be to take item (3) Cost of army and navy $648,300,000; employ the same men as now and promote an International Trade, Peace and Goodwill program with our neighbors living in other countries.

WARSHIPS COLLIDE. San Pedro, Calif., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Badly damaged in a collision during maneuvers 300 miles off the California coast, the United States Navy's first line destroyer Dahlgren limped toward San Diego today under convoy of the destroyers Sands and Lawrence.

Radio advices to the flagship Pennsylvania indicated the Dahlgren was in a precarious condition. She carries 100 officers and men.

The Dahlgren, en route to Honolulu for the annual war games, was engaged in maneuvers with other destroyers when it was struck by the destroyer Tarbell.

Navy officials here were informed the collision was caused by the jamming of the Dahlgren's rudder. The bow of the Dahlgren was damaged. Slight damage was done to the Tarbell.

Radio advices made no mention of any injured, and Navy officials considered it unlikely there were any casualties.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Jan. 25.—Departing from precedent, Bethlehem Steel Corporation will issue its report for the December quarter tomorrow, or five days in advance of the United States Steel Corporation figures for the same period.

Foreign exchanges moved more sedately, after yesterday's gyrations. Considerable interest was expressed in Wall Street over the strike of the Paris Bourse brokers against the Chamber of Finance committee's opposition to the government's proposed economic. The franc, which had been heavily sold yesterday, stiffened a little. In the local commodity markets, the flurry of speculation in silver died down, following the Senate's adverse vote yesterday on Senator Wheeler's re-orientation proposal.

STAGE MAY LOSE LIBBY REYNOLDS. Mrs. Reynolds has requested in her husband's estate, estimated at $15,000,000 to $20,000,000.

The proposed consolidation of four commodity exchanges will leave a treasury balance of approximately $500,000 for distribution among the members, it is reported by the proxy committee.

National Bisquit Co. on December 31 had current assets of $48,908,944 including cash of $17,307,322. Current liabilities totaled $14,684. On December 31, 1932 current assets amounted to $48,908,926, including cash of $15,883,324. Current liabilities were $3,034,643.

F. R. Rentschler, president of United Aircraft and Transport Corporation and E. A. Deeds, chairman of the executive committee, have been elected to the executive committee of national aviation corporation of which both are directors.

"At that time, she will give to the public a statement of her future plans and will request that she be allowed to retire from public notice and to live with her child in peaceful quiet life."

No indication of their plans for obtaining a share of the Reynolds' fortune for the young widow was given by the attorneys. No public announcement in this connection has been made since January 15 when Mrs. Reynolds' father, stated his daughter would relinquish, as far as she legally could, her right and that of her child to a share in the estate, except for a "comparatively modest sum."

Reports from the south recently indicated that negotiations for a settlement out of court are under way.

The technocrats' four-hour day might give millions employment, but how about six-day bicycle racers?

The Bond and Mortgage Guaranty Co. has joined several other leading interest rates. The company declared in its annual report that rates should come down as a matter of equitable treatment for mortgage borrowers.

It is reported in copper circles that producers are again considering a proposal for the segregation or pooling of surplus stocks of the refined metal. The plan would be similar to that adopted in 1921 for the orderly marketing of unsmelted metal. Surplus stocks are held by the U. S. Bureau of Mines at $80,000,000 pounds.

UNITED STATES MOVES TO PREVENT CONFLICT

On September 1, 1932 a group of Peruvian Nationals, including some soldiers and officers, attacked Leticia and took possession of the city and surrounding territory.

In this connection Peru has contended that that act on the part of her nationals was a natural expression of individualistic desires of retaliation for the seizure of Leticia.

The 1923 treaty, Peru has argued, made her citizens living in that part of the territory of Colombia. And in the present situation where the Columbia fleet is steaming up the Amazon, Peru has said she can not stand by and see her nationals expelled.

In its reply to the world powers Colombia said that her forces were now en route to the port for the purpose of carrying out the duty of the Colombian government to reestablish public order in its territory, and to preserve its sovereignty with Colombia territory which has been recognized by Peru as belonging to Colombia.

The note also said that on January 6 Victor Ramos, commandant Peruvian forces, telegraphed Colombian leaders that he would take military measures to prevent Colombian forces from entering Leticia.

Throughout the dispute Peru has maintained that Colombia has not been able to comply fully with the terms of the 1923 treaty in that was coded to Peru is not acceptable.

The negotiations for a settlement have been proceeding for many months. Both countries had representatives in Washington recently to attempt a settlement, but failed. Then other efforts were made before the onset of negotiations were shifted to Rio de Janeiro.

One of the hitches in the Rio de Janeiro discussions has been that Peru has been unwilling to agree to the Brazilian proposal to hold Leticia for Colombia pending a settlement. She has maintained that Colombian port should be held only to determine ultimate ownership.

Peru has said she can not stand by and see her nationals expelled.

INSTALLMENT GET OWN NAME IS BEST

Evansville, Ind.—C. C. Farmer gave the Mesker Zoo a gift of three flying squirrels on the installment plan. Farmer had the squirrels in a box preparatory to delivering them, but they gnawed a hole in the box and two of them got out. The third was too large. Farmer delivered the one but the other two were running loose in his basement. It's a case of one squirrel down and the rest when he catches them.

ROBBERY, MOTIVE OF BOSTON MURDER

Police Believe Cheap Crooks Killed "King" Solomon For His Money.

Boston, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The "romance" of Charles "King" Solomon's death was gone today as police worked on the theory he was the victim of four cheap stick-up artists.

Frank Ford, a 24-year-old South End man, was held for questioning. Police had been watching the apartment house where Ford was taken for several hours when the South End man entered the building. They believed he was at the Cotton Club when Solomon was shot and killed and he was allegedly a member of the "Spike" Hennessey gang of the Roxbury section.

The arrest of Ford was made early today and police took him to Station 10, where he was held through the night. Meanwhile, detectives reconstructed the shooting. They pictured the "king" as the victim of petty gangsters with long police records. Officers believed Solomon was forced into the washroom of the Cotton Club with a gun at his back. They believed the gangsters snatched Solomon's "roll" of $4,600 and knocked him to the floor in an effort to get a three-carat diamond ring from the third finger of his left hand.

Shot On Floor Then, as he lay on the washroom floor, police believed the gangsters shot him three times, twice in the abdomen and once in the head.

Late last night a squad of officers left Boston for Worcester, where they believed they would find a suspect. They were joined in the latter city by Worcester officers and made systematic raids on Lake Quinsigamond Camp, a Worcester speakeasy and a Shrewsbury speakeasy. The raids netted them nothing.

Police doubt that Solomon knew the names of his slayers, whom they believed to be cheap gangsters down in their luck. The killers, police said, made a desperate play for the money Solomon carried on him.

A list of suspects sought by police included: James "Sleets" Coyne, Frank Karlons, James Scully and James J. Burke, all of Boston. It was Coyne they sought in Worcester last night.

Dial Twisters

By W. J. DALTON

We have been hearing quite a lot lately, about these new noise reducing aeriels. An erroneous impression, concerning this device, is held by too many radio users and for that reason I shall try to tell the readers of this column just exactly what it is and how it operates.

Interference and so-called man made static can enter a radio in one or both of two ways. One way is through the aeriels and the other is by way of the electric wiring in the house. The first thing to do then is to isolate the aeriels wire—that is to get it out of the field of interference. In most cases this means to have it at least thirty feet above or away from the house, and all other houses and buildings in the vicinity. Also, the aeriels wire must be as far away, as possible, from all surrounding electric, power and telephone wires. In other words have the aeriels as high in the air as it is possible to get it.

The next problem is this. The average existing aeriels has a lead-in wire which is at least half as long as the aeriels itself. This lead-in picks up and conducts the radio signals to the radio just as does the aeriels wire itself. Of course this means that the lead-in wire transmits to the radio, any interference through which it passes.

