More Air-Minded
If you have trees around your house, it's great fun to watch for nests. . . see how cunningly the birds build them, how precarious they look, yet how secure they are. The crowning event is the first flight—if one can call it that—of the fledglings, when the parents force them out of the nest, and it's a case of swim or sink. . . Only occasionally do we have the luck of being on the watch when that event occurs. Right now we're watching a blue-jay's nest, hoping not to miss the babies' first venture.

For Mother's Day, Mother will like nothing better than photographs of Dad and the children. And the family will want a picture of Mother to treasure all their lives. . . Make appointments now for the Fallot Studio—just below the Center—the pictures will be ready in time. Phone 5608.

Child Health
This week the nation sets aside to pay special attention to Child Health. It is, of course, an everyday concern, in which food plays an important part. A medium-coast Sunday dinner that is healthful for children as well as grownups is this one: Stewed Chicken with Rice, Buttered String Beans, Celery, Strawberry Preserves, Biscuits and Butter, Spanish Cream, Milk for Children, Tea or Coffee for Grown-Ups.

They've arrived at Hale's—crocheted cotton gloves, smart, cool and comfortable for wear now. They're made of fine string, in beige and white, washable, only $1.00. Hale's Glove Department.

Smart Oddities
Printed satin in large floral designs make handsome evening gloves for summer. And by the way, you can make for yourself a charming trio of turban, scarf and gloves for daytime from striped taffeta or a novelty cotton. The patterns are easy to follow. In using a material such as taffeta for gloves, it is necessary to have the palm side made of a more hardy fabric.

Spring house-cleaning means crisp, freshly-laundered curtains. They seem like new when returned from the New Model Laundry, which guarantees them against shrinkage. New Model rates are low for such excellent service: plain curtains, 50c pr.; ruffled, 75c pr. Phone 8072.

The attractive Lily Beauty Parlor, House and Hale Block, is now owned and managed by Mrs. Katherine Jones, formerly manager of the State Beauty Parlor on Center street. Mrs. Jones will continue to give the same fine service which makes the Lily establishment so satisfactory, assisted by Miss Betty Crooka, popular operator. The Nestle Circuline and Edmund Permanent Waves will be featured from $3.00 up. Phone 7484.

Orange Sponge Cake
1-4 cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, 1 egg yolk
1-4 cup orange juice
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1-4 cup water
Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, sift together three times. Add 1-2 cup sugar to eggs and beat with rotary egg beater until thick and lemon-colored, adding remainder of sugar gradually. Add orange juice and rind and water; then add flour and beat with rotary egg beater until smooth. Bake in greased pan, in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes, or until done. Remove from oven and invert pan 1 hour, or until cold.

Strength in Unity
You'll be able to get your family to eat healthful greens easily if you combine several different varieties instead of serving just one at a time. For instance, spinach, young beet tops, dandelions, kale, broccoli and Swiss chard cooked together make a feast that even spinach-haters usually like. Of course you don't need to serve them all at once. A few drops of vinegar or a tablespoon of lemon juice improves the flavor of greens.

Garden Bits
This is the time of year when potted plants are set out in the garden, transforming over night the bare beds into lovely spots of bloom. If you are buying geraniums and leaf plants for this, select those which are full of buds rather than flourishing with large blossoms. Among new geraniums recommended by garden experts is the Red Barney, a beautiful white one known as Madame Recamer; a fine pink geranium called the Dorothy Perkins. For porch boxes a salmon pink called Mrs. E. G. Hill is especially popular and a good blooming variety.

New York, May 3.—Directors of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Co. have voted to continue dividends unchanged for the remainder of this year. The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Philadelphia has also announced that dividends will not be reduced in the current year.

Raw silk imports in April increased 32.9 per cent over a year.

Shares calculated to benefit from stiffening prices, and the consequent spur to buying, were notably firm. This was evident in the merchandising issues. Popular manufactured goods for which prices have already been increased include rubber tires and some brands of soap. Mid-week reports from the steel trade indicated that higher prices for finished steel were expected as a result of the

SHOOTS A WOMAN, ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Old Saybrook War Veteran Tells Police Jealousy Was the Motive.

New London, May 3.—(AP)—Philodemo Balance, 35-year-old war veteran of Old Saybrook who attempted to commit suicide last night after shooting Mrs. Mildred Marx, 22, also of Old Saybrook, was on the critical list today at the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospital.

After shooting the woman three times Balance fired a bullet into his own head and at the hospital it was said the bullet fractured the skull and caused a laceration of the brain and grave doubts are entertained for the man's recovery.

The condition of Mrs. Marx, who is also a patient at the local hospital was described today as fair and unless unforeseen complications develop her recovery is expected. One of the bullets fractured her jawbone, a second penetrated her neck and the third entered her chest.

Balance told the state police that he was jealous because of attentions paid to Mrs. Marx by another man.

HERALD "LOST" ADV. BRINGS BACK PIN

Monday afternoon a north and woman lost somewhere between her home and the J. W. Hale Company's store a brooch which she valued highly because it was the gift of her lodge in appreciation of years of service as its presiding officer. Inquiry and diligent search failed to bring any trace of the trinket, when she thought of the Herald's "Lost" column and inserted an advertisement yesterday. A west side boy found the pin, looked for a classified ad about it and immediately called up The Herald. The owner was notified and quickly retrieved the pin.

HOW TO GET MILK INTO CHILD'S MENU

Here Are Some Recipes That Will Give Youngster Needed Ingredient.

When the family doctor or the school dietitian says, "Johnny must drink more milk" there remains for the mother of Johnny the full sized and not always easy job of getting more milk into Johnny. Some children dislike milk; others stubbornly refuse to drink it because they are told they "must" drink milk; others who want more attention from the family, refuse all foods when first offered them, just to make their mother or an older sister or their father try persuasion. Persuasion is gratifying attention. The child is for the time of the persuasion the center of things.

Whether your Johnny, or Mary or little Anne falls into any of these classifications or not is your family secret. But if a child in your household needs more milk it to him, and perhaps without his realizing that the delicious dish in question is designed for that very purpose.

Orange Milk Shake
The warm spring days call for a cool drink at luncheon or between meals. Try this one in tall, pretty glasses; one cup milk; four tablespoons malted milk; two tablespoons cracked ice; three tablespoons fresh orange juice. Mix well or shake in a cocktail shaker, and pour frothing into the child's glass. Let him drink it with a straw if he prefers that method.

Cook vegetables with milk, and a little sour and butter to crisp them. Peas, asparagus, cauliflower, string beans, carrots, corn are delicious this way.

Cocoa Milk Shake
Use one half cup cocoa made with milk (as for drinking); one cup milk; two tablespoons vanilla ice cream. Shake in a cocktail shaker or whip with wheel egg beater. Pour it, once in tall glass. Serve with straw. If the child needs eggs, add one beaten egg to this mixture, and additional ice cream to insure thorough chilling. Have milk and cocoa chilled before mixing.

Give soups made with milk an important place in the family menu. The following are liked by adults as well as children:

Cream of Lima Bean Soup
One cup of dried lima beans; one small onion; four cups milk; one half teaspoon salt; one fourth teaspoon pepper; one and one half tablespoons flour; two tablespoons butter. Soak the beans overnight; drain off the water in which they have been soaked. Slice the onion and boil it with the beans in fresh water for an hour; until the beans are very soft. Press through a fine sieve into a double boiler and add the milk and seasoning. Mix the

A One-Plate Spring Luncheon

A satisfying luncheon may be served on one plate, especially when the hostess must act as cook, waitress and hostess. Crisp French-fried shoestring potatoes, a patty shell filled with creamed chicken and peas and a gelatine vegetable salad make the main course.

One-Plate Luncheon Popular With Family And Guests

four and butter together heating a little in a saucepan and add to the soup, stirring all the time. When creamy cook for ten more minutes and serve at once.

Use dried peas in the same way.

Cream of Corn Soup
Four cups milk; one can (or two cups cooked) corn; two tablespoons butter; one and one half tablespoons flour; one fourth teaspoon pepper; one half teaspoon salt. Add the corn to the milk and heat in the double boiler for twenty minutes; then strain through a gas strainer. Use this like the dried lima bean puree above and prepare the soup the same way.

Use one cup string beans, with two cups of milk, like the corn, to make a delicious cream of string bean soup. Asparagus, carrots, celery, cauliflower, all are made into creamed soups by these simple and good recipes.

