W. George Glenney Named As President, C. R. Burr As Vice-President—Detail Work Prevents Possibility of Being Ready for Business Tomorrow.

Organization of the new Manchester Trust Company, which has been authorized to absorb the institution closed as a result of the National bank holiday, was perfected last night when the stockholders named a new board of directors who in turn named a new set of officers. With the personnel of the institution named the next move to complete the reorganization is the opening of the bank for business. It was impossible this afternoon to state

W. George Glenney, treasurer of the W. C. Glenney Company and a lumber dealer, was named president of the new corporation. Mr. Glenney, who is a member of the Board of Selectmen, has been a member of the board of the old bank. He was elected to the old board two years ago. Mr. Glenney succeeds R. LaMotte Russell, who could not continue as president of the new institution because of new legislation that prohibits interlocking officers between financial firms. Mr. Russell is treasurer of the Savings Bank and will continue in that capacity devoting his entire time to that bank.

Mr. Burr who is a local Police Commissioner has also served on the board of the old company two years. He succeeds William C. Cheney, who did not wish to continue as an officer of the bank. He asked especially that he be not considered as an officer.

Harold C. Alvord, who has been secretary-treasurer of the former company, will hold the same position with the new firm. He has had a long period of training in banking and is well fitted to manage the affairs of the new company known to all customers of the Trust Company.

RUTH BRYAN OWEN FOR DANISH POST

Observers At Washington Believe She Will Get the Ambassador Appointment.

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—An officialdom with a month's experience in saying "Madam Secretary" now appears likely to have to learn another feminine title, "Madame Minister."

The holder of this title would be the distinguished Ruth Bryan Owen, former Representative from Florida about whom many appointment rumors have been flying.

Mrs. Owen's visits to State Department officials, reportedly concerned with an assistant secretaryship, are now definitely known to have been in connection with the diplomatic post for which she was first mentioned—Minister to Denmark.

The appointment which seems imminent would make her the first American woman diplomat to a foreign nation. Washington now calls Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, "Madame Secretary."

The first published portents that Mrs. Owen's selection was contemplated by President Roosevelt aroused much favorable comment in the Danish press.

PRESIDENT SIGNS EMPLOYMENT BILL

Within Two Weeks Advance Guard of 250,000 Will Be Working In Forests.

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today made his forest conservation employment program law by signing the bill, while his aides rushed to make ready for enlisting thousands from the cities going to the work.

He directed the Department of Labor to supervise enrollment of the idle, making plain that he had in mind selection of men who went to the metropolitan centers during boom days now to carry out the task of putting the many waterways of the nation again in condition to produce timber and guard against floods.

This first point of his emergency relief program was authorized yesterday by Congress. At the request of some of those who sponsor the legislation, he deferred signing of the bill until today.

BOYCOTT AGAINST JEWS IN GERMANY CONTINUES

Reports From U. S. That It Has Been Called Off Seems Only To Add Fuel To the Fire.

Berlin, March 31.—(AP)—Reports from the United States that Chancellor Hitler's Nazi party might be persuaded at the last minute to refrain from launching a dramatic economic war on the Jews, seemed only to add fuel to the fire today.

A new proclamation signed by the Nazis at the beginning of a war on the entire Jewish race of the world, a party declaration said it will be fought "until victory is ours."

The Jews, their backs to the wall, as their last appeals for mercy fell on deaf ears, have visualized their financial ruin and ultimate isolation from German cities and towns.

BEER TO BE SOLD AT ALL ARMY POSTS

Bat Not On U. S. Warships Because of Limited Space For Carrying Cargo.

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was said today in high quarters to have decided that sale of the new 3½ beer should be allowed in Army posts and Naval stores and canteens in states which allow such sales.

It was indicated, however, that because of the limited space for the carrying of cargo aboard naval vessels for transport, the beverage would not be sold on Navy ships. There would be no discrimination between the crew and officers.

JAPS MAY ADVANCE INTO NORTH CHINA

General Koiso Says It Is Impossible To Ignore Challenges of the Chinese.

(Copyright 1933 by AP) Changchun, Manchuria, March 31.—(AP)—Lieut. General Kuni-aki Koiso, chief of staff of the Japanese army in Manchuria and reputed "brains" of the Jehol campaign, told the Associated Press today that continuing sporadic Chinese attacks along the Great Wall of China were only retreating in a vain effort to make wholesale sacrifices of lives and may bring on an extension of the Japanese occupation into North China proper.

It is impossible to ignore such challenges. But at the same time we must consider the international factors involved in the possible occupation of China, as well as the risk to lives of Japanese, Manchurians, and peaceful Chinese residents at the old capital.

COLLEGE ATHLETE BATTLES CROOKS

Robbed and Beaten He Leads Police To "Clip Joint" Where Men Are Captured.

New York, March 31.—(AP)—The 1932 captain of the Harvard basketball team, Thomas E. Armstrong of Dallas, Tex., was back in bed today to nurse the wounds that came out of a battle between himself and what police called a "clip joint."

The alleged "clip joint" is no more. It's three alleged operators are in jail, also nursing wounds. Armstrong got up out of his sick bed early yesterday morning to lead his cousin and friend, one of them the father of a Harvard student, into the place and to help them subdue and capture the occupants.

It all started Wednesday night when the athlete started for a bus to go to Washington. He had time to spare, so his "friendly" taxi driver suggested that he could get some of the new beer at a place near the bus terminal.

He was taken to a basement speakeasy in Hell's Kitchen on West 43rd street. Then, as he alleged, his troubles began. He said he was robbed of his money, forced to sign a check for $2,000 and finally taken under guard to the St. Regis, where he had been staying with his cousin and friend.

Prisoners taken from the place and identified by Armstrong gave their names as Joseph Blum, 32, Jack Mason, 29, and Bernardo Rivera, 31. Blum and Mason were held without bail. Rivera was held in bail of $1,000.

Landowners in that town recently turned over the fishing rights in the stream to the State Board of Fisheries and Game under the one dollar a year lease. It is provided, however, that none but the fair sex may apply for the job.

The competition who plan to compete tomorrow are Mrs. Frank G. Saxe of Branford, Mrs. Jessie Hutchins of Windsor Locks, Miss Lela A. Brown of North Branford, Mrs. M. C. White of North Branford, Mrs. H. A. Hill of Branford, Mrs. Florence C. Smith of North Branford, Mrs. C. E. Smith of North Branford, and Mrs. E. C. Smith of North Branford.

STATE COMMISSION FOR RUM CONTROL MAKES ITS REPORT

do away with the "swinging doors" of the former saloon. The proposal provides that "taverns are not to be screened from the street. Premises wherein alcoholic liquor is sold under a tavern permit shall not be so obstructed as to prevent a full view of the interior."
A club is defined as "an association of persons, whether incorporated or unincorporated, for the promotion of some common object, or the owning, hiring or leasing of a building, or space in a building, of such an extent and character in the judgment of the commission may be suitable and adequate for the reasonable use of the premises."

Commissioner's Letter

Hartford, March 31.—(AP)—The letter of transmittal from the special commission, which Governor Cross received today with the proposed state liquor control act reads as follows:
"To His Excellency, Governor Wilbur L. Cross:
"The commission which you recently appointed pursuant to Chapter 15 of the Special Acts of 1933, for the purpose of recommending legislation to become effective in the event of the repeal of the 1821 Amendment to the Federal Constitution or the modification of the Volstead Act, has completed its task and hands you herewith a draft of a proposed statute. This statute is intended primarily to cover the situation following the repeal of the amendment but it is also designed to effectively control the manufacture and sale of beer, lager, ale, and wine under the recent act of Congress. If it is adopted by the Legislature for this latter purpose as well as for the former, naturally any reference thereon to spirituous liquors, such as whiskey, rum, brandy and gin, and to fortified wines must be understood to relate to such time as these liquors may be lawfully dealt in."
"The statute provides in substance as follows:
1—The control of the manufacture and sale in Connecticut of alcoholic liquor shall be in a commission of three persons to be appointed by the governor, no more than two of whom shall be of the same political party. The commission may adopt all regulations necessary to carry out its duty.
2—Each town shall have the right to vote on the question of permit or no permit.
3—There shall be the following classes of permits: Manufacturer, wholesaler, package stores, hotel, restaurant, club, tavern, railroad and boat permits shall liquor be sold to be drunk on the premises and this shall be confined to beer and wine with meals. The tavern permit shall allow the sale of beer only with or without lunches. Spirituous liquors shall be sold to the public only by package stores.

Personal Permits
4—Personal permits only shall be issued and if a permit is revoked for any reason the premises where the business was carried on cannot be used again for the sale of liquor for one year.
5—No permit of one class shall have a permit of another class or have any interest therein.
6—Annual fees for permits shall be as follows: Manufacturer, $1,000; wholesaler, $500; package stores, $200; hotels, $200; restaurant, $200; club, $200; tavern, $50; railroad, $50; boat, $50; drugist, $50.
7—A tax by the state on the several classes of permits shall be as follows: A gross sales tax, on retail sales at five per cent and on wholesale at 1 1/2 per cent.
8—Penalties designed to strictly enforce the law, many of which and the acts forbidden being taken from the Connecticut statutes in force in 1919.
The act is predicted upon the principle of the sale of alcoholic liquor under such regulations as to prevent the sale and consumption becoming a public nuisance.
Date of Proclamation Under the terms of the bill, the probability arose that sale of 2.5 per cent beer and wine as allowed under modification of the Volstead act beginning April 7, will be outlawed in this state until the regulatory machinery proposed by the commissioner's bill can be set up. The governor is given power to determine the date by proclamation, beer and wine are illegal as soon as the act is passed and until he does so.

A tax of five per cent of the gross receipts of retailers and of 1.5 per cent of the gross receipts of wholesale businesses is provided, in addition to all other taxes and fees with the exception of the corporation net income tax.
The distribution in liquor, according to the act, will be under the supervision of a commission of three appointed by the governor, not more than two to be of one political party, and to serve for two, four and six year periods. The salary of the commissioners are to be determined by the state board of finance and control.
The commission, under the act, is authorized to issue regulations.
The act provides that the regulation and sale of liquor will be under a system of permits, no licenses, to eliminate complaints resulting from claimed property rights. Permits are to be personal, none to be given to corporations, partnerships, or legal entities, except railroads.
These latter interests, according to the act, are to be permitted to select the individual approved for the permit. Thus, the act provides that the individual will be fully responsible for the sale of liquor under the permit and in the event of a violation of the law, or the regulations of the commission under the provisions of the law, the permit will be immediately terminated and the individual will be forever barred from obtaining another. In the event of such a violation, the legal entity, or "backer" of the permit is barred from selecting any other permittee, or sell liquor, on the premises for a period of one year.
No Appeal Allowed
When the permittee is designated, the act provides he shall "make application to the commission, the application to be accompanied by a surety bond of $1,000. No appeal may be taken from the action of the commission in revoking the permit.
In the event of a second denial, the petitioner has the right of appeal to the Superior Court.
The permits require a definite fee for each type of permit, which is $1,000 for manufacturers, $500 for wholesalers, $200 for hotels, restaurants, clubs and package stores, and $50 for taverns, railroads, boats and drugists.
Under the permits manufacturers are permitted to sell to permit holders in Connecticut and wholesalers may sell to permit holders only. Under the permits to be granted to hotels, beer and wine may be served with meals only and hotels may not sell any other type of liquor to be consumed on the premises in the public dining room.
Under permits for restaurants, beer and wine only may be sold either in bottles or in glasses to be consumed on the premises with meals. The tavern permits allow beer only to be sold without meals, but the act does provide that lunches may be sold with beer. The act does not preclude bars in taverns and in fact in no instance in the act are mentioned. The drinking of hard liquor in taverns is not permitted even though if not sold by the holder of the tavern permit.

Club Permits
Under a club permit, wine and beer only may be served with meals on the premises and no other form of liquor may be sold. There is no provision, however, in the act which prohibits public drinking of liquor in the club. Package stores permit to allow the sale of all liquors in package forms in containers of not less than one quart capacity with the exception of beer, the liquor not to be drunk on the premises.
The railroad permits allow the sale of beer and wine with meals in dining cars. This provision does not apply to restaurants in railroad stations, clubs and package stores.
Boat permits are granted for any boats carrying passengers within the jurisdiction of the state of Connecticut and allow the sale of beer and wine to be consumed with meals.
Drugist Permits
Drugist permits allow the sale of liquors only on prescription, except that wholesale drugists may be permitted to sell alcohol. There is to be no limit to the number of permits to be granted under any plan, these permits to be based on the qualifications of the applicant, the location with regard to city ordinances, and with particular reference to the location of a place of business.
The act provides, when effective, liquor may be sold under permits in any town in Connecticut regardless of whether the town was a so-called "license" town prior to the advent of prohibition. It provides that at the next annual or biennial meeting, on the filing of a proper petition towns may vote on the question of whether liquor will or will not be sold on permits in those towns. The date for the act to become effective is dependent upon repeal of the 18th amendment and when the act is signed by the governor, except with regard to beer and wine.
IN THE ASSEMBLY
Hartford, March 31.—(AP)—With the Legislature's interest centered almost entirely upon the liquor control study commission report, both Houses of the legislature held routine sessions today acting on only matters of minor interest.
The liquor commission was brought into the Senate as the first item of business, together with a letter of transmittal from the governor. It was referred to the judicial committee, with discussion and sent to the House under suspension of the rules where similar action was taken. In the House it was announced a hearing would be held Tuesday.

Members of both Houses appeared more interested in the hurriedly printed 47 page pamphlet containing the liquor commission report than in the proceedings.
Prayers Offered
The House offered a silent prayer for Rep. George W. Hanbury, Representative from Newington who was reported critically ill in his home. A report of Mr. Hanbury's death was received at the Capitol a short time later. He had served in three previous sessions of the Legislature.
The only discussion came in the House when several members debated a bill regarding the right of the first electors of Monroe to break a tie vote in the board of education.
The Senate which has no business started for action on the calendar, heard a short list of committee reports and adjourned within less than a half hour.
Both Houses adopted under suspension of the rules a bill providing for the payment of $180, the remainder of the salary of Rep. Stephen L. Radford of Greenwich who died last week to his widow, Mrs. Betty Russell Radford. The general Assembly had previously adopted a bill providing that no special session be called to fill the vacancy.
Another bill adopted by both Houses under suspension authorized New Britain to issue tax anticipation notes to taxpayers and permit them to use the notes in payment of taxes.

"In England, we have no lady professionals, and I suppose that explains everything."
She thinks too much golf is "apt to destroy femininity, a desirable quality."
"Women athletes who are rather keen on sports all the time, lose that cheery spark," Miss Fishwick believes. "It is much more fun to play leisurely, and not take games too seriously."

WOMEN NEVER WILL BE EQUALS OF MEN IN FIELD OF SPORTS

Philadelphia, March 29.—(AP)—The Babe Diricksons and Helen Wills Moody notwithstanding, women never will equal the sports achievements of men, says Diana Fishwick, 22-year-old former British women's golf champion.

Threatened With Whitewash

A storm of protest by Detroit churchmen and civic leaders is whirling about this mural, painted by Diego Rivera, Mexican artist. The mural is one of several in the Detroit Institute of Arts, done by Rivera on commission from Edsel Ford. Churchmen complain that the "whitewash" fresco is "a caricature of the Holy Family," painting to the suggestion of a halo about the head of the nurse. Rivera is defended by art critics, who hope to prevent a threatened coat of whitewash being ordered by the city council.

TO ADVANCE MILK PRICE TOMORROW

Milk dealers in Manchester will advance the price of milk one cent tomorrow, it was announced today, the increase being due to a conference of the C. M. P. A. sales committee and the Dealers' conference committee.
Everyone concerned has agreed that the March milk price, with a basis fluid rate of the farmer of 4 1/2 cents was too low, but that without that drastic drop affecting farmers and dealers alike, the co-operative action now taken to place the industry on a sound basis could not have been brought about. The March milk price was compared to the bank holiday in financial circles, bringing realization of the industry's difficulties home to all concerned.
Many farmers have been outspoken in their statements that the March price would not cover their cost of production, and some of the dealers have found the cut they took threatening to their business.
The Connecticut milk producers, it was brought out, have high standards of sanitation and care in the handling of milk to meet, and when the price is high enough to yield an adequate return to carry out the regulations of the health authorities.
Those concerned with public health have feared, it was said, lest with the extremely low price farmers would be unable or unwilling to maintain standards.
An increase in the price, although less than the producers have been asking, was called a step in the direction of a market high enough to insure an adequate and satisfactory milk supply for the future.

