

THREE FIREMEN HURT IN NEW BRITAIN BLAZE

One Impaled On Iron Pickets When Ladder Falls—General Alarm Sounded; Damage Estimate Is $150,000.

New Britain, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Three firemen were injured, one striking on an iron picket fence, when they were thrown from a ladder leaning against a main street block during a fire which broke out about 3 a. m. this morning and was being fought four hours later.

Herbert B. Sauter was impaled on the fence. Lieut. Frank Gilligan and Fireman William Frey struck on the sidewalk. All were removed to New Britain hospital.

The fire was in a two-story brick block occupied by the Hamilton Curtin shop and Atlantic and Pacific branch at 166-170 Main street. The second floor is composed of offices and small shops with a rooming house in the rear.

Woman Gives Alarm About 3 a. m. a woman living in the building smelled smoke and shouted. Three policemen nearby rang in an alarm. Later a general alarm was sounded.

The flames worked up to the roof and firemen stationed on adjoining buildings poured a deluge of water into the building. At times the blaze illuminated the center of the city and at 7 a. m. could still be seen above a cloud of smoke which floated over the structure.

Sauter, Gilligan and Frey had mounted a ladder in an arseway between the burning building and the Savings Bank of New Britain adjoining to the north. As the water was turned on, they were able to leave the hospital after receiving first aid. Sauter had a jagged cut on a heel.

Fire Chief J. Noble, who has been ill for four days, left his bed when the general alarm was sounded and assumed direction of the battle with the flame. He remained at the scene for about an hour and then turned the task over to Deputy Chiefs Barnes and Soney.

The area about Center Park, which is in the heart of the city, was closed to traffic and all passenger buses which have the station there, as well as trolley cars were routed through other streets.

Fireman Thomas Cross was cut on a hand by glass. After daylight the flames were brought under control although several fire companies remained at the scene. The recall was sounded at 8:40 a. m. The fire department officials estimated the damage to the building and its contents at $150,000.

The building is owned by Hyman Levine of Hartford.

GOVERNMENT FUNDS FOR RELIEF LOW

President of R. F. C. Asks Senate Committee For Millions To Help States.

Washington, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Appropriation of an additional $150,000,000 for direct relief loans to states was recommended to a Senate committee today by Charles A. Miller, president of the Reconstruction Corporation.

The R. F. C. president endorsed in general terms the Wagner bill to liberalize the law under which his organization administers relief, testifying that the demand for aid is increasing.

He opposed, however, the provision proposing to throw wide open the entire resources of the corporation for relief loans to states, saying it would handicap efforts to stimulate local relief work.

Miller testified that the present $300,000,000 fund would last until June and that an additional $150,000,000 "would carry us through to the long session in December."

Warning that additional funds are needed, Miller added that one state is within six weeks of exhaustion of its quota which under the present law is $45,000,000. He did not name the state but committee members understood he referred to Illinois which has borrowed about $38,000,000.

Miller emphasized he was expressing his personal views, saying that the board felt it should not favor

HITLER MAKES FIRST APPEAL FOR MAJORITY

German Chancellor Talks of a "Four Year Plan" In Address—Meanwhile Riots Continue With Many Dead.

Berlin, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler's first appeal for a Parliamentary majority in elections set for March 5, found Germany seething today with political animosity. Communist demonstrations were reported banned in the greater part of Germany.

The tense situation was at its peak after the rush of the week's events reached a climax with Hitler's announcement of two four year plans of national regeneration—"the 'rebirth' of the farmer, and the worker."

Religious sources informed the Telegraphen-Union Press association that orders have been issued to Prussian police to prevent Communist demonstrations during the election campaign in that state.

The National Communist newspaper Rote Fahne said the ban was invoked to curb campaigning. The Communists held one sixth of the seats in the Reichstag which was dissolved yesterday before it had even met because the majority opposed Hitler's combined Nationalist-National Socialist Cabinet.

Hitler's Coalition The stocky little Nazi leader was supremely confident of victory after his Cabinet, in which Nationalists far outnumber his party colleagues, permitted President Hindenburg to permit new elections.

Hitler's nation wide appeal last night for a "four year chance" in which he attacked the Republican parties, met with a stormy response. The Social Democratic organ Vorwaerts scathing criticized the speech, declaring Hitler's plan is a new catchword, borrowed from Stalin. It concluded, addressing Hitler, with the demand: "Out with you!"

Other newspapers were silent on Hitler's selection of his own proclaimed candidates for the country. Since Hitler came into power Monday more than a score of persons

RAILWAY OFFICIAL DIES FROM SHOCK

Charles Demoss Emmons Was Head of Hudson-Manhattan Railway Co.

New York, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Charles Demoss Emmons, president of the Hudson-Manhattan Railway Company, died today of a heart attack in his apartment in the Waldorf Astoria hotel. He was 61 years old.

Emmons, who became president of the underground railway which runs between New York City and Jersey City, N. J., in 1930, was stricken while he was preparing to retire shortly after midnight. He was born in Lafayette, Ind. He was graduated from the Old West University of Pennsylvania, now the University of Pittsburgh, in 1912.

After his graduation from college he joined the engineering department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, remained with that company three years, then became general superintendent of the Lafayette, Ind. Street Railway Company.

From 1903 to 1911 he served as general manager of the Fort Wayne and Washington Street Railway Company, and in 1912 transferred to his transportation activities to the Chicago, South Bend and Northern Independent Railway Company until 1916, when he became second vice-president and general manager of the Boston and Worcester Street Railway Company. Two years later he took charge of the Boston Elevated Railway Company as general manager. He was president of the Halthorpe and Kridgeway Railway Company of Maryland and the Maryland Electric Railway Company. He was also vice-president of the Baltimore Short Line Railway Company, and a member of the board of trustees of the Savings Bank of Baltimore.

Emmons is survived by his widow and six children. Samuel Emmons, of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; Charles Demoss Emmons, Jr., and Charles Cadwell Emmons, of Baltimore; Mrs. John W. Coombs and Mrs. Willard B. Hicks of New York Center, Mass., and Mrs. Edith E. Emmons, of Pittsburgh.

No arrangements have been made for the funeral.

"Imported Chinese Crew" Brings Strong Protest

Strong protests have been lodged with immigration authorities over what is alleged by Seamen's Union heads to be importation of Chinese crews to man American vessels. When the President Lincoln, lower left, arrived at Jersey City, 160 Chinese were aboard. Some are shown at top as immigration authorities questioned them and their "No. 1 Man" Joe Bul, lower right. If they are arriving as passengers, they are immigrants and can not land. If they are to be members of the crew of the President Johnson, as alleged, at $7 a month, importation of foreign labor will be charged.

ROOSEVELT ANNOUNCES AN UNEMPLOYMENT CURE

President-Elect To Put Men To Work On National Projects—First One In Tennessee Will Use 200,000.

Warm Springs, Ga., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The rugged highlands and fertile industrial valley of the far-reaching Tennessee watershed were chosen today by President-elect Roosevelt to help cure the curse of unemployment and to help start a new America.

His dream for a vast internal development encompassing reforestation, reclamation, water power and agricultural rehabilitation to bring a fresh balance of the National population between cities and the country was related by Mr. Roosevelt to newspapermen seated around the blazing fire-place of the "Little White House."

This "most interesting experiment a government ever has undertaken," is expected by the President-elect to provide employment for 200,000 men in the Tennessee valley alone. But more than this, he hopes to carry the project into other sections of the nation, from the Alleghenies to the Pacific coast, and through it to re-establish American life on a basis that will mean the

CHINESE SOLDIERS LAUNCH NEW ATTACK

Latest Dispatches From North China Report That Battles Are Continuing.

Beiping, China, Feb. 2.—(AP)—An official bulletin said today Chinese volunteers launched new attacks yesterday and last night on Japanese troops holding Sulichang and Chiumenkov, on the southeast border of Jehol province. Latest dispatches said hostilities were continuing.

The bulletin issued at the North China headquarters here said the volunteers force attacked the Japanese at four p. m. yesterday and that a four hour battle ensued. The Chinese were "reported" repulsed by airplanes and artillery fire, with some casualties, but to have launched a second attack last night. This was centered on Chiumenkov, the city in the Great Wall of China which the Japanese occupied early in January.

Bloody Fighting The night fighting was reported "more sanguinary." The Japanese repelled several previous attacks on Chiumenkov during the past week. The Chinese held the southern part of the wall at Chiumenkov since the Japanese captured the northern section, dominating gateways from North China into Jehol.

The Japanese assigned the Chinese troops were dispatched by General Ho Chi-Kuo when he was driven out of Shan-tung on January 31. Chinese dispatches reported casualties on both sides in the latest battle at the wall.

WHITTLE COSTS, STATE FARMERS TOLD BY CROSS

Governor Stresses the Necessity of Keeping All Expenditures At a Minimum; Assessments Must Be Cut.

Hartford, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Governor Wilbur L. Cross stressed before the farmers' organization of the General Assembly today the necessity of keeping all administrative expenditures, both state and local, to a minimum.

"Don't buy anything for yourself or for your town unless you can see some way of paying for it," the governor urged the farmers.

Governor Cross expressed the opinion that assessed valuations of properties must be cut in half and the debts of the country adjusted before there can be any complete return of prosperity.

"Drastic cuts have been made in the state budget and more will be necessary," he continued. "Assessed valuations of 1929 must be cut in two and that means that every dollar must be made to cover its complete return of prosperity."

Country's Debts The people of our country now owe upwards of $100,000,000,000 and $30,000,000,000 of that figure is considered bad debts, while $30,000,000,000 is in mortgages.

"There must be an adjustment of these debts if we would have prosperity," the governor said the dirt road program of the state was working out well, especially where the roads had been oiled. He placed the responsibility for keeping the roads in repair on the Legislators from the rural districts.

"We are looking towards better times," he continued, "but when they are coming I don't know. I feel with Newton D. Baker that we are rather in the plight of Columbus, who didn't know where he was going and when he got to America he didn't know where he was, and when he got back to Spain he didn't know where he was."

The governor commended S. McLean Buckingham, commissioner of agriculture for the "great job he has done for the farmers, especially in regards to cooperative marketing."

Commissioner Buckingham, whose term expires July 1, also addressed the organization.

FEDERAL DEFICIT OVER BILLION NOW

Collected One Billion and Spent Double That Amount In the Last Seven Months.

Washington, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The government ended the first seven months of its 1932 fiscal year with a deficit of $1,271,721,031, having collected from all sources $1,138,905,810 and spent $2,410,626,841.

The public debt on January 31 amounted to $20,801,707,124, an increase of almost $3,000,000,000 in the 12 months ending on January 31, 1932. It was $17,815,361,117.

The government's income continued to fade away despite an increase in miscellaneous internal revenue coming from new taxes. Income taxes in the seven months amounted to $388,856,709 as compared with $488,517,968 in the same period of the previous year.

Miscellaneous internal revenue, however, increased $147,000,000, amounting to $457,089,577. Customs duties dropped to $156,008,026 from $224,589,945 in the seven months of 1932. General expenditures were lower by $200,000,000 than for the same period of a year ago and amounted to $1,588,128,142. Total ordinary expenditures of the government also were lower than a year ago. They were $2,351,911,495 compared with $2,715,118,848.

DEMOCRATIC BREAK IN STATE SENATE IS CAPITOL RUMOR

N. E. FISHERMEN MENACED BY JAPAN

Whole Industry Being Crowded Out of Business By Big Drop In Prices.

Washington, Feb. 2.—(AP)—They who go down to the sea in ships from the fishing ports of New England are being swiftly and surely crowded out of business by competition from countries that abandoned the gold standard, the Commerce Department has found.

Every phase of the fishing industry from the thrilling catch of the swordfish to the more prosaic canning of sardines has been affected seriously by depreciation of foreign currency abroad, a survey by the Bureau of Fisheries has disclosed.

A striking example is the Maine sardine industry, which right now is fighting a life and death struggle with Norwegian sardines. In 1930 imports from Norway totaled 387,872 cases and the Maine pack was 1,842,000. In 1931, Norwegian imports jumped to 771,972 cases and the Maine pack dropped to 883,468. In 1932 Norwegian imports leaped to 1,200,000 cases and the Maine pack fell to 383,900.

