SEARCH CAPE COD FOR KIDNAP GANG; FEW CLUES FOUND

State Troopers Sent Out to Scour Indian Village 20 Miles from Where Girl Was Abducted.

Herwichport, Mass., May 4.—(AP)—Daniel Needham, state commissioner of public safety today issued hurried orders for twenty state troopers to go to Mashpee, an Indian settlement about 20 miles distant, in the search for 10 year old Margaret McMath who was kidnaped Tuesday.

No information was given as to the reason for the order which was broadcast from a portable wireless station to state police autos cruising the remote reaches of Cape Cod in the search for clues to the abductors of the little girl who was snatched from an school by a negro clad in the uniform of a chauffeur.

Meanwhile the estate of Neil C. McMath, father of the girl and member of a wealthy and socially prominent Detroit family, has sent out all save members of the household who offered open doors to any emissary: the kidnapers might send to nego-late.

McMath today still was eager to convince the abductors he would meet any demand within his power for the safe return of his daughter. State police co-operated with him to the extent that they refrained from tapping telephone wires or a negro providing for entrapment on or about the McMath premises.

The town of Mashpee, where Needham directed his search, is populated entirely by the remnants of Cape Cod's last Red Men, now intermarried with various other races. The settlement is well off the main thoroughfares. Although the natives devote themselves largely to agriculture and basket weaving, and maintain a town government, they also maintain some sort of tribal organization and practice ancient tribal customs. The terrain is sandy and covered with brush wood, scrub oaks and stunted pines.

A contingent of state police assisted by local officers, got underway early this morning with detailed orders to investigate every remote byway in the area and to inquire for clues at every store, filling station and cross roads farmhouse. Twenty police cruising cars were lined up and fifty picked troopers fell into rank to hear their orders delivered by Lt. James Hughes.

May Be Nearby
Lt. Hughes reminded the men of the Lindbergh kidnaping case and of the fact that the Lindbergh baby was found slain only a mile from the scene of the kidnaping. He urged them not to neglect the slightest chance and not to assume that the kidnapers had escaped from the

ROOSEVELT OFFERS HIS R. R. PROGRAM

President Asks for Federal Coordinator to Help Direct Operations.

Washington, May 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt sent to Congress today his emergency proposal for appointment of a Federal co-ordinator to guide railroads through a reorganization.

Congressional advocates of the legislation had it ready at the Capitol, and planned to expedite it through committee to the Senate and House for debate and passage. The President also asked for immediate repeal of the recapture of profits clause in the Interstate Commerce Commission Act and for Federal regulation of railway holding companies.

He said he would submit later a "comprehensive plan for permanent legislation."

FINANCIERS URGE INFLATION CURBS Must Be Kept Within Definite Limits to Aid Trade, They Declare.

New York, May 4.—(AP)—Some Wall street bankers are urging the assurance that inflation will be kept within definite limits as requisite to continued business recovery.

Extreme inflation, it is explained, might in the long run have the same restricting effect upon the flow of business as deflation.

The business upturn of the past month is described as due in a substantial measure to a rush to convert dollars into goods, in the belief that dollars, if kept, will buy less later on.

But at the same time, this same fear of depreciation may make the lender reluctant to lend, and the manufacturer hesitant about extending credit to buyers of his goods.

Use With Prudence
In view of this aspect of inflation, these banking quarters say that recent assurances by administration spokesmen that the inflationary powers granted by Congress would be used with prudence and restraint should be definitely constructive.

Nevertheless, they find that much (Continued on Page Ten)

CHAUFFEUR IS HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

Admits He Killed Woman Walking on Highway—No Reason for Slaying.

Flemington, N. J., May 4.—(AP)—A twenty-four year old chauffeur for an official of the New Jersey Bell Telephone company was in jail today charged with the slaying of Mrs. Georgianna Heights, 40 year old, Highbridge housewife.

The chauffeur, Harold Wolfe of Lebanon, was locked up early this morning after several hours of questioning. At the end of the questioning, Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauk, Jr., said Wolfe had signed a confession in which he admitted the fatal shooting on a state highway in Lebanon township shortly after midnight yesterday.

Hauk yesterday no reason for the shooting, but said Wolfe substantiated for the most part the story told by Mrs. Heights's companions—her husband, Clarence, her sister, Mrs. Amelia Lott and her ten year old son Fred.

Their account was that they were walking home from Hampton after visiting friends when a man in an auto offered them a ride, which they accepted. The autolater parked by the roadside, the driver said, and began to make improper advances to Mrs. Heights.

STRAWN URGES CHANGES IN THE ANTI-TRUST LAWS

Former Head of U. S. Chamber of Commerce Favors Trade Agreements Equalizing Production.

Washington, May 4.—(AP)—Trade agreements equalizing production and consumption within limits defined by a government agency were advocated today before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Silas H. Strawn, of Chicago, former president of the Chamber, speaking at a luncheon meeting of delegates, said that much could be accomplished by amending the Sherman anti-trust law so as to sanction such agreements.

Wants Safer Solution
"If we adhere strictly to the theory that competition must continue regardless of the fate of the producer, it may become so keen as to deprive him of any return on capital invested and deny a living wage to his employes. Under the existing system, the larger units, by law of decreasing costs, are slowly replacing the small producers. Can not a safer solution be evolved by agreements which tend to equalize production and consumption to the general advantage?"

"I do not mean to be understood as advocating the further intervention of government into business. There is entirely too much of that (Continued on Page Ten)

PEEK MAY HEAD OPERATIONS OF FARM MEASURE

Illinois Man, Former Republican, Expected to Be Chief Administrator; Bill May Not Be Law This Week.

Washington, May 4.—(AP)—George Peek of Moline, Ill., has virtually been decided on as chief administrator of the sweeping farm measure now near final passage by Congress. Peek, a farm equipment manufacturer and long a student of agricultural problems, was one of those who participated in the White House conference last night on the application of the bill designed to raise the price of farm commodities.

As chief administrator, tremendous responsibility would devolve upon Peek in executing the policies decided upon in an attempt to lift farm prices. In addition, his position, if he is named, as now seems certain, will put upon him the burden of handling such details as the calling of commodity councils and other steps preliminary to application of the measure's extensive provisions.

Peek was a Republican until 1928. In that year he supported Alfred E. Smith and worked in the Middle West for President Hoover. He also supported President Roosevelt last year. A prime factor in his break with the Republican party was the attitude of Presidents Coolidge and Hoover toward the McNary-Haugen bill, which Peek warmly advocated.

For weeks the prospective appointee has been working with Secretary Wallace and other Agricultural (Continued on Page Ten)

PARISHIONERS HOLD PRIEST A PRISONER

Refuse to Close Church or Have English Speaking Pastor.

Philadelphia, May 4.—(AP)—A priest was held captive and a funeral party refused to advance to a Roman Catholic church today as the parishioners seized the edifice, determined that it should not be closed.

Three priests obeyed their superior orders to leave last night making their way from the rectory under a guard of 25 police, but one went back to get some belongings and was not allowed to depart.

Fifteen hundred persons jammed the church, while overhead banged with a hollow thud the church bell, cracked by hours of incessant ringing.

Officials of the archdiocese of Philadelphia explained that the vigil at the church of our Lady of Good Counsel, which began last night, was the result of a misunderstanding.

Parishioners Protest
Its Italian communicants were protesting the transfer of their priests, members of the Augustinian order, to another part of the city, but the secretary of Cardinal Dougherty said the transfer was made because the Italian population in south Philadelphia had shifted.

The Augustinian priests' father general in Rome had approved the move, he said.

BRITAIN IN FAVOR OF TARIFF TRUCE
Premier MacDonald Tells
House of Commons About
U. S. Conferences.

London, May 4.—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald announced in the House of Commons today that Britain favors the American proposal for a tariff truce during the period of the world economic conference with safeguards for Britain's special tariff position.

The prime minister quickly roused the members to most intense interest. They craned their necks and sat on the edges of their seats as, at the outset of his report on his discussions in Washington with President Roosevelt, he jumped into the question of the tariff truce.

