GO BACK TO GOLD, PRESIDENT'S PLEA

Hoover In Valedictory Ad- dress Says It Is Not a Fa- vor To the United States; "It Is Need of the World."

New York, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The valedictory of President Hoover's administration—a plea for co-operation by the peoples of the world to restore prosperity—lay before the nation today.

Speaking to 1,500 party leaders and adherents at the Lincoln Day dinner of the National Republican Club, he called for "bold and courageous action" on a united front. He urged general restoration of the gold standard as a step to rescue civilization from a threat of "generations" of depressed standards.

"I say with emphasis," he declared, "that I am not proposing this as a favor to the United States. It is the need of the whole world. The United States is so situated that it can protect itself better than almost any country on earth."

A new proposal to help stabilize the currencies of the world came from the President in a speech frequently interrupted by applause. He suggested that some part of the debt payments due the United States from foreign nations might be set aside temporarily to stabilize the currencies of the world. He said:

"If some sort of international financial action is necessary, it is possible to set aside temporarily the debt payments due the United States from foreign nations might be set aside temporarily to stabilize the currencies of the world. He said:

FREE DEFENDANTS IN MASSIE CASE

Judge Discharges Four Pris- oners and Honolulu Case Is Now Officially Ended.

Honolulu, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The Ala Moana assault case in which five men of mixed blood were accused of criminally attacking Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of a Naval lieutenant, was closed today by the territorial courts were convened.

At the request of the prosecution, Circuit Judge Charles J. Davis yesterday ordered the discharge of the four living defendants in pending appeals or discontinuance, in the case. The defendants freed are Ben Ahakuelo, Henry Chang, Horace Ida and David Takai.

The action also closed in the prosecution's eyes the name of a fifth defendant, Joseph Kahahawai, who was kidnapped by Mrs. Massie's mother, Mrs. Granville Fortescue; her husband, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and two enlisted Naval men and shot to death by Lieutenant Massie in Mrs. Fortescue's home.

Regarding the ending of the case which shook Hawaii to its social and governmental foundations, Governor Lawrence M. Judd had no comment to make, and Admiral Yates Stirling dismissed questions by saying: "I wouldn't have anything to say, it's a matter."

A private detective agency's report which said its investigation had failed to substantiate Mrs. Massie's identification of the defendants as her assailants was made public by John C. Kelley, who prosecuted Mrs. Fortescue and the three Naval men for the slaying of Kahahawai and obtained their conviction of manslaughter. Although sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment, Mrs. Fortescue, Lieut. Massie, and the two enlisted men had their sentences commuted by Governor Judd to one hour in custody.

After stating his doubt that direct investigation of the case at this time will reveal the identities of Mrs. Massie's assailants, the detective agency report said:

"We can only assume the reason Mrs. Massie did not give to authorities immediately after the alleged offense the same details and information she was able to furnish, by her testimony at the trial, is because she did not possess it at the time she was questioned by those who came in contact with her immediately after the alleged offense."

KIDNAPERS KNOWN TO DENVER POLICE

Chief Declares Boettcher Case Will Be Cleared Up Within 48 Hours.

Denver, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Identification of two men who kidnaped and are holding for $60,000 ransom, Charles Boettcher, II, wealthy Denver investment broker, was announced today by Chief of Police A. T. Clark who said the abductors were "a couple of racketeers who have been here the last year."

Charles Boettcher II

The chief declined to reveal how the identification was made, but it was presumed Mrs. Boettcher, who was with her husband Sunday night when he was hustled into the kidnapers' car, had identified the men from Rogues' gallery photographs.

Previously Clark had said "we have the case cleaned up in 48 hours."

Clark said he believed a telephone call received last night at the home of Claude Boettcher, Colorado millionaire and father of the missing man, was the first attempt of the kidnapers to contact the family.

A butler answered the telephone, Clark said, and a voice asked if it was the Boettcher home. Answering in the affirmative, the butler was told to "hold the wire." Five minutes later the butler said he heard the click of the receiver as the line was disconnected.

JAPANESE TRADING WITH CANADA NOW

Importer Says U. S. Bank Failures Have Caused a Change in the Situation.

Montreal, Feb. 14.—(AP)—M. Nakata, Japanese lumber and wheat importer, says there is a definite swing of Japanese business away from the United States to Canada.

In an interview yesterday he said such Japanese business has been diverted recently from south of the international border to the Dominion. The change, he said, was due to exchange conditions and to bank failures in the United States.

"We can buy as much wheat in Canada for $2 as we could from the United States for $2.50," the importer said. He added it was noticeable that the business of an American office of his organization was declining while that of a Canadian branch was on the upturn.

Bank failures
He told newspapermen that for a long time he had been dealing extensively with the United States. "We have long been importers of American lumber," he said, "but so many Japanese interests have been caught in the bank failures in the United States they have turned their attention to Canada as providing more secure financial facilities for their operations."

Speaking of the wheat situation, he said that a greater demand for wheat would follow what he called an imminent move by the Japanese government to stabilize and control the price of rice. An increase in the price level of rice, he indicated, would tend to swing part of the demand for that commodity away from it to other commodities, such as wheat.

HOUSE, SENATE DIVIDE HONORS ON JUDGESHIPS

In Lower Chamber Dem- ocrats Defeated In Trying To Delay Action—Senate Democrats Adjourn With- out Reappointing Judges.

Hartford, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Republicans and Democrats divided honors today in two partisan skirmishes involving judgeships as the General Assembly began its seventh legislative week with a rum.

In the House, Democrats were defeated in an attempt to have action on minor judgeship appointments delayed until after the General Assembly had acted on the District Court bill. This course was recommended recently to members of his party by Governor Cross.

Democrats in the Senate evaded matters by pushing through a motion to adjourn without acting on resolutions reappointing Judges Charles B. Waller and Miles F. McNiff to the Court of Common Pleas. Senator Frank S. Bergin, majority leader, said his motion to adjourn was not intended as hostile to Judges Waller and McNiff, but rather as a protest against House delay in acting on these appointments.

The Senate waited nearly an hour before the Waller and McNiff resolutions were sent to it after the House had adopted them.

Favorable Action
Both Houses acting favorably on the reappointment of Judges Elbert H. Hamlin, Walter M. Eckett and Thomas J. Molloy and Associated Judge Abraham S. Borden to the court of Common Pleas.

House Democrats sought to defer action on the judgeships by having a favorable report on one of them tabled. A motion to this effect by Rep. Markham, minority leader, was defeated 189 to 70.

Markham said it was "preposterous" to consider the judgeships before any action is taken on the District Court bill.

MACDONALD URGED TO SEE ROOSEVELT

London Times Makes Appeal To Premier To Start At Once For America.

London, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay's departure today for the United States with the completed but closely guarded British program for a new debt settlement was heralded by an appeal to Premier MacDonald to leave for Washington at once.

The premier was urged by the London Times to go to the United States immediately to confer with President-elect Roosevelt and lay the foundation for the British debt commission's conversations shortly after March 4.

The plan now being followed, however, is for the ambassador to conduct this preliminary work. Sir Ronald is expected to confer with Mr. Roosevelt immediately after arriving in New York early next week.

An assistant secretary of the treasury, T. K. Bewlay, was sailing with Ambassador Lindsay on the steamship Majestic. The sending of an economic adviser with the ambassador was considered logical in view of Premier MacDonald's statement yesterday that the whole state of world economic problems would be discussed at Washington. It was stated, however, Bewlay's appointment had no direct connection with the debts.

Times Editorial
Editorializing on the premier's statement, which he made in the House of Commons after evading direct questions on the debts program, the Times contended there were strong arguments in favor of him going to Washington to lay the foundation for those conversations. It referred to the general opinion that he was to be the principal delegate at the negotiations after Mr. Roosevelt takes office and suggested that he go now, "not in any sense to negotiate a debt settlement or even to make a beginning of it, but simply to try to arrive at some mutual understanding on the true relation of the debt to the whole problem of world depression."

Such a prompt visit, the newspaper argued, would be something more than an act of courtesy and might prevent a divergence of views between the two peoples, American and British, degenerating into a deadlock.

(President Hoover, in his New York speech last night, attacked "the ceaseless stream of foreign propaganda that cancellation of war debts would give international eco-

ERNIE SCHAAF IS DEAD FROM EFFECT OF BLOWS

Boxer Fight Fans Called a Faker, Passes Away; Del- icate Operation Fails To Save His Life.

By EDWARD J. BEIL
(A. F. Sports Writer)

New York, Feb. 14.—(AP)—As a holy candle burned low, his clenched fingers, blonde Ernie Schaaf, the boy 10,000 boxing fans called a faker, died early today in Polytechnic hospital from the effects of the beating Primo Carnera gave him in the Madison Square Garden prize ring last Friday night.

He died in the hour before dawn, at 4:28 a. m., without regaining consciousness, after the latest New York surgeons operated on his brain yesterday to remove a blood clot, deep in the motor area.

Thus with tragedy such as New York boxing has not known since the Sunday morning in 1924 that little Herome died as a result of the beating he took from Taylor, did the tow-headed youngster who always wanted to be a priest answer with his life the critics who thought he "laid down" to Carnera so that his part-manager Champion Jack Sharkey, could have an outstanding title challenger in June.

Desperate Operation
For several hours last night it seemed that the desperate operation performed by Dr. Byron Stookey, yesterday, who relieved from an intra-cranial hemorrhage because imperative, would save Schaaf's life. At midnight his condition was excellent, though he had not regained consciousness.

But about 3 a. m., his condition took a sudden change for the worse. Hastily his mother, Mrs. Lucy Schaaf, a sister, Mrs. May Daley, his heart-broken manager, Johnny Buckley, and a nearby parish priest were called to the bedside in Polytechnic hospital. As his life ebbed they prayed. A home physician left for the slaying pulse. The candle in one hand burned low. As the doctor finally shook his head and bowed, other hands were raised in prayer. "My son is gone," she whispered. "My son is gone."

As soon as word reached police headquarters that Schaaf had died, detectives were sent to Carnera's hotel to question and probably arrest him for homicide. Al-

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 14.—(AP)—A lashing across the back with a cat-o-nine tails was given Delegate Frank J. Hirt in the Maryland State House as a personal illustration of his assertion the whipping post was a relic of the days of barbarism.

Standing coolly and leaning against a pillar in an ante-room, Hirt, a representative from Baltimore, was struck by a colleague, Delegate Norman S. Short of Hurlock.