In other words, the ratio was completely reversed in three years, from 4 to 1 in favor of the Maine product in 1930 to 4 to 1 in favor of the Norwegian imports in 1932.

Export Values The export value of Maine-New Hampshire sardines declined steadily, as follows: $3,107,774 in 1929; $1,890,246 in 1930; $969,246 in 1931; $252,000 in 1932.

In his report to the secretary of commerce, Henry O'Malley, commissioner of the Bureau of Fisheries, said the decline in the production of a case of sardines, $3.68. F. E. Booth of Montpelier, Vt., recently had been asked by a Japanese firm, O'Malley said, to accept the entire sales rights for the Japanese sardine product at $2 a case. Booth was told by his Japanese informants, O'Malley said, the cost of production in Japan was $1.65.

Japanese Threat Right now the Japanese fish constitute the greatest threat to American fishermen, largely because the fall of the yen has been greater than that of other currencies. This is how it works out: In August 1931 the yen was worth 49.35 cents. A year later it was worth 24.69 cents and at present is worth about 20 cents. In addition, Japanese fishermen have taken wage reductions ranging from 10 to 35 per cent. In 1931 the Japanese fisherman received about $1 a day.

BRITISH POSITION ON DEBTS DEBATED

Washington Does Not Take Chamberlain's Statement As the Empire's Stand.

Washington, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The disposition in many quarters today was to regard Neville Chamberlain's "no swamping" war debts statement as the view of one Cabinet member and not definitely indicative of the final position the British government will assume in the forthcoming discussions.

This opinion was backed by a general disposition of attention to the stand taken by President-elect Roosevelt in expressing a willingness to hear the pleas of debtor nations and the recent conference between Mr. Roosevelt and Sir Ronald Macdonald, the British envoy.

Sir Ronald is now enroute to London with a full outline of Mr. Roosevelt's thoughts on the subject to place before the MacDonald Cabinet.

His Statement Chamberlain told American correspondents in London yesterday that Britain does not regard the debts as a "swamping" of the "great swamping deal" that "the conception of oppressions by Britain in return for the scaling down of war debts is not a British conception."

Senate's Reaction The Senate's reaction to Chamberlain's statement was said to be that the British cannot expect debt adjustments without compensation.

FREDERICK BONFILS, PUBLISHER, IS DEAD

Head of Denver Post Had Been Ill For Only a Few Days; Nationally Known.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Frederick G. Bonfils, publisher of the Denver Post, died at his home here this morning.

Mr. Bonfils had been ill for several days and last Saturday underwent a minor operation for an infected ear. He was 72 years old.

Bonfils and H. H. Tamm purchased the Denver Post in 1922, the Post then being the smallest paper in Denver. They pursued an aggressive policy of attacking corporate abuses, and developed a policy of interpretative news writing.

Tamm died July 13, 1924, and since then Bonfils was the directing head of the Post. Besides his activity as a newspaper publisher Bonfils was interested extensively for many years in various occupations from an address by Walter Walker, Grand Junction, Colo., newspaper publisher, in which Bonfils was attacked.

Attorneys for the News obtained court permission for examination of Bonfils by deposition, and in the course of the examination Bonfils objected to certain questions. This resulted in a citation for contempt of court, and a fine of $25 was imposed upon him. He appealed to the State Supreme Court against this fine. The citation was to have proceeded to the court in weak but Bonfils' illness caused a postponement.

Bonfils' Career Bonfils' career was as varied and exciting as the lives of his Napoleonic ancestors. He became known throughout the country by his military exploits.

Nation's Farmers Rejoice Over Mortgage Suspensions

By Associated Press. Friendly state governments and successful demonstrations to prevent mortgage foreclosure sales were hailed with joy today by farmers in widely scattered sections of the country for having won a victory in their fight to save their homes and farms.

In the south the Arkansas Legislature prevented foreclosure in several counties by passing a moratorium suspending foreclosure of circuit and chancery courts.

The situation has been recognized by the Legislature of Alabama and Georgia and sympathetic statements for farmers have come from the governors of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Kentucky and Mississippi. In Georgia moratoriums on all farm

WAR DEBT DEBATE AGAIN IN SENATE

This Time Robinson, of Indiana, Gets Excited Over Bullitt's European Trip.

Washington, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Another foreign debt debate broke in the Senate today with Senator Robinson (R., Ind.) demanding that the State Department "apprehend" under the Logan Act, William C. Bullitt, who has been reported negotiating on debts abroad.

Reading from press accounts of Bullitt's visits to Berlin, London and Paris, supposed to be in connection with war debts, Robinson said Bullitt was making a "laughing stock" out of the American people.

"It is high time the American government asserts who he is," he said. "He is going about in disguise and when not in disguise he is going under an assumed name."

"He seems to have no credentials," Robinson added. "He is not representing the American government. He seems not to be representing the French government. He is certainly not representing the Senate or the House, both of which have gone on record against further reduction of the debts."

The Logan Act Robinson said he believed the Logan Act providing $5,000 fine or three years' imprisonment for any unauthorized person having intercourse with a foreign government on matters affecting the United States and "broad enough" to cover Bullitt's supposed activities.

EDUCATION BOARD CUTS EXPENDITURES

Head of State Organization Explains Attitude of Board in Statement.

Hartford, Feb. 2.—(AP) State Commissioner of Education L. Nest W. Butterfield today issued the following statement, explaining the attitude of the state board of education in reducing the budget to conform to the general policy of retrenchment in the state government.

The statement follows: "The state board of education holds that this is the time when a reduction in all public expenses must be made over though this makes necessary changes in plans and lessened service. Accordingly it has given a prolonged and detailed study with expert advice to its own operation and it has prepared a financial budget which is less by many thousands of dollars than the educational appropriation made two years ago. To do this the board has postponed for the institutions under its control the purchase of equipment and improvements and repairs to its buildings. It has reduced expenses for service and maintenance and it has determined to discontinue, for the time at least, a number of its aid and office activities even though this means a material reduction in the number of its office and professional employees. If the salary reduction for all state employees now under consideration becomes effective, all of this will result in a financial saving to the state for the two year term of over a half million dollars. This is a 20 per cent reduction.

More Aid Needed "The state board believes that any just method of the state equalization of educational costs calls for more aid rather than less to needy towns, but if it is required that the state be relieved of payment of educational grants to the amount of $500,000 for the next two years, it must recommend either the elimination of all minor grants or deep cuts into the major ones.

Under a new law the General Assembly in 1931 appropriated $50,000 for support to special classes for children of low mentality. The demand for this support was so insistent that $125,000 will be spent by the state in the two years, and with unchanged law $175,000 will be required for the next two years. The state board recommends that the law be retained but the amount of reimbursements for each class be reduced. The state would encounter this but not support such

LOCAL WOMEN ATTEND Y.W.C.A. FINANCE SESSION

Campaign Opened Yesterday in Hartford — Budget Reduced This Year.

Mrs. Austin Cheney, Mrs. Lawrence W. Case of Highland Park and Mrs. Wells A. Strickland are members of the finance committee of the Hartford County Y. W. C. A., an organization which has been saving this town among others for the past 15 years, and is maintained entirely by voluntary annual contributions from interested citizens of the communities in which it has active groups. Mrs. William C. Cheney is a member of the advisory board.

The annual finance campaign opened yesterday with a luncheon at the Y. W. C. A. building on Ann street, Hartford. The principal speaker was the general secretary of the City Y. W. C. A., Miss Primrose I. Verter, and her subject "Present Day Trends in Association Work." Her theme was the greater demand in these days of economic strife made upon organizations of a character building nature, such as the Y. W. C. A., particularly among girls who have graduated from high school who have been unable to secure work with much leisure time on their hands and no funds or friends to guide them. The Y provides a definite program of club work, study, recreation, dramatics, handicraft, business ethics, home-making and physical education. Frequently it is able to assist in the employment problem, and in the work with the foreign-born who come into these various communities.

The ground hog may have withdrawn for six more weeks of winter upon seeing his shadow today, but the busy bee saw hopes of an early spring. SEN. WALSH FAVORS OWN SALARY CUT

Washington, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Senator Walsh, Massachusetts Democrat, advocated in the Senate today during debate on economy and government expenditures, that the Senators cut their own salaries first, before cutting other government salaries. "Unless the new administration and the department heads have the courage to eliminate the positions that have grown up as a luxury in a time of plenty, we are going to talk in vain about economy," said the Senator. "The number of employees around this Senate could be reduced 20 to 25 per cent without doing any harm and that money saved to the Treasury."

HARTFORD FINDS BRAND NEW RACKET

Colored People Brought From Florida and Georgia To Get City Assistance.

Hartford, Feb. 2.—(AP)—An alleged racket which is said to have resulted in hundreds of colored people being transported to Hartford from Florida and Georgia, with the result that many have obtained aid from the public welfare department and others under false pretenses is now being investigated by Police Court Prosecutor Louis B. Rosenfeld.

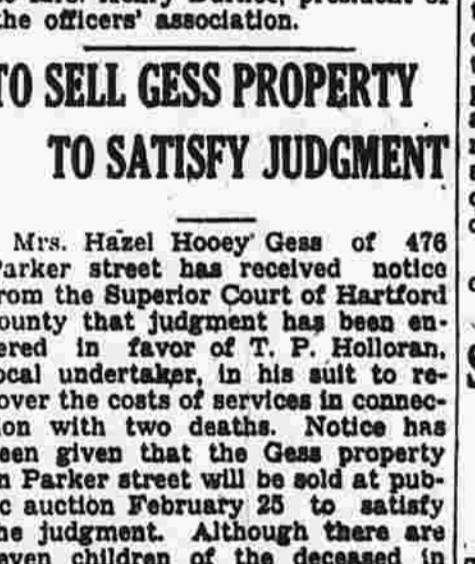

Assistant Superintendent Raymond W. Griffin of the public welfare department and John J. Hickey, special investigator, have conducted an investigation that has resulted in the facts being placed before Mr. Rosenfeld. It is alleged that colored persons who have been brought up from Americus, Ga., and Acacia, Fla., by Joseph McCaskill of 14 Fairmount street, who has made a business of transporting them, have represented themselves to the welfare department as having lived in Hartford the required length of time to entitle them to apply for city aid, while in reality they have resided here, in many cases, only a few months.

TRANSPORT DINNER IN HARTFORD FEB. 9

Col. Henderson of United Air Lines To Be Speaker At Next Thursday's Banquet.

Transportation by air, rail and truck will be ably presented by outstanding speakers at the Fourth Annual Dinner of the Transportation Division of the Hartford Chamber of Commerce to be held at the Hotel Bond, Thursday evening, February 9 at 8:30 o'clock.

"Relation of Air Mail to Air Transport Development" will be discussed by Colonel Paul Henderson, vice president of the United Air Lines. Mr. Henderson was commissioned a captain, Officers Reserve Corps, United States Army, in October, 1917, and served as captain of Ordnance in America, preparing plans and recruiting men for ordnance repair work in the American Expeditionary Forces until February, 1918, when he was promoted to major and ordered overseas, serving as Ordnance officer at St. Nazaire, France, until the close of the World War. He was discharged into the Officers' Reserve Corps as a lieutenant-colonel in the Air Service Reserve Corps and was later promoted to colonel, Air Service Reserve.

He served as Second Assistant Postmaster-General of the United States for three years, resigning in 1925 to become general manager of the National Air Transport, Inc., a commercial enterprise organized to operate an airplane express service between New York and Chicago. While serving as Second Assistant Postmaster-General, he was in charge of the transportation of the mails by rail, water and air and in that capacity supervised the establishment of the transcontinental air mail between New York City and San Francisco, and introduced air mail service in Alaska.

Mr. Henderson, upon assuming office, consolidated three distinct divisions operating in relay advances of mail across the continent and established a single unit of coast to coast air mail, providing for night flying between Chicago and Cheyenne, a departure from all flying being done in the daytime. The research work upon which this first regular flight of aeroplanes at night in the world was based, consumed over 16 months and was original in its character. This operation of aeroplanes at night has not, up to this date, been accomplished anywhere else in the world, and has resulted in the United States taking first place, among the nations of the world in postal aviation.

