ATTEND PUBLIC NURSES SESSION IN HARTFORD

Good Sized Delegation From Manchester Go To Big Gathering Yesterday.

Miss Dorothy Tuttle, Miss Astrid Lippin, Miss Myrtle Davis, local public health nurses, and several members of the board of directors of the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association, Mrs. William C. Cheney, Mrs. Albert Dewey, Dr. E. C. Y. Moore and E. J. McCabe, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. H. B. Learned of the volunteer committee, attended lectures given at the joint meeting of the nurses and board members yesterday at Hotel Bond, Hartford.

Mrs. John T. Roberts, president of the Hartford Visiting Nurse Association, who is a daughter of Col. Louis R. Cheney, formerly of Manchester, welcomed the several hundred people present from all parts of Connecticut, and introduced Mrs. Winslow, president of the New Haven association and wife of Prof. Winslow of Yale. She referred to the meeting as one of the most serious in fifty years of growth throughout the country, because in cutting expenses during the depression there is danger of an increase in tuberculosis and other diseases in which the death rate has been cut one half. She mentioned the possibility of the state mental and industrial hygiene department was abandoned for economy's sake just when it was beginning to aid defective children in the future. She asked the audience to look up Senate Bill 255 and pro-

COMMUNITY PLAYERS CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

Hold Anniversary Banquet At Y. M. C. A.—Formed Just a Year Ago.

Community Players, prospective members and guests to the number of fifty gathered at the Y. M. C. A. last night for an anniversary banquet. The club had its beginnings in February of 1938 as a project of the newly established Y. M. C. A. Mrs. Joseph L. Handley of North Elm street, experienced as a teacher of English and dramatics was instrumental in launching the new community dramatic club, and formal organization took place, March 3, with Karl Keller as first president, Miss Beatrice Coughlin as secretary, Miss Fitch Follow, vice president and Mrs. Wells Strickland, treasurer. Mrs. Handley was chosen director of plays and Mr. Handley was appointed business manager. An invitation was extended to Manchester people interested not only in acting but in various phases of play production, and the response has been most gratifying, the membership including young people in their teens to men and women beyond the half century milestone. In the plays already produced mature men and women have played mature parts and youth has played youth parts, and the club has given to the actor, instead of the actor to the club.

Plays already produced by the club, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and other welfare organizations have been "Three Live Ghosts" by Isham, "The Whole Town's Talking," and already this season, "It Pays to Advertise," "Broken Dishes" and "Little Women." All have been received with approval and the Players feel that they have made a niche for themselves in the community, at the same time assisting several worthy projects.

Albert Tuttle was chairman of arrangements and master of ceremonies last night. The tables were attractive in a color scheme of red, white and blue. The menu consisted of roast fresh ham, baked potatoes, cabbage salad, rolls, coffee, iced cream with chocolate sauce and after dinner mints. Community singing was led by Karl Borst. At the close of the meal President Karl Keller conducted a brief business session and turned the meeting over to Mr. Tuttle and his committee. Manager Handley was called on for remarks and the guest speaker was introduced, Harold Spencer, Hartford insurance man, who has made a life hobby of the spoken drama, taking an active interest in Hartford dramatics as an actor, author, director and critic. He had previously been invited to attend the performance of "Little Women" and to present his criticisms at the meeting last night. He expressed his pleasure in being invited to see the performance and to be at the supper. His criticisms were for the most part confined to generalities, rather than to the individual actors or actresses. He believed in youth playing youth. It was easier for juveniles to assume mature characters, however, than vice versa, although it was well for young people to attempt other roles to see what they could do with them.

Y. M. C. A. Notes

MEMBERSHIP IS INCREASED TO 410

The board had its monthly meeting last night and received the following report: During the past thirty days the membership has increased from 381 to 410. Of this number 306 are full paid up and 104 are paying on the weekly or monthly basis. Of these 306 are men and boys and 86 of the number are women and girls. During this past month there have been 194 different group periods in which the gymnasium has been used by the men and boys. Twenty-five different teams from over the state have visited us playing with our various groups. Our teams have made several trips to the other nearby cities and towns for games also. Two teams went to New Haven last week with cars furnished by Aldo Eagan, Mark Holmes, Eddie Segar and Harold Smith. Trips were also made to Windsor, Suffield and Talcottville, Tolland County Y. M. C. A. men under W. F. Tyler were here one evening bringing three teams for volley ball and basketball games. Games have played here in the County Y. League. The young people of the Lutheran church, the American Legion, The Dry Parade, The Falcons, our intermediate baseball group, the Camp Fire Girls and the 4-H Clubs are among the various groups using the building during the month.

Tonight at six-thirty there will be a supper with Frank Lenz, International Y. M. C. A. secretary from Chicago, as speaker. All members and friends of the "Y" have been invited through these columns. If you did not get your name in for the supper come over and hear the address at seven o'clock and you will enjoy that part of the program anyway. All members of the Men's division are reminded of the initiation ceremony to be put on next Monday evening at 7:30 by members of the Hartford Quadrangle club. Movies at 6:45 and Lewis Fox the Hartford lawyer at eight o'clock. The third game of the Men's division stands with the North Ends and Oxford tied and the Community Fillers winning all the time now so that before the season ends it will be anybody's victory.

The games played last night brought a victory to the Oxford over the Cubs with a score of 47 to 9. The real battle of the evening was an exciting hair-raising contest between the Falcons and the North Ends which finally with one point to a foul not gave the Men's division a win. The Falcons and Oxford tied and the Community Fillers winning all the time now so that before the season ends it will be anybody's victory.

The Community Fillers kept up their recent style and form by defeating the Falcons. They did not get into the winning column early enough in the series to make their sure of winning this first double round which ends in two weeks, but they have their eyes on the banner for next round.

The North Ends have a visiting team coming at eight and Joe's Fillers have a game at nine o'clock with the Springfield "Wacos". These should be real games. The public is invited to come, this way money is raised and the games a small door charge is made to help meet the costs of operating the "Y."

Tomorrow night the National Guard Reserves are to play the Eagles at half past eight, and probably the Simsbury will be here at half past nine. The church league is scheduled to have a game at six tomorrow.

A dance will be given by the Y-Girls Club in the Y. M. C. A. building Friday night. Jill and his boys will play the music. The 4-H Poultry and Rabbit clubs will meet tonight at 7:20 in the Y. M. C. A. building. The meeting will be addressed by Mr. Hale of Hartford, who is the head of the Hartford County 4-H club. The meeting is open, not alone to the two local clubs but to all others who are interested.

The governor's fuller expression of his views on legislative matters. Except for changing reference on three House bills and receiving several department reports, the Senate did virtually no business. In the House, six bills providing for exemptions from the personal tax were rejected. They included one bill which would repeal all provisions in the statutes for collection of the tax.

Among these bills was a provision for the exemption of married women and widows from paying the tax, but Representative Mitchell of Woodbury, House chairman of the finance committee, told the House that a man ought to be willing to pay $2 a year for a good wife.

Favorable Reports Favorable committee reports were received by the House on bills amending the charter of Chalker Beach and allowing the connection of sewers to public buildings in Greenwich.

The House rejected a bill placing the town clerk of Milford on a salary basis instead of the present fee system. It was explained that only three Milford people appeared in favor of the measure.

The finance committee was expected to act later today on a bill authorizing Bridgeport to issue $900,000 in relief bonds.

