DEMOCRATS ATTACK BUDGET FOR STATE

State Senators Propose Cuts Amounting to Over Four Millions—Say No Provisions Are Made for Relief.

Hartford, May 25.—(AP)—The state budget appropriating $68,172,986 for the next biennium, already approved by the House, was passed by the Senate today after a long debate.

The vote on the measure, passed after the Senate had defeated two amendments, was 33 to 12.

Hartford, May 25.—(AP)—The state budget appropriating $68,172,986 for the next two years, was given a stormy reception today by the Democratic-controlled Senate and threatened to be held in session until late in the afternoon.

A series of amendments cutting the budget by about $4,400,000 was offered by Senator John C. Blaine and threatened to be held in session until late in the afternoon.

No Relief Plans

Blackall asserted that provisions had been made in the budget for financing any relief program that may be authorized by the Legislature. He criticized particularly the $28,424,935 granted the highway department for the biennium. His amendment proposed to cut more than $4,000,000 from this figure. Another amendment sought to cut $18,900 allotted each year for the maintenance of the state of Danbury.

The annual cuts proposed in the highway grant $1,000,000 for administration; $1,000,000 for general maintenance; $1,000,000 for landscape work; and $1,000,000 for reconstruction.

Blaine proposed a reduction of $1,000,000 for personal services and $1,000,000 for the state of Danbury.

Hickett, chairman of the budget committee, reported that the budget over his protest, charged that contrary to law no provision had been made for the teachers' retirement fund.

Senator Osborne of Redding, Republican, replied that teachers would get all that they were entitled to as soon as business conditions improved.

Cuts in the highway department appropriations were opposed by Senator John F. Lynch, West Haven Republican.

Democratic solidarity on the amendments and budget was threatened when Senator Joseph Cooney, Democrat, declared that as chairman Hickett had offered no amendments to the budget, it must have the approval of the governor.

Will Vote for Budget

"As a staunch supporter of the governor, who is the real and titular head of the Democratic Party," he said, "I will vote for the budget as presented, unless I am informed by Senator Hickett that I am wrong."

MOONEY ACQUITTED; STILL IN PRISON

Since There Was No Prosecution, Verdict Means Nothing Lawyers Declare.

San Francisco, May 25.—(AP)—Once convicted, once acquitted, Tom Mooney peeled potatoes in San Quentin prison today while his defenders sought to snatch advantage from a jury verdict labeled in advance by the court an empty victory.

Another plea for a pardon to Governor James Rolph, Jr., of California and an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States were proposed steps announced by the Mooney Molders Defense Committee.

"Perhaps we may even go higher than that—to the President himself," Mooney declared at San Quentin to which he was hurried immediately after the verdict of acquittal, as directed by the court, was returned here yesterday.

The life term convict, who almost 17 years ago heard himself condemned to death by another jury declared that he was glad to be acquitted, as directed by the court, was returned here yesterday.

"The verdict will bring me liberty in the not far distant future," his acquittal, without a line of testimony being offered, added another chapter to the long fight he has waged since the death sentence was commuted to life in prison—for complete exoneration by the 1918 San Francisco Proposition D bombing.

Cooney's State was

Frank P. Walsh, chief defense counsel, before his departure for New York last night said:

"At the direction of our client, Thomas J. Mooney, it is our purpose to apply to the Supreme Court of the United States for a writ of habeas corpus for the prisoner, on the ground that he is being deprived of his liberty without the process of law and that he is being held in custody."

DAVIS DISTURBED OVER JAPAN'S MOVE

Tokyo Proposes to Delete References to Former Treaties at Arms Parley.

Geneva, May 25.—(AP)—United States Ambassador Davis voiced regret at the disarmament conference today that Japan has proposed to delete any reference to the London and Washington naval treaties from the arms convention that is being negotiated.

The Japanese position the American said, might have a regrettable effect on public opinion.

Japan has opposed reference to the treaties on the theory that it would sanctify pacts which will be unacceptable to Japan when they expire.

France Urges Out

The smaller powers and Russia attacked the naval strength of the big powers as discriminatory, and France urged reduction in the size of battleships.

Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary started by airplane for London today but returned to Geneva from Dijon, saying he had been driven back by fog. Subsequently the British announced Sir John would be unable to see Premier Daladier in Paris as he had planned as it was necessary that he hurry on to London. He started for the British capital again at noon.

It was rumored this change in plans resulted from difficulties in bringing about approval of Premier Mussolini's four-power peace plan.

Foreign Minister Boncour is understood to have said the French policy will never stand for the great reduction asked.

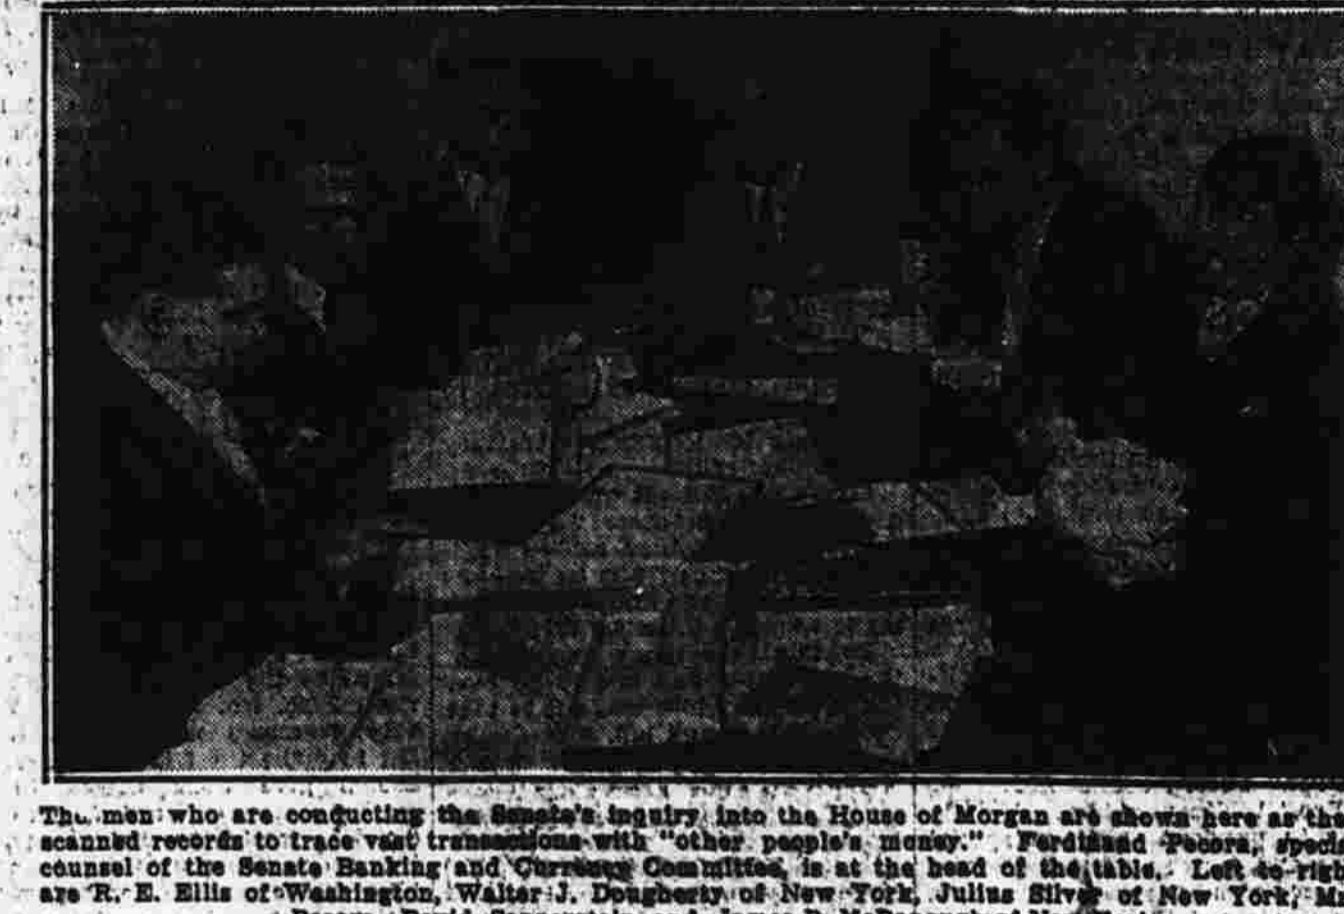

Al Capone Given Credit For Halting Prison Riot

Philadelphia, May 24.—(AP)—Al Capone, "Public Enemy No. 1" before he landed in Atlanta penitentiary today, is credited with halting a prison riot with a $100 bill.

