TOWN MEETING APPROVES SALE OF BOND ISSUE

Expected Opposition Fails to Develop and Meeting Lasts Five Minutes; Action on Light Suit June 1.

Without a dissenting vote, the Manchester town meeting last evening authorized the sale of the $300,000 bond issue which has been for many weeks a troublesome bit of financial worry to the Board of Selectmen. The meeting opened at 8 o'clock, with only about 200 persons in the hall, and the vote was taken following an explanation of the issue by Wells A. Strickland, chairman of the Board. William S. Hyde, town counsel was elected chairman of the meeting which lasted only five minutes. The much-touted opposition of members of the Taxpayers League did not develop. Not a protest was made against the bond issue.

It was announced after the meeting that the issue had been sold to Christensen & McKenna of Hartford at an interest rate of five and one-quarter per cent. In answer to a question put from the floor, Town Treasurer George H. Waddell said that interest charges during the maturity of the ten-year serial bonds would be $103,958.

A meeting of the Board of Selectmen was held immediately after the town meeting.

Lighting Meeting June 1

Acting on the petition to have the town enter the fight for lowered electric light rates, the Board of Selectmen will meet on June 1 to consider the petition.

The petition was presented by Mrs. J. P. Morgan, president of the Taxpayers' Association, the Selectmen set the meeting for June 1.

BUSINESS REPORT BEST IN 3 YEARS

Trade Review's Survey Shows a Steady Improve- ment Week After Week.

New York, May 26.—(AP)—Trade and business this week said the Dun & Bradstreet review today, have shown more consistent improvement than in any week in the last three years.

"The rise in general business," the agency stated, "has now been lifted to a level sufficiently high to reveal its stability, which appears to be fortified adequately to withstand the usual seasonal recessions of the summer months."

"Reports of steadily increasing employment continue to be received from centers devoted to the production of steel and allied products, automobiles, textiles, rubber goods, shoes and leather, and lumber."

"Steady increases in the course of the leading indices is indicative of the quicker tempo of industrial activity, which has now become too accentuated to be attributed merely to a seasonal rise."

"Preparations for cartalinization of signs activities with the provisions of the National Industrial Recovery Act has spread from the textile, hosiery, shoe and leather, food products, electrical, lumber, metals, petroleum, dry colors and paper-board industries to a wide group of smaller trades."

"The effects of the new legislation are expected to become concretely evident within three months after passage of the bill."

"With the large department stores and specialty shops, the May turnover gives assurance of surpassing the volume of the comparable preceding year's period for the first time in two years."

Pirates Disable Ship, Kill Six, Wound Seven

Shanghai, May 26.—(AP)—A tale of a desperate battle with pirates off the North China coast, was told by the captain of the Chinese steamer 'Kiangsu' when the ship was towed into port today. Six members of the crew were dead and seven were grievously wounded by pirate bullets. The vessel herself was helplessly disabled.

While the steamer was disabled, it was towed to a safe anchorage off the coast of the North China Sea. The pirates, it is believed, were from the Philippines.

The steamer was disabled by a single shot from a pirate gun. The crew was taken to a safe anchorage off the coast of the North China Sea.

GOV. SENDS FIRST VETO MESSAGE TO ASSEMBLY

Returns Without Approval Bill Establishing Tenure of Office for Public School Teachers of Stamford.

Hartford, May 26.—(AP)—Governor Wilbur L. Cross sent his first veto message of the session to the Legislature today, returning without his approval a measure establishing tenure of office for public school teachers of Stamford.

The governor said he would "favor a carefully drafted act of statewide application," but said he entertained "grave doubts as to the wisdom of local tenure acts."

The bill proposed to place teachers on a tenure of office basis after five years' service.

The text of the veto message, received first by the House follows: "To the Honorable General Assembly: I return without my approval substitute for House Bill 938, an act concerning tenure of office of public school teachers in the town of Stamford."

"I subscribe to the general theory of civil service in state and local government and would favor a carefully drafted act of statewide application, aimed to prevent the dismissal of teachers for personal or political reasons."

"I have grave doubts as to the wisdom of local tenure acts and certainly feel that they should not be adopted against the wishes of the constituted authorities in any given municipality. It appears that the mayor, the board of education, and the finance board are all unanimously opposed to the act in question. I believe that their judgment should be controlling, as they have the responsibility for the fiscal and educational problems in Stamford."

(Signed) WILBUR L. CROSS, Governor.

The House tabled the veto message and voted to make it the order of the day at 11:15 a. m. Monday.

"Give us fair play," he said. "Do not blame us for the things you do not like in the report. It is not our report."

"Do not refuse us the privilege of profiting by our constructive values. They are offered to all the world."

"Do not permit a note of unreasonableness to obscure the merits of the proposals in the report. The report is a masterpiece of wisdom and statesmanship. It would be a disgrace to the nation if it were not adopted."

MORGAN'S BANK DEEP IN CONTROL OF POWER

U. S. OFF GOLD BY LAW SOON

Washington, May 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt has decided that the United States should go off the gold standard by statute.

He today requested Chairman Steagall of the House Banking Committee to introduce a bill to place the United States off the gold standard by law.

The Alabama Democrat conferred with the President at the White House.

Later he called newsmen to his office and read a copy of the resolution which he said declares the United States off the gold standard by statute.

"It repeals the Gold Standard Act," Steagall said.

Adding that under the resolution, no bonds, no obligations of the Federal government and no obligations of any form would have to be paid in gold or gold currency upon the enactment of the measure.

He said it would be possible for the foreign debtors to pay the United States their war debts in any legal money.

"This bill from the United States from the obstacles and handicaps of the gold standard," he declared.

"It is an administration bill and a part of President Roosevelt's emergency relief program."

In addition, Steagall said the law would make it unnecessary for President Roosevelt to devalue the gold dollar under the inflation provisions of the Farm Relief Act.

Steagall termed the measure one of the greatest steps toward stabilizing money in the United States.

All legal money under this act, he asserted, would meet all obligations payable in gold.

Chairman Fletcher of the Senate Banking House will introduce an identical resolution in the Senate.

Early hearings will be held and Steagall expects action to come in both Congressional branches next week.

Controls 22 Per Cent of the Electric and Gas Output of the Nation—Senator Glass in Frequent Clashes With Pecora During To- day's Session.

Washington, May 26.—(AP)—Suppressed tension over the Senate's Morgan investigation burst forth in dispute at today's hearing, in the wake of disclosure that the wealthy banking house controlled the United Corporation—utilized stock holding organizations—while in turn is admitted with complete control of 22 per cent of the electric and gas output business of the nation.

Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, turned over the tactics of Ferdinand Pecora, the vigorous New York attorney who is conducting the inquiry, to J. P. Morgan and one of his partners, George Whitney, under stringent examination in the past three days; and today drew further evidence of Morgan's activities from George Howard, as president of the United Corporation.

The Tariff Commission demanded, to the excitement of the crowded audience, to know the exact source of the inquiry. He raised questions about Pecora's retention as counsel, while silence fell on the huge hearing hall.

Pecora's answer was that he had resigned with a veiled hint that his resignation could be had if the committee asked.

Through Howard, he had developed that the United Corporation received from Morgan stocks in various utilities concerns in the 29 boom days at $12,000,000 less than their market value; and that the opulent banking house had in possession of the United Corporation's over-issues of the United Corporation.

It was disclosed by the questioning of Howard that through Morgan-United, the United Corporation was given options on a million shares of United Corporation at one dollar each at a time when it could have been sold within a month for the time of $23,000,000 profit, or at some $20 more than was paid for each option.

With the Glass-Pecora clash, which set the room momentarily in an uproar, Chairman Fletcher of the committee defended the retention of counsel, and the Florida Senator also drew applause from the throng that awaited every word of the testimony despite the oppressive heat of the day.

Members of the crowd pressed around the table to watch the controversy.

HOLD CLOSED SESSION

Washington, May 26.—(AP)—In closed session, the Senate Banking Committee today received the secret partnership agreement of the Morgan estate showing division of profits and liabilities—discussed by the committee in its public property.

Beyond those guarded portals had gathered another big crowd for the fourth day of open hearings on the affairs of J. P. Morgan and Company.

Extraordinary presentations—once more were made—by the Morgan estate, in the extensive, marble room and her splendidly furnished offices. Even the usual police guard for Senate inquiries was augmented.

What the committee would do was a matter of speculation, but however the decision turned out, Ferdinand Pecora, the committee counsel, was ready to go ahead searching into operations of the massive banking house.

To date, only J. P. Morgan and George Whitney of the trusty partners have been heard from. There have been reports of search of the well known partners, members of which must daily appear Saturday and Sunday but they are minutes of the session.

One presentation of the Morgan estate was a list of the names of the partners of J. P. Morgan, senior partner, and another was assigned to Pecora.

The hearing committee was also called upon to decide whether it should call for the production of the Morgan estate's books and records.

The Morgan party arrived in the hearing room shortly after the committee went into session.

MOTHER CONFESSES KILLING CHILDREN

Calmly Replies "Yes, Sir" When Asked if She Had Murdered Three Children.

Framingham, Mass., May 26.—(AP)—At approximately the same hour today, the bodies of three little children were lowered into their graves in St. George's cemetery and their mother was arraigned in District Court charged with "brutally murdering them."

The children, Irma, Chester and Eugene Dychabeski, aged 13, 9, and 5, respectively were found in their home after fire had swept the dwelling yesterday. Two of them were dead, ostensibly of burns. The third child, Paul, remained in critical condition today.

The mother, Mrs. Nellie Dychabeski who was found lying unconscious on the ground outside her home after the fire, was taken to the Framingham hospital to the county house in the vicinity of the police officers and a nurse.

She appeared self-possessed and unshattered. Bave for a slight scratch on her face she bore no outward sign of her ordeal.

When Judge Edward W. Blodgett asked her whether she was guilty or not guilty to the charge of murdering her children she replied: "Yes, sir." The court ordered a plea of guilty.

ROCKVILLE

SMALL FACTORY STOCKS CUT THE GRAND LIST

Rockville's Total Assessment Reduced $180,000 Despite City's Prosperity.

Notwithstanding a steady increase in business and the working of Rockville factories both day and night, a net decrease of about $180,000 is shown in the Grand List of the City of Rockville just completed. The list was filed yesterday by the City Assessor, Julius M. Kosloski, Franklin C. Harlow and Otto Yeast with City Treasurer Raymond E. Hurt.

The net grand list now amounts to $5,471,552 and the reduction has been brought about largely by a drop in the stock of goods on hand from $680,175 in 1933 to $581,145 this year. Part of the reduction is also due to the reduction in automobiles from $459,495 in 1933 to $395,875 in 1934.

