GOVERNMENT MOVES FOR BEER RETURN

Bottling of Beverage Starts
In Breweries Throughout Nation — Racketeers To Be Kept Out of Industry.

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—The Federal government today moved swiftly to open the beer taps through which a legal 3.2 brew will flow to America's thirsty after midnight April 6.

Machinery to license brewers was set in motion by Dr. James M. Dornan, industrial alcohol commissioner, who pledged himself to keep racketeers of bootleg beer out of the legalized industry.

Government officials acted a day after President Roosevelt signed into law a bill which permits the sale of beer and wine of 3.2 per cent alcoholic content. The President's action signalled the end of the absolute prohibition which has prevailed since 1930.

To Test The Law
Leaders of prohibition organizations, meantime, made plans for testing the law's constitutionality and for blocking by injunction the sale of beer. They served notice of a determined court battle.

Government officials estimate that an annual revenue of $125,000,000 to $150,000,000 will be obtained from the beverages. The internal revenue bureau has begun distribution of revenue stamps taxing beer at $5 per barrel.

After midnight April 6 the legalized beverages may be sold in at least 14 states—Arizona, California, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Washington and Wisconsin.

Also in Connecticut
It may be sold also in Connecticut, if an opinion expressed by Kenneth Wynne, executive secretary to Governor Cross is followed. He held the Connecticut state enforcement act prohibited only the sale of liquor held to be intoxicating by Federal laws.

While breweries got full steam up to supply the prospective demand Dr. Dornan made ready to send 650 field workers to the licensed plants.

These men will give the worst test night of April 6, when the drinks may leave at the zero hour for the retail establishments. Regulations issued yesterday by the alcohol bureau permits the bottling of beer to proceed.

Mr. Roosevelt yesterday asked Attorney General Cummings for a report on the status of Federal prisoners convicted of beer sales. A number of bills have been introduced in Congress providing for the release of such prisoners.

The House today took up a bill legalizing beer in the District of Columbia so that the brew would be available to those high in the government as well as the average worker.

BRIDGEPORT'S BILL STILL IN DISPUTE

Assembly Conferees Seek To Iron Out Difficulties In Bond Measure.

Hartford, March 23.—(AP)—Conferees attempting to iron out the difficulties between the two Houses on the Bridgeport refunding bond bill met today during the General Assembly session but were apparently unable to reach an agreement.

After completing its regular business, the Senate recessed, apparently with the leaders expecting a report from the conferees. A few minutes later, however, the Senate reconvened and adjourned without further mention of the Bridgeport matter.

Prior to the session, Senator Goldstein of Bridgeport, leader of the fight on the provisions giving the board of apportionment and taxation of the park city broad powers to reduce salaries and otherwise affect economies said he recommended the conferees to reach an agreement today and report to the Senate.

The bill, authorizing Bridgeport to issue $1,500,000 in refunding bonds, was reported from the finance committee Tuesday with the clause extending the powers to the board. Senator Goldstein, supported by the other two Bridgeport Senators, succeeded in getting the Senate to adopt an amendment striking out that provision. The House, however, retained the clause, and the committee of conference consisting of Senator Goldstein, and Rep. Baldwin and Sparks resulted.

ALD REPORTS ON CE PROGRAM

Premier Describes To House of Commons His Recent Trip To Italy.

London, March 23.—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, opening a debate on foreign affairs in the House of Commons, where he was greeted by loud applause, described his recent trip to Italy.

The object which he and the foreign secretary had, he explained, was to assist the conference by producing a plan which would cover the whole field. When the conference resumed tomorrow, he said, it would be, he hoped, on figures contained in this plan.

Dealing with the question of Germany, Mr. MacDonald said the powers were pledged to give equality to her.

"The time has gone by," he said, "when by a combination of any European powers any European people can be kept bound by obligations which it regards as being inconsistent with self-respect and with its honor."

His Visit to Rome
Referring to his recent week-end in Rome, Mr. MacDonald said it was found that Premier Mussolini's mind has been running on an effective plan of collaboration between the four western powers to maintain peace in the spirit of the Kellogg Pact, and that no force pact was contemplated by the four-power conference.

He and Signor Mussolini, he said, felt that Article XIX of the League of Nations Covenant, regarding consideration of treaties, was not meant to become dormant, as the covenant contemplated revision of treaties "when conditions arose which might lead to a conflict of nations."

Mr. MacDonald said that the plan for proposed cooperation should be carried out with the utmost speed. The ten years was indicated.

REDS TO RELEASE BRITISH SUBJECTS

Soviet Embassy In London
Reports That Three Men
Are To Be Freed On Bail.

London, March 23.—(AP)—The Soviet Embassy here announced today it had been informed that the public prosecutor in Moscow has agreed to the release on bail of L. C. Thornton, John Cushman and a man named Gregory, British subjects who were arrested several days ago in raids by Soviet secret police on charges of sabotage in electrical construction work.

Gregory, Thornton and Cushman are employees of the British electrical firm, Metropolitan-Vickers, which has been doing business in Soviet Russia for ten years. They, three other officials of the company and a number of Russian employees were arrested in Moscow and Leningrad.

Thornton is chief erecting engineer, Cushman is an engineer and Gregory is a fitter. The Metropolitan-Vickers company is asked to deposit 25,000 Russian rubles for Thornton and 15,000 each for Gregory and Cushman. (The ruble is nominally 50 cents).

An Embassy official stated that the release of the three men now depended upon the company's action. Although there was no mention of W. H. MacDonald, another engineer who was arrested, this does not mean that his case is not under consideration, the Embassy official added.

Allan Monkhouse, director in Russia for the Metropolitan-Vickers Company, described as "ridiculous" the charges of sabotage lodged against him, five other British employees of the company and a number of Russian employees after their arrest by the OGPU (secret police).

Monkhouse and Charles Nordwell, another British employee, were released a short time after their arrest.

Subsequently the British foreign office made strong representations to the Soviet government concerning the grave view the British government took of the arrest of the six British subjects.

PRISONER OF TOWER HAS ODD DEFENSE

Claims He Made Love To Girl So As To Obtain
Money From Her.

London, March 23.—(AP)—The prosecution closed its case this afternoon in the court martial of Lieut. Norman Ballie-Stewart, young officer of the Seaforth Highlanders charged with assisting the Army secret service.

George Parkes, defense counsel, then opened his case with one of the most amusing speeches ever heard in an English courtroom. He said that the young officer returned to Holland last August to meet a woman known as Marie Louise, having formed the most discreditable intention of taking advantage of her infatuation to obtain money from her.

Marie Louise is "the young woman with whom Lieut. Ballie-Stewart admitted, according to previous testimony, he had a liaison in Berlin last summer. It was she, he said, who sent him £80, which the prosecution claimed was a payment for Army information he revealed, on account of their affair.

Mr. Parkes declared that on Lieut. Ballie-Stewart's last visit to Holland Marie Louise had hinted that in order to induce him to return to Germany in the spring, a

LIPPMANN PREDICTS NEW SOCIAL ORDER

Famous Editor Tells Students That the Old Order of Human Affairs Is Gone.

Berkeley, Cal., March 23.—(AP)—A new economic, social and political order for future humanity was predicted by Walter Lippmann, editor, author and economist, in a Charter Day address at the University of California today.

"The old order of human affairs is gone, irrevocably so," he told a university gathering in the Hillside Greek theater. "In the new order, the loose, individualistic and acquisitive Democracy of the nineteenth century will be replaced by a much more highly integrated, socialistic conscious form of government."

The product of history, invention and laissez faire, he added, has broken down in war, revolution and economic disorder and cannot be put together again. He admonished the students, however, not to allow anyone to tell them the life they were entering is aimless or that they represent a lost and disinherited generation.

The End of Folly
"The trouble you see about you," he said, "is not the end of the world, but merely the end of folly, misadventure and stupidity."

In the brief pause of peace and prosperity, the easier virtues were perhaps sufficient, he said, but in the ages of storm and stress, people must rise to destinies or shrink to despair.

Lippmann termed the social and

HITLER WARNS ENEMIES OF DICTATORSHIP PLAN

German Chancellor Tells
Centrists and Socialists
He Has Enough Votes To Dissolve the Reichstag.

Berlin, March 23.—(AP)—The German Chancellor, Adolf Hitler, today passed an "Empowering Act" granting himself dictatorial powers for four years.

The outcome was inevitable, but the opposition was permitted time to express itself. Otto Wels, veteran of the revolution of 1918 which set up the Republic, was the mouthpiece of the Socialists.

"Take our liberty, take our lives, but leave us our honor," he appealed. "If you (Nazis) really want social reconstruction, you will need no such law as this."

Berlin, March 23.—(AP)—Opposition parties still permitted to function were warned not to oppose Chancellor Hitler's demand for a four year dictatorship at today's Reichstag meeting.

The Nazis and Nationalists had enough votes to assure passage of the enabling act putting the Reichstag out of business and scrapping the Republican constitution. Nevertheless the government served notice it would accept any opposition as "a declaration of war" and that such parties and their voters would suffer.

The warning was directed particularly at the Centrists and Socialists, the Communists not being allowed to take their seats.

Meanwhile the first serious break between Hitler's Nazis and their government associates, the Nationalists, was reported in informed

Old Beer Terms Revived For Return of Beverage

San Francisco, March 23.—(AP)—For those who do not know the old terminology of beer and its associations, here are some of the picturesque words and phrases, and their definitions, that disappeared from the common vocabulary with the beginning of prohibition:

Beer—(as defined by Dr. R. W. Wahl of the Wahl-Henns Institute)—An effervescent, sparkling beverage resulting from the thorough alcoholic fermentation of a hopped solution, in potable water, of the extractive substances principally of barley malt, together with if desirable, other prepared social or their natural equivalents; the connoisseur a beverage, which awakens pleasant associations, satiates his eye by its sparkle and effervescence and his discriminating sense of smell and palate by its delicacy of flavor and taste, lends zest to his appetite and brings cheer to his heart.

Alc.—The principal British type of beer, having a relatively high alcoholic content.

HINES MENTIONED TO DIRECT ROADS

Wall Street Believes He Will Be Appointed As Transportation Executive.

New York, March 23.—(AP)—Walker D. Hines, director of railroads during the wartime Federal control period is the man most prominently mentioned in Wall Street circles today for probable elevation to a key position in the administration's forthcoming transportation program.

Hines, a former director of the Santa Fe and at present a practicing attorney in New York, has been a student of the railroad problem all his life. He is known as an ardent advocate of the theory of consolidation, but has freely admitted that there are many grave difficulties to be ironed out before any substantial progress can be made in that direction.

Fits in Program
It is no secret that the Hines philosophy of railway regulation, and particularly his views on consolidation—would fit into the Roosevelt platform.

The report perkins in rail quarters that the board of control for the steam carriers with Hines perhaps at the head. It is understood that broad dictatorial powers would be sought for this control group, and that the scope of activity would transcend the present power of the interstate commerce commission.

Increased attention is being focused on the findings of the Non-Partisan National Transportation committee, which was headed by the late Calvin Coolidge.

PLANS UNDER WAY TO MAKE JOBS FOR LARGE CITIES' IDLE

DEFER PENSION LAW, COMMITTEE URGES

Ask That Legislation Be Held
Up For Present Due To Economic Conditions.

The commission appointed in 1931 to investigate the pension systems of the State and its municipalities, and reappointed the following year, has presented to the present Legislature a unanimous recommendation "that no further legislation be enacted at the present session of the Legislature covering the granting of pensions to the employees of the State."

In presenting this recommendation, the commission states in a report that this action is taken in view of present economic conditions because it "would be impossible for the present session of the Legislature to consider . . . a pension plan which would necessitate the assumption of an additional burden of not less than one-half a million dollars from the State at the start." The commission is hopeful that legislation will be enacted as soon as economic conditions permit and recommends that the governor of the State be authorized to appoint a commission of not less than seven members, three of whom shall represent the employees of the State, to continue the work.

Additional Liability
The report points out that "in deferring contributory pension legislation (the State) is really burdening itself in the future with additional liability through added years of service of employees, and through the increase in the years of age of employees." Also the fact that the employees' contributions are being made during this period removes one method of decreasing the State's liability. Hence, the postponing of proper legislation is not as real a contribution towards reducing the expenses of the State as it might appear.

COUPLE ON LINER ELUDES OFFICERS

Sleuths Hold German Man and American Woman
Who Flew From Steamer.

New York, March 23.—(AP)—In the custody of private detectives who received the aid of Greenwich, Conn., police in apprehending them, Karl Effers, said to be a German citizen, and Marie Kick, a young Greenwich woman, were brought here today for questioning as to how Effers got ashore last Friday from an incoming liner on which both were passengers.

When the Hamburg-American liner Ne York docked immigration officials, acting on information furnished by Frederick Kessel, the girl's uncle, ordered Effers held, but both he and his baggage disappeared shortly afterwards.

The couple boarded the ship on Jan. 12 after obtaining two cabins. They gave their address as 54 Prospect street, Greenwich.

The girl disappeared along with Effers and the whereabouts of both was unknown until they were found by detectives yesterday near Searsville N. Y. They had obtained employment, he as a chauffeur and she as a maid.

The detectives said that prior to the ocean trip Effers had an office at 43 Prospect street, Greenwich, and promoted sales of stock in a company he formed known as the Famous Razor Blade Co. Kesselert is said to have communicated with the Department of Labor when he learned Effers was going abroad. He said the man owed him $1,100.

Sec. Perkins of Labor Department Gives Details of Work Already Under Way To Take Care of 250,000; Will Not Reduce Wage Standards, She Declares.

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Aid to the jobless in congested industrial cities was described today as the aim of the President's reforestation program.

While Miss Frances Perkins was telling a joint session of the House and Senate labor committees of the purposes of the measure before them, Secretary Dern related that plans were under way for recruiting the jobless in industrial cities into a civilian conservation corps.

Miss Perkins, in her first appearance as secretary of labor before a Congressional committee, entered into a give and take cross examination by committee members and defended the program from the charge that it would tend to reduce the wage standard for unskilled labor. She called it a relief plan and said that employers had realized that the purchasing power of wage earners must be sustained if business was to prosper.

Under the plans being formulated for putting the plan into action after it is enacted, Dern said the Labor Department would enroll unemployed volunteers, the War Department would organize and train units and the Agriculture Department would conduct the camps and supervise the work.

ITS FIRST TEST

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's plan for recruiting 250,000 jobless men in a civilian conservation corps met its first Congressional test today at a joint hearing before Senate and House labor committees.

Frank Train, the White House conference held at which the President outlined his plan, the two committees prepared to hear opponents of the proposal.

At the outset, Representative Byrnes, of Tennessee, the Democratic floor leader, asked for quick committee action and assurance of prompt consideration in the House.

He said the House would be ready to take the bill up the day after the committee approved it. Chairman Walsh of the Senate committee promised disposition would be made as soon as possible.

Chairman Cnrcy of the House labor committee, said he planned two days of hearings.

The first witness was R. E. Stuart, chief of the forest service, who recommended amendment to the bill to permit use of the corps on private forest lands.

The bill as sent to Congress by the President would confine the employment on public lands. Stuart said there are 101,000 acres of National forests, but only 7,000,000 acres of the Mississippi.

A cooperative arrangement between the Federal government and private owners would provide for the use of labor in the east, in the absence of forest lands, Stuart testified.

Stuart was asked about wage scales by Connery, who has indicated opposition to the bill because of its limitation of pay to $80 a month. The Forest Service, Stuart said, was employing men on the basis of prevailing wages, averaging $3 a day in the west and $3 in the east.

In some of the woods operations, however, he said, the wages are much over $30 a month plus subsistence.

Stuart testified the "need for work on the National forests is very great," asserting only 64 per cent of the Nation's forest lands are under forest protection.

In her first appearance as Secretary of Labor before a Congressional committee, Miss Frances Perkins testified the President's bill should be regarded as a relief, rather than an employment measure.

"They are not jobs in the true sense of the word," she said, "allowing objections to the proposed wage level of $80 a month."

Standing near the head of the long committee table, she denied the money would be taken from public building projects on which regulated wages are being paid.

Members of the committee asked if use of unexpended appropriations for public works would not enable work to stop on such projects, but Miss Perkins replied emphatically: "No work will be stopped."

Miss Perkins said the plan would be particularly beneficial to young and unmarried men who have not been taken care of by existing relief facilities.

BANK OFFICIALS WORK ON DETAILS In Conference Today With Commissioner Bassett On Proposed Plan.

Officials of the Manchester Trust Company were in conference today for several hours with Bank Commissioner George J. BETTER FILM LEAGUE MAY BE ORGANIZED

Mrs. C. R. Burr Leading Movement Here—Another Meeting On April 3.