Henry N. Woolman, president of the Board of Trustees of the Eastern Penitentiary, where Capone spent a year for carrying a pistol, related the story for the first time last night.

He said Warden Herbert Smith learned one day that about 100 convict-workers in the prison shops had stolen knives. That afternoon the prisoners gathered in the prison yard in witness boxes, protesting the theft of the knives over their heads.

Pecora and Aides Trace Morgan's Deals

ANTI-HITLERITE RIOT STAGED IN NEW YORK

Over a Score Injured as Police Battle Mob of 1,000 Awaiting German Official at Steamship Piers.

New York, May 25.—(AP)—Rioting broke out today at the North German Lloyd pier in Brooklyn in connection with the arrival in America of Hans Weidemann, representative of Adolf Hitler's German government at the forthcoming World Peace Conference in Chicago.

A crowd of 1,000 men and women anti-Hitlerites, many of them from the United States, gathered at the pier to greet Weidemann and his wife. The mob, which included many women, was armed with stones and bricks.

Police engaged in hand-to-hand combat with the rioters and a struggle arrested 23 men and women, the latter wearing red hats.

Locked in Germany

The rioters were locked up in a garage near the pier. Rioting broke out again with the implementation of the 15. With police standing guard in front of the garage, the crowd charged back.

Reservists were called and in a short time additional police forces arrived on foot on horseback and in automobiles. Order was restored only after police drew their guns and leveled them at the crowd.

Over Score Injured

During the melee more than a score were injured, including four policemen, one of whom suffered a fractured right arm.

Early today a delegation from the German consulate here went to the pier to welcome Weidemann and Gettohn Schneider, a German artist.

Shortly after the arrival at the pier the gathering of anti-Hitlerites began forming. Sensing trouble, the German officials engaged a private man and Schneider.

The departure of the Germans in the tug aroused the suspicions of the crowd and before the North German Lloyd liner docked the rioting started.

The Socialist Party of New York last night issued a statement declaring that the presence of Weidemann in this country "is an insult to the people of the United States."

"Any representative of this barbaric regime in this country should be and will be met with execration and loathing," said Julius Gember, secretary of the Socialist Party. "There can be no good will between Hitler's Germany and the working masses of this country and decent men and women in general."

BACK PRESIDENT, SCHWAB'S ADVICE

Chairman of Steel Corporation Expresses Optimism in Trend of Events.

New York, May 25.—(AP)—Charles F. Schwab, chairman of the American Iron and Steel Institute, today expressed optimism in the trend of events.

"I feel better about our situation today than I have for many months," he said. "The improvement which has come about in the past few weeks has given us all new hope."

Helpful Methods

"It is gratifying to see our administration in Washington proceeding along lines which should prove helpful toward international conditions," he said.

"On March 4," this nation was in a state of chaos. This was followed by a program of action more vigorous and more effective than any other we have witnessed in modern times. The President had the courage to take steps in the direction of relieving the burden of taxation on certain other domestic moves which were necessary to rehabilitate our economic structure. That restored

EDWARD J. THOMAS, PUBLISHER, DEAD

State Officials and Leading Citizens Pay Tribute to Head of Norwalk Hour.

Norwalk, May 25.—(AP)—State officials and leading citizens of Norwalk today paid tribute to Edward J. Thomas, publisher of the Norwalk Hour, who died last night at his summer home in Darien.

He was lauded as an outstanding figure in civic enterprises and guided the Norwalk Hour to a ranking position among the daily newspapers of Connecticut.

Mr. Thomas ended a busy life in his 64th year. He had been business manager, treasurer and publisher, successively, of the Hour since 1901. His previous newspaper experience had been with the Norwalk Evening Sentinel and the Danbury News. He was a member of the Associated Press and had served as vice-president of the Connecticut Daily Newspaper Association.

Funeral services, which will be held from his late home, 44 Birch Road, Darien, on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 P. M., will be held at the funeral home of Rev. Lloyd P. Worley, pastor of the Norwalk Methodist church. It will be officiated by the Rev. J. W. Connelley of the Darien church.

REMINGTON PLANT REMAINS IN STATE

Big Bridgeport Plant Recently Sold to Be Enlarged in Near Future.

Bridgeport, May 25.—(AP)—Norvell Saunders, president of the Remington Arms Company, said today that under new Du Pont control, the Bridgeport plant will be enlarged in the near future.

One hundred credit men here for a plant convention today reported collections in the state had increased 30 per cent since March 4.

Mayor Hayward of Buckingham, speaking from a conference of many towns with the Remington plant at Washington, Federal aid for credit, said the mayor reported improved business in their cities.

He added that Bridgeport is ahead of the average in "credit" recovery and that the Remington plant is a source of other business of the city, according to the mayor's report.

MANCHESTER BARRIERS

Washington, May 25.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for May 25 were $1,222,207.99, expenditures $1,200,778.00, balance $21,429,929.99.

House Investigates Laws On Income Tax

Washington, May 25.—(AP)—As investigation was ordered by the House ways and means committee today into the capital gains and loss provisions of the income tax laws with the expressed view to correcting in the public works and industrial control bill the conditions which permitted J. P. Morgan and Company to avoid payment of income taxes in the last two years.

The decision to place an amendment into the tax provisions of the vast administration bill was reached shortly before the House met to begin debate on the measure.

Chairman Doughton appointed a subcommittee consisting of Representative Ragon (D., Ark.), Vinson (D., Ky.) and Treadway (R., Mass.) to conduct the investigation and to draft an amendment for insertion into the bill in the House tomorrow.

Ragon said "immediate steps will be taken to prevent the recurrence of such conditions which permitted the Morgan partners to avoid the payment of income taxes."

CONNER IS FOUND; BYSTANDERS SHOT

West Point Cadet Discovered Wandering Along Road Near Military Academy. Two Men Injured, One Seriously as Machine Guns Roar in a Running Battle.

West Point, N. Y., May 25.—(AP)—John S. Conner of Medford, Ore., honor cadet who disappeared Sunday night was in the reserve hospital today recovering from exposure, lack of food and loss of sleep.

He was found wandering along a road in a far corner of the reservation late yesterday, so worn from his days and nights in the woods that authorities forbore to question him until he had rested and been given medical care.

Sergeant Roberts, a regular Army soldier stationed at the reservation, saw Conner walking along the road, haggard and unkempt and wearing a military tunic and sweater pulled on over his pajamas.

"Are you the missing cadet?" the sergeant called to him, but Conner made no answer.

Radio Fortine, who is 45, was walking in Broadway near 51st when a sing struck her in the back. At Knickerbocker hospital doctors found her condition to be critical.

300 ARE PRESENT AS CHAMBER MEETS

President Trumbull Talks of Protective Activities as Duties of the C. of C.

Hartford, May 25.—(AP)—"Protective" as well as "promotional" activities are an important duty of a Chamber of Commerce, President Henry Trumbull of Plainville told the annual meeting of the State Chamber at the Hotel Bond this afternoon.

"This consists of keeping inter-relationship running smoothly thus avoiding possible irritating situations which, unless guarded against, are apt to arise and cause damage of a nature which is difficult to eliminate and sometimes may even be irreparable. It encourages loyalty to community, state and nation. It advances patriotic fervor which in turn contributes greatly to the building of a sound morale and which aids materially in making a state such as ours the good place that it is, in which to live and work, as well as enjoy leisure."