The following is the city abstract from which the tax rate will be made on Tuesday, June 6th: 1208 1-2 dwellings, $9,472,800; 1283 1-2 barns, sheds, garages, $211,780; 1-2 242 1-4 house and building lots, $955,060; 130 1-2 commercial buildings, $217,700; 15 mills, water power and machinery, $1,859,705; 808 acres of land, $51,155; 1813 motor vehicles, $326,875; 58 horses and mules, $9,850; 95 meat cattle, $4,330; poultry, $1,080; carriages and wagons, $760; watches and jewelry, $9,500; furniture and musical instruments, $127,050; mechanics tools and farm implements, $24,656; goods on hand, manufacturers and merchants, $581,145; cables, conduits $300,000; bonds, $5,000; all other taxable property, $10,500; 411 tax ten percent for failure to file, $25,527; grand list, $5,559,452; expenditures, $118,150; net grand list of taxable property, $5,471,552.

Important Court Trial
The criminal term of the June term of the Tolland county Superior Court will open in Rockville on Tuesday, June 5 with Judge Alfred C. Baldwin of Derby on the bench. While State Attorney Michael D. O'Connell has not completed the list of cases for presentation indications are that the most interesting case will be that of State vs. Raymond C. Clafin, 48, of Wilbraham, Mass., who is charged with obtaining money under false pretenses and with the alleged issuing of fraudulent checks.

Clafin is now held at the Tolland county jail in default of a bond of $5,000. He was arrested by State Policeman Thomas Hunt and John Zhiert of the Stafford Barracks and presented before Judge Ernest K. Taft where he pleaded guilty.
The question of Clafin's previous record is now under investigation as he is reported as being wanted for passing checks and obtaining merchandise under false pretenses in New York State and in several New England cities.

He is believed to be the person who passed the check on Luther A. White, Prospect street undertaker, on October 18, 1932.

Inquiry is being made of the merchants of Tolland county to see how many have been defrauded by cashing checks for visitors.

DELAWARE NEXT STATE TO VOTE ON DRY LAWS

Delegates to Be Chosen Tomorrow for Convention to Be Held on June 24.

Wilmington, Del., May 25.—(AP)—Tiny Delaware adds its voice tomorrow to the National chorus on the theme of prohibition repeal. Voters in the state's 22 precincts will select 17 delegates at large to the convention that will meet on June 24 at Dover, the state capital.

Observers said the vote in Wilmington, which has about half of the state's population of 225,000, probably will swing the result in favor of the wet delegates.

Wilmington is the only place in Delaware now where the sale of 3.3 beer is legal, due to passage of emergency legislation at the recent session of the Legislature. Other political subdivisions will decide by local option on June 6 whether they will permit the sale of the brew.

Delaware with the exception of Wilmington went dry by local option in 1917. Wilmington remained a hotbed of wet sentiment.

Announcing SOCONY Mobilgas

HIGHEST ANTI-KNOCK AT THE REGULAR PRICE WITH CLIMATIC CONTROL

TOMORROW a new motor fuel goes on sale in New York and New England; new and better in test and performance.

A NEW NAME—Socony Mobilgas, quality mate to Mobiloil, the first-choice motor oil among motorists here—and the world over.

A NEW IDEA—Socony Mobilgas has the exclusive feature of Climatic Control, a scientific improvement, originated by Socony-Vacuum, which prevents loss of power and mileage with weather changes.

A NEW ANTI-KNOCK VALUE—Through a new process, Socony Mobilgas with Climatic Control offers you the highest anti-knock quality you have ever been able to get at the regular price.

WHAT IS CLIMATIC CONTROL?
All gasoline is extremely sensitive to weather changes. Your own experience undoubtedly has shown you how engine performance varies with driving conditions. Every daily variation in the weather from hot to cold, from rain to shine, raises or lowers engine heat, and engine heat is the factor which turns liquid gasoline into gasoline vapor and into effective horsepower.
Climatic Control—originated by Socony-Vacuum—is the pre-adjustment of the specifications of Socony Mobilgas so that, at either high or low altitude, it automatically adapts itself to the daily—even hourly—weather changes, thus preventing loss of power and mileage.
Climatic Control, therefore, is what you must have in a gasoline to make you independent of weather changes that affect ordinary gasolines.

And only Socony Mobilgas has Climatic Control! Climatic Control has been proved in the laboratory. It has been tested under a variety of outdoor conditions far more severe than you'll ever encounter. It has met with outstanding satisfaction in the cars of hundreds of thousands of motorists in test areas of widely varied climatic and road conditions. You can depend upon it.

TRY IT TOMORROW
Fill your tank with the brand-new Socony Mobilgas tomorrow. Thrill to its higher anti-knock performance. Feel the difference in power, regardless of weather changes. Check the mileage economy. And, remember that you get this new and better gasoline, plus the exclusive feature of Climatic Control, at no increase in price. Buy it once and you will buy it again.

Peace Time Exploits Better Than War Tales

Seattle, May 26.—(AP)—One way to lessen the dangers of war in coming years, in the belief of Emery Asbury, Washington State educator, will be to teach children to "live peace" and provide for them better means to "supply their hungers for adventure and danger."

Byrd at the North and South Poles, Andrews in the Gobi desert and Lindbergh over the Atlantic—these afford unsurpassed themes for story and dramatization in school work," he told the National Congress of Parents and Teachers here last night, on the eve of the closing day of their annual convention.

"The sword is an attractive symbol of energy and power to the youth of any day but we must neutralize its appeal by something more forceful."

Today, in the final session of the 6-day convention, the 1,300 delegates vote on a long series of resolutions.

One controversial question to come before the assembly, with a fight expected on the floor, was on the recommendations relating to liquor. One resolution called for the "impartial enforcement of the 18th Amendment and all acts regulating the sale and distribution of alcoholic beverages" while another advocated the teaching of "scientific facts about the effects of alcohol."

Among other resolutions was one placing emphasis on the domestic economic problem.

The 1934 convention city was to be chosen by the executive board this afternoon. Des Moines, St. Louis and Washington, D. C., have been bidding for it.

KIWANIANS' KIDDIE CAMP NOT TO OPEN

Annual Show Failed to Produce Funds Enough to Operate the Service.

The Manchester Kiwanis club will meet Monday at 12:15 — at the Country club. The guest speaker will be "Theodore Frank, and his subject, "Egypt." Charles E. House will see to the stunt and Joel M. Nichols the attendance prize.

As is well known, the Kiwanis clubs all over the country are committed to a welfare program for the under-privileged children in towns where clubs exist. For years the local club has financed the Kiddies camp at Hebron, and each season about 40 boys and 40 girls have had the privilege of two weeks' recreation there under trained supervisors. Many of them have made appreciable gains in weight, with excellent food and healthful exercise in the open.

Shortage of Funds
This year, the club announces with regret, the club is forced to omit this project, for the present summer. The recent Kiwanis minstrel show, which annually has provided practically all the funds required, for the maintenance of the camp, only netted about $225. With the most economical budget the camp cannot possibly be financed for less than $1000. The directors have accordingly voted to place the $225 in the bank at interest, with the hope that by next summer business conditions will have improved so that the wherewithal for conducting the camp may be raised.

Italy Prepares Speedy Mystery Plane For Fresh Assault on World Record

Desenzano, Italy.—(AP)—Spurred by her capture of the world speed record, Italy is preparing new efforts to attain the 600 miles an hour velocity which her air minister, General Italo Balbo, says is within sight of attainment.

A mystery ship being assembled at the government high speed school here is almost ready for trial flights.

Feel Sure of New Mark
The man working on it will be surprised if it reaches anything like the mark General Balbo has set, but they expect it to surpass the 426.5 miles an hour recently made by Warrant Officer Francesco Agello in his "Red Bullet."

Balbo says it may take man a decade to find the means of propelling himself through the atmosphere at 10 miles a minute. It is practically certain though that by then he will have achieved much speed, he recently told the Senate.

Meanwhile the mark is being pushed steadily forward. Agello's record was 20 miles an hour faster than the mark set by the English lieutenant, O. H. Stainforth, in 1931. On one lap above Lake Garda, the Italian made 426.5 miles an hour, but the record was calculated on the average.

Record Just A Try-Out
The greatest secrecy surrounds the preparation of the new ship. Official confirmation of its existence has been limited to a statement that it is expected to set a "conceivable higher speed" than the "Red Bullet." Agello's flight was described as merely a "preparatory demonstration."

A departure from the ordinary means of propulsion is the "Bullet's" principal feature. Two propellers set on a elevated shaft, one behind the other at the nose of the fuselage, turn in opposite directions. They are driven by a 24-cylinder "V" type motor of 2,800 horsepower.

The plane, painted red, is set on pontoons. It has a single wing of duralumin and a metal body with wooden tail surfaces.

Agello, 30 years old, has been flying since 1924. He has been attached to the school for five years.

BILL WOULD TAX ATHLETIC FIELDS

House Passes Measure Calling for Taxes on Grounds Away From Schools.

Hartford, May 26.—(AP)—Athletic properties of educational institutions, located in towns outside of the schools home community would be subject to taxation under the provisions of a bill passed in the House today.

The original bill, providing for taxation of all athletic grounds where admission is charged, was amended today to exclude such property in towns where the institution is located.

Under the terms of the bill as passed, Yale university would be taxed by the town of West Haven for part of the Yale Bowl and the entire Yale golf course.

A bill requiring that all chiropractors be licensed and including a provision that sellers of arch supporters must be registered with the state health department, was defeated despite a favorable committee report. A lengthy debate preceded the standing vote of 98 to 82.

The House concurred, with the Senate in adopting two resolutions naming Thomas M. Bourke, judge of Unionville and Clamant I. Tolia, judge of Naugatuck.

Bills Passed
A number of bills on the calendar were passed, including measures providing for amending the charter of the Waterbury Foundation; amending the charter of the Norwalk Building, Loan and Investment Association; giving the park commission charge of all cemeteries in Manchester; giving widows of Waterbury policemen who died between Oct. 1, 1931 and May 19, 1932, the right to participate in the pension fund; establishing a board of park commissioners in Danbury and establishing the authority of trustees under mortgages or deeds of trust.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

Irish Returning
Football is a bit out of season but not more than the Irish have been out of season for several years at Notre Dame... where the fighting Irish have flourished in other days... now the news that some of them are coming back is a refreshing morsel.

Four candidates for the right halfback job for next fall are Tobin, Hanley, Costello and Layden. While you never can tell about that man Costello, South Bend operatives send along the word that he's a Mick.

Or An A. O. F. Fiasco
A tackle named Sullivan is adding the English and other names of men sure of places on the 1935 squad are Gorman, McGuff, Roach and Devore... making it sound a bit like a Tammany meeting.