Now we have our aeriels away from any interference. The next thing to do is to make sure that no outside noises get in through the lead-in wire. This is brought about by using what is called a shielded lead-in wire. This shielded wire is nothing more than ordinary insulated wire with a flexible metal covering. This metal covering is the secret of its noise reducing properties. The metal sheathing is brought to a noise-free ground which obviates the possibilities of interference entering the radio through the aeriels system.

Now we have an aeriels system which transmits very little outside noises to the radio. But when we try this particular aeriels we find that we do not get quite as many stations as before. This is because our new lead-in does not act as part of the serial pick-up. To overcome this there is a device known as an aeriels booster which is placed between the aeriels wire and the shielded lead-in wire. This gadget intensifies the radio signal as it leaves the aeriels and overcomes the loss of signal pick-up from the old unshielded lead-in wire.

So much for the aeriels proper. Now we come to the problem of reducing, or eliminating, of possible, the interference which enters by way of the house electric wiring. To do this we place a line filtering device between electric cord from the radio set and the base plug or electric socket to which the cord formerly was attached. This line filtering thing is a combination of heavy choke coils and filter condensers, all in one container. This device also is grounded. We now have three grounded points—the aeriels lead-in, the filtering device and the radio set. If possible each of these points should be led to a separate ground.

In many cases interfering devices such as heavy motors and the like must be filtered individually. Queer Twists In Day's News

Queer Twists In Day's News

Pittsburgh—Science, like love, "will find a way."

The following yarn is going the rounds of the Carnegie Tech campus:

An enterprising engineering student who spends his idle hours tinkering with a short wave radio set, received a calculus problem which was too difficult.

Exasperated, he finally appealed for help over the air, and the solution promptly came back dictated by a student at the University of Texas, away down in Austin.

Coatesville, Pa.—For years, Giovanni Dipoli, 65, a crossing watchman, walked to work on the railroad right of way. About a month ago, the management ordered him to take a safer course. Yesterday as he trudged to his post, a truck roared down the Lincoln Highway and killed him.

Delavan, Wis.—Kenneth Boardman, scoring ace of the Delavan high school basketball team lost the opportunity to play in the last game but he is a hero just the same.

His mother, who was seriously ill, needed a blood transfusion so he gave his blood. Physicians decided he was too weak to play basketball. The coach told the team and they beat Lake Geneva 19 to 14.

Cranes Lake, Minn.—Heavy snows mean nothing to the women of this community when they go to Cranen Lake's home demonstration class. They drive dog teams to school. One of them, Mrs. Nell Berger, drives three to five dogs. The round trip from her home is 36 miles. Another, Mrs. Walker Scott, drives one dog and takes her baby with her in the sled.

Chicago—Hamlet is gone and Franje, six-year-old daughter of Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago is said for two reasons. First she liked Hamlet a great Dams pup, and in the second place she got ten cents a week salary for caring for him.

Madison, Wis.—The sign in the barber shop read: "Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back."

The other night a burglar broke into the shop, helped himself to a small amount of money and then left, but not until he had taken time to write the owner of the place a note. It read: "Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back."

Horley, Surrey, England, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Determined not to delay his attempt to break the world land speed record Sir Malcolm Campbell, the automobile racer, left home early today suffering from influenza, with a temperature of 104, and departed for Southampton to sail for New York on the Aquitania.

INTER HEALTH HELPED BY USE OF RIGHT FOOD

State Department Bulletin Advises Increase of Certain Essentials As Protection.

At this midwinter season of the year as a precaution against colds and similar infections, it is well to increase in the daily diet certain foods, such as milk, green vegetables and fruits, which are termed "protective foods," the State Department of Health advises in its weekly bulletin today.

These foods protect because they contain certain elements that are essential to health, particularly calcium and several of the vitamins. In addition to calcium at this season, liberal sources of vitamin A help to build up the resistance of the membranes of throat, eyes, ears and nose against respiratory infections. In fact, vitamin A is sometimes termed the anti-infective vitamin.

Whole milk with its high content of both calcium and vitamin A should be liberally used as a defensive health measure; butter, egg yolks, spinach and raw carrots are also rich sources of vitamin A. Liver oil, except for the vitamin it contains little if any vitamin A—is a rich source of this vitamin, so liver should be used frequently during the winter months.

Very often people exercise less in the winter season and drink less water than in warm weather when they perspire more freely. These are ideal conditions for favoring constipation. Again proper food can be chosen to offset this condition. All sorts of vegetables are valuable because of their fibrous content which stimulates elimination. And fruits, especially the citrus fruits which, beside being laxative yield a desirable alkaline reserve in the body, are health assets.

BROWN COULD REMAIN

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—If Postmaster General Brown chose to become technical, he might continue in office for a while during the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

This would be possible, it was pointed out today at the Post Office Department, under an Act of Congress passed in 1874. That act provides that the postmaster general's tenure "shall be for and during the term of the President by whom he is appointed, and for one month thereafter unless sooner removed."

The act was passed, it was explained, on the ground that the Postoffice Department was a business institution and the postmaster general should remain a month to familiarize his successor with the duties.

However, no one ever has remained beyond March 4.

This provision applies to no other Cabinet position.

NEW STEAMER TESTED

Newport News, Va., Jan. 25.—(AP)—The United Fruit liner Petan, last of six ships built by the line in two years, will be given sea trials and tests of the Virginia Capes February 15, it was learned today from officials of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company.

Officials of the shipyard, the United Fruit Company and other steamship lines, will be aboard the vessel on the trials.

The liner will be delivered to her owners late in February. She is scheduled to sail from New York March 15 on the route to Santos, Havana, Panama and Colon.

The Dorcas society will hold their annual meeting at the home of Mrs. E. T. Thelen, Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hanson and children have moved into the north part of the town, with her parents from Manchester.

Eugene B. Lord and Norman R. Lord visited at the home of their brother, Fred M. Lord, in Providence, R. I., recently.

Mrs. Roy B. Pettengill is recovering from a recent illness. The Ever Ready Group will meet at the home of Miss Lois B. Lord, Friday night.

Extensive repairs are being made to the Chauncey Coleman house in the northwest part of the town by John C. Vergason.

Several from here attended the funeral of Mrs. Louise L. Fogel in Gilead, Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Fogel was a former resident of this place. The deceased leaves two sons, Frederick J. Links of Hartford and Karl H. Links of Gilead; four grandchildren and a niece, Mrs. J. H. Russell, of South Manchester.

Louis Pettengill was given a surprise party on Monday night at his home, the occasion being his 18th birthday.

Word has been received of the death of T. W. Doherrert's father in Germany recently. The deceased was in his 79th year.

A meeting of the Tri-County Christian Endeavor Union will be held here Sunday night. Plans are being made for a Valentine banquet and party to be held February 17 by the Christian Endeavor society.

Mrs. H. Emerson Dodge is ill with pneumonia.

HUGE PROGRAM FOR SATURDAY'S SHOW COMPLETE

lier system installed by Potterton and Krah.

All services for this affair are being donated to the cause, Fay and Crane pointed out today.

Rogers as Master

Willard B. Rogers, widely known local speaker, will again occupy the position of master of ceremonies, which he handled expertly last year. He has earned an enviable reputation in New England in this line and his presence insures a smooth running program.

An exciting preliminary game is in store for all who attend, starting at 7:30 o'clock, at which time the National Guards face the Phantoms of New Britain. This team scored a surprising upset victory over the soldiers in New Britain last Saturday and the locals will be out to avenge the 36-28 defeat.

At 9:05 o'clock, the Old Timers game will get underway, between the former court stars of New Britain and Manchester. The entire program will be finished at 10:30 o'clock, after which Buddy Bost and his orchestra will furnish music for dancing until midnight.

The Complete Program

The program according to time schedule will be as follows:

7:30—First half of National Guards-Phantoms basketball game.

7:50—Ernie Wordell, Scotch comedian.

8:05—Last half of preliminary game.

8:35—Dodger Dowd's tumblers.

8:55—The Dancing Sailors.

8:45—Surprise.

9:05—First half of Old Timers game.