More than three hundred members of the State Chamber attended the meeting.

How the Star Arcturus Will Open World's Fair

Chicago, May 25.—(AP)—News writing folk who for months have been peering pieces about how light from the star Arcturus is going to "push the button" to open the Century of Progress next Saturday, last night got something of an idea as to just how that little beam is going to do its job.

It was at a demonstration of electrical machinery in the University Hall, where W. A. Chubb of a research laboratory made electrons do all manner of visual and total exposures. They even played a photograph record, undulations of the star's beam, during the night and minutes of current and light from the star to the planet Earth.

But about Arcturus.

The demonstration was largely concerned with the photo electric tube.

It was the hooking up of the photo tube with Hydratron, which magnify the impulses, millions of times, that gave the news folk their best idea, thus far, of how Arcturus' beam will be made powerful enough to set in motion the whole of the fair.

An extensive series of steps involving these Hydratron tubes, which have been 40 years in the making, are being completed at the University of Chicago.

ROBINSON ATTACKS WOODIN IN SENATE

Declares that His usefulness is Ended Since Name is Linked with Morgan's.

Washington, May 25.—(AP)—Senator Robinson (R., Ind.), said in the Senate today that the "usefulness" of William H. Woodin as Secretary of the Treasury has ended "as a result of testimony linking his name with stock offerings of the J. P. Morgan banking house."

It was the first reference to the Morgan investigation on the Senate floor and was precipitated by Senator Long (D., La.), after Robinson had concluded an arrangement of Davis for his speech at Geneva, saying America would consult with Europe when peace was threatened.

"I don't believe the Senator has been reading the newspapers. Davis might be there for the House of Morgan and it might be there for England as well."

Robinson then referred to the testimony before the Senate banking committee that Davis was one of those who borrowed from J. P. Morgan and Company and was all so on a list of "favored" customers permitted to buy stock at cost and below market prices.

"Sincerely, in the midst of these war conditions, I believe that it is a disgrace for the name of Woodin to be linked with the name of Morgan over their heads."

REMNANTS OF THE MORGAN INVESTIGATION

Washington, May 25.—(AP)—The late former President Calvin Coolidge was shown today in evidence unearthed by the Senate committee investigating J. P. Morgan and Company to have been a privileged purchaser of 3,000 shares of "Standard Brands" stock through the huge banking firm in the middle of 1929.

Other names on the list of those favored by Morgan in the instance, as introduced while George Whitney—a partner of the firm—testified, included William H. Woodin, now secretary of the Treasury, 1,000; Norman H. Davis, the Roosevelt ambassador-at-large now in Europe, 500 shares; John W. Davis, former Democratic presidential nominee and counsel for Morgan, 3,000 shares; and various of the Morgan partners.

Woodin was also in the list published yesterday of all the purchases of Standard Brands stock since January 1, 1929. The Morgan firm has sold more than six billion dollars in securities to the public.

Other testimony showed that since January 1, 1929, the Morgan firm has sold more than six billion dollars in securities to the public.

MORE PROMINENT NAMES ON MORGAN CO.'S LISTS

$3,500 on three investments he had made through the Morgan firm.

In a prepared statement, he said: "When the United States entered the World War in 1917, I selected Samuel C. Luffingwell of New York to be counsel for the Liberty Bond issues."

"He was a member of a prominent law firm in New York, versed in these particular matters."

"I had known him as a young man in his family and mine having lived across the street from each other at Yonkers, New York."

"Subsequently, because of Mr. Luffingwell's ability, I made him an assistant secretary of the Treasury, a place he filled with great ability and distinction."

"When I left the Treasury in 1918, Mr. Luffingwell remained with my successor, Mr. Carter Glass, and also with Mr. Charles G. Ladd, successor, Mr. David F. Houston."

"After leaving the Treasury, he became a partner of the firm of J. P. Morgan and Company."

"Ten years after I resigned as secretary of the Treasury, and four years before I became a member of the United States Senate from California, Mr. Luffingwell offered me the opportunity of making three investments through his firm, J. P. Morgan and Company:

"(1) February, 1929, 500 shares of the stock of the Allegheny Corporation, which I paid for in cash and which I sold at a net profit of $4,000."

"(2) January, 1929, 250 shares of common and 250 shares of preferred stock of the United Corporation, which was sold at a loss of approximately $400."

"(3) September, 1929, 1,000 shares of Standard Brands, which was sold at a loss of $7,000."

"The net loss on these three transactions was $3,500."

"I have never been a 'preferred client' of J. P. Morgan and Company."

"The participations to which I have referred came to me solely through my friendship with Mr. Luffingwell. Prior to this time I have never had a transaction with the firm of J. P. Morgan and Company, nor have I had any transaction with that firm since."

"I have never borrowed from J. P. Morgan and Company and, therefore, have never owed them anything."

"When he concluded, Pecora questioned Whitney about the sale of the Allegheny stock to a special list, including McAldoo and Woodin."

"There was so much noise in the hall that Chairman Fishburne shouted: 'Keep quiet, or get out! All these questions make it sound like a railroad train going through the hall.'"

Pecora asked Whitney whether Morgan and Company had any list of "the names of close friends who were given an opportunity to subscribe to various issues."

"No, sir," Whitney said. "Clear Up Subject."

"He then asked permission to 'clear up some things I said yesterday.'"

"He said that the trading in Allegheny Corporation stock before February 1, 1929, was a 'when issued basis.'"

"The stock was selling around 35, I think," Whitney said, "but it wasn't listed till February 15."

Pecora asked if any restrictions were placed by Morgan and Company on the Allegheny stock sold to its favored clients."

"There were no strings," Whitney said.

"Then these purchasers, could have taken advantage of that market to make a substantial profit?" Pecora asked.

"They could have on that market," Whitney said. "But in the great majority of cases the offer was made and accepted before any market existed at all."

"But it was much more tempting in the letters to Secretary Woodin, Counsel."

Sharp Tilt Ensnared Then ensued a sharp tilt between John W. Davis, Morgan counsel, and Pecora on correspondence relating to the Allegheny stock.

Davis said he thought the examiners in the "three months they went through these files, got what they wanted."

Pecora said he had asked the Morgan firm to produce letters which his examiners had been unable to get.

"The firm of Morgan and Company denied permission to re-examine the files, which were denied to this privilege," the counsel asserted.

"What is wanted?" Senator Byrnes (D. S. C.) asked.

"All letters relating to offers of participation in the Allegheny Corporation, the General Motors issue, Standard Brands and John-Manville," Pecora said. "The Allegheny list has been made public but the others have not gone into the records."

Davis disputed Pecora's interpretation of the examination of the Morgan files vigorously.

"We will furnish what is wanted, if we are told what it is," he said.

Files Too Bulky "The files are too bulky?" asked Byrnes (D. S. C.).

"Exactly," Davis said. "The investigators of Mr. Pecora had all the correspondence files relating to this subject they will be produced. But I feel the request ought to come from the chairman of the committee."

"I think Pecora should submit a list of the correspondence wanted," Byrnes said.

Pecora charged that because of the time limitation imposed on his investigators by J. P. Morgan and Company "they were unable to make the kind of investigation the examiners wanted to make."

The committee counsel caused a protest by John W. Davis when he said "sometimes days elapsed before we would get a photostatic copy of correspondence desired, though the photostatic machine was right in the office."

"That calls for a reply from me," said the Morgan counsel, adding that the firm had supplied complete answers to a list of 23 questions submitted by Pecora.

"When his investigators came into the office," Whitney broke in, "they were furnished with a commodious room for work. Our staff was occupied at night satisfying additional requests made every day by Mr. Pecora."

"It is not fair to say that we have not worked with his investigators up until midnight and then work the rest of the night fulfilling his other requests."