Just after the completion of spring football practice recently, Coach Husk Anderson kindly conceded:

"Wait until you see the quarterback we are going to give 'em next year... the name is Manozotti... best-looking prospect for the job since Carideo... he played halfback in high school, at White Plains, N. Y., but has shown plenty of talent for the job... and you ought to see this fellow... block... weighs 185 but is short like Frank was."

Take-It Better
Anderson went on to point out that some of Notre Dame's greatest quarterbacks... the Rockers were short men... it seems that the big bruisers take their instructions better from little guys... an added advantage the half-plats have is their ability torouch lower and hide movements on direct plays.

Carideo was a great blocking quarterback... time after time I have seen him take out two of the secondary defense on that famous Notre Dame thrust-off tackle... he had the knack of nudging a man off balance... without rolling all over the place... or even leaving his feet.

Modern office boy no longer takes afternoons off to go to grandmother's funeral. Granny now insists on going to the ball game with him.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, May 26.—(AP)—Bulls kept the Stock Market on the upward path today by bidding up a wide assortment of specialty issues.

The market was somewhat mixed, and milled around rather uncertainly in the middle of the day, but several issues were up 1 to 3 points or more, including "wet" issues and foods. Commodities were mixed. Wheat lost nearly a cent a bushel. Cotton rose nearly $1 a bale, then lost much of its advance.

Alcohol stocks continued to receive much bullish attention. U. S. Industrial Alcohol rose about 6 points, and American Commercial and National Distillers, 2 and 3. Gold mining stocks were again strong, with Homestake having one of its 10-point upsurges. Along with the wet issues, Coca Cola, which usually moves contrary to them, advanced 4, but then lost part of its gain. Office equipments were given a boost, with National Cash Register, Burroughs and International Business Machines up about 1 to 2. Miscellaneous industrials up about 1 to 2 included American Can, American Telephone, General Electric, Westinghouse, National Steel, U. S. Steel, Dupont, United Fruit, Purity Baking, Continental Banking "A" American Sugar, Great Western Sugar, Proctor and Gamble, and Drug. Rails and utilities moved narrowly. Allied Chemical sagged.

The weekly mercantile review of Dun & Bradstreet was particularly optimistic, and may have prompted some of the bullish speculation in shares of companies producing consumers' goods. "In no week during the last three years," it said, "has the reports covering most lines of productive and distributive activity contained so many evidences of consistent improvement."

While some quarters in Wall

Street have been amazed at the market's ability to carry on for so long without a technical reaction of consequence, sentiment remained predominantly optimistic.

Corporate news included Sears Roebuck's sales report for the four week's ended May 21 at $21,050,500, or somewhat under the $22,550,000 in the like period of last year. Among companies ordering regular dividends were General Electric, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Gillette.

to a suit filed in Superior Court today by the woman against Willis H. Crowe, executor of the estate. Edmund Crowe died about two years ago. He was postmaster in Norwalk at the time of his death. He had also held office as the town chairman of the Republican Party in Norwalk and at one time was editor of a South Norwalk paper.

WALCOTT OUTLINES NEW DEAL PROGRAM

Senator at State C. of C. Meeting Calls Unified Banking Law Progressive.

Hartford, May 26.—A comprehensive picture of steps taken by the administration under the "new deal" was outlined by United States Senator Frederic C. Walcott in an address to a meeting of the Connecticut State Chamber of Commerce at the Hotel Bond yesterday at the thirty-fourth annual session of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce at the Hotel Bond. Although in favor of the Glass banking bill, Senator Walcott labeled it as "extreme" and urged amendments to the bill which he introduced in the House of Representatives and is scheduled for the Senate within a week.

At the close of the luncheon the annual address of President Henry F. Byrd, and John B. Byrnes, president of the Hartford-Connecticut Trust Company, introduced the speakers and guests. Attorney General Warren E. Burrows represented Governor Dines and delivered the greetings from the state. A new slate of directors for two years was elected.

Walcott's Topic
"We have seen the ship of state trying to ride a storm-tossed sea in the midst of unprecedented weather," Senator Walcott began. "It is customary in very heavy weather to furl one's sails or slow down. Now we are doing neither—we are speeding up the engine, hoping in some way to outdistance the storm and get into smooth water. So I have chosen the subject of the new deal. The cards are flying through the air in every direction, and many are marked cards. The motion of the cards is quicker than the eye, but not quicker than the eyes of Congress."

He outlined the provisions of the economy bill providing for the director of the budget to slash $1,000,000,000 from current expenses, which is being accomplished by cutting benefits of non-service veterans, reducing salaries of Federal employees, consolidation of bureaus. Expenses of the National Government have increased $1,400,000,000 in six years, he asserted.

Forestry Corps
Senator Walcott heartily endorsed the reforestation plan which he declared has already brought rejuvenation for thousands of young men who will form the nucleus for a new body of young men who will be a real asset to the nation. He commended the plan also for the conservation of the country's natural resources.

The agriculture relief bill Senator Walcott described as a hybrid, claiming that the relief provided won't amount to anything this year and criticizing the provision for reducing the gold content of the dollar as "scrapping the agreement on currency and bond and leveling off the debt structure." The Reconstruction Finance Corporation bill is "an over-worked child but has saved the day so far," Senator Walcott stated.

He explained the estimated savings under the proposed railroad plan and commented briefly on the Far East situation, in which he advocated complete neutrality for the United States. He termed Mussolini's quadrilateral entente as "one of the most amazing things ever done, one which is going to do much to steady things."

Urges Staunch Support
Senator Walcott pointed to indications of remarkable recovery in many fields and urged staunch support of the administration.

Attorney General Burrows explained the work of his office, which he said comes in contact with every phase of state government. "Regardless of any party affiliation, regardless of what you may hear, government of the State of Connecticut is being run as efficiently today as any institution in Connecticut," he asserted.

Directors Elected
The following were general directors for two years: C. L. Campbell of Hartford, vice-president of the Connecticut Light and Power Company; John T. Childsey of Hartford, chairman of the board, Veeder-Root, Inc.; Francis M. Hatch of Stamford, executive vice-president of the Stamford Gas and Electric Company; John F. Rolfe, publisher of the Hartford Times; Thomas W. Ryley of New Haven, treasurer of the Eastern Machine Screw Company.

Group directors for two years, agriculture, J. Arthur Sherwood, of the Clover Leaf Dairy, Bridgeport; banking, Robert G. Goodrich, vice-president of the Bridgeport City Trust Company; industry, A. E. Payson, president of the American Thermos Company, Norwich; insurance, Edgar J. Sloan, vice-president of the Aetna Insurance Company, Hartford; public utilities, Samuel Ferguson, president of the Hartford Electric Light Company; trade and commerce, C. D. Williams of East Hartford, Connecticut representative of the First National Stores.

CROSS APPOINTMENTS

Morris of Newtown, twice defeated Democratic nominee for governor; Rep. William E. Templeton of Keeler, and Victor A. Rapoport of Mansfield, a member of the Connecticut state college board.

SENATE REJECTS REPORT ON LABOR

Third Measure of Same Nature to Meet This Fate During the Week.

Hartford, May 26.—(AP)—The Senate has refused to accept an unfavorable report on a bill establishing a 48 hour week for women and minors in industries.

Rejection of the labor committee's report, the third labor measure to meet this fate in the Senate during the week, followed declarations by Senators Julius C. Stratton of Meriden, chairman of the committee, and William J. Fitzgerald of Norwich that a shorter week was necessary to create more jobs.

On Tuesday the Senate rejected unfavorable reports on the minimum wage bill for minors and women in industry and on a measure setting an eight hour day for state employes.

An amendment to the 48-hour bill was offered by Stremiau permitting women to work 55 hours a week, the present statutory limit, during emergencies for sixty days providing manufacturer to receive permission from the state labor commissioner. Both the bill and the amendment were tabled for the calendar and printing.

Chamber Crowded
A large crowd was in the Senate for the expected fight over the state budget.

The Senate suspended the rules to approve a bill authorizing the first landish district of Norwalk to issue $140,000 in water bonds and $65,000 in bonds for the construction of a new fire house. It also passed in concurrence a bill authorizing Naugatuck to issue notes in anticipation of taxes.

Under suspension of the rules resolutions were adopted naming Claremont L. Tolles judge of the borough court of Naugatuck and Thomas M. Bourke, judge of the Borough Court of Unionville.

The nomination of Edwin O. Wright of Goshen to the state board of milk regulation was confirmed.

HOUSE IS AGAINST STATE BOARD RULE

Favors Bill Allowing Only Judges to Suspend or Revoke Auto Licenses.

Hartford, May 26.—(AP)—The right of the motor vehicle commissioner to suspend or revoke operator licenses was removed by the House yesterday after a spirited debate, during which the present day examinations of accused drivers in the motor vehicle department was compared to the present licensing system.

The bill, providing for suspension or revocation of licenses only by the recommendation of the judge before whom the accused operator was tried, was passed by a vote of 168 to 88.

The measure, which was opposed by members of the motor vehicle committee has been on the floor calendar for several weeks and was taken from the table today on the motion of Dennis of Scotland.

Before it was considered it was amended to exclude drivers who had become affected by a disease causing inability to operate a car. Rep. Peck of Bristol, opposed the bill, saying that it was not the unanimous report of the judiciary committee and he was joined in his opposition by William C. Hungerford of Watertown, House chairman of the motor vehicle committee.

Hungerford citing the efficiency of the department said that the motor vehicle committee of four years ago found that nine of its members had records in the department although they were unaware of the fact.

Larkin of Orange, favored the bill, declaring that minor court judges will not be swayed in their judgment of offenses while Bradley of Westport, told of the many injustices of the present system.

Dennis, concluding the debate, said that the examinations now conducted in the motor vehicle department of licensed operators could only be compared to the Spanish Inquisition.

"We are giving entirely too much power to the state department," he said "if we continue at the present rate it will soon be necessary to send to Hartford for an official leader-ship every time we want to blow our noses."

The rules were suspended for passage of a bill reducing the interest rate from six to five percent on all loans from the school fund and state college fund.

A favorable report was received on a bill giving the Board of Finance and Control the right to authorize the state treasurer to modify the salary reductions of state officials and employes as it feels proper. Robert Viberts was named deputy judge of Unionville in a resolution passed under suspension of the rules.

The Common Council of New London is given the right to make one of its members an assessor under the provisions of a bill favorably reported in the House. The mayor is authorized to take charge of the police department in cases of emergency.

As a matter of fact, we are about to try an experiment which is not only new to us but new to the whole world. We made the first great experiment in political democracy, and we proved to a skeptical world that it could work; now we seem about to find out whether a modern democracy can readapt a complex industrialism in such a way that the essential features of both democracy and industrialism come through unimpaired.

There is nothing in any of this to frighten us. Revolutionary? To be sure; but isn't our whole tradition based on revolution? A nation that can put through its revolution as quiet and orderly a manner as we are putting through this one has little reason to get nervous.