Twenty-seven women's organizations were represented at a meeting held last night at the Girl Scout headquarters in the Cheney building by the Manchester Better Film League and Mrs. C. R. Burr was appointed chairman by the council, which is lining up with a movement by civic and social organizations throughout the country to institute branches of the Better Film League. Mrs. Burr and one of the women interested have already interviewed Manager Ben Cohen of the State and Circle theaters who has agreed to co-operate with the Manchester Better Film League and if possible secure for Saturday afternoon and vacation days, pictures that any family would wish their children to see. The League on the other hand proposes to sponsor and recommend worthwhile pictures and refrain from commenting or arousing interest in films they do not approve of. Further than that the scope of the work is indefinite as yet. The first meeting for organization and discussion of the league's activities was called by Chairman Mrs. Burr for Monday evening, April 3, at the Scout headquarters, when it is hoped even more of the social, fraternal and patriotic women's organizations will be represented.

It will probably be considerable time yet before he will be strong enough to resume his work. His duty is being taken care of in his absence by Hayden Griswold.

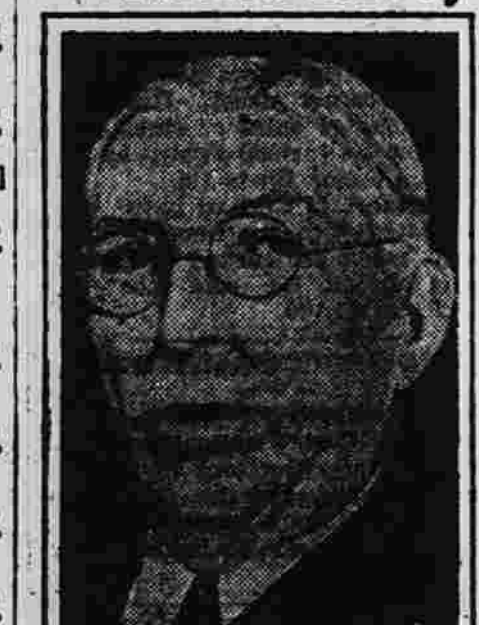

SPECIAL LEGISLATION FOR HOME MORTGAGES

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—

The administration has decided to give separate treatment to farm mortgages and those on small urban homes and therefore the latter will not be included in the mortgage legislation to be sent Congress within the next few days.

This developed today after a conference at the White House between President Roosevelt and Congressional leaders. The legislation for farm mortgages probably will be attached by the Senate to the pending farm relief bill, and the President expects to deal with the home mortgage situation in a separate measure, soon after the farm question is taken up. Speaker Rainey, outlining the administration farm plan said that it is proposed to give the needed mortgage benefit with a bond issue limited to two million dollars but probably not exceeding half that. Thirty billions, he said, would have been required had home mortgage relief been proposed on the same terms. Separate agencies of the government, it was indicated, may administer the two mortgage aid programs.

House, were confirmed in the Senate today during a quiet session.

George L. Bradley was appointed deputy judge of the East Haven Town Court, and Harold L. Logan was named deputy judge of the Wolcott Town Court. Both resolutions were adopted without discussion, although Senator Bergin and the Democrats following his leadership cast their votes against them as usual.

A bill repealing the emergency banking act regarding uninvested cash held by banks in a fiduciary capacity was started for action on the Senate calendar but no action was taken on it. The original bill, drawn in the banks committee and reported as one of the seven emergency measures adopted two weeks ago, repealed previous statutes requiring such funds held in a fiduciary capacity to be segregated. The bill repealing that was reported favorably by the judiciary committee.

The Senate confirmed Governor Cross' nomination of Mr. Walter R. Steiner for reappointment to the state water commission.

The Senate rejected a series of bills regarding state papers which were supported by the Hartford Department of Public Welfare. One would charge the state with the support of destitute aliens. A bill providing a pension of $100 per month for Charlotte M. Holloway for 18 years a clerk in the Labor Department office in New London, was adopted.

Bills Adopted

Other Senate bills adopted included: Amending the charter of the Stamford Y.M.C.A.; providing that feebleminded children and children suffering incurable or contagious diseases not be committed to county homes, and authorizing the state agent to make reciprocal agreements with other states for interstate transportation of poor and indigent persons. House bills adopted included: Providing that no more school districts be adopted, allowing tax levies on land in Florida, prohibiting the use of unregistered cars in inland waters and setting out prices of registration, and establishing a town court in Newington. A bill providing for the inspection of amusement devices throughout the state by an engineer appointed by the state police commissioner was rejected. A bill providing for a state income tax was also rejected, but Senator Cooney, chairman of the finance committee said another supported by the State Senate was still under consideration.

IN THE HOUSE

Hartford, March 23.—(AP)—Two bills designed to tax incomes were rejected by the House today. They were sponsored at a hearing before the finance committee yesterday by the Connecticut League of Municipalities and the Citizens Property Owners Association.

Members of the finance committee explained to the House that a further bill, sponsored by the State Grange, is still under consideration. During a brief debate on the committee's report, Representative William C. Hungerford, of Waterbury, said that the people of the state have repeatedly heard that the finance committee still had relief bills under consideration. He expressed the belief that the taxpayers were entitled to know when some action is to be taken to aid them.

Majority Leader Raymond E. Baldwin, in reply, pleaded that the House bear with the finance committee, "which has been given more work than any similar committee in 50 years."

Magicians Praised
More than half an hour was consumed in the House today as members of the judiciary committee praised the "Magician Bill" which had been unfavorably reported. The committee asked the rejection of the measure, which would have protected the magicians from cigarette manufacturers who expose the secrets of illusions in advertisements.

quarters in a dispute over the premiership of Prussia. The new Prussian Diet, which was to have elected a premier today was indefinitely adjourned after its opening meeting yesterday by the Nazis speaker, Hans Kerrl.

Deadlock Reported
A deadlock was reported with the Nazi members insisting on the selection of Captain Hermann Goerring, Hitler's chief aide, as premier, and the Nationalist equally adamant in backing President von Hindenburg's close personal friend, Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen for the post.

Hitler himself, it was reported, wanted the highest state office for his own as well as the Reich chancellorship, but apparently yielded to von Papen. The latter heads the Nationalist majority in the Hitler Cabinet, placed there by President von Hindenburg to curb any radical tendencies of the Nazis.

Furthermore the Nazis lack a clear majority on the Diet itself, although they outnumber the Nationalists more than 4 to 1.

Red Leader Killed
A Communist leader was slain by a Nazi at Gelsenkirchen. The latter claimed to have acted in self-defense.

Monarchist demonstrations in various parts of the country marked the birthday anniversary yesterday of the late Kaiser's grandfather, Wilhelm I. The Monarchist League of the Upright praised Hitler's declarations at Potsdam at the Reichstag opening and exercises were held at Wilhelm's tomb at the Charlottenburg mausoleum and elsewhere.

PLANS UNDER WAY TO MAKE JOBS FOR BIG CITIES' IDLE

"Who have been living by their wits."

Miss Perkins replied promptly to a series of questions by hostile members of the two committees. She said the plan would "preserve the self respect and morale" of the men employed and denied it would lower wage standards.

Chairman Connery of the House committee, suggested a connection between the plan and sweat shop conditions.

"This is not to be regarded as an attempt to start a sweat shop labor program," Miss Perkins said, "nor can it be used to depress the wages of labor."

No 88 a Day Jobs

The bill, Miss Perkins said, would not put men to work at $1 a day on jobs now done by $3 labor.

"This will put men to work on projects that would not be undertaken in the next 10 years," she said.

"It isn't every private industry say that is the least unskilled labor and establish the $1 wage level?" Connery asked.

"I don't think so," Miss Perkins replied, "because it doesn't make sense. If you put wage earners generally on the $1 a day basis we would be in utter collapse in a few weeks. Industrialists have seen the necessity of maintaining purchasing power."

Miss Perkins added that the government should use every influence to maintain wage levels. Senator Black, (D. Ala.), author of a 30-hour week bill, asked if she also thought the government should use its influence to cut working hours.

For a Shorter Week
Replying the labor secretary said she favored enactment of the 30-hour week bill.

Asked if she would favor amending the pending bill to write in the 30-hour week, Miss Perkins said she would in theory but saw practical difficulties.

One of the committee members asked if it would not be harmful to separate families by sending men away from their homes to the proposed forestry camps.

"In some cases it would be a good thing for the family to make that division," Miss Perkins replied, as the committee laughed. "I don't think you need to worry over the effect on family life," she added.

HITLER WARNS ENEMIES OF DICTATORSHIP PLAN

quarters in a dispute over the premiership of Prussia.

The new Prussian Diet, which was to have elected a premier today was indefinitely adjourned after its opening meeting yesterday by the Nazis speaker, Hans Kerrl.

Deadlock Reported
A deadlock was reported with the Nazi members insisting on the selection of Captain Hermann Goerring, Hitler's chief aide, as premier, and the Nationalist equally adamant in backing President von Hindenburg's close personal friend, Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen for the post.

Hitler himself, it was reported, wanted the highest state office for his own as well as the Reich chancellorship, but apparently yielded to von Papen. The latter heads the Nationalist majority in the Hitler Cabinet, placed there by President von Hindenburg to curb any radical tendencies of the Nazis.

Furthermore the Nazis lack a clear majority on the Diet itself, although they outnumber the Nationalists more than 4 to 1.

Red Leader Killed
A Communist leader was slain by a Nazi at Gelsenkirchen. The latter claimed to have acted in self-defense.

Monarchist demonstrations in various parts of the country marked the birthday anniversary yesterday of the late Kaiser's grandfather, Wilhelm I. The Monarchist League of the Upright praised Hitler's declarations at Potsdam at the Reichstag opening and exercises were held at Wilhelm's tomb at the Charlottenburg mausoleum and elsewhere.

Speakers at a "Kaiserstrasse" gathering, attended by the ex-Kaiser's second son, Prince Eitel, predicted the return of the Monarchy.

Police placed 32 persons under "preventive" arrest today in Augsburg. Among them were a number of Jewish merchants and lawyers and prominent Socialists.

Preparing Speech
Hitler was spending the morning hours giving the final word to his first speech from the Reichstag government benches, which was to be delivered late this afternoon.

He was reportedly determined to reassure the outside world once again that Germany is anxious to live in peace and harmony with all peoples but insists upon equality.

While the chancellor was expected to state the new government's aims, for the realization of which the dictatorial and almost absolute powers are demanded, political circles expected only generalities and no announcement of specific ways and means the government intends to employ.

After the defiant warning to the opposition that the Enabling Act must be accepted or the opposition will be crushed, little doubt remained but that the Centrists would vote "yes" and the Socialists would at least not obstruct.

Semi-official information indicated that if the Centrists refused to endorse the Enabling Act, thereby preventing the two-thirds majority prescribed by the Constitution, the government would simply announce a state of national emergency and set the Constitution aside.

PRISONER SWALLOWS PINS

Middletown, March 23.—(AP)—Edward Federer, 24, a Federal prisoner in Middlesex county jail was taken ill last night and he told Dr. J. Bruce Crook, who had been called, that he had swallowed two open safety pins. He was removed to the hospital at Middletown today.

An X-ray showed the paper in which Federer had wrapped the pins had dissolved but the objects remained.

Federer was sentenced from New Haven, September 27 last, for a ten months' term for stealing a car.

DEFER PENSION LAW, COMMITTEE URGES

nor John H. Trumbull, the commission has Howell Cheney as chairman, and the following members: Charles M. Bakewell, Benedict D. Flynn, Albert E. Lavery, Lee Roy Robbins and Robert Smith.

A bill proposing a contributory pension system was reported by the commission to the 1931 session of the Legislature. This bill was rejected on an adverse report by the judiciary committee. A substitute plan was then drawn up, embodying recommendations received from employees of the State. This plan also was rejected by the judiciary committee.

The plan submitted first called for employees to contribute 4 per cent of annual earnings and the State to contribute 4 per cent of its annual payroll; the average burden on the employees over the next 35 years to be about one-third and on the State two-thirds of the total cost, because the State was to assume the total burden of past service.

Acceptance was to be optional with employees in service before the act became effective, but compulsory with those entering service after the act became effective when they had completed one year of service; with the exclusion of elected officials, judges, teachers eligible under the State Teachers Retirement System and commissioners and heads of departments specifically named.

The annuity was to consist of 2 per cent of the average pay for each year of service (not exceeding $4,000) after the adoption of the plan, and 1.25 per cent of the average annual pay over the preceding five years of service, for each year of service before the act became effective, but not exceeding two-thirds of the average pay for the earlier years.

The estimated average annual cost to the State was 4 per cent of the annual payroll, plus an amount necessary for the amortization over a definite period of years of the liability for past service. (It was estimated that 2 1/2 per cent of the annual payroll would take care of this as a budget over 15 to 20 years) to start with an initial contribution from the State of approximately $250,000.

Qualifications
The bill included qualifications for retirement, provision for return of contributions, with interest, to employees or their estate in case of withdrawal from service or death prior to pension age, provision for disability pensions, and administration by retirement board, and then setting up and maintaining of adequate reserves.

The substitute plan, which included recommendations from employees of the State, and which also was rejected by the judiciary committee, differed from the original plan in that it proposed to set up no reserves and to meet the liability as it accrued entirely out of the State's current income. The substitute plan lowered the employee's contribution to 3 per cent, the State to pay the balance, whatever it might prove to be, out of current income. The substitute plan made retirement optional with the employee, at age 70, eliminated the disability pension, and made no provision for an administrative board.

POLICE COURT

Frank P. Palanco, of Bristol, was fined $10 and costs in town court here this morning for driving an automobile with defective brakes. Palanco was going north on Oakland street yesterday afternoon at 4:30 when he struck a parked car owned by Harry Kaufman who is employed at the Burr Nurseries. An automobile owned and driven by Myron Evans was being backed from a driveway into Oakland street as Palanco drove along. Palanco turned out for the Evans car and claims he did not see the parked machine in time to avoid hitting it. Officer Winfield Martin investigated and found the brakes on the Palanco car worthless. Palanco pleaded for leniency, saying he was the father of a large family. For this reason Judge R. A. Johnson did not exact the full penalty. Palanco paid up.

LONG CLAIMS IMMUNITY

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Senator Long of Louisiana indicated today in District of Columbia Supreme Court that he would invoke his congressional immunity as a defense in the $500,000 slander suit brought against him by Samuel T. Ansell, former judge advocate general of the army.

Ansell brought his suit as a result of statements by Long in an address in the Senate.

In his answer, filed today, Long asked that Ansell make his declaration more definite as to the exact place and time of the utterance alleged to be slanderous.

Long's answer contended that if the words were spoken on the floor of the Senate, the Senator could not be held liable for them in a slander proceeding.

LAWYER FOUND DEAD IN NEW YORK HOTEL

Prominent Boston Attorney Had Been Stricken During the Night in His Room.

New York, March 23.—(AP)—Marcus B. May, prominent Boston lawyer, was found dead today in a room he had engaged last night at the Hotel Biltmore.

Apparently he had become ill during the night and collapsed while trying to reach the telephone to summon aid. His body, clad in pajamas, was found on the floor. He was about 64 years old and lived at 19 Sheffield road, Winchester, Mass. He was a member of the law firm of Wright, Brown, Quimby and May, 63 State street, Boston.

For many years May had stopped at the hotel frequently on business trips here, his trips being so frequent that the hotel management was aware that he was an early riser. Accordingly, when there was no response to several telephone calls from the desk this morning, an investigation was made and the body was found.

Surviving relatives include his widow and a daughter.

HITLERITES ARE BLAMED

Warsaw, March 23.—(AP)—The Jewish Daily "Our Revue" printed a Berlin dispatch today charging that the death last Monday of Louis Ullstein, 70 year old Berlin publisher, resulted from injuries inflicted by National Socialists who broke in to his Berlin home.

The assailants, the dispatch said, beat Herr Ullstein and his wife unconscious, then carried them into the cellar, where they were found the next day. Frau Ullstein is still gravely ill, the newspaper said.

The dispatch also charged that Rabbi Berwald of Munich was slain by Nazis and the German newspapers suppressed both stories.

Connally of Texas Says Officials Delayed Action Against Harriman.

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—The possibility developed today that the Senate banking committee may investigate the Justice Department's handling of the prosecution of Joseph W. Harriman, former president of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company charged with falsifying accounts.

Chairman Fletcher of the committee said he had forwarded data on the case to Ferdinand Pecora of New York, committee counsel, and that Pecora undoubtedly would look into it in connection with his other investigations of stock market and banking transactions.