With the tariff issues paramount in the House, Mr. MacDonald made it clear that while President Roosevelt, Edouard Herriot of France and he had agreed on plans for convening the world economic conference, the Washington talks had brought no definite agreements in regard to policy. Nor had there been any solution of world problems, he said, although the exchange of views was "most encouraging."

Debts Examined
The prime minister announced that war debts had been "frankly examined, in all their aspects," but he said that no fuller statement was possible at the present time as the problem "necessarily has not yet reached the stage of agreement."

He declared that the suggestion of "safeguards" for Britain's special tariff position, made in connection with the tariff truce suggestion, had been considered "reasonable" by the Americans.

Britain's Position
The British position in regard to tariffs, he told the House, is different from that of nations which are already high tariff countries with policies of economic defense fully worked out and in operation.

The opposition leader, George Lansbury, head of the Labor Party, characterized the prime minister's statement as "meager" and called upon him to take the Commons and the country into his confidence and to "give a full statement of the government's policy generally as regards the world economic conference."

Mr. MacDonald agreed to hold (Continued on Page Ten)

MCKEE OUTLINES HIS FUTURE PLANS

Denies That He Was Forced Out of Politics—Had Long Considered Move.

All Depositors in Institution, Large and Small, Invited to Attend Gathering in Tinker Hall at 7.30, Daylight Time Tomorrow (Friday) Night—Commissioner Basset Approves Local Newspaper's Plan—To Name Committee to Assist in Liquidating Assets of Former Trust Company—Want Representative Committee.

With the approval and authorization of the State Banking Department The Herald herewith calls a meeting of the depositors of the closed Manchester Trust and Safe Deposit Company to be held at Tinker Hall, Main and Birch streets, at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow (Friday) evening, for the purpose of erecting a Depositors Committee.

Bank Commissioner George J. Basset and the members of the State Banking Department engaged, under the direction of John F. DiNonno, in the liquidation of the "old" bank, are making every effort to conserve the interests of the depositors of that institution. They are engaged here in a demonstration of the idea that bank liquidation by the State Banking Department is a better thing, for the depositor, than liquidation by court receivers. They are, therefore, anxious that every depositor of the closed bank shall receive the last split nickel it is possible to get for him—and at the earliest moment.

Experts in the science of banking, they are still not residents of Manchester and there are factors in the local situation on which no outsider could possibly be as well informed as people who live here. Commissioner Basset recognizes this. He desires that the bank's liquidation be carried out in the powerful light of complete information on all the local bearings. It is for this reason that he requests the formation of a small committee to represent the numerically large body of depositors, and to which the Banking department can turn on occasion for special knowledge.

No Contact Established
It has been a source of some unrest on the part of many of the sufferers from the bank's collapse that they had no means of contact with anyone in authority over the institution's affairs. It is, of course, impossible, for the Banking department or the liquidators to deal with the questions and individual grievances of a list of many hundred depositors. The selection of a thoroughly independent and representative committee, it is believed, will solve that problem, for it is the expectation that the members of the committee, when it is set up, will serve as a direct link between the depositors and the liquidators.

It is regarded by the Banking department and by The Herald as vital to the success of this step that tomorrow night's meeting shall select as its representatives persons who are not only thoroughly familiar with values, departmental ties and trends in the affairs of this community but who are free of all entanglements and influences that might affect their advisory judgment.

All Should Attend
The larger the attendance at the meeting the more certain it will be that the committee selected will be truly representative and that, throughout the process of liquidation, it will enjoy the confidence of the people for which it will be acting.

It is especially desired that the small depositor should realize that this is just as much his affair as that of the large depositor and that the proposed committee, in order to function to the very best advantage, should carry the mandate of all the various classes of people of Manchester and vicinity who have frozen deposits in the old bank.

What Has Been Done
On Friday, April 21 Thomas Ferguson, Malcolm Mollan and Attorney William J. Shea, representing The Herald secured a promise from Bank Commissioner George J. Basset that he would issue through The Herald as soon as possible a statement relative to releasing a percentage of deposits in the "old" bank. They were given assurances at that time of full publicity regarding the details of liquidating the Manchester Trust and Safe Deposit Company's assets.

On Wednesday, April 26 The Herald received a statement from Commissioner Basset saying that a 15 per cent release would be made on May 1. This was brought about as everyone who had an account in the "old" bank knows.

During several conferences with Commissioner Basset, The Herald representatives proposed that an advisory committee be set up to give valuable service to the State Banking department in bringing about the liquidation of the "old" bank. Just why this committee would be of great value to Mr. Basset has (Continued on Page Ten)

NOTED CLERGYMAN DIES IN SYRACUSE

Rt. Rev. Dominic Reuter Was Former Head of the Franciscan Order.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 4.—(AP)—The Rt. Rev. Dominic Reuter, 78, former head of the Franciscan Order, died at St. Joseph's hospital today after a short illness. He was stricken at the Franciscan college in Sunday night. Though blind, he celebrated mass daily and was in good health until his illness.

The golden jubilee of Father Dominic was celebrated here in 1931, when, by special indult from the Holy See, he bestowed the papal blessing upon those attending.

The Rt. Rev. Dominic Reuter was born at Hoxel, Rhine province, Germany, Dec. 5, 1856, and received the habit of the Order at St. Francis convent, Trenton, N. J., April 14, 1874. He made his profession at Assumption church in Syracuse on May 7, 1876.

Father Dominic was sent to the University of Innsbruck, in Tyrol, Austria, to complete his studies, and was ordained a priest there July 26, 1881. Returning soon to the United States, he was appointed master of clerics and professor of philosophy in St. Francis convent, Trenton.

From 1885 to 1890, Father Dominic was apostolic confessor for English-speaking people at the Holy House of Loreto. During this time he took a postgraduate course at St. Bonaventure's college, Rome, Italy, from which he received the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy in 1888 and the Degree of Doctor of Theology three years later.

Recalled to U. S. in 1890, recalled to the United States he was appointed a second time to the post of professor of philosophy and theology at Trenton. He came to Syracuse in 1897 as master of novices at St. Francis convent, returning two years later to Trenton as rector of the newly established St. Francis college.

Father Dominic was elected procurator general of the order March 19, 1903, and minister general in October of the following year. At expiration of his term of office he resumed teaching, first at Mount St. Francis college, Floyd Knobs, Ind., and then at the seminary of St. Anthony-on-Hudson, Rensselaer.

Returning to Rome, Italy, in the summer of 1913, at the request of Pope Pius X, he was appointed coadjutor of the congregation of the Ind. and also of that of religious. He returned to America in 1915 and in 1923 became professor of dogma in St. Bonaventure's convent, Washington, D. C., but was forced to relinquish this post because of failing sight. He was in St. Elizabeth's hospital for two years, after which he retired to St. Francis convent in Syracuse.

MARRIAGE OF BISHOP STIRS CHURCH MEMBERS

Syrian Orthodox Catholics to Attend Protest Meetings in Various Cities.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., May 4.—(AP)—The Rev. Boris R. Burden, New York, secretary to the Holy Synod of the Syrian Orthodox Catholic Church in North America, announced today that a meeting of the congregations and clergy of the denominations will be held in this city May 6 to May 8 to consider the situation arising from the marriage of Archbishop Attinios Ghaz, head of the church. Father Boris said it is hoped to have the three bishops of the Holy Synod of the church either present or represented at the meeting.

In the meantime meetings of congregations of the denomination are being held in various cities throughout the North American continent to take action in the matter. Congregational meetings were held last night in Montreal, Que., Grand Rapids, Mich., and Wilkes-Barre, Pa., according to M. S. Bishara, president of the local Syrian orthodox congregation.

Archbishop Ghaz entered into a contractual marriage with Miss Marion Namey, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., in this city Saturday. Leaders of the denomination have declared that by his marriage he automatically renounced his position in the church.

FINDS OLD HERALD UNDER PULPIT TOP

Issue of July 24, 1886 Was Used as Padding Under Covering.