DEPOSITS GUARANTEE. One of the most puzzling questions before Congress is that of federal guarantee of bank deposits which, on a pretty liberal basis, has been incorporated in the Glass banking bill as it passed the Senate yesterday and was sent to conference.

WALCOTT'S SPEECH. Manchester representatives of the Chamber of Commerce who attended the annual meeting of the Connecticut Chamber at Hartford yesterday were much impressed by the address of Senator Walcott, which constituted practically the first message of report made to the people of this state by any of its official representatives in the federal government since the change in administration last March.

Speaking very frankly as a convinced Republican and a stout adherent of certain political and economic convictions not wholly in the fashion at Washington these days, the Senator nevertheless freely admitted that the apparently ruthless, rough-shod program of the present administration has been reasonably conceived in view of the great emergency, and is actually capable of successful execution.

Clearly there is nothing to do but to choose between two evils. Since the very life of business depends on a banking system that can and will function, and since the banks at present are not functioning in such a way as to be helpful in the restoration of normal activity, the evil of the guarantee will seem to many to be the lesser.

THOSE BONDS. Disposition of the $300,000 bond puna that has hampered the administration of Manchester town affairs for many weeks has been disposed of as satisfactorily as possible under the circumstances. It is not likely that, when the subject is thought over in the after-light, anybody will be particularly delighted over the knowledge that for the privilege of deferring the payment of $300,000 now we shall eventually have to pay another hundred thousand dollars in interest-getting for it absolutely nothing.

ALREADY DONE. Those timorous souls who have been fighting about on one foot lately wondering when the revolution was going to begin might just as well calm down now. The revolution has already taken place, and there have been no casualties—except, possibly, for a dis-hard Tory or two who suddenly realized what had happened and died of apoplexy.

MAKING BETTER MEN. Aside from the minor difficulties inherent in so vast a project, and the fact that a few trouble-making radicals managed to draw attention to themselves in the early stages, the training of the big reformation army seems to be progressing in an eminently satisfactory manner.

TOO EFFICIENT. Baltimore, May 25. (AP)—Baltimore police are too efficient. BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington
FARM RELIEF HEAD WANTED OPPORTUNITY
Year of Work Toward Goal May Find Reward in Roosevelt Plan
By RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington, May 25.—Mr. George Nelson Peak of Illinois, the veteran farm relief champion and manufacturer of farm machinery who will administer the drastic emergency agricultural act, has been waiting a long time for the chance.

Thomas W. Mitchell, the ex-actor who patiently dug up the evidence on the sensational stock market operations of Henry L. Doherty and Company in stock which it manages, is another of those numerous university professors who have come into the government service—though not a member of the Roosevelt "brain trust." A distinguished appearing, heavy-set, medium height, slow ponderous man in his early fifties, Mitchell has taught accounts and finances, economics or business administration at Pennsylvania, New York, U. and Minnesota. He was statistician for the Harding administration on unemployment and has been a production engineer. For several years he has been engaged in the trade commission's public utilities investigation and is regarded as an excellent digger with a flair for penetrating into the intricacies of financial operations.

No one ever did get any very clear idea of just how many persons would be re-employed by the 30-hour-week bill, although that naturally was one of the most important factors involved. The American Federation of Labor once estimated the number at 6,500,000 and the House labor committee and the House labor committee members usually referred to "six million" during their hearings. But unofficial estimates by experts in the Department of Commerce placed the maximum probable re-employment figure at around 2,500,000 and President Alfred P. Sloan of the General Motors Corporation said "the bill might afford employment for about 750,000 persons."

American Indians, who rejoiced when their friend and foremost champion, John Collier, was appointed Indian commissioner in the Department of the Interior, contemplate the rest of the new administrative set-up in the department. Secretary Harold Ickes has been an active crusader for Indian rights in Washington and elsewhere for 10 years. Oil, lumber and other commercial interests which have victimized Indians have tried but failed to land their candidates in top jobs of the Interior Department.

IN NEW YORK

By JULIA BRANFORD
New York, May 25.—Diego Rivera, noted Mexican artist, who has been held out because he put Lenin's picture into his fresco at Rockefeller Center, feels that all this has not been wanted. Having gone on a diet the day he started working here, he has lost exactly seven pounds as his last of his eleven wife, Frieda, weighs—81 pounds.

Diego always works in corduroys, with a blue or brown shirt open at the throat; his wife, Frieda, is an exquisitely graceful and beautiful little person, an artist in her own right. They met in Mexico City where she was a member of the avant-garde of which Diego was the master.

She is his third wife. Recently his second wife visited them here. Now the second wife is on her way to Paris to visit Diego's first wife.

Travel Notes
Vernon, Vt. eminent author, is in the thick of things in Germany right this minute. Mrs. Vorse always has to see things for herself. Two years ago at peaceful Woodstock, a group of artists lounging about at tea time on a summer day, saw a taxi careening down the road at terrific speed. It came to a stop for a minute. Mrs. Vorse stuck her head out of the window. "England's gone off the gold standard," she shouted. "I'm sailing in the morning." And away went the taxi.

And women of middle age who are interested only in dancing, excluding other interests. A fixation may occur at any one of four stages. The first stage reaches up to five years and a person whose emotional life stays fixed at this stage becomes too interested in the satisfactions which are wholesome at four but should not make up the whole of life at forty. This is the stage which you might call "self-love." The young child loves his body, he loves to eat and to admire himself. One who is fixed at this stage shows a marked interest in his body and the joys of muscular effort. He may become an athlete with no interest in business or marriage, or he may find his main satisfaction in eating, or he may pay all his attention to clothes and his appearance. All his love is centered on himself.

At a luncheon at the Junior League Club, where Bessie La Flette, Miss O'Leary McCormick, Evelyn Dwyer, members of the Foreign Policy Association and other important people were with questions, she only managed to eat one bite of chicken patty and two spoonfuls of chocolate ice cream between replies to her questions.

And, says Dorothy Thompson, "just get millions of men, women and children marching, and they all will think they are going somewhere."

NEW MOTOR FUEL DENIES ALL CLIMATE

Seemingly Unaffected by Sub-Arctic or Death Valley Extremes.

Ready for trial and use by motorists in New York and New England, a brand new motor fuel called Socony Mobilgas is announced by the Standard Oil Company of New York, Inc.

Climatic control is highly important to car owners, because by it Socony Mobilgas delivers full power regardless of weather changes which affect engine performance.

Next the engineers varied climatic control in four amazing extremes out-of-doors. The first was an expedition to Snow Factory, Ontario.

Next the engineers varied climatic control in four amazing extremes out-of-doors. The first was an expedition to Snow Factory, Ontario.

Professor John F. Dodge of the University of Southern California, who supervised the test, said of Socony-Vacuum gasoline and Mobilgas: "In our experience, no petroleum products have ever been subjected to such drastic heat tests as regards operating conditions."

Having thus proved the effectiveness of climatic control regardless of extreme heat and low altitude, the engineers drove the test cars out of Death Valley to the nearby slopes of Mt. Whitney—the highest peak in the United States—in order to establish its performance at high altitude.

But laboratory tests and engineering tests do not constitute all the proof of climatic control. In addition, in special test areas, it has performed in the engines of thousands of cars in regular service.

Motor car owners have been able to prove that, regardless of temperature, in mountain country and on level ground, climatic control does all the engineers say it will do.

NEW HAMPSHIRE STRIKE NOW NEARING THE END

Nearly 8,000 Textile Workers to Vote Tomorrow to Go Back—National Guardsmen Withdrawn.

Manchester, N. H., May 26.—(AP)—A massive manufacturing company's 7,800 striking textile workers will vote tomorrow on the question of accepting a 15 per cent increase in wages and returning to work.

Balloting will be under the direction of the Textile Council of Manchester.

The strike which has been marked by a number of violent clashes came to a tentative end yesterday when Gov. John E. Peterson, Catholic bishop of Manchester, interceded.

Bishop Peterson announced the company management had agreed to his proposal to permit operatives to return to work Wednesday under 15 per cent wage increase.

Earlier in the day Governor John C. Winant ordered the withdrawal of National Guardsmen.

The strike began a week ago today after notices had been posted in the Amoskeag plants that the mills would be closed from May 28 to July 31, when they would be reopened and a 15 per cent wage increase effected.

YOUNG ROOSEVELT TALKS ON BANKERS

Says Fault Lies Not With the Financiers But With Those Who Made Law.

Boston, May 26.—(AP)—James Roosevelt, son of the President, says laws which give bankers "an unfair advantage" should be changed.

Commenting in a speech last night on disclosures concerning J. P. Morgan and Company, he said Morgan, his partners and probably many others like them in a lesser way have in no way violated the letter of the law and have acted strictly within their legal rights.

Returning to the fact that Morgan held no income tax in 1921 and 1922, he said:

"The legal fault lies not with Mr. Morgan, but with the law and those who drew and allowed such a thing to be."

Nothing illegal Morgan and many others, he went on, "have taken advantage of what the law allowed and you and I will agree they probably would have been unhampered if they had not done so."

He said there was "nothing illegal" in private citizens accepting chances to buy stock below market prices, but he added that "there comes up very clearly the necessity of prohibiting banking officials from having an interest in the marketing of securities because they might obligate themselves to do something not in the best interests of their depositors."

"Also," he said, "and perhaps equally important as a question of social justice, should anyone, merely because he is lucky enough to have friends with a lot of money, be allowed to receive what amounts to an unfair advantage in the purchase of investment securities over those who must buy them in the ordinary and established ways of dealing through security houses? As a moral issue, I believe not."

GO TO HUB TO SEE SON, JOE McCUSKEY, RUN

Mr. and Mrs. John McCuskey of Foster street left this afternoon for Boston where they will remain overnight and tomorrow to see their son, Joseph P. McCuskey defend his title in the 3,000 meter event of the intercollegiate at Cambridge.

Joe has been installed as an overwhelming favorite to retain his honors in this event in what will be his final race as a student at Fordham University. McCuskey has been accepted as a member of the New York Athletic Club and plans to enter the national meet at the World's Fair in Chicago this summer, running either under the colors of Fordham or of the Athletic Club.

COUNTRY CHURCH NEEDED

Columbus, Ohio, May 26.—(AP)—The "Little Brown Church in the Wildwood" they sang about from the old-fashioned hymn books has far from lost its place in the religious movement of the day.

"The country church, rural and town," says a report prepared for delivery before the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States "is a tough and resistant factor in America's national life."

"The board testifies to the tenacity and persistence of the country church, and that there is an evident tendency for country people to worship in the smaller towns and villages."

Byers wrote the words to the famous marching song while a war prisoner at Columbia, S. C.

BIG VATS JUST SQUEEZED THROUGH "NOTCH" CUT

Great Vessels Gave Railroaders a Deal of Worry and Work While Brewery Waits.