Transportation from the rail angle will be presented by Milton W. Harrison, president of the Security Owners Association of New York City. Mr. Harrison, who is a forceful and convincing speaker, will have as his topic "Facing the Facts of Transportation." Mr. Harrison's convictions are, that to approach a solution to the railroad problem, an ultimate transportation objective must be outlined; that it means a sound coordination of traffic, operations and financial requirements to evolve complete transportation service to the public, which in turn demands the consolidation of all forms of interstate carriage of goods and passengers, under the management of railroads; that the twenty-five billions of investment in railroads constitutes not an institution but an economic force upon which must be built the most honest, efficient and economical transportation service in the public interest; and that all liquidation and public policies in the procedure of reaching the objective described must be established with this desired result borne in mind.

The motor truck interests will have their side of the picture ably portrayed by Captain Eli Benway of the Motor Truck Club of Massachusetts whose subject will be "The Motor Truck as an Economic Necessity." Captain Benway, while serving the United States troop on the Mexican border in 1916, became affiliated with the motor truck division. During the World War he served overseas with the First French Army in this same capacity. He has been connected with the commercial trucking interests since 1915. He has contributed articles to newspapers and magazines including the "Boston Business," official publication of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Reception to distinguished guests will precede the dinner. The guests of honor include: Governor Wilbur L. Cross, Mayor William J. Rankin, E. S. French, President of the Boston & Maine Railroad, John J. Pelley, President and Frank J. Wall George, President of the Hartford Railroad, C. E. Denney, President of the Erie Railroad, George D. Odgen, Vice President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, Stephen L. Smith, President of the Motor Truck Association of Connecticut, William Bromsith, President of the Hartford Chamber of Commerce, Frederick T. Kellers, Treasurer of the James McWilliams Blue Line, Colonel Clarence D. Chamberlin, New York and New England Airways, Inc., E. Kent Hubbard, President of the Manufacturers Association of Connecticut, Henry Trumbull, President of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, L. O. Head, President of the Railway Express Agency.

Sidney E. Cornelius, Manager of the Employers' Association of Hartford County will be the toastmaster. The Vagabond Orchestra has arranged an attractive program which includes novelty features. Tables of air and night mail will be reserved under the firm of club name. Tickets may be secured from the Hartford Chamber of Commerce.

ROCKVILLE

DENY HIGH HANDED CONSOLIDATION TACTICS

Boosters of Legislation Explain Schmidt Bill As Result of Committee's Inaction.

All absolute denial of so-called "high-handed" efforts to force through legislation in the General Assembly by bringing about the consolidation of the governments of the city of Rockville or the town of Vernon has been made by parties interested in the proposition.

The bill presented by Representative Schmidt, on request, reads, they point out, "The board of finance of the town of Vernon may act as a board of finance for the city of Rockville when and if empowered by the electors of said city at the regular city meeting or a special city meeting called for said purpose."

A rider on the bill makes it compulsory for the mayor to submit the proposal to the voters at a special city meeting upon petition of "one hundred or more electors." Under the city charter regulations the mayor is not compelled to call a special meeting on petition of Mayor Albert E. Waite and First Selectman Francis J. Fritchard have come forward with statements that they were unaware that legislation was to be sought at the present session of the General Assembly. A special committee, consisting of Edward L. Newmarker, Sherwood C. Cummings and N. Morgan Strong, was appointed by the Consolidation Committee to bring about legislation permitting a board of finance. This committee has not even organized or held a meeting. The final day for the submitting of new business in the General Assembly was on Friday, January 27.

Representative Sherwood C. Cummings states that he was shown the proposed bill before presentation and inasmuch as no action had been taken by the committee he could see no objection to the proposed bill as presented.

The strongest opponent of the action is Judge E. Fisk, corporation counsel of the city of Rockville, who urged that the matter be left to the voters.

The first annual "Ladies night" of the Rockville Lions Club, held last evening in the Rockville House, was attended by 78 members and guests. A chicken dinner, southern style, was served, followed by post-prandial exercises and dancing.

Ralph Gibson, mayor of the Rockville branch of the Rockville-Williamette Lighting Company, was master of ceremonies. With the assistance of James R. Quinn, chairman of the general committee of arrangements, an interesting evening was provided. The affair was such a success that it is planned to have other "ladies nights" during the spring.

President Alfred Rosenberg presided at the dinner and later on Gibson took the reins and kept the affair moving. During the dinner "The Peerless Orchestra," led by Gibson, furnished the music.

The entertainment program opened with vocal selections by Fery L. Cooley, local tenor, accompanied by Miss Mariette Fitch, Mrs. Dorothy Abbey Waite, contralto soloist, with Mayor Albert E. Waite as accompanist, rendered selections. An interpretative dancing act by Miss Eileen Sullivan of Hartford, selections by a male quartet selected from the gathering, and group singing were features.

The speaker of the evening was Daniel Y. Rose of Providence, R. I., District Governor of Lions Clubs for Rhode Island and the eastern part of Connecticut. Round and square dancing followed.

The committee in charge was:

James R. Quinn, chairman; Rev. George S. Brookes, Ralph Gibson, Dr. Clarence B. Peterson and Robert Beeble. Among the guests were District Governor and Mrs. Daniel Rose of Providence, Mayor and Mrs. A. E. Waite, Fery L. Cooley, Miss Mariette Fitch, Miss Eileen Sullivan.

Master Crook to speak.

Henry Hyatt, popularly known as "The Duke" and an alias of "Jimmy Valentine" has been secured to address the union service of the Union Congregational and the Rockville Methodist Episcopal churches on Sunday evening at the latter church. Hyatt, who was recognized at an international crook in the underworld, one time, has many aliases and is reported to have stolen over a million dollars during his career in the underworld. "The End of the Trail" will be his topic on Sunday evening at the Congregational church's union service. He will speak on his experiences in the underworld, telling how he amassed a fortune and how he spent over a dozen years behind prison bars paying the penalty.

Rev. Charles S. Johnson, pastor, has extended an invitation to the public to attend this special service at the Methodist church Sunday evening.

Funeral of Mrs. Howlow.

The funeral of Mrs. Hattie Louise Howlow, aged 68, of 60 Elm street, wife of David L. Howlow, publisher of "The Rockville Journal," was held at her late home on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. George S. Brookes, pastor of the Union Congregational church, officiated. Burial was in the family plot in Spring Grove cemetery, Hartford. The bearers were Francis S. Nettleton, A. Leroy Martin, David A. Sykes and John P. Cameron.

GOODYEAR SALESMAN AT N. Y. CONFERENCE

C. E. Fike To Attend Merchandizing Gathering—Factory Executive To Attend.

C. E. Fike, sales representative for Eastern Connecticut territory for the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., is leaving this week for New York City to attend the annual three-day merchandizing school and conference at the Park Central hotel. Fike one of the veteran members of the Goodyear force, was assigned the Eastern Connecticut territory ten years ago, before that having been at Hartford. J. E. May, manager of tire sales for the whole country; C. T. Hutchins, advertising manager, fundamentally, he must know his stuff. "No industry has gone ahead faster than the automotive industry. Its entire history is within the memory of men who are still young. Each improvement in the design of automobiles, each extension of hard surface road; indeed, each change in business conditions has made the prototype of the tire industry more complex. Constant study on the part of the salesman is necessary if he is to recommend a tire that precisely fits the road and load condition."

When Wilson entered the tire industry 20 years ago he said the sizes and types of tires could be counted on the fingers of his two hands. Now some 200 different size and types are required to service the needs of the millions of owners of private cars, buses, trucks and the smaller industrial trucks used in factories.

And within the past year three of the important new Goodyear developments in rubber tires are: the rapid adoption of Airwheel or low pressure balloon tires for automobiles, 22 cars on display at the New York Auto show being thus equipped; second the adaptation of pneumatic tires to railroad coaches that travel on steel rails, and third the application of large Airwheel type tires to farm tractors.

The farm tractor tire, which promises to revolutionize farming according to the rubber men, will be given a special discussion at the meeting.

C. T. Hutchins, advertising manager, will discuss promotion plans for the year, according to Mr. Laskey; the backbone of Goodyear's advertising plan as stated, being the newspapers. J. Goodyear has been an early and consistent user of newspaper advertising as being the most effective way to get a sales story immediately and directly to the owners of automobiles.

W. A. Hazlett, manager of the eastern division; H. E. Elythe, vice president of Goodyear Service, Inc. and B. Darrow, manager of the company's development department will be among the Akron visitors at the conference.

In calling the meeting, Vice President Wilson stated that its purpose was to review 1933 results and to discuss 1934 merchandizing plans. "Selling is merely a matter of getting the right article into the hands of someone who needs it, at the time he wants it. There is no point in selling a man something which doesn't fit his needs, even though there is a larger immediate profit in it. The modern salesman must know his product and know the conditions of use so thoroughly that he can diagnose the customer's need and prescribe accurately. That

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salt, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chocolate gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of gumption.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Get blood up your stomach. You have a thick, hard taste and your health is foul. It's often breaks out in hives. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes three good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, friendly, gentle vegetable extracts, milder when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't talk for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Repeat a substitute. See at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

AS TO FALL RIVER
 If there are any Herald readers who did not read all of the article in yesterday's issue entitled "How City of Fall River Reduced Public Expense" they are urged to salvage the copy of the paper and study that article carefully.

It is to be remembered that Fall River is, to all intents and purposes, in the hands of a receiver. The Mr. Jackson who is quoted throughout the article is the receiver—chairman of a commission appointed by the state to rescue, by bossing it, a bankrupt municipality.

It will be discovered, through careful perusal of Mr. Jackson's story, that his commission has performed no feats of magic in dealing with the Fall River problem. It has merely applied to the conditions there the ordinary common sense that would be expected to be introduced into the management of any business concern which had gotten into a mess if and when a reasonably good business man were put in charge.

No doubt that there are a hundred individuals in Fall River, all the while it was letting itself go to pot, any one of whom could have done what Mr. Jackson has done and is doing—if he had had the power and the freedom from political interference enjoyed by a state receiver.

Fall River knew well enough where it was headed, long ago. But when any member of its government protested at the high cost of police protection, fire department, schools or paving, there arose, as there arises everywhere, a shrill and angry chorus of protests against whatever retrenchment he proposed. "You can't cut this service," and "you must not reduce that one" prevailed over the logic of arithmetic—and Fall River went into the sod. Now, by the simplest of proceedings, it is being dragged out and dried off.

We have quite a lot of Fall Rivers in Connecticut—headed for the soup. They simply will not limit their expenditures to their collectible incomes. In the course of time, unless they come to sudden realization of where they are at, we shall be appointing state commissioners in Connecticut to boss the delinquent cities and towns. Then their politicians and their cliques and special interest crowds will have nothing whatever to say about what they shall have and what they shall get along without in the way of public services. Nor as to whether they will or will not take pay cuts.

Mr. Jackson's theory is very simple: Whatever reductions in services and in salaries prove to be necessary in order to make Fall River's income meet its obligations will be put into effect. There are no ifs or ands about it. Some policemen have been dropped. If necessary more will have to go. Some firemen have been dispensed with. If necessary others will be dropped. School salaries have been cut; if need be will be cut again, and again. A good many teachers have been let out—141 of them—and if others must be released it will be just too bad but released they will be.

There is no genius in this—just the ability to recognize necessity. There are a number of hard-headed individuals who, under the same conditions, could do with any embarrassed community what Jackson has done with Fall River. It is rather amazing, however, how few entire communities they are which can recognize necessity even when it shakes in their faces the spectral finger of ruin.

They better had.

N. E. FARM SALES
 In various tabulations made by the Department of Agriculture with reference to the number of farms lost to their owners through forced sales, either under mortgage foreclosure or in the enforcement of tax liens, there appear in association sets of figures showing, as well, the number or proportion of voluntary sales of farm lands. The department is somewhat given to using these latter figures as bases for deductions.

For instance, in one of its bulletins the department shows that in a certain recent period, while the total of forced sales greatly increased, the number of voluntary sales of farms in the country diminished. From this the bulletin concludes that the reason for the latter condition lies in the fact that those farmers who are able to hold on to their farms are animated by a sense of "security" which non-farmers, unfortunately, do not feel.

We have no quarrel with that conclusion. But in the same bulletin appears the fact that the farms of New England and the Middle Atlantic States show the smallest proportion of forced sales in the country, coupled with the circumstance that in these two latter divisions there have been more voluntary sales of farms than anywhere else. In other words, outside of the Northeast states there have been more farm foreclosures than voluntary transactions, while in the Northeast there have been many more voluntary transfers than delinquency proceedings.

