WATER SYSTEM WORTH MILLION CHAMBER TOLD

Special Committee Recommends Support of Purchase of Cheney Water and Sewer Plant.

A recommendation that the town of Manchester purchase the South Manchester Water Company and take over the physical assets of the South Manchester Sanitary and Sewer district at a total cost of just under a million dollars was made to the Chamber of Commerce board of control yesterday afternoon by the special committee investigating the advisability of the purchase. The Chamber of Commerce directors took no action on the special committee's report deciding to present it first to the Board of Selectmen so that the board's special committee can peruse it and take it for what it is worth.

May Be Errors
E. J. McCabe, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce presented the report to the Selectmen at their regular monthly meeting last night. There was misunderstanding at first at the advisability of publishing the committee report, members of the Board of Selectmen feeling that the townspeople might possibly be misled if there were any errors in the Chamber of Commerce committee's calculations or if the committee's proposal on financing were based on incorrect information.

Can Be Corrected Later
However, today members of the Chamber of Commerce board of control and special committee on the purchase insisted that the report had been made in good faith and as a means of presenting the entire matter before the public. The report should be published, it was the consensus of Chamber members that, right or wrong, the report has been made following considerable study of the proposition and any omissions can be corrected in the press later.

IDLE TAKE OVER COUNTY BUILDING

Two Thousand Men, Women and Children Refuse to Leave—Demand Food.

Seattle, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Two thousand singing, fasting unemployed—men, women and children—took sleeping quarters for the night in the County-City building and vowed they would not leave until King county commissioners met their relief demands.

The group "camped" following a series of demonstrations in which the unemployed asked for $15.50 worth of groceries per family per week.

Three days work weekly at $4.50 per day.
Or—5,000 gallons of gasoline and $40 cash per family for a "pilgrimage" to Olympia, where the State Legislature is in session.

ADDED $60,000 NEEDED HERE FOR CHARITIES

Selectmen Will Probably Ask March Town Meeting To Increase Appropriation; Costs $288.74 a Day.

At least an additional $60,000 appropriation will be necessary to carry on the Town of Manchester's charities work during the rest of the year when the voters meet on adjourned annual town meeting on Monday, March 6. It was explained to the Board of selectmen last night. Charity costs to the town are now averaging $288.74 every day, according to figures submitted by Selectman George E. Keith, of the charity committee of the board.

Costs Up 50 F. C.
Groceries, rent, fuel and almshouse costs under the town's relief program have increased between 40 and 53 per cent over a year ago, the report shows. The town appropriated $80,000 for charities at the October annual town meeting. There will be no balance in the charities appropriation on March 1 and the only possible revenue for charities is a balance of $27,976 in the unemployment relief appropriation. This may not all be available for charities, but the committee assumes that it will be in making the estimate.

ROOSEVELT READY TO PICK CABINET

Expected To Reach Miami Early This Evening For Conference With Leaders.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 15.—(AP)—President-elect Roosevelt returns from the freedom of the southern seas here tonight to plunge into the presidential problems confronting him little more than two weeks hence.

He has fixed his policies for the "new deal." Between now and March 4 he will determine finally the key men upon whom he will depend to carry out his program.
Among the first with whom he will consult in New York very likely will be Senator Glass of Virginia, the leader in new banking legislation, who is wanted for secretary of the treasury.

Upon his return here late today, it is understood the president-elect will confer with James M. Cox, the 1920 Democratic presidential nominee, who sounded the call last Saturday for support of the congressional plan to give Roosevelt extraordinary power to cut government expenditures by complete reorganization.

A real celebration is planned for Roosevelt by the people of Miami as he debarks tonight from his 11 days on the South Atlantic.
Leaving Nassau, in the Bahamas islands, last night, the party was due here just about dinner time tonight. Departure from the yacht Nourmahal of Vincent Astor, host of the trip, will be made at 9 p. m.

HOOVER'S VALEDICTORY

A suggestion that some sort of the war debt payment due to the United States be set aside to stabilize currencies of the world was made in President Hoover's last public address before he relinquished office to Franklin D. Roosevelt. He is shown here speaking before the National Republican Club in New York City. At the left is Mrs. George A. Wyeth and on the right Oscar W. Ehrhorn, president of the club; Mrs. Hoover and Gen. James G. Harbord.

REPORT BLAMES ROADS, IN PART, FOR PLIGHT

National Transportation Committee Announces Its Findings—Outlook Is Far From Hopeless, It Says.

New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Railroad management found today that much of the responsibility for the financial plight of America's $30,000,000,000 rail system had been placed squarely on their own shoulders by the report of the National Transportation Committee.

This non-partisan committee, which conducted a sweeping investigation of the transportation problem at the behest of savings banks, insurance companies and other large investors, urged drastic measures toward consolidation and eliminating wasteful competition.

"It has been estimated on 'good authority,'" said the report, "that several hundred million dollars, or enough to pay interest on a large part of the outstanding railroad bonds, can be saved."

Justice in Complaint
The committee found some justice in railroads' complaint that they have been hamstrung by inept regulation, but reported a "tendency to over-emphasize this argument." Declaring regulation has "left something to be desired, the report added:

"The railroads should do much that they have not done to improve their condition without any government help at all. They should be promptly freed of all unnecessary restrictions on the doing of it."
It has been estimated that less than a 20 per cent increase in traffic would put most of them on an earnings basis. In view of the narrowness of this margin of loss, and the very great savings possible in railroad operation, we regard the outlook as far from hopeless."

HOUSE DEMOCRATS SCORE COMPROMISE

Send Letter To Democratic Senators In State Assembly Against "Deals."

Hartford, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Taking official cognizance of persistent reports that the General Assembly will attempt to solve the troublesome patronage problem by a series of compromises, House Democrats went on record today urging Senators of their party against entering into "deals" with Republicans.

The House Democrats asserted "it is of the utmost importance to the future of Democracy in Connecticut as well as the good of the state, that the Democratic Senators stand together as one man and enter no deals with the Republican party."

This assertion was included in a letter which House Democrats voted to send to the Democratic Senators of their party.

At the same time he cleared Ben Mykasa and Frank J. Sullivan, held in Chicago for Denver police, of connection in the case. These men, he said, were ordered held by Detective Sergeant William J. Armstrong in connection with another case.

"I said 48 hours and we've got some time left," Clark said. "Maybe it will run over that time; but I'm just as confident as I was when I said we'd have this case cleared up, and Boettcher returned home within two days."

Letter Called Fake
The hooped broker's partner, James Quigg Newton, told Clark that the letter was a forgery.

HAS BEEN ASLEEP FOR JUST A YEAR

Chicago, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Asleep a year—and less year at that—three hundred and sixty-six days and nights, without a known moment of consciousness, 27-year-old Patricia Maguire has slumbered—a puzzle to physicians.
She was at an unfeeling of the recent sub-zero temperatures as she was of last summer's heat waves.
Just a year ago, Feb. 15, a doctor was called by an anxious Oak Park family. They could not arouse Patricia. For days she had complained of feeling "so tired and sleepy." She had been sleeping extra time. And then—
"Sleeping sickness" or lethargy encephalitis, pronounced the medical authority.
Then began the battle—still unended—of medical science's efforts to restore consciousness to the pretty brunette. All they have been able to do has been to keep her physical strength by forced feedings of nourishing liquid. Until last June she was fed by nasogastric tube.
Some injections
The early treatment included serum injections, made from her own blood.

COLOMBIA ACTS TO START WAR OVER LETICIA

Orders Its Minister To Peru To Return Home—Each Side Claims Other Started the Open Warfare.

(By Associated Press)
Columbia today ordered its minister to Peru to return home, severing diplomatic relations with that country, as a result of the outbreak of warfare between the two nations.

Peru announced it received official advice the Colombian government considered Brazilian mediation in the border dispute a finished matter.

Columbia claimed a Peruvian air force was the aggressor in yesterday's battle on the Putumayo river while Peru insisted a Colombian flotilla began the fight by attacking a Peruvian garrison at Tarapaca.

Unofficial reports reached Colombia that Tarapaca was captured by its troops but the Peruvian commander reported the engagement was "inconsequential." Fighting was reported continuing last night and the Colombian government announced its troops were being landed under protection of a gunboat's artillery.

Both parties said the fighting started in Brazilian territory, Tarapaca, being situated right on the border. Brazil was watching developments and it was believed she would close up the Amazon river if her territory was violated.

The Colombian flotilla went up the Amazon to reach U. Peruvians last September. Peru signed a treaty ceding the important upper Amazon port of Leticia to Colombia but claimed Colombia has "illegally" occupied it.

Washington, Feb. 15.—(AP)—While the Senate voted on a vote whether the Blaine prohibition for repeal of prohibition should be taken up, Senator Bennett of Missouri—Democrat—introduced an amendment to the resolution calling for ratification of the League of Nations instead of Legislative.

WAGNER PROPOSES STRAIGHT REPEAL

New York Senator Says Blaine Bill Flouts Will of the American People.

Washington, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Calling for "straight repeal" of the 18th Amendment, Senator Wagner (D. N. Y.) asserted in the Senate today that the resolution offered by Senator Blaine (R. Wis.) "utterly flouts the will of the majority as registered last November."

The New Yorker assailed particularly the section of the Blaine amendment which would give Congress concurrent power "to regulate or prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors to be drunk on the premises where sold."

"Should this language ever be incorporated into the Constitution," he said, "we shall inaugurate another experiment, noble in purpose but mischievous and destructive in effect."

"I say noble in motive" because the apparent intention of the advocates of this resolution is to outlaw the saloon. I am in sympathy with that purpose, but the suggested method of accomplishing it—the proposal that it shall continue to be the responsibility of the Federal government—is all wrong. It flies in the face of reason and experience.

Fallen Before
"If the Federal government failed to discharge that responsibility under the all-embracing prohibition of the Eighteenth Amendment, what folly is it which prompts anyone to believe that it can discharge it under the milder language of the pending resolution."
"This resolution does not in fact repeal the inherently false philosophy of the Eighteenth Amendment. It does not correct the central error of National prohibition. It does not."

WETS WIN REPEAL TEST IN SENATE; THE VOTE IS 58-23

HOW THE INSULLS TRADED IN STOCKS

Washington, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Samuel Insull, Jr., the heir apparent to a vanished utilities kingdom, told a Senate committee today how members of his family had purchased and traded in numerous shares of Insull properties at prices ranging from one-fourth to one half of what the stocks were being sold for in the open market.

Relating details of the financial set-up of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and the Corporation Securities Company of Chicago, Insull said his father—in a voluntary exile in Greece—had bought shares at $12 on the same day that the stock was placed on sale on the Chicago exchange for $30 a share.

He said that his father had sold to numerous persons stocks for twelve dollars a share. On this list of customers was included the name of Owen D. Young, himself waiting to testify, Gerard Swope, and South Trimble, clerk of the House of Representatives.

With Insull on the stand at the Senate, in downtown Washington at the same time the Federal Trade Commission was digging into Insull affairs by way of carrying ahead its long investigation of utilities.

Carl H. Dupue, commissioner examiner, introduced evidence on what he described as the "habit" of the Insulls of buying from themselves, setting up fictitious values and placing for sale ahead the resultant "inflated" stocks.
At one point, Insull, with consent of the Insull family, introduced a list of the Insull, Inc. stock, worth $12,422,785—less than nothing.

OWEN YOUNG CALLED
Washington, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Owen D. Young, appeared in the Senate banking committee room today under a subpoena from the committee in its investigation of the Insull utilities crash.

THE MOLL CALL
Washington, Feb. 15.—(AP)—While the Senate voted on a vote whether the Blaine prohibition for repeal of prohibition should be taken up, Senator Bennett of Missouri—Democrat—introduced an amendment to the resolution calling for ratification of the League of Nations instead of Legislative.
This would accord with both party platforms.
The proposition of Senator Blaine (R. Wis.), calls for action on ratification by the Senate.
How the pending vote would come out was uncertain at the time, but Senators on both sides of the prohibition dispute were waiting to have their say in case the debate should be taken up. By prior agreement reached last night a vote was to be taken after brief discussion today.
Just before the time set for the vote Senator McVay of Oregon, assistant Republican leader, called a quorum, which delayed the vote beyond the agreed hour.
A speech by Bennett (Ohio, R. Nev.), consumed the whole hour between the noon meeting and the voting time, preventing any additional debate on the Blaine motion.
In short order, the Senate voted 58 to 23 to take the repeal resolution up for consideration.

