

COMMITTEE TO AID BY ITS KNOWLEDGE

Depositors Group to Have Only Advisory Power But May Prevent Losses to Depositors and Debtors.

Mingled with many expressions of approval from depositors of the closed Manchester Trust and Safe Deposit Company relative to the depositors meeting called for this evening at Tinker's hall...

In spite of the fact that the purpose of the formation of a Depositors Committee was explained in the Herald's article of yesterday, and of the statement that the proceeding is entirely with the approval and co-operation of the State Banking Department...

No Depositors Committee could have any such powers. No Depositors Committee could possibly dispose in any degree of the present liquidating authorities or take any steps that the liquidators would not take in any event.

What Can Be Done? The major function of a Depositors Committee can perform is to act in an advisory capacity to the State Banking Department and its agents here, very largely on matters of information as to possible trusts or other assets of the bank, etc., concerning debtors of the old bank—matters concerning the whole theory of banking—questions of local business history and the like, which are outside the province of the present liquidating authorities.

A Depositors Committee that undertook to tell the Banking Department what to do and how to do it would, of course, be no use either to the liquidators or to the depositors and would amount in the end to nothing. A committee, however, so constituted as to inspire confidence in its judgment and rectitude on the part of the Banking Department might exercise the most beneficial influence on the liquidators' decisions concerning certain of the securities on which the bank's funds are outstanding.

It might, conceivably, on some occasion be able to convince the liquidators that it would occasion serious loss to the depositors if a debtor's loan were called now, perhaps the risk of throwing him into bankruptcy and end any chance of collection, when by a reasonable extension of time the borrower would ultimately be able to pay.

FARMERS THREATEN TO HOLD UP FOOD

Call a Strike for May 13 If Congress Does Not Meet Demands for Relief.

Des Moines, May 5.—(AP)—The National Farmers Holiday Association threw down this challenge to the Nation today.

Either the demands of agriculture for farm relief will be granted or the products of the farm will be withheld from the American dinner table beginning May 13 until they are. A guarantee of production costs is sought.

It was the second time in less than a year that plans for a nationwide farm holiday were made. Repeating their action of a year ago the National convention passed a resolution calling for a strike for May 13 and instructing its executive committee to prepare plans and methods by which the embargo on marketing of foodstuffs would be carried out.

Urgent Postponement The delegates to the convention on voting shouted down the arguments of a minority group which sought to defer an open declaration until Congress has taken action on the farm relief bill. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 100 to 66. It called for a nationwide farm holiday and instructed its executive committee to prepare plans and methods by which the embargo on marketing of foodstuffs would be carried out.

T. S. Stripling Anderson of New York received a $1,000 prize as the May that best represents the educational value and power of the stage.

MOVE TO CUT DOWN N. E. FREIGHT RATE

Congressman Goss Seeks Reduction of $1 a Ton on Coal Shipped Here.

Washington, May 5.—(AP)—A movement to reduce freight rates on anthracite coal to New England points by $1 a ton has been started by Rep. E. W. Goss, Republican, Conn., and John J. Hickey of Washington who has represented Connecticut in several rate cases.

If the charges are not decreased, the two men contend, railroads will lose most of their remaining coal business, which they say has declined 50 per cent since 1922.

Hickey already has filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission on behalf of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western a complaint against railroad rates on anthracite from the mines to Connecticut points. Hearings have been scheduled for early in the summer.

In their study of the situation Goss and Hickey have ascertained that normally, up to 1925, 50,000,000 tons of anthracite were shipped annually by railroad. In 1932 the tonnage had dropped to 28,000,000 tons.

Goss became interested in the subject before he came to Congress. While he was active in the New England Journal, he was appointed by John H. Trumbull, then governor of Connecticut, to take charge of a rate survey for Connecticut.

Hickey at the time was a division chief in the Interstate Commerce Commission, but was employed at Goss' suggestion to represent Connecticut in obtaining more favorable rates. Since then Hickey has maintained an office here as a rate counsel.

GERMANS' ENVOY REACHES U.S. TO TALK ECONOMICS

Dr. Schacht Declares Americans Are the Only People Who Can Solve the World's Problems.

New York, May 5.—(AP)—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German Reichsbank, arrived for economic discussions with President Roosevelt today and expressed the belief that this country is the only one able to solve the world's problems.

"It is fine that America has taken the initiative," he said aboard the liner Deutschland before being transferred at Quarantine to the city welcome tug Macon, "because we think you are the only people who can solve the world's problems."

"I am instructed by my chancellor to express his warm regard and admiration for your courageous President."

Before boarding the Macon the German envoy to President Roosevelt's informal series of international conversations said that there was "no intention of Dual currency" in official circles.

Schacht was met at Quarantine by Victor Riddle, publisher who is prominent in German-American affairs, and was closely guarded by police. The Macon proceeded from Quarantine direct to Jersey City, N. J., where a special train was waiting to take him to Washington.

The train with Schacht on board left the Baltimore & Ohio station in Jersey City at 7:23 a. m., eastern standard time.

In Good Humor Dr. Schacht was in jovial mood on his arrival. He made a quiet passage across the harbor. But although he readily expressed his admiration and that of the German people for this country he declined to discuss any matters which he thought might come up in his conversations with the President.

Besides Victor Riddle, who had been appointed by the mayor as the city's official representative to greet Dr. Schacht, the German envoy, met and escorted to his train by Dr. Hans Borchers, German consul general at Cleveland who is acting consul general here, Richard Southgate of the State Department, Dr. Rudolph Lettner, consul to the German Embassy at Washington, and others.

Those in Party Dr. Schacht's party consisted of the other German officials, M. F. Berger, Dr. Carl Nordhoff, Dr. Rudolph Proft, and Dr. Schacht's secretary, Johanna Stottmester. Special precautions were taken by police when the Macon set out at 6 a. m. to sail down the bay. Every person aboard was required to give his name and otherwise identify himself.

Dr. Schacht met newspapermen in the Deutschland's social hall. "Gentlemen," he said smiling, "I have no written statement. I hate written statements and I know you didn't get up so early to get one.

"First, I want to express by sincere thanks for the kind welcome. As you know, I have been invited to come for informal conversations with your President in preparation for the economic conference in London. I gladly accepted.

"I am honored by my chancellor to bring his warmest regards and to express his admiration for the courage with which your President is approaching the world's problem. It is a fine thing that the United States is taking the lead. We think that you are the only people who can solve the world's problem."

He indicated following this brief speech that he would welcome questions. "What do you hope to accomplish in Washington?" he was asked. "I hope to accomplish an undertaking with the American President," he said. "He was asked if he would discuss monetary theories with the President.

"I do not engage in theories," he replied. "I am not an expert in currency. All I do is keep money stable."

MILK CONTROL BODY FAVORED IN THE HOUSE

Committee Proposes Commission to Set a Minimum Price and Establish Former Working Schedules.

Hartford, May 5.—(AP)—Creation of a milk control board to set a minimum price for milk and establish cooperation between milk producers and dealers in favoring in a report received in the House today from the agricultural committee.

Both legislative branches, observing the "flightless Friday" rules held brief, quiet sessions. With no committee hearings scheduled for the afternoon, most of the legislators left shortly after noon for their homes.

Unlike yesterday when large crowds gathered for the debates preceding the confirmation of Michael A. Connor as motor vehicle commissioner and the defeat of the birth control and women jury service measures, the corridors were virtually deserted during today's session.

The report on the milk control bill, which was tabled for the calendar and printing, provides for establishing a board of three to be named by the governor and to serve until June 30, 1935. The salary of the commissioners is to be set by the Board of Finance and Control and paid out of the monies received from the licensing of milk dealers.

The hearing held largely on the bill was one of the largest attended of the present session and found the milk producers in accord in declaring "we're so bad off now that we're willing to try anything."

The bill favorably reported today gives the milk control board the power to "investigate and regulate the milk industry in this state."

The board can, if it is deemed advisable, fix the minimum price for milk, both wholesale and retail.

The bill provides that every milk dealer should pay the fee being $5 for each 100 quarts a day average distribution.