It might be deduced from such statements that the farmers of New England were less appreciative of their condition of security than those of other areas, or that they were really less secure. But any such deduction overlooks a very important aspect of the case.

When an Ohio or Nebraska farm is sold it means a mere transfer of ownership. When the new owner comes on the old owner goes off. In New England it may and very often does mean something quite different. A new owner comes on the farm but so old owner goes off because none was there. In Ohio a sale is a sale. In Connecticut it is very often more correct to think of the transaction as a purchase. Many of the voluntary sales in New England have been of abandoned farms. It is to be surmised that no greater proportion of New England farmers have voluntarily sold out and quit than in any other part of the country. Certainly a great many of these sales have been of farms which were not in operation to persons who intended to resume operation.

More than half of the purchasers of New England farms in the last couple of years are persons who are rated as non-farmers—industrialists who are seeking the security of the self-contained farm. But most of these were farm born and more or less farm trained. They are showing, in our belief, more sense than anybody else.

TOO MUCH TALK
 Too many people are doing too much talking about the proposed March conference on debts between the United States and Great Britain. Chancellor Neville Chamberlain contributed very little to any fund of new information when he told American newspapermen that Britain had no idea of returning to the gold standard or of making important economic concessions in return for debt revision by the United States. The very logic of the situation and the general trend of British expression for many months would have enabled any intelligent American to understand all this without having it all recapitulated in a set speech. Mr. Chamberlain made an unnecessary statement and one that at the time might better have been left unmade.

Of course the reaction in the United States Senate is what might have been expected—a revival of the well known kindergarten chatter best represented by Mr. Watson's brilliant asseveration that "without concessions there can be neither cancellation, revision nor postponement"—as though these were things about which we had, in the last analysis, anything whatever to say.

The United States would be sitting in the driver's seat if the conditions were reversed. If we owed Europe these war debts it would be up to us to say whether they were paid or not. If we decided that we could not pay them, or didn't want to pay them, and wouldn't pay them, that would settle the matter. But Europe would be sore but she couldn't collect. She couldn't afford to go to war to get her money, and if she did she would fail. We can't afford to go to war and if we did we should fail. Europe is the driver.

Perhaps Mr. Roosevelt has some scheme up his sleeve which he has good reason to believe will work. Certainly nobody else has. So it would seem to be the part of good judgment for European statesmen to quit making still-asked speeches and United States statesmen from making silly ones and all hands wait until March to see whether the new President has anything to offer that is likely to salvage something—if it be only good feeling—out of our long ago lost investment in the World War.

MAIL CONTRACTS

It is hardly fair to consider by itself, without relation to kindred matters, the action of the Senate in voting down, yesterday, all appropriations for air mail contracts. Mail transportation contracts had been under fire of Senate critics for a day or two and some of the facts brought out were not such as to encourage confidence in the economical tendencies of the postmaster-general. It was disclosed, for example, that though only about 1,800 pounds of mail is carried between New Orleans and Havana, Cuba, weekly, no less than three companies, two of them steamship and the other air, had contracts for the carrying of that mail, one steamship company's subscription being $400,000 a year; in addition to which the Post Office Department was announcing the inclusion of still another contract on that line.

It is scarcely surprising that the Senate deemed the opportunity fitting, in the light of these developments, to call off one important department of mail contracting for the present—as a gesture.

No doubt the air mail appropriation will be patched up in conference with the House, along with other differences in the money bills. Meantime the publicity given to mail contracts by the Senate debate makes the demonstration politically effective.

IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Greenwich Village desperately seeks to recapture its reputation as "Bohemianism" and "color." Its little journals of opinion and gossip shriek appeals to villagers to beat back the invading shadows of civic routine.

The "Village," they cry, built a national reputation on its unconventional and its reputation must be recaptured. Village "great-volt," they beseech, was its great asset.

But alas and alack, in those boom-days when money was being poured into new buildings and even artists and poets made money things changed down in the Village.

Couldn't Stand Prosperity
 However more elegant times and the Village reblossoming, with little groups of debaters, coffee clubs and innumerable cafes where poets, near-poets and not-quite-near-poets gather, now advertise "verse readings" artists display their wares in parks and theater lobbies and empty buildings; score of new spots spring up east of Fifth Avenue and in the Fourth Street environs.

Coffees and tea houses are warm spots for drifting crowds. They loiter much of their following when most folk had money and could go to the better speakeries or the chop-houses. Scores of little places disappeared with good times; now they all flock back. Russian smocks and coats of the mothballs and come into the old corduroys and lumber shirts.

Romany Marie Will There
 Romany Marie remains the oldest and most widely known of Village spots. Marie has been moved about by varying times, but she has never given up. The old village know-how in Christopher Street salars or Greenwich Avenue. She moved from one place to another, according to trade. But she has never quit, and operates today, bigger and better, in Eighth Street.

Known World Over
 Marie's fame does not end at the borders of Manhattan. Wanderers from Europe, particularly artists, writers and such, invariably seek her out. And only the "regulars" know how many jobless artists have been given their tea, food and hang-out—and no check tendered. Scores drop in, as they would in a small tavern, aware that they will usually see some of their friends.

It was at Marie's that I used to see Howard Scott, head of the Democratic survey, doctored a long figure over a table and spinning endless tales and weaving endless drama. Almost every habitue of Marie's had heard the bureaucratic theories being built for years.

Herbert Hill About
 Sadakichi Herbert Hill is another "regular" and perhaps the most picturesque survivor of the old brigade. A brilliant critic, essayist and art authority, Sadakichi was known about the world. Many of his books are still collectors' items.

But youngsters brought up on new literary lions and new theories know little of him. So with unruly, steel strands of hair blowing out from under his wide-brimmed black hat, his long, thin figure draped about tables in the old spots, he sits there again, parading the Village.

Maybe a Comeback?
 And the Village wants to bring them back—wants new artists, figures to tie to romantic heights—wants its Bohemianism back—wants its merchants to be "village."

Well, maybe they are not too late.

CHECKING INCIPIENT HERNIA

Any swelling or lump appearing under the skin of the abdomen should be examined by a doctor. If he diagnoses this as rupture, it is wise for the patient to secure a correct support to wear at all times until the rupture has been corrected. If the hernia has not progressed too far, there is almost always a possibility of cure through developing the strength of the abdominal muscles and at the same time by reducing the internal pressure. In babies up to about three or four years of age a cure is almost always possible if a support is used for at least a year, even though the abdominal muscles cannot readily be developed stronger than normal at these ages. A great deal of internal pressure can be relieved if the patient will reduce his food supply and eat that consists of the combination and kinds of foods which do not readily produce flatulence.

The proper kind of a brace should be worn to support the hernia so that no further break or protrusion can develop. This support should consist of a fat or spongy pad which may be held in with various appliances. A lighter support can usually be used at night. I believe these pads are superior to the hard rubber-ball truss which may serve the hernia open and actually prevent it from healing. If the rupture has been allowed to develop so that it extends into the inguinal canal or becomes strangulated, surgery may be necessary to resort quickly to surgical measures. Such operations are more successful in young men whose tissues heal to better advantage than those of men past middle age who must usually be satisfied with some kind of comfortable support to retain the rupture and not allow it to become dangerously large.

The exercises which are of the greatest benefit are those which are while lying on the back on the floor with the hips elevated as with a large pillow. By lifting the outstretched legs alternately and also striking the trunk and head, you will be able to feel the abdominal muscles as they tense and can readily see how these special exercises develop them. These exercises must be taken very carefully at first and increased at least twice daily, gradually increasing the exercise by adding new ones as the strength of the muscles permits.

It is a good plan to take at least one exercise each day and perhaps two, one in the morning and one in the evening, using not over one quart of plain warm water each time. The rupture support should be worn while any undue pressure is caused by the temporary elevation of the intestines by the water used for the enema. These enemas should be continued for several weeks or even months if necessary.

Long walks each day are also of indirect benefit in producing a better tone of all of the muscles and increasing the blood circulation through the pelvis. Other good exercises are those which can be taken on a standing board where the feet are elevated above the head. The board for this purpose should be about two feet wide and six feet long. When in use, one end of the board is placed on the side of the bed and the other end on the floor, with a pillow on the lower end and padding over the board. While in this position the abdominal organs tend by the law of gravity to be drawn away from the lower part of the abdomen. These exercises are more effective for this purpose than any other kind.

The patient should have his doctor examine him at frequent intervals to see if a cure is being effected.

DEMOCRATIC ECONOMY IS GETTING NOWHERE FAST!

It's Not Surprising the Party's Leaders in Congress Want to Delay Reorganizing Union Moves Under Roosevelt Takes Over the Helm.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 NBA Service Writer.

Washington.—It's little wonder that the Democratic leaders in Congress are anxious to toss the whole business of government reorganization into the lap of Mr. Roosevelt and give him full power to deal with it.

They may be forgiven for turning down President Hoover's program for reorganizing more than 50 Federal agencies, since no one could figure out what it meant for any economy and its merit as a whole was hard to determine. But their own efforts at the job suggest that the sooner Roosevelt gets here the better.

Reorganization in itself is admittedly a matter of efficiency, whereas economy means abolition of agencies, jobs and functions.

So the one measure the Democrats actually have written into a bill reported from committee this year calls for abolition of the Bureau of Efficiency, which now has an appropriation of $146,293 among the four billion dollars of the National budget.

This is the bureau which is supposed to save government money through studies and analyses of appropriation estimates in relation to the extent that work should be carried on in view of the government's financial situation and as regards the most efficient, economical organization and methods to be followed. It makes studies for the President, Congress, individual congressmen and other officials.

It has figures to show that each year it saves several times as much money as is spent on it and there seems little doubt that it's worth more than its cost. And if consolidated, as a matter of fact, it is the only agency here which might be used to find out how they might result in economies.

People who have become tired of cutting grass all summer can enjoy a little variation now by raking leaves.

AGAIN AT THE PLAN OF DEMOCRATIC LEADERS TO CONSOLIDATE THE ARMY AND NAVY TO ACHIEVE AN ALLEGED SAVING OF $60,000,000 OR $100,000,000 OR SOMETHING LIKE THAT.

The mere act of consolidation wouldn't save a cent, since there would still be an army and a navy. Some of the chief advocates of the measure favor it because they are anxious to reduce army and navy expenditures, which has thus far proved impossible and think that will help achieve the aim. The fact seems to be that budget-washers would find it even harder to cut in the face of combined pressure from the army and navy than in tackling either one alone.

Roosevelt may favor this plan. But the army, navy and marine propagandists are assuring everyone that he won't cut their appropriations because he will be one of the best friends they ever had in the White House.

One more plan which never occurred Hoover's mind from the Democratic side. Senator Sam Branton of New Mexico has put in a resolution to investigate the advisability of abolishing the Department of Commerce, expending doubt as to the wisdom and economy of maintaining its many and varied activities under a separate executive department.

One's first thought is that this is the unkindest cut of all at the departing Hoover, the foremost proponent of reorganization, who spent eight years building up the department and sweeping into it all the agencies he could grab from other departments.

With only a guess as to what such an investigating committee might find, it does seem as if Branton might be trying to lock the door after a steam horse.

Not long ago all the department's bureaus and agencies were piled into one great $17,000,000 building, the largest office building in the world—a move, as one recalls, that posed to be in the interests of efficiency and economy. If they are now to be unscrubbed in the interests of efficiency and economy the whole business seems rather dull.

Open Circuit Burns Lamps
 Many car owners know that loose connections, which cause open circuits, result in rapid burning out of headlights. Not so many, however, realize just where these open circuits develop. One of the least suspected places is in the plug that carries the ignition wire to the lamps. Turn and release one of these plugs so as to become acquainted with the metal screws in the tip which are intended to make a firm connection with the contacts at the back of its respective bulb. Often these need to be screwed tighter.

Occasionally the lamp socket itself is not tight enough. Thus the bulb is free to vibrate as the car bounces over the road. This can be corrected by changing the shape of the socket by tapping it with a file. Another place to look for looseness is in the lighting switch.

HOW'S SHE HITTING?
 No matter how good a driver one may be, there is always some little flaw that is apt to prove costly someday.

