STATUTES RESTRICT LIGHT PLANT VOTE

"Taxpayers" Not To Ask Endorsement of Proposal; To Press Rate Case Plan.

The possibility of an appeal by the taxpayers for authority to establish a municipally owned electric light plant as advocated by President Sherwood G. Bowers, and other officers of the League, received a severe setback today with information from President Bowers that the general statutes may prevent further restrictions on the vote of the town, any attempt to proceed further with the plan as outlined by the League officials last Wednesday night.

Rate Case Funds. It was also assured that the Taxpayers League will seek to have included in the call for a special town meeting which will follow the adjourned annual town meeting, a petition for the town to become a party with the Taxpayers' League in making an appeal from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in the rate case brought against the Manchester Electric Company by the Taxpayers' League. A supplementary item in the call will be the petition to appropriate $500 from the town funds to carry the fight to the Superior Court. It is expected that these petitions will cause considerable interest at the special town meeting.

The cause of the Taxpayers' League in its advocacy of the municipal electric plant idea is favored by the leading members of the League who listened to a representative of the diesel engine manufacturer at the last meeting of the League. At that meeting Engineer B. A. Cook of the McIntosh and Seymour Corporation, presented his case to the taxpayers for consideration and was given a fine reception by the assembly in Tinker hall.

Predicts "Hard Fight". At that meeting President Sherwood G. Bowers of the Taxpayers' League gave notice that the League was in for a "hard fight" with the Manchester Electric company, and that there is no evidence of lowered rates for some time. He estimated the expense incurred by the Manchester Electric Company he said, in fighting the rate case. Following the discussion Mathias Spiess, past president of the League moved that President Bowers be empowered to petition the Legislature for permission to own and operate a municipal electric light plant.

The statutes governing the establishment and operation of an electric light plant are contained in Chapter 53, section 522, 524 and 543 General Statutes of Connecticut which read as follows: "TOWN OR BOROUGH MAY ESTABLISH PLANTS.—Any town, city or borough may, under the limitations of this chapter, construct, purchase, lease, or establish, and maintain, one or more plants for the manufacture and distribution of gas or electricity for furnishing light for municipal use and for the use of such of its inhabitants as may require and pay for the same. Such plants may include suitable lands, structures, easements, water privileges, stations, gasometers, boilers, engines, dynamos, tools, machinery, pipes, conduits, poles, conductors, lamps and other apparatus and appliances for making, generating, distributing and using gas or electricity for lighting purposes.

"Section 522: No town or borough shall exercise the authority conferred in section 522 until after a vote for that purpose shall have been passed by a two-thirds vote at each of two legal town or borough meetings, duly called for that purpose, of which meetings the second shall be called at an interval of not less than one year after the first. At such meetings such vote shall be taken by written or printed ballots and by the use of the check list. When such a vote shall have failed of its passage, as hereinbefore provided, at any such meeting, no similar vote shall be taken until after the expiration of one year.

"Section 543: All provisions of the statutes, and all ordinances or by-laws of any town, city or borough relating to the provisions of this chapter, relative to the manufacture, use, generation or distribution of gas or electricity, or the quality thereof or the plant and appliances therefor, shall apply to such town, city or borough, so far as the same may be applicable and not inconsistent with this chapter, as the same are applied to persons and corporations engaged in making, generating or distributing gas or electricity therein.

ROCKVILLE

DEFER SPECIAL TOWN MEETING ON CHARTER

Common Council Decides Not To Have Both City and Town Sessions Same Night.

Notwithstanding the fact that it was first planned to hold a special town and city meeting the same evening, namely Monday, March 6th, the action relative to a special town meeting was deferred last evening at the special meeting of the mayor and common council. It was originally planned to hold a joint meeting to take action relative to a Board of Finance acting for both the town and the city, but because of the uncertainty of the situation the matter has been deferred.

A special meeting of the Common Council was held last evening with Mayor A. E. Waite presiding and Alderman Francis B. Cratty as the only absent member. Mayor Waite explained the purpose of the meeting was to take action to call a special city meeting, if the members deemed it advisable and that this meeting might be held on Monday, March 6, the same night as the town meeting, upon petition of William Maxwell and twenty-one others.

Alderman Roger J. Murphy stated that it was one of the requirements for a special city meeting to state the hour and place, and that he would suggest having the town meeting first to see what action was to be taken and then call a special city meeting. It was brought out at the special council meeting last evening, that three different actions are to be brought up at the special town meeting on March 6th, namely, setting the rate case, designating dirt roads to be constructed with the state appropriation of $17,500 and to act on the petition of William Maxwell and 20 others relative to a board of finance.

Alderman Murphy moved that the matter be laid on the table but this was later changed to read "action is hereby deferred," which motion was later carried. Alderman George Scheets interrupted at this point and stated that they did not need any power for it was given right in the city charter to the common council to do what they see fit for the welfare of the community. He stated that he would rather see a city meeting to vote back the lighting appropriation of $2,000 which was deducted some months ago.

Alderman Kerwin Little stated at the meeting that if the people would give serious thought they would have a finance board and would not be in the condition they are today. The following recommendations were made: First, a revaluation of all city buildings; second, an immediate inspection and revaluation; third, the rewriting of the city's policies in the form of a "Blanket Insurance Policy"; fourth, a discussion with the Corporation Counsel relative to damage caused by the fire apparatus on way to a fire. The report was signed by Alderman George Scheets and Councilman William Rogalis and Robert E. Drives.

It was brought out in the discussion which followed that premiums in excess of $1300 are paid by the city each year. Under the head of new business, the dangerous condition of certain sidewalks on Village street, near the brick house. The matter was called to the attention of the public works committee to look into the matter. The regular report of the auditors, William H. Yost and J. Andrew Trull was presented showing a substantial balance on hand. The meeting adjourned at 9:10 o'clock.

Going to Inauguration. Dr. William L. Higgins of Coventry, Congressman-elect from the Second Congressional District of Connecticut and his secretary, Charles S. Greenwood of 340 Main street, Wethersfield, will leave late tomorrow for Washington to attend the inauguration of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt. They will make the entire trip by auto. On Wednesday evening Dr. Higgins plans to attend a conference called by Bertrand Snell of New York, Republican leader of the Republican-elect in the 73rd Congress.

Dr. William L. Higgins, one of Tolland County's Commissioners, who has been elected to Congress, has been assigned an office in the new office building. He is reported as assigned to Suite 1631, which is the floor of the new building. Congressman-elect Higgins is pleased to learn that he has been assigned an office in the new building.

which is modern in every respect. He has also received word that if he should arrive in Washington before a new building is ready, he will be temporarily placed in the old building. Very little has been heard in recent weeks of the contest between Dr. William L. Higgins and William C. Fox, who has contested the election.

Roy Wilcox Speaks Thursday. Lieutenant Governor Roy Wilcox will be the principal speaker at the eighth annual banquet of the Rockville Fish & Game Club which will be held at the Rockville House. Plans are being made to serve one of the largest groups ever to attend a banquet at the Rockville House. The Connecticut Fish & Game Commission is to be represented by Superintendent Arthur L. Clark who was recently appointed to office.

The toastmaster for the evening will be Alderman Roger J. Murphy who has taken an active part in sports for many years. Another speaker will be State Senator Edwin R. Dimock of Morrow, who is quite a humorist. Chief Game Protector Charles E. Botchinsky of Ellington avenue and daughter, Mrs. William Skinner of Holyoke, Mass., are enjoying a sail to the West Indies while Mrs. Botchinsky is staying in West Hartford.

Plans are well underway for the annual St. Patrick's Night Minstrel which will be held for the benefit of St. Bernard's Catholic church in the Town Hall, Memorial Building on Friday evening, March 17. Among the different organizations taking part in the affair are the members of St. Bernard's choir, both divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and members of the parish. The music will be furnished by Ernie Rock's orchestra.

"A Visit to London" will be the topic of the discussion of Rev. Dr. Joseph Cooper of Stafford Springs which will be delivered at the meeting of the Rockville Lions Club at the Rockville House on Wednesday evening. The regular meeting of the Board of Selectmen will be held tonight with First Selectman Francis J. Prichard presiding. Much routine business will be acted upon.

GOVERNOR'S POWERS BACKED BY BAR ASSN.

Executive Committee of State Organization Goes On Record On Judgeships. New Haven, Feb. 23 (AP)—The executive committee of the Connecticut Bar Association has gone on record as favoring the appointment of judges of the courts of Common Pleas and the minor courts.

The committee's recommendations will be submitted to a special meeting of the Bar Association, the date for which has not yet been set. The committee's recommendations will be submitted to a special meeting of the Bar Association, the date for which has not yet been set.

ROOF FIRE THREATENS HOMESTEAD ST. HOUSE

High Wind Fans Sparks and Shingles Ignite — Blaze Quickly Extinguished. The Manchester Fire Department was called out this morning at 9:40 for a fire on the roof of the double tenement house at 31-33 Homestead street which was quickly eating its way under the roof in the high wind.

Sparks blown across the roof from the chimney at No. 33, occupied by Joseph Trevino, ignited the shingles on the south side, the shingles burning through the roof boards and to the eaves on that side. An alarm was rung in at the Bop Am! plant designating No. 63, Homestead Park, as the scene of the fire. Both trucks responded and extinguished the fire with the chemical lines after a fifteen minute fight.

GIRLS FRIENDLY PLANS FOR TURKEY SUPPER

To Be Followed Tonight By Entertainment — Dress Rehearsal Last Night.

The Girls Friendly society of St. Mary's Episcopal church, met last evening and made final preparations for the turkey supper to be served at the parish house tonight at 6:30. The waitresses are requested to be present tonight at 5:30 to assist in any way possible. The final dress rehearsal took place last night at the parish house, which is to follow the supper. Miss Evaline Pittland is coaching the cast.

Miss Ethel Madden was advanced to senior membership. After the business of the meeting there was a social time with refreshments. Sunday evening the following girls were admitted at the admission service: Dorothy Tomlinson, Margaret Wilson, Ruth Britton, Mathia Vonnary, Beatrice Turner, Mrs. Virginia Thomson.

COURT CASES FEW DURING FEBRUARY

Only Ten Are Tried—One of Them "Not Guilty" — No Cases a Year Ago. The month of February record for the Manchester Police Court reveals a total of ten cases which came before the court's attention. The convictions brought total receipts of $144.98 of which $56 goes to the state of Connecticut and $88.98 to the town of Manchester.

A year ago in February there was not a single court case in February which was a record in local police court history. Of the ten during the past month, six were for violations of the motor vehicle law. Two of these were nolle and in one a verdict of "not guilty" was returned, convictions being ruled in the other three.

The four other cases were as follows: Two for intoxication and assault, one for non-support and one for indecent exposure. The executive committee was called into special session by President David I. Day of Bridgeport as a result of the address Feb. 17 by Chief Justice William M. Malbie in which he denounced "political trafficking in minor judgeships," and said the present condition in the Legislature showed the need for a change in the court system.

