

MORGAN CO. PROFITS REACH TEN MILLIONS

In Same Three Years Partners Paid Only $48,000 Income Tax to the Government; Surprising Report.

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—J. P. Morgan and company's reports to Senate investigators show the firm made nearly ten million dollars on sale and underwriting of securities in 1936-1937, years in which the bank's partners paid only $48,000 income tax to the United States.

This startling evidence, brought out while the banking committee investigation of the Morgan house remained in recess until Wednesday, gave a hint of the amounts the twenty partners must have been able to deduct from their income tax returns under the law permitting capital losses to be subtracted from profits.

Almost as surprising was evidence that the great banking house made more on sale of securities and underwriting business in each of these two "depression" years than they had made in the boom year 1929, when they paid an income tax of $11,000,000.

Totals for Three Years
The totals for the three years, including the Morgan Company and Drexel and Company, its Philadelphia affiliate, in round figures were:
1929—$2,838,000.
1930—$2,780,000.
1931—$3,121,000.

Morgan officials testified in the investigation last week that all together they paid only $48,000 income tax in 1930 and none in 1931 or 1932. Profits for 1932 were not included in the figures presented by Ferdinand Pecora's inquiry.

Demands for changes in the income tax laws have ebbed in Congress since the revelation that the Morgan partners have escaped payment during the last two years.

The House is passing a new tax bill which would eliminate the bonus over loss provision of the law, and Representative Vinson, Dem., Ky., announced yesterday that he may announce a measure which he is a member will soon begin an investigation to find and close other "loopholes" in the statute.

Pecora's inquiry showed that for the five year period 1927 to 1931 inclusive, the Morgan firm made more than $15,000,000 from the sale of securities. Morgan partners testified during last week's inquiry that the investment business was a comparatively minor part of their operations.

In addition to their profits from sale and underwriting of securities, the Morgan partners reported to the committee profits running into millions from operations in joint accounts or syndicates.

GANGSTER KILLED; SUSPECT IS HELD

Police Believe He Was Put on Spot Because He Testified at a Recent Trial.

Quincy, Mass., May 23.—(AP)—With one suspect in custody police redoubled their efforts today to apprehend leaders of the notorious Gustin gang in connection with the latest and boldest of gangland vengeance killings—the "spot" death of Thomas G. "Red" Curran.

Harold E. Daley, 37, married, of the Dorchester section of Boston, was arrested early today on "suspicion of murder" by Quincy and Boston police.

Officials said he was the driver of the automobile in which Curran traveled to New Hampshire recently. They said he would be questioned to learn if he was one of a group that persuaded Curran to come to this section last week.

The bullet-riddled body of the 26-year old former employee of the Gustin mob was found by a diver under more than 100 feet of water in a quarry yesterday.

Police said Curran clearly was a victim of a "ride." He had been shot six times, placed in a big sedan and the car pushed over a 60-foot cliff into the Hooded quarry pit.

Was Drowned
An autopsy showed he had struggled clear of the automobile despite his wounds, but his body had been caught by a branch under a ledge and he had died from drowning and hemorrhaging. The body had been in the water about a week, but because of the low temperature it was well preserved.

Police said Curran paid the gangland penalty for a "sneaker" testimony in the Charles J. Ross case sent to the State Supreme Court by Judge DeMott to state price for a brutal assault on Special Patrolman Daniel P. McDonald last January.

At the time of the trial of the pair Curran was warned not to talk, but insisted on talking the stand and his testimony was largely responsible.

MAHATMA GANDHI ENDS LONG FAST
Sips Glass of Orange Juice—Had Started Three Weeks Ago—In Good Health.