Four eggs
2 tablespoons minute tapioca
3-4 cup milk
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons butter.
Add salt and tapioca to milk and cook in double boiler for 15 minutes. Remove from heat and add yolks of eggs, beaten until thick and lemon colored. Fold in whites of eggs, beaten until stiff and dry. Melt 1 teaspoon butter in hot omelet pan or iron frying pan. Be sure the pan is completely coated with butter. Four omelet mixture in hot pan and cook over a low fire until well puffed. Then place on the center grate of a hot oven to finish cooking the top. When firm to the touch the omelet is done. If it clings to the fingers like the beaten white of egg when it is touched, it is not done. Needs longer cooking. When done, hold the pan by the handle and make a shallow cut with spatula through the center at right angles to the handle. Run spatula around edges to be sure they are free from the pan. Place spatula under section of omelet nearest handle and fold over other half, tipping pan at the same time and sliding to a hot platter.

Neat Trick
Thought for spring cleaning: A coat of white paint on the bed springs does away with those rust spots on mattress and bedding.

Take a Tonic
Spring dresses are a tonic this year. Some really are little silk suits, with blouses of organdy or other sheer materials that show only as collars or bows or jabots until the pocket is removed. Pastel colored frocks are numerous, and they're excellent for wear under spring coats, keeping you in a "dressed-up" mood.

Hairbows and bands are popular again. It's an Alice in Wonderland revival. For grown-ups as well as youngsters, Hale's has more ribbon hair-bands, elastic at back, with bows—all colors—at 10c each.

Just Salt
Egg tarnish can be removed from table silver by rubbing it with moist table salt.

A new print frock to go under your coat for Easter will be doubly attractive if you select your print at Cheney Hall Seashore where the utterly lovely 1833 prints—hundreds to choose from—are being sold to discriminating women who want style and quality. Think of it... Cheney prints as low as $1.00 per yard—truly a bargain.

A Question of Size
So many young married couples live in apartment today, that it's well to remember this fact when selecting wedding gifts. Lamps are always welcome, but don't give big ones. Huge floor and piano lamps have no place in the small apartment. Odd bowls, flower vases and fruit dishes are apt to be a nuisance, and enormous pictures and paintings simply won't fit anywhere. A safe bet is to stick to linen, silver and articles that are useful but take up little room.

Popular Dress Shop, State Theater Building, is showing the newest fashions in Spring coats, dresses, suits and millinery, specializing in silk dresses, $2.88; Spring coats, $5.95; suits, $3.88 up; hats, $1.00 up; everything's cash and carry, so you pay less. Amanda Kohls, Manager.

Grapefruit Delight

The newest culinary wrinkle is fruit-flavored gelatin which dissolves quickly and completely in water only slightly hotter than lukewarm. It sets more quickly and can go right into your refrigerator. None of the true fruit flavor is carried off by the steam of boiling water. Try this simple, refreshing gelatin dessert.

Disolve gelatin in warm water. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in grapefruit. Turn into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold.

The final game tonight will be one arranged by the Eagles and will begin as soon as the North Ends-Fillers game is finished.
Attention is called to the period for the Orioles tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock.

"The Wet Parade" group held their final social of the season last night in the downstairs parlor. The Contract Bridge group had their training class in the Ladies Parlor so not many corners of the building were idle during the evening.
The Oxfords won another game last night when they defeated the East Sides: 23 to 14. The Oxfords have had a good season and should be about ready to quit.
Another interesting feature to night will be a Ping Pong match between four Y. C. A. players and four from the Masonic Lodge. The team is composed of Earle Clarke, Arthur Korch, James August and Mike Switka. The Masonic team is headed by Mr. Little. These games will begin at 7:30.

FARM BILL PLACED BEFORE ROOSEVELT
Senate Committee Is Unable To Argue On Some of Its Provisions.

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today took to his own hands the administration farm bill, summoning to a conference the members of the Senate agriculture committee after they had failed to agree among themselves on what to do with the bill. The Senators had voted to have Chairman Smith (D, S. C.), call on the President and ask him if he would approve some changes made by the committee in the administration bill, but when efforts were made to make the appointment for Smith, Mr. Roosevelt sent back word he would like to have the whole committee come to the White House this afternoon.

Already opponents of the bill on the committee have admitted privately that they did not have the strength to rewrite it thoroughly, as they wished, but there remained a number of changes which had been voted into the measure. They sought to get a decision on these from Mr. Roosevelt. Pending the conference they abandoned the closed session study of the bill.

Some Opposition
One of the things members wanted to discuss with President Roosevelt was the determined opposition of the cattle and sheep industry to being included in the bill, and what he thinks of the addition yesterday by the committee of tax and neutral to the commodities included and elimination of a section authorizing Secretary Wallace to consider the effect of the proposed processing tax on unemployment, wage scales and consumption.
Prior to the decision to take the bill to the President, the committee had by unanimous vote of the 16 members present, decided to include in its report on the bill a recommendation for the expansion of the currency, on a motion of Senator Thomas (D, Okla.).
Thomas was authorized to prepare this recommendation and told newspapermen the report would say "no other legislation will do much good until the dollar is cheapened and will be only temporary and makeshift."
The Oklahoman added the report would cite that deflationary policies of the last decade were responsible for low prices and that currency expansion would be the reverse of this policy and lead to higher prices.

ROOSEVELT NAMES IMMIGRATION HEAD
Daniel W. MacCormack, of New York, Came Here Himself As Immigrant.

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today nominated Harry H. Woodring, former governor of Kansas, to be assistant secretary of war.
The President also named Daniel W. MacCormack, of New York, to be commissioner general of immigration in the Labor Department.
New York, March 31.—(AP)—Daniel William MacCormack, appointed by President Roosevelt today as commissioner general of immigration in the Labor Department, came to this country himself as an immigrant.
He was born in Scotland 52 years ago and was brought here by his parents at the age of nine. He received his education in Boston, Mass., Aberdeen, Scotland, and Montreal, Canada.
In 1920 he married Mary Hyde, daughter of Dr. Christopher Seymour, of New York City. He had army training and was with the Panama Canal organization for several years. During the World War he was a colonel in the Army Transportation Corps serving as assistant executive officer of the Army transport service, Port of New York. He was executive officer of the Shipping Board Commission and general inspector in charge of reorganization of the army transport service in France. He is a banker and has served on numerous official missions.

PETITION PROTESTS SOVIET RECOGNITION
Over 600,000 Signatures From Massachusetts—Petition Is Handed To The President.

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—A petition signed by 673,588 Massachusetts residents protesting recognition of Soviet Russia was handed President Roosevelt today by Senators Walsh and Coolidge of Massachusetts.
The text of the petition follows:
"We, the undersigned, citizens of Massachusetts, protest against the recognition of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics for the following reasons:
"The avowed purpose of the Communist Party governing Soviet Russia is the overthrow of our government and American institutions by force and violence.
"Under diplomatic immunity the United States would be overrun with Bolsheviks, spreading propaganda.
"Our last four administrations have refused to recognize the anti-God Soviet tyranny which enslaves the Russian people.
"The American Federation of Labor has gone on record against the recognition of the present Soviet government.
"As American citizens we cannot, without protest, allow the President of the United States to recognize a government, which is openly and secretly plotting to overthrow our government by force, and substitute a dictatorship of the proletariat, and a world union of Soviet Republics."

LIGGETT COMPANY IN BANKRUPTCY
Owes 450 Retail Drug Stores In 35 States; Says It Is Unable To Keep Up.

New York, March 31.—(AP)—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in Federal Court today on behalf of the Lewis E. Liggett Company, 41 East 42nd street, which operates a chain of 450 retail drug stores in 35 states.
The petition was filed pursuant to a resolution of the board of directors adopted at 4 p. m., yesterday, which sets forth that the corporation is unable to pay its debts in full and authorizes its officers to execute and file a bankruptcy petition. W. E. Watt, vice president, signed the petition.
Federal Judge John C. Knox, before the petition was filed, signed an order authorizing its presentation to the court in compliance with a court rule requiring an affidavit containing a description of assets, with their locations, together with a list of creditors and their addresses.
Schedules of liabilities and assets, it was said, will be filed within a few days.
In a statement explaining the action, the Liggett Company said that like all retail business concerns it has suffered serious declines in volume for the last three years. The statement continued:
"This has been reflected in its sales to the extent that its volume is more than thirty per cent below the sales volume of 1929. The management has done everything in its power to reduce expenses and to cope with the progressive loss in volume and consequent loss of earnings. The salaries of management and employees have been successively reduced to a point beyond which further reductions cannot be made."
During this period the company's largest expense item has been rent and every effort has been made to secure a rent reduction. In addition the company has had nearly one thousand sub-tenants who leased from it such part of leased locations as were not needed by the company for its retail stores.

"More than one-half of these sub-tenants have gotten into financial difficulties which have resulted in default, abandonments and forced readjustments of rent. Under these conditions the losses of the company have been so great that it could no longer continue."

WORLD-WIDE HUNT FOR HIDDEN GOLD

Frantic Search Reveals New Sources of Precious Metal.

By WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Writer

Today a hundred million Americans have suddenly become gold-conscious.

And no wonder, for they have found that even those who have never held a gold coin in their hands are vitally affected by gold.

Some 44 countries have gone off the gold standard. Yet gold, in spite of this official snubbing, seems more rather than less important. It clings to man and his affairs as though it were an integral part of both, and even Russia, aiming to ignore traditional money and economic policies, is engaged in a frantic search to uncover more gold.

Gold, turned out of the legislative door, climbs back in through the window of human feeling built up by 5,000 years of history.

First Metal Known

The first metal known to savage man was gold. He found it, he liked its weight, its glitter, its workability. Before he learned to use iron or bronze, he was adorning stone implements with gold; it was so soft he could beat it into place with another stone. Later man prized this really useless metal just as highly. It did not tarnish. It could easily be hammered into sheets or drawn into wire.

It was found everywhere in the world literally, yet it was rare enough to be prized for its rarity. Even before coinage, gold was prized for its rarity. Even before coinage, gold was prized for itself, and today people covet gold which do not coin gold prize it and like to keep it near them in personal ornaments and art objects.

Earliest civilizations prized gold, and Tutank-Amen in his golden coffin, a kingly crown, a turban, and his withered brow, tells a silent story today. Phoenicians worked the sands of Spain, and Persia's Darius piled up hoards of gold for conquering Alexander to loot and fling about the east with prodigal hands.

Golden Rome

Rome, conqueror and civilization of the ancient world, was built on gold it brought home with its armies from conquest. And that empire did not fall until its gold began to trickle back to the east to exchange for luxuries. When Alaric sacked Rome, for the only time in history a great stock of gold disappeared, utterly and without a trace. For gold, once mined, disappears usually but slowly, wearing away imperceptibly with handling. In this case a great stock disappeared as though swallowed up in the earth, as perhaps it was.

When Columbus discovered America, it is estimated that only $150,000,000 worth of gold existed in Europe—a little more than was returned to Federal Reserve vaults by American citizens in the past two weeks when the government beckoned. The Spanish urge to new gold was greed, perhaps, but Europe's expanding trade badly needed gold then.

Cortez looted defenseless Mexico, and Pizarro's carts lumbered to Cartagena with all the Inca gold they could carry. And the Spanish galleons that carried Central American gold to Europe were building the foundations of Spain as a great power, and even of all modern Europe. Pirates ranged the Spanish Main to capture that gold, and dark and bloody deeds were done for its sake.

Oldest Bank

Then England, short on gold itself, devised the scheme on which today's business rests. As the eighteenth century opened, she devised the Bank of England on the principle of paper money issued against gold, but not dollar for dollar. Gold for the first time became more than mere money. It became a base for credit.

That is what it is today, and even as a base, there is not nearly enough of it, though there is more than there ever was before.

Gold has no price, for all other values are reckoned in relation to it. Even countries which are off the gold standard, and who do not base money on gold, are forced to measure it against this standard in international dealings. So, while it has no price, gold is dear today. All other money, all other things, may be had for less gold than before. So you may say that gold is dear.

As a result, people rush to produce more of it. Old mines which were not worth working a few years ago have become worth working because gold is dear. Production in every field is increasing, and a new high mark for world production in 1932 of about $475,000,000 is expected to be set.

Throughout the fields of Colorado, Nevada, California, Alaska, where the prospectors of '49 once panned yellow flakes, a new army of prospectors is searching. California considers a plan to train thousands of unemployed men to pan for gold. Even if they panned only 40 cents a day, as was the 1932 average, millions have been added to the gold stocks of the world. A great strike is reported in the Baguio district of the Philippines. Alaskan production spurts in response to the demand, and in Canada, hundreds go by river and even airplane to increase the world's supply. Sweden, short of gold, uncovered a huge deposit of it there.

For 18 months a strange thing has been happening in London. Gold has been coming there from India. Not new-mined gold, but gold which had been made into the beautiful heirloom jewelry of the east, lured from humble owners by the high price of gold. In that 18 months, the London firm of Mowatt and Goldmid estimates that $400,000,000 in Indian gold has thus come out of private use as jewelry into the money market, to be turned into coinage. That is more than the fabulous mines of the South African Rand or the Canadian mines yielded in 1932. Much of this Indian gold is finding its way to the United States and into the Federal Reserve banks.

The gold theory is that pieces of commodities in the world depend on the supply of gold. That, though there is more gold than ever before, the low price of commodities proves that there is not really enough. That the world may be saved from its present low estate by the rising flood of gold which men are everywhere working feverishly to wrench from the earth and put to work in the channels of the world's trade.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Philadelphia—For 18 years Mrs. Terrence Mooney believed her sister perished on the steamship Lusitania, a victim of submarine warfare. She almost fainted from the shock of seeing the sister, Mrs. Mary Thompson, standing in her doorway.

Mrs. Thompson said a letter she wrote saying she had cancelled her passage on the ill-fated ship at the last minute must have miscarried. A dinner was served, and officers to serve for the coming year were elected and installed. Mrs. Robert E. Brown of Westchester was elected and installed vice-president of the organization. Wooster Lodge was represented by Miss Hilding, Mrs. William O. Seyms and Mrs. John H. Kelly.

A minstrel show will be presented at the town hall, Hebron Green, Friday evening, by members of the Congregational Sunday school. Popular prices, with reductions for juveniles are asked. Proceeds will be for the Sunday school. Rehearsals have been held every evening this week.

OPEN FORUM

INDEPENDENT DEALERS

Editor The Herald:

We are told, and it is undoubtedly true that the Federal Reserve banking law saved our country from bankruptcy. But, there is another factor that has helped largely in the saving of the country that is never mentioned in the press—the part the independent merchant has taken. This is an age of figures. In fact we are fed with a bewildering array of figures telling us of the cost of living, the cost of taxes, the cost of government. It would be most interesting to know just how many millions of dollars this nation owes to its independent merchants. Perhaps the main reason why he does not receive his due share of credit for what he has done, and is doing, is that everyone expects him to do it.

Our own town offers a shining example. It would be conservative to say that our local dealers are carrying accounts amounting to more than fifty thousand dollars that rightly belong on the shoulders of the town.

As to their part in our local banking situation it is safe to say that almost everyone of them do their banking locally. In a very able and interesting article on banking, in the current issue of the New Outlook, the writer brings out the point that one of the main reasons why small town banks are in a weakened condition is because the chain organizations do not bank locally, but send their receipts to their headquarters in the larger cities. Isn't it very probable that our own money shortage wouldn't be quite so acute if it were not for this continual drain?

Considering the burdens that local dealers are carrying just now, I believe that they are morally entitled to all of the town's charity accounts. This method is being carried out in New Britain, and I can see no reason why it should not be adopted here.

I hope that in this general awakening that is taking place everywhere, that our country among other things will come to a realization of just what the independent dealer has done to save it from bankruptcy.

THEATER PRICES

Editor The Herald:

It is surprising to me and all to whom I have talked to, why the theater prices in this town are the same as they were when times were booming. The theater owners will probably tell you that they are giving the best for the money spent. This might be very true, if good times were here as before. Nevertheless, depression has hit this town with severe force. The public has learned through the results of the present depression that wages as well as prices have come down considerably. It seems to me that the theater owners who hold a monopoly on theater rights in town, think that the public here, will tolerate anything. It is certainly a shame how they have lowered their prices in their State theater in Hartford, which has practically the same programs as that of the theater in this town, one time or another. Shouldn't the people in this town get what the Hartford people are getting?

Hoping that the theater owners in this town will appreciate Manchester's money as well as Hartford's money,

I remain,

INTERESTED.

FRIDAY, MARCH 31.

PRESCRIPTION LIQUOR

Passage of the Copeland bill restoring the right of physicians to prescribe liquor on the basis of pre-prohibition regulation, which passed the Senate in ten minutes on Wednesday and was approved by the House yesterday, is in some ways quite as important a modification of Volsteadism as that wrought by the adoption of the beer bill. It does away altogether with the utterly tyrannical and unreasonable restrictions placed upon physicians and their patients by Volstead fanaticism.