REPORTS HITTING BOY AS SNOW BLINDS VIEW

New Bedford Man Tells State Police of Accident Last Night in Mansfield. Ernest Sellow of New Bedford, Mass., reported at the Police station here last night that while driving from Boston on his way to Hartford he had struck a boy riding a bicycle, who turned out to be Alexander Kasper, 14, at Mansfield-Four Corners. Snow-blown by a high wind had obscured his vision, Sellow said. The boy's leg was injured. State Police men Buckley of the Stafford Barracks permitted Sellow to proceed and he made his report of the accident here, where he spent the night.

Recreation Center Items of Interest

Winnings of the women's bridge party held at the West Side Rec. yesterday afternoon were Mrs. R. Dwyer, first; Mrs. G. Baker, second; Mrs. George Stramondo, third.

The intrachurch league basketball games for girls Wednesday night bring the Germans and St. Mary's together at 7 and the Methodist and St. James at 8 o'clock. The social scheduled for this Friday night will bring the Old Fellows and other orders connected with their lodge as well as the Daughters of Rebecca together in a variety evening program to be held at the east side recreation building with the events scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

For this week's community dance which will be held on Thursday evening, Director Frank Busch has engaged Art McKay's newly organized 10 piece band which has been heard at some of the recent basketball games played at the local Armory. Now is the time for golfers to get started on their practice by taking advantage of the golf net that is available at the East Side recreation building to members. More information can be obtained by dialing 8784 for the schedule allowance.

Presentation of the American Red Cross First Aid Certificates will be made tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock in the east side recreation building. This class which has been in session for 10 weeks was the largest attended of any class ever to be conducted in Manchester, with the attendance mark reaching 76 for a total of the different ones to at least attend two or more lectures.

The value of the instruction derived from this course is unsurpassed insofar as being of assistance in cases requiring immediate medical attention insofar as their instructions qualify them. The Recreation Centers were fortunate in having one so well qualified and proficient as Dr. Robert Knapp to have full charge of this class.

Those who took the final examination and successfully qualified for their certificates are as follows: Mary Strong, Grace Hatch, Carl Bohn, Gertrude Lyttle, Arthur H-agland, Alice V. Volquardson, Paul J. Volquardson, Florence R. Catano, Jessie W. Bidwell, Charles Mincucci, Margaret Liebman, Naomi Foster, H. B. Pingree, Esther B. Ertel, Priscilla Backofen, Jessie Iewitt, Mrs. Gertrude Bengston, Robert McIntosh, Mrs. W. R. Martin, Mrs. Fred Robinson, Marion Erdin, Eleanor Runde, Etta Chulow, Gertrude Fenerty, Stanley Golas, David Chapman, Clifford Mason, Joseph Taylor, James H. Schaub, August Midner, Charles Ruttger, Raymond Bidwell, Alice Paradis, Irene Keeney, Sara McNally.

TIERNY TURNS BACK SEAT TO MERRITT

Democratic Congressman From Fourth District Plans To Resume Law.

Washington, Feb. 23 (AP)—Representative William L. Tierney of Greenwich, Conn., will turn back his seat in Congress Saturday to Schuyler Merritt of Stamford from whom he wrested it two years ago. The Fourth District Democrat will resume his law practice in Connecticut, representing Providence, as a possible choice for justice at tomorrow's election in Washington. Roosevelt "will put America back on top again."

Although Tierney, a former borough judge, has been mentioned as a possible choice for justice at tomorrow's election, he is not a candidate for public office at this time. He and his son William L. Tierney, Jr., will practice law in Greenwich and also expect to handle frequent cases in Washington. Tierney's principal work during his term in the House has been in banking statutes. As a member of the banking committee he has passed on all bills affecting the country's financial institutions and on the development of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Another of his interests has been the repeal of the 18th Amendment and modification of the Volstead act. He has voted consistently against prohibition laws and expressed pleasure Congress passed a repeal amendment during his term. Tierney who was born in Norwalk in 1876 first held public office in 1913, when Governor Baldwin, Democrat named him judge of the Borough Court of Greenwich. He became an attorney after his graduation from Fordham and New York Law school.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 28.

WHY ALL THE SHOOTING?

There has been an enormous amount of sound and fury over this business of the minor court judgments; almost apoplectic indignation over a so-called deal between the Republican leadership in the Legislature and a little group of "traitor" Democrats whereby a division of the appointments between the parties was arrived at; one would think that the limits of political degradation had been reached because the Democrats, with a single elective state office in their control and a nominal majority of one member in the state Senate, were checked in their dream of naming members of their own party to every minor judgeship in the commonwealth.

Why on earth all the shooting? In 1913, when the late Simon E. Baldwin, Democrat, was governor for a second term, there were 20 Democrats in the state Senate against 15 Republicans, a good clear working majority for the governor's party. The House of Representatives, as always, was Republican. There was, in that set-up, a good deal more to justify the expectations of the Democratic spokesmen than there has been in the present one. Their party had real control of the administration and of the upper legislative department. It was an actual party, not a nominal party divided into antagonistic factions. It could have put up a stiff, probably a winning, fight for all the judgeships.

Instead, the Democratic leaders of the 1913 Legislature approached the Republican leaders with, in effect, this proposition: "The legislative control is divided; the administration is Democratic. We can scrap over these court appointments or, like sensible people, we can get together. Let us agree on appointments of Democrats in the towns that are Democratic and of Republicans in towns that are Republican and let it go at that."

Fair enough, agreed the Republicans. Fair enough, agreed Governor Baldwin. And without the slightest difficulty or ill feeling that was the way the matter was settled.

There was no hullabaloo about "treason" or disloyalty at that time—not even in the columns of the revered Hartford Times which has been so distressed in 1933 because three Senate Democrats have now seen the situation as the whole Democratic party, including Governor Baldwin, saw it in 1913.

There is every reason to believe that Governor Cross, up to the convening of the General Assembly in January, had expected that a compromise on appointments like that of 1913 would be reached; that such was the understanding generally accepted among the leaders of both parties until the eleventh hour; that this arrangement would promptly have gone into effect and that the General Assembly would long ago have settled down to business, had not a little group of exuberant radicals in his party, intoxicated with the slender success of a one-man majority in the Senate, obtained the ear of the governor, led him to the mountain top and showed him the glories of a clean sweep in minor court appointments. Then bedlam.

The "shameful compromise" of 1933 is, as a matter of fact, nothing but an adaptation of the perfectly sensible and decent policy of the Democratic party of 1913. Those excited remonstrators who are making all the fuss are merely casting contumely at the memory of Governor Baldwin and his political associates of twenty years ago.

changing mountains have been accustomed to looking to the cranks, the off-horses and the radical agrarians of the West for any new ideas on the subject of currency; not, above all, to New England business men.

It is with some surprise, then, that we are in receipt of a little book entitled "The Depression; As It Appears to a Business Man," written by Edward R. Grier of Hartford, chairman of the board of the Arrow-Hart and Hegeman Electric Company of Hartford; and to discover, from a hasty perusal of its pages, that here is a New Englander and a business man who refuses to agree with the common assumption that the question of money standards in America is forever and ever settled, over and done with.

There is nothing didactic about Mr. Grier's book. He does not lay down a particular monetary thesis, shut his eyes and his teeth and prepare to die for his special plan. His book is devoted rather to the objective of removing blind prejudices rather than of creating new ones. And that, we believe, is the first and most essential job to be accomplished by those who believe that money constitutes a potential science—a science vital to the successful carrying on of an economic and social civilization.

Mr. Grier's little work is extremely well devoted for the creation of very serious doubts as to the equal, even tolerable, working of the gold standard. "It is extremely skillful in its presentation of the problem. Its author has had liberal recourse to the cartoon, always capable of conveying to many people more clearly than the printed word the full force of a new idea. And in one very brief chapter he has dealt conclusively with one of the factual obstacles to economic progress in America and in some other countries—"The Gold Mentality."

"The expression," says the writer, "signifies a peculiar mental condition in regard to gold, a condition which amounts almost to idolatry, particularly insofar as it consists in the thought that gold is the basis of our money because it is absolutely fixed in value. This might better be called, in modernistic phrase, a 'gold psychosis' or a 'gold complex,' since it has no basis in fact or logic but finds its whole causation in superstition. This mental condition is a serious obstacle to the solving of the problems connected with our monetary unit; 'gold mentality' must be changed if people are to take a rational and sane view of the value of gold and its function in relation to money."

We commend Mr. Grier's book to whoever may be beginning to suspect that there is something wrong with the world—and we hail its author as a Connecticut business man who is able to see over the mental rut in which so very many of his fellows have been traveling all their lives.

CITY BANK DISCLOSURES

The revelations concerning the operations of the National City Bank and the National City Company, with the resignation under fire of the two leading figures in those organizations, while they may be disheartening to many, are probably one of the best things that could have happened.

A very serious handicap to the orderly and sane development of American business and economics has been, for many years, a blind and servile hero worship of the "captains of finance." Around them has grown up a sort of doctrine of infallibility, the idea that these were super-men; the banking fraternity of the country, as a whole, has followed their leadership in fatuous and unquestioning faith. And all the time there was more horse sense and more integrity and more real realization of responsibility in many a little banking concern than in any of these nests of the amazingly "great."

The City Bank disclosures have done one thing, if nothing else. They have taught the bankers of the country that they must do their own thinking.

AN EVIL EMBARGO

The government and Congress of the United States should be, and we believe will be, utterly opposed to any participation in the kind of arms embargo so cavalierly ordered by the British government with relation to China and Japan. Purporting to be in the interest of British neutrality and to be largely for the purpose of avoiding embroilment through the possible seizure of British cargoes by the Japanese Navy, there is reason to believe that the embargo is not proposed in good faith. It would operate greatly to the advantage of Japan and to the detriment of China in a struggle in which the sympathies of the whole world are on the Chinese side. Japan has her own munitions factories. She needs, for war purposes, only raw materials. There is no proposal to embargo these—copper, nitrates or anything else. China, on the other hand, must buy her munitions abroad or else surrender to superior force.

A few days ago there came from England a suggestion that the very members of the British government who are now active for the embargo were disposed to look with favor on the Japanese side of the Jehol controversy in the belief that so long as Japan was engaged in these military adventures in Asia she would be compelled to neglect the extension of her foreign trade—much of which might be picked up by alert British interests. This embargo proposal would be in exact keeping with such a grossly materialistic policy—which is condemned nowhere more vigorously than in Great Britain.

The prompt declaration of Senator Borah against any American participation in such an embargo will, we feel sure, reflect general sentiment in this country.

GOOD LUCK!

The news that with the ascendancy of the incoming federal administration Dr. Edward G. Dolan of Manchester is slated for the important office of collector of internal revenue for Connecticut, while not surprising, is gratifying. Dr. Dolan surely is deserving of some substantial recognition at the hands of his party and particularly at those of an administration for whose leader he was an early and militant battler. The place to which he will in all probability succeed is one of the real "plums" within the administration's bestowal, a position of honor and responsibility. The Herald, in anticipation of the appointment, hastens to congratulate its fellow townsman and to wish him all felicity in his new activity.