Two huge copper vats, manufactured in Massachusetts and on their way by railroad freight to a Milwaukee brewery gave the celebrated "Bullet" fast freight crew a worrisome time and put the traffic department of the New Haven road to a good deal of extra work.

The vats, which were being transported on a flat car, overhung the right side of the car so far that the "bullet" conductor and engineer became doubtful whether the train could get through the narrow cut at the Notch without the vats colliding with the rocky wall.

The crew set off the flat car with the vats at Andover, switching it to a siding. Then the "bullet" proceeded on its way.

The "bullet" crew's report on the Bolton Notch situation set the operating authorities to thinking.

If there was a question about the vat car getting through the Notch, the various freight yards along the route? Orders were sent out to yard crews here, in East Hartford and all through the division to the Millerton yards, to see that no car was standing on the heavy grade leading up to the Notch.

Then, yesterday, an engine was sent out from East Hartford to Andover to pick up the vat car and "inch" it through the Notch.

It went through all right and perhaps it would have gone through just the same if a piece of paper had been pasted on the vats at the point of their extreme width—if it were the piece.

It was originally expected that the vats would be in Milwaukee late yesterday but the unusual car load made so much trouble and caused so much delay that the brewery gets its vats by tomorrow morning it will be lucky.

THEATERS

Bargain of This Evening Today and Tomorrow

The entertainment bargain of the year is offered at the State today and Saturday with Jary Pickford and Leslie Howard in "Secrets" and Clyde Beatty and Anita Page in "The Big Cage" at the two theaters, and with Little Frankie Maluccio and his orchestra on the stage in a novel vaudeville set; also Fred Wray in the organ.

On Saturday afternoon the theater will be given an added treat to all of this show when they see another thrilling chapter of "Clancy of the Mounted."

On Sunday comes another giant double feature program with Edward G. Robinson leading into society in "The Little Giant" and "Forgotten" with William Collier, Jr. Next Wednesday Manchester adults will see "Bondage" with Dorothy Johnson.

"Secrets" is one of the most beautiful productions that has yet come out of Hollywood, and the star looks younger and more amazingly pretty than ever.

Her performance in "Clancy of the Mounted" is the work of a genius in the field, especially that of Leslie Howard in the role of a romantic lover.

The story begins in Salem, Mass., travels across the continent to Monterey, Calif. and back again to Washington, D. C., returning with it the life threat of two people, following their last careers from youth to old age.

"Secrets" was filmed once before in its silent days, with Norma Talmadge in the "Clancy" role. Although brought up to date in its current version, it has lost nothing of its savor and charm.

A few small liberties have been taken, such as omitting the story in New England and closing it in Washington, D. C. The reason for this we are told is that Mary felt that an English accent is foreign to her and would sound awkward in this interesting story of the character of her character.

In addition to beauty and romance, there is also plenty of melodrama. While raising cattle in the West, the "Clancy" is kidnapped by a band of cattle rustlers in a terrifying night fight which deals death along with justice.

If you have ever stood in the center of a barred arena, completely surrounded by 40 snarling, roaring lions and tigers, you can form some idea of the thrills which await you in "The Big Cage."

Clyde Beatty, the greatest of wild animal tamer, plays the featured role in "The Big Cage."

FORGET PARTY LINES SAYS SEN. WALCOTT

Get Behind Administration and Depression Will Soon Be Thing of Past, He Declares.

Norfolk, Conn., May 26.—(AP)—United States Senator Frederic Walcott told his home folks last night that "party lines are forgotten" and "depression" behind the administration the depression will soon be a thing of the past."

Senator Walcott, who flew from Washington by airplane came to Norfolk to speak to the Norfolk Tea Company after addressing the State Chamber of Commerce convention in Hartford during the day.

His trip was delayed as a fog-bank over the New Jersey coast drove the plane out of its course by forty miles.

C. Burgess Fisher of Hartford outlined the causes of fires and their prevention.

GUN TOTER ARRESTED

New York, May 26.—(AP)—Because he still had in his possession two guns which were part of his equipment on a South American exploring expedition, Harry Dibble, 37, of Redlands, Cal., was arrested as he arrived on the steamer Blivia yesterday.

New York police received a top on his possession of the guns because a fellow passenger stole one of them with which to kill himself while the ship was in the harbor of the island of St. Vincent, British West Indies. Authorities there cleared Dibble of all blame, but notified the New York authorities.

A detective went aboard the Blivia as it docked yesterday and arrested Dibble on a charge of violating the Sullivan law.

DARLING FOOL

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MONNIE O'DARE, beautiful and young, sails for Europe with her old friend, MISS ANSTICE O'BERRY, trying to forget DARLING FOOL, who Monnie believes has jilted her for SANDRA LAWRENCE. In New York Monnie encountered ARTHUR MACKENZIE, a middle-aged man of wealth. She meets him again on the boat and he obviously admires her.

Monnie is poor and the trip is a Cinderella adventure for her. Back home she has left her mother, sister and two brothers and CHARLES EUSTACE, handsome newcomer in town who has paid her attentions. The rich and society preference CORINTH FANEWAY, a friend of Mackenzie's, is also on the ship with her recently acquired husband.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXI

The second day out Monnie, bundled in a rug, glanced up from her book to see the tall girl, Corinth FaneWAY, walking with her husband, Young Mr. FaneWAY, who were the most exquisite of casual costumes of pale fawn tweed. The little hat set at precisely the right angle, the big loose gloves and low-heeled shoes were exactly right. The tall girl gave Monnie a nod and then, apparently obeying a sudden impulse, stopped beside her chair.

"Do you know my husband, Miss O'Dare? Oh, I'd forgotten. Harris, this is Miss O'Dare." She gave Monnie a slow, dancing smile and the younger girl felt her radiant charm. She had a sweet, high, care-free voice and the manner of one with the world at her feet. Monnie felt drawn to her and yet curiously repelled.

"I haven't seen Arthur this morning. Have you?" The words seemed to have some significance which Monnie missed but she colored slightly as she replied. No, she said, she hadn't seen Mr. Mackenzie. Not at luncheon.

"Probably in the bar," supplied Harris FaneWAY. "Shall we have a look there?"

"They drifted on, with a casual nod. Monnie tried to read again but the encounter had left her with a disturbed feeling. It was not envy she felt for Corinth FaneWAY—surely not that—but this other girl was so beautiful, so sure of herself. She reminded Monnie in some subtle way of Sandra, although Sandra would have paled to insignificant beside her. Monnie did not want to think of Sandra now. She wanted to look ahead—not backward.

Presently, putting her novel aside, she went to find Miss Anstice. That lady was just walking from her map.

"Did you have a nice time, my dear?" she asked. "Such a wonderful rest I had. I feel quite refreshed!" Miss Anstice was patting her silvery curls into place.

"Oh, I'd quite forgotten. Mr. Mackenzie sent a note by the steward—such a nice note—asking if we would dine with him tonight. Don't you think that would be lovely?"

Monnie said faintly that she thought it would be quite delightful but her enthusiasm and Miss Anstice glanced at her sharply. The child must be feeling the motion of the boat, she decided. Monnie looked rather pale. Or perhaps it had been that salmon mayonnaise at luncheon. Miss Anstice never quite trusted salmon mayonnaise.

Monnie could not have explained quite why she wished to avoid the magnificent Mr. Arthur Mackenzie. Surely he was all that anyone could wish in the way of a traveling companion. He was tall and witty, wise, a man of the world with an air of amusing tales at his tongue's end. Perhaps it was, she thought, the way he looked at her. There was something in the glance from those dark, deep shadowed eyes which reminded her of the girl with wide starry eyes under a gleaming cap of burnished bronze hair.

The dinner frock she selected that night was one chosen with the greatest possible care when she had made a flying trip to the city to spend the money her mother had given her. It was of pale cream lace, demurely cut in front but sheared away at the back to show her lovely shoulders. It had been a bargain. One of those slim, cheap, effective frocks which the young wear so charmingly. She had been delighted on finding it but tonight she was dissatisfied with her reflection in the mirror. The glass gave back the portrait of a girl with wide starry eyes under a gleaming cap of burnished bronze hair.

Monnie had, of course, no jewels to wear and her velvet wrap was an old one. Miss Anstice in silver lame which marked her new prosperity, approved of her.

"You look sweet enough to eat, my dear. The young men will be overwhelmed."

Monnie smiled politely. Miss Anstice was kind, but she hated her own looks. There was no ingenuously unfinished. If she had only the poise, the unmatched assurance of Corinth FaneWAY she would be content.

"More lipstick, my dear," Mrs. Anstice urged. "You can carry it off. It doesn't look bold. Thank heaven, I'm not so old style as my sister, Lida. She thinks every woman who uses cosmetics is on the straight road to perdition." Miss Anstice laughed her thinking laugh.

The dining room steward who had escorted them the night before conducted them now to a large round table decorated in gals fashion.

Arthur Mackenzie, seeming taller and more imposing in his dinner clothes, rose to greet them. There were half a dozen others already at tables. Among them Monnie recognized only Corinth and Harris FaneWAY. Corinth was darning in a work of scarlet. The gray-haired man next Miss Anstice was a naval captain, from the west. The red-haired woman next him was a young woman with eyes whom Monnie had seen at the dock with her sister.

Monnie was evidently an actress. Corinth FaneWAY said to her neighbor, "I loved your play. It was marvelous."

"Did you, my dear?" The red-haired woman flashed a smile around the table. She had a deep, thrilling voice and her pearls were magnificent. Monnie thought. She was startled, therefore, to hear FaneWAY's whisper a moment later.

"Woodworth," he murmured, jerking his handsome head in the direction of the red-haired woman.

Monnie could scarcely believe he had spoken, so impassive was his lean brown countenance. She supposed he must be right. Probably it was born a FaneWAY you know all about such things. Monnie felt sorry for the red-haired woman. Perhaps she, too, didn't belong in this group. Mr. FaneWAY at least seemed to regard her as an outsider. He was so elegant, so cynical for one so young. He seemed to have been born here.

The dinner progressed from one course to another. Wine stewards came and went, jangling their keys, pouring pale colored liquids into crystal stemmed glasses. The railroad president drank, unobtrusive and talked. Monnie thought him very pleasant, although grim. Harris FaneWAY drank and grew more monosyllabic. Corinth drank and laughed a great deal, her lovely mouth twisting cynically as she spoke.

Monnie left the glass at her plate untouched. She needed no such spur to make the party exciting. The scene itself was enough for her—the beautifully gowned women, the imperious men of affairs, the well-trained servants moving to and fro. Her eyes flashed a message to Miss Anstice. "This is life—at least I am seeing it. The Great World!"

Miss Anstice flashed back, wordlessly, "You are right. Make the most of it."

