HERALD HAS PLEDGE OF BANK SHOWDOWN

Gets Promise from Bassett of Official Initial Statement Early Next Week;
Preference Details Only
Bar to Announcement Today of Amount of First Dividend of Old Deposits.

Frustrated in its every effort to obtain for the people of Manchester some definite and true statement of the affairs of the old Manchester Trust Company, now technically known as the Manchester Trust and Safe Deposit Company, The Herald today put squarely up to Bank Commissioner George J. Bassett at his office in the State Office Building, Hartford, the right of the depositors to know, without further delay, something about what had become of their money, when they might expect an accounting for it, and such other information concerning their affairs as, apparently can be obtained nowhere else.

The result was a definite promise from the bank commissioner of a preliminary statement, to embrace the amount of the first dividend to be returned to depositors, early next week.

Statement Today Blocked
With a request that an approximate statement of the amount of that dividend be made today, Commissioner said he could not comply for the reason that while the total amount of the liquid assets to be applied had been ascertained, there were certain preferred claims that would have to be provided for before a preliminary statement of assets of these assets could be credited to the respective depositors. These claims, Mr. Bassett explained, consisted of the United States Post Office account, which under a long existing federal law are given such preference, and certain trust funds which are especially protected by Connecticut statute. The exact amount of these preferences had not been finally ascertained but would be, almost at once.

Agrees To Right To Know
Commissioner Bassett readily agreed that the rights of the depositors to know where they stood, with relation to the date of the first dividend, the amount of it, the approximate period to elapse before a second dividend might reasonably be expected, and as correct an estimate as possible of the mileage to be looked for in the ultimate liquidation of the bank, were such as should not be lightly considered. Concerning all these matters he promised to issue as full a statement as possible as early as a date as practicable, following the preliminary statement to be made within a few days.

The Herald representatives who obtained these assurances from the bank commissioner were Thomas Ferguson, publisher; Malcolm Molan, editor, and William F. Shea, attorney.

EXPULSED BRITONS ARRIVE IN POLAND

Refuse to Talk About Their Experiences in Russia —
Start for Warsaw.

Stolpc, Poland, April 21.—(AP)—Smiling happily at the realization that they no longer were in Russia, the British engineers expelled by the Soviet government after they had been convicted of sabotage and espionage, arrived here today from Moscow.

They refused to talk about their experience in Russia in obedience to instructions received in London.

After customs formalities the party left for Warsaw. It included Allan Monkhous, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Nordwall, and John Cushey. (A Moscow dispatch said A. W. Gregory, the British engineer accused by the Soviet court, also was a member of the party).

Moscow, U. S. S. R., April 21.—(AP)—A party of five British men, three of them banished from this country forever, and the Russian wife of one, were crossing the border into Poland today by train.

The woman in the party, Mrs. C. E. Nordwall, presumably will never see her native land again.

Her husband, Allan Monkhous and John Cushey are the trio of British engineers ordered to stay out of Russia as a result of their conviction on charges of espionage.

FLOOD THREATENS NEW CAUSEWAY

Work All Night to Protect Road — Truck Nearly Goes Over Bank.

A large force of men from the East Hartford street department augmented by a fleet of trucks from the Edward Balf Co., the Hartford Sand and Stone Company and the Town of East Hartford fought a nip and tuck battle all last night with the flood waters of the Connecticut to save the causeway in East Hartford that leads to the new bridge over the Hockanum river on the New London Turnpike just north of Silver Lane junction. Flood water had risen to within a few feet of the crest of the causeway.

Not Compact Yet
Last year the original roadway was elevated many feet and likewise was designed to conform with the new level of the bridge which was estimated to be more than high enough for any flood after the record high water of 1927. This new fill has not yet compacted together to such an extent but what the excessive high water has percolated into it from both sides until it is in a very soggy condition.

In an endeavor to stop the banks from sloughing away into the flood it was decided to dump a coating of heavy traprock along both sides of the causeway. One of the first trucks of the Edward Balf Co. to arrive with a five ton load of rock backed up laterally to the edge of the road on the west side about two hundred feet from the bridge and was in the process of dumping its load of stone when, with a swish, the road caved beneath it, leaving only the front wheels on the road.

The only thing that saved the truck from disappearing entirely into the flood was a steel cable which had been attached to the front of it and thence to another loaded truck in the center of the road. This truck in turn turned forward as far as possible and set the banks thereby relieving some of the tension on the fence cables. It was not until

ATTEMPTS TO CASH STOLEN $180 CHECK

Talcottville Man Arrested in Hartford After Chase —
Police Fire Shots.

Hartford, April 21.—(AP)—Detected when he attempted to cash a stolen check for $180 at the Connecticut River Banking Company at Main and Grove streets, this morning about 9:30, Jefferson Litz, 23, of Talcottville, was arrested after a chase for all classes in which he nearly eluded both police and a posse of citizens volunteers.

Two shots fired by Daniel Doran, special policeman at the bank as Litz fled down Grove street, failed to bring the youth to a halt. He turned into Prospect street and made toward State street. Policeman John Breen, on traffic duty at State and Market, joined the pursuit as did Anthony F. D'Anzi, copy-boy at the Hartford Times, who was standing at the corner of Market street.

D'Anzi, cutting across the street led the chase when Litz darted into an alley just west of the old Connecticut Company car barn and cornering the fugitive held him until Policeman Breen took him into custody.

Uncertainty Features Stock Market Today

New York, April 21.—(AP)—The financial markets hesitated and churned about uncertainly today after the spectacular advances of the last two sessions.

Heavy profit taking appeared in stocks and in raw staples, but it was in a large measure offset by fresh buying.

The drop in the American dollar slowed up in foreign exchange dealings. There was some further decline in the initial transactions, "on much of the loss was regained.

The flight of funds from highest grade bonds into equities and staples seemed to have been checked, and strong support appeared for the U. S. Government issues, which recovered substantially. The Bond Market was extremely active, with the largest turnover in the first hour in three years.

The Stock Market was a mixed affair. In commodities wheat declined about a cent a bushel, then recovered. Cotton pushed 50 to 90c a bale only to lose part of its gain. The pound fell back to $3.85 1/2. The French franc advanced about .06 of a cent to 4.38c, then virtually lost its gain. The Dutch guilder was quoted as high as 44.60c bid at one time, up .80 of a cent, then it lost most of its gain.

Danbury, April 21.—(AP)—Peter Kancowicz, 27, and Oscar Lister, 23, were arrested in a rooming house in Danbury, Conn., today on the charge of having held up and robbed a gasoline station in Danbury at three o'clock today. It is alleged that they stole an automobile in Danbury at one a. m., drove to Danbury, and committed the robbery, returned to Danbury and left the car in the spot from which they had taken it. They apparently believed they had covered the tracks of their night's operations completely.

Both men are residents of this city and Lister is the son of a policeman who was killed near here two years ago. Kancowicz is a former inmate of the reformatory at Cheshire and also served a term in the Michigan state prison for a series of robberies committed in that state, the police say. Lister also has a police record.

When the police walked into the room occupied by the men this morning Kancowicz was dressed and ready to depart. He had thirty-eight dollars in his pockets and a revolver in his suitcase. Lister was sound asleep. The police believe Kancowicz was about to leave the city without the knowledge of his alleged companion in the robbery.

Gilbert said the boy appeared somewhat dazed as he attempted to recall details of his disappearance which had resulted in both police and underworld agents working for his release.

As soon as the boy could tell, Gilbert said, he was driven by the kidnapers to a location in the city unfamiliar to him and released. After walking several blocks he said he hailed a taxicab and ordered the driver to take him to his mother's address.

Meanwhile the three suspects arrested several days ago after police had found their pictures in possession of alleged gangsters working on the case continued to be held by police.

Two of the men, Archie Brown and Ted Patterson, facing trial on charges of robbing a Sangamon county, Illinois, bank, were identified by Mrs. Marcus as men she had seen loitering in front of her home several days before Jerome was kidnaped.

Washington, April 21.—(AP)—Conflict stirring in the Senate, President Roosevelt directed today that the "controlled inflation" legislation be speeded to enactment with the mammoth farm bill—and debate will be shut off if necessary to kill a filibuster.

The administration credit-currency expansion program was given quick approval by the Senate banking committee after Democrats had split on the provision to authorize revaluation of the gold dollar.

Ramsay MacDonald

New York, April 21.—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain came to America today to study the shifting scene of world economics with President Roosevelt and the representatives of other nations.

So quickly has that scene been shifting that even since he left the shores of England a major change of world import has occurred.

MacDonald left England, via the former Premier Edward Herriot of France left his homeland two days later, the United States was still, at least tentatively, on the gold standard. But he arrived today in a land which has, for the time being, abandoned that standard as England itself did months ago. Observers said this sudden alteration in the economic chart is bound to have an important effect on the gathering conference of nations, but what that effect will be remained today largely a matter of speculation.

The liner Berengaria with the British prime minister and his daughter aboard passed Ambrose Lightship at 9:20 o'clock this morning and moved into the harbor from which the visiting diplomat was to be whisked aboard a special train at Jersey City, N. J., and hurried to the White House.

The French representative M. Herriot, is on the liner De France due here Sunday.

The Berengaria dropped anchor at Quarantine at 10:30. City tug Macom, with flag flying and carrying members of the mayor's committee for the reception of distinguished guests and government representatives, was at that time steaming down the bay from the Battery. The mayor's committee was headed for this occasion by former Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen.

Detectives could find no witness who saw anyone enter the Walsh apartment. Mrs. Walsh who underwent two blood transfusions in an attempt to save Daniel's life was near collapse today.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

Washington, April 21.—(AP)—The administration inflation program started officially through Congress today, the Senate banking committee considering it behind closed doors with Secretary Woodin and Budget Director Douglas.

Chairman Fletcher (D-Fla.) of the committee presided for the discussion of the proposals offered yesterday by Senator Thomas (D-Okla.) as an amendment to the farm bill, to empower President Roosevelt to expand credit or inflate the currency.

Fletcher had promised a favorable report on the plan in time for floor consideration later in the day, but Republicans arranged to see to it.

TREASURY BALANCE

Washington, April 21.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for April 19 were $72,400,742.00; expenditures $37,379,024.00; balance $35,021,718.00.

GAG TO BLOCK TALK ON INFLATION BILL

It that it would not be rushed through without lengthy debate. Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, said he probably would call a party conference tomorrow to formulate its attitude toward the sweeping proposal, while Senator Reed, (R.-Pa.), clung to his original plan to debate it at length to "point out its dangers" to the public.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, had announced President Roosevelt was in accord with the purposes of the legislation and would permit adequate debate. But he does not want unduly to delay the farm bill which already has been before the Senate nearly three weeks, and he is ready to call a halt when he deems it necessary.

The administration spokesman explained to the Senators that the "controlled inflation" proposal would be initiated in practice as an "expanded credit" arrangement, with provision for purchases in the open market by Federal Reserve banks of three billions of government securities. If such a program did not work out, the President would be authorized to issue three billion Treasury notes or currency, reduce the gold content of the dollar up to 10 per cent, or accept $100,000,000 of the war debts in silver at 50 cents an ounce.

At the Treasury, meanwhile, administration efforts to have the Federal Reserve board and governors of the 12 reserve banks approve plans for the system at once to expand its open market operations in heavy purchase of government securities was being pressed before a joint session of the governors and board.

The Federal Reserve system now owns $1,837,000,000 of government securities purchased largely to aid banks a year ago.

As the Senate committee got under way, reports circulated that a proposed substitute plan was under consideration declaring a new monetary policy under which a stabilization board would maintain commodity prices at the 1926 level.

This plan, which was not expected to receive serious consideration, would direct the secretary of the Treasury to purchase government obligations at the rate of $800,000,000 a week until the 1926 price level had been reached, and to sell or purchase after that to maintain that level.

So much interest was shown in the inflation program, that many Senators not members of the banking committee attended the executive meeting.

tion was over and said Secretary Woodin had agreed to the bill. "With this bill," Thomas quoted the Treasury chief as saying, "the depression is over."

"I administered in a business-like way we can combat anything." Indicating that the credit expansion provision would be used at first, Thomas said "there never has been any idea of turning inflation loose."

Other Senators, upon leaving the committee room, indicated Senator Glass (D. Va.), a former Treasury secretary and a conservative on the subject of currency, had been critical of several provisions in the plan.

After the committee had been in session almost two hours, Secretary Woodin emerged and summoned Walter Wyatt, general counsel of the Federal Reserve board, to come down from the Treasury for consultation.

Once the Senate passes the farm bill with its inflation rider, House leaders do not expect to accept it with the numerous Senate amendments but rather to insist on the differences between the two branches being reconciled in conference.