We unconsciously fall into bad habits in our driving. These are usually hard to abandon, but having been outlived for years, but their eradication would bring about a great improvement.

Taken each by itself, such habits may be no-thing to speak of. There may be a constant jerking of the throttle foot, or the leaning of the left foot against the clutch pedal, or a poor driving position that makes an emergency stop difficult, or one of many similar faults. But if we were to watch ourselves just once, we might catch our faults, be aware and discover ways to correct them.

For instance, there is the teach-erous habit of jerking the throttle foot at intervals and thus accelerating the car in spurts. Many good drivers do this unconsciously.

Such drivers while out on the open road with no traffic interfering, will force their feet down on the throttle for a short spurt, then relax it, then repeat the same practice.

This is hard on the spines of the driver and passengers, and especially hard on the motor. Sudden spurts of power on the part of the motor also demand extra sturdiness of the rear end to resist the forces exerted against it.

Riding the clutch is another bad habit, for many good drivers who, charged with this fault, will deny it. On close inspection, however, they will find themselves falling in to the practice.

Results of riding the clutch are too well known to be repeated. The clutch soon begins to slip; a great deal of power is lost by the act and the motorist is at a loss to know why he can't get the mileage out of his motor that he used to. The cure lies not only in fixing the clutch, but in training oneself out of the clutch-riding habit.

Many good drivers have the habit of leaning out of the window of the left door and riding with the left side foremost. It's a comfortable position to fall into, but it catches the driver unaware in an emergency.

The most comfortable position to take in driving, though apparently perhaps the most stilted in appearance, is that in which the driver sits well back against the back cushion and directs the car in front of him. The movable seats of today permit the driver to sit in such position and yet reach the controls comfortably.

Equalize Field Brakes
 Because hydraulic brakes are designed to be self-equalizing the owner who finds one wheel locking before another is naturally puzzled. He does not appreciate that there is a certain amount of mechanical action to an hydraulic system which handicaps the principle set down by Pascal.

This mechanical action is found at the brake bands or shoes themselves, depending on the type of braking system used. The pistons of the wheel cylinders actuate the bands or shoes in a strictly mechanical action. This is done through cams and levers. The bands or shoes require a certain amount of lubrication for free action and must be protected against rust.

If an hydraulic system seems to get out of equalization each brake should be gone over carefully. Each assembly should be checked for equal clearance between the lining and the drum and return springs should be tested for proper tension.

Plugs Close To Mixture
 Spark plugs are a handy clue to the condition of the fuel system and are the experienced mechanic's way of telling whether or not the engine is running on a suitable mixture.

When the carburetor is set too rich there will be an accumulation of soot on the points. This is especially noticeable on the porcelain center of the plugs. Oil in working up by the piston rings forms a carbon, but the carbon that burns off if the motor is efficient in other respects. A motor that pumps oil badly will show wet plugs.

Make a test of the plugs by cleaning them and trying them for a week in the motor. Then take them out and inspect the porcelain projection. If it is not badly sooted the mixture can be considered lean enough. Whether or not the plugs are soot rich. They should be cleaned out unless the owner intends climbing steep hills and utilizing the car's full acceleration ability.

File Points Judiciously
 There are several reasons why modern breaker points should not be filed any more than necessary. The most important is the fact that the layer of tungsten is not thick enough to withstand heavy filing.

Because breaker points are the heart of the switch, the motor owner naturally feels he is justified in filing them often. It is true that points need frequent inspection and attention but after a couple of filings they should be changed. Whether or not such change is necessary can best be determined by a test with an air fuel ratio analyzer.

If the carburetor indicates too rich a mixture at motor speeds corresponding to thirty-five to forty-five miles per hour, a smaller size jet should be inserted. Larger jets should be used if the mixture reads as being lean. This is especially true if the engine is running on today's great demand on the motor the mixture of higher speeds should be inclined to ward the rich side. The theoretical normal setting is .015 inches.

A BOOK A DAY
 BY BRUCE CANTON
 IT'S ALMOST A GOOD BOOK

This Novel Shows Strength, but Has a Lot of Weakness.

One of the unfortunate things about current literature is the fact that as many writers as possible try to get into the act with a disarming inability to master the mechanics of their craft.

Thus we get novels brimming with genuine feeling and insight, yet spoiled by poor plot construction and faulty character-drawing; novel basically worth more than some of the most glib and polished best sellers, but woefully lacking in the elements which carry the name of reality.

An example of this is "One Against the Earth" by Daniel Mainwaring.

This is a story about a somewhat reckless man who grows up in a little town in California. He is torn by two impulses—the desire to rove far off, see life in all its aspects and make a name for himself in all its forms; and the deep necessity to another rival class to the earth.

These rival impulses are described with fine care. The way in which the lead character in all its efforts to destroy his life and bring misery into the lives of others is sympathetically explained. There is poetry and beauty in the author's writing.

But the book is so full of faults that character-drawing and insight become unreal. After a good start the book fails to sustain the reader's interest. It is a pity that the book is priced so high.

SILVER CURRENCY URGED IN HOUSE

Congressman Cross Argues That It Would Hold Our Trade in Far East.

Washington, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Currency industrialists supporting a plan they say would bring cheaper money and better times through monetization of silver argued today to the House coinage committee that the new money would be a cause back of the gold dollar you have but a little gold. In back of this you have a full dollar's worth of silver.

Cross said the bill would not limit the amount of silver the Treasury could purchase because there was in the world only about $11,000,000,000 of silver that could be mined or used for money.

"If silver were monetized in the United States, other nations would want to keep the silver they now have.

"This," he continued, "would give us a chance to get the trade of the Far East, China and South America. Certainly, we can't look to Europe for trade now, so why not get a monetary base on which we can deal with possible markets."

Suggested in 1889 Cross relates that his bill had been suggested in 1889 by William Windom, then secretary of the Treasury, and said:

"It would give us a paper currency not subject to undue or arbitrary inflation or contraction, nor to fluctuating values, but based, dollar for dollar, on bullion at the market price, and having behind it the pledge of the government to maintain its value."

"What would be the effect on price of silver if we were to pass this bill and announce to the world that we would buy all the silver that is presented?" asked Representative Kemp (D., La.) "Wouldn't we get all the silver in the world?"

"I don't think so," Cross replied. "Other nations now use much more silver than we do and there is no reason to expect that they would stop using it just because it increased in value."

Representative Dies (D., Tex.) interposed that France recently had adopted a plan that would call for an increased use of silver.

HOOVER TO REST FIRST FEW MONTHS

May Then Accept An Offer To Return To His Old Profession of Engineering.

Washington, Feb. 2.—(AP)—President Hoover intends to set for himself long public absence after leaving the capital March 4.

Friends of the Chief Executive who have talked to him of his future said today he also wishes to withhold for some months decisions on a number of attractive positions already offered, several touching his old profession of engineering.

During this time, Mr. Hoover plans to rest and observe the course of national events under the guidance of his successor.

He will have an observer in the capital in the person of Lawrence Richey, his secretary, and closest aide for years.

Although no authoritative word has been spoken publicly on the subject, intimations have been given that Mr. Hoover will decide early next year whether he intends to seek to return to public life.

Offices Engaged Richey has engaged offices here and will return to the capital after traveling to the west coast with his chief.

A young man armed with a pistol, entered the bank and announced robbery was about to be committed.

"I hate to shoot an old man, but I guess I'll have to," he said, when Adams was slow in raising his hands.

Instead of getting shot the aged man let one fist fly. It connected with such force that the intruder was stunned. Two of Adams' sons then overpowered him. Arrested, he gave the name of J. L. Bowie of Columbus, Neb.

Minnesota—Mrs. Margaret Herslett says her hand was cut by flying glass when a bottle of buttermilk exploded as she opened her refrigerator door. She's suing a dairy company for $25.75.

Lansing, Mich.—So heavy have correspondence and other administrative duties become that Governor Comstock has established two shifts for his staff.

The governor said he probably would work both shifts. Columbus—Police Chief Fred Kundt started a boom in the dog market with a remark that a dog's bark often frightened away would be burglars.

The day after he made the statement 800 persons visited the city animal shelter, and forty purchased dogs.

Baltimore, Md.—Although register of wills for more than nine years in Baltimore City, Dr. Edwin R. Downes left no will. He died last week and letters of administration were granted by the orphans court to a daughter.

RAIL ORGANIZATION IN NEED OF CHANGE

Legislative Committee of I. C. C. Says a Thorough Reform Is Necessary Now.

Washington, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Criticizing the pending bankruptcy relief legislation's attempt to expedite railroad organization the legislative committee in the Interstate Commerce Commission today recommended going reforms.

The committee said it was recommending a "reorganization procedure" by creating a special court or a new department in the commission.

The legislative committee headed by Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman expressed its views in a letter to Senator Hastings (R., Del.), chairman of a judiciary sub-committee which is now considering the bankruptcy bill passed by the House Monday.

The commission group said the bill recognizes the "evils in the present system of reorganizing railroads, but instead of dealing with these evils at the source, it attempts to correct them by means of coordinate regulation."

The report said however, if the more freedom legislation the commission deemed necessary could not be enacted at the short session, it preferred the House bill to a companion one written by Hastings, but suggested a series of amendments.

Hastings said he would discuss the commission report with Attorney General Mitchell and Solicitor General Thayer before calling his sub-committee tomorrow. He has to report the bill to the full committee by next Monday.

GIVE HOPEFUL VIEW OF INDIA'S POSITION

Viceroy Says There Has Been a Satisfactory Change in Outlook.

New Delhi, India, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A hopeful view of India's situation was expressed by the viceroy, the Earl of Willington, in a speech before the legislative assembly, today.

He said there had been a satisfactory change in the political outlook and a growth of confidence in the government which was striving to advance constitutional reforms whereby Indians would control their own affairs.

Lord Willington contended that the government's policy in dealing with civil disobedience was amply justified but he expressed regret that leaders in the civil disobedience movement had not yet openly recognized the harm wrought by their policy.

The viceroy said it was hoped to announce before the end of the legislative session a program for the creation of a reserve bank which would be vital to the new constitution.

The paramount objective in finance, he said, was to prepare a position such that the Indian government would be free of embarrassments in its early years. For this purpose it was important that a large volume of short term debt maturing in the next few days be converted into long term securities, taking advantage of the Indian government's improved credit to reduce the rate of interest on government loans.

WAR DEBTS PARLEY NO SWAPPING DEAL

British Official Says Scaling Down of Figures Will Not Enter Into It.

London, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Great Britain does not look upon the approaching debt conference at Washington as a "great swapping deal," Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, declared today at a luncheon of American newspaper correspondents.

Neither can England "contemplate with equanimity return to the gold standard until we are certain that it will work better than it did just before we left it," he said.

"Great Britain believes in a stable international standard of value, but there are many conditions to be fulfilled before she returns to gold."

He enumerated some of those conditions: First, settlement of the war debt problem; second, lowering of trade barriers; third, modification of the maldistribution of gold; and fourth, settlement of disturbing world political problems or progress toward their solution.

Answers Questions—Frankly and candidly the chancellor answered questions when he had finished his speech. At no time did he place great emphasis upon the meeting to be held at Washington next month.

Recovery of confidence by the nations and the peoples is the key to the solution of most of the world's problems, he declared, adding that the best thing yet done was Mr. Roosevelt's invitation to Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, to visit him at Warm Springs for the personal exchange of views they had last week.

No Swapping Deal—In connection with his declaration that the Washington meeting will not be a "swapping deal" Mr. Chamberlain said:

"The conception of concessions by Great Britain in return for the scaling down of war debts is not a British conception."

"The British view is that these obligations are not those of an ordinary debtor and creditor, but that adjustment is as much in the interest of the creditor nation as of the debtor."

The agreements achieved at the Imperial economic conference in Ottawa last summer "cannot be torn up," he said, and the British government's hands are tied by those agreements so far as they affect any arrangements with the United States at Washington.

As for a suggestion that the projected world economic conference tentatively scheduled for London be shifted to Washington, he pointed out that the meeting was called by the League of Nations but that if responsible representatives were made he believed they would be given consideration.

HOSTESS TO 40,000 THIS WOMAN'S JOB

Mrs. Blair Banister Is Chairman of Housing Committee For the Inaugural.

Washington, Feb. 2.—(AP)—"Hostess to the Hordes"—that's the way Mrs. Blair Banister views her role as chairman of the "housing and hospitality" committee for Franklin D. Roosevelt's inauguration.