Another measure which the committee was slated for hearing before the judiciary committee. It was Bristol Day before the committee on cities and boroughs. Three bills seeking to create a permanent board of control and finance in that city were scheduled for hearing. One bill was sponsored by the temporary finance board, the other by the City Council and the third by the Taxpayers League.

WOULD TEST CARS TWICE EACH YEAR

Bill Before Legislature Calls For Inspection of All Cars Semi-Annually.

One of the bills introduced in the General Assembly this year calls for regular semi-annual inspection of all motor vehicles.

Inspectors of the Department of Motor Vehicles and the police of state and city organizations in roadside tests of cars during the past several months have found thousands of vehicles in operation which have been below par in one or more of the important safety features.

In commenting upon this general situation recently Robbins B. Stoeckel, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles said: "One of the projects which is met constantly in the proposition that the state authorize some garages and service men as state checkers."

The time when co-operative garages and service stations are giving true service, whose contracts are all right, whose performance is up to standard and which, by reason of these facts, enjoy the good will of many owners, will become much more common.

The 1934 men move into the chair of the editors, and the newly selected 1933 men who have been "selectors" are the associate editors. Among the former is R. I. Stevenson, son of E. R. Stevenson, editor-in-chief of the Waterbury Republican-American.

THIRTEEN SENATES A handful of senators in each of thirteen states could block ratification of repeal of the Eighteenth amendment if the decision were to be left to the state legislatures.

Any such technical defeat of repeal would not, of course, mean the continuation of even the quality of prohibition we have now.

That, of course, would make a nasty scandal. But our old friend Mach didn't mind a bit of scandal when there was a job to be done for the Florentine well being.

In which event they might quite well consider the reasonableness of letting this country have its way in

THAT ARMS EMBARGO The fight being conducted by Senator Bingham against the resolution authorizing the President to declare arms embargoes in co-operation with other nations is, quite naturally, classified by friends of the measure as an attempt to serve the interests of the Connecticut arms and munitions manufacturers.

WE DO NOT BELIEVE that Senator Bingham would be found opposing such a measure if its authorization were extended to cover sales of all commodities necessary to the carrying on of war.

Connecticut asks no special exemptions. She is willing to go as far as any other state or any individual in sacrificing for the common good of humanity.

WISE MEN IN COUNCIL The International Chamber of Commerce has submitted to the Preparatory Commission for the World Monetary and Economic Conference a suggested agenda for that conference, the result of the labors of a special committee of the Council of the International Chamber.

ONE GIVES Out in Maxwell, Neb., dwells a man by the name of C. J. Israel. He has long been a pensioner of the United States as account of military service. In Maxwell there was a bank that owned a one-story brick building with a good concrete vault.

THE ACCEPTANCE of that gift created more fuss in the House of Representatives than would have been occasioned by the proposed purchase of a hundred such post offices at three times their value.

WILD TIMIDITY New York, Feb. 9.—Most pyrotechnic and audacious of this year's new music sensations is young Serge Prokofiev, who composes and plays like a rebellious dynamo—yet has a most deceptively innocuous appearance.

THE RESULT selected the more serene and blatant aspects of this journalistic foray: a gunshot whirring of presses, click of typewriters, clack of the job-staters and all the rest, with bits from the sports page and comic strips thrown in.

Still, for better or for worse, here is a modern music: four tinny-faced musicians deserting their regular instruments and sitting down to four typewriters.

MR. HOOVER CONFERRED WITH MR. ROOSEVELT IN THE RED ROOM.—NEWS ITEM.

HEALTH-DIET ADVICE BY DR. FRANK MCCOY

Questions in regard to Health and Diet will be Answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this Paper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

HOW TO USE COLD WATER APPLICATIONS A little more care is needed in using cold water than not yet in many cases cold water gets successful results which may be obtained in no other way.

COLD SPONGE BATHS consist of washing the skin by using a cloth dipped in cold water. Each part starting on the neck in order to prevent chill. These baths are useful about every two hours in severe fevers as they abstract heat from the skin and keep the temperature within safe limits.

COLD ABDOMINAL PACES, also called "Neptune's Giraffe." These pacers consist of two layers of thin cloth or towel wrung out of cold water and applied snugly around the abdomen and back.

ICE TREATMENT. Ice may be used where one desires to produce a severe contraction of a part, as in contracting hemorrhoids, varicose veins or in stopping hemorrhages.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

ROOSEVELT STILL SMILING, BUT IT JUST CAN'T LAST BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Feb. 9.—Everyone who visits Mr. Roosevelt goes away happy. This ability to impress people with his enthusiastic interest, his full sympathy and his attention to the smallest details of the most trifling things about the president.

Question: Mr. Barton J. M. writes: "Just clearing my throat without any effort brings up little sacs of clear mucus. Do you think this necessarily a forerunner of tuberculosis?"

Question: Mrs. Grace S. writes: "Will you be kind enough to give me some information regarding carrot juice. Does it contain all of the vitamins and what is your opinion as to the medicinal value of the juice?"

Question: Mr. H. writes: "After taking your olive oil and grapefruit juice regimen for gallstones, I passed several green, soapy lumps. I then wrote to Dr. McCoy, who also writes a health column, and asked his opinion. I told him that I felt better for the experience. He replied that the lumps are soapy lumps produced by the action of alkali on the oil and that this was an old gallstone trick. Will you kindly explain where Dr. McCoy made his mistake?"

Motor Hints Timely Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Automobile Club of Hartford. Overheating in Winter Few motorists seem to appreciate that an overheated motor in winter may be more costly than one that boils over in hot weather.

HOW'S SHE HITTING? You can't tell motor oil by its looks. When a service station attendant drains the oil from your car's crankcase and puts it between his fingers to show you how thin it is, you shouldn't take that as an indication that the oil hasn't been doing its work.

Motor Slow On Pickup It is not unusual for an engine that develops good power on hills to slow on acceleration, but the motorist invariably fails to discover the explanation of this. Here are a few of the reasons why acceleration may be wanting.

Checks Rear End Noises One of the most common rear end noises in the car—usual number of possible causes. Because owners do not consider all the possibilities, the reason why this sort of trouble often is so difficult to fathom.

Do you ever consider the gasoline tank as a part of the car requiring your attention? A little consideration of this important unit goes a long way toward banishing serious ailments of the car. At least once a year, for instance, the tank should be drained out so that sediment is removed.

FRANCE TO DISCUSS ITS AMERICAN DEBT Paris, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Former Premier Edouard Herriot, answering a question in the foreign affairs committee today, promised that the debt problem with the United States would be discussed at a future meeting of the committee.

DE VALERA HEADS NEW DAIL EIREANN

Re-elected President By Vote of 82 To 54—Cosgrave Speaks Against Him.

Dublin, Irish Free State, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Eamon de Valera, head of the Fianna Fail party, was re-elected President of the Irish Free State yesterday by a vote of 82 to 54 as the new Dail Eireann convened for its first meeting.

Frank Fahy was re-elected Speaker of the House on the proposal of Mr. De Valera, who spoke in Gaelic. Sean Moylan of Cork county nominated Mr. De Valera for re-election, expressing the hope that the next time he is re-elected it will be "as President of an Irish Republic of thirty-two counties."

Moylan's sentiment was cheered by the galleries and the front benches. Opposing De Valera's election, former President William T. Cosgrave said that the antecedents of the Fianna Fail Party gave little hope of any advance in the National status. That party's policy, he said, had been to divide the National front.