"I am glad to say that his complaint about the photostats had no real foundation. In my humble judgment, the cooperation with the examiners could not possibly have been exceeded."

"The committee allowed to buy 14,000 shares of the Allegheny stock at $20, and testified today he had made a profit of $146,250 when he sold the same."

He is a brother of Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange.

Questioned by Senator Barkley, Whitney explained his participation in the Allegheny issue. He said he acquired 14,000 shares at a cost of $282,500.

"I sold about 6,000 shares in July '29," he said, "and 7,000 in September."

"This profited me about $229,000 the average price was about 48."

"In 1930 I sold about 4,000 shares and later 3,000 more, and I still hold about 115 shares. My gross profit was $146,250."

Then Whitney denounced the Morgan company relations with the Allegheny Corporation.

"He said the Van Sweringen, railroad operators, were trying to consolidate eastern roads."

Was Wise Move "They first formed the Chesapeake Corporation," he said, "and acquired the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. The wisdom of this has been shown by the fact that the Chesapeake and Ohio is still one of the roads that is paying dividends."

"We believed the consolidation in public interest. We had been bankers for the Van Sweringens for many years. We had no interest in any of the stocks they acquired in railroads, with one minor exception."

"I wouldn't want to say we tried to make them unfriendly," Whitney said. "Perhaps my first answer was too strong. We wanted to get a copious relationship. That list shows that they were just personal friends. Whether it made them more friendly or less friendly—I hope they all make a profit."

Pecora asked who suggested Raebok for the list.

"I think I did," Whitney said. "Did you write to him about participating?" Pecora asked.

"My recollection is that I telephoned."

"Did you receive an acceptance?" "I did," Whitney said.

Pecora then read what was identified as a copy of Raebok's letter to Whitney. It was dated February 4, 1929 at Palm Beach, Fla. and began:

"Dear George"

"The letter expressed 'many thanks' to Whitney for his 'troubled' in 'kindly remembering me.' It said a check for $40,000 was enclosed and that Raebok accepted 'the many opportunities offered to me by you and your partners.'"

Pecora went down the list naming C. N. Bliss as a 'former treasurer of the Republican National campaign committee' and Chas. D. Hillis of New York as a 'former chairman of the Republican committee.'"

"Whose friend was Hillis?" "All the older partners," the witness answered, "particularly Dwight Morrow."

"Yes," Charles Francis Adams on this list," Pecora commented.

"Yes," Whitney nodded.

As in previous sessions special police and secret service men were scattered about the committee room.

One plain-clothes man was assigned to guard Pecora and his files while another was attached to Morgan.

Lindbergh Mentioned Byrnes (D. S. C.) asked about Charles A. Lindbergh's participation in stock purchases.

Whitney said he was introduced by Dwight W. Morrow, later his father-in-law. "We have advised him on his affairs since," Whitney said.

One of the next names Pecora asked about was Michael G. Herbert. "I didn't know it," Whitney said.

After identifying Elias Strawn as a former head of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Pecora asked Whitney if he knew the chamber recently had opposed the securities regulation bill.

"I didn't know it," Whitney said.

In the testimony as to issuance of securities by the Morgan firm, Whitney declared that of the issues now in default, namely bonds of the Florida East Coast Railway, and of the Missouri Pacific, were ourselves purchased and still hold bonds of those issues or of issues junior to them on which our aggregate losses, based upon the difference between our purchase price and the present market value, are greatly in excess of the profit that we made from these offerings."

"In the case of securities of railroad operating companies and public utility companies, the price paid is a matter of public record."

"In the case of the foreign issues offered by us since January 1, 1929, the price paid to the obligor was made public by us in the testimony given to the Senate Finance Committee in December, 1931."

In the case of all issues during the five year period from January 1, 1927, to January 1, 1932, the spread between the price paid to the obligor and the price paid to the public has been given in the detailed record which we have furnished the committee."

"We are not opposed to, but are heartily in favor of publicity and disclosure of the great profit or commission paid in respect to all securities offered to the public as proposed by the legislation which you are now considering."

"As to the group of bonds which, namely railroad and railroad holding companies, it may be pertinent to point out that in the case of the railroad issues every issue of bonds of a railroad operating company was authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission as being in the interest of the public and a minimum price fixed at which these bonds were to be sold."

"In the case of the railroad holding company issues, which were all collateral trust issues secured by stocks or bonds or obligations of railroad operating companies, the matters relating to the bonds at the time of the issue and the financial strength of the company making the issue seemed to afford more than ample security."

After Pecora introduced a list of favored purchasers of Standard Brands, Inc., he said that in formation of the organization, Morgan and Company deposited 480,000 shares of common and 18,000 shares of preferred stock in a trust fund after July 27, 1929, was authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission as being in the interest of the public and a minimum price fixed at which these bonds were to be sold."

S. M. E. DOES HONOR TO REV. COLPITTS

At Quarterly Conference Adopts Resolutions; Asks Harris Appointment.

Rev. G. G. Scribner, superintendent of the Norwich District, presided at the Fourth Quarterly Conference last night at the South Methodist church. This is virtually the most important business meeting of the year, when reports of the churches and church organizations are submitted and officers elected for the coming year.

LAST S. M. E. MUSICAL ON SUNDAY EVENING

"Canticle of the Sun" to Be Repeated, With New Composition by Organist Byles.

On Sunday evening next at 7:30 o'clock, the concluding musical service of the season will be given at the South Methodist church. The work to be presented at that time will be the composition by Mrs. H. A. Beach, "The Canticle of the Sun."

It has many distinctive features that set it out as a remarkable musical composition and is considered as being the best of the many compositions by this well known composer. The solo parts will be taken by Miss Eleanor Willard, soprano; Watson Woodford, tenor, and Robert Gordon, baritone.

The organ offerings by Mr. Byles are "The Canticle of the Sun" by John Drinkwater, this coming by Mr. Byles in solo by soprano and is a most pleasing number.

CALL TOMAN ACE OF M. H. S. HISTORY

Salutatorian of '33 Regarded as Genius of the School by Instructors.

Although he failed to gain the valedictorian honor at Manchester High School, James Toman is regarded by many authoritative persons as the most outstanding student who has ever matriculated at local school.

James Toman

if not actually a genius, is the nearest approach to genius to which it is possible to attain.

"Extraordinary mental superiority" is one of the definitions of "genius" to be found in the dictionary and judging by Toman's record of achievement during his four years at Manchester High he is gifted with that quality.

On the strength of his record, Toman has been tendered and accepted a one year scholarship at Clark University in Worcester, Mass. Austin Johnson of this town was awarded the scholarship last year and has compiled a fine record in his first term as a freshman at Clark.

Handicapped by ill health, Toman has shown remarkable courage and determination in earning his highest honors at the school. He has not confined himself entirely to studies; had he done so it is possible "at he would have eclipsed all scholastic attainments recorded at Manchester High.

His brilliance has been coupled with versatility and he has been active in the glee club, dramatic club, debating club, track team and school paper, "Somania," being editor-in-chief of the latter during the current year as a senior.

Picked the Tough Ones The subjects which he has taken are among the hardest offered to students and include four years of English, three years of Latin, two years of French, two years of algebra, one year of plane geometry and ancient history, a half year of trigonometry and economics and one year of chemistry, physics and free hand drawing.

His literary ability has brought him honors also. In 1929, Toman received the first state award in a safety essay contest sponsored by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. In 1931 he won the first state poetry prize in the National High School awards and last year earned third National award in a Safety Essay contest and first state prize in the Gorges Memorial Institute Essay Contest.

Passenger traffic on America's scheduled air transport lines increased 17 per cent during the opening months of 1933 compared with the figures for the same period of 1932.

Banking Probe Turns Attention to Pecora

The first public story of the operations of J. P. Morgan and Company in Washington, promises to focus attention anew on Ferdinand Pecora.

This 31-year-old son of an Italian immigrant is chief counsel for the Senate banking committee in its inquiry into the marketing of securities. J. P. Morgan was called as a witness.

