SENATE APPROVES THE BUCKLEY BILL FOR RUM CONTROL

Votes 27 to 7 After a Three Hours' Debate—Measure Provides for Centralized Control.

Hartford, April 20.—(AP)—The Senate approved the Buckley liquor bill today by adopting after a three-hour debate the Goodman amendment. The vote was 27 to 7.

Seven Republicans voted against the amendment which wiped out the original beer bill recommended by the judiciary committee and substituted for it the Buckley bill providing for centralized control over all liquor traffic.

The bill, subject of the longest debate in both Houses since legislative history was approved by the Senate in the same form as passed by the House Tuesday. It now goes to Governor Wilbur L. Cross, with indications that he probably will sign it in the original form.

The real test on the measure came on the Goodman amendment, the basis of the long debate. This amendment which wiped out the original judiciary committee beer bill and substituted for it the Buckley bill was adopted by a roll call vote of 27 to 7.

The vote on the main question, the amended bill found only Senator Alcorn, minority leader and author of the judiciary committee bill, voting against it.

Republicans voted against the Goodman amendment. They were Senators Alcorn, Goodrich, Lynch, Costello, Harding, Osborne, and Miles. Senator Wright, Republican who is ill was absent.

Leaders indicated that a vote on the measure, which creates a state liquor commission of three members would come early this afternoon. At the same time indications came from the office of Governor Cross that the personnel of the commission would be announced immediately if the bill was approved by the Senate.

Senator Francis S. Bergin, majority leader, moved for the suspension of the rules to consider the bill immediately after the Senate was called to order at 11:50 a. m. by Lieut. Governor Wilcox.

The motion was carried by a viva voce vote over objections by Senators Cramer and Wetherfield and Frederick W. Huxford of Stamford. Both contended the Senate had not been given sufficient time to study the proposed legislation.

Urges Speedy Action
Another Republican, John P. Lynch of West Haven, agreed with Cramer and Huxford in their contention that the bill had not been studied sufficiently but said he would vote for suspension of the rules in view of the desire of Governor Cross for speedy action.

Senator Lynch said also that the bill endorsed by the governor should be enacted in response to public demand.

Without debate, the Senate adopted an amendment, also approved by the House which changed some of the provisions of the original beer bill reported favorably by the judiciary committee. It then took up at once the Goodman amendment which wiped out the original beer bill and substituted for it the Buckley commission plan for control.

A large crowd was in the mahogany paneled chamber long before the Senate was called to order. The crowd, however, was not so big as that which jammed the House Tuesday when that body approved the control bill after the longest debate in recent legislative history.

The desks of most of the Senators were piled with telegrams from independent store owners asserting the control measure would give cheap stores a monopoly over the beer trade. The opinion prevailed, however, that in view of the governor's opposition to any changes in the bill as approved by the House, that no amendments would be made to the bill.

Senator Bergin, first speaker for the amendment which changes the town control bill into the governor's commission plan, explained the amendment and the changes which had been made in the original bill introduced by the study commission, of which he was a member.

GREAT BRITAIN ANXIOUS ABOUT ROOSEVELT ACT

Puzzled Over Motive Behind Imposition of Gold Embargo—Value of Dollar Drops in London.

London, April 20.—(AP)—Puzzlement, coupled with extreme anxiety, was the British reaction today to the American imposition of the gold embargo and the statement from Washington that the United States was off the gold standard.

The immediate concrete result was a heavy fall in the value of the dollar as compared with the pound, coupled with violent fluctuations which within the first hour of trading on the exchange took the dollar down to where it was at one time $3.90 to the pound.

Government quarters were beset with uncertainty as to just what President Roosevelt's move meant and economists were equally bewildered.

Two things did emerge clearly from Downing street: The present official position is that Mr. Roosevelt's action was not a mere ploy, for the purpose of bludgeoning Prime Minister MacDonald, on the eve of the White House conversations and secondly, there is no disposition on the part of England to try to debate the value of the pound in order to maintain the present ratio in value of the two currencies.

British officials are puzzled over the motive behind the move. They are puzzled to see how the United States government is to be able to maintain the present ratio in value of the two currencies.

England's main concern is that the dollar will fall to a level which would make it impossible for her to maintain her position in the world market.

GEN. MAH IS ALIVE, REACHES GERMANY

Chinese Military Leader Repeatedly Reported Killed, Came from Siberia.

Berlin, April 20.—(AP)—A General Ma Ching-shan, reputedly the Chinese national hero whom Japanese military leaders claimed was killed in battle last July in Manchuria, arrived today from Tomsk, Siberia.

With him were two Chinese generals, Su Ping-wen and Li (apparently Li Ching-ling, former governor of Chihai province and a Manchurian commander several years ago) and about sixty Chinese officers and soldiers, women and children.

General Su was leader of the Chinese uprising against the Manchurian government last fall in northwest Manchuria.

The generals refused to talk except to indicate an intention to remain in Berlin several days.

None of the men were military braves. The women and children were mostly in Chinese garb.

Japanese military leaders even brought relics to their emperor as proof that General Ma was killed in battle. The woman and children were mostly in Chinese garb.

New England Flood Victims Take To Boats

Swollen rivers throughout New England gave no sign of recession as levels in some places approached those of the disastrous 1927 floods. Typical of scenes in the flooded area is this photo of a cottage in Methuen, Mass., which is partly submerged, with rowboat pulled up to the back door for escape.

AVENGER IS PARDONED; KILLED WRONG PERSON

Strangest Murder Case in History Climaxed by Exchange of Prisoners—History of the Crime.

Paso, Texas, April 20.—(AP)—Climaxed one of the strangest murder cases in Mexican border history, William Jefferson Meers, American youth once sentenced to death for shooting a Texas waiter, was exchanged at the international bridge here today for a Mexican serving a life sentence in Texas, for another killing.

Pardoned by the governor of Chihuahua in accordance with the exchange agreement, Meers was brought here by auto from Chihuahua City, Mexican officials took him to the middle of the bridge at 3:30 p. m. M. S. T. where the party was met by Sheriff Chris P. Fox of El Paso county, the Mexican prisoner, Jose Carrasco, and Meers' wife and mother.

Meers and Carrasco shook hands and then returned to their home countries from which they had been absent for years. Carrasco had been in the El Paso county jail since last July. He was brought here by two Texas Rangers and pardoned was signed by Ross S. Sterling, former governor of Texas.

A tragic mistake growing out of his desire to avenge the murder of his father led Meers to shoot an innocent waiter, Antonio Vicente, in a Texas saloon, July 18, 1929.

His father, W. H. Meers, was slain in a gun fight between five Mexican bandits and special officers guarding an $18,000 payroll in El Paso in March, 1924. In that affair an innocent bystander also was killed and several persons were injured.

The list follows: James L. McGuire of Hartford; Allen B. Ebbetts of Hartford and Hartford; Rev. Dr. Oscar S. Maurer of New Haven; Prof. Irving Fisher of New Haven; Harry G. Manchester of Windsor; H. Almon Chaffee of Bridgeport; C. W. Taylor of Southington; Richard W. Mansfield of New London; Russ O. Hall of Willington; Dr. Kate Campbell Mead of Haddam; Lillian C. Worrell of Meriden; Samuel H. Williams of Meriden.

MURDERER CAUGHT AFTER SEVEN YEARS

Bridgeport Slayer Identified in Providence Through a Set of Fingerprints.

Providence, April 20.—(AP)—Frank Rotundo, sought for seven years for murder in Bridgeport, is Providence county jail awaiting trial on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, the government fingerprint bureau claimed today after comparing prints of Antonio Rodriguez, a man who was arrested in Providence, with those of Rotundo.

Rotundo is accused by police of murdering Dominic Ciochi, a Bridgeport man, in 1926 during an argument over a watch chain.

Under the name of Aspero, Rotundo was arrested here April 3 after having discharged rifle shells into a clubroom and wounding two men on the previous night. He was found hiding beneath a pile of hay in a haystack. Meers' father the day following the shooting here.