The roll call follows:
Democrats for: Ashurst, Bailey, Bankhead, Barkley, Black, Bratton, Bulky, Byrnes, Clark, Coddige, Dill, Fletcher, Glass, Harrison, Hayden, Hall, Gurnea, Gurnea, Gurnea, Hays, Hastings, Harter, Johnson, Keam, Keyes, La Follette, McNary, Moses, Oddie, Patterson, Reed, Schuyler, Shorridge, Shriver, Vandenberg, Walcott, Water and White—28.
Farmers Labor for: Shipstead—1.
Grand total for—49.
Democrats against: Blaine, Clegg, Coughlin, Cramer, Gurnea, McCall, McGuire, McMillin, McGuire, Neely, Russell, Shupard and Smith—10.
Republicans against:—Morris Brookhart, Capper, Cuffey, Gurnea, Dickson, Hatfield, Nease, Norris, Nye, Robinson of Indiana, Smart and Townsend—13.
Immediately after the vote, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, submitted amendments to make the repeal resolution conform to his party's platform declaration for outright repeal and ratification by conventions instead of Legislatures.
He did not request immediate consideration.
Another Democratic Senator—Barkley of Kentucky—then proposed an agreement that during the remainder of the present Congress debate on any and all measures be limited to one hour for each Senator and that 60 minutes be allowed for each Senator to speak in support of his position.

$7,400 LOWEST BID FOR GARBAGE JOB

Alex Yokaitis of Tolland Turnpike Has Low Figure; Seven Enter Prices.

Alex Yokaitis of Tolland Turnpike was the lowest bidder for the garbage collection contract with the Town of Manchester when bids were opened at last night's regular Selectmen's meeting. Yokaitis bid $7,400 a year and $22,800 on the three-year basis. He would employ seven men including himself, six of them being taken from the present garbage collection crew. He said he intended to pay the men $2.50 a day and would dispose of the garbage at his Tolland Turnpike farm. Part will be used to feed hogs and the rest would be buried or burned.

Lathrop and Stage Next

The second lowest bidder was Lathrop and Stage, local wood and lumber dealers. Their bid was $8,495 for one year and $24,485 on the three-year basis. They would dispose of the garbage at the town dump, it was stated.

The other bidders were as follows: William Fitzgerald, $10,360 and $31,080; Andisio and "onsequio," of Manchester, $10,500 and $31,500; Vincent Lawlor, of Bloomfield, $10,500 and $32,000; Rodrick King, of South Windsor, $10,575 and $32,694, or if real estate bond were accepted as surety $10,415 and $32,295; John Harabak, of Bloomfield, $11,500 and $34,500; Miller Brothers of West Hartford wrote the Selectmen that they could not do the work for a price less than the present cost to the town.

Would Need Extras

The Selectmen discussed the various phases of the garbage collection problem and voted to refer the entire question to the Public Safety committee for further investigation. It was voted to return all bids with the exception of the two lowest. It was brought out that despite a garbage collection contract it would be necessary for the town to maintain two men and a truck to do work now included under garbage collection.

The actual saving if the Yokaitis bid were accepted would not be more than $2,600 a year. It was pointed out it was also brought out that garbage collection by contract in other towns and cities had proved satisfactory and economical. It is understood that the Board of Health has looked over the Yokaitis property and has approved of it as a dumping place, but the Selectmen had no official word from the Health Board on the matter.

creasing anti-Japanese sentiment at Geneva.

It was learned on high authority that the government feels with the turning point in the Empire's history. Before the ultimatum's decision is made, the Council of Elder Statesmen, the nation's most distinguished personages, the heads of branches of the Imperial family, and all living ex-premiers will be summoned for consultation.

Youku Matsuoka, who has been Japan's special counsel during the long debate over Manchuria before the League, called the foreign office today requesting permission to leave Geneva soon and to return by way of the United States.

To Grant Request

The foreign office said its request would be granted as soon as the League Assembly disposes of the Manchurian question, which was expected to take place February 25 at the latest.

McNiff would have no official mission in the United States, the foreign office said. It was known, however, that he intended to go to Washington, hoping to see Mr. Roosevelt or other leaders of the new administration shortly after the inauguration.

Although the League has left the door theoretically open to conciliation in the Sino-Japanese dispute, the foreign office announced Japan would have no further concessions to offer and would stand firmly by its determination to maintain the government of Manchuria in the territories wrested from Chinese control.

during a caucus to send to each Democratic Senator.

The House caucus came after Senate Democrats for the second time in as many days used their one-vote control to thwart the reappointment of two Republicans as judges of the Court of Common Pleas.

With the judgeships still dominating the activities of the General Assembly, legislative business came to a virtual standstill as the Senate defeated 18 to 7 a resolution naming Judge Charles B. Waller to the Common Pleas bench for New London county.

IN THE SENATE

Hartford, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The Democratic controlled Senate today rejected a Republican motion to reappoint Judge Charles B. Waller, New London county Republican, to the Court of Common Pleas.

The defeat of the Waller resolution followed a bitter exchange between Republicans and Democratic leaders during which charges of politics in the courts were hurled back and forth.

Because the vote on the resolution was by secret ballot, the political lineup on the measure was not definitely known. The Senate consists of 18 Democrats and 17 Republicans.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

GIRLS FROM 4 SCHOOLS TO COMPETE IN SPORTS

Eighteen from Manchester High going—West Hartford, Waterbury and Bloomfield Entered.

On Saturday girl delegates from four high schools, namely, Manchester, West Hartford, Bloomfield and West Hartford high will meet at an "All Sports Day" program. Basketball games in a round-robin tournament will be played in the morning and after lunch a social good time will follow.

This is the first time that Manchester high has ever entered into competition of this sort. It was thought that the "one-day plan" would not only be different but enthusiasm would be greater, than if the schools played each other one time in their respective gymnasiums.

EIGHTEEN GIRLS

Manchester at 9:30 Saturday morning, accompanied by Miss Lianche Feder, physical education instructor. The girls who are to go were picked from the All-Blue and All-White school basketball team, their names follow: Elizabeth Lupien, Florence Leamon, Emily Andrews, Eleanor Wilson, Betty Moorehouse, Pearl Dreyer, Ethel Mohr, Anna Lerch, Lily Gambolati, Faith Gallant, Marjorie Mitchell, Doris Cervini, Joyce Squartiro, Julia Kaseleskas, Kay Mrosek, Doris Von Deck, Frieda Roth and Ada Webb.

Each school will play the other three schools in basketball, 4 periods being shortened somewhat. Inasmuch as all of the high schools are run on the Blue and White plan, the girls on both teams will be carried on in this way. The following physical education teachers will officiate at the games: Mrs. Edgar Parker from West Hartford; Miss Ruth Coughlin from Waterbury; and Miss Blanche Feder from Manchester.

IN THE HOUSE

Hartford, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Four minor court judgeships were favorably reported by the Judiciary committee today. All were tabled for the calendar and printing.

Speaker William Hanna opened the session by reversing his yesterday's decision against Mayor Raymond E. Baldwin. The new decision will ban any debate upon favorable reports until they are reached in the regular order of business.

The judgeships favorably reported were for Judge E. C. O'Connell, Judge John S. Steinhilber, Judge of Shelton; Robert J. Woodruff and Oliver E. Nelson, judges of Orange.

During the fight on the minor court judgeships reports yesterday, Speaker Hanna ruled in favor of the Judiciary committee. He allowed debate on the motion to table the reports. He said today, however, that careful inquiry had caused him to reverse that ruling.

ABOUT TOWN

The Junior Epworth League and Preparatory class of the North Methodist church will meet this evening at 7 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Seymour of Buckland.

Monday evening, February 27, is the date set for the coming entertainment by the Community Players, and the place, the Whiton Memorial auditorium. As previously announced, the vehicle chosen for February is a modern French comedy, by Victorien Sardou, "A Scrap of Paper." Sardou wrote many of his plays expressly for the late Sarah Bernhardt, the greatest actress of her day. "A Scrap of Paper" was written about 1860 and met with pronounced success. The lines are extremely clever, and the play is different from anything the Community Players have as yet undertaken. Rehearsals are well under way with Miss Patricia Petricolas directing.

ed to cede other areas to Peru as agreed.

SEVERE RELATIONS

Bogota, Colombia, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Colombia acted today to break off diplomatic relations with Peru because of the beginning of open warfare in the long threatening fight for possession of Leticia, upper Amazon gateway to the Atlantic ocean.

Further details of the battle yesterday on the Putumayo river, 80 miles north of Leticia, disclosed that it began in Brazilian territory and that land, air and sea forces took part.

Unofficial reports claimed the Colombian troops drove Peruvians out of the town of Tarapaca, on the Brazilian border, and that further fighting continued last night. Fabio Lozano, Jr., Colombian minister to Peru and son of the Colombian minister to the United States, was ordered to demand his passport from the Peruvian government and return home.

He was also ordered, before leaving, to present a formal protest to Peru against the "attack" on the Colombian flotilla "while in neutral (Brazilian) waters, which continued in Colombian waters that the flotilla was navigating in order to accomplish its police mission in Colombian territory."

Troops being landed.

President Enrique Olaya Herrera issued a bulletin today saying Colombian troops were being landed in the disputed region north of Leticia and that they were protected by a gunboat's artillery.

His statement said a Peruvian aviation squadron yesterday attacked the Colombian flotilla of four vessels which recently transported 1,000 troops up the Amazon to the Leticia area. This bulletin also said the attack occurred while the flotilla was in Brazilian waters and that it was in Colombian waters at present.

Alfreda Basquez Cobo, commander of the Colombian forces, reported that two of his officers recently went by boat to Tarapaca, which was being held by a Peruvian garrison, and asked the Peruvians to evacuate. He said they refused. "This is to inform you that I am coming in the name of Colombia to re-establish order in territory which always has belonged to us and whose limits were determined by formal treaty," said the ultimatum issued to the Peruvians in Tarapaca.

The Colombian commander described the counter attack of the Colombian air force as "magnificent." No casualties were reported.

This was given at Storbridge a season ago with good success and is a delightful English drawing room comedy. In June Mrs. Herbert L. Tenney and Mrs. C. E. Wilcox will sponsor a luncheon at Mrs. Wilson's Croyden Lodge on October 1. October Mrs. Thomas E. Burbank will manage a rummage sale and in December Mrs. Allan Coe and her assistants will be in charge of the annual Christmas sale.

35TH ANNIVERSARY OF MAINE'S SINKING

One Survivor of Explosion Which Started War, Still On Active Duty.

Washington, Feb. 15.—(AP)—One survivor of the battleship Maine explosion which precipitated the Spanish-American war in 1898, still does active duty in the navy. He is Rear Admiral Walter S. Cluverius of New Orleans, now commander of the Ninth Naval District with headquarters at Great Lakes, Illinois.

This was made known by the Navy Department in calling attention to the 35th anniversary today of the explosion in which 253 lives were lost. Ninety-four officers and enlisted men of the Navy and Marine Corps survived.

In addition to Cluverius, eight are living who served as commissioned or warrant officers. They are Carl W. Jung, New York City; Amon Bronson, Rochester, N. Y.; David P. Boyd, San Francisco; Pope Washington, Greenwood Lodge, Longwood, Florida; the Rev. J. P. Chidwick, monsignor and pastor of St. Agnes Roman Catholic church, New York City, who was chaplain on the Maine; A. W. Catlin, Washington, D. C.; Joseph Hill, Philadelphia, and George Helms, Boothwyn, Delaware county, Pennsylvania.

Rear Admiral Cluverius served as a naval cadet on the Maine. He reported for duty on the ship on May 15, 1897, and after her destruction was retained on duty in Havana and assisted in supervising diving operations near the sunken battleship.

During the World War he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for his work as commanding officer of the U. S. S. Sigsbee, engaged in laying mines in the North Sea.

Exercises at Arlington cemetery and Fort Myer were planned today in observance of the anniversary of the Maine's destruction. Members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the United Spanish War Veterans placed a wreath presented by President Hoover at the base of the Maine shaft in this city.

DISTRICT MINISTERS

The February meeting of the North District Ministerial Association comprising pastors of the churches of the district and retired ministers living in the area, was held at the South Coventry church yesterday. It was an all-day session with dinner at noon, served by the women of the church. Manchester ministers who attended were Revs. M. L. Stocking, L. Theron French and V. D. Woodward, Rev. R. A. Coppitt sent a note of regret. Among those taking part in the program were Rev. Joseph Cooper and Rev. W. H. Rath, former pastors here.

OFFERS SENATORS RAZORS, BRUSHES

Kansas Newspaper Suggests They Shave Themselves To Save U. S. Funds.

Washington, Feb. 15.—(AP)—There is much talk among members of Congress about the wisdom of providing food and shavers for themselves and jobs for their constituents, but there is little indication of a general movement to stop the practice.