Representative Byrns, the Democratic leader there, predicted to newspapermen that the currency expansion proposition would be accepted by a substantial House majority.

"We've reached the point where we have got to have some currency expansion, or else," he said, "terminating the farm bill."

Byrns does not expect the expansion plan to bring drastic inflation, however.

"The expansion we get in the next few days," he said, "might—I'm not at all sure of that, though—bring us a greater increase in prices than the expansion justifies."

In other words, prices might rise very soon, only to drop back a little when the expansion program has begun. From that point onward the rise should be in proportion to the expansion.

With dispute looming, influential House Republicans agreed privately that if the bill is passed by the Senate, it certainly will become law in view of the great Democratic majority in the House.

While they were meeting, Representative Rankin, (D. Miss.), introduced the Thomas proposal in the House.

Co-author with Senator Thomas of a currency expansion bill in the last Congress, he was one of the inflationist conferees with President Roosevelt yesterday at the White House.

"We expect to accept the Thomas amendment to the farm bill," Rankin said, "in case it is adopted by the Senate. But I am introducing it in the House as a separate measure, so that we may take it up and pass it in case the opposition in the Senate should prevent its adoption as an amendment to the farm bill."

The steering committee considered particularly methods of forcing objections to the portion of the proposal authorizing the issuance of $3,000,000,000 in new currency. The general opinion was, as one member put it, that "it depends on how many conservative Democrats there are in the Senate."

ing to defeat the program of President Roosevelt.

Meanwhile, a high Federal Reserve official in an interview revealed agreement had been reached for the Federal Reserve system wholeheartedly to support the administration inflation program—to enlarge the open market operations of the system and purchase up to three billion of government securities.

The purpose would be to release the funds now tied up in those securities for other investment, meaning what the White House calls "credit inflation."

Although not wanting his name to be used, this official expected the legislation to be approved by Congress and to be put in operation successfully. He termed it "the safest kind of inflation," one that could be watched constantly and handled by experts who would have control of it at all times.

By cutting loose from an unfair and disastrously dear gold dollar, the Roosevelt administration has a better chance to win its war against depression both on the domestic and foreign fronts.

The New York World-Telegram: "By cutting loose from an unfair and disastrously dear gold dollar, the Roosevelt administration has a better chance to win its war against depression both on the domestic and foreign fronts."

Brooklyn Daily Eagle: "We have been off the gold standard without having any of the advantages that have come to other countries. By permitting the dollar to find a lower level we should secure some of these advantages. The real possession of the American people is not gold or silver. They own the United States."

Minneapolis Tribune: "The position of the United States in international finance is so strong and it has been so little altered by these new developments, that it gave, there should be little difficulty in bringing the prominent countries to join in a program to turn back the tide of deflation."

President Roosevelt has dramatically taken that leadership. The Atlantic City: "It is not surprising that the embargo on gold exports ordered by President Roosevelt should occasion marked reaction throughout the money markets of the world. It strikes a death blow to conditions chiefly responsible for the continued low prices of American commodities of all kinds."

How U. S. Newspapers Hailed Gold Embargo

Editorial comment on President Roosevelt's gold embargo by the Associated Press: The Sun, New York: "A cheapened dollar should result, at least theoretically, in an increase in our export trade. By the same token an inflation in prices here might result in larger imports. If living costs rise, will wages go up accordingly? Only time will answer such questions x x x. It is noteworthy, however, that the conservative east sees a prospect of relief in some sort of inflation."

Bids have been asked for by the United States post office department for storing three cars that are owned by the government and are used in Manchester. There were four bidders for the storing of the cars and of these four the Hoffman Garage, which is located just across the street from the post office, was awarded the contract. They were not the lowest bidders, but taking into consideration the location of the garage, the time saved in getting to and from the garage, the difference in the figures submitted for the rentals would make it no lower in the long run than would be the case by having the cars stored at the Hoffman Garage starting at once.

John and Mary Cokerham, of Orchard street, have purchased the new house built by Wallace M. Hinchinson on Bigelow street from the Holden-Nelson agency and will occupy it as their new home.

The full Salvation Army Band will go to New Britain tonight where they will give a concert for the benefit of the Self-Defendant of the Swedish Corps in that city.

Members of Troop 3, Girl Scouts, will meet at the Center tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. The hare and hound chase which was scheduled has been abandoned but the hike will be held as previously announced.

The West Side Buddies will hold an important practice tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock at the West Side field and all members are requested to be on hand.

BRITISH PREMIER ARRIVES IN U. S.

who was the city's official greeter when elaborate city welcomes were far more frequent than now.

The Macdonald pulled alongside the Berengaria at 10:45 a. m., and preparations were made for immediate transfer of the prime minister and his party.

After delivering a formal greeting to the United States aboard the Berengaria, the British prime minister and his party boarded the City of Macao, which pulled away from the liner at 11:35 a. m. for the trip to Jersey City.

His Greeting: The text of Macdonald's greeting follows: "Last time I was with you, I came on a mission of peace, so that together we might create a public psychology which could pursue the fruitful avenues of peaceful cooperation as to our respective armaments. I am on the same mission as still."

"Since those days we have all encountered the storm and stress of bad times and many have suffered great losses. All over the world, we are at war with depression. Today I have come to America for the purpose of discussing with your President how we can conduct that war against unmerited poverty. I come at the invitation of President Roosevelt, who is working particularly with him the tasks that lie before the world economic conference, and I come in the same spirit of neighborly co-operation as brought me here last time."

"The well being of all who buy and sell and labor with body and mind, of all who seek to give the state service and rightly claim a reward for that service—those people are our concern. Their problems are our problems. It is, believe me, a great privilege, a great pleasure, to join with friends in this work."

AMERICAN POSITION: Washington, April 21.—(AP)—The American position on most of the outstanding subjects to be taken up by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Macdonald of Great Britain was outlined in well-informed circles today as follows: War Debts—The administration is definitely committed against cancellation by Democratic platform but not thus committed against postponement or reduction although such action would require Congressional approval. The administration has drawn a distinction between nations which have met payments, such as Britain, and those which have not, notably France. It regards debts as only one factor in world economic condition.

Currency—Stabilization internationally is regarded as fundamental to a revival of world trade. This nation is ready to join in efforts to establish a revised international standard to which national currencies would be attached at new parties.

Tariffs—The administration is

WILLING TO REDUCE TARIFFS ON COMMODITIES OTHER NATIONS DO likewise. It favors a policy of tariff bargaining by mutually advantageous reciprocal agreements.

Wheat—An agreement will be sought among other leading wheat producing nations to cut production to fit world consumption and avoid heavy surpluses which have beaten down the price.

Silver—The administration is willing to discuss means of improving the price by international agreement and would consider bi-metallicism if all nations adopt it.

Disarmament—Heavy expenditures on armies, navies and air forces are regarded as a drag upon the world in its effort to recover economic equilibrium. Any reasonable movement for reducing armaments or abolishing those designed particularly for aggression will be joined.

World Peace—The administration is committed by the Democratic platform to new provisions for the Pact of Paris to provide for consultation among signatories in event of a threat of a breach of its pledge against use of force in settling international disputes. It is carefully watching public opinion on this point, however, before agreeing to such a consultative plan, which has been proposed by Macdonald at the Geneva arms conference.

The Connecticut River at Hartford was slowly receding today after having threatened to break the high record of 1927. ### KIDNAPERS RETURN FACTOR UNHARMED

(Continued From Page One) napped. The other man arrested was Ed. Strauss. All three are brothers-in-law. Seven other suspects were arrested, four in Chicago and three at Tuscola, Ill.

TELLS HIS STORY Chicago, April 21.—(AP)—Once again surrounded by comforts of his own home after an eight-day experience as the hostage of kidnapers, 19-year-old Jerome Factor today said from his bed that he kept him in "looked a lot like a coffin."

Aside from that the Northwestern University junior told his father and mother, John Factor, known on both sides of the Atlantic as a speculator, and Mrs. Marcus, the experience wasn't so bad. "I got anything I asked for," he said. "They bought me magazines and newspapers, and I spent most of the time reading the stories about the kidnaping."

Factor said he was kidnaped about 10:45 o'clock a week ago Wednesday night when two men stepped out from behind two pillars as he approached the entrance of the apartment building in which he lived with his mother. "Taking him by each arm he said they walked him to the curb where they threw a coat over his head before showing him into a big car. Once in the car he said one of the men said: 'Well, kid, we're going to let you know how much your dad thinks of you.'"

After driving around he said he was carried into a building and up several flights of stairs and deposited in the "coffin" room, which for turnings had a mattress and pillow and no windows.

He declared he slept soundly and was awakened the following morning by one of his captors inquiring what he'd like to have for breakfast.

MID-AFTERNOON USE OF LIGHTS HELP TO VISION

Experiments Show That Efficiency Is Highest When Transition From Daylight Is Minimized.

Experiments recently conducted at the Johns Hopkins Medical School have demonstrated a new principle in the use of artificial light in relation to daylight and have definitely shown that the human eye's requirements for light are best met by providing illumination of good intensity and adding it to the daylight when the latter is still high. In other words, in schools, offices and factories the best ocular efficiency will be obtained if the electric lights are turned on in the middle of the afternoon, so that the transition from daylight to artificial light is made gradual.

The experiments were inaugurated to determine whether or not there was any truth in the popular conception that a mixture of artificial light and daylight is desirable. It was found not to be true. Three sets of experiments were used. First, a comparison was made of the effect of artificial light, daylight and mixtures of both, on acuity, speed of vision, power to sustain acuity, and ocular fatigue. Second, the artificial light was turned on at different times in the late hours of the afternoon on different days and the effect on speed of vision noted. Third, a study was made in relation to the adaptivity of the eye to show to what extent the eye is rendered deficient in the late hours of the afternoon by its previous exposure to a light of high intensity and by its failure to keep pace by adaptation with the changes in intensity. It was found that when daylight is allowed to become low before the artificial light is turned on, the maximum lag in adaptation is experienced and the full effects of a sudden and disagreeable change both of intensity and color of light are produced.

ACCIDENT DATA PROVE TROLLEY SAFEST VEHICLE

Statistics For Year Reveal Only One of Every 196,000 Street Car Passengers Was Fatally Hurt.

Accident statistics for the year of 1932, compiled by the American Transit Association, show that the safest place on the street is in an electric street railway car and that the trolley car is the safest of all vehicles to ride in. During the year, only one out of every 196,000 passengers carried by electric railways in the United States and Canada was fatally injured. The chances against meeting the grim reaper while aboard a street car are thus 196,000 to one.

This achievement is not the result of mere chance, but is directly attributable, street railway men point out, to a campaign of safety which has been conducted by the electric railways of the country for many years to reduce accidents and to increase the safety of the passengers carried. Not only have cars been fitted with every known device for safety, but careful instruction and training of employees and the elimination of those who have shown by the records to be careless have brought about the result. With the advent of the car controlled by one man came also many automatic and semi-automatic devices for control and safety.

All types of street railway accidents are now being reduced. Even the type which is most difficult for the street railways to control—collisions between automobiles and trolley cars—is now showing results. In Connecticut last year, the number of accidents involving autos and street cars was reduced from 427 in 1931 to 281. Effort has been made to reduce this type of accident by the safety posters constantly utilized on the front and rear ends of the trolleys.

JOINT GARDENING PLAN DISCUSSED

Committee to Seek Suitable Land for Cooperative Potato Growing.

A partial departure from the gardening plan as initiated last year by over 125 residents of Manchester, was indicated last night at a meeting of interested persons at which Frank V. Williams, Buckland farmer, addressed the gathering.

Victor E. Clark, chairman of the Legion's committee on the home gardening plan suggested the consideration of Mr. Williams' plan and reported that an investigation should be made in an effort to locate suitable land to plant potatoes.

It was suggested that each man participating in the cooperative potato growing plan be given a certain portion of the tract to plant and to care for, each member of the group presenting himself to do any work necessary to the completion of the project.

The committee last night signed up 130 men for tracts to be planted this year located at Manchester Green, North Main street, and Charter Oak street.

At West Side Tonight A meeting will be held this evening at 7 o'clock in the West Side Rec. to register those desiring garden plots in that section.

GOV. CROSS SIGNS RUM CONTROL BILL

But Legal Beer for State in Near Future Is Still in Uncertain Stage.

Hartford, April 21—(AP)—Liquor control legislation, which last week appeared facing indefinite delay in a confused legislative maze on the statute books today, awaiting only the setting up of a state administrative commission and a proclamation by the governor to take effect.

Within an hour after the Senate adopted the modified Buckley commission bill yesterday, Governor Cross affixed his signature to the Buckley document received directly from the assistant Senate clerk without waiting for the preparation of an engrossed bill. The bill regulates the sale of both beer and hard liquors under a three man state commission to be appointed by the governor.