9:25—Remarks by Clarence Chamberlin, noted aviator and trans-Atlantic flyer.

9:35—Two minute talks by Mayor Rankin and Mayor Quigley.

9:40—Arthur McGinley, monologue.

10:00—Last half of Old Timers game.

10:30—Dancing until midnight.

Reasonable Prices

Tickets for this outstanding attraction are priced within the reach of everyone. The proceeds will be donated to the Manchester Emergency Employment Association for its work among the unemployed. Persons of high school age and younger will be admitted for 25 cents, adults for fifty cents and a small section of seats will be priced at $1.00. Tickets may be purchased at Metter's Smoke Shop and the Manchester Trust company at the south end and Murphy's Drug Store and Conran's Shoppe at the north end.

The reserved seat section in the center of the Armory floor will be roped off to assure all who purchase reserved tickets of a seat. Ten National Guardsmen will patrol the seating area to assist everyone in finding seats.

MRS. BELMONT ILL.

Paris, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, leader of New York society for many years, was in a critical condition today at her residence here. She was 80 years old last week.

Her daughter, Mrs. Jacques Balsan, the former consule Vanderbilt, was with her. W. K. Vanderbilt and Harold Vanderbilt, her sons, were in America.

Mrs. Belmont suffered a paralytic stroke last spring and in November a relapse occurred after she had improved considerably. She has been a resident of France since 1924.

DR. MERRITT H. EDDY IS 100 YEARS OLD

practicing physician, Dr. Eddy also is the oldest graduate of Middlebury college, the oldest member of the fraternity of Chi Psi and the oldest Methodist and Mason in Vermont.

Few Hospitals

He first studied medicine during the Civil War when he expected to become an Army surgeon. He was graduated from the Burlington medical college in 1865. Those were the days, he told interviewers, when nurses were unknown; there were few hospitals; ether was not in general use; the stethoscope was not included in a physician's equipment, and the fingers were used to determine fever.

"I believe I had the first clinical thermometer in Vermont," Dr. Eddy boasts. He said he got it from a surgeon from New York who was visiting a patient in Vermont.

55 Cents For Cash

Dr. Eddy said he charged 55 cents for his first call after becoming a doctor. He said he would have charged a dollar but the man was poor.

Dr. Eddy clearly recalls a visit he made to Bridgeport many years ago. He had driven his horse out in the early spring morning but when he returned that night the snow, melting before the sun in the hills, had sent torrents of water raging through the valleys. He said he was driving along in the dusk when he encountered a stream that looked to be shallow. Getting into the center of the stream, however, he found it was very deep. He could not swim but he decided to make a run for it.

"Once or twice the mare lost her footing and the buggy swayed badly but we got through," the doctor said.

Dr. Eddy probably has ushered more babies into the world than any other doctor in New England. He lost count some years ago, he said, but the number would run considerably over 2,000.

A. W. HYDE ON LAST CHENEY TRAIN TRIP

Former Brakeman and Conductor To Ride To North End and Back in Final Run.

One of the passengers on board the passenger train which leaves the South Manchester Railroad tomorrow night on its final trip will be A. W. Hyde, for many years a brakeman and later a conductor, on the train.

Approached by a Herald representative today, Mr. Hyde said he was planning to make the last trip. He said he wouldn't feel right if he didn't and his wife substantiated his statement. From the north end came the report that Edward J. Murphy, president of the Chamber of Commerce, was making arrangements as possible to make the last trip.

The last train leaves Cheney mills at 5:10 tomorrow night and reaches the north end at 5:20 after which it will travel back to its roundhouse, never again to be made up as a Cheney help train. Engineer John Kennedy will be at the throttle for the final passenger trip.

CONDON ENDORSES A FIVE DAY WEEK

Rhode Island Congressman Says It Is Only Plan To Aid the Jobless.

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Representative Condon, (D. R. I.), endorsed the proposed six-hour day and five-day week today in a statement terming the change "an imperative necessity if we are ever to provide work at real wages for our vast army of unemployed."

"In fact, it is doubtful," said Condon, "if even the thirty-hour week will solve the problem wholly. It is, however, a forward step and one that Congress should not hesitate to take now."

"If it is going to be done at all by statute it must be by a Federal statute and the Connery bill in the House and the Black bill in the Senate are adequate for the purpose."

"Only if uniformity throughout the nation can be attained is such a law desirable and workable. I am satisfied that employers, as well as employees in my state of Rhode Island would welcome such a law."

Present Conditions

"It would eradicate the present ruinous and destructive competition coming from industry situated in states whose labor laws are so notoriously lax. It would make unnecessary the calling of the conference of the northeastern states suggested by Governor Ely of Massachusetts to seek ways and means of combating this evil.

"It would also make unnecessary the threatened relaxation of the enlightened and forward looking hours of labor statutes of Massachusetts which have made that great Commonwealth a model in this field."

"The urge for the passage of the bill now is of course the primary one of taking up much, if not all, of the present woeful and disastrous slack in industrial employment. It is, in my opinion, the best remedy yet offered to cure this distemper in our economic system."

REV. PANIK'S FUNERAL

Bridgeport, Jan. 25.—(AP)—With more than 2,000 persons, among them 150 clergymen and representative Slovaks from seven states, taxing to capacity St. Cyril's and Methodius church and another 1500 outside seeking admission, funeral services for the Rev. Gaspar J. Panik, Nationally known Slovak priest who died Sunday of pneumonia, were held at 10 a. m. today in the church that he has served for 16 years.

While high church dignitaries from all parts of the east city officials and representatives of Slovak societies looked on the most Rev. Maurice F. McCauliffe, auxiliary bishop of the diocese, celebrated the funeral mass. Burial was in Bridgeport.

ASK FOR PENSION

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Groups of residents of Hartford, Stamford, New London, New Haven, Manchester, East Hartford, South Coventry, Windsor and Groton, Conn., have petitioned Congress to pass the Hamilton-Keller bill to provide for retirement pensions to railroad workers.

Baking on busy days can be both easy and convenient. For baking with Rumford demands little care or attention! Rumford always does 100% of its job toward making cakes and hot breads perfect. It leaves you free to do other things.

Without help or care Rumford Two-to-One leavening takes place at the right time, in the right place, and in the right amount. Two-thirds always occurs in the mixing and one-third always takes place in the oven.

You can leave Rumford dough or batter in the ice box over night. The long wait won't harm it. Or you can mix quickly, even roughly, and put your bake directly in the oven. It will turn out superior results just the same.

Work around the stove as much as you care to. It won't make any difference. Your Rumford bake will always rise the right amount to assure perfect results.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SHEILA SHAYNE, dancer in discharged from a new play because MARION RANDOLPH, the star, is jealous of her. Sheila searches for work and finally secures a part in a musical show soon to go on tour. DICK STANLEY, rich and socially prominent, asks her to give up this job and marry him but Sheila refuses. Her idea of marriage is a home in some little town far from Broadway.

Sheila is friendly with JIM BLAINE, another actor in the company from which she was discharged. When Jim offends Miss Randolph quite unintentionally she asks CRAIG ABBOTT, who is backing the show financially, to discharge Jim. Abbott, tired of Marion's demands and tired of her also, goes to see Jim and through him secures an introduction to Sheila.

A few days later Jim calls Sheila and tells her Marion is out of the show. A messenger comes to Sheila's boarding house bringing her a huge basket of red geraniums.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXI

Myrtle and Sheila stared at each other. The flowers were being borne up the stairs in the arms of a staggering delivery man. Sheila had never seen geraniums such as these before. They had been cut and fastened to long stems through which, the man explained, by some sunning arrangement they could absorb water.

"We had to send to half a dozen of our greenhouses to get them, Miss," he said.

Sheila thought, "He wants a tip," and went to get her purse. But the man shook his head.

"No, Miss. I've been tipped plenty." The delivery man turned and clattered, whistling, down the stairs.