Recklessly Monnie decided that she would take whatever came on this adventure as a gift from the gods. She would be young only once. This was her golden opportunity. It was in this mood she rose with the others from the table.

"Some of us are playing contract in the salon," Mackenzie said to her in a low tone. "Do you care to join?"

Monnie looked up, smiling. "I'm afraid I'm not clever enough. I don't play well."

His tone was relieved rather than otherwise. "Good. I'm not playing myself. Will you take a turn on the deck with me?"

She assented and, after seeing Miss Anstice comfortably established at a table, strolled with her host on the almost deserted promenade. It was a clear, cool night of high winds and friendly stars. Belvedere and all her old problems seemed far away.

"You like—all this?" His long arm included the dancers within, the rhythmic pound of the unseen band, the slip-slip of feet.

"Nothing to be desired, eh?" Monnie withdrew her eyes and a sigh that was like a stab escaped her. "No—I wouldn't say that."

The older man eyed her keenly. "Never the time and place and the loved one together," he said ruminatively.

"I suppose that's it," admitted the girl ruefully. Then she turned aside in embarrassment. How easily

REALITY

By HELEN WELSHMER

I WHO walked in Heaven
 For awhile have found
 Earth is insufficient
 Since you aren't around.

FOOLISH small things make me
 Start in sudden pain—
 Early morn'g, spring evening,
 But still in the rain.

SOMEONE'S shadow falling
 Long across my floor—
 Will I copy something
 Your knock on the door?

ONCE small things enmeshed me
 Tulips, books, songs, seas
 Now I find no pleasure
 In such things as these.

COMING down from Heaven
 Earth is strangely bare,
 And I know the reason—
 You aren't anywhere!

Congress' Only "Secretary-Husband" Is Happy In Job He Calls "Labor of Love"

By JULIA BLANSHARD

Washington, D. C.—Daniel McCarthy puts reverse English on the Washington political tradition of "the little woman's helping her husband."

He holds the unique position of being secretary to his Congresswoman wife, Kathryn O'Loughlin McCarthy.

"But 'm not on the Federal payroll," was his first comment. "Mine is just labor of love," he added smilingly.

Looking up from a roll-topped desk in her outer office, a desk piled high with letters, pamphlets, memos and other paraphernalia that collectors of a Representative's gear would recognize, McCarthy described his "duties."

Office Details Keep Him Busy

"Well, I meet everybody who comes in with requests or problems," he said. "I see the Senator, I make her appointments, look things up for her and try to be useful generally. But of course she has a stenographer, too," he added, a bit apologetic that he couldn't do better.

"If you ask her," he said, "she will say I'm not much good because I'm so interested in what's going on in Washington. I just had the coming of Senator McCarthy, the Lunderbeck impeachment sessions in the Senate, and certain Supreme Court sessions," he explained.

The story behind this pleasant, humorous silver-haired man's becoming secretary to Senator McCarthy is an unusual as the job he now holds.

Four years ago when Kathryn O'Loughlin ran for Congress out of Kansas, McCarthy, Daniel McCarthy, opposed her in the primaries. He worked his best to defeat her. But he didn't know her, personally.

When she finally became acquainted with her, he first began to appreciate her buoyant spirit, her wit, her practical way of going straight to the heart of problems and trying to solve them in a straight-forward manner.

The first thing he knew he was in love with her, and she, in turn, fell in love with him. They "got ed up" by getting married.

The missing link was Senator McCarthy. McCarthy saw to Washington and took over some of the burden of office that his wife had assumed.

They have much in common. Both are lawyers. Both successful in politics. They have a little apartment and both help make it a real home.

Declares Wife Is "Boss"

Realizing how important are her duties, he thoughtfully shouldered all the responsibility he can, though he is careful to let you know that Congresswoman McCarthy is the boss and he the secretary.

"We both have applied for admittance to practice before the Supreme Court," he said, proudly. "So far as I can find out, when we are admitted, it will be the first time any couple have appeared simultaneously before the Supreme Court. That pleases us both," he added.

His job may be just a temporary one for her, but McCarthy's his Senate position calls him. But it gives him a thrill to be breaking precedent as only a lawyer could possibly enjoy breaking precedent.

"And I'm having a perfectly grand time in Washington," he concluded. "I recommend secretarial work for Congresswomen as a mighty fine vocation for men."

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Gasoline cost U. S. motorists $2,382,000,000 in 1929. Of this amount $586,000,000 represented taxes.

Experiments designed to produce a cheap motor fuel from wood are being carried on in Czechoslovakia. One-fourth of all the motor cars consumed in the United States is used in autos.

There are slightly more than 3,000,000 miles of trunk roads in the United States, with 350,000 miles in state highway systems.

Sir Malcolm Campbell's "Bluebird" used a gallon of gas every quarter-mile in his record run at Dayton's Beach this year.

Thomas Hill, of Macleod, Mich., is said to be the oldest automobile driver in the world at an age of 112. He always drives in second gear and never exceeds 12 miles an hour.

Income from automotive freight exceeds the railroads' annual tax bill.

FOR YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

MOTHERS, TOO, LEARN BY EXPERIENCE

Let me begin today with an apology. It is this. In my articles I frequently criticize the methods of "certain" mothers. I do this without animus or indictment. I find, however, that by calling attention to the mistakes of other people (and I include myself in this, for no mother is infallible) there are brought home to us many things we may avoid. Very often it happens that certain mistakes of our own would never occur to us unless someone called to our attention the fact that someone else has done it too.

Some of the things I criticize most are done by women I like best. Some of them are things I do or have done myself, until I had my own eyes opened. And I still make many mistakes. As my children grow older I see, every day, where I should like to go back and correct things I did not know about at the time.

"Was the Mrs. Brown?"

Not long ago I talked to a woman who was sure I had her in mind when I wrote a certain article. When I discovered what the article was about I laughed. "My dear!" I cried. "There is only one person on earth who could possibly be offended by that story and that is myself. I was the Mrs. Brown of that tale. I often write about my mistakes both present and past. I wasn't even thinking of you."

It is the mother who is alert to her own mistakes who makes the most progress. The one with the closed mind may see too late what she has done, or not done.

For instance a friend of mine some years ago had two girls over six years of age when a boy baby came along. She had always been a mother of knowing how to handle children without the aid of any specialist or a book. She never welcomed suggestions.

She had made a good job of her girls. Finer, more straight-forward, unspoiled and unprejudiced little children I never knew but the boy from his cradle was different. He had a will, he had a temper, and the usual methods of regularity, firmness, and kindness did not work. He was a young devil from way back so it seemed.

Partnership Proves Solution

Then, at last she acknowledged that she had to have help to control him. She was willing to own her mistake, not possibly make the grade alone.

This little boy was very affectionate. He was also very, very intelligent. Said I, "You have a child who will mature mentally very quickly. Naturally he will be impatient. Such children always are. Be careful that he does not become impatient with you. You can never control him. Once in a while we have a child of strong character who never can be controlled as we know the word in its usual sense. You will have to make it a partnership and gain your influence that way. Keep him very busy and be busy with him. Once he bolts your last vestige of influence will be gone. Guide him, but don't over-boss him."

She listened. She stopped her other methods. She and the boy became great chums and had wonderfully jolly times together. She was on the verge of losing him, but she went for help in time and took advice. The only way to reach that child was through a fifty-fifty friendly and a rein made of rubber instead of leather.

The American Automobile Association, conducting road tests with cars using 10 per cent alcohol blended with gasoline, reports that general use of this type of fuel would result in an increase of $600,000,000 to the annual motor fuel bill of the United States.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alice Hart

GET YOUR SUNTAN CAUTIOUSLY

You'll have to make up your mind immediately whether to go suntan or not this summer.

"If you take a 'thumbs down' on tans, take a look at the new sun-proof beauty lotion which is designed to sun-proof the skin against tans from sunburn, tan and freckles.

It is a lovely pinkish lotion of pleasant odor and cool to the touch and you just paint it onto your arms, face, neck and hands with a wet of cotton dipped into water and march out into the sun's blaze sure that you'll come back just as delicate a shade as you left.

If you go suntan, do remember to take it easy. Get some suntan oil that prevents burning too quickly, which always hurts.

And, until you get your proper shade of suntan, there is a new suntan lotion that you can apply to get the effect that you really will have later in the season. It is a deep, rich suntan in color, is applied with cotton in a once-over manner to your face, neck, arms and hands. And it makes you look as if you have spent your summer at the beach, before you even start.

For city girls who must work in offices when they would much prefer lounging at the beach or in the mountains, this suntan lotion is a boon. It gives you such a vacation look! And you all know the psychological uplift to yourself and those you see if you can have that look—whether you've had the vacation or not.

Last, but not least, change your make-up to suit your new suntan.

Blemishes and blackheads are ugly words. But if you have them you may as well face the facts and then begin treatment to remedy the condition.

Blackheads, compared to pimples, blemishes or worst yet, acne, are fairly simple to deal with. Good plain soap and water used in conjunction with a rough wash cloth or a complexion brush goes far toward eliminating blackheads.

As you probably know, large pores are the root of the evil. Dirt gets into them and causes blackheads. It is always necessary to know the cause if you are to get a satisfactory result from anything which has to do with the complexion.

First of all, wash your face briskly with a soapy wash cloth. Second, rinse it with hot water or apply steaming towels. Now place a piece of soft gauze over your index fingers and gently press out all the blackheads which come out easily. Rinse your face in ice water, rub on an astringent to close the pores and consider yourself well on the way to riddance of blackheads. Repeat this treatment every other night.

Never squeeze your face too vigorously. You are apt to injure the delicate tissues of the skin and leave permanent blemishes.

Pimples should be opened, after the same cleansing process as above, with a sterilized needle and then an antiseptic applied to them. If they persist in coming back see a doctor.

Your diet has a great deal to do with a beautiful, clear skin. Drink ten glasses of water a day, eat no fats or rich desserts, and see that you have plenty of fresh vegetables at least once a day.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

NO MISERY ON THESE ACRES HERE'S A NOVELIST WHOSE FARM TALES IS NOT A TRAGEDY

By BRUCE CATTON

A modern novel that tells about life on a New England farm is usually pretty dark and dreary. Novelists seem to agree that, so New England farmers have any run, and in writing about them they generally slip gloomy tales of insanity, suicide, torture and slow death.

All of which helps to make "As the Earth Turns," by Gladys Hasty Carroll, a very surprising story. This novel of New England farm life is joyous and robust. Its main characters are not black-and-white and perverse; they are alert and upstanding, living in harmony with the rich earth, drawing from their fields a spiritual sustenance which is none the less nourishing for the fact that they never talk about it.

The book tells about the Shaw family of Maine; old Mark Shaw, the patriarchal head of the family, his daughter Jen, his son Ed—three people who could hardly live a life as satisfying as the one they have.