Eight bills concerning the Normals were passed by the House. Most of the measures provided for minor changes in the act consolidation of the town of Norwalk and the cities of Norwalk and South Norwalk and east Norwalk fire district and incorporating the city of Norwalk.

Among the bills were changes providing that the board of assessors shall meet on the second Tuesday of the month instead of the first Tuesday that the name of the charities department be changed to department of public welfare; that an annual audit of the comptroller's accounts be made; that there shall be

MARGARET McMATH WILL BE RETURNED, NEWSPAPER CLAIMS

GOVERNOR WAITING WORD FROM BOARD

As Soon as Beer Machinery Is Set Up He Will Give the Word.

Hartford, May 5.—(AP)—Governor Cross signed the clarifying amendment to the liquor control act at 3:45 p. m. today.

The amendment, rushed through the General Assembly yesterday makes the control act effective immediately. Some quarters raised the contention two weeks ago that without the clarifying amendment, the control act would not have become operative until July 1.

With the clearing of this technical obstacle, indications were given that a proclamation legalizing the sale of beer might be issued by Governor Cross before tonight.

Meanwhile, the liquor commission held a conference to decide on a probable date for the legalization of beer. The governor said he would issue his proclamation as soon as he was notified by the commission that its regulatory machinery was ready.

Hartford, May 5.—(AP)—Senator Frank S. Bergin planned to confer with his fellow members on the state liquor control commission on a probable date for the legalization of 3.2 per cent beer in Connecticut.

Governor Cross said he would issue his proclamation authorizing the return of the beverage immediately after being notified by the commission that its regulatory machinery was ready.

Senator Bergin, chairman, said the results of this conference with

WHOLESALE BUYING IS ON INCREASE

Trade Review Reports Survey That Show the Movement is Nationwide.

New York, May 5.—(AP)—The expansion of trade and industry "broadened appreciably," this weekly survey of the National Bureau of Retail Distribution held its previous gains and wholesale buying extended beyond the customary period of seasonal activity.

"The strength of the general conviction that prices now are headed in an upward direction, after fluctuating for more than a year at the lowest level in the present century, is leading to precautionary policies which rapidly are spreading speculative activity in some operations," the survey asserts.

"The reports of unmistakable revival in commercial and industrial activity do not emanate from the few isolated districts but are nationwide in their scope. The Buying Movement. The duration of the buying movement, however, is difficult to gauge, as in some quarters, at least, it is attributable to the desire to shift money from banks to raw materials and fabricated products, with the strength of consumer buying yet to be tested. Not all of the advances of the commodities can be traced to inflationary moves as the rise of many staples has been supported by a strong statistical base and the continued broadening of general business improvement which has provided a sound foundation for a firmer price structure.

Boston American Says That No Racketeer Had Anything to Do With Kidnaping But That Person Well Known to the Family Engineered the Plot.

Boston, May 5.—(AP)—The Boston American says in a copyright story that Margaret (Peggy) McMath, who was kidnaped from her school in Harwichport Tuesday will be returned to her parents within 24 hours. The American says a person well known to the McMath family was the "brains" of the plot.

"No gangster or racketeer had any part in it," the American says. State police and investigators, the paper adds, "are 'deliberately laying low' until the child is returned," and Daniel Needham, Massachusetts commissioner of public safety in charge of the search, "has instructed his detectives to make no move toward prosecution until Peggy is home again."

Known to Family The paper says a Harwichport man, well known to the McMath family, instigated the plot "as an easy way to obtain a huge ransom from the wealthy grandparents in Detroit."

"He talked it over with at least one man from outside the town," the American says, "and together they perfected the plan."

For three days before the actual kidnaping the men rehearsed the plan, "one man standing on Horse Grease Beach in South Harwich signaling across the bay to his contact," the paper says.

The man in Chatham, the paper says, afterward acted as the "negro" chauffeur who called at the school for the child.

The American says the "rehearsal" were observed by William Hersey a resident of the Deep Hole section.

WIRE TAPPING New York, May 5.—(AP)—Aaron Davis, New York representative for Mr. and Mrs. Nell McMath in their effort to recover their kidnapped daughter, Peggy, said today that he believed "someone was listening" to his telephone conversations with members of the McMath family in Massachusetts.

"The indications of wire-tapping are seriously hampering my usefulness as a contact for the family," Davis declared.

Davis communicates with William Lee, McMath's business partner, and members of the abducted child's family three times a day. He calls at no stated time in the hope that he can catch the listeners in off guard, he said.

Davis, whose advertising business office is located on East 42nd street, said that to date he had received no information that could be classified as "beneficial to the case."

He ordinarily goes to Harwichport on Fridays to spend the week-ends with his family there, but he said, he would remain in New York this weekend to keep himself available to persons having information about the abduction.

and a half years ago," he said, "I had the best of luck, telling you a good many things which many of you were not pleased to listen to, but which very soon proved to be true. Well, I can not act against my nature. Therefore, if you will allow me, I am going to say some things, maybe they will be received this time with less criticism because of the experience we have meanwhile been through.

"The first thing for our making headway in overcoming the world's crisis because you people have taken the initiative. Let me put it in a few plain words. The Americans were the war; they have to make the peace.

A Moral Crisis

"The second truth is this: Many people are trying to convince you that the present economic crisis is based on economic reasons. Don't you believe them. Our crisis is a moral one. Economic well being will only return if a fair chance is given to everybody. Instead, all forces are used to keep down the defeated. He is asked to pay, but not allowed to earn.

"And here is a certain truth: Don't try to cure the disease at a symptom. Remove the cause. Monetary changes in tariff machinery and similar methods may ease the feeling for a while, but more is needed.

"There are two ways out. One is separation from each other, leading to lower standards of living. The other is international cooperation for opening up new markets. Here is our choice—separation and poverty, or cooperation and prosperity. I know I could have been more pleasing in addressing you, but I don't think I would have been more helpful. Be sure that I appreciate all the able and noble qualities of the American people, but I did not come to flatter you. I came to be helpful."

to pay, and would pay, 100 cents on the dollar. Or, on the other hand, there were some reasons why for some special reason was likely to be more and more impaired the longer the loan on it was allowed to stand, the liquidators, in the interest of the depositor, which would be "anywhere, in the hands of the committee.

Minor Issues

"There are always likely to arise, too, minor issues between the old bank and its former customers; differences in accounts or disputes as to past agreements; such things are inseparable from banking. At present the customer has no contact with the old bank. Its former officers are out of the picture; they have nothing whatever to do with the settlement. The liquidators are unacquainted with the customer's identity. He can get no satisfaction anywhere, not because of any desire to ignore him or his claim, but because there is no contacting machinery. A Depositors Committee, being fully recognized and in direct touch with the liquidators, could and would, if it functioned properly, act for such a depositor or customer.

Depositors who anticipate that the committee to be formed tonight can perform some magical deed of getting their money restored to them in a few days or weeks will be disappointed. But they will be serving their own interests if they reflect as their representatives persons whom they know to be familiar with men and affairs in Manchester, unbending in their resolution to play no favorites and capable of devoting themselves to the principle: The last possible cent for the depositors and in the shortest possible time.

trition of the new farm bill will be practical and fair."

Class Against Class

"I have no sympathy with the attempts to set class against class," he said. "As I see it the farm bill is an attempt to obtain even handed justice but it will be a failure unless we can promote the psychology by which all groups will cooperate."

"I fully agree that along with a rise in farm prices there must be an increase in consumer purchasing power. Through today's consumers are paying farmers for food only about 60 per cent as much as they normally should, nevertheless they feel unable to pay more. Of course after three or four months the increased farm purchasing power brought about by the operation of this act should decrease city unemployment materially but that may not be enough. I hope a plan may be agreed upon which will bring about a definite expansion of city activity.

"The competitive system as we have known of recent years, is not truly competitive. Some economic groups such as agriculture are exposed to every economic wind.

ITALY, ARGENTINE TALK OVER A TARIFF TRUCE

world tariff truce between now and the convening of the London economic conference on June 12, the success of which Mr. Roosevelt is seeking so earnestly to ensure.