IN NEW YORK

America's Sweetheart

New York, Feb. 28.—Half the literary lights of New York attended the "thank-you" dinner that the New York Newspaper Women's Club gave Mary Pickford at La Rue's for donating promises to add a book a month to the new John Erskine told Mary she looked "good enough to put on a birthday cake." She was in white lace, with a dash of pink velvet. She wears little rouge, is nice and neat, her face is a lovely looking and slim, her eyebrows only the faintest line, her lashes heavily mascaraed. She admits six pounds overweight, is 106 now. "But I can take it off in a week. I cut down on all foods," she confided. "I never eat desserts anyhow. I don't like them." She never exercises and hates sports.

En route to meet Doug at St. Moritz, however, she packs one blue silk suit, with twist body trousers included. But she hates the current Hollywood pants. "Women aren't built for trousers," she said, in a little-girl voice. "Their hips are all wrong."

She reads biographies mos: of the time, both in French and English. Dumas, her New York hairdresser, says Mary's French is positively Parisian. She wore no jewels except her three strand pearl necklace that Doug gave her. Her handsome solitary pearl, about the size of a dime, set with tiny emeralds supporting it, and her wedding ring which is made of links of platinum, with square cut diamonds and emeralds.

Soviet Likes "Follyana"

Mary's biggest laugh of her life is the fact that rugged Bolsheviks like her "Follyana" picture best of anything and are still running it in the land of the Soviets.

John Erskine, Mary's dinner partner, politely gauged his sophisticated conversation to Mary's ear. At one point she pouted: "Do you really think I am as unsophisticated as that?" Erskine was in a precarious position with the little Ann Russell, now the Pan Alley queen, on his other side.

Ann played and sang her "Willow Weep For Me," wearing a big smile. It seems that she has a new song, "Mary-Go-Round," which is just being published now, and for which Radio City disclosed for use during a fortnight's production. Ann went to Cuba for a rest but her lawyer brother, enjoying an evening at Radio City, heard Ann's music being played, with no credit given her on the program. In a legal manner he notified his lawyers. They settled for a goodly sum, out of court.

Moises Simon, composer of "The Peanut Vendor," who played and whistled that popular piece, in a ringing, clear whistle, looks like a distinguished foreign diplomat—dignified, with military bearing and a finely chiseled face, a handsome head of wavy iron gray hair, snowy white at the temples.

Health and Diet Advice

By Dr. Frank McCoy

BALANCED EXERCISE NEEDED FOR GOOD PHYSICAL DEVELOPMENT

In these days of specialization few people obtain a sufficient amount of balanced exercise during the ordinary occupations and it becomes important for them to set apart a definite time each day for some sort of exercising if they wish to be in the best condition. Even though one has work which requires some muscular exertion, he is apt to only use a limited set of muscles, leaving others undeveloped. Many people have written in to me asking for exercise instructions, and I have prepared this list of exercises which can be done in ten or fifteen minutes and provide a balanced physical development.

STANDING EXERCISES: (1) Hands at sides—open and close the fists vigorously. Hands extended at sides shoulder high—repeat. Hands extended at front shoulder high—repeat. Hands extended over head—repeat. (2) Hands clasped behind neck, bend to the left and then to the right, keeping the knees stiff. Bend forward and then backward, keeping the knees stiff. Twist body to the right as far as possible, then to the left as far as possible, keeping the hips motionless and the knees stiff. (3) Hands extended over the head, swing the arms vigorously in opposite directions in a circle in front of the body. (4) Arms over head, fists clenched, rise on toes, at the same time opening the fists vigorously. Then back to first position. Inhale as you raise yourself on toes and exhale as you return to first position. (5) Arms over head, fists clenched, rise on toes, at the same time opening the fists vigorously. Then back to first position. Inhale as you raise yourself on toes and exhale as you return to first position.

LYING ON BACK EXERCISES: (1) Hands extended over head, raise upper body, keeping knees stiff. Touch the feet as far towards the feet as possible with the finger tips. (2) Raise knees alternately to chest and return. Raise knees together to chest and return. (3) Raise and lower legs alternately, keeping the knees stiff and toes pointed downwards. (4) Raise and lower both legs together, keeping the knees stiff and toes pointed downwards. (5) Raise right leg to right angle with body, keeping the toes pointed downwards, then change position of right and left legs alternately, without allowing the heels to touch the floor. (6) Try to breathe naturally during this exercise. (7) Extend arms on floor at right angles to the body, palms pointing downwards. Raise and lower the right foot over and under the left hand, twisting the body and bending the knee as much as possible to do so. Return to original position and repeat with left foot, touching the right hand. (8) Arms over head, raise both arms and both legs together at the same time, keeping the knees stiff and touching the legs as far apart as possible. (9) Raise and lower the arms, head, and shoulders as high as possible, attempting to come to a sitting position.

EXERCISES LYING FACE DOWNWARD: (1) Clasp hands behind neck, raise head, shoulders, and elbows as high as possible, at the same time raising both legs, keeping knees stiff. (2) Raise and lower right and left legs alternately, keeping knees stiff and bending the legs backward at the hips. (3) Arms extended straight over head, raise the arms, head, and shoulders, at the same time raising the legs and keeping the knees stiff. (4) Hands behind the head, raise the head, shoulders, and neck, at the same time raising the legs and keeping the knees stiff. (5) Hands behind the head, raise the head, shoulders, and neck, at the same time raising the legs and keeping the knees stiff. (6) Hands behind the head, raise the head, shoulders, and neck, at the same time raising the legs and keeping the knees stiff. (7) Hands behind the head, raise the head, shoulders, and neck, at the same time raising the legs and keeping the knees stiff. (8) Hands behind the head, raise the head, shoulders, and neck, at the same time raising the legs and keeping the knees stiff. (9) Hands behind the head, raise the head, shoulders, and neck, at the same time raising the legs and keeping the knees stiff.

Behind the Scenes in WASHINGTON

LAME DUCK'S FLOP MAY BENEFIT NEXT CONGRESS

Short Session Accomplishes Nothing Else, It Should Show Roosevelt and His Lawmakers How Really Things Can Be "Gummed Up."

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

Washington—A rather prodigious effort, possible only to one grimly bent on spreading sweetness and light, is necessary in order to evoke a pleasant thought concerning the work of Congress in the present session.

But if you regard the session as a rehearsal it is possible to perceive some good in it. Congress has done a splendid job of demonstrating to Mr. Roosevelt and the next Congress how easy it is to get all gummed up while trying to produce legislation adequate for current complicated and vital problems.

Both the beer bill and the repeal resolution are examples. It seems likely that they will now be made bomb-proof by comparison with the original House bill.

There's no sense passing a beer bill if the supreme court is going to declare it unconstitutional and when one was passed as a tax measure plenty of doubt was left as to its constitutionality.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Leather Poisoning)
 Question: Michael P. writes: "I am a shoe worker, and my hands continually become cracked and sore. Doctors have diagnosed it as 'leather poisoning' and say it cannot be cured. I use benzine, ether, etc., to clean shoes, and wonder if this has something to do with it."
 Answer: The cracking of your hands is probably due to loss of the natural oil from the use of the ether and benzine. Try soaking the hands in hot pepermint baths twice a week, fifteen to twenty minutes at a time. Follow this by rubbing with olive oil. The oil should be used on the hands every day after contact with ether, benzine or other solvents. It is possible to use rubber gloves while engaged in this work.

(Vegetables on Casserole)
 Question: Mrs. Corinne M. writes: "Several weeks ago in this column there appeared in your Friday Daily Menu a recipe for 'Vegetables on Casserole' which I have misplaced and so particularly anxious to have. Would you please reprint this recipe?"
 Answer: Here is the recipe which you requested: 1 bunch of small carrots, one cup of green peas, one cup of chopped celery, and a small head of cauliflower broken into small pieces, but turnips and carrots as desired and mix with the other vegetables and fill casserole. Add a small amount of water, cover and bake thirty minutes. This makes a nice, thick vegetable "stew," very savory and with a sustaining, wholesome odor. Add a generous lump of butter to each portion served hot from the casserole.

TALCOTTVILLE

The Pioneers basketball team journeyed to Vernon Center on Friday evening. The Juniors lost to the County Home Juniors by a score of 28-8. This was a one-sided game with Talcottville not being able to stop the aggressive County Home Juniors. In the second game Talcottville Seniors trounced the County Home Seniors by a score of 41-22. This was a fast game. Talcottville kept up a shooting barrage which the County Home was unable to stop. Fred Wood alone scored 20 points for the winners.

Mrs. Arthur Monaghan is confined to her home by illness.

WOULD OUST HINES

Providence, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Immediate removal from office of Brig. General Frank T. Hines, administrator of the U. S. Veterans Bureau, at Washington is sought by a resolution adopted last night by the Rhode Island Department, American Legion.

The Legion charged that the veteran bureau director had grossly exaggerated figures on the cost of veterans benefits prior to the commission to a "breakdown chart" which showed necessary appropriations for ensuing years far below the total originally proposed by Mr. Hines.

ANDOVER

Mrs. John Casper and daughter, Leah, have returned from New Jersey after spending a week with relatives. While in New Jersey they attended the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary celebrations of Mrs. Casper's sister in Brooklyn.

Miss Alice Yeomans, leader of the girls 4-H club, acted as hostess to a party of girls Thursday afternoon, taking them to the Shriners' Circus. The members of the party were: Martha Barlett, Frances Frisick, Lois Wilson, Clara Savage, Wilma Savage, Irene Willis, Grace Smith and Evelyn Samuels. Guy Bartlett, Jr., drove his car and carried several of the group and Miss Yeomans took the rest in her car.

Miss Alice Yeomans spent Friday in Hartford. Nathan Koenig has been appointed Research Secretary to Senator Herman P. Koppleman at Washington.

Mr. Koenig is the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rosenbloom of this town, his wife being the former Rose Rosenbloom. Joseph Gregalis and Howard Coombs have left the employ of Emory Fellows. Mr. Gregalis is now working for Paul Jurovity and Mr. Coombs is employed by Max Asher.

Edward Keefe, Paul Kralovich and Emory Fellows attended the National Milkmen's meeting held in the Hebrew town hall Thursday evening. Mr. Fellows is secretary of this company for Tolland County.

Mrs. Lillian LaChance has sold her farm that is situated about two miles from the center on the Willimantic road to Otto and Florence Week of New York City. Mr. and Mrs. Week plan to move to their new home on March 15 and conduct a modern poultry farm. The W. O. Kierstead Agency completed the sale last week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Platt and two children of Wapping and Edward Frank of Hartford spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Frink of Manchester. Charles Allen of Manchester spent Friday with Fred Bishop.

Mrs. A. H. Phillips has returned from Willimantic and is the guest of Mrs. Ralph Bass.

Miss Mary Merritt spent the week-end with her aunt, Mrs. Walter Hewitt in New London. Mrs. Hewitt brought her home Sunday afternoon and Mrs. Madge Bailey returned with him to spend some time with her daughter.

E. B. Fellows met with an accident on evening last week. While returning from a short visit with his brother Arthur Fellows of Worcester, Mass., just as he was coming to a side street ran into Mr. Fellows' car breaking a window and jamming one mudguard. The man drove right along not stopping to see whether he had hurt anyone or not. It was in a woody section and Mr. Fellows was unable to get the number of the car. Mr. Fellows went to one house and asked to telephone but they wouldn't let him so he sat in the car several hours until a man with a truck came along and helped get the car into the road. They took it to a garage and fixed it up. No one was hurt but Mr. Fellows caught a bad cold sitting all night in his car. He arrived home Wednesday afternoon.