A long investigation of the Morgan banking house, directed by Pecora, has laid the foundation of the proceedings. Such investigations have been the attorney's forte for years, especially if they involved financial puzzles.

Some of the bankers, brokers and industrialists who have faced Pecora have been amazed at his intimate knowledge of their affairs. Since his work with the banking committee began in the last session of Congress his witnesses have included such men as Charles G. Dawes, former vice president, and Owen D. Young.

He has a galling system of shooting questions until the key shot rings home and witnesses suddenly realize that he has his sights trained on a definite objective all the time.

There was, for example, Charles E. Mitchell, now on trial in New York on charges of evading income taxes. He was chairman of the National City Bank when he faced Pecora. He resigned after he brought out that the bank had loaned money to some of its directors without collateral, in 1929 and 1930.

"The bigger the target the easier it is to hit," is one of Pecora's sayings. "He is hard, but fair," was the tribute paid him by one of the financiers who went through the questioning process.

will be added attraction to this great show. DOUGLAS GORDON IS POSTER PRIZE WINNER

13 Year Old Hannaway Street Lad Awarded Poppy Sale Art Honors.

Mrs. L. M. Woodhouse, president of the American Legion Auxiliary, visited Hannaway school this forenoon and presented the Auxiliary's prize of $2.50 to Douglas Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Gordon of Hannaway street. In the opinion of the judges, the poppy poster submitted by Douglas, who is thirteen years old, was the best of the 15 or more entries by eighth grade children, previous to the recent successful poppy sale.

Douglas drew and painted his original poster a school hours under the supervision of Mrs. L. M. Woodhouse. It is a single large red poppy with leaves and stem, in colors. The left foreground is a small picture of Uncle Sam and a cripple American soldier looking over the cemetery and meditating on the doughboys who had made the supreme sacrifice. Above is lettered, "Buy a Veteran Made Poppy."

The poster is on display in the window of the Corner Soda Shop in the State Theater building.

BIG JEWEL ROBBERY. Darien, Conn., May 25.—(AP)—The home of Mrs. Thomas A. Trowbridge, wealthy resident of Long Neck Point, Noroton, was robbed of a quantity of jewelry last Tuesday night. The loss police said may run as high as $40,000. The robbery occurred at 10 last Tuesday night in Mrs. Trowbridge's bedroom while Mrs. Trowbridge was in the drawingroom downstairs and nine servants were in the home. Police believe that a professional gang from New York committed the robbery.

HEAT RESISTING FABRIC GREAT TIRE DISCOVERY

What is said to be the greatest development in the manufacture of automobile tires since the advent of the black tread, has been announced by The E. F. Goodrich Company. That is the "Life-Saver Golden Ply," a heat-resisting rubberized cord fabric beneath the tread of Goodrich Silvertown tires to prevent the heat of friction from affecting the body rubber and causing blow-outs.

"Goodrich, whose research engineers developed the black tread in 1915 and at the same time increased the wearing qualities of the tire by the addition of carbon black, have overcome one of the worst hazards of modern motoring," says Van Wagner of Van's Service Station, Goodrich tire dealer here.

"This new golden rubber is compounded to combat heat caused by internal friction of the tire." The new "Golden Ply" is used in all Goodrich Silvertown tires and is available without added cost to the consumer, Van Wagner of Van's Service Station said.

"Just how this new principle is applied can be seen in a cross-section of the new Safety Silvertown now displayed in our station at 428 Hartford Road," Van Wagner said.

UNEMPLOYED PLAN TO FULLY ORGANIZE The Manchester Unemployed Association, which was temporarily organized recently, is to perfect organization tomorrow. Thomas Flavel of Hamlin street, who was elected temporary president of the organization, has obtained for the meeting the use of the vacant store in the south end of the Johnson block. The meeting is called for 8 p. m., d. s. t.

The association has been trying to locate a new shelter since the room in the Lauffer building was taken for business purposes and that effort is still under way. John Loneragan of Hartford, a member of the State Central Labor Union, is to speak at tomorrow night's meeting. Officers and an executive board are to be named.

DOGS.

The unhappiness of the Manchester man whose dog was shot by a neighbor who discovered the animal grubbing up plants that were part of his stock in trade is not a proper subject for derision. A man who would not was wroth at the wounding of his dog would not, if you leave it to us, be much of a man; or else he would be of the sort who have uncommon control of their tempers. So it does not necessarily indicate that the dog owner was a bad neighbor or a poor kind of citizen when he complained to the police and had the other man arrested. He was just naturally and understandingly mad.

At the very same time and by the same token, neither does it follow that the man who shot the dog was a churl, a grouchy fellow or in the least cruel. He had reason to be exasperated. Likely enough he was almost as fond of his flowers as the other man was of his dog, and they were bread and butter besides. He had suffered grievously from the depredations of dogs among them. And from his situation, there was very little relief.

True, there is quite a good deal of law bearing on such cases. The Connecticut statutes forbid dog owners to allow their animals to run upon other people's property; they provide that if a dog makes a nuisance of himself by excessive barking "or other disturbance" the chief of police or dog warden may make such order concerning the restraint or disposal of such dog as may be deemed necessary—and if the owner fails to obey the order he may be fined or even jailed. But such laws are a little inadequate when the dogs are strays or the injured person doesn't know who owns them—and they involve considerable fuss. So that when the nurseryman in the present instance had stood this dog business about as long as he could, he did the natural thing and took a pop at the dog.

And there is quite a good deal of law in support of his right to do so; some of it in the statutes and some of it common law. It is undeniably too bad that dogs, so intelligent in many ways, cannot always be made to understand the law of other people's rights—and other people's animals' rights; and the rights of property. If they could they would probably be more obedient to the law, as a rule, than human beings; because it is to be suspected that, on the whole, a dog is a more reasonable if not a more reasoning entity than a man. But many a dog simply can't get it through his head that there is anything that isn't quite delightfully O. K. about digging up a garden or killing a cat or mangling a littler dog—and so he does these things in blind obedience to his nature. If he is allowed to go at large.

It is all very sad. But dogs are dogs and men are men and rights are rights, and if the dogs are allowed to violate the rights of men they, poor saps, take their licks in their own paws, so to speak—and they are always liable to come to an untimely end.

Which leads to this conclusion: That the owner of a dog is well advised to keep him at home or on a leash; and reckless of his dog's life when he lets him go at large. If he's the kind of a dog that is too big or too active of temperament to be kept confined, then the wrong is in keeping him in a town or city at all. If he is a killer dog, the wrong is in keeping him anywhere, town or country. And the consequences of any mishap, any sudden flash to the animal, is upon dog and its owner alike.

WAB DEBTS. Owen D. Young's proposed amendments about America's responsibility...

most of glass-speaking that we ought to have had a long time ago. We insisted that the debts be repaid, by any means, and the only practical way in which our debtors could pay us was by sending us their goods. We had to send us their goods; and they sent it, Mr. Young declares, until "we ruined the currency and banking systems of the world, including our own."

Now, having done all of this, we are prepared to go into hysterics on a moment's notice at the mere suggestion that the London conference may result in a scaling down, a partial or total cancellation, of some of the sums owed us. Ready to face the realities in every other field, we have persisted in being blind where the war debts are concerned—blind and, one might add, not a little dumb. We have tried to put them in a vacuum, where they could be considered by themselves in all their pristine beauty; and because of this we have got farther and farther away from contact with the hard facts of the situation.

Is it just to put it that way? Is that a viewpoint which an intelligent American can conscientiously hold? In Mr. Young's summing up, many people, probably, will think not. Nevertheless, it is worth considering.

Look back for a moment at the way in which we have treated the war debts. We have tried to insist that they bore no connection whatever to any other phase of post-war politics or economics. We have maintained stoutly that they had no relation with reparations—although any infant might know that our former allies would not pay us if Germany did not pay them. We have sworn that they had no relation with tariffs—though so reputable economist would for a moment admit that point. We used foreign loans to expand our export trade in spite of the fact that they just increased the difficulties our debtors must meet in paying us. It looks, in short, very much as though we have persistently deluded ourselves about the debts ever since the war. Perhaps it is about time that we listened to people like Mr. Young.