An offer for free safety razors and brushes for Senators—whose expense account for last year showed $8,000 for a barber shop—came from Kansas as an economy idea.

This suggestion as one way of cutting down Federal expenditures was received by Senators Capper and McGill of Kansas from the publishers of the Wichita Beacon. An appreciation of the fact that the senatorial purse has been shortened by the pinch of the depression, the Wichita Beacon as a contribution to the cause of economy, offers to supply all Senators with safety razors and suitable brushes without charge.

No takers could be found among the few Senators newspapermen approached on the idea.

Food Question The patronage and food questions were taken to the House floor by two retiring Republican members—L. Harrell, Massachusetts and Summers of Washington—as the curia of Capitol Hill. Summers proposed abolition of the House dining room and read a menu to show "we pay round prices for poorly prepared foods and services," observed that the restaurant lost money, and got after the barbershop, in which he said members paid for services.

CABINET MEMBERS PLAN VACATIONS

Majority Will Take a Rest Before Going Back Again Into Business.

Washington, Feb. 15.—(AP)—For President Hoover and several members of his Cabinet, inauguration day will launch vacations—a long rest and change of scene after four strenuous years.

Others will return to private pursuits, losing no time in catching up on business and professions that have had to take second place to public duties in an era of "hard times."

Among the group, only Vice President Charles Curtis, often called a "wheel-horse" for his party, will plunge back into the thick of politics with never a breathing space. He will immediately open up an office here and begin rounding up Republicans with the idea of marching them victoriously to the polls in 1936.

The vacationers will include Secretary Mills Hyde, and Stimson, if present plans materialize. Mills will be guest of President Hoover on a fishing trip through the Panama Canal to California.

Mrs. Mills, like Mrs. Hoover, will join her husband on the west coast. Stimson plans an automobile trip with Mrs. Stimson through the garden districts about Charleston, South Carolina, thence, perhaps to the Rockies, before resuming law practice in New York.

Hyde, banking for the tug on a fish line, has laid plans for cruising southern waters, Florida or the Gulf, joining Mrs. Hyde later in their Missouri home.

The "back-to-business" procession will include Secretary Hurley, who will immediately open law offices in both Washington, D. C., and Tulsa, Oklahoma; Secretary Chapin, bound for Detroit's automobile row, and Secretary Wilbur, who will resume active presidency of Stanford University at Palo Alto, California, where Herbert Hoover also will live. Postmaster General Brown, whose home is Toledo, Ohio, and Attorney General Mitchell, of St. Paul, Minnesota, both attorneys, have not announced immediate plans.

THEATERS

AT THE CIRCLE

"Goon-Goon" The sensational picture that thrilled two continents, will be shown at the Circle for three days starting Friday and continuing through Sunday. Fresh from eight capacity weeks at the Cameo Theater in New York, "Goon-Goon" is now being released generally throughout the country. It is a sensational, romantic story of the natives of the island of Bali, located east of Java, in the South Seas. Crowds are storming theaters everywhere to see this most unusual romance among the beautiful half-clad Balinese, where blood runs warm under soft breezes and skies that mean temptation; where secret love means instant death. It is an out of the ordinary picture, made in the alluring natural settings of Bali with an all-native cast. The story nevertheless is the old triangle, easy to understand and all ways fascinating to follow.

The story tells of a native prince who returns from a European school and takes a fancy to the suite fiancée of a coolie instead of the girl of his own caste who has been selected for him to marry. To take no chance the coolie marries his girl right away. A scheming woman, in league with the prince's desires, hopes the young bride so the prince can go to her while her husband is away. When the coolie returns and finds out what has happened, he seeks out the "wince" and kills him, after which he goes to his own death at the hands of the prince's father. The native players are remarkably natural and sincere in their work, and the women are surrounded with an air of dignity that hides their nakedness as it is the accepted custom in Bali for women to go around naked to the waist.

"Hot Pepper" Those famous militant marines, Flagg and Quirt, are at it again in "Hot Pepper" which will be the feature attraction at the State tonight and Thursday. Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen are seen in the part of the belligerent marines once more, and they are funnier than ever. Lupe Velez is the object of enmity in their latest vehicle and she sure does lead them a merry chase. However, in their new picture, the immortal marines discard the uniform and are seen dressed in the height of fashion—silk hats and ruffs. Lowe, as usual, is the suave, smooth-talking chisler, while McLaglen is excitable, savage and rough. Though in entirely new atmosphere, Flagg and Quirt, they battle principally for the affection of "Pepper," a brown-legged little firebrand discovered slumped away on one of Flagg's rum boats. This role is played by the flaming Lupe Velez. El Brendel, the Swedish dialect comedian, also plays a prominent role. If you are in need of a good long laugh, don't fail to see "Hot Pepper" at the State tonight or Thursday.

Barbara Stanwyck in "Ladies They Talk About," and Ed Wynn, the famous fire chief of the air, in "Follow the Leader," will make up the usual double feature program that will be shown on Friday and Saturday.

Cecile B. De Mille's stupendous "The Sign of the Cross," will be seen at the State for three days starting Sunday night. Another of the series of International Nights, "German Night," will be presented at the State tonight as an extra added attraction. Seven acts of entertaining amateur vaudeville, recruited from the best German talent in town will be presented on the program. The International Nights are growing in popularity each week, and German Night promises to surpass any that has been presented thus far. The audience judges the winners each week, and the cash prize goes to those selected by the audience. A good job of time is assured all who attend the State Wednesday evening.

ROCKVILLE

CELEBRATE VISITING NURSE ANNIVERSARY

Association 20 Years Old; Supervisor Makes Detailed Report of Work.

Rockville, Feb. 15.—The Twentieth Anniversary of the organization of the Rockville Visiting Nurse Association was held last evening in Library Hall and notwithstanding the numerous other events, a goodly number was in attendance. Hon. Charles Phelps, Connecticut's first Attorney General, who also held the honor of being the first president of the Rockville Visiting Nurse Association, was the presiding officer and conducted the event with all the dignity that a senior member of the Connecticut Bar could bestow upon the gathering.

Many Reports
Not alone were numerous reports presented, but the work of the association since its organization in 1913 was carefully outlined by Mrs. D. J. McCarthy, first secretary of the organization. Miss Miranda Bradley, Supervising Nurse, presented her annual report, showing the activities of the past year. The guest speaker was Mrs. C. E. Winslow, president of the New Haven District Nurse Association, who was very interesting.

Annual Report
The annual report of Miss Miranda Bradley for the year ending December 31, 1932 was as follows:

"A total of 5,873 visits were made to 839 cases during the year 1932. Of these, 4,381 were for giving bedside care, 14 were for attendance at deliveries and 1,478 for purposes of health supervision where no bedside care was needed. Whenever a person has been very sick no matter of what age, the nurse has made one or more 'follow-up' visits to be sure he is well again. In the cases of well babies and small children, their names are kept on file and they are visited at more or less regular intervals, according to ages and conditions, until they come of school age. There was an average of 800 miles covered each month in making these visits. At the close of the year 458 cases were on file, 283 of whom live in the city, 58 in Ellington and 21 in the outlying town of Tolland.

The income received for nursing services was lower than ever before because of stress of times, but the same nursing care has been given whether the family could pay five cents or $1.00, the cost to the association for each visit made. The one thing the nurses must insist on is that the sick persons have a doctor in charge of his case.

Baby Conferences
Well-baby conferences have been held twice a month throughout the year, with a total attendance of 70 babies under one year of age and 68 children between the ages of one and five years. At the present time, these conferences are being held on the first and third Thursday afternoons of each month. Because it is impossible for the nurses to carry scales around, the children are brought to the nurses' office where they are weighed and measured and the mothers advised about their general condition. If there are signs of any abnormality, the mothers are urged to see their family physicians for care and treatment.

During the summer, the City Health Officer had charge of two toxoid clinics at which 22 children were immunized against diphtheria. At the instigation of the Rockville Chapter of the American Red Cross, two Home Hygiene classes were organized with a total membership of 32, these to be carried on in 1933.

Dr. Stockwell, of the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Cedar-cross, came up for two clinics, one in June and another in October. ... examined 15 suspicious cases, two of whom (mother and child of nine years) have since been admitted to sanatorium for care and treatment. The expenses for the child are being met through the Christmas Seal fund. In addition, the baby in this family is now being cared for at Children's Village where he gets much better care than the father can possibly give.

Milk Supply
Through an Emergency Fund, made up from the sale of the Tuberculosis Seals and from generous individual donations for the purpose, cod liver oil and daily quarts of milk are being supplied to some 15 undernourished children, who had no means of obtaining them.

"The nurses and families concerned are most grateful to the kind people who gave their services to transport various ones to hospitals, sanatoria and other institutions. They also greatly appreciate all the supplies and other gifts received from interested individuals, local church societies and other organizations, especially the Silver Cross Society and the Good Will Club of the St. John's Episcopal church, the Girls Reserved of the Legion Auxiliary, the Emblem Club, the Red Arrow and Dugan Brothers.

"To the superintendent and nurses of the City Hospital is due special thanks for sterilizing all surgical and maternity supplies. The nurses would surely be greatly handicapped were it not for this courtesy.

"Above all, are the nurses indebted to the Welfare Organization who have relieved them of so many of the social-economic problems affecting their patients. They fully realize their ability to deal satisfactorily with these difficulties in addition to their nursing activities and they sincerely offer every possible cooperation in this very fine community service.

At this time of greater pressure of work, the nurses wish again to urge people to place their requests for visits during the office hours, 8 to 8:30 in the morning and 1 to 1:30 in the afternoon of each week day, in order to plan the day's work so that the sickest patients may be seen first.

Three Nurses
"Three nurses have been on regular duty each week day from 8 to 5 and one is on call for maternity cases at night and for urgent cases on Sunday. They have attended public health nursing meetings whenever the work would permit and they have each had a month's vacation in the summer. At intervals during the year, three local nurses have been called upon to relieve when the demand for visits was heavy.

"The nurses wish to express their sincere gratitude to all the physicians, town officers and newspapers for the kindly spirit of co-operation evidenced by their valued advice, assistance and support.

Signed: Relief Nurses, Helen Steger, Helen Hegan, Mrs. Elizabeth Poehner, Regular Staff Nurses, Florence Barrett, Alice Goehring, Supervising nurse, Miranda Bradley.

Common Council was held last evening with Mayor Albert E. Waite presiding. Little business was transacted. A discussion ensued relative to the bill recently presented to the general assembly regarding a board of finance for the City of Rockville. The meeting voted that if the bill did not provide for the submission of the act to the electors for approval, that the corporation counsel, city clerk and mayor were instructed to enter objections at the legislative hearing.

"Don't break the speed laws—but use an oil that can"

"TAKE my advice and stay under the speed limit. Take it easy. Don't try to be a mile-a-minute man ...
"But use the oil that can do 100-miles-an-hour—Gulf Supreme! Why? That's simple...
"For the oil that is good at 100-miles-an-hour is doubly good at lower speeds! It's a better, safer oil. It has extra resistance ... extra richness ... extra ability to halt wear and keep repair bills down!"
Why do we call Gulf Supreme the "100-mile-an-hour motor oil?" Here's why ... Tests in Gulf laboratories showed that Gulf Supreme could stand almost twice the heat of the normal speeding motor.
So on August 8, 1932, Supreme was put to a stiffer test than it could get in any car on the roads! Under Official AAA supervision, it successfully lubricated a roaring Duesenberg racer—flashing around the Indianapolis Speedway at speeds which reached almost two miles a minute! An average for the one-hour, non-stop run of more than 100-miles-an-hour!
Switch to Gulf Supreme now. There's a grade for every climate. It can take super-punishment. Give better lubrication. Cut oil costs. And minimize repairs!

HARBOR MASTERS

The world is quite full of this and that. Here we have the case of young Connally of Westport who went fishing and got lost in the fog and the subsequent rescue of the rescue party—all of whom, it appears are getting over their frost-bites and their mal-de-mere and their lumbago—which ends the story. But it's a case where that leads up to this:

Westport folks get after the selectmen because, so they allege, nothing was done for nearly two days by the town fathers about helping find the missing rescue party. And they further allege that the first selectman, when urged to get into action, replied that finding missing Westporters out on Long Island Sound wasn't any part of the selectmen's job—that such was the duty of the harbor master. This in turn elicits the statement that the harbor master was the first person brought to do something about the ten people adrift on the Saugatuck; whereupon the harbor master is reputed to have said that it was just too bad but his boat was laid up for the winter and so, there was nothing he could do. And now we arrive at the status of the harbor master.