Government Cross promised to proceed with the appointment of the commission with the least possible delay. "I have just signed the liquor control bill," he said. "The members of the administrative commission will be announced without unnecessary delay. I hope soon to proclaim the day when the provisions of the law will become operative."

There was a large attendance present to enjoy the moving pictures of the Holy Land presented by Mr. Fuller of Somers last Tuesday evening at the Hicks Memorial school auditorium. The regular meeting of Tolland Grange was held Tuesday evening in the Federated church social rooms. Miss Mason of Storrs gave a talk on Home Extension work of the Tolland County Farm Bureau as it is being extended over the county in its many different lines of activity.

Community Dance The tremendous hit that Milt Greene and his broadcasting band made at the Recreation Community dance held last night was noticed by the applause that was given them by those who were among the 450 present. Many speciality numbers were presented during the evening by various members of the band with many of those who came to dance sitting or crowding around the musicians just to hear and watch their playing. The dance for next week will be held on Friday evening. The women's plunge will be held from 7-9 tonight.

Overturning its own leadership, House Republicans flopped, to the support of the commission bill in such numbers as to adopt the amendment offered by Rep. Richard J. Goodman, substituting the Buckley bill in place of the committee bill. With the Senate Democratic adoption of the measure in that chamber was a foregone conclusion.

SOCK AND BUSKINS IN COMEDY TONIGHT

Expect Capacity Crowd as High School Thespians Give Annual Play.

The past week has been a busy one for anyone connected with the play "Reach For the Moon," a comedy in three acts which is to be presented in the high school hall this evening. The performance starts promptly at eight o'clock and ushers will be on hand to aid in finding the correct seats. Needless to say enthusiasm has been aroused to the highest degree at the High school with someone hustling her lines and there for proper costumes or "someone to prompt."

Last of Year "Reach For the Moon" marks the last performance on the list for the Sock and Buskin club this year. It has been a very successful year and much credit should be given Miss Helen Estes for her willingness to give up much time to the coaching of two three-act plays. Each of the plays called for big casts and it took much time and patience to coach under such conditions, especially when other social activities were constantly interfering.

Eleanor Wallace '34 as Sally Sherwood and Rita Stephens '34 as Betty Brechenridge interpret their lines especially well in the roles of glib, vivacious, modern girls, who are right at home on the dude ranch. Sally, the more daring and imaginative of the two is the one responsible for "Coloring the past" of a demure little girl named "Patricia," a part taken by Barbara Hyde.

Irish Brogue Edgar Clarke '34 plays opposite Miss Wallace the role of Larry Karrigan. Clarke is forced to use the Irish brogue and handles it with unusual ease. He comes to the ranch along with John Cameron and becomes part owner in the ranch. He longs for the trip back across the ocean, however, and breaks the news to Sally that he needs her with him. Although Sally feels that it is very far away, she is infatuated with Larry's tales of "Gipsy breezes a-whispering, and star of love a-guiding and accordingly finds herself speechless for the first time in her life!

Kingsley French '33 as Anthony Hoyt is a trifle obsessed with the West and his first day on the ranch appears with a most breathtaking vision in exaggerated cowboy equipment, including hankiechief and revolver. He feels that the rig gives atmosphere and he announces that he intends to uphold the idea of catching the spirit of the old West by adventuring and exploring. He concludes that he's a "young Lochinvar" and says he'll never go back until he's shot and buried. The idea lead him to persuade Betty to go on an escapade. Betty returns tired and lame, but married!

Speaks Her Mind Miss Hazel Driggs '33 takes the part of Mrs. Larrimore, an elderly woman who runs things just about as she pleases. In nothing plus she believes but little of what she hears, and in general takes life "with a grain of salt." She does, however, unhesitatingly speak her mind and is all in all an exceedingly domineering person. Miss Driggs has never held a part in a Sock and Buskin performance before, but she has entertained at various school programs with excellent recitations. Bogus Earl.

James Britton '33, has an excellent part in the role of the Earl, the middle-aged gentleman who is in search of a wife and finds it at Happy Valley Ranch in the western part of the United States. His arrival at the ranch is most unexpected and unlooked for as it happens that he plays a part in the social lives of several occupants of the ranch. It develops that he is not the real Earl at all and the girls are very glad to find it out as his proposals of marriage have been anything but few!

Britton has had minor parts in previous productions at the Sock and Buskin club and held a small role in "Bab", a performance of last year. Miss Evelyn Peterson takes the part of Pamela Farnell, the young English girl who makes her way to the ranch in the hope of winning a "dame" of days gone by. Her haughty and aristocratic air prove very unsatisfactory and fail to bring about the correct results. Miss Peterson undoubtedly will have her audience in tears as she is sure to live up to her acting which she has displayed in rehearsals.

Miss Peterson makes her debut in the Sock and Buskin with the presentation of this play. She has had, however, parts in productions presented by the Freshmen-Sophomore dramatic club.

Her Past Is Painted Miss Barbara Hyde '33, is on stage a good deal in the part of Patricia Pennington, a demure little girl who doesn't seem to understand life and boy-friends in general. Accordingly two interested girl friends take the responsibility of lightening up her character somewhat by "painting her past." Stories of duels and being engaged to the Earl are included in this "past reputation." Imagine everyone's embarrassment when the Earl really does appear! It is then the self-conscious little Patricia declares that she will be a "living lie" no longer and relates the truth of the whole situation.

Victor Davies '33, assumes the role of "knight errant" in the character of Hal Sherwood, king of the modern college type, he succeeds in presenting lines with laugh upon laugh. He finds conscientious little Patricia just about right and sticks with her through thick and thin and is her avowed admirer.

LINDBERGH CONTINUE THEIR WESTERN FLIGHT

Leave Indianapolis for St. Louis on a Tour of Inspection.

Indianapolis, April 21.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, making an inspection tour of the Transcontinental Airways accompanied by his wife, took off from the Municipal Airport here at 11:55 a. m., Central Standard Time. He pointed his ship toward St. Louis.

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh had arrived in Indianapolis at 11:07 a. m., from Columbus, O. The colonel made a brief visit to the airport office.

The stop here was uneventful. Airport attaches reported good weather along the route to St. Louis with a fine tail wind.

and Union avenue, was bound and held at 2 a. m. today by two men who had purchased some gasoline. The robbers got approximately $20. The pair drove up to the station in an auto, ordered gas and when Cassidy went into the station to change a bill the men followed him. He turned around and they both poked guns at him and forced him to empty the register. They then bound him with ropes from their car and put him into a small ante room of the station.

Cassidy managed to work himself loose and he notified the police. Following a company rule he had taken the registration of the automobile and had rung up both the sale and the registration on the cash register.

river front, where Japanese planes were grounded by the storm. Japanese troops were reported to have failed to cross the river north of Lwanchow, in the face of machine gun fire by Chinese.

Still in Control While the situation at Lwanchow was obscure, Peiping also heard the Chinese still were in control there. Chinese anxiety concerning the province of Chahar, west of Jehol, increased as the result of advices from Kalgan, the main city of Chahar, that 3,000 Japanese had reached Chaling. This was reported as the vanguard of a Japanese "western expedition."

Chinese reports said the Japanese clashed with a Chinese garrison at Chaling and that Japanese fliers were bombing towns on the Jehol-Chahar border, causing a westward flight of refugees.

ceded but moderately from the levels of the last two weeks, indicating the changed attitude of the public which is evincing a stronger preference for things rather than money, as the bell becomes stronger in the stability of the present forward movement.

Bound to Last. All trade indices support the contention, it is stated, "that the current revival is capable of lasting suspension, provided there be no fresh shock to confidence and at least some evidence of early practical results be forthcoming from the President's trade talks with the principal foreign countries."

The progress which has been made thus far, the review adds, "is unquestioned evidence that soundly based recovery has been brought definitely nearer and that there will be a repetition in the international sphere of the success which the administration has achieved in its domestic policy."

Fourth Increase. Industrial indices, the review finds, were notable by the fourth consecutive increase in steel mill operations; by the continued upward trend in merchandise car-loadings and a further advance in electric power production. Unfavorable weather conditions during most of the week, the review states, were unable to retard to more than a minor degree the further broadening of consumer purchasing.

The Dunn and Bradstreet business activity barometer showed sustained improvement during the week, rising to 48.4 per cent of the 1923-30 average. This is the fourth successive gain in the index which stood at the record low of 44.3 on March 22.

Rome had rigid laws to regulate personal liberty about 900 B. C. The number of guests at parties, funeral costs and even the color of women's dresses were fixed by law.

late last night that the stranded truck was recovered with the aid of a big wrecking truck and much pulling and hauling.

Traffic Control Traffic was in charge of state policemen from the Hartford barracks and has been kept in the center of the causeway as a matter of safety. Extensive longitudinal cracks have appeared in the surface of the road on both sides of the causeway, especially on the west side facing the Connecticut river. These cracks are three and four feet back from the edge of the road in places indicating very unstable conditions in the ground beneath.

Along the west side there is a noticeable settlement in the causeway; for a distance of more than a hundred feet.

Trap rock was being dumped at the rate of more than 75 tons per hour along the edge of the road and shoveled over the edges as fast as possible. As the news of the seriousness of the conditions along the causeway spread, traffic became heavy during the early part of the night due to the large number of spectators. Many came on foot from various parts of East Hartford.

Broom Parade

Yesterday's sunshine apparently fathomed a determination to get yards and gardens in condition. That is, the sunshine, combined with a special offering on bamboo brooms at one of the Main street stores. Anyway, with all the customers on Main street carrying away their brooms, there was a repetition of the recent "broom parade" which resulted from a special sale on brooms.

We know of a lady who would make a fine addition to a home, capable at general assisting, practical nursing, or care of children, for small remuneration. For information, phone "Jean," 5121 or 6194.

Center Start

Did you ever see a tuffed tablecloth ironed so that it came out with a ruffle around the edge—pretty but unneeded. Round cloths need to be ironed from the center outward. To get Madeira embroidered linens to lie straight, iron the heavily embroidered parts first. Then you can tell how much the rest of the linen needs to be stretched—or not stretched.

Many housewives who know how to get their spring housecleaning done thoroughly and quickly are sending all their curtains to the New Model Laundry, which does them up crisp and clean for a very reasonable charge per pair. Phone 8072.

Dandelion Greens

A refreshing way to serve dandelion greens is as a salad. The crisp, cooked leaves are good with French dressing.

Of course the men of the family need new spring ties. Just in time to fill this need, Cheney Hall Sales has received a big assortment of spring patterns—fine values in every price group from 45c to $1.50 each, with reductions for purchases of three or more.

Green Salad

Now that watercress and dandelion greens are both available, a salad combining them is timely. Select tender sprays of the cress. Wash thoroughly and cut off the coarse stems. Chill in ice water. Wash tender young dandelion greens, drain and place in a cheese cloth bag to become crisp. Make a bed of the dandelions and pile the cress lightly in the center. Garnish with strips of red and green pepper and serve with Thousand Island dressing.

Something to do tonight! Collect winter things that need cleaning before storage and summer and spring clothes that must be refreshed for tomorrow's last day of sale. Hygeonic Dry Cleaning special. ## VETERANS' MEASURE REJECTED BY HOUSE

Bill Would Take Handling of Veterans' Funds from American Legion.

Hartford, April 21—(AP)—The House rejected a bill today which would create a commission for the handling of the veterans fund, taking the administration of this fund out of the hands of the American Legion.

Rep. Ranneberg of Bridgeport, pleaded for passage of the bill urging that all veterans organizations be given a part in administration of the fund.

Former Congresswoman Jeanette Rankin of Montana spoke in the House, pleading for disarmament. She was introduced by Rep. J. Agnes Burns of Hartford, who then presided for the remainder of the session.

A bill granting $100, to Michael F. Brennan of New Haven, for damage done his car by a deer was passed, the first claim of this sort to be passed in many years.

It was explained that the Legislature has always rejected such claims on the ground that the state did not own the deer but in Brennan's case the game warden sold the carcass to Brennan creating the assumption that the state owned the animal.

Minority Leader John Markham later announced that he would move reconsideration of the action by the House on Tuesday.

Four bills affecting Norwalk were favorably reported. Two provide for pension funds for firemen and policemen, while the others provide for an annual report of the comptroller's books and two registrars of voters, one from each party.

MACON GOES UP ON FIRST FLIGHT

Giant Airship With 105 Aboard, Takes the Air for Its First Tests.

Akron, O., April 21.—(AP)—The U. S. S. Macon, successor to the last Akron, soared through the air today on her maiden "shakedown" flight preliminary to winning the Navy's "O. K."