Several Senators, including Connally (Do., Tex.), criticized the Justice Department's alleged failure to prosecute Harriman promptly.

The criticisms resulted from a statement by Federal Attorney George Z. Medale in New York that he delayed the prosecution for three months on orders from the department.

"Almost Guilty"

Connally asserted to newspapermen, the department was "almost guilty of criminal negligence."

Fletcher said he had not instructed Pecora to look into the Harriman case, but "he is on the ground and will have an opportunity to look into it if he deems it necessary."

"It depends on developments whether the banking committee will go into the matter," he added. "I don't know what there is to it. Undoubtedly the counsel will give some attention to it."

"I haven't ordered him to do it, but I've sent him some data. Some other investigation may lead into it. It seems an extraordinary thing for the department to order a delay in the prosecution that there may be some reason for it that I don't know about."

CHARGE IS DENIED

New York, March 23.—(AP)—Prosecutors questioned the last of the officers and directors of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company today and began preparation of evidence for presentation to the Grand Jury tomorrow or early next week.

Joseph W. Harriman, founder of the bank, was arrested last week in connection with alleged false entries in the books and misappropriations of funds. The bank was not allowed to open after the bank holiday and was placed in the hands of a conservator.

In connection with the charge of an executive committee representing depositors that the bank had been under scrutiny for some months, but that no action was taken until a conservator had been appointed, United States Attorney George Z. Medale said:

"I acted within less than 24 hours after I was authorized to proceed, by the commencement of prosecution upon a warrant issued for Harriman's arrest. The controller of the currency, as well as counsel for the clearing house, requested the Department of Justice at Washington, at the time the facts were transmitted to me, to withhold action until the bank's affairs could, if possible, be straightened out. This request was acceded to by the Department of Justice. I acted, as I stated, within 24 hours after the restriction upon my proceedings was removed."

The bank examiner's letter to me (concerning the facts in this case) was delivered on December 24, 1932, though it bears an earlier date.

"In fact the request to withhold action was made to me by the chief bank examiner prior to the actual receipt of the letter. I would not, of course, have acceded to that request without the sanction of the department. The facts complained of, of course, occurred prior to the making of the report."

ROCKVILLE MAN GETS
7 SHARKS IN A HAUL

George Wendheiser Lands Nine Footer in Florida—Has Six Baby Sharks.

Hauling in seven sharks, one weighing over 400 pounds and measuring nine feet in length in one haul with ordinary fishing tackle is the record that George Wendheiser, prominent Rockville business man, has established for himself at Fort Lauderdale, Florida, where he is spending the winter.

This is considered somewhat of a record in Florida and created considerable interest. After playing with his strike for about an hour, the nine-foot shark was hauled on the deck of "Caliban" on which Mr. Wendheiser was the guest of Captain F. R. Merritt.

Captain Merritt performed a Caesarian operation and soon had six baby sharks measuring from 15 to 18 inches each and weighing about two pounds each—making a total of seven sharks caught on the single line at one time. Another large shark and six large kingfish—one of which weighed about 20 pounds—were brought in by the party on this same fishing trip.

The party on the "Caliban" included the following: Edwin R. Metcalf of Auburn, N. Y.; C. W. Davis of Newark, N. J.; George P. Wendheiser of Rockville; J. E. Kuba of Detroit, Mich.; and W. D. Saylor of Washington, D. C., all guests at the Las Olas Inn at Fort Lauderdale.

Y. M. C. A. Notes

The unemployed men are running a very interesting Ping Pong tournament these days. The winner of the first round was Henry LeFrance. No doubt the second round will be more exciting as the men gain more skill in this game.

Last night the business men decided to have their volleyball on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays hereafter. The Monday and Friday games will be played at the same time as usual but the Wednesday games will be earlier. Four-thirty to five-thirty hereafter.

The Wapping Pioneers played a game of basketball with the Junior Oxford's but were unable to take back the long end of the score. The Junior Oxford's got up so much pep in the first game that it lasted them clear through the day so they played the Buckland Juniors also two hours later and came within one point of having a tie score. The game finally ended with a score of 28 to 27 in favor of the Junior Oxford's.

The Oxford's regulars gave the Ramblers a trimming later in the evening.

The upset of the day came when the crack team of the year which last Saturday at Storrs took the State Intermediate championship let the Herald Newsies trounce them.

Case of Meningitis Discovered
In Newington So the Institution Is Quarantined.

Hartford, March 23.—(AP)—Because of the discovery of a suspected case of meningitis in the United States Veterans' hospital, Newington, the institution has been placed under temporary quarantine and barred to all visitors.

The case was discovered yesterday afternoon and immediately isolated by Chief Medical Officer Dr. Thomas F. Maher, and Major Thomas J. Bannigan, regional director of the Veterans' Bureau, ordered the quarantine as a precautionary measure to protect the 200 inmates.

The general quarantine applies to the entire institution, while the ward in which the case was discovered has been placed under a strict ban. In addition, five other patients in the ward have been isolated.

The case has not definitely been diagnosed although the symptoms indicate meningitis and laboratory tests are being made today by Dr. Maher and Dr. M. Ward Knowlton, director of the bureau of preventable diseases.

FASCISTS OBSERVE

Their head formed columns and paraded through the principal streets of Milan to entrain for Rome in a simulated "second march" on the capital.

Full regimental dress uniforms, standards and national emblems; smart parade ground maneuvers of the Fascist militia avanguardists, or junior Fascists, and other units brought wild cheering from the masses concentrated to see the parade.

Early in the evening, the avanguardists throughout Italy were to assemble in rank for the solemn reading of the lists of those accorded the coveted honor of being received by Il Duce on the national labor holiday, April 21.

To Honor Widows

Meanwhile widows and mothers of the war dead began concentrating in Rome where they will be received by Mussolini tomorrow.

They will start the Rome ceremonies with a parade from the Fascist revolutionary exhibition building to the party headquarters at the Palazzo del Littorio. Mussolini will receive the women at the Palazzo Venezia about midday and will then review a gigantic parade of all Fascist elements assembled in Rome.

In the afternoon the war dead chapel in Verano cemetery will be inaugurated with impressive religious and military ceremony. The anniversary festivities will come to a close tomorrow night with a reception for ranking members of the government and Fascist Party, given by Prince Francesco Boncompagni-Ludovisi, governor of Rome.

LYDIA PINKHAM CO. RUNS 65 HOURS A WEEK

Forced To Operate Overtime To Turn Out New Sized Box of Pills.

Lynn, Mass.—On February 21st, the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company's plant at Lynn, Massachusetts began running 65 hours a week to supply the 55,000 retail druggists in the United States with the new 50c size box of the Tablets.

A single machine can fill 700 tin boxes an hour, but in order to keep up with the demand the women employees are working in shifts six days a week. Under the Massachusetts law, no woman is allowed to work more than 48 hours a week. With a million boxes waiting to be filled and mounted on counter cards, the Pinkham Company was able to turn out several new employees for full time work.

All this activity is in anticipation of a nation-wide newspaper campaign which begins April 1st. Five hundred newspapers from Maine to California will acquaint the women of America with the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets in the treatment of ailments peculiar to women. These advertisements will stress the convenience of the new flat tin box and its modern price of 50c. Each box contains twenty-five chocolate coated tablets. The Pinkham Company will continue to sell these Tablets, packed in the familiar brown bottles. This larger size is recommended for general use and for medicine chests, but the new 50c size will prove convenient for busy women who wish to carry the medicine in their pocketbooks. They will be displayed in every drug store in the country. The opportunity thus offered to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets for the small price of 50c will undoubtedly win hundreds of new customers for the Pinkham Medicine Company.

EXPENSES OF LAWYER IS ALLOWED BY COURT

New Haven Attorney Served As Court Officer On Trip To Pacific Coast.

New Haven, March 23.—(AP)—Judge Alfred C. Baldwin has ruled in New Haven County Superior Court a memorandum granting reimbursement to Joseph Koletsky, an attorney, of $750, approximately one-third of expenses he incurred on a trip to California as a court officer to have served on the governor's California extradition papers issued by Governor W. L. Cross for the return here for trial of James E. Brown, alias James Hall, a movie actor, charged by his wife with non-support.

In ordering the sum paid the court said: "Koletsky as an officer of the court acted in good faith and that the expense incurred was reasonable and necessary."

Hall was returned here and his case on appeal was dismissed by Judge Pickett in New Haven Common Pleas Court, March 13.

Koletsky was counsel for Mrs. Irene Gardner Brown, wife of Hall. The memorandum reviews the trip as described by Koletsky in his application to the court for reimbursement as an officer under the statutes and approves of the attorney's course in the matter.

The total expense incurred was slightly over $2,000 and Koletsky asked for approximately one-third of that amount.

REPORTERS ARE WARNED

Berlin, March 23.—(AP)—In a short semi-official statement issued today, the German government threatened drastic measures against foreign correspondents guilty of spreading "strategic reports."

The statement asked how, if any economic boycott "agitated by certain American circles" were carried out, "is the question of private debts to be regulated properly?"

The warning was directed not only against correspondents but also against their newspapers. It would take such form as barring the papers from the German mail.

The statement emphasized that any boycott would affect the United States more adversely than Germany.

COMMUNITY ORCHESTRA

The Editor, Manchester Evening Herald, Manchester, Connecticut.

Dear Sir:

In the March issue of the "American Magazine" is an article by John Erskine, called "Music Takes Off Its High Hat," telling about the successful formation in many towns of community concert orchestras.

I am not a player of any orchestral instrument, but I was wondering if there are in Manchester enough musicians who enjoy ensemble playing and who play instruments of sufficient variety, who would be interested in making a start at such an orchestra. We already have excellent choral and band organizations, whose members enjoy their rehearsals and whose audiences and members alike enjoy their concerts—perhaps the town also has instrumentalists who would take pleasure in getting together and playing some of the well-known and liked works for the concert orchestra, as well as studying some of the newer and less frequently heard compositions. It would seem that such an opportunity would perhaps be especially pleasing and encouraging to those whose instruments are not customarily used for solos, but which are necessary to a well-balanced orchestra.

As described by Mr. Erskine, such community orchestras are usually organized as clubs, meeting weekly for rehearsal. Each member pays small weekly dues. Music can be rented at first instead of bought. The main expense of the club is paying the conductor, as it is not usual to find in a small place a person of the necessary experience, ability, musical training and personality, and the conductor has to come from some larger city.

Of course, such a community concert orchestra could not hope to rival, at least during its first season, the Stokowski's Philadelphia Symphony or the other great orchestras which we hear over the radio or in person at the Bushnell.

"OF THEE I SING"
COMING TO PARSONS'

Show Has 25 Musical Numbers
All the Work of George Gershwin—Has Original Cast.

There are twenty-five musical numbers during the eleven scenes of "Of Thee I Sing," which Sam H. Harris is sending to Parsons Theater, Hartford, for three nights and Wednesday matinee beginning Monday, April 3, direct from its record-breaking run of 55 weeks on Broadway, with the original company headed by William Gaxton, Victor Moore and Lois Moran, intact.

"Wintergreen for President," sung by the ensemble at the opening of the musical comedy, accompanies the famous torchlight parade which marks its musical way back and forth across the stage: "Who Is the Lucky Girl To Be?" opens the bathing-beauty contest at Atlantic City, where the would-be First Lady is picked as the president's running and loving mate; "The Dimple on My Knee," "Because, Because," and "Never Was There a Girl So Fair," lead up to the unusual number entitled "Some Girls Can Bake a Pie."

Then follows "Love is Sweeping the Country" and "Of Thee I Sing" with "Here's a Kiss for Cinderella" and "I Was the Most Beautiful Blossom" bringing the first act to a close.

In act two the song hits are "Hello Good Morning," "Who Cares," "The Illegitimate Daughter," "Who Could Ask for Anything

More," "Posterity" and "Trumpet Blow Your Horn."

It is said that much of the incidental music by George Gershwin, for which no words had been provided, created such an impression, that the public demanded the airs at the music store, and his brother Ira had to write lyrics to be printed with the incidental sheet music.

BANK WINS SUIT

Hartford, March 23.—(AP)—Frederick A. Seale, receiver of the Commercial Trust Company of New Britain is given judgment by Judge Edwin C. MARKET PUTS BAN
ON EMPLOYEES' TIPS

In Past Few Months Exchange Members Have Been Expelled.

New York, March 23.—(AP)—To prevent circumvention of its rule forbidding members to give gratuities to employees of the exchange or other financial institutions, the New York Stock Exchange today ordered members to keep a close record of "entertainment" expenditures.

The step is in line with the exchange's campaign to abolish tipping for services by the Exchange attaches others which are not permissible under the organization constitution.

In the past few months several members have been expelled or suspended for various periods for paying preferential treatment in the distribution of orders and other services.

In its latest warning the exchange directs that "every expenditure incurred directly or indirectly by any member of Exchange or firm registered thereon for the entertainment of any employee covered by the rules referred to shall be authorized in writing by such member of the Exchange or by partner of such firm, and shall be shown in detail on the books and records of such member or firm."

"Such record shall show the date and amount expended, the names of the person entertained, and the nature of the entertainment, and shall be preserved for a period of at least three years."

The New York Curb Exchange, which has also disciplined certain members, for tipping, has taken similar action.

READY TO HAUL BEER

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Southwestern railroads today prepared to beat the trucks to the task of hauling beer.

The Interstate Commerce Commission was asked to permit southwestern railroads to reduce rates on ale, beer, beer tonic, porter and stout from 32 per cent of first class rates to 27½ per cent of first class in minimum carloads of 30, 40 pounds.

The application, which asked that the new rate be made immediately effective, said that this tonnage would be very attractive to trucks as well as to railroads and that the carriers should be prepared to offer a lower rate than is allowed at present.

TO RETURN WANDERERS

Bridgeport, March 23.—(AP)—Two boys, who gave their names as Carmel Cissell, 14, and Carmel Bahge, 13, of Meriden, and who were equipped with a rifle and $6, rode today for parts west, when Policemen John Geary stopped them. "We're on our way to fight Indians," said the boys. Police notified their parents.

Center Church Women's Federation at its meeting yesterday afternoon made plans for the quilt exhibit and play to be given in the parish hall, Wednesday evening, April 5. The co-operation of all members was enlisted and it is hoped a most interesting exhibit of ancient and modern quilts will be the result. At 8 o'clock the three-act play, "No Men Admitted," will be given by the following cast under the direction of Mrs. Henry Lowry: Miss Emma Strickland, Miss Hazel Rogers, Miss Ruth Porter, Miss Clara Wood, Miss Beatrice Chulow, Miss Eleanor Hobby, Miss Beatrice Stollenfeld, Mrs. Sedrick Straughan, Miss Lois Howe and Mrs. Louis Walr.

A rehearsal for the play will take place tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock at the church.

TO HONOR CUMMINGS

Bridgeport, March 23.—(AP)—Judge Charles D. Lockwood of Bridgeport will be the toastmaster at a dinner to be given at the Stratfield hotel, April 15 in honor of Homer S. Cummings, attorney general of the United States. Arrangements for the dinner, which is expected to attract a state wide attendance are being made by a non-partisan committee. Judge Lockwood was for more than 25 years a law partner of Mr. Cummings.

TO GET CITY'S JOBLESS

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Secretary Dern said today one of the first steps in carrying out President Roosevelt's reforestation plan would be to drain Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and similar congested districts of jobless men.

MARKET PUTS BAN ON EMPLOYEES' TIPS

In Past Few Months Exchange Members Have Been Expelled.

New York, March 23.—(AP)—To prevent circumvention of its rule forbidding members to give gratuities to employees of the exchange or other financial institutions, the New York Stock Exchange today ordered members to keep a close record of "entertainment" expenditures.

The step is in line with the exchange's campaign to abolish tipping for services by the Exchange attaches others which are not permissible under the organization constitution.

In the past few months several members have been expelled or suspended for various periods for paying preferential treatment in the distribution of orders and other services.

In its latest warning the exchange directs that "every expenditure incurred directly or indirectly by any member of Exchange or firm registered thereon for the entertainment of any employee covered by the rules referred to shall be authorized in writing by such member of the Exchange or by partner of such firm, and shall be shown in detail on the books and records of such member or firm."

"Such record shall show the date and amount expended, the names of the person entertained, and the nature of the entertainment, and shall be preserved for a period of at least three years."

The New York Curb Exchange, which has also disciplined certain members, for tipping, has taken similar action.

READY TO HAUL BEER

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Southwestern railroads today prepared to beat the trucks to the task of hauling beer.

The Interstate Commerce Commission was asked to permit southwestern railroads to reduce rates on ale, beer, beer tonic, porter and stout from 32 per cent of first class rates to 27½ per cent of first class in minimum carloads of 30, 40 pounds.