The harbor master is appointed by the governor. He is said to get $25 a week from the state—though there is a statute which says that a harbor master shall receive three dollars a day for each day of actual work at his job. Be that as it may—and perhaps somebody may inquire—the duties of a harbor master include—among other things—the duty of seeing to it that the harbor is kept clear of ice, and that the harbor is kept open for the winter and so, there was nothing he could do. And now we arrive at the status of the harbor master.

COMPARATIVE TAXES

Without undertaking any critical analysis of the comparative tax figures cited by Assessor E. L. G. Henthall, Jr., in his talk at the South Methodist church on Monday evening, it is warrantable to say that only by such comparisons of the per capita cost of governments can a reasonable understanding of the situation of any community, state or country be arrived at.

You may array table against table, statistics against statistics, until the cows come home and you will get nowhere in establishing realization of the problems of expenditures and taxation until you translate the deductions into terms of so many dollars and cents for each person.

But when the people of Manchester are told that the cost of running this town was $10.68 per person in 1910 and that twenty years later in 1930 it had risen to $65 per person they have something to chew on. They can figure out for themselves that if the same rate of increase were to continue for the next twenty years the tax rate would be, by 1950, about $400 per person of $2,000 for a family of five.

It is only through such pictures as this that the average citizen can be brought to full understanding of this problem of public expenditure and to appreciate the relentless fact that it is no more possible for a town, a state, or a nation to live beyond its means, without disaster, than it is for an individual to do the same thing—and that governments must be as strictly limited, in their expenditures, by their resources as a person or a business concern—no matter how intensely they may desire this, that or the other public convenience or service, nor how much of a "necessity" it may appear to be.

MR. BARUCH SPEAKS

Many very intelligent people become utterly muddled when they undertake to grasp the significance of money. Nobody more frequently or completely muddled than, now and then, the banker. Bernard Baruch is a top-notch financier. With the utmost sincerity and almost with tears in his eyes he told the Congressional economics committee the other day that the thing to be feared above all others was inflation of the currency. And by way of proving his case he used, along with others equally valid, this most singular of arguments:

Our "cash money" is redeemable in gold on demand. Also "the entire pool of money in the bank" (by which Mr. Baruch means the total of bank depositors' credits) is convertible into money redeemable in gold. The total of potential demand is many times the gold reserves and could exhaust it in a twinkling.

And that is precisely what the inflationists, the bi-metalists, the ously did Couzens battle against the unfavorable report that the amendment was finally adopted at last by the Senate without a record vote.

One effect of this measure, if it gets by the House, will be to increase the appropriation for the Citizens Military Training camps from a mere two and a half millions to twenty-two and a half millions. But it will also be the first actual direct relief measure adopted by Congress.

It was brought out in the debate that there are from 300,000 to 300,000 wandering boys in the country rapidly degenerating into professional hoboes. Most of these, it was contended by Senator Couzens, are lads who left home to escape being burdens on their relatives when they could get no jobs in their own towns.

It is not proposed to enlist these boys into the military service but they will be subject to military discipline and a measure of military training. They will not be committed to any particular length of service but always free to leave if they get jobs. It will strike the average citizen that the estimated cost of maintenance, about $5 per week per boy, is rather high, but as this will have to provide for their clothing and other expenses, including medical attention, as well as their food, it is probably not excessive.

This is a tremendously important matter. The existence of this swarm of footloose lads, a very great many of them from the high schools and not a few from the colleges, drifting about the country in a completely hopeless search for a toehold, is one of the most distressing of all the many aspects of the depression. A very large proportion of them will be provided with at least the opportunity of an honest living; and it may very well be that out of this beginning will develop greater and still more useful functions of government. It is to be hoped that the House representatives will take as intelligent a view of the problem as the Senate has—after Couzens got through talking turkey to it.

greenbackers say in derision of a system of money founded on a handful of gold and consisting in by far the greater part of promises to pay gold—when the gold could be pulled out of the vaults and hidden away in a day, leaving nothing with which to redeem the rest of the promises. Mr. Baruch and Mr. Wheeler say exactly the same thing.

Nothing which bears the words "will pay" is fundamental money. Nothing which is a mere promise to pay "lawful money" is actual money. It is scrip. It is a convenience. But it has nothing in the world to do with the control of prices. It cannot be even considered in arguing out the quantitative theory of price fixation.

Mr. Baruch told the committee that he has added a billion dollars to our money in the last year without stopping the slump in prices. We have not. We haven't added a nickel of basic money though the demand for it for settlements of debts on the gold basis has enormously increased. All we have added is more credit "money"—more promises.

And that is what they call "sound money."

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

NOW A "KRAUT CRISIS" OVERPRODUCTION AGAIN

United States Is World's Biggest Consumer But Cannery Will Go Broke Unless They Get Better Prices, Says New York Pickle Packer

By BODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer

Washington—The United States is now consuming more sauerkraut than Germany itself, but that doesn't mean that all is rosy in the kraut industry.

"There's a real kraut crisis which corresponds to crises in various other industries. Very soon there must be a lot less kraut or there will be a few less kraut packers."

The National Cannery Association reveals this unfortunate situation in releasing certain well chosen words of Mr. B. E. Babcock, an important New York pickle man, at its national convention in Chicago. Mr. Babcock was for years president of the National Kraut Packers Association and his words carry great weight among kraut magnates.

"I told a man sometime ago that I thought the kraut packers were the biggest set of fools in the country," said Mr. Babcock. "They will all their tanks with kraut in the fall with no surety whatever that they can sell it at even cost."

"It looks to me as if fully 50 per cent of the packers, not only kraut packers but all canners, will either be compelled to go out of business this year or cut their output tremendously. Too much kraut was produced last fall—an increase of 20 per cent over 1931, as nearly as we can find. There should have been a decrease of 33-1-3 per cent because to my way of thinking we will never get a profit or even the cost of canned kraut or anything else until the demand is greater than the supply."

A while ago, said Mr. Babcock, he looked up the ratings of some of his chief competitors who were amazing him with their low kraut prices. He found that one had quick assets of $240,000, current liabilities of $332,000 and a net loss for the year of $125,000. If you want a business man to throw you out of his office these days, Mr. Babcock said, just quote him a price on your commodity that would yield a fair profit.

The can and the wrapper on kraut he revealed, now cost more than 80 per cent of the price obtained for the article. The price of cans must

BRIGHT'S DISEASE OR NEPHRITIS OFTEN UNRECOGNIZED

The patient with chronic nephritis often does not know that there is anything wrong with his kidneys and might be compared to a sleep-walker hovering on the edge of a roof—both are in grave danger. Nephritis is also called Bright's disease. It is found in an acute and chronic form. The chronic form, seen more frequently, has at least two common types which merge into each other. In the first there is an inflammation of the kidney and interference with the way it does its work. Often dropsy is seen in this type and for this reason it is often called "wet," taking its name from the accumulation of water under the skin, which produces swelling of the ankles, puffiness of the eyelids and face, etc.

In the second form inflammation may be present, but it is the fibres or actual framework of the kidneys which organs begin to wear out. It is noticeable in this type, it has a "dry" form. This latter type is more to be feared because the patient may have no idea it is present and, by the time the structure has been so damaged that it can never return to normal, although by attention to diet and other good habits of living the patient may carry on his ordinary activities for a number of years. This second type is chronic interstitial nephritis and is usually accompanied by hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure, these changes co-existing with the kidney disease.

Nephritis is a chronic disease usually found among those of middle age, and it is one of the degenerative diseases noticed when the body organs begin to wear out. It is important because it is one of the six leading causes of death, if death from accident are omitted. Any factor which would induce a chronic toxic poisoning in the body may induce nephritis; for example, overeating, using wrong food combinations, mental strain, lack of exercise, drinking poor grades of alcohol, absorbing certain chemicals during work, etc. The patient has simply followed wrong habits of living and abused the kidneys for a long time. The most outstanding cause is wrong diet and likewise the most important step in the treatment of this disorder is correct diet.

The symptoms vary a great deal and may not appear until severe damage is done. In nephritis the kidneys act the reverse of normal—they discard that which they should hold back and keep that which should be excreted, thus they fail to hold back albumen but do keep back salts, water, acids and poisonous wastes. Two of the main symptoms arise from this reversal, namely, the showing of albumen in the liquid output and the retaining of water which leads to dropsy. The dropsy varies greatly in its severity; it is usually first seen around the ankles or eyelids. In addition to albumen, many hyaline casts and some white blood cells are found during an analysis.

Some symptoms accompanying this disorder may be: loss of strength, digestive disorders, constipation, weak eyes, waxiness or muddiness of the skin, anemia, high blood pressure, arterial disease, itchy skin and shortness of breath.

In tomorrow's article I will explain something about the dietetic treatment of nephritis.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 (Chicken for Table Use)

Question: Mr. Ralph E. writes: "What are the best types of chickens for table use?"

Answer: The best types are the Brahma, Cochon, Langshan, Dorking, Orpington, Plymouth Rock, Wyandotte, Rhode Island Red, and Houdan. Thick scales on the legs, thin necks and dark colored thighs are signs of toughness in chickens. A good table bird should have a large full breast and at other points also a large proportion of meat to the size of the bone. Chickens should be starved for at least twenty-four hours before killing. Those killed with partially full crops should be avoided, as the disintegration of the grain quickly discolors the flesh. They are more tender if held for two or three days before cooking.

(Nose Bleeds When Walking)

Question: Mrs. Thomas R. writes: "I am a widow fifty-eight years of age. Have always had splendid health, but recently my nose bleeds often and profusely. It nearly always starts when I am out walking."

Answer: You may be suffering from high blood pressure, in which case your nose bleeds are a relief to the excessive pressure acting somewhat as the "blood-letting" treatment of a few years ago. Walking temporarily raises your blood pressure and that may account for the fact that your nose bleeds more frequently when you are out walking.

(Cornmeal)

Question: Mrs. V. says: "Please give me your opinion of the food value of unbolts cornmeal bread."

Answer: The unbolts, unrefined cornmeal is a healthful food and is placed in the starchy class the same as all grain foods. When this bread is used, it should be taken in connection with the non-starchy vegetables and not with meat, fish or fowl.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

DEFLATION OF A DREAM

BY BRUCE CATTON

The depression has deflated America spiritually as well as materially. It has destroyed the dream we lived by, with as profound an effect as the American spirit that we are not yet certain that "its character was not weakened and its capacity to live and grow not corrupted beyond redemption."

So says Gilbert Selous in "The Years of the Locust," which seems to me to be one of the most thought-provoking books of the winter.

The depression, Mr. Selous believes, disillusioned us three times.

The first was when we learned that the official explanation of the crash were not true—that business wasn't as "fundamentally sound" as those in high places claimed and that recovery wasn't just around the corner.

The second was when the French outplayed us in the German moratorium negotiations and pitched us from the height of hope into deep despondency.

The third was when we found that the United States army could be used, by official order, against our own soldiers.

These things, combined with our disillusionment about the wisdom of our business and political leaders—business, says Mr. Selous, which we had adored, "has the fatal blunder of not being deflatable"—have left us asking, "Do we longer take it for granted that we are the chosen people among the nations? We are the Americans for whom sunshine only is kept that we were in for a rainy spell.

Our society rests on a foundation in the future. Now, for the first time in our history, we are in a state of shock. As a result of a real disaster, we are being asked to re-examine our faith. We are being asked to re-examine our faith. We are being asked to re-examine our faith.

DOCTORS ANNOUNCE RINGWORM REMEDY

Hypodermic in the Arm Has Cured Numerous Cases, Physicians Report.

New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—A hypodermic in the arm which has cured numerous cases of ringworm of the toes is reported in the New York State Journal of Medicine by four New York scientists.

Like many treatments for this persistent toe itch which has spread throughout the civilized world, the needle does not cure all, but it has a high relief record.

The injection works like the old-wives remedy of "the hair of the dog that bit you" for dog bite. The toe ringworm is caused by fungi, and the vegetable growths.

The hypodermic injects into the arm fungi ground into fine powder. A dozen different sorts of fungi are blended for this curative mixture.

The secret of success rests principally in placing the point of the needle in just the right arm tissue. The method and results are described by Laird S. Van Dyck, M. D., Jerome Kingsbury, M. D., Binford Thorne, M. D., and C. N. Myers, Ph. D.

The fungi mixture is not injected into the blood, where it would be too greatly diluted. Instead it is placed in the skin cells just under the outside "horny layer" of skin.

From these cells, the physicians believe, it passes directly into the lymph, the circulation of watery fluid which moves much more slowly than the blood, but which traverses the entire body.

Analysis of the clinical findings, says the report, indicates that at least 30 per cent of the patients are apparently cured; 33 per cent are greatly improved; 32 per cent slightly improved and five per cent unimproved. The average number of injections was 12.