The giant airship—the world's largest—carried 105 persons, including 11 officers, with Capt. Alger H. Dressel in command, eight members of the Naval Board of Inspection under Rear Admiral George C. Day, and 31 engineers and inspectors of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Co., the builders.

After the Macon had been aloft an hour and a half, Capt. Dressel sent radio orders to dismiss the ground crew until 5 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, indicating the ship would remain up well over 11 hours. She took off at 5:59 a. m.

Flies over Cleveland. For more than an hour Captain Dressel kept the Macon in this vicinity, then flew over Cleveland. There was no announcement as to what course the flight would take after that.

A minor accident was the only untoward incident as the Macon nosed off into a six-mile an hour northeast breeze shortly after daybreak. J. E. Wilson, a member of the ground crew, slipped from a platform of the giant mobile mooring mast and suffered possible fractures of the legs. He was taken to a hospital for an X-ray.

Radio message from the ship to Navy headquarters said the Macon would remain within a fifty mile radius of Akron. The Macon was receiving weather reports from the Anacostia station near Washington. Visibility was good and clouds were scattered.

ENGAGE S. R. VINTON FOR LECTURES HERE

New Jersey Man to Speak at Y. M. C. A. and at Center Church April 29 and 30.

Summer R. Vinton of Roselle, N. J., has been engaged to return to Manchester for two lectures, one April 29 at the Y. M. C. A. on North Main street and the other, Sunday evening, April 30, at the Center Congregational church.

It will be remembered that Mr. Vinton gave four lectures here about the first of the month in local schools and at Highland Park. They were received so favorably many expressed the wish that he might be brought here again. Through the efforts of Secretary E. J. Simonds of the local Y. M. C. A. Mr. Vinton will give "The Pagoda Land Man" which he has given with the greatest success in this country and in Canada and on Chautauqua circuits. Mr. Vinton has lived in the Near and Far East and has traveled extensively in Asia. The distinctive thing about his travels is that they seek to interpret the life of each country.

On Sunday evening, April 30, the Cyp club of the Center church, and the Manchester Garden club will sponsor the lecture "The Beauty of the Commonplace." The choir will sing and Mrs. Jennie Aborn, organist of the church, will play MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" and other compositions synchronized with the pictures. Mr. Vinton will use his own specially designed dissolving reception in showing the photographs taken by himself and colored accurately and artistically by Mrs. Vinton. This lecture delighted hundreds of local children, and their parents, and members of the Garden club who missed it before will want to reserve the date. A free will offering will be received to cover expenses of these lectures.

CHOOSES JURY TRIAL

New Haven, April 21.—(AP)—Anthony Maturio charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of his wife last January in Hamden, pleaded not guilty before Judge F. M. Peaseley in Superior Court today and elected a jury trial. He was placed under $1,500 bond to be tried later in the session.

It is the state's contention Maturio was holding a shotgun with which he intended to drive a visitor, Anthony Digerolomo from his home, and that the gun was accidentally discharged, killing Mrs. Maturio almost instantly and fatally wounding her one-year-old son, Samuel.

The unmarried Dorcas girls stayed as waitresses.

KIWANIANS BEGIN SHOW REHEARSALS

Group to Meet Daily in High School Hall and Recreation Center—To Be Given May 1 and 2.

Members of the Kiwanis club of Manchester today started intensive rehearsals for their annual show, "Minstrel Chuckles" to be presented in High school hall on May 1 and 2. Director Novack of the John E. Rogers Producing Company is here to take charge of the production. The various chorus groups will meet at the School Street Rec and in High School hall daily until the production is given. There will be between 50 and 60 in the cast and President William Halsted predicts that this year's show will be one of the best ever given by the local club.

The "zipper" fastener was invented by Whitcomb Judson in 1893, but Gideon Sundback later improved and patented it.

FRIDAY, APRIL 21.

THE BURDEN OF COSTS.
 It is a natural and warrantable apprehension that many people feel—people who are barely able to scrape by and pay their way on meager incomes—that under the impending inflation, with its increasing prices, their standard of living will be still further reduced and that they will suffer, instead of gaining, as a result of the price stimulation. And the worst of it is that there is no truthful way of allaying that apprehension. It is to be admitted, if frankness is to be served, that it will probably be a matter of the sheerest impossibility to restore general business in this country without doing some apparent injustice to the large number of its people who are now living on the marginal line between a sufficiency and actual poverty.

Such people must find support for their courage and their patience in two certainties. One is the fact that their new distress will be, if the inflation experiment works at all, of relatively short duration. The other is that the choice appears to lie between the remedy now proposed and a condition where they would very soon have no jobs at all and no incomes at all.

It is not a question of continuing as they have been for the last two or three years—barely getting by; for the conditions of the depression could not possibly be permanent conditions; if they were not improved they would inevitably become worse, a great deal worse.

Of course the vast majority of these apprehensive people are wage earners or the recipients of small salaries. And it is an inexorable economic rule—perhaps it would be more truthful to call it a sociological rule—that, when a period of ascending prices sets in, the price of labor and individual services never starts upward as quickly as the prices of the things people must buy in order to live. At the beginning of such a period the person living on a small earned income becomes the goat. It is probable that the impending period will prove no exception.

But all hope of the future rests on the restoration of general employment. With prices on an ascending grade there is always the possibility of profit in the manufacture of goods and in commerce and trade; there is incentive to buy that is utterly lacking when prices are falling. Factories get orders. People are put to work. The pool of unemployment is gradually absorbed. Soon there are not a hundred jobless men bidding for every job. Labor and services regain their money value. Wages and salaries follow the upward trend. Presently the worker is able to pay the higher prices as easily or more easily than he paid the low prices.

Then, too, there is this to be remembered—that the cost of the necessities of existence, of food and clothing particularly, are not the only ones the worker has had to meet. He has had to pay taxes, directly or in the form of rent. He often has had to pay interest on a home mortgage. These things have continued to cost him as much during the depression, or almost as much, as if there had been no depression—the taxes have cost him more because he has had to help in the support of vast numbers of unemployed. They should cost no more because of a rising market for commodities. And in addition to this there is this personal burden of assistance to the jobless—to one's own kin and neighbors—that has been such a tremendous load on the shoulders of millions of struggling people; there is probability of relief in that direction.

It all comes to this: If we are to have to undergo a little special deprivation for awhile in order that the country shall be freed from fruitless distress and infinite peril it will be something like suffering the pangs of an operation absolutely necessary to save the nation—and with it ourselves.

GREENBACKS.
 In view of the fact that the new amendment to the farm relief bill providing for currency inflation gives the President the authority to issue a very large quantity of greenback currency it is important that an almost universal misconception of historic fact should be cleared up.

For many years every proposal aiming at currency inflation has been met by warnings against repeating the experience of Civil War times and issuing "printing press money" which, we are told persistently that experience proved, must inevitably go to a discount. It is timely in this connection to repeat something that we have said in these columns before: The implications in these warnings is based on a complete misrepresentation of fact, ten thousand times repeated, almost never denied.

There are two entirely different kinds of Civil War greenbacks. The first kind was made full legal tender for all debts, public and private. This was promptly replaced, after an issue of $100,000,000 had been expended, by another issue under a Congressional enactment passed through the efforts of a bankers' lobby and in which the legal tender quality was limited. You couldn't pay to the government with second issue greenbacks a custom house charge for duties on imports. The government couldn't pay the interest on its bonds with second issue greenbacks. In other words the government repudiated its own money. Quite naturally those greenbacks did go to a serious discount. But the first issue greenbacks, which were good in the custom house and good at the Treasury cashier's window, were good anywhere in this country or any other, at any time, for one hundred cents on the dollar—have been ever since and are yet.

You may do a lot of hunting for this fact in text books or encyclopedias without finding it. But it is nevertheless an historic fact that no amount of scoffing can change.

The "inflation" amendment contains the special provision that any greenbacks issued under its authority shall be full legal tender and can be used to meet all forms of obligations of or to the government; and it specifically provides that they may be used to purchase United States interest bearing bonds.

This latter is exactly in conformity with the suggestion in this newspaper on Tuesday of this week that the six billion dollars worth of Liberty bonds callable within six months be taken up by an issue of greenbacks to the saving of $270,000,000 a year in interest.

The horror of the greenback has been as deliberately inculcated in the minds of Americans as militarism was in the people of Germany for a generation before the World War, and for a no worthier purpose. Big bankers and the holders of large fortunes find in United States bonds a safe and lucrative field of investment. They are all for bonds. They detest the greenback, which they regard as a "scab" bond. It is as good and efficient a worker and can produce exactly the same results as an interest-bearing obligation but it is willing to work below the union rate—to work, in fact, for nothing. So there has been a bond racket on the same principle as a Poultry Pullers Union racket, only instead of using blackjacks or machine guns its promoters have employed the propaganda of deception and fear against the "printing press" money—printed, by the way, on the same presses that produce the bonds.

If this period of inflation now impending results in the circulation of money exactly like that first issue of Civil War greenbacks, and in those greenbacks finding their way into millions of pay envelopes now empty, let there be no fear. No Congress and no President is going to wreck the credit and fiscal structure of this country by any such inflation for liquidation as Germany and France employed after the World War. As well fear that they might order the Navy to bombard all our coast cities and the Army to shoot all Republicans or all Democrats.

STORMY PETREL.
 Representative Francis H. Shoemaker of Minnesota—who prides himself on being the only ex-convict in Congress—at one stroke might before long gain for himself a multitude of admirers. The stroke was dealt to the jaw of one of those pests who keep their radio loud speakers working overtime late at night in complete disregard of the rights, comfort and sanity of others. The radio post occupied a Washington apartment adjoining Shoemaker's. He had, the representative declares, been host to a serial party which was then on its third evening. The Congressman called his neighbor on the phone, told him a member of his family was ill and requested that the radio concert end. He was told where he could go. Where he went was straight into the neighbor's apartment. "I ended the party," he said afterward when the police, to whom the battered radiolist had complained, were wondering whether Congressional immunity from arrest extended to cases of assault.

Shoemaker's status as a convict is but little if at all to his discredit. He, as a Minnesota editor, was crusading against a bank group whom he believed to be dishonest. One of them wrote him an angry letter. Shoemaker answered it, addressing the envelope to "Mr. _____, Robber of widows and orphans." For that, on a charge of scurrilous use of the mails, he was sent, by a judge whom he had criticized in print, to Leavenworth for a year.

All in all, Mr. Shoemaker appears to be a good deal of a bird.

LIMITATIONS.
 Let us do Webster Thayer, misfit judge of the Massachusetts Superior Court, the justice of believing that he was absolutely sincere in his conviction that Sacco and Vanzetti were guilty of the crime for which they were executed. Let us go further than that and grant that he believed his rulings in their trial were just. He was not the callous and bloodthirsty wretch he has so often been depicted. He was merely an obstinate, narrow and bigoted person of ingridibly rigid mentality who never in the world should have been a judge at all; an incorrigible classist quite incapable of dealing justly with individuals whose political principles he loathed venomously.

And he paid a fearful price for doing what, beyond a shadow of doubt, he believed to be his duty. Sacco and Vanzetti, many years dead, have been happy compared to Thayer. He always said that he was ready to meet his Maker. Why not? His Maker knew his limitations—and a man can be no more than himself.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington
 BY RODNEY DUTCHER.
 Washington—Seldom does a federal judge achieve the distinction of being impeached and convicted by the United States Senate. The rarity of impeachment trials is matched only by their solemnity and pomp.

The last federal impeachment was 20 years ago. Judge Robert W. Archbold of the commerce court, which then had jurisdiction over railroads, was charged with making offers to railroads to buy their culms through his partners. He was impeached and removed.

The latest candidate for removal is Judge Harold Louderback of northern California. His trial in the Senate is set for May 15. Judge Louderback is alleged to have forced his friends as receivers on copacorus which didn't want them and to have allowed the receivers unjustifiably lavish fees.

The scene of an impeachment is so unusual and so different from the ordinary sloppy aspect of the Houses of Congress that Judge Louderback is assured of a large throng of spectators.

Everything is in open session. On the next to the last day of the last session of the last Congress, six picked members of the House—acting as the prosecutors and known as the House managers—were formally announced to the Senate and paraded in with their articles of impeachment.

PROPERLY PREPARED LOBSTER NOT BAD FOOD.
 Lobsters have attained a reputation for being indigestible largely because of the efforts of chefs who have insisted on serving lobster meat in combination with indigestible sauces and rich foods. When properly prepared, neither lobster nor its closely associated members of the crustacean family, such as shrimp, crab, crayfish and prawns, are unwholesome foods. Used in their proper seasons and prepared by being boiled in plain water or by broiling, these meats are as wholesome as any other, but they should never be combined with cheese, cream or other rich fatty foods. After being served, the meat can be seasoned with a small amount of butter and salt if desired, but the only other foods eaten at the meal should be the non-starchy and salad vegetables. When prepared with rich sauces, lobster meat will sometimes remain in the stomach from twelve to fifteen hours, often causing indigestion. These foods should always be taken in place of meat and never in addition to it.