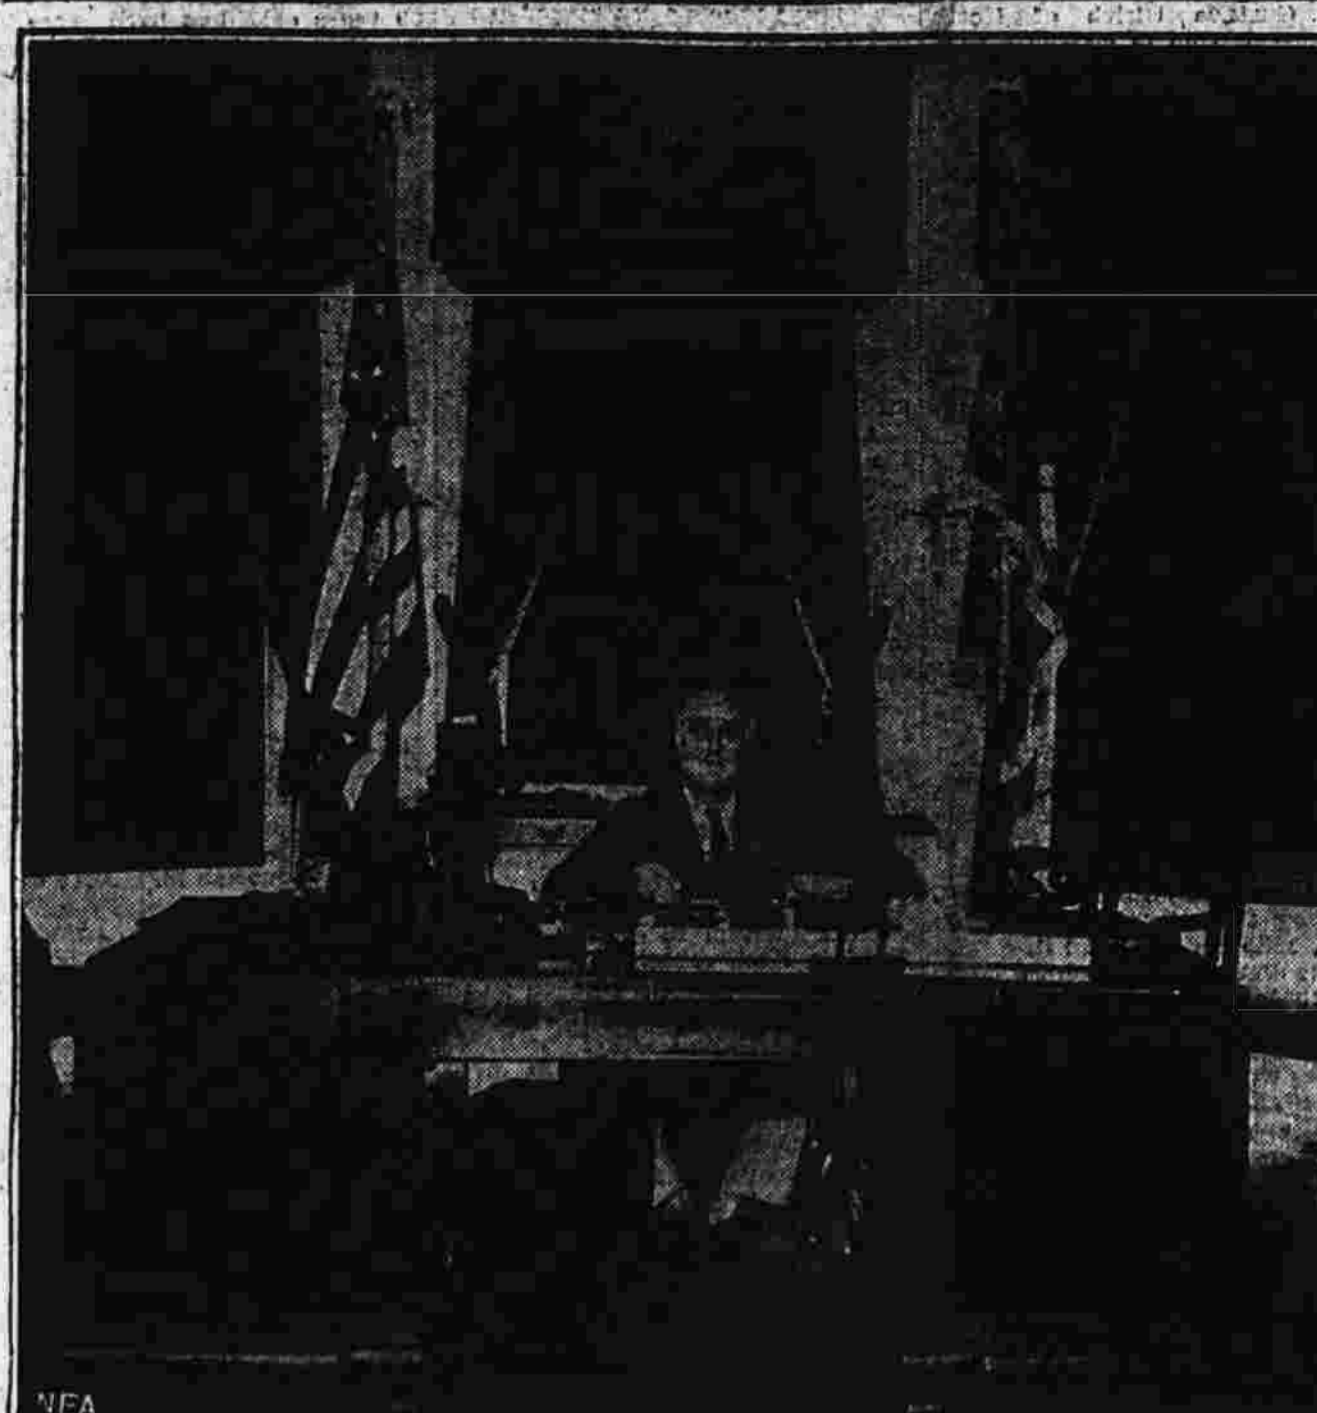

Pooa, India, May 23.—(AP)—"In God's name I began this fast, and in God's name end it," said the Mahatma Gandhi today as he broke a three weeks' voluntary abstinence from food in the "untouchables' cause by sipping a glass of orange juice.

He began the fast at noon May 2. The end of the fast was an impressive as its beginning.

Long before the hour at which the ordeal was ended, 6:30 a. m. (1:30 a. m. Eastern Standard Time), the residence of Madame Harolal Naidu, poet and lecturer, where the fast was carried out, was besieged by the Mahatma's friends of all castes, Hindus, Mohammedans, Parsis and Europeans.

Madame Naidu stood at the top of the pathway, deliberately selecting those to be admitted. No credentials and no amount of money could secure entrance.