"Where are you going to put them?" Myrtle asked. The girls surveyed the huge container, water filled, with the crimson geraniums arranged in profusion. They were lovely. Enjoying their unusual beauty, Sheila wondered why they were not more popular. She was to know immediately.

"That fellow tracked those red petals all over the place!" Ma Lowell ejaculated, puffing up the stairs again after seeing the man out of the house. No one ever came in or went out of the lodging house unless Ma knew it.

"Say—!" she went on, "those geraniums certainly do bring back old times!"

Ma had been born in the country. Conversation about her childhood was dotted with reminiscences of a wide range. Today brought forth a wealth of anecdotes her mother's sunny kitchen window filled with geraniums and begonias. Plant slips exchanged among the neighbors. Ma signed as she did frequently, wiping her face with her apron. Both Sheila and Myrtle well knew that she could not have been hired to return to the life of those days, however much she might sigh for it.

"What are you going to do with these flowers?" Ma asked Sheila.

"I don't know. Send them to a hospital, maybe."

"We'll take 'em Geraniums?"

"They'll look well with my black chiffon."

"Well—maybe. They'd look better to me in a kitchen. You know—one of those little model kitchens you see in the magazines. Checked curtains at the windows and all."

Myrtle looked at the other girl. "I'll bet you'd rather have a kitchen like that than your name in electric lights."

"I might."

"Read the note, Sheila. See what he says. Of course, it's none of my business—!"

Sheila opened the envelope with fingers that trembled a little. It was written on fine stationery and the handwriting was just what she would have expected from Craig Abbott. There was humor in his face, in his words and even in his scrawl.

"Funny writing, isn't it?" was Myrtle's contribution. "However, it would certainly be useful on a check."

"Dear Little Geranium Lady," the note began. "If you will have dinner with me tonight or tomorrow night or the night after that—or all three of them—I'll tell you something to make even your lovely hair curl a little tighter. I'll call you this morning at 11."

And at 11 Abbott called.

Sheila had told him she had a dinner engagement for that evening but they arranged a tea date. "And perhaps," Abbott said, "I can persuade you to re-arrange your other plans after that. Who is the man anyhow? If it is Stanley, can't all three of us have dinner together? He is interested in your future as I am."

The girl smiled wisely into the transmitter. "It isn't Dick," she said. "And I can break the engagement."

"Well, we'll see about that later. Meanwhile, put on your best air of expectancy. I have news for you."

At 4:30 they were seated in a taxicab threading along Broadway. Sheila had learned several things in the meantime. She had learned that Craig Abbott, the young man she had supposed to be a casual, old-time acquaintance of Jim Blaine's, was the man whose money had financed "When Lights Are Low." He was the man responsible for her losing her job in that play. Somehow she didn't feel an angry about that as perhaps she should have been. Abbott, respondent in a beautifully cut suit and an amazing tie, eyes her amusedly. "How're the rehearsals coming?" he asked.

"Almost over. We'll be leaving for the road, you know, in a day or two."

"Yes, I know. I own part of that show, as it happens. Oh, you didn't know that, did you?"

"Well," said Sheila, "I hope that doesn't mean bad luck for me. You were backing 'When Lights Are Low' too, weren't you?"

"Yes, I know. I own part of that show, as it happens. Oh, you didn't know that, did you?"

"Well," said Sheila, "I hope that doesn't mean bad luck for me. You were backing 'When Lights Are Low' too, weren't you?"

"Yes, I know. I own part of that show, as it happens. Oh, you didn't know that, did you?"

"Well," said Sheila, "I hope that doesn't mean bad luck for me. You were backing 'When Lights Are Low' too, weren't you?"

but it would do. And she could dance much better! It was true that Marion Randolph had a reputation and a following. Sheila had none. Audiences liked her but she had never had a role important enough to make her well known.

"Aren't you making a mistake?" she said slowly. "You see, I know that Marion didn't leave because she received a screen offer. Equity wouldn't let her do such a thing and Equity wouldn't let you dismiss her either. You must have come to an arrangement—"

"Highly agreeable to both of us," supplemented Abbott. He did not look at the girl. "You needn't worry about that, Sheila," he went on. "Your contract will be secure enough. Do you want the part?"

Sheila was smiling. "You sent me red geraniums, didn't you?" she asked. "And you know what they mean to me. The home I want means the road. This other show means the road. It means life in small towns where the homes are real homes. Those flowers only served to strengthen my purpose." She laughed a trifle shakily. "If you really wanted me to stay on Broadway and play that part you shouldn't have sent them. They mean too much to me."

"Kindly omit geraniums," Abbott said soberly.

"I mean—"

"I know what you mean," his eyes regarding her steadily. His serious. "And you know what I mean. Or I hope you do." His voice lowered. "Ever since I saw you in that Italian garden I've been planning this. I'm a small town boy, really, with more money than is good for me. I haven't been very careful about what I did with it but it's stayed with me pretty well."

"Buying geraniums by the cartload, for example?"

He moved nearer. "Here's what I'm trying to say to you, Sheila. I mean it! Will you marry me?"

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart
© 1933 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

Fluttering, graceful, appealing hands are part of the present Victorian swing of things.

These are the days when a woman who knows her stuff lets her hands speak for her.

You can manicure your nails, cream and massage your hands, do your best by them so far as grooming is concerned and yet not quite make the grade in getting hand-applaud.

I mean that it takes more than grooming these days to get the most out of your hands.

Sleeves, gloves, bracelets and cuffs all do their bit.

If you have wrists that do not taper the way you wish they would, be adamant about not buying those huge bracelets that are in style right now. They make the most delicate wrist look heavy. Don't wear a whole cuff of bracelets. They too are hard on the wrist that isn't well shaped. Stick to a snug, perhaps a jeweled, but a snug watch bracelet for your decoration. Wear rings and necklaces and let your wrist go bare.

If your hands aren't lovely and you have to admit it, try cuffs that extend over the back of your hands a bit. The old-fashioned mitt-cuff, as they are called, that come down in a little point over the top of the hand. They taper your hand to all outward appearances.

If you wear daring gauntlet gloves, they give your hands and wrists a smaller look. Big top sleeves that taper to the wrists do the same for you. A puff above the elbow and a more-or-less-fitted long cuff accent hands and are grand for the girl with lovely ones.

These are little details of dress. But they make all the difference in the impression your hands give. You can't afford to overlook them.

QUOTATIONS

Temperament usually is just an excuse for a bad disposition. —Miss Elizabeth Oppenheim, concert pianist.

CHILDREN WILL TAKE BLAME

Beside me on my desk is a little blue china box. On the lid is a white cameo relief of Priscilla Mullens with her hand on John Alden's arm. Under it is a scroll on which is inscribed, "Why Don't You Speak For Yourself, John?"

It reminds me of a time I was wrong. A child had been punished for nothing. She had not explained the facts and later I discovered she was not to blame. She took the blame and accepted the punishment rather than go into a long rigamarole of how it happened.

I said, "If you had told us all about it, we would have understood. You have to learn to speak for yourself."

She answered, "I didn't know how to tell you. You wouldn't have understood anyway. Mother. It was easier to let it go."

And this is the truth about children.

Children Rarely Complain

The rest of us go through the days righting ourselves with other people. We are perpetually on the defense. If we feel that something we have done is misunderstood our tongues get busy with details of how or why we did it, or didn't do it.

If someone comes out openly and accuses us, instantly we are up in arms and are not too particular how we tell them they are wrong. We go through the slating right and left at the horns of disapproval that whip out at us as we pass. But children don't. They take it all. They seem to think that being misunderstood is part of daily living.

Not only this, but they are different from us oldsters. We become and think pretty much the same from one day to another. We are more or less static.

We haven't those sudden notions or impulses that children have. Furthermore, we have a great reduction of interests we have a great reduction of temptation. Everything interests a child, therefore a dozen times a day he is tempted to break over rule, and he what we like to call "naughty."

Another thing a half hour after he has done something a child can't remember why he did it or how he felt at the moment. He can't recall what was in his mind at the time because all children are emotionally "fluid." We feel in the same mood for hours, days, or weeks at a stretch, while a child changes frequently in a few minutes.