These sea foods are termed crustaceans because they are covered with a shell-like armor. Instead of having their bones inside, as do most animals, they are reversed and have their skeletons on the exterior. They contain from 17 to 19 per cent of a protein that is as valuable as a food as that found in the meats which are commonly used.

The life history of the lobster is interesting. The female lobster may produce from 10,000 to 80,000 eggs, and for this reason there is no actual danger of a race suicide among the lobster. The small dark eggs remain attached to their mother, and they increase in size for about ten months. At that time the egg hatches and floats near the surface of the water; it casts off its shell five times before it becomes a mature lobster. The little lobsters are destroyed in uncountable numbers by storms and fish. The in-

NOTED ACTOR DIES
 Rye, N. Y., April 21.—(AP)—William Courtenay, an idol of the romantic stage for years, is dead in his 83rd year.

Courtenay, who took leading roles in "Romance," "The Wolf," "The Light That Lies in Woman's Eyes," and a long list of other plays, died at his home yesterday. His wife, Virginia Harrod, actress was with him at the end.

Born in Worcester, Mass., he became interested in the stage while a senior at Holy Cross college. After barnstorming through Maine in "Ten Nights in a Barroom," he rose steadily until he was playing with such sittings as John Drew, Mary Manning and Richard Mansfield. Afterward came leading roles in a host of plays, including "Camille," "Tribly," "Cappy Ricks," "Under Cover" and others. He also appeared in the films.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
 (Symptoms of Infantile Paralysis.)
 Question: Mrs. Irma A. writes: "My children have recently been exposed to infantile paralysis, one of their little friends having recently died with it. Will you please tell me the symptoms I should be on the lookout for? My children have never successfully followed your advice through this disease?"
 Answer: The incubation period of acute poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis is from three to ten days, so, if more than this time has elapsed since exposure, it is unlikely that the children have contracted the disease. However, the first symptoms are drowsiness, irritability, digestive disturbances, fever, twitching and jerking. Also there is usually stiffness of the neck and back.

(Very Unpalatable Vegetable.)
 Question: Lester H. says: "I am greatly interested in your articles and am following your menus exactly as printed. I would like to ask why you never mention the onion, as I was under the impression that it was a healthful vegetable."
 Answer: The only practical use to the human that I have been able to find for the onion is to fry it in grease and apply it as a poultice over irritated lungs. The irritation produced by the onion on the skin is sufficient to act as a counter-irritant in much the same way as a mustard plaster, but this is not a healthful use. It is better to eat the onion and to let it act on the stomach and bowels than to use it as a poultice.

(Use Care in Combining Meats.)
 Question: Violet J. says: "I read in your column that milk should not be taken with sandwiches. When should milk be used?"
 Answer: Never use milk with sandwiches or with regular meals. Milk should be taken by itself or combined with one kind of fruit or with only non-starchy vegetables.

stant lobster is also carnivorous and each one considers the other a delicate morsel of food. It has been estimated that only one lobster out of 5000 reaches maturity. After the young lobster assumes the shape of a full-grown lobster, it begins to live its life at the bottom of the sea, its principal food being fish. As it increases in size, it casts off its hard outer shell, revealing a soft inner one. It increases rapidly in size until the shell hardens again; this process is repeated throughout the life of a lobster. Epicures consider that the best time for eating the lobster is just before it has cast off its old shell.

The meat of crabs closely resembles lobster, but because crabs may be covered with contaminated substances, they should be thoroughly cleaned and cooked before being eaten. Shrimps and prawns are found in abundance in many parts of the ocean. There is less danger of contamination from the smaller crustaceans than from lobster and crabs.

These meats should only be used with non-starchy vegetables. They have an unusual food value because they contain food iodine in greater abundance than the meat from animals which feed on land plants. It is all right to use canned lobster, shrimp and crab, and you should include them in your menus occasionally for variety. One reason such foods are expensive is that they are not used as often as they could be. If more cooks demanded them, the price would probably come down as the market facilities improved.

DARLING FOOL

by MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY.
MONICA O'DARE, 20 and beautiful, is in love with DAN CARDIGAN, one of the town's rich young men. At a local dancing place where she has gone with Dan she meets her friend, SANDRA LAWRENCE, with a handsome and mysterious stranger, CHARLES EUSTACE. Sandra immediately takes charge of Dan and Monica, hurt, allows Charles to escort her home.

CHAPTER IV.

The days dragged on. Monica had not dreamed there could be pain like this. To know Dan was in the same town and not to see him was sheer torture. May proved to be a month drenched in sweetness. Lilac scented the air, forsythia blazed in every doorway, the nights were moonlit, soft and still.

Still no Dan. She did not even see him at the wheel of the roadster, skimming along the roads. At home the family forbore to ask questions. Kay was caught up in a whirl of high school activities. Bill came and went, ate his meals moodily, and slipped back to the garage. Monica came out of her own daze of misery to realize there was something definitely wrong in Bill's sphere. He was more silent, more dour than usual. Poor Bill—it was having to work too hard and too early that had weighed him down so that, at 22, he seemed years older.

And their mother—Monica had twinges of worry about her, too. She seemed cheerful as always but her step was slower. She sighed deeply and quietly when she thought no one was about. All the O'Dares seemed to be drifting. What was it all about? Why did other people have good times, bright, happy homes while the young O'Dares must carry this heavy burden?

At this point in her reflections Monica always shook herself vigorously. "This is nonsense," she would remind herself. "Aren't I all well and strong? Haven't I a job and a roof over my head—and good friends?" With a gasp she was arguing with herself thus one day, hurrying home for lunch, when she ran straight into the arms of a tall man.

"I—oh, I beg your pardon!" All scarlet lips, flashing amber eyes, she stared up at him. "Quite all right," Charles Eustace's deep voice reassured her. "I wasn't on the right side of the road, either."

They laughed together and Monica's heart lightened. It was good to laugh with someone. She had a "mind if I turn about and go your way?" Eustace wanted to know. "I'm just hanging about for exercise."

How tall he was and, yes—how distinguished looking! It was odd she didn't think him better looking than Dan but she didn't. He was nice. Another girl, fancy free, might have found him much more than that but at that moment Monica's heart was really engaged. She was insulated against the charms of every man in the world except Dan Cardigan.

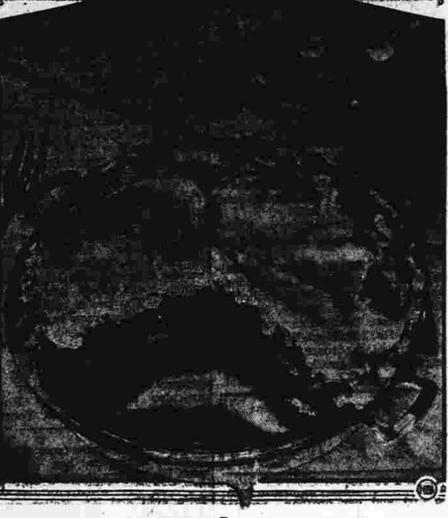

"I've been wondering why I didn't see you around town. Eustace has been, suiting his long step to hers."

Monica smiled. "I've been here. All this time."

She could catch the scent of good leather and Virginia tobacco as he opened a pouch and stuffed his pipe. She stopped to watch him do it. "Fussy—the liked a man to smoke a pipe. "You are looking rather pale," he observed. "Are they working you too hard?" "It's—spring—I guess. Maybe I need a change."

CHOCOLATE CHIFFON PIE

A Rich Ransom For Kitchen-bound Cooks

do it early, just as soon as the soil is fit to work.

Three squares of unsweetened chocolate, shaved in pieces, 2 1/2 cups milk, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 1/2 cup cornstarch, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 8 egg yolks slightly beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 baked 9-inch pie shell, 3 egg whites, 8 tablespoons sugar.

Put your chocolate into your milk and heat in a double boiler. When the chocolate is melted, beat with a rotary egg beater until it is blended. Sift your sugar, cornstarch and salt together and add to your egg yolks.

Now pour a little of this mixture over your egg yolks, stirring constantly, and return it to the boiler and cook until the whole is thickened. Remove from the fire and add the vanilla. Cool, and then pour into your pie shell.

Beat the egg whites foamy throughout, then add sugar, two tablespoons at a time, beating after each addition until the sugar is thoroughly blended. After all the sugar is added, continue beating until the mixture will stand in peaks. Lift lightly onto your chocolate pie and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 15 minutes or until it is slightly browned.

Mr. Hartnett's voice, rumbling, intimidating, answered "Bill? Bill's not here."

"When will he be back, do you know?"

"The voice sounded sardonic now. "Consider, I'm sure," Mr. Hartnett said. "Monica O'Dare. Is anything wrong?"

"Trouble!" She almost screamed at the word. "What sort of trouble?"

She knew her face was blanching and she could hardly speak above a whisper.

HEALTH

DEAFNESS IS FREQUENTLY HEREDITARY, SURVEY SHOWS

Third of Children Born of Deaf Parents Also Are Hard of Hearing; Doctor Urges Suitable Marriages, Opposes Segregation.

By DR. MORRIS FISHERLIN, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

A certain percentage of inability to hear is apparently due to inheritance characteristics which make hearing impossible. Some hardness of hearing results from disease and develops after birth.

One of the most common causes of deafness is the disease called otosclerosis, a condition which begins about middle life and gradually prevents hearing through changes that take place in the tissues involved in hearing.

Recently W. J. Tinkle has made a study of inherited deafness, finding some families in which hardness of hearing has come through four generations. In the records of the Ohio State School for the Deaf there were found reports concerning 31 families in which both parents were deaf and at least one child was in an institution. In about two-thirds of the cases in which both parents are deaf, the children can hear; in one-third, however, the children are also deaf.

The available evidence indicates that hereditary deaf-mutism and the tendency to otosclerosis are inherited, but that the characteristic is what is called a recessive characteristic and tends to be bred out of the race. If deaf persons are able to marry those who hear, such hereditary deafness will be gradually eliminated.

If a deafened person marries one who hears well and who has no deaf relatives, or marries a person who has lost his hearing due to some acute disease and has no deaf relatives, the danger of having children who are also deaf is slight.

However, when people who are hereditarily deaf marry people who are also hereditarily deaf, one-third of the children are also deaf. There are no criteria for distinguishing just which parents of this type will have children who hear well and just which ones will have children who do not.

Doctor Tinkle, therefore, suggests that every possible measure be employed to promote marriage between deafened people and those who hear well, and that one important step in this direction is the teaching of lip reading is promoted, and if more effort is made to teach those who are deafened to speak, the deaf will be taken out of their shut-in condition, and the tendency toward hereditary deafness be largely controlled.

do it early, just as soon as the soil is fit to work. Good test is to turn up a spadeful of soil, pick up a handful and squeeze it slightly. If the mass remains sodden and sticky and holds the finger-marks the soil is too wet to work, but if it springs apart again of itself after squeezing it is time to use the spade or fork.

If you spade and rake early, the garden may have time to settle, and weeds sprout. If the weeds sprout, rake the surface thoroughly and destroy them. In any event, rake the upper few inches of the spading thoroughly before seeding, being sure the ground is dry enough.

Spade Densely Deep These suggestions are rather familiar, but are worth emphasizing again. Less familiar is the advice to work even harder in spading the garden, spading it two spadings deep, but without mixing the topsoil with the subsoil.

before planting will likely prevent such injury. Potash for Potatoes In planting potatoes it generally pays to use fertilizers, and the fertilizers should contain a relatively high percentage of potash and should be well mixed with the soil in the bottom of the furrows.

On a small scale this would be at the rate of about 14 pounds of fertilizer to each 100 feet of row where the rows are spaced three feet apart. With the row 30 inches apart it would be 12 pounds to 100 feet of row. That is a heavy application, and five to seven pounds to each 100 feet of row is more nearly, or perhaps above the average quantity of fertilizer used. If the soil is good, five pounds to 100 feet of row is plenty.

It is very important that the fertilizer be well mixed with the soil in the bottom of the row before the seed is planted. Tomatoes are one of the most important garden crops, but ordinary varieties of potatoes will not grow on some soils on account of the presence of tomato wilt disease in the soil.

DO YOU CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barlow

"Big Sister" might be thinking to herself: "Not being an ancient Greek who always seemed to have such perfect perceptions, I have to be the one for a wave came over as often as I was getting beautified in a nearby shop recently."