Prices on Market Continue Upswing
Trading is Active for Second Day in Succession—Advance to Over a Dollar.

New York, May 23.—(AP)—Pre-holiday profit-taking was easily absorbed in today's stock market and prices rallied after an early reaction to a report that the Dow Jones Industrial Average would reach a new peak of 200 points.

When the market opened, it was active but not as high as yesterday, but action more than canceled out the early reaction.

There were heavy selling orders on their books at the opening, most of which were filled.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average advanced 1.15 points to 199.47. The S&P 500 rose 1.12 to 104.45.

SEE FAST ACTION IN KILLING GOLD CLAUSE IN HOUSE

Expect President's Measure To Be Passed Before Nightfall—Only Three Hours Debate Allowed to Make Change in Original Bill.

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—The House Democratic strength showed the bill killing the gold clause in all contracts toward quick enactment today, having that Congressional branch authorize procedure for its consideration under which only three hours debate will be permitted.

On a voice vote after but an hour's debate, the rule was approved. The bill is open to amendment, however, and indications are that action will come late in the day.

Adoption of the rule for consideration indicated the resolution would have little difficulty in receiving House approval, although Republicans vigorously assailed the proposition as repudiating both government and private obligations by banning the gold clause from all present and future contracts.

The House was swept into fast action today on the bill invalidating the gold clause in public and private contracts of past and future by a report from its banking committee, upholding the Constitutional power of Congress to enact such legislation.

Prepared with the assistance of the undersecretary of the Treasury, Dean Acheson, it said the administration proposal accomplishes three purposes:

First, it declares that the clauses in public and private contracts providing that they are payable in gold or in a specific coin or currency are null and void.

Second, it provides that obligations, public and private, contracting to be payable in gold or in a specific coin or currency, may be discharged dollar for dollar in legal tender. It also provides that no future obligation, public or private, shall be expressed as payable in any specific coin or currency.

Third, it makes certain technical amendments to the Thomas (Inflation) amendment (to the Farm Relief Bill) which are necessary to carry out the intention of that legislation regarding the gold clause in the United States.

The report said "the occasion for the declaration in the resolution that the gold clause are contrary to public policy arises out of the experience of the present emergency."

"These gold clauses render ineffective the power of the government to create a currency and determine the value thereof," it continues.

"The gold clause applied to a very limited number of contracts and security issues, it would be a matter of no particular consequence but in this country virtually all obligations, almost in a million, contain the gold clause."

"The effect of the situation, the government which have been developed during the present emergency, under the enforcement of the gold clause is incompatible with the public interest."

"The effect is the tendency which has developed internally to force the government to leave the country. Under these circumstances, an emergency system, whether based upon gold or upon any other medium of exchange, cannot be maintained."

"There can be no substantial question as to the constitutional power of the government to make this legislation applicable to all obligations, public and private, that bear and future."

"The government has not by contract or by law, by itself, created a liability on its part of the currency. All contracts of the present or of the past are subject to the public power and the government has the right to determine the value of the medium of exchange."

KIDNAPERS PAID RANSOM OF $30,000

City Manager's Daughter Stolen from Home in Broad Daylight Returned.

Kansas City, May 23.—(AP)—This city's police were unlocked today in a determined hunt for the men who abducted the city manager's daughter from her home in daylight, gave her roses in captivity and released her unharmed for $30,000.

While the daughter, Mary, 25, was a prisoner, City Manager H. F. McElroy held the officers under his command in check, for death had been threatened the girl if he sought the kidnapers. Once released he ordered a widespread search.

"I certainly have not," said McElroy when asked if he had "an agreement with the abductors to thwart all pursuit." "All our police power will be put into use to apprehend them."

Given Two Bases
Crying proudly "I didn't break," and wearing on her dress two roses given her by her abductors, Miss McElroy was released at the entrance to the Millburg Golf Club clubhouse at Millburg, Mo.

Her release came an hour and a half after Mr. McElroy and his son, H. F. McElroy, Jr., saw the kidnapers at an isolated point on a course west of Kansas City, Kansas, and delivered to them $30,000 in currency.

The young woman was taken from the family home in the fashionable Country Club district of Kansas City, about 11 a. m. Saturday morning by two men, with shoving weapons, forced the housekeeper to admit them.

plained in detail just what he meant.

"Think what has happened to us in 50 years," he said. "Our life, once largely agrarian, was based on the horse. A man could keep up his business in a highland."

"Now it has speeded up. Tractors and typewriters—a man had to have a typewriter, then a stenographer, then a lot of secretaries. And what happened? In 50 years the percentage of insanity doubled. Men outlived their minds."

"Perhaps men are slowly adjusting himself to this age, this speed. But it is a slow process. The tempo has become almost too great."

Dr. Mayo is not the first medical man to issue this warning. But our usual custom is to stay about a generation behind our medical advisors in matters of this kind, and the killing pace of modern life has not yet really begun to worry us. We have wandered innocently into the midst of a lot of whirling flywheels, high-speed gadgets and rapidly moving assembly lines, and it has hardly occurred to us that all of this is a little more than we can stand.