Forty-seven years ago the pulpit in the Swedish Lutheran church was sold to a small Lutheran church in East Hampton and the transfer was made. Pulpits were covered with material resembling carpeting in those days when preachers were a bit more vehement in their denunciation of the Devil and his works, and a generous padding of newspapers were placed under the pulpit covering to soften the blows of the pastor on the heavy oak surface.

A few days ago the old pulpit was re-covered and the newspaper padding was removed. Among the papers found was a Manchester Herald, dated July 24, 1886. The Herald was then a weekly and was datelined, North Manchester.

The late Elwood S. Ely was the managing editor of the four-page sheet. It contained a large amount of advertising on the front page, then known as "business cards." Among the professional men listed in the 1886 advertisements were the following: Dr. G. M. Griswold, dentist; Dr. D. L. Ross, M. D.; Dr. C. H. Riggs, dentist; Olin R. Wood, lawyer; Miss C. C. Johnson, music, drawing and elocution; O. Magrath, tailor; J. D. Tyler, pharmacist; S. F. Bradley, nursery stock; Deming and Gunlach, watches and jewelry; Hale, Day and Company and others.

Prominent on the front page of the paper is an account of a baseball game between the Rockville and Manchester teams which was won by Manchester, 7-6. Among the players on the Manchester team were the following: Rafferty, 3b; Dunn, ss; Connor, p; Healey, c; Moriarty, lf; O'Connor, 2b; Horan, 1b; Gill, cf; Sowers, rf. The Rockville players were P. Carey, p; Hamford, 2b; Mackey, c; Lyons, 1b; W. Carey, ss; Fay, cf; Pinney, rf; Mocker, lf; McCarthy, 3b.

Monitors' Game
The box score of another game between the old Mutuals of Talcottville and the Monitors showed the Monitors the victors by the score of 13-3. Among the players on the old Mutuals team were many well-known players of the old days. Joseph Ferguson, (now employed at the Herald plant) Walter Smith of Talcottville, Welch, 1b; Ed Lynch, (present member of the Board of Relief); Billy Crooks; David Ferguson, now a resident of Portland, Oregon; J. Douglas, S. Douglas and Brown.

The issue carries a story of the possibility of the Mather Electric Company coming to Manchester, which eventually occurred. The old paper is yellowed with age but the "hand-set" type impression is as clear today as it was when it came off the old "flat-bed" press 47 years ago.

AGAINST 30 HOUR WEEK
Washington, May 4.—(AP)—Rep. Maloney, Dem., Conn., presented to the house labor committee yesterday a sheaf of protests from Connecticut manufacturers and employees against the 30 hour week bill, but added he favored the measure, subject to a few changes. The Meriden man favors inclusion in the measure of goods sold in foreign as well as interstate commerce.

CONNECTICUT PATRONAGE IS AGAIN DELAYED

McNeil Believes Jobs Will Not Be Given to Democrats for a Month or So Yet.

Washington, May 4.—(AP)—Conferences between Archibald McNeil, Democratic National committeeman from Connecticut and high party officials left in their wake today reports that the state's patronage problem would not be tackled for another month or more.

The impression prevailed among Democratic chieftains that the key positions would not be handed out until Congress was ready to adjourn or at least until the President's emergency program had been virtually completed.

Meanwhile speculation continued here as to whether the appointment of State Senator Frank S. Bergin to the Connecticut liquor commission would remove him from consideration for U. S. District Attorney. Supporters of State Chairman David A. Wilson for the office have indicated their belief that Bergin no longer will be a contender.

"BOYS" RUN MARKET

New York, May 4.—(AP)—Several youthful employees assumed the official direction of the New York Stock Exchange today in observance of "Boys' Day." Francis E. O'Brien, twenty-two-year-old page on the Exchange floor, became president for a day in place of Richard Whitney.

O'Brien intimated his duties in dignified and formal style by presiding over a meeting of several hundred Exchange employees before the opening of the market. Later he attended meetings and conferences with Whitney.

The juvenile "president" had as staff assistants five other boy officials who filled as many official posts.

FIRE IN HOSPITAL

Sayre, Pa., May 4.—(AP)—Birth, death and fear mingled in a flaming drama early today when fire ravaged Robert Packer hospital.

A baby was born in the hospital at the height of the terror. Infant and mother were rescued unburnt. An old man, suffering from a broken arm, was carried from the burning building, only to die of shock.

Two hundred twenty four other patients were rushed out of cots or carried down ladders. The flames inflicted damage estimated at $125,000.

SLASHER SURRENDERS

New Britain, May 4.—(AP)—Wanted since last Sunday when it is alleged, he stabbed Salvatore Diplace, 37, Paul Florida, 37, of Beaver street, walked into police headquarters and surrendered. Police say he admitted slaying Diplace, who is at New Britain General hospital, but claimed that he fought in self defense. He is said to have told the police that he approached Diplace and asked him to pay $25 which he had borrowed. Diplace, he claimed, whipped out a knife and cut him on the neck.

Then, Florida said, he drew his knife and fought back. Diplace was badly cut on the face, arms and hands.

Florida refused to explain where he had been since the slaying. He is being held for a hearing in Police Court tomorrow. Diplace, it is expected, will recover.

BUSINESS IMPROVING

Willimantic, May 4.—(AP)—An increase of working schedules from three to four days weekly made known by David M. Moxon, agent of the local mills of the American Thread Co., is the result of a "slight improvement in the textile industry." It was explained today.

The plant is employing about 1,600 persons.

The Willimantic Silk, Inc., with two subsidiaries have three eight hour shifts on a six days a week schedule. Officials say orders are making it possible to run the plants on the extended schedules.

DECLARE STRIKE IN SPAIN

Bilbao, Spain, May 4.—(AP)—The Nationalists today declared a general strike as the result of the police charges during disorders last night when several persons, including women, were wounded.

Country women, accustomed to deliver milk, refused to obey the strike orders. Only a few street cars emerged but these were stoned by the citizens. Assault guards on patrol made charges into several groups. Detachments of guards have been sent into the surrounding towns to deal with reported disorders.

There is considerable excitement in the city and its vicinity as commerce is largely at a standstill.

Madrid, May 4.—(AP)—Julio A. However he is discussing in a general way the outline of a possible agreement which the Embassy later will follow.

CROSS CALLS PARLEY OF STATE EDUCATORS

Leaders to Hold Conference on Monday to Discuss New Board of Regents.

Hartford, May 4.—(AP)—Governor Cross today officially stepped into the controversy over the proposed setup of a new state board of regents to take over the duties of the board of education and the trustees of the state agricultural college by calling a conference of state educational leaders for Monday at 3 p. m.

The conference will be held in the Governor's office with representatives present from the state board of education; the board of the state college, the school superintendents association and the education committee of the Legislature.

The committee on education today heard the board of regents plan proposed by Thomas R. Ball of Old Lyme, clerk of the committee and a member of the General Assembly. Under this plan the state board of education and the board of trustees of the state college would automatically be abolished and a board of regents would be set up. The new board would be made up of nine members, no more than three of whom could be professional teachers and none of whom could be school administrators.

TURKISH TOBACCO
comes to this country in bales. The leaves are small and tightly packed. Each bale contains about 40,000 leaves.

DOMESTIC TOBACCO
is stored in huge wooden hogheads. Each hoghead contains about 1000 pounds of tobacco.

A flavor that neither possesses alone

Turkish tobacco is to Cigarettes what Seasoning is to Food

Early in the 17th century, tobacco seed from America was taken to Turkey. Different soil, different climate, different temperatures night and day, and different farming methods produced an entirely new tobacco—small in size, but very rich and aromatic.

This tobacco is known generally as Turkish tobacco; but there are as many varieties of Turkish as there are kinds of apples. Four certain spots are famous for the quality of their Turkish tobacco—Xanthi and Cavalla in Greece; Samsoun and Smyrna in Turkey. And it is principally from these places that our buyers get the Turkish for Chesterfield.