Only one state, South Dakota, authorized a diversion of gasoline-tax funds to other than highway purposes during the past state legislative sessions. A measure was passed authorizing payment of 50 per cent of the gas tax income to the Rural Credit Bond and Interest Fund.

today, a total of 372 cases having been reported as compared with 260 last week. There were 284 new cases of scarlet fever reported as compared with 118 last week and 112 cases of whooping cough as against 51 for the previous week. Diphtheria also showed an increase, 7 cases having been reported as compared with five last week. The single case of typhoid fever was the same as last week. New Milford reported 8 new cases of smallpox, or 7 more than last week.

Cars and trucks operating in France at the end of 1935 numbered 23,486 more than on the corresponding date of 1931.

ROXY IN NEW YORK OBSERVES BIRTHDAY

Special Program in Celebration of Sixth Anniversary—The Features.

The Roxy Theater, 7th Ave. and 50th street, will celebrate its sixth anniversary during the entire week beginning Friday (May 15th). A special gala birthday program on the stage and screen has been arranged, and many unique features have been planned in celebration of the event. The feature screen attraction to be shown during this birthday week is the new Fox film "Hello Sister," with James Dunn, Joan Pitts, Boots Mallory and Miss Ann Campbell. On the stage the birthday show will feature among others Ann Pennington, the celebrated dancer.

The original Roxy Theater is probably the best known cinema house in the world. Opened just before the advent of talking pictures, the original Roxy prospered greatly from this new invention, reaching a financial climax when patrons paid more than $174,000 in seven days to see "The Cook-Eyed World." Aside from the box-office records that were established at the Roxy Theater, there have been many other events which will go down in cinema history. The theater has been host to hundreds of American and foreign celebrities. It was the first movie house to have a military disciplined service staff. Its elaborate stage program were famed from coast to coast. The architectural features of the Roxy have been copied for hundreds of motion picture theaters throughout the country. New entertainment features which were introduced first at the Roxy were immediately imitated by other theaters.

Though the Roxy Theater is only six years old, it has probably exerted more influence on the motion picture industry than any other playhouse ever built.

WAPPING

The regular monthly business meeting of the Federated Sunday School officers and teachers will be held next Thursday evening at eight o'clock, daylight saving time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sheidick at Pleasant Valley.

There were six members of Wapping Grange who attended the last regular meeting of Manchester Grange.

Miss Kate M. Withrel was confined to her home by illness over the week-end.

David E. Boddy who passed away at his home last Monday morning, aged 56, was for many years a resident of Wapping, having lived in the Dart District section, and afterward at the farmhouse here, while Rev. Truman H. Woodward boarded with them. He was in the store for a time which was known as Boddy and Billings. The funeral services will be held from his late home at 9 Anderson street, Manchester, this afternoon at three o'clock and the burial will take place at Wapping cemetery.

Alfred E. Stone and Edward F. Collins, members of Wapping Grange and past masters, attended the last meeting of the Past Masters' Association, at Good Will Grange.

The Senior Y. M. C. A. boys held their regular meeting and a social time at the home of Roger Spencer last Monday evening. A supper was served.

REAL "NO MAN'S LAND"
Guymon, Okla., May 3.—(AP)—The original "No Man's Land"—the patch of Oklahoma-territory that today is the anniversary of its becoming a part of Oklahoma territory by Act of Congress, May 3, 1890.

Prior to that time, the public land strip was unique in that it had no government and no laws. From 1849, when Texas was admitted to the Union as a slave state, the part north of the Mason and Dixon line, being cut off, was not a part of the United States, and was truly no man's land until 1890.

Mrs. Crabtree Writes More Food Recipes

Dear Readers in Manchester:
So many good recipes have come to me recently that I want to pass them along to you. I can especially recommend the black walnut cake as delicious for afternoon tea or coffee, and a little later on when ice cream is strongly featured in menus, as a perfect cake with this frozen dessert.

Black Walnut Cake
One cup shortening; two cups brown sugar; two cups flour; four eggs; two teaspoons baking powder; four squares (or ounces) of chocolate; one cup chopped American black walnut meat. Cream the sugar and shortening together, add the beaten eggs to this mixture, then the flour sifted with the baking powder. Add melted grated chocolate last and the nuts which have been rolled in a little flour. Bake in a very slow oven for thirty or forty minutes in a pan well rubbed with shortening. Cut in squares. A rich chocolate or mocha frosting may be used if desired.

Lady Fingers
This recipe has been requested, but it can only be made in lady finger tins. Three eggs; one-half cup powdered sugar; one teaspoon vanilla; one half cup flour; one-eighth teaspoon salt. Beat the whites of the eggs until they will stand alone, then add the sugar and vanilla gradually, beating continuously. Beat the yolks very stiff and add them to the mixture, add the flour sifted with the salt. Mix smoothly. Sprinkle lady's finger tins with flour, fill with the mixture and bake for ten minutes in a moderate oven. Put together with jelly marmalade, frosting, or custard filling. Or cover with boiled icing and serve separately. Delicious with tea.

Baked Beans
For complete success with this recipe you should have a bean pot, or deep casserole of earthenware. Soak one pound of small beans overnight. Look over, pick out bad ones, then place in kettle and cover with water. Bring to boiling, then drain off the water. Cover again with water and boil for fifteen minutes. Drain and add; one can (or two cups) tomatoes; one cup chopped onions; one-half cup table malasses; one pound salt pork cut in pieces; two tablespoons salt; one tablespoon paprika. Stir, add sufficient water to cover the beans one inch deep. Pour into bean pot or casserole. Cover closely and bake in a slow oven for four hours. Serve from the pot, with pickle relish as a garnish.

Wild Rice Casserole
Cover one cup uncooked wild rice with one cup beef or chicken bouillon (canned) and let stand covered two or three hours. Then place in a moderate oven, cover and bake slowly for half an hour. Stir occasionally to prevent sticking. Add more bouillon if the rice dries out too much. At the end of the half hour add one-half cup finely cut up fresh orange and orange rind. All white skins must be removed from the orange before cutting. Add two or three tablespoons of fresh mushrooms which have been sautéed in hot butter and chopped. Mix lightly with a fork, do not mash rice. Dot top with very small dabs of butter. Continue baking for fifteen minutes uncovered. Serve from the casserole, as a vegetable for luncheon or dinner. Mushrooms may be omitted but the dish is better flavored and more nourishing with them.

Barley may be soaked in bouillon for one hour and prepared the same way.

Lemon Cheese Filling
This filling is best suited to a plain white or yellow cake, when a boiled white or lemon icing is used on the top and sides. Use two cups powdered sugar; three eggs; juice of two lemons; one cup crumbly dry cottage or pot cheese, or cream cheese mashed with a fork and pressed through a colander. Mix the sugar with the beaten yolks of eggs and add the lemon juice. Beat together in the top part of a double boiler, cooking until the mixture thickens. Remove from the heat and add the whites of the eggs beaten stiff, let cool. Fold in the cheese and spread between cake layers.

- In the minds of most fastidious housekeepers the idea of a one-plate luncheon suggests an unappetizing mixture of hot and cold foods on one, over-loaded plate. But these same housekeepers will find with a little shopping in the housewares that such luncheons were not meant to be served in such a reckless fashion. The hot and cold dishes are easily kept apart by such simple devices as the patty shell, ramekins, individual glass ramekins or miniature casseroles (usually called cassioletes).
- The patty shell is made of plain, rich or puff pastry, and is meant to be eaten with the food served in it. The ramekin may be filled with a precooked mixture, heated in the oven, then placed on the luncheon plate with the other foods. This also applies to the glass ramekins, the small earthen ware ramekins, or casseroles, and to the little Italian earthenware cassioletes with handles. The paper ramekin is not meant for home use; it is an affair for tearoom and restaurant use; for children's party luncheons when colored paper cups add a festive touch to the menu.

Announcing the new AIR-COOLED ELECTROLUX

The Greatest Refrigerator Advance in Years

USES NO WATER
Lowest operating cost—Permanent Silence

THE New Air-Cooled Electrolux is not only the refrigerator of today. By its revolutionary, scientific advances, it is also the refrigerator of tomorrow. It gives you everything you have a right to expect of an automatic refrigerator... and then it gives you MORE.

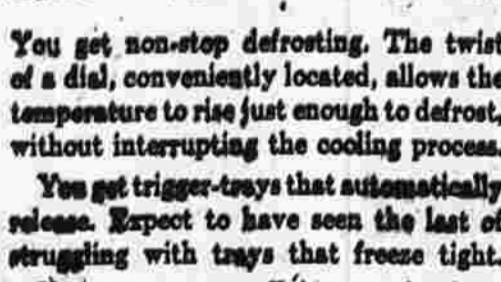

You get even lower operating costs. The new Electrolux uses less gas than formerly, and uses no water at all.

You get silence, after and permanent. Electrolux has no moving parts. A tiny gas flame does all the work!