The tariff truce proposal was one of the points in the discussions today with Italian and Argentine envoys. It will figure in the conversations with the German spokesman who arrives during the day to present his country's viewpoint.

Whether or not because of fear that the dollar may decline considerably under the administration's policy, France has made its approval of such truce upon conditions and Great Britain likewise gave its acceptance with reservations.

Another Problem

Another aspect of considerable concern as to possible effect on the London conference was the adverse reaction indicated in several foreign countries to the American refusal, under its gold embargo, to meet its gold payments of interest on government bonds held abroad.

Other factors having a bearing on the situation and tending to complicate it, in the opinion of some officials here, are the negotiation of bilateral tariff treaties by Britain and the increasing of the British fund for maintaining the pound at a predetermined level.

The determined stand by the administration to forbid any gold exports—other than as a preliminary to an agreement between the two countries establishing a fixed ratio between the pound and the dollar.

Accord Seems Near

It is believed at the capital that a British-American agreement on money may well be reached before the London economic conference begins and that a relaxation in the drastic American gold embargo will ensue.

The fourth of the big European nations to be represented here makes its appearance today with the arrival of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank. The finance ministers of China and Mexico are also here with Japan, Brazil and probably Chile to follow later in the month.

With the Italians, headed by Guido Jung, finance minister, the conversations have dwelt for the most part on cooperation for the stabilization of exchange. Discussion of this and other problems of the economic conference were to be resumed at the State Department and White House today.

Argentina, its delegation headed by Dr. Tomasa A. Lo Bronon, is understood to have sought a trade agreement with the United States similar to that recently concluded between Great Britain and Argentina. The South Americans seek a market for their meat in the United States.

JUDGE BROWN IS BACK TO SUPERIOR COURT

Has Been Off Bench for Several Months Because of An Eye Ailment.

Norwich, May 5.—(AP)—Judge Allyn L. Brown was inactive for several months because of an eye ailment, returned to the Superior Court bench today. The May term of Criminal Court for New London county was opened by him.

Phillip Wyant, 64, of New London was sentenced to state prison for three to five years for assault on a female. "Theodore Fitzgerald" of Waterford, for forgery received one to two years; Arthur Barrows, 21, of Norwich and Albert Carpenter, 27, the latter an Indian of the reservation at Leder, were given sentences for theft of an auto, the former one to two years and the latter three months.

Theodore Demopoulos of New London pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault with intent to murder Morris Lubchanski, attorney, and asked for a jury trial which was set for Tuesday.

ADVOCATES SALES TAX

New Britain, May 5.—(AP)—An

president of the Connecticut League of Municipalities, Mayor George A. Quigley said today that he was mailing letters to every member of the Legislature in the interests of the tax bill on which a hearing will be held soon. He said that unless new sources of municipal revenues are determined, the plight of cities will be unbearable because thousands of taxpayers will be unable to pay their taxes this year. Mayor Quigley is one of the chief advocates of the sales tax.

held Tuesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Margitta Horton, programs for the year were partially made up. Three new members were admitted, bringing the number up to about twelve. The next meeting will be held at the town hall, Wednesday afternoon, June 7. All interested are invited to attend. A speaker will be present. Officers not yet named will be elected.

It has been learned that Charles Rathbun, who was considered an applicant for the reforestation work, under Hebron's one man quota, will not be eligible for the job, as applicants must be drawn from families receiving public or private aid, which is not the case in Mr. Rathbun's family. It may be that there will be no other applicant, as none of those eligible seem desirous of taking up the work. Some of the unemployed here are agitated at work. Most of those out work are older than 25 and thus not in line for the reforestation work. Charlie very much desired this work and people here are sorry he could not have gone.

The bill permitting the city of Danbury to issue $30,000 bonds for sewer work was adopted by the House as was an act creating a board of finance in Willimantic if approved by a referendum of the voters was also passed.

Other Bills Passed

Other bills passed by the House included: Providing for filing of tax lists in Meriden not later than Nov. 1 each year; authorizing the Brook Bank and Trust Company of Torrington to be trustees of the T. Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Sellers of New London were week-end visitors at their Hebron home, "Pendletonia."

Gifts of books amounting to about fifty have been received recently by the Hebron Library, from Hebron friends and others. The books are second hand, but are in very good condition, and are all desirable. The library has suffered and is still suffering from the depression. No books have been received this year from the state, although lists have been sent in as usual. The state has also been crippled in funds for library service, and those libraries receiving aid will have to wait until state finances are improved.

Hebron people were shocked to learn of the death in an automobile accident of Edward Frink, formerly of this place, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Addison E. Frink of Andover. The accident took place Sunday evening, when the car in which young Frink was an occupant sideswiped two trees in Farmington. The driver was Julius Bryant of Hartford. Mr. Frink was 36 years of age, and lived in Hartford. He had been out to Andover to see his parents on the day when he was killed. President Makes Three Requests of Industry

By Associated Press

President Roosevelt made three requests of industry in his address before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States last night.

1—Maintain wages at their present level and increase wage scales in conformity with the rise in commodities.

2—Bring "order out of chaos" in the industrial system by cooperative action against unfair methods of competition and "cut throat prices."

3—View in terms of the Nation rather than in terms of a particular industry.

Some sentences from his brief address were:

It is ultimately of little avail to any of you to be temporarily pro-

GERMANS HONOR WORLD WAR MARTYR

London.—When a French court-martial sentenced Lieut. Albert Schlogetter to death for opposing French occupation of the Ruhr 10 years ago, it declared that the condemned man and his comrades believed they would become national heroes.

Whatever Schlogetter may have thought, it is true that he is remembered by his fellow countrymen as a patriotic martyr.

Ten years after he faced a firing squad at Dusseldorf on May 28 the Museum of History there is preparing an exhibition to commemorate the event.

Schlogetter was leader of a band of seven men convicted by the French of dynamiting railroads and destroying railroad property in an attempt to interfere with the French penetration of German territory. It was testified that money for the sabotage campaign came from the Krupp factory at Essen.

The men were trapped through the cleverness of a French secret agent who became an eighth member of the group. His testimony for two days at the trial was responsible for the convictions.

A companion of Schlogetter's was sentenced to life imprisonment and five others to prison terms of from five to 20 years each.

There was no evidence that the German government knew of their activities, although the Germans bitterly opposed the French occupation, and instituted a campaign of passive resistance.

Schlogetter had been an officer in the German army, and served during the plebiscite in Upper Silesia to determine the disposition of that territory under the peace treaty.

The French moved into the Ruhr in the spring of 1921, after the Germans had refused to accede to reparations proposals made from Paris. They later extended their occupation through almost the whole of the German iron and steel of Sears Roebuck sold at $26.75 up $1.12. Woolworth jumped $1 to $36.62.

Dollar Lower

The dollar was lower in foreign exchange trading. The pound sterling opened at $4, highest since England went off the gold standard in September, 1931, for an overnight gain of 8 cents. The quotation had previously dipped under that figure.

Wall street labelled President Roosevelt's address to the business men in Washington last night as "constructive," noting especially his references to the rise in commodity prices and the "slight but definite upturn in most industries."

A leading mercantile review reported an appreciable broadening of the gains made by trade and industry.

FIVE-FLOOR BURN

New York, May 5.—(AP)—A six-story loft building crashed in flames today, killing five men who were attempting to strike fire that swept the structure.

Captain Emil Schoock and four of his men were on the roof of the structure when the walls collapsed, dropping them into the blazing debris.

The captain suffered a leg fracture and internal injuries. The others were seriously hurt. They were saved from death only because the walls collapsed first. The roof tilted at a sharp angle for about thirty seconds giving the firemen time to slide clear of the larger pieces of wreckage.

CATCH FIVE YOUTHS FOR PETTY THEVERY

Had Broken Into Shoe Store When Discovered—Several Similar Cases.