TOWN MEETING.

When Manchester voters go into town meeting tonight to act on the proposed issue of $300,000 in bonds for the purpose of funding a deficit resulting from extraordinary relief expenditures and a shortage in tax receipts it is to be expected that they will be confronted with arguments on as well as pro.

Nor is it to be concluded off-hand that all the urgings against approval of the bond issue will be the result of either ignorance, maliciousness or snap-judgment. The question is reasonably debatable.

The prime argument always available to opponents of long-time borrowing is that it is mighty expensive business. A bond issue invariably involves the subsequent expenditure of a great deal of money for which the community receives no concrete thing in return. The interest.

There is room for debate, too, as to the correctness of the idea that an eighteen mill tax was justifiable on the ground that many taxpayers would have been found unable to meet the twenty-four mill tax necessary if bonds were to be eliminated. Possibly it may be argued in opposition to that theory that a good many unable to pay a twenty-four mill tax would also be unable to pay one of eighteen mills, and that a large majority of those who could pay eighteen could pay twenty-four. As to the validity of that position we are not expressing an opinion—but it is a fair one for consideration.

It is to be hoped that the whole question will be discussed in a spirit of tolerance. The presumption is that everybody who attends that meeting will be there because he is anxious to have the town get out of its present financial muddle as speedily as effectually and as cheaply as possible. There is no evidence of any axes to grind—merely of differences of opinion. Which make horse races and also town meetings.

"VINDICATION." It is rather astonishing to read a Washington dispatch emanating from as responsible a news agency as there is in the country and which announced that "nine days of trial before the Senate brought complete vindication to Federal Judge Harold Lunderback, when the same dispatch tells us a few paragraphs later that on a count summarizing all the allegations against the judge and charging him with conduct "prejudicial to the dignity of the judiciary" and with causing "fear and distrust of the courts," forty-five senators out of seventy-nine declared him guilty.

and guilty as charged. Only the provisions that a conviction on impeachment charges, to be effective, must receive a two-thirds vote, saved his scalp. Lunderback's "vindication" is of exactly the same nature as that which a person accused of murder gets when the jury is hung by a single partisan juror though eleven of the panel vote for conviction.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHES

Washington, May 25.—The six hour work day, which will be at least a partial fixture in industry, can be made to work successfully. It has been argued—chiefly by employers—that such a working schedule would be onerous and expensive for employers and employees alike. But the first official study of the operation of the six-hour day in a large industrial plant brings encouragement to those who take an opposite view.

Both the management and the employees of the Kellogg Company at Battle Creek, Mich.—the plant surveyed—reported advantages and preference for the change from three eight-hour shifts to four six-hour shifts after more than two years of the operation. The study was made by the Department of Labor through its Women's Bureau and the workers interviewed were women, although no reason appears why similar results would not have been obtained from a group of men.

The first important result was an increase of 38 per cent in the number employed. The hourly wage rate was simultaneously increased by 13 1/2 per cent for women while men were guaranteed a 54 a day minimum. Production bonuses were continued and within a year the company had made a second 13 1/2 per cent increase in the hourly wage rate—a total increase of 26 per cent.

Advantages Cited. The management was able to raise foreign loans to expand our export trade in spite of the fact that they just increased the difficulties our debtors must meet in paying us. It looks, in short, very much as though we have persistently deluded ourselves about the debts ever since the war. Perhaps it is about time that we listened to people like Mr. Young.

Elimination of meal periods, with their waste and the expense of a large kitchen. The elimination of overtime pay, since the factory produces more goods per dollar of overhead than under the eight-hour shift.

Increased return from capital invested in plant and machinery, due to increased rate of plant operation.

Elimination of meal periods, with their waste and the expense of a large kitchen. The elimination of overtime pay, since the factory produces more goods per dollar of overhead than under the eight-hour shift.

Most Workers Pleased. Besides the 38 per cent increase in employment, the following advantages of the six-hour shift for workers are recorded, based on interviews with 34 employees: Eighty-five per cent liked the six-hour shift.

Of 149 women who had worked under both the long and the short shifts, 77 per cent preferred the six-hour day.