It is not only in the economic field that we have progressed too fast for our own good. The machine age has compelled us to live our lives under conditions unlike those faced by any other men in history. Hand in hand with our efforts to adjust things so that over-production and unemployment may be abolished, there must be a sinners attempt to slow down the tempo of the individual life.

As things are now we use ourselves up at a pitiless rate; as Dr. Mayo says, we die long before we realize it.

MEMORIAL DAY.
 Memorial Day, originally instituted as commemorative of the Union soldiers and sailors who lost their lives in the War of the Rebellion and subsequently extended to include in its honors all departed soldiers of that war, in the present day is universally regarded as a day of tribute to all of the dead who served in any of our wars. That gives to the day to be celebrated tomorrow a new and higher significance than it possessed when its sentiments and its reflections flowed solely to those who served the Union in the unhappy war between the states.

Instead of being devoted to recognition of the virtues and the services of those who participated in the preservation of the Union in the sixties, as once it did, Memorial day stands out as a special tribute to robust physical expression of the quality of patriotism. It is a day of recognition of the sentiment of nationalism carried to its logical conclusion in a man's—or a woman's—willingness to take the risk of dying in defence of his or her country.

There is a very considerable school of thought in this and other countries, probably at its highest ascendant this very moment, which affects to regard such a sentiment as that as being the ultimate in primitive ignorance and weakness of intellect. Those young men of Columbia University who the other day went on record as quite determined never to fight for their country under any circumstances no doubt tomorrow will look with pitying contempt upon the ceremonies, the parades and the patriotic speeches of Memorial day. It is the foolish among the intelligentsia to scoff at all the very name of patriotism and at all its implications.

Great that most of these anti-patriots are mere poseurs, that most of them would promptly forget their stilted scruples at the first sign of national peril, it is still a good thing that there has evolved out of a commemorative date once set up in honor of a single group of American martyrs a special holiday which now recognizes and does honor to the whole spirit of national defense.

Devotely it is to be hoped that America has fought her last war; that not again in the future will there be need of widening the embrace of Memorial day to include some new group of names sanctified by death and wounds on the fields of some new conflict. But whether such good fate shall be ours or not, the human race has not yet been reined clear away from the point where it is still capable of gratitude and loving admiration for those who have placed their bodies between this nation and its enemies.

We have a long way to go—it is suspected that even those young men of Columbia have still a long way to go—before we are civilized out of our appreciation of him who puts his country before his own life.

THE RIGHT WAY.
 Determination of the Manchester Board of Selectmen to place the question of the town's participation in the electric rate appeal before the voters in a ballot machine election seems to us to be wise. The open town meeting, for such purposes, has outgrown its usefulness. It is a highly farcical matter to summon the total voting population of this town to gather in a hall that cannot hold more than a tenth of their number, there to decide on a subject of major importance. And this matter of fighting out an appeal for lower electric rates is a matter of important implications.

It is one concerning which every voter should have opportunity to express his opinion. Not every voter by a tremendous majority, could have such opportunity in open town meetings. There is only one way practicable. That is by machine vote.

 Questions in regard to Health and Diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

WHY DISEASES CHANGE
 The changes seen in diseases have been both mysterious and remarkable. In some cases the disease becomes so rare that it almost entirely disappears and white doctors read about it in books, they never see a case with their own eyes. In other cases it continues to exist but changes its character, usually growing milder in its attacks, in other cases a disease unrecognized before, appears as a new disorder.

The same reason not fully explained earlier, fever without recent years has gradually become milder. The same is true with diphtheria. Acute attacks of rheumatism in the joints do not seem to be the same as they were among the old Vanderbilt yacht, Au Revoir, ply from Sheepshead Bay.

But before they go, many of the anglers drop in to see Albert Brunner at his stall in the Washington Market. Brunner sells bait—all the unpleasant-looking things like hellgrammites, bloodworms, crawfish and night crawlers. Brunner bait has been sold at the same stall since 1861, when Albert's father, famous fisherman himself, started it.

With a regular clientele of several hundred sportsmen, Brunner naturally comes into a lot of information about fishes, fishing spoils. Thus he is able to tell his customers where best to try for certain kinds of fish, and what bait to use. He speaks familiarly of many famous figures in business and fisheries, such as being fishermen, they're all fine, democratic fellows. Vanderbilt and Vanderlip, F. C. Doremus, the insurance man, Henry L. Doherty, the utilities magnate, and Captain J. M. Patterson, the publisher, are his customers. Colonel H. H. Rogers, the financier, orders regularly from his estate at Southampton. And Harry Sinclair writes in to send him bait by parcel post.

Brunner does a big mail-order business, even sending hellgrammites to trout fishermen in Maine, and bloodworms to Florida for the flounder and herring season. There are scores of clients who he never has seen, but he declares he never has lost a nickel by trusting a fisherman.

Professional bait diggers in the salt marshes of New England, along stony shores, and in the hellgrammites regions of Pennsylvania, supply Brunner with crawly creatures.

There's a great increase in interest in fishing, Brunner says, and he considers this a healthy sign. He also is cheered that many women are taking the sport seriously now, and don't mind hauling their own hooks. Lots of them drop in every Friday and Saturday to shop for bait, measuring hellgrammites and haggling over the length of bloodworms. Brunner's shop is closed on Sundays. That's when he goes fishing himself.