RUSSIA RECALLS TRADE DELEGATES

Action in London Follows Imposition of Embargo Against Soviet Imports.

London, April 20.—(AP)—The British government is maintaining its firm policy in regard to the embargo pending a final Soviet decision as to whether the prison sentences of L. C. Thornton and William L. MacDonald, two of the convicted engineers, are to be commuted.

The foreign office was without direct information from Moscow but press reports indicated communication with the Soviet government was being made through the British embassy in Moscow.

It was generally stated that the embargo was not proclaimed in the face of a warning from Moscow that such a action would make it more difficult for the Soviet government to commute the sentences of the engineers.

Freedom Makes Us Goofy, Says King of the Hoboes

Cincinnati, O., April 20.—(AP)—After 27 years hobnobbing up and down the land, Jeff Davis, "King of the Hoboes," has decided "too much freedom has made us goofy."

"Instead of going to our heads, it went to our feet," he says. "We got jazz-cracked and drifted down Big House Lane until most of us would give anything to know where we are and a hope since we've been in."

"Your one of happiness may be rusty and lack, but as long as it has a handle, hold on."

"It's cheaper to go in debt to hold the boy or girl at home, rather than to go to the bank and get a loan. The bank will give you the money, but they will take your money."

PRESIDENT MAY GAIN POWER FOR UNLIMITED ISSUE OF GREENBACKS

New Frenzy of Buying Shoots Prices Upward

By Associated Press
A frenzied frenzy of buying added billions to quoted values of stocks and commodities in today's markets.

The dollar again dropped in relation to other currencies, in response to the official announcement that it was to be taken from gold.

As this in theory reduced its purchasing power, prices in the New York Stock Exchange, the Chicago Board of Trade and other principal markets, were swept upward.

Stocks were shot upward from $1 to $9 a share in one of the most hectic seasons of the New York Exchange. Trading facilities were overwhelmed, and the ticker fell half an hour behind.

Highest grade bonds, including U. S. Government issues, again weakened, as investors sought to convert their funds into speculative vehicles such as stocks and commodities.

Metals prices advanced. Copper was quoted at 6 cents a pound, up 5-8 of a cent from yesterday. Silver futures jumped about 2 to 3 cents, on top of yesterday's gains of around 8. Steel scrap prices advanced $1.50 a ton at Chicago.

Wheat jumped about 3 cents a bushel, and cotton about $2.50 a bale. Wool top futures at New York shot up 10 cents a pound, the extreme advance permitted for one day by trading rules.

Crude rubber, raw hides, silk, coffee, cocoa, oats, corn, barley, lard, and many other staples pushed ahead, in the movement which retraced a minor fraction of the losses of the past three years.

Profit taking appeared in the markets from time to time, tending to reduce the advances, but setbacks generally attracted fresh buying.

100 HOMES ISOLATED BY HARTFORD FLOOD

In South Meadow District Water Is Higher Than First Story Windows and River Keeps Rising.

Hartford, April 20.—(AP)—With the Connecticut river rising a foot since midnight miles of land in this vicinity were under water, 100 homes were isolated, many were homeless, in East Hartford, relief agencies were supplying food and housing, sanitation conditions were dangerous, rowboats and rafts were the only means of transportation and hundreds lined river banks and bridges. The river is not expected to recede much beyond 26 feet. In 1927 it reached its record of 29 feet.

Many families in the South Meadow district have abandoned their homes with the water higher than first floor windows. Garages, chicken coops and other small buildings are entirely out of sight. Furniture is floating in 15 feet of water.

William Reeves, who lives on the farm adjoining that of Morowski, said he is widely known in Manchester as an engineer, was attacked and badly beaten by Morowski when he attempted to pacify the man and divert him from the notion of killing his family. Reeves had always been the only person able to control Morowski's sudden impulses and has long been a close friend of the family.

Early yesterday morning Morowski got into an altercation with his wife in which he struck her. Mrs. Morowski with her two daughters and two stepdaughters fled in terror to Reeves' home nearby. She quickly related what had happened and when Morowski arrived Reeves sought to quiet him down, as he had done many times before.

When Morowski was aroused by the domestic political tangle remains the most important question before the special French envoy to Washington where he will engage in economic conversations with President Roosevelt, yet M. Herriot knows that American public and congressional feeling must be taken into consideration if success is to crown his efforts.

One Lump Sum
In unofficial circles it was suggested that M. Herriot may propose payment of the war debt due the United States in one lump sum of perhaps $800,000,000 to $1,000,000,000.

Measure to Go to Congress

Late Today—Inflation Plan Includes Right to Devalue Dollar by 50 Per Cent—Price Boom May Make Enforcement of Farm Bill Provisions Unnecessary and Displace Refinance Schemes—Europe Puzzled, Anxious.

Washington, April 20.—(AP)—Intent upon getting quick authority to direct a "controlled inflation," President Roosevelt and his economic counselors collaborated with Congressional advocates of currency expansion today in the drafting of legislation slated to be acted on without delay.

Congressional leaders struggled to overcome constitutional stumbling blocks in the proposed action to empower the President to direct a "controlled inflation."

The prediction came from Capitol Hill that the drastic measure would be in readiness and introduced late in the day, as an amendment to the Farm bill in the Senate, was expected to pass.

The bill would give to Mr. Roosevelt authority to issue unlimited new currency as full legal tender under the old "greenback" law, somewhat altered.

When legislation also would enable the President to reduce the gold content of the dollar by 50 per cent by international agreement or otherwise.

To overcome constitutional objections to the letter proposal, it was tentatively agreed to limit this authority to a reduction of the gold content of the dollar by 50 per cent—the same principle is involved in his control over tariff rates.

Reacting to the skyward swing of stocks and commodity prices, Congressional leaders appeared to be standing behind Mr. Roosevelt's campaign. But quick action was urged by those in authority, to get the situation fully in his hands as soon as possible.

May Avoid Refinancing
Enthusiased over results of the movement, Congressional inflationists argued in interviews that the net result would be to make up necessary the Roosevelt proposals for refinancing of farm and home mortgages.

Earlier money conditions would make this unnecessary, they contended.

Congress was tense and excited at the imminence of administration-supported legislation for "controlled inflation," but pending its arrival, Senate and House sought progress on the many-sided Roosevelt program.

The inflation plan—to give President Roosevelt wide discretion in the use of the money—was expected to be offered by Senator Thomas (D.-Okla.) late in the day, probably as an amendment to the farm bill pending in the Senate. This bill meanwhile was advanced through a mass of amendments and such argument.

Postage Question Up
The House after a two-day recess took up the Doughton bill to continue the one cent Federal gas tax and to reduce the postage rate on local letters to two cents. Only two and a half hours of debate were set aside for the bill, after which the Wagner-Lewis measure for $500,000,000 of relief loans was slated for action.

It was hoped this would be one of the ways tomorrow so muscle through legislation, approved by the military committee yesterday, could be taken up Saturday by the House.

The Senate, in view of the inflation plan, was not certain of getting done with the farm bill today as had been hoped. Progress was slow after it accepted an amendment to appropriate $100,000,000 for putting the farm price-fixing program into effect. Senator Beckhead (D.-Ia.) sought to write into the bill exemption of marketing agreements made under it from the restriction of anti-trust laws, and this unleashed a short-tempered argument over the attitude being assumed by the secretary of agriculture.

Farm Aid Needed
Some members, enthusiastic at the inflation prospect, said they believed neither the farm bill nor the other pending relief measures provided by the administration would be needed now, but that there was no intention of abandoning the bills at this time.

President Roosevelt, meantime, recommended a $500,000,000 loan to help the farmers, and a $100,000,000 loan to help the small business owners, and a $100,000,000 loan to help the unemployed.

The President also recommended a $100,000,000 loan to help the unemployed.

BARN DANCE BIG HELP TO HOSPITAL

About 500 Attend Benefit at the State Army Last Evening.