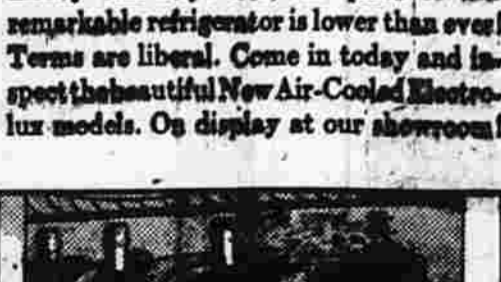

You get constant crisp cold, by the simplest freezing method, set to Nature's! Ordinary air cools the simple refrigerator that a tiny gas flame keeps in circulation. Two-temperature chilling unit gives more uniform cold with wide variation in room temperature.

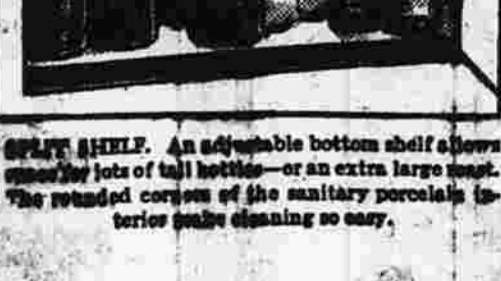

NON-STOP DROSTING. The twist of a conveniently located regulator allows the temperature to rise just enough to defrost without interrupting the cooling process.

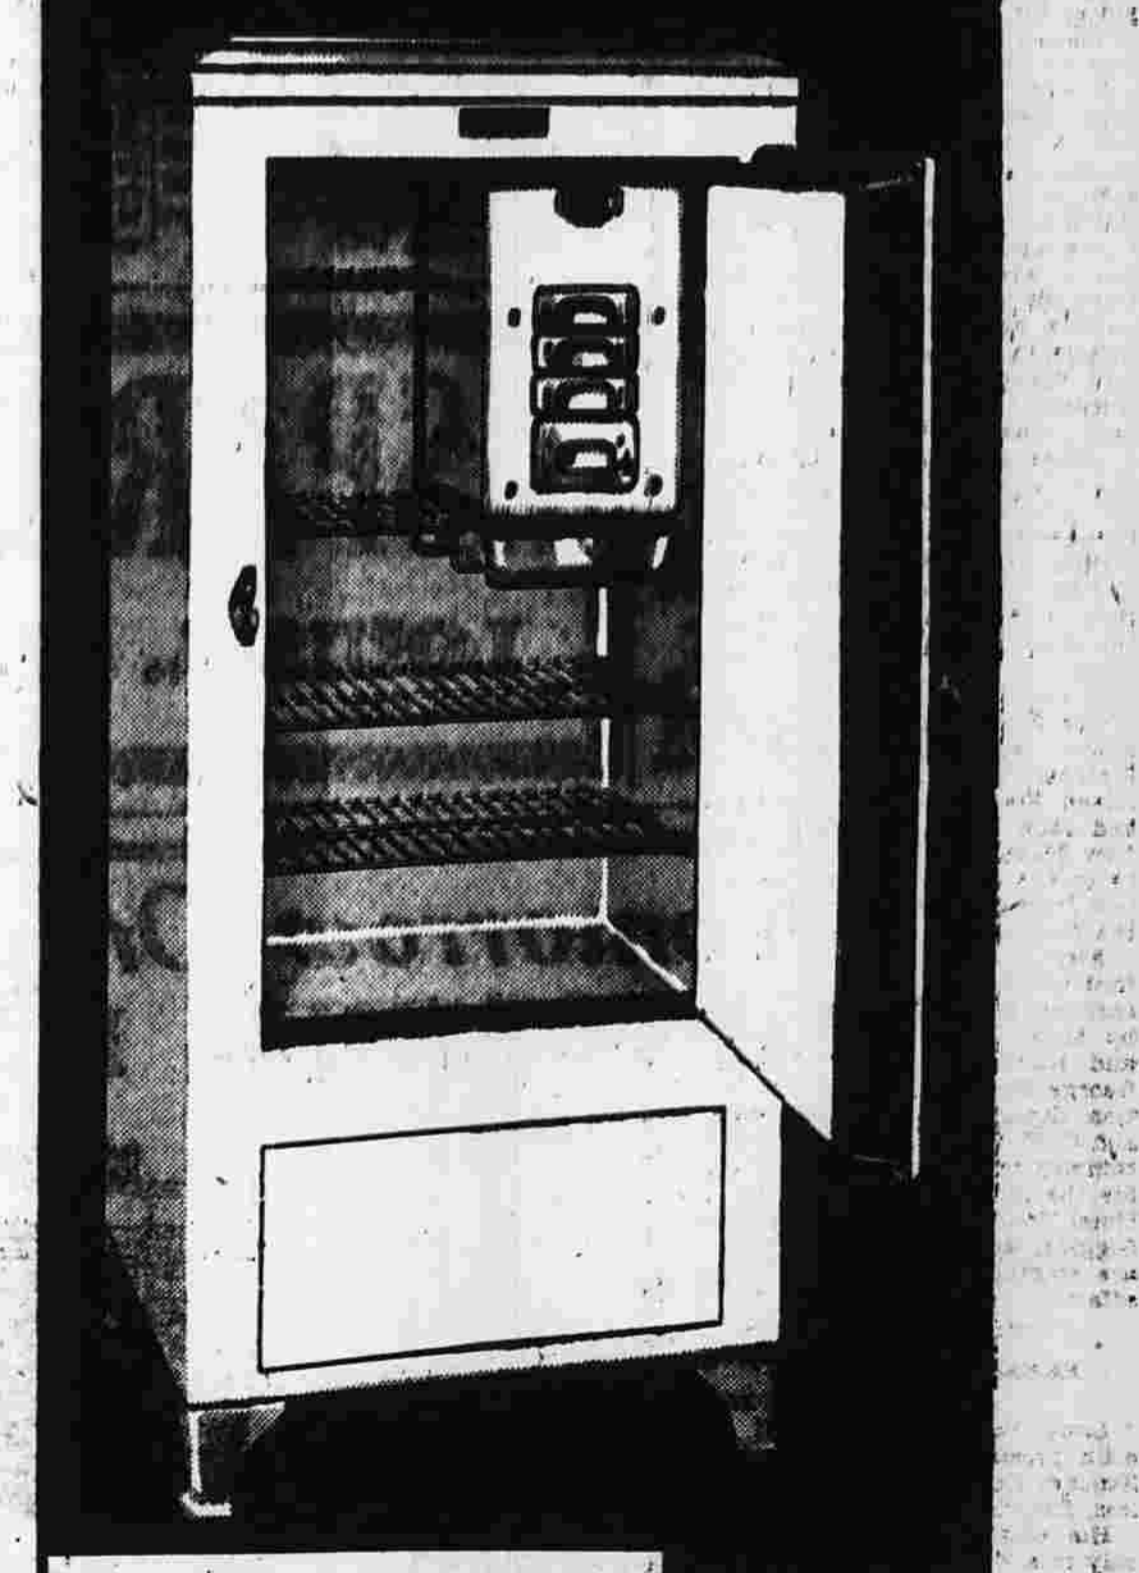

TRIGGER-TRAY RELEASE. No more prying out trays that freeze tight. A slip of the trigger, and they are loose.

TEMPERATURE DIAL. You get a conveniently located temperature dial which means plenty of ice cubes at all times. Electrolux's new temperature regulator permits speeding the freezing of ice cubes and desserts.

SPARE SHELF. An adjustable bottom shelf allows storage lots of tall bottles—or an extra large meat. The rounded corners of this sanitary porcelain interior make cleaning so easy.

SAFETY CHAIN STORE TAX TOPS INDEPENDENTS

First National Stores Give Figures Disproving Argument Against Them. Hartford, May 3.—Statements that chain stores are not paying their share of local taxes in Connecticut have been disproved by a study of tax assessments by independent grocers and of chain grocers just completed, according to Charles P. Adams, treasurer of First National Stores, Inc. Tax experts were retained, declares Mr. Adams, to go to the tax books of typical Connecticut cities and towns and draw up the assessments of the single-store grocers and of the chain stores.

APEX REFRIGERATOR REPRESENTED HERE

Home Pride Oil Burner Company Takes on New Line — Low Initial Cost.