No, they can't explain, and don't explain. They can't argue anyway. A child is at a real disadvantage because he is neither a quick reasoner nor an elocutionist. He nearly always loses the fight because we block him at every turn. We are not in a compromising mood and we haven't patience.

In this case I was to blame. I asked, "Why didn't you speak up, Mary?"

And she answered, "You would not let me. And you wouldn't have understood anyway. It was too much trouble to talk a lot about it."

Size 16 requires 3 7/8 yards 39-inch, with 1-2 yard 35-inch lining.

Price of Pattern 15 cents.

Marvelous Manhattan
By William Gaines

New York.—We may feel a bit more secure from the advances of a young friend who comes down from West Point and calls upon me at times.

He says the military professors at the Point tell the students that the defenses of New York are first rate.

I'm sure the good doctors of the gentle science of cannonading would not deliberately misinform the abecedarian warriors entrusted with the protection of our country. Yet their preaching seems to be at odds with some of the alarms spread now and then.

I have a faint recollection of hearing somewhere—yes, more than once—that for an aggressive foreign power to raid New York would be no more risky an adventure than for a horse of horsemen to go treeing an anemic fox with the aid of forty hounds.

"101 Ranch"

One of the indelible memories of the holiday period is of a visit to a basement cafe in the heart of "Little Italy," which the genial proprietor, for reasons never gleaned, had identified as "101 Ranch."

There was no other patronage, but much activity in the place while I entered with another friend well known to the affable host.

The activity was a family reunion—and something it was to be hold!

Family completely filled the place, which was not too amply. The dance floor was given over to four kiddies—two little girls and two little boys—who had their toy wagons and other playthings strewn all about. At the tables sat mater, pater, parents-in-law, grandparents, sisters-in-law, brothers-in-law, uncles, aunts, cousins and whatnot.

Behind the counter there was presiding a son of the proprietor, surely not more than 15. No sooner had we entered, on recognition of my friend, than the host merrily bestowed an order that we be given our fill of whatever we wanted.

There was no misbehavior, but there great cheer and an abundance of friendliness—with not a charge permitted to us!

Everywhere were decorations of a religious and festive nature, and from the kitchen came a fumigant of much foreign, high flavored cooking.

Myne host proposed a toast to us and in broken English said:

"May the year bring us understanding."

SEE FAILURE IN FOOD LAW

Authors Declare Consumer's Rights Aren't Protected

The far-famed pure food law of the United States is so full of loopholes as to be disturbingly ineffective. Furthermore, it is administered in such a way that the profits of manufacturers are protected much better than the health of the consumer.

These are the amazing charges contained in "100,000,000 Guinea Pigs," a startling, outspoken book by Arthur Kallet and F. J. Schlink. Basing their assertions on government records and files of "Consumer's Research," these authors assert:

That the scandalous patent medicine trade is flooding the market with worthless, and frequently poisonous, nostrums.

That the consumer has only the poorest protection against adulterated foods, and that foodstuffs containing highly deleterious matter are extremely common.

That all manner of popular medicinal preparations supposedly far above the patent medicine class are practically worthless, and in some cases are actually dangerous.

The authors demand a complete change in policy by the Food and Drug Administration and urge a drastic revision of the basic law.

Published by the Vanguard Press, the book retails for $2.

ANTITOXIN FOR LOCKJAW SHOULD BE GIVEN EARLY

Under Best of Modern Treatment, it is Possible to Save the Lives of One-half to Two-Thirds of the Persons Infected

This is the second of two articles on the nature and treatment of lockjaw.

By DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Medical Magazine

Tetanus usually begins about seven days after the wound which permits the germs to get into the tissues, although it may come on somewhat later or, rarely, earlier. The first signs are a sense of drawing pain in the wound with the twitching of muscles nearby; also the usual signs of infection such as irritability, headache, chilliness and fever. Then comes the stiffness of the muscles of the jaw and neck, which gives the disease its name. It becomes more and more difficult to open the mouth and finally the jaws may be clamped shut and the neck rigid. Attempts to open the mouth intensify the spasms.

Eventually, of course, other muscles and nerves are involved so that there is serious spasms and convulsions. In fact, there may be from three to 40 spasms in an hour. The whole body may be involved, including even the muscles of the bowels and of the bladder. Of course, when the heart and the breathing muscles are involved the condition is fatal.

Even under the best of treatment patients with lockjaw may die because of the potency of this poison. Much depends on the time at which the antitoxin is given and on the amount. Of greatest importance is the prevention of lockjaw through the proper treatment of the wound. It has been shown, at the earliest possible moment, it should be taken for granted that a wound acquired in localities where the soil is likely to be contaminated with tetanus wounds acquired in fields, stables and farms, and of such as gunshot and powder wounds, are infected.

A physician who treats such a case will probably open the wound widely, removing any clothing, soil or other visible contaminants that may be present, and then treat the wound with proper antiseptics.

It is also important at this time to inject under the skin the specific antitoxin against tetanus, and perhaps to give another injection one week later.

If the disease develops in spite of preventive treatment the patient should be placed in a quiet room, preferably in a hospital, and spared all noises or vibrations because they may serve to stimulate spasms.

To feed the patient it is sometimes necessary to pass a narrow tube through the nose and down into the stomach. The patient must be constantly with the patient to prevent injury from convulsions and to guard against sudden death from paralysis of the breathing.

In no condition is the constant and immediate attention of a competent physician and good nursing so important. This frequently makes the difference between life and death. The antitoxin which opposes the poison must be given early in the disease and in large doses.

Under the best of treatment it is possible to save the lives of from one-half to two-thirds of the persons who are infected.

Trade School Noses Out A. S. D. In Final Period

Rally in Closing Minutes Brings 32-30 Win Over American School For Deaf; Seconds Also Victors, 21-16; Reedy and Rossi Feature.

Last night the State Trade school basketball teams journeyed to West Hartford for the annual games with the American School for the Deaf and took both contests in very exciting closing periods. In the main game, A. S. D. led all the way until with a minute to play Ross of the locals, tied the score to make it 30-all with a long shot from the center of the floor and with the sound of the closing horn in the air McCurry of the locals led drive another at the basket swishing the net to give the game to the local quintet.

Manchester was hampered by the absence of some of its regulars, but every player on the floor last night played heads up. Reedy and made possibly the win. Reedy went especially well, as did Rossi and Bissell played a stellar guard game. Kesh in his debut as varsity center filled in very creditably. Supinski, forward on "e A. S. D. team was outstanding in scoring ability.

In the preliminary McCadam and McCurry, the "M" combination, worked together well and did much to help in engineering a 21-16 win over the A. S. D. seconds. Lamphier went best for the American School.

Both games were very cleanly played, the sportsmanship was excellent; regarding which the A. S. D. physical director, Mr. Rockwell, also remarked.

Friday night the locals go to Enfield High, Thompsonville, to open up basketball relations with that school.

OLYMPICS RETURN A NET PROFIT OF NEARLY $150,000

Gross Gate Receipts of the Games Were Slightly Short of Two Million; Los Angeles Gets Money.

Los Angeles, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The Olympic Games here last summer returned a net profit of approximately $150,000. While no financial statement of the international classic has been made, this figure was revealed in a statement from the Community Development Association that it "hoped to contribute to the city and county of Los Angeles the final surplus of the Olympic Games, in the neighborhood of $150,000."

The Los Angeles organizing committee, almost the same as the Community Development Association, has announced it would retire the bonds of a million dollars, voted by the state legislature for "promotion of the games. The $55,000 premium on the bonds also will be paid. This would raise the net operating expenses to approximately $1,200,000. Such costs as construction and handling of the Olympic village, and additions to the various games sites, estimated at half million dollars, were not covered by the bond issue.

On the basis of these figures it was unofficially said that the gross gate receipts for the games, which were the most successful financially of any ever staged, were slightly short of $2,000,000.