Hirt's test followed an address on the House floor in defense of his bill for the abolition of the whipping post as a penalty for wife-beating in Maryland. The proposed

MICHIGAN'S GOVERNOR CALLS BANK HOLIDAY

Colombia and Peru Open Up Hostilities

Bogota, Colombia, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Ending a century of peace between the two countries, hostilities broke out today between Colombian and Peruvian forces in the frontier region of Leticia.

Afro-Vasques Cobo, commanding the Colombian forces, reported that Peruvian airplanes had bombed the Colombian gusboat Cordoba, lying in the Putumayo river.

The first bomb, he reported, dropped in Brazilian waters. At this point the frontiers of Brazil, Colombia and Peru are very close together.

A Colombian squadron took to the air and after a brief but violent fight the Peruvian force retired, the commander said.

For many weeks Colombia and Peru have been disputing the Leticia territory. It is a small area on the frontier of Colombia by treaty some years ago.

A group of Peruvians took possession of the town of Leticia some

Over Billion and a Half Dol- lars Held In 550 Banks and Trust Companies Tied Up For Next Eight Days; Governor Declares "Acute Financial Emergency" Ex- ists In State.

Detroit, Feb. 14.—(AP)—With dramatic suddenness, Governor William A. Cooch called early today proclaimed an eight-day banking holiday in Michigan at the conclusion of an all-night conference with bankers from all over the state and with federal and state banking officials.

The extraordinary holiday, unprecedented in Michigan, is effective today, and is to continue through February 21. As a matter of fact, the banks will not reopen until February 23, since February 22 is Washington's birthday and a legal holiday.

Governor Cooch's proclamation said the holiday was proclaimed "in view of the acute financial emergency now existing in the city of Detroit and throughout the state of Michigan."

Governor Cooch explained that he was summoned to Detroit from Lansing yesterday afternoon to a conference "precipitated by an unforeseen and acute situation which has suddenly arisen in the affairs of one of our leading financial institutions," the Union Guardian Trust Co.

Time Is Needed
He said it was "the consensus after long conference of those present that the difficulties might be ironed out provided time could be had for negotiations."

"As matters stand," the governor's statement said, "it would have been necessary to close the doors of the institution involved on the morning of February 14th, which would have brought in the train disaster to many other of our banking institutions in Michigan."

The crisis was caused by the liability to realize immediately upon the assets of the institution to meet threatened withdrawals. For the protection of smaller depositors in our institutions and to prevent the withdrawal of large sums from the state of Michigan it was deemed wise to declare a banking holiday for a period sufficiently long to allow the situation to be cleared up."

A supplemental statement from Arthur A. Ballantine, under secretary of the Treasury, said that he believed Governor Cooch "acted very wisely."

Ballantine said that he had been in "close contact during some days with phases of the banking situation existing in this state." He said that "all agencies of the Federal government connected with the banking field have been giving closest attention and fullest support to these state problems. The time available proved to be too short for final resolutions but the Federal government should be productive of constructive results. The governor's action gives opportunity for this."

The proclamation was issued in response to formal request signed by John C. Hicks, president of the Michigan Bankers' Association, and Robert O. Lord, president of the Detroit Clearing House Association.

"They said that this request is made in order that the stability of the banking authorities, both National and State, and representatives of the United States Treasury Department, the State Banking Commission and all Detroit clearing house banks, be maintained in the event of a financial emergency."

Protects Depositors
"We deem it necessary," the formal request said, "in the public interest of public welfare and for the equal safeguarding without preference of the rights of all depositors and for the preservation of the public welfare."

Participating in the conference from which emerged the proclamation were Roy D. Chapin, secretary of commerce, whose home is here; Under Secretary of the Treasury Ballantine and representatives of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and of the Federal Reserve Bank in addition to men representing the Michigan Bankers' Association, the State Banking Commission and all Detroit clearing house banks.

World Stabilizing Situation
By the terms of the proclamation, "all banks, trust companies and other financial institutions conducting a banking or trust business within the state of Michigan shall not be opened for the transaction of banking or trust business." But it also "provided that it shall not affect the making or execution of agreements or instruments in writing or hereafter with legal procedure."

"This Union Guardian Trust Company is of primary importance in Michigan's financial economy. It is an affiliated institution of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and has been established over a period of years."

There was no clear idea how long the holiday would last.

SLEUTHS DISCOVER WHITE SLAVE RING

Two Men Held As Suspects; Girl Confesses She Helped Men To Obtain Victims.

New York, Feb. 14.—(AP)—In an effort to break an alleged white slave ring which they say has extended its operations to several nearby states, police today were holding two men on charges of abduction.

The men, Andrew Martorano, 37, and Calogero Rustivo, 30, were overpowered in the Conny Island section of Brooklyn yesterday after a fast fight in which several police took part.

The charges were preferred after lengthy questioning and authorities in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and Massachusetts were asked to cooperate in establishing connection of the men with the alleged ring.

Inspector Harold R. King, of Nassau county, also was asked to aid in an attempt to connect them with the slaying of 16-year-old Mary Helen O'Connor, whose body recent-

SOCIALISTS, NAZIS IN ANOTHER FIGHT

Hitler's Friend Pushes foe Out of Presidential Seat, Occupies It Himself.

Berlin, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The Reichstag committee for safeguarding Parliamentary rights broke up in disorder today when Chancellor Adolf Hitler's "one friend, Hans Frank, pushed the Socialist chairman, Dr. Paul Loebe, out of the presidential seat and occupied it himself. "The Nazi Party no longer can tolerate a slanderous Marxist in the chair," Frank declared.

The Socialist and Communists left the hall while the Nazis jeered. Frank declared the meeting closed in token of mourning for the victims of the blast which killed more than sixty people at Neukirchener last week.

The Social Democratic newspapers indignantly protested at Herr Frank's "high-handed usurpation." The Vorwarts called it to the attention of President von Hindenburg and Chancellor Hitler as a "flagrant breach of constitutional rights punishable under the criminal code."

"The Populist papers also protested, charging that one of the members of that party had been roughly handled by Nazis in the committee meeting. The Centrists filed a formal complaint.

A meeting of Herr Loebe's committee was broken up last week by committee members who charged that the chairman had attacked Chancellor Hitler during a campaign speech, calling him a Slovak.

BLOCK TESTIFIES AT ECONOMY PROBE

New York Publisher Believes Federal Expenditures Must Be Cut To The Bone.

Washington, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Prompt but constructive action to balance the budget and cut Federal expenditures were advocated today before the Senate finance committee by Paul Block, New York publisher, as one of the things necessary for recovery from the depression.

Block appearing in the committee's survey of economy conditions also urged repeal of the 18th Amendment, a small sales tax, drastic cuts in veterans relief expenditures, retention of the gold standard and an expanded public works program.

A similar call for a balanced budget as the keynote of a more cheerful business tone was sounded yesterday by Bernard Baruch, New York financier, at the opening of the committee's hearing.

Block told the committee one vital factor to be considered was settlement of the foreign debts question.

"Perhaps, as has been suggested," he said, "these debts should be reduced a certain percentage or each million dollars spent 7th with by the debtor nations. Possibly a further percentage of discount should be given for each $100 dollars of armament reduction made by the debtor country."

"We should seek agreements with foreign nations which would of the gold standard to return to it so that all of us would be on a more nearly equal basis in international trade."

SEN. BORAH HINTS AT A REVOLUTION

Says If Congress Does Nothing To Help Farmers There Will Be Trouble.

Washington, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The Senate was told today by Senator Borah of Idaho that "there is a revolution in this country." In appealing to the membership to sidetrack the Blaine prohibition repeal resolution and turn attention to emergency legislation in the few remaining days of the current session.

Remarking that the thought of possible revolution in this country "is discounted," he said "it is eyes in the chamber to him" when he added:

"Mr. President, there is already a revolution in this country. There are places where the courts cannot operate, where they are frustrated by sheer force."

"That has spread from the old state of Pennsylvania to my own state of Idaho. We know what has happened in Nebraska, Minnesota, and Iowa."

"Every farmer in the United States is looking with anxious solicitude toward the Congress to know whether anything is going to be done by March 4."

"Nothing is done by then this condition will be accentuated beyond the measure of words to portray."

ment should be hurried because of the large amount of money which would be turned over to the Treasury, which would permit us to reduce many of our present day taxes, including, perhaps, the manufacturers' sales tax if adopted. It is not necessary to add how much the repeal of this amendment would also mean to the morale of our entire citizenship.

"I would suggest a coalition Cabinet, but I fear that our two party political system is in the way of this, and more is the pity. "Perhaps an active advisory board having certain defined powers could be appointed by the President to include a half dozen of our leading citizens, no matter what their political affiliations may be, but whose names would be known to the President and the Cabinet, as well as with the chairmen of various committees in Congress, to devise ways and means to maintain world credit, which would be helpful to all the country."

To finance the public works program, Block suggested a bond issue to be sold in the Liberty Loan market. He said "I would like to see the government issue a bond to stop the agitation for inflation of the currency, which is too dangerous to be attempted."

"We are, I believe, justified in increasing our National debt for the purpose of helping our people," he said. "I have no doubt that there are some reductions that should be made in our tariff schedules, but I am very much opposed to changes being considered except with nations which are definitely on a gold basis. In fact, I consider it necessary to raise tariffs against the products of countries which use depreciated currencies."

More than 80 attended the Founders' Day program of the Buckingham Parent-Teacher Association last evening in the vestry of the Congregational church. The guest speaker was Mrs. Benjamin Work, president of the Hartford County Council of Parents and Teachers, who gave an interesting account of the origin of Founders' Day. Edward Nordstrom, tenor, sang Nevins' "Rosary" and several Edwina songs. Howard Penney accompanied him and gave several violin numbers. A candlelight pageant followed, the 35 candles representing the number of years the association has been in existence. Mrs. Samuel Flinn made and decorated a two-tiered birthday cake. This with its 36 pink lighted tapers occupied the center of the table with candles on each corner. Mrs. Work and Mrs. Irene Reed, president of the society, cut the cake which with cakes of other varieties and coffee was served to all during a half hour social period.

ROCKVILLE

SPEAKING CONTEST DATES ANNOUNCED

Rockville High Alumni President Gives Out Rules Governing the Contest.

President James A. Galavin of the Rockville High School Alumni Association has announced the dates and rules for the annual Alumni Prize Speaking Contest to be held at the High school this spring.

The announcement of the date and the rules of the contest was posted this morning at the school by Principal Philip M. Howe. Unusual interest is being shown in this contest with indications of a large number of contestants.