If Congress, dry controlled as it was for years, had had the vision to comprehend the effects of its own acts it would long ago have liberalized the regulations concerning medicinal liquor; because a very considerable part of the reaction against prohibition was induced by the operation of those laws. Thousands upon thousands of converts to the wet cause have been made by the spitefully oppressive limitations imposed on the use of alcoholic liquors in medical practice.

Under the changed conditions created with so little public notice the expensive nuisance of federal prescription blanks will be done away with, it being merely necessary to authenticate each prescription by means of a government stamp. The amount of liquor to be prescribed and supplied to a patient will be regulated by the professional conscience of the doctor, the only limitation being provided by the condition that it shall be "no more than is necessary to supply his medical needs."

The extent of the revolution in Congressional sentiment on the subject of prohibitory laws is demonstrated by the speed with which the Senate disposed of the Copeland bill. It was passed, with three, minor amendments, so quickly that when the slow moving Senator Sheppard of Texas, father of prohibition and the only really resolute remaining dry in the Senate, got ready to oppose the measure he found that it had already been adopted.

UTILITIES REPORT

It is a question whether the best of judgment was displayed by the Republican leaders in the Connecticut Legislature in permitting the public utilities bills to remain, as the Democrats desire them to be, a party issue. In deciding upon an adverse report on Governor Cross' two utilities measures, with the expected alignment of the parties for and against the report, the Judiciary Committee will have left in the hands of Connecticut Democrats the one weapon of any importance with which they could have been armed in 1934. It is not exactly a feeble weapon.

Not that it was necessary to accept Governor Cross' bills at their face value or anywhere near it. But the inference in a flat rejection of those measures without the suggestion of a substitute of any sort is that the Republican party in this state is completely satisfied with the utilities laws as they stand. If that is a safe position to take in a period like this, when the whole country is seething with political revolt against the old order of things, we miss a guess.

Sheerly as a matter of party strategy it would seem to have been the part of wisdom to have refrained from treating in such a cavalier manner the one issue which, it is to be suspected, made Dr. Cross governor of Connecticut last year. And which, by the same token, is quite sure to form the backbone of the Democrats' next state campaign. However, it seems to us, that there have been played by party leaders in the proposed to appoint a committee for study of the entire utilities control problem for port to the next General Assembly. That would have removed the issue from the next state campaign and at the same time would have left the Republican party's hands free to deal with the problem as it saw fit when the time arrived.

BANK REOPENING

It should be clear now to even the most pessimistic that the re-organization of Manchester's one commercial bank has taken the last of its hurdles and that the reopening of the bank within a very few days is as good as an accomplished fact. That it was not open today is due only to the fact that the task of transferring the assets of the old organization to the possession of the new one, a job that has to be done by the state banking department, is one entailing a tremendous amount of detail every item of which must be examined and completed without chance of error. Time becomes an essential factor in such operations.

Bank Commissioner Bassett and his assistants are as anxious to get the Trust Company open and doing business as anybody in Manchester. They are exerting themselves to the utmost. There will be no further delay beyond that demanded by the completely technical operations involved.

We have been a long time without banking facilities. There have been periods of uncertainty as to whether we might or might not have to do without them for a rather considerable time. That uncertainty is over. The bank will be open almost at once.

It will be as invulnerably strong as a bank can be. Not a chance in the world is being taken by either federal or state authorities, nowadays, of a reopened bank falling short of absolute strength.

If we have to wait a day longer—or two or three or four—what of it? The big thing is that the ship is rebuilt and rigged and ready to launch as soon as the last halyard is bent. At high tide she will slide down the ways. Then the cheers!

ALL-NATIONAL BANKS

Sudden, unexpected light has been thrown upon the possible future course of the country with relation to a permanent banking system by an announcement just made at Washington. It is to the effect that Walter Wyatt, chief counsel of the Federal Reserve Board, has delivered the opinion that the federal government, through Congress, has the constitutional power to do away with the state banking system and compel the establishment of a unified system under federal control.

This is a subject over which there has been much controversy, but Mr. Wyatt not only declares that such action could be taken but points out the way. Most important of the steps he suggests would be the imposition of a prohibitive tax on all checks drawn on banks not organized under the laws of the United States.

An almost parallel action to this which already has stood the test of Supreme Court consideration was the device by which the state banks were deprived of the privilege of issuing their own currency. That was in 1866 when state bank notes had become an intolerable nuisance because when a bank collapsed its money became worthless and the people were continually finding themselves in possession of currency of no value. Finally Congress imposed a prohibitive tax on such notes and drove them out of existence.

It is the theory that by means of a sufficiently heavy check tax all sound commercial banks could be brought into the federal system and all unsound ones be compelled to go out of business.

HOMICIDE RATES

If Manchester had two murders one year and three the next, right along, we should be pretty badly shocked. That would be just about the Chicago rate of homicides in proportion to population, the record in the Windy City being 12.8 per 100,000 annually. But if we should have a killing every month save one in every year we should only just about be keeping up with the bloodiest city in the United States or, probably, in the civilized world—Memphis, Tenn. Down there they have 54.2 homicides per 100,000 each year. And what would we think of ourselves, of our town, with a murder on our hands almost as often as fast day comes around?

Community. It will surprise a good many folks to learn that, for every eight homicides per hundred thousand New Yorkers, Los Angeles produces nine per hundred thousand. Which shows that people generally have either too bad an opinion of New York or too good an opinion of the Californian city. As a matter of fact New York is a good deal below the average for 180 American cities with populations aggregating about 143 millions. That average last year was 10.5 per 100,000 as against New York's eight.

YES VIRGINIA

What is this world coming to! With a mere creature like the counsel for a United States Senate committee presuming to question the House of Morgan as to what it has been doing, and then asking the Senate for special authority to compel answers—and about sure to get it—surely the very foundations of the old order are tottering.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Jack the Giant Killer.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

POLITICIANS REBELLIOUS AT POWER OF PROFESSORS

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

Washington, March 31.—The war between the professors and the politicians is beginning to get hot. It may reach a showdown with complete victory for one group or the other, but it's more likely to develop into a standoff which will last for a long time.

President Roosevelt has a large group of politicians here and a small group of professors, scientists, social workers and other non-political experts. The former are in Congress and the latter already have been packed into the administrative branch of the government. Each group has a large, thoroughgoing contempt for the other.

The professors have been helping frame the various emergency measures which Roosevelt has undertaken to jam through Congress and they have been standing ready to administer them, with more gratified authority than Congress ever let anyone have before.

The politicians helped grease the chute for Roosevelt and the professors at first, but they came to realize that the professors would keep them greasing the chute indefinitely if they called no halt. So there has been a growing surge of resentment against the speed with which legislation was rushing through their hands, the fact that they were having no part in it and the fact that power in cardinal lots was being delivered to the professors.

The politicians are really after them now. Fearing popular resentment they shot at Roosevelt through his non-political aides.

The Hon. Mike Hart, a congressman from Michigan, sounded the first important battle cry against the professors when he charged in effect that one of Roosevelt's closest, most trusted advisers was a Communist.

Hart undertook to expose Rexford G. Tugwell, former professor of agricultural economics at Columbia University, who was recently made assistant secretary of agriculture, and Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel, economic adviser to the Department of Agriculture, charging them with radicalism.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace himself is a scientist and a writer rather than a politician and there are many others like him already on the job.

Prof. Raymond A. Moley of Columbia is now assistant secretary of state and they'll be down on his neck as soon as that department begins to consider the recognition of Russia.

Secretary of the Treasury Will Wood has gone in for the arts, music and literature rather than politics. Moley and Prof. Adolf Berle of Columbia advised with Roosevelt during the first days of the banking crisis.

At the Justice Department there's an excellent chance that Prof. Felix Frankfurter of Harvard will be attorney general or solicitor general. Frankfurter, thanks to his brilliant defense of Sacco and Vanzetti, would be another target for the red-baiters.

Health and Diet Advice

By Dr. Frank McCoy
ITCHING SKINS MAY BE FROM LOCAL OR CONSTITUTIONAL CAUSES

It is surprising how many people write to me complaining of itching skins and wish for a remedy; usually that is all the information given me. Answering a letter of this kind is nothing more than a guess in the dark. The number of possible causes for itching skins is simply astonishing and the treatment naturally varies depending upon such factors as whether the itching occurs from a constitutional disease or from a skin parasite. The medical name for such misery is pruritis although the term is generally used for itching in the region of the excretory organs. At times the itching and burning may be intense in any form of pruritis. It is quite a common disorder and unfortunately does not ordinarily yield to external salves or ointments.

Frequently all of the various skin diseases have itching and smarting as a prominent feature. Eczema, psoriasis, impetigo, erysipelas, and even acne may be included under this heading. Hives, or nettle rash, is another disorder which may produce itching of the skin sometimes so intense that, after the wheals are scratched, the patient may get out of bed driven to search for relief. Either diabetes or jaundice occasionally produce itching that the patient declares will drive him crazy. Even those with stomach trouble sometimes find they have an itching skin. The skin between the toes may itch and crack due to athlete's foot, a form of ringworm. An itch may occur on the eyelids and an itching of the scalp may occur due to dandruff, dryness or other causes. A disorder of the sweat glands, known as prickly heat, may induce itching in infants.

When the skin of the entire body is faintly itchy, something like when you wear woolen underwear, it is likely to be caused by taking the natural oil out of the skin by too much warm bathing and the too frequent use of soap. This can generally be corrected if one will rub a little olive oil into the skin after taking a bath.

Many itches come from parasites which burrow under the skin. What is usually called "the itch," or scabies, is produced by a tiny insect which lives under the skin, producing a maddening irritation which may persist for years although it may be entirely cleared up by three to five days of the proper treatment. Other insects which may produce itching are head lice, clothing lice, crab lice, bedbugs, and fleas. The cure consists in eradicating the offending insects.

Chemical irritation is responsible for an irritation of the skin in many cases of occupational skin disorders such as may be found among painters or bakers. Irritation is sometimes produced by plants as in the case of poison ivy or poison oak. Since the skin is an organ of elimination, poison in the body from intestinal toxemia, drugs, acidosis and many other chemical reactions may constitute a cause for itching skin. Sometimes a rash may appear when one is on a fast or after a change to a better diet. This indicates that the body is going through a cleansing process unloading some of its impurities through the skin. In this case such an elimination is beneficial and should be tolerated as it will clear up in a few days and the patient note an improvement in health afterward.

You can readily see that the treatment of any kind of skin itching depends upon its cause. I will be very pleased to advise those who are troubled in this way, but I wish that, when you write to me, you would state definitely what kind of an itch you have, if possible, first getting a diagnosis from a reliable doctor.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Discharge From Naval Infantry) Question: Mrs. Arline J. asks: "Is it customary that a slight discharge from a baby's navel for several weeks after birth?"

Answer: A baby's navel should not discharge for more than a few days after birth. If such a discharge continues it might be due to an infection of the navel, or to insufficient healing. The application of some local antiseptic such as boric acid powder will generally correct the condition. If this is not sufficient, local treatments with the ultra-violet light are usually beneficial.

(Fruit Sugar and Carrot Tops) Question: N. V. N. writes: "I am unable to secure fruits canned without sugar in our city, so have been eating prunes, and was wondering if prunes are packed without sugar? Would you also please tell me if there is any food value in carrot tops?"

Answer: Prunes are packed without sugar. However, all dried fruits such as apricots, prunes, etc., contain more sugar than the fresh or canned fruits. It is natural sugar and much more healthful than that which is added to the canned goods. There is not much food value in carrot tops. They contain an oil that is irritating to the intestinal tract.

IN NEW YORK

By PAUL HARRISON

New York, March 31.—Meanderings: People who are interested as they have it straight from Someone-Who-Knows that the President will soon appeal to the governors of all states for early ratification of the repeal amendment. A tear for the famous Reginald Theater, now being fitted up as a movie house... who will get the first case of real beer is a question worrying froth-blowers and brewery allies. The latter have been showed off with advanced orders, each specifying that it must be for the first case delivered. Aquatic notes: Eleanor Holm, Olympic mermaid, goes to the Central Park Casino with Socialite Sherman Rogers. And Johnny Wassinger, also in the vanguard, has been towing Liza Velez to the bright spots. Tin Pan Alley parodies popular tunes like this: "Rhapsody in Brown." "Hoppy Days Are Here Again." "Foam, Sweet Foam!" and "Mighty Lager Beer!" The wiseguy has it that the crisis in the movie industry was precipitated when former President Hoover expressed "grave doubts" about the future during a conference with Char. Will Ross.

Borrowing an idea from Zella in Paris, the club has installed telephones at every table, switch-

Bow's come-back slogan... Gloria Swanson doesn't like to be reminded that she once was a Mack Sennett bathing beauty... Sophie Tucker will have her own night club at the World's Fair.

Sizzling Bacon

Remember Faith Bacon, whose fan dance brought the low down upon Earl Carroll's "Vanities" three seasons back? Well, she's hiding behind a few heads now, instead of ostrich plumes, at the Monte Carlo Casino, just off Broadway. Miss Bacon says calmly that she's "the best nude in the business." It seems that the technique of such theatrical exhibitionism is very difficult; the less a girl wears the more cleverly must she impart an impression of modesty and propriety.

The Monte Carlo, incidentally, entertains the gayest of the hot-china trade. Tables are numbered, and a lighted wheel behind the orchestra is spun between dances to decide the distribution of favors to guests. And there is a roulette wheel set, in which she chorines is in a circle, with shoe-soles pointed out and numbered. A specialty dancer spins about them, stops when the music does, and the table with the lucky number gets the prize. Just a 1933 version of the old "musical chairs" game!

board operators, and a toll of 50 cents per call from table to table. Visiting bootleggers sometimes play a few orders this way, but bond and insurance selling via the telephones is frowned upon. The whole thing makes for fun and informality and not as many quarrels as you'd expect.

Brass-rail Foot-notes

If anyone is wondering who designs and installs the elaborate fixtures in clubs like the above, or the tricky bars in speakeasies, it's probably the Gangers (Mr. I. Arthur and Mrs. Bobbie) of the Ganger Equipment Company. Mr. Ganger started making bars in 1910, but prohibition brought a big expansion in his business. Mrs. Ganger helped a lot, buying out booths and compact bars such for clubs and private houses.

Today a client need only tell the Gangers how much he can spend, and they'll do the rest. Their architects will draw plans; their artists will evolve decorative schemes; and their craftsmen attend to construction.

The couple pioneered the horseshoe, hollow-square, and half-moon bars, and believe these shapes will supplant the old straight counter design because they allow gamblers to gather around intimately and see each other.

The Gangers are very proud of some of their night-club jobs, and boast that they never built two bars alike.

One such installation cost $30,000. They have built a few bars more than 50 feet long for speakeasies in Westchester and Long Island. Mr. Ganger has a collection of gift-branded nudes from some business saloons of pre-prohibition days, but nobody seems to want them now. Most rich people want something very modern and arty and scorn his wistful proposals to create authentic, old-time atmosphere.

PIRATES KIDNAP BRITISH OFFICERS

Daring Gang of Chinese Buccaneers Attack Ship and Carry Off Four Men.

Newchwang, Manchuria, March 31.—(AP)—British gunboats were searching off the Manchurian coast today for a daring gang of Chinese buccaniers who kidnaped four British officers yesterday from the British merchant ship Nanchang.

Fourteen pirates attacked the British ship, Nanchang, today, kidnaped four members of the crew and carried off the four officers in two junks.

The pirates boarded the Nanchang as it was waiting for high tide at the Newchwang bar. They fired rifles and pistols with abandon as they cowed Chinese sailors and ordered them to lead the way to the officers cabin.

Ransack Cabins In the cabin they seized W. E. Hargrave, A. D. Blue, F. L. Pears, and Charles Johnson. They tied them up and threw them over the sides into the waiting junks and then ransacked all the cabins.

This was the second kidnaping of British subjects here by Chinese bandits in recent months. A gang which made fantastic demands for ransom held Mrs. Kenneth Pawley and Charles Cockran prisoners 44 days last fall. The couple were finally reported released for $32,500, some opium and clothing through the intervention of the Japanese police force.

SEES WORLD BACK TO GOLD STANDARD

American Expert Back From Europe Says U. S. Is Leading the Way Now.

New York, March 31.—(AP)—Leon Fraser, vice president of the Bank for International Settlements, returned from Europe today convinced that the example set by the United States in meeting its recent banking crisis will hasten a world return to the gold standard.

Fraser is scheduled to succeed Gates W. McGarrath as president of the bank on May 1.

"We are convinced," the banker said, "that the gold standard is the best international monetary standard and those countries which are off are desirous of returning to it as soon as conditions permit."

The preparatory conference of the World Economic and Monetary Congress, which met in January in London, stated that these conditions were and how they could be met.