Stacks of cornstalks piled thick in the corners and placed every yard or two along the walls of the great hall of the State Army, formed an ideal setting for the Barn Dance given last night by the nursing staff of the Manchester Memorial hospital.

Guests continued to arrive until 10 o'clock when fully 500 people were on the floor or watching the fun from the balcony. All the younger physicians of the town with their wives were present.

The Memorial Hospital auxiliary, which sews every week for the hospital and raised the wherewithal to purchase much of the new linen, was represented by its president, Mrs. W. W. Wells.

MANCHESTER AND 13 UNLUCKY FOR THIEF

New Haven Man Steals 13th Auto and Is Arrested in This Town.

Jacob Magid, 18, of 869 Grand avenue, New Haven, did not consider the import of the "unlucky thirteen" early last evening when he jumped into an automobile owned by Felix Yuraski, parked on a street in Stafford Springs late yesterday afternoon and headed west towards his home in New Haven.

Magid, who is alleged to have been arrested and convicted twelve times before for similar thefts of automobiles, ran afoul of his "unlucky thirteen" in the person of Sergeant John McGillem who was dispatched to the intersection of Deming street and Tolland Turnpike shortly after the receipt of information at police headquarters from the State Police at Stafford Springs, indicating that Magid was headed towards Manchester.

REACHES 75TH YEAR, GIVEN BIG PARTY

Mrs. Mathilda Bolin of Maple Street Guest at Gathering at Her Home Last Night.

Mrs. Mathilda B. Bolin of Maple street reached her seventy-fifth birthday yesterday. The day was made a most happy one by the receipt of cards and letters by mail and flowers. Mrs. Bolin who is an active worker in the Swedish Congregational church attended the usual mid-week service at the church. Friends invited her to ride with them to her home and when she entered she was much surprised to find a large gathering of relatives and friends from this and other places already there.

After congratulations were over the guests were seated in the dining room and a delicious supper served by Mrs. Carl E. Bolin, her daughter-in-law. The beautiful table cloth in rose and white linen was a wedding gift to Mrs. Carl Bolin's mother. It was used on that occasion and not again until last evening. The candles and other table decorations were in white, yellow and green. The floral centerpiece was a bouquet of spring flowers, the gift of a neighbor, Mrs. William Keane. The three-tiered birthday cake with its 75 candles in yellow and white was the gift of Mrs. Samuel Johnson of Maple street.

Mrs. Bolin was also remembered with beautiful bouquet of flowers from the ladies of the Swedish Congregational church, a pot of tulips from Ivan Matson, handkerchiefs and other useful articles and gifts of money. Mrs. Bolin has been known locally as an excellent seamstress for upwards of 40 years.

Guests at the birthday party invited by Mrs. Carl Bolin included Mr. and Mrs. Hakan Olson and daughter, Amy, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Johnson and daughters, Elsie, Jennie, Lillian and Ellen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Olson, Carl R. Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Johnson and Ernest, Jr., Mrs. Ethel Kingsbury, Warren and Buddie, of New Britain; Mr. and Mrs. George Darling, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Johnson, Mrs. Barney Johnson, Miss Mabel Bjorkman, Stacey Irwin, Mrs. William Keane, Mrs. Gunda Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bolin, Miss Doris Bolin, and guest of honor, Mrs. Mathilda Bolin. Mrs. Robert Olson sang during the evening and a thoroughly pleasant social time was enjoyed by every one present.

WRITER BRINGS SUIT

White Plains, April 20.—(AP)—Trial of a $25,000 damage suit brought by Louis Joseph Vasio, writer, against John Sald, East White Plains, contractor, over an automobile collision in August 1928 continued in Supreme Court today. Vasio has testified that injuries he received in the collision between his coupe and a truck owned by Sald, hampered him in his literary work for a year and cut down his production and his income. Sald has testified a counter suit for $1,000 claiming that his truck was damaged in 1928.

TO KEEP GANGSTERS OUT OF BREWERIES

Justice Department to Investigate Every Applicant for Permit in United States.

Washington, April 20.—(AP)—The Prohibition Bureau and the Justice Department were united today in a determined effort to keep beer racketeers and gangsters out of the legitimate brewing business.

This was the upshot of a conference involving A. V. Dalrymple, the new prohibition director, over the issuance of permits in New Jersey, one of which went to a man listed as a gangster and who was killed in a shooting affray.

Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol, who is charged with responsibility of issuing brewing permits, asserted that some of the New Jersey permits had been rushed through at the request of Dalrymple.

The prohibition director in a stormy meeting with reporters dictated a statement in which he said that haste had been urged to get revenue flowing in from beer and that it had been the intention to avoid showing favoritism.

Saying he would not enter a dispute with Dr. Doran, Dalrymple asserted that in the future "his department shall insist that no brewery, winery or distillery application be approved until it has been passed upon by this office."

Probe is Started
Dalrymple also said that permits would be revoked if it is found that "fraud, deceit or misrepresentation has been practiced." Just before that Attorney General Cummings announced he had started an independent investigation into the issuance of permits all over the country, declaring that the Justice Department would use every resource to keep known offenders and those with criminal records out of the beer business.

Cummings said he would give Dalrymple and Dr. Doran every chance to agree on a policy for handling the permits, but if they failed he would step in more forcefully.

Dalrymple flatly declined to discuss with reporters Cummings' statement that the prohibition director's move in demanding the resignation of William G. Walker, administrator for northern California and Nevada, an appointing a successor had been made without the knowledge of the attorney general.

EXPERT DESCRIBES BRIDGE OF FUTURE

Single Suspension Spans Over Mile Long Painted in Many Colors.

Pittsburgh, April 20.—(AP)—Skyscraper bridges of gleaming metal—single suspension spans, a mile or more in length—were described today by Dr. D. B. Steinman, New York consulting engineer, as a coming development of engineering science.

Speaking before the Engineers' Society of western Pennsylvania, Dr. Steinman pictured the bridge of the future as exceeding anything yet known in beauty and size.

"New principles in span building permit lengths 1,000 feet or more over any existing single-span construction," he said.

"New metals are being tried. Aluminum will be more extensively employed in future bridge erection. Bridge paints of dull black, and cold, forbidding battleship gray will give way to colors—soft bluish greens to match the landscape, relieved by bright stainless steel.

"New lines will express the functions of stress-bearing parts. The old cross-bracing principles are being eliminated."

Largest Single Span
The largest single span in the world, the proposed $14,000,000 tri-borough bridge across the Narrows in New York harbor, was described by Steinman as a forerunner of the bridge of the future.

"This span, he said, will be 4,500 feet long, 1,000 feet longer than the George Washington bridge over the Hudson river and longer by 1,800 feet than the longest span in the San Francisco bay bridge now under construction. It will be the highest in the world, 235 feet above the water.

The span will be of suspension type, supported by two cables 48 inches in diameter from towers 800 feet high. The stiffening truss, hitherto indispensable element of suspension construction, has been eliminated in the proposed structure, he said.

Steinman said a bill now in Congress to permit construction of the tri-borough bridge is assured of passage at this session and construction will be started immediately by a private corporation.

TRADE SCHOOL TO HAVE 'OPEN NIGHT'

Pick May 10 as Date for Annual Exhibit of Work Done There.

The local State Trade school will hold its annual "Open Night" on Wednesday evening, May 10, from 7 to 9 o'clock. The various departments of the entire school will be in full operation and for the first time parents and townspeople will be given an opportunity to sit in on the recently inaugurated social study classes.

Music Program
It is planned to give a musical program in the assembly hall also. "Open Night" is open to all parents and townspeople who are interested in learning the methods used in vocational guidance.

Plans are progressing rapidly for the Trade school graduation exercises to be held in June. A class of about thirty students will graduate and a prominent speaker will be obtained to speak at the exercises.

Speaker Today
At the regular assembly this afternoon, O. D. Baynes, safety engineer of the Travelers Insurance Company, spoke to the students on "Safety First." Next week Thursday, A. W. Keane, sports editor of the Hartford Courant, will speak on sports in general.