The following are the rules of the contest announced yesterday by President Galavin:

The Alumni Prize Speaking Contest shall be open to all undergraduates of the Rockville High school with the exception of the first prize winner of any year, who shall not be eligible to enter another contest.

The first trials shall be held by a committee of the teachers in the school on Tuesday, February 28th.

The best eight speakers selected in these trials shall compete in the final contest, which shall be held on Friday, March 24.

At present a senior in the University, McCarthy expects to receive his B. S. degree in 1933. His preliminary education he received in the Rockville High school, from which he graduated in 1928.

Artist Hoffman Speaks Artist Gustavo A. Hoffman, renowned portrait and landscape painter, addressed the meeting of the Rockville High school faculty on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The Theory and Practice of Etching was the topic of the address delivered by Mr. Hoffman who also spoke on "Color Etching."

Not alone did Mr. Hoffman go into all of the details of the work of etching but displayed examples of the different types of work. The meeting was in charge of Misses Gwendolin Cook and Verne Hall of the school faculty and proved one of the most interesting meetings to be held this winter.

Banquet Changed to Saturday The annual banquet of the Clerks Athletic Club, originally scheduled for this evening, has been postponed until Saturday evening.

The postponement was necessary due to the fact that the speakers found it impossible to attend this evening. Warden Charles S. Reed at the Connecticut State Prison at Wethersfield, has accepted an invitation to be the guest speaker.

IMPENDING REVOLT

All within the course of a few weeks after Howard Scott got hold of the public ear and filled it with the Wagnerian thunders of the Technocratic conception half a dozen novelists or near-novelists seized on the idea, boned up a bit on the subject and rushed to the publishers with a book apiece. Similar alertness and ready opportunism may, perhaps, bring into print any day now a flood of novels much more thrilling than anything that could possibly be written about mechanical robotism—imaginative forecasts of a new American secession.

The conservative New York Times, last of United States newspapers to be open to the accusation of sensationalism, yesterday printed a story written by one of its Washington men, Russell Owen, which fairly reeks with suggestion of impending revolution. This correspondent, pointing out that members of Congress from the agricultural states are being bombarded with countless letters from constituents which within a few weeks have changed from pleas to threatening demands for immediate relief, puts into print many of these letters as representing the bulk of them.

No one can read these letters without reaching the conclusion that they were printed with considered purpose, on the part of the Times, to prepare the minds of its readers for the imminent arrival of a very serious crisis. Though many of the letter writers are not farmers but ruined business men, small bankers, professional people, small town financiers, they are almost unanimous in the demand for currency inflation, for debt moratoriums and for an "entirely new deal." And with practically one mind they declare their indifference to what happens to the industrial East—they are out to save the West.

And this "West" that is becoming aflame with the fires of impending revolt is a West that extends all the way from Ohio to the Pacific ocean.

A long route has been traveled since the first whispers of a "farmers' strike" came out of Iowa only a few months ago.

Right or wrong, those people are utterly convinced that they have been discriminated against, betrayed by their government. They brush aside as frauds some of the very relief schemes they themselves advocated and which were adopted against the protests of the East—now that they have failed. It is clear that they have lost all faith in the federal government, and that they cannot be made to see the picture of the nation as a whole.

The time is actually ripe, then, for a huge agrarian revolt of some sort. Only one thing, in all probability, delays it—the fact that a new administration and a new Congress is to come into power almost at once. But if that administration and that Congress do not immediately do things that the agrarian West believes will ease its troubles—look out for an explosion throughout the whole trans-Mississippi country at the least.

What form would such an explosion be liable to take other than secession? Or at least violent threat of secession.

There is a fertile field here for the exercise of imagination. What would happen? Would the East fight to prevent disunion? And why? Would Americans take up arms against Americans again, being wholly without the animus of hatred and fanaticism? There is room for some guessing.

DISTRICT COURTS

As nearly as we can estimate the judicial situation in Connecticut, as it reflects from the various pronouncements of Governor Cross and those not-too-numerous Democrats who still adhere faithfully to his banner, nobody has any right to an opinion as to the merits of the district court scheme. Unless you swallow whole the theory that the present minor court system is all wrong and that the district court system is ideal then you must either be a vile Republican or, if a Democrat, a still viler traitor engaged in treasonable intercourse with the enemy.

Not once, not even in the original documentation of the subject by the Judicial Council now so long ago, do we recall seeing anywhere one scintilla of proof that the district court system would be, in any way whatever, an improvement on the existing set-up of minor courts in Connecticut. The Judicial Council laid down the simple assertion that it would be. Assertion is not evidence. Governor Cross, arriving in Connecticut politics fresh from academic fields but intellectual enough to know that he must have an issue or two, picked up this recommendation of the Judicial Council and put it in his buttonhole. He has kept it there. While he had it there he could always talk about it and when he was talking about that he didn't have to be talking about something else.

We sometimes have considerable doubt whether the good governor knows very much about the operation of district courts in other states—or about the operation of the city, town and justice courts in his own state. Otherwise it would have been probable that he would be able to show us wherein the district court is a better adjunct of civilization than the purely local court system we already have. Yet, so far as we can recall, the only important reason the governor or anyone else has advanced for changing our minor court system is to "get it out of politics."

Anyone can say that the change would take the courts out of politics. What we'd like to see is the fellow who can show how it is to be done. Since when has appointment by a governor, either with or without the consent of a senate, ever made an office less "political" than election by a Legislature? Is a governor so superior to political considerations? Any governor? Ours?

As a matter of fact this district court scheme is a device for taking a number of jobs away from farmers and giving them, to lawyers. That is, to take the administration of minor justice away from officials elected by the people of the towns—in a great many instances—and handing it over to an elaborate system of district courts always run by members of the bar.

It is essentially and inescapably an expensive system, frightfully wasteful of the time of witnesses and of persons accused of tiny infractions of the laws. It would be bitterly disappointing and annoying to the people of the state if it were ever adopted. And it would be, to the last hairsbreadth, as completely "political" as the one we have.

Our position in the matter is this: We are definitely opposed to the district court system on its own demerits; we deny that anybody, Republican or Democrat, can justify its restraint of his right to oppose it; and that the simple fact that Governor Cross happens to have made this scheme his own does not preclude the right of any member of his party to hold an honest opinion on the subject different from the governor's or his supporters', without being abused and berated for so doing.

WOLVERINE BANKS

The tense situation in Michigan banking circles, made known suddenly through the proclamation of an eight day "banking holiday" throughout that state—which means the temporary suspension of all dealings between the banks and their customers—undoubtedly will prove to reflect the centralization in that state, and its assumption there of a dominating position, of the automobile industry. Michigan has had too many of its eggs in one basket, and that basket one that has received more and harder knocks than any other egg-container in the country with the single exception of West-ern agriculture.

To what extent the banks of the Wolverine state has been tied up with the automobile industry has never been disclosed to the country at large but it is inevitable that the association should be intimate and complex. And the degree in which that industry has been affected by the general depression, particularly in the last year, is beyond disputing. It is not surprising, then, that Michigan banking should find itself in a peculiarly distressing state calling for extraordinary processes to prevent huge and unnecessary losses.

There isn't the slightest reason to apprehend that the Michigan situation will affect the country at large.

Thanks to the machinery and the credit provided by Congress under President Hoover's leadership the federal government can and will provide whatever support is needed to maintain the safety of the banks of the state and there is no doubt whatever that the flurry will be ironed out promptly.

Meantime it is difficult not to recall that only a few years ago many New Englanders were sitting up nights to cry over the fact that "we let the automobile industry slip away from us." It would take more than a dozen—to put this part of the country in the jam that Michigan is in through several times too great dependence on the unremitting prosperity of a single industry.

HOOVER'S ADDRESS

No President of the United States ever delivered a valedictory address more strongly stamped by sincerity and courage than that of Mr. Hoover in New York last night. Neither was there in it any trace of bitterness. And only at one point did the President give the smallest indication that he has seen reason to doubt the complete validity of any of those economic principles to which, throughout the depression, he has pinned his faith.

While he boldly asserted his unchanged conviction that the establishment of economic stability throughout the world depends on general rehabilitation of the gold standard it is noteworthy that Mr. Hoover has been just a little shaken in his belief in the "inherence" of the yellow metal's virtues and that he now bases his conclusion with respect to it on expediency rather than on scientific fact. He says:

It may be that by theoretically managed currencies some form of stability may be found a score or two years hence, but we have no time to wait. . . . But in any event it would take many years of demonstration to convince men that a non-gold currency would certainly, a year hence, be worth what he paid for it today.

Concerning that statement we shall doubtless hear many remarks. But what is to be freely admired in Mr. Hoover's last public address of his term of office is his demonstration of his perfect confidence in himself and his party despite the accident of their displacement in an emotional crisis.

Nobody can say of Herbert Hoover that he hasn't the courage of his convictions, or that he is a poor loser.

HOW TO USE THE WHOLE WHEAT GRAIN

As I explained in yesterday's article, the entire wheat grain contains food elements that are capable of sustaining life almost indefinitely if supplemented with some of the fresh vegetables, especially the green leafy types. Whole wheat contains protein which are complete than those of any other cereal and in addition it contains large amounts of iron, phosphorus, potassium, magnesium, sulphur and calcium. It is also richly endowed with vitamins, containing a large amount of vitamins A, B, D, E, and G. The only vitamin lacking is vitamin C which is present in large amounts in the green vegetables and in the fresh fruit. A hundred pound sack of wheat can be purchased at present prices for between $2.00 and $3.00, and it can provide ample nourishment for a healthy person for between three and four months, provided one also uses some of the fresh leafy vegetables and fruits.

Unfortunately, most people do not know how to use whole wheat to the best advantage. Here are some methods of using the entire wheat grain:

BOILED WHOLE WHEAT

Pick over the wheat grains by hand so as to remove any small pebbles or chaff. Wash thoroughly, cover with twice as much water as wheat and allow to soak for several hours or over night. In the morning boil for about twenty minutes or until some of the grains burst open. It is then ready to serve. With the addition of a small amount of cream or canned milk, it makes an excellent breakfast food. Stewed non-acid fruits may be used at the same meal.

SPROUTED WHOLE WHEAT

Soak whole wheat for several hours in water, strain off the water, place the wheat in a layer on a damp towel. In about two days, if kept in a warm place, the wheat begins to sprout. In this form wheat takes on more of the nature of a non-starchy vegetable as the starch becomes converted into malt sugars. During this sprouting process vitamin C is also produced so that in emergency, were one living on nothing but wheat, the sprouted wheat grains could be used to supplement the unsprouted wheat and form a practically balanced diet.