The application, which asked that the new rate be made immediately effective, said that this tonnage would be very attractive to trucks as well as to railroads and that the carriers should be prepared to offer a lower rate than is allowed at present.

TO RETURN WANDERERS

Bridgeport, March 23.—(AP)—Two boys, who gave their names as Carmel Cissell, 14, and Carmel Bahge, 13, of Meriden, and who were equipped with a rifle and $6, rode today for parts west, when Policemen John Geary stopped them. "We're on our way to fight Indians," said the boys. Police notified their parents.

BEHIND THE PROCESSION

With all the solemnity of a funeral and all the formality of an inaugural ceremony Kenneth Wynne, executive secretary to Governor Cross, announces the stupendous fact that Governor Cross, members of the Liquor Commission and divers and sundry stellar legal lights, after the most profound consideration have arrived at the history making determination that Connecticut now has no law preventing the legal sale of 3.2 beer—that its sale, so far as present state law is concerned, will be as free from restrictions as that of ginger ale after April 6.

The next thing we know Mr. Wynne, in behalf of the Governor, will be issuing a ukase declaring that it is not after the sun has passed the zenith, that there is nothing in Connecticut law to make retail illegal on Sunday or that hereafter two plus two shall equal four.

The Wynne statement, however, is not without its usefulness. It shows how, with an adequate amount of pompous fuss, the presentation of the obvious can be made to look—at an extremely cursory glance—like the fruits of profound research by very wise minds. Some imposing reputations have been built upon such foundations and from such materials.

Meanwhile, the Governor, Mr. Wynne and the unnamed legal servants were, we take it, the only persons in the state who did not know, long ago, that the moment the beer bill was signed by the President and became effective Connecticut would be left without any sort of beer control law unless it hurried up and adopted, prior to federal legalization, some measure calculated to meet that emergency.

What this state needs now, instead of such belated proclamations of the obvious as the one promulgated through Mr. Wynne, is an immediate report from the Liquor Control Study Commission, followed by the enactment, without an hour's avoidable delay, of whatever beer law the state intends to adopt, if any, so that the situation in this state when beer is federally legalized on April 7 may be established and understood. If the Commission does not report in time, then the General Assembly should go ahead on its own. There is nothing to prevent it from doing so.

In the meantime there is one source of confusion that should be cleared up. A provision in the federal law requires that brewers shall pay an annual tax of $1,000, wholesalers $50 and retailers $20, aside from the excise tax on the beer itself. This annual tax is carefully referred to as a federal license. As a matter of effect it is payment, while obligatory on every person who deals in beer, it is not a license at all.

In pre-prohibition days there was the same kind of a federal tax. Any person, anywhere, could pay it and get his federal certificate of payment, even though he intended to do business in a state with stringent prohibitory laws. Blind liquor operators in Maine and Kansas used to take out these "licenses." They were willing to run the risk of trouble with their own state authorities but they did not want United States revenue officers looking them up.

Now and then some pretty ignorant fellow would open a little doggerly in a community where a state or county license was legally required, under the impression that his federal tax certificate gave him the right to sell liquor, neglecting to obtain his proper license. He always found, upon prosecution, that he had made a serious mistake.

It would be just as much of a mistake for a person to go ahead, in Connecticut, with preparations to engage in the sale of beer under the presumption that payment of $20 to the federal government guaranteed him the right to do business. It will do nothing of the kind. Nobody knows yet anything about the conditions under which beer and 3.2 wines may be sold in Connecticut. They cannot know until the Legislature has acted. It is entirely possible for the General Assembly to prohibit the sales altogether—in which the so-called federal license wouldn't be worth a nickel.

No such performance as that is in the least likely. But unless there is a considerable speeding up of the program which calls for a Commission report by April 14, a full week after beer becomes nationally legal, the state is going to find itself in a bothersome and wholly unnecessary state of confusion in this beer business.

HINDENBURG FOR KAISERISM

The emphasis placed in the news dispatches from Germany on the disavowal of the Republican flag and the proclaiming of one made up of the old imperial colors and the Nazi emblem is not exaggerated. The affair is highly significant; how significant one is likely to overlook until he remembers that the flag of the republic was established not by parliamentary law but by the constitution itself.

Paul von Hindenburg scrapped the German constitution with no more compunction than he showed when he slaughtered starving and weaponless Russians in the East Prussia campaign. He is probably the oldest man who ever, as head of a nation, took a solemn oath of office, and it would now appear, he did not intend to keep.

The world was quite willing to forget Tannenberg and the dark and sordid tales of purchased duplicity that have hung about the history of the Russian debacle of 1914, and to accept President Hindenburg, Germany's president, at his face value as a savior of the German people.

Subscribing now to Hitlerism and its tramping on the Republican constitution, he presents a picture of another kind—and the mantle of his many years will not protect him from the growing opinion that Paul von Hindenburg has not only betrayed the German people but that he always meant to betray them if the time ever came when he could, by that shame, help to restore the imperial regime. If he lives long enough who will doubt that he will do to Hitler what he has done to the Republic? He is for Kaiserism.

INSURANCE RATES

Announcement by three Hartford life insurance companies of an increase in their rates for insurance to average about 4 per cent, effective on April 1, will be no surprise to those who have made a study of the probabilities under a continuation of the operation of deflation. Last December, in an address delivered before the American Farm Bureau Federation at Chicago, G. F. Warren, professor of agricultural economics at Cornell University, forecast exactly what has now transpired with relation to insurance premiums.

Insurance companies, Professor Warren pointed out, are income sufferers along with all other classes of investors. Their vast holdings are yielding returns much smaller than normal. Yet their obligations have not been defeated in the least. On the contrary, the ten thousand dollar policy issued ten years ago and maturing now must be paid in dollars far more valuable and far harder to get than those in which the earlier premiums were paid.

In view of this, coupled with the fact that there is a tendency—unavoidable on the part of the purchasers, to take out smaller policies, thus reducing the volume of business below normal expectations—and in default of restoration of property and securities to their proper values, the increase in insurance rates, Professor Warren explained, must be one of the inevitable consequences of deflationary liquidation.

It is such things as this that are causing to grow up a new point of view concerning the currency problem in circles which hitherto have been utterly indifferent to any system of money but the one to which the country had become accustomed.

EASY FOR THIS ONE

Senator Norris, author of the "Iams duck amendment" which has put an end to the short session of Congress and the long delay between the election and seating of President and members of Congress, seeks another lead to add to his laurels. He now proposes to do away with another Constitutional nuisance, the electoral college.

Norris' plan is not at all a radical one. He would have the states retain their respective rights to Presidential votes on the same basis as at present—as many such votes bearing in a state as it has members in both branches of Congress. But he would do away with the long ago outworn practice of electing Presidential electors. Under the new amendment that he proposed to Congress on Wednesday the individual voter would vote directly for his chosen candidates for President and Vice-President and as his state went so it would in turn cast its vote, reporting directly to Congress.

Here is an amendment that ought to have easy going. No special interest is likely to be in its operation some remotely possible injury to its pocket. No group of politicians would be adversely affected by the elimination of the electors. There is nothing in the job of being an elector, not even fame.

All this amendment needs to insure its adoption is that it shall not be forgotten. If thirty-six state legislatures can be prevailed on to remember about it long enough to ratify it, it should pretty soon find its way into the Constitution. We take it for granted that Congress, because the electoral college is wholly friendless, will pass the amending resolution.

SOME DAY!

It is a settled tradition in the newspaper world that in every composing room his satanic majesty the Devil has a very special imp whose job is to see that appalling errors are slipped into obituary notices, wedding stories and wherever they can most certainly excite public derision and fill the newspaper shop with wrath and agony of soul. In its front page editorial yesterday The Herald, through the intervention of its own special fiend, referring to Manchester, said: "For sober courage she did her bit," etc. A fat lot of sense that makes! What would have been said if the devil's agent had kept his fingers out of it was: "With sober courage she did her bit." Some day, when we have learned how to really torture an imp—some day! G'r'r'r!

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

CAPITAL IS AMUSED BY WILD STORIES

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

Washington, March 22.—The most astonishing tip-off on the "Washington mind," if such a term may be used, has been supplied by the current deluge of rumors involving the Hoover administration and, to a lesser extent, the death of Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana.

There would be no object in bringing this up if the yarns were not one of the most astonishing things that have ever appeared in the nation's capital. A check indicates the impossibility of locating anyone here who hasn't heard one or more scandalous tales of a type calculated to excite the whole world. Not many intelligent persons place credence in the stories, but the most common topic of entertainment here has been the repetition of the event, most absurd versions and excited speculation as to how all these tales ever got started.

Story About Mellon
One of them was the wild tale that Andrew Mellon, who has been ambassador to England, had moved $50,000,000 in gold across the sea and wasn't ever coming home. Senator David Reed of Pennsylvania, Mellon's friend, dragged that one out in the Senate for the purpose of ridiculing Mellon; was about to take off for America on the high seas.

Another of the most persistent absurdities is that $50,000,000 in gold is missing from the treasury and that all members of the Hoover administration are being watched pending an investigation. Apparently that sort of thing has spread rapidly over the country and if this brief note helps convince anyone that such rumors are cockeyed and crazy, so much the better.

Interesting Wine

Congressman O'Connor of New York, one of the most active beer proponents, was explaining that wine wasn't included in the House beer bill because, as he understood it, 3.2 per cent wine was "not very interesting."

"It may be," spoke up Congressman Florence Kahn of grape-growing California hopefully, "we might be able to find a percentage that would make it interesting but intoxicating."

Green-Perkins Food

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins sits at her desk facing two huge oil paintings of James John Davis and William N. Clegg, the two Republican secretaries who preceded her, which just about cover the entire opposite wall. Setting is in the Labor Department as to just how long she can stand it.

The feud between Madame Secretary and the American Federation of Labor, which began when President Green of the A. F. of L. denounced her appointment, will bear watching. The department and its bureau are full of go-labor leaders, backed by the federation and current gossip is that many of these boys are likely to get the ax.

Vicious units in the labor movement already have protested Green's assertion that the depart-

FLATULENCE IS USUALLY EASILY RELEASED

In this article I am going to tell you how to relieve yourself about abdominal bloating.

The first thing to do is to drink two or three glasses of water just as hot as can be taken. If you have found that one-half teaspoonful of baking soda in one glass of warm water relieves you it is all right to use it. However, you should regard this as a temporary measure and do not consider it a permanent cure of excessive gas. The drinking of the hot water will generally cause the immediate belching of gas and you will then note that some of the tenderness at the top of the stomach is relieved because the stomach acidity has been neutralized.

The next thing to do is to take an effort to cleanse the intestines. Use one quart of plain warm water, and do not add anything to it. Once the enema sweeps out the offending material in the large bowel, great relief follows. The enema will also help to relieve the heart burn which is caused by the gas moving in the small intestine. In case the fermenting food is in the small intestine you may not be able to reach it with the enema but you will begin to feel better as the intestinal function is stimulated. The heat from the enema will steady the heart and give you a feeling of warmth, while any pains are lessened. A second enema about four hours later will usually be all that is needed to get rid of the pressure of excessive gas.

I want you to learn how to feel these gas pockets with your fingers. Before you take the enema, press with your fingers on the lower right side of your abdomen. Here you will probably feel a hard, distended spot. After the water has entered the bowels the lower abdomen appears fuller and you can usually move the gas around with your finger tips. After the water and gas are expelled, if you will place the fingers on the lower right side again you will see that the parts are now normally soft and flexible. A great many pains in the right side which are thought to be appendicitis pains are really gas pains and will disappear if you find out what they are and use the enema treatment.

In some cases where severe colicky pains have been present it is a good plan to follow the enema with a hot sitz bath or with hot applications to the entire abdomen, to cause relaxation. The beneficial effects of the hot applications are seen to advantage with nervous patients.

It is a wise procedure to keep these instructions where you can refer to them as you never know when they will be needed. They are particularly helpful for those quarters still remain, but only two or three shadowy figures may be found in the many suites of offices.

Wondering what was being done to oil up the G. O. P. publicity machine in the face of the great flood of pro-Roosevelt sentiment, your correspondent found that the Republicans just didn't have any more publicity stunts left. Later on, no doubt, the publicity machine, which never did match that of the Democrats, will be reinvigorated.

BARREL SHORTAGE

Chicago March 22.—(AP)—Joseph Dubin, editor at Brewery Age, said today the brewing industry was faced with a shortage of barrels.

The sudden rush for barrels has shown a shortage of barrels timber. Ordinarily it takes about six months to properly cure and treat timber.

IN NEW YORK

Prosperity Afoot

New York, March 22.—Out-towners who make the rounds of the musical shows and elaborate reviews of the larger picture palaces sometimes comment on the fact that the Albertina Raach dancers seem to be appearing in at least half a dozen places at once. Well, they are; but it appears that they are not the same dancers. And none of them, incidentally, is Miss Albertina Raach.

The woman whose name they bear so gracefully is just a big business executive now, who has learned how to combine an artistry with quantity production. She's the Fashion and Maroon of Broadway, and today has numerous ballets clicking through elaborate routines.

Miss Raach is an Austrian, and says she had no thought of anything more than a dancing career when she made her start in the Imperial Opera in Vienna. She soon came to this country and became ballerina of a production at the famous old Hippodrome, in 1912. A few years in opera followed, and a tour of South America and Europe. Then she returned to Broadway, and went at last to the Hippodrome, where she has been given over to movie.

Finally, though, she was persuaded to put on a dance act at the theater, got 24 girls together, drilled them until six of them quit, and stopped the show with the remaining eighteen. That was only six years ago, and since then Miss Raach has done nothing but think up new routines and put hundreds of girls through their paces.

Miss Raach has big, dark eyes, a liking for practical jokes, a boundless vocabulary, and pep enough to keep everybody stepping. She is the answer to the prayer of many of an out-of-town youngster trying to crash into show business because she actually prefers girls who have had no previous training.

After six triumphant years in London, and a couple more in Hollywood, where attempts were made to mold her into another Garbo, Miss Raach Bankhead finds New York welcoming her so heartily that policemen are required to keep good order in her dressing room at the Times Square Theater.

"What with her fame, and her eight trunks, her sixteen pieces of hand luggage, a couple of maids, a press agent, 40 pairs of shoes and a hairdressing salon, account this is quite a different Bankhead from the one who came here looking for a job almost a decade ago. She was 16 then, and had a southern accent. Her grandfather, a rich man, a United States Senator from the old home state of Alabama. Her father today is Representative William B. Bankhead.

The blue-eyed, yellow-haired ingenue had little difficulty getting parts, though. And it wasn't long until she opened in a du Maurier comedy in London and was acclaimed as a great actress. There she was idolized during such successive seasons, until finally she broke away to play the movies. The movies, somehow, didn't do very well by the turbulent Talulah. But she's sporting enough to admit that she liked Hollywood, even if she wasn't a bowling success.

NEW ENVOY TO U. S.

Vatican City, March 22.—(AP)—Yope Pina today received in audience Monsignor Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, who thanked him for his appointment as apostolic delegate to Washington, D. C.

(Monsignor Cicognani succeeded Pietro Cardinal Fumasoni-Biondi upon whom the red hat was conferred last week.)

Scientists at New York recently demonstrated an "electric eye" that opened the doors of the city's newest tearoom as the shadow of an approaching customer crossed the path. Now if the hands had only been equipped with something like that when a depositor walked up with a check during the holiday.

Roosevelt's Technique With Congress Suggests Wilson's Handling Of It

Washington.—With Congress almost immediately it was presented along as it is, approving the President's legislative proposals in a fashion that has almost everybody gasping in amazement, the Roosevelt strategy is a chief topic of conversation "on the hill" among veteran political observers. The President's method in dealing with Congress seems to many of them strikingly similar to that followed by Woodrow Wilson when he was in the White House.

Wilson, like Roosevelt, had an overwhelming Democratic majority in the House in 1913, the year he became President. There were 229 Democrats in that body and 137 Republicans.

Wilson centered his attention on the House. When he submitted his legislative proposals to Congress, with the exception of a rough body in the form of a bill approved by the House and let the Senate begin. The psychological effect was good, too. For the House to approve an administration proposal almost immediately it was presented to it, gave the impression to the country that the President and Congress were seeing things alike and working in harmony.

Actually the administration's proposals might not be moving as quickly through the legislative mill as they appeared to be, but it seemed so.

In any event the President had got off to a running start, and the force of public opinion could be relied upon to help in influencing the Senate to speed up things if it showed a disposition for undue delay.