CALLS MASTERPIECE OF VATICAN OBSCENE

Art Dealer Laughs At Decision of Customs Official On Michelangelo Frescoes.

New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—It looked today as though United States Customs would clear Michelangelo of a charge of being smutty.

A decision which caused Erhard Wehr, book importer, to declare he laughed so heartily at almost had apoplexy was out its way toward apparent reversal.

A Customs examiner had declared, it became known yesterday, that photographs of Michelangelo's famous frescoes on the ceiling of the Pope's Sistine chapel in the Vatican, were obscene and couldn't be admitted to this country.

Two packers of photo books, containing the frescoes which the art world has marveled at for four centuries, were shipped here from Europe at Wehr's behest. When they arrived at the Customs House they were detained as obscene and Wehr received the letter saying they would be "imposed of in due course as provided by law."

"What 'hall I do?' asked Wehr yesterday, nearly choking with laughter. "I laughed. I smiled. So when I opened the letter I almost had apoplexy. The Pope's own beautiful frescoes, the finest thing in the Vatican palace, and Customs inspector finds them obscene!"

Later a Customs official explained some of the pictures "at first glance," might be considered obscene, but a little study would identify them as "art." He said that in this case the law against obscenity "hardly seems to hold" and indicated a probability that decision would be reversed.

Michelangelo's famous decorative scheme, in which some of the figures are depicted nude, took him four years to complete. The art historian Vasari said that when it was finished "all the world hastened from every part to behold it, and having beheld it they remained astonished and speechless."

No Error Found In Five Cases and Error In the Three Others.

Hartford, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Eight opinions were given by the Supreme Court of Errors in cases recently argued before that tribunal. No error was found in five cases, and there was a difference in each. In one case the error was in judgment only, in another the cause was remanded, and in the third error a new trial was ordered.

The opinions were as follows: Leucio Distefano vs. The Universal Trucking Company et al, damages for personal injuries.

Walter Kowalski, vs. The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company, appeal from supplementary finding and award of Fourth District compensation commission.

Thomas and Nettleton company vs. Maria de Francesco et al, mortgage foreclosure action, tried at New Haven before Judge F. M. Peasey.

William S. Strong vs. Wilford J. Carrier, action to recover for damages for personal injuries, tried at Waterbury before Judge McNiff.

John Pletchy vs. George McLachlan Hat Co. (of Danbury) et al, appeal from a finding and award of the fourth district compensation commission in favor of the plaintiff against the manufacturer's liability insurance company.

Anthony Falkowski vs. John A. Macdonald, state highway commissioner, action for damages to personal property, tried in Fairfield county common pleas court before Judge Shaw.

Santo di Mauro vs. the Aetna Fire Ins. Co. action to recover on fire insurance policy on plaintiff's truck, tried at Litchfield before Judge Dickenson.

El F. Bebe of New Haven, Conn., manager of the foreign department of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company, said "it is not likely that any nation will enter into negotiations with an American company for the manufacture of munitions for its normal military use if it feels that when it needs such munitions the supply might be entirely cut off."

He said that several times in the past, when embargoes were declared against American munitions shipments to revolutionists—particularly in Mexico and China—manufacturers in other nations had been allowed to make the goods.

"I can't see how an embargo would be effective unless all nations capable of supplying munitions," he testified, would let the President declare an embargo when he gets an agreement with the nations he thinks necessary to the success of the embargo.

A representative of the biggest American manufacturer of machine guns—Samuel M. Stone of Hartford, Conn., vice president of the Colt Arms Company—assured the committee that "we are not making a gun for the war."

His company, he testified, since before the war had been maintaining a staff of "qualified personnel" so that on the demand of the government we could speedily manufacture machine guns in considerable quantity.

He testified that Russia, England, France, Belgium, Sweden, Italy, Denmark and Czechoslovakia are manufacturing machine guns and that to prevent the sale of machine guns to warring nations it would be necessary to get an agreement from all of these countries.

Bridgeport, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Charged by the police with striking and drawing a revolver on a Federal prohibition agent who raided his place known as the Mohawk Athletic Club, 588 Newfield avenue, Edward Tickey, 32, former Central high school football star and former athletic at St. John's college, Annapolis, Md., was arrested today on a warrant issued at the request of the Federal prohibition office at New Haven.

Tickey was taken to Police headquarters and held on a bench of the peace charge under a $5,000 bond pending word from New Haven. Three prohibition agents who raided his place alleged they found 16 gallons of beer.

Vicks' new Antiseptic does everything that any gargle or mouth-wash can do and should do—at half the cost!

THE PROOF is actual use. To furnish the proof, 5 million bottles in a special trial size were supplied to druggists—below cost. But the demand has been enormous.

Bluch, the famous circus clown, will head his own group of funmakers; the "Great Curran" will climb a willow pole and do hair-raising stunts at its tip; Pickards' Seals, the Randoms from last year, the Stoichian Troupe, the Rose Trio, the Grottoes Family and Tarzan, an educated chimpanzee, will be on the lengthy bill now being arranged.

Advance sale tickets are being sold by all members of the Shirine and in many business establishments. Tails Down

Abraham Lincoln had a sly humor, which he enjoyed exercising upon his serious minded wife, who was not much given to tomfoolery. She took her social position seriously and took pride in dressing up to it. One evening she appeared in a particularly fashionable gown with a long train. Abe could not resist a comment. "My, what a long tail our cat has tonight," he said. Friend wife did not answer.

SHARKEY GRIEVES OVER PAL'S DEATH

Stops in New York On Way To Boston—Says Schaff Was Weak Night of Fight.

New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—His face lined with marks of grief over the death of his boxing protégé, Jack Sharkey, world heavyweight champion, today passed through New York by train, enroute to Boston and the funeral of Ernie Schaff. "All I can see in front of me is the shadow of Ernie," Sharkey said, the muscles of his face twitching as he strove to conceal the sorrow he felt. "I can't think of anything else. I'd rather not talk about it."

He settled back in his seat as the train rushed through the tubes under the Hudson river. Gazing out the window at the blank walls. "I'm glad I wasn't in the ring boxing him when it happened," he said. "Ernie and I had agreed we never would fight each other and I had planned, when I got ready to retire, to step down and manage him into the championship."

Sharkey was asked to comment on the ruling of the New York State Athletic Commission which bars him scheduled match with Primo Carnera. "Doesn't matter now," he replied. "That doesn't matter now," he replied. Discussing the fight itself, in which Schaff went down and out in the 13th round before the ponderous fist of Carnera, Sharkey said he and Jimmy Buckley, Schaff's other manager, had commented on Ernie's lack of strength early in the fight. "As the fight went on and he failed to show his usual ability," Sharkey said, "we became a little worried."

SUGGESTIONS FOR FRIDAY

Effortless Service

A most attractive and comfortable way to serve early morning refreshments after a dance is to arrange the food in serving dishes on the dining room table, with plates, coffee cups, silver and napkins laid out, and the coffee percolator in a convenient place so that the guests can serve themselves. If you serve cheeses or hors d'oeuvres, the various ingredients can be put out on separate plates with crackers on other plates, so that the guests can make up their own combinations to please their fancy.

Popularized

Oysters, at one time an expensive and rare dish, are now so low in price that they are eaten by everyone. This change is due to the wide development of oyster farms in the United States, so that the oyster is now within the reach of the average man's pocketbook. In Europe, however, the oyster continues to be a quite exclusive item of the bill of fare.

Snicker-Doodles

Perfectly irresistible to us (we confess largely on account of the name) are Snicker-Doodles, which came by their name in a way we haven't been able to discover. Snicker-Doodles, in case you don't know, are small cakes and are made this way:
2-1/4 cups sifted cake flour
2-1/4 teaspoons baking powder
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-2 cup butter
1 cup sugar
Grated rind of 1-2 orange
3-4 cup milk.
Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt; sift together three times. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, cream together until light and fluffy. Add orange rind to eggs and beat until light. Add flour alternately with milk, beating after each addition. Bake in greased cup-cake pans in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes, or until done. Cool. Frost with Orange Butter Frosting (recipe below). Makes 3-1/2 dozen cakes.

Y. M. C. A. Notes

The New Britain South club pitched failed to arrive last night for their game with the Y. M. C. A.'s team in the County Y series. They phoned saying that they could not get all their men and would come next Tuesday. The boys picked up a game with a group of spectators.
The East Side Buddies came over for a game with the Community Fillers—a tight match. When time was up the score was tied and after the play-off the score keeper disagreed as to what will never be known which side won.
The junior league games will begin at six tonight, the first being between the Oxford and Eastons. At 7 the Tigers and Cubs will play. At 8 the Bucklands and North Ends and at 9 the Wildcats and the Community Fillers will meet.
Tomorrow at 8:15 all the boys under 16 or under 110 pounds will have final practice for the tournament which will begin here Saturday afternoon under the auspices of the County Y. M. C. A. There will be ten teams here for the preliminary rounds this week-end.
Tomorrow night at 8 the North Ends are playing the Vest Side Buddies and at 9 Joe's Men have a game with the Morris Business College of Hartford.
Friday night is Scout night and the Y's games are all suspended until 9:30 or whatever hour the Scouts finish their program. There will be nothing in the building for the smaller members of the Y on Friday evening.

SALESMAN IS KILLED BY COP BY MISTAKE

Police Delayed Sending of Message and Wrong Man Is Shot By Detective.

New Rochelle, N. Y., Feb. 15.—(AP)—A dozen persons were under subpoena to appear today before Medical Examiner Amos O. Squire at an inquest into the killing of Harry Slavin, Brooklyn clothing salesman, by a New Rochelle policeman last Friday night. Slavin was fatally shot by Detective Sergeant Gerhard Blume, who thought the salesman was a payroll robber sought by Hartford, Conn., police. Slavin and Theodore Cohen, also a clothing salesman, were in Hartford Thursday about the time of a payroll hold-up. They drove on to New Haven and shortly before noon Hartford police sent out an alarm for three men who escaped in an automobile. During the middle of the afternoon a second alarm was sent out, asking that an automobile bearing New York license plates be stopped. The number of the car was sent out on the Connecticut. New York state and Westchester county police wires, and officials said it reached New Rochelle within an hour. Telephoned Albany

Meanwhile, Hartford police telephoned Albany for a check of the Westchester county police wires, and officials said it reached New Rochelle within an hour. Hartford police said that they then, without delay, sent out a message to disregard the earlier alarm for the car with New York license plates. Officials said an investigation disclosed this cancellation did not go out on the Westchester county police wire until an hour after Slavin was killed. Detective Sergeant Blume is under a technical charge of homicide, and today's hearing was designed to determine disposition of this charge as well as to decide whether there was any contributory negligence in relaying cancellation of the alarm for the automobile in which Slavin was riding. The medical examiner has requested the chief of police of Hartford to send a representative to testify as to the time the alarm and cancellation were broadcast.

It is a far cry from the methods and materials used to test the old time battery radios to those necessary for the modern electric set. Time was when a pair of ear phones, a battery and a volt meter made a complete test outfit. The old radios were simple and the parts in them were not complicated. Wiring generally was exposed and repairs were easily made. When "B" eliminators made their appearance the battery voltmeter had to be replaced by a more expensive and accurate meter because, in using the old one on the eliminators the meter drew so much current that an erroneous reading was given. When the all-electric set came along tests became more complicated; so two, three or more meters were grouped on one panel and facilities made to plug directly into the tube socket in order to determine the various voltages and currents. The modern radio test set is essentially of this type, with refinements of course. When the screen grid tube became popular the old test set was obsolete until modern-

MAXWELL LOYALTY SAVED ROCKVILLE

General Manager Ainsworth Tells Men's Guild How Depression Was Met.

Rockville, Feb. 15.—Some inside information on Rockville's chief industry, the Woolen Industry and the Hockanum Mills Company in particular started the Men's Guild at St. John's Episcopal church last evening. The speaker was General Manager Percy Ainsworth of the Hockanum Mills Company, the man who brought good times back to Rockville in face of depression and at present is operating all of the mills of this concern on a day and night shift. Inasmuch as Rockville is months ahead of other communities supported by the woolen industry, unusual interest was shown in this address.

National Director
Not alone was General Manager Ainsworth of interest as a local executive but only a week ago he was elected a director of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, at its 68th annual meeting at the Boston Chamber of Commerce. This in itself was the deciding factor in taking his predictions for granted.