Two sets interested me. I mean two sets of children. The first consisted of a sister and brother, the girl a child of seven or eight and the boy about five. Their mother and companion sat by while they explored. They beheld nobody and that part of it was all right. But my quick eye caught a few words of the little girl. She was talking her brother.

"I'm going out," he announced. "I hope you'll fall down and get hurt," she said, plucking up a bobby pin from the floor and examining it. Her tone was as casual as if she had said, "It's a pretty day."

"I was thunderstruck and naturally strained my ears for every remark of this astute youngster. Each child had a little toy in a box, something bought on the way to the shop, I suppose. I couldn't quite make out what they were. Junior opened the end of his box and drew the little wooden gadget half-way out. "I wish you would take it out so I could beat it for you," said the sister in a smooth voice that gave me a chill.

He was a sweet little fellow with a mop of dark hair. On his forehead was an ugly looking cut. He came over to watch me so I said, "How did you get hurt? Did you fall?"

"I didn't do it with a knife," she defended herself then. "I did it with my fingers."

Both children were so casual I couldn't quite get the idea. Was it clearly a case of persecution, the jealousy of the oldest for the youngest, or sheer devilhood. What I have had room to tell here isn't a third of what went on. I heard. But of course she knew the situation. A boy's life isn't worth living with an older sister like that. The whole thing was so warped, so unnatural, I have not been able to get it out of my mind.

The baby, a little chap of three or so, sat in the barbers' chair, one of the happiest, cutest children I have ever had the luck to see.

His two elder sisters hovered near. They couldn't be nice enough to him, those little girls couldn't. One of them would go up, take his chubby hand in hers and lay it against her chest.

I studied the faces of that trio, and the faces of my poor little martyr and his inquisitor. What a contrast.

Surely, surely children don't inherit such widely different traits. Their mothers outwardly looked about the same, gentle and well dressed. But what a world of difference there must be in the relationship of those homes.

From the cradle, it seems that some children never have a chance

Uncle Sam's Tips on VEGETABLE GARDENING

THREE OLD STANDBYS NEED PLENTY OF CARE AND WORK

By W. E. BEATTE, Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Potatoes are one of the garden crops that may be planted quite early, because it takes two or three weeks for the potato plants to appear above ground.

Sometimes, due to cold, wet soil and other causes, seed potatoes rot in the ground. This rotting of the seed can be overcome by cutting the seed potatoes a week or more before they are to be planted and storing them in a room where the temperature is about 70 degrees and with plenty of moisture in the air.

Switch the Topsoil When one of the small plots has been double-spaded, go to the next and throw the topsoil from the second area to replace the topsoil thrown out of the first. Spade with the topsoil from the third, continuing until the whole area has been spaded, when the first topsoil removed will replace the topsoil in the last plot.

This method seems to demand a great deal more work than ordinary shallow spading, but the gardener can expect to recover some of the time and the effort.

News story tells about a man and his six acres each of whom is more than six feet and a half tall. Bet a plugged nickel they have the seats right in front of us at the ball park opening day, and all stand up at every pit h.

NINE RUN RALLY GIVES TRADERS VICTORY, 11-8

Mechanics Beat Firemen With Slugging Spree in Fourth and Final Inning; Stick Work of Kovis and Quish Features Practice.

The Manchester Trade School baseball team played a four-inning practice game against Hose Company No. 3 of the S. M. F. D. at the Charter Oak field yesterday afternoon and won out in a last frame rally by a score of 11 to 8.

T. Happeney pitched for the firemen, battled the Mechanics with his slow ball delivery until the fourth inning when he blew up, forcing in two runs with the sacks. "Ding" Farr was rushed to the rescue but too late to stop the hitting attack of the Traders, who also took advantage of the misuses of the veteran ballsters. When the smoke of battle cleared away, nine runs were scored.

Quish in his initial appearance behind the plate handled the deliveries of both Farrwell and Kovis in fine style and shapes up as good backstop material. Quish had a big day at bat for the firemen, contributing a single, a double and a triple, while Kovis connected for a single and a double for the Traders. The Trade School will play Windsor Locks High school in the opening game of the season Wednesday afternoon, April 23, at Charter Oak field.

SEEK TO PENALIZE BOXERS FOR FAKING

Ben Jeby and Gorilla Jones Draw Fire of Cleveland Commission.

Cleveland, April 21—(AP)—A two-way attempt to penalize Ben Jeby of New York and Gorilla Jones of Akron, O., for what Mayor Ray T. Miller characterized as an "apparent fake fight" was underway today.

The Cleveland Boxing Commission, in a letter to Secretary Peter Horback of Cincinnati, asked the National Boxing Association to bar both fighters from the ring for a year in the 32 states which hold N. B. A. memberships.

The city council, in a resolution terming the fight "perhaps the worst in the city's history," asked the boxing commission to penalize both contestants. It recommended that their purses of $3,400 be withheld and either used to refund a proportionate share of the spectators' admissions or be donated to charity.

The commission asked that the year ban be applied also to Sney Wellman, Jones' manager, and Hyman Caplin, Jeby's manager, asserting in its letter to Horback that should the fighters and managers "go unpunished, then the ideals and principles of protection of the national boxing association are of no value."

GOLF

DUB GETS A BREAK IN HANDICAP PLAY

The duffer who shoots anywhere from 80 to 100 is about to have his day. Recently an organization was formed to promote a national handicap tournament.

This organization, the Handicap Golfers' Association of America Inc., has elected S. G. A. and the backing of its president, Herbert Jaques, of Boston.

The idea is to stimulate interest among club members shoveling the background by a few top notchers. Any golfer belonging to a recognized club is eligible. During a specific period he may play a round. His attested card and club handicap will be forwarded to national headquarters in New York.

Club, State and National winners will be tabulated. An entry list of upwards of 100,000 is expected, of which probably 100 or more will tie for first place. The winners then will meet at some central course for a final round. In this tournament a player may win a national tournament with a score as high as 110.

Max Marston, former amateur champion, is president of the new organization. Vice presidents are Stacy Bender, president of the Metropolitan Golf Association; Lowry Arnold, president of the Southern Association; Harry E. Radix, president of the Chicago Association; and J. K. Wadley, president of the Texas Association. A. C. Greyson is secretary.

Play is now taking place in some sections. The following are the playing dates: March 15th to May 1st—Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, N. Carolina and S. Carolina. April 15th to June 15th—Arizona, Arkansas, California, District of Columbia, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia. May 15th to July 1st—Delaware, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Nebraska. July 15th—Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, N. Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, S. Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin, Wyoming. July 16th to Sept. 1st—Playoffs of ties. This procedure is to be announced.

Local Sport Chatter

Although Manchester High has been forced to postpone the opening of its baseball season for two weeks, other schools in the vicinity will open their seasons this weekend. East Hartford faces Meriden High in East Hartford this afternoon and West Hartford opposes Bristol tomorrow afternoon at Bristol.

IN THE DERBY AT PADDOCK

By MAX RIDDLE (Copyright 1933 by NEA) Six victories in 10 starts, and never out of the money, is the record held by Shepherd Boy, the Derby candidate of Messrs. Laffoon and Yelzer. Mr. Polk Laffoon is chairman of the Kentucky Racing Commission, and he undoubtedly will send his home-bred son of Hildur to the post May 6 if the colt trains properly.

Shepherd Boy ran in the better class claiming races, and occasionally in an allowance race. That he escaped being claimed is remarkable, considering his evident worth. He, however, received little attention as a Derby candidate until his former stablemate, Colonel Hatfield, had shown some disposition to go on over a mile by winning the Louisiana Derby at a mile and one-eighth.

Shepherd Boy is by no means fashionably bred. Practically every other Derby nominee can boast better breeding. Shepherd Boy's sire was the high-class race horse, Hildur, but Hildur is a son of Star Shoot, and he son of Star Shoot has been a successful sire, as witness the pathetic failure of Sir Barton and Star Master.

Shepherd Boy and Colonel Hatfield are therefore virtually the only horses to bring any distinction either to Hildur, or any other member of the male line of Star Shoot. Colonel Hatfield was claimed from Laffoon and Yelzer and then went on to win the Louisiana Derby.

That Shepherd Boy possesses speed was proved when he set a new Lincoln Fields track record for 5/4 furlongs in 1:05 flat. It is impossible to find any true index of his real ability, however, as he did not face any of the better class eastern colts. Nor did he race against any westerners the equal of Head Play.

But Shepherd Boy, in common with all the descendants of Star Shoot, excels at mud running. His last two races were run in the mud, and the son of Hildur simply made a show of his heels. He is not bred for the distance, but might surprise in that respect since Colonel Hatfield has shown some ability at the longer distances.

This western colt is trained by the canny Roscoe Goose. Goose is the man who took Denzell, the longest-priced winner that ever scored in the Derby. He has been giving Shepherd Boy long and careful training, and he might have the colt up to a mile and a quarter by May 6. And if it is muddy, Shepherd Boy is sure to be tough.

HIS RIGHT ARM HOLDS THE ANSWER TO CLEVELAND'S PENNANT QUESTION!

Starting the track empire with such stars as the late Eric Krumm, starting Robert, Hector, Eyer, Bob King, Ward Edmonds, Len Kibby and Ross Nichols, the "boy coach" brought to Stanford the I. C. A. A. A. championship in 1927, 1928 and 1929.

Templeton injects his forceful personality into his athletes. He uses the language of a mule skinner. He starts every season by predicting that his Cardinals will beat the Trojans, a feat in which they have failed for the last three years.

Before Blazing Ben Eastman ran a single race as a sophomore in 1931, Templeton told the world that he had an unknown who would shatter all world records in the 440 and 880. Eastman fulfilled the prophecy by galloping the quarter in 46.4 and the half in 1:50.9.

Bob King fulfilled another Templeton prediction by winning the 1928 Olympic high jump with a record leap of 6 feet 8 inches. Bill Miller, sophomore southpaw, fulfilled still another last summer by winning the Olympic pole vault at the world record height of 14:1 1/2.

A year ago, Templeton weighed about 110 pounds, having lost more than 60 during his illness. He saw the Olympic games from a stretcher. He coached his men by remote control, he analyzed each man's form by slow-motion pictures taken at every practice and shown in his room daily.

Now Dink is on his own feet again, enjoying robust health. He started the current season by practicing at Stanford with Rip Southern California or all her track glory. And from the looks of his great team led by Eastman, LaBorde, Miller, Gray, Lyman, Hubbs, Deacon and Meyer, he has rung the bell already.

Dutch Ulrich, right handed pitcher of the Seattle Indians of the Coast League, hits aimed 1,200 miles and walked over the Sierrys mountains through a foot of snow for six hours in the night to report for a try-out. Fans believe he has outdone his job.

PERRELL IS THE ONLY BIG LEAGUE PITCHER TO WIN 20 GAMES OR MORE IN EACH OF HIS FIRST FOUR YEARS UP!

Weather Conditions Force Changes in All Sport Schedules for Coming Season; Golfers Play Glastonbury Here Tomorrow.

Besides making a complete change in the baseball schedule as announced in last night's Herald, Manchester High School has been forced to revise the golf and track schedules also, postponing opening matches.

As a result, Manchester's track team will not open its season until next Thursday when Meriden High will come here for a dual meet at the West Side. The Red and White was originally scheduled to meet Hartford Public tomorrow morning but this meet was postponed until May 20.

The golf team was slated to meet Lewis High of Southington yesterday but this match was postponed until April 29. The team will oppose Glastonbury High at the Country Club tomorrow in the first match of the season. Only one change was made in the tennis schedule, that being the addition of a match with West Hartford on June 2 at West Hartford.

FUN AFISHIN'

GIVE BASS A CHANCE TO SEE THE BAIT

By JIMMY DONAHUE
WBA Service Sports Writer

The season is fast for bass in patience. Many anglers fall because they change plugs after a few unsuccessful casts. They don't give the fish a chance to see the bait.

Nearly all the baits on the market now are fish getters. Some are better than others, but you won't get the fish with the best bait made unless you keep it in the water.

Don't hurry your casts. Bait should be retrieved at moderate speed, and sometimes it is well to wind in the lure in irregular jerks, adding a different action to the bait. Some fish have been lost through too rapid reeling of the bait.

When you get a bass strike on an underwater lure you'll know it. It is a positive jerk, very different from the pull of the hook fouling on a weed or sunken log. Set the hooks promptly and prepare for some fun.

Be chances to use, if you are a beginner, you'll miss your first strike because of "buck fever." You'll jerk the hooks right out of Mr. Bass' mouth or you'll lose your fish because you give him slack enough to jerk loose.

CANZONERI LOSES IN NON-TITLE GO

To Give Ramey a Shot at His Crown; Takes a Decisive Lacing.