That Long-Delayed Elopement

Behind the Scenes in WASHINGTON

"WHO GETS FIRED?" IS BIG WORRY AT CAPITAL. Government Job-holders Are Wondering if Democrats Will Dip Into Civil Service to Feed the Hungry Clamoring at the Trough.

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

Washington. — The boys and girls in the government service are more than usually busy these days because they have to spend so much time wondering what will happen to various individuals among them after the fourth of March.

They have divided between two schools of thought — optimists and pessimists. The principal source of speculation is whether the forthcoming change in political control will result in a readoption of the spoils system in a moderate way or in really drastic fashion.

Of course there are thousands of jobs which the administration in any event will take away from their present occupants to give to clamoring Democrats. But two important questions remain to be answered: To what extent will the Democrats remove officials and other employees not now under civil service? And to what extent, if any, will the Democrats invade the civil service in order to get at various jobs now under its protection?

Most federal employees need not worry, since roughly four-fifths of them are in the classified civil service and there is no thought of a complete replacement. But there are 100,000 jobs not classified, including a large group of unskilled labor which presumably will not be affected—and no one knows how far down the line the administration will care to cut. And there is also the possibility that quite a few of the better jobs now under civil service will be removed from that protection. Upon the return of the Democrats and Republicans to power in 1933 and 1934—especially in the Harding administration—both parties were rather ruthless about it.

Among the bureau and division chiefs and other minor officials are many who, whether with long service or not, have become regarded as competent experts in their fields, removed from politics. No one

She Writes a Book. New York, Feb. 14.—Notes about nothing in particular and everything in general: Broadway chatter about that new Lydia Lindgren book is smoking hot. Lydia, you may recall, is the songstress who sang a sensational court battle with Otto Kahn, one-time domo of the Metropolitan Opera. Her tone, titled "My Heart in My Throat," has for its leading character an operatic singer, Miss Svansen. And the "heavy" is one Ralph Crane, described as "chairman of the opera".... which gives you an idea.

She Dances Yet. How the ghosts of the past keep bobbing up! Often causing a bit of a shock. As when, the other evening, at an annual reel in Greenwich Village, a gay dancer who broke by on a crowded floor and I caught a glimpse of her face. There was something oddly familiar about it. I singled the dancer out and watched her, trying to account for the familiarity. Finally I gave up and asked a friend: "Who is that, anyway?" "You're a hot newspaperman," came the reply, "you don't seem to know Evelyn Nesbit!".... And Evelyn it was, seemingly carefree and having a swell time.

He Remains Quiet. After hearing so much of his stentor qualities, Huey Long, the Kingfish, becomes one of the more quiet-mannered table sitters when appearing in the Manhattan night spots. Spotting him at the Paradise Club the other midnight, it seemed to me a matter of ceremony to talk rings around him. He seemed to make himself as obscure as a visiting columnist until pointed out. If he had speeches to make concerning the slightly dressed maidens that disport there, he acts so used to them that friends in the party.

She Still Amazes. Fanny Ward's upper-right-hand box act at opening nights is often as amusing to watch as any scene in the play. She arrives at, particularly important opening night affairs with a retinue of friends who seem to drip ermine and bracelets. Her own make-up is arranged to accentuate the rejuvenated role she has played for years. Women in the audience drop programs to stare and marvel, seeming not to notice, she allows excellent side, front and three-quarters views of the face that seems to defy time's erosive intrusions.

She Ducked Spotlight. And one of the biggest American breweresses is said to have bought up about half a block of mid-Broadway property, planning a 5000-seat beer garden—if and when! Gilda Gray is back around town again, usually quiet since her late illness.... Just why it seems to me funny and incongruous for George Jean Nathan to be gliding gracefully over a dance floor, I can't say. Yet here he was, the other night, with Lillian Gish, of course, as his partner. Speaking of theater-box sitters, as I did a paragraph back, recalls the most embarrassing moment observed in the theater this season. Fannie Hurst was occupying an upper box, into which moved Syd Sillvers for his stooge act.... The spotlight picked him out, but insisted on including Miss Hurst.... The eyes of the audience naturally followed the floodlights as a magnet.... And dodge as she might, Miss Hurst could not completely escape it.... Finally she ducked behind the curtain.—Gilbert Swan.

K. OF C. DECIDE AGAINST BALL

Affair To Be Suspended This Year — Many Unable To Attend.

The annual Knights of Columbus Ball will not be held this year it was decided last night at a meeting of the order in the lodge rooms in the State Theater building. The decision of the order to forgo the social event was due to the inability of many who formerly attended in other years, to respond this year as in the past.

The junior prom this year at High school indicated to a large extent the inability of people in general to respond to social attractions and several plays and entertainments held recently have been poorly attended.

The National Guard Companies have not yet met to decide on the possibility of holding the annual military ball which was revived on the former social scale three years ago after a ten year lapse. The feeling predominates this year that there are many who would like to attend affairs of this kind, yet their neighbors who also attended may not be in a position to go with them this year, resulting in a widespread reluctance on the part of many to enter into any social activities that would cause embarrassment.

GIRLS TO MAKE CLOTHES AS MISSIONARY PROJECT

Members of St. Mary's Girls' Friendly Society Hold Regular Weekly Meeting.

St. Mary's Girls' Friendly society held its regular weekly devotional and business meeting last evening. The social service committee is planning to make clothes for the Fort Valley High and Industrial school in Georgia as its missionary project for the Lenten season.

The probationers group held a meeting last evening with Miss Margaret Stratton in charge. They were given instruction for the admission service at the meeting Sunday evening, February 26. The ticket committee for the turkey supper to be given by the Girls' Friendly society Tuesday evening, February 28 at 6:30, reported tickets selling well. An entertainedment will follow the supper.

West Side Pool Tournament Notes

"Ty" Holland and Stewart Taggart disposed of Eddie Werner and Bing Fraser without much trouble in the West Side pool tournament, the score card giving the former 100 points and the latter 75 points. In the other match played Dave McConkey and Stewart Vennert lost their match to the Bill Brennan and Bert McConkey team but only after a thrilling rally that threatened to dump the favorites. Through the shooting of Brennan his team was enjoying a 9-28 advantage but the underdogs put on a spurt that threw a scare into their opponents and at the half way mark the score showed just two points difference. In the last half of the match the Brennan-McConkey combination managed to keep about two jumps ahead of their opposition until near the century mark when a run of twelve balls by Bill Brennan put the game in the well known satchel for his team.

"Ty" Holland-Stewart Taggart team will play the winner of the game between Billy Schnell-Ralph Russell and Jason Chapman-Barle Bissell. This game has been partly played with Bissell and Chapman having a commanding lead. Bill Brennan and McConkey will meet the Bill Russell-Walter Wilkinson outfit for the privilege of playing in the semi-finals.

Volley Ball Notes
The Tigers won two of the three games played against the Lions last night at the Rec, dropping the first one 15-11 and then taking the next two 10-10 and 16-14, the last game going into an extra period.

The inability of the Wildcats to have sufficient men ready to start the game cause them to lose three games to the Leopards by forfeit. Lineups: Tigers, Noravski, Wiley, Vennert, Waddell, Benson, Lyons, Siemsen, Hansen, McConkey, Werner, Quinn.

The winners at yesterday afternoon's bridge party at the west side Rec were Mrs. Bantley, Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Bissell.

The regular Wednesday night game begins at 8 o'clock tomorrow night.

AUTO STOLEN

Danbury, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Abandoning a sedan bearing a New York license 4V 3992 in Danbury during the night, car thieves drove off in a sedan belonging to Peter McDonough, a Danbury city employe, parked nearby. The New York car's gasoline tank was found to be empty. McDonough's car bore the Connecticut registration EF 151.

HOHENTHAL URGES REVALUATION HERE

Assessor Says Government Costs Must Be Cut To Meet Reduced Income.

Manchester's abnormal growth over the past ten years, during which time it became necessary to shoulder the added burden of a large indebtedness for its major schools, with a steadily shrinking grand list is one of the reasons, and the principal one, for the increasing tax rate of the town, according to an outline given the members of the Men's Friendship Class by Emil L. G. Hohenthal, Jr., member of the Board of Assessors last night in the South Methodist church parlors. Speaking from several large charts, showing the trend of taxation and municipal costs over a twenty year period, Assessor Hohenthal gave his listeners a concrete conception of the methods employed by the Board of Assessors in arriving at a fair assessment on real estate, both town and rural, single homes, apartments and other taxable properties.

School Costs Highest
Over the twenty year period the chart, showing the development of the town, scale of building construction, increase in population, rate of living costs and cost of schools and other municipal expense, the largest increase shown was the cost of schools, out of all proportion to any and all other municipal expense. This cost, Assessor Hohenthal admitted, was due in a large measure to the rapid increase in the number of pupils which rose from about 140 in 1911 in the High school to about 1,200 at the present time.

According to the charts prepared by Assessor Hohenthal, the grand list of 1910 was approximately $12,000,000 on which a 10 mill tax rate was levied. The net cost of the municipal government for that year was $145,738 and the per capita cost to the 13,600 population was $10.68.

In 1920 the town had increased its population 5,000 to 18,600 and a 14 mill tax rate was levied on a net grand list of $25,000,000. In the year period the cost of government rose to $405,000, necessitating a per capita cost of $22.06.

Over a Million
The next ten year period showed the greatest increase in the grand list, over 50 per cent to $33,000,000 and the cost of government soared to over a million dollars. In that year a 16 mill tax was laid and the per capita charge was $65.00.

To reduce the rate of taxation, it will be necessary, first of all, to pare all appropriations as much as possible until the top-heavy debt balance accrued through the purchase of the schools, and the consequent additional costs of interest on school bonds be retired, he said. In the latter part of the last ten year period, the large charity appropriations for local relief has increased the already heavy tax burden.

The speaker admitted that the Board of Assessors was in full sympathy with the taxpayer and recommended a ten per cent flat reduction in the tax on this year's list, but after a conference with the Selectmen and banking officials, the Board submitted to the group, they having pointed out that a flat reduction would only result in an added increase in the mill rate, to no effect, and would tend to decrease the grand list bordering too closely five per cent of the net grand list on which margin the town is gauged for its loans each year.

Would Re-assess
Assessor Hohenthal advocated a re-assessment on taxable properties, beginning this year and to be completed in 1935, to relieve the burdened taxpayer of charges on his tax list which in many instances are excessive considering present values of real estate.