Facilities Revamped
The above remark followed a statement telling how a large amount of money had been spent in revamping the manufacturing facilities of the Hockanum Mills Company to ensure more economical operation. And to continue with facts—
"With little or no business coming in, the future outlook as black as it possibly could be, retrenchment the predominant policy in every line of business, it took courage to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars and embark on a program calling for an almost entirely new set up in the manufacturing policies of the mills."
"There was absolutely no thought in their minds of personal profit, in fact exactly the contrary, but they were actuated solely in the interest of the town," said the speaker.

It is of interest to quote a few paragraphs of Mr. Ainsworth's address in as much as it brings forward what saved Rockville during depression. He said in part—
"I want to tell you men and the City of Rockville, that in 1930 and 1931, there were scores of times when the mills should have been closed down entirely, and the assets in the mill known this as well as I do, but they were kept open on skeleton orders, and run at heavy losses, simply because the owners of these mills were unselfish in their loyalty to Rockville."
"Many of the plants around us were practically idle, and I repeat that only men with the keenest recognition of the town's needs, and the moral and financial stamina to support them, would have continued to run the mills under conditions as they obtained, and let me say most emphatically, I know what I am talking about. In the summer of 1931, we were not in a depression, we were on the verge of a panic. Not only national, but very much locally."
"The program of changing the mills over is completed and I want to go on record in saying that this step was the only thing that saved Rockville's principal industry. I have not the slightest hesitation in saying that if the productive facilities of the mills had not been changed over, I firmly believe every loom of the Hockanum would be idle today, because they could not have operated on the old basis and met competition."

Must Not Close
"It is most needless to say when once a manufacturing establishment is entirely closed, rarely does it open its doors again. Customers seek new sources of supply and are lost. Fortunately for the town, the opposite obtains. The mills at present are running overtime. We are running more looms, than ever was done in the history of the business notwithstanding the New England mill is closed."
"We are opposed to night work, but cannot meet the exacting delivery conditions imposed by customers, unless we run looms nights. Often goods come off the loom and are dyed, finished and shipped the same day."
"Mentioning the fact that 'today we turn out cloth like churning butter', Mr. Ainsworth went on to tell that today orders are being taken, in common with practically every line of business, at 'gross' as the very close margin of profit." He then continued, "Machinery, even the most modern, does not do all this. It is the splendid personnel of the mills which in my opinion is their greatest asset."
"Our records for returned goods on account of imperfections, prove the able workmanship and the competent supervision which characterized the mills," said the speaker who a second time paid tribute to the loyalty of the working force... "Rockville is particularly fortunate in having such capable men to head departments, and a conscientious loyal working force in all its mills. I know from personal experience, and the closest observation, that their jobs are their first thought, very often at great personal inconvenience. There is a very substantial part in maintaining Hockanum's reputation."

No Stability In Markets
The condition of the woolen market might be grasped from the paragraph which reads—
"As I said previously, we are running full at the moment, but there is little or no stability in our markets. Prices are too close. Very often below costs. Hand to mouth purchasing is the policy adopted by buyers. Unequal labor laws. The woolen mills in the South and Middle West, can run sixty hours a week or more. Particularly in the South, wages are considerably lower than in New England."
The true feeling of the executives of the Hockanum Mills Co. is "All these things make it exceedingly difficult to forecast future trends. I can simply say that we are sanguine—and on the job. All thinking going because it is conscientiously recognized that they are the mainstay of the town."

In few words, Mr. Ainsworth went over the wage situation telling that this is a matter where there could be strong feeling if there is any amount of unfair practice.
In speaking of wages, Mr. Ainsworth told how the readjustment of wages started in the Textile Industry, and how the Hockanum Mills Company operated almost three months before cutting wages and then only reduced five per cent notwithstanding that their competitors had made reductions of ten, fifteen and even twenty per cent.
"The Hockanum Mills Company, so far as I can learn, and certainly not since my connection with the company, have ever been the first to reduce wages when the trend was that way in the industry generally," said the speaker.

Wage Scale High
This statement was augmented with another which read in part, "Neither have they gone the maximum in making these reductions, because I can tell you very positively that the wage schedule in the local mills today, is as high or higher than the average paid in the woolen industry. I have made these comparisons personally. I know of some mills who have cut thirty, forty and fifty per cent, even in our immediate locality, mills have cut as much as thirty per cent."
Mr. Ainsworth capitalized his remarks at this point with the statement "This is not just a question of cutting wages. A little common sense will show employees that it is more a matter of being able to run the mills at all."
"If we cannot get orders we cannot run the mills, and are not the employees better off with a full week's work, even at a reduced wage level, than working two or three days a week on a higher wage level, or no work at all."
"I want to say most emphatically, and I speak for the owners of the business in this respect, that they will maintain as high a wage level as they consistently can, and still run the mills. It can be stated as a positive fact, any reduction in wages in these mills, if necessary, will not be for the Employers Personal Profit, but to ensure constant work for their employees."
The startling fact that more looms are being operated at the present time than ever have been done in the history of the business was also contained in the speaker's remarks when he said "We were running more looms at present than ever have been done in the history of the business, and it may not be generally recognized or appreciated how far the Hockanum Mills Company has contributed to the town's welfare... The fact that the Hockanum Mills Company has voluntarily undertaken a relief plan and given many people work this winter, although not a philanthropic institution, made the listeners sit up and take notice. The part of the address devoted to the industrial situation was closed with the following paragraph—

"Every knock is just another brick knocked out of the wall. The structure—too many falling bricks means a toppling mass and inevitable ruin."
Mr. Ainsworth spent the last few minutes of his address in speaking on the consolidation of the town of Vernon and the City of Rockville. "We waste a lot of precious time looking over the past, when we should be planning for the future," said Mr. Ainsworth.

The simpler the organization, the better it functions, whether it is a factory, a bank or a city government," said the speaker in an effort to show how a consolidated government would be ideal. He told how the three or four polling days a year, cost the mills money, with thousands of voters out on the company's time. Without wasting time, Mr. Ainsworth told how the matter was of utmost importance to the Hockanum Mills Company and other industries, closer than is generally realized.

Company's Taxes
He told how the grand list for 1932 was roughly $10,000,000—15 per cent of this amount is assessed against the Hockanum Mills Company. Its stockholders and officials are assessed another 1-2 per cent and almost another ten per cent of the grand list is accounted for by the employees of the mills, so that about 30 per cent of the grand list is closely coupled with the town's chief source of employment.
"I predict that consolidation of the Town and City Government will come before long, just as sure as the sun rises and sets; simply because public opinion will demand it," said the speaker after which he paid tribute to the local officials who also stated "Politics has no place in our community from a local standpoint. We ought to be just one big family, getting the most for what is paid for. The savings will take care of themselves, once you get started under one local administration."

She died at the Hartford hospital at 6 a. m. State Board Boosts Women's Fly Fishing Because It's a Sport of Fashionables.

Hartford, Feb. 15.—"We expect Connecticut to make fly fishing a socially accepted sport among ladies." Thus Commissioner Thomas H. Beck, Chairman of Connecticut's State Board of Fisheries and Game, tritely sums up the reason for setting aside of the most picturesque section of Branford River in the rambling old village of North Brattleford for the exclusive use of feminine anglers.

"The Florida winter society set," said Mr. Beck, "and a cruise after sailfish quite a welcome variety from the usual routine of golf, tennis and other sports which comprise the principal diversions at the Miami, Palm Beach and other southern resorts. The number of yachts at the Florida resorts was not so numerous as the series of summer repeated trips to the Gulf Stream with parties of New York and Connecticut social registerites who found angling an intriguing diversion."

Long Island Swells
"The Amagasset, Southampton and other Long Island society sets and fishing cruises from the Atlantic Yacht Club quite in order and the series of summer houseboat dances and teas at the club are often quite incidental to the main attraction—angling trips on the Atlantic billows."

"Fly casting, however, is the plus ultra of angling. In the most exclusive circles it is coming to be quite the thing. Mr. New York City last year some of the Park Avenue set, including Miss Elizabeth Spear and Mrs. E. Tappan Fairchild of Greenwich, formed their own little group, known as the New York Women's Fly Casting Club, Miss Spears is enthusiastic over our stream."

"Gentlemen's" Sport
"At the main society resorts, such as Kineo, Bar Harbor and Poland Spring, angling has its attractions for the debutante and matron. Of course the famous salmon streams such as the Restigouche and Matapeia, in New Brunswick, attract both Continental feminine royalty and American social elect, but we do not expect to quite compete here in Connecticut with the royal pastime offered by New Brunswick salmon angling clubs. We mean to keep up with the trend of modern times, however. Angling has long been a gentleman's sport, but even this has now succumbed to the progressiveness of the ladies."
Commissioner Beck intends to have a woman to preside over a cottage on the banks of the stream which has been acquired to serve as a clubhouse. It is proposed, he stated, to secure the cooperation of the Junior League in fitting up the cottage for use during the angling season which starts April 15. The woman will have the job of wading and will also assist novices in the art of fly casting. She will, in fact, act as a "professional."

"Connecticut has catered to its sportsmen and has established the most extensive system of leased trout streams in the country," said Commissioner Beck. "Now we propose to hearken to the rather insistent and quite unavoidable rights of the ladies."

MANY STRAY DOGS GO TO LETHAL CHAMBER

Dog Warden Raymond E. Robinson is combing to the conclusion that a good many people, unable or unwilling to provide food for dogs owned by them, are deliberately "dumping" them in Manchester. The method would be to take the dog for a ride, put him out of the automobile and "beat it." Robinson has picked up six strays during the last week, several of the half starved. No one has claimed any of them and none were taken to the pound. "Warden" Robinson, when unclaimed dogs have to be disposed of, puts them in a "lethal chamber" instead of shooting them, as is the common method. The dog goes into a box, a hose extends from an automobile is led into the box, the engine starts and the dog soon passes out peacefully.

MISS CHENEY CALLS COUNTY HOMES COSTLY

Child Welfare Report Says Foster Home System Uses Up Less Money.

Former Representative Mr. Jory Cheney, speaking on behalf of the Commission on Child Welfare in presenting the report of that body to the General Assembly yesterday, criticized the entire system of institutional care for neglected children in county temporary homes as being too costly for the best interests of the state and its young wards.

In her report Miss Cheney placed strong emphasis on the desirability of caring for children in foster homes instead of in county institutions. She argued that the care of children in county homes costs the taxpayers more than care in foster homes under the Bureau of Child Welfare. She presented to members of the committee copies of an analysis of costs in six county homes. The average per capita cost in the six county homes for the year 1930-31 was $381.90, this figure including only the home and school expenses and excluding any allowance for salaries of the county commissioners, part of whose work is in the operation of the foster homes, or any allowance for interest on the investment in county home property.

By way of comparison, Miss Cheney submitted figures for seven private societies placing children in foster homes with an average per capita per annum cost of $379.53. The Bureau of Child Welfare, said that the average per capita cost in his department for placing children was only $211.

Miss Cheney told the committee that the state's first duty was to "keep faith with the children now in foster homes and to see that there are enough investigators in the Bureau of Child Welfare to supervise properly the homes where they are placed." Another unavoidable duty, she said, was to protect the wards from fire hazards such as endanger several county homes. Some of the county homes are overcrowded, Miss Cheney stated. She concluded with an expression of the belief that children are better brought up in foster homes than in private institutions.

MACDONALD ANSWERS WAR DEBT QUESTIONS

Premier Says All Questions On World Recovery Will Be Discussed At Parley.

London, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald said in the House of Commons today that a recent statement by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, made it plain that while he did not regard war debts as an occasion for bargaining "he was anxious that all questions which delayed world recovery should be discussed by Great Britain and the United States in a spirit of co-operation for common ends."

Mr. Chamberlain said a few days ago that the approaching debts conference at Washington would not be made an occasion for swapping tariff advantages. Mr. MacDonald's statement was in answer to a question as to whether the chancellor's declaration meant that the British government's policy was that the American war debt was to be treated as an isolated problem.

Many women know this secret of saving on home baking

THEY are the women whose cakes and hot breads are real triumphs of home baking. They have learned by experience to judge the value of a baking powder by what it does in baking. They know that saving a few cents on the purchase price of a can of powder is one thing, and that saving money on actual baking is something else.

These women know that the secret of both success and economy in home baking is in the two-to-one leavening action of Rumford Baking Powder.

You too, will find in Rumford your money's worth of just the kind of leavening action you want—leavening that makes cakes and hot breads exceptionally light and tasty—leavening you can get only with a pure, all-phosphate powder.

52 laboratory tests in manufacture make Rumford's famous leavening action an every-time certainty.

Then too, the 100% phosphate content of Rumford adds vital food value to everything you make with it. It supplies in substantial quantity the Calcium and Phosphates necessary to build sound teeth.