Not only is fishing more popular, but so is the keeping of fish. Especially the small, variegated tropical and even more particular the viviparous tropical—the fish which, like the guppy, bear live young. Goldfish are definitely out of fashion now, at least ten thousand being sold to every one of them. However, some of the fanciest varieties of goldfish developed by the Japanese still are the most costly. Five hundred dollars a perfectly matched pair is not even an unusual price.

When they first went off the golden standard, New Yorkers took up goldfish. But goldfish are so hard and stupid that they were being killed by the thousands. However, some of the fanciest varieties of goldfish developed by the Japanese still are the most costly. Five hundred dollars a perfectly matched pair is not even an unusual price.

COLUMBIA
 It has been learned that Mrs. Clayton Lyman of Hartford is quarantined at her home with a mild case of scarlet fever. She is being cared for by her sister, Miss Mildred Latham. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lyman are Columbia young people.

At the meeting of Columbia Grange, Wednesday evening five reels of moving pictures were shown by the lectures. Thursday noon at the chapel these pictures were again shown to some of the school children and again on Friday noon.

The young people are getting up a play for the benefit of the C. E. society, and a rehearsal was held Thursday evening at the parsonage followed by choir rehearsal.

Carleton Davenport of Shelbourne Falls, Mass., was in town for a while a few days ago to see Mrs. Davenport who is visiting at the home of her father, H. W. Porter.

Mrs. Julia Little of Hartford is opening her summer home at the lake for the season within a few days.

Mrs. Sarah Lyman who has been keeping house for her son Theodore Lyman in Plainville during the winter, has returned to her Columbia home for the summer, and her son will spend the week-ends here.

The Young Married Women's Club met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Vera Lyman. Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Porter motored to the shore Friday for the day.

The Columbia members of the American Legion will decorate the graves of soldiers on Decoration Day.

Mrs. Lucy Clarke, who has been spending the winter in New Haven at the home of her son, is expected to arrive in Columbia for the summer on Saturday. Mrs. Clarke, who is 85 years old, occupies a cottage in the rear of the post office building.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington
 By HENRY ROEBUCK
 Washington, May 27.—Our foreign affairs news this a paleo Chinese puzzle, even to many of those who study them closely. And only the insurance optimists think that the picture may seem to all peaceful and pretty.

Ordinarily, if you follow foreign affairs, you can tell what a certain country is going to do under a given set of circumstances.

But economic have come to exert a far more pressing, dominating influence on political problems and the international scene changes almost from day to day.

No sooner has this administration been able to take its mind temporarily off Japan—with her Chinese invasion and demands for naval bases and a submarine block of international conference by promising a consultation policy, than the Hitler crowd in Germany threatens the possibility of the worst postwar mess of all. That's only one example of the chaos that have developed of the hopes of those who looked for vast achievements at the World Economic Conference which begins next month.

Debt Default Expected
 After a series of private discussions, a deluge of rumors and a general air of shadow boxing, it begins to look as if the European war debts to this country were going straight into default June 15, with the likely result that the United States will never collect a cent. And you can just imagine how that will help along the spirit of amity and goodwill.

The last authoritative tip-off on President Roosevelt's attitude was that he didn't know whether or not he would send a message on debts to Congress but that, in any event, the American delegation to the conference would carry no authority to discuss that problem.

It appears that Roosevelt has a tough choice between hearing the economic conference by inviting de-mitted for the address of Prof. Edwin M. Borchard of the Yale Law school, who will speak June 1 at the Windham high school auditorium in Windham under the auspices of the Windham College Club. The proceeds of the evening will be used to help some graduates of Windham high school through college.

Alaskan 'Ellis Island' Yields Relics Showing Asiatics Migrated in Waves

By F. B. COLTON (Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, May 28.—An "Ellis Island" of the ancient past, where early immigrants to America are believed to have stopped off on their way, has given scientists new evidence that the ancestors of the American Indians were Asiatics.

This prehistoric immigration station is Kodiak Island, off the Alaskan coast, where Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, anthropologist of the Smithsonian Institution, has found remains of ancient peoples who passed southward from Bering Sea.

The earliest immigrants passed only a season or two on Kodiak, he says, just long enough for their skulls to be preserved. The skulls, he says, are those of Asiatics who came to the island to hunt fur, and he believes that the island was one of the many points from which at least a part of North America was peopled by the Indians.

The oldest recoverable human remains in the north, he believes, probably are located on Kodiak Island and in the nearby Cook's Inlet. The sites there are the remains of the early immigrants, he believes, who passed by way of Kodiak Island over a period of many centuries, the latest perhaps arriving about 1,500 years ago. Ruins of their dwellings, graves, tools, weapons and refuse are piled 15 feet deep in places.

Skeletons from the graves show two distinct types of people lived at different times on the island. One, the more ancient, resembles the California Indians, while the other is related to the Aleuts, natives of the Aleutian islands, off Alaska.

The earlier race disappeared from Kodiak Island before the latter people appeared. Whether the early people were victims of wholesale massacre, an epidemic or simply migrated elsewhere may never be known.