These Turkish tobaccos are blended, in just the right amount, with Domestic tobaccos. It is this blending and cross-blending of just the right amount of Turkish and Domestic tobaccos which gives Chesterfield a flavor that neither possesses alone.

THURSDAY, MAY 4.

"PACIFIST" STUDENT

The best evidence that the youth of all countries is up against a puzzle too big for it seems to be provided by the fact for pacifist declarations that is running through the colleges and universities something like an epidemic of flu or the measles.

The National Student Federation of America has been polling colleges and university students on the subject of war service. It reports a large proportion of students—some 5,000 out of 11,000 queried—as asserting that under no circumstances whatever would they go to war.

These young men who so brazenly make known their fixed resolution never, no matter what happens, to take up arms in defense of their country—what is it that has happened to them?

They have read "All is Quiet on the Western Front." They have seen movies like "Cavalade." They may have visited veterans hospitals.

And particularly they don't stop to think that nations in almost half the instances do not go to war because they choose to but because they must; that circumstances might very easily arise in which they themselves would have to alternative whatever but to fight.

It is perfectly reasonable and logical for a young student in an American college to figure it out that he would be a sucker to let himself be dragged into a war to save the adventurous investment of some American capitalists in Germany or the Philippines or in Indo-China; or to protect the trade interests of some New England manufacturer or Idaho rancher.

their country—whatever country it may be—nine tenths of them would be pushing and shoving to get into the first rank of the first levy. They don't believe it now, but they would.

FREED ENERGY

If you find it difficult to work up much interest in the so-called thirty-hour bill or any of the proposals for the government reorganization of industry, and if you feel that you are not just to yourself or to your citizenship in your lack of interest, be advised and quit worrying.

Next Wednesday the Judiciary Committee of the General Assembly is to hold a hearing on a petition of the State Hotel Association for amendment of the Liquor Control act. If there is an especially unfair and injurious feature, beyond others, in the hastily conceived and mistakenly adopted control act it is that dealing with hotels.

To limit the sale of alcoholic liquors to beer and wine served only at meals and in a public dining room, while the sale of hard liquor in other places is legalized, is a blow at the hotel business in Connecticut which that business does not deserve and which it cannot stand.

Restoration of prices and an increasing demand for a shrinking demand for the output of our factories through the creation of a rising market is the first task at hand—and it may very well be found to render unnecessary a great many other devices, such for example as this thirty-hour scheme.

Business is stalled and employment is lacking because the nation's energy is impounded behind a dam of deflation. Free it and it will find its proper level. It won't need to be shoved downhill by a lot of such artificial devices as these proposed for the control of industry.

Mr. Borah should be proud of the fact that his advice to gold hoarders has been taken and that a considerable number of people of wealth enough to possess large stores of gold in safe deposit vaults are now defying the government's demand for its surrender.

We don't believe there will be much pelting or shenanigan with these gold hoarders and their lawyers. In the present temper of the American government and the American people they are, unless we are utterly mistaken, due to be brought up with a round turn and to suffer a rather ghastly shock.

Mr. Borah and the hoarders' lawyers, between them, are going to get a lot of foolish people into terrible trouble.

weeks ago this Mr. Garner was letting it be known that he wasn't going to be just another of those Vice-Presidents but was going to run the House of Representatives just about the same as if he were still its speaker. There was going to be one little Vice-President whom the job couldn't smother.

Nowadays you can read the newspapers ever so closely for a week and never see the name of Garner. There's something actually awesome about the way in which that particular public office salts the tails of the cockiest imaginable sparrow.

DARLING FOOL

by MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MONNIE O'DARE who loves DAN CARDIGAN, rich and handsome, discovers her friend, SANDRA LAWRENCE, is trying to win him from her. CHARLES EUSTACE, a newcomer in town, pays a good deal of attention to Monnie, and helps her when her brother, BILL, gets into difficulties. BILL plans to marry ANGIE GILLEN, who works in a candy shop, as soon as she gets her divorce.

HETTY, housemaid at the Lawrence home, dislikes her mistress, suspecting her of "sweeping" the handsome chauffeur, JAMES. Monnie starts out with CHARLES to find KAY, her younger sister, who has gone away with CHESTER BIGELOW, traveling salesman. Kay, frightened, wants to turn back from the adventure before it is too late. Monnie and Charles find Kay and bring her home again.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XV

Sandra Lawrence was giving a party. Not the ordinary sort of Belvedere party but a very special one, with caterers from the city, flowers from the same place and an orchestra reputed to have come all the way from Chicago! Mrs. Peterman, grumbling downstairs about the "goings-on," was nevertheless enjoying herself hugely, bumping into the caterer's men with their trestle tables and their white coats, bullying Hetty.

"Why'n't she have her parties at the club? That's what I want to know!" Hetty complained, polishing silver. "Fifty people to supper—it's scarce, that's what it is."

The cook immediately took up the cudgels for her employer.

"Hain't the young lady a right to do as she pleases in her own house? What's it to you, anyway? You'll have your afternoon off, same as always. You've got no kick coming."

"Me answering the bell in that gray outfit and tending to the ladies' things," whined Hetty, "when I ought to be off having a good time for myself. She's just a pain—that's what she is, giving herself airs like nobody in town."

"You get along upstairs in plenty of time to make yourself neat, miss," warned Mrs. Peterman, with good time for the reference to the new uniform of taffeta with a musical comedy apron and frilled cap.

"Who's all coming?" Hetty wanted to know, interrupting.

"The cream of the place," said the woman with a relish. "Judge Martindale's two, and the Blairs, the Simmonses and Watermans, and the Oliversons—and the Cardigans, of course. And 10 young folks from the city, coming by the 6 o'clock James and better not forget to meet them."

"Mister Cardigan, I'll bet, is invited," Hetty opined, giving a vicious rub to a fruit bowl encrusted with ornaments.

"Of course. And his sister, Miss Geraldine. That new Mr. Eustace—"

"You saw the list?" Hetty broke in, eyes glittering with a bit of Mrs. Peterman's about that pretty O'Dare girl?"

Mrs. Peterman shook her head. "Not her. This is for real swell, didn't I tell you? The O'Dares are nice enough, but poor as church mice!"

"Her ladyship had her 'round the house plenty all las' winter," Hetty said coldly. "If you ask me, she's better than the lot of them. She knows a person when you meet her on the street. She ain't afraid to say 'good morning' like a Christian when you see her."

Mrs. Peterman's manner became slightly unctuous. On all matters of social precedence in Belvedere she, having the general of the Lawrence household affairs for many years, felt herself eminently qualified to speak.

"Nice enough, as I said, but her position in relation to the rest of these people, my mother always said to me, 'Nannie,' she said, 'always keep to your own station in life.' And I did. It's better so."

Hetty sniffed. "This is a free country," she contributed negligently. Then she wheeled, flushing deeply, as a masculine voice called her name.

"Jimmy, I didn't expect you back so soon."

The big, grinning young man in chauffeur's uniform lounged in the doorway.

"Thought I'd keep my eye on you girls, so's you wouldn't get into mischief. How're things going?"

Hetty said virtuously, "We've been working like slaves all day. Be glad when this is over."

"Gonna be swell music," the young chauffeur said, jerking his head in the direction of the sun porch, whether the grand piano had already been conveyed. This room, too, was banked with all manner of flowering trees, roses in tubs, and the like. The drawing room and the library beyond had been cleared for action. Rugs had been rolled up, highly polished floors given an extra gleam, furniture pushed back. In the dining room which had an oval glassed-in breakfast room beyond, the caterer's men were busy. A hum of activity, tangible as the whir of bees, pervaded everything.

Sandra Lawrence, fresh and trim in white linen riding things, now came briskly down the stairs, surveying the scene.

"Everything's going well," she said, with a nod to her retinue. "James, you'll bring the people up from the 6 o'clock. Then, Mrs. Peterman, they'll change—the rooms look very nice—and we go on to the club for dinner."