The net cost will be $140,000. Since the expenditures up to March 1 are estimated at $80,000, it can be seen that $60,000 will be needed to carry on for the rest of the year. The statistics on the costs of charities presented by selectmen last night are very interesting. Over a three months period, from November 5 through January, a total of 87 days, a total of $26,120.56 was expended on groceries, rent and fuel, or at the rate of $298.74 per day.

Rec Five Downs All Burnside's, 27-25

Outcome Decided At Foul Line In Overtime Tussle

Game Is Slow and Unexciting Despite Closeness of Score Throughout; Visitors Dispute Result; Champion Flashes For Recs.

The Rec Five defeated the All-Burnside's at the school street basketball tilt that went to a five-minute overtime period and produced a total of five tie-up changes in the lead in forty-five minutes of play—and yet all this with a minimum amount of excitement and thrills.

Rec Five	4 9 0 8	27
All-Burnside's	4 8 2 4	25

The final score was 27 to 25, the Rec Five emerging on top late and after the overtime period by virtue of two free throws from the foul line by "Red" Kovis. With a few seconds remaining to play the incident took place which caused a heated verbal battle long after the final whistle had blown.

Referee Sherwood "Cap" Bissell was the center of the controversy. Powell of the All-Burnside's was set for a shot at the basket when Kovis came in to deflect the throw. Kovis pushed the latter out of the play and Bissell called a personal foul. Bissell was confused for a moment, thinking that Kovis was shooting for the basket, and started to raise two fingers. However, he quickly rectified his mistake and signalled one shot for Kovis on a personal by Thayer. Thayer and the spectators thought that Bissell had called the foul on Kovis, which would have given the All-Burnside's a chance to tie the score.

Meanwhile the referee blew, ending the game. Kovis took his shot and missed. Immediately the floor was filled with milling spectators and players who argued loud and loud. To Bissell's credit he maintained his stand in the face of threatening gestures and verbal discussions. He insisted that Thayer and not Kovis had committed the foul and only his momentary confusion caused him to hesitate at the time.

Play continued game on the basis of performance, neither team deserved a victory. The only good feature of the game was the close checking and fairly consistent following up of both teams. Before the game was many minutes old a signer dived and a display of poor shooting by both quintets and only the law of averages brought about any scores at all.

The Recs won the game from the foul line. Given 15 opportunities, the locals only made good seven but this number was enough to win as the Burnside's only four tries and made one. The visitors outscored the Recs from the floor, 12 baskets to ten.

The highly-touted "shooting circus" had all its rings missing, the Thayer brothers combined making only eight points. Ballard carried the scoring burden with nine points, while Pete Campion was outstanding for the Recs, scoring 10 points and playing a fine all-around game. It is probable that close guarding caused most of the poor shooting. At any rate, the Burnside's sharpshooters were unable to find the range and the Recs missed with everything they tossed at the basket. Scoring plays were few and far between that the game seemed dull and listless all the way until the closing minutes of the last period, when both teams sought desperately to break a 21-21 deadlock.

With three minutes to go, the Recs tallied 21-20, when Falkowski made good one of two free throws. A split second before the whistle Sturgeon had a chance to put the game into the bag with a shot from the complimentary circle but missed.

The overtime was fairly fast and exciting. Nichols scored first for the All-Burnside's, a long, looping shot from midfloor. A moment later Campion tallied from the side to deadlock the count. Then Bill Thayer came through with a short shot and again Campion evened matters by dribbling down the floor and scoring under the basket. Soon after Kovis, who has missed three foul shots in the last quarter, tossed in two hoops from the foul circle that decided the game.

CARNERA VIRTUALLY BARRED FROM N. Y. STATE PRIZE RINGS

Must Fight In "Super Dreadnaught" Division As Result of Schaeff's Death; Other Developments.

By HERBERT W. BARBER, Associated Press Sports Writer. New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The death of Ernie Schaeff had struck a heavy blow to boxing in New York State today, brought about threat of repeal of the state boxing law and caused the virtual disbarment of Primo Carnera, solely upon the grounds of his gigantic size.

Only a few hours after Schaeff died in Polyclinic Hospital of a brain injury, Governor Lehman ordered a thorough investigation of his bout with Carnera in Madison Square Garden last Friday night; the legislature moved toward more stringent regulations for boxing if not outright repeal of the law under which it is conducted in this state, and the State Athletic Commission flatly declared it would not approve a match between Carnera and Sharkey nor allow the huge Italian to box anyone less than six feet, two inches tall nor weighing less than 220 pounds.

Wrecked Garden's Plan. Back of the commission's surprising action, wrecking the Garden's plans for a title match here in June between Sharkey and Carnera, was the venerable figure of William Muldoon, who has ever been an opponent of the "super-dreadnaught" class for oversized heavyweights, first organized in 1931, would be re-established and that Carnera, if he is to fight in this state at all, must pit his rivals strictly from within that division.

Muldoon said he had opposed the Schaeff-Carnera bout from the start, when he considered that Paganini was a great athlete from the feet up. He has the speed and agility of a middleweight and as far as punching power is concerned he needs no snap to his blows. His weight is 350 pounds, but the greatest physical specimen I have ever seen.

The effect of the commission's ruling is practically to bar the big Italian from competition in this state. The "super-dreadnaught" division, as defined by the commission, would include only about a half dozen heavyweights—Carnera, George Godfrey, Jose Santa, Walter Cobb, Ray Impellitteri and Victorio Hernandez. Of these, Carnera has met, and defeated all excepting Impellitteri.

Although Jimmy Johnston, Garden boxing promoter, declined to state his reaction to the commission ruling, he has under indications that the Garden had under consideration a plan to move the Sharkey-Carnera title match to some other state, possibly Massachusetts. The bout could be held there under the auspices of the Boston Garden, a subsidiary of the local corporation.

Notwithstanding rumblings at Albany, it was considered unlikely that the Boston heavyweights' death would bring about any ban on boxing in New York. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee and chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, took the position that Schaeff's death, while deeply to be deplored, could not be construed as a reflection on boxing.

KANGERS WIN AGAIN

The fast going local Rangers won another game, playing preliminary to the Rec-All Burnside game last night and defeating the New Britain DeMolay, off to a fast start. The Rangers had a comfortable lead at the first quarter, but the DeMolay team rallied to tie the score at half time. Led by Ragunius who scored twelve field goals and two foul shots the Rangers led their attack in the final period to outscore New Britain and gain victory. The usual strong defense of the local team was sadly lacking the result being a somewhat free scoring game.

The individual scoring power of Ragunius was a huge asset to the Rangers, while the play of Kennedy and Della Fera also featured. For New Britain Wheller, Carlson and Carie played best.

This probably can not be completed for ten days. There was snarl conflict in medical opinion as to the cause of death. Dr. Charles W. Norris, chief medical examiner of New York, has declared an autopsy had revealed "absolutely no evidence" that Schaeff died of injuries received in the Carnera bout.

Dr. Bryan Stookey, noted brain specialist who operated on the stricken boxer Monday, had declared on the other hand, that the cerebral hemorrhage and resultant pressure on the brain had been caused by Carnera's punches. Dr. Stookey's diagnosis was confirmed, tentatively at least, by Dr. Norris' assistant, Dr. Benjamin Vance, who performed the autopsy. He signed a certificate giving the causes of death as "cerebral hemorrhage and cerebral compression."

Dr. Vance added, however, that he believed some growth, a cyst of unknown hitherto unsuspected, was the real cause of the compression that paralyzed the fighter's left side from the moment he toppled over in the 18th round until he died at 4:36 yesterday morning.

A police investigation developed no evidence of "criminal negligence." Assistant District Attorney James P. Daly announced after he had questioned Carnera, the rival managers and handlers, the referee, Billy Cavanaugh, the judges and boxing commission officials.

Schaeff's body was sent to Sheltonville, Mass. near Boston, last night. Funeral services will be held Friday from the home of his mother, Mrs. Lucy Schaeff.

BOBBY JONES WINS POLL AS FOREMOST ATHLETE OF DECADE

Noses Out Babe Ruth In Rankings By Fifty Leading Experts On Super Talent of Past Ten Years.

(EDITOR'S NOTE)—The year 1923 marks completion of the most spectacular decade in the history of sports. Beginning in 1913, a colorful array of super-talent has paraded through the championship arenas. To determine how the experts regard their exploits, after ten years, the Associated Press asked 50 of the more experienced observers to submit rankings. The results of this poll are contained in the following story. Tomorrow, a similar poll on the outstanding non-combatant leaders of the decade will be discussed.

By ALAN GOULD, (A. P. Sports Editor). New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Babe Ruth and Bobby Jones have waged the battle of the decade! They haven't met, but have fought on the links, in the ball park or on the ring but they have just been through a whirlwind struggle of ballots in which Robert Tyre Jones, retired undefeated golf champion of the world, emerged with a hair-line margin over George Herman Ruth, greatest slugger of all time, as the most dominating sports performer of the glorious decade, 1923-33.

The poll was held to stimulate the many who serve only to stimulate the nation's sports interest. A majority of 707 points to 209 for Ruth.

At the request of the Associated Press, these fifty critics ranked the five leading performers of the past ten years, taking every sphere of sporting activity, in the United States as well as abroad. The field was wide open. The votes were tallied on the basis of five points for first, four for second place and so on. And that's where the fun began.

From the outset Ruth and Jones ran neck and neck. The Babe was off to a slight lead, overhauled by Jones at the halfway mark and slightly outrun in the "fretch" drive. The Bambino was hot on the heels of the Georgia giant up to the finish, however, and came off with the distinction of getting a majority of first-place ballots, these standing 23 to 18 in Ruth's favor.

William Harrison (Jack) Dempsey, chiefly because of his spectacular role as a gate attraction during the decade, rather than the calibre of his accomplishments, won third place easily with 120 points. Varying five times did he threaten either of the pace-setters. His two-time conqueror, Gene Tunney, finished eighth with only 18 points.

The "first ten," on the basis of the balloting, were completed by the following: Fourth, Ed. B. Tilden; fifth, Helen Wills Moody; sixth, Paavo Nurmi; seventh, Harold (Red) Grange; eighth, Gene Tunney; ninth, Robert Moses (Lefty) Grose; tenth, Henri Cochet.

Thus only one feminine performer, Mrs. Moody, and two foreign stars, Nurmi and Cochet, found their way into the top ten of the decade's most brilliant stars. Mrs. Moody was mentioned on nearly half the 50 ballots for a ranking within the first five. The only other woman named at all was Genna Collet, Vars, five-time holder of the American Golf championship. Baseball, golf, boxing, tennis, track and football, in that order, correlated the most votes. Gridiron stars mostly were passed up by the voters.

The annual Hartford County Y basketball tournament for junior team will begin at the Manchester YMCA this week Saturday at 1:30 p. m. with contestants reporting at 1 p. m. The semi-finals will be played Feb. 25, and the finals on Saturday evening, March 11, at 7 p. m. The tournament is for boys who are under 16 years and for boys who are 16 who weigh less than 110 lbs. stripped. Entries close on Friday, A. L. Randall of Broad Brook, commissioner for junior basketball for the County YMCA, will be in charge.

"BUDDY" KERR STAR AT MASS. ACADEMY

Holds Down Forward Berth At Governor Dummer, Sees McCluskey Run.

Otis "Buddy" Kerr, Manchester High graduate who is now a student at Governor Dummer, Academy at South Byfield, Mass., is certainly going great as a forward on the varsity basketball team, according to reports reaching the sports department. The team has won ten and lost one game to date, that to Bristol.

In a recent game with the M. T. Freshmen, Kerr scored eight field goals and three fouls. The captain of the team is John H. Brown, who has been playing very well. Kerr wrote a local friend that he attended the Boston Area games last Saturday with the academy basketball team, and saw McCluskey race to victory in the two-mile run. "Was I ever proud," wrote Kerr. "It's an honor to come from the same town that he does."

TWIN BILL TO FEATURE COLORED GIANTS CLASH WITH HOUSE OF DAVID

PETE JACKSON WAS GREATEST OF THEM ALL—JIM CORBETT

Former Champ Fought West Indian Black Man In Four Hour Bout Lasting 61 Rounds, Declared "No Contest."

By BILL BRAUCHER. New York, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Jim Corbett always has said that Peter Jackson was the greatest of them all.

And there are old-timers who still insist that, if Sullivan had not drawn the color line when asked to fight Jackson, the West Indian black man would have been the heavyweight champion of the world.

Corbett was not quite 75 years old when he battled Jackson 61 rounds at the California Club in San Francisco. Jackson was 30 and with eight years of boxing behind him was regarded as at the height of his fighting prime. The date was May 21, 1891.