The first Americans had more than mere beginnings of civilization before they left Asia, Dr. Hrdlicka says. In the deeper levels of the old refuse heaps he found ivory images so skillfully carved that they are evidently portraits of individuals, well-made, tastefully decorated implements and stone knives almost as sharp as modern ones.

The later arrivals apparently were less cultured, for they left crude relics.

Dr. Hrdlicka and three assistants worked nine to 15 hours a day, seven days a week, all summer, yet uncovered only a portion of one of the important village sites on the island.

TWO COME A LONG WAY TO ENCOUNTER POLICE

Detroit Man, North Carolinian Among Figurants in Week-End Motoring Troubles.

A motorist from Michigan and another from North Carolina fell into the hands of the police here in connection with the week-end crop of accidents and motor law violations.

An accident on Saturday which involved a Humobile coach owned by W. Harry England of this town and driven by his brother, Cecil, and a Chevrolet driven and owned by Rene Rouillard of Detroit, Michigan, resulted in the arrest of the latter.

England was driving west on East Center street when the Detroit car came out of Spruce street without observing the stop sign. It collided with the England car, glancing off and brought up at the curb on the north side of the double lane of traffic. Both cars were damaged.

Rouillard was arrested on the charge of falling to give right of way. He was released on a bond of $50, which was furnished by friends in Manchester whom he has been visiting, to appear in Police Court Wednesday.

Bad Brakes, Wrong Papers

Carroll Ayres, age 31, of Rocky Mount, N. C., was arrested last night by Patrolman Prentice on Center street his brakes appeared defective as he was trying to make a stop. A test proved this to be the case. Then it was discovered that his registration papers were for a different type car than the one he was driving. He was held for defective brakes and improper registration. He said he was visiting in Hartford and was in Manchester on a ride. He was released on bail to appear on June 8.

Smith of East Hartford and a nephew of the late Judge Edward L. Smith, former mayor of this city. He is a former member of the staff of the Times. He received the degree of D. D. from Yale.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, May 28.—(AP)—The bull market in stocks rolled forward again today after some hesitation on Monday.

Trading failed to touch the feverish pace of Saturday, but weekend news, indicating further gains in steel production, provided considerable bullish ammunition. In commodities, wheat advanced, uncertainty, sugar, rubber, silver and copper were firm, however, while cotton rose about 20 cents a bale. Continental gold currencies advanced a little.

Out of 13 more than 2 points appeared in such issues as American Telephone, American Can, Santa Fe, Consolidated Gas, American and Foreign Power, Amson, Consolidated Gas, Central, Standard Oil of N. J., and California Atlantic Refining. Nash, National Steel, United Aircraft, Aviation Corp., and Warner Bros. Strength of oils, metals, motion pictures and aviation issues was notable. Motors picture issues had not been given such a whirl in months. U. S. Steel moved narrowly and Allied Chemical and Union Pacific lost a couple of points.

Speculative quarters still made the most of inflationary prospects, and traders were still anxious to buy stocks on the theory that the government would actively pursue its policy of endeavoring to restore commodity prices throughout the year. Copper metal advanced 1/4 of a cent again, getting up to 7 1/2 cents a pound, which is not far from the level at which it is estimated lower cost domestic producers can operate in black figure again.

Oils were strong from the start, as bulls turned to this group in the hope that government control or at least the threat of it would soon bring order into the industry again. There was nothing in the day's news to account for the flurry in the motion picture and aviation stocks, and speakers said bulls evidently turned to them on the theory that they had been lagging in the advance of recent sessions.

The monthly review of the Guaranty Trust Co. said that inflation had played no part in the business recovery as yet, save possibly by anticipation, and found it, therefore, not unreasonable to regard "the current expansion as the continuation of the resumption of an upward movement that really began almost a year ago." This analysis indicated a better rooted recovery than some quarters have supposed. Freight movements appeared to be holding well. Santa Fe reported cars handled last week totaled 21,395, against 21,644 in the like week of last year.

Has Not Resigned

This developed at the end of Mr. Roosevelt's week-end cruise down the coast of the Hudson river.

As he stepped ashore, Woodin was met by newspapermen, who had just one question. He answered them: "I have not resigned."

It had not been "third" either, and was not going to be.

The smiling, public-spirited Woodin was not inclined to argue his case nor to ask support.

It was clear he had made known to the President that if his continuance in the Treasury would hinder the upward swing of affairs which he believes to be in progress, he was willing to return to his own affairs. There was some intimations that while the Morgan inquiry was in progress, the public is ready to pass judgment he is going to make a statement.

'Work Or Lose Your Gains,' New Mint Director Ross Informs Sisters in Politics

Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, new director of the national mint, is the first woman to hold this important job. It's not her initial pioneering, for in 1924 she became the nation's first woman governor, succeeding her husband as Wyoming's executive.

Chenyens, Yeo.—(AP)—There's a story for a typically American success story in the career of Nellie Taylor Ross, President Roosevelt's appointee as director of the nation's mint.

For the woman who is to sit at the head of the mint is a pioneer in the country and of the assay offices where gold is brought for conversion into money is something of a pioneer—politically speaking—with two "firsts" to her credit.

When in 1924 she was drafted to succeed her husband, Gov. William Bradford Ross, of Wyoming, after his sudden death, never before had a woman served in the governor's chair. And now again she is to fill a job heretofore reserved for men.