DOUGLAS' SELECTION FOR BUDGET CHIEF SURPRISES CAPITAL

Washington, Feb. 28.—President-elect Roosevelt's selection of young Lewis Douglas of Arizona as director of the budget in his administration apparently handed political observers in the capital a jolt as severe as any they received when the cloak of secrecy surrounding the major appointments in the next administration was finally withdrawn.

Few of them had heard his name mentioned in the speculation for high place in the Roosevelt regime. Not that they don't know Douglas. During the present Congress many persons have commented on the way the young Arizona has forged to the front in the House.

"The third Senator from Arizona" is the way some observers describe him, for he is his state's only representative in the House. His constituency embraces the whole state—more than 435,000 persons.

He "blinks" No More
 Douglas—"Lou," as he is called by his friends—is only 28 years old, and looks even younger than that. He is tall, soft-spoken and even a bit timid at times.

When he first came to Congress it was a familiar sight to see him astride his bicycle wheeling his way to and from the capitol.

"Need exercise," he explained. "That's the only time I have to get it."

He doesn't "bink" any more, however. A kid in his neighborhood had been casting envious eyes for a long time at his bicycle. One morning Douglas called him over and told him that it was his.

The biennial baseball game staged in the capitol between the Democrats and Republicans of the House will be played in the future without him. He was the star pitcher for the Democrats, having learned how to put 'em over the plate when he was at Alhambra.

His activity as a member of the famed Economy Committee in the present Congress brought him to the front ranks among house leaders.

In the face of possible defeat for reelection he vigorously opposed "pork-barrel" legislation. It was that, some declare, which attracted Roosevelt and his advisers to him.

It agreed to evacuate Belgium, to surrender to France at least 100,000 Alsatian-Germans, including the fortress of Metz, to see that Hungary got a slice of territory from Austria-Hungary and to reject the eastern frontiers.

A BOOK A DAY
 BY BRUCE CATTON
 WHY PEACE DIDN'T COME
 This Book Shows World War Could Have Ended in '17

One of the most depressing books of the winter is "Foreign Policy From a Back Bench," by F. P. Colwell. It is a depressing book because of the light it throws on human wrong-headedness and folly and the price the world has to pay for these "rightures" in government.

This book is a study of world diplomacy between 1904 and 1914, based on the papers of Lord North-Buxton, a British Liberal parliamentarian. It would not be especially interesting on this side of the water except for its revelations of some of the things that happened during the World War.

In the fall of 1916 President Wilson was trying to get the belligerents to make statements of their war aims, in the hope that a peace might be negotiated. The German government assented, and made a very liberal offer.

SILVER TEA SET FOR WHITE HOUSE

Mrs. Roosevelt To Take Along Wedding Gift She Received.

New York, Feb. 28.—(AP)—A silver tea set which her cousin, Albee Roosevelt Longworth, gave her for a wedding present is among the things Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is having shipped to Washington this week.

It is a small set, which Mrs. Roosevelt has always used when serving tea in her own sitting room in the New York city home and it will be used for the same purpose in the White House, she said today.

Mrs. Longworth's gift still "Princess Alice" of the White House when on March 17, 1905, her father gave the bride away at the marriage of her cousin, Eleanor Roosevelt, to Franklin Roosevelt. She married Nicholas Longworth on Feb. 17, the following year.

Two van loads of furniture, dishes, and other possessions of the new White House family already have gone to Washington. Another will go by the end of this week, and in about 10 days two saddle horses, "Dor" and "Patches," and "Major," the family's police dog, will go down on a truck from Hyde Park.

Furniture from her own factory to be used in her room at the White House already has gone to Washington, Mrs. Roosevelt said. It consisted of a day bed, two large cabinets, a tea table, several small tables, a work table, a typewriter table and chair, and a book stand.

Among the things still to go are four large cases of books, about 100 of the President-elect's navy prints, some family silver, a number of oil paintings and four trunks.

Among the paintings will be an oil portrait of Mrs. Roosevelt's grandfather, Theodore Roosevelt, father of the late president. In the collection will also be three naval paintings, copies of which will hang in the Navy Department in Washington.

One of them is a painting of the Destroyer Dyer, on which the incoming President, then assistant secretary of the navy, went to Europe in 1918 with a convoy. Another shows the surrender of the German battle fleet, and the third shows the first four American destroyers arriving at Queenstown soon after the United States entered the World War. It is entitled "The Return of the Mayflower."

Until now they have hung in the dining room of the Roosevelt's New York city house.

With the tea set given her by Mrs. Longworth, Mrs. Roosevelt is taking to the White House a dining room table bell which belonged to her mother, the late Anna Hall Roosevelt.

It is a small silver statuette of Old Mother Hubbard, with her dog under her arm, and the head nods when it rings.

INCREASINGLY COLD WEATHER DUE HERE

Study of Cycle Figures Indicates Trend Towards Colder Weather Until 1937.

"From now until 1937 progressively colder weather should be experienced." This statement applies to Connecticut and New York and is the summary of the findings in a study of the long-term relationship of temperatures completed by the Consolidated Gas Company of New York. The study was made in four different cities, New York, New Haven, London and Berlin. A very close relationship was revealed between the mean temperatures of New Haven and New York.

Why the weather should be destined to become colder, each year until 1937 is not known. Experts have many theories concerning the cause of cold and warm weather. Some place their faith in a change in the course of the air currents from the Arctic regions, while others are loyal to the theory that "The Gulf Stream is shifting." Regardless of which is correct, it can be asserted, says a report of the weather research, that weather is shifting, it does it with remarkable regularity. That much is revealed about New York and Connecticut weather in the company's study.

In the study, temperature records stretching over a period of 110 years were used to arrive at the conclusion quoted in the first paragraph of this article. When these records were plotted and adjusted for "smoothed" to exclude irregularities, they showed for both the New York and Connecticut cities a definite tendency toward two complete cycles of weather every twenty years. Throughout the more than a century, this same tendency was obvious.

In the present cycle with 1928 as the last year of minimum mean temperature, there has been a steady climb in the mean temperature until 1931 with its extremely mild winter registered a very high level. Then, true to previous form, the 1932 curve started downward with the mean temperature last year being slightly below that of 1931.

In the curve followed the exact trend it has in the past 110 years. If it continues to follow the trend, the mean temperature will become progressively lower each year until 1937, the cycle thus being completed in ten years to be followed by another upward and downward trend which will complete the two cycles in twenty years.

Just how low the mean temperature will drop cannot be determined, since the charts used in the study reveal considerable irregularity in high and low points. The trend now is definitely downward, however.

Gas companies have been striving for many years to determine the facts of this nature, to discover not only the year to year trends, but those from month to month and day to day, since weather has a large effect on the public's demand for gas and since the companies must have on hand a supply of fuel which will meet whatever demand for service is made.

118,436 RATS KILLED IN COUNTY CAMPAIGN

Cost of the War Was Only $2,000 and Estimate of Saving To Farmers Is $115,587.

Known dead in the recent war on rats totals 118,436 according to the Hartford County Farm Bureau and due to the war methods used large numbers of unwarped deaths are known to have taken place, since a rat poisoned with red squill will travel long distances in search of water to soothe its aching stomach. The rats on 4,000 Connecticut farms where these deaths occurred are estimated to have cost $115,587 last year. The gross cost of the war was $2,000.

Newspapers and radio broadcasts contributed very largely to the success of this war by centering public opinion against the enemy who unfortunately was unable to either read or understand the radio. In fact in Hartford County where no direct mail was used to enlist farmers in this whole scale butchering of rats by the newspapers and radio were relied on exclusively, 831 packages of bait were placed while the next highest county in the state only placed 188 packages.

A post card check-up on the results of the several battles, only 15 percent of the 4097 farmers using the bait expressed their opinion of it and 60 percent of those replying expressed complete satisfaction. E. M. Mills of the Federal Rodent Control division states that there is always some dissatisfaction in large campaigns of this kind because it is impossible for such large number of people to understand the best method of using the bait. However, it will be conceded by all concerned that if $100,000 damage can be prevented with $200 worth of expense, dissatisfied customers will express the value of the drive and be glad that the rat population has been so materially reduced.

In Hartford County, 10 packages of bait were placed in the hands of each of the 4,000 Farm Bureau directors and farm stores throughout the county and announcements were carried in the newspapers and over the radio stating "where this bait could be bought while in the other counties of the state, a series of circular letters, were mailed either to box holders or a general mailing list or both. The method used in Hartford County according to E. M. Mills and James Miller of the Federal Rodent Control Division is significant and points to the fact that at least considerable unnecessary expense had been incurred in direct mail campaign.

The success of this campaign according to Chas. D. Lewis of the Hartford County Farm Bureau is entirely due to the close cooperation of the newspapers, radio, Farm Bureau directors and feed stores.

The Farm Bureau directors are being surveyed at the present time on the question of woodchuck population in Hartford County with a view to the desirability of a similar war on woodchucks and while the directors of the city of Hartford report no damage from woodchucks, other towns heard from in the County officials state that there will be no ground hogs in Hartford County, at least, to see their shadows on the 2nd of February, 1934 because a small portion of that deadly gas known as cyanogas if properly placed in each woodchuck hole will penetrate the innermost part of Mr. Ground Hog's home and effectively annihilate the whole family.

It is planned, if sufficient interest is shown, to get every farm in the county to treat each of his woodchuck burrows with a portion of cyanogas on the same day in order that there can be no visiting cards and birds and resultant in-activateness of the pits to exterminate this traditional winter pest.

RAILMEN'S UNION WINS SUIT IN NEW HAVEN

Brakeman Bought $25,000 Damages On Question of Seniority Rights of Employees.

New Haven, Feb. 28.—(AP)—A decision in favor of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, the defendant, has been brought in by Judge Barnet U. Simpson of Civil Superior Court in an action brought by William F. Noonan, of this city, a brakeman for the New Haven railroad.

Noonan seeking $25,000 charged the Brotherhood had failed to insist on carrying out the rule in its agreement with the New Haven railroad regarding seniority right of employees. His complaint named subordinate Lodge 201 of this city, of which he had been a member for 25 years, as well as another lodge in New Haven and Lodges in New London, Bridgeport, Danbury, Stamford, Hartford and Waterbury and East Hartford. National headquarters of the Brotherhood are in Cleveland, Ohio.

The plaintiff charged the Brotherhood had failed for the last 10 years to insist on the rule. Judge Simpson found the matter had twice been

"It's the same old furnace, but it's different fuel"

WHY 3 TIMES MORE FAMILIES USE KOPPERS CONNECTICUT COKE THAN DID TWO YEARS AGO

- 1 It is the High Test Fuel that contains more heat per ton.
- 2 It gives better, and more even heat, because it responds at once to closing and opening of dampers.
- 3 It requires no extra attention at any time, and banks easily at night.
- 4 Its use ends handling heavy ash cans, because it has two-thirds less ashes.
- 5 A juggle of the grates once a day—less often in mild weather—is all the shaking your Koppers Connecticut Coke fire requires.
- 6 It works equally well in all types of furnaces without the use of any special attachments or equipment.
- 7 It costs less per ton, and you need fewer tons.