A friendly suit is now before Superior Court to determine the proper manner in which to retire the bonds. The "final surplus" will be evenly distributed between Los Angeles county and city. The Community Development Association turned over to the city and county today, $47,744.56, which represents the net profit for the operation of the Memorial Coliseum, formerly the Olympic Stadium, since the fall of 1923.

RUTH LOSES PLACE ON ALL STAR TEAM

Not Mentioned For First Time In Eight Years; Is Succeeded By Klein.

St. Louis, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The American League furnishes six of the ten players on the Sporting News major league all star team for 1933, but George Herman Ruth is not among them. For the first time in the eight year history of the baseball publication's poll the big Yankee slugger loses his place in right field to Chuck Klein, youthful all around sensation of the Phillies.

Of the 191 votes cast for right field in the poll of members of the baseball writers association Klein received 11, against 63 for Ruth. Klein also polled 16 votes for center field and eight for left for a grand total of 135 votes. Ruth's total of 94 was made up of 63 for right field, 29 for left and two for center.

Cronin, the Senators manager, and shortstop polled the greatest number of votes, 153. Here is the voting by positions for the leader and his closest rival:
Left field—O'Doul, Dodgers, 101; Ruth, Yankees, 29.
Center field—Averill, Indians, 61; Lloyd Waner, Pirates, 46.
Right field—Klein, Phillies, 111; Ruth, 63.

First base—Fox, Athletics, 138; Gehrig, Yanks, 40.
Second base—Lasseri, Yanks, 67; Gehring, Tigers, 51.
Third base—Traynor, Pirates, 129; Whitney, Phillies, 28.
Shortstop—Cronin, Senators, 153; Bartell, Phillies, 18.
Catcher—Dickey, Yankees 118; Cochrane, Athletics, 29.
Pitchers, Warneke, Cubs, 147; Grove, Athletics, 100; Gomez, Yanks, 95; Farrell, Indians, 12.

VERGEZ OF GIANTS PLEASED WITH OFFER

New York, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Johnny Verges, third baseman of the New York Giants, had a bad season in 1932 which explains why the club has promptly accepted the club's terms for 1933. "In view of the fact that I was not so hot last season," said a note which accompanied Verges' signed contract, "I am more than satisfied with the fair way the club has treated me and will do everything I can to regular my form of 1933."

The Giants announced at the same time that Travis Jackson, veteran shortstop who was on the voluntary retired list because of an injured knee, had applied for reinstatement.

Otherwise the baseball contract market was at a standstill yesterday. Charley Deans, Harvard graduate, centered with Boston Red Sox, and Harry Sawyer, New York University graduate, were the only players to be mentioned in the market.

LOCALS FALTER IN FINAL HALF AFTER LEADING BY 20-13

Recs Play Brilliant, Aggressive Basketball In First Half, But Fail To Maintain Terrific Pace In One of Best Games Here This Season; Girls Also Lose.

After playing brilliant aggressive basketball to gain a 20-13 advantage in the first half, the Recs faltered badly in the final period of one of the best games played on a local court this season and bowed in defeat to the Rosary A. A. of Springfield at the School street Rec last night. The final score was 33-27. The outcome giving the Recs a record of fifteen losses and seven victories and the Rosary's their fifteenth victory in seventeen starts.

The Recs were unbeatable in the first half, setting a terrific pace that resulted in a furious, rough and tumble battle that brought enthusiastic cheers from the small crowd in attendance. The stellar performance of the Recs gave them a lead of 12 to 8 at the end of the first quarter and this margin was stretched to 20-13 by halftime, and this without the services of Al Hewitt and Pat Carlson.

The Rosary quintet was unable to penetrate the Rec defense in the first half, the locals repeatedly taking the ball away from the visitors to chalk up basket after basket. The accurate long shots of the Rosary was all that kept them in the running in the first half.

Jim Cotter contributed a splendid defensive performance and kept the Recs in possession of the ball during most of the first two periods. The Recs were on the ball every minute, checking perfectly and following up shots, never giving the Bay State team a breathing spell.

Recs Falter Badly
But in the last half the game went into reverse and the Rosary took the offensive as the Recs slackened their break-neck pace. The Rosary swiftly closed the gap and late in the third quarter Roskowski tied the score at 21-all. A moment later Rutkowski scored on a long pass from midcourt, Falkoed followed him on the play, and another point was added to give the visitors a three-point margin at the end of the period.

Valley, Coach Ben Clune tried to bring his team back to its first half form by sending in substitutions. The Rosary were not to be stopped. In desperation the Recs resorted to vomiting from all angles of the floor but failed to connect with the basket.

Valley added a twin-pointer to the score with a follow-up shot and duplicated this feat a moment later. Then Marchinski and Faulkner each looped a free throw from the foul line, and Dowd added another soon after. With a minute to go, the Rosary were leading 27-21. A half side shot, however, gave the count 31-27 but with one second to go, Charvat sank another for the Rosary.

Rutkowski and Sharac shared the scoring honors for the Rosary while Marchinski played a fine floor game. Cotter was outstanding for the Recs, ably assisted by Faulkner, Sturton and Falkowski.

Girls Also Lose
In the preliminary the Rec Girls lost a hard fought game to the Rosary Girls, 31-17, after leading 10-9 at halftime. The game was close and interesting throughout, sensational long shots finally giving the visitors the edge. Cole and Wells were outstanding for the Recs and T. Niemic featured for the winners.

Tomorrow night the Rec Five travel to Williamantic to meet the All-Williamantics, formerly the Blue Ribbons. This will be the third of four games scheduled this week, the locals going to Middletown Saturday night to play the Cubeta Brothers Big Five.

Hewitt did not appear in the Rec lineup as he was engaged to play in New Britain. Campion was supposed to play but failed to arrive, possibly because of illness.

Hartford boy was the winner. Don Lopodata, 153, Hartford, won the title. Joe Doe of Thompsonville, 144, in a fast go. Charles Pagrone, 120, Hartford, won over Young Clark of Hartford. Eddie Meadows, 149, Thompsonville won on a knockout over Charlie Pagrone, 120, Hartford.

Young Lockwood, 115, of Broad Brook, was given a draw with Kingfish, 120, Hartford, after three rounds. Mike Murphy, looking stronger, got a draw with Joe Sulita, Hartford. Mike gave away four pounds and it was just one of the nights that Mike did not seem to be able to get started and provide the whirlwind exhibition that he is able to show.

Jimmie Britt, 110, Rockville defeated Regis, 108, Thompsonville, and hid the trouble in doing it. The last fight of the evening, between Bartini, 144, Norwich and John Pal, 148, Hartford, went to a draw.

NEW BRITAIN OUT TO DEFEAT LOCAL OLD TIMERS HERE

Cochran Wins Practice To Press On Annual Tit At Armory Saturday.

In a formal statement to the press today, Harry Ginsburg, who will lead the New Britain Old Timers against the local Old Timers in the annual tilt for the benefit of the unemployed at the State Armory Saturday night, took-poned the announcement of Jerry Fay, Manchester coach, that the local quintet needed no further practice to again defeat their opponents.

Ginsburg elaborated on his postponing by stating that "Manchester will need plenty of practice before we're through with them. It'll be a battle to the bitter end and we'll be on the long end of the score."

Donnie Long Practice
The New Britain coach denied that his charges have been practicing steadily since last Fourth of July but modestly admitted that his team was in perfect form and could take the best quintet in the state. He said that his lineup will include Chief Larson, Charles Miller, William Duack, David Ellison, William Duack, Steve Duack, Al Schade, Ken Walther, Jack Grabstet, Walter Hergstrom and himself.

Mayor George A. Quigley will accompany the team as mascot and will contribute his moral support to his team. Last year's 45-40 defeat at the hands of the local Old Timers has not been forgotten, said Ginsburg, and it'll be a different story Saturday night.

The main encounter will start at 9:15 o'clock. The National Guards will oppose the Phantoms of New Britain in the preliminary at 7:30 o'clock. Al Boggini and Sherwood Bissell will referee the latter game and Tom Quish and Mull McCarthy, will handle the main feature.