Following the talk Mr. Hohenthal answered the questions of members.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION PLANS TO DISBAND

N. E. L. A. To Give Up Tomorrow After Nearly a Half-Century of Existence.

New York, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The National Electric Light Association will be formally disbanded tomorrow, just three years short of rounding out a half century of existence.

In the later years of its existence, the association, or "Nela" as it became known in the industry, came under scorching fire from several sources for its propaganda and lobbying activities, and several prominent public utility executives have expressed the hope that the industry will gain in public favor through the demise of Nela.

One of the association's important activities which will be carried on by its successor, the newly formed Edison Electric Institute, will be the compilation of the weekly statistics on electric power production throughout the country, a work which has come to assume commanding importance in the weekly barometers of business activity. The Institute, set up along radically different lines, already comprises 87 per cent of the membership of the dying Nela.

A number of utility executives express the hope that the industry's internal efforts at "housecleaning" may avert the imposition of "excessive" external regulation. These executives feel that the power industry should exert every effort to avoid the rigid government regulation which has been imposed upon the railroads, regulation which many railroad executives insist has brought the carriers to their present financial plight.

ABOUT TOWN

St. Mary's Women's auxiliary will serve a baked bean supper at the parish house, Thursday afternoon and evening between the hours of 4 and 7 p. m. The auxiliary a short time ago made its first attempt at catering to the business and church people and served more than 150. They hope to repeat this success Thursday, and in addition to home baked beans and brown bread will serve pickled red cabbage, baked fresh ham, chocolate and white cake and coffee at a moderate price. Mrs. Allen Duckworth is chairman of the supper committee.

Mrs. William Crawford will be in charge of the dining room and decorations which will be significant of St. Valentine's day. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Mrs. E. B. rman of 552 Woodbridge street entertained at her home last evening with a Valentine bridge party. She was assisted by Miss Florence Lewis, Miss Ethyl Lytle and Miss Mae Moriarty. First prize in progressive whist was won by Edna Johnson, the consolation by Miss Marjorie Muldoon. Miss Ethel Brookings won first prize in pivot bridge. During the evening Miss Marion Legg sang several vocal solos and Mrs. Hazel Driggs gave two humorous readings. The proceeds of the party were turned over to the Epworth Circle.

With the rest of the building dark last night the cupola of the new postoffice building was lighted for a time last night. The white lights behind the narrow glass windows produced a sort of lighthouse effect, conspicuous to persons approaching from four directions. It was the first time that the lights have been turned on at night.

The minstrel show which the Married Couples club will present at the Hollister street school Friday evening, February 24, will be given at the Huntington hospital of Vets street, Hartford, Wednesday, February 22. This latter performance will be in the form of a dress rehearsal and will also afford the inmates of the institution an evening's entertainment. Rehearsals are scheduled for Thursday evening at 7:30 and Monday and Tuesday evenings of next week. It is important that everyone in the troupe be on hand at all of the remaining rehearsals.

Employees of the State theater, nineteen strong, climbed into a big sleigh drawn by four horses in front of the theater at the close of last night's performance and went on an old fashioned sleighride. A container of hot coffee went along too. The horses and sleigh are the property of L. T. Wood, the ice manufacturer and constitute a complete old time sleighing party outfit—all but the bells. Mr. Wood said last night that this was the sixth party that had made use of his sleighs since the big snowfall.

The Young People's society, Christian Endeavor, of the Second Congregational church will have a Valentine social this evening at 7:30.

SHOOTING THRU A Woman

It's fun to be fooled —
...it's more fun to KNOW

Like to see through tricks? Then let's look at another... the Illustration in cigarette advertising—called "Cigarettes and Your Throat."

The audience is told that by certain magic processes tobacco can be made so soothing as cough medicine.

EXPLANATION: The easiest cigarette on your throat is the cigarette that is made from the choicest ripe tobaccos. Cheap, raw tobaccos are, as you would naturally expect, harsh in their effects upon the throat.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Camels are as non-irritating as a cigarette can be because Camels use choice, ripe, tobaccos.

And because of the matchless blending of these costlier tobaccos Camels have a rich bouquet and aroma... a cool, delicious flavor.

Keep the air-tight, welded Humidor Pack on your Camels... to assure yourself and your companions a fresh, cool smoke.

HOUSE BODY O. K.'S PRESCRIPTION BILL

Measure Suggested By Medical Association Makes More Liberal Control.

Washington, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The Celler bill to liberalize the prescription of liquor by physicians for medicinal use was approved today by an 11 to 5 vote of the House judiciary committee.

The bill was recommended by the American Medical Association and would put the control of prescription whiskey under regulations agreed upon by the Attorney General and Secretary of the Treasury.

It removes the requirement that physicians must file a statement of the ailment for which he prescribes. It continues to allow the prescription only of spirituous and vinous liquors.

The principal provision of the bill reads: "Subject to regulations, no more liquor shall be prescribed to any person than is necessary to supply his medicinal needs and no prescription shall be filled more than once."

OPEN FORUM

HOW ABOUT THE WOMEN? Editor of The Herald: On March 4th, there is to be a meeting put into effect for the 2nd time. That was the story a few months ago and some one will have to be stuck with it. "Al Smith" called the forgotten man a myth. Something to that, or he would not have said it. It is the fact that the majority feels about that great man, and we hold on with the majority. However, this subject is on the forgotten woman, the wife of the unemployed man, and that's not a myth, but a fact right here in town. Editorials, and letters have been written in regard to a club or meeting place for the unemployed man. Not a bad idea, and the woman who wrote to state that she would give her time freely for such a cause should be listed at the top of the list of "Who's Who" in Manchester. Having graduated from the unemployed and now working under the relief association, the writer made a management of our home. The majority were not interested. They wanted work, or the home, Main street was no heaven without a nickel in the pocket. Men are that way. But she added, why not a meeting place for the wife? She needs recreation of some sort, after a daily grind in the care of children, the home, making apologies to the many who would call with a statement, stamp, and FAST DUE, cooking, mending, cleaning, scrubbing, baking, sixteen hours, more if necessary. Why, they add, that pick and shovel is a heap of play in comparison to the management of our home. The man who said, "Where men are men" had that group in mind. Manchester has two recreation buildings. Let's borrow a part of one and give it to the wives of the unemployed, one or two nights a week. It's one way of avoiding nervous breakdowns, becoming as popular as the grip. After all that is not asking for much, and what a break for Manchester's forgotten women. Signed—One Who is Interested.

hawal was abducted and slain. Kelley vigorously prosecuted the defendants in the Kahahawai slaying case. Clarence Darrow was chief defense counsel. Kelley, in asking dismissal of the charges, submitted a brief in which he said an analysis revealed several weaknesses in the prosecution's case against the four remaining defendants. He noted as "weaknesses" the method used in obtaining identification of the defendants by Mrs. Massie; "lack of medical, physical and material evidence" of the alleged criminal assault; and lack of evidence to overcome the alleged attackers' alibi. The attack on Mrs. Massie occurred the night of September 9, 1931, after she had left a party at the Alawai Inn and gone for a walk along a lonely road nearby.

IMPORTANT SELECTMEN'S MEETING THIS EVENING

Garbage Disposal, Cheney Utilities Purchase, School Appraisal, Insurance on Dock, et.

The regular meeting of the Board of Selectmen will be held this evening at 7 o'clock in the Municipal building. Bids on garbage disposal, on which the time limit for submission expires at 4 o'clock today, will be opened and read by the Board this evening.

A complete report on the proposed plan of purchasing the Cheney Brothers utilities will be made by the special committee consisting of Chairman Wells A. Strickland, Secretary George E. Keith, Sherwood G. Bowers and Aaron Cook. The committee has held several meetings in consideration of the proposal during the past weeks and will give a detailed report tonight.

A report on the plan of insurance coverage for town buildings and contents and motor vehicles will be given by the committee in charge of that plan this evening. A partial report given the committee by Bliss & Cole, appraisers of the school properties, has enabled the committee to advance the plan of proposed blanket insurance to a somewhat concrete stage. It is expected that a considerable saving will result through the issuance of group policies on municipally-owned properties if enacted.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES AT AGE OF 97

Nelson L. Stowe, of Milford, was in 34 battles and skirmishes—Saw Lee's Surrender. Milford, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Nelson L. Stowe, commander of the Grand Army Post here, and with his brother Nathan, the last two survivors of the Civil War here, died at Milford hospital yesterday. He would have been 97 years old May 8. His brother is 88. Nelson Stowe was born here. He enlisted in Hartford as musician with Company B, 14th Connecticut Volunteers in August, 1862, and served until the end of the war. He was in 34 battles and skirmishes including Gettysburg, and was present at the surrender of General Lee. Stowe voted twice for Abraham Lincoln for the presidency. He had been blind for the last eight years. Two years ago when the commander of the G. A. P. died, a delegation of sons of veterans went to his home and installed him as commander and his brother Nathan, as vice commander. Stowe was a member of the Masonic Order and his lodge will conduct the funeral service Wednesday afternoon.

CONNECTICUT EXPORTS

Washington, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Connecticut exports were valued at $11,851,068 in the first nine months of 1932 as compared with $19,575,444 in the corresponding period of 1931. The Commerce Department in announcing the totals today said it exports 21,821 typewriters worth $1,190,558 as compared with 29,393 worth $1,831,737 in the 1931 period. Exports of sewing thread amounted to 419,870 pounds, valued at $382,525, compared with 413,989 pounds, worth $435,702. Sewing machines for factory and industrial use numbered 6,648, worth $376,018, as compared with 8,051 machines, worth $383,914 in 1931. The department said other exports from Connecticut during 1932 were airplanes and parts, rubber footwear, hats and caps, cutlery, watches, clocks, and time measuring devices, flash light cases, electrical machinery, ball and roller bearings, printing and bookbinding machinery and musical instruments.

Put more SUNSHINE days on your calendar

How many days in the month do you feel your best? You can add to these sunshine days by simply obeying nature's laws. The first of these laws is regular elimination. Avoid common constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help aid regularity. ALL-BRAN also contains twice the iron of an equal weight of beef liver. The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much more pleasant than pills and drugs—so often habit-forming. Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. Directions on the red and green packages. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Chicago—A Chicago restaurant man has decided to do something for the literary world. He announced through the Writers' Guild that he would advance meals against the sale of promising manuscripts of writers. His motto: "Hungry to be read and hungry to be fed."