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 21—(AP)—Wesley Ramey has won his chance at the lightweight boxing title—his goal in the 74 fights of his professional career, of which he has won 70. Tony Canzoneri, the titleholder promised him that chance last night after taking a decisive lacing at the hands of the 23-year-old Grand Rapids contender in a 10-round non-title bout.

At the end of the fight, Canzoneri took a bow and announced he considered Ramey ready for a shot at the title. Ramey weighed in at 136, one pound over the limit. Canzoneri scaled 133. The Associated Press score card gave Ramey a 2-1 but the first and third rounds.

The value of the Preakesness, which is to be run May 15, a week after the Kentucky Derby, has been cut to $25,000 . . . that brings it back to near the amount of $25,000 set for it in 1920, which was $23,000, the high point was $80,000 in 1928, when Victorian won it.

But the Woodlawn vase will be up for competition again . . . the old silver trophy, made in 1860 for Col. R. A. Alexander of Kentucky, was buried during the Civil War and the remains of the family plate at Woodlawn, the colonel's home . . . the winner is entitled to keep the trophy, but it has been returned from year to year.

As a turf event, the Preakesness antedates the Kentucky Derby . . . At a dinner given in 1868, Governor Bowie of Maryland, who also was president of the Maryland Jockey Club, wowed the boys out of their chairs by proposing an offer of a purse of $15,000 to be added to a sweepstakes of $1000 each, for three-year-olds, to be run at the autumn meeting at Pimlico in October, 1870 . . . it was to be called the Dinner Party stakes . . . there were 30 subscribers to the stake, but only seven horses started.

The winner was Preakesness, a bay colt by the immortal Lexington out of Bay Leaf, owned by W. H. Sanford. The distance was two miles, and the time, over a heavy track, was 3:47 1-2.

The name was changed after that first year to the Dixie stake, and in 1888 was changed to the Preakesness, after the first winner.

Lots of Entries
In 1918 the Preakesness was so popular that it was necessary to run the race in two divisions, with $15,000 added to each event. It was not until 1919 that the deed money was increased to $25,000. That was the year Sir Barton galloped into history by winning both the Preakesness and the Derby.

The longest priced winner of a Preakesness was Nellie Morse in 1924, and the payoff was $46.60 on each $2 ticket. Man o' War was a hot favorite, refunding $3.60 on each $2 ticket, or 80 cents to $1. But back in '89, Buddhaist paid 1 to 30, in a two-horse race.

WAS EVADING LAW WHEN CAR CRASHED

Rodriguez, Victim of Coventry Accident, Was Attempting Escape.

Mrs. Augusta Rodriguez, in company with Immigration officials, visited her husband, Francisco Rodriguez at the Manchester Memorial hospital late yesterday afternoon to conduct an inquiry in the case of an alleged attempt on the part of the Hartford man to evade deportation for illegal residence.

According to the records of the Hartford Bureau of Immigration the injured man was under bonds of $500 for his appearance before the U. S. Immigration Bureau for examination for deportation.

Following the surrender of the bond on Rodriguez, the Hartford police were asked to look out for him. Police first learned of his whereabouts when it was reported by the State Police that he had been taken to the Manchester Memorial hospital suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, sustained in the Coventry crash.

Upon seeing her husband Mrs. Rodriguez fainted and became hysterical and the injured man lapsed into unconsciousness, in which state he remained today. His condition is still critical.

State Policeman Kenneth W. Stevens who investigated the Coventry accident, believes that the driver of the convertible Ford cabriolet, which went off the road hitting a telephone pole and breaking it off near the base, occurred when John F. Sousa, of 388 Trumbull street, Hartford, driver of the car, fell asleep at the wheel.

FATHER KIERNAN DIES

New Haven, April 21.—(AP)—Rev. William L. Kiernan, pastor of St. John's church died today at the church rectory following a year's illness. He was 67 years old.

Born in Ireland, Sept. 17, 1865, Father Kiernan was ordained to the priesthood by Cardinal Gibbons, Dec. 22, 1884, at St. Mary's seminary, Baltimore.

VANCE LOSES SUIT

White Plains, N. Y., April 21.—(AP)—Louis Joseph Vance, author, lost a $35,000 damage suit in Supreme Court today, and a jury awarded $329 to his opponent, John Saldi, a contractor, who had filed a counter-claim for $1,600, the whole argument having arisen out of an automobile collision nearly five years ago.

Vance's coupe and a truck owned by Saldi and driven by Napoleon Edmunds, a negro, collided in August, 1928. Vance testified he was driving slowly, and that the truck was traveling about 45 miles an hour.

Vance asked $35,000, declaring that his literary output had been cut down because of injuries he received in the crash. Saldi asked $1,600 for damages to his truck.

DE MOLAY TO HOLD DANCE APRIL 29

Annual Spring Invitation Affair Planned — To Be Semi-Formal in Nature.

John Mather Chapter, Order of DeMolay, is laying plans for the annual Spring Dance to be held on the evening of Saturday, April 29. This function has always been one of the highlights of the social season for Manchester's younger set.

The dance is scheduled as a semi-formal affair, but it is expected that tuxedos and evening gowns will be less prevalent this year than in years gone by.

AVERAGE 56 PATIENTS DAILY AT HOSPITAL

Statistics for March Show That 20 Babies Were Born at Institution—Eight Deaths.

The Memorial Hospital today issued a list of statistics covering the month of March, showing that an average of 56 patients were cared for daily at the institution.

Your firmness of tone, exactness of attack, beautiful diction, and robust singing when the score called for it were to our minds practically perfect and these things show the result of hard work and careful training.

We have in mind recommending that the Federation be asked to select a single judge in the future in cases they cannot afford the transportation fees on three judges, he to come outside of the New England area.

Tracy W. Redding of New Haven Speaker at Older Boys' Gathering Next Week.

BOYS' WORK LEADER TO BE AT CONFERENCE

Tracy W. Redding, Secretary of the New Haven Y. M. C. A., will be one of the speakers on the program of the 15th annual Hartford County older boys' conference to be held here next Friday and Saturday, April 28th and 29th.

With the single exception of the Springfield Club, all those who received awards were chosen from among those who followed the subdued type of singing, whereas, those who sang with the greatest accuracy as far as the actual markings were concerned and who were on pitch at the critical points were apparently thrown into the discard by the judges.

We quote from his voluntary letter: "I had considerable trouble with my stomach. Digestion was out of the question. I got medicine which gave me only temporary relief."

"Then I thought of taking ALL-BRAN. I started eating a cereal dishful two or three times a day."

"It has been over a year now since I ate that first dish of bran, but from that day to this I have had the pleasure of enjoying the proper functioning of the digestive organs."

"Thanks to ALL-BRAN, I still eat it regularly and like it better all the time."—Lester Bartholomew, Cadillac, Mich.

Constipation is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to promote elimination. ALL-BRAN supplies both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Certainly this food is more natural than taking harmful patent medicines. Two tablespoonsful daily will overcome most types of constipation. With each meal in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

TRADE STUDENTS ON STAGE TONIGHT

Group to Advertise Coming Benefit Show at Local Theater.

To advertise the benefit performance to be held at the State Theater next Wednesday and Thursday evenings under the auspices of the State Trade School, a student trio will present a brief program as a special attraction at the theater tonight. Their program will be given at 8 o'clock.

The performers will be Woodrow Siccoccio, saxophone soloist; John J. Marszalek, violinist; and Arthur

Le Bleu, banjoist. The program will include the following numbers: "Here They Come," "Underneath the Mellow Moon," a saxophone solo and "On Wisconsin." Miss Jean Aceto, well known local pianist, will accompany the trio.

Next Wednesday and Thursday evenings the entire Trade School orchestra of 25 pieces, under the direction of William Evans, will play at the benefit performance which will have "Central Airport," starring Richard Barthelmess, as the feature picture.

A good advance sale of tickets is reported by the students and the funds received from the sale will be used in the maintenance of the athletic program at the school.

BOMB DID NOT EXPLODE

New York, April 21.—(AP)—A bomb that was prevented by a defective fuse from exploding was found by a policeman today on a desk in a ground floor office of Headquarters of the International Electric Workers Union, 125 East 25th street.

DISCUSS EXTENDING OF BENTON STREET

Talked As Possible Work Project for Unemployed at Committee Session.

The extension of Benton street through to Hollister street is being considered as a possible project by the Board of Directors of the Manchester Emergency Employment Association, Inc. It was announced today following a meeting of the directors yesterday.

No action has been taken as yet, the project being in the discussion stage. Benton street now runs from East Center street to Middle Turnpike East. The extension of the street would make it necessary also to extend Hollister street a short distance beyond the point at which it is now developed. Hollister street would have to be extended over 400 feet and Benton street over 1000 feet.

Select 15 Names. Frank Cheney, Jr., president of the association, reported in detail on the government's forestry service plan and Herbert McCann, manager of the association bureau, reported that he had selected 15 names from his files of young men eligible for this work. The directors will interview these men at a meeting to be held next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The directors officially approved the home garden movement, sponsored by Dillworth-Cornell Post of the American Legion. A sum of $400 has been appropriated by the association and a similar amount by the Board of Selectmen for this project. It was learned that 125 unemployed men had applied for plots in the community gardens and it is expected that 250 gardens will be started. Applications were received at the Nathan Hale School last night. Tonight applications will be received from unemployed at the West Side Rec. Plots will be assigned in the Manchester Green, north end, Charter Oak street and Hartford road tracts. It is hoped to save considerable money on the seed and fertilizer bills this year.

the first day were in many cases sold out before noon. Bamboo makes news among the features. All morning any quantity of people could be seen going up and down Main street and on the side streets with their eyes. Silk dresses were another feature on the main floor that sold like hot cakes and last night a great deal of attention centered around the cotton wash dresses. In fact there were many times when the crowd stood three deep around this counter.

No merchandise was brought in for sale purposes in either store. Every bit of it is fresh, clean stock that has been marked down especially low to convert it into cash. In view of the fact that the dollar will be inflated by the present change in finance and a certainty of a sharp advance in the prices of all commodities wise shoppers will buy now before this price advance becomes effective.

Alcohol companies already are making ethyl alcohol from corn, expecting a federal law to provide inclusion of two per cent of corn alcohol in every gallon of gas. Next time you run the old bus up a tree you can say, "Honest, officer, she was all corned up!"

Herbert House and Elmer Weedon of C. E. House and Son, Inc., and The J. W. Hale Co. both expressed the opinion last night after the close of the first day of their big three day sale that the store resembled a busy day before Christmas or Manchester Day a year ago as far as the crowds were concerned that thronged the store from morning until night. In fact from 8 to 5 o'clock the crowd taxed the efforts of the clerks to the limit to wait on them.

Unusually attractive specials which were offered for yesterday.

MENUS

For Good Health A Week's Supply Recommended By Dr. Frank McCoy

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, April 23, 1933:

SUNDAY

Breakfast—Crisp waffle; small piece of broiled ham; applesauce. Lunch—Creamed sweet potatoes; spring salad (cucumbers, celery, artichoke hearts). Dinner—Baked chicken; asparagus; steamed carrots; ripe olives; baked apple a la mode.

MONDAY

Breakfast—Coddled eggs; Melba toast; stewed prunes. Lunch—Crisp waffle; small piece of broiled ham; applesauce. Dinner—Broiled steak; Zucchini; string beans; salad of head lettuce; pineapple whip.

TUESDAY

Breakfast—French omelet; re-toasted cereal biscuit; stewed peaches. Lunch—Boiled potatoes; cooked greens; celery. Dinner—Roast mutton; buttered beets; peas; salad of shredded raw cabbage and parsnip; cup custard.

WEDNESDAY

Breakfast—Wholewheat-raisin muffins; peanut butter; pear sauce. Lunch—Large glass of tomato juice. Dinner—Vegetable soup; boiled lean beef; baked grated carrots; spinach; salad of chopped cucumbers in beef jelly; dish of berries.

THURSDAY

Breakfast—Poached egg on Melba toast; stewed apricots. Lunch—Corn; cooked lettuce; salad of raw spinach leaves. Dinner—Broiled lamb chops; escaloped celery; baked tomatoes; turnip cup salad; fig icebox sponge.

FRIDAY

Breakfast—Cottage cheese; sliced pineapple (fresh or canned). Lunch—Raw apples with peanut butter. Dinner—Tomato and celery vegetable broth; baked sea bass; string beans; green peas; salad of chopped cucumbers; tomatoes and lettuce; no dessert.

SATURDAY

Breakfast—Baked eggs; Melba toast; dish of berries (canned without sugar). Lunch—Pint of buttermilk with tea or twelve dates. Dinner—Roast pork; cooked greens; baked ground beets; combination salad of green peas, celery, string beans; baked apple.