The Home Pride Oil Burner Company located in the Hotel Sheridan Building has taken on the Agency for the Apex Electric Refrigerator. The Apex Electric Refrigerator is one of the finest of its type on the market today and is lower priced. The price of this fine box makes it possible for everyone to own an electric refrigerator. The boxes are now on display in their showrooms and the public are cordially invited to inspect them at any time. The Apex refrigerator is not a luxury. The low initial cost makes it possible for the box to pay for itself in a short time by deducting what would have otherwise been your weekly ice bill. It will enable you to take advantage of food sales and buy in larger quantities. It will keep vegetables fresh, crisp and cold—always. It will enable you to make tempting new desserts. It will help you to utilize leftovers. It will safeguard the Apex Electric Refrigerator and show how you may own one at very little outlay, a small down payment and balance on easy terms will do.

IS BURNED TO DEATH

Redington, Pa., May 3.—(AP)—The body of William J. Redington, 76-year-old retired manufacturer, was found today in the flame-swept ruins of the superintendent's house on the grounds of the Carter Junior Republic, a discontinued school for boys. Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the structure last night, gaining headway so rapidly it was beyond control by the time firemen reached the scene. The victim, brother of the founder of the school, Mrs. William T. Clark, Philadelphia philanthropist, was rescued while the blaze was at its height. A servant said he had seen Mr. Redington in the house a short time before the fire and later a watch chain was found in the ruins, strengthening the belief the aged man had perished. His body was found in the cellar near the front of the house.

FATHER LADEN DIES

New Britain, May 3.—(AP)—Rev. Thomas J. Laden, pastor of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, in this city, died early today at St. Francis hospital in Hartford. He was taken to the institution a few days ago because of the weakened condition of his heart. Father Laden was a native of Wallingford and was 60 years old. He was ordained to the priesthood 36 years ago, and became pastor of the Church of St. John the Evangelist 14 years ago after serving in Hartford and Cromwell.

PICKED FOR SOCIETY

New Haven, May 3.—(AP)—Adelbert Martin of Upper Sandusky, Ohio, a football man and John Jackson of New Haven, member of the varsity crew, have been elected with twenty of their classmates to the Yale college junior honor society of Aurelian and Torch. Martin, a quarterback, and Jackson, stroke of last year's crew and number six man on the present eight, were both chosen by Torch. Others elected include Torch, Hoyt C. Pierce of New Britain. Aurelian—Brooks D. Grand of Greenwich, manager of the hockey team and Joseph W. Walden of New Haven, son of Percy T. Walden, Yale freshman dean.

Queer Twists In Day's News

El Segundo, Calif.—The proudest father in these parts is Wesley M. Morgan, seventy-year-old real estate man whose two babies have been judged the first and second best in El Segundo's "perfect baby contest." Herman, seven months old, took first place and Wesley, Jr., 2, captured second prize. "It would have been a dead heat," Morgan boasted, "but Wesley had a cold and wasn't at his best."

Aurora, Ill.—A Chicago bound steer escaped from a cattle truck. It paused in front of a clothing store window, saw its own reflection in a mirror, decided it didn't like it, and charged. Suits, shirts and glass were scattered. Emerging from the store the steer galloped about the business district with police and others in pursuit. The beast, was issued by a former cowboy, from his seat on the hood of a motorcar.

Hollywood, Calif.—By the route of trucks, buses and cars, a number of the would-be cyclists of the film colony are learning that to ride a bicycle, one first must be able to stay on it. The biking fad to date numbers among its victims Constance Bennett with bruised legs, Mary Duncan with a black and blue arm and Janet Gaynor with a damaged knee. Jean Harlow ran into a parked auto at night but escaped injury.

Paris—When Edouard Herriot, like old King Cole, calls for his pipe he gets his choice of six hundred. Pipes are sent to the former premier from everywhere. He himself frequently makes gifts of them. Norman Davis, American ambassador at large possesses a bunch of pipes. Herriot's chauffeur always keeps at least one in the car for the master, whose customary remark after seating himself for a drive is: "Henri! I would like to smoke a pipe!"

STEAL HOSPITAL LIQUOR

Boston, May 3.—(AP)—Some vacant building nearby was believed today to hold 100 cases of liquor stolen from the Beth Israel hospital. The liquor was taken from a hospital vault last night after Thomas Conley, night watchman, had been tied up and left lying in the grass near the basement entrance to the storage vault. Conley told police two men held him up, pushed him up, took his keys and fled with the liquor onto a hospital truck. They left a third man to guard him, Conley said, while they deposited the load and returned for a second batch. The watchman freed himself after the men had departed for the second time and notified police.

VOLCANO ACTIVE

Batavia, Java, May 3.—(AP)—Eruptions of the Volcano Krakatoa have been occurring on an unprecedented scale for the past few days. Fifty years ago this little volcano island was almost destroyed by one of the most catastrophic eruptions ever recorded. Some 30,000 lives were lost on neighboring coasts from the resulting sea wave.

PRaises THE HERALD'S ADVERTISING POWER

Charles Waldman, manager of the Diamond Shoe Store in Manchester, said that both he and Morris Diamond, owner of the Diamond Shoe Store in Hartford, Manchester and Putnam, found that advertising in the Manchester Herald brings them the best results for the amount of money spent of any newspaper they use. Mr. Waldman says that whenever a sale is advertised in Manchester the results are more than satisfactory.

LIBRARIAN KILLED

New Haven, May 3.—(AP)—Funeral services for Ridgely Hunt, 45, librarian of the Landon and Brothers Library at Yale, who was killed in North Branford during last night will be held at Dwight Chapel Thursday. Corporal Corrigan today began an inquest into the accident. Hunt died instantly in opinion of Medical Examiner McQueen. There were no witnesses. Hunt's car hit a bridge abutment which was probably encroached with fog.

TWO FLIERS KILLED

Hendon, Eng., May 3.—(AP)—Pilot Officer Viscount, Kenworth, eldest son of the Earl of Lytton, and Aircraftman Ralph Harrison, were killed last night in a practice flight for the Hendon air pageant. The Viscount, who would have been 30 years old May 13, was a member of Parliament. His father is best known as chairman of the League of Nations committee which investigated the Japanese war in Manchuria.

100 DIE IN BATTLE

Peking, May 3.—(AP)—One hundred Chinese were slaughtered when Mohammedan rebels captured Yankin, an ancient city of 60,000 population in the East Turkestan province of Sinkiang, foreign dispatches from Kinsiang said today. All foreigners in Yankin, including Swedish missionaries, were believed to have escaped safely. The incident was one of many similar ones in the long-continuing civil war between Chinese and Mohammedans.

FREE SOUP AIDED PASTOR'S VICTORY ON CONGRESS RACE

Washington — The Democratic landslide of last November swept the Congress for the "raw deal" administration, a widely assorted group of men, among whom was a minister of the gospel.

Henry E. Stubbs of California stepped from his pulpit in the Christ church at Santa Maria, joined his wife and son in an automobile, and began the motor trip to Washington to take his seat in the seventy-third Congress.

Stubbs, called "Pat" by his friends, had been preaching for more than 25 years. When the state was restricted, enough Congressionals directed to form the new tenth.

"I threw a prayer book and a hat into the political ring," says the Reverend Stubbs, "and emerged victorious Democrat in a normally Republican territory."

Ready-Made Appeal This tall dark-haired preacher claims that he won his election almost single-handedly and with a very slender purse.

Alongside his church in Santa Maria he built an improvised soup kitchen. He and his wife fed more than 5,000 hungry men at their establishment.

An evidence of just how slim his purse was during the campaign on time he started on an automobile journey to Bakersfield. After driving for hours, he slept in his car rather than pay the cost of a hotel room.

He is a native of Texas, and incidentally, Stubbs, McClellan, a member of the House from Oklahoma, and Senator Bratton of New Mexico were born and reared within 15 miles of one another.

State-Used Counties His district comprises five counties. One of these counties is larger than the four eastern states of Rhode Island, Connecticut, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

An enormous boxcar mine and the famous naval petroleum reserves are located there. His home had much to say on the floor of the House as yet, but has served notice that he is out to obtain an embargo on the importation of foreign petroleum.

Rev. Albert Turkington, former local Salvationist, now Baltimore pastor, to be speaker this evening.

Dean Achesson named to post in treasury

Washington, May 2—(AP)—Dean G. Achesson, of Middletown, Conn., and Washington, is slated to be named under-secretary of the Treasury to succeed Arthur A. Ballantine of New York.

Mr. Achesson is a tax expert and a friend of Ballantine. Achesson is a graduate of Yale and the Harvard Law school and once served as private secretary to Justice Brandeis.

He is a member of the firm of Conington, Buring and Ribbes, of Washington.

He has served as counsel for various foreign governments in litigation growing out of seizure of ships during the World War.

members in the town of Plymouth; extending to July 1, 1932 the time when the New Haven railroad may construct certain electric railway lines in New Haven; increasing to $5,000,000 the amount of property which may be held by the Congressional board of ministerial relief.