Racine, Wis.—John Pedersen was out of a job, but not out of resourcefulness. So he and his wife went to work with their capital of 45 cents making oil cloth flowers. That was four years ago. Now there are 14 girls at work for Pedersen and his business is estimated at $6,000 a month. He was asked what inspired his venture. "I guess," he said, "it was because we were hungry."

Chicago—Henry Kus is the kind of a man who believes every good citizen should get out and shovel the snow off the sidewalk. A street car crew protested he was shoveling his snow on their tracks, but he kept on with his work. A policeman appeared. Kus was still shoveling, but stopped long enough, the police said, to strike the officer with his shovel, sending him to a hospital. The police then sent out a whole squad. Kus was still shoveling.

ELECTRIC CO. WITNESS IN RATE CASE DEAD

William H. Blood Succumbs To Heart Attack At His Home in Walloway, Mass.

William H. Blood, vice president of the Stone & Webster Engineering Corporation of Boston, who personally made the appeals of property for the Manchester Electric Company in its recent rate case, died of a heart attack early yesterday morning in Walloway, Mass. He was 67 years old and was born in Charlestown, Mass. Mr. Blood played a prominent part as a witness for the Electric Company when the case was heard by the Public Utilities Commission last September. He was a former president of the National Electric Light Association and of the Electric Association of America, a Fellow of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, a member of the American Gas Association and formerly a member of the faculty of the Graduate School of Business Administration of Harvard. He was graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1888 and had been affiliated with Stone & Webster for the past thirty-eight years.

DOG SAVES FAMILY

West Haven, Feb. 14.—(AP)—A pet dog "Tootsie" probably saved the lives of George Pili and his family early today when fire broke out in their home in Highland street. The dog jumped on the bed of Sylvia, 12, and awakened her, and she, in turn, called her parents. They with Sylvia and Catherine, 10, escaped in night attire by way of the back door. The cause was blamed to the ground. Pili has been out of work for two months and his wife had been ill in bed a month. The loss was estimated by Pili at about $3,000.

400 BLACK BEARS AT CENTER SPRINGS POOD

Prospects For This Evening Not Good But Weather May Change. The first trial night's shooting of the pood was held at Center Springs Park pond that evening with a crowd of about 400 in attendance; according to Francis Walleit, pood-custodian. The prospects of another period of shooting tonight were none too good this noon due to the mild weather and light morning rain. However, Mr. Walleit said he had hopes that the surface of the pood might be suitable for shooting by evening. Last night's shooting had but little moonlight.

KOPPERS CONNECTICUT COKE 1450

SPOTLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY
SHELLA SHAYNE, fashion designer, returned to marry DICK STANLEY, son of wealthy parents, who is in New York trying to learn to write plays. Shella's idea of marriage is a cozy little home far from Broadway. Although she has spent most of her life on the stage she would be glad to leave the theater.

On a road show tour she meets JERRY WYMAN, Jerry is attentive and Shella falls in love with him. She thinks he is a hard working young man with little money and does not know his father owns the factory where Jerry works. Soon his affection seems to cool and he writes infrequently.

Shella returns to New York a few months later joins another road company, this time as the featured principal. They play in Jerry's home town and she has no word from him until the tour ends and the company returns to New York. There she learns from her friend, JAPPY, a chorus girl, that Jerry has married a girl in his home town.

Shella is too unhappy to look for another job until her money is almost gone. Then she is hired as a dancer in a night club. Her two wifely friends are out of work again. FREDDY LANE sends her to see HENRI, fashionable designer, in the hope that she can get a job as a model.

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Shella found Henri in one of his most tempestuous moods. Morning business the designer that the models were not one of them pleased him. Their frocks did not look right. There were bills to be paid and other bills—those owed to Henri—long over due. An order of silk had not been delivered.

Those models! Henri was shouting that every one of them were fired just as Shella arrived on the scene. The girls—all of them attractive and smart—were looking—accepted this announcement with marked unconcern. Not one of them, standing about like so many lovely goddesses, gave as much as a sign that they had heard their names called.

It was an old story. Business was not really bad, and they knew it. Henri lost his temper, discharged every one and immediately forgot about it every day. But it was not an old story to Shella and she stood frightened and uncertain what to do until the little Frenchman, pudgy and red in the face from screaming, suddenly wheeled and faced her.

"Mr. Lane sent me," she said timidly.

"Mr. Lane sent you?" Henri shouted, flapping his arms like a frantic hen. "Mr. Lane sent you? How do I pay your salary? How do I teach you to walk, to stand? How do I know you can wear my gowns? How do I know that?"

She stood still under the force of the tirade. It was a shock until she saw one of the mannequins, a girl clad in a pale yellow chiffon evening gown, gazing at her. Their eyes met and the other girl, finding so that the other could not see, winked encouragingly.

"You girls get into the dressing room," Henri ordered. Then he turned a suddenly beamed countenance to Shella.

"If Mr. Lane says you will do I suppose you will. I need a model," he grumbled. "Go into the dressing room and get ready. I'll see what you look like." He raised his voice sharply. "Gordon, put number 17 on this girl. Hurry!"

Gordon was a plump, black-garbed woman whom Shella was to know later as a real friend. It was her duty to see that the models appeared in the lovely, costly creations Henri designed at exactly the moment they were wanted, her duty to see that the gowns were always in perfect order, hung away after a wearing. She kept the girls quiet, concealed their squabbles, found ways to excuse a tardiness or a broken rule with calm diplomacy that would have Henri himself in the knowledge of Henri himself if he had known about it. Occasionally Gordon had designed gowns which took the most exacting customers by storm.

The older woman nodded curtly to Shella and led the way to the dressing room. It was bare indeed, compared with the outer salon which was rich with smart modernistic furniture, thick carpets, priceless oriental rugs and smaller decorations representing a fortune.

The girls, divesting themselves of their finery, stood about in delicate underthings, chatting cooly. To watch them no one could have dreamed that they had been the objects of Henri's wrath so recently. Two of them, swinging themselves to a table, were lighting cigarettes. The girl in pale pink stopped out of the flock and passed it over the back of a chair, then stood before the mirror regarding the line of her red gold hair with a speculative frown. Another was redressing her lips sensitively. The fifth sat on a low bench and stared casually, then smiled in welcome at Shella.

How You May Look Prettier

New, wonderful MELLO-GLO face powder hides tiny lines and wrinkles, reproduces the fresh, healthy bloom of youth. No shine, no nose stays on longer, prevents large pores. Spreads smoothly without that "pasty" flaky look. No irritation because a new French process makes it the purest of all face powders. Buy MELLO-GLO today, 50c and $1.00. Tax free.

The girl with the red hair was hardly more than 18. "Did the old man scare you to death?" she asked.

"Never you mind the old man," Gordon interrupted with vigor. "It's time you girls were getting into those tailcoats. Now don't keep me waiting!"

There were murmured protests but with one accord the mannequins began getting into the costumes. "It's a wonder you couldn't stand on a sheet, Flo," Gordon continued. Busting about, handing out this and that frock, Gordon finally came to Shella. Her practiced eye ran up and down the graceful figure, indicating more approval than her lips would ever voice. The frock Shella was wearing did not, however, seem to please her.

"Take it off," she said shortly and Shella was glad she had worn her best combination.

"What's she going to wear, Gordon?" asked one of the girls. "A bathing suit?"

There was a sudden sally of laughter at this, instantly quelled by Gordon in a sharp command. Evidently the shaming up had not done it. Shella decided that she would ask about it later.

"Number 17, Rosie!" Gordon called. "Turn around now, child." This last was to Shella. "You wear your hair well."

And by the time it all settled, spring will be here and we shall walk through the cemeteries and see hundreds of new little mounds, or through hospitals and see dozens of small cots and say, "It was all so sad. Who was to blame? The government?"

I get so sick of hearing the individual responsibilities of people placed on the government. I could bludgeon the next man or woman who utters it.

Government? Well, some things are the fault of the government. Perhaps hard times, when it comes to feeding children and keeping them warm, to blame welfare societies, community agencies, or government? No, no. And the rich! Some people shrug and whine, "Leave it to the rich!" I am going to put in one good word for the rich. If it were not for them we wouldn't give up a coat or a pair of shoes because "the might need it sometime."

Everyone Can Help

The culpable person in this situation is the person who won't do anything for movie, or a new hat, or a gallon of gasoline, or a cocoonant cake or a pack of cigarettes to chip in half a dollar or a dollar or five to his nearest welfare agency. Or he won't give up a coat or a pair of shoes because "the might need it sometime."

A moment later Shella stood before Henri. She moved across the room to the mirror, turned and walked back again. Henri nodded.

"You'll do," he said. "The salary is $50 a week. Gordon, save her put on Number 12 and let me see her."

The other girls listening showed their surprise. Fifty dollars for a beginner! It meant that instead of displaying gowns, appearing and disappearing as different costumes were requested, Shella would mingle with the customers. She would appear to be another shopper, sipping tea if it was served, displaying gowns, appearing and disappearing as different costumes were requested, Shella would mingle with the customers. She would appear to be another shopper, sipping tea if it was served, displaying gowns, appearing and disappearing as different costumes were requested, Shella would mingle with the customers.

The prospect alarmed Shella. It was welcome news, indeed, that she was to earn $50 a week but when Gordon explained what was to be expected of her she doubted her ability.

"Customers would think her another patron, like themselves, and hurry to inquire secretly of Henri what was the price of her wrap or frock, whether it could be duplicated."

"But I don't know anything about modeling!" the girl protested.

"Neither do our clients. They'll think you are one of themselves." In another five minutes Shella was dressed and ready. "You'll do all right. It's easy, the red-haired girl reassured her.

Shella stepped again into the soft glow of the outer salon. She hesitated, then moved on. As she did so her eyes fell on a familiar figure directly across the room.

Some cities are running classes in keeping up the morale of the unemployed.

I know of no better way to help one's morale than a bit of good grooming.

If you happen to be out of work, or have been out so low that at times you almost feel it would be better to have leisure for nothing a week, don't let yourself get slack in grooming.

Never did you need the relaxing warm bath at night more. Never did you need the cold morning shower with exhilarating rubdown afterwards. Never did you need to brush your hair more carefully or fix it more painstakingly. And never was it so important as now to get your makeup on just right and keep it in order.

Beauty specialists ever let their zeal lead to exaggerated statements about the actual health value of your skin such and such creams and lotions will bring, certainly they never can overestimate the psychological effect such grooming has.

It's much easier, of course, to care how you look when you're the cynosure of eyes, the life of the party or a successful business woman. But it is even more important to look your very, very best if you are just hanging on by your teeth this winter.