After two years as governor—her first political reversal came in her defeat by the late Frank Emerson at the end of her husband's term—she sat back to watch the political scene. But not for long. Soon she was doing an arduous job for the Democrats in the 1928 national campaign.

Headed Women's Campaign

Then came the 1932 fight when she told the captains of her party: "Now is the time to talk to women. They are alive to government. The crisis has awakened them, and they have always been liberals."

"Yes, and you're going to organize them," the captains agreed. She went to work, and when she had finished she had seen 36 states and 303 cities.

All had heard this faintly little woman step to the footlights and make government routine seem like any housewife's job. She had become an outstanding campaigner.

And it all had started in a little Wyoming home where a young attorney and his Missouri-born wife had read together every night after their little boys were tucked into bed.

Before she got into politics it always had irritated her to see women paying taxes and not knowing how the money was spent. She saw the need for women in politics.

"This administration has given women more than they have ever had. They must deserve the advance, to hold it. That means giving of yourself and time. But it is no delight."

DETECTIVE IS KILLED IN FIGHT WITH THUGS

Six Bandits Hold Up Bank and Shoot Down Sleuths as They Answer an Alarm.

Rensselaer, N. Y., May 28.—(AP)—Six bandits lined up a dozen clerks and customers in a hold up at the Rensselaer county bank at noon today, but fled after shooting two police officers who arrived in answer to an alarm.

One of the detectives died a few moments later. Police did not learn whether any money was taken.

The bandits fled in an automobile. Police pursued down the West Shore highway along the Hudson river toward New York city.

The detectives were James A. Stevens and Fred Babe, both members of the city police force. It was not immediately learned which one was killed.

Noonday crowds were in the streets when the holdup alarm was received at police headquarters. The two detectives were sent to the bank, where three of the men were brandishing machine guns toward the frightened customers and clerks.

The detectives opened fire and were met by a hail of bullets. They tumbled up at the bank entrance. Other police rushed up just as the car roared away with the six men.

The men were said to have crossed a bridge to Albany.

KIWANIS'S LAMENT NOT YET ABANDONED

Club Names Committee to Study If Bishops Services Cannot be Continued This Year.

A possibility that the Kiwanis Klubb Club at Storrs may be continued this summer was today at the regular meeting of the organization at the Country Club. The recommendation of the Board of Directors to suspend plans for the camp was raised, followed by the appointment of a committee to confer with the Kiwanis committee in an effort to hold the camp another year.

When the directors addressed the camp were not available and recommended abandonment of the camp this summer, the members reacted unfavorably and asked the recommendation. President William B. Ehlert then appointed a committee of five to confer with the finance committee to study means by which the camp might be continued.

The speaker this noon was Rev. Theodore Frank of Windsor, former missionary to Egypt. Rev. Mr. Frank related experiences of his travels in that country and spoke of the modus of living of the natives and the peculiar beliefs to which they are addicted.

He said that in his opinion the Mohammedan religion, which has 250 million followers was now vigorously making the Christian religion. It is also a more vigorous, he said, than attending church much more often than the women, who are regarded as lower in station than the male.

The attendance prize, donated by Jos. Nichols, was won by C. H. Housat.

NO HOLIDAY FOR HOUSE

Washington, May 28.—(AP)—Tomorrow promises to be just another work day for the House but prospects were brighter that the Senate would be able to join the rest of the government establishment in observance of Memorial Day.

Pushing toward the June 10 adjournment goal, the House expects to vote tomorrow on the administration bill to avoid the gold clause in contracts.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, indicated that the Senate would not be in session.

VETERANS TO GET BENEFITS REDEAL

New Rules Being Drawn to Administer Economy Plans More Humanely.

Washington, May 27.—The New Deal, as the administration originally intended to apply it to veterans of the World War who are beneficiaries of the federal government, turned out to be a misdeal.

So the cards are to be dealt over again. Several hundred thousand persons who have been getting checks from the Veterans Administration do not know just what they will draw, but they have the assurance of President Roosevelt that new economy regulations will be administered humanely, and with a minimum of hardship for those who are suffering from battle injuries or disabilities connected with service.

President Roosevelt, seeking to balance the budget, turned to the ever-mounting obligations of veterans as his chief field for saving. Expenditures had approached the billion-dollar mark, and were roughly a fourth of the entire outlay of the government.

Budget estimates were drawn for an appropriation of $484,000,000, which was $460,000,000 less than the amount in a bill previously passed by Congress and pocket-vetoed by President Hoover during his last days in the White House.

Score Six Runs in First Frame and Coast to Win; Play Again Tomorrow.

Captain Robert McCormick of Manchester High's track and field aggregation, capped his scholastic athletic career with two brilliant performances Saturday afternoon to lead his Red and White team to a third place dead-lock in the state intercollegiate track and field meet at Yale University field in New Haven.

Battling around in the first frame the Sub-Alpines scored enough runs to clinch the game against the Columbia A. C. of East Hartford yesterday, 13-3. Sturgeson lead-off man was hit by a pitched ball, Chick Fraser beat out a bunt, Hoggins was safe on a fielder's choice killing the sacks. Leo Johnson fanned and then Joe Sullivan whined a two bagger scoring two runners. Harper tripled scoring two more runs. Joe Lovitt and Mitchell singled in succession Antonio striking out and Sturgeson tied out ending the first inning after six runs had scored.