Five boys, all under sixteen years of age, are being held for breaking into the Central Park block yesterday afternoon. The act was committed shortly before three o'clock when Jack Levine, owner of the property, heard a noise at the rear of the Brockton Shoe Store which he conducts. At the time the noise was discovered one of the boys had already entered the building and the other four were outside ready to go in. Those on the outside ran away but the youth who was inside was unable to get out in time. Police Captain Richard Shea made an investigation and found the boys had skilfully removed the putty from one of the panes of glass and the glass was taken out without breaking.

One of the boys crawled into the basement of the store formerly used by the Brooks Clothing Company. In the basement were remnants from the hat and cap business and the youths had already removed some of them. What will be done with the five youths remains for prosecuting attorney J. B. Thomas to decide following a conference with the court. This is but one of the few breaks reported in this city this year and it is believed to be more out of devility than for the sake of stealing any articles.

Senior Play Tonight
 The annual Senior play to be presented by the graduating class will be presented tonight in the auditorium of the George Sykes Memorial school. The play "Shavings" an idyllic play by Pauline Fields and Marion Short, based on Joseph C. Lincoln's novel, is sure to draw a good attendance. Mr. Lincoln's stories of New England life enjoy a nation-wide fame. This play enjoyed a long and prosperous run at the Knickerbocker theater in New York, and was pronounced by the critics and the public to be one of the outstanding features of the season. "Shavings" affords abundant scope for their efforts. The old fashioned and the yard with the windmills will charm the eye, while the delicious comedy and touching sentiment will warm the hearts of all who witness the play.

DARLING FOOL

By MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MONNIE O'DARE, 30, and handsome, is unhappy because DAN CARDIGAN who professes to be in love with her is influenced by his snobbish family...

Monnie heard Kay's voice and looked up. It was Sunday morning—11 o'clock, to be exact—and Monnie was enjoying the sweet freedom of her "day off"...

Monnie said mildly, "But there aren't any jobs for you in Belvedere." "I know," Kay interrupted. "That's exactly what I mean. If I could get away—to Chicago, or New York..."

"There'd be a chance for me there," Kay stated eagerly. "I could make something of myself—be somebody. Get ready for it. I read Monnie sighed. They had gone over this ground before. She sympathized wholly and utterly, but what could she do about it?"

"You're too young to be on your own," she said with gentleness. "Even if we had the money to stake you for a while—which we haven't—you're far too young to go off that way by yourself. Mother would never hear of it."

"Girls not one bit older than I am," said Kay with fervor, "are earning coeds of money in the evenings." "Oh, the movies, of course," said Monnie, dismissing these.

Monnie gave her a speculative look. "You might," she said slowly. "And not being pretty and clever, I could alone that if you mean just the other day that a good camera man could make an actress and an unfriendly one ruin her chances. There are tricks—why, some of the most successful ones are not a bit pretty if you mean their face to face. Don't you remember Lillian Martingale, the girl I told you I met at Sandra's last winter? She was plain, really, angular—and her skin was awful. Yet Sandra said she put a screen test that was wonderful. And she's getting along very well. I saw her picture outside the Cameo the other day when I came home."

"I forgot you'd met her," said Kay interested. "Was she really ugly?" "Not ugly—just, well, plain in a distinguished kind of way. She," remembered Monnie, "was the girl Sandra met in Florence. From an old Boston family, I think."

New Sophistication Pleases Myrna; Miss Loy Tired of Slant-Eyed Roles

Here are two Myrna Loy's, but Myrna herself likes the newer one best. She's glad that her recent pictures have aided her in breaking away from roles like the one below.

Hollywood—Suddenly dimlighted as a "new personality" is Myrna Loy, who has been trying for several years to tell casting directors what they have only recently found out for themselves.

Unique among American-born movie actresses because most of her success has been in oriental roles, she is enjoying the departure from the old imprisoning niche—but with reservations.

"I've had too much to do," she says. "I'm worn out. I hear there's a part waiting for me after I finish 'When Ladies Meet.' I hope not. It's been more than a year since I've had any time off, and I need a rest."

There was a time when Myrna, stamped as the Chinese, Japanese, Polynesian, Indian or Malayan siren, had enough time to herself, because rarely would any director vision her as she is, an American whose real name is Myrna Williams and a consistent actress. And oriental roles were not frequent.

Monnie in a muffled voice, "that she's going to get Dan, as you so elegantly put it?" "Well, I'll tell you," began Kay calmly. "Mind you, Monnie, I wouldn't be talking this way if I weren't certain you'd got over Dan—and a mighty good thing that is, too," she interpolated.

"That's a bit of a boy," Kay whistled like a boy. "Maybe you've got all you have to do is lift a finger," she advised. "That's absurd. If there's any one he's interested in that way, it's you. He's always talking about your looks and your liveliness."

Monnie's eyes were on the subject of the party against Monnie's own. "I couldn't have gone," she said obediently. "Why not?" "I have another engagement."

HEALTH

TYPHOID FEVER IS BEING BROUGHT UNDER CONTROL. Mortality Rate From Disease Is Falling Steadily Throughout the World; Final Complete Elimination Seen as Likely

By DR. MORRIS FARRELL, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine. In England and Wales, in the years from 1871 to 1875, there were 374 deaths per 100,000 population from typhoid fever. By 1911, this number had dropped to six, whereas in the United States, in 1911, the rate was still 21. However, the rate had dropped to 4.6 in the United States in 1921.

Certain states have much lower rates than others, and in general the rates in the southern states are much above those in the north. Indeed, the rates for Minnesota and Wisconsin were 0.6 and 0.7 per 100,000, as contrasted with 10.7 for Tennessee, 12.6 for West Virginia, 14.6 for Louisiana, 16.8 for South Carolina, and 16.7 for Georgia.

Even here, however, there has been improvement, because Tennessee and South Carolina had rates exceeding 30.0 in the year 1927. So far, as foreign countries are concerned, Polish cities have rates of 24.3 for 1920 with a drop to 10 in 1930, but with a marked increase in 1932. Chile and Spain still have rates between 10 and 15. Japan has had a rate constantly rising until 1924, when it almost reached 25 per

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

A mother has asked me about stammering. She is greatly distressed about her three-year-old boy who looks up at her so pitifully when she tries to speak. I feel that there are such really heavy crosses for some parents, that the cross of stammering is something to be borne without lament.

There is nothing wrong with trying exercises or safe "cures" for stammering if the mother knows of anyone nearby who has some really useful knowledge. But she must approach any such help with a philosophy of "no harm done."

What can I say, what can I do, except give the general information about plenty of rest, plenty of fresh air, not too much excitement and a great deal of happiness? Of course, she has heard all this before. And she has heard, too, that many children during their adventurous fourth year (after three) begin to stammer because their excited thoughts get ahead of their tongues. Naturally they get over it in time unless the habit is deepened and set by perpetual reference to it in the family.

Seek Advice. I read a treatise on stammering not long ago, and was sure that it was right advice and not too experimental, and that it was in the hands of a doctor who really knew all that can be known about this perplexing affliction.

One thing I should do, having this in my mind, that is to prevent the little soul from seeing how unhappy and worried I was about it. I would campaign among my friends and his playmates to treat it as a matter of course. As tactfully and carefully as I could I would have him speak slowly. Many children outgrow it. They do so more quickly if they are not reminded of it. And they must not see that their parents are distressed.

Some New York banks are using black blotting paper to avoid the risk of crooks copying customers' signatures from blotted impressions.

A Dash Of Color, Another Of Life Presto! And Here's Lillian Harvey

Hollywood has found in Lillian Harvey a personality as bright and lively off screen as on. Among the accomplishments of the European star are light-rope walking, too caning, automobile racing and piano and violin playing.

Hollywood—Admirers of dainty, blond, blue-eyed Lillian Harvey, who recently arrived from Europe, acclaim her "the complete movie star."

Her wardrobe is one of the sensations of Hollywood, including a blue and white ensemble, a pair of black and white slippers and a pair of black and white shoes.

MARVELOUS MANHATTAN

By WILLIAM GARBER

New York—Glorious Manhattan, who got more publicity and more movie than any "man" who ever played a role, is it with an her fourth novel.