KOPPERS CONNECTICUT COKE 1450

"Now rooms warm all over the house—and we're saving money too."

THAT'S the story of better heat in thousands of homes.

People say, "I thought I'd have to get a new furnace or buy some kind of attachments, but Koppers Coke is giving me perfect results in the old heater, and it's saving me a lot of work and money too."

That's natural.

Koppers Connecticut Coke is concentrated food for every furnace, old or new. It is so nearly all heat-giving, burnable carbon that it burns down to a fine ash. And there's so little of this waste that a whole week's ashes will go into a little pail about a foot high.

This rich carbon burns evenly and steadily, night or day, and makes a reliable fire that comes up quickly, or banks down quietly, as you please.

Use Koppers Coke and be free from handling heavy ash cans. You'll find shaking cut down to a little juggle of the grates once a day, but you'll find your house is warmer and more comfortable than ever before. Of course you won't need as many tons, and each ton costs less.

Your regular fuel dealer can tell you all the advantages of Koppers Connecticut Coke. He knows how it is pleasing his customers, saving them money. Order from him as soon as your bin gets low—or phone us.

To get this high test fuel, call your dealer or the Koppers Connecticut Coke Company.

PLAYERS ENTHUSE IN THEIR OFFERING

Delight in Presenting Comedy — Audience Reflects Mood of Stage Folk.

That contagious enthusiasm which often characterizes the amateur play was evident at the Community Players' presentation of "A Scrap of Paper" before a full house at Whitson Memorial Hall last night.

The acting, direction and the settings were decidedly successful. The outstanding performer was Gunnar Johnson, who played the leading male role.

Although these two were outstanding, every other player gave a commendable interpretation of his role. Robert Marchant was most convincing as the unassuming, jealous husband.

Moments of comedy were provided by Herbert Wright, as the henpecked Anatole, living under the thumb of a terrific aunt. Mr. Wright was scathed most of the time, speaking in a small voice, looking about fearfully, until at the end he asserted himself and took the woman of his choice.

Briefly, the story winds together two plots. The first is that of the Smiths' frantic efforts to get possession of a love letter which she had written before her marriage, a harmless letter, but one which might be misinterpreted by a jealous husband.

The love story concerns Prosper Courtonier, who will lose his inheritance if he does not marry and produce a wife for his uncle's satisfaction.

Prosper obligingly decides upon Mathilde (Margaret Petricolas) whom he doesn't yet know, but who is the sister of his former love. He refuses to give up the letter until he receives permission to marry Mathilde.

Credit is due to the director, Patricia Petricolas; Karl Keller, business manager; Albert Tuttle, stage manager; Faith Fallow, property manager; and to the High school orchestra which played before the play and between acts, directed by Harold Turkington.

The Community Players anticipate two more productions: "The Enchanted April", to be sponsored by the Ever Ready Circle of King's Daughters late in April; and "The Queen's Husband", to be produced in May.

BATHHOUSE JOHNNY IS ELECTED AGAIN

Coughlin of Chicago Has No Opposition—Takes Post For 21st Term.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Like a brook, but no longer babbling, "Bathhouse John" Coughlin goes on as alderman from the world's "wealthiest" ward.

He will be elected today for his 21st consecutive term in the City Council.

This is no political prognostication. He is unopposed. Voters of the First Ward, embracing the Loop, go through the usual routine. Just write Coughlin—and everyone knows it is spelled with an "n".

Yesterday, the dean of aldermen was made president pro tem of the City Council. Today, he reviewed his long tenure and told what he expects to do the next two years.

His Future Plans

He was, he guessed, the oldest alderman in point of service in the country. He expected to remain in public office for some few years yet. His future plans?

He would introduce ordinances declaring four-year moratoria on mortgage foreclosures and licensing cases for the sale of beer and wine in the event of prohibition repeal.

Times was when he concentrated his legislative talents on vastly different matters. Staunch feminist, he led a crusade against "woman smoochers." Also he sponsored an ordinance fixing a certain length for women's skirts as the proper means between aesthetics and virtue.

There was a definite note of sadness in the deep voice of the alderman today.

"I'd like to write more poems," he complained, "but how can you when you're busy with the affairs of the city? You've got to be alone. Before you write, you've got to think."

BOLTON

Despite the stormy weather Sunday morning eleven were at the Congregational church service.

ROGERS WILL STAND ON PARTY'S PLATFORM

Former Oklahoma School Teacher Tells Newspapers His Future Plans.

Washington, Feb. 28.—(AP)—A diminutive Oklahoman who says "party platforms were made to stand on as well as run on" is trying to organize new Democratic members so they will have a little more say than usual about how the next House shall be run.

He is Will Rogers, a former school teacher who last November showed some old-time Oklahoma politicians a few tricks. He was elected as a Representative at Large from that state.

In the capital to help arrange for the meeting of the 1937 new Democratic members Wednesday night, Rogers called on newspapermen in the House press gallery to say that his aim simply was "to see that we have some voice in the affairs of the House."

Among other things, he said, that probably would mean some committee assignments that ordinarily go to two or three-termers.

"We were all," he said, "elected as Progressives. And as new men in the House although we might not know as much about practical politics here as older members, certainly might be just as intelligent."

Whether the new Democrats would agree on a legislative program was not far from Rogers' mind. He said, however, that even though he would not attempt to obtain such an agreement he thought that if the newcomers united on a speaker's candidacy they could elect him.

His personal legislative program so far is "the Democratic platform." Rogers declined to commit himself or speak for the other new members on the bonus, currency inflation, taxation, or other special legislative subjects other than to say: "I ran on the Democratic platform and I still stand on it."

SEEKS U. S. LOSING ITS PLACE AS WORLD POWER

West Hartford Man Addresses Legion and Auxiliary—Social Hour Follows.

About 85 members of Dilworth-Cornell Post, the American Legion and its Auxiliary attended the supper and social in the State Armory last night, which by a vote of the organizations was substituted for the annual banquet this year.

The guest speaker of the evening was N. B. Grigley of West Hartford who gave an interesting account of the National defense which the speaker illustrated by the use of charts.

Mr. Grigley stated that if our National defenses, particularly the Navy, are not kept up to the strength allowed under the London Naval parity treaty, the United States would be out of the first life power: in 1936 and would have 125 less ships than allowed under that pact, while Japan, which is building ships in strict adherence to the treaty would be but seven behind its allowance.

Our army also is smaller than the armies of many small European countries, he stated. He urged cooperative action on the subject of National defense by all ex-service groups.

Mrs. Fred Woodhouse, president of the Legion Auxiliary, presided during the social hour which followed and patriotic songs were sung by the company. A pancake and sausage supper, baked beans, gelatine, whipped cream cake and coffee was served.

The committee in charge of the supper and social were: T. Edward Brownson, chairman of the Legion committee; Peter Frey, Fred Sadler, John Glenny, August Penney, Mrs. T. Edward Brownson, chairman of the Auxiliary committee; assisted by Mrs. Fred Woodhouse, Mrs. Minnie Carrington, Mrs. Hilda Kennedy, Mrs. Grace Pittin, Mrs. Elia Mahoney and Mrs. Alice Chartier.

REAR ADMIRAL STEWART DIES AT AGE OF 91

Was Retired in 1899—To Be Buried in Arlington Cemetery On Thursday—His Career.

South Orange, N. J., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Edwin Stewart, United States Navy, retired, died today at his home. He was 91 years old.

Burial will be in Arlington cemetery Thursday.

Until recently the admiral had been in good health for his years. Three sons, William E. Stewart, of Newark; Donald S. Stewart, New York; and Commander Laurence B. Stewart, survive.

Admiral Stewart was born in New York City on May 5, 1837. He was educated in the New York public schools, the New York Free Academy, Phillips Andover Academy and Yale and Williams colleges.

He entered the Navy in 1851 as assistant paymaster. Aboard the U. S. S. Fenian on Nov. 7 of that year, he saw action in the battle of Port Royal. In Farragut's fleet he served in the battles of Port Hudson and Mobile Bay.

In 1855 he married Laura S. Tufts of Andover, Mass. She died a few years later. In 1871 he married Susan, daughter of William of Plainville, Wis. She died in 1900. In 1890 Stewart was nominated by President Harrison as paymaster general of the Navy. He was twice reappointed and was retired in 1899 when he had reached the age limit.

HEBRON

Quite a number of Hebron people attended the Shrines' Circus at Hartford the past week.

Allan L. Carr and Harold Gray carried each a load of young people to witness it. Lewis W. Phelps having furnished several tickets.

During the illness of Stephen Mosny, who has been suffering from a hard cold, his son, John Mosny, has been taking his place at the Winchester creamery.

The Rev. and Mrs. Fred Lorenson of Torrville were callers at the rectory a few days ago.

Mrs. Albert W. Hilling entertained the Women's Bridge club at her home Thursday afternoon from 5:30 to 8 o'clock. Three tables were in play. First honors were won by the hostess, Mrs. Frederick Wyman second. Refreshments of tea and sandwiches were served.

Alan L. Carr took the subject of "Charity" for the theme of his sermon at the morning service at St. Peter's Episcopal church on Sunday. Announcement was made of an Aah Wednesday service to be held in the church at 7 p. m. March 1.

A snow of from eight to ten inches fell here Saturday afternoon continuing through the day Sunday. The snow plow went through clearing out the roads, but many people had trouble getting out of their yards with their cars.

Mrs. Edmund H. Horton, local treasurer of the Red Cross, has received a consignment of garments for distribution from State Red Cross headquarters. The garments include sweaters, underclothing, etc. for both children and adults. They are intended for the needy. Part of the supply has already been given out, but quite a number of garments are still left for distribution.

The Congregational Ladies' Aid Society met at the home of Mrs. Leslie P. Ward last Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Martha Anderson, teacher of the Wesleyan private school, spent the week-end as the guest of her sister in Providence, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Allen of Hartford were at their summer home here over the week-end.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JANET HILL is engaged to ROLF CARLYLE but they do not have enough money to marry. Janet is secretary for BRUCE HAMILTON, advertising manager of Every Home Magazine, and Rolf works for the Atlas Advertising Co. Janet insists they must have $500 in a savings account before they can be married.

HOWARD CRESSY, another employee of the magazine, tries to make dates with Janet but she discourages him.

She hurries home from the office on Saturday to prepare a surprise birthday dinner for Rolf. On the way she sees a couple entering the fashionable Brewster Hotel Coffee Shop and at first thinks the young man is Rolf. Afterward she discovers she was mistaken.

The dinner party is a success. Rolf tells Janet there is something he wants to talk to her about but later evades and says it was "nothing." He says he cannot see her next day because he is entertaining an out-of-town friend.

Sunday proves to be a gloomy day. Rolf does not telephone. Janet visits with MOLLIE LAMBERT, who lives across the hall. She returns to her room and there confronts a young man she has never seen before.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V.

The man found words first. "I—" he stammered, "hope you don't—I mean I didn't mean—that is—I guess I've made a mistake!" Janet was clutching the pink bathrobe, holding it about her. It was surprise and not fear that held her speechless.