Professor Day of the Rockefeller Foundation, and Professor Williams, of Harvard, were the American members of the commission who laid down the rules of the gold standard.

Busier Than Ever Asked whether the Bank for International Settlements is kept busy in the face of world conditions, he said that a bank of this nature always is busier when there is trouble than when everything is moving smoothly.

"Our chief work at the moment," he said, "is getting the member countries back on the gold standard. At present there are nineteen countries off the gold standard. They have voted formally to get back on the gold standard, but it is dependent upon conditions."

Questioned as to how soon the gold standard absentees would return, he said: "That is a question I cannot answer."

"I will be within the next five years," he was asked. "Five years is much too long," he replied. "It will be sooner than most people think."

Willie Ogg of Worcester, former president and Jack Shea of Boston, vice president of the New England P. G. A. attended and stated that the plan which has already been adopted by the amateur association of dividing New England into separate districts all affiliated with the parent body, would be feasible.

Approximately 16 members of the P. G. A. were present.

HELP FOR STATES NEXT RELIEF BILL

Senate Approves Method To Raise a 500 Million Fund At Once.

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—Signifying its final approval of the forest conservation bill, the Senate today moved down the second relief road to which the administration has pointed—the creation of a $500,000,000 fund for direct aid to states.

The agreement by the Senate to House amendments to the President's forestry measure finished congressional action on the bill.

As it returned to consideration of the relief fund proposal, the Senate adopted an amendment to the direct relief bill limiting grants to states to a determination by the relief administrator that all the money they could raise was inadequate.

The amendment, offered by Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.), merely strengthened the language of the bill to require the states to "make a good faith effort" to meet their own problems.

Goldborough Opposed Senator Goldborough (R., Md.), announced his opposition to the bill, and said he had consistently opposed similar legislation.

"What are the powers of the administrator?" asked Senator Borah (R., Idaho), of Senator Wagner, adding: "It seems to me that in the last analysis, everything is left to the administrator."

"Responsibility for determining relief needs must be lodged somewhere," replied Wagner, reminding Borah that the administrator would be required to report his action.

Borah contended this report would not be enough and that the administrator would not be responsible to Congress, as the Idahoan felt he should be.

THIS IS LAST DAY TO PAY INCOME TAX

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—Midnight tonight is the deadline for filing income tax returns.

That families with blank, all property filled out with plus and minus signs, must be presented at a collector's office or in the mails by 12 or else—there's a penalty.

Taxpayers were given additional time, from March 15 to March 31, because of the banking holiday. But today the government wants a settlement of at least the first quarter installment and it won't take any excuses.

Those who postponed paying the first quarter March 15, must pay interest at 6 per cent on the period from that date, until today.

Despite the higher taxes, the returns so far are $13,000,000 under last year.

One I Love

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY
When JANET HILL learns a role CARLYLE has been making engagements with her to meet BETTY KENDALL, a society girl, she tells him their marriage is off. Janet is 23, pretty and secretary to BRUCE HAMILTON, advertising manager of Every Home Magazine.

She still loves Rolf and cannot forget him. JEFF GRANT, a young engineer, saves her purse from a holdup man one night and she and Jeff become friends. When she reads in a newspaper that Rolf has eloped with Betty Kendall she tells Jeff about her broken engagement and says she can never care for anyone else.

Hamilton leaves the magazine and because of retrenchment there is no job for Janet. However, Hamilton tells her his sister, MRS. CURTIS, needs a social secretary and Janet secures the job. It is several days before she learns Mrs. Curtis is Betty Kendall's mother. Janet feels she should give up the job but has no place else to go. She decides to stay as long as Rolf and Betty are out of town.

Mrs. Curtis becomes ill and the doctor orders complete rest. She tells Janet her wedding gift to Betty is to be a completely furnished apartment and to Janet falls the task of finding the apartment. The young couple come home before they are expected. Janet wants to leave but circumstances prevent this. Several days pass before she sees Rolf alone. Then he says, "Aren't you glad to see me?"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIII

Rolf's tone was casual, good-natured. "Been wondering when I was going to have a chance to talk to you," he said. "I've been hiding myself?"

"Oh!— you surprised me!" She met his eyes and then evaded, bending to straighten the pile of magazines. "You haven't been trying to avoid me, have you?" he asked.

"Why, of course not." So quickly defensive that the words belied themselves. "I've been busy, I guess. You know I work here."

Rolf laughed. "And just now, apparently, nothing is quite so important as those magazines. But they looked very nice the way they were, I thought. Come on, sit down. Is there any reason in the world why we shouldn't talk to each other for a few minutes?"

"No-o." Janet hesitated. There were reasons but she couldn't tell him what they were. The little fire burning in her cheeks. That excited sensation when her eyes met his. Oh, yes, there were reasons why Janet should turn and flee from that room but instead she sat down in a rose brocade chair.

"That's better!" He stood looking down at her, smiling. "You're very decorative in that chair. Becoming background. And that's a good-looking suit you're wearing, too. On the whole, you're looking unusually attractive!"

He was the same Rolf. Exactly the same. When he paid compliments you could never be quite sure whether he really meant them or was joking. He pulled a chair forward, sat down, and

WORLD'S FIRST TYPIST STILL KNOWS HER KEYS

Business girls all over America are paying homage this month to Mrs. C. L. Fortier, of Milwaukee, who 90 years ago was the first woman typist in the world. Mrs. Fortier is shown above at the modern typewriter she uses for her correspondence, and, in the inset, as she appeared 60 years ago operating the clumsy forerunner of all typewriters, the invention of her father, Christopher Latham Sholes, of Elmhurst, N. Y. The machine had a foot treadle to operate the carriage return and wrote only in capitals. So complicated was the machine that its manufacturers had to send an operator to run it wherever one was sold. Thus Lillian Sholes became the dean of all typists and stenographers. It was her father, the inventor who first used as a typewriter the classic quotation of Abraham Lincoln: "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party."

She felt better now that she had got that out. It was easier to go on "After I found out I was going away. But I needed the job and I didn't know where to find another. There aren't many jobs just now. I've been reading the want ad columns every day."

"Listen, Rolf," she said quickly. "I can't sit here talking to you. You know I can't. The only reason I'm in this house is because I'm paid to work here. There's one thing, though, I want to tell you. When I came here I didn't know Mrs. Curtis was your wife's mother."

He stopped her. "But that's nonsense!" he exclaimed. "Listen, you aren't going to leave this job. Why, it's just the thing for you! Lots better than working down town in an office. Mrs. Curtis thinks a lot of you, too. I've heard her telling Betty she couldn't get along without you!"

"Of course I do! I want you to."

"I don't know," Janet said doubtfully. "I don't know exactly what I should do."

"Then let me decide for you! You've made a real place for yourself here. I'll see that there's nothing to— er— embarrass you. You needn't worry about that. Only we can be friends, I hope. There isn't any reason why we shouldn't be, is there?"

There was a flash of that quick, winning smile. Janet said, "No, I don't have any objection."

On such visits Janet almost always found young Mrs. Carlyle in a gay lounging costume leaning back in one of the low, modernistic chairs, smoking and gossiping with some of her friends. The cocktail shaker was always in evidence, coming from the radio and often the laughter was high-pitched and boisterous.

How did they keep it up, Janet wondered, these young people whose mornings, afternoons and evenings seem devoted to parties? Of course they did not work but to Janet the constant round of gaiety in itself seemed strenuous. How could a young man like Rolf get to the office in the morning ready for a day's work after a night of festivities that had not ended until dawn?

Surely there must be some quiet evenings, some time for rest. "They're young," Mrs. Curtis would say fondly. "There's time enough to be serious later on. I want my little girl to have everything in the world to make her happy."

Mrs. Curtis herself wasn't looking so well these days. There was one evening when she was dressing, preparing to go to the Thorntons, that Lillian rushed to the telephone to call Dr. Roberts. The physician came and prescribed two days of complete rest in bed. Mrs. Curtis, frightened, promised to obey these instructions faithfully but on the second day when Betty called and insisted her mother should come to fill out a table at her bridge party Betty, as usual, had her way.

It was June and the season's first hot spell had set in. The house was stifling. Janet had finished her work and considered how to spend the afternoon. She felt an impulse to get away from the house.

There was no place in particular to go. Suddenly Janet decided to see a movie. It would be cool in the dark theater. It would be restful, too. She hurried upstairs and put on a new blue linen dress and wide-brimmed white hat. She was wearing white oxfords, and the costume was becoming.

Janet walked to the bus stop and rode down to the business district. It was hotter here but the theater would be cooled by artificial breezes. Janet was with a block of the theater when window display caught her eye. She paused to look at it and that was why she did not see the man until, turning, she almost bumped into him.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton CLASSICAL EDUCATION

"EARLY TO RISE" TEACHES CHILDREN VALUABLE LESSON IN DISCIPLINE

There is an old saying that "He lives longest who is awake most hours."

Another that "God gives help to early risers."

Literature is replete with maxims about getting out of bed when "rosy-fingered dawn" begins to creep up out of the sea.

There is a more real benefit to children than that. Unless we are physically exhausted many of us do. And children, I have discovered, are pretty much like us. No one rule fits them all.

However this may be, I think there is a more real benefit to children than that. Unless we are physically exhausted many of us do. And children, I have discovered, are pretty much like us. No one rule fits them all.

When the child gets ten hours sleep should be rested in that time if he is well. Some children repair and build enough in nine hours, others take eleven. A mother can regulate bedtime according to age and state of health. Little children need from twelve to thirteen hours at night. A tired grown-up eight or nine or even ten.

The regulating has to be done in the evening because the family gets up at the same time. That end of it is even.

Why is it better to get up early than to lie until later? Oh, yes, because we all think better in the morning. I think much better in the afternoon. Unless we are physically exhausted many of us do. And children, I have discovered, are pretty much like us. No one rule fits them all.

New York—Perhaps it is true that red-haired, blue-eyed Patricia Bowman, premiere danseuse at Rockefeller Center's biggest-theater-in-the-world, has danced before more people than anybody else in the country.

She appeared four and sometimes five times daily for four years at the movie house that was the largest theater before the Music Hall was built. Now she has five shows every day except Sunday, when it's four.

Limber Up Your Legs, Back With the 'High Scissors'

By JAC AUER

Now for the high scissors exercise! If you have been following the exercise faithfully, you have developed enough balance so that this exercise will actually feel good. It catches hold of all these little muscles in your back, your thighs and your shoulders that have just begun to get waked up.

It is simply excellent for straightening you all out, stretching your back, and increasing your muscle control which is essential to Poise.

Lie flat on the floor, relax thoroughly, wriggle around on your spine the way you have seen your pet dog or cat lazily stretching. Now slowly raise both feet simultaneously, knees straight, arches of your feet open, which is accomplished by pointing your toes.

Turn your heels out slightly, as this gives you the natural toed-in position. When your feet point skyward, raise yourself up onto your shoulders, bracing your back with your two arms resting on the floor.

Now begin the high scissors, which consists of touching the floor with the toes of one foot while the other leg is stretched directly above you, alternating so that your legs pass each other. Let your knees rub as they pass, that helps get rid of that fat that accumulates on the inside of your knees.

Do the high scissors only a few times the first day. Increase your count until each foot has touched the floor over your head 10 times.

CASTLE LINES STILL EXIST
"Jenny Wren" by E. H. Young, is a tale that may seem quaint to American readers. It revolves about the fact that social caste lines are still tightly drawn in England; it poses a problem which, in America, would hardly be a problem at all. But because of the author's skill at creating characters and arousing sympathy and understanding for them, it is a novel which a great many American readers are going to enjoy.

It tells of two sisters, Jenny and Dahlia Rendall, who have come down in the world. Their father was a "gentleman" — the word still has a special meaning in England — who married very much beneath him. He brought them up as young ladies, but Jenny had to be brought up, but died just as they reached womanhood and left them and their mother penniless.

The mother, accordingly, moves to town and opens a rooming house, and the girls find themselves in an embarrassing and depressing situation. They are in the lower class now and they have to make the best of it.

This doesn't bother Dahlia much; for she, as she boasts, would willingly go out with the chimney sweep, if she happened to like him. But it is hard for Jenny to swallow. She does contrive to meet the son of the local squire, but her fall is too much for her, the young squire goes his way and Jenny has to make the best of a match with a poor but devoted dealer in antique furniture.

All of this, somehow, becomes very readable and charmingly quaint under Miss Young's deft touch. The book, published by Harcourt, Brace and Co., sells for $2.50.

SEE GOT COLD FEET?
Quassel, B. C., says you would get cold feet if they did what Mrs. L. R. Hatch did. Mrs. Hatch, her husband and party were enroute to Gettysburg to engage in mining when their cars were stopped by the deep snow. The party was forced to walk 10 miles through the snow. Mrs. Hatch was unable to walk in high-heeled shoes, so she took them off and walked the 10 miles in her stocking feet.

BEER TO BE SOLD IN AT LEAST FIVE BIG LEAGUE PARKS

Giants, Yanks, and Dodgers On List; Five Clubs Not To Permit Sale and Six Are Undecided.

New York, March 31.—(AP)—Thirty baseball fans will find beer on sale in at least five major league baseball parks this season, reports to the Associated Press indicated today.

With the season opening April 12, five days after the new 3.2 beer becomes legal, the two Chicago clubs, White Sox and Cubs, and the three Metropolitan New York teams, Giants, Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers, have announced beer will be available in their parks.

Five other clubs, however, will not permit beer to be sold for a variety of reasons, while six have made no definite decision.

New Orleans, March 31.—(AP)—The "big five" of the Cleveland pitching staff is ready, Wesley Ferrell, ace of them all, and Mel Harder showed their fitness yesterday by holding New Orleans to five scattered hits in the Indians' 2 to 0 victory.

A pair of rookies, Beive Bean and Howard Craghead, were detailed to pitch today's game against the Pelicans.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 31.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers meet the New York Giants here today in the fourth game of their exhibition series with a 2 to 1 defeat.

Gelveston, March 31.—(AP)—Judging from the indications of the spring exhibition games, the N. Y. Giants will pack a wicked punch into the National league campaign this year.

A check up on the performances so far shows they have walked 25 home runs in 22 games. With a strong wind blowing in from center field, they could poke out only one extra base blow against Detroit yesterday.

Tampa, Fla., March 31.—(AP)—Either Eppa Rixey or Silas Johnson will pitch the Reds' opening game against the Pittsburgh Pirates, April 12.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 31.—(AP)—Jack Knott, the new pitcher acquired by the St. Louis Browns, is settling a pre-season race that indicates he may be a shining star in the Browns' galaxy this year.

He has allowed only one run in sixteen innings pitched in exhibition games, and his last fifteen innings have been shutouts. He has yielded twelve hits, allowed one walk and fanned seven batters.

Bradenton, Fla., March 31.—(AP)—The infield problem of the St. Louis Cardinals remains unsolved today as the team moved back toward its home base after breaking training camp here.

Manager Gabby Street apparently intends to do more "experimenting" in games to be played along the route to St. Louis. He announced another change in the lineup for the game against Oglethorpe University this afternoon.

Hornby will be permitted to rest, with Adams going to second and Wilson back to first. Frisch again will be at third base.

TO START SIX DAY FOOT RACE TONIGHT

Columbus, Ohio, March 31.—(AP)—They'll leave their bicycles at home for this six-day race. Eight two-man teams equipped only with running shoes, tonight inaugurate a foot race copied after the six-day bike grind.

To start with each man will run four hours consecutively but from Saturday on, each teammate will be required to jog along for eight hours and in two-hour installments.

At the close of midnight, April 6, the team which has covered the most miles will be declared the winner. Will it be ready for Ohio's new 3.2 beer? Special prizes will be offered for sprints each evening.

OPEN FENCING TOURNEY

Philadelphia, March 31.—(AP)—Swordsmen from 12 colleges today opened the annual two-day National Interscholastic Association fencing tournament for individual and team titles in foil, speed, and sabre. Test titles in all three divisions are to be decided today at the Penn Athletic club.

Individual titles will be contested tomorrow. Twelve of the association's 15 members are sending competitors. Only Dartmouth, Boston College, and Ohio state are missing from the entries.

The Cantabes, riding high on the crest with nine consecutive victories face the chance of creating a record in the ancient rivalry. Oxford twice has run its string of victories to the same number and twice failed in its efforts to reach the double figure.

The race is scheduled for shortly after 3:30 p. m. (10:30 a. m. E. S. T.), tomorrow on the flood tide. The crews are evenly matched in weight, the Cantabes carrying an average of 173 pounds, a bare fraction below the Oxonians.

Bill Nunamaker, champion of the Detroit last year with a total of 1,980, Larry Shotwell, holder of the all-time singles record, 744, scored at Cleveland three years ago, will roll with a Covington, Ky., team.