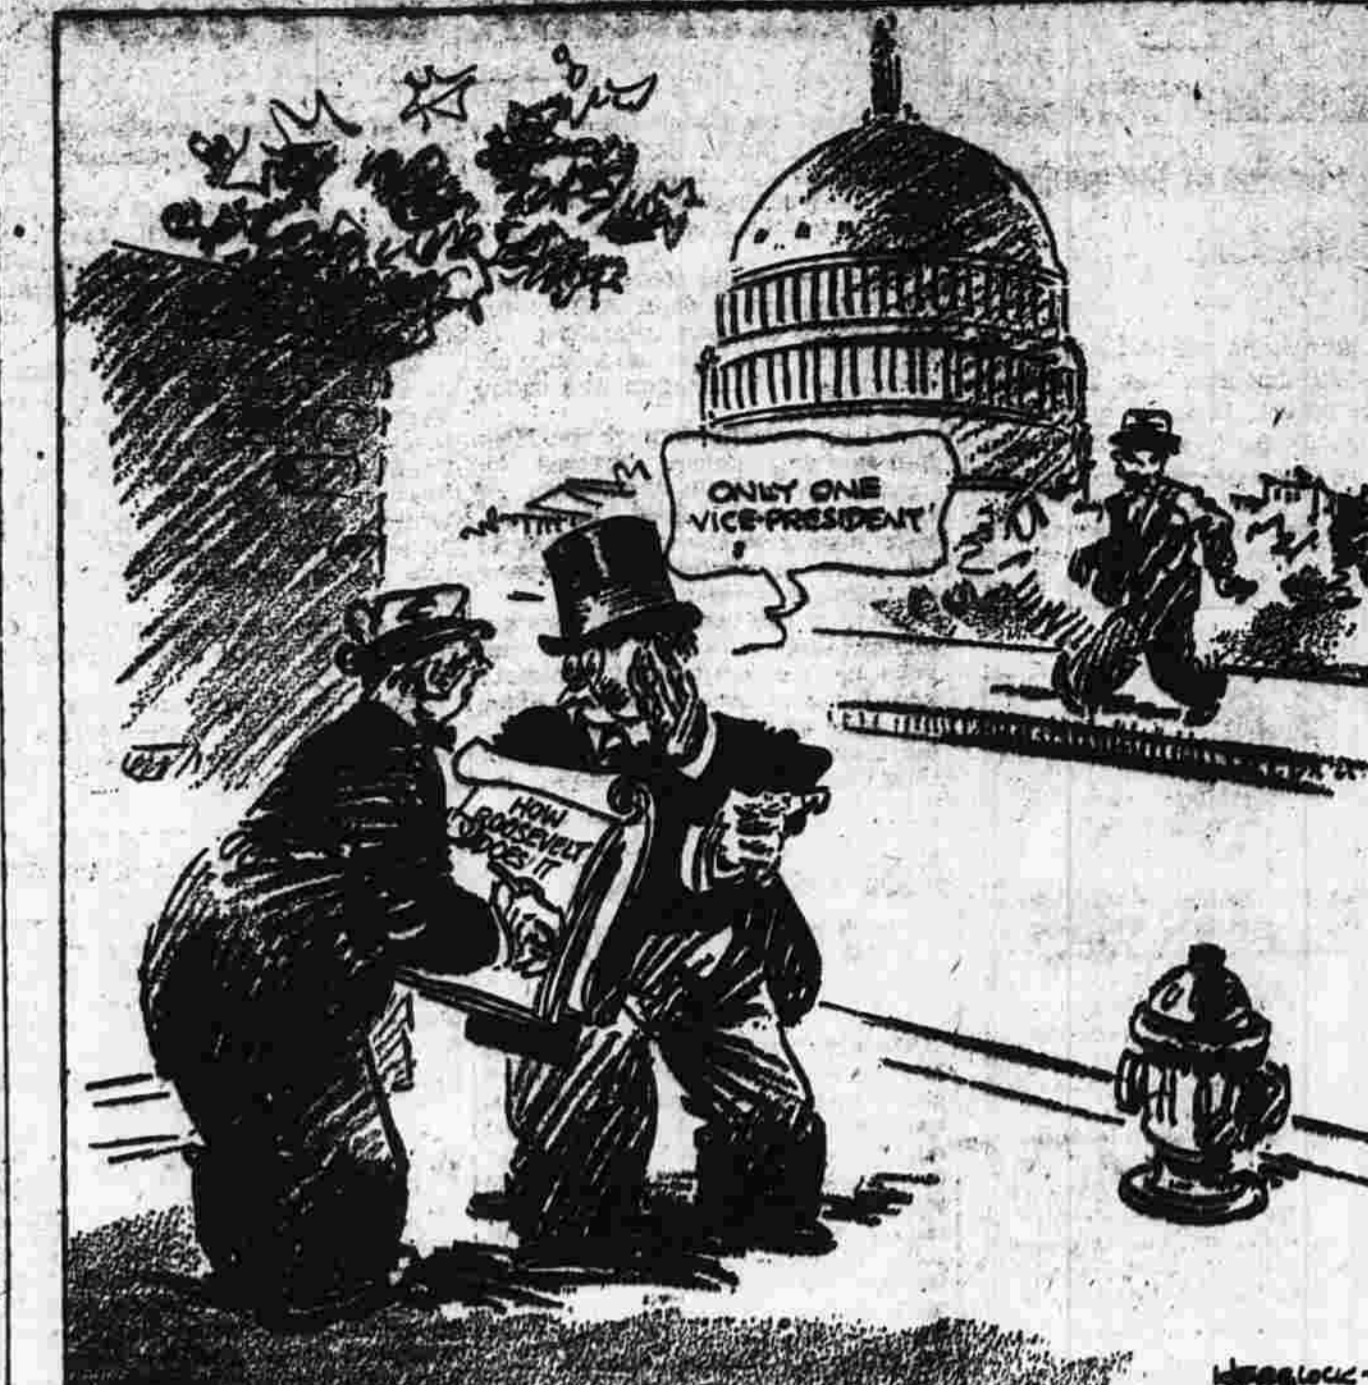

Reasons given for the preference included more time for home duties, less fatigue and less fatigue. Women who preferred the eight-hour day preferred it because it had meant more pay because they found it less fatiguing than the six hour day, although 23 per cent had expressed at least fatigue and 15 per cent more fatigue while a majority noticed no difference.

Lunches Are Out. Elimination of the lunch hour saved a majority, who said they felt the need of food during the working period. The company has installed a milk service, but permits no eating at work.

Earnings of 77 per cent decreased under the six-hour day, while those of domestic legislation for the special session. Both had been postponed for cause.

One was the plan for business trust reform, strongly backed by the Sherman law, but looked upon with much disfavor among labor leaders. The other was the gigantic public works program, strongly backed by labor because it would create many jobs, but frowned upon by industry. Casual observers have had some difficulty in figuring out why the industry-control and public works programs, which appear to have little natural connection, were clamped together in one bill.

LEGAL NOTICES

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at South Coventry, within and for the District of South Coventry, on the 24th day of May, A. D. 1934. Present EUGENE W. LATIMER, Judge.

Estate of Emma J. Case, late of Coventry and the Probate District of Coventry, deceased. Having exhibited her administration account with said estate to the court of probate for ORDERED—That the 29th day of May, 1934, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, be and the same is assigned for a hearing on the allowance of said account with said estate and by publishing, a copy of this order in some newspaper having a circulation in the public eye, before May 25, 1934, and by posting a copy of this order on the public eye in the Town of Coventry, on the last week, five days before said day of hearing and return made to this Court.

EUGENE W. LATIMER, Judge.

HEBRON

Hebron now boasts four baseball teams, the Athletics, the Cardinals, the Hebron Aces, and the Rinky Dinks, a junior team. It was a regular red letter day for the Hebron boys last Sunday, three victories being won in the afternoon games. The Athletics defeated the Eaglevilles at Eagleville, by a score of 7-1. The Hebron Aces, or Amston team defeated the Coventries, and the Rinky Dinks won a victory over the Hebron boys.

A fourth game, played on the Kibbe field, between the Hebron Cardinals and the Colchester Towners, had to be called off in the fifth inning, on account of a serious accident which happened to two of the players. Arthur Keefe of the Hebron team and David Sheddoff of Colchester collided when Keefe was trying to steal a base, and Sheddoff's leg was broken, a compound fracture being the result. The leg was set in a cast and the player is expected to be in a hospital for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Rathbun were visitors for a few days recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allan W. Sterry in Ridgfield. Mr. Sterry was a former teacher at the Hebron Green grammar school, a few years ago.

Timothy Trainor, an uncle of Mrs. Arthur Eisenman of Elmurst, L. I. is keeping the Eisenman place here open until the coming of the family in the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Eisenman and children spend the week-ends here nearly every week.

Morris Goldstein is under treatment at the Hartford hospital for appendicitis. He has been successfully operated on and is in a favorable condition.

Louis Kellough is having a large barn built at his place. Nicholas C. Johnson is doing the work. Miss C. E. Kellogg was called to Saybrook over the week-end by the serious illness of her brother, Dr. Arnold Kellogg.

Mrs. Albert W. Hilding and her two daughters, the Misses Alberts and Lols, and Mrs. Leslie F. Ward and children, accompanied Mr. Ward to Hartford, Monday evening. Mr. Ward is a member of the Governor's Foot Guard.

Allan L. Carr, reader at St. Peter's Episcopal church, preached a historical sermon Sunday, at the 11 o'clock service. The church will celebrate its 200th year in 1934, the church as such having been founded in 1734, by the Rev. John Bliss. The present church building dates from 1926.

Traffic through Hebron Green on the New York-Boston road has been very light since the collapse of the Willimantic bridge. Traffic between Middletown and Willimantic is detoured through East Hartford. East bound traffic takes the detour at Portland. The condition of the highway on the long hill in East Hampton makes another reason for the detour, the road there being under construction.

Mrs. Charles E. Hilding comes from New York city on Friday of this week to her country home here, for the summer. Miss Adella Adams, also of New York, will be her guest for some time. Mr. Hilding will spend his week-ends here through the summer.

A three-act comedy, "Miss Adventure," will be presented at the local town hall Friday evening, May 25, opening at 8 p. m., by Grotton players. A dance will follow.

MILK PRICE RAISED Boston, May 25.—(AP)—Producers' marketing board, then 75 per cent of Boston's milk supply, were informed today they had been granted an increase of one cent a quart for milk effective May 25.

Police today arrested a man who was taken last night at the meeting of the consolidated dairies and a large chain store group. The price which the producers' organizations were asked to receive was 12 cents a quart and a mere price of 8 cents.

FALLS UNDER TRAIN; FOOT IS AMPUTATED

Passenger in Accident at Greenwich—Believes He Tried to Alight While Train Was in Motion.

Greenwich, May 25.—(AP)—Solomon T. Linhart, 60, of Park avenue, Old Greenwich, fell under a passenger train shortly after last midnight and had his right foot and ankle severed. It was necessary at the hospital to amputate his left foot.

Linhart had been a passenger on the east-bound train No. 314, which arrived at Old Greenwich station at 12:30 a. m. He was found under the third coach. The only one saw the accident and the theory was he alighted while the train was in motion and fell under the wheels.

At Greenwich hospital this forenoon his condition was regarded as serious but not necessarily fatal. The engineer of the train was Charles Lacey of the Bronx and the conductor Edward Rusger of New Haven.