A Trail Blazer

That seems to be pretty much what President Roosevelt has done so far. Aside from the emergency banking bill to which was passed by both Houses on the first day of the session, it has been the House that has blazed the trail for the administration.

The drastic economy measure was passed by the House in one sitting. The Senate was dragged for three days and nights before giving its approval. The beer bill was passed in the House in three hours, while the Senate took twice as much time.

Each of these measures might have died in the Senate indefinitely at other times. But with the President urging speed, and the House complying with his demand, the Senate fell in step, as far as it was possible.

Motor Hints

Timely Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Automobile Club of Hartford.

This Stops Shutter Rap.
Some of the mysterious noises in a car that has served its owner several years can be traced to the slats of the radiator front. These, in time, develop vertical looseness. When the car goes over a rough road the slats are set in an up and down direction, the noise being amplified by the radiator shaft.

"One way to remedy this is to make a shim or washer of leather to fit at the bottom of the shutter frame. This washer will be the length of the width of the radiator and about an inch wide. It will be necessary to cut slots part way through it to make it fit around the shafts of the shutters.

Sometimes only a couple of slats are loose. In this case make small leather washers just for those affected slats. One of the slats is the slats so tight that they bind and fail to operate freely.

Fast Driving Burns Oil.
How fast do you drive? How do you drive?

These questions have much to do with the mileage you expect to get from a quart of oil. Service men used to think of rings the moment owners complained of high oil consumption; now they think of the owner's driving habits. Fast drivers always use more oil, other conditions being equal. Many drivers fast drivers force the engines to burn oil because of the erratic way in which they handle the car.

Every time the driver lifts his foot from the accelerator pedal suddenly a vacuum is created in the cylinders. This draws oil up from the crankcase. One of the desirable features of this is the fact that because a motor burns its fuel cleaner at speed there is little evidence of oil loss by the rings. Plugs seldom show fouling with this condition.

Weak Spring Sticks Valve.
While it is known that weak valves are a common cause of a sticky valve nevertheless many car owners prefer to consider all other causes first when looking for the explanation of valve trouble. They will even go as far as to point out why a sticky valve may cause some more serious cause than the mere weakness of its respective spring.

But what are the tests?
Assume that one of the valve springs is weak. At high speed it fails to close its valve fully. Gums and other impurities in the fuel start to blow past the valve into its guide. Soon the valve is starting to stick in the starting process. Its stem probably wears so that the whole valve cannot seat tightly anyway. The resulting trouble is a situation which seems to suggest something more serious than spring weakness. Most simple troubles have that way about them.

New Cooling Pumping Many.
As a result of the use of an additional thermostat in the water line of the cooling system a number of the new motors will soon be acting strongly with respect to their temperature conditions. Quite a number of motorists have been led to believe that this new arrangement is an indication of trouble.

The most apparent change is the observation that the motor will not run hot when the wind is coldest. This is due to the fact that the cold air, sweeping through the radiator, cools the water in the radiator to 50°-60° water around the radiator. The system tends to run hot, but for a cold day and cool when the outside temperature is high.

The use of the new thermostat almost immediately it was presented to it, gave the impression to the country that the President and Congress were seeing things alike and working in harmony.

Actually the administration's proposals might not be moving as quickly through the legislative mill as they appeared to be, but it seemed so.

In any event the President had got off to a running start, and the force of public opinion could be relied upon to help in influencing the Senate to speed up things if it showed a disposition for undue delay.

The drastic economy measure was passed by the House in one sitting. The Senate was dragged for three days and nights before giving its approval. The beer bill was passed in the House in three hours, while the Senate took twice as much time.

Each of these measures might have died in the Senate indefinitely at other times. But with the President urging speed, and the House complying with his demand, the Senate fell in step, as far as it was possible.

ROCKVILLE

EMBLEM CLUB BRIDGE PARTY GREAT SUCCESS

Big Sum Raised To Defray Expenses of Installation Night To Be Held May 3.

"The Installation Bridge party" held last evening under the sponsorship of the Rockville Emblem Club to defray the expenses of the installation exercises on Wednesday, May 3, proved a big success. A considerable sum was raised to defray the installation expenses of this popular woman's club, the party being held at the Elks Home, corner of Ellington avenue and Prospect street.

Guests were present from Rockville, Hartford, Manchester, Willimantic, Stafford, Springfield, Windsor Locks and many suburban towns. Both pivot and progressive bridge was played with first, second and third prizes being awarded for progressive bridge and individual prizes for each table. Many parties made up their own tables for the evening. Following the bridge party a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

Much credit is due Mrs. Robert J. Brown, chairman of the general committee and her assistants including the following: Mrs. John Coleman, Mrs. Lawrence J. Conrick, Mrs. Thomas F. Garvan, Mrs. Edward Doherty, Mrs. Harry C. Dowling, Mrs. Arthur Drayton, Mrs. Raymond E. Hunt, Mrs. Charles N. Keeney, Mrs. Margaret Farrell, Mrs. Abe Fine, Mrs. Henry North, Mrs. Carl Prutting, Mrs. Arthur Vincent, Mrs. Herbert Scheiner, Mrs. Max J. Schmidt, Mrs. Charles Willeke, Mrs. Oliver P. Morin, Miss Minnie Wendish, all of Rockville; Mrs. George Graziano, Mrs. Thomas Dannaher, Mrs. George Betta, Mrs. Frank Veluzzi and Mrs. James Foley of Manchester.

Several club committees also assisted, headed by Mrs. Robert J. Brown, general chairman and included the following: Tickets, Mrs. Carl Prutting; pivot bridge, Mrs. Thomas F. Garvan, Mrs. Harry C. Dowling; progressive bridge, Mrs. George Graziano of Manchester and Mrs. Edward Doherty of Rockville; chairs and tables, Mrs. J. Arthur Vincent, Mrs. Henry North, Mrs. Charles Willeke, Mrs. Oliver P. Morin; refreshments, Mrs. John Coleman, Mrs. Carl Prutting; and Mrs. Raymond E. Hunt, president of the club, as ex-officio member of the committees.

Select Team Captains
Both the Boys and Girls Basketball teams of the Rockville High School held a meeting yesterday to select captains for the 1933-34 season with considerable interest being shown in the honor of being selected. The honor as captain of the Boys Basketball team finally went to Louis Patria of Windsor while the honor of captain of the Girls Basketball team went to Miss Dorothy McGuire of Vernon.

The Rockville High School basketball team will close their 1932-33 season on Saturday evening when they will meet the fast Broad Brook basketball team in the gymnasium of the George Sykes Memorial School. Indications are that this will be a fast game with both sides evenly matched. The boys' teams have proved a satisfaction to Coach Arthur E. Chatterton, gymnastic director, in winning a majority of the games. Miss Grace Kierstead, director of the girls team, is also pleased with the results of the girls team. Baseball is soon to be undertaken at the school with more than two score of young athletes offering themselves as candidates for the team. Possibilities are bright that there will be a first and second team this season.

Prize Speaking Contest
Notwithstanding the fact that it will be impossible to award prizes as prizes in the eight annual prize speaking contests of the Rockville High School Alumni Association, competition is in evidence. Eight speakers have been selected from a field of twenty-eight candidates by a faculty committee. No admission charge will be made for the speaking contest to be held in the auditorium of the George Sykes Memorial School on Friday evening.

President James A. Galvin has announced that the prizes consisting of gold pieces, will be replaced with currency. The first prize will be $10; the second prize, $5; and the third prize $2.50.

The following program has been arranged: Orchestra selection, remarks by President James A. Galvin; music "Sunny Lou", Zamecnik, by the Boys' Glee Club; speakers, Fannie Winokur, "34, "Commencement" by Kellogg; Marion Kent, "34, "Hawatha—The Pamine" by Longfellow; Immanuel Klette, "35, "John Gilpin" by William Cowper; Marjorie Beyer, "34, "The Highwayman" by Noyes; music, "Little Glow-Worm" by Wellesley, by the Girls Glee Club; speakers, Leon Kupeck, "35, "The Talcott Hear" Coe; Jeanette Tift, "34, "Bobby Shaftoe" by Green; Elizabeth Leonard, "36, "Briar Rose" by Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen; Warren Reynolds, "35, "Gunga Din" by Kipling; music, "Smilin' Through" by Penna, Robert Wendhiser; orchestra selections; decision of the judges and award of prizes.

John Hoppel. She is survived by her husband, John Hoppel; a daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Wilson of Arlington, R. I., a sister, Miss Margaret Schmogro of Rockville and three nieces who reside in Meriden.

Rockville Notes
Gaylord Douglas of Springfield, Mass., who is one of the workers of the Association for the Prevention of War, has been secured as the speaker for the annual Father and Son Banquet to be held at the Talcottville Congregational church Friday evening. Both the Vernon, Vernon Center and the Talcottville Congregational churches are uniting for this banquet. Rev. Theron French of Manchester will lead in the singing and Rev. William F. Tyler, of Vernon Center, is acting as general chairman.

The East Hartford Camp of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War will be entertained by the members of Alden Skinner Camp in the G. A. R. rooms, Memorial building, tonight. A members' supper will be served after which an entertainment will be presented followed by a social. Guests are expected from Meriden, Danielson, New Britain, Bristol, Hartford and Manchester.

A social and dance was held last evening in Foresters Hall, Rockville National Bank building by the members of Damon Lodge, Knights of Pythias. The members of the local group of Pythian Sisters were the guests of the evening. Both modern and old-fashioned dances were enjoyed during the evening. Harry Morgan and Ted prompted for the old-fashioned dances while the music was furnished by Max Kabrick's orchestra.

Exalted Ruler Edward L. Newmarker of Rockville Lodge, No. 1359, B. P. O. Elks, will conduct his last meeting as exalted ruler tonight as the newly elected officers are to be installed at the next regular meeting.

Fayette Lodge, A. F. & A. M. are expected to attend the union service at the Union Congregational church on Sunday when the Springfield Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will be in charge.

PRESS CONFERENCES

NOT TO BE CHANGED

President To Continue Method of Direct Questions and Answers He Inaugurated.

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Something may cause a change later, but so far President Roosevelt and the newspaper corps seem well satisfied with the informal, direct question and answer discussions at Mr. Roosevelt's semi-weekly press conferences.

In re-establishing this type of conferences—abandoned since the early days of the Harding administration—Mr. Roosevelt laughingly said that he had been told they would not continue long. He ventured they could and would be carried out.

Some of the veteran reporters disagreed, but after several successful gatherings they have changed their minds. The procedure at the conferences on Tuesdays at 10 a. m., and Fridays at 4 p. m., is simple. The newspapermen waiting in the lobby of the executive offices are summoned into the President's room. They fill almost every available bit of space. Mr. Roosevelt greets them and leans comfortably back in his chair.

The questions come thick and fast and some go to the root of delicate questions and situations. Not once thus far has the President shown any sign of impatience or perturbation. There is no hesitation in the answers. When he doesn't make a direct answer, he says: "I can't tell you anything about that yet," or "I don't know."

First off, Mr. Roosevelt tells the reporters whether the answers are "off the record," or "background" to be used on their own authority. Direct quotations are prepared in writing.

MILT GREEN'S ORCHESTRA AT THE TAB TONIGHT

Milt Green and his 11-piece orchestra are all real musicians and have played in the largest and best ballrooms in the state. They are considered the best road band now and will play a return engagement at the Al Pierre Tabarin in Willimantic tonight. This orchestra played three weeks ago to a good sized and appreciative crowd. They have just completed a week's engagement at the Progress show at Hartford. The management of the Tab was fortunate in getting the orchestra back once more and a good crowd is looked for.

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly erect and buoyant and full of energy.

Girl Scout News

One of our local captains, in training some Brownies for tenderfoot scouts yesterday, found that even Manchester Brownies know current events. It was just after the inauguration and during their practice they had just finished repeating the Fledge of Allegiance to the American flag, when one little Brownie asked so earnestly "Captain, now don't you think we ought to say, for the Democrats for which it stands?"

Captain Beebe supplied a cake with 21 candles. The troop played games in the gym and then Captain Beebe took charge of a class working on the laundress badge. The other girls worked on tenderfoot and second-class test. The meeting closed at 8:30 by singing "Taps." Scribe, A. Mason.

Troop 11
Troop 11 held its meeting Tuesday at 4 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. The girls worked on first-class requirements working on judging and passing tenderfoot scouts. Alice Obrenski demonstrated how to make a bed. We then played a signalling game and a bean-bag game. We formed a circle and Captain Tournau surprised us with a birthday cake. She said about the founding of Girl Scouting, which we all enjoyed. Arline Holmes was chosen as treasurer and Evelyn Foley as secretary. The question arose about changing our time of meeting and it was left undecided until next week. We will finish our plans for the hike at the next meeting. There will be a swimming lesson March 24. We formed a goodnight circle and sang "Golden Sun" and "Taps." Court of Honor was held after the meeting. Scribe, Victoria Zalewicz.

Troop 11
Troop 11 will meet with the pack next Tuesday at 3:45 at the Hollister street school. The two groups will participate in a fly-up ceremony, when two Brownies will go into Scouting.

EDDIE DZIADUS WINS POOL CROWN AT REC

In the second block of the 200 point pool championship match between David McConkey, West Side Recreation winner, and Edward Dziadus, East Side Recreation winner, played at the East Side last night, Eddie Dziadus won the match and the Recreation championship, 100 to 65, making the total match score of 200 to 127.

The first part of the match saw much safe playing by both contestants so that the first half was nearly even but with the steadiness of a champion Dziadus began to forge ahead until there was no doubt as to the outcome of this final pool match.

BEAR WRECKS FILM SET WHEN HONEY GIVES OUT

"Rango" Sends Studio Props Topsy-Turvy When Making "So This Is Africa"—Other Features.

"On the bear went over the mountain!"

The bear went over the mountain—The bear went over the mountain—With Wheeler and Woolsey behind! With apologies to the author of this doggerel verse, the action thereby expressed is almost exactly what happened on the Columbia set during the production of "So This Is Africa," which stars Bert Wheeler and Bob Woolsey in the height of their hilarity.

It was a scene in darkest African jungle—in which a bear comes up beside the Wheeler-Woolsey tent, startling the intrepid explorers. "Rango," the bear used in the picture, behaved nicely until the honey gave out. Then he went berserk through the prop jungle, behind flaps, under staircases for other sets, knocking dressing-tables and lamps over—generally wrecking the set.

Wheeler and Woolsey were close behind—behind a brick wall! From the above, you might gather, and correctly too, that "So This Is Africa" with Wheeler and Woolsey, is coming to the State Friday and Saturday or in other words as soon as "The Secret of Madame Blanche" is shown for the last time tonight.

"Dangerously Yours" with Warner

Baxter will be the co-feature on Friday and Saturday while "King of the Jungle" comes to the State on Sunday. What happens when a charming young lady detective sets out to use her feminine wiles to ensnare a suave gentleman crook, is the central theme of "Dangerously Yours."

BEER ADVERTISEMENTS

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Newspapers will not be permitted to carry beer or wine advertisements until midnight April 6 under an informal ruling today by the Post Office Department.

Solicitor Horace J. Donnelly told newspapermen the present prohibition against such advertisements being carried in the mails would not be lifted until the beverage could legally be sold.

Violation of the law carries a maximum fine of $1,000 or six months imprisonment or both.

Donnelly declined to say whether or what action was contemplated against papers that already have carried such advertisements.

LEADERS CONFER

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Congressional leaders were summoned to the White House today for a discussion of farm mortgage refinancing plans which President Roosevelt expects to submit to the National Legislature in the next few days.

It is likely that the legislation will be tacked onto the administration farm relief bill, which reached the Senate today after passage late yesterday by the House.

Among those who gathered at the White House executive offices were Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the majority leader, Senator Byrnes, (D., S. C.) Chairman Jones of the House agriculture committee, Chairman Buchanan of the House appropriations committee, Senator Bankhead (D., Ala.), and Senator Gore (D., Okla.).

Speaker Rainey and Senator Barkley (D., Ky.), also were expected to attend.

TO MOVE AGAINST REDS

Sofia, Bulgaria, March 23.—(AP)—Premier Nicholas Muschakov today announced the government was planning "new and severe measures" against Communism.

He pointed out that Communist propaganda recently had become more active especially in schools and military garisons.

The first step will be an "inquiry" into the activities of the Workers Party, which actually is a Communist organization.

NO MORE HARD-WORK WASHDAYS FOR HER! — by DALTON VALENTINE

LOOK, ROSALIND—I GOT A LETTER FROM MY FRIEND, THELMA. SHE ENCLOSED THIS CLIPPING. I WONDER WHY?

IT'S A RINSO ADVERTISEMENT. I GUESS THAT'S HER WAY OF SAYING YOU OUGHT TO CHANGE YOUR WASHDAY HABITS.