Mort Lindsey of Stamford, Conn., a former all-events titlist who holds a 200 average for twenty years of tournament competition, also will roll. He has been a member of two championship teams and is one of the most colorful figures in the competition.

None of the high ten leaders was disturbed in any event yesterday, but the tourney, now in its final stages, is expected to produce big results from now until the windup and the present top leaders are expected to be dethroned.

BEASLEY, BUILDER OF TENNIS CHAMPS

Six of His Pupils Have Won National Titles; Many Have Won Minor Honors.

New Orleans, March 31.—A maker of tennis champions—that's Mercer Beasley, coach of the Tulane University tennis team. No less than a half dozen of his pupils have achieved national championships, and a dozen or more have won minor titles.

Frankie Parker was a tall boy on the courts of the Milwaukee Country Club when Beasley took him under his wing. Today the "kid" is the 17-year holder of the United States junior singles championship.

Beasley has not been without a national champion for seven straight years. It is a record no other professional tennis instructor in the country can match.

Louise MacFarland of Pasadena was his first champion. She won the U. S. girls' championship in 1924, and the following year annexed the national women's hard court championship.

Miss Marjorie Gladman, now Mrs. John Van Ryn, was Beasley's second champion. She won the U. S. girls' championship in 1927.

Ellsworth Vines brought him national championship No. 3 when he shared the U. S. junior doubles title in 1928. Next came Frankie Parker, sensation of 1929.

Clifford Sutter of Tulane contributed the national intercollegiate championship in 1930, and in 1931 Vines and Parker both came through in national competition.

Vines won the national singles crown and Parker reigned over the U. S. boys' singles group.

Last year "Beasley's boys" claimed three national championships—Vines, singles titlist for the second straight year; Parker, junior champion, and Sutter, intercollegiate singles. In addition, Miss Carolyn Babcock, another pupil, proved the sensation of the national women's tournament in which she was runner up to Miss Helen Jacobs.

Beasley's tennis system is a combination of fundamentals and his own ideas. He places little dependence on placements and instead urges his pupils to capitalize on opponents' mistakes. His type of game is strictly defensive. It calls for the keeping of the ball in play as long as possible and forcing the opposing player into errors.

Beasley holds to many unique theories. He has found the game demands as much endurance and stamina as basketball, much speed as printing, more agility and elasticity than boxing and equally as much arm strength as gymnastics. His players work out in all these sports.

For accuracy, he has his players shoot for a white circle painted on a backboard; he has them play strokes off a backboard on uneven ground to get them accustomed to bad bounds.

Beasley never has played a match in a big tournament. His once played a fair game and when jobs became scarce after the war for a civil engineer he turned to tennis as a profession. At that time, in 1919, he practiced long with Bill Tilden in Philadelphia and from this association learned much about the game.

He has taught at the Nix Lak club, New York; Indian Hill Tennis club, Winnetka, Ill.; Midwick Country club, New York; and Oak Knoll club, Pasadena. Milwaukee Country club, Detroit Tennis club, and Beverly Hills Tennis club. This season, after leaving Tulane, he will be at the Orange Tennis club, Orange, N. J.

SPORT BRIEFS

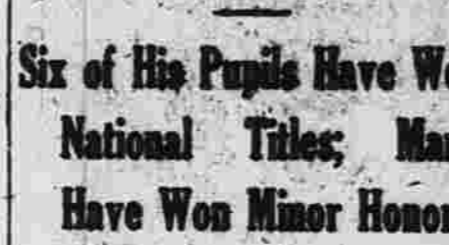

Jockey Gilbert Elston hopes to be up on Col. E. R. Bradley's Seel's team in the Kentucky Derby.

The Presbyterian College Cardinals of Durand, Ohio, are national basketball champions for the second straight year.

There are ten players in the major leagues this year 26 years of age or over. Jack Quinn of Brooklyn, about 51, is the dean of them all.

Fletcher Boatwright, of the Washington Senators, is a professor of mathematics in the off-season. Knows his curves.

WILL THEY COME BACK?

New York, March 31.—Baseball's seven big question marks are Dazy Vance, Al Simmons, Charley Gelbert, Del Blanton, Travis Jackson, Burling Grimes and Tommy Thomas.

They are great players, laid low by illness or injuries.

Max Carey counted a lot last year on Blanton's hitting and defensive ability on No. 1 sack. But a falling ankle and an infected tendon got the big boy down.

Some say that Al Simmons' disappointing work last year was due to differences of opinion with club officials and unpopular with the fans. But Al's slump was partly due to a poisonous infection caused by faulty molars.

Travis Jackson's bum knee was a constant worry to McGraw and Bill Terry, and a big detriment to the Giants' defense last season. Jackson, one of the flashiest of fielders, slowed up so much that he was almost valueless, playing in only 52 games.

Vance was bothered with rheumatism which may have accounted for his showing with the Dodgers. Burling Grimes, just a shadow of the great hurler who topped the Athletics in 1931, was a loss with the Cubs. An ailing appendix, recently excavated, caused the trouble.

Tommy Thomas, one of the aces of the Senators' pitching staff, worked but little with a bad arm last season. Washington missed him in a bad way during their bid for the flag.

Charley Gelbert played well for the Cardinals last season, but a hunting accident during the winter makes it unlikely that he will take the field in April. For a time it was feared one of Charley's legs would be amputated.

During the spring training season, Blanton, Vance, Jackson and Thomas have indicated that they're ready to display their old form. All three underwent operations during the winter.

Jackson has been sliding into base with no thought of that trick knee. He has been going out long hits and fielding hot smashes and Thomas has been bending them over in fine fashion down in Biloxi.

The second game of the North End-Mets Fillers series will be played at the "Y" tonight at 7:30. A victory for Mets will clinch the North End junior championship and the right to play the Collegians for town honors.

After their 33-23 victory over the North Ends in the first battle, the Fillers will be the favorites to repeat but the North Ends are quite confident that they can turn back their opponents. With the exception of the probable return of Walt Wright to the Fillers' lineup, there will be no other changes in either starting team. The game will be handled by R. McCormick, who did good work in the first game.

NEW YORK, March 31.—(AP)—Twenty-six teams begin competition in the eastern and national indoor polo championship here tomorrow night. National titles will be at stake in the interscholastic and interscholastic divisions, while winners in the open, and class B, C and D, will qualify for the national championships tentatively slated to open in Chicago April 15.

In the interscholastic class Yale, Harvard, Army, Princeton and Penn military colleges all have entered strong squads.

Three footballers—William Dawes and Line—were among eight Washington State athletes named all-around letter winners.

GOLFERS TO OPEN SEASON TOMORROW

Nine Holes At Country Club Ready For Play—Formal Opening Good Friday.

The golf season at the Manchester Country Club will open semi-officially tomorrow afternoon, it was announced today by Bill Martin, the club professional.

Nine holes will be ready for play and these will be the course usually referred to as the "old nine." If the weather continues dry it will be possible to use the regulation greens although preparations are being made for temporary greens if it should be too wet.

The formal or official opening of the season will probably be on Good Friday when the complete 18 hole course will be ready for play. Some changes have been made in the course since last season, but most of them were under construction last year and are known to those who play the game regularly.

The new 14th is not ready yet but J. R. Foster, greenskeeper, believes it can be played by Memorial Day. This will be one of the most beautiful holes on the course and will help to make the local links as keen a par 70 layout as there is in the Hartford district. For the present the old 14th green will be used.

There have been no changes in the personnel at the club since the season closed. Bill Martin has been busy the past few weeks getting clubs in shape and trimming up the interior of the club and locker rooms for the early golfers. Some enthusiasts have already been out practicing but none have been able to actually play the course as yet this season. No tournaments will be arranged until the season formally opens on Good Friday.

COACHES TO MEET New Haven, March 31.—(AP)—A meeting of all High school football coaches and officials has been called by President Walter B. Spencer of the Connecticut Interscholastic Athletic conference for next Wednesday at 5 p. m. in the Elks' clubhouse here to discuss plans for a new organization to deal with mutual problems in secondary school athletics.

There will also be a discussion of changes in football rules which may be of value to the High school game.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

The Big Guess The feature of this year's pennant race promises to be a tighter race in the American League. Here is the way this writer, after a survey of the teams, picks them to finish.

Table with 3 columns: Team, Prediction. Lists predictions for American League.

WASHINGTON... THE BRAVES... Splendid defense and good pitching appears to be the best club in baseball. The Yankees are uncertain because of the advanced age of players at important points.

DETROIT... DETROIT SHOWED... Detroit showed flashes of promise last year and has improved to attack this season. The A's will miss Simmons, Haas and Eyles.

PHILADELPHIA... PHILADELPHIA... Philadelphia and Brooklyn suffer the same used pitcher. While St. Louis has the pitchers, the rest of the ball club doesn't measure up to major league standards.

BOSTON... BOSTON... Boston 2, Toronto 1, Cleveland 0, New York Yankees 2, Detroit 0.

CLEVELAND... CLEVELAND... Cleveland 2, New Orleans 0, New York Americans 9, Birmingham 5, St. Louis Americans 3, Buffalo 3 (11 innings), Atlanta 4, Washington 3, Montreal 3, Boston Americans 3, Chicago Nationals 16, Pittsburgh 10, San Francisco 7, Chicago Americans 3.

HOUSTON... HOUSTON... Houston 1, New York Yankees 2, Detroit 0.

THIRD OF FLYING PARSONS BURNS

PATH FOR TROJANS Second Son of Famous Sprinter Looks As Star; Brother Was Almost Unbeatable In His Events.

Los Angeles, March 31.—"Sprinters are born—not made." Dean Cromwell, of the University of Southern California, tells you this and then proves it.

Twenty-nine years ago Charley Parsons won the national 100-yard title for Troy in 9.8 seconds. Parsons was the first Southern Californian to break 10-flat. Archie Hahn, Olympic champion and Nate Cantmell, I. C. C. 4-A titleholder, were among his victims.

In 1925, Johnny Parsons, brother of Charley, donned a track suit at Southern California. He was a marvellous competitor, almost unbeatable in relay running and strong in the furling.

Now, Charley Parsons, Jr., son of the first great Trojan runner, is coming down the cinder path.

"I can shut my eyes and visualize old Charley whenever I see his son in action," says Coach Cromwell. "And this convinces me, more than ever, that athletes—particularly sprinters—depend upon heredity for much of their success."

Young Parsons has been brought up in an environment of sprinting and has learned from both his father and uncle.

"He seems to have the potentialities of 21-flat in the 220-yard run," says Cromwell, "and showed his class in the century by crowding Hec Dyer in the Fresno relays last year, when Dyer won in 9.6 seconds."

"All that I hope is that the boy combines the physical qualities of his father with the temperament of his uncle. He has the same long stride, leg action and arm motion as his father, and now needs only the ability to 'key himself' up for important races just as Johnny did."

The American League Washington, New York, Cleveland, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis, Boston.

NATIONAL LEAGUE Pittsburgh, Chicago, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, St. Louis, Cincinnati.

BOYCOTT AGAINST JEWS IN GERMANY CONTINUES

tion, issued by the Central Boycott Committee.
"Judah is stabbing Germany in the back with the same methods it employed to perpetrate the criminal World War. Again Judah is at work calumniating the German people as Huns and Barbarians," said the proclamation.
Reports from the United States that the boycott would be called off were cited by the press. The newspaper Angriff, edited by Joseph Goebbels, the new minister of propaganda in the Hitler Cabinet, seemed particularly irritated by these reports.

"In some sections of the American press, Germany's counter measures are being answered by a renewed demand for a boycott of German goods," it said. Tomorrow's boycott was planned to punish German Jews for the alleged spread of "atrocity stories" abroad.
Claim to See Plot
The Nazis profess to see an international Jewish plot at work, such as they have always blamed for the ill that befall Germany as a result of the World War.
Several hundred thousand brown shirted Nazis are to begin the picketing of Jewish establishments throughout the country and already have been assigned to their posts. In many towns boycotts already were active, but the Nazi troops were ordered to halt them.

The Jews themselves will be obliged to identify their stores for the boycott campaign by hanging on yellow lettered black placards. An order was issued by the Nazi headquarters to refrain from interfering with the business of the Woolworth chain stores. A Nazi economic theory is hostile to chain stores of all kinds, holding that such large organizations ruin small dealers.
One report said the outbreak against the Woolworth stores was a belief that the original Woolworth was a Jew. (American investors have $27,000,000 invested in various chain stores and Jewish owned department stores in Germany.)

Prompt action by the American consuls has resulted in the expulsion of one Nazi storm trooper from the party and a sharp reprimand to two others.
The action arose from another assault on Julian Fuhs, of New York, who was beaten March 12 by men in Nazi uniforms who demanded money. A storm troop leader interfered at that time and gave an alarm to the police.
Uniformed Nazis and civilians entered Fuhs's nightclub early Wednesday morning. When Fuhs asked to see their membership cards one of the civilians assaulted him while one of the uniformed Nazis threatened him with a pistol and fired shots into the ceiling. The civilian indicated he had a private grudge against the nightclub owner.
Police took the assailant to a police station. The same day George E. Messersmith, United States consular general, complained to police authorities, who expressed deepest regret.

The pistol wielding storm trooper was held for trial in Summary Court. The civilian, not a Nazi, also was held.
American officials expressed satisfaction at the prompt and energetic police action.
In carrying out the boycott Saturday, all Jewish employees of Jewish stores and business offices in Berlin will be summarily dismissed at 10 a. m. by order of Nazi leaders. Employers will be required to pay German employees two months' salaries in advance.
At 3 p. m. all employees of Jewish businesses are to cease work and meet outside their places of employment to protest against the boycott of German goods abroad and reports of persecutions here.