West Hartford Charter. The Senate suspended the rules to pass in concurrence a bill codifying the charter of West Hartford. It also passed a bill increasing the property holding power of the Home for the Friendless from $50,000 to $200,000.

The Senate chamber was voted to the committee on roads, bridges and rivers for a hearing tomorrow on a group of bills. The Senate concurred with the House in referring to the appropriations committee the measure calling for equalization of educational opportunities.

Many speculators in the Senate chamber waited in vain for a report from the committee on executive nominations of nominations sent in by Governor Cross last week. It is understood the committee is holding up its report because of the illness of one of its members, Senator David Goldstein of Bridgeport.

Reports persisted in well informed circles that some opposition will be offered to the nomination of Michael Connor as commissioner of motor vehicles. From reliable sources it was learned that some of the opposition would come from his fellow Democrats.

Connor was named by the governor to the post now held by Robbins B. Stoccol. With this nomination the governor sent in the names of Charles W. Gross as member of the board of finance and control and Frederick A. Scott as state revision commissioner.

TROLLEY MEN TOLD OF ANOTHER SLASH

Connecticut Co. Notifies Employees Another Wage Reduction is On Way.

New Haven, May 3—(AP)—The Connecticut Co. has notified its 1,200 employees throughout the state that a cut in wages must be made to become effective June 1. The amount of the forthcoming reduction was not disclosed.

Under the terms of the agreement, between the company and its employees notice has been given by the company a month in advance of its intention to revise the wage schedule. It is believed the amount of the cut will be made known tomorrow when members of the state conference board of the trolley-men's organization meet John K. Pundertorf, president of the company.

The present wage scale calls for 60c an hour for one man cars, 35c an hour for operators of two man cars and 60c an hour for bus drivers. This schedule which went into effect a year ago is 14 per cent lower than the wage scale prior to June, 1932.

FRADIN'S OBSERVES 10TH ANNIVERSARY

Another year brings Fradin's to their 10th anniversary in business in Manchester. This milestone is perhaps a bit more important than some of the others.

Julius Fradin, proprietor of the store has always made an effort to secure the very best values for anniversary sales.

He had won wide notice by that time, however, by his strenuous and determined efforts to slash the costs of city government.

Because of charges that many McKee and other votes had not been reported a recount was ordered but when this was completed a few days ago it only added some 7,000 votes to those originally credited to McKee, far from enough to upset the result.

With O'Brien in the mayor's office McKee moved back to his position as president of the Board of Aldermen. Until today's announcement it had been expected generally that strong efforts would be made by fusion forces opposed to Tammany.

Up to the time the statement was issued for McKee his resignation had not been received by Mayor O'Brien, or by City Clerk Michael J. Cruise, to whom former Mayor Walker sent his resignation.

McKee said in his statement that his first concern in his new job would be "the involved real estate situation in New York, affecting millions of its citizens."

Walker Resigned As president of the Board of Aldermen McKee automatically became acting mayor when James J. Walker resigned last year during a hearing before Governor Roosevelt as to Walker's fitness to continue in office.

McKee announced that he was an organization man and declined to run independently. He said there were two reasons for his decision to leave politics.

He said that he believed that, as I am, can be of greater use to the community now as a disinterested citizen, in fighting for what I believe to be right, outside of any governmental job."

The second reason he explained as follows: "We are still in a great economic depression — the greatest America has ever had. The coming period of rehabilitation demands drastic readjustment in our economic life as well as in our political life. Particularly is this true of the real estate situation, and especially in New York."

Approximately 400,000 home owners in Greater New York are looking for leadership and direction at the present time. They cannot borrow money on their homes. They do not know what to do in the present crisis to preserve their interests. There is a great opportunity to serve the masses of small mortgagors. "Anything that can be done to bring about an adjustment and lighten their burden is worth doing in a good cause."

McKee closed his statement with an assurance to the small mortgage owners of the city "that they can count on me in my new work."

Other developments in the mortgage "war" were: Seven persons were taken into custody at Le Mars where 56 are now held and 10 others were jailed at Denison bringing the total there to 40. With nine others transferred from Le Mars to Sioux City jails, the total is 105.

With civil courts closed, a Military Court investigating the mobbing of Judge Bradley questioned the first of two prisoners to appear before the group, William Schumann and F. W. Link, farmers.

CITY-BRED SENATOR HOLDS KEY POST IN MAPPING FARM AID

Washington, May 3—(AP)—Senator Robert F. Wagner leads the sub-committee of the banking and currency committee which will look into President Roosevelt's proposal for setting up on the farm mortgage situation.

Days before the President's message reached the Senate, Wagner had been wrestling with the question of farm mortgages.

Born in Germany, Wagner came to this country with his parents when he was eight years old. He sold papers on the streets of New York to help pay his way through school and also worked his way through the College of the City of New York.

Despite the fact that he is a farmer and knows little or nothing about the farm, handling rather legislation of this nature is nothing new to him.

He has been in it ever since he has been in the Senate. Back in the days before banking reform had begun to think about unemployment in this country Wagner's voice was heard in warning.

He worked his proposals into legislation that was passed by Congress which sought to set up a Federal Corporation to develop and administer to guard against unemployment.

The measure received a preliminary vote of 10 to 8 in the Senate last week. The bill is expected to be reported by the committee on Monday.

Senator Robert F. Wagner leads the sub-committee of the banking and currency committee which will look into President Roosevelt's proposal for setting up on the farm mortgage situation.

Days before the President's message reached the Senate, Wagner had been wrestling with the question of farm mortgages.

Born in Germany, Wagner came to this country with his parents when he was eight years old. He sold papers on the streets of New York to help pay his way through school and also worked his way through the College of the City of New York.

Despite the fact that he is a farmer and knows little or nothing about the farm, handling rather legislation of this nature is nothing new to him.

He has been in it ever since he has been in the Senate. Back in the days before banking reform had begun to think about unemployment in this country Wagner's voice was heard in warning.

He worked his proposals into legislation that was passed by Congress which sought to set up a Federal Corporation to develop and administer to guard against unemployment.

DARLING FOOL

BY IRVING WELTON

BEHOLD HERE TODAY
BERNIE O'DARE who loves DAN CARROLL, who loves SANDRA LAWRENCE, is trying to win him from her. CHARLES EUSTACE, a newcomer in town, pays a good deal of attention to Minnie, who has been his brother. BILL, who is in GILLEN, who works in a candy shop, as soon as she gets her divorce.

BEHOLD HERE the LAWRENCE home, distill her mistress, suspecting her of "vamping" the handsome chauffeur, JAMES. Minnie starts out with Charles to find KAY, her younger sister, who has gone away with CHARLES and ELOW, traveling salesman. Kay, frightened, wants to turn back from the adventure before it is too late.

"Don't you worry about that," the quiet voice told her. The young man beside her started his engine, which purred dutifully, and the car began to slow about on the bumpy road. There had been heavy rains the night before. The wheels whirled uselessly for a moment in the mud and the brakes groaned.

"Nasty place!"

The engine killed, sickeningly. Minnie felt her palms wet and her cheeks hot. This was awful—awful—they were losing precious time. In the split second of silence after the roar of the motor a girl's clear voice came to them.

"I want to go back—oh, I do!"

Kay's voice.

Minnie was out upon that muddy road before she knew what she was doing, actually. Her frantic feet were carrying her toward the red light. She could hear the pounding heels of her escort beside her.

She flung herself against the door of the little red sedan. "Kay! Kay! It's Minnie! I'm here, dear. Don't be afraid!"

Kay, with some kind of black silk scarf wound around her bright locks, Kay with a face stained with tears. A sullen, young-old man at the wheel.

"Aw, let her go. She's a quitter, that's what she is. She wanted to come with me. It's a racket, that's what."

Minnie caught the sickening fumes of bad gin as she helped the fumbling girl out.

"I'm here, dear. Charles' car. You're all right. Don't cry any more."

"He—he said I'd better wrap up in that thing so folks wouldn't know me," Kay was saying, between gasps. "He put on a dirty old coat so that he would look different. He began to drink from a flask he had. I—I got scared. He was only going to drive me to Waynesboro and then put me on the train there. He said he'd give me the fare to New York. What's that?" she interrupted herself, putting her hands to her ears.

"I think," said Minnie soberly and with satisfaction, "that Charles Eustace is giving that man a beating."

Much, much later that night, Kay was in bed and Minnie lay, very wide-awake and troubled, in the cot beside her. A voice came softly through the darkness.

"Monnie? You awake?"

"Yes."

"Monnie, I feel — just terrible about all this. You're sure Mother needn't know? I—honestly don't mean to do anything wrong, only something gets just so terrible. School—and being so poor—and everything."