Frank MacDermot, Center Party leader, declared that it would be impossible for that party to support De Valera's re-election. The members of the Center Party refrained from voting.

Mr. Cosgrave was hooted by members of a large crowd when he emerged from a side door at the conclusion of a solemn votive mass celebrated to implore Divine guidance for the new Free State Parliament.

As the former president and other members of his opposition party appeared with the Lord Mayor of Dublin young men and women hooted, booed and shouted: "Up De Valera."

Police cleared a passage for the deputies, who drove away in automobiles. This evening the president announced the following Cabinet: Foreign Affairs—Mr. De Valera; Vice President and Minister for Local Government and Public Health—Sean T. O'Kelly; Finance—Sean Mac Entee; Industry and Commerce—Sean Lemass; Agriculture—D. R. Ryan; Education—Thomas Derrig; Defense—Frank Aiken; Justice—P. J. Rutledge; Posts and Telegraphs—Gerald Boland; Lands and Fisheries—Joseph O'Connell.

It is practically the same cabinet he had before.

ONE DEAD, SIX HURT WHEN AUTO CRASHES

Girl Killed, Two Seriously Injured; All The Victims Were College Students.

Holyoke, Mass., Feb. 9.—(AP)—A Smith college sophomore was killed, two companions were critically injured and four others received minor injuries last night as their automobile skidded and struck a tree in the Smith's Ferry section.

The dead girl was Miss Dorothy J. Holings of South Orange, N. J., a sophomore at Smith College. Miss Jane Savage of Montgomery, Ala., also a Smith student, and Richard H. Gregory, Jr., of Montclair, N. J., an Amherst college senior, were taken to the Holyoke hospital, where their condition was critical.

Four others, whose injuries were not serious, were Miss Carolyn V. Moore, Plainfield, N. J.; Miss Gertrude Pahris; Philip Potter, Schenectady, N. Y.; and George P. Rouse, Jr., of Ridley Park, Pa. The girls, both Smith students, were taken to the Smith college infirmary at Northampton, the men, all Amherst college students, were at a Holyoke hospital.

Luther E. Smith, Jr., of St. Louis, Mo., a junior at Amherst and driver of the machine, was unhurt. Police immediately began an investigation into the accident, which occurred while the students were enroute to Northampton.

David S. Hall, age 82, of 110 Vine street, Hartford, died in Denver Thursday, after a long illness. For more than 40 years Mr. Hall had been connected with the Good Will Club of Hartford, which was organized by his sister, the late Mary Hall. The deceased was born in Marlborough but had spent the greater part of his life in Hartford. Mr. Hall is survived by his wife and several nephews and nieces.

The Tri-County Teacher Training Class will hold its last of a series of meetings here Monday night. Heaton P. Blakeslee of Durham was a caller here recently.

Mrs. Julius Oshay and infant daughter, Esther, are with her mother in Waterbury for a few weeks. Natalie, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Oshay is at the isolation hospital, Hartford, suffering from scarlet fever. She was taken to the hospital from the Newington Home for Crippled Children, where she has been for several months.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Denver — Hyman Stratt's conscience was all right—it was just the 17 below temperature that urged him into a police station. "Send me back to James Beach, Fla., and I'll do that stretch for stealing a car," he told the officers. But the Florida police replied thus to a telegram informing them of Hyman's arrest.

"Let him freeze. We don't want him and we haven't got anybody who'd come up there after him. Hyman was one of the very few persons on Denver streets last night."

Cornwall, Ont. — In 85 years of practice in this district, Dr. C. J. Hamilton has officiated at more than 6,750 births. He is 77 years old and medical officer of health for Cornwall.

A Kansas doctor was reported recently to have brought 4,500 children into the world. Then Dr. C. B. Oliver of Chatham looked into his records and found 5,300 infants on his list.

In 1928 Dr. Hamilton celebrated his golden anniversary of his graduation and since then he has brought 1,150 more children into the world, an average of one a day.

Hamilton, O. — Bedding — comforts, pillows, sheets and blankets — were the only lot of thieves who entered the home of James E. Ryan.

Portland, Ore. — Fox hunting was indulged in by deputy sheriffs here, but there were no hounds, no blare of horns, not even a horse.

But L. N. Sandman complained two foxes had stolen 56 chickens and two ducks. Two deputies set out in hot pursuit, which at last report was not so hot.

The foxes still had the situation well in hand. Wichita, Kan. — Davis, a 15-year-old cat, and Bimbo, a dog, found guarding the body of Mrs. Mary Virginia McGuire, after her death were not forgotten in the will of their mistress.

Mrs. McGuire, an elderly recluse, willed Mrs. Elizabeth B. Hutchinson, Eureka Springs, Ark. $500 to be used in supporting the cat throughout the remainder of its life.

Thomas R. French, Colorado Springs, will receive the dog. Salem, Ore. — The Pacific northwest is the only safe place for blonds in the United States, Dr. S. E. Laughlin, professor of economics and sociology at Willamette University, declares. Lack of pigmentation to deflect the ultra violet rays of the sun places the blonds at a disadvantage in sunny lands, Dr. Laughlin said.

"The heat drives more middle westerners of the blond type to Southern California for their health," he said. "There they feel fine for the first two or three years, artificially stimulated by the ultra violet rays of the sun. Then, these same rays affecting them too strongly cause their breakdown and complete breakdowns and suicides."

Chicago — Two robins, reputed harbingers, of spring made the mistake of selecting the coldest day of the 1932-1933 winter season to make their first known public appearance. They didn't seem to care.

Newport, R. I. — Mrs. Agnes Wilbur Richardson, 83, one of the few surviving Civil War nurses, died Wednesday night at her home here.

During the Civil War Mrs. Richardson and her mother, Mrs. Mary S. Wilbur, were both nurses in a Federal hospital at Portsmouth, R. I.

Chicago — This is the story of a man without a jail. He is Joe Loussanne, 60, of Clarendon Hills, fined for striking a tax collector. The fine wasn't paid but they couldn't put Joe in jail at Clarendon Hills because the village hasn't any. So the sheriff at Wheaton was asked to care for Joe, but he declined, saying he had too many boarders already. Downey Grove was asked to land its jail, but refused. Hinsdale agreed to take Joe as a temporary proposition, but changed the offer when it was learned his commitments papers were not in order. So Hinsdale sent him back home.

NATURALIZATION COURSE

Bridgeport, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The Naturalization Court which completed its present term at noon today admitted to citizenship 150 persons. The names of three men who failed to put in an appearance during the court were dropped from the list and they will be required to procure new first papers if they again apply for citizenship.

These included Salvatore J. DiNoro, Noroton Heights; Peter W. Lynch of Greenwich and Herman Weber, Cannondale.

HOW U.S. RECEIVES ITS FOREIGN NEWS

Associated Press Writer Explains How Organization Works In Foreign Fields.

Atlanta, Feb. 9.—(AP)—How America gets its news from Europe—a gigantic task done daily by an army of American newspapermen in many foreign centers—was described today by Charles Stephenson Smith of the Washington Bureau of the Associated Press at the joint session of the Institute of Citizenship and the Georgia Press Institute.

Mr. Smith traced the development of foreign news reporting from the days, when it came by word of mouth, prior to 1865.

In 1865 the trans-Atlantic cable came into general effective use, although its maximum transmission capacity there was only about 15 letters a minute. Today's network of cables transmit 400 words a minute.