RAND-TO-HEAD HOSPITAL DRIVE

Campaign for $15,000 to Get Underway May 15 It Is Expected.

Jay E. Rand, who has headed a number of financial drives during the past year, has been named as general chairman of the Memorial Hospital's 1933 campaign for a quota of $15,000.

National Hospital Day will be observed on Friday, May 12, and an extensive program is planned at the local hospital.

Mr. Rand has had much experience in drives of this kind. He headed the hospital campaign last year, was chairman of the Citizens' Committee that raised funds for the new Manchester Trust Company.

The office staff at the Chamber of Commerce has completed the prospect file to be used by the volunteer workers of the campaign.

100 HOMES ISOLATED BY HARTFORD FLOOD

Streams that a few days ago were streets.

Fire started this morning in a three family dwelling on Florence street, Hartford and fire apparatus was unable to approach it.

The rushing waters filled Commerce street from State to Grove streets and many parts of Westfield were suffering from its effects.

At 10 a. m. the water had risen to 25.2 feet an advance of a full foot since midnight when it was registered at 24.2.

Railroad traffic was impeded by the rising waters and in East Hartford 25 loaded coal cars were placed on the tracks west of the street.

Fair weather held over most of New England and the crests of the overflowing streams was rapidly moving southward.

The peak of the Connecticut's rise was felt at the New Hampshire-Massachusetts line early today and was expected in the vicinity of Northampton this morning.

The Merrimack, north of Nashua, N. H., was gradually getting back to normal after driving 300 persons from their homes at Concord, N. H.

Another was added to the list of flood dead, bringing the total to five, drowned at South Royalton.

Flooded roads were still an impediment to travel on many of the western Massachusetts highways.

RABBIT CLUB PLEASED WITH EXHIBIT RESULTS

The members of the Junior U. S. Rabbit club, composed of both boys and girls, held a show last week in the Buckland building at North Main and North School streets.

The exhibit proved a success, the committee reported to the meeting this week, and they have already decided that there will be another show and a drive for active members will be started at once.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, April 20.—(AP)—The overnight announcement that the United States had cut loans from the gold standard.

Stocks surged up 1 to more than 9 points in the most active trading in nearly three years.

Stocks calculated to benefit by enhancement of inventories were particularly strong.

Copper jumped 5, then reacted 4, then closed 3 1/2. International Nickel jumped 3 1/2 with a transfer of 40,000 shares.

While hopes or fears of definite reduction in the purchasing power of the dollar was a strong factor in the market.

Metals were notable in the advance in commodities. Copper jumped from 8 1/2 to 6 cents a pound.

Wall street was keenly interested in Washington reports of the administration's plan to organize private industry for revived activity.

Fire started this morning in a three family dwelling on Florence street, Hartford and fire apparatus was unable to approach it.

FINAL FIGURES SHOW 1932 GAS USE NEAR PEAK

Dropped Only 5.8 Per Cent Below Record Total of Previous Year; Industrial Sales Down 9.3 Per Cent.

Final statistics on the sales of manufactured gas compiled by the American Gas Association show that sales of gas held up exceptionally well in Connecticut during the last year.

The American Gas Association's final figures also reveal exactly what might be expected in the gas sales of an industrial state such as Connecticut.

PRESIDENT MAY GET POWER FOR UNLIMITED ISSUE OF GREENBACKS

The first official departure of the United States from the gold standard in more than fifty years was felt today throughout the world.

London—Bolshevik's reaction was punishment and extreme hostility. The dollar value dropped heavily.

Paris—Stocks jumped up and the dollar closed on the Bourse at 23 1/2 francs.

Berlin—A high financial authority said that in the long run present fluctuations could not touch the dollar value.

Rome—Large groups of American tourists called at banks and sought dollar seeking advice.

Vienna—American travelers got 10 per cent less for their dollars than they did a few days ago.

New York—The dollar continued its precipitous fall in the tower of the Battle Creek (Mich.) Sanitarium.

The official exchange closed yesterday was 17.01 lire to the dollar.

Italy—The suspension of the gold standard was undertaken deliberately to decrease the purchasing power of the dollar.

Gold Standard Is The gold standard, as commonly defined, provides a measure of value in terms of gold.

Thus the gold standard in this country had not been in full operation since the banking holiday in March when redemption of paper money was halted.

With the United States a creditor nation, and enjoying a favorable balance of trade, foreign exchange experts explain that under normal conditions the dollar left to find its own level on a demand and supply basis would naturally be expected to advance rather than decline.

Inflation has become such a contentious word that a number of financial authorities have sought to substitute other words for it, such as "anti-deflation."

With the dollar cut loose from gold, the only important currency still on a free international gold standard are French and Swiss francs.

The necessity of stabilizing currencies to prevent international trade with world trade, it is expected in important banking quarters, will now become so imperative that a substantial termination of the world economic conference seems almost assured.

It is to be expected that President Roosevelt will find a lot of dead wood in government bureaus.

What 49 Days Without Food Did to 'Scientific FASTER'

As the start 20 days later 40 days later Alexander Bolsay, an aviation engineer, has finished a 'scientific fast' of 49 foodless days by taking a minute portion of weak tea and honey.

The demand for dollar will always result in a natural equalization of dollar exchange near parity, it was said.

Added to this is the fact that the number of countries which might be considered for a capital flight has shrunk greatly.

The measures taken by the United States in the view of commentators here, really constitute an underscoring of the demand by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank.

Although French financiers were saying that France eventually might be obliged to follow the United States and go off gold.

RUSSIAN NEWS AGENCY GIVES STORY OF TRIAL

Because of Widespread Interest in Metro-Vickers Case, Soviets Asked to Give Account of Hearing.

EDITORIAL NOTE: In view of the widespread interest in the Moscow Metro-Vickers trial the A. P. asks the Russian news agency serving all the newspapers in Russia to transmit its own account of the proceedings and a statement of the Soviet point of view. The dispatch follows:

Moscow, April 20.—(AP)—(By Tass, Official Soviet News Agency.)—The Supreme Court of the U. S. S. R. is sitting in special session from April 13 to April 18 under the chairmanship of Vassili Ullrich, examined in open hearing the case of defendant Gusev, Gregory, Zibert, Zerin, Krasheninnikov, Kolyarvsky, Kutsuzov, Cushman, Lebedeff, Lohonoff, Macdonald, Monkhouse, Nordwell, Olyenik, Sokoloff, Sukruclukin as Thornton.

The court established the following: In the course of several years, systematic breakdowns of separate units took place in big electrical stations of the U. S. S. R. At Moscow Zlatoust, Chelabinsk, Ivesovo, Baku and other places. These breakdowns stopped the units for more or less lengthy periods and lowered their power.

On the basis of data submitted to it, an expert committee concluded that in all the breakdowns investigated, there was either criminal negligence or direct wrecking activities by the technical personnel of these stations.

State Employees On the basis of material adduced in the judicial investigation the court established that the cause of the breakdowns was wrecking activities by counter-revolutionary groups, consisting of state employees at the electric stations (mostly higher technical personnel) in connection with some employees of the private English firms, The Metropolitan-Vickers Company.

The court's verdict enumerated wrecking acts in four electrical stations and gives detailed qualifications of the crimes of those who directly executed the wrecking acts and of the English citizens.

The court established that among the employees of Metropolitan-Vickers, the leading part in the crimes belonged to Thornton, under whose direction, wrecking activities at various electric stations was carried out by engineers of the firms Macdonald, Cushman, Olyenik. Through these persons, as well as directly, Thornton came into contact with counter-revolutionary groups and came to terms with them to effect break-downs in order to break down the equipment supplied by Metro-Vickers; he gave bribes to state employees for criminal actions committed by them; engaged in military espionage on territory of the U. S. S. R., collecting through MacDonald, Cushman, and Olyenik secret information of military importance; and gave bribes to state employees (Gusev, Sokoloff and others) for information received.