Starting right where they left off the Alpines scored two runs in the second and third innings making it a total of ten. "Yankee" Sullivan led the Columbia's well in each of the first three innings. He whined a single in on Sturgeson's wild throw when he became confused as to where the ball was and then the pitcher's error. He whined for the second time in the third inning when he whined for the second time in the third inning when he whined for the second time in the third inning.

Local Sport Chatter

Bristol High made it nine straight in the C. C. I. L. Saturday by trouncing Middletown, 11-3. The League champs will be host to Manchester High Wednesday afternoon and Coach Tom Kelley will probably start Bob Smith on the mound in the second inning assignment of his high school career.

Saturday was certainly a day of upsets. Manchester's pride, Joe McCluskey lost the first race of his college career in the intercollegiate at Cambridge and Billy Murch, picked to follow in his footsteps, lost the mile in the state meet at New Haven.

A game between the old time Athletic team and the West Sides was scheduled for Thursday night of this week at Mt. Webb field at 8:15 o'clock. The Athletic line-up will include many of the stars of yesterday, who have been holding extensive practice sessions in an effort to get in trim for a few games this season.

Harold Civello, a member of the high school golf team, took part in the Greater Hartford intercollegiate golf championships at the West Hartford polo club yesterday and shot an 84, getting 24 going out and 60 coming in. He ranked 18th in the standing.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a series of articles on Max Baer and Max Schmeling, who fight June 8 for the right to wear the championship. The story concerns the mental attitude of the Playboy of the Plains.

Atlantic City, May 28.—Max Baer has all the physical qualities it takes to beat Max Schmeling. Furthermore he told me he was confident he could beat "the guy" and that the German's style was made to order for him.

They had him standing there like a railroad crossing sign, with his left arm out like Jim McHenry's. He was telegraphing his left, drawing it back for a hook. Now you know he couldn't do that against a bird like Schmeling. He would get his mouth slapped off."

Baer will be bigger than Schmeling when they enter the ring at Yankee stadium June 8, yet only will he have a slight advantage in height, perhaps a couple of inches, but will outweigh "Der Schlingler" some 25 to 30 pounds.

Baer has demonstrated that he has the endurance of a range horse and for this fight he will come in with all the stamina a physically perfect 210-pound 24-year-old man could have.

New Employees Took Strike's Place in Factory—Is Attacked by Two Men.

Providence, May 19 (AP)—A shoe maker may prove to have been fatal today, according to an afternoon police bulletin of a recent strike of leather workers in Providence, R. I.

Paul Tomblin, 35, a leather worker, was attacked by two men and severely stabbed while on his way to work at the A. C. Lawrence Company plant in the early hours of today. He was hospitalized, with a description given at the hospital of the wounded man, police arrested all four men in a rooming house and brought him to the hospital where, they said, Tomblin identified him as one of his strikers.

Tomblin is a new employee of the company, engaged to fill one of the places made vacant by the company's policy in refusing to reemploy the strikers.

RECORD IS COSTLY

BUT IT'S "SAFETY VALVE" FOR HOUSE

Washington—Clarence Cannon is disturbed about the size and cost of the Congressional Record and proposes to do something about it.

That young and energetic representative from Milwaukee has estimated that it costs the government on the average of $500 a day to publish the Record. He has proposed to revise and extend their remarks who employ ghost writers to compose their speeches.

But he's not having much success with his proposed reform.

Victims of Speed

There have been drawn for example, some 39 or 40 special rules since President Roosevelt called Congress in session shortly after March 1, 1935. These special rules sweep everything else aside until the bill is either passed or defeated.

Debate is shut off or limited to a minimum. The fast bill, for instance, was passed with only four hours' debate. The Muscle Shoals bill was rushed through in six hours. And the securities bill was open for discussion only five hours before a vote was ordered.

Byles in behalf of the choir presented to Mr. Colpitta a handsome black leather brief case, suitably inscribed, as the gift of the organist, choir and music committee of the South Methodist church.

Mr. Colpitta expressed his pleasure and surprise at the little party and the kindly feeling which prompted it. LAST MUSIC SERVICE OF SEASON AT S. M. L.

Choir Achieves Notable Success in Presenting the Difficult "Canticle of the Sun."

The concluding musical service for this season at the South Methodist church was held last night and as the principal feature G. Huntington Byles, organist and director, offered by request the outstanding composition by Mrs. H. E. A. Beech: "The Canticle of the Sun." This work is usually accepted by musical authorities as being the best of the modern school of American music. It is not a work to be undertaken by other than a choir of musical ability but a mastery production was given.

The solo parts were taken by Miss Eleanor Willard, soprano; Watson Woodford, tenor; and Robert Gordon, baritone. All these artists were in excellent voice. The chorus was most efficient and the balance, expression, and tonal qualities were remarkable.

A composition by Mr. Byles, set to a poem by John Drinkwater, was given as a soprano solo by Miss Willard. The number is a very fine setting for the theme. The composer has given to musical circles a work of much merit. No doubt more will be heard of Mr. Byles in this field of musical effort. His work as