She hopes to arrange the swift housing of from 38,000 to 40,000 Washington visitors "as a minimum" on March 4, routing them by telephone from the booths to the auto highways and in the railway station. In her opinion this inauguration will be bigger and cheaper for the out-of-towner.

Virginia Born, a sister of aristocratic Senator Carter Glass, Mrs. Banister has a decided flair for dispensing that hard to define, but easily recognizable thing known as "true southern hospitality."

She predicted an inauguration celebration of unusually large proportions, due to two factors: "The democrats have been out of power for so long, they will also be interested in coming here to see President Roosevelt go in."

"And housing facilities are better than ever before, perhaps due to the present economic situation. Conservative old Georgetown families, who have never before considered 'taking lodgers' are offering their homes."

On Any Scale "It will be possible to live on any scale in Washington on inauguration day, from the most reasonably priced room one could wish, to a 'town house' manage, suitable to a huge house party. Complete with servants.

ASSERTS CONGRESS IS IN A TANGLE

Senator LaFollette Calls Up Colleagues To Work Night and Day To Aid Jobless.

Washington, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Asserting that "never in recent history" has legislative procedure been "in such a hopeless tangle," Senator LaFollette called upon the Senate today to work night and day beginning next Tuesday with a program of unemployment relief legislation, prohibition repeal and beer in addition to the appropriation bill.

LaFollette said he would propose a unanimous consent agreement that the Senate begin Tuesday work from 11 a. m. until 5 p. m., on appropriation bills and from 5 p. m. to 10 p. m., on the other measures he named.

His proposal also provided that after an appropriation bill had been under consideration for one day, a 30 minute debate limitation should go into effect.

"Some effort should be made for orderly legislative procedure," he said, "to transact the pressing business before this Congress," LaFollette said.

PERU ASKS BRAZIL TO TAKE LETICIA

In That Way Trouble With Colombia Would Be Avoided, Is the Claim.

Lima, Peru, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The Peruvian government has informed the United States today that Colombia should permit Brazil to take provisional charge of Leticia while negotiations are carried on for settlement of Peruvian and Colombian claims to that upper Amazon port.

The suggestion was made in a reply sent last night to Secretary of State Stimson's request for peaceful settlement of the dispute, and in which he cautioned Peru against any violation of the Kellogg-Briand peace pact. The Peruvian government previously asserted it had agreed to putting Leticia under Brazilian control provisionally.

(Leticia, which was ceded to Colombia in a treaty signed by both nations, was occupied last September by Peruvian Nationalists. Peru claimed Colombia did not cede other territory as provided in the treaty.)

The Peruvian note said a Colombian naval expedition, now on the Amazon "will be supported by land expeditions in order to overthrow Peruvian garrisons which did not get out of Peruvian territory."

The note insisted Peru's attitude was defensive and that it sought a peaceful settlement.

MINE STOCKS SOAR

Several Issues Changed Hands With Considerable Freedom and There Was a Sharp Increase in Prices.

London, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Recovery of gold mine stocks was a feature of the Stock Exchange session today, but in the street market as darkness fell there were wild scenes as one of the largest crowds in many years gathered for a huge business in mining shares.

Several issues changed hands with considerable freedom and there was a sharp increase in prices. The leaders were Crown Mines, Nourse Mines and Durban Deep Springs.

Johannesburg, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Announcement of sharp increases between December and January in the receipts of many mining companies sent the price of mine stocks skyrocketing today.

City Deep Mines earned 6,000 pounds in December and 40,000 pounds in January. Earnings of Chukou Mines were 104,000 pounds in December and 280,000 pounds in January.

People say, "I thought I'd have to get a new furnace or buy some kind of attachments, but Koppers Coke is giving me perfect results in the old heater, and it's saving me a lot of work and money too." That's natural. Koppers Connecticut Coke is concentrated fuel for every furnace, old or new. It is so nearly all heat-giving, burnable carbon that it burns down to a fine ash. And there's so little of this waste that a whole week's ashes will go into a little pail about a foot high. This rich carbon burns evenly and steadily, night or day, and makes a reliable fire that comes up quickly, or banks down quietly, as you please. Use Koppers Coke and be free from handling heavy ash cans. You'll find shaking cut down to a little jiggle of the grates once a day, but you'll find your house is warmer and more comfortable than ever before. PLAN NO HALTING OF INSTALLMENTS Auto Credit Men Will Not Follow Lead of Insurance Firms On Mortgages.

New York, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Credit companies which carry a large part of automobile installment paper say they are not considering any general modification of their contract requirements. Officials of these concerns assert that the installment debtor, barring isolated cases, is not faced by the same conditions which affect farm and other property holders and which have led to suspensions of mortgage foreclosures and other concessions. The companies however are willing to have it known they are not indifferent or callous to the difficulties of individual debtors.

GOVERNMENT FUNDS FOR RELIEF LOW

Oppose "Legislation adding or subtracting from its functions. He favors the bill throughout the bill" before the committee. Introduced by Senator Wagner (D., N. Y.), it would not only expand the funds for direct relief but would set up a fund of $10,000,000 for aid to wanderers and liberalize the law in several other directions. In Well Headed Miller termed the relief situation well handled up to the present. "The states seem to be well pleased," he said, of the handling by the corporation of its relief funds. Wagner asked if the demand for relief through the states was going to increase, and was told "more funds must be provided."

HITLER MAKES FIRST APPEAL FOR MAJORITY

(Continued from Page One) cons have been slain and several times as many injured. Hitler spoke only in general terms of his two plans. "The idea of compulsory labor service and farm colonies constitutes the main pillars of this program," he said, describing one as "salvation to the German farmer, to safeguard the nation's possibility of sustenance and hence her very life," and the other "salvation of the German worker through a colossal and comprehensive attack on unemployment."

Concluding a bitter attack on Communism, the chancellor asserted that Christianity would be the basis of Germany's moral conceptions. He declared the family would be firmly protected. The Nazis and Telegraphen-Union Press associations both reported police strength has been augmented and that detectives have occupied the Communist headquarters, Karl Liebknecht House, on Buelow-Platz. Official confirmation at present was withheld. Police were searching the building.

Another death resulted when one Communist was stabbed by a Nazi in the Charlottenburg district of Berlin. A Nazi at Essen was seriously wounded and expected to die after being shot by Communists. Five were wounded when police dispersed a Nazi-Communist rally at Wannebeck. Several were injured in a Communist demonstration at Muenster.

CAPITOL TO KEEP EYE ON WADSWORTH WHEN HE RETURNS

Washington—Of all that group of new Congressmen coming to the House on March 4, none perhaps figures so prominently in political speculation of the future as does James W. Wadsworth of New York. Coming back from political retirement as he has, dopsters were quick to see in his return possible ambitions looking toward the White House itself four years hence. That he'll be very much in the picture up until the next Republican nominating convention is over seems certain. Despite Wadsworth's return to Congress as a freshman member of the House, that name long has been familiar on Congressional rosters. The last time it appeared on the House roll was in the 59th Congress back in 1907 when his father sat there.

EXPORT TRADE OF U. S. TAKES ANOTHER DROP

United Kingdom Our Best Customer, Canada Next and Then Japan and Germany. Washington, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The United Kingdom, Canada, Japan and Germany were the best customers of the United States in 1932. Compilations announced by the Commerce Department today showed that goods exported to the United Kingdom in the twelve months were valued at $288,462,805 while Canada took $241,424,702, Japan bought $184,857,394 and Germany $138,471,822. All of the exports, however, were lower than in the previous year, those to the United Kingdom and Canada each by nearly $150,000,000. The total to Japan was a decrease of $21,000,000 and the German purchases dropped $33,000,000. The United States bought more goods from Canada and Japan than from any other nation, importing $174,101,308 from Canada—a drop of approximately $90,000,000 as compared to the previous year—and $124,011,311 from Japan, a drop of $72,000,000.

HE SAW HIS SHADOW TODAY SURE ENOUGH

Things Not As They Seem Is Groundhog's Warning Gets Fright of His Life When Sharp, Black Shadow Grets Him on His First Day Out Since Fall.

The groundhog came out of a hole today, much to the astonishment of a courageous Herald reporter, who deceived by the touch of summer weather had stummed to the urge for a round of golf at the Country Club course this morning. The groundhog's appearance was a little premature due to the golfer's inability to distinguish between a groundhog's hole and a golf cup. The golfer had gotten as far as the first green and was complacently attempting to sink an 18-foot putt. He accomplished the feat, for once, but no sooner had the ball dropped out of sight than up popped Mr. Groundhog, frothing at the mouth and tearing his hair. "I say, young fellow," he remarked in a reproachful voice, shivering slightly despite the warmth of the sun's rays on the green carpet of the golf course. "What's the idea in bringing all them doo-dads and knick-knacks out here anyway. I'm telling you that ice skates is more appropriate."

The reporter, who had been listening attentively to the weather prophet's sage sayings, stopped him with a question about the depression. With another sniff that was almost a wheeze, the groundhog shouted: "Depression? Nerd! That's all in your mind. If you fellows want the depression to end, you'll have to get your shoulder under it and boost it. It's purely a matter of confidence. If you think there ain't no depression, there ain't, that's all." Snorting disgustfully, the groundhog dismissed the matter and waddled back to his hole. He'll stay there at least six more weeks, too.

POLICE ROUND UP COAL CAR RAIDERS

Nine Men Arrested in Hartford Railroad Yards—Almost All Are Unemployed. Hartford, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Squads of railroad detectives and local police swooped into the Windsor street yards of the New Haven railroad this morning in a surprise offensive against "coal car raiders." Nine men were rounded up and hauled into Police Court. The widespread theft of coal from cars in many sections along the company's lines was attributed to economic conditions. None had previous police records. Nearly all of them were unemployed. In most cases the accused's defense was "had to keep the woman and the kids warm."

Keep Watch for the "Feverish Cold"

If you are "run down" or out of condition, if sluggish bowels have allowed poisonous impurities to accumulate in your system, you are very liable to suffer from "feverish" colds. Dr. True's Elixir, Laxative Worm Expeller will ward off or lessen these attacks by giving relief from constipation. Mrs. E. W. Stephan of 31 Kesberna Road, Dorchester, Mass., writes: "It was recommended to me by a relative who had used it for years, and I in turn most sincerely recommend it, most of all for children, but also as a laxative for adults." Sincerely used for its purpose.

IMPACTED BY JAPAN

(Continued from Page One) Today he receives from 40 to 50 cents a day. The result is that the Japanese can sell their fish, frozen, landed and duty paid, in the United States for less than the cost of production of American fish. As to swordfish, Testifying at a recent hearing before the Customs Bureau, Edward H. Cooley, manager of the Massachusetts Fisheries Association, testified that the cost of production for American swordfish, including freezing to care for the out of season trade, was about 30 cents a pound. "And yet," he said, "Japanese swordfish are coming in frozen, landed and duty paid, and sold for eight cents a pound." The same situation was true, the Bureau of Fisheries survey disclosed, in virtually every line of fish products. Another factor, mentioned in Commissioner O'Malley's report, deals with financing by American money of Japanese fishing.

SPOTLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY.
SHEILA SHAYNE, dancer, is discharged from a new play because MARION RANDOLPH, the star, is jealous of her. Sheila searches for work and finally secures a part in a new show soon to go on tour. DICK STANLEY, rich and socially prominent, asks her to give up this job and marry him but Sheila refuses. Her idea of marriage is a home in a little town far away from Broadway.

The company sets out on their tour and Sheila becomes friendly with JAPPY, a chorus girl. In a little western town Sheila meets JERRY WYMAN, who works in a factory. She does not know that Jerry's father owns the factory. Jerry is very attentive and Sheila finds herself falling in love with him. When the rest of the company departs she stays on to spend Sunday with Jerry. She is disappointed because he does not come to see her off on her train as he had promised to do.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.
CHAPTER XXVIII.
JAPPY was sympathetic. "Clear up," she said, "the city slickers aren't the only ones who girls have to watch out for." The remark was well meant though scarcely tactful. Sheila had reached the theater after most of the others in the company. She found that Jerry had appropriated half her dressing room. Her trunk was there. Jappy had opened it, taken out the costumes and hung them in order.