The criminal action against Thornton was in reference to Article 58 of the Criminal Code. Clauses, six, seven, nine and 11.

Monkhouse informed Monkhouse, a representative of the Moscow office of Metro-Vickers was informed about Thornton's activities and participated by bribing state employees to conceal defects in erection work which led to breakdowns. The criminal action against Monkhouse was in reference to Article 58, Clauses 7, 9 and 11 of the Criminal Code.

The executors of the wrecking instructions of Thornton were MacDonald, Nordwell, Cushman and Olyenik, who organized breakdowns, concealed defects in equipment and collected military information of a secret nature. The verdict inculpated Anna Kutuzova in concealing and assisting the criminal actions of some employees of Metro-Vickers.

BEER TO CUT OUT HOT-CHA DITTIES

Composers and Musicians Believe Classical Music Will Soon Return.

New York, April 20.—(AP)—Inspired by a Milwaukee pronunciation that beer will bring mellow music, two head men of the music joined today in enthusiastic prediction of a classical renaissance.

Gene Buck, president of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers—the music makers—said: "I honestly believe beer will bring a better music."

Joseph M. Weber, president of the American Federation of Musicians—the music players—said: "Musicians generally anticipate a decline in the hot-cha school of musical expression and a return to the more sentimental type of song as a result of the beer influence."

"Beer is always conducive to decent music," said Buck, "and by decent music I mean the classical. The music of the old beer garden orchestras was always fundamentally fine. Popular music was only interspersed."

He cited the development of music in Germany where Wagner lived and people sat Under-den-Linden to quaff beer while listening to Wagner's stirring strains.

"There are hundreds of fine composers who have been unable to express themselves in this cockeyed jazz era," he said, "and now it is to be hoped that they can turn their efforts to good music. Beer will not wipe out the jazz school, though, and there will always be a place for modern music. George Gershwin and others are definitely in the scheme of things."

"The time seems ripe," said Weber, "for some change in the popular music vogue and, since song writers and musicians expect it, beer comes opportunely to suggest a new type of song. Many orchestra leaders are reviving old favorites in the belief that these will enjoy temporary popularity."

"A further element of influence is the likelihood that beer drinkers will want to sing as they always have in the past. Current songs are tricky and difficult for the amateur singer. Hence the expectation that ballads will return."

BETTER HOMES WEEK

Being the owners of the model national home, the Girl Scouts should set both the standards and the pace for the celebration of Better Homes Week April 23-29, so believes Mrs. William Brown Meloney, founder of the Better Homes movement which was incorporated in 1922 as a welfare project.

"Originally," Mrs. Meloney explained, "the Better Homes Corporation was founded to overcome the shortage of houses after the war. Very soon the basis of the movement was broadened to include improvements not only in homes but also the home-making standards of their inhabitants."

The New York Herald Tribune Institute, of which Mrs. Meloney is chairman, is making its contribution toward the education of Girl Scouts in the essential duties of a home-maker. To it the Girl Scouts go for lessons in cooking and table setting.

"The number of Girl Scouts all through the country who voluntarily qualify for tests in these and other such feminine occupations is proof to me," said Mrs. Meloney, "that girls sometimes regard these occupations as dull only because they are presented to them in a dull way. The Girl Scouts learn to see them for what they are—the technique of the finest, most subtle and satisfying art in the world. If this movement had done nothing else but inspire them to give this annual showing of the domestic arts, I should regard its existence as fully justified."

AT THE STATE. Radio Stars Revue. "Gabriel Over the White House" with Walter Huston will be shown for the last time tonight at the State where "Stars from Radioland" are appearing in person on the stage as an added attraction to the regular screen show. On Friday and Saturday the State will offer "The Half Naked Truth" with Lee Tracy, Lupe Velez and Eugene Pallette. On Sunday comes Joan Crawford in "Today We Live" with Gary Cooper. In the absence of the State's popular the ballyhoo racket and which is alive with personality, "The Half Naked Truth" parallels some of the real life exploits of the late Harry Reichenbach, generally conceded to have been the most spectacular press agent Broadway ever knew. Lee Tracy plays the role of the press agent. Lupe Velez plays opposite him as the girl who became famous through high pressure publicity.

Diana Wynyard, May Robson, Ruth Selwyn, Hilda Hopper and Mary Carlisle, who comprise the feminine membership of the cast of "Men Must Fight," opening Friday at the State theater, were asked to take a unique pledge during filming of the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production. Most of the action in the picture is laid in 1940 and the players were requested not to copy for private use the gowns designed for them by Adrian, celebrated stylist.

DARLING FOOL

By MABEL REBELLOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MONICA O'DARE, pretty, 30, and poor, is in love with DAN CARDIGAN, heir to one of Belvedere's fortunes. Monica works in a drug store, helping to support her mother, her younger sister, KAY and her brother, MARK. An older brother, BILL, is a garage mechanic. The O'Dares have been better days. Dan Cardigan comes back from the city and does not seek Monica out at once. She is unhappy. Dan arrives unexpectedly as Monica is washing the supper dishes and they go out riding. At a dancing place they encounter CHARLES EUSTACE, mysterious and handsome newcomer in town, with SANDRA LAWRENCE, a local heiress.

CHAPTER III

Instantly Sandra took charge of the situation. Reluctantly, Monica admitted to herself that the older girl's charm, Sandra's prettily bossy ways with both of the men—with Charles Eustace whom she addressed formally and with Dan, whose first name, of course, she employed.

"Fancy finding you two here?" Sandra drawled, peering off her white gloves as she looked at the chair opposite Monica and next to Dan. Her long-lashed gray eyes flickered an instant over Monica's simple frock. For the briefest possible moment Monica had the sensation that Sandra was looking at her as if she were a stranger. Sandra had been a good friend to her all this past year, had gone to some trouble, actually, to be nice to her. "I'm imagining things," Monica decided, giving herself a mental shake.

None the less, it galled her to find that Sandra was so warmly perceiving Dan as she was perceiving Monica. The color flamed in Monica's face. Sandra was talking to Dan in a low intimate tone, not to be heard above the orchestra's bleat. Monica turned to find Charles Eustace's gaze full upon her. He asked, "Care to dance?"

She rose, and with the barest word to the others, slipped into his arms. How tall the man was! And what enormous shoulders he had! He seemed actually to dwarf Dan who had always, heretofore, seemed Apollo-like in proportions.

She was grateful to him. He danced easily and well and Monica's small slippered feet followed his steps smoothly. Once he spoke, "Sorry I don't do these 'new stunts'." She glanced up at him and indicated the performance of two or three young couples dancing absorbedly in the center of the floor. Check to check, brow to brow, they revolved to the music. Now and then they would break apart and, with a look about each other, would walk forward slowly wearing the rapt expressions of sleep walkers. It was a spectacle to which Monica was accustomed but, seen with the eyes of this amused newcomer, it suddenly took on a new light. She forgot her pain in Dan's affection sufficiently to smile with him.

"It is rather funny, isn't it?" He shrugged. "Seems so to me. Is it the very newest?"

Monica told him. "The high school girls all do it. My young sister, Kay—"

He interrupted her. "Ah—I was sure you girls must be staid. I see her every day when she passes the office."

Monica said, surprised. "But I didn't know you had one." Then she flushed because she had revealed so much in interest. Charles Eustace took her. "My uncle's place is what I mean. Dr. Waterman's. I go down there every day to read."

They returned to the subject of Kay. "She's extraordinarily pretty," Eustace said thoughtfully. "Or rather I should say she's beautiful. She has a sort of—sort of luminous quality about her that's dazzling."

Monica reflected that Kay would be wild with delight to hear such poor child, she had few enough compliments!

The music stopped and they returned to their seats. Sandra sat back, smiling faintly. Dan, as he rose, wore a moody look.

Monica pretended not to notice. She felt unaccountably embarrassed. Dan Cardigan wasn't the only man in the world, after all! She was foolish to let every chance word of his, every small slight, wound her so deeply.

Sandra gave her a quizzical look. It was almost as if she were prodding her. "What's the matter?"