While Carmen Amé, Brown, told me over a bowl of punch at her apartment in the East Seventies that she is "not in affection" with the famous dancer, she is a financial helper with her mother after she had picked up a sizable sum on her first few books and that amazing adventure in Hollywood.

To this day, Carmen said, she hardly does not know why things ended as they did, after she got such an elaborate hollywood as an acting prospect. She wasn't given a single role in a feature film.

Right after her contract was terminated—she had added $36,000 to her bankroll—the studio, unaware of the official action, telephoned her to report for a test for a part. But Carmen wouldn't take the test, even when she was offered $10,000 that she disregarded the suggestion.

Now she believes she might want to go on the stage—"I think I do, I'm not sure. It's so complicated." "It's so complicated," is a frequently repeated phrase with the slim blond from Chattanooga, who wrote "Bohémien" when she was nothing more than a precocious child and caused a good deal of chiding in school and literary circles. She will be 21 next November.

"When I was 16 I had my life mapped out up to 60," she said. "Now I'm much more sure about it. It's so complicated."

Dignity And Calm. No section of town has the quiet dignity of Gramercy Park at night. The late afternoon has the feeling that a sidewalk yelp might bring white-capped Victorian footers every window on the square, changing their dismay.

The tall, dark, private path, blocked in by staid apartments and tranquil residences, dreams undisturbed by voices of children and uniformed governesses who go there in the day's morning. There is no churchly parading of the area, by New York's limitless rick-shaws. Everything is prim and proper, and so clubs present more sedate spectators than the Players' and the National Arts, on the south side.

Taxi drivers who park their cabs under corner lamp-posts respect the general severity, embracing none of the razzle-dazzle and vulgar common to cabstands. There is no place you find them. A few sleek motors purr in waiting for owners who fit well in such handsome carriages.

In a quiet, comfortable picture of London's streets, in a highly moral but romantic fiction.

Peeps at Personality. Ken Murray said he had missed musical instruments (he sold himself a clarinet, and that's the way he got his start). "A few men have a quicker bluntness than Edward P. Sherry, who heads New York city's beer control commission." Mrs. Murray was born in Portsmouth, Va.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Brushed hair and nose with no lines on the face for a long time. Artificially shadowed eyes with light upon summer as a time for sunbath suppresses.

Just a bit of soft green shadow, put on over a mist of cream above the lid, heightens the blue of eyes. Green shadow, when they are dark, the pearl colored shadow that every summer in.

However, if your eyes are blue, you may find blue shadow more suitable. Brown eyes, when the coloring is medium blonde, take to green shadow. When they are dark, brown, with auburn hair or black hair, a purplish brown, that on the eyes is fine.

There's a new type of eye makeup suggested for the summer. The one that is used by the most beautiful girls in the world. First you make the eyes look green over it to give an effect of life and sparkle.

HORNSBY IS MAKING DESPERATE EFFORT TO CONQUER BREAKS

Rajah in Comeback With Cardinals Asks to Be Left Alone; Denies Trying to Start Fight With Grimm.

New York, May 5.—(AP)—Grim and tight lipped, Rogers Hornsby, the old "raja" of the Cards, the Cubs, the Giants, the Braves and now the Cards again, is making a desperate effort to conquer the breaks in a comeback as an ordinary ball player.

"I've got troubles enough making good," he said here the other day. "What do they want to keep dragging me into arguments for, trying to dig up fights? There wasn't a sign of truth in that story about me saying out in Chicago that Charley Grimm was the cause of my trouble with the Cubs."

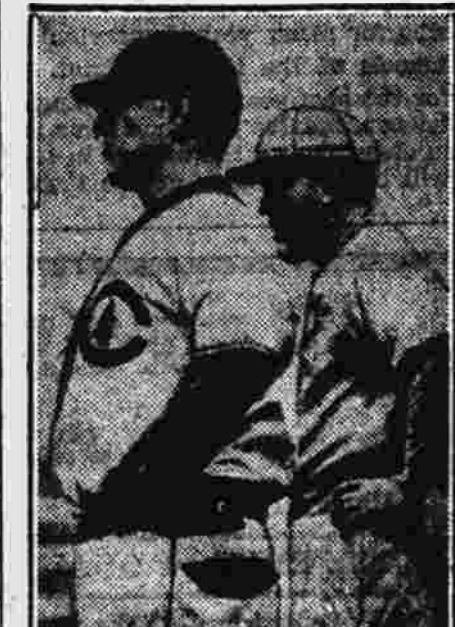

"The first thing I knew about the whole story—about my going to night clubs—was when somebody called me by phone and told me about it. I've got enough trouble taking care of myself right now without starting squabbles about what's going on."

"Hornsby is bitter about just one point in this latest controversy whirling about his head. "Bill Veech had no business calling me a 'washed up ball player,'" he said. "I gave him all the Cubs the best I had. I don't know how to play baseball any other way."

Outwardly he's the same Hornsby who lifted the Cards to their first National League pennant in 1926, drove them to a world series triumph over the Yankees, a hitter who averaged .460 three times in a major league career which began in 1915 when St. Louis bought him from Demmon, Texas, for $400.

POPULAR FAVORITE NOT PICKED BY EXPERTS AS KENTUCKY DERBY WINNER

SNUBBED!

Louisville, May 5.—(AP)—The thoroughbred horse flesh that parades to the post at Churchill Downs tomorrow afternoon in the 50th running of the Kentucky Derby possesses real equine beauty and color, an unusual racing courage and intensional class—in fact, all the essentials to the kind of "horse race" that sends the pulse soaring, plus the paradox of a public favorite not expected by many observers to finish inside the money.

The recent Cubs-Cardinals series was expected to produce some high-class satisfaction between Grimm and Hornsby, but the games offered no more than some high-class snubbing. The picture, taken after Hornsby had reached first base, shows Charley Grimm, one of those Hornsby's threatened to lick, ignoring the Rajah very haughtily.

Form Students Disregard Ladysman and Back Head Play in Tomorrow's Classic at Churchill Downs; Lineup Looks Fastest and Best in Years; Other Prospects.

Louisville, May 5.—(AP)—The thoroughbred horse flesh that parades to the post at Churchill Downs tomorrow afternoon in the 50th running of the Kentucky Derby possesses real equine beauty and color, an unusual racing courage and intensional class—in fact, all the essentials to the kind of "horse race" that sends the pulse soaring, plus the paradox of a public favorite not expected by many observers to finish inside the money.

In recent years at least, there have been no more perplexing situations or more heated horse racing arguments than those confronting thousands of turf followers, moving into the blue grass today from all parts of the country.

Experts Pick Head Play They Arrived by train and motor, by airplane and on foot, to find W. E. Cox's Ladysman, juvenile star of 1932 and winter book derby favorite clinging precariously to the position of "the horse to beat" at odds that shifted today from 3 to 1 to 8 to 1.

Despite the withdrawal of such earlier favorites as Repaid and Swivel, the derby lineup looks the fastest and best balanced brought together in several years, whether or not the winner jeopardizes the record of 3:01 4-5 made two years ago by Twenty Grand.

Especially well backed, at around six to 1, is Charley O, an hour less colt, winner of the Florida derby and owned by Mrs. R. M. Eastman of Chicago. The Illinois of Cole Edward Riley Bradley, master of the famous Idle Hour farm and triple winner of the derby, will be carried by Broker's Tip, ten to 1.

The eastern contingent has Kerry Patch, as well as Ladysman, but may have to place its main reliance in the stretch drive on Mr. Khayyam and Good Advice, or on the speedy Sarada.

Derby Paddock

Along with Good Advice, the Catawba Farm Stables have entered Mr. Khayyam in the 50th Kentucky Derby. This colt, in the lower class of candidates, may show real improvement this spring if his late fall form is any index.

Mr. Khayyam is a son of Omar Khayyam, the only imported horse ever to win the Derby. He is also the only son of a Derby winner entered in the classic. Last year Burgoo King, a son of Bubbling Over, won the race but brought his daddy fame, but he is one of the few sons of Derby winners to triumph.

As a two-year-old, Mr. Khayyam started in 10 races, won three, was twice second and once third. His earnings were $3400—a good sum considering that the Catawba Farms paid only $400 for him.