WELL, WHY DIDN'T SHE SAY SOMETHING ABOUT IT WHEN SHE WAS HERE LAST MONDAY?

MAYBE SHE THOUGHT YOUR FEELINGS WOULD BE HURT IF SHE CALLED YOU OLD-FASHIONED. NO UP-TO-DATE WOMAN SCRUBS AND BOILS HER CLOTHES WHEN RINSO SOAKS THEM SO EASILY.

TRY RINSO NEXT MONDAY AND SEE WHAT I MEAN. SEE HOW RINSO WASHES EVEN COLORED CLOTHES AS BRIGHT AS NEW.

WELL, IF IT SAVES BACK-BREAKING WORK, I'M ALL FOR RINSO.

NEXT WASHDAY—AND ROSALIND, IT'S SO ECONOMICAL—I DID THE BIGGEST, WHITEST WASH WITH ONLY A LITTLE RINSO. FOR DISHWASHING, TOO, IT'S SO EASY ON THE HANDS.

"It's more economical," says Mrs. W. J. Neeld of Williamsport, Pa.

Rinsol is such a big help around the house. And it's more economical than other soaps. With one big box I washed the dishes 7 times, sinks and tubs 3 times, floors 6 times and all these clothes:

14 dollies	9 luncheon cloths	11 aprons
2 bedspreads	44 towels	24 pairs socks
3 bureau scarfs	27 handkerchiefs	8 pieces underwear
7 face cloths	12 pieces children's underwear	4 nightgowns
10 napkins	8 children's nightclothes	4 pairs pajamas
12 pillow cases	10 house-dresses	28 shirts
8 sheets	4 nightgowns

A little Rinsol gives a lot of thick suds that soak out dirt—even in hardest water. That saves the clothes—saves your hands, too. Rinsol is great in washing machines. Great for dishes—and all cleaning. Get the BIG box.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
When JANET HILL, 10 years old, ROLF CARLYLE has been breaking engagements with her to meet BETTY KENDALL, a society girl, she tells him their marriage is off. Janet is 23, pretty and secretary to BRUCE HAMILTON, advertising manager of Every Home Magazine.

She still loves Rolf and cannot forget him. JEFFREY GRANT, young engineer who lives at the same rooming house as Janet, appears one night just in time to save her purse from a holdup man. Janet becomes interested in the SILVANI family, almost destitute. Jeff helps provide food and clothing for them and later they find a job for PAT SILVANI, the father. Jeff and Janet become close friends. He asks her to help him select a gift for a girl and they buy a purse. When Janet sees in newspaper headlines that Rolf has eloped with Betty Kendall she tells Jeff about her broken engagement and says she will never care for anyone else.

A few days later Bruce Hamilton tells Janet he is leaving the magazine. The staff is to be reduced and her job will be gone. Hamilton says his sister, MRS. CURTIS, needs a social secretary and that he has recommended Janet. She goes to see Mrs. Curtis and is hired.

When she tells Jeff she is going away he seems disturbed.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXV

Dusk had begun to descend over the street. In the gray light Janet looked into Jeff Grant's startled face. She was remorseful. "I meant to tell you before," she said, "only I've been so busy!"

"Where are you going?" Jeff asked.

Janet smiled. "Not very far," she told him. "Only out on the west side. You see, I have a new job and I'll have to live out there."

"Then you're not leaving town?" "Why, of course not!" The girl laughed. "Did you think I was? Oh, no, I'm not leaving Lancaster, but it's just about as much work to pack as if I were. We've been awfully busy at the office, too. This new job is different from anything I've ever done."

She told him all about it. She was still talking when they reached the entrance to the rooming house. Janet halted, looking up at the sky.

"I hate to go in," she said. "It's a lovely evening, isn't it?" "Yes, it is. We could take a drive somewhere if you weren't so busy."

Janet lingered in the doorway. "I've got an idea," she exclaimed suddenly. "Have you had dinner yet?"

Jeff said that he had not.

"Then if you'll go back to the delicatessen and get some sausages I'll cook some eggs and make toast and we can have a sort of picnic supper. I have part of a cake and enough lettuce for salad. Do you want to do that?"

"Sure! That's a great idea!" When he arrived 15 minutes later Janet had the table set. She was a gingerly as she pushed her chair back and pulled her sleeves above her elbows. The coffee pot was sizzling and its fragrant aroma filled the air.

Jeff had made other purchases besides the sausages. He exhibited a box of luscious looking strawberries, a bottle of cream and a box of cheese.

"Why, we'll have a feast!" Janet exclaimed.

She pinned another apron about her waist and set to hulling the berries while she scrambled eggs and cooked the sausages. By the time they were ready to sit down at the table both of them were laughing. Jeff had been describing his efforts at cooking on a boyhood camping trip.

Janet poured the coffee and handed a cup to Jeff. Heat from the stove had curled the soft curls of hair about her cheeks into a tight curl. The heat had brought color into her cheeks, too, and her eyes were shining.

"Isn't this fun?" she said. "I'll say it is! And the best meal I've eaten in weeks. Say, you're a real cook!"

The table was covered with a tea towel because both of Janet's lunch cloths were at the laundry. Not all the china was of the same pattern and the tumbler from which Jeff drank was green while Janet's was blue. The box of cheese was still in its original package and the cream in the bottle, just as it had come from the dairy. Nevertheless the dinner party was a success.

Once Janet leaned forward and said, "Listen, Jeff, I want you to tell the Silvani that I'm coming out to see them just the same. I don't know how my time will be arranged or when I can come but moving isn't going to make a bit of difference. I can't go this Saturday because of moving but after this I'll come every week. You'll tell them, won't you?"

Jeff agreed. He told Janet he'd drive out for her if she'd let him know when she wanted to go.

"Why, of course I will," Janet promised.

They had finished the last of the berries and the last crumb of cake. Jeff said leaning forward, "I'll be sort of lonesome here with you gone, Janet. It's been nice to have someone to talk to and—well, sort of plan things with."

"I'll miss you, too," the girl assured him. "But it isn't as if I were really going away. We can see each other just the same."

"Oh, sure," he said it carelessly.

Janet glanced at him. She thought, with a warm feeling in her heart, that it was fine to have a friend like Jeff Grant. He had helped her over some hard places. There was the night the holdup man tried to take her purse when Jeff had appeared so miraculously. Without Jeff's aid she could never have helped the Silvani's get on their feet again. But there were other reasons why she was grateful to this young man. Talking, walking, driving with Jeff had made it easier to fight against the loneliness in her heart.

She spoke quickly. "We have had good times together, Jeff! I'll never forget them. And you'll come to see me after I've moved, won't you?"

"Whenever you'll let me," he told her, smiling. Almost immediately he began talking about a new order his office had received. One of the largest in months. It was a good sign, he assured Janet, beginning to build again and industry was getting under way. It meant that times would be better before long now.

He played for half an hour and then, remembering Janet had said she had packing to do, departed. She saw him several times during the rest of the week. It had been arranged that since Janet would be through at the Every Home office Saturday noon she should move to Mrs. Curtis' home that afternoon and have Sunday to become acquainted with her new surroundings. Then Monday morning she would begin work.

Jeff offered to drive her out to her new home but Janet declined. It would be more correct, she thought, to arrive in a taxicab. Her trunk and traveling bag had been turned over to the transfer company early Saturday morning.

When the time came to say good-bye to her friends at the Every Home office—to the dreary box-like room in which she had worked for two years—Janet found herself strangely moved. She didn't expect to feel that way. She was sorry to say good-bye to Mr. Hamilton, of course. She would miss him, his straight and unreasonableness as much as the other times when he was considerate and kind. She would miss Mr. Hamilton because she was accustomed to working with him and because she admired him sincerely. But Janet was surprised to find—now that she was saying good-bye—that even Madeline, the switchboard operator, and the Dennison girls and others to whom she seldom said more than "good morning" or a few words about the weather seemed to be old friends. They were all part of her life she was leaving behind.

She told them all good-bye at last. She ate a hurried lunch and then rode out to the brick house with the dormer windows, set among all the other impressive houses. This time Janet walked to the door more confidently. She rang the bell and waited.

"You're Miss Hill, aren't you?" "Come in,"

It was the maid in the gray uniform who opened the door. "Mrs. Curtis won't be back until this morning," she said. "I'll show you to your room."

It was a room at the rear of the house on the second floor. It was not very large but it was attractive. The walls were covered with flower-sprigged wallpaper and the woodwork had been painted pale green. There was green chintz about the dressing table and covering one of the chairs. What Janet liked best about the room was that through the ruffled curtains at the windows she could look out on the nodding branches of a tree. A tall tree with the wind rustling its branches so that they bowed and swayed in friendly fashion.

"The bath is over here," the maid was saying, opening another door. "Is there anything else you want, miss?"

"No, thank you," she said. "I'll unpack my things."

"Not until after five, most likely. Dinner isn't until seven."

The maid left and Janet stood for a time looking out the window. She could see the ground covered with grass and beyond, in a neighboring yard, a row of scarlet tulips. Everything was orderly and neat. It was different from the cluttered room in which she had lived in the city. Janet's window had overlooked at Mrs. Snyder's, with laundry always flapping on the clothesline, bare ground in place of grass and half the wooden fence in tumble-down condition.

"I'm going to be happy here," Janet whispered to herself defiantly. "I'm going to be!"

Presently she set about unpacking. She was down on her knees before the open trunk when the door was a knock at the door. Janet called, "Come in," and the maid appeared.

"There's a call for you on the telephone," she told Janet. "It's a gentleman."

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

DON'T QUALIFY ALL YOUR "YES'S"

"Mother, may I go over and play with Mary?"

"Yes, but don't stay too long."

"I won't."

Ellen went over and played with Mary and stayed until her mother called on the telephone and demanded her immediate return.

"Mother, may I have an apple?"

"Yes, but don't eat the skin."

"I won't." Ellen forgot and ate the skin.

"Mother, I want to cut out paper dolls. May I have your scissors?"

"Yes, but don't cut yourself. And don't forget to put them back and clean up the mess."

The little girl did not cut herself, but she forgot to put back the scissors and the "mess" was left for her mother to clean up next morning. She had forgotten herself that she had warned the child to do it.

More Disregarded Instructions

"Good-bye," called Ellen next morning as she slipped off to school. "Good-bye," waved her mother.

"Watch when you cross the street."

"Yes'm," said Ellen darting out in front of a car. Then she ran back.

"Mother, may I tell Mary about my birthday party?"

"I guess so. But tell her not to tell anyone else." Ellen forgot that, too, and by noon the whole school knew it.

Her mother heard it from a friend. "I meant to warn you, Ellen, not to tell anyone, or to tell Mary not to tell. Now I've got to ask twice as many children as I expected to."

She herself had forgotten that she had already warned her daughter.

"Yes—But—"

So many of us are that way. We cannot give a clear "yes" or "no" without adding some direction, some warning. Our own compulsions coming to the surface to give us a feeling of clear conscience and duty done. Either that or a sense of over-responsibility voicing itself in an indirect protest.

Cautions Mean Nothing

The habit becomes so set that it is a perfunctory performance; almost entirely reflex, without a particle of real thought behind it.

And children hearing every permission given with a string attached, get so accustomed to it they answer just as automatically. The order to be careful, not to stay too late, not to swallow the skins, not to tell, does not register at all.

"Yes, mother, I'll remember!" actually means nothing at all.

The time comes when a real reservation that accompanies consent, something that really matters and should be listened to is treated as casually as all the rest. This is serious.

Anyway, children must get weary of having extra words tagged on to all our "yes's." Why cannot we say, "You may do it" once in a while and let it go at that?

No wonder so much of what we say goes in one ear and out the other! Attention is never gained this way.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

A BLAST AT OUR MAYORS

Joel Sayre Gives Us Bitter Satire On City Politics.

In "Hizoner the Mayor," Joel Sayre seems to have relieved his feelings by bestowing hearty razzberries on a composite photograph of practically all the mayors of our leading American cities.

We are introduced to him as he looms in his hotel suite, recovering from a colossal hangover. We follow him as he goes, down the bay to extend Greater Malta's official greetings to a great wrestling bear which has just returned from a tour of Europe. We go with him to a meeting of the board of estimates—a deadly chapter which reads like a literal transcription of the actual meeting of such a body—and then we plunge with him into a riotous political campaign, which ends with Mayor Holtsapple's defeat by the Honorable Harrie Satchell.

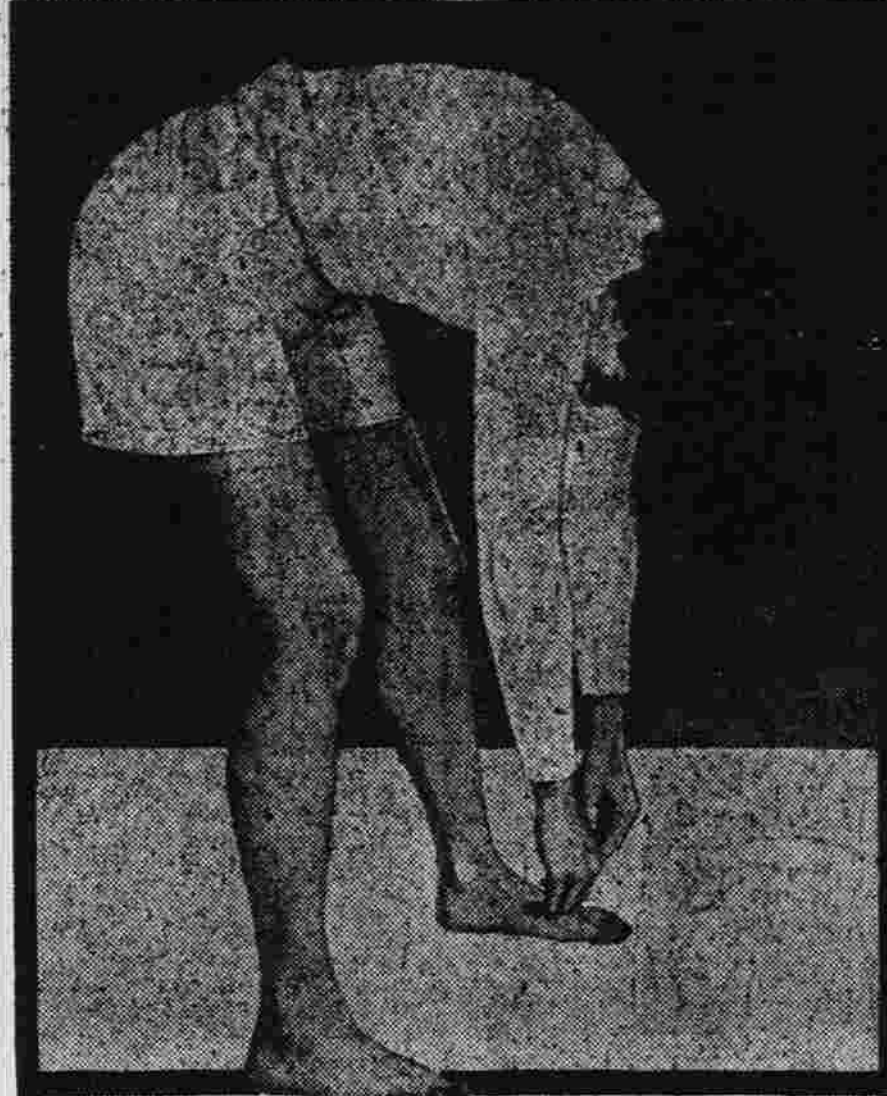

In all of this Mr. Sayre is venomous and ruthless. Municipal politics, he seems to say, is a game played by pluperfect crooks for the plundering of fools. Honesty, decency, intelligence and honor are unknown quantities.

"Hizoner the Mayor" isn't as funny as Mr. Sayre's incomparable "Rackety Rax"; and, as such, it seems to me, because you simply can't satirize our municipal politics. There's nothing you can exaggerate. Real life outdoes your wildest inventions. . . . but it's a book you ought to read.

It's published by the John Day Co., and its price is $2.

Swing the Kinks Out of Tense Muscles

Totally relaxed...like a limp rag doll!

By JAC AUER

The poised body, the lithe, graceful body is the relaxed one. You know how beautiful lions, tigers and ordinary cats are. They never get stiff and awkward, the way people do. The reason for this is that their muscular co-ordination is so perfect that they stay relaxed all the time, easy, graceful.

Our second exercise is designed to get you in a mood to face the day with least strain on your nervous system. It is a splendid general limbering up exercise, for all muscles.