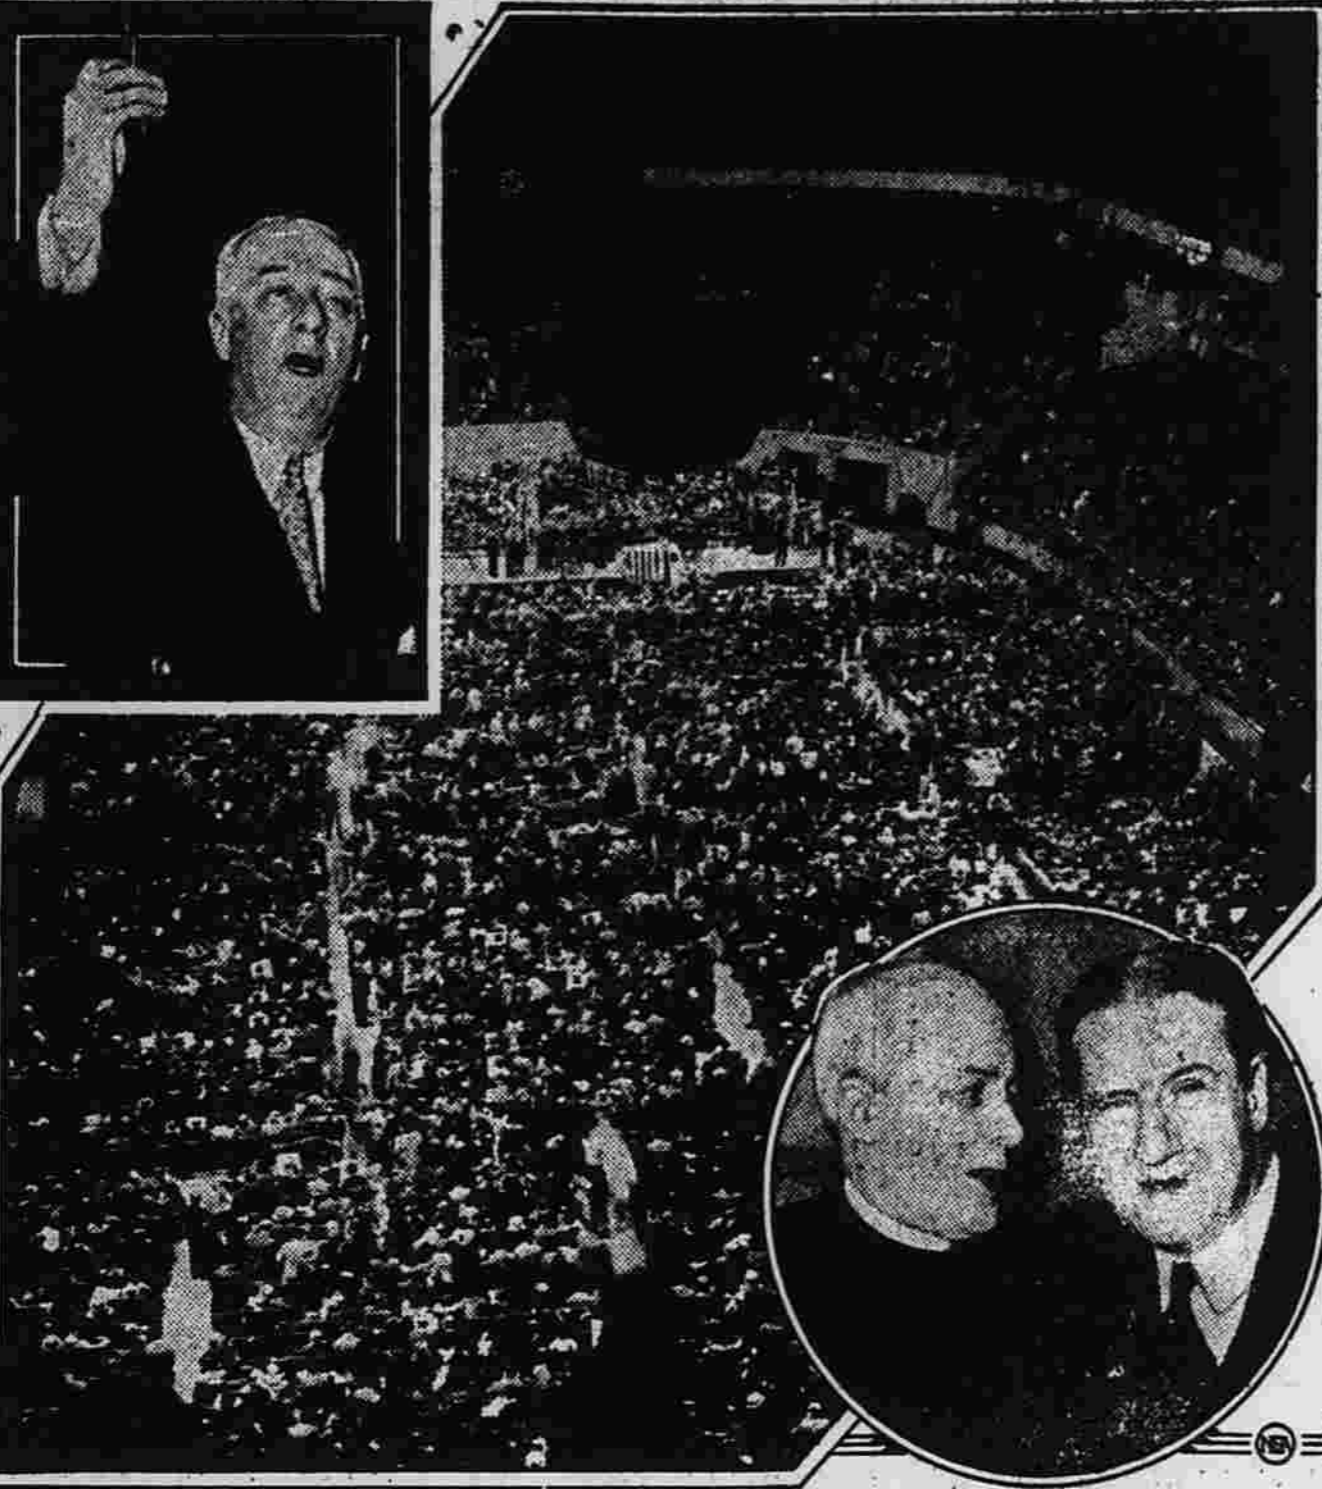

Newspapers and undertakings of vital public interest will be affected only insofar as the dismissal of Jewish employees will be concerned.
Goebbels to Speak
Herr Goebbels will address a mass meeting at the Lustgarten Saturday afternoon in discussion of the situation.
Newspaper reporters who are Jews, Marxists or Communists henceforth will be barred from criminal courts professionally.
The Social Democratic Party executive committee today approved the action of Otto Weils, president of the group, in resigning his seat in the second international on the grounds it had adopted certain business resolutions for which German social democracy as a non-partisan is not responsible in shape for.

The committee did not discuss withdrawal of the party from the Second International.
Herr Weils, in telegraphing his resignation to Second International headquarters at Zurich, Switzerland, said the organization at a recent session in Paris drew up a sharp resolution condemning the present regime in Germany without inviting German delegates.
Jewish brokers decided not to go to business tomorrow.

MRS. JUDD TRIES

News Made Public That She Tried To Cut Through Bars of Her Cell.

Florence, Ark., March 31.—(AP)—Warden A. G. Walker said today Winnie Ruth Judd, sentenced to hang April 21 in the "trunk murder" case, cut through a bar of her cell at the State prison here about three weeks ago using a saw "given her by her brother," Burton McKinnell.
Warden Walker said a guard discovered Mrs. Judd in the act of sawing through the bars at night. Asked what she was doing, Walker said, she replied "she wanted to be ready if she had an opportunity to escape."
Guards are maintained over her cell day and night now, Walker added. He said she had "not really attempted to escape."
The warden said all information he had on the matter had been turned over to County Attorney W. C. Truman who was not in Florence today but Charles F. Reed, deputy county attorney, said that so far as he knew no warrant had been issued for McKinnell, although an investigation has been made.
Still Has Hopes
Mrs. Judd told prison officials this morning she "still had hope" she would escape the gallows.
Warden Walker said he had not decided what action he would take in the matter of requesting a sanity hearing for Mrs. Judd—the only other definite possibility remaining for Mrs. Judd to escape hanging. He would not say when he would make his decision.
The warden said no preparations had been made for the execution.
Mrs. Judd will remain in the women's ward of the prison. Warden Walker said, until about ten days prior to the date of the execution, when she will be removed to the death cell.

OPENING UNCERTAIN

H. Hackett, Walter P. Gorman and Ernest T. Beahly are new to the board. A group of former directors in the old company could not be members of the board of the new company in accordance with legislation now being framed and which is certain of passage by the present General Assembly. This legislation does not allow those who are borrowers in the company to be directors. This restriction prevented a large number of otherwise eligible men from being considered for the directorship.

The slate that was named by the stockholders was prepared by a committee named by Chairman Frank Cheney, Jr. The committee had considerable difficulty selecting a complete board of eight who were eligible to serve. When every legal aspect was considered there were but 19 found eligible among the stockholders. William J. Shea acted as chairman of the nominating committee and moved that the directors named be elected.

There was some discussion as to the advisability of reading the names of all stockholders eligible to be named to the board. However this list was announced so that those present wishing to vote for someone other than the slate proposed could do so. It was explained that only stockholders holding five or more shares of stock, not borrowers from the bank and not an officer or on the board of another financial institution, could be named to the new board. When the ballot vote was taken there were 881 shares out of 1,000 represented. Of these there were only nine scattering votes. This was taken to be a rousing display of support for the new Trust Company set-up.

In addition to the naming of directors yesterday afternoon the stockholders accepted the new charter and adopted a new set of by-laws.
Pay Tributes
While the balloting was going on R. LaMotte Russell, president of the old company, took occasion to laud the spirit of cooperation displayed by the townspeople in this crisis. He said that although he was no longer officially connected with the institution he would do all he could to cooperate and help get the new company started. Frank Cheney, Jr., speaking for the stockholders said that one regret in the transaction was the new legislation that did not permit Mr. Russell to continue with the new company. He paid a great tribute to Mr. Russell's devotion to the interests of Manchester and said that the Savings Bank was happy to have his full attention and undivided services from now on.

Statements
There are several details yet to be completed. Members of the State Banking department are working many hours daily trying to have their report ready and employees of the Trust Company are hard at work getting accounts in shape for reopening. Officials of the bank said they hoped to have account statements in the mails by tonight so that every depositor will know exactly where he stands when the institution opens for business.
Many questions have arisen with regard to checks that have been received on the old Trust Company and that have been written during the period of suspension. rulings will be secured on these details and will be announced as soon as possible.

265 National Banks Operating With Deposits of 350 Millions.

By Associated Press
Secretary Woodin of the Treasury reported that 265 National banks with deposits of $360,000,000 have been reorganized in the ten day period ending March 26.
The weekly statement of the Federal Reserve system showed a gain of $44,447,000 in gold reserves during the week ending last Wednesday, a drop of $125,759,000 in member bank borrowings and a decrease of $225,000,000 in the volume of money in circulation.
The Department of Commerce estimated that millions of dollars are pouring into many industries through the preparations of brewers to handle legalized 3.2 per cent beer after April 6.
This huge sum of money, the department said, was being expended for automobiles, trucks, bottles, ovens, glasses, rubber goods, cereals, malt and various other articles.
On Full Time
The National Cash Register Company announced that all the company's manufacturing units in Dayton, Ohio, would resume full operation next Monday. The order affects 3,600 employees who have been working half time. Orders also are being made for substantial quantities of raw materials.
Improvement was reported in the market for raw and finished leather.
Merchandise Reports
Dunn and Bradstreet's, Inc., in its weekly report said that "the curve of retail trade has jumped up a little more sharply this week," and pointed out that this was reflected particularly in "the heavier demand for women's apparel lines, dress accessories, shoes, home furnishings, leather goods and boys' and men's clothing, sales of which reached large totals during the week."
The monthly reports of the Federal Reserve districts also reported a general upturn in business.
Atlanta and San Francisco said department store sales gained in February; Dallas said a strong reversion of confidence had developed during the past ten days, and St. Louis said there was "a promising upswing in business" during the third week in March.

for I'm going to have to land. Everybody watch out."
"Then we fell," Silverthorne said. Silverthorne, although in a critical condition, was able to dictate a message to relatives in Winnipeg before he was taken into an operating room.
The crash came two years to the day after the tragedy near Bazaar, Kans., 100 miles away, which cost the life of Knute Rockne, famous Notre Dame football coach and seven other passengers of a commercial transport plane flying from Kansas City.
Weather conditions were clear today, unlike those when the Rockne plane was dashed to earth in a severe storm.
Wings Crumpled
The nose of the plane was buried in the earth and the fuselage and wings were crumpled into a twisted mass of debris.
Firemen who rushed to the scene reported the wreckage did not catch fire.
The injured were brought to a hospital here and physicians from surrounding towns were summoned to assist in treating them.
Confusion reigned around the wreckage when rescuers reached the scene. Reports of the disaster soon spread about Needasha and precipitated a wild rush for the oil company tank farm.
Roads in the vicinity were muddy from recent rains and motor cars experienced difficulty in making fast progress.
Persons living near the scene said the plane circled a meadow, apparently in distress. Upon striking the ground the big ship turned end over end.
All three motors were torn from the plane.

FAMOUS PLAYERS
Winnipeg, March 31.—(AP)—

The Winnipeg Toller basketball team, champions of Canada, whose plane crashed enroute home from an international series in Tulsa, included in their lineup some of the most famous amateur basketball players in Canada, among them AJ Silverthorne and Ian Wooley, veteran guards, and Mike Shea, former Ottawa star.
Air travel was not unfamiliar to the players as they made part of their trip from Winnipeg to Tulsa by plane, flying from Minneapolis. Their return home was planned by the same route, the players being scheduled to continue their journey from Minneapolis by train.
The Toller had just finished winning the Manitoba championship when they embarked for the international series with the champion Tulsa Oilers team.
Last spring the Winnipeg five defeated St. John's Trojans for the Dominion title, and were to have defended it this spring. Shea is the son of a well-known Canadian newspaperman, while Phillips, the center, has been a Toller stalwart for years. Dods, the little forward, has been with the team two years.
The Toller, organized in 1926 by the late W. A. Aldrich, who died only recently, have won the Manitoba title eight times and the Dominion championship twice.
An official reception had been planned for tomorrow following which the team planned a western tour preparatory to the inter-provincial campaign in defense of their title.

scramble of banks to get under the protection of the Federal Reserve System directly affects every American.

Yet the system is widely misunderstood. And no wonder. It is called "Federal," though Uncle Sam doesn't own it. It is called a "System," though each of the 12 widely separated banks is an independent organization, united only by the influence and partial control of a federal board in Washington.

The idea of the Federal Reserve banks is simple. A Federal Reserve bank does for its member banks almost exactly what an ordinary bank does for its customers.

John Smith, thrifty citizen, having saved up a little more cash than he needs at the moment, goes to his bank and deposits it. It isn't much, but the surplus cash of thousands of Smiths, pooled together in bank deposits, give the bank great sums to lend out to responsible men who want the money to serve business needs.

A Bank for Banks
A Federal Reserve bank does the same thing for its members.
It receives and pools the surplus cash funds of its member banks, collecting these into reservoirs of cash and credit. Each member must keep there from 7 to 13 per cent of its deposits. Those reservoirs may then be tapped, by loans, by member banks when they have need of cash. John Smith may withdraw deposits or get a loan from his bank.
All national banks had to become members, and any state banks above a certain capitalization could join if they met certain requirements. Such banks in each district formed their Federal Reserve bank, each bank subscribing to stock equal to from 3 to 6 per cent of their own capital stock. Thus the member banks own the reserve banks.

But they do not entirely control them, nor do they get all the profits from them. They may receive 6 per cent on the Federal Reserve stock they hold. Profits above that are added to the reserve bank's surplus until that surplus equals its capital. After that, a tenth of such profits are added to surplus and the remaining profit goes into Uncle Sam's treasury as a franchise tax. Uncle made $2,000,000 that way last year.

Since the member banks own their Federal Reserve bank, they elect its directors; that is, they elect six out of the nine, the other three being appointed by the Federal Reserve Board in Washington.

Where U. S. Comes In That is where Uncle Sam and the "Federal" part come in. The 12 widely separated banks are coordinated by an eight-member Federal Reserve Board in Washington. The secretary of the treasury is always chairman and the controller of the currency is a member. The President appoints the other six "by and with the advice and consent of the Senate."
It is this board and its influence on the reserve banks that makes "the Federal Reserve System."

The board makes no loans itself;
it has no money. Its principal control is because it must approve the "rediscount rates" established by the reserve banks.

"Rediscount" is not as mysterious as it sounds. Let's say John Smith is a grocer. He wants to buy 100 barrels of flour. He hasn't the money. But he is known to his bank as an honest merchant who pays his debts. His bank is glad to lend him the money, taking his short-time note.
But let's say the bank just at that time is having a lot of other requests for loans; so many that it hasn't itself the cash to grant them all. The bank, too, must borrow. Being a Federal Reserve member, it takes Smith's note and others on which it has already loaned money, to its Federal Reserve bank, and pledges them for a loan. If the reserve bank, on ex-the recent crisis, against reserves and legally specified collateral. You will find them retiring this currency, sorting, counting, destroying, or replacing it when it comes back to them from member banks, thus regulating the supply of currency.

You will find them acting for the government in selling and buying in again its bond issues and other securities. The great World War loans were floated through the reserve banks.

You will find whole floors devoted to fast clearance of intercity checks for members.

You will find them buying up government bonds, bankers' acceptances and bills in the open market, not for speculation, but deliberately to affect the supply of available credit. You will find them influencing the interest rates in their district by changing their "rediscount rate," raising it when they feel banks are being too free with loans, lowering it when they believe banks should be loaning.

VANDERBILT APPEALS

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—
William H. Vanderbilt of Newport,
R. I., today appealed to the United States board of tax appeals to re-determine a deficiency income tax assessment of $11,496 filed against him by the Internal Revenue Bur-reau.

In his appeal Vanderbilt contended the bureau erred in disallowing loss of $86,890 from the sale of voting trust certificates representing 53,610 shares of stock of the

RELIEF PROBLEMS PRESENTED TODAY

Sec. Perkins Makes Known How Much Is Needed To Help Nation's Needy.

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—The vast unemployment relief problem, neatly summarized in four closely typed pages bristling with statistics, was placed before a labor conference today by Secretary Frances Perkins.

For their consideration also, the more than 30 conferees, all officials of labor organizations, had before them on a four page statement summarizing labor's demands was given by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

The conference is the first of a series to be held by Miss Perkins to aid her in the important role she will play in mobilizing unemployed men for forestry camps, and furnishing other employment relief aid.

Miss Perkins' statement advanced the opinion that labor in the administration of unemployment relief should be represented on state relief boards and should participate in setting administrative standards concerning the amount of relief allowed, the items in the budget to be covered by these grants, the eligibility of applicants provision for the homeless and transient, types of work suitable for work relief projects, and rates of pay on work relief.

Presents Statistics
In outlining the scope of the relief problem Miss Perkins presented these statistics.

Among other things, the Green proposal called for a billion dollar appropriation for unemployment relief and the launching of a huge program of public works.

The report brought into the meeting by Miss Perkins said about 4,100,000 families and 600,000 single persons were receiving public relief in the sections of the United States in which Federal funds were available. It added that these sections contained about three-fourths of the total population.

Reports from 124 cities containing approximately one-fourth of the country's population said 1,017,648 families were receiving relief in January this year, an increase of 88.5 per cent over January 1932.