To be sure, Mrs. Shaw is a weary complainer whom Eugene O'Neill might have invented, and young George Shaw has not set the track straight; but they would have been unhappy failures in any place. By contrast with them there is Stan Janowsky, the Pole, who fits himself into Maine farm life and finds it very good.

These people work hard and enjoy few luxuries; and they find life good, not in spite of those things but because of them. They represent the American rural tradition at its best. The tradition, Mrs. Carroll finds, is still full of life.

"As the Earth Turns," offered by Macmillan for $2.50 is the latest choice of the Book-of-the-Month Club.

CHICKEN SALAD, COLONY

Entertaining for June bride can be the most festive party over which you ever presided. It's all in the decorations and sets.

With June offering blooms gratis in every garden, your home can be a bower of loveliness with little effort.

Whether it is to show you give for just the bride, or a bride party for the bride and groom or a reception for the young couple, chicken salad Colony is a handsome-looking plate de resistance.

This is the way you make it and serve it:

cutting a bone. Dice and add as much diced celery as you have chicken; season with salt, pepper, English mustard, some Worcester-shire sauce, the juice of one lemon and mix with that enough mayonnaise to hold together.

Now comes the tricky part of this de luxe salad. When your salad is ready spread it over the crispness of the two birds, arranging the amount of chicken to suit the chicken is really distinguished.

When the birds are all spread out and packed on the flat chicken, serve the chicken with mayonnaise and celery with a garnish of lettuce.

Both the chicken whole until Then place a few vegetables on an oval shaped silver platter long enough to accommodate the two chickens arranged lengthwise. Press the chickens on this pedestal, with their feet tucked under them, and meet fully or ordinarily politeness give them a smooth, glazed effect. Garnish the dish with parsley and lemon cut in star shapes. Between the two chickens pour little white chicken consommé.

There is the more decorative part of the salad and it must be served over each of the two birds. It is an available recipe for the party and it is easy to make.

Tour Deflates Dodgers, Drop to Seventh Place

Brooklyn Hits Losing Streak Against Western Teams; National Leaders Idle Yesterday; A's Tie White Sox for Third in Amerk; Senators Take 2nd.

(By Associated Press)
The Brooklyn Dodgers who looked for a while like one of the important teams of the National League have undergone a thorough process of deflation since they began to tour the western half of the circuit.

After taking the first three games in the west, the Dodgers turned around and lost five out of six to Chicago and Pittsburgh and then ran into a four-to-one defeat in their first game at Cincinnati yesterday which dropped them into seventh place.

The victory sent Cincinnati into fourth place again as the Chicago Cubs knocked Boston's Braves loose from their first division berth with a 3 to 0 victory behind Pat Malone's two hit hurling and jumped from seventh to fifth, a half game behind the Reds. The first three clubs in the league were idle at New York and Pittsburgh were rained out in St. Louis and Philadelphia had an open date.

Grove Saves Another
The American League's feature game presented the familiar spectacle of Lefty Grove stepping in to save a game for the Athletics. He did it for the fifth consecutive game, pitching the last four innings as the A's beat the Detroit Tigers 4-3 in 12 frames and moved into a tie with the Chicago White Sox for third place.

Washington regained second place by pasting three St. Louis pitchers for 14 hits and a 7 to 2 victory. Cleveland's four game losing streak ended in Boston when the Indians edged out a 3 to 2 victory in a mound duel between Mel Harder and Gordon Rhodes. The opener between the White Sox and the New York Yankees was halted by wet grounds.

Umpire Is Injured
Chicago, May 26.—(AP)—Umpire Quigley of the National League today was temporarily out of action, the result of contact with an exposed electric wire.

After yesterday's game between the Chicago Cubs and the Boston Braves, while changing his clothes, Quigley, damp from his work, backed into the wire in the umpire's dressing room. Dr. John F. Davis, the Chicago club physician said.

He was knocked unconscious but was revived after Umpire George Barr had called for help, and was taken to the Illinois Masonic hospital. Dr. Davis said his condition was good but that it would not be advisable for him to work for several days.

SHIRES IN FIGHT GETS HEAD BUMPS

"The Great" Engages in a Free-for-All Following a House Party in Louisville.

Louisville, May 26.—(AP)—Arthur Shires and Jimmy Adair, American Association baseball players, were among five persons charged with malicious assault after a high party in which Jack Deacon, 33, received a compound fracture of the right leg.

Shires, Robert Armstrong, 26, and Carris Potts were out and bruised in the fight which occurred at the Deacon home, and had their injuries treated at a hospital. Adair, only slightly hurt, did not require hospital treatment.

The two baseball players, Deacon, Armstrong and the Potts woman all were charged with malicious assault by police who were called to the home to quell the disturbance. Shires had two bumps on his head and a cut on his nose.

Details of Fight
Officers said Shires told them the fight started when an attempt was made to steal $132 from Adair. Deacon was the first to be attacked, according to police report, and Adair left before officers arrived. He later was arrested at his home. Shires, Armstrong and the Potts woman were taken to police headquarters from the hospital.

Shires and Adair were released under $500 each for appearance in Police Court today. Armstrong and the Potts woman were jailed for the night.

IT'S IN THE FIST By LAUFER

BAER, THE PSYCHOLOGIST

On his right hand he had broken in a fight a couple of years ago. He explained:
"I made a mistake when I hit that coon on the head. It was a safe bet will try some of it."

Hands are next to legs, a fighting man's most important equipment. At the time Max's left was swathed in a soaked bandage. I asked him about it and got this:
"Just another one of my weaknesses. I like to hit guys. I'm going to suffer from that same weakness when Schmeling and I begin our quarrelling."

But with all his fighting Baer has a psychology all his own, and it's a safe bet will try some of it. Max Schmeling when he meets the German June 5 for the right to fight for the world championship.

About his psychology:
"There was one fight when I think I got the guy's goat. That was Ernie Schauf. Just before we fought in Chicago last fall, there were a lot of stories about how I had reformed and was training seriously."
"Max: Does not say 'foolin' 'trainin' — he says 'foolin' 'trainin', and explains in his Jewish ancestry speaking."
"At that time there were stories about Schauf being in love with a Park Avenue waitress. So as we came to the center of the ring, I said to Ernie, 'So this is Ernie Schauf, the Great Lover?'"
"He was quiet on the comeback, thought, and said, 'And I suppose you are Max Baer, the Great Fighter?'"
"I said, 'You never said anything truer, Ernie, and I'm going to let you be the guy to prove it.'"
"Schauf went down on his in the 10th round, frozen stiff, after taking a vicious beating. He was out for ten minutes, but the bell ending the fight saved him technically from a knockout."

While Baer was telling me this story, he was riding a bicycle about the yard in his training quarters, a frame house in an Atlantic City residential district. He would regulate his voice with the distance he happened to be from where I was standing. The neighbors got a load of it, too. Children came running. He was wearing a double-breasted, four-pocketed, trouser, suspenders and slippers—that's all. Apparently the death of Frankie Campbell had no effect on his intention to slash his way to the top.

"It might have been me," he replied to a question. "Just thought that it had to be Frankie."

Max was asked about his wardrobe, of which much has been written. He hopped off the bike, let it fall with a clang and invited all hands upstairs. We climbed the steps of the two-story house. The two rooms above were crammed tippy-tippy with trunks, grips and other typical training camp impediments.

"I didn't bring much this time," he said with a grin, as he opened a couple of closet doors in which he had and overcoat were hanging in profusion. Roughly, about 10 suits and five overcoats.

"But why all the overcoats?"
"Why, you never can tell—when this eastern climate," was the surprising reply.

Next: Baer against Schmeling.

STANFORD FAVORED TO REGAIN TITLE, DESPITE INJURIES

Two Stars Disabled But Tempton's Team Picked to Win NCAA Meet at Cambridge; Records May Fall.

Cambridge, Mass., May 26.—(AP)—Stanford's chances of justifying the position of favorite in the track and field events for the championship with the qualifying trials today, apparently hinged on the ability of two disabled stars to come through. Captain Ben Eastman, middle distance man and Bill Miller, the Olympic pole vault champion.

Despite the general conviction that the Indians can recapture the team title from Southern California and the best the east has to offer, without winning performance by either Eastman or Miller, R. L. (Dink) Templeton, Stanford coach was pessimistic.

"With all our men in first class shape I would not hesitate to pick our team to win," said Templeton today, "but as it stands now, we will need every point we can get."

Expect New Records
Trials this afternoon in Harvard stadium in 11 of 16 championship events starting at one p. m. R. W. was expected to give a definite line on the relative strength of Stanford and U. S. C. Yale was regarded the strongest of thirty eastern entries but the best the mile could hope for was third place, barring some spectacular upsets.

The ICAAAA pole vault record of 14 feet 3 inches, held by Bill Graber of Southern California, seemed certain to be surpassed with the new contender who has soared that high or higher, including Graber, Miller and Keith Brown, Yale son. Brown also was entered against such stars as George Spitz of New York U. Duncan McWhorter and Bob Van Odell, both of U. S. C. in the high jump.

In a rousing ninth, inning rally that furnished a wealth of thrilling excitement, Manchester High's baseball aggregation came back from the brink of defeat at Mt. Nebo field yesterday afternoon to edge Middletown High by a score of 5 to 4, and in so doing avenged a previous 11 to 4 trouncing and climbed into a tie with West Hartford for second place in the C. C. I. L. standing.

Score Twice in 8th
No cause seemed more hopeful than did that of the Red and White warriors as they came to bat in the last half of the eighth. Middletown sported a 4 to 0 advantage, gained through Manchester's display of poor fielding and failure to hit in the pinches.

Juraski of Middletown walked the first man to face him in the eighth. Rautenberg. Then Sandrowski left into a double play, rapping the ball to third, whence it was thrown to second and then to first for the put out. Bob Smith singled inside of first and Rautenberg was hit by a pitched ball to place two men on the bases. Captain Mahoney, whose batting average has been of the lowest order all season, tripled between center and left field, scoring two runs. Katkevek grounded out to end the inning.

How Game Was Won
The score stood 2 to 2 when the last half of the ninth came up. Zeabert was walked, then was caught at second on a fielder's choice that put Kennedy safe on first. "Chucky" Smith singled over first and Kennedy went around to third. Smith tried to make second on the play and was caught far from the bag.

Rautenberg singled over second, driving home Kennedy, then stole second. Sandrowski was next at bat. With three balls and two strikes, it was a tense situation and many felt the ball game was over. But Sandrowski walked. Bob Smith came to bat and rapped out a hot drive just inside of first. The second baseman came up fast to field the ball fumbled and Smith was safe at first as the tying and winning run crossed the plate. And with this spectacular finish the contest ended.