One woman I know has not bought a single bit of wearing apparel this winter. She is sending her daughter through school, at terrific strain on her purse strings. Yet she never looked tired and talked for care. When I told her so, she smiled and said, "Well, I spend the amount of time on personal grooming that I would spend if I had the money to go shopping and buying the new things I really need. To my surprise, I don't mind wearing old things half so much when my skin is massaged well, and my hair is groomed. I do my nails, I wash my face carefully, and I would think I was a debutante. I'm so careful about the way I apply makeup."

"That woman can be a shining example to all of us!"

Farmers are having a tough time, but there are fewer lines of distress. No one seems to care if 3-cent hogs run all over a field of 35-cent corn.

I have steadily discouraged our people in the field from talking about what is the public opinion (on prohibition) or what the newspapers are saying. I think it introduces a false element in my thinking.

—Amos W. Woodcock, head of the U. S. Prohibition Bureau.

You can take birth rate statistics and show that apparently at some time in the future there will be no babies born, and that after a while there will be only negative babies.

GO BACK TO GOLD

HOOVER WORLD PLEA

the road leading to the early re-establishment of the gold standard. Then and then only can the abnormal barriers to trade, it quotes the preference, the discriminatory agreements and tariffs which exceed the differences in costs of production between nations be removed. uniform trade privileges among all nations be re-established and the threat of economic war averted."

On the international debts, he said:

"We are asked for sacrifices because of ineptness to pay. We should have tangible compensations in restoration of our proportion of their (foreign nations) agricultural and other imports."

The President said the nation was at the "fork of three roads. The first, which he indicated he preferred, is the highway of international cooperation, removing the obstructions to world consumption and higher prices.

The second, which he indicated was necessary if the first road is closed, is to try "our high degree of national self-containment, to increase our tariffs, to create quotas and discriminations and to engage in definite methods" of curtailment of production.

The Third Road

He said "the third road is that we inflate our currency, consequently abandon the gold standard, and with our depreciated currency attempt to enter a world economic war, with the certainty that it leads to complete destruction, both at home and abroad."

A mass ovation from the audience greeted President Hoover when he appeared at the Waldorf-Astoria for the dinner. Waves of applause and cheering swept through the standing audience as he stood in front of an American flag in the bright spotlights. The dinner-coated through frequently interrupted his address to applaud.

Once he declared that the Republican Party "will be recalled" to power.

At another point he departed from his prepared address to declare that re-establishment of the gold standard among important nations is the solution of our farmers' difficulty.

Closely guarded by Secret Service men and police, the President and his party started back to Washington early today.

All-Burnsides "Shooting Circus" Play Here Tonight

OLD TIMERS MEET IN RETURN BATTLE AT HARDWARE CITY Local Ex-Stars and New Britain Renew Feud Saturday At Stanley Arena In Doubleheader Bill.

Manchester's Old Timers return to the basketball court Saturday night at New Britain, meeting the Old Timers of the Hardware City in a return game there. The locals were defeated here by a score of 34 to 17, but an upset may occur when Coach Jerry Fay sends the former cage luminaries into the Stanley Arena Saturday.

MECHANICS RESUME COURT ENDEAVORS

Play Hartford Trade Tomorrow Afternoon After Week's Layoff.

Manchester Trade school resumes its basketball schedule tomorrow afternoon after a week's layoff, traveling to Hartford to meet Hartford Trade in a return game at 3:30 o'clock, this game being the outstanding contest on the local mechanics schedule, and it should be a nip and tuck affair from start to finish.

Hartford, boasting one of its best quintets in many years, has mopped up virtually all of its opponents and topped Manchester in a fast encounter at the School street Rec in the local third game of the season, winning 27 to 22.

Basketball RIOT ALMOST FOLLOWS GAME

Saturday evening at the "Y" the Wapping Uncas took the Mers Fillers team into camp by a 26-25 score. Holding a 19-5 lead at half time the Fillers were too tired to keep up the fast pace which they set for themselves, while the Uncas kept scoring frequently, until the score was 24 all with but a minute to play. Thirty-five seconds later, Katakavek sunk a foul try to put the Fillers ahead 25-24. The bids during the remaining 20 seconds exchanged hands twice, during which time Varrick had 2 chances to put the game on ice with sucker shots but twice failed.

ST. JAMES ALL STARS WIN

The St. James All Stars defeated the Barnard School at St. James School Hall Friday night 29-27. The score was very close until the final minutes. Then out of a scramble play came McCann, dribbling down to floor to score the winning basket. McCann and Squatrito were best for St. James, while Guthrie was best for the Barnard.

CORBETT'S 1ST BIG MATCH WAS GRUDGE FIGHT—AND HE WON

Gentleman Jim Had Five Great Bouts, A Total of 147 Rounds; Beat Choyanski in 28 Bloody Rounds.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of five articles in which the five greatest battles of James J. Corbett are recalled. By BILL BRAUCHER, NEA Service Sports Editor. New York, Feb. 14.—Gentleman Jim Corbett had five great fights. Oh, of course there were a few thrown in between, such as a six-rounder with Jake Kilrain, three rounds with Charlie Mitchell, and four and nine-rounder battles with berrell-cheated old Tom Sharkey.

Strangely, Corbett always maintained that his 21-round bout with John L. who was deemed unbeatable before he met Corbett, was his easiest. Those bloody 28 rounds on the barge against Joe Choyanski remained deeply in Jim's memory through more than 40 years.

Finally the bout was arranged for $10,000, winner take all, the scene to be a barn loft in San Anselmo, across the Golden Gate from San Francisco, in Choyanski's corner were Nat Goodwin, Jack Dempsey (the Nonpareil), and Eddie Gransy, who in later years was to become a great referee.

That was the morning of June 5, 1899, but there were 1000 bill around at prize fights, was one before the fight. Foster Ase, then of Corbett's seconds, handed Jim a "grand" note, and told him to offer to bet with Choyanski, the plan intended to get Joe's goat.

Then for three rounds Corbett, recovering, literally slashed Choyanski's face to ribbons. Second hand to the trim of the shredded flesh with scissors. Joe was weakening, but the gamemaster refused to let Eddie Gransy throw in the sponge.

But Corbett had to walk with a cane for weeks because of the terrific rib blasting he took. NEXT: Corbett, the Rising Star, runs into trouble with Peter Jackson.

Colored Giants Favored To Beat Bearded Wonders

Stage Is Set For Biggest Attraction of Season At Armory Tomorrow Night; Guards Meet Sport Centers in First Game At 7:30.

One of the largest crowds to witness an indoor sports event in Manchester is anticipated tomorrow night, when the outstanding doubleheader attraction of the season will be staged at the State Armory, opening with a game between the National Guards and the Sport Centers of Hartford at 7:30 o'clock, with the Guards heavy favorites to win the Philadelphia Colored Giants and the House of David at 9 o'clock.

The Sport Centers are an up and coming young team and the first game should be fast and interesting, with the Guards heavy favorites to come through victorious. A thrilling, exciting tussle seems in store in the main encounter, pitting together as it does two of the leading professional colored men in the country.

INTEREST CENTERS ON LEADING TRIO

Detroit, New York and Boston Oppose Canadian Sex-tets Tonight.

New York, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Once again National Hockey League interest centers tonight on the Detroit Red Wings, New York Rangers and Boston Bruins, now locked in a terrific dog-fight for the American section leadership.

All three swing into action against Canada's opponents, the Rangers and Detroit invading Canada to give battle respectively to the Ottawa Senators and Montreal Canadiens, while Boston stays at home to repel an attack of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Neither the Rangers nor Boston, however, have much hope of gaining any ground on the Red Wings tonight. Since the Montreal Maroons stopped one long Detroit winning streak on January 28, the Red Wings have gone unbeaten in five games and the Canadians hardly appear equal to the task of stopping them now.

The Rangers also hold the "Indian sign" on Ottawa, beating the Senators twice and tying them twice in four games. The last time the Rangers defeated the Canadian capital they ran up the biggest score of the season, 9-2.

PRIZE RING LURED ERNIE SCHAAF IN EARLY CHILDHOOD

Blood Viking Began Ill-Fated Fight Career At Age of 15, When He Met Sharkey in Navy Bout.

By BILL KING Associated Press Sports Writer. Boston, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Lured by the prize ring, which lured him to his death, was first heard of by Ernie SchAAF early in his childhood at Elizabeth, N. J., where the blond Viking became the first born of the seven children of Ernest and Lucia SchAAF on September 27, 1909.

Almost as soon as he was old enough to talk, this latest victim of the boxing arena, was inoculated with the fighting germ, Elizabeth SchAAF's early years, was in fact over the proceeds of two other native sons, Mickey Walker and George Ward, and their success inspired most of the youngsters of that city.

Lured even at birth, when he weighed about 12 pounds, SchAAF was better-able to emulate these Elizabeth heroes than any of his playmates and so eager was he to go so that he quit school at the age of 15, which was 10 years ago and obtained employment in a factory near his home.

This sort of toil, however, became tiresome to SchAAF, and when he was 15 quit school and went to Navy recruiting office. His large and muscular frame, plus his rather matured face with its strong aggressive chin, substantiated Ernie's false claims that he was inside the Navy's list and he was signed on.

SchAAF was assigned to the U. S. Navy yard, and even before the white braid on his first uniform he had started his fighting career. The Deaver, at the time, had a boxing idol known then as "Battling Siki," but now as Jack Sharkey, heavyweight champion and co-manager of the recruit lost no time participating in the Denver's boxing activities and his size alone was enough to bring about a bout with "Siki" during which the 15-year-old youngster won a soundly shipmate. Shortly after that incident "Battling Siki" made his professional debut in Boston as Jack Sharkey, and obtained his release from the Navy.

"You've got plenty of courage," "Siki" told SchAAF after their bout, "but you need more experience." SchAAF soon overcame that shortage. One of the chief petty officers of the Denver was Phil Schlossberg, the old time heavyweight. The latter took an interest in SchAAF, taught him all the tricks of the game and started him on his fighting career.

With Schlossberg guiding him, SchAAF won the 175-pound title in the Metropolitan championships in New York, the all-service championship and the scouting feat title and several international amateur contests during 1925. When he made his first professional start he knocked out Jack Gagnon in Boston.

International League Cleveland at Windsor. Syracuse at Buffalo. Canadian-American League New Haven at Quebec. American Association St. Louis at Kansas City.