Mr. Smith said the Associated Press, organized by the late Melville E. Stone and his associates as a co-operative in 1848, "achieved immediate success because of its contracts for exchange of news with Reuters, Havas, Wolff and twenty-three other leading agencies of the world."

Readers in this country get their European news free of bias because it is written by good Americans who make an earnest effort, in my opinion, to keep their fellow countrymen accurately informed about European affairs," Mr. Smith asserted.

"All the bureaus of the Associated Press at important foreign capitals are headed by American-trained newspapermen with American citizenship. Most of the bureau staff members as well as American. The news is freed as far as is humanly possible from foreign prejudice."

The manner in which this tremendous feat of foreign news is accomplished abroad and dispatched to the United States was explained in detail.

Basic News Reports "The news agencies of the various European countries provide the basic news reports," Mr. Smith related. "These agencies have correspondents scattered throughout their respective countries who report to strategic centers. * * * As soon as the Associated Press correspondent gets a tip through one of these agencies, or through his own representative in the territory where the news originated, he flashes the news to London or New York and begins an investigation. If the story is of outstanding importance, a staff reporter is rushed to the scene by airplane from the nearest bureau. Perhaps a photographer is also sent."

He recalled that it is not unusual for the Associated Press headquarters in New York to have messages from as many as 100 points outside the United States with 24 hours.

"There must always be men on duty the world around to flash the news of an earthquake in Chile or Nicaragua, a riot in Calcutta, a battle in Manchuria, a border clash in upper Silesia or an attack upon the life of the Shah of Persia," Smith continued.

"Europe fails to win American journalists away from their homeland. I can assure you that the seasoned American newspapermen who are endeavoring to interpret European affairs for the United States press are patriots who will not intentionally mislead their readers."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks dark, don't swallow mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the toxins and muck around in the bowels. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. If just decays in the bowels. You bleed up your stomach, you get a headache, bad taste and your breath is foul. Bile does more than to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

Don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware of substitutes. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

FEVER MACHINES, DOCTORS' LATEST

Short Wave Radio Being Used Instead of Infecting Patients With Disease.

Montreal, Feb. 9.—(AP)—"Fever machine" which treats disease by the power of radio waves to raise the temperature of the body was described today before the American College of Physicians.

It is a new application of radio, combating disease instead of sending messages, and was reported by Dr. Alter M. Simpson, of Dayton, O. The machine is used in treating disease that are sometimes cured and often improved by producing artificial "fevers" of the body.

Among these diseases are general paresis, and some form of arthritis.

In the past these ailments have been treated successfully by deliberately infecting the patients with malaria, relapsing fever or salt fever to raise the body's temperature. Now, with the new radio fever machine, said Dr. Simpson, temperatures can be raised to any desired height under perfect control and without the necessity of infecting the patient with another disease.

The fever machine is a short-wave radio transmitter, which "broadcasts" 30-meter radio waves through the patient from large metal plates. This use for radio waves originated with the discovery that workmen testing cables in a factory developed fever. The longer they stayed in the high-efficiency field close to the radio, the higher the fever went.

A new key to possible better understanding of cancer, diabetes, arthritis, and kindred diseases has been discovered in the acid-alkaline balance of the blood, Dr. Samuel M. Alter of Los Angeles reported.

Must Keep Balance The key lies in a fact that he said "has been established for the first time in the history of medicine." It is that "the acid and alkaline equilibrium of the blood and tissues of the body is maintained in health at such a constant level that even a slight variation from the normal is fatal." Acids and alkalines are chemical opposites. Upsetting of this acid-alkaline balance may be the secret of some diseases.

Study of cancer has shown, Dr. Alter said, that in almost all cases there is an abnormal alkaline condition of the blood, and in some cases of arthritis there is an acid blood condition.

To preserve the acid-alkaline balance that makes for the health of the body has a "buffer mixture" which has the power to absorb small amounts of acid or alkali when either of these is out of proportion. The lungs and kidney also aid in the process.

SPOTLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Sheila Grayne, former actress to marry Jerry Wyman, son of wealthy parents, who is in New York trying to learn to write plays. Sheila's idea of marriage is a cozy little home far from Broadway. Although she has spent all her life on the stage she would be glad to leave the theater.

She scores a part in a road show and in a little midwestern city meets Jerry Wyman, who seems to be a hard working young man with little money. Sheila does not know Jerry's father owns the factory where he works. For a time Jerry is attentive and Sheila falls in love with him. Soon his affection seems to cool. He writes infrequently and this makes Sheila unhappy.

Back in New York she gets a job in a shoe shop. She sees Jerry there with some friends. He tells her he has tried to call her but she does not believe it and refuses to make an engagement with him.

She joins another road company and after several months they play in Jerry's home town. Each day she hopes to hear from him but no word comes. Finally she telephones to him. Jerry agrees to come to see her after the matinee performance. At first he is casual, then becomes affectionate and tells her he promises to come to see her the following Wednesday in a nearby town.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIV

The company arrived in Burton next morning. Sheila found it a little cafe where she and Jappy had eaten their meals on Jerry's routine. She remembered that in Burton Jappy had lost a signet ring, a precious possession, and a stagehand had found it. The two girls had discovered a dressmaker there to remodel some of their frocks.

Sunday the first day in town, dragged interminably. There was no Sunday performance and Sheila did not venture out of her hotel room except for a walk in the late afternoon. In the evening she had a shampoo and a manicure. She wrote a long letter to Jappy, out of a job now, and enclosed a bill.

Monday was uneventful. Preparations for the evening show kept the company busy. The performance named without a hitch.

"You're looking fine tonight," the comedian told Sheila the next evening. "I believe you've fallen in love."

"Something like that."

"Girls, what is like that?"

Fifteen minutes after the final curtain Sheila was back in her room at the hotel. The clock in her little green room on the telephone table pointed to 11:30. Almost any time now the telephone might ring. Jerry had said he would telephone Tuesday after the performance.

Sheila undressed, bathed, brushed her hair and slipped into pajamas. The telephone stood beside the bed and, throwing herself down on the pillow, she watched it, gleaming, black and silent.

"Something like that," a telephone ring interrupted. Sheila would soon, in spite of the miles between them, hear Jerry's voice. She could imagine him smiling at her, thrill to the tenderness of his tone. If only the call would come!

The other members of the company were having a party somewhere. Maybe the telephone thought Sheila was on the line and would not pick the call though Sheila took down the receiver and instantly the operator's voice responded, "Number, please?"

Sheila said, "This is Miss Shayne. If there is a message for me I'll be here in my room."

"Yes, Miss Shayne."

Some explanation seemed necessary. Feeling rather foolish, Sheila continued, "I had planned to remain later at the hotel, but on interruption. She decided to try to read but the magazine she selected proved uninteresting. Why did magazine stories always turn out when her life was so unkind? Why didn't Jerry call?"

The hands of the clock pointed to 12 o'clock now. Maybe if she counted off the seconds they would pass more quickly. Maybe if she had something to eat, occupied herself at something like arranging the dresser drawers, time would go more quickly.

Taking up the telephone again, Sheila asked for room service and ordered milk toast and tea sent up. It occurred to her that Jerry might have been on the wire while she was giving the order. Well, she would be all right. She did not want him to guess how anxious she was. When the telephone did ring she would count 10 before she took down the receiver. She would make her voice sound casual.

"That's right—you did say you'd call!" She would say to Jerry and pretend to be surprised.