"I know," Minnie's voice was very quiet. "Don't you suppose I have my moments of feeling it."

Kay turned on the bedside light. "I can't stand going back with a younger class. What shall I do? It seems to me there's nothing ahead for any of us. He—Charles said, maybe I could do something on the stage. I think I might."

Her voice, usually so sure and arrogant, faltered. She looked very young, very small and frightened.

"Minnie went over and took her hand. "Look, Kay, we have a job to do, both of us. We can't be quitters. We're O'Dares. That used to mean something in these parts. We've got to think of Mother. We've got our whole lives ahead of us. You're young. Some day you're going to look back on all this trouble and discontent and wonder why you weren't more patient. Because life is going to be wonderful for you, Kay. Wait and see."

"Do you really think so?" Her eyes were wide and brilliant.

"I'm going to try to help all I can," Minnie promised. Long after the younger sister fell asleep, Kay, stark awake, worrying, planning. This much was certain — she would have to find a way out for Kay.

(To Be Continued)

Now Go On With The Story
CHAPTER XIV

The wind whipped little ringlets of bronze hair into Minnie's eyes. It was as if they were flying along in the summer night.

"What a wild goose chase," she said, as the billing station slowly began to show. Waynesboro—Miss Antioch had said that Kay was on the way to Waynesboro but wasn't it quite possible that the man had thrown that question out at the billing station merely as a decoy? Wasn't it just as reasonable that Kay was, at this moment, speeding westward instead of taking the easterly road Charles Eustace's car was traveling?

Poor Kay, foolish little Kay! She ought to have known what was going on — ought to have watched her more closely. She had been, Minnie reproached herself, too utterly absorbed in her own affairs to see where Kay in her impatience and discontent, was drifting.

"It's my fault!" she broke out, rather incoherently, to the silent man beside her. "That's nonsense." His dark profile was grim in the faint light of the instrument board. "And anyhow, nothing's happened yet. We'll have her safe and sound in an hour or two." Eustace spoke with a confidence he was far from feeling.

Minnie sat tense, every nerve tingling with the excitement of the chase. High Falls—a scattering of lights that the open road again. White arrows pointing the way at the crossroad — that was all right—they had taken the right turn.

Charles slowed each time they passed a car and Minnie stared eagerly, expectantly, into the faces of the occupants. The vehicles were fewer now and farther between. The main road forked at the Waynesboro turn. This was a virtual detour, ratty and narrow.

It was madness—madness—the girl told herself, to threaten about in this way. What could she have done—at once—was to have given Kay's description to the local police. They had a system of radio alarm that was wonderful, she had heard. But no—no—that would mean that Kay's adventure would be broadcast to the waiting world!

"I couldn't do that to her," Minnie groaned inwardly.

They plunged through Newton Center, a hamlet of some half dozen scattered houses. Charles lighted a cigaret without taking his eyes from the road. Minnie, straining her gaze ahead, was conscious of a sudden spurt of energy in the motor.

"That car ahead," Charles told her. "I've had its tail light ever since the Falls. It's turning into a lane. Suppose we stop and take a look." Suppose we stop and take a look.

"It's probably some farmer's dooryard," Minnie said despairingly.

The winking red light disappeared for an instant, reappeared again. Charles was slowing his engine now, its powerful roar muffled so that the sounds of insects, of whirring crickets and croaking tree frogs could be heard.

Minnie realized the car they were trailing had stopped. Before she could speak the man beside her had put on the brakes, was sliding out of the seat.

"You stay here," he said in a reassuring whisper. "I'll do the talking."

Minnie was trembling with nervousness now. She had to grit her teeth together to keep from chattering. She watched Charles' tall figure striding purposefully away from her. In the car ahead she could just see the outline of two heads. A woman's, shawled. A man's.

She wanted to call out to Charles to come back—to hurry. They must be on their way. It was folly to waste even a few minutes trailing some surly farmer who would like as not, resent with blows their interest in him. In the blurry mist the headlights made she could see Charles draping himself casually over the fender of the car. She could hear what he said but presently he came back, looking rather disgusted.

"Some idiot of a drunken yokel," he said disgustedly. "This wife's asleep. I couldn't get anything out of her. What luck! My hunch was a rotten one."

Minnie was sick with disappointment. She hadn't really expected anything of this change of luck. They were searching for a needle in a haystack, she reminded herself. She must keep up her courage.

"Tell you what, we'll do," Charles said in a heavy tone. "We'll push on for Waynesboro and inquire at the hotel there. If they're stopping any place tonight it will be there. It's the only decent place for a car around."

"They wouldn't," Kay stammered.

"They're going to push right

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

DECIDE NOW ABOUT YOUR COMPLEXION

Now is the time to consider what you are going to do about your summer complexion.

If you want to go sun tan, then begin using facial oils and cream on your neck and arms, so that it will take nicely. When you get a chance to get out in the sun, use a little oil and vitamin mixture over your face and arms. This gives you a start toward tanning that will make your friends think you've had more vacations than you have.

You must use oil or creams, or you'll peel and look miserable. New products on the market make sun tanning a pleasant experience by preparing the skin to receive old sun amiably.

If you don't want to get sun tanned, if you crave a lily white fragile look, then wear brimmed hats and go in for the new gloves. As a matter of fact, gloves are so unusual this year that they're exceptional enough to make you shop sun tan.

Also, lay in a supply of bleaching creams. Remember these all are drying. So use a good complexion cream, a rich, nourishing cream on your skin when you finish.

If you freckle and don't think they're cute, then you should begin now applying some of the freckle creams that help prevent and cure them.

First of all, and most important, decide what kind of a beauty you want this summer. For before you know it, nature will take care of it for you.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

THE FRONTIER MOVES AHEAD

"New Road" Tells of Pioneer Days In Middle West

"New Road," by Merle Colby, is a novel which studies the opening of the Northwest Territories a century ago—a book which tries, with a very fair measure of success, to catch the epic, soul-lifting swing of those days when a tremendous human flood swept over the Alleghenies and poured down over the new lands of Ohio, Michigan and Indiana, the days when all men's faces were turned west and a boisterous, jubilant hope was in the air.

It's central character is a young man from Baltimore who comes on to claim a thousand acres near the Maumee river, west of where Toledo now stands. He comes as a romantic adventurer, and he quickly finds that pioneering is a grim, body-breaking business; but he sticks to it, and presently he founds a wilderness town, building it up by sheer determination and force of will.

The town's rise makes a colorful story. The settlers fight a pitched battle with United States troops for their homesteads. A group of "fancy ladies" comes to the town—and discusses when the daughters of Joy marry their clients. Eoon times come, banks issue a flood of wildcat banknotes, the town becomes a little city, and the unscrupulous ward politics of the future begin to take shape.

Then comes the deflation—and most of the settlers head west again. In the private exchanges of the larger insurance companies in Hartford or the general offices of the New Haven Railroad, for instance, the number of operators could care for the telephone requirements of a fair-sized town.

The private branch exchange, or P. B. X., as it is known to telephone company employees, consists of a switchboard on the subscriber's premises, the telephones and necessary equipment also on the premises, and one or more lines connecting with the company's central office. Hints on How to Keep Well by World Famous Authority

DOCTORS FREE TO USE LIQUOR FOR MEDICINE AS THEY WISH

This is the first of three articles by Dr. Fishbein on the new law which makes it possible for physicians to prescribe as much liquor as they think wise. He also discusses the value of alcohol in treating diseases.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Now that the Celler-Copeland medicinal liquor bill is effective, physicians soon will be free to prescribe for their patients whatever amount of alcoholic liquor is necessary. Former arbitrary limits on quantity, on the alcoholic content of vinous liquors, and the number of prescriptions that might be issued, are replaced by the stipulation that "no more liquor shall be prescribed to any person than is necessary to supply his medicinal needs."

The judgment of the attending physician is to be supreme, within the limits of sound professional practice, and subject only to certain regulations now being drawn under terms of the law by the attorney-general and the secretary of the Treasury.

These regulations will set forth the maximum quantity of liquor that may be prescribed at any one time, as well as the normal frequency of prescribing. The object is to prevent abuses that might arise if physicians should prescribe quantities of liquor sufficient for long periods. Anyone who misrepresents to obtain a greater supply than is needed is subject to fine and imprisonment.

Physicians will not be required to file in any government office records of the ailments from which their patients are suffering, as at present, but will be required to keep such records in their offices.

The prescription of alcoholic liquors is still not permitted in several states, and numerous physicians in other states have refused to take out permits. Many physicians find the prescription privilege an annoyance. These are indications that the right to prescribe liquor never has been an unmitigated blessing.