Several weeks ago SchAAF was seized with influenza while training for the Carnera bout. He was confined to St. Elizabeth's hospital in Boston for several days and was in a weakened condition when he was released. He stubbornly refused advice to have this match called off or postponed, and the dauntless spirit that brought him to his spectacular heights in the end led him to his death. Probably the friend that knew SchAAF better than any of the others was his old shipmate, Schlossberg, who once said of him:

"SchAAF only has one fault as a boxer. He is too game. He takes too many unnecessary punches. He is too confident that nobody can hurt him." But someone did. And how he's dead.

Death Was Easier New York, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Shortly before Ernie SchAAF, heavyweight fighter, died this morning, his manager, Johnny Buckley, who had never left the hospital since he was taken there, said, with a catch in his voice:

"If he's going to be paralyzed for the rest of his life or maimed, I'd rather see him go now. He's too big and fine a kid to have to go through life with anything wrong with him."

Desired To Be Priest New York, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Friends said that the burning ambition of Ernie SchAAF, who died today as the result of a fight with Primo Carnera, was to enter the priesthood.

He was an extremely devout Catholic, they said, and was a close friend of the Father Steuber of Boston, who administered the last rites when he was taken from Madison Square Garden to Polyclinic hospital Friday night.

REC FIVE HOPES TO UPSET SPECTACULAR POP SHOT ARTISTS

Cotter To Play With Locals Instead of Visitors; Sensational Brand of Basketball Is Promised Fans.

The highly publicized "shooting circus" known as the All-Burnsides, one of the best quintets in this section of the state, comes to town tonight to display their spectacular and sensational shooting ability against the Rec Five at the School street Rec. The fast stepping Rangers will meet the St. Mary's Juniors in the preliminary at 7:45 o'clock. The main attraction is scheduled for 8:45.

Manager Ben Clune has announced that Jim Cotter, who has appeared with both the Recs and All-Burnsides this season, will play with the Recs. This should prove a decided advantage to the locals as Cotter is one of the best defensive players in the state.

At guards, the Burnsides will have Eddie Nichols and Van Powell, who besides being stellar defensive players, are also regarded as scoring threats. This combination is capable of putting on the kind of basketball display that furnishes thrills galore and a large crowd is expected to be on hand.

The visitors will undoubtedly be accompanied by a goodly number of fans and all in all it should be an interesting evening. Last Friday night the Burnsides lost a close, hair-raising encounter to the Rosary, a Springfield and the fans almost mobbed the referee at the end of the game, which shows how seriously they take their "basketball" "over east."

The Recs will have their regular lineup with Cotter, Campion and Hewett on hand also. Manager Clune will select his starting lineup from Sturgeon, Foss, Dowd, Kovis, Falkowski, Campbell and Saimonds and the three aforementioned players.

The Recs were beaten Saturday night in a hard-fought game at Whiteville, Mass., but expect to function more smoothly on their home floor. That the Recs are able to play a high calibre type of basketball is indicated by their 28-27 triumph over the sixing, Coach Bear of New London recently. It will be a feather in the locals' cap if they can upset the shooting circus tonight and it doesn't look at all impossible.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

TRIANGLE DEBATING TEAM IS SELECTED

Principal Quimby Names Those Who Will Argue In "Three M" League.

It was announced today by Principal C. P. Quimby, coach of the Debating team, that he was ready to make known the names of the eight people who he intends to include in the Triangular Debate.

The cashing of individual checks, however, presented a problem. Banks in the Canadian border cities announced today that they would accept checks on Michigan banks only for collection during the eight-day holiday, and Detroit business houses said they had not definitely determined their policies.

The Detroit stock exchange was closed, and meanwhile a number of local brokers were accepting selling orders to be made on exchanges outside Detroit, providing the customer had stock to deliver or on account to back the transaction.

Cashier companies reported they would continue milk deliveries at least temporarily. They said, however, they did not know how farmers "will get paid for their milk, if they can't cash checks."

The problem of groceries remained to be solved, as officials of the larger concerns called conferences as soon as their stores opened this morning. Some of them reported they were working on a system of food coupon books with industrial companies.

"We can't extend unlimited credit," said one official of a grocery concern. "There are no large amounts of money in our stores, so we can't cash checks."

Officials pointed out the dangers of large concerns would incur in leaving their receipts on the premises, and said they were working on a plan to allow such money to be placed in safekeeping in banks without trying it up. City officials said police protection in Detroit would be at full strength.

In Detroit, citizens took the closing of all the banks in the main street with good humor. The dramatic suddenness of the program, however, took them by surprise, but early morning extras quickly informed workers of the situation. The general feeling in the comment on street corners, and in office buildings was expressed in the oft-repeated declaration that "we're all in the same boat, now, and we'll have to make the best of it."

A total of 420 state banks, 14 trust companies, and more than 100 National banks are affected by Governor Comstock's proclamation.

About $500,000,000 deposits are in banks outside Detroit, while $680,523,979 is in deposit in Detroit banks, and $71,567,808 in trust deposits.

Worthy Advisor Edwin Elliott appointed the following Rainbow girls to serve fruit punch Friday evening at the Masonic Ball in the Borden Armory. Ernestine and Marion Montie, May Smith, Dorothy Nelson, Pearl Schendel, Ethel and Rhoda Mohr, Catherine Perrett and Dora Sharp. Punch bowls will be placed in each corner of the ballroom floor. This group of girls will also assist early in the evening in registering the large number of women expected at the ball.

4-H CLUBS COMBINE FOR SLEIGH RIDE

Enjoy Ride Around Outskirts and Then Get Hot Coffee and Doughnuts—35 Attend.

The combined 4-H clubs enjoyed a sleigh ride last night. They gathered at the home of Jack Lipp on Keeney street and in a bob sled, furnished by Mr. Lipp, who also drove the party of thirty-five, started out on their trip. They did not have the string of bells around the horses' heads that jingled as they rode, but what was missing through lack of bells the party made up in song and general noise making. They found it a tony tudy traveling on the main roads to the ride was confined to the outskirts of the town. They started at 8 o'clock and arrived back at Mr. Lipp's home at 11 o'clock where Mrs. Lipp was waiting for them with an ample supply of hot coffee and doughnuts.

"THE CHINTZ COTTAGE"

Case's orchestra has been engaged to play between the acts of the three-act comedy, "The Chintz Cottage," which Memorial Lodge, Knights of Pythias, and Memorial Temple, Pythian Sisters, will present Friday evening at Whitton Memorial hall. The entertainment is given jointly by the two lodges and all profits will be turned over to the Manchester Emergency Employment Association, which has endorsed the affair.

The cast includes Mrs. Helen Henry, Mrs. Mabel Holmes, Mrs. Herbert Alley, All but Mrs. Alley are members of the Community Players. Mrs. Henry is directing the cast and those who have attended the rehearsals say it is sure to please.

Tickets may be exchanged at Kemp's and the Y. M. C. A. for reserved seats at no extra cost.

PETITION DENIED

Hartford, Feb. 14-(AP)—The petition of John Anderson of Waterbury, for release from state prison where he is serving from 20 to 25 years on a charge of robbery with violence, was denied by Judge Newhall in Superior Court this morning.

OLDEST RESIDENT DIES

Derby, Feb. 14-(AP)—Sidney M. Hart, Derby's oldest citizen, died at noon today. He was 89 years old Jan. 31 and was taken ill on that day, his condition becoming gradually worse. Mr. Hart was a fireman on Long Island Sound steamers before the Civil War and during the war attempted to enlist in the Navy but was rejected. Charles Hart, merchant tailor of this city is among survivors.

"Now that the mail plane's sailed away with all the valentines, let's play with scraps that are left in the house," said Duncy, with a grin.

"We'll make some things all of our own. Gee, I can paste one up here. The other fellow's back in the house and promptly scampered in."

The valentine man said, "Well, boys, do what you wish. Make lots of noise. While you are having fun, I'm going to make a little lunch."

"You helped me with my work, you see, and so I think it's up to me to pay you back, and eating is a very happy thing."

"As soon as he was alone, he took a long look at the valentine man's face. It was long until they spoke, Duncy so he'd see the man. He gazed upon the man and then he laughed and said, 'Gee, you're a good-looking fellow.'"

The valentine man said to his friend, "I'm the best fellow in the town."

SENSE AND NONSENSE

She's Never Had a Valentine

1 She'd never had a valentine, she told me so herself, while looking at the pretty ones displayed along the shelf.

2 And as to please the winsome maid my heart was well inclined, I bade her fix her choice on me exactly to her mind.

3 I told her that Saint Valentine would bring it to her door, and she must kiss him heartily a dozen times or more.

4 She gave consent with charming grace, nor made the least complaint at treating so familiarly this amiable saint.

5 And when the day came 'round I took the valentine myself, that I might give her sweet surprise, and watch the little elf.

6 With ready kisses on her lips she met me in the hall, and said—"You're only Papa! You ain't no saint at all!"

Like misdirected valentines, some people's hearts seem to be in the wrong places.

Traffic Policeman: Hey! You can't turn this corner! Sweet Young Thing: You just make all those other cars get out of my way and I'll show you.

Al—I tell you, no one can fool my wife!
Jo—Then how did you get her?

A little miss of four came tearfully to her mother one morning with the complaint: "How can I button my dress when the button is in the back and I'm in the front?"

He—I'll bet when you have to do your own washing you wish you had married some other man.
She—Yes, I wish I'd married Mahatma Gandhi.

VALENTINE SEEKERS: The nation succumbs to nothing so quickly as a popular song... A vivid imagination is often more dangerous than a little learning... Some folks are naturally bright; others are merely "lit up"... Many people owe their goodness to the fact that they have never been tempted... No one has ever yet been able to make both ends meet by stretching the imagination...

Home is where the bills come... You don't have to collect bills; they just accumulate... Even if you don't get anywhere, it's a satisfaction to know you did your best... Nobody is perfect—not even you... Don't break into a house like a lion or you may go out like a lamb chop... It has been said, "war is hell," what is paying for it?... The wisest man yields something to custom, but he doesn't yield too much... Some people make change as though they hated to let go of the money.

It is strange that people who never have the time to embark upon charitable or other good works always manage to squeeze in the odd bridge game or two every week if not daily.

Hitch-Hiker (at door)—Lady, I really do not know where my next meal is coming from.
Woman—Well, this is no information bureau.

Between a wife running around to bridge parties and the husband belonging to several clubs, it looks as if most modern marriages are conducted on the club plan.

He—Can you make cakes like your mother used to?
She—Yes, if you can put up with the indignation father used to have.

The only problem confronting a woman when she entertains her bridge club is getting something to put under the mayonnaise.