Mr. Khayyam made his first start at Belmont in June and also ran. He was laid off, returning in September. From September on he was a busy colt.

Though he won two races in September, his best race came in the later months. On October 14 he defeated 10 two-year-olds, among them Poppymann, Projectile and Jungle King. This race was at a mile and 70 yards and Mr. Khayyam, under hard urging, was a winner by a short head.

In November, Mr. Khayyam was third to Projectile and Caesar's Check. He trailed the leaders, but made a belated rush to be third in manner of running this race indicates that he may like the route.

Mr. Khayyam, through his sire, inherits the blood of the undefeated Saradina, while Paddock is a grandson of the great St. Simon.

FESTIVAL... By Laufer

(This is the second of a series of twelve articles in which Gene Sarazen, world golf champion, tells the average player how to out strokes of his score.)

Practice Short Game First, Advises Gene

The smartest thing the average club golfer can do in the spring, after he has played a dozen rounds or so, is to look back over his score-cards, note where he lost the most strokes to Old Man Par, and HOW he dropped them.

He probably will find that one or two particular types of shots hurt him more than any other. Maybe it was the short pitch to the green, maybe the spoon or long iron, perhaps the approach putt. Whatever it was, he should detect it and go out for some practice at the earliest opportunity or, better still, have the pro look over his faults again, for correction.

Even fifteen or twenty minutes of practice with a certain shot often will work wonders.

Most golfers, when they go out for practice or for lessons from the pro, make the mistake of starting off with the wood clubs. They like to give the ball a ride, naturally, but generally the club player needs better instruction about how to hit them off the tee than in anything else.

I venture to say 75 per cent of the average players hit pretty good tee shots. Oh yes, they slice 'em or hook 'em now and then, but any man with a handicap of 30 or better should get off the tee consistently well.

He loses most of his strokes around the greens. That's why I say to him: start practicing with your mashie niblick and work back through your clubs. You will find your groove quicker with a "short" club than with a driver.

If you have confidence in your pitcher, your No. 4 iron shots and your spoon shots, you will not have to do much worrying about your driving.

Win Or Lose Around Green I attach paramount importance to the short game, for I know that is where tournaments are won or lost. I spend hours practicing trap shots, with my wedge; then I devote a lot of time to chipping and putting. The average player, if he can concentrate on these features of the game in proportion to the time he has available, will find real improvement as his reward.

My short game savior was under better control than when I defeated Old Dutch in our special match in Florida this winter. Practice was the reason.

LEFTY GOMEZ GIVES UP TWO HITS; SI JOHNSON IS REACHED FOR SINGLE

Yanks Down Detroit, 5-2 and Reds Blank Braves, 5-0, as Result; Pirates Remain in Front in the National League; Other Results Yesterday.

By Associated Press A good many major league moundmen have seen the shadow of their perpetual goal—a no hit no run game—this season, but none has quite reached it.

Two more nearly made the grade yesterday when Elias Johnson of the Cincinnati Reds made a perfect game by the margin of one single in beating the Boston Braves 4-0 and Vernon Gomez, N. Y. Yankees, gave up only two hits in a 5-2 victory over Detroit.

The victory boosted the Reds up a couple of notches in the scrambled National League standing, which found four clubs locked in a virtual tie behind the pace setting Pirates and N. Y. Giants. The Reds went into a fifth place tie with the Brooklyn Dodgers who took a 2 to 1 ten inning contest at Pittsburgh's hands.

A few points ahead of Cincinnati and Brooklyn the St. Louis Cardinals gained a tie for third place with Boston by putting on a five run rally against John Berry in the fifth to defeat the Phillies 5-3. The Giants shattered a three game losing streak by winning both games of a double header from Chicago 2-1 and 5-4 as Red Fred Fitzsimmons pitched steadily in the opener and the Cubs blew the second game with four errors.

OLD PAPER TELLS OF GAME IN 1886

Manchester Beat Rockville; 7-6; Writer Speaks Harshly of Visiting Team.

An interesting account of a baseball game between Manchester and Rockville, which took place in July of 1886, is carried in an issue of the Manchester Herald of forty-seven years ago. Manchester won the game, 7 to 6, and the writer of the account mined no words in saying what he thought of "the bullies of the visiting team."

The local lineup consisted of Rafferty, third base; Dunn, short stop; Connor, pitcher; Healey, catcher; Moriarty, left field; O'Connor, center base; Moran, right base; Gill, center field, and Bowers, right field. In speaking of one player on the Rockville team, the writer said "He made himself odious from the start by his constant and totally uncalled for kicking. His protests were always most strenuous when the plays were not fully observed by his own precious self. x x x He is without doubt the worst and most irresponsible player that has been seen in town for many a day. He is only a fair ball player and it is a question whether the Rockvilles would not be better off with a several grade poorer player who could keep his tongue quiet."

Yesterday's Stars

Tony Fitz, Pirates—Drove in first run against Dodgers and singled and scored winning tally in tenth.

Mel Harder, Indians—Survived four-run rally in first to hold Washington to 9 hits and win first victory.

Sam Leslie and Blondy Ryan, Yankees—Their timely hits drove in winning runs in double victory over Cubs.

Vernon Gomez, Yankees—Held Tigers to two ninth-inning hits for 5-2 victory.

George Watkins, Cards—Led attack on Phillies with three hits in four times up.

Al Simmons, White Sox—Clouted triple in first inning, driving in one run and scoring another in 2-1 triumph over Athletics.

Si Johnson, Reds—Pitched one-hit game against Braves, facing only 27 batters; latter clouted homer and two singles.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

The Old Fight After the track meet between Southern California and Stanford, in which the Stanford lads upset the apple cart by trailing the Trojan banner in the dust, Coach Dean Cromwell of the Trojans delivered himself of the following verbal digression:

"I guess some of the boys didn't care much which way the meet went, and I'm sure I don't care if they didn't." Come, come, coach, is that the old fight now, I ask you? Here we have been laboring all these years under the delusion that the character-building experts at the colleges lashed their boys into a teeth-clenching frenzy—and that the suraged hammer-thrower went right out and slammed his lump of iron at the opponent's pole vault, etc. (for further particulars write to the Carnegie Foundation or, falling at that, try One-Eye Connolly).

Baseball's Example Why, look at the way the major league professionals, those scoundrels who accept money for their services (not as much as they used to, however), are flinging dust at one another at the slightest provocation!

And, guessing from the fact that 25,000 turned out in a big way, the day after the Washington-New York rumpus, I'm asking, does it pay? It was such a bad day that most of the fans wore snowshoes into the park, and fought madly for bleacher seats.

Carrying On And now that I'm on this subject, how about the old fight in other sports? Only the other day the sailboat editor was complaining that crowds weren't what they used to be. The answer: six-pound guns for the poop decks, and blow the men down! What a crowd they could get with that one!

The same goes for other boat races—I don't mean the kind they have on the horse tracks, but the sort the college boys have in the water. The answer: let the oarsmen try to split one another's scowms with the paddles. Why not? How about it? It was such a bad day that most of the fans wore snowshoes into the park, and fought madly for bleacher seats.

STAR JOCKEY DIES WHEN MOUNT FALLS

Buddy Hanford is Killed at Pimlico; Brought Home 146 Winners Last Year.

Baltimore, May 5.—(AP)—The American turf has lost one of its finest jockeys in the death of Bernard (Buddy) Hanford. The 21-year-old riding star, fatally injured at Pimlico yesterday when his mount, Apprehensive, stumbled and fell during the running of the sixth race, brought home 146 winners last year, a total exceeded only by Johnny Gilbert and Hank Mills. He has been riding about four years. He died in a Baltimore hospital of a multiple fracture at the base of skull soon after Apprehensive fell had tossed him under the charging hoofs of the field.

FUN A-FISHIN'

WALL-EYE LIKES TO TAKE CROWD TO LUNCH

By JIMMY DONAHUE NEA Service Sports Writer Sitcocked vitemum is just about the most accommodating cuss of the funny tribe. To some of us old "Stis" it is known as the wall-eyed pike, and to others as pike-salmon and even pickler.