"Who are you?" she demanded. "And what are you doing in my room?" "I guess I've made a mistake," the young man repeated. His face had grown quite red. "You see I didn't know."

"But what are you doing here?" It was certainly not like Janet to use a tone like that. "I wasn't like her at all. The words snapped out sharply. Shock probably was responsible for the stern way she eyed the young man.

"I'm—" he began desperately. "You see I live here?" "What?" "Upstairs. On the next floor. My name's Grant—moved in yesterday. I'm terribly sorry about this. You see when I came yesterday, the woman in charge—Mrs. Snyder—showed me a room on this floor she said was vacant. I thought this was it. And tonight when the electric light burned out and I couldn't find anyone downstairs to get another I thought I could borrow the light from this room—"

"But it's my room!" "Well, you see I didn't know that. I thought this was the vacant room. I thought it was all right to take the light and explain about it tomorrow. I'll—I'll go now. It doesn't matter about the light—"

It was ridiculous to suppose this young man could be a burglar. He seemed more disturbed over the situation than Janet. More than anything he looked like a young man who has made an extremely embarrassing mistake and is willing to do almost anything to remedy it. Mollie had spoken of a new roomer. Grant—that was the name? Yes, it was. Moreover there was a vacant room on this floor, though at the other end of the hall. The story seemed plausible.

She would probably have smiled and said she understood, that it was perfectly all right but suddenly Janet remembered what she was wearing. The bathrobe and pajamas! Dignity fled and, striving to recapture it, the sharp tone came into her voice again.

"You'd better leave," she said shortly. "And after this please remember this room is not vacant!"

The young man moved toward the door. He moved rapidly. For the first time Janet took sketchy note of his appearance. She had observed from the first that he was tall—probably six feet. Now she saw that his shoulders were broad and there was an athletic look about him. Dark hair. Blue eyes. Good-looking? No, she certainly wouldn't say that, though no doubt circumstances prejudiced her. The young man wore a blue suit that looked exactly like those a thousand other young men wear.

In the doorway he turned. "Sorry to have bothered you," he mumbled. Suddenly the girl relented. "Wait!" she said. "If you want a light bulb I have an extra one here. It belongs to the house so you can keep it."

"That's awfully nice of you. Thank you." "Not at all. Good night, Mr. Grant."

"Good night." "The door closed. Janet, being feminine, took a quick glance in the mirror to see if she really looked as badly as she feared. She'd probably never see him again. She just wanted to know.

Before the mirror Janet remembered she hadn't bared the collar and cuffs into her black dress. There was more time for it now than there would be in the morning. She took the dress from the closet, got out the needle and thread and set to work.

Rolf Carlyle did not telephone that evening. It was 4:30 the next afternoon before she heard his voice. Janet had been busy all day. Mondays were always crowded, with Mr. Hamilton in and out of the office, giving his secretary enough work while he was there to more than

SPRING IN THE AIR

Checking in for spring, is this new cape frock, with white notched collar, and the black cellophane hat which features the new high black crown, low front, in Watteau effect, with a soft black velvet bow both going and coming. By this slanting brim, you get the tipped hat effect, while the hat really sits quite straight upon the head, in the new, becoming manner. The new cellophane weave gives that high-light every lady likes upon her head this Spring.

noon Janet caught herself thinking of Rolf's school friend, the young man from out of town whom she had never seen but for whom she was developing an active dislike. Twice he had spoiled her plans. How many more times was it to happen?

Thinking of this she jabbed a key of the typewriter so vindictively that the machine jumped a space. She had to use the eraser and even then the page was smudged.

The incident reminded her that it was foolish to brood over something she couldn't help. And of course things wouldn't go on this way. Rolf was only trying to be nice to a friend who was lonely.

She was telling herself the same things, trying to find solace in the same arguments of a few hours later as she sat in her own room with a new magazine. Somehow her attention wandered repeatedly from the printed page.

There was a knock at the door and Janet looked up gratefully. Mollie Lambert's blond head appeared, partially covered by a small green turban. Mollie wore a green coat and carried gloves.

"Just came in," she said. "I saw your light. What in the world are you doing home tonight?" "Why shouldn't I be at home?" Mollie hesitated. "Well I—well, of course it's all right. Suddenly she seemed to gain determination.

"Listen, Janet, maybe I shouldn't say this but I think you ought to know! I just passed the Liberty theater. There's a road show there, you know—a swell musical comedy. And who do you think I saw? Rolf Carlyle! Gee, he was all dressed up. And you should have seen the girl with him!"

Daily Health Service

Made up How to Keep Well by World Famous Authority

TUBERCULOUS TOLL IS HEAVIEST IN CHILDHOOD

Early Infancy And Adolescence Are Most Dangerous Periods; Control of Disease, Cattle Is Important Preventive Measure.

This is the second of two articles by Dr. H. H. Bennett on the prevention of tuberculosis.

By DR. MORRIS FISHERIN, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

That human beings may contract and transmit tuberculosis at all ages is pointed out by Dr. E. Bernet, French authority, in a recent survey of the general principles governing the prevention of the disease.

And Dr. Bernet emphasizes what most observers are now emphasizing—that young people are more particularly susceptible than are older ones. The two most dangerous periods are early infancy and adolescence.

These are the periods when children must be most closely watched for the development of symptoms and when everything possible must be done to keep up their nutrition and to see to it that they have plenty of rest and good hygiene.

Of special importance in the prevention of tuberculosis is the control of tuberculosis cattle. The germs of tuberculosis of the type which lives in cattle is rather rare as a cause of tuberculosis of the lungs in man, but is exceedingly frequent in tuberculosis of the abdomen, the glands, the bones and the joints.

Milk for children, unless coming from cattle free from tuberculosis, must invariably be pasteurized, and in fact it is probably better to pasteurize all milk for children—at least here there is more certainty of safety.

Every effort must be made to stamp out tuberculosis among cattle. This is commonly done by testing cattle for the presence of the disease and then destroying all such as are infected, compensating owners for the loss of the animals.

Dr. Bernet emphasizes particularly as of importance in controlling the spread of tuberculosis, the early diagnosis in which the disease can be diagnosed in its earliest stages and properly controlled. Experimentation with the method of vaccination against tuberculosis by Calmette has not yet been generally adopted in this country.

The most powerful social factors in controlling the disease are housing, nutrition and education. The regular examination of school children and teaching them of the nutrition of the school child and education of those who are infected in methods of preventing the spread of the disease, are significant factors.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

If you have that need-morasses-and-sulphur feeling as spring approaches, what you probably need are a few skin treatments.

If you can afford to go to a beauty shop once a week for a facial, that's very simple to use at home and good, but if you can't then there are many excellent home treatments.

There are good facial masks for skin which "age" stimulation. These are very simple to use at home and are invaluable for cleansing clogged pores and toning up the complexion.

Most "mask" treatments should be followed by a skin toning lotion. This serves to close the pores and tighten the skin.

Almost every woman over thirty needs an astringent unless her skin is so dry that the benefit derived from the astringent would be over-shaded by the drying effect it is apt to have.

You can't do justice to your Easter clothes if your skin is not firm under the eyes around the mouth and down the neck. Get busy with a astringent right away before you join the Easter parade.

There are muscle gels for tired sagging muscles. These should be applied warm and gently massaged into the skin over the sagging muscle with a circular motion of your finger tips. They help to banish lines around the eyes and mouth and prevent new ones.

Your budget should make some allowance for beauty aids. If you have economized on cosmetics all winter you may expect to have to spend a little more this spring before your complexion is in shape for Easter. Do invest in a jar of some kind of facial mask and use it once a week.

A Thought

If there be among you a poor man of one of thy brethren within any of thy gates, which thou shalt not harden thine heart against him, but thou shalt open thine hand unto him, and shalt lend him of thy poor brother—Leviticus 19:16.

It is not enough to help the feeble up, but to support him after—Shakespeare.

After all, aren't we a little hard on counterfeits? Legislators pass the bills and get away with it.

GOWNS FOR THE INAUGURAL BALL

Following the Precedent Established by Next First Lady, Not all of the Dresses Will Be Strictly New

Shown above in the gowns they will wear at the Inaugural Ball in Washington are Mrs. John N. Garner (left) wife of the Vice-President-elect, and Congresswoman Ruth Bryan Owen (right). Miss Helen Coakley (center) is chairman of a committee of dress. Mrs. W. D. Herridge (lower left), wife of the Canadian minister to the U. S., will wear a white crepe trimmed with cherry red.

Washington, Feb. 27.—Washington dress shops are showing "Eleanor blue", but apparently the Roosevelt inaugural ball will launch no vogue for the favorite shade of the new President's wife.

In fact, many of the ladies whose names rank politically or socially are following the lead of Mrs. Roosevelt and will go to the ball in a costume they've worn before.

Mrs. Roosevelt will be in white—a heavy and lustrous satin brocade in which she has appeared at functions earlier this winter. At the inauguration ceremony she will wear Eleanor blue velvet—a semi-formal dress and coat.

But new dresses which are being bought for the ball, according to smart Washington shops, show no preference for blue. There'll be more whites and pinks, with black as a runner-up. Materials will be crepes, lace, chiffons and a few satins. Crepes will be heavy and dull faced in weaves. Satins also will be dull-finish.

Few dresses will be so formal as to boast trains, but many will have smart little jackets or capes trimmed with fur or velvet. Middle-aged ladies will wear long gloves and keep them on all evening, the advice being strictly for young girls—or many of them—will go in bare arms or with the smarter and shorter wrist gloves.

Mrs. Garner in Black. Mrs. Jack Garner, who doesn't care much about clothes, has a new dress. Mrs. Garner really had to have a new dress, because she hasn't gone out much in the evenings and didn't bother about evening clothes. She will wear black crepe cut on long and slender lines, with no trimming at all except a dash of sparkling sequins at the neck and waistlines. With it she will wear long black gloves and no ornaments.

By way of contrast will be the frock of Mrs. William Duncan Herridge, wife of the Canadian minister, sister of the prime minister of Canada and a blonde and handsome young matron. Mrs. Herridge has bought a white, dull finish crepe, trimmed with cherry red velvet, particularly to wear to the ball.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Democratic social leader in Washington since the Wilson administration, also will be in black. Her gown will be velvet, cut low and untrimmed, and with it she will wear long black velvet gloves.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, who has been mentioned as a possible minister to Denmark under the new administration, will look handsome in black lacquered satin. Her dress will be of the period type, with wider skirt, simple decollete and no decoration except a large white water lily embroidered in front at the waistline.

Mrs. Mary T. Norton, ranking Democratic woman member of the House, will wear flesh colored satin and white gloves. Her dress also will be untrimmed and will be cut with a fitted waistline and long skirt.

Mrs. John McDuffie, wife of the Congressman from Alabama who may succeed J. N. Garner as Speaker of the House, will be in blue crepe Elizabeth, trimmed with rhinestones and worn with long white gloves.

Mrs. Cordell Hull, wife of the new Secretary of State, will wear crepe satin—a shade between peach and pink. Her dress will be made with a graceful cape, trimmed with Kolinsky fur.