Relief Funds
Approximately $32,000,000 will be spent from Federal funds for relief during March, 1933, estimates of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation said, forming from 76 to 80 per cent of the total amount spent in the sections being aided.

Miss Perkins report showed relief agencies in 124 cities had spent approximately $300,000,000 during 1932, an increase of 78 per cent over 1931.

Until the fall of 1931, relief funds came from local communities and that time, local funds began to be supplemented by state appropriations. Beginning with July 1932 Federal funds were made available, now totalling $300,000,000.

Under the topic "Inadequacies of Existing Relief," Miss Perkins said "In January 1933 the amount of relief granted in many sections averaged less than $5 a week per family. The food budget necessary for a family of five is about $7 a week.

"At present there are great inequalities between localities in the distribution of relief because of lack of uniform policies and because relief organizations have had to be improvised and staffed to a large extent with untrained workers.

"It is necessary to place relief administration in the hands of a need personnel and to establish uniform standards in granting relief through Federal coordination in order that funds which are limited be made to yield the utmost in human values."

As a working principle on industrial revival through public works Miss Perkins set forth:

"Since profits, which constitute industry's main spring, have today all but vanished in most enterprises, industrial revival is dependent upon the activity of organizations which do not depend on profits for their operation."

BACK THE PRESIDENT IS BARTLETT'S ADVICE

Note Republican Says No Obstruction Should Be Placed In His Path To Prosperity.

Portsmouth, N. H., March 31.—(AP)—Former Governor John H. Bartlett of New Hampshire, nationally prominent Republican, today forecast a quick improvement in the Nation's affairs if President Roosevelt is supported. He said no Republican should obstruct the president's "path to prosperity."

Bartlett, who was first assistant postmaster general under President Coolidge and also is now chairman of the International Boundary Commission said:

"If President Roosevelt is backed up he will have this country markedly on the upgrade so that everyone can see it inside of a very few weeks."

"No Republican has a right to put any obstacles in his path to prosperity."

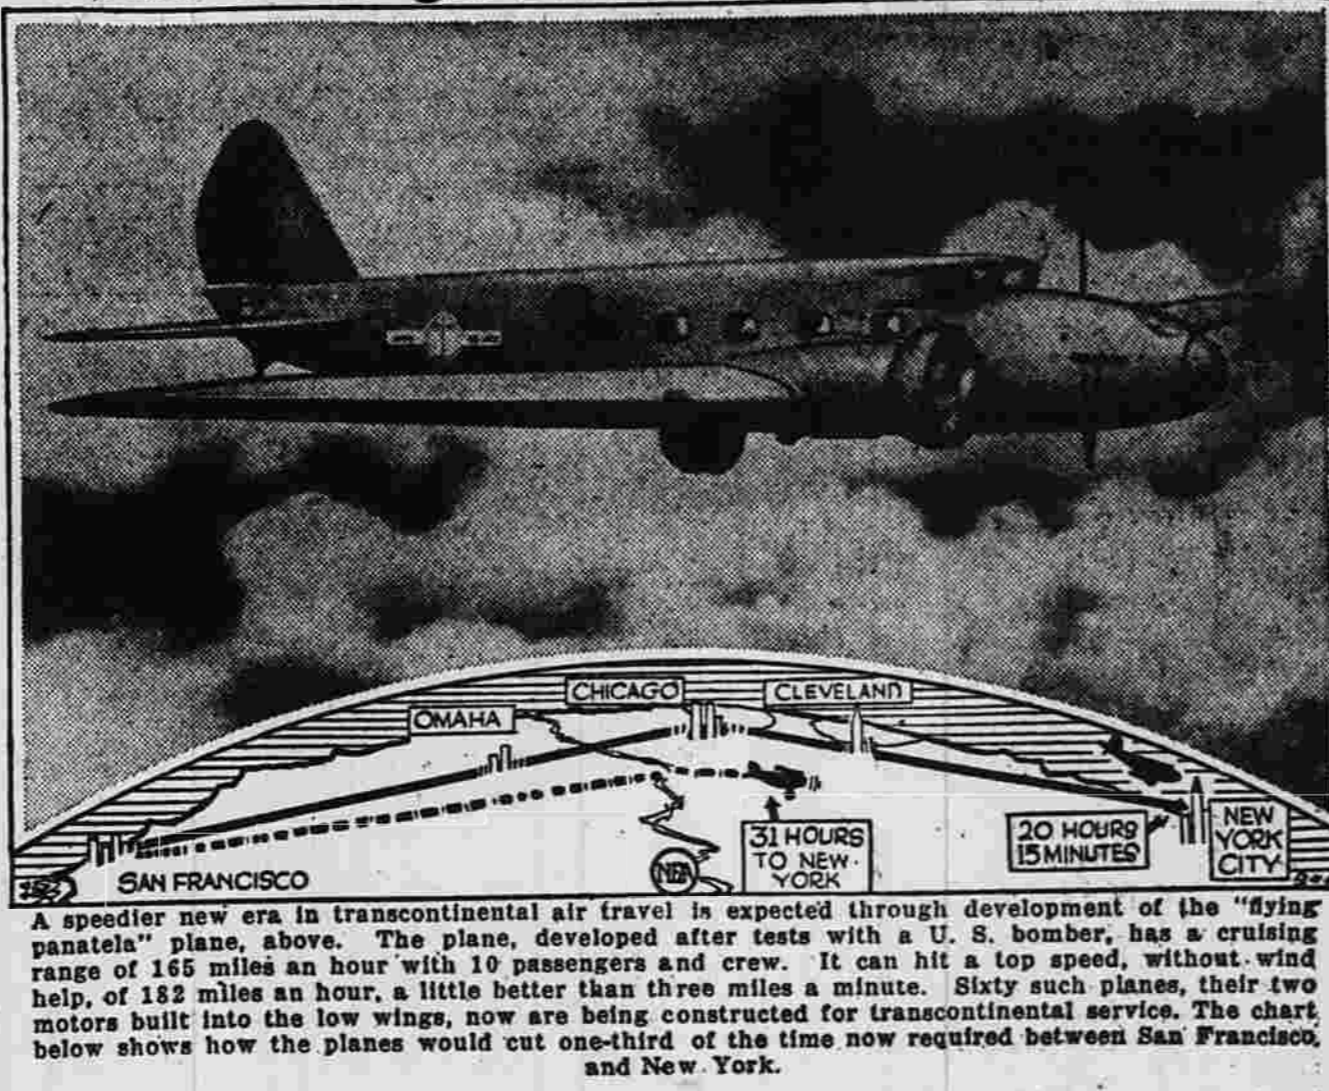

PETITION DENIED

Bridgeport, March 31.—(AP)—The United Illuminating Company, through manager Richard H. Van Horn, today formally denied the petition of a committee representing the towns it serves seeking a voluntary ten per cent reduction in municipal light and power rates for one year, corresponding to the reduction already granted the towns by the Bridgeport Hydraulic Company, Bridgeport, Stratford, Fairfield and Trumbull are the towns which called upon the company.

SEEKS DIVORCE

Bridgeport, March 31.—(AP)—Four and a half years ago her husband, Arthur Cohen, a traveling salesman of Savannah, Ga., went out to look for an apartment for her and never came back. Mrs. Doris Cohen of Bridgeport testified before Judge Arthur F. Ellis in Superior Court today in a successful plea for divorce on grounds of desertion.

New Passenger Plane Shrinks U. S. a Third

A speedier new era in transcontinental air travel is expected through development of the "flying panatela" plane, above. The plane, developed after tests with a U. S. bomber, has a cruising range of 165 miles an hour with 10 passengers and crew. It can hit a top speed, without wind help, of 182 miles an hour, a little better than three miles a minute. Sixty such planes, their two motors built into the low wings, now are being constructed for transcontinental service. The chart below shows how the planes would cut one-third of the time now required between San Francisco and New York.

BEER BILL ATTACK BRINGS 'SCOLDING' TO HOUSE NOVICE

Washington.—Freshmen members of the House, generally speaking, have been dealt with rather gently by their older colleagues on the floor thus far in the special session.

There has been little hazing of the new members such as has been so noticeable in previous new Congresses. Perhaps a lot of it has to do with the fact that many of the oldtime disciplinarians are absent.

Underhill of Massachusetts, for example, is gone. Always jealous of the traditions of the House, he could be counted on to "dress down" one or two a session, and in a fashion that usually was effective.

As a rule the newcomers in the Seventy-third have been permitted to go pretty much their own ways.

They have spoken whenever they wanted to, or rather, when they could get the time, and have been listened to rather attentively.

It Still Works
But the familiar old custom of the House of "applauding under the seat"—that phrase known on Capitol Hill as denoting disapproval of something a member does—has not been discarded entirely. It was used on a freshman representative just the other day with telling effect.

It happened during debate on the District of Columbia beer bill. A new member from Texas—McFarlane—was recognized for five minutes to speak in opposition to the bill.

McFarlane, an ardent prohibitionist who already had broken in to debate on this subject several times, began to attack the bill. During the course of his remarks he charged that before prohibition some members of the House had been under the influence of alcohol and had appeared on the floor in such a condition.

O'Connor of New York, a broad-shouldered, outspoken man, was on his feet instantly. He came back at McFarlane vigorously, declaring that the charge was an old one which had long since been disproved and that he was amazed that the Texan would bring it up again.

Order—Finally
Then the House did something that one rarely sees.

A burst of applause was heard that drowned out everything. It kept up. When McFarlane attempted to resume his speech the applause was only the louder.

It looked for a while as if he would not be able to continue. But Marvin Jones of Texas, who was presiding, pounded his gavel with such force that order was finally restored.

McFarlane resumed talking, but in a different manner. It was evident that "the applause under the seat" had had its effect.

The Record of the day's proceedings made no mention of the episode.

RULES TOWN CAN'T ACT IN RATE CASE

Judge Dickenson's Decision Is Against Petition—Not Originally a Party.

Judge Edwin C. Dickenson of the Hartford County Superior Court yesterday decided adversely on the motion of 151 patrons of the Manchester Electric Company, seeking to make the town of Manchester a "party plaintiff" in an appeal from the decision of the Public Utilities refusing a reduction in rates.

Albert Redding of Redding, counsel for the Taxpayers League submitted the appeal March 24 at a hearing before Judge Dickenson. In his ruling, Judge Dickenson found that the town did not claim to be aggrieved by the action of the commission and did not say it has an interest in the result of the appeal.

"The statute (3608) gives the right to an 'aggrieved' party to an appeal from a decision in any matter to which he or it was or ought to have been a party," the court said. Such an appeal must be filed within 30 days of the date of the decision. Although notice of the hearing before the commission was given the selectmen, representatives of the town did not appear, the decision said.

"Whether or not the decision comes to the court de novo (there seems to be a conflict of authority on the point, Gallagher vs. S. N. Tel. Co., 99 Conn., at 285; Stevens vs. Conn., 86 Conn., 33) the authorities seem to be agreed that the issues raised on appeal may not be broadened," Judge Dickenson said. "The Town of Manchester entering as a party then would be restricted to the issues raised by the other appellants and it would seem as to those that it was not a necessary party as contemplated by General Statutes Section 3608. It is not of course, without remedy, if it desires to attack the rates generally as unreasonable. It has its right of petition under a statute enacted for towns (3959)."

Assistant Attorney-General H. Roger Jones opposed the motion and Albert Redding appeared for the party plaintiff. Participation by the town in the much discussed "rate case" against the Manchester Electric Company was denied last year and the case was conducted by the Taxpayer's League after securing member contributions.

At the last March 8 special town meeting the town was made a "party plaintiff" from the Session of the Public Utilities Commission upon a vote of the meeting, and the sum of $500. was appropriated for legal and court expense. No information was obtainable today regarding the future conduct of the appeal.

Looks like March is going out like a lion. It came in a jam.

Most recipes call for about two cups of flour. Two cups of Pillsbury's Best cost about a third of a cent more than two cups of cheap flour. But—if you use the cheap flour, at a "savings" of a third of a cent, you may get a baking failure which costs you as much as you would save on the whole bag. That's false economy.

If you pay only one-third cent more for Pillsbury's Best, you get freedom from costly flour failures, and you get inexpensive, delicious foods which your family will eat in preference to other more expensive things. That's true economy.

TWO BIG FEATURES AT STATE TWO DAYS

'The Great Jasper' and 'The Cohens and Kells In Trouble' On Screen Tonight and Saturday.

'The Great Jasper' with Richard Dix and Edna Mae Oliver and 'The Cohens and Kells In Trouble' with George Sidney, Charley Murray and Maureen O'Sullivan are the two feature pictures on the double program at the State today and Saturday. On Saturday, another chapter of 'The Lost Special' will be added to the show. 'The Great Jasper' was given 3 1/2 stars by Liberty magazine which is a very high rating and the 'Cohens and Kells in Trouble' is said to be the best comedy produced by the Sidney-Murray combination.

On Sunday, Monday and Tuesday the State will present 'Ragputt and the Empress' with the Royal Family of the theater together for the first time on the screen. John, Ethel and Lionel Barrymore. This picture caused standing room only here around the Hartford Grand Theater all of last week and has broken attendance records in the larger cities where it has played at road show prices.

'King Kong' will be shown at the State, Manchester, within the next two weeks as will 'Comedian' next in 'Our Betters'; 'What No Beer?' with Jimmy Schoneck; 'Durante and Buster Keaton'; 'Humanity'; 'Cavalcade'; 'Sailor's Luck' and 'Ex-Lady' will also be shown at the local State Theater very soon.

At the Circle Theater, admirers of John Wayne will be delighted to see their favorite in 'Telegraph Trail' while the co-feature will be 'Son-Of-a-Gun' with Helen Hayes and Ramon Novarro. 'The Ammy' and 'Clear All Ways' with Leo Tracey comes to the Circle soon.

(Bones Fracture Easily)
Question—Mrs. Paula T. writes: "Our little son, four years of age, has brittle bones and has had innumerable fractures during his life. His legs seem worse than any other part of his body. Right now he has one leg and one arm in plaster. His teeth are of a bluish color and worn off; otherwise, he is bright and intelligent. The child gets good food and much milk. We would be glad to get your suggestions and help."

Answer: It is difficult to determine what is causing the condition you mention in your little son without being able to examine him. Usually this is due to a lack of some important mineral elements in the diet, often during the early part of life. Even though he may be obtaining enough of the mineral elements in his diet now, he is probably unable to assimilate them properly, and I would suggest a short fast as outlined in my article on How to Fast and Diet for Health. He should also obtain sunbaths for fifteen or twenty minutes at least twice a week. If the climate does not permit sunbaths, treatment with the ultra-violet could be substituted.

(Fatty Tumor Not Harmful)
Question: Mr. S. writes: "I have a lump on the right side of my neck about the size of a pea that has been there for over four years. Has never bothered me but I get worried at its being there. It is movable. Would like to know what causes it."
Answer: The lump is probably a fatty tumor and will cause no harm. It does not increase in size or pain in any way, I would advise you to leave it alone. However, the operation for removing this kind of tumor is a very simple one and not attended by very much danger.

(WAPPING)
Mr. and Mrs. Carl Reichenback of Deming street, Wapping, were very pleasantly surprised at their home last Wednesday evening when a party of 20 friends and relatives called to help them celebrate their 20th wedding anniversary. Their first surprise was when their daughter, Miss Ida Reichenback, who is attending the State Normal school at New Britain, arrived home unexpectedly. Friends were present from Manchester, Burnside and New Britain. The friends left with the happy couple a beautiful linen tablecloth and napkins and flowers. Cards were played and refreshments were served.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Evelyn Mary Twiss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Twiss, of 81 Elm street, to Frederick Arthur Reitzburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Reitzberg, of 81 Central avenue, East Hartford. Mr. and Mrs. Twiss and family were formerly residents of Wapping and still attend the local Grange. No date has been chosen for the wedding.
A son was born on Monday to Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Gilbert at the St. Francis hospital, Hartford. Mr. Gilbert was a Wapping boy having lived here with his parents for many years.
Miss Jane Newberry, a student at the Goby Junior College in New London, New Hampshire, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie W. Newberry.

Mrs. Elizabeth Howe of Hartford and Ion Young of New York were the week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Midwell.
The Wapping Federated Workers will observe their tenth anniversary with special exercises at the home of Mrs. Frank W. Congdon, April 7, at 3 o'clock.

Over 30,000 chimney swifts have been banded, but not one has ever been recaptured outside of the United States. It is believed that they spend their winters in the rain forest of the Amazon river, but the actual wintering ground is unknown.

Eat a BANANA A DAY for Health

New research ranks the banana higher than ever as a protective food. Its ample mineral and vitamin content increases blood circulation and speeds up cell and body tissues. Its easily digested fruit sugars and vitamins, or "body boosters" (A, B, C, G and E), are a fine aid in correcting digestive disorders, stimulating appetite, promoting growth, building energy and counteracting such infections as common colds.