"STUDIO ON WHEELS" DATE HERE POSTPONED The "studio on wheels," demonstrating for M. G. M. the making of sound movies, which was to have visited Manchester this afternoon, has had its date postponed because of a breakdown at Bristol yesterday and today's three dates were canceled. It was announced at the State theater that the "studio" would be seen here in the near future.

FOREST WORKERS IN NEARBY CAMP

Fort Wright Company, to Which Local Men Went, at Lake Candlewood.

Danbury, May 25.—(AP)—The 172nd Company of the Forestry Army which arrived here yesterday from Fort H. G. Wright spent last night in squad tents erected in the state reservation near the shore of Squantz Pond, an arm of Lake Candlewood, and this morning began the work of setting the camp for a lengthy stay and putting things into readiness for forestry operations. Details of the work that is to be undertaken in the vicinity of the shores of the sixteen mile long lake, which extends from Danbury to New Milford and includes portions of the town of New Fairfield, Sherman and Brookfield, have not yet been made known.

It is expected that definite orders will have been received by the time the men become accustomed to their semi-military camp life. Captain Harris W. Forester, who has been army instructor at Yale University, is in charge of the camp and his aide is Lieut. William A. Wedemeyer, an artillery officer of the regular army. A naval medical officer, four sergeants and corporals of the regular army and a corps of cooks is included in the military force handling the affairs of the camp.

While no definite information has been given out from the Federal office in Hartford, it is believed that the Manchester detachment of ten men, sent to Fort H. G. Wright two weeks ago, is now serving with the above company at Lake Candlewood.

Orders to take the remainder of Manchester's quota of 50 men to Hartford for preliminary examination for the forestry camps are expected daily at the local bureau of the Unemployment Association.

Girl Scout News

Council members still have plenty of movie coupon tickets on hand. If anyone, adult or child, is planning to attend the theater at any time will get in touch with some Girl Scout, they will see that they are admission charge and the Girl Scouts are benefited by a commission on all sales. It is not necessary to buy a whole book, but just what anyone needs. It will be greatly appreciated, for the Girl Scout Council is in need of more funds in order to go on with the work.

Instead of our regular weekly meeting, we went swimming at the Recreation Center, and then went to Sunset Hill and had a dog roast. After playing games for some time the girls left for home at 7:45. Scribe, Marjorie Labeay. Troop 5

The last meeting of Troop 5 was a picnic held at the old Golf Links. It was opened with the horsehoe formation, repeating the motto, slogan, promise, and laws. Patrols 1 and 2 won the contest for birds. Patrol 3 was given honorable mention. After playing games for a while the girls ate their lunches. Indian Cowboys was then played. The girls who were not at the Rally were given their badges. A bunch of tired and happy girls formed their goodnight circle and sang "Taps" for the last meeting of the year. We gave our good wishes to Captain Welles, as she is to take a trip to California this summer, and we sincerely hope to welcome her back to our troop in the fall.

Scout 7 The regular Monday afternoon meeting was opened with patrol corners. After collecting dues for taking attendance, we went on to enjoy the out-door. We were instructed to look for flowers, insects and birds. We talked about an out-door supper, which will conclude our activities for the year, and sang "The Golden Sun" and "Taps." The girls enjoyed the out-door Rally Saturday afternoon and much credit was due our troop committee. Scribe, Doris Cole.

MOTORCYCLISTS IN REVIEW Rome, May 25.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini, astride a motorcycle, today reviewed 10,000 motorcyclists who rode past him with terrific din. The occasion was a celebration by the organization called "Centauri" of Italy's entrance into the World War.

The motorcyclists were mobilized here under command of Fascist chieftains in various sections and the high command of the Royal Motor Club. They were black-shirted.

When She Was Born Andrew Jackson Was President and Settlers Were Fighting the Indians. West Haven, May 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Harriet Chapman Smith who was in her 103rd year died yesterday from old age. Until her birthday anniversary in Florida and she had enjoyed good health, her sight was unimpaired and her hearing keen. When Mrs. Smith was born at Unity N. H., Andrew Jackson was President, settlers were fighting Indians in Florida and she were only 25 in the Union of States.

From childhood Mrs. Smith had lived in Simsbury. She married there, her husband died in 1928, and three years ago she came here to live. Three sons

SOUTH END POSTOFFICE

FIXTURES FIND MARKET

Are Sold to Equip Stafford Springs P. O. Recently Burned Out in Blaze.

Men were working late into last night and early this morning in the Bowers Building dismantling and getting ready to move the equipment of the old South Manchester post office that has been out of use since the general post office at the Center was opened. The fixtures were owned by the Manchester Mutual Realty Company, which also owns the building.

The fixtures are to be moved to Stafford Springs and installed in the post office building in that place which was gutted by fire a short time ago. Repairs have been made there since the fire and the South Manchester equipment has been purchased.

The men were working last night, they said, to be sure and have the equipment in time, as the Stafford office is to open by June 1.

"GREEN" CLUB'S ANNUAL TO BE ENTERTAINING

The annual business meeting of the Manchester Green Community club will be held tomorrow evening at 7:45. In connection with this meeting there will be an entertainment and dance to which all residents in the Green will be welcome without charge.

The program at 8:15, will open with readings by Shirley Clemson, well known child elocutionist. A sketch by the Girl Scouts will follow. Piano and violin numbers will be played by the fashion sisters, a sketch will be given by the Boy Scouts at the Green and the closing number will be a play, "Oh, Helpless Man," directed by Miss Lillian Reardon, and recently given with great success at St. Mary's parish house. Miss Reardon has secured the consent of the cast to give a repeat performance. The players are Miss Alice Atkin, Frank Miller, Miss Edna Cordy, William Davis.

Modern and old-fashioned dancing will follow until midnight. This will be the closing social of the season of the Green Community club. Outside of the Boy and Girl Scouts, children unaccompanied by parents will not be admitted.

BOWERS APPROVES OF ISSUING BONDS

Tax League Head Comes Out for Funding — League Shrinks in Size.

Sherwood Bowers, president of the Manchester Taxpayers Association, went on record last night at the annual meeting of the association, as being in favor of passing at the town meeting tonight, the necessary vote to authorize the selling of the town's bonds of $300,000. He said that the town had already defaulted on payments and was still doing business on borrowed money. The bonds, he said he felt, could be sold for less than 6 per cent, probably nearer 5 per cent.

Considerable difference of opinion on this question, developed in the membership but no vote was taken, which would bind the association to vote for or against the bond issue.

In her report on efforts to form a town-wide Parent-Teachers Association, Mrs. Caroline K. Britton took occasion to pay a tribute to Miss Elizabeth Bennett, principal of the Barnard and Nathan Hale schools.

Miss Bennett, she reported, had explained that a great deal of the work proposed under the plan of a town's Parent-Teachers' Association was already being done by the Educational Club. "Miss Bennett," she reported, "is a fine woman and is just as much interested and willing to do just as much, and in some cases more, than some of the parents of children in the schools."

Mr. Bowers explained that he had been in communication with a representative of a manufacturing company dealing in the sale of electrical equipment, who had assured him that the town could purchase sufficient equipment, erect necessary poles, use more light at a lower rate to the consumer than was now being used and that the income, above operating expenses, would pay the entire cost of the equipment in a period of seven years. The equipment would be installed and paid for out of the net income. At the end of seven years the plant would begin to build up a fund from which the town could borrow. He had cited several cases where such municipal plants were now doing this.

The paid-up membership in the organization, it was reported, has fallen off greatly. Whereas there were at one time 350 members there are about 25 now in good standing. There was a small amount in the treasury, probably sufficient to pay for about one more meeting, and unless members paid up their dues to carry on the work the association would likely have to fold up, Mr. Bowers announced.

Bowers Re-elected

The annual election resulted as follows: Sherwood Bowers, president; Joseph Foster, treasurer; Herbert Leggett, financial secretary. The selection of a recording secretary to succeed Frank Zimmerman, who resigned, went over to the next meeting.