Mrs. Daniel C. Roper, whose husband has been announced for the Commerce Department portfolio, will be in lace of a delicate cream shade, shipped to match, no ornaments and no touch of color except a green sash at the normal waistline.

Mrs. Marcus Coolidge, wife of the Senator from Massachusetts, will wear blue but not Eleanor blue. Her dress will be slightly darker in shade; a powder blue, beaded with brilliants over the shoulders and at the waistline. Miss Helen Coolidge, daughter of the Massachusetts Senator, will appear in an original French model of soft gray crepe trimmed strikingly with embroidery of brilliant costume jewels; reds, greens and golds.

Mrs. Katherine Hebert, daughter of Senator Felix Hebert of Rhode Island, will wear American beauty satin with a great bustle bow in the back. Her sister Marquerte will be in white satin, trimmed with raspberry red.

Mrs. Joseph Tumulty, wife of former President Wilson's secretary, will appear in white crepe, trimmed with silver beads. The Tumultys have three daughters, all of whom will go to the ball, each in a different color. Katharine will wear aqua marine chiffon, Grace yellow crepe trimmed with mink fur, and Alicia black chiffon trimmed with a touch of pink. Another Senator's daughter, Miss Maria Broussard, daughter of the Senator from Louisiana, will be in green crepe trimmed with beads.

Alice Roosevelt Longworth will be missing. The fifth cousin of President-elect Roosevelt, who used her influence against him in the campaign, not only admits that she has no intention of attending the inaugural ball, but didn't even respond to an invitation to join a committee of "descendants of old Dutch settlers of New Amsterdam, later called New York," who came over about the same time as the original American Roosevelt. The Washington "descendants" who will do honor to their Dutch ancestors include Janet Fish, sister of Representative Hamilton Fish and superintendent of nurses at a Washington hospital, and Miss Susan Leroy Rodgers, daughter of Mrs. Hamilton Fish by a former marriage. Mrs. Longworth was invited to join, but paid no attention to the request.

Famous Gem There. The famous Hope diamond may gleam from a box upon the festivities. Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, millionaire newspaper publisher, is one of the boxholders for the ball. She also is owner of this noted jewel.

The ball will be like half a dozen affairs in one. It will be billed for the most part with politicians and their families and friends, middle-aged or older.

But there also will be a younger, much gayer group, and there will be many daughters of prominent Democrats for the two unmarried Roosevelt sons to dance with.

Helen Coolidge, daughter of Senator Marcus Coolidge of Massachusetts, is chairman of a committee of young girls who are choosing the music to be played by the dance orchestras, assisted by Helen Lee Doherty, daughter of Henry C. Doherty, New York financier.

Even hardened criminals want to do the right thing, it seems. Without one word of dissension 68 "lifters" have joined welfare workers in urging Connecticut's governor to reduce the minimum term before parole from 25 to 30 years.

If President Hoover's name is bandied around rather roughly after he leaves office, it will be his own fault. He has photographed medicine balls for his cabinet members.

CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barber

NO WORRY WHEN BABIES SLOW ABOUT WALKING

Don't worry about your baby if he doesn't walk in time or talk on time. By "on time" I mean the average age taken from records that show babies walking anywhere from a year to eighteen months, and saying single words from fifteen months on—sometimes earlier.

As far as walking goes, I believe the general run of babies begins to walk earlier than they used to. Whether it is the cod liver oil or not, I cannot say, but I am inclined to believe that the daily dose is accountable. Also the new ways of supplementing diet early with vegetables and fruit juices.

Walking is Difficult. But even babies so fed and cared for in the most approved manner take a long time to get on their feet occasionally, and their time about getting on their feet and toddling off. Sometimes a child will start to walk holding on to chairs (in fact, they all do), and then months later will still be unable to strike out for himself unless he steadies himself with his hand on something solid.

It may be fear of falling, or it may be that he just takes a little longer to co-ordinate. Co-ordination of mind and muscle is a difficult thing. Each step we take is a process of falling, but before we lose our balance the other foot finds the ground and we are safe. Walking is a repeated falling and catching ourselves, because between steps we are off balance.

To learn to walk is so difficult for a child as it would be for us to learn to vault over a fence successfully. Just be patient. Don't force the little fellow, or make fun of him, or let him know you are worrying. Some children are slow to know that your words mean before they walk, even though they cannot see them.

However, if a baby is two years old, or nearing it, and has made no effort to get about, it is absolutely wise to ask the doctor about it. He may need more bone and tissue-making food.

And don't worry about his talking, either, unless he is absolutely mute. I have seen children, who talked (single words) at a little over a year old and others who never tried any intelligible sound until they were two. You can't tell about babies and many mothers worry unnecessarily.

Unnecessary Worry. For instance, a mother was upset because her baby could not walk when she was told that he could sit down on a little chair. Here again we strike something hard. He did too! He would go up to the chair, bend himself in the middle and sit down backwards on the floor. He did this for months. No one could teach him to turn his back to the chair and then bend and let himself go.

Then finally one day he got the hang of it as his mother spent the day at the telephone telling her friends.

Everything is hard for a little child. We expect too much. We get impatient and we worry too much.

For every one child who is really abnormal there are thousands of mothers who are sure their Dicksies or their Dickies are going to be different too. One reason I believe why some children are slow about walking is that they are cooped up too much. The way I learned to swim was by being thrown off a dock into deep water. I swam!

May we say that the statesman of the future will not boast that he was born in a log cabin. He will begin his autobiography: "My people were a one-car family."

PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under weight of years. Young, yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Unpleasant pimples. Keep your system clean and you keep the beauty of youth. Its energy. Its irrefragable charm. Then life is not a failure.

Clogged bowels and inactive liver cause poisons to seep through the system. Health vanishes and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets will help you from this dark hour. For 20 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel in men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. They act easily and smoothly. No dangerous gripping. Take nightly before retiring. Results will amaze you.

Thousands of men and women would never be without Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, a vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. 25c, 50c and 60c. All druggists.

WEST SIDES TURN BACK EAST SIDES

Town Champ Volley Ball Team Wins Two Out of Three, 9-15, 15-6, 15-8.

The West Side volleyball team, town champions of 1932, defeated the East Side Rec team, two out of three games last night. The East Sides, fresh from a victory over Naugatuck Saturday night, were in great form and won the first game, 15-9, but the West Sides played heads-up ball in the last two games and had little trouble in winning, 15-6 and 15-8.

The final game was nip and tuck with the West Sides getting the breaks. "Cupsie" Wadwell was the leading factor in the West Sides' victory. Robert Metcalf played a fine game for the East Sides. The same two teams will meet soon in a series for the town title.

ENGLAND TO SEEK MOTOR BOAT TITLE

Challenge Is Made For Harmsworthy Trophy Now Held By Gar Wood.

London, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The Royal Motor Yacht Club, acting for H. Scott Paine, today called a challenge to Detroit for the Harmsworthy Trophy, premier motor-boating prize held by Gar Wood.

Paine, motorboat designer and constructor, has designed a boat with which he will attempt to lift the trophy Wood has successfully defended against previous British challengers. The race probably will be held in Detroit on Lake St. Clair early in September. Today was the last day for filing a challenge.

27 Schools Enter Indoor Meet I. C. 4-A. Events Attract Next To Largest Field In Twelve-Year History

The intercollegiate indoor championships at New York never fail to provide plenty of thrills, and the four young gentlemen above are certain to supply their share in the approaching event March 4. Weinstein, in the 70-yard dash, and McCuskey, in the two-mile run, will defend titles won a year ago. Spitz, holder of the world's indoor high jump record, and Carr, Pennsylvania's little flyer, are other outstanding attractions.

ICE LEADERS PLAY RUNNER-UP RIVALS

Leafs Meet Canadians and Detroit Tackles Maroons In Games Tonight.

New York, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The National Hockey league's divisional pace-setters, the Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings, will attempt to draw a little farther away from their closest rivals tonight. The Leafs remain at home to play the Montreal Canadiens while Detroit invades Montreal to face the Maroons in the feature attraction of a three-game schedule. Toronto holds a three-game advantage over the Canadiens in the season's series between the two clubs.

Detroit, on the other hand, has succeeded in beating the Maroons only once in five games. Of the other four games one was a tie, three going to the Maroons. Tonight's clash is the last of the regular season between the clubs. Boston and Ottawa likewise will wind up their rivalry for the season with Boston favored. The Bruins will be fighting to close the gap that divides them, in third place of the American section from the second place New York Rangers. The Rangers, trailing Detroit by a single section, lead Boston by four. Boston has won three games, tied one and lost one to Ottawa so far this season.

Whether Bill Carr, Pennsylvania's great little Olympic champion, will show his wares may not be decided until the last minute. Carr, who proved himself the war hero of the world's indoor high jump record, is expected to repeat in the 70-yard dash. In all, 24 of the 46 athletes who scored points for their schools a year ago are included in the entry list.

Two of last year's champions are due to defend their laurels in the approaching meet. Joe McCuskey of Fordham, never defeated in varsity competition, will seek his third straight two-mile victory, while George Weinstein of N. Y. U. will try to repeat in the 70-yard dash. In all, 24 of the 46 athletes who scored points for their schools a year ago are included in the entry list.

REC FIVE AGREES TO TERMS SET UP BY NATIONAL GUARDS

Date of First Game in Doubt, Due To Tentative Bookings; To Start Next Week Tuesday Or Week Later At School Street Rec With Second and Third Games At State Armory; Recs Have Twelve Players Eligible and Guards Have Eight; To Have One Referee, One Scorer, One Timer At Each Game; Other Details.

The annual series for the basketball championship of Manchester was arranged finally last night, when the Rec Five agreed to the terms set forth by the National Guards, who will defend the title which they wrested from the challengers last year. Because of tentative bookings, a decision was not reached on the date of the opening game, to be played at the School Street Rec.

However, if present plans to book a headline attraction next week fail to materialize for the Guards, the game will be played Tuesday evening, March 7, the second game at the State Armory Wednesday, March 15, and the third game if necessary, at the Armory on Friday, March 24. Otherwise the series will be postponed one week, the first game to be staged on Tuesday evening, March 14 at the Rec, the second game at the Armory Wednesday, March 22 and the third game if necessary at the Armory on Friday, March 31.

HOLD SWEEPSTAKES BENEFIT ON FRIDAY

Funds To Be Turned Over To Charter Oak Girls Team For Tourney Expenses.

The Charter Oak sweepstakes, held weekly at the Charter Oak alleys on Oak street, will run for the benefit of the Charter Oak Girls' bowling team this Friday night, it was announced today by Manager Joe Farr. The league has recognized one of the finest teams in the state and are expected to enter several tournaments this season.

The funds received Friday night, after prizes have been decided, will be turned over to the team to ward expenses. The handicap sweepstakes is open to both men and women bowlers. Everyone has a chance to win prizes as fair handicaps are given. Play will start at 8:00 o'clock but bowlers may enter as late as 10 o'clock Friday night.

YALE SENDS TEAM

New York, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Yale will bring 66 athletes to New York on Saturday in an effort to win the team title of the indoor track and field championships of the intercollegiate A. A. A. for the first time.

Wearers of the blue will be entered in every one of the 11 track events and in the freshman relay relay. As well, Yale expects to pick up plenty of points in the pole vault where Frank Brown, West Virginia, and Matt Pines are expected to finish one-two-three.