He inhabits lakes and rivers, likes the going deep, and often is caught weighing more than 15 pounds. The wall-eye, named for large soft eyes, is a game fish. He will take underwater lures, and even can be fooled on flies at dusk. But minnows are his favorite food.

Unlike bass musky or pike, the wall-eye likes company. He goes on an eating excursion accompanied by his friends and all their progeny. When one is landed, there can be many more in the vicinity.

In spring and fall they can be caught close in-shore during the day, but in summer they go deep. During this season a good trolling rig comes in handy.

Look for these fish in deep pools at the edge of riffles and rapids in streams and rivers, and in deep water just off bars in lakes. Put a spinner or spoon on your line, bait it with a chub, weight the whole with a large survival sinker and troll slowly over the likely places.

The Connecticut state gathering of Y. M. C. Professor Eurt E. Farnsworth of the Y. M. C. A. College at Springfield led a four hour seminar on the Modern Trends of the Y. M. C. A. Movement. He reported that the Springfield Y. M. C. At the noon luncheon Dr. George Stewart of Stamford, formerly the Y. M. C. A. secretary of Yale university gave a challenging talk on "The Gospel of Jesus and Modern Psychology in Human Problems."

ROAD PROJECTS GO UP FOR BID

Macdonald Announces 23 Miles of Highway Surfacing and Sundry Jobs.

Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald today announced fifteen new highway projects to be contracted for by the State Highway Department for completion this summer. The total length of road to be improved by these jobs is about 23 1/4 miles, most of which will be done under the appropriation of the Town Aid Act of 1931. The new work includes nine projects in the latter class, one State Aid project and five assorted minor improvements on town highways.

The State Aid contract will call for the paving with trap rock waterbound macadam of approximately 1 1/2 miles of the Kimball Hill road in the town of Hampton. The same type of pavement will be used for town aid jobs on three sections of road in Windsor Locks and on four sections in Cromwell. The rest of the town aid projects call for rolled gravel surfacing.

Sealed bids on the fifteen proposals will be received from contractors at the Highway Department headquarters in the State Office Building, Hartford, until 1:00 p. m., eastern standard time, on Monday, May 15.

The list of projects, the longest yet to be advertised for bid this year, was announced by Commissioner Macdonald as follows:

Trunk Line Projects.

Town of Berlin: The installation of about 565 feet of 24-inch reinforced concrete pipe at the railroad under pass on Route 72.

Town of East Hartford: An extension to the Porter's Brook Bridge on Routes No. 2 and No. 15 about one-quarter mile north of the Glassbury town line.

Town of Groton: An extension to the Poquonock river bridge on U. S. Route No. 1.

Town of Newtown: About 632 feet of trap rock waterbound macadam at the intersection of Routes 34 and 87.

Town of Southington: Concrete pavement at the intersection of Route 10 and Clark street.

State Aid Projects.

Town of Hampton: About 8,218 feet of trap rock waterbound macadam on the Kimball Hill road.

Town of Canterbury: About 10,800 feet of rolled bank run gravel on Lisbon Road, Water street, Miller and Brooklyn roads.

Town of Cromwell: About 11,275 feet of trap rock waterbound macadam on Pasco Hill road, South and Franklin streets and Cemetery road.

PINEAPPLE-ALMOND CREAM—Into the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs fold the contents of a small can of shredded pineapple which has been chilled and drained. In another bowl beat about a quarter of a pint of thick cream and fold in a third of a cupful of crushed toasted almonds. Fold cream and pineapple mixture together and place on ice. Serve very small portions on slices of pineapple. Top with a dash of whipped cream and garnish with one of the little green sugarplums if desired. These little fruit garnishes may be purchased in bottles at any grocery stores, and are nothing more than bleached or white raisins lined with a harmless fruit coloring, giving a very pleasing appearance to the dish when used in this manner. They also come in red, yellow, etc.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
(Cleaning and Gaining Regimen)
Question: Miss Sarah J. writes: "I am taking cod liver oil to gain weight and, as the taste is so disagreeable, I take orange juice with it. Will the orange juice assist me in gaining weight? I am also troubled with blackheads, although I keep my face thoroughly clean. Would a raw fruit and vegetable diet overcome this latter condition without making me too thin, and should I continue my cod liver oil during this diet?"
Answer: It is not necessary for you to take cod liver oil if it is so disagreeable to you, for all the necessary vitamins are contained in green vegetables. A raw food or fruit diet will help you to overcome the intestinal poisoning which is causing you to have blackheads. Leave out of your diet all kinds of oily and fatty foods, except a small amount of butter. The orange juice will assist you in gaining weight, in that your blood will be so cleaned by the fast that you will derive more good from your food afterwards.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Philadelphia—Their first two children being boys, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Vogt of suburban Lansdowne hoped their next would be a girl. And how their hopes were realized!

Triplets, all girls!

Baltimore—When an auto struck a stray dog in front of his home yesterday Carroll Flanagan, 11, dashed out and picked it up.

The dog bit him.

Lawton, Okla.—Marvin Millspaugh wanted his suit cleaned, so he telephoned: "Can you come up to my house right away?"

"Certainly," was the reply.

In a jiffy an ambulance pulled up.

Wrong number, excuse it, please.

Farwell, Neb.—Just about the time the town board seriously considered abolishing his job as night watchman as economy measure, Marshall Martin Jadnock found five men prowling around in a store and drove them out of town, ahead of his gun fire.

P. S.—He keeps the job.

Oberlin, Ohio—Oberlin, where the Anti-Saloon League was formed in 1893 is going to have beer for the first time in its history. City Council legalized the beverage.

BILLY DOVE MARRIES.

Yuma, Ariz., May 5.—(AP)—Hollywoodian Billie Dove, screen actress and Robert Kenaston, Santa Monica, Calif., land owner, were secret today.

Miss Dove and Kenaston motored to this desert Greens, Green last night and were married by Judge Earl Freeman. Miss Dove's former husband, from whom she was divorced, is Irwin Willat, film director. Kenaston has not been married before.

SHE ATE ALL-BRAN TWELVE YEARS WITH FINE RESULTS

Delicious Cereal Relieves
Constipation

Read this very enthusiastic letter:

"Something like eleven or twelve years ago, I began eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. When I started, it was called simply Kellogg's Bran, and I believe it was one of the first products of the kind on the market."

"My friends often laugh at my fondness for ALL-BRAN. It gives such a clean taste in the mouth, and I do not feel satisfied until I have had my ALL-BRAN."

"If the Kellogg Company should ever stop manufacturing ALL-BRAN, here is one who would be greatly disappointed."—Miss Amy Person, University Park, Iowa.

Science says that ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regularity. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. How much safer than taking patent medicines—often harmful. Just eat two tablespoons daily for most types of constipation. For serious cases, try it three times daily. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

COX TO BE DELEGATE TO PARLEY IN LONDON

Ralph W. Morrison of Texas
Also to Be On Commission,
It Is Reported.

Washington, May 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's selection of delegates for the London world economic conference took more definite shape today with authoritative word that one member will be James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio and 1920 Democratic presidential nominee.

His name had figured in speculation previously, but this was the most definite assertion in quarters that should know, that a decision had been reached. Cox has declined to comment and White House announcement is awaited. It was also said that Ralph W.

Morrison of San Antonio, Texas, financier and ranchman who was a heavy contributor to the Roosevelt-Garner campaign, will be asked to become one of the American representatives.

A White House invitation to Representative John McDuffie of Alabama, chairman of the House Insular committee, to go to London was declined. McDuffie is understood to have said he found it necessary to remain in the United States during the next few months. Secretary Hull is expected to head the delegation, at least at the start. Others mentioned as likely to be members are Raymond Moley, assistant secretary of state; Chairman Pittman of the Senate foreign relations committee, and possibly Chairman Doughton and McReynolds, of the House ways and means and foreign affairs committees.