Sheila told Jappy the whole story—how eager Jerry had seemed to have her remain in Spencer for the week-end but how little it had apparently meant to him. He hadn't even said goodbye.

"Something may have happened, Sheila. There may have been a reason why he couldn't call," Jappy reminded her.

"But if he loved me—"

The other girl gave Sheila's arm a comforting pat. "He loves you," she assured her. "He asked for your address, didn't he? Give him time to explain."

Sheila gave Jerry time. Days passed. They stretched into a week and still no letter came. Then, by a sudden juggling of engagements, the company's routing was changed, bringing them within 100 miles of Spencer. Somehow Jerry Wyman must have learned this. On the first night of the new engagement he was waiting at the stage door for Sheila after the performance.

Again life was rosy. Sheila was so happy she gave Jappy a hat which the other girl had long admired. The fact that Jerry had come to see her seemed to prove that he really cared for her.

Every letter Sheila wrote to him meant a heart-breaking wait for the answer. Jerry would dash off the brief note after three of Sheila's long newsy letters.

"But that's your own fault, don't you see?" Jappy would explain patiently. "You shouldn't write so often. That would show him!"

"Men never like to write letters," Sheila answered defensively.

"Your friend Dick writes often enough."

That was true. Dick Stanley wrote frequently—long, entertaining letters. Sometimes they came twice in the same week. Always in the thick yellow envelopes he liked.

"Dick enjoys writing. It's easier for him."

But this explanation did not cheer Sheila. Each day that she did not hear from Jerry was dreary and lonely. Half a dozen times a day she would ask at the hotel desk if letters or call the theater to see if mail had arrived there.

Then on days where there was a letter she seemed a different girl. At times Sheila thought it was almost worth the heartaches to experience such happiness.

At last the "High-lo" company reached the city farthest west on the tour and headed again for New York. Each day now was taking Sheila farther and farther away from Jerry. From country lanes, brick factories, little model homes and all the places where she had been so happy.

The night came when the company gave its last performance on the road. McKee, the comedian, gave a party to which he invited the entire cast. Sheila did not go. She wanted to pack to get everything in readiness for the next day when they would arrive in New York.

Daybreak found them in the city. Sheila telephoned to Ma Lowell from the station. Yes, there was a room waiting for her. It was larger than the old one, too. "That was fine!" Sheila had saved some money. She expected to find a job fairly soon. McKee had mentioned a night club that paid well.

As she rode up Eighth avenue in a cab, her baggage piled about her feet and Jappy beside her, Sheila was happy. "It's great to be back, isn't it?" Jappy said.

Sheila agreed. It was June. Jerry was coming in August to spend his vacation. There would be two months in which she would find another job.

But theatrical jobs, she was to find, were scarce. Now that summer was ahead even the supper clubs were not taking on dancers.

Sheila had been in town only two days before Dick sought her out. He was hard at work, he said. Yes, writing a play. A new one now. He must have noticed a change in Sheila's manner for he said, "You don't like me any more, do you?"

"Of course I do. What makes you say such a thing?"

But when he spoke about seeing her again Sheila was evasive. Jim Blaine telephoned a few nights later. He was going to Chicago to sing in a musical show.

Trevor Lane gave a party and Sheila went, arrayed in her best, her hair done in a new and becoming way. In spite of admiration and attention she could not be cheered. Jerry had not written for more than a week.

One afternoon when the search for a job, as usual, had been fruitless, Sheila hesitated between spending money to see a vaudeville bill or dropping in on Blind Timmy at Joe Paris' song shop. She finally decided to call on Timmy.

She found him in a practice room and she welcomed her warmly, impatiently glad to have her call. Timmy had moved from Ma Lowell's several months before. He could not afford the luxury of his former room there.

"Written any new songs?" Sheila asked.

For answer Timmy ran his fingers over the keys, began playing a melody.

"That's lovely," she told him. "Will you let me sing it?"

Timmy's face shone. "Will you Sheila?"

"If I can. I haven't a job yet." "Sing it at a party some time. See if it goes over," he urged, and she promised.

It was several weeks longer before a job materialized for Sheila. Then she had a chance to fill in with a partner at a smart supper club. Dora Rodney, who danced with her brother Ted, at the Club Volens, became ill and Sheila agreed to take her place. Ted was a supervivous young man who thought no one his equal. Sheila danced with him one week and then another. Ted and Dora received $150 a week. Sheila was paid $50. That was fair enough, however. Alone or with a partner less well known she could not have won an engagement at the Club Volens.

At the end of the two weeks Sheila's finances totaled $200. It was enough to tide her over the rest of the summer. Instead of saving all this thrifty, Sheila bought some new clothes. She wanted to look her best when Jerry Wyman arrived. She was glad that she had so many friends. It would be nice to appear popular before Jerry. She could take him to one of Trevor Lane's parties and introduce him to actors, playwrights and others whose names were well known. She would show him the most entertaining supper clubs.

August arrived but with it no Jerry. Even his letters had become less frequent. Sheila turned to Sheila to dance with Ted Rodney. "Will Dora's Spanish costume fit you?" he asked her.

"I think so," Sheila turned to him, conscious of two things—she looked well and that Ted could never be induced to say so.

"Scared?"

She knew enough to answer this truthfully. "Yes. Aren't you?"

"I always am lately for some reason."

"Maybe it's because you miss Dora," Sheila said sympathetically.

The master of ceremonies was announcing their number and the spotlight flung itself across the floor. Sheila and Ted stood in position at the end of the stage and waited a moment. Then two running steps forward and they were off.

It was not until the dance had ended and they were bowing to the applause that Sheila noticed a young man seated at a nearby table.

It was Jerry Wyman.

Introducing 'Meggie,' 'Major,' And 'Dot'; They'll Be The New White House Pets

New York. — (AP)—"Weeje" and "Pat" are going to be replaced on the White House lawn March 4 by "Meggie" and "Major."

And into the White House stable will move a friendly and playful little Norwegian elkhound, and "Pat," a police dog, belong to President and Mrs. Hoover. They appeared with the present first lady of the land in a photograph on her Christmas cards a few weeks ago, and the greeting in her handwriting below the picture was from "Lou Henry Hoover, Weeje, and Pat."

"Meggie," a little black Scottish terrier with reproachful eyes, and "Major," a police dog, belong to President-elect and Mrs. Roosevelt. And "Dot" is Mrs. Roosevelt's saddle horse.

"Meggie" Dislikes Baths "Meggie" is eight years old and very fat and, when she is taken for a walk, she wags her tail until she reaches the end of the first block, after which her department is most dignified. She likes to sleep in fireplaces, loathes the resultant baths, and never makes a fuss over anyone except Mrs. Roosevelt.

Before he went away to school, "Meggie" used to belong to Roosevelt's youngest son, John. After he left, she attached herself to Mrs. Roosevelt. Until recently she divided her time between Hyde Park and Albany, but she is living at present at 49 East 65th street, the Roosevelt town house.

Someone gave her a bright red collar for Christmas with a silver plate on it, bearing the inscription, "Meggie—the White House—Washington." She wasn't much interested in it, however.

"Major" Well Trained "Major," a handsome buff and black German shepherd trained for police work, was presented to President-elect Roosevelt a few weeks ago by the troop of state police to which Sergeant Earl Miller, then his bodyguard, was attached. His present address is Krum Elbow, the Roosevelt estate at Hyde Park.

There are several other police dogs there, and it's "Major's" job to keep them in order. He himself has a trick which is frequently misunderstood. He walks up to each visitor, takes the visitor's wrist gently but firmly in his teeth, and scrutinizes him before he lets him in. It makes "Major" unpopular with some visitors but he really doesn't mean any harm. It's part of his training as an alert dog.

"Dot" lives at Hyde Park now, too. She also formerly belonged to the state troopers, the Roosevelts having traded another saddle horse for her. Mrs. Roosevelt hopes to go horseback riding every morning in Rock Creek park.

When President-elect and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt move to Washington, two pet dogs and a saddle horse are going along. "Meggie," a Scottish Terrier, and "Major," a Police dog, will replace the Hoover dogs as White House pets, while "Dot" Mrs. Roosevelt's saddle horse, will give a stall in the White House stable. Mrs. Roosevelt intends to take a daily horseback ride.

YOUR CHILDREN

PROTECT THE FLOOR FOR THE CHILDREN

A child's natural place to play is on the floor. And yet we give it less consideration than any other part of the house.

Carpeting especially in cities, are bound to be filled with dirt that harbors germs of all sorts. Vacuum cleaners are great additions to modern sanitation, but even they cannot get out all the residue left by shoes; even if they were used twice a day instead of twice a week or even once, a carpet in a baby's room should be aired, sunned and beaten or cleaned frequently.

A vacuum cleaner, by the way, should be used slowly to give the air suction enough time to loosen and draw in the particles of dust. To go over a rug with a "lick and promise," just enough to soothe one's conscience, is not thorough enough for results. Moreover, the brushes in all carpet sweepers, or vacuums should be washed or cleaned according to directions.

Needs Toys His toys should be big ones, light to handle, and safe—no sharp points, things to come off, or parts to run. And they should be of the type to shake or pound. A great ball, pans to fit together, things to shake or pound on, and as soon as he knows how to work them, toys to pull about. Later on these toys over a pretty heavy enough to require some effort on his part. For instance, a heavy cart or wheelbarrow, animal or engine that causes a little muscular effort on his part is good exercise.

Children often suddenly discard these bigger toys for the tiny things. When they begin to notice very small things, often they discard others entirely. But watch that he does not put anything in his mouth.

cause he asked for a rate of from 85 to 150 a week! He looks out of a window and sees what he absorbs by just looking at new and various things can never be estimated.

To cope up a baby indefinitely retarded him at a time when he should not be retarded.

So the floor is the answer. The playroom or the room where he can play safely should be free of gadgets that his mother holds so precious. The floor should be warm and free from drafts. The space under doors should be weather-stripped or filled some other way.

If there is no rug, so much the better, for the floor can be scrubbed clean. An old comfort, clean of course, can be spread out, or merely a sheet. But he will trotter and fall and a comfort is nice and cozy.

Children often suddenly discard these bigger toys for the tiny things. When they begin to notice very small things, often they discard others entirely. But watch that he does not put anything in his mouth.

MARVELOUS MANHATTAN
By WILLIAM GAINES

New York—Walter Hoyt, the Brooklyn who has signed to pitch for the Pittsburgh Pirates, tells of what he believed to be a unique discovery in radio circles.

Hoyt and Will Osborne, crooning orchestra leader, were at the home of Harry Roman, the artist's manager, when Osborne produced some recordings by "Bing" Crosby—you know, one of the other crooners.

Osborne played the records on Roman's machine and set straight now and then commenting on "how wonderful" he thought the Crosby technique.

"I've heard baseball players speak complimentary words of other baseball players," says Hoyt, "but never before have I heard an even heard of a radio crooner going into raves over another."

Maybe you'd be just as happy not knowing about such things.

A BITTER BLOW

The engaged pair were talking over the future.

"Darling," she said, "when we are married you'll have a woman in the house who really knows how to love."

He looked surprised.

"But, dearest," he said happily, "I didn't know that you were a good cook."

She shrugged her shoulders.

"I'm not," came her reply, "but when we're married my mother is coming to live with us."—Answers.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous cathartics do without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring on gripping pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound; you will have them by their olive color. Take slowly for a week and note the effect. See the ad.

OLD SORES

Wouldn't you be glad to learn how the pain and itching of old sores, Ulcers and Itching Rash can be stopped and the sores healed in a few days? An amazing ointment is now doing these very things, and here's an instance:

"For 7 years I suffered untold agony with a Varicose Ulcer on my ankle. The first application of PETERSON'S OINTMENT took all pain away. In 4 weeks the ulcer healed up completely. I simply can't say too much for your ointment."—Mrs. Fred R. Voligt, 115 Telford St., Newark, N. J.

No wonder over 500,000 people to date have used PETERSON'S OINTMENT to make their skin gloriously smooth, healthy and free from sores. You can do the same for only 35c at any drug store in America.—Advt.

Hints on How to Keep Well by World Famed Authority

DOCTOR MUST BE JUDGE IN TREATING PNEUMONIA

Competent Medical Care Is the First Requirement, Proper Nursing Second; Oxygen and Serum Are New Weapons

(This is the last of five articles by Dr. Fishbein on pneumonia, its treatment and precautions to curb its spread.)