The little clock ticked away for another quarter of an hour. Then there was a light knock at the door. Springing to open it, Sheila confronted the waiter, a carefully laid table swung from his shoulder. She stared in amazement, then understood.

"Put it down there," Sheila said, smiling.

Taking a coin from her purse, she gave it to the man, scribbling her name at the foot of the bill he proffered. Tea and toast with a little silver pitcher of hot milk. If she ate slowly, drank the tea in sips, it would help the time to pass. Why, oh why, didn't Jerry's call come?

Twenty thirty arrived and then one o'clock. The telephone maintained its sullen silence. Sheila remembered then that Jerry had said he might not call her. He said that he would be sure to come Wednesday whether he talked to her again or not. That was it. He was coming anyhow. More than likely he had been delayed, thought that a message would disturb her, and decided not to call. She snapped out the light and nestled beneath the soft down quilt. If she were to drop off to sleep would she hear the telephone ring? Better not chance it. Sheila turned on the light, arose and moved about the room. Finally she sat down at the table.

She would write letters. But to whom? Not to Jappy because she had sent her a note on Sunday. Not to Jerry. There was nothing she could say to Myrt in such a mood. Besides Myrt owed her two letters. She must write to someone, though. Must keep herself busy.

Suddenly Sheila drew a sheet of paper from her pocket. "Dear Dick," she began. "How is the second act coming?"

Jerry Wyman did not telephone nor did he appear at the theater the following evening. Sheila tried desperately to conceal the hurt in her heart. She reproached herself for her foolishness, worked harder, made every effort to forget.

The tour continued with good results and by the week's end she had not heard from Jerry. There was no way she could have heard from him because he would not know how to reach her.

The company reached the midwestern city on the second day of the week. The bookings were cut short and presently they were back there.

On the first day in Manhattan Sheila met Jappy tripping along 46th street. Jappy said that Tommy Sloan was holding a try-out at the Halcyon Club. Did Sheila want to come along?

"I'm resting," Sheila smiled. "Going to look around soon, though."

"I didn't think you'd be interested in this job," Jappy admitted. "Just wanted to do Tommy a good turn."

"Then take the job yourself."

Jappy laughed a little bitterly at this. "Sure. If I get the chance!"

They walked along together past the tiny shops, the laundry, intermingled with garish doors of night clubs, silent and gloomy at midday.

"How was the boy friend of last year?" asked Jappy idly. "The one you gave you such a rush in Spencer?"

"You mean Jerry Wyman?"

"That's the one. You know I thought he was really serious. For a while I thought you were serious about him, too."

Jappy's level eyes were on her friend. Sheila carefully shifted her gaze and looked across the street.

"Jerry was a nice boy," she answered finally.

They walked on. Presently Jappy's hand closed over the other girl's. Their eyes did not meet but their steps timed together perfectly.

"Let's go inside here, Sheila," Jappy indicated a coffee shop just ahead. "I've got something to tell you, honey, before someone else does."

She drew the other girl after her into a tiny shop and ordered coffee for two.

"Listen, Sheila," Jappy began slowly. "You've got to know this. Jerry Wyman is married and has been for three months. That girl you saw him with last summer—the one he said was his sister—well, she's Mrs. Wyman now. I thought I'd better tell you, but oh, please, Sheila—don't look like that!"

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

"Ann Vickers" is Sinclair Lewis' appraisal of the modern woman; a novel studying the forces that shape her life and weighing the gains and losses which the widely discussed "new freedom" has brought her.

It brings us, also, the most attractive and human of all Mr. Lewis' heroines. The book itself may rank as a notch or two below such a book as "Arrowsmith," perhaps; but "Ann Vickers" herself seems to me to be the best feminine character Mr. Lewis has given us.

We see her first as a child, growing up through a somewhat lonely pre-war girlhood, going off to a woman's college, fumbling with the dawnings idea of a day in which women are to be free than their mothers were. She is a sufrage worker, then a settlement house director, then an official in a women's prison; she becomes an expert penologist, and finally reaches fame as head of a model reformatory for women in New York.

And though her life is successful, it is a lonely one. She has a love affair and her work gets in the way. She marries, and finds that her husband can't look on her as the capable and honored Dr. Vickers, but only as the wife who really ought to be darning his socks and cooking his breakfast. In the end she devises a makeshift, out-of-wedlock affair with the one man who seems willing to accept her as she wants to be accepted—and this man is a discredited Tammany judge.

And it seems to be Mr. Lewis' conclusion that the cards are stacked against the "career woman." She has to "butt up" against a subtly hostile, uncomprehending world, and against her own impulses as well. She has to be lonely. But she may, after all, find that it is worth it. "Ann Vickers" is published by Doubleday, Doran & Co. for $2.50.

For instance, the head must be held correctly; the jaws are to meet and the teeth are to bite as they should. The chest must be held correctly if the heart and the lungs are to perform their functions to the best advantage.

The feet must be right and the legs correct in their relationship to the feet if the child is to walk at all, let alone run, jump or dance.

Furthermore, the relative positions of the exterior portions of the body are significant in relationship to the positions of the internal organs such as the lungs, the heart, the liver and the intestines. The position of any one part of the body is likely to affect all the other parts.