"For the first time Monica felt distrust of Sandra Lawrence. She hid it, beginning to chatter gaily of nothing at all. Had Sandra planned this encounter, she wondered, under the cloak of her gaily? Had Sandra known she was to be at the dancing place with Dan and, knowing, had she brought Charles Eustace as a decoy? No, no, the thought was too fantastic! Eustace was far too desirable a companion to be used as any woman's bait. Sandra's behavior was completely unaccountable.

Sandra toyed with her sandwich and Dan gloomed. On a sudden impulse Monica said calmly, "I must be getting along, Dan. You know I said I'd be home early."

He muttered something rather ungracious and Monica rose, rather fearful inside, but determined.

"All right, Dan, if you want to stay and dance with Sandra perhaps Mr. Eustace will take me home."

It was a chance throw and it told. Dan got to his feet. "Sorry Monica feels she has to break up the party."

She made her ashamed but she held to her determination. "You don't need to leave now, honestly, Dan."

delighted if Miss Lawrence approves the change in partners."

No one could have told what Sandra's emotions were. If it was triumph she felt, she veiled it well. "Stick around, Dan," she advised. "Mr. Eustace will take good care of Monica—and after all, you can see her tomorrow any time."

Her flashing glance advised the company that Monica was always available. All the other girl's soul rose in outrage at this challenge.

"Not quite that," she said coolly. "I'm frightfully busy these days. See you sometime, Dan."

Her heart was beating very fast as she left Dan and Sandra alone together. She felt a little sick and her victory tasted bitter in her mouth.

Sandra came rushing into the drug store the next day quite as if nothing had happened. In the face of her bright cordially Monica could do nothing. Hadn't she, after all, made the initial step the night before? Hadn't she offered to leave Dan with Sandra, going off home with Charles Eustace? Oh, she was so all Sandra was so sweet—you had to trust her!

"You mind?" Sandra exclaimed archly.

Monica, wrapping up the box of expensive face powder, her friend had charmingly demanded, turned to stare.

"What do you mean?"

Sandra looked more arch than before, her thin, prettily rouged lips smiling mockingly. "As if you didn't know!"

"I don't," Monica protested, in all honesty.

"Bagging that handsome devil," Sandra murmured. "You're clever, Monica, darling. Cleverer than I thought."

Monica flushed. "Do you call that bagging?"

"Just so," said Sandra emphatically. "Go," she said. Sandra emphatically. "Go," she said.

Sandra's laugh tinkled across the counter and several loungers at the sofa fountain turned to stare at her.

"Oh, my dear, you know how it is!" she said with an airy gesture. Sandra's assumption that every unmarried male in Belvedere paid court to her had inspired many of her contemporaries. Monica had never felt a surge of irritation at this assumption before. Now she experienced a new light. She forgot her pain in Dan's affection sufficiently to smile with him.

"What are you thinking of?" Sandra demanded.

"Nothing at all," Monica said hastily.

"Well, then, I'll be going," drawled Sandra over her shoulder. "See you soon."

She had not said a single word about Dan, had, in fact, deliberately left his name out of the conversation.

Monica burned to know what they had talked about the night before. Sandra was her good friend. But what had she said to Dan about her? It would be any for Sandra to dismiss Monica with a phrase. She could say, "Of course, she's a nice little thing, Danny, but—" leave the implication that Monica was a little thing. BUT her people lived on the wrong side of town, in the wrong sort of house. Would this matter to Dan? Perhaps not to him, but to his snobbish family—yes! Old Judge Cardigan looked "wider over Monica's head when he came in to buy shaving cream. Geraldine, Dan's sister, gave her the coolest of nods when they changed to meet. If Monica raged at this in her heart there was nothing she could do about it. Dan could change it all quickly enough, if he wished. No one in Belvedere would dare to snub Mrs. Daniel Cardigan.

Monica answered the telephone, took orders, all in a sick sort of daze. Things were not going at all as she had expected when Dan came home. What was she to do? She seemed to be losing him.

Uncle Sam's Tips
OR VEGETABLE GARDENING

By W. R. BEATTIE
 Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture

We're off to another season in home gardening, and this series of garden articles is intended to help gardeners get the most out of their gardens this season. Under present business and employment conditions it is evident that gardens will be very much in demand this year as a means of providing plenty of fresh vegetables for many families.

Every far-sighted gardener will keep his plants in the garden this year— it does not pay to garden on poor land, and it does not pay to plant a garden and then neglect it.

To be satisfactory, a garden should first be well planned, and it should be cared for right through the season. The garden needs the protection of a fence, and the control of garden insects is essential.

The quantity of good, fresh vegetables that your garden produces will depend very largely on the thought and care you give it.

The fundamentals of success are good land, the use of a little fertilizer, good, fresh seeds, and frequent cultivation to control weeds and keep the soil mellow. In the sections of the country having a natural rainfall, it may be necessary to water the crops during dry periods, and irrigation is required in the regions where rain does not fall during the growing season.

Get your garden started early. An important point is the desirability of making second, third, and even fourth plantings in the garden in order to prolong their season. Many southern gardeners have "all-the-year-round" gardens, with at least two vegetables from their gardens every day in the year.

The growing season for the northern gardener may be short, but he can lengthen it somewhat by using hotbeds and coldframes, and by growing early plants in the house.

In early days the weeping hand was bare and held out as a symbol of peace. This is believed to have been the origin of handshaking.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

ADOLESCENCE REQUIRES PATIENCE

We have two poles to draw together in this matter of bringing up children. And no one says how to do it.

When children are little, we are told, they must have love. Things must be done for them—they need to be cherished and attended to. When they are older they should be independent of their parents, or at least, have thrown off the childish habit of expectancy. This attitude of mind, say the seers, brings mental content, because the child in his teens should still be reacting to small selfish disappointments.

But no one tells how this miracle is to happen.

True, we try in a measure to make the young child independent. But we don't, can't, go very far. We try to teach him to be brave and self-reliant, and above all, to resent when things don't come his way. But little children being what they are and needing so much attention, are bound to develop minds centered in themselves.

We Hate to Grow Up

All the things that make us unhappy in later life are the things that naturally associate themselves with our early years. If we could get away from the child in ourselves we would not be the misfits that we are, nursing grudges, wondering why "we" are picked out for misfortune, yearning for hearts and nerves over the fact that a world at large refuses to center its kindness upon us as our mothers used to do.

The truth is that few of us ever really grow up.

Now I believe the most difficult stage of human existence is when we first enter this period, or at the "teen" age.

Later, by sad experience or our own wits, we grow thicker skins. If we have sense we soon perceive that things are not as they used to be. We cannot lean on anyone but ourselves; no one will mother us. But just at first it is hard going, because the mother herself is the first one to insist on a wholesome independence.

Let's face the fact.

This is why we should be particularly patient with the boy or girl just over the borderline from childhood. They are big. They look old. We expect their feelings to be the same as those of older people.

Yes, parents are still there, and love is still there—but with a difference. Parents not only know that it is bad to continue babying their long-legged offspring, but gradually, as nature demands, they must draw the corncupping that showered so much at the little child's feet.

All this coming at an age when there is a sort of rebirth of nature and all sorts of difficult adjustment. A boy or girl feels lonely, forsaken, left out!

We should be very patient with the adolescent child. Hard for mother, hard for boy or girl! A certain amount of independent training should be started before the teen years are reached. It makes it easier for everyone.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

WITHOUT DAINTESS, EVEN BEAUTY MUST LOSE CHARM

This is a prize year to get a grand reputation for daintiness. Daintiness is next to beauty in the scale of charm. It even has the edge on beauty, for steady company.

Daintiness, to put it bluntly, means immaculate cleanliness, scrupulous grooming, clothes so fresh they look as if you had stepped out of a bandbox and then that delicate, fresh fragrance that every woman craves.

If you are wearing white collars and cuffs, do not let them be a lazy girl and decide they'll do the second day. They may do all right but you will have forfeited your daintiness appeal. Get a couple of pairs and keep them washed and ironed to perfection.