Credit Bob Smith
To Bob Smith goes the credit for the victory. Recruited from right field, the stocky redhead was given the pitching assignment, due to Ray Berger's having left school Wednesday and Smith acquitted himself in a splendid manner, allowing only six hits in all, three of which were made by Pesoni. Smith was inclined to be wild at times and tossed four bases on balls and got but two strikeouts. But then it was the first time that he has pitched a game and he should steady down in future contests.

Smith also starred at bat, getting four hits in five times at the plate one a double. His single in the eighth started the rally that netted two runs and his liner in the ninth, which caused a Middletown fumble, scored the two runs necessary to win the game. All in all, it was Smith's game.

PIG RANCH YOUTH BUYS LARGE CARS

SEES BLOW FROM FIST BRING FIGHTER DEATH

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of six articles from the training camps of Max Baer and Max Schmeling, who battle June 5 for the right to meet the champion.

By BILL BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Editor

Atlantic City, May 26.—Amazing chapters have been written into the life of the 24-year-old boy-animal, Max Baer.

Four years ago he was a pig rancher and butcher boy at Livermore, Calif. Since then he has—

Enacted a newspaper serial story with his marriages to beautiful actresses and his divorces.
Seen one man, Frankie Campbell, die in the ring after a blow from his fist.
Played the role of villain in tales to the effect that it was the terrific beating he gave poor Ernie Schauf that started the Boston sailor boy on the death trail.
After one fight, in the east, for which his share was $15,000, spent it all before he rolled up to the flag stop at Livermore, sitting in a 16-cylinder automobile with chauffeur attached.
Fought some terrible fights, losing to Riako and Loughran, and to Paulino in 20 rounds under Rene's sun.
And, turned in some exhibitions of punching power that brought to mind a picture of the Old Mauler himself.
Daffy Guy, Playboy, Flighty Flora—these are some of the names the sports world has coined for Max. But he goes on unperturbed, a magnificent fighting animal, urged on by an unquenchable instinct. He loves to fight. Ringdom looks up to him for that.

ON AID LIST OF CITY, HE DRIVES CAR DRUNK

Hartford Man Jailed by Manchester Judge—Says His Wife Stood "Beer" Better.

Zoe Vachon of 494 Park street, Hartford, was arrested at 3 o'clock this morning at the "Green" for driving an automobile without a license and driving while under the influence of liquor. Vachon was arrested by Officer Joseph Prentice who observed the manner of his driving.

According to the officer two men were in the car and both were drunk. In court this morning Vachon pleaded guilty to both charges. When arrested he told the officer that the other fellow was teaching him to drive. It turned out however, that Vachon had been driving a car for fifteen years. He had a license two years ago.

Vachon admitted that he was getting aid from the city of Hartford and said he was due to get work today and tomorrow for the city. He claimed that he had drunk but two bottles of beer and said that his wife had drunk just as much as he did and she was not drunk.

Judge Raymond A. Johnson imposed a fine of $10 for driving a car without a license and $100 and costs for driving while intoxicated. Vachon was unable to pay and was taken to jail to work out his fine and costs.

HERRUP'S NEW STORE IS DEMONSTRATION PLANT

You See Furniture There in Room Settings That Make It Look the "Home Way."

The name Herrup has been synonymous with furniture for many years in Hartford and all the towns surrounding Hartford. Many years ago, when Louis Herrup was still operating the business, people who were looking for good values in household furniture invariably turned to Herrup's. He built up a reputation that was far-reaching and enduring.

Following the disastrous fire that destroyed the old store at the corner of Main and Morgan streets, the business was moved to its present location in its present beautiful quarters at Allyn and Trumbull streets. This new store, in a modern building, has given the management an opportunity to express itself as never before. It is located in a live-wire business section that is rapidly becoming a shopping center. It is a certainty that more business is being done along Trumbull street than ever before and it is predicted that this section of the city will at a not distant day successfully rival Main street.

With the advent of the new store, Herrup's had additional floor space enough to lay out more than a dozen separate rooms on their second floor. Each is furnished in a different manner, complete in every detail, as it would look in your own home. They are of great assistance in choosing furniture and have met with great approval from hundreds of customers. These rooms have just been redecorated and rearranged and are well worth visiting. However, Herrup's have not lost sight of the policies that made the store what it is today. You still get the same reliable service and they still read in furniture values.

AUTOIST EXONERATED OF CRIMINAL BLAME

East Hartford Man Praised by Coroner for His Attempt to Avoid Fatal Accident.

Middletown, May 26. — (AP)—Charles Hollister, 76, of East Hartford, is exonerated of criminal blame for the death of Henry Spencer, 19, struck by his car May 5, while on the Baybrook road on his way to this city, in a finding today by Coroner L. A. Smith. Hollister is commended by the coroner for his efforts to avoid Spencer who was riding a bicycle. While the finding does not say so, for lack of evidence on the point, the theory was that Spencer veered into the path of Hollister's machine when his foot slipped off a pedal. Hollister turned to avoid Spencer but did not clear him. The latter was thrown to the road and died from his injuries while on the way to the hospital. Hollister's car with his wife and a woman guest went down a 84-foot embankment, all being hurt. Hollister had been to Clinton on a fishing trip. Spencer was a highway department employe.

BUILDING IN STATE SHOWS SLIGHT GAINS

Building permits issued by cities and towns in Connecticut during a month of April continued to show the same slight progress as compared with March that the latter month showed over February, it is revealed in the monthly building survey taken by the Freight Traffic Department of the New Haven Railroad among twenty-four communities along its lines. The total increase among these communities as compared with March permits amounted to less than $50,000, however. New London topped the list for April with permits valued at $141,850. Bridgeport and New Haven were in second and third positions, respectively. All three leaders gained over their March figures. At New Britain, Danbury, Middletown, Hartford, Meriden, Middletown, Naugatuck, Norwich and Wethersfield.

Hoover drove the "bonus boys" out of Washington with bayonets and gas. Roosevelt plans to drive them out by offering them work.

LESS LECTURING IS RECOMMENDED

return to the six grade plan in use before the war in place of the present one of 17 grades. A new type of partly interdepartmental major study has been voted by the faculty as an experiment to broaden major requirements for men who do not wish to specialize. These students will take certain courses in romance languages, history, philosophy, English and probably art.

President McConaughy said there is opportunity to consider a decrease in the number of courses offered, to increase the amount of conference work, and to decrease the amount of lecturing.

The only expansion will be in government and psychology, the former through presence on the faculty of former Congressman Frederick M.

Davenport as Frank B. Weeks visiting professor.

The president noted that of the present undergraduates those who entered college before their seventh year and are below the age average have taken more than their share of prizes, at the same time participating in extra curriculum activities.

To improve Chapel. It is hoped through special gifts to improve the chancel of memorial chapel, to provide a special experimentation room for the psychology department, and to provide additional shelf room in the library.

Westeyan's contributions to the welfare of the state of Connecticut during the year were summarized as: Mapping fieldpar and clay deposits near Middletown; studies of criminal justice in Meriden; the history of the Republican and Democratic parties in the state; investigations of the results of Connecticut's "pay as you go" policy in regard to state financing; of the effect of the of taxation of Connecticut tobacco; of taxation of Connecticut insurance companies; a history of taxation in Connecticut; investigations of the possibility of making use of tobacco stalks; of plant poisons; studies of industrial pollution, particularly of industrial wastes with consequent harmful results on fish development, especially shad; of the reading habits of college students; studies of old age relief in Connecticut alms houses; the development of a trade test of efficiency of employees in a local industry; a study of intelligence in connection with the state hospital and Long Lane farm during 1932-34; of sewage disposal in Middletown; of the effect of river traffic on the industrial growth of the lower Connecticut valley, and of the recreational facilities and unemployment in Middletown.

SIMPLE SIMON'S SHOP HAS PUBLIC OPENING

Simple Simon's Sandwich Shop, in the former Oakland school, had an auspicious public opening yesterday. In the afternoon more than 40 were present for bridge, and in the evening 11 tables were filled. The hostesses served chicken salad sandwiches and coffee, and the prize winners at each table in both afternoon and evening, were presented with rock-garden plants.

The previous afternoon, the Manchester Board of Education with their wives or husbands, ten persons in all, were guests at the shop, and were unflinching in their praises of the work that had been accomplished in redecorating and altering the interior, and the improvement in the outdoor surroundings, with the addition of flowers and mowing of the grass. The shop will be open every day from now on at 10 a. m., including Sunday.

SENSE and NONSENSE

The bulldog wins because he hangs on.

Pastor—Don't you think I touched them rather deeply this morning?
Deacon—I don't know, sir. I haven't counted the collection yet.

Every parent knows these days what it costs to keep a girl decently uncled.

A publicity man has been named to a suit by husband for hugging actress. Well, wasn't he her press agent?

Beggar—Gimme a dime, sir. I am a poor cripple.
Mal—How are you crippled?
Beggar—Financially.

Success or failure, is largely the small matter of keeping your outgo a little under your income.

Fond Mable (entertaining a fond boy friend)—Did you count the petals of a daisy to see if I loved you?
Fond Boy Friend—Nope, I used a three-leaf clover.

Old Aunt Miranda Stubblefield from Brushville says: "Lord deliver me from female boarders. I don't mind the men. If things don't suit 'em, they ain't got the nerve to complain."

The Fairmount, Indiana, News is authority for the statement that O. B. Joyful is accused of running a blind tiger. If he would consider a partner we take pleasure in recommending R. E. Morse, who, we believe, lives in Wheeling, West Virginia.

Insurance for a happy marriage is now proposed. No doubt some or later one of the contracting parties will want to cash in on the policy.

It's no use getting excited because somebody tells you to go to hell, you don't have to go unless you want to.

Life's Little White Lies:
"Affectionately yours."
"Won't you come up to dinner some time? Just any day, we'd just love to have you. We won't set a time, you just drop in when you can."
"Whenever you are in town, we'd be delighted—my wife and I—to have you make our home your headquarters."
"If ever I can do anything for you, just call on me—I will be more than glad to do it."

Some people can call you a liar simply by smiling.

A darn funny thing to us is how the man who chews tobacco expects to be kissed just as often as if he were fit to be kissed.

The bill collector never has to chase the man who earns his money before he spends it.

The gold used to make the wedding rings of Queen Mary, the Royal Princess, and the Duchess of York was mined in Wales.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Some people cannot understand how a girl expects to keep her friends if she is never ready when they call for her. But she expects to keep them just the same—she expects to keep them waiting.

With Proper and Profuse Apologies: I am always moving. I am the nearest thing yet to perpetual motion. I do my work faithfully and often take on a little extra for good measure. I am the subject of much unkind criticism, but I go right ahead and pay no attention. I am the original little efficiency expert, always on the job and always willing to work overtime. Many a man has threatened to kick and all that sort of thing, but I stay right at home and keep going while the family is away on a visit. But I get no credit for it—only abuse. I am the gas meter.