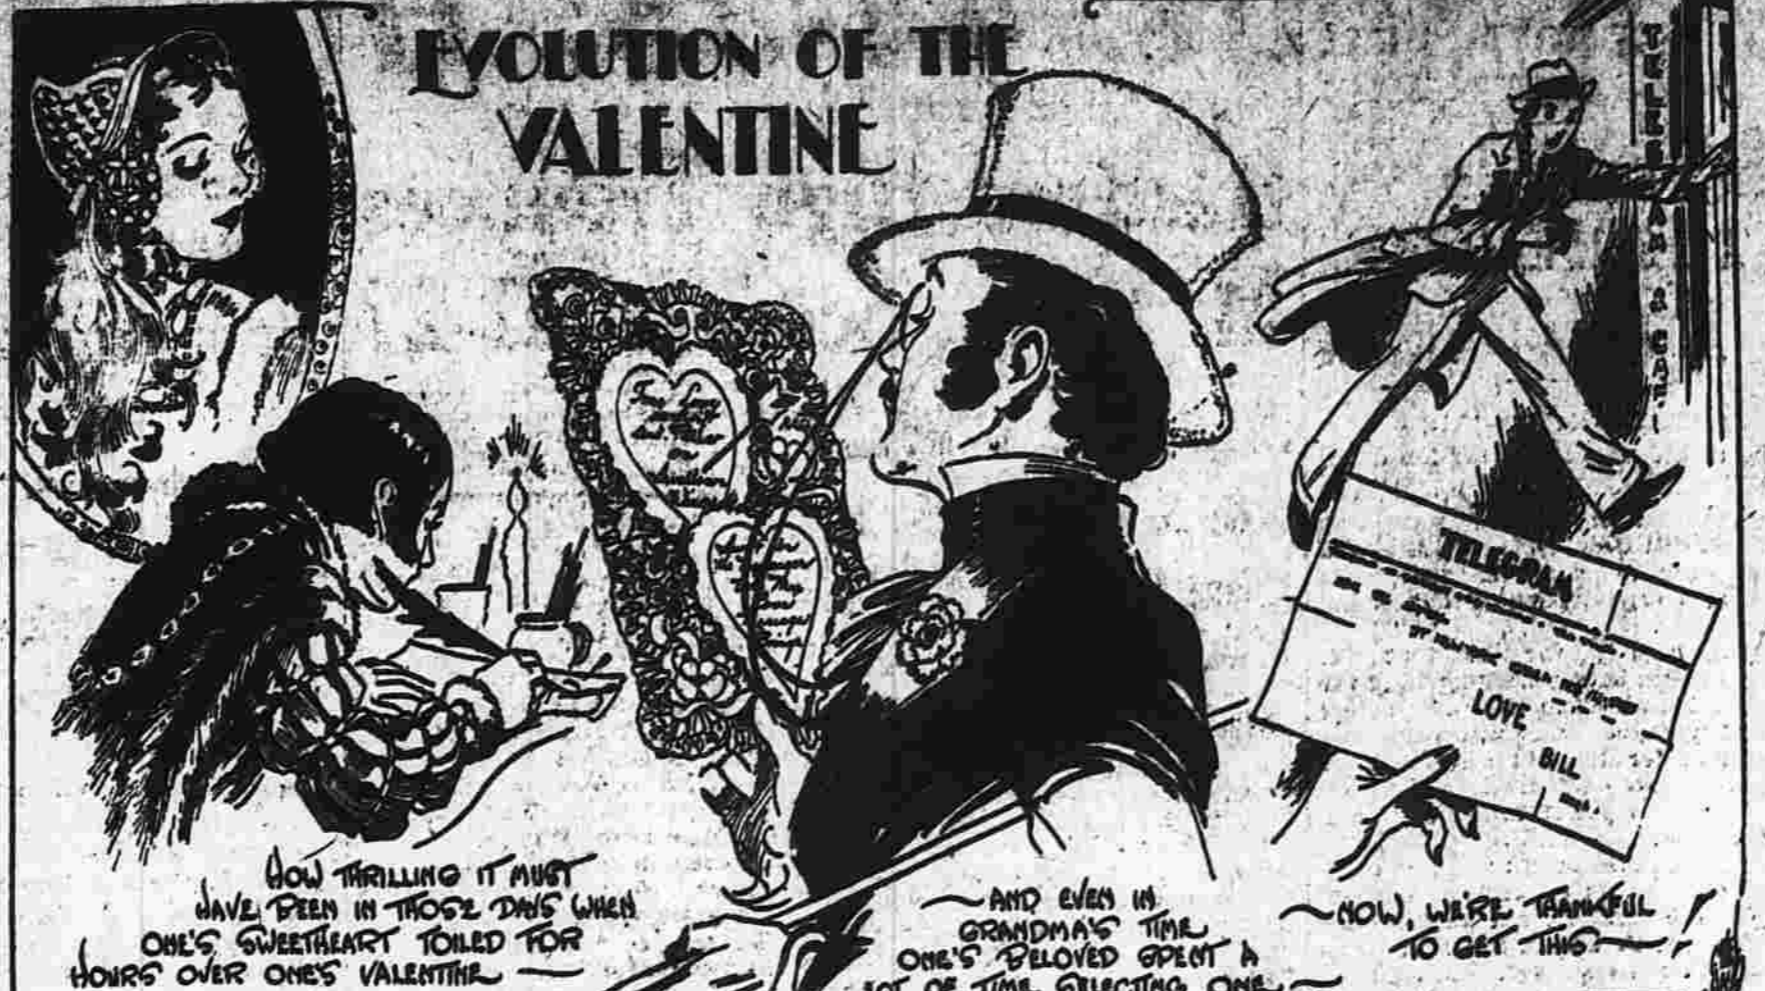

A child that is overtaken may have a strong forward curve to its back for a while to carry around its little stomach with its contents.

It is, of course, natural for little children to have rather large abdomens. However, these tend to become smaller in most cases, and the position in which the child stands and walks has a great deal to do with this change.

The development of straight legs for children is nowadays less of a problem than it was before. Mothers, underooted the necessity for sunlight and plenty of the vitamin that is available in good cod liver oil.

However, in addition to the vitamins and the cod liver oil, the baby should have opportunity to kick and squirm about even before it can stand erect. It is particularly important never to put too much strain on the child's bones, muscles, ligaments and joints. Don't prop the baby up before it seems to want to sit up.

If parents will watch their own posture and ask their admiring child to imitate them the effect is bound to be good.

HOW THRILLING IT MUST HAVE BEEN IN THOSE DAYS WHEN ONE'S SWEETHEART TOOK FOR HOURS OVER ONE'S VALENTINE.

AND EVEN IN GRANDMA'S TIME ONE'S LOVED ONE SPENT A LOT OF TIME COLLECTING ONE.

HEALTH

CORRECT POSTURE VITAL TO BABY'S DEVELOPMENT

Positions of Internal Organs May Be Affected Unless Child Has Proper Care and Guidance When It Starts Crawling.

By DR. MORRIS FISHER, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

"When a little baby who has been creeping about in his nursery or in his pen, reaches up his tiny hand and grasps some object to pull himself up on to his feet," says Dr. Royal S. Haynes, "he is performing an act of great significance, for he is assuming the erect posture which is characteristic of human beings."

Several weeks or months may pass after the child is first able to get up on its feet before it even attempts to take the first step, usually means the transition from infancy to babyhood.

The muscles of the child and its nerves must learn to work together if it is to remain upright and move. Furthermore, the muscles must be strong enough to carry its weight and permit its balance.

Dr. Haynes points out that the old term, "posture," was commonly thought to refer only to the position of the body while still. The modern term, "body mechanics," is a better one because it gives the idea of the working of the human body as a sort of machine in action.

For instance, the head must be held correctly; the jaws are to meet and the teeth are to bite as

HEARTY PARTIES

Jig Saw Invitations and Clever Decorations Are Suggested.

By JULIA BLANCHARD

New York, Feb. 9.—Valentine parties should be pretty affairs. Sentimental games should be played, hearts should abound in your decorations, and your refreshments should be moulded to fit the occasion and decorated with your color scheme.

This year it is smart to send the new valentine invitations. They come in heart shape, each showing a single figure, an Indian whose aim is true, an aviator, a winsome maid. A brand new idea is the "scrambled invitation," a jig-saw puzzle enclosed with a sheet of paper bearing a single such as: "If my message you would see, Pleased together I must be. One way to make sure that your party will be a colorful one is to ask all the girls to wear white. Have ready for them little bows, jackets cut of red crepe paper or red hearts or other hats each with a red heart on it. The men should be given paper hats with hearts on them too.

Use Ping and Silver. Decorate your house with crepe paper hearts and if you are tired of red you can choose pink and silver, for it is even smarter and more exclusive than red for a color scheme.

Your table decorations and your favors can be tremendously pretty this year. Silver and Perle centrepieces are new. They are made in the form of boxes and contain favors for everybody at the table. Then there are dolls of the Raggedy-Ann type, crinoline-skirted ladies whose skirts conceal a basket of cut favors and there are highly polished silver dollies for them to stand on which reflect the whole pretty picture as truly as a mirror.

Crape paper clothes and napkins come in a variety of valentine designs, but it is considered a bit smarter to set your table with lace paper dollies in your scheme's color, and you can get heart-

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By ALICIA HART

LEND GLAMOR

There is elusive magic in the new evening face powder. When night comes you should shed your matter-of-fact sachal face powder and don one of the new evening shades. You may think, when you see them, that you are being shown delicately colored sachet instead of face powder.