And she was gone, leaving behind her a faint, delicate scent. Everything Sandra did was well done. She was cool, competent, correct. At 22, she had the poise of a matron twice her age. She loved this sort of thing—the whirl and scurry of a big party. It was the very breath of life to her. Ever since her return from Europe the last time, she had complained bitterly to her father of the dullness—in fact the lack of social life—in Belvedere. Now, in mid-July, she prepared to bring a little gaiety to the somewhat town. She would give a "smart" party, the sort of affair a Gotham debutante might give at the Ritz. Everything would be perfect—cold, food, drinks, things in aspic, music—everything!

As she went out the side door into the terraced and landscaped garden with the special pool her father had been goaded into having built for her the year before, her eyes took in the scene approvingly. Sonberg, the garbled handyman, was at work on the flagged paths, trimming away the ragged grass. The roses were in full burst. There was a misty blue background of delphinium. It might, Sandra reflected, be a true English garden, with at least 10 generations of culture behind it.

At the stables she found James, who had slipped around the back way as she went out the front. He was running a cloth lightly over the hood, adding unnecessary polish to the already glistening

YOUR CHILDREN

LET'S ALL TURN "SUN-WORSHIPPERS"

The sun is here. Let us turn sun-worshippers while we may. The winter has been long and sunless except in the southernmost states where, we hear, even they have lacked their usual quota of bright days.

Do we need sun? We do, and the children do everybody does. Every living thing almost except mushrooms needs the rays that sustain life and defeat illness.

After a long winter our grandmothers get out the sun-umbrellas and molasses, brew sassafras tea and concoct beverages that were supposed to do something to the blood. What they did, we must suppose, was to supply the mysterious vitamin "D" that is really sun-storage.

Use Good Judgment

We give it to the children in the form of cod-liver oil through the winter months so that they have a first-rate defense against lack-of-vitamin diseases such as rickets. But even so, nothing can take the place of the sun itself, the source of life. Why shut ourselves and the children away from it. Yet almost every one of us, especially in the cities, regard it as a merely incidental thing, like putting on a bit of jewelry when convenient.

Babies get sunbaths of course nowadays most of the winter through, indoors and under the direction of a doctor. Then they reach the age of two or three and what happens? Perhaps they get a walk every day all bundled up, but the only sun that really touches their bodies is that which

She was the great lady. Why had she been so foolish. Why had she been so glib. That day on Summit Hill it had been spring-like and she had been in his bigness and leanness, of Dan Cardigan. Was that it? Anyhow, for the fraction of an instant she had let him hold her in his arms. She had seen the accident. She had tripped, stumbling over a tree stump. He had caught her. She had lain there for an instant longer than necessary. Oh, she had been mad, mad! But she had been mad, mad! But she had been mad, mad!

The man in olive green stared after her curiously as the dust hid the car from view.

"She's a cool one and that's the truth," he muttered to himself. "A girl in maid's uniform, watching from the partry window, caught her lip within her teeth."

"If she don't leave him alone," she threatened to one at all, "I'll see to it that she finishes her menacing sentence."

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

SUMMER CALLS FOR NEW MAKE-UP

If you are launching a sun tan campaign for your face, watch your lipstick and rouge.

There is a new nasturtium shade which is elegant with sun-tanned skin. It is a vivid red, with a touch of orange in it that blends with your golden skin.

This new coloring has the advantage of going beautifully with the new dark linens and summer dresses, too. Particularly with beach things which go in for their quota of high color.

However, if you still stick to a pink and white complexion, shun nasturtium shades as you would the plague. Get a rose tinted lipstick. This make-up has no orange whatsoever in it. It is designed to complement the delicate pastel pinks, blues and greens that go into the sweet printed dresses for summer time.

Be very careful about the way you apply summer makeup. Brilliant sunshine and lots of daytime light call for a more subtle use of color. With so many flowers showing perfect blending of color, the girl who just slaps it on and calls it a day is at a disadvantage.

Not much cheek rouge, plenty of lipstick and both matching.

"What can I do for my sagging chin?"

This is the most persistent question asked any beauty editor. Too bad—women don't give a thought to chins while they are still firm. Any woman over 30 should pat up her neck every single night!

When your chin really begins to slip, first of all don't let it get you down, too. Many a woman has lived, loved and become famous with none too firm a chin line!

Second, begin this minute to do the patting you should have done some years ago. Get a commercial patter—but go about it gently. Don't try to make up for lost time by punishing your neck and under-chin with 20 good brisk little pats after you have applied cream by massaging upward. Add 10 more each night and do your, daily 30 mornings, too.

Chin straps are not beautiful, but useful. Wear one nights if you don't want to buy one, tie your chin up with gauze which you fasten on top of your head. Not too tight, either.

Chin massage because the muscles from your temples and through your neck weaken. Massage them into action again. And there are special detergents that help you bring that chin into shape.

The vine is dried up, and the fig tree languishes; the pomegranate tree, the palm tree also, and the apple tree, even all the trees of the field are withered; because joy is withdrawn away from the sons of men.—Job 1:12.

There is a chord in every human heart that has a sigh in it if touched aright.—Ouida.

If American women would stop patronizing beauty parlor the money they spend there would pay the public debt of Greece and liquidate the budget of Puerto Rico. Maybe, but as we have to go on living in America, we'll say it's just as well as it is.

DESIGN FOR FLOWERS

By HELEN WELSHMER

PEDDLING men are still by selling daffodils. Spring has come and peddled plants sell in window sills. I am sure they'd rather climb up the clean, bright air. Follow colored flower-beds. Then a ledge somewhere.

DAFFODILS and hyacinths that intend to bloom. Need cool winds and cleansing rains. And some stretching room. How can a flower-bud hold a gay heart? When it gets too heavy drink from a quiet cup!

It is a splendid idea to give all young children or weak ones an exposure once a day. It is cold outdoors still, too chilly to go out without wraps, at least too chilly in most places to get out sun suits. They are fine for later on, however, even in a steady drizzle. The meantime with the window open and protection from draughts, the nude bath may be easily taken.

There is one thing to remember. A first exposure should be only five minutes long and then slowly worked up to a longer period each day. It is well to ask the doctor. It depends, as do most things with children, upon age, make, and season.

Just as soon as possible when it is warmer, get them into abbreviated sun suits for a short time each day and send them outdoors. When the weather comes on they can stay out a great part of the time, but not too long when it is hot.

It needs judgment. Each mother must figure out how safe it is. She must not risk cold or dampness, even if the sun itself is powerful enemy if we are not careful. In summer there may be danger in the other extreme.

Morning sun before eleven or afternoon sun after three are best for midsummer. Noon heat is too great.

But our problem now is spring. Here is the sun. Don't waste it.

HOUSEKEEPING HUSBAND FINDS JOB INTERESTING

Work Gone, Manages Home While Wife Is At Business.

Atlanta, Ga., May 4.—"Housekeeping is a man-sized job" that is the emphatic opinion of T. S. Binford, of this city, and he knows what he is talking about. For one whole year he has scrubbed the children, washed and ironed their clothes, swept, swept, and cleaned, marketed and cooked all the meals for their family of four.

"If husbands were required to do the cooking, housekeeping and home-making at regular intervals, they wouldn't be so scornful of a woman's work," Mr. Binford said.

"Moreover, if wives could substitute for their husbands in offices or factories and had to bring home the bacon," I believe there would be more understanding all around, and matrimony would be on a firmer basis."

In 1931 Binford lost his job. Weeks of discouraging job-hunting followed. There simply was no employment to be had. In this emergency, Mrs. Binford got a position in a beauty parlor downtown. When she stepped out of the home, her husband stepped in.

Keeps House Neat.

After that he prepared three meals a day, keeping on a budget. His house has won a neighborhood reputation for being "neat as a pin." Alice Merrimeth, aged 11, and Marion, better known as "Brother," aged 8, still have that cared-for look their mother always gave them. And even Mrs. Binford finds her clothes pressed, her lingerie washed, tinted and put away in her dresser drawers!

"I have always believed that the home-maker should do such a thorough job of it that the wage-earner has actual leisure when he or she returns home from business," Binford said. "I even do the cooking

Sundays so my wife will be fresh for work on Monday!"