Stand as you were for the first stretch of the day and begin relaxing by swinging arms up at the sides and letting them fall, plump! Then lift one leg at a time, from the hip, and let it drop. Drop your head forward onto your chest, and with your hand raise your head up, take your hand away and let it drop back onto your chest.

Now you are ready for this relaxing exercise. Stand with feet apart and let your head and trunk drop clear down until your hands are almost touching the floor. Swing your arms forward through your legs, knees soft, three or four times. Then swing them through once more and coming back, throw them up and way overhead, arching your back as you do so. Swing back down, through your legs again and back up over your head, five times.

Now drop your trunk forward again. This time, swing your relaxed arms through your legs, feet both over the right knee to the outside of your body, back through your legs and out over the left knee. Repeat three times over each leg.

This exercise irons out tense muscles, gets your circulation toned up, puts you in a mood to finish your exercise and start the day happy. It is excellent as a night-relaxer, too.

SENATE APPROVES ENVOY

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Robert Worth Bingham, Louisville, Ky., newspaper publisher, today has the Senate's approval of his appointment as ambassador to Britain.

The Senate confirmed the appointment late yesterday without discussion and by unanimous consent after Senator McNary of Oregon, Republican leader, withdrew an objection that had blocked earlier consideration.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—dark spots in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

RESTFUL SLEEP BEGETS BEAUTY

All sleep is not beauty sleep. You must have a good bed, plenty of fresh air, covers that are warm enough but lightweight, and be relaxed to have the deep, dreamless sleep that begets beauty.

Few persons realize just how important a flat, firm bed is. If your bed rolls to the center and you sleep more or less cramped up, how can you expect to arise in the morning feeling fresh and peppy?

Good box springs and a firm mattress should be your aspiration. There is nothing about the house that deserves an output of money more than your bed. Of course it doesn't show, the way new lamps and curtains do. But your face and your energy will reveal the benefit of having a first rate bed.

The springs make more difference than your mattress, really. For it isn't how soft or how hard a bed is but how straight, that really counts. It is your spine that is affected by a bed that sags. And if your spine is out of line for eight hours straight running, how can you expect your nervous system to work smoothly?

Its efficiency depends on your spine's being in perfect line. Get just a few vertebrae out of plumb and you'll feel awry, the world will be much darker than it really is and life not worth the trouble.

With times strenuous as they are today, your night's sleep is one of the most important items. It behooves everybody who means to "carry on" to start the campaign by getting a good bed that will give you the maximum of benefit from your rest.

YALE IS SCENE OF NATIONAL AQUATIC TOURNEY FRIDAY

Collegiate Swimmers Gather To Compete In Tenth Annual Event At New Haven Tomorrow and Saturday.

New Haven, March 23.—(AP)—A flock of swimmers, many of them wearers of crowns won in recent sectional championship meets, converged on New Haven today, bent on annexing the even greater laurels at stake in the tenth annual national collegiate athletic association championships.

Most of the six score entries from 32 colleges expected to arrive during the afternoon in time for last minute workouts in the Yale pool. The tournament opens tomorrow with the finals in the nine events scheduled for Saturday night.

Winners of six of the championships last year and all of the titleholders crowned last Saturday in the University of Penn tank during the eastern intercollegiate association tournament will participate in the scramble for national honors.

The seven man contingent from Northwestern U. holder of the 400 yard relay title lost no time in getting acquainted with the scene of the championship struggle. The first team to arrive, the Evanston, Ill., group got rid of its traveling kinks with a workout in the pool yesterday immediately after its arrival here.

The midwestern winners found Ted Wigot of Stanford already hard at work. Sole entry from the west coast, he will defend his 440 yard free style crown against a crack field which includes a Yale Spence of Rutgers, the 100 yard free style champion, Kennedy and Crystie of Michigan, Captain Hapke and Joe Barker of Yale, Benton Wood of Harvard and Lang of Minnesota.

Michigan will enter the defense of its crown in the 300 yard medley relay to Johnny Schmiedler, 220 yard free style and 200 yard breast stroke titleholder; Lemack and Renner. The only champions who will be missing are John McKelvey in the fifty yard dash, Mickey Riley in the 100 yard dash, and the 150 yard backstroke titleholder.

CARDINALS ADVANCE INTO SEMI-FINALS

Defending Champs Win 60th Straight Game In Women's National Tourney.

Wichita, Kas., March 23.—(AP)—The women's national basketball title race had simmered down today to a scramble between the defending champion Cardinals of Oklahoma Presbyterian College for women, one former champion from Texas and contenders representing Wichita and Kansas City, Mo.

The Oklahoma Redbirds, who hail from Durant, defend their title against the Steuben Club of Kansas City in the semi-finals tonight after having scored their 60th consecutive victory last night.

Dallas Golden Cyclones, who yielded the championship to the Cardinals last year at Shreveport, are billed for the other semi-final engagement with the Wichita Thunder. Victim No. 60 on the Cardinals' undefeated record extending through two seasons was the Lucas team from Fort Worth, Tex. The final score was 40-25.

Cusick Coleman, a tournament veteran, kept the Steuben club in the running by sending four goals through the hoop in rapid order, giving her team a 31-24 decision over the Houston, Tex., Doctor Peppers.

The surviving Wichita team, depended on a little pony forward to clinch its 27-23 victory over the Shreveport, La., team. Babe Didrikson's former team, the Cyclones, pulled out a 40-32 victory over the Eldorado, Ark., Union.

Leading The League

M. H. S. IS DEFEATED BY WESLEYAN FRESHMEN IN DUAL TRACK MEET, 42-40

Superiority In Dash Events and Jumps Brings College Athletes Victory; Murch Captures Mile With Packard and Donahue Second and Third.

Manchester High's track and field athletes bowed to the superiority of Wesleyan University's freshmen in sprint events in a dual meet at Middletown yesterday afternoon and lost by the close margin of 42 to 40. Wesleyan's tracksters accounted for 28 points by sweeping all three places in the sprints, relays and broad jump, the lead being clinched by the mile run.

Murch Wins Mile Wesleyan swept into a nine-point victory in the first event by taking the 40 yard dash but Manchester came back in the 440 and 880 yard runs to gain a 14-13 margin. This lead was increased when Billy Murch captured the mile run and his teammates, Packard and Donahue, finished second and third respectively. The Wesleyan runners were determined to defeat Murch in this event but were unable to match the local miler's brilliant pace.

Wesleyan clinched the ten point gap in the scoring by taking all places in the four and eight lap relays, knotting the count at 23-all. Fraser and Judd turned in splendid performances for the Red and White but the combined strength of the Wesleyan team proved too much for the locals.

Broad Jump Decides Manchester again went to the front in the high jump event in which Patton and Lane tied for first place with jumps of five feet six inches. Wesleyan taking third. Then the college athletes took all three places in the broad jump that made the count 33-31 in their favor. In the next two events, the shot put and pole vault, the teams split even in the scoring and Wesleyan was the winner by two points.

Captain Bob McCormack of Manchester won first place in the pole vault by sailing over the bar at eleven feet. This was the first time he had competed in this event since last year and was remarkable in that he has had no practice in the event this season.

This was the final indoor meet for Manchester and preparations will now be made for the opening meet of the outdoor season against Hartford High on April 22.

HOCKEY'S LEADING SCORER TELLS HOW TO FOOL A GOALIE

New York, March 23.—(AP)—Bill Cook of the New York Rangers, leading scorer of the National Hockey League, doesn't mind revealing the secret of his success in outwitting opposition goalies.

Bill doesn't look toward the net until he's about 15 feet away, then glances up just long enough to see the position of the goal-tender's feet.

"It's easy to tell when a goalie is going to fall for a feint," he said. "His feet give him away every time."

If a player breaks through the defense and is in control of the puck, he should beat the goalie seven times out of ten, Cook declared.

Chuck Gardiner of the Chicago Black Hawks is Cook's choice for the best goalie in the business, with John Ross Roach of Detroit a close second.

ROSS WINS CHANCE TO MEET CANZONERI

Outpoints Billy Petrolle Last Night; Gets Lightweight Title Shot.

Chicago, March 23.—(AP)—Barney Ross, a youngster from Chicago's Ghetto has earned himself a chance at Tony Canzoneri's world lightweight championship. By outpointing Billy Petrolle last night in the Chicago Stadium, Ross certified himself as about the best of the field seeking to dethrone the champion.

Ross didn't beat Old Billy by a mile, but he did a good enough job to convince the titleholder Canzoneri, who sat at the ringside and watched it. Apparently Tony hadn't expected much of Ross, for he said the 22 year old Chicagoan had surprised him.

"He's a good boy," the champion said. "He fooled me. He won off by himself. He outboxed Billy and hurt him several times. I'll be glad to meet him."

The decision was unanimous on the part of the referee and judges.

Al Getzewich Earns Draw Against Strangler Lewis

Al Getzewich, local wrestler who was defeated by Jim Browning, world's wrestling champion, in a title bout at New Haven Tuesday night, returned to the matted circle last night and gained a draw with Ed (Strangler) Lewis, deposed titleholder, in an exhibition match at the Ridgewood Grove club in Brooklyn.

The match lasted 25 minutes and was declared a draw when the 11 o'clock curfew prohibited continuation of the match. Lewis was installed as wrestling champ in New York some time ago but lost the title to Browning. He attempted to regain the crown Monday night but was again defeated. Getzewich met Browning in a one-fall title match Tuesday night and lost after thirty-six minutes of wrestling.

At one stage of the proceedings, Getzewich had a fine chance to defeat Browning. He tossed the champion over his head and Browning landed on his head. He was clasped for several minutes and lay on his back on the mat. Getzewich waited until Browning began to show signs of life and then shot forward in an attempted flying technique. He missed his mark and landed in the prone box outside the ring.

Getzewich was saved by his fall and Browning, sufficiently recovered from his spill, pinned the Manchester boy with a turnover schmeer.

YANKEE JOCKEY TO SEEK LIFE'S GOAL IN GRAND NATIONAL

Bostwick Is Given Chance To Realize Ambition To Win Dangerous Steeplechase Event Tomorrow.

London, March 23.—(AP)—George H. (Pete) Bostwick, already acclaimed the leading amateur rider of the United States, can claim that rank in the world if he rides J. H. (Jock) Whitney's Dusty Foot to victory tomorrow in the Grand National steeplechase at Aintree. Already popularly admired in England for such performances as last Saturday when he rode two winners at Sandown, Bostwick's fate on Dusty Foot is awaited with much interest.

For the young American, also famed as a polo player, the Aintree classic will be one of his biggest racing adventures.

"I shall realize my life ambition if I can win the race for Whitney," Bostwick told the Associated Press today. "Dusty Foot can jump a country remarkably well and he should be able to stay the distance, providing we can both escape trouble and interference from loose horses."

"I anticipate a thrilling ride around the most difficult steeplechase course in the world. This will be the first time I've ridden the Grand National and indeed I've never yet even seen Aintree but I feel confident that with Dusty Foot I've a tip top chance of going one better than Billy Barton did in 1928 when he finished second."

Like riding in England as the fences are higher than in America and the going usually is softer and in better galloping condition.

Dusty Foot, at odds of 40 to 1 is a good outsider. Other betting still is unchanged with Greagalach and Golden Miller joint favorites at 9 to 1. The only American-bred horse among the 10 American-bred horses who will race, Mrs. T. H. Somerville's Trouble Maker is little fancied at 66 to 1.

Aintree, Eng., March 23.—(AP)—The 34th Grand National steeplechase race tomorrow over 4 1/2 miles of green English turf, studded with 30 hedges, dangerous ditches and water jumps, by a field of 30 high jumping horses promises spectacular sport and perhaps an American victory.

With nine American owned chasers among the starters, one of them Trouble Maker, American bred, the odds by sheer numbers are better for an American triumph than in recent years. Trouble Maker's challenge isn't taken seriously in England.

Two Americans have won the National in the last 10 years, Stephen Sanford, with 13-year-old Sergeant Murphy in 1923, and A. C. Schwartz with Jack Horner in 1931. J. H. Whitney's Dusty Foot and Mrs. C. H. Bird's Heartbreak Hill, nimble Irish mare, probably are the best of the American owned jumpers.

Local Sport Chatter

Middletown High school, a member of the C. C. I. L., has decided to abandon baseball this season, and therefore games already scheduled for the National will have to be dropped. Track has also been eliminated, due to the fact that neither of these sports are self sustaining and drain the profits earned on basketball and football.

The Rhymers of Hartford defeated St. Mary's, East Hartford champs, in the first game of the Greater Hartford championships last night by a score of 27-18. The Rhymers led 18 to 17 and managed to stage a spurt in the closing minutes that topped the East Siders.

Walter Utke has been elected captain of Bristol High's basketball team for next year. Utke has been a regular right forward on the team and played an important part in the winning of the New England title.

Three young men from Winston-Salem are trying to make the grade, Merv, Salverson and Smith. Just how the jump from the Piedmont League to the National will affect their pitching percentages remains to be seen.

Two comebackers are Bill Shores, former Athletics' hurler, rescued from Portland, and LeRoy Parmelee from the Columbus farm. Off-hand, it appears Terry needs three more good pitchers before he can hope for the first division.

If Travis Jackson's trick knee does hold together, the whole team will have a better appearance. Critz must put on the pressure at second or go. Terry will play first and Verdes third.

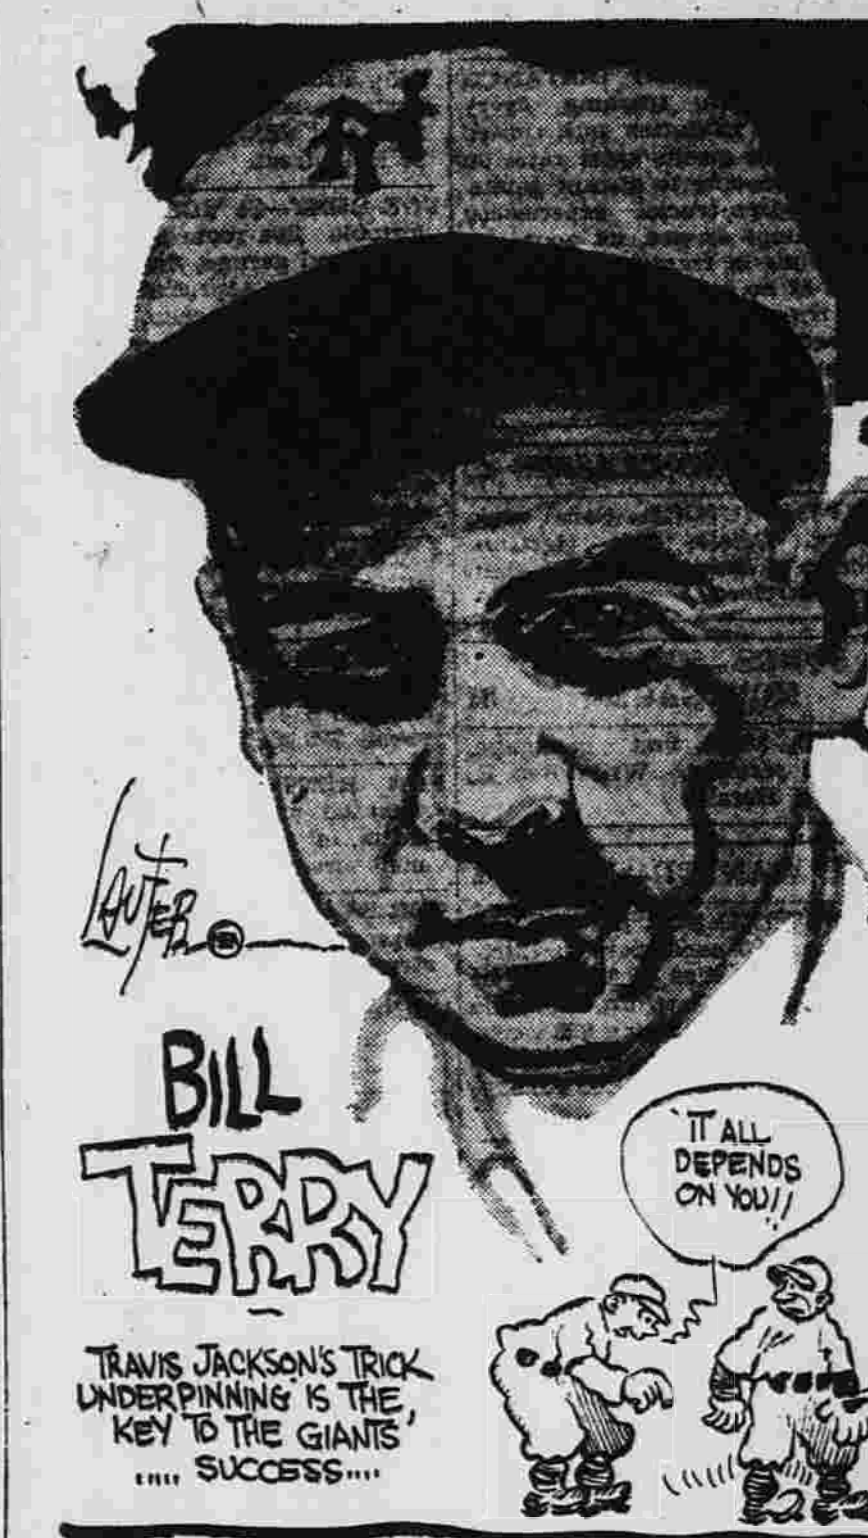

The infield candidates are more numerous than able. Oddly, the best-looking infielder is Terry's own understudy, Sam Leslie. Others are Blondy Ryan, bought from Buffalo; Al McLarney, who was kept around last year without showing much; Koe Malay, from Winston-Salem; John Laborne, also from Winston-Salem; Jim Byrne, from Dallas, and Gilbert English, who hit 235 in 59 games with the Giants last year.