But the new lavender, greens, mauves and blues are not mistakes. Far from it. With red hair, too, this shade of powder is perfectly stunning.

If you know that your skin is muddy try one of the glowing new rosy tones. They give vim and vigor to dull, tired skin and add a touch of color when you see yourself in a mirror.

Should your new evening gown be one of the rich purple shades, tones, the new lavender powders may be just the hat word in making you altogether adorable.

Curiously, your own coloring has little to do with these new face powders. They never were meant to be natural. Much more important is the fact that they are glamorous. What woman wouldn't exchange a bit of naturalness for a lot of appeal?

One word of warning. If you have indulged in sweeping make-up quite apart from your daytime beauty kit, be sure to keep the two separate. These new shades never were meant for wear except under the bright, hard, unattractive glare of electric light. But the definition they set to one's appearance justifies their short hours of labor. It will pay any girl to try them, for the kick she gets out of them as well as for the way they make her look lovely.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

"How do you do, Lella?" Mrs. Brown asked pleasantly to the thirteen-year-old girl in the leather jacket standing alone in the wet leaves of the sidewalk.

"Hello, Mrs. Brown," Lella said sweetly. "I'm glad to see you."

Mrs. Brown's big black eyes and murmured something without a smile.

Mrs. Brown felt she hadn't been pleasant enough. She half stopped. "Terrible day, isn't it, dear?"

"Yes," said Lella and went on.

Mrs. Brown met Tim Sloan a few steps further on. Tim was fourteen. His fiery blue eyes lit up with pleasure as he swept off his cap to the lady. "How do, Mrs. Brown. Swell weather!"

Mrs. Brown smiled. "I should say not," she looked after Tim. "Wonderful day!" Lella had stopped. Her eyes were no longer dull to hostility. Her whole face was lighted up now. "Hello, Tim. Where'd you come from?"

"Over from again."

"Tim hadn't hurried. He seemed to Mrs. Brown to be very casual in his greeting of Lella. He was striding on, but the girl somehow managed to keep up with him.

Mrs. Brown went on and from under her umbrella she noticed another young couple coming along with books under their arms.

Still rather indignant over the snub Lella had given her, but soothed a bit by Tim's frank friendliness, she braced herself for this new greeting.

This pair consisted of other young neighbors, Marty Seddon, and Jack Hill.

Mrs. Brown was reserving her best smile for the boy. But as they passed, it was Marty who called out, "Hello, there, Mrs. Brown!"

shaped ones, in all sizes. Add to start right, you can make a crepe paper covered wire heart for your dining room door through which all enter to eat.

Pairing-Off. Favors include new little china automobils with Cupid as driver. These may be used to pair off the couples by placing a girl's name in each car and giving the name of the number of the car they will drive. Similar favors are tiny candy boxes, each caged through which you stick a card bearing the girl's name. Pussycat pads, particularly an elongated pink chenille variety which is very amusing, and dogs with red fur and numerous withers come big, little and in every variety conceivable.

The wheel of love will help the party along. Some 20 varieties are on the wheel and appear one at a time as you spin it around. Give each girl one of these at her place and her partner can spin it and know his fate.

For games, particularly if the crowd is small, each other well and everybody is gay, use the jig-saw puzzle idea again in this way: Write on separate paper hearts, some stunts or amusing things each couple should do. Then cut the hearts into pieces, put it in an envelope with the couple's name on it and make each couple place theirs together to see what contribution they are expected to make to the evening's gaiety.

Evening Games. Dancing and cards are always nice Valentine's amusements. But games promise greater popularity this year, particularly games of chance. Have pool, give prizes for the best scores in bagatelle, quoits, fishing ponds and other games.

It is simple to cut your sandwiches in heart shapes and make your cakes and cookies the latter with shape. You can do the latter with red and silver. Your salad can be molded in a large heart shape, or two hearts on a large platter, with appropriate decor to develop the heart.

And you can even get little heart-shaped pieces of sugar for your coffee, tea or chocolate.

CORBETT'S CONDITION

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Latest advice from his sickroom indicated no change in the condition of Jim Corbett today. The former heavyweight champion has been gravely ill from a heart affliction for eight days. His physician, Dr. G. Willard Dickie, has abandoned hope for his recovery. "They may go on indefinitely but Mr. Corbett is weakened now and it is improbable that he will fully regain his health." The former champion is attended by Mrs. Corbett and John Kelleher of Boston, an old friend.

Guards Top All-Stars, 44-35; Hoppe Here Tonight

LOCALS OUTLAST ALBIE BOOTH'S FIVE IN FAST, FURIOUS COURT BATTLE

Speediest Game Of Season Thrills Nearly 500 Fans; Spurt In Final Period Carries Soldiers To Victory Over Visitors.

In the fastest, most thrilling and best played basketball game here this season, the National Guards outlasted Albie Booth's All-Stars at the State Army last night and swept to a whirlwind triumph that had a crowd of nearly 500 fans wild with enthusiasm and excitement from start to finish. The final score was 44 to 35, giving the Guards their 16th victory in 24 starts and also cutting short a long streak of two games.

To say that the game was fast and furious is putting it mildly. It opened with a rush that became a gallop over many minutes had passed and the Guards were continuing throughout the encounter, letting up only slightly as the players reached the limit of their endurance and became too exhausted to move than shamble over the floor. It was the All-Stars who faltered first, late in the third quarter, and the Guards went into the lead as the period ended, 29 to 28. In the second quarter, the Guards were forced to call to their reserve strength in order to keep the game from becoming a rout as the Guards, scenting victory, redoubled their efforts and tallied again and again to become the winner by a comfortable margin.

Well Played Tilt

Both teams played smart, lively basketball, attacking and shooting with a swiftness and rapidity that kept the players dashing up and down the floor with a velocity that seemed impossible to maintain. Holland opened the scoring, and the Guards ran up the score in almost equal measure.

Then the diminutive Booth, who proved that his athletic ability is not confined to the gridiron, scored from the side on a pass from King. Only for a moment was the count deadlocked and then the Guards ran up an 8-4 margin, which the All-Stars quickly overcame to gain a 12-10 margin at the end of the first quarter. Booth's basket, coming just after the whistle.

All-Stars Lead at Half

In the second period the All-Stars increased their lead to 16-10, with two beautiful long shots by King, Dowd scored on a follow-up and Holland netted another, after Kogan had tallied for the visitors. Then Turkington tossed in a double-decker and the score stood 18-16 for several moments, during which it seemed as though the Guards had effectively boxed up the All-Star hoopshooters.

Keep Up Fast Pace

That the second half would duplicate the first for speed and thrills seemed an impossibility but doubt was immediately dispelled when the teams took the floor for the first time since the early part of the encounter.

Guards Open Up

The players' every ounce of stamina into the final period, which was easily noticeable that the terrific speed of the first three quarters had taken its toll. The All-Stars just couldn't locate the basket, not even with the easiest of sucker shots and it seemed, as though weariness was the main factor.

INDIANS DEFEND TITLE AT CARNIVAL

Annual Winter Event To Be Held Tomorrow And Saturday At Hanover.

Hanover, N. H., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Dartmouth's ancient tradition—"It always snows for the carnival"—still holds and today's indications were that it would be deep enough to insure the success of things which the Indians sports and skaters will defend their carnival championship against seven other college teams in the events scheduled for tomorrow and Saturday.