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

In pneumonia, as in any serious infection, the diet must be chiefly liquids such as soups, gruels, milk and soft boiled eggs. Occasionally it keeps up the energy. Rest and quiet are more important even than nourishment in the serious stages of pneumonia. When recovery has begun, feeding is gradually extended so as to aid the improvement of the blood and broken-down tissues.

It is well for patients with pneumonia to have plenty of water—not much more, however, than two to three quarts a day. The patient will not drink unless he is quite sick. Under such circumstances it is perhaps best to give water with a teaspoon, giving small amounts frequently, or to have the patient suck small pieces of ice.

Of greatest importance in the treatment of pneumonia is the care of the patient's physician. He himself must direct the nursing and determine its value. He must administer proper remedies at the proper time to support the extra work of the heart, to relieve stress from the circulation, to permit the patient to sleep, and to control the actions of the bowels, the skin and of all the other organs. There is no substitute of any kind for the type of care that a well trained physician can give in this disease.

The use of oxygen in the treatment of pneumonia has been elaborated of late and is found to be exceedingly valuable. Tents have been developed which may be placed over the patients as they lie in bed, and many large hospitals have oxygen rooms into which the entire bed may be moved and in which the nurse may remain and attend the patient.

Medicine has, of late, developed specific serums which are shown to be valuable in attacking the organisms causing pneumonia and to overcome their toxins. The physician in attendance must be responsible for selecting the serum suitable to the case concerned. This he does most efficiently when he is able to determine promptly the type of organism causing the disease.

In certain types of pneumonia the serum is not as valuable as in others. Apparently the best results at present are secured in cases of Type 1, which constitutes approximately 35 per cent of all of the cases.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

YOUTH-SEEKING FALLACY

All American women want to stay young, practically all! Perhaps no country in the world ever had so many women who achieved this, to a large extent.

However, this youth-idea can be carried too far. There is place in our civilization for sophisticated smartness, for dignified beauty, for mature women with charm—all their own.

Good grooming, perfect care of hair, skin, hands and excellent make-up all are more than commendable, they should be compulsory! And the woman who lets her figure just go, who develops tremendous girth and such ample proportions that she herself isn't comfortable is just careless and lacks self-discipline, that's all.

But there are other things that older women sometimes do, in their quest for youth, that are not compatible with their maturity and their dignity.

Young coiffures, for instance, the sweet-sixteen type, are out of place in a head over 35. So are the fluffy-ruffie dresses, with subdued tiny sleeves, pert necklines, youthful sashes and bows.

There is probably nothing more disillusioning than to see someone who looks quite young, in the back, and to realize that it is some friend's mother, when you get close. Mature, sophisticated woman over 35, with grace and dignified beauty, has it across and spades above the young woman in popularity and respect.

New clothes allow individuality more than any style era since the pre-war days. It is a psychological good time to achieve sophistication. Why not decide to be your own charming self?

ROOSEVELT GIVES OUT HIS UNEMPLOYMENT CURE

The new President also will find that many surveys already are prepared and that it perhaps would not take government departments long to round out a complete report. Many surveys have been made by Army engineers and other agencies of flood control work and of the power plants at Muscle Shoals. The power commission has much data on water power development. Reclamation studies have been made by the Interior and Agriculture Departments and the Army engineers. The Forestry Service is well up on projects of that kind.

Surveys Already Made. A year ago committees appointed by Secretary Hyde of the Agriculture Department undertook an extensive survey of the country's agricultural problem and the need for long-time planning. One phase of it dealt with the back-to-the-farm movement and held that an undirected, loosely-planned migration would work a hardship on both the city unemployed and on the farmers.

Back To The Farm. "The normal trend now is back to the farm movement. For those who have had experience in agricultural work, I think we will do well to provide a living."

Reforestation. He believes the proposition of reforestation can be started immediately and with it work provided for 50,000 to 70,000 men in planting trees, cutting and rehabilitating the vast forest lands.

Through the development of huge flood control basins, beginning at Cove Creek Dam, he estimates the power to be produced at Muscle Shoals can be increased to between two and three million horsepower.

With this power is to be improved every farm home and barn and the great parts of industrial units and homes within the valley—all under protection of the government.

As a result of the flood control development, Mr. Roosevelt expects great stretches of rich bottom lands to be restored to the use of farmers and to replace the eliminated and non-profitable marginal areas.

"Attacked from all angles" he said, "this whole proposal should give work eventually to about 200,000 men. We have been going at these various factors in a piecemeal way ever since the days of T. D. (Theodore) Roosevelt and Gifford Pinchot. Now is the time, I feel to tie up all the various developments into one great comprehensive plan with a given area."

He preferred not to involve the power issue at the first exposition of the project. Nor did he go into details about the future use of nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals. He is looking now at a vast, broad visionary scheme and he wants to carry it into effect as soon as possible.

WASHINGTON INTERESTED. Washington, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The keenest interest today characterized a detailed study by Congressional leaders of Franklin D. Roosevelt's internal development project for National Rehabilitation.

Most of them withheld comment until its vast scope could be thoroughly comprehended, but from some came expressions of frank amazement at the sweeping extent of what the experimental reception will be in the new Congress remains to be seen, but certainly Mr. Roosevelt will find numerous supporters at least for the individual projects he has encompassed, not only for the Tennessee valley but for other sections of the country.

He returned to Kansas City after accumulating a fortune in real estate and became associated in a lottery company. On March 31, 1890 he disposed of his lottery interests after the Federal government had prosecuted the company.

In the summer of 1890 Bonfils came to Denver and met the late Harry H. Tammam who had risen from the post of a bartender at the Pioneer Window hotel to publisher of the Great Divide, a weekly newspaper, and proprietor of a curio business.

FREDERICK BONFILS PUBLISHER, IS DEAD

Born in Troy, Mo., Dec. 31, 1850, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Napoleon Bonfils, the publisher when he was 16 years old was appointed to West Point, entering the Academy in 1870. There he met Miss Belle Barton of Peekskill, N. Y., resigned from the Academy, met his graduation and married her. Among his classmates were General John J. Pershing and General Crowder.

Bonfils, for a time was employed in the Chemical National Bank in New York City, and then traveled westward settling in Kansas City. In 1889 when the Indian Territory was opened he joined the rush for new lands and became interested in developing the city of Guthrie, Okla. He also platted the town of Oklahoma City, Humphreys County, Texas.

By the summer of 1890 Bonfils came to Denver and met the late Harry H. Tammam who had risen from the post of a bartender at the Pioneer Window hotel to publisher of the Great Divide, a weekly newspaper, and proprietor of a curio business.

Tammam and Bonfils purchased the Denver Post, a small daily owned by the late Charles J. Hughes, afterward United States Senator from Colorado, for $12,500 cash on October 28, 1892. They introduced in the west a new form of journalism and attacked without fear any question that presented itself to the community. Among the first reforms for which the Post battled was the enforcement of the law against the sale of lottery tickets.

From a circulation of 6,000 daily, the Post within 18 months had leaped into a newspaper with a daily circulation of 30,000.

Noted writers including Julian Hawthorne, the poet, Paul L. Dunbar and Winnifred Black were employed and the cartoonist, R. F. Outcault, aided Bonfils and Tammam in pushing their objectives with his pointed cartoons.

In December 1898 Tammam and Bonfils were shot and wounded seriously by W. W. Anderson, an attorney, who was then shot but never convicted. Tammam and Bonfils accused Anderson of taking advantage of Alfred Packard, known then as the "manacled," who had been arrested a year before when he battled his way through snow drifts from the snow bound mining camp of Lake City Colo., and told of being forced to subsist on the flesh of his fellow prisoners.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

A woman may like someone to be criticized... Just be sure you are morally right and then accept the likes to play her own bridge hand.

Mother—Bobby, did you do anything besides eat at the Sunday School Party last night?
Bobby—Yes, Mamma dear, we sang a hymn called: "We Can Sing, Full Thro' We Be."
Inquiries by the mother revealed that the title of the hymn was: "Weak and Stupid Thro' We Be."

The modern woman taken in the mass, has two great objectives. The first is to get a man. The second is to get rid of him, after she gets him.

Teacher—Who was the first man, Wilbur?
Wilbur—George Washington.
Teacher—Why, no, Wilbur, you ought to know better than that. It was Adam.
Wilbur—Oh, well, I wasn't counting foreigners.

A well known minister advises: "Above all things endeavor to keep company with people above you. That might not work in a Pullman. The fellow in the upper berth might object."

A certain man stopped at the grocery store the other evening on his way home from work, and took out a list his wife had telephoned him. Let's "listen in" to the conversation between him and the clerk:
The Man—I want a loaf of Mumsie's Bread, a package of Krunchies, some Goody Sunny Spread, Ole Mamma's Lassas, Orange Puddy, Branfle Buns, and a pound of Auntie Annie's Sugar. Can't you, Bitsey-bits size.

The Clerk—Sorry, no Krunchies. How about Krinkly Krisps, Oatates, Maltie Wheats, Ricelets, Cornsie Ponesies, or Wheetums?
The Man—Wheetums, then.
The Clerk—Anything else?
Tooties, Tatery Chips, Cheesie Weesies, Gingie Bits, Itsey Cakes, Sweetie Toofums, or Dramma's Doughnies?

The Man (toddling toward the meat department)—Tan't det anysin' else. Dot to get some teeny weesies and a leg of lambikins.

It is said that married writers produce the most convincing fiction. Doubtless the result of practical experience.

Man—Have you and your wife ever had any differences of opinion?
Neighbor—Yes, but she doesn't know it.

Criticism... If you cannot stand severe criticism, do not attempt anything of importance... The insignificant escape criticism... Great and good men are savagely

Teacher—Willie, what is an adult?
Willie—An adult is one that has stopped growing except in the middle.

The secret of happiness is not doing what one likes, but in liking what one has to do.

Two waiters were standing by a table on which Eugen McGuire, after a hard day's work, had fallen asleep.

First Waiter—I've already awakened him twice, and I'm going to wake him a third time.
Second Waiter—Why don't you wake him and suggest he leave?
First Waiter (shaking his head)—Nothing doing. Every time I wake him he pays his bill.

If the mail carrier stopped to fight it out with every dog that barked at him he would never get his mail delivered.

PRETTY GIRL—It must have taken a lot of courage to rescue me the way you did.
FIREMAN—Yes, I had to knock down three other fellows that wanted to do it.

When the wife asks an embarrassing question one may play for time by remarking that her nose is shiny.

Y. M. C. A. Notes

The young men of the Falcon group had their winter party in the downstairs social hall last night. From the smiles abounding as they left the building it would give evidence...

The Oxford postponed their game with the Community Flyers last night out of respect for the deceased mother of one of their players, Fred McCurry.

The other games of the evening were scheduled and played off as usual. The North Ends and Cubs battled royally but the new aggregation of Cubs still have to have their teeth cut a bit more before they can quite walk off with the season's warriors like the North Ends.

The last game between the newest group from Buckland and the Falcons was a good one. The Buckland boys show some real fight for a group that has not had the chance to play together for the other fellows have.

The boys under 16 or under 110 lbs. who wish to try out for the County Y. M. C. A. tournament to be held Feb. 18 should be here at 6:15 this afternoon for a workout.

A double header is arranged for tonight at eight o'clock the first game between the North Ends and the Wapping Uncas and the second game between the Morse Business College and Joe's Service Station, promises to be good games.

The "Happy Five" Bowling team from Hartford will be here tonight and bowl our "Y" team consisting of Peter McLagan, Bert Gibson, John Howard, John Chanda, Ray Coleman, Frank Brennan, Charlie Nebart, and Dave Hamilton will be there as reserves, should Capt. Gibson require them.

Members are reminded that tomorrow Feb. 3rd is the last day to enter the Ping Pong tournament. Pairings will be drawn, and the first round will be played next week.

The committee of the Board of Selectmen consisting of Chairman Wells A. Strickland, Secretary George E. Keith, Sherwood G. Bowers and Aaron Cook will hold a special meeting tomorrow afternoon in the Selectmen's office to make final consideration of the purchase of lot 17 South Manchester Water Company and the South Manchester Sanitary and Sewer District.

The committee will give their report to the full board at a meeting scheduled for February 14.