Yale's track and field team has a record of 11 consecutive wins in the indoor track and field championships. The team is expected to win the title for the first time.

Weather Report
 Boston, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday; fresh north wind. The minimum temperature tonight will be near 24.

Weather Report
 Conditions: The barometric pressure is still unusually low in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, lowest reading 28.80 at Halifax, and stormy conditions continue from New England eastward to the North Atlantic. High winds have prevailed in that area and snow has fallen from Vermont eastward. Another disturbance is moving east along the Louisiana coast causing moderate to heavy rain from Texas eastward to Alabama. Relatively high pressure prevails in the middle sections and fair weather is prevalent in most of the middle and eastern states. The temperature has risen in the Lake region and the St. Lawrence valley and most of the eastern states, but it has fallen in the western Canadian provinces and southward to eastern Texas and Louisiana.

CRISLER CREDITED WITH PRINCETON'S SUDDEN COMEBACK

Here Is First of Three Stories Telling of Tigers Remarkable Return To Top After Big Slump.

(Note: Princeton's comeback in intercollegiate athletics is one of the remarkable developments of the past year. From the depths of a protracted decline the Tigers have bounded forward again in all branches of sports. To discover the underlying reasons and study the methods of the man largely credited with bringing this renaissance about, the Associated Press assigned Edward J. Neil to investigate. Here-with is the first of his series of three stories.)

By EDWARD J. NEIL
 Associated Press Sports Writer
 Princeton, N. J., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Back from New Haven on a glum, gloowering day in November two years ago, back to the comparative peace and security of the beautiful Princeton campus, came the wreckage of probably the worst football team this proud and ancient stronghold of the East ever had sent to the pigskin wars.

Morale Was Low
 Princeton had been beaten as no other Tiger eleven ever had been trounced by Yale, 54-14, and the morale of a university that worships tradition, and the memories of such heroes as the six Poses, Snake Ames, Hobey Baker, Sam White, Stan Keck, Jake Slagle and the rest, was so low that some of the biggest, most powerful youngsters in the school swore they'd never pull on the molehills again.

Cornerstone of the original "Big Three", with a football record that dates all the way back to 1869 and the birth of the American game, Princeton apparently had fallen from the ranks of the great athletic powers.

Not only was the morale of the youngsters low but an alumni system of football coaching that never had been changed was demoralized. Rival coaches spoke with unctuous sadness of the passing of a great institution—and wondered if they couldn't schedule games while there still was prestige to be gained from beating Princeton. The football public, aside from the hurt alumni body, laughed loudly and fashionably at the "Toothless Tigers."

Then came Crisler
 One short year passed, bringing with it a new athletic director and head coach from the Middle West, Herbert Orrin (Fats) Crisler. Crisler, former direct Princeton football, and a couple of husky assistants, "Tad" Wiseman and Earl Martineau. The old ways were junked. The new blood from Minnesota and Chicago brought new dual and a refreshing knowledge of youthful psychology. One of the greatest comebacks in intercollegiate athletic history was under way.

Where a band of husky but aimless youths the year before managed to beat Harvard only once last fall, was considered almost as strong as Crisler's varsity. Under his coaching Princeton may repeat its victory in the eastern intercollegiate basketball league championship. The hockey varsity beat Yale twice, although it lost two of three games with Harvard. The freshman piled up an amazing total of 70 goals in nine straight victories, winning sometimes 15 and 18 to 0.

But no one could express the results better than did Bill Crowley, veteran Bowdoin official, on the train coming back last fall from the Cornell-Princeton soccer tie he refereed.

Baseball Briefs

Chicago, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The long fight of baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis against the "farm" system, today was a lost cause, with the acceptance by the minor leagues of the transfer rule adopted last December by major league club owners.

The new rule will permit major league clubs to release a player on option three times and release him for the fourth time to one of its farm clubs. The old rule, in the enforcement of which Landis went to court two years ago, permitted three option releases, but the fourth release had to be outright to a club not-affiliated with the major league team.

Avalon, Calif., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The biggest duel in a regular job market in Chicago, the middle-between Shortports/Mark Koenig and Bill Jurgens—was scheduled to start today.

Koenig, whose brilliant work was a big factor in winning the National League championship by the Cubs last year, arrived on Santa Catalina island yesterday, and Jurgens was due today with the second squad. Jurgens held the job in 1932 until bullet wounds put him out of action. Later Koenig suffered an injury to his right wrist and Jurgens played through most of the world series.

Paasadena, Calif., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Manager Leo Fonseca already is at work on what he expects will be the Chicago White Sox infield. The Sox pilot has lined himself up at first base, with Minter Hayes at second, Luke Appling at shortstop, and Jimmy Dykes, late of the Philadelphia Athletics, at third.

Los Angeles, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The training season has barely begun but Travis Jackson, veteran shortstop, already has retained his title as "hard luck champion" of the New York Giants.

Out practically all of last season with injuries to his knees, Jackson came to camp the other day with his underpinnings in excellent shape. Yesterday he failed to report for practice because of a cold in the head, thus becoming the first casualty of the Giant campaign.

Coral Gables, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Jack Quinn, center right-hander of the Brooklyn Dodgers, has two excellent reasons for not participating in the Dodgers' spring training activities just now. The first is that he hasn't signed a contract, hoping to induce the club to pay more money than they've seen fit to offer him. The second is that he is suffering from a badly infected jaw that would incapacitate him even if he had come to terms.

One Year Ago Today—George Lott, Chicago rafter star, beat Red Fairbanks of Indianapolis in the second round of the Pan-American singles staged at Miami Beach, Fla. Durango won the $2500—added to the Washington handicap at Agua Caliente.

Five Years Ago Today—The Five Acres Farm's Genial Host won the $7500 Mard Gras handicap at New Orleans, La. The Cleveland Indians released Stuffy McInnis, veteran first baseman. The Cincinnati Reds signed Luque Rodriguez, Comanche Indian pitcher.

Ten Years Ago Today—The New York Giants arrived at their spring training camp at Marvin, Texas. The Cleveland Indians released Stuffy McInnis, veteran first baseman. The Cincinnati Reds signed Luque Rodriguez, Comanche Indian pitcher.

More than twice and the Henrys had dropped decisions to strong teams, including the Maryville teachers, during the regular season. The teachers held a sizable advantage at the halftime intermission and were ahead by one point, 14-13, in the frenzied final seconds, when Captain Barry Dunham was doored and dazed in a mishap after he had bagged a pair of field goals from far out to pull the Wichita team back into the winning.

With Dunham disabled and the fans frenzied in their seats, Melvin Miller, veteran forward, slipped in a one-head field goal that gave Wichita the victory, 15-14, and the record for the longest reign as basketball champion.

Four members of the Maryville team, including "Jumping Jack" McCracken, were recruited by the management of the Denver Pigeons and will play in the national tournament.

The Pige and the Henrys have played five games this season, with the Denver team victorious three times, twice in Denver and once at Wichita.

"COMET" IN FAVOR OF A TRUST FUND FOR NET PLAYERS

Former Tennis Star Believes Financial Protection Should Be Given Top Racquet Welders.

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN
 (Associated Press Sports Writer)
 Pasadena, Calif., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The United States Lawn Tennis Association, in the opinion of Maurice McLaughlin, former Davis Cup star and National champion, should provide financial protection for its players who give the best of their youth to the game.

McLaughlin, now 41, believes that a trust fund, to be turned over to a player upon retirement, not only would eliminate many of the practical problems of padding expense accounts and joining the ranks of the professionals, but would enable him to play a better game.

The "California Comet" as he was known between 1910 and 1915, when he quit the game, said in the last two years of his playing career he worried about his financial future, and believes had this not been the case he might still be playing in great form today. He points out that Larned was king of them all at 42, and Brooks was at his best at 35.

"A tennis player stays at the top just as long as his mind is free and easy," said McLaughlin. "As soon as the necessities of food, wife, family, etc. press in upon him, then his tennis goes downhill. Tennis is too jealous a mistress.

How Times Have Changed
 "I like this idea of future protection upon retirement better than playing tennis on a professional basis or taking future cash. I like it better than the means I might have taken about 1914 when a company asked permission to use my name on a racket. I gave this permission freely and the company sold thousands of rackets. I never received a nickel, but I could have had a dollar a racket.

"You may think me the prize chump of all time, but you must remember that I played in the days when amateurs had not begun to tour the world. I lux on padded expenses and appearance money passed under cover.

"The players cannot be blamed now for taking what they can get. I am a former professional. I never thought it would be better if it could be handled in a little different way."

Clubs Can Afford It
 McLaughlin pointed out that the member clubs of the associations often profit greatly from the exhibitions of the ranking players and could afford to contribute to a trust fund.

He admits that the present status of tennis amateurs is much different than in his day, when he received $400 as a Davis Cup team member on a trip to Australia and returned $162 of it to the Lawn Tennis Association.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

Some girls ride in taxis, because they love the ride. While others do the riding. For the loving on the side.

A motor car I saw today was elegant in every way—replandant, rich and gleaming. A working-man was standing by admiring it with longing eye—and I thought he was dreaming. It seemed to me, as there he stood, appraising it from wheels to hood—to him, it represented enough of wealth (perhaps well earned) to buy the Home—for which he's yearned through all the years he'd reared.

This gleaming thing of plush and steel, with pomp and splendor at the wheel and used alone for pleasure—would buy for him—his child and wife—the thing toward which he's pledged his life: A Home—life's richest treasure.

A man buys a second-hand car. He finds that the horn will toot, the front wheels will obey the steering gear. The engine will even start. He is so happy he could cry. Then, alas! he makes a horrible discovery. He got the wonderful car for $9.95 but he must spend $12.50 for a license to operate it.

They say nothing is impossible. Well, try to get a modern girl to go for a ride in a buggy. A motor car, proceeding down a very busy street, was blocked by a wagon drawn by two under-fed looking horses. The driver of the wagon seemed in no particular hurry to clear out of the way, and at last one of the occupants of the motor car, desiring to appear, funny, cried:

The other night we had to take a taxi home because my engine froze and she said it served me right for not remembering to turn on the radiator. She thinks that Chevrolet is a French gambling game, Packard a new kind of steamer trunk and Marmont a religious suit in Utah. I called her on the phone the other night and told her that if she wanted to go for an automobile ride I'd take out the new Moon. She answered that she'd go for a ride with me when I was sober, and hung up. We finally did get that ride, however. We hadn't gone far when she asked me to explain the machine to her. "Well," I said, "the most important thing is the clutch—" She nudged close to me and whispered: "Go on." We stopped.

Screen your open grate fires in winter, sweat the flies in summer, stop, look and listen at grade crossings, don't start the kitchen range fire with the kerosene can, keep your nose out of other folk's business and maybe you'll live to be run over by a drunken joy rider.

The man drove right by the traffic cop. The officer signaled "stop." The man drove on. The officer whistled again and then yelled. The man kept driving. Then the cop leaned up against his post, and burst into tears. "I was never so mortified and humiliated in all of my life," he wailed. "We'll stop on that one. Can you dig up a better one? If so, let's have it."