Tom Quish, Referee
A lot has been written about old timers. But when it comes to men on the floor just dip that skylight to Tom Quish. He was through playing basketball, and was a referee before Dick Dillon of Hartford was ever chased off the court. Tom has been interested in the game before a lot of the so-called old timers were being sent to school to romps and if he looks a little for a fool it will be a foul for he never liked a whistle solo at a basketball game.

As a player Tom saw action in Hartford county and once or twice in Windham and Middlesex counties but as a referee he has tooted the whistle all over the state.

YALE UPSETS PENN TO TIE-UP LEAGUE

Wins 35-23 and Force a Triple Tie For First Place In Cage Circuit.

New York, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Led by their crack forward, Earl Nikkel, the Ellis of Yale have handed Penn its first defeat of the season and forced a triple tie for first place in the Eastern Intercollegiate basketball league. Expected to do no more than give Penn a good workout, Yale uncovered a smashing offensive built around Nikkel and whipped the Quakers 35 to 23 at New Haven last night.

Penn's defeat left the Quakers in a tie with Princeton and Columbia for the lead, each with two victories and one defeat. Yale, now tied in percentage with Dartmouth for fourth place, can gain a share of the lead by beating Cornell at Ithaca Saturday.

Penn, which had bowled over Princeton and Dartmouth in league competition and whipped five non-league rivals as well, allowed the Ellis to get a lead in the early minutes of the game and then spent the rest of the game in a vain attempt to come from behind.

With Nikkel toting them in from all angles, Yale ran up 12 points before Penn could score and held an advantage of 16-6 at halftime. Penn rallied early in the second half and trailed by 23 to 19 at one stage of the proceedings. Here Yale unleashed another spurt, drew away and won easily.

Nikkel tossed in 22 field goals and two fouls for 23 points. Don Kelle's seven points led Penn's scoring.

Sport Chatter
The fact that a dance run by the Recreation Centers tomorrow night conflicts with the National Guards' St. Mary's game, has caused some talk of the Red running events at the State Armory with the Guards. This Director Frank Busch emphatically denies, pointing out that the high school game on Friday and the Old Timers game on Saturday made it necessary to schedule the dance to-morrow night. Furthermore, he notes that the schedule was arranged long weeks ago and that the dance was announced long ago.

Guards Seek Fourteenth Victory Here Tomorrow

St. Mary's May Prove Stumbling Block To Soldiers As Court Feud Is Resumed; Fast Preliminary; Jill and His Band To Play.

When the St. Mary's come to Manchester tomorrow night to meet the National Guards, the East Hartford quintet will attempt to defeat the soldiers on their home floor at the State Armory, a feat that has been accomplished only by the Knights of Lithuania this season. The St. Mary's are regarded as the best basketball outfit in Greater Hartford, having improved considerably since the last meeting with the Guards.

On the other hand, the Guards are equally determined to remain in the winning column on their home floor and will send every effort in this direction. The Guards boast the best record of any team in this section, thirteen victories and five defeats and expect to make the St. Mary's number fourteen.

Doubt still exists as to "Bevo" Hurley's appearing in the lineup, due to a foot injury. The St. Mary's, however, have added several new players to their squad, who are capable of playing fine basketball. The regular team will be led by Wardy Waterman and will include Malloy Brothers, Stangle, Briggs and Cronin.

The team will be accompanied by the St. Mary's bugle and drum corps of twenty-five pieces, which band will furnish music between the intermission periods. Jill and his band of ten pieces will furnish music for dancing.

In the preliminary game, the National Guard Reserves will face the Dabney in the first of a three-game series. The first game will start at 7:30 o'clock with the main encounter at 9:15 o'clock.

SOCCER MEETING
A special meeting of the Manchester Soccer team will be held at the West Side Rec at 7:00 p. m. tonight. All officers and officials are urgently requested to attend as very special business concerning the game with Chance Vought on Sunday will be conducted. Also the officials of the junior team are invited to be there.

The University of Tennessee football team has won 67 games, lost four and tied six in the last eight years.

Married? Your Tax Exemption On Income Is Cut This Year

David Bursat, U. S. commissioner of internal revenue, points to the income tax form that upwards of three million more citizens must make out by March 15.

By ROBERT TALLEY

Washington, Jan. 24.—If you are a married man and you paid income taxes to Uncle Sam last year, get ready to pay perhaps several times as much tax on the same amount of income under the new law on which you must make your return by March 15.

And if you are one of many who took salary reductions in 1932, you may pay still more tax, though your income is smaller. More than 1,000,000 men who paid no tax at all in 1932 must pay in 1934.

This explains it: The married person's exemption has been reduced from $3500 to $2500. His tax rate has been increased from 1 1/2 per cent on the first $4000 above exemption, 3 per cent on the next $4000 and 4 per cent on the remainder, to 4 per cent on the first $4000 and 5 per cent on the rest. Moreover, the 20 per cent reduction in tax formerly allowed for "earned income" is no more. The $400 credit allowed for each child or other dependent remains the same.

For a simple illustration take the case of a married person with no dependents and allow for last year's 25 per cent "earned income" credit (most incomes below $10,000 were in the "earned income" class):

Net Income	Last Year Tax	This Year Tax
$5,000	$5.83	80
5,000	16.88	100
7,500	45.00	255
10,000	101.25	490

Or, take the case of John Smith, a married man with two children under 13 years of age and a net income of $5000 a year:

Net Income	Last Year Tax	This Year Tax
$5,000	$5.83	80
5,000	16.88	100
7,500	45.00	255
10,000	101.25	490

Last year Smith got an exemption of $3500 as a married man, plus $400 each for his two children, or a total of $4300 exemption. On the remaining $700 income he paid a tax of 1 1/2 per cent, less 25 per cent credit for "earned income," of $7.88.

This year Smith gets an exemption of only $2500, plus the $800 for his two children, or $3300. On the remaining $1700 income he will be taxed 4 per cent, receive no allowance for "earned income," and will therefore pay a tax of $68.

If, in 1932, Smith salary was cut 20 per cent, reducing his annual income to $4000, on this reduced amount—and under the same set-up—he will pay a tax of $28.

Suppose a new baby has arrived at Smith's home during the past year. Under the old law he would have gotten another $400 credit. If the baby had been born by Dec. 31, under the new law the period of the dependency must be prorated; meaning that if the baby was born June 30 Smith can only get credit for half of the year, or $200.

Let's take the case of some married men with higher incomes to see how the new taxes work in the higher brackets, where he surtaxes begin to be felt. Again, we will use for illustration a married person with no dependents and maximum "earned income" allowance.

Net Income	Last Year Tax	This Year Tax
$30,000	$ 1,498	$ 3,480
50,000	4,589	8,800
100,000	45,769	30,100
200,000	40,769	85,600
500,000	115,700	283,600
1,000,000	240,769	571,109

On incomes up to $10,000 a year, as has already been shown, the tax may increase many times. Above $30,000, the increase is only about twice. The million-dollar-a-year man, whose tax is a little more than doubled, will pay $571,109.

Up to 55 Per Cent Surtaxes, which greatly affect big incomes, began last year at 1 per cent on net incomes over $10,000 and range up to 20 per cent on all net incomes above $100,000. This year surtaxes begin at 1 per cent on net incomes over $8,000 and range upward to 45 per cent on net incomes over $100,000 and 55 per cent on all net incomes above $1,000,000.

Groggy Congress Carrying On But Punch Is Gone, It's All In

To all intents and purposes, the seventy-second Congress may be regarded as through. Groggy from its own fantastic gyrations, it appears to have no punch left in its system. It awaits only the final bell on March 4 to retire it from the political arena.

Speaking of it in the past tense—which even many of its own members are very glad to do—Washington is moving ahead to thoughts of the Congress that is to come. The question now is: What next?

The first thing to be remembered about the new Senate and House is that they were swept into power in the great 1933 upheaval of discontent. And two implications attach to that circumstance.