EVERY WOMAN needs one pet dish that's ready in a twinkling. So here's instant banana shortcake. A little left-over or baker's sponge cake... a little whipped cream (sweetened a trifle and flavored if you like)... and bananas, and the trick is done. Try it some day, today, any day when you want to finish a meal with a grand flourish... but a flourish that saves money, time and trouble. When using bananas, remember, there's not a waste motion or a waste bite—whether baked, broiled or fried as a main dish; or served with meats. Or as a hearty, filling salad. In fruit cups, on cereals, or in a host of quick, cheap desserts... For flavor... for health... for stretching pennies further, buy bananas. They're one of the biggest bargains at your grocer's now.

DICTATOR DISBANDS SOCIALISTS' "ARMY"

Austrian Decree Dissolves Military Organization Having Over 150,000 Men.

Vienna, March 31.—(AP)—The Socialist Party semi-military defense corps "Schutzbund" was dissolved by the government in a decree issued at noon today. The decree forbids the organization to continue its activities under any other name. The corps in Vienna alone numbers 60,000 men. In all there are about 150,000 members of the "Schutzbund" in Austria with hidden stores of arms which the government presumably now will attempt to find and confiscate.

VETERANS CONFER ON ECONOMY ACT

Treasury Department Meets Leaders To Decide Where Expenses Can Be Reduced.

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—Announcement of the Roosevelt administration's plan for sweeping slashes in veteran expenditures was considered today by veteran organization officials to be imminent. The administration's program authorized by Congress under the economy act, has been laid before five veteran organizations by Lewis W. Douglas, director of the budget. The five organizations called into conference at the Treasury Department were the American Legion, the Disabled American War Veterans, the United Spanish War Veterans, the Disabled Emergency Officers Association, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. At another conference with Douglas today the organizations discussed changes in the program, which it said would "go the entire limit" of paring down veterans expenditures. No definite figure of the total cuts contemplated in the plan has been arrived at out of the more than forty pages of the plan. Yet grass-roots organization officials described as "conservative" the unofficial estimates that the cuts might total $400,000,000 or $425,000,000. While details of the plan have not been made public there have been suggestions that disability benefits granted for non-service disability, except those of a total and permanent nature would be entirely eliminated. In addition to the cuts it has been suggested that even allowances for service connected disability would have to take a 10 to 15 per cent cut.

BREWERY REOPENS

Waterbury, March 31.—(AP)—The old Eagle Brewing plant here owned by A. M. Larson and James D. Healey, is being refitted and will be incorporated shortly as the Eagle Brewing Company. Owners say it will be one of the most modern in New England and application for a license will be made within a week. This means Waterbury will have two big breweries as in pre-prohibition days. Mr. Larson says he will not sell beer before the middle of May or early June because it is impossible to manufacture good beer before that time. The name America was first applied to Central Brazil. Mercator, a geographer, first applied it to the whole known western world in 1541.

JUDGE ISSUES WARNING

New Haven, March 31.—(AP)—New Haven Superior Court Judge Patrick B. O'Sullivan warned in Superior Court today as the short docket was called. He said there had been too much contact between lawyers and jurors. He did not refer to specific cases. Judge O'Sullivan said jury matters were of the utmost secrecy and great harm might result if they were discussed. Two weeks ago Judge A. C. Baldwin gave a like warning and Judge Newell Jennings at Hartford last week commented on a specific case followed by a reprimand of an attorney.

2 INTERESTING TRIALS DUE IN HIGH COURT

Cases of Binkley and Murphy In Term Opening Tuesday Command Attention.

Two and possibly three of the seven criminal cases to be presented by State's Attorney Michael D. O'Connell at the opening of the Criminal Term of the Tolland County Superior Court on Tuesday are expected to be hard fought. Judge John Rufus Booth of New Haven will be the presiding judge.

Considerable time has been spent by the state police from the Stafford barracks in gathering evidence in anticipation of a long trial in the arson case of Prescott Murphy of Hartford, as well as in the forgery case of David W. Binkley, 31, of Cambridge, Mass.

Interest at the present time centers in the case of Binkley. He was arrested in connection with the passing of a "rubber" check at the Burke Millin Station in the town of Tolland. Extradition from Massachusetts was necessary. Binkley has a long record and is suspected of an attempt to break from the Tolland County Jail last Sunday. He is held at the jail in default of bail. Pre-trial bound over for trial are kept in a separate section of the jail from those serving sentences. They are given the privilege of walking in the corridors of the jail during the day. During the exercise period on Sunday a bar was removed from one of the windows and a second bar was bent so as to make exit possible. Just as several prisoners were about to take French leave, Jailer A. Esten Clough appeared and foiled their escape.

Suspicion centered on Binkley because of his experience in jails and prisons. His record follows: In 1924 sentenced to the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, for four years for the violation of the Mann Act; convicted later of an automobile offense; convicted in Florida in 1927 for obtaining money under false pretenses; arrested in New York for grand larceny; in Belmont, Mass., for forgery; in Boston, for theft of a motor vehicle; got out of jail there about a year ago after serving part of his four to five year term.

Charles Dally of Mansfield Center, formerly of Pennsylvania, is to be brought to trial on the charge of breaking and entering and theft. He is held for entering the summer home of Miss Sophie Dallen of New York City, on the Pleasant Valley road in Mansfield. Theft of goods valued at over $100 is charged.

Michael J. Finton of Worcester, Mass., will be put to plea on Tuesday on the charge of breaking and entering and theft.

Prescott Murphy, of Hartford, will be charged with arson resulting from a fire at the cottage at Pine Lake shores in Eggleville. The fire occurred on the night of November 11th, 1932. Louis Antos, of Burnside avenue, East Hartford, was the owner of the cottage where Prescott Murphy is accused of firing. He is to be charged with defrauding an insurance company.

Benton Rood and Francis Rood, both of South Windham, will be presented in court on the charge of breach of peace, appealed.

A civil session of the court will also be held on Tuesday morning with the assignment of cases for trial, as well as a short calendar session.

Whether a jury will be drawn for the trial of either civil or criminal cases will not be determined until Tuesday morning.

The Hockanum Mills Company is installing a group of 30 additional magazine looms this week which will furnish work for an additional group of employees.

The new looms are of the latest type for the manufacture of woollens and worsted and are being installed at the Springfield mill. Both day and night shifts are still at work in the mills of the Hockanum Company which has weathered the depression far better than other woollen and worsted concerns.

Judgment Granted Moskoe Erving Moskoe, of 27 North Street, Manchester, has been awarded judgment of $140 against James J. Healey of Buckland, formerly of Rockville. The judgment was rendered by Judge Ernest A. Inglis. The case resulted from an accident at Vernon Center on December 24, 1932. Moskoe was represented by Attorney Joseph F. Foley while Judge William B. Hyde defended Healey.

Field Day Next Tuesday
Rockville will be well represented at the annual "Tolland County Forestry Field Day" which will be held on Tuesday of next week at West Willington. Both the state and county authorities are sponsoring this project.

County Agent Ernest E. Tucker of the Tolland County Farm Bureau has been instrumental in arranging this event and an invitation has been extended to all interested parties to attend. Arrangements are to be made for transportation of the Rockville residents interested in this affair.

The field day will be held during the afternoon with the party gathering on the West Willington road, but on the Tolland County side of the river, near the double white house, shortly after 1:30 o'clock.

A very interesting program has been arranged for the event as follows: A discussion of Forest Fire Control and the inspection of the equipment which is available at the headquarters; inspection of Forestry Exhibits, particularly along the line of post crocuting; inspection of some of the Forest plantations; a woodland thinning demonstration; a county championship contest in wood chopping.

"Fajana Dance" at Grange
One of the big social events of the season will take place at the Grange Hall on Saturday evening when the Vernon Grange will sponsor a "Fajana Dance." This affair is expected to furnish unique intertainment for a large gathering from Rockville, Manchester, Eastford and surrounding towns. Valuable prizes are to be awarded for the most interesting costumes but only pajamas will be considered in awarding the prizes. Carl Buckmaster's orchestra will furnish the music for the evening.

Special Sunday Program
A special musical program has been arranged for Sunday evening at the Union Congregational church at which the last of the Sunday union services of the Congregational and Methodist churches will be held. A concert will be furnished by the Little Symphony orchestra with Director Carl Prutting in charge. Alderman Francis B. Cratty, well known baritone soloist, has consented to render several selections including "By My Fireside" by Gita Rice.

Another interesting feature will be a flute solo entitled "Offertories" by J. Donjon, which will be rendered by Robert Prutting, son of the director.

Arrange Installation
Milton Robert Liehe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Liehe, of Prospect street, will be ordained to the Christian Ministry and formally installed as pastor of the Killingworth Congregational church on next Friday, April 7th. A meeting of the examining committee will be held during the afternoon with the installation in the evening. A large delegation of relatives and friends from Rockville are planning to attend.

To Address Association
Dr. S. Harcourt Peppard, director of the Bureau of Mental Hygiene, of the Connecticut State Department of Health, will address the meeting of the Longview Parent-Teachers Association which will be held on Monday evening, April 3rd. Dr. Harcourt will take for his topic "Some Reasons for Our Behavior." All parties interested in hearing Dr. Harcourt have been tendered an invitation to attend this meeting.

Grand Chief Coming
Grand Chief Ranger Harry W. Strick of Bridgeport and Grand Secretary Thomas O'Loughlin of Naugatuck, both Grand Staff officers of the Foresters of America, will make an official visit to Court Hears of Oak, P. of A., on Thursday evening, April 6th. Dr. Thomas F. O'Loughlin of Rockville is a cousin of Grand Secretary Thomas O'Loughlin of Naugatuck.

Notes
"Men's Night" was conducted last evening at the Rockville Baptist church under the sponsorship of the Mothers Club. A church supper was served followed by a social hour and entertainment. The committee in charge consisted of the following: Mrs. Frank Long, chairman; Mrs. Eugene Edwards and Mrs. Ora Darcy.

Mrs. Ellen Chapelaine of the Rockville House went to New York yesterday morning on a business trip and returned late last evening, making the trip by auto.

Mrs. Charles Phelps and daughter, Miss Dorothy Phelps of Rockville, are in New York City for a few days, stopping at the New Weston Hotel. At the Dobsonville Methodist church tonight the playlet entitled "The Life Beyond" will be presented by a capable cast. The entire proceeds will be used to help defray the cost of securing a new piano.

Hope Chapter, No. 60, Order of Eastern Star, held a card party and social last evening in Masonic hall. The entire proceeds were donated to the Eastern Star hospital and the Robert Morris Memorial Fund.

"Dick" Pippin and Robert Lesing, students at the Mount Hermon Preparatory School at Northfield, Mass., are the guests of Mrs. Ellen Pias, of Union street, mother of the former.

A large delegation from the Clerks' Athletic club will accompany the basketball team to Broad Brook tonight where they will meet the fast basketball team.

Miss Edith Cassin, assistant town clerk, completed the work yesterday of making up the rate book for the collection of the town tax which is to start tomorrow at the Rockville National Bank with Tax Collector Charles M. Squires in charge.

District Commander William C. Pfunder will preside at the meeting of the Fourth District of the American Legion and its auxiliary which will be held at Stafford Springs on Sunday.

Charles Blankenburg of Talcottville for a few days.

The Ladies Aid society of the Rockville Methodist church held their annual meeting this afternoon in the church social rooms at 3 o'clock for the election of officers and the transaction of other business.

Oliver K. Peck of Harlow street, will commence his duties tomorrow morning as the garbage collector for the city of Rockville. Mr. Peck is the first person to undertake this work by written contract and bond for the fulfillment of the contract. He bid in the work for the sum of $1,700. Joseph Dufour, who has done the work the past year, for a sum of $2,000, will complete his duties today.

The members of Victory Assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, held a meeting and social last evening in their rooms in the Prescott block. Both bridge and whist was enjoyed after which refreshments were served.

The work of compiling the schedule at the Rockville High school for 1933-34 is now being undertaken by Principal Philip M. Howe. Indications are that there will be a larger enrollment than previously due to the fact that the 1933 class is smaller than usual.

A birthday party was held last evening for Robert Beattie manager of the Palace Theater.

BUSINESS IMPROVING
San Francisco, March 31—(AP)—Retail department store sales in the Twelfth Federal Reserve district increased in February, which is unusual, while wholesale trade decreased six per cent, which is about average, said the monthly review of the Federal Reserve bank of San Francisco.

The report, which covers Washington, Idaho, Oregon, Utah, California, Nevada and Arizona, said wholesale trade of drug, dry goods, shoes and paper, firms reported a greater decline than usual. Wholesale groceries and electric supplies held up well and sales of agricultural and hardware increased somewhat.

A Thought

... God will surely visit you, and bring you out of this land unto the land which he swore to Abraham, to Isaac and to Jacob.—Exodus 1:24.

Now, more than ever before, people buy where they get the most for their money. They patronize the institutions that give them full value. That's why the Self-Serve increased its sales 32 1/2% the three days of their Manufacturers' and Packers' Sale last week over their 1932 sales figures. This is quite an event, especially when you consider that groceries are now 20% lower than last spring. The Self-Serve continues to make new records in winning public favor. Not only in the outstanding food values that satisfy even 1933 budgets, but in its service to Manchester shoppers. The Self-Serve, a Manchester institution, as always will continue to serve the people of Manchester—through good times and bad. We wish to thank the thousands of customers who shopped here last week... and those who make the Self-Serve their daily shopping habit.

BEAUTIFUL TEETH MUST BE NOURISHED
says Cooking School Experts

Mrs. Edna Riggs Crabtree at the Manchester Herald Cooking School told you about the tooth-beauty-building vitamin-D now in Bond Bread

"Beauty must be fed into teeth, not merely brushed on," said this prominent nutritional lecturer recently. "Lasting tooth health and beauty must be built in by minerals (phosphorus and calcium) and by sunshine vitamin-D."

"Many foods bring you calcium and phosphorus. But sunshine vitamin-D is extremely scarce. Bond Bread is the only regular table-food that contains it in sufficient amount for tooth health and beauty protection."

Begin using Bond Bread today. It is fresh twice daily at your grocer's.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

"You hear a lot about those 'foreign debts' declared a man, 'but they don't worry me half as much as my own.'"

Mrs. Robinson was an extremely careful mother, and had repeatedly cautioned her 6-year-old daughter against handling any object that might contain germs. One day the little girl came in and said: "Little Girl—Mother Dear, I am never going to play with my kitten any more, because she has germs on her."

Mrs. Robinson—Oh, no, there are no germs on your kitten.

Little Girl—But, Mother Dear, I saw them.

One half the world may not know how the other half lives, but it must be admitted that the women never tire of trying to find out.

Many progressive women are up-to-date in everything, except possibly their birthdays.

Froud Mother—I think Junior becomes more like his father every day.

Neighbor—Really? And have you done nothing to prevent it?

The average woman desires to be the one to make a man forget all the other women he knows, then she proceeds to remind him of them all the time by asking him questions about them.

"Permanent peace is a pipe dream," says an aunt of ours who has lived 21 years with her step-mother, 19 years with her mother-in-law and 26 years with her daughter-in-law.

A woman in St. Paul, Minn., kissed a cop and was fined $25. There seems to be no such charge for those who cop a kiss.

Minister—Say, will you people subscribe for a new chandler for our church?

Deacon—Yes, but where are you going to get somebody to play on it once you get it?

This is the time of the year when just a little attention to the home premises and to the streets and alleys and vacant lots will do much to improve the appearance of the town during the spring and summer months. Small expenditures and a little time will do wonders in making a town attractive.

Minister—Do you take this man for better or for worse?

Colored Bride—No, sah. Jes' as he is. If he gets any better he'll die, an' if he gets any wuss Ah'll kill him myself.

Coffins never have to be enlarged because of the good that is interred with men's bones.

A man says in the Spring a housewife's fancy lightly turns the furniture around.

A little girl of four came tearfully to her mother one morning with the complaint: "How can I button my dress when the buttons are in the back and I am in the front?"

An old guy who wants to marry a young girl, should look around for one, who likes to stay at home and pop corn.

Son—Daddy, why do they call it the mother tongue?

Daddy—Well, just see who uses it the most.

It's hard to get the best of some men—they haven't any.

One reason some concerns are "in the red" is the fact that not enough black in the way of printer's ink was used in their advertising.

SETTLED

A case involving detention of a donkey was tried in a county court. At one o'clock the judge said: "Now, my men, I'm going to have my lunch, and before I come back I hope you'll settle your dispute out of court."

When the judge returned, the plaintiff came in with a black eye and the defendant with his nose bleeding.

"Well," said the latter, "we've taken your advice. Bill's given me a darned good hiding, and I've given him back his donkey."—Tit-Bits.