Dartmouth has entered a full team of 15 men, the same number as its outstanding opponent, the University of New Hampshire. Harvard, Yale, Amherst, Williams, Bowdoin, Maine and St. Lawrence have entered representatives in some of the events, the full list of which includes the slalom, downhill and cross-country ski races, the snowshoe race, the sled jump, two-speed skating races and the figure skating competition.

Jack Shea, who won the Olympic 500 and 1500-meters skating championships last year, captain Lynn Wakeland, intercollegiate figure skating champion for the past three years, and Richard Goldthwait, last year's slalom winner and a favorite in all of the other ski contests, headed the list of Dartmouth skaters. Ryan tallied on a foul and Turkington, dribbling in the foul circle, turned swiftly and swished the hoop nicely to put the Guards to the fore, 29-28 as the period ended.

DOGERS AND CARDS IN MOST STARTLING OF PLAYER TRADES

Brooklyn Sends Dazy Vance To St. Louis In Deal Announced Last Night; Other Baseball News.

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—While most of the major league baseball clubs apparently were content to concentrate on the contract situation, the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals have made one of the season's most startling player trades.

The deal, announced somewhat unexpectedly last night, sent Dazy Vance, Brooklyn's veteran pitcher, pitcher and Gordon Slade, infielder, to the St. Louis Cardinals for Owen Carroll, right handed hurler who was traded to the cards in the deal for Jim Bottomley and the Flowers, utility infielder whom the Dodgers sold to St. Louis in 1931.

It was known that Brooklyn was willing to listen to offers for Vance, who has been slipping from his once-great form in the past couple of seasons. But only a short time ago the cards refused a trade for Tex Carleton or Paul Derringer and then Max Carey, Brooklyn's manager, said he would be satisfied if the Dealer turned in one good game a week.

Vance was not listed as a hold-out, but he had not signed the contract Brooklyn offered, which was understood to be considerably below last season's was attributed to the fact that he was believed to be resentful over the salary reduction he had to take then.

Carroll, a former Holy Cross star who has played with the Detroit Tigers and New York Yankees won 10 games and lost 19 with the last place Cincinnati Club last season. In Flower the Dodgers get a veteran but useful infielder who can fill in at any position. The Cards, it is understood, sought Slade to fill in for Charley Gelbert as the St. Louis management is not yet convinced that Gilbert will recover his hunting accident in time to do much playing.

Joe Sewell, veteran third baseman, became the first Yankee "regular" outside the battery department to sign his contract. Joe Glenn, recruit pitcher, and Myrie Horan, also have returned the papers with signatures to the Yankees.

The Giants listed the name of Bryan James Foy, second baseman from Dallas, among those who have come to terms.

FAMOUS CUE ARTIST TO DISPLAY TALENT AT MASONIC TEMPLE

Local Opponent For Former "Boy Wonder"; Fancy And Trick Shot Artist To Appear Also.

An attempt is being made to obtain a suitable local opponent for Willie Hoppe, one of the greatest cue artists in the world, who will give an exhibition at the Masonic Temple tonight at 8:30 o'clock. Due to the large advance sale of tickets, the exhibition will be held in the banquet hall of the Temple, where the crowd expected to be accommodated comfortably.

Open to Public. A table has already been re-covered and assembled in the hall. This exhibition is open to the public at a nominal admission charge. Appearing with Hoppe will be Clarence E. Anderson, world's champion trick and fancy shot artist. Unless an opponent is secured before the match is scheduled, Hoppe will play Anderson in a two hundred point match, after which Anderson will exhibit his talent at making seemingly impossible shots.

In his many appearances in the show, the former Boy Wonder made many friends locally, among them the late Fred Lorch and James Rowland. On being told of their death, Hoppe expressed his sorrow, recalling close friendships of past years.

The exhibition will last about two hours. Besides displaying his marvelous ability at 16.5 ballline billiards, in which he has made a run of 888, Hoppe will also play 25 points of three cushion, in which his high run is 25. Hoppe has been in the game for a lifetime and his talent has brought him the world's championship sixteen times in the past twenty years.

This "w" probably be his final appearance in the east this season as Hoppe plans to leave for Chicago on Friday to meet Walter Cochran, who recently captured the world's three cushion title. Hoppe challenged the winner of the title event some time ago and Cochran, who was then in the lead, accepted, announcing his willingness to lay a side bet of $5,000.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

WAHOO! Here's a list of stations on the Chesapeake branch of the East Coast railroad of Florida, and its western end have train announcements for that branch:
Volco, Saldana, Lakasse, Oseola, Tolopaw, Yehaw, Mokoke, Ilahaw, Oowaw, Chahulook, Nittaw, Ftwa, Bithlow, Apoxee, Hiale, Foclaw, Wewahotee, Tohopka, Okeechobe!

"Sweets to the Sweet" said the young man as he gallantly passed the candy to Miss Cutie Funnycake of Brushville. "Oh, thank you so very much!" Cutie chimed in. "Now may I pass you the nuts?"

FREE ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN: There are hundreds of fellows going around collecting the hugs and kisses that you didn't have the nerve to take.

A man writes us a post card and asks us where he can get a hippopotamus. Has he tried the nearest drug store?

A soiled and wobbly wayfarer happened to drift into the side door of a gymnasium where an acrobat was practicing. When the acrobat had finished a round-off, flip-flap and full twisting somersault, the wayfarer approached him and exclaimed very sympathetically: "Don't worry. I just drank some of the same stuff and got over it."

When he told his parents he had secured a job at the blacksmith shop, they laughed and said: "Parents—You surely don't mean to tell us that a little fellow like you can shoe horses?"
Little Boy—No, but I can shoe files.

WE CAN UNDERSTAND WHY A MAN MIGHT WANT A DIVORCE, BUT WE CAN'T IMAGINE WHY HE SHOULD WANT TO MARRY AGAIN THE VERY NEXT DAY. CAN YOU?

The following legend was clipped by a friend of this Colyum, from the menu card of Hotel Farrar Cafe, self-styled "The Worst Hotel in North Carolina," at Tarboro, North Carolina:

Our food is poor. Our service is worse. Our prices are high. We admit it.

A novel means of forestalling complaints and impressing their guests of the high quality of their food and service, and the reasonableness of their prices, based on that quality.

Harrell—Did your Uncle remember you when he made his will?
Jarvis—Yes—he left me out!

Confuror—Now, my lad, you hear your watch ticking inside the pocket?
Youngster—More than satisfied.

WHERE WOULD THE AVERAGE WOMAN BE IF SHE TOOK "NO" FOR AN ANSWER?

THE ULTIMATE CONSUMER IS THE WORM.

We can't enthuse to any great extent over the paying back of more than four billions of dollars to the rich through rebates and abatements of taxes and then proposing to make up the deficit in the treasury by spreading taxes out over the people by means of increased postage, taxes on checks, gasoline and numerous other items.

Her Dad—Can you give Ethel the luxuries to which she has become accustomed?
Rogers—Not much longer. That's why I want to get married.

PEOPLE CAN NEVER GET IT THROUGH THEIR HEADS WHAT PROMPTS A MAN TO MAKE A STRENUOUS CAMPAIGN FOR A POLITICAL JOB THAT PAYS NO SALARY.

Angry Business Man—See here! You told my secretary that you wanted to see me on a matter of life or death.
Bright Young Man—I do. I want to get you to insure yourself.

You can live cheaper but not happier when your wife's reducing.

Terms, or sea swallows, are said to have a greater developed "homing sense" than pigeons.