If you have white hats, be very careful about them. They are a luxury unless they wash or you can clean them yourself. White gloves are quite as much of a nuisance, but how nice they do look! It's worth the trouble.

Black things and dark dresses need tremendous care, too, if you are building up self-respect for your own daintiness. And all your lingerie must be fresh each day. And again in the evening!

Warm weather makes it hard for the woman who perspires freely. But deodorants will do the job! Most of them should go on evenings, and some again in the morning. Your feet particularly, must be given special care. And if your hands perspire, massage them; get their circulation improved and use cologne on them, before you leave for the day.

PHYSICAL REST NEEDED BY PERSONS OVER SIXTY

His views regarding alcohol are also interesting. He says: "In conditions in which the use of alcohol is not prohibited, a little wine or beer or an occasional cocktail, a glass of whiskey and water, or a liqueur may be much appreciated. It is also well to eat small, solid, particularly less meat and fat. Moreover, all foods that cause indigestion such as rich and highly spiced foods should be avoided. It is also well to eat slowly and to chew the food thoroughly. There are two periods of life in which liquid food is best borne by the stomach: first childhood and second childhood. The older person may consider whether five small meals are better suited to his intestinal condition than three large ones."

An excessive intake of water throws an unnecessary extra strain on the heart. It is also desirable for older people to eat less food than formerly. Indeed, after the age of 50 people should eat a little less each year. Meals, in addition to being small, should consist of easily digested foods, particularly less meat and fat. Moreover, all foods that cause indigestion such as rich and highly spiced foods should be avoided. It is also well to eat slowly and to chew the food thoroughly. There are two periods of life in which liquid food is best borne by the stomach: first childhood and second childhood. Queer Twists In Day's News

Omaha, Neb. Beauty pays dividends in more ways than one. Dr. Joseph C. Bloodgood, adjunct professor of surgery at Johns Hopkins Medical school told 150 physicians from Nebraska and surrounding states that a beautiful woman never gets cancer of the face because she constantly "takes care of it."

Chicago—Beware of bar foot, says Dr. William Gribow, an officer of the Illinois chiropodist organization.

"Some men, and women" he told a foot clinic, "have a habit of placing one foot on a rail in front of bar and keeping it there for a considerable time. The result is that the other foot takes the full weight of the body."

This isn't good for the feet he said, suggesting such persons should try alternating from one foot to the other.

Escanaba, Mich.—When Mrs. Adolph Franz discovered her six months old baby had been kidnapped from a carriage while she was shopping, police started a frantic search. Two hours later the "abv" was found unharmed in possession of seven year old Anna May, English.

Anna May explained she wanted a live doll with which to play.

Baltimore—William Rundie Hecker, headmaster of Wilton's grammar school, Cambridge, England, attended a baseball game here.

"The gentleman in the seat behind me kept yelling in an extraordinary way," he recounted afterward. "I tried to catch what he was saying but it was an entirely new jargon to me. I couldn't understand a word of it."

Morton, Ill.—Since beer came back this town has seen things hum in the pottery business.

The local factory is turning out some four thousand steins a day. Within the last ten days the company has been operating at top speed with an increased working force of sixty men.

Officials said they were swamped with orders.

Kenosha, Wis.—Arthur Schmorow is a resourceful fisherman.

When the motor boat in which he and Maynard Knutsen were visiting nets at night stalled 12 miles from shore, Schmorow stripped off his trousers, soaked them in oil and set fire to them. Holding the burning garment aloft, Schmorow attracted the Kenosha Coast Guard lookout and soon was back on land, looking for another pair of pants.

YOUR FLOWER GARDEN

The time is here when all flower gardeners commence planning their attractive beds of perennials, asters and other brightening blooms.

The Herald begins today a series of flower garden articles by one of Uncle Sam's own authorities on the subject—Dr. William A. Taylor, chief of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's bureau of plant industry.

Dr. Taylor is an eminent plant scientist who has devoted many years to the study and care of flowers. His articles are interesting, correct and informative. They deal with the planning, care and cultivation of flowers, transplanting, mixing of blooms, and grouping of different flower combinations.

To get the best flower garden out of a given space, the gardener will want to plant some plants before the soil and weather warrant outdoor plantings.

A good heavy choice varieties, particularly those with tiny seeds such as petunias, snapdragons, and other flowers, should be planted in specially prepared soil and are later transplanted to where they will flower. Others, such as cosmos, used a long season. Perennials or biennials will bloom the first year if planted early and will bloom at a different time than those wintering outside.

To speed the garden some will plant seeds in pots, seed flats, a sunny window, or in hotbeds. Seeds will rely on a coldframe, even though this may mean some delay in planting, and the young plants will not be of transplanting size so soon as with heat.

Early planting means care. Seeds sown early often disappoint, but careful preparation and intelligent management help to prevent this. The object here differs from gardening in the open, and the problem is to transplant one or two, and the first aim should be to get a good root system that will carry the plant through these disturbances. Therefore, seeds should be sown in a shallow box, light, airy rich soil in beds where plants are to grow.

GETZEWICH AGAIN LOSES MATCH TO JIM BROWNING

Grapplers Stage Dramatic Exhibition Before Climax; Local Boy's Butt Dances Champ But Al Behaves and Succumbs to Body Scissors.

Jim Browning of Montana and Al Getzewich of Manchester, two grapplers engaged in what is laughingly referred to as the wrestling profession and more commonly termed the wrestling racket, came back to the New Haven arena last night to present a dramatic match billed as a title match for the championship of the world. After the usual preliminary suspense, Mr. Browning, claimant of the world title, pinned Getzewich with a body scissors in 28 minutes and 47 seconds. The fans, after indulging in the well known razzberry chorus or Bronx cheer, left the arena, well satisfied with the evening's program.

Last night's match proceeded in much the same manner as did the first between Mr. Browning and Mr. Getzewich, both good looking, well built young men with a fair rivalry to the brothers Barrymore. Early in the match, Getzewich dropped the champion to the floor with a flying butt and then waited for his opponent to recover before continuing the proceedings.

Some time later Getzewich had Browning in a punishing arm lock that took the latter nearly five minutes to get free from. The funniest part of the affair was in Getzewich's attempts to evade Browning's famous turnover scissors, a hold whereby he tosses his opponent twice in the air while holding him with a body scissors. The former Red Devil left the ring several times to keep away from Browning's legs.

The climax was unusually thrilling, bringing to the full the dramatic ability of the principals. Getzewich went after Browning with a flying butt and caught the champ amidships twice in succession. Browning fell to the floor in a daze and remained there for several minutes.

Getzewich proved himself equal to the occasion. Seemingly overwhelmed with stage fright, as he thought that he had almost beaten a champion, Manchester boy began to shake like an aspen leaf in the ropes and had to hold to the ropes for support as his legs buckled under him. He also found that his knees gave out of place and while he tried to get up, Browning jumped in and applied the body scissors to end the festivities.

After watching the five-match card at New Haven last night one is prone to exclaim "Wrestling, what ails are committed in this name!" It seems that a wrestler needs only a strong physique, a knowledge of the arm lock, toe hold and head lock and a repertoire of tricks, such as hair pulling, kicking, fouling, kicking, kneeling and what not. It is one has these one has all the requisites of a wrestler.

Only one other match furnished any wrestling, that between Willie Zyzanski, former champion, and Lio Napoli. Zyzanski won in 12:19 after applying four flying headlocks in a row. In the semi-final, Ted Cox of California bit and gouged his way to a win over Sid West of New York in 14:28. In the opener, Dr. Fred Meyers and Steve Znoski wrestled to a draw in thirty minutes. Jack Washburn pinned Tony Felice in another rough house match in 11:26.

Local Sport Chatter

The State Trade school baseball team was scheduled to play a home game at the New Haven arena at the Charter Oak street club in a warm-up game. Coach Frank Crowley was undecided about his starting lineup but expects to select a permanent team by the end of the week.