WHOLEWHEAT-RAISIN MUFFINS

To a well-beaten egg add one cupful of sweet milk. Stir in one cupful of real wholewheat flour and beat until smooth, then add a half cupful of the wholewheat flour into which has been sifted one level teaspoonful of baking powder. Next add a half cup of seedless raisins which have been slightly soaked. Mix thoroughly and bake in muffin tins in a moderately hot oven until brown. The quantity makes about eight muffins.

The tomato and celery vegetable broth given in Friday's menu is made by simmering these vegetables in sufficient water for an hour or more over a slow fire, straining off the liquid, and seasoning with a little salt. This makes a good clear soup with fish or pork.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. (Has Dizzy Spells and Head Pains). Question: Mrs. Aletha S. writes: "I have severe dizzy spells and pains in the back of my head. I have taken calomel and salts, but my tongue is badly coated. I am 48 years of age. Is it just old age creeping on me, or is there anything I can do to relieve my trouble?" Answer: You are a comparatively young woman and should not feel any infirmities of age. It is unwise for me to attempt to diagnose your case through this column. What you need is not calomel and salts but a good diagnosis in order to find out the cause of your trouble. It may be due only to biliousness or a toxic condition of your system which can be easily cured through proper hygienic measures.

(Relation of Gland to Hair). Question: "I" writes: "I have been told that falling hairs caused by thyroid gland trouble. Is this correct?" Answer: There is no doubt, a close relationship between the growth of hair and the function of the thyroid gland. Those who have an insufficiency of the thyroid secretion usually become fat and have a poor growth of hair, while the thin person is usually of the hyper-thyroid type and has plenty of strong hair.

Porcupines do not shoot their quills. Some of the quills fall out when they try to fall their enemies with their tails.

SEA FURNISHES THEME OF SERVICE IN CHURCH

Unique Program at South Methodist Church on Next Sunday Evening.

A unique sea service is planned for Sunday evening by Rev. R. A. Colpitts of the South Methodist church. Sidney Strickland and Thomas Maxwell have erected a miniature lighthouse on the chapel platform, from which a light will flash at regular intervals, precisely as from lighthouses along the coast.

Nicholas H. Holmes of East Center street is not only loaning the large model yacht which has recently been exhibited on Main street, but also several clipper and other ships which he has painted.

The church made quartet under the direction of Robert Gordon will sing five of the old sea hymns, among them such favorites as "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning," "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me," "Sail On" and others.

Rev. Colpitts will take for his subject "There Go the Ships!" a probable exclamation of King Solomon when looking at the harbors of Tyre crowded with shipping, during one of his visits to his royal colleague, King Hiram.

It is hoped that many will attend this most unusual marine service, which will be held at 7 o'clock.

Y. M. C. A. Notes

The brass quartet from the Salvation Army was at the Y last night and entertained with a fine program for an hour. They gave not only the numbers on their instruments but also a trio, a vocal quartet and vocal solo. David Addy, the bandmaster, gave a good talk on the need of vision in making our lives count and then gave additional numbers on the instruments.

After the concert they turned their quartet into a quintet for basketball and played a good game with the North Ends. The first half was a good close game and was a tie for quite a while but the lack of practice recently on the part of the boys from the Salvation Army was too much for them and the North Ends took the last half in a romp.

The Crescents want all to remember that they are planning a real program for the concert Saturday night and would be glad to have a good crowd out.

Joe's Fillers lost the toss on "the place for the last of the three games with the Ends for the town championship so they do not get the game on their home floor but will have to go to the School street Recreation building next Tuesday night for the final game.

Businessmen tonight for volleyball and at 7 p. m. the All-Stars will have the floor for an hour under the leadership of Edward Wilson.

The contract bridge group had their weekly meeting last night and from the laughter following someone must have had a good time.

CHAMBER WORKERS TO MEET MONDAY

Pawtucket Man to Address Gathering of Campaigners at Watkins Auditorium.

George Clark, executive secretary of the Pawtucket, R. I., Chamber of Commerce, will address the campaign organization of the local Chamber at a meeting next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at Watkins Brothers auditorium on Oak street, when final instructions will be given the workers in the drive to raise $5,000 for the continuation of the Chamber's activities during the remainder of the year.

Clark is past president of the New England Association of Commercial Organization Executives and is widely known as a dynamic and interesting speaker. Details of the drive will be outlined to the workers and each will be given a list of prospects to canvass. It is expected that "we report meetings will be held during the week of the drive, one on Wednesday evening and the other on Friday evening.

WELLES AS SPECIAL EMISSARY TO CUBA

Assistant Secretary of State is Authority on Latin-American Affairs.

Washington, April 21.—(AP)—President Roosevelt appears ready to send Summer Welles, assistant secretary of state, as a special emissary to Cuba.

Welles is in charge of the Latin American division of the State Department and an authority in this field.

Whether the President will also name his ambassador at this time or whether he intends that Welles shall act as ambassador at Havana was uncertain today, with officials declining any statement on the situation.

It is known that Mr. Roosevelt is closely watching the Cuban situation and has had some long talks with his strongest men there.

Cuba is regarded as one of the important points in the whole Latin American situation by the President. John Cudahy, of Milwaukee, has been mentioned frequently as an ambassador to Havana.

Francis White, assistant secretary of state, who has been talked of for the Cuban post, is expected to take over the duties of Mr. Welles here during the latter's service in Cuba.

VERA CRUZ MOURNS ITS SOLDIER DEAD

And in Mexico City Special Precautions Are Taken to Guard U. S. Ambassador.

Vera Cruz, April 21.—(AP)—All business was ordered halted for a period of mourning today as Mexicans honored 13 countrymen killed 19 years ago when the United States occupied Vera Cruz.

The 13 bodies buried in state overnight in the municipal palace were to be re-interred with ceremony of the crypts of a new memorial erected at the intersection of Main streets. The memorial honors several hundred Mexicans who died in the fighting.

Some students passed a resolution demanding U. S. Ambassador Daniels persona non grata because he was U. S. secretary of the Navy at the time of the occupation.

A model federal bill for regulation of trucks and buses has been drafted by a conference of rail executives, public utility commissioners and regulatee roads interstate truck operators.

FAMOUS AVIATRIX

ADDRESSES D. A. R.

Amelia Earhart Says She Does Not Agree With Society's Views.

Washington, April 21.—(AP)—Speaking before an organization that for years has been adopting resolutions calling for armies and navies for National defense, Amelia Earhart told the Daughters of the American Revolution today that no organization should advocate armaments unless the members were willing to bear arms themselves.

The woman trans-Atlantic flier said equality with men was essential in everything and asserted that women should be drafted in event of war.

Mrs. Earhart said at present there are but 600 licensed women pilots compared to 18,000 men exclusive of Army and Navy.

She then announced she would "touch on a point on which this organization and myself do not see eye to eye."

Just As Important "You are very much interested in the National defense through the Army and Navy," she said. "I feel that industrial development is just as important, and that a great number of industrial pilots are as potent security as we have in a large Army and Navy."

She retold humorously the story of her historic solo flight across the Atlantic eleven months ago.

She paid high compliment to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who flew with her last night to Baltimore and back.

"The example set by the First Lady of the Land has done more to advance aviation, among women, I think, than any other factor," she said.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, April 21.—(AP)—Financial markets halted to take bearings today, after the violent spurt of the past two sessions.

Stocks, with the exception of rails and gold mining issues, weakened under profit taking. The decline in dollar exchange was checked, as bear speculators abroad took profits, and commodity markets turned hesitant, although further firmness appeared in copper and sugar.

The rail was bid up briskly in the early trading but fell again about 2 to 5 points in such issues as New York Central, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Delaware and Hudson, Northern Pacific and Baltimore and Ohio, were roughly half lost. In the gold mining group, Homestake advanced 5 and McIntyre 3. Utilities were particularly weak, with North American, Public Service of N. J., and Consolidated Gas of 2 to 4. Silvers and Coppers, such as U. S. Smelting, American Smelting and Kennecott, lost a point or two. Oil held fairly well, with Standard of California up a point. U. S. Steel was about steady. American Telephone, American Sugar, Corn Products, American Steel and Wire, Allied and Liggett and Myers B lost a point or two.

After the breath-taking happenings of the past two days, there was a distinct tendency in speculative quarters to wait for a clearer outlook. Comment on the $3,000,000 inflation proposal in Washington was guarded, pending further study, although some important quarters in Wall street said the measure with skillful administration should be effective.

The bulge in the rails looked like a run in of shorts, although brokers said there was some long buying in expectation of further gains in freight movement. Weakness of utilities may have been influenced by passage by the House of a measure to shift the electricity tax from the consumer to the producer. Silver issues reacted in sympathy with a setback in silver futures. Profit-taking in coppers may have been predicated in the fact that even at 6 1/2 cents a pound, the metal is still well under average production costs.

Business and trade reports continued encouraging. Dun and Bradstreet said the post-Easter let-down in retail trade had failed to develop, and the wave of public buying appeared to be far from having reached its crest. Reports from the steel trade indicated that production may have gained even further.

Earnings reports attracted some attention. Allis Chalmers had a first quarter net loss of $899,494, which was a little less than the $946,895 reported for the like period of last year. Two quarterly reports appeared. Mupp showed a loss for the period of $223,997, against $966,176 last year, but Chrysler's first quarter net was $8,088,082, or somewhat larger than the $8,066,485 in the same period of 1933.

THE TINYMATES

Story by HAL COCHRAN Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The ark was pushed up to the hill and everything went well until the Tynimates tried to find a place to anchor it real tight. "There are no trees," said Cobby. "See, this is as barren as can be. I fear that we will all be in the water through the night." "And this, you said, would be a lark," snapped Duncy. "I'll crawl on the ark and get the bit of sleep I need. Don't jump me overboard." "When I have rested, I'll awaken and then each one his turn on take." "See, you are smart! Your turn comes first," was Sooty promptly roared. "The Midget Man took Duncy's hand and said, 'Now, son, let's try to stand. Just straddle on the roof and then I'll let you rest on me.' "The lad was shortly in his place and then a smile spread on his face. "Ho, hum," he loudly sighed, "that is the proper place to be." "The other Tynimates pushed along and Sooty broke out in a song.

SENSE and NONSENSE

The richest man in the world today is he who can wake up at two o'clock in the morning and go right back to sleep again.

Friend—What are you going to call your baby?
Father—Whatever my wife names him.

The New York Public Library adds two and one-third miles of new books every year to its shelves. It probably causes Doc Five-Foot-Sheff-Eliot to turn over in his mausoleum every year.

A writer states: "Billiards require the greatest finesse and most expert touch of any human endeavor."
The writer, obviously, hasn't tried to borrow money from a bank lately.

How little it takes to upset some people. A woman told us the other day that a funeral she attended was completely spoiled for her because the undertaker wore squeaky shoes.

There's a lot of men who fasten their dogs up at night and allow their sons and daughters to run loose.

Jacob—I dreamed last night that I had invented a new type of breakfast food, and was sampling it when—
Janice—Yes, yes, go on.
Jacob—I woke up and found a corner of the mattress gone.

Boys may have one-track minds and one-way pockets, but, says Pretty Pauline, try and find a one-love heart!

Indignant Comedian—Look here, I object to going on just after that monkey act!
Stage Manager—Why, laddie? Are you afraid they'll think you are an encooer?
"Rather than to try to do all the talking, why not make an effort to do at least half the listening. All right, fire away."

Thingamabobs—The two most pressing needs of this country are for more dollars and more sense. It takes a high-salaried radio comedian to make an old joke sound new—Like a parachute, the mind functions only when it is open—A spendthrift is one who spends his money. A tightwad is one who saves it for somebody else to spend—We think Americans should be proud of their tolerance. We don't know of any nation that could tolerate more—politically.

Ankles used to be taken as snapshots. Now they all seem to be "time exposures."

Young Woman (to country lass)—That's a beautiful pair of hose you have on.
Country Lass—Them ain't hose, they are legs.

When a man has spent the major portion of his life learning to sing bass, he had better think twice before accepting an offer to sing tenor.

Yes, sir, this depression surely is bringing people closer together. In one house they are sleeping four in a bed.

It doesn't pay to be super-critical, but somehow nowadays we seem to run across an unusual number of people who look to be rough-dried rather than wet-washed.

Man—I'd like to buy a diamond necklace for my wife.
Floorwalker—Glassware in aisle 9.

Times haven't changed much, according to Grandpa who used to put the cat out every night—now Dad has to put daughters' boy friends out.

He—What kind of shoes do you think I ought to wear with these hose?
She—Hip boots.

Of the 28,000,000 automobiles in the United States, 80 per cent are said to have a value of not over $25 each.