Alcohol in the treatment of disease may be beneficial, useless or harmful, according to the manner in which it is used, and according to the type of case in which it is prescribed. Sir Humphrey Rolleston has said that its main value is in an emergency, and as a temporary remedy for stimulation, and occasionally to induce sleep.

Dr. Roger I. Lee has spoken of its chief use as the creation of a state of artificial euphoria, or feeling of well-being.

An elderly person, for example, is

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Children have so few defences...

Children have so few defences against the onslaught of the world that they resort to the ones they know. They slap someone because they have no other reply.

Little vulgarisms, yes, but mostly because they lack the finesse of the adult.

This is not excusing the mean or cruel child. A certain amount of abuse among children is purely deliberate and calculated. Yet the really sadistic child is more or less rare, and the fact remains that when he inflicts pain or insult his motives are usually not so base as we think.

One time I saw a group of children starting out for a walk. One of the boys had a balloon stick or whip which had lost its blimp and became, instead an innocent wand, a weapon of attack.

Fascinating Weapon

He was interested in that new possession, not new but fascinatingly changed. He flicked the tops of weeds and daisies and cracked at tree trunks and fences.

Suddenly he turned and struck another boy across the face. The boy put his hands up and yelled. Instantly a wet growl and we could all see the narrow escape his eyes had had.

The assaulter's mother was horrified. She was amazed, she was heartbroken. There had been no trouble between them that she knew of. Yet there was her 6-year-old darling turning Legree and being quite casual and unconcerned about it.

Ignorance of Pain

What had happened? We talked it over. "I think," said I, "that Bertie needs to be taught how a convalescing from a mild cold, or perhaps influenza. He is old and tired. Where the person in good health is unaware of his bodily functions, the old person who is recovering from a minor illness is conscious of many mild disturbances. He is likely to be depressed and miserable in mind and body; he has no appetite and does not care about things.

True, such a person may be greatly improved by taking vitamins and iron, and suitable diet, but a small dose of alcohol in some agreeable form gives him a different outlook on life.

His miseries concern him less. He is likely to be improved in appetite and to have in his body the will toward recovery, rather than the lackadaisical attitude mentioned.

PRIVATE 'PHONE BOARDS FURNISH WORK FOR MANY

Connecticut Has Almost As Many P. B. X. Attendants As Operators in Regular Company Exchanges.

Almost as many young women are employed as attendants at private branch exchanges as there are telephone operators in the central offices of the Southern New England Telephone Company, records of the company show. In the company's system in Connecticut, there are eighty-nine central offices, while the number of private branch exchanges is slightly more than 2,000, each with at least one and often several attendants.

In the private exchanges of the larger insurance companies in Hartford or the general offices of the New Haven Railroad, for instance, the number of operators could care for the telephone requirements of a fair-sized town.

GAMBLING PALACES TO LURE TOURISTS OPENED IN BRAZIL

Rio de Janeiro, (AP)—Rio de Janeiro, in legalizing gambling again and permitting its seaside casinos to reopen, had a weather eye open for tourist business.

Restoration of gambling had been agitated since it was banned shortly after the provisional government took office in the autumn of 1930.

Under the new regulations, only casinos more than four miles from the center of the city may operate, and these must be valued at $70,000 or more and have dining, dancing and theatricals on the side.

Foreigners will be admitted to some prizes of chance upon presentation of passports, but Brazilians must present identity cards. Cashiers or other persons handling money will be barred.

Casinos will pay the federal district government ten per cent of their profits in addition to 75 per cent of entrance fees, which will be about 70 cents a person.

Vienna, May 3.—(AP)—Several Vienna newspapers assert that the government is planning to outlaw the Communist Party and issue a ban on uniforms similar to that directed against the Nazis under the Brüning government in Germany in 1931.

He is taken from his stall and placed on the track for exercise. By 7 o'clock, he has been cooled out and groomed and is back in his stall.

TRINGAMABOBS—Some people only measure a good time, by the price they pay for it. When a man looks a commiserate as narrow and evil-minded, it is likely that his sins have found him out. Don't worry when you stumble. Remember the worm is about the only thing that can't fall down. People with the biggest houses don't need them the most. The loudest barkers are always with the side show. Any man who marries for money earns it. Give some men a fair start and they will take an unfair advantage. Wretchedness usually is self-inflicted. About the most important thing going on now is light underwear. Persons searching for the fountain of youth may find it in friendliness.

Pointing out the evils of over production and the advantage of reduced acreage do not seem to get a town man anywhere when his wife decides its time to start making garden.

New Bride—Oh, Robert, I need a new dress!
Hubby—Dress, dress, dress—nothing but dress. Haven't you a mind for anything higher?
New Bride—Higher? Of course, a hat, too.

Are you one of those who believe this country will never recover from the present depression? During the panic of 1847 there was a general belief among manufacturers that the markets in this country were entirely saturated, and that manufacture had seen its best days. Yet between 1849 and 1850 the value of American factory products rose from about one billion dollars to a total of seventy and one-half billion dollars.

A trusting young husband ate a paper plate in which his wife had served a pie, thinking it was the lower crust.

Fat—How much do you weigh?
Mike—One hundred and seventy-five pounds.
Fat—Ya musta got weighed wid yer coat on.
Mike—An' I did not. I held it in me arms all the time.

Keep on your TOES;
Put your best FOOT forward.
Hold on to your BACKBONE.
Keep a stiff upper LIP.
Keep a-BREAST of the times.
Stick out your CHIN.
Don't get down in the MOUTH.
Use your HEAD.
Keep your EYES and EARS Open and your MOUTH shut.
And you have the ANATOMY of SUCCESS.

In the old days a girl consulted her mother about matrimony. Now she waits a little while and consults a good divorce lawyer.

An Oklahoma newspaper man is charged with having bought a baby from a hospital for $114. Impossible! No workers on the news and of any paper ever had $114 at one time in his life.

Barber—Fretty short, sir?
Customer—Yes, I am. Put it down on the book. Thanks for reminding me of it.

It's a pretty custom to top your hat to a lady these bright May days. This convenient courtesy shades the eyes and enables one to get a much better view of the girl in question.

Friend—Why did you jilt that man that wanted to marry you?
Famous Prima Donna—I couldn't make up my mind whether he was in love with me or merely wanted to hear me sing for nothing.

Love is blind, but it doesn't have any trouble smelling ions. A good orator drives home everything but his audience. Squeaky rockers have ruined many a budding romance.

The best pickers of men don't keep picking them. A good rain helps to liquidate the farmer's debts. To rise high, be square and get around.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
Scientists say we will all be bald in 2050 because of too-frequent haircuts. It's possible. Most of us got badly trimmed in 1933.