The outfield is fairly well set, except for reserves. The first line consists of the capable George Davis from the Falls and probably Joe Moore, the latter a youngster who hit .304 in 86 games with the Giants last year, has been recalled from Jersey City; Homer Peel has been drafted from Houston for another big league trial, and Winston-Salem has sent two aspirants in Joe Martin and Henry Lieber.

The catching is good enough, with the veteran Mancuso, obtained from the Cardinals, equipping in part of the big shadow Shanty has been cast. This probably will be a year in which much is seen of young Francis Neasey, who was highly regarded by John McGraw.

By the way, whatever happened to that fellow McGraw?

MANAGER BILL TERRY HAS TOUGH JOB WITH GIANTS

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the twelfth of a series surveying the big league teams in training camp.

By BILL BRAUCHER NEA Service Sports Editor New York, March 23.—Bill Terry, big old man, choir singer and manager of the reorganized Giants, is optimistic.

"I'll bet a hat," says he, "that if Jackson comes back at short we'll run one-two-three."

That looks like a chance to win yourself a piece of headgear. Mister Terry can be reached at the Polo Grounds April 8. He will be there off and on all summer, the chances are.

Terry and the reorganized Giants actually are starting from scratch. The pitching staff is shot. More punch at the plate is needed. The infield is a question mark at second and short where a strong combination is vitally essential. Critz folded up last year and Jackson was out with a collapsible knee.

Terry has been inspecting a whole flock of recruits and comeback guys. With a schedule of 37 exhibition games, he will have plenty of opportunities to see all his ivory at work.

Firsters he needs most of all. The regulars are Hubbell, Fitzsimmons, Bell, Luque and Schumacher. Glenn Spencer was added in a trade with the Pirates. Ray Starr was taken from the Cardinals. There are two Grade A performers in that boy, Hubbell and Starr still must be rated as promising.

Three young men from Winston-Salem are trying to make the grade, Merv, Salverson and Smith. Just how the jump from the Piedmont League to the National will affect their pitching percentages remains to be seen.

Two comebackers are Bill Shores, former Athletics' hurler, rescued from Portland, and LeRoy Parmelee from the Columbus farm. Off-hand, it appears Terry needs three more good pitchers before he can hope for the first division.

BOTH TEAMS READY FOR CRUCIAL TILT TOMORROW NIGHT

Guards Given Slight Edge Over Rec Five; Close, Hard Fought Tussle Anticipated; Good Prelim.

A capacity attendance is anticipated at the State Armory tomorrow night, when the Rec Five and the National Guards take the basketball floor for the third and deciding game of the annual town title series. The encounter is expected to be one of the closest and hardest fought struggles of the entire local season, with the Guards a men's slight favorite with the pregame dopsters, due to the advantage of playing on their home floor.

In the preliminary the National Guard Reserves will oppose the DeMolay in a game that will also be the third and deciding contest of a series. Al Boggini will probably handle the first game and Phil Casman will referee the second attraction. The preliminary is scheduled for 7:45 o'clock and the second game for 9 o'clock. Dancing will follow to music by Art McKay's orchestra.

Sturgeon Is Dropped Manager-Coach Ben Clune of the Rec Five announced today that Robert "Bingo" Sturgeon has been dropped from the squad, leaving the Recs with nine players. Sturgeon played a part of the first game but did not appear for the second, this being the reason for his dismissal.

On the eve of the battle, both managers are confident of victory for their respective teams. In his dual capacity as manager and coach, Ben Clune has kept his charges in extensive practice sessions in an effort to eliminate excesses of fouling, a factor that brought the Recs defeat just when the cage title seemed securely in their grasp.

Seek Decisive Win Coach Wilfred Clarke of the Guards has also been busy with his quintet, developing shooting ability both from the floor and the foul line. The Guards have been in poor form in shooting foul shots that would have brought decisive margins in the first two games and Coach Clarke is taking no chances in this department of the game.

Bitten in the first game by a score of 45 to 40 and barely coming through in the second, 34 to 32, the guards are determined to score a decisive and impressive triumph in the final encounter in order to establish their superiority over an opponent that possesses a far inferior record for the season.

In order that fans may be thoroughly familiar with the players on the floor tomorrow night, the members of both teams and their numbers are listed. It will be noticed that Al Hewitt of the Recs is the only player who does not have a number.

LIPPMANN PREDICTS NEW SOCIAL ORDER

economic order existing prior to 1914 as largely the product of slow and unconscious growth.

"Peace was not organized," he said, "it rested upon a balance of power. Economic activity was regulated not by intention, but by supply and demand operating through rising and falling prices. Men thought that human society had a natural, inevitable and secure foundation, and that they were free to follow their ambitions and make what they could of their opportunities."

The new era, he asserted, will be characterized by benevolent intelligence instead of passion and self interest.

FARM INCOME RISE

AIM OF TENNESSEE

100-ACRE PROGRAM

Greenville, Tenn.—(AP)—A plan for agricultural development of Greene county which proposes to give farmers a net cash income of nearly $3,000,000 annually has been launched here.

Devised by J. H. Rader, the plan has been worked out as to detail by County Agent J. C. Powell, in conjunction with J. C. McAnis and E. P. Callahan, of the University of Tennessee.

100 Acres Is Unit

The program is for a farm of 100 acres, of which there are 3,250 such units in Greene County, situated in east Tennessee in the mountainous area.

The Greene county plan is based on a farm of 100 acres divided as follows: House and garden, 2 acres; barn and lot, 2 acres; woods and waste, 16 acres; permanent pasture, 20 acres; rotation pasture, 15 acres; crops, 45 acres.

Crops Diversified

Crops are distributed to corn, 12 acres; tobacco, 4 acres; potatoes, 1 acre; wheat, 10 acres; barley, 3 acres; oats, 3 acres; and alfalfa, 9 acres. Yields anticipated for this acreage are: Corn, 520 bushels; tobacco, 6,000 pounds; potatoes, 160 bushels; wheat, 200 bushels; barley, 175 bushels; alfalfa, 37 tons.

Livestock would include 2 work animals, 11 cows, two heifers, 10 calves, 10 hogs and two pigs.

The standards set for yields, the experts say, and the production of livestock are above the average, but not above the average of the best paying farms.

The program has been received with enthusiasm and its sponsors expect wide support for it in the county.

McDONALD REPORTS ON PEACE PROGRAM

as the first period for the treaty, should its arrangement be possible.

An Immediate Aid

"Indications were given," he said, "that if this conception of cooperation and understanding between the peoples of Germany and Belgium, after the war the German forces became part of the British mandated territory of Tanganyika and Belgium extended her boundaries to include the mountains of Urundi.

NEWS NOT CONFIRMED

Rome, March 23.—(AP) Reports that Premier Mussolini had asked Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain for certain clues in fulfillment of the London Treaty of 1915 were not confirmed by the foreign office today.

No colonial question exists between Italy and England, the foreign office spokesman said, because after the war England ceded to Italy the strip of territory which is now part of Italian Somaliland.

Italy is still awaiting something from France, but it is believed that Premier Mussolini made any request of Mr. MacDonald in that connection.

STATE DEVS GET BUSY

New Britain, March 23.—(AP)—Formation of an organization for the purpose of electing dry delegates to the state convention which will pass on the proposed repeal of the 18th Amendment was begun in this city last night when representatives of several churches and societies attended a meeting.

Mr. Buel B. Bassett, whose husband has been active in the prohibition cause for many years, is the leader of the movement.

SIGNS RELIEF MEASURE

Boston, March 23.—(AP)—Governor Ely today signed the $275,000 emergency relief measure. The bill provides for the employment of men to clear brush wood, remove hulks from Boston Harbor and continue the work of mosquito control.

BEER TAX FOR PENSIONS

Hartford, March 23.—(AP)—Senator Joseph A. Hackett said today that he intends to suggest to Gov. Wilbur L. Cross, that the first $200,000 collected from a state tax on beer be used to establish an old age pension system.

The Waterbury Senator said that the governor had stated that amount to be necessary to set up an old age pension system and proposed a bill creating state funds from such a tax for pension work.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Danbury, March 23.—(AP)—The condition of Charles F. Conger of Newtown, who attempted suicide last night by wounding himself with a shotgun is said at the Danbury hospital to be critical.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, March 23.—(AP)—The Stock Market threw off its reactionary mood of the past five sessions and recovered vigorously for a time today.

An upsurge of prices in the first hour carried a number of issues up 2 to 4 points, as shorts sought to cover in a market from which selling pressure had been lifted. Trading slackened later, but more than half of the early advance was still retained by early afternoon. Early strength also appeared in cotton and wheat.

Extreme gains of about 4 points in Allied Chemical and Case were shaded by a point or so later. American Telephone lost more than a point of an upturn of 3 1/2, and Consolidated Gas slid back a point after rising 3. A 2-point gain in U. S. Steel was cut in half. Gains of 2 to 3 points in Union Pacific, Santa Fe, New York Central, and a few others were somewhat reduced, although falls developed new strength in the third hour. Various strong groups in the earlier trading included farm implements, mail order firms, sugars, the "wet" stocks, and drugs.

The brisk advance in the early trading was attributed in brokerage circles largely to improvement in the market's technical position, as result of its recent shakeout.

The market's technical position, however, the Dun and Bradstreet report showing that bank clearings in leading centers were about back to normal, and the preparations for brewing business in many centers as result of yesterday's signing of the beer bill, gave the business outlook a somewhat more hopeful aspect.

Rails were influenced by expectations of an early announcement of the administration's program of dealing with their situation.

Railroad quarters here anticipate drastic steps to co-ordinate rail road operations and eliminate wasteful duplication. The farm implements and the mail order issues appeared to respond bullishly to the House's approval of the farm relief measure, although it has been strongly opposed in some quarters in Wall street.

The low volume of steel business prompted the U. S. Steel Corp. further to reduce the income of salaries and bonuses, although the extent of about 10 per cent by starting a new system of time off without pay. Professional traders in Wall street who were inclined to remain bearish on the market outlook stressed the low volume of industrial activity, and the prospect of extremely low corporate earnings for the first half of this year, although some acknowledged that the starting up of the brewing business, together with efforts to lift commodity prices, might speed business recovery.

Marie Louise had told the prisoner that if he wished to correspond with her, he must be through Otto Waldemar Obet, Berlin.

The man who had brought them together—the attorney continued.

(The name of Otto Waldemar Obet has been mentioned in the court martial as the man reputed to have figured in the alleged communication of Army information.)

The prosecution has indicated its belief that Marie Louise was a mythical person invented by the prisoner to cover his alleged betrayal of Army information.

Mr. Parker declared, however, that he would call a witness who had come forward after reading reports of the case who would say that he had met Marie Louise in Berlin and was introduced to her by those claims only.

Lieut. Baillie-Stewart's own evidence regarding his early career would indicate characteristics peculiar to himself which would throw great light on his subsequent methods, Mr. Parker declared.

The defense asked the court to dismiss from its mind any impressions which might have been implanted by the prosecution's theory of the defendant's actions.

"You will hear from us a new statement," he promised. "The accused will tell you that in Berlin he became intimate with a woman who had been introduced to him only as 'Marie Louise'."

"He would not say so, but she became infatuated with him. You will hear that the accused always has had a peculiar attraction for women, and a peculiar attitude toward them which perhaps I may best describe as a lack of chivalry."

The court adjourned for lunch when he had concluded his introductory remarks.

MAY INSVEN BONDS

Hartford, March 23.—(AP)—A bill authorizing Danbury to issue $500,000 in refunding bonds was adopted today by both Houses of the Legislature under suspension of the rules.

The bill exempts that city from the statutes limiting the bonded indebtedness of a town to five per cent of its Grand List, and also provides that the city may withhold its issue, and borrow money on short term notes, to take advantage of possible future better conditions in the bond market.

SPRING OPENING

HERE ON MARCH 30

40 Merchants To Take Part In Event—Will Be a Double Celebration.

Spring Opening—the outstanding annual event sponsored by the merchants of Manchester for the presentation of merchandise for the coming season—will be held Thursday, March 30, it was announced today by William Rubino, chairman of the committee in charge. The event will be of all day and evening duration, opening at 9 o'clock in the morning and closing at 9 o'clock in the evening.

Spring Opening was originally scheduled for yesterday but was postponed because of the local banking situation. Now that the re-opening of the bank within a few days seems assured the merchants are going ahead with plans for the event. About forty merchants have already signified their intention of taking part.

In a way it will be a double celebration, marking the advent of spring and the opening of the bank, both events bringing better and more business to Manchester merchants.

Regular sales will be permissible during the day and evening and the committee in announcing the Spring Opening, extends the wish that merchants will do everything possible to stimulate business and revive buying after the bank holiday lull. There will be no restrictions and merchants may put on style shows, furnish souvenirs or any form of attraction. The committee recommends that merchants put on as much show as possible to make this a banner trading day.

Arrangements have been made to announce the event over station WDRG on Tuesday morning, Tuesday afternoon, Wednesday morning and Wednesday evening and Thursday morning of next week, in an effort to reach thousands of homes with this important announcement. Merchants have been asked to advertise the event extensively in the newspapers.

Local Speaker Arrangements are also being made to install a loud speaker on the top of the Montgomery Ward Company building with sufficient amplification to throw the sound out of the huge horns to the entire length of Main street. There will be six hours of announcement over this local broadcasting set-up on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Frequently there will be the general announcement of a Spring Opening but a great deal of time will be given to the announcements of the local individual stores that are participating.

The committee in charge of the event consists of Mr. Robinson, chairman; R. J. Slattery, Arthur Huttman, Arthur Yarkin, Miss Ethel Anderson, Earl G. Seaman, Julius Fradin, Herbert Swanson, A. Leroy Stoumb and E. J. McCabe.

TOWN SAVES $192.94

BY 2D CLASS MAILING

Sends Out Personal Tax Bills In Open-end Envelopes—9,647 of Them Go Out.

Town Tax Collector George H. Howe mailed the 9,647 personal tax bills last night, ten days in advance of the legal date of payment, April 1. The mail shipment weighed 101 pounds and the cost of mailing, under special permit at one cent each is $96.47. The bills were sent out last year at the full first class postage rate, but the use of open-end envelopes this year will permit a saving to the town of $192.94 in postage. The property tax bills, due to the fact that they do not come under the same postal classification, are mailed as first-class matter.

The personal tax bills have been numbered this year which will aid in the service at the tax collector's window in the event of duplication of names.

FIREMEN HAVE LONG

RUN TO McLEAN HILL

Two Companies Respond To Box 7 Alarm To Put Out a Chimney Fire.

The South Manchester Fire Department answered an unusually long range district call at 5:20 yesterday afternoon for a chimney fire at the home of Arthur C. Woodruff on McLean Hill. Companies Number 1 and 2 responded to a box alarm from Box 7.

The box is located near the Laurel Park trolley switch, one of the most distant in the district. It was a long, cold ride for the firemen, many of whom jumped aboard the trucks without taking time to put on overcoats. The fire was not serious and was put out with chemicals.

MANCHESTER GRANGE

Manchester Grange members enjoyed the first edition of its mythical newspaper, "The Uplift", at the regular meeting last night in Old Fellows hall. Everybody on the staff made a special effort to put over his or her particular department or column in a big way and a lot of fun was the result.

George L. Spaulding, a member of the East Windsor Grange, was present and gave an account of Porto Rico where he and Mrs. Spaulding lived for some time, especially stressing the agricultural methods and the implements used by the natives.

Manchester Grange is preparing to admit into its membership next month one of the largest classes initiated at any time in its history.