One is that the unwieldy Democratic majorities in both branches were established through election of a ticket headed by Franklin D. Roosevelt and therefore might be expected, normally, to look to him for legislative leadership.

The other is that this will not be a normal Congress at all, for it will have in it an extraordinary assortment of newcomers, many of them belonging to far-scattered independent wings of the party.

Leadership a Question

How these two considerations will play against each other—that is, whether Mr. Roosevelt can attain a certain working leadership—is certain to become almost at once the interesting and important question.

The new Senate will meet immediately after inauguration to confirm the Cabinet appointments. Present plans are to prolong the session to try for ratification of the long-pending World Court protocol.

Both Houses will assemble in special session a few weeks later, probably in mid-April. Then the doors will be open, and all sorts of legislation can be considered.

No one knows now whether the short Senate session will see the unusual spectacle of a genuine contest over the Cabinet nominations, but it is possible. What does seem certain is that a bitter debate will center around the World Court. That may develop Mr. Roosevelt's first actual test.

But if the administration does fail to get the court ratified, it need not be decisive as to administration prestige. It will be remembered that Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover all sought ratification and failed to get it.

Big Problems Loom

The more significant developments will follow the beginning of the general April session.

It is taken for granted Mr. Roosevelt will begin by asking for budget balancing, government reorganization, farm relief and prohibition legislation.

Two of these questions are greatly clouded by Democratic differences. Whether Mr. Roosevelt can attain a certain working leadership is certain to become almost at once the interesting and important question.

WRESTLING

New York - Sam Stein, Newark, threw Ray Jeffries, Oklahoma.

Paterson, N. J. - Jim London, Greece, threw Dick Davisport, San Diego, California.

Joe's Service Station books Hartford Renaissance.

Tomorrow night at the Y. M. C. A., Joe's Service Station quintet will take on the fast Renaissance team from Hartford at 8 P. M. This game should prove to be exciting in that the visitors are considered one of the leading color teams in the state. The locals, however have been preparing for this game and will be quite ready for the battle. Coach Zapska has acquired the services of "Steve" Ferguson and "Bull" Spencer, former high school and Trade school players respectively.

A fast preliminary has been arranged. The North Ends, undefeated in their last eight games, will oppose the Renaissance Juniors.

THE MAMMIES

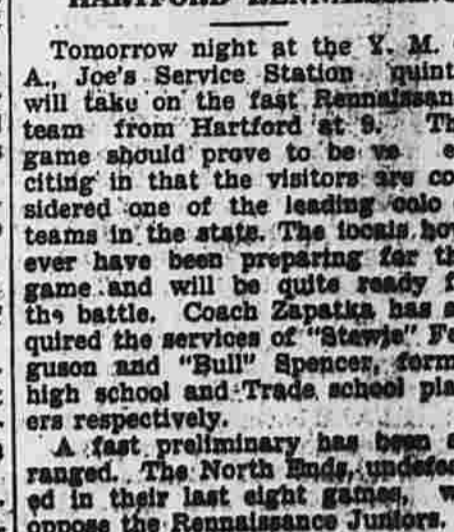

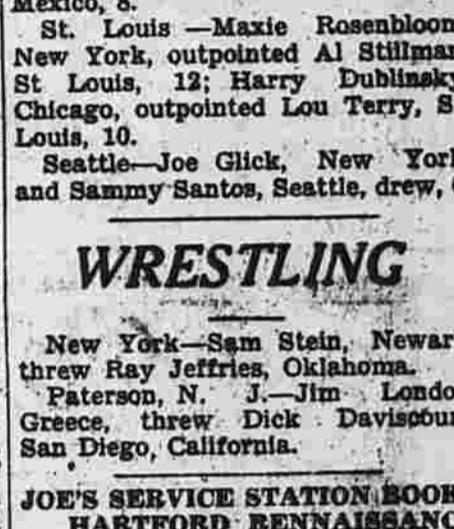

By MAL COCHRAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLON THE PICTURE)

Into the hunter's little house went Scouty, quiet as a mouse. "I'll see if anyone is here," he whispered. "Wah outside!"
"Twasn't take me long to look around and see if things are safe and sound. If I come dashing out of here, we'll all run and hide."
The hunter's dog trailed long behind. Of course, Scouty didn't mind. "Wee Denny said, 'Please hurry up 'cause it's cold out here.' I hope that we can follow you. I have a hunch what we can do. We'll build a little fire and that will be the place with cheer."
It wasn't long till these outside buzz berries, and then Whydny said, "Perhaps friend Scouty would see me. Come on, I'm going."
"Well, follow me," Scouty said. "I'll lead you to the doghouse. I'll lead you to the doghouse. I'll lead you to the doghouse."
"How wonderful," said Scouty. "The hunter's very best."
"His home's as clean as a pin and he cleanses always please me. Gull look out at the kitchen. It is full of things to eat."
"That's fine," said Scouty. "I've a hunch. We're going to make a dandy lunch. The hunter likely says his dog will take us to the house."
"He'll come with us. I'll be very long, he won't wait for me. I'll be long, he won't wait for me. I'll be long, he won't wait for me."

GAS BUGGIES - It's Different With Our Own

SENSE AND NONSENSE

This Reader Has Been Peeking!
Dear Colym:
By looking at the weekly wash we see, if we but choose to, The girls ain't wearing now, by gosh, The half of what they used to.

Some business men are so beset by the greed for immediate profit that they never get it through their heads that service must precede profit.

An office manager received a letter from his home office which read as follows: "Effective January 16th, 1938, please lay off the young ladies in the accounting department." And he is still somewhat uncertain as to just what was meant.

Candidate—I suppose in this campaign the proper thing for me to do is to stand on my record.
Political Boss—No, to jump on the other fellow's.

Plain and Fancy Hash: The best way to "say it with flowers" to the boy friend, is to throw bouquets at him.... Actions may speak louder than words, but you will notice that the women keep right on talking.... In horse racing you may win by a nose, but in love, a girl often wins a husband by a smile.... Still, marriage isn't necessarily a failure. One always has a fighting chance for success.... A kiss is something a boy looks forward to, and a girl back upon.... It is said that "the truth will make you free." Sometimes, perhaps, but oftener it would send folks to jail.... Its a good thing that stupidity isn't a crime, or we'd all spend time in jail.... The peddler's "approach" usually consists of sticking a foot into the opening door.... Some people are never able to toot a horn—unless they can borrow one.... Beware of the man who promises more than you have a right to expect.... One of life's mysteries is why the pain someone else gives us always settles in the neck.

Harris—I understand you married my ex-wife. How do you find her?
Harper—Just right.
Harris—What do you mean, just right?
Harper—Well, if she had been any better you'd have kept her, and if she was any worse I couldn't live with her.

In fishing the law demands that you get a license before you catch a fish, but in marriage you get your license after you have caught the fish.

Home!
Home is made up of simple things, Warm sunlight in clean rooms, A little girl and boy at play, A woman's song, a flower that blooms.

A shining lamp, a thumb-worn book, A little tune, well played, Oh, we who love these time-worn things Can never be dismayed. For we are always rich as kings, Who love these fundamental things.

"Once a friend has given you a loan," says a writer, "don't stay and bore him with the story of your troubles." Touch and go.

Some people may call it luck, but usually behind the "luck" are years of preparation and a close adherence to an ideal that so places the fellow who has the luck in position to take advantage of the good luck when it comes his way.

Casey (after seeing Riley fall five stories)—Are you dead, Riley?
Riley—Of am that.
Casey—Shure, and ye're such a liar. Of don't know whether to believe yes or not.
Riley—An' that proves Of'm dead. Yes wouldn't call me a liar if Of wur alive.

The mother who fondly hopes that her offspring will be president some day probably fails to consider the cussings he will get if and when the goal is reached.

HE'S SORRY NOW
Binks: You told Jones you lent me five pounds. Why didn't you keep it to yourself?
Jinks: I wish I had—I need it—Answers.