The Pirates A. C. will meet the first basketball team of Rockville, Conn. at the West side diamond Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Director Frank Busch has reserved the diamond for the Pirates for the coming season. The team has a large number of games scheduled for the season, including one with the Gold Sox at Vethersfield prison.

Manchester High's golf team is scheduled to open its season against the Lewis High of Southington on the latter's links this afternoon.

The Irish Nine will organize again this year and first practices will be held tomorrow night at the Charter Oak street club at 5:45 o'clock. Pete Lampright will be the coach and the following players are asked to report: Earl McCarthy, Bud Sullivan, John Sullivan, Jerry Lovett, Pete Wodol, Tom Blevens, Joe Sullivan, Dutch Lovett, Joe Lovett, Chuck Kuskuska, Bill Taylor, Earl Post, Olic Kisman and Nip Robbins.

Lou Chagnot is leading the pack in the Army and Navy pinocle tournament with 4,614 points to his credit. R. D. McCann is second with 4,456 and Teddy Englund is third with 4,415. Tuesday's playing was closed by Joe McCann scoring 945 and Les Stevenson 945 to 937. Ed Quinn was third with 923. Frank McCaughy got back into the winning column last Tuesday night, trimming Bill Keating in a 50 point game, 50-23.

Tommy O'Neill, Manchester lightweight boxer will be entered in the semi-finals of the Connecticut amateur championship to be held tonight under the auspices of Post No. 1, American Legion, in the New Haven arena. Tommy won the right to enter the finale by his victories in the prelims in East Hartford last month.

IN THE DERBY IN THE PADDOCK. He was eased up at the finish and still covered the six furlongs in the brilliant time of 1:11.

By MAX RIDDLE. In the opinion of many of the greatest horsemen, W. R. Coe's Ladysman is the outstanding candidate to win the Kentucky Derby on May 6.

He was eased up at the finish and still covered the six furlongs in the brilliant time of 1:11. The son of Pompey had some excuse for his defeat in the Belmont Futurity in which he was second to Kerry Patch. He was in close quarters for most of the journey and could not get through until it was too late to catch the speeding Kerry Patch.

By Associated Press. The Chicago White Sox, a club which did not "figure to go anywhere" at all in the American league this year, has responded to owner Louis Comiskey's lavish outlay of cash for new playing talent by assuming a distinctly threatening attitude toward the leaders.

MANY CHANGES ARE MADE IN SCHEDULE; WEATHER IS CAUSE

Rod and White to Face Meriden in Opener During School Vacation; Here's the Revised Slate.

Because of weather conditions and other contributing factors, Manchester High school has been forced to make changes in the first three weeks of the 1933 baseball schedule, postponing the opening game of the season until Friday afternoon, May 5. It was announced today by Coach Thomas Kelley.

The Red and White was scheduled to open the season yesterday against Hartford High but, because of school cancellations due to lack of financial support, this postponed the opener until tomorrow against Middletown High here but once again it was found necessary to revise the schedule and postpone the first game until May 5, at which date Manchester will meet Meriden High in Meriden. The opener will be played during the local school's week vacation.

Weather A Factor. Inclement weather that has prevailed during the first three weeks of April has been the outstanding factor in the change in schedule. Teams have been unable to hold regular practice sessions and diamonds are in an extremely soggy and unusable condition. School vacations which contributed to the change, Coach Kelley has held only three practice sessions to date and it is expected that for the first time in many years the week's vacations starting May 1 will be used to whip the team into shape for the opening encounter. Coach Kelley has not selected his first and second string teams as yet but hopes to do so providing the weather breaks right during the coming week.

ALL-STARS DEFEAT THE ENDEES, 28-25

Thayer Brothers Lead Visitors to Win; Chucky Smith Stars for Losers.

The All-Stars proved too fast for the local Endees last night and managed to eke out a 28-25 victory in a well-played game. In the absence of two of the Endees' regulars, Jason Chapman and Earl Bissett filled in and proved a big help in holding the well-balanced team from Hartford to such a close score. "Chucky" Smith played a whole lot of a game for the locals, possibly his best game of the season. Besides scoring heavily his floor game was of the highest order.

SENSE and NONSENSE

The nubile dolls, going about the community in healthy circulation, will be the advance courier of prosperity.

Old Man Three Feeling Its Old Man This, and Old Man These, Old Man River, Old Man Fresse; Old Man Winter, Old Man Snow, Old Man Hard Times, Old Man Blow.

Old Man Chaos, Old Man Blues, Old Man Business, Old Man Booze; Old Man Norther, Old Man West—How About Old Man Give Us A Rest?

The information that radio croons croon with their eyes closed is not so startling, when you think how many radio listeners listen to them with their ears closed.

Woman (to friend)—You remember them gladiolus seeds you gave me for my husband's grave? Well, they was rhubarb.

Every time "Daddy" gets his nails manicured he keeps looking out the window for fear his wife will go by.

Father—How are you getting along with you Greek? Daughter—Now you leave my boy friend out of this!

One of the woes of an editor, our genial editor has discovered, is that he is constantly receiving letters which begin "Enclosed please find" only to discover that the enclosure is a poem and not a check.

Mr. Peters—At last we are out of debt. Mrs. Peters—Oh, thank goodness! Now I can get credit again.

If your conscience tells you you are right, stick the spurs into the old mare and as you wails by, fill your critics full of dust.

Now that jigawuzzies are all the rage girls may try putting the pieces of a boy's heart together after he's all broken up over her.

Willie—Paw, does bigamy mean that a man has one wife too many? Father—Not necessarily, my son. A man can have one wife too many and still not be a bigamist.

Him Not Responsible "Mrs. C. Elm left my home Feb. 2, 1933, therefore I will not be responsible for any debt she makes.—Louis Elm."—Advertisement in New York daily.

District Attorney—Why did you throw a pot of geraniums at the plaintiff? Defendant—Because of an advertisement.

District Attorney—What advertisement? Defendant—Say It With Flowers.

The world's chess champion can play twelve games at once, but the world's champion lover is any boy who can play more than one love affair without being sued for breach of promise or alimony.

One great trouble with this country is the fact that too many of us think that a man who has made a million dollars is an authority on every subject under the sun.

Teacher—Willie, tell the class what you know about Patrick Henry? Willie—He was born in Virginia, he married, and he said: "Give me liberty or give me death."

We would name some people on the air who should be given it.

Miracles: The story of a deaf mute who heard over the radio may be true. A lot of dumb people speak over it.

Diesel engines are now operating nearly 5000 French motor trucks.

After a brief trial, the Brazilian government has suspended regulations providing for a mixture of alcohol and gasoline for automobile fuel.

The International Automotive Engineering Congress will be held in Chicago, Aug. 28 to Sept. 4.

Private pilots are now required by the U. S. Department of Commerce to complete 50 hours of solo flying before taking up passengers.

WORLD WAR VETS WANT MEMORIAL

Movement on Foot for Centrally Located Shaft - May Start Fund Soon.

From various sources it has been learned that Manchester veterans of the World War are contemplating a joint meeting soon to discuss the possibility of starting a fund for the erection of a World War Memorial monument...

The subject has been discussed for several years, but due to the conditions existing, no action was taken by any of the ex-service groups. Such action as may be taken within the next few months with respect to the plan for a memorial, has been spurred through an appeal, now pending, to the Board of Selectmen...

Around the hospital grounds, on the south side of the building facing Haynes street, forty-five trees were planted, one each for a Manchester man who made the supreme sacrifice during the war.

Plans of the local post-war group in 1919. A fund of $200 is available for the purchase of and erection of a Spanish-American War Memorial...

Informal discussion of the subject leads toward a granite shaft, simple in design and about 40 or 50 feet in height which might be placed either in Center Park or some equally central elevated position...

It is expected that a joint committee will be selected by the various groups to make plans for initiating the Memorial program. One of the factors that has impressed the veterans in consideration of the project, is the low prices prevailing at the present time in the granite trades...