Most recipes call for about two cups of flour. Two cups of Pillsbury's Best cost about a cent more than two cups of cheap flour. But—if you use the cheap flour, at a "saving" of a third of a cent, you may get a baking failure which costs you as much as you would save on the whole bag. That's false economy. If you pay only one third cent more for Pillsbury's Best, you get freedom from costly flour failures, and you get inexpensive, delicious foods which your family will eat in preference to other more expensive things. That's true economy.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Remarkable Remarks— Little's son, like sunflowers, keep close to the shore—He who can bottle up a little sunshine for a rainy day is a corker—While our joys may not exceed our expectations, our expenses always do—Political birds know how to feather their nests the best—A man with a high aim in life seldom misses a gun—Most times the prodigal son and not the fattest calf should be killed—You can't keep gasoline down by stepping on it—Be a self-starter and don't make a break out of the boss—Drive your work instead of permitting it to drive—Look towards the light, and the shadows will all fall behind—An ounce of encouragement is worth a ton of scolding—It's hard to do a clean business in a dirty store—Every now and then you miss a man and learn he is married—The most indefinite number is "several fish"—If she won't talk she's a sick woman—The human mind should be like a good hotel—open the year round.

Hope is like the sun, which, as we journey towards it, casts the shadow of our burden behind us.

She—Speaking of germs in kisses, what do you think a girl could catch that way?
He—Oh, lots of them catch husbands.

Jenkins—My wife has the worst memory in the world.
Sampson—Forgets everything?
Jenkins—No; she remembers everything.

Man—Why are you lugging home that expensive box of candy?
Neighbor—Just playing safe—My wife kissed me this morning so I think it must be her birthday or our wedding anniversary.

A "smoker" according to the modern definition, is not a stag party, but a two-legged animal with a cigaret in "his" or "her" mouth.

Henry—My wife has been nursing a grouch all this week.
Frank—Been laid up, have you?

The rest of your days depend upon the rest of your nights.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

A cut in Minnesota license fees is expected to save motorists of that state more than $3,330,000 next year.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

By GADY'S PARKER

Judge—And why do you think I should be lenient with you? Is this your first offense?
Prisoner—No, your honor; but it's my lawyer's first case.

Boss—The last boy I had was worth twice as much as you.
Store Boy (timidly)—Please, sir, did he get it?

The following sign was noted by a friend of this column, in a hardware store at Reidsville, North Carolina: "God helps those who help themselves, but God help those who are caught helping themselves around here."

Patent—Doctor, do something for me quick! My temperature is 130.
Physician—Gracious, your case is beyond me. You'd better send for the fire department—I'm only a physician.

Jacob—You are looking down in the mouth.
Moses—Well, that's natural. I'm a dentist.

Deep down in her heart every woman knows that there are points of similarity between her husband and Andy Gump.

A collector was trying to get a slow account settled.

Collector (sharply)—Your bill should have been paid long ago. I must have the money at once.

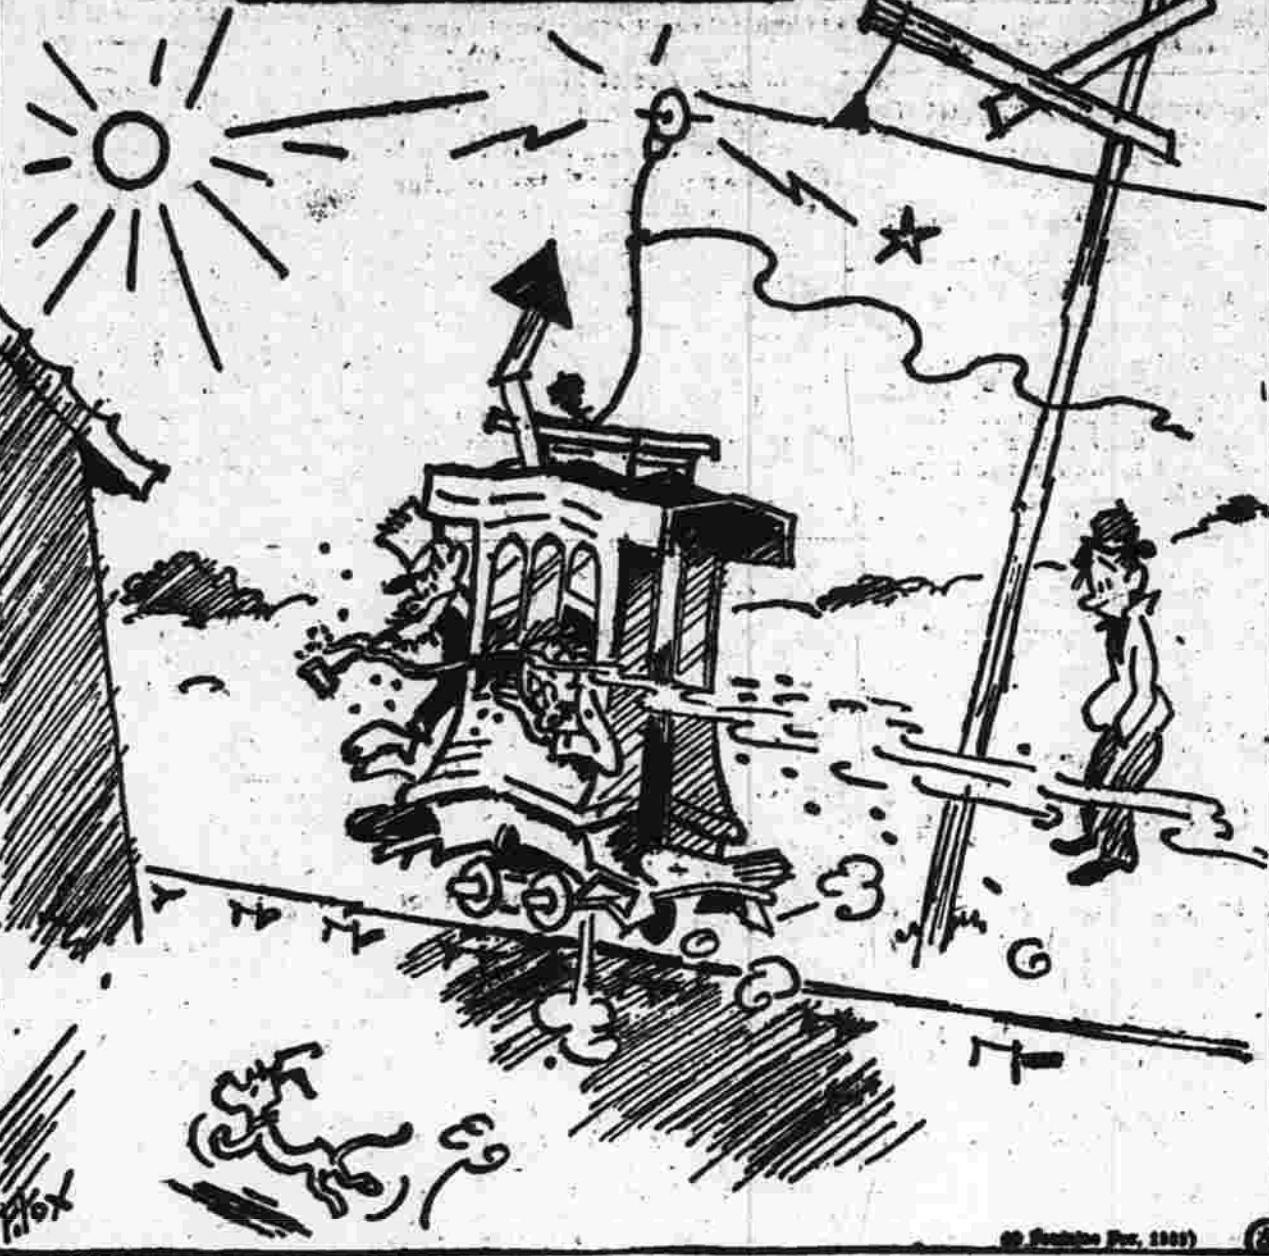

Debtor—How can I pay when I haven't any money? You can't get blood out of a turnip?
Collector—You're not a turnip—you're a beat.

There are two periods when the fishing is good—before you get there and after you leave.