He stopped long enough to tell Brother to come down off the backyard fence before he tore his clothes. Then he confessed some of the difficulties that face a man when he swaps jobs with his wife.

"First of all," he began, "a man has to get rid of the notion that it is beneath his dignity to cook a square meal instead of sitting back and eating one. I found, when I started, that instead of its being beneath my dignity, it was beyond my ability. You should have seen the wretched I had with my first batch of biscuits!"

Phew—Peas Burned!

"My first day at home I decided to have Irish potatoes and green peas," he said. "The phone rang five times before I could get those peas shelled. When I finally got them on to cook, the doorbell rang and a man started telling me why I needed a vacuum cleaner. I was explaining to him that I had a broom and that it served me well enough when I smelled something burning. It was those peas. They were so scorched that we couldn't eat them!"

He paused for a moment and shook his head as he recalled the tribulations of a beginner at this thing called "just housework."

"It was too late to start something else, so the kids had to eat sandwiches and drink milk that first noon. But those scorched peas taught me one thing, that I couldn't hope to learn in a jif: all my wife had learned through years of experience. So I began to learn one new thing each day.

"Nobody was more surprised than myself when I got downright interested in the job. Now, if I do say so, as I shouldn't, I can cook an entire old-fashioned meal that will stick to your ribs—meat, string beans, corn, potato salad and dessert. But I must admit I hate making desserts."

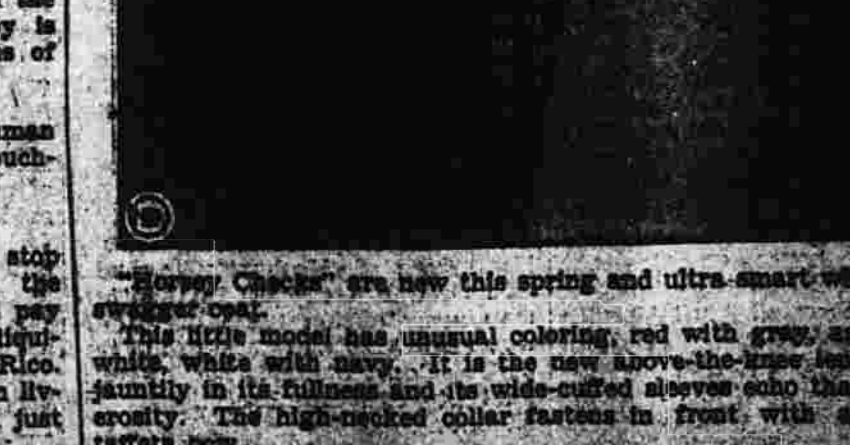

However, with all its tribulations, this year in the home has taught Binford a lot, he believes.

"Some such interchange of positions would enable many a man and wife to realize the other's difficulties," concluded this man who has seen married life from both the viewpoint of the wage-earner and the housekeeper. "Such an understanding as comes from it might be a good cure for divorce."

VEGETABLE GARDENING

KEEPING GARDEN SURE FULFILLS VEGETABLES ON THE TABLE THE YEAR AROUND

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the twelfth and last of a series of articles on vegetable gardening.

By W. B. BELLETT, Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

If you want to get the greatest good from your garden you must get it started early and keep it busy until the crops are killed by the first hard frosts in the fall. That is where the main advantage has the advantage, for they can have fresh vegetables right from their gardens every month of the year.

There is a big band of territory extending almost continuously across the United States, including Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma and parts of several other states in which the growing season is long and vegetable crops of one kind or another can be grown during eight or nine months of the year. Then there is our northern section in which the growing season is comparatively short.

Let Us To Themselves

Where the space is limited a system of companion cropping is the plan to follow. Small crops like lettuce, radishes, spinach and mustard are grown on the same ground with tomatoes or pole beans.

The small but hardy plants are planted early, then later when the soil warms up the tomatoes or pole beans are spotted among the smaller crops and by the time the latter crops have reached considerable size all of the smaller crops have been harvested.

Succession planting of the garden vegetables is the important method in insuring a continuous supply, and there are two kinds of succession planting. One is where plantings of such crops as beans and peas are made every few days during the early part of the season in order to insure a continuous supply over a long period. The other type is where a second crop is planted following the first or early crop and perhaps a third or early crop follows the second crop.

For example, early peas might very properly be followed by late cabbage; early cabbage by late sweet corn; early sweet corn by turnips. You can have continuous supply of certain vegetables by selection of suitable varieties. This is especially true of peas. Under favorable conditions early Alaska peas will mature in 45 to 50 days after planting; Little Marvel and Golden Ax are about a week later; the Thomas Laxton requires about 60 days and the old Telephone about 70 days to mature.

Two-Season Crops

Lettuce, spinach and several of the cool weather crops can be grown as a spring crop and again as a fall crop. Other cool weather crops like spring radishes, New Zealand spinach and green chard are also planted in the fall. You can have a continuous supply of certain vegetables by selection of suitable varieties. This is especially true of peas. Under favorable conditions early Alaska peas will mature in 45 to 50 days after planting; Little Marvel and Golden Ax are about a week later; the Thomas Laxton requires about 60 days and the old Telephone about 70 days to mature.

Chinese cabbage is especially excellent salad vegetable for late summer and fall eating. The variety about the Chinese cabbage that the mature "heifers" or heads can be taken into a cool pit or cellar and stored until almost mid-winter.

Recently the Italian or sprouting broccoli has become one of our most popular garden vegetables. It is a cool weather crop and grows just like cabbage or cauliflower, but instead of forming heads it makes a lot of sprouts or "broccolis" that are eaten as greens.

New items says a new farm plan is being worked out. Well, it will be a new plan if it requires work.

M. H. S. FACES MERIDEN HIGH IN OPENING GAME TOMORROW

Red and White Travels Out of Town for Opener for First Time in Ten Years; Coach Kelley Announces Starting Lineup; Ray Berger to Pitch.

For the first time in ten years, Manchester High School's baseball team will open its 1933 season away from home, invading Meriden tomorrow afternoon to meet Meriden High in the first C. C. I. L. encounter and also the first game of the year. The Red and White has benefited by almost three additional weeks of practice, due to the cancellation and postponement of games scheduled for early in April and Coach Thomas Kelley is confident that his charges will come through with a victory in the opener.

Meriden Looks Good In other years Manchester has had a warm up game with Rockville before starting the C. C. I. L. campaign but the Windy City team cancelled its games this year and the locals will therefore go into the race for the title without any preliminary experience beyond the practice sessions. Meriden, on the basis of its showing against Bristol last week, looks as one of the outstanding teams in the C. C. I. L., having been beaten by a score of 5 to 4, the defeat being due mostly to mediocre fielding.

Manchester is the only team in the League that has not played at least one game to date. Bristol, with three victories and no defeats, is, as usual, leading the League. Last season Manchester was runner-up to Bristol for the title losing three games, two of them to the champions.

Starting Lineup Coach Kelley has decided on his starting lineup but his selections are not permanent and may be changed before game time. Ray Berger will be on the mound with Katakavok on the receiving end. "Chet" Sandrowski will be at first, "Chubby" Smith at second and Ray Kennedy at third. Kennedy and Judd will probably handle shortstop Mahoney will be in left field, Rautenberg in center and "Bob" Smith at right.

The team will leave the West Side Rec at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, making the trip in private cars.

IN THE DERBY PADDOCK

By MAX RIDDLE

At Top, a daughter of American flag, and a granddaughter of Man o' War is training in sensational fashion for the Kentucky Derby, May 6. The names of sires of Man o' War's daughters - Edith Cavell, Bateau, Florence Nightingale - are names to contend with, and the Shandon Farms filly may turn out to be a great racing mare herself.

A filly, to win the Kentucky Derby, must, of course, have the highest type of speed. But in addition, she must be rid of the mating idea. Few fillies can forget their sex in April and May, and they are hard to train. Top Flight was an example last year. She could not run with colts but was always superior to her own sex.