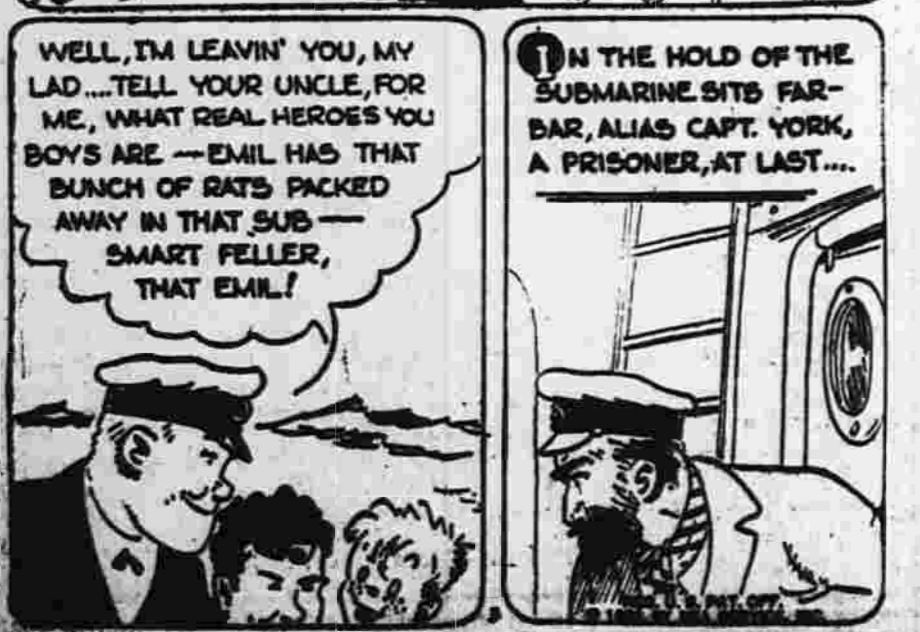

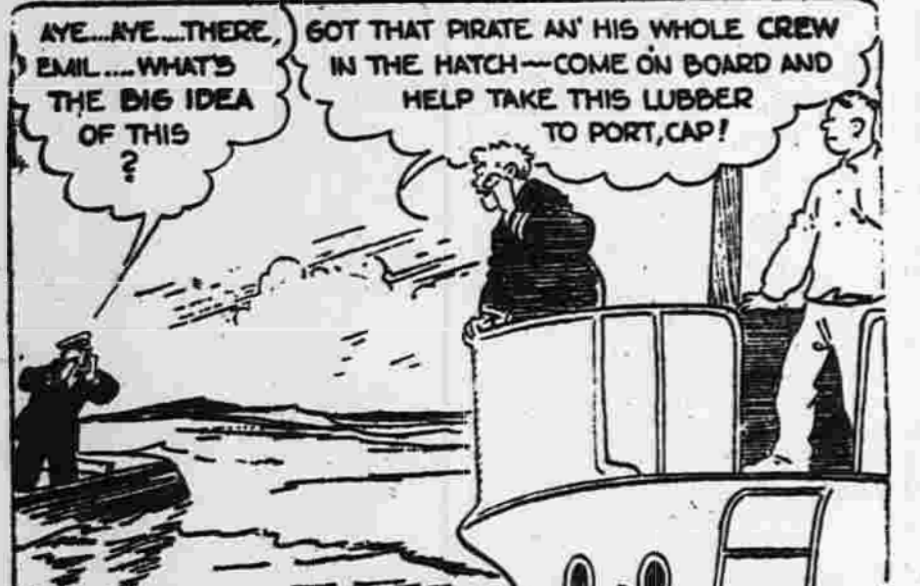

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:
WED. U. S. PAT. OFF.

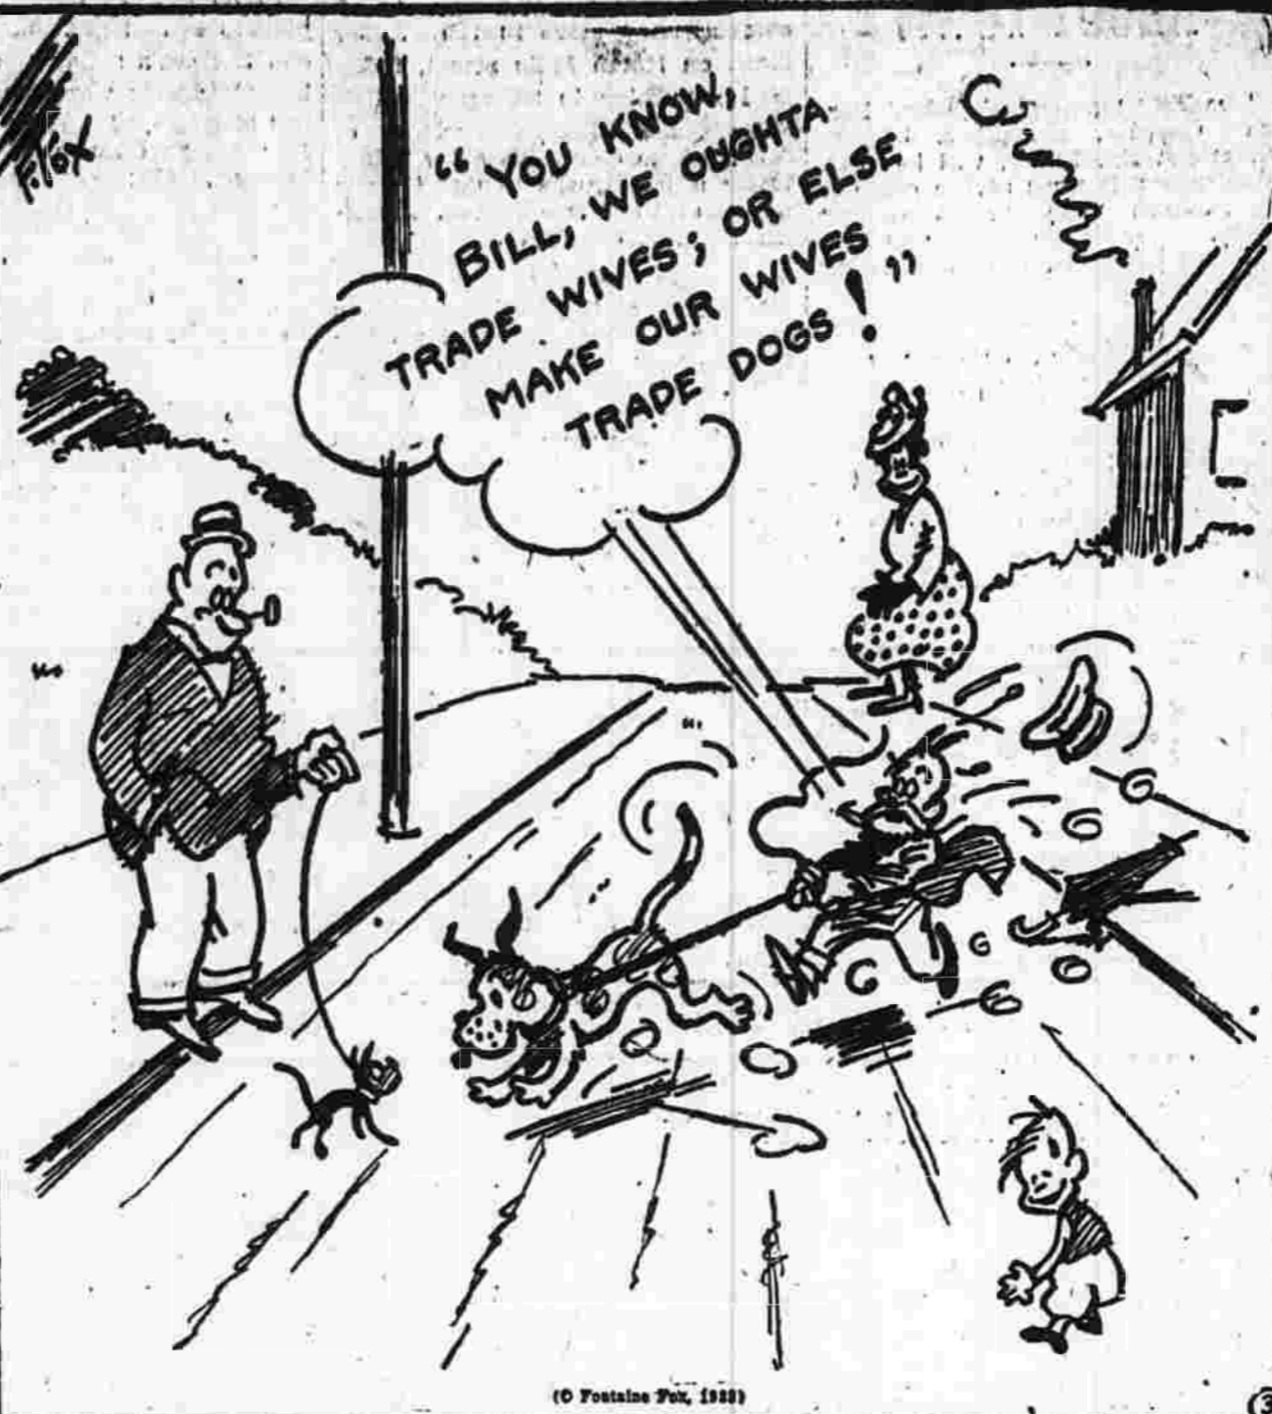

You can't blame a girl for thinking the language of the flowers is all wet.

Eight tables were filled with players last night at the north end women's softball series. The highest scores were made by Carroll McGuire, 197; Thomas Sheridan, 184; Joseph Canade, 184; Lawrence Moenan, 129; Horace Peckham, 138 and Henry Trautman, 129. Dennis McGuire is in the lead for the captain prize for the series and his son Carroll, 2d. These prizes will be awarded next Tuesday evening at the final sitting.

The High school orchestra will hold a special rehearsal at 6:30 this evening in the High school auditorium in preparation for a concert to be given the latter part of the month.

Mrs. Anna Dell Ferris of Oak street gave a birthday surprise party yesterday afternoon by twenty-one of her women friends. They came unannounced, but prepared for a dinner which was served in observance of the birthday. Mrs. Dell Ferris was presented with several gifts and also many floral offerings. The afternoon and evening was passed with the playing of games after the lunch had been served.

The High School of the Church of the Nazarene celebrated its 35th anniversary last night with a business meeting and social hour at the home of Mrs. Marion Turkington of Orchard street. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence F. Quinn of Chestnut street and their daughters, Elizabeth and Barbara, left this morning by automobile for Portland, Me., where they will spend the remainder of the week.