When the bout was at its greatest, the California club questioned the advisability of sending the virtually unknown Corbett against the great negro. Corbett's principal fight up to that time had been his victory over Choyan. Finally a purse of $10,000 was put up.

Both men put in two months of hard training, though Jackson refused to take his young opponent seriously, expressing the belief that he would win in six rounds.

Only members of the California club could attend the fight, as the wealthy sportsmen composing it assessed themselves for the sum necessary for purses. Before the bout there was great excitement in the streets. At request of police, the club would not allow newspapers to install ringside wires or telephones.

The fight started at 10 p. m. During the first few rounds the crowd applauded Corbett's aggressiveness. Jim scored repeatedly with lusty lefts to the head and body. Jackson's straight left was a terror—and he had a terrific right hand.

During the years afterward Corbett's left arm often troubled him, a result of his use of it that night to ward off Jackson's punches. And early in the fight he came to have a profound respect for Jackson's quick right to the heart—a blow that crunched ribs.

Round after round, while the clock's hands turned to 11, the clock's hands tore into each other. Then, in the 41st round, it seemed that Corbett would win. He backed Johnson into a corner, caught him off balance and poured punches upon the black man's head and body. But the slugger from St. Croix battered his own way out.

Corbett's left forearm went lame. Jackson's shoulders became cramped, and an ankle, injured in an accident a few days before the fight, stiffened and swelled. Corbett circled his watchful adversary, who stood in the center of the ring, waiting for Jim to come close enough to hit. He was exhausted. Corbett's eyes belied out, but Jackson's injured ankle made every step a pain. It appeared that Corbett could have bowled down the champion.

Expect Capacity Crowd At State Army For Pro Tilt; National Guards Meet Sport Centers In First Game At 7:30 O'Clock; Dancing Also.

The finest basketball menu of the season will be served at the State Army tonight. As a fruit cocktail, the National Guards will face the Sport Centers of Hartford at 7:30 o'clock, followed by a turkey course with all the fixin's that brings together the Philadelphia Colored Giants and the House of David, to be topped by a dessert of dancing until midnight.

It's a menu fit for a king and should satisfy the most ravenous of basketball fans. The main encounter is billed as the world's professional cage championship and the winner will probably be booked to play the Renaissance of New York in the near future. Tonight's tussle has all the earmarks of the best court game of the year locally. It will be played according to pro rules between quintets that are regarded as the cream of the field.

Charmy Jimmie Hill of the Guards has secured Phil Casman of New Haven, one of the best officials in the state, to handle the preliminary, and Ray Ryan, also of New Haven, will officiate the main game. Art Baker's orchestra will furnish music for dancing.

According to reports on the advance sale of tickets, the reserved seats are going fast and a banner crowd is anticipated. The Philadelphia Colored Giants and House of David boast the greatest collection of hoopers in the game today, every player being a star in his own right. On the basis of past performances, both teams seem evenly matched and it should be a nip and tuck battle from the opening whistle.

The Guards will test the strength of the young Sport Centers in the first game and should not experience much trouble in coming out ahead, unless the visitors happen to be the Phantoms of New Britain in disguise.

MIDDLETOWN TOPS BRISTOL BY 25-24

Halt Monahanites' Winning Streak of 15 Games With Startling Upset.

Middletown High School accomplished the seemingly impossible last night, stopping Bristol High's winning streak of 25 consecutive games with a 25 to 24 triumph at Middletown to give Meriden High a chance to gain the C. I. L. title. It was the outstanding upset of the current court season, although the Monahanites seemed headed for defeat in their last five games, all playoff in nature.

Middletown's victory came through its tight zone defense, a style of play also used by Bristol. The highly touted League champs were unable to penetrate Middletown territory and resorted to long shots in an effort to put the game away. This method failed, however, and Middletown's consistent attack keeping the game close all the way.

At the end of the first period Bristol led 8 to 6, but Meriden came back to gain the advantage by halftime, 15 to 13. In the third quarter Bristol again came to the fore, tying the count at 21-21. Bristol then took a three point lead but Middletown scored twice in succession to take the lead at the whistle.

By winning its next and final game, Bristol will retain the League title this year, but another loss will give Meriden a chance to deadlock the standing. Middletown did not change its position by the victory, remaining in third place.

The report, issued last night, was signed by Bernard M. Baruch, who succeeded the late Calvin Coolidge as chairman; by Clark Howell and Alexander Leggett.

Alfred E. Smith, while stating that he was in substantial agreement with the greater part of the report, did not sign it. He issued a supplementary memorandum, "placing the emphasis where I think it belongs."

Declaring that "parallel lines are wasteful and unnecessary," the committee report said, "regional consolidation should be hastened and, where necessary, enforced, looking eventually to a single National system."

Smith expressed himself vigorously against the report, saying, "I am convinced that the fundamental problem of the railroads is that of nation-wide consolidation and reorganization to reduce costs and rates, and write off losses."

He said that the report was "a public utility in the making" and that it was "a public utility in the making."

The question for the railroad executives to decide is whether the steps taken in this direction should be compulsory or voluntary. To date voluntary consolidation under the auspices of the Interstate Commerce Commission has had little progress.

The question has been whether compulsory consolidation is constitutional. x x x

"If the railroads show no willingness to reorganize, reorganization can surely be brought about by Federal legislation," he said.

"Most of the responsible for present railroad management need not complain of radical or drastic governmental action in the near future," he concluded.

Citing the Democratic and Republican prohibition plank in the last election, Wagner said the people "expressed their preference by giving an overwhelming victory to the Democratic candidates."

The Elaine resolution, he asserted, "is a repudiation of the public demand."

FINANCIAL NEWS

By AARON COOK Questions may be submitted to this column. Those questions deemed of group interest shall be treated in articles; those deemed otherwise, shall be treated individually. Dial 5881 with questions.

Over the week-end news brought out a reduction of 50 cents a pound in wholesale prices of cigarettes. The market for leading tobacco shares advanced somewhat, when the news came out due to an over-optimistic position. The market on Monday trading was very dull and uninteresting Saturday.

Yesterday was particularly adverse in public psychology due to the Michigan banking news. Governor Cooch of Michigan performed a very admirable act in declaring an 8 day banking holiday on the entire State when a very weak situation was disclosed in Detroit.

The market was weak with considerable liquidation taking place. Lower for the day made in the morning were bettered somewhat at the close. The reasons for the "holiday" was to give depositors a chance to think things over, to give officials a chance to get affairs in shape and take stock of the situation as a whole rather than as an isolated situation in Detroit.

A depositor anyone's actions are tempered accordingly if time is allowed or delayed to study a situation. I am not saying that all banks would have been affected in Michigan if the Governor's Proclamation had not been made; what I am saying is that the banking system in Michigan will be in a much better position through his act.

It is granted that a weak condition has been unearthed and the thought is undeniable in many minds of how many other conditions exist comparable to this one. Negotiations have been started with Federal Reserve and finance officials to speedily terminate the closings.

When the openings are made the banks throughout the state will be in an impregnable position. There may be some banks on withdrawal but depositors' anxiety will be eliminated very materially. The element of history in our prolonged period of readjustment looks as though it might be a hang-over cleanup in this state, putting their houses in order, so they can partake in the recovery which many business men and students of business forecasting publicly state has been started.

A question in many minds at present may be, What about the New York banks? One may be very certain in his own mind that New York banks are in the soundest position of anywhere in the United States. It is appalling the degree of liquidity that New York banks are maintaining. It is due to conditions the amount of cash and government securities that they have on hand.

The New York banks are strong enough to forestall beforehand any such similar situation, happening in New York.

American Telephone & Telegraph directors meet today in their dividend action. Brokers and Analysts seem to feel that the regular $2.25 dividend will be maintained.

The National Transportation Committee's report was disclosed yesterday. It recommended a sounder financial policy for the rails and a revision of bankruptcy procedure that those difficulties may be recognized without costly receiverships. Regional consolidations were recommended to dispense with wasteful competition. The report has set a goal which the rails should strive to attain.

The local market was weak yesterday. Insurance stocks show an average point decline while the remainder of the list was up fractions. Cities Service was up 1/2, Aetna Life closed 12-14, Aetna Fire 27 1/2-28 1/2; Hartford 37 1/2-38; National Fire 39-40 1/2; Southern New England Telephone was weak in sympathy with American Telephone & Telegraph. Southern New England Telephone Closed 108-112 down 2 points for the day.

Brokers feel that reactionary tendencies will extend somewhat into term trading. The hope is that the market will be in a position for a rebound from which sharp rebound would be logical. An early solution of the Michigan conditions will put the market in a position for an upswing which has been forecasted continuously without costly receiverships. Regional consolidations were recommended to dispense with wasteful competition. The report has set a goal which the rails should strive to attain.

FINANCIERS STUDY MICHIGAN'S BANKS

(Continued From Page One) banks of the Guardian-Detroit-Union Group, Inc., with an estimated $500,000,000 in deposits was given a major reason for the general closing order.

No question was raised as to the stability of other Detroit institutions.

Came As Surprise Many out-state bankers knew nothing of the situation until they received notice yesterday to close. A few had opened for business before the order was received.

Except for the upper peninsula, which is separated both geographically and economically from the remainder of the state, the banks were adding by the order. The upper peninsula is in a different Federal Reserve bank district and although the governor of the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis said he was keeping hands off in the situation, most banks above the Straits of Mackinac were doing business as usual.

HOLD TWO SUSPECTS IN BOETTCHER CASE

(Continued From Page One) the family had not heard from the kidnappers, assuming a note purporting to offer a $10,000 ransom in the sum of $80,000 reduction demanded by the extortionists was a fake.

The victim's attorney, James Grant, conferred with Clark but neither would discuss their conversation.

Mitchell and Zarlego, Clark said, offered alibis accounting for their actions the night Boettcher was kidnaped from the driveway of his home. Clark said the men were suspected because they had been seen talking to eastern gangsters who were known to have been in the city recently.

Boettcher, at 11:30 p. m. last night, had been a captive 48 hours. In that time, Clark and Newton said, there had been no authentic word from the kidnappers. A telephone call to the Boettcher home by an unidentified woman last night sent police scurrying to check it, but it was determined that the caller was intoxicated.

Detective Inspector L. B. Bruce of Colorado Springs, who came to Denver at the apparent request of the Boettcher family, conferred with Clark last night. Clark said he did not know why Bruce was interested in the case but that he had not invited him to take part. Bruce said a special delivery letter sent him at police headquarters here contained suggestions on the case, but the contents were insignificant. He said he had contact with the Boettcher family since Monday.

THE TWINKLES By HAL COCHRAN and GEORGE SCARRO

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) The sketch of Duncy was real good. "Well, son, I did the best I could," the man said and he said, "It was just a joke on you." "At least I got a valentine," laughed Duncy. "and I think it's fine. Gee, having jokes pulled off on me is a really nothing new." "The Tines always pick on me, but I'm as cheerful as can be. If figure, why should I get mad. If things are done in fun." "Some folks are different. It's too bad when little jokes make people mad. 'Tis best to laugh at every one. Little sily thing that's done." Then Duncy said, "It's almost noon. Say, where did we leave our balloon? I think we should be leaving here. We've been here long enough." "Of course, we don't know where we're bound, but some new place can soon be found. The wind's died down, so riding through the air isn't not so rough." "Your big balloon is safe and sound. Right in my hands it can be found." The valentine man told them. "Gee, I hate to see you go." "But I don't blame you Twinkles for sailing round to see the sights. The more you see in this big world, the more you're bound to know." "The Tines then bid him goodbye and shortly sailed off in the sky. The big balloon just drifted and the trip was lots of fun. "They rode for 'bout an hour or more. Then Cobby said, 'My limbs are sore, I wish we'd land.' And Scouty cried, 'You're not the only one.' "I, too, would like to reach the ground." The big balloon then whirled around and began to come down to earth. Cobby said, "What a thrill!" "I see right now where we will land. Upon a great big pile of sand." The Twinkles then landed. They tried, "Where are we and not be rough." "Your big balloon is safe and sound. Right in my hands it can be found." The valentine man told them. (The Twinkles then sailed off and back in shape and ready to go.)

HOW THE INSULTS TRADED IN STOCKS

(Continued From Page One) General Electric Company took a seat in the rear of the room and waited to be called. He putted at a pipe while he waited. "There are very few facts that I know," Young said, "I can be disposed of very quickly."

Young was one of those said to have received "small" stock at less than the market price. Several other witnesses had been called for today, including Samuel Insull, Jr., son of the utilities magnate who now is residing in Greece, and former Vice President David Daughter—No, Mother Dear, but you should see the way he looks at me when I'm not looking at him.