At Top is a big, rangy filly, and in form like the general appearance of a distance runner. As a two-year-old she followed the general lines of her blood and showed no championship ability. In December and January she showed great improvement. This has been the general course of sons and daughters of Man o' War and their get.

Early in January, At Top won the Daily Racing Form Handicap with the greatest ease. Her trainer, E. B. Bobbed, Colonel Hatfield, winner of the Louisiana Derby, and others, big and slow to get along, she was seventh at the quarter and sixth at the half. Entering the stretch she was fourth by two lengths. She won drawing away, by two lengths.

BEARS NOW DOWN TO THIRD PLACE, STILL A MENACE

Batting of Orioles and Pitching of Rochester Puts Newark Out of Spotlight.

(By Associated Press.)

The batting strength displayed by the Baltimore Orioles and the flashy pitching by the Rochester moundsmen have pushed the Newark Bears out of the spotlight in the International League but the 1933 champions are confident they are not to be counted out when championship possibilities are weighed.

So far the Bears have won ten games and lost seven to rest in third place, but if a couple of "hard luck" games had gone in their favor instead of against them there would be a considerable difference in their standing. A general survey of the lineup reveals that Manager Al Mamau has few needs outside of another starting pitcher.

On the other hand, Johnny Murphy, in whom Mamau still appears to have confidence despite the two straight losses, is being used to prove his caliber. George Mizer is best in relief roles while the others, Tammila, Chandler and Duke, are a bit doubtful.

FUN A-FISHIN'

Sarazen Lays Down Six Essentials To Start The Golfing Year Right

(This is the first of a series of twelve articles in which Gene Sarazen, world golf champion, tells the average player how to cut strokes off his score.)

By GENE SARAZEN World Golf Champion (As Told To Alan Gould)

Most golfers start out all wrong in the spring-time. Generally they fail to look their clubs and equipment over properly, take their stance and swing too much for granted, over-do at the outset and then begin to wonder what's wrong with their game.

They wouldn't go into their business that way, but because golf is play, they fail to apply the simplest and most obvious fundamentals required to give them the most enjoyment out of it.

The Six Essentials I would list the essential things for the average player during the first few weeks as follows: 1. Before starting out at all, have the pro look over your swing, detect faults you don't suspect and give you the proper advice.

2. Protect your hands against blistering by taking things easily, unless you have been forewarned enough to have practiced swinging something heavy or using hand exercises.

3. Inspect your clubs closely, for repairing or conditioning. It may save you money later.

4. After you have played a few weeks, if you are still slicing or hooking when you don't want to, shifting these important pitch shots or putting poorly, have the pro take another good look at your game.

5. Pay special attention to your grip and stance; these are the most important factors in any golfer's performance. The left hand must be over far enough so that you can see all four knuckles. Remember that one.

6. Be sure your shoes are all right, comfortable and in good condition. They should be soft and nothing will do him more harm than being poorly shod.

Hook Deliberately At Start I put in hours of practice myself before attempting my first round of spring golf. Of course it is business with me and the ordinary player doesn't want to do that. In fact he can't. Put, in proportion, if he follows my suggestions, he will be better situated and more quickly time up his game.

It's a good tip to hook deliberately at the start. It develops power and soon the exaggeration can be eliminated or controlled.

This is the time of year when a few million divot diggers are wondering what happened to their games during the long winter months. With that in mind, Gene Sarazen, British and American Open champion of last year, has volunteered to tell some of the secrets of his brilliant play in a series of twelve illustrated articles.

BLUE RIBBONS NEED ONE MORE VICTORY

Victoria, B. C., May 4.—(AP)—The Victoria Blue Ribbons, basketball champions of Western Canada, today needed only one more victory over the Windsor-Walkerville Alumni, eastern titlholders, to take the dominion title.

The Blue Ribbons, led by the Patrick boys, Lynn and Munn, turned back the invaders 39-35 in an exciting overtime game last night to take the lead in games two to one. The title has been held in the west since 1929.

The Alumni led through most of the game and up to the final minutes when Lynn Patrick sank two long field goals and Chapman dropped in a free try to tie the count at 31-31. The Blue Ribbons then went ahead in the 10 minute overtime period to sweep their rivals aside and score eight points to the Alumni's four.

The two Patricks are sons of Lester Patrick, manager and president of the champion New York Rangers of the National Hockey League.

Harold Mattson, a member of the National Guards basketball team, proved his versatility in sports by hurling a no-hit, no-run game in the opening game of the Insurance-Bankers League at Hartford, Mattson, pitching for the Hartford Connecticut Trust Company, brought his team a 5 to 0 triumph over the Connecticut General Insurance Company. Bristol High continued its victory streak at the expense of East Hartford yesterday afternoon, smashing out a 17 to 2 triumph. Both teams went scoreless through three innings but in the fourth Bristol unleashed a barrage of hits that brought eight runs. In the seventh, five more crossed the plate for the victors. Bristol used three pitchers, who allowed only three hits in all.

MINOR FACTORS IN BIG WINTER TRADE SHOW TRUE WORTH

Both Start Hitting at Terrific Clip in New Positions; Only Two Games Played in Majors Yesterday.

(By Associated Press) Two of the most important factors in one of the biggest of last winter's baseball trades, Fred Schulte and Sam West, have blossomed out as leading figures of the American League with their new teams, much to the surprise of virtually everybody concerned. Schulte went from the St. Louis Browns to the Washington Senators and West reversed the route.

When they were dropped into regular positions this spring both began hitting at a terrific clip. Now Schulte is the leading batter of the league with a .397 average for 16 games while West is ranked as his leading rival, batting .388 in 23 games.

West lost a good chance to gain on his rival yesterday as rain and cold weather forced the postponement of all but two major league games, including the Senators' clash with Detroit. He yielded with the rest of the Browns to the pitching skill of Andrews who hurled the Boston Red Sox to a six to one triumph to break a six-game losing streak.

Sam did his share by clouting his third home run of the season with empty bases in the fourth inning but Andrews allowed only five other hits, while the Sox bunched hits off Hadley for three runs in the opening and continued to hit at the important moments. Big Smead Jolley set the pace with a single, a double and a triple.

Boston also came on top in the only National League game of the day as the Braves came from underneath to drive the Cincinnati Reds 6-4.

CLAIMS RECORD AS UMP

St. Louis, May 4.—(AP)—Meet Mr. George Hildebrand, American League umpire, who admits working 3,098 consecutive games in his more than 20 years as a ball and strike dictator in the circuit.

"In 20 years I've never missed a single inning of a single game," quoth Mr. Hildebrand. "I've never missed a game. Every game I was assigned to, I went through with."

With these words "Hildy" disposed of the touted record of Cy Fitterman, a brother big league arbitrator. Tuesday Fitterman "came ill before the Giant-Cub battle in New York, to which he was assigned, and was unable to appear. This broke his record of 1,710 consecutive games and great was the wonder of it all.

The 3,098 game record of Hildebrand does not include numerous spring and exhibition games of his frequent appearances during world series week. He hopes to add several years to the total.

Charlie Kerbat defeated "Red" Roche of Waterbury by five pins in their first leg of a home and home match. Each bowler had one game under the 100 mark. Kerbat's high single of 180 while Roche's best effort was 158. The final leg of the match will be called tomorrow night at Waterbury, in an alternate match Balotti and Kerbat hold the old game from both ends.

VIENNA'S HINTS OF CITY-STATE WORRY AUSTRIA

Vienna.—(AP)—Revision of boundaries in a direction scarcely contemplated by Benito Mussolini or Adolf Hitler is hinted now and then by sections of the Vienna press and public.

Dispute Federal Decrees

Since the shelving of parliament and the subsequent development of a decidedly anti-socialist and anti-Jewish program by the government of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, there have been several violent disputes between city-state and federal authorities as to who has the right to give orders here.

When the federal government, for instance, outlawed the socialist "shutbund" as a menace to public security, the white-bearded burgomaster-governor of Vienna, Karl Seitz, promptly ordered the fascist "heimwehr" to dis-olve. Federal police enforced the government's decree, while the "heimwehr" laughed at Seitz' manifesto.

Chancellor Dollfuss soon revoked the burgomaster's action and there was no further attempt to disband the "heimwehr."

"Chancellor is Showed"

But ill-feeling remained. Fascists demanded that the government depose Vienna's socialist administration and appoint a federal commissioner.

The socialists countered that such action would force an uprising, not of the mob against the government "but of state against state, or, to put it even more clearly, of sovereign free-state Vienna against an unconstitutional, federal power."

The strength of this local Vienna feeling was brought home to Chancellor Dollfuss and other cabinet members when they attended a recent football game between Austria and Czechoslovakia. When the teams appeared a band played the national anthems of the two countries.

Neither the chancellor nor any of the foreigners saw anything strange in the fact that the crowd cheered the Czechoslovak hymn.

Something of a shock when much shrill and derisive whistling greeted the Austrian anthem.

Invoke Hitler Slogan

The anthem never has been particularly popular among the socialists, because it is sung to the tune formerly played for "God Save Our Kaiser." But that it should be publicly hissed at by the socialist reactionaries as evidence of a considerable separatist feeling.

The episode caused the ordinarily conservatively written semi-official organ to exclaim with Hilferding vehemence:

"Austria awakes!"

Fascist papers openly accused the socialists of planning to secede with the help of Czechoslovakian troops.

A Hero, but Unwanted in U. S.

He's a hero to his own son—as the boy's eyes show—and a hero of the war, but Hugh L. McLeod is unwanted in the United States and for the third time in three years has been jailed in San Francisco for deportation. McLeod, who won several decorations with the famous Cameron Highlanders regiment, twice deported to Scotland, escaped Dec. 16 from a deportation officer. McLeod was captured when he returned to visit his wife and son. The picture shows McLeod and his son, William, 5, just before a jail door separated them again.

GREEN COMMUNITY CLUB PROGRAM TOMORROW

Supper, Entertainment and Dance at Green School Hall Starting at 6:30.

A real good time, occupying a full evening, is promised all who attend the Manchester Green Community club's supper, entertainment and dance at the Green school assembly hall tomorrow evening.

The standing entertainment committee, Griswold Chappell, Carl Stoltenfeldt, Louis More and B. H. Spencer will be assisted by Miss Hannah Jensen, daughter of the organist of the church.

Mrs. B. H. Spencer, Mrs. Griswold Chappell, Mrs. D. J. Gleason, Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. Florence Hayden, Mrs. Robert Hawley. A delicious supper of tuna and other fish with vegetable salads, cold meats, beans, relishes, rolls, cake and coffee will be served beginning at 6:30 in the lower hall.

The entertainment at 8 o'clock will feature eight girls from the Yveta Life Dramatic club in a comedy sketch entitled "Are Men Superior?" The setting is a log cabin in the Maine woods and those who have seen the girls in this play have been well pleased with it.

There will be two comedians and a solo dancer also from Hartford, and an accordion player. Mrs. Thora Stoehr of this town will present one of two bar piano pupils in solo numbers or duet. The program will be followed with mod. n. and old-fashioned dancing to music by a three-piece orchestra.

already. On the contrary, I would give the fullest freedom to individual action within limits defined by a government agency. Panaceas are generally unsatisfactory but I submit that industry will be assisted and stabilized if contracts and regulations, having for their purpose the proper control of production, are permitted.

Change Sherman Act

"Much could be accomplished by amending the Sherman Act so as to sanction agreements among manufacturers when, in the opinion of some governmental agency, the public interest would be promoted. If persons desiring to enter into such contracts could obtain governmental approval, exp. r. or tacit, or the legality of their proposed action, and be immune from criminal prosecution and responsibility for 'trouble damage, the disastrous consequences would be removed."

NEW FUNERAL ROOMS TO BE OPENED HERE

It will be known as the Leclerc Funeral Chapel. The store will be divided into three parts with the workroom at the north end, the office and display room in the center and a chapel in the front.

PEEK MAY HEAD OPERATIONS OF FARM MEASURE

ture Department officials to get things in shape for quick application of the measure. President Roosevelt is ready to sign it as soon as it reaches him.

Preliminary Steps

The first steps to be taken after the bill becomes law have yet to be decided.

Differences of opinion on administration remain to be threshed out. The President apparently told those who will have the administration of the bill to agree among themselves before they presented specific plans for his approval.

Peek, who is 50 years old, was chairman of the executive committee of 23 farm leaders which sought to unite farm organizations in support of a common legislative program from 1924 to 1928.

During the war he served on the War Industries Board and it is on experience gained during that period that Secretary Wallace believes he can draw heavily in handling the farm assignment.

Peek has consistently advocated that markets abroad for American farm products have not been exhausted and that the government should make a determined drive particularly in the Orient for wheat, cotton, pork and beef.

stay in the boat. We clung on. He pulled Miss Harding off. After five or ten minutes the Cuban said he would try to make land and bring help.

He had not gone far when he disappeared. After three or four hours we sighted a motor launch in which Capt. Leslie Waggett and George Andrews (third secretary of the American Embassy) were going fishing.

"Kidland, who has been waving his shirt, said it was not big enough and asked for Miss Harding's skirt. He placed it on an oar and succeeded in attracting attention.

"They brought us to Jalmanitas and thence to the hotel, where doctors attended us. The shock and exposure were terrible."

She added that they were almost completely submerged, clinging the while to the boat "for dear life."

Miss Harding, former wife of Harry Bannister, has denied reports she and Kidland will marry.

Just as we Scouty started out to greet the girls, he heard a shout. It came from Cobby, who exclaimed, "Come back where you belong!"

"I've just seen something near at hand and it is used to understand. We'd better wait a minute, 'cause I think there's something wrong."

Then Scouty jumped behind a tree and said, "Please tell us what you see!" The little girls look friendly. Why not join them in their play?"

"Well, be as quiet as a mouse, and peek out. You will see a house," snapped Cobby. "And a woman, too. She's looking right this way."

The little girls were startled. They just couldn't see anything. The woman slowly stepped from behind a bush. "What's she up to?" whispered one.

"Our being here won't start a fuss," outside. You sure she has'nt seen us. Get! This is a little scouting. Shall we all jump up and run?"

She waved a broom above her head and in a very high voice said, "Don't run away, you little girls, or you will miss a treat."

"Just come with me, as when I live, I promise you that I will give you both a lot of good things that we youngsters like to see."

AUSTRIA ALARMED OVER NAZI TALK

An official hearing held at Kuffstein has already resulted in explosive admissions by the Nazi representative there. The necessary counter-measures are being undertaken by the Austrian authorities.

Leaders Warned

"The elements which are responsible for such putch' plans should realize before it is too late that they are causing most dangerous international complications for the German Reich."

In some quarters the Reichspost's story which is followed by an official denial, is interpreted as meaning that the government is trying to work up public sentiment for sharp action against the Nazis.

Chancellor Warned

The Socialist newspapers express the opinion that Chancellor Dollfuss is worried over the large percentage of government employees who have already gone over to the Nazis and is planning drastic measures such as discharging and replacing them with his own supporters.

This view is supported by another report of the Reichspost which says that the government will direct that all employees be required not only to swear allegiance to the constituted authorities but to the independent Austrian state.

The Nazi leaders' attitude toward the putch report is that though many enthusiastic Austrian Hitlerites might welcome the quick realization of an Anschluss, that matter is really a problem of foreign policy and must be left to be settled as such.

Nazi headquarters issued a communique asserting that the putch rumors undoubtedly grew out of private remarks by individual Nazis.

These Words
mean extra mileage at no extra cost
Simple, easily-remembered words—TEMPERED RUBBER. Yet in all the history of tires no words ever meant more—or even as much! For TEMPERED RUBBER means 7% to 36% more mileage at no extra cost. Only U. S. builds tires with TEMPERED RUBBER. That's one important reason why U. S. Royal is used as original equipment by the makers of 75% of American motor cars. Now prices are lower and values better than ever before.
